Civic Groups And Educational Leaders Meet

Discuss Bond Issue

Representatives of 29 local organizations met with the Board of Trustees of Greenville schools and education officials last night to discuss the coming referendum on a $1,500,000 bond issue for the Greenville school district.

The referendum on the bond issue has been set for June 2, and the special registration period for the election opened May 23. During the registration period, the registration books will be open at the city hall each day from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m., except Sundays.

J. B. James, chairman of the Board of Trustees of the city schools, and Superintendent J. H. Rose led the discussion of the bond issue last night and outlined the facilities for which money from the bond issue will be used.

Priority of Projects Rose said the most pressing needs of the city schools which must be given priority from the bond money are a new senior high school, an elementary school for white children in the eastern sector of the city, and the addition of elementary classrooms for Negro children at the South Greenville school.

Discussing the need for expanded school facilities in Greenville, Rose pointed out that a marked increase in school enrollment, particularly in the first grades is expected in Greenville schools next fall. He added: "We now have 83 white children and 75 Negro children in temporary buildings, and we have one group of Negro children on a double shift." Next year, he said, the number of children in temporary buildings will have to be increased to meet the demands of the increased enrollment.

Turning to the conditions at Greenville High School, Rose cited several facts which point to the inadequacies of the present plant. The band, he said, is housed in a temporary building across the street from the high school at the old swimming pool. Students taking shop have to be transported a mile to shops at the Brookgreen school.

The high school has no cafeteria and no room to be used for guidance and counseling. There is no space for girls' physical education in the high school, the gymnasium is too small and has to serve also as an auditorium; one classroom is adjacent to the boiler room and the coal chute in the building. The space for teaching science is too small; the whole commerce department is located in two rooms under the gymnasium where ventilation is inadequate and the noise from the gym disturbs classes, and there are no toilet facilities on the top floor of the high school building.

High School Overcrowded The present high school building was constructed in 1925 and added to in 1929, and is supposed to take care of 500 students. Rose said this year there are 603 students at the high school and next year there will be more than 700 students at the high school unless the eighth grade is moved to Brookgreen school. During the discussion of the proposed bond issue, Rose said frankly the issuance of the $1,500,000 in school bonds would cause an increase in the tax rate of the Greenville school district, but the amount of increase will be determined by the interest rate received on the bonds. "We can't expect something for nothing," he declared. Chairman James of the Board of Trustees of the schools told the group the board has been wrestling with the expansion problem for three or four years trying to pick a time to launch the program when the greatest possible value could be received from the money spent. "We've got to do something now," he said. "We've got to go forward."

Large Representation Among the more than 50 people present at the meeting last night were the five members of the new city council, members of the Board of Aldermen which retired yesterday and representatives of various local organizations.

Represented at the meeting were: American Legion, American Legion Auxiliary, V.F.W., V.F.W. Auxiliary, Chamber of Commerce, Junior Chamber of Commerce, Merchants Association, American Association University Women, Greenville Woman's Club, Junior Woman's Club, Service League, Elks Club, Exchange Club, East Carolina College, Rotary Club, Lions Club, The Round Table Book Club, Inter Se Book Club, Anthem Book Club, End of Century Club, Kiwanis Club, Greenville Music Club, Third Street, West Greenville and Training School PTA and the Student Parent Teacher Council of Greenville High School.

White House Silent On Korea Truce Conditions

Study Red Proposals

By DONALD J. GONZALES United Press Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON (UP)—The White House refused to say anything today about the Communists' latest Korean truce proposals as American officials began a "careful look" at them.

Diplomatic officials were chary of comment pending full official study of the Reds' eight-point plan.

There was some disposition, however, to hope the Communists finally were swinging around to a position the United Nations could consider.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty was asked about the new Communist proposals shortly after Sen. Ralph E. Flanders (R-Vt.) conferred with President Eisenhower on a Korean peace plan which Flanders suggested many months ago.

Flanders himself said he thought the latest Red proposals might lead to a cease-fire. But he added that a genuine armistice is the least "we can accept."

The White House "no comment" was typical of the cautious attitude of official Washington.

Congressional leaders were inclined to suspect the Reds' intentions. Chairman Dewey Short (R-Mo.) of the House Armed Services Committee and Chairman W. Sterling Cole (R-NY) of the House-Senate Atomic Energy Committee were among the dubious ones.

Cole said the Communists' plan looks good enough on its face "if they mean it." "But," he added, "I know they don't mean it."

Experts said the procedure now will be for U. S. officials to study the Communist plan carefully, read the record of the Panmunjon truce meetings, and then draft a reply—presumably after consulting with other Allied nations.

While the Reds seemed to have moved closer to previous Allied positions in some respects it was noted that the new Communist proposal would put the eventual fate of prisoners resisting repatriation up to a political conference to follow within 90 days after an armistice.

U. N. negotiators previously had rejected this idea as being merely an indefinite postponement of the key problem blocking an armistice.

The Allies have insisted on a quick settlement of the POW issue, and there were no indications they will abandon this position.

Flames Destroy Section Of City

BLOCKBUSTER? NO, FIRE!—This is all that remained of the blocklong Lafayette Market (right) after an early morning 12-alarm fire burned out 12 other buildings and damaged 30 in Baltimore. A shifting wind sent a sheet of flames across the street where 15 three-story row houses were completely burned out. At the height of the fire, eight of the 15 houses (shown at left) collapsed in a shower of bricks. There was no immediate estimate of the damage, or the cause of the blaze. (AP Wirephoto)

Americans May Be Among Victims Of Collision

Find 4 Dead In Ship Wreck

HARWICH, England (UP)—The bodies of four passengers—possibly including Americans—were found today in the stern portion of the British channel steamship Duke of York, wrecked yesterday in a collision with an American freighter.

The bodies were those of three women and a man, unidentified so far. They were found when the battered stern was towed into a dock today.

Passports of three missing American women passengers also were found. The women are Miss Gilda Jordet, 50, of Rocky Ford, Colo.; Miss Bernice Viola Larsen, a friend of Miss Jordet, and Miss Ann Sprng.

Police believed one of the bodies found is that of Miss Spring.

Tugs nudged the stern part of the vessel into dock here. The bow had been shown away in the collision with the American freighter Haiti Victory.

A fourth victim Mrs. Margot Ansdell of Britain died in a hospital here last night after being pulled from the wreckage.

One body had been sighted in the crumpled plates where the York's bow was shown away in its collision with the Haiti Victory, and at least two more bodies were believed aboard.

At least 15 persons were injured, including the Dowager Marchioness of Exmouth and U. S. Air Force 1st Lt. Donald Barker (home-town unknown). Three others may be missing, although the confusion involved in getting rescued passengers ashore made the exact count uncertain.

Mrs. Norma Hoyt, 51, of Anchorage, Alaska, said she had been unable to locate her sister, Gilda Jordet, 49, of Rocky Ford, Colo., but officials in charge of the salvage effort believed Miss Jordet may have been among 91 survivors landed in Dover by the U. S. freighter American.

Three hundred and 99 other survivors were checked off the Haiti Victory when it arrived here, but only 396 passed the immigration barrier. The three who apparently preferred to avoid landing formalities were not identified increasing the confusion about possible missing travelers.

The bow of the Duke of York sank after being ripped off in the collision, but the stern half remained afloat and was taken in tow by the tug Empire Racer, Capt. R. B. Adams and 15 crewmen remained aboard.

Reuther Attacks Tideland Oil Legislation; Calls It 'Biggest Steal In History'

CHICAGO (UP)—Legislation giving tidelands oil to the federal states is the "biggest steal in the history of America," CIO President Walter Reuther said last night.

The CIO will support the Eisenhower administration "when it is right and fight it when it is wrong," Reuther said in an address at a Catholic Labor Alliance forum.

"We think it is wrong on tidelands," he said.

"If Jesse James were around he would look like a reformer in comparison to the tidelands deal," Reuther said. He described a measure as a "giveaway to three states of $50,000,000,000 to $100,000,000,000 in wealth that belongs to all the states."

Reuther said he wants to cooperate with the Eisenhower administration wherever possible, especially in means of "proving that Communists are wrong."

He said labor, management and the administration should work to refute Communist propaganda which claims that the nation's prosperity is geared to war.

"I believe the Russians are counting on Americans making the same tragic, stupid mistakes of 1929," he said. He said he had proposed to President Eisenhower that a conference of labor and management leaders be called to prevent a crash with the advent of peace.

He said peace won't mean widespread industrial layoffs if a way is found to "gear production to the needs of the people."

Elm Street Park Is Praised By Visitors

During the opening ceremonies at Elm Street Park, state recreation officials yesterday commended the city and local recreation commission for the fine facility that has been furnished the youth of the city.

Speaking briefly, Tom Hines, past president of the North Carolina Recreation Society, and Ralph Andrews, director of the N. C. Recreation Commission, gave praise to the Elm Street Park.

Hines, in commending the local recreation commission, said Greenville's Elm Street Park was one of the finest recreational facilities in the state. "Greenville is 'way out in front' of other cities with its park and recreation," he said "and keep it up."

Andrews directed his remarks towards the young people, requesting that they show appreciation for their recreational facility by using it properly and keeping it in good shape. He added that he had a great deal of respect for the remarkable job done by the city and city recreation commission.

After the presentation of the newly elected city council, Mayor W. L. Whedbee said he was speaking for every member of the council when he said to the youth of the city, "We are behind you 100 percent."

"The youth of our city is our greatest asset," stated the new mayor. Heber Tripp, member of the recreation commission, speaking in behalf of the commission, said his group was glad to be a part of the recreation program. "The park was instituted for the children," stated Tripp, "and we want the children to enjoy it."

Vietminh Forces Are 'Backtracking'

HANOI, Indo-China (UP)—Communist Vietminh troops backtracked northward through Laos today in a mysterious withdrawal and a French spokesman said the Reds may be abandoning their invasion of the ancient Indo-Chinese kingdom.

French reconnaissance pilots reported Communist spearheads were retreating over mountain trails, abandoning the positions from which they had menaced the royal capital of Luang Prabang and the French defense bastion on the Plaine des Jarres to the southeast.

A French high command spokesman said the surprise Vietminh move appeared to indicate the Communists were giving up their invasion, and pulling back north before the rainy season, due to begin May 15, bogs down operations.

The spokesman said the Communists might back clear out of Laos to the bases north of the state from which they started their invasion.

He said the Red command probably had decided the barren mountain regions would prove untenable once the monsoon starts. Moreover, he said, they may consider the political objectives of their invasions already attained.

Propose 5 Neutrals Keep Red Prisoners

By LEROY HANSEN United Press Staff Correspondent PANMUNJOM, Korea (UP)—A Communist proposal that anti-Red war prisoners be kept in Korea in custody of five neutral nations pending their final disposition was sent to Washington today for high-level instructions.

Communist truce team chief Gen. Nam Il, in what appeared to be a major concession, proposed that Sweden, Switzerland, Poland, Czechoslovakia and India take charge of those prisoners who refuse to go back to their Red-ruled homelands.

United Nations negotiators regarded Nam's eight-point proposal as so important that they asked for a recess until Saturday in the truce talks so they could refer it to Washington for a decision.

For months the Communists had insisted that all anti-Red prisoners must be transported bodily to a neutral country to await disposition.

India would be the key country in the set-up, partly because it is a southern Asian country which has cautiously guarded its diplomatic balance as between West and East, partly because the new

Red plan closely follows the Indian prisoner plan which the U. N. General Assembly adopted last Dec. 3. The Soviet bloc rejected the plan. Nam submitted his proposal at a 26-minute truce meeting, the 11th since the talks were resumed last month.

Sen. McCarthy Has Red 'Thanks'

VIENNA, Austria (UP)—The Austrian Communist weekly "Die Union" today carried an editorial "Thank You Mr. McCarthy," expressing its gratitude to the Wisconsin senator for "uncovering the fact that the U. S. State Department is subsidizing the German and Austrian Press."

"Although decent people do not sympathize with McCarthy," the newspaper said, "they must be thankful to him for uncovering the fact that all (non-Communist) papers in Western Germany and Austria are writing the same lies, in exchange for the subsidies they receive."

Vandenberg To Retire June 30

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Air Force today accepted the request of Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, Air Force chief of staff, to be retired from service on June 30 when his present term is completed.

Air Force Secretary Harold E. Talbot said in a letter to Vandenberg "we have discussed the circumstances that prompt your action, and with reluctance I acquiesce in your request."

Vandenberg gave no reason for requesting retirement in a letter to Talbot dated April 27.

Vandenberg, who is 54, underwent a major abdominal operation last year. By June 30 he will have had more than 34 years of military service and will have served more than five years as Air Force chief of staff and as a member of the joint chiefs of staff.

Talbot wrote to Vandenberg, "Under your leadership and by reason of your unwavering support, the Strategic Air Command has become the most powerful and effective military force ever assembled in the interest of peace."

Links Offer Of MIG Reward To Their Absence

SEOUL, Korea (UP)—Lt. Gen. Glenn O. Barcus, leader of the May Day Sabre jet raid on the North Korean capital of Pyongyang, today linked the absence of Red jets in MIG Alley to Gen. Mark W. Clark's $100,000 reward offered for delivery of one of the planes.

Barcus, 5th Air Force commander, said a MIG hasn't been seen in the alley since April 30.

"I would assume this has something to do with the offer," he said. Clark wanted to gain information about enemy jets and he hoped to undermine Communist morale, making the Reds fear some of their pilots might take advantage of the offer.

Barcus indicated Clark's strategy may have worked.

Christine Ready For Theater Run

LOS ANGELES, Calif. (UP)—Christine Jorgensen settled down in Los Angeles today for a series of personal appearances at a local theater.

The ex-GI, who underwent a series of operations in Denmark that gave him some female characteristics, was greeted at the airport here last night by a crowd estimated at 500 persons by airport attendants.

Local Unemployment Claims For April Up

An upward surge in compensation claims was reported by the local employment office for the month of April as compared with a year ago.

Manager W. B. Dillingham of the Pitt County office of the North Carolina Employment Service Commission, said today this is largely due to the fact that "employment conditions in Pitt are not as good now as they were a year ago."

The larger part of compensation claims are from unemployed female workers.

It was pointed out that this situation will be almost erased with the opening of the tobacco season, at which time most of the workers will be actively engaged in green tobacco and the processing of the leaf in city factories.

While the opening of the tobacco season will take up the greater part of the female labor supply, the picture for unemployed men in the county was termed not as bright.

"Most of the male help is used in construction projects," Dillingham stated, "but we do not have as many going on now as in the past year." Construction work at the DuPont plant near Grifton in 1952 absorbed much of this labor supply.

For the last week in April of this year there were a total of 59 new claims, forty-nine of which were for females. Continued claims totaled 893; and of this number, 728 were for females.

This compares with only 29 claims for March but with continued claims totalling 970.

One year ago last month there were only 47 new claims and continued claims stood at 608.

"As far as the difference between last month and this, the rise in the number of claims is not a fair example of the employment situation," Dillingham said. "I think the employment situation generally in the county is good and has shown no marked change in the past few months."

High Winds Hit Carolina Coast

A severe wind and rainstorm with gusts at hurricane force blasted this seaport city early today, doing considerable damage.

Police reported the high winds damaged a wide area. In nearby Beaufort small skiffs were blown out of the water and into the streets.

A big storage tank being constructed at the State Ports Authority terminal for Dow Chemical Co. for the salvage of glycol and an oil storage tank being built for Standard Oil Co. here received heavy damage.

Telephone and power lines were downed. Parts of both Morehead City and Beaufort were in darkness and communications were disrupted after the storm struck at 3 a. m.

In Beaufort a potato warehouse was wrecked and a garage was demolished.

Mother's Day Party Monday

The annual Mother's Day party sponsored by Pitt Theatre and The Daily Reflector will be held Monday afternoon, May 11, at Pitt Theatre at one o'clock.

Cooperating with the theatre and newspaper in this annual event, L. W. Herring, of the AA Taxi Company will furnish free transportation to the theatre for Greenville mothers who otherwise could not attend. Upon arrival at the theatre mothers will be presented bouquets by the Greenville Floral Company. At the conclusion of the show ice cream will be served by Carolina Dairy. A special Mother's Day cake will be presented the oldest mother attending the party by Mrs. Morton's Bakery. There will be other gifts by the theatre and newspaper to mothers in special categories.

Mr. Gordon Sturm, manager of the theatre, has procured one of the latest pictures for the special Mother's Day party. The picture will be "By the Light of the Silvery Moon" featuring Doris Day and Gordon MacRae. It is a colorful musical including many songs of yesterday that the mothers will enjoy.

All mothers, 35 years of age or older, are cordially invited to attend this special show in their honor, the sponsors of the party said.

The coupon below, properly filled out and presented at the door, will be a free admission for all mothers of the required age.

What are the secrets of high class darkroom work? What magic formulas coax life into otherwise dead negatives? What is the alchemy that makes a print sparkle and have zing when others look lifeless and flat?

The answers to these questions were supplied by Frank Scherschel and George Karas who head and manage Life magazine's photo labs. They put on a practical demonstration for the 250 photographers attending Kent State University's 12th Annual Photo Short Course, at Kent, Ohio, recently. Here are some of the things they explained, showed or advised, in case you weren't there.

Wherever possible, a photographer should do his own processing since he knows the conditions under which he shot his pictures. When a photographer has to turn his negatives over to some one else for processing, he should specify if there were unusual circumstances such as probable under- or over-exposure.

If no instructions come with negatives, normal procedure at Life is to develop in DK 20. When the negatives are two-thirds developed, they are inspected, then finished according to what the examination showed. If the negatives look under-exposed, development is finished in D1 F.

With probable under-exposures, negatives are started in D 76F and inspected briefly under a dark green safelight after 10 minutes, then finished according to need. Agitation is important during development. Normally the negatives are agitated for 4 to 6 times during 15 minutes of DK 20 development.

It is always preferable to use a slow developer over a fast developer. Most amateurs can spare the few extra minutes and gain, thereby, finer grain. Fast developers are for the newspapers to whom minutes or even seconds are precious.

Wherever possible, solutions should be mixed in a separate room to avoid chemical dust settling to negatives or paper. Cleanliness is essential in all darkrooms.

After films are properly washed, avoid too much heat in drying. As cause of some print fogging or flatish looking prints. All solutions and the wash water should be at the same temperature.

To lighten too-dark areas, or to add a white highlight, you can use a reducing solution of ferricyanide. Mix about an ounce of crystals in pint of water in a glass jar. It is applied with a wad of cotton on the print right from the hypo. Blow on the area to be lightened to remove excess hypo and water so the ferricyanide won't run or cause streaks. Test the ferricyanide cautiously because it acts quickly when too strong. Used directly, it can open up shadows, lighten middle tones and add highlights.

If the ferricyanide causes any blue stains, put the print back in the developer for a few minutes, then fix and wash the prints and the stains should be gone.

With this information, I wish I could reproduce the performance as the Scherschel-Karas duo made their points. It was better than a television skit and worthy of a three dimension movie short.

Crawford Will Be Rotary Speaker

AYDEN—Pat Crawford of Kinston, former National League baseball player, will be the speaker at the Ayden Rotary Club's meeting on Friday night.

Ayden High School athletes will be guests of the club and honored for their achievements.

Crawford, who played several years for the New York Giants under John McGraw, conducts a summer camp for boys near the coast. He will speak on the subject "Recreation".

Faust Johnson principal of the Ayden High School, will introduce Crawford. A dance for the young people will follow the banquet.

HOTELS USE FOAM TO CLEAN RUGS
You can better appreciate the superior cleaning qualities of foam for rugs after using other methods. Hotels use foam for carpet cleaning more than any other method. They are cleaning carpets constantly—they have used all methods—it's results that count with them and that's why they use foam. For the finest in foam rug and upholstery cleaners, see Pina Foam. Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Olen Wooten announce the engagement of their daughter, Martha, to Mr. Gilbert Harris. The wedding will take place May 23.

Pilots Fly Light Planes After Jets, Bombers

OFFUTT AIR FORCE BASE, Omaha, Neb. (AP)—The Air Force fliers who jockey jet planes and giant bombers like to fly the small, slow and low jobs sometimes, too. They've taken to setting up private little "Aero Clubs" for Air Force personnel. The one at this base started two years ago, with five members and a $50 airplane purchased as a wreck.

Now, there are 100 club members and club assets totaled $11,000. The club buys small airplanes and rents them to members.

Some members just want to go up and relax from big-plane or jet-plane flying. Others pack the wife and kids into the small craft and fly off to some other state to ski or swim or visit the home folks. "We learn things about flying that we don't learn with the larger planes," one member says.

There are 23 such clubs in the strategic Air Command.

Engaged

Mr. and Mrs. W. Luke Mills of Greenville, N. C. announce the engagement of their daughter, Hatie Lou, to George Frankie Rouse, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Rouse of Grimesland. The wedding will take place in the Free Will Baptist parsonage on May 28.

Pick Books That Are Easily Read

URBANA—CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—People choose books that are easy to read, not the ones they say they want to read, Lester Ashelm reports in "Library Trends," University of Illinois quarterly. "The reader himself seldom knows why he reads a certain book."

He disagrees with the idea that people change radically upon reading a single book. "A lifetime of reading forms the opinions and attitudes we possess, and the dramatic moment of change and revelation comes because we have been building up to it through all the exposure to ideas in books and other media which have preceded."

"Education is the most important influence on reading behavior no matter what the sex, age, or economic status of the reader," he states. "Younger adults read more than the older ones. Upper income groups read more than the lower income groups. Women are more likely to read for recreation and men are more likely to read for professional and vocational reason."

Cases Heard In City Police Court

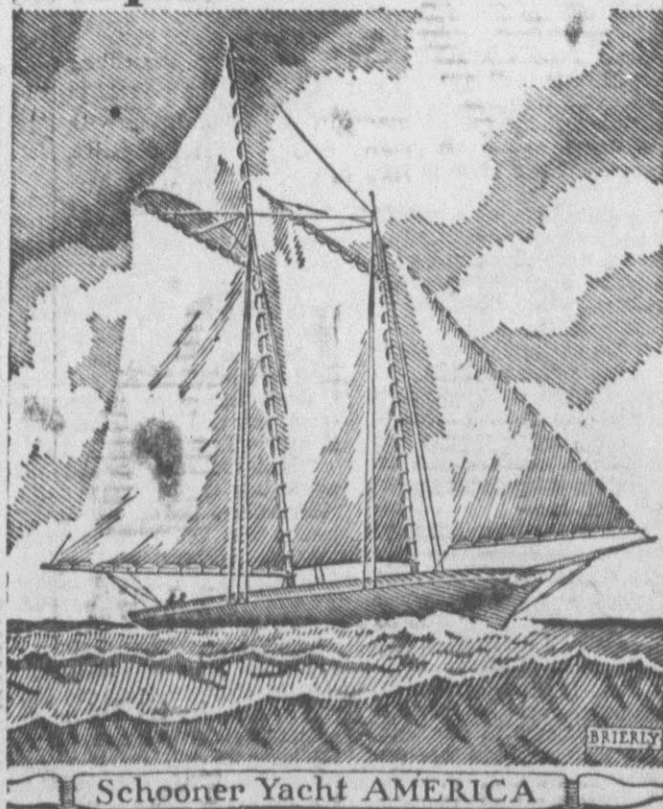

In Police Court Wednesday, Judge Charles H. Wheelbee transferred to Superior Court for trial the case of George Green, Negro, who was charged with operating a motor vehicle after his driver's license had been revoked.

Luther L. Peterson, Jr. paid $15 for speeding. James Killibrew, Negro, paid $10 for being drunk.

The cases against Norma Lou Crisp, Route 3, Greenville and Levi Green Negro, Route 3, Greenville, charging careless and reckless driving, were dismissed on recommendation of Solicitor Eli Bloom.

The cars of the defendants were reported to have been in collision at 14th and Evans streets. Police estimated damage to Levi Green's car at $75; damage to the Crisp car, $125. Court officials indicated that they believed the case to be one for civil, rather than criminal action.

Ships of America --10

AP Newsfeatures

A group of New York yachtsmen, wishing to compete in the English regattas to be held on the occasion of the great London exhibition of 1851, planned the construction of this yacht. She was launched May 3, 1851, a two-masted schooner with fore and mainsails, main gaff top sail and a huge jib. After test races at home, she crossed the Atlantic (under reduced sail) in record time. In the races which followed and with Queen Victoria among the spectators, she out-galled all contestants and came home in triumph with the "America's Cup." British yachtsmen tried time and again after that to lift the cup, but failed in competition with specialized American racers. Since the war, this pastime has been too expensive to be resumed.

Eisenhower Will Speak Politically

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower will fly to New York tonight to deliver two frank political speeches. He will leave the capital again this weekend.

Early Saturday morning he will fly to Phillipsburg, Pa., and motor to nearby Pennsylvania State College of which his brother, Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, is president. The President, his wife and her mother, Mrs. John S. Doud of Denver, will visit with the Milton Eisenhower's through Sunday.

This visit will give the President a chance to go over plans for his brother's forthcoming goodwill mission to South America. Dr. Eisenhower will leave about June 20 to explore the political, economic and other problems of the southern neighbor countries in which the United States might be of assistance.

Mr. Eisenhower, when he entered the White House, was beset with invitations to visit Latin America himself, but in the formative period of a new administration and a time of general world tension, he did not feel he should leave Washington.

Thus, he selected his brother, a frequent consultant on government matters, to represent him on a South American tour.

Parisian Garage Work Checked

PARIS (AP)—The garages of Paris have long been notorious for the shellacking they give French motorists.

A Paris newspaper decided to see just how bad the situation was. A reporter, in a car in factory-verified excellent condition, loosened the top screw of his gasoline pump so the car would sputter and stop.

With this obviously simple trouble he visited 10 garages in Paris and the suburbs. Every garage tightened up the screw, but some of them did a lot of other things too. Their charges: from 30 cents to nearly $10.

Individualism Described As Answer To Threat Of Enslaving Doctrines

HOUSTON, Tex. (UP)—The Southern Baptist Convention today heard a call for "irrepressible individualism" to answer the threat of "enslaving totalitarianism."

A highlight of this morning session was to be the election of officers for the coming term. Dr. J. D. Grey of New Orleans is current president.

Dr. W. R. White, president of Baylor University at Waco, Tex., issued the call for continued individualism among the more than 7,000,000 members of the Southern Baptist organization.

"In this hour of enslaving totalitarianism we will cherish the very roots of freedom," he said. "Baptists should be humble but courageous. We are needed in this day."

Chilean Quake Is Fatal To Seven; Cities Damaged

SANTIAGO, Chile. (UP)—Central Chile dug out today from the rubble left by an earthquake that killed at least seven persons, injured more than 100 and inflicted heavy damage on two cities.

The quake was felt yesterday from Aconcagua Province, but its force was focussed in the Concepcion-Chillan area.

Five persons were killed in Chillan and two in Talcahuano. Many injured were reported in Ancud, Talca, Parral and Concepcion. In Concepcion alone, damage was estimated at $1,000,000. Half the buildings in the villages of Rio Viejo and Pinto were destroyed by the quake, which also injured a number of persons there.

State Highway Employ 'Lost'

BOISE, Idaho (AP)—Emmett is only about 40 miles from Boise, but a State Highway Department employe became lost while driving to that town.

Art Sherwood of the department staff said the employe, rather than face embarrassment, parked the car behind a haystack and walked to a filling station for directions.

"In this time of regimentation, our irrepressible individual is the answer," he said.

The convention also heard a report from its relief and annuity board, its historical commission and its committee on scouting.

Tonight, most of the session will be devoted to the missionary programs, domestic and foreign, with Dr. M. Theron Rankin, executive secretary of the foreign mission board, and J. B. Lawrence, executive secretary of the home mission board, delivering their annual reports.

Pitt's Highway Accidents Drop

Highway accidents in Pitt took a drop over the past month with only 19 being reported by the Highway Patrol.

For the month of April, there were seven persons injured but no fatalities.

Property damage continued on the increase however, as damage for the month was set at $8,100. This estimate is not the true figure of the damage, since estimates of the damage are made by the investigating Patrolman at the scene, highway officials point out.

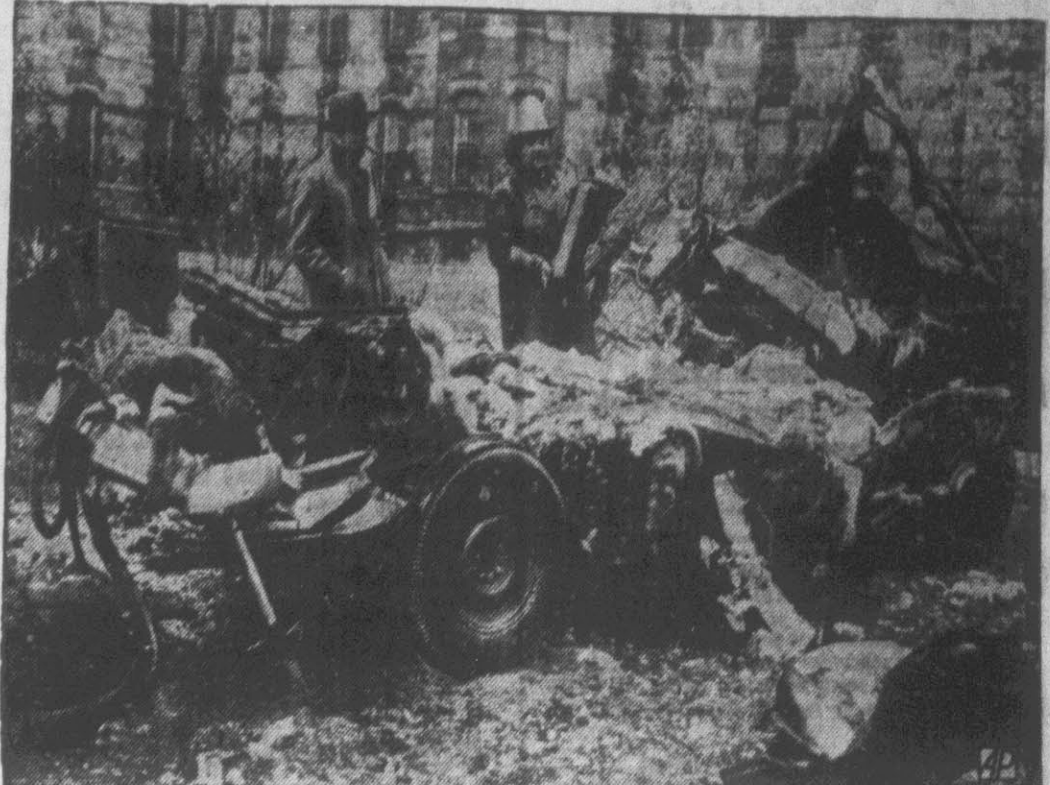

Enforcement of highway laws was up over the month of March as 208 arrests were made in March only 198 arrests were reported.

There were 24 accidents in March, with six injuries, no deaths and $11,580 in property damage.

President Plays Round Of Golf

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower got in 18 holes of golf at Burning Tree Club yesterday despite showers which held up the game.

His party was stopped at the 11th hole by rain but later completed the game. Govs. Dan Thornton of Colorado and Allan Shivers of Texas were in the presidential party.

BIG BANG FROM LITTLE LEAK.—This unoccupied car was blown to bits and 1,000 windows in the State Hospital in background were blown out when a spark ignited acetylene gas leaking from the small tank held by District Fire Chief Oscar Lundquist of Worcester, Mass. The tank had been left in the car by Dr. Albert E. Gardner, hospital dentist. The only injury was a minor one to a man working in a building 20 yards away. Fire Chief Herbert Travers (left) looks over the wreckage. (AP Wirephoto) figures confided secret details of various phases of federal government activities. The procedure strongly inferred that understanding of the federal governments working and policies by the governors was desirable and necessary if they in turn were to fulfill their own roles in guiding the people's destinies.

If the meeting accomplishes nothing else, it will give the chief executives of individual states a better understanding of the problems facing their national government in these trying days.

We think, too, it also serves to remind individual citizens that the chief executive sitting in their governor's mansion is not merely keeping the seat warm for his political successor.

Governors can, and should, play a great role in the welfare of the state and nation.

The Long-Range Program Has Many Good Points

Careful consideration on the part of the Pitt County Board of Commissioners should be given the long-range program of expansion of school facilities for Negroes in Pitt County.

The Pitt County Board of Education has presented the commissioners with an outline of a program which would spend approximately $65,000 annually over a 10-year period for improving and expanding the facilities for Negro school children in the county.

If the program of expenditures is followed by the commission as outlined, it will mean $650,000 will be spent for Negro school facilities in the county during the next decade. To be sure, that is no small amount of money, but the Board of Education would not have proposed the program unless it was deemed vital to the educational system of the county.

If the program can be worked out and the money spent over the period, it will, in the long run be cheaper to the people of Pitt County than delaying the expenditures and at some later date issue a large quantity of bonds to pay for the facilities.

The Negro school facilities in Pitt County are good in our opinion. There may be a few counties in the state which have better facilities for Negro children than Pitt, but certainly there are many more counties whose Negro school facilities do not compare favorably with those in Pitt County.

All the items which the Board of Education has outlined in its program for Negro schools are not needed immediately. It is a program of long range planning to meet the urgent needs now, and provide for other needs as they are anticipated over the period of years.

The program offered by the Board of Education seems to have a great deal of merit and deserves careful consideration by the Pitt County Commissioners.

National Whirligig

WASHINGTON—In prosecuting several foreign organizations as alleged revolutionary agencies of Moscow, Attorney-General Herbert Brownell Jr. will submit evidence to show that they amount to a Russian Government-in-exile in our midst. He will try to prove that these various agencies operate as diplomatic, financial, legal and educational departments which serve the interests of the Soviet regime.

Brownell will present his proof to the Subversive Activities Control Agency, which is a semi-judicial body. It already has held that Communists here are controlled by the Kremlin, and, therefore, must file periodical reports on its membership, finances, activities, etc. Now, the Attorney General must convince SACB that the 74 shadow groups are similarly dominated.

The next step is for SACB to set a date for hearings at which Brownell will try to support his original indictment with specific evidence, and at which the defendants will be given an opportunity to refute his accusation.

Data now on file in the Justice Department indicates that it has carefully documented its charges through secret investigations that penetrated the inner circles of the Red network.

SOVIET OCTOPUS—The organization which operates as Moscow's State Department, according to the pattern drawn by Federal operators, is known as the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship Inc. This outfit was established to support Russia's foreign policy and the world Communist movement, and to weaken all American attempts to checkmate this aggression.

It has propagandized against our intervention in Korea, against our foreign aid and NATO program, against our proposal for international control of atomic weapons, against Congressional inquiries into Red activities and on behalf of a seat in the United Nations for Red China. According to Brownell, it gets its directives straight from Moscow.

Like our own State Department, it has its various geographical subdivisions, neatly compartmentalized and directed by experts.

DECEPTIVE TITLES—This diplomatic corps works through such auxiliary organizations as the Council on African Affairs, the American Slav Congress, the Committee for a Democratic Far Eastern Policy. As their titles suggest, they seek to advance Moscow's propaganda and to discredit American policies in those respective areas. Here is the alleged objective of the Council on African Affairs:

"To create and further hostility among Negroes in this country toward the United States" so as to make them susceptible to Communist indoctrination. Brownell further charges that the African Council depicts Russia as the only pro-Negro and anti-imperialistic regime to which colored people of all races can look for protection.

The Slav Congress concentrates on poisoning minds from the Balkans and Eastern Europe, while the Far Eastern Committee seeks to create unrest among the Chinese, Japanese, Koreans and Filipinos here and abroad.

BAIL, DEFENSE ORGANIZATION—Corresponding to Brownell's own Department of Justice, in his preliminary petitions to SACB, is the Civil Rights Congress. This agency provides bail and defense funds for accused or indicted Communists, engages lawyers, finances preparation of all legal documents and accompanying propaganda.

It has instigated legal and spectacular demonstrations on behalf of such notorious Communists as Paul Robeson, Gerhard Eisler, Harry Bridges, Julius and Ethel Rosenberg. It has opposed, in and out of court, every attempt to set up a loyalty program designed to keep Reds out of important posts at Washington.

Buck Up

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

Anyone who can inject a bright spot into the American scene to help us forget our worries is a sort of a hero in my estimation. That puts Dizzy Dean as an idol to me, because in his sportscasting of baseball games over the Mutual network he definitely injects the color that gives us a bright outlook.

Saturday afternoon I was riding downtown and I heard Dizzy on the car radio covering a game between New York and Boston. It was between innings and Dizzy started chatting with the other announcer in the broadcast booth.

No doubt you realize that Dizzy was a star pitcher during his day and then turned to sportscasting after just about making a flop of his life. He immediately became famous for talking about the play-er who "slud" into third base. There was a movement by teachers to take him off the air because of his bad influence on a school child's grammar, but the movement lost out to popular demand.

Saturday when I was listening to Dizzy the subject of football came up and the announcer asked Diz if he had ever played the game.

"I tried out for that game," he said, "and the first thing they told me to do was haul off and run into a dummy hanging on a rope. I backed up about 50 feet and gave it all I had. When they got through picking up the pieces that were left I was ready to quit that game. Figured I was too long and gangly for it."

"So I took my hamlet . . ."

"What did you say, Diz?" the announcer asked.

"I said I took my hamlet and uniform and turned it in."

"You mean helmet."

"Well, anyway, one of those things you wear on your head when you play that game—and I quit that day."

Then the announcer wanted to know if Diz had ever tried to announce a football game.

"Yep," he said, "I tried that once. But I never could learn the team. By the time the game was over I could pronounce one of the player's names and I think that was Wilson. One time one of the players took the ball and started running backwards with it. What do you call that?"

"Fading back."

"Anyway, I told the audience that he was winding up with the ball but I didn't know who he was going to pitch it to."

And I thank you.

Around Capitol Square

QUIET — Most of the offices around Capitol square have been quiet and peaceful since the legislature moved out of town last Friday. The clean up crew has about completed the job of removing from the legislative halls and committee rooms the accumulated trash and discarded papers, while others have gathered around the desks and typewriters. The machinery of State government has quietly slipped back into normal, with one striking exception.

BEE HIVE — The office of Secretary of State Thad Eure has been a veritable beehive of activity since it opened Monday morning. The reason is that all of the bills, those enacted into law and those which failed of passage; preliminary copies of the journals and the calendar books, as well as other official papers of the General Assembly go to the secretary of state's office immediately upon adjournment. Stenographers from various state departments and from private business enterprise affected by legislation have been checking ratified bills against the copies which they had on file, to make sure the bills are enrolled in the permanent statutes as the sponsors thought they were finally passed. That condition will prevail until the session laws are printed, because until then the only copy which has any authority is the original bearing the signatures of the presiding officers.

SOON — The session laws should be ready for distribution in record time, since last copy went to the printers within 18 hours after Assembly adjourned Thursday night, and the indexing job is almost complete.

UNIQUE — North Carolina is the only State in which the legislative branch surrenders custody of laws before final enactment. After a bill has passed three readings and the presiding officer announces it will be sent to the enrolling office, responsibility shifts to the executive division. The secretary is in charge of enrolling the bills, obtaining signatures of the presiding officers in both houses, having the laws printed and he also becomes the official custodian of the original bills, acts and journals.

VARIETY — Millions of words have been written about the diversity and variety of North Carolina scenery, resources and opportunities. Millions more will be written because it is an inexhaustible subject. Each section has its seasonal excellence so far as scenery is concerned, but all the time there are there is plenty to see. The brilliant coloring of autumn leaves may be more magnificent and thrilling, but it is less restful than the variegated shades of green in the fields and pastures of the rolling Piedmont or the forests on the mountainsides where shades range from almost yellow to almost black. The dogwood has faded on the low levels, but at 3000 feet elevation and above there are splashes of white against the green, giving the illusion of snow.

UNIQUE — The diversity of attractions has brought about two informal organizations, each unique in its field, for the enjoyment and publicizing of these attractions. On May 30 Tar Heels Afloat will rendezvous at the Washington Yacht and Country Club for an evening of festivities. Next day some 200 yachtsmen will cruise down the Pamlico river to Bath, oldest town in North Carolina, and return to Washington for the annual banquet. On the same dates the Honorary Tar Heels will be in session at Linville and Grandfather Mountain, following a full week's tour of the Blue Ridge Parkway by some 50 travel writers. The Parkway tour, beginning at Roanoke on the previous Sunday and winding up at Asheville on Friday, is sponsored by the Carolina Motor Club and the Blue Ridge Parkway Association.

FLOATERS — The Tar Heels Afloat is described as "that unique organization which has no dues and the only requirement for membership is ownership of a boat and capacity for good fellowship." The group schedules two cruises a year, on the weekends nearest the Memorial day and Labor day. It is a beautiful sight when from 50 to 300 pieces of craft parade on placid rivers and sounds along the coast.

HONORARY — The Honorary Tar Heel group is also unique in its field. It is composed of non-native non-residents of North Carolina, who have written or photographed stories about the state; who know how to pronounce C-A-R-O-L-I-N-A, how to use the expression "you-all," and also to have the capacity for fellowship. There is no real organization, no dues or officers, but as originally conceived it is an exclusive group many of whom resent the indiscriminate efforts to blanket everybody who passes along North Carolina highways into membership.

SPELLING — Since membership in both these groups is individual and informal, and neither has a

Business Today

Consumer control, the practice of systematically recording, collating and evaluating customers' preferences, buying habits and reaction to salesmanship, is too infrequently used by retailers. Though the retailer usually has available to him the large amount of valuable statistical data on his industry in general and the advantages provided by inventory control, the data frequently is not detailed enough for his own business. His own inventory control too often informs him of purchasing mistakes after it is too late to do anything about it.

Many situations cannot, of course, be improved even with the best statistical information. Little can be done to remedy excessive stocks of cut roses for the short Christmas season other than a strong, fast, promotional effort, drastic price reductions and some earnest hoping. Of course, high inventories of more durable items, such as canned foods, bond paper, automobile tires or shoe laces often can be worked off in the store owner's own good time. But many items have short lives—physical price or style-wise.

Business statistics can be used to calculate general trends for many lines. An apparel retailer, for instance, can learn from Department of Commerce statistics the seasonal trends in men's and boy's clothing. Other sources might disclose the past performance of slacks sales. But he is not likely to discover what materials or styles sell best to the age and earnings groups that buy in his store.

Retailers must still make such determinations individually. Sales slips usually provide the basic information essential for customer control, including customer's name and address, and the size, price, style and color of an item sold. A customer control slip can be used to record the item requested, the item eventually purchased or the reason a sale was not made. Such facts point an accurate picture of a store's customers—their price ranges, reasons for buying, buying habits and even the salesmen's ability.

Inventory control tells what was and was not sold. A properly operated customer control system indicates what merchandise is moving, what is not selling, what would sell if in stock. And by reading between the lines, an experienced merchant can often fill in the why's and wherefores. Charge or time-payment customers can be compared with cash customers. Credit information, such as family size, income, residence and occupation can be added to the consumer control slips, giving even greater background information.

A complete evaluation of the facts gathered can give a retailer a basis for promotion and advertising campaigns, new lines, contacts, as well as for decisions

SOME PROFESSIONAL EXPENSES DEDUCTIBLE

In calculating their income taxes, professional men will probably be able to deduct certain educational expenses incurred after they begin their profession, a recent United States Court of Appeals decision indicates. This ruling tends to give teachers, doctors, engineers, scientists and accountants some of the same benefits enjoyed by businessmen.

In this case, the Department of Internal Revenue claimed tuition, travel and hotel expenses of a lawyer attending the New York State University Institute of Federal Taxation were not deductible. The court, in reversing the United States Tax Court's ruling that, while he was incidentally increasing his fund of learning in general, it was a professional need to attend the tax course. Thus, expenses incurred by a professional man to maintain his skill and keep informed on professional matters, were recognized as deductible to a certain extent.

What the extent is, however, remains to be determined in future cases, as do the types of courses or meetings. There will probably be no rush of claims of this sort by professional men until it is better known who can claim such deductions, when and for how much.

FAMILY ASSETS IN GOOD SHAPE

More than half the families in America are worth more than $7,500, the National Industrial Conference Board estimates. Total consumer assets, including cash, homes, insurance, business interests, etc., are more than $800 billion.

Though total consumer assets at the end of World War II were less than $400 billion, part of the 50 per cent increase was due to inflation.

According to the N.I.C.B. less than 10 per cent have debts greater than their assets. While this indicates families are in a sound economic condition, it must be remembered that assets can seldom be liquidated at their face value while debts do remain at face value.

Hal Boyle's Column

NEW YORK (AP)—Well, rather, old boy, we just don't go for a dry campus along the Thames.

"You can drink anything you want if you can afford it, which you ordinarily can't," said one of Cambridge University's top debaters.

The British University exports two of its brighter, more vocal spirits every other year to America to make a debating tour.

The current duo, winding up a successful 30-debate tour-Alistair Sampson, 24, and Peter Mansfield, 24—found many things about America hard to understand, and particularly college drinking rules.

"Take your theory of a dry campus," said Peter. "You know, that wouldn't go at all in England. Wine and spirits are for sale on the campus. Most of our students—Alistair and I are typical—have spent two years in service."

"And dangerous," said Peter. They both agreed on this. They thought that Americans yearned for culture but their drive for unity created a situation where "those who try to build a culture are suspect because they are different, they have to fight against a social stigma."

As to the comparative advantages of American and English college girls, Peter said:

"The American girl is better dressed, more charming, although her charm may be synthetic, and she isn't ashamed of being attractive to men. The English girl is baggy and . . ."

"Oh, I wouldn't say that," protested Alistair.

"I would," said Peter.

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON — Have you a gripe, or are you real pleased about the way things are going in your neck of the woods? Have you a pet project to push? Are you one of the "there ought to be a law" shouters? Write your congressman! Sally Butler, General Federation of Women's Clubs, tells you how to take pen in hand with this effort in mind:

"Write to him just as you would talk to him," says Sally. "Remember, her or she is the person who asked you to vote for him, or her." Miss Butler, Indianapolis lawyer and former president of the International Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, says your representative in Congress wants to know what you think and how you want him to vote. "Of course, he cannot please everyone, but we all know he will try to please the majority," she says. "That is how he was elected — pleasing the majority."

"You do not like stilted form letters — neither does your congressman," she adds, suggesting that you "write to him as a friend, expressing your wishes in your own way."

"Be as personal as possible, but be brief," she advises. "Congressmen are busy people, but they want to please you."

"It is difficult to tell a veteran what he should and shouldn't do."

The two British lads were a bit shocked at American university restrictions during their tour — and the need for them.

They are accustomed to a system under which students are permitted more latitude. They can serve liquor in their rooms if they choose, and a man is free to entertain a woman student in his chambers without chaperon until midnight, but—

"I wouldn't say the same system would work at all in your country," said Peter. "You see, in England there are so few universities that the people who go there, go at least partly, to work."

"Yes," nodded Alistair vigorously, "not for the social life."

They pointed out that only one out of 10 students at Cambridge was a woman, and she was bent on knowledge because she had to pass a stiff examination even to be admitted to the institution.

Both lads seemed disillusioned with the fruits of coeducation, both here and at Cambridge.

"There is a lot of emphasis on chasing girls here in America," said Peter.

"Yes," said Alistair. "There is so much accent on sex in America that it is bound to have an effect on the undergraduate at the time he begins to drive a car and enjoy freedom."

Both lads were convinced by their tour that America had much to offer, much to learn.

"You have a wonderful technique for living in the United States," said Peter. "You have a fast pulse. . . a feeling of change . . . a great sense between people . . . you are not shy and awkward with each other as we sometimes are."

"Yes, you have so much to be proud of," said Alistair. "What surprised us most on this first visit is how much more of a real nation you are than a melting pot. A second generation Italian and a third-generation Swede have everything in common. Your unity is amazing."

What Other Papers Are Thinking

Upcoming Senate Battle (Greensboro Daily News)
 Senator Willis Smith's announcement that he will be a candidate for re-election next year ought to clarify North Carolina's political outlook and be a good beginning toward assuring a humdrum of a Senate battle 12 months hence.

The Daily News belongs to that school of political thought which gives to any and everybody the right to run for any office to which he or she aspires. The more nerving any race the merrier that race is likely to be and the greater will be the public interest and arousal. No office, especially any in the higher political echelons, should go by default. It takes competition to sharpen the issues, bring out the vote and assure that stricter accountability which office holding ought to carry.

One gather from Senator Smith's announcement that he anticipates opposition and that instead of fearing it he will welcome any and all opposition. We are assuming too that there will be one or more to enter the lists against the Junior Tar Heel senator and that the air will not be wanting or the press lacking for words hurled hitler and yon in the months ahead. There are plenty of issues to develop, exclusive of personalities, there have been other campaigns which have shown what North Carolina can get along without and which its more sentient, concerned citizens hope will be missing in the battle now shaping up.

Far more than individual offices are involved in the major contests which flare in Tarheel nowadays. The state leadership which Max Gardner gave for a long time has not been replaced. Political control, as warring forces, factions and philosophies meet in the void, is yet to be determined. And out of any major campaign now it may begin to jell, if not thoroughly solidly. Senator Smith is definitely in the race. Now who else will join him to make it all the livelier?

Faith And Work Of Steelworker Builds Cathedral

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. (U.P.)—A steelworker's hard work and faith has materialized into a $500,000 cathedral of the American-Catholic-Russian Orthodox Greek Catholic Church here.

Joseph W. Buchovsky, a production schedule clerk at the Johnstown plant of U.S. Steel Corp., was chairman in 1949 of the building committee of Christ the Saviour Church. His family was one of 350 sacrificing and saving to build a structure to replace the former bakery in which they worshipped. In 12 years the committee raised $65,000 from parishioners who worked in railroad shops, steel mills and coal mines.

To get ideas for their proposed church, committee members visited many of the denomination's 55 parishes in the industrial Monongahela River valley. It was on a visit to St. Michael's Church in McKeesport that Buchovsky made the chance remark, "Why build a church when we can build a cathedral?"

Why Not?

At first the question stunned the committee, including the Rev. John Miller, the parish priest. They knew their church had been growing weaker and that each year more members drifted away.

But, as Father Miller said: "If God wills it, it will be done. Let us tell others about this."

Buchovsky stepped in to organize the work for the gigantic task ahead. In addition to his job at the mill, he worked as much as 60 hours a week to get the cathedral drive rolling.

Now, half the cost of the cathedral has been raised. The structure is expected to be completed in October.

The former mansion of a lumber executive has been purchased for a seminary and six seminarians are studying for the priesthood.

What seemed impossible is a reality.

Moved Property As Flood Nears

LEWISTON, Me. (U.P.)—William Pilote isn't the sort of man to let flood waters push him around.

When the Androscoggin River spilled over its banks this spring, his neighbors hopped in their cars and left everything behind as they sought higher ground.

But Pilote was still sore at what happened in the 1936 floods when he left his possessions in his house and returned to find part of his dwelling gone and his belongings floating down the river.

This time he called a moving van and took the furniture with him.

Claims Technique Can Save Tower

NEW YORK (AP)—The Leaning Tower of Pisa, one of the wonders of the world, has been tilting more and more for the past 600 years but Charles B. Spencer, one of this country's top foundation engineers, has devised a technique to arrest the increasing lean. Spencer contends in an article appearing in Engineering News-Record, that with a little help from man, the tower could last another thousand years. Italian engineers have estimated that the world-famous landmark will collapse in about 200 years unless remedial measures are taken. The tower is now more than 14 feet out of plumb.

The tower leans because the center of the consolidated soil or sub-foundation, deviates slightly from the center of gravity of the tower. The most practical method, according to Spencer, would be to take away some of the material foundation on the high side of the tower. Any settlement on the high side, resulting from the procedure, would help to improve the situation.

Some of the extinct Moss, a New Zealand bird, were 12 feet tall.

Another Method To Fleece Horse Players Found

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UP)—Police here uncovered a neat stunt to fleece horse players—as if things weren't already tough enough for them. It worked this way, according to Lt. Martin Cooney and Sgt. John Ungvary.

A "plant" inside a certain factory would get the names of steady horseplayers and pass them to an "outside" man who would make contact with the betters and give hot tips on a race. The sucker was told to play $10 on the horse—$5 for himself and $5 for the tipster.

On investigation it was found that the names of all the horses in a certain race were handed out. One of the suckers would win, but the schemers couldn't lose since all the horses had $10 bets riding.

Drought Strikes 'Wettest' Place

CHERRAPUNJI, Eastern India (AP)—This tiny village, the wettest spot in the world, has its own drought problem.

Cherrapunji, with the heaviest known annual rainfall of around 569 inches, sits under an almost constant downpour for seven or eight months of the year. But from November through February there is an acute water scarcity here. Springs and streams which normally run bankful dry up over the 4,500-foot high flat rocky plateau on which Cherrapunji is located. Villagers, who through most of the year suffer from an overabundance of water, have to descend hundreds of feet into nearby valleys to find water, then carry it painfully back to their homes atop the plateau overlooking the eastern Pakistan frontier.

What part of every prescription weighs nothing at all?

Your pharmacist's scale is so sensitive it will respond to the weight of a hair!

But into every prescription he compounds, your pharmacist puts one ingredient that never moves the scale's needle.

It is the most important thing you buy whenever you have a prescription filled!

It is the professional knowledge and skill of your pharmacist. Without it, no prescription could be properly filled. The physician orders the required drugs in the specific amounts needed, but the compounding of the finished prescription is the sole responsibility of your pharmacist.

Before he could fulfill this responsibility, he devoted years to the study of the highly specialized subjects of his profession. To earn his college degree, for example, he had to acquire a fundamental knowledge of many sciences such as chemistry, physics, biology. He mastered, too, the details of compounding and dispensing drugs, chemicals, and other medicinal agents.

And after his formal education, your pharmacist's course of study does not end. For there are constant changes and progress in medicine and pharmacy with which he must keep abreast.

Bucs Blast Guilford, 14-2 For Ninth Conference Win

East Carolina College's Pirates moved a step closer toward cementing themselves into second place in the North State Conference's Eastern Division by defeating Guilford 14-2 yesterday on the East Carolina diamond.

Jimmy Byrd, co-captain and ace righthander of the Pirates, pitched the victory with a neat six-hitter against the usually heavy-hitting Quakers. While he was doing his work his own mates were rapping out 17 base hits at the expense of two Guilford hurlers.

The Pirates have little chance of overtaking the undefeated Elon Christians for the division championship but the victory yesterday moved them several notches ahead of the third-place Guilford team.

The Pirates spotted the Quakers a run yesterday before climbing all over big Bailey Nunn for the bulk of their tallies. Nunn is the same fellow who pitched Guilford to a 7-3 victory over the Pirates last Friday but he was nowhere near the form he displayed last week.

The Pirates put Nunn into trouble early in the first inning with only one man out. Major Hooper reached first safely on error by second baseman Ray Matthews. W. C. Sanderson's infield hit sent Hooper to second, an outfield fly sent him to third and Paul Gay's single chased the first rightfielder home with the first East Carolina run of the game.

The floodgates were opened in the second inning when the Pirates tallied three times on four hits and a fielder's choice. Paul Jones started the inning by rapping out a sharp grounder down the third base line which Guilford's Billy Charlton thought was a foul ball. Charlton made absolutely no effort to retire Jones but plate umpire Clarence Barnhill ruled that the ball was fair and Jones was on first. He was there only short while, however, because Bill Cline started things clicking by rifling a line drive past Charlton into the leftfield corner for a double and enough time to score Jones. Jimmy Byrd popped up for the first out but Cecil Heath sent Cline home with a single into centerfield.

After Cline scored, Heath took off for second when centerfielder Guy Smith couldn't find the handle to the ball. When Smith did find the ball he couldn't handle it properly and Heath took off for third which he reached safely. Hooper then rapped a grounder to shortstop and a play was made to the plate but Heath was safe and the Pirates had more than enough runs to do business.

Playing under threatening skies which never followed through with their threats, the Pirates acted as if they were old home week with Nunn on the mound. They reached him for two runs in the fifth and four in the eighth before Guilford Coach Stuart Maynard could get him out of the contest and replace him with Don Mikles.

Mikles was almost as ineffective as Nunn, though, despite the fact that he has a 7-1 record for the season. The Buc touched him for their final four runs in the ninth inning, two of them coming on Gaither Cline's 340-foot home run and two of them on Berney Stevens' triple into the far reaches of right-center field.

W. C. Sanderson, Paul Jones, and Bill Cline each got three hits to pace the Pirates' attack while Ray Matthews got three of Guilford's six hits. In the two-hit bracket, Guilford's Bobby Callicutt and the Pirates' Charlie Cherry, Paul Gay, and Gaither Cline occupied prominent positions.

The Pirates will take off Friday for a two-day trip to Elon for their final road games of the season. They'll meet the Christians on both Friday and Saturday afternoons before returning home to meet Atlantic Christian next Wednesday in the season's finale.

Crowd Of 2,000 Fans Tours New Facilities

Little League Baseball Activity Highlights Full Program Of Athletic Activity For Greenville Citizens

By JIMMY ELLIS, Reflector Sports Editor. An estimated 2,000 people turned out yesterday despite threatening weather to take part in the formal opening ceremonies of the Elm Street recreation area.

The crowd took part in a program that had been planned by the Recreation Department to acquaint the public with facilities available at the new area. They also got into the official opening of the Minor League and Little League baseball seasons.

The bulk of the afternoon's program was planned by Recreation Director Warren Carroll and his staff was devoted to a series of sports exhibitions to show the spectators just what sports could be conducted in the area.

A tennis match that was scheduled to launch the program had to be called off because of the inclement weather but a series of impromptu matches between high school students and some adults officially got the four asphalt courts into service and started the day's program.

Following the tennis play, and even while it was going on, there were exhibitions of basketball on the outdoor court, ping-pong on two permanent tables, a volleyball match, girls softball, and some competition with horseshoes. But, despite the varied nature of the activity, the real highlight was the opening of the Little League baseball program.

The Minor League contest will go into the records as a completed game but the remainder of the games on the schedule will go the regulation seven-innings distance.

The only adversity that occurred throughout the entire program was the weather. There was the usual confusion that goes with a big crowd in a rather unfamiliar place but the weather was of just such a nature that it kept everyone with one eye on the programs at hand and the other eye on the dark, threatening clouds.

The rain held off long enough for the athletic activity to be completed but a shower started just as the crowd was moving into the final phases of the program, a picnic supper and some movies. The shower was a short one, fortunately, and the full program was completed on schedule.

Louis W. Gaylord Jr. has served as chairman of the Elm Street Project, the official title of the development. Organizations participating in the development are VFW, Woman's Club, Jr. Woman's Club, Service League, Jaycees, American Legion, Credit Women's Breakfast Club, Greenville Little League, Memorial Baptist Church, B & P.W. Club, Garden Club, Kiwanis Club, Lions Club, Training School P.T.A., West Greenville P.T.A., Rotary and Exchange Clubs, Chamber of Commerce, Third Street School P.T.A., Greenville Schools, Merchants' Association, VFW Auxiliary, Moose Lodge, Eighth Street Christian Church, Amvets, Boy Scouts, the Street Department and the Utilities Commission.

The Greenville Recreation Commission is composed of Tyson Bilbro (chairman), Heber B. Tripp, Mrs. Carrie West, Mrs. Emily Johnston, Lester E. Turnage Jr., Dr. N. M. Jorgensen, Rev. Leonard Topping, J. H. Rose, K. T. Futrelle, John Bizzell and Warren Carroll, director.

The Greenville Little League is directed by R. H. Evans, president; Reynolds May, first vice-president; Lucian Bryan, second vice-president; Mrs. L. H. Edwards, secretary; Bruce Koonce, treasurer; and George MacMillan, player agent.

'Screwy' System Used To Determine Runners

By ED YOUNG, AP Newswriter. RICHMOND, Va.—Now you take this boy Joe LaPierre of Georgetown, Johnny Core began. "He's been running the mile. If I had this boy, I'd run him in the two miles."

Core hauled out a complicated looking chart and pointed to a graph. "This shows," he said, "that very clearly LaPierre is potentially better at the two miles than at the mile. The longer he runs, the better he'll be."

The date was Feb. 9. LaPierre had not yet run two miles in competition. A few days later he did, in the tough ICA4 games in New York. He won.

LaPierre's time was 9:08.9—nothing to set the world on fire, but as Core says, nobody sets records on the first try.

The Georgetown runner is among the hundreds who have been "charted" by Core on his "Five Star Screen Test."

Runners Not Spotted. Core is a small, wiry throner with a passion for track and a feeling that the four-minute mile might have been achieved long ago—if runners had known their talents lay in that particular race.

Many potential milers have wasted time trying to excel at shorter distances, and a lot of two-milers have missed their calling by limiting themselves to the mile, says Core.

How can anyone put a finger on the distance the runner is cut out for? Core jots down some figures, compares them with the chart of his own invention, subtracts, adds, plots the result on a graph—and he has the answer.

Core, often an official at some of the nation's top track events, starts out with a logical premise: Speed denotes a dash man; staying power the long-distance runner. Put them together and—"Ah," says Core, "there's your four-minute miler."

Much as a professor grades examination papers, Core grades a runner on his best recorded times in the 100-yard dash and the 880-yard run. The grade scale for the 100-yard dash runs from 100 for a 9.4-second timing to a tenth of a second off the world record down to zero for 16.5 seconds.

For the 880, a 1:50.0 race brings a grade of 100. Anything over four minutes gets zero.

Core's eternal figuring has led him to the conclusion that the four-minute mile will be run by a runner whose grade in the 880 is between 15 and 20 points higher than his grade for the 100-yard dash.

The "magic" point difference, in Core's book, is 17. Glenn Cunningham had it, with a grade of 82 for a 10.3 hundred and a grade of 99 for a 1:30.9 timing in the 880.

Present-day runners, Fred Dwyer comes closest with an 18. Sture Landquist of Oklahoma A&M and John Landy of Australia have 19's.

Landy has done a 4:02.2 mile. Core believes the four-minute mile might come in a race matching Landy, Landquist and Dwyer. The keen competition, he insists, would bring out the best in all three.

Core's system, though, isn't designed for predicting things to come. He sees it as a way to improve existing records by landing runners in the races they'll run best. Core has advised runners, already stars at one distance, to try another. Those who have followed his advice have found he's usually right.

Core is the manager of a floor maintenance machinery company. He got some Richmond high school coaches to try his system. Now he sells his "Five Star System" to coaches, principally in high school. The coaches fill in the charts with times of their runners.

Sees Don in 880. Don Gehrmann is considered one of the nation's top milers, but if Core had his way, Gehrmann would concentrate on the 880. Gehrmann's best mile has been 4:07.2 or 2.2 seconds under the 4:05.3 American record. But his best 880 has been 1:50.7—just 15 seconds under the national standard set by Mal Whitfield. Core thinks Gehrmann might well smash Whitfield's record—if he'd only run the 880.

Gil Dodds specialized in the mile and had a low timing of 4:05.3. But he ran the two miles better, in comparison—8:52.5. Dodds is retired but Core is pretty certain he'd have set a two-mile record if he'd run the race more often.

Fred Witt is another miler Core would advise to stick to the two miles. Witt runs both the mile and the two-mile.

Core's system is in use in more than 800 high schools throughout the country. By using other events than the 100 and the 880 as standards, he is able to spot potentialities for the pole vault, discus throw, shot put, broad jump and high jump—often before the athlete has even tried these events.

"Better placing—better races," is Core's motto. Track is his all-consuming hobby and wherever he goes in pursuit of his private business, the bulging briefcase, charts and graphs go, too.

One high school coach summed up the attitude of most who've tried the "Five Star" after admitting it had helped his track team greatly. "It looks infernally screwy," he said, "but it works."

Rain Washes Out All But One Game

Rain washed out everything except the battle for the bottom in the Carolina League last night. In the only game played, Winston-Salem, which had been dumped to the cellar by the Greensboro Patriots Tuesday night, did the same thing to Fayetteville last night. The Cardinals beat the Highlanders 7 to 6 in a slug-fest.

It was a wide-open affair in which the Cards collected 12 hits off two Fayetteville pitchers and the Highlanders got 13 off three Cardinal hurlers. It dumped Fayetteville into the

St. Louis Rookie Pitcher Gets First No-Hit Victory

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UP)—Bobo Holloman, a no-hit, 6-0 winner over the Philadelphia Athletics Wednesday night, wore a happy grin today.

And he will have a $100 suit to wear with it in a few days—the gift of beaming Bill Veeck, owner of the St. Louis Browns.

It was the first time in modern baseball history that a rookie has pitched a no-hitter in his first big league starting assignment. The only other time the feat was performed, according to the Official Encyclopedia of Baseball, was on Oct. 15, 1892 when Charles L. "Bumpus" Jones of the Cincinnati Reds hurled a 7-1 no-hitter against Pittsburgh in his first major league game.

Holloman had denied the sinker ball expert his chance on two other occasions when Manager Marty Marion had planned to use him and it appeared that the weather was again against him Wednesday night. A fine drizzle was falling before the game and during most of the early innings, but Holloman, who once pitched a minor league club rather than pitch in wet weather, didn't let it bother him.

There was excitement elsewhere besides in St. Louis, mainly in Brooklyn where the Dodgers won a protested 7-3 decision from the Cardinals on five-hit pitching by Carl Erskine. Gil Hodges muscled his way out of his most prolonged slump by hitting a two-run homer and a single. The homer was historic, for it was his 140th, the all-time high for a Brooklyn player, topping the previous peak of 139 by Dolph Camilli.

The Cards protested because in the sixth inning with runners on second and third, Roy Campanella singled to left. As shortstop Solly Hemus tried to field the ball he collided with base runner Jackie Robinson and both rolled to the turf. Umpire Jocko Conlan ruled interference and Robinson was permitted to score automatically. Manager Eddie Stanky howled in protest and was tossed out of the game as was catcher Del Rice. Erskine pitched his third victory and two of the runs yielded were homers by Roy Jablonski. Duke Snider also homered for Brooklyn to hit safely in his 15th straight game.

The Giants topped the Cubs with a 15-hit attack that included a homer and double by rookie Daryl Spencer. Paul Minner hit a two-run Chicago homer. Hoyt Wilhelm made his 12th relief appearance to stop the Cubs in the ninth and extended his season record to 20 victories without an earned run yielded.

The Tigers topped the Senators, 8-4, as Ned Garver aided his cause as a pitcher with a two-run homer and the White Sox defeated the Red Sox, 6-2, on six-hit pitching by Billy Pierce. Sam Mele and Jip Rivera each drove in two Chicago runs and Del Wilber hit a two-run cellar and put Winston-Salem in a next-to-last place tie with Greensboro.

Tonight Raleigh and Durham will play a doubleheader at the capital city; Reidsville will be at Danville; Bur-Gra at Greensboro, and Winston-Salem in a return engagement with Fayetteville.

Five Phantoms In State Track Meet

Five members of the Greenville High School track team have been nominated for participation in the State High School Track Meet which opens tomorrow in Chapel Hill.

Bobby Perry, Hal Edwards, Wayne Bishop, Clet Oakley and Sam Winchester are the nominees. They will leave for Chapel Hill tomorrow with Bill Kittrell, track coach at the high school.

Perry is expected to participate in two of three events in which he has been outstanding this year. Rules of the state meet prohibit an entrant from competing in more than two events. Perry is prepared to take part in the 100-yard dash, the 200-yard dash, and the broad jump.

Edwards will enter the high jump, Bishop the mile, Oakley the javelin, and Winchester the half-mile. All four have been among the top high school track stars in Eastern North Carolina this spring.

Minor Loop Has 20-Game Season

The Recreation Department today announced a 20-game schedule for the first half of play in the Minor League.

Games are scheduled for all four of the teams in the league but no Wednesday afternoon contests are planned because of the Little League doubleheaders that are usually played on Wednesdays.

The complete schedule is as follows: May 6—Capitals vs. White Sox, 7—Yanks vs. Red Sox, 8—Open, 11—Red Sox vs. Capitals, 12—White Sox vs. Yanks, 13—Open, 14—Red Sox vs. White Sox, 15—Yanks vs. Capitals, 18—Red Sox vs. Capitals, 19—Red Sox vs. Yanks, 20—Open, 21—Capitals vs. Red Sox, 22—Yanks vs. White Sox.

May 25—White Sox vs. Red Sox, 26—Capitals vs. Yanks, 27—Open, 28—Capitals vs. White Sox, 29—Yanks vs. Red Sox, June 1—Red Sox vs. Capitals, 2—White Sox vs. Yanks, 3—Open, 3—Red Sox vs. White Sox, 5—Yanks vs. Capitals, 6—White Sox vs. Capitals, 9—Red Sox vs. Yanks.

FIGHT RESULTS. NEW YORK: Italo Scottichini, 15-3-4, Rome, Italy, outpointed Gerry Dreyer, 149-3-4, Pretoria, South Africa (10).

Moose Edges Exchange 2-1 In Little League Opener

The 1953 Little League baseball season was officially opened yesterday afternoon as the Moose edged the Exchange 2-1 in the season's opener at the Little League park. The game was a part of the Elm Street Project dedication ceremonies. Ronald Finch, pitching for the Moose, gave up only two hits in getting the victory. In addition to that, he struck out 10 and walked only two Exchange batters.

PGA May Switch Policy To Split Future Tournaments

Two golf tournaments may be combined under the PGA policy soon. Golf this year has its greatest field in history. At some tournaments more than 300 players have turned out. Only about 65 can win as much as $1,000. About 20 players earn enough to meet expenses. A conservative estimate is that $200 a week is needed for expenses.

For several years they've been talking about this problem. There is hope that the thing can be settled by next year. The plan says, Dave Douglas of Newark Del., chairman of the PGA tournament committee, is to hold two tournaments in the same locality—one for the big winners of golf, a $15,000 tournament; the other for the "little men"—a $5,000 event.

Harvey Raynor, tournament supervisor, says 70 tournaments could have been on schedule this year. There are only 42—there just was not time for more. But, if a $5,000 tournament were held at the same time as the $15,000—and that's the minimum prize money for tournaments next year (no more $10,000 events)—then at least 100 of the players who can't land in the winners' circle can play in their own tournament and have a chance of earning at least part of their expenses.

Distinctions between the majors and the minors is the big problem. If it is based on stroke average, too many of the golfers might skip the tough tournaments—the hard courses. If based on money won, too many might skip the little money events and play only in those that offer big money.

The plan under strongest consideration is to give points for the 25 finishers in each tournament and the fellows with the most points would play in the big tournaments and the others in the minor meets. This would be on an annual basis. For a man in the minor tournament to advance to the majors, he would go into a qualifying contest with men in the lower bracket of the major tournaments.

As the tour now stands, a fellow by first baseman W. C. Sanderson.

Sauls, a senior from Grifton, had seen most of his action this year as a reserve for Gaither Cline and Charles Cherry.

East Carolinian Injured In Drills

George (Red) Sauls, a member of the East Carolina College baseball team, has been sidelined for the remainder of the season as a result of a batting practice accident yesterday.

Sauls was struck about the right eye by a batted ball during the pregame practice and four stitches were required to close the wound. He was not knocked unconscious by the blow but he had considerable swelling in the immediate area.

Teammates said that Sauls was struck by the batted ball while he was "shaking off" the effects of an earlier blow. He was at his regular third base position during the drills and teammates said that he was first hit on the leg by a line drive. He had his back partially turned to the plate after the first blow and had just started to resume his normal position when the second ball struck him. Both drives were by first baseman W. C. Sanderson.

Sauls, a senior from Grifton, had seen most of his action this year as a reserve for Gaither Cline and Charles Cherry.

New Fashion Rules for Brides and Grooms

FORMAL WEDDING . . . The complete wedding party is assembled as the bride and groom start down the aisle after the ceremony. Her gown, designed by Alfred Angelo, is Chantilly lace over ivory shantung, with Peter Pan collar, long sleeves and tunic-length peplum widening into the full train. Her tulle veil falls from a seed-pearl circlet tiara. Since the bride wears a formal wedding gown with train, the groom and other men of the wedding party must wear cutaways rather than the less formal club jacket now growing in popularity. Here the bridegroom wears the newest plain-edge worsted cheviot cutaway with black and gray striped worsted trousers, pear gray flannel waistcoat and ascot tie. The best man and ushers are dressed exactly like the bridegroom, except that they wear black and gray striped four-in-hand ties. The maid of honor wears a Nile green strapless gown with cover-up lace bolero and peplum over pleated tulle. Bridesmaids' gowns are similar, except that they are in mauve and pale yellow and have tiered skirts without the lace tunic. The flower girl wears a navy blue serge Eton suit. Information on new rules for correct dress in weddings was assembled by the Wool Bureau.

INFORMAL WEDDING . . . This modern bride wears a ballerina length gown of Chantilly lace with bouffant skirt, and fingertip veil with seed-pearl headress. Correct for wear with the short gown is the groom's oxford worsted cheviot club jacket, worn with gray and black striped trousers.

FLOWER GIRL . . . This small charmer is attired correctly for either formal or informal wedding, in of soft pink net over taffeta. Her dress has a modified sweetheart neckline and puffed sleeves, with skirt and neckline trim of a white rose-pattern border print. Demure starched lace headress.

MAN FRIDAY . . . The best man sees that the bridegroom is properly dressed, from oxford cheviot cutaway to lily-of-the-valley boutonniere. The men are dressed alike, except groom wears ascot tie, best man wears four-in-hand tie and white carnation. Cutaway is required when bride wears formal gown.

Pre-School Clinic Results Indicate Large Enrollment

Pre-school clinics held in Greenville during recent weeks indicate a marked increase in first grade enrollment in the white school first grades of the city this fall compared with the fall of 1952.

Superintendent J.H. Rose of the city schools said today 256 white children were examined in pre-school clinics held in Greenville recently. All received examinations prior to entering the first grade in the city school system next fall. Rose said the 256 examined this spring compares with 132 pre-school children examined for the white schools of the city last year. From the 132 who received pre-school examinations last year, the first grade enrollment of the city schools by last September had grown to 200. Although as great a percentage increase is expected between now and the opening of school in September, Rose estimated there will be slightly more than 300 first graders to enter the local school system next fall.

A comparison of pre-school clinic figures for this year and last year at the individual schools shows:

Third Street School: 36 pre-school children examined in 1952 and 60 examined this year.
West Greenville School: 26 pre-school children examined in 1952 and 36 this year.
Training School: 70 pre-school children examined in 1952 and 110 examined this year.

chartered name, there is difference of opinion about the spelling of the word which is the recognized nickname of North Carolina. Until a few years ago it was always used as two capitalized words, Tar Heel. Lately some folks have thought that put too much emphasis on the Heel and they have adopted the single word, Tarheel. That is the usage of the State advertising division and of this column, except in cases where copyrights control. It might be a good idea for the two groups meeting on Memorial day to poll their members (?) as to preference and as a guide for future use. If that doesn't do the job, perhaps the next General Assembly might devote time and thought to the subject comparable to that given by the late session to castigating the press and radio sections. We have a woady and bird and flower. Some legislator might attain fame by legalizing the spelling of the accepted nickname. If a subsequent General Assembly didn't like it, the members could change it again—just as one session changed the official state bird from the tom-tit to the cardinal.

Paratroopers To Jump On May 16

FORT BRAGO, NORTH CAROLINA—The American people will get an opportunity to see members of the famed 82nd Airborne Division in actual parachute jump training on Armed Forces Day, Saturday May 16th, when the public is invited to Fort Brags.

The jumps are part of regular parachute training for the men of the 82nd Division that have been scheduled on May 16th. The public can take advantage of this scheduling to see the paratroopers in action on the day the President has set aside as a tribute to the nation's Armed Forces.

From eight a.m. to 11 a.m. the troopers will be dropped from the planes with the personnel jumps occurring on the hour with equipment drops occurring 20 minutes after the four paratrooper jumps.

Picnic facilities have been provided and Post Exchange trucks will be on hand to sell soda, sandwiches, candy and pop corn. There will be directional signs to guide visitors to the Sicily Drop Zone.

BUT IT HAD WHEELS
LINCOLN, Neb. (UP)—Harold Sell, 24-year-old construction worker was fined $14 and costs for driving an unequipped car. Officers said the car Sell was driving had no muffler, improper brakes, no red tail lights. He also had no driver's license. Sell said the car belonged to a "lady friend."

Musk oxen once ranged through North Africa and Europe. A top American star would be giving Uncle Sam five times that much.

Town Clock Is Keeping Time By Ship's System

WELLFLEET, Mass. (AP)—The first thoughts of a summer visitor at Wellfleet, on Cape Cod, when he hears the First Congregational Church clock strike this year may be that the clock is out of order.

At 2 p.m., for instance, the clock strikes four. Which is just what the townsfolk of Wellfleet want it to strike at that hour.

For the people of Wellfleet voted to install a clock which would strike ship's time. Using ship's time, the Wellfleet clock divides the day into six four-hour watches and the bell, sounding at half-hour intervals, shows the progress of each watch. Thus, it will strike one at 12:30 a.m., at 4:30 a.m., at 8:30 a.m., 12:30 p.m., etc. A half hour after these times, two strokes are sounded. Finally, the sounding of eight bells indicates that it is either 4 a.m., 8 a.m., 12 noon, 4 p.m., 8 p.m., or midnight.

GOOD OLD DAYS
HARTFORD, Conn. (UP)—This city's police force was first organized in the early 1850's, and salaries were no inducement to recruits. The chief of police was paid $800 annually, a captain $650, a lieutenant $450 and a patrolman $300.

State College Alumni Of Pitt Hear Dr. C. Beck

Dr. C.K. Beck, physics department head at State College, addressed members of Pitt County N.C. State College Alumni Association and their guests at a meeting of the association Tuesday night.

The Tuesday night dinner meeting was ladies night of the association and the guests and members were welcomed by C.J. Goodman, president of the Pitt State College group.

The speaker briefly reviewed the objectives of the college which he said were: training students in vocations they are interested in; assist in development of new areas, find new areas, and improve ways of using old areas; and aid in distributing accumulated knowledge.

Dr. Beck also explained work accomplished in the nuclear field in the past 10 years. He pointed out the objectives of the atomic energy program which he said could be useful to private industry as well as the military.

Dr. Beck told the group that in

Italian Movie Pay Is Modest

ROME (AP)—Salaries of Italian movie stars are modest by Hollywood standards, but they compare pretty well after taxes. Italy's two greatest draws — Anna Magnani and Gina Lollobrigida — receive $64,000 a picture. That's one third what a top U.S. star could draw.

Salary figures, a closely guarded secret in Hollywood, were relayed by the Italian Films Export board — much to the displeasure of the Italian stars and their agents.

Italian stars pay few taxes. A good guess is an Italian star pays about 15 per cent to the govern-and Mrs. Ned Kensalk as soloist. About 40 persons attended the alumni ladies night.

NANCY CARTER Tested RECIPES
DIXIE MANOR SALAD BOWL
 1 small head crisp lettuce
 1 clove garlic
 4 radishes
 3 green onions
 1 medium sized tomato
 1 medium sized carrot
 1 avocado
 19 to 20 cooked, drained spears
 1/2 cup salad oil
 1/2 cup balsamic vinegar
 1 teaspoon salt
 1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
 1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
 1/8 teaspoon black pepper
 Break lettuce into a bowl that has been rubbed with the cut clove of garlic. Cut radishes and onions into thin slices and mix with lettuce. Slice tomato, cut peeled carrot into very thin strips. Peel, and slice avocado. Arrange tomato, carrots, avocado, and asparagus in groups on top of greens. Put remaining ingredients into bowl and beat well. Pour over chilled salad. Serve at once. Makes 5 to 6 servings.

His Store Stays With The Past; No Changes Made
 SPRINGFIELD, Me., (AP) — Time seems to have stood still in Harry B. Burr's old general store.

Here the 80-year-old proprietor still pumps "extra fancy Barbados" molasses from a wooden barrel into a wooden measuring cup for his customers. Here you may buy kerosene mantle lamps.
 Here you may buy plug tobacco, hand-chopped, or slabs backed from a great cheese, or horse collars and sweat pads, groceries and horse medicine, cartridges and hunting boots, vinegar — also from a barrel.
 Harry's barber shop, is in the rear. "I was going to fix this place up, once," Harry will explain, but the city men who come shopping for their hunting trips said, "Don't do it!" So Harry didn't.

Alumni Officers Being Chosen In Mail Balloting

East Carolina College alumni are now voting in a mail balloting for candidates to fill three top offices in the Alumni Association. The list of candidates was pronounced by Henry C. Oglesby of Washington, D.C., and Grifton, N.C. president of the association; Fodie H. Hodges of Greenville, chairman of the nominating committee; and Alumni Secretary James W. Butler of East Carolina.

President Oglesby said all ballots must be postmarked by midnight of May 10, and the new officials will be installed in their offices on Alumni Day, May 16. The terms are for two years.

James L. Whitfield of Raleigh, Class of 1946, state editor of the News and Observer of Raleigh, and Mary Thomas Smith, class of 1941, member of the Training School faculty of East Carolina College, are candidates for president of the Alumni Association.

Mrs. E. Thornton Meeks, Jr., of Wilson, Class of 1932, district executive of the Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company, and Margaret Carol Banks of Trenton, Class of 1947, home economics teacher in the Southwood School, Kinston, are in the race for vice president. Camille Clarke, Class of 1940, dietitian of East Carolina College, is unopposed for treasurer. District directors elected in 1952

Chapter 25 During the minutes that followed, Brindle thought of making a play for the gun. But the mouse seemed to have picked up a little jujitsu. Brindle's arm still ached from having gotten that information the hard way.

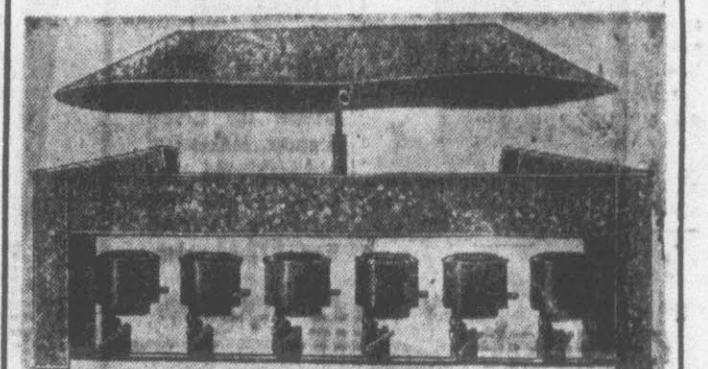

Brindle revised his former opinion of Frank. The mouse knew what he was doing. Brindle heard Frank bring up a chair and prop it under the outside knob. A moment later the door to the hall slammed.

began to cry. "Oh, Max," she sobbed, "it was awful. I've never been so frightened in my life." "Sit down." "Sit down." He gave her a few moments to get it off her chest and then broke away. "Please, baby, get hold of yourself," he said. "No time for that now. What did you find out?" "I didn't find out a thing. I don't know why they kept me here."

"Come on. Stop your kidding. Let's have it," she insisted. "I thought you could explain it to me." "Tell me exactly what happened. For God's sake, you must have seen something!" "I was in the bar after dinner last night," she said with provoking calmness. "I met a man. He was sort of drunk."

"What did he look like?" "Heavy-set. An extra chin or so. I didn't count them. Spoke with an accent." "Mexican?" "No. I don't know what it was." "Go on."

He Makes False Book Covers, And Odd Requests Confuse Him

By ELIZABETH TOOMEY
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP)—You can't, Arthur Busch admits sadly, judge a book by its cover.

Busch makes false book backs to fill up people's bookshelves. He makes no claim to originating the old saw about judging by covers. But he does claim to have the lion's share of the phoney book business.

He's a family man himself with a suburban house full of genuine books. And he's not particularly proud of his leather and cloth bound volumes with classical titles backed by nothing but wood.

"Lord knows what they buy them for," he sighed. "They order 'em by the yard. And they're not cheap. But the business increases every year."

He inherited the business when he took another man's bookbinding company seven years ago. Before that, Busch had been in the "edition" end of the binding business, specializing in covering volumes put out in large editions. Now he does binding and re-binding for libraries and individuals as well as make impressive-looking bookshelves.

On one table in his downtown office there was a handsome set of red leather, gold-embossed "Emerson's Essays." Inside was only storage space.

"Obviously, many of our orders come from companies who are setting up display rooms," he explained. But it's the other orders that confuse him.

"One woman who ordered artificial book backs thought she'd have someplace to store her baby's playthings in her apartment," he said. "A doctor said he wanted the books so he'd have a place to put his overshoes and umbrella in his office. Then there was the fellow over on Park Avenue who had a big library with bookshelves all the way to the ceiling. He filled up the lower shelves with his own books, and ordered about $500 of my backs to fill the high shelves."

Occasionally, Busch tosses in a leather backed "Standard Dictionary." Usually he sticks with such standbys as "Napoleon's Memoirs," "Poe's Tales," or "Shakespeare's Plays." He won't make up a phoney set of encyclopedias.

"It's too much trouble to make 'em look authentic," he said.

A two-inch wide book back covered in leather and embossed in gold sells for as much as $2.50. Cloth covered backs stamped with imition gold are .60 each. Occasionally Busch approves of their use, such as the customer who wanted to conceal a radio on his bookshelves. But he heartily disapproves of people who buy books just so visitors will think they're intelligent.

"I always wonder what happens when somebody walks over for a closer look at one of my books," he said thoughtfully. "Must be mighty embarrassing."

Odds And Ends Behind The White House Scene

By MERRIMAN SMITH
United Press White House Reporter
WASHINGTON (UP) Backstairs at the White House:

Cabinet officers now are being encouraged by the White House to make public appearances. This is no attempt to launch them in society, but a plan to have them, their work, and their departments better understood by the average man.

This was not true at the start of the administration. The change stems from the fact the administration now feels that its policies are fairly well established and cabinet members can talk more freely than they could a few weeks earlier.

This has been a busy spring with sightseers at the White House. The public at large is admitted to the public rooms of the house daily between 10 a. m. and noon except on Sunday and Monday.

Pressure from Capitol Hill and good friends of the administration elsewhere was so great that it became necessary to start a special delux tour at 9:30 a. m. The original plan was to hold this tour to 50 persons a day, but a few weeks ago, the 9:30 tour grew to more than 200 visitors a morning.

Sight-seeing business in front of the White House got so heavy recently that the big rubberneck limousines had to quit selling tickets late in the day for their tours of the city. It has been necessary on some peak days to run tours well into the night.

Genial Jim Hagerty, Mr. Eisenhower's press secretary, wasn't so genial after the widespread publicity about a hatching brood of robins in the shrubbery by the front door of his home.

Mother Robin finally produced four small ones, but not until after Jim had been swamped with mail and telephone calls from bird-lovers advising him what to do, plus the offer of several tons of birdseed.

Hagerty's real love in the pet world is raising hamsters.

The President got a golf lesson last weekend from Gov. Dan Thornton of Colorado. Thornton shot a 73 and then protested, "Gosh, I didn't do well at all today."

Thornton wasn't oversteating it. He is a par-busting golfer and if he keeps shooting in the low 70's, he'll probably end up in the cabinet.

Corsets Baffle Weight-Guesser

NEW YORK (AP)—If Hy Malik had his way, women would not be allowed to wear corsets or girdles to amusement parks. He explains that these garments are an obstacle to his chosen profession — weight guesser at a New Jersey Amusement Park (Palisades).

Hy has been guessing the weights of people for almost two decades. "You can't tell what is behind those corsets when a woman steps on a scale," Malik declared.

Malik said that "on a good day" he can guess men's weights correctly almost 70 per cent of the time. On the other hand, if he can break 50 per cent with the women, he considers himself lucky. If Malik doesn't guess a person's weight within three pounds, the individual wins a prize.

He says that he is always running into people who are eager to outwit him. "One day at Palisades Amusement Park," Hy recalled, "a young man got on the scale with about 10 pounds of rocks under his coat. On another occasion, a man had a sash weight strapped around his waist."

Malik says that people on the average are fatter today than they were when he started out in business.

Flowers Defeat Asphalt Jungle

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—Twenty years ago, Mrs. H. O. Crumpler said, she wanted to plant a garden and the city-owned plot next to her house looked like a good spot. "Go ahead," the city officials told her. "The city has chartered Evergreen Street to run through the plot, but that street never will be opened in your lifetime."

So Mrs. Crumpler hauled in rocks, fertilizer, peat moss, and started planting flowers. Soon the flower garden became a neighborhood showplace. Then, last month, came a notice from the city public works department that Evergreen street would be opened.

Mrs. Crumpler would have to move that part of her garden which came within limits of the proposed street, the notice said.

At the next city council meeting she told her story and then gave all the councilmen some flowers from her garden. The councilmen tossed the problem to the Public Works Department. On a second look the Public Works department found that Champion Street — another non-existent street on the other side of Mrs. Crumpler's flower bed — would serve the city's purposes just as well as Evergreen Street.

Board Asks Ban On Throw-Aways

HASTINGS, Neb. (AP)—Hastings City Council has adopted a resolution asking that Nebraska enact a law prohibiting the sale of beverages in "throw-away" containers.

Such a law, presumably, would outlaw such things as paper milk cartons and beer cans.

Councilman Louis Benner said the law is needed to clean up streets and yards now littered by beverage cans and bottles.

A copy of the resolution was forwarded to Gov. Robert Crosby.

Gov't Civilian Payroll Dropping

WASHINGTON, (UP)—The government's civilian payroll took its sharpest drop in March in nearly three years largely because of the Republican economy wave in the Defense Department, it was reported today.

"TRANSISTOR MAGIC and Your Hearing"

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.—An authoritative new booklet, just printed, tells exactly what the amazing new transistor development can do for persons suffering from imperfect hearing. Questions such as: "How small is a transistor hearing aid—can it be worn invisibly?" "Will a transistor hearing aid give me better hearing?" "How much does it cost to operate a transistor hearing aid?"—are all answered factually in "TRANSISTOR MAGIC AND YOUR HEARING."

Don't be misled by wild or premature claims. Get the facts. It will save you time and money. Write for a FREE copy today for yourself or a friend who needs help. Address: Harold Dahlberg, 7731 Sixth Avenue, Minneapolis 22, Minn. A plastic model of the amazing transistor will be sent you FREE! Mailed in plain wrapper. Be sure to include full name and address.

used his report as chairman of the Joint Committee on Reduction of Non-Essential Federal Expenditures.

The two reports differed slightly regarding the exact size of the decrease, apparently because of a Post Office reorganization of its personnel reporting procedures.

The Civil Service Commission said 20,300 and Byrd said 20,135.

Both reports agreed, however, that it was the largest cut in the federal payroll since the start of the Korean war.

The last monthly reduction exceeding 20,000 was recorded in June, 1950, and then the layoffs were mostly of employees temporarily engaged in taking the census.

On the basis of the Civil Service report, the March reduction left federal employment on April 1 at 2,528,400 persons. Of this total, 240,100 were employed in Washington.

Short Swim Was Expensive Sport

MONTPELIER, Vt. (AP)—A high dive and a short swim proved expensive sport for a Norwich University lad.

A group of friends dared a 19-year-old student to dive from the Spring Street bridge into the North Branch for a $5 bet. A neighbor who saw the fellow strip to the waist and dive into the cold water called the police. The "law" arrived in time to assist the swimmer from the stream and the next morning he was in court charged with breach of peace. The fine was $50 and costs of $8.20. The judge suggested the friends might raise the ante to defray the costs.

Long Vigil Over Bodies Of Crash Dead Ending

By MURRAY M. MOLER
United Press Staff Correspondent
LOGAN, Utah. (UP)—An American flag fluttered at half mast today over the honored dead of the Wasatch Mountains, and two armed guards watched over the snow covered bodies of their comrades in arms.

For almost four months the guard detachment has stood its lonely vigil over the bodies of 37 homeward-bound Korean veterans and three fliers killed in the crash of a C-47 on a lofty peak near here, waiting for spring to thaw the mountain snows.

Monday the vigil ends and the 40 bodies will be carried from their winter resting place high above timberline.

The task of an elderly widow, who took it upon herself to comfort the relatives of the dead men, will also be ended.

The Air Force-chartered transport, carrying the Korean veterans from Seattle to South Carolina, crashed into the mountain northeast of here just four months ago today.

The ill-fated plane's wreckage was found five days later. The Commando had disintegrated upon impact. Mutilated bodies were strewn over the hillside and covered by two feet of snow that fell after the crash.

Investigating officers, balked by foul weather, ordered the wreckage and bodies left at the scene until the snow melted. An armed guard was posted.

The guard that has protected the wreckage from souvenir hunters and prevented desecration of the bodies by animals was furnished by the Utah general depot of the Quartermaster Corps at Ogden, Utah.

But there was still a human role to be filled—that of comforting parents of the victims.

Mrs. Laura R. Merrill, who is nearly 80 years old, quietly took over.

Voluntarily—because she had "felt the sting of the tragedy" herself—Mrs. Merrill wrote to

MANY THANKS!

I wish to thank everyone who supported and voted for me for City Councilman in Tuesday's city election.

I appreciate your support from the bottom of my heart.

And to those who did not support me I hope to have your support and cooperation during the next two years.

Again I say, Thanks to every one of you.

Boy Is In Coma For Over A Year

BOSTON (U.P.)—It was just Jan. 13 that nine-year-old Robert Russo's chums ran to the door of his home shouting, "Bobby's dead! Bobby's dead!" His frightened mother hurried outside to find that he had been hit by an automobile in a costumed accident and was apparently unconscious on the spot.

Ever since Bobby has remained in a coma as result of a brain injury. And ever since, his mother Mrs. Carmel Russo, has maintained a daily vigil at his hospital bedside, "praying to God that my boy gets well."

New Sizes For Olives In Future

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—Did the nine "size" labels on cans of California ripe olives confuse you?

Well, the State Assembly has passed a bill permitting olive packers to put up three more sizes — family, king and royal, all blends of several sizes.

You'll still have the original nine to choose from — small, medium, large, extra large, mammoth, giant, jumbo, colossal and super colossal.

Holding 48,500 Willing Prisoners

WASHINGTON (UP)—The State Department reported today the U. N. Command now holds 48,500 Korean War prisoners who are unwilling to return to Communist control.

Of this total 34,000 are North Korean war prisoners and 14,500 are Chinese Communist soldiers.

The Department said that 84,000 persons are available for repatriation to Communist territory if agreement on full prisoner exchange is reached — 68,000 North Korean war prisoners, 6,500 Chinese and 9,500 Korean civilian internees.

The total number of prisoners held by the U. N. is 132,500. All figures are approximate.

The figures were supplied by Assistant Secretary Thurston P. Morton in a letter to Sen. William F. Knowland (R-Cal.) Morton reported that there has been no significant change in the past year on the total number of prisoners desiring repatriation to Red China or North Korea.

Robbers Turned Out To Be Police

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (AP)—If it isn't cops and robbers, it's the other way around. Four Newport Beach policemen — two sergeants and two patrolmen — were recently charged with ransacking stores and homes along their beats.

A week after they had pleaded guilty, one of the ex-patrolmen was caught in a shot-punctured chase at the scene of another burglary.

Baseball is becoming increasingly popular in Italy.

Squirrel Guilty Of 'Vandalism'

GOSHEN, N.Y. (AP)—It looked like the worst kind of vandalism when Mrs. Charles Stiller, wife of a village trustee unlocked the door and switched on the lights in the new house which she had left in apple-pie order when she and Stiller departed on a two-day holiday. Stiller had stopped off to attend a village board meeting, and after a quick call to him over the telephone Mrs. Stiller retired to the family car in the driveway and sat there shuddering until he arrived.

His inspection confirmed her hasty glances: table lamps upset, window plants on the floor and torn to bits, bric-a-brac knocked over and broken, a cookie from the kitchen, half-eaten on the dining room floor. In the cookie Stiller sensed a clue. He built a good smudging fire in the fireplace, and the vandal shortly appeared — a gray squirrel much subdued by the smoke. But the Stillers are still picking up the pieces.

An admission charge of 50 cents will be made. Tickets may be purchased in advance from members of the Greenville Music Club or may be bought at the Women's Club on the evening of the program.

Rising Waters Trap Fishermen

HINTON, W. Va. (U.P.) — Two fishermen learned it doesn't pay to park too close to tricky Bluestone Lake in order to get an early start at fishing.

The lake recently rose more than 15 feet during the night as a result of heavy rain after Calvin Lilly and a companion parked on the bank and went to sleep in their car.

The men, awakened by the rising water, were unable to back the vehicle out. They scrambled out and watched from a distance as the water gradually rose more than eight feet above the top of the automobile.

Probably Will Suspend Atomic Aircraft Plans

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Defense Department has about decided to suspend work on atomic aircraft as well as atom-powered carriers, it was disclosed today.

An official announcement that both the A-plane and the A-carrier are out for the time being may be forthcoming later in the day.

The United Press first reported April 10 that further work on the carrier might be indefinitely postponed for economy reasons.

Official sources confirmed today that the economy drive also is expected to hit the plane project.

Deputy Defense Secretary Roger M. Eyles suggested to the House-Senate atomic energy committee last week that a delay on the two projects now can be more than made up later if private enterprise is given a greater role in atomic power development.

A move to amend the Atomic Energy Act to permit that is now in the works.

A decision not to go ahead and build the atomic plane and carrier now will affect design and development contracts between Atomic Energy Commission and the Westinghouse Electric Corp. and General Electric.

Westinghouse, which built the atomic submarine engine now being tested in prototype form in Idaho, also has been working on an atomic engine for the carrier. The Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock Co., under subcontract, has been working on design of the carrier itself.

General Electric has been developing an aircraft engine for which Consolidated Vultee was to design the "air frame." Pratt & Whitney also has been engaged in an atomic aircraft engine project.

All these concerns, however, have been merely working for the government instead of pushing atomic power projects on their own. If the law is amended in a sufficiently broad way, presumably private firms could launch into construction of atomic power plants on the same basis that other private companies now build tanks and aircraft for the armed forces.

Congressional sources said abandonment of the atomic aircraft carrier would save $250,000,000 in nuclear engine work alone. An executive department source estimated this saving, however, at $100,000,000.

The carrier itself, a 60,000-ton "super" craft of the Forrestal class, might cost as much as $600,000,000 altogether, counting engine and equipment.

The Navy had estimated its first atomic carrier might be launched by 1957.

Pianist Walter Noona To Appear In Recital Here On Sunday Afternoon

Walter Noona of Norfolk, Va., pianist and student of music at East Carolina College, will appear in recital in the Wright auditorium Sunday afternoon, May 10, at 4 p.m. The program by the gifted young pianist will be sponsored by the East Carolina department of music. The public is invited.

During this week Mr. Noona has been presented by various organizations in eastern North Carolina towns in a series of recitals. He appeared under the sponsorship of the Benjamin May Chapter of the DAR last Sunday in a recital in Farmville. Other engagements include a program at New Bern May 4 and one at Rocky Mount May 8.

Since he became a student at East Carolina, Mr. Noona has given a number of recitals on the campus and has a large group of admirers in and near Greenville. He has played as soloist with the East Carolina Orchestra and has appeared before civic, cultural, and social organizations of the city.

This year Mr. Noona has received additional recognition of his outstanding ability as a pianist. He won both state and national awards offered by the National Federation of Music Clubs during the past few months. This week he was notified that in the National Piano Recording Festival sponsored by the National Guild of Piano Teachers he was awarded top rating for the second consecutive year.

BANGOR, Me. (UP) — Walter Jordan collects odd-shaped cypress trees. He said he found many useful ones during a recent trip through Florida and Georgia swamps. Jordan converts them into household objects.

STRINGING LONG

PERU, Ind. (UP) — Postmistress Sylvia Swanson at Twelve Mile, Ind., was told to save string when she took office in 1928. She did and now is wondering what to do with a string ball about 92 inches in circumference and weighing 132 pounds. She continues to use only what she needs, adding all surplus string to the giant ball.

About a quarter of the land area of Chile is in islands off the coast.

Attention

I wish to express my sincere thanks and appreciation to the voters of Greenville and to all my friends who so generously contributed both time and effort toward the success of my campaign in the recent election for city council.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (UP)—Prices moved downward on the stock exchange early today in slow dealings.

Losses throughout the list were limited mostly to the fractional zone. A number of issues held at their previous close. The retreat in prices was orderly and dealings in the first hour were at a snail's pace. Sales in that hour totaled only 230,000 shares, compared with 210,000 in the same period yesterday.

A few volatile oil issues moved out of the narrow range. Superior Oil of California, which moves widely, jumped 5 points to 535. Texas Pacific land trust was down a point to 131. Standard Oil Co. (N. J.) and Texas Co. eased.

Aircraft manufacturing issues met some mild selling at the opening. However, they turned quiet just before noon and changes here were mostly fractional.

In the main industrial group, steel shares were backward. U. S. Steel was down 1/8 to 39 1/2.

St. Joseph lead was weak spot in the metals. It fell 1 1/2 points to 3 1/2. Losses in the rails were small. Utilities slipped a few cents. Chemicals and tires did little.

Wonsan Is Again Target Of Three U.S. Warships

SEOUL, Korea (UP)—Three American warships defied Communist shore batteries today by steaming into Wonsan harbor and shelling the battered east port coast again.

The cruiser Bremerton and the destroyer Twining, which blasted Wonsan Tuesday, opened up shortly after dawn and an hour later the battleship New Jersey joined them. Air and ground action remained light.

Clouds hampered air operations, although F-86 Thunder jets destroyed an estimated 26 buildings at a troop center at Singye. Sabres patrolled the southern fringe of MIG Alley without sighting an enemy plane.

The Navy said planes from the carriers Princeton and Valley Forge flew 186 sorties against targets in North Korea yesterday, most of them against an important mining area northwest of Songjin. Anti-aircraft fire was "so heavy we could get out and walk on it," pilots reported.

TV TOASTED GREENSBORO, Ind. (UP)—Mae Sirmen was watching a red-hot television show. The set burst into flames before her eyes and had to be cooled off by firemen.

Eighth Beauty Contestant

The eighth beauty contestant for the Miss Greenville selection is Miss Mary Frances Peterson of Kerr, N.C., and a student at East Carolina College.

Miss Peterson's application to take part in the Jaycee Beauty Pageant now brings the number of girls entered to eight. The selection of Miss Greenville will be made Friday night in the Austin auditorium of East Carolina College.

The young lady selected as Miss Greenville will represent the city at Morehead City where Miss North Carolina will be chosen. Miss Greenville will also receive a prize of $200, the expense-paid trip to Morehead, a bathing suit, evening gown, and street ensemble.

Other contestants who will appear in the local contest are: Carolyn Clapp and Jean Ann King of Greenville; Pat Dawson of Belhaven, ECC student; Jean Page of Roanoke Rapids, ECC student; Shirley Johnson of Fairmont, ECC line, ECC student; and Catherine Lee Stevens, ECC student.

Jim Lamer, chairman of the contest committee, said the Miss Greenville pageant is still open to contestants, and local girls interested in entering the pageant should contact the Jaycee contest committee.

Arrest Another Suspect In Theft

Pitt County deputies yesterday arrested the second man whom they say was involved in a meat theft that took place Sunday in the Red Bank community.

Officers reported this morning Cleveland Buck Wilson, 44, was taken into custody yesterday afternoon and placed in the Pitt County jail on charges of larceny. The Negro's bond was set at $300.

Deputies previously had arrested Oscar Moye, Negro, and jailed him on the same charge. His bond was set at $300. Both men are to be tried in County Court May 12.

Officers quoted Woodrow Vines, reported victim of the theft, as saying thieves took four hams, three shoulders and a quantity of side meat from a barn behind his house.

Investigating the case, deputies "Duke" Andrews and Elmer Haddock recovered part of the stolen meat, which they said had been sold to various people in Greenville.

Moye, who, according to officers, resides on West Fifth Street in Greenville, is Vines' brother-in-law.

It's V-E Day

Where were you eight years ago today?

On May 7, 1945, the booming of cannon was stilled throughout Europe, and erratic negotiations over the continent brought to a sudden halt the destruction of life and property that seven bitter years of armed conflict had wrought in the Western Hemisphere.

Various isolated segments of the German army began surrendering three days earlier, but the unconditional capitulation was not signed until 2:41 a.m., May 7, at Allied headquarters in Reims. American fighting men turned their faces toward Asia and the East, where war with the Japanese still raged.

Little more than three months later — August 14, to be exact — the Empire of Japan, beaten to her knees, threw in the sponge and brought to a conclusion the four-year war in the Pacific. American forces throughout the world began their difficult conversion to civilian life.

But today is the eighth anniversary of that event in Europe, which was the beginning of the end for the Axis powers and the end of the beginning for nearly 11,000,000 American servicemen.

End Bread And Water Sentence

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Navy's traditional court martial sentence of "30 days on bread and water" has been struck down by the U. S. Court of Military Appeals.

The highest military tribunal ruled that keeping a man on the limited rations for that long a time is "cruel and unusual punishment."

Henceforth the Navy can keep a court-martialed sailor on bread and water rations for only three days, and then only if the sailor is aboard a ship.

The issue of the bread and water penalty — followed in the Navy since the days of John Paul Jones — came up in the case of Marine Pvt. Warren L. Wappler, who had pleaded guilty before a court martial at Camp Pendleton, Calif., of being absent without leave and missing a transfer of his unit.

Wappler was sentenced to 60 days of hard labor, forfeiture of $150, a bad conduct discharge and solitary confinement on bread and water for 30 days with a full ration every third day.

The court of military appeals held that a court martial may not extend the bread and water sentence beyond three consecutive days, and then only if the convicted man is "attached to or embarked in a vessel." The court also held that a court martial may not impose confinement on bread and water where it also orders a punitive discharge.

N.C. Fugitive Is Found Dead In Delaware River

BRISTOL, Pa. (UP)—The case of an escaped North Carolina prisoner who operated a used car business in nearby Annapolis was marked closed by police today.

The body of Eugene Medlin, who escaped from a North Carolina road gang in 1946, was identified yesterday by his father, A. B. Medlin, of China Grove, N.C. The father was visiting in nearby Philadelphia when he saw an obituary in a newspaper of the body found in the Delaware River by a boating party.

Police said the victim, who operated the used car lot under the name of Eugene Deaver, had been missing since February when he fled officers who sought to question him about a criminal assault case involving a 18-year-old girl.

Authorities said the victim lived in Philadelphia with his wife, May, and a five-year-old daughter, who returned to North Carolina after his disappearance.
