One Of Eleven Pitt Accidents

The Fourth of July holiday week-end left in its wake thousands of dollars of property damage and a number of injured victims over Pitt County. Above is the twisted wreckage of a car which rammed into a truck on N. C. 118, east of Grifton, last night and in which several occupants were injured. All told, eleven highway accidents were investigated in Pitt. (Reflector Photo by Roy Hardee)

Holiday's Highway Accidents Injured 8 Pitt Countians

By ROY HARDEE Reflector Staff Writer
Holiday accidents resulted in injuries to 8 Pitt Countians, according to reports received by the Highway Patrol.
Six of the injured persons, all from Greenville, were injured when two cars from Greenville collided on a dark-obsure road one mile from Hickory Point, near Aurora.
Investigating officer George Simmons of Aurora listed the drivers as being Mrs. Betty D. Tighman of Evans Street, Greenville, and V. A. Merritt, Sr. of Greenville.
The two cars wrecked yesterday afternoon, hitting nearly head-on, according to the officers, inflicting injuries to six of the occupants. Damage to both of the automobiles was listed as over $600.
Injured were Mr. and Mrs. V. A. Merritt, who were removed to Pitt County Hospital for treatment of internal injuries, and three other occupants in the Merritt car. They were Georgia Ann Merritt, 15, Betty Lou Merritt, 13, and Marie Merritt, 9. All three suffered facial lacerations but were not seriously injured.
Casey Sawyer an occupant in the Tighman car received lacerations of the head in the accident. She was treated and released. Simmons reported.
Simmons stated that investigation of the accident is not complete. Cause of the accident was believed to have been due to poor visibility.
A 20-year-old Negro woman was injured Friday night when, according to Patrolman Paul C. Whitley, Mary Joyce McPerson "jumped from a truck."
Whitley listed the woman's injuries as "head injuries."
The officer said that she jumped from a truck being driven by Fred A. Worthington, Jr. of Route 1, Winterville.
The accident occurred six miles from Greenville on a rural road. Whitley said that no charges were preferred.
An 81-year-old man was seriously injured on July 4 at Patoctus when he walked into the path of an automobile at Patoctus.
Investigating officer Paul C. Whitley listed the injured man as being James Allen Best, 81, of Route 5, Greenville. He suffered a broken pelvis when struck by a car driven by Simon Pollard Langley of Route 3, Bethel.
Best was removed to Taylor Hospital in Washington for treatment

Will Avenge Deaths Of Anti-Reds

New Uprisings Threaten In East Germany; 'Blood For Blood' Slogan

BERLIN (UP)—Anti-Communist East Germans have promised "blood for blood" to avenge workers who fell before Russian and Communist German guns in the revolt against the Red rulers of the Soviet-occupied zone, underground sources reported today.
The threats of new uprisings came as thousands of workers were reported to be continuing defiance of Red army tanks and combat troops with strikes and other anti-Communist demonstrations.
The "Information Bureau West," a private intelligence organization based in West Berlin, said that the walls of public buildings throughout East Germany have been plastered with such signs as "blood for blood" and "We will rise again."
The bureau, which gathers underground news about Communist Germany, is considered reliable.
Reports of continued resistance against the Communist authorities also came from the bureau.
It said flash strikes over the weekend shut down the vast Carl Zeiss optical factory in Jena, as well as many other plants throughout Red Germany.
Soviet tanks occupied the Zeiss factory when the entire labor force walked out to enforce demands for the release of 900 fellow workers arrested during the June 17 rebellion, the bureau said.
In Magdeburg, where the Reds had executed 18 Russian soldiers for disobedience, it said workers for four hours and forced authorities to meet their demands for the dissolution of the plant's Communist-dominated Works Council.
The new reports of continued unrest were seen here as an indication that the millions of workers who sought to throw off the yoke of Communism June 17 have not been appeased by government concessions and efforts to return to normalcy.
West Berlin Lord Mayor Ernst Reuter accused the Communist authorities Sunday night of resorting to Nazi style torture methods in their attempts to crush popular resistance.
Latest concessions by the East German government included the release from jail of 7,753 Germans who had been held for "economic crimes." The East German press office announced that the Red government "is examining the question of whether normal traffic can be restored again." The Reds increased from four to nine the number of crossing points Berliners with special passes may use to cross the East-West city border.

At Least 254 Die In Auto Wrecks During Weekend

By UNITED PRESS
At least 254 persons were killed in traffic accidents during the Fourth of July weekend half of them in the last 14 hours of the holiday period when motorists were rushing to get home.
A survey showed today that 122 persons drowned during the period from 6 p.m. Friday until midnight Sunday. Plane crashes killed three persons, and 43 died in miscellaneous accidents. Fireworks killed one person, injured scores.
The overall total of violent deaths was 429.
Ned H. Dearborn, president of the National Safety Council, said the number of traffic deaths doubled in the last fourth of the holiday period. He said this "was a tragic commentary on what impatience and fatigue can do to mass motoring in the big homebound push that closes a holiday."
The council had issued a preliminary estimate that 290 persons would be killed, but revised its estimate to 313 Sunday morning on the basis of the date of deaths at that time.
Deaths from injuries suffered during the weekend probably will boost the Independence Day traffic toll to more than 300.
After Fourth of July parades and outings millions of Americans spent Sunday loafing, at sporting events or in making the weary drive home from their weekend retreats.
At Lancaster, Ky., six persons were killed and four others critically injured in a two-car, head-on collision. Three persons were killed and five seriously injured near Sisseton, S.D.
The single fireworks fatality occurred at Willows, Calif., during a supposedly safe display. Edward Nolte, 15, was killed when a dud aerial bomb struck him in the head.

Face 'Familiar' To Patrolman Flagging Driver

EVERETT, Pa. (UP)—A state trooper said today he flagged down former President Truman on the Pennsylvania Turnpike yesterday after he made "me hit the brake" on a bad pass.
Pvt. Manley Stampier, 26, said he didn't give Mr. Truman a ticket, but warned him that "what he did was wrong and for his own safety and the safety of others he should be more cautious."
Stampier said the former president didn't get angry at all and said that he was sorry about what he had done.
Mr. and Mrs. Truman were driving toward Ohio on their way back to Independence, Mo., when the incident occurred yesterday at about 2 p.m.

Sailboat Begins Ocean Crossing

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (UP)—A 34-foot-long single-masted boat was en route today to London via the United States and Spain with Rafael Colorado, 84, charting her course.
The vessel sailed Saturday for Santo Domingo on the first leg of its transatlantic voyage. It will stop in New York before continuing across the Atlantic to Cadiz, Spain. From Cadiz it will sail to London.
In addition to Colorado, the Magdalena carried a crew of four. It is equipped with an auxiliary engine.

Introduces Bill For Federal School Grants

WASHINGTON (UP)—Sen. John Sherman Cooper today introduced a bill to authorize $300,000,000 in federal grants in aid for public school construction.
The Kentucky Republican used a formula which would give poorer states proportionately greater grants in the three-year program than more prosperous states would receive.
The formula would take account of the number of school children in each state and the state's average annual income.
The government now aids in school construction only in areas which have been crowded by defense activities or other federal programs.

Left One Child At Last Stop

BERLIN, Conn. (UP)—William White found he had taken a short cut of his family when he started home from a holiday weekend at Topsheld Mass.
State Police stopped him here and told him he'd forgotten little William.
White did a recount, found he had only seven of his eight children. He sighed and headed back to Topsheld.

Rained Out

Seoul, Korea (UP)—The Communist rushed reinforcements to the front today as steady monsoon rains protected them from ground and air attack.
Because of the lack of visibility both sides limited their action to two attacks each.
All air action ceased after 12 B-29 Superforts struck through a solid overcast shortly before midnight in Northwest Korea.
Heavy rains on the western front forced Army engineers to work through the night digging and sand-bagging to keep roads open and bridges safe from rising flood waters.
Allied soldiers on the western front received orders to protect themselves and their installations.
Frontline observers peering through rain and haze saw several small groups of Communists moving around the central and eastern sectors where the "Battle of the Bulge" was fought several weeks ago.

Allied Troops Believed Preparing Leave Battle Line To ROKs

By EARNEST HOBERECHT United Press Staff Correspondent
SEOUL, Korea, Tuesday (UP)—President Eisenhower's personal trouble-shooter and President Syngman Rhee were expected to confer again today, amid speculation the aged Rhee may be preparing his people for acceptance of United States truce terms.
It will be the 10th meeting between Assistant Secretary of State Walter Robertson and Rhee in an attempt to break the deadlock in their "little armistice" talks.
Speculation that Rhee's attitude may be softening accompanied other reports that 8th Army commander Gen. Maxwell Taylor was planning to withdraw the seven American and one British divisions from the battleline and turn the entire 155-mile front over to the South Koreans.
The withdrawal plans would be put into effect in case Rhee decides to fight on alone.
American sources doubted Korean reports that Robertson had suggested new, "less severe" truce terms to Rhee.
However, the very nature of the reports also aroused speculation that the Koreans may be "planting" stories about American compromises and proposals to prepare Koreans for Rhee's acceptance of "now-or-never" terms laid down by the United States.
It was suggested Rhee may have decided he cannot fight on alone and has decided to prepare his people for a policy change—perhaps trying to make it appear he had won a victory in his sessions with Robertson.
The story as related by Korean sources was that "the talks are nearing a finale due to American generosity."

Lines Of Caldwell County Children Receive Gamma-Globulin

LENOIR, N. C. (UP)—A scowling chubby little boy winced when the hypodermic needle stabbed him in the backside today as health officers began the nation's second gamma globulin to ward off a polio epidemic.
Fighting back a tear, Claude Conrad Story, 7, mounted a table on the stage of the East Harper School here. His mother was by his side, reassuring him, as Dr. Gladys Morgan Happer, wife of the county health officer, administered the first injection of the program.
Next in line were two little girls, sisters Judy and Frances Cooke, aged 3 and 1.
For Frances, dressed in a pink organly frock, today marked her first birthday. She whimpered a bit but did not cry.
Nearly 600 children were inoculated in the first hour of the program. Some 11,000 will receive shots in the next three days.

Monsoon Rains Washing Korea

SEOUL (UP)—Raging flood waters and a four-day-old "monsoon" rainstorm lashed Korea today killing at least ten persons, including two American soldiers.
Rising river waters pressed against military and civilian bridges spanning battlefield and rear area streams. Torrential rain collapsed slams mud and rice straw Korean homes.
A threat of more rain came as remnants of typhoon "Kit," which broke up over the Chinese mainland yesterday, headed toward Korea's west coast. The storm, still carrying destructive rains, was due to hit the Communist capital of Pyongyang Tuesday morning.
Two American airmen were missing and presumed drowned after disappearing into swirling brown waters at an airbase near Pyongyang, 60 miles south of Seoul. One was seen to drown and the other, swept away by the rushing water, had not been found.
The South Korean home ministry said 12,000 persons were homeless and six drowned throughout South Korea. Two additional deaths were reported from Seoul's industrial suburb of Yongsungpo, across the Han River, where a house collapsed on its occupants.
At least 2,494 homes have been destroyed.

Group Wants To Retain 'Swift Creek' Name

A delegation of eight representatives of Swift Creek township appeared before the Pitt county commissioners this morning to push further aims to retain the name of Swift Creek for the eastern part of the present township.
The request made by a group headed by W. C. Wilson is in connection with present plans by the county to alter township lines to make them conform more closely with school district lines. County officials have characterized their plan as a means of clarifying tax boundaries and reducing costs in computing taxes.
The group attending this morning's meeting hope to retain the name of Swift Creek generally for that portion of the present township lying east of the creek, a small southern part of which now votes in Grifton, according to a spokesman of the group.
No final action was taken on the request in this morning's session but Commission Chairman Floyd Hendrix assured the group further consideration will be given their request.

Farmers' Day Committee Will Meet Tomorrow

A meeting of the Greenville Farmers Day steering committee has been called for tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock by general chairman Jack Wallace.
Wallace said the purpose of the meeting is to hear reports on progress made by various committees and also discuss finances of this year's event.
The general chairman said a number of outstanding floats already have been lined up for the parade planned in connection with the celebration, and other work on different phases of Farmers Day is under way. The contract for decorations in connection with the event already has been signed, he added.

General Bradley Discloses Job Is Awaiting Him

WASHINGTON (UP)—Gen. Omar N. Bradley announced today he will become chairman of the board of the board of Bulova Research and Development Laboratories, Inc. which is engaged in guided missile work, when he retires as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff on Aug. 16.
The firm is a wholly-owned subsidiary of Bulova Watch Co. It is engaged in work on guided missiles and other weapons for the Defense Department.
Bradley made the announcement at a news conference.
He also told reporters that despite riots and unrest behind the Iron Curtain he sees no "marked" change in communism's long-range threat to America.

Royster Says Withdrawal Of Sandhills Association Won't Affect Middle Belt

HENDERSON (UP)—Fred S. Royster, president of the Bright Belt Tobacco Warehouse Association, said today the withdrawal of the Sandhills Association won't affect opening dates on the Middle Belt "but it could be detrimental to the entire marketing system."
The Bright Belt board of governors set Sept. 1 as opening date for flue-cured tobacco auctions in the Middle Belt. Sandhills warehousemen, protesting that their leaf would be ready before then, split off from the Bright Belt Association at a meeting in Sanford Saturday and set Aug. 27 as their opening date.
The action affects markets at Aberdeen, Carthage, Sanford, Elberne and Fuquay-Varina.
"I regret their action," Royster said. "But the Bright Belt is just a trade association and nobody is compelled to belong to it if he doesn't want to."
"Besides," he added, "with the exception of about two firms in the Sandhills area, none of them has paid dues for a long time, anyway."

Health Department Apparently Going To Get Extra Sum For Full-Time Sanitarian

By HOWARD LINDSAY Reflector Staff Writer
The Pitt County Health Department is getting what it asked for in the way of a boost in appropriations for health services from the City of Greenville into the city is getting a full-time sanitarian for city duty only.
This was the prospect today following council approval Thursday night of a tentative budget of $472,750 of which $11,460 is to go for sanitation and health work.
Subject plan within 30 days following public notice, this would give the county department an additional $5,000 over what it received from the city last year.
For its money, the city would be receiving not only the full-time services of an experienced sanitarian, but also would turn over to the county the responsibility for control of stray dogs, their impounding and maintenance.
Last year, this chore was handled by a city dog warden under supervision of the police department.
Dr. W. C. Humbert, Pitt health officer, appearing before the council Thursday night, reiterated that the some $4,000 extra for the sanitarian would give the county a total of four sanitarians for a 65,000 population. That is, provided the program is adopted as now being advertised.
This would give the county better than one sanitarian for every 15,000 population—a proportion health experts feel desirable. He emphasized the importance of a trained man, one from out of the city and having as much as four years' experience.
His job, Dr. Humbert said, will be exclusively in Greenville, pointing out that one-fourth of the county's population is in this area.
The health officer also assured the city board that the $180 sought for the dog pound would go toward food for the dogs as well as upkeep of

Rhee Said To Be Softening

The story as related by Korean sources was that "the talks are nearing a finale due to American generosity."

If the withdrawal plan is put into effect, the non-Korean troops would move back one and a quarter miles behind the battleline in accordance with the armistice waiting signature at Panmunjom.
There was growing belief that both Robertson and Rhee realized that each was reluctant to break off the negotiations.
They last were reported to be deadlocked on Rhee's demand for the United States to resume the war if a post-armistice political conference shows no progress in conferring Korea after 90 days of talking.
Robertson already has told Rhee he could give no assurances that American troops would start shooting again but he said the United States would recess the conference if the Reds used stalling tactics.
Robertson said he and Rhee would meet again. Immediately after their meeting, Rhee called his cabinet to the mansion.
Other major developments in the truce crisis:
1. President Edward Kardelj of Yugoslavia said Rhee was wrong in attempting to prevent an armistice at a time when international tension is lessening.
2. The Steering Committee of India's Government Party drafted a resolution urging a "very early" meeting of the U.N. General Assembly to overrule Rhee and reach a truce.
3. The U.N. Prison Command at Pusan announced that four American soldiers and four Communist North Koreans had been injured in two July 4 prison camp incidents and a non-Communist prisoner had been hanged, apparently a suicide.
4. Rhee's office announced the receipt of "highly encouraging" letters from all over the world.

New Mass-Innoculation Is Started

LENOIR, N. C. (UP)—A scowling chubby little boy winced when the hypodermic needle stabbed him in the backside today as health officers began the nation's second gamma globulin to ward off a polio epidemic.
Fighting back a tear, Claude Conrad Story, 7, mounted a table on the stage of the East Harper School here. His mother was by his side, reassuring him, as Dr. Gladys Morgan Happer, wife of the county health officer, administered the first injection of the program.

Nearly 600 children were inoculated in the first hour of the program. Some 11,000 will receive shots in the next three days.

There was some crying as each child was given a shot of six to 10 cc of the precious, polio-resisting fluid, the hip was swabbed with alcohol and the child was given a lollipop or a popsicle.
Other clinics were busy this morning here and in Whitwell and Granite Falls, small towns south of here. They were strategically located in this county which has had 84 polio cases and two deaths among its youngsters, the highest polio incidence rate in the country.
At Granite Falls, 234 children were inoculated in the first hour and 46 minutes.
"Is going very well here," a clinic official said. "We have long lines waiting. The children are getting to be quite noisy but the parents are doing a wonderful job."
The nation's second mass inoculation against polio began and spokesmen reported the work was going on "assembly line fashion."
Two new cases of polio over the weekend raised the total for Caldwell County's 43,000 residents to 84—the highest polio incidence in the nation. The county's second death occurred Saturday.
One observer reported "volunteer outside help was coming in by the hour" as the hundreds of doctors, nurses and other workers manned four emergency centers to inoculate every child under 10 years old with the rare serum to combat crippling effects of infantile paralysis.
The office of Defense Mobilization has provided 100,000 cubic centimeters of gamma globulin and a surplus quantity was promised by Montgomery County, Ala., where 32,000 children received inoculations last week.
Medical personnel from the Carolina Memorial Hospital at Chapel Hill, from Duke University, from Bowman-Gray Hospital at Chapel Hill, from Duke University, from Bowman-Gray Hospital at Winston-Salem, and from such towns as Hickory, Valdese and Morganton appeared in large numbers for Caldwell County's 24 doctors, they would operate the two centers here and two elsewhere in the county daily from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. through Wednesday, "or as long as necessary" to give each child an injection in the backside.
As car pools formed by a volunteer corps of 300 women were called to bring in children from remote sections of the Blue Ridge Mountain footholds, some of the youngsters said they dreaded the sting of the sharp needle.
"I don't like shots—I'm afraid of going to hospital," said Steve Sims, six-year-old son of Mrs. M. J. Sims.
But eight-year-old Linda Walsh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Walsh, said, "I am sort of used to them."
The lollipop rewards awaiting each child were bought with pennies contributed by children in Greensboro and Guilford counties and a dairy here provided an ice cream bar for each child.

For its money, the city would be receiving not only the full-time services of an experienced sanitarian, but also would turn over to the county the responsibility for control of stray dogs, their impounding and maintenance.
Last year, this chore was handled by a city dog warden under supervision of the police department.

This would give the county better than one sanitarian for every 15,000 population—a proportion health experts feel desirable. He emphasized the importance of a trained man, one from out of the city and having as much as four years' experience.
His job, Dr. Humbert said, will be exclusively in Greenville, pointing out that one-fourth of the county's population is in this area.

Women In The Church

Two women leaders of the Congregational Christian Churches have been recognized by Olivet College, Michigan, and awarded honorary doctorate degrees. Miss Ione Catton, of New York and Chicago, long a teacher, writer, and minister of religious education within her denomination, was awarded the degree of Doctor of Religious Education. Mrs. Hazel Thorne (George R.) Wilson, literacy expert of Claremont, Calif. and Hinsdale Ill., has received the Doctorate of Humane Letters.

Mrs. Ethlyn Wisegarver Rott, Belleville, Illinois, step-mother to four children, has been selected as the "American Mother of the Year." Mrs. Rott married Dr. Anthony E. Bott when his children, whose mother died five years previously, ranged in age from 14 to five. Before her marriage Mrs. Rott, a former high school teacher, was an administrator of Stephens College, Columbia, Missouri.

Mrs. Leah Sykes Young, Courtland, Virginia, has been chosen "First Negro Woman of the Year"—the first Negro woman to receive the honor. The mother of 14 children, she baked apple pies and made dresses to sell to her neighbors, because she wanted her boys and girls to have an education. Most of them finished college. Six are teachers, two are contractors, one is a nurse, another a librarian.

For her untiring efforts in realizing her dream of a community hospital, Mrs. Margaret Desher received the "Woman of the Year" award in her home town, Olathe, Kansas, at the Fellowship Day meeting of the Olathe Council of Church Women. Miss Desher has over a long period helped in the delivery of at least half the babies of the community. She has just finished a three-year task in leading the community to join in erecting a $250,000 hospital.

For the first time in history, the government of Nepal has arranged for two Nepalese girls to take nurses' training courses. The hospital chosen is the Memorial Hospital (Presbyterian) in Patnagarh, India, south of Nepal. The plan resulted from vacation journeys to Nepal by Memorial Hospital's staff members, Dr. Carl W. Fredericks and Miss Juanita Owen R.N. Dr. Fredericks held village dispensaries in Nepal while on "vacation" with his family.

Boy's Hands Blown Off By Fireworks

BELOIT, Wis. (UP)—A 15-year-old boy stared at the bandaged stumps today and said quietly "I was a chump."

Robert Petroff lost both hands when his homemade Fourth of July fireworks exploded prematurely in the family garage Saturday. "I'm going to have to figure out some way to make a living without hands," he said. "Maybe I'll try to get authorities to make people stop buying and selling fireworks and stuff that can make explosives."

Robert decided to make some sparklers and flares when he and his sister Mary, 14, were unable to buy fireworks to set off themselves. He had been given an elaborate chemistry set some time ago, but his parents had talked him out of a plan then to make gunpowder.

He began mixing potassium chlorate, sulphur and saltpeter Saturday while his father worked beneath the car nearby and his sister played in the yard outside.

Suddenly there was an explosion that shook the garage, shattered the windows and wrecked his working table. Robert staggered backward, with his right hand blown away and the left badly mangled. His father, Charles, was momentarily deafened by the blast and was treated at a hospital for shock.

A neighbor applied tourniquets and called an ambulance. Doctors had to amputate the left hand. The boy asked his grief-stricken mother to take the chemistry set to the police station so officers could use it to impress other children with the danger.

"His mother said she realized that 'I shouldn't have let him try,' to make the gunpowder. But Robert took all the blame himself. 'I was a chump,' he said.

Hat Designers Have Odd Style Sources

NEW YORK (UP)—Here's what an original idea," the designer said, happens when you look at the latest hat styles and ask the designer, "How come?"

He says something like, "I brought a lot of men's hats back from Europe."

You smile pleasantly at this conversational tidbit and start to rephrase your question about how come his new hats have such high crowns. Suddenly you realize the men's hats might have something to do with it.

"I never copy, I only get an idea," he assures you somewhat haughtily. Well, you wanted to find out why as well as what the new hat fashions would be, and you have to admire the fellow for his honesty.

The men's hats, original versions and the still unfinished adaptations, are in the workshop of a designer known as Mr. John. There is a cone-crowned green velvet man's hat from the Swiss-German border vicinity; a bowler and a billed cap from England; a student's hat from Italy and a gondolier's straw hat from Venice.

Mr. John held up a piece of something that looked like a plaid wool auto robe in one hand and a boxy-crowned hat in another. The hat had been cut out of the blanket, adapted from the bowler. Set how these things happen?

A model set the hat squarely atop her head. The designer squinted speculatively. There were still a few pins in the crown. He nodded and she replaced the hat with another. This was a different blanket plaid and looked a little like an upside down saucer, minus handle.

FHA Groups Of Three Counties Hold Meet Here

The Farmers Home Administration Committees of Pitt, Greene and Lenoir Counties met in Greenville Friday to discuss operation of the Farmers Home Administration, the duties and responsibilities of the County Committee, and view various phases of the FHA program in action.

Ralph Harris, FHA county supervisor, said the FHA budget is composed of both private and treasury funds. Funds used from the treasury are borrowed on the loan authorization approved by Congress each year in the Agriculture Appropriation Bill and the funds borrowed are repaid with interest. Harris pointed out that families with farm loans are on the average six years ahead of schedule on their payments. Further, that the gross cash income of these families cooperating with FHA is approximately twice that of the average farmer in the state.

He outlined the duties of the County Committee and summarized them as follows: Determining the eligibility of the applicants for all types of assistance and passing judgment on farms being considered for farm ownership and farm housing loans. The group visited William Allgood's farm at Grimesland and Edison Cannon's farm at Coxville to see examples of some FHA programs in action. They were interested in the spring litters of Allgood's four sows. These 41 pigs were on good ladino pasture. Allgood had remodeled his home last winter.

W. C. Eagles, Pitt County SCS technician, discussed the Cannon's drainage program. On this farm Eagles' office laid off and supervised construction of about a mile of drainage canals.

Those attending the meetings were W. C. Eagles, SCS technician, Sam Winchester, Pitt county agent, Charles H. Jeffrey, State FHA Farm Ownership specialist; Marion C. Holland, State FHA field representative, Johnnie Carroway of Belvoir and Judson E. Whitehurst of Pitt County FHA Committee, Albert Hill and Asa Haddock of the Greene County Committee, Joe L. Hinson, Lenoir County FHA Supervisor, the Lenoir County FHA Committee, Joe Joyner, agricultural field man of the Guaranty Bank and Trust Company.

Business Today Shoplifting Problems

By ELMER ROESSNER
Some shops have been lifted right out of business. Shoplifting has increased 31 per cent over the last five years and losses by some stores have made the difference between profit and failure.

The Houston Retail Merchants Association estimates that in one year, members lost $3,000,000 to shoplifters and, the Joan News Letter reports shoplifting in Los Angeles went up 1,000 per cent in ten years.

A big difficulty in curbing shoplifters is laws that make merchants liable to heavy damages in cases of false arrest. Many merchants 99 per cent sure that a person has grabbed an article of merchandise, will hesitate to act because of that hundredth chance. Many state laws have been interpreted as meaning a thief has not been consummated until the thief has taken the goods off the premises and this means a merchant must follow a thief out of the store before he can make an accusation, often with the chance that the culprit can raise such a cry as to turn violence upon the merchant.

The Yale Law Journal, in its April issue, has proposed a solution which is getting considerable attention from retail associations. It proposes this model arrest statute:

"1. A peace officer, or a merchant, or a merchant's employee, may use reasonable force to detain for questioning for a reasonable length of time on the merchant's premises any person whom he has reasonable ground to believe has committed larceny of goods displayed for sale by the merchant. Such detention shall not constitute an arrest.

"2. A peace officer may arrest without warrant any person whom he has reasonable ground to believe has committed larceny of goods displayed for sale. A charge made to a peace officer by a merchant or merchant's employee shall constitute a reasonable ground for such arrest. No merchant or merchant's employee shall be criminally or civilly liable for false arrest or false imprisonment of any person arrested under this paragraph where said merchant or merchant's employee had a reasonable ground for charging said person with commission of larceny of goods displayed for sale."

The National Retail Dry Goods Association has sent copies of the proposal to members and has appointed a committee to study it. Other trade associations are taking an interest and it is likely the statute will be proposed in several states.

Incidentally, there is shoplifting as well as shoplifting. With the help of a forged sales ticket, a gang took a two-ton inboard motor right out of a Sears Roebuck store and Macy's, New York, once reported the theft of a 20-foot canoe.

EMPLOYMENT UP 3 TIMES... FASTER THAN POPULATION...
Employment outside of agriculture has gone up three times as fast as the population since 1939, a study by the National Industrial Conference Board shows. Since then the population has risen 20 per cent, employment 60 per cent.

The rise in employment has not been uniform in all industries. Those employed in construction increased 124 per cent; government employment rose 66 per cent; manufacturing, 61 per cent; wholesale and retail trade, 55 per cent, and employment in mining remained stationary.

STATE-WIDE SERVICE... TO CUT FREIGHT COSTS
What is said to be the first state-wide shipping service has been established by the California Retailers Association. It has formed California Traffic Service, Inc., a nonprofit organization to consolidate railway express, air freight and other small package shipments from major cities to California. By eliminating premiums on small shipments, the service is expected to save California retailers from 25 to 27 per cent of their shipping bills.

The Big Stick

Took A Lot Of Digging To Get Straight

It often takes a great deal of digging through old files and records of various kinds to find out just the correct thing to do in all fairness to all the people in a local government matter.

Such was the case in the matter of a school tax levy for the Greenville school district this year.

It took a great deal of time and effort to ferret out all the factors in the case and arrive at the proper decision after the original levy set up was questioned. Auditor Reginald Gray and other officials delved into the matter and came up with a new answer which apparently the county commissioners will approve at their session today.

From 1949 through 1952, all property owners in the Greenville school district—except Williams School district—paid the same amount of taxes for the support of schools. In 1949 property owner's inside Greenville paid a 39-cent tax rate through the city government and a three-cent rate through the county government making a total of 42-cents per $100 valuation for schools, which is the same rate paid to the county on property in the Greenville school district but outside the corporate limits of Greenville. In 1950, the rates were the same as for 1949.

In 1951 the levy by the city for schools on property inside Greenville totaled 34 cents and the county levied an additional six cent rate for schools on the property. Outside the city, but within the district, the county collected a 40 cent rate. In 1952, property within Greenville was taxed by the city with a 33-cent rate for schools, and the county taxed the property with an additional 11-cent rate for schools. That total corresponded with the county levy of 44 cents for schools in the district outside the city of Greenville.

When the preliminary figures on the tax levy for the Greenville school district this year were figured by the city and county governments, it was found that the total rate paid to both city and county governments by people inside Greenville would be 49-cents, while only a 45-cent rate would be collected in the Greenville school district outside the city's corporate limits.

The condition now has been rectified, awaiting only the official approval of the county commissioners. It took a lot of digging into the complicated school district set-up in Pitt County, but the matter was straightened out.

This fiscal year, as in the past four, people inside Greenville will pay to the school district in taxes the same amount paid by people in the district but outside the city's corporate limits.

It is gratifying to see county officials delve into such complicated situations and get to the bottom of a matter in time to correct errors before it is too late.

A Situation Not Easily Smoothed Over

Russia's drastic action in executing 18 Soviet soldiers for refusing to shoot Germans taking part in the June 17 riots points emphatically to the serious situation facing the communists as they try to hold East Germany in their grip.

Not only has the June eruption in East Germany brought to the surface the hate being harbored by Germans under Soviet domination, it likewise has shown the drastic measures to which the Russians are turning to keep their own forces in Germany in line. The same situation may exist in Poland.

It is reported that at least 80 persons have died before Russian firing squads since the June riots began. In addition, there are some 50,000 Germans under Soviet arrest for their part in the uprising, and another 50,000 members of the communist party in East Germany reportedly have resigned their membership.

Temporarily, the uprising has subsided, but where the extreme discontent has assumed widespread proportions as it has in East Germany, it will not be smoothed over quickly.

East Germany probably will be a thorn in the side of the Russian warlords from now on.

Weight And Benefits When Law Of Gravity Overcome

By Roger W. Babson
Babson Park, Mass. — Enemy number one is not Communism or any other "ism." Enemy number one is WEIGHT. I don't refer to your weight or my weight. We all can control this by the simple method of eating less, and thus avoiding "second-helpings."

Instead, I am referring to the cost of transportation, amounting to over a billion dollars a year, of which I estimate 80 per cent is due to the WEIGHT of goods and not to the labor and other costs.

WHAT CAUSES WEIGHT?
Whatever we eat, wear, or use as a home starts from the forests, mines or farms. At these points of origin the costs are very low. For instance, standing timber sells for $2.00 per cord; coal in the mine sells for $1.00 per ton; and a bushel of wheat on the farm for only about $2.00. We pay ten times these costs after they are transported to our home or breakfast table. If weight could be reduced 50 per cent I believe the cost of living would tumble 70 per cent.

This brings me to my hobby of Gravity which is the cause of this wasteful weight. Thus far no insulator, absorber, or reflector of Gravity has been discovered, but this will be accomplished someday. All other forces, such as light, sound, fire, odor, electricity, magnetism, x-rays and even atomic rays can be shut off. Metallurgists will soon discover a means of partially insulating or reflecting Gravity waves. This discovery will revolutionize manufacturing, transportation and distribution.

NOTHING TO WORRY ABOUT
Some people fear that if we interfere with Gravity they would rise to the ceiling of the room or, if out-of-doors, disappear in the skies. There is absolutely no danger of this. The same fears were expressed when our first ancestors discovered fire and later when Franklin tried to harness lightning. When a partial insulator or reflector of Gravity is discovered it can be controlled as well as fire or electricity or atomic rays. Furthermore, this can be accomplished safely whether the Gravity waves come from the sky and push us down, or come from the earth and pull us down.

The Gravity Research Foundation of New Boston, N. H., tells me that such an insulator would not reduce our weight if used for shoe soles or stair treads. In order to take advantage of such a partial insulator or reflector we must be wholly encased as if we were in a sealed coffin and this wouldn't do us much good! This is another reason why no one need fear the control of Gravity. We should rather fear the lack of control of our appetites! To us, starches may be more dangerous than Gravity.

HOW ANTI-GRAVITY ALLOYS WILL WORK

As indicated above, there is little hope for reducing the weight of automobiles, trucks or even freight cars. But there is real hope for reducing the weight of their contents. One of the early developments will be hermetically sealing truck trailers with an anti-gravity alloy. This same principle will be used to reduce the weight of trucks and suitcases. I believe that Russian scientists are now desperately at work to discover a Gravity reflector to very much lessen the weight of the packs which all soldiers carry on their backs. Think what this would mean to the nine million of our own boys. Readers will think of other illustrations but remember that only the enclosed contents can be de-weighted.

Of course the greatest boom would take place in connection with the airplane. Why the Government and airplane manufacturers do not give the subject more serious consideration is beyond my comprehension. The engineers answer me by saying they are "too busy with other things to bother about Gravity." My reply is that 40 years ago when the Goodyear Company was making lighter-than-air dirigibles and I asked why they did not help the Wright Brothers in making heavier-than-air airplanes, they gave the same reply: "We're too busy." All of which reminds me of what Thomas Edison said to me shortly before he died: "Babson, we don't yet know anything. The young people now graduating from schools and colleges have far greater opportunities than we ever had if they will only work, save and study."

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
NATURE'S MARVELOUS INSTRUMENT
An eminent psychologist speaking before a group of scholars described recently the marvels of the human brain.

The environment in which we live is not as we see it. The delicate mechanism of the brain turns the created order into the beautiful and inspiring world. The image on the retina is upside down, but the brain turns it right-side up. Millions of impulses are going into the brain. Indescribable activity is taking place all the time in order that we may see and hear, and above all that we may exercise the reason which distinguishes the man from the beast. The brain is a marvelous mechanism which makes the most complicated machinery appear like a cheap and simple gadget.

How good we should be with that brain. Yet we burden it with worry. We destroy its basic impulses with hatred, resentment, or anger. We take our brains to school and college to have them trained, and then we indulge in the incredible absurdity of anesthetizing the higher centers of this brain with alcohol because we like the relaxation, the false sense of importance, security, and well-being which liquor temporarily confers.

If the body is the temple of the Holy Spirit—and the Bible assures us that it is—then the brain is the holy of holies in that temple.

Be good to your brain.

Deliberate Rebuke Handed Ike

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON—In defiance of President Eisenhower's last-minute intervention on behalf of Governor Thomas E. Dewey, the overwhelmingly Republican House Public Works Committee has voted for development of a $400,000,000 power project on Niagara River and Falls by private interests rather than by the State of New York or the Federal Government. It was a deliberate rebuke of the White House and Ike's favorite politician.

It is doubtful if any domestic issue has so infuriated Capitol Hill Republicans, or so delighted the Democrats, as the Administration's apparent attempt to hand this politico-power plum to the man at Albany. He already has a leg up in the race for development of the St. Lawrence River power site, for a Federal Power Commission examiner has recommended that the license be granted to the New York State Power Authority.

The combined power production from these two projects, which will form the basis of a gigantic hydroelectric pool extending from New England into the Middle West, makes it the greatest development of its kind in the country.

DEWEY DEMANDS POLITICO-POWER PLUM
Dewey has demanded these prizes as a reward for his important role in the Eisenhower nomination and election. With the banking, industrial and political interests involved in building such a power empire, the New York Governor also could build a ballot-box machine for himself or for Eisenhower in 1956.

The White House behavior in this controversy also has alienated the conservative business and financial elements which contributed so heavily to Ike's triumph. Backing Ike as the apostle of free enterprise and an enemy of Federal expansion in all fields, they have regarded the disposition of Niagara's power potential as the acid test of his attitude.

Unlike TVA, Bonneville and Grand Coulee, Niagara has no allied features such as flood control, irrigation, navigation, etc. It will do nothing except to generate electricity. Five of the nation's oldest and most experienced firms have pooled their financial and engineering resources, and can develop badly needed but wasting energy immediately. All they need is a green light from Congress or the Federal government.

"What of the future? Bayard L. England, president of Edison Electric Institute, says that air conditioning, dustproof and insect proof, will be as common as radio, and the push-button equipment will be more completely automatic than is dreamed of now. Thus the home manager will have still more time for community affairs and enjoying life. And perhaps, with those electric brain machines, the men will have time for extra activities—such as darning their own socks."

School And Hospital Bond Referendum Date Pending

By LYNN NISBET
ELECTIONS—Governor Umstead is expected to call the elections on $50 million school building and $22 million mental hospital bonds for Saturday, October 3.

The State Board of Education recommended that date at its meeting on Tuesday. Earlier the hospitals board of control had requested the election be held during the first week in October. Lt. Gov. Luther Hodges, education board chairman, reported that he had conferred with Governor Umstead on Thursday morning and the Governor expressed the hope to get the election over ahead of renewed arguments begin before the Supreme Court on the segregation issue. Although covered by independent legislative acts, it has been assumed that the bonds for school buildings and hospital improvements would be voted upon at the same time.

Imagination Can Beat The Heat

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Summer's biggest problem is heat waves. If one is coming your way, don't get nervous. Keep cool. You should treat a heat wave like an ocean wave: ride with it—don't fight it.

Women know best how to deal with heat waves. They simply pull down the shades, peel off most of their clothes, and lie down and manure their fingernails until better weather comes along. The only exceptions are the 19 million ladies—who have outside jobs and can't stay home.

But how can a mere male outwit a heat wave? Well, here are a few tested recipes a thoughtful fellow can use to beat the heat:

1. Imitate the girls. Strip down until all you have on is the least the law allows in public. If 10 men in every city had the courage to wear shorts to work, soon every man in American who wasn't a knock-kneed would follow suit.
2. Clean out your pockets. This will cut the average guy's weight down five pounds. All you really need to carry in summer is your keys, your bus fare and your social identification card. Remember, every extra ounce you pack heats up your blood.
3. If you don't wear a collar, you can't get hot under it.
4. If you work in a high class place where you have to wear a jacket, strap an ice bag under each armpit. This will cool wonders for you, and you can get ice cube refills from the nearest drugstore. You'd be amazed to know how many men of distinction wear ice bags under their armpits these days.
5. Avoid useless remarks like, "What's new?" In a heat wave, what else could be new? Anyway, most small talk is hot air, and hot air is what you are trying to escape from.
6. When you come home, take off your shoes and shirt and stretch out on the sofa and ask your wife to fan you. How do you know she won't do it? Wives are always surprising husbands—one way or another.

Don't argue with your wife under any circumstances, not even if she hogs the electric fan. Hot tempers make the blood boil. Most people call during heat waves are made to separate married folks locked in sizzling quarrels. Also, if the little lady breaks a plate over your head, you will find that wounds hurt more in hot weather.

If you are watching television and a beer commercial flashes on, don't run to the kitchen to get yourself a can of brew. Walk slowly.

One of the best ways to cool off before going to bed—as every bachelor knows—is to sit on a chair with your feet in the refrigerator while you read a book on polar explorations. If your wife objects, be reasonable about it. Move over and let her put her feet in the refrigerator, too. The more tender experiences that married couples share, the more they have to remember later.

If the heat does become unbearable, follow the example of the dog, man's best friend. The dog cools himself by sticking out his tongue and panting, but the process isn't patented. Stick out your own tongue as far as you can, and pant hard and rapidly 100 times.

Naturally if you feel a chill coming on, stop after 30 pants. You don't want to have to fight a summer cold in the middle of a heat wave.

Even if panting doesn't seem to cool you off quite as well as it does Rover, it has another advantage. If the boss sees you doing it, he is pretty certain to let you take the rest of the day off.

Hardship And Disaster Faces Many Farmers

By UNITED PRESS
Hardship or disaster today faced millions of American farmers trying to make a crop in the face of drought, pestilence, falling market prices and damaging storms. In many areas from the eastern slopes of the Rockies to the Atlantic this was the worst farming year in two decades. In the dusty, parched Southwest 1953 became a new standard for measuring disaster. It was the worst year in the memory of many an old pioneer. Texas churches offered special prayers Sunday for rain. But in most areas it was too late, and even soaking rains could not save this year's crop. In the Southwest, this was the fourth year of almost uninterrupted drought. The Eisenhower administration approved $8,000,000 federal aid for portions of Texas, Oklahoma, Colorado, Kansas, New Mexico, Arkansas and Louisiana. Rep. W. R. Poage (D-Tex.) reported after a personal tour of West Texas that "The people aren't going broke. They are broke."

Severe crop damage was caused earlier this spring by an invasion of army worms that felled small grainlike it had been mowed and ruined tender young corn and clover from West Virginia through Ohio, Tennessee, Indiana, Illinois and Minnesota. And in the midwestern tornado belt, hail and high winds have pounded many stands of grain into the ground or stripped them clean. As frightening to the farmers as the weather and insects were the market columns of their newspapers. Cattle prices were down $ to 6 cents a pound and more, despite the fact that receipts were not extremely heavy. Wheat and other grains recently plunged to dangerously low levels, recovered somewhat and have fluctuated since. Cattlemen in the Southwest have lost 90 per cent of their range and in some cases have no water for their stock. Reports from the area said that range cattle were losing flesh rapidly. Poage reported that many stockmen had been feeding their cattle on bits for three years, an expensive practice. Massachusetts, Indiana, Illinois, Mississippi, Ohio and parts of Nebraska all have suffered some crop damage because of drought. The army worm invasion that spread over Ohio was followed by a current attack of chinch bugs which is threatening Northwest cornfields. Tennessee stockmen and Missouri farmers needed rain "badly." But in the northern Plains and upper Great Lakes states there has been almost too much rain and crops were in generally good condition.

Wave Of 'Confessions' And Reform Sweeps Satellites

By PHIL NEWSOM
United Press Foreign News Editor
Communist "confessions" of past sins and promises to reform have been coming so thick and fast in the last few months as now to be commonplace. Beginning with the release of the nine Moscow doctors accused of murder conspiracies against Red leaders, amnesty decrees and reforms now have been announced for Russia, Czechoslovakia, Romania and Hungary. Reforms also have been promised for East Germany where Red leaders have confessed that "workers" have lost faith in their leadership. The general tendency has been to link the reforms with the new leadership which took over the Kremlin after the death of Josef Stalin — that is, to say that the new Russian leadership is seeking favor throughout Russia and the satellites through a relaxation of the harsh measures allocated with the Stalin regime. The latter theory still has not been disproved. Another theory is that the bewildering shifts within Russia and the satellites actually are the result of an internal war within the Kremlin — between Premier Georgi Malenkov and Laurenti Beria, head of the security and interior ministries on the one hand, and Foreign Minister Vyacheslav Molotov and Defense Minister Nikolai Bulganin on the other. The latter two represent the old hard-shelled Communists, while Malenkov and Beria presumably represent a newer generation. The most sweeping of all the Communist reforms came this last week end in Hungary and presents the changes in a different light. In fact it gives them historical precedent which in no way would represent any basic change in Communist theory and practice. In Hungary, veteran Moscow-trained Matyas Rakosi lost his job both as premier and as secretary general of the Hungarian Communist Party. In his place went another veteran Moscow-trained leader, Imre Nagy. Nagy took over with an unprecedented attack on the preceding government and promised sweeping changes designed to reduce the emphasis on heavy industry and replace it with emphasis on agriculture, including restoration of the kulak, or land-owning peasant farmer. Private enterprise also was to be given recognition in a move which looked suspiciously like the return of a modified capitalism.

Republicans Found State Dept. Swollen; New Responsibilities

By DONALD J. GONZALES

WASHINGTON (UP)—When the Republicans regained control of the State Department after 20 years they found an institution swollen far beyond its former size and further distinguished as the center of one of the angriest political disputes of modern times.

The size is about to be cut, but otherwise, six months of Republican administration has not much improved the situation. Secretary John Foster Dulles has suffered rebuffs and challenges both unexpected and damaging.

Dulles' biggest headaches have come from his own party and this country's allies. The department is bedeviled by new investigations by the new Republican controlled Congress.

An ally, President Syngman Rhee, has been thwarting the quest for a Korean truce. Our European NATO alliances are proving to be a sometimes sulking American brain child. About the only thing encouraging for Dulles is the unrest behind the Iron Curtain.

Dulles was an unpopular and controversial figure among important elements of the Republican Party during the years he was associated with Truman-Acheson foreign policy. His nomination to the department was ill-received by such Republicans.

Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) is dedicated to rooting out all "Acheson men," meaning officials who substantially shared in making and effecting the policies of former Secretary Dean Acheson. In his capacity as Senate investigator, McCarthy can keep that project loudly alive.

Impatient and energetic by nature, Dulles had some precise plans to raise quickly the department's prestige and to strengthen U. S. leadership in the free world. His timetable has been disrupted, but he stubbornly is determined to see it through.

The State Department inherited by Franklin D. Roosevelt from the Hoover Administration had 4,898 employes at home and abroad and cost $17,000,000 a year. The gigantic institution inherited by the Eisenhower administration from Harry S. Truman had a payroll of 42,000 and spent $275,000,000 annually.

Dulles moved fast to shake down the department to more manageable size to get rid of the Point Four program, the Voice of America and other information projects, stripping the department generally of all operating problems.

Under these plans, the actual State Department payroll will be cut from 42,000 to about 22,000 by Aug. 1 — mostly by transfer of separate agencies rather than reduction of jobs. Actual abolition of jobs so far is about 900, with 2,900 more firings in prospect under appropriation cuts. Prospective State Department budget for this year is around $65,000,000. But this does not include $173,000,000 or so for the Voice of America and other functions being separated from the department.

Dulles' purpose was to concentrate on the State Department basic function — making and effecting foreign policy.

Delay Opening Of Mexico's Costly New University

By PAUL HAWKINS
United Press Staff Correspondent
MEXICO CITY (U.P.)—From the outside, University City appears to be one of the outstanding architectural creations of the western hemisphere, but apparently it will be some time before the students in the cramped quarters of the 400-year-old university downtown will be able to use it.

Built on the 3,000-year-old lava beds of Ajusco volcano, the $20,000,000 university has been dedicated, blessed and viewed by thousands. Expected to be ready for occupancy this fall, education officials belatedly announced it may be two years before they can take over—the university is only three-fourths finished.

The buildings, although stately and trim from the outside, were unfinished and barren within. There were no fixtures or equipment.

When President Miguel Aleman left office late last year, all work stopped. Officials said the appropriation for the project was expended. The new administration had financial problems of its own and most of its money was budgeted.

Stadium Scandal
The education ministry also said it did not have sufficient funds to pay full-time salaries to teachers. Professors in the downtown university, for the most part, were professional businessmen who only taught part-time—as a service to the country and perhaps to make a few extra pesos. Commuting 12 miles from the city center to the university, then dashing back to regular jobs, they said, would be costly, impractical and impossible.

There followed a scandal involving the new stadium. Some 110,000 tickets were sold for its initial sports contest, but 45,000 fans couldn't get in. It was discovered that the stadium would seat only 65,000.

But the new university remains an outstanding architectural work. Seventy architects contributed to its beauty under the general supervision of Carlos Lazo, Jr. The buildings were decorated with brilliant murals by such artists as Diego Rivera and David Alfaro Siqueiros. Some educators are still optimistic about its future. As one put it: "So what! Two more years, three 100 years to build a temple. This is progress!"

Fried Potatoes Draw Songbirds

WASHINGTON (U.P.)—Eat fried potatoes for breakfast if you want a yard full of songbirds this summer. That's the advice of Dr. A Remington Kellogg, director of the Smithsonian Institution's national members of various organizations dealing with such things as mammalogy, herpetology, and zoology. In this case, however, he talks not only from his educational background, but from years of experience of eating fried potatoes for breakfast.

Kellogg explained that there usually are some fried potatoes left and these he throws on the lawn of his Chevy Chase home. Immediately mocking birds, catbirds, cardinals and red-bellied woodpeckers gather around.

Kellogg said the fried potatoes attract more birds than the fancy bird-feeding stations put up by some of his neighbors.

These birds like the frying fat on the potatoes, he explained but robins do not like it.

Twelve Beauty Entries Arrive

NEW YORK (UP)—Twelve beauties from across the sea set out today to learn if everything they have heard about America is true.

The girls, en route to Long Beach, Calif., to compete for the "Miss Universe" crown, arrived by plane from Europe Sunday bubbling with questions as:

"Do girls in Hollywood really wear mink coats in the summer? Is it true American husbands give all their money to their wives? Do people have to go into bomb shelters every day at noon?"

The international strens, ranging in age from 18 to 28, stayed at the Waldorf Astoria before continuing their trip to California for the beauty contest next week among entrants from the United States and 24 other countries.

The contestants are Teuja Sopanen, 18, of Finland; Ulla Sandkef, 18, of Sweden; Christel Schack, 28, of Germany; Elyane Coriois, 23, of Belgium; Ingrid Mills, 20, of South Africa; Jyette Olsen, 18, of Denmark; Ayten Ak-yoi, 20, of Turkey; Rita Stazi, 21, of Italy; Christiane Marlet, 18, of France; Daniele Oudinet, 18, of Switzerland; Lore Felger, 18, of Austria; and Doretta Xerou, 19, of Greece.

Western Music Gains In Japan

TOKYO (AP)—Western music, less than 100 years old in Japan, currently is played by five company orchestras and more than 500 jazz bands throughout the country.

Four of the symphonies are in Tokyo and Osaka, the two largest cities and the fifth is a 20-piece wim and string aggregation at Takasaki, a small commercial center of about 100,000 which has no college or music academy.

Fire In Street Awoke Firemen

NEW YORK (AP)—Two radi car patrolmen saw smoke and sounded an alarm at 4:23 a.m. Sleepy-eyed firemen wheeled to the scene in an engine and found only a few burning papers, apparently started by a cigarette under a street grating.

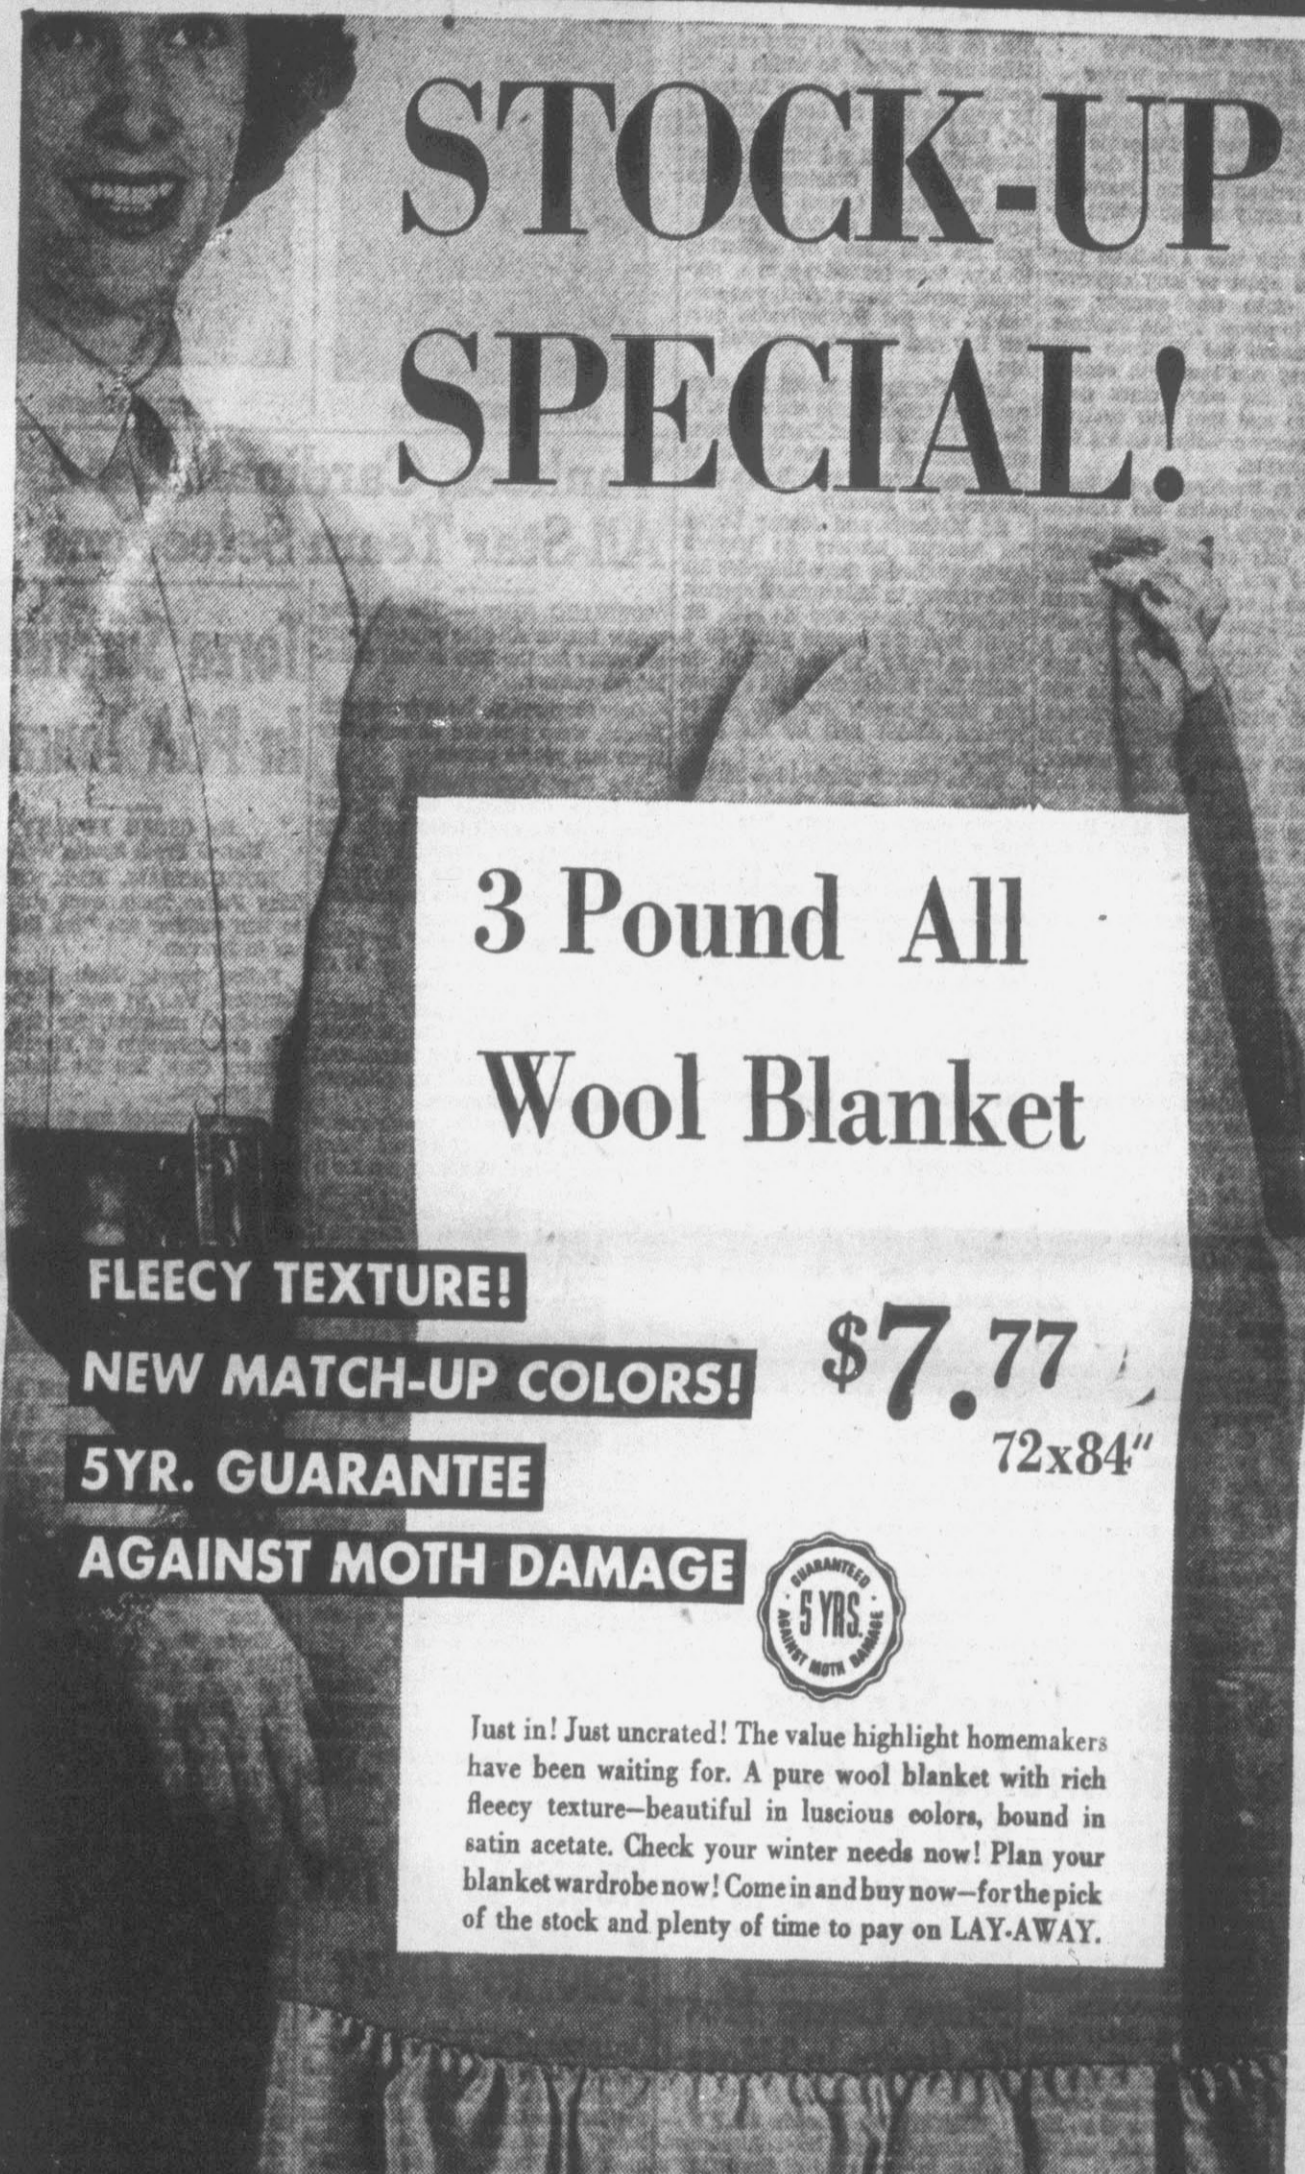

The radio car reported to police headquarters: "Small fire extinguished by disgusted fire department."

Senators Take Two From Yanks; Chicago Divides Pair

Ex-Yankees Lead Nats To Victory

White Sox Move Nearer To First; Tigers Take Twinbill From St. Louis; Giants Wallop Brooklyn, 20-6

By CARL LUNDQUIST
United Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (UP)—The Yankees began today to feel a damaging after-effect of their nine-game losing streak — the fact that the rest of the American League discovered they are merely human beings after all.

That streak was a definite psychological boost to long suffering also-ran clubs who usually get pounded to pieces by the Yankees. Now, because the Yankees have shown they can lose with consistency, too, the other clubs don't tighten up and that will cost the champs many a victory as the season progresses.

Sunday in Washington, the Senators, who had beaten the Yankees only twice while losing seven games to them this season, beat them twice, 4-0 and 5-4, and cut their first place margin to 1 1/2 games over second-place Chicago. What's more the Senators did it with a couple of Yankee castoffs. Bob Porterfield, who has become one of the top pitchers in the majors, shut out his ex-mates with five hits for his 10th victory in the opener. It also was his fifth shutout and his second blank job in a row. Victim of the defeat was Allie Reynolds, who was batted out in the second inning after Washington had scored all of its runs.

In the second game, lefty Johnny Schmitz pitched five-hit relief for six innings to gain his victory over his old buddies. Jackie Jensen's double and Gerry Snyder's single drove in what proved to be the winning run in the seventh.

Chicago stayed a game ahead of third-place Cleveland by winning a 4-0 second game on Billy Pierce's five-hitter, after the Indians came from behind with four runs in the seventh to win the opener, 7-6. Minnie Minsos had put Chicago in front 6-3 with two homers in the opener but Cleveland pounded reliever Harry Dorish for the big rally to win. George Strickland drove in three runs with four hits. Bob Elliott set the hitting pace for Pierce's 10th victory, driving in two runs with a homer and single.

Detroit, which hadn't won a game from St. Louis all season, took a pair by 10-7 and 7-1 counts to move within a game of seventh place while Boston drubbed the Athletics, 10-2, with an eight-run first inning rally.

In the National League, the Giants almost chased the Dodgers out of the Polo Grounds with a 10-hit 20-6 victory and a league high for the season in runs scored. Milwaukee moved to within 1 1/2 games of the first place Dodgers by splitting with St. Louis, winning 4-0, then losing, 4-1. Chicago outslugged Cincinnati 8-4 with 15 hits. The Phils topped Pittsburgh 2-0 in 10 innings as Robin Roberts won his 13th game by scattering 10 hits, then trailed 7-0 in a six-inning second game which was suspended by the Pennsylvania curfew law and will be completed on Aug. 1.

Hank Thompson batted in seven runs with two homers and Al Dark, Bobby Thomson and Darly Spencer also homered for the Giants in their massacre. Wayne Belardi homered for Brooklyn.

Ed Mathews and Johnny Logan hit two-run homers as Warren Spahn pitched a three-hitter for his 10th victory in Milwaukee's opener. Mathews' homer was his 24th. St. Louis took the second game on a four-run rally in the eighth in which Red Schoendienst hit a three-run pinch homer and Stu Miller pitched six-hit ball for his third victory.

Bubba Church pitched two-hit ball until he tired in the eighth in Chicago's opening victory. The Cubs made four homers, two by Ralph Kiner who now has 18, and one each by Hank Sauer and Bill Serna in the second game but lost as Gus Bell set Cincinnati's batting pace with three hits and Andy Semick delivered a two-run homer.

Roberts scattered 10 hits and started the winning rally with a double in the opener at Pittsburgh, scoring on Connie Ryan's single. Richie Ashburn's single drove in Ryan with a cushion run. Jim Vaughn, making his first start for the Pirates, held the Phils to six hits in the curfewed second game in which Pittsburgh scored five runs in the first inning, batting around.

Boston made 13 hits seven in the first inning, in breezing to their victory at Philadelphia. Dick Gernert hit his 14th homer, a double and single to lead the way to Mel Farnell's 11th victory, a slick six-hitter.

Ted Gray, after losing nine straight games, won his fourth in a row in the nightcap for Detroit with a four-hitter, after the Tigers outslugged the Browns to win the opener. A six-run rally in the sixth clinched things. Ray Boone started Gray off to victory with a two-run homer in the third inning of the second game.

Yankees, Cardinals Lead All-Star Team Selections

CHICAGO (UP)—The starting major league All-Star squads were set today for the 20th annual inter-league contest.

Only six players, three from each league, were selected as repeaters from last year's teams.

The New York Yankees and the St. Louis Cardinals both placed three men on each team while the National League champion Brooklyn Dodgers tied the Cincinnati Reds by placing two representatives.

The two teams, selected by votes of the fans, will meet July 14 at Crosley Field in Cincinnati.

Yankee Manager Casey Stengel and Dodger Manager Charlie Dressen will handle the two teams and select their own starting pitchers and supporting players.

Torza Surprise In PGA Tourney

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer
BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (UP)—Tiny Felice Torza went out today to win another one "for the baby up in heaven."

Felice meets Jack Isaacs of Langley, Va., in one of the two semi-final matches, for the PGA golf championship at Birmingham Country Club. But the Little man isn't worried.

"He has wanted me to come this far," the deeply religious Torza explained. "I'm sure he wants me to go all the way. If he does—I will."

The five foot, six inch iron artist was talking about the son who was born to his wife last January at Galveston, Tex., the son they happily named Donald. Little Donald only lived six weeks and Felice still talks about him.

"I've got the shots and I know he wants me to win it," the dazed-haired mite of the fairways said as he eased onto a bench in front of his locker after beating tournament toughened Jimmy Clark in Sunday's quarter-finals. "My wife feels the same way. I've called her every night after I've won and she isn't ever surprised. She knows it, too."

There was no mockery in the little man's tones, nothing but the flat statement of accepted facts. Nor, Felice pointed out, does he think any of the less of them. Clark, two and one-half year old Douglas, "It's hard to explain," he added. "I just know he wants it."

That faith, and an almost naive confidence and lack of tension, can make Torza really the man to beat among the four survivors who include New Yorker Claude Harmon and Detroit Wally Burkemo.

This is his first crack at the PGA, which makes his progress even as far as the semi-finals something exceptional. And he didn't have a soft path this far, beating Gen Sarazen in the first round, defending champion Jim Turnesa in the third and Wally Ulrich in the fourth and then Clark. He had to crack home a birdie on the 585-yard last hole to do it, too, and that distance is more suited to the long-hitting Clark.

Girl Wrestlers Back Wednesday

An Australian tag match and girl wrestlers highlight the weekly card sponsored by Hugh T. Hardee and Woodrow Worthington at the New Enterprise Warehouse Wednesday night.

Another record-breaking crowd is expected to see Gloria Barattini and Mae Young do a return engagement here. The encore was arranged after last week's showing of these two beautiful and versatile performers. Fans nearly mobbed the local promoters with demands for a re-match. So Misses Barattini and Young will meet again in a two-out-of-three fall bout with a 60-minute time limit.

As if the girls wouldn't create enough fireworks, the promoters have arranged a tag match between Irish Jack Moore and Matt Murphy who will face a team of baldies, The Swedish Angel and the II Duke of Wrestling, Jim (The Bull) Austerlitz. This new combination is one of the roughest in the mat game, but those two Irish warriors, Murphy and Moore, can be counted on to reciprocate!

Colonel George Harben, Stone Mountain, Ga., will meet the latest sensation, handsome Rip Hawk, in the opener which begins at 8:30 p.m.

Pirates Signed 'Piratical' Deal

PITTSBURGH—Ever wonder how baseball clubs get those nicknames? The Pittsburgh Pirates got theirs by signing a player in a deal described as "piratical" by other clubs.

The name goes back to 1890 when the long forgotten Players League gave way to the National League and American Association.

Harmon, Burkemo Feature PGA Semi-Final Survivors

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (UP)—Claude Harmon and Wally Burkemo collided in the featured semi-final match of the PGA golf championship today as Tiny Felice Torza faced Virginian Jack Isaacs in the other.

These four, all "home pros" who ignore the tournament trail for club jobs, were the surprise survivors from the field of 136 who started last Wednesday.

The final three tournament stars, Dave Douglas, Jimmy Clark and Bill Nary, were knocked out Sunday in upsets, along with club pro Henry Ransom.

Burkemo sidelined Douglas, 2 up; Harmon walloped Nary 6 and 5; Torza topped Clark 1 up, and Isaacs put out Ransom by the same margin.

Harmon, of Mamaroneck, N. Y., has clipped six strokes from par during 132 holes en route to the semi-finals. Burkemo, of Franklin, Mich., is five under for 136 holes.

Isaacs, civilian pro at the Langley, Va., Air Force Base, has been battered by three strokes in 137 holes. Only Torza, of St. Charles, Ill., is above regulation figures, nine over par after 142.

Burkemo was two down after 18 holes in his quarter-final match against Douglas. But he rallied in the 19th hole and held a three hole lead at the 32nd hole. Douglas won the 34th and 35th with pars but Burkemo pounded his second two feet from the pin for a winning eagle three.

Harmon was one down after 18 but fired a three-under-par 33 to win seven of the next nine holes and go six up. The match ended at the 31st as they halved.

Torza was 2 up at the halfway mark against Clark and still held the advantage after 28 holes. Clark drew even at the 34th only to see Torza get a winning birdie on the last.

Isaacs was three down with six to play when he hit a torrid streak that included four birdies, one 50-foot putt and another a holed 40-foot approach shot.

Home Builders moved into first place in Men's Softball League Friday night by blasting Wagner-Waldrop, 7-2. Garner-Wynne-Manning picked up its first win of the second half by beating the Granites, 8-1.

Home Builders scored three runs in the second inning of the nightcap to clinch the contest. Robert Dash began the inning with a single, and Hardee followed with a base on balls. Dan Gordon and Kent Lee singled in succession to drive in two runners. Horace Carawan filed out to left field and Ford McGowan walked. Arnold Averette filed out to the leftfielder to end the scoring.

Bill Moore blasted a four-bagger with Mitchell White on base in the first inning of the opener to give Garner-Wynne-Manning its first lead. The winners added to their total by scoring two more runs in the second, three in the third, and wound up with one in the fourth.

Garner-Wynne-Manning plays Carolina Dairies tonight in the opener of another twinbill. Wagner-Waldrop meets the Granites in the second contest.

ACC Grid Coach At Presbyterian

CLINTON, S. C. (UP)—Athletic Director Walter A. Johnson said today former Atlantic Christian College head coach Bill Crutchfield has joined the Presbyterian College coaching staff.

Crutchfield, a native of Orangeburg, S. C., fills the vacancy created by the resignation of Sid Varney who recently became head coach at Elon College.

A former fullback and center under Carl Snavely at the University of North Carolina, Crutchfield was the youngest head coach in the North State Conference when he took over at Atlantic Christian in 1949. When that school dropped football after the 1951 season, Crutchfield moved to Mansfield, O., high school.

THE LAUGHING HORSE LOUISVILLE (AP)—Laffanago got his name because of his disposition. "After we bought him as a yearling," says Abe Giddins, one of the stable owners, "the colt acted like he was laughing. When he was taken on the track he always wanted to go. That's how we got the name."

These four, all "home pros" who ignore the tournament trail for club jobs, were the surprise survivors from the field of 136 who started last Wednesday.

The final three tournament stars, Dave Douglas, Jimmy Clark and Bill Nary, were knocked out Sunday in upsets, along with club pro Henry Ransom.

Farmville Team Divides Pair

FARMVILLE—Stantonburg scored once in the bottom of the 12th inning here Friday night to hand Farmville its seventh defeat of the season, 4-3. The Red Sox came back Saturday night to give Kinston a one-sided 8-0 defeat.

James Ray McLawhorn singled home Ronald Percise with the winning run in the bottom of the 12th to give Stantonburg its win. Percise had opened the inning with a single, and advanced when Jack McComas filed out and Senzack walked.

Percise was the batting star for the winners with four safeties in five attempts at the plate, including

Trumans Driving Mountaineer Confesses Shooting Jackson Sherriff Back To Missouri

COLUMBUS, O. (UP)—Former President Harry Truman and his wife, Bess, headed across the mid-section of Ohio in their car today on their way home to Missouri after a "wonderful week" in New York.

Mr. Truman drove his big black Chrysler out of Manhattan through the Holland Tunnel early yesterday and was swallowed up in the maze of cross-country highways. He did not outline his intended route beforehand or indicate when he and Mrs. Truman expect to reach Independence.

The Trumans were believed to have spent the night in eastern or central Ohio, having spent the night in eastern or central Ohio, having spent most of yesterday traveling through Pennsylvania.

Mr. Truman left his 32nd floor suite in New York's Waldorf Astoria towers at 6:15 a.m. with two bellhops carrying his suitcases. In Bryson City (UP)—A grizzled mountaineer with a criminal record dating back to World War I was moved to Swain County jail here after he confessed to the ambush-slating of Jackson County Sheriff Griffin Middleton, officers said today.

Highway Patrol Sgt. T. A. Sandlin said that Demos Woods, 56, of the remote Wolf Mountain section of Jackson County, made the confession in the presence of five officers, including District Solicitor Thad Bryson.

Woods was whisked to jail at Waynesville where he gave authorities a confession yesterday. Then he was brought to jail here.

No date has been set for a preliminary hearing, Bryson said, but he will be tried on a first degree murder charge. The trial probably will be at the October term of Jackson County Superior Court in Sylva.

Three other men held as material witnesses are being held at Sylva. Police said Woods has admitted that he had shot at least four other men and a woman, had been arrested for carrying a pistol and had been AWOL from the Army for 96 days during World War I.

Square Dance Under The Stars For Summer School Students Wednesday

Square dancing under the stars will be enjoyed by East Carolina summer school students next Wednesday night, July 8, according to plans now being made by the Student Government Association.

The party will be staged at 7:45 and will take place in the paved courtyard fronting the Maintenance Building on the east campus. Clyde Landing's String Band will provide music for the dance which will be attended by students and their guests.

Arrangements for the square dance are being made by a committee made up of S. Rudolph Alexander of Goldsboro, SGA president; Sara Thompson of Goldsboro, SGA treasurer; and John B. Johnson of Rocky Mount.

The square dance is one of a series of informal entertainments planned for the enjoyment of students attending the college this summer. A watermelon cutting at the picnic grounds on the west campus was attended this week by a large group of students and faculty members.

Fairy Tales Revised For Propaganda Use

BERLIN (U.P.)—East German Communists have written fairy tales to purge them of fairy godmothers and turn princes into revolutionaries.

By their own admission, the Communists are purging the Grimm brothers and Hans Christian Andersen of "romantic bourgeois tendencies" and investing them with "socialist-realist values."

The official Communist party newspaper Neues Deutschland, disclosed "Cinderella" has been rewritten to eliminate the fairy godmother "who has no place in a Marxist fairy tale."

In this "Red Cinderella" the king is "unmasked as a witless minor despot," his advisers revealed as "ridiculous bureaucrats" and members of the court as "decadent parasites."

The young prince, the newspaper says, "becomes a revolutionary who rejects his previous fruitless parasite existence."

Godmother Goes

The newspaper said the original version of "Cinderella" had this defect:

"The conflict of the fairy tale is limited to the personal relationship of Cinderella and her step-mother and step-sisters and is resolved on this personal basis alone, moreover by the intervention of a supernatural power. The author of the new version has enriched the fable with socially valid motives."

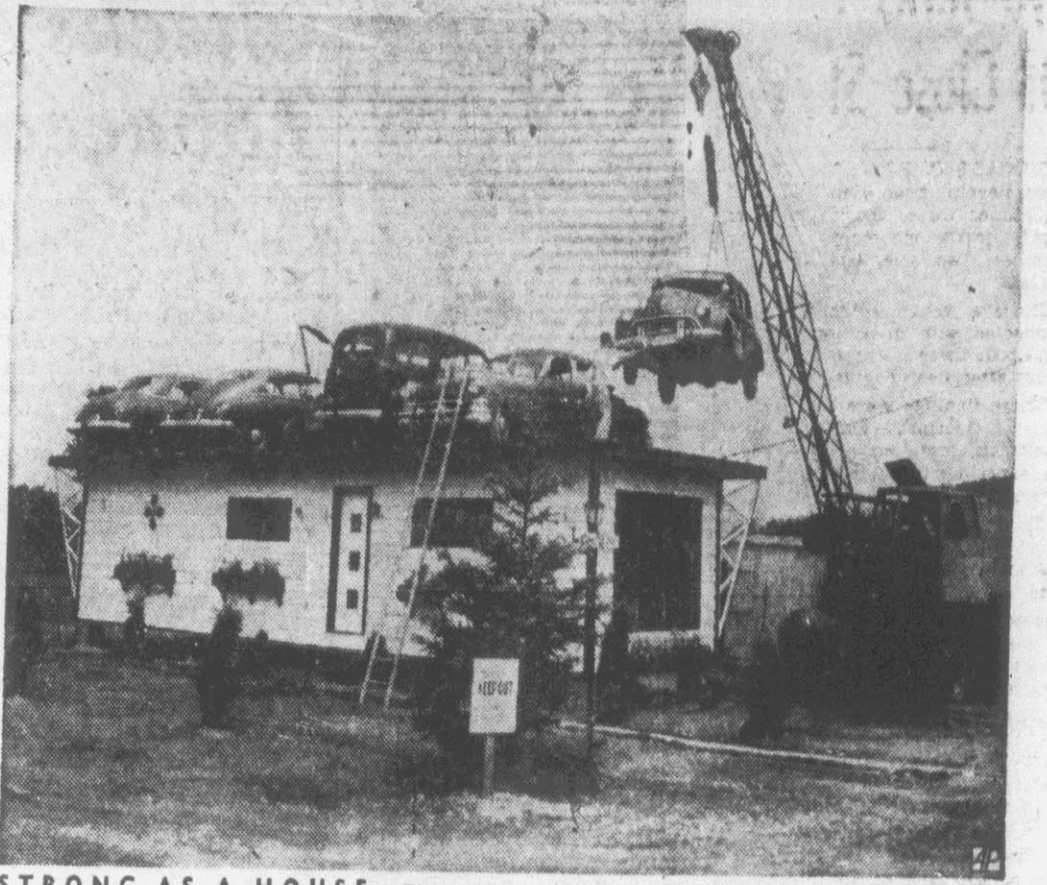

In the Communist tale, the fairy god mother is replaced by oppressed domestic animals.

The Communist-edited Berliner Zeitung said:

"The task of editors is to purify the fairy tale by studying the social relationships during the probable time of the appearance of the fairy tale, and by making a scientific analysis of its accordance to the teaching of hysterical materialism."

The Chemnitzer Volkstimme said:

"The purpose of fairy tales is to demonstrate that when people take their fate in their own hands many fairy-like things become reality. Then mountains are moved, water flows uphill, plants bear hundreds of different fruits, as Mitschurin taught, and the earth becomes rich and fruitful and a fine home for all, just as we see it in the Soviet Union."

'Special Education Day' To Be Observed July 8 At ECC

Special Education Day will be observed at East Carolina College Wednesday, July 8. Teachers, school administrators, and others interested in the problems of children with speech and hearing difficulties will hold at this time their fourth annual conference on the campus.

The event is sponsored by the East Carolina department of education and the North Carolina Society for Crippled Children and Adults. Demonstrations, observations of clinical practices, and talks by authorities in the field of special education will be included on the program.

Meetings beginning at 9 a. m. will be held in the Flanagan building, where during the present summer session a clinic to train teachers in special education and to assist young people with speech or hearing problems is being conducted. In the clinic fourteen clinicians and student teachers in special education are working with eleven young people from eight to twenty-four years of age.

Mrs. Dorothy W. Perkins, director of special education in the East Carolina department of education is in charge of the program for Special Education Day. Those who have assisted her in making arrangements for the conference include President John D. Messick, Dean Leo W. Jenkins, and Director of the department of education J. K. Long of East Carolina College.

Betty C. Wright, director of field services for the American Hearing Society, Washington, D. C. will be on the campus to participate in the conference program. A pioneer worker for the hard of hearing, she is the author of more than half a dozen works on the subject and of numerous articles in professional journals. At a luncheon in the North Dining hall she will speak on "Hearing and Special Education."

The speech clinic will be open from 9 to 11 o'clock, and the program will be based on activities there. Mrs. Perkins, Catherine Furbee, speech consultant in the Saginaw, Michigan, schools, who is assistant director of the clinic; and the college will discuss and demonstrate various aspects of special education.

Individual therapy for stutters and cleft palate and articulation cases will be discussed by Mrs. Mary Stuart, Gatesville; Mrs. Gladys Courate, Kingston; and Mrs. Inez Houlouell, Pikesville.

Group therapy in speech and speech hygiene will be considered with Miss Furbee as speaker. Mrs. Perkins and Miss Furbee will conduct demonstrations of relaxation in speech work. Observation of a social situation for those receiving clinical aid this summer will close the first part of the program.

At a session beginning at 11 o'clock, Albin Pikutis, executive director, and Carolina Caldwell, his assistant, of the North Carolina Society for Crippled Children and Adults, will discuss the work of the society in the state program of special education. Felix S. Barker, director of special education in the state Department of Public Instruction, will speak on "The Growth of Special Education in North Carolina."

In addition to Miss Wright's talk, the luncheon program will include a general discussion of hearing problems.

As closing event of the day Miss Furbee will discuss "The Special Education Program in the Public Schools."

Those who are interested in special education, especially teachers and parents of children with speech and hearing difficulties, are invited to attend the conference.

Signal Device Is For Hospital Use

CHICAGO (U.P.)—A "mechanical nurse" has been developed that can be used by hospitals plagued with a shortage of help.

The "mechanical nurse" is an automatic signal device that instantly alerts the nurse when a patient is unduly active or attempts to leave his bed.

The monitor can be engineered to connect into the audio-visual nurse call system and eliminates the necessity of a nurse remaining at the patient's bedside all the time.

When a patient is overly active or attempts to get out of bed (movements which may be harmful to his medical condition) highly sensitive switches are activated. Electrical impulses turn on a red lamp on the nurse's intercom control station and a soft chime sounds. Wherever the nurse may be, she is immediately notified that the patient must be attended to.

Ordinary motions of the patient do not activate the signals. The monitor is especially valuable in the care of certain post-operative and psychiatric cases. It also helps the nursing staff keep tabs on children too young to realize the need for remaining quietly in bed.

Ten Towns Seek To Keep Indian Train Running

SAFFORD, Ariz. (AP)—The people of 10 eastern Arizona towns are battling to keep the historic "Gila Tomahawk" running.

The Tomahawk is the only passenger train between Globe and Bowie, Ariz.

The Arizona Corporation Commission granted the request of the Southern Pacific Co. to discontinue the passenger service. Eastern Arizonans say they will go to court unless the commission reconsiders.

Apache Indians are especially anxious to keep the Tomahawk chugging across their reservation. Under a long-standing agreement, they ride free within the boundaries of their tribal area.

FORD beat all other cars regardless of size or weight in the 1953 Mobilgas Economy Run!

Other cars may claim economy but there was only one sweepstakes winner in the recent Mobilgas Economy Run. And Ford made history winning it. Ford's Mileage Maker Six, with Overdrive, not only won over cars in its own price class but is the first low-priced car in history to beat all other cars, regardless of size or weight. Eye Jerks Topic Of Close Study

CHICAGO (U.P.)—The eyes of most sleeping people undergo two, sometimes three, short periods of rapid, jerky movements during slumber, two scientists have reported.

The eye jerks are thought to be connected with dreaming and begin about three to three and a half hours after sleep begins.

These findings were reported by Eugene Aserinsky and Nathaniel Kleitman, professor of physiology, on experiments performed at the University of Chicago.

The eyes jerk about for a period of usually 15 or 20 minutes before the movements subside. About two and a half hours later a second period of eye movements begins. If the individual sleeps long enough there may be a third series shortly before awakening.

The movements were recorded by the means of tiny electrodes attached to the skin around the eyes. Differences in the flow of currents showed the movements.

The experimenters reported that if they awakened the subject during or shortly after the movements the sleepers reported that they had been dreaming. Awakened in between the periods of movements, the sleepers did not recall dreaming.

It is hoped that the discovery of the movements may aid in the study of dreams.

Secretary Wrote Book As Sideline

OTTAWA (AP)—A pretty Ottawa secretary took five years to write a book, but it has netted her $15,000 and she considers her efforts well worth while.

Suzanne Butler's book "My Pride, My Folly" is set in 19th-century Canada. For two years while she was writing her book, Miss Butler worked as a teacher at a girls' school in Montreal; for three, she was secretary of the Association of Canadian Clubs in Ottawa.

She did her research at night in McGill University.

Bugs Said Key To Finding Oil

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—If there are bugs on the soil there's oil down below.

That's the belief of Logan Goodnight of Long Beach, who has studied and found significant relation between the presence of certain soil bugs and oil deposits.

His theory is backed by the development of 18 wildcat producers in Texas, Kansas and California into million dollar properties. "These bacteria," Goodnight said, "live on volatile gases from the oil and gas below. They multiply and leave 'tracks' and chemical tests verify their presence and indicate commercial production."

Parental Psychology Reduced To 4 Points

By DAVID TAYLOR MARKE AP Newsfeatures Writer

Every parent and teacher can't be a child psychologist, but there are four guiding principles which can be followed by anyone dealing with children according to President George D. Stoddard of the University of Illinois, a noted child psychologist himself:

1. Love the child, but not blindly; get to know him, and through him, yourself. For example, some personal and emotional problems of children can be met by talking them out; acting them out; playing and working them out. The secret is communication, and the thing to communicate is affectionate interest. Listen to your children—for a change! Let them think and talk, make mistakes and try again.
2. Use the word "no" only as a last-resort whiplash. Find out how much can be allowed, not how much can be denied. Stop carrying over your frustrations to the next generations. Be explicit about all denials and prohibitions. Explain them even through the child does not understand—or pretends not to.
3. Less judging and criticizing and more trustful companionship is the order of today. This means less of the forward-pass technique—less of handing children over to the whims of radio, television, comics, and motion picture. It means more reading to and with; more games together; more family expeditions, not without considerable freedom on the child's part to choose time, place, activity, and playmates.
4. Finally self-discipline, the acceptance of reality, and a zest for life are the goals—equality of parent and child. The teaching is to choose, sincere, devoted, sincere job with his wheel brakes to bring the plane to a safe standstill before swimming is to swim with, not read about—and so for other sports, arts, activities, and achievements.

Singer Arrived Safely After Eventful Trip

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP)—French crooner and song writer Charles Trenet arrived here for a Congo singing tour with some misgivings.

When his plane reached Africa, it had to stop over at Dakar because of engine troubles. After repairs and a delayed departure, a second engine went wrong and the plane returned to Dakar. It waited there which had to be flown to Accra a third engine went coughing but was repaired with only a little delay, another 48 hours for a new engine went wrong and the plane returned to Dakar. It waited there another Leopoldville, the Belgian Congo capital, the airfield night landing system was out of order and the pilot had nothing but a dim row of blue lights and ground crewmen waving flashlights to find his way down the runway. The pilot had to try twice and do an expert job with his wheel brakes to bring the plane to a safe standstill before singer Trenet reached Leopoldville.

Backstairs Look Into White House Affairs

By MERRIMAN SMITH
United Press White House Writer
WASHINGTON (UP)—Backstairs at the White House:

Mikhail Fedorov, head of the Washington bureau of Tass, the official Russian news agency, was barred from President Eisenhower's last news conference. Fedorov arrived after the conference started and as a late comer, he was not admitted.

Tass, however, got a report on the conference from one of its other correspondents, Jean Montgomery. She got there early and had a seat down front.

"Mike" Fedorov is reported due to return to Russia soon. In the several years he has been assigned here, he has taken little part in the life of the large Washington press and radio community.

While the children of White House staff members splashed noisily in the President's pool the other morning, they were watched attentively by a lifeguard who slowly patrolled the edge of the pool—in full Army uniform except for a cap.

On the walls of the White House press room are personally inscribed photographs of Presidents Coolidge, Hoover, Roosevelt, and Truman, each presented to the correspondents and photographers while the chief executives were in office.

No picture, however, of Mr. Eisenhower is in the press room, although he has autographed many pictures submitted to him by individual newsmen. Chances are that his staff members have never suggested to the President that he present a picture to the press room gallery.

Speaking of pictures, Mrs. Eisenhower recently gave a handsome inscribed, color photograph of herself to each of the reporters and photographers who gave her a birthday party last November in Augusta, Ga.

Rather than wade through many newspapers, the President relies on a highly compressed morning digest for much of his news. The one or two-page digest is prepared early each morning by Press Secretary James C. Hagerty.

Quite the season for convertibles among the White House staff. Sherman Adams, highly dignified assistant to the President, is whirling about town in a bright green dreamboat; Max Rabb, one of Adams' assistants, has a yellow convertible, and C. D. Jackson, psychological warfare expert has a British sports roadster.

Greenville's Entry In N.C. Beauty Pageant

Red-Coats Have Been Modernized

WINNIPEG (AP)—The Royal Canadian Mounted Police has gone modern with a vengeance. Horses, which now appear only on ceremonial occasions, have been replaced by speeding patrol cars equipped with two-way radio. The sled dogs have given way to a monster on skis called a bombardier snowmobile which costs less to run than the huskies.

Trim cabin cruisers patrol the larger lakes and all branches are linked by radio to speed the work.

Army Irrigation Helps Okinawa

NAHA, Ryukyu Islands (U.P.)

—The U.S. Army is planting dollars in the barren land of the Ryukyu Islands and reaping a lush harvest of rice for the natives—plus savings for the American taxpayers. The dollars pay for new irrigation canals which boost rice production for the nearly 1,000,000 people living on Okinawa and other islands of the 750-mile chain.

The investment is saving Americans tax money because it means less imported food for the Ryukyans. Food—bought with U.S. funds—must be imported for the natives here because their land will not produce enough to feed the large population.

Since early 1947, the U.S. Army's Civil Administration of the islands has furnished technical and financial aid for construction of 17 new concrete irrigation canals. They are expected to add 1,823 acres of irrigated paddy land in the Ryukyus and will increase annual rice production an estimated 4,752,000 pounds. Ryukyans did almost of the labor on the projects with American engineers in supervisory positions.

When 83 more irrigation projects are finished, rice production is expected to mount to an estimated 28,952,000 pounds annually—or more than a 50 per cent boost NAMED ENVOY—Lester Corrin Strong, of Washington, D. C., has been nominated by President Eisenhower as Ambassador to Norway succeeding C. Ulric Bay, resigned.

East Carolina Faculty Member Retiring After Lengthy Service

With the retirement of Ann Redwine of Monroe, N.C., this summer, East Carolina College gives up one of its faculty members longest in service and the state loses one of its outstanding teachers in the field of elementary education.

Since 1925 Miss Redwine has taught first or second grade and supervised student teaching at East Carolina. Before that, she was an elementary-school teacher in Wadesboro, Belmont, Rockingham, and Monroe.

She has taught also at the demonstration school of Appalachian State Teachers College, where she supervised her first student teaching; at the Asheville State Summer School, where she taught kindergarten methods; in the education and psychology departments of East Carolina during several summer sessions; and in summer schools, or institutes, conducted in Union County, N.C.

As she closes her career at East Carolina, those who know her work best and are best able to evaluate it recognize her as a teacher devoted to the welfare and happiness of the child and outstanding in her progressive ideas and her fine judgment in the field of elementary education.

Miss Redwine is a graduate of East Carolina, where she received the bachelor's degree in 1928. She holds the master's degree and a diploma as a supervisor in normal schools and teachers colleges from Teachers College, Columbia University. She attended North Carolina College for Women in Greensboro for three years, Ohio State University, and Northwestern University, and did work during summer terms at several other colleges and universities.

As a classroom teacher Miss Redwine was eminently successful. Her respect and love for children was marked. A fellow teacher at East Carolina said recently that Miss Redwine worked each day toward making each child's life "richer, fuller, and happier." She was creative and original in her teaching and generous in sharing ideas with colleagues. In its orderliness and attractiveness, her classroom was always a pleasant and interesting place for little girls and boys.

Miss Redwine was constantly looking for something better in school methods and procedures. Many years ago she took the initial step in working out an improved report card for children attending the East Carolina training school. Her ideas, when put into practice, had much influence on the type of report card used in this section of North Carolina. Long before the schools of the state had individual cumulative records for pupils, she was one of a group which worked out a plan for keeping such data at the campus elementary school. To aid student teachers, she prepared a manual for their use.

Her help, advice, and guidance were often sought, and she gave her time freely and gladly to those who came to her. Student teachers whose work she supervised found her a friend and a wise and in-spring counselor. Teachers in the field often brought their problems to her. "Very few people" a colleague remarked, "knew the numbers of parents and teachers who sought her wise guidance." Parents appreciated her understanding of children and trusted and admired her. The children she taught felt secure with her and knew that she respected them and loved them.

"My son is a changed person since he has been in Miss Redwine's grade," the mother of one of her pupils said gratefully. "If she could only teach him for three or four more years the good habits he is establishing would never be lost."

To parent-teacher groups and their work Miss Redwine gave keen interest and unflagging energy. She served on the college Cooperation Committee of the state PTA. In 1947 she was one of eight scholarship recipients chosen by the National Congress of Parents and Teachers from the entire United States to do graduate work in parent-teacher leadership at Northwestern University. At East Carolina in 1948 she planned, organized, and conducted a PTA workshop; and she was largely responsible for the incorporation of PTA work in a college course. At the East Carolina Training School she organized and was active in the work of a PTA study group.

Her belief in close cooperation between parent and teacher led her to accept many invitations as a speaker. She made frequent talks before educational organizations.

For years she was a member of the student branch of the Association for Childhood Education at East Carolina, the Greenville branch, and the International ACE. At the college she was in charge of the Leah Jones Stevens Loan Fund of the ACE. She belonged to the North Carolina Education Association, the National Education Association, and the American Association of University Women.

"I do nothing glamorous," Miss Redwine said recently of her work as a teacher, "but find the day too short to do all that needs to be done in connection with my work with children, their mothers, and my student teachers so that they and I can continue to grow."

On this idea she built her life as a teacher and a supervisor of student teachers. In her activities at her home in Monroe, where she will live in the future, there is little doubt that Miss Redwine will "continue to grow."

Hong-Kong's Big Industry Fading

HONG KONG (AP)—The hard-pressed textile industry in this British colony will continue to decline and there is no hope it will ease in the immediate future, according to Labor Commissioner B.C.K. Hawkins.

Reporting on labor conditions for the first three months of 1953, Hawkins said the main reasons were the sudden drop in the price of cotton yarn, inadequate working capital and trading restrictions, particularly with Indonesia.

He estimated 5,800 workers in the knitting and weaving industries were jobless.

Heavy Duty For Imported Autos

NEW DELHI (AP)—India imposes a standard duty of 75 per cent on the cost price of imported small automobiles with less than eight horsepower in assembled form, commerce Minister T.T. Krishna-Machari says.

The figure compares with duties ranging as high as 94 per cent on certain parts of the same cars in knocked-down condition. A commerce ministry spokesman explained that "the duty on parts varies, depending on whether the particular component is or is not produced in the country to a sufficient extent."

JESSE R. LAUGHINGHOUSE IS NOW VISITING THE FURNITURE MART

Jesse R. Laughinghouse, of Bostic Sugg Furniture Co. is preparing himself for a strenuous "walk," he will cover more than ten acres on foot. This would be his summer visit to High Point, N. C. for the semi-annual furniture market held in the huge 14-story Southern Furniture Exposition Building. There, is over 10 acres of display space, some 450 manufacturers will be showing the latest developments in home furnishings merchandise - merchandise Mr. and Mrs. America will be buying for their home this fall.

Mr. Laughinghouse will spend long hours inspecting these "new models" before choosing those items he feels are best for all homemakers.

"I am convinced that home furnishings today represent the best value money can buy. In terms of the family budget a purchase for the home is an investment that pays dividends for many years to come," he said. He pointed out further that manufacturers today were using new and advanced production techniques that permitted them to incorporate style, comfort and utility in all types of home goods at prices well within the reach of modest budgets.

"The increased value found in home goods today is the direct result of the influence exerted by the consumer herself. The average American housewife has found the home growing in importance as a major institution in the American way of life. She has recognized that modern, informal living not only requires tastefully styled furnishings, but furnishings that are useful, comfortable and easy to maintain and clean. The home goods being produced today meet those specifications."

The furniture market in High Point is scheduled for July 6-18, and will attract buyers from all over the country. This will be the 57th semi-annual furniture market to be held there.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (UP)—Volume declined again on the stock market today with prices holding firm.

The leading groups—industrial, rail, and utility—gained slightly. Very few net changes were outside the fractional area.

Caution prevailed because of the tax and Korean uncertainties plus warnings that the market might be getting to levels where it will meet with strong resistance.

The widest changes were in high-priced, dull issues. Coca-Cola declined 2 1/4 points to a new low at 108 while Rohm & Haas rose 2 1/2 points to 127 1/2.

New York Central featured in turnover, helped by blocks of 1,800 and 3,208 shares at the previous close of 2 1/2. American Broadcasting Company had a sale of 4,800 shares which lifted it to second place in turnover.

Steels were little changed and the motors balanced off small gains and losses.

By UNITED PRESS

Violent thunderstorms and roaring winds lashed across the Midwest today, and at least three persons were dead and dozens injured in their wake.

Heavy local rains were reported in some areas. Dubuque, Ia., recorded 2.95 inches in a 15-minute period.

Lightning hit an anti-aircraft ammunition dump in Chicago last night and exploding 120 millimeter shells rocked the city's northwest side. More than 3,000 residents were evacuated when the fire and explosions lit up the night sky "like an inferno."

Strong winds hit Peoria, Ill., Springfield, Ill., Indianapolis, Ind., and Cincinnati, O. Rainfall totalled 3.56 at Rantoul, Ill., and 3.27 at Indianapolis.

Llewellyn Hugh Kinman, 41, was killed yesterday when lightning hit him on his farm near Guthrie Center, Ia.

Raymond Floyd Jameson, 51, was struck by lightning and killed instantly while he stood under a tree near the West Liberty, Ia., fairgrounds.

Percy Smart, 77-year old bachelor, was killed near Plankinton, S. D., when a windstorm rolled his trailer home about 500 yards.

Elsewhere in the nation, generally fair weather was reported except for moderately cool temperatures over the northern Rocky Mountains.

An 80-mile-an-hour windstorm raked Iowa City, Ia., over the weekend and injured more than a dozen persons in a holiday crowd.

Nearly 10,000 persons were caught outdoors watching a fireworks display when the storm struck. Most of the crowd escaped from the park before high winds began to topple trees.

Bing And Son Return To U.S.

NEW YORK (UP)—Bing Crosby and his son, Lindsay, 15, returned from a three and a half month trip to Europe today and will leave tonight by train for Crosby's Nevada ranch.

Crosby said he'd found the Spanish people "genuinely friendly" but he caused a flurry of indignation when he confessed to Spanish reporters that he could not speak their language.

Crosby said his pictures have been shown in Spain with Spanish dubbed in "and they said I had a beautiful Castilian accent. Actually all I could say was a few words of greeting, and I didn't understand them."

The twister was followed by heavy rains and high winds.

Holiday Toll...

According to Whitley, a car driven by Julian Hughes Manning, Route 1, Greenville, was parked in front of a service station when a car driven by Francis Whitfield Oakley, of 407 West 4th Street, Greenville, attempted to make a right turn and was struck from the rear, causing it to hit the parked car.

Damage to the three automobiles was estimated at over $1600 by Whitley.

Charged with careless and reckless driving was Susann Barnes of Brooklyn, New York, driver of the third car.

No injuries were listed.

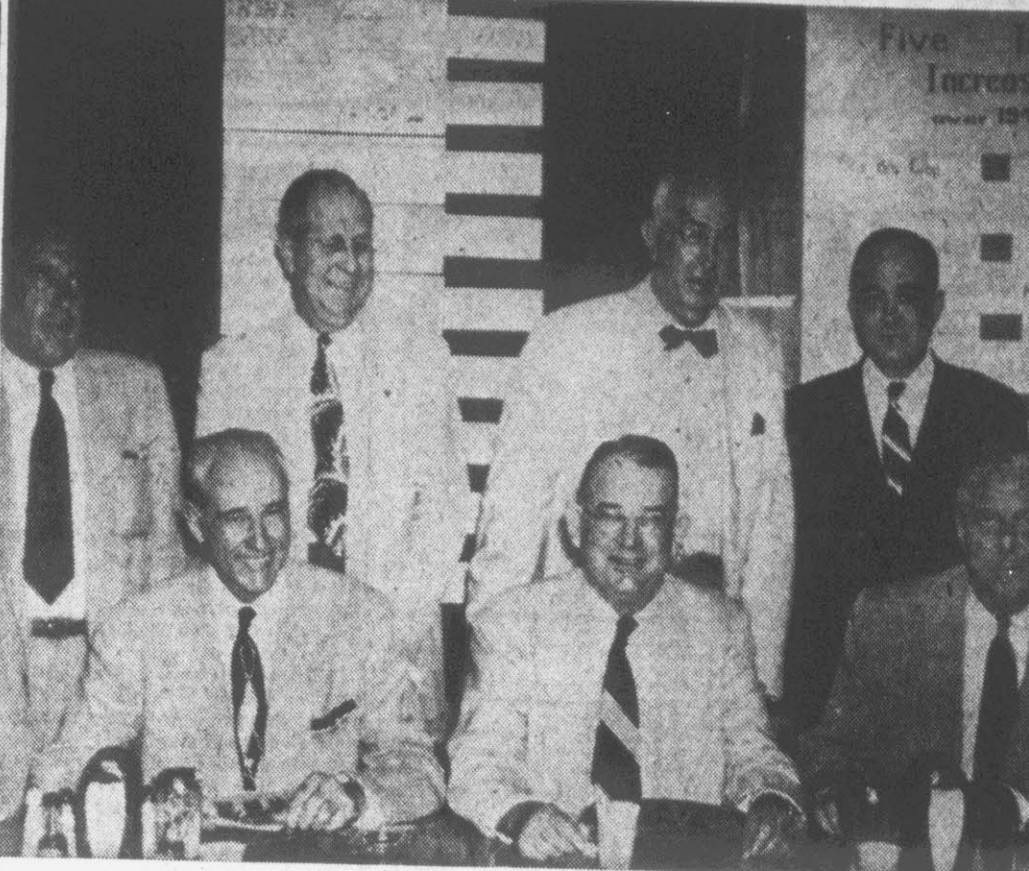

Charges of improper passing and no operator's license was lodged against a Washington D. C. Negro man last night after his automobile collided with a car on NC 11, South of Greenville around seven o'clock.

Cpl. C. E. Whitfield, investigating officer, listed the driver as being Lewis Tyson, of -4 V Street, Washington. He struck a car driven by Vance Briley, Jr., of Route 1, Greenville.

Scout Council Maps Future Campaigns

East Carolina Council, Boy Scouts of America, met in Greenville last week to make preliminary plans for the 1953-54 budget and council campaign. Those attending were: Dr. John D. Messick of Greenville, Council President Penn T. Watson of Wilson and Leo H. Harvey of Kinston (seated); Allen Ives of New Bern, Ed E. Rawl of Greenville, Josh Horne of Rocky Mount and Archie McLean of Rocky Mount (standing).

Dr. John D. Messick, vice-president of East Carolina Council, Boy Scouts of America, was selected as council finance chairman at the meeting here last week.

He and Council President Penn T. Watson of Wilson have recruited a team of leading business executives to advise and direct the 1953-54 campaign.

Emphasis was placed on the fact that the next three years will show a large increase in the number of boys of Boy Scout age in the East Carolina Council area. At the end of 1952 there were 63,650 boys between the age of 8 and 17 eligible to be a Cub Scout, Boy Scout or Explorer. By 1956, there will be 81,900 boys eligible for the three programs. For the past two years, East Carolina Council has had approximately one out of each 10 boys eligible for scouting actually registered in one of the three programs.

It was pointed out at the meeting that in order to maintain the same percentage of membership, if the staff continues to do as good job as in the past few years, and serve as many as 40 units per staff man, it will require at least nine men to do as good a job as is presently being done with the seven man staff.

Messick and Watson both said "the boys of our state deserve to have the finest men and most skilled leadership available and interested in their character and citizenship training. Josh Horne, well known newspaper editor and radio and television executive of Rocky Mount, was the first to volunteer for his important job as public information chairman for the council campaign.

Leo Harvey, well known banker and business executive of Kinston, volunteered to serve as chairman of the big gifts committee for the council campaign.

Others accepting their responsibility were Allen Ives, New Bern fertilizer manufacturer, to serve as advance gifts chairman; Archie McLean, bank president of Rocky Mount, to serve as community chest relationships director, and Ed E. Rawls, vice-president of Carolina Sales Corporation, Greenville, to direct organization of the simultaneous council-wide "draw to duck" finance campaign which was tentatively scheduled for October 6.

Council President Watson announced that the annual budget planning conference with the full council finance committee, which includes the finance chairmen from each of the 13 Districts will be held the afternoon of Saturday, July 18, at Morehead City. This meeting would be followed with the regular quarterly meeting of the Council Executive Board to approve the budget planned by the finance committee.

300,000th Air Evacuee In War

TOKYO (UP)—The 300,000th air evacuee to be flown from the front lines in Korea since the war started arrived at an airbase near Tokyo this weekend, 30 hours after being wounded by mortar fire.

U. S. Army Pfc. Arthur B. Pearson of Madison, N. C., was the evacuee whose airlift marked the milestone flight. He and 33 other wounded U. N. combat men were flown from Korea in a C-54 Sky-master of the U. S. Air Force 374th Troop Carrier Wing.

He was greeted by Maj. Gen. John M. Hargreaves, Far East Air Forces air surgeon; Col. David B. Lancaster of St. Pauls, N. C., acting Korean airlift commander; Col. Jesse J. Grace, of Russellville, Ark., 6481st Medical Air Evacuation group commander, and Col. James W. Champan, of Austin, Tex., commander of the 374th wing.

Pearson, a radar specialist with a forward observation unit, was injured last week when an enemy mortar shell exploded nearby. He was rushed from the front to a medical station in a rear area and then moved quickly to an advance air installation for evacuation to Japan.

In Tokyo, Pearson and 15 other evacuees were placed on a Royal Thai Air Force C-47 for an immediate flight across the city to a hospital, which has a landing strip. The 20-minute flight from the combat cargo base to the hospital would have taken six hours by ambulance through city traffic.

Carried Note Of Suicide Plan To Nearby Priest

NEW YORK (UP)—Mary Hayes, 14, bought a chocolate bar Sunday and as she was leaving the candy store in Brooklyn the proprietor, James Di Gaetano, 41, called her back.

He handed the girl a note and asked her to take it to the Rev. Thomas Conolly at nearby Holy Cross church.

A few minutes later the priest read the note. It said: "I am going to kill myself. Please pray for me. You'll find the keys to my store in the back seat of my car, parked outside."

The Rev. Conolly telephoned police and hurried to the store. He and the police arrived at the same time. They found Di Gaetano dead, his body slumped from a water pipe in the basement.

Contract Let On Co-Op Building

FARMVILLE—Contract has been awarded for construction of a $300,000 headquarters building here for the Pitt and Greene Electric Membership Corporation.

R. N. Rouse & Co., Goldsboro contractor, was the successful bidder. The structure will be adjacent to Benjamin May Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution. Construction will be started within two or three weeks. Southern Engineering Company drew the plans for the building.

Gilbert Whitley, manager of the corporation, said the price includes plumbing, heating, air conditioning, grading and paving the lot, etc., as well as for funds for extending the town's water and sewer facilities. The manager said the corporation is now in cramped quarters, but the new building will provide ample space for carrying on the administrative activities. The corporation serves nearly 3,500 families in several counties in this area.
