Cheering Crowds Stop Queen's Tour Of City

Celebration Goes On

LONDON (UP) — A hysterically cheering crowd, still celebrating the coronation, burst through police lines today and stopped Queen Elizabeth's open automobile as she started out to tour the Cockney district of northeast London.

Taking the thin crowd of police by surprise, the crowd surrounded the car, in which the queen's husband, the Duke of Edinburgh sat beside her, and forced it to halt.

The queen sat smiling serenely until mounted police edged in and cleared the roadway, and she waved as her car drove slowly off.

The radiant young woman who was crowned in Westminster Abbey yesterday was starting a whirl of post-coronation festivities that will last most of this summer.

Elizabeth started her day by giving coronation medals to 2,600 men and women of the British commonwealth forces who marched in her state procession yesterday or carried out their ceremonial duties.

Prince Charles, 4-year-old heir to the throne, and 2-year-old Princess Anne watched from a Buckingham Palace balcony as their mother walked among the colorful array in the gardens—Royal Canadian Mounted Police in red tunics, Fiji Islanders in white tunics, Pakistani in turbans, colonialists in white pith helmets.

Rain was falling, but the queen was smiling and her step was as light as if she had not gone through yesterday's exhausting ceremony.

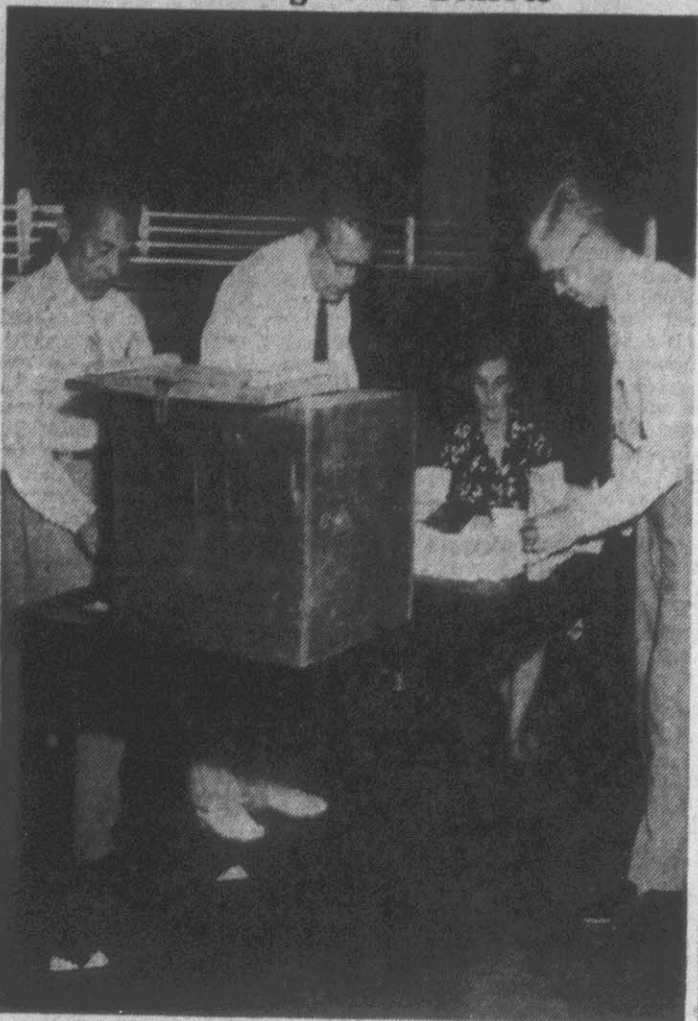

same color, the queen started out on her tour. In succeeding days, she will tour the other three corners of her sprawling capital to let as many people as possible see her.

She had gone down the Mall past cheering lines of people, to receive the homage of the waiting mayor of Westminster—central London—when the crowd stopped her car.

In northeast London, despite the weather, the queen found the drab streets decorated with festive flowers, and the cheers rang as fervently as those that greeted her yesterday.

The great day of the coronation was over. London awoke—with many a hangover—to a rainy day after its gayest night since the World War II victory celebration.

Counting The Ballots

Poll holders (left to right) Jack Foley, Preston Jarvis, Mrs. Rosa Brown and E. R. Conway are shown counting the ballots in yesterday's $1,500,000 school bond election in the Greenville district. ## Overwhelming Approval Given Expansion Program School Bonds Voted

A $1,500,000 school expansion program has been approved for the Greenville school district.

Local voters went to the polls yesterday 1,076 strong and voted 96.2 per cent in favor of the largest school bond issue ever voted for in the Greenville district. When the counting of the votes was finished shortly after 7 o'clock last night the tallies showed 1,036 voters favored the $1,500,000 bond issue for schools and only 37 voters were against the issue.

There were three spoiled ballots in the 1,076 voted. One ballot was not checked for or against the bond issue, another was checked both for and against the question, and the third was marked in favor of the issue, but was ruled defaced because the voter had scribbled a note across the top of the ballot.

The number of ballots cast showed slightly more than 86 per cent of the voters who registered for the special election voted on the bond issue yesterday. A total of 1,247 voters were registered for the referendum.

Never Voted Against Schools. Approval of the million and one-half dollar bond issue upheld the tradition of the Greenville school district never voting down a proposal for better schools. No issue concerning the school program has ever been voted down by the people of the district since its establishment in 1903 when $10,000 in bonds was voted to construct the original building.

From 1903 to 1939 when the last bond issue for $250,000 was approved, the district had voted favorably for five bond issues totaling $560,000. Yesterday's voting gave approval to the issuing of more than twice as much in school bonds as had been issued in the past half century.

J. H. Rose, superintendent of Greenville schools, said today, "The administrative officials of the Greenville city schools desire to thank the voters of the Greenville school district for their display of confidence; and they desire to assure the voters this money will be as well spent as the money was spent which was available in the past."

Rose pointed out that school officials want to call to the attention of school patrons the fact that it will be 1954 before new buildings can be completed, and "therefore, during the coming school year, request the help and cooperation of all patrons in handling the large number of children who will attend school next year."

The school officials also expressed their appreciation for the help of those people who worked for the bond issue.

"Convincing Proof" J. B. James, chairman of the Board of Trustees of the city schools, termed results of yesterday's election "convincing proof our people realize the value of good schools." He said the growth of Greenville is such that the expansion program for schools had become imperative. "We are very, very happy over the results of the election," James declared, "and the board will give the matter thorough study and make the money go as far as possible. The board pledges itself to use every means to get every dollar's worth in the new expansion program, looking toward the growth of Greenville and the future of its children."

James said he is delighted only 37 voters opposed the one-and-one-half million dollar bond issue, and pointed to that fact as strong evidence that the people are interested in their children and the future of the children of Greenville.

The bond issue vote yesterday was by far the most decisive school bond election ever held in the Greenville district. It compared favorably with the 1939 referendum on the $250,000 bond issue when 877 people registered for the issue and 73 against it. In the 1939 election the 179 registered voters who did not cast ballots in the referendum were also counted as voting against the issue.

Junior-Senior System In addition to assuring the expansion program for local schools, yesterday's election results likewise gives the school board the green light to embark on its separate junior high and senior high program.

The junior high-senior high system has been under study by local school officials, and was officially adopted by the school board some three years ago to be put into effect when school facilities were available. Rose said this morning the matter of issuing the bonds and retirement schedule of the bonds will be worked out in the near future through the local government commission.

Let Contracts This Summer By late this summer, he said, it is expected that contracts will be let for the addition of more classroom facilities at South Greenville Negro School, and for the construction of a new elementary school for white children in the eastern section of the city. He said these two are among the most pressing needs of the local system. The new units should be ready for use by the fall of 1954, he added.

Rose said the local faculty, school board and architect have been working on preliminary plans for the new high school and he hopes the new high school building will be ready for occupancy during the 1954-55 school year.

Council Going Slow In Selecting City Manager

23 Applications For Post

By HOWARD LINDSAY
Reflector Staff Writer

Twenty-three applicants from towns as far away as California have filed for the post of Greenville's new city manager, Mayor W. L. Wheeler said today.

He added, however, that the city is "going slow" in its selection because "we want to get the right man the first time."

Meanwhile, city managers in a number of towns in North Carolina are being contacted by council members interested in studying the various setups.

Councilmen A. C. Ruffin and Gene West were in Charlotte today to interview the city manager and other officials of this town and to inquire about their methods of operation under the city manager plan. "We want to compare similarities and differences in these towns with the set-up we have here in Greenville," Mayor Wheeler said, "and to find out their good points, their mistakes and difficulties and be able to avoid the latter, if possible."

Special attention also is being paid to the budgets of the various departments, he said.

City managers contacted in other towns include those in Wilson, Kinston, Burlington, in addition to Charlotte.

Mayor Wheeler said letters have been sent to references of the applicants already on file and that answers to these already are being received. None of the applicants are from Greenville, he stated, but several are from other North Carolina cities and from throughout the United States.

In town for an interview yesterday was W. J. Heard, city manager of Kinston, on a guest visit to explain to city officials how the Kinston operations have been working out.

The city was especially interested in the Kinston program, Mayor Wheeler explained, to hear of problems arising from the recent expansion in its operations of the DuPont chemical firm there which has resulted in a sharp population increase.

Heavy Fighting Goes On For Fortified Outpost

SEOUL, Korea (UP)—South Korean troops kicked the last remaining North Koreans off Luke the Gook's Castle today but the Reds picked-up reinforcements and returned to wage an "intense" counterattack.

South Korean troops reported the fight was "continuing" for the fortified Allied outpost on the eastern front. The size of the enemy attacking force was not known.

The South Koreans had cleared all the Communists from Luke's Castle, last outpost taken by the Reds in last week's fighting, at 6:30 a.m. (5:30 p.m. EDT Tuesday).

Other South Korean troops on the central front threw back fresh Communist attacks. Small patrol fights were reported along the entire 155-mile Korean battlefield.

Superforts from Okinawa led other Allied planes in bombing positions behind the Communist central front in the Kumhwa sector where the Reds had made two company-sized attacks on the ROKs.

Fifth Air Force headquarters reported that Allied warplanes had dropped at least 1,000,000 pounds of bombs on Communist targets during the past 24 hours.

From dawn yesterday until dawn today the planes flew 632 sorties, carrying out 402 during daylight hours. Light bombers and superforts followed in the darkness, with 34 of the lighter craft dropping 170,000 pounds along the front.

The ROKs wriggled through a 1,000-round artillery barrage to rout their former countrymen from the north from the last outpost the Reds had occupied in this sector during 36 hours of fighting.

Attorney Plans Visit Rosenbergs

OSSING, N. Y. (UP)—Defense counsel Emanuel Bloch goes behind the walls of Sing Sing Prison today for a conference with condemned atom spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg that may produce "some big news."

Bloch, summoned to the prison death house by a telegram from the Rosenbergs, said he would hold a press conference after his visit and he "may have some big news."

Bloch charged Tuesday night that the Rosenbergs had been subjected to "coercive pressure" from federal authorities attempting to induce them to confess and implicate others in the espionage ring of which they were a part.

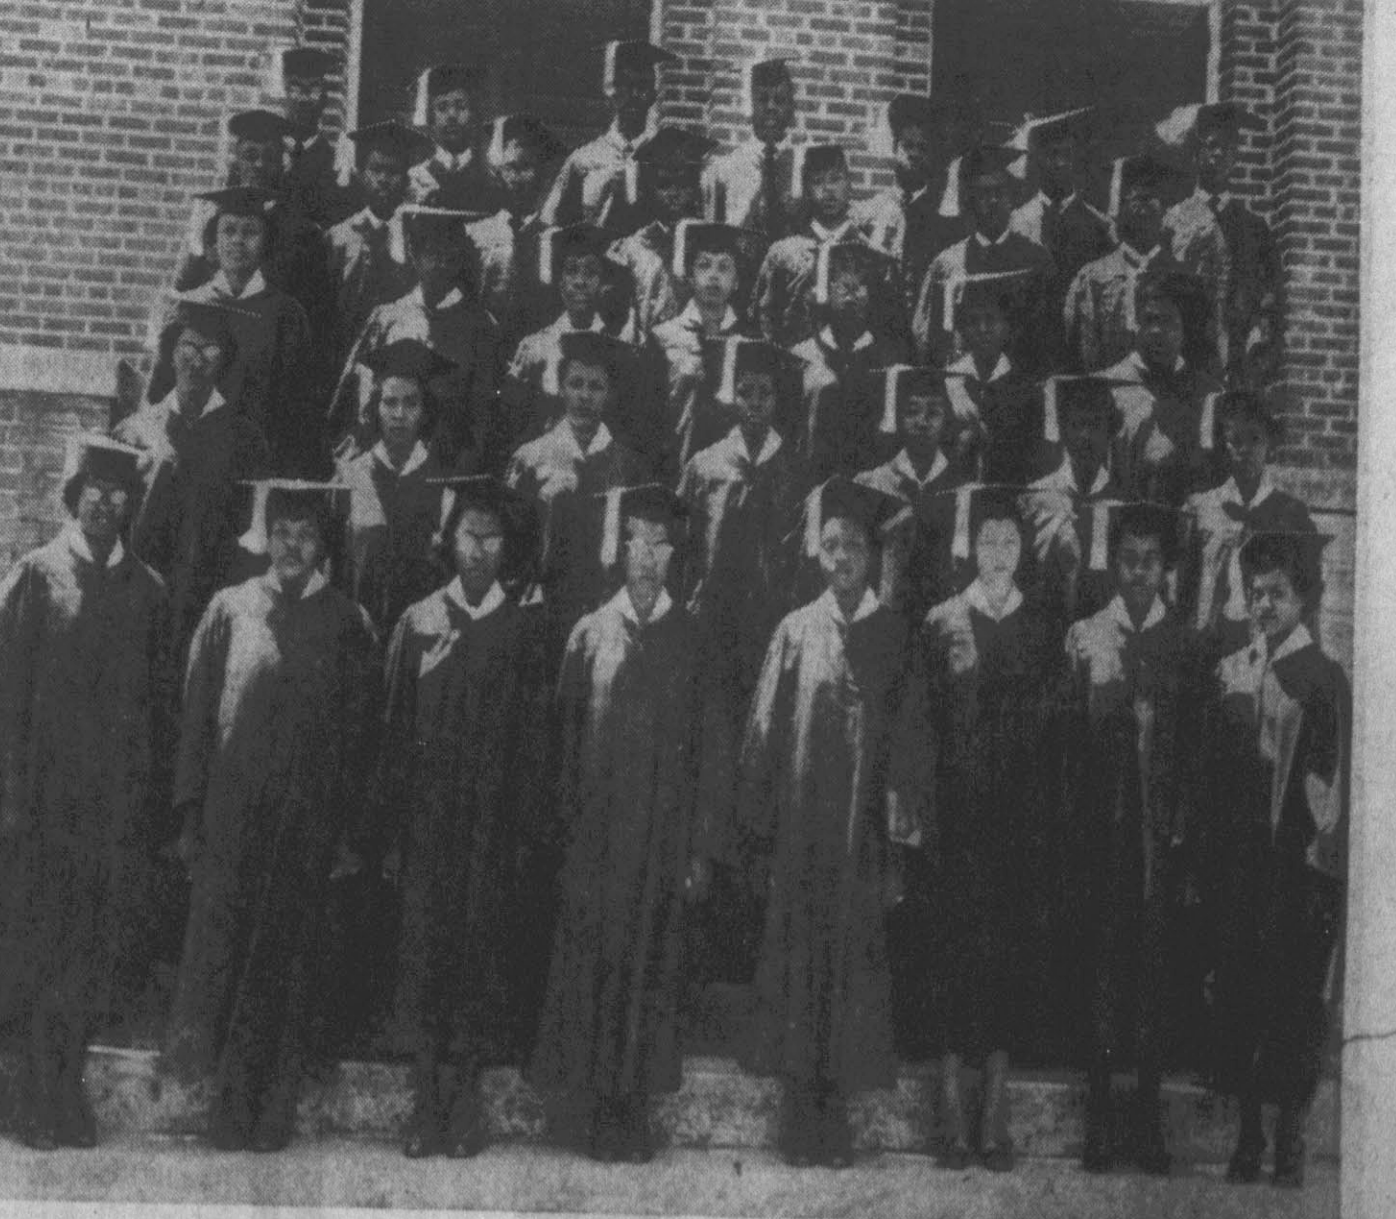

He said the Rosenbergs, scheduled to die June 18 for giving atomic secrets to Russia, sent him a telegram Tuesday after they had a 45-minute interview with James V. Bennett, federal director of prisons. They told Bloch in the telegram that Bennett came to see them on orders from Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr.

Bennett, they said in the telegram to Bloch, "told us if we want to cooperate with the government, we can do so through him and he will put us in touch with the proper officials."

A Justice Department spokesman in Washington denied that Bennett's visit had been made at Brownell's direction. The spokesman said Bennett's visit was "routine."

The three-judge U. S. Court of Appeals Tuesday unanimously denied a stay of execution for the Rosenbergs and refused to reduce their sentences. On Monday, Federal Judge Irving R. Kaufman, who presided at their espionage trial, denied similar motions.

Eppes High School Class Of '53 Had Ranks Thinned

C. M. Eppes High School graduated thirty-seven seniors last night as the 1953 school year came to a close. Scholarships were awarded to five members of the class in exercises held in the auditorium. (Reflector Photo by Roy Hardee)

Of the 37 students graduating from Eppes High School last night, approximately 13 of the graduates have indicated they plan to further their education at college or at professional schools.

Professor W. H. Davenport, principal of Greenville's Negro school, said he thought that at least 36 per cent of this year's graduates plan to enter colleges or other schools.

Professor Davenport also said that 10 or 12 members of this year's class are now serving in the armed forces. The principal stated that when the class began in high school four years ago there were about 75 members, several having dropped out of school in four years and others in the service.

This year's class of 37 is about average in the number of graduates. Professor Davenport said only one or two classes in the past several years had been larger than this.

Seniors graduating from Eppes High School last night were: Mary Matoka Bradley, Raymond 'Brewing' son, and Frankie Lee Johnson.

Edith Gray Jones, Mabel Evelyn Joyner, Katherine Kilpatrick, James Haywood Lang Jr., Clifton Lawton Little, Hattie Lavens Lynch, Eleanor Maxine Moore, Virginia Louise Moya, and Ida Mae Porter.

Lyman Nathaniel Price, Jesse Frank Randolph, Harry James Ross, Mabel Ruth Roundtree, Constance Loretta Washington, Charles James Williams, Evelyn Glenn Wood, and Joseph Richard Wynne.

15-Plane Squadron Departs For Duty In England

Jet Bombers To Fly Ocean

By CHARLES CORDDRY
Reflector Staff Writer

TAMPA, Fla. (UP)—A 15-plane squadron from the Air Force's first jet propelled strategic bomber wing dashed northeastward today on the first leg of a mass Atlantic crossing for training in England.

The big B-47 atomic bombers, world fastest of their type, are scheduled to begin alighting at their British base within 24 hours. They will be followed by 15 more of the Stratjets on each of the next two days.

The 4,580 statute mile trip was to be broken at Limestone, Maine, where crews were to rest until shortly after midnight tonight after their three-hour, 17-minute run from MacDill Air Force Base here. Average speed for the entire trip is expected to be about 500 miles an hour.

Precisely at 8 a.m. EST Col. Michael N. W. McCoy, 47-year-old commander of the 39th Wing, made up of the 45 B-47's, turned his west-wind ship into the runway, slowly gathered speed, and climbed as it was followed at 15-minute intervals, the last bomber going aloft at 10:30 a.m.

Rose added, the three-man crews of the great A-bombers had assembled for final briefing on the weather, forecast as good, and for fine-tooth-comb inspections of their planes.

The detailed pre-flight inspections were visible evidence of how Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, strategic air commander, has continuously improved the safety record of his bomber units. It is now the best of any command in the Air Force, officers here said.

For two hours crew members checked all gauges, radar, electronics gear, and other equipment. "Gone are the days in aviation, said Maj. Donald G. Prieze, a Hutchinson, Minn., pilot, when "all you do is kick the tires and take off."

One of the first planes to take off was piloted by Maj. James G. Gallagher, Melrose, Minn., pilot who commanded the B-50 bomber "Lucky Lady" on its non-stop round the world flight in March, 1949.

Gallagher told a reporter before take-off of another recent but unpublished spectacular flight in April in which he and his two crew mates flew from Anchorage Alaska to Tampa in six hours, 42 minutes.

Historic associations rode with the 39th on what McCoy called its "graduation flight" because after more than two years in the making, it was now enroute to a 90-day training period in England.

The wing was one of the first American outfits to bomb Germany in daylight in 1942 with B-17 Flying Fortresses. The 306th, commanded in World War II by now Maj. Gen. Frank A. Armstrong Jr. was one of two wings which served as raw material for the motion picture "Twelve O'Clock High."

Eventually, Armstrong said today, all 18 wings in his Air Force will have the 600-mile an hour bombers.

Seek TV Permit For Goldsboro

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Federal Communications Commission received an application today for a commercial TV station in North Carolina.

The Eastern Carolina Broadcasting Co. applied for Channel 34 at Goldsboro, N.C. Eastern Carolina operates Goldsboro radio stations WGBR and WEQR (FM). The Goldsboro Television Corp. applied earlier for the same TV channel.

of "understanding each other better and working together better." She said any community with frank understanding human relations is on the way to progress. She reviewed human history and pointed out those occasions in the life of nations and small communities where better understanding and more harmonious cooperation tended toward progress and peace and prosperity.

"Christian brotherhood, the good neighbor spirit and closer human relations and fellowship combine as a torch to lead the way toward better local, state, national and international progress and happier living," the speaker said in concluding.

Following the commencement address, the High School Mixed Chorus, under direction of Mrs. W. H. Davenport, sang Mueller's "A Mighty Fortress Is Our God."

Sup. Rose, in brief remarks to the assemblage announced that the school bond election Tuesday had been carried by an overwhelming majority. He mentioned some improvements to be made at white and Negro schools, and then paid tribute to Miss Doris Lynch, talented graduate of C. M. Eppes High School of several years ago, for her outstanding work in the field of education.

The exercises closed with singing by the audience, accompanied by the high school band. "The Star Spangled Banner."

At the conclusion of the exercises the audience was invited to inspect the school buildings and facilities.

Class officers are: Charles Williams, president; Adolph Chase, vice-president; Joyce Hopkins, secretary, and Mary Green, treasurer.

Jacqueline Davis, Marian Davis and Evora Holliday were marshals.

Thirty-Seven Graduates Of C.M. Eppes High School Presented Diplomas In Annual Commencement Rites

By CHESTER WALSH
Reflector Staff Writer

Thirty-seven graduates of C. M. Eppes High School received their diplomas last night before an overflow audience.

Commencement addresses were made in human relations by Maxine Moore and Charles Williams.

Doris Lynch, talented singer and an alumna of the school, led the singing by the audience of the old Gospel hymn, "I Want To Be A Christian" and dedicated it to City Street of Schools June H. Rose.

Board of Trustees Chairman J. B. James and Principal W. H. Davenport awarded diplomas to the graduates. Members of the school Board were on the stage.

Eppes High School Band, under direction of Miss Margaret E. Parker, played the processional, "Pomp and Circumstance," by Elgar.

Enthram Grange, a graduate, pronounced the invocation.

Salutatorian Charles Williams, in his address, used as his subject "Human Relations — A Basic Factor In Education." He said "the primary purpose of education is to help people to adjust themselves to conditions conducive to getting along together. Education should bring about a more desirable relationship among all people if we hope to follow the program of community progress."

The speaker enumerated many reasons emphasizing the importance of "understanding each other better and getting along with each other for the advancement of the community." Williams struck a popular note when he reminded that the 19,000 New York City policemen have been "ordered to attend a school on how to get along with each other."

Valdettoria Maxine Moore, in her address, stressed the importance

Plans Complete For Bible School

Between 75 and 100 children are expected for the annual Vacation Bible School at the Eighth Street Christian Church opening next Monday morning, the Rev. H. G. Haney, pastor, said today.

The program, to be held June 8 through 12, will be under direction of Miss Louise Morris, director of religious education for the church. Hours daily will be 9 a.m. to 12 noon.

Attendance this year is expected to be above the approximate average of 65 at last year's school. Leaders in the three departments were announced by Rev. Haney as follows:

Kindergarten, Mrs. Richard Briley, superintendent, and Mrs. M. E. Cavendish, assistant; primary, Miss Beulah Causey, Mrs. James B. Walters, Mrs. Bob Kittrell and Mrs. Nelson Bowden; juniors, Mrs. W. C. Goodwin, superintendent, and Mrs. Lee Moore, assistant.

The school will be concluded with a review of the work at Sunday services on June 14 at which time the children attending will be given certificates for satisfactory completion of their projects.

Nothing Went Awry In Coronation Rites

By RANDOLPH CHURCHILL

Written For The United Press
LONDON (U. P.)—What many feared did not happen. The coronation, with all its arrangements, was a great success.

When the full dress rehearsal on Friday went off without a single hitch, many of the royal officials became very nervous. They couldn't believe it could happen again, and that everything could go so well on the day.

But nothing went awry. No one fainted, no one fell. And the very few minor incidents that did take place merely added to the piquancy and human intimacy of the splendid occasion.

Some of the little incongruous touches which highlighted the significance of the ceremony:

During the homage, the duke of Edinburgh had to kiss the queen on her left cheek, and touch the crown. In so doing, he slightly unbalanced it. Immediately and instinctively, the queen raised her hand and adjusted the crown to its correct position.

The high altar of the abbey was loaded with the gorgeous gold plate and regalia placed there prior to the queen's investiture. Only a keen eye could detect among it the spectacles of the dean of Westminster. He put them there because it was the only place he could find to leave them in the interval of studying the ceremonial to brief the archbishop and the others concerned.

The prime minister of Great Britain, Sir Winston Churchill, entered the abbey in procession with all the prime ministers of the commonwealth. When he came to his seat, he did not sit down immediately. Instead, he stepped to one side to greet the American representative at the coronation, Gen. George Marshall.

On the return procession from the abbey, the processional line doubled up and Sir Winston's carriage got separated from the procession. He instructed his driver to draw up at the curb-side at the junction of Trafalgar Square and Cockspur Street where they waited for 10 minutes, smiling and waving to a cheering crowd.

After the procession had passed, the coach started out again. But when they had passed through Admiralty Arch, Sir Winston felt it was in appropriate for his carriage to continue behind the state coach. Tradition dictates that the last coach in the procession should be that of the sovereign. So he therefore instructed his coachman to leave the procession and returned direct to Downing Street.

One TV Show Accepts Scripts From Anyone

By JACK GAYER

NEW YORK (U. P.)—Most producers of television's dramatic shows shy from unsolicited play scripts from unfamiliar sources as though they were implements of germ warfare, but this doesn't hold true of those responsible for "The Web."

"We welcome scripts from any source, and what's more, we read them," said Herbert Hirschman, producer of this CBS Sunday program and director if it every other week.

Hirschman explained that the reason for this attitude is that "The Web" seeks stories that can be identified with ordinary persons rather than super-charged fiction dealing with the upper echelons of crime.

"In fact I think of it as a program of melodrama rather than a crime show," he said. "As the title implies, this is a program about people caught in the web of circumstance. The things that happen to our characters could happen to any of our viewers without them going out of their way to look for trouble, given certain circumstances that might arise at any time."

"All we ask when someone sends in a script or idea is that they sign the regular legal release involved in all scripts, no matter what the source," he said. "We will even buy the outline of an idea at turning out a script or letting us turn it over to a regular TV writer for development."

"In this connection, I'd like to add that the non-professional sending in a TV script shouldn't worry about getting down all the stage directions, camera movements, etc. Be content with having a good idea clearly presented in competent dialogue. It's our business to know how to move the actors and cameras around. That's the least of our worries. The story is the thing."

Five Departments Are Planned In Vacation Bible School Session

Five departments are planned for the vacation Bible School of the Memorial Baptist Church opening Monday at the church. It was disclosed today.

Separate classes will be held for children of nursery, beginner, primary, junior, and intermediate ages, according to the Rev. Richard E. Hardaway, pastor.

The school this year will run for two weeks from 8:30 to 11:30 each morning beginning Monday. It will be under supervision of Miss Florence McFadden, principal, with Miss Evelyn Smith assisting as pianist and Mrs. Aubrey Taylor as secretary.

Refreshments will be served at recess each day by the circles of the Women's Missionary Society and the ladies classes of the Sunday School.

Department leaders for the two weeks' Bible training program have been announced as follows: nursery, Mrs. J. G. Gibbs, superintendent; Sara Lee, and Evelyn Smith; beginner, Mrs. R. A. Morin, superintendent, Mrs. Thomas Bentley, Mrs. Dewey Elks, Mrs. D. J. Nichols, and Jean Sutton; primary, Mrs. Ercell Webb, superintendent; Betty Sue Branch, Mrs. W. E. Cain, Mrs. J. T. Haie, Mrs. J. R. Howard, Mrs. Pete Piastak, Mrs. Aubrey Taylor; junior department, Kathleen Whited, superintendent, Mrs. D. L. Moore, Evelyn Smith, Mrs. Larry Stox, Mrs. L. S. Worthington; and intermediates, Mrs. Grady Burgess, superintendent, Mrs. E. R. Caraway, Mrs. G. W. Jordan, and Mrs. W. W. Lee.

Entertains Club At Dessert Bridge

GRIFTON—On Friday night Mrs. Walter Murphy entertained at a delightful dessert bridge at her home on Queen Street. Lovely arrangements of gladioli, feverfew and petunias in shades of purple and lavender were used throughout the home. Nine tables were placed for the games in the living room and den. As guests arrived they found their places at the card tables and were served parfait pie, iced tea and salted nuts.

Guests for the evening were club members and invited players for six tables. During the progressions Mrs. Bryan Davis won club high score prize, Mrs. Edwin Reeves the visitor's high, and Mrs. David Parker the consolation. Novelty ash trays as table prizes went to Mrs. Doran McGotter, Mrs. Jake Worthington, Mrs. Nannie Smith, Mrs. Wilbur Murphy, Mrs. Paul Bradley, Mrs. G. L. Tucker, Mrs. S. E. Coffman, Mrs. Edward Hart and Mrs. C. T. Jackson.

Others playing were Mesdames Archie Rogers, Claude Hart, Clay

Ayden Fireman Quickly Subdue Paint Shop Fire

AYDEN—A flash fire swept through the body and paint shop of the S. E. Molor Company here yesterday afternoon causing damage estimated at over $3,000.

Discovered around 3:30 the fire, believed to have started from a short circuit in an exhaust fan in the paint room, had gained considerable headway by the time Ayden firemen responded to an alarm.

However the fire fighters were praised for their prompt work in quelling the blaze in a short length of time.

Mayor Corey Stokes, in estimating the damage to the building, this morning, said that he hopes to have the paint room back in operation by tomorrow night.

Stokes said that the Ayden firemen battled the fire with three two and one half inch hose lines and two "fog" lines from the Ayden rural fire truck.

"Actually the fire fighters had the blaze under control within five minutes from the time they first put water on the blaze," Stokes stated.

It was out in less than twenty minutes.

Four automobiles being repaired in the paint shop were removed by employees before the fire could damage them.

The $3,000 estimate of damage covered the loss of paints and equipment.

The cement block building suffered mostly from damage to the windows, doors and ceiling which were charred by the flash fire.

Other parts of the building suffered from smoke damage, but none seriously.

Fed by some 200 gallons of thinner in the paint shop the blaze sent up heavy clouds of black smoke visible all over this Pitt community and a large crowd of people gathered to see the fire.

Now The Dream Can Become Reality

A dream of a new senior high school and more modern school facilities for Greenville school district will become a reality. The voters of the district have assured it by approving a bond issue which will provide the funds.

Certainly voters of the district and the citizens at large are to be commended on their forthright stand behind the school system. The positive action by which they have underwritten the proposed expansion program indicates once more the determination to maintain the local district's enviable position in public school education in North Carolina.

The need for expanded school facilities has been made apparent. The people of the district, recognizing this need, have exhibited not only confidence in the local school officials, but also their desire to afford local youngsters the best educational program possible.

The $1,500,000 bond issue approved by local voters yesterday represents more than twice as much money as provided for school facilities of the district in five previous issues in the last 50 years. Obviously it is going to cost the taxpayers of the district to repay the new bond issue. Yet the investment in more and better school facilities is going to pay untold dividends to the

Vacation Time At Hard For Thousands

Summer sun and hot days once again have brought the most popular vacation time to North Carolina.

For the next couple of months throughout the state, literally hundreds of thousands of people will be packing up, leaving home for that once-a-year period of relaxed, carefree living. For some it will be a trip to the seashore, others will take to the mountains, and still others will be visiting relatives or just relaxing around home.

North Carolinians, unlike residents of many other states do not have to travel outside their home state to find the variety of vacation they most enjoy. Already the hundreds of vacation spots across the state are becoming beehives of activity. The quiet and dreariness of winter has given way to the bustle of vacationers activity.

From the mountains to the sea North Carolinians are joining out-of-state residents in enjoying the recreation offered by this ideal "Variety Vacationland". The tourist and vacation trade has become big business in the state. The advertising and publicity campaign carried on for the "Variety Vacationland" has not only attracted thousands upon thousands of residents from other states to spend their vacations in North Carolina, but it has also been a factor in inducing thousands of Tar Heels to spend their vacations in their home state.

No Tar Heel will make a mistake in his vacation plans this year if he plans to "see North Carolina first."

National Whirligig

Anti-Truman Tom-Toms Still Beat

WASHINGTON — The anti-Truman tom-toms which President Eisenhower and his Cabinet members are beating perplex both friends and foes of the man in the White House and the Missouriian he succeeded. It appears as if they aim to make Truman the same sort of political scarecrow that the Democrats made of Herbert Hoover for a political generation. Rarely has a new Administration thrown so much mud on its predecessors as Ike and his aides have hurled against the defeated Democrats. Although they have not indulged in violent and back-alley language, they have depicted the Truman regime as totally inefficient, wastefully extravagant, over-friendly to radical infiltration and extremely corrupt.

The vendetta has its bizarre aspects because of the pre-election friendship between Ike and Harry. The President, for instance, served under his predecessor when the latter was Commander-in-Chief. Truman once told Ike that he would back the General, if the military man would run for President as a Democrat. Their relations were more cordial than those which normally exist between incoming and outgoing Chief Executives.

SHORTSIGHTEDNESS OF TRUMAN ADMINISTRATION—Although he has not used the word "miss" as a description of the situation he discovered when he entered the White House, President Eisenhower has resorted to polite paraphrases of that vulgar characterization. He has blamed his inability to balance the budget or reduce taxes on the miscalculations and spendthrift habits of the Truman-Snyder combination.

Although it was generally overlooked in his recent radio address, Ike emphasized the shortsightedness of the Truman Administration with respect to such major problems as national security and Federal finances.

He pointed out that, although Truman and a Democratic Congress imposed stiff taxes to provide money for the Korean conflict and the cold war in 1950-1951 they arranged it so that the additional taxes would expire within only two and three years. In other words, during the time of a Republican successor, community. Unfortunately it will be impossible to provide these new facilities by the time they are needed. Indeed, it has been evident that the facilities were needed for the school year just ended. Statistics show new facilities will be needed even more acutely when the fall term opens in a few months. Nevertheless, it can be hoped that by the time school begins for the 1954-55 term, the new facilities will be at the disposal of the youngsters.

Unquestionably, the one-and-one-half million dollar bond issue is another milestone of progress for the local school system. It is a milestone which will be long remembered and one which will produce perennial benefits for the community.

Administration Speeds Up After Slow Beginning

After a slow start as chief executive of North Carolina, Governor William B. Umstead is rapidly gaining ground in taking into his own hands the affairs of the state.

For the most part appointments for state jobs have been completed, state programs under the new administration are well on their way to formulation following the General Assembly session; and the governor is settling down to his full time job of directing the state's far flung operations.

The serious heart attack which Umstead suffered a few days after taking the oath of office was indeed a blow to the state as it was to the governor himself. Fortunately Umstead previously had surrounded himself with an able group of assistants — official and unofficial — into whose hands fell the chore of keeping the governor's program and the state's program moving ahead.

There is little question that the session of the General Assembly suffered from lack of leadership because of the necessity of second hand contact with the governor's mansion if any contact at all was to be had. It is true that the whole program of the new state administration was delayed in getting into full swing by the governors illness.

Now, even though somewhat later than most people hoped, it appears that the new administration is getting on its feet and beginning to forge ahead. There remain many kinks to be worked out, and many bridges of decision to be crossed. Yet, from the tardy beginning, a well oiled administration is beginning to emerge.

Without unforeseen setbacks, the Umstead administration should gain momentum as it moves along, and mark another era of progress for North Carolina as it hits its stride in the next 42 months of its four year term at the helm of the Tar Heel ship of state.

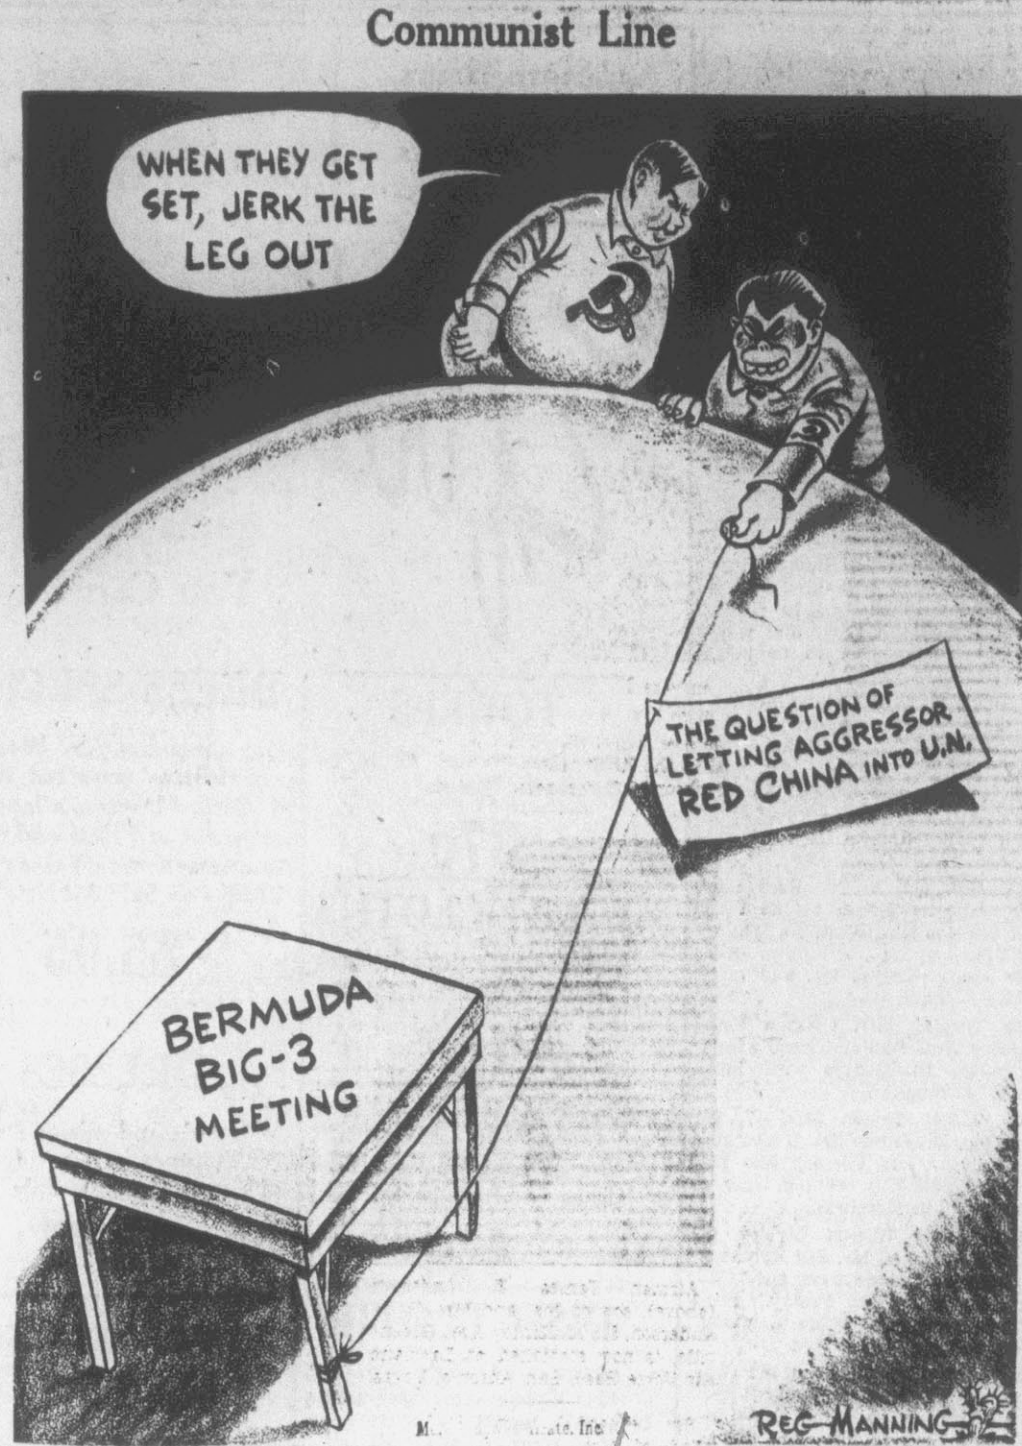

what happens to be named Eisenhower. MILITARY FINANCES JUGGLED—In Eisenhower's opinion—and this may be partially responsible for the prevailing bitterness—Truman and Secretary Dean Acheson did not realize the serious and global implications of the Moscow-inspired invasion of South Korea, figuring that it could be thwarted overnight. Or they jugged the military financing so that (1) it would not hurt the Democrats in the 1952 election; (2) it would become a burden to the Republicans, if victorious last November.

Ike's top aides have echoed him like a well-trained chorus. Secretary Humphrey has defended his tight-money policy on the ground that he must terminate Truman's politico-economic inflationary program. Secretary Douglas McKay has assailed Truman-Chapman power policies as extravagant, fantastic and monopolistic.

Roger M. Kyes, Deputy-Secretary of Defense, has characterized Pentagon planning for the Korean War and national defense generally as inadequate, shortsighted and bungling.

Eisenhower underwrote that indictment by firing the Truman men on the Joint Chiefs of Staff, including old friends, and the mid Secretary of Agriculture, Ezra T. Benson, has uttered sharp condemnations of the Truman farm program.

DEVASTATING POST-TRUMAN ATTACK—Perhaps the most devastating post-Truman attack is the Congressional attempt to brand John W. Snyder, former Secretary of the Treasury, as a tax fixer for influential friends and Democratic contributors. As an artillery battery mate with Truman in World War I, Snyder was the former President's second closest crony. Another campaign comrade, Major General Harry Vaughan, came first. To smear Snyder is to smear Truman. Unfortunately for the departed politicians, Snyder is particularly vulnerable. Like his boss in the White House, he believed in doing favors for friends who, so he thought, would reciprocate at election time. Whatever the reason may be—whether an alibi for failure to "clean up the Truman mess" or deep-freighting issues for the 1954 Congressional campaign—Ike seems determined to discredit Truman.

Somebody Told Me . . .

Sidelights Of A Recent Wedding

Take a tip from me and never try to take a two and a half year old to a wedding. Wife Rachel and I tried to take our daughter Nancy to the wedding Monday of W. R.'s brother, Bobby Fleming.

Bobby's just as married as anybody else, but it isn't Nancy's fault. It seemed to be her wish that instead of getting married everyone around should answer her questions. Consequently, we had to take her out.

Monday night at supper time Nancy seemed to have taken in more of the wedding than we realized. "Mama, she asked, 'do you want a veil like Nancy Joe?'" We didn't realize that she knew what a veil was.

"No," W. R. answered, "but I had one when I got married." Nancy thought that one over and asked, "But who kept me?" "You weren't born yet."

"But who kept Don?" (our seven-months-old son). "He wasn't born yet either."

Luckily, in this case Nancy accepted what she couldn't understand. With that same attitude we could have handled her at the wedding.

Church weddings are great events for casual observers, but the participants and their families get too excited to notice the surroundings. A touching ceremony starts the families crying and through their tears they fail to see what the well-decorated church even looks like.

It seems to me that it would be a good idea to have a registration book at weddings, just like they do at funerals. In all the excitement I never even realized exactly who attended our wedding. Even in the receiving line at the reception I was in somewhat of a daze. With the registration book you could always refer back to the list.

Whenever weddings are mentioned I always think of the story my father-in-law, John G. Fleming, tells. His father was a magistrate during his day and married most of the people around Woodleaf, N. C.

When a groom would ask how much he owed, Mr. Fleming would say jokingly, "Just pay me whatever you think she might be worth to you."

This usually brought him at least a dollar, even back in those days. But one day a groom opened up his snap-type pocketbook and pulled out a dime. Mr. Fleming kept that dime as long as he lived. And I thank you.

What Other Editors Are Thinking

THE ROSENBERGS SPURNED REDEMPTION (Charlotte Observer)

One word was enough. Chief Justice Vinson used that word when he simply wrote, "Denied," across the third petition of Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, convicted spies and cold-blooded traitors, for a review of their trial.

These two should have been executed long ago and would have been except for the hope that, knowing that no clemency was to be expected, they would listen to their consciences and tell what they knew about the conspiracy of treason of which they were a part.

That conspiracy has not been crushed by any means. It is far more widespread and dangerous than most Americans realize. Our security officers, in fact, have so far been able to bring only the small fry to justice. The directing brains behind it are still free to carry on their work of betrayal. Julius and Ethel Rosenberg were only small cogs in that machine. They were expendable. They are giving their lives to protect the arch conspirators, who will soon find other Rosenbergs to do the dangerous jobs and perhaps get caught.

The big shots do not get caught.

They cover their trail with Rosenbergs. Until some of these catspaws realize how stupid they have been by sacrificing themselves for the big shots may stay free, we shall not be able to strike this conspiracy a lethal blow.

The Rosenbergs bear their chance of last-minute redemption. They did not take it. They must die the shameful death of traitors.

We are happy that the execution is to be carried out without further delay. The American people are weary of endless legal trickery to save the lives of this pair, who should have paid their penalty long ago.

Around Capitol Square

Tar Heels Reminded Of Grandeur At Their Doorstep

By LYNN NISBET

REMINDER — Millions of people in other parts of the country will be reminded of the attractions of western North Carolina through stories and reports made by 40-odd travel writers and promoters, who spent last week looking over the Blue Ridge Parkway and its environs. Many North Carolinians need to be reminded, too, that they have within less than one day's drive the greatest tourist asset in eastern America — if not in the entire United States.

TOUR — Last week's tour was jointly sponsored by the Blue Ridge Parkway Association, a promotional organization made up of civic groups in communities along the route from Waynesboro, Va., to Waynesville, N. C., and the Carolina Motor Clubs, an affiliate of the American Automobile Association. The idea had the full support of the National Park Service and the State Department. It began Monday morning at Roanoke and ended late Friday at Cherokee—with a dozen more members of the party going on Fontana for the weekend.

PARTY — The party was composed of newspaper and magazine travel editors from Des Moines, Iowa, to Miami, Florida, and points between, and automobile club officials from Michigan to New England to Florida. Travel was by sight-seeing buses and a few supplemental cars.

BEST — This was the third in a row of such tours which are accepted as important annual events. Old hands at organizing and directing group travel, the staff of Carolina Motor Clubs was credited with setting a new record for smooth operations. Big chief of the directing crew was Ed Pikard, vice president of the Motor Clubs, with able assistance from Sam Weems, superintendent of the Parkway and Charles and members of their staffs, and members of their staffs. They showed no partiality to North Carolina, but Nature had not been so impartial. It is a fact that North Carolina's portion of the Parkway is more scenic than that of the border, and last week the weather man contributed to perfection.

ASSET — Business people in cities and towns adjacent to the Parkway are showing more appreciation of its value as an economic asset. Parkway officials also have adopted a more cooperative attitude as experience has shown that larger numbers of people use and enjoy the Parkway as facilities for eating and sleeping are improved by private operators just off the right of way. All around Boone and Blowing Rock, Little Switzerland and Asheville, modern motels provide the needed accommodations for overnight stops. Parkway rangers and information booths direct travelers to these places.

TOLLS — Use of the Parkway has always been free and there has been vigorous protest every time a matter of tolls or admission fees was mentioned. It is one of the few few government-operated facilities without some revenue producing features. There is lessening objection to nominal use fees. The current economy wave in the Congress has delayed pending appropriation bills all construction money and has cut deeply into maintenance funds. It looks like the project may be reduced to caretaker status unless additional maintenance money can be obtained. Many people agree it would be sound economy to impose a reasonable fee in order to protect the investment of $30-odd million which the people of North Carolina and the entire nation have in the project.

REASONABLE — It is argued that after all the people have provided the tax money, supplied by handsome private donations, for original construction, it is only reasonable to expect those who use the facilities to keep them up. The State of North Carolina is facing somewhat the same problem in the park system self-supporting.

OBJECTIONS — There remains two major objections. One is the continuing protest of government competition with private industry. Another is the admitted difficulty in collecting tolls or fees when there are so many access roads and entrances. There would seem to be no problems here that cannot be solved by application of good business and common sense.

PLEASURE — The Blue Ridge Parkway is the longest road in the world built solely for pleasure traffic. It was never intended for business use, and so far as your reporter can learn the only section of completed construction on which commercial vehicles are permitted is the 11 miles between the intersection of NC-80 at Buck Creek Gap and NC-128, the state road to Mount Mitchell. That concession was made because there is no other way for trucks to get to Mount Mitchell for servicing the State park and the few private business places on the park's edge, and there are rigid limitations upon their use. Occasionally there have been suggestions that the park services, both federal and state, should provide more adequate facilities in competition with adjacent private operations. The general policy has been to stay away from that sort of thing.

Peak Of The Boom?

By ELMER ROESSNER
"Is this the peak of the boom?" many businessmen are asking. There are some indications that it is. But they are far from conclusive.

Prentice-Hall's weekly newsletter, "Information," says the top has been reached and after the second-quarter production will gradually descend so that, by fall, it will be roughly 4 per cent below present levels.

Walter Reuther, CIO president, recently urged companies to level off production to "avoid inevitable layoffs" during the rest of the year.

The National Association of Purchasing Agents predicts, as was noted here yesterday, that June possibly will be the banner month of the year because of the pre-vacation push. That seems to indicate they believe the traditional fall pick-up won't set any new records.

Among reasons for expecting no further rise of the boom are the governmental economies being put into effect and the fact that a large part of the rearmament plant-construction program is completed.

Nothing here, it should be noted, portends a recession. The items cited suggest, instead, a leveling off. Even then there are reasons for doubting that a leveling off is at hand.

While it is true most defense plants have been completed, we are passing into the next stage of rearming: that of turning out weapons on a mass basis. Even if the defense budget is trimmed, contracts already signed, plus new requirements, will keep defense buying around $6 billion a month for a long time.

Mr. Reuther's views have been sharply contradicted by H. H. Curcio, president of General Motors. "I am quite optimistic as I look ahead," he said, adding he expected General Motors to continue employment at present levels for the rest of the year.

And it may be comforting to recall that ever since the end of the war every upsurge in the economy has been greeted by prophets who were sure the peak had been reached.

DETERGENT SALES UP, SOAP SALES DECLINE

Just as synthetics have made gains on wool, so have detergents made gains on soap. Reports from 84 companies analyzed by the American Soap and Glycerine Producers show that during the first quarter of this year sales of synthetic detergents were 34.2 per cent higher than in the first quarter of 1952, while sales of soap were down 14 per cent. Detergents accounted for 53 per cent of all sales.

A Coronation Fit For A Queen

By HAL BOYLE
LONDON (AP)—Britain crowned the fairest queen in all her troubled history yesterday and looked to her to lead one-fourth of the world to happier times.

The coronation of Elizabeth II was the mightiest pageant of our generation, and it was many other things:

It was the Middle Ages marching confidently through the 20th Century, an old way of life adding its own in a new way of life, the weaving of ancient threads into a fresh pattern.

It was a cry to God for guidance. . . . A Cinderella tale. The moment of a lifetime for a 27-year-old mother dedicating all her years to reign but not to rule in the service of 610 million people. A symbol of wealth taking the vow of abstinence to the welfare of needy millions.

It was a young queen humbly accepting her duty. . . . And most of her subjects taking the day off to celebrate proudly in a land and time where few have had much to celebrate of late.

It was a fanfare of trumpets and waving banners in the wind. A sea of flags. A crash of many martial bands. The burst of guns signaling to a doubtful world that its most far-flung empire is here to stay and intends to add 700 centuries to its story. . . . The tread of troops that have fought in distant climes and sailors who have looked up at lonely stars from faroff seas and thought of home. Tommy Atkins and Jack Tar, always ready "to have another go at it."

It was an ocean of faces that were an inventory of the human race—black and white and yellow, old and young, turbaned and hatless, rich and poor, weep and laughing and breaking their throats with cheers at a sight most, and cheap, all might never see again. . . . And deep pride and a yearning hope that this event might be the bright portal to peace and better days for all.

And over this vast turbulence of color and sound and emotion, this moving march of Britain's past into Britain's future, it was as though a rainbow had exploded.

ed, showering this heart of empire grey London's still war-battered streets where Shakespeare dreamed — with millions upon millions of the flowers that England loves, and each child's hand in the massed throngs could pet a petal.

It was probably the greatest single family party the commonwealth and empire has had in living memory a tremendous revival of spirit and reunion of patriotism that gave all the same reason for dressing up — the queen, the classes, the masses. It was an hour of solidarity for all. Many a peer in ermine rode to the coronation by subway, shivering to shoulder with dock workers wearing their worn best. And even brevity draft horses "d their share of glory, pulling the gilded coaches which sat the high lords of the realm.

It was a day of British justice and fair play. Some 30,000 British kids perched on the Victoria Embankment to see the queen were allotted more space per person than the cramped piers with lofty tithes packed in Westminster Abbey. And even the earl marshal, the Duke of Norfolk, who arranged the whole coronation, had to walk or hire a hack home after the crowning. Tradition gave him no place in the procession afterward, but the blind and the maimed had places of honor, both in the Abbey and along the route.

It was a day of fainting and sore-footed enjoyment for many who waited for hours and walked for miles just to wave the Union Jack and get a momentary glimpse of their queen in her gown. Some "Erberts were canny enough to tent out in Hyde Park the night before with the old lady and the kids.

It was a day when workmen quaffed their beer on rooftops, and Mayfair Pops sipped champagne as they watched the great procession from exclusive clubrooms. One great chemical firm gave its 106,000 employees a pound $2.80 each to drink the queen's health.

Yes, it was many things — this coronation.

Imagination In Naming Streets

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Almost every town in America has a street called Main, another named Broadway and perhaps an Elm street.

Dallas has. But founding fathers, after conforming to tradition, also employed a little imagination in picking other street names.

Take, for instance, Lovers Lane — as many spooners used to do before the area was built up — or Turtle Creek Road, or Mockingbird Lane, not to mention Birdsong

Road and Fishtrap Road. And there are these intersections: Lennon-Grove, Rural-Mall, Alaska Winters and Crooked-Strait, with Keyhole Lane nearby. There's even a road called None-such.

Networks Ready For Color TV

NEW YORK (AP) — When color television gets under way, it won't be necessary that each station of a network add special equipment to broadcast color as long as the signal is coming to it via network. It merely has to relay the signal as originated by the network key station.

This will not hold where a station plans to transmit its own original color program. In that case it will have to install both color cameras and color generating apparatus. In case of the receiver, special color adapters or receivers will be necessary.

Covered Bridges Are Disappearing

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Covered bridges once dotted the Nutmeg landscape but today there are only three remaining. One is the Cornstock Bridge of the boundary line of the townships of East Hampton and Colchester, Conn. The other two are Bull's Bridge in Kent, and the West Cornwall Bridge in Cornwall, Conn. The last is preserved on its original site as a museum.

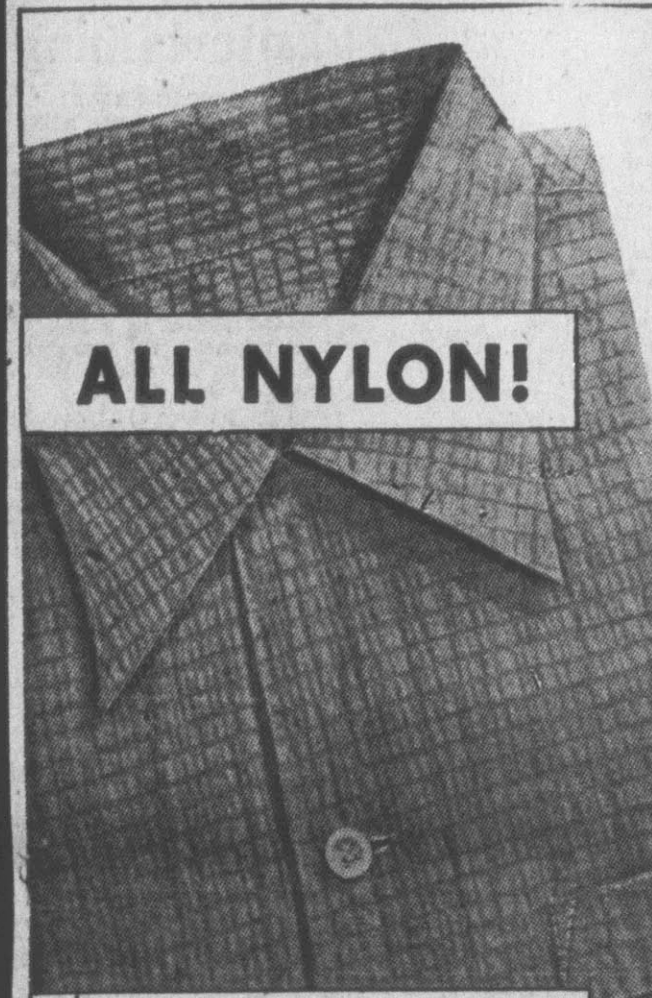

Memorial Day was first made a legal holiday in New York in 1872 and is now observed in all but a few of the southern states of the United States.

Kiwanians' Cox Hurls Win Over Moose; Yanks Victors

A five-run outburst in the bottom of the first inning proved margin enough for the Kiwanians to coast to an 8-4 victory over the hapless Moose in yesterday's Little League contest.

Five hits, including doubles by Billy Boyd Cox and Jimmy Rogers, a hit batsman and a base on balls gave the Kiwanians enough runs in the first stanza to provide the victory.

Cox pitched the three-hit win, striking out eleven Moose batters, while issuing eight free passes to first. Losing pitcher Ronald Riggs got two of the three hits off the offerings of Cox.

Leading batter for the winners was the pitcher himself, who had two doubles for three times at bat. Rightfielder Burt Aycock had one for one for a perfect day at bat.

In this afternoon's doubleheader the Elks play the Jaycees and the Lions engage the Kiwanians.

The Yanks broke a seven-game losing skid in the Minor League yesterday as they walloped the White Sox 15-9. The win was the Yanks' first.

Wrestling Card Today Features Tag Team Match

Feature attraction of the wrestling card tonight at the New Enterprise Warehouse will be an Australian Tag Team match with the Smith brothers, Al and John, versus Joe Wolfe and Ace Freeman. The first bout begins at 8:30 o'clock.

The Tag Team match, which is the main event, will be the best two out of three falls in one hour. The Smith brothers have been called the "most brutal villains of the wrestling game."

In a preliminary match, a one-fall, 30 minute bout, Charlie Laye will grapple with Al Stecker. This match will be the opener for the evening's program.

As a special attraction sponsors Hugh T. Hardee and Woodrow Worthington present Bill Zimm and Irish Jack Moore in a one-fall, 45 minute fight.

Zimm, who tackles husky Jack Moore in the semi-final event, is a jack-of-all-trades. He has been a beachcomber, Hollywood actor, circus performer, artist, sculptor, soldier and boxer. His long hair and mustache give him a unique appearance.

One of the better wrestlers in the game today, Moore recently lost to Lou Theas, national champ, in a close title match.

A special section of the stands will be reserved for colored patrons.

Red Men Take 12-9 Pony League Contest

Holding off a last inning rally by the Ford-O-Matics, the Red Men were able to capture their first win in Pony League play last evening by a score of 12-9.

John Tripp and Bobby Pridmore shared the pitching duties for the winners, holding the losers to eight hits. Tripp gained credit for the win, while Charles Rumley took the defeat.

Home runs were hit by the Red Men's Jim McGee and Wade Jordan. A circuit clout was also delivered by the Ford-O-Matics' Joe Wingate.

Tonight at Third Street Park at 7:30 Carolina Dairies meets Wagner-Waldrop, and Southern Bread plays Home Builders in the second contest.

Braves End Dodger Win Streak; Roberts Blanks Cardinals 5-0

Joe Lewis Hurls Blue Devil Win In NCAA Game

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (UP)—Rollins College and Mississippi State meet today in the district three NCAA baseball playoffs with the loser to be eliminated.

Both teams dropped opening games in the double elimination tournament last night while Duke and the University of Georgia, which took tonight, scored impressive victories.

Georgia smashed 11 hits, including a pair of triples by catcher Kermit Hall, in downing Rollins, 8 to 4, while Jack Roberts limited the Florida baseballers to "v" hits.

Roberts gave up four runs in the first two innings but the Southeastern Conference Bulldogs pecked away at three Rollins hurlers, going ahead on a three-run outburst in the sixth.

Blue Devil pitcher Joe Lewis struck out 17 batters and held Mississippi State to six hits while Duke pounced on a 9 to 3 win. State mound ace Curtis Monroe trailed by only a single run through six innings but the Blue Devils sent five runs pouring across the plate in the seventh to sew up the decision.

defended it against anybody," he asserted. "We defended eight times in two years, we are the number one contender and, if there is any question, we will fight LaStarza for the right to meet Marciano."

But DeAngelo, despite the fact that he is a dehydrated lightweight, faced right up to his heavyweight debating opponent, and quavered outrageously:

"We have waited three years to get at Marciano again since the night he won a split decision from us. Charles has had plenty of opportunity. Let him wait."

"That," he growled, "is the end of my days as a manager."

You might call it a very brief career. But not so with Tannas and DeAngelo. Both of them are in there pitching — and almost punching — as they try to get the next crack at Marciano.

Tannas would seem to have the most logical claim.

"When Charles had the title, we

NEW YORK (UP) — Charley Grimm won't come right out and say so but Charley Dreesen did it for him — those madcap Milwaukee Braves "could go all the way."

Grimm who realizes it is a long way until the end of September is more optimistic than on his first trip to Brooklyn when he said "We'll be lucky to make the first division in this league."

Now he has revised his opinion cautiously. He thinks that "We've got the pitching and hitting to be tough all the way and we have a good chance for the first division."

But Dreesen, who was grim while Grimm was dancing a jig in the Milwaukee dressing-room, said that Tuesday night's 4-3 victory over the Braves which snapped a 10-game Brooklyn winning streak "is just a good example of how these guys can hurt you."

"We all better quit kidding and realize this is a club that has to be taken seriously," Dreesen said. "Some people say they'll fade when it gets hot."

SMALL GRAIN.—Farm workers over the county have been harvesting small grains in the past week and the task is nearly completed. Above a tenant farmer on the Jessie Moye farm on the Pactolus highway is busy cutting the grain. (Reflector Photo by Roy Hardee)

Per capita production of electricity in Sweden is about the same as that in the United States. There are about 13.8 cows for every 100 people in the United States.

Telephone Girls Win Demand For Shorts

GULFPORT, Miss. (UP)—Shape-degree temperature of their work-ly telephone operators manned the Southern Bell Telephone Co. switchboards here in shorts today and sipped cold drinks under ice-cooled breezes.

Sixty-three women operators went back to work yesterday after a 26-hour walkout after the company agreed to their demands that:

1. They be allowed to wear shorts inside the telephone exchange.
2. They be served lemonade and cold drinks during the day.
3. Racks of ice be set in front of the exchange fans.

The women who walked off their jobs Monday at first said they would not go back until the 94-finned to female personnel.

During the walkout emergency telephone service was maintained by supervisory personnel. The women said their departure was not a strike and was not connected with the Communications Workers of America (CIO) with which they are affiliated.

Burglars Armed With Slingshot

BORGER, Tex. (UP)—John Sellers, 50, a grocer, awoke to see a man armed with a slingshot crawling across the room. He hit the burglar with a pillow and chased him into the arms of a policeman.

At the same time Sellers' wife and two teen-aged daughters caught the burglar's accomplice. He was carrying stones for the slingshot.

Pedigreed Cat Is Issue Of Suit

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—Because Ping Pong, a pedigreed Siamese tomcat, went a-courting, his owners went to court.

When Ping Pong entered the home of Agnes Jenkins in search of Sox, his part-Persian lady-love Mrs. Jenkins, 46, Ping Pong up and threw him out.

The frustrated Ping Pong bit Mrs. Jenkins. Now Mrs. Jenkins, via municipal court, is putting the bite on Francis and Henrietta Hanify for $750.

POGO

TO KISS, OR KILL

By Day Keene

Chapter 13
Before he had gone three blocks the cold grew so intense that Mandell was forced to put on his top-coat.
He tried to be afraid and couldn't. He forced himself to be honest with Barney Mandell. He was running again. So he couldn't prove he hadn't killed Mr. Curtis. The police couldn't prove he had. Nor was it likely that the killer would make a second attempt on his life on a crowded business street.
What really mattered was Pat's opinion of Gale and the fact that his mother had been living on to do was get this mental business settled. If he had given Gale money for his mother, he was sane. If he only imagined he had, he was crazy.

The bar was warm and dim. Mandell used the phone booth to call Gale before he lost his nerve.
Her phone rang for a long while. When she answered her voice was small, like that of a little girl awakened from a sound sleep.
"Yes? Mrs. Mandell speaking."
"This is Barney, sweetheart," Mandell said.
He could hear her suck in her breath in the once familiar gasp. "Oh, Barney! Honey! Where are you?"
"I'm out on the South Side," Mandell told her. "But I'll grab a cab and come right down."
"Please, Barney."
Mandell took a deep breath. "And about that business in the paper, sweetheart. About that girl... I don't believe a word of it." Gale interrupted. "Please come to me, Barney. I've been waiting for you all night."
Mandell kissed the mouthpiece of the phone. "Until I can do it in person."
"Until you can do it in person," Gale breathed.
The holes in the dial were smaller than they had been. Mandell had trouble inserting a finger to call the cab. He no longer felt the cold. Everything was going to be all right. Gale would make it right. Gale still loved him. Gale had been waiting for him all night. He would be with her in ten minutes.
He saw the bright yellow of the cab three blocks away and walked out and stood on the curb. He looked up, incuriously, as the wheels of a black Ford squealed in a tight U turn and pulled in to the curb just in front of the cab he'd called. Then he saw it was a police car. Two uniformed men got out. The officer on the curb had his gun in his hand. His words accompan-

Young Grandma Is 33 Years Old

AKRON, O. (U.P.)—This city has a "youngest grandmother" candidate in 33-year-old Mrs. Emma Tennant.
Mrs. Tennant has a nine-month-old grandson, Danny Thomas Graham.
Mrs. Tennant was married at 14 to Darell Tennant, 10 years her senior. They have two married daughters, Shirley Graham, 18, mother of Danny, and Barbara Ann Carrier, 17, and a 1-year-old son, John.

It takes about four times as much heat to raise the temperature of water one degree as it does to warm the same weight of air one degree.

Few Apprentices In Trades Noted

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (U.P.)—The United States faces a critical shortage of skilled workmen unless something is done to build up apprenticeship training, according to Archie J. Mooney, head of the California Division of Apprenticeship standards.
Mooney said the First North American Conference on Apprenticeship will be held here Aug. 2 to 9. It will be attended by Canadian, Mexican and United States leaders who are concerned with apprenticeship. Management, labor, government and education will be represented.

"In the United States there are fewer than 250,000 persons receiving apprenticeship training," Mooney said. "The number should be at least 2,000,000, if we are to replace the skilled workers who are leaving the labor force, through death, retirement or for other reasons."
Mooney said more apprentices are especially needed to become tool and die makers, machinists, pattern makers, metal workers, molders. The building trades, food industries and printing also need them.

Worms, Pests, Insects Reported In Leaf Fields

The presence of hornworms, bud worms and grasshoppers have been discovered on several county farms according to a report released this morning by county tobacco specialist Sam Weeks.

Weeks, in making the announcement on the presence of the insects among the 1953 crop, stated that hornworms have been discovered ranging from the just-hatched stage to as old as three weeks.

Weeks strongly urged all farmers who had not checked their tobacco fields for insects to do so in the very near future in order to combat the insects while they are in the easily killed stage and before they can do extensive damage to the crop.

For the control of the bud worms the tobacco specialist recommended a preparation of corn meal and arsenic of lead which has proven very effective.

One pound of arsenic of lead is mixed with 75 pounds of corn meal for large dosage, or six heaping tablespoons to one peck of meal. A pinch of this mixture is placed in the bud of each plant to kill the bud worms. In addition a 5 per cent DDT, or a five per cent TDE dust, can be used to combat the insects.

For controlling horn worms, it was recommended that either a TDE dust of 10 per cent or a TDE spray be used.

In using spray, three pints of 25 per cent TDE should be used in 50 gallons of water. In 1952 it was suggested that only TDE be used which had Xylene as a carrier. However from the experiment station in Raleigh comes the report that any emulsion which has any aromatic solvent as a carrier will give good results.

Cryolite spray or dust also can be used for hornworms.

Grasshoppers have been reported on several farms over the county among the young tobacco crop.

Spraying or dusting of the weeds and grass around the tobacco fields is the only recommended means of combating the small insects.

It was pointed out that many farmers wait until the insects have grown to such size that their life span is nearly over before any controls are applied and thus the damage is done in large part and cost of partly controlling the spread very expensive.

One point which Weeks stressed was that toxaphene is not recommended for hornworm control, because it has been found by tobacco manufacturers that when cigarettes are made from tobacco treated with toxaphene, they will have an off-flavor to the smoker.

While growers are still using this means of insect control the tobacco specialist urged them to discontinue the practice in order to produce a grade of tobacco which will not prove unuseable by the tobacco factories.

Coyote Trouble Said Spreading Across New York

ITHACA, N.Y. (U.P.)—Howling wolves are "has-beens" in the state of New York, but more noise than ever is coming from coyotes, according to a Cornell University zoologist.

Dr. Howard E. Evans said coyotes are becoming fairly common in the Empire state. He said the New York coyote is much larger than his western counterpart. The eastern variety weighs up to 55 pounds, and looks a little like a German Shepherd, but has longer fur, a shorter and bushier tail and a more pointed muzzle.

The coyote's howl is the least of his disturbances. Dr. Evans branded the animal as an "important sheep-killer."

He also warned that a relative offspring of coyote and dog—has also been found in the state and more may be expected this year.

SOUR OUTLOOK

MONTPELIER, Vt. (UP) — Prospects look a little sour for Vermont maple syrup for 1953, because the winter was too warm, according to Ralph McWilliams, Franklin County agricultural agent. He said the St. Alban's area, the so-called maple syrup capital of the world, was hampered by lack of snow during February and the output will be down.

DEFICIT

JOHNSON CITY, Tenn. (UP) — Dewey and Paul Dishman brought suit in magistrate's court against Alice and Kay Carter for $37.50 damages growing out of an automobile accident. The Carter sisters cross filed for $37.50 damages. On appeal, the law court jury dismissed both suits. Final cost to the county —$66.

Southerner Puts Stars And Bars Over Red Hill

CENTRAL FRONT, Korea (UP)—A fearless Southerner planted the Confederate flag on a Communist-held hill today while his damyankee buddies fought off the Reds with rifles, machineguns and flame throwers.

Cpl. Donald (Lucky) Paccio of Crossett, Ark., unfurled the Rebel flag in the faces of the Communists during an early morning lull in the fighting.

Then he and his buddies dodged burp guns and grenades in rushing to the top of the hill in one of the most dramatic actions since the Marines planted Old Glory on Mount Suribachi during World War II.

Master Sgt. Frank J. Laskowsky of Wickenburg, Ariz., ordered the attack and Sgt. First Class Jerry L. Gröner of Pueblo, Colo., responded by pitching a grenade at a Communist machinegun nest.

From then on, all was not quiet on the central front.

The Red burp guns roared and Allied artillery hit the back side of the hill.

Crawling on their elbows and knees, the Americans were pinned down momentarily by grenades bursting around them.

Then Cpl. Frank E. Moore of Baraboo, Wis., speewed liquid flames into doorways of a Red bunker where the Chinese were hiding with their grenades.

Master Sgt. Thomas J. Verran of Detroit, tossed a grenade into another bunker, exploding a hidden ammunition dump.

While Moore was cremating Communists with his flame thrower, Paccio moved closer to the hilltop with his Confederate flag.

Before reaching the top, one of Paccio's Yankee buddies was felled by burp gun bullets. Cpl. George O'Regan, a medic from Staten Island, N.Y., ran through enemy fire to treat the injured man.

Then Sgt. Anthony Ortega of Mexico City, in a neighborly gesture from south of the border, pumped six magazines of rifle bullets into a trench as the Reds tried to escape.

Paccio reached the top and rammed the Rebel flag into the ground. Mission accomplished, the band headed back across no man's land with their wounded. Sgt. First Class Michael Morganello of Boston, threw himself across a barbed wire barrier so his buddies could hop over to safety quickly.

Motion Pictures At Bible School

Moving pictures will be used by workers in the vacation Bible school of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church this year in promoting the effectiveness of the religious training program.

Work in three departments will begin at the church next Monday morning, the Rev. Leon Russell said today.

Over 100 children between ages of 4 and 12 are expected for the classes which will be conducted Monday through Friday June 8 through 18. Highlight of the program will come with concluding exercises at 8 p.m. June 21 in the Fellowship Hall, the Rev. Mr. Russell said. Handwork and exhibits completed by the children will be recognized at that time.

Mrs. Ellis Bedworth, director of Christian education at the church, has overall supervision for the school this year. Assistants will be announced later this week, the Rev. Mr. Russell said.

Departments will include: kindergarten, for ages 4 and 5; primary, for first through third graders; and junior, for children in grades four through six.

Circle members of the Women's Society of Christian Service will serve refreshments at intermission periods scheduled daily during the two weeks' program.

His 'Stolen' Car Got Repair Job

FITCHBURG, Mass. (UP)—Lawrence R. Howlow had his "stolen" automobile back today—and in much better condition.

When Howlow reported to police that his car was missing from a hotel parking lot, they discovered a garageman had taken the car by mistake and given it a $50 repair job. Howlow will not have to pay the repair bill.

Visitors 'Came' Via House Wall

PORTLAND, Me. (UP)—When Mrs. Simon Glaser was pouring coffee for her bridge guests a spoon fell to the floor.

"That's a sure sign visitors are coming," one of her guests said.

Moments later an automobile sped across Mrs. Glaser's lawn and crashed into the house. No one was injured.

Summer School

Summer school at Greenville High School will begin tomorrow morning.

Students planning to attend this year's session of summer school are requested by Principal O. E. Dowd to report to the high school auditorium at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Courses which will be taught are English, math, and history in grades nine through 12. Teachers will be regular faculty members, Miss Deanie Boone Haskett, Ward James, and Miss Frances Smith.

Summer school is being offered, as in the past, for three reasons:

To allow retarded students make up work; to allow students to lighten the load for next year to take part in extra-curricular activities; and to allow some students to graduate early.

Church Is Organized In Special Services

The Calvary Baptist Church was organized at 2:30 p.m. on Sunday, May 24, in special services held at the Belmont-Calvary Baptist Mission on Harris St. in Roanoke Rapids. The Rev. L. Grady Burgess, Missionary of the Roanoke Baptist Association, was chosen as Moderator of the organizational meeting, and the Rev. Otis M. Brady was chosen Clerk.

The Charter of Organization bore the signatures of 37 people, with seven of them coming as candidates for baptism, and 30 coming from sister Baptist churches, with letters being received from the First Baptist Church of Roanoke Rapids and the Bethel Baptist Church, of Pleasant Hill.

The Council assisting in the organization of the new church was composed of representatives from the First Baptist Church, of Roanoke Rapids, Rosemary Baptist Church, Trinity Baptist Church, of Tarboro and the First Baptist Church, of Ellerbe. Baptist ministers present were Rev. Gordon L. Price, Howard Knight, L. Grady Burgess, and Otis B. Brady.

When the organization was completed the following officers were elected: the Rev. Otis M. Brady, Supply Pastor; Mr. L. T. Hagins, Church Clerk; Mrs. Charles W. Hale, Church Treasurer; and Mr. R. J. Goodfellow, Chairman of Deacons.

At the opening of the organization meeting the Rev. Gordon L. Price, pastor of the First Baptist Church, of Roanoke Rapids, announced that the First Church had decided at the close of its morning service to give the new Calvary Baptist Church the lots the church owns on Bowling Road as a site for the new church, and to close the Belmont Mission, which has been operated by the First Baptist Church for some time.

The new church is the second to be organized of three planned for this area during the current year. The Swelton Heights Baptist Church was organized on Sunday, April 26, with about 50 charter members. It was the outgrowth of a mission Sunday school carried on by the Rev. Ernest Howell in Rocky Mount since the first of the year. Another is planned for September 4, the result of a mission sponsored by the Brotherhood of the Rosemary Baptist Church in the Chockyoette community on the Weldon-Roanoke Rapids highway.

'Lake Soar' Of Coronation

LONDON (UP)—The Communist London Daily Worker took a sour view today of both the coronation of Queen Elizabeth II and the British conquest of Mount Everest.

The worker said one of the two men who reached the top of the world's highest mountain last Friday receives only $47 a month and a "snow allowance" of 63 cents daily.

As for the coronation, "the whole arrangements showed up Britain's class structure."

OPERATION LARK

DERBY, Conn. (UP)—Three juveniles were arrested after they set up a road blockade and halted a police cruiser. As two officers climbed from the car, the youths fired three shots. They missed. They told police they did it just as a "lark."

Drenched Brides Now Protesting

TOKYO (AP)—Modern day brides in Kyushu have asked the attorney general's office to do something to halt the old southern Japanese custom of drenching the bride as she goes to her wedding. Centuries ago somebody possibly a prophet, figured that wetting down a bride would bring her luck.

The girls today say they have to put out a lot of yen for a bridal costume, and they don't think it is lucky to have it drenched. The Human Rights Protective Bureau of the attorney general's office is searching the law books for a regulation that might protect the brides.

OUT OF COURSE
HELL, Mich. (UP)—The temperature here is generally higher than that in Paradise, Mich. Hell is in the Lower Peninsula while Paradise lies far to the north in the Upper Peninsula.

In ancient times altars often were built around burning natural gas seeps.

Cattle And Feed Studies Started

RENO, Nev. (AP)—Equipment has been installed at the University of Nevada's South Virginia farm to study the efficiency with which cattle produce meat and fat from a given amount of feed.

Nevada investigators said this is the first experiment station to undertake research studies of this kind. The studies are being conducted by Dr. M. Tran Clegg, animal physiologist.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (UP)—Prices moved upward fractionally on the stock exchange early today, extending yesterday's modest advance. Trading was slow.

Industrial shares as a group led the advance. Gains here, however, were limited mostly to the fractional zone with only few stocks showing improvements of around a point. Rails firmed and utilities dipped a few cents.

Sales in the first hour totaled only 170,000 shares, compared with 400,000 in the same period yesterday.

In the main industrial group, Bethlehem Steel rose 3/8 to 51 1/2, Republic Steel and U. S. Steel firmed, Chrysler featured with a gain of 1/4 to 74 1/2, and General Motors firmed on small gains. Atlantic Coast Line rose a point to 10 1/4 in the firm carrier group. Pennsylvania Railroad and Southern Railway rose fractionally. Caterpillar Tractor continued to meet selling on its dividend reduction. The stock slipped two points to a new low of 54 1/2.

Rotarians Risk Death To Meet

PARIS (UP)—Members of Rotary clubs behind the Iron Curtain are risking death to hold clandestine meetings of the outlawed organization, Henry J. Brunner, outgoing president of Rotary International, reported today.

He said reports have been received from members telling of the secret meetings.

"The feeling of fellowship they get through Rotary is something they don't easily give up," he said.

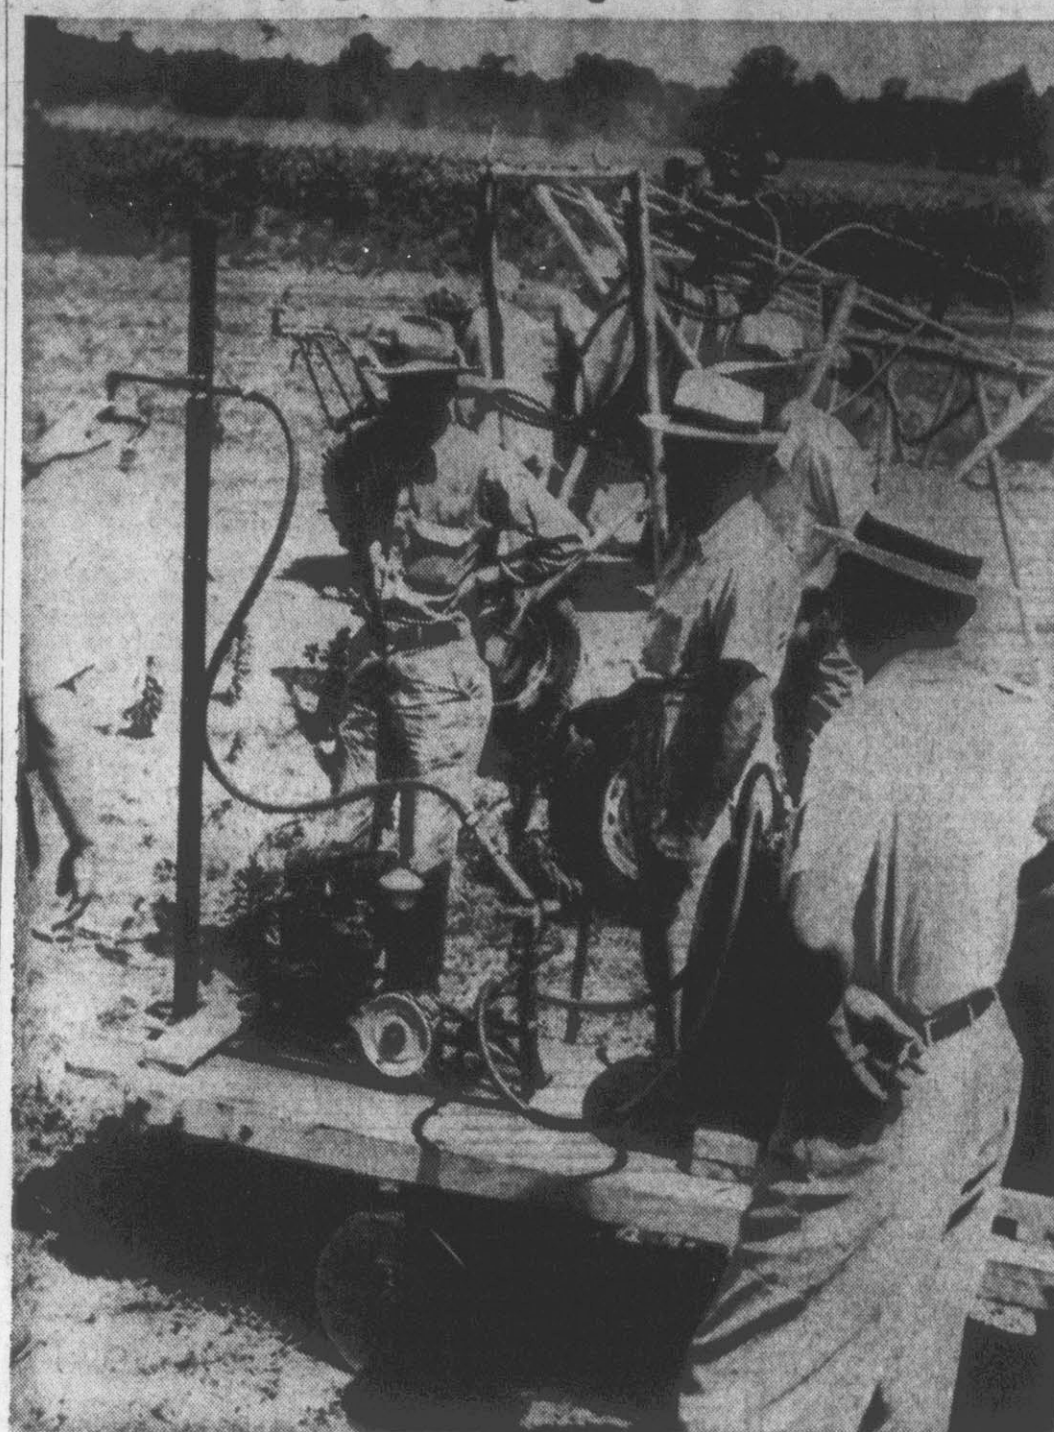

Car And Mule In Highway Mishap

WINTERVILLE—A car and mule were involved in an accident on NC-11 south of Greenville last night around 10:30.

Investigating officer William Whitehurst listed the driver of the car as being Jasper Tyson, 43, of Route 2, Winterville.

Whitehurst said that damage to the car was only slight and Tyson was not injured in the crash. There were no charges made.

Spraying, Dusting Rigs Demonstrated

Pitt County farmers yesterday were given a demonstration on various types of spraying and dusting rigs which can be placed in operation for the protection of farm crops this year. The demonstration was preceded by a talk by tobacco specialist Sam Weeks who discussed the problems which they will encounter this year in raising their 1953 crops. He also pointed out the various types of sprays and dusts which have been tested and found to offer best results in cutting down on the spread of insects and their damage. Above picture shows some of the equipment which was placed in demonstration yesterday. (Reflector Photo by Roy Hardee)

Bonner Calls For Planning In War Surplus Disposal

Washington, D. C. — Congressman Herbert C. Bonner (D), North Carolina, today called for some advance planning and new thinking in handling any projected disposals of war surplus which might result from a Korean truce or peace.

In citing his study of the disposals following World War II, Congressman Bonner indicated that he was dismayed by the lack of policy, improvisation and slipshod methods which had characterized the program. Bonner emphasized that with the military supply lines to Korea clogged with a steady flow of material, any truce or peace would have the effect of depleting that pipeline, thereby adding mountains of stocks of unused materials to that already on hand in the theater.

"What a tempting situation for fat profits by international scavenger syndicates," Bonner said.

It was against the activities of these surplus syndicates that Bonner warned in his outline of their activities following World War II. He showed that the circumstances in Korea after a peace would closely parallel the conditions in Germany, France, Italy, the Philippines and elsewhere in 1945. He added that a war-ravaged national life, a deflated currency and a prostrate industrial and commercial economy cannot be revived by any on-the-spot grants of our war surplus.

Bonner said that if we want to recognize Korea for what it is — one battle in a war against Communism — we must stress the need for realistic policy and planning for redistribution of any Korean war surplus and equipment in the event of a truce or peace. Our war reserve stocks must be kept up to strength and we should be prepared for an orderly re-deployment of American surplus equipment to the other trouble spots in the world where the free nations are embattled.

Twice Postponed Atom Blast Slated Tomorrow

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UP)—A twice-postponed atomic explosion, 11th in the current test series at the Nevada proving grounds, is expected to be detonated shortly before dawn tomorrow.

The Atomic Energy Commission canceled the shot for the second time in two days yesterday, less than an hour before the top-secret atomic device was scheduled to be exploded.

The explosion expected to be the most powerful ever set off inside the continental United States, was postponed for "at least 48 hours," meaning it was tentatively rescheduled for pre-dawn tomorrow.

The device to be dropped from a plane over Yucca Flat test area and exploded at an altitude of about 2,000 feet, was expected to be twice as powerful as atomic bombs dropped on Japan during World War II.

Other unofficial sources speculated the detonation might mark a step in the triggering of the H-bomb.

In an earlier announcement the AEC would only say the shot was a means "to confirm at once certain research and development results just obtained at Los Alamos scientific laboratory."

Urge Sidewalks Be Taken Away

EAST WILLISTON, N. Y. (UP)—A group of residents here asked the village board Tuesday night to remove sidewalks from in front of their homes.

They said the community was becoming too cluttered and removal of the sidewalks would bring back a rustic atmosphere.

Pitt-Greene Corp. Will Hold Meeting Saturday

Pitt and Greene Electric Membership Corporation will hold its 15th annual meeting at the high school in Farmville next Saturday, June 6, at 2:30. President J. C. Parker of Fountain will preside.

Financial and other reports will be made and seven directors of the corporation will be elected to serve one year.

The corporation supplies electric service to about 3,350 rural members over 350 miles of transmission lines in Pitt, Greene, Lenoir, Wilson and Wayne counties. E. E. Nethercutt and Seth Barrow are secretary and treasurer. Gilbert Whitley is manager.

William T. Crisp, executive manager of the Tarheel Electric Membership Association, will speak on "Affairs of Rural Electric Cooperatives."

Fifteen candidates have been nominated for the seven positions on the board of directors. They are: District 1—J. C. Parker and Henry Smith of Fountain.

District 2—O. L. Erwin and Henry C. Tyson of Farmville.

District 3—Horace Herring of Walstonburg and Sam V. Tugwell of Farmville.

District 4—Seth Barrow of Farmville and Thomas Forrest of Ayden.

District 5—Joe Edmundson of Snow Hill and R. H. Jones of Stanburg.

District 6—David Corbett, Z. V. Barrow and R. E. Hart.

District 7—E. E. Nethercutt and Jack Edmundson of Snow Hill.

One director will be elected for each district.

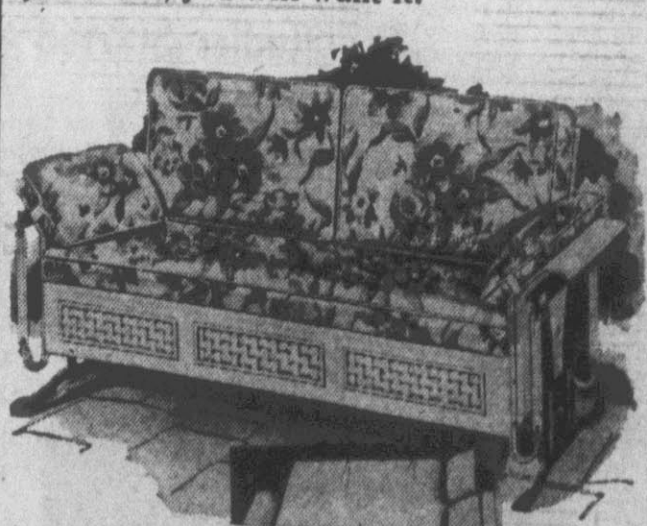

Entertainment for the meeting includes vocal and instrumental music and special attendance prizes.
