Assembly Adjournment Appears Only Hours Away

Money Bills Finished

RALEIGH (UP)—The General Assembly completed action on fiscal legislation today and adjournment of the 114-day session appeared only hours away. The House Counties, Cities and Towns Committee invited drys to make their promised last-ditch showdown on a statewide liquor referendum bill. The committee voted to postpone indefinitely a vote on the measure and dry leaders had promised to ask that it be recalled from committee for a vote before adjournment. By a 94-0 vote the House put the final stamp of approval on a Senate amendment to the bulky state revenue bill thus writing it into law. It sealed and delivered Gov. William B. Umstead's promise of no new taxes this year. It provides a short form return and a flat 10 per cent deduction for state income taxpayers with incomes of not more than $5,000 a year and revises corporate tax structures to make the state more attractive to new industry. Completing action on the revenue bill paved the way for adjournment probably this afternoon or tonight. There were only a few controversial items left when the House and Senate convened. Weary lawmakers were anxious for the final gavel to drop—the session already 1935 when adjournment came on May 11 and legislators have been working without pay since April 6. The Senate passed its sine die adjournment resolution last night. The House was expected to vote on it as both chambers met at 10 a. m. today after a grueling Wednesday session which lasted 11 hours and 10 minutes. The Senate bill to set up a six-man state milk commission to regulate all phases of the milk industry brought on a fight which lasted for almost three hours before the House passed it on second reading 57 to 43 yesterday. A deluge of amendments hit the clerk's desk when the bill was called up for its second reading and just about all of them were incorporated in the bill, cutting down the commission's powers. One by Rep. E. L. Hicks of Mecklenburg, which would have taken away all power to restrict marketing areas, was voted down by the same vote as that given the bill on its passage. Rep. George Uzzell of Rowan, leading the floor fight against the bill, locked horns with Rep. Larry Moore of Wilson, who steered it to passage.

Uzzell condemned it as a "threat to free enterprise," and charged "this could set up the strongest political organization this state has ever known." Any question of judicial redistricting or addition of more superior court judges was killed for this session. The Senate had passed a bill to realign the state's judicial districts but Gov. William Umstead has asked simply that six more judges be added. The House stuck fast to Umstead's suggestion and turned thumbs down on the Senate version. Rep. William B. Rodman of Beaufort informed the House the measure wouldn't recede from its bill. So the House simply tabled the measure and decided to do nothing at all about either version. A motor vehicle financial responsibility plan, which had kicked up a fuss for weeks, was finally written into law on a voice vote by the House after a minimum of argument. It was watered down by an amendment providing a motorist whose license has been ordered revoked by the Motor Vehicles Commission can appeal to the courts and his license can not be taken away while the appeal is pending.

Mother Of Year Is Stepmother

Meet Mrs. Ethlyn Wisegarver Bott, 58, of Belleville, Ill., whose choice as Mother of the Year is unique in one respect — she's a stepmother. Mrs. Bott raised four motherless children after she married their widower father 20 years ago. She will be honored in New York May 8, when the American Mothers Committee will present her award. Mrs. Bott was selected over candidates from every state in 11th Union by the committee, a branch of the Golden Rule Foundation, an organization that work toward dedication of American homes to the golden rule. Eisenhower Hopes For Over $8 Billion Reduction

Big Budget Cut Goal

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower told Congressional leaders today he hopes to cut $8,400,000,000 from the Truman budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1. That was the report brought back by several Congressional leaders who attended a lengthy White House conference today on the entire government financial picture. These leaders asked not to be identified. Those who were identified, such as Senate Republican Leader Robert A. Taft, would say only the administration sees "substantial savings in sight." Sen. Styles Bridges (R-N.H.), chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, said at the White House that Mr. Eisenhower's budget cutting plans would put the government "right on the edge... very close" to balancing the budget. Mr. Eisenhower has said he wants a balanced budget "in sight" before taxes are cut. A major factor in cutting the military budget by about $5,000,000,000, it was said, lies in renewed emphasis on gearing defense to modern weapons, including long-range bombers and atomic weapons. The president himself threw out a broad hint of sharp spending cuts when he told the annual banquet ing that his overall figures are of trimming the huge defense budget was given. But it was indicated that the administration hopes for a cut of about $5,000,000,000 here. On foreign aid, it was said that Mr. Eisenhower will ask congress for $5,800,000,000 in additional funds next week. The Truman budget earmarked $7,600,000,000 (B) for foreign aid. Former President Truman's overall budget called for $72,900,000,000 in new appropriations. Mr. Truman's spending figure was $78,600,000,000. Mr. Eisenhower's proposed $8,400,000,000 cut was said to be on a basis of appropriation figures. It does not necessarily mean a commensurate cut in actual spending figures. The White House discussion was described as "preliminary" in nature and the President said he would call legislators back shortly for a more specific briefing. A major factor in cutting the military budget by about $5,000,000,000, it was said, lies in renewed emphasis on gearing defense to modern weapons, including long-range bombers and atomic weapons. The president himself threw out a broad hint of sharp spending cuts when he told the annual banquet of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce Wednesday night that he determined to give the country security "at the lowest possible cost" to clear the way for tax relief. But he emphasized that defense spending would "never" be cut below the safety point. Informants said the GOP administration had slashed more than $4,000,000,000 from the Defense Department budget and about $1,800,000,000 from the foreign-aid budget proposed to Congress by former President Truman for the year beginning July 1. Coupled with the $1,500,000,000 which the administration and Congress had previously trimmed from Truman budget proposals for other agencies, this would bring overall savings close to $7,500,000,000. Mr. Truman's budget called for total federal spending of $78,600,000,000 which would have put the government nearly 10 billion dollars in the red. The Truman budget earmarked $7,600,000,000 for foreign aid, $1,800,000,000 for the Defense Department, but estimated the department's actual spending at $4,500,000,000 with part of the money coming from past year's appropriations.

Two Others Damaged Trying To Halt Bombers

Sabres Score 3 MIG Kills

By ROBERT UDDICK United Press Staff Correspondent SEOUL, Korea (UP)—American Sabre jets destroyed or damaged five Communist MIG-15s today while hundreds of U. N. warplanes bombed North Korean military targets from the battlefield to the Yalu River. The Sabres shot down three MIGs which swarmed from Manchuria in a vain attempt to break up the Allied fighter-bomber formations. Two others were damaged. Capt. Manuel J. Fernandez Jr. of Miami, Fla., led the world's jet destruction record by shooting down his 12th MIG. He now shares the record honor with his former commanding officer, Col. Royal N. Baker of McKinney, Tex. The other two kills were credited to Maj. Clyde J. Wade of Johnson City, Tenn., and Capt. George P. Kelly III of Houston, Tex., and Col. John W. Mitchell of Enid, Okla. Relays of Shooting Stars dumped 26 bombs on a Red airfield at

Origin and thousand-pounders the length of another runway at Haeju. Forty-six Marine Corsairs concentrated on the Communists' main aviation supply artery, destroying 42 buildings at a troop concentration at Sariwon. South Korean Mustangs struck a transformer station at Poyong-gang and Thunder jets pounded troop concentrations 15 miles west of the Iron Triangle city. Sabre jet bombers and Panther jets pounded the Communists' "Great Wall" of fortifications in the three western sectors of the battlefield. Fernandez said he thought he shot down two other MIGs. If so, his score would surpass Baker's. But Fifth Air Force headquarters refused to allow Fernandez' 13th and 14th planes because the MIGs were not known to have crashed. The Superforts went through rain and heavy clouds to drop 140 tons of bombs on a 220-acre supply area at Songjong near the road the Communists used last week to retrain sick and wounded war prisoners. P-86 Sabre jet bombers scored 28 hits on an airfield near Sinmak and Thunder jets cut the main Communist rail artery to the western front in 14 places and scored hits on two highway bridges. Fernandez was in a flight of four Sabres that had crossed the Yalu River into northwestern Korea at a height of 40,000 feet. He fired a burst at 200 feet, hitting a MIG in the tailpipe and fuselage. The Red jet went straight down and exploded on the ground. "It was the roughest fight I ever had," he said. "There were tracers all around us and lead was flying hot. I made several violent evasive actions causing two of the MIGs to go into a spin. They started spinning about 43,000 feet and were still spinning at 15,000. I couldn't see what happened to them."

LaFayette Miller Again Awaiting Gas Chamber

Execution Scheduled For Tomorrow As Governor Refuses For Second Time To Spare His Life

RALEIGH (UP)—Negro LaFayette Miller will walk from a death row cell to the green-walled gas chamber in Central Prison here tomorrow to die for the shotgun slaying of a white Beaufort County farmer. A minister will visit the condemned 21-year-old Washington, N.C., Negro tonight and prison cooks will prepare his last meal. Chances of a last-hour commutation were almost eliminated as Gov. William B. Umstead refused for the second time a request to spare Miller's life. Herman Taylor, Miller's attorney who twice took the case to the U.S. Supreme Court, asked Umstead and Paroles Commissioner N. F. Ransell for clemency yesterday. Umstead said he could find "no just reason to intervene." Miller was convicted in Jan. 1952, in Beaufort County Superior Court, of the ambush slaying of Harvey C. Boyd, a young farmer. He was arrested several hours later by highway patrolmen who stopped him near Greenville because of his driving. The patrolmen found Boyd's pretty wife locked in the trunk of the car which belonged to Boyd. She was unharmed, although clad only in nightclothes and numb with cold and shock. At his trial Miller testified that Mrs. Boyd had shot her husband after trying to persuade him to do it. Miller, a paroled convict, had worked as a handyman near the Boyd home. Investigating officers refuted Miller's story, and a jury that included Negroes quickly convicted him. On the eve of Miller's execution a year ago a Wake County judge signed an order staying his execution to permit further review of the case by the courts.

May Agree On Neutral To Handle War Prisoners Allied Negotiators Hopeful

By LEROY HANSEN United Press Staff Correspondent PANMUNJOM — Informed sources indicated there is a good possibility that agreement can be reached today on a neutral nation to take charge of Communist war prisoners who refuse to go home if the Red negotiators will just quit stalling. The Reds were put on notice at yesterday's session to come back today prepared to buckle down to a serious effort to remove that stumbling block to an armistice. United Nations Chief Delegate Lt. Gen. William K. Harrison also told the Communists yesterday that the U. N. is not favorable to naming an Asian nation as the supervising neutral. But it was generally believed India might be accepted. What Harrison and his team want when they sit down with North Korean Gen. Nam Il and other Communist negotiators at 11 a. m. (10 p. m. Thursday, EDT) is some specific proposals rather than more lectures from the Red negotiators. Harrison has indicated the U. N. is willing to go along with some concessions on the length of time reluctant Red prisoners would be held in Korea while Communist salesmen attempt to convince them they should go back to their Red homelands. But he also said it is clear to the Reds that he is prepared to suspend the current terms of negotiations unless the Communists come up with some constructive proposals. Harrison did give the Reds one other alternative. He suggested sarcastically that the United Nations could handle the North Korean war prisoners in the same manner the Communists handled 50,000 South Koreans they had captured. The Reds, he recalled, "released" the South Koreans and promptly impressed them into the North Korean army. "They didn't seem overjoyed at the suggestion," Harrison grinned.

repatriated prisoners of war left for the United States aboard a Military Air Transport Service plane tonight on the second flight of the Army's freedom airlift. A MATS officer said the plane should reach Hickam Field, Honolulu, in about 12 hours provided the weather is favorable. Observers will put down at Midway. The officer said there were at least 41 returnees aboard the C-54 transport plane. The distance between Tokyo and Honolulu is about 4,600 miles and the total distance between Tokyo and Travis Air Force Base, Calif., the plane's ultimate destination 50 miles northeast of San Francisco, is 6,000 miles. The first freedom flight arrived at Travis yesterday. Its 35 passengers, nine of them litter cases, were weary but happy to be once again in the United States. Almost immediately they began scattering to their homes. TOKYO (UP)—More than 40

Group Scatters After Return To U.S. Former Prisoners Go Home

TRAVIS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (UP)—American soldiers and Marines liberated from Communist prison camps scattered to their homes and military hospitals over the country today on the last leg of the "Freedom Airlift." The 25 ex-prisoners, nine of them litter cases, arrived at this base 50 miles northeast of San Francisco Wednesday. After medical checkups, 21 of them were pronounced fit to go home on 30-day leave. The rest had to go to hospitals for immediate medical treatment. Seven were to go to hospitals near their homes where their families could visit them, but seven others had to go to hospitals possibly not near their homes for specialized treatment. The first returnee to leave for his home was Marine Pvt. Louis

A. Pumphrey, Cottontale, Ala. He left San Francisco Airport Wednesday night for Los Angeles and Birmingham. A number of other returnees also took night flights from San Francisco for various parts of the country. Two elected to see some of the city's famed night life. The men requiring hospital treatment were to leave this morning by Military Air Transport planes for various hospitals throughout the country. Meanwhile, it was announced in Tokyo that two planeloads of American ex-prisoners will leave for home late today and Friday. Sixty-three men will be on the flights. The first plane will leave at 7 p. m. (6 a. m. e.d.t.) and the second at 1:30 a. m. Friday (12:30 p. m. e.d.t.). In Honolulu, lei-makers were busy weaving another floral welcome for the second group. Mrs. Lena Querrero, whose husband went virtually unnoticed Wednesday when the first planeload came through, planned to have her hip-swinging girls on hand again. A spokesman at Tripler Army Hospital said the second contingent would be given the same treatment as the first—hot meals, baths, warm beds and medical examinations. Like 'Endorses' Young Candidate To Classmates b 24UP29 April 30 L0540a WASHINGTON (UP)—Frank Van Steenberg of Grand Rapids, Mich., got one of the biggest political plugs in recent history Wednesday night when President Eisenhower endorsed him publicly for president of the junior class at Georgetown University. The President visited Georgetown to speak before the U. S. Chamber of Commerce. In some mysterious manner unknown to the Secret Service or members of the Eisenhower staff, Van Steenberg got one of his political cards into the President's hands. "I do not want to break any local Hatch Act at Georgetown," Mr. Eisenhower said, "but I find here that Frank Van Steenberg wants to be president of the junior class, and if I were one-third my age I would vote for him,"

E. Merl Young Has Light Prison Term

WASHINGTON (UP)—E. Merl Young, key figure in mink coat scandals in the Reconstruction Finance Corp. investigation, was sentenced today to serve a prison term of four months to two years for lying to Senate investigators. Federal Judge Matthew F. Maguire turned down Young's plea for probation and ordered him committed to jail immediately. Young was convicted last month on four counts of perjury before a federal grand jury and a Senate banking subcommittee which investigated the RFC, the government's huge lending agency. Young was found guilty of lying when he said he had nothing to do with the granting of $10,000,000 loan to Lustron Corp., a now defunct, prefabricated housing manufacturer. Maguire said he believed the interest of justice would be served if Young serves his minimum sentence of four months. The same sentence was imposed on all four counts, to run concurrently. Young could have received sentences of two to 10 years on each count.

Grimesland Will Retain Electrical Lines Board Cancels Referendum

By JESS POINDEXTER Reflector City Editor GRIMESLAND — For the present, the town of Grimesland will retain its electrical lines and continue to buy current wholesale from the Greenville Utilities Commission. Meeting this week with a quorum present, the Board of Commissioners voted not to sell the Grimesland system at the present time. Following that action, the board called off a referendum to decide the issue set for next Monday, May 4. In remarking on the board's action, Mayor A.F. Fleming said the members present for the meeting took that stand on the matter because townspeople had not learned the true facts; "they have been misinformed." Decision Postponed The scheduled referendum now defunct was to have been held for the purpose of allowing the town voters to decide whether to sell the Grimesland system to Carolina Power and Light Company, or to retain ownership and continue to purchase power from Greenville. Mayor Fleming said only three members of the five-man town board were present at the meeting to confer with officials of CP and L. Those present — in addition to the mayor — were commissioners Leslie Elks, Raymond Elks and Charlie Evans. Absent were T.R. Rouse and Elmore Hodges. "I'll admit we are violating terms of the Greenville contract in that we are selling current in Chocowinity at a retail rate cheaper than prevails on the Greenville system,"

Mayor Fleming stated. "We are being forced to do that because Washington is moving into our service area at cheaper rates than we had." Discrimination Charged In addition, the mayor declared there is discrimination relative to tapping or connecting fees. He explained that in and around Grimesland customers are charged a tapping fee of $75, while in the Chocowinity area new customers are connected without charge. "I don't think that's fair to customers on other sections of our lines," he asserted. But the mayor said he didn't know who put that policy into effect, although he admitted that it had been established during the present town administration — during the last two years. Back in Greenville, Utilities Supt. Martin Swartz stated that if the referendum had been called off he assumes that Greenville will continue to sell power at wholesale rates to the town of Grimesland. As far as the reported contract violation goes, Swartz said, nothing can be done if they single out individuals to be awarded rate decreases. "If the overall rate schedule there should be changed, that would be another matter."

Mayor Fleming admitted that the bond issue was for $20,000, but he denied that all except $1,000 has been retired. "That statement by Rouse was wrong," he declared, "in reality we owe $2,000 on the bonds." He also denied that bonds previously retired have been paid for entirely from electrical revenues derived from current sales during the last few years. "When the bonds were issued we had $8,000 in cash and $5,000 in government bonds," he emphasized. "Much of the money that went toward retiring bonds in 1953 came from money the town already had before the bonds were issued." Release Figure Set A Grimesland delegation appeared before the Greenville Utilities Commission earlier this month and requested the commission to set a specific sum the town might pay to be released from its electrical contract, provided the voters approved selling the Grimesland lines to CP and L. Superintendent Swartz was authorized to set a figure and he announced that the commission should receive $4,500 for money expended in strengthening lines to provide Grimesland with current. "Yesterday, the mayor said the board has voted not to sell the lines until the matter is cleared up. Robert Vogeler Heads List Of Executive Club's Guest Speakers

Robert A. Vogeler, American businessman who was held a prisoner of the communists by the Hungarian government for 17 months, will head the list of outstanding speakers who will appear before the Pitt County Executives club on the 1953-54 programs. President Karl B. Pace announced today Vogeler will be the first of six speakers on the Executives Club program this fall and will speak here at the meeting of the club October 20. Vogeler was vice president and European representative of the International Telephone and Telegraph corporation, and was the first American arrested and sentenced by the communist Hungarian court. He was sentenced to 15 years in prison, but was freed 17 months later on April 28, 1951 after prolonged negotiations between the United States and Hungary. Vogeler's topic when he speaks to the local Executives Club will be "The American Way Versus the Foreign Way." Michael Fielding, expert on international relations and international affairs, will address the club on "Victory Without War" in which he will discuss international happenings as they pertain to Europe, Asia and the United States. Fielding has traveled extensively in both Europe and the Far East, and insists emphatically that World War III is not inevitable. George Bailey, a noted entertainer will add a dash of laughter to the Executives Club program this year with his address and show devoted to sheer escapism or relief from the problems of living. "T.W. 'Buckshot' Lane, sheriff for 18 years of Wharton County, Texas whose deeds have been written up in Saturday Evening Post, Time Magazine and illustrated in Life, will address the club with a talk entitled "Law Enforcement Buckshot Style." No Yug Pank, native of the Far East who has lived and traveled extensively in the Orient, also will address the Executives club, and the year's program will be rounded out by an address of a "flying reporter" whose name will be announced at a later date. Officials of the local executives club urged members of the club who have not yet paid their dues for the coming year to do so in the near future.

New European Defense Concept Said Welcomed By NATO Body

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Eisenhower administration's plan to get more security for fewer foreign aid dollars calls for increased reliance on air power and secret new types of atomic weapons to defend Western Europe, informed sources reported today. Administration informants said European allies welcomed the plan after it had been thoroughly explained at last week's North Atlantic Treaty meeting in Paris. The new strategic concept will be reflected in an administration foreign aid request of about $5,800,000,000 for the 1954 fiscal year beginning July 1, a cut of $1,800,000,000 from the Truman administration's spending plans.

In a radio-television report to the nation Wednesday night, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said the United States and its allies at Paris "put our emphasis on getting greater strength by less costly methods." "This can be done by improving quality, rather than by seeking an immediate large increase in quantity," Dulles added. "At the same time there will be a big lift in NATO's combat effectiveness. You can figure this to be as much as 30 per cent this year." Dulles said the new Eisenhower foreign aid program looks to the time when U. S. allies in Europe can "throw away the crutch" of relying on U. S. aid grants. He said the administration "believes that this is becoming increasingly possible." The secretary said that at the Paris NATO talks "much thought was given to new tactical weapons and to the increased power which they can give to the defense of Europe." "In these matters" is starting an apparent reference to secret briefings received by some NATO staff officers at Oberammergau, Germany, on tactical use of A-bombs. Dulles also warned the Soviet Union that the United States "could not and would not sit idly by in the face" of an attack on Europe. While Europe is not yet fully secure, he added that "it is no longer a pushover."

After a delicious barbecued chicken luncheon, business was transacted. The club congratulated Mrs. J. B. Kittrell on her recent appointment to the Consolidated University Board of Trustees. She will attend an orientation program at Chapel Hill beginning May 12th and will visit the different universities. Mrs. Haywood Dail presented an interesting program on North Carolina's Outer Banks. She described the "thin string of islands and sandbars," storied land of sand and surf, of storm and shipwreck, and of isolation from the bustling mainland, bounding North Carolina's 320 mile coastline.

"Outer Banks is made up of small villages. We particularly think of Kitty Hawk and Roanoke Island, well known for the Wright Brothers' first flight, and Paul Green's symphonic drama "The Lost Colony."

"The National Park Service is planning for a National Seashore Park along the Outer Banks and the state plans a smaller park at Hatteras."

"Fishing here has almost become a fabulous sport. With the comfortable little hotels now at the different villages one can reach the Outer Banks easily by air, bus or car and enjoy the unhurried life of these people who for centuries have held that tide is more important than time."

Mrs. Massie Scott was a guest of the club.

TWO FACADES for one plan, this design lends itself to masonry or frame construction. The brick front (SR60) shown at the top varies only slightly in roof line and window treatment from the frame exterior (SR61). Either house can be built without basement by relocating the rear bedroom's closets and using the stairway space shown in this plan for a heater room. These designs are by Elmer Gyllick, architect, 191 So. Grove Ave., Elgin, Ill.

In either version the house covers only 1,176 square feet without porch and garage, which are estimated separately. With only two bedrooms, the house is designed primarily for the small family.

Ayden Goes Over Quota In County Cancer Drive

Cancer crusade officials reported today that Ayden has gone over the quota set for the town in this year's drive and that the house-to-house solicitation in Greenville Monday night was a success.

Officials said Ayden has gone over its quota by more than $72.00 and Greenville women surpassed their quota in a drive in Greenville the first of the week.

A quota of $450 had been set for the town of Ayden and under the leadership of Frances Hart and the Ayden Woman's Club the amount collected totaled $522.25. Last year following the death of one of its younger citizens, the community donated $200 to the Pitt Cancer Society as a memorial.

Ayden is the second town in the county other than Greenville to go over its quota. Officials reported last week that Winterville made its quota.

As a result of the house-to-house drive staged in Greenville Monday night, the solicitors netted $1,250, which is $50.00 over the quota. First reports said the amount collected was $1,100 but the final tabulation returned a much higher figure. E. R. Conway, Jr., city manager of the cancer crusade, said he was very pleased with the results.

More than 150 women in the city took part in the drive Monday night, distributing literature on cancer in addition to accepting donations.

It was also announced today by cancer officials that Jack Warren has been named head of the drive in Belvoir and J. B. Congleton, Jr., will take leadership in the crusade at Stokes.

Traffic Deaths Continue To Rise

CHICAGO (UP)—The National Safety Council reported today that traffic deaths for the first three months of the year increased 4 per cent.

Total highway fatalities were 8,310 for the first three months. The Council said that if deaths continue at the current rate, the total for the year would approach the record 39,969 in 1941.

Deaths in March alone totaled 2,840, also a 4 per cent increase over March of last year, the Council said.

It said, however, that mileage appears to have increased slightly more than the number of deaths, making for a "favorable" mileage death rate.

For March, 327 cities reported no fatalities. The three largest were Oakland, Calif., with a population of 284,600; Honolulu, T. H., 236,100, and Worcester, Mass., 203,500.

For the three-month period, 210 cities had perfect records. The three largest were Berkeley, Calif., 113,800; Wilmington, Del., 110,400, and Utica, N. Y., 101,500.

Baseball Games Opened To Club

East Carolina Pirate Club membership cards will be honored as admission to all of the Pirates' remaining home baseball games played on the field at the college.

The announcement was made this morning by Dr. N. M. Jorgensen, director of athletics at East Carolina College.

The athletic director said there are still quite a number of games on the Pirate schedule, many of them on Wednesday afternoon. "This is another way we can show our appreciation of the already excellent support being given the Pirates Club membership drive," stated Dr. Jorgensen.

"We have a good ball club, and so far this year, we have lost only three conference games and we are now in second place standing," he stated.

E. E. Rawl Sr., chairman of the Pirates Club membership drive which started Tuesday, said reports from committeemen show that a very fine reception is being given. "Several firms have not waited for the committeemen to call, but have called up and requested as many as 20 memberships," said Rawl. He said there have been several requests for ten and many for four to six.

"It will be very difficult to see everyone, there just aren't enough people," stated Rawl, "but it would be appreciated if those who wish membership would address their request to the East Carolina Pirates Club in care of the Daily Reflector or the college."

Rawl said requests would be handled promptly.

Not Too Fast With This Dollar Warfare

What effect this new "dollar warfare" begun by the United States is going to have in Korea remains to be seen.

Chances are the first $100,000 offer made by General Mark W. Clark for a Russian-built MIG will have the desired effect in time. But before the theme is broadened, it should be carefully weighed and carefully examined.

Money is more plentiful in the United States than in any other nation in the world. Here, just as in other places, life revolves around money. Practically everything which is done is sooner or later calculated in monetary value.

There is no question that a MIG delivered into Allied hands in Korea would be worth $100,000 to the United Nations' prosecution of the war. It would be a great help to the United States—far more than could be calculated even in the hundreds of thousands of dollars. The plane itself is worth more than the $100,000 at face value. There is no tangible way to measure the psychological effect the offer will have on the communist flyers who are taking part in the war.

The cash offer for a jet plane has been followed by a proposal by some exponents of psychological warfare that we buy off the communist army in Korea at $5,000 a soldier by making a cash offer in that amount to all communist soldiers who will desert to Allied lines. Such a program, in our opinion, would be carrying the dollar warfare too far.

There are many things which can be bought with money; but there are others that can not.

For half a century, more or less, the United States has tried to purchase international friendships with dollars. In some instances we have succeeded, but in others we have failed. In many cases we are not sure just what the results are because the dollars have not ceased to flow from the United States to other individual nations since the dollar diplomacy began.

We could probably buy a good many communist soldiers for $5,000 apiece—some say we could buy them for $100 each. But if we did, we could rest assured those same purchased soldiers we got for $5,000 would probably turn around and cut our collective throats for a lot less than that amount if such an offer were subsequently made by another source.

A defeated communist will be much more prone to listen to reason than one who has collected $5,000 for going through the motions of laying down his rifle.

National Whirligig

WASHINGTON—In Leonard Wood Hall, President Eisenhower and the Grand Old Party believe they have found the James Aloysius Farley they have lacked during 20 years of political depression. In view of their slender House-Senate margins, they need a national chairman of his type for the 1954 Congressional campaign.

Unlike many of his stiff and stuffy predecessors, he is likable, personable and practical. He knows his politics from the sometimes dingy district clubhouse to the Capitol.

He knows that national elections are won by performing small favors and ringing humble doorbells as well as by the nomination of popular candidates on appealing issues. Few politicians ever learn that elementary lesson.

HALL'S BACKGROUND—It will not hurt him that he is a political descendant of the Republican branch of the Roosevelt family.

His given name is that of T.R.'s military superior and Party pal—the late General Leonard Wood. He represented the seat in the New York Assembly in which T.R. began his career. Their home, Oyster Bay, on heavily Republican Long Island, has no resemblance to New York's brassy political system. He is a small-town boy who made good in big-time politics.

No National Chairman in modern history has had such a rich political background. He has been successful at low and high levels. He has been a Town Chairman, State Assemblyman, Sheriff, Surrogate, Representative, major headquarters operator in four Presidential campaigns, and, finally, Chairman of the National Republican Congressional Committee.

IKE'S CHOICE—Although Speaker Martin first sponsored Hall for National Chairman, he also was Eisenhower's personal choice. In a remarkably candid Senate offering, Senator Mundt of South Dakota, who served in the House with Hall, furnished some inside history on the Long Island man's selection.

"Hall was not popular with Governor Dewey or with Russell Sprague, New York National Committeeman," according to the comment Mundt inserted in the Congressional Record. "But when the President named his man, they had to comply, the blow to their pride being softened, no doubt, by the consolation of having the disposal of Hall's job as Surrogate."

Hall gave up this lucrative post to serve as National Chairman without pay.

1954 CONGRESSIONAL CAMPAIGN—Hall's success with the Congressional Committee, continued Mundt in another unusually frank outburst. "His firm admirably for the next big test—the Congressional campaign of 1954."

"Senator Taft has summed up the requirements for victory then as a good record by the President and Congress, good means of publicizing the record, and a big vote."

"The first of these tasks is up to President Eisenhower, Senator Taft and their colleagues. The second and part of the third are up to Hall. The other part of getting going is up to all of us."

Mundt is a Taft man!

HALL'S MANAGEMENT—National Chairman Hall made a hit with Eisenhower, as well as with the politicians and the press, by his management of the Presidential campaign train and tour last year. He kept everybody as happy and comfortable as it is possible to be in such an emotional and physical endurance test.

He saw that the train stopped on time and at the right spot for Ike's platform talk. He funneled the important bigwigs into Eisenhower's presence, and spared him the minor pests. When the loudspeaker crew were missing, he rigged up the apparatus himself.

He kept the correspondents well informed. Most importantly, perhaps, he wangled shower baths for them in a display of thoughtfulness that exceeded the call of duty. It will be hard for anybody to dislike him.

Courting Is Tough Enough

Somebody Told Me

By T. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

Consider yourself notified: When the East Carolina Pirates open their football season there will be 1300 new seats in the stadium! Why am I so sure? For the simple reason that as E. Rawl Sr. of Carolina Sales Corporation is one of the best promoters in this part of the country—and he is heading up the drive.

Furthermore, the plan this year for raising the money is very appealing to the one who pays! Instead of donating, you buy! For a $15 membership to the East Carolina Pirates Club you get a season ticket of your choice (South Side) for five home games, a pass to five immediately to all ECC baseball games, plus an attractive membership plaque for your store window and a similar deal for your car window. Each says he'll put 1300 seats in there before the fall, because the last Pirate Club member is furnished a pocket membership card.

When you buy a membership to this club you walk away with a handful of paper that really means something! In addition, you get the refusal of tickets to any athletic event for a period of 20 days before they go on sale to the public. This privilege prevails as long as you remain in the club. Renewal memberships are $10 a year.

Some people laughed at E. E. Rawl in 1948 when he told them that he was going to form a committee that would raise $25,000 for a college stadium. Yet, we have enjoyed football from that very field for the past several years. Don't laugh when Mr. Rawl laugh will be on you. Everything is getting more competitive all the time. Realizing this, Promoter Rawl really has a product to sell instead of seeking donations. He has the same committee that raised the $25,000 in 1948.

The most appealing thing about this drive to me is that the head of the Physical Education Department, N. M. Jorgensen, believes that the scholarship fund can be supported from gate receipts with the addition of 1300 more seats. It would be dangerous to say that this is a drive to end all drives, but it might well be. The second best feature of the drive, with 1300 more seats we can offer bigger guarantees to visiting teams and have better football to watch!

And I thank you.

Around Capitol Square

By LYNN NISBET

LOVE FEASTS — Monday night in the Senate and Tuesday night in the House the legislators staged their biennial love feasts. These session-end events are always high spots of the General Assembly, affording as they do opportunity for the fellows to say nice things about each other, and sometimes to get in some pretty mean digs under the cloak of humor. Fake bills and resolutions, emphasizing in caricature and burlesque the outstanding traits of certain members are often funny, but sometimes have a sting.

GIFTS — There are usually exchanged toy gifts having the same purpose as the fake bills. Then the serious part of the program is featured by the giving of really handsome and expensive gifts to officers and employees of the General Assembly. Silver services, chest of silver, luggage, watches, pens and pencil sets, and such like are purchased by "assessing" the members the necessary amount. In a few instances the assessment may be burdensome, but ten or fifteen bucks apiece for 170 members will buy a right smart of presents. The speaker of the House has only one chance at the love feast loot, the president of the Senate has two chances. Some of the clerks and other veteran employees have had many years service and have been on the receiving end often enough to have almost a jewelry store stock of fine wares. In fact, the promoters of the party experience difficulty in selling something they haven't got.

SINCERE — Behind the burlesque and the gifts is a sincere appreciation on part of the members of the general integrity and ability of their colleagues. It would be hard to think of a situation in which 150 people, many of them strangers to each other, when the session began, can get more thoroughly acquainted than in a term of the General Assembly. If there is bigness or littleness in a man, three months in the House will bring it out. Conditions are such that even the biggest will show occasional streaks of smallness, and there is none but what rises at times to real bigness.

PERSPECTIVE — It is written into the constitution of North Carolina and accepted as fact by all citizens familiar with governmental processes, that the General Assembly is the big boss of the State. The Legislature has the power to do almost anything it wants to do respecting regulation of the conduct of the people, within the limits of constitutional guarantees, which admittedly are somewhat vague. So it is quite natural that members of the General Assembly and news reporters assigned to report its doings might have a very restricted view and a biased opinion about its relative importance in the overall scheme of things. Fact is, that except for legislators and their intimate associates, state officials and others closely associated with legislative processes, the comings and goings and day by day actions of the General Assembly are taken in stride as more or less inconsequential incidents. The broader perspective of activities relegating the General Assembly to a much less important position than those around Raleigh accord it.

INTERESTS — Take the item of municipal elections in more than 300 cities and towns. These elections are held pursuant to laws enacted by the General Assembly. The municipalities themselves are creatures of the Legislature. Those facts are overlooked in the stress of local politics, and thousands of people have been more concerned the past few days about who will be mayor or councilman than about what the lawmakers at Raleigh have done or may do. Promoters of the several outdoor dramas to be given in North Carolina this summer are interested, of course, in the proposals to legislative appropriations, but far more concerned about casting and training those who will take part in the presentations. Operators of recreational facilities and vacation housing are so busy getting ready for a record-breaking season they seldom remember that a legislature is sitting in Raleigh.

SECONDARY — Even the newspapers which have made so much ado about the secrecy laws, and which give much editorial page space to the effects of specific legislation on various matters, have largely relegated the General Assembly to inside pages. The exchange of war prisoners in Korea is a more important news story. But for real indifference go to the farm and the small town. It takes only a few minutes to discover that blue mold and frost and diseases in farm animals and the shortage of farm labor and the fact that more farmers are requiring borrowed money earlier than usual to make the crop, but anything the legislature might do or fail to do in secondary place. It makes a lot of difference to the members and a good deal to the Raleigh hotels about when the General Assembly will adjourn, but the lack of interest in the matter throughout the state is not flattering to the ego of the legislators.

POTPOURRI — All motor trucks fared pretty well at hands of this Legislature, but at least

What Other Papers Are Thinking

THAT AMMUNITION SHORTAGE (Wilson Times)

The bigger you become the less efficient you are. That became patent the other day when some Senators were trying to find out if an ammunition shortage really did exist in Korea. And those Senators discovered that as many as 42 separate agencies had to be cleared by more than 200 persons before a contract could be let. They found, moreover, that papers had to travel an estimated 10,000 miles and that generally nine months elapsed after the contract was let before the ammunition was delivered. In such circumstances, was it any wonder that our boys in Korea were short?

But that's only a part of the inefficiency. The Pentagon has frequently submitted two sets of figures where the discrepancies have run as much as half a billion. Can there be any excuse for that? And isn't it about time we cut much of the red tape and insist that the figures line up? Naturally the Pentagon thinks it's doing an excellent job, but can it possibly be efficient? At some point bigness grows into that. It's been demonstrated in many of our industrial plants. Why, then, can't we reduce those who work in the Pentagon to an efficient size?

Senator Harry F. Byrd of Virginia characterized the situation as "colossal." Perhaps that about sizes it up. For it is so colossal that it's no longer efficient. The army has always possessed too much red tape. But the bigger that army grows, the more the investigation unearths much the other day. Others, if they were conversant with what was going on, could probably find enough duplication to cut the force considerably. But the army, as we've seen, doesn't work that way. It never gives a job to one man if it has two available.

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER
Business is increasingly seeking greater support of its products by encouraging purchases by workers, suppliers and business associates.

Newest idea in this trend was by a firm that offered its product to stockholders at a reduced rate. Another firm, Stokely-Van Camp, asks stockholders to make calls on food retailers to urge use of the company's May Basket promotion. Others connected with the firm are encouraged to do the same.

Even stockholder reports are employed to further promoting the company's products or services. The New York Central, in a prominent position in its report, "welcomes shareholder assistance in increasing traffic, which in turn makes for greater earnings."

The American Safety Razor Corp. says in its annual report, "You can help us by encouraging the purchase and use of our brands. They are moderately priced and of highest quality." This appeal makes considerable sense as a way of achieving higher sales because it is readily acceptable by people or businesses that have an interest in an individual company.

Actual purchases are only one thing that can be done in this line. Those with some kind of interest in the company can be encouraged to sell their friends and associates on the company and its products. Requesting name-brand products will often lead a retail outlet to stock them.

The principle can be applied to materials suppliers as well as to retail goods and service industries—though not as easily. Disseminating information about components of finished products to attract shareholders of firms making those components is more difficult. Few note what manufacturer made their car, their shoes or the mill that made the fabric in a suit they buy.

A good example of what can be done, however, is U.S. Steel's campaign of heavy advertising and extensive labeling to identify its steel in consumer products.

FARMERS SPEND LESS ON CLOTHES
The degree at which farm families buy less clothing, and at lower prices, than city families, is disclosed in a study by the U.S. Department of Agriculture. The amount of clothes purchased by husbands in farm families was 76 per cent of that purchased by husbands in city families. Farm wives bought 31 per cent less than their urban counterparts.

parts. Differences between clothing purchased for children in the two groups were not as marked, with farm boys getting 20 per cent less and farm girls getting 21 per cent less.

Unit prices for clothing for farm husbands were 18 per cent under city husbands; for farm wives, 39 per cent. Differences between prices paid for farm children's and city children's clothing were less than differences between those paid by farm and city families for adults' clothing.

THE MOUNTAIN TO MOHAMMED
Special branch plants located next door to industrial customers are being planned by a plastic packaging manufacturer (Tri-State Plastic Molding Co.).

The company offers to set up facilities near purchasers who have large orders and who will guarantee one year's work. This is possible, the firm reports, because of the high mobility of the machinery used for molding all-plastic packaging and plastic closures and because labor can be hired and trained locally in a short time.

The service is offered mainly to reduce shipping and warehousing costs of volume users.

SALES TAX RISE SMALL IN 1953
The slower increase in sales tax revenues reported by the Federation of Tax Administrators may cause many states to worry.

According to the Federation, sales revenues are being affected by "an easing of the inflationary pressures and the acceleration of the rearmament program." Revenues of 28 of 31 states with sales taxes increased 5.8 per cent last year compared with an increase of 13 per cent the previous year.

Sales taxes make up a large part of the income of many states and a leveling off of revenues would force those with large budgets to go out and hustle for new sources of income—a very difficult thing to find these days—or do some serious restricting of new expenditures.

SCHOLARS BRING $3,000 A HEAD
The price of prime-grade, entrance college graduates has gone up.

"Bonus" for colleges have joined—scholarships, high wages, special benefits and recreation teams as a method of obtaining qualified graduates for industry. Bethlehem Steel Co. will donate $3,000 to 45 colleges for each graduate of the college who is hired and remains with the company for four months.

Hal Boyle's Column

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—You think it's hard to find a good baby sitter today?

Well, here is the way the problem will probably size up by 1960. Joe McFarb and his wife, Mary Ann, decide to take a night off from parenthood and go out and see a movie. But who will stay home and watch little Junior? Joe calls up the Happy Home Baby Sitting Agency, and the conversation runs as follows:

Joe—I would like a good baby sitter for tonight, and—
Agency—For tonight? Are you kidding? We are booked up through the spring and summer. How about next fall?

Joe—I don't know what movie will be showing next fall. Mary Ann and I want to see the one that's on tonight. Maybe you'll have a cancellation.

Agency—We don't like to do business on an emergency basis. Usually our sitters insist on having met our clients socially to be sure they are proper people. They can't afford to get mixed up with the wrong crowd.

Joe—Look, I'm in a real spot. Can't you help a fellow?
Agency—It's against the rules, but I'll try to speed up the formalities.

Joe humbly—Gee, thanks, what do I have to do?
Agency—Well, you and your wife and son had better drop down to our office at once. Bring along a recent photo of your home. We will also need a letter of credit from your bank, and a character testimonial from your pastor.

Joe (dazedly)—That'll do.
Agency—No, we'll have to have a copy of your son's latest school report card, an estimate of his personality by his teacher, and a certificate from a doctor stating he is free from contagious diseases. We also require written permission for us to consult your family psychiatrist if you get his opinion on the status of any unresolved conflicts within your home?

Joe (weakly)—Is that all?
Agency—Well, of course, naturally we are prepared to pay our usual limousine costs for picking up your sitter and co-sitter and returning them to their home. They will expect a hot meal on their arrival, and refreshments in your refrigerator in case they should wish to entertain a few friends while on duty. It goes without saying that your television set must be in perfect condition.

Joe—Wait a minute. You lost me. What is this business about a co-sitter?
Agency—All baby sitters today insist on bringing a co-sitter along for company. You know, like airplane pilots do.

Joe—How much is all this going to cost me?
Agency—Our minimum fee is $75, but right now we aren't taking on any more of these charity cases.

Joe—Look, mister, all I want is some nice silderly lady who knows about kids and would like to pick up maybe $5 watching little Junior for us while we take in a movie. Don't you know of any baby sitters like that?
Agency—I do. We had one like her and made the mistake of selling her to a museum that wanted to preserve her for historical purposes. Well?

Joe—Look, mister, I want to make you a proposition. To heck with the movie. What I want to know is, if I shoot Junior, can Mary Ann and I go to work for you as baby sitters?

Agency—You can, but be quick. I've got four jobs waiting for you right now. All high class.

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON—Ulla Dressbach hated the Hitler youth organization, Reichsarbeitsdienst, and for drafted her into a uniform and ordered her to work on a farm. "But although I hated the camp, I got interested in agriculture," she told me. "Later, when I told my father, he was so happy because I didn't want to be a movie star that he found a farm where I could get apprentice-training to enter the agricultural course at Bonn University."

After three years at the University, work on small farm publications and special training in home economics, she rose to her present job with the Federal Institute for Farm and Home Economics Extension Information, now getting ready to start departments of agricultural journalism at seven German universities.

Miss Dressbach, 28, sporty and savvy, little Dutch-bobbed blonde, who looks like a school girl in her trim, American-style plaid suit and flat-heeled slippers, is one of seven West Germans now in this country studying American methods of keeping farmers informed of latest agricultural research.

The daughter of a former newspaperman, now director of the Essen Chamber of Commerce, Miss Dressbach said she'd been trying for three years to get to the U.S. She said she knew she'd make it if she was "determined enough." The current project is sponsored by the Mutual Security Agency's productivity and technical assistance program. She has been talking to editors and writers of farm publications, Department of Agriculture people and county agents.

"Farm women in Germany need so badly to know about new methods," she said. "We are trying to get various groups to cooperate with our efforts to educate farm people to read our bulletins and pamphlets, which are like those put out in this country."

"We have to learn things too," she said. "Germans tend to be too serious and we're in love with long complicated sentences. We have to learn to be more informal and to speak the farmer's language."

Young people in Germany are leading the way in the new educational program, she added, but the older women are interested in home improvement.

"I had a chance to see some American homes," she said. "The women are very good housekeepers. They do everything for themselves, cook, re-upholster furniture, paint, build shelves, make their own clothes—and the equipment in American kitchens is beyond belief."

Starts Business Today European 'Steel Pool'

By PHIL NEWBOM
United Press Foreign News Editor

The European steel pool opens for business today in Luxembourg. It's the Macy's of the steel world, or Florida selling out to California.

It makes partners of the former fiercely competitive French and German steel industries, with four of the smaller shops along the block — Italy, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg — joining up as junior partners.

A fellow on the other side of the street was threatening all of them.

The Soviet Union, in the past 23 years, has boosted its steel production a startling 700 per cent—longer will be able to prevent competition of cheaper or better goods from neighboring states.

All this, a part of the Schuman plan which already has merged West Europe's coal production, will result in what the founders promise will be greater productivity, lower prices, higher wages, more jobs and greater prosperity for all.

To that end, at midnight tonight, all the age-old customs barriers erected by West Europe's major steel producers to protect their product and all the double pricing arrangements and discriminatory transportation rates in the six countries will end.

As with most partnerships, it's not all smooth sailing.

The senior partners, in particular, are not entirely agreed on policy. Talks for instance.

France collects a 4 per cent sales tax on her steel now.

West Germany, supported by Italy, insists that such a sales tax should be collected only in the state where the steel is produced. France and the Benelux countries think it should be collected where the steel is sold.

The West German proposal would mean that German steel would undersell French steel in France. The French proposal would price German steel out of the French market.

Such feuding, of course, could wreck the partnership. But Jean Monnet, chief economic planner of France for four years and president of the steel pool, thinks it will work out.

And there are those who believe the steel pool will prove that there is hope for the dream of eventual full federation of European nations.

Street Cisterns Have Passed On

NEW BEDFORD, Mass. (AP)—New England cities no longer have cisterns at street intersections to help fight fire. But Walter A. Luce of New Bedford, remember when they were found in some New England cities. In the days of the New Bedford remembers when pumpers they furnished a source of water.

New Bedford lost her cisterns, Luce says, when a steam roller was used to install modern paving. The supports of the cisterns could not hold the weight of the roller which fell into a cistern.

Safety Lights On Messina Straits

REGGIO CALABRIA, Italy (AP)—Crafty old Ulysses, who used to loath the area, would find something reassuring these days about the Straits of Messina. Once upon a time Scylla and Charybdis used to hang out here, one on each side.

Modern man is putting something between them, however — a string of electric lights. They will stretch from the mainland city of Reggio, across the two miles of these fabled straits, to the Sicilian city of Messina.

The lights, are only incidental to an ambitious project to carry electric energy produced in southern Italy to power-starved Sicily. Supported by two of Europe's highest-towers, two huge cables are being stretched across the straits several hundred feet above the sea.

Lights are placed on the cables at regular intervals so airplanes won't find the straits as menacing as Ulysses did.

Corn from the 1953 crop will be supported at $1.58 per bushel.

Army Locomotive Said Versatile

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. (AP)—The U.S. Army has a diesel-electric type of locomotive equipped to run on foreign as well as domestic sized tracks. The American Locomotive and General Electric companies will have delivered 83 of these units before the end of the year — to undisclosed Army-designated points.

The wheels can be adjusted on the axles to fit the extra-wide tracks found on many railroads overseas. In addition, the new type of locomotive can operate in temperatures as low as 65 degrees below zero.

For wide tracks the change is made by adjustment of the wheels in different positions on the axles.

Over 1,000 F-84 Jets Shipped To European Allies

PARIS (UP)—More than 1,000 fighter planes capable of carrying atom bombs have been given to nine Atlantic Pact allies by the United States reliable sources disclosed today.

They are battle tested Republic F-84 Thunderjets, Model G, which the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission now includes on its list of planes capable of carrying out an atomic mission.

The F-84's are now equipping fighter wings in nine allied nations: France, Belgium, the Netherlands, Italy, Denmark, Norway, Greece, Turkey and Portugal. An additional wing of U. S. F-84's "equipped for nuclear operations" is based in England.

The force of potential atomic carriers built up over the past year represents nearly 30 per cent of the combat aircraft now at the disposal of Supreme Allied Commander Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway.

The F-84's can fly at more than 600 miles an hour and with their range of 2,000 miles can strike 1,000 miles behind the Iron Curtain from bases in Germany and return.

They can also be flown from bases farther west, beyond striking distance of Russia's German-based MIG-15's, and be refueled in flight over Germany. The airborne tankers can be shielded from the Soviet jets during the fueling operation by American and Canadian F-86 Sabrejets flying cover overhead.

Special College Qualification Test Approved By Selective Service Body

Selective Service National Headquarters announced today that it has authorized a special administration of the College Qualification Test on Thursday, May 31, 1953 for the benefit of students prevented by illness or other emergency from attending one of the regular administrations on December 4, 1952, and April 28, 1953. May 31 is the last date upon which the College Qualification Test will be held during the present academic year.

The test will be administered at East Carolina College on the specified date. Dr. Hazel Taylor, director of the psychology department, director of testing at East Carolina, will be in charge. Information may be obtained from her or from Dean Leo W. Jenkins of the college.

Although applications postmarked May 11, 1953, or earlier will be accepted, students wishing to apply are urged to secure, complete, and mail their applications at once. Early filing will insure a test and other necessary supplies for the at a nearby center, according to Educational Testing Service, which prepares and administers the College Qualification Test.

For City Council

Wants Your Vote May 5th

Wants Your Vote

In this brief space I shall endeavor to touch upon some of the issues that are of deep interest and concern to all of us at this time, and to give a few reasons why I feel justified in asking for your support in the City-Council election May 5.

As a candidate for the office of councilman for the city, I have pledged myself to work diligently for continued progress and for efficient, progressive and IMPARTIAL municipal government for Greenville.

In the election of January 12, the citizens of Greenville expressed their preference for the Council-Manager form of government, and that form of government has my wholehearted support. In the interest of the best possible government, the city should have a trained, experienced city manager, and if a member of the city council, I shall endeavor to see that such a trained qualified man is hired as city manager of Greenville.

Greenville's government is a business which spends a half million dollars a year of taxpayer's money. It is big business and should be operated on sound business principles. Careful and long range planning must be applied to city improvements if the maximum benefit is to be received by the citizens for each dollar spent, and I shall strive to see that such planning is done for the city of Greenville.

I believe it is the duty and responsibility of a city to plan for its children and their future; by providing them with adequate schools, recreational facilities and other wholesome community influences. I shall endeavor to see that Greenville continues to progress in these phases of local government activities. Engineers already have prepared adequate projected plans for recreation facilities for both white and Negro citizens of Greenville, and I believe the facilities should be provided as rapidly as sound financial arrangements will permit.

I believe immediate consideration should be given the traffic and parking problems which confront the city of Greenville, looking toward an adequate and workable solution to the present situation.

In this campaign I have made but one promise. It applies equally to every citizen of Greenville. If elected I shall give my best and most conscientious service to see that Greenville has efficient, progressive and IMPARTIAL city government. I hold and shall continue to hold an open mind on all public issues, shall listen with respect and due consideration to opinions on both sides of every question, and after careful examination of all available information I shall cast a well informed vote in all matters concerning the city of Greenville; a vote which shall be in the best interest of the citizens of Greenville as a whole.

Your Vote And Support Will Be Appreciated

Pirates Blast High Point 17-6 For Conference Win

Rabbit Ball Back In Major Leagues

By JIMMY ELLIS
Reflector Sports Editor

East Carolina College's rampaging Pirates made High Point College the victim of their latest assault as they climbed all over the Panthers for a 17-6 victory yesterday on the ECC diamond.

The Pirates, who won a 23-hit, 17-3 decision from Corning, N.Y., Monday night, rapped out 30 hits yesterday in support of righthander Ted Barnes. Barnes himself had a big hand in the slugfest with a single, a double, and a bases-empty home run but the real stars at the plate were Major Hooper, Paul Jones, and Gaither Cline.

Hooper, a slender outfielder, got a triple and three singles plus a walk in his five trips to the plate. Jones, the shortstop, drew two singles, a double, and a triple in his four official trips while Cline, the slugger on the squad, rapped out three two-base hits.

Big Hits

Hooper, Cline, Jones, Barnes, and W. C. Sanderson all came through with big hits in the first inning when the Pirates scored eight times to wrap the game up. Barnes' home run was the big blow of the inning but Hooper got his triple in that frame with a runner on base and Sanderson and Cline put two bag-ers back-to-back off starting pitcher Jim Goins of the Panthers.

Barnes had his rough moments in the contest—he gave up 12 hits but he had so many runs behind him they were of little consequence. All told, the freshman from Wilson struck out seven and walked six in getting his first victory against a conference opponent. He had most of his worries in the first and eighth innings but he was always able to come in with the big pitch when it counted to work his way out of the jams.

Just about everyone on the squad was collecting base hits off the three High Point pitchers and even those who were getting base knocks were hitting the ball hard enough to keep from worrying about being in a batting slump. Bill Cline and Charlie Cherry were the only starters who didn't get a single base hit but both were hitting the ball hard.

The victory was the seventh in ten games against conference opposition and put the Pirates in a stronger position to challenge the front-running Elon Christians who went into the week's schedule with a perfect record in seven games. The Pirates have six games remaining on the schedule, two with Guilford, two with Atlantic Christian, and two with Elon. The games with Elon will be the final road games of the season.

The next foe on the Pirates' schedule will be Guilford. The Quakers and the Pirates will be meeting for the third time this year but for the first time on East Carolina's home diamond. The teams broke even in their first two meetings.

Checked Up On Unused Licenses

CHICAGO (UP) — Richard J. Daley, county clerk, issued 43,348 marriage licenses last year. He learned 679 were never returned so he sent questionnaires to the applicants. These were among the answers he received:

"Did not use — he burned the license."

"My ex-fiance's mother destroyed it on sight — perhaps some other time."

"Did not use — I believe I am the victim of a set up."

"Could not find a place to live."

"One mysterious reply said only: 'It was not.'"

Chicod Nine Wins By 4-3 Over Winterville Tuesday

CHICOD—A Chicod nine took a 4-3 decision from a spirited Winterville team here Tuesday in an extra-inning contest, winning in the bottom of the eighth with two runs.

The winners scored four runs on five hits and seven errors while Winterville got three runs on three hits and the aid of six errors.

Bobby Coggins was the sparkplug in the Winterville attack as he cracked out a single down the left field line, sending in two runs. Cole and Gorman each gathered in a single for the losers.

In the top of the eighth with one out, Evans of Winterville was hit by a pitched ball, went to second on a fielder's choice and scored on an error from second.

In the eighth inning Chicod scored the two winning runs without a hit. First three batters got on by the error route, then two were brought home on sacrifices.

Fornes was the leading hitter for Chicod with two, Ross had one, Oakley had one and Tripp one.

Batteries for Chicod: Oakley and C. Mills; Winterville: Cole on the mound and Joyner behind the plate.

The win yesterday gives Chicod a season record of eight wins against two defeats in conference play and nine wins against two losses.

When Stokes beat Grimesland yesterday, Chicod moved back into the conference lead by a one-half game margin.

The winning Chicod boys are coached by Ott Alford.

Southern Champions To Be Here In August

Winner Of Greenville Playoffs Will Go Directly To Williamsport, Pa. For Little League World Series

Recreation Director Warren Carroll announced last night that Greenville had been awarded the 1953 Regional Little League playoffs. The announcement was made at a meeting of Little League supporters last night.

The tournament will bring to Greenville the state champions of Alabama, Florida, Kentucky, Georgia, South Carolina, and North Carolina. The winner of the Greenville playoffs will go directly to the national finals at Williamsport, Pa. to compete in the Little League World Series.

A committee composed of Lucian Bryan, W. L. Allen, Reynolds May, Dick Evans, and Warren Carroll, was named to approach the Chamber of Commerce in backing the tournament. The tournament is scheduled to begin on August 17 and will last as long as it is necessary to determine a champion.

On a more local basis, Carroll told the Little League supporters that plans have been completed for the formal opening of the Elm Street Park. The plans call for a tennis exhibition at 3 o'clock; a basketball game at 3:30; starting of minor league schedule at 4 o'clock; ping pong games at 4:15; ceremonies for the formal opening of the park at 4:30; first Little League baseball game at 5:00; volleyball at 5:30; girls softball at 6:45; and horse-shoes at 8 o'clock. Pan-Am Open To Tee-Off Today In Mexico City

MEXICO CITY (UP) — A blue ribbon field, including Ben Hogan and several other U. S. stars, was slated to tee off today in the first round of the $17,500 Pan-American Open golf tournament at the Club de Golf Mexico.

However, several other U. S. stars were missing, apparently as a result of a dispute over money guarantees.

Lloyd Mangrum of Chicago announced that he was passing up the tourney because of "business commitments." But it was reported he really was angry about a $5,000 bonus allegedly guaranteed to Hogan for his appearance.

Also entered are top players both professional and amateur, from Mexico, Central America, and South America, including Argentine ace Roberto de Vicenzo.

Chuck Davey Off To Fast Start In Comeback Fight

DETROIT (UP) Chuck Davey, the educated southpaw who won four collegiate championships at Michigan State, was off to a flying start today in his comeback campaign following a 10-round technical knockout victory over young Sammy Giuliani.

The 27-year old stylist fought with blood gushing from his right eye for the last seven rounds at Olympia Wednesday night before Referee Clarence Rosen stopped the bout at the 38-second mark of the final round when Giuliani was unable to defend himself.

It was Davey's first ring appearance since his loss to Kid Gavilan for the welterweight championship Feb. 11.

Davey, who tipped the scales at 151 pounds, spotted his Stamford, Conn., rival seven pounds, but he was the master all the way.

Both Davey and the 21-year old Giuliani started fast, but the latter tired midway in the bout and never recovered. Giuliani placed his faith in brute force while Davey, as usual, relied on his steady stream of rights and lefts in rapid succession.

May Sound Off On Field Brawl

CHICAGO (UP) — American League President Will Harridge might make an announcement today regarding Tuesday night's brawl on the field at Busch Stadium between the St. Louis Browns and the New York Yankees, but there was no definite commitment that he would take any action.

A league spokesman said that Harridge probably would receive the original reports of the umpires early today. He emphasized that there would be no consideration of the case without receipt of the "written" reports.

There were suggestions that Harridge had talked with the umpire staff on the telephone, but was awaiting written confirmation of what he had been told.

Softball Meeting

There will be a meeting of all softball league team managers tomorrow night at 7:30 in the Armory. A representative from every interested team should be present at the meeting.

Plans for the coming season will be discussed and dues for each team will also be collected.

Meanest Thieves Plague A Blind Woman Farmer

Joas and is now blind, was a writer in Hollywood. The loss of vision forced her to seek new means of support, and while her mother held a daytime job, Miss Haines saw to the chores of a chicken farm.

With 300 laying hens, Miss Haines netted a profit of $6 per hen her first year in the enterprise. Business flourished and the publicity given to her effort brought more prosperity through the years. It also brought trouble.

Unbelievable as it may seem, people actually began to raid the chicken farm. She lost as many as 150 chickens in one night by such means as out-right hijacking to more scientific methods like anesthetizing the birds.

Can't Steal Sed

Not only were there forays against her henhouse, but her sheep began to disappear, too. In a single operation 22 of her ewes fell prey to motorized rustlers.

"With each new story I'd lose some more biddies or sheep," said Miss Haines.

Unable to handle the problem of thefts any longer, Miss Haines plans to sell the remnant of her flock of 3,000 hens, buy some more sheep and turn her talents to sod farm-

"It will be hard for thieves to pick up sod and haul that away," she said.

Just in case her new project fares no better than the chicken farm, however, Miss Haines' resource will not be exhausted.

Sought out as she is by her neighbors for advice in chicken and sheep raising, and, of all things, concentric plowing she can always stand in as a consulting expert in these matters.

Tax Court Cases Are On The Rise

CHICAGO (U.P.)—The Tax Court of the United States expects 8,900 contested cases to be filed during the fiscal year ending June 30.

A study of Tax Court statistics by the Commerce Clearing House, which deals with tax and business law reports, indicated the 8,900 cases would be an increase of 30 per cent over the 6,870 cases filed during the previous fiscal year.

Court officials expect the 1953-54 fiscal year to produce a high of 9,800 cases according to figures gathered by the CCH.

There was a backlog of 11,487 cases at the start of this fiscal year last July 1, the study showed, and 3,927 cases were filed during the next six months. That was a 41 per cent increase over filings for the same period, the year before.

The Tax Court, consisting of 16 judges who hold sessions in Washington and other cities throughout the country, is the only place a taxpayer can appeal a final demand of the Bureau of Internal Revenue for more taxes without first paying the extra tax asked. In other courts, he must pay the deficiency first and then file claim for a refund.

Ancient Timber Roadway Found In Irish Bog

ROSSLARE HARBOR, Ireland (AP)—A timber roadway, one and half miles long, which is believed to have been laid more than 1500 years ago, has been discovered three feet below the surface of Corlons Bog, Kiltoghert, County Leitrim, Ireland.

It is believed that 1,000 oak trees were felled to build the road. The timbers are laid longitudinally in three lines on piles driven six feet into the bog.

A similar road was found some years ago at Clonsast bog, County Kildare, but the newly found road is unique in that the timbers are laid lengthwise instead of across the direction of the road.

Experts believe the find shows that the growing population of Ireland in those long-ago days was forced to spread out from the limestone lands to the rougher parts of the country.

East Carolina's Concert Band Closes Its Series

The East Carolina Concert Band, directed by Herbert L. Carter of the faculty, closed its spring program in the College Theatre Tuesday night as an audience of approximately 500 people applauded for additional selections.

An excellent performance by the student musicians and an interestingly varied program of compositions ranging from the classics to present-day musical comedy made the concert an enjoyable musical event.

Members of the band were dressed in formal evening attire for their program. The pastel evening dresses of women members made a bright array of color on the stage, and the ensemble presented a pleasing appearance.

The program opened and closed with attractive marches, selections from the works of Prokofiev, Alford, and King. Bach's "If Thou Be Near", the "Invocation of Alberich" by Wagner, a condensed score from the motion picture "Tap Roots", and selections from the popular musical "The King and I" were presented with Mr. Carter as conductor.

Guest conductor for the evening was Robert E. Gray, faculty member of the college department of music, who led the band in the selection "Music for a Festival" by Gordon Jacob. Alternate movements in this composition were presented by the full band and by a brass and percussion ensemble composed of Clyde Straughan and George Starling of Rocky Mount, Jerry Peterson of New Bern, Robert Williams of Greenville, John Carr and David Holder of Goldsboro, Charles Armstrong of Elizabeth City, Frank Hammond of Wilmington, and Henry Whitener of Portsmouth, Va.

Dolores Matthews of Henderson, clarinetist, appeared as soloist with the band. Her presentation of Von Weber's "Concerto for Clarinet," opus 26, was received with prolonged applause by the audience.

Ten Airmen Die In B-29 Crash And Explosion

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UP)—The Air Force today identified 10 men who were killed when a burning B-29 superfortress crashed and exploded three miles north of Randolph Air Force Base yesterday. Five of the 15 men aboard bailed out. The others had been ordered out by the aircraft commander but apparently did not have time to save themselves.

The big bomber was trying to get back to Randolph after two radio advisories that its No. 3 engine was bad and its No. 4 engine was on fire. Witnesses to the crash said the B-29 hurtled into a nearby vertical bank, cartwheeled and exploded. Lt. Francis L. Kafka, public information officer, said the dead included:

German Oat Crop Hard To Reduce

BONN, Germany. (AP) West Germany's agricultural minister, Wilhelm Niklas is trying to reduce the oat crop. Stubborn German farmers keep growing oats while the number of horses diminishes because of farm mechanization.

Niklas says there are now 285,000 tractors, plowing ground that horses used to work. But the farm-ers, he says, lowered the price of oats as much as 65 marks (about 15 dollars) per ton effective July 1.

College Students Observe May Day With Friday's Programs

May Day at East Carolina College will be observed Friday with festivities including the crowning of a Queen and a celebration in her honor.

Following an international theme based on the Orient, the pageant given before the May Court will be colorful with costumes of the East and will include dancing and music.

The event will take place at 5:30 p.m. in the college stadium, and will be open to the public.

The afternoon's program will open with a procession marking the entrance of the May Queen and her Court. For this event a brass ensemble, directed by Robert E. Gray of the college music faculty, will provide a march.

The identity of East Carolina's 1953 May Queen has been kept secret and will not be revealed until the coronation takes place.

Making up the Court will be Shirley Council, Wilmington; Shirley Salsed, Greenville; Faisy Smith, Greenville; Wills Dean Lindsay, Clinton; Kitty Gerringer, Draper; Gale Dorsey, Wilmington; Barbara Moore, Raleigh; Lois Simpson, Wilmington; Peggy Orice, Calypso; Anne Strole, Chadbourn; Mabel Ann West, Roseboro; Marie Stallings, Louisburg; Nora Ellen Faulkner, Kinston; and Verona Sparrow, Deep Run.

Before the Queen and her Court, the pageant, developing a UNESCO theme of better understanding among peoples of the world, will be presented. Dances by approximately fifty college students and music by the Women's Chorus, directed by Dan E. Vorholt of the faculty, will introduce folk themes of India, the Philippines, Hawaii, Japan, China, and Israel.

A traditional English maypole dance will conclude the celebration.

Among numbers on the program will be the Thinking, folk dance from Leyte; a Japanese parasol dance; a saber dance; and a Chinese Feast of Lanterns number.

Music by the Women's Chorus will include "The Carp," Japanese folk song; "Balloon Song" from the Marathi, of India; an English May carol; and other songs.

Mrs. Grace J. Eaton of the college health and physical education department has planned and directed the May Day celebration this spring. She has had the advice of a number of authorities on festivals and Oriental life and customs.

These include Tane Takahashi, secretary to Elizabeth Gray Vinberg, who was tutor to the Japanese-Crown Prince; Dorothy Gladys Spicer, authority in the folk festival field; and various foreign legations in Washington and New York, which provided literature and flags of their countries.

Special guests at the celebration will be Virginia and Esther Khongkhakul of Thailand, students at Warren Wilson College in Swannanoa. While here, they will be guests at the Methodist Student Center and will be entertained by the college YMCA, YWCA, International Relations Club, and students at the home management house. Mrs. Travis Hooker of Greenville, who has lent many souvenirs of Oriental countries for use in the pageant, will be their hostess during the festival.

PRINCETON, N. J. (UP) — Fifteen Princeton University students were called on the carpet today for inciting a three-hour riot of nearly 1,000 undergraduates Tuesday night.

The leaders of the "We Want Sex" parade could be suspended or expelled by action of the disciplinary committee of students and faculty members which summoned them for a hearing.

University officials meanwhile were trying to soothe the ruffled feelings of Princeton townspeople who took a dim view of the bedtime riot which resulted in widespread property damage, injuries to a policeman and a student, and the arrest of two of the rioters for disorderly conduct.

Dean Francis E. Godolphin said "the situation between the town and the university is the tensest I have seen in my 33 years here."

Police Chief Edward W. Mahan said the students, shouting "We want sex" as they swept through the usually quiet streets of Princeton, overturned garbage cans, damaged parked cars, trampled lawns and flowerbeds, tore down fences, uprooted signposts, knocked over mailboxes and smashed a plate glass store window.

Two students arrested during the uproar, which brought out the town's entire 21-man police force, were found guilty of disorderly conduct in Borough Court Wednesday.

Friends and Voters: . . .

In answer to a letter addressed to candidates running for office from the American Heritage Discussion Group, wish to answer as follows:

What qualification would you consider in choosing a City Manager? Education, his record in former employment, and good references.

Are you in favor of having the City Utilities under the City Manager? Would like to further study this before committing myself definitely.

Will you support the present health program and its future plans for the expansion and growth? Yes, and as Chairman of Health and Sanitation for the city, have had an active part in this program for 8 years and much yet to be done.

Will you try to see that the sanitation laws, as they are on the books, will continue to be enforced until the projects are completed? Yes, and my record at County Health office will prove that I am very active on this.

Are you in favor of the contemplated bond issue for schools? Definitely, yes.

Do you favor marking the street with proper identification signs? Yes, and I am active now in bringing to completion this project.

Do you think it would be advisable for the City Schools to have a qualified attendance (Truant) officer? I personally favor it but feel that it is a problem for the School Board to work out.

Do you advocate continuing and expansion the Recreation program? Yes, and my activity in this for 7 years should prove it.

Will you promote the extension of Recreation facilities to the underprivileged children of the City? Yes, and I have through the Recreation Commission done a great deal toward this, Mills Village, Meadowbrook, Evans St. at the River, cleared off many vacant lots and made local playgrounds in most every part of the city but much yet to be done.

Further would like to say, that I have actively worked with the Chamber of Commerce for new industries and other developments to make a more progressive city.

Have recently taken an active interest with the Merchants Association in the OFF Street parking which I will use my efforts to carry forward.

With my knowledge of the City, 8 years of active experience and knowing our civic problems as I do, I feel that I would be of great value to the new board and City Manager who will have to learn our city, its problems, etc. After all he won't be any Superman and will need all the assistance from the board or any member possible and I have the time which I will unselfishly give if elected again.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (UP)—Stocks turned easier just before noon today after displaying firm tendencies earlier in the session. Trading was dull.

Losses throughout the list were limited to very small fractions with a number of issues holding at their previous close. A few high-priced stocks managed to counter the trend.

Curtain Brought Down On Follies

By CHESTER WALSH
The Greenville Kiwanis Club's "Spring Follies," musical and dancing show that took the place of the Kiwanis minstrel, played to an appreciative audience at the college last night.

Kiwanis President Leo W. Jenkins said the "Spring Follies" was the best of the annual shows produced by the club.

The Kiwanis shows are for the benefit of the underprivileged child fund, and the club spends considerable money every year for the underprivileged.

The singing and dancing numbers won applause throughout the show. Promoters of "Spring Follies" said the orchestra added much to the success of the show; that the specialty numbers by Bill Riggins and Cecil Ellington and some of the college boys and girls made hits. Mary Dunn Beatty staged the dance numbers and featured in several of the specialties and producer Eli Bloom was master of ceremonies.

After the final showing of "Spring Follies" last night, the nearly 100 members of the cast were guests of the Kiwanis Club at a buffet supper at Kiwanis headquarters. Eli Bloom was master of ceremonies. He thanked all who had helped to put on the show, made some special recognitions of the guests, and then received a tribute of thanks from the Kiwanians and President Leo W. Jenkins and Past President Tige Gardner.

Music and good fellowship featured the "get-together" meeting after the show. The "Spring Follies," all local talent, will be presented again next year. Bloom said the Kiwanis Club will net a substantial sum of money for its underprivileged child work. The show played to two capacity houses.

The Kiwanis Club will not meet Friday night.

Cases Heard In City Police Court

By CHESTER WALSH
In Police Court Wednesday, Judge Charles H. Whedbee ordered a capias issued for James Redmond, Greenville Negro, who had been hauled into court on three charges and failed to answer when his name was called.

"The capias provides that officers are to bring Redmond into court and hold him without privilege of bail until court is again convened," Solicitor Eli Bloom stated.

Redmond is charged with having defective equipment on his automobile, possession and transporting non-tax paid whiskey and driving a car without an operator's license.

Phillip A. Whitehurst was found guilty of driving while drunk, sentence suspended on payment of $100 and costs and his license is to be revoked for a year. Whitehurst gave notice of appeal to Superior Court.

In another case, in which Whitehurst was charged with property damage, the court gave him 30 days in jail, sentence to be served concurrently with the other sentence.

Sentence is to be suspended on condition that Whitehurst pay $5 on court costs and not ride in a motor vehicle except a public bus or taxicab, unless he makes restitution for damage to Globe Hardware Company. He gave notice of appeal.

Failure to yield right of way: Nena W. Cherry, Negro, was found not guilty. Charles E. Ellis was given 30 days in jail, suspended on payment of $10 on costs and he is not to operate a motor vehicle for six months unless he makes restitution for property damage.

The case in which James H. Williams was charged with following another vehicle too close, was continued.
