Five New Faces Named To Council By 3,334 Greenville Voters

Record Vote Cast Tuesday

By JESS POINDEXTER
Reflector City Editor

The largest city-elections vote in Greenville's 180-year-old chartered history was cast here yesterday, as 3,334 local voters placed five new faces around the City Council table.

Leading the ticket of council candidates by a comfortable margin was W. L. Whedbee, sales supervisor of the Greenville Tobacco Board of Trade. Whedbee polled 2,033 votes, after taking the lead in the early stages of tallying.

The next four candidates elected, in the order in which they ran and with the number of votes each cast, were: S. Eugene West, 1,770; A. C. "Bitts" Ruffin, 1,408; C. W. Harvey, 1,218; and John Arthur Collins Sr., 1,208.

Running without opposition for judge and solicitor of Recorder's Court, respectively, Charles H. Whedbee and Eli Bloom both piled up rather large votes in yesterday's balloting. Total vote was: Whedbee, 1,985; Bloom, 1,763.

Brisk Voting

Voting began at a brisk pace when the polls opened at 6:30 yesterday morning, and except for a very few short periods of inactivity held steady throughout the entire day. When polls closed at 6:30 p.m., a record vote for a city election had been set.

The previous high vote for Greenville elections was recorded here in the spring of 1951, when Mayor Lester D. Page and five members of the Board of Aldermen were elected. The 1951 vote was little more than 2,900.

It wasn't December 31, but irrespective of date o. season that merry maxim "ring out the old, ring in the new" was exemplified by Greenville citizens balloting in yesterday's municipal elections. Although five members of the old board were in the contest, not a single alderman was in the top nine candidates in the voting.

The very fact that not a single member of the old board carried over also is thought to be a precedent-setting factor of the 1953 city elections. Not in the history of recorded voting in Greenville has at least one old member of the board failed to be re-elected to the succeeding group.

Casual Remarks

One candidate for a seat on the new council—one, incidentally, who placed in the elite circle—was heard to remark yesterday afternoon that regardless of who is elected, none of the candidates need feel a loss of face or injured pride on being defeated.

"Most of the candidates filed for this election with one motive in mind, the best government obtainable for our city," he stated. "I feel sure each will be comforted by the realization that his was an unselfish, commendable gesture, one of which he may justly be proud."

Large crowds of curious citizens gathered at polling places last night to see ballots counted and to be swept up in the attitudes of reserved confidence which exuded from many of the 17 candidates in the running. Litters of campaign cards distributed by candidates formed great artificial carpets as they were churned underfoot by milling spectators.

Trend Early

It was 11:30 last night before the last ballot was counted and results of the voting entered into the official records. But long before that time the trend in the balloting had become obvious. Except in isolated instances, the winners took the lead in early tabulations and that premature indication held steady throughout the complete tally.

On the strength of a great many "single shot" ballots, William M. Myers, the lone Negro candidate, took the lead in ward 3 and held it to lead the balloting in that ward with 258 votes. Myers ran third in ward 4, but fell far behind when returns from the three other city wards came in.

Vote By Wards

Final, unofficial returns for all 17 candidates from each ward are:

Whedbee—ward 1, 480; ward 2, 617; ward 3, 208; ward 4, 268; ward 5, 460; total, 2,033.

Bloom for solicitor—ward 1, 408; ward 2, 523; ward 3, 232; ward 4, 240; ward 5, 359; total, 1,763.

There were two write-ins for the office of judge, and both were marked in favor of Louis W. Gaylord Jr., young Greenville attorney. One write-in for solicitor was recorded, that for Dave Creech.

Official tabulations showed that there were 16 spoiled ballots cast at the City Hall, where wards 3, 4 and 5 voted, and 10 spoiled ballots at the Pitt County courthouse, where ward 1 and 2 voted.

American Freighter Leads Rescue After Crash

Collision Cuts Ferry In Two

HARWICH England (UP) —An American freighter sliced a British channel ferry in two before dawn today and then led a heroic rescue that ended with all but one of the 557 persons aboard both ships apparently saved.

Several Americans were among those saved.

An undetermined number of persons aboard the British Railways steamer Duke of York were injured, some seriously.

Rescuers using heavy cutting gear fought to free a woman trapped in the wreckage of the British vessel. (An earlier report said a child also was trapped, but that was apparently erroneous.)

The whole bow of the 4,190-ton Duke of York forward of the bridge sank after it was hit by the 7,600-ton Haiti Victory, which is operated by the Military Sea Transport Service (MSTS).

The American freighter's bow was damaged but her 50-man civilian crew managed to remove most of the ferry's 437 passengers and 70 crewmen and take the stern half of the vessel in tow. Several Americans were aboard the channel ferry.

Passengers on the Duke of York were asleep when the crash came at 4:30 a.m. 11:30 p.m. Tuesday EDT) near the Galloper light vessel 40 miles east of Harwich.

The stricken ship promptly began transferring passengers to the larger American vessel, and at one point it was reported that all of the travelers had been saved.

A few minutes later, however, the Duke of York radioed an urgent appeal:

"Aground in vicinity of Duke of York, near Galloper lightship," it said. "Have located trapped woman and child. Can you bring heavy rescue gear? Suspect badly injured."

The Haiti Victory took the crippled British ship in tow, intending to take it and its passengers into Harwich, but the attempt was abandoned when it was determined that the harbor here is too shallow to accommodate the American freighter.

Ninety-one of the passengers were transferred to the small freighter American bound for Dover. The British rail ferry Norfolk and the freighter Dewsbury were ordered to rendezvous with the Haiti Victory and take off the remaining survivors.

Reds Reject UN Proposal Freeing N. Korea POWs

PANMUNJOM, Korea (UP)—The Communists angrily rejected today a United Nations offer to set free 100,000 captured North Koreans following an armistice and let them go where they choose.

North Korean Gen. Nam Il, chief Red negotiator, called the offer "unworthy of refutation" and accused the U. N. of taking a "step backward."

Of the 100,000 Koreans held by the Allies, 32,600 have said they would forcibly resist a return to communism. The U. N. offer additionally would leave 14,500 anti-Communist Chinese prisoners in care of a neutral custodian.

Lt. Gen. William K. Harrison, head U.N. truce delegate, told Nam at the first of two 14-minute truce meetings that he made the suggestion to prevent placing "an excessive burden" on the neutral.

After receiving Nam's angry reply at the second session two hours later, Harrison told newsmen:

"At the moment I would say progress is zero."

The Communist rejection was expected, since giving the prisoners the right to go where they wish would amount to "voluntary repatriation," which the Reds have refused.

Nevertheless, Harrison made the offer to answer officially questions which Nam has asked Tuesday about the U.N.'s attitude on the disposition of prisoners.

The Communists have insisted since reopening of the truce talks last month that the U.N. agree to transport the prisoners to the neutral nation before it is chosen.

However, the Reds have refused to accept the U.N.'s nomination of Switzerland, Sweden or Pakistan as neutral custodian of the prisoners although Pakistan was one of four Asian nations it had defined as acceptable.

Whedbee Named Mayor As Council Has Brief Session

One of Greenville's native sons, W. L. Whedbee, was unanimously elected this morning to serve the new City Council and this municipality as mayor for the next two years.

A few moments later members of the newly-seated council nominated and selected S. Eugene West to act as mayor "pro tem," an appointment that is to endure "at the pleasure of the council."

Whedbee was high man in yesterday's election balloting, and West placed second in the voting which saw a record number of votes cast in a Greenville municipal election.

Immediately prior to the election of mayor and mayor "pro tem," Recorder's Court Judge Charles H. Whedbee administered the oath of office to members of the new five-man council—Whedbee, West, A. C. "Bitts" Ruffin, Wesley Harvey and John Arthur Collins Sr.

Swore In Brother

Judge Whedbee then administered the oath of office to his brother, newly-elected Mayor W. L. Whedbee, and to S. Eugene West, named mayor "pro tem" shortly thereafter.

One unique aspect of this morning's scene is that 51 years ago this year Judge H. W. Whedbee, father of both Judge Charles Whedbee and present Mayor W. L. Whedbee, stood figuratively where his two sons stood literally today and took that same mayor's oath. The elder and now-deceased Whedbee was mayor of Greenville in 1902 and 1904.

Outgoing Mayor Lester D. Page and the old Board of Aldermen—with C. B. Mayo and Robert L. Smith absent—met 15 minutes prior to the swearing in ceremonies of the new council, officially canvassed the votes and confirmed the election of the five councilmen.

Shifted Duties

"I now declare you gentlemen the newly-constituted council of this city," Mayor Page stated. "I extend to all of you my heartiest congratulations and wish upon you the greatest personal success for the greater progress of Greenville."

The aldermen's room at the City Hall was crowded with spectators and heads of the various departments of city government. Also present for the ceremonies were Mrs. W. L. Whedbee, Mrs. A. C. Ruffin and Mrs. Wesley Harvey. A lengthy round of applause greeted the new council following administration of the oath of office.

The first official ac of the new mayor was to say a prayer for guidance during his administration. He made a simple statement relative to his new duties, "I'll d. the best I can." The entire council pledged its best efforts for the city of Greenville.

Expressed Congratulations

Some of the unsuccessful candidates expressed their congratulations to the new council either in person or by message. John C. Clifford appeared in person and extended best wishes to the council; Royce Jones acted in kind by way of a congratulatory telegram; and former Alderman Heber B. Tripp was high in his praises for the caliber of men obtained for the council.

All business of the council was postponed by mutual agreement until the first regular meeting of the group tomorrow night at 7:30. At that time salaries of the new councilmen, mayor and mayor "pro tem" will be fixed within the maximum prescribed under "Plan D." Maximum salaries are $600 for each councilman and $1,800 for the mayor.

At the same time applications from the heads and assistants of the various departments of city government—fire, police, street and others—will be discussed and acted upon. A city treasurer also will be named tomorrow night.

Passed Motion

Just before they adjourned today members of the new council passed a motion thanking the people of Greenville for the confidence expressed in the voting yesterday, and vowed to be worthy of it. Members of the council mutually expressed their cooperation.

On behalf of the Greenville Utilities Commission, Vice-Chairman John G. Clark appeared before the new body and expressed the congratulations of the commission. He pledged the commission's complete cooperation by saying, "We are willing to work with you and for you 100 percent."

Thus, in the passage of just a few hours the governing body of Greenville was reduced in number from 10 to five.

"LIKE FATHER, LIKE SON". High man in the voting yesterday, W. L. Whedbee this morning was elected mayor of Greenville by his fellow council members. Mayor Whedbee was sworn to his duties by his brother, Recorder's Court Judge Charles H. Whedbee, and now occupies the same official position in city government that his father, Judge H. W. Whedbee, held here 51 years ago. His term of office is two years.

Communists Push Deeper Into Laos As U. S. Cargo Planes Sent French Army

HANOI, Indo-China (UP) — The Communist invaders of Laos advanced to within 25 miles of the Thailand border today as French paratroopers prepared to go into action from newly-arrived American planes.

All signs indicated an imminent enemy lunge for the Mekong River border somewhere between Paksane and the Laotian administrative capital of Vientiane, 80 miles to the west.

Paratroop officers and noncoms were called into terrain briefings here, indicating their units might be air-dropped ahead of the advancing Communist Vietminh columns.

At the same time, an undisclosed number of American C-119 cargo planes, the "Flying Boxcars" which also serve as troop carriers, began arriving from Japan.

French headquarters blacked out details of their defense preparations along the Mekong River boundary.

A headquarters spokesman said the Communists appear to have shifted their main target from the royal capital of Luang Prabang to the north to the border town of Paksane.

Unconfirmed reports said the Thailand government has begun a forced evacuation from the Thai side of the Mekong frontier of members of Vietnamese refugee colonies suspected of pro-communist sympathies.

Some 60,000 Viets and Annamese live off the rich soil on both sides of the river boundary.

The Laotian government also was carrying out token measures against suspected fifth columnists under prodding by French officials.

French command sources believed one of the reasons the Communists are pressing their drive toward Paksane is that the rich Mekong valley could provide relief from the invaders' acute rice shortage.

Calls For Bids

Bids for revaluation of property in Pitt County will be received by the board of commissioners May 18.

A committee of county officials composed by Commissioners F. F. Hendrix, J. T. Dupree, Attorney W. W. Speight and Auditor Reginald Gray met last night to formulate specifications for the revaluation program which will be submitted to companies which are expected to bid on the job.

Gray said the specifications for the program will be forwarded to the companies as they are completed.

Dauntless Cat Stood By As Crew Of Burning Freighter Abandoned Ship

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UP) — Minnie, a dauntless cat, was the only "crewmember" who stood by the British freighter Menestheus as it burned at sea.

Minnie, her fur badly singed but still meowing, was still aboard the ship's blistered hull as it was towed into port by a tug yesterday from off the lower California coast, 560 miles south of here.

The cat's paws were burned and coast guardsmen said things must have gotten "plenty hot" for the brave mascot after the 480-foot ship suffered an engine-room explosion.

The Menestheus, owned by Oceanic Steamship Co. of Liverpool, England caught fire at midnight, April 18, and within an hour the entire central part of the vessel was engulfed in flames.

United States Considering Possible Action Against Red Aggression In Indo-China

By JOHN L. STEELE
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP) —Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said today the United States is discussing "possible United Nations action" to curb Communist aggression which he said threatens all southeast Asia and possibly Japan.

Dulles, testifying before the House Foreign Affairs Committee on foreign aid, branded the Red attack on the Indo-Chinese kingdom of Laos as "straight-out aggression."

The secretary said "we are in conversation" with France, Laos' neighbor, Thailand, and Viet Nam "with regard to possible U. N. action."

Dulles was testifying about President Eisenhower's new $5,800,000,000 foreign aid program, which includes sizable sums to help France in her defense of Indo-China.

At the same time, Mutual Security Director Harold E. Stassen was telling the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that the United States is sending "large quantities" of planes, tanks, and ammunition to Indo-China.

Fall of that region to the Reds, Stassen said would be of "critical importance" to U. S. security.

Dulles said the troops attacking Laos apparently were trained and equipped in Communist China, and that Thailand apparently is the next target.

"If southeast Asia should go under, the position of Japan would be extremely precarious," he added.

Stassen's testimony was based on data and appraisals prepared for Congress by the executive department. He emphasized that the fall of any free nation in Asia could "seriously" undermine the security of all.

Under the new program, Indo-China would share in direct arms shipments to Asia totalling $1,001,000,000. In addition $400,000,000 is provided to help the French finance their war against the Reds.

The full authorization sought by Mr. Eisenhower is $1,800,000,000 under what former President Truman had proposed for the fiscal year starting July 1.

Since Mr. Truman's budget for the coming 1954 fiscal year gave no breakdown of his aid proposals, there is no way of telling just where Mr. Eisenhower made his cuts.

However shifts in emphasis in the new program can be seen in the following comparative table. It shows how much Mr. Truman asked for military aid to various areas during the current 1953 fiscal year, how much Congress actually voted and how much Mr. Eisenhower is seeking for the same areas for the 1954 fiscal year beginning July 1.

Western Europe — $4,145,000,000 sought by the Truman administration, $3,128,000,000 appropriated by Congress for the current fiscal year and $2,534,323,000 planned by Mr. Eisenhower.

The Near East and Africa — $606,370,000; $499,116,000 and $469,200,000.

Asia and the Pacific—$611,230,000; $540,807,000; and $1,001,000,000. 685,00 and $20,000,000.

In addition, Mr. Eisenhower has planned $250,000,000 for special weapons planning, a category not carried in last year's request of the Truman administration.

The remainder of the foreign funds planned by Mr. Eisenhower—$1,554,209,500 — will go for such things as economic and technical aid to friendly nations and contributions to international organizations. The Truman administration sought $2,475,000,000 for such non-military categories for the current fiscal year and got $1,789,113,250.

THAILAND PLEA FOR U. S. MILITARY AID STUDIED

WASHINGTON (UP)—The United States today gave "urgent and sympathetic" study to two appeals for emergency American arms aid for Thailand, the latest Southeast Asian country to face the menace of Communist guns.

Informed sources said the MutuaEecurity Agency and Staeeeeee

Informed sources said the Mutual Security Agency and State and Defense departments were searching through existing arms stocks for weapons that might be rushed to bolster Thailand's defenses against Red troops pushing through Laos to the Thai border.

Thailand, it was learned, first approached the American Embassy in Bangkok "several days ago" to seek new deliveries of American weapons. The appeal was underscored here late Tuesday when Thai Ambassador Pote Sarasin called on Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

Authorities said Thailand had been assured the United States recognized the "danger" of a Communist strike at Thailand and would do everything possible to help meet a challenge by providing more arms. Thailand particularly wants more weapons for ground forces that would fight in the jungles to protect the central rice-producing plains.

The rapid Red thrust into Laos toward Thailand indicates to strategists here that the Communists are engaged in a military offensive aimed at eventually conquering all Southeast Asia with its rich tin, tingsten, rice, rubber and petroleum resources. Red success would point a menacing dagger at India and the Middle East.

Thailand's fear of invasion and bids for more help came hard on the heels of the new military crisis in Indo-China where the Reds have probed off and on for seven years. The United States only recently agreed to step up arms deliveries to Indo-China and to loan large cargo planes to ferry equipment to the battle front in Laos.

Oriental Garden Theme of Prom

ROBERSONVILLE—An Oriental Garden was the decorative theme used for the Junior-Senior Prom given Friday night at the Robersonville High School.

Everyone passed through an arch at the entrance of the auditorium where cherry trees formed a background for the stonewall at the side of the room. Bob Lee's orchestra was seated in front of mourtains and a Japanese house pinned to the drop curtain. A bird bath added charm to the front of the stage where flowers were growing and lawn furniture was attractively arranged. The center decoration was a chandelier made of wind chimes with a revolving light playing on this pretty ornament.

At 9 o'clock the president of the junior class, Charles Johnson, and his date, Miss Rachel Mobley, walked to the middle of the floor. As the names of the seniors and their escorts were called, each couple in turn went to the center and every person took a ribbon radiating from the ceiling. The group then formed the shape of a Japanese fan. While they danced confetti slowly showered on them.

During the intermission, the grade parents of the juniors gave a party for the two classes at the high school cafeteria. Japanese fans were given to the members of both grades and their dates. Approximately 250 people enjoyed this outstanding event.

Grifton High School Has May Day Fete

Against a background of ivy covered walls the throne for the May queen was placed when the annual May Day Festival honoring the May court and Miss Hilda Buck took place on Friday afternoon on the school front campus.

For the entertainment of Her Majesty, the Queen of the May, the Spirit of Springtime, portrayed by Lou Raye Mewborn, with the assistance of the High School Glee Club, the Rhythm Band called upon the birds, flowers, rain, elves, fairies, sprites, and other creatures of nature to respectfully entertain Her Majesty in song and dance. The court jesters, Lawrence Tucker and Harry Askew in colorful costumes frolicked on the green as the Herald, J. C. Reel, appeared to announce the entrance of the May Court. Attendants were Peggy Abbott, Mildred Sellars, Phyllis Haddock, Argent Tucker, Phylis Jackson, Peggy Buck, Pat Stokes, Nell McGlohon. They wore delicately-hued dresses and carried old fashioned bouquets of spring flowers. As maid of honor, Jean Daugherty wore a blue net and taffeta dress. Little John Buck, crown bearer, carried the silver crown on a white satin pillow. Flower girls, Jane Cobb and Alice Lee Hart, wore pale green organdy dresses and carried baskets of flower petals which they scattered in the path of the Queen, who wore the traditional white, a full skirted tulle and satin frock and an old fashioned bouquet. She was crowned by Mayor W. E. Rasberry.

"T'is Springtime" was presented by the glee club. "Dance of the Birds" and "Butterfly Reel" were given by the first grades, "April Showers" by the second grade through the fourth, "Dance on the Fairies" and "The Elves" by the fifth grade, "Waltz of the Flowers" by the sixth grade with Linda Chauncey taking the part of a sprite. The eighth grade girls presented a dance, "A Study in Grace." The seventh graders presented the May Pole dance which was beautifully executed.

Accompaniment for the afternoon was by the Rhythm Band who appeared in bright red capes and caps, and was directed by Josh Bob Worthington.

In charge of the event was the director of the music department, Mrs. Paul Braxton. The program was outstanding and all participants wore beautiful costumes. Several hundred parents and friends of the school were present for the coronation.

In connection with the school announcements made at this time were of the Baccalaureate sermon on May 17 and the commencement exercises on May 18.

Bride of April

Mrs. Donald Smith, of Denver, Colorado, who before her marriage on April 10 at Fitzimmons Base Chapel, Denver, was Miss Mary Agnes Tripp, sister of Mrs. Chauncey Dupree, of Greenville. She made her home with Mrs. Joel Patrick in Grifton before going to Denver.

Summer Programs For College Are Announced

Workshops, conferences, and clinics to be offered by East Carolina College during the 1953 summer session include twenty-two events planned largely for the benefit of teachers and administrators in the public schools.

Two of these will be held between the spring and the summer sessions; fourteen are scheduled for the first term of the summer session, June 8 — July 14; and six for the second term, July 15—August 21.

"Our summer conferences, clinics, and workshops," Dean Leo W. Jenkins of East Carolina stated this week," grew out of a planning meeting on the campus this spring which was attended by representatives of public schools in North Carolina and members of the college faculty and administrative staff. Suggestions made by teachers, principals, and superintendents were carefully considered, and special events for the summer were planned and scheduled to meet the expressed needs of those engaged in public school work."

Many fields of study and activity in public school education are included in the series of twenty-two events. Subjects for study and discussion include special education, guidance, health and physical education, resource-use education, arithmetic, art, business education, music, science, reading, social studies, home economics, industrial arts, the school library, school administration, and English.

A camp counselors course at Camp Hardy, Washington, N. C., May 25-June 5, and a study conference for kindergarten teachers, June 1-6, are offered for the interval between the spring and the first summer term.

Thre workshops are scheduled for the entire first session, June 8—July 14. These will be based on resource-use education; clinical practice and procedure in special education, with emphasis on speech and hearing; and problems, materials, and methods in teaching slow-learning children.

Other events of the first term include a workshop on alcoholism in health education, June 9-19; and conferences on guidance services June 15; elementary arithmetic, June 17; art in the elementary grades, June 18; business education, June 24; the home in child education, June 25; music education, June 29; science, July 1; reading, July 7; special education, July 8; social studies, July 9; and industrial arts, July 10.

A workshop in elementary school library organization and administration will be given during the second term and will extend from July 15 through August 21. Other events of this term are a conference on legal aspects of public school administration, July 23; the annual institute of the Northeastern District of the North Carolina English Teachers Association, July 27; a conference on public school administration, August 5; and an outdoor education workshop ot Crabtree State Park, August 19-21.

Lions Continuing Sale For Blind

Local Lions closed out their house to house sale of brooms and door mats last night but the sale will go on.

A spokesman for the local club said today that around $500 worth of brooms and mats were sold by members of the club in last night's sale.

However the total was not known since several teams operating in the city have not reported.

Based on the $1500 now taken in for the two night's sale the drive is lagging behind that of 1952, when around $2200 worth of brooms and mats were sold.

Money raised by the project goes to support blind persons who made the merchandise and to cary on work among the blind in Pitt County, one of the main projects of the local club yearly.

A spokesman for the club announced that while the house-to-house sale has ended, various members of the club will be selling brooms and mats for the remainder of the week.

GHS Debaters Win Trophy At District Tourney

The Greenville High School NFL members, debating at the Appalachian District tournament, won over five other teams to capture the two-foot championship trophy and qualified to participate in the national tournament.

Performing in Johnson City, Tennessee, four debaters from Greenville High School, won six out of seven debates which netted them the championship title. By this token, they are qualified to enter in the national NFL tournament which will be held in Denver, Colo., June 16 through June 19.

Winning the district title for the Greenville National Forensic League were two negative debaters, both freshmen, Jo Hendrix and Henrietta Swayne and affirmative debaters Ginger Worthington, junior, and John Brooks, sophomore.

To win the trophy the Greenville teams defeated Bluefield and Concord College Training High School of West Virginia, and Maryville, Johnson City, and Elizabethtown of Tennessee. Bluefield and Elizabethton won four debates each and tied for second place debate honors.

The query was: "Resolved, that the Atlantic Pact Nations should form a federal union."

R. B. Starling, NFL advisor, who accompanied the group to the district debates, said the teams will enter the national tournament if financial arrangements can be made.

The debates won Greenville the first district debate championship since Rodney Pulcher and Donald Tucker won in 1951. The district debates were held at Milligan College in Johnson City yesterday and Monday.

Ex-Prisoner Of War Snatched Back From Brink Of Death By Doctors

TRAVIS AFB, Calif. (UP) —A partially paralyzed ex-prisoner of war, snatched back from the brink of death after he stopped breathing, was gaining strength today for his flight home.

Cpl. John L. Robinson, 20, of Wellston, O., hero of nine escape attempts from Communist prisoner of war camps in North Korea, was saved after he suffered a respiratory collapse Saturday night, it was revealed last night.

Robinson had arrived in the United States only a few hours before on a Freedom Airlift plane. He was suffering from a form of palsy.

Information officer Maj. Tom Barbour said Robinson was put in an iron lung immediately when he suddenly stopped breathing. An all-night vigil by Travis hospital physician Capt. Walter C. Riley, Los Angeles, and hospital nurses, followed.

At one time Robinson's condition appeared so grave that his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Buel Robinson, were telephoned and told he would not live through the night.

However, Robinson finally was pronounced out of danger and his parents were notified he would recover.

The cause of Robinson's respiratory failure, Barbour said was acute neuritis. The neuritis resulted in bulbar palsy, a degenerative disease of the nervous sytem.

Barbour said buddies of Robinson who returned on the plane with him called the tall, slender rifleman the "sunbeam" of their prison camp. They said he ignored his own afflictions to keep group morale high and to lead in the escape attempts.

His last escape attempt, the other men related, was made on his hands and knees, after he had become so weak he could not walk.

"He could hardly swallow his food or talk," Barbour said. "It got so he could hardly move his arms and legs and his vision and hearing were badly imparied."

MARTYR TO TRUTH

There is a room in the British museum which contains some of the most inspiring documents in the world. There one sees a copy of the Magna Charta. In that same room are two of the most ancient versions of the Bible.

Perhaps the most inspiring exhibit in that room, however, is a copy of the translation of the New Testament by William Tyndale. So bitter was the opposition against this man four hundred years ago that he had to flee England and carry on his work in a foreign land. When retribution finally caught up to him, he was strangled to death and his body burned at the stake.

When the translators of the Bible were commissioned by King James to their mighty work, they availed themselves of every good translation which had previously been made. But their greatest reliance was on the translation of the New Testament by William Tyndale. When today we read the sonorous and dignified language of the King James Version, we should stop and visualize a little figure sequestered in some cold attic room in a foreign land leaning over a copy of the Greek New Testament and laboriously translating it by candlelight.

For which "crime" he was strangled and his body duly burned. Thus does the kingdom of God advance by the valor of its heroes, and even by the wickedness of its opponents.

Unwise Favoritism Could Upset The Apple Cart

Reasons for the Republican party's reputation as a party of big business, big industry and protective tariffs may be showing its head again in Washington, over the protest of President Eisenhower and his administrative leaders.

The White House finds itself at odds with a faction of the Republican delegation in Congress which is urging the placing of new restrictions in the reciprocal trade agreements program.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles has bluntly warned the House Ways and Means Committee that such a move would play into the hands of the Soviet Union.

It is fully realized and agreed by most Americans that American industry and business must be protected for the welfare of the people of the nation. In some instances reasonable tariff blocks must be erected to protect particular industries and businesses whose products would otherwise be driven off the domestic market by imported goods. This protection must be afforded not only management, but workers as well.

But for the United States to begin again a spiral of high tariffs and duty favortism to particular groups, would be disasterous.

This nation is the economic tower around which the free world must rally if it is to maintain its economic freedom. As such, the United States must leave the door open for reciprocal trade with other members of the free world block, unless it wishes those other nations to succumb to economic stress or enter into more extensive trade with the communist fold. The United States and the free world can afford neither alternative.

It is apparent that higher tariff barriers erected about the United States would not set well with the friendly nations who are striving to establish a favorable dollar trade with the United States. After this nation has been instrumental in setting up and encouraging eradications of duties on steel and other products between the nations who have joined the Schuman plan in Western Europe, we can hardly reverse our stand when the United States becomes involved in similar matters.

Dulles' plea that the present reciprocal trade and tariff program remain unaltered until it can be carefully studied is indeed sound. It would certainly be unwise to allow individual favoritism — expressed in tariff barriers — to place the whole foreign economic program of the United States in jeopardy.

Red Negotiators Try Their Old Stalling Methods

Communists negotiators in Korea seem to be back at the game they have played so well and to so great an advantage since the truce talks began almost two years ago. They are back at their old game of stalling.

Operation "Little Switch" which was hoped to lead the way to an armistice in the Korean conflict is over. Efforts are now being made to arrive at a compromise under which the remainder of prisoners held by the communists and United Nations can be exchanged. But the communists have balked after one of the nations they proposed as a neutral custodian of the prisoners was accepted by the United Nations.

The communist peace offensive which opened in full force a couple of months ago brought gerat hopes for world peace. But those were hopes peppered with doubts because of the failure of the Reds in the past to act in good faith. It appears now that the doubts were held on firm foundation, and the Reds are again in the process of stalling.

The United Nations negotiators have accepted the communist nomination of Pakistan as custodian of the Korean prisoners who do not want to be repatriated. But again the communists have balked.

What will be the outcome of the continued truce talks in Korea, we do not know. Some day the ultimate goal of a reasonable armistice may be reached. But the longer we try to deal with the communists — and the longer we find ourselves wrong by assuming they act in good faith — the more futile the method of talking with communists seems.

New Officials Need The Public Support

Municipal elections in Pitt County are over for another year. In some municipalities there will not be another town election for two years.

In Greenville, and in other towns of the county the smoke from the election is drifting away; and if there were any hard feelings created during the pitch of last minute campaigning, they are beginning to subside.

In the case of most individual citizens in each of the towns, some favorite candidates won, while other favorite candidates were defeated for office. In every case, however, the voters expressed their opinions and now abide by the will of the majority.

On the shoulders of those newly elected to office, the burdens of the municipal government fall. The new governing boards will need the support of all the citizens in their individual towns to produce the best results for the municipality while they are in office. The task of governing a city or town in these days is a difficult one at best, and without the support of local citizens, it becomes an almost impossible task.

Responsibility in the governing of a city or town is charged to those elected officials. Even so, the individual citizen is not relieved of his obligation to do what he can toward better government and more progressive government for his community.

Now that elections are over, it behooves each citizen of the individual municipalities in Pitt County to lend to the elected officials their support in bringing about better, more efficient government.

National Whirligig

WASHINGTON—The man principally responsible for President Eisenhower's unresolved difficulties with rambunctious Republicans on Capitol Hill, especially the McCarthy-Bricker faction, is Alger Hiss.

It is the bitter memory of his dubious role in the formation of major State Department policy toward Russia and China, as well as his part in infiltrating Communists into the Government service, which lies behind the demand for greater safeguards against repetition of his disastrous performance.

SECONDARY VILLAIN IN POLITICAL DRAMA —Linked with the convicted perjurer, whose application for parole has now been denied twice, is former Secretary of State Dean Acheson. His comment that "I would not turn my back on Alger Hiss,' as well as his close association with the prison inmate, makes him a secondary villain in the cast of the political drama on Capitol Hill.

As the Democrats capitalized on the "Hoover depression" to contribute to four Presidential triumphs, so the Congressional GOP-ers mean to retain Hiss as their campaign scarecrow. Historically, the Hiss-Chambers conspiracy may be likened to the "bloody shirt" which the Grand Old Party waved for so many years after the Civil War.

SECRECY RESPONSIBLE FOR BRICKER'S PLAN—The secrecy surrounding negotiations of so many treaties and foreign agreements during the Hiss-Acheson era is responsible for the Bricker resolution. The Ohioan's proposal provides that no future pact may have precedence over Federal, State or local laws. It is a definite thrust at the Executive's constitutional authority in this field.

The Bricker plan would lose a great deal of its appeal, if it were not for the fact that Hiss played an important role in the organization of the United Nations, whose charter is alleged to contravene several Federal and state statutes.

The former diplomat's presence at Yalta, where so many concessions were made to Russia, reinforces the demand that all future negotiations be conducted with goldfish bowl nakedness.

PUBLIC INTEREST IN ISSUE—In addition to these dramatic and personal factors, there are more basic reasons for great public interest in the proposed prohibition against diplomatic secrecy and the earlier laxness with respect to the loyalty of key personnel in Washington. It is no accident that Senators McCarthy and Bricker draw so much support from mothers who must send their sons to battle.

When wars were fought by professional armies and navies, there was only small concern with the causes of the conflict. But now that war has become total, reaching into every home and requiring daily sacrifices, the American people insist on knowing the reasons behind recurring conflicts.

Never before was there such insistence on general knowledge of the men who frame foreign policy. Never was there such an understanding that secrecy and disloyalty and stupidity in high policy-making posts can lead us into unnecessary and unpopular struggles, such as many feel the Korean "police action" to be.

In short, the public seems willing to back any attempt to insure that the tragic Hiss chapter shall not be repeated. And not even such a popular individual as Ike dares to stand up against that sentiment, even though the McCarthy, Jenner, Velde and Bricker inquiries sometimes irritate him.

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

To the new City Council:

My first demand on you is to In a more serious vein he said, cook and nurse for the week of July 5th through 12th. We are attempting to plan a beach trip and so far have no help lined up.

When I told one of the winning candidates that last night he said, "It would be easier to find a qualified City Manager!"

At midnight last night some of the ballot-counting crew dragged into the Carolina Grill for coffee. The only winning candidate on hand to foot the bill was Gene West. Immediately I put Gene on the spot: "Has your rapid progress on the TV station been part of your campaign to win the people over, or will it continue at the same pace?"

Gene said he would continue to build the station just as fast as he can get the materials. "But don't let those walls running up fool you," he said. "That inside work is very slow." Gene commented that he was very appreciative of the support given him in the election. "I didn't realize I had so many friends," he said.

The top man on the ticket, Bill Whedbee, said, "I'm tired and my feet hurt clean up to my hips." In a more serious evin he said, "I simply want to thank all those who voted for me." Bill's poll of votes bore out the predictions of the street-corner politicians who said all during the campaign that he would lead the ticket. He's one of two of the new councilmen with previous political experience, the other being J. A. Collins. Bill was Judge of the County Court for two terms.

Wesley Harvey shared the feeling of all candidates, winners and losers, in appreciation of support. "I'm going in office," he said, "with an open mind and will attempt to find the best solution for the problems facing us."

An hour before the votes were counted J. A. Collins was carefully watching the ballots. He had what looked like a firm hold on fourth place but was edged out, by a mere 10 votes, into fifth. At this point it was obvious that the sixth and best man in the race, I. J. Edwards Sr., had no charce of overtaking the fifth-place man.

Collins recalled, in contrast to the number of votes cast yesterday, a 1932 election for aldermen under the old ward set-up when Joe Taft received 96 votes, he received 90, and Jack Moye 69.

Bitts Ruffin had taken off before I could reach him for comment.

The unsung hero of the election is J. B. Kittrell Jr. and his Junior Chamber of Commerce committee who was responsible for selling Greenville on the City Manager form of government. Ironically enough, it all started one summer afternoon of last year when the JC president, Charlie Horne, was chatting with J. B. Kittrell Sr. As a result of that chat, Charlie formed a committee, with J. B. Jr. as chairman. Key members were Kenneth Hite, Gene Ward, Dave Whichard III and Charlie Horne. But the entire JC Club worked hard to get this form of government in. From this corner it looks as if we have a council that can put the form into successful operation.

And I thank you.

Y.D.C. — The Young Democratic Clubs meeting in Asheville did not attract as many recognized leaders from over the state as some previous similar meetings Whatever it lacked in size was the importance of discussions and decisions, and by the presence of the high brass in the Democratic party in the State and Nation. Featured speaker was Stephen A. Mitchell, national Democratic Chairman. On hand to greet him were Everett Jordan, N.C. State Chairman; Mrs. John T. Richardson, vice chairman, and Mrs. B.B. Everett, national committeewoman.

DUAL PURPOSE — The occasion not only served the Young Democrats well in affording an opportunity to discuss plans, but it also gave the national chairman a chance to confer with state and county Democratic leaders on matters of party strategy. Mitchell was winding up a tour through the South, and had just come from a regional conference in Birmingham, Alabama.

OLIVE BRANCH — In public speeches and conference statements, the national chairman urged straying Democrats to come back into the "church", but warned that they could not expect to be deacons until they have proven the sincerity and completness of their repentance.

IN STATE — The big chairman was concerned with the national situation. Most of those attending the Y.D.C. meeting were more interested in North Carolina affairs. Conversations dealt mainly with the record of the recent General Assembly, who will be appointed by Governor to top positions, and who will be candidates for the U.S. Senate next year.

BONDS—It seemed to be generally believed that the $72 million bonds on which the Legisature authorized a vote will be approved by the people without much opposition. The suggestion that the Republican party might throw its weight against the $50 million school building issue was not considered a serious threat.

APPOINTMENT — The western folks are particularly interested in roads and in reorganization of the highway commission. For most part they do not like the idea of disturbing the present highway division set up. Those with whom your reporter talked, however, admitted that the personnel of the new commission is more important than division lines.

CANDIDATES — There was a good deal of discussion about prospective candidates for the Senate next year and for Governor in 1956. A few hardy souls speculated on the possibility that Senator Clyde Hoey might retire at end of his current term, thus requiring the election of another Senator three years from now. It seemed to be agreed that was a remote possibility.

SMITH — The most talked about item was the position of Senator Willis Smith. The junior Senator's positive announcement for re-election had come the day before, following a story in State newspapers about a group of Senators trying to sidetrack him in favor of John D. Larkins Jr. Smith was in Asheville, speaking before another group but had to leave to keep previous engagements at Southern Pines and Fort Bragg before the Y.D.C group convened. His administrative assistant, Jesse Helms was on hand and took an active part in proceedings.

CONTEST — Despite the fact he has reserved campaign headquarters space in the Sir Walter Hotel, Senator Smith has said he does expect formidable opposition. Opinion is general that there will be a real contest, although there is no agreement as to who will afford it. Most frequently men-

What Other Papers Are Thinking

GRAVY TRAIN SHOULD BE SIDETRACKED
(Charlotte Observer)

The $48 million that the House Appropriations Committee lopped off the request for the State Department in the Truman budget is not any too much, and it should result in a sharp reduction in the overgrown organization of that department abroad.

For years the department has been full of people who had jobs that might have once been useful but are no longer so. Their chief occupation in recent times has been to perpetuate their own jobs and those of thousands of others under them.

What is needed in the department now is a group of men devoted to the opposite course of reducing the size of some bureaus that may still have some function and of abolishing those that have outlived their usefulness.

For example, we are still publishing three newspapers in Germany, distributed in Berlin, Frankfurt, and Munich. Just after the war when Germany was devastated, her economy disrupted, and her newspapers in large part suspended, it was necessary for the United States occupation authorities to publish these papers to keep the German people informed.

But now Western Germany has made the most remarkable economic recovery in Europe. Her own newspapers have been revived and are being published in almost every city. They have a free press that can give the people all the information they can get from the American newspapers. Yet these three papers are still published by the State Department.

Besides these newspapers, the Department keeps up reading rooms in most West German towns at large expense. These, too, have have outlived their usefulness, because German libraries and clubs are again functioning.

Finally, we should dispense with the public information or propaganda agencies that we have in most of the important cities of Western Germany. These bureaus are serving no useful purpose but are costing us a great deal of money. The House Appropriations Committee should insist that the State Department should confine its activities to the capital cities of all countries in which it is represented, except, of course for the usual consulates.

The House Committee has heard so much about the extravagance of State Department representatives abroad that it is no wonder that it cut the appropriaion by 32 per cent. It is a healthy trend.

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER

Controls on nickel are being tightened at the very time regulation of most other strategic materials is ending. Moreover, strict domestic and international regulation of this vital metal is likely to continue for a long time.

In 1952 the United States consumed 202,000,000 pounds of nickel—roughly two-thirds the free world supply. Of this amount, more than 90 per cent went to defense and defense supporting industries. The remainder going into consumer products is just about enough to prevent considerable disruption in civilian industries. Potential demand is estimated at 400,000,000 pounds.

The military appetite for nickel can be seen in the fact that a 6,000-pound thrust jet engine requires approximately 660 pounds of the metal and some require as much as 2,400 pounds. Nickel is an alloy material used in two-thirds of stainless steel widely used in military equipment.

The National Production Authority prohibits the use of nickel in almost 300 groups of products, including chemical and food processing equipment, pharmaceutical and printing trade equipment, bathroom fixtures, stretchers and litters, textile machinery, hand tools and even permanent magnets in pin-ball machines.

Manufacture of white gold is prohibited because it contains an alloy of one-sixth nickel. Production of durable, high-quality, inexpensive costume jewelry also requires nickel. Flatware makers are trying to find a substitute. Electroplating firms have been hard hit because the metal is needed as a binder. Chromium plating quality has plunged. One automobile supplier told the Senate Small Business Committee that if a new car spent three days at the seashore, the bumpers would look as though they had chicken pox.

Our government has concluded purchasing agreements with several producers in Canada—source of 90 per cent of the free world's nickel—and with two U.S. firms, but supply is still far behind demand.

The most promising news is Freeport Sulphur Company's discovery of a large deposit of nickel ore at Moa Bay in Cuba. This ore body also contains scarce cobalt and is described by the company as the most important proven free world source outside of Canada. Initial production of 30,000,000 pounds annually is planned.

There is an older deposit of nickel ore nearby, processed at the Government-owned plant, at Nicaro. Freeport developed this source, becoming the first American company to mine and process nickel on a large scale. The Moa Bay deposit, however, is considered more vauable since a new leaching process produces the nickel in metallic form rather than the nickel oxide produced at Micaro.

Another recent find was made by International Nickel Co., in Manitoba, Canada. The company reports that so far the deposit has proved to be low-grade ore and is not commercial under present conditions. Exploration will continue on the find, however.

CITIES ESTABLISH MORE PARKING LOTS

Traffic and business will both benefit by the increase in parking lots during 1952.

Some 234 cities in the United States, 70 for the first time, put 331 parking lots into service, the Public Administration Clearing House reports. A total of 519 cities with populations of more than 10,000 reported they were operating 1,465 parking lots.

Total parking space in both public and privately operated facilities averaged 56 spaces per 1,000 registered vehicles in 240 cities with populations of more than 10,000. Eight cities having populations of more than 250,000 had 94 spaces per 1,000 registered vehicles.

Financing of parking lots was done through parking meter receipts in 136 cities, general taxes in 44 cities, general obligation bonds in 11 cities, revenue bonds in four cities and special assessments in four cities. Twenty-three cities used more than one method of financing.

NEW YORK (AP)—The man still wears the pants in the average American home-but it is the wife who picks the kind he wears.

"My husband simply hates shopping," she says, smugly. "He'd never buy a new suit unless I went along with him."

I don't like to destroy any woman's illusion, but a wife who holds the idea is simply kidding herself. Most men love to go shopping and buy purty things to hang upon themselves and cloak nature's errors. Neither sex has a corner on vanity.

But it is a mistake for a wife to think he brings her along on a suit-buying safari because he is color-blind or she has superior taste. He is simply afraid to go it alone. He wants her for the same reason he would like her by his side if he had to go into a lion's den-for protection. For her fighting qualities, if real trouble breaks out.

By himself a man has the same resistance against a clothing salesman a worried worm has against a hungry robin. He doesn't know which way to turn. He buys what he doesn't want because he becomes frantic and can't say "No."

Normally you can't blame this on the salesman. He's no spider, spinning a web of words to trap your pocketbook. He's just a plain, God-fearing, debt — owing, horse-playing, wife-listening fellow who earns an indoor living as he listens to his foot arches slowly crumble through the years.

No, it is a man's own fault if he buys the wrong suit. The reason he does it is because he is frightened. He has been afraid of clothing stores since childhood. Here is how it all began:

You are a little boy, and your mother takes you to a store to buy you a new suit. You and your mother are all alone in a strange new world, where a big tall strange man pats you patronizingly on the back and says, "So this is the little man, eh?" And you look around and all you can see is row on row of little suits hung up on racks like headless children your own age.

You feel uneasy. You run up to a mirror and peek in and see three boys instead of you. One boy is you. Who are the other two? You have never seen a three-way mirror before.

Fascinated, you turn around and around and discover all three boys are you. But you have never seen yourself this way before. Your profile is a stranger. Is this the way you look to other people? It depresses you. You make a face at your reflection—and get three faces back.

While you are still gloomy over discovering you have three faces instead of the one you are used to, you hear the tall strange man say firmly:

"I think this one was made for him:"

"Well, I don't:" says nother sharply, because she is tired.

Oh, oh: Mama and the tall strange man are fighting: Will he hit her? If he does, can she whip him? She is awful strong, but he is awful big. What can you do to help mama? Bite the man in the leg?

Terrified, you run your eyes down the rack, pick out a suit you had liked when you first came in,and say:

"Please. Mama. I like this one:" Well, the sharp words end. Mama smiles, the big strange man smiles. You get a nice new suit, instead of being hung up on the rack your-self-as you had feared.

But all your life you s have deep in you your childish dislike of the three-way mirror for showing you to yourself as your really look, and your fear of the tall strange man.

That is the secret reason why a man takes his wife along when he buys a new suit. For the comfort of her presence-not the surety of her taste.

So face it, Ladies. When you go into a clothing store with the man you're married to, it isn't your husband you're with. You are simply leading by the hand his mother's small boy, secretly as confused as ever.

Washington Letter

By CARL HARTMAN
(For Jane Eads)

WASHINGTON—Americans may be astonished to hear it, but what impressed three German parliamentary experts about Congress are its calm and thoughtfulness.

Those were the two words used by Hans Trossmann, a portly, good-humored Bavarian who is "director" of the West German Bundestag — clerk, parliamentarian, sergeant-at-arms, chief doorkeeper and committee staff manager of the parliament's lower house rolled into one. "His is the kind of job where you have to change your shirt every three hours," says one U.S. parliamentary expert who knows Germany.

With Trossmann on a month's tour are Dr. Albert A. Pfitzer, director of the West German Senate, and Friedrich K.O. Schramm, assistant to the speaker of the Bundestag. They agree that Congress is a tranquil and deliberate body, compared with what they are used to at home.

"In Europe we have the idea that Americans do everything in a big hurry," Trossmann told me. "It's not so — certainly not in Congress. I sat in on a number of Senate sessions. It was all very smooth and informal, yet things got done. Everyone was playing his own instrument, but the music came out all together. And everyone seemed to have plenty of time to talk to us, to give us a real behind-the-scenes picture of what goes on."

The three men also got a new slant on open committee hearings, not customary in Germany. "I had thought they were really for lobbyists addressing their own supporters, or making publicity," Trossmann explained. "Now I see they have a real part in making the laws."

All three like what Trossmann called "the flexibility — the dynamic" of the American system. "You might think," he said, "that after 150 years of the same type of government it would have solidified to some extent. But no! You passed a big reorganization act in 1946, and now you're already considering new reorganizations." "In Congress you get about 10,000 bills a year, and maybe 10 per cent of them pass. We only get a few hundred, and almost all of them become law in one form or another."

Hawaiian Theme At Class Banquet

By ANN RUFFIN and RUTH EVELYN TOPPING

To the tune of Hawaiian melodies juniors and seniors entered the tropical Hawaiian surroundings of the Junior-Senior banquet staged at the ECC dining hall Friday.

They were greeted at the door by Mrs. Sue C. Howell, Miss Deanie Boone Haskett, Miss Frances Smith, Mrs. Mary Goodman, Ann Ruffin, Bobby Langston, Virginia Smith, O.J. Stancill, Betty Gayle Raynor, and Charles Ray Joyner.

Each found at his table a center piece of green and orange streamers extending the length of the table, candles decorated as palm trees, and program booklets. During the steak dinner Lou Cheatham, Alice Flye, and Mary Will Long, sophomore waitresses, distributed nabs, chewing gum, candies, and small diplomas for the seniors.

Sam Winchester, junior class president, welcomed the "islanders." A toast to the seniors given by Bruce Baker, junior vice president, was followed by the response, "Hawaiian Leis," by Ray Evans, senior class president.

"The Royal Palm", a toast to the faculty by Ann Wilkerson, junior secretary, was followed by a response from Miss Estelle Greene, representing the faculty. "Fair Hawaii", a toast to the school by Billy Bost with Mr. J.H. Rose responding concluded the toasts.

Jesse Boyd sang "An old Hawaiian Custom" while dates exchanged leis. Rachael Lang, Jo Anna Rooke, and Richard Gorman, Hawaiian revelers, entertained the banquet guests. Jay Robbins, a sophomore, and Mr. Dan Sutton of Bodkin's music company furnished Hawaiian dinner music. Bobby Langston rendered "Evening in Hawaii" and led the group in singing "Hawaiian Sunset."

At the dance coats were checked in bamboo huts. Decorations included a rock garden, a crystal pool, an oil pinting of an Hawaiian sunset, and pine boughs. Music was furnished by the Collegiate Band of ECC.

During the floorshow, Lloyd Bray, Jimmy Phelps, and Dickie Newell portrayed three sailors who were on leave in Hawaii. Islanders who carried them on tour were Wayne Bishop and Dewey Griffith.

The sailors heard Sylvia Rogers and R.C. Fields sing "Blue Hawaii," Patsy Madry play her guitar and sing "It's Sleepy Time in Hawaii," and saw Sara Adams burst from a huge pineapple to dance "Lovely Hula Hands." A sophomore sextet composed of Kitty Collins, Sue Tucker, Rachael Steinbeck, Jane Winchester, and Peggy Mills ended the floor-show with "Isle of Golden Dreams" and "Hawaiian Sunset."

Buck Fichter Pitches Two-Hitter In Blanking Phants

Casey Uses Stars To Win Pennants

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK UP)—Now it can be told, how Casey Stengel won four straight world championships for the New York Yankees.

The secret is this:

The stars which Stengel sees aren't the ones which General Manager George Weiss gets for him.

Casey doesn't do it with mirrors. Nor does he have anything up his sleeve except two well-worn elbows.

Old Case is an astrologist.

The secret of how the one-time Pagliacci of the basepaths became ringmaster of the baseball big top slipped out the other day when Stengel announced in his usual forthright fashion that he expected a big month coming up for Ewell Blackwell and Whitey Ford. Everybody within hearing was knocked flatter than a patrolman's arches when Casey asserted:

"They're both Libras and their star is in the ascendency."

This is the most startling statement since the Nazis were invited to a monkey banquet at Bastogne. First off, old Case is so hazy when it comes to names that he still refers to fancy-fielding Billy Cox of the Dodgers as "The Circus Man." Anybody who knows him would bet that Casey's diagnosis of the word "Libra" would consist of a drink made in Cuba or a pitcher in the Venezuelan League.

An amazing man, as he has proved in each and every one of the past four years. And it may send the rest of the major league managers scurrying to the closest planetarium.

For Old Case really has something there. Take, for instance, the game the other day in which the tattered Detroit Tigers — everybody's cousin for a couple of seasons now — upended the mighty Yankees. According to the horoscopes of the players involved, the Yanks couldn't have won that day if they had been playing the patsies of the Epworth League.

As a sample Gene Woodling has been the Yanks' leading hitter. His astrological warning for the day was: "Beware of being foolhardy." So he went to bat four times and didn't raise a loud foul.

Yogi Berra comes under the sign of Taurus, the bull. No comment. But Yogi also went zero-for-four in the woodwork department and his astral admonition for the day was: "Don't be too optimistic."

Vic Raschi, who put the Yanks in hock by giving up 10 hits in five innings, would have known had he studied his horoscope for that day that it warned: "Don't aim above your head." Well, that is where his pitches were going, and you can scoff if you like. Blackwell came in at the end and was manhandled, too, but Casey's still smiling.

Blackie's chart encouraged: "Have no misgivings over what happens today."

On the other hand, Detroit's Dave Madison won the game and you can't blame Stengel if he points out that the pitcher's morning line promised "better than good results." And Art Houtteman, who mopped up, had a forecast which "bids fair to top most days this past week."

That's really an understatement. Considering that it was only the Tigers' fourth win of the season, you could say it topped most days this year.

As Old Case probably would point out, the stars had a bad day. Not his, the ones upstairs.

Managers Meet

Managers of the four Pony League teams will hold a meeting Thursday night, May 7, at 7:30 to select players for the coming season.

The final workout for the Pony League candidates will be held tomorrow afternoon at Guy Smith Stadium from 4:30 until 7:30. Managers are requested to attend the workout tomorrow.

Pirates Lose 8-1 To State Netters

RALEIGH — Dallas Foscue and Frazier Bruton won the number two doubles yesterday to keep East Carolina from being completely shutout in a tennis match with N. C. State College. The Wolfpack won the non-conference match 8-1.

Foscue and Bruton defeated State's Collar and Coppersmith, 6-4, 1-6, 6-2, to take the set and ECC's only win of the afternoon. Except for that one doubles match and two singles matches the Wolfpack won in straight sets from the Pirates.

The summary:

Singles

Aksel (S) defeated Cameron, 6-2, 9-7.

Greenberg (S) defeated Hallow, 6-2, 6-2.

Duffett (S) defeated Muse, 4-6, 6-2, 6-0.

Gough (S) defeated Bruton, 6-2, 6-2.

Garman (S) defeated Foscue, 6-3, 3-6, 6-1.

Bob Howell Gets Only Hits For Greenville As Kinston Ace Strikes Out 15, Walks One In Northeastern Game

By JIMMY ELLIS
Reflector Sports Editor

Buck Fichter, a deceptively fast righthanded All-State pitcher, showed the Greenville Phantoms just why he has all the honors he has by pitching a two-hit, 7-0 victory for Kinston yesterday. The Northeastern Conference contest was played in Guy Smith Stadium.

The two hits off Fichter were both by Bob Howell and one of them was strictly of the "scratch" variety. The Kinston ace had only one other base runner, Dallas Evans, who walked in the first inning. He struck out 15.

The Red Devils showed their appreciation of Fichter's job on the mound by chasing across seven runs in a big sixth inning. Ken Brinkley started the merry-go-round by working Greenville starter Bill Hendrix for a free pass to first base. Ed Avery did the same thing and George Whitfield started the flow of runs by scoring Brinkley with a single into rightfield.

Hendrix Chased

The single by Whitfield chased Hendrix to the showers and Coach Bo Farley of the Phantoms waved in Dave Dickinson to do the pitching.

Allen Heath got Dickinson in trouble right off the bat by greeting him with a single that loaded the bases. Fichter struck out to momentarily slow the rally but Cecil Gooding immediately put it back into high gear by reaching first on an error by first baseman Charles Joyner. Bobby Rowe drew a walk off Dickinson to force home another run and Bobby Casey drove in two more with a double. Lane Ward was out on a dribbler in front of the plate but Brinkley, up for the second time, accounted for the final run with a single.

The big inning was the thing that actually broke the back of the Phantoms but they had had trouble all along in the contest. The first two men to face Fichter reached base—Evans on the only walk given up by the Kinston ace and Howell on a single—but they died on the sacks and Fichter went on from that point to retire 17 batters in succession.

The spell was finally broken in the sixth when Howell lashed out a skidding grounder which third baseman Heath couldn't hold. After that, Fichter settled back down and retired the last 10 men to face him. He struck out six of those last ten.

Heath, Gooding, Rowe, and Casey each had two hits for Kinston with Casey pounding out a pair of two-base hits for the honors. Howell, of course, was Greenville's top batter.

The Phantoms will close their schedule next Tuesday with a trip to Washington.

Pirates Play

East Carolina College's Pirates will seek to even up their standing with the Guilford Quakers today at 2:45 on the college diamond when the teams meet for the fourth, and final, time this year.

The Quakers have won two of the first three meetings this year. Their latest win was last Friday and the same fellow who pitched that 7-3 win, Joe Bailey Nunn, is expected to pitch today.

Righthander Jimmy Byrd will oppose Nunn for the Pirates. Byrd has not lost in conference play thus far this season.

Yanks Blast Indians For Easy 11-1 Win

By CARL LUNDQUIST
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YOR K(UP) — No wonder Hank Greenberg hates the Yankees.

Look what they keep doing to his Cleveland Indians, especially with the pressure on.

Tuesday night in the first so-called big game of the season, Casey Stengel's swaggering New Yorkers won with the authority of word champs, pounding out an eight-run rally in the fourth for an 11-1 victory.

And the way they did it was almost contemptuous. Cleveland offered its best, ace Bob Lemon, but Stengel rode along with his cocky little ex-GI left hander, Whitey Ford. In this first game against the club that is supposed to offer the Yankees their most serious opposition in the path to a fifth straight pennant, Stengel might have countered with lefty Ed Lopat, who holds an incredible "hex" over the Indians, or Allie Reynolds, who no-hitted them in the same Cleveland Stadium two years ago.

But Ford, pitching with the class of a seasoned veteran and the cold nerve of a sock-footed burglar, held the Indians to eight hits, struck out five and contributed two clean singles.

It was all over when the Yankee hitters began peppering away at Lemon like Marsmen with rifles in the big fourth. They put together seven singles, a walk and a hit batsman for their eight runs. Gil McDougald came up twice and singled each time, driving in three runs. They kayoed Lemon and, in the following inning, bopped out Al Aber, his successor, with three more runs. A homer by Wally Westlake gave Cleveland its only tally.

Lefty Mel Parnell of the surprising Red Sox won his fourth straight game, 5-1 at Chicago, and Virgil Trucks pitched the Browns to a 2-1 triumph over the Athletics at St. Louis. Washington topped the Tigers, 14-4 at Detroit as winning pitcher Bob Porterfield hit a grand slam home run.

All National League games were rained out.

The Red Sox, who weren't supposed to be much but a bunch of green kids, made it six victories in seven games on their western trip with Parnell's fine six-hitter. Ted Lepcio, playing at third in place of the injured George Kell, hit a home run and Jimmy Piersall collected three hits to give him a mark of seven in his last 10 times at bat.

Trucks gave up eight hits in winning his third game for the Browns and gained his margin of victory over rugged Harry Byrd when Vic Wertz hit a two-run homer in the sixth after a single by Hank Edwards. A walk to Eddie Joost and Dave Philley's double gave Philadelphia its only run in the third. Trucks encountered trouble in the ninth when the first two batters singled, but he got Ray Murray on a pop-up and pinch hitter Tom Hamilton hit into a double play.

Washington and Detroit each made 16 hits in their slugfest but the Senators had more thunder in their blows. In addition to Porterfield's homer Jackie Jensen hit a double and triple, and Les Peden and Mickey Vernon aso hit doubles. The Nats put together two six-run innings.

Bobo Olson Not Afraid Of Middleweight Foe Young

SAN FRANCISCO (UP) — Carl (Bobo) Olson, Honolulu's gift to the nation's fight ranks has no fear of Paddy Young, the man he must battle for the American middleweight crown.

In fact, the Young fight, now set for Madison Square Garden in June, is "just another bout" for the balding young man.

"I've never seen Young fight in person," says Bobo, "but I did see him on the TV when he fought Ernie Durando. From what I saw there, Paddy can take a good punch. He's a good club fighter."

Olson, a soft-talking 25-year old with a lot of experience, isn't a bit excited about the chance to make something like $45,000 in the title fight.

"I've fought in Madison Square Garden before," he said. "I'll fight there just as well as I do any place. And I'll do my road work in Central Park."

Manager Sid Flaherty says his battler already is in good condition. Olson has been doing roadwork here and should be able to start boxing in a few days — if necessary. Flaherty and Olson won't leave for the East until June 9. In the meantime, the fighter expects to reach nearly tip-top condition.

Bobo honestly believes that he'll beat Young and then fight the winner of the Randy Turpin-Charles Humez bout for the world title. And he thinks Humez will be o Humez bou for the world title. Humez bout for the world title. And he thinks Humez will be his opponent.

Park Opening

Formal opening ceremonies for Greenville's Elm Street Recreation Area will begin today at 3 o'clock with a tennis exhibition.

Following the tennis match, all of the recreation facilities of the area will be demonstrated by actual use. Sports including ping-pong, horseshoes, volley ball and baseball will be demonstrated.

The baseball will be in the form of regular season contests by Minor League and Little League teams. The Minor League contest will start at 4 o'clock with the Little League game following as soon as possible.

A picnic supper with a Recreation Department movie will conclude the activities.

Increase Forecast

COLUMBUS, O. (UP)— Officials of the United States Trotting Association predicted today that the 1953 harness season would see a 10 per cent increase in attendance, purses, wagers and revenue to states.

"The 10 per cent estimate," said Executive Vice President Don R. Millar, "is very conservative. The increase will probably be much greater in some categories."

Phils Pick Bums As Biggest Threat

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — The Philadelphia Phillies today stamped the Brooklyn Dodgers as the biggest threat to their slim National League lead, and already were preparing their hottest pitchers for a three-game weekend series at Ebbets Field.

Manager Steve O'Neill, whose Phillies lead the league by one game before tonight's battle with Cincinnati, named Curt Simmons to start against the Dodgers Friday night, Karl Drews to follow on Saturday, and Robin Roberts to wind up his team's first 1953 invasion of Brooklyn.

The robust pilot also nominated Roberts to face Cincinnati tonight and called on right hander Steve Ridzik to hurl the second and final encounter against the Redlegs Thursday.

O'Neill said he was pleased as punch with the Philies' three-game sweep of the Dodgers two weeks ago in Philadelphia.

"We played like we really want that pennant," O'Neill said, "and the players realize who they'll have to beat."

"There's no doubt the Dodgers are the best around," Steve continued, "but we hope to get the jump on them as erly as possible."

East Carolina Golf Team Wins North State Crown

GREENSBORO—Four East Carolina College golfers had a combined total of 641 to sew up the team championship in the North State Conference golf championships completed yesterday on Greensboro's Starmount Forest Country Club course.

Claude King, East Carolina's number one man, came in with a second round 77 to take second place among the individual players. Walter Travis of Guilford took the championship with a 36 hole total of 154 on the par 72 course.

King's 77 would have given him a chance at the individual championship had he not had a bad front nine in Monday's round. He shot an 80 on Monday to slip three strokes behind Travis, a Guilford senior from High Point.

East Carolina's Bob Braun also saw his chances for a shot at the crown slip away on a 41 on the back nine of yesterday's final round. Braun had gone out with a 37 but lost his touch on the way home.

Harry Rainey, number four man for the Pirates, turned in a 161 for the two rounds and wound up in a tie with Bill Oteen of Guilford for fifth place.

Travis used a short but true game to take the championship. He went out Monday in 77 and had everything but an exact carbon copy of his first round yesterday. He was not trying to power his way to the championship but preferred, instead, to make use his short game.

Travis succeeds Carl Tharin of Guilford as the individual champion.

Farmville Rallies For 4-3 Victory

FARMVILLE—Wildness on the part of the Snow Hill pitcher did much to account for three runs in the last of the seventh inning as Farmville rallied last night to defeat Snow Hill 4-3.

Snow Hill's Harrell uncorked an uncontrolled pitch against Connie King with the bases loaded and the score tied in the last frame to force home the winning run for the Red Devils. Farmville had gone into the inning with a two run deficit.

John Hinson started the big last inning for Farmville by getting hit by a pitch. Jack Farrior singled and Ted Allen followed with a walk to load the bases with heavy-hitting Carroll Allen at the plate. Allen blasted out a long drive that cleared the fence on the hop for a ground rule double and two runs. Sigbee Dilda walked to reload the bases and it was immediately thereafter that one of Harrell's pitches got away from him and hit King to force in Allen with the winning run.

Farrior was top man at the plate for both teams with three hits in four trips. Hamm and Taylor of Snow Hill got two-for-three apiece.

Farmville will play again Thursday when they travel to Ayden to meet the Ayden Tornadoes.

Charge By Guerin Denied By Jockey

Gallardo Sets For Two Ring Targets

WASHINGTON UP)— Revenge and a shot at the "interim" featherweight title are the targets for Davey Gallardo tonight when he tangles with Charley Riley of St. Louis in a nationally televised 10-round bout.

Gallardo, 23-year old Mexican from Los Angeles, is the lad who astounded the experts in his last fight by scoring an upset decision over Percy Bassett, the interim champ, from Philadelphia.

That triumph skyrocketed Gallardo into the No. 1 ranking as featherweight contender, and also ran his current string of victories to 12. But he will be trying for that hoodoo No. 13 against a rough puncher who knocked him out in seven rounds when they met in 1951.

Gallardo will have to be wary of that dynamite in Riley's fists this time, too, because Riley has proved his punching prowess against top-ranked battlers.

Riley knocked out Bassett in two rounds in St. Louis last June, but the interim champion gained revenge with a unanimous decision in a return match.

NEW YORK (UP) — Jockey Eric Guerin's charge that the bumping suffered by favored Native Dancer in last Saturday's Kentucky Derby "was no accident" drew a denial today from fellow rider Al Popara.

It was Popara's mount, Money Broker, which knocked Native Dancer off stride on the first turn of the Derby run and possibly set up his stunning setback at the hands of longshot Dark Star.

Guerin, generally close-mouthed and reticent, blamed the incident on Money Broker and his jockey. But Popara, reached at Churchill Downs where he still is sitting out a suspension for rough riding two days before the Derby, attributed it to "racing luck."

"There were a lot of horses together when we hit the turn," Popara said, "and I couldn't get back of Guerin's horse. So I tried to circle him. I actually thought we had cleared Native Dancer all right, but my horse changed stride and I heard Guerin yell.

"It's entirely possible the bumping kept Native Dancer from winning. But, you know, when you have a string of victories, racing luck is bound to catch up with you."

Sees Early Completion Of Pirate Club Drive

Approximately 200 membership cards have been processed and are being mailed to Pirates Club members today.

The announcement was made this morning by E.E. Rawl, Sr., president of the recently organized club which has as its purpose the support of the athletic program at East Carolina College.

As soon as receipts for other memberships in the club are turned in, membership cards will be mailed to the members.

"Much interest is being manifest in the Pirates Club "Rawl declared, "and it is anticipated that the 1,000 charter members will be obtained much earlier that it was originally anticipated." Interested people from Washington and Farmville have requested local units of the Pirates Club be organized in their cities, which, according to Rawl will be done in the course of the next week.

Information was released yesterday by President John D. Messick of the college that the General Assembly approved two new dormitories for East Carolina and the new dormitories will be constructed as soon as possible.

"This means there will be close to 3,000 students on the campus rather than the present 2,214," Rawl said, "which places all the more burden for the need of additional seats in the stadium. The announcement that Jim Mallory, former head coach of Elon, is now coming to East Carolina as assistant to Coach Jack Boone further assures us of not only outstanding, but a superb football team this fall," Rawl asserted.

Pirates Club officers have received a number of requests for memberships in the club from people not contacted by the canvassing committee, and in compliance with these requests, several places where memberships may be purchased will be designated in the near future. These headquarters are to be set up in downtown Greenville, Washington and Farmville in order to enable citizens of those communities to conveniently secure their memberships to the Pirates Club.

'Shoestring Players' To Give Play At S. Edgecombe School

PINETOPS—The Shoestring Players of Wilson will present a three-act comedy entitled, "Crystal Clear," in the South Edgecombe High School auditorium on Friday evening, May 8, at 8 o'clock.

The theatre group, known as the Shoestring Players, was formed recently by Cecil Willis and Robin French whose chief purpose was to bring clean, entertaining plays to this section of North Carolina. "Crystal Clear" is a charming light comedy which keeps the audience in constant laughter throughout the play. The plot deals with a newly married couple who are forced to live with the wife's cranky and rich mother. All kinds of involvements with strangers and fortune tellers insue.

Most of the players perform with stock companies during the summers. One of the players has had preyious' experience on Broadway. The players were rated "superior" in a recent appearance in Chapel Hill, North Carolina.

The production here is under the sponsorship of the South Edgecombe High School Monogram Club.

Chief of Police S. G. Gibbs announced that a new supply of dog tags have been received by the local department and the tags can now be issued.

A shortage of tags several weeks ago made it necessary to cancel the sale of tags until the arrival of the new shipment.

Gibbs in making the announcement requested that all dog owners who have not made application for tags to do so in the near future.

tioned prospects are former Governor Scott and State Senator Larkins. Many people think Scott is a more likely prospect for another try at the governorship, but he cannot be counted out of the picture next year.

REALISTIC — Kerr Scott has always been candid and realistic about campaign costs. In face of a statute that limited spendings in a gubernatorial primary to $18,000 ($12,000 for the first and $6,000 for the run-off if required) and a sworn statement that he spent slightly less than that, he told newsme at several press conferences that his headquarters expenses in 1948 approximated $60,000, and he did not know how much was spent through-out the state. The only reason for bringing that situation to public attention now is that it gives color of credence to rumors about financing a Scott campaign for the United States Senate next year.

$100,000 — Reports from usually reliable, but presently unquotable, sources are that Scott told a group of CIO people a few days ago that he would get into the races if they would put one hundred thousand dollars on the line before the campaign started. Further report is that the CIO representatives were startled by the figure and asked for more time to mull over the proposition before making any promises. After all, that is right sizeable money for one outfit to spend on one political race in one state. The exact matters discussed are not known, but it is known that a small group of CIO political action committee folks got together in Charlotte a few days ago and talked about next year's elections and how to win them for friends of organized labor.

Chapter 24

Brindle didn't move. "It is really unfortunate that you observe so well," Quan Chee went on. "You have penetrated a very minor enterprise, but of course I can't very well afford to allow your piece of intelligence to leave the room, can I?"

"Why are you holding the girl?"

"You change the subject, but very well. The girl, too, is most inquisitive. It is a bad trait. Patience is a much finer one. I might add, heathier, too. She discovered something very dangerous for her to know—concerning another enterprise."

"Where is she now?"

Quan Chee grinned over the muzzle of the gun. "Really, your concern over her is unnecessary. She is quite well. Don't move."

Brindle decided he'd have to take a wild chance.

"I know what you are thinking," Quan Chee said. "Please don't be rash. I have been teasing you. It is, after all, not necessary to kill you. A dead man on one's hands is always a nuisance. You are free to go."

Brindle wasn't deceived. He knew what must be in the Oriental's mind. Murder in one's own apartment was messy. But if he were killed elsewhere, along the beach, on the highway, it would be highly desirable.

"Thanks for the coffee," Brindle said. "Maybe I'll be back for another cup sometime soon."

"Always consider yourself welcome."

Brindle stopped outside the door. A neglected emotion caught up with him: relief. If he could believe the Chinaman, Sally was still alive. He had to believe that. The poor kid was probably scared silly, but she was still alive.

And she had uncovered something important about one of Mr. Quan's enterprises Apparently the heroin-smuggling was a minor activity. Nice work, Miss Jameson.

He heard the jingle of money and turned. A bellboy was coming down the hall. Brindle waited for him.

"Want to make a good tip?"

The boy carried a metal tray loosely in one hand, and smiled. He was interested.

Brindle opened his wallet and found his smallest bill was a ten. He began rolling the bill into a tight tube.

"Do you know Quan Chee?"

"Si."

"What do you know about him?"

The boy had his eyes on the money. "Nothing, senor. He owns this hotel. That is all I know."

That explained a lot. Brindle kept teasing with the bill.

"There's a young woman in the hotel," he said, "to whom you bring meals. All her meals. Is that right?"

"No senor"

"Is there anyone to whom all meals are brought?"

After a moment the boy nodded brightly. "Si. But a man. Not a woman. He is very strange. He takes the tray at his door. Never does he let me come inside."

"Can you lead me to the room?"

"I will try, senor."

Brindle followed the boy up a flight, along the hall, and turned into a wing.

"It is that room, senor," he said finally, pointing to room 427.

"Are you sure?" Brindle snapped.

When the boy was gone, Brindle took the gun out of his holster and held it in his hand.

He knocked.

The voice that sounded came deep from inside. "Who's there?"

"Bellboy, senor."

Brindle could hear footsteps moving about inside the room. "Message from Mr. Quan." The footsteps approached.

"What's the matter—can't he phone?" That was mumbled as the man slid the bolt on the inside.

The door opened a few inches. Brindle rushed it open. The man sprawled back, instantly reached for a gun.

"Hold it"

Brindle froze, with his gun pointed. He recognized the man and wanted to laugh. It was the mouse, the man with the clipped blond hair.

Brindle relieved Frank of his gun and saw that it was his own, the one he'd left with Sally. "Where's the girl?."

"You nuts? There ain't no woman here."

The bathroom door was closed. That had to be it

Brindle stood back. "Open it."

"Sure." It was a sneer.

Brindle didn't know quite how he did it, but the next thing he knew he felt his arm twisted behind him and the gun was burrowing into his back.

"It ain't so hard," Frank said, "once you learn how. Maybe I ain't such a green punk, eh?" He took the other gun, forced Brindle into a chair and opened the bathroom door. "Come on out," he ordered.

It was Sally. A handkerchief tight in her mouth, wrists tied together. gether.

When she saw Brindle she rushed into the room, her eyes popping and sounds rushing from her throat. It was a moment before she saw the gun in Frank's hand. She stopped.

"You, sweetheart, on the bed. Now then, folks, Quan will want to know about this."

Keeping the gun steady, he walked to the phone.

It was hard to read what was in her eyes, but he thought he saw relief in them. At least she wasn't fighting it alone any more.

"Ring again." Frank was saying angrily into the phone. He must be there."

After a long wait Frank hung up. He slumped in a chair opposite Brindle and carelessly threw his leg over the overstuffed arm.

"We'll have to wait," he said amiably.

Laborites Show Gain In Britain

LONDON (UP)—The split Labor party showed a gain in popularity today in results from week-long elections for control of Britain's municipal governments.

But Prime Minister Winston Churchill's Conservative candidates held their own with 20 gains and 20 losses in results reported by mid-afternoon. The Laborites scored a net gain of 11 seats.

Three of the seats gained by the Laborites were at the expense of the Liberals and eight were captured from independents, who often vote with the Conservatives.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (UP)—Stocks moved within a very narrow range early today in dull dealings.

There was very little in the day's news developments to snap the market out of its current lethargy. The reporting tickers idled at various intervals in the first hour. Sales in that period totaled only 210,000 shares, compared with 280,000 in the same hour yesterday.

A few oil shares, which strengthened at the opening on the Senate's approval of the tidelands bill, also turned irregular.

Price movements just before noon were extremely small with a large number of issues holding at their previous close. A number of stocks failed to trade.

Anderson-Prichard was one of the few stocks that moved out of the narrow range. It rose to a new high of 57¾, up 1¼. Texas Pacific Land Trust was soft. It fell 1½ points to 131½.

Elsewhere, Phillips-Jones was a bright spot with a gain of 1¾ points to 23½.

Steel shares were featureless. U. S. Steel held unchanged at 32½. Youngstown Sheet & Tube and Bethlehem Steel firmed. Automotives tacked on small gains. Utilities dipped a few cents.

Move To Get House Approve Senate Tidelands Measure

By WILLIAM M. BATES
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP) — Coastal state congressmen maneuvered today to get the House to accept the Senate-approved Tidelands oil bill and speed it to President Eisenhower for his signature.

A five-week-old Senate battle ended late Tuesday with passage, 56 to 35, of a bill giving coastal states title to offshore lands out to their historical seaward boundaries.

Differences between the Senate measure and one previously passed by the House must be worked out before the bill reaches the President's desk for his promised signature.

Democratic Senate Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas urged House leaders to accept the Senate version to avoid delay. Otherwise, the measure must go to a House- Senate conference committee to reconcile the differences.

Some House members appeared ready to accept the Senate bill. One of these was Rep. Edwin E. Willis (D-La.), a strong supporter of state claims to the submerged lands.

Rep. Francis E. Walter (D-Pa.), a ranking Democrat on the House Judiciary Committee, said he also was "inclined to accept" the Senate's version. But Rep. Patrick J. Hillings (R-Calif.) said he thought the bill should go to a conference committee and felt the House bill came closer to administration views.

Both the House and Senate bills give coastal states title to oil bearing submerged lands out to their historical boundaries which lie 10 1-2 miles off the coast of west Forida and Texas and three miles off other states.

The House bill would set up federal machinery for granting oil leases on lands of the Continental Shelf which extend as far as 150 miles seaward of the state zone. The Senate bill merely claims federal jurisdiction and control over the outer Continental Shelf.

The Senate GOP leadership has insisted that the outer Continental Shelf be handled in separate legislation now being prepared by the Interior Committee. Senate Republican Leader Robert A. Taft said this follow-up bill will be brought to the floor within two weeks.

Tuesday's vote ended one of the longest Senate battles in recent years. Twenty-six working days and more than 1,200,000 words went into arguments over the bill.

Foes of the measure, who wanted continued federal control of the Tidelands, went down to the wire fighting. They proposed some 10 amendments to water down the measure before the final vote, but all were defeated.

BLOOD BY PROXY

LINCOLN, Neb. (UP) — Mrs. Dorothy Robinson contributed to the Red Cross blood drive even though she was unable to give blood because of an anemic condition and previous attacks of tuberculosis and rheumatic fever. She ran an advertisement in a Lincoln paper, offering $5 to anyone who would substitute for her in donating blood. More than a dozen persons responded.

Peron Opponents Are Rounded Up

BUENOS AIRES (UP)—At least 70 opposition politicians, including leaders of the Democratic (Conservative) and Socialist parties and a former Sunday editor of La Prensa, were arrested Monday and Tuesday in a roundup of "anti-government plotters," it was reported today.

The latest arrests increased to well over 200 the number of critics of President Juan D. Peron known to have been jailed on various charges in recent weeks.

Reynaldo Pastor, Democratic presidential candidate and his party's only representative in Congress from 1946 until he resigned last year, was reported picked up in Bahia Blanca.

Adolfo Vicchi, chairman of the Democratic Reorganization Committee, was arrested in Mendoza. The party's offices in Mendoza, San Juan and Tucuman were raided.

A Socialist spokesman said that Alfredo Palacios, a veteran leader of his party, was arrested on undisclosed charges at dawn Monday.

Mrs. Josue Santos Gollan reported that her husband, who was Sunday editor of La Prensa before it was expropriated and turned over to the government-sponsored labor unions, was arrested at his home here Monday night. The police who took him away gave no reason for the arrest, Mrs. Santo said.

Meanwhile, the semi-official press continued its campaign against American news agencies, charging that they are waging a "war of mud... against our people and our government... to prevent continental integration."

The United Press, the Associated Press and the International News Service are the chief targets of the pro-government organs.

WATERBURY, Conn. (UP) — Police hopes of finding the loot from a robbery melted quickly when they found that the loot was a 20-pound cake of ice taken from a delivery truck.

Protest Reducing Of Free Bulletins

WASHINGTON (UP) — Farm congressmen cried "false economy" today at an administration suggestion that they cut down on free farmers' bulletins to save taxpayers money.

"Pennywise and pound-foolish," snapped Rep. H. Carl Andersen R-Minn). Rep. Jamie L. Whitten (D-Miss) firmly seconded the motion.

R. L. Webster, Agriculture Department information director made the proposal at House Appropriations subcommittee hearing yesterday.

He suggested, on behalf of the administration, that congressmen reduce from 10,000 to 5,000 the number of free farmers' bulletins they are each entitled to send constituents every year.

He said the Agriculture Department, which puts the bulletins out, has figured it could save $168,000 during the fiscal year starting July 1 by cutting down on free copies and extension service workers.

Whitten told a reporter he "would guess" the subcommittee would veto the administration and vote to restore the $168,000 item to the appropriation bill.

The bulletins covering hundreds of subjects contain practical tips on homemaking and farming. Andersen and Whitten agreed that wide distribution of them is necessary to put into operation results of the department's $60,000,000 research program.

Annual Memorial Exercise Friday

Annual Confederate Memorial Day ceremonies will be held at noon Friday on the courthouse lawn in Greenville.

The annual memorial exercises are under the sponsorship of the George B. Singletary chapter of the Daughters of the Confederacy and will be participated in by the high school band and students.

Briefing State Governors Likely To Be Repeated

WASHINGTON (UP) —President Eisenhower's experiment in briefing state governors on national and world problems is likely to be repeated.

The conference which brought governors of 50 states and territories here on Monday and Tuesday was such a success that Mr. Eisenhower and his gubernatorial guests expressed mutual hopes it can be done again.

No time or date was set. The governors' annual meeting, to be held at Seattle in August, is a possibility.

It wouldn't be possible for all the high administration officials who briefed this week's meeting to attend the Seattle meeting. But efforts to get at least one or two of them for convention speakers are almost certain. Mr. Eisenhower has been invited but has not said whether he can go.

The President and Gov. Allan Shivers of Texas, chairman of the governors' conference, said the federal and state leaders all benefitted from the discussion of mutual problems.

Many of the governors were impressed with the up-to-the-minute reports on international affairs, defense mobilization and how it affects hopes for balancing the federal budget as a step toward tax reduction.

Taxes, including the overlapping of federal and state levies on gasoline and cigarets, were discussed "in a general way" at the closing session on federal-state relations.

Gov. William S. Beardsley of Iowa said the governors hoped to make overlapping taxes one of the top subjects to be studied by a joint commission on federal-state relations which Mr. Eisenhower has asked Congress to authorize.

The study commission would be composed of members of Congress, representatives of the governors' conference and a few named by the President—along the lines of the Hoover Commission on federal government reorganization of a few years ago.
