30 Years Ago Today
June 23, 1923
White's theatre hung out the "SR O" sign last night. There was a reason. All Greenville was anxious to find out who was the most popular girl in the city, which was decided by a voting contest. The awards were silver loving cups offered by the Community Pictures, Inc., which concern made the films for the local views, scenes, presented for the first time last night. The ballots cast showed an equal number for Miss Hannah Dixon and Miss Rosamond Planagan. There was only one thing to do — that is, draw. Miss Dixon was on the long end of the long straw and won. That was a fair way to decide that part of the contest, as both young ladies are among the most attractive and popular of all the fair girls of Eastern North Carolina.

Miss Piney Cox Bride-Elect of June Given Bridal Shower.

Mrs. Elmer Warren and her daughter, Sherry Warren of Stokes, entertained at a lovely surprise shower on Monday night, June 15, at 8:00 to honor Miss Piney Cox, bride elect of Washington.

Invitations were issued for a bridal shower which came as a complete surprise to the honoree. Guests arriving at the appointed hour were received at the entrance of the home by the hostesses and Miss Cox, who was wearing a lovely corsage of yellow summer flowers, a gift from her hostesses.

The living room was beautifully set with summer flowers. The mantel was banked in greenery and held a lovely center arrangement of white flowers.

Several enjoyable games were played which caused much merriment.

During the event, party guests were invited into the dining room where punch was served by Mrs. Julius Ross of Greenville.

The table was laid with a beautiful lace cloth. A lovely arrangement of flowers formed an end piece for the punch table.

The dining room was beautifully decorated. Tall white candles burned on the table. In the center of the lace covered table was a massive arrangement of flowers. In lovely silver containers were mints, nuts and party cookies.

Beautifully wrapped shower gifts were placed on a side table and were later opened by the honoree.

Mrs. Warren's gift to Miss Cox was bath towels and Miss Warren remembered her with a miniature frying pan.

Approximately 30 guests attended the pre-nuptial affair.

Role In Today's Aviation Women Pilots Play Big

By ELIZABETH TOOMEY
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP)—An interested group of men gathered around Mrs. Barbara Cloud, 31, the other day while she explained her plan to enter the seventh annual all-woman transcontinental air race.

They listened respectfully while Mrs. Cloud, a willowy blonde with china blue eyes and a voice so soft the men had to lean forward to catch the words, explained horsepower and handicaps and navigation.

Not a single man murmured anything that sounded like, "That's a woman pilot for you." Women pilots, for some reason, have won a place in the aviation world that women drivers never achieved on the highways.

The race starts in Lawrence, Mass., on July 1 and ends in Long Beach, Calif.

"But I think it's marvelous for aviation," Miss Cochran said. "Women make just as good speed pilots as men."

Ailing Senator Taft Still Has A Full Day

By RAYMOND LAHR
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP) — Senate Republican Leader Robert A. Taft has been slowed down by a painful hip ailment but he still puts in what most lawmakers would regard as a normal work day.

While he used to dash around the Capital with his coat tails flying, he now makes his way slowly with the help of crutches to keep his weight off the ailing left hip.

Taft has long been credited by both friend and foe with exceptional industry and far above average ability as a legislative craftsman. Now, at the age of 63, he is forced to cut down the activity he normally assumed until his return from a Cincinnati hospital three weeks ago. At the urging of his physicians, he named Sen. William F. Knowland (R-Calif.) as his deputy to handle the party floor leadership, which requires almost constant attendance when the Senate is in session.

The Ohio senator's health has been the subject of much Senate speculation and discussion in recent weeks. He appears somewhat wan and has lost weight.

But in conversation, he talks as energetically as he always did and displays his same avid interest in the whole broad field of congressional activity.

His schedule is shortened two or three times a week when he goes to Walter Reed Army Hospital here for his still unhealed hip ailment.

Although obviously pained by the hip, he sometimes neglects or forgets to use his crutches when moving around the Senate.

Freed of the hour to hour chores of the floor leadership, Taft still receives a full schedule of callers and attends committee sessions and leadership meetings about as he did before his illness.

He is playing an active role in current moves to bring GOP congressional leaders and administration spokesmen into agreement on legislation to amend the Taft-Hartley Act.

Taft has spent much less time on the Senate floor, however, and has taken no part in debate.

Democrats in the closely divided Senate have twice given the GOP majority a thumping in the past week in votes primarily involving procedural issues. These setbacks have led some senators to wonder whether things would have been different with Taft at the tiller.

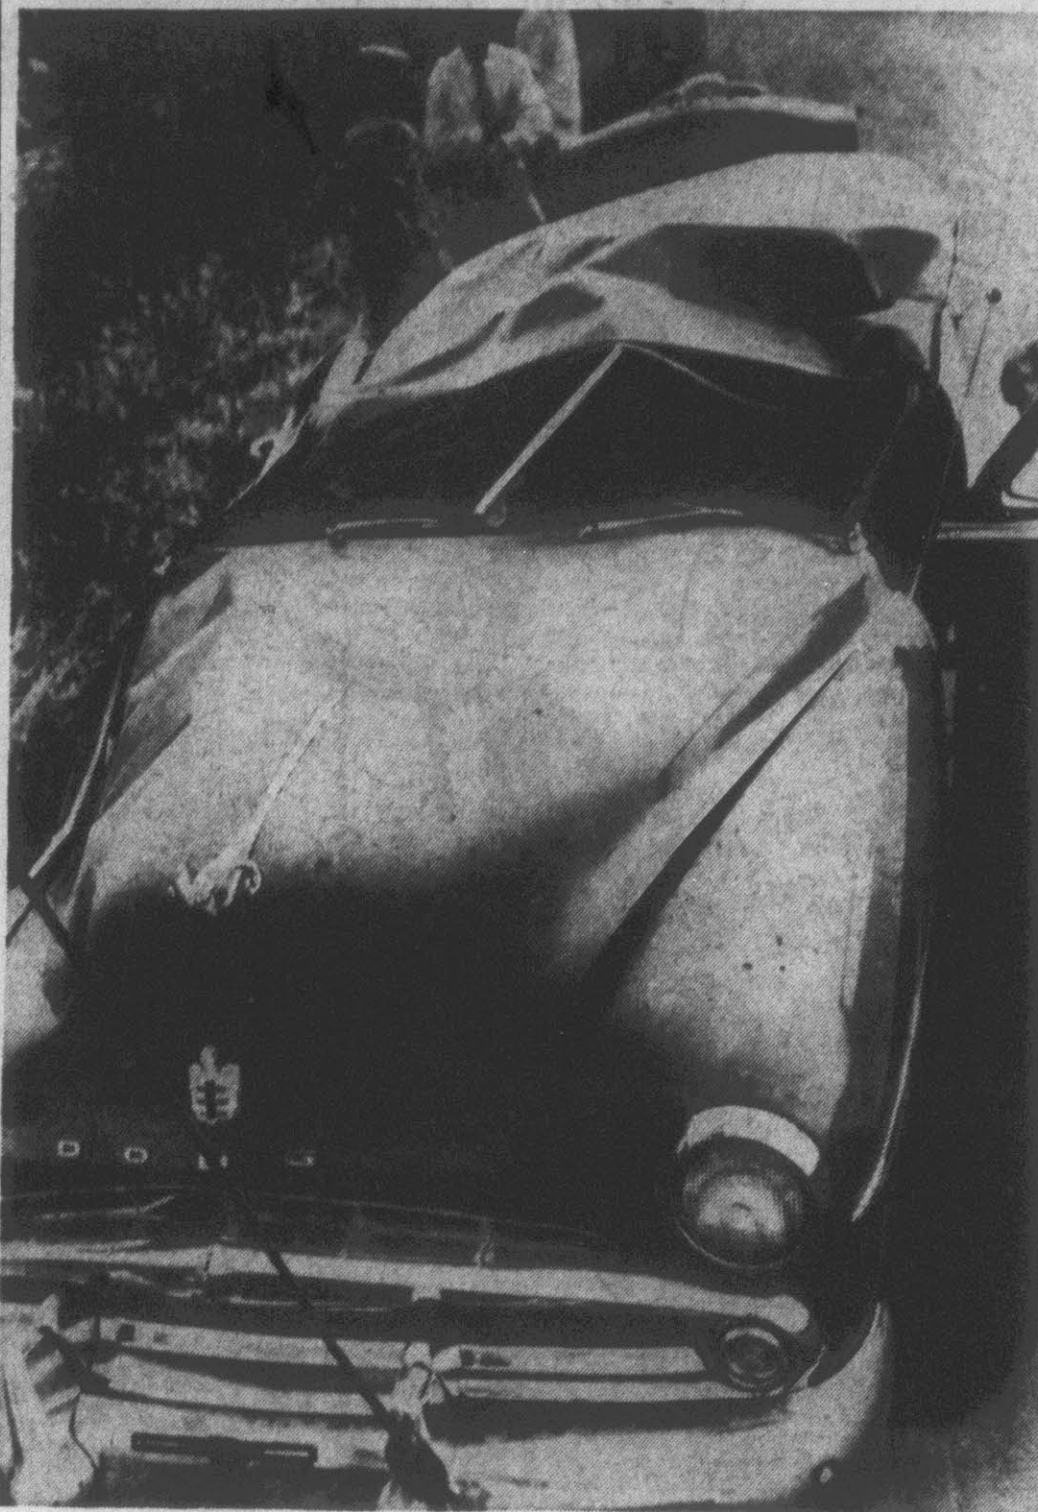

Wins Wings

First Lieutenant Charles D. Rice, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Rice of Greenville, received his wings at Vance Air Force Base, Enid, Okla. June 16 following completion of his flight training.

Lt. Rice graduated from Greenville High School and received a commission in the Air Force upon graduation from East Carolina College where he was in ROTC. Lt. and Mrs. Rice and their daughter are spending several days in Greenville with Lt. Rice's parents.

Following his leave, Lt. Rice will return to Vance Air Force Base where he will undergo an additional six weeks training before reassignment. Before entering flight school, he served as a special service officer at Randolph Air Force Base, Texas.

THREE FLIPS—After turning over three times, this automobile landed on its wheels. The accident occurred on the Old Creek road about three miles from Greenville yesterday afternoon. The driver, listed by the highway patrol as James Marvin Jackson, 35, of Washington, was thrown 30 feet from the vehicle as it turned over. He received leg and head injuries and was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital for treatment. (Reflector Staff Photo)

Cripple Girl Battered, Slashed, Dies Of Attacks

ATLANTA, (UP)—Police today hunted a "sex fiend" who battered and slashed a 22-year-old crippled girl to death only a few days before she was to be operated on to correct her deformed feet.

Det. Lt. L.T. Bullard said "we have some leads" to the identity of the slayer but no suspects have yet been arrested.

The nude body of Betty Bagby, partially covered by her torn skirt and drifting sand was found in a wooded area in the northwest section of Atlanta yesterday. Heavy white surgical shoes and white socks were still on her feet.

Police Lt. Joe Perry said black bruises dotted her head and neck. Her body had been slashed with a knife and "her right breast was practically cut off," Perry said.

Police surmised she was slain Sunday before a heavy rain which could have washed the sand over the body.

It could not be determined immediately whether she had been raped.

Bullard said a large rock with bits of hair and dried blood stuck to it might have been the murder weapon although bruises on her throat indicated she also could have been strangled. One arm appeared to be broken.

Her torn clothing was scattered over a wide area. Bits of her underclothing hung from the branches of trees.

"It could only be the work of a sex fiend," Bullard said.

A neighbor of the young woman, Charles L. Dickerson, found her mutilated body as he walked home from work. He said he first thought it was a drunk lying in the woods with only his shorts on.

Miss Bagby, who lived in a mill section with her parents, went to an all-night sing Saturday and then stayed with a friend. Relatives told police that she was seen talking on Sunday with two men who might have been soldiers.

The dead woman was to have been admitted to Grady Hospital this week for an operation to correct the deformities of her feet. She had been undergoing treatment for several months.

Pitt Counties At Realtors' Institute Held In Chapel Hill

CHAPEL HILL—Sam Nelson of Grifton and Jack Wallace of Greenville attended the Realtors' Institute of North Carolina Association of Real Estate Boards here last week.

Sessions were held at the University of North Carolina. The school is composed of practical real estate dealers and is accredited by the University. Completion of three years' attendance and passing a written examination, earns a certificate from the University. Nelson completed his first year, Wallace, three years.

Wallace is the first graduate of the Realtors' Institute in the eastern area. He was president of the student body. Nelson was elected to that office last Friday.

Ninety per cent of the realtor students are from the metropolitan areas in the western part of the state.

Mean temperatures in the southern part of Ontario, Canada, are about the same as those of San Francisco, says the Ontario government.

A $60,000 Aid To Greenville Taxpayers

Indicative of the growing cooperation and coordination between Greenville's administrative government and its Utilities Commission is the decision of the commission to turn over an extra $60,000 to the city's general fund for the coming fiscal year.

While the additional sum decided upon by the Utilities Commission is $7,500 less than the $67,500 originally requested by the council, the commission provided it would consider turning over the remaining $7,500 to the city general fund if an emergency arises in which the money is needed.

The Utilities, before coming to its decision on the $60,000 additional supplement to the city's general fund had to decide between giving the money to the city, or reducing electric power rates. Work already had begun on the latter when the request for more funds came from the council.

A study made by the utilities indicated it would be financially unsound to turn over to the city general fund $142,500 from utilities profits during the next fiscal year, and at the same time reduce electric rates. The decision to turn over more to the city budget, we believe, was the wiser of the two choices open to the Utilities Commission.

The commission has not given up hope of being able to reduce its electric rates in the future. We hope they can. A rate reduction certainly would be beneficial to those who purchase electricity from Greenville utilities; but likewise the extra $60,000 put into the general fund is going to be a great help to the citizens of Greenville.

As the tentative budget of the city has ed expenditures were $67,500 above anticipated expenditures were $67,500 above anticipated revenue. Unless the proposed budget had been reduced by that amount — which councilmen and department heads said would seriously impair city operations — it would have been necessary to raise the city tax rate approximately 34 cents per $100 valuation. The councilmen were not inclined to raise the tax rate, and they asserted the proposed budget was clipped to the bone.

The turnover of an extra $5,000 per month by the Utilities Commission comes as

WHAT'S YOUR HURRY AND WORRY?

From a train window a few days ago I looked down upon a parking lot, right across the street from a railroad station. It was full of cars, but I have never seen a parking lot in which the lanes were so wide. One could get in and out of that parking lot without any difficulty. The whole picture was functional. It spelled out mobility.

There are many parking lots into which one can scarcely squeeze a car, and once in, it takes a crew of workmen, shrieking and gesticulating, to get the car out of its stall. When I saw this parking lot at the station, it started me to thinking about two classes of people—the people whose lives are so jammed with activities that anxiety is written on their faces and frustration is in every accent they utter. They are physically exhausted. They are mentally confused. In contrast with such people, there are others who get no end of work done. It is easily done, with times for rest and pleasant conversations and hobbies. Such people are like the parking lot with the wide lanes—taking life in their stride, bustling with activity, but gaining their ends without tension and hubbaloob. And they make everybody happy, and are happy themselves.

God took six long ages to make his world, and He rested on the seventh. Nothing in nature is hurried.

Ike Is Still Liked And Trusted

WASHINGTON—They still like Ike because they trust him! Although this comment on popular sentiment toward President Eisenhower after almost six months in office was voiced by a friendly observer, it seems to reflect the opinion of the country. The estimate is based on his public reception during his recent five-state tour, newspaper polls, Congressional mail and similar sources.

PEOPLE'S ATTITUDE—Although Eisenhower does not possess F. D. R.'s flair or oratorical genius, or match Harry S. Truman in political pugnaciousness and swashbuckling, he has impressed people as a distinct personality. He gives the impression of honesty and sincerity. The folks appear to believe that he is doing the best he can for their best interests. They appreciate his lack of rabid partisanship, which contrasts sharply with his predecessors' devotion to the Flynn Hagues, Pendergasts, etc. They welcome his refusal to extend favors to any special class, as F. D. R. and Truman did to such groups as labor, liberals and racial minorities.

The Democrats' attempt to depict the Administration as an annex of Wall Street has failed disastrously. Proof lies in their quick abandonment of this strategy.

POLITICIANS STOP GRUMBLING—A few weeks ago, as reported here at the time, the professional politicians were criticizing Ike sharply, albeit mutteringly. They were asking when he was "going to become President," and when he was going to "wipe out the New Deal." They were insisting that he get tough with Senators Taft and McCarthy. The grumbling has disappeared as Ike began to assert himself, and to exert quiet but effective pressure on behalf of his domestic program. But these fears and doubts were entertained chiefly by the professional pole on and off Capitol Hill, not by the people at large.

The nation-wide reaction toward an Administration cannot be measured by listening to Congressional critics, or to their letter-writing constituents. The attitude of these personally involved and interested elements usually differs from that of the American people generally.

OPEN BREAK UNWISE—Relatively few thought it necessary for the President to break openly or privately with Senators Taft or McCarthy, who have millions of admirers. Eisenhower knows that he would lose a great deal of influence and popularity inside and outside Congress in such a clash.

No popular indignation of any depth or extent has been aroused by issues which have precipitated so much hostile oratory in House and Senate—higher Federal interest rates, defense economies, the cleverness of tax-cutting and budget-balancing, etc. On all these matters, it appears, the people trust Ike to keep his pledges as soon as conditions warrant.

IKE WOULD WIN—The single question that cuts deep is the continued conflict in Korea, with the tragedy it brings to so many homes. And the feeling seems to be that the true negotiations are being conducted as well as possible under extremely difficult circumstances.

Perhaps the most precise summary of present-day politics is that if an election were to be held tomorrow, the Republicans might lose House or Senate, but Ike would be re-elected.

Patchwork At The Big Three Conference

The Big Three meeting in Bermuda (provided the French get a premier by July 8) should go a long way toward patching the crack which has opened between the United States and her two principal allies over international problems.

President Eisenhower, Prime Minister Churchill, and the yet-unnamed French premier, will have an opportunity to exchange views first hand, discuss the problems facing the free world, and come to an understanding about future progress in the cold war.

It is quite probable that the split on international questions between the three nations has been exaggerated in recent months. It is probable also that the meeting between the heads of the three governments will pave the way for more closely coordinated action in future international situations.

Without the Russians present, the Bermuda conference will not become another Yalta or Potsdam; but even with dealing with the closest allies of the United States, the Chief Executive should be careful that he not overstep his bounds in committing the nation to any future action.

Everything within reason must be done to present a solid front before the cold war pushed by the communists and "hot war" threats whether they come in Asia or any other place on the globe.

Without unforeseen difficulties, the three leaders should achieve unity at the meeting in spite of the controversial issues which will be on the agenda for their consideration.

NEW YEAR — Wednesday of next week will be New Year's Day for State government and for most of the county and municipal governments. There must have been a good reason at the time July 1 was adopted as the beginning of the fiscal year, rather than January 1. Whatever may have been original justification for the practice, its continuing observance is due largely to the reluctance of legal authorities to change established custom. Anyway, the fiscal year ends next Tuesday night, and officials are trying to accounts in shape by that time.

BIENNIAL — The date also marks the end of the biennium for which regular appropriations were made by the 1951 General Assembly. The appropriations are made for each year, but is customary at the mid-biennial period to make adjustments and carry forward into the second year any unspent or uncommitted balances. No carry-over is permissible this year, and any money not firmly committed by June 30 will revert to the general fund surplus. The 1953 assembly anticipated some $30 million in this category and based its appropriations for the next two years on that hope. Some $15 million of excess collections for the past two years was dedicated to a 10 per cent retroactive pay raise for the past year.

Somebody Told Me . . .

Men's Styles Can Be Comfortable

Sunday was a great day for me, since it was my first Father's Day that one of our children is old enough to realize the significance of the occasion. Our daughter Nancy came running up with the sharpest gift in Greenville. When it was opened, Nancy was just as interested in seeing what Wife Rachel had brought me as I was.

Fashion designers have finally become smart enough to design something that men will no doubt catch on to as a fad. "Sport Jeans" are already the vogue at the Country Club, so they tell me, among golfers.

If you haven't seen any of these trousers as yet I predict that you will. Before the summer is out I imagine Greenville men will be wearing them on the streets.

At first glance they look like pajama bottoms. They have a gathered top, very much like the elastic around swimming trunks or underwear shorts.

All four patch pockets are opened at the top, instead of at the side like the front pockets of conventional trousers. No doubt they were designed for beach wear and lounging around the house.

Whether or not the girls still wear pedal pushers I don't know, but Sport Jeans remind me very much of the same idea, except applied to the male race.

At one time I took Esquire magazine and enjoyed the ads on men's clothes. However, I found that the styles suggested in Esquire were considerably ahead of my pocketbook and Eastern Carolina fashion. If you want somebody to think you're ready for Dix Hill dressing like Esquire suggests would probably be a good way to leave that impression. It's simply that they're ahead of us, whether we want to admit it or not.

But this "Sport Jean" is one new fashion that men will catch on to fast, because it features one item that all men are interested in: comfort. And they stress informality. Mine are light-blue denim and make me feel like a beachcomber.

Very few men will buy these jeans to keep in fashion, but many will because they'll hear about how comfortable they are.

And I thank you.

OUR AIR POWER AND RUSSIA'S (Greensboro Daily News)

Senator Margaret Chase Smith asked some searching questions of Secretary of Defense Wilson on the proposed cuts in air power. For instance, she asked what would happen to our troops in Europe if we do not enjoy air superiority we have always had.

Mr. Wilson answered that he was "unaware of any intention not to attain and maintain air superiority over the battle area in the event of war in the NATO area."

That sounds to us like a awfully negative way of putting. We'd far rather have an affirmative declaration.

However, Secretary Wilson went on to note that, if you add naval and marine air, we now have 152 wings on hand, and expect to have 176 by July 1, 1956. This represents no startling increase in our air force, but a bookkeeping affair. The Truman administration did not lump naval and marine air power with regular air power.

It leaves unanswered the crucial question: How does our air power compare with Russia's?

Hanson W. Baldwin goes into this question in the New York Times. According to estimates, American military air power consists of between 34,000 and 37,000 planes of all types. Russian military air power of about 40,000. We produced about 12,000 military planes last year. Russia (it is estimated) between 17,000 and 22,000.

In general it may be said that we are better than Russia in long-range, offensive airpower, but that Russia has more first-class jet fighters than we have and more tactical, ground support planes.

What conclusion can be drawn? (1) The public should know more about the comparative strength of American and Russian air power.

(2) As long as Russia holds land superiority through her armies, superiority, we had better hold both strategic and tactical superiority in the air if we want to survive. It is most doubtful that we have it now or are making sufficient effort to attain it in the near future.

New Year's Day For State And Local Governments

By LYNN NISBET

NEW YEAR — Wednesday of next week will be New Year's Day for State government and for most of the county and municipal governments. There must have been a good reason at the time July 1 was adopted as the beginning of the fiscal year, rather than January 1. Whatever may have been original justification for the practice, its continuing observance is due largely to the reluctance of legal authorities to change established custom.

Anyway, the fiscal year ends next Tuesday night, and officials are trying to accounts in shape by that time.

BIENNIAL — The date also marks the end of the biennium for which regular appropriations were made by the 1951 General Assembly. The appropriations are made for each year, but is customary at the mid-biennial period to make adjustments and carry forward into the second year any unspent or uncommitted balances. No carry-over is permissible this year, and any money not firmly committed by June 30 will revert to the general fund surplus. The 1953 assembly anticipated some $30 million in this category and based its appropriations for the next two years on that hope. Some $15 million of excess collections for the past two years was dedicated to a 10 per cent retroactive pay raise for the past year.

ADMINISTRATION — July 1 also notes the beginning of the administration of Governor William Umstead, so far as finances are concerned. The back pay bill and several other specific allocations authorized by the 1953 session have already become effective. So have a few of the reorganization plans which the Governor requested, notably the increase in highway divisions and commissioners. The main biennial appropriations act, involving more money than ever before, and most of the major organizational changes, take effect with the new year.

TRANSITION — Except for fiscal accounting there probably will be little impact from the year's end. The statutes provide for expiration of many major official terms at various times through the year. Several of the appointive positions are at the will of the Governor. A few other dates are the commissioner of revenue on August 1; certain members of the utilities commission on February 1; certain of the board of education on April 1; the highway commission on May 1. All of these appointments, except the revenue post, have been filled by the Governor. Due on July 1 is appointment of an assistant director of the budget under the original budget act of 1925; a director and 15 board members of conservation and development, and three parol commissioners, and a maximum of 12 special Superior Court judges, under 1953 acts.

JUDGES — In every case except the judges incumbents are qualified. Expiration of the commission and authority of the judges is absolute at midnight of June 30. Governor Umstead has said he may not name the full quota of 12 judges right away, but has given assurance the courts will be manned. Announcement of the new judges may be made before this item is printed. The same may be true of a treasurer to succeed Brandon Hodges, who resigned and asked to be relieved of duty as of June 1, and C&D board.

Bank-Store Services

There are disadvantages as well as advantages in the various systems whereby banks are taking over the charge-account detail and financing of retail stores, a study by the Associated Credit Bureaus of America points out.

These systems as has been reported here, are spreading rapidly. In general, they work like this: Customers establish charge accounts, not with stores but with banks. Then they can say "Charge it!" at stores participating in the plan, up to the limit of their established credit. The stores report the sales to the bank and the bank pays the stores immediately, less percentage for the service. Then the bank bills customers and collects. The plan has been a boon to stores too small to maintain their own credit departments and it provided a new interest-bearing source for bank funds.

The ACBA study found these benefits to stores: "They are freed from credit department detail; they gain immediate cash, less service charges, for all sales; cash stores can thereby compete with credit-granting stores and credit stores can extend their charge accounts without increasing their capital. However, there are these disadvantages:

Some customers dislike letting banks know their business; stores lose the opportunity to make impulse sales when customers come in to pay their bills; stores may lose customers whose credit ratings do not satisfy stringent bank policies; bank service charges may be more than the cost of operating a credit department's stores lose a personal contact with customers; stores lose an opportunity to insert advertising matter when sending out bills; delays in refunds may occur when goods are returned, and customers may err in sending checks to stores instead of banks. It also points out that when customers learn that a store is paying a fee, usually 5 per cent, for credit services they may demand an equivalent discount when paying cash.

PENSION TRUST FUNDS IN RAPID RISE

There has been a rush to put pension trust and profit-sharing plans into effect. Commerce Clearing House notes, in the first three months of this year, the Bureau of Internal Revenue approved 1,346 new plans, compared with 898 plans in the first 1952 quarter. When the BIR approves plans, the plans gain income tax exemption and employers' payment are deductible. Without this prior approval or "qualification," a pension plan can be murderous, tax-wise.

Commerce Clearing House also notes that pension fund investments now total $2 billion a year and, when these funds are invested in stocks, they are usually put into high-grade shares. Hence, it concludes, "blue chip" stocks are likely to continue in a long-term rise.

STEEL PRODUCTION AT NEW HIGH RATE

More finished steel was produced in April than in any other Iron and Steel Institute reports. For the statistical-minded, the total was 1,424,660 net tons.

Production during the first four months of the year was 9.3 per cent above the same period last year.

YOUNG COAL-AGED IN FLAMING GAS

A plant to "age" coal 80,000,000 years in an hour is now in operation at Pueblo, Colo.

Western coal, it seems, is much younger than Eastern coal and therefore, is more volatile. But exposing it to 2,500 feet of gas pressure drives off the excess volatile substances. The seared coal, called "char," can then be mixed with coke for steel making.

Toys Make Retirement Easier

By JOHN B. KNOX
For Hal Boyle

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Frank L. Ball, retired president of a group of utilities companies, is having more fun with toys at 70 than when he was a youngster.

It's quite sure that nobody, "especially a few hard characters," ever quite outgrows his childhood.

Ball's toy-collecting hobby keeps him a busy man and has brought him into contact with people all over the country. It began many years ago when he started collecting children's toy banks.

During his business career Ball had observed that men, "whose only interest was business, folded up and didn't last long after they're retired."

By the time he reached retirement he himself, five years ago, his bank collection had blossomed into general toy collecting. He began swapping and trading with other collectors all over the country.

Everybody, it seems, is interested in toys, either childhood memories or because of children in the family.

Ball looked into the subjects of toys and toy making and found far too little has been written about the subject. He extracted from libraries data about articles. He has had second-hand book men dig up copies for his comprehensive and growing scrap book.

People write and ask him how old toys can be repaired. They ask how they can replace riders, drivers and ladders which have disappeared from long-treasured toys.

In his work shop, he makes minor adjustments on his own toys, but no major repairs. Painting, welding, adding a replacement part, or repainting he says destroys collector-value. An enthusiastic collector will use a magnifying lens to detect such tampering.

Friends want him to write a book about old toys. But time presses so hard on his heels Ball says he has no time for that.

All in all, the hobby has added so much enjoyment to his life that Frank Ball says, "The truth is that it has been much more successful than I ever thought was possible."

What kinds of toys interest him and drag him to antique shows and shops and into correspondence with folks who have found old playthings in their attics?

For one thing, the beautifully hand made toys of the era before mass production, some carved from wood, exquisitely made dolls, old diamond-stacked locomotives, the first in trains — "crude but interesting."

He has gathered toys of later times, horse-drawn fire engines, cannon, street cars, mechanical trains, clever playthings in which the toy-makers built in clockworks they bought from the clock makers of New Haven, Conn. Some toys by a Connecticut sewing machine maker, he says, were incredibly intricate and did astonishing things.

He sees a growing understanding of the link between children's toys and history. Toys that reflect an age, an environment and even personalities.

He thinks that in general, military toys existed in just about the same proportions in older days as now. But he considers many of today's toys far more challenging to children's ingenuity and constructive imagination.

This is just one facet of Frank Ball's fascinating hobby. "After 48 years in the utility business," he says, "I don't know what I'd have done without it."

ington Daily News, for a New York Times clipping agent the use of "ex" and "former" as applied to public officials who are not officials anymore. Politicians insist that "ex" is applicable to those who were defeated for office; "former" to those who voluntarily retired. This corner has adopted "ex" for living persons, "former" for those who have died. The New York Times takes the easier and perhaps more reasonable course of using the terms interchangeably. . . . And, thanks to Thad Eure, secretary of state, for a copy of the 1953 North Carolina Manual. Hurried check through the biographical section of that valuable book confirms previously expressed opinion that Rep. Joe Fowler of Surry at 26 is the youngest, and Sen. J. H. Crawford of Graham at 87 is the oldest among members of the General Assembly. There have been younger members than Fowler, but oldtimers believe that Dr. Crawford's 87 is tops for members of the North Carolina General Assembly.

NAACP Opens Annual Meet In St. Louis Today

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UP)—The 44th annual convention of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People opened here today.

About 800 delegates from 45 states were expected to attend the convention. The theme was "the task ahead."

Channing H. Tobias, chairman of the NAACP's board of directors, will deliver the keynote address at the convention's formal opening tonight in Kiel Auditorium.

Other speakers scheduled to address the six-day convention include Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.), on Friday night; Mutual Security Administrator Harold E. Stassen and Walter White, NAACP executive secretary, both at the closing session Sunday.

White said yesterday the NAACP has abandoned the "separate but equal theory" of educational facilities and is now "seeking a total integration of Negroes and other minority groups in our education system."

He added that progress has been made in achieving equal educational opportunities, particularly in the South, where many "are awakening to the tremendous cost of equal but separate education for the races."

"The myth of white supremacy is crumbling," he said, "but has not been crushed."

He said 2,000 Negroes have been enrolled in nine Southern state universities.

White declared that the association will also attempt to increase the Negro voting strength in 17 Northern and border states having a combined electoral vote of 281.

More than 100 legal specialists in the field of civil rights met in closed sessions yesterday and today to discuss legal problems in the NAACP drive to abolish racial discrimination and segregation.

They will meet with state leaders this afternoon.

The pre-convention legal conference was called by Thurgood Marshall, special counsel for the NAACP following a recent United States Supreme Court ruling, which ordered reargument of the public school segregation cases and posed questions to be answered by lawyers of both sides.

Boy Is Let Off After A Haircut

MINEOLA, N. Y. (UP)—Traffic Judge George E. McCaro winced at the sight of the defendant, a tousle-headed youth charged with driving a car with faulty brakes.

"How much money do you have with you?" the judge asked.

"Five dollars," the shaggy youth replied.

"I'm giving you one hour to go to the nearest barber and get that unruly mop of yours sheared off to a crew cut. When you come back I'll decide what to do," McCaro ordered.

The youth, Robert Survilla, 18, returned with his hair closely clipped.

"That's better," the judge said. "Sentence suspended."

PITTSBURGH (UP)—A casket which Dr. Robert A. Wood kept in his home for many years finally will be put to use Wednesday in accordance with the physician's written instruction, for burial.

The 50-year-old physician, who had his thousand word epitaph inscribed on a 17-ton tombstone, died Monday from complications resulting from a fractured hip.

The tombstone inscription, which details his life, reads in part:

"He leaves no posterity. He was the last of his family."

"He was a member of no learned societies, was identified with no political party, no church, a director of no corporation, a trustee of no institution, a member of no hospital staff or organized charity."

"He aspired to no office, no political position. He gave all his time to his profession and the sick. Died — A space was left for the date of his death."

A native of Cincinnati, Dr. Wood practiced medicine in Ohio and Indiana and Philadelphia before coming to Pittsburgh.

Wide Variety Of Thefts Credited To Young Thief

CHICAGO, (UP)—Police said today a "one-man crime wave" arrested with an armful of dripping, soggy stolen laundry had "stolen a wider variety of articles in more different ways" than any criminal in their memory.

The young thief admitted he was a little too impatient for his own good when he snatched the wet wash off a back porch clothesline.

Louis Hilton, a 20-year-old Negro, was picked up yesterday by police whose suspicions were aroused by the trail of water he left as he hurried down a South Side street with the wet wash. He said he often stole laundry because it was easy to sell.

"Up to now I've always waited until the laundry was dry," he said. "But I got impatient. I can see now that was a mistake."

Capt. Albert Anderson of the Hyde Park station said Hilton's arrest had, by his own admissions, cleared up more crimes than the pickup of any other 25 criminals in Chicago.

Hilton examined hundreds of unsolved complaint sheets and identified them as his work.

The offenses included Jack Rolling, bicycle thefts, robbery, armed robbery, burglaries, thefts from milk wagons, thefts of packages from delivery trucks and elevated trains, confidence games, auto thefts, larceny from autos, larceny of auto accessories, larceny from hotels, larceny from a railroad station, purse snatching, pickpocket offenses, assault with intent to rob, assault with no intent to rob and, naturally, laundry thefts.

RATE HIKE SUSPENDED RALEIGH (UP)—New rates for bus companies carrying express parcels and newspapers scheduled to go into effect July 1 were ordered suspended until Sept. 1 today while the state utilities commission makes a study of them. The commission ordered a public hearing July 28.

Fifty Years Forward on the American Road

You don't have to pay costly-car prices for costly-car comforts. Ford brings you everything [and we mean everything] you've ever wanted in a car, at a price that's well within your reach! And according to recent surveys, a Ford returns more of its original cost when sold than any other car at any price!

Here are a few of the "Worth More" advantages you'll find in the '53 Ford:

- 1. A V-8 engine—powerful and smooth! Ford's famous high-compression V-8 is a leader in quiet, flexible, economical performance. Ford, remember, has built more V-8's than all other makers combined—over 13 million!
- 2. America's most economical Six engine! If it's a Six you want, Ford offers you the high-compression, low-friction Mileage Maker... the engine which, with optional Overdrive, won over all other cars, regardless of size or weight, in this year's Mobil-gas Economy Run! And it's yours for the same kind of money that buys less modern sixes in other cars.
- 3. America's finest and most versatile automatic drive! Fordomatic Drive is the "automatic" which gives you both the get-up-and-go of automatic gears and the smoothness of a fluid torque converter. If you choose Fordomatic, you will find that it makes all your driving easier... more relaxing.
- 4. Automatic gas savings! Ford's Automatic Power Pilot (on Six and V-8) meters just the right amount of gas, times ignition precisely, burns fuel evenly and completely. You get full high-compression performance from every drop of gas—regular or premium.
- 5. America's newest and finest power steering! Ford's Master-Guide power steering gives you new ease, stability and safety in guiding your car on smooth roads or rough. Your car gains in sure-footed roadability and you expend up to 75% less effort in driving—and parking.
- 6. Largest choice of models in the low-price field! Ford alone gives you a choice of 18 different models... a SIX or V-8... Fordomatic, Conventional or Overdrive... the widest variety of body, color and upholstery combinations. You can practically "design" your own Ford!
- 7. A body that's the style-setter! Only Ford in its field gives you the advantages of a hull-tight Crestmark Body... the trend-maker in design and beauty. Ford's body is the longest and Ford's trunk is the largest. You enjoy far more usable space.
- 8. New driving conveniences! Ford's first in its field with such "Worth More" features as easier-acting, suspended pedals that eliminate floor holes... foam rubber cushions over non-sag springs on front and rear seats in all models... and convenient Center-Fill Fueling.
- 9. An automatically controlled ride! When you Test Drive this Ford, notice how the wide front tread (widest in the low-price field) takes tilt out of turns... gives you a more level ride. With new "balanced suspension," new spring and shock absorber action and new rubber compression bumpers, road shock in the front end alone is reduced up to 80%.
- 10. It's worth more when you sell it! An impartial survey of used car prices proved that Fords return a greater proportion of their original cost than any other cars in America. It's another fact to add to Ford's reputation as the "Worth More" car.

But don't take our word for it. Stop in and Test Drive this Ford for yourself. We predict you'll be sold before you're in second! It was true last year and it's even truer this year: you can pay more, but you can't buy better than Ford.

Young Cambodian King Upsets French Claims

By PHIL NEWSOM
United Press Foreign News Editor
 A 30-year old monarch who composes swing music and plays a symphonized saxophone for relaxation has sounded a sour note in what the French keep saying are their harmonious relations with the Associated States of Indochina.

He is King Norodom Sihanouk of Cambodia, second largest of the trouble states comprising France's Southeast Asian colonial empire.

The young ruler, who has the look of a slightly round, Oriental version of Hollywood's Don and O'Connor, has abandoned his gold-roofed Phnom Penh Palace for the remote jungle town of Battam Bang.

He has told the world in general and France in particular that he'll stay there until France makes good on its promises of Cambodian independence.

Since World War II the French, on paper, have given "independence" to Cambodia, Annam and Laos. But King Norodom, experienced in reading political as well as musical scores, hasn't been impressed by the tune the French are playing.

For one thing, he was designated commander in chief of Cambodia's armed forces, only to find that Cambodia's military affairs were run by the French general staff.

Then there was the recent object lesson of abrupt, unilateral French devaluation of the Indochinese piastre.

To center world attention on his objections to that brand of "independence," the Cambodian king staged his dramatic walk-out.

It all adds another stabbing pain to the king-sized headache France is experiencing through her inability to find a government to rule at home and the vexing problems of dealing with war and rebellions in her North African and Indochinese possessions.

The real tragedy of King Norodom's quarrel with France is that he has repeatedly proved himself a capable leader of his people, an avowed foe of Communism and a loyal friend of France.

As far back as 1947 the king, who is also god to his 3,000,000 subjects, told them that full independence, while desirable, was not practical for his little kingdom.

And as recently as last May 26 he said Cambodia hoped for a status in the French Union, similar to that of India in the British Commonwealth.

He moved, early in his reign, to convert Cambodia from an absolute to a constitutional monarchy.

Last year when pro-Communist rebels threatened the north of his kingdom he drove to the front in a shiny Cadillac, shucked off his French-style general's uniform and in troopers' jungle greens led his forces for five days through waist-deep swamps to drive the Reds back to the Thai frontier.

These things have made him a popular and respected leader.

His walk-out on his palace and court, in addition to calling attention to Cambodia's demands for independence, has focused new attention on a recent secret report of a French National Assembly committee which accused the entrenched French bureaucracy of establishing a "virtual dictatorship" in the Associated States.

City Playgrounds Now Open 'Full-Time'; 6 Hours Daily

After a week and a half of part-time operation, the city playgrounds were officially opened for a full schedule yesterday morning.

New equipment, designed to cover a larger field of interests, has been added to supplement that used last year. The playgrounds are better equipped than at any time in their history. The various centers are open from 9 until 12 in the morning and from 3 to 6 in the afternoon. There will also be special events held after six o'clock, such as family parties and picnics. Various demonstrations will also be held in the evenings.

Operating only in the afternoons, the playgrounds catered to 2487 persons last week. Athletic events sponsored by the recreation department were watched or played by over 2550 people. The department also began an adult square dance group Thursday night and held a teen-age dance Friday night.

A varied number of events and activities are open to the public at the playgrounds. A break-down of the activities which children may participate in shows: Tennis (instruction is given at Elm Street Park, information may be obtained from the playground leader), paddle tennis, softball, table tennis, volleyball, tether ball, basketball, horseshoes, croquet, box hockey, handicrafts, dancing (get information from playground leaders), table games of all types, and jump rope. The recreation department is striving to find something that will interest the youngster as well as the adult.

Playground leaders for the white playgrounds are: Linda Whitehurst, Elm Street; Mrs. Johnny Poell, Third Street; Nancy Howell, West Greenville. Special instructors are: Mary Dunn Beatty, dancing and music; Mrs. Mavis Dudley, arts and crafts; Carolyn Clapp, tennis; and Beck Corbin, athletics and special events.

Leaders for the colored playgrounds are: Eleanor Hagan, Riverside; Albert Hill and Francis Vines, Eppes; Margaret Newton and Charity Williams, South Greenville. Luke Hemby will be the colored supervisor.

George Mac Millian will be in charge of all athletics and equipment. He will also serve as assistant director over all playgrounds during the summer.

Special instructors will visit Hillsdale, 14th Street, and Woodlawn on specified days, however, the children from those areas are urged by the department to attend a regular playground. The instructors will visit the areas on the following days: Hillsdale—Monday mornings, Wednesday mornings, and Friday afternoons; 14th Street—Monday afternoons, Thursday afternoons, and Friday mornings; Woodlawn, Monday mornings and Tuesday afternoons.

Scholarship For Charles D. Cobb

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Charles D. Cobb of Greenville, N.C., former principal of Cherry Point Marine Base School has been awarded by the Kellogg Foundation a grant-in-aid for a research project.

The project deals with the sociological background of elementary school principals. It is one of several research studies in educational administration sponsored by the foundation. Cobb is currently completing the degree of doctor of education at George Washington University. While there he served on the School of Education faculty as supervisor of elementary school teachers. He is a member of Beta Gamma Chapter of Phi Delta Kappa educational fraternity.

Cobb and his family will return to their home in Greenville during the summer and he will continue his research work.

Couldn't Afford To Pay His Fine

DETROIT (UP)—Jerry Oliver, 45, arrested for the fifth time this year on a drunk charge, explained he could hardly afford to pay a fine.

"I've got only $2," he told Judge Joseph A. Gillis. "I'm saving it for the policemen's field day."

Oliver was sentenced to 30 days in the Detroit House of Correction, assuring that he will still have his money when he is released the day before the field day Aug. 2.

Alcoholics Anonymous Topic Of Rotary Talk

A talk on alcoholics and Alcoholics Anonymous was made to the Greenville Rotary club by a member of AA from another town in Eastern North Carolina.

The speaker, who was introduced only by his first name, traced briefly the history of Alcoholics Anonymous which was formed 18 years ago by a man who was under treatment for alcoholism in a New York hospital.

The formula used as the first step to overcoming alcoholism, the speaker stated, is in three distinct parts. The alcoholic must first "get honest with himself" and admit to himself he is an alcoholic. Secondly he must "talk the matter over with someone else in confidence"; and thirdly he must seek strength and guidance from God as the individual understands the Greater Power.

Alcoholism, the speaker declared, is a disease which is incurable, and can only be arrested in an individual. Alcoholics Anonymous recognize this fact and combines the physical, mental and spiritual aspects in seeking to free an individual from the fetters of alcoholism.

"Alcoholics are worth saving," the speaker said. "When an alcoholic is rehabilitated, you have a person worth something." The speaker pointed out that AA is an organization with no officers, and the only requirement for membership is that a person express the desire to quit drinking. Of all the alcoholics who attend a meeting of AA and make a sincere effort to overcome drinking, he stated, 80 per cent are successful.

The work of AA is with other alcoholics, and the work of the organization, he said, has been the only successful method found for overcoming alcoholism. "All alcoholics have traveled the same road, and understand the problems which an alcoholic faces," he said. He added that no person who has not been an alcoholic can fully understand what an alcoholic goes

GHS Debaters Are Eliminated In Nat'l Tourney

Greenville High School's National Forensic League debaters and orators were eliminated before the semi-finals, along with 38 other teams in the 1953 NFL tournament being held at the University of Denver.

Two students from Greenville High School John Brooks and Ginger Worthington, represented the high school at the national tournament in which 55 high school teams throughout the nation participated.

Greenville's team was eliminated at the end of five rounds of debating on the query: "Resolved that the Athletic Fact: Nations should form a federal union". Greenville was among the 39 teams dropped, at which time 16 were selected to compete in the semi-final elimination contest.

However, Greenville High School was represented in the final debate in an indirect way. R.B. Starling, high school NF advisor, presided over the final event, the championship debate which was won by Colorado students.

In addition to the five rounds of debating, the two local students participated in one round of extempore, oratory, and radio announcing.

On the way to Colorado, the local group visited the American Museum of Atomic Energy at Oak Ridge, Tennessee. The group plans to visit Pike's Peak before returning.

Calls No Inquest In Sudden Death Of F.O. Purser

No inquest will be held in the death of Fred O. Purser, 54, of Route 2, Ayden who died enroute to a doctor yesterday morning after complaining of "stomach upset."

Coroner Griffin H. Rouse said Purser died of "natural causes." Purser became ill yesterday morning while in Greenville and requested that his companion, Linwood Cannon, take him to a doctor in Ayden.

Cannon was driving when Purser collapsed as they were approaching Winterville. He was taken to a doctor in Winterville but pronounced dead when the doctor reached him.

Drought-Stricken Area Still Has Cloudless Sky

By UNITED PRESS
The brilliant summer sun shone out of cloudless skies again today over the great plains of the Southwest, compounding the misery of the drought-stricken area.

Dust storms and six-foot-deep drifts of powdered dirt reminiscent of the Dust Bowl days of the 1930's were threatening economic disaster for cattlemen in four southeastern Colorado counties, a Colorado state representative reported.

Meanwhile, the U.S. Weather Bureau said that another heat wave, possibly as torrid as the one that broke dozens of temperature records last week, is expected to envelop the upper Midwest late this week.

A cold front, which was born in the Northern Plains several days ago and swept over the Atlantic Coast Monday night, broke the back of the hot spell for the time being except in the southwestern states.

High temperature, on the Atlantic Seaboard today were not likely to go above the 70's or 80's. The Midwest could expect highs in the 80's and low 90's, with slightly higher and rising temperatures in the Central Prairies.

The Southwest, principally Texas, Oklahoma and the desert states were baking in the start of their fourth straight summer of almost uninterrupted drought.

Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson announced in Washington that he had called an emergency meeting for Friday to consider ways of alleviating losses of cattlemen in the area.

As the heat wave ended in the northern tier of states a death toll showed that at least 133 persons lost their lives from Friday to Monday, including 100 who drowned while trying to escape the stifling heat. There were 18 heat prostration deaths and 13 caused by lightning.

Gov. Dan Thornton said he would make a personal survey of the Colorado drought areas.

Tornado funnels were sighted Monday night at Gege, Okla., Lyman, Neb., and Wamego, Kan., but no damage was reported.

Showers and thunderstorms rolled over many sections of Kansas and northern Oklahoma Monday night and early today, but rainfall was extremely light.

Two Gulf-State Senators Pledge New Oil Fight

WASHINGTON, (UP)—Two Gulf state senators promised a floor fight today to make the continental shelf oil bill more favorable to the states.

Sen. Russell B. Long (D-La.) and Fric Daniel (D-Tex) said they would push for amendments to permit adjoining coastal states to receive tax revenue from oil and gas production from the ocean-bottom lands of the federally-controlled continental shelf.

The Senate scheduled a second day of debate on the administration backed measure today. It sets up federal oil and mineral leasing machinery for ocean-bottom lands that extend seaward of the so-called tidelands which were given to coastal states under previous legislation.

Daniel and Long are unhappy about a provision of the bill which excludes adjoining coastal states from collecting taxes or enforcing their laws in the federal offshore area. The measure would permit criminal and civil law of the adjoining states to apply, but with federal enforcement.

They also object to a provision that will require payment to the federal government of the amount of severance taxes which oil and gas producers have previously paid to the states before federal control was proclaimed over the continental shelf.

Long said he would offer an amendment that would divert this money to the adjoining states.

Daniel said another amendment would be offered to extend the jurisdiction of the coastal states over the continental shelf alongside federal jurisdiction.

Now Democrats Charge GOP Is Giveaway Party

WASHINGTON, (UP)—Southern Democrats today accused the Republicans of being "the Santa Claus party" as the administration's Pakistan relief bill came up for a House vote.

They led a drive to revise the bill so that Pakistan—not the United States—would pay the cost of shipping 1,000,000 tons of gift American wheat to that famine-stricken country.

Transportation costs would add an estimated $12,000,000 to $24,000,000 to the $100,000,000 in price support funds which the Agriculture Department has invested in the surplus wheat.

The Southern Democrats needed the Eisenhower administration in debate over the issue yesterday and picked up vocal support from a few Republicans.

Rep. Howard W. Smith (D-Va.) wanted to know "is this the new foreign policy?"

Rep. Harold D. Cooley (D-Mo.) told the Republicans:

"Don't stand here and accuse the Democratic Party of being the party of Santa Claus, when you're going up one better."

Rep. Clare E. Hoffman (R-Mich.) said perhaps the administration would like Congress to provide funds not only for transportation but for baking the wheat into bread and buttering it.

The debate disclosed that Rep. James S. Golden (R-Ky.) had sought—and failed on a 9-9 tie vote—to amend the bill in the House Agriculture Committee to levy the shipping charges on Pakistan.

The wrangle over shipping threatened to delay final congressional action on the "urgent" request for the legislation which President Eisenhower submitted June 1.

Left Behind His 'Fishing' Tackle

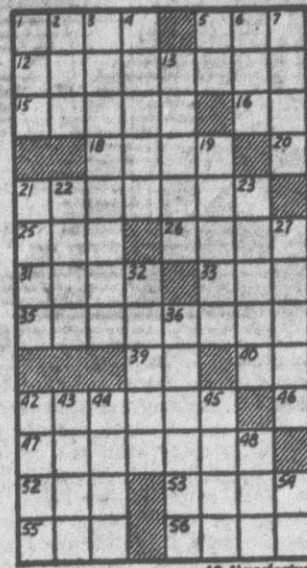

COLUMBUS, Ga. (UP)—Police were called to the local telephone exchange to check a report on a man tampering with a night deposit box.

When officers arrived the suspect had fled. But he left behind a three-foot fishing line complete with hook and sinker inside the deposit chute.

Morse Suspicious Of Plans On TVA Future

WASHINGTON, (UP)—Sen. Wayne Morse told the Senate yesterday he suspects that the Eisenhower administration may seek to transfer the Tennessee Valley Authority to private ownership.

The Oregon independent made a free-swinging attack on the administration's power and natural resources policy, centering his fire on President Eisenhower's press conference statement last week that TVA was "creeping socialism."

"For shame!" cried Morse, "that we have a President so dedicated to big business that he forgets the interest of the little people."

"This latest give away will be engineered behind the false banner of economy," said Morse.

"Watch for an innocent looking bill that seeks to transfer (TVA) to private ownership."

While Morse was speaking, TVA Board Chairman Gordon R. Clapp testified before a Senate appropriations subcommittee on funds for the agency in the year beginning July 1. In his testimony Clapp:

1. Defended TVA's long-range estimates of power needs in the Tennessee Valley which the House Appropriations Committee said were consistently overestimated. Clapp said the estimates have generally been underestimated and he restated his conviction that—under the present TVA program—TVA will not have enough power to meet the valley needs by the end of 1956 and the beginning of 1957.

2. Urged the Senate subcommittee to junk a House-approved provision which would prevent TVA from acquiring an office site in Muscle Shoals, Ala., and moving about 500 jobs from Knoxville to Muscle Shoals. Clapp said the move would save money and increase the efficiency of the TVA.

3. Asked for restoration of $2,209,000, trimmed by the House from TVA's $190,822,000 budget as approved by the Eisenhower administration. He said the cut, centered in TVA's resource development program, "would destroy TVA's effectiveness as a regional development agency."

Mandell returned the handkerchief to his pocket. "How long you know me, John?"
"As long as I know anyone. Since we were kids."
Mandell nodded. "That's right. For a long time." His smile was tight and slightly crooked. "So I'm a loud mouth, so I got big-headed and kind of forgot my old friends. So I let making a little money go to my head. Even so. Did you ever know me to take a dive or walk out on a tab?"
John Doyle thought a moment. "No."
"That's why I couldn't pull the trigger."
Pat leaned against the kitchen table. "Don't give us that, Barney. What would you call letting your old lady live on relief?"
Mandell looked at him. "I didn't know she was. You see, the day before I had myself committed, I turned over thirty-seven thousand dollars to Gale. For Ma. With instructions to mail Ma seventy-five dollars a week."

"I knew it," Rosemary said. "I knew it."
Pat raised his hand to back-hand her, and changed his mind. "Now wait a minute. Let's not get all excited. All we have is Barney's word."
"O.K.," Mandell said. I ask you the same question. I asked John. How long you know me, Pat?"
Pat rubbed at the blue-black bristles on his chin. "Even longer than John. Us being a few years older. But—"
"I ever tell you a lie?"
"No."
Mandell leaned forward in his chair. His face flamed with perspiration in his earnestness. "Did you ever know me to tell a lie?"
Pat slapped the table so hard the lid jumped off the sugar bowl. "By God, no!"
Rosemary stiffened. "Now who's getting excited? Watch your language, Pat."
Her brother ignored her. "Notice even to the sister the time we

Advises Against Haste In Visits

WAYNESVILLE (UP) — National park visitors try to see too much in too little time, national parks director Conrad L. Wirth of Washington said today.
"There are too many things they want to see and do; too much mileage they want to put behind them," he said. "Consequently when they get back home they have seen a great deal and have become acquainted with very little."

Wirth spoke at dedication of the Hemlock Ridge road and picnic ground in the eastern part of the North Carolina section of the Great Smoky Mountains National br.
He urged visitors to stay in each park long enough to gain some understanding of their natural and human history. He said tourists should get off the beaten path and into the forest.
"It is only then that you can gain the feeling of being part of your surroundings, rightly belonging there, and not an intruder," he said.

AND YOUR OLD TIRES PUTS A SET ON YOUR CAR

give old Father Halloran the hot-foot. "I done it," you told her, and took your lumps. And I had to take 'em right along with you. Why'n't you tell me this about the money yesterday morning?"
Mandell said, "I still thought Gale was leveling. I thought maybe she'd forgotten it."
"Forgot thirty-seven thousand dollars?"
"To a dame in her brackets, that's peanuts. But every time I mentioned the money," Mandell looked at Rosemary, then away. "Gale changed the subject. I know why, now."
"Why?" John asked.
Mandell told him. "The whole thing about me being crazy was a frame. I did hear bells. There were bells. I did catch her with a guy. The gag with the cold and hot water was merely a matter of getting some plumber to cut in a diverter and a shut-off on the regular pipe. So she could make it come out hot for me and cold for her. Out of the same top. I bet I never even killed the parrot."
"But why Barney?" Rosemary asked.
Mandell ran his fingers through his hair. "There you have me."
Pat walked into the bedroom and came back with a package of cigarettes. "Cigarette, Barney?"
"Thanks."
Pat lit both cigarettes. "What did that guy Curtis want with you Barney?"
"He didn't get tell me it was something about my uncle Vladimir."
Pat blew smoke at the ceiling. "As I recall your statement on Carlton's clip board, you said it was 'something about a lot of money and something a lot more important.'"
That's right. That's what Curtis said.
"This uncle of yours have money?"
"Ma says no."
John Doyle rocked forward and back in his chair. "You say when you came to, on the floor of the Lake Forest place Barney, you had a gun in your hand? What kind of gun is this?"
"A seven-point-six-five-millimeter Luger."
"Hey," Pat said. "Just a minute. According to the breakdown the state's attorney's office got from Ballistics, that's the same type and caliber automatic pistol this guy Curtis was shot with. Who does the gun belong to?"
"Me. It's the one I brought back from Germany."
"When you see it last?"
"Two years ago."
"You left it at Lake Forrest?"
"I did."
"Where anyone could get at it?"
"Yeah. I guess so."
Pat snuffed his cigarette. "What kind of guy was this Ebbing?"
"A good joe. For a rich guy."
"Did he like the women? Could he have gone for a quail like this Cherry Marvin?"
Mandell defended Mr. Ebbing. "They didn't speak the same language."
Pat shook his head. "Could Ebbing have shot himself?"
Mandell shook his head. "Em-pirically. No."
"Why not?"
"On account of one of the wounds was at least twelve hours old. And the other shot was fired into his body after he was dead."
Doyle lighted another cigarette. "That puts it back to about when you were released yesterday morning. How about Ebbing being the guy who killed Curtis and tried to kill you?"
Mandell protested. "But that doesn't make sense. Pat. Why should Mr. Ebbing want me dead? He liked me. He got me out of jail. He tried to keep me out of jail. Even last night, when Carlton and Rose came to the house to pick me up, Mr. Ebbing told them I wasn't there, that Gale and I had gone away on a second honeymoon."

"Honeymoon," Rosemary sniffed. "Some honeymoon."
"Yeah. Yeah. That's what I mean," Pat said.

Intended Gift Is Fruitless; Eyes Offered Others

CHICAGO (UP)—A 61-year-old man today pledged his eyes to the sightless after learning they could not help a 16-year-old girl he had hoped to aid.
George L. Miller, a sheet metal worker, had offered to have his eyes removed and the cornea of each transplanted to Bianca Covelli, daughter of criminal court judge Daniel A. Covelli.
"My life is ending," he said. "Hers is only beginning."

He's Driving His Cares Away!

There's a great industrialist in Detroit, and a well-known scientist in New York, and a famous statesman in Washington who will tell you that the best way to relax from the cares of the day is to get behind the wheel of a 1953 Cadillac.
And there are also thousands upon thousands of other Cadillac owners throughout America who will gladly add supporting testimony to these revealing statements.
For these motorists know, from their own personal experience, that there is no faster or surer way to relax and refresh than to take to the highway with a smooth, comfortable, quiet Cadillac car.
It makes a man feel good just to sit behind the wheel. As he glances about his Cadillac's gracious interior, he's reminded that he has made something out of his years—and that, in itself, gives a lift to his spirits.
And then, once he's out on the highway—well, in no time at all, he's as happy and contented and trouble-free as it's possible for a motorist to be.
He is surrounded with comfort—and his driving is so relaxing, add, effortless and enjoyable that his mind clears, as the miles go by—and his heart grows gay and his outlook bright and hopeful.
He has literally driven his cares away!
You really ought to try it sometime. Come to think of it, you ought to try it today . . . after your day's work is done.
The car is waiting—and so are we.

Market Reports Stock And

NEW YORK (UP)—Railroad and industrial stocks advanced on slightly increased volume today. Utilities lost two cents in their average, enough to send that figure to a new low since Jan. 3, 1952.

Trading in the first hour amounted to 190,000 shares, a rise of 10,000 shares over the same period yesterday.

Demand centered on the oil shares which were helped by another rise in gasoline prices by Esso, marketing subsidiary for Standard Oil of New Jersey. The latter gained a major fraction.

Deep Rock Oil ran up more than three points and Texas Pacific Land Trust more than two. Gains of a point or more were set by Amerada, Barber, Cities Service, Sinclair, Texas Co., and Tidewater Associated.

Rails were mixed despite a small gain in their average. Santa Fe and Baltimore & Ohio eased, while Northern Pacific, Louisville & Nashville and Rock Island firmed. New York Central, and Atlantic Coast Line held unchanged. Steels ruled steady to firm.

Light Damage In Traffic Mishaps

Three cars were damaged slightly in wrecks occurring in the city yesterday.

Damage of $100 was estimated on a car driven by Margaret R. Johnston of Orton Drive after it was struck in the rear by a truck driven by Elmer Ray Carmon of Winterville.

Investigating officer W. E. Peterson reported that the Johnston car was struck after it slowed down for a railroad crossing. The truck was not damaged. No charges were made.

Jaddie D. Clark, 17, of Rt. 4, Greenville, was charged with failure to give a proper hand signal following a wreck on Third Street yesterday afternoon.

He collided with a car driven by Royce Talmadge Harris, 19, Summit Street, City. Damage to Clark's car was set at $125 and damage to Harris' car was set at $100.

Investigating officer D.C. Doss reported no injuries.

Protest Strike In Hawaii Ends

HONOLULU (UP)—A four-day mass protest strike by 24,000 members of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union was ended today.

The workers, including longshoremen and members of the allied sugar and pineapple industries, began drifting back to their jobs late yesterday.

They had been off work since Friday in protest against the conviction of regional ILWU director Jack W. Hall as a Communist conspirator.

First 'Imperial Wedding' In U.S.

TUXEDO PARK N.Y. (UP)—Archduke Rudolph of Hapsburg, youngest son of the last emperor of Austria-Hungary, was married today to a Russian countess in the first imperial wedding ever performed in the United States.

The ceremony drew together the glittering titles of both the defunct Hapsburg and Romanoff empires. They forgot for the moment that Rudolph must work as a junior executive in a banking firm in New York.

Motor Vehicles In Decline?

HORSE AND CART DAY—That wasn't the official title, but it looked like it this morning as mule-drawn carts, wagons, wheelbarrows and vehicles of various descriptions lined up in front of Appliance Sales and Sporting Goods Corp. here. The firm was giving away old stoves and refrigerators to anyone who would haul them away in anything except a motor vehicle. Several hundred people with carts and wagons were waiting when the store opened this morning.

Negro Business League Plans Bestow Citation

The first progressive citation will be given to the most outstanding Negro firm in the state when the North Carolina Negro Business League convenes here June 29 and 30.

D.D. Garrett of Greenville, president of the league, said the citation will be presented for the first time to the business which has made the best contribution for the past year in the line of service. Business in more than 100 cities will be given compete for the award.

Garrett said the citation would be given in memory of the late Dr. C.C. Spaulding, founder of the North Carolina Mutual Life Insurance Company. Dr. Spaulding, at the time of his death, was president of the company and was also a past president of the North Carolina Negro Business League.

Also at the meeting of the league, a $100 scholarship will be awarded to a high school student on a state-wide basis.

Monday's Cases In Police Court

By CHESTER WALSH

In Police Court Monday, Judge Charles H. Whedbee found a Georgia insecticide salesman, guilty of three violations of traffic and motor vehicle laws.

The court found J. L. Hill, temporary resident of the city at Greenville Hotel, on Dickinson Avenue, guilty of hit and run driving, driving a motor vehicle while drunk, and driving a motor vehicle without an operator's license.

Judge Whedbee gave Hill six months on the roads on the hit and run driving charge, suspended on payment of $25, costs deducted. The judgment also provides that Hill is to pay into the court $18.75 for Robert J. Stator and $28 for Thomas Butts and remain of good behavior six months.

For driving drunk, the court gave Hill six months on the roads to be served concurrently with the other sentence, sentence suspended on payment of $100 and costs. The judgment also provides that he is not to drive a motor vehicle for a year, and the court recommended that his driver's license be revoked for a year.

The third charge the migratory insecticide salesman had to face in Police Court was for driving a car without an operator's license. The judge continued prayer for judgment on payment of $15 court costs.

Hazel Parker, Negro, assault with a deadly weapon (a bottle), 60 days in jail, sentence suspended on payment of $10 to Pitt County hospital, and $25, costs deducted to the court. The judgment also provides that she is not to be seen with Arthur Morris for a year.

David Harris, 60-year-old Negro laborer, 1109 Taylor street, city, assault with a deadly weapon (shotgun), six months on the roads. The court ordered that Harris' shotgun be confiscated for the state. Judge Whedbee combined the case of Harris being drunk with the other judgment.

Testimony was that Harris fired a blast from his shotgun at the feet of Isa Stafford, Dora Stafford and Florence Combe, Negroes, while they were passing his house. They were not hurt.

Chester Robinson, assault on a female, nine months on the roads, sentence suspended on payment of $40, costs deducted. The judgment also provides that he is to remain of good behavior and not molest or threaten his wife for a year.

J. D. Carr paid $15 for speeding. Drunk: Charlie Pittman, $15; Allen Moore, Negro, $15; Ramona Perry, (and disorderly), $10; Lyman Allen, 30 days or pay $10.

V. L. Roberson Is Award Winner

ROBERSONVILLE—The Robersonville Rotary Club presented its annual "man of the year award" to Vance L. Roberson for outstanding community service in 1953.

C.B. Martin, in presenting the award, said "Roberson has put service above self and taken a leading part in the religious, educational and civic and business activities of the community." Roberson also is a member the Robersonville Board of Commissioners.

Big Rainfall

During a severe thunderstorm last night in the Greenville area more than an inch of rain fell.

The local U. S. Weather Bureau observer recorded one and 8-10th inches last night. This brought the total rainfall here in June to six and 18-100 inches. Total rainfall here last June was 1.93 inches. Highest temperature here yesterday was 86 degrees. Lowest last night 67, and at 8 a. m. today it was 72.

Yesterday a year ago, the highest temperature here was 83 degrees. Lowest that night 71, and at 8 a. m. next day it was 76 degrees. Light drizzling rain that day.

Funeral Wednesday For Frank M. Baker

Mr. Frank M. Baker, 45, died in Pitt Memorial Hospital in Greenville at 8:45 o'clock Tuesday morning. He suffered a stroke of paralysis about one and a half weeks ago and had been critically ill since that time.

Funeral services will be conducted at the Chapel of the Wilkerson Funeral Home Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock and burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery. The Rev. Leon Russell, pastor of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church, will officiate.

Mr. Baker was born and reared in Greene County and for the past twenty-eight year had been living in the Grimesland community. He was a mechanic.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Lorene Clayton Baker; two sons: Robert and Wayne Baker, and a daughter, Jane Baker, all of the home, and three sisters: Mrs. Dora Manning of Kingston, Mrs. Lottie Brinson of New Bern, and Mrs. Betty Kinton of Greenville.

Winterville School To Add Music Teacher For Next Fall Term

WINTERVILLE—A new teacher will be added to the faculty at Winterville High School next fall.

The school is planning to hire a public school music teacher who will be paid out of district school funds. D. H. Conley, superintendent of the county schools, said this morning the teacher's salary will be partially paid from a five cent levy made last year.

In the past, music in the Winterville school was taught on a part-time arrangement with various teachers in the school undertaking the job of teaching music. However, due partially to the increase in enrollment, a teacher will be added to instruct in music.

Driver Injured In Auto Accident

James Marvin Jackson, 36, of Washington received leg and head injuries late yesterday afternoon when the automobile he was driving went out of control and turned over three times.

The accident occurred on the Old Creek Road about three miles north of Greenville.

Patrolman James W. Boykin and Cpl. Carl Whitfield who investigated the accident charged Jackson with careless and reckless driving.

Jackson was alone in the auto, mobile at the time of the accident, the patrolman said.

Boykin said the vehicle went out of control on a curve, made three complete flips and landed in a ditch on the left side of the highway. The driver was thrown some 30 feet from the automobile. Damage to the automobile was estimated at $1,000.
