Disabled ROK Vets Stage Sit-Down

Reaction Of Communists To Rhee's Step Is Anxiously Awaited

POW Release May Upset Truce

By LEROY HANSEN United Press Staff Correspondent PANGMUNJOM, Korea (UP) — Hopes for a truce in Korea today hinged on the reaction of sullenly silent Communists to South Korea's defiant release of North Korean war prisoners from prison camps.

United Nations and Red staff officers completed the negotiation of a truce agreement during the day. But the United Nations, a short time later, officially informed the Communist truce delegation that 25,000 of the prisoners the Reds hoped to get back had been set free by South Korean President Syngman Rhee.

Max Petitpierre told parliament Switzerland and other members of the commissions might be forced to "reconsider" their earlier acceptance. Official quarters in Stockholm said Sweden's participation would hinge on eventual results and reactions from the incident.

India, key member of the prisoner repatriation commission, previously had served notice it would participate only on a guarantee from the United Nations that South Korean troops would not interfere. The Reds were expected to make violent protests and charges of bad faith. But in the long run the extent of their desire for a ceasefire would determine the hopes for a truce agreement.

Rhee's rebellion not only made an immediate armistice unlikely but raised the possibility of a complete collapse of the whole truce effort. In turning loose the North Korean captives, Rhee struck at the very heart of the armistice agreement which he said he would not obey. He made it impossible for the U. N. command to honor its guarantee, under the prisoner exchange agreement signed on June 8, to turn over all unrepatriated prisoners to a five-nation neutral commission for custody and "explanations" by Communist agents.

Air Disaster Claims All Aboard Giant Globemaster

Plane Crash Fatal For 134

TOKYO (UP) — A giant, double-decked C-124 Globemaster carrying American troops to Korea exploded and crashed in a field today, killing 134 persons in history's worst air-plane disaster. James Bowen, fire chief for the Far East Command, placed the death toll at 134. Earlier Air Force estimates had set the figure at about 130 passengers and seven crewmen.

Most of the victims were American servicemen returning to Korea after five days leave in Japan. Bowen told United Press Staff correspondent Frank Jordan the huge Globemaster reported engine trouble shortly after taking off from Tachikawa air base. The four-engine plane, crippled by loss of power, smashed into a rice field about six miles short of the air field and exploded immediately.

There was a heavy overcast, fog and light rain at the time. Bowen, one of the first on the scene, said the heat from the burning plane was "terrific." The plane was demolished, except for a part of one wing and a 15-foot section of the tail assembly. Rescue workers had to wade through a sea of mud to reach the plane. One of the men who helped remove the bodies said most of the victims had been burned, some of them "to a crisp."

Greek Troops Halt Communist Drive On Invasion Route

By ROBERT UDICK United Press Staff Correspondent SEOUL, Korea. (UP) — Greek troops killed or wounded 760 Chinese Communists today in stopping a Red drive down a main invasion route leading to the 38th Parallel. The Greeks estimated half of the two battalions of attacking Reds lay dead or wounded on the slopes of Outpost Harry following the furious four-hour battle.

In the air war, American Sabre jets shot down four Communist MIG-15s and damaged four others in three high-level dogfights near Sinsanju. Capt. Ralph S. Parr, of Apple Valley, Calif., with three MIGs to his credit already, became an ace by knocking down two more today and Maj. James Jabara of Wichita, Kans., history's first jet ace, bagged his 12th Russian-made jet. Bloody conflict between the Chinese and the Greeks defending Outpost Harry disproved erroneous reports that the severe fighting had ended in anticipation of a truce. Large Communist forces re-

Lawmaker Files 'Not Guilty' Plea

WASHINGTON, (UP) — Rep. Ernest K. Bramblett (R-Calif.) said "not guilty, your honor" today to charges he padded his congressional payroll and accepted "kickbacks" from employees. Chief District Judge Bolitha J. Laws set Oct. 19 for trial of the 52-year-old congressman on the 18-count indictment returned yesterday by a federal grand jury.

After entering his plea, Bramblett was taken to the U.S. marshal's office for fingerprinting and was released under $2,500 bond. Bramblett appeared in court with his attorney, Edward Bennett Williams. The attorney waived reading of the lengthy indictment and the court clerk asked Bramblett to state his plea. Bramblett lifted his chin and said, "Not guilty, your honor." Judge Laws allowed Williams until July 27 to file motions in the case. Williams said he needed time because of "the complexity of legal problems in this case."

High Hopes 'Unrest' Will Grow

WASHINGTON (UP) — Congressmen said Thursday the anti-Communist riots in East Berlin apparently indicate growing unrest behind the Iron Curtain, according to Sen. Mike Mansfield in hoping "it spreads like measles." Administration officials said the outbreak of violence gave the West a propaganda trump card to combat the efforts of the Kremlin's massive peace offensive. Acting Senate Republican leader William F. Knowland said in an interview that from Curtiss, himself, is "one big reason for the recent Communist concessions" on a truce in Korea. Sen. Alexander Wiley (R-Wis.), chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, made the same point.

General Strike Grows; Wide Rioting; Firing Squads Busy

BERLIN (UP) — Russian firing squads went to work in revolt-torn East Berlin today as new riots and violence were reported. The official East German newspaper ADN reported a West Berlin man had been sentenced to death and shot on Russian orders. The Red radio told of continuing arrests and promised "severe reprisals." The whole of Soviet-run East Germany was reported virtually paralyzed by anti-Communist riots and a general strike which crippled industry and transportation. The strikes and demonstrations were reported spreading in defiance of Soviet tanks and troops. Insurrection broke out in Bitterfeld through the Iron Curtain and the Red Army has imposed martial law throughout the Russian-occupied zone. The U. S.-operated radio station RIAS said large scale demonstrations which exploded yesterday in East Berlin spread last night to a number of Soviet zone cities. It was established that martial law has been extended to Babelsberg and Potsdam—headquarters for the Soviet occupation.

East Germany 'Paralyzed'

The West Berlin labor union federation said East Berlin and most of East Germany is tied up by a general strike now in its second day. Soviet tank units were reported rushed to Magdeburg, near the southern frontier, to quell a violent riot outside a jail where anti-Communist demonstrators demanded release of political prisoners. West Berlin newspapers reported mass arrests of strikers in East Berlin and other Soviet zone centers. Red troops guarding the boundaries between the East and West sectors of Berlin were "digging in" from the Soviet sector, and anti-tank gun emplacements. The guns were stationed in bombed-out buildings and foxholes dug in vacant lots. West German officials at Heilmstedt said travelers and railroad workers from East Germany reported 20 anti-Communist demonstrators were killed in Magdeburg alone. According to the travelers, who gave strikingly similar stories, workers also rose up in Leipzig, Jena, Dessau, Dresden and Gera.

Plot Sponsored By ROK Gov't; Some Prisoners Killed

PUSAN, Korea (UP) — At least 25,000 anti-Communist North Korean prisoners of war fled to freedom today from five Allied prison compounds on order from President Syngman Rhee in defiance of United Nations authority. Prisoners hopped over low barbed wire barricades from four POW camps shortly after midnight and vanished into the hills. The commander of POW Compound 10 at Pukpong near Seoul reported an "unknown number" of prisoners made a break after nightfall. Lt. Col. Allan Leland, Gardner, Mass., Camp 10 commander, described the break as a mass escape attempt. He said he was unable to determine immediately how many of the 1,500 prisoners managed to break through the barbed wire and two companies of American guards surrounding the area. Disciplined South Korean guards and American troops who rushed to the compounds killed 10 of the escaping prisoners and injured 15 with shotgun and rifle fire. But most of the South Korean guards, handpicked troops from the ROK army, stood by and watched the mass escape. Some of the ROKs opened the gates for negotiated truce which would leave Korea divided and subject non-Communist prisoners to repatriation lectures, took matters in his own hands. He said in a radio broadcast that the prisoners—whose fate had been the subject of prolonged controversies between the U. N. and Communists—had been detained too long. Rhee said he decided to release the prisoners to avoid any "misunderstandings" among his people in their fight for Korean unity. Only a handful of the escapees, 971, were recaptured, Clark's headquarters said.

Growers, Buyers, Warehousemen Invited To Recommend Leaf Market Sales Dates

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va. (UP) — The Bright Belt Warehouse Association held today an open invitation today to growers, buyers and warehousemen to form an 18-member advisory committee to recommend sales dates for five-cured tobacco sales. The power to fix the sales season on the various five-cured belts was left in the hands of the association's board of governors. Fred S. Royster of Henderson, N. C., president of the Bright Belt Association, said the proposal for a joint advisory committee is designed "to give the entire industry a definite part in setting the opening dates."

In past years we have tried to get expressions of opinion from those groups regarding opening dates—but there was no formal committee," he said. He added that association members at the meeting had voted to leave the actual date-setting power with the board of governors as usual. "The board, in turn, suggested that the committee be formed to advise them on what the proper dates should be," he said. The association did not have to take action on the proposal since the board of governors has power to carry it out. The proposed joint advisory committee would be composed of one grower, one warehouseman and one buyer representative from each of the five sales belts in the Bright Belt Association. Royster said Royster added that "we're going to suggest to the South Carolina Warehouse Association (a separate group) that they also participate in this advisory committee."

"If the committee comes to fruition, the time and place for their meeting would be decided by the various representatives but sometimes not later than the week of June 29," Royster said. He added that the board of governors "probably will meet" the same day and announce opening dates immediately after a session with the advisory group. In a 17-section resolution adopted at the close of a three-day annual meeting here, the Bright Belt Association called on each local tobacco board of trade to write into its by-laws provisions to stamp out assistance by warehousemen to speculators. Royster said it is not a common practice for warehousemen to fi-

Caldwell County Polio Toll Hits 26 In 2 Months

Dr. William Happer, county health officer, said the youngsters were taken to Orthopedic Hospital in Asheville Tuesday for treatment. They were identified as Nancy Lee Faw, 4, daughter of Mrs. Millard Faw of near Lenoir; Norma Jean Killian, 20 months, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Killian of Morlimer; and James Eugene Philyaw, 3, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Philyaw of the Globe community. Second Division Highway Commissioner Urges Work Be Brought 'Closer To People'

By MURIEL SHOTWELL Reflector Staff Writer Second Division Highway Commissioner H. Maynard Hicks yesterday urged that the work of the highway commission be brought closer to the people, which he said effectuated the best means of carrying out one of the prime purposes of this administration. Commissioner Hicks met with highway commission officials and with the chairmen and clerks of various county boards of commissioners here yesterday at the highway commission building. The commissioner, in citing a way to carry out plans, asked the commissioners of the various counties to bring their problems to him and his assistants in the division and district offices. He requested that the commissioners screen very carefully any request made for the addition of roads to the system and recommend only those which would render a sufficient public service to justify the expense of construction and maintenance. Hicks stated that virtually all the bond issue and surplus funds were allocated or had been spent and that for future operations, it would be necessary to operate on current highway funds. He further stated that the division was allocated a maximum of 75 miles of road which could be added to the system during any one year. He emphasized that this quota could not be exceeded. After extensive discussion, it was agreed that the county commissioners designate one from their own number to go over requests with a representative of the highway commission and secure necessary information concerning merits of the petition before it is officially sent to the highway commission. Commissioner Hicks asserted that with respect to certain connecting links of secondary roads as well as connecting links between counties, that it would be necessary to work out a procedure involving cooperation between engineers and county commissioners. He stated he wished to get to the roots of all insipient complaints as soon as possible. "The division office and district offices and their personnel are always ready at any time to render all proper service and to listen, as far as possible, to all suggestions of whatever nature," he said.

Hicks announced that on Wednesday afternoon of each week he will be at the division office to meet with and discuss the various problems from the counties. He urged (Continued on Page 16)

Hoax Or Not, Love Has Been Expensive

MOORHEAD, Minn. (UP)—Ardent but gullible Carl Otis Kinslow told today how he spent $1,670 in a whirlwind romance with a "widow" he never saw—and who never existed.

The handsome, 25-year-old loan company employe said he was the victim of a chubbey, resourceful housewife who kept his hopes alive with a series of glib but progressively fantastic stories about the widow.

He said he even wound up in jail when he told police one of the stories—that the pretty widow had been kidnapped.

Kinslow testified yesterday at the arraignment of Mrs. Mary Peters, 52, on fraud charges. She was bound over to district court on $2,500 bond.

Kinslow, who was divorced from his wife in January, gave this account of his frustrating love life.

He said "widow Jean Phillips" first came into his life when she telephoned him at the loan office in February. His interest was aroused when she was persistent in her phone calls.

He said "intimate" was the best description of the conversations. Kinslow said Mrs. Peters later introduced herself as a "cousin and very close friend" of the lovely widow and offered to arrange a meeting. He said Mrs. Peters showed him several pictures of "Jean."

"She looked good to me," he said.

Once, Kinslow said, he was standing on a sidewalk with Mrs. Peters when a car whizzed by. He said she waved and when he asked who had passed she answered "Jean."

The eager young man pressed for a meeting with his love-light and the big stall began, he said.

First, he was told the widow's child had been quarantined with scarlet fever. Then "Jean" became sick and was rushed into an oxygen tent.

When Kinslow became more persistent the widow's child was reported to have suffered an attack of polio.

Each time he sent money to help the widow through her troubles. Kinslow said he was a "soft touch" and "when anyone is short a buck or two, I'm willing to help them and I don't care much whether I get it back or not."

Once when she failed to turn up to meet him, he telephoned Mrs. Peters and asked what had happened. The housewife said her cousin had been kidnapped by two men, who were holding her at Ironwood, Mich.

The concerned Kinslow rushed to police, told them the story and was clapped in jail when it turned out to be a hoax.

As a final insult, he said, Mrs. Peters' husband threatened to sue him for alienation of affections.

Plan Fight Over VA Limitation

WASHINGTON (UP)—The House Veterans Committee geared Thursday for a last-ditch fight against a proposed new restriction on free hospital care for ex-GI's whose ailments are not due to their military service.

The new restrictions approved tentatively by the House Wednesday would allow the Veterans Administration for the first time to investigate whether veterans are telling the truth when they say they aren't able to afford private medical care.

It is on the basis of his "inability to pay" contention that an ex-serviceman with civilian illness is entitled, under present law, to occupy a VA hospital bed if and when it is available.

The House Appropriations Committee, which sponsored the new restriction, says the free hospital privilege was abused by ex-servicemen who should have gone to private hospitals and paid their own bills.

The hospital restriction was one of several dampers on GI benefits written into a pared-down $5,284,369,864 (B) appropriation bill on which the House all but finished work late Wednesday.

The measure carries $4,008,335,264 (B) for VA; $1,057,781,000 (B) for the Atomic Energy Commission; $188,371,000 (M) for the Tennessee Valley Authority; and $29,882,400 (M) for the Selective Service System.

Caught Robber While Off-Duty

DETROIT (UP)—Police patrolman Gene Gullion of suburban Lincoln Park was off-duty and driving past a supermarket when he saw a man with a trench coat and dark glasses shulking at the rear.

Gullion, recalling this was the description of the robber who held up the supermarket for $7,600 May 22, arrested George Bodnar, 27.

Police said Bodnar not only confessed the May 22 holdup, but said he was about to try it again when Gullion came along.

Postman's Foe To Be Muzzled

DENVER (UP)—Ruff a large collie who succeeded where "nether snow nor sleet nor gloom, etc." could previously in halting the U. S. Postal Service, was ordered muzzled here Wednesday by Municipal Judge Gerald McAuliffe, climaxing a year-long running feud with mailmen.

Owners of the dog, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hayden, counter-charged that the dog attacked only after a mailman had squirted a water pistol at it. Mail deliveries to the Hayden home had been stopped after three mailmen complained the dog wouldn't let them in the yard.

Would 'Clarify' Policy On Books

WASHINGTON (UP)—Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash.) said Thursday he hopes President Eisenhower's conference with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles "will result in a clarification" of the Department's book-banning policy.

Mr. Eisenhower told his news conference Wednesday he had not seen a State Department directive on removal of books from U. S. overseas libraries. But he said he was calling Dulles to the White House to discuss it.

At the same time Mr. Eisenhower explained what he meant when he exhorted Dartmouth College seniors Sunday not to "join the book burners."

He declared he favored free access to Communist books in this country because it is necessary for the American people to know all the facts about Communism. But he said it would be ridiculous to supply our libraries abroad with books that advocate the overthrow of our own government.

In his Sunday speech, the President told the Dartmouth students not to be "afraid to go to the library and read every book" that did not offend their "own ideas of decency." Communism could not be defeated, he said, by trying to conceal the facts about it.

Removed Benches Drunks Enjoyed

OELWEIN, Ia. (UP)—The local sages who spent many pleasant summer afternoons reflecting in Memorial Park were looking for a new meeting place Thursday.

Police took out all the park benches. They said they couldn't handle the "drunks" who would sleep on the benches at night and flirt with women.

RECIP FOR LONGEVITY LINCOLN, Neb. (UP)—Mrs. E. W. Lyman, who celebrates her 102nd birthday July 12, today explained her secret of longevity.

"The only reason I've lived this long is I wanted to see a Republican in the White House," she said.

Stepping Up The Pace Of N.C. Courts

An observation on the courts of North Carolina made this week by Lynn Nisbet, Raleigh bureau chief for the N. C. Association of Afternoon Dailies is worth the consideration of the people of the state.

The writer commented: "The courts move slowly sometimes and there has been a lot of criticism about delay in judicial process. They can move fast when lawyers want action." Nisbet cited a case in point.

Slow moving in disposition of many cases has caused large backlogs in numerous counties — including Pitt — throughout North Carolina. In his observation, we believe Nisbet has hit on one of the reasons for the backlog of cases which seem to be growing rather than diminishing.

Attorneys are not entirely to blame for the slow process which often appears in courts of the state, but they must assume their share of responsibility for the condition.

Lawyers of course have the interest of justice in their actions, and at the same time they have the interest of their individual clients foremost in their minds. Not only is it their job to defend their clients to the best of their ability when a case comes to trial; but it seems methods used by lawyers have gone a step further. Timing of the session of court in which a case comes to trial apparently has become a factor.

Perhaps some attorneys prefer one judge to another in a particular kind of case. Perhaps some cases arise where attorneys feel the interest of their client will be best served if the trial is delayed for one or two sessions.

Such circumstances could be applied to civil actions as well as to criminal actions pending before the court.

The matter of eliminating unnecessary delay in disposition of court cases probably ultimately will rest in the hands of judges in charge of the court and solicitors who have a large part in determining what cases shall be heard at each session of court.

Their insistence that cases be disposed of without needless delay probably could go a long way toward speeding up the normal pace of courts of North Carolina.

A Wise Presidential Word On Communism

The United States fight against communism will not be strengthened by branding every controversial writing as communistic. Neither can this nation strengthen its offensive against communism by silencing every voice which would dare utter a suggestion apart from the conventional.

The "book burning" issue between President Eisenhower and Senator McCarthy's Permanent Investigating Committee has brought to a head a dispute which has long been simmering.

Libraries of the State Department overseas by all means should not house books which are communist propaganda. Yet there are many worthwhile controversial books that have proven of value to people and to their goals of freedom and democracy. Many writings which would fall into this category probably have been tossed out by the purge of books commanded by the Senate committee.

It is certainly not logical that keeping citizens of the United States or any other democracy ignorant of the devious methods of communism will bolster the nation's inner strength against the creeping paralysis. Such action, if anything, would make the people more vulnerable to the tactics and devices used by communism to accomplish its ignoble goals.

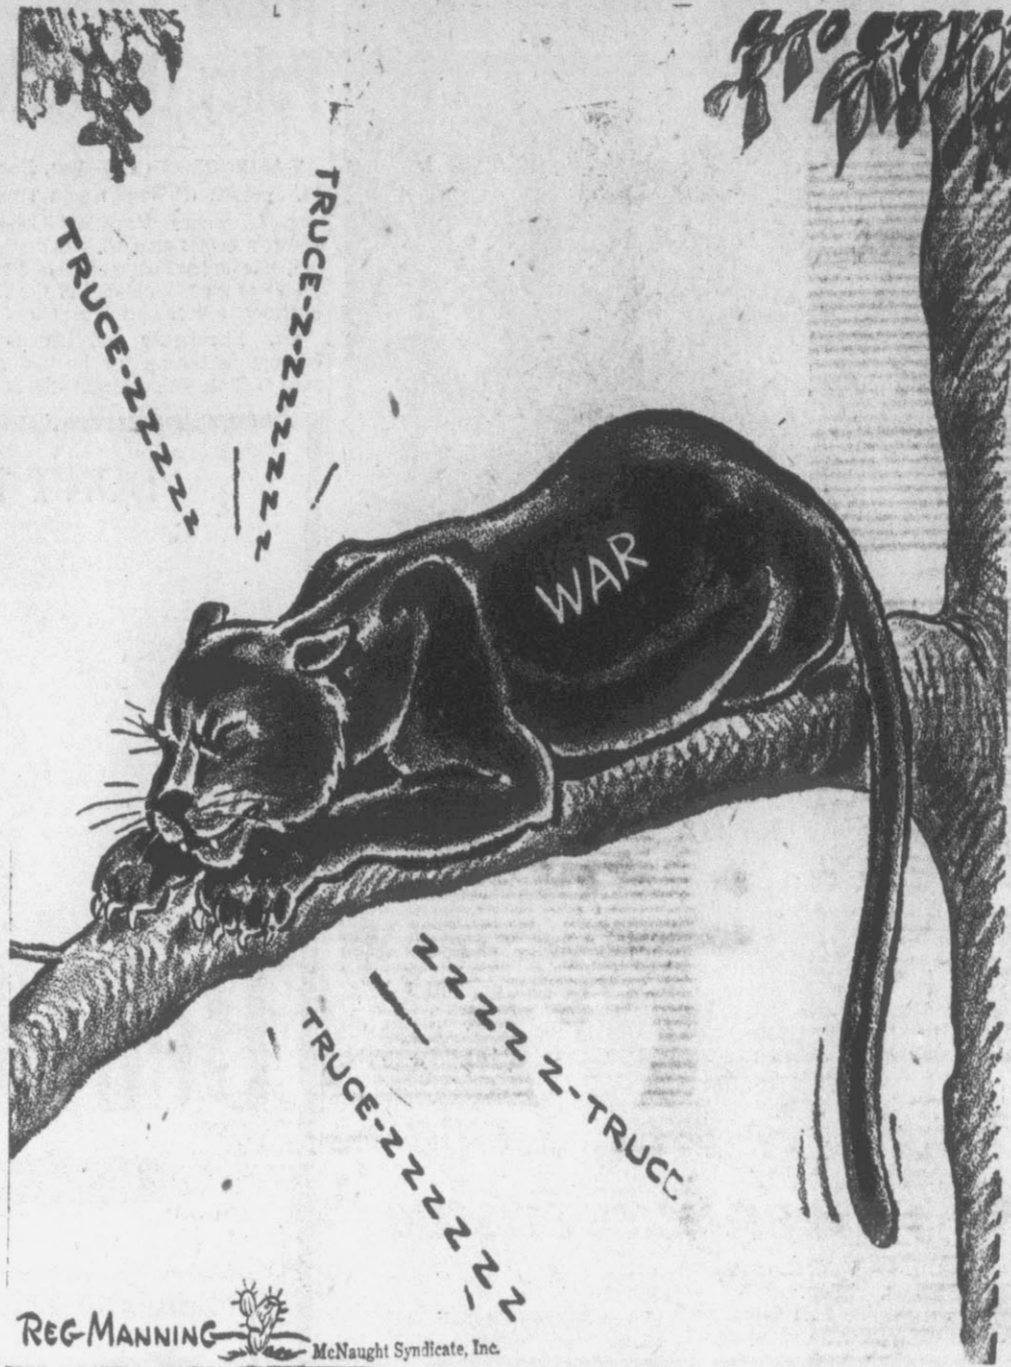

We are sure thoughtful leaders would not condone keeping the American people "in the dark" about communism. Yet in their fervor to purge communist propaganda, some people in positions of leadership might opt for constructive criticism without distinguishing it from subversive material.

A knowledge of communism, how it works in reality as compared with how its manifesto—and the way it is pictured by its advocates — is essential if attempts of the warped philosophy to make inroads upon a democratic people are to be stemmed.

It would not be amiss for government leaders to ponder the wise advice of President Eisenhower who said in his "book burning" speech at Dartmouth:

"How will we defeat communism unless we know what it is? Why does it have such an appeal for men? It is almost a religion, though one of the nether region. We have to fight it and not try to conceal it from our own people."

Concern Over Aftermath Of Rain

If the weather isn't on everybody's tongue today, it should be, for with our dependence on the tobacco crop all of us should be concerned about yesterday's rain. For an analysis of the effect of the rain I talked last night to Sam Weeks, Pitt County Farm Agent, and my next-door neighbor, Elmo Dupree, who farms in the Belvoir area and lived there until recently.

After drawing our conclusion Elmo and I talked to Carl Scott of Belvoir, Pitt County Acreage Committeeman and compared notes. Previously, I had talked to Corey Stokes of Ayden. Here are the various opinions:

Elmo was more specific, because he talked in terms of his tobacco crop in Belvoir, which he manages and owns along with his brother, J. T. "Before today," he said, "tobacco was growing too fast to be of the best quality. And the rain today, if it rained throughout the county like it did here, will hurt." Elmo says that a hot sun today will make plenty of tobacco droop and run it. But if it stays cloudy for a day or two the crop will

What Other Editors Are Thinking

RHEE TACKLES PRESS RELATIONS (Rocky Mount Telegram) Southern Korea's President Rhee yesterday came forth with some rather unusual statements with reference to handling of the news. It had to do with slanted articles and while Rhee made no mention of the guilty parties they obviously were not Americans because the chief bone of contention had to do with what some writers had said against American soldiers.

The South Korean government will not tolerate such slanders as those which claimed that American soldiers had cut the arms of Korean school girls with razor blades during the anti-truce demonstrations, according to President Rhee. And we quite agree with him. In fact, we'd like to make the acquaintance, even if it were only for a time long enough to give him a good swift kick, of any person who calls himself a journalist who would manufacture such tales.

At the same time, it is only fair to warn President Rhee that there are some rather amazing characters who go around posing as correspondents and a great many publications carry some of their peculiar offerings. However, if the South Korean government is to succeed it is going to need to overlook a lot of these stories. It won't do any good to put a stern clamp on all news just because there are some screwballs in the crowd. And neither will it be wise to take a hint from the communists who refuse to permit anything of a constructive nature, except to their own cause, to be printed at all.

Around Capitol Square

Coming Appointments And Today's Political Picture

By LYNN NISBET APPOINTMENTS — Immediate interest of capitol square folk centers in who will go, or keep, this or that appointive office. Governor Umstead has made fair progress in filling places for which terms have expired, and he said the other day he hoped by end of this month to catch up with all the important June 30 expirations. On the most list for future action are from eight to 12 Superior Court special judges; three members of the newly authorized paroles commission; a director and 15 board members of Conservation and Development; an assistant director of the budget, and a State treasurer to fill the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of Brandon Hodges. Others of importance, but not so pressing as to the time element, are a commissioner of revenue, director of purchase and contract, burial commissioner, veterans affairs commissioner and a director of prisons.

ELECTIONS — Because the self-appointed political analysts read into these selections overhanging effect of the past elections and prospect of influence upon future popular voting, there is also lively interest in who may be candidates in the 1954 and 1956 primaries—especially for United States Senator and Governor. To date there has been very little speculation about prospective candidates in the several congressional districts and for the judicial positions open next year.

SENATE — The first upcoming "big" election will be for the U.S. Senate next year. Incumbent Willis Smith, the third man to fill the junior senator's post in less than five years, is sure to be a candidate for re-election. He was elected in 1950 for the four years remaining of the six-year

Tightening Of Credit?

By ELMER ROESSNER Some retailers are finding it necessary to tighten up their granting of installment credit. They are insisting on larger down payments and shorter terms and checking their customers' ability to pay more thoroughly. It isn't because they want to. Their banks are insisting on it. The Installment Credit Commission of the American Bankers Association recently urged banks to be more cautious in financing retailers' installments. It made special reference to automobile financing. Two reasons underlie this action: 1. The rise in interest rates has made lending-money worth more. 2. Bankers' experience in credit financing during recent years has been in an economy of rising employment and scarcities of many goods. This may change, the commission warned that the annual rate of auto production now "exceeds the market's potential to absorb at existing price levels." It said the used car market is "decidedly slow, and with its feet dragging it looks as though it is headed for trouble." Retailers, of course, can finance installment sales through finance companies, factors and other institutions as well as banks. But the caution urged on bankers is spreading into these fields. Besides many of the lenders obtain their primary funds from banks and they have to accept bank counsel to continue borrowing. Even before the A. B. A. Commission sounded its warning, tightening of credit began. In the old semi-saturated television areas those supplying primary funds have been insisting that dealers get substantial down payments, even from high-income families. The reason is that there is always the danger that some overstocked dealer or distributor may start cutting prices or "dumping" sets. A person who buys a set at one price and then sees the same set offered a short time later at less than he over in installments is inclined to invite repossession. The same danger exists when the production of other goods normally sold on installments exceeds demand. Some manufacturers have lowered production schedules and others are re-evaluating theirs. Still others are meeting the saturation challenge with sweeping improvements of their products. It's not just because they love the people that manufacturers have been adding all those wonderful improvements to TV sets, radios, refrigerators, stoves, washers and irons. THE HIGHER, THE FEWER APPLIES TO POSTALS In the last full fiscal year, more than four billion 1-cent government postal cards were sold. In the current fiscal year, the print order has been reduced to under two and a half billion, leading the Reporter of Direct Mail to remark: "In other words, Congress knocked off the use of postal cards by nearly 50 per cent. We still claim that the Post Office can afford to carry cards at the 1-cent rate if it can afford to carry many more publications (weighing much more at much less than 1-cent each)." DEALERS DEMANDING MANUFACTURERS' AID The Appliances Dealers Association of Stamford, Conn., and vicinity, which took on television manufacturers in a trade battle a year ago, is now waging war with appliance manufacturers. It took a three-column ad in Retailing Daily to demand that they set "fair trade" prices on their products and enforce them, that they prevent their distributors from selling to price-cutting establishments, and that they allow retailers adequate margins. The ad, headed "Hello Again, Brother Fall Guys," offers dealers information on the association's program to bring pressure on manufacturers.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS ON OUR WAY

The bees on a summer day go from one blossom to another seeking honey. They are unaware that they are performing a great service to the whole growing world, for they are carrying pollen from one blossom to another and making possible cross pollination, without which fruit would be impossible. Someone has said that the flowers which the bees rob they also pollinize.

This is a picture and a parable of the importance of unconscious service. Intent on getting honey, the bee also becomes an important factor in the production of fruit. Likewise, we often perform the greatest service of our lives without knowing that we are doing so. And it works the other way too. Sometimes our bad influence goes out to hurt a situation or a person, and we pass on and perhaps know nothing about the moral devastation we have caused.

If you and I keep our jobs, we can be sure that we are always performing more than one job. One job is the conscious job, the job by which we make our living. But the way we do our work, the mood we maintain, the influence we have in office, store, mill, or field, is making a difference on someone.

Consciously and unconsciously we influence the world as we pass through it.

Facing Realities Of Red China

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON—Despite diplomatic White House demurrals, the prospect of a permanent settlement of the Korean conflict has forced the Administration to consider a solution of the whole Far Eastern problem that must include eventual recognition of the Communist Government in China. Most of our allies and important neutrals, with England and India in the van, have acknowledged the Mao Tse-tung regime at Peking.

As F. D. R. said when he ended 17 years of Republican ostracism of Russia, the United States cannot forever treat a nation of 400,000,000 people as a political, economic and cultural vacuum. Indeed, resumption of relations with the Soviet in 1934 set a precedent for similar action toward China.

The Bolsheviks overthrew a going and friendly government, a World War I ally, just as Mao did. And his domestic misdeeds do not yet match those of Lenin and Stalin in the days of their dictatorial apprenticeship.

FAR EASTERN EUROPEAN CHALLENGES SIMILAR—Friendly intercourse with a Communist China, of course, must be predicated on Malenkov's proof that he wants peace rather than war, even though he does not meet all the prerequisites laid down in President Eisenhower's speech to the newspaper editors at Washington. In fact, a reasonable adjudication of Far Eastern differences may lead to a settlement of the quarrels in Western and Central Europe. The basic challenges in both areas are similar.

As a prelude to liquidation of the stalemate in the Far East, Malenkov and Mao must agree to independence and unification of Korea under whatever government the people select by popular vote, supervised by the United Nations or a neutral country like Switzerland.

LIQUIDATION NECESSARY—Nationalist China must be liquidated somehow, although it will provoke protests in Congress and throughout the country. Truman and Acheson, despite their desertion of him in 1950-46, finally made Chiang Kai-shek a symbol of Jeffersonian democracy. It will be difficult to destroy this illusion. But it is now agreed by the military that Chiang can never reconquer China. As of today, he has an international nuisance value in that he is a constant threat to the Red's flank between Korea and Indo-China. But even that asset will disappear when and if Communist aggression in those countries cease. In the opinion of Far Eastern experts, Formosa must become a United Nations trusteeship, a province of Japan, or fall to the Communists.

Behind any arrangement with Mao, as Field Marshal Montgomery noted in his recent visit to Washington, lies the possibility that the revolutionists at Peking may become less cooperative with the reactionaries at Moscow. Living forever in the shadow and domination of the Kremlin cannot be a pleasant or permanent outlook for Mao and his successors.

EISENHOWER HOLDS KEY—Political and economic necessities combine with the diplomatic to encourage a more stable relationship between Washington and Peking. Our European allies insist that they need this market, exchanging manufactured goods for raw materials. The Asiatic neutrals, from Egypt to Indonesia, carry on trade with Red China. NATO members have agreed to boycott this commerce, but only for fear that they will lose billions annually in American aid otherwise. The plain fact is that Eisenhower holds the key to the Far Eastern deadlock. Japan will become a permanent and costly ward of Uncle Sam without this sort of a Far Eastern settlement. She must draw on China for food and raw materials, for which she sells her manufactures in the mainland market. Without the $800,000,000 we spend there annually for military supplies, Japan would starve and become an R. S. V. P. invitation to Communism.

With the end of the Korean war, this assistance will be cut off, and Japan will be added to our collection of international dependents. To lesser extent, this consideration applies to the Philippines and a unified Korea. They must have Chinese customers. Like it or not, we need China as she needs us. The problem confronting Ike and Mao is to establish decent relations without losing political face.

Find Lost Cave, Lose It Again

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Dr. Bertram S. Kraus, head of the anthropology department at the University of Arizona, is spending week ends searching for a cave in the nearby Tucson Mountains discovered — and then lost — recently by two young boys. The boys said they ran from the cave when they saw two human skeletons in it. They discovered the cave while chasing wild pigs.

Sports Reflections

BY Tommie Lupton

When Whitey Ford lost to the 9-0. The Jaycees would have lost lowly St. Louis Browns Tuesday more games all along, but loose fielding by the opposition allowed defeat in a game in which he had started. Ford had won 17 games and had lost only one—that being in relief.

The only first division team to gain a game as the Yanks lost was the Chicago White Sox, for all the other first division teams went down in defeat too.

The Milwaukee Braves have what it takes to win a pennant. Whether the pressure is on them as in the doubleheader won at the expense of the Philadelphia Phillies, who were in third place only three games behind, or whether they are playing the second division Pittsburgh Pirates those boys playing under Charlie Grimm never let up.

In Little League play this week the Lions proved that the Jaycees could be beaten—and bad—when they trounced the first half winners

Braves Stretch Lead With Decision Over Phillies As Cards Top Dodgers

Reliever White Biggest Bargain Cardinals Have

By STAN MOCKLER United Press Sports Writer ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UP)—The St. Louis Cardinals have come up with one of the biggest bargains in sports in relief pitcher Hal White.

The Cards made their baseball Louisiana Purchase from the St. Louis Browns, paying their American League neighbors exactly $1.00 for the 34-year old right-hander's contract.

This situation came about because the Browns had asked waivers on White for the purpose of granting him his unconditional release.

As a 10-year man, he was entitled to try to make his own deal as a free agent if he went unclaimed. He had so little hope of catching on with another major league club that he was considering a minor league offer at the time the Cards decided to take him.

He had pitched batting practice for manager Eddie Stanky and the cagey little Cardinal boss liked what he saw, an experienced pitcher with all the tools of a good relief man.

This season, White climaxed several fine performances with his defeat of the Brooklyn Dodgers Tuesday night. He went to the rescue of Stu Martin with none out in the fourth inning and held the hard-hitting Brooks scoreless to rack up his first victory since June 13, 1952.

"A life-saver," was Stanky's one-word description of him after the Brooklyn victory.

White, a short husky pitcher built along the lines of Murry Dickson, has no explanation of his overnight transition from an unwanted castoff to a valued member of a pennant contender.

"I didn't get much work with the Browns," he said. "When you don't get in often, you just don't have control and that was my main trouble."

Yanks, Indians, Nationals, Red Sox Win In American League; Cubs Beat Pirates In A 16 Inning Game

By CARL LUNDQUIST United Press Sports Writer NEW YORK (UP)—Lew (Best Bet) Burdette, baseball's newest relief ace, was shooting Thursday for the World Series money with Milwaukee's madcaps he missed when the Yankees traded him to the Braves two years ago.

The explosive right hander from Nitro, W. Va., who fired "blanks" at the opposition, did it again Wednesday night when he blanked the Phils without a hit or, run for 2-1-3 innings in a 9-6 victory. The triumph, which he saved for starter Warren Spahn, put Milwaukee 2-1-2 games ahead of the Dodgers, who lost a 9-3 decision to the Cardinals.

Spahn gained credit for his eighth victory, but he was reeling when Burdette rescued him after he gave up 10 hits and blew a lead. Del Ennis hit a homer with a man on in a three-run seventh to make the count 7-6 but Burdette did not put a runner on base the rest of the way.

The Cardinals broke a 1-1 tie with three runs in the fifth, two on a Steve Bilko homer, and they added five more runs in the seventh to give Gerry Staley an easy ninth victory.

The Giants defeated Cincinnati 4-1 and Chicago trimmed Pittsburgh 5-4 in 16 innings in other National League games.

The Yankees defeated the Browns 5-3, Cleveland topped Philadelphia 9-6, Washington edged Chicago 1-0 on Walt Masterson's two-hitter and the Red Sox mauled the Tigers 17-1 on 20 hits including two homers by Dick Gernert in American League games.

Ruben Gomez, given a 4-0 lead in three innings coasted to victory at Cincinnati as Tookie Gilbert homered and Whitey Lockman singled and Hank Thompson tripled to drive in key runs.

Randy Jackson's bases-loaded single in the 16th broke up the marathon at Chicago and gave Turk Lown a third victory in a seven inning scoreless relief role.

Billy Martin hit a two-run single in the seventh to put the Yankees in front for good as Sain came to the relief of Allie Reynolds and preserved the chief's sixth victory.

Cleveland gained standout relief work from their new pitcher, lefty Bill Wight, as Bobby Avila drove in four runs with a double and a homer to end a six-game losing streak.

Mickey Vernon's single with the bases loaded broke up a scoreless battle between Masterson and loser Saul Rogovin at Washington. Masterson permitted only two men to reach base, Al Carrasquel with a sixth inning single and Jim Rivera with a double in the eighth.

Castelli Gains Revenge In Bout With Frenchman

CLEVELAND, O. (UP)—Rocky Castelli, a native of the hard coal regions of Pennsylvania, gained revenge over Pierre Langlois of France with a split decision victory Wednesday night in a 10-round middleweight bout at the Cleveland arena before 3,223 fans.

Castelli, now fighting out of Cleveland, thus evened the score with the Frenchman who took a disputed split decision victory in their first encounter last February in Madison Square Garden.

Referee Jackie Davis gave Castelli six rounds, Langlois four. Judge Herb Williams gave Langlois five rounds, Castelli four and ruled one even. Judge Charley Bills gave the edge to Castelli, six to three and called one even.

Coe, Young Meet Today in Tourney At Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UP)—Defending champion Charles Coe of Oklahoma City met Leonard Young of Tulsa, Okla. Thursday in the feature match of second round play in the Golden Anniversary Trans-Mississippi Golf Tournament.

The 64-player original championship bracket was trimmed in half in first round matches Wednesday with southern amateur champion Joe Conrad, San Antonio, Tex., defeating Ray Mann, Kansas City, 7 and 6.

The red-haired collegian, a student at North Texas State College at Denton, Tex., dropped a four-foot putt to beat Mann on the 12th hole for a birdie to end the match.

Allie Reynolds Back In Starting Role Now

By OSCAR FRALEY United Press Sports Writer NEW YORK (UP)—Indian Allie Reynolds was back victoriously in a starting role for the New York Yankees Thursday but ready to throw his arm off from the bull pen, too, in what he insists will be his windup year.

"It's easier taking your regular turn and a pitcher will last a lot longer that way than he will pitching relief," said the super chief from Oklahoma. "But there's no use of me saving my arm because this is it for me."

And while he is on the scene, the Yankee team, shooting for a record fifth straight pennant, knows that Reynolds is the man who can hurt them home again.

When Allie first came from the Indians in 1947, there were malicious whispers that he didn't have it in the clutch. He made them eat those words, and he's still at it.

As an example, consider the chief's record this season in which he can boast of only six wins against two defeats. Those figures are distressingly inaccurate.

Because in the last month, Reynolds has been pitching himself into shape in the bull pen. In that time he has made 10 relief appearances. Three of those games he won. The other seven he saved.

Another factor which forced Stengel to keep his big man in the pen was that the rest of his staff was shaky and old Casey likes Allie's fast ball and calm courage when the joint gets to jumping.

Allie was "fine" as he won his first two starts but then the cold weather caught up to him. Allie dropped one, picked up a win in relief and twice was taken off the hook himself.

Two more relief jobs, in which he won one and saved another, set Allie up for another start on May 22. He lasted only one inning—and until Wednesday was working out his kinks in the bull pen.

The Leeward and Windward islands of the West Indies are so named because the Leewards are somewhat more sheltered from winds than are the Windwards.

Duff, Arnold Lead Batters In Local Pony League Play

Angus Duff of the first place Rulanes leads the batters in the Pony League with a respectable .555 average. Close on the heels of the leader is the Bright Leafs' John Ed Arnold with a .524 average.

With 11 hits in games played through Tuesday night, Arnold leads in that department as well as in the homerun parade. The Bright Leaf cleanup batter has driven four balls out of the park. Wayne Edison of the Ford-O-Matics has three homers to his credit. Two four-base blows have been hit by Joe Wingate and Ike Riddick.

Berg Eliminates Rawls In Western Open Golf Match

By LEE HARTLEY United Press Sports Writer

ATLANTA (UP)—Steady Patty Berg, in the Western Open, defeated Miss Betsy Rawls, 2-up, Wednesday despite the first hole-in-one registered during the tournament's 24-year history. Miss Rawls made the perfect shot on the par-three 11th hole to take a one-up lead over her chunk opponent.

Patty, however, squared the match with a birdie four on the 16th hole, won the 17th with a par four and closed the match with a birdie three on the 18th. Her opponent in Thursday's quarter-final was Claire Doran of Cleveland.

Favorite Louise Suggs of Atlanta, Ga., opposed Maj. Pat Grant of Ft. McClellan, Ala. Pat Lesser of Seattle, Wash., faced Jean Hopkins of Cleveland and Betty Hix of Los Angeles, met Dot Kirby of Atlanta in the other quarter-finals matches.

Miss Suggs, seeking her fourth tournament title on her home course easily advanced into the quarter-finals Wednesday with a 4 and 3 victory over amateur Marjorie Polk of Chattanooga, Tenn.

Policeman Waits With Faith For Prisoner On Bus

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UP)—A trusting police officer waited today for a Chicago bus bringing home the prisoner he "didn't want to disgrace" with handcuffs and a special guard.

"He's almost like a son to me," said special deputy sheriff M.M. (Rory) Rosenbush of Stanley Shaffer. "I'll meet the bus myself and I'll gamble he'll be on it."

Rosenbush had more faith than astonished Chicago cops who wired the Memphis officer to send the usual guard to accompany Shaffer on his return here to face charges of non-support.

Rosenbush, director of domestic relations at juvenile court, wrote back requesting that Shaffer be given a bus ticket home and "please let us know when the bus will arrive so we can meet it and take him off."

"He'll come back," Rosenbush said. "He's done it before. I didn't want to disgrace him by bringing him back in handcuffs and I know he'll come back on his own."

He described Shaffer as a "brilliant college graduate" who is "seriously trying to fight being an alcoholic."

"Shaffer left because he thought he had driven his son to delinquency. That isn't so. But he asked to leave the state and I told him to go. He always talks to me before he does anything. I would hate to abuse his confidence."

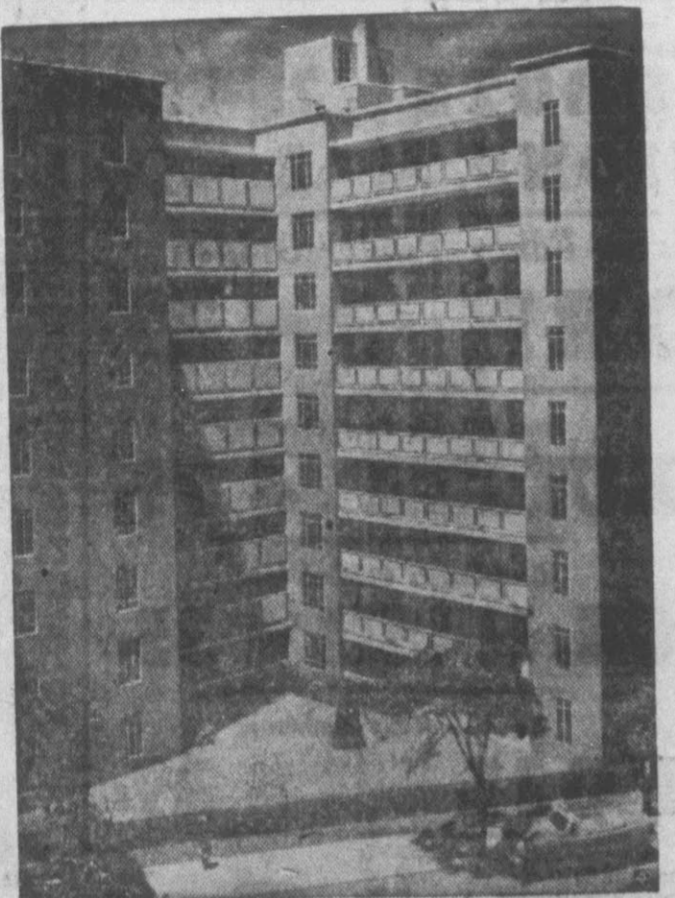

Rosenbush said he decided to summon Shaffer home when he learned the accountant had been drinking.

"I was afraid he might stagger into the path of a car or something and get hurt."

"The laugh will be on me if he doesn't return... (but) sooner or later he'll write me saying he's in a certain town and to come and get him."

Apartments Have Outside Corridors

OUTDOOR CORRIDORS form balconies on one side of this new apartment building. Private porches are on opposite side.

AP Newsfeatures.—This arrangement permits each apartment to extend through the building, with windows on each side. Balconies similar to the sidewalks are subdivided into private porches on the opposite sides of the buildings.

Designed by Philip Birnbaum, architect, the four structures are being erected by the Carol Management Corp., in the Jackson Heights section of New York City. Subterranean garages with additional parking spaces on their roofs at the street level are among other features of the project.

Alfred J. Kaske, head of the management firm estimates that the completed development for 437 families will involve $4,500,000.

Province Closed To Indian Trade

NEW DELHI (AP)—India's trade with Communist-occupied Sinking successful. A few hundred Sinking refugees, however, managed to escape and trek their way to Kashmir. The Nehru government has settled some of them in Kashmir while the others have left for Turkey and Mecca.

COMPLETELY AIR CONDITIONED

ON THE HOUSE

By DAVID G. BAREUTHER, AP Real Estate Editor

How to add to your property value by planting or saving a tree sounds like an Arbor Day recitation. But when hard-headed home builders say "Dollars Do Grow on Trees," it's time for every sun-baked home owner to sit up and take notice.

Did you know that people are willing to pay from $300 to $1,000 more for homesites that have trees? Did you know that shade trees are now being figured in dollars and cents in computing the operating costs for year-round air conditioning?

A tree is beautiful yes. But when it saves you cash every month in keeping your house cool in summer, or warm in winter, you can say "Dollars DO Grow on Trees."

That quote, by the way, happened to be the title of a more or less confidential report for real estate developers who have been throwing money away by uprooting magnificent trees in order to make their subdivision lots look like the rectangles they show on their maps.

This report in the Correlator, official publication of the National Association of Home Builders, was compiled by Harry J. Banker, past-president of the Arborists Association of New Jersey.

"In recent years," Banker reported, "more trees have been destroyed in building operations than by towns of Long Island and Pennsylvania ready to say: "Good-sized trees have this virtue: As buildings deteriorate, growing trees enhance their value."

Builders in Nebraska, Wisconsin, Tennessee, Indiana, say: "Trees add from $100 to $800 to the value of a house." And a few years ago, Stackler & Frank, selling homes on acre-plots 25 miles east of New York on Long Island, got $1,000 premiums on properties that had trees.

So what can you do about trees on your property? If the trees are there, protect them. Paint bulldozer scars with a good tree paint to keep the weather out while the bark heals. Build dry wells around trees buried a few feet by grading to drain the trunk from rotting. Sink drainage tile down to the original grade at various points around the shade area so the roots can get air and water. Get a reliable tree man to feed big trees by pouring fertilizer down holes made with a crowbar. Or plant new trees. "Buggy whip saplings" are not the answer. They probably will not catch up with the mortgage. Fair-sized, fast-growing trees are not expensive when trunks are not more than 4 to 6 inches in diameter. Big trees cost money because of the labor of moving.

When elms of about 12 inches in trunk diameter were planted in front of Rockefeller Center in New York some 15 years ago, they cost close to $1,000 per tree because of labor. It was easy to find estates where trees needed thinning out and could be had for nothing. But the moving of such giants made up the cost.

So if you have an oak, or other slow growing hardwood tree, on your property, with a trunk two feet thick, you can bet that it has been there for possibly 300 years. The cost of moving it would be prohibitive. The thing to do is to protect it.

Asking Help For Big Traffic Jam

NOGALES, Ariz. (AP)—Don Alejandro Villaseor, Mexican consul here, has asked assistance of traffic engineers of the Mexican and U.S. governments to work out some way of alleviating the traffic congestion in Nogales, Sonora, Mexico, just across the international border from this city. All traffic now goes down the narrow main street of the Mexican city, Calle Obregon.

Increase in both truck and passenger car traffic has brought about a critical situation, the consul declared. He wants truck traffic rerouted around both cities.

Cases Heard In City Police Court

In Police Court Wednesday, Judge Charles H. Whedbee found Robert Lee Walker, Negro, guilty of non-support of his family. He gave the defendant six months on the roads.

Sentence is to be suspended on condition that Walker pay into the court $15 a week for support of his family. The judgment also provides that he is to start making payments June 30; that he shall remain of good behavior and this case is retained for further action.

War Bride Flies To Germany And Ailing Mother

ROCKINGHAM (UP)—A German girl who arrived in North Carolina as a war bride flew to the bedside of her critically-ill mother in Germany today after sympathetic Americans raised money for her trip.

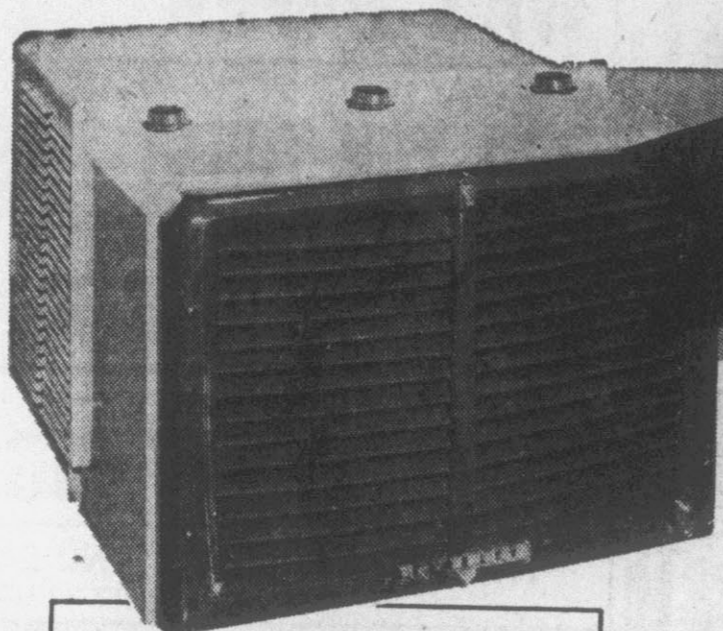

larceny. Testimony was that Acklin stole an army rifle from the Veterans of Foreign Wars building. The court gave him six months on the roads.

The girl, Mrs. Elsie Clemmings, had no money for the trip. She was notified of her mother's illness in a letter from her sister who urged her to return home to Weisbaden, Germany.

The local American Legion heard of her plight and notified radio station WAYN here. The station verified her story and told about it in broadcasts. The public responded in a fund-raising campaign which netted $672 for her trip.

Rosenberg Trial Is Very Opposite Of How Red-Ruled Prague Handled Spies

This is the third of three dispatches reviewing the atomic spy trial which brought death sentences to Julius and Ethel Rosenberg.

By NORMAN J. MONTELLIER
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP)—There was a spy trial in Czechoslovakia eight months ago.

The 11 defendants had been incarcerated in jail for months—former Czech Communist leader Vladimir Clementis for one year and 10 months, Rudolf Slansky for a full year, others for lesser periods.

It took the Czech Communists six days to try them, sentence them and hang them all. There were no appeals.

The Czech trial openly indicted Jewry. So marked was the vicious anti-Semitism of the trial that Israel protested officially.

The Communists have charged that "anti-Semitism" motivated the trial and sentence of Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, who are sentenced to die for giving atomic bomb secrets to Russia.

By coincidence, the main communist effort to arouse international sympathy for the Rosenbergs started last November—just after the Prague trial had stirred bitter world reaction. Many responsible organizations warned that the appeals for the Rosenbergs were in many cases Communist maneuvers to turn attention from the Prague spectacle.

Prague stands as the very opposite of the Rosenberg trial.

The Rosenbergs chose their own counsel as soon as arrested. There were seven months in which to prepare for trial. Their trial lasted 15 court days—spread over one month. The judge deliberated one week before pronouncing sentence.

Tien' he facilitated every legal move they had a right to make to appeal the judgment.

The Rosenbergs were to have died originally on May 21, 1951. The courts of the United States gave them 25 months of extra life to hear their appeals.

They went to the U. S. Supreme Court four times. They appealed seven times to the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals. They appealed for judicial and executive clemency.

All appeals were denied. A common ground for the rejections was that the appeals offered no justification for a review or new trial. The so-called new evidence was found invalid.

There were protests from Communists and others that the United States was bent on "rushing" the Rosenbergs to execution—after two years of court proceedings.

The Rosenbergs refused to answer many questions. They were caught up in denials by prosecution witnesses who produced contrary evidence. No authoritative legal organization has found the verdict unfair or the sentence improper.

On the contrary, the American Civil Liberties Union held the trial and sentence to be proper and just. Among others, the American Committee for Cultural Freedom, former New York Supreme Court Justice Samuel I. Rosenman, who was counsel to Presidents Roosevelt and Truman; Clarence E. Manion, former dean of law at Notre Dame University; the American Jewish Committee; Rabbi William F. Rosenblum of Temple Israel, New York, and Dr. Daniel A. Poling of the Christian Herald, all supported the verdict and sentence.

But atom scientist Harold Urey has held that David Greenglass was "incapable" of transmitting the atom bomb secret and has called his testimony "perjured." Prof. Albert Einstein also has urged clemency. Many authors and other prominent persons have joined in support of the Rosenbergs. Some are members of left-wing organizations.

Since the 1917 Espionage Act was passed, 108 Americans have been convicted of espionage. Only the Rosenbergs drew the death penalty.

It is noted that the Rosenbergs' crime was espionage—not treason. The U. S. Constitution is specific about treason and that crime was not charged to the couple.

Past espionage, treason or sedition cases offer a number of sensational cases. But all persons convicted in civil court escaped the death penalty and only a few were ever executed by military tribunals.

Benedict Arnold, Revolutionary War traitor, fled to Britain.

Aaron Burr, charged with plotting to set up an independent government after Thomas Jefferson defeated him for the presidency, was acquitted of treason in 1807.

John Brown of Harper's Ferry fame was hanged for the treason against Virginia, not for a federal crime. After the Civil War, Confederate President Jefferson Davis and others were arrested for treason but freed on presidential pardons.

John Fries, of the Fries Rebellion in Pennsylvania in 1790, was pardoned from a death sentence by President Adams.

Ethel Rosenberg will be the second woman executed in the United States for a crime against the federal government. Mrs. Mary E. Suratt, whose Washington boarding house was the scene of Abraham Lincoln's death plot, was hanged with three male conspirators in 1865—for treason.

Ohio School Will Eliminate Much Of Its Homework

CLEVELAND, O. (UP)—West Technical High School is facing the realities of modern times and plans to tailor courses accordingly by cutting down on homework.

Principal C.C. Tuck, who has been at West Tech 30 years, said he will alter present programs to accommodate pupils who find learning difficult or who work.

A survey, Tuck said, showed three out of four of his pupils work and many put in such long hours they are unable to do their homework. Others, he found, are simply not capable of doing the required study.

So that as many as possible can earn their diplomas, Tuck introduced a "cut-to-the-bone" course to eliminate much homework, or at least reduce it to manageable proportions for the slower or working pupil.

Certain Drawbacks

Tuck has carefully explained to parents and pupils the pitfalls of the alternate curriculum. Those taking it should not expect to go on to college, nor should they expect high references for skilled jobs.

The survey also disclosed that many pupils earn as much of $40 a week from their outside jobs. One was even discovered making $70 as a machinist.

"I'm not against these outside jobs," Tuck explained. "Work is part of education, too. But when students earn money they like to go places and spend it."

For those of the 1,500 at West Tech who wish to carry on in the traditional manner, Tuck advised that they "hit the books" each night, Monday through Thursday and confine their social lives to week ends.

Before the turn of the century, gasoline, being dangerous in lamps, was an unwanted product and kerosene was the mainstay of the petroleum industry.

Air Force Hoard Lost In Shuffle

WASHINGTON (UP)—Hundreds of miles of chain link fencing and barbed wire entangled the Air Force today and a House government operations subcommittee wanted to know why.

The Air Force spent $1,024,000 in 1951 to buy 142 miles of nine-foot chain link fencing and more than 500 miles of barbed wire, Robert L. Chaney, a General Accounting Office investigator, said yesterday.

And most of that fencing, he told the committee, is still stored at bases across the country, having never been used.

Some of the bases have even lost track of the fencing, Chaney said, and do not know they have it.

Committee Chairman Walter Riehlman (R-NY) said the bases "juggled their figures to show they had nothing in excess, yet we have pictures" showing fencing "stored and deteriorating."

Chaney said Robins AFB, Ga., got 65,000 feet which has not been used. Brookley AFB, Mobile, Ala., received 30,000 feet and has 28,440 feet left, he said.

The official added that Donaldson AFB, Greenville, S. C., now has 22,000 feet of fencing on hand, having received 15,750 feet which did not show up on the base inventory and later purchasing 10,000 feet locally.

Young Lawyer's Economy Plan Is On Its Way

STILLWATER, Okla. (UP)—A young attorney's plan for government economy was on its way to Washington today with the blessing of the local Chamber of Commerce.

Annual prizes—$50,000—$25,000 and $10,000—for the civil department heads who operate most economically.

Today's Lumberjack Has None Of Old Hardships

By SARMAN W. NICHOLS
 United Press Staff Correspondent
SAN FRANCISCO (UP) Today's lumberjack is no sissy, but his lot is far better than that of his grandpappy.

In driving several hundred miles through redwoods and sugar pines I didn't see a single man having at a tree with a hand axe. Mostly they were manning power-driven saws, although I understand the axe is not entirely out of date in this lumber country.

The treeman of today can ease just as effectively as his forebearers and he can spit a curve into the wind, too. But the "jacks" of these times don't sleep on a bed of baws in a lean-to. They bed down on foam rubber mattresses, covered with fresh sheets, and pillow their heads on a bunch of fluffed-up goose feathers. Instead of a tree stump.

Our 1953 lumberman lives in a home that is either heated by steam, coal, or oil and doesn't have to warm his hands over a camp fire or fix his sow-belly and beans over same. He has electricity or gas. His plumbing is indoors, and his wife and kids enjoy the comforts of life with him. In the old days a woman or a kid around the place might have called for a rope around the neck.

The villages in which the lumbermen live are up to date. There are daily-milk deliveries. Stores are handy. The "jack" doesn't have to read a six-month-old paper. A small boy flings a paper at his stoop each morning.

The men who cut the timber for your homes and furniture and other gimmicks these days don't have to worry out the weather to have a good time. "Town" now is where he lives.

He can march the little woman and the young-uns to a movie without having to take the hack out of the barn. There is television, even.

But the lumberman hasn't lost all of his heritage. He has retained the lingo of old.

Here are a few phrases gathered at random from forestry terminology:

Widow-maker—A tree that falls the way it wasn't supposed to fall and knocks off the head of the family.

Culture—Something man-made as compared to the natural features of an area.

Face—The lower concave portion of a saw-tooth saw.

Girdle—To encircle the stem of a living tree with cuts that completely sever the bark and often are carried into the center of the wood.

Two Solons Urge Tax Relief For Working Mother

WASHINGTON (UP)—Two senators urged tax relief today for working mothers.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) and Sen. George A. Smathers (D-Fla.) called for support of legislation to permit working mothers to deduct from their taxable income the cost of the care of their children.

Humphrey introduced such a bill, it would permit deductions up to $40-a-week for mothers whose adjusted gross income is not more than $6,000.

Smathers wrote Chairman Daniel A. Reed (R-N.Y.) of the House Ways and Means Committee urging approval of a similar bill which he had introduced.

The committee is holding hearings on a general revision of the tax system.

For centuries, people have tried to find the body of Alaric I and the treasure believed to have been buried with him 1,500 years ago under the waters of the Busento rivers in southern Italy.

The earliest log cabins in what is now the United States were built by Swedes.

Plan Expansion In Items Sold By Robot Vendors

NEW YORK (U.P.)—In the store of the future slot machines of the non-bandit variety are likely to eliminate that after-hours or Sunday feeling of desperation that rises from urgent need of a box of aspirin or a thermos jug.

That's the opinion of Leo Bertisch, drug store chain president. Who foresees that 75 per cent of standard items sold in his type of outlet will be vended by machines within the next decade.

"The only remedy for the merchant caught between rising costs and increasing competition is to make his store productive over a longer period of time each day and to cut his service cost through the use of mechanical vending," Bertisch said.

"Properly to exploit the retail store market, the machine designers will have to develop uniform units, with mechanism that will make change and efficiently handle all standard items, ranging from cigarettes to cosmetics.

Instead of Street Window.

"When they develop such machines, United Cigar-Whelan stores will be in the market for a considerable number of these units for our high traffic locations, where our operating costs are highest.

"It is our thinking that we would install such machines in place of our present street windows so that merchandise would be readily available to prospective customers 24 hours each day.

"We have made known our requirements, and we have hope that within the next years, or not later than two years, the prototypes of such machines will be available for us to start our pilot operations in New York and a few other large centers.

"From our discussions with these manufacturers, we believe that the entire pattern of retail selling may be radically altered once such machines are available to merchants generally."

Bessie Love Acts, Recalls Her Past

BESSIE LOVE looks over a portrait of herself as she appeared when she starred in the silent movies under the direction of D. W. Griffith.

By MILTON MARMOR
AP Newsfeatures
LONDON—The parts may be smaller and the audience may have a different accent, but Bessie Love, the fragile beauty of American silent films, is still acting. Now 53 and the mother of a 21-year-old dancer, Miss Love has appeared in British television, films and occasional stage plays in the West End and provincial theatres. Miss Love, who used to play leading lady for Douglas Fairbanks Sr. and many other famous stars of the silent movies, still prefers film work but is intrigued by television.

"It's more frightening than the stage or movies," she said. "It's more like opening night every time."
On London Stage
Just a few seasons back, she played opposite Paul Muni in the London production of "Death of a Salesman." More recently, the veteran actress made a movie, "The Magic Box."
Does she still look young and baby-faced?
The best answer to that is the fact that Miss Love is now rehearsing in a little theater production in which she plays the wife of a 17-year-old actor.
Interviewed in her London apartment, Miss Love recalled the past as she added coals to the open fire in her living room. She remembered 1915 when, as young and unknown Junonia Horton, she left Midlands, Tex., and went to California to see D. W. Griffith.
Stopped by Griffith's secretary, she lied like a professional and said she had an appointment. It worked. "Mr. Griffith was great and real and simple," Miss Love recalled. "He was so understanding when I told him I didn't know anything about the theater. My mother had told me that I'd have to try the films because I didn't know anything about acting."

Griffith saw something in that face. Soon he had changed her name. Bessie Love was cast as the young Jewish bride in the great movie, "Intolerance."
She did many more silent movies and in the talkies enjoyed such successes as "Broadway Melody." Miss Love says she must have made hundreds of pictures; she can't remember them all. Once she worked on three pictures at once.

Remains in England
In 1935, she visited England with her daughter, Patricia Hawkes. (Miss Love's former husband was William Hawkes, brother of producer Howard Hawks.) The actress fell in love with England and has remained here ever since. Not long ago her daughter danced in the London production of "Call Me Madam."

Miss Love feels that acting and directing techniques have remained just about the same.
"All the directors have their pet clichés," she said. "D. W., for example, made his girls too coy." And with that, Bessie Love struck a familiar, ingenious pose—familiar, that is, to us older bobby soxers.

Winston-Salem's Strike Is Ended

WINSTON-SALEM (UP)—A 35-day long strike by 5,200 CIO Communications Workers ended today at three big Western Electric plants in North Carolina and operations were scheduled to resume Monday.

The union announced agreement on a new contract including provisions for wage increases from five to 11 cents an hour. Wages were the only major difference left unsettled in negotiations that became deadlocked and resulted in a strike May 14.

The strike affected electronics manufacturing plants here, in Greensboro and Burlington. Federal and state labor conciliators said the agreement will be submitted to the workers for ratification by the union membership before it becomes effective.

John Walker, international representative for the CWA-CIO, said the locals would meet as soon as possible to consider the agreement. The union struck nine days after expiration of the old contract.

The company originally offered a wage increase ranging from three to eight cents an hour and the union last week rejected a proposed scale of from four to nine cents an hour more. The negotiating session which ended in the agreement began at 3 p.m. yesterday.

Works Off Debt At $1.25 An Hour

CLEVELAND, O. (U.P.)—Harry Gordon Phillips certainly deserves an award for diligence.

The 38-year-old father of eight children and grandfather of three has worked off a debt he couldn't pay with money.

Phillips was involved in an accident in which a truck belonging to the Crayton Southern Sausage Co. here was damaged to the extent of $249.12.

Before he was called to court for careless driving and operating with Mississippi license plates, Phillips reached Leroy Crayton, the sausage company president, and offered to work off the debt.

The agreement worked out was that each Friday evening after finishing his regular job he would report to Crayton and work as an all-round helper.
He also worked there all day Saturday.
"Mr. Crayton paid me $1.25 an hour," Phillips said, "and I put in 199 hours and 18 minutes." Crayton notified him formally by letter that the debt was discharged.
Since it was started in 1948 the U.S. Military Air Transport Service has carried more than 1,650,000 military passengers, 240,000 medical patients and 316,000 tons of cargo.
It is estimated that American fur farms produce 200,000 silver fox fur pelts a year.

Easy To Make At Home Your Summer Stole - - -

HOME-MADE GLAMOR... White jersey stole with yarn fringe and jeweled trim, easy for any girl to make.

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

Most popular accessory of the season is the stole, in every version. This something easily made by anyone who can use needle and thread or sewing machine. The high-fashion stole pictured, worked out by local sewing centers is white wool jersey, decorated with fringe and tiny groups of pearls and rhinestones tacked in place to form little flower groups and out lined in metallic stitch.

To make the stole, cut straight length of wool jersey 2 yards long and 30 inches wide. Then cut a straight length of crepe for lining, 1 1/2 inches less in measurement all around—or 66 by 27 inches. Turn under raw edges of both jersey and lining by turning under 1/4 inch all around and machine stitching in place. Place lining on stole length wrong sides together, so that there is a 1 1/2-inch border of jersey fabric on both sides and ends. Baste in place with long diagonal stitches about 5 inches apart. Fold jersey border over lining, mitre corners and blind-stitch in place.
To make the fringe, cut 108 pieces of knitting yarn, each 32 inches long. Mark ends of stole for fringe, spacing dots 1/4 inch apart and 1/4 inch from edge. Pull yarn through darning needle so you have two equal lengths. Draw yarn through marking on stole half the length of the double yarn. Cut yarn at needle eye. Knot the four equal lengths of yarn close to stole edge. Repeat until fringe extends across both ends of stole.
To make the trimming, make little clusters of pearls and rhinestones, sequins beads or anything that appeals to you, and tack them to the stole at intervals. Outline or embroider petal shapes in gold or silver metallic thread. Or use any other decorative touch that may appeal to you, such as colored yarn embroidery, appliqued flowers or vari-colored sequins. Here's where you can let your imagination run riot.

City Officials To Attend School

Reservations have been made for three representatives of Greenville's city government to attend a joint school on municipal finance and public personnel administration at Chapel Hill this week. The school will be conducted Friday and Saturday at the Institute of Government Building on the campus of the University of North Carolina.

City Clerk H.H. Duncan said today reservations have been made for Mayor W.L. Whedbee, Councilman J.A. Collins, Sr., and himself. The group will leave Friday morning in time for registration which begins at noon.
Included in the two-day course will be a study of budget preparation, amending the appropriation ordinance, sources of municipal revenue and other topics dealing with administration of municipal affairs.
Concluding session will be at 10:45 a.m. Saturday and adjournment will follow at 1 p.m.

Faster Traffic Is Special Goal Mexican Gov't

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Faster traffic on the road to Acapulco is promised, but nobody will mind that. There is little to see between Mexico and the Pacific Coast resort, as popular with Mexican as with foreign tourists.
The Communications ministry warned holiday-makers repair work on the road is still going on. It said there would be slow stretches and dusty spots. But it promised the improvements later would make up for the present nuisance.
The ministry said the driving time would be cut from eight hours to six hours, 21 minutes, at an average speed of 42 miles an hour. It said the road would be safe—but not as safe—for drivers who want to cover the 260 miles in five hours.

Rumors Of Birth Control Causes Spreading Panic

SINGAPORE (AP)—Medical authorities here are using loudspeakers to convince illiterate Chinese villagers in the rural areas that government is not carrying out birth control operations during medical checks on their children.
The rumors started when government doctors visited the rural schools for medical checkups of the children, during which the sex organs were examined for hygienic reasons.
But panic spread among the villagers who believed the check was to tamper with the reproductive functions of children owing to the rapidly expanding population.
These, he added, will be read

Discuss Bettering Of School Guidance Work

Improvement of guidance services in the public schools was discussed at East Carolina College Tuesday of this week before approximately a hundred teachers, school administrators, and others who attended a one-day conference on the campus.

The program for the day was arranged by Frank G. Fuller, faculty member of the education department and director of guidance at East Carolina. The conference, planned to assist public schools of the state with their problems, took up, according to Mr. Fuller, "one of the most pressing needs... that of improving guidance services to pupils."
Three aspects of the topic were presented. The role of the administrator, the role of the teacher, and the functions and services of guidance in the schools were discussed and analyzed.
Mr. Fuller emphasized the need of improvement in guidance programs. He outlined both the types of work in the guidance program and the benefits to be derived from it by pupil and teacher.

Dr. Clinton R. Prewett, director of student personnel at East Carolina, addressed his remarks to "the common garden-variety type of teacher" and not to the "teacher-counselor."
He stressed the idea that "our programs of guidance will either fail or will develop into fine educational enterprises in terms of general teacher cooperation and assistance." He pointed out, however, that in many cases the teacher may receive valuable assistance from the expert counselor.
Dr. J.K. Long, director of the East Carolina education department, and Hannis Latham, counselor at the Onocowly school, discussed the role of the administrator in the guidance program. Dr. Long developed the idea that the local school administrator should not wait for help from outside but should do something about guidance in his own school. Mr. Latham presented a ten-point program for the school administrator to follow in conducting an effective guidance program for pupils.

University's Course Has No Textbooks

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (U.P.)—Brown University will abandon textbooks for ideas in a new and revolutionary series of courses for freshmen and sophomores in the fall.
Courses in the sciences, humanities and social studies have been bundled under a unique heading, "Identification and Criticism of Ideas," for a five-year experimental period.
Financed by a $250,000 grant from the Carnegie Foundation, the courses are designed to eliminate drab classroom lectures and forced reading. Instead, the courses will prod select students into developing their own thoughts on "ideas habits."

"Most textbooks are hardly worth reading," said the University president, Henry M. Wriston. "In the new courses, textbooks will be abandoned, lectures will be rare."
In place of these traditional props of college education the identification-criticism classes in 14 university departments will emphasize independent study, supervised "bull sessions" and critical reading and writing.
Subject matter that first-year college students long have committed to memory will be gleaned instead from select books that outline a basic idea. Development of such ideas will come from other readings, that the student may choose himself.
Wriston said the object of the courses will be to study "a few significant books which epitomize progress or became turning points in progress."

These, he added, will be read intensively and analytically in their social and other contexts with reference to where the ideas came from and where they went and what their meaning has been and is being offered to students in their first two years because of a prevalent belief that much of this time usually is spent refreshing, enlarging and remedying what the student learned in preparatory school. Wriston said this bores some students to tears.
Among the works scheduled for study are Homer's "Iliad," Darwin's "Origin of Species," Adam Smith's "Nature and Cause of the Wealth of Nations" and others. The courses will be conducted in conjunction with the regular curriculum.

"We all suffer from routines," said Wriston, "and this program should renew zest as well as re-educate new zest."
Business Leary Of Unstable Asia
MANILA (AP)—Dr. Leopoldo T. Rara who recently completed five years as Philippine consul in Chicago, says unsettled conditions in the Far East have retarded the flow of American capital investments into the area.
He bough back reports that many U.S. business men are interested in such investments but are apprehensive over the unstable state of affairs.

Air Conditioning on wheels* comes of age!

Now you can have a car that's as comfortable on hot days as your air-conditioned home, office or favorite theater.
Now you can ride in draft-free coolness at the temperature level you choose—even when the outside reading is 110° and more.
Now you can take a full complement of passengers through the thick of traffic on a sweltering day—and each one of you will keep looking and feeling fresh as a daisy at dewtime.

Grilles in Buick's exclusive dual roof ducts insure draft-free distribution of conditioned air—and also provide individual control of air direction as desired.

Return air grilles on package shelf help maintain continuous circulation of conditioned, pollen-free air.

What's more, these exclusive roof ducts have individually controlled air directors above the side windows. So each window-seat passenger can guide a gentle breeze of conditioned air exactly where he wants it.
Of course, the Buick AIRCONDITIONER is automatic.
You switch it on, choose the temperature setting you want—and that level of coolness is maintained constantly. It thoroughly conditions the air around you—automatically. It carries off heat, stale air, tobacco smoke—automatically. It continuously introduces outside air into the system—automatically.
It's fast-acting, too. Even after an hour or more locked up under summer's hottest sun, the car interior can be brought to a delightfully cool comfort in a matter of minutes.
And it's really compact. The cooling unit itself fits neatly on a narrow shelf in the big trunk compartment—leaves plenty of room for luggage and the like.
Why not drop in on us and try a demonstration?
You'll find that the Buick AIRCONDITIONER with its exclusive dual roof ducts is the ultimate comfort in hot-climate driving.
*Buick Airconditioner available in 1953 Roadmaster and Super Riviera and Sedan models at extra cost.

For the advanced design of this Buick unit provides dual roof ducts that distribute up to 300 cubic feet of cooled, freshened, filtered, air per minute to all parts of the car interior evenly and constantly—without icy blasts and drafts on your neck, shoulders, legs.

Two Campaigns For Rosenbergs

By LYLE C. WILSON
 WASHINGTON, (UP)—Outside the legal arena where the real fight for the Rosenbergs is taking place there is considerable propaganda disturbance. The two efforts in behalf of the condemned pair are separate and distinct.

The first involves the application of American laws and will be decided by U.S. courts. The second is a Communist front effort refined close to perfection—at least the agitation fits well the pattern and the definition of a Communist front organization. It has been aimed at getting presidential clemency.

That does not mean that all, or even half, of the thousands of special pleaders for Julius and Ethel Rosenberg are Communists. Many thousands doubtless are anti-Communist. Some of those who have urged further consideration of the death sentence against the pair hold high position in the Roman Catholic church, an anti-Communist citadel.

The save-the-Rosenbergs campaign has been more intense than the agitation on behalf of Thomas J. Mooney and Warren K. Billings, a pair who were convicted of a July 22, 1919 dynamite outrage in San Francisco. Mooney was pardoned and Billings' life sentence commuted in 1939 after ceaseless propaganda.

A match for the Rosenberg uproar can be found in the Sacco-Vanzetti case—convicted murderers of a South Braintree, Mass., paymaster's guard. The Communists had a big piece of the Acco-Vanzetti propaganda—along with some very learned men and others. The United States was hooped and booped by crowds in half or more of the capitals of the world. But Massachusetts stood pat and the convicted men were executed.

Communist agitation in behalf of the Rosenbergs began with the instant of their arrests in the summer of 1950 and has continued with increasing momentum, gaining non-Communist converts day by day. The mass picketing of the White House on June 4 was without numerical precedent.

Paris turned out a crowd of 5,000 persons yesterday to demonstrate before the United States embassy. Significantly, Jacques Duclos, who frequently states the Communist party line for all Western nations, was among the leaders there.

Communist sympathies would not explain the interest of speaker Edouard Herriot of the French Assembly in the condemned traitors, nor of the French government, itself, nor of other dignitaries of church and state.

The Communist simply sparked the Rosenberg campaign to white heat, made it look like a good cause and welcomed all volunteer workers, regardless of political affiliation. Among themselves, the Communists probably are calling this one the perfect front. It has attracted enough non-Communist support to disguise its origin and conceal its manipulations.

Postman's Friend Has A Career With Mails

OSCAR, the career dog, who delivers the mail.

AP Newsfeatures...
 FABER, Va.—Oscar, a career dog with the U.S. Postal service, is beginning his fourth year as a railroad mail messenger in this mountain community.

He's become so sharp at his job of meeting the trains and carrying the mail pouch to the postoffice near by that he's picked up an apprentice, Pete, a smaller nondescript black and white dog, now meets each of three daily trains as an understudy.

Oscar is assistant to Willie Ray (Cap) Bowen, 66, who gets paid for meeting the mail trains. Bowen said he didn't train Oscar to do the work. The dog started as a volunteer and just became a regular.

About 10 minutes before train time Oscar shows up on the station platform. He waits until the mail car rolls by and then takes off with it, waiting for the mail pouch to be tossed out.

Oscar grabs the pouch and lugs it—or if it's a heavy one he drags it—to the postoffice about 50 yards from the drop point. He'll only relinquish the mail to three certified friends—his boss, Bowen; Railway Agent Donald Atkins, the owner of Pete, the apprentice, or Postmaster A.T. Davidson.

Any others of Faber's 100 or so population who try to lend a helping hand are greeted by warning growls.

Kremlin Scored Big Mistake In Berlin Program

By PHIL NEWSOM
 United Press Foreign News Editor

Every so often the double-dome thinkers in the Kremlin make a mistake.

They made a king-size mistake this week.

They turned their hired men loose in East Berlin on Tuesday in planned demonstrations designed to supply phoney proof that there is freedom of thought and action under Communist rule.

The difficulty was East Berliners, after eight years of iron-handed Soviet rule, took the whole thing seriously. Before the Red knew what was happening they had a full-blown revolt on their hands.

Some East German heads were cracked, and it is probable we never will know how many among the demonstrators died under the guns and steel treads of Russian tanks and armored cars.

But for the West it was good news.

It should strengthen West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer in the September elections in West Germany, and correspondingly weaken the position of German Socialists who increasingly have been campaigning for German unification on a peace-at-any-price basis.

In France, it should give needed impetus to the European army plan whose chances of ratification have dwindled in direct ratio to the rising notes of Russia's siren call to world "peace."

The revolt of the East German people tore aside a portion of the Iron Curtain effectively revealing the myth of peace and contentment and disclosing the bitter unrest that needs only the slightest spark to be touched into flaming action.

The East German revolt, coupled as it must be with known unrest in Czechoslovakia and the recent Communist purge in the Ukraine, certainly now will be a foremost topic of the Big Three of the United States, Britain and France when they meet a few weeks hence at Bermuda.

It is bound now to harden finally Big Three, and particularly United States, demands for guaranteed free elections in East Germany before any Big Four talks are undertaken for an over-all German peace treaty.

Western diplomats believe that the German and other outbreaks are proof of the theory that behind the worldwide Russian peace offensive lies a desperate need to mend fences at home.

Tobacco Plants Are 'Shooting Up'

GROWING FAST—Pitt County's tobacco crop has been growing rapidly since rains last week brought an end to the dry spell which began in mid-May over most of Eastern North Carolina. The field of tobacco pictured above is slightly more than waist high as are many other fields throughout the sections. Many agricultural observers have asserted crops generally this year are looking as good or better than at this time in many years. (Reflector Staff Photo)

Bible Words to Live by

My favorite Bible verse is Micah 6:8—

"He has showed you, O man, what is good; and what does the Lord require of you but to do justice, and to love kindness, and to walk humbly with your God?" (RSV)

It seems to me to be the most adequate expression in one single verse of the characteristic note common to Judaism and Christianity, of a man walking in companionship with God, while obeying God through his just and kind treatment of his fellow men. It reminds us that there is no right and true love of God which denies justice and kindness to our fellow men, so that the true worshiper of God must always be seeking for justice and kindness to others. And at the same time it reminds those who fix their hearts only on demands for justice, that man has also a duty to walk humbly in the sight of God.

Good-Will Theme For Publication

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (U.P.)—Hoosiers often have been called isolationists, but a new magazine published here has international intentions.

Pen-Prints, a pocket-size non-profit publication, is described by its sponsors as "a first attempt to promote international good relations through exchange of humor, art, photographs, articles, stories, recipes, folklore, sports and fashions."

The latest issue, the second, features Italy. It is printed in English and Italian. The first issue concerned Switzerland. The third will feature Mexico.

Launched without funds by a small group interested in world friendship, the first issue aroused such interest that the Indianapolis Chamber of Commerce offered financial help. A publishing company offered "unusual credit terms" and discounted all printing "generously."

Mrs. Nora Ashman an Indianapolis housewife, mother and writer, is the editor. The publication's office is in her home. One of the guiding lights is Prof. Eugene T. Underwood, professor of modern languages at Indiana Central College, who translates material to and from foreign languages.

Underwood is an associate editor, as is Mrs. Carolyn M. Cordes, author-creator of Toby Toad, "the first little animal in the history of children's literature to make a good-will tour of the world."

Copies of the publication are sent abroad for distribution among schools and libraries. Indianapolis public schools use it as supplementary reading.

An explanatory page at the front of the current edition—first printing 5,000 copies—says Pen-Prints is "a magazine devoted to the purpose of creating good-will and fostering understanding by helping to become acquainted... in an effort to weld nation to nation in world friendship."

The American muskrat was imported into Great Britain for fur farms but going wild, it did so much damage to river banks that further imports have been forbidden and efforts have been made to exterminate it.

Federal Buying Of Peanuts Has Reached Its End

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Agriculture Department has announced it is ending direct federal purchases of peanuts and said farmers can get price supports on their 1953 crop only through price support loans.

Both loans and purchase agreements have been included heretofore in peanut price support programs.

Loans on the 1953 crop will be available from harvest time through next Jan. 31 and will mature May 31, 1954, or earlier. Farmers may pay off the loan or turn their crop over to the government at loan maturity.

The department also said the CCC will make allowance for shrinkage and grade loss while peanuts are in storage in order to give producers a "larger portion" of the support price, and besides being available to producers, loans will be available to any cooperative whose members comply with peanut market quotas and acreage allotments.

Previously, loans were available only to three co-ops in Texas, Virginia and Georgia, and shrinkage and grade losses were deducted from the support price. Allowance made for shrinkage losses has not yet been figured, but officials estimated last year's averaged about $13 a ton.

In April, the department had announced the 1953 peanut crop will be supported at $237.00 a ton or 90 per cent of the Aug. 1 parity price, whichever is higher.

Justice Devin Speaks Today At Bar Association

WRIGHTSVILLE BEACH (UP)—Chief Justice W. A. Devin of the North Carolina Supreme Court was the principal speaker today at the 58th annual meeting of the North Carolina Bar Association here.

President J. Spencer Bell of Charlotte told members at the group's opening session last night that "the time has come to change our organization from a predominantly social one to one of service to the public."

"Lawyers must recognize that if the public is to continue to have confidence in the bar and use the courts as it should, it is up to the bar to make the process as efficient and economical as possible," he said.

The convention here will close Saturday.

TV Development Shows Big Gain In Past 5 Years

NEW YORK (AP)—The speed with which coast to coast television has developed is clearly shown by a checkup of the records.

On May 1, 1948, only 196 miles of TV circuits were available to connect five cities along the eastern seaboard, including Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, and Washington.

In the five years since then the circuits, which include both coaxial cable and micro-wave links, have been extended to the west coast, to the north and to the south and to intermediate points so that relay service now is available over 34,000 miles of relays to 87 cities.

Before 1953 is out, 13,000 more channel miles will be added.

Hour Glass Silhouette Near-Impossible Today

By ELIZABETH TOOMEY
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK (UP)—Women are getting bigger in the middle, broader in the shoulders and narrower in the hips, a recent survey reports.

That hour glass silhouette of Lillian Russell's day isn't only out of fashion, it's downright impossible for most of today's healthy, athletic young women. Even those hipless creatures, the fashion models, can't fit into Grandma's corset.

This is due partly to evolution, partly to living habits, according to the researchers for the H. W. Gossard Co., which released the survey. A Harvard professor reported in 1920 that American college women were four pounds heavier, an inch taller and one and one-half inches bigger around the waist than the girls of 1890.

Now this survey comes up with the news that the average measurements today are bust, 35 inches; waist, 29 inches and hips, 38 inches. Shades of the perfect 36!

"Height is increasing about an inch and a half every 50 years, hips are narrowing the shoulders are getting broader," reports the Gossard survey.

The researchers are convinced that women will always have an inward curve at the waistline, if for no other reason than that it appeals to men.

Grandma owed her 18-inch waist and her fainting spells to those whalebone and steel corsets. Nowadays girls want to breathe freely, with the result that few can be squeezed into an 18-inch circumference.

Uplift brassieres, which came into fashion as recently as the 1930's, make the average American girl's bust measurement one inch bigger than it was 30 years ago, the survey says.

"American women have the best figures in the world," the survey said. "The French average figure is too straight-hipped, and the average British woman is an inch bigger on all measurements."

Weighty Culprit
SAN GABRIEL, Calif. (UP)—Hefty Alberta Patoux, who weighs 230 pounds, takes on extra weight whenever she visits a market—but not because of food.

Police nabbed the beefy woman in a market on charges of shoplifting. She had 13 cartons of cigarettes cached in her tent-sized bloomers.

Road To Tibet Is Next Goal For Red Engineers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Peiping radio says Communist road builders are ready to tackle another stretch in the half-completed 678-mile road leading from China's Tsinghai province over high mountain passes into Tibet. The road will join another main highway being pushed through to Lhasa, capital of Tibet from Sikang province, called the main artery of western China.

The Peiping broadcast, heard by the associated press in San Francisco, said the new Tsinghai project will wind across a frigid, sparsely populated plateau more than 15,000 feet above sea level.

India Stressed In Health Work

NEW DELHI (AP)—The World Health Organization assists more projects "in active operation" in India than anywhere else in the world, a W.H.O. announcement says.

Out of 200 health projects launched with W.H.O. assistance in 62 different countries, 18 center in India with an international staff of 35 professors, doctors, nurses, and technicians.

Nepal has 1,000 motor vehicles, all of which were taken apart and carried into the area on the backs of porters, although a road into the country is now being built.

feet long will be built. The broadcast said Russian experts were working on the project.

Refreshing
but not filling

Modern fashion, modern refreshment, go hand in hand—Pepsi is dry,
LIGHT, reduced in calories

This model of slim-waisted elegance is by Christian Dior. To be worn by the modern woman, whose greatest care is to keep her figure young—and whose taste, therefore, is for lighter foods, lighter beverages.

Among them, Pepsi-Cola. For Pepsi has kept itself up to date with her modern, more wholesome way of living!

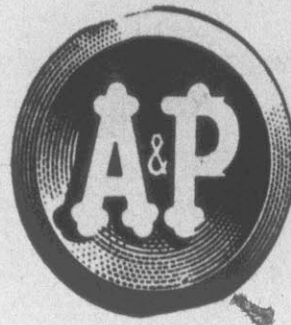

That's why today's Pepsi-Cola—dry (not too sweet), reduced in calories—is more popular than ever.

It's the modern, the light, the LEAN refreshment—refreshes without filling.

Incentive Pay Is Used By Chinese. MAIZURU, Japan (AP)—Japanese repatriates from Communist China say the Reds have borrowed an incentive pay system from the Russians to speed up production. The wages are convertible either into cash or tickets for various incentive commodities. All workers put in an eight-hour day on a five and a half day work-week. One repatriate said he worked on a salary basis on a dairy farm and received $20 a month. A week's wages, he said, would buy a thin cotton tunic lightly filled with cotton batting and thin cotton pants.

Early Study On Impeachment Bid

WASHINGTON (UP)—Chairman Chauncey W. Reed (R-Ill.) said Thursday his House Judiciary Committee would give prompt consideration to a demand for impeachment action against Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas.

The demand was made in two separate House resolutions introduced Wednesday by Rep. W. M. Wheeler (D-Ga.) after Douglas granted a stay of execution to Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, convicted atomic spies.

Reed told newsmen that if the resolutions reached the committee office in printed form in time for the committee to act on them Thursday, they would be considered.

Under the Constitution, a bill of impeachment — comparable to an indictment — must originate in the House. Then the Senate sits as a court of impeachment and the charges are presented by members of the House. It takes a two-thirds vote of the Senate to convict. The only penalty for conviction is removal from office.

South Koreans Welcome And Helping Fugitives From UN War Prisoner Camps

PUSAN KOREA (UP)—Five anti-Communist North Koreans, nervous and anxious about their future, told today of their "escape" from U.N. prisoner of war camps.

Three of the prisoners released by South Koreans were interviewed in the mountains outside this refugee-swollen city. The two others were trying to lose themselves in the crowd in town.

All asked that their names be withheld.

A husky 25-year-old North Korean said that although the prisoners didn't leave their compound until 2 a.m. today, they knew all about the plan four hours earlier.

"ROK military policemen came to our camp and led us out," he said. "I was not worried. There were other MPs waiting for us outside."

"We just did what we had wanted to do for a long time."

The second said his home was in Chaeryong in North Korea.

"What is the ROK government going to do with us?" he asked.

"We will do whatever they say."

He said there was no shooting at the camp from which he escaped and he believed all the prisoners came out safely.

The third man, wearing dyed army fatigues and eating food and rice wine provided by the villagers, said:

"These villagers were waiting for us to give us food and clothing. We ate like kings."

In downtown Pusan I talked with two escaped prisoners walking around with a South Korean army sergeant. They wore fresh white shirts and chocolate-colored fatigues.

"We met the sergeant as we walked into town," said a 24-year-old POW from Suncheon. "We walked down the main highway right into town. Nobody recognized us."

Both men said that since they arrived in Pusan, many persons had offered them food and shelter. "I have a place to stay tonight — a home," said one.

Pitt Prisoner Is Granted Parole After Six Years

William Mitchell Jr., 22-year-old Pitt County Negro, who was serving 15-20 years in State Prison for the murder of his brother, was paroled and released yesterday.

Paroles Commissioner N. F. Ransdell, in granting paroles to five other prisoners, said Mitchell had served six years of his sentence.

Mitchell was indicted for the murder of his brother, Herbert Mitchell, in the Belvoir community. When his case came up for trial in Superior Court in Greenville, in April 1947, his counsel submitted a plea of guilty of second degree murder. The court accepted the plea and Mitchell was sentenced to 15-20 years in prison.

Foreign Aid Bill Is Called Up For Debate In House

WASHINGTON (UP)—House leaders called up the foreign aid bill for debate today as some Republicans urged new cuts totaling more than $1,000,000,000.

Speaker Joseph W. Martin Jr., told a reporter, however, that he was sure the drive for deeper cuts would be stopped.

As cleared by the Rules Committee, the measure would provide $4,998,000,000 to run the aid program during the fiscal year starting July 1. This compares with President Eisenhower's cutback request for $5,474,000,000.

Rep. John M. Vorys (R-O), floor manager for the bill, predicted the House would approve it without any big changes—giving the new administration a solid vote of confidence in the first House test on foreign policy.

Rosenbergs Are 'Together' For 14th Anniversary

OSSINING, N.Y. (UP)—Atom spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg met for 14 minutes today in the death row of Sing Sing prison on their 14th wedding anniversary; for what could be one of their last moments together before they die in the electric chair.

A wire mesh screen separated the husband and wife spy team and a prison attendant accompanied each for their visit in the women's wing of the prison's death house. Mrs. Rosenberg is the only occupant of the wing.

Prison attendants refused to disclose what was discussed during the meeting which was requested by the husband. Presumably they talked about the stay of execution granted yesterday by Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas and what action the court might take when it met to consider Douglas' action.

Warden Wilfred H. Denno said meetings were permitted only for discussion of developments in their case.

Denno said that in view of Douglas' ruling "as far as I am concerned there is no execution." However, he called in an extra shift of prison guards—70 men—who set up a barricade in front of the parking lot which provides the only access to the prison.

OUT OF SEASON

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UP)—The calendar said April—but it was cold enough for Christmas trees. So Eddie Romano bought a load of trees, cheap, and tried to sell them at his fruit and vegetable market.
