Downed Pilots Believed Withheld, Said In Unlisted Red Compound

U.S. Airmen Held In Secret Camp

PANMUNJOM, Korea (UP) — Only eight former inmates of notorious Camp No. 5 remained in Communist captivity today as the Reds freed 100 more Americans. A returning prisoner said the eight men in nearby Kaesong awaiting repatriation and probably would be among the 75 Americans scheduled to be freed tomorrow. It was learned today the Communists are holding many American Air Force officers in a secret compound. Opl. William N. Abbott Jr. of Jerusalem, O., said Air Force pilots shot down behind enemy lines were taken to the unlisted camp. Abbott said the secret stockade came into existence after the Communists turned over their roster of prisoners to the United Nations command in December, 1951. The young Ohioan said he did not know how many men were being held, but his statements backed up Allied charges that the Communists were withholding prisoners. Secretary of the Army Robert Stevens, who interviewed the United States government would "do everything conceivable" to get back the missing men after the Reds have returned the prisoners they promised to repatriate. The Communists listed 3,313 Americans for repatriation in "Big Switch," but of this number seven were said to have renounced democracy and embraced communism. Sgt. Jacques Beaupre of West Deppre, Wis., gave the information about the cleanout of Camp Five. He said he saw the final eight at Kaesong before leaving for Panmunjom. "A new camp is supposed to start arriving at Kaesong today,"

Beaupre said. Beaupre said he did not know which camp would be emptied next. The release of the 100 Americans Wednesday brought the number of U. S. soldiers liberated during the first 44,000 days of "Operation Big Switch" to 748, of which 328 are sailing homeward on a troop transport and 17 have reached the United States by plane. Shortly before the Wednesday exchange began, the United Nations Command said it would complete repatriation of Chinese Communists Thursday, turning over to the Reds 500 more than originally promised. The UNC said 222 Chinese will be returned, bringing the total of Chinese freed to 5,498. At least 14,000 Chinese have refused repatriation and will be turned over to a neutral nations custodial commission in the demilitarized buffer zone across the waist of Korea. They also repeated the sickening stories of Communist brutality that have been told to newsmen by each group of captives arriving in Panmunjom and Freedom Village. One of Wednesday's returnees, Pfc. Robert H. Ghyers of Carruthersville, Mo., had been held by the Reds longer than any of the men liberated thus far in "Big Switch." He gave an eyewitness account of the massacre of 325 men of Maj. Gen. William F. Dean's command in the Kum River break-through. Ghyers, who was captured July 14, 1950, said men were shot or bayoneted in the death march to Camp No. 7 in northeastern Korea across the border from Vladivostok, Siberia.

Blood Donations Fall Short Of Hopes

The Red Cross bloodmobile left Greenville yesterday afternoon short 20 pints of the local quota of 170 pints of blood. Although 164 prospective givers showed up at St. Paul's Episcopal Church, scene of the blood drive, 23 were rejected due to minor blood or health conditions. According to Dr. Walter C. Humbert, Pitt County Health Officer, who was in charge of yesterday's program, none of those turned away had serious ailments, but were turned down for their own protection. Dr. Humbert said this morning that "I personally feel that Greenville could have given 170 pints out of a 20,000 population." Although pointing out that the incoming tobacco market and tomorrow's Dollar Day undoubtedly have kept many busier than usual, Dr. Humbert said the hospital is busy also and needs blood every day. The County Health Officer added, however, that he did not consider the visit a failure, since 141 pints had been donated. Dr. Humbert expressed thanks to all donors, including groups from the post office, carbon plant, the local National Guard, Greenville street employees, and merchants from downtown stores. He also wished to recognize the fine work done by volunteer helpers during the day's activities. Mrs. W. S. Bost was in charge of the canteen work, and was assisted by Mesdames Ed Waldrop, W. I. Wolverton, Dan Wright, Norman Warren, Ann Ruffin, Howard Waldrop, Sam Waldrop, Ty Wagner, and Miss Lou

Nurses Aides were Mrs. Herbert Hadley and Mrs. Harold Jones. Mr. B. C. Satterfield supervised operations. The bloodmobile will return to Greenville for another visit on October 9, and again on December 7, the anniversary of Pearl Harbor. Contact it with the Woodmen of Fidelity and December 8 in

Smallest Crop In Several Years Forecast For 1953 Light N. C. Harvest Seen

RALEIGH (UP)—North Carolina farmers will harvest their smallest crop in several years for most basic farm products in 1953, a report from the State and Federal Crop Reporting Service indicated today. The report said extended dry and hot weather will cause serious production cuts in most field crops, although milk, eggs, and sorghum production is expected to reach an all-time high. The most serious cut was noted in estimates for the North Carolina flue-cured tobacco crop, largest single item in the state's farm economy. The current prediction is for a yield of $33,200,000 pounds, a decrease of 7.2 per cent from the 1952 yield and $1,965,000 pounds less than the July 1 estimate. The report said most of the loss will occur on type 11 (Old and Middle Belt) tobacco, while types 12 (Western) and 13 (South Carolina and Border, North Carolina) will show a slight increase over last year. The prediction was based on the condition of the crop as of Aug. 1. The crop reporting service said the estimates for the state's spotty corn crop have dropped 20.6 per cent since July 1 due to drought conditions in a large part of the state. The prediction now calls for 59,481,000 bushels, 5.9 per cent higher than last year's small crop, but 2.6 per cent less than the average for the state during the past ten years. Estimated yield per acre for corn is 27 bushels, again higher than last year's 25.5 bushel average but slightly lower than the ten-year average. For other 1953 farm production, the report predicted: Soybeans: A 3,880,000 bushel crop 19 per cent less than last year, and lowest yield since 1948. Estimated yield is for 15 bushels an acre—1.9 per cent less than the record high yields of the past two years. Hay: 1,229,000 tons, a decrease of seven per cent from last year. Sorghum: A 49 per cent increase over last year and an all-time high of 64,000 acres of sorghum for grain to be harvested. Eggs: North Carolina flocks produced 109,900,000 eggs during July—an increase of 9,000,000 over the previous record for July production set in 1950. A new record of 1,423 eggs per 100 layers was also set—topping the old record of 1,227 eggs per 100 layers set in July, 1951. Milk: An all-time monthly record was set during July, with milk production totaling 165,000,000 pounds. The previous record of 159,000,000 pounds was set during May. Sweet potatoes: An estimate of 4,500,000 bushels is predicted this year—a reduction of nine per cent from the July 1 forecast and almost 21 per cent below the average yield over the past ten years, but 15 per cent higher than last year.

Greek Towns Said Wiped Out By Earthquake Series

ATHENS, Greece (UP)—Shattering new earthquakes demolished and entire city and brought death to hundreds today and frantic police on the Greek island of Cephalonia radioed that the island was "sinking" and "all is crumbling down." Today's tremors—most violent of a three-day series—destroyed Argostolios, capital of Cephalonia, and spread devastation across two adjoining islands. Incomplete reports from the scene said 400 died and hundreds were injured in yesterday's devastating quakes. There were no official estimates of the total killed and injured in the latest earth convulsions. The police on Cephalonia sent this frenzied radio message after today's most violent shock: "We are all sinking. Some may take off inhabitants. They are mad with fear. All is crumbling down." Heavy seas churned up by the quakes were reported breaking high along the island's coast. Ships reported the entire island is "obscured by a towering cloud of dust." The town of Lixourion as well as Argostolios was reported "wiped out." The latest earth shocks rocked the island and nearby islands of Ithaca and Zante as volunteers and police clawed through crumbled walls and explored gaping fissures in the earth for survivors and victims of yesterday's earthquakes. American authorities said helicopters were being sent to the shaken region to drop food and medical supplies. The Athens observatory said the latest earth shocks were the heaviest of the three-day series. In Sami some of the dead were buried where they were found—in a cemetery ripped open by the earthquake. Bodies lay sprawled in fissured roads. Tremors first shook the islands at regular intervals early yesterday, then two death-dealing shocks followed at noon and at 9:30 p.m. The earthquakes ripped up roads and knocked down communication facilities. Cries of the trapped and injured could be heard faintly by survivors who tried to free them. Greek military forces moved into the stricken islands alongside rescue and relief teams in an effort to restore order and communications. The earthquake destroyed the aqueduct in the Ithacan town of Vathi, and villagers risked disease by drinking impure water from wells. Roads leading to the coast were littered with dead. Vessels were sent to the two stricken islands to evacuate all vacationers and inhabitants willing to leave.

Dulles Says U.S. Has Never Detected Evidence No Signs Of H-Bomb Blast

WASHINGTON (UP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said today that the United States has never detected evidence Russia has exploded a hydrogen bomb. Asked for comment on Soviet Premier Georgi Malenkov's statement that the United States no longer has an H-bomb monopoly, Dulles said this nation accepts the claim with some skepticism and it has no independent evidence to support the Soviet claim. Asked if that meant the United States has detected no evidence that the Soviet Union has exploded an H-bomb—either before or since Malenkov's announcement—Dulles replied yes. He also said if the Communists are withholding some prisoners in Korea on grounds that they have been convicted of crimes, the United States will consider it an open violation of the Korean armistice. Asked if a truce violation would bring resumption of the fighting, Dulles said he supposes so, but he added no one would take such a course lightly. He went on to caution that the United States has only meagre, unevaluated evidence that the Communists are not returning all prisoners and that there is no reason to believe yet they will withhold some. Dulles said suspicion on the prisoner return stems from the best past record of the Communists. He said "there is ample evidence that they have withheld hundreds of thousands of German and Japanese prisoners of war, whom they promised to return" and there is reason now "for suspicion and alertness." The United Nations command holds a "substantial number" of Communist prisoners for crimes and intends "to withhold the return of these to the last," Dulles said.

Demos Complain Credit Withheld

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Democrats claimed today they have saved President Eisenhower from his own party, but complained that he hasn't given them credit. The claim and complaint were contained in the September issue of the party's official magazine, The Democratic Digest, in an article titled, "How Democrats Saved Ike from His Own Party." Referring to the Democratic votes for administration programs during the recent session of Congress, the magazine said the Democrats set a new record in honoring the old custom of giving a new President a break. "They have extended their side of the honeymoon period into the eighth month and signs multiply that they are eager to lend further encouragement to birth of a new era of good feeling," it said. "The leaders of the minority have shown they are profoundly aware that this is a time when America must stop the political guerrilla war which has distracted this country for a decade and more." Disclaiming any intention of riding the President's coattails, the magazine said the Democrats backed the President only in cases where "bi-partisan accord clearly was essential to the national welfare" and opposed him in matters that were against the public interest. "Democratic votes saved Eisenhower from a humiliating defeat on excess profits tax extension, on the foreign aid program, on extension of the reciprocal trade agreement law," it said. "At the same time, the minority leveled a steady drumfire against Republican defense cuts, against legislation in REA, soil conservation, and housing." The Democrats were piqued that Mr. Eisenhower has failed to give them credit for their help. "He apparently does not feel that he can afford to acknowledge the timely assistance he received from Democrats, even though that cooperation makes all the difference between success and failure for his administration," the magazine said.

City Will Get $2,430 More Than Last Year

The City of Greenville will receive $2,430 more in Powell Bill funds this year than last for work on its streets which are not a part of the state highway system. An announcement Tuesday by the State Highway Commission set the amount allocated for Greenville at $97,302 which is several hundred dollars higher than the conservatively estimated boost predicted by city officials last month. Last year, the city received a total of $54,872.79 in Powell Bill funds and has budgeted only $51,000 for this source for the current year. Other town in Pitt County fared as follows: Ayden, $10,078; Farmville, $11,554; Falkland, $323; Neighboring Kinston received $38,712.

Heavily Armed Boy Apprehended

HARTFORD, Conn. (UP)—A 14-year-old boy was in custody of juvenile authorities today after police stopped him to look into a small valise he was carrying. They found one loaded .33 calibre automatic pistol, five boxes of ammunition, one black jack, seven tear gas shells, a portable light with several spare bulbs, five glass cutters, wire snippers, a pair of kid gloves, and a roll of copper wire. He told police he was headed for New York to get a job, but "if I didn't get one, I'd just hold up some place."

DAY FOR EATING

SPRINGFIELD, Minn. (UP)—Some 4,000 persons consumed 333 gallons of sauerkraut, 10,500 wieners, 4,300 buns and 300 gallons of coffee at the city's 42nd annual sauerkraut day.

Small Hurricane Is Forming Off Florida Coast

MIAMI (UP)—A small tropical hurricane blew up in the Atlantic off famed Daytona Beach today with strongest winds at 75 miles an hour. The Miami weather bureau said intensity of the storm was expected to increase slowly during the next 18 to 24 hours and all shipping in the area was cautioned. Hurricane Barbara was located at 10 a.m. EST about 225 miles east of Daytona Beach and was moving north-northwest to north at a rate of about 12 miles an hour. "Strongest winds are about 75 miles per hour in squalls a short distance north of the center," the advisory said. "Indications are for continued northward movement around the same rate during the next 18 to 24 hours with slowly increasing intensity. Shipping should exercise caution along and off the south Atlantic coast during the next 36 hours."

Truman Appears Possible Choice

BALTIMORE (UP)—Former President Truman appeared today to be under consideration, along with others, for appointment as the next president of the University of Maryland. The Baltimore News-Post said it had learned that Mr. Truman is being considered as a possible successor to Dr. H. C. Byrd, who may run for governor of Maryland as a Democrat next year. Judge William P. Cole Jr., chairman of the university board of regents, declined to comment directly on the published report. "We have received some interesting names," he said, but he would not comment directly on mention of Mr. Truman's name. He said the regents have no begun studying the possibilities of a replacement for Byrd, who will take leave of absence beginning next July and has announced he probably will ask for permission to retire by 1955. During his White House days, Mr. Truman remarked several times he would like to teach history to college students after his retirement from public life.

1,022 Families Told Their Soldiers Died In Captivity Next-Of-Kin Being Wired

WASHINGTON (UP)—The armed services today began the sad task of notifying 1,022 American families that their sons or husbands died in Korean prison camps. But even as the first telegrams were dispatched to next of kin, military officials expressed serious doubt that the Communist supplied list of American POW's who died in captivity was accurate. Combined with previous official fears that the Communists may secretly be holding back up to 3,000 American prisoners was the new fear that hundreds of American soldiers may have died as a result of Red atrocities. The unreliability of the Red accounting was emphasized in the telegrams to next of kin. They were told only that the Communists had reported the death and that it could not be "verified." The telegrams will go out in installments as rapidly as the military services can check the Communist list against their own information. Publication of the names will be withheld until 24 hours after the families have been notified. In addition to the 1,022 soldiers reported by the Reds to have died in prison camps, telegrams also went to the families of 147 men said by the Reds to have "escaped."

The Defense Department said the telegrams "is exhausting every effort to verify" the Red list by interrogating every repatriated American. The Communists, as part of the armistice agreement, turned over during the week-end a list of 447 Americans said to have died while prisoners. In addition, the department disclosed the Communists turned over in December, 1951, the names of 575 Americans said to have died in Red prison camps. WILL ADDRESS YDC SOUTHERN PINES (UP)—Sen. Alton A. Lennon will speak at a Young Democrats rally here Sept. 5, it was announced today.

Demand Retreat

PARIS (UP)—The powerful Socialist party demanded today the virtual surrender of Premier Joseph Laniel on his plans for economic reforms as a series of general strikes by millions of workers in government and private industry threatened chaos. With all France in the grip of the worst strike crisis in 17 years, Socialist leader Guy Mollet headed a delegation of Socialist deputies who called on Laniel with a list of demands. Two million employees of state-operated enterprises were on strike, and Socialist-sparked unions called for further walk-outs. The Socialist delegation demanded that Laniel bow to the mass protest of labor by: 1. Withdrawing all "menacing" sections of his reform program aimed at economy in government. 2. Opening a campaign for a new round of pay increases for all French workmen.

'Probable Cause' Found And Bonds Set For Pair

Preliminary hearing for two men charged with highway robbery and larceny of an automobile near Grimesland Sunday resulted in a finding of probable cause for each by Magistrate H. L. Jenkins here yesterday. Remaining in county jail in default of bail bond are Edward Earl Stepp, 22, of Charlotte, and William Ernest Blackburn, 16, of Carolina Beach. An additional charge of breaking and entering and larceny of clothes from the home of T. J. Stocks Jr. near Calico was lodged against the younger of the two and his bond was set at $2,000. Stepp's bond is $1500. Further hearing in the case has been slated for the August criminal term of Superior Court opening August 31. The two were arrested about four hours apart near Calico Sunday evening after allegedly taking a car belonging to Warren Bailey of Hudson's Crossroads when he picked them up on a road near Grimesland. Deputies Arthur Andrews, Elmer Haddock and Jasper Lee Mills of the Sheriff's department, assisted by Officer V. C. Ackert of the Greenville police, members of the State Highway Patrol and military police, made the arrest after keeping up a four-hour patrol of roads surrounding an area of about 19 miles. Sheriff's officers said today that the 1941 Ford car in which the two men allegedly entered the county from Wilmington was being held here pending a check of its owner through the State Department of Motor Vehicles.

Utilities Plan Buy New Truck; Will Assist In Traffic Program

The Greenville Utilities Commission last night authorized purchase of a new trailer for hauling pipe and other equipment at a total of $2,181.60. Purchase of the trailer was agreed on following a report by John G. Clark that he had investigated bids from two companies and recommended that of the Baker Equipment Company of Richmond, Va. He said the present trailer, one of two used by the commission, was in "bad shape" and that it had no trade-in value. He added he had done business with the Richmond company before and could recommend it as a firm. The trailer, it was brought out, are used behind a GMC tractor and for hauling equipment between here and Greensboro. In other matters taken up by the board, the commissioners took under further study a report by Superintendent Martin Swartz of amounts being charged by other cities for sewage service. Rates of other cities in the state, his report indicates generally ranged from about 25 to as high as 40 per cent of water bills. He went on to say that an AWA recommendation is for 25 per cent of the water bill with a 50-cent minimum charge. At the present time, no charge is made for sewage service by the Greenville company. Also taken up for study was the matter of obtaining public liability insurance for liquid propane gas used in the city. Several firms were mentioned as prospective agencies and J. Roy Martin, board chairman, was named to investigate the matter further. The board further approved an agreement, previously signed by all the commissioners, regarding location of light poles along highways. It tentatively set the last week in August for a meeting to consider the John Proctor annual audit of the company's finances. Mayor W. L. Whedbee reported to the board on the progress of city's traffic safety program, and asked for the board's reappraisal of a past policy for supplying labor for safety measures at intersections, such as erecting stop lights and clearing of brush to eliminate blind spots at corners. The board approved the request to renew its policy of supplying the labor, which Mayor Whedbee said runs about 30 per cent of the cost with the city furnishing 70 per cent in materials. He reported that three stop lights already have been obtained for intersections which members of the commission at a prior meeting agreed were the hazard points needing improved control, and said that blinker lights had been installed at other points. The mayor added the city is carrying out its safety program through regulations at intersections, speed control, and a proposed driver safety course for the Greenville high school.

Plan Supreme Court Appeal On Ruling In Wilson Tobacco Suit

WILSON (UP)—Attorneys said today they plan to appeal to the State Supreme Court from a ruling by Judge Walter Bone that denied an injunction to prevent the Wilson Tobacco Board of Trade from putting into effect a new regulation allowing warehouse selling time. A final decision on the appeal will be made after Bone's ruling, received here yesterday, is studied. "We will appeal if the ruling is appealable," an attorney said. The injunction was sought by warehouse operator Carl Renfro and two co-owners of the warehouse. The three are plaintiffs in a civil action pending in Wilson Superior Court challenging the authority of the board of trade to allow warehouse selling time under the disputed regulation. They asked the injunction to prevent the regulation from being put into effect before the evil action is decided. Sales start on the Wilson market Aug. 20. Judge Bone's ruling, following a hearing here last week, was mailed from his home at Nashville. "Under the plan for auction sales which defendant expects to execute, if any warehouse does not sell all of its selling time for a particular day other warehouses on the market are permitted to avail themselves of such unused time in accordance with a system of rotation," Bone wrote. "There is no proof from which it can be ascertained that plaintiffs will have upon their floor for sale during the 1953 season more tobacco than can be sold within the time available to them under the regulation complained of. There is no proof that the aforesaid regulation of defendant in its application to plaintiff is unreasonable, discriminatory or in unlawful restraint of trade. "Upon consideration of the matter the court is of the opinion that plaintiffs have failed to show that they will be caused to suffer irreparable injury on account of any unlawful conduct upon the part of the plaintiff during the pendency of this action. Even if their cause of injury should be well founded, there is no good reason to believe that the injunction applied for would save plaintiffs from the fate which they seem to comprehend. It would not assure them of any more selling time than will be available to them under the regulation about which they complain." Tobacco men believe the outcome of the civil action may have far-reaching effect upon the system of allowing selling time for warehouses at auction markets in all the flue-cured belts.

Rev. Speight, a native of Greenville, is the regular pastor of the Christian Church of Staunton, Ind. He is spending his vacation with relatives and friends in Greenville and at the same time conducting this series of meetings at Kitts Swamp the same as he did last year.

Rev. Speight is an able and forceful speaker bringing Bible-centered messages nightly and encouraging Christian-Fellowship in all Christians regardless of denomination or creed.

Those who had the opportunity of hearing this plain-spoken, energetic and able elocutionist last year will certainly want to come out again while these services are being conducted. And those who have not heard him before should take advantage of hearing these gospel messages while he is at Kitts Swamp.

Also Sunday, August 23, will be the Annual Homecoming Day with all-day services being planned, including a picnic lunch served on the church grounds. Everybody come and bring a well-filled lunch basket. An enjoyable picnic lunch always helps promote Christian Fellowship.

Midweek Prayer Service
The prayer service of Memorial Baptist Church will be held tonight at eight o'clock. The speaker will be Tommy Bodkin, who will tell of his recent trip to South America to attend the Youth Conference held in Rio de Janeiro.

School Board Files Reply To Discrimination Suit

MARION (UP)—McDowell County school board officials denied today that there is discrimination against Negro school children in the county and said a suit filed by 50 Negro parents is an attempt to "force us to reestablish a small school at Old Fort."

Attorney E. P. Dameron of Marion, a school board member, said the group of Negro parents filed suit in U. S. District Court in Asheville Monday seeking a permanent injunction to "restrain the McDowell County School Board from discriminating against Negro children."

Most of the plaintiffs are residents of the vicinity of Old Fort, about 15 miles from here, where a small Negro elementary and high school was abolished several years ago at the recommendation of the State Board of Education. A new consolidated Negro school was constructed here for all Negro students in the county.

"Throughout last year," Dameron said, "there were about 25 or 30 colored parents in Old Fort who refused to let their children come to the consolidated school. With the help of some white citizens, they hired a teacher and held classes but the classes were never accredited by the School Board."

"This year they have apparently decided to try to force us to reestablish a small school at Old Fort but we don't think it would be wise or expedient, since we have only a few Negro pupils there."

Dameron said the school board "definitely feels that there is absolutely no discrimination against Negro school children in McDowell County."

He said the consolidated school provides "equal if not superior" facilities and is "the best equipped and the best school plant in McDowell County."

Ayden Schools Plan August 26 Opening

AYDEN—The Ayden schools will open at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning, August 26.

Students will be picked up along the school bus routes that day between 7:45 and 8:30 a.m.

Principal E. P. Johnson said the school cafeteria will open Monday, August 31. Prices will be the same as last year.

Registration for the 10th, 11th and 12th grades in the Ayden High School will begin at 9 o'clock Thursday morning, August 20, and continue through the next day.

Sophomores, juniors and seniors should register on either day. Freshmen will be registered the first day of school, August 26.

Principal Johnson will be in his office each day except Saturdays and Sundays, beginning today. School patrons and students who may desire to talk with the principal should visit his office between 9 and 3 o'clock on these days.

Johnson explained that the date for young children to enter school has been moved up to October 15. Any child who will be six years old by October 16 will be eligible to enter school this year.

The principal reminded parents that children starting to school this year who provides "equal if not superior" facilities and is "the best equipped and the best school plant in McDowell County."

The suit charged that the lack of a school in Old Fort forced the Negro children to travel the 30-mile round trip to Marion while white students have adequate schools within walking distance.

"We have many, many white pupils who travel farther than that every day on the school buses," Dameron said.

The suit is the first of its kind filed in the Western District of North Carolina where the Negro population is much smaller than that farther east.

Driving Contest For Youngsters

WASHINGTON (UP)—Forty-eight youngsters competing for the title of the nation's teen-age driving champion took turns today at the wheel of a toy automobile on a make-believe highway.

The indoor road test, carried out in a gymnasium, was the first of a series of tests in the three-day National Teen-Age Road-E-O.

The finalists won trips to Washington and a chance in the national contest by out-driving 200,000 other teen-agers in home-town and state-wide competitions in 45 states, the District of Columbia, Hawaii and Canada.

Eighteen-year-old Anne Whitfield of Huntsville, Ala., is the lone girl to reach the 1953 finals. Last year two girls made the finals but finished well down the list of contestants.

Raymond Davis of West Lake, I.T., at 15, is the youngest contestant. The champion will collect $1,250 in college scholarship money. Runners-up will get prizes totaling another $1,850.

Driving skill is only one of the tests ahead of the youthful motorists.

George Perry To Present Program

George Perry of East Carolina College music department will have charge of the program at the Kiwanis Club's weekly supper meeting Friday night at 6:30.

Chairman Robert Elks will report on the Kiwanis' project to provide a fried chicken supper at Little League Park for visiting players and coaches next Sunday night. The visitors will eat their other two meals that day at East Carolina College.

Harman-Whiteley Vows Spoken In Double Ring Ceremony

Miss Dorothy Anne Whiteley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Fox Whiteley became the bride of Mr. Asher Waterman Harman, Jr., the son of Mrs. Asher Waterman Harman of Richmond, Va., and the late Colonel Harman on August 8th, 1953 at 12:30 P. M. at the Eighth Street Christian Church of Greenville, N. C. Dr. H. Glenn Haney, pastor of the bride, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Mr. Leon B. Fleming, organist and Mr. T. G. Moore, soloist, provided the nuptial music. Mr. Moore sang "I Love Thee" by Greig and "The Lord's Prayer" by Malotte for the benediction. The altar was beautifully decorated with three white baskets of white gladioli and four standards of Oregon fern with seven branch candelabra holding cathedral tapers forming the background.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of nylon tulle and chantilly lace over white satin, with a fitted bodice and long sleeves ending in points over the hands. The bouffant skirt had panels of lace forming a chapel length train. Her shoulder length veil was of silk illusion edged with chantilly lace. For her only ornament, she chose her mother's pearls and carried a white bible topped with white orchids.

She was showered with satin ribbons and Miss Frances Lee Harman, maid of honor and sister of the bride, and Mrs. William Kenneth Whiteley, matron of honor and sister-in-law of the bride, wore identical floor length gowns of mint green nylon tulle of three tiered bouffant skirts with strapless bodices and matching stoles and head dress. Their bouquets were crescents of rose and white King asters. The two junior bridesmaids, twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Bryan wore gowns of white nylon tulle over Nile green taffeta similar to the other attendants. The honorary bridesmaids were the Misses Dorothy Wilson, Teresa Saleed, and Peggy Barnhill of Greenville, N. C. and the Misses Betty McKay of Front Royal, Va., Bettie Guillen of Waynesboro, Va., and Elizabeth Wilson of Rock Springs Baths, Va.

The brother of the groom, Mr. Henry Harman of Richmond, Va., was the groom's best man. The groom chose as his ushers, Mr. William Kenneth Whiteley of Chattanooga, Tenn., Mr. William R. Simpson of Richmond, Va., Mr. O. Hume Powers, of Fredericksburg, Va., and Mr. John C. Clifford of Greenville, N. C.

The mother of the bride chose a lavender crepe floor length gown trimmed with Belgium lace and used white accessories. The mother of the groom chose a lovely mauve silk waltz length gown with purple accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of purple orchids.

The out-of-town guests attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Phillips of Tappahonock, Va., Mrs. David T. Mitchell of Cleveland, Ohio, Captain and Mrs. Thomas White of Newport News, Va., and Mr. and Mrs. William Glenn Atkins of Richmond, Va.

Immediately following the wedding ceremony, the bride's parents entertained the wedding party, relatives and out-of-town guests at a breakfast at the Hotel Proctor, after which the bridal couple left for a wedding trip to Virginia. For traveling, the bride chose an original white linen suit with British tan accessories and the orchids from her bible.

The bride is a graduate of the Greenville High School and attended East Carolina College in Greenville, N. C. where she received her certificate in Business education. She is now employed by Experiment, Inc. of Richmond, Va. The groom is a graduate of the Richmond schools and the Virginia Military Institute of Lexington, Va. After October, he will be a Lieutenant in the United States Army.

Upon their return from the wedding trip, the bridal couple will reside in Richmond, Va. An after rehearsal party was given by Mr. and Mrs. J. Roy Martin in honor of the bridal couple and wedding party at their lovely home which was decorated throughout with white gladioli and asters. The guests were invited into the dining room where they were served bride's cake, lime punch and assorted nuts from a beautifully appointed table covered with an imported embroidered cloth. After the bridal couple cut the cake, it was served to the guests by the mother of the bride and the mother of the groom Mrs. Asher W. Harman, served the punch. Mrs. Martin was assisted by Mrs. N. M. Jorgenson and Miss Elizabeth Deal at this lovely affair.

Tenant House Is Razed By Fire

A tenant house owned by George Shoe, located on the Pactious highway, was razed by fire yesterday around one o'clock.

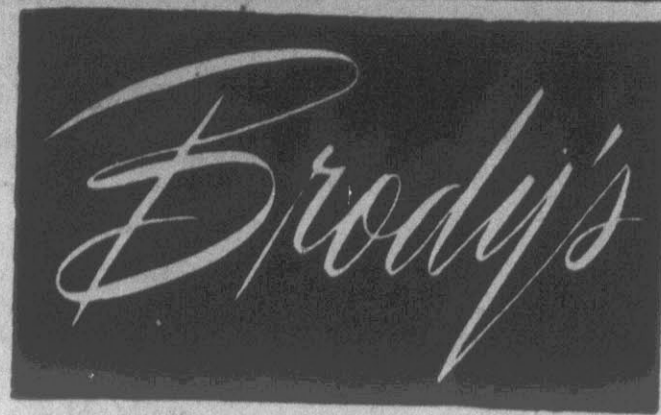

The building was totally destroyed, according to Greenville firemen who answered the call to the burning building. They reported that the building had fallen in when they arrived.

The house was occupied by Joe Sneed.

A tobacco barn belonging to Raymond Briley, tenant, was destroyed by fire yesterday around 6:50. All of the contents and barn were a total loss, a fire department report shows.

Thomas Jefferson sent cork oak acorns from France to a friend in South Carolina.

Which Problem Takes Precedence?

Does North Carolina need to prevent its public debt from increasing by $72 million worse than it needs additional state hospitals and school facilities?

That is a question the people of the state must answer in the October 3 referendum. Big guns in the state have been leveled against the bond issue for schools and hospitals by the opposition from an organization known as the North Carolina Fair Tax Association.

The organization has voiced its opposition to the coming bond referendum and has pledged itself to fight the issue at the polls. Apparently the Association is basing its opposition to the bond issue on the position that it is neither advisable nor necessary to increase the public debt of North Carolina almost $100 million now. It argues, in a statement released by its secretary, that the future ability to pay off such a debt is uncertain; the terrific national debt, state debt and local government debt is proving a great burden on the individual taxpayer.

Those things are facts. They are not easily shrugged off. The government debt on all levels in the United States is a matter which should be of concern to the people.

Nevertheless, the pressing needs for more and better facilities in North Carolina's state hospitals and public schools can not be overlooked either. These shortcomings certainly must be overcome even though it means a heavier tax burden upon the people of the state. The needs of North Carolina's public schools and mental institutions too long have been relegated to secondary positions in favor of other factors. The trend can not continue if the state is to keep abreast of its needs in these fields.

While the matter of the public debt can not be taken lightly now or at any time, neither can pressing needs of mental hospitals or public schools.

The Reflector is convinced North Carolinians would be taking the wise course to give official sanction to the proposed bond issue when they go to the polls October 3.

Plenty Of Wealth, If One's Willing To Work

One of the "facts of life" largely overlooked abroad and occasionally forgotten here, is that to beget wealth there must be hard work.

Many foreigners seem to think America is the land of gold in its streets, a Paradise of plenty. And so it is, but there's a catch... even our wealth must be earned!

Children have that shallow point of view:

No concept of the minutes or hours involved to pay the price of a movie admission, a bicycle, their food, clothing or medical care enters their minds.

Perhaps the fortunate ones are those whose delusions are spoiled early in life by part-time jobs and living through the realization of how important is a dollar.

Be that as it may, science has eliminated some aspects of drudgery and eased the toils of many, but there will ever be need for people who are not afraid to work with their hands.

Americans, as well as other peoples, will always be required to put in many hours of hard work, though it may be of a different type than lifting a shovel or swinging an axe, to pay their necessary expenses; and more hours of labor are required to pay for luxuries.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
PHYSICAL HEALTH IMPORTANT

Great emphasis is being laid today on the effect which the mind has on the body. Probably not enough emphasis is being laid on the fact that the condition of the body often has a profound effect upon one's mind. Subject your state of mind to examination sometime when you are stretched out on a bed of sickness and see if you do not come to the conclusion that your whole outlook on life is being profoundly affected by your physical state.

Great affairs of state have sometimes turned upon the headache or indigestion of a person of vast influence. Crimes have sometimes been committed by people who lost control of themselves because they were exhausted or because their blood stream was full of accumulated poisons due to ill health. Many a quarrel which ended in a divorce court would never have taken place had not somebody passed a restless night or eaten unwisely.

The style in today's thinking is to ascribe almost all unusual behavior to neurotic tendencies. Frequently, however, neurotic tendencies come from an unhealthy or ill-fed and exhausted body. The first step in the direction of sound mental health is to eat properly, get plenty of rest, and keep the body toned up by proper exercise and self-restraint.

National Whirligig

The Shift Of Political Influence

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON—The oft-heralded alignment of the Western and Southern sections and their supremacy over New York interests at Washington has come closer to reality under the Eisenhower Administration. It is exemplified most dramatically by the selection of Senator William F. Knowland as new Majority Leader of the Senate, a Californian replacing a man from Ohio.

President Eisenhower himself symbolizes this geographical shift of political power and influence. Although he was elected as a registered New York voter and an eastern educator, his background embraces the Middle and Southwest both from his upbringing and many years of military service in that area.

Sitting in the vice-presidential chair is Richard M. Nixon, also a Californian, and playing a more important role in national affairs than most of his predecessors.

CABINET MEMBERS REFLECT NEW TREND—Another powerful figure with a Western outlook is Senator Eugene D. Millikin of Colorado, who heads the Republican Conference Committee in the upper chamber.

In the Cabinet sit three members who also reflect the new politico-economic trend—Interior Secretary Douglas McKay of Oregon, Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson from Utah, and Mrs. Oveeta Culp Hobby of Texas, who heads the new agency devoted to public welfare.

RAYBURN, JOHNSON ACCORD—Even on the Democratic side, men from regions other than the formerly preponderant Northeastern and Midwestern sections dominate. That Party's leaders in House and Senate are two Texans—Representative Sam Rayburn and Senator Lyndon Johnson, respectively.

Although fierce partisans, regional needs and considerations motivate them as fully as political expediency. Thus, their attitude on many major questions frequently accords with that of GOP-ers from other wide open spaces.

Eisenhower's friendliness toward and cooperation with Southern Democrats was demonstrated during the recent session. On almost every issue save an immediate increase in the debt limit, they supported his program, and were largely responsible for enactment of many Administration bills.

SOUTH MUST ENLARGE REGIONAL PROGRESS—It would be easy to overemphasize the effect of this transfer of authority on future political and economic developments. Both the South and West owe a great deal of their amazing progress to the policies of Franklin D. Roosevelt before and during World War II, when they registered their greatest industrial and agricultural gains.

However, the time has arrived when they must not only hold but enlarge their regional progress and prosperity. As the recent Kennedy-Maybank debate over Federal favoritism toward the South demonstrated, members from New York and the Northeast generally have begun to protest against Washington's grants in such fields as power, agriculture, industry, etc. The South and West will need influential figures to preserve and extend their advances.

MAY AID EISENHOWER POLITICALLY—The surprising feature of the new trend is that it runs counter to the policies of recent Republican Presidents. Under Taft, Harding, Coolidge and Hoover, the GOP was regarded as beholden to the great financial interests of Boston, New York and Philadelphia. Wilson's "New Freedom" and F.D.R.'s "New Deal" represented a popular revolt against this alleged domination.

If Ike shows sufficient sympathy to this reorientation of power and influence, it can benefit him in a political way. It may tend to offset the opposition's cry that he has too many "millionaires," including bankers and industrialists, around him.

TOO EARLY TO PREDICT REORGANIZATION—It is, of course, too early to say whether the Eisenhower alliance with the West and South will lead to a political reorganization in which those two regions will unite in elections. Dixie may return to its historic loyalties, and Ike's middle-of-the-road philosophy may eventually disillusion the normally progressive West.

So far, however, the Texas-born and Kansas-based political General seems to be satisfying both sections, and factions. No recent Republican Chief Executive did as well below the Mason and Dixon Line and Beyond the Rockies.

Somebody Told Me

Nearly Everyone 'Part' Fisherman

Since I became interested in fishing I have discovered that almost everybody is a fisherman of some sort, and my interest is only slight compared to the average.

Yesterday our drink box down at the store was out of whack so we called William French of French Refrigeration Service. William had heard that our crew had been to Hobucken a few times recently and had spent hours feeding our bait to crabs without much luck.

So William eased into the store and started telling us all about Hobucken. "I was down there last week," he said, "and caught 16 speckled trout."

"Get out of here!" I exclaimed. "I called you down here to fix our drink box because I thought you were an honest, upstanding young man, and now I'm convinced that you're the biggest liar in Pitt County."

"OK," French said. "I can see why you don't believe me, but ask Milo Smith the results I get. He's seen the fish." Then he named others and suggested that I get proof positive.

With all of his insistence, we started listening to French. "It took me seven years to learn where to fish in Hobucken. If you are reading this column to get that information you might as well stop reading. Wouldn't it be silly to tell where the fish are? In fact, French asked me not to tell. That kind of news spreads like wildfire," he said.

He went into great detail telling exactly where to go. All of the time he was directing us, he was telling tales about 16, 18, or 24 trout, puppy drum and such wild tales that it made our mouths water.

In between fishing tales French fixed the drink box. And when he started writing out the bill we asked, "Who paid for all of that time you were talking about fishing?"

"You are going to."

"What?"

"Listen," he said firmly. "It took me seven years to find that spot. Certainly you don't expect me to tell you about it on my own time!"

We had to agree, but it'll take another trip to Hobucken to find out if the labor fee we paid him for the fish tale was worth while.

Since talking to French I asked another Hobucken fisherman about French's spot. "I've fished there," he said, "but there aren't any fish there."

We've already paid French and will not feel gyped if there aren't any fish in his spot. Hearing him tell the story and having visions of his successes was worth the small fee.

And I thank you,
JACK EDWARDS

What Other Editors Are Thinking

Dr. Eisenhower Reports (Henderson Dispatch)

Returning from a trip of more than a month to ten South American republics, Dr. Milton Eisenhower, brother of the President, commented that more than "wishful thinking" will be necessary to attain and maintain friendly relations with the nations below the Equator. Continuing cooperation between North and South America, said the college president, "will flow only from adherence to consistent programs, honorably and consistently observed."

He said his trip convinced him that "sound, friendly relations with the republics of South America are tremendously important to the United States—important economically, militarily and culturally—and critically important in the worldwide struggle for the winning of men's minds and allegiances."

Dr. Eisenhower said there must be a better understanding between the peoples of these democracies—so-called democracies at any rate.

Ever since World War II, and perhaps much longer, there has been an evident feeling among the Latin America peoples that the United States was holding itself aloof from them. It is to be sure, a mistaken idea, but nevertheless not without some substantiality. Little attention has been paid to these neighbors, albeit there was necessity for concentration in world danger spots.

These danger spots have not been remedied, but there is increasing realization that trouble may be brewing at our very doorstep without our knowledge, and will increase unless there is renewed consciousness of obligations and opportunities that exist.

While South America has in a measure been ignored, genuine enemies have sprung up, and the hostile feeling that has been encouraged in Europe and Asia is gradually finding a footing also in this portion of the Western Hemisphere.

Just what change in attitude may follow as a result of Dr. Eisenhower's summer tour remains to be seen. But there is no time to be lost in courting the favor and friendship of these people before they might be lost forever as understanding neighbors.

Points Behind Complaints About Medical Examiners

By LYNN NISBET

DOCTORS' Several complaints have been heard recently about the State Board of Medical Examiners declining to issue comity license to applicants who had passed the National Board of Medical Examiners. The National Board was recognized for several years, until the North Carolina Board discovered that our State laws precluded such recognition. There may arise the question now whether physicians licensed on basis of National Board certificates are legally practicing in this State.

RECIPROCIITY—North Carolina has reciprocal agreements with many other States under which licensees from those States are authorized to practice here, upon submission of credentials and the passage of a brief oral examination. There was a period when the U.S. Board accepted certificates from the National Board on the same basis. It has been discovered that there is no authority for such acceptance, and the only way a doctor can legally practice here without taking the State examination is to personally submit evidence that he has met educational and training requirements and passed some other State board.

STATUTE—The procedure is set out in G.S. 90-13 as follows: "The board of medical examiners shall in its discretion issue a license to any applicant to practice medicine and surgery in this state without examination. If said applicant exhibits a diploma or satisfactory proof of graduation from a medical college in good standing, requiring an attendance of not less than four years and a license issued to him to practice medicine and surgery by the board of medical examiners of another state." Upon request of the N.C. examining board for a ruling the attorney general's office held that the language of the statute did not justify recognition of the National Board, which is a self-perpetuating group and not a legal agency of "another state."

OLD—The statute on this point was enacted long before the National Board of Medical Examiners came into existence, and has not been materially changed in 40 years. In fact, it was the obvious need for revision in some other phases of the medical licensing procedure that led to discovery of the apparent exemption of the National Board from comity recognition. The next General Assembly almost certainly will be asked to revise the law, either by specific recognition or definite elimination of the national group from reciprocity.

QUESTIONS—Meantime, several questions occur which might have important bearing on the status of doctors licensed on basis of National Board certification. There is no doubt the N.C. Examiners acted in good faith, and no question is raised here about the ability and efficiency of the practitioners. There remains the question whether they are "legal" doctors, regardless of their natural ability and technical skill.

NEED—The need for adequate qualifications for medical practitioners is admitted. Also there is admitted dire need for more doctors, especially for general practice in small towns and rural communities. There have been suggestions that the medical examining board was more interested in perpetuating a monopoly for present doctors than in providing replacements and additions. The fact that the board went beyond the law to license applicants who had passed the national examination tends to discredit that charge. Among the several obvious needs the outstanding one seems to be for clarifying licensing procedure, so that more physicians may get into practice without lowering standards. Another "need" is for men and women who make up the administrative and licensing boards charged with high responsibility to find out what the law is before attempting to administer it. The statutes as written do not always say what legislators who enacted them intended, but in most instances the written word is controlling because intent is always a debatable matter.

PHILOSOPHER—All of the real philosophers are not on college or university faculties. In fact, it is doubted that the proud holders of Doctor of Philosophy know as much about the vital elements of the subject as do some of the semi-literate workmen who have to deal with egotistic bosses on the one hand and obstinate customers on the other. Consider, for example the carpenter engaged in demolition of a building on Fayetteville Street in Raleigh the other day. He had knocked out all of a connecting wall except about two feet high in the middle of the project. Your reporter asked him why he left that little section, since it was obvious that it had to come down before the job

National Sales Tax

By ELMER ROESSNER
A strong movement for a national sales tax is building up. Such a tax will get serious consideration—possibly favorable—in Congress next year.

The National Association of Manufacturers has come out in favor of a sales tax on all manufactured goods except foods, with a suggested rate of 4 1/2 or 5 percent.

Several retailer organizations—most of which have been violently opposed to any kinds of sales taxes—are reconsidering their positions.

The arguments for a Federal sales tax are persuasive: Despite the reduction in government spending, the deficit persists. The excess profits tax is scheduled to end this year and an automatic reduction in income taxes is also coming. Unless we are to have more inflation, the government must find fresh sources of revenue. Thus, a national sales tax will extend hope, if nothing more, of lower income and corporation taxes.

A broad sales tax would permit the elimination of crazy inequalities in present excises. Machines that wash dishes are taxed; those that wash clothes are not. Devices that dispose of garbage are taxed; those that suck up dust are not. The luggage and photographic dealers must collect Federal taxes on almost everything they sell; their neighbors that sell tools and furniture do not. A dealer must collect a tax on a $150 fur but not on a $450 gown.

Some of these taxes originated in wartime with the added purpose of curbing sales of luxuries and goods of critical materials. The idea of government representatives on sales is pretty grim today.

A movement for a Federal sales tax will develop a strong counter-attack. Opponents will point out that it tends to shift a burden onto consumers, and this will be a telling point if the sales tax is brought up just as corporations are freed from the excess profits levy. Even if the EFT is overlooked, a sales tax appears to be a big on the little people. Everybody spending any money for goods, except food, would be paying a share—even a child buying a cap pistol, or a bag of marbles.

AND EVERYONE IS A CONSUMER!

Nobody can tell the hour or even the day, but some time this summer the population of the United States will reach 160,000,000. The total was 156,473,000 on June 1 and has been gaining at a rate of around 200,000 a month. So the 160-million day has as much chance of being today as any other day this month.

THE QUESTION OF WHETHER what has been going on in Korea is a war may have to be decided by the United States Supreme Court. In an insurance case, the Pennsylvania Supreme Court held that it was not a war. The U.S. District Court of Southern California ruled that it was. One or both cases will be argued on its ruling will depend the interpretation of many insurance policies and business contracts, with totals involved running into millions.

LAMP BASE COPYRIGHT—Another case heading Supreme Courtwards may determine whether designs of lamp bases may be copyrighted. A California company obtained a judgement against another firm on allegations that the design of a copyrighted base had been infringed. The lower has announced intentions of appealing on the ground that designs can be protected only design patents and not by copyrights.

SEES TEN-FOLD GROWTH IN AIR-CONDITIONING—Still more cheerful news: Ned Cole, chairman of the air-conditioning committee of the National Association of Home Builders, says that while sales will run $75,000,000 this year, they can reach $750,000,000 annually in the next three or four years.

To gain it, he said, the industry must consolidate itself and "present a solid front." By that, he said, he means that the industry must exchange more information among members, pool research data and develop a standard base for design requirements.

Each manufacturer has his own set of figures on heat losses and other pertinent data, he said. Until standards are set, the industry can't expect full support of the FHA and VA, nor can it develop a streamlined financing plan to reach the mass home market, he added.

Men Need 'Dior' Of Their Own

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Men need a Christian Dior, a bold fellow to restore the male feeling of being quite a guy.

Us gents are in a male quandary. We either have to expose more of our charms or retreat to the soft anonymity of the sleeping bag.

As I read the front line reports from the great style war in Paris, women don't know whether to throw away their corsets or keep them, elevate their skirts to their knee or go ahead and protect their thick upper ankles, expose their bosoms more or try to throw another layer on those they have rented or bought.

It seems to me that in this moment of feminine doubt men should move in and take over their old peacock strut. Let man again be king of fashions, as he once was.

I do not advocate long stockings, tight pants, and lace at the throat, although George Washington and Thomas Jefferson were robust and masculine in such attire. As a matter of recent history, some people feel that a gent doesn't represent his sex fully unless he has worn khaki. That's unfair, because a lot couldn't.

It might just as well be the other way around. Why shouldn't a woman feel uneasy if she has never worn the uniform of her country?

That is the pattern of some nations. Certainly no woman who believes in equal rights can deny today how much happier her life will be if she has only won the approval of a lady top sergeant for the way she can strip down a machine gun or make a bed.

That used to be the thing in the army that separated the men from the boys. Why in days to come shouldn't it be the test that separates the girls from the women?

The problem for men is to win equal rights in the world of fashions. For example, why shouldn't women worry about how far we bare our chests? Wouldn't they fret about this problem if men were courageous enough to make it a problem?

Same thing at the other end. Short or long pants. A man ordinarily has his pants just long enough so that he tramps on them if his rubber heels wear down.

If you see a guy with his cuffs above his ankles, you automatically are sure that either he went to Princeton or he got caught out in the rain with a cheap suit.

Maybe it's time for us to dazzle our girls. Show that thin gray hair on the lean but vibrant chest, expose the male fatted calf. Naturally, since the girls never bare their bay windows we don't have to unzip ours.

The main idea is to stir the girls up by showing them that men have their fashions too. Let's show 'em that while knighthood is always in flower—it can change its blooms. They've taken men for granted too long.

Think how you could confuse your wife by wearing the cousin of the hat she confused you with:

Thrill Of Those Old Crystal Sets Linger

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—I got a pleasant surprise package in the mail this morning—a crystal radio set.

That carried me back to the early 1920s when it was good sport for small boys to make their own radios. For almost nothing you could get some wire and wind it around an oatmeal box, ground it, serial it, ear-phone it and have yourself a radio set.

I was a little awkward at wire-winding, but a buddy of mine in Farmer City, Ill., patched one up. I'll never forget the thrill we had when we figured the wire finger to the crystal and caught an old-time band called the Kansas City Nighthawks, masterminded by a couple of boys named Carlton Coon and Joe Sanders, the old left-hander.

But who would think that $0.00 sold each year, and that more than a quarter of a million crystal sets now are in use throughout the world.

The package I got was by courtesy of WRC, the Washington outlet for NBC. WRC is celebrating the beginning of its 31st year on the air.

To think that there still is a demand for these little sets is remarkable in these days of television, the multiple "D" performances, and color TV.

WRC quotes the Philmore Manufacturing Co. as saying that the demand for crystal sets is greater than ever before. Only two outfits still make the sets.

Who buys them and why? They are much in use in the rural areas of the United States which still have no electricity, and where people can't afford a battery set.

The crystals also are used among the workers in the cotton field camps in the South. Patients in hospitals find them handy after lights out. Boy Scouts are among the buyers of the sets, too, and use them to provide entertainment on camping and field trips.

More than 10,000 New Yorkers use them regularly.

Our government is reported to buy large quantities of the sets to drop behind the Iron Curtain for propaganda purposes.

America is not the only land to find a use for the crystals. They are found in Mexico, Canada, South America, Australia, the Philippines, and even in remote Salpain.

The crystal set still works. Mine arrived in a little cardboard box and the main works were no bigger than a three-by-three inch nail tray.

The ting works, too.

But One Voting Place In County For Referendum

The wheat marketing quota referendum to be held August 14 will be conducted at only one voting place in Pitt County, advises Chairman Carl Scott of the Pitt County Production and Marketing Administration Committee. Polling places will be open from 7 a. m. to 7 p. m. and will be in charge of a local referendum committee of wheat growers appointed by the County PMA Committee.

Chairman Scott urges every eligible wheat grower to vote, since the outcome of the referendum will materially affect the price farmers receive for their 1954 wheat. He points out that if two-thirds or more of those voting favor marketing quotas, wheat loans at 90 percent of parity will be available to those who plant within their wheat acreage allotments.

If marketing quotas are rejected by the growers, quotas will not be in effect and the support rate on will drop to 50 per cent of parity for cooperators. Acreage allotments will be in effect for the 1954 wheat crop regardless of the outcome of the referendum, he explains. If marketing quotas are in effect, those who exceed their allotments, if also in excess of 15 acres, must store or dispose of their excess wheat as directed by the Secretary or pay the marketing penalty on the excess wheat. The marketing penalty is 45 per cent of wheat parity as of May 1, 1954.

The officially designated polling place for the August 14 wheat referendum in Pitt County is the PMA office in the Old Hospital Building on Johnston Street.

Public Showing Of TV And Radio Sets Conducted

The 1954 line of Sylvania radio and television sets will be shown to the general public today and tomorrow between the hours of 1 to 9 p. m. at the Women's Club.

A luncheon at the Women's Club yesterday highlighted the meeting of over 60 appliance dealers in the Eastern North Carolina area. The luncheon was sponsored by Walker-Martin, Inc., of Raleigh, exclusive distributors for Sylvania in this state.

Walker-Martin also distributes the entire line of General Electric small appliances.

It is expected that the new television station now under construction here will give a substantial boost to television sales in the region.

Local Sylvania dealers are V. A. Merritt & Sons, and Home and Auto Supply.

Psychologist Says U. S. Run By Women 'Different' From Others

By ROBERT MUSEL
United Press Staff Correspondent
LONDON (UP)—The United States is a nation run by women, and they are women different from those anywhere else in the world.

That, at any rate is the opinion of Dr. E. J. Dingwall, noted British psychologist and author.

So, he warned, the forthcoming Kinsey report on the sex behavior of women will apply only to the females of the United States. And whatever conclusions are drawn from the hardships of settling the women of the rest of the world.

The major factor of American life, in Dingwall's view, is that the women have become so dominant. They live so much longer than men that they gradually are inheriting the national wealth in the process. This has made the United States practically a matriarchy.

Dingwall received lots of comment and bales of angry letters some years ago when he announced that 20 years of research had convinced him European women led happier sex lives than American women.

He said American women had become dominant in many fields in the United States and had committed the biological error of taking that dominance into the bedroom. The result had been a deluge of wrecked marriages, complexes and rich psychiatrists.

Dingwall presently is busy revising a manuscript on American womanhood which in its first draft was so critical that publishers—possibly because they are mostly married men—did not dare handle it.

It represents a generation of study of American women and their environment, and the preliminary outline predicted years ago that the bust would become an American cult.

According to Dingwall, American women began moving away from other women as far back as the days of the Pilgrims. It was then that the hardships of settling the new world made them equal partners of their menfolk centuries ahead of the rest of the world.

Now, he says, their dominance has grown alarmingly.

"Naturally," he said, "this colors their attitude to emotional problems and gives American women a rather unique pattern—in sex as in other things."

"Certainly it has no duplicate in Europe where, whatever the status of the man of the house, he is still boss in the bedchamber."

Grifton's Board Considering Bids For A New Well

GRIFTON—The Grifton Board of Commissioners in session this afternoon to open and consider bids for a proposed new well to increase the town's water supply. Mayor Sam E. Nelson presided.

At a special meeting Monday night, the commissioners discussed the well contract and launched a campaign to combat violations of traffic laws in Grifton.

Herbert Ewell of the Grifton utilities department, tendered his resignation. The place had not been filled.

The traffic safety campaign, it was stated, resulted from the safety campaign launched by the Grifton Lions Club and presented by Lion Jack Gray. It proposed to designate walking lanes for pedestrians and re-mark parking spaces in the business section of Grifton. The Board of Commissioners will provide the paint and the Lions will do the painting. Police Commissioner Roger A. Johnson, in a report, commended Chief Herbert Adams and Police Constable D. Sandrella for vigilance in the performance of their duties in connection with motor vehicle traffic in town. The board warned that the police will be fully supported in their enforcement of traffic laws.

The board authorized applying pressure to collect privilege license taxes.

Out Of Control, Car Hits House

A car driven by Elijah J. Thomas, 21-year-old Negro, went out of control last night and crashed into a house at 12th and Pitt Street.

Investigating officer W. E. Peterson, reported that damage to the car was estimated at $400 with an undetermined amount to the house. No injuries were reported and no charges were made.

Between 1939 and 1952, users of electricity in Great Britain increased from 10 to 13 1/2 million.

Mass Of Paper Work Presented To Eisenhower

DENVER (UP)—A mass of paper work caught up with President Eisenhower today and he was prepared to start work on it immediately, signing a long list of private relief and minor bills left for his action by the adjourned Congress.

The first White House pouch of official papers arrived during the night from Washington by special Post Office Department courier and the President planned to go to work on the first bills in his small vacation office at Lowry Air Force Base.

Bernard M. Shanley, the President's special counsel, will fly out from Washington Thursday with another batch of bills, most of them of some more importance than the accumulation put before the President today.

Mr. Eisenhower has until Aug. 18 to act on 110 bills left by the departing Congress or condemn them to a pocket veto.

Give Statistics On Their Goods

CHICAGO (UP)—The Foundation Garment Company came up with some statistics today.

The most popular brassiere size in 37 different countries, the company said, is 34B.

Buxom beauties in Sweden and northern Europe may buy larger brassieres but they average only one size greater than the rest of the world.

The tiny women of the Far East buy a great many padded bras, the company said, but so do American women.

Unusually Long Docket Is Heard In City Police Court

By CHESTER WALSH

In Police Court Monday, Judge Charles H. Whedbee found Caesar Freeman, Negro, guilty of being drunk and aiding and abetting in driving while drunk. The court fined him $100 and costs.

In connection with this case, Judge Whedbee fined Fountain Bumpers, Negro, guilty of driving drunk. The court gave Bumpers 60 days on the roads, sentence suspended on payment of $100 and costs. The judgment also contained a recommendation that he not be allowed to drive a motor vehicle for a year.

Egar R. Brigman of Rocky Mount (driving drunk) was given 60 days on the roads, sentence suspended on payment of $100 and costs. The court recommended that his license be revoked for a year. He gave notice of appeal to Superior Court.

Judge Whedbee and Solicitor Eli Bloom agreed that the case in which Sadie Stocks Heath was charged with driving drunk should be not pressed. The court also not pressed the case in which the woman was charged with careless and reckless driving. In the hit-and-run case against her, prayer for judgment was continued on payment of $25.

Allen G. Tucker, teen-age boy was charged with discharging firearms in the city. The case was "continued to," and the court "deemed prosecution not in the public interest." Testimony revealed that the youth had been firing loud-rotating paper caps.

Bruce Reddick, Negro, had three charges against him. The court fined him $5 for discharging firearms in the city. Reddick was given 30 days in jail for carrying a concealed weapon (pistol). Sentence was suspended on payment of $50 and costs. The pistol was ordered confiscated and it was turned over to the police. For assaulting Bruce Ebron, Negro, with a deadly weapon (pistol), the court gave Reddick 60 days on the roads, suspended on payment of $25, costs deducted. He is to pay $22 to Pitt Memorial Hospital and $20 doctor's bill.

Drunk: Arthur McCoy, Negro, 30 days in jail or pay $10; Junior Davis, 10; J. H. Woolard, $10; Henry Roell, Negro, 30 days or pay $10; Otis Hawkins, Negro, $10, costs deducted.

Billy H. Wilson, paid $10 for failure to stop at a traffic light.

Polly H. Hicks, Negro, assault with a deadly weapon, case not pressed.

Clarence Jones, paid $20 for speeding.

Mavis Carson, Negro, paid $10 for disorderly conduct. Willie Melvin Lee, Negro paid $10 for disorderly conduct.

Joseph Payton, Negro, was not guilty of vagrancy.

Johnny Lee Whichard, Negro, assault on a female, 60 days in jail.

William Whitelhurst, Negro, no operator's license, 30 days in jail, sentence suspended on payment of $15.

The court found Donald R. Ramsey guilty of the larceny of two electric fans from the Greenville Hotel, on Dickinson Avenue, and gave him 30 days on the roads.

Robert L. Haddock, non-support, six months on the roads, sentence suspended on payment of $20 a week for support of his family. The case was retained for further order of the court.

Letha W. Bradshaw, was found not guilty of failure to yield the right-of-way.

Roosevelt Langley, Negro, non-support, six months on the roads, sentence suspended on payment of $7 a week for support. The case was retained for further order of the court. Langley gave notice of appeal to Superior Court.

Tom Joyner, was found guilty of damaging personal property (auto glass). The court ordered him to pay $10 on court costs and $6.31 to H. J. Braxton.

The court found Tom Joyner guilty of careless and reckless driving and gave him six months on the roads. Sentence was suspended on payment of $25, costs deducted. The court further ordered that Joyner is not to operate a motor vehicle for six months unless he makes restitution for property damage.

Lincey Edwards, Negro, assault on a female, paid court costs, and the court restrained him from molesting his wife.

Pearl Worthington paid $10 for failure to stop at a traffic light.

To Women Who Have Changed Shampoos During the Past Year

If you have changed your shampoo in the past twelve months, you've had lots of company. For like yourself, literally millions of women are constantly switching from one brand to another, almost all with unhappy results.

Of course there's a good reason for all this coast-to-coast shopping around—two reasons, in fact:

1. A great many shampoos now on the market are so-called "all-purpose" shampoos.
2. Hair conditions differ just as skin conditions do. And each requires a different type of shampoo.

After all, what is an "all-purpose" shampoo but a shampoo that tries to be a "jack of all trades." The result: it ends up by being "master of none." On the other hand, your hair is as individual as your skin. Your hair is either dry, oily, normal or tinted and bleached. So how could any "all-purpose" shampoo be right for all these types of hair? There is only one sensible, scientific solution to the shampoo problem: 4 DIFFERENT SHAMPOOS FOR THE FOUR TYPES OF HAIR.

These 4 custom-formulated shampoos are now available for the first time. They bear a famous name—"Aquamarine Shampoo" by Revlon. While each is expressly formulated for a different type of hair, all work their wonders through a new exclusive shampoo principle—magnetism.

An uncanny new shampoo ingredient, discovered by Revlon chemists, called "Magnetol" gives you complete control over your hair immediately after shampooing. It is almost as though each bottle came complete with a hairdresser: your hair is so amazingly manageable.

Here's how "Magnetol" works: As you probably know, when your hair is thoroughly cleaned, many important natural oils have been removed along with the dirt. "Magnetol" replaces these oils, because this incredible ingredient is magnetically attracted to hair. In other words, clean hair actually attracts "Magnetol" to it, and thus "Magnetol" practically becomes part of the hair-shaft, so that your hair has more "body" immediately after your shampoo. In fact, it becomes as beautifully manageable in minutes as it would be two or three days after an ordinary shampoo!

This we promise: you'll never again say, "I just washed my hair and I can't do a thing with it." You know which type of hair you have. Every woman does. Now at long last you can do something positive about it. Simply ask for Aquamarine Shampoo for Dry Hair . . . Oily Hair . . . Normal Hair . . . or Tinted and Bleached Hair. You'll get what you've always been looking for—a perfect shampoo for your type of hair. . . a shampoo that cannot fail to give you shimmering, beautifully clean hair, alive with dancing highlights. . . hair that is manageable instantly instead of 2 or 3 days later.

Unbreakable plastic bottle—so safe, so economical to use. $1.50 each. No Federal tax.

Pianist On Tour Is A Mighty Traveller

By W.G. ROGERS
Associated Press Arts Editor
NEW YORK, (AP) — Keep in touch with me, I said to my pianist Andor Foldes when he and his wife Lili left late in April for a tour in foreign parts:

Nobody ever kept in touch with me before for so many miles. From the time of Foldes' last American concert, in Erie, Pa., he wrote me from shipboard, and from London, Rome, Nairobi, Salisbury, Grahamstown and Leopoldville. . . whence he flew to Darmstadt, Germany, where he has been appearing the last two weeks.

Hurried Life
"The life of a concert artist is a rather hurried affair at times," he wrote, quite unnecessarily, from the middle of the Atlantic, "but it has its compensations. Lili and I enjoy the crossing more than I can say."

He had played in Erie April 24, and sailed from New York April 25. He reached London May 1, Friday, took off by jet and, after a stop for a breather in Rome, arrived in Nairobi, Kenya, where he played his first African concert the following Thursday.

Evidently it kept up at that dizzy pace for weeks and weeks. He played twice in Salisbury, Southern Rhodesia, and was heard once or oftener in Johannesburg, Cape Town and five other Union of South Africa cities, and then in Elisabethville and Leopoldville, Belgian Congo.

From Nairobi he wrote, "There seem to be a lot of sharp critics here as you can see on the picture" . . . a pair of lions, though they looked pretty sleepy to me.

Armed Audience
He failed to mention the fact, about which I had to read in the New York Times that his Nairobi audience, in fear of trouble with the Mau Mau, came right into the Kenya National Theatre with their firearms on their hips or in their pockets.

By May 15 he was writing from Salisbury, "So far we had a wonderful trip. My first three appearances in Nairobi and my recital here in Salisbury were most successful. Lady Mary, wife of the Governor of Kenya, Sir Evelyn Baring, honored my concert with her presence and came backstage to chat with me. She is a fine musician herself and specializes on the clavichord. As I happened to play two Scarlatti sonatas in my recital, we had a lot to talk about."

The same letter from the flying musician continues: "I found great interest in American music and was asked to get in touch with some of the major U.S. music publishers whom I've asked for samples of American piano music."

First Performances
From Grahamstown came this: "I gave a lot of 'first' performances here in this charming South African city — including a local 'first' of Beethoven's Op. 109 (E Major). This is a most fascinating continent — the only trouble is that I don't have enough time to explore it — too busy with concerts (15 dates in 20 days!)"

And finally from Leopoldville, he wrote under the date of June 25: "Tomorrow Lili and I are leaving for Europe and my next assignment: The presentation of Bartok's complete piano works in Darmstadt at the Contemporary Festival there between July 16 and 30th. We look forward to a long chat-session upon our return home — around the end of February 1954."

Budapest-born Foldes has played with the major American orchestras and appeared in recitals in scores of American cities. His wife wrote of their first experiences in this country in a book called "Two on a Continent." She does frequent magazine articles. He is the author of a book on how to play the piano, "Keys to the Keyboard."

Lots of kids have been treading the scales, judging by their mournful wails.

What to do about a new-found pound seems to be the question. One girl asks: "Should I starve myself for the rest of the summer? Should I go on a diet of black coffee?"

Heavens to Betsy — what's all the excitement over a little pound here or there. So many books have been written about dieting and streamlining the figure that a couple of ounces begin to look like fat-lady circus proportions to some kids.

It is perfectly natural to gain a few extra pounds during the summer months when so much strenuous exercise is likely to make you ravenous. As soon as school begins and worries about calculus and French take the upperhand again, pounds will roll off no doubt. In the meantime, relax.

If pounds exceed normal weight by four there is something you might do just to make that bathing suit fit smoothly for the balance of the summer.

Just try the substitution theory. Instead of eating creamed chicken, eat a hamburger if you have a choice. Preferably without the bun.

When you are being coaxed to the soda fountain settle for a limeade without sugar or a big glass of tomato juice or orange juice.

If you are on the picnic-planning committee in your set talk up the hotdogs (beef), hamburgers or clams and salad, raw vegetables (wonderful to-munch-on cauliflower, carrots, radish, scallions) instead of spaghetti, chili, macaroni salad and deviled eggs.

When Dad suggests ice cream for the family in the evening, pretend you didn't hear as you go out the back door.

Encourage Mom to serve fruit for dessert and to skip those luscious pies and cakes.

Candy and nuts and other treats that you just nibble on because they happen to be there should be put out of sight. Ditto potato chips, cookie and buns.

Instead of any of those sweets eat a piece of fruit. An apple, orange, pear, tangerine, grapes, peaches and cherries are delicious at this time and chock full of vitamins, too.

Whatever happens in your homemade diet plan don't give up those daily health foods — milk, butter, vegetables, meat or fish, cheese, fruit, wholewheat bread.

If your hips are showing a few bumps — a little exercise will go a long way to buffing them down, providing you watch your diet. Swimming, bicycling, tennis and hiking are a few of the sports which help keep weight down to par.

Algerians Pose Social Problem Among French

PARIS (U.P.)—The death of seven Algerians from police gunfire during Bastille Day rioting focused new attention on the serious social problem of 300,000 North Africans living in sub-marginal conditions in France.

Most of them are French citizens since Algeria was made part of the French homeland after World War Two. They come to the capital looking for work, and a better life.

Instead, most of them find themselves stranded, broke, unemployed, living in the most squalid conditions in France's largest cities. Because of their French citizenship there are no special services set up to protect and guide them in what remains for them a basically foreign land, and no means of controlling their entry or movement.

There is no exact figure on the number of Algerians in France, but most authorities agree that the 300,000 figure furnished by the Family Aid Office is a reliable estimate. Almost all are adult males.

The Ministry of Labor lists only 137,600 Algerians as gainfully employed. The rest are largely reduced to begging, peddling merchandise of dubious quality on the streets, or living by illegal means.

Employers say those who have jobs are good workmen, get along well with their fellows, are punctual and well disciplined, but markedly slower than native-born Frenchmen. Only one in a 1,000 rises to the level of foreman.

Live in Strange World
The Arabs are clanish, live together in groups according to their tribe or home town in Africa, and devotedly faithful to helping each other in the strange and frequently hostile world that surrounds them. With less than one in two working, and nearly all low paid, sharing with less fortunate tribesmen means packing several persons in a single room lacking even elementary necessities in the worst quarters of the city.

Crime runs in normal proportion to the population, police reports say. Knifing and violence are unusually high, but swindling is almost non-existent.

With living conditions so low and a social welfare program completely lacking, the Algerian colony has been a ripe field for Communist missionary work. The Reds have moved in where they found conditions worse and organized Algerians into "shock troops" that have little to lose in supporting the Communist propaganda line.

The Communists, of course, have everything to gain in stirring up a natural discontent and in setting up situations in which the Algerians can become public martyrs. Police charge that the Bastille Day rioting at Place de la Nation had all the earmarks of being well-organized in advance.

Plans For Progress

Politicians from almost every party have called for full investigation of the causes of the riots in both the National Assembly and Senate, and non-Communist labor unions and civic groups have joined in the demand urging that action be taken to better the lot of the North African French citizens.

The Christian Committee for a Franco-Islam understanding called on the parliament to remember that "their destiny is linked with ours," and asked for an immediate constructive program.

The conservative morning paper

"Figaro" proposed editorially a four-point program for bettering conditions for the Algerians, 132,000 of whom are in Paris.

The paper asked an increase in the kinds of employment open to the North Africans, creation of new and sanitary lodging centers for them, setting up a priority for employment among those willing to submit to a health inspection, and above all improvement in the land and industries in Algeria so that so many would not feel it necessary to leave their homes.

FIRE GIVES ALARM
BOW, N. H. (UP) — A short circuit that started a car fire also gave the alarm. The blow started because of the short circuit and caused the automobile horn to blow.

Although diesel locomotives can accelerate faster than steam power, most of the U.S. railroad speed records are held by steam engines.

CHAPTER TWENTY-ONE

AFTER Karen had driven off Dave went back for his fishing gear. The boys found him in the brook and commented upon his lack of success. And Joe said: "We could get out the boats. You might want to still-fish soon or troll on the river. They'll need painting, I guess, and maybe a seam's sprung or something. Herb, you cut along home and ask pop for some of that leftover green paint and stuff. Green's okay by you, Mr. Barton?"

They took the canvas of the boats and looked at them critically. Herb came back presently, and they worked on the boats until dusk fell and the boys reluctantly went home.

In the house, the lamps lit, Dave picked up a heavy cotton glove. Karen's. He turned it over. It had been moulded to her long, narrow hand.

By rights it should have been lonely here tonight because a lively girl had been in this room, sat at that table looking at books, because she'd boiled the kettle of tea, and washed cup and plates and his glass. And particularly because she regarded Tim's picture for so long, yet had not burned his father with pity nor even, it appeared, sympathy. She was an accepting sort of person, unusual in anyone so young. And her speech was friendly and unadorned by the fashionable adjectives he had long since found tedious. It seemed to him that the girls and women he knew came fairly standardized, in appearance and speech. Everything from a painting to a recipe was fabulous, fantastic, exciting.

Not, of course; to Em, never given to catchwords or slang.

At midweek Dave drove to the town to put his car in a garage for minor overhauling and to buy sports shirts. He'd telephoned home—causing a flutter in the kitchen—for reasonable clothes and these Hattie had pressed, packed and sent. But a man can always use extra sport shirts. Selecting them, he wondered if he had spring fever. He was usually more conservative. "For a man of my age," he informed the clerk, "these seem a little on the dizzy side."

"It's not the college kids that need brightening up," said the clerk; "besides, men ought to wear color. Look at the birds!"

This amused his customer. Serve me right, I stuck my neck out on that one, he thought. Well, he'd always gone in for fairly colorful flannel shirts. Mrs. Rogers admired them. She'd reminded him, winter was past. "I'll send Cas out for the big blankets," she said, "I always see to them for Dan. If you'll give me your heavy things, I'll hang them out, and afterwards you can pack them in the cedar chest Dan built. Better buy some mothflakes and wrap them up in newspaper first."

This he'd done. Today, in town, the shirts under his arm, he went to the bank to cash a cheque, and looked curiously at the tall young man in the savings account section. He wasn't busy, so on impulse, Dave went over to lean on the counter and asked, "You're Frank Sims, aren't you?"

Superfluous; a modern sign indicated that he was.

"That's right. What can I do for you, sir?"

"Nothing, I'm afraid. I'm Dave Barton, in the Peters camp." He smiled at the younger man, who was in appearance amiable and attractive, if undistinguished. "Cas Rogers spoke of you the other day."

"And Karen told me about you," said Frank informally. "She told me how you'd fixed the camp up."

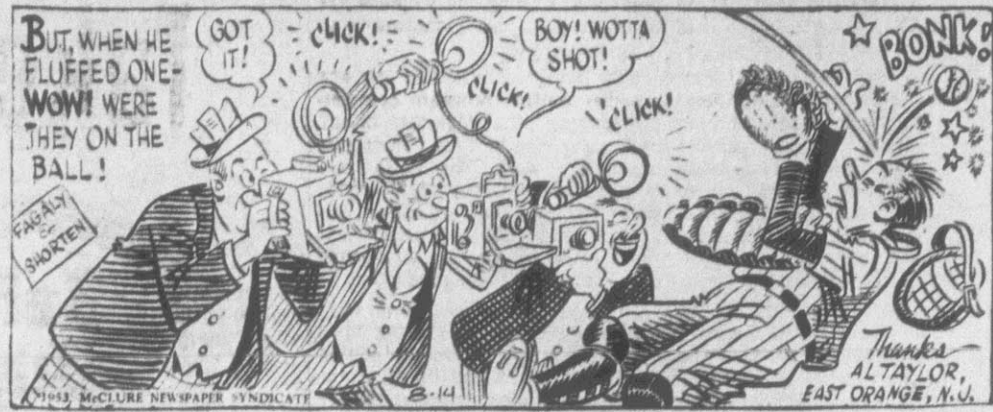

"I haven't, really; I added only books, a radio, and some untidy belongings. I told her she was more than welcome to paint there any time, but she hasn't taken me at my word. Why don't you come with her sometime, unless you mind the punkies?"

"I was brought up to expect them. Well, thanks, Mr. Barton. I'll take you up on that."

Leaving the bank, Dave dropped in at the silver shop. Karen was alone, behind the counter talking to a customer. She looked up smiling. "I'll be right with you, Mr. Barton," she promised.

Killing time, regarding the silver, he recalled that Maria had a birthday at the end of the month. He could send earrings to match the pin he'd given her for Christmas. When Karen was free, he asked, "Are there lawn earrings to match a pin I bought Christmas?"

She put a pair on the counter. "They come in copper, too. I'm glad you like the design. It's one of mine."

"It's charming. Let me write the address for you—have you a card? You'd better hold them for a while. . . I'll let you know when to send them." He added, "I just introduced myself to a friend of yours."

"Oh? Who?"

"Frank Sims."

She colored, and said: "You've been listening to gossip. But she smiled."

"Maybe. He said he'd come to camp with you some day. Incidentally, I'm thinking of giving my first party," he went on, as the idea occurred to him. "I haven't tried the outdoor fireplace yet. And I pride myself on my steaks."

"What," asked Karen gravely, "are steaks?"

When he left he went to Hank's office. Hank was in and glad to see him.

"I'll blow you to lunch if you're free, Hank."

"You're on. Give me five minutes. Matter of fact, I was going to drive out about 2 and leave a message with Cas if you weren't in. Got a wire from Dan Peters 20 minutes ago. The deal's okay."

"Good. He accepted my offer?"

"Yep. Can't honestly say you got it cheap, on the other hand, he didn't hold you up. He called me couple nights ago. Little hassle over the extra acreage. He said a man never knew when he might want to come back and build for himself, or maybe cabins. I said you wouldn't stand for cabins. So today he threw in the towel. We can wind it up fast, before he changes his mind."

"Suits 'em fine," Dave said.

On his way to Cas' to tell his news, he thought. Maybe I'm nuts. What about the river cottage? If I say I want to sell. . . Do I? Yes, certainly—but suppose Em doesn't. But I don't know where Em fits in.

Before the month ended he owned the camp and land and gave his party to celebrate. The Dawsons were able to come, they knew a nurse who was free and would baby-sit, she was good with Sheila. The Rogers family came, a number of people from the village, Dr. Mercer and his wife, and Karen, with her aunt and Frank Sims. Dave said, when he stopped in the shop to ask: "I'd like Mrs. Howard to come, if she will and doesn't mind informality."

She didn't, and Dave liked her very much, a big, humorous woman— you sensed her kindness and competency. It was obvious that she was fond of Frank Sims. "He's been like a son," she told Dave when he spoke of young Sims.

Dave broiled his steaks outdoors at sunset, but when the sky darkened there was a chill in the air and everyone drifted back to camp, where there was more food. Mrs. Rogers had firmly taken over. "You fix your steaks," she said, "and leave the rest to me. It's a marvel how much confusion men make, even at a picnic."

They had fried potatoes, salads, pickles, doughnuts, cake, and plenty of beer and coffee. "Gee," said young Joe, eating steadily, "is this ever swell!"

It was a pleasant evening, and before Karen left, her host asked: "Have you given up painting?"

"Should I? No, but I've been busy. The shop's closing next week for alterations before the summer trade starts. I'll have vacation then, I'd like to paint the river from the point, and to return your books."

"Get anything from them?"

"Not much, but enough to discourage me. I guess I'll remain a Sunday painter. It could be worse. Look at Winston Churchill!"

"I'd rather look at you," Dave said. "wouldn't you, Frank?"

"I sure would," Frank agreed, beaming at his girl. "You ready, Karen? Aunt Mamie says it's time to go." He turned to Dave, his hand out. "Thanks for a grand time, sir."

"Sir," Dave repeated to himself when they'd all gone.

How old was Frank? Twenty-eight? Thirty? Anyway, his hair was starting to recede!

Staton Hits Grandslam Homer In 10th As Locals Win Greenville In Semi-Finals; Play Gastonia At 5:30 P.M.

Charles Staton, Greenville center-fielder, blasted a grand slam home-run in the bottom of the tenth inning this morning at Greensboro to give the local All-Stars a well-earned 7-3 win over the Wilmington Little Leagueers in the sectional playoffs.

Opening the climactic last stanza was Merle Bynum, who singled. Bobby Edwards was on with an error. Winning hurler Walker Allen then lashed a long single to right-field to load the sacks and set the scene for Staton's blow. Staton, who was taken off the mound in the second inning, put the wood to the first pitch thrown by Benton and sent the ball sailing over the right-centerfield barrier, making the locals victors, 7-3.

Wilmington drew first blood, scoring two times in the top of the second inning on three bases on balls issued by Greenville pitchers and a double by centerfielder Ray Williamson. Allen, relieving Charles Staton, was victim of the two-base blow, but he fanned Jerry Strickland to end the inning.

In the Greenville half of the second inning, Ronald Riggs led off with a single. Richard Nobles fanned, and Lucian Bryan was on via a fielder's choice with Riggs being forced out. Joe Mose singled to push Bryan around, and Bobby Edwards walked to load the bases. Allen then doubled to score two runs and tie the game up. Edwards scored on a wild pitch to put Greenville ahead 3-2.

The losing Wilmington team scored one unearned run in the top of the fifth to end the game into overtime, after both teams failed to score in the sixth.

The Greenville All-Stars will play Gastonia this afternoon at 5:30 in the first semi-final game of the day Rocky Mount and Concord meet in the other contest at 7:30 p.m.

Greenville outfit Wilmington 16 to six, but were unable to make the hits payoff until the tenth. Allen had three hits to lead Greenville.

The contest was halted yesterday at the end of the sixth inning with the score knotted at three-all. The game was resumed this morning at 9:30.

Ezzard Charles Loses To Valdes By Judges' Vote

MIAMI, Fla. (UP)—Ezzard Charles' dream of becoming the first man in history to regain the world's heavyweight championship lay all but shattered today under the wreckage of his surprise loss to obscure Nino Valdes of Cuba.

Valdes stunned a crowd of 3,500 Tuesday night as he took Charles' best punches and came on to win the unanimous, 10-round vote of two judges and the referee.

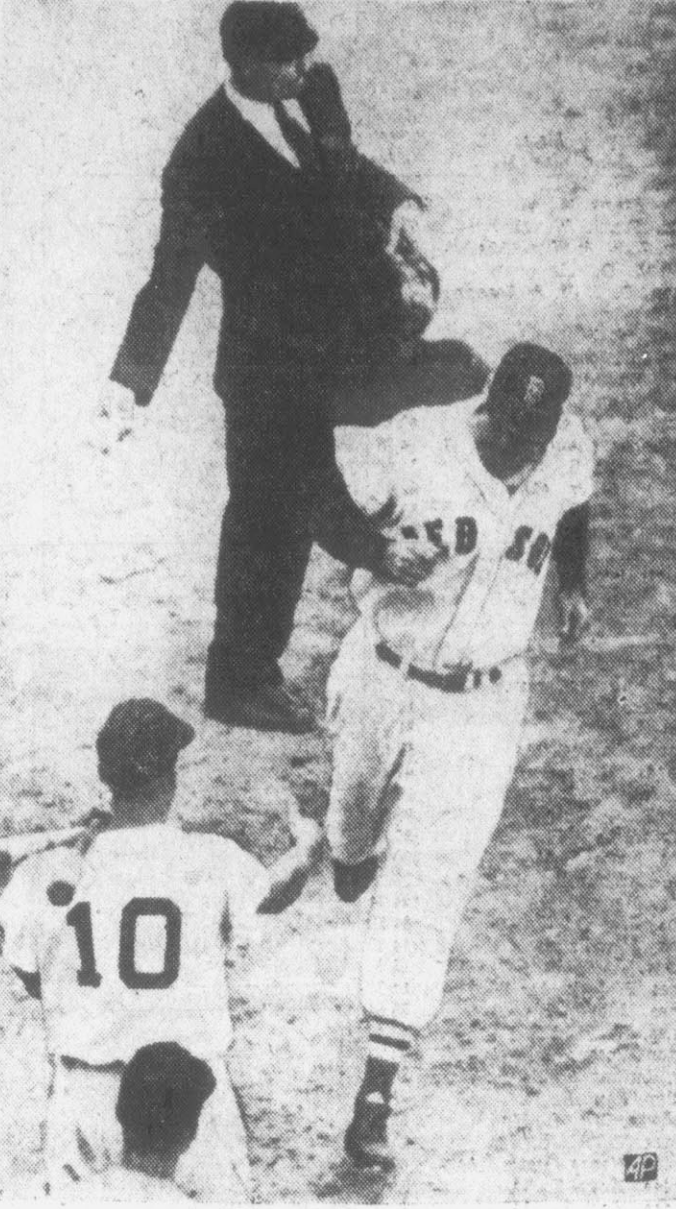

The setback apparently doomed Charles' hopes of getting a shot at the winner of next month's championship fight between Rocky Marciano and Roland La Starza and, at the advanced ring age of 32, may have ended them for all time.

"I just had a bad night," moaned the former champion from Cincinnati, O. "I missed."

Charles entered the ring at 191 1/2 pounds, a little over his usual fighting weight, and he allowed that the extra poundage made him "a little sluggish."

Charles, who had announced before the fight that he was going to turn slugger, found he couldn't put away the 209 1/4 pound Cuban. He landed the best blow of the fight in the ninth when he staggered Valdes with a left hook high on the right cheek, but Valdes retaliated with a flurry of lefts and rights and avoided going down.

Terrible Teddy Thumps

With head down, pinch hitter Ted Williams crosses home plate after hitting his first home run since returning from service. The homer, hit off Cleveland pitcher Mike Garcia at Fenway Park in Boston, landed in the right centerfield bleachers. Billy Goodman offers his congratulations as umpire John Stevens stands by. The Indians won 9-3. The fans gave Ted a rousing three-minute ovation for his effort. (AP Wirephoto)

Dodgers Beat Giants As Braves Lose To Cards; White Sox Gain

By CARL LUNDQUIST
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP)—The Dodgers made it an "anniversary wait." Never forgetting for a moment that it was exactly two years ago they started the memorable collapse which saw them blow the 13 1/2 game lead they possessed on Aug. 11 of that season, they just about convinced every one in sight that it won't happen again—at least not this year.

And they did it right in the Polo Grounds with the hated Giants their victims in a brilliantly executed 90 triumph in which the following things happened:

1. Carl Erskine pitched a two-hitter, missing a no-hitter only because of two singles by Hank Thompson. It was the first victory of his life in the Polo Grounds after five straight defeats there, his 13th of the season. In fact it was the only complete game he ever pitched there.
2. Sal Maglie got his ears flapped to his head, permitting nine hits in four innings, including Gil Hodges' 25th homer of the year and his first against Giant pitching.
3. Maglie, who had a 3-0 win and lost edge over Brooklyn this year, and who had been 18-5 lifetime before Tuesday night's defeat, begged off in the fifth inning because of a stiff right shoulder.
4. The Dodgers, finally, evened the season count with the Giants at 7-7. They are ahead of all other clubs in season's play.
5. Erskine, who said he threw "mostly curves because they were doing things for me," thought he might have had the second no-hitter of his career, "if I had been a little better fielder, and if my control hadn't been so good."
6. "I should have felled Thompson's first hit which went right through the box but I didn't get my glove down on it. On the second one, he hit a change-up for a bloop, er, but he's a hot hitter. Maybe I should have walked him both times. I just got that ball where he could lam it."

Brooklyn's lead went to 7 1-2 games when the Cardinals, on doubles by Solly Hemus and Red Schoendienst in the ninth inning, drove in the winning run in a 4-3 victory at Milwaukee, which ended the six-game winning streak of the second-place Braves. Stu Miller pitched a seven-hitter for his third victory over Milwaukee. Stan Musial and Rip Repulski homered for St. Louis and Del Crandall hit one for Milwaukee.

The White Sox out of the Yankees lead to six games in the American League by defeating collapsible Cleveland, 6-2, while Washington upset New York, 2-1.

In other American League games the Red Sox won a pair at Philadelphia, 7-6 and 7-5, while St. Louis beat Detroit 5-2, then lost 9-3. Elsewhere in the National, Pittsburgh completed a suspended game victory over the Phils, 7-4, then lost the regular contest, 3-0, while the Cubs topped Cincinnati 1-0.

The White Sox scored five runs in the seventh to top Cleveland, Minnie Minoso delivering a three-run homer off Bob Lemon. Minoso collected three hits.

Walt Masterson pitched a five-hitter to edge Billy Miller in a duel at Washington. Singles by Mickey Vernon, Kite Thomas and Clyde Vollmer put Masterson in front in the first inning and made it 2-0 when Wayne Terwilliger doubled and Frank Sacka singled in the fourth. Irv Noren tripled home the Yankee run in the seventh.

Sammy White got six hits, three in each game in Boston's sweep. Mel Parnell won his 16th game in the opener but needed help from three pitchers when the A's scored twice in the ninth. A five run rally in the fourth clinched Hec Brown's 11th triumph in the second game.

Don Lenhardt hit a three-run homer in the eighth to give St. Louis its opening victory while Don Lund drove in four runs with a homer and a fly to pace Detroit in the second game.

Paul Minner pitched a three-hitter and gained his eighth victory when Hal Jeffcoat singled in the only run in the second at Chicago.

Lefty Curt Simmons pitched sixth hit ball for his 10th victory in the regular game at Pittsburgh. It was his third shutout. He gave up no walks and struck out four. The Phils also made four runs in the final three-innings of the curfewed game which had been hung up since July 5, but Pittsburgh made the seven scored then, stand up for the win.

'Feels Like 90 At Times'

By OSCAR FRALEY
NEW YORK (UP)—The mechanical man of golf will be 41 Thursday and, while the gears are meshing better than ever, Ben Hogan insists that "there are times when I feel like I'm 90."

Those times are under adverse weather conditions or when he puts too much strain on the slender frame which almost was dismantled in a near-fatal automobile accident in early 1949. But Hogan, who was born in the tiny cow town of Dublin, Tex., on Aug. 13, 1912, will be around for the big ones quite a while yet.

"Golf is my life," he grins. "Actually, I feel fine. It's just that I'm getting too old to have birthdays anymore."

You can't prove that to the tournament aces who have been chasing Bantam Ben with such ever-increasing ferocity that the stock market argument now is whether Hogan is greater even than the immortal Bobby Jones. The debate reached its peak after his British Open triumph, giving Ben a record of five wins in six starts this year.

His other triumphs were in the U. S. Open, the Masters, Colonial Invitation and Pan-American Open. In his other start, he finished third at the Greenbrier.

"In the future," Ben says, "I'll play in the Masters, and the U. S.

Open and possibly the Colonial Invitation. I don't know about playing in the British Open anymore. That's too far in the future."

As for his sensational play, Ben chuckles at the amazement of fellow professionals over what he calls his concentration on the fairways.

"I don't go into a trance or anything," Hogan declared. "I've just trained myself to think about one subject for three and one-half or four hours. You have to think of what you're doing and obliterate all outside influences."

"All of the pros have it to some extent," he added. "It's just that some of them can't do it that long. They permit their minds to wander. Any anytime you think about something else, you get into trouble."

Many of Hogan's rivals believe that is his greatest secret, that ability to concentrate to the exclusion of all else. Others feel that another Hogan factor is an analytical playing for position, where most of the other stars "bagg and hope."

Equipment is better now than in the Jones era yet it seems impossible, in view of the fast pace of today's game and the hundreds of outstanding players, that one man could completely dominate the game. Yet Hogan does.

Atlantic Coast Group Has Kicker In Bowl Policy

By WILLIAM SHIRES
Raleigh, N. C. (UP)—There's a kicker in the newly-adopted football bowl policy of the Atlantic Coast Conference that could mean no bowl game at all for an ACC team on Jan. 1, 1954.

In December the ACC will select one of its seven members to be the one conference representative eligible to accept a bowl bid. The kicker is that the school selected may refuse to play in a bowl. And chances right now are better than even that several of the seven would do just that.

Unless there is a flat statement from responsible school officials before December that they would or would not play in a bowl game, fans and bowl sponsors might be kept guessing—especially if there are good grid records and possibly a couple of All-Americans involved.

The guessing could go on until the Dec. 4 meeting and by then the bowl people are nervous if their selections aren't made.

Unless there are two ACC teams with nearly equal bowl popularity ratings, it would be questionable as to whether a bowl would want the conference's second choice.

The end result might be no bowl bid at all for the ACC next New Year's Day.

Pre-season ratings generally place Maryland and Duke as the probable lions of the ACC this fall. They do not meet in the regular season and this year, because of schedule conflicts, the ACC will choose no formal football champion.

Both Duke and Maryland have several All-American candidates. Both play rugged schedules.

There would be little doubt about Maryland. The Terrapins have fond memories of their 1952 Sugar Bowl glory—the game that got them suspended from the old Southern Conference for a year for defying a bowl ban.

But an official at Duke has said whether the Blue Devils would accept a bowl bid, the unofficial feeling on the basis of previous opposition by Duke President Edens is that Duke probably would decline.

South Carolina, which may come up with a winner, and Clemson probably would favor a bowl game, according to unofficial reports.

North Carolina, Wake Forest and North Carolina State would do some soul searching before saying yes or no.

Turning down a bowl bid would pose a problem of principle vs. (financial) principal not only for the school involved, but for the other six ACC members and the conference itself.

Any bowl money received by an ACC school would be split three ways. The participating school would keep half. The other half would be divided with the other schools getting equal shares of 75 per cent of it, and the conference, which now has an empty treasury, getting the rest.

Lexington Here

Lexington edged Harlan 8-7 in Kentucky's State Little League baseball finals to gain the right to play in the Region Five Tournament scheduled to begin here Monday afternoon.

Ed Monroe received credit for the win, while the loss was credited to Marty Buttermore. Harlan had six hits, seven runs, and one error. The State Champion Lexington nine collected eight runs on nine hits and committed two errors.

Newport Star Favorite To Take Hambletonian

By TIM MORIARTY
United Press Sports Writer

GOSHEN, N. Y. (UP)—Twenty-three young horses, the best three-year-old trotters in the country, were poised to strike for the Hambletonian Trophy and the richest purse in harness racing at Good Time Park today.

Newport Star, the pride of Octave Blake's Newport stock farm, was favored to grab both the coveted silverware and the winner's share of the $117,117 purse to give the president of the grand circuit his first victory in the historic Hambletonian stakes.

Five times in the past Blake has sent trotters after the highly sought trophy but the best showing any of them made was the third recorded by Axomite in 1945. Now, eight years later, Blake has the favorite in Newport Star, a son of Axomite.

Lance Del Cameron, who has a chance to become the youngest winning driver of the classic at 33, will be in the sulky behind the ungainly bay colt and he too, after several disappointing attempts, shoots for a first victory.

Most of the other owners and drivers are in the same fix. Only three of the 19 owners with horses in the 1953 edition of the "Corn Tassel Derby" ever won the Hambletonian and only four of the 23 drivers steered home the winner.

For most of them this was a first shot at the richest race in harness racing. The winner gets $63,126.

Leonard J. Buck of the Allwood Stable, who has the 3 to 1 second choice in Kimberly Kid, never started a horse before but old Tom Berry, his driver, was in 20 previous runnings of the classic including the first back in 1926. And the 70-year-old veteran has two winners, Hanover's Bertha in 1930 and Chestertown in 1946, to show for his efforts.

The owners who have won the

Becker Brothers Wrestle Tonight

George and Bobby Becker, renowned wrestling brothers and television stars, will highlight tonight's wrestling card in Greenville's New Enterprise Warehouse.

Other popular stars on the card include Professor Roy Shire and his manager and partner, Bobby Wallace who will meet the colorful Becker boys in an Australian tag team match, and Lou Plummer, Jack Moore, Guy Brunetti and Frank Thompson. The matches, sponsored by Hugh T. Hardee and Woodrow Worthington, Greenville businessmen, will begin at 8:30 p.m.

George and Bobby Becker are Brooklyn lads who will be showing for the first time in Eastern North Carolina.

Tonight's card also features Lou Plummer, Texas Cowboy, a 235-pound wrestling great who will meet Irish Jack Moore in the semi-finals. This matchup is a master stroke on the part of the match-makers, because both of these men are big, rough, tough, experienced and powerful. It should be a close, exciting battle between two wrestling stylists.

For speed and cunning, the opening match between Guy Brunetti and Frank Thompson is designed to please. These boys are young and aggressive and very scientific.

Bisons Celebrate Return Of Tighe

BUFFALO, N. Y. (UP)—The bizarre umpire versus lie-detector case, which nearly cost Buffalo Manager Jack Tighe a year of his baseball life, ended on a seriocomic note today as the Bisons celebrated his "return to society."

Tighe returned to the managerial post as director of the International League's pace-setting Bisons Tuesday after he was exonerated by league President Frank J. Shaughnessy of spitting in the face of Umpire Max Fellerski three days earlier.

The bald Bison bench boss made diamond history on Monday by submitting to a lie-detector test to disprove the spitting charges. The polygraph tests indicated that Tighe was telling the truth, and his "indefinite" suspension was lifted—although he was assessed $100 for using profane language in arguing with Fellerski.

Farmville Golfer Plays In Georgia

Graydon Liles, one of the top golfers in Farmville, was winner of fourth place in the Championship Flight of a golf tournament in Douglas, Ga., this past weekend.

The Farmville golfer was playing in a tournament for visiting tobaccoists. A silver trophy was presented to Liles.

A former University of North Carolina golfer, Liles retained his championship rating in the Coastal Golf Tournament in Farmville in May.

TRANSFER, LADY?

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UP) — Mrs. Shirley Carey spotted a woman who wasn't quite sure just what method of transportation she was using. The woman got on a hospital elevator — and handed the elevator operator a dime. "Oh, I gave you my streetcar fare," she exclaimed a minute later.

GUESTS OF TOWN

McALLEN, Tex. (UP) — Mr. and Mrs. Joe Molley of Austin, Tex., were the first newlyweds to take advantage of McAllen's offer of a free night's lodging and a sight-seeing tour for honeymooners. Officials say the offer will remain open indefinitely.

STAMP EXCHANGE

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UP) — The woman getting on the bus had lost her transfer and had only a nickel and two three-cent stamps. The bus driver wouldn't take the stamps. Cecil Marble, Jr. said the woman sold the stamps to another passenger for a nickel and gave the driver the two nickels.

Great Difficulties Of Korea Truce Emerging

By PHIL NEWSOM
United Press Foreign News Editor

The United States is learning the facts of life about the Korean truce.

One of the harshest facts so far is Gen. Mark Clark's estimate that the Chinese Communists may be holding as many as twice the number of American war prisoners they have admitted.

This is not to imply that the truce should be regretted.

It has halted, temporarily at least, slaughter on the battlefield and it is bringing home 3,313 American war prisoners.

But subsequent events have pointed up the warning of military commanders that a truce simply marks a suspension of hostilities, not the end.

Further complicating the situation are the rules under which the Korean war was fought, wherein commanders in the field were governed not by military but by diplomatic necessities.

So this strangest of all wars ended in the strangest of all truces.

This is a truce without a victor and without a vanquished — in which neither side can impress its will except behind its own lines.

Hence the enormity of the problem raised by General Clark.

Clark says that after the present exchange is completed demands will be made through the armistice commission for an accounting of all prisoners.

If satisfaction is not gained there, then the problem will be taken before the international conference which will try to settle Korea's political future this fall.

Secretary of State Dulles had threatened United States retaliation against the Reds.

But what kind of retaliation? To the people of the United States, the holding of some 3,000 Reds for a like number of Americans would scarcely seem an even trade — nor would it even be likely to impress the Chinese.

Another very great difficulty is the fact that it will be many months, if ever, before registration teams are able to learn anywhere near accurately the number of Americans taken prisoner, the number who died in Red prison camps and those who simply are missing and presumed dead.

Stories must be taken from hundreds of men who, weary, sick and tortured, daily buried their fellows in North Korean prison camps — camps which still are closed to Allied investigators.

These men will not be able to remember names, nor to account for thousands shuttled back and forth along Korean trails and in more than a dozen prison camps.

And even should the Chinese and North Koreans be willing to cooperate, their own records are incomplete.

They don't even keep accurate records of their own men.

There still may be hope that at least some of our 8,000 missing will return. But the Reds are not noted for heart. The Russians continue to ignore demands that they account for more than 2,340,000 prisoners of war and thousands of missing civilians from World War II.

High levels of employment and income are keeping U. S. demand for agricultural commodities generally strong.

When 2 brands of gasoline cost you about the same . . .
how much difference can there be?

Both come from fine petroleum families, bearing well-respected names. You could find them across the street from one another, and a tankful of either will make about the same size dent in your pocket-book.

BUT . . . if one of them is Esso Extra, the overall difference between it and the other is apt to be surprisingly great. The difference between what you and your engine get for what you pay in the course of a year can be a very big difference, indeed.

We don't mean, of course, that the difference in Esso Extra will knock your hat off in 100 yards, or that it will make a tired old engine kick its heels like a lamb in the spring. Nor do we mean the other gasoline isn't good. It is good.

But we do mean that the man who always stops to see his Esso Dealer will get in Esso Extra a gasoline that meets the highest all-round, year-round standard of performance quality to be found.

If you'd like to have some proof, here it is:

We take eight qualities which automotive engineers have agreed are important in a gasoline, and which can be scientifically measured.

- 1. Sheer Power; 2. High Anti-Knock; 3. Long Mileage; 4. Clean Engine Operation; 5. Quick Starting; 6. Fast Warm-up; 7. Hot Weather Anti-Vapor-Lock; 8. Cool Weather Anti-Stalling.

Then we measure Esso Extra against competing brands for these performance qualities. And time after time in these tests Esso Extra meets the highest standard of overall year-round performance quality.

So it's not surprising . . . is it? . . . that Esso Extra is by far the most popular of all premium fuels in the area served by Esso Dealers!

And it wouldn't be surprising . . . would it? . . . if you and your own faithful engine would have Happier Motoring if your tank always contained Esso Extra!

Esso Extra meets today's highest standard of year-round gasoline performance!

Second Highest Benefits Accorded Pitt Veterans

Pitt county veterans received a total of $618.26 in benefits through District 3 veterans offices in Wilson last month, second highest in the district comprising some ten county and city units.

Results of the veteran funds usage are made available to the local veterans service officer for each unit monthly.

Top in the district three areas during July was Wilson county in which veterans received $1,380.07.

A further breakdown of benefits going to Pitt ex-servicemen showed: $44 was in insurance; $26 in death benefits; $645 in training programs; and $47.26 in compensations for service in World War I and II.

A monthly report by the Pitt veterans service officer, Louis Gaylord Jr., showed further that 102 interviews in veterans affairs were conducted during the month. Of this number, 15 were for education, nine for on the job training, one for em-

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (UP) — Outside of a few specialties, stocks were neglected early today.

The bulk of the issues favored the upside, but gains were limited to very small fractions. A number of equities held at their previous close.

Dealings were slow and transactions in the first hour were the smallest in almost three weeks. Sales in that hour totaled only 150,000 shares, compared with 180,000 in the same period yesterday.

A few "blue chip" stocks managed to move out of the narrow range. International Business Machines on one transaction rose a point to 241. Atlantic Gulf & West Indies added a point to 108.

Steel shares did little as Bethlehem was unchanged at 51 1/2. U. S. Steel also held at its previous close to 38 1/2. General Motors and Chrysler eased.

Boys Put In Cage By Zoo Officials

BUFFALO, N. Y. (UP) — Visitors at the Buffalo Zoo yesterday had never seen a pair of monkeys that looked so much like little boys.

In fact, the small pale creatures in the monkey cage really were little boys.

Zoo officials put the youngsters, aged 10 and 12, into the cage as punishment for throwing stones at penguins.

House Tore Up Section Of Rail

NEW YORK (UP) — A Long Island commuter train was delayed 48 minutes Tuesday when a house tore up a rail.

The house was being towed on a trailer truck across the tracks when one of the rails was knocked loose. It took 48 minutes to repair the damage.

Plant Employees Came In Body To Bloodmobile

Employees of the National Carbon Plant reported in a body yesterday to the bloodmobile and helped swell the amount of blood collected in Greenville. The women are being given refreshments, following their "vein-tapping." (Reflector Photo by Roy Hardee)

Red Oak News

Mr. William Poe, son of Dr. Clarence Poe and associate editor of The Progressive Farmer, connected with several members of our church last week concerning the October issue of his paper which will carry a feature article on our church.

Mr. Poe and a photographer for The Progressive Farmer will visit our church next Sunday, August 16, to take pictures and gather material for this article. We hope that every member of our church and Sunday School will try to be present on this date.

We would especially like for all the members of the Little Ladies Choir, the Adult Choir and the Junior Choir to be in their places. Mr. Poe stated that he would try to be present for both the Sunday School and church services.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton May of Winterville will be hosts at dinner to Mr. Poe and the ones who come with him.

One hundred eighteen people attended Sunday School at Red Oak last Sunday. We are almost bursting out the sides. We are very happy at the increased attendance and we extend an invitation to all in the community who are not attending Sunday School anywhere else to come and be with us.

A new Sunday School class was organized at Red Oak last Sunday. The teacher of this class is Sam Winchester. Mr. Winchester purchased a home in our community a year or so ago and since moving in the community he and his family have taken a very active part in our church. Those present in the newly organized class last Sunday were: Joe Jenkins Allen, Charles Manning, Nancy Allen, Mary Stocks, Waddell Manning, Bobby Smith, Burton Evans, Pete Stocks, Douglas Allen and Amos Ray Evans. The class will meet each Sunday morning in the community building.

Mr. James Sells of Birmingham, Ala. will meet with some of the folks at Red Oak Wednesday, Aug. 13, to take pictures and get material to be used in a magazine.

The Young Married Couples Class will meet at the community building next Friday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Sam Winchester as hosts. Every member is urged to be present.

The response to our recent appeal for help for a sick neighbor was wonderful. Fifty dollars in cash and about $50.00 worth of food, clothes, etc., was sent to him and he wants everyone who helped in any way to know that he truly appreciated it. He left Tuesday morning to enter Duke Hospital for observation and treatment.

Gov't Agencies Can't Promise Big Cost Cuts

WASHINGTON (UP) — Government departments said today they will try to meet President Eisenhower's demand for immediate new economies but they declined to promise any dramatic results.

Most insisted they already have been doing their best to cut expenses. And some indicated that slashes administered by Congress left little room for additional reductions.

A Justice Department official put it this way: "We're already down to the bone. If we cut any more we're going to be losing chunks of bone."

Mr. Eisenhower asked his agency heads Tuesday to attack expenses-cutting "with renewed vigor" so that government spending during the current fiscal year could be "progressively" reduced.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said the appeal was aimed at avoiding the necessity of a fall session of Congress to consider an increase in a national debt limit.

A United Press check of the various departments showed a unanimous willingness to try to fulfill the President's request but some economizing is advisable.

The government will move to trim its spending by an estimated $1,000,000,000 between now and January to avoid cracking the debt ceiling or dipping into desired cash reserves. Experts believe this will be difficult, if not impossible.

No signs of possible major new economies turned up in the department survey.

Fluctuation For Tobacco Prices

RALEIGH (UP) — Most average prices paid for fine cured tobacco on the South Carolina and Border North Carolina belts fluctuated from $1 to $3 yesterday when compared to Monday's sales which set a season high for both price and poundage.

The changes in most instances were for lower quality tobacco while the better grades held fairly steady. The volume of sales ranged from light to heavy.

The U.S. and North Carolina departments of agriculture reported Monday's sales set the high mark thus far as 7,032,032 pounds of tobacco went for an average price of $54.51 per hundred pounds. The South Carolina markets cleared 3,341,408 pounds of this total at an average of $55.04 while the Border Belt centers sold 3,690,624 pounds averaging $54.03.

There wasn't much change in quality yesterday. An increase in the percentage of good and fair quality was offset by a similar increase in nondescript. Principal marketings were low to good lugs, fair and good leaf, low and fair primings, low and fair cutters and nondescript.

Italy Is Again Without Premier

ROME, Italy (UP) — Premier designate Attilio Piccioni told Italian President Luigi Einaudi today he was unable to form a new government.

Piccioni, a 61-year-old Christian Democratic lawyer and World War I aviation pioneer, called at the president's summer residence at Caprarola, near here, to inform him of his decision.

It has been assumed by all political observers that he would hand Einaudi the list of a new "middle-of-the-road" cabinet.

Instead, Piccioni spent 45 minutes in a grim conference with the president, then emerged and announced he could not form a government.

In a press communique announcing his decision, Piccioni said: "As a result of my consultations I had come to believe it would be possible to constitute a ministry of active and profitable collaboration. But I must now state with regret that it has proved impossible — at least so far as my attempt is concerned — to bring the task undertaken to a successful conclusion."

"Consequently, I have asked the president of the republic to accept my renunciation of the charge of forming a government."

The announcement took the nation by surprise.

It had been believed he had succeeded where former Premier Alcide de Gasperi failed.

Owners Of Pitt Non-Taxed Dogs To Get Notices

Notices will be sent out this week to an estimated 1,700 dog owners of Pitt county who have not listed their pets with the county tax collector.

The list of owners to get notices is being based on records of dogs vaccinated for rabies by veterinarians in the county as reported by the health department.

North Carolina law requires all owners of dogs six months old or older on January 1 to list their pets for tax. The form being sent out by the county auditor's department provides space for listing male and female animals separately. Dog population of the county has been previously estimated at 12,000.

County Auditor Reginald Gray reported a number of owners listed their dogs during the last week when they came in to get their automobiles on the register.

After receipt of the reminders, dog keepers will have ten days to get on the books, after which second notices will be in order.

Meanwhile, listing of automobiles has stepped up since ten-day letters on these were mailed out last Wednesday.

Auditor Gray said this year's return from these won't come up to last in dollars and cents, but that this is because there are fewer names on the list as a result of last year's work.

Responding Well To Funds Drive

Co-chairmen of the Solicitation Committee for funds to finance the "Farmers Day" and beauty pageant in Greenville September 8 and 9 reported success on the first day.

The beauty contest will be held September 8.

Thirty Greenville business and professional men met yesterday morning and perfected plans for raising $5,250. Chairman W. W. (Bill) Watson presided.

Under Co-chairmen T. Y. Wagner, W. W. (Bill) Speight and Alton Barrett, the solicitors indicated that they may secure the $5,250 by the end of the week.

Jim Taylor reported that firms with branches in Greenville are responding satisfactorily with donations.

Thermometer Hit 90 Yesterday

The highest temperature in the Greenville area yesterday afternoon was 90 degrees. Lowest last night 70, and at 8 a.m. today it was 75. No rain.

Yesterday a year ago, the highest temperature here was 94 degrees. Lowest that night 71, and at 8 a.m. next day it was 76. No rain.

Passed Bar Exams

Lewis W. Evans of Greenville was one of 122 persons who passed their bar examinations held in Raleigh August 4-6, according to the State Board of Law Examiners.

Most adult cork oak trees in the U.S. come from acorns which the government imported from Spain in 1858.

Double Probe

VILLE JACQUES CARTIER, Que. (UP) — Twin investigations were ordered today in the fiery crash of a new jet fighter plane that killed nine persons, including five children, when it roared through four houses in this St. Lawrence River village.

Jittery citizens appealed for "some sort of protection" from the screaming aircraft skirting nearby St. Hubert base of the Royal Canadian Air Force.

A twin-jet CF-100, Canada's newest fighter, roared eastward at 300 miles an hour last night and slammed into the row of houses while 10 feet above the ground. Explosions set the plane and the houses ablaze instantly.

Flames roared through the tangle of timber and steel, trapping the five children and the mother and grandmother of two of them. The fighter's pilot and navigator also died.
