Digging Foundation Sites For New Lights

In preparation for installing a new type of illumination for Evans Street, a Greenville Utilities working crew has been engaged in readying foundations for new light poles. The aluminum poles will suspend the lights approximately 21 feet above the street. (Reflector Photo by Roy Hardee).

New Light System For Evans Street Is Nearer Reality

By JESS POINDEXTER, Reflector City Editor. Evans Street in Greenville is just before changing its after-dark complexion. A series of sidewalk sandpiles appeared up and down the curb as employees of the Utilities Commission began this week to make excavations into which will be poured concrete foundations that support new light poles and fixtures. Utilities Supt. Martin Swartz said this morning the new type illumination will provide a great deal more light along Evans Street than does the system currently in use. Present street lights have been in use since 1922.

Estimated cost of the new lighting system, which for the present will be confined to Evans Street, is $250 per unit. From Five Points to the postoffice there will be located 13 of the modern units, taking the place of the 16 units situated in the same area at the present time. Aluminum Poles Under anticipated specifications, the new units will be suspended approximately 21 feet above the street and sidewalk. Poles are made of aluminum, and it is contended by manufacturers that they require considerably less maintenance than old units. Even though the system is the first in Greenville it is not a new innovation in Pitt County. Called popularly "white lighting," the new type units have been installed at both Farmville and Ayden. Swartz could not give any definite date for completion of the project because "it is being done in our spare time."

State Treasurer Is Quitting Post

RALEIGH (UP)—Brandon P. Hodges, 49, will quit his $10,000 a year job as treasurer of North Carolina June 1 to accept a position with the Champion Paper and Fibre Co. of Canton, N. C. The well-kept secret of Hodges' resignation, which was tendered some time ago, came out last night as Gov. William B. Umstead returned to the Capitol after a five-day vacation at Morehead City. Umstead had asked Hodges to keep his plans for quitting a secret until after the General Assembly adjourned. Hodges, a native of Asheville, told the governor his decision had been reached only after a long debate in which he was "torn by my desire to continue in the office to which the people have twice elected me and the necessity to more adequately meet the financial needs of my family."

Western 'Big Three' Plan Meet

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower today called a meeting with British Prime Minister Winston Churchill and French Premier Rene Mayer which could lead to a Big Four world peace conference with Russia later. The Big Three parley probably will be held in Bermuda late in June. The White House said Mr. Eisenhower took the initiative in calling the Big Three meeting to develop "common viewpoints" on many problems that "must be solved cooperatively so that the cause of world peace may be advanced."

together to "iron out their problems." Churchill told the House of Commons that "President Eisenhower has expressed a wish for a personal meeting with the French prime minister and myself to discuss our common problems." It was understood that the invitations were extended in telephone calls last night to London and Paris following an extraordinary White House conference last night between Mr. Eisenhower and some of his top advisers. Thurgill made it plain he will exert the strongest pressure on the United States and France to meet with Russia's Georgi M. Malenkov. "It is my main hope we may take a definite step forward to a meeting of far graver import," he told Commons. Mayer made his dramatic announcement to a National Assembly that appeared ready to over-

Greenville Man Named To Red Cross Council

E. HOOVER TAFT, JR. E. Hoover Taft Jr., Greenville attorney and president of the Pitt County American Red Cross chapter, has been named to the Advisory Council of the American Red Cross Southeastern Area.

Fills Vacancy

RALEIGH (UP)—Gov. William B. Umstead appointed former FBI agent Edward Schmidt today as commissioner of motor vehicles, succeeding L. R. Fisher who resigned two weeks ago. Schmidt resigned recently from the FBI after service in Charlotte, New York and Detroit. A native of Minnesota, he grew up in Winston-Salem and graduated with honors from the University of North Carolina. Fisher submitted his resignation as motor vehicles commissioner "at the pleasure of the governor" on May 7. Gov. Kerr Scott had named Fisher as commissioner last June after firing L. C. Rosser for backing Umstead for the Democratic nomination instead of Scott's choice, Judge Hubert E. Olive.

Mushrooming Walkouts Idle Over 56,000 Workers Auto Plant Strikes Grow

DETROIT (UP)—Mushrooming auto strikes idled more than 56,000 workers in the Detroit area today, including 37,500 in the Detroit area. Ford Motor Co., with 7,900 already idled, said 85,000 of its 128,000 hourly rated employees across the country would be laid off by Monday. A strike at Ford's Canton, O., forgings plant would shut down all but one of its 18 assembly plants throughout the nation. The 85,000 Ford workers facing layoffs included 65,000 in the Detroit area alone, 43,100 of them at Ford's giant River Rouge plant in suburban Dearborn. The 56,000 Ford workers already idled, all of them members of the CIO United Auto Workers Union, included: Detroit: 35,000 idled Wednesday by a jurisdictional squabble involving 100 men at Budd Co., which makes body stampings for Chrysler, De Soto and Dodge passenger cars. Michael Lacey, UAW director, branded it a wildcat strike. It caused layoffs of 8,000 men at Budd and 27,000 Chrysler Corp. assembly workers. Canton: 1,400 on strike since April 20 in a dispute over pay and job standards. Detroit: 2,500 idled Wednesday at Ford's Rouge plant by the Canton strike.

Cleveland: 4,000 idled Wednesday at Ford's foundry and engine plant by the Canton strike. Toledo: 8,500 idled at Willys-Overland, most of them since the start of a Borg-Warner gear plant strike at Muncie, Ind., May 8. Kenosha, Wis.: 3,500 idled at Nash by the Borg strike. Danville, Ill.: 2,500 General Motors workers on strike Wednesday over unsettled grievances. In addition, Ford assembly plants were scheduled to close today at Louisville, Atlanta, Norfolk, Chester, Pa., Somerville, Mass., Buffalo, Dearborn, Chicago, Memphis, Dallas and St. Paul.

Stranded Refugees Build Makeshift Shelters Louisiana Flood Spreads

NEW ORLEANS (UP)—Thousands of farmers, trappers and fishermen erected makeshift shelters for their families on high ground today as angry flood waters backed up by southerly winds, spread over southwest Louisiana and crept into the city of Lake Charles. At the mass exodus to the hills continued, the Lake Charles weather bureau warned that the most critical point of the four-day floods could yet come. Winds blowing inland from the Gulf of Mexico were expected to reach 30 miles an hour, backing up the flood waters which would ordinarily drain into the Gulf, the weatherman said. They forecast that the swollen Calcasieu River would rise to its highest crest in history late today, posing a serious threat to Lake Charles where water already had flooded at the homes of some of the city's 41,000 inhabitants. A National Guard unit was assigned to duty in the city at the request of Red Cross workers who said they feared an "extremely serious situation" could develop. Virtually the entire southwest section of the state resembled a huge muddy lake dotted with occasional high points of land but to the northeast, Coast Guard, National Guard and police units also kept an anxious eye on a levee surrounding the small city of Jonesville. Families were brought out of the flooded lowlands by trucks, boats and pontoons. Deputy Sheriff R. A. Tallaferrro said most of the some 17,000 persons forced from their homes had to shift for themselves. "About all we can do is bring them out, then go after more," he said. "They have to find some tents from an Army supply station somewhere and find some high ground to set them up on."

Double-Check Clinics Set For Pitt People Whose First X-Rays 'Suspicious'

Preparations for the double-check of persons whose chest films in the county-wide x-ray survey show suspicions of tuberculosis, or are imperfect, were announced today by Dr. Walter Humbert. Every person who goes to one of the x-ray units to have his chest checked will receive a health report in about two weeks, a written report explained. If the small screening film is imperfect or shows any abnormal condition, a confidential report will be mailed. The letter will request the individual to come to the health department for a large x-ray picture at a clinic being held Tuesdays through Fridays from 9:00 a.m. to noon, and from 1:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m., and on Saturdays, from 9:00 a.m. to 12:00 noon. There are two exceptions in the clinic's scheduling. The clinics will not be held on Friday afternoon, May 22, and Tuesday afternoon, May 26. The health department is prepared to give large x-rays without charge to everyone whose small x-ray film is doubtful. Dr. Humbert emphasized that a diagnosis of tuberculosis is never made on the basis of small x-rays alone. A large x-ray and other tests are necessary for a definite diagnosis. He urged everyone who receives a report that his small x-ray film was unsatisfactory or suspicious of tuberculosis to have another picture made "as soon as possible." Editor Believes Eisenhower Next McCarthy Target NEW YORK (UP)—James A. Wechsler, editor of the New York Post, believes Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) has presidential ambitions and probably will make President Eisenhower "his next target." Wechsler spoke at a lunch meeting of the New York Young Republicans Club yesterday on the subject "Is McCarthyism a threat to freedom of the press?" He repeated his stand that McCarthy called him before an investigating committee to try to intimidate him and other editors rather than for the announced purpose of checking on his authorship of books in overseas government libraries. McCarthy is playing a "cold and calculated political game," Wechsler said, and can be expected to aim future attacks on the Eisenhower administration because he is "running out of victims" left over from the Truman administration.

Eight Are Given Prison Terms In Shotgun Slaying

CARTHAGE (UP)—Eight Negroes accused of the shotgun slaying of Police Chief Bernice Cameron received prison sentences ranging from 15 years to life in Moore Superior Court here yesterday. All entered pleas of guilty after only five witnesses had appeared to testify before the jury of 10 white men and two Negroes. Judge J. A. Bousseau sentenced J. C. Dowd, Walker (Juncburg) Morrison and Scottie Harris to life imprisonment after they pleaded guilty as accessories before the fact of murder. The plea carries a mandatory life sentence. James L. Bulie, James L. Worthy, James McLaughlin, Russ McNeil and James Brooks pleaded guilty to charges of second degree murder and received prison terms ranging from 15 to 20 years.

Unconcerned For Safety Of Thief

HOUSTON, Tex. (UP)—Houston Zoo Director Thomas Baylor said he is not worried about the safety of a thief who stole a six-foot-long boa constrictor from its cage at the zoo. He said the Mexican boa is not poisonous and not yet big enough to "give a serious squeeze."

Top Jet Aces Of Korean War Are Slated For Home

SEOUL, Korea (UP)—Lt. Gen. Glenn O. Barcus, 5th Air Force commander, said goodbye today to his two top jet aces and said men of their caliber were America's "secret weapons." Capt. Joseph McConnell Jr., of Apple Valley, Calif., and Capt. Manuel J. Fernandez of Miami, Fla., leave by light bomber today for Japan on the first leg of their trip home. The two aces were grounded after McConnell had shot down 16 Communist MIGs for a world record and Fernandez, the former record holder, had 14 to his credit. "It's definite like these," Barcus said, "that are our secret weapon and to have two fighters like these in my air force—how lucky can I get?"

Benson Notes Production Up, Exports Down Threatens Cotton Control

CLEVELAND, Miss. (UP)—Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson said today the "cold, hard facts" are that controls will be clamped on cotton in 1954 if this year's crop equals 1952 production. Benson told the Delta Council here that acreage and marketing quotas for the 1954 crop would be "unavoidable" if domestic and export demands are exceeded by more than 30 per cent. "Reluctant as I would be to have to invoke marketing and acreage controls, I would have no choice under the law," he said. Agricultural and banking leaders have agreed almost unanimously that this year's cotton crop will be greater than last year. However, recent rains and floodwaters which have washed away up to one-fourth of the cotton in some areas and delayed plantings may decrease the expected crop size. Benson said the "most serious problem" currently facing the industry is the sharp drop in cotton exports. He predicted that foreign countries would buy only 3,500,000 bales of American cotton this season. Benson blamed this situation on the federal government's ban on cotton exports for the 1950-51 crop. He said the ban proved a "bonanza" for foreign cotton growers, who immediately increased production. "Now we have world production exceeding consumption," Benson said, but his department has taken steps to bolster sagging exports. He said it has sent marketing specialists to the Far East and Europe to carry out surveys and has endorsed legislation to authorize federal insurance against "certain abnormal risks" on U. S. products stored overseas. Benson called on Delta Council members to make "every effort" to secure for cotton and all agriculture equal research with industry. He cited cotton's loss of the tire cord market to rayon which he said provided an "outlet for roughly half a million bales of cotton." The reason cotton lost the market, he said, was because "industrial research developed a rayon fiber specifically for use in tire cord." Benson said the cotton grower is now going through "a critical period—a kind of revolution."

Distinguished Group Joins In Annual Meeting

DIGNITARIES AT PIERCE FELLOWSHIP—The distinguished group above made up a portion of the more than 200 people who attended the annual meeting of the John Pierce Fellowship club near Ayden yesterday. Left to right they are: S. O. Worthington, Greenville, member of the State Utilities Commission; W. I. Bissette, Grifton; J. E. Winslow, Greenville; Henry Bridges, state auditor; Lynn Nisbet, Raleigh newspaper man; Congressman Herbert Bonner; President John D. Messick of East Carolina College; Rep. Frank Kilpatrick of Ayden; Roy Pursler, business manager of the state mental institutions; Rep. Alonzo Edwards of Greene; and Maynard Hicks of Snow Hill, highway commissioner for the second division. Convivial Talk, Barbecue, At Pierce Fellowship Meet

More than 200 members of the John Pierce Fellowship club basked themselves in fellowship and filled themselves with barbecue yesterday at the annual meeting of the organization. The annual gathering, which is a "must" for politicians and many others hereabouts, was held at Camp Contant on Contant Creek near Ayden. At mid-morning yesterday members from the club throughout Pitt County began arriving on the scene, and by the time barbecue was served shortly after 1 o'clock the number had risen to 277. The crowd was dispersed in small groups discussing politics, crop conditions, old times and many other topics. Old times in this off-year for elections, politics still seemed to be the principal topic of conversation. Following the barbecue dinner, retiring president Bill Shelton turned the meeting over to Henry Oglesby who acted as master of ceremonies for the election of officers and members and guests. Walter Jones, former mayor of Farmville, was elected president of the club for the new year; Wayland Hunsucker of Winterville was elected vice president; A. F. Rowe of Ayden was re-elected secretary-treasurer. The John Pierce Fellowship club was formed a quarter of a century ago, and three of the six remaining charter members were present at yesterday's gathering. Pitt

They were Blaney Sumrell, Dr. Gray, G. Dixon of Ayden and Congressman Herbert Bonner of Washington. Judge Dink James of Greenville eulogized two members of the club who have died since the last meeting, Dr. E. V. Tucker of Grifton and Matt Long of Greenville. Congressman Bonner, who was called on for a few words of the gathering, termed it "one of the most outstanding occasions in Eastern North Carolina." Other officials recognized at the meeting included Henry Bridges, state auditor; Roy Pursler, business manager of the state mental institutions; Sam O. Worthington, member of the State Utilities Commission, and Pitt representative to the General Assembly; Frank Kilpatrick of Ayden, representative to the General Assembly from Pitt, an Alonzo Greene; Maynard Hicks of Snow Hill, commissioner for the second highway division. Also recognized were Mayors W. L. Whedbee of Greenville and Sam Nelson of Grifton; Lynn Nisbet, Raleigh correspondent for the North Carolina Association of Afternoon Dailies; President John D. Messick of East Carolina College, and others. J. Con Lanier of Greenville, who this week appeared before the Senate Agricultural Committee in behalf of the major part of the tobacco industry, told the group, "We are up against a new set of circumstances in Washington City.

We have problems we have to meet." He said the tobacco farmers and others interested in tobacco will have to educate the new Secretary of Agriculture to the importance of tobacco and its farm program. As for the tobacco outlook for this fall, Lanier said it will be problem of good quality tobacco. He asserted that inventories on good quality tobacco are low while inventories on low quality tobacco are high "if we have a crop of average quality or better, we will have a good fall," Lanier predicted. J. E. Winslow, president emeritus of the North Carolina Farm Bureau and member of the state board of agriculture, spoke briefly on the farm program.

Queen Crowned At Mother Goose May Day

ROBERSONVILLE—The Mother Goose May Day was presented on Wednesday the 13th at 4:30 beginning with the procession and the coronation of the queen, Miss Jean Wynne. She had as her maid of honor Miss Betty Jean Davenport. The attendants were: seniors, Myrtle Jenkins, Dorothy Johnson; juniors, Janie Edmondson, Barbara Roebuck; sophomores, Patricia Andrews, Faye Stevenson; freshmen, Elizabeth Ann Everett and Lela Modlin.

This was the queen's day. To delight and amuse her, the afternoon was devoted to her. The queen relished the joys that her Mother Goose book once brought to her. Mother Goose, Betty Ann Rogerson, appeared to the queen and introduced her brood, so familiar and beloved by young and old.

First to appear were the jesters, Charlie Forbes and Billy Bolton, John Tyler Jr., Tommy Ward, Richard Roberson, Leroy Bland, George Ford, Michael Woolard, Russ Williams, Dallas Taylor and James Manning, who wore white shirts, black Elton jackets and knee pants. Herbie Highsmith animated Jack Be Nimble.

Queen and Knave of Hearts were Norma Williams and Tony Warren. Pat-a-Cake, Daphne Woodcock, Jean Keel, Joan Simpson, Dora M. Brown, Etta Mae Bellflower, Jessie Carol Mobley, Imogene Taylor, June Matthews, Edith Warren, Sandra Woodcock, Doris Cratt, Linda Rawls, Ann Bryant and Linda Laughinghouse.

Sing a Song of Sixpence had 15 blackbirds with suits representing feathers. Four boys held the pie. Penny Lee Martin was Mistress Mary and Butterflies were Martha Pope, Jean Cochran Snow and Ann Fleming.

The little Miss Muffets: Glenda Lee Roberson, Georgia Keel, Betsy Bunting, Kathryn Purvis, Irene Roberson, Lois Winberry, Dell Pollard, Becky Fleming, Mildred James and Judy Hardy.

Helen Everett came out in quaint dresses beautifully made.

The Spiders: Billy Cratt, Russell Ayers, Gary Melton, Jackie Martin, Frankie Rogers, Jimmy Carson, Joe Roberson, Steve Taylor, Eddie Boone, Billy Blake and Randy Bullock, who were good imitations of spiders when dressed in black.

Ross Highsmith and Wayne Bullock represented Humpty Dumpty. The three little kittens were: Beth Roberson, Jane Taylor and Mary Drew.

The old woman in the shoe had the following children: Betty Everett, Mary Everett, Ava Smith, Edith Everett, Madge Rogerson, Mary Whitfield, Linda House, Carolyn Brown and Reta Ayers who were dressed in pastel pinafores. Nine pupils represented the rain-

Old Acquaintances Together Again

drops and there were 16 dressed as flowers.

Farmers were Marion Johnson, Mike Greene and Johnny Gray, Helena Johnson, Mary Ann Bunting and Frankie Warren were the farmers' wives.

George Pogie, Wiley Rogerson, had seven attractive dancers. Old King Cole, played by Philip House, was amused by three dancers.

Ann House, who was cast as Little Bo Peep, lost eight sheep dressed in white flannel suits made with felt. Their tight head-shaped caps had long standing ears.

Eva Ann Perkins was the star in Twinkle, Twinkle, Little Star. She had the sixth grade girls for the clouds.

May Pole dancers consisted of seventh and eighth graders.

Miss Higgs Gives Clio Club Program

On Tuesday afternoon, May 19, at her home on the Ayden Highway, Mrs. W. J. Stell graciously entertained the members of the Clio Book Club at the last meeting of the year.

Mrs. Stell, the president, brought the meeting to order and then introduced as guest speaker Miss Lela Higgs, who gave a most delightful talk on "Women's Laughter." Miss Higgs said in gathering her material for her paper she found that humor and wit among women is being shown so much more today than in olden days. The women of today have more time to express themselves than they did back before the Civil War. Then they expressed their humor not in writing, but with their needle in making samplers, rugs and other articles.

She gave the names of several well known books and plays as an illustration of the increasing number of women who are now turning to this type of writing. In closing she read a most appropriate poem.

Mrs. Dink James in a very charming manner presented Mrs. Robert Arthur, who is moving out of town, a going away gift from the members.

A short business meeting was then held by the president. A motion was moved and seconded that the books be taken to the home of Mrs. Jake Hadley from which place they will be circulated during the summer.

At the close of the meeting Mrs. Stell served a delicious salad course. Guests for the afternoon were Mrs. Lloyd Allen, Mrs. P. K. Anderson and Miss Lela Higgs.

Joint Hostesses Honor Bride-Elect

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Taylor and their daughters, Miss Jeanine Taylor of Robersonville and Mrs. Robert Reid of Richmond, Va., entertained Miss Peggy Joyce Roberson at a cake cutting Saturday night.

The guests were met at the door by Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Taylor. They entered the living room which carried out a pink and white color scheme. Miss Jeanine Taylor invited their friends to the dining room where the table, covered with a handsome cutwork cloth, was centered by a large vase of white flowers. Silver candelabra flanked this attractive floral arrangement. After Miss Roberson and Mr. Gray cut the first slice of cake, Mrs. Jab Roberson, mother of the bride-elect, served the cake while Mrs. Abe Gray of Stokes, mother of the bridegroom-to-be, poured lime punch at the opposite end of the table.

Sixty people called during the evening.

When Mrs. Mary Black died near here at the age of 95, she left 154 descendants, but none named Black.

Girls Outnumber Boys In National Spelling Contest

WASHINGTON (UP)—Girls outnumbered boys more than two to one today as 53 champion spellers squared off for the 1953 National Spelling Bee.

The one-day spelldown in the Commerce Department Auditorium was the pay-off round for the youngsters who survived local competitions among some 5,000 elementary school children throughout the country.

Pronouncer Benson S. Alleman, an old hand at tossing out tongue-twisters at the national finals, was ready to lead off with the simple word "introduce" in a preliminary, non-penalty warm-up round.

After that, however, the competition was for keeps on a "one miss and out" basis. In reserve were such Webster Dictionary specialties as "tessellated," "concentric" and "farraginous" which tripped finalists in last year's contest.

The 37 girls and 16 boys were competing for the championship title, $500 first prize money and a weekend trip to New York. Other prizes include $300 for a second place, $100 for third, $50 each for the next 20 finalists and $40 each for the last 30.

Among the finalists were four repeaters from the 1952 bee — Raymond Sokolov, 11, who was last year's youngest contestant, of Detroit; David Hudson, 13, Akron, O.; Amelia Herrera, 13, El Paso, Tex.; and John Woods, 13, Steubenville, O.

Youngest contestant this year is 11-year old Franklin Fanning, Dayton, O., who is just a few months younger than Sokolov.

Last year it took 506 words to spell down all but Doris Ann Hall, Hudson, N. C. The 1953 champion, now 14, is back this year as a bystander guest.

The judges were ready with reserve lists of tough words so there was no chance of exhausting the lists as happened three years ago.

The contest is sponsored by the Scripps-Howard Newspapers and 33 other dailies.

Robersonville WSCS Hears Conference Report

ROBERSONVILLE—The Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Robersonville Methodist Church met at the parsonage Monday night.

Mrs. Clinton House used the verse "Lo, I am with you always" as the theme of the devotional. "Have Thine Own Way, Lord" was the topic used by Mrs. Wayland Wilson in pointing out ways for the Christian to follow in order to lead others to Christ. Before closing her program with a prayer, the group sang "Have Thine Own Way, Lord."

Mrs. Mack Wynne, delegate to the conference held in Rocky Mount, gave an interesting and informative report. Mrs. Pearl Roberson had charge of the business session. During the social hour the 23 members and two guests were invited into the dining room where the table was centered with a large birthday cake. Everyone sang "Happy Birthday" to Miss Belle Boyette, who had just celebrated her 80th birthday. The Society presented her with a gift.

Mrs. Burley, the hostess, served iced cream, cake and salted nuts.

The next meeting will be May 25 at the home of Mrs. Wayland Wilson.

50 Years Ago Today

THE DAILY REFLECTOR May 21, 1903

Austin-Willoughby On May 20, at 3 o'clock at the home of the bride, Miss Lena V. Willoughby and Mr. Edward D. Austin were married with Rev. W. P. Shanhart performing the ceremony.

The room in which the marriage took place was beautifully decorated with spring flowers and potted plants. Only the members of the families and a few friends witnessed the ceremony.

Mrs. Austin is the daughter of Mrs. Lizzie Willoughby and has made her home in Greenville for the past few years. She has a large number of friends.

Mr. Austin is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Austin and is held in high esteem by a host of friends. He holds a position as clerk in the post office.

Mr. and Mrs. Austin will make their home in Greenville.

A Time For Eating And Talking

FELLOWSHIP AND BARBECUE—A few of the 277 members of the John Pierce Fellowship Club gather in the shade by the creek bank to enjoy their barbecue dinner served at the annual meeting yesterday. The meeting was highlighted by an abundance of fellowship, and conversation, and a few brief talks by several outstanding members of the organization. (Reflector Staff Photo).

Identify Parts Of Lost Plane

MOBILE, Ala. (UP)—Plane fragments dredged up by a private search party were "definitely" identified today as those of a DC-National Airlines plane which crashed in the Gulf of Mexico Feb. 14, killing all 46 persons aboard.

Richard H. Shaddick of Coi a Gables, Fla., one of the leaders of the search financed by relatives of the crash victims, radioed here yesterday that the parts were definitely those of the luxury airliner.

But he said that a further underwater search for the still-missing cabin of the plane, believed to contain 29 bodies, had to be called off because of rough waters.

Shaddick said the bits of wreckage looted by a commercial diver operating from the shrimp boat "Emma Harvey" were in about 45 feet of water seven miles from the Mobile Bay entrance.

The search was conducted in an area marked a week ago by two fishermen who said they snagged an unidentified object estimated to be about 100 feet long. It is about one mile from where an oil slick was sighted shortly after the crash.

The body of Lt. R. H. Shaddick Jr., who was returning to his base in the West after emergency leave, was among those never recovered.

Shoulder-Back Idea Has Refutation By Expert

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UP)—Is somebody always telling you to stand up straight—quit slumping? Tell him to check with Dr. Paul C. Williams, bone specialist and professor of orthopedic surgery at the Southwestern Medical School in Dallas, Tex.

"The shoulders-back idea, an inheritance from military circles, is in direct conflict with the law of gravity and the structure of the human anatomy."

Dr. Williams was here today for a medical meeting, and he had this to say: "The result is intense pain, frequently laid to such causes as lumbago sciatic rheumatism, or, in the case of women, female trouble," he went on.

Lanier Believes Foreign Buyers Need Money

WASHINGTON (UP)—J. C. Lanier, general counsel for the Tobacco Association of the United States and the Leaf Tobacco Exporters Association, believes foreign countries would buy more American tobacco if they had more American dollars to spend.

Lanier, in testimony before the Senate Agriculture Committee Tuesday, said that this means the United States must buy more products abroad.

"We believe it is illogical to subsidize the world consumption of U. S. farm products by loans and grants, and at the same time refuse to buy foreign imports," Lanier said.

"We believe that the permanent solution of the whole question is a relaxation of tariff barriers, simplification of customs and the negotiation of reciprocal trade agreements."

Shark Turns Up In Inland Waters

BURBANK, Calif. (UP)—A crowd gathered on the banks of the usually dry Los Angeles River, about 25 miles inland from the sea, to gaze at a shark floating in two feet of water.

City Animal Superintendent George Farrall said the shark, a five-foot 75-pound gray specimen, had been dead for quite a while. He surmised that a fisherman caught it in the Pacific and tossed it into the river rather than take it home.

Klutz - Ennis Vows Spoken In Greenville Church Wedding

Attended by her sister as maid of honor, Miss Billie Jeanne Ennis became the bride of John Robert Klutz here Monday in a 4 o'clock candlelight ceremony in the Presbyterian Church, the Rev. Leonard Topping officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Nelson Ennis of Dunn, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Klutz of Goldsboro. The young couple both attended East Carolina College.

There, Mrs. Klutz was graduated on May 18. A program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. Rita Whittenton of Dunn, organist, Miss Carolyn Eisele of Statesville, roommate of the bride, and Mr. Bernard Ham of Portsmouth, Va., soloist.

The organ selections rendered by Mrs. Whittenton were: "Ich Liebe Dich" by Grieg; "Bless This House" by Brake; "To a Wild Rose" by MacDowell; "Serenade" from "The Student Prince" by Romberg; "Wanting You" from "The New Moon"; Theme from the Andante Fifth Symphony by Tschalkowsky;

Argentina Lifts Its News Service Curb

BUENOS AIRES (UP)—American press associations will have full use of their communications facilities for sending world news to their Argentine clients, pending a congressional inquiry.

Government orders which had deprived the three American agencies of these facilities were lifted Tuesday and Wednesday.

However, Buenos Aires newspapers and radio stations still refrained from publishing dispatches of the three United States news services accused by President Juan D. Peron of "defaming Argentina."

In preparation for the inquiry, a joint congressional committee authorized its chairman and secretary to obtain all necessary news files and other records. No date for opening the investigation has been announced.

Dailies and broadcasters here stopped publishing news from the United Press the Associated Press and the International News Service shortly after Peron's May Day speech to congress and well before the post office ordered communications facilities for incoming news shut down on May 12.

The Communications Ministry notified the local United Press offices Wednesday that it had lifted the ban on radio-transmission of news to clients in the interior.

The United Press multiple-address radio transmission of news to the interior was ordered sus-ended but the time limit was extended twice and service was never actually suspended.

Recent daily editorial criticisms of American news agencies in the Peronist newspapers had virtually ceased.

Peron charged in his May Day speech that the news services were engaged in a "campaign of defamation against Argentina."

Can Change Name To Fit Ambition

OKLAHOMA CITY (UP)—The Oklahoma House of Representatives has adopted a resolution permitting any member with higher political ambitions to change his name to "Jim."

Three members of the House, Jim Nance, Jim Bullard and Jim Arrington, are potential candidates for governor. A fourth, Jim Douglas, is being boosted for lieutenant governor.

Switzerland can raise an army of 700,000 on 72-hours notice.

Long-Standing Record Broken

DETROIT (UP)—Mrs. Marie M. Olariu, 57, a hospital switchboard operator, drove for 27 years without getting a traffic ticket. She got three of them Wednesday in five minutes.

Mrs. Olariu was stopped by a policeman for driving the wrong way on a one-way street. He noticed she had the wrong address on her driver's license and made out a second ticket.

Mrs. Olariu drove off, glancing down at the tickets in her hand. Then she plowed into a parked car and got her third summons, for careless driving.

BUS STOP HARTFORD, Conn. (UP)—Max Kroopneck clammed on the front of his bus when a car pulled out in front of him. He leaped out of the bus, chased the car, got in and stopped it. Then he got back on his bus and drove away. The car was a runaway.

Strength for the Day

COMFORT AND CHALLENGE
The Bible is a book full of comfort but it is also a book full of challenge. Many of its assurances are designed to fill us with a sense of peace. But there are other assurances that are very stern, and we are foolish indeed if we fail to heed them.

People sometimes express disbelief in the Biblical teaching that the wicked are lost. But if they can read they will find in many parts of the Bible the assurance that God is so serious about the matter of human sin that He will punish it with divine judgment unless it is repented of and forsaken. For the person who is constantly trying to live a better life and to find out the truth which God would reveal to human hearts, the Bible is a book of great comfort. For the obstinate and unrepentant sinner, the Bible is a proclamation of terror.

Many types of fear are morbid, and we should seek to free ourselves of these, but the fear of the penalty and judgment of sin is a well-grounded fear, and many people who go along every day with the conviction that all is well with their souls should have it.

But over the whole human landscape is shed the light of hope, because God promises his forgiveness to all those who in sincerity forsake their sins. But there is no mercy without repentance.

Two Days Left For School Bond Registration

Just two days remain in the special registration period for the $1,500,000 school bond issue for the Greenville school district.

Unless there is a marked increase in interest in registration, it is going to be left to a mere handful of local voters to decide whether the money should be spent for additional school facilities of the Greenville district.

Only those who have registered in this special registration which began May 2 will be eligible to vote in the special referendum to be held June 2. Registration on the city election books or the county election books does not qualify a person to cast a ballot in this special school bond referendum. It is an entirely new registration, and those who want to vote must register before the books close at 6 o'clock Saturday evening.

Apparently the vast majority of the people in the school district believe the overwhelming opinion is that the bonds should be voted. Therefore it seems, a good many people are leaving to their neighbors the matter of registering and voting in this special referendum. The matter of deciding an issue at the polls is certainly not to be left to the other fellow.

The pressing need for new school facilities in the district, and the importance of this referendum on a $1,500,000 bond issue for schools, behooves every eligible voter in the district to register and vote his convictions in the referendum.

Were the matter left to the children of the school district, there is little doubt the registration would be high and the vote overwhelmingly in favor of the bond issue. However, matters of this sort are not left for the youngsters to decide. The adults of the community must look after the interest of the children and speak in their behalf. That is one of the responsibilities which goes with being an adult citizen.

Although the feeling may be that the issue will carry, no matter how few voters go to the polls to decide it, the bond issue can not be considered won until after the votes are counted.

After the registration books are closed Saturday, it will be too late for anyone to get his name on the books, no matter what he thinks of the bond issue. The books are open at the city hall Friday and Saturday from 9 a. m. until 6 p. m. We hope the many citizens who have not registered for the referendum will realize its importance, and register so they will be eligible to vote June 2.

Only Frustration In Our Present Course

Disclosures that British-owned vessels were transporting Communist troops along the Chinese coast last year inspire a natural disgust among Americans.

Too, knowledge that other ships owned by the same Hong-Kong firm have been engaged to carry United States foreign aid cargoes lends weight to an already loaded question, "does the West really want to win in Korea?"

Following many months of conflict and many other months of strained negotiations, the feeling that accomplishment of United Nations' aims can only be brought about by force is growing.

"There is no substitute for victory" said General MacArthur.

"There is no substitute for victory" said General Van Fleet.

Talk has gained nothing for the West seeking peace in Korea. Talk has gained much for the Communists who used their time rebuilding a broken army and then entrenching themselves in almost impregnable lines across that battleground.

And while peace is as far away as it was two years ago, the likelihood of a united Korea is even further remote. Korea will not ever know a lasting peace until its division has been ended.

Still, the West trades with the enemy. Transport and trade, the weakest links in the Communist chain, have been provided by Western ships. Naval intelligence figures indicate a "steady increase" in trade with Red China last year with about 162 Western flag vessels taking part.

Mere indignation will get us nowhere. Instead, it apparently remains for the United States . . . rather than the United Nations . . . to determine the course of Korea's future.

Under present conditions, the allied powers are suffering from a split personality; unable to go one way or another, and constantly embarrassed with resultant confusion and indecision and futility.

National Whirligig

WASHINGTON—Reversing Budget Director Joseph M. Dodge's economy decrees and Secretary Douglas McKay's power policies, President Eisenhower has quickly approved continued construction of the great, multiple-purpose Oahe dam in South Dakota at an eventual cost of $326,770,000 to the taxpayers. Personal and political considerations alone motivate the White House decision.

The Truman request of $14,000,000 for 1954 construction was eliminated by Dodge from the War Department's Civil Functions Appropriations Bill on April 20. Because of doubt as to Oahe's economic, engineering and hydroelectric feasibility, Dodge ruled for indefinite deferral and possible permanent elimination pending further review of the natural resources problem in the vast Missouri Basin.

Many Army authorities and local interests support this viewpoint. The cost of power produced here, in their opinion, will be so excessively high that neither rural cooperatives nor industry would be able to buy it at a sufficiently favorable rate. But the politicians seeking Federal funds for this section insist on going ahead with Oahe.

COSTLY, UNNECESSARY DAM—On May 5 only a few days after the Governor spent two days with Eisenhower in conference at the White House, the President sent to Congress a special request for continuation of the project, with a 1954 appropriation of $2,200,000.

Unless blocked by Congress, Ike's decision will result in heavy expenditures for a dam which his aides regard as unnecessary. It will also inspire political interests in every part of the country to begin lobbying in Capitol Hill for other projects previously rejected by Messrs. Dodge and McKay at an advertised saving of many millions of dollars.

Apparently, the Governors from this politically important area took advantage of their visit to the White House to reell Ike on Oahe. He is also concerned over opposition charges that he plans to "give away" valuable natural resources, especially power sites, to private interests.

PROJECT PLAN EXPANDED—The Oahe undertaking provides a perfect example of the difficulty of eliminating a paternalistic form of government and reducing costs after 20 years of giving the politicians what they want. It also exemplifies the spending procedure known at Washington and every state capital as "getting the camel's nose under the tent." Soon, no tent is left.

Oahe was authorized about five years ago because of its prospective contribution to flood control, irrigation, navigation and production of power. It was planned to be only a $72,800,000 proposition. Now, through the usual changes and expansions, it has developed into a $326,770,000 project, and even that may be an underestimate. Through 1949-1953 only $18,355,000 has been spent.

BUDGET DIRECTOR'S DECISION—The fact that it is only 5 per cent completed is another factor behind Budget Director Dodge's adverse decision. He was following instructions of the House Appropriations Committee that there should be no "new starts" in the reclamation field, and that projects less than 20 per cent finished should be deferred or abandoned.

Now, it is pointed out that the Eisenhower decision will necessitate fairly heavy expenditures and amount to a pledge that Oahe should be completed.

PROJECT'S ECONOMIC FEASIBILITY?—Ironically, Oahe was dealt several other blows even before Director Dodge ruled against it. Appearing before the Missouri Basin Survey Commission, a Truman agency, V. T. Hanlon, a rural cooperative manager from Madison, Wis., questioned the project's economic feasibility. On the basis of increasing costs, he doubted that Truman-Chapman-Straus estimates of low electricity rates to farmers and local industry could be fulfilled.

The Federal Reserve Bank for this region holds that, although South Dakota has the world's greatest potential of manganese, it cannot be processed at a low enough cost to compete with present sources. And the possible development of Missouri Basin minerals was the principal basis for Federal exploitation of this whole area, which extends from the Rocky Mountains to the Mississippi River.

Horse Of A Different Color

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

Monday night I recorded my weekly radio show, "Pitt County Personalities," which is broadcast over WGTG every Thursday evening at 7:15.

Tonight's program features five outstanding Greenville high school students, who point out some of the inadequacies that exist in the present school facilities. Roy Taylor, Jimmy Cheatham, John Brooks, Frank Bockin and Sudie Mae Spain reveal some startling facts about the needs at GHS.

The Reflector's recent news stories and editorials have stressed the importance of your support of the school bond issue. Please remember that a special registration is required for this vote. The books close Saturday and the vote comes on June 2nd.

Monday night the students were full of vim and vigor, as all high school students appear to be. During the rehearsal of the program we got so tickled at each other that I wondered if we would ever get the show off the air.

However, as you can tell from hearing the program, the students were dead serious about the needs of GHS. Everyone should be, for the needs have been desperate since the beginning of 1940. Thirteen years later, it's high time something was done.

How will this school bond issue affect our tax rates? Naturally, it's impossible to answer that question. However, the revaluation will come as a benefit to us in that respect. Naturally the valuation will be raised and our taxes will be raised accordingly. Thus, the schools will get a proportionate amount of the raise.

Therefore, the bonds will not require as much increase as it would without the revaluation. There is no doubt that there will be some increase, but it will be small considering the need.

Everybody who mentions the school bond issue expresses the vote for it as a must, without reservation. The constant increase in population will mean that needs will increase even more.

The present building was built in 1925 and added to in 1929 and is supposed to take care of 500 students. This year, there are 603 students in it and next year there will be over 700 unless the eighth grade is moved to the Brookgreen School.

Be sure to register before Saturday and vote for the issuance of school bonds when the election comes on June 2nd.

And I thank you.

Around Capitol Square

By LYNN NISBET
BONDS—For the first time in many years more than a thousand officials and employees of the State of North Carolina, exclusive of those in the public school system, are adequately bonded. The statutes have all along required that many officials and employees furnish bond before entering upon the duties assigned them, but the requirement has been to considerable extent ignored. All persons authorized to handle cash or placed in charge of property are required to give surety and honesty bonds, and many others must give bond for the faithful performance of duties. No list is available of the exact number of names of persons coming in each or all of these categories, but it will exceed one thousand. Personnel of the public school system come under a different bonding method, and there are perhaps 10,000 school teachers, clerical workers, lunch room managers, bus drivers and mechanics, building custodians, janitors and maids blanketed under two or three master bonds.

SPECIFIC—In State operations other than public schools many employees are also covered by blanket bonds. Some 500 or more must give individual bonds for honesty with respect to money and property or faithful performance of duty or both. This list includes the State Auditor, State Treasurer, Commissioner of Insurance, Banking Commissioner, property and disbursing officer for the N.C. National Guard, secretary-treasurer and all members of the N.C. Turnpike Authority, members of the Highway & Public Works Commission and the chief highway engineer, executive director of the Wildlife Resources Commission, superintendents and budget officers of all institutions coming under control of the State Board of Correction and Training, the Stewards at each of the mental hospitals, Superintendent of Buildings and Grounds, secretary of the Barbers Examining Board, secretary of the Cosmetology Arts Board, each member of the Highway patrol, and every peace officer employed by any of the State departments and institutions. Of course, every employer is individually bonded even though included in blanket policies. The foregoing are not eligible for group or blanket coverage.

AMOUNTS—Amounts of the bonds range from a quarter million dollars for the State Treasurer down to less than $1,000 for some employees. In some instances the amount is fixed by statute, but generally it is left to the judgment of the department or institutional head or control board, and depends upon the probable limit of responsibility involved. The significant point is that every person who handles money or property belonging to the people of North Carolina is supposed to be under bond.

CONSOLIDATED—Until last year the bonding situation with respect to State employees was a hodge-podge business, with some blanket policies which did not meet requirements and some individual bonds of questionable validity. About a year ago Walde Cheek, commissioner of insurance, through whose office most of the bonds were channeled, asked the N.C. Association of Insurance Agents, which had previously done an excellent job in consolidating state insurance policies, to study the bond problem and suggest a better way to handle it. This study disclosed that, possibly every bond, except that of the State Treasurer, was inadequate either in scope of coverage or in compliance with the statutes. Result of efforts of the agents, working in conjunction with the Surety Association of America and the N. C. Department of Insurance, was development of a new type of bond designed especially for North Carolina. Under this bond, except for educational institutions and all peace officers and a few other individuals, the employees of remaining organizations will be bonded for dishonesty under one instrument, and there may be consolidation of faithful performance bonds for many peace officers.

COST—At first the cost of the bonds will be slightly higher under this arrangement, but it is expected that methods to be devised for premium-paying on three or four-year basis will reduce the cost considerably. Book-keeping will be substantially less and the chance that State money or property will not be covered will be much less.

SCHOOLS—Just as the public school system operates a different insurance set-up from the rest of the State agencies, so it has its own method of bonding employees. The State Board of Education is now in process of getting bids on the bond coverage desired, with obvious intent of giving the business to the lowest bidder within the range of requirements. Several types of bonds may have to be written to cover superintendents, principals and clerical workers who handle money; to cover the same personnel for faithful performance; and to include teachers who handle text books belonging to the State; bus drivers and mech-

What Other Papers Are Thinking

THAT EXCESS PROFITS TAX (Wilson Times)
Assuming that a man started a business in 1940, before America was entangled in the last war, and assuming that with normal growth he would have reached the point where, in 1952, he earned, before taxes, $50,000 a year, should he have to pay 82 per cent of $25,000, what in all likelihood would constitute his excess profits, simply because he was too late in getting started? Yet that's the precise effect of the excess profits tax which has been inflicting grave injuries to small business.

Now let's go back to that $50,000-a-year man. On his first $25,000 he pays the usual 33 per cent, or $8,250. On his second $25,000 he pays 82 per cent, or $20,500. Thus, his total tax bill is $28,750, and his earnings, consequently, have been reduced from $50,000 to $21,250. What incentive has he to go ahead? And isn't the government, by hitting him so hard, stifling business growth? Even assuming that the general prosperity which is prevalent in 1953 carries over, how can he ever grow big with taxes what they are? When we look at it in that light shouldn't we campaign to get rid of that onerous excess profits tax?

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER

Random notes of a business commentator on a cross-country survey:

Most tourists find themselves paying 5 cents for four 1-cent stamps and 10 cents for three 3-centers. If private industry can get these prices for postage stamps, why can't the Government?

What is the fascination of electronics for men named Fred? Almost every sizable town has a "Fred's Radio Service" shop. Never found an Elmer. The Jones and Peters seem to get into the quick-lunch business.

Most fascinating billboard in $70 miles: "Don't be sorry to see us first—Winslow Motel; Winslow, Ariz."

The "Nuthin Rile" restaurant is in Texas and an Alabama eatery advertises a "deplorable poor-boy sandwich" for 30 cents. It is not true that Los Angeles drivers are the worst in the world, but their practice of making right turns from the left lane and pulling out from the curb into the left lane certainly makes life interesting—while it lasts.

Tourists stop at roadside restaurants, stands and motels where other cars are pulled up. Why doesn't some plastics manufacturer bring out inflatable dummy cars and sell them as bait to roadside businesses?

Why do more people in Nevada play the slot machines, where they can't tell the odds against them, than play dice or roulette, where the odds can be calculated? One Reno gambling hall has placards announcing that 90 per cent of its own employees play the slot machines. Search failed to disclose any that advertised that 90 per cent of the town's bankers played their machines. Las Vegas, Nev., places advertise themselves as "casinos" on California billboards but as "gambling centers" in Nevada.

Most gas stations from Washington, D. C. to Los Angeles advertise "Buy here and save." But the price always seems to be exactly the same as at the next station down the highway.

APPAREL MERCHANTS FACING A SQUEEZE
Apparel dealers can expect a squeeze this fall. Workers in the men's and boys' apparel field have already won a wage increase; the International Ladies Garment Workers' Union has gained a pay rise of $5 a week for $8,000 cloak and suit workers in New York, and a pay raise is being sought for 20,000 dressmakers in the same area. These increases will affect wholesale prices of clothing; in fact, boys' suit prices at the recent Boys' Apparel and Accessories Manufacturers' Association were 5 to 7 per cent higher than a year ago.

Meanwhile, many retailers are meeting resistance to present prices. If they increase prices to compensate for the higher prices they must pay, the resistance may grow. And if they do not increase prices, they stand to lose a large part of their profit.

BUTTER GLUT HITS MARGARINE MARKET

The butter glut may have been caused by the legalization of colored margarine. Now butter is cutting into the margarine market. The Department of Agriculture recently arranged to sell the Army 50,000,000 pounds of butter at 15 cents a pound. This was butter accumulated under the price support program. With that deal the margarine industry lost a big market.

The Department also gave the school lunch program 75,000,000 pounds—and margarine makers lost another potential customer. A salesman who has been selling food to institutions in Louisiana has written that he is almost out of work. So much government butter, ham, turkey, dried milk and other foods are being poured for the state school lunch program that the state is cutting back purchases from private industry.

NEW G.I. INTEREST RATE EASES MORTGAGE MONEY
With the increase in the interest rate to 4 1/2 per cent for G.I. housing loans, the amount of money available for mortgages has increased considerably.

Until recently, some veterans were having difficulty in arranging mortgages. Now they are able to find adequate amounts, but at the higher rate.

Hal Boyle's Column

NEW YORK (AP)—American men are getting a name for being the world's best husbands, and among the world's poorest lovers.

This ugly rumor is based on a theory that the average European male understands a woman's heart, and an American doesn't. But more and more Americans wives are accepting it as true.

Well, girls, it just isn't so. It isn't likely that anywhere on the freckled earth you'll find a man who knows you as well, appreciates you more, or will love you better than here in the home of the hen-pecked hubby.

Well, Ladies, there's the picture—the guy you're tied to makes you have his dopey days and his dull nights, but he's still the best bargain in the dismal male field.

Now for a peek at the other side of the coin. Renzo is billed as "The World's Greatest Lover." What is his idea of the perfect woman?

"Most men like the woman who like them," he said. "That may be lazy of them—but it is true. It is the same with me. It is always the woman who makes the choice."

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS
WASHINGTON—To a woman, the wife and Greta (daughter of Wayne Morse, the Independent Senator from Oregon, agree life with father is a challenge.

"There's never a dull moment" says Mrs. Morse, who with daughter Nancy, 22, sat through 18 hours of her husband's recent 22-hour—26 minute record Senate speech against the Submerged Oil Bill. "It was reported we doze," Mrs. Morse scoffed when I talked to her afterward. "My eyes might have closed a half a moment, but we heard every word he said. It was all wonderful and very interesting. He didn't drone on, or read out of a book. We could see he was in fine shape. We didn't worry about him a bit. But the gallery was cold and our feet were like ice by morning."

Any 17, the Morse's youngest, a high school junior who wants to get into physical education, was playing bass viol in an orchestra and didn't know about the doings on Capitol Hill. Judith 18, is a University of Oregon freshman and talented in drawing and painting. Nancy, a graduate of Oregon, majored in modern dance.

"It's been impossible for me to keep up with Wayne all the time," Mrs. Morse said. "I have not been able to afford to travel with him. Besides we feel if we don't do a good job with the children we haven't accomplished anything." She makes most of the girls' clothes and gives as much of her time as possible to her husband's constituents. Four or five times a week she rides the senator's fine stallion, in the park. Weekends the family spends at his rented farm in nearby Maryland.

The senator spends most of his time at the Capitol, but he has many interests and Mrs. Morse at home. "We haven't entered into the Washington social whirl," Mrs. Morse explained. "We have not the time, although cocktail hour is my busiest time of day, and I don't go on a round of luncheons either. I don't know how some people do it."

Her only gripe is that her husband's job doesn't pay enough—It's an awful state to have to keep up to a standard of living you can't afford. The American people get a great deal more good government than they pay for.

The average European is sure he is a greater epicure and a greater lover than the American. But he isn't. He doesn't know as much about either food or women as the average American, because he doesn't have the opportunity to get acquainted with them in the same variety and abundance."

Cesana estimated that "perhaps 75 per cent of European women" are frustrated in love—far more than in America—but don't know how to raise a holler about it, as who would listen to them anyway?

"The European lover is supposed to be more experienced, but this is ridiculous," he remarked. "Here boy meets girl early, and the two sexes get over their fear of each other very young. In Europe a man ordinarily knows nothing about the opposite sex until after he is married."

But don't American husbands take their wives for granted? Are not Europeans more romantic and gallant?

"It is the other way around," said Renzo. "In America women take men for granted. As for those little attentions that women love, the American husband probably brings more flowers to his wife in a year than the European

Eisenhower Message Credited With Major Role In Getting Oatis Freed

By MERRIMAN SMITH
United Press White House Writer
WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower was credited today with playing a major role in winning William N. Oatis' release from a Communist prison in Czechoslovakia.

The White House revealed Wednesday night that Mr. Eisenhower on March 30 personally had urged Czech President Antonin Zapotocky to free the Associated Press correspondent "and thus remove one cause of friction between our two countries."

If this was done, the President said, the United States was "prepared to negotiate" regarding the sanctions it imposed on the Soviet satellite after Oatis was jailed in April, 1951.

Mr. Eisenhower's appeal and Zapotocky's reply were made public as Oatis himself went into seclusion in New York to recuperate from the physical and emotional strain of his imprisonment and return to freedom.

Zapotocky pardoned Oatis last Friday and released him Saturday after he had served 25 months of a 10-year espionage sentence. A Communist radio report said the action was in response to a letter from the reporter's wife.

But in his message to Mr. Eisenhower Friday, Zapotocky said he granted the pardon "upon the proposal of the government" — presumably Czech — and under the Czech "constitution."

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerly said Secretary of State John Foster Dulles had made representations in the Oatis case the week before he was released.

There also have been reports that U. S. Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen took the case up with Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov last Wednesday.

After Oatis' release, the State Department said this government had made no "deal" but his freedom cleared the way for the removal of economic reprisals taken against the Czechs.

After Oatis' arrest, the United States banned exports to and from Czechoslovakia, halted American travel to the satellite and cut off Czech commercial airline flights over the U. S. zone of Germany.

Since the newsmen's release, a Czech airliner which carried anti-Communists to Frankfurt, Germany, last March has been returned to the Czechs. But the State Department said this was not connected with the Oatis case.

Oatis said in a statement Wednesday that he "at no time" acted as a spy for the U. S. Embassy in Prague "in the sense that this term is understood in Western countries."

He said he gathered news for the Associated Press in Czechoslovakia and that, under its laws, some methods generally considered to be normal newsgathering procedure could be "construed as espionage."

The 39-year-old newsmen rejoined his wife in New York Monday and toured the news rooms of the Associated Press there Tuesday.

Frank J. Starnel, A. P. general manager, issued a statement saying that Oatis was "virtually exhausted physically and planned to withdraw into seclusion temporarily."

Exchangites Tame Lions As JC's Edge Moose 1-0

Evans Hits Grand-Slam Homer, Double To Drive In Six Runs For Exchange; Nobles Limits Moose To One Hit

Yesterday's Little League double-header was composed of two extremes in baseball. In a first game slugfest the Exchangites scored a 10-5 victory over the second place Lions, while in the second contest the first place Jaycees edged the Moose 1-0 in a tight pitchers duel, as Nobles twirled a neat one-hit shutout.

Fireworks began exploding in the top half of the first inning of the opening game of the twinbill as Lion pitcher Aubrey Harrison walked a man and hit a batter and catcher Albert Crawford tipped the bat of the third hitter to load the bases and set the scene for pitcher Dick Evans' grand-slam home run. The Exchangites led 4-0.

Lions' second sacker Dick Heller led off with a homerun over the leftfield barrier in the bottom of the inning, but Evans then retired the next three batters by way of the strikeout route.

In the second inning Evans' big bat accounted for two more RBIs as he blasted a bases-loaded double. Jeff Fountain had three for three for the winners. Heller had two singles other than the homer to pace the Lion stickmen with three for four.

Winning pitcher Evans struck out nine Lions in gaining the victory over Harrison.

The second contest, which was played in 47 minutes, saw a pitchers duel between the JC's Nobles and the Moose's Riggs. Nobles took the decision, limiting the losers to one hit, that being a single by lead-off batter Daniels in the last half of the last inning.

Browns' Garver Blames Pitching On Mishandling

NEW YORK (UP)—Ned Garver of the Tigers, blaming last year's pitching troubles on mishandling by the Browns, promised today that he'll be firing away with all his old stuff before long.

The arm trouble which caused his record to sink to a lackluster 8-10 last season after an impressive 20-12 the previous year with the last-place Browns has all but disappeared, Garver says.

"My arm feels great now," assures the good-looking, 27-year-old right hander. "There's no pain any more. And it's gonna get even better."

He still harbors a grudge, however, against the Brownie boss Bill Veck for aggravating his troubles by making him pitch with a sore arm. That weakened his arm and delayed his recovery, Garver maintains.

"There was no life in my arm," Garver relates. "There was no circulation below the shoulder. Why, I couldn't even lift a suitcase."

Garver also rebuked the idea that, in order to be rated top-notch, a pitcher has to be a 20-game winner.

"Everyone talks about that 1951 season when I won 20 games," he said, "but I was just as good the year before with a 13-18 record. You know, in my last 19 starts in 1950, I was never knocked out of the box. Yet I never saw any-one write about that."

"The only difference in my pitching from one year to the next was that I got a lot of breaks when I won 20."

Perini Predicts Braves Will Draw Over Million Fans

MILWAUKEE (UP)—Lou Perini, president of the Milwaukee Braves predicts more than 1,000,000 paid admissions for the Braves who already have drawn more fans in 13 home dates here than they did for the entire 1952 season in Boston.

"I am convinced the enthusiasm of the fans will last all season," Perini said after the Braves hit a home attendance mark of 302,667 Wednesday. They drew only 281,278 in Boston last year.

Perini said "what we've all wondered about was next year, but I feel now the Braves are over the hump and will draw well, year after year, in Milwaukee."

"We not only will have more than 1,000,000 paid admissions this year," he continued, "but we'll have the biggest home attendance of any other club in the league." The Brooklyn Dodger-Braves game Wednesday drew 23,450 fans Tuesday night a capacity crowd of 36,349 turned out for the Dodger's Milwaukee debut and the turnstiles show no sign of stopping their merry whirl.

Note: Lions Win!

In yesterday's Little League write-up, the story had the Kiwanians beating the Lions. The Lions won the game 4-2, instead of the Kiwanians. The box score and score by innings were correct, but the headline and body of the story were in error.

Absent when the picture was taken were Tadpole Cates and Mac Mac, Kenzie.

Meeting Tonight

Tonight at 8 o'clock in the National Guard Armory there will be a combined meeting of the softball managers and the Pony League supporters. All concerned persons are urged to be present.

Hogan Defending Title As Large Field Competes

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UP)—The warmups were over and it was play for keeps today as the rich $25,000 Colonial National Invitation opened with Ben Hogan defending his title against the biggest field in the tournament's history.

Hogan was the natural favorite to take his fourth Colonial title as play began over the tricky 7,035-yard par 70 layout.

Other pros in the 48-man field conceded Hogan stood an excellent chance of repeating for two reasons: It's his home course and he knows it well, and he's been playing better golf than he's ever played before.

Bollweg Takes First From Yanks' Collins

TODAY'S SPORT PARADE By OSCAR FRALEY United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP)—Back in 1925 first baseman Wally Pipp of the New York Yankees was injured and a husky young fellow named Lou Gehrig took his place.

Pipp never got back his job. Gehrig won it and kept it for 13 years during which he played a record 2,130 consecutive ball games.

Back a couple of weeks ago, first baseman Joe Collins of the Yankees was injured and a husky young fellow named Don Bollweg took his place.

Collins, to date, hasn't got his job back. Bollweg has, for the moment, won the post and hopes to make it stick for a long while to come.

Not that the six foot, one-inch athlete from Wheaton, Ill., thinks of himself as another Gehrig. Actually, soft-speaking Don is a bit more modest and self-deprecating for a fellow who "came in on a pass" and is hitting a resounding .341.

"I don't have the talent some of the other fellows have," he insists in the manner of a man stating solid facts. "So I have to work harder than most of the others."

Being on first base for the Yankees is all the inspiration he needs, however. Because rawboned Don never thought actually that he would come this far.

"I played softball when I was a kid," he recalled, "and didn't think much about hard ball. My dad kept after me and so, just to satisfy him more than anything, I went to a Cardinal tryout camp near my home in 1941. I was pretty surprised when they gave me a contract."

Thus in 1942, Don went into the Cardinal chain with Washington, Pa. But before the next season started he was in the Army. There followed three years of service, one year with an armored division, and two in the Air Corps as a radio instructor.

When he came out in 1946, and the Cardinals sent him to Columbus, Ga., Bollweg had such a terrible year at bat that "I almost quit the game."

"Don't ask what I hit," he groans. "It was terrible. So I went to an eye doctor and told him I was losing the ball just before it got to the plate. They found my eye coordination was really bad, but by the next season it was straightened out."

Giants Win Fourth Straight In Field Day Against Cubs

By CARL LUNDQUIST United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP)—Take to the storm cellars, you pitchers with your no-hit low-hit performances. The lively batters suddenly have discovered the lively ball.

Wednesday was no time for the weak-hearted to go to the ball game, especially in the National League. At the finish there were 182 hits for eight games, 103 in the National and 79 in the American. There were 54 extra base hits, 15 homers, eight triples, and 31 doubles.

The Giants set the pace with 21 hits, including three homers, three triples and three doubles in their 16-6 trouncing of the Cubs for their fourth straight victory. The Cardinals collected 17 hits as they also hit their high for the season with an 11-6 victory over Pittsburgh—in which Red Schoendienst even made Stan Musial envious with six runs batted in on a homer, two doubles and a single for a perfect night. Pittsburgh collected 14 hits.

Cincinnati was the third N.L. club to hit a season-high for the day with a 14-hit, 14-3 victory over the Phillies, who made 11 hits in their defeat. Things were a little quieter in Milwaukee where Brooklyn's Billy Loes pitched a six-hitter and Brooklyn picked up 10 in a 7-2 triumph.

Washington hit its high in hits for the year in a 16-6 hit 8-3 win over collapsible Cleveland while Boston made nine hits in 14 innings.

The Reds picked on an ace, Cur Simmons, for their show at Cincinnati, handing him his second defeat against six victories. Ted Klusiewski, Bobby Adams, Andy Seminick and Bob Borkowski homered for Cincy; Willie Jones and Johnny Wyrostek did likewise for Philly.

Brooklyn added six stolen bases to its 10 hits at Milwaukee. The Dodgers never trailed after Jackie Robinson hit a two-run first inning homer.

Mickey Vernon hit three singles and a double while winning pitcher Spec Shea contributed three singles that drove in three runs before he had to go out with recurrent shoulder trouble. He pitched six blank innings.

Wilber's third homer, all in pinch hits, gave veteran Ellis Kinder his second victory in as many days in a battle of relievers at Boston. Lose, Don Larsen pitched scoreless three hit ball for seven innings before the blast by Wilber.

Red Night-Fighter Attacked B-29; Newsman 'Was There'

By FRANK JORDAN
United Press Staff Correspondent
OKINAWA (UP)—U. S. B-29 bombers based on this Far Eastern island exchanged shots with Communist night fighters early today for the first time since January.

I rode along with the 17 superforts who made the 1,000-mile flight from Okinawa to blast a Red supply dump at Unsan, high on the west coast of Communist Korea.

It was the 18th mission for the planes in which I rode. It had never before tangled with the Red "bandits" that prowled the night skies over Communist-held territory.

The B-29s had strict orders not to fire unless fired on, lest the tracers from their .50 caliber machine guns serve as a guide for night fighters "groping" for targets in the darkness.

Our Superfort, a nine-year-old veteran of two wars, lifted off the runway here in a steady drizzle at 9:45 p. m. yesterday, Maj. Gordon K. Penton, 32, of Pensacola, Fla., was at the controls and in command of the bomber's 11-man crew.

We climbed steadily, and then fell into the file of four-engined planes assembling for the mission.

Some of the gunners leaped through comic books while others sat and talked on the four-hour trip to the target. The comic books were put away when the plane dropped over the 38th parallel into enemy skies.

At 2 a. m. we turned into the bomb run, and highly secret equipment took over to guide the plane over the 363 buildings and 500 supply stacks making up the L-shaped Unsan dump.

"Ten miles from bombs away," the interphone crackled. "Nine, eight, six, four" and, finally, "One mile from bombs away."

Through heavy clouds below, the brief glare of photoflash bombs dropped by the lead planes rose to mingle with the watery gleam of the moonlight overhead.

"Bombs away!"

We swung sharp right, as Communist searchlights probed through a hole in the clouds dead ahead.

"Planes coming in fast, four o'clock," mapped Lt. Franklyn E. Morrow, 28, of Niagara Falls, N. Y., the radar operator.

The dull red lights of Communist tracers floated past us to the right, and then the cockpit shuddered as the .50s in our top turret opened up.

"Did we shoot at something?" Penton asked anxiously.

"He shot first," a gunner answered.

For 10 minutes we weaved and banked, as Morrow reported plane after plane darting around us. None fired, and our guns were silent.

After the last "bandit" trace disappeared, A. C. William R. James, 20, of Madison, Ga., the top turret gunner, reported on the shooting.

"I saw him coming in skipper," he told Penton. "Then I saw the tracers. I fired three bursts, maybe 120 rounds. Don't know whether I hit him."

Excited chatter and wisecracks filled the interphone for 15 minutes, and then the crew settled down for the long ride back. Ham sandwiches were handed around the cockpit, and the radio operator tuned in a music program from a station at Pusan.

At 5 a. m., the sun rose, and two hours later we tumbled out of the plane onto the airstrip here—mission accomplished.

Tito Says He Is Still With West Despite Offers

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (UP)—President Tito said today Yugoslavia would stick with the West regardless of what the Soviet Union may do with its peace offensive.

"We do want good relations with the Soviet Union but we will never forget the help which our Allies—America and England—gave us in the darkest hours of our history," Tito said.

Tito addressed diplomatic missions and air attaches from countries except those in the Soviet bloc in the highlight of a ceremony at Batajnica Military Airport on the 10th anniversary of the Yugoslav air force.

"Relations between us and the Soviet Union and certain countries under its influence have not yet up until today improved at all," Tito said.

"They are still shooting rifles at us," he said. "They are still mistreating our people. Their press is still attacking us."

"Furthermore, I declare that even should the Soviet Union moderate its propaganda campaign against us, this would not be enough to cause us to change our position overnight."

"We cannot have any confidence in them as long as they do not change their attitude and policy toward us."

Tito said Yugoslavia desired normal relations with the Soviet Union and "our neighboring countries and we are unashamed to say this to anyone."

"But what we want is normal relations with every country... because this means an important contribution to the maintenance of peace."

Behind-The-Scenes At The White House Today

By MERRIMAN SMITH
United Press White House Writer
WASHINGTON (UP)—Backstairs at the White House:

Those golf bags the Secret Service agents lug around a country club as they protect President Eisenhower contain not only guns, but short-wave radios.

There are signs in the clubhouse at Burning Tree, Mr. Eisenhower's favorite golf course in this area, requesting the members not to have guests on Wednesday and Saturday afternoons.

Wednesday and Saturday also happen to be the President's favorite golfing days.

One reason Mr. Eisenhower likes to get away from the White House for a few days is that by taking his wife with him, it relieves her, however briefly, of the burdensome chores of being the First Lady.

Mrs. Eisenhower has been following a schedule recently even more rugged than her husband's, if measured by the number of hands she has shaken.

Secret Device Is Stolen, Thrown Away By Thief

MONTREAL (UP)—A "top secret" range finder, stolen April 14 from an inventor's parked car, has been recovered by a sewer cleaner, police reported today.

The $6,000 device, soon to be produced for Army use, apparently had been discarded as a "useless thing" only one block from where a thief broke into T. Malinowski's automobile.

Sewer cleaner Napoleon Chartrand located the range finder Wednesday while at work with a "spoon shovel" in the downtown area. After examining the mud-covered one-inch device, he notified police.

Malinowski told police the range finder was the original and that a Granby, Que., company had obtained a Defense Department contract to produce it for the Army.

Few Cases Heard Wednesday In City Police Court

The following cases were disposed of in Police Court Wednesday:

Wilbur R. Smith, Route 3, Greenville, paid $5 for failure to stop at a "stop" sign.

Catherine Boyd, Negro, found guilty of shoplifting a dress at the Glamor Shop Tuesday, was given six months in the women's division of State Prison, sentence suspended on payment of $7.21 for the dress to the Glamor Shop and $25 fine, costs deducted. The judgment also provides that she shall remain of good behavior for one year.

James R. Starkey paid $10 for failure to stop at a red traffic light.

Litter Of Foxes Hidden On Truck

EFFINGHAM, Ill. (AP)—A truck driver, checking his trailer following a coffee stop, peered into one of the large oil pipes in his cargo.

Sixteen small bright eyes peered back.

Investigation uncovered a stow-away litter of baby fox. Cafe proprietor Jack Collins adopted the animals.

CHEAP ENOUGH
RICHMOND, Va. (UP)—"Cheerfulness" sells here for 12 cents. The state Department of Agriculture reported a few grades at 15 cents, with poorer grades at 10. "Cheerfulness," the department explained, is a brand of daffodil.

Rotary Entertains Ayden High School Athletes

AYDEN—The Rotary Club, in appreciation of outstanding athletic records made by Ayden High School students during the season just closing, entertained the group at a banquet and dance at a recent meeting.

Coaches of the various school teams presented letters and service bars to the athletes.

Rotary President Ralph Hardee presided. Gwynn Merritt was master of ceremonies.

Pat Crawford of Kinston, former professional baseball player for the New York Giants and St. Louis Cardinals and guest speaker for the occasion, refuted the statement of Leo Durocher that "nice guys don't win and nice girls don't win." He said the personalities and lives of such outstanding athletes as Lou Gehrig, Charlie Justice, Babe Ruth and others, with whom he played baseball, proved that "nice guys and nice girls do win."

Crawford reminded the Ayden athletes that the Rotary Club has shown its appreciation of the Ayden High School students' achievements in athletics. "You athletes are living examples of true sports before other students and this fellowship tonight is the highlight of the year for all school teams, and individuals and teams are being signally honored."

An operation forced Crawford to give up baseball. Since then he has done recreation work at Kinston and Goldsboro, and now owns and operates Camp Morehead for boys and girls near the coast.

Billie Powell McLawhorn, president of the Ayden High School Athletic Association, expressed appreciation for the honors bestowed upon the students.

Ayden Coach Stuart Tripp awarded letters in football to W. O. Jolly, Bobby Gene Barfield, Sidney Britt, Bobby Harris, Latham Dennis, Douglas Worthington, Milton Worthington, Freddie Allen, Marshall Tripp, and Earl Moore. Jolly and Thomas also received letters in basketball.

Football service bars were awarded to Randall Harrington, Billy Holland, Billy Davidson, Gordon Hart, Todd Kittrell, Billie Powell McLawhorn, Wilbur Jackson, Wesley Cannon, Mack Whitehurst, Hal Edwards Jr., Darrell Worthington, Harry Ross and Steve Farish. Randall Harrington also received service bars for basketball and baseball. Kittrell, Jackson, Edward and Ham Long received bars in basketball. Mack Whitehurst received a service bar for all-conference.

Coach Faust Johnson presented letters to Mary Jo Martin and Jennie Lou Stokes for basketball. Service bars were presented to Mamie Wooten, Betty Jean Padley, Wilmer Stocks and Gwen McLawhorn in basketball.

Letters for cheer leading were awarded Bobby Lynn Cox, Jackie Little and Shirley Tripp.

Special awards were presented to Milton Worthington, manager of the girls' basketball team; Wilmer Stocks

Behind-The-Scenes At The White House Today

Shangri-La, the White House retreat in the Catoctin Mountains of Maryland, has become a retreat for Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr. He likes the place and has spent several enjoyable weekends there, although the President has been there only once.

According to administration insiders, Brownell thinks the White House definitely should keep Shangri-La.

Shangri-La is normally staffed by naval personnel from the yacht Williamsburg. Now that the Williamsburg is going into mothballs, it may take some re-arranging to keep the naval staff at the mountain hideaway.

Members of ex-President Truman's staff used Shangri-La for more than he did. Made quite a convenient and economical resort, with the staff members paying only a small, daily mess charge for a fine weekend in the mountains.

In cabinet meetings, the President addresses all of the participants by their first names, but when they speak to him, it is strictly "Mr. President." As a matter of fact very few persons outside of family ever address a President except by his formal title.

A lady in Illinois recently wrote the White House asking for a "free and special permit to see the honorable President of the United States." She also asked that she be shipped immediately a supply of "high class White House stationery" on which she could write her friends about her quite unlikely trip.

handiwork. "What do you want?" her mother asked. "Food," replied Laurie.

ENJOYS THE ROSES—Gen. Matthew Ridgway smells a rose in the garden of the Wardman Park hotel in Washington, saying that it was good to be home again and see the flowers in bloom. The European commander and next Army chief of staff testified before House Foreign Affairs committee in support of the administration foreign aid program which faces threatened slashes. # Great Economic Strain Deters Unity Of Action

By PHIL NEWSOM
United Press Foreign News Editor

Enormous economic pressures tug and strain against any real unity of action between the United States and its United Nations allies. They may be divided roughly into three categories:

1. The pressure inside the United States to reduce or junk the reciprocal trade program and reinstitute a program of tough restrictive tariffs.
2. Economic stagnation in Western Europe and pressure brought against Western leaders to reopen the ways to extensive trade with Communist Russia and her satellites and with Red China.
3. The rising industrial might of Russia which, coupled with her present peace offensive, holds out both a promise of fruitful trade with our impatient allies and the threat that Europe's already shaky economy might further be upset by Russian "dumping" on European markets.

The results of these strains are felt as far away as the Panmunjom truce table. Gen. Mark Clark felt that British Prime Minister Winston Churchill had cut the ground from under him in the Korean truce talks by suggesting that the latest Red proposal could form the basis for a truce. Clark's bargaining position became that much worse.

Washington also regarded the remark as untimely, as it also did Churchill's proposal for a big-power conference.

But back of Churchill were these economic pressures at home: The demands of manufacturers of machine tools, agricultural equipment, textiles, chemicals and tinplate for trade with the East, and well as the ever present dollar shortage with which all of Europe is faced. Attempts are being made to ease these pressures.

One attempt was the recent Geneva sessions of the Economic Commission for Europe. Another is the current International Economic Conference in Vienna, Austria, at which the U. S. has a strong delegation.

A major stumbling block, however, once more is uncertainty over the future U. S. course on tariffs, augmented by Europe's insistent need for expanding trade.

somewhere in the world. Western Europe naturally looks to the East for a great volume of its trade. But that trade now has been cut drastically, both as result of the cold war and of restrictions imposed since the start of the war in Korea.

For example, Western Europe's exports to Eastern Europe, including Russia, in 1948 amounted to $1,600,000,000. In 1951, these were calculated at $700,000,000 and have declined since. Imports now are down to less than $850,000,000, as opposed to more than $3,000,000,000 previously.

As Western European production has stagnated, Iron Curtain countries have gone ahead industrially by leaps and bounds. Russia alone is reported to have increased her over-all production since 1940 by 73 per cent. Soon she will be in an ideal position in the fight for world markets which the Communists believe "inevitably" will lead to war — not between East and West but between the capitalistic countries.

India Is Seeking Middle East Oil

NEW DELHI (AP)—India will explore possibilities of purchasing crude oil in Southeast Asia for the projected Calcutta Oil Refinery on the East Indian coast at Vishakhapatnam, production minister K. C. Reddy says.

He added that Middle Eastern oil would prove nearest for new refineries under construction in Bombay Harbor.

India will save $21,000,000 annually in foreign exchange through the refineries, Deputy Commerce Minister D. P. Karmarkar says.

SO EASY TO REMEMBER
MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UP)—Birthdays are never forgotten at the Zeny Politis home here because they all fall on holidays. There are birthdays on Christmas, Valentine's Day, New Year's, Thanksgiving and St. Peter's day, a holiday on the Greek Church Calendar.

About 273 of the fatal bicycle accidents in the United States occur between May and October.

Conduct School For Waitresses

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Hash slingers are plentiful but well trained waitresses are scarce. To overcome the scarcity in this section, a school is conducted to teach how to tote that tray and lay that platter down. The Salt Lake Area Vocational School, with the co-operation of the Utah State Restaurant Association, gives a six-week course to waitresses. Students are lectured on personal appearance, how to keep the thumb out of the soup and safe ways to carry trays of food or an armload of crockery.

Green Light For Rare Firefly

WASHINGTON, (UP)—The Smithsonian Institution announced today the discovery of a hitherto unknown species of firefly that flashes green. The new species inhabits sand dunes along a section of the Atlantic coast. It was discovered at Bethany Beach, Md. Entomologist Frank A. McDermott said the male flashes green to let the female know he is ready to go ahead with some courting. Ordinary fireflies go ahead on the yellow. Sweden's population of 2,200,000 is about the same as that of Norway and Denmark together.

New Lions Club Officers Will Be Installed In June

Greenville Lions elected officers for the 1953-54 year Monday night by unanimous vote of the membership present for the weekly session. Henry Swains was elected to the presidency of the local service organization with other officers being: Bill Speight, first vice president; Ben Rouse, second vice president; Warren Aldridge, third vice president; John Biggs, Lion Tamer; Jim Taylor, Tail Twister; Dick Worsley, secretary-treasurer; R. O. Everett, co-secretary; and Cliff Taft and W. J. Stoll, directors. Holdover directors are Holly Vandyke and Kenneth Mercer.

The officers will formally be installed at the first regular meeting in June when they assume leadership of the club.

A musical trio under the direction of Miss Ona Shindler presented a brief program of music at the club meeting. The trio was made up of Rachel Steinbeck, Joanne Hardee and Kitty Collins.

Newly elected city councilman Gene West next spoke briefly on the outline of the city government, its sources of revenue and the needs which need to be attended to first by the new government.

West pointed out just how much it cost to run the various units of the city government as well as the anticipated income yearly.

West was introduced by Paul Scott Jr.

President Bruce Sugg Jr. presided over the session.

Mrs. Wilson Is Museum's Donor

WASHINGTON (U.P.)—Mrs. Woodrow Wilson recently gave the U.S. National Museum a number of gifts presented to her when she was mistress at the White House.

Miss Margaret W. Brown, associate curator of civil history at the museum, said one of the gifts is a piece of Venetian needlepoint lace, presented to the former "first lady" by the Italian delegation to the Paris Peace Conference in 1919.

The lace was made by Venetian women in the style of the neckpiece on the famous alb kept in the treasury of St. Marc in Venice.

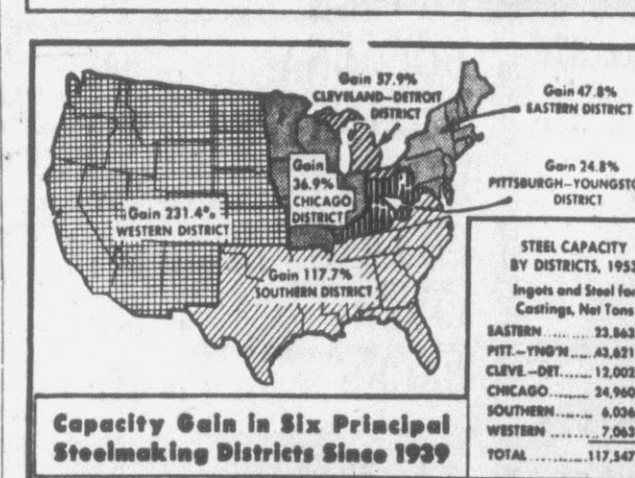

Another item in the gift collection is a lace fan presented to Mrs. Wilson by Queen Elizabeth of Belgium when she visited the United States in 1920. The fan bears a double "E" monogram for "Elizabeth" and "Edith"—Edith is Mrs. Wilson's first name. It depicts angels of peace chasing the dragons of war.

Also included in the collection is an embroidered luncheon cloth and 12 napkins made by the working women of France. These are contained in a linen-covered box embroidered with the legend "A Madame Wilson Hommage du Gouvernement la Republique Francaise."

PAR FOR THE COURSE
STARKE, Fla. (UP)—Dr. W. E. Middleton, honored on his 70th birthday for 50 years of service to the community, estimated that he had delivered a total of some 2,000 babies, a figure equal to the town's population.

In the middle of 1952, California had added 800,000 people to its population in the previous two years.

Steel Capacity Has Risen Sharply

The steel capacity of the South and West has risen sharply and large gains have been made in other districts, says Steel Facts, issued by American Iron and Steel Institute. Over the nation, 84 companies now make steel in 27 states, against 73 companies in 1939. There are 143 steelmaking plants, compared with 128 in 1939. Eleven states gained more than one million tons of steel capacity each, since 1939.

Do CRAMPS give you that monthly look?

Why let that "look" show in your eyes? Does your mirror show an older-looking, worn-out, nervous face during your "bad days"? Why let men see that you are suffering from monthly cramps? Try a little CARDUI each day as thousands of women do. Let it help build strength and resistance so you have less and less misery each month. Some go through periods without feeling any discomfort at all. Also helps relax jittery nerves—sleep better. Look, feel, act younger, more normal all month. Ask for CARDUI. (Says "read-you-egg").

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (UP)—Stocks rose fractionally early today, extending yesterday's sharp advance. Trading was moderately active.

All departments joined in the upswing. Railroad shares, yesterday's market leaders, displayed a considerable amount of strength.

Dealings also picked up somewhat. Sales in the first hour totaled 380,000 shares, compared with 220,000 in the same period yesterday.

Briggs Manufacturing was an outstanding feature. The stock jumped 2 3/4 points to 40 1/4. Yesterday, directors of the company increased the dividend to $1 a share from 75 cents and according to company officials, there is a "strong possibility" that dividend will be repeated this year.

Sunshine Biscuit was also a bright spot in the specialties. It added a point to 70. Owens-Illinois Glass tacked on a gain of 1 1/4 points to 79 1/2.

In the carriers, fractional gains were registered by Santa Fe, Erie Railroad, Atlantic Coast Line and Chesapeake & Ohio. Automotive edged upward, steel shares held steady and utilities rose a few cents.

Some Solons See Hint Of National Sales Tax

WASHINGTON (UP)—Some congressmen saw the possibility of a national sales tax today in President Eisenhower's warning that he may have to ask for new revenue sources if world tensions do not ease soon.

Speculation regarding this prospect arose as congressional leaders gained some ground in their drive to fill Mr. Eisenhower's request for a six-month extension of the excess profits tax.

In a special message to Congress spelling out his tax program, the President said Wednesday that a personal income tax "can and should" be cut 10 per cent next Jan. 1 as now scheduled.

But he warned that future tax reduction will "depend on some easing of the tension that besets the world today."

"Should this improvement fail to come about," he said, "I shall find it necessary to make recommendations for alternative sources of revenue."

While he did not elaborate, some quarters took this to mean that the administration may recommend some new form of tax — perhaps a national sales tax — to make up the $3,000,000,000 a year in revenue that will be lost through the scheduled drop in income taxes Jan. 1.

The Treasury Department which is always casting about for ways to hike revenues has considered the sales tax as a promising source. But any effort to put it into effect would certainly touch off a heated debate in Congress and elsewhere on whether it would distribute the tax burden equitably.

Although the question of the excess profits extension still was in doubt, there were indications the President now stands a better than even chance of getting it. The 30 per cent surtax on corporation profits now is scheduled to die June 30.

In his message Wednesday and tax address Tuesday night, Mr. Eisenhower asserted that the six-month extension was necessary to provide an additional $800,000,000 in revenue for the 1954 fiscal year beginning July 1.

Under pressure from Speaker Joseph W. Martin Jr. and GOP Floor Leader Charles A. Halleck Republican members of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee agreed Wednesday to start hearings June 1 on Mr. Eisenhower's request.

This action was taken despite the known opposition of a majority of the Republican members of the committee to any extension of the tax. Even as Martin and Halleck were discussing the proposition with the Republican committee members, Ways and Means Chairman Daniel A. Reed issued a statement assailing the President's proposal.

Reed, New York Republican who has served in the House longer than any other GOP member, described the excess profits tax as "oppressive." He said it "fosters monopoly, creates competitive disadvantages, encourages inefficiency, and promotes waste."

Transplanting Of Pitt Tobacco Is Almost Complete

Tobacco farmers in this immediate area have completed up to 85 percent of their transplanting, according to a report issued today by W. L. Whedbee, sales supervisor of the Greenville Tobacco Board of Trade.

"There was an abundance of strong, healthy plants this season, many of which matured somewhat early due to favorable weather conditions," Whedbee stated.

"In fact, weather conditions have been favorable for tobacco since May 1, and generally speaking, farmers in this territory have excellent stands in the field."

The sales supervisor predicted that barring insect damage, there is little evidence that much re-setting will be necessary from now on. He called the crop this year "somewhat earlier than generally."

Condition of young plants in the fields in Pitt and surrounding counties range from good to excellent at this time, Whedbee went on. With favorable conditions from now on, prospects for this year's crop in this section are "very good."

This year, as usual, the sales supervisor declared, Pitt County will produce and sell more bright leaf, fine-cured tobacco than will be produced or sold in any other county in the entire world.

Even with last year's reduced acreage, Pitt County will have in tobacco cultivation this year a total of 36,889.1 acres. Its nearest competitor in that respect is Wilson County with 24,491. Following behind Wilson are Wayne with 21,128 and Lenoir with 20,226.

Grifton Graduates Hear DuPont Company Speaker

GRIFTON—Grifton High School Trustee Chairman Cecil R. Cobb presented diplomas to 21 graduates at commencement exercises last Monday night.

Mayor-elect Sam E. Nelson introduced Charles F. Kline, a supervisor with the DuPont Company, near here, as commencement speaker.

Kline stressed the importance of self-reliance, dependability and attention to duty, and being able to face facts when confronted with problems. He said the talent of speaking wisely and being able to admit mistakes when they are made and carry out orders are valuable attributes.

J. R. Hooten gave the salutatory address and received the award accompanying this honor. John Robert Lewis delivered the valedictory address and he received the athletic award for boys—the Dawson Scholarship $50. This award is made each year to the student making the highest scholastic average in the graduating class and who plans to go to college.

Consolidation Of Negro And White Catholic Churches Drawing Protest

NEWTON GROVE, N. C. (UP)—A Catholic bishop has ordered consolidation of the Negro and white churches here, a member said today, and "everybody's protesting it."

Mrs. Kennon Bowden said that Mrs. Vestie Brown Woolard, 49, wife of Wiley M. Woolard, died in Martin General Hospital in Williamston at 3:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon following two weeks' illness.

Funeral services will be conducted at Rehoboth Pentecostal Holiness Church near Beargrass at 3:30 o'clock Friday afternoon by the Rev. George Casper, Pentecostal Holiness minister of Beargrass, assisted by the Rev. Charlie Hamilton, Free Will Baptist minister of Fountain. Burial will be in Woodlawn Cemetery in Williamston. The body will be carried to the church from the home near Williamston one hour prior to the time of services.

Mrs. Woolard, daughter of the late Gray and Sidney Osborne Brown, spent the most of her life in the Beargrass and Old Ford communities. She was a member of Rehoboth Pentecostal Holiness Church.

Surviving are her husband; four sons, Hardy Gray Woolard of New Bern, Wiley Woolard of Plymouth, and Billy and John Taylor Woolard of the home; two daughters, Mrs. Jack D. Liverman of Plymouth and Lorraine Woolard of the home; two grandchildren; three brothers, John Brown of Stokes, Ed Brown of Windsor and Zeb Brown of Robersonville; and a sister, Mrs. Lela Whitaker of Beargrass.

Father Timothy Sullivan of Holy Redeemer Church (white) read the men of the church a letter from the Most Rev. Vincent S. Waters, bishop of Raleigh, directing consolidation on May 31 with the congregation of St. Benedict Parish (Negro).

"Everybody's protesting it," she said. "They have their own church and school the same as ours and I see no reason for it."

"Of course, I think his reason must be to begin an end to segregation," she added.

Mrs. Bowden said members of the congregation had written Bishop Waters "a pleading letter telling him our side and asking him not to do it but that letter has not been recognized."

"I talked to him on the telephone and he said he would not come down here but we could go up there (to Raleigh), but he set no date and so far we've heard nothing from him."

Funeral Friday For Mrs. Wiley Woolard

Mrs. Vestie Brown Woolard, 49, wife of Wiley M. Woolard, died in Martin General Hospital in Williamston at 3:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon following two weeks' illness.

Children Hurt As Car Overtakes

Two small children received minor injuries yesterday afternoon when an automobile driven by Rosa Lee Daniels, 31-year-old Negro woman, overturned on Mack Street.

Injured were Carolyn and Johnson Poliard, who live at 1101 Myrtle Avenue.

According to police, the woman turned the car over, causing damage estimated at $300.

She was charged with leaving the scene of an accident.

Capitol Square

COMPLICATED—The bonding business in its varied ramifications into the areas of honesty and faithful performance is a complex matter. Commissioner Cheek expresses the belief that competitive bidding in this field is a very poor way to handle it.

The bond premium depends almost entirely upon the extent and value of the coverage, and the matter is primarily one of negotiation in the open rather than sealed bid proposition.

OBJECTIVE—Whatever the method of approach, the primary objective is to get the completest protection possible for the lowest dollar cost to the taxpayers. Attention focused on this subject during the past few months has contributed to attainment of this objective, whether by sealed bid or otherwise. The fact is that the people of North Carolina are more fully protected against misfeasance or mistakes of officials and employees than they have been in a good many years.

Drivers Receive Slight Injuries In Car Collision

CHICOD—Two persons received slight injuries in a two-car accident here yesterday afternoon.

Patrolman Jim Davis, investigating officer, listed the two injured as R. F. Allen, 52, of 211 Meade St., Greenville, and Frank E. Manning, 22, of Route 2, Greenville, both drivers.

Davis reported that the two cars collided head-on, causing damage estimated at $400 to each car. Both men received minor cuts and bruises.

Manning was city into County Recorder's Court to face a charge of careless and reckless driving.

Registration For School Bond Referendum Shows Slight Gain

Registration for voting in the forthcoming school bond issue referendum set for Tuesday, June 2, has picked up slightly this week, according to Registrar E. R. Conway Jr.

At 11 o'clock this morning, Conway reported, a total of 625 citizens had placed their names on the special registration book now being held open at the City Hall.

The registrar said exactly 100 people registered Monday, and 106 registered their names yesterday. He predicted that total registration will reach 1,000 by Saturday afternoon, at which time books will be closed.

"Again it should be emphasized that only those people who register during the special registration period will be allowed to vote on the bond issue," Conway stated. "If a majority of the voters balloting in the election register favoritism of the issue it will be declared approved."

He explained that to register and stay at home the day of the referendum will not constitute a vote against the proposal. The decision will be derived from the opinions of people actually voting.

As proposed, if the proposition is approved, bonds totaling $1,500,000 will be issued for construction of new school buildings, additions and alterations to present plants, and maintenance.

The sphere of voting includes all of the Greenville School District, which extends beyond the city's corporate limits.

Both registration and voting will be carried on at one place and one place only, the Greenville City Hall.

Says Overwork Killing Animals

Dennis D. Dupree, Pitt county Negro farm agent, today cautioned farmers against overworking horses and mules in fields during the hot part of the day.

He said he had reports from nine farmers that they had each had a mule to die last week as a result of being overworked. He reminded that the temperature here has ranged in the 90s for a week.

"When a plowman goes into a field at 7 o'clock in the morning and plows until 10 on hot days, when the land is hard and dry, the team should be given water, then take off the hame and collar and allow the animal to rest for 30 or 40 minutes," the Negro farm agent advised.

He suggested use of a tractor whenever possible and to keep the team out of the field on very hot days.

'Stolen' MIG-15 No New Model Assert Experts

COPENHAGEN (UP)—The Russian-built MIG-15 landed yesterday on Bornholm Island is the same type as the Soviet-made jet "delivered" to the free world by the same route 10 weeks ago, it was announced today.

Lt. Zdzislaw Jarwensky, the daring Polish pilot who brought the second MIG through the Iron Curtain told questioners that it was a "newer type" than the one flown to Bornholm in March, but Danish air experts said after preliminary investigation that it was the same model.

Reports that the relatively crude airstrip on Bornholm soon would be lengthened in anticipation of further jet arrivals from the Soviet world were denied by high sources here.

Benefit Picnic At Elm St. Park

A picnic for the benefit of St. Raphael's parochial school will be held next Sunday, May 31, at Elm Street Park in Greenville.

The festivities will take place between the hours of 12 and 2 o'clock, and will feature pony rides for the children, a fish pond and various games.

Tickets are on sale at $1.00 for adults and 50 cents for children under the age of 12. An invitation is extended to the public to attend the picnic.

Cooler Period

Yesterday the highest temperature here was 82 degrees after nine consecutive days when the mercury ranged in the 90s.

Lowest temperature here last night was 62 degrees, and at 5 a.m. today it was 69.

Yesterday a year ago, the highest temperature in this area was 89 degrees. Lowest that night, 62, and at 5 a.m. next day it was 74. Nearly five-eighths of an inch of rain fell during a thunderstorm that day, the local Weather Station reported.
