Eastern N.C. Airport Authority Officers

Members of the Eastern Carolina Airport Authority gathered in Greenville last night for the organizational session of the body. They are shown shortly before they took the oath of their new office. Left to right are: Hubert E. May of Nash County; W. H. Watson of Greenville, secretary-treasurer; W. C. Hargrove of Edgecombe County; H. W. Anderson of Wilson; R. M. Fountain of Tarboro, chairman of the site committee; W. W. Speight of Pitt County, vice-chairman; and Ray Bandy of Rocky Mount, chairman of the authority. Not present at the meeting was Thomas Daniel, representative of Wilson County. (Reflector Staff Photo)

Officers Elected; Initial Goals Are Outlined

Airport Group Organizes

Officers of the Eastern Carolina Airport Authority were elected here last night as members of the authority gathered in Greenville for their organizational meeting. Ray Bandy of Rocky Mount, who has served as chairman of the temporary group for the four-county airport, was named chairman of the authority by acclamation. W. W. Speight of Greenville, representative of Pitt County of the authority was unanimously chosen vice-chairman; and W. H. Watson of Greenville was elected secretary-treasurer of the airport authority. No individual interests It was voted by the group that all eight members of the authority be members of the site committee for the selection of the location of the joint four-county airport, and R. M. Fountain of Tarboro was appointed chairman of the site committee. The Eastern Carolina Airport Authority was created by action of the 1953 General Assembly for the purpose of building and operating an airport owned jointly by Pitt, Wilson, Edgecombe and Nash Counties and the cities of Greenville, Wilson, Rocky Mount and Tarboro. Chairman Bandy told the group at its meeting last night, "there is no individual community interest in this thing. We are all working for the progress of the four counties." According to the legislative act creating the authority, each of the four counties will underwrite 12 1/2 per cent of the cost of the joint airport, Rocky Mount will assume 18 per cent of the cost, Wilson 15 per cent, Greenville 11 per cent of the cost. And Tarboro 6 per cent. Working Fund Asked The authority last night voted to request each of the four counties and four cities involved in the project to set aside its proportional share of a $40,000 in case it is needed by the authority in the coming fiscal year. The action did not request the turning over of these funds to the authority but asked that in the 1953-54 budgets, the local government units set aside a contingency fund which the airport authority may call for if it is needed. It was explained that some working capital may be needed by the authority for surveys and maps in connection with choosing an airport site; and funds may be needed for an option on a site after one is chosen. C.A.A. Representative John T. Talbert, representative of the Civil Aeronautics Authority from Wilmington, spoke briefly to the members of the authority, but was not overly optimistic about forthcoming federal aid for airport construction. Six years ago, Talbert said, the federal airport program in North Carolina "had more money than it could spend." The total program has been cut from $40,000,000 six years ago to $14,000,000 last year, and since the Eisenhower administration has come into power, he secretary of commerce has cut out all federal aid to airports. Talbert, in his brief address, did hold some hope that funds for airport construction may be available in the future. He encouraged the Eastern Carolina Airport Authority to make an application to the CAA for federal aid in the proposed airport. A committee composed of Vice-Chairman Speight and H. W. Anderson of Wilson were appointed by the chairman to make the application. Took Oath of Office Before the business session began last night H. L. Lewis, assistant clerk of court of Pitt County administered the oath of office to seven of the eight members of the authority who were present at the meeting. Taking the oath were Hubert E. May of Nash County, W. H. Watson of Greenville, W. C. Hargrove of Edgecombe County, H. W. Anderson of Wilson, R. M. Fountain of Tarboro, W. W. Speight of Pitt County, and Ray Bandy of Rocky Mount. Not present to take the oath as a member of the Authority was Thomas Daniel, representative of Wilson County. Members of the Airport Authority and other guests at the meeting were welcomed to Greenville by F. F. Hendrix, chairman of the Pitt Board of Commissioners, S. Eugene West, mayor pro tem of Greenville, and W. T. Kyzer, manager of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce. Other guests at the meeting included Curtis Ellis, Nash County auditor; Thomas W. Rivers of Greenville; Jim Hockaday of the Farmville Enterprise; Bill Johnson of the Rocky Mount Telegram; Mabry Bass of the Tarboro Southern and Dave Whitchard of the Daily Reflector. In closing the meeting, Chairman Bandy told members of the Authority, "our objective is an airport, quick."

Red Troops Pounding At Allied Line

Outposts Shaken By Heaviest Artillery Barrage Of Entire Conflict

SEOUL, Korea. (UP)—Two reinforced Communist battalions smashed the Allied line in four places on the east central front today in a raging battle that followed the greatest artillery barrage of the Korean war. "Capitol Hill is very probably in enemy hands," an 8th Army briefing officer said tonight, explaining official reports from the flaming battlefield still are fragmentary. The latest 2,500-man assault followed 12 previous futile Red attempts to win high ground along a 30-mile front strewn with the bodies of Chinese infantrymen. The 8th Army said the Communists fired 118,000 artillery and mortar shells in support of their troops' efforts to gain strategic positions before the shooting is called off at Panmunjom. Allied trenches and rugged slopes of the mountainous central front battleline were littered with Chinese dead. At least 8,000 Chinese swarmed recklessly against the Allied line before U. S. 3rd Division artillerymen smothered them with steel. They suffered at least 2,100 casualties. The heaviest assault was made on Outpost Harry, where the Americans had piled up Chinese bodies as temporary "sandbags." A force of 3,000 Reds rushed the outpost in the face of heavy 3rd Division point-blank artillery fire. The cannoners had hauled big eight-inch guns to the front to meet the onslaught. "There isn't much left of Outpost Harry," a spokesman said, "but we own it." On Capitol Hill the 8th RED Division was hit by 1,500 RED infantrymen in five separate battles. South Koreans stopped a battalion of communists at White Horse and a company-sized diversionary assault to the east. The fanatical Chinese attacks took place along a line extending from an outpost east of White Horse Mountain on the central front to Bloody Ridge in the east, 30 miles of mountainous territory.

May Reverse Stand Though Angry Mobs Manhandle Officials Rhee Believed 'Wavering'

By LEROY HANSEN United Press Staff Correspondent SEOUL, Korea (UP)—President Syngman Rhee wavered today in his stand against an armistice. American staff officers at Panmunjom rushed work on a cease-fire to stop the slaughter on the central front. Rhee said in reply to questions submitted by a Scandinavian war correspondent the immediate signing of a U. S.-Korean mutual security pact would make an armistice more acceptable. "I need something concrete to show the people that our security has been guaranteed and that will help," Rhee's reply said. But the aged South Korean leader said his people have "very little confidence" in President Eisenhower's promise to conclude the defense treaty after the armistice is reached with the Communists. Acting Prime Minister Pyun Yung Tae announced after a three-hour and 30-minute meeting of the cabinet with Rhee that South Korea already had decided whether to oppose an armistice. "Whether we carry out our decision depends on developments at the armistice talks," Pyun said. Anti-armistice mobs got out of control both here and at Pusan. South Korean police erected barbed wire barricades in front of the American Embassy at Pusan, where South Korean war veterans had staged an all-night sit-down strike. Three columns of chanting Koreans swarmed on the foreign war correspondents' billets here, attacking two South Korean policemen and seizing three carbines. Excited and badly overwrought war veterans stopped a sedan taking two cabinet members to Rhee's presidential mansion for a routine meeting and beat them. When the veterans found out the occupants were cabinet members, one grabbed Industry Minister Lee Chai Hyung's neck and asked him if he thought he was the "number one" man in the government. They did not molest Minister without Portfolio Pak Hyun Bok, a woman, and after shouting anti-armistice slogans, permitted the two cabinet members to proceed. Another screaming mob massed outside Rhee's mansion and demonstrated throughout the three hour and 30-minute cabinet meeting.

Chang Ke Bong, Rhee's secretary, read a message from the president to the demonstrators over a loud speaker, urging them to go home and warning them not to molest foreigners. Defense Minister Shin Tae Young stood beside the loud speaker truck with tears running down his cheeks as he listened to the message. Shin then told the crowd he could not discuss the armistice crisis and the mob dispersed after shoving several policemen. While tempers flared at Seoul and Pusan, American staff officers rushed toward agreement with the Communists in long sessions at Panmunjom. The staff colonels worked on completion of a cease fire line as casualty lists grew longer as a result of bloody fighting for key hill positions along the central battlefront. Acting Premier Pyun Yung Tae came out of the cabinet meeting here and told newsmen Rhee's reply to President Eisenhower's appeal for cooperation had not yet been dispatched. He said, however, it probably would follow tones of recent government statements against a truce. Rhee himself repeated his stand against an armistice dividing Korea when he told chanting Korean war veterans his government "has made it sufficiently plain that we cannot agree to the present cease fire negotiations." In a written statement, Rhee assured the veterans he was "opposing an armistice in order to uphold the principles of national self-determination." Earlier today Pyun hinted that Rhee might choose to follow a middle of the road policy which might permit conclusion of the truce and allow South Korea to renew the war later, if necessary. "The foreign forces now engaged in the U. N. action in Korea can, if they so wish, agree to any armistice and disengage themselves from Korea," Pyun said. "On the other hand, I ask our foreign friends to understand that we Koreans cannot disengage ourselves from Korea. . . . If we let them (the foreign forces) have an armistice we cannot ourselves accept, it is only fair that they should not force it upon us. If we part, let us part friends."

Washington (UP)—The administration has sent Gen. Mark W. Clark secret instructions on the action he should take in case South Korea uses force to defy a truce. But officers refused to believe they would be necessary. Although they conceded anything was possible, they remained convinced President Syngman Rhee would in the end stop. The instructions to Clark were kept under heavy secrecy wraps. But informed sources said he had been told to see that order is maintained throughout his U. N. command. At the moment, this includes the South Korean troops Rhee would have to depend upon in any play of force. There was speculation here that the ROK command—which has steadfastly resisted any embroilment in Korean politics—might be unwilling to leave the Allied command to back a go-it-alone policy. Undisclosed was the extent to which Clark has been authorized to go in maintaining order if the ROK forces actually did pull out of the command and attempt to keep up the fight against the Communists. Military authorities indicated he would be allowed to take whatever action would be necessary for the security of Allied troops. They indicated he would have some latitude to decide how far it would be necessary to go. The pressure on Rhee to bow to the truce terms mounted as Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru sent President Eisenhower a message praising his "leadership" in obtaining the prisoner of war agreement, and expressing "trust that the agreement will lead to peace. . . . In reply, Mr. Eisenhower said he too hoped the pact would lead to "an armistice and a just peace in Korea" as well as a relaxation of world tensions.

Cops-And-Robber Game Backfired; 'Wrong Man'

PACTOLUS—A desire to engage in a game of cops and robbers backfired on a 25-year-old man the other night. State Bureau of Investigation Agent Clyde Pentress, stationed in Washington, was traveling to the Beaufort County town when he noted a pair of headlights bearing down on him. As the distance between the two cars closed, the unknown car started blinking its lights, and when Pentress paid no attention, pulled up alongside and his driver began blowing the horn. Despite several attempts to maneuver the automobile to force Pentress to a halt, the SBI agent brought his car up behind the other and the two stopped. Pentress said he asked the man who stepped from the car "What do you want?" To which the man replied, "What were you doing speeding?" "What's it to you?" snapped back Pentress. "Because I am an FBI agent," shot back the man. That did it. All the preceding events topped off by the man stating he was a federal officer, bore out suspicions stirring in Pentress' mind. Gun in hand, the SBI agent emerged from his car and proceeded to ask a few questions of his own. When asked to produce papers proving him to be a federal officer the man was unable to do so. William E. Meeks, of Washington Route 1, was then taken to Beaufort County jail in Washington for an overnight stay, and then was returned to Greenville and placed in the Pitt County jail in default of $20 bond. He will be tried in County Court at its next term. A desire to play cops and robbers might have worked, but for the fact that of all motorists the man sought to stop an SBI agent.

Gen. Clark Instructed In Event ROKs Defy Truce Sent Secret Orders

WASHINGTON (UP)—The administration has sent Gen. Mark W. Clark secret instructions on the action he should take in case South Korea uses force to defy a truce. Decision Up To Justice Jackson

WASHINGTON (UP)—Supreme Court Justice Robert H. Jackson had to decide—possibly today—whether to order one more delay in the execution of condemned atom spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg. Time was running out. The electrical engineer and his wife are scheduled to go to the electric chair in New York Thursday—their 14th wedding anniversary. The National Committee to Secure Justice in the Rosenberg Case was mobilizing its forces for a round-the-clock "vigil" at the White House until the couple's fate is decided, one way or the other. Atomic scientist Harold C. Urey asked President Eisenhower in a telegram "To be allowed to explain my understanding of the case to you." Urey has consistently objected to the Rosenbergs' conviction. Emmanuel H. Bloch, the Rosenbergs' attorney, asked Jackson Friday to order a stay of execution to permit a fifth appeal to the full court.

Unwanted Dog Is Hero In Rescue

ELK CITY, Okla. (UP)—An unnamed, unwanted dog was the hero today of the rescue of a 20-month-old girl who was trapped in a well 15 feet underground. The whole countryside near here was mobilized by telephone and an oil field radio communications system Friday after little Karren Daniels was found trapped. Three hours and 25 minutes later she was pulled from the well through a hastily dug rescue shaft. She was blue and unconscious, but she was alive. Thirty minutes later she sat up bright-eyed on a hospital bed and asked for a cold drink. During the ordeal, a welder pumped oxygen into the well to keep her alive. The child's uncle, J. D. Pyeatl, said Karren somehow fell feet first into the abandoned well, dug at her parents' farm in the bottom of a trench silo. Dr. W. E. Seba of Leedey, Okla., said the nameless, part-collie dog, recently abandoned at the farm of Karren's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Aubra Daniels, discovered the child.

Complications In Congress Follow Crew Haircut

WASHINGTON (UP)—After five years of prodding by his wife, Rep. John J. Rhodes got a crew haircut, and it's making life in Congress more complicated. The Arizona Republican told his constituents in a letter the trouble is another freshman Republican Rep. Joseph F. Holt (R-Calif.) also has a crew haircut. Even before Rhodes got his haircut, the two congressmen looked enough alike to be frequently mistaken for each other. Now it's worse. Rhodes recently raised some questions on the House floor about a pending bill. Reporters duly recorded his remarks in the Congressional Record, and attributed them to Holt. "I have informed Congressman Holt that if he will just remain silent during the rest of the session, I will make a terrific record for him in Congress," Rhodes said.

New Canadian Election Ahead

OTTAWA (UP)—Governor General Vincent Massey dissolved the 21st Parliament today and an election campaign to name a new House of Commons on Aug. 10 began. It will be the nation's 22nd general election since confederation in 1867. Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent, 71, announced the election date Friday.

Liner Damaged In Collision At Sea

DOVER, England (UP)—The 24,215-ton liner Chusan, with 1,000 cruise passengers aboard, limped to port today after suffering heavy damage in a collision with the freighter Prospecter. The collision in the English Channel Friday night caused no known casualties, but each of the two British ships was badly damaged.

Unclaimed Money Awaits Attention Of Leaf Growers

If you are a tobacco farmer and still have not received returns for 1947-49 crops sold on the stabilization cooperative plan, there may be a check waiting for you in Raleigh. Many members of the Flue Cured Tobacco Cooperatives Stabilization Corporation failed to receive their distribution checks due to incorrect address, address changes and other reasons, the Raleigh organization has reported. As a public service gesture and in cooperation with the corporation's request, the Daily Reflector will publish in several installments names of this area's farmers for whom checks still are being held. If your name is on the list, you should write immediately to the Stabilization Corporation, P.O. Box 2718, Raleigh, and include the following information: (1) Identification card (2) Pink Agreement and Receipt. If you don't have the above, send as much of the following as possible: (1) Copies of warehouse bills for the years 1947, 1948, 1949 (2) Copies of settlement memorandums describing tobacco delivered to the Stabilization Corporation for the years in question. (3) Marketing quota number for the years in question (4) Your correct name and address; and (5) Names of landlord or tenant for the years in question. (The first listing of several to be published in this paper is as follows: Willie Ackline, Bethel; Sam Adams, Greenville; Tommy Adams, Greenville; Adolphus Adkins, Ayden; W. Adkinson, Greenville; W. Nimitz Daughter Said Planning Enter Convent

BERKELEY, Calif. (UP)—The youngest daughter of retired Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz today was reported planning to enter a Roman Catholic convent. But Mary Manson Nimitz' parents said at their home here they did not want to confirm or deny the report. "I'm sorry someone broke the story," Nimitz said. The famed admiral added that he wanted to do "all he can to protect my daughter's privacy." The 21-year-old girl who will be graduated from Stanford University as an honor student tomorrow, reportedly joined the Catholic church shortly after entering Stanford. Her parents are Protestants.

Bolivia Will Pay In Mine Seizures

WASHINGTON (UP)—Bolivia has notified the United States that American stockholders will be compensated fully for the nationalized Patino mines. Ambassador Victor Andrade told the State Department yesterday the Patino mining enterprises had agreed to this after lengthy negotiations with the La Paz government.

Lightning, Hail, Flooding Creeks Over State Costly Damage By Storms

RALEIGH (UP)—A series of violent thunderstorms swept damage-dealing lightning, hail and torrential rains across North Carolina before dawn today. A freight train was derailed near Roxboro after a flooding creek washed out the Norfolk and Western Railway tracks. Lightning struck and set afire a three-story brick building on the Shaw University campus here, doing damage estimated at $25,000. Another fire, of undetermined origin—possibly lightning—almost destroyed the Pilot Mills plant here. Reports of damage mounted hourly. Most of the state felt the storms, many of them severe. Severe but local hail storms damaged crops in a number of counties. In addition there were reports of high winds that damaged farm buildings and toppled trees and power lines. A power failure forced radio station WRXO off the air at Roxboro. Teletype communications to newspapers and radio stations in Eastern North Carolina were interrupted. Southern Bell Telephone Co. reported delays up to eight hours on long distance calls in Eastern North Carolina because of damaged circuits. Several inches of rain deluged Person and Vance counties. Marlowe's Creek at Roxboro poured out of its banks. Several homes were reported flooded at Longhurst, north of Roxboro. The same creek washed out the N & W tracks at two places near Longhurst. Nineteen cars of a 37-car southbound freight were derailed and piled up. No one was injured.

High Winds And Some Hail Hit Portion Of Pitt's Leaf Fields

FALKLAND—A severe rain and hail storm lashed the farm lands around this Pitt County Community early this morning causing unestimated destruction. Early reports received this morning indicated that strong winds accompanied by hail struck in the area around Falkland causing damage to the 1953 tobacco crop. Most of the damage was believed to have been caused by the high winds which came with the driving rain and electrical storm which struck around 1:00 a. m. this morning. Farms reported to have been hit by the storm were J. P. Stancil, Ralph Stokes, K. R. Wooten and Rufus Harris along with the King farm. One eye-witness to the storm, J. P. Stancil, described it as being "the worst that has struck in our section." Stancil said that the heavy down-pour of rain flooded the highways and caused several vehicles to become stalled. While some tobacco was broken by the hail pellets, it was generally believed that the majority of the damage was caused by the high wind. Whether or not the new crop would be seriously damaged by the wind was not yet known. Fields were reported blown down as well as the corn crop, which was enjoying a good growing season prior to the storm. Water was covering many of the fields, preventing farmers from getting into the fields and setting up blown tobacco. Many farmers were attempting to ditch their farm lands this morning in an effort to drain off the excess rain fall. A check over the county seemed to indicate that the Falkland section was the only part of the County which was hard hit by the storm of last night and this morning. Most areas reported having received a heavy rain fall, which was needed, and reports of high winds along with the rain. From the Stokesstown community came a report that the storm only touched there briefly and hardly enough rain fell to wet the ground.

HAIL AND WIND—A storm last night lashed out at the farm land around Falkland and leveled many fields of tobacco. Most of the damage was reported from high winds, and there was some hail damage. The picture above was taken in Russell Harris' field. (Photo by J. P. Stancil)

Audience Of Several Hundred Hears Recital By Harper Darden Of ECC

Harper Darden of Greenville, tenor, sang Thursday evening of this week at East Carolina College before an audience of several hundred people from the campus and the city of Greenville. The young singer is a former student at East Carolina and a recent graduate in music of the Richmond Professional Institute in Virginia. The recital won the approval of those present; and both applause and comments indicated appreciation of Mr. Darden's pleasing and well-trained voice, his varied choice of selections, and his artistic interpretation of songs included on the program. Erving Covert of Sanford, N.C., pianist, was accompanist. He is a junior at the Richmond Professional Institute. Mr. Darden's selections Thursday included five groups of numbers sung in Italian, French, German, and English. Opening numbers were the popular "O Del Mio Amato Ben" by Donaudy and works by Respighi and other composers. Operatic arias, which won enthusiastic applause, were "Che Gelida Manina" from Puccini's "La Boheme" and "Le Reve" from Massenet's

Miss Agnes R. Walters' engagement to James A. Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Jones of Charlotte is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Walters. The wedding will take place June 19th at 8 o'clock, at the Sycamore Hill Baptist Church.

GOD'S MASTERPIECE? The Church is the greatest labor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual riches. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For the sake of his community and nation. (3) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to Bible study. Miss Peggy Jane Brown Is Wed To Edward Stevens

Miss Peggy Jane Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Richard Brown, was married Wednesday, June 10th, in the First Methodist Church of Randleman, to Edward Amos Stevens, of Tarpon, Springs, Florida, and Chapel Hill, son of the late Dr. and Mrs. Amos Henry Stevens of Fairmont, West Virginia.

Reverend S. B. Biggers, pastor, and Reverend David Swain, appointed missionary to Japan, officiated at the ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, and had, as her Matron of Honor, Mrs. David J. Simons of Waco, Texas. Her other attendants were Mrs. Alan R. Perry of Chapel Hill, Mrs. Charles Collins of Greensboro, Mrs. George A. Stevens of Boston, Massachusetts, and Miss Mary Alice Howard of Greenville.

The bridegroom had his brother, George A. Stevens of Boston, Massachusetts, as his best man. Another brother of the groom, David A. Stevens, also of Boston, Massachusetts, ushered with Charles Collins of Greensboro, Charles Shelton of Mayfield, Kentucky, and Curtis Coleman of Winston-Salem, all fraternity brothers of the groom.

Music was furnished by Mrs. W. M. Richardson of Randleman and Miss Barbara Bone of Nashville, North Carolina.

The bride wore a floor length gown of Chantilly lace with long sleeves, high neckline and a three tiered skirt. Her fingertip illusion veil was caught to a cap of lace. The family pearls, belonging to the grandmother of the bride, were worn by Miss Brown. In her hands she carried a white orchid on a white ribbon.

Her attendants wore floor length gowns of yellow net with lace bodices. Around their shoulders were small capes of yellow lace to match the gowns. In their hands they carried bouquets of deep red Hapi-pines roses adorned with moss green-ribbon.

The bride's flower girl, Sally Elizabeth, three, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Cody of St. Louis,

After a trip the couple will reside in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, when Mr. Stevens will become Ensign Stevens with the United States Navy.

Mr. Stevens attended and was graduated from in June, 1952, the University of North Carolina, at Chapel Hill. While there, he was a member of the Chi Psi Fraternity, the Order of the Golden Fleece, and drum major of the University band.

He has been licensed to preach by the North Carolina Conference of the Methodist Church and plans to study for the Methodist ministry after separation from the service in three years.

Miss Brown attended Womens' College, U. N. C., in Greensboro for two years then was graduated from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill in June, 1952. For the past year she has been the Director of Christian Education of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church of Greenville.

Opera-Comedy Offered Here Monday Evening

Alfred Medinets, baritone, and Geraldine Leslie, soprano, are two of the attractive and talented young singers who will have roles in the Menotti opera-comedy "The Old Maid and the Thief" when it is given at East Carolina College Monday evening, June 15. The performance is scheduled for 8 o'clock in the Austin auditorium. The public is invited to attend free of charge.

The Comic Opera Players of New York, with David Shapiro as musical director, will appear on the campus in the Menotti work under the auspices of the college Entertainment Committee. The four singers in the cast are all young professionals with experience in the musical fields of concert, opera, radio, and television.

Madeleine Vose, mezzo-soprano, has the role of the old maid. Medinets sings the part of Bob, a visitor; Virginia Copeland, soprano, and Miss Leslie are cast, respectively, as the housemaid Laelita and Miss Finkerton, a friend.

The opera presents a story in a small town of the United States and will be sung in English. Gian-Carlo Menotti, who wrote both words and music of "The Old Maid and the Thief," has won great popularity through his operas. His "The Telephone," was recently sung here at the Greenville Music Club. "Amahl and the Night Visitors" was televised during the Christmas holidays and later, and was a chief attraction among holiday programs.

Presbyterian Women Have General Meeting

The general meeting of the Women of the First Presbyterian Church was held Monday evening, June 7th at eight o'clock in the Church parlor.

Mrs. Howard Moye, Vice-President, presided in the absence of the president, and opened the meeting with a hymn "Oh! Zion Haste," followed by prayer by Mrs. E. W. Harvey.

Mrs. I. B. Koonce was in charge of the Devotional and read verses from Deuteronomy and Mark.

Minutes of the last meeting were read and approved, and after a short business session, Mrs. Chas. Horne introduced two visitors, Miss Frances Martin and Miss Mildred Mallard of Alabama who are doing Sunday School extension work in Grifton and other places near Greenville.

Miss Mallard gave a most interesting and informative program, her subject, "My Church Fosters Her Home," or could mean "The Church in Thy House."

"Through Paul's letters we learn that Churches had their beginning in homes, as early Christians considered heretics studied, prayed and worshipped daily in homes having definite days of Prayer on Sunday, the Lord's Day.

"There was no formality in these meetings in homes, young children as well as parents were welcome until Elders and Deacons were elected from these cottage Prayer Meetings."

Miss Mallard stressed the importance of family altars as a definite means toward early Christian training for children. She asked, "Do young parents realize their responsibilities when they take the vows of Baptism, and know what it means to keep these sacred laws?" "Our relationship in most instances has a covered relationship with children."

In closing Miss Mallard stated that establishing Sunday Schools in different localities is the beginning of Churches.

After the delightful program the meeting was closed with the Mizpah Benediction.

News Of Boyd Memorial Church
The Women of Boyd Memorial Church met Tuesday night with Mrs. Grizell Whitehurst, with 17 present. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Hilda Holland. All repeated the Lord's Prayer, then Mrs. Verna Dickerson gave the devotional. The subject was "Things to Remember When Trouble Comes." At the end of the devotion, Mrs. Radford and Mrs. Lane gave a testimony on help they had received from God in time of trouble.

The meeting was then turned over to the chairman and some business was taken up, with some discussions on the building fund. The meeting closed with sentence prayers. Mrs. Whitehurst and her daughter, Mrs. Stokes, served delicious refreshments.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. Verna Dickerson on Tuesday night after the first Sunday. Every member is urged to come and bring a visitor.

GREENVILLE MANAGER AT INSURANCE MEETING

District representatives from North and South Carolina, Virginia and Georgia were here. Director of Training Walter M. Adams presided over the three-day conference. President O. F. Stafford and other company executives were there.

Miss Joyce Day Becomes Bride Of J.E. Hudson

Miss Joyce Elaine Day, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Day of Greenville, became the bride of James Ernest Hudson of Hendersonville and Spartanburg, S. C., at 11 a. m. Tuesday, May 26.

The Rev. W. W. Wainmaker officiated at the double ring ceremony at Trinity Methodist Church in Spartanburg, S. C.

The chancel of the church was decorated with palms and baskets of white gladioli. Seven-branched candelabras held white tapers.

Wedding music was presented by Miss Bette Hannah of Converse College and Waynesville, N. C., organist, and Miss Sara Cooper of Converse College and Atlanta, Ga., soloist. Miss Cooper sang "How Do I Love Thee," Lippe and "Through the Years," Youmans.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Miss Jerre King of Gannt's Quarry, Ala., was maid of honor.

Ernest Hudson of Hendersonville was his son's best man. Ushers were Charles T. Day, Jr., of Greenville, Stuart Shufford and Henry Sims II of Columbia and Oren R. Judy, Jr., of Spartanburg.

The bride wore a ballerina-length gown of chantilly lace over satin fashioned with a fitted bodice and a high neckline with lace collar. She wore a short veil of French illusion attached to a scalloped bonnet of lace. She carried a white Bible topped with a white orchid.

The bride's parents entertained at a reception in the social hall of the church after the ceremony. Sandwiches, punch, wedding cake and nuts were served.

For the wedding trip south the bride wore a navy blue shantung suit with matching hat and white accessories. She wore a white orchid corsage.

Mrs. Hudson attended Fassfern School for Girls in Hendersonville and graduated Monday from Converse College.

The Bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Hudson of Hendersonville attended Hendersonville High School and in 1951 graduated from Wofford College. He is now athletic director at the South Carolina School for the Deaf at Cedar Spring.

The couple will live in Spartanburg.

Plummer-Roebuck Wedding Held Here Saturday
The marriage of Miss Elizabeth Annette Roebuck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lemuel McCoy Roebuck of Greenville to Mr. Harry Lee Plummer, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lee Plummer of Norfolk, Va., and Astoria, N. Y., was solemnized at Immanuel Baptist Church at 10 o'clock Saturday morning, June 13. The Rev. J. A. Nelson officiated.

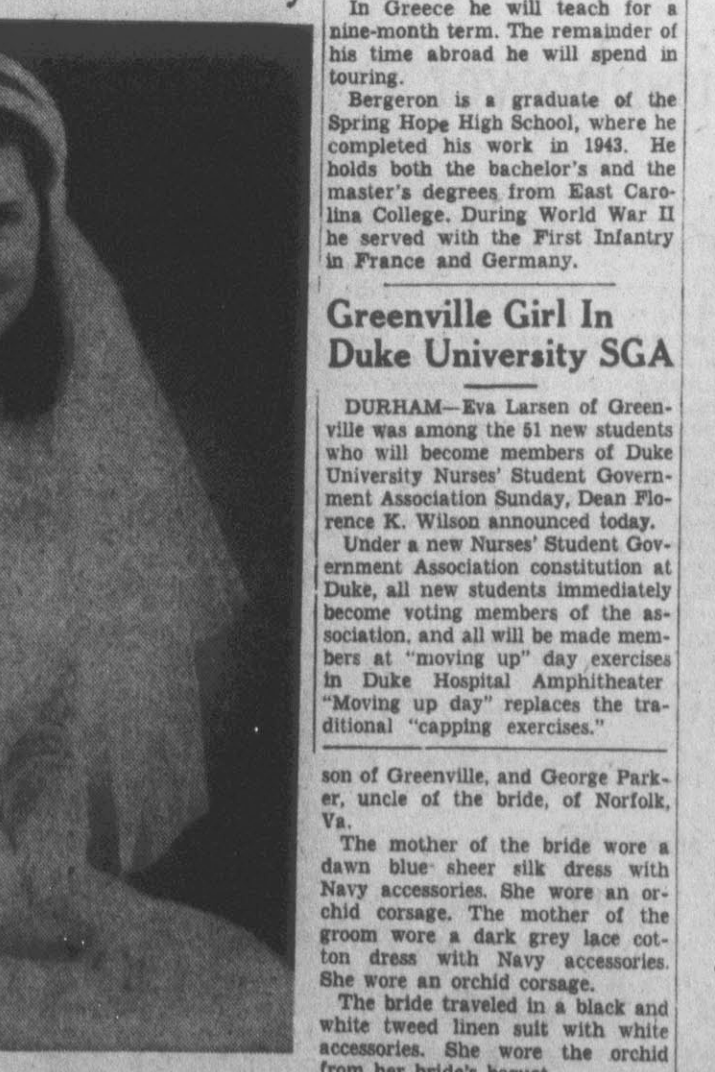

Prior to the ceremony Mrs. Hubert C. Haynes, organist, presented a program of wedding music. She played "Love Song" by Nevin, "If I Could Tell You" by Firestone, "Nocturne in A" by Brahms, "Still As The Night" by Carl Bahm, "Angels Serenade" was played during the ceremony.

Mrs. Jarvis Beaman of Greenville was soloist. She sang, "All for You" by Bertrand - Brown and "Because" by Edward Geschenacher. The church was decorated with ferns, seven branched candelabra with white tapers and centered with white satin cross and baskets of white flowers.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father, Mr. L. M. Roebuck, who gave her in marriage. She wore a waits length gown of white chantilly lace and tulle over satin fashioned with a strapless bodice, very full lace skirt with tulle inserts, a basque lace jacket with stand up tulle collar and long sleeves tapering to calla points over the hands. Her two tier veil of French illusion was arranged from a matching lace and satin calot. She carried a bridal white Bible topped with a white orchid interspersed with lilies of the valley and satin streamers.

Miss Phyllis Lewis, cousin of the bride, was the maid of honor. She wore a waits length gown of pink lace and nylon net designed with a strapless lace bodice, lace stole and full net skirt over taffeta, matching headress and mitts. She carried a Colonial nosegay of green flowers and satin ribbon.

The bridesmaids, cousins of the bride, were Miss Shirley Whitfield of Hamilton, N. C. and Miss June Hathaway of Macleesfield, N. C. They wore Nile green gowns fashioned like that of the honor attendant. They carried a Colonial nosegay of pink flowers and satin ribbon. The bridegroom was attended by his cousin, Harry Combs of Long Island, N. Y. Ushers were Walter Lewis, H. L. Lewis, Jr., Walter Car-

Special Session Does Not Seem Necessary

A special session of North Carolina's General Assembly to reconsider legislation setting the election date on a $50,000,000 bond issue for schools seems uncalled for.

Speculation that Governor Umstead might call such a session of the legislature has been spreading throughout the state since the United States Supreme Court announced it would issue no ruling on the school segregation issue until after more hearings this fall.

It is true that when the legislation setting the bond election this year was passed by the General Assembly, it was thought the Supreme Court's decision on the school question would be handed down this spring.

Nevertheless, it does not seem necessary to wait until after the high court decision before the question of the bond issue is decided.

Schools are urgently needed by many counties which will profit most by the $50,000,000 bond issue. Certainly their need for schools will not be altered by a Supreme Court decision. Neither will the obligation of the state government to help provide schools for individual communities be altered by a high court decision.

To be sure, there is a possibility that the decision of the Supreme Court could radically alter the public education picture in North Carolina. But even if the school bond issue is brought to a vote this year, the decision will be known before any of the money from the $50 million bond issue could be spent. The expenditure of the funds, even if the bond issue is past will be

Rain Brightened Pitt's Agricultural Picture

Things are looking up in Pitt County's agricultural picture.

A week ago — before the slow rain which fell — many farmers and others in the county were getting a little blue about the condition of the crops because of the dry weather. Mental pictures of last years rain-starved crops, were beginning to form in their minds once more.

After the soaking rains which covered most of the county, however, smiles have been more plentiful around Pitt County. The crops have grown rapidly this week, and the fall outlook has brightened with the growth.

For the most part, crops now, the experts say, are looking as well in this section as they have in several years. With the new growth here has come new hope that the fall of 1953 in Pitt County will be much more prosperous than the fall a year ago.

It is still too early to count the dollars while the crops are still growing in the field; but it is apparent that last week's rain helped morale in Pitt equally as much as it did the growing crops.

'Brass' Reaction To Eisenhower

Every Saturday this veteran Washington correspondent devotes his column to answering readers' questions of general interest on national and international policies and personalities. Questions may be sent to Ray Tucker at 8308 Hillcrest Place, Chevy Chase, Md.

WASHINGTON—In view of the Vandenberg-Wilson row over cuts in Air Force appropriations, asks a retired colonel who requests that even his initials and residence not be published, "what do my former colleagues think of the first military man in the White House since General Ulysses S. Grant?"

Answer: This is a tough one, for it embraces a more serious question than personalities alone. It touches the problem of both civilian and military responsibility toward national welfare and security.

INEVITABLE ANTI-BRASS REACTION—The higher echelons feel that they have had a tough break since the end of World War II, although they realize that there is always an anti-brass reaction after every costly conflict.

Truman cut defense appropriations as low as $13 billion a year before Korea. Their natural desire for an all-out offensive in Korea has been blocked by diplomatic and political considerations. They are extremely unhappy, and feel they are unappreciated.

MILITARY WERE DIVIDED IN ELECTION—The military were divided in the Eisenhower-Stevenson campaign. Some preferred Ike for personal and understandable reasons. Others did not relish the idea of a man who knew too much militarily in the White House. Still another element noted that, if a professional soldier failed as President, it would reflect on his and their profession.

Ike's colleagues, or at least the majority, believe that he has cut too deep into the defense budget, especially the aerial arm. As I forecast some weeks ago, now that they are about to quit office, Eisenhower's comrades on the Joint Chiefs of Staff are willing to sputter their grievances to the Senate Armed Services Committee. Generals Omar N. Bradley and J. Lawton Collins agree with "Vandy" in all par-left in the hands of a capable group which must approve any expenditure before it is made.

North Carolina's need for additional school facilities is not going to remain stationary until the Supreme Court hands down its decision. The needs will continue to grow, and the longer the state delays in supplying these needs, the greater penalty will be placed upon the children who are seeking an education through the public school system.

The pending Supreme Court decision is indeed of vital importance to every state—particularly the Southern states—but the states can ill afford to let their program remain at a standstill while the decision is awaited.

Honors To Deserving North Carolinians

A number of well deserved honors have been bestowed upon editors W. Horace Carter and Willard G. Cole for the fight of their respective newspapers against the Ku Klux Klan in Columbus County.

Not only have they been honored in their own Columbus County, but they have received the Pulitzer Prize, and their most recent recognition came in the form of the annual award of the Sidney Hillman Foundation for outstanding newspaper reporting.

When these two editors took up the fight against the Ku Klux Klan in their home county, they probably had no thoughts of awards or recognition. They were battling against a form of terrorism which was threatening to hold sway in their communities.

These two men are due a great deal of the credit for the state-wide fight against Klan activities which resulted in the conviction of more than four score members of the KKK, and the virtual stamping out of the Ku Klux Klan in North Carolina.

The fight of last year is over now. The threat of terrorism for the moment has been put down so far as Klan activities are concerned. But the intrigue of terrorism; the goals of tyranny which are served by it are still at large throughout the nation and the world.

Every now and then, it can be expected that terrorism in one form or another will rear its head and be used by men to seek their ignoble goals. The leadership of Cole and Carter provided the impetus to put terrorism down the last time it threatened to get out of hand in the state, if it ever appears again in North Carolina, we hope a similar calibre of men will come forward to lead the battle for justice and law and order.

Some Big Prize Dreams Crashed

Badger Johnson of Flanagan Buggy Company won a national contest sponsored by Kelvinator by writing in 25 words or less "I like a Kelvinator range because . . . Of course it could have been a room air conditioner or refrigerator or something else, for Badger filled in several blanks.

The first prize was $1,000 in cash or a trip to some resort. The dealer who explained the appliance to the winner of the first prize, so that the contestant in turn could fill in the blank, was to get a $500 cash prize.

Badger took his check and letter of congratulations from Kelvinator to the local dealer, Appliance Sales and Sporting Goods Corporation. "Look," he said, "I won the first prize in the Kelvinator contest, $1,000!"

Ed Tipton, his wife Rosemond, and Earl Fisher immediately jumped Badger for details, because it could have been any one of them who would receive the $500. Badger juggled their names around in filling in the blanks.

Sure enough, Badger had a letter from Kelvinator, congratulating him on winning $1,000. But here's the part of the story that he hadn't told Appliance Sales: When he received notice that he had won $5, not $1,000, he went across the street to the Kelvinator distributor, Carolina Sales, to show them the letter and $5 check. Ed Rawls Jr. said, "Let's have some fun with Appliance Sales."

By carefully using ink eraser and an eraser, the staff at Carolina Sales did an expert job of changing $5 to read $1,000 in the letter. "But don't bother my check," Badger said. "The Appliance Sales personnel fell for the joke 100 per cent. Badger almost felt ashamed when he had to tell them that the prize was only $5, and there were about 300 such prizes given throughout the country."

"I showed the letter to my wife," Badger said, "and I had to calm her down fast. 'He didn't say it, but Jean had the $1,000 spent before he could tell her it was all a joke.'"

Not only did this give a few people a big laugh, but it proves that there are winners to these big contests that you see advertised so extensively.

And I thank Badger. JACK EDWARDS

What Other Editors Are Thinking

CALIFORNIA LEGISLATURE PROPER RESPONSIBILITY ON GOVERNMENT 'SECRECY'

(Hartford County Herald)
Over on the west coast, the state of California has just put North Carolina to shame over this question of secrecy in governmental affairs and the meetings of governmental bodies.

While the North Carolina General Assembly was passing its "secrecy" bill, a measure that bars citizens and newspapermen, think you) from deliberations of its committees, members of the Assembly offered all kinds of justification for the law. Among the justifications was one that said such secrecy was a "traditional right" of governmental bodies. All that is, of course, pure nonsense. Here is what the California legislators have to say about the preamble and policy section of a law just enacted in California which requires open meetings of local governmental bodies and requires 24-hours notice to be given for such meetings, including special called meetings.

Says the California bill: "In enacting this chapter, the Legislature finds and declares that the public commissions, boards, and councils in this state exist to aid in the conduct of the people's business. It is the intent of this law that their actions be taken openly AND

THAT THEIR DELIBERATIONS BE CONDUCTED OPENLY (capitals are ours).

"The people of this state do not yield their sovereignty to the agencies which serve them. The people, in delegating their authority, do not give their public servants the right to decide what is good for them to know and what is not good for them to know. The people insist on remaining informed so that they may retain control over the instruments they have created."

The California assembly correctly stated the case for the people's right to know what goes on in the meetings of governmental and legislative groups.

Gov. Umstead Won't Be Rushed On Appointments

By LYNN NISBET
GOVERNOR — Newsman got very little real news out of their latest conference with Governor Umstead. The Governor was in fine fettle, he responded readily to every question, but in many instances his replies did not give definite answers. His attitude might be described as courteous, congenial but non-committal. That is so far as specific information was concerned.

He succeeded in making clear that he did not intend to let himself be stampeded into making hasty appointments, and that he is more interested in getting the right men for the jobs than in satisfying the impatience of job-seekers and the public.

DEADLINE — He reminded reporters that he has pretty well caught up with most of the boards and commissions required by statute to be appointed earlier than the present date, and that in all cases except the Superior Court special judges the incumbents hold over until their successors are qualified. There is an absolute deadline of midnight June 30 on special judges, and the Governor said he would have some appointments before that time. He added he was not sure whether he would appoint the full authorized quota of 12 at first or wait until the heavier court dockets came in the fall to name some of them if they were deemed to be needed then. He clearly indicated, without making specific promise, that he would have a director and a 15-member board of Conservation and Development before June 30.

TREASURER — In answer to a direct question, the Governor said Brandon Hodges is still treasurer, and he did not know how long that condition would maintain. Hodges resigned several weeks ago and asked to be relieved as of June 1. Governor Umstead issued a statement accepting the resignation with sincere regret, but leaving the effective date open. As of the time this item is being written the date is still wide open.

DIVERSIFIED — The Governor mentioned the wide range of duties imposed upon the treasurer in addition to the functions of the primary office. Statutory ex-officio membership on important boards and commissions gives the treasurer a wide range of service. He is chairman of the banking commission, the local government commission, the teachers and state employees retirement system and the local government employees retirement system; member of the council of state, the board of buildings and grounds, the board of education, the board of assessments and the board of tax review—to mention the more important sideline obligations. The Governor has found a lot of diversity, too, in the method prescribed by statute for appointment of other top level administrative officials. Some are named by the boards with executive approval, some by the Governor from nominees of various professional, and technical organizations, and some by the Governor on his own complete responsibility.

DETAIL — Governor Umstead has a reputation for meticulous attention to detail, and he told newsmen Thursday he was trying to meet statutory specifications in his appointments. He said he had discovered that sometimes in the past these specifications had not strictly observed. He did not say but it is fact, that in at least two instances his own appointments have not followed the letter of the statutes. The utilities commission at his request named a chief clerk who cannot comply with requirements for knowledge and experience in subject matters likely to come before the commission. Prior to that he had named and had sworn in a director of civilian defense without consulting any member of the civilian defense council, although the law says the council shall name the director subject to approval of the Governor. Similar lack of strict adherence to the letter of the law has been the custom for many years by chief executives, and has little real significance so long as the designated functions of the officers are adequately performed.

IN ORDER — The Governor said he was dealing with matters as they arise and as they seem to require attention for the smooth running of state government machinery. For that reason he declined to comment on what might be his attitude with respect to salaries of officials yet to be appointed. He voiced regret that the U.S. Supreme Court had not rendered a decision in the school segregation cases, and admitted that lack of definite decision there had some bearing on the probable date of the election on the question of $50 million for State aid to school house construction. He said he had given no consideration to the idea of a separate election on a different date for the $22 million mental hospital bonds. The Legislature authorized in separate acts the two elections, but it had been generally assumed they would be held on the same day.

DOUBT — Meanwhile there is apparently growing belief that a lot of work will have to be done to put over either or both of the bond issues. Along with that developing sentiment there is increasing criticism of "General

Imitation Mines Soon

By ELMER ROESSNER
Imitation uranium "mines" may soon appear in large cities. They may be built, not as sources of material for atomic weapons, but for the treatment of diseases.

Several real uranium mines in the West are being visited by streams of men and women who say that they are thereupon cured of arthritis, bursitis and other chronic diseases. But the first synthetic "tunnels" are operating at Picacho, Ariz.

His wife visited a man working in the White Oaks uranium mine near Nogales, Ariz., and after waiting in the shaft several times, said she was cured of arthritis. She persuaded a long-suffering friend to take the "treatment" and she, too, felt better. News spread by word of mouth and soon hundreds of persons a day were visiting the mine.

There wasn't much room in the mine, so the owners built four tunnel-like structures at Picacho and lined the floor, walls and ceiling with uranium ore. Hundreds of people a week now visit the tunnels, paying a fee for four bakings in them.

The mining company is careful to make no claims for the curative powers of uranium ore, but they do point out that thousands of persons have said that they have been cured of a long series of diseases, including asthma, rheumatism, calcified joints and skin afflictions. No sexual rejuvenations have been reported as yet. There is no danger of radiation.

Mine officials say they do not know how cures are worked and they say they hope the medical profession and the government will find out. They surmise that radon gas, given off by decomposing uranium, in some way stimulates cells and glands of the body and that the body thereupon cures itself.

Most doctors are skeptical of the results claimed and suggest that any improvements are psy-chomatic — in short, they are faith cures. Officials at the Picacho tunnels, however, point to the case of a man suffering from a skin ailment. He was positive visiting the tunnels would do no good and, when he left, his affliction was no better. But shortly after his return home to Las Vegas, he had to stop saying, "I told you so." The ailment had disappeared.

The tunnels in Arizona and uranium mines at Boulder, Mont., are at considerable distance from large population centers. Hence, it is likely that some enterprisers will be transporting ore to cities and erecting "mines" and "tunnels" there. Unless, of course, further research shows that uranium ore and radon gas have no more curative powers than faith itself.

$5 BILLION STORE

MODERNIZATION COMING
Five billion dollars will be spent this year in modernizing and expanding retail outlets, the Store Modernization Institute announced after a survey made in connection with its show this week in Madison Square Garden, New York. Supermarkets will lead in expenditures, closely followed by nonfood chains. A large part of the spending will be in suburban shopping centers.

INTEREST IN WOOD

FROM CHIPS RISES
American manufacturers are showing interest in a number of European processes by which chips of waste wood are bonded with resins under heat and pressure to produce cores for plywood, panels and other articles not usually made of plain old-fashioned tree wood.

These processes have been developed in Germany, Switzerland and England, where wood is scarcer than here. While most processes use the batch method, at least two use a continuous production process.

Some Days, One Feels 'Low'

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Do you ever know days when your backbone feels like a piece of wet spaghetti?

Days when, if you order a hot dog for lunch, the joint is fresh out of mustard? Days when your ear is deaf to the call of duty? Days when your job seems as dull as an old B-grade movie, run backwards on a grainy television screen?

Everyone knows such days. Yes, even in the romantic, glamorous, exciting newspaper field, in which you "meet such interesting people." There are days when a reporter finds the doorknobs he puts his hand to have more warmth than the people he meets after he opens the doors.

(Editor's note: Stop it, Boyle. Our society editor has broken down crying, and one of our copy boys has red eyes and is murmuring, "Life, Life, What is Life?")

Well, what can a guy or girl do on those days when all the jokes are stale, and what you have to do seems as tasteless as the things a husband finds in the refrigerator after his wife has gone away on vacation?

One thing you can do is think how you might feel if you had the other fellow's job in his dull or hopeless moments. For example, how would you like to be:

A tired housewife, who has been wiping little rummy noses all day and is greeted at dusk by her Prince Charming: "What! Not macaroni and cheese for dinner again?"

Or a professional dogcatcher, whose small boy's pet pooch runs away and the kid looks at his dad accusingly, as if the old man had turned in the dog at the pound just to build up his record for the month?

Or a bum who picks a quarter from the pavement and finds it is counterfeit?

Or a mail carrier, who has packed a million letters for other people to read, and never in his life got the one letter he wanted himself?

Or a lonely soldier in an outpost on a nameless hill, waiting at twilight for the night to fall and the unseen enemy to come against him?

Or an elderly vaudeville juggler, throwing up Indian clubs and asking himself, "Why should a man of my age be tossing things like these in the air, and if I miss catching one two shows in a row I don't eat next week?"

Or a bank teller, who counts other people's money year after year while he lets his wife handle his own, and then finds she has wasted his meager life-savings by encouraging the wrong racehorses?

Or a straw boss, told to cut down his working force, who looks at the oldtimers around him and asks his heart, "how can I let any of them go?"

Or an old gray spoiled dog the day the family gets a bright new pink baby?

Yes, everybody has his bad or sad or useless days. But any day you feel bad, you are lucky in the fact that somebody somewhere, has a more terrible reason for feeling worse—and does feel worse.

How would you like to be a flag-pole sitter in a lightning storm?

(Editor's note: Thanks, Boyle, thanks. Our society editor has dried her tears. The copy boy is feeling better, too. He fell sound asleep reading your article.)

Makes Rag Dolls In Her Spare Time

By MURIEL SHOTWELL
Reflector Staff Writer

Because she did not own a doll as a child, a 71-year-old widow now spends many evenings making rag dolls just to give away to children who do not possess the thing dearest to the young heart and to those who "just want one of M. J. Forrest's dolls."

Mrs. Hannah Forrest of Greenville is one of those persons with an unusual talent who can pick up a few scraps of old material, some lace and hair-ribbons and in one evening's time turn out an enchanting rag doll, possibly loved more by children than those made of bisque and dressed in satin.

Mrs. Forrest began her interesting and unselfish hobby last winter when she could not get out much. She sat through several long winter evenings without anything to do; then it occurred to her to start a hobby to make the night pass by quickly and at the same time make her hobby one that others could share, especially children.

Equipped with old scraps of rags, and bits of lace and material from clothes dating back to the late 1800's, Mrs. Forrest began on her unusual hobby without even a pattern to go by; just ideas, a thought for the younger members of the neighborhood, and deft hands.

The creations by Mrs. Forrest are entirely by hand, even from the tiny multi-colored crocheted hats that sit saucily on top of the heads, brunettes, and blondes, to the lace underclothes and colored shoes.

The bed in one bedroom of Mrs. Forrest's home on Myrtle Avenue is covered with dolls, 17 of them now. She estimates that she's made about 30 dolls in all, having given them away to children in the neighborhood and to children who want and love dolls but whose parents haven't the means with which to buy them.

"If I found a child who didn't have a doll, I'd give them one or sit down and make the kind the child wanted," she emphatically said. The talented widow said as a child she did not have a doll and always said, that if she could, she'd provide dolls for children who did not have one.

As a young person Mrs. Forrest never did any kind of sewing and only last winter picked it up. However, making the dolls is the only kind of sewing she's interested in and in that, her family says, she really is interested.

Mrs. Forrest admitted that it only takes her a few hours to make a doll and make the clothes in which to dress it. "I can start a doll and make the clothes in which to dress it. I can start a doll and finish it in one evening without stopping," she said, "and I think I get the biggest kick out of making the dresses and dressing them. They still aren't exactly what I want, maybe by next winter I'll improve."

All of the dolls are dressed in material that is old. Mrs. Forrest said she did not buy anything to make the dolls or dress them. "It's all done around the house for a long time," she said. The dolls are complete with necklaces and earrings made from costume jewelry and most unusual about some of the dolls are that they have real hair.

Mrs. Forrest revealed that she has a friend who works in a beauty parlor and the friend saves all the tresses cut from women who prefer the short haircut. One of the dolls even wears hair that was once cut from Mrs. Forrest's head long ago, which she saved and has put to use.

Those little rag dolls who can not boast human hair have tops made of cast-off fur that serves the purpose just as much as real hair. The dolls' hair is set off with hats made by Mrs. Forrest and with bright hair-ribbons looped several times.

And each doll wears a facial expression of its own. The faces are not painted on the white material from which the dolls are made but show each careful stitch made by Mrs. Forrest's fingers—black thread for the eyes and nose and red thread for the mouths.

Mrs. Forrest, who also makes the dolls for her own enjoyment, said she is thinking about sending some of the dolls to orphanages where they can be enjoyed by children. "I love children and they come over here a lot. There is one child in the neighborhood who never leaves her rag doll behind but carries it with her everywhere she goes," said the "doll lady."

ONE OF HER FAVORITES—Mrs. Hannah Forrest holds one of her favorite rag dolls which has fur for hair and a bow of ribbon sitting saucily atop its head. Mrs. Forrest began making rag dolls last winter to make the evenings pass by more quickly and "to make children happy." (Reflector Photos by Roy Hardee)

ROWS AND ROWS OF THEM—Mrs. Forrest has given away more than half the dolls she made last winter, but even so, many remain... all propped up on a bed. All of the dolls are dressed differently, and some have real hair plaited and woven into many "hairstyles."

PRIM EXPRESSION—This doll, like the others, carries a facial expression all its own. In one evening's time, Mrs. Forrest, with rags and scraps of material, can whip up a doll that would delight any child.

TO KISS, OR KILL

Chapter 22

The dreary meal dragged to a close. Mandell was glad when it ended.

"Suppose," Mr. Ebbing suggested, "we have our coffee and liqueur in the music room."

Mandell felt slightly light-headed as he stood to pull back her chair. He had difficulty making his eyes focus. "Maybe I'd better ship the liqueur. That wine was stronger than I thought. I seem to have the start of a pretty good package."

Gale touched the scar tissue over his eye. "Don't be silly. I like you a little drunk. And stop talking like a prize fighter." She took the sting out of the words by wrinkling her nose at him.

Mandell grinned down at her. "Then I guess I'll have to stop talking."

"You do very well, Bernard," Mr. Ebbing complimented.

The music room was small. Small compared to the living room. It was at the back of the house, facing the lake. Just large enough to hold a concert grand piano, a combination phonograph-radio, a large cabinet television set, and assorted easy chairs and sofas and love seats with considerable space between.

Gale put half a dozen records on the player. "Or would you rather watch some program, Barney?"

Mandell shook his head. "Makes no difference to me, baby. I can take TV or leave it alone."

"I prefer to leave it alone," Ebbing said. He eased himself into a chair. "Did they have TV sets at the asylum, Bernard?"

Mandell's mouth felt hot. His head ached dully. He wished Gale and her father would forget the asylum. That was in the past. That was in the record book. He wanted to forget it if he could. "Yes, sir, they did, sir. Quite good ones."

He sat in a low easy chair and Gale promptly sat in his lap. "Anaisette for us, Andre. And don't forget Mr. Mandell likes strong coffee."

"No Mrs. Mandell," Andre said. Mandell watched Andre fill two

Reservist Unit Is Departing For 2 Weeks Of Training

Twenty-three members of the 3015 Army Reception Center, stationed in Greenville, depart Sunday morning for two weeks of summer field training at Fort Jackson, South Carolina.

An advance detail made up of Warrant Officer (jg) Clinton C. Joyner and Master Sergeant George H.W. Johnson, left Thursday to make preparations for the arrival of the unit on Sunday afternoon.

Members of the 3015 stationed in Greenville will leave at eight o'clock Sunday morning and are due in Fort Jackson around 4:15 that afternoon. According to present plans, the unit will return to Greenville on Saturday afternoon, June 27.

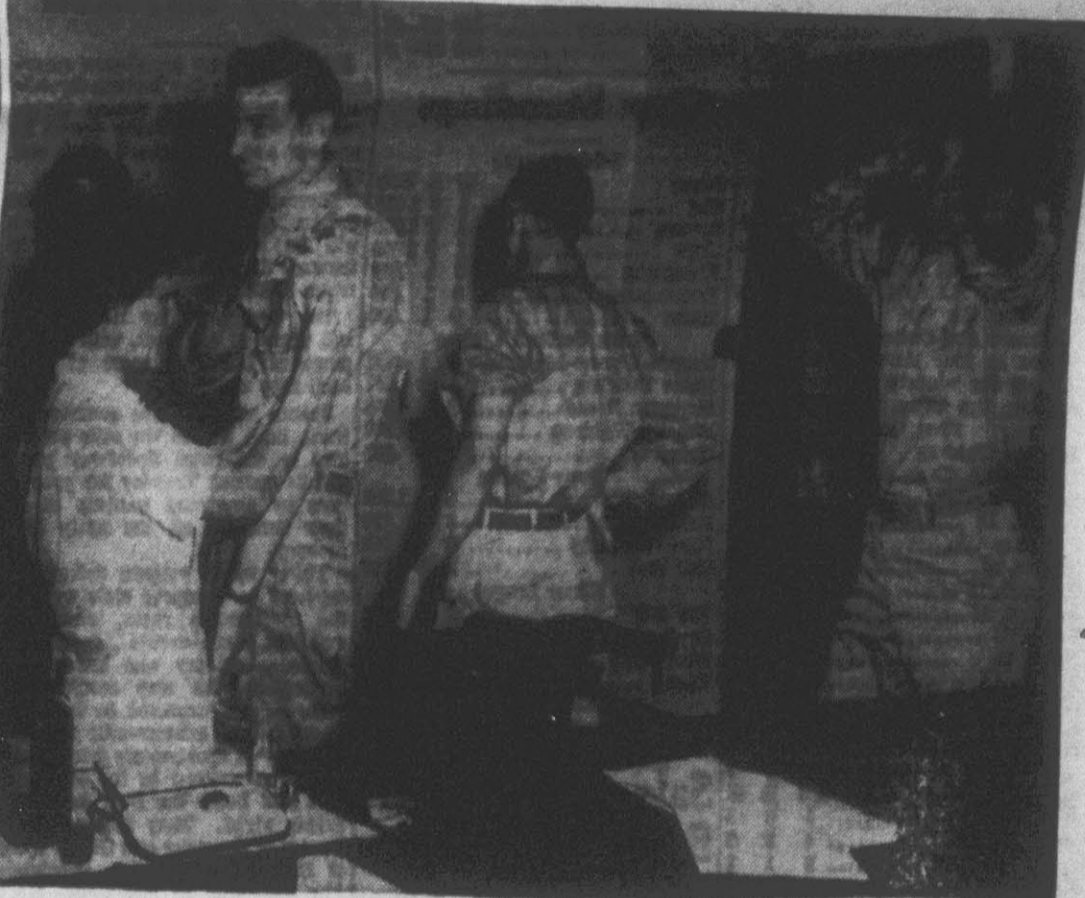

While at Fort Jackson the men will serve with the reception organization now operating at the post, processing draftees and returning from the Korean war. The men will receive "on-the-job training" in jobs which they would be called upon to handle in the event of mobilization.

The 3015 Reception center is commanded by Colonel Oakley Bealand of Wilson; Major James F. Davenport of Greenville is the unit commander.

Members of the 3015 who will leave Sunday, are: Major James Davenport; Captain Gordon R. Berry; Captain William E. Little; Captain Charles F. Terrell; Warrant Officer Harold E. Alder; Master Sergeant Robert W. Craft; Sergeant First Class Allen C. Hardee; Corporal Norman S. Edwards; Corporal Leroy Hardee; Corporal Carlton E. Hyman; Corporal William T. Jordan; Corporal Theodore E. Lupton, Jr.; Corporal Earl E. Rogers; Corporal Bob T. Smith; Corporal Robert L. Tripp; Corporal Clyde J. Warren; Privates first class Wilbur E. Edwards, Charles B. Allen, Johnnie M. Smith, Dalton W. Whitehurst and Joseph F. Whitehurst.

Corporal Bob T. Smith issues clothing to PFC Dalton Whitehurst of Bethel, while Cpl. Robert Tripp of Ayden awaits his turn. Men of the 3015 will leave for summer field training on Sunday morning for two weeks at Fort Jackson.

Reservists of the 3015 Reception Center, with headquarters in Greenville, are shown readying themselves for summer camp. Above, Sgt. Alton C. Now Is The Time To Act For Peace, Says Dr. Humber In Address To Ruritan Clubs

"Peace in our time is not impossible," and "it is not too late to think," is the opinion of Dr. Robert Lee Humber, international lawyer of Greenville.

"But," the widely-traveled world federation advocate added, "now is the midnight time for action."

His remarks were directed to members of the Factolus and Stokes Ruritan Clubs meeting jointly on invitation of the Factolus Club in the community building at Factolus Monday night.

The speaker, who has delivered talks on world government throughout the United States, went on to say that two types of regimes have been tried unsuccessfully by the peoples of the world over the last few centuries in their strivings for peace.

When the regime of Feudalism failed to satisfy man's desire for protection against destruction, unrest appeared, followed by what we have come to know as nationalism.

This type of regime, the speaker continued, has claimed allegiance of a lot of our world's peoples today, but he added that it likewise has failed to prove satisfactory as an agency for protecting the rights and safeguarding the security of the individual.

Of the two ways of bringing about stable order in community life, Dr. Humber said one has already been tried. But the strictly voluntary, non-compelling force of diplomacy, on which the League of Nations was built, was violated openly successively by Japan, Italy, and Germany.

Under diplomacy, the speaker pointed out, a nation in dispute has one of two alternatives—protest and surrender or fight.

Another way of establishing order however, he continued, is in law, and law that makes each in-

Lions Going To State Session

Six members of the Greenville Lions Club will leave today to attend the North Carolina State Lions Convention.

The three day session is being held this year in Asheville.

Club members making the trip include: Henry Swayne, Withers Harvey, Larry Averette, Jimmy Harris, George Wilkerson, and Jimmy Smith. The wives of the men will accompany them on the trip to the Western Carolina convention seat.

When a person is struck by lightning, he probably is hit first by an electrical charge traveling from the ground toward the charge descending from the clouds.

Lodge Observing Nat'l Flag Day

Greenville Lodge 646, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks will observe national "Flag Day" on the lodge lawn Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Judge Albion Dunn, exalted ruler, will officiate. Judge J.W.H. Roberts will deliver the oration. The public is invited to attend the exercises.

Experts say that a good farm water system must deliver from 300 to 600 gallons a day.

Sports Reflections

BY
Tommie Lupton

In this day and time major league managers will yank a pitcher from the game if he gets into the least bit of trouble. The reliever has to get the starters out of their holes. If a pitcher finishes a game, it is generally accepted that he must have done a fairly good job at his mound chores.

One fellow that has been tossing "fairly good games" is the Phillies' Robin Roberts, and he has been doing it for some time. Wednesday night the ace Phillie hurler went the distance for the twenty-second consecutive time in winning his tenth game of the present campaign.

The fellow from Philadelphia, who hasn't failed to finish a game since August 24, 1952, picked up his fourth straight victory in allowing the Chicago Cubs only seven hits. The first major league hurler to win 10 games this season, Roberts is well on his way to entering the 20-game circle which he has already reached three years in a row.

For the past three seasons he has won 20, 21, 28 games. His 28 games won last year earned him the title "Top Pitcher in the National League" and "Major League Player of the Year" from the Sporting News.

Tomorrow will probably be time for Roberts to pitch again, and we wish him the best of luck in that game and in reaching that 20-game circle once again.

from the Army, the lefty has racked up six shutouts and two one-run games among the wins. Already he is challenging Eastern League records held by Yankee star Allie Reynolds. Reynolds had 11 shutouts in a season in 1942 with Wilkes-Barre. Presently he is ahead of the 1.30 earned-run average set in the league by Boston Red Sox ace Mel Parnell. Kraly has a 1.25 average.

Guess how much the youthful hurler cost the Yanks. Remember when the Indians paid Billy Joe Davidson $125,000 to sign a contract? Well, the Yankees went out and inked this boy's signature for a measly $600—and everyone wonders how the Yankees keep winning pennants.

Milwaukee's Braves seem to be the fans' favorite in the National League. Charlie Grimm, the manager of the team, is the man who said the Braves would finish fifth this spring, but July Cholly has already revised his prediction. He now thinks his team is good enough to win the pennant this year as well as a few years to come, but he still says his chief ambition is to finish in the first division.

Followers of the Boston Red Sox were glad to hear the news of Ted Williams' intentions to return to the big show once he got his discharge from the Marines. Thumping Theodore's big bat would help the Lou Boudreau outfit considerably, and the splendid splitter can play a good outfield too.

His presence in the American League would help attendance in all the cities, for the colorful Ted would still draw the fans.

Breadmen, Milkmen Defeat Wagner-Waldrop, Granites

Three runs in the bottom of the sixth inning gave Southern Bread's Charlie Yates a 10-7 win over Wagner-Waldrop in the first game of the Men's Softball play at Rose Athletic Field last evening. Carolina Dairies routed the Granites 17-6 in the second contest.

Roger Mills, Gentry Porter, James McRoy, and Billy McRoy each had two hits to pace the Breadmen to victory in a see-saw battle. Wilderness on the part of the Wagner-Waldrop pitchers helped Southern Bread score the winning runs in the sixth.

Bobby Perry, with a homerun and a single, and Hal Edwards, with two singles, led the losers at bat.

Thirteen bases on balls enabled Carolina Dairies to wallop the Granites. The Dairies' Johnson allowed only six runs on seven hits in tossing the win.

Johnson and Cowan each had two singles in four times to the plate to pace the winners. Rausch homered for the losers.

Football Tickets Sale At Carolina Begins Tomorrow

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., June 13 (UP)—Season tickets for University of North Carolina 1953 home football games will go on sale tomorrow—two weeks before the tickets become available to the general public.

The Tar Heels, with new head Coach George Barclay and a reorganized staff, will play a rugged home schedule including Maryland, Tennessee, Notre Dame, North Carolina State and Washington and Lee.

ART ABOVE ALL
PERTH AMBOY, N. J. (UP)—Thieves broke into the Perth Amboy Rifle Club here but ignored a "sizeable amount" of cash in a small safe that could have been carried away. Instead they took some of the club's prized art work—12 pinup pictures.

Crawford Leads 9-4 Lion Victory Over Moose Team

Staton Strikes Out Six Moose In Two Innings, But Starter Aubrey Harrison Gains Credit For The Win

Aubrey Harrison, Charles Staton, and Charles Puryear combined their talents to hurl the Lions to a 9-4 win over the Moose in a Little League contest played yesterday afternoon at Elm Street Park.

Only two base-hits were gotten off the three Lion pitchers. Harrison pitched three innings, Staton two, and Puryear one, with Harrison gaining credit for the win. Staton fanned six Moose batters in the two innings that he pitched, but he was touched for two of their four runs.

Leading hitter for the contest was the Lions' Albert Crawford, who lashed out three singles in four trips to the plate. Ronald Riggs and Billy Stancil accounted for the Moose hits.

The Lions will be battling the Jaycees Monday afternoon at 8 o'clock at Elm Street Park.

Blue Devils Meet Lafayette Today In Tourney Game

OMAHA (UP)—Two-time NCAA baseball tournament winner Texas and Michigan, the Big 10 champion, battled unbeaten into the third round of three College World Series today.

The Longhorns showed a lot of Texas punch in disposing of spunky Lafayette College 7-3 Friday, and Michigan turned in an impressive 6-2 win over Boston College.

The Longhorns and the Wolverines, slightly favored after their first round wins Thursday, dominated the play Friday as class began to show through the intense heat.

Duke, which eliminated Colorado State 3-2, and Boston, meet at 2:30 p. m. Lafayette still a potent contender despite its loss to Texas, takes in rebounding Stanford at 6 p. m. Stanford ousted Houston from the meet Friday 7-6.

Duke called on the son of a famous ex-big leaguer, Bill Werber, to help the Blue Devils beat Colorado State. Werber doubled home one of the three big runs. Colorado fielder Dick Porter hit a home run.

Kittrell Heads Little League All-Star Squad

Bill Kittrell, manager of the Elks Little League team, was selected head of the Greenville All-Star team by managers of all the local squads at a meeting at Elm Street Park yesterday afternoon. Kittrell chose George McMillan his assistant and Johnny Foell his pitching coach.

Tournament rules were discussed by City Recreation Director Warren Carroll, who warned the managers that the Little League rules must be followed very strictly.

During the month of August Little League teams all over the nation will be holding tournaments. Six teams will be competing in the district tournament in Farmville during the week of August 3; eight squads in the state will meet in Greensboro the week of August 10 for the State Champion; eight groups will play in the Regional division the week of August 17; and the Little League World Series will get underway in Williamsport, Pa., the week of August 24.

President of the local Little League Dick Evans, stated that no action had been taken toward the selection of the All-Star team.

The Nobel prizes were first distributed in 1901.

Shad Climb Ladders On Neuse

Did you ever see a fish climb a ladder? Well, shad are doing just that on the Neuse River these days.

The fish don't climb hand-over-hand, naturally, but it's almost that simple.

A "fish ladder" is a series of stepped-down compartments in a dam connected by tiny openings through which fish may pass but through which a minimum of water escapes downstream. The same instinct that sends the shad upstream to spawn guides the fish through these tiny openings.

When Carolina Power & Light Company built a low dam across the Neuse River to recirculate water for its Goldsboro power plant, such a "fish ladder" was built into the dam. During high water, fish swim over the submerged dam, but during low water, they must "climb the ladder" to get past the structure.

The level of the Neuse is low now, and shad are climbing this ladder by the hundreds to reach upstream spawning grounds — to the delight of sportsmen and conservationists.

The U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service picked this CP&L fishway as the one point in North Carolina to be included in a coastwide shad investigation. G. B. Talbot of Beaufort, chief of the Middle Atlantic Fisheries Investigation, heads these investigations which seek to answer the question, "Why are Shad Diminishing?"

Studies completed on the Connecticut and Hudson Rivers, he said, show that fishermen are not allowing enough shad to escape commercial nets to spawn in sufficient quantity. Study on the Delaware River, Talbot added, shows that pollution in the Philadelphia-Camden area is reducing the shad population.

No Neuse River report has been made, but one conclusion has been reached: Shad DO USE the fishway near Goldsboro. This finding gratified the N. C. Wildlife Resource Commission because J. Harry Cornell, chief of its fish division, cooperated in designing the fishway, which cost CP&L an extra $30,000. Jack Dermid has shot movies showing shad climbing "the ladder" and these will go into a color film being produced by the Commission.

The Neuse fishway may become a model for future shad ladders on streams where shad spawning is encouraged.

In the middle of the 18th Century Sweden produced about a third of the world's iron.

Raleigh Track To Be Unveiled

RALEIGH—The brand-new quarter-mile track at the Raleigh Speedway will be unveiled Friday night, June 19, with seven flashy events in amateur and sportsmen's stock car racing.

Thereafter, such speed shows on the brilliantly-lighted asphalt track will be held each Friday night through the summer. Speedway Director Bill France announced today.

The weekly Friday night shows will begin at 8 o'clock, with a total purse of $1,500 or more at stake each race night.

France said the new quarter-mile track, built within the mile asphalt oval in the huge Speedway plant, will be opened Tuesday for practice runs by amateurs wanting to try their throttles on the natty little raceway.

Thirty to 40 veteran drivers are expected to compete each week in the sportsmen's races, which are modified stock events. A flock of amateurs—drivers who haven't yet participated in any modified-car races — are expected to try their stocks on the quarter-mile oval.

A bevy of sportsmen's drivers who have won renown in the Piedmont area will head the field here next Friday night. They include Curtis Turner of Roanoke and Glenn Wood of Stuart, two Virginia speedsters who also star in late-model stock events; Bill and Bobby Myers, Winston-Salem brothers who have been feuding with the Virginians for the Bowman Gray Stadium season's championship; Ralph Ligouri of Fayetteville; Shorty York; Mocksville; Pee Wee Jones and Ted Swaim of Winston-Salem; and a score of other short-track stars.

Native Dancer Faces Big Trial

NEW YORK (UP)—Native Dancer faced the biggest trial of his career today as the lg, gra CX—accoldey a field of eight triolds in search of gold and glori in the $100,000 Added Belmont Stakes.

The grkelling mile-and-a-half Triple Crown classic long has been re:ard] an "the test of the champion." Applied to today's race, it rates as a perfect connotation.

Native Dancer won the two-year-old championship last year but hasn't exulted:alloped the opposition this season. In fact, Alfred Vand5 LT'S LONG@LEGGED F the Kentucky Derby and posted a narrow victory in the Preakne) so the Belmont shapes up as a big test, indeed, for the New York-owned colt, who is favored at 1 to 3.

Named to match strides with the Dancer were Jamie K., owned by boxing promoter Jim Norris and piloted by Eddie .w80 01 Roy al Bay Gem, kamehameha, Ram O' War, and outsiders Bassanio, Bob O Bynand the Preem. 7 in.

Yankees Make It 15 As Milwaukee Splits

NEW YORK (UP)—Joe DiMaggio says his old Yankee team mates should win the pennant by 15 games, but the way they're going they might even top the record margin of 19½ for the American League set by the Bronx Bombers in his rookie year of 1936.

They were 7½ in front today, rolling relentlessly in a 15-game winning streak, the latest of which was a 4-2 victory over the alleged contenders from Cleveland Friday night. That "come from behind" triumph over the runner-up Indians made it four in a row the Yankees have won from them without defeat.

Their first place margin, widest they ever have enjoyed in their five years under Manager Casey Stengel, was established with the season not even a third completed.

With Cleveland in front 1-0 on Dale Mitchell's fifth inning homer, the Yankees poured over three runs in the seventh on singles by Yogi Berra, Gene Woodling, Gil McDougald and Don Bollweg and a pair of walks to Billy Martin and Joe Collins which forced in a run.

Rookie Whitey Ford, with relief help from Allie Reynolds, won his seventh straight game and his third over Cleveland. Hank Majeski and Collins wound up the scoring with home runs in the ninth when it didn't matter.

Brooklyn moved half a game in front of Milwaukee in the National League by winning its 18th game in the last 21, by 7-4 from the Cubs with a 12-hit attack paced by Duke Snider with a double and two singles. Relief pitcher Jim Hughes turned in five scoreless innings for his first victory. Ralph Kiner and Randy Jackson homered for the losers.

Milwaukee suffered a 4-2 defeat at Pittsburgh, then rebounded with a 10-run first inning in the second game and coasted to an 11-2 triumph. Max Surkont struck out seven and gave up six hits in winning his eighth game. Murry Dickson pitched the fifth victory in the opener although loser Johnny Antonelli gave up only four. Pittsburgh broke a 2-2 tie with two runs in the eighth. Danny O'Connell singled in one and the other scoring on center fielder Bill Bruton's error. Nine men singled in the big second game first inning. Andy Pafo, Jack Dittmer and Johnny Logan driving in two runs apiece with their blows.

Cincinnati topped the Phils 4-1 on the six-hit pitching of Jackie Collum, who also drove in two runs with a single, while the Cardinals defeated the Giants 3-1 when rookie Grant Dunlap sparked a three-run seventh inning rally with a two-run triple. Gerry Staley was credited with his eighth victory, although Al Brazle helped him in relief.

Kiwanians Hear Talk By DuPont Plant Supervisor

By CHESTER WALSH
At the Greenville Kiwanis Club last night, Ray Lowe, a research supervisor at the DuPont plant, gave a brief but dramatic description of the establishment of the plant and the products it manufactures.

The speaker told of the DuPont interests "transforming a peaceful cornfield, in the Valley of the Contentment, between Kinston and Greenville, into a glittering, humming industrial plant at a cost of $40,000,000."

"He said there are 335 acres of land in the site, three miles of hard surfaced roads and two miles of railroad tracks. The buildings contain 10 acres of floor space. The main corridor is 838 feet long, (little less than the length of three football fields.)

Lowe said 4,500 tons of structural steel, 750 tons of reinforcing steel and enough concrete was used in construction of the plant to build an eight-inch thick, 20-foot wide road, 10 miles long.

The DuPont executive said the plant eventually will employ 1,500 persons and the monthly payroll will average over $500,000.

He described working conditions at the plant as excellent, and enumerated some of the features.

His description of the manufacture of Dacron bordered on the magical, and he stressed the point that the material absorbs very little water and that it resists mold, mildew, moths, etc.

Lowe told the Kiwanians that the company hopes to welcome visitors for tours of the plant when construction is completed — in about four to six months.

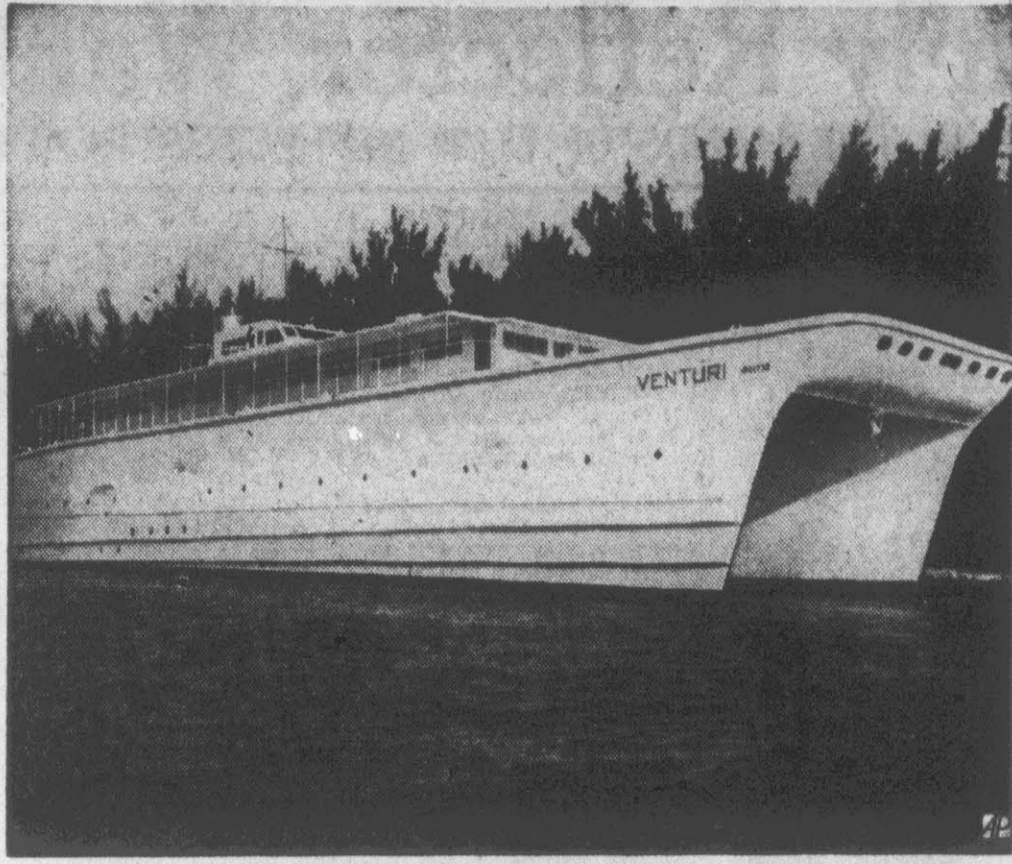

Lowe, who lives with his family in Greenville, said in concluding: "What we are doing is technology in action—from discovery through development into mass production to give Mr. American something better to raise his high standard of living even higher. God grant that the system never be lost."

Kiwanian John Barnhill introduced the speaker. President Leo W. Jenkins presided.

Guests of the club last night were Mrs. Ray Lowe, Mrs. John Barnhill, David Evans, Jr., and Kiwanian Bob Wheeler, from Lexington. Kiwanian L. E. Tyler gave his autobiography. President Jenkins donated a dime for each year of his age on his birthday. Milo Smith won the attendance prize.

Kiwanis Director John A. Collins, Jr., was host at supper to the club officers and directors last Monday night.

Secretary David C. Moore, Jr., was reported to be improving from his recent illness.

South Greenville Park Drive Is Advancing; Over $500 To Date

The South Greenville Park project drive is now underway, and according to reports given by the secretary at a meeting last night at the Fleming Street School the solicitors have received $517.95 toward the goal thus far.

John H. Bizzell, chairman of the park project, said that he was highly pleased with the reports. All solicitors of the project have not given reports, and Bizzell said that with more than three weeks left to work "he felt sure the goal of $3,000 would be reached."

More than 50 men and women reported Wednesday afternoon to work on the South Greenville Park Project. J. W. Grimes, chairman of the planning committee, says that the work is progressing rapidly. At the volunteer gathering Wednesday the men and women worked on the field where a baseball diamond is to be laid.

Grimes stated that he hoped to have all available persons to lend their assistance to the project on Monday after 6 p.m., Wednesday at 2:30 p.m., Thursday through Friday after 6 p.m.

At the meeting last night the group had a minute of silent prayer in memory of Dr. J. A. Battle, who died Thursday night. Dr. Battle was a member of the finance committee of the project.

Publicity chairman Tom Foreman reported that tickets for the Choir Festival, which is to be held Sunday, June 21, are now on sale. The proceeds from this program will go toward the development of the project. Tickets to the festival, which will be made up of the church choirs of the city, are 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children.

Working under City Recreation Director Warren Carroll, Luke Hemby is serving as the recreation supervisor of the Negro citizens of Greenville.

Pictures on the project can be found on page six in today's paper.

Moving Remains Of Sitting Bull No Longer Issue

RAPID CITY, S. D. (UP)—Young Republicans from North and South Dakota have signed a "peace pact" to take the bones of Sitting Bull out of politics.

The remains of the famed Sioux Indian, untended for 63 years in a lonely grave at Fort Yates, N. D., were spirited away to South Dakota during a snowstorm early in April and re-buried on a bluff overlooking the Missouri River.

Representatives from the two states, attending the Young Republican national convention here, signed the "North Dakota-South Dakota Young Republican Sitting Bull Peace Pact." They said the pact was drawn up to take the issue out of politics and to create unity between the two states.

NEW HOUSING 'OFF' WASHINGTON (UP)—The Bureau of Labor Statistics today reported a 3,000-unit drop in new housing in May — the first decline for that time of year since World War II.

Officers Chosen By Cooperative

FARMVILLE.—"Rural electrification has paid its own way, not only by repaying with interest all government loan funds advanced, but by upgrading the standard of living of every economic and social group in America."

William T. Crisp, executive manager and general counsel of Tarheel Electric Membership Association, made this declaration at the recent meeting here of Pitt and Greene Electric Cooperative. Crisp spoke before about 1,200 members in the Farmville High School gymnasium.

The cooperative's directors elected J. C. Parker president; E. E. Nethercutt, vice-president; and Seth Barrow secretary and treasurer. Gilbert Whitley of Farmville is manager of the enterprise.

Directors are: J. C. Parker, Route 1, Fountain; H. C. Tyson, Route 1, Farmville; Sam V. Tugwell, Route 1, Farmville; Seth Barrow, Route 1, Farmville; Joe Edmundson, Route 3, Snow Hill; David Corbett, Route 3, Snow Hill; and R. E. Nethercutt, Route 1, Snow Hill.

Gambling Czar's Sentence Upheld

RALEIGH (UP)—Former gambling czar Francis Duval Smith, already in jail on bribery counts, faced an additional 15 to 25 years in prison today for a fatal hit-and-run auto accident while he was free on bond.

The State Supreme Court yesterday upheld the sentences imposed by Guilford Superior Court in the highway death case. Smith was convicted of involuntary manslaughter and hit-and-run driving in the death of a 13-year-old bicyclist, George Rainey, at Pomonas, a suburb of Greensboro, last July 16.

Smith's attorneys had appealed, contending that the sentences are excessive since they amount to probable life imprisonment. Smith is 53 years old.

Justice Jeff D. Johnson Jr., writing the opinion, said the punishment imposed is "within the discretionary limits fixed by statute."

"While the punishment inflicted is substantial, abuse of discretion has not been shown. Nor has it been made to appear that the judgment pronounced comes within the constitutional inhibition against cruel or unusual punishment," he said.

Electrical Storm Kept Crews Busy

Electrical disturbances as a result of last night's thunderstorm kept power crews of the Greenville Utilities Commission hopping last night and early today although most calls were for minor disruptions.

Of some 22 service calls answered by two repair squads during the night, only one was listed in the major category by Larry Brown, business manager of the utilities department.

Lines at the intersection of Fifth and Pitt streets serving residences and businesses on two circuits from the uptown plant were severed shortly after the storm commenced, between 11:30 p.m. and midnight. However, Mr. Brown said a crew went to work immediately and power was restored on both within 45 minutes.

The area covered by the break generally includes the business section on Evans Street as far as Fourteenth, Pitt Street, Albemarle Avenue, and West Tenth Street long the tobacco warehouse section.

Less minor disturbances involved blowing of line and transformer fuses over the entire system including the towns of Belvoir, Pactolus, Falkland, Grimesland, and along the New Bern highway, among others.

KEEP YER RIGHT HIGH AND CLOSE, KID... WATCH HIS FEINTING... HE'S PLENTY SHIFTY...

THE DEADLY CRISTOPOLUS FEINTS WITH HIS RIGHT... BUT BEN DOESN'T FALL FOR THE MANEUVER....

BUT SUDDENLY CRISTOPOLUS STEPS IN AND SHOOTS A HARD, SHORT LEFT TO BEN'S MID-SECTION... IT HURTS....

HOW'S THE KID DOIN', SPIDER? HE'S STILL ALIVE... BUT NOT FOR LONG IF HE TAKES ANY MORE OF THOSE LEFTS...

BEN IS CROWDED INTO A CORNER... HIS POWERFUL OPPONENT SHARP-SHOOTING SHORT, JOLTING UPPERCUTS THROUGH BEN'S DESPERATE GUARD...

O.K., BOYS... SEPARATE!

BEFORE THE MEN ARE SEPARATED, K.O. CRISTOPOLUS EXPLODES A RIGHT-FLUSH ON BEN'S JAW... THE CROWD ROARS ITS DISAPPROVAL OF THE ILLEGAL BLOW....

BEN IS HURT... HE FALLS TO ONE KNEE... THE REFEREE TURNS TO K.O....

HITTIN' ON THE BREAK 'LL COST YOU THE ROUND!
SO BOLT GETS ONE CRUMMY ROUND... SO WHAT? HE GETS FROSTED IN A COUPLA SECONDS ANYWAY!

AFTER RUBE ROWDIE PURPOSELY WALKS THE FIRST THREE GLAMAZON BATTERS AND MOTIONS THE 'CLOWN' OUTFIELDERS TO SIT DOWN...

YOW!
-AN' INSIDE- TH'-PARK HOMER WITH TH' BASES LOADED!

BET THEM CLOWNS WON'T TRY THAT TRICK AGAIN!
ACCORDING TO TH' SCRIPT, OL' RUBE WAS SUPPOSED TO STRIKE TH' SIDE OUT!
SAGEBRUSH SAL BROKE UP TH' ACT WITH A CLOUT AGAINST TH' FENCE!

RUBE, THAT ONE REALLY BACKFIRED!
MAKE A MONKEY OUT OF ME, WILL THEY?... THOSE GALS HAVE CROSSED THAT PLATE FOR TH' LAST TIME!
LET'S CUT TH' COMEDY UNTIL WE GET THOSE RUNS BACK!

OH-OH, SAL... YOU'VE MADE 'EM MAD!
AND IT'S OUR TURN TO LAUGH, DINAH!

8 INNINGS LATER WITH THE SCORE TIED 4-4...
FIRST OF TH' NINTH, BOYS, AN' OUR LAST CHANCE FOR SOME FUN!
RIGHT... WE BEEN PLAYIN' STRAIGHT LONG ENOUGH, SO LET'S GET WITH IT!

HAW I RUBE'S TAKIN' TH' MOUND ALL DECKED OUT IN CATCHER'S TOGS!
AIN'T I A LIVIN' DOLL!

-AND AFTER STRIKING OUT THE FIRST TWO BATTERS...

LE'S SEE IF N HE KIN FIELD WITH ALL THEM PADS ON HIM!

IT'S HEADING FOR THE DUGOUT... SO KEEP MOVING!

HOPALONG CASSIDY

By DAN SPIEGLE

WHAT'S GOIN' ON?
CHIEF THUNDER BIRD'S BEEN CAPTURED AT LAST, TH' INJUN SLIPPED INTO TOWN DRESSED IN WHITE MAN'S DUDS.
HE'S STANDIN' TRIAL FOR LEADIN' TH' COMANCHES ON TH' WARPATH.

I AM INNOCENT! SOMEONE IS FALSELY USING MY NAME AND IDENTITY. THROUGH HOPALONG CASSIDY, AN OLD FRIEND, I HAVE JUST COMPLETED STUDIES AT THE WHITE MAN'S SCHOOL IN THE EAST.
YOU HAVE HEARD THE CHARGES PRESENTED. HAS THE PRISONER ANYTHING TO SAY BEFORE SENTENCE IS PASSED?

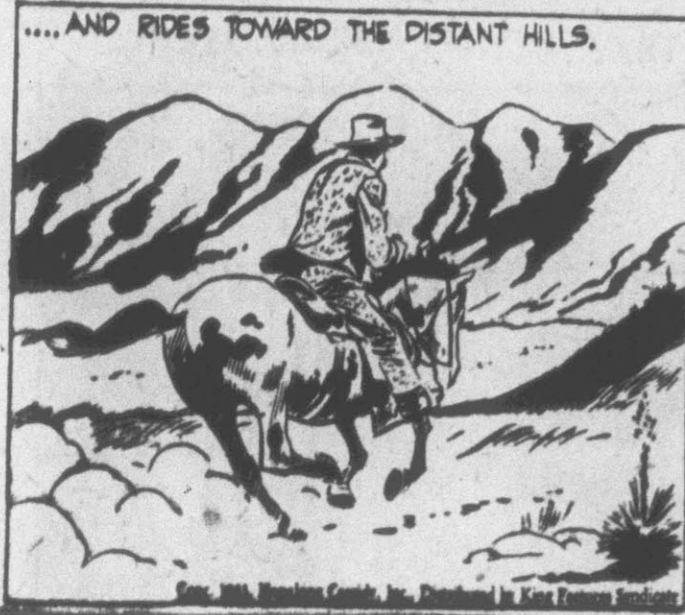

YOU HAVE BEEN IDENTIFIED BY ORMOND SNAGG, AGENT FOR INDIAN AFFAIRS IN THIS DISTRICT, AND A DOZEN OTHER RELIABLE WITNESSES. IN VIEW OF THE EVIDENCE, I AM ORDERING YOUR REMOVAL TO THE FEDERAL PRISON AT FORT LEAVENWORTH.

BUT I AM INNOCENT!

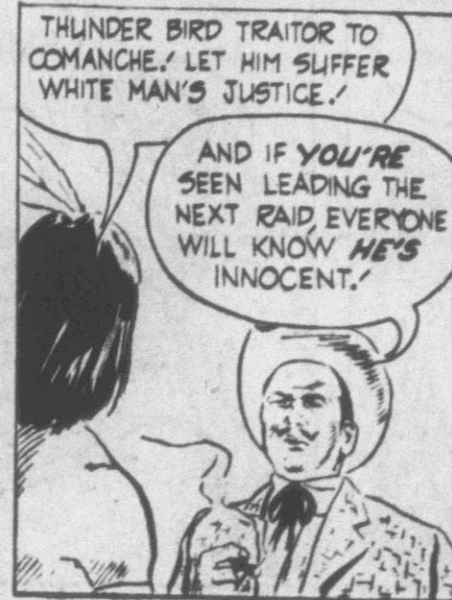

UNNOTICED, THE INDIAN AGENT SLIPS OUT OF THE COURTHOUSE.

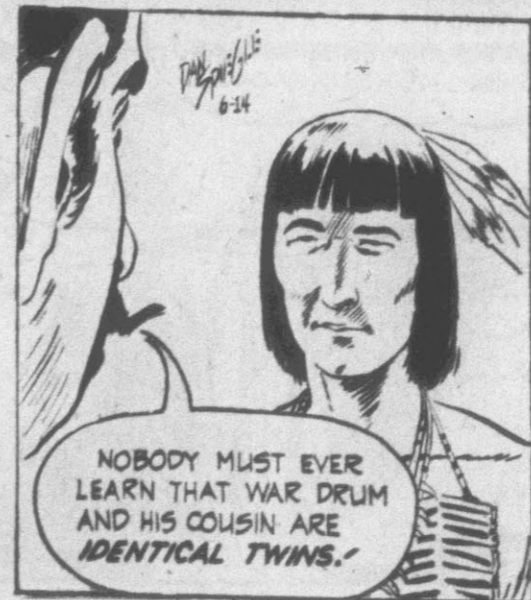

...AND RIDES TOWARD THE DISTANT HILLS.

I BRING NEWS! THUNDER BIRD'S BEEN FOUND GUILTY. HE'LL BE TAKEN, UNDER MILITARY GUARD, TO A SOLDIER PRISON EAST OF HERE WITH THE NEXT SUN. YOU WILL STAGE AN ATTACK AND BRING HIM HERE...ALIVE!

THUNDER BIRD TRAITOR TO COMANCHE. LET HIM SUFFER WHITE MAN'S JUSTICE!
AND IF YOU'RE SEEN LEADING THE NEXT RAID, EVERYONE WILL KNOW HE'S INNOCENT!

NOBODY MUST EVER LEARN THAT WAR DRUM AND HIS COUSIN ARE IDENTICAL TWINS!

FLASH GORDON by Mac Raboy

SO, FLASH! ... OFF ON ANOTHER SPACE TRIP!
YES, ZARKOV! THE CONQUEST OF SPACE IS JUST BEGINNING. MR. MYDAS, HERE, SPOTTED A NEW HIDDEN PLANET, TITAN, WHILE ON A SHORT ROCKET FLIGHT! WE'RE GOING TO GET A CLOSER LOOK AT IT!
SEE WHAT YOU CAN DO TO CHEER DALE UP. SHE'S ANGRY BECAUSE I COULDN'T TAKE HER ALONG. NOW... WISH US LUCK, ZARKOV!

TEN MINUTES LATER... THE TAKE-OFF... DESTINATION, TITAN!

WELL, FLASH! WE'RE UNDER WAY! WITH THE THINGS WE FIND ON TITAN... WE'LL BE RICH WHEN WE RETURN!
...ARE YOUR DIALS READING NORMAL? HEY! THERE'S SOMETHING BANGING INSIDE THIS STORAGE LOCKER!

DALE!

I THOUGHT I TOLD YOU...
DON'T BE ANGRY, FLASH! I HAD TO GO WITH YOU! I COULDN'T BEAR BEING LEFT BEHIND!

FLASH! THIS STRANGE EQUIPMENT... THESE HUGE CHAINS... AND THIS... A PAIR OF G-GIANT HANDCUFFS, FLASH!
WHAT DO YOU EXPECT TO FIND ON TITAN?

NEXT WEEK - TITAN 6-14

MY CLIENT WILL BE HERE SHORTLY.. IT SURE LOOKS AS IF I'VE FOUND THE HORSE HE'S LOOKING FOR.. MISS DOOLEY SAYS SHE'LL BE GLAD TO SELL HIM.

I WISH HE'D BUY BOTH OF THEM AND GIVE ME A JOB TAKING CARE OF 'EM.

..CAUSE I'VE GOT 'EM LOOKING A LOT BETTER ALREADY..AND BESIDES, I NEED A JOB WITH A PLACE TO LIVE, MR. CLINTON.

WELL, YOU CAN'T TELL... MAYBE HE WILL!

GOLLY, I SURE WISH I WAS BACK AT MILESTONE FARM!.. BUT MY CROOKED UNCLE RUFUS WOULD ONLY TRY TO MAKE ME GET MONEY FROM MR. MILES.. OR MAYBE TAKE ME AWAY... JEEPERS! I THINK I HEAR THE MAN WHO'S HERE FOR 'SILVER LAD'.

MY BOSS SENT ME INSTEAD OF COMING HIMSELF.. WHERE'S THE HORSE, AND WHO DO I DO BUSINESS WITH?

YOU PAY MR. SAM WHITE AT THE BANK.. BUT THERE'S A SLIGHT HITCH.. THERE'S ANOTHER HORSE.. A MARE.. MISS DOOLEY WILL SELL 'SILVER LAD' ONLY IF YOU'LL TAKE THE MARE, TOO.

FLIP, IF THAT MAN DOESN'T TAKE US ALONG, WE'LL JUST HAVE TO HIT THE ROAD AGAIN.

..AND ONE OTHER THING.. THERE'S A BOY WHO'S BEEN WORKING AS STABLE BOY HERE.. COULD YOU, BY ANY CHANCE, GIVE HIM A JOB?

I'M SORRY, BUT I DON'T HAVE THE AUTHORITY TO HIRE ANYBODY. NO, I'M AFRAID I CAN'T.

WELL, THAT'S THAT.. C'MON, FLIP.

IS THAT THE BOY YOU WERE TALKING ABOUT?.. GREAT GUNS! EITHER I'M DREAMING OR...

WAIT A SECOND, LAD!

HUH?

JEEPERS!

TEX!

RUSTY!
