Heavy Boll Weevil Count In Field Check

Pitt County Agent Sam Winchester (left) and James Alfred, are shown checking the field of Haywood Dail of near Greenville for the presence of the dreaded boll weevils. As results of the tests made, based on the percentage of squares on stalks which are big enough to be punctured or have been punctured, the farm agent found the field to be 72 per cent infested. (Reflector Photo by Roy Hardee)

Heavy boll weevil infestation, along with red spiders in numbers, have been found in Pitt County cotton fields as results of spot checks by the local county agent. This week, eleven Pitt County farms were checked for the presence of boll weevils and infested fields went as high as 89 per cent to a low of only six per cent. The tests were made by county agent Sam Winchester and was based on the percentage of squares on stalk which are big enough to be punctured or have been punctured. Of the eleven fields tested only one failed to show the presence of red spiders in the new crop. Boll worms were found on one farm in small number, numbering around 100 per cent, according to the report. Farms on which the tests were made were: W. W. Gaskins, Ayden, 57 per cent; Thad Hart, Ayden, 39 per cent; Frank Hart, Ayden, 26 per cent; T. L. Little, Ayden, 6 per cent; Alex Cuthrell, Ayden, 31 per cent; A. D. McLawhorn, Winterville, 63 per cent; F. McCoy Tripp, Winterville, 18 per cent; Frank Savage, Greenville, 75 per cent; W. E. Dail, Greenville, 72 per cent; J. O. Whichard, Greenville, 83 per cent; W. A. House, Bethel, 12 per cent. It was on House farm that no red spiders were found. Winchester suggested that growers who have not begun treatment should check fields carefully and if boll weevils are present, start three treatments at five day intervals, until the weevils are brought to 10 per cent or below. For those farmers treating, check for punctures and continued treatment until fields are brought below the 10 per cent infested stage. If the percentage is higher (18-20) or above, treatment should be applied every five days instead of on a weekly basis. Red spiders seem to be general in cotton fields. Growers dusting to control can use three dusts: (1) Dusting sulphur, (2) 3 per cent armate; (3) 1 per cent para-

Front Stabilized; Chinese Casualties Heavy, Many Surrender Eighth Army Pushing Reds Back

By FREDERICK C. PAINTON United Press Staff Correspondent SEOUL, Korea (UP)—Chinese Communists who smashed an estimated eight miles into the central front are being forced back under a combined infantry-tank-artillery-plane attack and are surrendering in large numbers, front dispatches said today. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, commanding the 8th Army, said in a special statement that the front is now stabilized and that the United Nations forces are pressing forward. Eighth Army headquarters said the Reds lost 14,200 men killed and 6,800 wounded in the week ended Tuesday—and their casualty rate has shot upward since then. Regrouped, reinforced U. N. troops gained up to 1,000 yards—more than half a mile—on the left flank Friday after gaining one mile Thursday. Front dispatches described tank-infantry teams knitting into the Chinese lines in nutcracker attacks and said one dominating hill had been recaptured by storm in Friday's advance after an all-day battle. The dispatches told how hundreds of Allied planes hurled flaming napalm gasoline jelly into the Chinese to burn them to death. Other planes dropped bombs and massed artillery pounded hundreds of tons of shells into the enemy lines. Two Marine Skyraiders reported later they had destroyed two more Russian tanks. The big Allied offensive against the 100,000-man Red army in the central front bulge touched off a Chinese surrender in great numbers slowing up the advance of Americans and South Koreans, who did not know what to do with their captives. United Press correspondent William Miller reported from the front that groups of Chinese were laying down their arms with increasing frequency as Americans and South Koreans drove north. An American advisory officer on the western anchor of the front told of slowing the advance of tanks. "The Chinese are surrendering all over the place," the officer said. Tank crews at the western anchor of the 20-mile battleground, called back to their colonel asking, "what to do with all these Chinks." "The tankers wanted to know whether they should load them on the tanks and haul them back in," the officer said. "The colonel told them: 'Hell, no, make them take their clothes off and walk them back with their hands over their heads.'" Advancing South Korean troops told Miller they had picked up all kinds of Chinese equipment. Miller said one Chinese was wearing a WAC field jacket and others wore bits of American clothing. In the center of the advancing line, however, advisory officers said the Chinese were resisting on every hill, and "it seems to get stiffer as we go forward." But, despite the resistance, Allied tank and infantry teams closed in on the Communist-held Kumsong River line against Chinese defending the hills. The Allied attackers expected to reach high ground south of the Kumsong River some time Friday. It was at this point that the Chinese set up their big guns and main defense. Joint infantry-tank groups forming the advance movement pushed forward slowly but methodically. When a stiff pocket of resistance was met, the teams moved over to it blasted it out of the way, then dispersed and advanced again. Record 90-degree temperatures turned the tanks into furnaces. Miller reported from the center of the bulge that the new advances were made after dawn Friday as the South Koreans pressed against the main Chinese defense line. "We're going forward! We're going forward!" Gen. Chong Il Kwan, ROK corps commander, excitedly told Miller.

U.S. Ire Is Up At Reds' Stall Moves

By DONALD J. GONZALES United Press Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON (UP)—America's impatience over Red stalling tactics in the Korean truce talks was near the breaking point again today. There was a strong suspicion in official quarters that the Communists were up to new mischief. Authorities here regard the new Communist ground offensive as an act of "bad faith." North Korean and Chinese negotiators at Panmunjon were understood to have been told in blunt terms that this American feeling. The session with the Communist negotiators tonight is expected to show whether current Communist strategy will lead to a truce or more war. Informants said the Allies were fully prepared for either eventually and that the decision was up to the Reds. U. S. patience has been particularly strained by repeated Communist demands for "guarantees" that South Korea would abide by a truce once it is signed. This conduct in the face of Allied insistence that the truce will be honored has prompted suspicion of Red motives. Details of the American-South Korean agreement on post-truce sections was placed under congressional scrutiny Thursday. Assistant Secretary of State Walter S. Robertson was quizzed at length during separate appearances before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and the House Foreign Affairs Committee. Robertson will give a general report to the nation tonight on radio and television networks (10:30 p.m. e.d.t.) on his negotiations with Rhee as President Eisenhower's special representative. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles will share the program with Robertson to report on the just-concluded Big Three foreign ministers conference which offered Moscow four power talks in September on the German and Austrian problems. Georgia-Florida Market's Opening Day Averaged $52.33 Leaf Offerings Light, Quality Lower VALDOSTA, Ga. (UP)—Offerings were light and quality of leaf generally lower today in the second day of 1953 custom sales on the Georgia-Florida flue-cured tobacco belt. The U. S. Department of Agriculture said yesterday's gross sales at the more than 20 Georgia and Florida market cities of the belt totaled 9,653,959 pounds at an average price of $52.33 cents a pound. This was the second highest opening day average price in the history of the belt. First-day sales of the 1951 crop averaged $41.1 cents a pound. Individual market averages on opening day ranged from 47 to $51.1 cents a pound. The USDA said last year, opening day sales totaled $287,449 pounds at an average of $1.61 cents a pound, with individual markets averaging from 45.5 to 55.45 cents a pound. Florida markets topped those in Georgia in 1953 opening day prices. The Florida market cities of Lake City, Live Oak and Jasper sold 1,154,264 pounds yesterday for an average of 54.21 cents a pound. The Georgia market cities sold 8,499,695 pounds for an average of 52.33 cents a pound. Many individual market cities reported light offerings at early sales today. Rain and the late curbing combined to hold down the volume. Prices were steady to somewhat lower. Reports from representative market cities on second-day trends included: Nashville, Ga.—Sales light with offerings mostly lugs and cutters. Early average Friday $53 cents a pound, with a top of 65 cents. Opening day sales totaled 640,302 pounds at an average price of $53.38 cents a pound. Tifton, Ga.—First hour sales Friday were 145,000 pounds with price and quality of offerings about the same as opening day, which averaged 54.83 cents a pound on sales of 653,280 pounds. This compared with 1951 opening day figures of 550,958 pounds for 50.13 cents a pound. About 875,000 pounds on hand for Friday sales. Vidalia, Ga.—Sales opened firm Friday, ranging from 26 to 65 cents a pound. Opening day sales averaged 52.75 cents a pound on 629,900 pounds. Fitzgerald, Ga.—Low-grades dominated Friday offerings with average prices on early sales lower than opening day. About 350,000 pounds on the floors. Preliminary USDA reports on opening day sales had indicated some lower prices. The USDA found, however, that the offerings improved in quality over that of last year's initial offerings, with a larger percentage of good leaf and cutters, good and fine lugs and good primings. Volume was reported generally heavy and sales transactions high despite the earliest opening of the market in history. The outcome was to be regarded as a test of the early sales policy. The USDA estimated sales of the first day at probably as much as 7,000,000 pounds with the bulk of sales ranging from 40 to 62 cents per pound. The practical top price was 64 cents, the USDA reported. Deliveries to the Flue-Cured Stabilization Corp. under the government loan program were estimated to range from 8 to 12 per cent of the sales in contrast to 13 per cent for the opening day of 1952, when the peg was slightly higher.

Privilege Licenses Are Reminded Due In July

Some 400 to 500 Greenville businesses will receive notices—probably tomorrow—from the city of Greenville informing them privilege licenses for 1953-54 should be purchased during July. City Clerk H. H. Duncan said this morning notices are expected to be mailed today to 400 to 500 local business firms of all kinds which have not yet paid privilege license taxes for operations during the fiscal year 1953-54. Of the approximately 600 businesses listed for tax purposes on the latest 130 already have purchased city's books, Duncan said approximately. The remainder of local businesses have until July 31 to purchase privilege licenses before penalties are imposed. Letters being mailed today remind business firms "Your privilege license are due in the months of July, beginning August 2, there will be 1953. This is to notify you that a five per cent penalty per month for five months if not purchased in July." Duncan said the city expects to realize this year $23,000 from the sale of privilege licenses to local businesses. That is the amount of set up in the city budget. Last year anticipated revenue from the source the city budget called for the collection of $23,600 in privilege license fees, and actual collections amounted to $23,176.81. Privilege licenses on the city schedule range from 50 cents for a shoe shine license to $500 for a fortune teller or palmist. For all practical purposes, however, privilege licenses are broken down into various categories, and one firm may be required to purchase several low-prices licenses for the sale of several different items. Charges for various privilege license of the city are governed by state regulations, Duncan said.

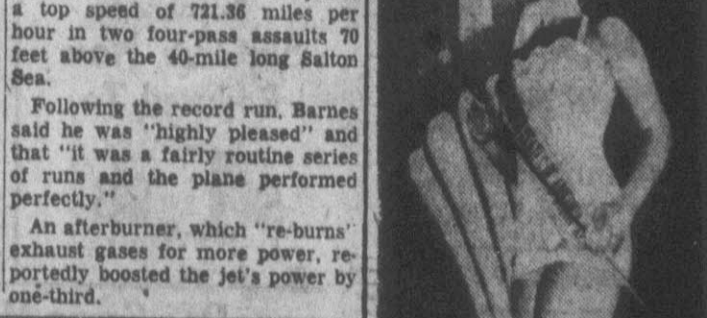

Jet Sets Record 715 MPH Flight

THERMAL, Calif. (UP)—The world speed record stood above the 700 miles per hour mark today after a swept-wing F-86D Sabre jet streaked over a desert test course at an average speed of 715.7 M.P.H. The North American jet flown by Air Force Lt. Col. William F. Barnes, of Palos Verdes, Calif., yesterday shattered the Nov. 1952 mark of 698.5 per hour set by Capt. J. Slade Nash in another F-86 over the same course. Barnes actually broke the record twice, the first time in history this has occurred in one day, since he averaged 713.6 miles per hour in the first of his two series of runs. Barnes pushed the silver jet to a top speed of 721.36 miles per hour in two four-pass assaults 70 feet above the 40-mile long Salton Sea. Following the record run, Barnes said he was "highly pleased" and that "it was a fairly routine series of runs and the plane performed perfectly." An afterburner, which "re-burns" exhaust gases for more power, reportedly boosted the jet's power by one-third.

Jet Ace Falls Shy Of Mark For MIGs

SEOUL, Korea (UP)—Ma. James Jabara, the world's first jet ace, flew his last Korean combat mission today and failed to break the world record of 16 MIGs destroyed. Jabara went up twice into MIG Alley on his 89th and 100th missions but could not get his gun-sights on one of the Russian-built jets. He goes home with a record of 16 MIGs destroyed, three probably destroyed and eight damaged.

Medical Hopefulness, Juvenile Outrage Mark Needle-Sticking

NEWTON, N. C. (UP)—The nation's third mass inoculation against an outbreak of diphtheria ended here on a mixed note of medical hopefulness and juvenile outrage at being stuck with needles in the hip. As authorities last night finished the gamma globulin inoculations for about 14,000 children under 10 years old in Catawba County they decided some of the language they heard from the pained youngsters was as about as sharp as the needles. One youngster "threatened" a news photographer who snapped a picture of the nine-year-old boy when he had "my pants pulled down." Another, when he saw the needle, broke away from atten-

Gen. Mark Clark And Chief Truce Negotiator Talk

SEOUL, Korea (UP)—Gen. Mark W. Clark held a three-hour conference with his chief truce negotiator today on the eve of a crucial meeting at Panmunjon that may reveal whether the communists intend to end or prolong the Korean war. Clark and Lt. Gen. William K. Harrison talked privately as the U.N. commander returned from an overnight visit to the front. He was believed to have given Harrison final instructions on what to do when the truce talks are resumed Saturday at 2 p.m. (1 a.m. e.d.t.) following a one-day recess called by the Communists. As the talks remained deadlocked over the Reds' refusal to accept U.N. assurances that South Korea will abide by the armistice, Harrison was reported awaiting a Communist answer to a final "memo" submitted at Thursday's meeting. U. N. sources in Korea and Tokyo, who usually give out information, were lighted about the next move. They refused to confirm or deny speculation that Harrison had delivered a "now or never" ultimatum to the Communists to sign the completed armistice document or end the truce talks. Allied military men openly expressed belief that the Communists were stalling at Panmunjon to await the outcome of the battle now raging on the central front—the heaviest fighting since the truce talks began on a hopeful note two years ago. Communist radio broadcasts continued to demand "concrete assurances that Syngman Rhee will abide by the armistice," as assurances Clark gave the Reds when he called for resumption of the truce talks.

Treasury Collected Over $69 Billion For Last Year U. S. Has Record Tax Take

WASHINGTON (UP)—The federal Treasury collected a record $69,565,916,868.96 in taxes last year. Personal income tax payments accounted for the bulk of the increase, a Treasury collection report showed today. It covered tax collections on everything from excess profits to playing cards in fiscal 1953, the 12-month period through June. The total collection was $4,586,331,408.71, about 7 per cent more than in fiscal 1952, but it was not enough to prevent the Treasury from running up a peacetime record deficit of $9,389,000,000. Individual income tax collections accounted for $36,949,806,969.39, more than half the total. This was a $2,471,108,158.40, or 10 per cent, gain over fiscal 1952. It was also 10 per cent more than former President Truman had anticipated before he left the White House in January. Corporation tax collections increased negligibly, and fell 9 per cent below Mr. Truman's estimates. Corporations anted up $21,548,315,834.45 or $81,405,815.12 more than in fiscal 1952. In January Mr. Truman had anticipated another $2,200,000,000 from this revenue source. Present indications point to bigger business tax payments in the current fiscal year because of a better profits situation. However, individual income tax rates are due by law to go down 10 per cent next Jan. 1, simultaneous with expiration of the excess profits tax on corporations. Contributing to the fiscal 1953 revenue increase was a $1,019,989,959.58 gain in miscellaneous collections from excise, gift, occupational, estate, alcohol, tobacco, and playing card levies. Combined, these totaled $10,824,286,257.50. Unemployment insurance tax receipts rose $13,836,475.61 to total $273,452,907.02. The government got its biggest take, as usual, from New York state. It was $12,900,157,997.84. Followed among the states were Illinois, $5,862,195,215.77; Michigan, $3,830,352,390.50; California, $3,265,268,715.70; Pennsylvania, $3,153,318,277.19; and Ohio, $4,843,381,442.02. Navy Pilot Becomes 'Ace' With Fifth Kill In Old Propellor-Driven Corsair

SEOUL, Korea (UP)—The grizzled sea dog promised the Navy Cross today to the handsome Corsair pilot who made it possible for 1,000,000 persons in Seoul to sleep at night. Vice Admiral Joseph (Jocko) Clark, commander of Task Force 77, stepped from his three-starred staff car with outstretched hand to shout, "By golly, you did it again!" to Lt. Guy Borden of Monroe, La. Borden shot down his fifth Communist night fighter last night to become the first propellor-driven, night-flying and "Bedcheck Charlie" ace of the Korean war. "This is the answer to our problems," Clark said at the airfield near Seoul. "It enables a million or so people to get some sleep at night." The admiral's congratulations brought embarrassment to the Air Force. Borden succeeded in shooting away Communist fighters from vital United Nations air fields and war-torn Seoul after jets and radar had failed. Clark told the 31-year-old father of three children he would be presented the high decoration at 5th Air Force headquarters tomorrow. "That's what he earned," Clark said. "I want to congratulate you on being the first night ace." Clark, looking towards Borden's Corsair painted with five red stars under its cockpit, had on one question for the pilot who always had wanted to fly jet and who never was selected. "Where are the other guys," Clark asked. "Why don't they get it? You tell those guys I want them to get in the act, too." The old enemy planes, without much structural metal, were able to get through radar screens and touch off alerts in the Seoul area. American jets flew too fast to get them in gun-sights. But Borden's slower plane was just the thing needed to counter the Red tactics.

Freighter Sails With Food Cargo For E. Germans

NEW YORK (UP)—The SS American Inventor sails for Germany today with the first shipment of food offered by President Eisenhower to hungry East Germans. Longshoremen hoisted tons of flour, dried milk and lard aboard the freighter at a Hudson River pier yesterday, with more to be loaded today. The ship was scheduled to sail for Hamburg at 5 p.m. with about 2,800 tons of foodstuffs. The balance of the 4,500-ton first shipment, valued at $2,000,000, will be sent aboard another freighter next Tuesday. There was no certainty the food would ever reach kitchens of Communist-dominated East Germans. Red leaders have denied a food shortage exists, and rejected the offer of food as a "propaganda trick."

50,000 Boy Scouts On Hand At 1953 National Jamboree Opening

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (UP)—The Boy Scouts' 1953 National Jamboree formally opened today as some 50,000 Scouts from America and 15 foreign nations attended opening flag ceremonies at the 3,000-acre jamboree city. The bursting of an aerial bomb signaled the raising of the United States flag and the colors of 54 other countries in which Scouting is recognized. The official opening started the Scouts on a program of shows, demonstrations, pageants and sports events. Tonight's show, "Building of a Nation," will begin in a natural amphitheater on the jamboree grounds and is expected to be attended by some 100,000 persons. Lt. Gov. Goodwin Knight will greet the Scouts in person and President Eisenhower will add his greetings from Washington by a recording. Meanwhile, high Scouting awards will be presented at the BSA National Council meeting in Los Angeles. Highest award from the national court of honor will be given to Air Explorer Brookner Brady Jr., 15, of Monterey, Calif., for fighting a shark in an effort to save a friend. Young Blahdy, attacking the shark alone, stabbed it three times after it fatally bit Barry Wilson, 17, while they were swimming off Pacific Grove, Calif., last Dec. 7. Yesterday, region #16 of the BSA, comprising 27 councils in North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Florida, was presented with the Lorillard Spencer award for achieving the best overall record of membership growth. Speakers at the national council meeting last night included Paul G. Hoffman, Studebaker Corp. board chairman, who compared the Democratic Scouting movement with what he had seen in Communist-controlled countries. "It is no wonder that totalitarian governments outlaw Scouting and its brotherhood," he said.

New State Dept. Appointee Given Sharp Criticism

WASHINGTON (UP)—Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy came under heavy new attack today as the State Department's information chief branded his newest investigator "completely incompetent or downright malicious."

In the sharpest language he has used yet, Dr. Robert L. Johnson lashed out at Karl Baarslag, who was sworn in Thursday as research director of McCarthy's Permanent Investigating Subcommittee.

Johnson condemned Baarslag's published charge that U. S. overseas libraries "just don't go in for anti-Soviet literature." This statement, said Johnson, is "patently false and clearly damaging to the vital interest of the American people abroad."

Johnson asked McCarthy in a letter made public Thursday night to supply a detailed report regarding the library survey on which Baarslag said he based his charge. He also "suggested" that the research director be called to testify.

Neither McCarthy nor Baarslag was immediately available for comment. Sen. Charles E. Potter (R-Mich.), a subcommittee member, said he would have to study Johnson's letter before taking a position.

Baarslag, former head of the American Legion's counter-espionage activities, was quoted in Thursday's New York World-Telegram and Sun as saying he was "amazed" at what he found during a recent tour of U. S. libraries overseas.

"It was possible to find pro-Communist volumes..." he was quoted as reporting. "But it was impossible to locate anything in the nature of anti-Soviet publications."

In reply, Johnson said the department had found only 30 books by "known Communists" in the libraries and that these were "no longer on the shelves." He declared that the department had distributed 6,000,000 anti-Communist books and that there were 18,729 anti-Communist works in the libraries.

ANTS
There's a new and better way to kill ants. It's called Roach Films. When applied to any surface with the built-in cap-applier, it leaves a hard, dry, clean, invisible film. The film can't harm or soil any surface, but when ants touch it their legs become paralyzed and they die in two hours. A single application remains effective for months. You never see it, but it sure does get rid of ants and roaches! Roach Films is available at Belk-Tyler, 3rd Floor. —Adv

No Church Trial For Chapel Hill Minister

CHAPEL HILL (UP) — A five-month controversy over the Chapel Hill Presbyterian Church and its former minister, the Rev. Charles M. Jones, was ended today when the Orange Presbyterian Church and community of Chapel Hill stirred up for another year. "I believe trial in this presbytery would be productive of little except hard feelings," he said. Jones then read a 45-minute report to the presbytery, reviewing the background of his case and setting forth his theological beliefs. Afterward, he asked the group to accept his resignation as a minister of the Orange Presbytery. The dissolution of the judicial commission, which had controlled Jones' church since the pastor was fired, also restored the church to full standing. However, members said there has been a move to establish a non-denominational community church here and ask Jones to become pastor. Jones said he would "consider" such an offer. Dr. Graham's motion to dissolve the judicial commission was passed only after a bitter two-hour debate.

James - Barfield Vows Spoken As Movie Camera Records Event

As a home movie camera whirred to record the event, Miss Peggy Ruth Barfield of Ayden and Lt. Leslie Russell James Jr. of Farley, N. M., repeated their wedding vows at five o'clock Saturday afternoon at the Elm Grove Free Will Baptist Church. Rev. C. L. Patrick of Snow Hill officiated, using the solemn double-ring rite. Miss Barfield is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Barfield of Ayden. Lt. James is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Russell James Jr. of Farley, N. M. Prior to the wedding ceremony, Miss Shirley Tripp sang "Because" and "O Promise Me," accompanied by Miss Janice Worthington, organist. "The Wedding Prayer" was sung as the couple knelt for the benediction. Traditional processional and recessional marches were used. The nuptial vows were exchanged beneath a white archway, intertwined with Oregon fern. Baskets of white gladioli and mixed summer blooms, interspersed with standards of lighted tapers, flanked the archway. The bride, escorted and given in marriage by her father, was garbed in nylon lace over satin with nylon lace sleeves ending in cala lily points over her hands. The fitted bodice, with its yoke of illusion outlined in seed pearls, flowed into a bouffant skirt. Her shoulder-length veil of illusion was attached to a Juliet cap of lace and seed pearls. In her hands, she carried a cascade bouquet of lilies of the valley and white roses, centered with a white orchid. Miss Nell Mumford of Grifton, serving as maid of honor, was dressed in an aqua ballerina-length gown of organdy, similar to that of the bride's. The gowns of the bridesmaids were identical to the maid of honor's with Misses Sara Barfield, sister of the bride, and Lynette Barfield of Kinston attired in dusty rose and Misses Kathryn McLawhorn of Grifton and Lois Jean Meeks of Grifton in blue. The flower girl was dressed in a miniature version of the other attendants' gowns and scattered rose petals from a Colonial basket as she glided along. Lt. Benjamin Boykin of Deming, N. M., attended the groom as best man. Ushers were Lt. Jim Cole of Oklahoma City, Okla., Lt. Earl Dittman of Houston, Tex., Lt. Jerry Cance of Toledo, O., and Lt. John Yard of Tulsa, Okla. Mrs. C. L. Patrick of Snow Hill directed the wedding. The bride's mother, Mrs. Barfield, chose for the occasion a navy crepe dress, complemented by red roses, with which she used white accessories. Mrs. James, the bridegroom's mother, was dressed in sheer navy rayon, with which she used white and blue accessories. Her flowers were red roses. Mrs. James is a graduate of the Grifton High School and has attended East Carolina College at Greenville for the past two years. W. M. James is a graduate of Farley, N. M., High School and New Mexico A. & M., where he received a degree in engineering. He is stationed at present at Stallings Air Base in Kinston. Immediately following the wedding service, the bride's parents entertained at a reception in the Community Building here. Mrs. Levi Worthington greeted guests and introduced them to the receiving line, comprised of the wedding party, the groom's mother and the bride's parents. Arrangements of white gladioli and fern carried out the green-and-white color scheme evidenced in decorations. Mrs. Patrick presided at one end of the refreshment table to serve lime-ice punch. Individual cakes, decorated in the nuptial motif, were served by Mrs. Claud Dennis at the opposite end. Mints and nuts were served buffet style. Lighted tapers flanking the center floral arrangement of white gladioli and fern cast flickering shadows upon the imported white linen cloth covering the refreshment table. Following the reception, the young

Girl In A 7-Month Coma Has A Brand-New Son

MIAMI, Fla. (UP) — A 17-year-old girl who gave birth to a baby boy during a seven-month coma from auto accident injuries was in "only fair" condition today, only half aware she had become a mother. Doctors at Jackson Memorial Hospital were doing everything possible to keep alive teen-aged Mrs. Janice Cubbedge and the infant she bore Thursday night although she has been semi-conscious since last January. Hospital attendants had prepared for possible serious trouble with the delivery because of a head injury Mrs. Cubbedge received in the auto accident and a severe attack of spinal meningitis which followed. The girl has lived an almost totally blank-out existence since the accident in Fayetteville, N. C., during a honeymoon trip with her husband, Ronald, 17, a high school classmate with whom she had eloped. Staff physicians indicated the young mother, fed mostly by tube since the accident, now faced her most serious fight for life. The child was placed in an incubator indefinitely. A physician said the girl may not have actually known she became a mother although she had begun awakening from the deep coma several days ago and finally had even spoken to her young husband. Ronald (Kayo) Cubbedge, a high school senior, himself still in a brace from the auto mishap, named his son Charles Marvin Cubbedge and made plans for the life of a family man after his wife recovers. "We haven't had much married life but when she gets well we think everything will be just fine," he said. He plans to enter a barber college. Their lives were disrupted by the accident 15 hours after their elopement in a r r l a g e at Dillon, S. C. About three hours before the birth he got proof that she knew him by asking, "What are you doing here?" "I'm having a baby, Kayo," she said. So delicate was the new arrival's condition because of "periods of respiratory distress" that physicians for a long time would not permit the baby to be weighed but nurses estimated the weight at between five or six pounds.

Four Charged In Theft Of 6 Hogs

Three young Negroes were in Pitt County jail today and another had been released on bond after being arrested and charged with larceny of six hogs. The four Negroes were identified by Sheriff's Deputies Lloyd Manning and Arthur Andrews as Van-anor, Page, 24, Ashley Page, Jr., 21, Amos D. Page, 19, and Edward Lee Grimes, 21. The three Pages, they said, are brothers. The men were arrested Wednesday afternoon by the deputy sheriff's and charged with the July 2 theft of six hogs belonging to W. C. Howell of Greenville. Officers said the six hogs were recovered July 4 at a slaughter house in Washington, and investigation of the case did not end until yesterday after the arrest of the four men. Deputy Sheriff Manning said the four admitted taking the hogs, valued at $205. A $500 bond was set for each of the arrested men, but only Ashley Page, Jr., had posted bond today. The other three were still being held in county jail. The case will be heard in Pitt Superior court.

No Magic Solution

By ELMER ROEBNER
For the last few days this department has been scaring itself and readers with possible consequences in the 1950's of the 3,000,000-plus annual birthrate since the war. It cited the dangers of a rise in juvenile delinquency and of heavy tides of unskilled workers flowing into labor market strained by relatively fewer middle-aged workers and relatively more over 65.

There is no magic solution for these problems but there are some approaches, most fairly obvious, that may be considered. Against the threat of delinquency, we might try:
Expanding the school plant to catch up with requirements.
Gaining better teachers with better pay. (While both of these will cost money, the price may be less than the cost of more delinquency and less readiness to face maturity.)

Recognizing the danger and moving through individual and community action to meet it, especially through churches, clubs, societies and other civic organizations.
Against the threat of an over-supply of novice labor and attendant ills, we might try:
Developing methods of selecting the best prospects among the young and training them to become leaders in plants, businesses and the community.
Building up backlogs of public works that can be initiated when labor surpluses threaten.

Arranging to keep able, skilled workers over 65 employed as trainers for novices. Later it may be advisable to provide retirement of less effective workers before the age of 65.

Once again, recognizing the possibilities in the first step toward preventative action. If all levels of government and the community itself can calculate the approach of difficulties, there will be, at least, time in which to prepare counter measures.

The best hope lies in keeping the economy constantly expanding. This will mean mere jobs for new entrants in the labor pool and, more importantly, it will reassure the young that there will be a rewarding place in society for them when they mature.

We may worry about the young, but we cannot lose hope or confidence in them. From their ranks will come the scientists, the engineers, the teachers and leaders of tomorrow. Our youngsters constitute our entire stake in the future and we can leave nothing undone to make it strong and secure.

June Brides' Biggest Mistake

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—What is the biggest mistake June brides may be making today in the post-honeymoon adjustment that takes place in all marriages?

A panel of veteran husbands I consulted thought that one of the commonest marital errors by young wives was this:

"They try to get a husband to drop all his old friends, because they don't want to have to share their lover boy with anybody."
The all-male panel agreed it was unfair to expect any wife to have to put up with all her husband's old buddies, as they probably include some who are "as big a bum as he used to be before he was wid and married her." But they said it was a situation that was better corrected through time and tact, rather than direct action.

"Any young wife is going to have this problem, unless she married a hermit," said one. "The thing to do is to weed out his friends gradually, and gracefully. If she just waits, she will find his more objectionable friends will drift away anyway, as they will find him more boring and less fun the longer he is married."

"The worst thing a bride can do is to hurry the situation—to deliberately break up all his old friendships," said a second veteran. "That will create a chinese wall of misunderstanding between them."
"She will find she has driven her husband further from her, not brought him closer. He will retreat to keep from being swallowed. For he will realize his wife is like a lady spider, which consumes her mate."

A third husband broke in: "Boy, that was my first wife, all right—a lady spider, a barnacle with vocal chords. She managed to shuck off all my friends—but fast. I had to admire the way she did it. But after five lonely years of admiring her, I up and shucked her off, and got me a new wife."

"How's she?" someone asked.
"Oh, much better," he replied. "She says I am so housebroken by my first wife that she herself is willing to lend me a few friends to play poker with—just so she can get me out from under her feet at least one night a week. Wonderful woman."

The other husbands nodded gravely. Then they drew up the following rules to guide any young bride in the delicate task of pruning her husband's thorny garden of friendship:

1. "Above all—go slow."
2. "Help marry off his ruffian bachelor pals to your own girl friends you want to get rid of. What do you care if they never forgive you?"
3. "Praise your husband's worst friends to the skies. He will get sick even of hearing their names, because a man can't stand to hear a bum praised, even if the bum is his own brother."
4. "Convince your husband the reason the food bills are so high is that his free-loading companions are eating and drinking him into bankruptcy. Suppose he does find out later it really is your relatives that are busting him up? No problem at a time."
5. "Be careful never to offend a friend that later in life your husband may want to borrow money from."
6. "Retain one or two steady, dependable, free-spending bachelors, and make them your friends. A wife often finds a good, sound bachelor more helpful than children for running errands, helping with the dishes—and he'll squire her out at night when her husband just wants to sit at home and listen to his tired dogs bark."
7. "Let your husband keep at least one thoroughly objectionable friend. This will give him the sense of freedom, independence, escape and adventure every man needs in marriage."

But what about a bride who is stuck with a husband who stubbornly refuses to be weaned from his circle of disreputable pals, and spends more and more time with them?

"The only thing I can think of," said one panel member, "is for the wife to go to work, save up enough dough to buy her husband a new car—and hope he'll take her riding in it instead of his friends."

Another Encouraging Sign For Farmers

Opening of tobacco markets in the Georgia-Florida belt brought good news to Eastern Carolina farmers again this year.

Although the opening in more southerly markets is no guarantee of how tobacco sales will be in North Carolina, it always serves as a barometer for speculation on conditions when the Eastern belt opens.

And this year, the barometer again points to good prices ahead.

Reports from the Georgia-Florida belt on opening day's sales indicate prices for tobacco may be slightly higher this year than they were last year. That surely is good news for tobacco farmers in this area.

Pitt County, particularly, is generally considered to have one of its best tobacco crops in many years. By the same measure, it seems to have, overall, about the best tobacco crop in this Eastern section of North Carolina. The yield is good, the quality generally appears higher than usual, and if the price is good, there are the makings of a prosperous fall ahead.

Of course, farmers never count their chickens before they hatch. Neither do they count too heavily on the degree of financial success the year's crop will attain until the local marketing season gets underway.

Nevertheless, coupled with encouraging signs in opening prices paid on the Georgia-Florida belt, it probably is not being overly optimistic to give a gentle "hurrah" for the outlook confronting Eastern Carolina farmers this fall.

It is still too early to go off the deep end predicting the degree of success for farmers this year, but each new sign as the season develops points to a much more prosperous agricultural year in Pitt in 1953 than was the case in 1952.

Courtesy Citations Go; More Arrests, Maybe

North Carolina's highway patrolmen probably will continue to be courteous to other drivers; but their "courtesy" citation is a thing of the past.

Commissioner Ed Scheidt's order doing away with the courtesy citation means from now on violators of highway regulations will be arrested instead of given a written warning as has been the prevalent policy in the past.

When one realizes that approximately five courtesy citations have been passed out to motorists for every one arrest by highway patrolmen, it is apparent the arrest rate will go up unless one of two things happen: 1. patrolmen find fewer violators on highways; or 2. they are more lenient than Commissioner Scheidt's order intends with the violators they stop.

During the month of May patrolmen made 10,955 arrests and passed out approximately five times that many courtesy citations. If arrests now take the place of courtesy citations, there will be a lot of drivers pulled in North Carolina before the impact of the new order sinks in.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
POWER OF PRAYER

Have you ever considered what a useful person you might become if you seriously assumed the responsibility of praying for your friends (and even for your enemies), and for the success of great enterprises which may have a mighty effect upon the destiny of the human race?

Yes, your prayers, sincerely uttered, can probably do more for some friends or relative than any act you may be able to perform. You may smile over the suggestion that in your humble position in life you can pray to Almighty God about some great national or international problem and that your prayer will be influential in its solution. "The prayer of a righteous man availeth much"—how much no one knows. But we probably err in underestimating rather than overestimating the potency of such praying.

Sir Thomas Browne, the author of "Religio Medici," has this to say about prayers for others: "I cannot contentedly form a prayer for myself in particular without a catalogue of my friends; nor request a happiness wherein my sociable disposition doth not desire the fellowship of my neighbor."

"More things are wrought by prayer than this world dreams of." Believe that, and you will see miraculous things begin to take place. You can influence national and international policies more by your prayers than you can even by your vote.

McCarthy's Aspirations Hurt

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON—Although few experienced politicians or Washington observers have looked seriously on the McCarthy-for-President movement, it is expected to collapse as a result of the Wisconsin Senator's seeming approval of J. B. Matthews' charges of communism against 7,000 Protestant clergymen.

No major party would dare to nominate a man who had been associated even remotely with such an indictment, and McCarthy is too canny to make a forlorn race as an Independent. As a matter of fact, his earlier attempt to retain Matthews as a committee aide may encourage hitherto frightened GOP-ers in Wisconsin to try to deprive him of a Senate renomination.

LIKE UNSYMPATHETIC TO MCCARTHY TACTICS—Although President Eisenhower has refused to engage in an open clash with the roused McCarthy, the White House has taken sharp issue with him on the church and book-burning questions. In other ways, he has let Republican leaders know that he is out of sympathy with the Senator's tactics.

Democratic resignations from his committee, as well as key minority members' indignation over the attack on the Protestant clergy, have tamed McCarthy, at least temporarily.

Previously the opposition had not been unwilling toabet his activities because of the embarrassment it was causing the Administration. But men from the South and the Bible Belt could not approve these more extreme methods.

MATTHEWS BLUNDER MAY HALT MCCARTHY What makes them all the more politically damaging is the fact that the Senator is a member of another faith. Although religious prejudice and sensitivity have abated since the Hoover-Smith contest in 1926, they are still important factors in American politics.

McCarthy can still use his chairmanship to harass the White House and State Department, but he will not carry the weight that he did before the Matthews blunder. He will walk alone on Capitol Hill.

A Thoughtless Act Could Cause A Serious Problem

There are times when hasty action by a thoughtless individual can bring grief and pain to many other individuals.

Such may or may not be the case in the dog stolen this week from the Pitt County pound after being placed there for observation by local health authorities. The dog reportedly had bitten a child in Greenville and was placed under observation at the pound. Before the dog could be examined, the lock on the pound was broken and the dog whisked away.

Fortunately, from the standpoint of rabies, the dog problem in Pitt has not been too serious. Yet, it is apparent that too many stray dogs are roaming the county and are posing a potential menace to the health of the people in the county.

Through its dog program, the county is seeking to prevent an outbreak of rabies in the county and prevent property damage caused by roaming dogs or injury a stray dog may inflict upon a person. Certainly if the dog control program is to be successful, the health authorities of Pitt must have cooperation from the citizens of the county. After all, the program is being carried on at the expense of the people of the county for their own protection.

To say the least, the stealing of a dog under observation for rabies was a thoughtless act. In the words of the county health officer, the act could cause "serious danger to the people of the county."

"If Pitt's dog control program is to be successful, health authorities must have cooperation from citizens of the county... not acts which undermine work the health department is striving to do.

Somebody Told Me . . .

There Is An Art To Vacationing

This is a message for all of you who might be sitting around eagerly awaiting your vacation trip. In summary, the point is this: a vacation is a great thing if you don't weaken.

Don't misunderstand me; I'm not trying to kick vacations. If mine were coming up tomorrow I would be just as anxious as I was before we left. But when you analyze the situation you can come up with only one conclusion: If you go on a trip with two children you shouldn't call it a vacation. Instead, it should be called a "change." After all, that's what is important about a so-called vacation—the change of scenery.

Naturally I'm looking at this subject first from the husband's point of view. In such a situation, the husband becomes a part-time nurse. This is a fine sport at home, but when the fishing boats and beach are beckoning it becomes less attractive.

And let's not overlook that or deal before you leave. "I just don't have a thing to wear at the beach" is a familiar story, but in our case it was Wife Rachel pushing me in a store to get logs. Either way, it leaves the budget about even before you hit the road.

Any parent of two will tell you that a ton-and-a-half truck would be a very handy item for a vacation trip. In our case somebody else took half of our baggage and still we had a car full. If ever there was an art that the parent must master, it's packing a car for a week's trip with two children under three. For a nominal fee, I'll give you instructions but definitely without demonstrations.

Another observation about the budget: Add 20 per cent before you leave for extra hobby horse rides. It really doesn't matter which column you put the extra percentage in, because from nowhere will pop up expenses that you can't count.

If I had another vacation coming up tomorrow I, would throw the family in the car and take off with all the rest in the world. But if anybody asked me what I was doing I would say that I was taking a trip for a change in scenery. Too much work is involved to call such a thing a vacation.

And I thank you.

A CANADIAN TEXTILE HIGHLIGHTS TARIFF PROBLEM

(Richmond Times-Dispatch)
During the twenties cartoonists often pictured advocates of protective tariffs as overstuffed plutocrats, complete with silk hats and fat cigars, and on their faces a greedy leer for excessive profits. That symbol has become obsolete. The most ardent advocates of protective tariffs have been labor unions who see their members' jobs endangered by competing imports.

Latest instances of agitation for protective laws may be seen in Canada, where Edward C. Cluny, Canadian director of the Textile Workers of America (CIO), has asked for legislation to restrict imports of United States textiles.

Employment in Canadian textile plants has dropped from 101,234 in 1951 to 82,120 in spite of a 64 per cent increase in Canadian consumption of textiles since pre-war days.

The demand for import restrictions or higher tariffs is aimed not only at American producers, but at British as well. Industrial and union leaders claim that both countries have been unloading their surplus stocks in Canada.

This Canadian demand for protection, via higher tariffs or restrictive import quotas, highlights the perpetual problem of those who advocate minimum trade restrictions as the best way to promote two-way trade.

The undeniable fact is that the wide implementation of that program must inevitably result in temporary hardship in some segments of national economies.

If, for instance, growing imports by this country of tobacco (increasingly produced in British colonies) were to react unfavorably on our domestic production—tobacco growers (who now favor lower tariffs) would be certain to demand protective import levies.

It is the old problem of how to have our cake and eat it too, a problem that can be solved only by arriving at a mutually acceptable balance between immediate self-interest and the interest of free world trade, and the free world, as a whole.

Why Highways Are Costly; Obsolescence, Confusion

By LYNN NISBET

ROADS — "We lose more miles of highway through obsolescence than we build, and at a time of great increase in highway travel." It is estimated that there are 33,600 autonomous governmental agencies in the highway business in the United States.

"The average business man would go crazy trying to operate within the framework of a typical state highway department. The foregoing quotes are from an article by Boston Herndon in the current issue of "Nation's Business." The lead paragraphs in the story tell about a four-mile stretch of dual-lane highway northwest of Baltimore, which is a model of road construction—but utterly useless, because there are no access roads to it. Built by the State of Maryland it was designed to feed into the bypass around Baltimore. But—the by-pass has not been built because the County of Baltimore and the City of Baltimore have just agreed, after 20 years of wrangling, where to put it.

EXTREME — That is an extreme condition, just as the estimated number of autonomous highway agencies may be excessive, but the very extremeness and absurdity point up a common problem. Mr. Herndon notes that North Carolina is one of four States (the others are Delaware, Virginia and West Virginia) in which the State has assumed responsibility for all public roads. Other States have as many as 1,000 county, township and special district units of government involved.

MUNICIPALITIES — Reference there is to highways or public roads in the usually accepted meaning of the word. In every State there are streets inside towns and cities which form links in main state arteries or which are important feeder branches for these main highways. North Carolina has more than 350 incorporated municipalities which act independently with respect to some streets, in close co-operation with the State as to others.

OBsolescence — One of the most significant findings is that we lose more miles of highway through obsolescence because they cannot carry the traffic required under modern conditions. It is true that many miles of primary highway pavement has been beaten to death, and some bridges have broken down under the traffic load. The main need on the primary system is for wider, rather than stronger, bridges, for reduced curves and wider pavement, to take care of the burden of faster cars and behemoth-like trucks not dreamed of when the roads were first built a quarter century ago. Further complication comes in the present demand for city-bypasses, as contrasted with demands—enforced by court action—two decades ago for all major highways to traverse the main streets of cities and towns.

NEW GROND — One big trouble is that there is no tradition of highway law in the trial and error stage. Many traffic laws as well as some ideas for highway construction are carry-over from the horse

Worth Noting

"We have been anesthetized by hidden taxes, hypnotized by indirect taxes, and pulverized by camouflaged taxes."—Benjamin H. Namm.

The following brief editorial appeared in the Herald and Clipper, Marcus Hook, Pennsylvania: "The Government Accounting Office recently reported that the purchase of two baffle plates for $2.97 by the New York Post Office was listed and documented by nine papers, bearing 24 signatures or initials, and 20 datings, and that the documentation took four months to process.

"This is but one of the typical examples of bureaucracy, which closely resembles what old soldiers refer to as Army red tape. The only thing we can do is to point out this one example in the hope that it will disgust the right people as much as it disgusts us."

Chicago Narrows American Race With 2 Wins

Yanks Lead Cut To Only 4 Games

New York Divides Pair In St. Louis While White Sox Whip Washington; Dodgers Defeat Cardinals By 9-2

By CARL LUNDQUIST
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP)—Those go-go White Sox were "gone gone" guys today in the language of the be-boppers, which means they are out of this world and ready to steal first place from the Yankees in what could be one of the really authentic baseball miracles of all time.

In fact the White Sox, who now are only four games out of the lead, could make the American League race tighter than the National any day. Which is absolutely incredible, because just a little more than three weeks ago on June 21 the Yankees were 11 1/2 games in front of the pack.

The White Sox, rallying like champs all the way, came from behind twice Thursday to top the Senators 6-5 in 10 innings and 5-4, while the Yankees settled for a split in St. Louis, losing 8-6, then winning 7-3.

Billy Pierce, the winning pitcher, came through in a relief role after his shining stint in the All-Star game and received credit for his 11th victory in the opener when he drove in the winning run with a single. A home run by Ed Stewart with Sam Mele on base with a double provided the winning margin for Harry Dorish in the second game. Dorish, the relief specialist, made one of his rare starts and scattered seven hits. Minnie Minoso also hit a Chicago homer.

The Browns made five homers, three in succession by Clint Courtney, Dick Kryhoski, and Jim Dyck to tie a major league mark, in the first game. Bob Young and Vic Wertz homered later to enable the Browns to tie the other mark with 17 homers in their last five games—equalling the major mark for such a stretch set by the 1940 Yankees. Billy Martin paced the Yankees to victory with a triple and two singles in the second game as Yogi Berra hit a home run.

The third-place Indians, eight games behind, topped the Athletics 6-3 and Boston edged Detroit 2-1 in other American League games.

In the National, the Dodgers went 2-1-2 games ahead of second-place Milwaukee with a thumping 9-2 victory over the Cardinals while the Pirates defeated the Braves 5-2. The sizzling Giants defeated the Cubs 10-3 and the Phils twice topped Cincinnati 3-1 and 3-2.

Al Rosen's grand slam homer was the big blow in Cleveland's triumph as Mike Garcia won his 11th game by scattering 10 hits. Jim Hegan also hit a Cleveland homer and Gus Zernial and Ed Robinson homered for the losers.

A two-run homer by Jim Piersall provided the winning edge for Mel Parnell in Boston's victory at Detroit. It was his 13th win of the year, tops for the league, although he had to have relief help from rookie Bill Henry. Gene Stephens also hit a Boston homer.

inning homer. Gran Hamner's two-run homer in the eighth gave Bob Miller a relief victory in the second game.

The Pirates came out of a 10-game losing streak to top Milwaukee as Bob Friend pitched eight innings and Carlos Bernier paced the hitting with a triple and a single and also stole home.

Two Games Held In Pony League

The Ford-O-Matics scored 13 runs in the top of the fifth inning last night to trample Bright Leaf, 19-4, in the second game of the Pony League twin-bill. Rulanes took the first game, 12-5, over the Red Men, winning 7-3.

Stanky Gets Praise From Unnamed Cardinal Player

BROOKLYN (UP)—What kind of a manager is Eddie Stanky?

"Well, he ain't the most lovable cuss in the world but when it comes to this old game of baseball, he probably could've given lessons to McGraw and McCarthy."

That is the frank appraisal of one of Stanky's St. Louis Cardinal players.

"Not a blessed thing gets by him on the ball field," added the player who thinking he might be accused of "polishing the apple," preferred not to be identified.

"He's got his set opinion about certain plays—and there are some guys on our club including myself, who differ with him occasionally—but I can't ever remember him being wrong."

"He wants to win so bad that I think he can taste it. Sometimes, during the heat of a game, he'll eat you out so much for doing something wrong that you feel like blowing your top."

"But he doesn't hold any grudge and when he tells you off, that ends it, right there and then."

"He can really get under the collar of some of our pitchers when he comes out to yank 'em."

"Straight down the middle with nothing on it," he'll say, waving someone else in from the bullpen.

"Sure, he'll eat you out until you want to crown him but he'll always defend his ball players among the newspapermen. If the club isn't going so hot, he doesn't try to pass the buck. He'll take the blame. He's not looking for anyone to pin the rap on."

The Cardinal player pointed out that Stanky was not the most sociable manager he ever played under, "but he is by far the best at getting the most out of his material."

"He has a world of imagination...he doesn't believe in playing it safe...and you can bet he's always thinking a move or two ahead of the other guy."

"Look at the job he has done with our club. His best relief pitcher, Eddie Yuhas, is out since the first month of the season and only one guy—Red Schoendienst—is having what you call a real good year at the plate. But take a look at where the club is!"

"We're not far from first place and if there's any one in the world who can win it, it's that little guy Stanky."

"They tell me McGraw and McCarthy were masterminds but I'll put my money on our guy."

Here's How To Duck Bites This Summer

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—Having been bitten by a female culex pipiens, I called on the Department of Agriculture to see what to do about it.

Since the damage had been done, the department said there wasn't much to do but scratch. The culex pipiens, is a mosquito.

The D. of A., however, did have a lot of information on domestic mosquitoes. If you go outdoors, you are pretty much at the mercy of the pests, unless you apply a repellent to the skin or clothing.

The most common repellents contain indalone, dimethyl phthalate or repellent 6-12, or a mixture of these things.

"For the best all around protection," the mosquito expert of the department told me, "massage the exposed parts of the body lightly with the repellent and spray your clothes with it."

When indoors, you're pretty safe if your house is mosquito-proofed. The best way to do this, the man said, is to have well-fitted screens. Screens made of a 16-mesh cloth generally are satisfactory, he said.

In humid climates, he said, screens of copper, bronze, or other rust-resisting alloy are most durable. In dry places those of galvanized or painted wire do the trick.

Full-length window screens are better than half-screens, or those inserted under the sash. Your screen door should open outward, as most of them do. It may also be necessary to screen the vents to the fire place and other openings. If there is an opening about the mosquito is smart enough to find it—and you.

"In unscrupled or poorly screened houses or for sleeping out of doors," the expert said, "a bed net helps. Keep it free from holes, of course, and tuck the edges under the mattress. For added protection, you can spray the bed with a mosquito repellent or a 3-per cent DDT solution."

Few mosquitoes will go into your house if you spray the porch and both sides of the screen doors with DDT. Use an oil solution or an emulsion containing 1 per cent DDT.

"But," he added, "be sure and follow the instructions. You can get preparations at most grocery, hardware, or drug stores."

Roller Coaster Ride For Coal

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (U.P.)—A "roller-coaster" almost three miles long but dedicated to a more serious purpose than thrills is functioning every day in the Kanawha River Valley near here.

It is the 14,000-foot-long conveyor belt system leading from a mine in the side of a mountain to barges in the Kanawha River near Montgomery, W. Va.

The mine is one of the sources of coal for a large steam-generating plant being built on the river at Glasgow, W. Va. Geologist estimate that at the present rate of production the mine will still be going full blast after the next 100 years.

Distance-saver
The belts are in nine sections, each hooked up with a power system capable of delivering 500 HP but actually using only 263 net HP electrical input. Three of the belts move downhill and actually generate power.

The distance traveled by the belts down, around, up and over, is about one-fifth of the distance a truck would have to travel over the mountain roads to go the same distance. Mine operators say it would take at least a dozen 15-ton trucks working 20 hours a day to match the belt's carrying capacity.

If the mine should suddenly give out and leave the owners with an empty hole and a long belt on their hands, they might make a comfortable living with paid underground tours and a thrill ride thrown in for good measure.

Old Pay Phone Is Well Meant Offer On Display; Was Expensive Then

DALLAS, TEX. (AP)—What would you say if you found a telephone in a leading hotel that had bright nickel-plated slots for nickels, dimes, quarters, half dollars and silver dollars? Here's what S. Bert Hardin, 74, said: "That's a 1912 model magneto-powered coin telephone—the first coin phone ever built."

Hardin went to work for the telephone company here March 20, 1900, when Dallas had 2,459 telephones. Today there are 270,154 within the city limits.

Hardin and other old timers met recently in the 30th annual convention of the Telephone Pioneers of America's Lone Star chapter. The first coin phone was on exhibit. "Cost about five times as much to call in these days," Hardin said.

neth Rees, 34, was charged with blackmailing his friend Berwyn Davies for $500 after he discovered Davies committed adultery with his wife.

"Now, Rees," judge Sir Wingham Stable said, "that is not the way to handle a problem of this kind."

Stable dismissed the charge when Rees agreed to try to make up with his wife.

Tallest Building In Europe Rising

MILAN (AP)—Workers, idle for a month, have rushed back to the job of completing Milan's skyscraper—whose 114 meters and 29 stories will, it is believed, make it the tallest building in Europe and second highest steel-reinforced concrete building in the world.

The delay was due to tradition rather than law. The tallest spire of Milan's historic Duomo—the city cathedral—reaches 108.5 meters. Custom has had it that no building in the city may surpass the cathedral.

It took a special resolution of city council to approve continuing Milan's newest skyscraper business building beyond that height.

Population Rise For Yugoslavia

BELGRADE (AP)—A new census in Yugoslavia shows a population of 16,927,000 persons, seventh largest on the European continent.

This compares to 12,465,000 in 1921, to 14,458,000 in 1931 and to 15,770,000 in 1948 and represents a population growth of approximately 36 per cent since the end of the world war I.

On the basis of official figures from Yugoslav government sources, approximately one person out of every 10 lost his life during the last war as a result of bombings, fighting and lack of hospitalization.

Favors Parole For Juveniles

CLEVELAND, O. (U.P.)—To avoid or minimize lasting psychological effects on children because of early imprisonment—even if temporary—Norman Sherwood, a penologist, believes it would be better to parole youthful delinquents into the custody of their parents.

Most areas, Sherwood told the 46th annual conference of the National Probation and Parole Association have no home-like juvenile detention home and:

"You'll find youngsters of seven to 18 being held in jail, awaiting juvenile court. Their age depends on the latitude permitted by state law. Fully a third are girls. Crimes range from truancy to murder. Occasionally, the offenders are joined by neglected children who are picked up through no fault of their own and detained in the same prison-like conditions."

Sherwood estimated 250,000 to 300,000 juveniles are subjected to such treatment each year and are deeply affected by their experience.

"It would be cheaper in the long run for states to invest in the right kind of detention homes than to let these children grow up potential criminals," he said.

In the absence of special, non-jail detention homes, Sherwood recommended that young offenders be paroled in the custody of their parents with careful supervision by a skilled probation officer.

Inefficient, But Burglar 'Tried'

YUBA CITY, Calif. (AP)—Burglars stole a small safe, knocked a hole in the bottom but failed to reach its contents.

They abandoned the safe on a lonely ranch road.

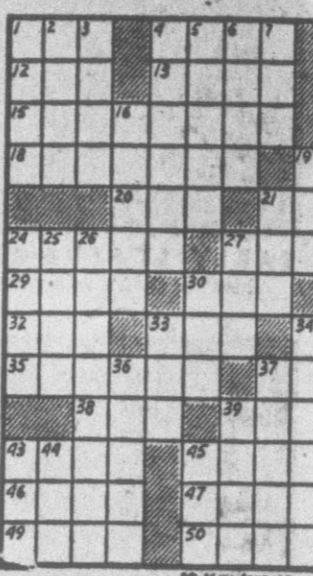

When it was found, Sheriff G.W. Carpenter flashed out more than $5,000 in currency through the small hole.

The currency and the safe were returned to the owner.

Miss Universe Contest In Its Final Judging Tonight

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UP)—Miss United States and 16 foreign beauties meet tonight in a match of charm and poise for the title of Miss Universe.

All but one American contestant, Miss Myrna Hansen, an 18-year-old Chicago model, have been eliminated in the beauty pageant. The field of 25 international girls was narrowed to 16 last night.

However, the judges will not reveal the finalists' names until just before tonight's big test.

Last night the international entries appeared for the first time in formal gowns and swim suits to pirouette before a cheering crowd of 3,000.

Later they danced with 25 officers, representing all branches of the U.S. armed forces, at a friendship ball.

Miss Louisiana, Jeanne Thompson, was chosen Miss Friendship and presided over the ball. The tall brunette is the only contestant who appeared in the pageant last year.

Her fellow contestants chose her in a secret ballot.

Miss Japan, Kinuko Ito, appeared to be the audience favorite during the evening performance. She drew whistles and cheers each time she appeared. Miss Ito wore a hand-painted gown fashioned by Japanese artist Shimamura.

Miss Hansen, who graduated from Chicago's Schurz High School only last month, is a rifle-shooting and horse riding enthusiast. The son, was chosen Miss Friendship

New England Has Large Number Of Active Doctors

MONTEPELIER, Vt. (AP)—Maybe New Englanders aren't just born rugged.

According to a recent survey by Schenley Laboratories, Inc., Vermont has 434 practicing physicians to care for the state's medical needs. That's one physician for every 870 persons. This ratio places the Green Mountain state in the nation's top 10 states in number of active M.D.s per resident.

New York is number one with one physician for every 636 persons.

Other high-rating states include Massachusetts, Connecticut, Colorado, California, Illinois, New Jersey, New Hampshire and Pennsylvania.

Rhode Island ranks 12th and places five of the six New England states in the top 12.

Spurt In Payment Of Bills Noted By Utilities Agency

Highly gratifying results were reported today in the number of gas, water, and light bills paid by Greenville area consumers during the first 15 days of July as compared with previous months.

Larry Brown, business manager of the Greenville Utilities Commission, said about 80 per cent of all June bills already have been paid.

He attributed the rapid pickup to a recent announcement by the company of a change in billing procedure, effective July 1, whereby others will be payable between the 16th and the last day.

"However," Brown continued, "operation of the new system in practice apparently was misunderstood by some customers."

These, he said, seemed to have interpreted the announcement to mean that all June bills, mailed out June 30 and payable July 1, would become delinquent on the 16th, when in reality they may be paid at any time before the end of the month, as in the past.

While the procedure as it affects the company's work was inaugurated as of July 1, its application won't be noticeable to the consumer before August 1.

That's the date on which July bills for users in Greenville or the Greenville service area become due and are payable at any time during the first 15 days, becoming delinquent thereafter. Meter readings for these customers began last Friday and will continue through July 31 (end of the month).

For rural customers, July bills will not become due until the 16th of August, continuing through August 31 (end of the month) before becoming delinquent. Meters for these subscribers will be read between August 1 and 10.

The change in meter reading dates Brown said, also will have one noticeable effect during the first month of changeover. It will mean bills for some rural customers will be somewhat higher since they will include consumption not only for July but also for several days of August up until the date the meter is read.

This will work to the advantage of the customer, he pointed out, since the rate decreases with greater consumption recorded.

The business manager went on to add, that this situation will exist only in the changeover. Once the new system is in operation, meters of all customers will be read at the regular stated intervals.

Literary Fakes Collected, Shown

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (U.P.)—If your grandpa was a sucker for buying such literary fakes as the writings of the illiterate Chief Sitting Bull, don't be ashamed.

He was only one of countless thousands of citizens who have fallen for the fakes and forgeries of other money-minded folks.

This was evidenced in the exhibition at the Yale University Library of a collection of some of the world's most amazing literary frauds.

Sitting Bull's book came out back in the 1890's. It was actually written by an Army lieutenant named R.D. Clarke, who wanted the world to believe that the old chief was really an intellectual.

Then there was the Frenchman who spent thousands of dollars gathering various literary gems—making the mistake of buying every one of them from an expert forger.

A man who really "took" his fellow citizens was a Frenchman who showed up in England back in the early 1700's and published a book entitled "A Description of Fortinos." It made for grand reading and sold like mad. But the Frenchman had never been to that Far East island and knew nothing about it. Just had a good imagination.

Deepest Oil Well Extends Down Over 3 Miles

BAKERSFIELD Calif. (AP)—The deepest oil well in California is down 18,781 feet, or more than 3½ miles. An Ohio Oil Company spokesman said the depth broke the previous State record set by Superior's Pacific Creek well in Sublette County, Wyoming, at the world mark in 1960 at 20,821 feet. It later was abandoned as a dry hole.

He did not say how much deeper the record breaker would be sunk. Only two wells have gone deeper than the Ohio Company well, he said.

Superior's Pacific Creek well in Sublette County, Wyoming, set the world mark in 1960 at 20,821 feet. It later was abandoned as a dry hole.

The second deepest well, he said, was a 20,450 foot "duster" drilled several years ago in Mississippi.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (UP)—Stocks turned over at a rate of 770,000 shares for a full session in the first hour of trading today, the lightest rate for nearly four years.

First hour volume was 140,000 shares, 20,000 shares below the first hour yesterday. Second hour volume appeared just as light with the tape rolling from the tickers in leisurely fashion.

Price changes leaned to the upside. Industrials had a few losers and their average dipped a few cents. Rails with gains ranging to nearly a point in New Haven were up 16 cents on average and utilities rose three cents.

Rails were featured by Denver & Rio Grand issues which did not add to the average rise. The common stock set a new high at 85 1/2 up 1/2 and the preferred rose a point to 92.

Bethlehem Steel stood out in its department with a gain of a full point to 51 1/2. Others of the group rose fractions. Motors held steady. Climax Molybdenum gained 1 1/2 in the metals.

Paper stocks were strong and fairly active. Hinde and Dauch set a new top at 31 1/2 up 2 1/2 and St. Regis with a fractional gain led the market in turnover.

Denies Further Draft Deferment For Solon's Son

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UP)—The Indiana draft director announced today that Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, national director, has denied further deferment from induction for the son of Rep. John V. Beamer, R-Ind.

The entire Wash. Post County draft board resigned in a body Tuesday, saying "political influence" had been used to keep John V. Beamer Jr., 24, the congressman's son, out of service on an occupational deferment.

He now has been made available for early induction, according to Lt. Col. Frank R. Kossa, state draft director.

TV Station To Start With Film Shows

Work on Eastern Carolina's first television station, WNCN in Greenville is moving along on schedule according to reports received from company officials. The station is expected to go on the air sometime around the last of September or the first of October. (Reflector Photo by Roy Hardee)

If construction continues on schedule, Greenville's television station will be in operation in the Fall but network programs will be on a delayed schedule by film.

A Hartwell Campbell, manager of WNCN, said that the American Telephone and Telegraph Company will not be able to complete construction of the interconnection facilities by the time the station is ready to go on the air.

According to present promises by the A. T. and T., the live interconnection with the major networks will be made on or before January 1, 1954. First indications were that the telephone company would not be able to complete this connection before April of next year.

"We are faced with the unhappy choice," stated Campbell, "of waiting until January 1 for the interconnection or beginning operations in the Fall with a film network service. We believe that the overwhelming majority of people in Eastern North Carolina, understanding our position, will prefer that we go on the air as soon as possible with good quality film network features rather than delay our opening until the interconnection is completed."

In a progress report issued by the Board of Directors of the Carolina Broadcasting System Inc., it stated that construction is on schedule and the building, located on Evans Street Extension, is almost ready for the actual installation of materials to begin with new electronic equipment arriving daily.

According to the board, construction of the plant should be completed approximately 60 days after the last of the materials have been received. The largest type self-contained television transmitter in America is being shipped this week from the R.C.A. factory in Camden, New Jersey. Barring unforeseen delays, it is expected that the last shipments of materials will be made by August 1.

"The experience of some television stations in being unable to meet their estimated starting dates makes us reluctant to guarantee the exact time that WNCN will begin operation," said Campbell. "However, if construction continues on schedule equipment tests will begin the latter part of September or the first of October. Program service is scheduled for 15 days after equipment tests are begun."

Television Station WNCN is the first regular V.H.F. television station authorized in North Carolina since 1949, and it will be third such operating station in the state. The station will be received on Channel 9 by every television set within the signal range, without extra tuners or attachments.

Primary service will include picture and sound to Rocky Mount, Wilson, New Bern, Kinston, Washington, Tarboro, and many other Eastern North Carolina towns.

Color Film Shown By Harold Weaver At Winterville Rotary Club Supper

WINTERVILLE—Harold D. Weaver presented some movies in color on the program at the Winterville Ruritan Club's supper meeting at the Community Center last Tuesday night.

The pictures contained scenes at Waynesboro, Winterville and some places in Florida. Some of the pictures showed scenes of the training quarters of the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey Circus at Sarasota, Florida.

Ruritan Weaver introduced his father, of Waynesboro, Va., as "Dad" Weaver.

Several members of the club had birthdays and were recognized by President William May.

Ruritan Lt.-Gov. Jimmie Edwards for this district spoke briefly and felicitated the Winterville Ruritan Club for outstanding community activities. He is a member of the Cincinnati club.

Announcement was made that the new fire truck for the Winterville area was expected to arrive during the weekend.

Members of the Winterville Literary Club served supper.

Women Lawmakers Hail 'Equal Rights'

WASHINGTON (UP)—The dis-taff side of Congress was jubilant today over Senate approval of the "equal rights for women" amendment. But there is no chance the House will duplicate Senate action before quitting for the summer.

Rep. Gracie Plost (D-Iowa.) hailed the proposed constitutional change, which would give women equal rights with men, as "air-tight this time."

She said an amendment, offered on the floor, would protect women against loss of any special rights they now enjoy under state laws, such as the right to alimony for minor children.

The constitutional change would wipe out discriminations against women which now exist in the laws of many states, including inequality on wages, property ownership and inheritance rights.

Rep. Marguerite Stitt Church (R-Ill.) said she is "happy" with the proposed amendment.

Rep. Ruth Thompson (R-Mich.) called the bill "good stuff." She promised to start to work at once on members of the House Judiciary Committee to get a companion bill to the floor.

But Rep. William M. McCulloch (R-O.), chairman of the subcommittee studying the bill, said he has no plans for hearings.

"This is the 16th of July," he said. Congress is working for an early August adjournment.

Sen. Margaret Chase Smith (R-Me.), the only woman senator, was a sponsor. But the Women's Bureau steadfastly opposed the legislation, chiefly on grounds it might do damage to women's privileges.

A number of states have amended their own laws to give women equal status with men. But a number still retain discriminatory features in their laws or constitutions.

East Germans In Continued Revolt

WASHINGTON (UP)—The House Appropriations Committee appeared to be sharply split today on whether to approve a subcommittee recommendation for a $1,100,000 slash in President Eisenhower's foreign aid program.

Some members of the committee—both Republicans and Democrats—expressed the view privately that the cut voted by the subcommittee might be too deep.

They said they expected an effort to be made to restore at least part of the money when the full committee meets in secret session tomorrow.

Mr. Eisenhower asked Congress to vote $5,124,000,000 in new money for the foreign aid program this year. He proposed that this amount be added to some $10,000,000,000 previously appropriated and still unspent when the fiscal year began July 1.

But the subcommittee, after evening the big carryover and the general demands for economy, voted to cut the new money request by about $700,000,000, leaving $4,400,000,000 in new money.

In addition, the subcommittee voted to rescind $400,000,000 of the $10,000,000,000 carryover, making a

Deputies Arrest Man On Peeping Tom Charges

Deputy Sheriffs Jasper Lee Mills and Elmer Haddock last night arrested Stanley Braxton, who lives near Greenville, and charged the 38-year-old man with peeping into a window of Lloyd S. Dixon's home where they used bloodhounds which traced a trail from Dixon's back yard a short distance to Braxton's home.

Mills quoted Braxton as saying he went to Dixon's house last night in search of a stray dog.

Both Dixon and Braxton live near highway 284 approximately 2 1/2 miles east of Greenville.

Braxton was released under bond for appearance in Pitt recorder's court.

Women Lawmakers Hail 'Equal Rights'

WASHINGTON (UP)—The dis-taff side of Congress was jubilant today over Senate approval of the "equal rights for women" amendment. But there is no chance the House will duplicate Senate action before quitting for the summer.

Rep. Gracie Plost (D-Iowa.) hailed the proposed constitutional change, which would give women equal rights with men, as "air-tight this time."

She said an amendment, offered on the floor, would protect women against loss of any special rights they now enjoy under state laws, such as the right to alimony for minor children.

The constitutional change would wipe out discriminations against women which now exist in the laws of many states, including inequality on wages, property ownership and inheritance rights.

Rep. Marguerite Stitt Church (R-Ill.) said she is "happy" with the proposed amendment.

Rep. Ruth Thompson (R-Mich.) called the bill "good stuff." She promised to start to work at once on members of the House Judiciary Committee to get a companion bill to the floor.

But Rep. William M. McCulloch (R-O.), chairman of the subcommittee studying the bill, said he has no plans for hearings.

"This is the 16th of July," he said. Congress is working for an early August adjournment.

Sen. Margaret Chase Smith (R-Me.), the only woman senator, was a sponsor. But the Women's Bureau steadfastly opposed the legislation, chiefly on grounds it might do damage to women's privileges.
