Council OK's $472,954 Spending Plans For Year Adopt City Budget

Greenville's new city council last night gave tentative approval to a $472,954.75 budget for operations of the city for the 1954 fiscal year which began Wednesday.

At the same time the city governing board gave the nod to a tax rate of $1.25 per $100 valuation. The new tax rate means the city will collect a tax rate this year 25 cents lower than it did last year, but the situation exists because the 25-cent school maintenance rate the city has been collecting will be collected this year by the county government.

Protection Handicapped By Obstacles FBI Problems Spotlights

By LYLE C. WILSON United Press Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON (UP)—What the FBI was up against during and long after World War II in trying to protect our government against Communists has had another moment of public attention, practically by accident.

Senate investigator Joseph W. McCarty (R-Wis.) had before him Dorey Wilkerson, author, to inquire about a Wilkerson book on racial discrimination in United States education. The book so exaggerated the situation to adjust itself to the Communist Party line that the senator was wondering why the State Department would buy and place it in American overseas information libraries.

That was as far as McCarthy went. The rest of the story is that Wilkerson remained in his government job at the expense of the taxpayers for about a year after the FBI report was submitted. On June 19, 1943, according to the records of Director J. Edgar Hoover of the FBI, Wilkerson quit.

Britain Buzzing Over Princess And 'Romance'

LONDON (UP)—Britain buzzed today with excited and romantic speculation about Princess Margaret and divorced RAF Group Capt. Peter Townsend.

They became the main topic of conversation in Britain after the handsome Townsend was transferred to a post in Belgium while the pretty princess was on an African tour with her mother.

Both the press and public were speculating about the love life of the 22-year-old princess.

Headlines announced Townsend's 'surprise' transfer from Buckingham Palace where he has served as a royal equestrian in waiting, to the post of air attache in Brussels.

Policeman Flags Down Airplane

NEW YORK (UP)—Police Sgt. Kenneth Johnston flagged down a law violator Thursday—200 feet off the ground.

The offender was Joel D. Rabin, 23, who was flying a light plane too low over the city. Johnston pursued him in a helicopter and forced him to land.

Rabin got the first air traffic ticket since the police department began flying regular beats in helicopters a week ago.

Three-D Movie Equipment Now Being Installed

Technical experts and engineers are installing the new three-dimensional motion picture equipment in the Pitt Theater in Greenville.

Manager Gordon Sturm said the new equipment will be finished in time for the showing of three dimensional full length pictures by July 12-15. The new equipment consists of a new enlarged polarized screen, new projection lamps, new generator and rectifier to handle the increased power necessary, and new and larger magazines on the projectors. The new lamps will quadruple the light thrown on the screen.

The manager said the first new three-dimensional feature will be "The House of Wax."

"It will have theater patrons jumping from their seats as objects seem to come directly at them," Sturm stated.

Kiwanian Gift To Park Project

President Leo W. Jenkins announced today that the Greenville Kiwanis Club's Underprivileged Child Committee had authorized a donation of $100 to the South Greenville Recreation Park project.

Jenkins said the donation was in line with the club's policy of assisting community projects for the public good. He praised the committee of Negroes raising funds for the park and said the project is worthy of the best support.

Funds dispensed by the Kiwanis Club for community activities are derived from the minstrel and folies shows put on at the college by Eli Bloom each year.

Growth Still Evident In Our Cities

North Carolina is still building, its industrial development is progressing, and its cities are growing.

According to statistics released for the month of May by the State Labor Department, building permits issued by 28 cities over 10,000 population totaled more than $10,500,000.

In spite of the fact the building permits listed for May were only half as large as those issued in April — when a single permit for a 10 million dollar plant was issued — it is interesting to note the kind of building taking place in the 28 cities in the survey.

About half the total value of permits issued for the month were for 508 private dwellings, 45 duplexes and 12 apartment buildings totaling $5,019,782. While the non-residential building came to only $3.6 million, permits included 10 factory buildings and 11 office buildings in addition to schools, public utility structures, churches, and numerous other buildings.

Among the 28 cities listed, Greenville ranked 13th in the value of building permits issued for this month, with permits totaling $221,200.

Another Blow To

The Nation's Pocketbook

Uncle Sam suffered another blow in the pocket book when all the bills were in and the deficit for fiscal year 1953 mounted to $9.4 billion dollars.

The deficit — more than double the deficit last year — mounted to the highest peak in any year except those of World Wars I and II. And the deficit came in a year which saw the federal government collect more money in taxes than in any other year in the history of the nation.

Surely the situation must make the people of the nation as well as the governing officials realize that the United States must make greater efforts than ever to bring its spending in line with its revenue. Even now, it is likely the stratosphere ceiling of $275 billion clamped by Congress on the national debt will have to be raised in the coming fiscal year in order that the government may pay its bills.

Have all the non-essential items been cut from the budget for this year of 1954?

Have the members of the administration who map budget requests sought to cut the budget to the bone? Have members of Congress who enact the budget into law realized the seriousness of the fiscal situation which the United States faces?

No individual, no nation can go on indefinitely spending itself into debt and expect to remain solvent. The need for economy and sound business in the federal government needs to be emphasized now as much as in any other period in the nation's history.

Strength for the Day

THE RIGHT TO GROW
If you will look in Webster's Unabridged Dictionary under the word "liberty," you will find yourself referred to another word, "liberal." There you read that the words "liberal" and "liberty" go back through the Anglo Saxon, the French, the Latin, the Greek into the ancient Sanskrit, the basic Aryan language, parent of many of the languages spoken today. This word "liberty" derives ultimately from a Sanskrit word which means "to grow up." Liberty, therefore is the opportunity to grow up.

That is why we are making such a fuss about communism today. Communism would put a stop to growth and make the human race, morally, and intellectually, and eventually physically, mere pigmies. The English-speaking people hold their heads high, as they think upon their privileges of political and social liberty. And they should. We read in the Bible that "The Lord is that Spirit, and where the Spirit of the Lord is, there is liberty."

National Whirligig

U. S. Leadership Opportunity

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON—The current parliamentary stagnation in both Britain and France gives Dwight D. Eisenhower the chance to become the generalissimo and director of Western strategy against Russia in a way that not even F.D.R. enjoyed after the defeat of Hitler, or Truman after the conquest of Japan.

With Sir Winston Churchill in temporary retirement and Premier Joseph Laniel heading a shaky, stopgap government in France, the American President has it in his power to devise new and bolder tactics in the cold war, and to insist upon their adoption by our lackadaisical allies overseas.

IKE READY TO ASSERT HIMSELF—Ike has been advised by several aggressively minded senators, by experts in the State Department and by spokesmen for several foreign groups to assert himself more positively during this interim. It is possible that he may do so in a nationwide address or in a special message to Congress during discussion of the pending foreign aid bill.

Eisenhower has been irked by the Europeans' insistence on making a deal with the Reds, which he regards as appeasement. Whereas he feels that now is the time to apply continuing pressure around the rim of the Communist Empire, in view of the recent riots, they still think in terms of a peaceful settlement.

AIMS FOR TIGHTER ENFORCEMENT—Washington had been preparing for the new and second phase of the cold war even before the anti-Russian outbreaks coincided with Churchill's and Eden's illnesses, and the crisis in Paris.

The White House had requested larger appropriations for economic and military assistance to West Germany, the Mediterranean area, the Middle East and Indo-China. Ike aims to draw tighter the noose of encirclement.

He has, however, met resistance from London and Paris, which feared to provoke Moscow. Indeed, the Bermuda meeting would have developed into a showdown between these conflicting viewpoints. Now, as never before, Ike can climb into the driver's seat, if he dares.

RESPONSIBILITIES HEAVIER—Eisenhower's responsibility becomes all the heavier, as he appears to realize, because of his campaign condemnation of his predecessors' surrenders to the Kremlin at Yalta and Potsdam. But Roosevelt and Truman were not then in the position that he is for defying and challenging Russia, and for forcing our Allies to like it.

F.D.R. gave concessions in the Far East to Stalin at Yalta in return for the latter's promise to scrap his treaty with Japan and attack her after Germany's defeat. Mistakenly, the late President thought that Russian reinforcement would be needed. Truman, at Potsdam, felt that he had to reject that agreement. Then, too, both believed in Stalin's pledges of postwar cooperation.

OPPORTUNITY TO EXHIBIT LEADERSHIP—But Ike has no illusions on the score of Communist treachery and sinister purposes. Finally, he has no awe of Red might, and never did, even before recent disclosures of internal weaknesses. He has been proved more correct in his estimates than Churchill or his European colleagues.

In assuming this new role and seizing the opportunity, President Eisenhower will exhibit the traits which undoubtedly led millions to vote for him last fall—courage, determination and leadership in the war between dictatorship and democracy. Largely due to his domestic difficulties, there has been some concern over the degree of his political ruggedness.

TINKLING CHANDELLER—Vice-President Nixon has a unique reason for appreciating the trust and responsibility which Eisenhower places in him. The beautiful crystal chandelier in his office reminds him of the do-nothing character of his post every time it tinkles.

As the V.P. tells the story, the chandelier, which was brought from France by Thomas Jefferson, once hung in the Presidential study. Its tinkling disturbed F.D.R. and he ordered that it be removed. When an aide asked where it should be placed, Roosevelt replied:

"Put it in the Vice-President's office. He has nothing to do. It will keep him awake."

F.D.R.'s three number two men—Garner, Wallace, Truman—never needed anything to keep them awake!

Two Races That

Must Not Be Lost

The race for atomic weapons is one race the United States can't afford to lose.

Yet Gordon Dean, retiring chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, asserted in his retirement address that Russia "has the capacity to win" the atomic race if the United States lets down its efforts.

The United States has been engaged in many international races — apparent and obscure — in the past, and through the farsightedness of its leaders and its citizens has managed to win many of these races.

True, the United States can not afford to lose the race for atomic arms; but just as important, it can not afford to lose the race for the application of atomic energy to industrial, medical, scientific and other uses.

This nation won the race of building an industrial empire through the system of free enterprise. It outstripped other nations in the race to harness electric power upon which industry has been built. It won the race of mass production. It won the race of industry, science, medicine and economics which has made the United States the most wealthy nation in the world and given its people the highest living standards in the world.

If the position is to be maintained in the atomic age which is now passing from the twilight stage to sunrise of a new day, the United States must look beyond atomic weapons in the form of bombs and artillery shells.

The field of atomic science and nuclear energy development must be looked upon as the foundation upon which new and greater industry will be built, and the means through better living and higher living standards can be brought about.

Somebody Told Me . . .

Notes On South Greenville Park

Tuesday night I interviewed John Bizzell, chairman of the Negro South Greenville Park Fund, for the latest information on the drive. The interview was tape recorded for my weekly radio show (WGTC, each Thursday, 7:15 p.m.) and will be broadcast July 9th.

In order to be prepared, John had written some notes. His manner of expression was so impressive that I asked his permission to print part of his story.

"Since I have been appointed commissioner of recreation for our people there has been one question asked nearly every day by someone: Why haven't we had a recreation program in the past, or what has happened to recreation for our children?"

"The only way we can solve this problem now is to work for what you want and if we do I'm sure we'll soon have a park just like the Elm Street park. If people worked as much as they talked about things, South Greenville Park could be built almost overnight.

"One June 8th we set out to raise $3,000. The first week of the campaign we raised $518, the second week $520.80, the third week $437.87, for a total of $1,476.67. This is the last week that aid will be asked from the merchants, but a house-to-house campaign will go on.

"July 4th is Independence Day, a day that will be celebrated all over America because of the liberty and freedom it brought, so let's celebrate at the South Greenville Park by letting our hammers, saws, axes, rakes and tools ring free.

"Every afternoon after 4:30 you'll find us working at the park. Wednesday afternoon we start at 2:30. If you are coming out to help us bring your tools. Let's join in and lend a hand to the park. We owe it to our children.

"Let's put our nickels, dimes, quarters and dollars together and go over the top this week. It can be done, yes, we will raise the $3,000 with God's help."

You can see that with a leader with the inspiration that John Bizzell has, the South Greenville Park Fund will go over the top. But wouldn't you like to lend a hand in pushing it over? Send your contribution, no matter how large or small, to:

South Greenville Park, 411 Nash Street, Greenville, N. C. And I thank you.

What Other Editors Are Thinking

SHOULD ACT PROMPTLY

(Kinston-Free Press)

The situation relative to the pending appointment of a new U. S. Senator to fill the unexpired term of the late Senator Willis Smith is one that demands as much promptness as possible, due to the needs of the Nation, the State and the intense pressures that are being built up by friends of the various candidates who would like to have the post.

Governor William B. Umstead's health is such as to give pause to even the most callous of all the office-seekers and their backers.

Governor Umstead, due to his delicate health and the need to rest daily, has been slow in making state appointments. He has come up with some excellent ones and citizens generally have been pleased with his efforts in this important matter of making state appointments.

But the U. S. Senate post falls in a different category. None knows better than the Governor, who was himself an appointee to the Senate who failed to cope with the opposition at the next election after his appointment during the administration of Governor Gregg Cherry, that the appointee must be an outstanding man if he is to have a chance in the 1954 election. He also knows that the rigorous routine of the Senate demands good health and a better than average constitution for the appointee.

More than organizational politics is involved in this appointment. As has already been pointed out on this page this week by Raleigh Correspondent Lynn Nisbett, the appointment can well change the political history for North Carolina. It ought to be an outstanding appointment. It ought to rank above party factionalism and to take cognizance of the great need of North Carolina for stable and permanent leadership in the Senate.

The task presents Governor Umstead with his greatest challenge. His heavy pressures can ever further endanger his health and shorten his own term in office. But we believe he recognizes the need for prompt action and for an appointment that will make of his own administration a lasting contribution to Tarheel democracy and public service.

made for this meeting for several months the department has been running on momentum, but the momentum is slowing down. It would seem that in their zeal to make sure that all of Governor Scott's appointees on the board were fired as of June 30, the members of the Legislature set up a road block against progressive action by anybody.

Swearing In Of Judges A Truly Impressive Ceremony

Around Capitol Square

By LYNN NISBETT

JUDGES — The oaths administered by Chief Justice William A. Devin to six special and one emergency Superior Court judges in the hall of the House of Representatives Wednesday were very impressive. The extra admissions given by Governor Umstead to his appointees enhanced the serious dignity of the occasion. The Governor was especially complimentary of the records made by Judges George Patton and Susie Sharp, reappointed. New special judges were Francis Clark of Charlotte, Grover Martin of Smithfield, Malcolm Paul of Washington and Lee Whitmire of Hendersonville. Howard Hubbard of Clinton asked for 60 days in which to complete private legal matters, and he will take the oath on September 1. Judge Sumner Burgwyn was commissioner an emergency judge after 17 years on the bench. Governor Umstead personally handed each of the jurists the commissions which he had signed.

HUMOR — Impressive as was the formal ceremony there was some humorous situation. After the judges had all been sworn in, Governor Umstead rose to thank the people for coming and with obvious purpose of closing the meeting, someone reminded him that Eugene Shaw also was scheduled to take a new oath as commissioner of revenue. "Good gracious," said the Governor, "we were about to leave off the man who collects the money to pay the judges." Chief Justice Devin quipped: "That is a most important item."

FEES — The judicial oath was so specific and emphatic about prohibiting the judges from accepting any fees or gifts or emoluments of any kind, your reporter was minded to ask the attorney general if they would be permitted to collect fees previously earned but not yet paid. Of course they will, he said. A bystander interjected the observation that quite likely they would have little difficulty in collecting these earned fees. Chances are that clients and associated lawyers will be eager to pay up so that when they have cases before the new judges there will be no embarrassing account.

THIRTEEN — At his press conference Monday Governor Umstead digressed to say he had no fear of the bad luck allegedly connected with the number 13. He was born on the 13th and several other important events in his experience occurred on that date. Judge Burgwyn confessed a bit of superstition about the unlucky number. Asked by a reporter how many times he had taken an oath as a public official he started to list them, beginning with service in the General Assembly more than 25 years ago. He got four times in the Legislature, nine times as Superior Court judge, and stopped up short. "That makes 13," he said, "and it won't do. Let me see now. Yes, there was one more. I was sworn in as mayor of Jackson, just after I got out of law school. That makes 14, so it's all right." The judge added that he might have to take some other public oaths, but doubted it. His commission as emergency judge is for life.

C.E.D. — Most of the talk around the square during the past two days has dealt with Governor Umstead's failure to name a board of conservation and development by July 1. The question was whether the old board could legally function after midnight of June 30, in view of the very specific language of the 1953 act terminating tenure at that hour. The usual language of the statutes is that a term begins on such and such date and continues for a specified time and until successors are named and qualified. No such carry over provision was included in the 1953 act, although it was added with respect to tenure of those members whom the Governor should appoint to the CAD board.

CARRY-OVER — Most capital square lawyers who expressed an opinion held that since midnight Tuesday there has been no CAD board. Attorney General Harry McMullan, the only lawyer whose opinion has controlling authority, held that despite the very specific language of the special act, the general rule of continuing tenure applied to board members.

STANDSTILL — Meanwhile the conservation and development department is making time, with nobody willing to assume authority — which might be questioned — for planning a program of activities. The statutes require that the main meeting of the year be held at Morehead City in July, and no arrangements have been

Business Today

A Year Of Mergers

This is a year of mergers. Almost every day brings news of a wedding of two large companies or the acquisition of one by another, six such unions were announced in a single day last week.

The impression has been created that most of these mergers are brought about by tax considerations. It is true that the carry-back provisions of the tax laws often make it advantageous for one corporation to merge with another, and that the moderate capital-gains rate is often an inducement for one company to sell out.

But these tax-generated sales, because they seem to point up some deficiencies in the tax laws, get proportionately more attention than other mergers. And there are many other reasons for uniting two firms.

Efforts to round out lines of products have been a factor in a large number of recent acquisitions. A company manufacturing, say twenty products in the appliance field may calculate that if it had a full line, perhaps fifty products, it could market it through its present channels of distribution at little extra cost.

Furthermore, with uncertainties ahead, a company will be in a stronger position with fifty instead of twenty products because if sales of some products drop, sales of others may hold up or even increase. A company could, of course, add thirty new products, but it would take time and engineering and testing costs. A merger can be quicker and cheaper.

Another prime cause of mergers is the basic business idea of reducing costs. Two consolidated companies may combine to bring the total sales of each while eliminating salaries of one set of executives and reducing total costs of selling, shipping, purchasing, etc.

A few mergers have been made to gain highly skilled personnel, such as some outstanding executives and engineers. A few more have been brought about to acquire elements of better distribution, such as a good network of dealers or a bang-up sales organization. Higher transportation rates also have sparked mergers. An Eastern company acquiring a Western company capable of making the same products (or vice versa) can materially reduce both incoming and outgoing freight bills.

Uncertainty over sales patterns after Korea has brought about some mergers and probably will bring many more. Owners of postwar firms who have never been through a period when hard work was necessary to make sales may be inclined to listen when someone whispers, "Wanna merge?"

MONEY TALKS — SO DO SALESMEN — Teaser campaigns can sometimes have unexpected results. As a build-up for a salesman's meeting, Minneapolis-Honeywell sent each of its 186 heating control salesmen a series of three letters, each containing a dollar bill. The first, from Paris, Ky., was in French; the second, from Toledo, O., was in Spanish and the third, from Rome, N.Y., was in Italian. The letters were brief, each saying in effect, "Money talks."

One salesman's wife suspected a counterfeiting plot and burned the money. Another salesman turned his letters over to the Better Business Bureau. Still another, noting the pink paper of the French note, turned it over to the FBI.

At this point the office employees broke into applause.

"Now, are there any questions?" asked Wilbur.

"Yes," said a stenographer. "Isn't one of your eyes discolored, Mr. Peeble? Did you meet with an accident?"

"It isn't discolored," said Wilbur, drawing a deep breath. "It's black eye. No, I didn't bump into a door in the dark. I got it from a wall."

"This waiter spilled a plate of soup on my white dinner jacket. When I got ready to leave the whole hotel staff stood there in line with their hands out for tips. Well, I went down the line putting $5 bills in this forest of palms until I came to the waiter. Just as a joke, I put in his hand the $1.50 bill the cleaners sent me for taking the soup out of my jacket."

"Well, he didn't think it was funny. And one word led to another. I was doing all right at first. I had my left thumb caught in his teeth and was swinging with my right, when my foot slipped. When I came to, I had this black eye. Any more questions? If not, let's consider my vacation a closed matter. I would like to forget it, too."

The group of listeners applauded Wilbur again, then went back to their desks, shaking their heads at the memory of his terrible ordeal. A few moments later Wilbur was summoned into the boss's office.

"Peeble," said Mr. McMumble. "I think you had better take a week off to rest up from your vacation. But do me a favor, will you? Spend it at home."

"Why?" asked Wilbur.

"Well," said his boss, "if you come back and scare those people out there with another hard luck story, they will want me to pay them double time even to take a vacation."

Charge Landlord Brutally Beat Boys With Wrench

MIAMI (UP)—A "shantytown" landlord with a previous record of beating children was accused today of attacking three small boys with a steel lug wrench and leaving them bloody from gaping head wounds. Sheriff's deputies filed charges of suspicion of aggravated assault against H. U. (Curley) Glover, about 50. Neighbors accused him of gashing the scalps of Ed Chapman, 9, Eddie Bland, 10, and Dinnie Pulham, 8, who were sent to Jackson Memorial Hospital for stitches yesterday and then discharged. Police Sgt. Don March said Chapman and Pulham were bloody. Of Bland, he said, "You could hardly see the boy's face for the blood streaming down it." The deputies said no motive had been more than vaguely established except for neighbors' statements that Glover apparently believed the youngsters had broken a window in one of Glover's "shantytown" houses. The boys denied they had. Authorities said this was the third similar charge in three years for Glover, who owns a populous colony of shacks near here called "Curleyville." He was arrested in 1950 for shooting at one boy and in 1951 for booby-trapping an empty shack with dynamite that hurt two boys. Mrs. Gaynor Whitfield told deputies the three boys yesterday had just pedaled their bicycles into the Chapman yard next door when Glover brandished a tire wrench and yelled for them to get into his car. She told the deputies the boys ran but Glover caught Pulham and Chapman, knocked them to the ground with blows on their heads, and then caught the fleeing Bland boy and pounded him on the head and in the face with both the wrench and his hands. Glover later told a reporter who asked about the alleged attack, "I had to hit them before they hit me." Asked if he liked children, Glover replied, "Yeah, I like kids." Authorities said that the 1950 case was dropped when the boy's father failed to press the charge. POLICEMAN SOUGHT BENTONINGTON, Vt. (UP)—Policeman August C. Kelson, pushing to answer an emergency call by Police Chief Francis J. Cone, became the object of a police hunt himself. In the excitement, Kelson inadvertently had taken a woman's automobile which was of the same color, year and make as the chief's.

Rambling

WITH LANG

By MELVIN LANG

The Yankees finally did it yesterday. With the entire sports world staring them in the face, Casey Stengel and the New York club came through with their first victory in the last ten starts.

Casey was threatened with the possibility of having the second longest losing streak in the history of the American League team in New York. Consequently, the entire outfit was on its toes and cashed in on all of the breaks.

Stengel manipulated his lineup once again, and was the winner. Mickey Mantle, booted with a lame leg, was on the bench, with Irv Noren playing in centerfield. Rookie Don Bollweg took over first place ahead of veteran Johnny Mize and Joe Collins.

Bollweg came through with a homerun with two men on to give the Yankees the lead midway of the contest.

But it was the old-timers that came through with the game winning runs in the tenth inning. A great deal of print has been used to criticize Mize because of his age and his bulk, but when the chips are down it would be harder to find anyone more valuable to the Yankees.

Mize doubled in Yogi Berra in the tenth yesterday to produce the winning tally for New York, and thereby partially earned his huge pinch-hitter's salary.

The United States domination in English tournaments continued yesterday as Vic Seixas defeated Australia's Mervyn Cose to move into the finals of the men's singles at Wimbledon.

Rulanes, Autoists Gain Wins In Play Last Night

Ford-O-Matics defeated the Red Men in the opening game of last night's Pony League twinnings by a score of 10-9.

The Ford-O-Matics scored a single run in the top of the seventh to take their win. Donald Wilkerson reached base on an error and Thompson tied off. Charles Rulane walked, and Shelby Hunt grounded out, with Wilkerson scoring in the procession of events.

Hudson Miller hurled three-hit ball in the second game to lead the Rulanes to an easy 7-1 victory over Bright Leaf.

First Game: Ford-O-Matics 311 022 1-10 7; Red Men 112 041 0-9 8.

Second Game: Rulanes 103 021 0-7 10; Bright Leaf 090 000 1-1 3.

'Black Friday' In PGA Tourney

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (UP)—It was "Black Friday" in the PGA golf tournament today as Slammin' Sammy Snead, seeking his fourth title, led 63 other survivors into the first of two sudden death 18-hole match play rounds.

Snead appeared to have an easy first round match as he went out against Benjie Adams of Okla., at 50 one of the two oldest men in the field. But you never know on "Black Friday," traditionally the toughest day of the tournament.

For by sundown today the 64 who started out this morning will be narrowed to a select 16. After that, the cream usually comes to the top as the distance is extended to 36-hole matches daily.

Other feature matches in the morning first round were: Lew Worsham vs. Dave Douglas; Defending champ Jim Turnesa vs. a gainst Max Evans; Johnny Palmer against threatening Jack Groat; Cary Middlecoff vs. Jerry Barber; Claude Harmon against Ted Kroll, and Chick Harbert vs. Pete Cooper.

In the qualifying rounds, Palmer tied the 36-hole record established by Jim Ferrier and previously tied by Skip Alexander when he carded his eight-under-par 134.

Three strokes behind Palmer came Chandler Harper the 1950 champion who added a 69 to his first round 68. Another stroke back was Cooper with 69 for each round.

Vic Ghezzi, the 73rd leader with a 66, slipped to 73 for a 139 and fourth place.

Darkness

The Moose and Elks battled to a 8-8 stalemate in nine innings yesterday before their game was called because of darkness.

Merrill Bynum pitched the entire game for the Elks, allowing only five hits. Bynum fanned 17 men in the lengthened contest.

The Moose collected three runs in the sixth inning to knot the score and force it into extra innings. Weak infield play kept Bynum in constant trouble.

A replay of the game will be staged later.

New York Breaks Losing Streak On Double By Mize; Beats Boston, 5-3

By CARL LUNDQUIST United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP)—Casey Stengel, the great baseball gag man switched from "gag rule" today to his own special brand of "gag humor" and all it took was for the Yankees finally to win a ball game.

They ended their nine-game reverse streak in the 10th inning with a 5-3 victory at Boston Thursday, after which Stengel lifted his clubhouse ban and decided to talk again.

"Whadda va think this is, the World Series?" he asked, greeting a photographer.

"What's all the excitement about, just because we win one ball game?"

It wasn't exactly Stengel at his funniest, even with gestures, but at least the dressing room was open to writers again, even though it wasn't before the Yankees won.

The victory put the Yankees six games in front of the runner-up Indians, who lost 4-2 at Detroit. It came when Johnny Mize hit a pinch double that scored Yogi Berra from third and gave Vic Raschi his eighth straight victory over the Red Sox.

Don Bollweg, whose three-run homer had put the Yankees ahead 3-2 led off the winning inning with a single but came to grief when he tried to come home on a double by Yogi Berra. Berra went to third as Bollweg was tagged out, then scored on the Mize hit. Billy Martin delivered pinch runner Bill Renna with a second run that wasn't needed. Raschi gave up six runs in winning his sixth game and struck out seven. The most troublesome blow was a ninth inning homer by George Kell, which tied the score.

Steve Gromek of Detroit bit the hand that used to feed him when he turned on his old Cleveland teammates and retarded their pennant progress with a seven-hit victory. Don Lund with a two-run homer supplied the margin of victory and Walt Droppo drove in the other two runs earlier with a single. Al Rosen homered for Cleveland.

In the National League, top-dog Brooklyn kept rolling with an 8-0 victory over the Phillies and moved a game and a half ahead of Milwaukee, which suffered a 3-1 defeat to Cincinnati.

The only other American League game, between Washington and Philadelphia, was rained out.

Carl Erskine came through with his first complete game in a month, holding the Phillies to seven hits and never gave up more than one in any inning while the Dodgers made efficient use of the eight they obtained.

Bud Podbielan pitched five-hit ball to gain his fifth victory in a home run battle at Milwaukee in which Ted Kluszewski of Cincinnati tied Ed Mathews of the Braves for the major league lead when he hit his 23rd of the season with Bobby Adams on base to give the right hander a lead he never relinquished. Del Crandall, who collected three of Milwaukee's five hits, homered in the seventh, but Gus Bell countered that with a final homer for Cincy in the ninth.

Wimbledon Finals Set For Today; Seixas Is Favored

WIMBLEDON, England (UP)—Vic Seixas of Philadelphia was favored to defeat colorful, unseeded Kurt Nielsen of Denmark today and win his first Wimbledon tennis championship.

A crowd of 15,000 is expected to see second-seeded Seixas, who never before advanced past the semi-final round at Wimbledon, halt Nielsen's spectacular string of three upsets on the famed center court.

Seixas was the logical favorite because of his seeding, and his background of seasoned match play.

Nielsen, who scored successive upset victories over fifth-seeded Gardner Mulloy, first-seeded Ken Rosewall of Australia and fourth-seeded Jaroslav Drobný of Egypt to reach the title round, seems outgunned but has risen repeatedly to the occasion. He, too, will be seeking his first Wimbledon crown.

Seixas, 29, eliminated Australia's Mervyn Cose, 6-4 10-12, 9-11, 6-4, 6-3, in the semi-final round. He handled Rose's southpaw drives beautifully, driving to the net for his killing volleys in a brilliant exhibition.

Today's center-court program opens with a women's doubles semifinal match between first-seeded Shirley Fry of Akron, O., and Doris Hart of Coral Gables, Fla., and Britain's Helen Fletcher and Jean Rinkel-Quertier.

Maureen Connolly of San Diego, Calif., and Julia Sampson of San Marino, Calif., meet Britain's Angela Mortimer and Ann Shillock in the other women's semi-final match.

George Worthington of New Zealand and Pat Ward of Great Britain meet Enrique Mores of Argentina and Miss Fry, and Seixas and Miss Hart oppose Lewis Head of Australia and Miss Sampson in the mixed doubles semifinals.

THE DAILY REFLECTOR

Righteousness and Justice of God

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Romans 1-3.

When Paul wrote his epistle to the Romans he had never been to Rome, but he writes affectionately, "To all that are in Rome, beloved of God, called to be saints, grace to you and peace."

Paul writes the Romans that he remembers them in his prayers, asking God if he might go to Rome to visit them, "For I long to see you that I may impart unto you some spiritual gifts."

Paul rebukes men who, professing to worship God, made images "like corruptible man, and to birds, and fourfooted beasts and creeping things," worshiping the creature more than the Creator.

"Is God the God of the Jews only?" Paul asks. He is the God of all, "for all have sinned," but all can be saved by faith that Jesus died for our sins. MEMORY VERSE—Psalm 145:9.

Righteousness and Justice of God

ALL ARE SINNERS, PAUL WRITES, BUT GOD IS JUST AND MERCIFUL.

Scripture—Romans 1-3.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
AT THE TIME Paul wrote his epistle to the Romans, he had never been in Rome, that great world city in Italy. He knew, however, that there were Christians there, although we are not told who founded the church in Rome.

Hearing of the good people in this great city, Paul writes his great epistle to them. We may suppose that when Paul was taken to Rome (alas, in chains!) many of these people came to see him.

When we are separated from those we love or those we admire greatly, we write letters to them. Paul, who, by this time was undoubtedly considered the greatest servant of God in that generation, wrote to the members of the different churches in terms of affection and thanks for their many virtues, writing also as a shepherd to his flock, giving encouragement, but also rebuke and advice as to their actions, as a mother or father might to a son or daughter who was away from home.

In previous lessons we have followed Paul on his missionary journeys. He felt he should go to were neither Romans nor Greeks.) "For I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ: for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth; to the Jew first, and also to the Gentiles."

From his warm and admiring greetings to the Romans, Paul then warns them against sinning in what has been called the most terrible catalogue of sins to be found anywhere in the Scriptures. Canon Liddon, the English divine, classifies the sins as: those relating to impurity of life; 21 named sins, the first four referring to governing forms of evil, the next eight to antisocial sins, beginning with envy, sins of self-exaltation, etc., and ending with the unmerciful. Even those who considered themselves Christians, if they did not practice such sins themselves, at least condoned them in others.

"Because that when they knew God, they glorified Him not as God... but became vain in their imaginations, and their foolish hearts were darkened. Professing themselves to be wise, they became fools."

These made images of men, birds, beasts or even creeping things, and worshiped them, "and

The Golden Text

Paul's epistle to the Romans.

this greatest of cities, but had been prevented. He had prayed to God to grant him this privilege, he tells the Roman Christians, as he addresses them affectionately and admiringly as "Beloved of God, called to be saints; Grace to you and peace from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ."

Many of our young people have the experience of sending and receiving letters through the World Friendship organization. They may never be able to go abroad to the lands to which their missives are sent and answers come, but they learn something about conditions of living in those countries through the correspondence, and their horizons are broadened through the experience, and a feeling of warmth and comradeship is established, which is good for them and for the world.

"First, I thank my God through Jesus Christ for you all, that your faith is spoken of throughout the whole world," Paul writes. "For I long to see you, that I may impart unto you some spiritual gift, to the end ye may be established."

Humbly Paul writes, "I am debtor both to the Greeks, and to the Barbarians, both to the wise, and to the unwise." "The word 'Barbarians' seems at this time to have been applied to all who served the creature more than the Creator."

Again, as in lessons just studied, Paul refers to the Law of Moses for the Jews and insists that becoming as a Jew will not save anyone. "Is He the God of the Jews? Is He not also of the Gentiles? Yes, of the Gentiles also."

All have sinned, and those sins are just as manifest in our world as they were in the time in which Paul preached. Read this: "With their tongues they have used deceit;... whose mouth is full of cursing and bitterness; their feet are swift to shed blood; destruction and misery are in their ways; and the way of peace have they not known; there is no fear of God before their eyes."

Even little children have these sins brought home to them in accounts of killings, acts of cruelty, battles and the threats of destruction that they hear about.

How can we be saved from wickedness? If the teacher can impress upon even the little ones, as well as the older class members, to read or to listen to readings from the Bible and to determine to follow Christ's teachings, much good might be accomplished.

Christ died for our sins. Faith in Him can still save the world. Based on copyrighted outlines produced by the Division of Christian Education, National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U.S.A., and used by permission. Distributed by King Features Syndicate.

Child Is Struck By Passing Auto

Nancy Carroll Anderson, age 4, of 509 East 9th Street, was injured last night when she ran from behind a parked car into the path of an oncoming auto.

She was struck when the driver failed to see the child until he was too close to be able to stop.

Driver of the car which hit the child was Charles E. Truelove, 108 B Street, Greenville.

The child was treated at Pitt Memorial Hospital for head injuries and bruises on the body.

Several stitches were required to close a laceration in the child's scalp.

Investigating officer Lt. Roy Harris reported that no charges were brought against the driver. Harris said that the child was playing with some other children and ran from the group across the street into the path of the car.

Parched City Of Yuma Gets Half Of Water Needs

YUMA, Ariz. (UP)—Yuma's water supply struggled from zero to half strength today and a critical shortage threatened residents of the parched desert city.

The water main serving this city of 20,000 persons broke Thursday and, for about seven hours and 15 minutes, the town's water taps were bone dry. The temperature hit 115 degrees during that time.

Then, late Thursday night, repair crews mended the main. However, three of the four pumps that usually supply the city were still flooded and the remaining pump could supply only half of Yuma's usual needs.

City officials and spokesmen for the Arizona Public Service Company warned residents to conserve water or face severe rationing.

They feared the skimpy water resources would not be enough in case of a bad fire.

Forecast 290 Highway Fatalities Over Holiday

The National Safety Council said today that 290 persons will probably be killed in traffic accidents during the Fourth of July holiday.

About 40,000,000 Americans will flock to the highway during the summer's first big holiday weekend, the Council estimated.

Railroads, airlines and bus lines were also expected to be jammed.

Council President Ned M. Dearborn pleaded with holiday motorists not to drive too fast.

"Speed is the principal factor in serious accidents," he said.

"It works two ways—gives you less time and less control in an accident situation, and greatly increases the chance of death or serious injury if an accident does happen."

The U. S. Weather Bureau said Independence Day will be a typical summer day in most of the nation.

Warm weather was forecast for most parts of the South and south central Plains areas, and the North and Middle Atlantic states were promised cooler, less humid weather.

Scattered thundershowers were predicted in the late afternoon or evening for the southern states and the central and northern Great Plains regions.

The Safety Council's 290 highway death prediction fell below the 356 persons who were killed in traffic accidents during last year's July 4 holiday.

However, that holiday covered three days. This year's starts at 6 p. m. tonight and lasts until midnight Sunday.

Fireworks were not expected to claim many lives, since they are strictly controlled in most communities and banned outright in 27 states. Only two persons died of fireworks during last year's holiday.

However, it was expected drowning deaths would increase as hot summer weather drove vacationers to beaches and swimming pools. During last year's holiday 176 drowning deaths were reported.

Scour Woodland For Armed Man

SYLVA, N. C. (UP)—Twenty men scoured miles of thicketed slopes and gulches in a futile, night-long hunt for heavily-armed Dennis Woods, 67, who authorities said shot and killed a sheriff who went to an outpost to arrest him.

"He's very dangerous," said Deputy U. S. Marshal Hugh Stevens. "He's got a shotgun loaded with double-O buckshot, he's got plenty of mountain country to roam around in and he knows it like the back of his hand."

Stevens said Woods popped up "right there under our noses" yesterday during the arresting party's excursion to the Wolf Mountain settlement 15 miles north of here, and fired a blast which killed Sheriff Griffith C. Middleton.

Woods, with a record of "at least six or seven" previous shootings on his record and now officially declared an "outlaw" by Judge D. K. Moore, had seemingly vanished into the vast surrounding area "filled with nothing but mountains."

The posses of deputies, patrolmen and other officers sealed off with road blocks and penetrated with hounds as much as they could of the remote section of national forest near the Blue Ridge Parkway.

Stevens said he Sheriff Middleton, Deputy Frank Allen and highway patrolman John Sides set out yesterday afternoon with warrants for Woods and Otto McCall both charged with assault and drunkenness after they had terrorized the community.

"We caught McCall," he said. "I started back with Allen to bring McCall in and just a minute later Woods shot Middleton in the heart and started running."

Funeral services will be held at the home in Ayden Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Rev. Charles Craddock, Free Will Baptist minister of Ayden, will officiate. Burial will be in the Ayden cemetery.

Mr. Lang was a merchant and was active in community affairs.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Mattie Lee Brown Lang; one son, Bobby Lang of the home; his mother, Mrs. Mary Stocks Lang of Ayden; five brothers, Elbert, Amos and Linwood Lang of Ayden and May Lang and Willie Lang of Kinston; eight sisters, Mrs. Waldo Jackson, Mrs. Ray Hardee, Mrs. Henry Hardee, Mrs. Hubert Sutton and Mrs. Ed Mills, all of Ayden, Mrs. Floyd Philyaw of Selma, Mrs. Roy Lee Cox of Kinston and Mrs. George E. Britt of Newton Grove.

Infantile Paralysis Epidemics Reviewed At Greensboro Meet

Items of interest discussed at the meeting of polo officials at Greensboro yesterday were reviewed this morning by Dr. Walter Humbert, director of the Pitt County Health Department, who attended the meeting.

Dr. Humbert represented the Pitt County Foundation of Infantile Paralysis at the meeting where representatives of southern states were present. Those in attendance included 210 representatives of various chapters and doctors.

The principal speaker was Basil O'Conner, chairman of the National Foundation of Infantile Paralysis.

The main item discussed at the meeting was the present polo epidemics in Montgomery, Alabama, and Caldwell County, North Carolina. It was brought out that polo, the epidemic in Caldwell is more severe than in Alabama, but more persons in Montgomery are affected.

These two areas have been declared polo disaster areas and so far this year the number of cases is 25 per cent higher than last year. Dr. Humbert pointed out that one consoling fact is that the severity of infection is not producing a great deal of permanent paralysis. There has been only one death from polo in Caldwell.

Dr. Humbert said it is hoped by the use of gamma globulin that exposed susceptible children will not be affected. He stated that soon after exposure, before the virus reaches the nervous system, it is found in the blood stream where anti-bodies can check the disease. Gamma globulin is of no avail after the virus leaves the blood stream," said Dr. Humbert.

"If the Alabama and Caldwell epidemics are stopped, then we are sure gamma globulin is worth every point of blood the American people have donated," said Dr. Humbert. Gamma globulin is derived from blood donated through the American Red Cross.

O'Conner pointed out that the research people at the University of Pittsburgh are progressing in attempts to find a preventive vaccine which is hoped will be available for testing by next summer.

Dr. Humbert said the representatives and doctors at the meeting were in agreement that where there are mild cases of polo with weakness but no paralysis, the patients are better off if kept and cared for at home.

"This is better," said Dr. Humbert, "than being rushed to a hospital in a hysterical state, and emotionally upset, and fatigued. There is no danger in keeping mild cases at home because by the time the case develops, all household contacts have already been exposed."

Revival Starts Here Tonight

Rev. James Cole, evangelist and radio speaker, will open his "old fashioned revival and healing campaign" in Greenville tonight.

Meetings will be held nightly at 7:45 in a gospel tent near Westend Circle. Special choral and congregational music will be had at the meetings. Evangelist Cole recently completed a 17-day revival in Grifton. His messages are intended to reach the members of all religious denominations, he announced. The public is invited.

Added Names In Taking Census

CHICAGO (UP)—Matthew Micek, 37, wasn't satisfied with the number of Chicago residents he encountered on his rounds as a census taker.

He added thousands of fictitious names to his list during the 1950 census, telling co-workers "we've got a quota to make."

Micek was placed on two years probation Thursday after authorities testified he never tried to collect additional pay for the fictitious names.
