Air Force Chief Says Soviet Now Catching Up On Trained Airmen

Gen. Twining Says U. S. Shortage Of Skilled Maintenance Men Growing

BILOXI, Miss. (UP)—Gen. Nathan F. Twining said today that Russia is gradually overtaking American in the training of skilled airmen. The new Air Force chief of staff coupled the warning with disclosure that a shortage of maintenance men has hindered use of the new electronic gunship in the F-86 Sabre jet in Korea.

In a speech at the Mississippi American Legion convention, Twining urged America not to make the prewar German mistake of building first-class combat planes without sufficient trained people to keep them flying.

The speech, Twining's first since he succeeded Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, reflected Air Force concern over falling re-enlistment rates and apparently, over manpower cuts ordered by Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson. The cuts will number 20,000 in the next 12 months. Some re-enlistment rates are as low as 15 per cent.

Appealing to the Legion for help in recruiting and retaining superior men, Twining said: "Not a single item of our shiny new machinery of defense is worth two cents without sufficiently trained and experienced men to make it go at the instant we need it."

The Communists, he said, are training hundreds of pilots and crews in Korea and Manchuria—willing to take heavy losses to get the best training and experience possible. Illustrating the Air Force's need for a new breed of airmen in the jet and electronics age, Twining said the F-86 gunship makes sights of several years ago resemble "elementary toys."

"One of our principal difficulties in the use of these new gunships," he said, "has been a lack of sufficient personnel trained in their maintenance and operation." Such complex devices are urgently needed in the arms race with Russia, he went on.

"There are many indications that the rapid improvement of air weapons by the USSR is gradually overtaking the technical superiority we have always counted on," Twining said. Without that superiority in trained men as well as planes, he said, America would have a "poor chance" against Russia's superior numbers.

He said the Air Force's toughest "explaining" job right now was not its need for new planes and bases but for men to "make these planes and bases work." Yet, he said, a plane is nothing but a target if men of superior training and experience don't operate it.

He cited the Korean war where "overwhelming" victories have been won by veterans of at least two or three years experience and good technical background. But "large numbers" will be lost next year, Twining said, because their four-year enlistments will run out.

Governor Still 'Undecided' On Senate Choice

RALEIGH (UP)—Gov. William B. Umstead has indicated that he hopes to appoint a successor to the late Sen. Willis Smith (D-NC) as soon as possible. But as of yesterday, when he received two delegations in behalf of men mentioned for the vacant Senate seat, he said he has not decided on an appointee.

Umstead received a delegation from Fayetteville, headed by Mayor George Herndon and Vestal Taylor, calling on him in behalf of John Dawson, prominent Kinston attorney. He told the delegation "he feels he owes it to the people to appoint the right man and to do so as soon as possible," a delegation spokesman said.

The governor also received a delegation supporting J. A. Fritchett of Windsor.

Sticky Korean Mud And Rains Mire GIs In Trenches, Bunkers

CENTRAL FRONT, Korea (UP)—Today was a day of slime, mud and blood for the men of Company King. Rivers of slime oozed along the trench bottoms, knee deep mud that made every step an effort for the weary American infantrymen.

But thanks to a heavy fog that closed the mountainous frontlines, there was little blood lost. The Communists couldn't see to shoot. The big enemy was the weather, and King's three platoons were feverishly trying to rebuild collapsed bunkers and caved-in trenches—the result of five days of steady rain.

It was a wet, filthy, miserable band working in the tight confines of the trenches. "Lieutenant," yelled one mud-

SOME BLACK SHANK—Evidence of the dread tobacco disease has been showing up in local fields. However, the presence of the plan-killer has not been widespread this year as in previous years due to a larger planting of disease-resistant varieties. East German Police Purged For Unreliability, Firing Squads Execute 46

By JOSEPH FLEMING, United Press Staff Correspondent BERLIN (UP)—Red firing squads were reported today to have executed 46 East German policemen for participating in the workers' revolt against Communist rule last month.

The West Berlin newspaper Telegraf said Red Army courts convicted 15 police officers and 31 enlisted men of mutiny and "resistance against the Soviet army," and had them shot.

Earlier reports from East Germany said that 18 Soviet soldiers were executed for disobedience at Magdeburg during the rebellion against the bosses of the Russian occupied zone.

Another 578 German policemen were sentenced to long prison terms on similar charges, according to the Telegraf. The report could not be confirmed but Western Allied officials said thousands of police joined the rebellion in East Germany and tens of thousands stood by passively and made no move to suppress the uprising.

Allied officials said the conduct of the police during the demonstrations proved to the Soviets that they could not rely on the 120,000-man strong police army. These officials said Russian distrust probably is the reason the East German regime called a halt to its rearmament campaign.

Reports reaching Western sources say the Soviets now view the vast majority of the 25,000,000 peoples in East Germany with the same distrust as they regard their Communist police.

The Russians were said to have tightened non-fraternization bans and forbidden all but official contacts between the Soviet occupation forces and East Germans. East Germans convicted of leading the rebellion were reported facing possible deportation to the Soviet Union.

The Information Bureau West, a private intelligence agency in West Berlin, said Soviet military authorities already have deported German civilians convicted by Red army courts.

Russian military tribunals as well as East German courts were reported busy trying alleged leaders of the revolt which swept the Soviet Zone June 17. Some 300,000 tank-supported Soviet troops were called in and martial law declared to crush the threat to the Communist East German regime. But a Western spokesman said labor unrest still simmered despite military rule and some concessions offered by the Red government. Strikes tied up a number of factories while workers at other plants maintained slowdowns to obtain the release of fellow workers netted in the roundup of thousands of demonstrators.

The three Western commandants for the third time demanded Monday night that the Soviets lift their restrictions on free travel between East and West Berlin which they imposed during the uprisings. A strongly worded note to Soviet Commander Maj. Gen. P. T. Di-brova also rejected Russian charges that the revolt was provoked by "Western agents and provocateurs." The Soviet allegations, the note said, are "completely false and contrary to the well-established facts."

The Western commandants said they were "encouraged to note certain preposterous restrictions" on traffic had been removed but pointed out that important inter-sector facilities such as subways and elevated lines still are suspended.

Red Raid Halted By Bayonets

GIs and ROK Allies Used Knives, Gun Butts And Bayonets In Fighting

SEOUL, Korea (UP)—Heroic American and South Korean soldiers, using World War I tactics, broke a 2,000 man Chinese assault on the western front today with bayonets and rifle butts.

Ankle-deep mud that turned the front lines near Porkchop Hill and Arrowhead Ridge into a miserable wasteland clogged the rifles and machineguns of the valiant defenders of the vital Allied outposts.

American footloggers of the U. S. 7th Division annihilated a 1,500 man pincer assault on Porkchop, and the South Koreans enjoyed similar successes at Arrowhead.

The onrushing battalions of Chinese stepped over the bodies of Reds who had fallen in the mud and died under the blasts of their own artillery in their vain efforts to take the two outposts guarding the invasion route to Seoul.

Even though 8,500 rounds of artillery and mortar fire supported them, the Reds backtracked to the northern slopes of both outposts by late afternoon. Frontline officers estimated the Chinese hurled two battalions against Porkchop during the long battle that lasted all night and all day.

The health-giving foods along with plenty of baths but no swimming was the mothers' way of trying to protect their children against the dread disease which has claimed 86 victims in Caldwell County, including two deaths.

Thousands of children lined up again today at four injection centers to receive their shots of the disease which is expected to greatly reduce the paralyzing effects which often accompany polio.

Fast-working doctors, injecting the hip shots of gg in relays, inoculated 5,825 children Monday, raising hopes that the rest of the 11,000 children scheduled for the shots might be run through today. The process had been expected to take at least three days.

Health authorities at Montgomery, Ala., reported that a six-year-old girl who received a gamma globulin shot in the first mass test of the serum last week contracted polio three days later.

Dr. A. H. Graham, Montgomery County health officer who directed the inoculation of some 32,000 children, indicated that the new case was not unexpected although no new polio victims had been reported in three days.

"We assured parents that they couldn't expect any real reduction in the incidence of polio in the first seven days," Dr. Graham said. "After that we hoped for about an 80 per cent reduction on the basis of earlier experiments held at Sioux City, Ia., and Houston, Tex."

"We are rather confident that gamma globulin will be successful but we still can't be sure." He repeated earlier warnings that the serum only "reduces the severity of polio" and doesn't immunize children against it. Dr. Graham added that gamma globulin would be effective only for about four or

Expected To Answer Clark's Armistice Offer Reds Call For Parley

SEOUL, Korea. (UP)—The Reds called a meeting of truce liaison officers for noon tomorrow, presumably to answer Gen. Mark Clark's proposal for an immediate armistice with or without Syngman Rhee, meanwhile, told United Press his talks with American truce expeditor Walter Robertson still are deadlocked but he is willing to accept "any plan which will guarantee Korea's survival."

The Communists called the liaison meeting shortly after Robertson postponed his conference with the aged South Korean president today, possibly because he was awaiting word from Washington. Clark, U. N. Far East commander, asked the Communists last June 29 to resume the meetings at Panmunjom and iron out differences in the way of a ceasefire in Korea.

At that time, Clark disclaimed responsibility for Rhee's arbitrary release of 27,000 anti-Communist war prisoners, but said the U. N. would make the strongest effort possible to enforce a truce. Thus far, the Communists have not replied to Clark's request. Instead, Peiping radio has accused Clark, the United States and the United Nations of "conniving" with Rhee and attempting to "hoodwink" the people of the world.

Clark had told the Reds it was "impossible" to return the prisoners since they had disappeared in the Korean population at Pusan, near the scene of their escape, and in surrounding hills. The call for the liaison meeting eclipsed the unexplained failure of Robertson to meet with Rhee. It was the third time they failed to meet in 12 days of negotiation.

The official American embassy spokesman said he could not state why the scheduled meeting was called off but said he believed Rhee and Robertson would resume their conversations tomorrow. Observers believed Robertson had planned to meet with Rhee but called off the conference because orders from Washington did not arrive on schedule. Belief grew in non-Korean diplomatic circles here that Rhee was playing a waiting game to see what the Reds would do about signing an armistice without his support. At the same time, the Communists appeared to be waiting for the U. S.-Korean talks to produce something before they agree to sign the almost-completed armistice document at Panmunjom, as suggested by Gen. Mark W. Clark, the United Nations supreme commander in the Far East.

Red China's peiping radio warned in morning and afternoon broadcasts that the "whole world is watching" the Rhee-Robertson talk and America's next move in the crisis created by Rhee when he released 27,000 anti-Red North Korean war prisoners. Radio Peiping, relaying American press reports on the Rhee-Robertson conferences, said the talks revealed the discussions "are nothing but a trick to hoodwink world public opinion."

Greens, Milk and Gamma Globulin Given Kids Parents Join War On Polio

LENOIR, N. C. (UP)—Anxious parents stuffed their children with turnip greens and milk today while a medical assembly line injected the youngsters with gamma globulin in a desperate battle to avert a polio epidemic.

The health-giving foods along with plenty of baths but no swimming was the mothers' way of trying to protect their children against the dread disease which has claimed 86 victims in Caldwell County, including two deaths.

Thousands of children lined up again today at four injection centers to receive their shots of the disease which is expected to greatly reduce the paralyzing effects which often accompany polio.

Fast-working doctors, injecting the hip shots of gg in relays, inoculated 5,825 children Monday, raising hopes that the rest of the 11,000 children scheduled for the shots might be run through today. The process had been expected to take at least three days.

Health authorities at Montgomery, Ala., reported that a six-year-old girl who received a gamma globulin shot in the first mass test of the serum last week contracted polio three days later.

Dr. A. H. Graham, Montgomery County health officer who directed the inoculation of some 32,000 children, indicated that the new case was not unexpected although no new polio victims had been reported in three days.

"We assured parents that they couldn't expect any real reduction in the incidence of polio in the first seven days," Dr. Graham said. "After that we hoped for about an 80 per cent reduction on the basis of earlier experiments held at Sioux City, Ia., and Houston, Tex."

"We are rather confident that gamma globulin will be successful but we still can't be sure." He repeated earlier warnings that the serum only "reduces the severity of polio" and doesn't immunize children against it. Dr. Graham added that gamma globulin would be effective only for about four or five weeks. In this rural county along the foothills of the Blue Ridge Mountains, doctors emphasized that "time-tested health measures" were almost as important as injections of gamma globulin. "In addition to the inoculations, there isn't much else to do," said Dr. William Harper, Scottish-born county health officer. Turnip greens and other green vegetables were on almost every child's plate. Plenty of milk was also on the menu. Swimming pools were still open but virtually bare of youngsters. "My children aren't even going to get their foot-wash," said Mrs. Raleigh Stout, mother of nine whose home is close to a steady swimming hole. Those parents whose children already have been stricken with polio offered up prayers. "When polio strikes, you leave it in the hands of another and greater power," said Mrs. Ralph Hartley. Four of her children have polio.

Pitt Commissioners Act On Filling Vacancies Take Up Personnel Issues

Appointment of new county officials together with other personnel problems headed yesterday afternoon session of the Pitt County board of commissioners.

Hired were Mrs. Lillie Little, former home demonstration agent of Stanley County, to serve as assistant Pitt County agent. It also was reported Carl Scott has been named to assist H. L. Andrews in the Pitt County tax collector office.

Meanwhile, commissioners made further plans to fill two other vacancies. Board member Brown Hodges, together with Chairman Floyd Hendrix, were named to go to Northampton County Friday to interview prospective replacement to fill the post of Pitt Negro Farm Agent being vacated by Dennis Dupree after more than 30 years service.

The action was taken at a closed meeting. The motion to table the resolution was offered by Rep. Patrick J. Hillings (R-Calif) and supported by Rep. Louis E. Graham (R-Pa.).

Graham had served as chairman of a five-man subcommittee which held a brief hearing on the resolution sponsored by Rep. W. M. Wheeler (D-Ga.).

Wheeler introduced the resolution a few hours after Douglas had temporarily stayed the execution of convicted atom spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg.

At the same time, Dr. W. C. Humbert, county health officer, in making a report on the county's dog control program for the last year announced plans for an addition to the staff for the coming fiscal period. Applications for the post will be received by the health officer, he said, and turned over to Mrs. Blaise Whales, county register of deeds, for consideration by the commissioners at their first August meeting.

The new appointment, the health officer explained, is needed because of expanding county services. This includes the recent agreement whereby dog warden services for Greenville has been turned over to county supervision with the city paying $2,180 toward salaries and maintenance of the pound.

In addition, the commissioners agreed to increase the salary of Willie Bell, present warden, from $2,400 to $3,000 a year, effective in the new fiscal period. Later, Dr. Humbert disclosed three more newcomers to the health officer staff and plans for adding a fourth in August. The new personnel, whose duties commenced as of July 1, are: Miss Janie Johnson, senior public health nurse of Farmville, located in a new health clinic opened in Farmville last week. Miss Johnson will be assisted by another public health nurse to be added on or about August 15, Dr. Humbert said. Sanitarian duties in the Farmville area will be handled by Charles Muslewite, new assistant sanitarian, added July 1 replacing Lionel Evans of Winterville who has resigned after two years' service. J. Carroll Waldrop Sr. of Greenville has been named sanitarian in charge of rural and environmental sanitation in the county. His duties will include protection of water supplies and creter disposal for outlying and rural residences. In accepting the audit of county books by Auditor D. R. Hollowell

Impeachment Of Justice Killed By Committee

WASHINGTON (UP)—The House Judiciary Committee today unanimously killed a resolution to impeach Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas.

The action was taken at a closed meeting. The motion to table the resolution was offered by Rep. Patrick J. Hillings (R-Calif) and supported by Rep. Louis E. Graham (R-Pa.).

Graham had served as chairman of a five-man subcommittee which held a brief hearing on the resolution sponsored by Rep. W. M. Wheeler (D-Ga.).

Wheeler introduced the resolution a few hours after Douglas had temporarily stayed the execution of convicted atom spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg.

Sweet Sweep

MISS ITALY, better known as Rita Stazi, doesn't seem the slightest bit disturbed as she's swept off her feet and kissed by Air Force Sgt. Herbert Barnes, Jr. of Savannah, Ga., on her arrival at International Airport in New York from Rome. The 20-year-old blonde, enroute to Long Beach, Calif., as Italy's entry in the Miss Universe contest, said she met Barnes in England in 1952 and fell in love with him. In fact, she told newsmen after being chosen Miss Italy last week: "I just entered the contest so I could see Herbert again. (AP Wirephoto)

Mass-Producing Rocket Fighter

BURBANK, Calif. (UP)—Lockheed Aircraft Corp. said today it is now producing the nation's "first production interceptor to carry no guns only rockets."

The company said it is replacing guns with added rockets on all F-94C Starfire jet interceptors, giving them a rocket load of 48 instead of 24. One rocket hit can destroy a bomber.

Burned During Bath In Gasoline

LAUREL, Miss. (UP)—Martin Leggett, 34, and Troy Hobson, 18, Heidelberg, Miss., oil field workers, were hospitalized here today with serious burns. They took a bath in gasoline Sunday afternoon near the pilot light of a bathroom heater.

But thick or thin, it stuck with almost unbelievable tenacity to the boots and trousers of the infantrymen. As the men trudged through the trenches, the mud clinging to their combat boots made ungainly, oversized feet—and added pounds to every step taken by the Americans, already weary from a night of duty. One man slipped on a steep incline. He grasped for the sides of the slippery, narrow trench and then tumbled into a dirty, yellow pool, half mud and half water. He rose, vainly attempting to brush the mess from his already dirty fatigues, and mouthing curses his mother would never have taught him. Half a mile across the valley lay the enemy.

It is a socialistic delusion that the government can raise the market price of anything but wages of public employees. The farm bloc party proposes to raise the national issue on fixing the price of wheat. The government did that during the world war and farmers lost millions as the price was fixed too low. So it will be again. As soon as the price of wheat "is fixed," speculation will drive it above. Then will come the same howl that the wheat growers are robbed of their just dues.

Red Oak Club Given Demonstration

Mrs. Sue May, Home Agent, gave a demonstration on "Wall Finishes." Mrs. May stated the first thing to do, in doing over a home, is to analyze the person for whom it is done, what they like and what suits their personality. She showed various backgrounds for draperies and accessories, showing the necessity for blending or complementing colors. Warm and cool colors were discussed as well as shades of dark or lighter colors. Good paint used with a roller-brush, a hog-bristle brush or a spray gun are the most common methods of applying paint, but Mrs. May stated that a good clean wall is essential for a good job. Dirty walls should be washed with a mild soap and water solution and rinsed with one quart of vinegar in one gallon of water.

The meeting was held in the club building with Mrs. H. H. May presiding, with 14 members present, and one new member was added to the roll "Jacob's Ladder" and "Tell Me Why the Stars Do Shine" were sung by the group and the minutes were read. Reports were given by the home beautification and music leaders and by the treasurer.

Highlights of the short course at Raleigh and the Farm Bureau Workshop were given by Mrs. James Allen and Mrs. Jarvis Tripp Sr. The hostesses, Mrs. Tripp and Mrs. B. L. Tyson, served cooling refreshments of ice cream and home-made cake.

Membership Of Rotary Discussed

Discussion of membership classifications highlighted the meeting of the Greenville Rotary club last night.

W. A. Bryan, chairman of the classification committee for the club, explained the purpose of membership classification in Rotary asserting, "the secret of a well balanced Rotary club is in the diversity of its classifications."

Classifications represented in the Greenville Rotary club at the present time were discussed by Bryan, as were open classifications not represented in the club. Members were given mimeographed sheets showing classification of present members and open classification in the club for study.

Rotary President F. Badger Johnson appointed Hugh Winslow, Barrett Johnson and Conner Eagles as representatives of Rotary to the steering committee of the Greenville Farmers Day.

Guests of the club last night included Donald Rose and Dr. A. D. Frank and visiting Rotarians Ruland Terce of Texas and Ralph Hardee of Ayden.

The two presenting the program were Frank Bodkin and Jane Fuller. They were accompanied by Mrs. Howard Bodkin, at the piano.

The two sang duets on the following: "I Walked Where Jesus Walked," "With A Song In My Heart," "Night and Day," "Peter Piper Picked a Peck of Pickled Peppers."

Solo by each included "My Sugar is so Refined" by Miss Fuller and "Jonah and the Whale," by Frank Bodkin.

In the absence of President Henry Swayne who was attending the Lions Convention in Chicago, Ben Rouse presided.

A short board of directors meeting was held following the regular meeting, at which time routine business matters were disposed of.

GRIFTON—Sam Nelson, Grifton insurance man, was installed last night as mayor of Grifton along with the new city commissioners. The new mayor and the six-man board of commissioners were sworn in to office by Town Clerk Robert Mewborn. Nelson, as mayor, succeeds Dr. W. E. Raspberry. Other members of the board sworn in were Ben G. Tucker, Roger Johnson, George Sugg and W. C. Chauncey. Alderman Ed Hart was absent. After the installation, the board discussed various projects which they plan to undertake and problems which might arise before the new group of city fathers. One of the most important items discussed was the extension of water and sewer lines for the city on which the contractor is starting work today. The board also discussed possibilities of additional street paving and other town improvements. The new board looked over past years' city budgets and discussed a budget for this year but delayed action on setting even a tentative budget.

Pink Poodle Among Items 'For Rent'

By ELIZABETH TOOMEY
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP)—Pink poodles and pastel mink stoles are for rent around town for women who only have a short time to make a lasting impression.

They come high, even on a rental basis. The reasons they're rented sometimes explains why the high price is paid so willingly.

For $25 a day a girl can rent a mighty nice mink stole. A pink poodle will cost her that much an hour. A plain old poodle costs $10 an hour.

The reasons a woman would rent a fur-piece are obvious, but dog renting comes as a surprise and a mystery to most people.

"If people want to be phonies they're gonna be phonies," said Dana Miller. "They'll do it some other way if I don't rent 'em dogs, so I don't feel guilty about it."

Miss Miller rents all kinds of dogs, though poodles are most popular, and even on occasion rents her cat, Rusty, and her pet squirrel monkey, Looie.

Golden Girl, an apricot toy poodle which takes to pastel vegetable dress like an Easter egg, is a favorite of girls who want to walk into a swank restaurant with a dog or maybe to a cocktail party. Goldie, as Miss Miller calls the poodle knows more head waiters than most of the girls who rent him. His cafe society manners are impeccable.

"Girls usually want little dogs and fancy ones," Miss Miller said. "I have one girl who is pretty social who rents different dogs to take to lunch at the Colony or some place. The dogs have to be clipped and fixed up very fancy."

"One girl rents a dog every time her boyfriend comes to town," Miss Miller continued. "He likes dogs and she pretends she does too. He thinks she owns the dog."

Men are guilty of such scheming too, she hastened to add. One fellow rented an Afghan hound to walk in the park because he wanted to meet a pretty girl whom he'd seen walking an Afghan hound regularly. They met and finally got married. Miss Miller recalled with a pleased smile, "and now they raise Afghan hounds."

Found Children Bound, Gagged

PACIFIC GROVE, Calif. (UP)—Army Sgt. Casmer Mezas and his Japanese wife faced child neglect charges today after his two small sons were found gagged with rags and bound hand and foot in their trailer home here.

"Daddy tied us up so we wouldn't get into the peanut butter or anything," the young boy said.

Police Chief Ernest R. McAnanay said there were "at least a dozen bruises on the body of each boy," and that the children apparently "have been tied up most of the time for the last couple of months."

"We have statements from neighbors asserting the children were never seen outside the trailer, except when they were released to go to the public bathroom," McAnanay said.

The boys, Michael, 6, and Casmer, 7, were found lying side by side on a bed in the trailer Saturday night.

Mezas was quoted as saying after his arrest: "I play with the boys all the time like that."

Mezas, and his Japanese wife of a year, Ayako, 27, were arraigned on child neglect charges yesterday. Mrs. Mezas was released without bond after it was learned she was five months pregnant. Mezas posted $500 bond.

New Assistant Pitt HD Agent Named By Board

A new assistant home demonstration agent for Pitt County was appointed yesterday, to begin duties August 1, by the county commissioners.

The new agent, Mrs. Lillie Little, was appointed to replace Mrs. Anne Parker Hodges who resigned July 1 after working for three years with the Pitt County home demonstration agents.

Mrs. Little was a former home demonstration agent in Stanley County and more recently was with the school lunch program in Durham. In addition to home demonstration work, Mrs. Little has had teaching experience.

Mrs. Sue B. May, home demonstration agent in Pitt, said Mrs. Little would begin duties with the local department August 1.

ANTS

There's a new and better way to kill ants. It's called Roach Film. When applied to any surface with the built-in cap-applier, it leaves a hard, dry, clean, invisible film. The film can't harm or soil any surface; but, when ants touch it their legs become paralyzed and they die in two hours. A single application remains effective for months. You never see it, but it sure does get rid of ants and roaches! Roach Film is available at Belk-Tyler's, 3rd Floor. —Adv

Time To Stop Looking For A Miracle

Somebody Told Me . . .

Experiences In Air Conditioning

You've heard about the man who bought a rod and reel, went fishing once, and came home with a fish. He told everybody he was an expert fisherman. Please don't confuse me with him. Our wife Rachel and I have had a three-quarter ton room air conditioner ever since the weather turned hot, so we are ready to talk about air conditioning.

Frankly, we wouldn't sell our unit for twice what it cost if we couldn't get another one. It's terrific to say the least, but everything has its disadvantages. Small as they may be, here they are: Equipping a six-room house with one three-quarter ton unit is inadequate and part of the house must be closed off. This makes it hard to keep the doors closed between the conditioned section and the non-conditioned section.

With small children playing in the yard you can listen for their screams in case of injury if the doors are open. But there again, the doors must be closed to have air conditioning. Thus you have to check the yard as intervals.

The only other disadvantage I can think of is that it makes you mad with the rest of the world that isn't air conditioned. You come home for lunch and drink in the air conditioned comfort and then dread facing the outdoors, which feels like an oven when you walk into it.

Tom Wilson referred me to a very interesting article about air conditioning, which points out that air conditioning is the next great advance in the American standard of living. In 1933 this means of comfort will be two and one-half times that of all previous years.

Just one of the many interesting facts in the story concerns the ability of air conditioning to dehumidify. A three-ton unit in 24 hours will remove 120 quarts of water from the air. Also the filters in air conditioning take an enormous amount of dust out of the air.

In summary, air conditioning is just another one of those luxuries that makes you wish you had enough money to afford it. And I thank you. JACK EDWARDS

What Other Editors Are Thinking

GOVERNOR SHOULD ACT (Henderson Dispatch) No one who is an admirer of Gov. Umstead—and there are hundreds of thousands of such people in North Carolina—would wish to goad the chief executive into acting against his better judgment without deliberate consideration of his move, but North Carolina's vacancy in the U.S. Senate ought to be filled at the earliest practicable time. We feel confident that the governor himself realizes that fact.

It would seem that the major development from prolonged delay in arriving at a decision would be further continual appeals on behalf of different candidates, and that could result in more confusion and impose a greater strain on the governor's physical endurance in his present condition. Probably very little will be offered his excellency from here on that would be largely repetition of what he himself already knows, certainly he is very familiar with the qualifications of Fred Royler, John Larkins, Harold Cooley, Justice Jeff Johnson and practically all the others who have been mentioned in connection with the appointment.

Governor Umstead has been represented as being desirous of appointing a man who could be re-nominated and elected in the 1954 spring primary and the November following. Naturally he desires that the individual of his choice not be repudiated at the polls, an experience which Governor Scott had when Senator Graham was defeated in 1950 by Willis Smith. But the choice is that of the chief executive, and it would appear that the sooner he acts the more quickly he will be relieved of the strain.

Around Capitol Square

Seniority, Other Considerations In Umstead's Choice

By LYNN NISBET
SENIORITY—One of the collateral issues which Governor Umstead must consider in the appointment of a United States Senator is the element of seniority. That is very important in the Senate. It also can be very tricky. Main reason given in favor of the appointment of a person who has a good chance to win the nomination in next year's primary, would have a head start in the seniority tables. The importance of seniority has long been recognized, and a member of the current Congress will have precedence over a member coming in for the first time during the next Congress.

TRICKY—The trickiness in the deal comes from the fact that seniority is reckoned by the number of the Congress more than by the date of incumbency, when it comes to committee assignments, although the date has some significance. The hour of taking the oath has no importance. What your reporter did not know until last Sunday is that when two or more Senators take the oath of office on the same day, the seniority rank is determined by the date upon which the States they represent came into the Union.

DOUBLE—Candidates for the Senate is next year's election who hope to gain the seniority incident to service in the 83rd Congress will have to pay two full filing fees in the primary and have their names appear twice on the primary and general election ballots—one for the approximate 40 days of the unexpired term and again for the full six-year term beginning January 3, 1955. It is recalled that candidates William Umstead and J. M. Broughton in 1948 paid double filing fees. Upon his election Senator Broughton took the oath as a member of the 80th Congress in early December and again as a member of the 81st Congress in early January. Dual filing was not required in the Graham-Smith election in 1950 because that was entirely for an unexpired term. Whoever is elected next year will be for completion of the six year term to which Broughton was elected in 1948 and will be the fourth to hold the seat in one six-year period.

ELECTIVE—The people of North Carolina have through the years manifested determination to elect members of State and Federal legislative bodies. Until last fall when the constitution was amended to provide for executive appointment upon recommendation of county committees to fill vacancies in the General Assembly, special elections were necessary for that function. Special elections still must be held to fill vacancies in the U.S. House of Representatives. There is proven for executive appointment to fill Senate vacancies, but only until the next regular election. Historic precedent is that no appointed Senator has ever been elected. Cameron Morrison, appointed by Governor Max Gardner, was defeated by Robert R. Reynolds the first time the people had a chance to vote. William B. Umstead, appointed by Governor Gregg Cherry, suffered like late when defeated by J.M. Broughton. Frank Graham, appointed by Governor Kerr Scott, went down to defeat when Willis Smith challenged his right to hold on to the office. Administrative and judicial officers appointed to fill vacancies have been rather consistently elected when they came before the people. Legislative officers have been just as consistently defeated.

More To It Than Just Swatting Flies

July brings hot weather to Pitt County. And with the hot weather this year—as in past years—have come countless numbers of flies, mosquitoes and other bothersome insects to harass the people.

places of mosquitoes and other insects. It is also urging local people to take extra precautions with their garbage and other refuse to see that it does not become a breeding place for flies.

Distasteful, But Perhaps Wise

Perhaps President Eisenhower is wise in not attempting to crack down on mavericks in Congress such as McCarthy, Reed, Jenner and others who oppose his program.

Throughout the country, the health department is doing what it can to keep down the insect population during this hot weather. But the health department can not do the job alone. If the campaign against insects is to be reasonably successful, individual citizens are going to have to shoulder a portion of the responsibility.

The executive branch and legislative branch of the government are co-equal. It would be strictly bad business for the executive branch to stir up greater difficulties than the President has now. It would be bad for him and bad for the country at large.

Certainly the battle against insects in the county this summer is one which can not be fought by the health department alone. The sooner local citizens lend a hand in the interest of public health and the health of their own individual families, the more effective the insect control program will be.

Each time Congress or a member tries to infringe on the judicial branch or executive branch, there is a big outcry. The resultant deadlock reflects poorly on our system in other eyes abroad, and raises disgust and distrust among ourselves toward the government.

It certainly can not be expected that the health department can cut down weeds and high grass on vacant lots or around dwellings throughout the country. That is a responsibility which is going to have to be shouldered by individual citizens. The same thing must be applied to many other breeding places of insects.

So, on occasion, presidential inactivity has to be condoned in the face of disgusting action on the part of one or another member of Congress.

While Pitt County got by the holiday week-end without a highway fatality, law enforcement officers counted 11 traffic accidents and eight Pitt Counties to the nation's list of highway casualties.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
TAKE THEM IN STRIDE
A prominent oil company recently issued a report showing, among other things, that they had drilled about seventy-five wells during the year, one-third of which were dry holes.

The national accident picture over the holiday week-end — as well as the accidents in Pitt County — is indeed a sad commentary on the highway safety practices by drivers.

National Whirligig

On Guard Against Inflation

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON—Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey's effort to check "inflationary lending" by raising interest rates has been paralleled by the Federal Reserve Board's unpublished attempt to guard against "inflationary spending" by millions of consumers quick with a buck. Washington is playing both ends against the middle to achieve economic stability.

CONSUMERS' ROLE—Martin's realization of the consumers' importance in promoting inflation or deflation is shared by Dr. Arthur F. Burns, economic adviser to the White House. He believes that their buying habits, more than any other factor, affect the nation's economy. Referring to their behavior in 1951, after the post-Korean price boosts, he says: "The consumer, rarely a heroic figure in economic affairs, scored a modest but noteworthy success in the struggle against inflation during the past year. He had numerous allies—an array of price and wage controls, credit restrictions, regulations concerning the use of raw materials, and a battery of stiff taxes."

Business Today Business Shake-Ups

By ELMER ROESSNER
A considerable shaking out of weaker firms in the appliance field is probable during the rest of this year. In fact, the process seems to have been under way for some time.

insurance policies. Insurance companies have recently begun to restrict seriously policies issued to tenants, it notes. "Such policies, which in the past have insured a tenant against damage to and loss of the use of improvements to leased buildings installed at the expense of the tenants, are now being designed to protect the insurance companies from having to pay the tenant if the building owner also collects," the NRDGA says in a bulletin to members.

In the manufacturing end, there have been a number of mergers. In retailing, there have been quite a few liquidations.

It urges tenants to examine policies carefully and to make sure their improvements are fully protected.

One of the unsettling factors is that patterns of demand are changing; sales of some types of appliances are declining while sales of other types are booming. Another factor is that there are many opportunists in the appliance field who were happy when sales were easy but who have little experience in selling in a tough market.

MOVIE "DONATIONS" CARRY A TAX, TOO
Several movie theaters have been experimenting with the idea of accepting donations instead of charging admissions. But they can not escape the Federal tax on admissions this way.

There were some grim remarks along these lines at the recent meeting of the National Appliance and Radio-TV Dealers Association. Harry Allen, head of a Chicago appliance distributing company, bluntly said that there are too many manufacturers and too many dealers in the appliance field and that an economic "thinning out" was certain.

The Bureau of Internal Revenue has ruled that donations constitute amounts paid for admission and are paid in lieu of a fixed charge, hence the amounts donated are subject to tax.

He predicted that the number of important appliance and television manufacturers would eventually be reduced to about ten big ones, each with complete lines, and that the number of dealers would be reduced with a larger number of survivors handling full, exclusive lines.

DEPARTMENT STORES GET SMALLER SHARE OF TOTAL
Department stores have lost part of their share of consumer spending, the National Industrial Conference Board reports.

At present, he said, there is too much price cutting, factories are trying to load up distributors with merchandise and distributors are trying to load up dealers.

Just before World War II department stores received 7.8 per cent of the consumer dollar and in 1945 it was 8.3 per cent, the board calculates. Now it has declined to 6.3 per cent.

It is not the failure of department stores to keep pace with competitors, but the result of "the disproportionate growth of sales by outlets not in direct competition with department stores," the board explained.

TOLD IN NEW BOOK
Other newbooks of interest to business men include: "Fundamental Research in Administration," a round-table discussion introduced by Sidney A. Swensrud (published by Carnegie Press, Pittsburgh, at $2).

There was a general opinion at the convention—perhaps inspired by wishes—that the first victims of the shaking out of retailers would be those who carry appliances as sidelines.

EFFECTS OF TAXATION ON INVESTMENTS BY INDIVIDUALS by J. Keith Butters, Lawrence E. Thompson and Lynn L. Bollinger (533 pages, published by Harvard Business School, at $6.25).

Walace Johnston, president of the association, said dealers be wary of carrying too much inventory. "We are retailers, not warehousemen," he said. "It is the distributor's function to carry inventory to supply the dealer."

WONNING IN WALL STREET by Ira U. Cobleigh (114 pages, David McKay Co., New York, at $2).

He warned that inventories that were once a source of profit when prices rose can be a source of loss if prices decline.

Sharpest Tie Town In The USA

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
WASHINGTON UP—The man who adjusted his tie and allowed that the capital is the "most terrific tie town in the country."

under rather be caught dead in his underwear than without a tie."

The man was Stuart Bart, a New York advertising man who happens to be president of a tie company on the side. He was in our town to look things over, tie-wise.

Washington while he was browsing. He thinks that President Eisenhower is one of the best tied men in the world.

Bart, a well-groomed and well-tied gent in his 40's, was amazed to see men running around this humid, swelter-box of a town wearing coats and ties.

"He always looks neat," Bart said. "And he has good taste in ties and sure knows how to knot a four-in-hand."

Many of the better hotels refuse a man a seat in a bar or dining room unless he is wearing a jacket and neck choker. Some swanky places have an assortment of coats and ties for visitors who do not know the rules. The extra hot gear is loaned by the barkeep or head waiter.

Bart has no patience with a man who puts a tie on for looks and then loosens it at the neck, so he can breathe. He admitted, though, that he never had worked in a hot press box.

Anyhow, this Bart fellow has traveled many of the acres of the world and he says that most capital cities are great tie centers.

He had an amusing experience, tie-wise, the other day on an airplane trip to the West. His seat companion was a Westerner in a several gallon hat and it's subject of neckwear came up, and guess who brought it up? This fellow was wearing a string tie.

"I mean to say," he said, "that men are more aware of the fashions in capital cities. I guess it's because males in these places are constantly meeting the public. They don't know when a press pictureman will sneak up and snap a shot. A man in public life

Controversial Sec. Wilson And Staff Busy Since Taking On Job

By CHARLES CORDDRY
 United Press Staff Correspondent
 WASHINGTON (UP)—"More effective defense for less money" is the big goal of Secretary Charles Erwin Wilson and the team of businessmen helping him run the gigantic Defense Department.

His actions, all controversial, have included slashes in requested appropriations for future spending, top to bottom reorganization, and civilian and military manpower cuts.

"Uncle Sam's big old pocketbook has just been too wide open," the former General Motors president frequently asserts. Just as frequently he invokes the magic military name of President Eisenhower in support of his plans as he stands unruffled amid criticisms by Democrats and generals.

Wilson, Deputy Secretary Roger M. Kyes and the Army, Navy and Air Force secretaries have taken on a long-term shore. Evidence of this is the fact that Uncle Sam's defense pocketbook is open wider today than it was in January. The Pentagon wrote checks in June for about $3,900,000,000 compared with $3,552,000,000 last January and the spending trend still is on a slight upgrade under contracts let by the last administration.

Wilson's own experts believe it may take most of fiscal 1954, which began this month, to make a fair start on tightening the purse strings—unless there are to be wholesale cancellations of aircraft and ammunition contracts. That is not indicated so far.

But the production man from Detroit, his 13 new top officials and six holdovers from the former Democratic administration have done a heap of work in less than half a year:

1. They cut $5,247,000,000 from former President Truman's request for $41,286,000,000 in new defense appropriations. That cuts fell heaviest on the Air Force, reducing its expansion goal from 143 to 120 wings and provoking a controversy in the Pentagon and in Congress. The Army and Navy will remain at present strengths.
2. A Defense Department reorganization plan cleared Congress. It provides for appointment of six additional assistant secretaries in line with Wilson's plan to run the department like a giant corporation, and established more clearly the authority of the defense secretary.

3. A complete new slate of service chiefs of staff was appointed. The new Joint Chiefs are under orders to study anew the national defense strategy, war plans and service strength goals.
4. Civilian employment has been cut to 1,238,685, off 32,202 since Jan. 31. Average civilian employment in the coming 12 months is forecast at 1,231,623.
5. The armed services are under order to end fiscal 1954 with 3,358,087 people in uniform—198,875 fewer than now. Average fiscal 1954 strength is forecast as 3,449,719. Draft calls have been cut to 23,000 a month compared with about 50,000 during the first half of 1953.

Cooper, Jarvis, Newell and Mathews are serving as staff members.

Aviation Cadet Training Program Is Now Open To High School Graduates

Young men between the ages of 19 and 26 and one-half with a high school education now have the opportunity of enrolling in the Air Force's aviation cadet program as forward observers, according to a policy change announced today by Sergeant Atwood, local Army and Air Force Station Recruiter.

Previously, men applying for this type of training needed two years of college training to qualify. Applicants for forward observer training can earn their wings as bombardiers, navigators, electronic countermeasures officer, radar observer or as a reconnaissance officer.

The training consists of 12 months primary training with an additional two months advanced training. Cadets receive their wings and are commissioned second lieutenants following the primary training. Further information about this opportunity can be obtained at the local Army and Air Force Recruiting Station.

Big U.S. Liner Has Anniversary

NEW YORK (UP)—The liner United States celebrated today the first anniversary of her first transatlantic speed record.

The United States Lines ship won the Atlantic speed supremacy when she passed Bishop Rock Light off the coast of England on July 7, 1952, three days 10 hours and 40 minutes after she sailed from New York on her maiden voyage. She set a westbound record on her way back.

Three Eisenhower Tax Proposals Are Shelved

WASHINGTON (UP)—Three of the four items in President Eisenhower's program of tax legislation have been quietly shelved, for this session of Congress at least.

Republican leaders are determined to push through a six months extension of the excess profits tax before the scheduled July 31 adjournment. But these present plan is to ignore or postpone until next year Mr. Eisenhower's requests for:

1. Freezing the Social Security tax at the present 1-1/2 per cent rate until the whole Social Security system can be studied. The rate under present law is scheduled to go up to 2 per cent on Jan. 1 and eventually to 3-1/4 per cent by 1970.
2. Indefinite extension of present corporation income tax rates. The present 52 per cent is scheduled to drop automatically to 47 per cent on April 1, 1954, unless Congress acts.
3. Continuation of present excise rates on gas, liquor, beer, cigars and a few other items which are scheduled for automatic reduction April 1.

GLASSES AT FOUR MONTHS.—Four-month-old Paul DeJaney, Nahant, Mass., peeks over his new glasses after he was fitted for them at Boston following two operations for congenital cataracts. Hospital attendants say Paul is pleased with the glasses and doesn't try to take them off but occasionally knocks them off when he swings his arms.

Although House leaders have no plans for legislation to freeze the Social Security tax rate, there is a chance that the Senate may attach this proposal as an amendment to some routine revenue measure late in the session.

There is little enthusiasm in Congress for Mr. Eisenhower's proposals to maintain present high corporation income and excise tax rates indefinitely. While GOP leaders certainly will go through the motions of seeking action on them next year, the odds appear to be heavily against their ever getting out of the house Ways and Means Committee.

Chairman Daniel A. Reed (R-N.Y.), diehard opponent of the excess profits tax, called a meeting of the Ways and Means Committee Wednesday. GOP leaders expect the committee to start work at that time on the six months extension of the excess profits levy which the President asked.

Five Governors To Talk Drought

AUSTIN, Tex. (UP)—Five South-west governors planned today to meet this week to discuss the record drought that has ruined crops and pastures and driven small ranchers into revolt against their own livestock associations.

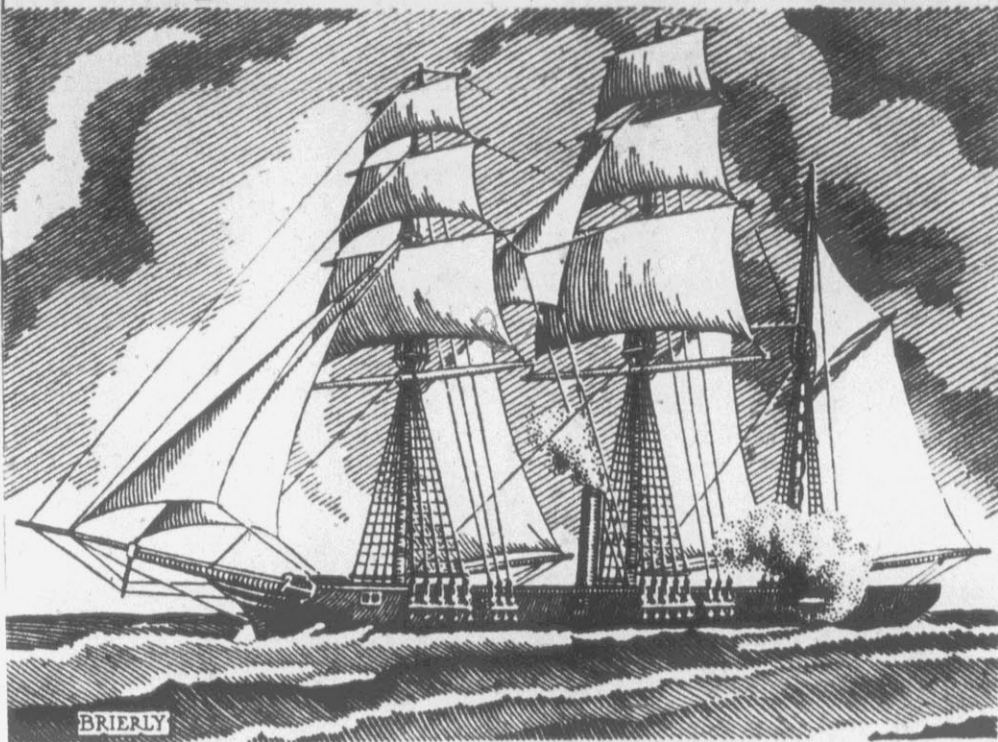

Gov. Allan Shivers called the emergency drought conference for Friday at Amarillo, Tex. He said "common problems and mutual assistance" will be discussed at the meeting with Govs. Dan Thornton of Colorado, Edward F. Arn of Kansas, Johnston Murray of Oklahoma and Edwin L. Mechem of New Mexico.

Portions of those states and Texas are the center of a great drought—called the greatest in Southwest history—that has put rural economy on the skids.

Cattlemen from the same five states met Monday at Dalhart, Tex., in the hard-hit Panhandle area and said they would push for federal cattle price supports at the producer level.

O. H. Finch Sr., chosen temporary chairman of the newly formed North Plains Cattle Growers Association, charged that officers and

Ships of America --18

The CONFEDERATE CRUISER ALABAMA

AP Newsfeatures

This ship, which achieved undying fame in the Civil War, was built in England, under the supervision of a Confederate agent. She was designed to harass Federal shipping rather than to fight, but, with her six 32-pounders and two pivot guns, she could do considerable damage when necessary. She was equipped with two powerful engines and carried enough coal to last 18 days. However, with a good wind, her long narrow lines and her barkentine rig, with especially tall lower masts carrying huge fore and aft sails, made her a fast traveler without the use of steam. Her captain was Raphael Semmes, who had resigned from the Federal Navy, after serving 29 years. Under his command, she sailed the great shipping lanes of the world, covering 70,000 miles and capturing over 60 ships. Sailing out of Cherbourg, June 19, 1864, she encountered the Federal Ship Kearsarge and, after a brave fight, the Alabama was sunk by superior gun fire.

directors of present livestock groups are so rich they don't care about the price of cattle.

Cattlemen, faced with dried-up pastures and lack of water, have been hard hit by the drought and many were forced to sell their stock when prices were too low.

But officials of most major livestock groups have opposed federal supports for cattle prices.

The dipper bird is so called because of the way it bobs and dips while perching, believed to be its manner of signaling.

Prison Hospital Desirable Place

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Some Virginians have deliberately had themselves convicted of misdemeanors to find a bed in a ward for treatment of tuberculosis.

Dr. William J. West, state prison farm surgeon, said eight persons, unable to get treatment in over-crowded tuberculosis sanatoria, are now receiving it at the prison farm. They consented to go to court and be convicted of violating communicable disease health ordinances in order to get the treatment.

New Floor Care Ends Waxing

One of the most difficult jobs of housekeeping is to keep linoleum and asphalt tile floors waxed and gleaming. Now, thanks to Glaxo, it is no longer necessary to wax and scrub. All you do is apply Glaxo with a brush about twice a year. It maintains a high luster, non slip coating that seals out dirt. Glaxo dries in one hour and is water clear. It's cheaper than wax in the long run, besides saving a terrific amount of work, plus truly a beautiful floor. Glaxo is available at Belk-Tyler Co., Third Floor.

Low Pay Scale For Jap Royalty

TOKYO (AP)—It isn't easy for a Japanese prince or princess to live a princely life these days. Post-war Japan grants a prince only about $325 a month for living expenses and $162 for his wife. If the princess survives her husband, she has to live on the $162.

Princess Chichibu, who survived her husband, the oldest of Emperor Hirohito's three brothers, now receives only $182 a month. Commodity prices in Japan are almost as high as in New York. A princess is not supposed to take menial jobs or commute to her employer's office by jam-packed subway to augment her income.

The low salaries for royalty much distress the loyal prime minister Shigeru Yoshida. A Japanese prime minister now receives about $300 a month plus a state-furnished house and servants. Yoshida has decided to ask the Diet to appropriate a princely salary to the widowed princess and also hike salaries to all princes, princesses and the Emperor by some 30 per cent. Even so, the figures will not be impressive.

Her New Name Is 'Treasure Chest'

PETERSBURG, Ill. (AP)—The boommy inventor of the transparent bathing suit today had a new name that nobody can forget—she hopes. Patricia McQuillan came back to her home town here yesterday and petitioned the circuit court to legally change her name to "Evelyn $50,000 Treasure Chest West."

Evelyn, a strip-teaser who once insured her 39 1/2 inch bust with Loyds of London, said she had been performing under the name Evelyn West for some time. Trouble was, she told Judge Maurice E. Barnes, that some of the customers knew her only as the "Treasure chest" or perhaps, Miss West. She wanted both titles combined to scare off imitators. "In the places where I perform," she explained, "a lot of people ask for the $50,000 treasure chest but they don't remember my name. I want them to remember my name, too." "Besides," said the girl with the coal black hair and the strawberry eyebrows, "They have tried to steal my title. I had to stop one girl from using my mark."

Judge Barnes solemnly intoned that the dancer's name "is hereby changed from Patricia McQuillan to Evelyn $50,000 Treasure Chest West, which last mentioned name she shall be known and called."

BETTY CAMPBELL WRIGHT

CATHERINE FORBES

Betty Campbell Wright, director of field services for the American Hearing Society and Catherine Purbee, speech consultant in the Saginaw, Michigan, public schools, will participate as speakers in the program for Special Education Day at East Carolina College Wednesday of this week, July 8. Miss Wright, a pioneer social worker for the hard of hearing, will speak at a luncheon meeting in the North Dining Hall. Miss Purbee, who is a visiting professor at East Carolina this summer, will demonstrate work in a clinic for young people with speech difficulties which is now in progress on the campus and will speak on "The Special Education Program in the Public Schools." Other speakers of the day will include Albin Pikutis, executive director, and Carolina Caldwell, of the N.C. Society for Crippled Children and Adults, and Felix S. Barker, director of special education in the N.C. State Department of Public Instruction. Mrs. Dorothy W. Perkins, director of special education in the East Carolina department of education, is director of the program for Special Education Day. Teachers, parents, and others interested in the problems of children with speech and hearing difficulties are invited to attend the conference, which begins at 9 a.m. in the Flanagan building.

Future And Past Side By Side In Mohawk Valley

ALBANY, N.Y. (UP)—History and the future rub elbows in New York's picturesque Mohawk Valley. From its birthplace in a pasture spring near Rome to the Cohoes Falls, where it tumbles into the Hudson, the Mohawk River flows for some 100 miles through one of the country's most historically important sections.

Today, the same scenic region is dotted with bustling industry and resounds to the noise of planes, train, highway and canal traffic. Just 10 miles from the famous Jan Mable House, built in 1706, stands the Knolls Atomic Power Laboratory where General Electric Co. scientists work on things-to-come.

Fort Stanwix and Jets The lab is on the outskirts of Schenectady, site of a bloody French-inspired Indian massacre in 1690. Today, sprawling factories of General Electric and American Locomotive companies stand on the banks of the Mohawk there.

In August, 1777, Fort Stanwix guarded the western end of the valley. It was there that the newly authorized Stars and Stripes first was raised in the face of an enemy. Today, the site of the fort is marked by a tablet in downtown Rome, a city of varied industry. Nearby is Griffiss Air Force Base, where the roar of jet fighter planes is common.

Five miles to the east is Oriskany Battlefield where Mohawk Valley militiamen fought what has been called the bloodiest battle of the American Revolution. The home and grave of the hero of that battle, Gen. Nicholas Herkimer, is now a state-maintained historic site, 30 miles farther east.

Catholic Martyrs Route 5, a principal east-west artery, runs along the north bank of the Mohawk, which for miles is the channel of the heavily-traveled State Barge Canal. At Little Falls, the canal boats are carried around a falls in the river by a 40-foot-deep lock—one of the deepest in the country.

At Dolgeville, just eight miles north of Little Falls, nature-lovers

Letter 'S' Said Big Difference

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—The difference between "laughter" and "laughter," a speaker told junior of commerce members at a luncheon here, is the letter "S"—which, he added, "stands for selfishness." Louis E. Throgmort, vice-president of Republic National Life Insurance Company, was the speaker. He described America as "a nation built on moonbeams—voluntary desires to create—and not bound by chains of force." "Break a chain and there's nothing left, but cut a moonbeam and it still remains," he said.

find Beaversprings Sanctuary where they can watch the animals at work. Sixteen miles east of Little Falls, Beeson-Kut Packing Co. maintains its big Canadaplane plant.

Close by is Auriesville where Saints Isaac Jogues, Rene Goupil and John La Lande, the first North American saints of the Roman Catholic Church, were martyred by the Indians. It is now famous for its National Shrine of the North American Martyrs.

Five miles to the north is historic Johnstown, an important colonial community. It still is important as a leading glove-manufacturing center. Also, still standing is Johnson Hall home of Sir William Johnson, powerful Indian agent for the British.

The river winds on through the valley, past Amsterdam and Schenectady, into Cohoes Falls where its waters, cascading down the rocky drop, provided the power that made possible the beginnings of the textile industry in the city of Cohoes.

Girls Delighted By Truman Visit

COLUMBUS, O. (UP)—Former President Harry S. Truman took off for Indianapolis in his shiny black sedan today with 2,000 wide-eyed teen-agers wishing him luck on his way.

Mr. Truman and his wife Bess driving home to Independence, Mo., spent the night at the same hotel where the Future Homemakers of America were holding their annual convention. The girls squealed with delight at the former President's brief appearances in the lobby of the Deshier-Hilton.

The Trumans hung a "do not disturb" sign on the door of their 16th floor suite and two hotel guards saw that it was observed.

Two girls attending the convention wanted to interview Mr. Truman but they couldn't get past the guards.

"A great big tray of food came along—my it was beautiful," one girl said. "Mrs. Truman came to the door, but they still wouldn't let us in."

Mr. and Mrs. Truman signed in at noon Monday and immediately were whisked to a three-room suite overlooking the Scioto River. The hotel had received no advance information of their coming and the lobby was thrown into an uproar when the beaming Trumans entered.

The hotel manager Robert Pfeiffer he would not see newsmen or make any political contacts or visits during his overnight stay. The ex-President did, however, receive Gov. Frank J. Lausche of Ohio in his suite. Lausche remained there for about 40 minutes. He refused to comment as he left.

Rambling

WITH LANG

By MELVIN LANG

Little League baseball has made rapid strides of advancement since its conception in 1939. The one league in Greenville has moved forward with the same rapidity after being organized in 1951.

Starting with a single group of youngsters in Williamsport, Pa., Little League is now a sprawling mass of well-organized leagues, with the home office in Williamsport. Its boundaries now extend to Canada and most of the United States' possessions and protectorates.

Carl Stoltz, originator of the program, has seen Little League grow beyond his fondest dreams. But it still is operated, and will continue to be, on the same ideals and standards on which he founded it.

Little League may well be described as a mixing ground for all youngsters—rich or poor, regardless of color. It was founded on the desire to provide a means of recreation for youngsters between the ages of eight and thirteen, to take them off the street and into supervised playgrounds.

The following poem, printed in the June issue of The Little League, gives an excellent description of the Little League player. It was reprinted through the courtesy of the Warren, Ohio Little League.

Men Of Tomorrow

The crack of a bat and the roar of a crowd
And a pit-sized kid screaming,
"Slide, Skinny—SLIDE!"
A dust-covered youngster with stars in his eyes
Crossing home plate to score for his side
That's Little League.

A tow-headed boy and his Negro friend
Who complete a crucial double play
And wink and grin and trot back to their posts
To shout, "Come on, Angeleno—let's go home easy today!"
That's Little League.

Twenty-nine bikes behind the backdrop
Old ones and new ones—and a waiting car.
That have brought 30 ball players down to the field
From a dozen neighborhoods near and far
That's Little League.

Heartbreak and triumph, victory and defeat.
A tear, a bruise, a laugh and a sigh.
The surging of manhood in a 10-year-old's chest
And the beat of a heart that will never say "I've done it."
That's Little League.

A father with his arm around his son's shoulders
Walking away from "a tough one to lose."
A mother who waits to sew up ripped pants,
And a brother who cleans a Little League's shoes
That's Little League.

A glove that will hang in a small boy's room
Long after he has grown to become a man.
A thousand memories and happy thoughts
Yesterday's Little League player—
That's Little League.

A father with his arm around his son's shoulders
Walking away from "a tough one to lose."
A mother who waits to sew up ripped pants,
And a brother who cleans a Little League's shoes
That's Little League.

A father with his arm around his son's shoulders

A mother who waits to sew up ripped pants,
And a brother who cleans a Little League's shoes

Detroit Gets Fourth Straight Victory, 8-7

Yankees Win 2 From Athletics

By CARL LUNDQUIST
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP)—The vote of confidence that Detroit bosses gave Manager Freddy Hutchinson was paying off today in a spurt by the Tigers, who appear ready to vacate last place.

They're not going to threaten any of the pennant contenders but there is enough snarl in the Tigers to make them mean opponents for anybody of late. Since June 21, they have won 11 out of 48 games and only two teams in the American League, the White Sox with 10 out of 13 and the Indians with 12 out of 18, have played better ball.

Monday night at St. Louis, the Tigers established their longest winning streak of the year when they took their fourth game in a row, 8-7 over the Browns in 11 innings.

The triumph, achieved on Ray Boone's homer in the 11th, put Detroit only four percentage points behind the Browns, who now have lost six in a row and have a astonishing home park losing streak of 19 straight.

When Detroit went badly again after finishing last for the first time in its history in 1952, Hutchinson's job seemed in jeopardy, but Owner Spike Briggs and General Manager Charley Gehringer came to his defense.

They said Hutchinson wasn't to blame and that he had not had time to install his system after taking over for Red Rolfe at mid-season a year ago. And from that time the Tigers discovered a winning touch.

Monday night nine of their 12 hits were for extra bases as Boone tagged reliever Satchel Paige for the winning blow and Don Lund hit an earlier homer. Walt Dropo had a triple and two doubles.

The Yankees, who have won nine out of 11 games with the Athletics this season, swept a double header, 10-5 and 5-3 to go to 1-2 games in front again as Cleveland took over second place with a 6-3 victory over Chicago. Boston edged Washington 2-1.

In the National League, the Dodgers tied a record by hitting homers in their 19th straight game as they walloped Pittsburgh 14-2 and went two full games in front of the Milwaukee Braves.

The Giants blanked the Philadelphia Phillies 6-0 on rookie Alan Werthelton's worthy two-hitter and Chicago came from behind to defeat Cincinnati 7-6. The Cardinals also were idle.

Mickey Mantle hit another memorable home run, a 500-footer as a pinch hitter with the bases loaded in the opening Yankee triumph in which Phil Rizzuto and Billy Martin also hit for the distance while Gus Zernial homered for the Athletics.

The Athletics, who now have lost eight straight, were cut down by the relief pitching of Allie Reynolds in the second game.

The chief pitched three-hit ball for 1-3 innings to gain his seventh victory. Gene Woodling hit a second game homer for the Yankees.

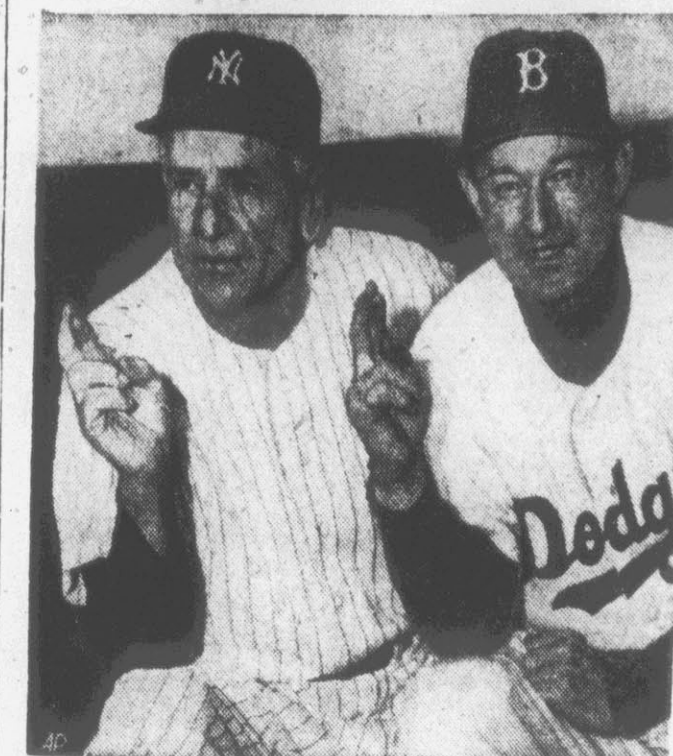

Mike Garcia pitched six-hit ball as Larry Rosen hit his 21st homer and Al Doby his 16th for Cleveland but Bobby Avila and Harry Simpson were injured in a collision and both may be out of the lineup for awhile.

Ted Lepcio's pinch single drove in Jimmy Piersall with the winning run at Washington in the ninth after he had walked and moved up on a sacrifice. Ivan Delock making his first start since returning from Louisville, pitched a seven-hitter to edge Tommy Byrne, who also gave up seven hits and struck out 10.

Brooklyn's homers were by Carl Furillo Gil Hodges, and Billy Cox in a 15-hit massacre that enabled them to tie the consecutive game homer mark set by the Giants in 1947. The major league mark is 25, set by the 1941 Yankees. Furillo got four hits to lead the way as Russ Meyer pitched his seventh victory with his usual relief help—this time from Jim Hughes.

Alan Worthington made his first big league start for the Giants but it won't be his last. He gave up only two hits, doubles by Smokey Burgess in the fifth and Johnny Wyrostek with two out in the ninth. Monte Irvin and Whitey Lockman each made four hits as the Giants pounded out 15.

They Lead All-Stars

FAMILIAR FIGURES—Casey Stengel (left) manager of the world champion New York Yankees, and Chuck Dressen, manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, cross their fingers for good luck. Stengel will pilot the American League forces in the All-Star game at Cincinnati on July 14 while Dressen will lead the National League entry. The senior circuit has been victorious the last three years.

Tarboro, Wilson Teams Quit Bright Belt Loop

WILSON—Two teams withdrew from the semi-pro Bright Belt League last night, leaving only four teams to play the remainder of the season.

Wilson and Tarboro, both of whom entered the league for the first time this season, stated that it was impossible for them to continue operating in the fast loop. Permission was immediately granted for them to formally withdraw.

Representatives from Kinston and Smithfield, who were interested in joining the league, were present at the meeting last night at Parker's Restaurant here. Applications from both places were rejected by the league directors.

Smithfield, already a member of the Central Carolina League, could not arrange its schedule to fit with the Bright Belt card. A five-team league was not wanted by the Bright Belt, and Kinston was voted down, 1-3.

The four remaining teams—Farmville, Rocky Mount, Stantonburg and Maclefield—have rearranged their schedule and will finish the season. Tarboro had been unable to compete with the rugged competition furnished by the other members, and Wilson had met with attendance difficulties.

Managers from Rocky Mount, Stantonburg and Maclefield selected the players for their All-Star game to be played Friday night in Farmville against the league-leading Farmville team.

Players chosen, and their positions, were: Stantonburg—Jack Boykin, p.; Pete Harrison, of; Hubert Rose, cf.; Ronald Percise, if; and Jack McComas, of. Rocky Mount—Buddy Stowe, of; Al Denen, if.; Dudley Whitley, if.; Bo Bell, p.; and Sonny Boy Brantley, p. Maclefield—J. C. Burkemo, Torza In Finals Of PGA; Harmon Defeated

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (UP)—Chunky Walt Burkemo of Franklin, Mich., made his second bid in three years for the coveted PGA golf championship today as he squared off against tiny Felice Troza of St. Charles, Ill., in the 36-hole finals at Birmingham Country club.

The 34-year-old two-time Purple Heart winner in the Battle of the Bulge, marched to the finals in 1951 only to lose to Slimming Sammy Sneed but his chances are much better this time against the 135-pounder who is playing in the big tournament for the first time.

Burkemo rallied strongly to dispose of former Master's champion Claude Harmon 1 up at the 36th in Monday's semi-finals and is eight under par for the first six days of the grueling event.

That's 19 strokes better than Torza, a 33-year-old fragile looking Italian who needed three ex-holes to defeat Jack Isaacs, a civilian pro at Langley Air Force Base, Va., for a berth in the finals.

Harmon of Mamaroneck, N. Y., had Burkemo three down with only 11 holes to play, but the burly burlied batted and dropped birdie putts of 35, 15 and eight feet to win the 26th, 28th and 29th and even the match.

Burkemo dropped the 31st with a bogey but Harmon lost the 35th the same way. His second shot fell in the creek on the 36th. He took a stroke penalty and rammed his approach 20 inches from the pin only to see Burkemo can a 12-footer for the decisive birdie.

Torza was four up on Isaacs with only 10 holes to play, but he lost the 27th and 31st with bogeys and the 30th and 34th to birdies. They halved the first extra hole with birdies and the second with pars before the 44-year-old Isaacs faltered. He hit his tee shot into the rough and needed three shots to reach the 175-yard third while Torza closed out the match with a regulation par three.

Elks Win Game From Jaycees

The Elks scored at will yesterday in trouncing the Jaycees, 14-3, in the Little League.

They scored four runs in the first, one in the second and third, and added four more in the fourth and fifth frames. Three doubles were included in the 12-hit attack of the Elks. Lucian Bryan, Joe Moyer, and Harry Forbes each slammed out a two-bagger.

Walker Lee Allen collected the only extra base hit for the Jaycees, a bases-empty home run in the fourth inning.

Stengel Names All-Star Corps

CHICAGO (UP)—Right handed pitching will have to produce an American League victory in the annual All-Star game this year to end the National League's three-game winning streak.

Manager Casey Stengel of New York, in naming his squad of 25, named six hurlers and only one, Billy Pierce of the Chicago White Sox, was a southpaw.

Right handers selected were Allie Reynolds and Johnny Sain of the Yankees, Mike Garcia and Bob Lemon of Cleveland and the aged Leroy (Satchel) Paige, the St. Louis Browns' relief star.

Thus at least two right handers will face the National League lineup at Cincinnati July 14 as no pitcher may go more than three innings during the game, except that the last hurler on duty in the ninth can go as long as the manager wants if the game goes into extra innings.

Ted Lepcio, infielder for the Boston Red Sox, is a graduate of Seton Hall University.

Seixas Seeded At Spring Lake

SPRING LAKE, N. Y. (UP)—Vic Seixas, America's newly crowned Wimbledon tennis champion, plunges right back into competition today as the top-seeded player in the 50th annual Spring Lake invitation tournament.

Seixas and second-seeded Gardner Mulloy of Miami, Fla., both came from England by plane in order to arrive on time for the tourney, which is the first major eastern tournament of the season.

Third-seeded in the field is Hal Burrows of Charlottesville, Va.

Portuguez Wins; Hairston Next

NEW YORK (UP)—Matchmaker Teddy Brenner said today he would reward middleweight Tuzo (Kid) Portuguez for his victory over Charlie Williams Monday night with a fight at Brooklyn's Eastern Parkway Arena against Eugene Harston on July 27.

Portuguez, of Costa Rica, scaled 161 pounds as he won a unanimous 10-round decision over Williams of Newark, N. J., 158-3-4. There were no knockdowns.

Dairy Wins In Softball Game

Carolina Dairies exploded for ten runs in the fourth inning last night to take a 10-3 decision over Garner-Wynne-Manning in the opener of the Softball League doubleheader. Wagner-Waldrop defeated the Granites, 7-3, in the nightcap.

The Dairies jumped on starting pitcher Bill Phillips as if he were a brother in the big inning. Hodges and James Hardy started the frame with singles, and Marshall Tatum walked. Louis Cowal, singled, and George Teel reached base on an error. Pitcher Johnson connected for a triple then to unload the bases. George Brannan and Richard Heller walked and Pete Carraway singled. Hodges collected his second single of the inning and Hardy walked. That was the end of the scoring, as the side was quickly retired.

Five runs in the fourth won for the Wagner-Waldrop crew, coming with the aid of only three singles. Two hit batsmen an error, a walk, and singles by Minges, Evans, and Umstead figured in the scoring.

Carolina Dairies will meet Wagner-Waldrop Wednesday night Home Builders and Southern Bread will play in the second contest.

TEXAS HIGH SCHOOL STAR GOES BAYLOR
WACO, Tex. (AP)—Baylor has snared the boy they call the greatest quarterback and the greatest passer in Texas schoolboy football history.

And from the home town of the top college and professional passer—Slingin' Sammy Baugh—Boyle Traylor goes to Waco and to Baylor. All the colleges were after him, but Dandy Doyle was deliberate in making up his mind. He waited until baseball season was over and school was out.

Then suddenly he announced that Baylor was his choice and in the ranks of the Golden Bears there was joy and shouting.

Next fall Baylor will have a veteran backfield, including a top quarterback of the Doyle Traylor stripe.

Doyle played three years for Temple High. He gained 3.3 miles of territory. He passed the ball for 5,908 yards and completed 78 touchdown throws. Twice he was all-State.

The 180-pound, 17-year-old quarter back, who is also a good runner, played junior high football one season—also at the same school where Baugh got his start. In 1950 Traylor went to Temple Senior High.

"We ran him off when he tried to come out for football his first year," recs Dawson, Temple High coach. "He was too tough."

Traylor had a missing disc in his backbone, being born that way. He played with his back in a brace in 1951 but that winter had an operation. A piece of bone was taken from his hip and grafted to his spine. Now he is totally sound physically and big and tough enough for college football.

MENACING FIGURE
ALLIANCE, O. (AP)—Here's one umpire the players won't be pushing around. He's Bill Fraraccio, a member of the Alliance Umpires Association and a menacing 365 pounds. A veteran of 14 years of arbiting, Fraraccio is considered quite an agile guy in covering coaches and challenges any other umpire who weighs 350 pounds or more to a foot race.

American Reds Boast Support Among Clergy

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—American Communists are in print with claims that Protestant religious leaders are especially receptive to the front operation for which the party is beating the drum loudest since the execution of Julius and Ethel Rosenberg.

The front is called "The National Committee to Win Amnesty for Smith Act Violators." The chairman is Dr. Edward A. Basky with headquarters at 667 Madison Ave., N. Y. Basky also was chairman of the notorious Joint Anti-Fascist Refugee Committee, a Communist front long accused of subversive activities. Basky himself has been identified by the House Un-American Activities Committee as a Communist and a veteran front operator. His refugee committee was a fund raising outfit devoted to such causes as the support in this country of Gerhart Eisler until that fugitive from justice fled aboard the Polish liner Batory.

The Smith Act violators in whom Basky now is interested were convicted of conspiring to overthrow the United States by force and violence. Eight now in prison were members of the Communist National Committee. Three others, also convicted, disappeared and are on the FBI wanted list. Some secondary Communist leaders also have been indicted or convicted.

The weekend national edition of the Communist newspaper, "The Daily Worker," devoted a supplement to the amnesty campaign for Communist party leaders. The amnesty committee is one year old but its cause has been obscured by the noisier party effort to prevent execution of the Rosenbergs who peddled atomic secrets to Russia. "A Christmas amnesty appeal, addressed last year to President Truman, was initiated by 11 outstanding church figures and enlisted the support of 161 clergymen, including seven bishops of the Protestant Episcopal Church," the paper added.

The amnesty objective is to obtain a rain of petitions and individual messages upon the White House urging presidential pardon for the convicted Communists.

Officers Elected By Pitt Historical Body

By CHESTER WALSH
Judge C.V. Cannon of Ayden was elected president of the Pitt County Historical Society at a meeting at Sheppard Memorial Library last week. Judge Dink James presided.

Magistrate Frank E. Brooks of Greenville was elected vice-president, and Miss Tabitha M. DeVisconti of Farmville was re-elected secretary and treasurer. Directors are Howard B. Clay, Miss Jesse Rountree Moye and Judge Dink James of Greenville; Mrs. J. Paul Davenport of Pictolus, Davis McWhorter of Bethel, and Miss Bertha Johnson of Greenville.

J.L. Jackson of Raleigh one of the founders of the Pitt County Historical Society, read a paper about the first institute held in Winterville in 1901. It was written by Mrs. Mary Nelson Smith and published in the Greenville Reflector. He said these papers are now in the East Carolina College Library in Greenville, and suggested that because of their historic value, some of them should be reprinted.

Miss Jessie Rountree Moye reported that the portrait of William Pitt, for whom Pitt county was named, had been hung on the wall in the Superior Court room at the Pitt County courthouse. Miss Moye extended thanks to Pitt Theater Manager G.H. Sturm for loan of the portrait.

Heber E. Tripp, former Greenville alderman, reported that the old cemetery on Evans street, near Tar River, had been cleaned of underbrush and the graves put into good condition. Mrs. Bessie W. Scott, Sheppard Memorial librarian and curator for the Pitt County Historical Society, announced that there is ample room in the library vaults for storage of historical documents and articles.

Frank E. Brooks announced that at the next meeting of the society he would submit some valuable material on old schools of Pitt county at the next meeting.

Secretary DeVisconti read a paper on graveyards and tombs. She described burial grounds in Pitt county and North Carolina and some burial customs. She said she is opposed to the new method of marking tombs with only the name and year of birth and death, and prefers the old way of giving fuller descriptions on the stone—some brief family history. She deplored reports that many old plantations had passed into disuse and that many family cemeteries have disappeared. "Those people who died are entitled to their six feet of earth, and their graves should not be desecrated, molested or destroyed," Miss DeVisconti said. She gave some odd epitaphs she had seen on tomb-stones.

Some ancient deeds, wills and other papers and family articles were exhibited at the meeting. The schedule of meetings for this and next year were announced. The next meeting will be held at the library October 29. Meetings in 1954 will be held January 28, April 29, July 29, and October 28.

The American School for the Deaf, founded in 1817, is said to be the first of its kind in this country.

Only Medicine Made Him Drunk

MUNCIE, Ind. (UP)—Harold Harris, 40, told court officials the only "intoxicants I've ever drunk" is patent medicine.

Harris began a 180-day term at the Indiana State Farm despite his plea of innocent to a drunk charge. He was found guilty also of carrying a pistol without a permit and assault and battery on a jail turn-key.

DEPENDABILITY

is the other name for DODGE!

Over the years, Dodge cars have rewarded millions of owners with a matchless quality: Dependability. Now this word has been given new meaning by the greatest Dodge of them all—the '53 Action Car.

Dependable Economy

In the 1953 Mobilgas Economy Run, the Dodge V-8 beat all other cars in its class... outperformed all 8's in every price class to establish Dodge as America's Top Economy 8!

Dependable Power-for-Safety

Ten days later, the same Dodge V-8 set 2 new official AAA performance records for standard American cars. Proof of reserve power-for-safety.

Dependable Comfort

Dodge Modern Design does away with "meaningless metal" and waste space outside—provides more comfort space than ever inside. You enjoy more head-room, leg-room and elbow-room.

Dependable Handling Ease

Dodge for '53 brings you new mastery of the road, new maneuverability in traffic, new parking ease. It snugs down on curves like a true sports car.

Dependable Extra-Value Features

Safeguard hydraulic brakes with two brake cylinders in each front wheel... Oriflow ride control... Safety-Rim wheels... electric windshield wipers... foam rubber seat cushions... waterproof ignition system... and many others.

DEPENDABLE

DODGE

V-EIGHT OR SIX

You've Got to Drive It to Believe It!

Here is our invitation! Come in for a "Road Test Ride." Find out all that Dodge Dependability means in terms of economical power, safety power, riding comfort and handling ease. There is no obligation. You will discover a new kind of car, a new kind of driving enjoyment... at prices that start below many models in the "lowest-priced" field.

THERE OUGHTA BE A LAW!

By FAGALY and SHORTEN

Keating Says Congress Ready To Probe Barring

WASHINGTON (UP)—Rep. Kenneth B. Keating (R-N.Y.) said today that if Rep. Robert L. Condon asks for it Congress should order a full investigation into why the government barred him from a recent atomic test in Nevada. Keating defended the administration's right to deny congressmen information "on security grounds." At the same time, he said Condon was "entitled to a full hearing" if he wanted it. Congressmen generally adopted a hands-off attitude toward the Condon case, although the California Democrat had predicted every lawmaker would join him in challenging the FBI's right to put members of Congress "under surveillance."

Keating, a ranking Republican on the House Judiciary Committee, said he presumed Condon would initiate a move for an investigation. In that case, he said, "the appropriate congressional committee should open hearings to determine the facts." The issue could be referred to the Judiciary Committee set up especially to hear the case. A few lawmakers agreed with Condon that a constitutional question was involved in the case. But most shied away from a public stand on the issue and some, including Chairman Dewey Short (R-Mo.) of the House Armed Services Committee, asserted that there is no reason why congressmen should have any special immunity from security checks. Condon, a 40-year-old attorney from Walnut Creek, Cal., who is serving his first term in Congress, told reporters that officials of the Atomic Energy Commission barred him from an A-bomb test May 5 on the basis of "fabricated" charges collected by the FBI. He said the charges mostly involved his association with a law firm that represented left wing unions, and added, "I flatly deny any inference that I ever have been a Communist or have had Communist sympathies."

Second Trip Will Be Less Enjoyable Father And Two Sons Lost In Wyoming's Wilderness

CASPER, Wyo. (UP)—Searchers looking for a prominent attorney and his two sons lost in the "rugged and well-high impassable" wilderness of the Wind River range said today they believed the father was an expert woodsman who could live off the country and keep his boys alive. Meanwhile, some 80 planes of the Air National Guard were ordered to take off early today to look for some sign of Oklahoma City attorney Gordon Rainey and his sons. Rainey, 40, and Gordon Jr., 13, and Tom, 8, vanished from their fishing camp in the heavily-forested Wind River Mountains after a guide and outfitter packed them 12 miles back into the wilderness and left them there. Guide Floyd Bouman reported Friday that they were gone when he visited the camp. Fishing equipment and clothing were missing from the camp. An extensive search on foot and horseback has failed to find the Raineys, but Sheriff Paul Pape and 40 volunteers pressed deeper into the mountain country. Bloodhounds were brought in to work the cold trail. "They could live on fish and game long enough to survive," Pape said. "We still think we will find them alive and well."

Captured George With A Hatchet

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—Police Inspectors Denis Bradley and Max Girard said today they arrested a man named George Washington, 63, on robbery charges. The officers said Washington was armed with a small hatchet when he committed the holdups and readily confessed because "I cannot tell a lie."

No Stranger To A Broken Heart

CHICAGO (UP)—The young woman who fainted with grief in St. Columbkille Church Monday was no stranger to sorrow. She was fire heroine Roberta Lee Mason, who received widespread praise for her courage in rescuing a sister and three younger brothers from a fire that destroyed their family home in suburban Des Plaines, Ill., on Feb. 17, 1949. Roberta, who was then 14, suffered crippling, ugly burns over much of her body. Sympathetic well-wishers read her story and donated $10,128 to a fund which was held in trust until the girl turned 18 last year. Des Plaines neighbors pitched in to build the burned-out family a six-room "dream house." But the scars were still there. Then, Roberta's father contracted a chronic ailment and was forced out of work. The girl's mother had to take a job. fund to her parents, then watched it melt away for medical expenses. Not long after, doctors told Roberta she had a heart ailment. She was forced to quit her job. Then, in a happy interlude, she married Ernest Hastings last December. They expect a baby in October. Roberta used all of the money left in trust fund to pay medical expenses and furnish an apartment, giving the "dream house" to her hard-pressed parents.

New Home For Quads At Hand

STANDISH, Me. (UP)—The Pinkham quadruplets, one year old today, soon will be in the new five-room home which their carpenter father built, for the most part singlehandedly. The three girls and a boy can see their new home 200 yards away through the windows of the old farmhouse rented by Silas E. Pinkham, 46, and his wife, Elizabeth. The quads are healthy, handsome and, according to their proud, 38-year-old mother, "a joy to care for." Land for the new home was given by friends. Contributions from the public and various organizations have paid for the materials going into the home. The Pinkhams were living in a two-room shack when Mrs. Pinkham gave birth to quadruplets at a Portland hospital. The family lived in a rented 160-year old farmhouse through the winter and had to move into a second farmhouse when the owner of the first needed the house.

Escape-Proof Jail . . . Wasn't

OAKLAND, Calif. (UP)—Embarrassed jailers admitted today an inmate slipped out of the "escape proof" city prison from his 12th floor cell. They said Manuel Lizarde made his way through three locked, barricaded doors, over a 25-foot wire mesh fence on the roof. He then descended to the main floor in an elevator and walked out. One variety of termite will eat through lead or concrete in search of wood.

WATCH THIS LAWN GROW!—Approximately 20,000 pounds of slightly mellow fish lie scattered over a lawn on Main Street in Acushnet, Mass., after the open trailer truck in the background tipped over while going around a curve. The so-called "trash fish" were being taken to a nearby processing plant in 90-degree weather. (AP Wirephoto)

Last week Roberta's sister, Rosemary, 17, was killed in an automobile accident. The girl was to have been wed next Sunday. Monday, on the way to Rosemary's funeral at St. Columbkille's, a car collided with the auto in which Roberta was riding. She was injured and taken to a hospital for emergency treatment. Doctors released her in time to attend the funeral. When Roberta sat in the church where her sister was to have been married she fainted in the arms of her brother and was carried from the chancel.

By then, they expect to complete a record which they regard as creditable and which, with the additions to be made next year, they are willing to put before the voters in the 1954 congressional elections. During the next two weeks, House GOP leaders expect to salvage the much-buffed bill to extend the excess profits tax for six months. If it passes the House, easy Senate approval is expected. Consuming much more time will be the cleanup of the appropriations bills carrying funds for various government departments and agencies for the 1954 fiscal year which began July 1. Congress has completed action only on the bill providing money for the Treasury and Post Office departments. But of the remaining 11 regular appropriations bills, all except the foreign aid appropriation bill have moved far along the legislative trail. Besides the budget bills, the record shows that Congress has completed action on these items in Mr. Eisenhower's program:

- 1. A two-year extension of the government reorganization law, giving the President power to reshuffle agencies and functions subject to veto by House or Senate.
- 2. Six reorganization plans, including that creating the cabinet level Department of Health, Education and Welfare, have gone into effect as a result of congressional approval or inaction.
- 3. Limited extension of rent controls and of authority to allocate scarce materials to essential industries.
- 4. Legislation establishing state ownership of submerged coastal lands (Tidelands) within historic state boundaries.
- 5. A bill giving 1,000,000 tons of relief wheat to famine stricken Pakistan.

Some other major items in the administration program have cleared both the House and Senate but have not yet emerged from the joint conferences committees which must iron out differences. Main items in this category are: A one-year extension of the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act; a bill establishing federal control of submerged lands of the Continental Shelf beyond the historic state boundaries.

Congress Moves Into Closing Weeks With Priorities 'Set'

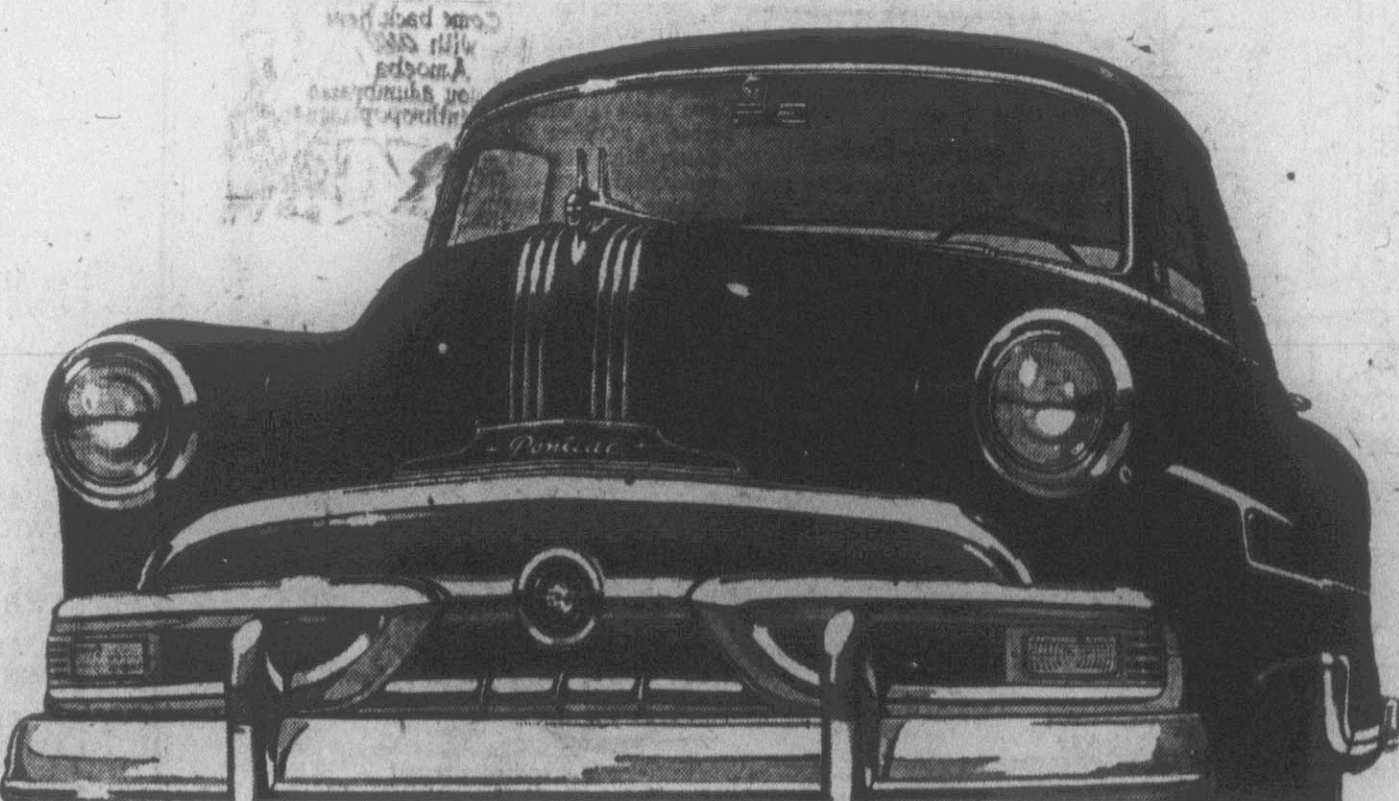

By RAYMOND LAHR, United Press Staff Correspondent. WASHINGTON (UP)—Congress moved into what looks like the final four weeks of its 1953 session today with priority assigned to tax legislation and the unfinished money bills. Barring an unexpected foul-up, Republican leaders expect to adjourn Congress at the end of this month until next January.

Sneezes Caused Auto Collision
LONDON (UP)—William E. Store told a magistrate today that "two terrific sneezes" caused his automobile to swerve and collide with another vehicle. "You should have applied the brakes as soon as you felt the sneezing coming on," Magistrate H. W. Wightwick said, and fined Store $1.40 for careless driving. Only one variety of the ouzel, or dipper bird, lives in North America, but dozens are found elsewhere in the world.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (UP)—Risks and oils declined fractions to a point in an irregularly lower stock market today.

Rail losses were smaller than those in petroleum group. They included Santa Fe, Baltimore & Ohio, Northern Pacific, New York Central, Southern Pacific, and Southern Railway. New York & Harlem, always a wide mover, gained 10 points.

In the petroleum section, American and Pacific Western each lost 1-1/8 points. Wilcox and Texas Pacific Land Trust declined a point a piece. Fractional losses were noted in Jersey Standard, Texas Co., and Skelly.

Steel shares were fractionally higher and motors steady. Chemical balanced off small gains and losses. Safeway Stores and Hiram Walker were at new highs on small gains. More interest centered on commodities than stocks. Cotton ran up on the drought in the South and coffee soared on frost in Brazil. The coffee crop hit is that for 1954 since nearly all of the 1953 crop has been picked. All wheat positions rose more than a cent a bushel.

Mobilizer May Close 'Some' Defense Plants

WASHINGTON (UP)—Defense Mobilizer Arthur S. Flemming said today the government may shut down some "secondary" defense plants and put others on a standby basis for reasons of economy.

But he said these moves would not mean that the Eisenhower administration has abandoned the idea of maintaining a "broad base" for industrial mobilization in case of war.

The "broad base" plan, fostered by former Defense Secretary George C. Marshall under the Truman administration, calls for dividing defense contracts among a large number of plants so that production could be stepped up swiftly in an emergency.

There have been reports that Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson considers this an inefficient and expensive system, and that he favors concentrating arms orders in a few large plants. Industry has been watching closely to see whether the Eisenhower administration would adopt this policy of "narrowing" the mobilization base.

Flemming's office issued a cabinet-approved policy statement which appeared to commit the administration to stick by the existing "broad base" program. This impression was reinforced by Flemming's explanatory statements.

Flemming pointed out that there are "a number of alternative ways" of maintaining the mobilization base other than keeping plants in production. He said these include keeping them in standby condition.

ABC Enforcing Activity Grows
Number of stills captured and illegal whiskey destroyed showed an increase during last month over the previous month and the month of June last year, ABC officers disclosed today.

A report of ABC law enforcement activities in June shows Pitt county officers seized five stills and poured out or otherwise destroyed 850 gallons of mash.

This compares with only one still captured during May and one during June of last year. Mash destroyed in either of the comparative months did not come to more than 200 gallons.

Arrests for ABC violations also were up to eight last month as compared with five during the previous month and four for June of 1952. Seven of the eight were brought to trial and all seven were convicted and given suspended sentences.

Fines increased during the month from $713.35 in May to $1,017.20 during June, and the quantity of non-tax-paid whiskey seized rose from 67 1-3 gallons in May to 139 gallons last month.

One automobile was taken into custody during June as compared with two in the prior month.

Wasn't Missed

Six-year-old Billy White, Jr., of Meriden, Conn., sits forlornly on the steps of the state police barracks in Topshfield, Mass., as he waits for his family to come and pick him up. When Billy's father stopped for gas in Topshfield, Billy went in for a candy bar. Hours later police at Berlin, Conn., over a hundred miles away, stopped the father's car and asked him to count noses. There was Billy's mother, three brothers, an uncle and aunt, and a cousin—but no Billy. Meanwhile another uncle from Cambridge, Mass., picked him up and took him home. The group was returning from a holiday in New Hampshire. (AP Wirephoto)

Driver Charged After Accident

A charge of failure to yield the right of way was placed against James F. Everett, 72, of 201 Mumford Street, yesterday after his automobile was involved in an accident in North Greenville.

Police officer W. C. Flake reported that a car driven by Everett collided with one operated by Joseph C. Boyce Jr., of 501 Mumford Street, around three o'clock.

While no injuries were reported, damage to the two cars was listed at $150.
