Appropriation Bill Cleared, Closing Date Eyed

Legislative Rush On

By EDWARD S. CORNISH United Press Staff Correspondent RALEIGH (UP) - North Carolina legislators, exhausted from a whirlwind law-making spree in which they approved the largest state budget in history, hoped today they could close up shop by next Saturday.

The House passed the whopping $620,000,000 appropriations bill last night at the end of a marathon session in which representatives worked out a compromise on the question of pay for teachers and state employees. The budget bill, which already has passed the Senate, now must go back across the hall for approval of House amendments.

On Tuesday the Joint Appropriations Committee voted a 2 1/2 percent pay raise for North Carolina teachers in addition to the 10 percent pay increase for all teachers and state employees. But the committee rescinded its action the following day after Gov. William B. Umstead sent word that he wants a balanced budget above all and does not want to have to cut salaries approved by the assembly.

The House beat down a motion yesterday to take from the unfavorable calendar a bill calling for revising the sales tax on automobiles. Rep. Carroll R. Holmes of Perquimans said the legislature must either raise taxes or deny teachers the extra 2 1/2 percent pay raise. The House held up final passage of the budget bill while staunch proponents of the raise, Reps. Clyde Shreve of Guilford and Richard Sanders of Durham, worked out a compromise with leaders of the economy bloc. The compromise amendment, which received unanimous approval, provides that both teachers and state employees will have the extra raise if actual state revenues exceed estimates sufficiently to pay it.

The magic figure for state employees and teachers will be $190,288,565 for fiscal 1953-54 and $196,127,041 for the following fiscal year. If general fund revenues reach these figures an appropriation of about $2,500,000 will be made from the fund to pay the raise. Money also will be set aside in the highway and agriculture funds.

The extra money will be paid only if there is enough to give every employe a full 2 1/2 percent raise.

Shreve said he thinks revenues will permit the raise and predicted that actual revenues might be $25,000,000 above current estimates. The budget bureau has underestimated revenues every year for the past 17 years by millions of dollars. The assembly also passed a separate $5,000,000 budget bill for permanent improvements.

The House this week approved Umstead's proposals for bond issues to raise $50,000,000 for school buildings and $22,000,000 for mental institutions. It also gave tentative approval to a $14,250,000 "catchall" bond issue for permanent improvements at other state institutions. All the bond bills still require Senate approval.

In other action this week, the assembly approved a referendum on a proposed constitutional amendment to limit any one county to one state senator regardless of its population.

Rep. George A. Long of Alamance attempted to have a House reapportionment bill taken off the unfavorable calendar. The vote on Long's motion was 50-49 but it required a two-thirds majority. At present Cabarrus and Pitt counties have two representatives although their populations are smaller than those of Alamance and Rockingham which have only one apiece. The reapportionment bill would correct this.

The drys tried to revive the liquor referendum issue this week but were slapped down by House Speaker Eugene Bost. Rep. James Pittman of Richmond offered a bill calling for a statewide referendum on the sale of liquor - but not wine and beer as the earlier bill

Ready To Set Date For Parley

Truce Talks To Be Discussed As Ailing POWs Await Exchange

PANMUNJOM, Korea (UP) - The Communists said today they would be prepared Sunday to discuss a date for resuming Korean armistice talks which ended in a deadlock last Oct. 8.

Their announcement came shortly after homeward bound Chinese war prisoners ended a 48-hour "hunger strike" at Pusan, the second demonstration by the hard-core Reds since Wednesday.

The Communists also proposed releasing the first group of 25 Allied prisoners at 9 a.m. Monday (7 p.m. e.s.t. Sunday), and another group of 25 half an hour later.

They said they wished to continue the release of prisoners in batches of 25. Allied staff officers said the timetable "appeared reasonable" but they wanted to study it.

Lt. Gen. William K. Harrison, chief, United Nations truce negotiator, arrived at the Allied truck base of Munsan near here to observe the exchange wait for the signal to resume talks on ending the war.

Thus far the U.N. has agreed only to "discuss" reopening the talks. However, this was not expected to cause much debate since both sides have submitted proposals for settling the deadlock on exchanging prisoners, laying the groundwork for fullscale armistice talks.

The two sides will meet Sunday at 11 a.m. (9 p.m. e.s.t. Saturday) to "set the date" for resumption of the armistice conference.

The U.N. Prisoner of War Command said the hunger strikers at Pusan were the same Communists who staged a two-hour sitdown strike aboard an American landing ship Wednesday.

They refused to eat from Wednesday noon until Friday noon, the command said.

The hunger strike confirmed predictions by some U.N. officers that the hard-core Reds among the sick and wounded prisoners being returned to Communist control would continue to "harass" the Allies until they are delivered.

An announced permission to cook their own food in Hospital Camp No. 2, near Pusan, where they had been taken following the sitdown strike.

The command said only a small number of the 769 disabled prisoners refused to eat, even though they were served meals throughout the demonstration.

Tries To Enlist Only To Find He Is Already 'In'

DECATUR, Ill. (UP) - Jack Bledsaw 19, tried to enlist in the Navy and found out he had already signed up.

That is, someone else, Jack L. Clevenger, had enlisted under his name.

Navy officials said Clevenger told the draft board he was Bledsaw and needed a new card to show a change of address. Armed with the card, Clevenger got Bledsaw's birth certificate from the county clerk and enlisted.

He has been discharged for fraudulent enlistment, the Navy reported this week. But, by the time things were straightened out, the real Bledsaw's name was struck at the bottom of the Navy quota list.

Bledsaw says the draft board has written him a letter ending his problem. He's being drafted into the Army.

Chicago Factory Explosion Death Toll Reaches 38

CHICAGO (UP) - The death toll of a factory explosion and fire rose to 38 today and officials said it appeared "safe to say" five more bodies would be found in the ruins.

Firemen discovered the latest victim of the Thursday holocaust early today in the blackened rubble of the Haber Corp. screw machine plant.

Eight of the more than 100 employees who were at work in the plant when the blast struck were still missing. Officials believed the charred bodies of three of them were at the county morgue, awaiting identification.

James Heany, fire marshal in charge of the search, said it appeared "safe to say" more bodies would be found in the wreckage. Thirty-seven workers were injured by the blast. Two of them were reported in "very critical" condition, and three in "critical" condition today.

EDDY COLLAPSES ALINE, Ill. (UP) - Eddy, a leader and singer, collapsed tonight. The wavy-haired band leader succumbed "in only fair condition" today.

U.S. Steps Up Pressure To Get Moscow Act On Key Issues

Peace Offensive Kept Up

By DONALD J. GONZALES United Press Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON (UP) - The United States stepped up the pressure today to get Moscow to act quickly to solve East-West troubles as the free world registered a landslide approval for President Eisenhower's new peace program.

Informal sources predicted that Secretary of State John Foster Dulles will stress tonight the urgent need for Soviet replies to Mr. Eisenhower's call for "deeds not words" in Korea, Indo-China, Western Europe and other tension-ridden areas.

Dulles' aim is to press the initiative gained by the United States in the "peace battle" with Moscow during an address before the American Society of Newspaper Editors (10 p.m. e.s.t.).

The importance of the administration places on the need for quick Soviet action was spelled out by Dulles after he had conferred at length Friday with senators and representatives who deal with foreign affairs.

Dulles said the terms of the President's peace plan "creates a situation where it is very obvious that unless there is a very prompt response from the Soviet Union it will be necessary to move ahead on all fronts, east and west, to develop a strong position."

To give the Kremlin no excuse for delay, the United States delivered a copy of the President's peace address directly to the Soviet foreign office and emphasized that it was a "serious and constructive" program.

Mr. Eisenhower Wednesday challenged the Soviet Union to end the war in Korea, unify Korea and Germany, agree to an Austrian treaty, end Red wars in Indo-China and Malaya, and disarm with the rest of the world. He recommended that arms savings be used in part to build a world aid and reconstruction fund.

State Department officials reported that the free world's response had been overwhelmingly in favor of the President's plan. Reports sent in from foreign capitals were said to be surprisingly enthusiastic. The Communists reacted coolly, if at all.

Interest was voiced over the fairly mild Moscow reaction as reflected in Soviet newspapers but it was not regarded as "final." The Soviet account denied any Russian blame for the cold war. The State Department was informed that a Communist newspaper in Helsinki, Finland, had played the President's plan in a "two-inch story on the back page." Another Red newspaper made no mention of it at all. Still another called it "disappointing proof that the U. S. had no desire for peace."

Big Guns Wiped Out 1,000 Reds Planning Attack

SEOUL, Korea (UP) - American artillery almost annihilated an estimated 1,000 Chinese infantrymen today as they massed for counterattacks against Pochop Hill.

The big guns, firing in the light of giant searchlights sweeping no-man's-land, ripped into a large force of Reds.

The curtain of fire trapped the Chinese, preventing the reinforcements from swarming up the slopes of Pochop Hill where hand-to-hand fighting raged in 7th Infantry Division trenches.

Air Force and Marine fighter-bombers pounded Red staging areas near Pochop with 80,000 pounds of bombs later in the day. Officers estimated more than 1,000 Chinese have been killed or wounded in two days of fighting for the Chorwon valley defense line blocking the northern route to Seoul.

Attacks against Pochop, White Horse Mountain, Jackson Heights and three outposts cost the Chinese an estimated 543 dead and wounded yesterday. U. S. cannon and American bayonets and machineguns were believed to have killed or wounded 500 more Reds in the savage battle today.

Four hours after the battle began remnants of the Chinese forces that survived the savage charge were fleeing down the slopes.

Secret Talks On Trade Starting

GENEVA, Switzerland (UP) - Delegates from 25 nations met today for secret talks in what is expected to be the most important phase of the East-West trade conference being held by the United Nations Economic Commission for Europe.

Western delegates considered the secret discussions important because Russia is expected to show whether she has any specific quantities of items to trade with the West.

Flash Seen 300 Miles Away From Testing Grounds King-Size Atomic Blow-Up

By ROBERT BENNYHOFF LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UP) - A top-secret, king-sized atomic device exploded on the Nevada desert today with one of the most brilliant flashes ever seen here, and the Atomic Energy Commission said the first Marine helicopter atomic maneuver in history was proceeding without casualties.

The explosion lit up this city, 65 miles from the Yucca Flat test site, like daylight at 4:35 a.m. but was neither heard nor felt here.

The flash also was seen clearly some 300 miles away in Los Angeles.

The AEC in a 120-word statement said only that a test device had been set off and that approximately 90 aircraft participated, including 12 B-50 bombers and 40 Marine helicopters. A drone plane's scheduled flight into the atomic cloud was cancelled.

The 2nd Marine Provisional Brigade totaling 2,200 Marines under Brig. Gen. Willard S. Brown observed the test from trenches and foxholes at 4,900 yards," the AEC said. "Six Army and six Marine officers studied effects from six-foot trenches closer to ground zero than the main body of troops."

Brig. Gen. William C. Bullock, Exercise Desert Rock V director, reported following the detonation that the maneuver was progressing and there were no casualties.

From Las Vegas, the mushroom cloud following the blast appeared to be one of the largest of the present test series. It rose rapidly into the sky and lost its shape as the cloud moved south and east over Yucca Flat. There was some fear that it might pass over Las Vegas, but it went almost 25 miles north of the city.

Today's test was the sixth in the current spring series, and the 27th atomic explosion in the United States.

The Marines' helicopter maneuver was designed as a theoretical air and ground attack on a beachhead strong point that had been subjected to atomic bombing.

Some Leathernecks were to advance on foot as near as possible to "ground zero" while others were flown in by helicopter to envelop the enemy defenses.

Even closer to the blast, dummies and animals replaced living Marines behind weapons, in foxholes and bunkers, tanks and amphibious landing craft at various distances from the explosion site.

Also placed throughout the blast-area were rifles, machine guns, cold weather gear, newly-developed body armor and even food - everything a man might use in atomic warfare.

'Needless Luxury' Is Mothballed By Eisenhower President's Yacht Is Put Up

By MERRIMAN SMITH AUGUSTA, Ga. (UP) - President Eisenhower decided today that yachting was too rich for his blood. He ordered the White House yacht the U.S.S. Williamsburg, put into mothballs, because it is a "symbol of needless luxury."

Mr. Eisenhower has never liked the idea of a president maintaining an expensive floating White House.

The Williamsburg will go into mothballs at the end of June. Between now and then, she will be turned over to the Red Cross to run daytime river excursions on the Potomac for wounded servicemen hospitalized in and near Washington.

The Williamsburg was the creation and delight of former President Truman, who used her for everything from overnight cruises on the Potomac to long voyages to Bermuda and Key West. She frequently served as a floating boarding house for the Truman staff at Key West.

All of this cost, according to the Eisenhower staff, about $600,000 a year, of which $75,000 represented the cost of operation and the rest in pay for her crew of 116 officers and men. Thus, the saving to the government will be only the operating cost, because the crew will be sent to other Navy assignments.

Asked why the President was giving up the ship, Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said: "The White House believes the Williamsburg is a symbol of needless luxury in a budget which the administration is trying to cut as hard, and fast as it can."

The Williamsburg today is far more luxurious than when she was under the private flag of Hugh Chisolm of Portland, Me. He was her original owner and she was designed as a deep sea cruising vessel, more than 200 feet long and equipped to roam the world. The yacht, then called the Aras, was turned over to the Navy early in World War II and subsequently bought by the government. During the war she served as a convoy flag ship in the North Atlantic. After Mr. Truman took office, the old White House yacht, the U.S.S. Potomac, was in unusable condition so the Truman staff scouted for a new one.

Whammy Here

Speeders beware!

Starting Sunday the Highway Patrol will put into operation its new radar clocking device on Pitt County highways.

Corporal C. E. Whitfield this morning announced that the "whammy," as it's commonly known, will be placed in operation in Pitt tomorrow. Any person clocked as speeding by the radar device will be cited to court.

Several tests with the "Whammy" have been held in the county to demonstrate its accuracy.

The patrolman did not disclose which roads would be "watched" by the device except to say that "all highways will be checked by the radar at one time or another."

Winter Making 'Comeback' Bid

By UNITED PRESS Winter made a strong comeback today as special snow and cold wave warnings were issued for parts of Kentucky, Tennessee, Pennsylvania and New York.

Snow started falling in parts of Pennsylvania, New York and Ohio and weather forecasters said it would continue to pile up during the day and into tonight.

The New Orleans weather bureau ordered small craft warnings hoisted along the Gulf coast from Brownsville, Tex., to St. Marks, Fla., effective at 7 a. m. today. The order predicted southerly wind, 20 to 30 miles an hour, shifting to northerly today or early tonight.

From five to eight inches of new snow was forecast for northwest Pennsylvania, from three to

Bethel News

Bobby Smith Fed at Party
Mrs. Dave Speir celebrated the ninth birthday of her brother Bobby Smith at her home Tuesday afternoon with a surprise party. When the guests arrived Mrs. Speir, assisted by her mother, Mrs. W. J. Smith, directed them to the porch where they roasted wieners in the open fireplace.

Interesting games were played in the yard after which the guests were invited to the refreshment table which was centered with a lovely birthday cake, iced in white and decorated in pastel shades. Assorted sandwiches, cake and iced drinks were served to approximately fifteen guests.

Bobby received many nice gifts and a good time was enjoyed by all.

Sallie Tucker Circle Meets Friday
The Sallie Tucker Circle of the Methodist Church met Friday night in the home of Mrs. Van Taylor Jr. with Mrs. Robert Weeks and Miss Eleanor W. Staton as co-hostesses.

Mrs. Taylor, chairman, called the meeting to order. The devotional leader, Mrs. Roy M. James, opened with the twenty-third Psalm and closed with the Lord's Prayer.

The program was then turned over to Mrs. W. C. Latham who gave a most interesting talk on the third and fourth chapters from the study book, "African Heritage." She discussed the situation in Africa and stated that their largest problem was that of unification.

After a short business meeting the benediction was pronounced. The hostesses served a delicious sweet course to sixteen members and one visitor.

W.C.T.U. Meets
The W.C.T.U. met in the home of Mrs. F. C. Martin on Monday afternoon.

Mrs. R. L. Whitley, chairman, opened the meeting with a song "Sweet Hour of Prayer," after which Mrs. W. R. Bullock led the group in prayer.

A short business session was held and Mrs. Whitley gave a report on the district meeting. The progress of the Y.T.C. was discussed and Mrs. M. T. Whitehurst reported that she had ordered posters and literature for the members.

The program was then turned over to Mrs. Sam Dewar who gave a most inspiring talk entitled "Is It Nothing to You?" Mrs. J. L. Gurganus gave an interesting reading from "Truth."

Whitley Brown Engagement Announced

Miss Mary Ruth Brown's engagement to William Lee Whitley, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Whitley of Fremont, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Brown of Bethel, N. C. The wedding will take place in June.

Clio Club Entertained At Pamlico Beach

The Clio Book Club enjoyed one of its nicest meetings of the year when Mrs. F. B. Haar entertained them at her summer home "Sun Deck" at Pamlico Beach on Tuesday, April 7.

The members left Greenville at 10 a. m. and motored to Sun Deck Cottage on the Pamlico River where they were met by their hostess Mrs. Haar and her house guest, Mrs. Lawrence Smith. After enjoying a refreshing cool drink the members were shown over the summer place with its charming background of pines and its grassy lawn sloping to the back, and then taken on a tour of nearby summer homes.

A delicious hot luncheon was served at 1:30 by Mrs. Haar, consisting of fried chicken, string beans, chesee-casserole potatoes, tossed salad, assorted pickles, English muffins, iced tea, coffee and chess pies.

After enjoying the wonderful repast and conversation the guests were invited to play canasta and bridge for a couple of hours. Mrs. Clara Shackel and Mrs. Jake Hadley won prizes for high score at canasta and bridge respectively.

Miss Agnes Fullilove presided over a short business meeting and the exchange of books.

After having cold drinks with salted nuts and candy the guests reluctantly bade their hostess good-bye and started for home—each one feeling that the day, the trip and the gracious hospitality of Mrs. Haar had been combined to make this one of the most enjoyable occasions of the entire year.

Joint Hostesses To Wesleyan Guild

Monday night, April 13, the Wesleyan Service Guild held its monthly meeting at the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church in the Ellington Bible Room, where a sumptuous dinner was served by the hostesses, Rosa Herring, Dr. Maene Irons, Dorothy Johnson, Mrs. Kelly Rowe and Mrs. Johnnie Askew.

Mrs. T. B. Brown gave an inspiring devotional, closing it with a prayer.

Mrs. Dorothy Johnson and Miss Jane Hadley enthusiastically told of the Wesleyan Service Guild conference held in Sanford during the month of March. They announced that the conference next year will be held in Wilmington.

After the business was transacted the meeting was adjourned.

Anniversary Of Altrusa Club Observed Here

The fifth anniversary of the founding of the Greenville Chapter of the Altrusa Club was observed at the April meeting at the Faculty Apartments Thursday evening, with Misses Wahl, Taylor, and Turner hostesses. Mrs. J. B. Spilman, who was the first president, cut the birthday cake and reviewed briefly the history of the Club International and the history of the local chapter.

Miss Wahl, the president, presented the biennial report which she is sending to headquarters. The group showed particular interest in the list of activities, among them, financial help for worthy students, gifts and clothing to several poor families, contributions of books and magazines to hospitals and schools.

Mrs. Margaret Boykin, the incoming president, appointed the following members committee chairmen: Mrs. Dorothy Copeland, Altrusa information; Miss Elizabeth Quenerly, classification and membership; Mrs. J. B. Spilman, publicity; Dr. Hazel Taylor, vocational information; Dr. Kathleen Stokes, international relations; Miss Frances Wahl, public affairs; Mrs. Ruel Tyson, program and Miss Mamie Chandler, by-laws.

It was decided that the installation of the new officers would be a part of the May program.

Bar Association Has Ladies Night

The Pitt County Bar Association celebrated its annual "Ladies Night" in Greenville this week with 32 members, their wives and guests in attendance.

Association President C. W. Everette of Bethel presented the welcome address to the wives and guests of members of the organization, and dinner was served all present.

J. W. H. Roberts, local attorney, outlined plans for the evening and turned the program over to Eli Bloom, solicitor of City Recorder's Court, who presided over the remainder of the festivities.

Accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Kenneth Hite, Mrs. Dunk James sang. Solicitor Bloom played the violin and at the conclusion of the program, Mrs. Hite played a Duke Ellington composition on the piano.

Red Oak News

One of the most successful revivals held in recent years at the Red Oak Christian Church came to a close last Sunday afternoon when 14 new members were baptised. Four others came to the church by letter making a total of 18 new members. Rev. Gilbert Davis Jr. of the Arden Christian Church preached most inspiring sermons each night. Mrs. William May directed the singing and special numbers were sung by the Eighth Street Christian Church, the Little Ladies Choir, Tommie Moore of Greenville, Dr. Elizabeth Utterback of ECC, the Red Oak Choir, Mrs. May and others. A nursery was maintained in the Club House by the ladies of the church and helped in a great way to boost the attendance. We extend our heartfelt thanks to all those who in any way helped with this revival.

The Young Married Couples Class meets Friday night, April 17, at the club house with Mr. and Mrs. Amos Evans and Mr. and Mrs. Willie Pate as hosts. Our attendance in this class at Sunday School has been close to 60 for the past several Sundays and we hope to have a large crowd present at the meeting. Important business matters will be discussed and a good devotional and recreational program is being prepared.

The talent and amateur program held at the Club House Wednesday evening, sponsored by this wide-awake Young Married Couples Class, was a great success from every standpoint. A full house applauded each of the numbers which included solos, duets, readings, monologues, tap dancing, minstrel skits, clog-dancing, harp, accordion, drum and piano music and the Bunny Hop. One of the most outstanding numbers was a duet, the Hungarian Rhapsody, played by Jane and Sam Winchester Jr. All numbers were thoroughly enjoyed and a neat sum was added to the organ fund. This class sponsored the purchase of a beautiful Wuritzer organ about two years ago. The organ has added much to the worship services at our church.

The Busy Workers Class of Red Oak recently held a cake and candy sale and with the proceeds they purchased four beautiful brass collection plates. Miss Bettie Lane Evans made the presentation to the church and our minister, Rev. Harold Tyer, accepted them on behalf of the church. Mrs. Jarvis Tripp Sr. is teacher of this class. Bobby Edwards, James Burton Joyner and Bettie Lane Evans are the officers of this class.

An "April" dinner on Sunday, the twenty-sixth of April, will be served at the Red Oak Club House to the public. We have recently remodeled and renovated our Club House and kitchen and the proceeds from this dinner will be placed in the Club Building fund. Further announcements will be in the paper soon.

All members who have recently joined our church are asked to be at church Sunday when they will be received into the church.

Strength for the Day

HOPEFUL ASSURANCE
The dead shall rise again. This is the continued assurance of the Word of God.

Here are some of those assurances. "These dead men shall live . . . and the earth shall cast out the dead." "I know that my Redeemer liveth, and that he shall stand in the latter day upon the earth; and although after my skin worms destroy this body, yet in my flesh shall I see God." "God hath both raised up the Lord, and will also raise up us by his own power." "The hour is coming in which all that are in the grave shall hear his voice, and shall come forth." "Whoever liveth and believeth on me, shall never die." "He that believeth in Him that sent me, hath passed from death into life." "If we die with Christ we believe that we shall also live with him."

The Bible tells us very little in detail about life after death, probably because the nature of that existence is such that human minds could not fully understand. It is something beyond time and space—therefore in its essential qualities beyond human understanding.

But it is not beyond human attainment. The whole testimony of the Bible would be irreparably damaged if there is no life after death, for the Bible everywhere testifies to it. Jesus never argued the existence of life after death; he assumed it.

A Worthy Contribution To Pitt Agriculture

The 42 entries in the Pitt County Fat Stock show this week points to a continued interest in the raising of beef cattle in the county by youngsters and older farmers alike.

While the price received for the prized beefs was somewhat disappointing to the youngsters who have invested their dollars in their individual exhibits, the show itself was a success. The number of beef calves in the show was almost one-third less than the 60 entered last year, but the quality of the exhibit was at least equal to if not superior to last year's show.

The Future Farmers of America and 4-H members who participated in the Fat Stock show and sale are to be congratulated on the results of their long hours of work with their beef cattle over many months. It will not be denied that their efforts have contributed a great deal to the promotion of beef cattle production in Pitt County. And the production of beef cattle in the county over several years has advanced to the point it is becoming a vital phase of the diversified farming in Pitt County.

Since it was begun on a small scale a few years ago, the Fat Stock show and sale in Pitt County has constantly gained attention not only at home, but in other sections of the state. It is certainly a worthwhile project and those who sponsored it as well as the youngsters who raised cattle for the show are to be congratulated.

Still A People's Fight For Their Rights

Tuesday of next week one of the basic freedoms of the people of North Carolina will be considered in a legislative hearing in Raleigh. At stake will be the people's right to know.

Tuesday afternoon is the date set for the hearing on a House bill which would restore open sessions of General Assembly Appropriation committee and subcommittee meetings.

The statute which had been on the books since 1925 requiring open meetings of these committees was repealed and closed sessions authorized amid heated tempers on the floor of the General Assembly three weeks ago. The hearing next week will be on a bill to restore the open sessions in the committees and subcommittees which determine how the money of the taxpayers of North Carolina will be spent.

North Carolina's newspapers have led the fight against the closed door legislation enacted by the General Assembly, but the question of open sessions is not a fight for the newspapers alone. It is the business of all the people.

Back in the 1920's when the state's budget was organized and a unified budget program provided by legislative action, the provision for open sessions of appropriation committees and subcommittees was an integral part of the legislation. The legislature then, and we believe most of the people of the state now, felt the state's money matters should not be decided behind closed doors away from the view of the public. The money being considered by appropriation committees and subcommittees belongs to the citizens of North Carolina, and they certainly have a right to know what the legislative committees proposed to do with the money and why.

The Reflector urges the people of Pitt County to contact their representatives and urge a repeal of the secrecy legislation which now stands between the people of the state and their money in the hands of the General Assembly committees.

On the House Appropriations Committee which will consider the bill to remove the secrecy curtain from the state's money matters is Representative Frank M. Kilpatrick of Pitt County. The Reflector hopes the people of Pitt County will contact Representative Kilpatrick and the other two members of the General Assembly to express their sentiments on the secrecy measure which has been adopted by the legislature. We also urge citizens of Pitt County who feel so disposed to attend the hearing in Raleigh Tuesday to voice their personal opinions on the secrecy measure.

We repeat: the secrecy legislation is not a fight between the legislature and the newspapers. It is a matter of whether the people shall have a right to know what appropriations committees are doing with their money, or whether the door on information concerning public funds shall continue to be locked in the people's face.

National Whirligig

Every Saturday this veteran Washington correspondent devotes his column to answering readers' questions of general interest on national and international policies and personalities. Questions may be sent direct to Ray Tucker at 6308 Hillcrest Place, Chevy Chase, Md.

WASHINGTON.—"Don't you think it impertinent," asks F. C. of Buffalo, N. Y., "for the Senate Armed Services Committee to suggest that General Van Fleet become its official adviser?" It hardly seems fair or judicious for them to rely on a man who has been so critical of his former colleagues in the Pentagon.

Answer: On the contrary, I think it an excellent idea, and I base my reply on long observance of the system of liaison between Congressional committees and the defense units over which they are supposed to have jurisdiction. There might have been no ammunition shortage problem. If the Senate and House committees had been better informed by such an expert as Van Fleet.

In the past, when the House and Senate committees dealing with defense problems asked the Army, Navy or Air brass for an adviser, they were given a colonel, a major or a captain. Frequently, these officers were not too expert or experienced in their respective fields. Because of their low rank, they dared not take exception to reports prepared for Congress by superior officers. They became mere messenger boys between Capitol Hill and the Pentagon.

VAN FLEET'S ADVICE INVALUABLE.—A man like Van Fleet, with his intimate knowledge of conditions and personal acquaintanceship with high-ranking fellow officers, could be of invaluable help to the legislators. They would learn of difficulties like the ammunition crisis before, instead of after the fact.

The "big brass" have enjoyed for too long a sort of sacrosanct and untouchable position. It is time, as Senator Byrd notes, that they showed a more responsive and responsible attitude toward the American people, whose sons' lives they have in keeping.

WAGE INCREASES AND "GHOST TOWNS".—"Don't you think," writes G. R. R. of Santa Ana, Calif., "that John L. Lewis is directly responsible for the heavy imports of foreign residual oil, as are Reuther, Hillman, Murray and other labor leaders for the importation of cheaper but not necessarily inferior foreign products? Aren't our 'ghost towns' caused by their demands for round after round of wage increases, which were sanctioned and supported by the New Deal?"

Answer: G. R. R. refers to a recent column reporting labor leaders' protests against imports of residual oil from Venezuela, which displaces use of coal. He is entirely correct, of course, in suggesting that high domestic prices, based partly on high wages and shorter productive hours, have stimulated low-cost imports and may kill our foreign markets for exports.

It is true, too, that New Deal-Fair Deal policies aggravated this trend. But two World Wars, together with our insistence on higher living standards, are basically responsible for our present level of prices and the inflow of lower-priced products.

American know-how and increased productivity may eventually cut costs, therefore retail prices, as a bulwark against foreign goods. But such a transition period, in view of current trends, will be long and difficult. Ike has promised no wage reductions or shorter hours.

DEMOCRATIC PARTY'S "DARLING".—"In answer to Mrs. M. F. of Johnstown, Pa.," writes R. H. B. of Knoxville, Conn., "you described Owen Lattimore as the darling of the Democratic Party. I have been a Democrat for 40 years, and know its members well, including H.S.T., and Lattimore is definitely not our 'darling'."

Answer: I concede that Lattimore has not been a ward, or district, or state, or national party worker. But he held many responsible posts here and abroad during and after the war. He was frequently consulted by the State Department. If there is any such thing as party responsibility, Lattimore was in extremely high favor with Truman and Acheson and other Democratic bigwigs.

If that doesn't make him a "darling," politically speaking, I don't know what else he should be called.

Selected Shorts

ELY, NEVADA, RECORD: ". . . the foundation for genuine individual security lies in the ownership of a house and land free from confiscation by taxation. This is provided for under the Law of the Lord and the result is described by Micah: 'But they shall sit every man under his vine and under his fig tree (typifying the personal security of a privately-owned homestead); and none shall make them afraid: for the mouth of the Lord of hosts hath spoken it.' (Micah 4:4.) This is the basis for true social security."

HAGERSTOWN, MD., MORNING HERALD: "The fact that most needs to soak in upon all of us right now is this: If we look to our government for security, then we have no security—for what the government can give us the government can also take away."

WALDOBORO, MAINE, PRESS: "Government is made up of services as required by the people of the State. Such services should always be ample but not more than ample. Government expenditures should be made in the same way as business expenditures are made, that is, always with an eye to economy and the Government should make certain that a dollar's value is received for every dollar expended."

FRANKLIN, IND., REPUBLICAN: ". . . virtually all college administrators are leery of wiser government aid, feeling that inevitably it will mean federal control of education."

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

If anybody knows enough about children to give me an indication of what our six-month-old son has against eating I would certainly appreciate the information. It's not that he objects to his eating, because it's all we can do to feed him enough.

Our problem is that he doesn't like us to eat, especially steaks. We have steaks seldom enough to consider it an occasion. And in my opinion there's nothing as unappealing as a cold steak. Yet Don likes for us to eat them cold. He waits until we have sliced the first bite of meat, which at that point is sizzling hot and dripping with butter. Then, he starts to howl. It doesn't matter where he is or what he's doing — he always starts to howl at that instance.

If he's asleep, and scheduled to sleep for eight or 10 hours, he wakes up. If he's in the play pen in a gay mood his mood immediately changes. If he's in the stroller he'll hit himself in the face with a rattle, which will put him in a fussing mood.

It must be that Don thinks we eat too much and wants to reduce the joy of mealtime. Generally speaking, he is very easy to please and seldom fretful. It's just that he picks mealtime to do his fussing.

As fast as we hand him toys to occupy him he throws them down. But just try putting a string around his neck to hold a toy. That will never do!

Last week wife Rachel, Nancy and Don went over to Rocky Mount to visit W. R.'s folks, the John G. Flemings. They left Saturday and came back Wednesday night. If you have ever been in a house with two children, one two and one-half and the other six months, you know that there is a constant sound coming from some direction. I used to call it noises, but after having silence in the house for three days I'm more inclined to call it music.

Going home to that empty house was just like walking into a tomb. And if you think I enjoyed eating every meal without an interruption you're crazy. When I raised the fork to my mouth with the first mouthful it just didn't seem right to gobble it up without hearing Don howl.

And to eat without watching Nancy pour water all over her highchair and spill half her food on the floor was almost boring. If anybody ever tried to tell you that children will drive you crazy let me emphasize this point: Silence will drive you much crazier. About once a year every family should depart from each other for a few days. It helps sharpen the appreciation.

And I thank you.

Around Capitol Square

By LYNN NISBET

UP & DOWN — Oldtimers recall that the 1931 and 1933 Legislatures stayed here well into May, and that during the last week there was a lot of marching up the hill and down again on both appropriations and revenue bills. Not only separate committees but the House and Senate as committees of the whole would take action one day, reverse it the next—and repeat the procedure several times. When the joint appropriations committee on Tuesday afternoon added $4 million to the public school item, and then on Wednesday took it off again, the oldtimers began to reminisce. Advocates of the additional school money, which would have given teachers a salary scale of $2,484 to $3,491, or an increase of 12.5 per cent instead of the 10 per cent recommended and the 14.8 per cent requested, served notice that they would carry the fight to the floor of the House. If that threat or promise is fulfilled it may be that for the first time since 1939 the Assembly will have to resort to the device of going into committee of the whole.

UNANSWERED — The committee action and the statements made to it by Frank Taylor, legislative counsel for the Governor, leaves many questions unanswered. Taylor quoted the Governor as saying he was not backing off from his support of more teacher pay. Neither was he receding from his stand for a balanced budget. He reiterated his position in favor of all the services possible within available revenue. Governor Umstead has not stated his preference between the teacher pay item and removal of sales tax exemptions to get more revenue. And the main question which has never been satisfactorily answered is what the appropriations group should provide for the admitted needs and the finance committee be charged with raising the money; or whether the finance committee should fix the amount available and the appropriations be required to be held within that limit. In 1931 the procedure was chiefly to spend only the money in sight; in 1933 the procedure was to meet the need and require the finance committee to provide the money. Hence the general sales tax.

BONDS — In the depression years the State could not sell bonds. Millions were issued for roads in the 20's, and other millions for public buildings to match PWA Federal funds in the late 30's. Four years ago the secondary road, school building and ports bonds were issued, raising State debt to the highest point in history. Now pending with virtual certainty of passage are bills authorizing $13.5 million for public buildings, and a vote of $22 million for mental hospitals and $59 million for State aid in school buildings. Issuance of these bonds will add between $6 and $7 million a year to the general fund debt service item.

CAMPAIGN — What steps will be taken to organize the campaign in support of the bond issues have not been determined. There was chartered a special corporation known as Better Schools and Roads, Inc., to wage the campaign for the $200 million secondary road and $25 million school bonds in 1949. The group raised about $68,000, spent slightly less than $50,000, and had considerable argument about what to do with the balance. Some of the advocates of the upcoming bonds had hoped to use that same organization and perhaps the remaining balance of some $15,000 as a nucleus for this campaign. They have learned that after battling various ideas around for two or three years, the balance was finally donated to the engineering school at State College and the corporation dissolved. Any organization for the present effort will be built from scratch.

PROSPECTS — There is widely divergent opinion as to how much effort will be required to put the bond issues over. Belief prevails in some quarters that the people will not vote for the bonds until the U.S. Supreme Court renders decision in the segregation cases, and if that decision is adverse to the North Carolina traditional policy there will be no need to call the election. In any event, if the election is called, some central direction will be necessary for an effective campaign.

PROGRESS — The Senate Calendar is fairly "current," with very

What Other Papers Are Thinking

VETERANS ART CITIZENS, TOO (Rocky Mount Telegram)

For veterans whose disabilities are due to military service nothing can be too good. That's the consensus of most conscientious Americans. It was emphasized recently in an editorial in The New York Times, which also pointed out that the people of the United States owe these veterans an obligation which can never be repaid. There is not—and there must not be—any question whatsoever of depriving them of the best possible care at governmental expense.

But with nonservice-connected disability cases the situation is quite different. A person who has at one time in his life carried out the obligation of citizenship by serving in the armed forces, but whose illness has nothing to do with that service, should have no more claim on the Government than any other citizen. Yet under our fantastic veterans' legislation he does. The possibilities of abuse are enormous, and they have been fully exploited.

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER
The most publicized application of the comparatively little used closed circuit television system today is for business sales and stockholders meetings. Closed circuit TV is broadcast over private wires instead of on the other waves and is reproducible only on designated receivers. Companies with widespread operations have found television meetings shown in out-of-town offices offer a number of advantages, although costs still pose a problem. Novelty, convenience and the elimination of transportation and hotel bills for participants encourage higher attendance and greater interest.

Up to 21 localities spread over a wide area have been linked together "news" type, long-distance business sessions. Besides reducing the time key men must be away from their desks traveling to such sessions, company TV meetings permit field executives to appear on the program while remaining in their own territories.

Novelty is the important factor when the program and viewers are in the same city or even in the same building. An unusual use by Foote Mineral Co. was to have stockholders take a tour of the company plant via TV while remaining comfortably seated in executive offices. In another case reported recently in "Printers' Ink," Rheem Manufacturing Co. held a sales meeting over TV with the camera work being done in the room next to the viewers, although they were unaware of it until after the show. Here the sole advantage was novelty, for it would have been easier and cheaper to move the show and audience into the same room and dispense with the TV equipment. The sales pitch was further enhanced by putting it in the form of a news broadcast instead of the usual comedy, drama or variety show.

The "news" part, incidentally, was taken hot off a press association's wires—giving the program an added fillip. However, education, science, industry and medicine offer the best long-term growth possibilities. Some closed circuit systems are already in use in schools, banks, laboratories, hospitals, railroad yards, manufacturing and atomic energy plants—but only a fraction of the potential has been realized.

As one TV manufacturer, Diamond Power Specialty Co., puts it, "TV is good for any operation that can't be observed directly because it is too dangerous, too difficult, too inconvenient, too tiring, too hot, too cold, too far, too high, too low, too dark and too small."

BOOKLET ON EUROPEAN TRADE FAIRS AVAILABLE

A booklet designed to acquaint American businessmen with pertinent facts about European trade events is being distributed. It contains detailed descriptions of 18 major fairs—including exhibit facilities, number and types of exhibitors and addresses of representatives in North and South America. Copies are available upon request from the European Travel Commission, 295 Madison Ave., New York.

BACK TO BASICS IN ADVERTISING
Six ways to make advertising copy more effective were outlined recently by Bruce B. Brewer & Co.—find out what people want that they're not getting now, keep layout simple, don't strain to be cute, put in the price, guarantee it, and ask for the order.

HORTICULTURAL NAME DROPPING
"You never know where a new business is going to pop up," said the Old Promoter, settling down as if to stay for the week end. "Take my friend Charles White of Washington."

"Charlie was walking by the Supreme Court building one day when he saw a gardener trimming the hedge. The gardener gave him some clippings and told him how to root them. They are flourishing now."

"That gave Charlie an idea. Now he's trying to get some cuttings from George Washington's rose bushes at Mt. Vernon, from the willow that grows over Napoleon's first grave on St. Helena, and from shrubs around stars' homes in Hollywood. He plans to propagate them and go into the business of selling Pedigreed Plants. Who would buy an ordinary hickory tree if he could get one grown from a nut of a tree to which Abe Lincoln once tied his horse?"

The O.P. shook his head sadly. "Charlie will be a millionaire before me."

To cheer him up we gave him a cigar, assuring him it was rolled from leaves directly descended from a plant from which Sir Walter Raleigh once stuffed his pipe.

Hal Boyle's Column

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Now is the time for all wise husbands planning a vacation trip to do a little hard thinking.

Millions of American couples soon will be hitting the open road for a carefree jaunt together in the old family bus. Did I say carefree? For the first 50 miles out of 10 of these couples will be barking at each other like strange dogs.

"What did I marry—a woman or a department store?" growls the husband.

"Oh, shut up," snaps the wife. "I only packed the things I really need."

But the luggage compartment is so stuffed with bags the door pops open whenever the car hits a bump. And the back seat looks like a rummage sale. Every time the husband puts on the brakes a cascade of clothing, boxes and sacks bangs against this head and floods into his lap.

"Is this trip really necessary?" he whimpers.

"Oh, dry up," snarls his dear one. "If you had your way, we'd be traveling in overalls."

And so it goes. These arguments always arise. For a man has a firm faith you can go anywhere with a clean shirt a razor and a toothbrush. But a woman packs for even the smallest journey as if she were bound for the moon.

There is nothing like a vacation trip to bring out the pack rat latent in very wife. "I haven't a decent thing to wear," she moans, and then starts unloading the closet.

Washington Letter

WASHINGTON—The hospitality for which the Washingtons of Mount Vernon were famous, including a nibble of Martha's "Great Cake," will be offered this month at Woodlawn Plantation, once part of the Mount Vernon estate. The occasion will be a reception honoring members of the Grolier Club at the home of George Washington's foster daughter, Nelly Custis, and her husband, Col. Lawrence Lewis, who was Washington's nephew. The exclusive Grolier Club, made up of rare book collectors, is especially interested in the library of Col. Lewis at Woodlawn, which was recently restored as a national shrine.

The estate, situated on a 2,000-acre tract overlooking the Potomac, was given to Nelly Custis as a wedding present by Washington. Now owned by the Woodlawn Public Foundation, Inc., it is the first historic property to be administered by the National Trust for Historic Preservation, a non-governmental organization chartered by Congress in October, 1949. The plantation and the beautiful mansion are open to the public daily, but Martha's cake is not passed around to all the thousands of visitors from all parts of the world.

In Martha's and Nelly's day recipes were written for people who already knew how to cook. For present day usage, Martha's cake recipe has been carefully tested and adapted down to the last eighth teaspoon. Here is the original:

"Take 40 eggs and divide the whites from the yolks and beat them to a froth. Work four pounds of butter to a cream and put the whites of eggs to it a spoon full at a time until it is well worked. Then put four pounds of sugar finely powdered to it in the same manner. Then put in the yolks of eggs and five pounds of flour and mix it all together. Two hours will bake it. Add to it half an ounce of mace, one nutmeg, half a pint of wine and some French brandy."

In having the cake made for the Grolier Club, the National Trust is using fruits that Martha had available at Mount Vernon, such as white raisins steeped in brandy 48 hours, citron, cherries, lemon and orange peel and angelica. The cake is baked in Turk's head molds, so called because they look like the rolled Turkish turbans.

Washington adopted Nelly Custis, then 3, and her brother, John, 6 months, when their father died. The father was Martha Washington's son John by a former marriage. He contracted fever and died while serving as an aide on Washington's staff after the British surrender at Yorktown. Washington engineered the romance between Nelly and her nephew and personally surveyed the acres of Woodlawn and sketched the dwelling in which Nelly and her husband lived for 35 years.

Diaries, Old Records Give Gen. Greene's Background

More Details On Hero For Whom City Named

By MISS JESSE ROUNTREE MOYE

In 1786 the town of Greenville, North Carolina, was named for General Nathanael Greene in testimony of appreciation of his services in the Southern campaigns of the Revolution.

Throughout the South, he was widely acclaimed by a grateful people, who regarded him as a savior of their armies. He was a man of great depth of character, humane, generous and just, a devoted husband and father and a soldier of such courage and ability he was second in command to General George Washington of the Continental Line during the American Revolution.

Wherever President Washington was entertained on his Southern Tour in 1791, the glasses were lifted in memory of the beloved General Greene, the toast at Salisbury, North Carolina, being, "May the services of General Greene be remembered with gratitude by the people of the Southern States."

There is a monument to General Greene on the Guilford Battlefield at Greensboro and, also, one in Savannah (1829). His statue with that of Roger Williams represents the State of Rhode Island in the National Hall of Statuary in the Capitol at Washington, and there is also, in Washington a bronze equestrian figure of him by H.K. Brown. A very fine portrait of Greene by the celebrated artist Charles Willson Peale, hangs in Independence Hall in Philadelphia.

In 1775 the Royal Governor Martin had fallen into such disfavor and feeling against him had become so intense, he fled New Bern aboard the British Man-of-War, "Cruiser", and later returned to England leaving behind in the Royal Palace a large and interesting collection of personal effects which were later sold at public vendue.

Pitt Predominantly Whig
Pitt County was predominantly Whig. So many Pitt County soldiers family that General Greene once visited his relatives here. There was a Robert Greene in Edgecombe County in 1743. No doubt General Greene did visit his family hereabouts as he and his family returned each summer to New England from their Georgia plantation to escape the intense heat as shown in his letters from Mulberry Grove. His diary of 1783 tells of the route north through this neighborhood.

After the War when General Greene finally started northward on his return home to Rhode Island, he carried a short diary of his trip. He passed through North Carolina arriving at Wilmington from South Carolina.

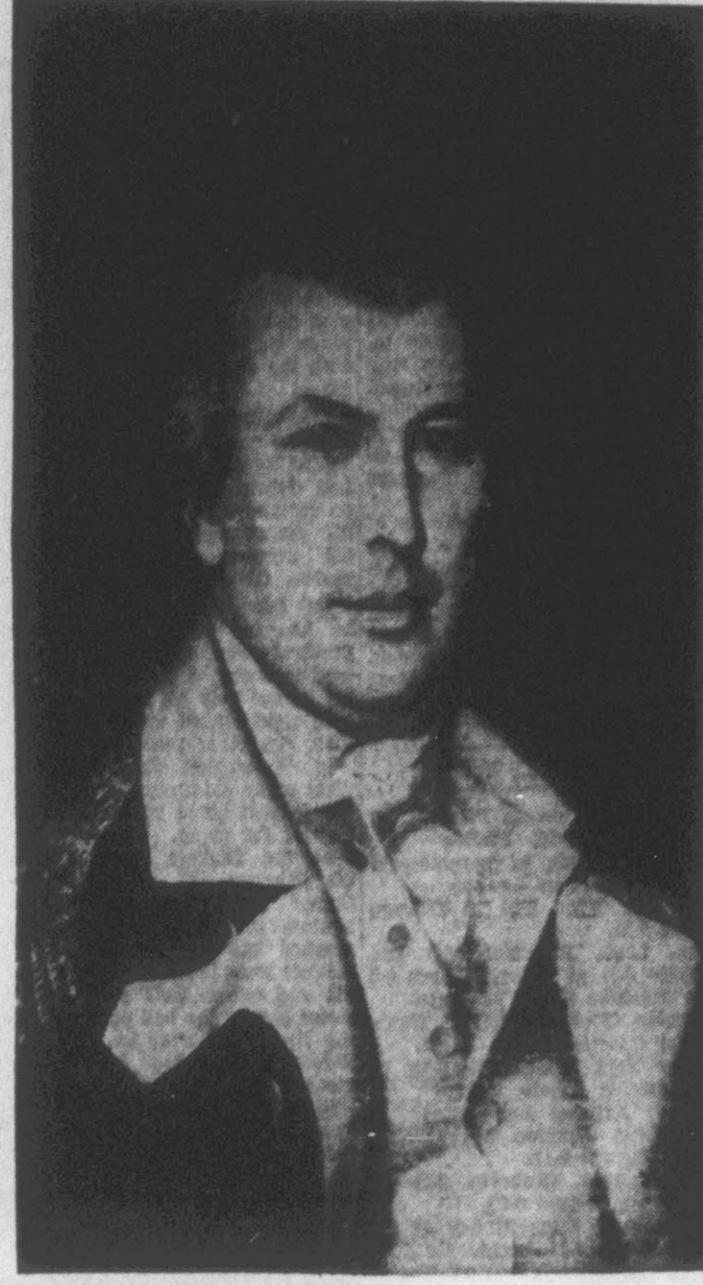

23 August, 1783:
We continued at Wilmington and took lodgings at Mrs. Weeks', a woman of noble figure and agreeable manners; but she has a perfect Jerry of a husband.

25 August:
We set off for Colonel Blounts, having the Major, his son, for our pilot. We rode five and forty miles this day and lodged at one Winsett's. (This was Major Reading Blount whose beautiful home overlooked the Tar River.)

26 August:
We breakfasted with young General Caswell (Lenoir County). He has a pretty wife, and gave us a polite reception. From this to Wilmington is about one hundred miles.

27 and 28 August:
We remained at Colonel Blount's for the recovery of my horse.

30 August:
From this to Tarborough the country is hilly. We left at break of day. Dined at Mr. Blounts in Tarborough, a small village situated upon the banks of the river. Our reception was polite and entertaining agreeable. We lodged this night at Major Phillips. He invited us home with him, but the poor man's heart seemed heavy; our retinue was so large as caused too great a consumption of corn.

General Nathanael Greene

ments" he (General Nathanael) acquired a large amount of general information and made a special study of mathematics, history and law.

Military Interest
At Coventry, Rhode Island, whether he removed in 1770 to take charge of a force built by his father and his uncles, he was the first to urge the establishment of a public school; and in the same year he was chosen a member of the legislature of Rhode Island to which he was re-elected in 1771-1772-1775. He sympathized strongly with the Whig or Patriot element among the Colonists and in 1774 joined the local militia. At this time he began to study the art of War.

In December, 1774 he was on a committee appointed by the Assembly to revise the militia laws. His zeal in attending to military duty led to his expulsion from the Society of Friends. In 1775 in command of the contingent raised by Rhode Island, he joined the American forces at Cambridge and on June 22nd was appointed a brigadier by Congress. To him Washington assigned the command of the City of Boston after it was evacuated by Howe in March 1776.

Greene's letters of October, 1775, and January, 1776, to Samuel Ward, then a delegate from Rhode Island to the Continental Congress, favored a declaration of independence.

On August 9, 1776, he was promoted to be one of the four new major generals and was put in command of the Continental troops on Long Island; he chose the place for fortifications (practically the same as that picked by General Charles Lee) and built the redoubts and entrenchments of Fort Greene on Brooklyn Heights. Severe illness prevented his taking part in the Battle of Long Island. He was prominent among those who advised a retreat from New York and the burning of the city, so that the British might not use it.

Several Commands
Greene was placed in command of Fort Mifflin on October the twenty-fifth succeeded General Israel Putnam in command of Fort Mifflin. He received orders from General Washington to defend Fort Mifflin to the last extremity, and on the 11th of October, Congress had passed a resolution to the same effect; but later Washington wrote him to use his own discretion.

Greene ordered Colonel Magaw, who was in immediate command, to defend the place until he should hear from him again—and reinforced it to meet General Howe's attack. Nevertheless, the blame for the losses of Forts Washington and Mifflin was put upon Greene, but apparently without his losing the confidence of Washington, who himself assumed the responsibility.

At Trenton Greene commanded one of the two American columns; his own, accompanied by Washington, arriving first; and after the victory he was urged by Washington to push on immediately to Princeton, but was overruled by a Council of War. At Brandywine Greene commanded the reserve. At Germantown, Greene's command, having a greater distance to march than the right wing under Sullivan, failed to arrive in good time—a failure which Greene himself thought (without cause) would cost him Washington's regard; on this affair at Fort Washington Bancroft based his unfavorable estimate of Greene's ability. But on their arrival, Greene and his troops distinguished themselves greatly.

Quartermaster General
At the urgent request of Washington on the record of March, 1778, at Valley Forge, he accepted the office of Quartermaster General (succeeding Thomas Mifflin.) He had accepted that office on the understanding, however, that he should retain the right to command troops in the field; thus he was at the head of the right wing at Monmouth on the 28th of June. In August Greene and Lafayette commanded the land forces sent to Mulberry Grove, the eldest daughter of John Littlefield and Phoebe Ray, was born in New Shoreham on Block Island in 1753. When very young she came with her sister to reside in the family of Governor Greene of Warwick, a lineal descendant of the founder of the family whose wife was her aunt.

The house in which they lived, twelve miles south of Providence, is still standing. It is situated on a hill which commands a view of the whole of Narragansett Bay. It was here Miss Littlefield's happy girlhood passed and it was here, also, that she first knew Nathanael Greene. The young people spent much time in riding and dancing notwithstanding his father's efforts to whip out of him such idle propensities. In person Kate Littlefield was singularly lovely, a joyous, frolicsome creature of rare beauty. The facilities of female education being very limited at that period, Miss Littlefield enjoyed few advantages of early cultivation, but she profited by what she read. She was regarded as brilliant and entertaining, of great personal charm, intuitive perception and a very acquisitive intellect.

(Accustomed to the social life of the cities and the admiration of many men, it was once said that "General Washington had danced for four hours with the fascinating Mrs. Greene without once sitting down.")

Married on July 20, 1774, the young couple removed to Coventry. Their children were: George Washington Martha Washington, Cornelia Loti, Nathanael Ray, Louisa Catharine, and a child who died young. Their grandson, George Washington Greene, son of Nathanael Ray, was Consul to Rome and author of a three volume biography of his grandfather.

His Wife's Lot
When her husband's decision was made, and he stood forth a determined patriot, separating himself from the community in which he had been born and reared, by embracing a military profession, his spirited wife did her part to aid and encourage him.

The papers of her day of the Revolution frequently notice her presence, among the other ladies at headquarters. Like Mrs. Washington, she passed the active season of the campaign at home. Hers was a new establishment at Coventry where her husband had erected a forge and built himself what then passed for a princely house on the banks of one of those small streams which form so beautiful a feature of Rhode Island scenery. When the army before Boston was inoculated for smallpox, she gave up her house for a hospital. She was there during the attack on Rhode Island. When the army went into winter quarters, she always set out to join her husband, sharing cheerfully the narrow quarters and hard fare of a camp. She partook of the privations of the dreary winter at Valley Forge in that "darkest hour of the Revolution" and it appears that as at home, her gay spirit shone light around her even in such scenes. There are extant some interesting little notes of Kosciuszko, in very imperfect English which show her kindness to her husband's friends and the pleasure she took in alleviating their sufferings.

Her society was so prized by General Greene he impatiently bore separation from her as shown in his letters.

Mrs. Washington wrote her that General Greene was well and had spent the evening at Mount Vernon on his way to Richmond. General Weedon, in a letter to her, announced that the General had stopped for the night at his house in Richmond and invited Mrs. Greene if she should come as far as Virginia to quarter under his roof. A letter from the Commander-in-chief written from New Windsor on December fifteenth encloses Mrs. Greene a letter from her husband and offers to forward her.

"Mrs. Washington", he says, "who is just arrived at these very quarters, joins me in most cordial wishes for your every felicity and regret the want of your company. Remember me to my namesake, Nat. I suppose can handle a musket."

The namesake referred to George Washington Greene, the eldest son, who was drowned in the Savannah River. His mother never recovered her spirits after this shock.

Came South
Mrs. Greene joined her husband in the South after the close of the active campaign of 1781 and remained with him until the end of the war, residing on the islands during the heats of summer and in winter at headquarters. In the spring of 1783, she returned to the North until General Greene had completed his arrangements for moving to the South.

General Greene's letters to his wife convey his entire confidence and affection, his respect for her judgment and good sense. He looked to her for support and sympathy in all his cares and troubles. His lighter hours, even in absence, were shared with her. A regard for his interests were plainly above every thought of his wife. After his death, she writes to Mr. Wadsworth, his executor, September 18, 1788, "I consider . . . debts of honor and would be paid rather than they should not." I am a woman unaccustomed to anything but the trifling business of a family, yet my exertions may effect something. If they do not, and if I sacrifice my life in the cause of my children, I shall but do my duty, and follow the example of my illustrious husband."

Mulberry Grove
A glimpse of the life at "Mulberry Grove is caught in a letter Mrs. Greene wrote to a friend, Miss Flagg.

"If you expect to be an inhabitant of this country you must not think to sit down with your netting pipes; but on the contrary, employ half your time at the loom, one quarter to paying and receiving visits, the other quarter to scolding servants with a hard thump every ordered her carriage, and quitted her house, returning as soon as he had departed.

Mrs. Greene Remarried
Mrs. Greene married Mr. Miller some time after the death of General Greene. She survived him several years, dying just before the close of the War of 1812.

At the age of fifty-nine years, still beautiful, still brilliant and charming, her remains rest in the family burying ground at Cumberland Island, where but a few years afterwards the body of one of her husband's best officers and warmest friends, the gallant Lee, was brought to moulder by her side.

General Lee, suffering from old battlewounds, had sought to regain his health in the West Indies but had given up the struggle. He came ashore of the Island from a schooner in 1818 and sent word to Louisa Greene, Mrs. James (Shaw) daughter of Nathanael — "Tell her that I am purposely come to die in the house and the arms of the daughter of Nathanael — "Tell her that I am purposely come to die in the house and the arms of the daughter of my old friends and companion."

General Lighthorse Harry Lee's grave at Dungeness was visited in later years by his famous son, Robert E. Lee, Commander-in-Chief of the Confederate Army. Today the bodies of the two great generals lie in a crypt at Washington and Lee University in Virginia.

The inscription over Katherine Littlefield Greene's grave reads —

THE STRAW DONKEY CASE

By A. S. FLEISCHMAN

Chapter 9
"That's regrettable," Durst grumbled, slumping comfortably in the chair. "Frankly, the feeling is mutual. But here's a piece of advice, my friend. If you keep sticking your nose into this thing, it's going to get awfully dirty."
Brindle said, "I'll take my chances."

Durst rose from the chair and brushed his sleeve. "That's your privilege. It's been a delightful interview." He ambled to the door and stopped with his hand on knob. "Funny," he said. "Until now I thought a brain was part of every detective's equipment."
He went out grinning.

Brindle moved to the window and watched the sidewalk below. Within a couple of minutes Durst breezed out of the building entrance and walked to the corner. When the street signal changed, he crossed Fifth, and then Brindle saw that Frances was waiting for him under the awning of the corner drugstore. The two exchanged words, and Durst appeared angry. His hands flew in excited gestures. A moment later Frances went into the drugstore while Durst waited under the awning.

The phone rang. Brindle listened for a moment and laughed. That would be Frances, calling to tell him she had changed her mind. It was a woman's ring, wasn't it? He got up and walked into the small insurance office next door.

"Can I use your phone, Sally?" She was sitting alone at her typewriter and welcomed Brindle with a flippant smile. "It was obvious that the policies she was typing bored her stiff, and it was also obvious that she was happy to have an interruption—particularly in the form of Max Brindle. She had dark hair, light skin and soft brown eyes.

Brindle found his number in the book and dialed it.
"Isn't your office phone ringing?" "Noisy, isn't it?—Oh, hello," Brindle said into the phone. "Let me speak to Mr. West, please."
"Who's calling?" the maid asked in a throaty voice.

Brindle gave his name, and noticed that the ringing in his office had stopped. After a short pause, it started again.
"I'll see if he's in." In a moment she returned to the phone. He's not here," she said, and hung up.

Brindle stared at the mouthpiece and swore under his breath. "Do me a favor, will you, Sally?"
"I'll cost you."
"How much?"
"Lunch."
"Next week sometimes?"
"You drive a hard bargain, Mr. Holmes." She got up and moved closer. "What do you want me to do?"
"I'll dial the number. I want you to take the phone and say you're Miss Lilly. Tell the maid you want to speak to Mr. West. Then I'll take over."
"Brass, sweetheart, brass. Here's the phone."
Presently Harry West was on the wire and Brindle took the phone from Sally.

"Frances," West exclaimed before Brindle had spoken. "Quan Chee called. He says to step on it. They're getting impatient down there."
"Operator," Brindle said, vibrating the cradle bar. "Operator, this connection is weak. What was that again, Harry?"
There was dead silence.
"Who is this?" West growled. "Hello, Harry? This is Brindle. What do you want?" West murmured between what must have been clenched teeth. "I don't need your help. Keep away from me."
"Don't be too sure. I've got some dope that concerns you. You'd better take me up on it. You might write your next symphony in heaven if you don't."
Once West wiped up that Frances, and probably Durst, wanted to cut him out of their racket he could be pumped. The wire was still for a drawn moment.
"Okay, sucker," West scoffed finally. "I'll see you Monday morning. In your office."
"Make it sooner."
"Monday," West repeated hoar-

Airlift Readied For Returning Prisoners Home

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Defense Department has completed plans for an airlift to return most sick and wounded American prisoners from Korea to the United States within 48 hours of their release.

Officials said the prisoners will be flown home from Seoul, Korea, via Japan as rapidly as their health permits. Arrangements were made by the Far East Air Force and the Military Air Transport Service.

Most of the prisoners will be rushed aboard planes for the homeward trip as soon as they are handed over by the Reds. Some may require immediate hospital care in Korea or Japan.

Giant C-124 Globemasters, capable of carrying 136 litter patients plus four nurses and four medical technicians, will carry most of the prisoners from Seoul to Japan. The planes will not wait for a full load.

Paralytic Tours U.S. On Tricycle

BIRMINGHAM (UP)—Clinton Howard, paralyzed veteran from Lewisburg, Tenn., said he is depending on friendly firemen while touring the nation on a tricycle motor scooter.

Howard, paralyzed from the waist down by a tractor accident, said he plans to ask for lodging and food at fire stations in various towns and cities on his route to California to visit his mother.

His faith in the friendly firemen was rewarded when he swung southward to Birmingham before heading west. Last night he was the guest of the East Lake fire station here.

Mother Seeking Case Of Measles

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UP)—Mrs. Marion L. Young is looking for someone who can give her two children a case of measles.

Mrs. Young thought her son, Roy 2, and daughter, Glenns four months, had been exposed to the measles.

She had shots administered to make the cases light, then discovered yesterday they hadn't been exposed.

Mrs. Nathanael Greene

In Colonel Armstrong's Company were lost at the Battle of Brandywine, the remaining few went into Colonel Patton's Company which later was taken into General Lincoln's army in South Carolina and was with him at the surrender of Charleston, where Greene was taken prisoner. Pitt County soldiers served with Greene at the Battle of Guilford Courthouse. The Southern soldiers were often poorly equipped and General Greene labored at personal sacrifice to feed and clothe the armies.

The names of both Greensboro and Greenville were changed from Martintown and Martinsborough, respectively to honor General Greene.

Evans Introduced Bill
On January 2, 1771, Mr. Richard Evans introduced a bill in the Assembly for a town on his lands. It failed at this session but was passed in December the following session. In compliment to the Royal Governor, Josiah Martin, the town was named Martinborough. The act for a town had never been carried out, and in 1774, a supplementary act was passed providing for the removal of the courthouse, pillory and stocks located on the lands of Colonel John Hardee in 1761; and making it a county town. Not until 1786 was the courthouse sold and another built in Greenville.

General Greene has many collateral descendants in this community; citizens of prominence since 1789 when George Greene is first recorded as having bought property in the town of "Greenville." George and his son, Charles, became wealthy landowners in the town and county. The house at Third and Washington Streets now known as the Skinner Building was built by Charles Greene before 1863. Built of brown sand stone ashlar its erection would indicate much earlier date. From early 1770s throughout eastern Carolina the family name of Greene is identified with service in public trust. Veteran Lefthander Strikes Out 10 In Pitching Greenville To First Northeastern Conference Baseball Victory

By JIMMY ELLIS
Reflector Sports Editor

Lefthander Bill Hendrix was tight in the clutch yesterday as he pitched the Greenville Phantoms to a 7-5 victory over the Elizabeth City Yellow Jackets in the Northeastern Conference opener for the Phantoms. The game was played on the East Carolina College diamond as a part of the college's High School Day activities.

Hendrix, a veteran who was thoroughly plastered in the Phantom's opener three weeks ago against Rocky Mount, was a tough man to get to when the chips were down. He had two shaky innings, the third and the ninth, but he never let the contest get out of his control. He gave up eight hits and walked six but he struck out 10 and had good fleeing to back him up.

The Phantoms took an early lead in the contest with a four run outburst in the second inning and they were never headed after that.

The inning started off in a not-so-optimistic manner when two of the first three batters were retired but then the floodgates were opened.

Phillips Triples
With Hendrix on base via a fielder's choice, Dallas Evans started the rally rolling in high gear by reaching base safely after the catcher dropped a high pop fly just in front of the plate. Bob Howell walked to load the bases and Bobby Perry turned in the first 2 runs by ramming a hard grounder which was error by the second baseman. Jerry Phillips then accounted for the other two runs by blasting a home run into the far reaches of right-centerfield.

Two runs in the seventh inning wrapped up the game for the Phantoms. With one out, Bobby Conway rammed another triple past the Elizabeth City outfield and then scored on a single by Dixie Hobgood. Hobgood stole both second and third bases and came home when Charles Joyner's grounder to first base was booted.

Conway led the hitting for the Phantoms with a triple and single in three official trips to the plate. Hobgood got a pair of timely singles to follow in the batting parade.

Catcher Saunders got two of Elizabeth City's eight hits to lead their batting attack against Hendrix.

New Bern Next
The contest was the first conference contest of the season for the Pirates who had been scheduled to open their card last Tuesday in Edenton. Transportation difficulties kept this game from being played however and it has been postponed indefinitely.

The next contest for the Phantoms will be next Friday when New Bern comes to Greenville.

4 Top Amateurs Meet In Tourney

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UP)—Four of the nation's top women amateur golfers tee off today in semi-final play of the Trans-Mississippi tournament and the winner of the Mrs. Lyle Bowman-Mary Lena Faulk match was expected to go on and capture the championship.

Mrs. Bowman, the defending champion from Richmond, Calif., was forced to go three extra holes Friday, to beat 18-year old Lesbia Lobo, San Antonio, Tex., one up on the 21st hole. Miss Faulk, Thomasville, Ga., entered the semi-finals by gaining a 2 and 1 victory over Arlene Brooks, Pasadena, Calif.

In today's other semi-final match, Pat Garner, Midland, Tex., will play Edean Anderson, Helena, Mont. Miss Garner had a 2 and 1 win over Mary Ann Downey, Baltimore, Md., and Miss Anderson scored an easy 5 and 4 decision from Mrs. Margaret McMillan, Milwaukee.

NEW YORK (UP)—Fearless Fraley's facts and figures: Maybe, if should be credited to Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals, but the most popular uniform number in the major leagues is No. 6.

That's the only number which is used by every major league team. Only two players dare to wear No. 13, Ralph Branca of the Brooklyn Dodgers and Sibby Sisti of the Milwaukee Braves... which probably explains why...

The extended criticism of Casey Stengel manager of the New York Yankees, for using his outfielders on a two-rotation basis apparently has come from even the front office. For Stengel, defending his position, says "I don't care what the front office says, when I feel it is necessary to use my outfield that way, I'll do it." The mystery of it all is how anybody can second-guess a manager who has won four world championships in a row and flatly predicts he'll be the first in baseball history to make it five...

IOC To Decide Today On '56 Olympic Site

MEXICO CITY (UP)—International Olympic Committee delegates, having cleared the decks of several minor matters, get down to the main business today of deciding whether or not to keep the 1956 games in Melbourne, Australia.

The Melbourne issue was discreetly sidestepped Friday at the opening of the IOC meeting but it is virtually certain to come up today.

Although Melbourne officials have presented a report on the city's preparations for the Olympics, which directors have termed favorable, there still is considerable opposition to holding the games there.

At first Melbourne opponents charged the city had no stadium, then that it had no housing facilities for visiting teams, and more recently that Australia's quarantine on horses from other nations would prevent the staging of the Olympic equestrian events.

At the Melbourne officials have solved the problem of the stadium and the Olympic Village, and believe they can relax the quarantine restrictions, there still are many officials who are expected to vote for a transfer of the 1956 games to another nation.

Italy, which already has the winter games, is known to want the summer games also; the Latin American countries lean toward Argentina, while several United States cities also will put in a strong bid.

Virginia Beach, Va. (UP)—H. Doug Ford of Harrison, N. Y., a runnerup in four major PGA tournaments this year, teed off on the third round of the Virginia Beach Open event today with the fervent hope that he can make a three-stroke lead stand up for victory.

Ford, a 29-year old native of New England who has been a pro only since 1949, fired a second-round 65 Friday for his second straight sub-par round and took over first place with a 128 total.

Babe Rests Well After Operation

BEAUMONT, Tex. (UP)—Babe Dirlikson Zaharias, who has been a winner at every sport she ever tried, apparently has gained the upper hand in a battle against dread malignancy, too.

At least, that was the preliminary verdict today from a five-man surgical team which saw her through a tortuous three-hour operation at Hotel Dieu (Hospital) Friday.

The 39-year old Babe, whose current forte is professional golf, was reported "resting well" early today by hospital attendants who said she came through the strenuous ordeal in "fine condition."

Doctors first confirmed she was suffering from a malignant condition in her lower rectum nine days ago.

Dr. Robert Moore, a professor of surgery at the University of Texas Medical School and the chief surgeon at the operation, prescribed a "lot of rest" for Mrs. Zaharias.

The doctors' spokesman said that if her progress is normal she could leave the hospital in two or three weeks.

Guilford Quakers Win 7-1 From East Carolina Bucs

GUILFORD COLLEGE—A slim righthander who is not long out of high school weathered a shaky start and then settled down to pitch Guilford College to a 7-1 win over East Carolina College. The game was a North State Conference (Eastern Division) contest.

Franklin Davis, a freshman who pitched for Greensboro high school last year, gave up a run in the first inning on two singles, an error, and a passed ball. After that, however, he settled down and gave up only three safeties in the remaining eight innings.

The Quakers wrapped the game up for Davis in the third when Don Percise walked, Bill Matthews ranned out a triple, and Bobby Callicut got involved in an infield out and Matthews scored. Four runs in the bottom of the fourth gave the Quakers and Davis all the runs they needed to move far ahead of the Pirates.

Davis' victim in the pitching department was righthander Jimmy Piner, a senior from New Bern who had not been defeated in two previous tries. Piner gave up four hits, walked five, and struck out three in the five innings he was on the mound. Ted Barnes finished up for the Pirates and gave up the last run of the day.

The victory was the second of the season for Guilford and the second loss for the Pirates. East Carolina now has a 4-2 record but they will get a chance to improve it today when they move over to High Point to meet the High Point College Panthers, a team they defeated 22-2 Wednesday. High Point won its first contest of the season yesterday by defeating Atlantic Christian 6-0.

Mantle Leads Yanks To Third Win In Row

NEW YORK (UP)—The Mighty Mick of the Yankees was a grown man of the baseball world today—ready perhaps to take his place with the all-time immortals of the game.

That Mickey Mantle may move into the proud line of succession behind Yankee sluggers Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, and Joe DiMaggio is no certainty, for he still is a bashful, sometimes frightened 21-year old cross-roads kid from Commerce, Okla.

But there can be no doubt that he has the potential to be the greatest all-round slugger the game has produced—a batsman who in his career may hit a ball farther, both right-handed and left-handed, than any other man.

In Washington Friday he hit what many old-timers believe was the longest home run in the history of the game.

As the Yankees again mauled the Senators, 7-3, the Commerce Comet, swinging right-handed against southpaw Chuck Stobbs, crashed into a pitch and sent it 565-feet over the left field bleachers and into a back yard in the street beyond the ball park. It was the first drive ever to clear the 55-foot high fence behind the bleachers.

In addition, Mickey beat out a "bunt" which rolled into center field and stole a base as lefty Ed Lopat scattered 10 hits for his first win. All of the Yankee starters got hits and Billy Martin also homered as the champs made it three victories in a row.

Brooklyn split a day-night double header with the Giants, losing the first game, 6-3 to "nemesi" Sal Maglie, but winning the arch-rivaler, 12-4 on Billy Loes' effective nine-inning pitching.

Maglie hurled hitless ball for 6 2/3 innings in the opener but later required the aid of Hoyt Wilhelm when Brooklyn rallied for two runs in the ninth. Wes Westrum hit a two-run homer off loser Johnny Podres in the second inning and the Giants insured victory with

Arts Festival Closes Following Week Of Activities, Exhibits

The Eighteenth Community Arts Festival came to a close in the city yesterday after a week of emphasis on all forms of art.

Centering around the theme, "Our American Heritage in Art," this year's festival was sponsored by the Greenville Women's Club and the Community Art Center in cooperation with the following groups:

The Greenville Music Club, division of art, the drama and music groups of the city schools; the science department; the industrial arts department; the art department and the Emerson Study Group of East Carolina College; the Greenville Little Theatre Guild; the Rose School of Speech; the literature department and American home department of the Greenville Woman's Club; the Greenville American Association of University Wo-

Scouts Converge On Tarboro For Camporee Event

TARBORO—East Carolina Council Boy Scouts from Roanoke Rapids to Jacksonville, and from Nashville to Harker's Island converged on Tarboro today to begin a huge three-day encampment. Almost from dawn to dusk, trucks, trailers, and autos were pouring into the Tarboro Airport area to disgorge eager oldtimers and apprehensive tenderfoot Scouts who were attending their first camporee in the council.

Dr. E. F. Menius of New Bern, camporee chairman, and R. G. Barnes of Wilson, general chairman for all camping and activities in the eastern part of the state, issued a joint statement in which they had high praise for the splendid camping demonstrations and exhibitions which unfolded on the airport as the day wore along. They said "this is the finest and probably the largest camporee that the East Carolina Council has experienced in its long history of large and successful camporees."

At a meeting of the camporee staff Thursday evening in the hangar at the airport, final instructions and arrangements were concluded by Dr. Menius. He has a staff of experts who are prepared to conduct one of the most challenging programs ever for the several thousand Boy Scouts who spent today in an all-day competitive situation to demonstrate the scouting skills they have mastered since last year's great exhibition.

Scout Executive Ralph H. Mose of Wilson, who has had the privilege of observing scouting all over the nation as a member of the National Staff of Boy Scouts of America, said, "This camporee, as done by the East Carolina Council, is the finest thing that I have seen. It is inspiring to see how completely volunteer leaders conduct this great encampment. Many of the volunteers are former camporee staff men who give willingly of their experience and talents in making the activity click."

Preliminary registration figures show that 1,950 Scouts and 98 leaders, 239 patrols from 95 troops representing 50 towns of Eastern Carolina, are attending this 1953 Camporee.

The Greenville Trio, composed of Estelle Dunn, Jean Matthews and Margaret James, accompanied on the piano by Christine Smith, presented the program at the Greenville Exchange Club's supper meeting last night.

The trio, singing together for only a few weeks, made their first public appearance before the club last night. They have made several recordings and they are frequently heard over the Greenville radio station. Their program last night included, My Heart Cries For You, O, How I Miss You Tonight, and The Missouri Waltz. Miss James sang several solo numbers.

Mother Of Woman Injured In Auto Fall Expresses Appreciation To City

Mrs. G. D. Roberts, mother of Mrs. Virginia Thomas who was seriously injured in a fall from an automobile near Greenville some weeks ago, has requested her appreciation be expressed to the people of Greenville for the many kindnesses extended and her son on their recent visit here.

In a letter received by Mrs. D. L. Latham of Greenville, Mrs. Roberts requested Mrs. Latham to let the people of Greenville know "we appreciate how nice the people of Greenville were to us. I wish I could word it like I feel so everybody would know just how I feel deep down," the letter said.

The letter added that Mrs. Thomas, who is now in a Charleston hospital, has undergone an operation on her back which required some 40 stitches. The letter, mailed from Charleston Wednesday, said Mrs. Thomas has not yet been put into a cast, but is expected to be placed in a cast in the near future. She was in critical condition for approximately 10 days after arriving at the Charleston hospital.

Capitol Square

(Continued from page four) little backlog jam. The House calendar is pretty much cluttered up, mostly with local bills. The record for Wednesday tells the story. The Senate received three new bills and passed 16. The House received 40 new bills and passed four. It is seldom that the Senate calendar for the day contains more than one page, or the House calendar less than 10 pages. One observer explained the difference by saying the Senators vote while the House talks.

STUDENT — Lieutenant Governor Luther Hodges' appearance at most sessions of the joint appropriations committee—that is the sessions that were open to the public—has occasioned some comment. So did his attendance at the budget commission hearings last fall. It is not the usual practice for the lieutenant governor to sit in on these meetings. In answer to queries about why he was doing it, Hodges said he was a student-observer. Although always interested in government, he said he had been so occupied with business problems for most of his life he had not had opportunity to find what makes the government wheels go round. He would like to know, so he finds time to sit on committees and commission sessions in order to find out. In a hallway off-record comment he confessed to your reporter some amazement that governmental wheels turn so smoothly as they do in view of some things he had seen and heard at these meetings.

CANDIDATE — Hodges is both a diligent and an apt student and he is learning fast how to move around in political and government circles. Despite his off-repeated statement that he is only trying to do his present job to the fullest capacity, opinion is general that he is now "running hard" for Governor in 1956. And it is not at all difficult to find experienced politicians who will admit that he is a man who must be reckoned with for a good many years in North Carolina politics.

Friday's Cases In Police Court

In Police Court Friday, Allen Edwards, Negro, was charged with assault with a deadly weapon — a shovel and a hoe — on James Earl Tyson, Negro youth.

The case was the result of an argument about neighbor's children. After hearing the evidence, Judge Charles H. Whedbee continued prayer for judgment on condition that Edwards pay James Earl Tyson's medical expenses and court costs. The judgment also provides that Edwards is to remain of good behavior and not violate any law for a year.

Lester Williams, charged with being drunk, was called and he failed to answer to his name. The court ordered an instant capias "to bring Williams into court."

Charles M. Williams, 1302 Charles Street, charged with driving while drunk, asked for a jury trial and the case was sent up to Superior Court.

Edward Pratt, Negro, paid $10 on court costs for disorderly conduct.

No operator's license: Johnny Harris, Negro, $25 and costs.

Drunk: Albert Clack, $10; Bonnie McGowan, $10.

Carter G. Smith, speeding, paid $15 costs.

LEGION MEETS TUESDAY
Pitt County Post No. 39, of the American Legion, will meet at the Legion Home next Tuesday night at 7 o'clock. Commander Connor Eagles will preside.

Final Week For Crop Insurance

Pitt County tobacco farmers have exactly one week left in which to insure their 1953 tobacco crop under the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation program.

The Federal Crop Insurance Program will insure tobacco crops against loss by hail, excessive rain, diseases, dry weather, fire.

For those persons unable to apply at the County PMA office application may be made through any one of the eleven agents now operating in the county.

They are: H. R. Sutton, Route 3, Greenville; Rufus C. Hardee, Route 3, Greenville; H. Darrel Jackson, Route 1, Ayden; C. D. Smith, Greenville; M. M. Teel, Greenville; L. C. Edwards, Route 3, Greenville; John H. Cherry, Stokes; Earl Mills, Route 2, Greenville; Wingate Dale, Ayden; Elmo Dupree, 600 Maple Street, Greenville; or Roy Stancill of Route 1, Tarboro.

Godman fans said the old master's clarinet was every bit as "right" as in the days before illness forced him into semi-retirement more than a decade ago.

King Of Swing Opens Comeback In Carnegie Hall

NEW YORK (UP)—Benny Goodman and his fabled swing band of the 1930's scorched Carnegie Hall in a comeback concert that kept 6,000 happy fans shouting and stomping into the early morning hours today.

The 43-year old King of Swing led 14 oldtime henchmen through two full programs of the tunes that made swing a national craze in the years before World War II.

The concert was the kick-off of a national tour Goodman and his re-formed band will make this month and next.

But the biggest ovation of the night came with "Sing, Sing, Sing" — a wild 20-minute ride paced by Goodman's clarinet, Gene Krupa's drums and Charlie Shavers' trumpet.

Godman fans said the old master's clarinet was every bit as "right" as in the days before illness forced him into semi-retirement more than a decade ago.

War Prisoners Riot; 4 Killed

PUSAN, Korea (UP)—A barracks full of North Korean Communist prisoners of war rioted at a United Nations POW island camp off Korea and four were killed and 45 hospitalized with injuries, it was announced today.

The U. N. POW Command here said none of the Red rioters were scheduled for repatriation under the sick and wounded exchange agreement.

Allied guards were forced to use concussion grenades and non-toxic irritants to force the die-hard Communists outside their barracks when they refused to line up for inspection.

The mutineers then charged out of the barracks in a mob assault and started hurling stones at U.N. guards while POWs in other compounds joined in the demonstration.

Guards had to use shotguns to stop the attack and prevent the prisoners from seizing their weapons after two attempts to quell the riot with tear gas failed.

The U. N. said the rioting took place yesterday in Compound D of camp 1B on Yoncho-Do, a small island off the southeast coast of Korea near Koje-Do, scene of earlier violent Red demonstrations.

Oversized Liver Is Found When Rooster Killed On Pitt Farm

A two-year-old rooster was killed for family consumption in Greenville this week and was found to contain an enlarged liver approximately one-sixth as heavy as the bird's total weight.

The rooster, of the Barred Rock variety, was owned by Mrs. Laura C. Carr, 1310 Pitt Street. The owner, a retired Negro school teacher, had raised the fowl from a chick.

The gigantic liver, preserved in alcohol, was brought to The Daily Reflector office this morning by Mrs. L. E. Latham, a sister of the retired teacher who owned the rooster.

Seven American Citizens Likely To Gain Release

WASHINGTON (UP)—Seven American civilians will likely be starting the long trip home from North Korea soon after nearly three years in Communist hands.

The State Department had no word how quickly the Reds would release the Americans. But it did have a North Korean promise that authorities "are taking measures" to free them.

The notification was transmitted to the American Embassy in Moscow by Soviet officials Thursday and made public late Friday.

The Russian foreign ministry also said the North Koreans had informed it that three other American civilians "overrun" when the Korean war broke out June 25, 1950, have since died. The Red regime claimed to know nothing about three other U.S. civilians thought to have been in North Korean hands.

The word came about two weeks after the State Department asked Soviet officials to use their good offices in obtaining release of American civilians in North Korea. The State Department renewed its previously lodged request when Britain and France had obtained Soviet assurances of help in getting their nationals freed from North Korea.

Speeder Passed Wrong Motorist

NOBLESVILLE, Ind. (UP)—Two distinguished passengers in a shiny black limousine were startled Friday when another automobile sped past them.

They reached for their radio-telephone and called the police who then intercepted Charles Stackhouse when he reached here. Stackhouse was charged with doing 55 in a 40-miles-per-hour speed zone.

The men in the limousine were Gov. George M. Craig and State Police Superintendent Frank A. Jessup.

Rehearsals Open For New Follies

At the Kiwanis Club last night, Producer Eli Bloom started full scale rehearsals for the Kiwanis "Spring Follies" to be given at the college three nights, April 27, 28 and 29.

This year the show will be a musical extravaganza instead of a minstrel. It will feature some of the best known local talent, including songs, dances and comedy skits. About 35 Kiwanians are in the cast. Bloom announced. Rehearsals will continue through this week. Tickets are now on sale by Kiwanians. There are no reserved seats.

President Leo W. Jenkins announced that the Kiwanis Club will meet jointly next Friday night with the Chamber of Commerce at its annual banquet. Other civic clubs also will meet with the trade body.

Two Kiwanians, Reynolds May and Charley Blair, had birthdays and they donated a nickel for each year of their age. Stanley Anderson, vice-president of Greenville Mills, Inc. and Cecil Ellington, manager of the Firestone Store, each gave one-minute biographies. Anderson was born in Canada, Ellington in Raleigh.

President Jenkins announced that Secretary David C. Moore Jr., who had a heart attack last week, continues to improve at Pitt Memorial Hospital. Mrs. Lena Tyson won the attendance prize and said she will give it to Moore.

Guests of the club were Miss Mary Dunn Beatty, John Lusche and Bill Jenkins, and Circle K clubbers Donald McClouch and Don Cox from the college.

In tribute to Dave Moore's "fifth of a century record of perfect attendance in the Greenville Kiwanis Club," Jenkins said after a each club meeting on Friday nights a group of Kiwanians will go to Moore's hospital room, continue the meeting briefly, then adjourn it. In this way, Moore can maintain his perfect attendance record.

Best referred the bill to the committee which killed the previous referendum bill, and ruled pitman out of order when he attempted to have the bill given immediate consideration.

The assembly also gave final approval this week to a resolution rescinding a 1949 resolution that put the legislature on record as favoring world government. It left untouched a 1941 resolution which "expressed hope" that world government could be created eventually.

FLASHLIGHTS, ETC. LEFT AT SCENE OF CRIME SHOULD BE THOROUGHLY SCRUTINIZED FOR FINGERPRINTS, BOTH INSIDE AND OUTSIDE.

I KNEW THIS WAS NO ORDINARY CASE WHEN THE PLENTYS CALLED ME.

HOW RIGHT YOU WERE, DOC. LISTEN TO THE GEIGER COUNTER.

YES, THE GEIGER COUNTER SHOWS RADIOACTIVITY, AND HOW!

THE POOR KID!

WE'LL NEED THE BEST BRAINS WE CAN GET.

CHIEF, CONTACT DR. MACK AT THE UNIVERSITY NUCLEAR DEPARTMENT.

SEND HIM OUT TO THE PLENTYS. TELL HIM WHAT WE'VE RUN INTO— AND ASK HIM TO BRING THE NECESSARY EQUIPMENT.

BUT HOW? HOW?

THE NEAREST WE CAN FIGURE, SHE GOT IT FROM A PHOSPHORESCENT PAINT CONCENTRATE WHICH SHE SOMEHOW GOT ON HERSELF.

AT HEADQUARTERS— ALSO, CHIEF, CALL DIET SMITH. HIS COMPANY PROCESSED THE THORITE USED IN THE PAINT.

ODDS UNDOUBTEDLY THOUGHT HE WAS HI-JACKING A CASK OF GOLD BARS—WHICH ACTUALLY WERE IN ANOTHER ARMORED TRUCK.

LATER— THE SCIENTIST AND CREW ARE HERE, TRACY.

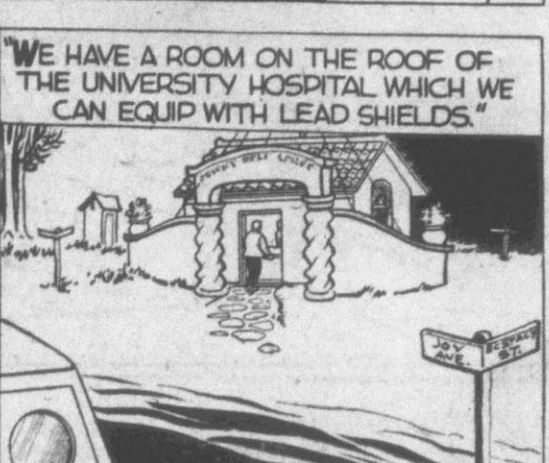

ASTOUNDING! HOW DO YOU FEEL, HONEY?

MY LEGS HURTS!

SHE'LL HAVE TO BE ISOLATED.

WE'D BETTER PUT THE GEIGER COUNTER ON B. O. AND HIS WIFE AND SPARKLE, TOO, TO SEE IF THEY'VE ABSORBED ANY OF THE RADIATION.

WE HAVE A ROOM ON THE ROOF OF THE UNIVERSITY HOSPITAL WHICH WE CAN EQUIP WITH LEAD SHIELDS.

15 LITTLE WINGS GOING TO DIE, MR. TRACY?

I SHOULD SAY NOT, SPARKLE! HEY, COME ON, CUT THAT OUT.

FLASH GORDON..... by Mac Raboy and Don Moore

WAITING ONLY LONG ENOUGH TO MAKE CERTAIN THAT DR. STELLA IS REGAINING CONSCIOUSNESS IN THE OXYGEN-FILLED AIRLOCK, FLASH PROCEEDS WITH HIS DESPERATE PLAN TO TAKE OVER THE PIRATES' MOON-BASE.

SEARCHING THE MOON-STATION THOROUGHLY, FLASH AND ZARKOV FIND THAT MARC HAS TAKEN MOST OF THE PIRATE CREW ON HIS ROCKET-TRIP TO HIJACK THE PASSING SKY-FREIGHTER. "BEFORE WE DO ANYTHING ELSE," FLASH SAYS, "WE'LL REPLACE THIS SMASHED VIEW-PORT. I WANT THE PLACE AIRTIGHT BEFORE THE OUTLAWS RETURN!"

AS THE AIR-PRESSURE BUILDS UP TO NORMAL AGAIN, FLASH DISCARDS HIS SPACE-SUIT AND HURRIES TO THE INSTRUMENT ROOM WHERE DALE IS RADAR-TRACKING THE PIRATE SHIP. "THEY'VE CAST A TOW-LINE AROUND THE CARGO CARRIER," SHE EXCLAIMS. "LOOK, THEY'RE SWINGING AROUND AND HEADING BACK HERE!"

SWIFTLY FLASH AND ZARKOV PREPARE TO AMBUSH THE RETURNING RAIDERS, AS THEY TAKE THEIR POSTS IN A GUN EMPLACEMENT. FLASH TELLS ZARKOV: "WE'LL STRIKE WHEN THEY'RE MOST VULNERABLE--AT THE MOMENT THEY'RE PILE OUT OF THE ROCKET!" ZARKOV NODS GRIMLY. "I HOPE WE CAN TAKE MARC ALIVE!" HE MUTTERS. "HE AND STELLA ARE THE BRAINS OF THE GANG!"

Copyright 1953, King Features Syndicate, Inc. World rights reserved.

BUT UNKNOWN TO FLASH, ONE OF THE CREW AT THE MOON-STATION HAS REVIVED ENOUGH TO SEND A FRANTIC MESSAGE TO THE PIRATES' ROCKET. MARC IS STUNNED AS THE WORDS COME THROUGH HIS EARPHONES: "GORDON HAS TAKEN OVER THE BASE! STELLA IS A PRISONER! YOU ARE FLYING INTO A TRAP!"

"CHANGE COURSE!" MARC SHOUTS TO THE PILOT. "WE'LL LAND AT THE UNDERGROUND HANGAR!" AS THE PIRATES' ROCKET AND THE CAPTURED CARGO CRAFT APPROACH THE PROTECTED HIDE-OUT, HUGE DOORS SWING OPEN AUTOMATICALLY AND SILENTLY CLOSE AGAIN WHEN THE SHIPS HAVE COME TO REST INSIDE. MEANWHILE MARC HAS EVOLVED A PLAN. "GORDON'S WAITING TO AMBUSH US!" HE SAYS THROUGH TIGHT LIPS. "WELL, WE'LL SEE WHICH OF US GETS AMBUSHED!"

I TOLD YOU THOSE HORSES WOULD HAVE TO HAVE OATS... THEY LOOK LIKE THEY'RE READY FOR THE GLUE FACTORY!... S'POSE THAT KID TELLS DOOLEY?

ALL RIGHT... SEND HIM DOWN TO THE FEED STORE WITH THIS CHECK, AND TELL HIM TO BRING BACK THE CHANGE.

WE DON'T WANT HIM WRITING TO DOOLEY YET... IN TWO WEEKS WE'LL HAVE THE OLD GAL CLEAN AS A PLUCKED GOOSE... THEN HE CAN SQUAWK HIS HEAD OFF!

HERE, RUSTY, MISS DOOLEY SAYS TO TAKE THIS CHECK TO THE FEED STORE IN HONEY HOLLOW, GET A BAG OF OATS AND BRING HER THE CHANGE... TAKE THE STATION WAGON... YOU CAN DRIVE, CAN'T YOU?

OKAY, MEL... SURE, I CAN DRIVE.

I'M GOING TO PUT BOTH OF THESE HORSES OUT IN THE FIELD WHERE THEY CAN GET SOME SUN... HOW DO I GET TO THE FEED STORE?

IT'S RIGHT BY THE BRIDGE, AND JIM WOODS IS THE NAME. HURRY RIGHT BACK NOW!

POOR THINGS! THEY'VE SURE HAD IT BAD! THEY'RE HALF-STARVED!

LATER, IN JIM WOODS'S FEED STORE
I WANT A BAG OF OATS AND A COUPLE OF BALES OF HAY... IT'S FOR MISS DOOLEY, AND SHE SAYS TO TAKE IT OUT OF THIS CHECK.

YOU'RE NEW OUT THERE, AIN'T YOU? THE OLD LADY STILL TOO SICK TO COME INTO TOWN, IS SHE?

WHY DOES EV'RYBODY CALL MISS DOOLEY AN "OLD LADY"? SHE ISN'T OLD AT ALL... AND SHE ISN'T SICK!

LOOK HERE, SON... I'VE KNOWN THE DOOLEYS EVER SINCE DENVER BOUGHT THAT FARM... AND I KNOW THAT SALLY DOOLEY WON'T EVER SEE SEVENTY AG'IN!

HERE'S THE CHANGE FROM THE CHECK, MEL... MR. WOODS SEEMS TO THINK MISS DOOLEY IS SICK! AND HE SAYS SHE'S REAL OLD-- OVER SEVENTY!

OH, THE OLD GOAT'S GOT HER MIXED UP WITH SOMEBODY ELSE!... FORGET IT, AND UNLOAD THAT FEED!

LISTEN, TRIXIE... I THINK THE KID'S GETTING TOO CURIOUS... THOSE YOKELS IN TOWN HAVE BEEN ASKING ABOUT "THE OLD LADY", AND YOU DON'T LOOK LIKE ANY GRANDMA!

I WAS AFRAID OF THAT! WELL, MEL, THE TIME HAS COME TO TAKE CARE OF THE OLD LADY AND CLEAR OUT!
