Chinese Grind Out New Gains On Blazing Battlefield

By ROBERT UDICK United Press Staff Correspondent SEUL, Korea. (UP)—Chinese infantrymen scored new gains on the blazing east-central front last night and at least 15 Red planes bombed the big Allied port of Inchon, setting fire to a petroleum dump.

Communist infantrymen, who used some 7,500 men in yesterday's fighting, surged forward over the bodies of their own dead to capture Finger Ridge.

At dusk yesterday more than 1,300 Chinese struck against the vital "hinge" at the western end of their two-mile deep bulge. Front dispatches said the attack seemed to be decreasing in intensity at midnight.

Flames from the burning Inchon petroleum dump could be seen from the Munsan truce camp 35 miles away.

American Sabre jet pilots shot down four Communist MIGs and damaged three in a new flurry of air fighting near the Yalu River.

Complete Communist command of "Pivot" would knock the shoulder of the United Nations line to the west in the Allies' battle to halt the Reds "go south" drive toward the Hwachon reservoir.

U.N. observers said the Reds paid a heavy cost in lives, indicating they may be willing to sacrifice many men in the last stage of the war to gain advantageous positions before the cease-fire is called.

2:30 p.m. (1:30 a.m. EDT) almost 500 fighter bombers had hit the Reds all across the front.

Advices Common Sense In Library Clean-Ups Dulles Okays 'Book Purge'

WASHINGTON (UP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles made it clear today that U.S. officials should exercise "a little more common sense" in removing controversial books from overseas libraries.

Under pressure from McCarthy's Permanent Investigating Subcommittee, thousands of books have been removed from overseas libraries. Eleven have been burned.

Chairman William E. Jenner (R-Ind.) of the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee which has been investigating Communists in education, declined to comment.

But a subcommittee member, Sen. Pat McCarran (D-Nev.), called the President's statement "a pitiful thing." He said "somebody must have sold him a bill of goods."

Setting Of Bond Temporarily Delayed By Coroner Slaying Awaits Grand Jury

By HOWARD LINDSAY Reflector Staff Writer A 22-year-old Kinston Negro last night heard a six-man coroner's jury recommend he be held for grand jury action in the fatal shooting early Sunday of another Negro on a Greenville street.

Setting of bond for David Chadwick, who seemingly has admitted having shot William Stanley Gorham, 22, of Greenville, was postponed by Pitt Coroner Griffin H. Rouse "for several days."

Chadwick meanwhile still is in Greenville city jail. His case will come before the grand jury in the August criminal term of Superior Court.

able seat and lined walls on three sides of city hall court room heard sworn witnesses say Chadwick fired the gun which ended Gorham's life following an argument started during a card game under a street light.

Others called to testify were investigating police officers, Police Chief S. G. Gibbs, Special Investigator Bowen Dorsey, and Coroner Griffin H. Rouse.

Officers stated when they arrived on the scene, the victim either was dead or "showed no signs of life."

Piver said they had notified Officers Gay and Francis of the Kinston police about the shooting and left the matter temporarily in their hands. Within 15 or 20 minutes, Piver said, they were back and Chadwick was with them.

The policeman went on to say that he and Gay had joined in questioning Chadwick. The arrested man first told them, Piver said, that he had "dropped the gun in some weeds," and didn't know where it was.

Proposals On Spending Of Recreation Fund Granted Approval By Commission

A recommendation as to how the Recreation Commission funds should be spent was approved at a meeting of the local commission last night.

Greenville Recreation Director Warren Carroll will serve on the planning and evaluation panel of the Recreation Director's Conference in Chapel Hill July 10, 11, and 12.

Carroll was asked by the commission to go to the City Council and ask permission to move the building to the Cotanche Park to the Rose Athletic Field. If the building is moved, it will be used for storage and for a concession stand.

With 9,421 persons looking on, 4,225 boys, 1,255 girls, and 1,400 men took part in the activities of the city's recreations during the month of May. The activities included Little League, Pony Men's Softball, and Girl's Softball Leagues, tennis, social recreation, picnic (reserved) and ping pong.

European Reds To Demonstrate Over Execution Of Rosenbergs

LONDON (UP)—European Communists planned widespread demonstrations today aimed either at saving U. S. atomic spies Ethel and Julius Rosenberg from execution or giving world communism two more martyrs.

The American embassies in Paris and Vienna were assigned extra guards as Thursday's execution date approached.

Rad leaders in France, Italy, Austria and other countries pushed the "save the Rosenbergs" campaign amid a hysteria of bold headlines, impassioned speeches and a flood of violently worded denunciations sent to newspaper and news agency offices.

Some prominent right-wing and middle of the road figures added their protests—in much milder form—to the vigorous condemnations of the Communists.

Among them was Edouard Herriot, president of the French National Assembly, who sent a telegram today to President Eisenhower appealing for a stay of execution "for reasons of humanity."

French Communists were shipping their followers into line for mass turnouts tomorrow and Austrian Communists summoned the faithful to two meetings—one today and one tomorrow.

Communist parties in at least two other countries—Italy and Britain—were expected to follow suit.

The U. S. embassy on London's Grosvenor Square already has been picketed by demonstrators carrying placards protesting the Rosenberg death sentence.

Market Decline Catching Many In Price Squeeze

CHICAGO (UP)—Dirt farmers and grain speculators were squeezed today by the same falling market prices that pinched the pocketbooks of cattlemen earlier this spring.

The sudden plunge in grain prices Monday evidently led many other commodities downward too.

Francis selling in the wheat pits at Chicago, Kansas City and Minneapolis Monday sent the price of the golden grain tumbling to the lowest levels in three years.

At Chicago, July wheat plunged 9 1/2 cents a bushel, selling at $1.89 to $1.88 1/2 a bushel. At Minneapolis, wheat for delivery in July and September fell the full 10-cent limit for a day's trade, closing below $2 a bushel.

The wild selling in the wheat pits touched off more selling on the New York Stock Exchange, slashing prices $4 and $2 a share for a total loss Monday of nearly a billion dollars in total market values.

THE DAILY REFLECTOR
June 16, 1923

On Wednesday afternoon, from 4 to 6 o'clock, Mrs. C. S. Graves and Miss Ernestine Forbes were hostesses at a delightful tea, at the attractive home of Mrs. Graves, complimentary to Miss Pattie Wooten. The drawing room was beautifully decorated with yellow shaded lights, nasturtiums, daisies and sun flowers carrying out the yellow color scheme.

The dining room was attractively decorated with garden flowers which were used in profusion. The centerpiece of the table, was formed with two garden hats, representing a basket filled with all kinds of flowers. Mrs. R. J. Cobb and Mrs. Alex Blow served tea assisted by Misses Annie Lynn Savage, Douglas Arthur and Novella Moyer who served sandwiches and beaten biscuits with country ham.

From the dining room the guests passed to the rear hall where they were received by Mrs. Jack Kilgo and Mrs. Earle Jeanette Henderson.
Mrs. L. H. Carter and Mrs. Earle Carter received at the library door and invited the guests to the punch bowl where delicious frozen punch was served by Mrs. R. D. Harrington and Miss Estelle Greene, assisted by Misses Ruth Andrews and Hannah Fulford.
The punch table was attractively decorated with sweet peas. In passing from the library the guests were received by Mrs. B. S. Warren and her house guest, Mrs. James Neal of Danville.

Bridal Attendants Are Honored At Luncheon
Miss Daphne McLawhorn, who on Saturday was married to Roy Byrd of Bunnlevel, graciously honored her bridal attendants at a luncheon in the Blue Room of the SLO Grill at one o'clock on Friday. The table was beautifully centered with an arrangement of gorgeous pink roses, fern and gypsophylla. Each guest's place was marked with a daintily wrapped package tied with ornamental ribbon and pink roses. After a delicious three-course meal featuring fruit juice, ham steak, and French apple pie, the attendants opened their gifts and each was surprised to receive a monogrammed sterling silver perfume vial decorated with wedding bells. Pleasant memories will ever be associated with the felicitous occasion. Those in attendance other than the bride-elect were:
Mrs. Ralph Worthington, Mrs. William M. McLawhorn, Mrs. Charles L. McLawhorn, Miss Gay McLawhorn and Mrs. Fred Jones.

Dessert Bridge Fetes Bride-Elect

Complimenting Miss Frances Bendall, bride-elect of June 27, Mrs. J. B. Kittrell and Miss Elizabeth Kittrell entertained at dessert bridge Friday night at 8 o'clock at their home on East Fifth Street.

Upon arrival the guests were met by the hostesses introduced to the honoree and invited into the dining room where the dessert course was served.

The dining room table was laid with an imported lace cloth over pink satin, centered with an arrangement of white Shasta daisies flanked on either side by five branch candelabra holding pink tapers and a pair of white satin wedding slippers tied with pink satin ribbon bows and filled with the traditional rice.

Mrs. S. T. White, grandmother of the groom, seated at one end of the table, served pink and white ice cream moulds in the shape of wedding slippers and decorated with orange blossoms. Mrs. F. A. Bendall, mother of the bride-elect, seated at the opposite end of the table, served party cakes.

The guests helped themselves to salted nuts and cheese dainties and found their places at individual tables in the music room. Here each table was centered with a crystal slipper containing pink and white garden flowers and the guests' places were marked with pink wedding slipper talties.

Four tables of bridge were played in the music room and one table of canasta in the sun room.

Dinner Party Honors June Bride

Mrs. Ralph Worthington was charming hostess on Thursday evening when she honored her sister, Daphne McLawhorn and Roy Byrd at a dinner party at the home of Mrs. S. P. Hines in Kinston. The spacious home was decorated appropriate to the occasion. On the bride's table was a bridal scene consisting of a doll dressed in white and five attendants wearing coral, symbolic of the actual dresses worn on the wedding day. Other tables were attractively laid in the living room where summer flowers and candles delighted the guests with their beauty and uniqueness of arrangement.

Upon their arrival, the guests were invited into the library where Mrs. George Strickland served refreshing punch. Broiled chicken, beans, baked potatoes and tomato aspic molded in hearts were featured in the main course and followed by ice cream served in meringue shells.

The honoree was presented nested ash trays in black and white, which were passed among and admired by the thirty guests in attendance.

Refuse Re-Trial In Murder Case

RALEIGH (UP) — The State Supreme Court has refused again to order a new trial for Sam Thompson, 28, of Goldsboro but another avenue of appeal from his second degree murder conviction was open today.

Thompson has filed a petition for a hearing in Lenoir County Superior Court under the state's post-conviction law providing for trial court review of possible errors.

Thompson's unique appeal was based on a claim that he lied when he pleaded guilty to second degree murder in the fatal stabbing of Kenneth Taylor at Kinston in 1947. His claim resulted in a new trial and acquittal of another man convicted with Thompson of the Taylor slaying. But Thompson was charged with perjury and no new trial was granted.

The Supreme Court ruled yesterday that the latest appeal by Thompson, now in Central prison, led to make "a showing of merit."

Thompson and an acquaintance, Lemuel Parrott, were indicted for first degree murder. At the trial Thompson turned state's evidence and swore that Parrott stabbed Taylor. Later, in prison, Thompson admitted that he had lied, saying he had been threatened by detectives. He contended that he was in Wilkes County at the time that Taylor was killed.

Art Work In Elementary Grades To Be Subject Of Conference June 18

Teachers of art in the elementary grades are invited to attend Thursday, June 18, at East Carolina College a conference on "Vitalizing Art in the Lower Grades."

Arrangements for the conference are now being completed by Francis Lee Neel, acting director of the college department of art. The meeting will take place in Room 225 of the Austin building on the campus, and will continue from 9:30 a. m. to 12:30 p. m.

Mr. Neel has announced that the use of clay in art work in the elementary grades will be discussed and demonstrated. This medium, he states, is readily available to teachers and can be obtained without cost.

Discussions will stress digging, cleaning, refining, and using clay in the classroom. Demonstrations will center attention on designing with clay and will illustrate four methods useful in the classroom:

flat coil, round coil, slab, and "pinch and squeeze." The use of the potter's wheel will also be shown.

The conference, Mr. Neel states, is planned to be of interest to hobbyists as well as to teachers. Those who wish to attend are invited to be present.

Furniture Dealers Elect New Officers At Recent Meeting

New officers were elected last week at a meeting of the Greenville Furniture Dealers Association of the local merchants association.

R.W. Davenport was named chairman of the group to succeed W.H. Taft. Other officers elected were: Robert Tunnell, vice-chairman; Earl Brown, re-elected as treasurer; and Mrs. Cora Powell, secretary.

The chairman appointed Jesse Laughinghouse to head a committee to study plans for National Home Furnishings Week which will be held during September.

Due to vacations, the group voted to dispense with its July meeting.

L. L. Ray Speaks At Rotary Meet

L. L. Ray, director of foundations at North Carolina State College, addressed members of the Greenville Rotary Club last night.

Ray discussed the advances in culture and economics which are being afforded North Carolina through research.

The speaker pointed to the "nickel-for-know-how" program, funds provided through the dairy industry and other sources for research work in the state. The funds, he said, have made possible finances to supplement salaries for research projects and other items necessary to research.

The program, Ray asserted, is paying dividends in better products and better agricultural methods for the state. During his address, Ray cited several agricultural leaders in Pitt County for their efforts in behalf of the agricultural research program of the state.

Ray was introduced at the meeting by Ercell Webb.

Post Office Will Propose General Rates Increase

WASHINGTON, (UP)—The Post Office Department will propose boosts in first, second and third class postage rates to help cut its multi-million-dollar deficit, an informed source said today.

The rate hikes will be submitted to Congress for approval within a few days.

For the moment, the department isn't saying exactly how much of a boost it will seek in the various mail categories. But it is expected to recommend a four-cent stamp for ordinary letters—at least those going out-of-town. Out-of-town first class letter rates have been frozen at three cents for nearly 21 years, while rates on local letters went up from two to three cents in 1944. A four-cent charge for out-of-town letters would bring in an extra $150,000,000 a year, while the same rate for local letters would add another $70,000,000.

Rates on newspapers, magazines and other second class mail have been boosted 20 per cent in the last 14 months, but still don't cover transportation costs, according to Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield. Another 10 per cent boost in these rates already is scheduled for next April.

Third class rates, on circulars, books and catalogs, have increased about 25 per cent since 1949.

The proposed boosts already have run into objections from Rep. Harold C. Hagen (R-Minn), high-ranking member of the House Postoffice Committee. He said it would be "premature and ill-advised" to increase mail rates.

House Speaker Joseph W. Martin Jr. declined to predict whether Congress will approve the plan, which was outlined by Summerfield to President Eisenhower and GOP congressional leaders yesterday.

But William C. Doherty, president of the 100,000-member AFL Letter Carriers Union, said he'd support boosting first class mail to four cents with "proportionate increases" in the second and third classes.

Postal deficits are running around $600,000,000 a year. The administration already has made three moves to cut the figure, but "they aren't enough," a department spokesman said.

Spurned, But He Is On Honeymoon

TAYLOR, Wis. (UP)—A released prisoner of war, spurned by the hometown sweetheart he dreamed of in a Communist prison stockade, honeymooned with another girl today.

Softspoken Marine Cpl. Lione E. Peterson and Dolores Larson, both 21, exchanged vows here yesterday in a small, quiet ceremony. Only immediate members of both families were present.

The tall leatherneck and his bride left immediately for a wedding trip into northern Wisconsin's vacationland, but would not reveal their exact destination.

Peterson suffered a well-publicized broken romance soon after his release from a Red prison camp in April. He told newsmen in Tokyo that he was going to place a long distance telephone call to Miss Odana Stenerson at Black River Falls, Wis., and propose. "I'm going to get married," he said happily.

The call was never completed. Miss Stenerson, embarrassed and insisting she had never promised to wed the Marine, told reporters the "answer would have to be no" because she had found another sweetheart.

Peterson tried to reach her by phone once, failed and was hustled onto a transport plane bound for the United States. At San Francisco he heard a news broadcast telling how his marriage plans were on the rocks.

"I can't blame her," Peterson said. "She's a wonderful girl and I wish her all the luck in the world."

A few weeks later he began to see a lot of Miss Larson, a girl he used to go with "way back before"—before he fell in love with Miss Stenerson.

May 29 Peterson and the student nurse announced they were engaged. The wedding yesterday evidently wrote a happy ending to the Marine's romantic troubles.

A New Record Of Spending For Pitt

Pitt County's budget for 1953-54 will set a new record unless some unforeseen changes are made by the County Commissioners before the official adoption of proposed figures.

In spite of the fact that expenditures anticipated in the county's budget for the coming fiscal year are 145,718.24 above those for the fiscal year ending this month, the commissioners have found they can hold the present 90-cent tax rate through fiscal year 1954.

A large part of the increased outlay by the county during the coming fiscal year is earmarked for the mapping and revaluation program of the county. The remainder of the increase, which is indeed small percentage-wise, represents a more or less general increase in the cost of the county's government.

From a study of the proposed budget for Pitt County for 1953-54, one comes to the conclusion that the County Commissioners are keeping a close watch on the county's purse strings. The county financially is in good condition, and in spite of constant improvements in programs of individual departments of county government, the tax rate is being held down by the governing board.

Certainly a county the size of Pitt—even with a constantly increasing property valuation—could not continue to improve its operations and services without increasing its tax rate unless the governing officials were keeping in close touch to assure as efficient an operation as possible.

If Pitt had a great deal more money coming into its coffers, doubtlessly the commissioners could find a great many worthy projects to spend it on; but as it is, the taxpayers of Pitt seem to be getting their money's worth for most every dollar being spent by the county government.

Just A "Taste" Of Winds For North Carolina

Eastern North Carolina has had its troubles with storms and high winds in the past week or more. Damage to crops in a section of Nash County has been estimated at half million dollars, and smaller amounts of damage have resulted in other areas.

Even so, North Carolina has been spared the fury of storms and tornadoes which have ripped through other sections of the United States.

It is always difficult to take when a severe blow hits; but fortunately damage in North Carolina from high winds in this "tornado season"—though seemingly high in some sections—have been negligible compared with other areas.

In addition to the storm which destroyed crops in some sections of Nash County, storms were credited with causing a fire which destroyed a hosiery mill in Raleigh, heavily damaged a building at Shaw University, and caused the collapse of a railroad trestle near Roxboro. There have been many other less severe losses attributed to the adverse weather conditions in the past week or more.

North Carolina has had a small taste of the destructive force the elements have unleashed across the nation this spring. We hope it will have no more.

Selected Short

GEORGETOWN, ILL. NEWS: "Census and private survey figures show . . . that places under 25,000 population account for 56 per cent of all retail outlets of the country . . . the smaller localities as a whole . . . are the big consumers of goods produced and distributed on a national scale . . . producers and distributors, of course, are aware of that fact."

CATSKILL, N. Y. ENTERPRISE: "A witness testifying before a House Agricultural Subcommittee declared that . . . Russians have moved in with a planned 'dumping' of Russian controlled potash on our domestic market, and that Russian potash is a state monopoly, paying no taxes, paying labor a fair wage. The communists know that destroying our economy can be more devastating than dropping a series of atomic bombs upon us. It is part of their cold war."

Glass House Boys Still Throw Stones

It seems that the Post Office Department finds its hands are tied in trying to make Senator McCarthy—the outspoken man from Wisconsin—pay for the materials mailed under his Senate franking privilege which should have been paid for.

Postmaster General Summerfield has asserted his department is powerless to make McCarthy pay for the abuse of his free mailing privilege.

Senator McCarthy and Senator Lehman have been sounding off at each other for the past week or so about alleged abuses of their respective franking privileges. So far nothing except verbal blasts back and forth has come from the issue.

The Reflector has little use for the philosophies expressed by either of the men during their tenure in the Senate; but we do not feel that the taxpayers of the nation should have to pay the bill when men in high office abuse specific privileges which are not granted them as individuals, but to the office which they hold.

If there is no way under the existing statutes that the Post Office Department can gain recourse for the abuse of the franking privilege, some legislation should be put through which will rectify the situation.

From the accusations which have been passed in the past few weeks, it seems that McCarthy and a few other members of the Congress could spend a little time tidying up their glass houses and less time pitching stones at others in similar categories.

It is one thing to gain the title of one of the highest offices in the land. It is quite another to live up to the respect which traditionally has been accorded that office.

Truce May Strengthen Dollar

WASHINGTON—A truce in Korea will have a far-reaching effect on economic conditions in the United States, despite official disclaimers against expectation of important changes. These propositions are designed to discourage any psychological or material let-down in this country and abroad, especially congressional demands for immediate reductions in taxes and defense appropriations.

Although the fighting has cost about $5 billion a year, Secretaries Humphrey and Wilson anticipate a drop of only about one billion in expenditures. Actually, the saving will run to between $2 billion and $3 billion within twelve months. That will virtually offset the loss of revenue from 1954 expiration of emergency personal income and excess profits levies.

The transfer of this amount from Uncle Sam's till to buyers' wallets will help to sustain business activity, employment, wages and the general economic structure. It will serve as a buffer and cushion against a slump.

NO CURTAILMENT OF PROGRAMS—The fact is that neither government nor private experts look for any serious recession from a Korean armistice, barring a peace-at-any-price movement at home and abroad.

The advance spending programs of the Administration, industry and housing interests will not be curtailed merely because of a cease-fire order. Both Wall Street and merchants have already discounted and prepared for it.

Buyers may get the biggest break for a variety of reasons. As they rushed to market at the outbreak of the Korean conflict in June, 1950, fearing a price rise, so they may now hold off in anticipation of a reverse trend. With supply catching up with demand and heavy stocks on hand, dealers in all lines of consumer goods will face stiffer competition. That always means a fall in the price level.

New and higher wage schedules were negotiated before the latest developments in Panmunjon. Thus the purchasing power of millions of workers will be maintained. They can afford to pay old bills and contract new obligations.

PRICES DOWN IN ALL FIELDS—In fact, the American dollar may soon enjoy almost the same purchasing power it did before June, 1950, even without the downward pressure on all prices resulting from a prospective truce. Factors wholly unconnected with that conflict are operating to that desirable end.

Prices for both current and future deliveries of key commodities are falling in every field—food, clothing, housing. Steak steers are selling at Chicago for $7 less a 100 pounds than they were before the Korean outbreak.

The price of livestock feed for fall animals—corn and soybean meal—is dropping. The cost of such staples as wheat and cotton is on the down-grade. Heavy catches of many varieties of fish are forcing down the retail prices.

SIGN OF REAL ESTATE BREAK—Building materials—steel scrap, copper and allied materials—are following the same trend. The real estate market, especially for older homes, shows signs of a break.

Housewives' shifts in food purchases do not appear in government estimate of living costs. At the present moment, beef is relatively low, while all pork cuts are dear. Vegetables and fruits have variable ups and downs.

Naturally the buyers are taking the cheaper articles in abundance, which will eventually lower the prices of high-cost, competing products. But there is no allowance for these customer preferences in the over-all calculations of market basket costs. Federal investigators have neither the time nor money to index human nature when it goes on a selective shopping tour.

ADMINISTRATION WILL BE STRENGTHENED—A further deflationary trend will strengthen the Administration and enhance the Republicans' chances in the 1954 Congressional contests, provided it is not carried too far. But, in the opinion of all the experts, there is no danger of a steep slide, unless a Korean truce results in a final settlement of all disputes with Russia. That is not likely.

Somebody Told Me . . .

Raises Fishing Worms As Hobby

Yesterday when I approached Grace Smith about her worms she said, "You, too? Everybody else has ribbed me about them, and now you!"

It all started this way: Grace and her husband, Dr. James Smith, spend every spare minute fishing. James would call up Grace every Wednesday morning, provided no emergency cases were on hand, and tell her to get some worms for fishing.

Grace would tour the countryside looking for worms and in certain times of the year would find it very difficult. She even visited the city dump on occasion looking for worms.

To solve the problem, Grace wrote the Department of Conservation and Development, Washington, D.C. for information about Red Wigglers, the most desirable of all fishing worms. For more information that would apply more directly to this section of the country she wrote several State Departments of Agriculture.

The response was very gratifying. Every department sent pamphlets full of information about how to raise Red Wigglers. As a result, Grace has so many worms that she gladly gives them away. After two years, she probably has about 9,000.

To get a start, she got 75 worms from Mrs. Sam Hodges, who operates a bait station near Chicod Creek. She split the 75 between two regular-size wash tubs, filled with rich dirt, leaves and peat moss to serve as a mulch and keep the soil from packing.

About every two weeks the worms should be fed corn meal and bacon drippings. With this ideal home and food, the worms lay an egg every seven to ten days and with the set-up Grace has she can raise 10,000 a year.

Another precaution: Frequently sprinkle the tubs with a garden-type sprinkler. And to keep the tubs in even production, alternate when harvesting the worms.

The worms will tend to go to the bottom of their "home." So in order to harvest them easily you simply take a small bucket and scoop it full of dirt. In about half an hour the worms will be on the bottom of the bucket and you can scoop up handfuls.

Grace has plenty of worms and if you are willing to harvest your own she'll let you have some. She seems to enjoy raising them, even if she does get frequent ribbings about her hobby.

And I thank you.

What Other Editors Are Thinking

MEDICAL IN THE SOUTH (The New York Times)

There has recently been dedicated at Chapel Hill a new and thrilling adventure in medical education in the South. The key-stone is the $12,000,000 North Carolina Memorial Hospital. The expanded nursing and dental schools and the four-year school of medicine at the University of North Carolina were launched upon their careers at the same time with an address by the university's former president, Dr. Frank P. Graham, who knew of the imaginative leadership that has been poured into their planning through the years and himself contributed much of the stimulus.

What has been created is a model for medical care and medical education whose influence is sure to extend throughout the Southern region, and the regional influence will be felt throughout the nation. North Carolina looks toward a future with three medical schools. At Chapel Hill there will be the new four-year college, supplemented by the new hospital and the new teaching and research facilities that are part of its equipment. In Winston-Salem there will be the new Bowman Gray School, and in Durham there is the Duke University Medical School, renowned in teaching, research and treatment fields, with its associated hospital. No stars fell on North Carolina, and there are no meteors in her widening horizons of medicine. What has been achieved for medical care is largely the product of education and research. Eight experts in the field served, recommended the present medical program at Chapel Hill in specific outline. But the creation of the commission itself was the end result of much research by social scientists who pointed to the first importance of the growth of medicine in the state. Many of these researchers were at Chapel Hill. They explored studies over the years helped to promote a medical renaissance in their state, and much more. The light spread in many other directions throughout the South. Much academic research, indeed, underlies the industrial progress of North Carolina in recent years. Soon the state will be proving many important things about the relation of good health to state enterprise.

Little Surplus For General Fund Ahead This Time

By LYNN NISBET

SURPLUS—As the end of the fiscal year and the biennium for which appropriations were made by the 1951 General Assembly approaches it becomes apparent that there will not be much "surplus" in the State treasury. The general fund credit balance, that is receipts over and above expenditures, will be approximately what the budget folks estimated two years ago. This will be the first time in many years that the credit balance was not greatly in excess of prior estimates. Governor Umstead said at his latest press conference that he anticipated relatively small surplus in the highway fund for special allocation to particular projects.

might be likened unto a man who has a thousand dollars in his pocket, but owes $10,000 which he cannot pay. To all intents and purposes he is broke. Another man may not have a dime in his pocket, but a million dollars worth of tangible and convertible property. He is not broke. But, if he makes obligations to spend more than his anticipated income from his property he is engaged in deficit spending and eventually will go broke by using up his capital assets. On the other hand, he might be justified in some of his property in order to obtain immediate cash to invest in revenue producing business. That was exactly the position of the State of North Carolina when the people voted millions of dollars for roads and other improvements, and when the people now face the question of voting other millions for school buildings and mental hospitals.

INVESTMENT—Advocates of Federal spending for intangibles have insisted that it was just as much an investment in future security as if the money had bought tangible property. They have argued that if the tide of communism was not stayed in Europe and Asia, the roads and bridges and school houses in America would have no value. The same kind of arguments are used for deficit spending in North Carolina for schools and health and general public welfare. Unless the children of today are given adequate mental and physical training the men and women of tomorrow will not be able to utilize the resources at hand. Whether wise or otherwise, the fact is that both Federal and State governments have invested money borrowed from the past and subsequent generations.

CONFUSING—The Governor recalled that excess collections up to December 1 of last year had already been allocated by then Governor Scott. The bookkeeping terminology of State government accountants is often confusing to the average lady citizen. The terms "surplus," "cash balance," "credit balance," "excess receipts" and other phrases have peculiar meaning. There can be a cash balance without a credit balance, and there can be both without a surplus. And the books can show excess receipts in one column while there is neither a cash balance nor a credit balance, much less an actual surplus, indicated in the other columns of the account books. The State can indulge in deficit spending with millions of dollars in the bank, and it can have a surplus in face of a bank overdraft.

DISTINCTION—Here must be made clear the distinction between mortgaging the future for profit-yielding investment and borrowing against next year's income to pay this year's living expenses. The Federal government has been doing that for a long time, and the recent State Legislature came perilously close to the same policy, if indeed it did not cross over the line. The only bonds ever issued by the State of North Carolina have been for investment in tangible property—railroads and highways and bridges and buildings. Some of the investments may not have been wisely considered, but the fact is the properties can now be sold to private owners at a profit. By contrast, the Federal government has issued multiplied billions of dollars worth of bonds to pay current expenses of wars and for investment in intangibles like domestic-social security benefits and aid to foreign governments. So it is that every child born in North Carolina this year comes into the world in debt about $50 for tangible State investments and about $2,000 for Federal spending, more than half of which was for irrecoverable non-revenue intangibles handed out to people throughout the world before the child was born.

Business Today

The Home Industries

By ELMER ROESSNER
During a visit to homes for the aged in New York, Mrs. Blanche McIntosh, consultant for the State Department of Commerce, told the oldersters that they weren't charging enough for the handicraft with which they supplemented their meager incomes.

Mrs. McIntosh's comment might well have been extended to thousands of home industries. All of us know small business in which a family or a single enterpriser turns out jams, pies or handicraft articles below gross prices and say they are making money. Maybe.

But if they calculate the cost of their rent, their labor and their time, plus the value of the free labor they exact from friends and children, they might discover that they are making no real profit. They are only giving themselves a job and, often, a poorly paying one at that.

PLANNING A SALE?

LEASE A STADIUM!

A series of circus sales seems to be spreading over the country. Two weeks ago a carpet dealer took over Madison Square Garden in New York for a sale that grossed $1,000,000. Last week a chain leased the Chicago Amphitheater for a sale of furniture and home furnishings, again with a $1,000,000 gross. Today, a sale of $2,100,000 worth of carpets and draperies is winding up in Denver's Municipal Auditorium.

SIMULATED CHECKS

MAY LEAD TO TROUBLE

The use of simulated checks as premiums, discount certificates and stimulators of charity contributions is spreading. Organizations using such gimmicks may be heading into trouble! Some of this bait has resembled negotiable checks so closely that merchants have cashed them. Legal-bagles tell us that in those cases, those who issued the checks may be liable to civil action. A good precaution is to stamp them "Non-negotiable."

HANDICAPPED WORKERS

REGISTER 94 PER CENT APPROVAL

The performance of handicapped workers is equal to or better than normal workers, said 94 per cent of the companies responding to a questionnaire by Mill & Factory. Four out of five companies said they employ the handicapped.

NEW PRODUCTS

LOW COST: A 75-volt "B" battery for portable radios, lower priced than any comparable battery on the market, has been announced (by RCA Victor, Camden, N.J.).

STRAINED: Aimed nationally at the infant market are ready-to-serve strained egg yolks (by Berber, Fremont, Mich.). Cans contain the equivalent of 3 yolks.

TUBE: A plastic tube, either transparent or opaque, has been developed for packaging of drug-store items (by B.F. Goodrich Chemical Co., Rose Bldg., Cleveland 15, Ohio). It weighs one-third as much as lead containers, yet will bear a 200-pound load without bursting sides of seams.

BANK ANALYZES

LOSS BY INFLATION

Holdings of savings bonds have found their promised interest eaten up by inflation and taxes, the June newsletter of the National City Bank of New York declares. It explains:

"A $100 savings bond bought for $75 in 1942 had a maturity value of $100 in 1952. For an individual having other income sufficient only to place him in the initial personal income tax bracket, the income tax on the $25 accumulated interest amounted to $5.55, leaving net proceeds of $94.45. When account was taken of the 62.3 per cent increase in the price level as measured by the official cost of living index between 1942 and 1952, the holder found that an 'inflation tax' of $36.43 had been levied against him. Thus, the upshot of the whole transaction is that for the $75 he gave up in 1942, he got back, in 1952, even less in real buying power than he started out with."

The letter did not delineate how the individual would have made out if he put the $75 in a bank savings or thrift account. Possibly lack of space.

Selling Problems Are 'Solved'

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—"You know who has more money than anybody today? Women. What ever you got sell money you got sell it to women to make dough."

"You like that?"

"Yes, I like it."

"Why do you like it?"

"Because I got an idea."

"What's your idea?"

"My idea is two ideas . . . and maybe three. To start with, my first idea is that salesmen make more money than anybody, and that is why women sweat gold."

"And your second idea?"

"My second idea you can already figure—the best salesman is a sucker for another salesman. The best salesman in the world today is a woman, because she sells the best product—herself. I mean this politely, and across our times it is true. And yet, because woman has sold herself so well, it makes her the more wide open as a customer. She's ready to buy."

"Well, that brings us to your third idea—if any. What do you have to sell women?"

"Something they don't have."

"Tell me what women don't have in this climate."

"First, let me tell you what they do have. They have husbands and children, and they are trying to make them both grow up faithful and loyal. They control the money, they have a long sense of duty, and they have responsibility."

"Nothing else?"

"Well, yes, they have the mixed adventure and excitement of trying both to boss and, serve those they love—they wish to be slave and master to husband and son."

"We're getting in deep. I'll grant women are the greatest salesmen, and therefore a wide open market. Now about your third idea—what is it women will buy?"

"The crux of my idea is that women are powerful, and power is always lonely, and therefore, thrifty as women are, they will always spend money to be less lonely and more attractive."

"We seem to be going in circles. What is your product?"

"My product is what every woman wants to purchase—something besides what she has, a thing that won't interrupt her sense of security and obligation, but will give her something new to open, a gilded package tied with a blue ribbon bow."

"And what's inside the package?"

"Oh, it doesn't really make much difference. It's the mystery that'll sell it. I think I'll call it crunch. Yes, that's it—I'll call it crunch."

"There'll be an odor to it, because women often like things that smell sweet, though not in heaven's nostrils. But it will have no real purpose except to fill the gap in women's lives."

"Yes, that is how I will sell it. I will sell crunch as the one thing needed to make the complete woman-crunch, to fill the empty space in every woman's life. And I'll sell it by the carload to make them happy."

"Gee, I think you will, too. But you know how people are. You sell a wife, and her husband gets restless. How about the men?"

"Oh, I figured out the minor market also. What I got in mind is something called crush. You know. Bay rum with a dime after smell, for the fellows to use after shaving to make them feel like men."

Two Pitt Men Attend Farming Short Course

WILLIAM EDWARDS      PAUL BRAXTON

Two Pitt County men engaged in farming, have been sent by the Guaranty Bank and Trust Company to State College for the N.C. Bankers Association "Short Course in Modern Farming". The two men from Pitt are William Robert Edwards, 28, of Facto-rus and Paul Braxton, 28, of Route 2, Winterville. Both of the young men were selected by the county agents to receive the fellowship given by the banks of Pitt County.

The two will be in school for two weeks at State College where the course in modern farming is being offered. They left the county yesterday to attend the short course at State.

Committees consisting of county bankers, county agents, and vocational agriculture teachers selected the applicants to attend the course from among young high school graduates, 18 to 30, definitely committed to farming, who had made outstanding records in 4-H or Future Farmers of America work.

D.W. Colvard, head of the Department of Animal Industry and J.H. Wolfe, executive secretary of the Bankers Association yesterday welcomed the fellowship winners to the college. The purpose of the course was outlined and the organization of the school explained.

Following a number of addresses by State College teachers and farm officials and a tour of State College, regular classes and field demonstrations began today and will continue through Friday, June 26, when the bankers will honor the "graduates" at a banquet.

Warns 'Chinch' Bugs In Season

Pitt Farmers were warned today to be on the lookout for chinch bugs on their corn crop.

County Agent S.C. Winchester commented, "If a farmer has corn planted close to small grain or rye grass and hasn't looked at it lately, he had better go take a look."

Winchester said for the last week or 10 days in Pitt County chinch bugs have been moving from the small grain and rye fields into corn fields and are beginning to attack the corn crop.

The small insects attack corn in literally thousands, attaching themselves to the corn stalks near the ground and suck sap from the stalk.

If chinch bugs are found in a corn field, Winchester said, they can be controlled by dusting with 20 per cent toxaphene or one per cent parathion, or by spraying with emulsion concentrate toxaphene at the rate of two pounds of technical toxaphene per acre.

The county agent said corn already infested with chinch bugs should be treated, and also any adjacent field of small grain should be treated for about two rods beyond the point between the two fields. The space between adjacent small grain fields should be plowed into a ridge, smoothed over and sprayed or dusted heavily to destroy the insects.

Boll Weevil Spreading Generally Through Pitt

The harrowing little boll weevil is spreading generally throughout Pitt County as the 1953 cotton is beginning to "square".

Winchester said the boll weevil first appeared in the county about two weeks ago and has been spreading to all sections since then. The cotton crop which the weevils attack is just reaching the stage where the weevils can do some damage.

The county agent urged all farmers in the county with cotton crops to begin immediately to follow recommended methods for boll weevil control.

Both dusting and spraying methods are recommended by the North Carolina Agricultural Extension Service for boll weevil control. For dusting the following insecticides are recommended: 20 per cent toxaphene; three per cent BHC and five per cent DDT; two-and-one half per cent DDT; two-and-one-half per cent Heptachlor and five per cent DDT.

Recommended insecticides for spraying cotton for boll weevils are: two pounds toxaphene per acre; one-third pound BHC plus one-half pound DDT per acre; one-half pound DDT per acre; one-fourth pound Aldrin plus one-half pound DDT per acre; one-fourth pound Heptachlor plus one-half pound DDT per acre.

Winchester emphasized that three applications of either dust or spray treatment are necessary for thorough treatment of cotton against boll weevils. "If a farmer is just going to use one or two applications, he will not do much good," the county agent said. He pointed out that one or two applications of spray or dust "will kill some weevils", but said it takes three applications of spray or dust at seven-day intervals to break up the boll weevil cycle and give any reasonable boll weevil control.

Pitt County has an estimated 12,000 acres of cotton under cultivation this year, about the same acreage as was devoted to the crop last year. Winchester said the cotton crop in the county so far is in "splendid condition". There is a good stand of cotton, and the crop has made "very satisfactory" progress.

It was two years ago that the cotton crop in North Carolina was ravaged by the attacks of boll weevils. During that year it was estimated nearly 40 per cent of the total cotton crop was lost to boll weevil attacks representing a loss of almost $40,000,000 to farmers.

Heard Husband Shoot Himself Over Telephone

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (UP) — Authorities blamed domestic troubles today for the suicide of a man with a pistol shot heard by his pretty brunette wife over the telephone here yesterday.

They said Joseph Arthur Tredway, 26, telephoned his wife and told her "you'll never see me again." As she listened he fired a .22 caliber bullet into his heart. The horrified wife, Mrs. Virginia Tredway, 23, telephoned police and told them she heard a shot, a groan and then silence. Officers found Tredway dead on the floor at his brother's home.

Tredway had been scheduled to appear in domestic relations court a few hours after the tragedy to answer charges of assault and non-support. The charges were filed by his wife after the couple separated, detective C. J. Dixon said.

Focus Attention On The Home In Child Education

"The Rediscovery of the Home in Child Education" will be discussed at a conference to be held at East Carolina College Thursday, June 25, under the direction of Dr. Carl L. Adams, head of the East Carolina department of psychology.

Planned largely for teachers of young children, the meeting, says Dr. Adams, will focus attention on a reaffirmation of the influence of the home in the early training of a child. Those who are interested are invited to attend and to participate in discussions held as part of the program for the day.

Dr. Albert E. Lovejoy of Lynchburg College in Virginia will be principal speaker at the conference. This summer he is serving as a visiting professor at the University of North Carolina, where he is working with the Bureau of Family Research.

Two sessions have been scheduled, both to be held in the North Dining Hall on the campus. Dr. Judson White of the college psychology department will preside at a morning session at 10 o'clock, and East Carolina President John D. Messick will welcome guests. A sound film "Meeting the World," on the subject of child development, will be presented. Dr. Adams will discuss the conference subject, its problems and its implications, and a group discussion will be held.

Five-Man Team Plan Stamp Out Swine Disease

RALEIGH (UP) — A five-man field force of the State Department of Agriculture is laying groundwork for "strict" enforcement of a new law aimed at stamping out the deadly swine disease, vesicular exanthema.

The act passed by the 1953 General Assembly goes into effect July 8. It provides that commercial garbage feeders obtain permits from the commissioner of agriculture and that such garbage be boiled for at least 30 minutes before feeding.

After More Than 2 Years, Atomic Spies Are Approaching Final Hours

Twenty five months ago, Julius and Ethel Rosenberg were found guilty of spying in wartime. They were sentenced to death and now await execution this Thursday in Sing Sing prison. The case has touched off debate around the world and seems certain to go down as one of the most publicized cases in history. This is the first of three dispatches reviewing their story and the five-year investigation which bared the network of American spies who stole U.S. atomic bomb secrets.

By NORMAN J. MONTELLIER
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP)—Julius and Ethel Rosenberg await death in Sing Sing because a Russian fell in love with Canada. Barring an 11th hour stay they will be the first Americans ever sentenced by a civil court to die for espionage, for conspiring to transmit atomic bomb secrets to Russia in wartime.

The story began more than seven years ago in Canada. It was 1945 when a Soviet embassy cipher clerk, Ivor Gouzenko, went to Canadian police. He had fallen in love with Canada, he said. He had something to tell which he thought Canada should know. To prove what he said he brought documents and files from the Soviet embassy.

He revealed the existence of a Soviet spy apparatus to steal Canadian, U.S. and British secrets in wartime. The case shocked the three nations—even more so when Russia admitted the espionage was directed from her embassy in Canada, then said scornfully that it got no secrets because Russian scientists were more advanced.

The trail Gouzenko blazed spread to England and the United States.

On March 5, 1946, in London, Dr. Alan Nunn May, one of Britain's leading wartime atomic experts, pleaded guilty to a charge of transmitting secret information. He was sentenced to 10 years in jail.

Nunn May's diary pointed to another scientist. Nearly four years later, the FBI completed the identification. In February 1950, British police arrested the great scientist Dr. Klaus Fuchs.

Fuchs confessed at once. He pleaded guilty and was sentenced to 14 years in jail.

Fuchs had described his U.S. contact—but he didn't know his name. The FBI had to find a man with scientific training, of a given description, who had been in defined areas at certain times. One by one, the suspects were eliminated by the FBI.

On May 23, 1950, FBI agents arrested Philadelphia biochemist Harry Gold, then 39. The charge: being Fuchs' contact man, a courier for two Soviet agents, active in espionage for Communists since 1935, concentrating on military espionage since 1940. He confessed.

Gold talked voluntarily. On June 16, 1950, David Greenglass, former U.S. Army sergeant assigned to the Los Alamos bomb project, was arrested.

Greenglass confessed, too. On July 17, 1950 the FBI arrested his brother-in-law, Julius Rosenberg.

Mrs. Ethel Rosenberg said at that time: "We were expecting something to happen."

On Aug. 11, 1950, Ethel was arrested. Six days later the Rosenbergs were indicted for conspiring to transmit atomic secrets to Russia.

In October, 1950, another indictment added David Greenglass, his wife, Ruth, and electronics engineer Morton Sobell to the previous indictment. Sobell was charged with passing U.S. radar defense secrets to the Rosenbergs.

The charges were that Gold was a contact man in the U.S. for the Soviets. He took information from Fuchs and passed it on to two Soviet agents. The Rosenbergs were accused of recruiting Ethel's brother, David, to work for them and of receiving secret information from David.

The Rosenbergs pleaded innocent on arraignment. David pleaded guilty.

Gold was tried first. In December, 1950, he was sentenced to 30 years in prison—the maximum jail term as an alternative to the death penalty under the 1917 Espionage Act for a wartime crime. On March 6, 1951, the trial of the Rosenbergs and Morton Sobell began. David's final hearing and sentencing was postponed until after the Rosenberg case.

Later experts testified that what Greenglass had described and sketched was the Nagasaki-type bomb—long before it was exploded.

Ruth Greenglass testified that Ethel persuaded her to carry the first message to David asking him to work for the Rosenbergs. She testified that Ethel told her: "Julius has succeeded in doing what he wanted to do all along." Julius, she testified, told her: "For two years, I tried to get in touch with the people who would assist me to be able to help more directly than as a party member."

There was this difference between the Rosenbergs and the others, that they sought out Soviet agents to propose espionage, that they devised the method of transmitting information.

The trial lasted 15 days. The jury of 11 men and one woman deliberated 7 hours and 42 minutes. The verdict: Guilty.

One week later, April 5, 1951, Federal Judge Irving R. Kaufman pronounced sentence: For Sobell, 30 years. For the Rosenbergs, death.

"Your crime," he said, "was worse than murder."

Local Theatre Plans To Install New Three-Dimensional Feature

Movie-goers of Greenville soon will be seeing motion pictures in the third dimension, for the screen of the Pitt Theatre will "come to life" early next month with the first showing of a natural vision film.

The announcement came today from Gordon Sturm, manager of the Pitt Theatre, who added that equipment necessary to show the three dimension film already has been ordered and will be installed immediately upon arrival.

Currently, local motion picture fans are seeing films in only two dimensions, height and width. "Three-D", as it is commonly called, will add a new dimension—depth, or thickness.

Installation of the equipment will enable the theatre to show "Three-D" films as well as the present two-dimension films.

Sturm pointed out that Hollywood has stepped up production of this new type of screen entertainment; but for an indefinite period the theatre will alternate between the two types of motion pictures.

The theatre manager describes the three-dimension effect as follows: Objects are photographed from two different points of view, each of the camera lens converging on the subject almost exactly as to human eyes. In the theatre, two projectors cast two separate pictures on the screen in "super-imposition", passing first through polaroid filters.

Images are reflected back to the viewer from a special polarized reflective type screen. The theatre patron is provided with polaroid viewers which serve to strip the image cast by the left projector for the left eye, and the image cast by the right projector for the right eye, thus bringing about a "three-D" effect for the viewer.

A new-type screen will be installed at the theatre to heighten the effect. Installation of equipment at the Pitt Theatre will make it the first local theatre with a complete "three-D" installation approved and installed by technical experts with an oversized special screen, greatly increased screen illumination, natural vision filters, complete polarization light and special lenses.

Word Is Going Around H-Bomb Set Off Storm

WASHINGTON (UP)—The word is going around that last fall's big hydrogen explosion at Eniwetok kicked off a local hurricane, junior-grade.

The Atomic Energy Commission won't comment on the report—although it does not contradict official declarations that nuclear explosions are not long-range weather makers.

If the big blast at Eniwetok did start a big wind going, as the reports say, presumably it was merely triggering off, on a local scale, something that was all set to happen anyway.

The Marshall Islands, in which Eniwetok still is situated, are a spawning ground of typhoons, as hurricanes are called in the Pacific. And last fall's tests were held in the post-equinoctial season of unstable weather conditions when anything can happen.

Unofficial eyewitness accounts of the big hydrogen blast spoke of a terrific shock wave, a long-lasting and extremely hot fireball miles across, a tremendous updraft which pushed the explosion cloud 15 miles straight up, and a fire storm on what was left of the small island where the test was staged.

Such effects, according to meteorologists, might well kick off a storm that was all set to be triggered.

Some of the eyewitness accounts spoke of violent winds after the blast. According to one, a hangar 35 miles away was knocked askew and one of its doors was ripped off.

Official sources here have confirmed that past tests at Eniwetok occasionally set off brief showers close to the explosion site. Similar showers occurred at the 1946 atomic tests at Bikini.

No such effects have been observed, however, at the continental proving grounds in Nevada where comparatively small atomic devices are exploded.

One reason suggests itself for the AEC's refusal to confirm that last fall's explosion started a small typhoon: Such an effect might serve as a rough gauge of the blast's yield of violence.

In a report two years ago on the A-bomb and the weather, Col. Ben Holtzman, Air Force meteorologist, said:

"To match just the kinetic energy of a moderate-sized hurricane, one would need approximately 1,000 atomic bombs."

Whether last November's explosion was that energetic has never been disclosed. But AEC member Thomas E. Murray said last April 25 that the Eniwetok test put "within the range" of man's grasp "means to exterminate the human race."

And in a speech on May 29, Murray added that man "can, as it were, generate hurricanes, earthquakes, and consuming fires."

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UP)—The last of the Milwaukee beer was almost gone today, and brew-lovers turned to out-of-town brands.

A brewery strike, now in its 34th day, had dried up the output of six local breweries, including Schlitz, Pabst, Miller and Blatz.

Negotiations between the breweries and the CIO United Brewery Workers continued under the supervision of Commissioner Clent Murphy of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service.

Barbados in the West Indies is about an eighth the size of Rhode Island but has 210,000 inhabitants, making it one of the most densely populated areas in the world.

Practical Politics Upset DeGasperi

By PHIL NEWSOM
United Press Foreign News Editor

A neapolitan shipowner named Achille Lauro has just given the world an impressive demonstration of practical politics.

He did it with neon signs, free spaghetti parties and a demand for the restoration of the Italian monarchy.

He didn't win, but he accomplished what he set out to do. He prevented Premier Alcide De Gasperi's center coalition from winning, and now looks upon himself as a "third force" in Italian politics which will not necessarily oppose the De Gasperi government but rather will act as a "control."

De Gasperi's coalition parties failed by only 57,000 votes to win the 50.1 per cent of the total needed in last week's Italian general elections to take absolute control of the Chamber of Deputies. As it is, their majority was shaved to 16 seats.

Lauro's Monarchists polled nearly 2,000,000 votes and won 40 seats in the chamber, giving them the balance of power.

The disappointed De Gasperi referred bitterly to the Monarchists as "deviationists" and said they had befriended the Communists.

Lauro's future ambitions are more suspected than proven. He entered politics actively only about three years ago—some said because he was tired of just making money.

His first job was to get himself elected mayor of Naples. His methods were reminiscent of those used by a famous mayor in the United States nearly 40 years ago—Big Bill Thompson of Chicago.

Thompson didn't need money because he inherited a bundle of real estate cash, but he lit up his automobile with spotlights and campaigned boldly against the King of England.

He was having a lot of fun for himself and it was enough for Chicagoans. They elected him.

Lauro, by demanding the return of King Umberto, also picked himself a good safe issue. Then he helped things along with a liberal scattering of 1,000 lire notes (about $1.50), free spaghetti, fireworks, canned tomatoes and redemption of pawn tickets worth up to eight dollars.

He also promised Neapolitans a championship soccer team, jobs and subsidies for everyone and a rebuilt Naples that would become the "Pearl of the Mediterranean."

That was enough for the Neapolitans. They elected him, too. Lauro has made two huge fortunes and lost one of them.

He joined the Fascist party in 1933, 11 years after Mussolini came to power, and under Mussolini's patronage acquired a large merchant fleet that carried troops during the Ethiopian war. Hence his first fortune.

The allies jailed him for awhile in 1943 because of his Fascist connections.

After his release he began rebuilding his fleet with the aid of private British and American loans and government subsidies, and now it is at pre-war level of 57 ships.

The safest thing to say about Lauro at the moment seems to be that he is anti-Communist; politically is close to the Fascists in that he represents the extreme right and has been carefully up to this point about saying how far he will go in supporting De Gasperi's pro-Western foreign policy.

NEW YORK (UP)—Margaret Truman, daughter of the former president, has signed a new one-year contract with the National Broadcasting Co. calling for nine radio or television appearances between July 1 and June 30, 1954. It was announced today.

The new contract was the second renewal of that which Miss Truman first signed with the network in 1950. NBC refused to say what she would be paid for her appearances but said it represented a "slight increase." Her original contract provided for $4,000 for each TV appearance and $2,500 for appearances on radio.

Sports Reflections

BY Tommie Lupton

A New York Yankee win today would tie the record for the most consecutive victories by an American League team. Casey Stengel's men could very easily go way over the record this week, for they play a series with the lowly St. Louis Browns, who are currently riding a streak themselves—a 14-game losing skid.

After the Browns come the Detroit Tigers, who have not been winning too many games. The Tigers should not be much of an obstacle in the pathway of the blazing Yanks, who will be playing in a 12-game home stand.

Trailing by 10 1-2 games, Cleveland plays at Philadelphia the first of the week and hits the capital city over the weekend for a series with the Washington Senators. Win or lose we doubt if the Indians or any other team will gain on those Yanks, for the New Yorkers just aren't to be denied the distinction of being the first major league team to win five consecutive pennants and World Series.

Wesley Johnson of Greenville won the weekly fishing contest of Williams Sport Shop with a 13 ounce broom. There were no bass entered in the contest this past week. Bass have recently been spawning, and they do not seem to bite during this season.

There has been good fishing in the Tar River and Chocowinity Creek, according to reports received by Woodrow Williams, owner of Williams Sport Shop.

Ben Hogan's decision to enter the British Open Golf championship at Carnoustie, Scotland, was warmly greeted by golfers all over the world. The golfer from Texas has won every major golf title in this country, but he has never made an attempt at the British tourney before.

There has been considerable pressure exerted upon Hogan to compete in the British Open. After Hogan had posted a new Masters' record of 274 in winning his second Masters' crown, golf leaders pointed out that his place among the all-time greats of the game could never be secure until he demonstrated his ability to win on the British type of golf courses and in the oldest of all open championships, the British Open.

It is likely that Hogan, with a week of practice, could adjust his game to the British links, where the wind rips across the fairways and the rough and greens are bigger and faster than anything we have in this country. Bantam Ben has always managed to meet the challenge of any golf course in this country, and we feel confident that Ben Hogan will bring the British Open title home with him when he comes.

Lions Trounce Jaycees 9-0 Behind Staton's Pitching

Lion Hurler Allows Only Three Hits, Strikes Out 11; Harrison Has Perfect Day At Bat For The Winners

Giving up only three hits, Charles Staton hurled the Lions to a 9-0 win over the Jaycees in a Little League contest played yesterday afternoon at Elm Street Park.

The Lions picked up their second win against no defeats in the second half of league play by walloping the first half winners. Staton fanned 11 JC batters and issued only two free passes. Buddy Murray was the only Jaycee batter to collect two hits off the winning pitcher.

Catcher Aubrey Harrison had two singles and double for three times at bat to pace the Lion attack. Albert Crawford and Carl Whitfield each had a two-base blow for the victors.

Striking out nine and issuing no bases on balls, losing pitcher Walter Lee Allen was touched for only six base-hits, but seven miscues in the field helped the Lion cause.

The Elks will be after their second win today when they play the Moose at 5 o'clock at the Little League park.

Miami Physician Says Sam Snead's Hand Would Heal

MIAMI, Fla. (UP)—A Miami physician said today that a fractured bone in Sam Snead's left hand would heal if the famed golfer would put it in a cast for three weeks after playing for more than two years with the injury.

Dr. Ralph Ferguson, Snead's physician, confirmed yesterday that Snead has been touring the golfing circuit since 1950 with a fractured hand he suffered while practicing for the Miami Open.

Snead, who received the news after Ferguson took X-rays, said however that he already is committed to play in two tournaments, the Professional Golfers Association tourney and an open at Cleveland next week.

Ferguson said the White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., pro would delay treatment until the tournaments are completed.

Snead was advised in 1950 to put a cast on the hand but because he "couldn't fish" with the aluminum brace on his hand, he occasionally removed it and so the fracture never healed, Ferguson said.

He called the fracture "an avulsion type" which causes pain "like a bad sprain."

Milwaukee Fans Welcome Braves Home After Trip

MILWAUKEE (UP)—Thousands of baseball-crazy Milwaukeeans turned out today to welcome home the Milwaukee Braves with brass bands, pretty girls and decorations in a railroad station at which most of the players did not arrive.

The Braves came home from an Eastern road trip on which they won 15 games and more affection from their new fans, if that was possible. The fact that they lost seven games and came home in second place, six percentage points behind the Brooklyn Dodgers, seemed to be forgotten.

The careful planning of Milwaukee's professional welcomers—centered with the Civic Progress Commission—almost was derailed when the Braves announced that most of the players would fly here Monday night after their game with the Pittsburgh Pirates so the team could rest before meeting the Philadelphia Phils in a two-night doubleheader tonight.

The welcoming committee was shocked and the club moved quickly to order the ballplayers to be at the railroad station when Manager Charlie Grimm, two reserve outfielders and two coaches arrived by train.

Yankees Can Win Pennant By Playing .500 Baseball

NEW YORK (UP)—No one yet has started calling these Yankees the greatest of all time, but they have a strong chance today to wind up with the best winning record in American League history.

Even if they cool off, as Casey Stengel fears, they still could win the pennant with their present cushion by playing only a little better than .500 baseball the rest of the way.

Here are the cold facts—the statistics which have built hopes of all other American League clubs in the deep freeze:

The Yankees, with their 13-game winning streak intact, now have a fantastic percentage of .788 with a 41-11 won and lost record. Moreover, they are beginning a 14-game home stand in Yankee Stadium against the same four Western clubs they bulldozed in their all-victorious road trip, starting with

GWM, Dairies Score Wins In Softball Play

Southern Bread scored 17 runs on only seven hits to take a win from Carolina Dairies, who tallied 13 times on 16 base-hits, in the Men's Softball League in the first game of a doubleheader played last night at Rose Athletic Field.

In the second contest Garner-Wynne-Manning took their sixth victory of the season against only one loss when they stomped the Granitiers 15-8 in a contest that was halted by the four-run curfew after two and a half innings had been played.

Roger Mills led the Southern Bread attack with two hits, while Dick Heller was lashing out three safeties in a losing cause. Five of the Dairies' batters had two base hits each.

Behind the big bats of Frank Maennie and Johnny Foell, Garner-Wynne-Manning scored 15 runs in two innings, and went on to beat the Granitiers. Maennie drove a long hit over the leftfield fence for his fourth homerun of the year.

Otto Fenias Asks President To Play In Benefit Match

MIAMI, Fla. (UP)—President Eisenhower has been asked to be the first of 100,000 expected entrants in a charity golf tournament honoring Babe Zaharias.

Otto Fenias, national director of the Damon Runyon Cancer Fund golf tournament, said he and Lou Serbin, employer of Mrs. Zaharias, asked the President's participation in a telegram to the White House yesterday.

Fenias said 9,687 golf clubs throughout the nation would take part in the tourney beginning next Monday and "we are confident the entries will reach 100,000."

The 71 shot by Mrs. Zaharias at Miami Beach in her last tournament before she was operated on for cancer will be the contestants' target.

Wee Willie Is Happy Playing With Yanks

By MILTON RICHMAN
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP)—They used to tell Willie Miranda he'd never get anywhere because he was too small and he couldn't hit hard enough to put a dent in a tub of butter.

But Willie, born in Velasco, Cuba, had the last laugh on all of them today because he is exactly where he always dreamed of being—with the world champion New York Yankees.

"Yes almost too good to be true," grinned the nappy, 150-pound, five-foot, eight-inch Miranda who was purchased by the Yankees from the St. Louis Browns last Friday.

"All my life, I hope and think someday maybe I be weeth the Yonkees and now ees hard to believe I am."

Acquired as insurance for veteran Phil Rizuto, who probably will be traded during future double-headers, the 26-year old Miranda is itching to see as much action as possible with his new teammates.

"I no like sit on bench all the time," Willie frowned. "Falla sit on bench all the time, he lose ambition. No good."

There was no future in St. Louis for Willie, not as long as young Billy Hunter, the Browns' 890,000 shortstop, was hale and hearty enough to play. Miranda got to bat only six times with the Browns this season, collecting one hit.

Many American league players claim that Miranda is the outstanding defensive shortstop in the circuit.

"Willie is the last word in fielding," admits Bronynie Manager Marv Marion. "But the big question is his hitting."

Miranda, who batted .211 in 77 games last season while shuttling between the Browns and White Sox, feels he can compile a respectable batting average if he is permitted to play often enough.

Since entering organized baseball five years ago, the good-looking, switch-hitting Willie has hit only one home run. But Casey Stengel figures Miranda will be an excellent fill-in for the 34-year old Rizuto.

Olson Sneers At Those Who Call Him 'Moody' Fighter

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Staff Writer
NEW YORK (UP)—Carl (Bobo) Olson sneered today at those who describe him as a "moody" fighter and retorted that he just couldn't see why he has to prove his right to fight Randy Turpin for the vacant middleweight championship of the world.

The prematurely balding Olson will have to do just that Friday night at Madison Square Garden when he battles determined Paddy Young for the American end of the title. But Bobo has no doubt that he'll uphold the 21-2-1 odds in his favor.

"I'll beat him," the Honolulu hammerer says in his quiet way. "and then they can't make that Turpin fight too soon for me."

At 24, and with 52 wins in 87 fights, Olson, despite his linguistic lethargy, is no overly modest wallflower. He simply believes that he and Turpin are the two best middleweights in the world—and that's that.

"I just didn't feel that I should have to get embroiled in a long elimination tournament," explained Bobo who simply disdained the runoff until they worked it down to where he was only to face Young.

Meanwhile, there has been a surprising shift among boxing men toward the chances of Bobo's opponent come Friday night. Paddy has been training well as he works with a furious aggressiveness. There is a supporting feeling that Olson still has to prove his worth.

Not in this corner. The last time Bobo lost was back in March of 1952, when he dropped a 15-round decision to the retiree Sugar Ray Robinson—as who didn't? Since then he has walloped such as Jimmy "Beau" Walker, Carter, Robert Villanilla, Eugene Halstrom and Joe Sala. Against Turpin it may be a different tale, despite reports that the Lexington larriper has "gone back" in recent months, but that's another story.

Right now the issue is whether he can beat Young, and, despite the odds in his favor, Bobo isn't looking past his current foe. Olson undoubtedly is one of the colorful fighters in the ring today. Son of a Portuguese-Hawaiian mother and a Swedish-American father, he grew up around Fort Shafter where his father was an Army sergeant.

Unlike most Hawaiians, Bobo could ride before he could swim and the first athletic aim was to be a jockey. But he ate too much. Seven years ago, at 17, Bobo married a girl who was a high wire performer in a circus. Now they have three children, two cars and a lot of fine dreams about eventually going into the importing business.

First, though, must come that long-awaited bout with Turpin. Bobo.

Trading Deadline Passes; Indians' Infield Question

NEW YORK (UP)—The major-league trading deadline passed quietly today leaving the Cleveland Indians' infield still a question-mark and the Brooklyn Dodgers still looking for "one more pitcher."

The chimes of midnight officially silenced all haggling in the player markets and the big-league clubs now will have to make the run from here to the wire with what they've got, plus perhaps some help from their farm teams.

Monday's four-for-four deal between the Indians and the Tigers was the last major swap of the season, and the experts were busy today trying to dope out what had—and had not—been done.

First of all, the Indians are apparently ready to go with light-hitting George Strickland as their regular shortstop as they try to overhaul the streaking New York Yankees, 10 1/2 games ahead in the American League pennant chase.

Despite hot last-minute rumors that the Indians were trying to get shortstop Billy Hunter from the Browns, the only new infielder added to the Tribe roster was Owen Friend in the Tigers' swap and in exchange they gave away Ray Boone. Thus Strickland, who has been the Tribe's regular shortstop since May 29, is apparently set in his job. At present he's hitting a fine 290, but his lifetime average of .261 hints he may start slipping.

Art Houtteman was the "big name" in the Tigers-Indians deal and he'll be given a chance, says Manager Al Lopez, to earn a regular starting job for the Tribe. Bill Wight will get the same chance, while catcher Joe Ginsberg will understudy Jim Hegan.

The Tigers, struggling to vacate last place, plan to use Boone at third base and the other three players, pitchers Al Aber, Dick Wilt, and Steve Gromek are expected to be starters.

The Yankees solidified their position by picking up Willie Miranda from the Browns in the last week. Slick-fielding Willie is the Yanks' "insurance" against a collapse by veteran shortstop Phil Rizzuto.

In the National League, the Dodgers were unsuccessful in their search for another starting pitcher to bolster their wobbly staff. Manager Charley Dressen observed that "nobody is trading pitchers, good ones, anyway." The Dodgers had been reported trying to land Bob Rush, Warren Hacker, or Johnny Klippstein from the Cubs.

The Cardinals made their last move by buying catcher Sal Yvars from the Giants for a reported $25,000. Manager Ed Stanky said Yvars would understudy Del Rice as well as seeing frequent use as a pinch-hitter and predicted, "Sal will help us a lot."

But, as usual, the biggest trades were the ones that never were made.

Gil Turner Sets Sights On Davey, Crack At Title

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—Gil Turner of Philadelphia set his sights on Chuck Davey and another crack at Kid Gavilan's welterweight title today after handing Johnny Saxton of New York the first defeat of his 41 bout career with the aid of a bit of strategy on the part of his manager.

"Lots of people thought I was washed up," the 22-year old Turner said. "But I fooled them."

Turner used some expert help from his pilot, George Katz, in registering his upset, split-decision over Saxton Monday night.

Turner had a tendency to fade in the stretch of his recent bouts, particularly his recent loss by Joe Giardello. Katz decided to do something about it. He permitted Turner to enter the ring in quest of his 37th victory in 40 bouts at 133 1/2 pounds, the heaviest of his career.

Katz figured the extra weight would give him strength, and the idea worked.

Turner, expected to tire in the bout, actually came through with his best work in the late stages and won the battle by out-punching Saxton in a toe-to-toe exchange in the final minute of the final round.

Suggs Heads Field Of Women Golfers In Open Tourney

NEW YORK (UP)—Louis Suggs of Atlanta, Ga., heads the field of 38 which will compete in the first Women's Open golf championship at Rochester, N.Y., June 25-27, the U.S. Golf Association announced today.

The names of 17 professionals and 21 amateurs were in the box when entries closed Monday night. The event, taken over this year by the U.S.G.A. at the request of the Ladies' Professional Golf Association, was won last year by Miss Suggs. The Atlanta star leads in earnings this year with $15,766.25.

Braves' Stadium Gets Additional Seating Capacity

MILWAUKEE (UP)—The Finance Committee of the Milwaukee County Board Monday approved a $1,300,000 addition to the new County Stadium which would increase the total seating capacity to 42,500.

The stadium, which already has cost the county more than $5,000,000, is being used for baseball for the first time this year by the Milwaukee Braves. The Green Bay Packers also will play three National Football League games and one exhibition contest in the stadium this fall.

The addition, approved by the supervisors would provide 7,000 additional permanent seats by extending the stands down the right and left field lines.

Gale smiled. "Just because this is your first night home, I'll make a big concession. You can have the first shower."

Mandell turned it off. The old familiar lump of ice began to form in his stomach. Thinking hot water was cold and cold water was hot had been one of his former hallucinations.

"No. No monkey business," Mandell agreed. He stood by, ready to warn her. It wasn't necessary. Gale turned on the cold-water tap, and it apparently emitted cold water for her.

"Awk! Don't give your right names, boys. Awk! Here comes the law." Mandell looked up at the bird. The cover was off the cage. And he'd seen Gale cover the bird. It was more than he could take.

Market Reports Stock And

NEW YORK (UP)—Industrial stocks declined to a new low since June 3, 1952 in a more active stock market today.

Other leading groups eased further after yesterday's decline, but held above the year's lows.

Today's decline, like yesterday's, was paralleled by a break in the grain market. September wheat fell more than five cents a bushel and sold at $1.89 1/4. U. S. government bonds had small gains, and their firmness helped offset the drop in grains.

Stocks registered narrow changes with most of them on the upside. Opening prices had a sizeable group of gains, reflecting bargain hunting. Toward noon net losses were in the majority without real pressure in any sector.

Steel issues performed better than other departments of the industrial group. The leaders lost 1/2 point in dull trading. Motors yielded a bit more. Some rails were off more than a point, notably Atlantic Coast Line and Union Pacific.

Amerasia gained more than a point and Cities Service lost more than a point in the oils. Bendis gave up one in the aircrafts. Metals eased with Anaconda at a new low. General Motors made a new low in its section.

Merchant Board Hears Parking Set-Up Praised

Reports made last night at the Greenville Merchants Association director's meeting revealed that people, when it comes to parking are "still honest."

After hearing a report that the courtesy parking plan is still running along successfully, board members said they were pleased with the results shown in the operation of the plan and said all comments they have heard were complimentary.

It was brought out in the report that a note attached to one of the courtesy envelopes contained a quarter and the following message: "Think I'll move to Greenville—friendliest and most complimentary town I have visited." The note was signed by a Lenoir County resident.

Membership chairman R. F. Thompson reported as a new member the Dixie Auto Finance. A meeting of the membership committee is planned for June 23 when plans will be formulated to increase the association's membership.

A report was made by H. L. Ormond, finance committee chairman, and the committee was thanked for the work they have done.

The board will dispense with the July meeting as has been the custom for years.

This Time, It's Progress That Is Threatening Tub

WASHINGTON, (UP)—Something they call progress came along here today to threaten one of man's noblest creations—the bathtub.

For as long as anyone can remember, grimy youngsters have fought in vain against this ancient institution. But the new threat is apparently more serious.

Before the Washington city commissioners is a proposal to let builders give tubs the heave-ho in favor of fancy new shower stalls in all new homes.

Builders plugged the idea to eliminate duplicating facilities. Without a murmur, the commissioners' advisory committee added its endorsement.

Only a small band of dedicated citizens arose at a hearing yesterday to protest.

It would be a disservice to women, said Mrs. Edward B. Morris, secretary of the Federation of Citizens' Associations.

"Women, especially those who have to go to a beauty parlor to have their hair done, don't like to get under a shower," she said.

Mrs. Allen Shepard, president of the Citizens Association of Georgetown, spoke with obvious affection.

"To me," she said, "a bathtub is one of the nicest things in the world. During the war I lived in a place that just had a shower—'hat's not good.'"

Plumbers cited some spiritual factors.

"After a hard day's work, a ten-minute stretch-out in a bathtub nearly full of good hot water rejuvenates tired spirits like nothing else," said I. Fairchild.

Any way they look at it, the commissioners could see they could get into a lot of hot water. They decided to think about the problem for a while.

In a bathtub, probably.

Monday's Cases In Police Court

By CHESTER WALSH

In Police Court Monday, Judge Charles H. Whedbee found a teenage girl not guilty of temporary larceny of an automobile. He taxed the prosecuting witness with court costs ($15) for malicious and frivolous prosecution.

James L. Jackson, who gave his residence as 2206 Dickinson Avenue, testified that he loaned his car to Miss Armisses Joyce Wainwright, Route 1, Greenville, to make a short trip to her home. When she did not return it promptly, Jackson swore out a warrant against the woman. The car was found in Grifton, an officer testified. Judge Whedbee, after hearing the evidence, learned that Jackson met the young woman in a Dickinson Avenue cafe and had known her only several hours when he let her have his car. He dismissed the case.

Robert Pettus, Negro, was fined $10 for speeding and $15 for driving without an operator's license.

Lee Conney, charged with violation of his probation judgment was ordered to serve the six months road sentence previously imposed by the court for non-support of his wife, Mavis Conney, and three children.

Senate Demos Predict 'Backfire' In Elections

WASHINGTON (UP)—Farm state Democrats said today failure of the GOP-controlled Senate to boost funds for soil conservation payments will be felt in the 1954 congressional elections.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) said the action "will be watched carefully" in farm communities with strong soil conservation sentiments when the 1954 campaigning rolls around. He and Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.)

indicated the American Farm Bureau was not speaking for the farm-and-tile farmer in opposing a boost in payments.

The Senate yesterday beat down efforts to raise or lower the $195,000,000 authorization for the payments to farmers for soil conservation practices carried out in the 1954 crop year. The payments would be made in fiscal 1955.

The action came before passage of the $716,775,000 spending bill for the agriculture department in fiscal 1954. The measure was $4,000,000 above the amount approved by
