Dulles Goes To Korea For Talks

Believes Conferences With Syngman Rhee Will Help Assure Peace

By RUTHERFORD POATS
United Press Staff Correspondent
SEOUL, Korea (UP) — U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles arrived in Korea tonight and said he believed his forthcoming talks with President Syngman Rhee will help assure achievement of an "honorable and lasting peace."

Dulles said in a written statement that his delegation, which included Army Secretary Robert Stevens, would attempt to develop a common policy with South Korea "for the unification by peaceful means of all Korea."

A 19-gun salute greeted the Dulles plane as it landed here more than 12 hours late. Bad weather had forced it to turn back to Shemya air base in the Aleutians.

"I hope and believe that these talks, conducted as they will be on the basis of mutual respect and mutual cooperation, will help to assure that the respite from war now made possible by the armistice will result in the achievement of an honorable and lasting peace," Dulles said.

Dulles said his mission to Korea should serve as evidence to the world that the United States "respects the views of Korea, that we intend to cooperate in peace as well as in war and that we shall try to concert our common effort for the unification by peaceful means of all Korea."

The first round of talks with Rhee is scheduled to begin Wednesday morning at the presidential mansion.

Dulles declined to answer questions on whether he expects to conclude and sign a U. S.-Korean defense treaty during his four-day stay.

"We have not worked out the agenda yet with President Rhee," he said.

U. S. Ambassador to the United Nations Henry Cabot Lodge accompanied the secretary of state, Dulles said, so that "he will be fully aware of the viewpoint of the Republic of Korea when he leads our delegation to the Aug. 17 meeting of the General Assembly."

The party also included Under-Secretaries of State Walter E. Robertson, who helped win Rhee's agreement to the armistice, and Carl McClellan.

The party was greeted by high South Korean government officials. Dulles reviewed a South Korean army, navy, air force and marine honor guard.

Dulles came to Korea to keep his promise that he would confer with Rhee on a "common front" policy for the Korean peace conference which must be convened before Oct. 27, according to the armistice terms.

'Operation Big Switch' Frees Americans Tonight First Prisoners Returning

By LEROY HANSEN

PANMUNJOM, Korea, Wednesday (UP) — Seventy Americans, and more than 300 other U. N. fighting men, will step through the bamboo curtain to freedom here today in the first phase of "Operation Big Switch."

They will be the first of 12,763 Allied prisoners of the Reds to be returned under the prisoner exchange provisions of the Korean armistice.

Thirty-five wounded and sick American captives of the Communists will be the first men freed, at exactly 9 a. m. today (7 p. m. Tuesday EST) if the Reds stick to their promised time-table.

After they have been identified, their names will be flashed to American newspapers and radio and television stations.

Two hours after the 35 ailing Americans have been returned to democracy, 35 more G. I.'s described as "healthy" by their Red captors, will walk into the checkpoint.

At the same time that the first Allied prisoners gain their freedom, the United Nations will hand over 2,400 North Koreans and Chinese who want to return to Communism.

The Communists will return 400 captives daily and receive 2,400 from the Allies until "Operation Big Switch" ends.

Although lists of prisoners have been exchanged by both sides, there will be hope that the long roll call of 3,313 Americans to be freed during the next 30 days will include the names of missing soldiers whose whereabouts or fate never has been accounted for by the Communists.

An estimated 10,000 missing Americans went through "forced marches." According to the prisoners released in "Operation Little Switch" last April. Many may have frozen to death or died of starvation and inadequate medical care in Korea's terrible winters of 1950 and 1951.

A Red Cross representative estimated at least 2,000 Americans or Communist-held prisoners of other nationalities already had reached the nearby railroad at Kaesong, the Communist camp.

Both sides exchanged Red Cross inspection and comfort teams at Panmunjom.

The Allied team of Americans, British and Danes and men of four other Western Nations went North hoping to solve the mystery of the missing 10,000 men, but it was doubtful they would gain any information.

The Red Cross teams were informed they would not be permitted to hand out the $2,000 tons of comfort items to prisoners awaiting repatriation, that this matter would be attended to by Communist guards.

Carefully-trained teams stood by at "Freedom Village" to process the returning prisoners, give them any mail that had accumulated for them since Armistice Day and issue new clothing.

At Inchon nicknamed the "Little Golden Gate," the repatriates will receive magazines that have been checked closely to eliminate information that might disturb the freed prisoners.

Some of the magazines which contained articles about a brainwashing of prisoners in April's "Little Switch" were discarded after a psychiatrist said he thought they should not be left around.

Seriously sick and wounded men will be flown to Tokyo for treatment in Army hospitals before they are sent home.

All other prisoners will go home on ships.

East Berlin Communists Disrupt Distribution Of Food Parcels Water Hoses Stop Demonstrations

BERLIN (UP) — West Berlin police today used water hoses to break up a demonstration by 2,000 East Berlin Communists who entered the West sectors of the city in an attempt to disrupt the distribution of "Eisenhower food parcels" to hungry East Germans.

The Reds apparently ordered their "goon squads" into the West sectors of the city to stir up trouble in an attempt to divert attention from new outbreaks of anti-Communist demonstrations and strikes which are sweeping Soviet-run East Germany.

The squads of Communist toughs concentrated on food distribution offices in two West Berlin centers. The attempted to discourage East Berliners from accepting American food parcels.

West Berlin police rushed to the scene and readily drove off the Red agitators.

Communist police were reported stationed around food warehouses throughout the Soviet zone as a precaution against similar uprisings.

bellious East Germans who have been barred by Russian tanks and guns from obtaining American food in West Berlin.

Tens of thousands of East Germans also were reported engaged in strikes and slowdowns in protest against Communist restrictions and terror obstructing the Western food relief program.

The British zone reported Communist police stationed strong guards around food warehouses with orders to "use all means" to prevent looting by hungry and angry East Germans.

There were isolated reports that East Germans who couldn't get certain foods at home and were prevented from going to West Berlin took direct action to seize stores at Communist warehouses.

The West Berlin newspaper Nacht Despeche said anti-Communists in Dessau smashed the window of a state-operated food store. The newspaper said the action was in protest against sales in state stores of thousands of "Eisenhower food parcels" taken from East Germans returning from West Berlin.

Reliable reports from the Soviet Zone said workers struck at the giant Leuna chemical plant at Merseburg, the Buna rubber works at Halle and plants in Magdeburg, Jena, Bitterfeld and other large industrial centers.

Mass arrests by Communist police were reported.

The unrest followed reported riots and burning of buildings Monday in a zone-wide outbreak against the Red restrictions to discourage the hunger march. East Germans who managed to get to Berlin through Red road and rail blockades reported disturbances in virtually every part of the Soviet Zone.

They were less widespread than in the nation-wide anti-Communist uprising last month. The situation, however, was serious enough for Russian troops and tanks to be alerted to cope with the situation if the Communist police let it get out of hand.

Distribution of food packages continued for East Berliners Monday and today. Altogether, some 1,300,000 free parcels have been given out since the program began a week ago.

A few hundred East Germans managed to reach Berlin and were given packages.

Communist police still left the East-West sector border in Berlin open. But they set up tight controls at major border crossing points, and seized all food packages.

East Berliners heading for West Berlin with empty suitcases also were turned back.

The Reds tried to counter the Western propaganda victory in the food campaign by distributing food packages to West Berlin jobless. They set up two tents near the sector boundary, blared march music from loudspeakers and collected crowds to watch the opera-

Take Up Insurance, School Bond Referendum School Board Meets

Matters of student insurance, school consolidation and the state school bond referendum took important spots during the meeting of the Pitt County Board of Education yesterday.

The board voted to adopt for the 1953-54 school year the student insurance program proposed by the Colonial Life and Accident Insurance Company which offers coverage for students at the rate of $2 per year per student.

Optional Student Insurance The coming school year will be the fifth in which an optional student accident insurance program has been offered in Pitt County. Conley pointed out that the $2 premium for the coming school year is more than the $1 premium which has been adopted in past years, but he said the school board expressed the opinion the coverage offered under the program was more in keeping with needs of the students.

Under the optional program a student is covered by insurance during the period of one hour before the school day begins until one hour after the school day ends, while enroute to or from school and while at school premises.

Conley said that last year approximately 80 per cent of the students in Pitt County schools were covered under the optional insurance program.

The matter of insurance on students participating in football was left by the board to the individual schools, the superintendent said.

After discussing the proposed state-wide referendum on a bond issue for schools, the Pitt County Board of Education yesterday went on record as favoring the issue and will ask Parent-Teacher Associations and other organizations connected with Pitt schools to support the bond issue. Conley asserted money made available through such a bond issue would enable Pitt County to construct some needed buildings and replace some older buildings now in use in the school system.

Bruce Consolidation The board yesterday ordered the consolidation of the Bruce Negro school with the Falkland Negro school because of poor attendance at the Bruce school. Conley said under the consolidation move students from Bruce school will attend Falkland Negro school, and approximately 90 students who formerly attended Falkland Negro school will be transferred to the new Sally Branch school. The shift, he said, should increase the Sally Branch school from its three-teacher status of last year to a seven-teacher school.

Also approved was the sale of the Post Oak Negro school north of Stokes and the lot of the Harris Negro school near Stokes. The Harris school building has been moved from its former location to the Stokes Negro school site where it will be used as an auxiliary building.

The board also voted to consider the sale of the Clemmons Negro school east of Stokes. If the proposal is carried out, two additional classrooms would be constructed at the Stokes Negro school to accommodate students who formerly attended Clemmons school.

Ayden School Question The Ayden school yesterday renewed its request to the County Board of Education for 16 teachers during the coming school year. The school had 16 teachers last year, but fell one point short in average attendance of meeting the state requirements for 16 teachers at the beginning of the 1953-54 term.

Conley said the situation arose because some students living between Ayden and Grifton have alternated attending the Ayden and Grifton schools. He said school officials will seek to determine now the people in the particular area in question feel about their children attending Ayden or Grifton school.

The Board of Education also voted to add windstorm coverage to the present insurance policies on Pitt school property.

LUMBERTON (UP)—North Carolina tobacco growers were general day prices today with the opening day prices on the eight Border Belt markets yesterday and the average was estimated officially at $53 per hundred pounds.

Few farmers rejected the bids on their leaf as sales began at Taber City and Whitesville. Only an estimated five per cent of the heavy volume of opening day offerings went to the Flu-Cured Sales Corporation under the government loan program.

Federal and state departments of agriculture did not issue a separate report summing up opening day sales for the North Carolina Border Belt markets. The report on initial Tar Heel sales with the report on the third day of sales on the 11 South Carolina markets which opened originally last Thursday.

The report said average prices over the whole area Monday were steady to $1 to $4 higher than quotations last Friday on South Carolina leaf sales.

Prices on the South Carolina markets last Friday were listed by the agriculture departments as about $50.75 per hundred, indicating the opening average on North Carolina Border Belt markets yesterday was near $53 per hundred.

The Agriculture Department report for North and South Carolina sales yesterday said lugs, cutters, and the small volume of leaf offered were steady to $1 per hundred pounds higher than prices on South Carolina markets last Friday. Erimings gained $1 to $4 while most non-descript rose $1 to $3.

Quality was better because of increased volume of fair quality offerings and less low and non-descript. The bulk of sales consisted of low and fair primings, fair and good lugs, low and fair cutters and non-descript.

The volume of sales was heavy on most of the markets which opened Monday, the report said. But was light on some markets.

Kiwanians Feed Coaches, Players At Tournament

The Kiwanis Club directors at a meeting last night voted to provide meals for the coaches and players one day in the Little League Region Five Tournament to be played in Greenville the week of August 17.

President Leo W. Jenkins said the directors understood that each of the service clubs will feed the players on the visiting teams one day during the tournament.

Eight Little League teams from seven states—North and South Carolina, Georgia, North and South Florida, Alabama, Tennessee and Kentucky—will participate in the Region Five Little League Tournament. Warren Carroll, Greenville recreation director, stated, Carroll is tournament director of Region 5.

The tournament gets under way at Elm Street Park in Greenville August 17. Two games will be played each day—at 3 and 5 o'clock.

During the tournament Greenville will be host to 10 distinguished guests, including Philip A. Benson of Williamsport, Pa., secretary and treasurer of Little League Baseball. Other special guests will be Little League leaders from the participating states.

One hundred twelve players and 16 coaches will come to Greenville for the tournament.

The team winning the championship of Region 5 will go to Williamsport to participate in the Little League World Series. The first games will be played Tuesday, August 25.

State General Fund Still Rises

RALEIGH (UP)—The state's general fund income still is rising, a report by Revenue Commissioner Eugene Shaw showed today.

Collections for the first month of the current fiscal year totaled nearly $11,117,000, an increase of $519,664 or nearly five per cent over receipts for the same month a year ago, Shaw said.

The increase in sales tax collections was considerably less than that shown in July a year ago, but was "indicative of stability," Shaw wrote Gov. William B. Umstead in a letter accompanying his regular monthly fiscal report.

Increases were shown in collections from the sales tax, franchise tax, beverage tax, and inheritance tax, Shaw said, but decreases were recorded in income and privilege tax collections.

Receipts from the sales tax for the month totaled $4,596,000, only about $711,000 or 1.5 per cent more than was collected in July, 1952, Shaw said. He noted that in July 1952 sales tax collections were more than 12 per cent higher than they had been in the same month of the preceding year.

Two Visits In County; 240 Pints Of Blood Needed Bloodmobile Unit Is Coming

Two bloodmobile visits to Pitt County are slated for early next week, and the combined quotas for the visits amount to 340 pints of blood.

The Red Cross bloodmobile will be in Grifton Monday from noon until 6 p. m. and in Greenville Tuesday from 9:30 in the morning until 3:30 in the afternoon.

Dr. Walter C. Humbert, Pitt Health Officer and chairman of the blood program for Pitt County, issued an urgent appeal for people of the two localities to make plans to donate blood during the visits.

The quota of 170 pints per visit of the bloodmobile is high, he said, but the blood is urgently needed not only for domestic use but for the armed forces and for use in making gamma globulin to fight infantile paralysis.

The visit of the bloodmobile to Grifton is under the co-chairmanship of Thurman J. Williams and Charles E. Kline. The Christian Church of Grifton has been designated headquarters for the visit.

Officials announced today they have been notified of a change in the time originally announced for the bloodmobile's stay in Grifton. The new hours for the bloodmobile visit there will be from noon until 6 p. m. instead of from 1 p. m. until 7 p. m. as originally announced.

People in the Grifton area who will donate blood to the program will be urged by the co-chairmen to telephone Grifton 2461 for an appointment to give blood.

When the bloodmobile visits Greenville on Tuesday, headquarters will be set up at St. Paul's Episcopal Church where the visit is under the sponsorship of the church. Dr. Humbert said Mrs. W. S. Bost will be in charge of the ladies who work in the canteen set up for the bloodmobile visit to Greenville, and Mrs. Charles Gaskins will handle the registration, reception and motor corps for the visit. B. C. Satterfield has been helping with the promotion of the visit to Greenville.

Dr. Humbert said this morning only 50 pints of blood have been pledged so far for the bloodmobile visit to Greenville Tuesday. He urged all men and women between the ages of 18 and 60 who are willing to donate blood to contact the local Red Cross office by telephoning 4222 and making appointments to give blood.

Dr. Humbert pointed out that blood donations are still urgently needed in the national blood program. Even though fighting has stopped in Korea, he said, surgery will still be performed on soldiers there for at least six months. Also, he said, blood is needed by local hospitals throughout the nation.

In addition to those needs for blood, the Pitt chairman pointed to the use which has been made in the past few months of the blood derivative gamma globulin in fighting infantile paralysis.

There have been 140,000 children under 10 years of age in 11 communities in eight states who have been inoculated with gamma globulin in recent months. Likewise there have been another 10,000 household contacts with polio given gamma globulin inoculations during the period.

To produce that much gamma globulin, Dr. Humbert said, required some $55,000 pints of blood.

Efforts presently are being made to acquire gamma globulin for use in inoculation in Avery County. So far, the local blood program chairman said, use of gamma globulin in the current year has been 20 per cent above the anticipated figure.

Last Minute Flurry To Win New Floor Leader

WASHINGTON (UP)—Supporters of Sen. William F. Knowland predicted he would ride out a last-minute flurry of opposition today and win overwhelming election as Senate Republican floor leader.

The 46 Republican Senators were called to a party caucus at 2 p. m. e. d. t. to fill the leadership vacancy created by the death of Sen. Robert A. Taft. Knowland has held the post on an acting basis since Taft became ill nearly two months ago.

Although there was some grumbling about the early date fixed for the election, the 45-year-old Californian was an odds-on favorite to win the job in his own right, probably without competition.

The election of Knowland would create another leadership vacancy—in the chairmanship of the Senate

Republican Policy Committee which Knowland has headed since last January. Sen. Homer Ferguson (R-Mich.) was regarded as a probable choice for the policy chairmanship.

Some protests erupted Monday to form what Knowland's friends regarded as a backfire to block his election.

These complaints came in the form of letters and verbal objections to the Senate Republican Policy Committee, which decided last Saturday to hold the election today.

In a letter to Sen. Eugene D. Millikin (Colo.), chairman of the Senate GOP caucus, Bridges said he had received several messages objecting to the early election. He said he saw no immediate need to vote.

Allies And Communists Try Out Hospitality

By Frederick C. Palston
United Press Staff Correspondent
PANMUNJOM, Korea (UP) — The Allies and the Communists cautiously tried out each other's hospitality today for the first time since they stopped killing each other.

Both sides sent joint Red Cross teams into the other's rear area to give aid and comfort to sick and wounded prisoners.

F. the Communists, it was their first taste of the American invention, the helicopter, and they reacted with a combination of controlled fear and delight.

For the 30 Allies from nine different nations, it was a lesson in "Oriental patience. They had to wait more than five hours in the hot Koren sun while the Communists prepared for their trip.

North Korean guards in baggy uniforms and red epaulettes, roared and giggled with laughter as they watched their Red Cross representatives awkwardly board the whirlybirds that saved so many Allied wounded from death before the war ended.

Ten big Army helicopters hovered into position at Panmunjom at 9 o'clock this morning, but the Reds were not ready. Nobody knew exactly why. The Communists said they were awaiting word from some higher-ups.

Once aboard, the Communists braced themselves in their seats as if they were about to receive a tremendous jolt. Some of them trembled nervously. Others looked grimly ahead as if facing death with courage.

This scene was in strange contrast to the way the Allied Red Cross teams finally departed.

Marine Captain At Cherry Point Held For Murder

NEW BERN, N. C. (UP) — Marine Corps Capt. Obie W. Stover, Crossed Ark, was held on a murder charge today in the shooting death of his wife in their apartment at the nearby Cherry Point Marine Air Station.

Stover, 30, was arrested by federal authorities yesterday after an FBI investigation of Mrs. Frances Stover's death June 8. A Marine Corps spokesman said at the time of the shooting that it was "apparently accidental."

According to the charge, Stover shot his 28-year-old wife, a native of Spring Hill, La., during a drunken brawl. The couple's two children were in the apartment at the time.

Stover, a World War II veteran, was ordered held for trial in federal district court here Oct. 19.

No 'Utopian Extravanzas' For Farmers, Committee Told Today

AMHERST, Mass. (UP)—Farmers don't want "utopian extravaganzas," the House Agriculture Committee was told here today.

Carlton I. Pickett, executive secretary of the Massachusetts Farm Bureau Federation, said the "dangerous delusion" has arisen that the farmer cannot compete with the real of the economy on an independent basis.

"It has become almost accepted as economic fact that the farmer can't run his business like anyone else," Pickett said in a statement before the committee which opened coast hearings on new farm price support legislation.

Farmers, he said, have "a grave mistrust as to the political motives of those who have saddled us with our expressed desires with the rigid price support, the mountainous pile of purchased and stored products."

"The greatest political mistake in history was the set idea that elections could not be won without pampering the farmers."

Pickett said "it begins to appear that farmers alone will never convince the Congress that they really do not want utopian extravaganzas but only the things they do ask for."

Even after 20 years of constant indoctrination into the idea that it is a function of government to pay farmers for practices they should do as good business men, there are relatively few who believe it," he said.

Speakers for northeastern dairy, poultry and potato farmers were the first of hundreds of "grass roots" witnesses scheduled to testify this summer and fall before the touring House committee.

Today's hearing on the University of Massachusetts campus will be followed by another at Caribou, Me. on Aug. 8. In October the committee will leave Washington for six weeks in the South, Southwest, Midwest and Far West.

The farm price support law now on the books expires at the end of 1954 and in January Congress will begin writing a replacement.

Most farm bloc congressmen favor the current system under which supports for corn, cotton, wheat and other basic crops are pegged at 90 per cent of the "fair earning power" parity level.

Hiring Of Hands For Tobacco Work Here Hits Peak

The peak in employment of extra hands for this harvesting year's tobacco crop in Pitt county appears to have been reached during the last week, judging from a report of the North Carolina Employment Service office here.

Douglas R. Taylor, farm placement interviewer, estimated that about 15 per cent of the approximately 700 hands imported from out-of-state and other North Carolina counties have returned home.

This would leave about 600 still in the county to help wind up housing of this year's crop, remainder of which is expected to be banded for the most part this week.

In the case of workers contacted through Georgia employment offices, these are expected to be back in their home state by August 15 to help pick cotton, the employment office disclosed.

However, for others, such as the migratory crews brought in from Florida, this return arrangement does not apply.

Tobacco hands have come into the county from four other states this year—Florida, Alabama, South Carolina, and Georgia—in addition to those from other counties in North Carolina.

Although Baltimore and Washington are only 38 miles apart, it is cheaper to transport gasoline by water 200 miles on Chesapeake Bay and the Potomac than by road.

District Rotary Governor Addresses Greenville Club

Charles McCullers, governor of Rotary District 279, made his annual visit to the Greenville Rotary club yesterday, meeting with club officers and committee chairmen yesterday afternoon and addressing the club at its meeting last night.

During the afternoon session, Governor McCullers discussed club functions and organization with local officers, and received reports from each of the 30 committees of the Greenville Rotary club.

McCullers complimented the local club on its organization and work. At the meeting last night, the district governor discussed for the club the importance of Rotary work in club service, vocational service, community service and international service. He urged members to play their part in Rotary activities, asserting that every person is looked to by someone else as an example of how to live.

The strength and prestige which prevails in Rotary, he said, is because of the men who make up the organization all over the world. Rotary was the first national and international civic club, and is now represented in 87 countries and geographical regions, he said. "It is an organization built on friendship, fellowship and service," McCullers asserted. He pointed to the growth of Rotary in North Carolina and in district 279 since the first club in the state was formed in 1914.

The common goal of all Rotary clubs, he said, is to make their communities and the world a better place in which to live.

McCullers announced that an inter-city Rotary meeting will be held in Greenville August 21 at which North Carolina's Lt. Governor Luther Hodges will be the principal speaker. Clubs which will be included in the inter-city meeting will be Greenville, Ayden, Bethel, Farmville and Washington.

Visiting Rotarians at last night's meeting in addition to the district governor were J. B. Brittle, president of the Kinston Rotary club, Jack Quinley and Wilbur Ormond of Ayden. Other guests were Col. Harry Hagerty and Dr. Robert G. Brame.

President Badger Johnson presided at the meeting, and McCullers was introduced by Past District Governor James Butler.

Miss Cochran Hostess At Canasta Party

ROBERSONVILLE—Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock, when Miss Minnie Cochran entertained 11 friends, her living room was attractively decorated with vases of mixed flowers. After two games of canasta, the hostess served potato chips, cheese sandwiches, pickles, cookies, candy, salted nuts, lemonade and Coca-Colas. Cards were then enjoyed until midnight.

Those enjoying Miss Cochran's hospitality were Miss Fannie Hodges Crofton, Miss Gladys Bailey, Mr. and Mrs. William D. Sanford, Mrs. Pitt Robertson, Mrs. William Rust, Mrs. Walter Swindell, Miss Johnnie Sparks, Mrs. George Ross, Mr. and Mrs. John Tyler.

Funeral Services For Sam C. Buck

Funeral services for Sam C. Buck, 50, who died at Pitt Memorial Hospital of a heart attack Sunday, were held at 4 p.m. today at Wilkerson's Funeral Chapel. Rev. Horace B. Quigley, Christian minister in Greenville, officiated. Burial was in Greenwood Cemetery.

Mr. Buck was a son of the late John R. and Mary Venable Buck. He was an elder and deacon at Timothy Christian Church at Gardner's Cross Roads.

Surviving are his wife, the former Nina Smith of Beaufort County, to whom he was married in 1924; one son, Ronald G. Buck of the home; two brothers, John W. Buck of Farmville and James E. Buck of Hampton, Va.; and five sisters, Mrs. H. Clayton Haddock and Mrs. Will H. Haddock of Vanceboro, Mrs. Leslie Haddock of Greenville and Mrs. Clem M. Reel and Mrs. W. Rufus Wall of near Gardner's Cross Roads.

Local Lions Hear Convention Report At Weekly Meeting

The Greenville Lions Club last night were presented a program, which was divided into three parts, one part dealing with highway safety, one with the recent Lions Convention in Chicago and the last with work with Crippled Children.

Cpl. C. E. Whitfield of the State Highway Patrol, stationed in Greenville, delivered a brief one minute talk to the service group as part of the Department of Motor Vehicles drive to stress highway safety.

Whitfield told the audience that the number of highway accidents in Pitt is on the increase and that the fatality rate is steadily going up. The officer urged that all motorists use the utmost caution in driving, in order to increase road safety.

Next Lion Marvin Aldridge showed movies taken at the Lions Convention in Chicago which was attended by four local Lions. The movies dealt with the scenic attractions enroute to Chicago and the colorful parade which lasted several hours.

Vick Forrest then introduced Calvin Ross, field representative of the North Carolina Society of Crippled Children, who spoke briefly to the club.

Ross outlined the work that the society, which was organized in 1935, does and stressed the fact that their work is with any and all persons who are handicapped and not just crippled in the sense that most people refer to.

E. W. Harvey announced that as many of the Lions as possible have been asked to contribute blood at the next stop of the bloodmobile to Greenville August 11.

All donors are asked to sign up now.

A board of directors meeting followed the regular session.

ARTHROSIS?

I have been wonderfully blessed in being restored to active life after being crippled in nearly every joint in my body and with muscular soreness from head to foot. I had Rheumatoid Arthritis and other forms of degeneration, pain, deformity and my ankles were limited—space prohibited walking you more here but if you will write me I will reply at once and tell you how I received this wonderful relief.

White Resumes Duties At ACC As New President

WILSON, N. C.—Dr. Travis A. White, recently appointed president of Atlantic Christian College here, this week assumed his new duties.

Dr. White, former minister of the First Christian Church of Lubbock, Texas, and a national leader of the Christian Church in young people's education, succeeded Dr. D. Ray Lindley, who resigned as president of ACC on June 1, to become vice-president of Texas Christian University.

Dr. White and his family arrived in Wilson last week. Before assuming duties here Dr. White served as a delegate to the International Convention of the Disciples of Christ at Portland, Oregon, and the University of Higher Education held last week at Nashville, Tenn.

"The college campus and our home were a most welcome sight to the Whites. The many words and other expressions of welcome have given us from the very start an 'at home' feeling. We are genuinely looking forward to our years in Wilson and North Carolina," Dr. White said in a statement issued upon his arrival.

Dr. White becomes the seventh president of the local college which was founded in 1902 by the North Carolina Christian Church. He is a native of Louisiana and received his undergraduate and graduate degrees from Texas Christian University.

Barn Of Tobacco Destroyed In Fire

A tobacco barn belonging to Jesse Anderson, located behind the old NYA center in the Brookgreen section was destroyed by fire around noon Monday.

A fire truck from Greenville's main fire station was enroute to the fire at the time an alarm was pulled in for the blaze.

Firemen were unable to save the burning building which was caving in when they arrived, but stood by to prevent the spread of the blaze to shop buildings of the old NYA center.

Anderson said that there was no insurance on the barn or its contents which consisted of 650 sticks of tobacco. The barn was being cured with oil burners and the oil from a busted drum fed the fire for a long time, giving off a dark thick cloud of black smoke.

News From Farmville

By JOYCE CORBETT

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Letchworth and Mrs. Z.B.T. Cox attended the annual Adult Conference of the Christian Church held at Atlantic Christian College in Wilson Monday through Friday of last week.

Mrs. Edison Moore and Mrs. Archie Clayton attended the conference by commuting from Farmville.

Others attending the conference during the week were: Rev. Cox, Sam D. Bundy, Chandler Cox, Mrs. Arch Managan, Mrs. Robert Rouse and Mrs. L. E. Turnage.

Group 4 of the Christian Church met with Mrs. Z. M. Whitehurst at her home on West Wilson Street last Tuesday night. Mrs. Louise Harris presided.

"Sound of Many Voices" was the topic of the devotion presented in an inspiring manner by Mrs. Howard Moye. The meditation stressed brotherhood.

During the business discussion the group voted to sell Christmas cards; also church duties were discussed.

Mrs. Harris was remembered with a lovely dish garden by the members as this meeting was on her birthday. Mrs. Whitehurst served lemonade, chicken salad sandwiches and tartlets during the social hour.

Group I of the Christian Church met Tuesday night in the home of Mrs. Robert Lee Smith with Mrs. Ted L. Albrighton, group chairman, in charge.

Plans were made for new and old projects in the fall. Plans were made to contribute to the Black Mountain Assembly and the possibility of aiding in the support of an orphan.

Mrs. Albrighton led in the meditation of the evening and made an inspiring talk on the theme "Add Up Your Blessings."

Mrs. Albert Sidney Darden was welcomed into the group from another group of the Fellowship.

In the social hour that followed the meeting Mrs. Smith served strawberry ice cream with salted nuts.

Tommy Little, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Little, who entered the U. S. Army July 8, is now at Fort Campbell, Ky. His address is Pvt.

Workers Send In Applications For Border Permits

Applications for border permits from Pitt county workers seeking tobacco curing jobs in Canada now are coming in at the Greenville office of the North Carolina Employment Service.

W.B. Dillingham, manager, said today he has received six so far and expects the number to increase to the some 50 to 60 he has had annually for the last two years.

Applications are made through the Canadian Employment Service, he explained, and are brought in to the local office where workers are issued permits in duplicate for getting into Canada and, later, back into this country.

Dillingham said most of the demand is for work in Ontario where the procedures for curing tobacco are similar to those used in North Carolina, employing oil and some coal burners.

He added that most of the permits would be issued between now and August 15.

Miss Sarah Smith of Norfolk, Va. is spending some time with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Smith.

Mrs. J. O. Pollard, who has been on a visit at Virginia Beach, has returned to her home.

Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Darden and children, Jimmy and Susan, have returned home after spending a week at Atlantic Beach.

Youth In Ayden Gets Two Charges

AYDEN — A 17 year-old youth apparently could not keep out of the way of the highway patrol over the past week end.

At least Tom Joyner, 17 of Winterville, General Delivery, was arrested by Patrolman Bill Whitehurst two times for careless and reckless driving after his car was involved in two automobile accidents in less than 12 hours.

Joyner was first arrested Saturday afternoon after his car struck a car belonging to H.J. Braxton, 60, of Route 2, Greenville, which was parked at a service station near Winterville. He was charged with careless and reckless driving.

At three o'clock Sunday morning 12 hours and 30 minutes later, Joyner turned his automobile over on a rural paved road, South of Ayden.

Whitehurst stated that the boy told him he went to sleep at the wheel but that did not halt a second citation for careless and reckless driving.

Damage to Joyner's car was estimated at $200.

Slick tires and wet roads were blamed for a single car accident on the Renston highway around 9:45 Sunday night, Whitehurst reported.

An estimated $300 damage was listed to the car belonging to Robert Earl Stancil, 19 of Route, Ayden.

No injuries were listed.

An unknown marine is being sought today by patrolmen after his automobile left the highway 14 miles South of Greenville on NC 43, and "returned into a canal."

The accident occurred at 11:00 last night Whitehurst said. The car was a total loss. It traveled 240 feet before going into the canal.

CHAPTER FOURTEEN

"STILL wish you'd had a mind to be with us, we went to church before dinner. It was real pretty. Carol singing, and all."

"Believe me, Cas, there are few people I'd rather be with."

Cas nodded. He knew about Tim. Dave had told him suddenly, briefly, as they tramped back together from the deer hunt. He'd known before that; Hank Dawson had told him.

"He said: 'There's times when a man's better off alone. I know that. I've been there. Only sometimes you can't be, and for some folks, maybe it's as well.'"

Now winter closed in hard as iron. Ten below, 20 below, nearly 30. On bright days, or gray and windless days, Dave went out, wearing the lumberman's socks, among others, which he'd bought in town; the warm light underwear, ski trousers, George's fabulous coat, heavy gloves and a woolen toque pulled down over his ears. At first the air was painful to breathe, desert dry, cold as charity without love. But he grew used to and enjoyed it.

His life was simple; he could go out, he could stay in, provisioned against any winter, however long. He was warm, fed and clothed. For exercise he cut wood, dragged it into the shed, stacked it. He walked through a world of great trees and small, of those which lay forlorn upon the ground and those which stood. He was, as he'd told Cas, thinner, hardened, too, his eyes clear, and his color good. He'd had no headaches since around Christmas. He dreamed less or, if he dreamed, not unpleasantly. Except now and then.

Occasionally Hank got out to see him and always Cas and the boys. Weekends before the thaw and later when it froze again, Joe and Herb skated on Deer Pond. They stopped by, coming and going, bringing an extra pair of skates, persuading Dave to go along. They admired his aptitude, executing neat figures, and laughed immediately when, carried away by his prowess, he fell flat.

"That's life for you," said Dave. "First you're up and then you're down."

The boys went back to camp with him for a soft drink. At ease on a couch, Joe consulted him. "You think I should go to college, Mr. Barton?"

"I sure do, Joe. You can get a lot out of it, depending on what you want and what you put into it. It costs plenty."

He thought: This is something I can do. Not as a substitute. Never that. But as a memorial. Better than a hundred sunshines.

He said: "There are ways, Joe. Scholarships, for instance."

"I'd never get a scholarship, my marks aren't that good. Pops got support. Phoned home and said he'd set a while. First thing I knew I'd upped my insurance. He's a smooth talker. Still and all, he's probably right, should anything happen to me" he added mildly. "Nothing will," Hank assured him, warming his hands. "Tomorrow you'll go see Doc Mercer and he'll holler you're wasting time. But insurance companies are tudy."

Hank reached down, picked up a wad of paper near the stove, and absently smoothed it. Dave put out his hand, drew it back. That one had missed the stove and he wasn't the neatest housekeeper in the county.

"Hey," Hank said, "this is pretty good. Deer pond, or I miss my guesses, long about sundown, by the shadows."

"I think it's bad," said Dave, "which is why I intended to chuck it in the stove."

"Me, I couldn't draw a straight line," Hank said. He looked at Dave with respect. "I didn't know you could draw, too," he added, and glanced at the typewriter. The cover was never off except when Dave wrote letters. He hadn't written many lately, and the cover was dusty.

"I can't draw," said Dave. "I may as well admit that I can't write either. And have no desire to. But when I took this place, Hank, I thought you'd think me off my rocker holding up this way, no time limit set, like a fugitive from justice. Maybe you'd think I was, too. So I said I was a writer, as in my experience nothing writers do make much sense to other people, and causes little comment."

"Oh, that," said Hank. "We knew it pretty soon, didn't we, Cas?"

"Why, sure."

"I had to have some excuse," Dave argued. "I couldn't say I came here to— He stopped. He couldn't say it now; he didn't actually know."

Cas said: "You came here to cure, Dave."

Dave jumped, startled. He cried: "But that's not true! I wouldn't lie to you and Hank about that. Besides, you know me now."

"I don't mean you're sick that way, there's nothing wrong with your lungs. But you came to cure just the same."

Hank said, "We've been wishing you—I don't suppose—luck is exactly the word."

"I don't seem to get anywhere," Dave said dully.

Cas took the crumpled paper and held it carefully. "That's Deer pond, for a fact," he said. "Maybe it looks a little different to the way I see it, but I'd know it anywhere. The west side, ain't it, near the swamp?"

Dave nodded. "It's from memory," he explained. "I couldn't sketch when I was there that time—near sundown, as Hank guessed, so I didn't need dark glasses, but it was cold, my hands would have frozen."

"There are lots of artists around," Hank said. "One or two are tops I understand, and some pretty fair. Others, they're just trying. They get together often, have

ANTS

There's a new and better way to kill ants. It's called Roach Films. When applied to any surface with the built-in cap-applicator, it leaves a hard, dry, clean, invisible film. The film can't harm or soil any surface, but when ants touch it their legs become paralyzed and they die in two hours. A single application remains effective for months. You never see it, but it sure does get rid of ants and roaches! Roach Films is available at Belk-Tyler's, 3rd Floor. —Adv

Staton Hurls No - Hitter As All-Stars Triumph, 13-0

Striking out 17 batters as he twirled a no-hit, no-run game, 12-year-old Charles Staton led the Greenville All-Stars of the Little League to a resounding 13-0 victory over the Williamston entry in the District I tournament yesterday at Elm Street Park here.

The All-Stars rapped three Williamston pitchers for a total of 11 hits, aided by five Williamston errors to pile up their 13-run margin.

Staton was in top form as he hurled a sizzling fast ball past batter after batter. He walked seven men. The right-handed fireballer allowed his teammates only two fielding chances and took one of them himself. Staton allowed only two infield ground balls during the entire game.

Walker Allen led the Greenville hitting attack with a home run, single and double in four trips to the plate. Billy Cox also blasted a four-bagger, driving in the first All-Star run of the game in the top of the second. Allen's homer came in the third with two on.

The All-Stars advance in the tournament to meet the Tarboro Eager Beavers, who squeezed out a 1-0 triumph over the Tarboro Little Leaguers yesterday in a ten-inning marathon at Guy Smith Stadium here. The two teams will meet in Tarboro at 4:30 tomorrow. The winner of that contest will play Kinston, which defeated Farmville 10-8 in a game called after five innings by curfew.

In the event that Greenville downs Tarboro, the Kinston-Greenville contest will be held here at 5 p.m. Thursday.

Greenville had its big inning in the fifth yesterday. Nobles, leading off, grounded out but three All-Star hits and three Williamston errors made for a five-run scoring spree for the local club.

A crowd of over 400 spectators cheered the winning Staton as he left the mound and was mobbed by his happy teammates.

Umpire Kindness Is Latest Thing

CINCINNATI, O. (UP) — In a move that may be the start of "be kind to umpires week," National League President Warren Giles today tried to make the hot weather a little easier on his league's men-in-blue.

Giles instructed his umpires that on extremely hot days the man working behind the plate can take off the chest protector after 4 1/2 innings and switch positions with one of the other umpires for the last half of the game.

Men did not set foot on the American continent until 1895.

Four-Way Tie In Softball

The Greenville Men's Softball League drew into a four-way tie for first place here last night as the Granites shut out the Carolina Dairies by a 4-0 count behind ice two-hit pitching of Fuller in a game at Rose Field.

Carolina Dairies' only safeties were a single by Carraway in the fourth and a two-bagger by Hodges in the last inning.

Tonight at 8:00, Garner, Wynne and Manning will meet the Granites in the first game of a double header which will begin playoffs to decide the second-half winner. Home Builders will play Carolina Dairies in the second game. The winners of tonight's play will meet tomorrow night at 8 to decide the second-half champs. A consolation game between tonight's losers will follow the championship contest.

Pierce Is Real Shutout Artist

Lefthander Takes Over Strikeout Lead In Majors With 124

By CARL LUNDQUIST
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP)—Trying to pick the pitcher of the next major league no-hitter is a grab-bag proposition, but a likely prospect today was lefty Billy Pierce of the White Sox.

The trim speed hurler had another near miss Monday night when he turned in a two-hit 1-0 over Washington as the White Sox stayed five games behind the first place Yankees.

It was his fourth shutout and his fifth low-hit game of the year. Previously he had a one-hitter, another two-hitter, a three-hitter and a five-hitter.

A ninth-inning unearned run beat Washington pitcher John Schmitz in a tinging duel of southpaws as Chicago retaliated for a 1-0 defeat suffered Sunday against Senator hurler Walt Masterson. Schmitz himself started the trouble when he hit Tom Wright with a pitch. Bob Wilson bunted and third baseman Ed Yost threw to second in time to force Wright but rookie shortstop Jerry Snyder dropped the ball and was knocked unconscious as Wright hit the bag, then continued to third from where he scored on a fly by Sherman Lollar.

Pierce, winning his 13th game, also struck out nine to take the major league lead with a total of 124, one more than Robin Roberts of the Phils.

The Yankees had another picnic against the rag-bag Browns, pumeling them for an 18-hit, 11-3 triumph behind Whitey Ford, who didn't work very hard in achieving his 12th victory, tops for the New York staff. He gave up 11 hits but contributed four singles himself.

The Yankees pounded out four triples, two by Hank Bauer and one each by Phil Rizzuto and Billy Martin, and doubles by rookie Gus Triandos, making his debut at first base. Yogi Berra, and Mickey Mantle, Irv Noren, like Ford, got four hits. Bauer and Mantle each drove in three runs.

In a rain-plagued game, finally shortened to seven innings, the Dodgers edged Milwaukee, 1-0, as pitcher Russ Meyer was his own co-star, hurling a four-hitter and driving in the only run with a single as Brooklyn stretched its National League lead to 8 1/2 games. Duke Snider hit a Dodger homer in the eighth but that was wiped off the books when rain prevented Milwaukee from completing its turn at bat in that frame. It was Meyer's second straight shutout over Milwaukee and his 11th victory against four defeats.

The winning run came in the seventh when George Shuba walked and moved up on an infield out. Billy Cox was purposely passed but Meyer who had been hitless in his previous 26 times at bat avenged the snub by hitting the winning single.

Lefty Joe Nuxhall pitched his first big league shutout winning 5-0 over the Pirates with a five-hitter at Cincinnati as Andy Nick set the batting pace with a two-run homer and a double. It was Nuxhall's first complete game and he pitched hitless ball until the eighth after giving up two singles in the first inning. It was his fifth triumph.

Mangrum Takes Title With 275

CHICAGO (UP) — Lloyd Mangrum, who has won more money on a golf course than any other man since World War II, had another $3,420 to pocket today for his third triumph in six years in the annual "All American" open at Tam O'Shanter.

Mangrum, never far off the pace during the 72-hole event, came through with a five under par 67 on the final round for a total score of 275, six over Byron Nelson's 1945 record, but 13 under par and three strokes ahead of his nearest competitors.

Trailing him at 278, and each earning $2,160, were Ted Kroll, Utica, N.Y., and Sam Snead, White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. Kroll finished with two birdies for a 67, while Snead had a birdie and an eagle in the last four holes for a 68.

Murray Gresson, Wake Forest basketball coach, has a record of 193 wins and 178 losses in 18 years with the Deacons.

What Car Belongs Here?

Not many people would hesitate in naming the car they feel belongs in that inviting driveway.

It's the entrance to a fine American home, with a tradition of gracious living behind its handsome pillars—and the car which so obviously belongs before it is a Cadillac.

But here is a fact which it is important to remember—a Cadillac likewise belongs in the driveways of millions of other American homes which are far more modest than the beautiful structure shown in the illustration above. For it is practical, as well as thrilling, to own a Cadillac.

Listen, if you doubt it, to these amazing and significant facts:

—there are twenty-two models of other makes of American motor cars which actually cost more than the lowest-priced Cadillac

—a Cadillac will actually run farther on a gallon of gasoline than numerous cars which are built and sold primarily for economy!

—a Cadillac is so dependable and long-lived that it is just about as economical to service and maintain as any car you could buy.

—and, finally—according to authentic used car evaluations—a Cadillac may be expected to return a greater percentage of its cost at the time of resale than any other car built in America.

In view of these significant facts, don't you think you should consider a Cadillac for your driveway? Whether you live in a mansion or a house designed for easy living—a Cadillac belongs.

You can buy a Cadillac for prestige and glamour—or you can buy it for economy and common sense. And whichever you buy it for, you'll get all four.

Better come in and see us today. We'll gladly give you the facts and a demonstration.

Patrolman Saves Motorists' Tires

OKLAHOMA CITY (UP)—State patrolmen Roy Clinton and J. B. Cross figured today they saved motorists from having several thousand flat tires on Oklahoma's new Turner Turnpike.

A St. Louis carpenter, Harry C. Dean, lost a keg of nails off a trailer Saturday night. The keg broke and nails showered all over the superhighway.

The two patrolmen spent 90 minutes, much of the time on their hands and knees, sweeping and picking up nails.

Promises Support For State Drive Of Bond Issues

RALEIGH (UP)—Sen. Alton Lennon has promised his "unqualified support" of the statewide campaign for approval of bond issues totaling $72,000,000 for schools and mental hospitals in a referendum scheduled Oct. 3.

The state's recently appointed junior senator told Gov. William B. Umstead in a letter received here yesterday, "it will be a privilege for me to be of assistance in any way."

"There is no question about the acute prevailing necessity for both programs," Lennon said.

Citizens will vote for or against bond issues of $50,000,000 for public schools and $22,000,000 for improvement to the state's mental hospitals.

Frog Level Man In County Jail For Bond Default

James Oscar Wilks of the Frog Level community was being held in Pitt County jail this morning in default of bond pending a hearing in Farmville's recorder's court next Tuesday.

Wilks was arrested Saturday on charges of assault and taking an automobile belonging to Robert Lee Justice Friday night.

According to county officials, Wilks was out on bond at the time on a previous charge of breaking, entering and larceny, for which he will get hearing in the August criminal term of Superior Court.

His bond now has been set at $500 for each case.

Pitt Sheriff's officers also reported nothing has been discovered missing from the general merchandise store of J. P. Davenport in Pactolus following a break-in Saturday night.

The intruder apparently entered the establishment through a window after prizing loose protective bars on the outside. Deputies Jasper Lee Mills, Lloyd Manning and Captain S. B. Dorsey, special investigator, have been working on the case.

Grifton Adopts Paving Program

GRIFTON—The Grifton Board of Commissioners last night adopted the recommendation of the "Pitt Carolina Program Committee" that the town of Grifton adopt the paving program according to plans it had submitted.

Mayor Sam C. Nelson said the board adopted the program, but with the amendment that no paving be laid in the Town of Grifton unless supervised by a local engineer.

The mayor, with approval of the members of the board, appointed George Gardner Sugg chairman of the Grifton Recreation Commission. Sugg, a member of the Board of Commissioners, succeeds W. H. Gower, who resigned.

The remainder of the monthly meeting was devoted to routine business.

Commissioners present were W. C. Chauncey, W. E. Hart, George Gardner Sugg and Roger Johnson. Ben G. Tucker was absent.

Nation's Stock Of Grain Below Report Of 1952

RALEIGH—Stocks of grain (corn, wheat and oats) in both on-farm and off-farm positions in North Carolina as of July 1 totaled 12,067,000 bushels, or 28 percent below last year. Stocks of corn totaled 10,877,000 bushels or 28 percent below last year. Total stocks of wheat at 408,000 bushels are 40 percent below the 680,000 bushels held on July 1, 1952. On-farm and off-farm stocks of oats totaled 801,000 bushels—29 percent below last year's July 1 stocks, the Federal Crop Reporting Service shows.

In the United States July 1 corn stocks in all positions totaled 1,273 million bushels, second largest stocks on record for this date and nearly a third larger than a year ago. Stocks of wheat totaled 559 million bushels—more than double those on July 1, 1952.

New Deputy Dog Warden In County

Pitt Health Officer, Dr. Walter C. Humbert, announced today the appointment of a new deputy dog warden for the county.

Take Up Insurance, School Bond Referendum

School Board Meets

Matters of student insurance, school consolidation and the state school bond referendum took important steps during the meeting of the Pitt County Board of Education yesterday.

The board voted to adopt for the 1953-54 school year the student insurance program proposed by the Colonial Life and Accident Insurance Company which offers coverage for students at the rate of $2 per year per student.

Optional Student Insurance

The coming school year will be the fifth in which an optional student accident insurance program has been offered in Pitt County. Conley pointed out that the $2 premium for the coming school year is more than the $1 premium which has been adopted in past years, but he said the school board expressed the opinion the coverage offered under the program was more in keeping with needs of the students.

Under the optional program a student is covered by insurance during the period of one hour before the school day begins until one hour after the school day ends, while enroute to or from school and while on school premises.

Conley said that last year approximately 80 per cent of the students in Pitt County schools were covered under the optional insurance program.

The matter of insurance on students participating in football was left by the board to the individual schools, the superintendent said.

After discussing the proposed state-wide referendum on a bond issue for schools, the Pitt County Board of Education yesterday went on record as favoring the issue and will ask Parent-Teacher Associations and other organizations connected with Pitt schools to support the bond issue. Conley asserted money made available through such a bond issue would enable Pitt County to construct some needed buildings and replace some older buildings now in use in the school system.

Bruce Consolidation

The board yesterday ordered the consolidation of the Bruce Negro school with the Falkland Negro school because of poor attendance at the Bruce school. Conley said under the consolidation move students from Bruce school will attend Falkland Negro school, and approximately 90 students who formerly attended Falkland Negro school will be transferred to the new Sully Branch school. The shift, he said, should increase the Sully Branch school from its three-teacher status of last year to a seven-teacher school.

Also approved was the sale of the Post Oak Negro school north of

Dulles Goes To Korea For Talks

Believes Conferences With Syngman Rhee Will Help Assure Peace

By RUTHERFORD POATS
United Press Staff Correspondent
SEOUL, Korea (UP) — U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles arrived in Korea tonight and said he believed his forthcoming talks with President Syngman Rhee will help assure achievement of an "honorable and lasting peace."

Dulles said in a written statement that his delegation, which included Army Secretary Robert Stevens, would attempt to develop a common policy with South Korea "for the unification by peaceful means of all Korea."

A 19-gun salute greeted the Dulles plane as it landed here more than 12 hours later. Bad weather had forced it to turn back to Shemya air base in the Aleutians.

"I hope and believe that these talks, conducted as they will be on the basis of mutual respect and mutual cooperation, will help to assure that the respite from war now made possible by the armistice will result in the achievement of an honorable and lasting peace," Dulles said.

Dulles said his mission to Korea should serve as evidence to the world that the United States "respects the views of Korea, that we intend to cooperate in peace as well as in war and that we shall try to concert our common effort for the unification by peaceful means of all Korea."

The first round of talks with Rhee is scheduled to begin Wednesday morning at the presidential mansion.

Dulles declined to answer questions on whether he expects to conclude and sign a U. S.-Korean defense treaty during his four-day stay.

"We have not worked out the agenda yet with President Rhee," he said.

U. S. Ambassador to the United Nations Henry Cabot Lodge accompanied the secretary of state, Dulles said, so that "he will be fully aware of the viewpoint of the Republic of Korea when he leads our delegation to the Aug. 17 meeting of the General Assembly."

The party also included Undersecretaries of State Walter S. Robertson, who helped win Rhee's agreement to the armistice, and Carl McCord.

The party was greeted by high South Korean government officials. Dulles reviewed a South Korean army, navy, air force and marine honor guard.

Dulles came to Korea to keep his promise that he would confer with Rhee on a "common front" policy for the Korean peace conference which must be convened before Oct. 27, according to the armistice terms.

'Operation Big Switch' Frees Americans Tonight

First Prisoners Returning

By LEROY HANSEN
PANMUNJOM, Korea, Wednesday (UP) — Seventy Americans, and more than 300 other U. N. fighting men, will step through the bamboo curtain to freedom here today in the first phase of "Operation Big Switch."

They will be the first of 12,763 Allied prisoners of the Reds to be returned under the prisoner exchange provisions of the Korean armistice.

Thirty-five wounded and sick American captives of the Communists will be the first men freed, at exactly 9 a. m. today (7 p. m. Tuesday EST) if the Reds stick to their promised time-table.

After they have been identified, their names will be flashed to American newspapers and radio and television stations.

Two hours after the 35 ailing Americans have been returned to democracy, 35 more G. I.'s, described as "healthy" by their Red captors, will walk into the checkpoint.

At the same time that the first Allied prisoners gain their freedom, the United Nations will hand over 2,400 North Koreans and Chinese who want to return to Communism.

The Communists will return 400 captives daily and receive 2,400 from the Allies until "Operation Big Switch" ends.

Although lists of prisoners have been exchanged by both sides, there will be hope that the long roll call of 3,313 Americans to be freed during the next 30 days will include the names of missing soldiers whose whereabouts or fate never has been accounted for by the Communists.

An estimated 10,000 missing Americans went through "forced marches." According to the prisoners released in "Operation Little Switch" last April. Many may have frozen to death or died of starvation and inadequate medical care in Korea's terrible winters of 1950 and 1951.

A Red Cross representative estimated at least 2,000 Americans or Communist-held prisoners of other nationalities already had reached the nearby railroad at Kaesong, the Communist camp.

Both sides exchanged Red Cross inspection and comfort teams at Panmunjom.

The Allied team of Americans, British and Danes and men of four other Western Nations went North hoping to solve the mystery of the missing 10,000 men, but it was doubtful they would gain any information.

The Red Cross teams were informed they would not be permitted to hand out the 52,000 tons of comfort items to prisoners awaiting repatriation, that this

East Berlin Communists Disrupt Distribution Of Food Parcels

Water Hoses Stop Demonstrations

BERLIN (UP) — West Berlin police today used water hoses to break up a demonstration by 2,000 East Berlin Communists who entered the West sectors of the city in an attempt to disrupt the distribution of "Eisenhower food parcels" to hungry East Germans.

The Reds apparently ordered their "goon squads" into the West sectors of the city to stir up trouble in an attempt to divert attention from new outbreaks of anti-Communist demonstrations and strikes which are sweeping Soviet-run East Germany.

The squads of Communist toughs concentrated on food distribution offices in two West Berlin centers. They attempted to discourage East Berliners from accepting American food parcels.

West Berlin police rushed to the scene and readily drove off the Red agitators.

Communist police were reported stationed around food warehouses throughout the Soviet zone as a precaution against raids by rebellious East Germans who have been barred by Russian tanks and guns from obtaining American food in West Berlin.

Tens of thousands of East Germans also were reported engaged in strikes and slowdowns in protest against Communist restrictions and terror obstructing the Western food relief program.

The Northwest German radio in the British zone reported Communist police stationed around guards around food warehouses with orders to "use all means" to prevent looting by hungry and angry East Germans.

There were isolated reports that East Germans who couldn't get certain foods at home and were prevented from going to West Berlin look direct action to seize stores at Communist warehouses.

The West Berlin newspaper Nacht Despeche said anti-Communists in Dessau smashed the window of a state-operated food store. The newspaper said the action was in protest against sales in state stores of food parcels.

Thousands of "Eisenhower food parcels" taken from East Germans returning from West Berlin. Reliable reports from the Soviet Zone said workers struck at the giant Leuna chemical plant at Merseburg, the Buna rubber works at Halle and plants in Magdeburg, Jena, Bitterfeld and other large industrial centers.

Mass arrests by Communist police were reported.

The unrest followed reported riots and burning of buildings Monday in a zone-wide outburst against the Red restrictions to discourage the hunger march, East Germans who managed to get to Berlin through Red road and rail blockades reported disturbances in virtually every part of the Soviet Zone.

They were less widespread than in the nation-wide anti-Communist uprising last month. The situation, however, was serious enough to be reported by the Soviet Zone. Kiwanians Feed Coaches, Players At Tournament

The Kiwanis Club directors at a meeting last night voted to provide meals for the coaches and players one day in the Little League Region V tournament to be played in Greenville the week of August 17.

President Leo W. Jenkins said the directors understood that each of the service clubs will feed the players on the visiting teams one day during the tournament.

Eight Little League teams from seven states—North and South Carolina, Georgia, North and South Florida, Alabama, Tennessee and Kentucky—will participate in the Region Five Little League Tournament, Warren Carroll, Greenville recreation director, stated. Carroll is tournament director of Region 5.

The tournament gets under way at Elm Street Park in Greenville August 17. Two games will be played each day—at 3 and 5 o'clock.

During the tournament Greenville will be host to 10 distinguished guests, including Philip A. Benson of Williamsport, Pa., secretary and treasurer of Little League Baseball. Other special guests will be Little League leaders from the participating states.

One hundred twelve players and 16 coaches will come to Greenville for the tournament.

The team winning the championship of Region 5 will go to the Little League World Series. The first games will be played Tuesday, August 25.

Two Visits In County; 240 Pints Of Blood Needed

Bloodmobile Unit Is Coming

Two bloodmobiles visits to Pitt County are slated for early next week, and the combined quotas for the visits amount to 240 pints of blood.

The Red Cross bloodmobile will be in Grifton Monday from noon until 6 p. m. and in Greenville Tuesday from 9:30 in the morning until 3:30 in the afternoon.

Dr. Walter C. Humbert, Pitt Health Officer and chairman of the blood program for Pitt County, issued an urgent appeal for people of the two localities to make plans to donate blood during the visits.

The quota of 170 pints per visit of the bloodmobile is high, he said, but the blood is urgently needed only for domestic use but for the armed forces and for use in making gamma globulin to fight infantile paralysis.

The visit of the bloodmobile to Grifton is under the co-chairmanship of Thurman J. Williams and Charles R. Kline. The Christian Church of Grifton has been designated headquarters for the visit.

Officials announced today they have been notified of a change in the time originally announced for the bloodmobile's stay in Grifton. The new hours for the bloodmobile visit there will be from noon until 6 p. m. instead of from 1 p. m. until 7 p. m. as originally announced.

People in the Grifton area who will donate blood to the program were urged by the co-chairmen to telephone Grifton 2461 for an appointment to give blood.

When the bloodmobile visits Greenville on Tuesday, headquarters will be set up at St. Paul's Episcopal Church where the visit is under the sponsorship of the church. Dr. Humbert said Mrs. W. S. Bost will be in charge of the ladies who work in the canteen set up for the bloodmobile visit to Greenville, and Mrs. Charles Gaskins will be in charge of ladies who will handle the registration, reception and motor corps for the visit. B. C. Satterfield has been helping with the promotion of the visit to Greenville.

Dr. Humbert said this morning only 50 pints of blood have been pledged so far for the bloodmobile visit to Greenville Tuesday. He urged all men and women between the ages of 18 and 60 who are willing to donate blood to contact the local Red Cross office by telephoning 4222 and making appointments to give blood.

Dr. Humbert pointed out that blood donations are still urgently needed in the national blood program. Even though fighting has stopped in Korea, he said, surgery still will be performed on soldiers there for at least six months. Also, he said, blood is needed by local hospitals throughout the nation.

In addition to those needed for blood, the Pitt chairman pointed to the use which has been made in the past few months of the blood derivative gamma globulin in fighting infantile paralysis.

There have been 140,000 children under 10 years of age in 11 communities in eight states who have been inoculated with gamma globulin in recent months. Likewise there have been another 10,000 household contacts with polio given gamma globulin inoculations during the period.

To produce that much gamma globulin, Dr. Humbert said, required some 525,000 pints of blood.

Efforts presently are being made to acquire gamma globulin for use in inoculation in Avery County. So far, the local blood program chairman said, use of gamma globulin in the current year has been 20 per cent above the anticipated figure.

Allies And Communists Try Out Hospitality

By Frederick C. Palston
United Press Staff Correspondent
PANMUNJOM, Korea (UP) — The Allied and the Communist captivities tried out each other's hospitality today for the first time since they stopped killing each other.

Both sides sent joint Red Cross teams into the other's rear area to give aid and comfort to sick and wounded prisoners.

"The Communists, it was their first taste of the American invention, the helicopter, and they reacted with a combination of controlled fear and delight.

"For the 30 Allies from nine different nations, it was a lesson in Oriental patience. They had to wait more than five hours in the hot Korean sun while the Communists prepared for their trip.

Marine Captain At Cherry Point Held For Murder

NEW BERN, N. C. (UP) — Marine Corps Capt. Obie W. Stover, Crossett, Ark., was held on a murder charge today in the shooting death of his wife in their apartment at the nearby Cherry Point Marine Air Station.

Stover, 30, was arrested by federal authorities yesterday after an FBI investigation of Mrs. Frances Stover's death June 6. A Marine Corps spokesman said at the time of the shooting that it was "apparently accidental."

According to the charge, Stover shot his 28-year-old wife, a native of Spring Hill, La., during a drunken brawl. The couple's two children were in the apartment at the time.

Stover, a World War II veteran, was ordered held for trial in federal district court here Oct. 19.

Tobacco Growers Generally Happy At Border Sales

LUMBERTON (UP)—North Carolina tobacco growers were generally pleased today with the opening of the border sales to the eight Border Belt markets yesterday and the average was estimated unofficially at $53 per hundred pounds.

Few farmers rejected the bids on their leaf as sales began at Tabor City and Whiteville. Only an estimated five per cent of the heavy volume of opening day offerings went to the Flu-Cured Stabilization Corp. under the government loan program.

The federal and state departments of agriculture did not issue a separate report summing up opening day sales for the North Carolina Border Belt markets. Instead the agencies combined the report on initial Tar Heel sales with the report on the third day of sales on the 11 South Carolina markets which opened originally last Thursday.

The report said average prices over the whole area Monday were steady to $1 to $4 higher than quotations last Friday on South Carolina leaf sales.

Prices on the South Carolina markets last Friday were listed by the agriculture departments as about $50.75 per hundred, indicating the opening average on North Carolina Border Belt markets yesterday was near $53 per hundred.

The Agriculture Department report for North and South Carolina sales yesterday said lugs, cutters, and the small volume of leaf offered were steady to $1 per hundred pounds higher than prices on South Carolina markets last Friday. Primings gained $1 to $4 while most midprimes rose $1 to $3.

Quality was better because of increased volume of fair quality offerings and less low and nondescript. The bulk of sales consisted of low and fair primings, fair and good lugs, low and fair cutters and nondescript.

The volume of sales was heavy on most of the markets which opened Monday, the report said. But was light on some markets.

State General Fund Still Rises

RALEIGH (UP)—The state's general fund income still is rising, a report by Revenue Commissioner Eugene Shaw showed today.

Collections for the first month of the current fiscal year totaled nearly $11,117,000, an increase of $510,664 or nearly five per cent over receipts for the same month a year ago, Shaw said.

The increase in sales tax collections was considerably less than that shown in July a year ago, but was "indicative of stability," Shaw wrote Gov. William B. Umstead in a letter accompanying his regular monthly fiscal report.

Increases were shown in collections from the sales tax, franchise tax, beverage tax, and inheritance tax, Shaw said, but decreases were recorded in income and privilege tax collections.

Receipts from the sales tax for the month totaled $4,596,000, only about $711,000 or 1.5 per cent more than was collected in July, 1952, Shaw said. He noted that in July 1952 sales tax collections were more than 12 per cent higher than they had been in the same month of the preceding year.

Last Minute Flurry To Win New Floor Leader

WASHINGTON (UP) — Supporters of Sen. William F. Knowland predicted he would ride out a last-minute flurry of opposition today and win overwhelming election as Senate Republican floor leader.

The 46 Republican Senators were called to a party caucus at 2 p. m. e.d.t. to fill the leadership vacancy created by the death of Sen. Robert A. Taft. Knowland has held the post on an acting basis since Taft became ill nearly two months ago.

Although there was some grumbling about the early date fixed for the election, the 45-year-old Californian was an odds-on favorite to win the job in his own right, probably without competition.

The election of Knowland would create another leadership vacancy in the chairmanship of the Senate.

Republican Policy Committee which Knowland has headed since last January, Sen. Homer Ferguson (R-Mich.) was regarded as a probable choice for the policy chairmanship.

Some protests erupted Monday to form what Knowland's friends regarded as a backfire to block his election.

These complaints came in the form of letters and verbal objections to the Senate Republican Policy Committee, which decided last Saturday to hold the election today.

In a letter to Sen. Eugene D. Millikin (Colo.), chairman of the Senate GOP caucus, Bridges said he had received several messages objecting to the early election. He said he saw no immediate need to vote.

No 'Utopian Extravanzas' For Farmers, Committee Told Today

AMHERST, Mass. (UP)—Farmers don't want "utopian extravaganzas," the House Agriculture Committee was told here today.

Carlisle I. Pickett, executive secretary of the Massachusetts Farm Bureau Federation, said the "dangerous delusion" has arisen that the farmer cannot compete with the rest of the economy on an independent basis.

"It has become almost accepted economic dogma that the farmer cannot run his business like anyone else," Pickett said in a statement before the committee which opened coast hearings on new farm price support legislation.

Farmers, he said, have "a grave mistrust as to the political motives of those who have saddled us with our expressed desires with the rigid price support, the mountainous pile of purchased and stored products."

"The greatest political mistake in history was the set idea that elections could not be won without pampering the farmers," Pickett said. "It begins to appear that farmers alone will never convince the Congress that they really do not want utopian extravaganzas but only the things they do ask for."

"Even after 20 years of constant indoctrination into the idea that it is a function of government to pay farmers for practices they should do as good business men, they are relatively few who believe it," he said.

Speakers from northeastern dairy, poultry and potato farmers were the first of hundreds of "grass roots" witnesses scheduled to testify this summer and fall before the touring House committee.

Today's hearing on the University of Massachusetts campus will be followed by another at Caribou, Me. on Aug. 8. In October the committee will leave Washington for six weeks in the South, Southwest, Midwest and Far West.

The farm price support law now on the books expires at the end of 1954 and in January Congress will begin writing a replacement.

Most farm bloc congressmen favor the current system under which supports for corn, cotton, wheat and other basic crops are pegged at 90 per cent of the "farmer's power" parity level.

Congress Paves Way To Large Cuts In Cotton Acreage Law

By PATRICIA WIGGINS
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP) — Congress paved the way for possible big cuts in cotton acreage next year, particularly in the West, by going home without acting on hotly-disputed changes in current farm law.

With federal marketing quotas a possibility on next year's cotton crop, Westerners waged a strong fight to get Congress to soften the hefty cut-back in acreage which Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson now is free to impose.

The House did pass a bill which would have satisfied both Western and Southern producers. But the Senate failed to act because Agriculture Committee Chairman Sen. George D. Aiken (R-Vt.) thought the matter would be deadlocked in a floor debate.

As farm law now stands Benson might be able to restrict the nation's cotton acreage next year to 17,500,000 acres — down about 28 per cent from the estimated 24,618,000 acres planted this year.

Because state cuts would be based on average production during the past five years, and Western acreage only recently has skyrocketed, states like California, Texas and New Mexico face the biggest reductions.

Although it's still too early to tell whether Benson will set the national acreage allotment at the minimum level allowed, or even if he will call out quotas, Westerners wanted to take no chances.

They asked that the national acreage allotment be based on production over the past three years and that no state get a cut of more than 25 per cent. The Southerners opposed any percentage limit on states' reductions but wanted minimum acreage allotment pushed up to 22,500,000 acres.

The compromise bill passed by the House would have allowed no state to take more than a 25 per cent cut and not acreage at 22,500,000 acres.

The first official report on estimated 1953 cotton output will be made next Monday. Benson will have two more monthly estimates after that before the Oct. 15 deadline for a decision on cotton quotas in 1954.

Hiring Of Hands For Tobacco Work Here Hits Peak

The peak in employment of extra hands for this harvesting year's tobacco crop in Pitt County appears to have been reached during the last week, judging from a report of the North Carolina Employment Service office here.

Douglas R. Taylor, farm placement interviewer, estimated that about 15 per cent of the approximately 700 hands imported from out-of-state and other North Carolina counties have returned home.

This would leave about 600 still in the county to help wind up housing of this year's crop, remainder of which is expected to be banded for the most part this week.

In the case of workers contacted through Georgia employment offices, these are expected to be back in their home state by August 15 to help pick cotton, the employment office disclosed.

However, for others, such as the migratory crews brought in from Florida, this return arrangement does not apply.

Tobacco hands have come into the county from four other states this year—Florida, Alabama, South Carolina, and Georgia—in addition to those from other counties in North Carolina.

Although Baltimore and Washington are only 38 miles apart, it is cheaper to transport gasoline by water 200 miles on Chesapeake Bay and the Potomac than by road.

District Rotary Governor Addresses Greenville Club

Charles McCullers, governor of Rotary District 279, made his annual visit to the Greenville Rotary club yesterday, meeting with club officers and committee chairmen yesterday afternoon and addressing the club at its meeting last night.

During the afternoon session, Governor McCullers discussed club functions and organization with local officers and received reports from each of the 30 committees of the Greenville Rotary club.

McCullers complimented the local club on its organization and work. At the meeting last night, the district governor discussed for the club the importance of Rotary work in club service, vocational service, community service and international service. He urged members to play their part in Rotary activities, assuring that every person is looked to by someone else as an example of how to live.

The strength and prestige which prevails in Rotary, he said, is because of the men who make up the organization all over the world. Rotary was the first national and international civic club, and is now represented in 87 countries and geographical regions, he said. "It is an organization built on friendship, fellowship and service," McCullers asserted. He pointed to the growth of Rotary in North Carolina and in district 279 since the first club in the state was formed in 1914.

The common goal of all Rotary clubs, he said, is to make their communities and the world a better place in which to live.

McCullers announced that an inter-city Rotary meeting will be held in Greenville August 21 at which North Carolina's Lt. Governor Luther Hodges will be the principal speaker. Clubs which will be included in the inter-city meeting will be Greenville, Ayden, Bethel, Farmville and Washington.

Visiting Rotarians at last night's meeting in addition to the district governor were J. B. Brittle, president of the Winston Rotary club, Jack Quinley and Wilbur Ormond of Ayden. Other guests were Col. Harry Hagerty and Dr. Robert G. Brame.

President Badger Johnson presided at the meeting, and McCullers was introduced by Past District Governor James Butler.

Local Lions Hear Convention Report At Weekly Meeting

The Greenville Lions Club last night were presented a program, which was divided into three parts, one part dealing with highway safety, one with the recent Lions Convention in Chicago and the last with work with Crippled Children.

Cpl. C. E. Whitfield of the State Highway Patrol, stationed in Greenville, delivered a brief one minute talk to the service group as part of the Department of Motor Vehicles drive to stress highway safety.

Whitfield told the audience that the number of highway accidents in Pitt is on the increase and that the fatality rate is steadily going up. The officer urged that all motorists use the utmost caution in driving, in order to increase road safety.

Next Lion Marvin Aldridge showed movies taken at the Lions Convention in Chicago which was attended by four local Lions. The movies dealt with the scenic attractions enroute to Chicago and the colorful parade which lasted several hours.

Vick Forrest then introduced Calvin Ross, field representative of the North Carolina Society of Crippled Children, who spoke briefly to the club.

Ross outlined the work that the society, which was organized in 1936, does and stressed the fact that their work is with any and all persons who are handicapped and not just crippled in the sense that most people refer to.

E. W. Harvey announced that as many of the Lions as possible have been asked to contribute blood at the next stop of the bloodmobile to Greenville August 11.

All donors are asked to sign up now. A board of directors meeting followed the regular session.

On Wednesday evening at her attractive home on Evans Street, Miss Clara Louise Moye delightfully entertained 20 couples with an enjoyable dance, having as her honor guest Miss Flora May Holliday of Marion, S. C., house guest of Miss Rose Hadley. Punch and sandwiches were served on the balcony and dancing was enjoyed from 10 to 12 o'clock.

On Monday afternoon at the Wayside Tea Room, Miss Aileen Critcher was hostess at a delightful bridge party complimentary to Miss Holliday. Seven tables were arranged for the games. Miss Emily Moye making top score was presented a string of choke beads while the guest of honor was remembered with a beautiful bracelet. Upon arrival the guests were served tea and sandwiches and after the games delicious refreshments consisting of walnut cream and chocolate cake were served.

Barn Of Tobacco Destroyed In Fire

A tobacco barn belonging to Jessie Anderson, located behind the old NYA center in the Brookgreen section was destroyed by fire around noon Monday.

A fire truck from Greenville's main fire station was enroute to the fire at the time an alarm was pulled in for the blaze.

Firemen were unable to save the burning building which was caving in when they arrived, but stood by to prevent the spread of the blaze to shop buildings of the old NYA center.

Anderson said that there was no insurance on the barn or its contents which consisted of 650 sticks of tobacco. The barn was being cured with oil burners and the oil from a busted drum fed the fire for a long time, giving off a dark thick cloud of black smoke.

News From Farmville

By JOYCE CORBETT

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Letchworth and Mrs. Z.B.T. Cox attended the annual Adult Conference of the Christian Church held at Atlantic Christian College in Wilson Monday through Friday of last week.

Mrs. Edison Moore and Mrs. Archie Cayton attended the conference by commuting from Farmville.

Others attending the conference during the week were: Rev. Cox, Sam D. Bundy, Chandler Cox, Mrs. Arch Flanagan, Mrs. Robert Rouse and Mrs. L. E. Turnage.

Group 4 of the Christian Church met with Mrs. Z. M. Whitehurst at her home on West Wilson Street last Tuesday night. Mrs. Louise Harris presided.

"Sound of Many Voices" was the topic of the devotion presented in an inspiring manner by Mrs. Howard Moyer. The meditation stressed brotherhood.

During the business discussion the group voted to sell Christmas cards; also church duties were discussed.

Mrs. Harris was remembered with a lovely dish garden by the members as this meeting was on her birthday. Mrs. Whitehurst served lemonade, chicken salad sandwiches and sand tarts during the social hour.

Group I of the Christian Church met Tuesday night in the home of Mrs. Robert Lee Smith with Mrs. Ted L. Albritton, group chairman, in charge.

Plans were made for new and old projects in the fall. Plans were made to contribute to the Black Mountain Assembly and the possibility of aiding in the support of an orphan.

Mrs. Albritton led in the meditation of the evening and made an inspiring talk on the theme "Add Up Your Blessings."

Mrs. Albert Sidney Darden was welcomed into the group from another group of the Fellowship.

In the social hour that followed the meeting Mrs. Smith served strawberry ice cream pie with salted nuts.

Tommy Little, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Little, who entered the U. S. Army July 8, is now at Fort Campbell, Ky. His address is Pvt.

Workers Send In Applications For Border Permits

Applications for border permits from Pitt county workers seeking tobacco curing jobs in Canada now are coming in at the Greenville office of the North Carolina Employment Service.

W.B. Dillingham, manager, said today he has received six so far and expects the number to increase to the some 50 to 60 he has had annually for the last two years.

Applications are made through the Canadian Employment Service, he explained, and are brought in to the local office where workers are issued permits in duplicate for getting into Canada and, later, back into this country.

Dillingham said most of the demand is for work in Ontario where the procedures for curing tobacco are similar to those used in North Carolina, employing oil and some coal burners.

He added that most of the permits would be issued between now and August 15.

Richard Tommy Little, R. A. 14496644, 2nd Replacement Co. 2nd Airborne Div., Fort Campbell, Ky.

L. E. Walston is a patient at Duke Hospital.

Chief Taylor, a former resident and chief of Farmville, is now critically ill at Pitt Memorial Hospital in Greenville. He is living in Greenville at the present.

Mrs. L. S. Wilmoughby and Mrs. R. L. Joyner were Raleigh visitors last Wednesday.

Miss Sarah Smith of Norfolk, Va. is spending some time with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Smith.

Mrs. J. O. Pollard, who has been on a visit at Virginia Beach, has returned to her home.

Mr. and Mrs. Ammy Darden and children, Jimmy and Susan, have returned home after spending a week at Atlantic Beach.

Youth In Ayden Gets Two Charges

AYDEN — A 17 year-old youth apparently could not keep out of the way of the highway patrol over the past week end.

At least Tom Joyner, 17 of Winterville, General Delivery, was arrested by Patrolman Bill Whitehurst two times for careless and reckless driving after his car was involved in two automobile accidents in less than 12 hours.

Joyner was first arrested Saturday afternoon after his car struck a car belonging to H.J. Braxton, 60, of Route 2, Greenville, which was parked at a service station near Winterville. He was charged with careless and reckless driving.

At three o'clock Sunday morning 12 hours and 30 minutes later, Joyner turned his automobile over on a rural paved road, South of Ayden.

Whitehurst stated that the boy told him he went to sleep at the wheel but that did not halt a second citation for careless and reckless driving.

Damage to Joyner's car was estimated at $200.

Slick tires and wet roads were blamed for a single car accident on the Renston highway around 9:45 Sunday night, Whitehurst reported.

An estimated $200 damage was listed to the car belonging to Robert Earl Stancil, 19 of Route, Ayden.

No injuries were listed.

An unknown marine is being sought today by patrolmen after his automobile left the highway 14 miles South of Greenville on NC 43, and returned into a canal.

The accident occurred at 11:00 last night Whitehurst said. The car was a total loss. It traveled 240 feet before going into the canal.

The Surface Has Just Been Scratched

For a while at least, the General Assembly's inquiry into operations of North Carolina's two dog tracks is a closed matter.

All that is left now for the special commission of five General Assembly members to do is to write their report for presentation at the 1955 session.

But what did the investigation of dog tracks operations bring out?

It confirmed the stockholders in dog racing tracks at Morehead City at Moyock; it made public the earnings of the tracks, and it brought out some public sentiment in favor of the operations of the tracks in the two localities. The findings would indicate — for lack of conflicting testimony — that there is not connection between the two race tracks in North Carolina and gambling or racketeering interests elsewhere in the nation.

The legislative commission investigating the tracks probably did as well as it could in the brief investigation in view of the clearly limited jurisdiction it had to delve into the multi-sided questions at hand. Nevertheless, there are just about as many unanswered questions about the dog tracks now as there were before the investigation.

In all fairness to the investigators and to the witnesses, the whole thing appeared a little superficial. In view of what was brought out by the investigation, it can hardly be asserted by anyone that the inquiry was a deep, searching gaze into the behind-the-scenes operations as well as the outward appearance of the operations of the two dog tracks.

In the interest of North Carolina, its people and its government, it seems to us some measure should be found to look more persistently into dog track operations in the state; and at the same time some means should be found to assure greater protection of public interests even where pari-mutual betting is legalized.

To put it concisely, it is our opinion that the investigation of the track operations just scratched the surface.

A Safety Message Carrying A 'Punch'

A vivid description of the final moments of life is something that always stirs a writer's imagination. Some attempt it, but few do the theme convincingly enough to draw a reader's fullest attention.

The following piece written for "New Items in Safety," (EBASCO SeServices Inc.) seemed to us worthy of passing on. Maybe the unknown writer's little note of warning will inspire an extra thought of safety-consciousness among its readers, and thus avert a potential traffic fatality.

10 SECONDS TO LIVE

He pushed his sleeve back, held his watch close to the lighted speedometer, squinted to read the time. A little after nine. He should be home in half an hour.

If he had known he had only ten seconds to live, he might have checked the time more closely. He might have done several things differently.

Ten seconds to live—He massaged his eyes with thumb and middle finger, trying to rub out the sand.

Nine seconds to live—He had driven almost eight hours since lunch, and was beginning to feel it.

Eight seconds to live—Lousy driving in the rain. The light from the headlights seems to soak in with the water.

Seven seconds to live—Probably need a new windshield-wiper blade. The old one just spreads the water around instead of wiping clean—Get one tomorrow.

Six seconds to live—Somebody threw a cigarette out of an oncoming car. The red glow dissolved almost before it hit the pavement.

Five seconds to live—He planted his heels on the floorboards, squirmed back in the seat, trying for comfort.

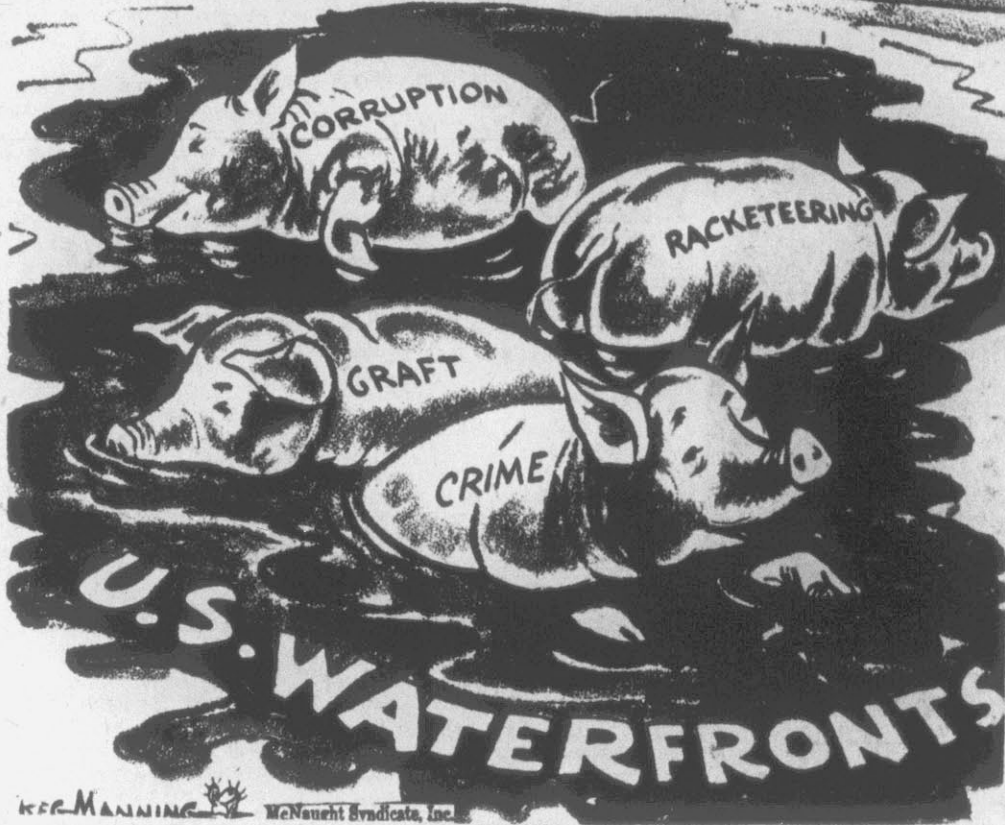

Four seconds to live—At 60 miles an hour a car covers 88 feet every second—Four seconds, 352 feet.

Three seconds to live—Something looked wrong through the blurry windshield. A tentative dab at the brake stiffened into desperate pressure as he made out an old, unlighted, slow-moving truck ahead.

Two seconds to live—Panic moved in. Turn to the left—No, a car is coming. The headlights are too close—Can't make it. Turn to the right?

One second to live—Horror numbed everything into slow motion. He was floating right into the rear corner of the truck—He opened his mouth to scream.

It has happened to lots of people; maybe not just that way, but similarly... Drive too long, eyes get tired, reactions slow down... Rain, darkness, a windshield which is difficult to see through... Driving too fast.

Somebody Told Me

I've Been Running From A Dog

The mailman who works the route by our store these days is Elbert. Averette. Yesterday he came into the store appearing to have had quite a bit of exercise. We didn't have to ask Elbert what it was all about; he readily volunteered the information: "I've been running from a dog."

Before talking to Elbert, I always thought it was a standard joke told on mailmen; that is, this business of dogs chasing them. But Elbert tells me it's common occurrence. Johnny Poell, J. A. Joyner, Norman Little and John Kovalchick have been bitten recently.

"Can I quote you on this?" I asked. "You certainly can. You can say that I don't like dogs," Elbert said with considerable emphasis.

The rules and regulations of the U. S. Post Office state that a mailman is not required to serve a house with a loose dog present. But the Greenville mailmen try to do the best possible job and usually take a chance, as Elbert did yesterday.

But Elbert thought odds were in his favor. He saw the dog, a large bird-dog, but noticed that he was tied to a love seat on the porch. He had a forewarning growl, but didn't pay any attention to it.

"There were seven steps leading up to the porch," Elbert said, "and when that dog started chasing me I didn't hit the first one on the way down."

Apparently, the dog didn't hit too many. The seven steps didn't seem to stall his pursuit after Elbert, for he drug the porch furniture down with him. But speed won out. "I was running almost as fast as you see people run in the movies," Elbert said.

Was he ashamed of his fright? Certainly not! "I've always heard," he said, "that if a man runs from a dog he always looks around to see who's watching. But I certainly didn't. All I did was look where I was going. I didn't care who was watching."

Like other Greenville mailmen, Elbert will continue to try to make deliveries in spite of dogs. But in certain cases he will probably remember that Uncle Sam doesn't require him to.

One thing is certain: A little thing like porch furniture will not hold back a dog who likes to chew on mailmen.

And I thank Elbert. JACK EDWARDS

What Other Editors Are Thinking

INLAND WATER SURVEY OF SPECIAL INTEREST (The Hertford County Herald) Governor Umstead's intention to put some new life and interest in the work of the Department of Conservation and Development, will if he can implement what he has in mind to do, add a great deal to the many-sided life of North Carolina. There is hardly any phase of life that is not directly touched by one or the other of the organizations within C&D.

The activity of the Board is directed toward overall promotion and development of the whole State, of course. But, a broad program such as the Department has in its care and keeping, has special appeal for certain sections or areas of the State. For instance, right here in this immediate section, we should have a vital stake in the planned survey and development of inland waterways—rivers, creeks, sounds, lakes, and canals—which the C&D Board ordered at its Morehead City meeting this week.

Waterways in Eastern Carolina have not had the attention they deserve from state and local government agencies. From Governor Morrison's time until now, we have talked much and done little to properly develop and utilize the water resources of the State. A beginning was made during the Scott administration; bonds were voted for enlarging the State's two principal deep water ports at Morehead City and Wilmington.

Governor Scott, even while placing his main emphasis on highway and school building, gave some impetus to the plan for inland waterway development. In the last years of his administration, he lent the influence of his office and personality to pointing out the need for such a program. Actually, a survey was proposed but never made. That Governor Umstead has seen fit to take up the program and to order the survey made should be good news to all of the State, and especially so to the Roanoke-Chowan.

Increased Interest Rate Costs Cotton Growers Money

By LYNN NISBET INTEREST — The increased interest rate which must be paid for borrowed money under the present policy of the Federal government will cost members of the C. Cotton Growers Cooperative Association a minimum of $35,000 this year, according to M. G. Mann, general manager of that enterprise. The association normally borrows from $6 to $8 million to make advances to farmers on stored cotton. Last year the rate was 2.75 per cent. The best rate obtainable this year is 3.25 per cent. Assuming no further increase in interest charges and normal borrowings the difference in total charge will be $35,000.

STATE — Congressman C. B. Deane of the eighth district has been working for months on comparative costs to borrowers with special attention to State and municipal bonds. On the floor of the House earlier this week he presented figures to show that the new government policy will cost North Carolina more than $13 million in interest on the proposed school and hospital bonds. On the basis of bond sales in November, 1950, the total carrying charges on the upcoming issue would have been $10,222,500 at a rate of 1.41 per cent. If the bonds can be sold now for 3.25 per cent, which is the lowest estimate, the total charge will be $23,567,500. That means $13 million North Carolina taxpayers are going to the big bankers, rather than into school houses and mental hospitals.

GENERAL — Deane submitted additional statistics showing that the increased cost to municipalities will be even heavier, and that installment purchasers of homes and merchandise, and merchants who handle appliances, are hard hit by the extra cost. It is particularly hard on the farmers, whose income has dropped considerably during the past year while cost of living has advanced, and might advance more as the impact of higher interest is pyramided through all the middlemen channels between the field and consumer's home.

INTEGRATED — Business men around Raleigh and visitors from other points who have been interviewed are generally happy about the integrated plans of the Department of Conservation and Development. They are especially pleased with the way the new board is approaching in the industrial development question.

CONFIDENCE — The executive secretary of one of the big chambers of commerce, who asked that he not be quoted by name, made the interesting observation that one trouble in the past has been lack of knowledge on part of local chamber of commerce folks on the one hand and prospective industries on the other as to the part the State division of commerce and industry had in the overall scheme. This lack of knowledge has resulted to some degree in lack of confidence. There have been suggestions that the State agency was being bypassed by both groups because of implied fear that there might be leaks on tips.

FORUMS — The plan proposed by Robert M. Hanes, chairman of the commerce and industry committee of the C&D board, to hold public forums at frequent intervals throughout the state, at which civic and business leaders in the areas and representatives of the State department would get together, is designed to remove any fear from the minds of local people that they are not getting a fair break. Inevitable result of that development will be increased confidence of prospective customers in the ability of the State agency to help them.

NOT NEW — Fact is, there isn't much new in these ideas,

Business Today

Steel Trade Is Large

By ELMER ROESSNER Retailing is both a business and art. The art consists of stocking exactly the amount of goods so that no sale is ever lost by being out of stock and that no money is ever lost by inability to sell every item in stock.

Art in retailing, as elsewhere, has basic rules, involving studies of customer wants, past performance records, and local indexes of income and employment. But perfection also depends on the intuitive qualities that make up an artist: a feeling of what's good and what isn't, and a skill in dramatizing, with salesmanship and advertising, those things counted upon to sell.

Now that there is to be a shift, however slight, from military to civilian production, retailers may be called upon, as never since the end of World War II, to employ both their business and art abilities to the utmost.

While their stocks are not dangerously heavy in relation to sales, they are at a point that calls for close watching. The most recent Department of Commerce figures show, on a seasonally adjusted basis, that while retail sales rose $71,000,000 from April to May, retail inventories rose $83,000,000.

The figures for May, 1952 and May, 1953 are even more disturbing. Sales this year were $320,000,000 higher but inventories were $1,664,000,000 greater.

Those are national totals. But if some businesses increased their sales more than their stocks, it can only mean that other firms did worse than the national average.

It would seem, under these circumstances, that almost every company should not only keep a close watch on its inventory situation but on its inventory as well. With fall approaching, when lines of business increase their inventories for post-vacation, back-to-school, Thanksgiving and Christmas selling, keen, cold eye should be kept on older stock. Sluggish goods should be pushed out, with price cuts and vigorous advertising.

NEW SERVICE OFFERS

PHONE-IN STENOGRAPH Stenographic service without a stenographer is made possible by a young business in New York. To send a letter, all a client has to do is to phone Albert Buchbinder's Dictation Recording Service, get plugged in on a recording machine and dictate.

Letters are transcribed on stationery deposited with the service for that purpose. They are sent out immediately or mailed to the client for signature, annotation, enclosures, etc. Clients include attorneys, doctors, representatives of out-of-town manufacturers and proprietors of small businesses. When salesmen require it, the Dictabelt recordings are mailed direct to their home office.

HOME LAUNDRY UNIT

SALES KEEP RISING Sales of household washers, dryers and ironers in the first six months of this year were 26.1 per cent higher than in the same 1951 period, the American Home Laundry Manufacturers' Association finds. Total units sold were 2,191,159. The largest total and the largest gain were in washers, total and the largest gain were in washers, with 1,828,977 units sold, up 28.5 per cent.

Greatest Period Of Heartbreak

By HAL BOYLE NEW YORK (AP)—The greatest period of heartbreak in the Korean War starts this week.

For the slow process of returning American prisoners of war must inevitably bring sadness to more homes than it does joy. This is because the last Department of Defense casualty report listed more than 11,600 soldiers as captured or missing, but the enemy admits having only 3,313 American captives.

Gen. Mark Clark thinks the Reds haven't told the full story; that they hold more of our troops prisoner than they have yet said. Whether they do or not, the probability is that most of the soldiers officially listed as missing are dead.

That is the blunt fact of any war in which both sides exchange information on the number of their prisoners. The majority of those still listed as "missing in action" will never return.

The percentage of dead will certainly be higher in such a savage war as that fought in Korea. Many of the missing died up on the battlefield and were buried by peasants in unmarked graves. Hundreds and perhaps thousands of helpless American prisoners were slaughtered by the enemy during retreats. Hundreds and perhaps thousands of others froze or starved to death in forced marches north.

It will be years before the final toll will be figured. And since the enemy still holds a vast portion of Korea, the fate of many soldiers will never be known—"missing in action" forever.

But, judging from the experience of previous wars, the present estimate of slightly more than 25,000 battle dead will almost certainly be increased to more than 30,000.

This means the candle of hope that has burned in thousands of American households for the return of a missing son or father will be extinguished in the next few months. The tragedy is that many hearts will go on blindly hoping and hoping year after year. That is the greatest cruelty of war for those behind never to know in their lifetimes the fate of someone missing they held dear.

But as the tension mounts unbearably in some homes, glad relief will flood others with each freed batch of prisoners.

How should these returning men be treated? A handful may have actually defected to the Communist side during their long imprisonment in order to gain better treatment. More may be confused, doubtful, or feel resentfully that the nation demanded too great a sacrifice of them.

It is normal for combat men to feel a bit angry about the harsh living of the homefront when they first get back. And it is quite likely some POWs will secretly resent the fact that their friends at home never had it so good while they themselves never had it so bad.

That is only human. But most of these men will come back to a hero's welcome in their old neighborhood or home town, and the warmth of that welcome probably will determine how they feel.

It is unfair and unwise, however, to prod a returned prisoner with questions and platitudes about his attitudes unless he feels like talking about his experiences. Many men back from a war cannot tell what is locked within their hearts because they feel that people who have never shared their ordeal cannot fully understand it.

They have undergone a terrible winter of the spirit, and they will thaw only in their own time. You can't hurry them.

The main thing is to let them know how glad you are they are back, how willing you are to give them any help they need, and then let them alone if they want to be alone.

What most prisoners want is to feel free.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS THE WHEELS GO ROUND The Church has become big business—and that, incidentally, is one of the things that is the matter with the Church.

For the Church did not start out as big business. It started out a little group of people who had seen and heard certain things and were filled with an irrefragable desire to tell these things to others. Just before his ascension, Jesus referred to his disciples as witnesses and said they were to go throughout the world bearing witness to what they had seen and heard concerning him. He said nothing about a great, organized ecclesiastical machine with its clattering wheels and thousands of attendants seeing that the machinery is kept well oiled.

Of course the Church had to become an organization, and it has to be an organization today. Nobody objects to ecclesiastical organization if it is a means to an end and if the end is witnessing. But so much ecclesiastical organization today is just pride in the machine itself.

Sometimes we smile at the old testimony meetings such as characterized revival and post-revival seasons in years past. But at least those who bore testimony were willing to get on their feet and witness to the fact that religion meant something to them.

There are some things in which there is no point of neutrality, and sound religion is one of these.

NEW MARTINSVILLE, W. VA. (WETZEL RE-PUBLICAN) "The general economic level of Europe and Asia is better than it was before World War II. American taxpayers have been milked of $29 billions by the rest of the world. We think it's about time to turn the cow out to pasture and start being concerned about this country for a change."

National Whirligig

Serious Drive For UMT System

WASHINGTON—The bitter experiences of the Korean War and the gradual weakening of the anti-Russian alliance have strengthened the Administration's determination to stage a serious drive for a modified system of universal military training at the next session of Congress.

Another factor behind the decision is Washington's growing doubt that our European allies—Britain, France and Germany in particular—will ever agree and act upon the Eisenhower-Truman demand for organization of a strong European Defense Community, with adequate land, air and naval forces. This basic goal of our policy of collective security seems more distant than ever.

NATIONAL SECURITY TRAINING—Still a third consideration is the Korean demonstration that the United Nations cannot or will not mobilize its full strength against an aggressor, when it happens to be one of the great powers. On the contrary, even now London and Paris insist on a meaningless, piecemeal peace with Moscow, as well as Red China's admission to the United Nations, thereby rendering that organization less effective than it is today.

In short, the decision to ask Congress for inauguration of "national security training" to use its new and more palatable title, reflects the Capital's increasing disillusionment with the program of international cooperation under U.N. auspices.

While no high official dares to admit it publicly, the move represents a partial and tentative retreat to Herbert Hoover's plan for making over America into a self-sufficient "Gibraltar" in a military way. From the standpoint of domestic economy, the equipping and training of 1,000,000 men annually would be a permanent "shot in the arm" to business and industry.

ENTHUSIASTIC ADVOCATES—President Eisenhower's recently appointed commission to study the problem, which will report its findings to the White House on December 1, is a "loaded" body. Both the new and the holdover members are enthusiastic advocates of this system. For years they have spoken and written in favor.

The proposed training would be less drastic than methods which Congress has rejected on several tests. On reaching 18, youngsters would spend six months in actual service under intensive schedules. Thereafter, as members of the reserve for seven-and-a-half years, they would go to camp for two weeks annually, and attend lecture-drill courses twice a month.

Proponents now argue that, unless this program is undertaken soon, the present draft system must be continued for 20 or 30 years.

Eisenhower's deep concern in this question is evident from his willingness to place such a controversial and emotional issue before Congress in a reelection year. He apparently believes that the tragic lessons of history since World War II will offset the politicians' fears.

DETERMINED STRATEGY—The 1954 appropriation bills would have been from $3 billion to $5 billion higher than they are, if it had not been for the stubborn strategy of House leaders, headed by Representative John F. Taber of New York, chairman of the House Committee handling Federal finances.

When Taber noted the Senate's willingness to boost the amounts carried in the measures passed by the lower chamber, he began a blockade and a delaying action. With the ready consent of Speaker Martin, he refused to appoint members of conference committees to straighten out differences between Senate and House measures. In other words, he kept them on the shelf until the last days of the session, when tempers got short and the weather scorching.

He also forced the Senate to hold night sessions. As a result, eight major appropriation measures, including national defense and foreign aid, did not become law until four days before adjournment. When Taber and his colleagues held out against the Senate increases, threatening to keep Congress in overtime session, the Senators surrendered to the economists.

The Juniper Tree

By FAITH BALDWIN

CHAPTER FOURTEEN

"STILL wish you'd had a mind to be with us, we went to church before dinner. It was real pretty. Carol singing, and all."

"Believe me, Cas, there are few people I'd rather be with."

Cas nodded. He knew about Tim. Dave had told him suddenly, briefly, as they tramped back together from the deer hunt. He'd known before that; Hank Dawson had told him.

He said: "There's times when a man's better off alone. I know that, I've been there. Only sometimes you can't be; and for some folks, maybe it's as well."

Now winter closed in hard as iron. Ten below, 20 below, nearly 30. On bright days, or gray and windless days, Dave went out, wearing the lumberman's socks, among others, which he'd bought in town, the warm light underwear, ski trousers, George's fabulous coat, heavy gloves and a woolen toque pulled down over his ears. At first the air was painful to breathe, desert dry; cold as charity without love. But he grew used to and enjoyed it.

His life was simple; he could go out; he could stay in, provisioned against any winter, however long. He was "warm" fed and clothed. For exercise he cut wood, dragged it into the shed, stacked it. He walked through a world of great trees and small, of those which lay forlorn upon the ground and those which stood. He was, as he'd told Cas, thinner, hardened, too, his eyes clear, and his color good. He'd had no headaches since around Christmas. He dreamed less or, if he dreamed, not unpleasantly. Except now and then. Occasionally Hank got out to see him and always Cas and the boys. Weekends before the thaw and later when it froze again. Joe and Herb skated on Deer Pond. They stopped by, coming and going, bringing an extra pair of skates, persuading Dave to go along. They admired his aptitude, executing neat figures, and laughed immoderately when, carried away by his prowess, he fell flat.

"That's life for you," said Dave. "First you're up and then you're down."

The boys went back to camp with him for a soft drink. At ease on a couch, Joe consulted him. "You think I should go to college, Mr. Barton?"

"I sure do, Joe. You can get a lot out of it, depending on what you want and what you put into it. It costs plenty."

He thought: This is something I can do. Not as a substitute. Never that. But as a memorial. Better than a hundred sunrooms.

He said: "There are ways, Joe. Scholarships, for instance."

"I'd never get a scholarship, my marks aren't that good. Pops got insurance for us both, to send us to college. It's just, wouldn't I be better off working? Seems as if, after four years more at school, I'd be just where I'd have started after I got through high."

"No; you'd have a better choice of jobs."

"Pop could use me, he don't—doesn't—get any younger."

"He wants more for you than the farm."

"It's good enough for me," said Herb. "I hate school."

Joe said: "You went to college, Mr. Barton."

His candid eyes shone upon the older man. There was a measure of hero worship in them. Dave felt uneasy, and embarrassed.

"That's right."

"To learn about drugs and things?"

"Among other matters. I couldn't whip you up a prescription now but my father wanted my brother and me to have some basic knowledge because our job would be selling drugs."

Joe asked thoughtfully: "The kind of medicines you read about—like penicillin and all those?"

"Yes," said Dave, smiling.

When they'd gone the camp was quiet.

Cas carried insurance to see his boys through. So that was out. Well, it had been anyway. Rogers wasn't a man to accept favors from friend or stranger. If he couldn't help his boys, or they couldn't help themselves, he'd look no further. If he offered, Dave thought, he'd be hurt perhaps. Perhaps not. Anyway, he'd refuse.

Early in February, Dave went to the town and bought drawing pads and other materials. He would, he thought, attempt to sketch as a pastime. There was neither help nor escape for him in books.

He waited his turn in the art shop. There were other customers. Leaning on the counter, he watched and listened idly. A girl was buying tubes of paint. She had a clear, carrying voice. "I've been too busy and too broke," she said, laughing, "to get in before."

She was young. Everything about her was young—the way she stood and walked and spoke. She wasn't pretty except perhaps for her hair the color of oak leaves in autumn, and he couldn't see much of that, bundled under a woolen cap, a little escaping around her forehead and neck. She was talking about colors to the clerk, eagerly, confidently. She was, Dave thought, about 18 or 19 and he wondered dimly what it felt like to be so young.

On her way out, her arms full of packages, she glanced at him, friendly, half smiling, and he opened the door for her. She thanked him and went off down the icy street, clumping in her warm, clumsy boots. He was smiling, too, when he engaged the clerk's attention and made his purchases.

One night Cas drove in, and with him in the truck was Hank Dawson. Cas said, as Dave opened the door admitting them, blowing snow and a sharp wind: "Brought you a valentine. Pretty, ain't he?"

"I may not be Gregory Peck," said Hank tranquilly, stamping snow from his boots, shaking it from his shoulders, "but mind if I undress, Dave? I feel like a coon. Well, perhaps I'm no beauty but, brother, am I a good salesman!"

"That's a fact," admitted Cas. "Dropped in on the way home and was real surprised to find it was supper time. Phoned home and said he'd set a while. First thing I knew I'd upped my insurance. He's a smooth talker. Still and all, he's probably right, should anything happen to me," he added mildly.

"Nothing will," Hank assured him, warming his hands. "Tomorrow you'll go see Doc Mercer and time. But insurance companies are fussy."

Hank reached down, picked up a wad of paper near the stove, and absently smoothed it. Dave put out his hand, drew it back. That one had missed the stove and he wasn't the neatest housekeeper in the county.

"Hey," Hank said, "this is pretty good. Deer pond, or I miss my guess, long about sundown, by the shadows."

"I think it's bad," said Dave. "Which is why I intended to chuck it in the stove."

"Me, I couldn't draw a straight line," Hank said. He looked at Dave with respect. "I didn't know you could draw, too," he added, and glanced at the typewriter. The cover was never off except when Dave wrote letters. He hadn't written many lately, and the cover was dusty.

"I can't draw," said Dave. "I may as well admit that I can't write either. And have no desire to. But when I took this place, Hank, I thought you'd think me off my rocker holding up this way, no time limit set, like a fugitive from justice. Maybe you'd think I was, too. So I said I was a writer, as in my experience nothing writers do makes much sense to other people, and causes little comment."

"Oh, that," said Hank. "We knew it pretty soon, didn't we, Cas?"

"Why, sure."

"I had to have some excuse," Dave argued. "I couldn't say I came here to—." He stopped. He couldn't say it now; he didn't actually know.

Cas said: "You came here to cure, Dave."

Dave jumped, startled. He cried: "But that's not true! I wouldn't lie to you and Hank about that. Besides, you know me now."

"I don't mean you're sick that way, there's nothing wrong with your lungs. But you came to cure just the same."

Hank said: "We've been wishing you—I don't suppose—luck is exactly the word."

"I don't seem to get anywhere," Dave said dully.

Cas took the crumpled paper and held it carefully. "That's Deer pond, for a fact," he said. "Maybe it looks a little different to the way I see it, but I'd know it anywhere. The west side, ain't it, near the swamp?"

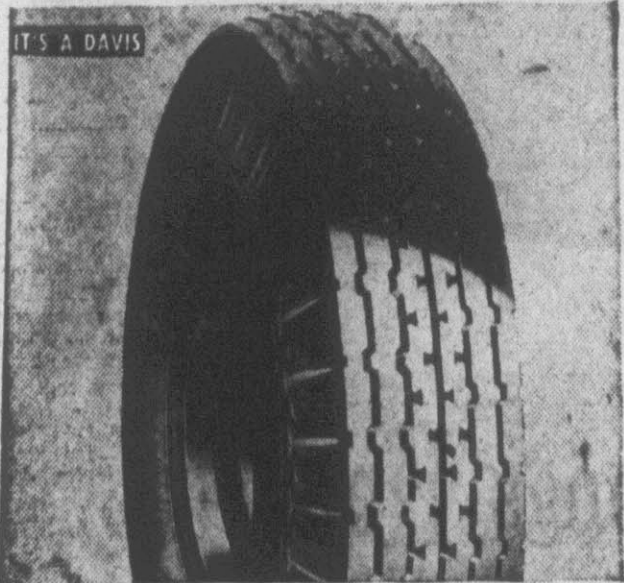

Dave nodded. "It's from memory," he explained. "I couldn't sketch when I was there that time—near sundown, as Hank guessed, so I didn't need dark glasses, but it was cold, my hands would have frozen."

"There are lots of artists around," Hank said. "One or two are tops I understand, and some pretty fair. Others, they're just trying. They get together often, have

ANTS

There's a new and better way to kill ants. It's called Roach Films. When applied to any surface with the built-in cap-applier, it leaves a hard, dry, clean, invisible film. The film can't harm or soil any surface; but, when ants touch it their legs become paralyzed and they die in two hours. A single application remains effective for months. You never see it, but it sure does get rid of ants and roaches! Roach Films is available at Belk-Tyler's, 3rd Floor. —Adv

Staton Hurls No - Hitter As All-Stars Triumph, 13-0

Striking out 17 batters as he twirled a no-hit, no-run game, 12-year-old Charles Staton led the Greenville All-Stars to the Little League to a resounding 13-0 victory over the Williamston entry in the District I tournament yesterday at Elm Street Park here.

The All-Stars rapped three Williamston pitchers for a total of 11 hits aided by five Williamston errors to pile up their 13-run margin.

Staton was in top form as he batted a sizzling fast ball past hitter after hitter. He walked seven men. The right-handed fireballer allowed his teammates only two fielding chances and took one of them himself. Staton allowed only two infield ground balls during the entire game.

Walker Allen led the Greenville hitting attack with a home run, single, and double in four trips to the plate. Billy Cox also blasted a four-bagger, driving in the first All-Star run of the game in the top of the second. Allen's homer came in the third with two on.

The All-Stars advanced in the tournament to meet the Tarboro Eager Beavers, who squeezed out a 1-0 triumph over the Tarboro Little Leaguers yesterday in a ten-inning marathon at Guy Smith Stadium here. The two teams will meet in Tarboro at 4:30 tomorrow. The winner of that contest will play Kinston, which defeated Farmville 10-8 in a game called after five innings by curfew.

In the event that Greenville downs Tarboro, the Kinston-Greenville contest will be held here at 5 p.m. Thursday.

Greenville had its big inning in the fifth yesterday. Nobles, leading off, grounded out, but three All-Star hits and three Williamston errors made for a five-run scoring spree for the local club.

A crowd of over 400 spectators cheered the winning Staton as he left the mound and was mobbed by his happy teammates.

Umpire Kindness Is Latest Thing

CINCINNATI, O. (UP)—In a move that may be the start of "be kind to umpires week," National League President Warren Giles today tried to make the hot weather a little easier on his league's men-in-blue.

Giles instructed his umpires that on extremely hot days the man working behind the plate can take off the chest protector after 4 1/2 innings and switch positions with one of the other umpires for the last half of the game.

Four-Way Tie In Softball

The Greenville Men's Softball League drew into a four-way tie for first place here last night as the Granites shut out the Carolina Dairies by a 4-0 count behind the two-hit pitching of Fuller in a game at Rose Field.

Carolina Dairies' only safeties were a single by Carraway in the fourth, and a two-bagger by Hodges in the last inning.

Tonight at 8:00, Garner, Wynne and Manning will meet the Granites in the first game of a double header which will begin play-offs to decide the second-half winner. Home Builders will play Carolina Dairies in the second game. The winners of tonight's play will meet tomorrow night at 8 to decide the second-half champs. A consolation game between tonight's losers will follow the championship contest.

Pierce Is Real Shutout Artist

Lefthander Takes Over Strikeout Lead In Majors With 124

By CARL LUNDQUIST
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP)—Trying to pick the pitcher of the next major league no-hitter is a grab-bag proposition, but a likely prospect today was lefty Billy Pierce of the White Sox.

The trim speed hurler had another near miss Monday night when he turned in a two-hit 1-0 over Washington as the White Sox stayed five games behind the first place Yankees.

It was his fourth shutout and his fifth low-hit game of the year. Previously he had a one-hitter, another two-hitter, a three-hitter and a five-hitter.

A ninth-inning unearned run beat Washington pitcher John Schmitz in a tinging duel of southpaws as Chicago retaliated for a 1-0 defeat suffered Sunday against Senator hurler Walt Masterson. Schmitz himself started the trouble when he hit Tom Wright with a pitch. Bob Wilson bunted and third baseman Ed Yost threw to second in time to force Wright but rookie shortstop Jerry Snyder dropped the ball and was knocked unconscious as Wright hit the bag, then continued to third from where he scored on a fly by Sherman Lollar.

Pierce, winning his 13th game, also struck out nine to take the major league lead with a total of 124, one more than Robin Roberts of the Phils.

The Yankees had another picnic against the rag-bag Browns, pumeling them for an 18-hit, 11-3 triumph behind Whitey Ford, who didn't work very hard in achieving his 12th victory, tops for the New York staff. He gave up 11 hits but contributed four singles himself.

The Yankees pounded out four triples, two by Hank Bauer and one each by Phil Rizzuto and Billy Martin, and doubles by rookie Gus Triandos, making his debut at first base, Yogi Berra, and Mickey Mantle. Irv Noren, like Ford, got four hits. Bauer and Mantle each drove in three runs.

In a rain-plagued game, finally shortened to seven innings, the Dodgers edged Milwaukee, 1-0, as pitcher Russ Meyer was his own co-star, hurling a four-hitter and driving in the only run with a single.

Murray Greason, Wake Forest basketball coach, has a record of 193 wins and 178 losses in 18 years with the Deacons.

Brooklyn stretched its National League lead to 8 1/2 games. Duke Snider hit a Dodger homer in the eighth but that was wiped off the books when rain prevented Milwaukee from completing its turn at bat in that frame. It was Meyer's second straight shutout over Milwaukee and his 11th victory against four defeats.

The winning run came in the seventh when George Shuba walked and moved up on an infield out. Billy Cox was purposely passed but Meyer, who had been hitless in his previous 26 times at bat, avenged the snub by hitting the winning single.

Lefty Joe Nuxhall pitched his first big league shutout winning 6-0 over the Pirates with a five-hitter at Cincinnati as Andy Nick set the batting pace with a two-run homer and a double. It was Nuxhall's first complete game and he pitched hitless ball until the eighth after giving up two singles in the first inning. It was his fifth triumph.

Magnum Takes Title With 275

CHICAGO (UP)—Lloyd Mangrum, who has won more money on a golf course than any other man since World War II, had another $3,420 to pocket today for his third triumph in six years in the annual "All American" open at Tam O'Shanter.

Mangrum, never far off the pace during the 72-hole event, came through with a five under par 67 on the final round for a total score of 275, six over Byron Nelson's 1945 record, but 13 under par and three strokes ahead of his nearest competitors.

Trailing him at 278 and each earning $2,180, were Ted Kroll, Utica, N.Y., and Sam Snead, White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. Kroll finished with two birdies for a 67, while Snead had a hole and an eagle in the last four holes for a 68.

Murray Greason, Wake Forest basketball coach, has a record of 193 wins and 178 losses in 18 years with the Deacons.

What Car Belongs Here?

Not many people would hesitate in naming the car they feel belongs in that inviting driveway.

It's the entrance to a fine American home, with a tradition of gracious living behind its handsome pillars—and the car which so obviously belongs before it is a Cadillac.

But here is a fact which it is important to remember—a Cadillac likewise belongs in the driveways of millions of other American homes which are far more modest than the beautiful structure shown in the illustration above. For it is practical, as well as thrilling, to own a Cadillac.

Listen, if you doubt it, to these amazing and significant facts:

—there are twenty-two models of other makes of American motor cars which actually cost more than the lowest-priced Cadillac!

—a Cadillac will actually run farther on a gallon of gasoline than numerous cars which are built and sold primarily for economy!

—a Cadillac is so dependable and long-lived that it is just about as economical to service and maintain as any car you could buy.

—and, finally—according to authentic used car evaluations—a Cadillac may be expected to return a greater percentage of its cost at the time of resale than any other car built in America.

In view of these significant facts, don't you think you should consider a Cadillac for your driveway? Whether you live in a mansion or a house designed for easy living—a Cadillac belongs.

You can buy a Cadillac for prestige and glamour—or you can buy it for economy and common sense. And whichever you buy it for, you'll get all four.

Better come in and see us today. We'll gladly give you the facts and a demonstration.

ADMINISTRATOR'S NOTICE TO CREDITORS

Having qualified as administrator of the estate of Morris Tew, late of the county of Pitt, North Carolina, this is to notify all persons having claims against the estate of said deceased to exhibit them to the undersigned at Box 813, Goldsboro, N. C., on or before August 4, 1954, or this notice will be pleaded in bar of their recovery. All persons indebted to said estate will please make immediate payment.

This 4th day of August, 1953. CHARLES V. TEW, Box 813, Goldsboro, N. C., Administrator of estate of Morris Tew, deceased. Aug. 4-11-18-25 Sept. 1-8

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Sealed proposals will be received by the East Carolina College, Greenville, N. C., in the office of F. D. Duncan, Treasurer and Business Manager, up to 2 p. m. EST, on the 20th day of August, 1953, and immediately thereafter publicly opened and read for the furnishing of labor, materials, and equipment inter into the construction of concrete pipe together with necessary catch basins, manholes, etc., pertaining to Storm Drainage Project. Complete plans, specifications and contract documents will be open for inspection of the office of F. D. Duncan, Treasurer and Business Manager, Greenville, N. C., the office of the Associated General Contractors, Raleigh, N. C., and the office of the Engineer, Greenville, N. C., or may be obtained by those qualified and who will make a bid, upon deposit of twenty-five dollars ($25.00) in cash or certified check. The full deposit will be returned to those submitting a bona fide proposal provided plans and specifications are returned to the Engineer in good condition within five days after the date set for receiving bids. The work will require approximately 480 Linear feet of 36" reinforced concrete pipe, one brick manhole 0-6 feet in depth and 2 brick catch basins as per plans 0-6 feet in depth. All Contractors are hereby notified that they must have proper license under the State laws governing their respective trades. General Contractors are notified that "An Act to Regulate the Practice of General Contracting," ratified by the General Assembly of North Carolina on March 10, 1925, and as subsequently amended will be observed in receiving and awarding general contracts. Each proposal shall be accompanied by a five per cent bid security. This may be in cash, certified check or bid bond. Said deposit to be retained by the Owner as liquidated damages in event of failure of the successful bidder to execute the Contract within ten days after the award. Performance Bond will be required of the contractor for 100% of the contract price. Payment will be made on the basis of ninety-five per cent (95%) of monthly estimates and final payment made upon completion and acceptance of the work. No bid may be withdrawn after the scheduled closing time for the receipt of bids for a period of 30 days. The Owner reserves the right to reject any or all bids and to waive informalities. Signed: F. D. DUNCAN, Treasurer and Business Manager, East Carolina College, Greenville, North Carolina. Engineers: Henry L. & Thomas W. Rivers, Greenville, N. C. Aug. 4-11

OKLAHOMA CITY (UP)—State patrolmen Roy Clinton and J. B. Cross figured today they saved motorists from having several thousand flat tires on Oklahoma's new Turner Turnpike.

A St. Louis carpenter, Harry C. Dean, lost a keg of nails off a trailer Saturday night. The keg broke and nails showered all over the superhighway.

The two patrolmen spent 90 minutes, much of the time on their hands and knees, sweeping and picking up nails.

Many Hours Of Hard Work Goes Up In Flame

Angry flames and smoke shoot skyward from the blazing tobacco barn shown above as the product of many months of hard toil goes up in ashes. The tobacco barn and its contents pictured above belonging to Edmond Speight and located on the Elmer Holmes farm near Kings Cross Road was destroyed by fire Saturday afternoon. The picture above was made soon after the fire started by Patrolman D. E. Perry of Bethel.

Frog Level Man In County Jail For Bond Default

James Oscar Wilks of the Frog Level community was being held in Pitt County jail this morning in default of bond pending a hearing in Farmville's recorder's court next Tuesday.

Wilks was arrested Saturday on charges of assault and taking an automobile belonging to Robert Lee Justice Friday night.

According to county officials, Wilks was out on bond at the time on a previous charge of breaking, entering and larceny for which he will get hearing in the August criminal term of Superior Court.

His bond now has been set at $500 for each case.

Pitt Sheriff's officers also reported nothing has been discovered missing from the general merchandise store of J. P. Davenport in Pactolus following a break-in Saturday night.

The intruder apparently entered the establishment through a window after prizing loose protective bars on the outside. Deputies Jasper Lee Mills, Lloyd Manning and Captain S. B. Dorsey, special investigator, have been working on the case.

Sale Of Privilege Licenses By City Up Over Last Year

Sale of privilege licenses by the city during July were up this year about $300 over what they brought during July of 1952, City Clerk H. H. Duncan reported today.

Total sales during the 31 days of July amounted to $12,145.50 as compared with $11,857.38 for the same period last year, Duncan said. Licenses sold numbered 385 for the first month of the fiscal year and they ranged in denomination from 50 cents to a about $300.

The amount taken in represents slightly over 50 per cent what is anticipated from this source. A total of $23,000 has been set up in the city's budget as expected revenue from the licenses during 1953-54.

Penalties of five per cent on each sale commenced Monday and continue through August. This will be added five per cent for each month of delinquent purchase thereafter for four more months.

The city clerk pointed out this is the same policy as to penalties followed by the state and federal governments.

British exports in 1935 were about 80 per cent above those before World War II.

Grifton Adopts Paving Program

GRIFTON—The Grifton Board of Commissioners last night adopted the recommendation of the "Pine Carolina Program Committee" that the town of Grifton adopt the paving program according to plans it had submitted.

Mayor Sam C. Nelson said the board adopted the program, but with the amendment that no paving be laid in the Town of Grifton unless supervised by a local engineer.

The mayor, with approval of the members of the board, appointed George Gardner Sugg chairman of the Grifton Recreation Commission. Sugg, a member of the Board of Commissioners, succeeds W. H. Gower, who resigned.

The remainder of the monthly meeting was devoted to routine business. Commissioners present were W. C. Chauncey, W. E. Hart, George Gardner Sugg and Roger Johnson. Ben G. Tucker was absent.

Nation's Stock Of Grain Below Report Of 1952

RALEIGH—Stocks of grain (corn, wheat and oats) in both on-farm and off-farm positions in North Carolina as of July 1 totaled 12,087,000 bushels, or 28 percent below stocks of these grains on this date last year. Stocks of corn totaled 10,877,000 bushels or 28% below last year. Total stocks of wheat at 409,000 bushels are 40 percent below the 690,000 bushels held on July 1, 1952.

On-farm and off-farm stocks of oats totaled 801,000 bushels—29% below last year's July 1 stocks, the Federal Crop Reporting Service shows.

In the United States July 1 corn stocks in all positions totaled 1,273 million bushels, second largest stocks on record for this date and nearly a third larger than a year ago. Stocks of wheat totaled 559 million bushels—more than double those on July 1, 1952.

New Deputy Dog Warden In County

Pitt Health Officer, Dr. Walter C. Humbert, announced today the appointment of a new deputy dog warden for the county.

Dr. Humbert said R. E. (Buz) Parker has been appointed deputy dog warden for the county and will have as his principal duty assignments in Greenville with the dog control program.

Pleasant Weather

Milder weather was prevailing in the Greenville area today, with steady breezes blowing in from the northeast, in striking contrast to last week's hot weather.

The highest temperature in the Greenville area yesterday was 91 degrees. Lowest last night 70, and at 8 a.m. today it was 74. No rain.

Yesterday a year ago, the highest temperature here was 88 degrees. Lowest that night 70, and at 8 a.m. next day it was 77. No rain that day.

Temperatures in the Antarctic average 40 degrees colder than those in the Arctic.

Residential Subdivisions Mapping Plan Approved

Five residential subdivisions lying outside the corporate limits of Greenville and Farmville have been approved for mapping in the current program for mapping eight Pitt County towns.

The additional outside areas were approved by the Pitt board of commissioners in its session yesterday afternoon.

County Auditor Reginald Gray said today that at least six, and possibly seven, more map sheets will be required for the work and the cost will run about $1600. The county, he said, will pay for this part of the joint city-county program.

Subdivisions included are: Moyewood near Pitt Memorial Hospital; Lakewood Pines south of Greenville on Evans Street extension; Woodcrest and Colonial Heights east of Greenville off US 264; and Lincoln Park near Farmville.
