Defense Chiefs Gather For High Level Discussion

QUANTICO, Va. (UP)—More than 100 defense leaders met at the Marine Corps post here today for high level military conferences and some plain and fancy relaxation.

The high point of Defense Secretary Charles Wilson's three-day "party" for top civilian and military brass will come Saturday when President Eisenhower will talk informally at lunch and then probably get in a round of on the reservation's 18-hole golf course.

A Defense Department spokesman disclosed that Vice President Richard M. Nixon and eight other government officials have accepted invitations to look in on the meetings. Joining service secretaries, retiring and incoming joint chiefs of staff and other Defense Department officials will be:

Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey, Budget Director Joseph M. Dodge, Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr., Mutual Security Director Harold E. Stassen, Rear Adm. Lewis Straus, Atomic Energy Commission chairman, Central Intelligence Agency Director Allen W. Dulles, Mobilization Director Arthur S. Flemming and Undersecretary of State Walter Bedell Smith.

In pioneering the business-and-pleasure military sessions outside the Washington limelight, Wilson is using a technique he found successful when president of General Motors Corp. He believes that informal discussions and a bit of judicious elbow bending will go farther toward attaining service cooperation than all the directives he can issue in the Pentagon.

Wilson will kick off the conference tonight with a dinner speech. Friday and Saturday mornings will be devoted to Defense Department, Army, Navy and Air Force briefings behind closed doors on current strategy, weapons and other items. Gen. Omar N. Bradley, outgoing chairman of the joint chiefs, will speak at lunch tomorrow and his successor, Adm. Arthur W. Radford, will speak Sunday.

Two Injured In Auto Collision

Two persons were injured early yesterday morning when two cars wrecked at the intersection of North Pitt Street and Gum Road.

Injured were Francis Andrews, age 14, no address given, and Eruma Hopkins, no age or address listed on the Police Department's report. Drivers involved in the accident were C. J. Harris of Route 1, Tarboro, and L. C. Pollard, of 101 Pollard Street.

Damage to both cars was reported at around $550. The exact extent of the injuries were not known. Francis Andrews was believed to be suffering from a head injury while the Hopkins girl received a back injury.

Harris was charged with driving left of the center line and failure to yield the right of way, after investigation of the accident. The accident occurred shortly after 6:30 yesterday morning.

Bing Raising $1 Million To Pay Inheritance Tax

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (UP)—Bing Crosby put his 65 race horses up for sale today to help pay a million dollar inheritance tax on his late wife's share of the Crosby fortune.

The crooner's brother, Larry Crosby, announced the move Wednesday, saying the star also has put his Holmby Hills mansion in West Los Angeles and his Pebble Beach, Calif., home on the block.

The singer already has sold some stocks "and may have to sell some cattle" from his Elko, Nev., ranch to meet the government tariff, his brother said.

"The tax is close to a million," Larry explained. "So Bing has to liquidate some properties. Dixie had a little personal insurance, that's all."

Bing and his four sons have a legal title to Dixie's share of the family wealth, but by law they do not have possession of it until the large inheritance tax is paid.

Under California community property laws, half of their wealth was hers.

Reedy Branch Church Scene Of Lucas-Braxton Wedding

Miss Mary Lou Braxton, of Winterville, and Lieutenant Robert J. Lucas, of Stalling Air Base in Kinston, exchanged wedding vows on Wednesday evening, July 22, at 8 o'clock in the Reedy Branch Free Will Baptist Church near Winterville, with the Rev. Henry Melvin officiating at the double ring ceremony, leaving after the ritual for a wedding trip to Greenville, Miss. where the groom will go into jet training.

The chance of the church was banked with palms interspersed with floor baskets of white gladioli and pompons and candelabra of burning white tapers. The family pews were marked with corsages of white pompons.

Preceding the ceremony Mrs. Howard C. Bodkin, organist of Greenville, and Miss Ruth Little, soloist of Winterville, rendered a program of nuptial music.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Paul Braxton, of Winterville, wore an original ballerina length wedding gown of frothy white imported Swiss organdy over bridal taffeta. Embroidery trimmed the scalloped picturesque neckline and short sleeves, below an illusion voke, and also the scalloped hemline. Her two-tier veil of imported French illusion was attached to a bonnet bandeau of embroidered organdy trimmed with a pleated tulle ruffle and seed pearls. She carried a white Bible topped with a purple throated white orchid, showered with faced satin ribbon.

The bride's only attendant was Miss Patsy Stroud, her college roommate of Jonesville. She wore a dress of white applique organdy over yellow taffeta, fashioned ballerina length. Her headdress was a matching bandeau with which she used matching mitts, and her colonial bouquet was tied with matching satin ribbon.

The bridegroom was attended by Lieutenant Willie Ladd of Stalling Air Base as best man, and the ushers were Lieutenant Huey Maples and Lieutenant Burt Littlejohn, also of Stalling Air Base.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Braxton chose an ice blue nylon dress with matching accessories and a corsage of red roses. The groom's mother was dressed in blue lace with matching accessories with which she wore a corsage of red roses.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Braxton. She is a graduate of East Carolina College in Greenville, where she was selected a member of the Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges. The past year she was a member of the Kinston High School faculty.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis P. Lucas of Hialeah, Fla., and is a first lieutenant in the U.S. Air Force. He was graduated from Florida State University where he was a member of Sigma Nu Fraternity, Alpha Kappa Psi and Gold Key Society. Lt. Lucas completed his pilot training at Stalling Air Base, N. C., and Mrs. Lucas greeted the guests in the vestibule of the church after the ceremony.

For traveling the bride wore a navy dress of acetate and nylon blend, with which she used navy and white accessories, and the ornate corsage lifted from her prayer book.

Following the Lucas-Braxton wedding rehearsal on Tuesday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Billie Adams and Mrs. Wilbur L. Worthington entertained the members of the wedding party and other guests at a cake cutting at the Adams home on Fourth Street in Ayden.

The home was decorated with traditional white and green color scheme. The refreshment table was covered with a lace cloth and decorated with the wedding cake, and a floral arrangement of white lilies and fern, flanked with burning tapers. After the bride couple had cut the first slice, Mrs. Louis P. Lucas, mother of the groom, poured punch and Mrs. Gordon Chesson, sister of the bride, of Plymouth served the wedding cake. Salted nuts and mints were also served.

Dud Rocket Hit Baseball Diamond

MUNSAN, Korea (UP)—A high explosive rocket carried by an unidentified plane fell today on the Allied truce camp's baseball diamond about 600 yards from Lt. Gen. William K. Harrison's tent but failed to explode.

The "dud" caused no damage or injury. "They're pretty sure the darned thing came from one of our planes," a United Nations officer said. A plane was seen flying south after the rocket fell.

United Nations planes on close support missions normally carry several lethal rockets.

Termites can live on wood because bacteria living in their intestines digest it.

August Wedding Planned

August 29th is the date selected by Virginia Lee Miller and George William Brady for their wedding. Miss Miller is the daughter of Mr. L. F. Miller of Amarillo, Texas. After graduating from Compton Junior College the bride is to take a secretary position at United Supply Company in Los Angeles, California, where she is now employed. Mr. Brady is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Brady of Greenville, N. C. He is a graduate of Greenville High School and attended East Carolina College before going in the Navy. He is now stationed in San Diego, California.

4-H Delegates Electing Council Officers Today

RALEIGH (UP)—Delegates to the 28th annual 4-H Club week here crowned their king and queen of health last night and elected new council officers for the coming year today.

There are 14 candidates for the four offices at state. They will be chosen in an election this afternoon. The four candidates for the 4-H council presidency are all girls.

One of the highlights of the week-long convention came last night as State Health Officer Dr. J. W. R. Norton announced Billy Bryan, 18, of Bladenboro, was elected 1953's Health king and Norma Jean Short, 17, of Catawba County, was named queen. However, Norma Jean was unable to attend because of a county-wide quarantine in poli-stricken Catawba County.

Both youngsters had to overcome painful physical handicaps. Billy suffered for years from osteomyelitis, a bone disease, and Norma Jean fought her way back to health after a series of painful treatments for a glandular disorder.

John L. Lewis Told 'Disaster' Looming

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UP)—A soft coal industry leader bluntly warned John L. Lewis today that he will drive the Southern coal operators to "disaster" and "force widespread unemployment among miners if higher wages are demanded in the fall.

Joseph E. Moody, president of the Southern Coal Operators Association, opened the first round in coming negotiations in the industry by asserting it would be "sheer economic insanity" to increase wages of the 400,000 United Mine Workers.

"The coal industry is a sick industry," Moody said in an address prepared for delivery before the Exchange Club of Charleston. He added:

"A wage increase will wreck our Southern industry, put most of our workers on relief and put an end to prosperity in the sections dependent on coal."

Moody, who is chief negotiator for Southern operators in bargaining with Lewis, indicated he may demand a wage cut when present contracts are opened up. Contracts covering soft coal miners can be ended on 60 days notice after Aug. 1.

Moody noted that "Mr. Lewis has kept his intentions to himself" on whether he will seek another pay increase this fall. However, he added, "certainly he has not been backward in the past... and there is nothing in his career to suggest any change in attitude."

If Moody seeks lower wages, it was certain to precipitate a major labor-management coal battle. Lewis was sure not to agree to any pay reduction but instead will probably demand increases in line with pay hikes already granted to steel and auto industry workers.

Moody pointed out that Southern coal operators—producers of about one-fourth of the nation's annual supply of coal—would be most affected by a new round of wage increases. He noted that the wage pattern-setters on the industry side have been the Northern operators and owners of the so-called "captive" mines of the steel industry—and the steel industry is prosperous."

No Ingratitude; Reward-Seeker Was Suspicious

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—A San Franciscan said it wasn't ingratitude that made him turn down a request for a reward when a stranger came to his door and returned a missing war bond.

The owner told Judge Herman Van Der Zee that the stranger handed him the bond, which was stolen in a robbery, and said "I sort of hoped there'd be a little reward."

"I figured he must have had something to do with the robbery," the complainant said. "He was wearing my suede jacket, my shirt and carrying my plastic raincoat."

Scout Jamboree Is Near Close

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (UP)—Some 50,000 tired, sunburned and footsore Boy Scouts, "the United Nations in short pants," reached the end of their third National Jamboree today.

Tomorrow the Scouts, from the 48 states and 15 foreign countries, begin the weary task of breaking camp.

Today's final activities included shows starring Bob Crosby and the Sons of the Pioneers. The jamboree's climax will come in the evening with the Scouts themselves staging a pageant called "Scouting's Trail to the Future."

Approximately 21,000 Scouts were scheduled to break camp here tomorrow and head for home. They will be followed by 7,087 Saturday, 6,622 Sunday and the remainder Monday.

Among prominent personalities who visited the Scout encampment yesterday were Arizona Gov. Howard Pyle, Mitzel Gaynor, Irene Dunne, Jimmy Stewart, Bill Holden and Andy Devine.

Meanwhile, seven Southern California Scouts were inoculated with gamma globulin after it was learned their companion on a pre-jamboree excursion had been stricken with polio.

Wheel Dropped Off; Drove On

SUTTON COLDFIELD, England (UP)—Zepharin Camelina said he thought his car only had a flat tire when police stopped him for driving with only three wheels.

He said the fourth wheel apparently dropped off when he ran into a telegraph post about four miles back down the road. He was fined 25 pounds ($70) for dangerous driving.

Survey Turned Up Signs Of Neglect

It is apparent from a survey made in Greenville this week that the city's parking meter situation has been sadly neglected recently.

A survey made by The Reflector Tuesday afternoon showed of the approximately 200 meters located in the business section of the city 50 were out of order. At the same time there were 55 vehicles parked by meters which indicated a violation of the parking time limit, and not one of the 55 vehicles had tags from police who supposedly patrol the area to see that parking regulations are enforced.

There are two things which the survey results point to emphatically:

1. The fact that approximately 25 per cent of the meters are not in working order indicates neglect either on the part of those whose responsibility it is to keep the meters in repair, or on the part of those whose responsibility it is to see that spare parts are on hand for necessary repair work.
2. The fact that not one of the 55 vehicles apparently in violation of parking regulations had been tagged by police indicates the metered area in the business district is not being properly patrolled for parking violations. Either that, or the personnel on the patrol are not carrying out their obligations to tag violators.

If the parking meters of Greenville are to be used as a means to move traffic—and that is the reason given for their being installed in the first place and kept in operation for several years—they must be checked by officers to see that parking regulations are enforced.

If the meters are not to be used as a means for regulating parking—i. e. traffic—then they must be there solely for revenue purposes which the state Supreme Court has declared an illegal measure.

Admittedly city officials have had the parking meter situation in Greenville under study for several weeks. That, however, in our opinion is little reason for the meters themselves or the lack of enforcement of parking regulations to be in the condition in which they were found in Tuesday afternoon's survey.

If Greenville's parking meters are to be worth anything to the city in helping to move or otherwise regulate traffic, they must be adequately patrolled. Likewise they must be in good working order.

Immediate steps should be taken to rectify the situation indicated by the survey.

Make It A Sale, Not A Giveaway

The Senate has approved the sale to private industry of 28 synthetic rubber plants built by the federal government to meet shortages during World War II.

If the government has no further use for the plants, or if it is better for them to be operated by private industry, the sale should be a good thing.

Nevertheless there is one thing which should be remembered by officials who handle the sales if they materialize. Those plants built by Uncle Sam cost American taxpayers millions of dollars.

Officials should make sure the "sale" of the 28 synthetic rubber plants by the government is a real sale and not a "give-away" by Uncle Sam to some favored big corporations.

Strength for the Day

LOVE AND THE WILL

Never try to manufacture emotions. We read in the Bible that we must love God and our fellow men, and many people conclude that this means we must have a fervent emotion of attachment and liking for God and our fellows. Ultimately, if we are sincere, it will mean that we have just that; but it need not necessarily mean that in the beginning. The Bible commands us to love, and what even the Bible cannot do is to command us to have a certain kind of emotion—at least not with any expectation of success.

Love begins in the will, not in the emotions. Begin to act as if you love God, and you will soon have the emotion of love toward God. Behave toward your fellows as you would behave toward them if your heart were really overflowing with an affectionate emotion toward them. The emotion may be delayed, but emotion follows inevitably upon action. Hate your fellow men in your thoughts, and you will soon begin perpetrating hateful acts against them. Make yourself behave decently, kindly, generously, toward them, and while at first you may not have any liking for them whatsoever—they may be utterly reprehensible toward you—the time will come when you will have a cordial emotion of liking toward these people.

But even if you do not, would that make any difference? Love begins not in feeling but in acting.

Presidential Advisor Gets Blame

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON—President Eisenhower in the opinion of Capitol Hill experts will never enjoy good relations with Congress or the Republican opposition until he gets rid of Sherman Adams as his top White House aide. Almost every Presidential blunder can be traced to the ineptitude or ignorance of Washington ways on the part of the Yankee iceberger.

Eisenhower himself is largely at fault for his difficulties, but his utter reliance on the former New Hampshire Governor aggravates them. Time and again, Ike has shown indifference or misunderstanding of the issues and personalities on Capitol Hill. That is understandable because of his occupation with military matters until only a year ago.

Therefore, he needs around him assistants and liaison men who understand corridor and cloakroom politics. With only one term as a minor House member, and in view of his cold personality, Adams is not that man according to almost every Republican member of House and Senate.

A small House group, although naturally reluctant to invade the executive field, have met several times to discuss whether they should present formal complaints against Adams to Ike himself.

LACK POLITICAL EXPERIENCE—The Eisenhower-Adams lack of political savvy explains why there have been so many clashes on foreign and domestic questions between Capitol Hill and the White House.

Not until the last minute do either ever discover that a majority of Republicans are hostile to the Administration attitude. There is no effective liaison between the executive and legislative branches of the Government. They live in two different political worlds.

The Martin-Halleck leadership in the House have tried to break through this no-co-operative barrier in an effort to retrieve White House bungling. Their disciplines of such a veteran and likable stalwart as Representative Daniel A. Reed on the excess profits tax is the most spectacular example, although there have been many others.

But they are growing weary of disrupting the Party organization in order to pull White House chestnuts out of a needless factional fire. Their loyalty has been strained too sorely and frequently.

MACHIEVELLIAN POLITICS—Adams' failures lie behind the movement to persuade him to enter the New Hampshire Senatorial primary against Senator Styles Bridges next year. It is a Machiavellian piece of politics, for the underlying purpose is to eliminate Ike's assistant from the national scene.

No seasoned politicians believe that Adams could defeat the able and popular Bridges, who heads the powerful Appropriations Committee. The Senator has been doing too many favors for his constituents since he was Governor almost 20 years ago. Almost every Republican member would campaign for him against Ike's Man Friday, or any other opponent. Such a contest would mean the end of Adams.

Eisenhower, incidentally, exhibited his ignorance of political niceties on his recent visit to Dartmouth College. Instead of asking the influential Bridges to accompany him, as a Roosevelt or a Truman would have done, he invited Adams.

AN EMBARRASSMENT TO IKE—Another Eisenhower benefactor and crony, Governor Thomas E. Dewey, is not improving the President's relations with Republicans on Capitol Hill. His persistent attempt to gain control of the vast Niagara River power project, in the face of an overwhelmingly adverse House vote, has placed Ike and Adams on an embarrassing spot.

Several weeks ago, despite White House intervention, the House rejected the Dewey plan that the proposed $400,000,000 development be turned over to his New York State Power Authority. By a 262-120 vote, the lower chamber awarded the undertaking to five private utility companies, which have pooled their financial and engineering resources. It has been regarded as a basic test of the Administration's stand on public versus private power.

Despite the House action, Dewey formally requested the Senate Public Works Committee to hand him this politico-economic plum. He or his spokesman will present their case before the committee today, but with only dubious prospects.

However, Dewey's strategy will probably prevent enactment of the Niagara Bill at this session, although the need for additional hydro is extreme. It will also enable him to continue his battle against House Republicans, including a majority of his own New York delegation. Only one Empire State Republican supported the Governor on Niagara.

With Senator Taft ill, and with the Martin-Halleck combine at wit's end to reconquer White House blunders, Ike really needs somebody to protect himself against his friends.

If I Retire

Somebody Told Me . . .

'Skidderrator' Thrill Is Fading

Do you know what a skidderrator is? Certainly not, and neither does anybody else except Wife Rachel, our daughter Nancy, and me. Nancy will be three in September, and her pronunciation is rapidly developing. Skidderrator is the way she used to pronounce refrigerator.

If ever I have regretted anything, it's teaching Nancy how to pronounce that word. Previously, every time she used it we had a chuckle. Now she pronounces it like any grown-up and the thrill is gone for us.

This job of teaching Nancy correct pronunciation is killing me. If I keep on doing it, pretty soon we won't enjoy her conversations nearly as much as we have up to now. Yet, in order to fulfill my duty as a parent I feel compelled to do it.

It's not only mispronunciations that we enjoy so much. Also, general mix-ups of words. For example, she used to get kitty cat and kleenex (she pronounced it key-kex later) mixed up, and swimming pool and shampoo were the same. When she got those two straight shampoo became shanny pool.

Instead of saying "looks like" she says "look likes." This, we haven't been able to correct as yet. But after all, we can't take all of the joy out of life.

Many errors aren't enjoyable, and the task of talking her out of them is a tough one. Take a "foots" for example. The more I talk about feet the more she talks about foots. And teefies for teeth? There's no end to that.

Recently at the beach she was talking about Cindy's mother. "But what's Cindy's mother's name?" I asked. We were talking about Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Howard. "I know Charlie's name," she said, "but I don't know Betty Lou's name."

If I can ever get Nancy to talk when I want her to, and shut up when I desire I'll consider myself a successful parent. It's much easier to get her to shut up than it is to get her to talk at the right time.

Any way you look at it, there's nothing that's more fun than watching a personality develop from an infant. And it's almost frightening when you realize how much influence you have in the development of that personality. It almost makes you wonder if anybody is capable of bearing so much responsibility.

And I thank you.

What Other Editors Are Thinking

SPEEDING MOTORISTS ARE IN FOR TIGHTER REGULATION (Hertford County Herald)

Maybe we are going to get more action and less talking in the department of greater safety on North Carolina highways. And, you can take it from us, the talking—and the writing—has been all out of proportion to actual accomplishment for many months and years. The rate of deaths, injuries, and property damage is proof enough of that fact.

The State's new Motor Vehicles Commissioner, Ed Scheidt, is pictured as a man who means business when he issues orders. As Sergeant Lester Howell pointed out to an audience the other night, "If I know Ed Scheidt, as I think I do, he means business." From other sources we have heard the same opinion, until we are about to believe something will actually be done to make traveling on the State's highways safer.

Motorists had better be checking on new speed laws and also they should be taking note of the Scheidt invitation to informers to report violations to his office. The informer-invitation is not intended to create an army of stool-pigeons, but it is meant to provide a place of retreat for those innocent motorists, or pedestrians, or bystanders, who witness flagrant violations of law when patrolmen or other arresting officers are not there to see the offending act. The Commissioner has promised to follow up every single report that is made to the Raleigh office.

Also there is the new speed law, which went into effect July 1, providing that motorists exceeding the limits at a rate of more than 15 miles shall lose their driving permits for 30 days if convicted. And, if the same offense occurs more than once a year, the offender will lose his driving permit for a 60-day period. These violations are, of course, in addition to whatever other punishment the court may impose upon the offender.

Speeding, being the No. 1 cause of death and accidents on the highways, will get more and stricter attention from now on. The 70-or-more-miles-per-hour drivers had better take note. And, the truck and trailer drivers—not to mention bus drivers—are going to get full attention from state enforcement officers.

There is only one way to beat the new law and stepped-up enforcement practices. Obey the law, of course.

Business Today

Rely On Amateurs?

By ELMER ROESSNER

"I lost a sale today," said the advertising man in the club car. "I presented a campaign plan to the head of a big corporation. It was the best plan I have ever developed. I know it will work. The president was enthusiastic and the controller said the corporation has the money."

"Then why did they turn it down?" asked the lawyer with the martini.

"Oh, they haven't yet," said the advertising man. "That comes later. But it's coming because the president said he wants to submit the plan to a panel of dealers before he buys it."

"Maybe the dealers will like it," said the lawyer.

"No," said the advertising man, "whenever any project like that is referred to dealers, salesmen or distributors, it is always killed. In the first place, when anybody is called in on a decision, they feel under some compulsion to find fault. In the second place, everyone starts thinking that if the company has that much money to invest, it would be nicer if it increased commissions or margins. They never dare say that, of course, but they express it by trying to prove the campaign won't work."

"What annoys me," the ad man went on, "is that I am an expert on advertising and marketing. I think I know the answers. And then my answers are submitted to a bunch of amateurs. It is as if a doctor diagnosed a case as appendicitis and then took a vote of nurses and orderlies on whether to operate."

"I know what you mean, said the lawyer. "I always prefer leaving a case to a judge's decision instead of a jury's."

"Unless," he added, "I am afraid my client is guilty."

COMPANIES BID FOR YOUTH'S SPENDING MONEY
The income of the average teenage boy, including earnings and allowances, has gone up $26 per cent in the last ten years, according to Eugene Gilbert, head of a youth survey organization. Teen-age girls' income has gone up $10 per cent in the same time.

Many companies are doing some thing about this spending money in youth's pockets. For instance, J.G. Shennan, president, recently reported to Elgin National Watch stockholders that youth has "forced the industry to re-appraise its design and marketing programs. Sylvania Electric has promoted "snaphot dances" at colleges to interest students in photography. Formfit has called a line of foundation garments "bobbie britches" to interest younger girls, and Simplicity Patterns has sponsored home-sewing contests that have drawn 500,000 entrants in a single year.

REGIONAL VARIATIONS IN WAGES STUDIED
There are wide regional variations in wage rates for office and plant workers, a series of studies by the Department of Labor shows. Scales were examined in 40 markets. Office workers pay in San Francisco was 108 per cent of the New York level while in Scranton it was only 79 per cent.

Wage levels of plant workers in nonproduction jobs were 113 per cent of the New York level in the San Francisco-Oakland region, 111 per cent in Detroit, 70 per cent in Jacksonville and 68 per cent in New Orleans, with other markets falling in between.

WOOL PROMOTION
Two plans for promoting wool as a fall fashion fabric have been prepared by the Wool Bureau, 16 W. 46th St., New York 36. One store in a city will be given each plan exclusively. Each plan includes merchandising and publicity ideas, a fashion promotion guide, sales training material, interior and window display ideas, advertising copy ideas, advertising mats and a wool fabric report for use in fashion show commentary.

Success Based On 'Tired Feeling'

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—In this world of woe one fellow's troubles often are another fellow's business opportunity.

Owen K. Murphy, a 44-year-old Irish sales genius, isn't the first man to discover this truth. But it has set him on the path to becoming a multi-millionaire as America's mechanical king.

The woe that became his particular gold mine was that international disease—tension.

"My idea was simply to find a way to help people relax easily," he said. "I became interested in physiotherapy while I was a pharmacist's mate in the Navy's and decided to make it my field."

"It wasn't easy. My background was engineering, and I had to give up a good engineering sales job I'd held for 17 years, and start all over."

He took a new job in 1946 selling mechanical massage tables to hospitals for an Adamsville, Pa., company. Business was slower than slow.

Three years later Murphy gambled everything to buy the firm himself at a time when it had only two fulltime employees and was grossing only $10,000 a year. Using his engineering skill and the know-how he had gained from consulting medical men, Murphy redesigned the equipment and developed a motor to give a pulsing rotary movement instead of a simple vibration.

"And I decided people offered a bigger market for mechanical massage appliances than hospitals," he recalled. "My theory was that any home that has a refrigerator or a vacuum cleaner also could use a mechanical massage unit."

Murphy put his mechanical massagers in department stores to rest the feet of tired shoppers. He put coin-operated massage tables in roadside rest stops for truck drivers. He got universities and big league baseball teams to adopt them as aids in conditioning sore-muscle athletes.

"Down in Florida they use a unit to keep racetracks in shape," he smiled. "And out west one helped heal a prize bull with a pulled tendon."

Among his early customers were such big name entertainment and sports world figures as Marie Wilson, Sugar Ray Robinson, Ralph Kiner, and Noble Sisson, the band leader.

But his real mass market has been the home and office. His 16 models of massagers range from a hand unit for tired housewives to a luxurious massage chair in which the tired business man can stretch out and relax while dictating to his secretary.

Murphy now has a factory in Buffalo, 600 employees, and last year grossed three million dollars, about 300 times the firm's income in 1949.

This year Murphy expects to sell 100,000 mechanical massagers. He sold 60,000 in 1952, and took in $4,500,000. He is still a bit dazed by success.

"I don't know where it will end," he said. "There is a lot of tension in the world, and it's an odd thing to say, but tension has been our best salesman."

Murphy keeps a massage chair in his own office, and uses it daily.

"Have to," he said. "Get all wound up if I don't."

Right now Murphy is pretty tense. All worked up over a new idea. You know how many motorists there are in America? Millions. Millions. Most of 'em tense.

So how about a mechanical massager for automobile seats? Why can't a driver relax his tension while he's at the wheel?

Funny? Well, most of those who laughed at Murphy in 1949 don't have his bank account today.

Umstead Administration Finally Gets Into High Speed

By LYNN NISBET

WHEELING—The administration of Governor William Umstead got off to a late start, but it seems to be wheeling now. Nearly all of the major administrative and judicial appointments have been made. The governmental machine, as contrasted with any desired or alleged personal political machine, is beginning to run smoothly. The much publicized and criticized delay on the part of the Governor in getting the machinery cranked up and moving may prove to be advantageous rather than detrimental when the final appraisal is made.

REASONS—To understand the situation now it is necessary to go back a bit and get a picture of events leading up to current conditions. The Governor himself and many of his friends explain the delayed start by citing an absence from the office for four months because of a heart attack suffered two days after he took the oath as Governor. Undoubtedly that was a contributing factor. Those who have known William Umstead for a long time question whether it was the main reason. The controlling influence may have been his deliberative attention to detail, his reluctance to act upon advice and counsel until he has personally checked every item, dotted every "i", crossed every "t", and placed every comma and semi-colon exactly where he thinks they should be.

ALERT—It is of factual knowledge that for large part of the time he was absent from the capitol office he was mentally alert, to developments. There were suggestions then and now that he was not getting adequate reports, that he was hearing only one side of cases presented. But chances are that if he had never been ill he would not have moved much faster than he did. He had repeatedly said he expected to take good time in making decisions about persons to be appointed as aides. The experience record of his predecessors would seem to show that he has not lost anything by delay, despite the impatience of folks who want change—sometimes just for the sake of change—in important appointive positions.

RECORD—Without making invidious comparisons or calling names, the record will show that appointments made by Governor Melville Broughton during the last half of his tenure were upon the whole substantially better than his early selections. That is true in face of the fact that he was limited during his later years by demands of the second world war for efficient manpower. When Governor Gregg Cherry came into office the war was at its height. He found some of the officials he normally would have replaced were on leave in the armed services, and he could not oust them. More significant was the fact that many of the men whom he would have chosen for civilian governmental positions also were in uniform and therefore unavailable. Result was that for most of his administration Governor Cherry had to work with men who he had not selected and who were themselves handicapped by realization they were acting as substitutes for men in the military services.

SCOTT—Governor Kerr Scott came into office four and a half years ago after a campaign in which he had featured his purpose to "open the windows and let in fresh air from the top." Actually, he did not make many more changes in high level personnel than most governors have made, but he did it in a more spectacular manner. The results were not good. He was forced to renege on several of his early appointments, and the people at subsequent elections refused to support his choices for fill-in elective offices.

CONCLUSIONS—Conclusions deriving from these experiences seem to justify the statement that circumstances prevented Governor Cherry from taking such action on part of Governor Broughton and Scott indicated they probably had acted too fast. There is so far no experience record by which to judge the Umstead administration. It is just getting started, three to six months later than those of his predecessors. It is entirely possible that this late start may be better for the people in the long run than would have been an earlier had start. That will depend entirely upon how things work out from now on.

ON SPOT—Because of the late start the people will be less disposed to condone mistakes and failures by the appointed officials. For the same reason mistakes or failures of these officials and board members will be more properly chargeable to the Governor than has been the case in the past. It was argued in defense of Governor Cherry, when some of his administrative aides did not fully measure up, that he had not had a chance to pick the men he wanted. It was argued for Governor Scott that some of his appointments which did not turn out well were made at the insistence of friends who put terrific pressure upon him. Governor Umstead may have been influenced in some instances and to some degree by recommendations and pressure, but to greater extent than in many years his appointees are his own and he is more largely responsible for their conduct. He is more definitely on the spot, not only for his own appointments, but for the appointments of modern times. And the appointed officials are under more obligation to him as well as to themselves to make good on the jobs assigned.

Almanac Predicts Prince Will Visit White House

By ROBERT MUSEL
LONDON (UP) — Old Moore's trained prophet predicted another batch of secrets loose from the stars today and it looks like there may be a little stranger in the White House sometime in 1956.

The prophet hastened to add that the little stranger probably would be Prince Charles—if his mother, Queen Elizabeth, brings him along in response to an invitation which President Eisenhower is expected to extend next year.

All of this may come as a surprise to the President but Old Moore's prophet always works a year or two ahead. This is on the theory that no one will buy millions of almanacs if they can't tell what's going to happen before it happens.

So, since 1897, Old Moore's Almanac and hieroglyphic engravings, have been in the profitable business of prophecy. Thousands of predictions have poured from generations of seers and duly found their way between its paper covers.

Some of them have even come true.

It wouldn't be natural if Old Moore's prophet didn't forget his failures and stress his successes. So this 25th annual issue points out that Old Moore predicted the abdication of King Edward VIII, the general strike of 1926 to the day, Germany's seizure of Austria before the last war, and the atomic bomb on Japan, among others.

One of its staff of seers forecast the death of Stalin almost to the day for an affiliated magazine.

The unusual feature of this issue is a full horoscope of President Eisenhower which alleges that while he is personally sympathetic to Britain's aims, political pressure at home may force him to thwart British desires in the Mid-East.

Old Moore says there will be a royal engagement or wedding in May and "an interesting royal event" in August. But it doesn't say whether these have anything to do with the romance of Princess Margaret and RAF group Capt. Peter Townsend.

The Red half of the world is in for more trouble in 1954—old Moore predicted last year that it would see rising unrest. In 1953, Communist China, it said, would stir with the first signs of rebellion in January, a Communist leader will be liquidated in April, another assassinated in October, and the Indochina war will end.

A worldwide religious crusade against sex will open in January, Israel gets back into solvent financial condition, and Britons finally taste some of the scotch which has been largely marked for export since the war, as Old Moore's maps out the year.

Old Moore's figures to bring its average up with one safe prediction—it says there will be a new French government in 1954.

Gaining Prestige Outside Of City

Evidence that Greenville's Utilities Commission has gained favorable standing in power circles outside Pitt County came this week in the form of a letter from as far away as western South Carolina.

The letter, addressed to Supt. Martin Swartz of the Greenville Commission was from William R. Wise, manager-engineer of the Greenwood (S.C.) Commission of Public Works.

After requesting rules, regulations, and rates being used by the Greenville commission in operation of its liquid petroleum gas system, Mr. Wise wrote:

"We understand you have one of the better municipal gas utilities in the South, and would like to have your permission to visit your city sometime in September for the purpose of observing your operations."

'Ideal' Weather By Comparison

Weather in the Greenville area yesterday was ideal compared to the same day a year ago, comments Mrs. C. E. Malden of the eWater Bureau.

The temperature was 75 degrees at 8 a. m. yesterday and reached a high of 92 with a low of 72.

Last night .07 inches of rain fell, while the same day a year ago saw no rain. However July 22, 1952, had local citizens suffering from the 105 degree heat. Low for the day a year ago was 76, with the temperature at 8 a. m. being 86.

Commiss' New Glamour Girl Is Known For One Word: 'Guilty'

By PHIL NEWSOM
United Press Foreign News Editor
Newest glamour girl of the international Communist set is Frau Hilde Benjamin, also known as "Red Hilde."

She presides over what for some strange reason is called East Germany's Ministry of Justice, and takes over the glamour girl title from Romania's Ana Pauker who was not competing this year.

The beely, lantern-jawed Ana, who turned in her own husband as partial proof of her right to be the Commiss' No. 1 girl, is in retirement.

Ana was Romania's foreign minister and deputy prime minister until she gathered the reward usually reserved for high Reds — meaning that someone faster on their feet than she reserved either a prison cell or a firing squad for her, the Western world isn't sure which.

But now we have Hilde. Hilde is female, wears her hair in a bun at the back of her head and has a weakness for Paris gowns. But right there and then any similarity with a cozy date for cocktails for two ends.

Hilde is the mannish type who in the United States would go in for a cause — CAUSE, that is, with capital letters.

Hilde joined the Communist Party in 1924 at the age of 22.

No one can say for sure when Hilde learned to hate. It may have been during Hitler's rule when she and her Jewish husband went into hiding. The hiding did no good. Her husband was caught and died in a Nazi concentration camp. Hilde herself is not Jewish.

At any rate, it has been under Communist rule that she earned the nickname, "Red Hilde."

As vice president of the East German Supreme Court she was the driving force behind the terror justice system built up in the Soviet Zone. She regards her predecessor, Max Fechner, as a weak traitor because he recognized labor's right to strike.

Hilde lowers but one sentence—guilty. It varies only from years to life imprisonment, or to death.

Last year Hilde was made an honorary doctor of law at Berlin University for her "pioneering contribution to the development of a new democratic penal code."

Although a lawyer herself, she ridicules the profession, and has promoted a campaign to name persons with no legal training but with the right politics to the bench.

New Skyscraper For Manhattan

NEW YORK (UP) — Plans were announced today for construction of a 42-story office building near Grand Central Station — the biggest commercial building project in Manhattan since erection of Rockefeller Center.

The skyscraper will take two years to build and will cover an entire block between Lexington and Third avenues and between 41st and 42nd streets. Demolition of present buildings on the site is scheduled to begin in the fall.

The announcement was made by the Galbreath Corp., which will undertake the $45,000,000 project. About half the office space already has been rented to the Socony-Vacuum building.

Socony-Vacuum will move its 2,000 headquarters employees from its present space in a 16-year-old building in lower Manhattan. Plans call for the new building to be ready for occupancy in the fall of 1955.

Peter B. Ruffin, vice president of the Galbreath firm, said the building will be the largest fully air conditioned building ever constructed. It will include a sub-basement garage for tenants and tunnel connections to subways and grand central terminal.

What part of every prescription weighs nothing at all?

Your pharmacist's scale is so sensitive it will respond to the weight of a hair!

But into every prescription he compounds, your pharmacist puts one ingredient that never moves the scale's needle.

It is the most important thing you buy whenever you have a prescription filled.

It is the professional knowledge and skill of your pharmacist. Without it, no prescription could be properly filled. The physician orders the required drugs in the specific amounts needed, but the compounding of the finished prescription is the sole responsibility of your pharmacist.

Before he could fulfill this responsibility, he devoted years to the study of the highly specialized subjects of his profession. To earn his college degree, for example, he had to acquire a fundamental knowledge of many sciences such as chemistry, physics, biology. He mastered, too, the details of compounding and dispensing drugs, chemicals, and other medicinal agents.

And after his formal education, your pharmacist's course of study does not end. For there are constant changes and progress in medicine and pharmacy with which he must keep abreast.

Leaders Are Logical Choices

Nearly all of the managers of the major league teams now in the running for the 1953 pennant have come up with statements to the effect that their team is still "gonna win the race."

This could produce quite a problem, as it is entirely impossible for more than two clubs to hold the championship at any one time. At the present moment, it seems that the league leaders are the logical and mathematical choices for the title.

New York has just about sewed up its claim to the American League title. No matter what the criticism of the Yankees may be, their downfall can not be seen at this point.

Boston has made its move after slumbering around in fourth and fifth places for most of the season, but it is still ten and one-half games behind the leaders. Second place Chicago, six games behind New York, and four and one-half games ahead of the Red Sox, flourished over the past week-end against the Yankees.

The White Sox probably lost their best chance of the year when they dropped the twinbill to the Bombers, as a victory there would have cut their deficit to only two full games. It is highly improbable that they will regain their stride in time.

The National League New York team, also has cooled down after a mild spurt, and is now resting a cool eight games behind their cross-town rivals from Brooklyn. Milwaukee still has a slim chance to overtake the Dodgers.

Attendance Increase Is Encouraging

It is encouraging to see that at least one league in North Carolina has endured the costly slack at the turnstiles this year. The Carolina League recently reported that attendance at league games increased by nearly 11,500 over last season.

Five of the teams in the league have higher attendance figures than in 1952. The highest increase is at Burlington-Graham. The Pirate farm club has jumped from a second-division fate last year and are now contenders for the league pennant.

Raleigh, whose owners put the club up for sale several weeks back but did not find any takers, has had better luck since then and now has a slight increase. Danville, however, has suffered a drop despite the fact that it was leading the league yesterday morning.

Th professional leagues in North Carolina have had a rough road to travel in the last three years, with most of them failing by the wayside. North Carolina led the nation a few seasons ago in the number of pro teams, but it has long since lost its leadership.

The Class D Tobacco State League was the first to go in this vicinity, and was quickly followed by the Coastal Plain. Eastern North Carolina teams found it practically impossible to compete with other sporting interests and the conservative tendencies of the average fan.

Deadline Nears For Tennis Event

Tomorrow is the deadline for persons to enter the City Tennis Tournament, according to Miss Carolyn Clapp of the recreation department.

Miss Clapp stated that at present there are more men than women entered in the tourney. Plans call for men's and women's singles and doubles, as well as mixed doubles.

Pairings for the matches will appear in Saturday's paper. Scheduled to be played in a week, the matches will be held at the player's convenience. This makes it possible for persons who work to take part in the tournament, comments Miss Clapp.

Persons desiring to enter the event should contact Miss Clapp at the Elm Street Park tomorrow between 9 a. m. and 12 noon or 3 to 6 p. m. There will be a senior division of play for persons over 16 and a junior division for persons under 16.

Shire-Wallace Get Decision

The team of Professor Roy Shire and Bobby Wallace got the decision in the Australian Tag Team match in the Hardee-Worthington wrestling matches last night. They defeated Frank Thompson and Bob Clay.

Polo Cordovano outdistanced Al Getz in the semi-final match. Tinker Todd was the winner in the preliminary bout against Charro Astec.

Tom Rogers will begin his third year in 1953 as head football coach at Wake Forest.

Jaycees Get 16-11 Win; Leading Series

Allen Homers In Wild Contest; Tripp Gets Win

A wild 16-11 victory yesterday gave the Jaycees a 2-1 advantage in the city Little League championship playoffs over the Kiwanians.

The Jaycees scored early in the run-happy contest by pushing eight runners across the plate in the first inning. Buddy Murray's grounder was error'd by the third baseman, and Dick Nobles walked to open the game. Walker Lee Allen got the scoring underway at that point by slamming a pitch over the outfield fence for a three-run homer. Wailes and a hit batsman, plus a double by Murray and a single by Rick Sauve produced the other runs.

Three runs in the third produced the winning run. After Murray was retired, Nobles was safe on an error. Allen and Arthur Andrews singled in succession to score Murray. Jasper Tripp was safe on an error by the catcher to fill the bases. Allen scored when Stancil hit a grounder to third, forcing Andrews. Linwood Bridges singled to push Tripp home with the winning run.

Tripp went the distance for the winners, allowing eight hits in the six inning contest. Despite constant trouble with his control, Tripp was able to take the win with the aid of 13-hit attack by his teammates.

The Kiwanians threatened in the sixth when they scored four runs on five base on balls and a double by Bobby Edwards and a single by Donald Speight.

The Jaycees need only one more victory to retain the championship which they won last season. The fourth game of the series will be played this afternoon.

Torgeson To Get Bone Examination

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—Earl Torgeson, Philadelphia Phillies first baseman out for almost a month with an injured ankle, will undergo an examination at the bone clinic of Dr. John Royal Moore at Temple University today.

Torgeson injured his ankle on June 27 in St. Louis when he pivoted attempting a force play at second base. He returned to the lineup on July 6 in New York but was struck by his own batted ball during batting practice and has not played since.

NEW YORK (UP)—Gil Hodges, the Hammering Hoosier who started off in reverse this year, soared to the top in major league run production today and it was no coincidence that at the same time the Dodgers suddenly had a fatter first-place lead than the Yankees.

For it has been the muscular man from Princeton, Ind., who has sparked the latest drive of the Brooklyn window-breakers, a drive which suddenly found them leading the National League by 5 1/2 games while the Yankee margin in the American was reduced to 4 1-2.

Hodges drove in seven runs in a 9-3, 11-1 sweep over the casual Cubs Wednesday night as first rookie Johnny Podres and then Carl Erskine turned in lustrous pitching jobs in which each struck out 10 men. Podres gave up six hits in winning his sixth straight game in the opener and Erskine yielded only four in winning his fourth straight in the second contest.

But it was Hodges who led the way. He ran his runs batted in total to 83, putting him one ahead of teammate Roy Campanella, and making him at this stage of the race a prize candidate for Most Valuable Player honors.

That's fast stepping for a slumped-guy who batted only .194 for his first 23 games and who had a sickly total of five runs batted in before Manager Owarley Dresen benched him. Now he's batting .316.

Hodges had a three-run homer in the first game and a two-run blast in the second to give him a total of 23. Duke Snider also hit a first-game homer and Carl Furillo hit one in the second to make it five wins in a row for the Brooks and 10 out of their last 11.

The Yankees ran into trouble in Cleveland again, losing their fifth straight to the Indians, 6-4, as Mike Garcia scattered 10 hits. Larry Doby delivered a tie-breaking double for the winning run and robbed pinch hitter Johnny Mize of a grand slam homer in the eighth with a one-handed catch.

Yogi Berra had three Yankee hits, including a homer.

The White Sox closed in on Virgil Trucks' seventh straight win, a 1-0 four-hitter over lefty Mel Parrnell of Boston, gained when Al Carasquel tripled and Nellie Fox scored him with a fly in the fifth. Chicago also made only four hits.

The Phils topped ace Warren Spahn of the Braves, 6-3, to push them 5 1-2 games behind the Dodgers while the Giants came from behind with two runs in the ninth to defeat the Cardinals, 6-5, and the Pirates edged Cincinnati, 3-2, in other National League games.

The Athletics made 17 hits to defeat the Browns, 11-1, on a five-hitter by Bobby Shantz, while the Tigers and Senators were rained out in the other American League game.

The Phils made four runs in the first inning, two on a homer by Granny Hamner, as Jim Konstanty gained his 11th victory. Spahn was kayoed when the Phils made two more in the sixth.

Alvin Dark extended his hitting streak to 15 games with a single that drove in the winning run for the Giants after Whitey Lockman's single had tied the score. Hank Thompson and Wes Westrum hit Giant homers while Solly Hemus and Steve Bilko homered for St. Louis.

HAVERFORD, Pa. (UP)—The Seixas of Philadelphia and Tony Trabert of Cincinnati gunning for assurance of Davis Cup berths, led the field in the quarter-finals of the Pennsylvania tennis championships today.

Seixas, who won the 1952 singles title at Wimbledon, faces unseeded Jacques Grigry of Los Angeles. Trabert is pitted against Hal Burrows of Charlottesville, Va.

Noel Brown of Los Angeles, seeded fourth behind Seixas, Trabert and Art Larsen, who withdrew with a sore arm, plays against fifth-ranked Straight Clark of Pasadena, Calif. Sidney E. Wood Jr. of New York, one-time Wimbledon and Davis Cup star, meets seventh-seeded Grant Golden of Chicago in the other bracket.

Seixas was extended by Gil Shea of Los Angeles before winning 8-4, 6-3, Wednesday in third-round matches. Trabert downed Dean Garrett of San Diego, 6-4, 7-4.

Brown eliminated Clifton Mayne of San Francisco, 6-4, 7-6, 6-1. Clark ousted unseeded Irvin Dorrman of New York, 8-7, 6-2, 6-4.

Burrows defeated Fred Hackett of San Francisco, 3-4, 6-4, 6-4; Grigry outsmarted Bill Quillian of Seattle, 9-7, 6-1; Golden won over Pablo I. Eisenberg of Millville, N. J., 6-3, 6-2, and Wood outlasted Ed Kauder of Los Angeles, 6-4, 3-6, 6-2.

Newhouse reached his peak in 1944 when he won 29 games and lost only nine. He chalked up his 200th victory for the Tigers last September. This year, however, he has been benched for all but seven games because of an arm ailment that started bothering him two years ago.

He has pitched only 21 1-3 innings since the start of the season, losing one game and winning none. His unconditional release frees Newhouse to sign with anyone else, but he said today he has no immediate plans.

Pretty Girls Add To Glamor Of Any Job

NEW YORK (UP)—Three brunettes and a redhead named Mahoney, Gilligan, McEntegart and Sullivan prove that any job seems glamorous if it's held by a pretty girl.

The four girls are piping analysts. They rarely talk about their work, because it's too technical for their boy friends.

"I even noticed an awful boredom when I tried to explain my job to my family," said Eileen McEntegart, 24. "They kept trying to change the subject, so I gave up."

Her three friends giggled. The four, all college graduates, mathematics majors, laughed so frequently as they related happenings from their unusual careers that pipe analyzing began to seem like highly amusing work.

"We're called junior engineers in the piping analytical section," explained Mary Mahoney, 26, who came here from Toledo, O., two years ago. The girls were sitting in the board room of the M. W. Kellogg Co., builders of chemical and petroleum processing plants. Usually they work at desks a few feet from each other on another floor of the company's offices.

"We decide the size of the pipes and the valving needed for different oil refinery installations," Mary added.

Eileen said she just finished eight months of work on refinery plans for an installation in Australia.

"None of us knew any engineering terms when we started the training course," recalled Ann Gilligan, 24. "At the first class the instructor told us to be sure and count our elbows." The other girls burst out laughing. "I finally figured out he meant the turns in the pipe."

"My friends still think I'm a glorified plumber," Mary Mahoney admitted. "My three roommates and the three other junior engineers live with their families in the New York City area) saw no reason why I couldn't install our new gas stove."

Mary Sullivan, 22, the redhead and the most recent addition to the piping section, said she was pretty surprised to find she'd become pipe conscious.

"I was walking through Grand Central the other day and found myself looking at the pipes and valves," Her friends laughed.

The four decided to pool their money and use Eileen's car and drive across country on their vacation this summer. They leave next week for a month of sightseeing including a couple of social calls at oil refineries "to see the layout of the pipes."

PMA Elections Gain Importance

Farmer community and County Committee elections to be held between September 15 and October 15 take on added importance with the looming probability that a farmer referendum on wheat marketing quotas will be held this summer and that wheat acreage allotments will be in effect for the 1954 crop.

Committeemen elected by eligible farmers will have the responsibility for the administration of price-support programs and for the determination of acreage allotments on any crops for which the allotments are in effect at the farm level.

"With these big jobs for County Committeemen coming up for the next year, it behooves every eligible farmer for his own good and the good of all the farm programs administered by the Committeemen to get out and vote," State Production and Marketing Administration Chairman, G.T. Scott, declared.

Says Huk Threat Has Diminished

MANILA (AP)—A Texas editor says the Communist threat to the Philippines from within has been virtually eliminated.

Akers is in the Philippines on a Smith-Mundt grant.

Spanish Bathers Receive Orders Of Strict Modesty

MADRID (UP)—It's back to indecent exposure. In a memorandum issued by police headquarters here, men and women looking forward to the restful pleasures of sand and sea were reminded to be clothed "with the traditional modesty and good-taste becoming Spaniards."

The memorandum, published in all the papers, admonished against current indecencies of strapless and two-piece bathing suits, bikinis and G-strings.

The memorandum said, "swimming suits should cover both chest and back adequately. Women's bathing suits should have a skirt and men must wear sport-shorts."

"Swimming suits may not be worn on beaches, at clubs, bars, restaurants, boats or generally outside the water."

"Bathing suits are intended to be worn in the water only and therefore cannot be tolerated elsewhere."

"Sun-bathing cannot be permitted unless a bathrobe is worn or unless the beach is completely isolated and the sexes are separated. In this case the sun-bather must wear a bathing costume."

Churches, Horses And Charity Got More Cash

WASHINGTON (UP)—Americans' charity and horse races went to fewer movies and baseball. Indications are that while they games last year than in 1951 but cut down on shoe repairs, they spent more money on churches, sharply increased their political contributions in the election year of 1952.

They also bought fewer TV and radio sets and did more reading—or at least bought more books, magazines and newspapers. But their spending on TV and radio repairs went up.

All of this information and a lot more came today from a Commerce Department statistical breakdown of consumer spending in 1952.

The figures show that Americans made a record $269,700,000,000 in 1952, $15,400,000,000 more than in 1951. Taxes took about a third of the increase and Americans spent the remaining $10,000,000,000.

This brought their spending to a record $218,100,000,000, almost five per cent higher than in 1951. Allowing for price increases, they got about 2.6 per cent more goods and services for their money.

The biggest single spending item was, as usual, food. Americans ate $63,725,000,000 worth of it last year, $3,063,000,000 or almost five per cent more than in 1951. As in 1951, about 20 per cent of the food money was spent in restaurants, dining cars, schools, hotels and clubs.

But spending on cigarettes and alcoholic beverages went up more percentage-wise. Americans spent $5,155,000,000 on tobacco products, nine per cent more than in 1951, and $8,870,000,000 on whisky, wine and beer, five per cent more than in 1951.

The biggest single expense item next to food was "household operation," which totaled $27,601,000,000. This was a negligible increase over 1951, however, as Americans cut down on their purchases of refrigerators, washing machines and other appliances, tableware, furniture polish, fuel other than gas, and paper products.

Mystery Disease Strikes In India

NEW DELHI (AP)—Twenty-eight persons have died in Bombay State out of 960 afflicted by a "mysterious disease" causing intense thirst, Health Minister Rajkumari Kaur says.

In reply to a question, she said members of a visiting foreign medical team sponsored by the World Health Organization had visited areas where the disease prevails but had not offered any conclusive opinions.

The "epidemic" began in October, 1951, she stated.

One nautical mile measured 6,000 feet compared to 5,280 feet for a land mile.

It stands to reason...

Chevrolet trucks must be the best buy!

Big truck users, small truck users, all truck users buy more Chevrolet trucks than any other make. It stands to reason Chevrolet trucks must offer more of what you want.

When you stop to think about it, the best proof of outstanding value in any product is continued public preference. That's the way it is with Chevrolet trucks. They're the top selling trucks in America today . . . for the twelfth straight production year.

This is a mighty important fact to consider before you buy your next truck. You'll also want to consider that, while Chevrolet trucks give you more features you want, it's the lowest-priced truck line of all! Come in and talk it over with us.

Big Rain For Heart Of Drought Disaster Area

AMARILLO, Tex. (UP)—More than three inches of rain fell in the heart of the Southwest drought disaster area Wednesday night and early today.

In eastern Texas, lowlands of the Sabine River were flooded near Mineola. Rains of from two to three inches were reported Wednesday over part of the Sabine watershed.

Mrs. R. R. Rucker, river observer for the Lake Charles, La., Weather Bureau, said the river was above flood stage of 13 feet and some lowlands covered. Paul S. Cook, chief of the Lake Charles Bureau, predicted a crest of three feet above flood stage by Saturday.

Life-giving rains also soaked Kansas, and recent showers in Oklahoma were reported to have eased the crisis there.

Amarillo, in the Texas Panhandle was visited by President Eisenhower recently when he attended a drought conference with governors of six southwest states.

drought emergency program." Shivers told the angry farmers and ranches that drought relief rules had been "misinterpreted all along."

The downpour at Amarillo was the heaviest in the city since May 15, 1951.

Rains leaptfrogged across western Kansas. Some farm areas reported as much as three inches, the most in two years. Garden City, Kan., reported 1.25 inches.

Most of Oklahoma missed out on the showers. But Gov. Johnston Murray said recent showers had changed the drought picture in the state so much that he has canceled plans to hold emergency meetings with farm leaders over the situation.

Meanwhile, a sharp controversy over a so-called "pauper's oath" for farmers who wanted to receive federal feed at curtail prices seemed to be dying down.

Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson telephoned Gov. Allan Shivers of Texas Wednesday and sent telegrams to chairmen of state drought committees in seven states saying federal regulations do not "contemplate giving an oath of any kind or even requiring financial statements to obtain feed under

Japs In Thailand Producing Steel

BANGKOK (AP)—Six of Japan's largest steel manufacturing firms are making negotiations with the Thai government for setting up of a steel plant — the country's first heavy industry.

The proposal calls for joint Thai-Japanese mining and smelting of iron ore deposits. The Japanese companies, including Yawasa and Daiwa Trading Company, will hold 49 per cent of the shares and the Thai government 51 per cent.

Innoculations Cost $1.5 Million

NW YORK (UP)—Mass Gamma globulin inoculations of children in seven states have cost the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis and the American Red Cross $1,555,680.

Basil O'Connor, foundation president who reported the expenditure yesterday, said it was a mark of progress toward conquest of polio "that we at last are in the happy position of being called upon to spend this money."

'Working Girls' Depart Saturday

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (UP)—A group of 142 starry-eyed "working girls" will take off Saturday for a three-week "dream" tour of some of Europe's best-known vacation spots.

The jaunt will include everything from a visit with a U. S. ambassador to a night at the famous Paris Folies Bergere.

The women, from 19 to 64 years old and about half of them married, are General Electric Co. employees. Most work at the Fort Wayne plant.

The trip will climax three years of scripping and elaborate preparations, including courses in French and instruction in where not to go in Paris after dark. The women will visit France, England, Germany, Italy, the Netherlands, and Switzerland.

Irene Meyers, 53, supervisor of women's activities at GE here, said the girls sacrificed heavily for three years to pay for the trip. "I know several who didn't have any vacation for the past two years," she said. Several gave up Easter outfits and one quit smoking, she added.

Miss Meyers said the barnstorming girls would visit Clare Boothe Luce, U. S. ambassador to Italy.

The Juniper Tree

By FAITH BALDWIN

SYNOPSIS

Having imbibed unwisely while attending a convention away from home, successful businessman David Barton awakens unsteadily in a small hotel room. His slumber had been disturbed by bad dreams, but bad dreams had been usual with him ever since the bitterness of grief had so completely engulfed him. It was the grief, he told himself, which caused him to drink too much. He who'd always been a sober fellow! David's family and friends had begun to worry gravely over his strange conduct and it was proving a new barb in the gentle heart of his good wife, Emily. At home once more and suffering with a severe case of "flu" David resolves to be done with the drinking business, now and forever.

CHAPTER FOUR

FINALLY, Dave consulted Dr. Elwood, who said: "Would you care to tell me about your son? Or would you rather not, as yet?"

Dave said: "I've talked about him ever since he was born and ever since he died, at school, of a disease we thought was about licker. Pneumonia. I suppose you know my firm sells the drugs that lick it?"

"Yes."

"Perhaps I know what you're thinking. Pete's talked with me about it. That's not the reason. I'm not. I expect, that rational. Of course I can't help wondering—no, resenting. It's like, say, you made the best lifebelt in the world and someone you loved drowned wearing it. There have been other cases which didn't respond, a percentage. The miracle doesn't always come off. Oh, sure, I asked why about that, too. Why in, say, a thousand cases, Tim's? But there is an answer, you medical men know it. I know it. For it was explained to me."

"Atypical."

"That's it. Atypical. I can take that. I can take anything with an answer. But it goes beyond that. Why should Tim's case be atypical?"

"You were going to tell me about Tim," the doctor said not answering.

"He was—he'd been—17 for a few weeks, last fall. He would have graduated this past June. My father graduated from Daleway, my brother and I did. Family routine. I think Tim was better than any of us. He was all the things that sound sappy and are the reverse—good, kind, decent, fair. He had a sense of justice, and humor to match. He couldn't see anyone or anything hurt. Took up for kids who couldn't fight back, and animals. . . . I haven't said what he looked like? He was reasonably good looking. I suppose. Perhaps his mother and I thought more than that. But not actually. He again, not. As tall as I am, and thin. I could tell you about him till Doomsday."

"I'm here to listen."

Sooner or later he and Dr. Elwood had to get around to Emily. Nothing so far had been as bad, yet even in trying to explain it there was a certain lightening of the burden, in itself a minor miracle. Dave talked with silences between sentences, and the doctor listened, his bright blue eyes concentrated on the man across the desk. After a while it was he who talked and his patient who listened.

A week later in Elwood's office, he said: "I'm not coming back. I've a lot to thank you for, you've helped me more than I can say in one, to me, very important respect. I'm grateful. But now I have to go it alone for a time."

He talked with Emily and George, took a leave of absence, and drove alone to Vermont to see his mother in the white house in which she had been born. Her distant cousin Kate was there, brisk and cheerful, and, said Mrs. Barton, in welcome. "We're glad you came, it's about time."

Isabel Barton was tall and spare. She stood and sat erect. Her eyes and plentiful hair were gray. There was humor on her lips and in her face great strength, reserve and courage, and hard-won serenity. Dave stayed three days, spent in good talk and company and blessed by good food.

She told him, "Dave, you can't bury yourself with Tim."

"I know. But I have," he said hopelessly.

"Roots. Yours in Tim. You had to pull them up, but you didn't. I loved your father, and I love you boys and the children; and many others. But I'm not rooted in one person any more than I'm rooted in one spot. The real roots go with you everywhere. In God, they are. I tried to teach you that. Pity you didn't learn it."

When Dave was leaving, his mother said: "Give my love to Emily and all. You'll be home tonight?"

"Can't say, mother. I may stop off at Daleway."

"If you do," she said, "remember me to Dr. Newton. Want me to call Emily?"

"No, dear, thanks—I might change my mind. I'll call her from some place along the road."

Two hours later, from a drug store, he called Emily to say that he would break the trip at the school.

"That's fine," she said. Daleway was old, the heart of an old village. According to no particular plan, the gray-stone buildings rose on either side of the road. They were in classic good taste, enlivened by ivy, still green, by woodbine starting to glow ruby-red.

He stopped the car by the roadside across from the building that contained senior classrooms library, and the Head's study. Up the street, the chapel. There had been a memorial service there for Tim. Dave had not been present. . . . on that day, he was in New York and sodden. Emily had gone, with excuses, George, and Maria. Beyond the chapel was the infirmary, which now had a new sun-room with a bronze plate bearing Tim's name upon one wall. A gift from Tim's parents.

I didn't attend the service, so I gave a sunroom. He looked at the buildings, the people intent upon their own concerns. He knew that Old Boys were welcome here, whenever the Head was in residence. Perhaps (Dave hoped) he wasn't now. If he isn't, I'll leave a message and go on. If he is, he'll expect me to stay. I suppose he'll put me up in Goethe Hall; there's always a room there for visiting firemen. He'd never let me go to the inn.

Almost a year ago when he and Emily had stayed at Daleway they'd been—how many days? two? three?—in the Headmaster's home. He got out, crossed the road, climbed the bank, and went up the path a little way. Then stopped, shaking and sickened. Why did I come? he asked himself in desperation and turned to retrace his steps. Why am I here?

It was too late; someone stopped and spoke his name; a middle-aged woman, slender and hatless, wearing the sort of tweed suit that during her 20 years as the Head's secretary she had always worn.

"Mr. Barton," she cried, and put out her hand. "This must be telepathy. There's a letter to you on my desk, waiting for signature. Come right in with me. Dr. Newton has called, but they won't stay long—and he'll be so happy to see you."

"I was just passing by," Miss Stark," he said, "so stopped, on the off chance that he'd be back."

"It wasn't a chance, at this time of year, as you should know. Mrs. Newton is still in Maine closing the cottage. And parents are arriving like locusts."

(To Be Continued)

Duke's Ranch Is Back In Business

PEKISKO, Alta. (AP)—The Duke of Windsor's EP Ranch in the Alberta foothills, 65 miles southwest of Calgary, has gone back to commercial cattle raising.

For 31 years after the then Prince of Wales bought the 4,000-acre ranch in 1919, it was a purebred stock farm, producing shorthorn cattle, Shropshire and Hampshire sheep, Clydesdale horses and thoroughbred running horses.

After the Duke visited the EP Ranch in 1950 with the Duchess of Windsor, the property reverted to commercial cattle-raising, its functions before the prince bought it from Frank Beddingfield.

Turn Solomon In Divorce Decision

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—A judge and two attorneys turned architects when a divorce suit came up in court.

Pending a decision, Superior Court Judge Orlando H. Rhodes said the attorneys for the couple decided to split the home in half, as both the husband and wife wished to live there.

The husband was allotted one side of the swimming pool, his wife the other. She got six rooms, and he was allowed the use of the others. He could use the kitchen only while his wife was away from home.

FROM deep inside you comes a new stir and sparkle when you take the wheel of a fun-filled car like this Buick Convertible.

You feel happier just to be in a car with the lilt of larks to its styling—with the breeze-blessed airiness of all outdoors all around you.

It's a car that freshens your spirits with its sky-filled view—yet it can snug you in weather-tight shelter, when the need arises, with a mere finger-touch of hydraulic buttons.

But you get a heart-lift in this Convertible from something more than just its looks, or its versatility, or the push-button control of its top, its front seat and its windows.

You get it, too, from the sheer brilliance of its performance—

From the thrilling power of the great new Fireball V8 Engine found in every 1953 Buick SUPER and Buick ROADMASTER—the modern and advanced V8 that reaches a new high in compression ratio—

From the new instant getaway of Twin-Turbine Dynaflo®—where you move from standstill to cruising pace in a quick sprinkling of seconds, and with truly infinite smoothness—

From the deep comfort of riding soft and ever-level on all-coil-spring cushioning—of sitting in sumptuous luxury on really wide seats—of handling over two balanced tons of fine automobile with finger-tip ease and the gentle assist, as you need it, of Power Steering.®

We'll be happy to have you test-drive one of these stunning new Buicks—and let you see for yourself how much fun and fine feeling it can add to life. Why not drop in for a visit soon?

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (UP)—Stocks moved higher today under the leadership of railroad and oil shares.

All sections participated in the advance which really began late in the previous session.

There was some further hesitation at the opening today and first hours sales of 150,000 shares were the smallest in a week, against 190,000 yesterday.

Rails and oils started up before the hour ended and the whole market joined the upturn.

Best gainers in the rail department included the Denver and Rio Grande issues at new highs. Illinois Central, Santa Fe, Missouri Pacific preferred, and Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis, all up a point or more were set by Barber, Cities Service, Amerasia and Shell.

Motors strengthened under the lead of General Motors which was up nearly a point. Fires firmed up early irregularly in which Firestone set a new low. Steels ruled firm. Aircrafts advanced. Monsanto rose nearly a point in a firm chemical session.

Back Into Army After 30 Days

CHARLOTTE (UP)—It took Jerry Crump, winner of the nation's highest award for bravery, just 30 days to get fed up with the inactivity of civilian life.

Crump, who received the Medal of Honor a year ago for covering a life hand grenade with his body to protect his buddies in Korea, wants back in the Army even though he still has a game leg.

A corporal in the 3rd Infantry Regiment at the time, Crump suffered a shattered leg and spent six months in a hospital. He was later returned to duty as a sergeant in ordnance.

He was discharged June 12 and returned to civilian life as a life guard at a swimming pool in his home town of Lincolnton, N. C., but the pace was too slow. "I just didn't have anything to do," he said.

He appeared at recruiting headquarters here yesterday and took his mental and physical examinations. Crump expects to be sworn in Monday at his old job as ordnance sergeant.

Light Docket In City Police Court

Only eight cases were tried in City Traffic Court Wednesday morning in a light docket.

Roy Cleveland Dail paid $15 and costs for having no operator's license.

The case charging Linwood Woodard with failing to stop for a "Stop" light was not propped, as was the case against J. E. Everette, charged with the same offense.

Forney Moore paid a $5 fine for operating a motor vehicle on the left side of the street, causing an accident.

Edgar D. Kalkhauer, charged with speeding, paid $15.

Katcheyn C. Moore, driving drunk, prayer for judgment continued upon payment of $100 and cost and the court recommended that his driver's license be revoked for a period of 12 months.

Frances Elizabeth Mathews, charged with being drunk paid $10.

Auditor Returns From Area Tour

County Auditor Reginald Gray returned to his office in the court house today after spending yesterday studying the tax setups in three other eastern North Carolina counties.

The auditor's tour included Lenoir, Wayne and Johnson counties.

These, together with Beaufort which he visited several days ago, Auditor Gray said, employ simplified and economical methods of tax calculation, some of which this county may be able to use in its own auditing department.

Legion To Honor Korea Veterans

American Legion Post 39 in Greenville has plans for awarding certificates of honor to all Pitt County men who have served honorably with the armed forces in Korea. Ed Harris, post commander, said today.

Commander Harris said the post hopes to award the first of these certificates at the next monthly meeting. He added he is now getting up a list of these returned veterans.

Prepared by the state headquarters of the Legion, the certificates are suitable for framing and, in addition to the serviceman's name, bear the signatures of Governor William Umstead and Department Commander William L. McMillan.

About 50 members of the post were on hand for Tuesday night's meeting and were reminded during the business session of a forthcoming drive for total membership quota of 519. It also was brought out that membership dues for 1953 are now payable.

Look Ahead For More Marvels

NEW YORK (UP)—Among the wonders expected by a Wall Street brokerage house in the next decade is a self-locating golf ball which will "beep-beep-beep" in the rough.

A forecast prepared by Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Beane for the next 10 years includes:

1. Scientists may find a cure for the common cold.
2. Much more of the nation's raw materials will come from deep inside the earth and far beneath the ocean.
3. Autos will be safer and more streamlined but not much faster.
4. Car buyers can have a super-efficient gas turbine engine which will be located in the rear.

A small amount of pure silicon is produced by U. S. industry, but the current price is about $340 a pound.

Claims Actress Refused To Pay

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—A Beverly Hills furrier accused actress Rosalind Russell in a court suit today of refusing to pay for a $9,000 mink coat.

Teitelbaum Furs, Inc. in a suit brought yesterday, also asked that Miss Russell, currently starring in the New York musical "Wonderful Town," pay 7 per cent interest on the coat.

Attorney Marvin Manuel said Miss Russell apparently considers the coat a replacement for another she contends she sent to the furriers to be altered and which was lost.

Money Is Gone, Prisoners Freed

BERNALILLO, N.M. (UP)—Sheriff Dick Montoya has released all five prisoners from the Sandoval County jail here and refuses to lock up any more until the county gives him some money.

Montoya said he was tired of spending his own funds for groceries to feed the prisoners. He has spent $400 and run up a grocery bill of $250 since official funds ran out.

Shrugs Off Miss Italy's Remarks

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—French model Christine Martel, winner of last week's Miss Universe contest, today shrugged off a remark made by Miss Italy that she didn't deserve the title.

When told of Ritz Stazzi's comments to Rome newsmen, the girl for 1954 merely said: "The judges picked me for Miss Universe. I guess I am."

Thirteen Freight Cars Off Track

RALEIGH (UP)—Thirteen cars of a southbound Seaboard Air Line freight train plunged off the rails at Millbrook, 12 miles north of here, early today and blocked the north-south main line for more than six hours.

No one was hurt. The derailed cars, some of them containing new automobiles, were pitched at crazy angles across the tracks. Chief SAL dispatcher R. H. Eastman here said some were "pretty badly damaged."

The wreck delayed at least three passenger trains including the SAL's Silver Meteor and Star. Two freight trains were delayed.

Cause of the derailment, near the middle of the 85-car train was not determined. The railroad began an investigation.

Wreck crews worked in a drizzled rain before one of the tracks was re-opened. Eastman said it was the first derailment on this division of the SAL in several years.
