Shower Given To Honor Bride

FOUNTAIN—Mrs. Alton Moore honored Mrs. Charles VanMeter, the former Miss Marjorie Killebrew, a recent bride, with a miscellaneous shower Saturday night, May 30, at her home.

The house was beautifully decorated with white gladioli, feverfew and sweetpeas.

Each guest was asked to write a recipe. A number of famous recipes were written and placed in a recipe box and presented to the bride.

Mrs. Moore and her daughter Fay brought in a laundry basket filled with gifts and presented them to the honoree.

Mrs. VanMeter was recipient of many beautiful and useful gifts.

The guests were then invited to view other gifts which were on display. They were then invited into the dining room for refreshments.

Mrs. Lovelace Gardner, sister of the bride, presided at the punch bowl.

There were about 35 ladies present.

Life and Work Of Sister Kenny Reviewed For Club

Mrs. Leo Jenkins was hostess for the final meeting of the Artes Book Club on Thursday night, May 28, at her attractive new home on Rutledge Road.

Miss Grace Outland, president, presided and welcomed the guests, Mrs. Charles De Shaw and Mrs. Betty Pott Young.

Minutes were read by Mrs. David Hardee Jr. after which Mrs. Dallas Clark gave instructions regarding final distribution of books.

For the short subject Mrs. Howard Moyer read interesting and timely excerpts from the U. S. News and World Report Magazine on "What's Going On In The Building Field and Taxes."

The program was presented by Mrs. Stephen Bartlett Jr. who first gave a brief sketch of the life of Sister Kenny and then related some of her own personal nursing experiences.

Mrs. Bartlett reviewed briefly Sister Kenny's childhood in Australia, showing how greatly she was influenced early in life by her mother, a younger brother, and a surgeon, Dr. John McDonnell.

A desire to become a missionary to India led to nurse's training. The missionary idea went glimmering when, at the age of 22, Sister Kenny began her own treatment of infantile paralysis.

Mrs. Bartlett then described Sister Kenny's work for the next 30 years—during which time she continually struggled to receive recognition for her treatment in Australia, England and finally in the U. S.

It was in St. Paul, Minn. where expenses were defrayed by the National Foundation of Infantile Paralysis, that Sister Kenny's treatment was finally accepted in December, 1941, as the best available way to treat polio. There, in December, 1942, the Elizabeth Kenny Institute was dedicated to her.

Sister Kenny returned to her homeland with Parkinson's Disease and died in November, 1952, after seeing her life's work bearing fruit around the world.

Following this interesting review of Sister Kenny's life and work club members enjoyed hearing personal experiences of Mrs. Bartlett's nursing career at Duke University, and at hospitals in Boston, Atlanta and Miami.

During the social hour guests were invited into the dining room for punch and tasty party accompaniments. Mrs. John Reynolds assisted the hostess in serving.

Choir School Is Being Held By Local Church

Twenty-one children of the Greenville Episcopal Church have signed up for a choir school which is being conducted three times a week by Miss Venetia Cox.

The children, who are between ages of eight and 13, meet three times a week for practice. Holding their first meeting Tuesday night, they plan to sing the Choral Eucharist at morning services Sunday and to substitute for the adult choir throughout the summer.

Ring Returned After 20 Years

LOS ANGELES (UP)—Samuel L. Lythgoe lost a diamond ring 20 years ago while swimming at Cabrillo Beach near San Diego. His name was inscribed on the band.

Wednesday Dorothy Rodgers, 15, a Girl Sea Scout, returned the ring to Lythgoe. She said she found it in a clump of seaweed at the beach.

Can't Afford It

RALEIGH, N. C. (UP)—The father of North Carolina State college student Richard P. Denise of Goldsboro, N. C. made it clear in city court here yesterday that he can't afford $50 dates for him.

Denise pleaded guilty to trespass in a party raid on Meredith College and was fined $50 and costs. The father asked the judge if his son would be guilty of trespassing if he dated a girl at Meredith. The judge said he would not if he behaved himself.

"It might sound like a stupid question to you, but I can't afford $50 a date for him," the father explained.

Polio Season Near, Health Officer Cites Precautions

By MURIEL SHOTWELL
Reflector Staff Writer

With the polio season in sight— from early spring to late fall—Dr. Walter Humbert, director of the Pitt County Health Department, this morning issued a number of statements pertinent to polio in a preventive measure.

Dr. Humbert listed the facts below as certain criteria families, especially children, should do in a preventive way against polio:

1. When polio is prevalent in a community, children and young adults should not work or play to the point of exhaustion and should avoid sudden exposure in getting chilled.
2. Because polio is usually brought into a community, parents should be careful in letting their children play with new groups.
3. Clean personal habits and home sanitation should be particularly observed during the polio season. Protection should be offered against flies and garbage cans covered. "It is known from past epidemics that flies are found to carry the polio virus," said Dr. Humbert.
4. Parents should not overlook or neglect mild symptoms which are like those of "summer colds." Parents should be suspicious of fever, headaches, or stomach upsets and if these symptoms appear, the child should be kept quiet and the family doctor summoned.

5. Since pregnant women are five times more susceptible to polio, said Dr. Humbert, than any other group, they should very carefully observe good health habits and the above precautions.

Gamma Globulin

The distribution of the serum gamma globulin, used in the prevention of paralysis in polio, has recently been taken over by the Office of Defense Mobilization and is supplied by the National American Red Cross and National Foundation of Infantile Paralysis.

"Last year in several cities where there were severe polio epidemics, gamma globulin was used as a temporary protective measure," said Dr. Humbert, "and was found to have a factor of sometimes preventing paralysis in polio victims. It is not of any use in the treatment of polio but only as a preventive of the paralysis factor."

"It is scarce and the supply is limited and controlled by the Office of Defense Mobilization. However, if polio appears in Pitt County," stated the health officer, "a small amount will be made available to private physicians to protect all household contacts under 30 years of age and pregnant women in the household. The serum is not available for mass immunization."

"The serum is not a safeguard guarantee against paralysis of polio but has been found to protect a large enough group to warrant its use," said Dr. Humbert. "It cannot be purchased and will be made available to private physicians without charge by means of the program of the Red Cross and the National Foundation."

"Criteria for use by physicians in this state was set up by a special committee of the North Carolina State Medical Society at its recent convention in Pinehurst," said Dr. Humbert.

The health officer said the supply of gamma globulin for Pitt County will be maintained under proper conditions at the health department and will be made available to doctors as the need is presented.

Pitt Adds Over 9 Miles Paving

RALEIGH — The State Highway Commission completed 9,625 miles of paving in Pitt County during the month of May, Commissioner H. Maynard Hicks of Snow Hill reported today.

Sand asphalt paving, 16 feet wide, was finished from a county road southward to Grifton for 5.3 miles and from House to Bevoir Road for 4.325 miles. Both projects were financed by the secondary road bond program.

The Second Highway Division, composed of Beaufort, Carteret, Craven, Greene, Jones, Lenoir, Pamlico, and Pitt counties, brought a total of 29,965 miles of road work to completion in May, Commissioner Hicks added.

Railroad tank cars range in capacity from 4,000 to 16,000 gallons.

Conversations Of Child And Parent Important

By DAVID TAYLOR MARKE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Child-parent conversations are an important part of family life, through them, says Dr. Mary M. Thomson, we can help solve many child problems and bring about mental and emotional adjustments.

A well-known psychiatrist divides her time between private practice and the Vanderbilt Clinic, Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center in New York. Dr. Thomson has just written a book, "Talk It Out With Your Child," (McGraw-Hill, N.Y.) which treats with this whole subject. She points out:

"Children are very logical people. They do not take the love of their parents for granted unless it is shown to them in word as well as deed."

"Children are logical people. But ple, she says. They have not developed sufficient reasoning power to know that such expressions as 'I could eat you up' or 'If you do that, I won't love you' are not intended to mean exactly what they say. She continues:

"Children are logical people. But their logic is not developed like ours. A matter of cause and effect in their minds may cover many fields in their experience, from why dogs bark to where babies come from. They arrive at the weirdest conclusions from the oddest bits of information and often scare themselves into panics with their inventions."

"Children are very proud people as well. Only gradually do they grow up to the realization that they are not the precise center of the universe—and you may not rush the process. Growing up too fast is less desirable from a psychological standpoint than careless talk to keep the little egoist happy about his position relative to his world. It is as easy to say, 'You can talk to me in a few minutes' as 'I have no time now, can't you see?' Or—'Come help me feed the baby' rather than—'Go away and play while I take care of your sister.'"

There is always plenty to talk about with your child. Naturally, Dr. Thomson says, it is the adult who must lead the way because of his superior strength of logic, wealth of experience, and power of understanding. The child still has to grow into these. The parent can prepare himself to know how much he can say to his child and be understood. In addition, he can discover the art of encouraging the child to speak. Practical conversations should revolve around what all children instinctively notice, ponder over, and draw conclusions about. She adds:

"Since these conclusions usually are hidden in a welter of emotional confusion, knowledge of the child's emotions is the keystone in understanding how to converse with children."

"If a parent is to talk with a child sympathetically, he must also know what the basic topics of interest are to a child: physical possessions, birth."

"There are rewarding values for both parent and child in these shared conversations. Not only does the parent find his life more purposeful as he progressively comprehends the emotions and thinking of his child, but his child benefits immeasurably. The child finds that his parent is able to join in his thinking and opinions, and this understanding enables the youngster

Two Motor Vehicle Accidents Here Wednesday Resulted In No Injuries

Two motor vehicle accidents late yesterday afternoon and early last night were investigated by the Greenville police department.

Two trucks collided at the intersection of Tenth and Evans Streets about 5:30 yesterday afternoon resulting in damage to both vehicles estimated at $175. Police listed drivers of the trucks as William M. Wiggs, 34, and Arthur F. Wright, 33. Investigation of the accident is still incomplete. On North Greene Street about 8 o'clock last night automobiles driven by Frances Earl Mills, 20, of Greenville route three, and Willie Luther Williams, 30 of 304 Latham Street, were involved in a minor accident. The police report listed damage in the collision at $50.

No personal injuries resulted from either accident, the police reported.

Bible Words to Live by

GALATIANS 2:20—"I am crucified with Christ, nevertheless I yet not I, but Christ liveth in me and the life which I now live in the flesh I live by the faith of the Son of God who loved me and gave Himself for me."

This verse embodies the secret of living not only for Paul but for me. We never begin to live until we enter into the fellowship of the Cross with Christ. Self dies in us then the living Christ dwells in us. We live the abiding life. We abide in the living Christ and He abides in us. The living Christ needs flesh today. When we let Him have our flesh He lives in us. We live by His faith. We pass His love and give ourselves as He did. Most persons would rather see a Christian deed than to hear the Christian doctrine expounded. There is no faith until it is lived in the flesh. The world is waiting for our Christian faith to be lived.

Bible School Being Held Now At Two Churches

Daily vacation Bible schools now are being held in both the Chicod and Hollywood Presbyterian Churches with some 130 children enrolled, the Rev. Lee Willingham, pastor, said today.

The Chicod school opened with 55 enrolled the last Monday in May and will continue through Friday. In the Hollywood church, the classes opened this week and will be held Monday through Friday for two weeks. About 75 are attending the school.

Study in both groups is centering around the theme: "The Life of Jesus." In addition, the children are being offered periods of recreation and handwork projects.

Commencement for the Chicod children will be held next Friday afternoon between the hours of 3 and 5 p.m. following completion of the last day of work. At the Hollywood church, the commencement program will be between hours of 8 and 10 a.m. on June 18.

Assisting in the Chicod schools are: Miss Janice Foster, superintendent; kindergarten, Runnell Smith and Mrs. J. H. Mills; primary, Wilbur Lee Stocks and Miss Shirley Williams; juniors, Mrs. Sam Cox, Miss Margaret Evans, and Miss Lila Sue Tyson; intermediates, Miss Irene McGowan, the Rev. Mr. Willingham. Others assisting include Miss Janice Tripp, Miss Katherine Tucker, and Miss Patsy Relyea.

Candidates For Degrees

DOROTHY S. PASCHAL

WILLIAM L. JENKINS

ROBERT A. FOUNTAIN III

WILLIAM D. SMITH

These are candidates for degrees at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill from the Greenville area who will receive degrees at the 159th commencement next Monday, June 8.

The University will graduate some 1,700 students this spring.

Dr. Francis P. Gaines, president of Washington and Lee University will deliver the commencement address in Kenan Stadium next Monday night at 7 o'clock.

Dorothy S. Paschal of Greenville receives the A. B. degree; William L. Jenkins of Ayden, B. S. degree;

Robert A. Fountain III of Greenville, B. S. degree, and William D. Smith of Bethel, B. S. degree.

He Told Robber 'Don't Be Silly'

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—Hotel clerk Russell McAllister told police today that a gunman, about 23, came up to his desk and demanded, "give me your money." "Don't be silly," McAllister said he answered. "I haven't any money."

Conquerors Of Everest May Be Searching Slopes

KATMANDU, Nepal (UP)—Col John Hunt, leader of the British expedition that conquered Mt. Everest, may be searching the slopes of the 29,022-foot peak for "abominable snowmen"—huge, man-like beasts said to inhabit the high Himalayas.

Outsize semi-human foot prints have been reported in the snows that cloak the "roof of the world." Hunt himself is said to have seen such a track in 1937—and Tibetan sources say that enormous, hairy men live on the upper crags of Everest.

Lamas at Rongbuk Monastery, on the Tibetan side of the towering peak, say the "snowmen" sometimes raid outlying settlements, kidnapping women and rustling yaks, but none is known to have been seen by a lowlander.

The Tibetan monks call the mountain dwellers "Skupas," and describe them as "watchdogs for the mysterious goddess Chomolungma." The king Skupas is supposed to live on Everest's topmost peak.

Reports reaching here said Hunt, before starting the latest Everest climb, told friends that he would have a look for the snowmen if time permitted.

Nothing is known of the expedition's activities since last Friday, when E. P. Hillary, of Auckland, N. Z., and a Nepalese porter, "Tiger" Tensing, are believed to have reached the topmost peak of Everest for the first time in history.

If the Hunt party is seeking the snowmen, however, its time is running short. The expedition was warned by radio Wednesday that spring storms are closing in, which means that the climbers will have to start back to civilization soon.

Considerable secrecy has cloaked the activities of the Everest expedition from the start, partly as a result of exclusive contracts for the story of its adventures.

Even the story that Hillary and Tensing had conquered the peak was relayed here in code as a precaution against radio "piracy."

A message saying "bad snow conditions. Expedition abandoned base camp 29th awaiting fair weather. All well," was decoded here as meaning "Hillary Tensing climbed 29th. All well."

Reports that a second group, including Hunt himself, had mastered the peak since the first ascent have not been confirmed.

Temple Baptist Church In Raleigh Scene Of Fleming-Wallis Rites

Temple Baptist Church in Raleigh, N. C. was the setting for the wedding of Miss Nancy Jo Wallis, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. R. W. Wallis of Harrisburg, Ill., and Robert Henry Fleming, son of Mr. and Mrs. John G. Fleming of Rocky Mount, N. C., on Monday, June 1, at 4:00 o'clock in the afternoon. The double ring ceremony was performed by Dr. Wallis, the bride's father.

Prior to the entrance of the bride party, Miss Joan Neighbors of Benson presented a program of nuptial music. Miss Jo Bond Brock sang "With This Ring I Thee Wed." "Through the Years" was sung by Miss Shelley Millican and at the close of the ceremony Miss Brock and Miss Millican sang as a duet "O Master Let Us Walk With Thee."

The bride, given in marriage by Mr. L. F. Willett of Portsmouth, Va., wore a gown of white satin, with long light fitting bodice, the waist line extending to a point in the front. The full skirt formed a pannier ruffled chantilly lace. The pointed yoke of imported illusion was also outlined with ruffled chantilly lace and the long sleeves of satin ended with wedding peaks. Her close fitting open back capulet of chantilly lace, outlined with pearls, held in place the double finger tip veil of imported illusion. She carried a white orchid on a Bible, showered with satin ribbon streamers, knotted with baby's breath and split carnations.

Mrs. William D. Rusher of Richmond, Va. was her sister's matron of honor. She was attired in a floor length gown of spring green nylon net over taffeta. The shirred bodice, with shawl collar, was outlined with lace of matching color, coming to a point at the front waist line. The full skirt was caught in front with two panels of accordion pleats, also outlined in matching lace.

Honorary bridesmaids were Mrs. Jack Edwards Jr. of Greenville, sister of the groom, and Misses Sarah

E. Thomas of Roxboro, Ann Seagrave of Clinton and Ruth Cole of Fayetteville, college suite mates of the bride.

Mr. John G. Fleming of Rocky Mount, father of the groom, was best man and groomsmen were John D. Fleming of Rocky Mount, brother of the groom, Rev. Russell B. Fleming of Rocky Mount, uncle of the groom, Jack Edwards Jr. of Greenville, brother-in-law of the groom, and Marvin B. Crow of Lexington, the groom's college roommate.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Wallis wore a Fantasy silk organza redingote over printed voile with blue hat and accessories and a purple orchid. Mrs. Fleming, mother of the groom, wore a dress of French blue lace over grey taffeta with matching hat and accessories and a purple orchid. Mrs. D. A. Douthitt of Newton, Ill., grandmother of the bride, was attired in a Paisley voile dress with which she wore a pink hat and a corsage of white roses. The groom's grandmother, Mrs. W. A. Matthews of Elm City, wore a rose colored lace dress with matching hat and a corsage of white roses.

Mrs. Fleming was graduated from Meredith College with the Class of 1953.

Mr. Fleming was a member of the graduating class of 1953 of N. C. State College in Raleigh. He is soon to be commissioned in the U. S. Army.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlor, after which the couple left for a Southern wedding trip.

For travel the bride wore a white linen dress trimmed with braid and rhinestones and a blue duster. Her accessories were white.

THE GREENER GRASS LINTON, Ind. (UP)—Bill Cravens of Linton set out one day to look for mushrooms. He searched for miles without success. Returning home, he looked in his backyard and found 40 mushrooms.

Church Assembly To Get Report

MONTREAL, N. C. (UP)—The 93rd General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A. is expected to receive a report at its opening session tonight on a proposal to heal the North-South split which has existed since the Civil War.

The report, to be submitted by the permanent committee on joint cooperation and union, will ask that the proposed merger by submitted to Southern presbyteries for study.

It will also recommend that the committee be authorized to make any changes which the presbyteries might suggest.

Joining of the North and South branches of the church will not come up for a vote until next year. The 1953 assembly will ballot only on whether to take up the merger plan for revision and study.

At a pre-assembly meeting last night, Dr. Louis H. Evans, minister at large of the Presbyterian church, emphasized that "the Christian of today must be an evangelist."

To Present Recital

Miss Evelyn G. Smith, pianist, will be presented by Mrs. W. H. Tolson in a recital, Saturday evening, June 6, at eight o'clock at the Woman's Club.

Miss Smith's program will consist of four parts. For group one she will render Allegro Di Molto by Bach and Sonata, Opus 10, No. 1 by Beethoven. Dett's Juba and Mozart's Turkish March will compose the second group.

Selections for the third group are Hungarian Dance No. 5 by Brahms and Albeniz's Seguidilla. Concluding the program will be two Chopin numbers, Valse and Etude, Opus 10, No. 12.

Miss Smith has studied under Mrs. Tolson for the past two years. The pianist is cordially invited to attend.

Sets Up Million Dollar Trust Fund

NEW YORK (UP)—Standard Oil heir Winthrop Rockefeller has set up a $1,000,000 trust fund for his estranged Cinderella wife Bobo, who complained three months ago she was so broke she had to live off the "charity" of friends.

month and would give Mrs. Barbara Rockefeller a tax-free income of $20,000 a year.

The attorney, Thomas N. Pfeiffer, said Rockefeller hoped his wife now would agree to let him have the custody of their four and a half year old son, Winthrop Paul at "regular intervals" in the future.

At Lowell, Ind., where she lives with her parents, Mrs. Rockefeller said Wednesday night she had not been formally notified of the establishment of the trust fund. And she said she was "surprised" by Rockefeller's request for part-time custody of the child. "In the past I've done everything I could to get him to see the boy," she said. "But he always refused."

Budget Time Always Brings Headaches

While officials of the federal government in Washington are wrestling with the tremendous problem of fixing a budget for operations of the next fiscal year, a similar problem on a smaller scale is being faced by practically every local governing board across the nation.

In Pitt County the commissioners have done a little preliminary work on their budget, and are poised to tackle the problem in earnest next week. The same thing is true for the governing boards of Greenville, Farmville, Bethel, Ayden, Grifton, Winterville, Fountain, Grimesland and other municipalities in Pitt.

For all practical purposes the problem of each governing board is the same: making the revenues meet the needs for expenditures.

In most instances, the governments in Pitt County — the county and municipal governments — are in good financial condition. Their worry is not red figures in the balance column as is the case with the federal government; but more realistically is a struggle to keep from increasing taxes to meet the needs of the respective community governments.

To be sure, the demands upon local governments have increased greatly in the past several years just as they have in higher levels of government. It is costing more money to operate local governments than ever before. There are more services to be provided, and in the case of municipal government, more people to be served.

Government officials throughout Pitt County obviously are trying to hold the line against increased taxes for the next fiscal year. They realize the public sentiment which is anxious to hold taxes at their present rates, and if anything have them go down in coming years rather than continue to go upward.

This year, as in years past, local government officials are going to have to put under close scrutiny budget requests from various departments to make sure expenditures are held to a minimum without hampering the services necessary to the welfare of the unit governed.

Just what the outcome of the local governments expense-revenue forecast for next year will be remains to be seen. Nevertheless, it is to be hoped that governing officials will bear in mind the tax burden from other echelons of government which already rests upon the shoulders of taxpayers of Pitt County.

Two Bond Issue Votes In One Active Week

In most counties in North Carolina the occurrence of referendum on two separate school bond issues in one year is practically unheard of. To be sure two school bond elections in one week is an oddity.

It would be practically impossible except in perhaps half dozen North Carolina counties which are governed under the Cleveland County school act. This act divides the county into school districts, and each district issues and retires its own school bonds under the supervision of the county government.

Pitt County this week will witness one of the freak occurrences of two school bond elections being held within five days of each other.

On Tuesday the voters of Greenville school district went to the polls and voted overwhelmingly in favor of a $1,500,000 bond issue for schools.

Saturday the people of Grifton school district will go to the polls to decide whether or not to issue $110,000 in school bonds to finance a much needed school expansion program.

Although there is a difference in the amount of money involved and the number of children served by the school districts, the situations in Greenville and Grifton are certainly similar. In Grifton the increase in population — and the demands on school facilities which normally accompany population increase — has probably been more marked percentage wise than in Greenville.

The Grifton district finds, just as the Greenville district has found, that a relatively large capital outlay must be made if the school facilities are to be adequate to meet the demand.

Grifton's progressiveness has been marked in the past couple of years by challenging steps which the community has taken to cope with existing problems and anticipated problems which come with the growth of the community.

It may be assumed that the progressive spirit and the recognition of the needs for more and better facilities will prevail in Grifton in the pending school bond election as it has in other community matters.

The Reflector congratulates the Grifton district on its past progressive steps and urges the voters of the district to continue to blaze the path of progress by seeing to its school needs in the bond election Saturday.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
DON'T WAIT TILL YOU LOSE IT
There is a student graduating from one of our universities this month who interests me a great deal. He entered a number of years ago—more than four—as a freshman, just about as fresh and irresponsible as they come. It took him a whole semester to learn that he would have to study if he wanted to stay in college, and by that time it was too late. He was out. He went into the service for two years, and came out a changed man. Re-admitted to the university, he worked hard and well. But before his second year was over, his reserve unit was called up, and he was shipped off to Korea. There he was reported dead, but he was only wounded—although seriously. Finally he was sent home and released from active duty. Back to the university he came for the third time. Probably no man in his class values a college education as much as he does. His instructors know him as a serious student who carries off good grades. Twice, he knows, he has lost his chance—this time nothing can stop him. An old but true maxim says that we never value things enough until we lose them. Be wise—learn by others' experience, not your own. Make the most of your blessings while you have them.

Stassen's Agents Tilt Applecart

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON—Harold E. Stassen's political horse will be shot from under him again, if Congress accepts the advice of some of the nation's most hard-headed businessmen. After touring Western Europe at his unhappy suggestion, they have virtually convinced Congress that the Mutual Security Administration should be abolished as an unnecessary luxury.

Congressional approval might also mean the abolition of the Minnesota as an actual candidate for Secretary of State, should John Foster Dulles resign, and as a hopeful Presidential possibility for 1956 or 1960. He is only 46 years old, and in no American breath do hope and ambition spring more eternal.

CONDEMNED BY STASSEN'S OWN INVESTIGATORS—MSA, however, has been condemned by his own investigators as an obsolete and expensive appendage. In the opinion of these businessmen, the countries enjoying Stassen bounty can carry their own economic loads, if they will make as many sacrifices as American taxpayers.

The grim fact is, according to the appraisers of his organization's program, that the United States is subsidizing European welfare projects, politico-economic laziness and an unwillingness to buckle down to hard realities.

Sir Winston Churchill has done his noblest to repair the damage which the Attlee Labor Ministry did in increasing the cost of cradle-to-the-grave government. But, like President Eisenhower, Churchill finds it difficult and politically dangerous to wipe out popular reforms, no matter how costly.

Stassen's own agents see no reason why U. S. taxpayers should support even this mild brand of socialism. In their report, which Stassen has withheld, they note that Britain is financing social and economic experiments which Congress disapproved, when they were proposed over here.

FRANCE'S UNSTABLE POLITICAL SYSTEM—In France, Stassen's examiners found an even more unsatisfactory situation. As a series of 18 different ministries since World War II indicates, American funds have not produced a stable economic or political system. Nor has our money brought the military strength anticipated by NATO's founders and organizers, including Eisenhower.

American underwriting enables the French to avoid levying or collecting heavy taxes, especially from those most able to pay. With the Administration deferring domestic tax cuts in order to meet the Russian threat, in French Indo-China, Korea and elsewhere, this behavior by a key NATO nation does not set well with the men on Capitol Hill.

MRS. LUCE'S OBSERVATIONS—Clare Boutte Luce, Ambassador to Rome, spilled Stassen's beans at an inopportune moment, and she has strengthened Congressional reluctance to give MSA another helping. Her observations coincide with those of the visiting businessmen, who were headed by Clarence Francis, president of General Foods Corporation.

In an important address pointed toward the Italian elections next Sunday, she warned that American financial aid would be reduced or cut off entirely, if the people cast their ballots for Malenkov extremists on the left or Mussolini fanatics on the right.

Thus Ambassador Luce substantiated the basic complaints of American and European critics of MSA. Even conservative elements abroad charge that these funds are frequently used for "political meddling" rather than economic recovery. In the critical Italian election, as well as in other lands where we combat Russia, the lady's untimely threat will be converted into anti-American propaganda.

ROOSEVELT'S FEUD—The feud between the Hyde Park and Oyster Bay Roosevelts has long been recognized, despite Alice Roosevelt's visits to the White House during F.D.R.'s occupancy. But now it has become official.

For fear of confusion between the establishment up the Hudson and the Long Island setup, a bill has been introduced by request to change the name of the "Roosevelt Memorial Association" to the "Theodore Roosevelt Memorial Association." Incidentally, Leonard W. Hall, Republican National Chairman, heads the committee arranging for celebration of Oyster Bay's 300th birthday on June 14.

Reactions On Seeing 3-D Movie

Sunday in Raleigh I saw "The House of Wax" which is claimed to be the first full-length three-dimensional movie. But if I'm not sadly mistaken, in about 1940 I saw a movie that employed the same method. For that matter, television had been in operation for about 20 years in a crude form. In 1939 at the World's Fair, it was pretty far developed.

3-D impresses me in spurts. At first, when the introduction to the movie came on the screen, the letters did appear to be standing out on the stage, with a street scene in the background of them. It was realistic to the extent that you could see the rain falling behind the letters, or at least you received that impression.

Some people say that they do not enjoy 3-D enough to justify the discomfort in wearing the glasses that are required for viewing it. But I disagree with that opinion, because after a few minutes the glasses are forgotten, because they are so light.

What Other Editors Are Thinking

OUR RECIPROCAL TRADE (Wilson Times)
From the beginning, the protection of home markets by a tariff has been a source of contention. It was first suggested by Alexander Hamilton back before America had much in the way of industry on the theory that if protected, new industries would spring up. In the Washington administration Hamilton had his way, but it didn't give rise to the industries that he had anticipated. Not until many generations later did they come into being and their demands for protection led to the early breaches that occurred between the North and South.

Slavery had something to do with the controversy. The North, being free, found more competent labor. For slavery, the South had discovered to its dismay, was good only for cotton growing. In those days, however, most of the cotton found its way to England, an unexpected market. If, then, the cotton growers were to sell in an open market and buy in a closed one, would they not, in a sense at least, be rewarding incompetent American enterprise? That, at all events, was the way the South reasoned and it had much to do with Calhoun's stand toward the union.

Now, in many ways, we're reasonably well-contained. We manufacture many things that compete with similarly-manufactured items abroad. Are we to sacrifice some of those manufactured goods to make room for items that can be had abroad? That's what many of our American industrialists fear. It's why some are so vigorously opposed to a continuance of the reciprocal trade treaties of the Roosevelt administration. How, then, are we to be realistic? If we're to dispose of our surplus abroad, we must take something in return. That's why the Eisenhower administration is having trouble: it wants the plan extended, but who is to decide what's to come in?

Possible Federal Sales Tax Effect On N. C. Revenues

By LYNN NISBET
SALES TAX — Rep. E. Glenn of Randolph has pointed out in a letter to Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey, a copy of which was furnished to the press, one major reason why North Carolinians should oppose a Federal sales tax. Section 105-166 of the General Statutes of North Carolina, being the sales tax section of the revenue act, provides that in the event the Federal Government levies a sales tax any part of the proceeds from which is distributable back to the States, it becomes the duty of the Governor and the council of state to estimate the amount likely to come to North Carolina. Then it is mandatory upon the Governor to issue a proclamation reducing the amount collected under the state sales tax law by that approximate amount. A dozen or more prominent people around Raleigh, in and out of government service, when asked about it said they had forgotten—if they ever knew—that that proviso until Gavin's letter called attention to it.

COMPLEX — It is not hard to see what a difficult job that would impose upon the executive department in this State. If the Federal sales tax act specified that proceeds should be used for education only, then it would be necessary to ascertain how much of the money collected in this state came back by way of allocations to schools and colleges. If the Federal sales tax went into the general fund, as all present levies do, it would be necessary to determine the total Federal taxes collected from individuals and corporations here and the total amount of Federal aid money coming back for all purposes—including highways, health-welfare and agricultural projects—and then compute the percentage amount derived from the sales tax in order to ascertain how much the State levy would have to be reduced. Under some conceivable, but admittedly unlikely circumstances, it might be necessary to entirely repeal the State sales tax if the existing provision remains in the General Statutes.

FEDERAL AID — In addition to the $11 million highway aid, North Carolina got back last year from the Federal government some $2 million for agricultural projects and about $47 million in "matching funds" for health, public welfare, hospital construction, school lunch rooms, et cetera. That adds up to approximately $60 million Federal funds for use in this State, compared with the total yield of $50 million from our sales tax levy. Some possible interpretations of the sales tax proviso could result in requirement for the Governor to cut out the whole sales tax levy. What that would do to the State budget is horrible to contemplate.

CONSISTENT — In asking that the field of sales taxation be left entirely to the States, Rep. Gavin is consistent. Although a first term and of the minority party in the General Assembly, his studies on county-by-county valuations for ad valorem tax purposes and his support of bills designed to increase local government responsibility made an impression upon his colleagues. There are some people who sincerely believe that the Federal government should collect most of the taxes and render most of the public services. Another school of thought is that the State should exercise most of the governmental functions. Then there are those who believe that government should be kept close to the people, and that county-municipal agencies should handle the problems involving personal human relations such as law enforcement and care of the indigent, sick, mental and physical.

TRENDS — The State sovereignty group, the middle bracket described in the foregoing paragraph, is gaining ascendancy and there are indications that the trend of the past two decades is being retarded if not reversed as a source of public spending money. There will be fewer local playgrounds built with funds from Washington, and less Federal aid for small hospitals. No serious objection can be raised to that trend—if the Federal Government reduced some existing tax levies and resisted the temptation to further invade the local tax field. Obviously it is grossly unfair, and can result only in lower standards, if the Federal Government curtails aid to State projects and at the same time usurps taxable areas heretofore regarded as the exclusive province of the States.

REVERSE — While trends in National affairs seem to be away from centralized Federal control, in State-local affairs they seem to be toward centralization. There is growing understanding that the State and local governments—counties and municipalities—are creatures of the State. So, we find the present Federal administration passing back to the States some of the responsibilities usurped by the New Deal and Fair Deal regimes; while the North Carolina General Assembly is going more and further into the field of controlling school buildings and highways and hospitals and other public services.

Glamor Goes To The Beaches

MODES of the MOMENT

By DOBOTHY BOB

ICED COTTON . . . This white pique outfit consists of bathing suit and skirt, embroidered in color, for fun under sun or stars.

STRIP-TEASE . . . Here is the mood in swim suit ensembles, consisting of the eye-stopping suit at left and the wraparound sarong at right, which may be donned in a jiffy to transform the suit into a glamorous costume for cocktails or dinner. Frances Sider designs it in a colorful Hawaiian print cotton embossed in vari-colored sequins.

DIAMONDS ARE A GIRL'S BEST FRIEND . . . White pique embroidered in rhinestones makes the strictly sensational bathing suit and matching skirt which provides a girl with an outfit good from dawn to dawn.

TEEN TALK

By VIVIAN BROWN

AP Newsfeatures
Are you the type who never gets your bathing suit wet? Or perhaps you are the dare-devil, "I'll-do-any-thing" type who tries a full gainer with a half-twist first day on the diving board?

Both types should beware. The water-shy queen is likely to meet her Waterloo, or venture into a shaky canoe or sailboat. The real-gone extrovert is asking for trouble.

Safety rules are easy to remember. These enforced at all Girl Scout camps are stressed particularly during Swim for Health Week. They are worth observing:

1. Never swim alone. Always have a partner nearby.
2. Stay out of the water if you don't feel well.
3. Wait an hour and a half after eating before going into the water.
4. Get out of the water when chilled or tired.
5. Don't swim in the dark.
6. Dive only in water of known depth.
7. If you are not a strong swimmer, do not venture too far from shore or into deep water. In other words, stay within the bounds of swimming ability.
8. Don't go sailing, canoeing or boating unless you know how to take care of yourself in the water. But there are other problems to mar your rose-colored glasses. The world is full of smart aleck types. So doubtless you'll meet them at the beach, too. Be prepared to be dunked, splashed or tossed into the briny deep by some boor. So it isn't enough to be able to wade out to your waistline. You must know how to swim and learn to circumvent advances of ill-mannered cronies or new acquaintances. Here are some pointers for beach belles:

1. When you get to the beach relax. If your escort is the extrovert type, he is probably a water splasher. So if you've sided him up for that, either don't go in the water with him or give him a pep talk before hand.
2. If you visit a beach alone with a boy, remember public displays of affection are in extremely bad taste, and irritating to other people.
3. If you are with a crowd at the beach, and the party gets rough stay out of the water, unless you are a good swimmer.
4. Wear a bathing suit that is pretty and trim but not so revealing that it is in poor taste.
5. Have fun with your crowd but watch your decorum just as you would if you were out on a dress-up date. There is a tendency to relax normal propriety when play-clothes are worn.

Poor Branding By Greenhorns

DENVER (AP)—The fancy electric and gas-heated branding irons now being used by some cattlemen are putting brands that can't be read on Colorado's cattle, says Ed Paul, Colorado brand commissioner. It's the greenhorn cattlemen who are messing up the brands, Paul believes.

Paul has high hopes for improvement soon because the men attracted to the business by high profits a few years back are now getting out as the price of livestock drops.

"They get their irons too hot or too cold," he says. "If the irons are cold, they won't make permanent scars. If they're too hot, they turn across the brands and smear them up," he explained.

HE LIKED IT
KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UP)—Eight-year-old William Lively visited his brother and sister at John Tarleton Institute—a home for dependent children. He had a fine time. The next morning, relatives with whom William was living reported him missing. He was located at the Institute where he arrived, his clothes packed, in time for breakfast.

Price Of Tin Is Suffering Slump

SINGAPORE (AP)—A number of mines have closed owing to the big tumble in the price of tin, the head of one of the two smelting companies in Malaya disclosed.

E.M.P. Ferguson, chairman of the Straits Trading Co. in a report to the company's annual general meeting also said the present price of tin is probably the lowest at which the metal could be produced, excluding development and exploration.

RECOUNT
BRIDGEPORT, Conn. (UP)—St. John's Episcopal Church celebrated its 200th anniversary only to find a few weeks later that it actually was 225 years old. The discovery was made by the rector's wife while searching old records.

California Scale Model To Move

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The city is looking for new quarters for the spectacular panoramic relief model of California exhibited in the nave of the Ferry building at the foot of historic Market Street.

The building is to be remodeled for other purposes. The map is 600 feet long and 17½ feet wide and required 14 months of labor by engineers, draftsmen, sculptors, geographers and artists.

Immense amounts of material were used—2,500 square feet of plate glass for instance. It has 800,000 hand-carved miniature buildings.

Kiwanians' Edwards Throttles Lions As Jaycees Edge Elks To Take First

Pafko Satisfied Now At Playing With Milwaukee

BROOKLYN (UP)—Andy Pafko, "terribly disappointed" only a few short months ago, insisted today he was "the happiest guy in the world" because of the deal that sent him from Brooklyn to Milwaukee.

"No one likes to be traded off a pennant winner," explained the hard-hitting Milwaukee right fielder, "so naturally I was terribly disappointed when the Dodgers traded me to the Braves last winter."

"I felt like I was being kicked downstairs but the way things are turning out, it looks like Brooklyn did me a big favor."

The favor Pafko referred to was Milwaukee's current game-and-a-half lead in the National League race, a lead Andy helped produce Wednesday as he smashed a homer and two doubles in the Braves' 14-9 triumph over Brooklyn.

Allen Limits Elks To Four Hits As JC's Win; Cox, Edwards Provide Hits For Kiwanian Victory

By virtue of a Lion loss to the Kiwanians and a 4-2 win over the Elks, the Jaycees took over first place in the Little League in games played at Elm Street Park yesterday afternoon.

In the opener Walter Lee Allen limited the Elks to four hits in hurling the Jaycees into first place. All the hits were singles, with Howard Garner the only Elk stickman to collect two.

A base-loaded double by Arthur Andrews gave the Jaycees their margin of victory. Jasper Tripp contributed a double and a single to the Jaycees win.

The big bats of Edwards and Billy Cox provided the Kiwanians with the needed punch in the second game. Each slammed out a double and a single in three times at bat.

Edwards calmed down the usually strong batters of the Lions. With a two-base blow, Charles Staton had the only big hit for the Lions. The two runs scored by the Lions in the fifth were unearned.

Duke Underdog Today In NCAA District Playoff

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (UP)—Georgia stacks a heavy batting attack against the underdog Duke Blue Devils tonight for the right to represent the South in the college world series at Omaha, Neb.

The Southeastern Conference champion Bulldogs, undefeated in the District Three NCAA playoffs, need to win only one game in the double elimination tourney to be declared district champs.

Duke must win tonight and also sweep a second game in order to grab a place in series play.

The Bulldogs pounded out a 9 to 4 win over the Blue Devils last night behind the tight pitching of Allen Parrish and the slugging of Johnny Douglas. In the first game yesterday, Mississippi State knocked Rollins College out of contention 6 to 5, only to be eliminated in turn by a 5 to 4 Duke victory in the semi-finals.

Parrish who lost only one game during Georgia's regular season play limited Duke to four hits and a pair of runs in each of the first and last innings.

Meanwhile, Douglas, a .267 hitter during the season, drove in five runs with a single, double, triple and home run. The clouting first baseman also scored three times himself.

Braves Batter Brooklyn; Yankees Maul White Sox

NEW YORK (UP)—Don't tell mourning Marty Marion the Yankees are running off with the pennant race. His Browns would be in first place today instead of seventh if they had won the 13-one run game they lost.

Like the kingdom that was lost for want of a horse-shoe nail, the Browns, for lack of a little punch at the right time, are struggling along at a 4-2 pace with 19 wins and 25 losses, whereas they'd be at 32-12 and .727 if they could just have turned around those 13 one-run reverses. That would be two full games ahead of the current Yankee standing of 29-11.

Wednesday night came the latest of these heart-breakers, a 4-3 10-inning defeat by Washington in which Satchel Paige gave up the first run in his last six relief appearances totaling 11 2/3 innings and suffered his first defeat. He was touched by a single by Ed Yost, who stole second and scored on Wayne Terwilliger's third hit, a pop single.

Just the same, the Yankees do look like runaways. They pounded out the biggest total of runs scored by a major league team this year in drubbing their most persistent rivals, the White Sox, 15-2 with 19 hits Wednesday. In other American League games the Red Sox came from behind to defeat the Indians 4-3 and Philadelphia defeated Detroit, 10-7.

Milwaukee, which is also getting some runaway notions, made it two in a row over Brooklyn with a 14-9 chubbing in the National. The Pirates handed poor Warren Hacker his ninth defeat against one victory, 1-0, while the Giants drubbed Cincinnati 11-3 and the Cards topped the Phils 5-3, then lost 6-5. The Yankees were merciless. Every starter drove in at least one run except Phil Rizzuto and he sniped two doubles and scored twice. Mickey Mantle drove in four runs, two on bases loaded walks, one of an infield out. Joe Collins hit four singles to lead that department. Cleveland's defeat by the Red Sox put the Indians 5 1/2 games behind the Yankees. Early Wynn had a three-hit until the ninth when Boston scored three runs, the tying and winning ones coming in on Sammy White's single. Al Rosen hit his 12th homer for Cleveland.

Gus Zernial hit two homers, driving in five runs, to pace the Athletics as Detroit suffered its eighth straight defeat.

Milwaukee's 17-hit attack included three homers and six doubles as ex-Dodgers Jim Penderton and Andy Pafko led a clinching five-run rally in the eighth with round trippers. Penderton's came with two on base. Ed Mathews hit his 15th homer and drove in three runs. Six Dodger pitchers couldn't stop the winners, who now are in first by a game and a half.

The Giants also were bat-happy, connecting for 13 hits including two homers by rookie Daryl Spencer, who drove in five runs. Davey Williams also homered and tripled as Larry Jansen went the route for the first time since April 20, scattering nine hits for his fifth win.

Hacker, who has lost five games in which the Cubs were shut out, gave Pittsburgh only five singles, but three came in the fourth by Danny O'Connell, Frank Thomas, and Pete Castiglione for the game's only run. Paul LaPalme gave up seven hits and struck out seven to win his third game.

Steve Bilko and Rip Repulski hit Cardinal homers and Repulski also had a triple and single as the Cards beat lefty ace Curt Simmons in the opener. Gran Hamner homered for the Phils. In the second game Tommy Giaviano tripled and Connie Ryan singled him home with the winning run in the eighth inning. Two Cardinal homers, Red Schoendienst's eighth and Solly Hemus' fourth, went to waste. Schoendienst now has hit more homers than in any other year in his major league career.

Motors And Builders Win Softball Games

Batters continued to stay ahead of the pitchers in the Men's Softball League as 50 runs were scored on 47 hits in two contests last night at Third Street Park. Wagner-Waldrop romped to a 21-13 win over Carolina Dairies, while Home Builders won over Southern Bread 10-6.

Jack Minges led his team to victory in the opener as he belted two home runs and two singles for five times at bat. Pitcher Doug Morgan also had four hits for the Wagner-Waldrop team. Carolina Dairies' big Bobby Hodges had a bases-loaded home run for the losers.

Though the second contest was a bit closer with less scoring, there were three balls hit from the park by the Builders. The blows were delivered by Red Painter, Bill Kirtrell and Arnold Averet t.

Two Challengers To Native Dancer In Belmont Stakes

NEW YORK (UP)—At least two horses came out of the Peter Pan Handicap as possible challengers to Native Dancer in next week's Belmont Stakes.

Investigator and Isasmoothie, who wound up a neck apart in the mile and an eighth prep Wednesday at Belmont Park, indicated they may have the stamp of a starting berth in the third of the triple crown classics.

Investigator won the race under a rail-skimming ride by Nick Shuk. Isasmoothie, taking the long way home, just missed the Saxon Stable colt at the wire and probably would have dragged down the winner's purse in a couple of more strides.

Irv Noren Best Fourth Outfielder In Baseball Today

CHICAGO (UP)—Irv Noren has appeared in only 23 of the New York Yankees 46 games this year, but Manager Casey Stengel pegged him today as the "best fourth outfielder in baseball."

"I'd say he's the best trade we've made," Stengel said. "But to look at him last year, you wouldn't think so."

"We got him and put him in center field and he couldn't hit and he couldn't field and he was out a couple of days and the kid (Mickey) Mantle got the job."

"But this year he's a different player. We've used him in all three fields and he's looked good in all of them. Going a long way to catch a ball. Catching one at his shoes and going way up in the air to get one. And going all directions."

"And hitting, well, he's got some triples and some doubles, and he's doing pretty good."

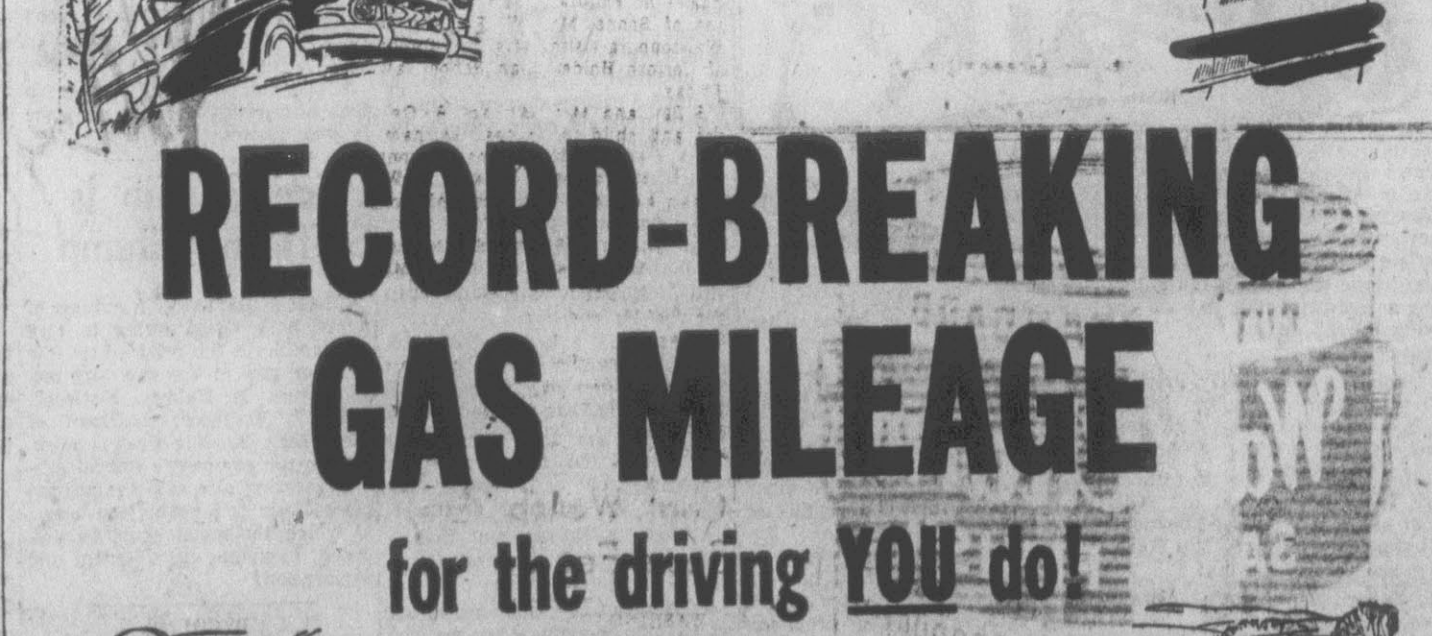

"So there's a fellow last year couldn't play one field, and now he can play all three better than he could in one last year, and we can use him any time."

"He's the best fourth outfielder in baseball."

RECORD-BREAKING GAS MILEAGE for the driving YOU do!

This year's Chevrolet brings you the most important gain in economy in Chevrolet history. And it's the kind of everyday economy that saves you money wherever and whenever you drive!

Inch along through heavy traffic. Roll up the miles in steady, highway-cruising. Long trips or short errands, byroads or backroads, you get far more miles per gallon in this great new Chevrolet.

New low-compression power is the reason. Both the new 115-h.p. "Blue-Flame" engine in Powerglide models—and the advanced 108-h.p. "Thrill-King" engine in gearshift models—deliver more power on less gasoline. Acceleration and hill-climbing ability are greater, fuel consumption is lower!

This is the kind of economy that counts the most—important gasolene savings for the driving you do, together with lower over-all costs of upkeep. And along with it, you enjoy all the other advantages that only the new Chevrolet offers you. Come in and see for yourself!

dian, in hand-woven garments, stood by his little stall in the municipal market. On the counter were a few bunches of garlic, a dozen small bunches of green onions. A tourist approached, camera in hand

"May I take your picture?" "Sure, for a fee." The Indian collected 50 cents, suddenly packed up and hurried away.

"But why did he leave?" the tourist asked a market official. "He has made more in two minutes than he would all day. Anything he might earn from now on would be an anti-climax, bad for his soul."

Although the very ancient world did not have tame rabbits, it is believed that the animals were domesticated by the Romans early in the present era.

Fishermen's Paradise Off Coast Of Mexico

ACAPULCO, Mexico (UP)—Sports fishermen are finding the waters a tackle-busting paradise these days.

It's nothing new. The waters have been undermined with finned-dyn-mite for ages, but the rod and reel boys have been a little slow working this far south.

Two factors seem to make Mexican salt water fishing an attractive proposition. First, there's a multitude of fish to be caught; second, and probably most appealing, it's wonderfully inexpensive.

For instance, a four-hour jaunt out from this southern Pacific resort for "small" fish — mackerel, bonito, yellowtail, etc.—costs about $10 (U.S.). The price includes fishing gear, the guide, boatman, boat and gasoline. That's cheap fishing. And if the angler doesn't bring a dozen or so gamesters over the side, it's only because he has his mind on something else.

Surf Fishing Fine

The so-called "small" fish usually tip the scales from five to 40 pounds.

Out a few miles farther, where the water takes on a purple hue, the angler can try his luck at the big ones — dolphin, sailfish or shark. A day of "big fishing" runs about $25 to $30, all services included.

But the fisherman doesn't have to get out in a boat to make a catch. Surf casting is tops along almost any strip of beach. There's plenty of elbow room. Chances are the only company the angler will have along these desolate stretches of sand will be sea birds grubbing for food along the breakers.

Along lagoons where rivers empty into the sea, a casting or spinning rod—light gear—will do the trick on snook fishing. Just south of this port, where the Papagayo River empties, some near-record light-tackle snook catches have been made recently. Several hours work in the morning produced up to 15 snook, averaging from 10 to 23 pounds. All it took was some easy casting, with a copper wobler spoon.

Rival Claims

While the Pacific fishermen troll and cast about for sailfish, marlin, tuna, sea bass and a dozen or so other species, Atlantic gulf port anglers work mainly on tarpon, barracuda, snook and pargo.

Fishermen on both sides claim their area is the best. Undoubtedly, tarpon fishing at the gulf port of Tampico where the Panuco River flows out is some of the best in the world. The world's record, 247 pounds, was made there. During recent Tampico fishing derbies, battlers up to 175 pounds were pulled out.

Fishermen on the Pacific side point out that the world's record for black sea bass, 483 pounds, was set off Coronados Islands, and bolster their arguments by adding that the record 275-pound sailfish was caught near La Paz—off the tip of Lower California.

But no matter where you go in Mexico you can catch big ones. The only uncertainty is what breed you're going to hook.

Rivals Wearing Same School Tie

WASHINGTON (AP)—Professionally, they're at swords points, but when it comes to the old school Democratic National Chairman Stephen A. Mitchell and his Republican counter part, Leonard Hall, see eye to eye.

They're both alumnae of Georgetown University's School of Law here. Hall graduated in 1920, Mitchell in 1928.

Recruits Find Army Includes Many Features And Functions

WASHINGTON (U.P.)—So you join the Army, or maybe you are drafted.

Like most civilians, you are not familiar with U.S. Army organization. The key to understanding the structure is the triangle.

Take the triangle, fill it out, make it solid, and you have a pyramid. The Army is like a pyramid—with the generals on top where they can direct the units under them.

The individual soldier is at the base of the pyramid. Beside him are a million or so other soldiers—the foundation upon which the army builds.

In the infantry, the soldier belongs to a squad, the second layer in the pyramid. There are nine soldiers in a squad, so naturally there are fewer squads than soldiers, causing the organizational pyramid to begin tapering.

The Regiment

Three rifle squads and one weapons squad make up the infantry platoon. Three rifle platoons and one weapons platoon make up the infantry company, which contains about 200 men.

Three rifle companies, one heavy weapons company, and one headquarters company make up a battalion of about 1,000 men.

Three battalions form a regiment of about 3,000 men.

Three regiments, plus a division artillery regiment, a heavy tank battalion, and other special units make up an infantry division. There are 18,000 men in an infantry division.

The key number three keeps popping up, bringing sense to the explanation that "triangular organization" means that the army organizes each combat unit around a core of three smaller units plus supporting weapons.

Branches of artillery, armor, the quartermaster division, and other integral parts of the Army are built up similarly to the infantry.

"The Army" Embraces All

Other outfits have different numbers of men in each unit because they do different jobs. An artillery battalion usually is smaller than an infantry battalion.

In an armored division, the organizational framework revolves around tanks. There are 22 tanks in a tank company, 69 in a medium tank battalion, and 373 in an armored division.

Near the point of the pyramid is the corps, composed of two or more divisions. Two or more corps make up an army.

"The Army" and "an army" are not the same. "An Army" is the Eighth Army in Korea, or the Seventh Army in Europe, or the Second Army in the eastern United States.

"The Army" includes everything—all field armies and all army areas.

Vacation Bible School To Open

Daily vacation Bible school for approximately 125 children will open at the Meadowbrook Presbyterian Church next Monday morning, the Rev. C. D. Patterson, pastor, said yesterday.

The Bible school, which will be held in the church building, will be between hours of 8:30 and 11 a.m. Monday through Friday for two weeks.

Commencement exercises for children completing requirements will be held following the school at 8 p.m. June 19.

The following leaders have agreed to assist in the program: kindergarten, Mrs. L. C. Powell; beginners, Mrs. J. E. Speight; pioneers, Miss Geraldine Worrell and the Rev. Mr. Patterson; and juniors, Charles Ray Ross.

Attendance at the school reached 125 last year and the Rev. Mr. Patterson said that many or perhaps a few more are looked for this year.

Do you know what this car can do?

It can set you stingle with thrill. It can move from zero to legal speed quicker and quieter than any Buick before it—and with the utter smoothness of a gull in glide—because this is a 1953 Buick with the spectacular getaway of Twin-Turbine Dynaflow.

It can loaf easily up a long steep hill—swoop instantly ahead when there's safe passing to be done—or whizzer along at highway pace with throttle barely open—because this is the Buick powered with the world's most advanced V8 engine, with high compression of 8.5 to 1.

It can surround you with luxury, restful ease.

It can velvet a rough road with its even softer all-coil-spring cushioning—track true on curves with its solid torque-tube steadiness—banille like a flyrod with its Power Steering—gentle to a precise halt with its Power Brakes.

And it can seat you in the superb comfort of true spaciousness—because this big and braunty beauty is the Buick SUPER Riviera Sedan—roomiest six-passenger sedan made in America.

Above all, this car can give you supreme value—more room, comfort, power and thrill for the money than you can find elsewhere.

Why not come in and see it, drive it, compare it? We'll be happy to arrange matters.

Beauty Entry

Miss Rosalind Diane Harris is Asheville's entry in the North Carolina Beauty Pageant starting July 15. Miss Harris will have to travel more than 400 miles to display her talent, beauty, personality and poise at the Jaycee event. Her display of talent will consist of art designing for which she had special training as an art major at Bob Jones University. She is 21 years old, 5ft. 8in. tall, weighs 130 pounds and measures 38-26-38.

East Carolina College Set To Open Summer Session

East Carolina College will open for the 1953 summer session on Monday morning, June 8. Registration of students will take place that day, beginning at 8:30 a. m. in the Wright building. First class meetings will be held Tuesday, June 9.

Enrollment is expected to compare favorably with that of the first summer term of 1952, when approximately 1100 men and women were registered for work, according to Registrar Orval L. Phillips. In addition to the regular classes, a large group of graduate students will take courses leading to the master's degree, which at East Carolina is a degree for those working in the field of teacher-training. Also, Dr. Phillips states, a number of recent high school graduates will enter the college June 8 to begin their work as freshmen.

The 1953 summer session, as those of previous summers, will be divided into two terms. The first will last from June 8 through July 14. The second is scheduled for July 15-August 21.

Courses will be offered during the summer session in fourteen departments of instruction. Work in Air Science and Tactics will be given during both terms. Basic courses will be available for beginning students in ROTC.

For the two sessions the faculty will include more than 30 members of the regular teaching staff at East Carolina and a number of visiting professors.

Of special interest to teachers and school administrators will be a series of more than twenty workshops, conferences, and clinics. At these many fields of study and activity in public school education will be considered. Subjects for study and discussion include special education, guidance, health and physical education, resource-use education, music, science, reading, social studies, home economics, industrial arts, the school library, school administration, and English. A study conference for kindergarten teachers is now in progress on the campus.

Recreational opportunities offered to students will include a series of attractions brought to the campus under the sponsorship of the East Carolina Entertainment Committee. The swimming pool in the Memorial Health and Physical Education building will be open to students, and tennis courts and other facilities for sports will be in use.

Well-Earned Rest Now Open To Overseers Of Coronation Rites

By RANDOLPH CHURCHILL
Written For the UNITED PRESS

LONDON (UP)—Most people intimately concerned in the work of the coronation can now relax and have a rest. Not so the queen.

For her ceremony was only the start of one of the busiest months of her life.

Yesterday morning at Buckingham Palace she was presenting medals to overseas contingents from the commonwealth. Yesterday afternoon she drove through the streets of northeast London with the Duke of Edinburgh, and last night she gave a great state banquet at Buckingham Palace for all the commonwealth ministers and heads of foreign delegations.

Her engagement book is studied with five or six important and exhausting engagements each day right to the end of July. "I do sympathize with you, ma'am, in all the anxieties you have at this time." "Yes," she replied, half in earnest half jokingly, "I can hardly get a wink of sleep at night; I'm so excited about the Derby."

The Derby is to be run Saturday and the queen's horse, Aureole, is thought to have a very good chance of winning. The coronation was part of the queen's work which she does superbly well and evidently enjoys. But racing is far away her most important diversion and in the last year or so she has acquired a very considerable knowledge of horse breeding. It would be a wonderful climax to coronation week if the queen's horse should win on Saturday.

The earl Marshal, the Duke of Norfolk, whom everyone is praising for his tireless efficiency, which was so well vindicated on coronation day, took a day off yesterday and spent it in the way he likes most—watching a cricket match at Hove between Sussex and the Australians. Among his many and varied positions, which range from chief butler to the queen to chairman of the Sussex County council finance committee, the Duke is president of the Sussex County Cricket Club.

Apart from taking all the main decisions in organization of the coronation, the Duke of Norfolk personally conducted all the rehearsals. It was a splendid sight to see him in a black morning coat with his earl marshal's baton in one hand and a hand microphone in the other walking with measured step in the choir of the Abbey, pausing every now and again to haul the long lead up behind him. He always spoke in calm and level tones "a little more to the right, archbishop," "please bring the crown Mr Dean," "no, that's the wrong crown, please bring the right one."

It has been reported how the fanfare of trumpets which greeted the queen on her arrival at the abbey was immediately followed by the entrance, from the four corners of the theatre where the crowning was to be done, of four householders in white coats who brushed away with their besoms and brooms, with frantic intensity for a couple of minutes, and then retreated to the posts or comfort stations from which they had emerged. The congregation roared with laughter at this comical and, as they must have supposed, unrehearsed anti-climax in the activities of the four house-maids had been as carefully rehearsed and timed as the entrance of the queen herself.

One of the things which has impressed foreign visitors to London has been the dignity of the crowds. Though they had waited all night before coronation and were soaked to the bone, they cheered with immense enthusiasm, but there was never a trace of that hysteria which usually overcomes great crowds in other countries on occasions of this sort. As one American put it to me, they realized they were in the presence of history.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UP)—Ravenous army worms, massing in "antacid" numbers, were eating their way through fields after fields of tender spring crops in Indiana, Ohio and West Virginia today.

Experts felt that perhaps only the balance of nature could halt the insect invasion. A red-tailed fly, known as "thacnid," was appearing in large numbers in worm-infested areas. It is known to lay eggs on the army worm, and the hatching maggots kill the pests.

Meanwhile, frustrated farmers, some of them shedding tears, fought a losing battle against the worms in the hardest-hit areas. Dusting planes were thrown into the fight in southern Indiana.

Indiana authorities said it was the "worst" attack on record in the state, and said the southern counties were most affected.

County agricultural agents in all three states said that in the areas where the worms were massing they had done "damage almost beyond belief."

Residents of Dudleytown, Ind., reported the worms were so thick on a blacktop highway that it "looked like the road surface was moving."

One Hoosier county agricultural agent said farmers were coming to his office "every hour, some of them with tears in their eyes."

Eastern Ohio, northern West Virginia and Jackson, Daviess, Knox and Posey Counties in Indiana were the most critical areas.

Posey County farmers got disheartening news yesterday, just after it was reported that the worms were evidently marching out of the county. Another batch was seen feeding on other crops.

In Ohio, Belmont County Agent Robert Lang blamed the outbreak of worms on strong winds "which carried the worms from Tennessee and Kentucky into the upper Ohio Valley."

He said by late June the worms would bury themselves in the ground and become cocoons. In the Wheeling, W. Va., area from one to two dozen worms have been counted in a square foot area.

West Virginia and Ohio farmers have been harvesting still green wheat crops to save them from the hungry worms.

Ravenous Horde Of Army Worms Devastate Fields

ATHENS, Ga. (UP)—The Athens City Lines asked the city council if it could add taxicabs to its bus line operations. Two local cab firms immediately asked permission to put 10 passenger buses in service on city bus routes.

Sweden's constitution was set up in 1809 and the Swedes say it is the oldest written constitution in Europe.

Session Of North Carolina Negro Business League Plans Meet Here

The sixth annual session of the North Carolina Negro Business League will convene in Greenville at Eppes High School June 29 and 30.

A tentative program of business has been lined up as follows: Monday night, June 29, State Housewives' League meeting and a business session of the men; Tuesday morning, June 30, unfinished business; Tuesday afternoon, business clinic and election of officers; and Tuesday night, talent show.

D.D. Garrett of Greenville, president of the N.C. Negro Business League, said this year the league is offering a $100 scholarship to a Negro high school graduate. He urged all graduates of Greenville and Pitt County to make application with him in reference to the scholarship.

A large number of delegates from various sections of the state are expected to attend the meeting of the league in Greenville during the designated time.

When Venus is closest to the earth it is 26 million miles away.

NEW BERN (UP)—Albert Williams, charged with illegal possession of liquor apparently had a clear conscience. He fell asleep as the judge was charging the jury. He awoke in time to hear the jury's verdict of innocent.

Job Opportunity And Salaries For Grads 'Higher'

CHAPEL HILL (UP)—Plentiful job opportunities with salaries slightly higher than last year await the June college graduates this year, the University of North Carolina placement service reported today.

Director J. M. Galloway said the decrease in veterans and increased number of men entering military service has created more jobs for women in some professional fields. By merchandising and office work still provide the main source of employment for liberal arts women.

The most noticeable decrease in employment has been with federal agencies, the report showed. Starting salaries are ranging from $250-$300 a month for men and $150-$200 for women.

Demand for men not subject to military call in business and industry exceeds supply, the report said, as does that for accountants, engineers, chemists and physicists.

In the teaching field demand is greatest for elementary and science and mathematics teachers.

don't DO that!

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (UP)—Stocks moved within a narrow range early today in slow dealings.

There was no outstanding feature in the market and price changes were extremely small either way with a number of issues holding at their previous close.

Dealings also were highly restricted with sales in the first hour totaling only 160,000 shares, compared with 170,000 in the same period yesterday.

F. E. Myers was a weak spot. The issue fell two points to a new low of 39 1/2. The company reported sharply lower earnings.

In the main industrial group, steel shares held steady. Bethlehem Steel was unchanged at 50 3/4 and U. S. Steel rose 1/8 to 38 3/8. Seaboard Air Line met some realization. Its stock dropped two points to 115. Other carriers did little.

Army To Revise ROTC Program

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Army is ready to make a major reshuffle in its college reserve officer training corps program, eliminating some schools and revising the curriculum, it was learned today. At the same time, the Army is preparing to cut down the size of the ROTC program to stay within the manpower limitations laid down by Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson.

The overhaul of the ROTC is expected to be announced within the next few days. Meanwhile, the Army is informing congressmen and schools of the impending changes in an attempt to ward off an almost certain storm of protest.

Street Department Urges Citizens To Obtain Regulation Garbage Cans

Greenville citizens were urged today by C. K. Beatty, head of the city street department, to get regulation garbage cans for disposal of their refuse.

The city's ordinance calls for a can which does not exceed 30 gallons capacity with top.

Regular collections, Mr. Beatty said, are being made every other day in the residential sections and the business section is being covered regularly each day.

For disposal of yard and hedge trimmings, too large for the cans, property holders can get them hauled away by phoning 3583. The streets head asked, however, that these not be left on the yards, but put in a pile near the drive or other places accessible to the truck.

Investigate Try At Break-In Of Rural Store

Sheriff's deputies early today investigated an attempted break-in at E. T. McLawhorn's store three miles east of Winterville on the old Tar road.

No loss was reported by the owner-operator. The intruder apparently was scared off by McLawhorn's dogs or the return of the owner's son last night.

Dents in the front door edges, apparently caused by a screw driver used to pry open the door, were the only traces of damages. No tracks were found around the outside by the deputies.

Air Speed Queen Gasperi Facing Great Test In Italian Voting

LANCASTER, Calif. (UP)—Air queen Jacqueline (Jackie) Cochran today held all but one of the world's jet speed records for straightaway and closed courses after another record-breaking flight.

The attractive woman pilot grabbed another record yesterday when she flew a Canadian-built North American Sabre jet 670 miles an hour over a 15-kilometer straightaway course at Murco Dry Lake near here.

She now holds all international straightaway speed marks, in both men's and women's divisions, with the exception of the three-kilometer mark mark of 699.92 MPH by Air Force Capt. Slade Nash.

Her latest flight was announced by Charles Logsdon, contest division director of the National Aeronautical Association, who said all of her runs had been electrically timed and photographed.

Miss Cochran established a record of 652.552 miles an hour around a 100 kilometer circular course in the same Canadian jet last May 18, bettering the 635 miles an hour record held by Air Force Col. Fred Ascani.

On that same date she dove her Canadian F-86 past the speed of sound twice, becoming the first woman to break the sound barrier.

On May 23, Jackie set a 500-kilometer closed circuit course record at 590.273 miles an hour.

Logsdon said all Miss Cochran's records apply to both propeller-driven and jet-powered aircraft.

Miss Cochran said she might try to set an unofficial mark for the three-kilometer run, the only record she does not hold, which is the top honor in international speed trials.

Ever since Italy's return to the family of nations after World War II, her destiny has been guided by Premier Alcide de Gasperi.

But on this coming Sunday, in Italy's general elections, the man who led Italy into the Atlantic Pact faces his strongest test.

Even the most optimistic will not give him much more than a 50-50 chance of winning. In Italy, as elsewhere, the fight against Communism is a primary issue. But, if De Gasperi's Christian Democrats and their allies are defeated this time, it won't be by the Communists.

Rather, it will be on purely internal differences which have resulted in splinter groups and a division of anti-Communist forces so firmly allied in the 1948 elections.

In 1948 the Christian Democrats alone got 48.5 per cent of the vote, and, with their three present allies, amassed 62 per cent.

The result has been for the last five years a thoroughly De Gasperi-dominated government.

This year Italy votes under a new election law. It gives 380 of the 560 seats in the Chamber of Deputies automatically to the party or coalition winning 50.01 per cent of the popular vote.

Recently opinions were asked of editors of 10 major non-party newspapers in Italy, Sicily and Sardinia on this year's outcome.

Three believed De Gasperi's coalition would fall short of the needed majority by 1 or 2 per cent.

The others thought he would squeak through. They believed, however, that the issue would be decided by only 1 to 3 per cent of the vote.

If De Gasperi's coalition wins, the new law giving the winner 64 per cent of the chamber seats will assure Italy of a stable government.

ment. But if the outcome brings about a shakier coalition of center-moderate left or center-moderate right, then Italy could become another France with periodic cabinet crisis.

The votes lost by the center parties have not gone to the Communists but rather to the two up and coming anti-Communist parties of the far right — the Monarchists and the Neo-Fascists.

The admirers of the old monarchy or of Mussolini's old Fascists together polled only 4.8 per cent of the vote in 1948.

This year they are predicted to take 15 per cent.

"The situation at this stage does not leave room for comfort," one Christian Democrat editor remarked recently.

Morally, the center parties have two powerful supporters — the United States and the Italian Catholic hierarchy.
