Grifton's Citizenry Driving For Civic Improvements

GRIFTON—Grifton's progress in this year's participation in the Carolina Power and Light Company's "Finer Carolina" contest was reported on at a meeting held last week by the committee in charge of the overall project and committee chairmen of each project.

At the meeting, the six projects were reviewed along with the progress made on each. Instead of the five projects required for participation in the 1953 contest, Grifton is taking part in six projects, one optional.

Heading this year's "Finer Carolina" committee is Mayor W. E. Raspberry, chairman, and Mrs.

Lynn Gower, co-chairman. Mrs. Robert Forney is serving as publicity chairman with Bill Daws as photographer.

The six projects include the following with the chairmen listed: park development and recreation, Mrs. C. R. Kline and W. H. Gower; street and public grounds improvement, Mrs. Robert Mewborn and W. C. Chauncey; religious, educational, and social improvement, Mrs. John Groet and C. R. Cobb; utilities improvement, Mrs. Milton Hart and W. I. Bissette; housing expansion, Mrs. T. J. Williams; and improvement of business district.

The park area at Grifton has been cleared and a shelter is being constructed. The park committee is using part of last year's prize money from the contest to build up the park as various groups, such as the Service League and pre-teen club, have carried on projects to raise money for the park. The Service League has worked out a schedule for the month of July to arrange supervised recreation at the park.

Some additional streets in Grifton have been graded and paved and the Garden Club has undertaken the job of keeping the cemetery clean and landscaped this year. Seven new trash cans have been added in the business district and shubbery planted around the post office.

The school district of Grifton recently voted a $110,000 school bond issue for school expansion with the Finer Carolina committee helping get voters. The pre-teen club is sponsoring a Boy Scout troop.

A health clinic has recently been set up in Grifton and the Finer Carolina committee has been instrumental in securing a doctor for the town.

A Presbyterian Church is in the process of being organized and the Missionary Baptist Church has recently built an educational building. The Catholic Church is now undergoing renovation and the Christian Church recently added an organ. The grounds around the Methodist Church were recently landscaped and the interior painted. All churches have reported an increase in membership.

The town of Grifton recently voted a $105,000 bond issue for the extension of water and sewer lines. In addition to utilities improvement, equipment has been secured for dredging the canal which runs through the town.

Since November 1, work on 85 new houses has begun with some of them already completed. The book club is preparing a questionnaire for each home owner and is designed so that each home owner may keep a record of home improvement.

New businesses added to Grifton include a florist shop, a doctor's office, and a jewelry store. The bank has recently undergone complete renovation and store fronts rebuilt on a number of buildings. A furniture store is now under construction.

Joint Hostesses Honor July Bride-Elect
On Wednesday morning Miss Peggy Martin, bride-elect, was complimented when Mrs. Milo H. Smith and Mrs. Donald H. Conley entertained for her at the home of Mrs. Smith.

The guests were greeted at the door by the hostesses and the honoree, along with her mother Mrs. J. Roy Martin. Miss Martin was wearing a corsage of orchid glame-las which was a gift from the hostesses.

For the morning hour the home was lovely with arrangements of summer cut flowers.

The table in the dining-room was covered with green satin overlaid with an organdy cloth. The centerpiece was of shasta daisies, white gladioli, cape-jessamine, and feverfew in a silver bowl.

Mrs. Martin served the iced Coca-Colas. Assisting in serving the other refreshments of ham biscuits, cucumber sandwiches, jelly pinwheels, pineapple kisses, cheese straws, bridal cakes and mints, was Mrs. William S. Corbett, Jr., of Henderson.

The guests lingered for a conversational hour after the hostesses presented Miss Martin with a silver vegetable bowl.

Camp Hardee Found In 'Tip-Top' Shape

Sunday, June 14, marked the end of the first period for Brownie Scouts at Camp Hardee but also opened the second period for Brownies with 39 preparing for a full week of activities.

Both new and old campers found Camp Hardee in "tip-top" condition and with a full staff of 17 helpers and counselors under the leadership of Mrs. J. Knott Proctor, camp director, who recently took a camp leadership course for Girl Scout camps in Maryland.

Extensive repairs have been made at Camp Hardee since last season, putting the buildings in the best condition. The Greenville Girl Scout Council said they were extremely proud of the new cabin added recently, given by Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Kittrell of Greenville. Four counselors are housed in the new addition.

One of the first visitors to the camp was State Health Inspector Bell of Beaufort County who arts and crafts counselor, arranged an exhibit of work during the opening week of the Brownies.

Mrs. J. K. Long, camp business manager, said the camp was exceptionally beautiful this year and much hard work had been done by interested friends of scouting to put it in good condition. She especially noted the work of J. Knott Proctor who has supervised repairs.

Mildew Spreads In Cucumber Crop

RALEIGH (UP)—Plant disease specialists said that the spread of downy mildew disease in cucumber fields of Eastern North Carolina is serious and will mean a severe economic loss on hundreds of farms.

Howard Garris, State College specialist, said state and federal agents made a survey of the situation yesterday and reported that "in fields where mildew is already widespread it's too late to get control by dusting."

The specialists reported the mildew widespread in cucumber and cantaloupe fields from Warrenton to Raleigh and throughout Warren County.

Ayden Rotary Joins Plans For Organizing A C-of-C

AYDEN — The Ayden Rotary Club at its last meeting appointed a committee to work out plans with committees from merchants and other local organizations to develop plans for organizing a chamber of commerce.

The movement to organize a chamber of commerce in Ayden is a result of a round-table discussion program conducted by the Ayden Rotary Club. It was Rotarian Hal Edwards who raised the question, "Why can't Ayden have a chamber of commerce?" Rotarian Thelbert Worthington reviewed the history of the movement to provide such a trade body, and he stressed the need for such an organization.

Rotarian Gilbert Davis suggested the need for a local credit bureau here.

John Newborn, visiting Farmville Rotarian, said the Farmville Chamber of Commerce and Tobacco Board of Trade were united in the civic program.

Some of the subjects discussed at the Rotary Club's round table discussion at the last meeting were: Running electric lines so that trees will not have to be so severely pruned. City Commissioner Harry Mumford and City Clerk Anson Sawyer said the trees were trimmed to improve television reception. Rotarian Wilbur Ormond reminded that other cities are now running their electric lines along back boundary lines and in alleys in the rear.

Mayor Corey Stokes said this procedure is being carried on in new sections of Ayden where electric lines are being installed.

President Ralph Hardee presided. Guests of the club were: Mike Lusk, Sammy Pierce, Alton Johnson of Greenville, John Mewborn from Farmville and Carlton Best from LaGrange. Wilbur Ormond won the "on time" prize and Floyd Cherry the "fellowship" prize.

Although the eruption of Mount Katmai in Alaska in 1912 may have been the most violent volcanic eruption in history, no human life was lost because of the remote location of the volcano.

Lowcost A-Bomb Shelter Revealed

WASHINGTON (UP)—The government said today in a report loaded with "ifs" that a $40 home-made basement shelter might save lives in an atomic attack.

The report contains the Civil Defense Administration's findings about shelters tested in the March 17 atomic explosion at Yucca Flat, Nev.

Under the special circumstances of the limited experiment, CDA said, the $40 wooden lean-to shelter provided "good" protection from atomic blast and radiation and from falling debris.

A "corner room" shelter, also of wood but costing $95, provided even better protection. The best protection of all was supplied by several kinds of concrete covered back-yard shelters.

That is where the "ifs" and the special circumstances of the test came into the picture. For one thing, the atomic explosion was a small one—equivalent to about 15, 000 tons of TNT.

And the houses were of wood. The simple basement shelters might not have stood up under the greater weight of crashing brick or stone walls.

Although it has proved impossible to keep the shelters in captivity, it is kept on small Alaska islands, fed and then trapped when the fur is prime.

Some of the paint which was applied in 1900 is still on England's coronation chair.

When Mount Katmai in Alaska erupted in 1912 all life was wiped out over a wide area — trees, grass, fish, birds and animals. There were no human beings in the area.

New Floor Care Ends Waxing

One of the most difficult jobs of housekeeping is to keep linoleum and asphalt tile floors waxed and gleaming. Now, thanks to Glaxo, it is no longer necessary to wax and scrub. All you do is apply Glaxo with a brush about twice a year. It maintains a high luster, non slip coating that seals out dirt. Glaxo dries in one hour and is water clear. It's cheaper than wax in the long run, besides saving a terrific amount of work, plus truly a beautiful floor. Glaxo is available at Belk-Tyler Co., Third Floor.

Time Selecting Manager Not Wasted

With the time Greenville's city council is taking in coming to a decision on the man it wants as city manager of Greenville the choice should be a good one.

The Reflector has no criticism of the amount of time the council is taking in deciding upon the individual who will serve as the administrative head of the city. It is much better that the council take two or three months to select a city manager than to pick up the first person they can find for the job.

Before the new council took office seven weeks ago, there were fears expressed that in a rush to hire a city manager, the official board would get the "wrong" man. Some citizens were fearful that an inexperienced man would be hired for the responsible position which is going to be one of the keys to the success or failure of council-manager government in Greenville.

The time being taken by the council in coming to a decision on a person for the post of city manager is no absolute guarantee that the individual hired will be the best obtainable. Nevertheless, the care being taken by the council; the careful scrutiny of experience and references of each of the more than 23 applicants, is reassuring to those who have wondered whether Greenville will get a good city manager or a poor one.

Although the council has been busy with many other items of city business during the past seven weeks, many hours have been spent considering city manager applications, and attempting to set aside the ones which seem most suitable for Greenville. The field now has been narrowed to about five applicants, so far as the council is concerned, but it is still going to take considerable time to pick the council's first choice of the five.

It is doubtful that anyone is more eager for a city manager to be named than the council itself, for councilmen now are burdened with their own work as well as a portion of the work a city manager would do.

Even though Greenville be without a city manager for two or three months longer, the care with which the selection is being made should pay dividends in the long run.

Coltrane Buched, And Came Out On Top

Dave Coltrane's appointment as assistant budget director by Governor Umstead is a tribute not only to the man's ability to survive political controversy, but likewise a tribute to his administrative ability.

Coltrane gained a great deal of respect from fellow North Carolinians last fall when he stuck to his job without pay after former Governor Kerr Scott failed to secure the resignation he had demanded.

Reports from Raleigh indicate the consensus in the state capital that Coltrane has done a good job as assistant director of the budget during the past four years. The laymen in other parts of the state indicate similar opinions. Coltrane's most severe mistake — if it can be called a mistake — during his four years as Scott's assistant director of the budget, was not to follow the former governor's orders on who to support in last year's gubernatorial primary.

Coltrane's administrative ability has spoken for itself during the four years in his present office. His conviction to follow his best judgment in the selection of a candidate, rather than taking the order of his boss, is indicative of an instinct to do that which he believes right in spite of political consequences.

Governor Umstead's appointment of Coltrane as his own assistant budget director did not come as a surprise. It has been expected since Umstead restored Coltrane to the full duties of his office as one of the first official acts following his inauguration.

Now that Coltrane has been reappointed by Governor Umstead, the heat of controversy between Coltrane and Scott will gradually pass from memory. Yet it probably will be remembered by North Carolinians for many years that at least one key state official who dared to buck against orders from his political boss came out on top in the long run.

Demos Lack Offensive Leadership

WASHINGTON—The Democrats' main advantage in opposing or discrediting President Eisenhower's major policies lies in the fact that they have no experts on offense. They were in power for so long that their weapons for guerrilla warfare have become dull and rusty.

When F. D. R. and Harry S. Truman occupied the White House, they behaved as legislative dictators. They sent "must" measures to Capitol Hill already framed and polished, and accompanied by detailed explanations of their purpose.

These were prepared by White House researchers, or by authorities on any specific subject in one of the executive departments. This made for Democratic lastness and, in some instances, indifference.

Now, the Republicans have possession and control of these sources of data and information. A GOP sponsor of a major measure is always briefed on the arguments pro and con. Besides his own staff, he has innumerable advisors and prompters from downtown offices.

Moreover, the top GOP members never stopped plugging away at the New Deal and Fair Deal during their generation of exile. Adversity became an asset.

EXPERIENCED DEMOCRATS FAVOR IKE—The Democrats' plight would not be so serious, if they received any reinforcement from the more able and experienced members on their side—namely, the veteran parliamentarians from Dixie. With only a few exceptions, however, the Byrd-George-Hill faction are sympathetic to Ike. They let the less capable men among the opposition carry the fight.

As a result, the burden must be borne by some of the admittedly weaker and less convincing members of the Senate and House. In the upper chamber they consist of such men as Senator John J. Sparkman of Alabama, Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma, Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, Herbert H. Lehman of New York, Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, James E. Murray of Montana, Harley M. Kilgore of West Virginia.

Time and again, the pro-Eisenhower Democrats cannot conceal their amusement over their party colleagues' ineptitude on a attack.

OPPOSITION'S HANDICAP—The opposition's handicap has been revealed most graphically and amusingly in their attempt to indict the Treasury's higher interest rates on public issues as a "sellout to the bankers." The small group named above has selected this issue as Eisenhower's most vulnerable point.

Senator Kerr led off. Although he is a multimillionaire oil operator, he showed a complete ignorance of Federal financing. Because Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey cannot say what the interest rate will be for future issues, Kerr charged that Humphrey was at the mercy of the bankers. He admitted, however, that he cannot tell now what his oil will bring in the market in the unknown future.

KERR STEPPED ON—Because Humphrey admits that future rates will be governed by money conditions at the moment, Kerr insisted that Humphrey had "abdicated," and was taking orders from the bankers. The Oklahoman did not know that even Humphrey's most distinguished predecessors, such as Andrew W. Mellon and Carter Glass, always sought the advice of eminent financiers.

Senator Prescott Bush of Connecticut has assumed the assignment of defending this Treasury program. Although a banker himself, he did not excel. But when Senator Eugene D. Millikin of Colorado rushed to Bush's aid, Kerr was pulverized. He quickly changed the subject to falling prices of wheat and cotton. The price of petroleum is still going up.

SYMINGTON POSSIBLE DEMOCRATS' CHOICE—Although Senator Stuart Symington has been mentioned as a possibility for the Democratic Presidential nomination, the Missourian still might be a political unknown if his professor-father had not quarreled with the janitor of Amherst College, Amherst, Mass., many years ago.

The janitor scolded Professor Symington in front of his class for writing on a wet blackboard. The professor threw the janitor "out of the room bodily," and then demanded that he be fired.

Somebody Told Me . . .

Changes Always Are Going On

A friend of mine who used to live in Greenville writes me every now and then to find out the latest developments here. In my last letter to him I listed the following changes in recent months:

A milestone in development of our city government came when we adopted the city-manager form of government. The council elected in May is one of the best in the City's history.

Some Greenville people seem to think the Greenville Utilities Commission, which is very unusual in its operation because it functions under a separate charter, should be brought under the City government.

In my opinion this matter is ceasing to be an issue, simply because the new City Council seems to be in harmony with the Commission. Recently the Council asked for and received an appropriation of $60,000, which is a stride forward. If this sort of harmony continues, it matters not whether the Commission operates on a separate charter or is brought under the administration of the City.

On the lighter side of Greenville developments is the difference in Main Street. If you came back to Greenville tonight you would notice two very distinct changes: New street lights have been installed (at the cost of approximately $250 each) that give out light that almost equals daylight. Evans Street is extremely well lit these days.

And Times Square, New York, has been transplanted to Greenville by Alex Biggs and Riddick Revelle. On the building occupied by Larry's Shoe Store on Five Points is mounted a large screen that shows technicolor slides at night plugging local firms and projects. This is an impressive sight, as the slides flash by.

The development of the Elm Street Park is one of the most significant events of late. With plenty of work yet to come, this is already a great asset to the Community. And the Negroes are working on a similar project, South Greenville Park.

Chairman Ed Rawl of the Pirates Club has pledged to raise enough money from the sale of memberships to build 1200 more seats in East Carolina College's stadium. This will be another step forward in making Greenville the football center for this section of the country.

And I thank you.

viewed and reviewed until no reasonable doubt of guilt remained. Further maneuvering with legal technicalities can be defined only as efforts to thwart justice.

Justice Douglas has not been guilty of high crimes and misdemeanors justifying his impeachment, but he has been guilty of a quibble so frivolous as to be unworthy of a justice of the Supreme Court. He has quibbled with the honor and safety of his nation, for he gave added ammunition to a worldwide campaign of Communist propagandists. And the two justices who associated themselves with him must share the approbrium.

contradicts earlier reports of the bird scouts. The one certainly seems to be that the birds and bees know just as much about what is going on in North Carolina political circles as do the newspaper and radio reporters who diligently seek and sometimes think they have found some inside dope. Your reporter is going to bird around the Potomac Basin and Washington Monument to see if they have any additional information on the general subject.

BURDENSOME — Governor Umstead announced Tuesday morning the appointment of a mayor and two other commissioners for the town of Surf City. A few days ago he announced appointments of the municipal governing body of Wrightsville Beach, and there have been other similar commissions named during the spring. The Governor also is required by special acts to name judges and solicitors of numerous local recorder courts. In most instances the Governor has no real discretion in the premises, being required to name persons nominated in primary town meetings or by recognized party organizations. Yet the necessity of taking time out to go through the formality of appointing and issuing commissions imposes an unnecessary extra burden upon the chief executive, whose time should be free for more important matters of statewide import.

PULPWOOD — Pulpwood as a cultivated and harvested "crop" is gaining ground in North Carolina. This state produced 27.4 per cent more in 1951 than in 1950 and 2.1 per cent more last year than in 1951, according to State College figures. John Gray, college extension forester, makes this striking comparison: "If the Carolina last year had been cut in uniform four-foot lengths and stacked in a four-foot pile, it would have reached for two full round trips between New York and Raleigh."

WORTH NOTING — Dealers in new and used autos grossed 30 per cent more in April than in the same month a year ago. Commerce Department's line-by-line analysis of April sales shows. The total of all lines was 7 per cent above the year-ago mark.

The next most spectacular gain was by household appliance stores, up 19 per cent. While most other lines showed lesser gains, these showed declines: Men's and boys' clothing and furnishing stores, down 1 per cent; women's ready-to-wear stores, down 8 per cent; family clothing stores, down 6 per cent; shoe stores, down 6 per cent; paint, glass and wallpaper stores, down 4 per cent.

What Other Editors Are Thinking

THE LAST MILE, AND NO MORE DETOURS (Charlotte Observer)

Happily the majority of the Supreme Court stood by its convictions in the Rosenberg case and over-ruled an errand member whose conduct for several years has indicated that his philosophy is more political than judicial.

The stay granted by Justice Douglas was based on the flimsiest of technicalities. A skilled lawyer can find one after another to delay a case or a sentence, when that is being done the function of a judge is to determine whether the purpose of these legal tactics is to serve justice or to obstruct it. If he finds that obstruction is the object, he should put a stop to it by refusing to entertain any more such motions and by ordering the sentence to be carried out.

The legal rights of the Rosenbergs were not involved. They had already enjoyed every legal protection to which they were entitled and many more than they deserved every legal protection to which they were entitled and many more than they deserved. They had been duly convicted by a jury in a fair and open trial and sentenced by a judge famous for his integrity. Their case had been regroup seems nearer right just now.

SUPPORT — The proposed school and hospital bonds got a plug from an unusual source the other day. In a brief preliminary address to the jury panel in Wake Superior Court Monday morning Judge William T. Hanch com-mended the proposals. He was emphasizing that jury service should be regarded as a privilege by free men of intelligence, rather than as a burden imposed upon them. He reminded that the State owes to its children the best possible facilities to fit them for citizenship and the bearing of their part of the civic load in the future.

DOCTORS — The shortage of doctors should be relieved to some extent at least if the usual high percentage of applicants for license to pass the examination. This week some 224 young folks have been boning over exam papers at the Sir Walter Hotel.

PINK SLIPS — A press conference held with the pigeons and squirrels on capitol square added the information that while the public might not know until formal announcement was made, who will be the new special judges, and even some of those to be named might not have known about it many hours in advance, at least some of the incumbents who are not being reappointed were advised of their fate last week. Governor Umstead wrote several of them that under the circumstances he found it necessary to leave them off the new list.

BIRD NEWS — And the little birds which have been fitting around Haw River bring fairly positive assurance that as of now Kerr Scott is running for the United States Senate, and is not at all interested in another term as Governor. This to some degree contradicts earlier reports of the bird scouts. The one certainly seems to be that the birds and bees know just as much about what is going on in North Carolina political circles as do the newspaper and radio reporters who diligently seek and sometimes think they have found some inside dope. Your reporter is going to bird around the Potomac Basin and Washington Monument to see if they have any additional information on the general subject.

Business Today Lists Of Customers

By ELMER ROESSNER
A valuable asset of almost any business is its list of customers. Such a list has prime value as a working tool, of course. And it also has a secondary value in various rental markets.

People who have purchased an article or service once are the ones most likely to buy again. This is true of such things as autos and homes as well as bread and canned beans.

Lists of customers and their purchases can often be analyzed for guidance in stocking goods for the future, in stressing certain price ranges and styles, in deciding whether to take on new products and in countless other operational matters.

The sale and rental values, however are frequently overlooked. Many an ill-starred magazine has saved something from the wreckage by selling its subscription lists. Some magazines have sold lists of subscribers who have cancelled. Such lists are good buys for other magazines; they identify not only people who can read but people who have certain interests and who are accustomed to getting magazines by subscription.

Currently, a list broker is advertising, "If you have a list of customers or subscribers to a service or a publication, or recent expirations totalling 25,000 names or more, you are losing money by not capitalizing on these names." The broker offers to make all arrangements and to permit the list owner to review any mailings to the list to make sure no offer is directly competitive.

Businesses owning smaller lists can often find ways to capitalize on them. One best way is to try to find something that the business itself can sell. A list of persons who have bought autos is, a few months later, a good prospect list for silvertops, fabric cleaners and easy chairs. Those who have purchased one kind of medication are prospects for new products in the same field.

Another way to capitalize on lists is to swap them with firms in related but not competitive fields. A list of wallpaper buyers would be an ideal list for a furniture store because fresh wallpaper cries for new furnishings; conversely, new furnishings often spark desires for new wall coverings. There are thousands of other possibilities.

In any event, each company should evaluate its lists for the purposes of insurance, protection or sale of the firm.

APRIL APPLIANCE INDEX BELOW MARCH FIGURES

A new statistics index in the major appliance field, inaugurated by Retailing Daily shows shipments in April 41.1 per cent ahead of a year ago but 13.3 per cent under March.

Shipments of all major appliances were below the March levels with the exception of gas ranges and upright freezers, up slightly, and eight-cubic-foot refrigerators, up 16 per cent. All shipments were ahead of year-ago figures except dryers, down 21 per cent, and six-cubic-foot refrigerators, down 60 per cent.

Bush Pilot's Plane No Bargain

By RELMAN MORIN
For Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—Took a plane ride with a bush pilot in Mexico, a while back. This is not a habit-forming experience.

He had a little yellow bug with props about as long as the span of a tall man's arms. The plexiglass blister in the roof suggested that the plane might have been a light bomber from the last war, but of that I can't be sure. I do not recall having seen any in which a rope was used to fasten the door.

There was no radio in the ship, but then, in the region this pilot covers, it would have been simply excess baggage. There is no place to radio to.

Our boy flies jungle and mountain, exclusively. He probably would not feel at home flying a radio beam, or even putting down on a concrete runway. Any old strip of reasonably level and uncluttered ground is okay with him.

So he was just the man to take us to Palenque. This is a village in Southeastern Mexico, not far from the border of Guatemala. Some seven miles or so from the village is a wonderful Mayan pyramid, two or three exquisite temples, and the ruins of a palace. It would be worth seeing even if you have to go through the jungle on your hands and knees.

Last year, the body of a king was found in that pyramid, a discovery of immense importance to the people who poked around in the remains of vanished civilizations. It raises again the question of whether a connection ever existed between the Mayans and the ancient Egyptians. Maybe even the "lost continent of Atlantis?"

If this sort of thing interests you, go to Mexico. The regular Mexican airline will put you practically along side most of the great archaeological sites. Palenque, however, requires a little doing.

That's how we happened to engage the services of the bush pilot. First, there was the weigh-in which meant the passengers, not their baggage. You can't take anything except a lightweight tooth brush.

There were some seats bolted to the floor, facing each other in the manner of bucket seats. You have to sit up near the cockpit on the takeoff and landing. There was no door on the cockpit, which permitted an excellent view of a wide-blue-yonder boys used to say, by the seat of his pants.

Well, we got off the ground, played tag with some mountain tops and headed northeast. Presently, we were over solid clouds. This pilot has a few streaks of grey in his black hair, and he must have been around quite a while to acquire them. Or, else, perhaps, they all came at once when he was trying to get down through a ceiling of low, misty, mountainous terrain.

Our flight was to have taken about 90 minutes.

Sure enough, some 45 minutes after takeoff, the captain nosed the bug down into the clouds. As usual, it was like flying through a bowl of milk—except that nobody was being wildly radio data and directions for ground controlled approach landings.

Some 30 seconds later, he turned her nose up again, and gunned out above the clouds. He kept on his north-easterly course.

From time to time, he glanced at his watch. Once or twice, he flipped the switches on the fuel indicators. The needles were not encouraging.

Finally, he went into the clouds again. This time, he kept going, and presently broke through. We were over a plain, and all he had to find was a level stretch to put down on. He picked an avenue between some trees that looked about as wide as a bowling alley. And there we were.

In that type of flying he explained later, you must more or less smell your way through the mountains. The first time he settled down through the clouds, things didn't smell right.

Next time, on that run, I ride with Jimmy Durante.

Queen And Consort Set Out On Scottish Tour

EDINBURGH, Scotland. (UP)—Queen Elizabeth II and the Duke of Edinburgh set out today on a tour of Glasgow and other Scottish communities following yesterday's national thanksgiving service at St. Giles's Cathedral here.

The queen and her husband, who danced into the early hours of the morning at a ball given by the royal company of archers, were scheduled to visit Paisley and Rutherglen as well as Glasgow.

At each point, they were certain to receive the same, tumultuous welcome which has marked the Scottish visit so far.

Traffic jams and popular enthusiasm in Edinburgh almost equalled the peak in London during coronation week early this month. The Scots proudly referred to yesterday's ceremonies as the "little coronation."

Eight hundred guests attended the ball last night in the Edinburgh assembly rooms. Some 300 of them were members of the Archers Company, the queen's official bodyguard during her state visit to Scotland.

Hundreds thronged the approaches to the hall long before Elizabeth and Philip appeared. They cheered and waved wildly and surged forward against police lines when the royal pair arrived at 11 p.m.

Shortly after she entered the hall, the queen joined in the dancing of a gay reel.

She was wearing a cream satin gown embroidered with gold and pearls, a diamond tiara and necklace and a white fox stole. Among the queen's accessories was the rosette brooch, presented to her last year by the royal archers.

The duke had switched to evening dress from the field marshal's uniform he wore earlier in the day for the ceremonies at St. Giles.

Britain Grants Skipper Asylum

LONDON, UP—Britain granted political asylum today to Capt. Jan Cwikinski, who abandoned command of the Polish liner Batory and asked permission to remain in Britain.

Cwikinski was master of the Batory in May, 1949, when American communist leader Gerhart Eisler jumped bail, sneaked aboard the vessel and fled to Communist East Germany.

The British Home Office said Cwikinski was permitted to leave Brixton prison where he had been held during an investigation of his plea for political asylum.

Tim and Fonny Flock, and Herb Thomas head the list of top-flight drivers which will appear in the Grand National Circuit Stock Car Races in Wilson Sunday afternoon.

The 200-lap event will be the second in the history of the Wilson County Fairgrounds racetrack. Thomas will probably be installed as the favorite in pre-race selections on the strength of his point total in competition so far this season.

Tim Flock, last year's champion, and his brother, Fonny, will also be in the running for the favorite's post.

Several experts in the baseball world have expressed a belief that the Yankee stranglehold on the American League would hurt attendance. It is true that a certain percentage have developed an inability to finish what they started.

Greenville and Ayden Chevrolet dealers reported yesterday that several boys have expressed a desire to enter the Kingston Soap Box Derby on July 12.

Although they lost to Chicago Tuesday the Yankees moved their margin to eleven full games ahead of Cleveland, and eleven and one-half in front of the White Sox and Boston.

Winning Run Walked In As Granites Beat Builders

Bill Kittrell walked in the winning run last night as the Granites scored an 8-7 victory over Home Builders in the opening game of the Men's Softball League twin-bill.

With the score tied at 7-all and Hobgood on base in the fifth inning as the result of an error, Kittrell lured consecutive walks to Sid Briley, Bobby Nunn, and Bobby Conway.

The remainder of the scoring for both sides all took place in the first three innings. Five runs came across in the first for the winners, followed by one each in the second and third frames.

It was an entirely different story in the nightcap, which saw Garner-Wynne-Manning take a 14-8 decision over Wagner-Waldrop.

FARMVILLE—Macleesfield's infield fell apart in the top of the eighth inning here last night to allow Farmville to score two runs and take a 4-2 Bright Belt League victory.

The league leading Red Sox went into the frame with the score knotted at 2-all, but the situation was quickly erased by alertness on the part of the Farmville players resulting in the game winning runs.

Catcher Streeter Tugwell started the rally on a single, and moved to third base when Sam Stell's attempted sacrifice was thrown into rightfield by the Macleesfield pitcher.

Tugwell raced home on a tag-up after Barry Jones had flied out to deep rightfield. Firstbaseman Thorpe Smith took the throw-in from rightfielder Milburn Felton and immediately tossed it into the exterminates of left field, allowing Stell to come home with the second Red Sox run.

Dependable Red Benton went the distance for the winning Red Sox allowing nine well spaced hits. The veteran righthander fanned four batters and did not issue a walk.

Macleesfield worked the former Coastal Plain pro for two hits each in the fourth, fifth and seventh innings. Benton bore down, however, and put out the fire before it really got started.

Farmville took the lead in the third inning as Paul Gay crossed the plate on a double by Webb. Gay had singled to lead off the inning. Gay scored again in the fifth to move Farmville's temporary lead up to 2-0.

Webb reached Willard Vick for a walk after Gay had collected his second single of the night and stolen second base. They advanced on a sacrifice by Tugwell, and Gay rode home on a long fly to centerfield by Stell. Jones flied to rightfield to end the inning.

Macleesfield slowly picked away at the lead, and by scoring one run in the fifth and another in seventh, tied the count at 2-all. Nextfield Suggs singled to start off Macleesfield's half of the fifth. After Vick had flied out, A. D. Winstead singled to send Suggs to third. Suggs came home when Pete Stuart's grounder was booted by the shortstop.

Suggs also figured in the second run for the losers. With one away, he picked up his second single and immediately came home to tie the score on a long double by pitcher Vick.

The win strengthens Farmville's hold on first place in the Bright Belt. It now has a record of 21 wins and only six defeats. Macleesfield has now won 12 and lost 15.

Three games are still remaining on the Farmville schedule for this week. An exhibition game with Mt. Olive is slated for tonight, while Macleesfield comes back Friday night and Wilson is here Saturday night.

Ralph Britt, a former catcher for the Red Sox, is playing with Mt. Olive this season.

Leaders Continue Drought Of Wins; Tigers Win 3rd

By CARL LUNDQUIST United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP)—It was almost as if there was a smallpox epidemic in first place today, the way the Yankees and Braves were acting as if they didn't want to be there.

What's more, nobody seemed very anxious to catch them. Not only did the Pirates climb out of last place by pounding out a 10-1 victory over the Milwaukee Madcaps last night, but Brooklyn passed up another chance to gain ground by blowing its third consecutive game on a ninth inning home run, 7-4, when Gus Bell cracked a three-run round-tripper for the game winning blast at Cincinnati.

It was Milwaukee's fourth defeat against a victory and a tie in its last six games. But Brooklyn has suffered eight defeats in its last 10. The third-place Cardinals missed a chance to overtake Brooklyn when Sal (Barber) Maglie pitched an eight hitter to give the Giants a 3-0 victory on a profitable western road trip. The Phillies moved to within a game of third place St. Louis by defeating the Cubs 8-2.

The Yankees, who have won only two games in their last six starts, dropped their third in a row 8-4 to the White Sox. But Cleveland, which outslugged Boston, 13-9, with a 17-hit attack, could only move to within 10 games of the top because it was tagged for a doubleheader loss by the Red Sox the previous day. The White Sox were in third place, 10 1/2 games out. Last place Detroit equalled its best winning streak of the year by making it three in a row with a 6-3 victory over Philadelphia while the seventh place Browns also won their third straight, 7-6 at Washington.

Pittsburgh sent 10 men to bat in their productive six-run eighth inning rally in which singles by Johnny O'Brien, Preston Ward, and Hal Rice, and doubles by Toby Alvey and winning pitcher Elroy Face sent home the tallies.

It was the same old story at Cincinnati for the skidding Dodgers who saw a 4-0 lead go up in smoke. After the Ohioans tied the score with two run rallies in the second and fifth, they went ahead to stay when Bell came through in the ninth.

Maglie pitched his third shutout among five victories and struck out eight Cardinals. Bobby Thomson, trying to steal home, was safe at the plate with what proved to be the winning run in the second inning as the umpires ruled that Wilmer Mizell had balked. Later Thomson, Bobby Hofman and Wes Westrum singled successively to make it 2-0 and Al Dark's homer provided the third Cincinnati tally.

Jaycees Lose To Kiwanis; Lions Drop Game, 13-0

The top half didn't have a chance yesterday. Bobby Edwards hurled a 3-hit shutout over the top-ranked Jaycees, while third place Lions bobbled under a one-sided 3-hit, 13-0 whitewashing by the Exchangeites.

Edwards and his Kiwanis teammates kept the Jaycees under control with ease in the first game of the Little League doubleheader. Besides the three Jaycee batmen who collected singles, Edwards kept the bases free of runners as his teammates pounced on Arthur Andrews for five runs and as many hits.

Two runs in the first inning won for the Kiwanians, who are now in a first place tie with the Elks. Donald Epeight led off with a walk, but was erased on a fielder's choice in favor of Stancil. Edwards was safe on an error by the shortstop. Another error by the Jaycees catcher, plus two infield grounders by Billy Cox and James Henderson, brought the two runners home.

Three runs in the fourth finished the scoring for the first game. Cox singled to lead off, and with one away, Delbert Smith and Coleman Ruffin chipped in with successive singles. Gene Byrd was hit by the pitcher, and Speight followed with another single. Stancil gained life on another error, but Edwards popped up to the second baseman to end the inning.

The Exchangeites had everything their own way in winning their first game of the second half. They scored at least one run in every inning except the fourth as they smothered the Lions.

Edwards added his own pitching cause by slamming a long four-bagger to lead off the top of the sixth inning. The young hurler fanned 10 Lion batmen, retiring the side on strikeouts in the first, second, and fifth innings.

Archie Moore defends crown; receives unanimous decision over Joey Maxim

OGDEN, Utah (UP)— Archie Moore, his light heavyweight crown firmly in place, today looked toward South America for new fields to conquer after winning a unanimous, but close decision over Joey Maxim here Wednesday night.

Moore beat Maxim before 10,000 fans who paid an estimated $66,000 to watch him pile-up an impressive lead through the middle rounds, using a sharp left hook.

The hardest punch of the night, however, was tossed in the 12th when Moore caught Maxim coming in with a short right cross to the temple. Maxim blinked and held on, but wasn't in trouble.

There were no knockdowns, and neither fighter was ever in obvious danger. An uppercut by Moore in the eighth cut Maxim's left cheek bone and a right cross in the 11th opened a cut high on Maxim's nose. Maxim also had a sizeable lump beneath his left eye.

Although Moore suffered a slight cut inside his lower lip, he didn't seem to fear Maxim's light but steady left jabs and occasional right crosses.

Stengel Criticizes Mantle's Playing

NEW YORK (UP)—Golden Boy Mickey Mantle felt the sting of public managerial criticism for the first time in his meteoric career today as Casey Stengel sought to "shock" his World Champion New York Yankees out of their complacent mood.

Stengel charged the 21-year old successor to Joe DiMaggio with "three previous raps" in Wednesday's game — falling to hit, falling to back up a play and permitting a soft fly to drop for a single in front of him in the White Sox five-run first inning.

Stengel made it clear, however, that he wasn't blaming only Mantle for the Yankees' recent lackluster play. The Yankees still hold a 10-game lead but have lost three straight and five of their last nine.

"We've played lousy," Stengel conceded. "Bad hitting, bad fielding and bad thinking. Too much success. That's the story in three words. They win 13 straight and they get to thinking they're better than everybody else and don't have to work to win."

NEW YORK (AP)—After Ed "Whitey" Ford, ace lefthander for the Yankees, had shutout the Cleveland Indians with one scratch hit at Yankee Stadium recently, he was asked if he knew he had a no-hitter going for nearly six innings. "Sure I knew. I always look at the scoreboard to see how many hits I've allowed — and also to see if I'm pitching a no-hitter," he said with a big grin on his face.

Leone Takes Win In Main Event

Baron Michael Leone won the main bout of the Hardee-Worthington wrestling matches held at the New Enterprise Warehouse last night.

The Baron won over Irishman Matt Murphy on the strength of two falls. Murphy was unable to match the strength and ability shown by the Italian-born TV personality.

In the other bouts, the Swedish Angel won over newcomer Dick Lever; Jim Austeri lost to Frank Thompson; and Charro Astec, a Mexican defeated George Harbin.

Variety Is Word Of Day For Reds

Variety is the word for the Cincinnati Redlegs' pitching staff. Manager Rogers Hornsby has started nine different pitchers in the last nine games.

In succession, the Redlegs' starters have been Bob Kelly, Herman Wehmer, Jackie Collum, Ken Rafenberger, Joe Nuxhall, Harry Perkowski, Fred Caweski, Bud Pedubian and Frank Smith.

Only Caweski, however, has pitched the full nine-inning distance.

Challenges Prison Head To Match Qualification

JACKSON, Miss. (UP)—A Pulitzer-prize-winning newspaper publisher challenged a state prison official today to match job qualifications with the loser to receive 10 licks from "Black Annie," the infamous prison whip used to keep convicts in line.

"We can feel ourselves getting sorry for Marvin's backside already," Hodding Carter, of the Greenville (Miss.) Delta-Democrat-Times, wrote in an editorial addressed to Marvin Wiggins, director of the Parchman penitentiary, the state prison farm.

The dare was issued as Gov. Hugh White demanded an end to snowballing criticism of Wiggins and the penitentiary touched off by the wounding of six prisoners in a disturbance at Parchman June 12. He said there had been "too much interference" in the operation of the sprawling Delta prison farm and he and the state penitentiary commission "are going to run it."

Carter offered his "deal" to Wiggins in reply to the superintendent's refusal to permit Tom Karsell, editor of the Greenville paper, to visit the prison to interview prisoners wounded in the affray.

Carter wrote: "Wiggins is just about as qualified to pass upon the professional reputation of a newspaperman as he is to run a modern humane penal system, his qualifications in each respect being minus zero."

"We'll make a deal with him. Let the American Society of Newspaper Editors, the Southern Newspaper Publishers Association or the Mississippi Press Association name a committee to pass upon the reputation of this newspaper and its staff. Let the National Association of Prison Warden or penologists or penal psychiatrists appoint a similar committee to pass upon the professional reputation and qualifications of Marvin Wiggins. Then let whoever gets the lower score take ten from "Black Annie" with the winner wielding the strap. We can feel ourselves getting sorry for Marvin's backside already."

Homes Wired For Sound Already Here

By ELIZABETH TOOMEY
NEW YORK (UP)—Scene: home of the future. The first voice you hear is Mother, who speaks in an upstairs bedroom, although she's really in the kitchen.

"Hello, Junior...hello, Junior. This is Mother. How many times have I told you to get down here and mow the lawn? Repeat, mow the lawn. Over."

"Hello, Mother, this is Junior. I hear you loud and clear. Roger...wilo and out."

"Hello, Helen, this is Jim. Smoke coming into the living room at 8 o'clock from the kitchen. Think the dinner is burning, over."

"Hello, Jim, this is Helen. You big oaf, repeat oaf, get out there and turn off the stove. I'm in the bath tub. over and out."

The front door bell rings. A voice comes from a metallic box beside the door.

"Who is there?"
"Hello madame. This is your trusty brush salesman. Are you..."

Inside the house the voice stops abruptly as the head of the family flicks a switch.

The conversations may be imaginary, but the possibility of room-to-room communications is real. An increasing number of new homes are being wired for sound.

One man had a speaker put in his bathroom so he could relax in the tub and dictate letters to his secretary in the adjoining room.

A young mother used the front door microphone as a sort of baby sitter, to pick up sounds of her young child playing in the yard while she worked in the kitchen.

"We feel any new house that costs from $18,000 and up is a potential market," said L. H. Bogen,

28-year old vice president of his father's electronic equipment manufacturing company. "The cost of the average installation is not expensive—about $300, but the small house owner just wouldn't have as much need for it."

His company has sold 6,000 home communo-phones systems in the past two years. For some reason, Bogen said, the far West and the Southwest are the best markets.

One California builder is installing the inter-com systems in each of 58 houses in a new development.

The control stations, about six-by-eight inches in size, are mounted flush against the wall. By turning the dial to various room numbers you can talk to or listen in on conversations in those rooms.

Symphony Had To Leave On Time

PITTSBURGH (AP)—William Martin, manager of the Pittsburgh Symphony, tells this story of one he had recently in Schenectady, N.Y.:

A rehearsal was scheduled for a movie theater and at the last minute Martin learned the orchestra would have to be gone by 12 o'clock noon. Martin pleaded for more time. But the theater manager was unmoved. He said:

"We're very proud to have the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra and Conductor William Steinberg with us. But even if it was Phil Spector and his All-Girl orchestra, I couldn't do it."

Ex-Presidents Visited Capitol

WASHINGTON (UP)—Both of the nation's living ex-presidents visited the Capitol yesterday but their activities contrasted as sharply as their personalities.

While Mr. Harry S. Truman enjoyed the limelight, Mr. Herbert Hoover stayed quietly into town, conferred with Republican congressional leaders and returned to his New York home without attracting public notice.

The reserved Republican and the ebullient Democrat did not meet. Mr. Truman had left the Capitol about half an hour before Mr. Hoover arrived.

Mr. Truman's visit to the halls of Congress, announced well in advance and covered by platoons of reporters and photographers, include lunch with Democratic senators and a speech from his old seat on the Senate floor.

Mr. Hoover's was strictly a business mission. He came at the invitation of congressional Republican leaders who wanted his counsel on a proposed to set up a new commission on government reorganization to follow up the work of a similar body headed by Mr. Hoover several years ago.

He arrived by train from New York at 1:15 p.m. EST, and went directly to the office of Senate Republican Leader Robert A. Taft for the private conference. He left by train for New York an hour and 48 minutes later.

About the only persons who knew he was on the premises were the leaders he met, a reporter or two who stumbled into the fact accidentally, and a few surprised tourists who happened to pass through corridors and recognized the former chief executive.

Forceful 'Lobby' Action In Mind

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—A Capitol stenographer, letting off steam in an elevator, was quite unhappy over the fact the Legislature had raised some salaries of state employees but skipped her.

"Did you lobby the legislators?" she was asked.

"No," she snapped, "but the next time I walk down the corridor and one of them pinches me I'm going to sweet him in the eye."

Do's And Don'ts From AAA On Holiday Travel

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—There are a few "do's" and "don'ts" if you plan your vacation, travel editor of the American Automobile Association, makes some valuable suggestions.

"First of all," Frome said, "don't pain to drive more than 300 miles a day. If you average 30 miles an hour—which isn't bad—it's still a long day. If you speed up your trip, you'll miss a lot of interesting sights and also wear yourself to a frazzle."

How much can you expect to spend on the road? Well, it should run something like this: About $9 a day to operate the car; $8 a day for food for two persons; and hotels or motels for two, about $8 a night. Plus what else you want to spend on the way.

"By all means," Frome warned, "have a road check made on your car. If you think the machine needs it, have a motor tune-up. Take the anti-freeze out of the radiator and have the radiator flushed. You should check the thermostat and the fan belt, the brake linings and the master cylinder."

The AAA man said women should choose their wardrobe carefully. It's a good idea for the ladies to cart tailored suits, tropical weaves that can be worn in any c.-y. Stick to two basic colors, and pick contrasting accessories. A change of blouses is advisable.

"Other items a woman should pack in her bags include a dark robe, slippers, plenty of pajamas, slaps and lingerie," Frome advised. "Take things that require little or no ironing. And in case you need to do any ironing on the road, be sure to take an iron along. Also take a raincoat and an umbrella, and a pair of boots. And for sure, some comfy shoes."

Frome wasn't yet through with his list.

"Be sure to take along a first aid kit, a camera, a flash light, some sun glasses, a thermos jug, some beach shoes and some riding boots," he said.

"I don't know why the auto people think they have to make out a list like that. Most women want at least that much stuff and think up a lot of other things besides."

"If you're going away," Frome added, "be sure to cancel your milk and the laundry pickup. Remove the fresh stuff from the ice box, lock the windows and doors and phone the cops and tell them how long you'll be gone so they'll keep an eye out for burglars."

Maybe, it's better to stay home.

Pennsylvanian Observing Pitt Health Service

Dr. Walter Humbert, director of the Pitt Health Department, announced that Louise Kaylor of the Pennsylvania Department of Health is spending one month at the Pitt County Health Department observing nutrition services and other services of the agency.

Miss Kaylor is a student at Simmons College and the Harvard School of Public Health in Boston and is working toward a Master's Degree with a major in community nutrition. The observation of health departments in other areas is a part of Miss Kaylor's studies.

Miss Kaylor chose Pitt County for her main area of observation because of its similarity to rural Pennsylvania. The local health department offered its services for observation and was recommended to Miss Kaylor by Dr. Bertlyn Bosley, chief nutritionist with the State Board of Health.

The student of nutrition also chose the local health department because she stated she is interested in organizational work which is now in progress at the local health department. Carolyn Fiewellen, local nutritionist, and Julia Fisher, supervisor of nurses, are arranging a schedule for Miss Kaylor providing observation of health services.

While in Pitt, Miss Kaylor has also been attending institutions and conferences throughout the state observing work.

Four Crashes In Two-State Area

ELIZABETH CITY (UP)—At least four Marine Corps planes crashed in North Carolina and Virginia yesterday, killing one pilot and giving a coast guard helicopter pilot one of the worst days of his career.

Thomas J. Tate, a helicopter pilot at the Coast Guard air station here, answered the first distress call at 10 a.m. EST. Marine Capt. T. E. Goss had crashed in his propeller-driven plane short of the runway at his base at Edenton, N. C.

Goss suffered fractures of both legs. Tate picked him up and flew him to the Naval hospital at Portsmouth, Va.

At Portsmouth Tate was called out immediately when Marine Capt. E. R. Carson crashlanded his Panther jet on a railroad track near Suffolk, Va. Carson was unhurt, and Tate flew him back to Suffolk only to find that Carson's wingman, 2nd Lt. Brown, had crashed at Suffolk.

Tate picked up Brown, and a naval plane flew Brown and Carson back to their base at the Marine Corps auxiliary air station at Edenton.

A Banshee jet based at Cherry Point, N. C., crashed near the mouth of the Neuse River, killing its pilot, M-Sgt. O. R. Woods of Horseshoe Bend, Ida.

Sentiment Keeps Team Of Horses

MATTOON, Ill. (AP)—Farmer Ray Young owns a tractor, but he likes horses, too.

He works his team of black mares just to keep them in condition, saying: "These mares hardly pay for their feed, but I'm keeping them just the same. Fellow wanted to buy them the other day. I told him he'd just kill them and make a dog food with them. They've always worked for me, and I'm going to take care of them."

Restoration Of Tryon Palace Is Finally Assured

RALEIGH (UP)—Restoration of North Carolina's first Capitol was assured today with the approval of budgets totaling $140,000 for the work by the Department of Conservation and Development.

Work has already been started on the restoration of the west wing, the only part left standing of the old colonial palace which was damaged by fire in 1798.

Excavations and archaeological work has been completed for the remaining restoration work at the site at New Bern, officials said.

New AEC Chief Assures Further Atomic Progress

By JOSEPH L. MYLER
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—Designation of Lewis L. Strauss to succeed Gordon Dean as chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission means that perfection of the H-bomb and improvement of the A-bomb will be pushed ahead as rapidly as possible.

It also will mean, if Strauss' wishes come true, that there will be "vigorous progress in the benign uses" of atomic energy as a source of medicine and research.

Strauss, 57, a rear admiral on inactive status in the naval reserve, is a former banker with a great interest in medical research, industrial technology, and scientific development.

As one of the original members appointed to the Atomic Energy Commission upon its creation in 1946, Strauss was on the winning side in the great debate which preceded the decision to add H-bombs to the country's A-bomb arsenal.

Strauss resigned in April, 1950, and went home to his farm at Brandy Station, Va., where he raises Angus cattle. He maintained an office in New York to handle a multitude of personal affairs, and last March he came back to Washington as Mr. Eisenhower's personal adviser on atomic matters.

Strauss had meant his 1950 retirement from the AEC to be permanent. "But in the face of world conditions," he said, "I don't see how anyone can fail to respond to a call from the President."

The new chairman-designate is popular with members of the House-Senate Atomic Energy Committee and doubtless will win Senate confirmation easily. Chairman W. Sterling Cole (R-N. Y.) said Strauss' nomination means the atomic "program will move along effectively... and safeguard our national security."

Claims Schools May Get Vast Sum From Plan

WASHINGTON (UP)—Sen. Paul H. Douglas said today the nation's schools may eventually get as much as $40,000,000 from the "oil-for-education" plan approved by the Senate.

The Illinois Democrat said the exact amount of federal school aid would depend on how much oil, gas and other minerals are eventually taken from the ocean bottom lands of the Continental Shelf.

The Senate, by a 45 to 37 vote Wednesday, tacked the oil-for-education amendment onto a federal oil leasing bill for the Continental Shelf. The ocean lands covered by the bill lie seaward of the so-called tidelands given to the states in a previous bill.

Still pending were a number of amendments by coastal state Senators who want their states to have the right to tax oil production on the federal lands.

Arrest 100 For Watery Pranks

MANILA, P. I. (UP)—More than 100 persons were arrested Wednesday for dousing water on pedestrians and motorists during celebration of St. John the Baptist's day.

At least six persons were injured in fights between some of the celebrants and irate victims.

All of those arrested were later released after they were given stern warnings by the police or forgiven by their victims.

Reveal 'Most Eligible' Senator Is Now Engaged

NEWPORT, R. I. (UP)—A 23-year old Washington heiress will be married in September to Sen. John F. Kennedy, the "most eligible bachelor" of Capital society, whom she met a year ago while working as an inquiring photographer.

The family of Jacqueline Lee Bouvier, who made her debut at a Newport dance in 1948, announced the engagement here Wednesday night. The wedding will take place Sept. 12 in this summer rendezvous of high society.

Kennedy, 36, the son of multi-millionaire Joseph P. Kennedy, was elected to the Senate from Massachusetts last fall on the Democratic ticket. He defeated Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., who has since been appointed U. S. Ambassador to the United Nations.

Miss Bouvier, a onetime art student at the Sorbonne in Paris, is the daughter of John V. Bouvier III of New York and Mrs. Hugh D. Auchincloss of Newport and McLean, Va. She met Kennedy in February, 1952, when she interviewed him for her inquiring photographer column in the Washington Times-Herald.

The wedding will be the second in the Kennedy family this year. The Senator's sister, Eunice, was married last month to Robert Sargent Shriver, Jr., in a ceremony conducted by Francis Cardinal Spellman in St. Patrick's cathedral in New York.

Kennedy, who served three terms in the House before his election to the Senate, was graduated from Harvard in 1940 and commanded a PT boat in the Pacific during World War II. He survived with his crew by swimming to a Coral Island after his craft was cut in half by a Japanese destroyer.

He and his eight brothers and sisters each received $1,000,000

SMEARED BY SOOT STORM—A soot storm swept over a three-mile area in Philadelphia and Mrs. John Long and her six-year-old son Christopher awoke looking like this. Hundreds of persons discovered the soot had spread over bed clothing, furniture and sidewalks during the night. The soot was traced to a generating plant of an electric company where a spokesman said failure of a soot-collecting apparatus in the smoke-discharge system was to blame. (AP Wirephoto)

New Phone Books Are Being Mailed

Copies of the 1953 edition of the Greenville telephone directory are being mailed this week to about 5,200 subscribers in the Greenville area.

Mailing of the books by the Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company began yesterday with more to follow today. Company officials predicted all should be delivered by Friday.

The books contain a "caution" tab on front instructing subscribers not to place the new directory into use until Saturday. Frank Harrington, company manager, explained reason for this as follows: "This is because rural numbers and those for some Greenville phones will change at midnight Friday. The new numbers are listed in the new directory, and use of the new listings, therefore, might cause 'wrong numbers' and result in delays and inconveniences." Mr. Harrington said the number changes on rural phones are necessary to make new arrangements which will minimize need for future number changes when subscribers move from one place to another. About 475 numbers in the book's listings at 4,600, representing an increase of about 250 over the last book published.

The difference in phones listed and books sent out he pointed out, is due to the fact that a company or organization may have only a single listing but a number of different exchanges. Books are supplied for each exchange.

The new books, dated July 1952, contain listings for subscribers in Ayden, Farmville, Fountain, and Snow Hill, as well as Greenville. It also has a "yellow page" section of business and professional classifications.

Grizzled Gold Miners To 'Trap' That Flying Saucer

BRUSH CREEK, Calif. (UP)—Two grizzled gold miners laid a trap today for a "flying saucer" manned by broad-shouldered midgelets that keeps bothering them at their mountain diggings.

The miners, John Q. Black and John Van Allen, said they were tempted to fire away at the thing next time it shows up.

Black and Van Allen, who have a reputation for sobriety, told Sheriff's Capt. Fred Preston the "saucer" has landed twice near the small gold mine they operate in the remote Marble Creek area. Each time, they said, a little man got out, scooped up a pail of water and handed it to someone inside.

The miners asked if it would be all right to take a shot at the contraption next time they see it. They said it landed first on May 20 and again on June 20, so they reckon it will be back on July 20.

Preston said he told the men he couldn't give them permission to shoot at anything.

"I told them they'd better grab it next time so they'll have something to back up their story," Preston said. He added that he wasn't planning any investigation but he had "informed the Air Force."

The miners said the "saucer" came down on a sand bar at the junction of Marble and Jordan creeks, using a three-legged landing gear that retracted when it took off. The landing gear left marks on the sand the size of elephant tracks, they said.

Black and Van Allen described the object as being about seven feet in diameter and about four feet thick. The little man who got out was wearing something like a "knee-length park" and his arms and legs seemed covered with a heavy tweed material, the miners said.

Sermon Will Be On Bikini Suits

MIAMI, Fla. (UP)—A Presbyterian minister saw a newspaper picture of a Miami model in a bikini bathing suit and announced today that the photo would be the subject of his sermon next Sunday.

"I am humiliated that a great cultured city like Miami would celebrate the Fourth of July by disgracing womanhood," the Rev. John D. Henderson, pastor of the Riviera Presbyterian Church, said.

Hat Too Big; Invited Arrest

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The old expression, "keep it under your hat," backedfire today for Arthur Adams.

Police became suspicious when they noticed Adams wearing a hat obviously several sizes too large.

Upon closer inspection, officers discovered several numbers slips, a writing pad and some money in the over-sized fedora.

Sees Venezuela President Today

CARACAS, Venezuela (UP)—Visits to President Marcos Perez Jimenez and other national and local officials highlighted the second day of U. S. "Special Ambassador" Milton S. Eisenhower's visit here at the start of a good will tour of 10 Latin American nations.

Eisenhower, a brother of the U. S. President, received an honorary doctor's degree Wednesday from Caracas University.

Wake Up To More Comfort

Without Nagging Backache

Nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness may be due to slow-down of kidney function. Doctors say good kidney function is very important to good health. When some everyday condition, such as stress and strain, causes this important function to slow down, many folks suffer nagging backache—feel miserable. Minor bleeding irritations due to cold or wrong diet may cause getting up lighter or frequent passages. Don't neglect your kidneys if these conditions bother you. Try Doan's Pills—a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 60 years. It's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief from these discomforts—help the millions of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Appears To Have Best Chance Of Being Premier

PARIS (UP)—Joseph Laniel, 65-year-old textile manufacturer, appeared today to have the best chance of any candidate so far to become the nation's 16th postwar premier and end the five-week French crisis.

Laniel, who would represent France at the Bermuda Big Three talks if approved by the National Assembly, planned to spend the day drafting the investiture speech he will give before Parliament Friday.

Political observers rated his chances high to obtain the 314-vote majority he needs to become premier, barring a sudden change of heart among deputies who have promised to support his bid.

Laniel is the 10th man to be offered a chance at the premiership since Rene Mayer's government fell May 21, and the fifth candidate to try to win assembly approval.

Big City's Rooftops Luring Suntan Fans

By ELIZABETH TOOMEY
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP)—Nowhere do so many people spend so much time on roofs as they do in this crowded city.

The thickest patch of spongy asphalt is cherished by the possessor in hot weather and envied by his neighbor. Beautiful girls lounge next to brick chimneys and ignore their own complexions change from pallid to pink. Occasional glimpses of beauteous sunbathers on adjoining roofs help relieve their sizzling monotony. And these scenes are not restricted to weekends.

At lunch time, well dressed executives walk into a midtown office building and emerge a few minutes later 13 stories above on the roof, clad in swimming trunks and ready to spend their lunch hours in the sun.

In the same building girls clad in scanty shorts or wrapped in sheets hurry down the 12th floor corridor, past open office doors where such sights are so familiar they don't raise a head, and climb the stairs to another section of the roof, secluded from the men.

This is the era of the sun-tanned look.

The first man to admit it is Cam Cesario, membership director of the Health Roof Club. Twenty-three years ago, in the days when muscles were more important than suntans, the club was started on the top floor of the Grand Central Palace.

After a few years they added cots on the roof, then an outdoor shower, and finally a kitchen, Cesario recalled. The men's lunch hour sunning facilities became so popular they built a section for women. Now the roof is crowded with patient, silent sunners on days when the exercise rooms downstairs are empty.

Men sign up for a minimum three-month membership; women for a minimum 10-visit membership. (The director explained that women are more unpredictable than men.) Huge clocks on the roof remind the sun bathers when to turn over and when to get back to the office.

Cesario says that 80 per cent of the male members are in the advertising or publishing business "where the most tension is." The women don't fall into such tidy categories. They include secretaries, actresses, models and housewives.

most passed a law permitting Sunday trains in Vermont. It authorized "Running on a railroad of such through trains on Sunday as, in the opinion of the Board, the public necessity and convenience may require, having regard to the due observance of the day." Senator thinks Vermont railroads provided for "due observance of the day" by making the Bibles available.

Ships of America --17

AP Newsfeatures

For years, steam ships had steadily been eliminating sail from the high seas. They made better average time and could carry freight at a much lower cost, owing to the wage costs of the large crews necessary to operate the square-riggers. Then, in November, 1902, The Engineering News carried a startling article describing a seven masted schooner, The Thomas W. Lawson, being built at the Fore River ship yards in Quincy, Massachusetts. She had a gross tonnage of 5,218 tons and an over all length of 385 feet. With her fore and aft rig and with donkey engines to raise and lower her sails, she required a crew of only 16 men, while a square rigger of equal size required 40. This made it possible for her to carry large tonnage at low cost. She engaged in American coastal trade successfully until, in making a passage across the Atlantic, she sank, with all her crew but one, off the Scilly Islands, Friday, December 13, 1907. She was the only seven masted schooner ever built.

Bibles Provided On Railroads Of A Bygone Era

ST. ALBANS, Vt. (AP)—Old time trains in Vermont used to have brass Bible holders in each of the cars. Older residents remember when they had Bibles in them.

Al Savvat, railroad historian, has unearthed some of the old brass holders, but for a time he was stumped to explain why Bibles were considered necessary in railroad cars. Now he thinks he knows why.

Shirley Temple Back In Hollywood Again

By ALNE MOSEY
 United Press Hollywood Reporter
HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Shirley Temple has moved back to Hollywood but, she insisted today, just as a housewife and mother—so far, anyway.

The one-time baby star admitted she was offered several television shows during her two-year stay in Washington. But, as of today at least, she's saying no to all the actress jobs.

"I retired three years ago, and I rejected those programs because I didn't intend doing anything in the East," she said. "I was offered one here and I turned that down, too."

But like many a retired actor, she left the door open, just in case. "When I was young, I always gave definite answers," she said. "Now that I'm a quarter of a century old, I know better so I'm not giving any definite answers—unless I'm sure. All I can say is, right now, I don't intend to return to acting. My husband doesn't care one way or the other.

"Being a wife and mother is very rewarding. I don't have time to think of anything else. I do my own work around the house."

Shirley's husband, Charles Black, just finished a tour of Navy duty in the nation's capital, so the couple and their two children trekked back to Cinema City. Black wants to "go back into the business end of television," she said.

While he's job-hunting, the pretty ex-actress, like any wife, is looking for a three-bedroom house to rent. But unlike other celebrities, Shirley is working from house to house, ringing doorbells.

"Sure," she said airily. "When

CLOTHING NEEDED—Used clothing from America distributed in Germany, helps thousands of refugees. The above is a daily scene in West Berlin where over one thousand new refugees register at church relief headquarters every day to ask for food, clothing and accommodations. The Greenville Junior Chamber of Commerce is staging a collection of used clothing in Greenville next Sunday for this purpose.

A CHAMPION AT EASE

Joe did it . . . so can you. Eleven-year-old Joe Lunn, a shy lad from Georgia, drove a patched-up racing car to victory last year in the All-American Soap Box Derby. A first-time entrant with no experience, Joe won over 153 other competitors.

I see a house for sale I go up and ask if they'll rent. And if I see an attractive house with no sign out front, I still ring the doorbell and ask if they'll rent. We got our house in Washington that way.

"Sometimes," she laughed, "the person will say 'you look awfully familiar.'"

Meantime, the Blacks are living with her parents.

"It's good to be home," said Shirley. "I didn't miss working in movies. In fact, we hardly ever saw any while we were in Washington."

"We had some very exciting times there. I think Washington is the most exciting place I've ever seen."

Tape Recording Of Events Booms

BUFFALO, N. Y. (U.P.)—Brides, babies and businessmen are bringing a boom in tape recordings to local recording studios.

While grandmother was satisfied with the signatures of the preacher and guests at a wedding, and mother was happy with photographs, tomorrow's bride apparently wants to hear the words, too.

Picked up by microphones concealed in either the church or the home, the ceremony is electronically "cut" on spools of copper wire or rolls of treated paper.

Sections of the recordings are often transferred to regulation phonograph records so that homes with out special equipment can play them on ordinary machines.

One engineer noted, however, that more and more people are getting their own wire and tape apparatus. Another said he always gets requests for tapes from members of unions whose meetings he has recorded. The same holds true for corporation meetings.

Catching a baby's "first word" is fairly common. One outfit did better than that. It sent technicians into the delivery room for a pharmaceutical manufacturer and recorded a baby's first "bellow."

Clothes Make Officials, Too

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Informality in dress, brought on by 90-degree weather, has resulted in a loss of dignity on more than one score by Oklahoma legislators.

Rep. Cletis John Rogers, wearing a comfortably cool sport shirt, was addressed as "page" by one of the post office employees whom he sponsored.

Lt. Gov. James E. Berry, seeing a sports shirt-clad figure on the page bench, snapped his fingers three times and yelled "Page!" Harold Morgan, state senator, turned but refused to acknowledge the common.

Show Of Force And A Trace Of Appeasement

Stark tragedy stands forth from the story of the East German revolt.

As had to be expected, the revolt failed, and it still unknown number of persons died or will spend years in prison as result.

Underlining the tragedy is the fact that West Berliners, and the whole Western world, must stand helplessly across a border which anywhere else should be just across the street.

But behind the clanking of the Russian tanks and the staccato bursts of Russian tommy guns, also has emerged a strange set of facts and contradictions.

Even as Communist guns urge sullen workers back into East German factories and Communist courts order the death sentence for leaders of the June 17 revolt, the Communists also:

Cancel orders for a 10 per cent speed-up in the factories.

Promise the end of electric power in workers' homes.

Promise increased pensions and social security benefits and low-price railroad tickets for workers.

And promise big new housing projects and improved sanitary conditions in the factories.

The Russian show of force on the one hand and blandishments on the other suggest the actions of men confused. As if the men in the Kremlin itself are uncertain as to the move they should make next.

And in that sense, the East Germans who died in last week's abortive revolt may not have died in vain.

Certainly, it has provided a lesson to prosperous West Germans against any deal which would bring about German unification, only to have the hardship and privations of East Germany become the standard of all Germany under the Communists.

And the sticks and stones hurled against the steel sides of Russian tanks by ragged East German workers have emphasized more the words ever could the West's demand for Germany-wide free elections in advance of any German peace treaty.

The stresses and strains inside the Russian orbit also have been emphasized.

The world heard of it first from Czechoslovakia where workers multiplied against currency "reforms," then came the Communist shake-up in the Ukraine, inside Russia proper.

Together, the incidents outlined a broad belt of discontent stretching across the heart of Central Europe—discontent ready to explode.

 A CUTLERY DRAWER can be kept in neat order by using dividers in the drawer. These are easily made from 1/8-inch tempered hardboard. Pieces of 1/4-inch quarter-round molding can be put in with glue or brads to form slots for the dividers. Cross dividers can be fitted by cutting 1/8-inch notches half way through each piece in egg crate fashion. If tempered pressed wood is used there will be no splintering or chipping and the dividers will last indefinitely.

Water 'Witch' Claims He Never Has Had Failure

COWLEY, Alta. (AP)—An 81-year-old South Alberta man is one of the few persons who cling to the ancient practice of "water witching."

Ernest Cooknell of Cowley says he can locate an underground water supply by walking over the ground clutching a branch of a willow tree.

He says four of his family could make the wands wiggle over water, but four others, could not. He doesn't know how or why he possesses the talent. He says it may have something to do with the individual's body chemistry, and possibly is inherited.

Cooknell claims that his "witching" has never failed to find water since he came to Cowley in 1901. He has found water at depths ranging as much as 230 feet.

He has never taken money for a job, believing the charm might be broken if used professionally.

FINE FOR HORSES—With the temperature near 90, you couldn't blame Doris Cooley for trying to cool off in the horse watering trough in Washington, D. C. But she's strictly posing to show that the trough is one of 75 in the capital the Washington Humane Society has pronounced fit for any thirsty horse that comes along. There were 18 horses in the city at the last count. Doris, by the way, is 18 and she'd like to be chosen Miss Washington for 1953. (AP Wirephoto)

Highest Paid Woman In TV Will Switch To Acting

By JACK GAVER
 United Press Staff Correspondent
 NEW YORK UP) — The refrigerators and electric stoves will have to shift for themselves this summer. Betty Furness is going to try to sell something else—her ability as an actress.

Known as the busiest, most seen and highest paid woman in television through her persuasive commercial spots, Miss Furness, 37, has suddenly remembered she used to be known as an actress and is going to find out if she still is.

"While I love my work in television," she said, "it's been a long time since I've been on a stage. And there are a lot of people, including me, who wonder if I still can act. Well, I'm going to find out this summer."

Miss Furness isn't going to be content with the results shown by appearing in just one play either, as are many of the stars who head for the barn theaters and the green backs in the summer. She wanted a change of pace, the better to judge herself.

Her first will appear the week of July 6 at Ogunquit, Me., in "Affairs of State," the play by the late Louis Verneuil that lasted two seasons in New York. The following week she'll appear in the same work in Dennis, Mass.

The work of July 20, Miss Furness will be busy getting up in the lines of Clifford Odets' "The Country Girl" and the following week she will appear in it at Mt. Pocono, Pa.

What happens after that is anyone's guess. She isn't quitting television by any means, but if a producer comes up with a good role in a new play, and Miss Furness has been satisfied with her summer acting, she'll also be on Broadway next season.

Girl Beautician Turns Carpenter

MUSKOGON, Mich. (U.P.)—A 21-year-old beauty parlor worker has abandoned her nail file for a hammer and saw to become Muskogon's only woman carpenter.

Tall, slender, brunette and attractive, Vera Buckley draws "sidewalk superintendents" by the dozens as she wields her power saw or drives spikes like an expert on one of the nine homes she is helping her father, Clyde N. Buckley, build.

Actually, Miss Buckley is listed as an apprentice carpenter, but her father says she's "doing fine."

Her decision to abandon hair styling and manicures for fitting two-by-fours and applying shingles came after her brother, Gilbert, was drafted into the army. Her father asked if she would consider changing jobs to help him out "temporarily."

Miss Buckley now likes carpenter work so well she plans to make it a career.

The master of ceremonies for "Junio Omnibus," next fall's new program for the kids being put together by the Ford Foundation's TV-radio workshop, will be Burgess Meredith.

This is the actor who, back in the mid-1930's, was referred to by insiders as "The Hamlet of 1940," at which time he was supposed to be ready for a magnificent portrayal of Shakespeare's Dane. But what with movies, radio other plays, a war, etc., Meredith and the bard never made connections.

Meredith will spend the summer in training for his new duties under the supervision of his two small children.

Special License Tags For Indians

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Florida's Seminole Indians, who haven't adopted many of the white man's ways, don't even have the same kind of automobile license plates as most of the residents of the state.

The Seminoles get special tags with the words "Seminole Indian" on them instead of the usual letters and numbers. The state distributes them to the Indians free. Around 170 tags are given out each year.

GOP In House At Last Resorts To 'Back Door'

WASHINGTON (UP)—House Republican leaders despaired today of getting an excess profits tax bill to the floor through normal legislative channels, and resorted to a seldom-used "back door" approach.

The present law levying an 82 percent excess profits tax on corporations is scheduled to die at midnight Tuesday. President Eisenhower wants it extended for six months.

Speaker Joseph W. Martin, Jr. told newsmen the only way he now sees to get the President's request before the House for a vote is through the Rules Committee. All efforts by Martin, Mr. Eisenhower and others to go through the normal channels—that is, to get the House Ways and Means Committee to approve the bill first—have failed.

The administration's troubles in the Ways and Means Committee are traceable to Chairman Daniel A. Reed (R-N.Y.). Reed has refused even to let the committee vote on extending it.

The Rules Committee does not ordinarily originate legislation but Martin considered this an extraordinary matter.

Chairman Leo E. Allen (R-Ill.) said he might call the Rules Committee to meet on Martin's request today. He predicted the committee would approve the tax legislation for a House vote next week.

Naguib Of Egypt Is Magnet To Children

TWO-WAY ATTRACTION—Mohamed Naguib and the children take to each other wherever Egypt's strong man goes.

By EDWARD FOLLAK

CAIRO—Gen. Mohamed Naguib, on a tour of southern Egypt, was attending a reception at the swanky Winter Palace Hotel in Luxor. During the traditional welcome address, a little girl climbed on Na-ling with fondness. It clicks in a split second—they rush to him, nestle in his arms and offer their cheek for a kiss.

Boys and girls, the very young and the teenagers, the fancy dressed child who hands over a bouquet, the ragged urchin standing by the side of a village road, go all out for Naguib when they see him. There is nothing like the conventional picture of the candidate for elections hugging the babies to win the parents' support. There is a current of sympathy, running two ways.

At a tea party, there were several speeches. The general, his face showing the strain of three grueling days of travelling speeches, visits, inaugurations and triumphal ridings through thick crowds which often choked him with their enthusiasm, was listening.

Suddenly all trace of fatigue disappeared from his face and he smiled. Two little boys, standing near his table were staring at him. Naguib took some candies from a tray in front of him and gestured to the kids. There was everything in that gesture. Better than words it said "Come on boys, I'm your pal, I know how you feel, I know you like candies. Here, come and get them."

"Children are pure and sincere," he says. "They are spontaneous in their feelings and their actions. This is what I like in them. And beware, one cannot fool them. They have a sort of sixth sense which makes them know those who love them."

gub's knees, where she tranquilly gnawed a bar of chocolate. Naguib has strong, irresistible child appeal. There is something moving in every encounter between the strong man of Egypt and a child. The young soldier just stares at the little ones, his eyes twink-

Bees Discovered The Plastic Age

DETROIT, Mich. (UP)—Bees can spend all their time making honey without bothering to make wax, now that Holland R. Sperry has developed a plastic honeycomb.

Sperry, science instructor at Cranbrook School in suburban Bloomfield Hills, says this is the first time on record that bees have seen fit to use artificial methods.

Sperry sneaks his plastic honeycombs into beehives and so far, the bees have obligingly filled his gadgets with honey.

That way, he says they don't waste time building their own comb and keeping them in repair. But the six-sided chambers must be the same depth as those made by the bees themselves. If the chamber is too deep the bee won't fill it up. If it is too shallow, the bee extends it with its own wax. That makes it wasteful and time-consuming to retrieve the wax.

But although the worker bees have accepted Sperry's invention, the queen bee disdains it. She will lay her eggs only in combs made of genuine beeswax.

Sperry believes this is because bees make their chambers in two different widths. The man-made job is an in-between width.

Rubber plantations were long unsuccessful in the Western Hemisphere because leaf bright destroyers as fast as they were planted.

Baby's Skin Is Tender; Avoid Too Much Sun

BATHING BEAUTIES... Mother and daughter enjoy the beach protected from sun's harmful rays with liberal use of suntan lotion and a parasol.

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Beauty Editorial Writer

Please don't roast your baby in the sun. Any Mom who uses an oven thermometer in baking should know better than that. But every day one sees little tots broiling in the summer sunshine, with mother sitting under a parasol quite aloof from it all.

An agonizing sunburn can scorch a little tot into the shade for a lifetime. But if Mom takes time and energy to instruct her child in the proper procedures of sunbasking, a good time can be had outdoors.

Here are some tips worth observing if baby and Mom plan to enjoy their outdoor sessions this summer:

1. Before your youngster leaves the house have her assemble sunglasses, suntan lotion, a hat with a brim, long coveralls, long-sleeved light-weight blouse, a large

Turkish towel.

2. When she arrives at the beach, show her how to apply the suntan lotion.

3. Children who have been sitting in the sun are likely to shiver after a dip in cool water. When she has been blotted dry with a towel, have a warm sweater ready to keep her from chilling until she warms up again.

4. Bring an alarm clock so exposures to the sun may be timed. Time consuming relaxers such as reading and knitting are likely to take your thoughts from your child until she is scorched. Be sure she wears sunglasses or little cotton down in the sun.

5. Keep her from munching food and drinking icy drinks while she is in the direct sunshine. When it is time to have lunch, sit in a shady spot or under a parasol.

6. Unless she is a good swimmer, train her to ask permission when she wants to wade in the water. It is Mother's job to accompany her youngster in water that is more than ankle-deep.

7. Keep your child calmed down as much as possible. She is likely to become overheated from playing the simplest little games on a hot day.

When choosing beach equipment, make sure that bathing suits will dry easily, that sunglasses are approved by your optician and that suntan lotions are effective and pure. The American Medical Association Committee on Cosmetics has put its stamp of approval on certain protective lotions especially good for tender-skinned children.

Cases Heard In Recorders Court

By CHESTER WALSH
In Pitt County Recorder's Court Tuesday, Judge Dink James gave a teen-age youth who was charged with larceny another chance, "on condition that he be dutiful to his mother and be of good conduct."

Lessie Lee Jones of New Bern and Jesse Carroll Braxton of near Greenville were found guilty of larceny. It was testified that they stole a large quantity of gas from Carl Adams and both defendants pleaded guilty.

Judge James gave Jones 18 months on the roads. He gave young Braxton 90 days on the roads, sentence suspended on condition that he pay Carl Adams $8 for gasoline. The court placed Braxton on probation for two years.

In addition to the usual probation provisions, Judge James ruled that Braxton is to remain at his home and obey his mother, work diligently and not leave the county without the permission of the Probation officer.

Eli H. Roberson, Jr., speeding, was taxed with court costs and he had to surrender his driver's license for 10 days.

Ebe T. Bunting was taxed with court costs for driving without an operator's license. Donald W. Boyd was taxed with the same penalty for a similar violation.

Will Sanders, Negro, was given 90 days on the roads for issuing a worthless check.

Jesse Teel, Negro, assault, not prosessed.

David Barnes, Jr., Negro, reckless driving, not prosessed.

Driving drunk: David Barnes, Negro, $10 bond costs, provided he pays Joe Wilson $125. The court recommended that his driver's license be revoked for two years. The judgment also provides that Barnes is not to ride in a motor vehicle for six months.

The court continued the case of Mrs. Wyatt Gardner, charged with damaging personal property.

Frank Johnson, Negro, larceny 90 days on the roads.

Tape Recorder Clinched Divorce

DETROIT (UP)—Mrs. Virginia Cheifer, 29, a nightclub pianist and singer, had a divorce today—thanks to the tape recorder she bought to improve her voice.

She started using it to record telephone conversations with her husband, Max, 36.

Circuit Judge Carl M. Weideman allowed her to play some of the recordings in court Wednesday over the objections of Cheifer's attorney. Weideman said Cheifer had used "vile language."

OMAHA, Neb. (UP)—Some 400 summer school students at the Omaha University were left in the dark at a welcoming speech by the school's president, Dr. Milo Ball.

A power failure plunged the auditorium into semi-darkness just before Ball started to speak.

Chapter 22 It seemed to Mandell that he had been walking in and out of Central Bureau for years. Pat led the way into the line-up room and found seats in the rear. The room was dark except for the lighted stage. Looking older and grayer, his face more lined than usual, Inspector Carlton was standing on the stage talking to a slim, well-dressed man who reminded Mandell of someone he'd known.

No Nylon Undies During Surgery LONDON (UP)—Nurses in two Lancashire hospitals have been ordered to slip out of their nylon undies before entering operating rooms.

Lieutenant Rose, his Buddha-like smile on the smug side, padded out on the stage and whispered something to Inspector Carlton. Carlton nodded. "Right away." He glanced at his wrist watch. "We'll take the clerk from the Transfield Arms first, and work right down the line. By then, one of the cars may have picked up Mandell." He looked out into the dark. "That all right with you, Mr. State's Attorney?"

Backstairs Notes On White House Doings

By MERRIMAN SMITH
United Press White House Writer
WASHINGTON (UP)—Backstairs at the White House:

Frederick M. Alger, Jr., the new U.S. Ambassador to Belgium, dropped in at the White House the other day to say goodbye to President Eisenhower before leaving for Brussels.

When Alger came out of the President's office, he encountered the usual group of reporters. Telling of his travel plans he said he would be accompanied to Europe by his wife and their two sons.

A sweet young girl reporter beamed at the new ambassador and asked, "would you know their names?"

After recovering from his double-take, envoy Alger said yes, as a matter of fact, he did — David, 9, and Frederick III, 18.

Despite all the gags about the General Motors hold on government, The White House garage has come to resemble an automobile sample room. Two Packards were delivered this week to go with the Cadillac, Lincoln, Ford, and Mercuries.

The new Packards are known as "executive limousines" with 140-inch wheelbase, plenty of room for high silk hats and air-conditioning systems.

Most of the White House drivers are army sergeants. Lt. Col. Robert L. Schultz, the President's military aide, obviously thinks all employees at the White House garage have similar rank. He's been calling some of the civilians "sergeant."

Early in the planning for the forthcoming Three Power Conference in Bermuda, the White House ruled out any suggestion that the President travel to the meeting aboard an American warship. The reasoning: A warship is hardly the setting for a conference dealing with peace.

British Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill doesn't have any similar reservations. He's coming aboard the H. M. S. Vanguard, one of the British navy's proudest battleships.

The White House News Photographers Association had the President to dinner late last month.

This month, however, the monthly publication of the association in an open letter to the chief executive says: "Now that we have had dinner together, perhaps we can talk."

The letter says "photographic arrangements at the White House since you moved in haven't been the same." The principal objection deals with Secret Service tactics to stop a photographer from getting a picture of the President at Burning Tree.

The photographer set up his camera across the road from the golf course and a Secret Service man arrived quickly and stood in front of the lens. Result: no picture and an open letter "complaining about the lack of understanding of our problem at the White House."

This undoubtedly comes as a surprise to the President because he has said frequently since entering office that he takes more orders from photographers than any other class of persons, in or out of government.

Truman Library Donors Invited

WASHINGTON (UP)— Friends who contributed $100 or more for the proposed $1,750,000 Harry S. Truman library were invited to lunch today with the former president.

The library lunch was the official reason for Mr. Truman's five-day visit to Washington, his first since Jan. 20. Earlier he was the breakfast guest of freshmen Democrats in the House.

He leaves tomorrow for Philadelphia to make a speech on national defense before the Reserve Officers Association and then will go to New York for lunch with another group of library contributors.

Today's list of 76 guests issued by the library committee was composed largely of persons who held high positions in the Truman administration.

They included former Secretary of State Dean Acheson, former Secretary of Interior Oscar Chapman, former Secretary of Army Frank Pace, Jr., Federal Judge Milton Kronheim, and a host of other one-time Truman appointees and White House employees.

Sponsors said the library drive has netted about $400,000 cash and a similar amount in pledges so far.

Mr. Truman plans to donate part of his family farm near Grandview, Mo., as a site for the library to store his presidential papers and make them available to students of the 1945-52 period in which he served his White House term.

Charm School In Jail Is Halted

DENVER (AP)— A "charm-school" for women prisoners at the Denver county jail got a thumbs down decision from Manager of Safety Edward O. Geer.

But Geer didn't even hear about

DISPERSING MUNICH RIOTERS.—Police use truncheons and anti-riot water hoses to break up a group of demonstrators during riot in Munich, Germany. Ten thousand persons rioted after a protest demonstration in front of the C & A Brennknecht textile shop which had remained open after regular closing hours, despite protests by city merchants and local trade unions. (AP Wirephoto)

WRECKED BY BLAST AND FIRE.—Firemen pour water on the wreckage of a baking company maintenance building in Philadelphia after a tractor-trailer truck struck the building and an explosion and fire followed. Collapse of the building buried parked cars in foreground. Firemen's investigation found no trace of anybody trapped in the building. (AP Wirephoto) it until 20 female inmates had received two hours of instruction in the arts of sitting, walking and standing.

Denver modeling school. Geer said the jail was no place for models. Warden Barry B. Tillman said they weren't models, they were instructors.

Milk In Freezer Keeps Six Weeks

EAST LANSING, Mich. (U.P.)— Whole milk can be kept in the average home freezer for as long as six weeks without losing its flavor, according to Michigan State College researchers.

Two MSC scientists, G.M. Trout and J.C. Boyd stored milk in paper containers in deep freezers for extended periods, varying the temperatures, times and types of milk.

They found that homogenized and pasteurized milk stored at 20 degrees below zero, Fahrenheit, kept its flavor remarkably well at six weeks.

It also was found that milk stored at under 33 degrees above zero in an ordinary refrigerator from two to six weeks keeps well. When temperatures were raised above 33 degrees, however, the milk deteriorated rapidly. The average home refrigerator operates at slightly more than 40 degrees above zero.

One aspect of the study still has Trout and Boyd puzzled—the keeping quality of milk was better in September than in December. The research continues.

Foreign Cars, No Furniture

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—The road to a happily married life turned into a highway of foreign sports car buying — and therefore won an attractive Long Beach woman a divorce.

She told the court her husband preferred cars to furniture. She said he bought four foreign cars, including one costing $4,200, since their 1950 marriage. The only other property the couple had, she said, included a TV set and a tape recorder, "but not a chair to our name." The judge awarded the TV set to her the recorder to her husband.

Boat Trippers' Yachtels On Rise

NEW YORK (U.P.)—The "water gypsies," who used to have to shift pretty much for themselves in their vacation jaunts around the county's waterways will get a lot of attention this summer. Yachtels are on the rise, and streams, lakes and oceans from now on are going to find rapid growth in overnight accommodations. Just as tourist camps and motels were a natural answer to the travel demands of increasing thousands of auto vacationists, so are the yachtels springing up as more and more Americans take to the water," said Wilfred Sechrist, an executive of Martin Motors, and himself an outboard motor enthusiast.

"The increasing availability and use of easy-to-handle, adaptable and inexpensive motors for boats has made waterside lodgings important in the vacation scheme."

The most elegant yachtel at present is in Florida, but there has been considerable pioneering in the field in the TVA lake region of the South where a waterside lodging is to be found about every 35 miles.

Plenty of HUSTLE from the instant you START

(Have you tried T.T. Dynaflo?)

Smart look for the sports-car styled—wire wheel covers, as illustrated, optional at extra cost.

You discover what that means when you take its wheel—when you try it for getaway—when you head it up tall hills—when you maneuver it in traffic.

The instant you want to move, you move.

You can go from standstill to a legal 30 mph quicker than quick. Fact is, this spectacular new TT Dynaflo gives you getaway, plus silence, plus smoothness, in a combination no other automotive transmission in the world can equal.

The instant you want emergency power, it's there—velveted forth from a brilliant Fireball 8 Engine with the highest horsepower and compression ratio ever to power a Buick SPECIAL.

The truth is, the instant you feel this big, broad, thrill-charged beauty in motion, you'll know it for a performance automobile—nimble and eager, responsive as quick-silver.

But exhilarating action is just part of the story here.

There's spacious roominess. There's a magnificent ride. There's superb handling ease. And to cap it all, this Buick delivers for little more than the "low-priced" cars.

Why not drop in on us this week? We'll be mighty proud to have you try the greatest Buick SPECIAL yet built.

*Standard on Roadmaster, optional at extra cost on other Series.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (UP)—A small easing in credit restriction by the Federal Reserve Board today brought the best stock market gain in three weeks.

Volume increased with prices. At the end of the first hour sales totaled 390,000 shares, most since June 10, compared with 220,000 shares in that period yesterday.

Railroad issues featured. Their gains ranged to more than a point in Illinois Central, Southern Railway, and Santa Fe. Atlantic Coast Line and Denver & Rio Grande Western each rose a point. New York Central the active feature of the group, rose a fraction.

Chrysler rose a point to lead a rise in the motors. Firestone and Lee were up a point each in the tires. Oils generally rose fractions with the high priced Texas Pacific Land Trust up two points. Pressure relaxed on yesterday's weak feature Pacific Western Oil.

The other two weak spots of the previous session—American Smelting and Goodell-Sanford—firm-ed. Bethlehem rose nearly a point in a higher steel section. Zenith gained a point in the television.

In the utilities, Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line rose more than a point and Public Electric & Gas preference common featured in turnover helped by an opening block of 36,801 shares.

Constructs First Trench Silo In County

By CONNER EAGLES
District Soil Conservationist

To young Bill McLawhorn who lives and farms below Ayden on Contentinea Creek goes the distinction of planning and constructing the first trench silo in Pitt county. His brothers Charles and R.H. Jr. have taken up the idea and are building silos of their own.

Bill and his father, R.H. McLawhorn, Sr., own a nice herd of utility white face cattle. They have good summer pastures and sew quite a bit of clover crops each fall for winter grazing.

But they never have seemed to gather enough winter feed. Winter feeding has become a problem with them as with other new beef cattle growers.

"Grass, clover and Lespedeza are our most economical cow feed," said Mr. McLawhorn as they discussed the matter, "but when winter comes we never seem to have enough. I think silage is next cheapest feed and the one that fits in best for us."

Bill spoke up: "I heard an engineer over in the soil conservation office say that the farmers up in Warren county built 17 trench silos last year. He spoke about how economical they are to build and how easy it is to fill and get the silage out for feeding. I sort of liked the idea."

The idea sounded good to the elder Mr. McLawhorn, too.

"Let's go up and see some of those trench silos, then," he proposed.

Bill's next move was to talk the matter over with the soil conservationist, S.C. Winchester, county agent, was invited in to the conference. He was for the plan to go to Warren for first hand details from the farmers. All four—Bill, his father, the county agent and the soil conservationist—agreed to make the trip.

They were welcomed by Lonnie Thompson, Warren soil conservationist, who had arranged a tour of seven or eight farms having trench silos.

All the farmers were enthusiastic about their silos. They talked of many advantages, among which were:

- (1) Its economy and ease of construction. Most of the farmers interviewed dug their own trench silos with their farm tractors and scoops or drag pans. It was something the farmer could do himself at a nominal cost.
- (2) Each farmer spoke of the economy and ease of filling his trench silo. No expensive blower is required as in the case of the more costly upright silos. With the trench silo, it is just a matter of dumping the field chopped silage in the trench.
- (3) They spoke of the speed of filling the trench silo where the field chopper was used, also of the economy of filling.
- (4) Each farmer praised the results being obtained in silage feeding when grazing was short in winter. It meant good milk production and the beef cattle wintering better, they said.
- (5) It is a system that we can actually have on our farms without too great a cash outlay they stated time and again.

All of the trench silos inspected were in the side of a clay hill in the pasture. The farmers had selected sites where drainage was good and where in construction one could get in the hill quickly.

SILGO GOES UNDERGROUND—Bill McLawhorn glances up from and inspection of work going forward on his new "underground" silo in which the Pitt county farmer hopes to store several acres of corn soon. The corn will be cut soon after it is mature and packed into the nine-ft. deep trench. Then it will be packed tight and covered with tar paper and packed layers of sawdust. By winter he hopes to have plenty of good silage to assure his cattle of ample "vittles." He is being assisted in the project, first of its kind in this county, by Conner Eagles, United States soil conservationist for this area. The silo is on the McLawhorn farm near Ayden. (Reflector Staff Photo) heavily in favor of the silos, Bill soon called on the Pitt county agent and soil conservationist for help in locating and planning a trench silo on his farm.

First, a suitable clay hill with one side of his pasture, soil borings eight feet deep were made to check the character of the subsoil. It was found to be good clay all the way down. Clay is a must since it has enough crumple resistance to hold the sides firm.

Bill said he wanted capacity enough to feed 80 head of cattle for 100 days during the winter. Figuring that each cow would eat about 35 to 40 pounds or one cubic foot silage each day, one could see that Bill needed 80 cubic feet per day times 100 days or 8,000 cubic feet of silo capacity. This would be about 160 tons capacity.

Usually one thinks of corn yielding 50 bushels per acre, so Bill's corn needs require about 16 acres of silage corn.

He has it growing and late enough so as to be ready to harvest after the tobacco crop is in. The two simply can not be done at the same time, he has decided, because not enough labor is available for both.

A trench was planned with a bottom width of eight feet, an average depth of eight feet, a top width of 12 feet, and an overall length of 100 feet. This would give required 8,000 cubic feet storage space. It is of a size permitting the feeding of one lineal foot daily. That takes care of spoilage if the feeding is too slow.

The bottom has a grade of one foot per 100 feet. This is necessary

Urges Pitt Farmers To Check For Boll Weevils

Pitt County Farm Agent again today urged local farmers to check their cotton fields for boll weevil infestation and take steps to treat fields if they have more than 10 per cent infestation.

S. C. Winchester, county agent, said boll weevil infestation is widespread through the county, and the insects could do grave damage to the growing cotton crop unless preventive measures are taken where infestation is heavy.

Sam Turnipseed, member of the entomology staff of the State College extension service, checked six cotton fields in Pitt yesterday for boll weevil infestation and found infestation ranged from a low of four per cent to a high of 63 per cent in the fields checked.

Three fields checked in the Ayden section, Winchester said, showed infestation of from four to 16 per cent. A field on the Frank Hart farm had 16 per cent infestation; a field of Alex Cuthrell had five per cent infestation.

On the Coy Tripp farm near Winterville, Turnipseed reported 36 per cent infestation, and on the Will House farm in the Bethel section and infestation of five per cent was found. One farm on the Bethel highway near Greenville showed a 53 per cent infestation.

Winchester said the House field which showed five per cent infestation with boll weevil is the only one of the fields checked which has been treated for boll weevil control. Toxaphene was used on the field June 15.

The county agent urged farmers to keep close check on their cotton fields and if 10 per cent or more of cotton squares have been punctured by boll weevils, the field should be treated immediately. Three treatments should be applied to fields at one-week intervals.

Thirty-Six Are 'Home' At Last

ATLANTA (UP)—Thirty-six soldiers whose trip home from Korea was interrupted by death in the icy Utah mountains five months ago were home at last today.

Their flag-draped caskets arrived at the Atlanta General Depot yesterday to be claimed by relatives from Georgia, South Carolina, North Carolina, Alabama, Florida and Tennessee.

Military escorts accompanied the bodies to their home towns today for funeral services with full military honors.

At brief ceremonies here, Lt. Gen. A. R. Bolling, commanding general of the Third Army, Brig. Gen. Frank C. Holbrook, depot commander, and their staffs passed silently from casket to casket in tribute to the GIs.

The soldiers were flying from Seattle to Fort Jackson, S. C., in a C-46 transport plane when it crashed Jan. 7 in high frigid mountains near the Utah-Idaho border.
