YOU SAY PROFESSOR PEDDLE ASKED YOU TO RUSH UP HERE TO SEE A NEW METHOD OF TRAINING HE'S DEVELOPED, SPIDER?

PHYSICS BUILDING

YEAH, BEN...AN' HE SOUNDED KINDA EXCITED ABOUT IT...ME? I CAN'T THINK O' A NICER PLACE T' RUSH TO!

YOU MAY COME UP NOW, GENTLEMEN.

HE'S PROBABLY DISCOVERED SOMETHIN' TERRIFIC—LIKE SHADOW BOXIN'!

COME IN!

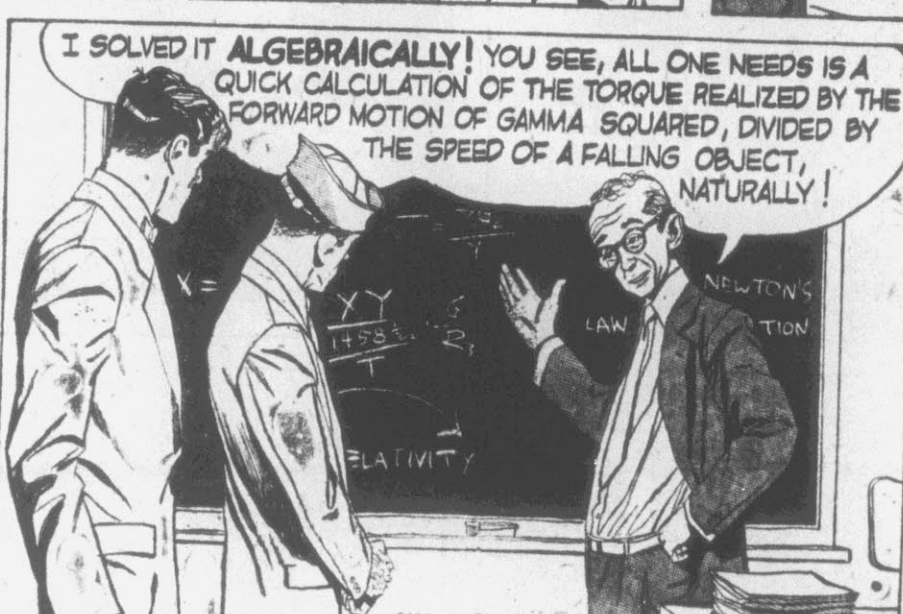

I DO BELIEVE I'VE DISCOVERED A METHOD TO COUNTERACT THE LOW LEFT HOOK!

YEAH?

YOU MEAN STEPPING IN, BRINGING YER OWN RIGHT ACROSS LIKE THIS, HUH, PROF?

HEAVENS, NO!

I SOLVED IT ALGEBRAICALLY! YOU SEE, ALL ONE NEEDS IS A QUICK CALCULATION OF THE TORQUE REALIZED BY THE FORWARD MOTION OF GAMMA SQUARED, DIVIDED BY THE SPEED OF A FALLING OBJECT, NATURALLY!

NATURALLY! AND THE BEAUTIFUL THING ABOUT IT, PROF, IS YOU MAKE IT ALL SOUND SO SIMPLE!

NEXT WEEK—THE PROFESSOR DONS THE GLOVES AGAIN!

THE MIGHTY MISSISSIPPI MUDCATS, THE ONLY TEAM BETWEEN YOU GLAMAZONS AND AN UNDEFEATED SEASON...

...AND FOR YOUR OWN SAFETY, GIRLS, I'M TEMPTED TO WIRE AHEAD AND CANCEL TH' GAME!

AW, WE CAN BEAT 'EM, BARNEY!

SURE...WE AIN'T AFRAID OF ANY TEAM!

BUT IT AIN'T TH' 'MUDCATS' WHO FRIGHTEN ME... IT'S 'ONE-SHOT' WILMA!

NEVER HEARD OF HER?

BUT YOU SOON WILL, I FEAR!... TH' PITCHER OF EVERY VISITING TEAM THAT HAS FACED TH' 'MUDCATS' THIS SEASON HAS RECEIVED A THREATENING LETTER FROM TH' MYSTERIOUS FEMALE!

WELL, DON'T WORRY, BARNEY... SHE WON'T SCARE ME INTO BLOWIN' TH' GAME!

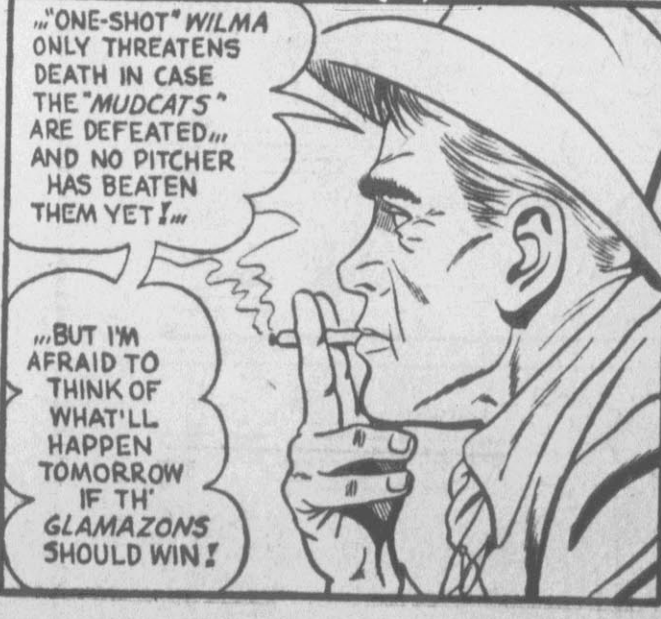

—IN FACT, IT MAY BE FUN TO TRY AN' CATCH HER!

IF N' IT AIN'T FATAL!

ANY LUCK IN TRACING TH' SOURCE OF THOSE POISON-PEN LETTERS, SHERIFF?

NOPE, NOT A SINGLE CLUE... BUT WE'VE BEEN FORTUNATE IN ONE RESPECT...

'ONE-SHOT' WILMA ONLY THREATENS DEATH IN CASE THE 'MUDCATS' ARE DEFEATED... AND NO PITCHER HAS BEATEN THEM YET!

...BUT I'M AFRAID TO THINK OF WHAT'LL HAPPEN TOMORROW IF TH' GLAMAZONS SHOULD WIN!

LATER, AFTER CHECKING INTO A HOTEL ON THE EVE OF THE GAME...

WHAT A MOB IN THAT LOBBY DOWNSTAIRS, DINAH!... THOUGHT WE'D NEVER WADE THROUGH ALL THOSE DOCTORS WHO ARE HERE FOR THEIR STATE CONVENTIONS!

AND (MOAN) THEY MIGHT HAVE T' MIX BIZNESS WITH PLEASUREZ.

...IF N' THAT NOTE PINNED ON YO' BACK IS FROM (SOB!!) 'ONE-SHOT' WILMA!

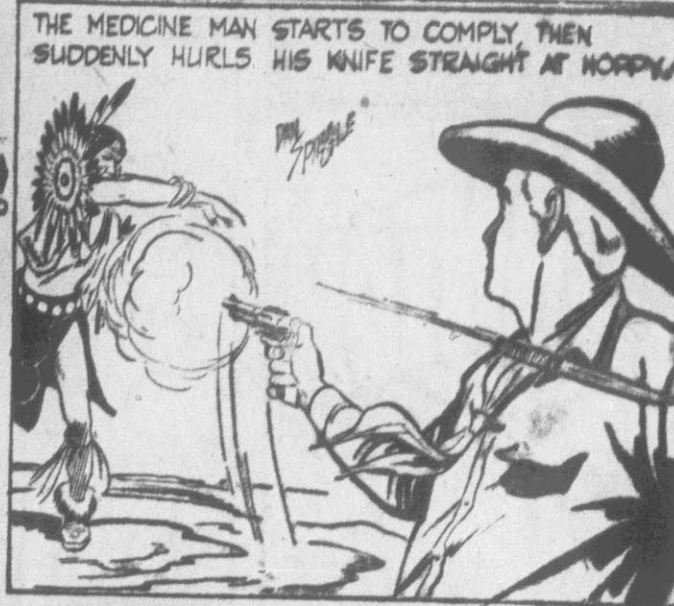

HOPALONG CASSIDY

By DAN SPIEGLE

MY PARD AND I DISCOVERED THE STEAM FROM THESE HOT SPRINGS ESCAPING THROUGH THE CAVE ROOF LOOKS LIKE WE FOUND OUR WAY INTO THE SHRINE OF ETERNAL FIRE JUST IN TIME TO STOP A KILLING! CUT THUNDER BIRD DOWN!

THE MEDICINE MAN STARTS TO COMPLY, THEN SUDDENLY HURLS HIS KNIFE STRAIGHT AT HOPPY!

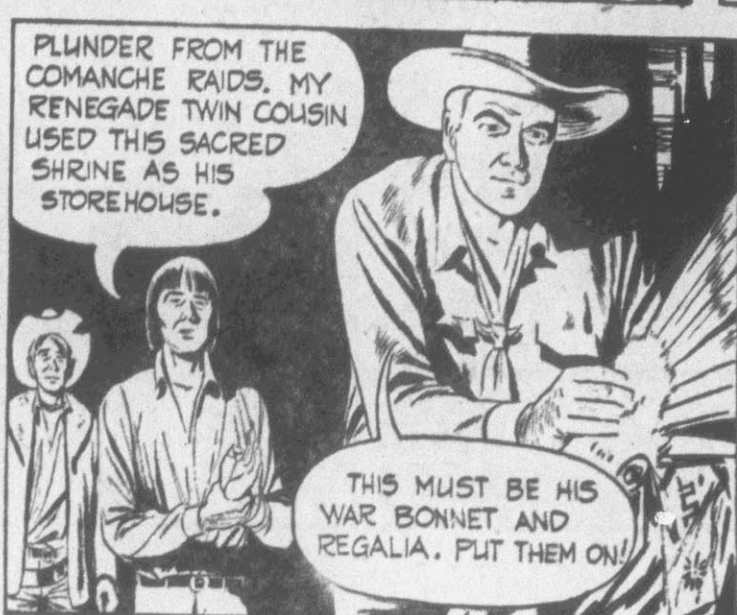

RECOLING FROM THE WARNING SHOT, THE COMANCHE TRIPS OVER A LOOSE STONE.....

THAT MEDICINE MAN'S FATE WAS MEANT FOR ME! I WAS A FOOL FOR THINKING YOU AND YOUR FRIENDS HAD DESERTED ME, HOPPY!

WHAT'S ALL THAT STUFF, THUNDER BIRD?

PLUNDER FROM THE COMANCHE RAIDS, MY RENEGADE TWIN COUSIN USED THIS SACRED SHRINE AS HIS STOREHOUSE.

THIS MUST BE HIS WAR BONNET AND REGALIA. PUT THEM ON!

BUT WHY?

UNLESS I'M WRONG, A VISITOR WILL SOON SHOW UP TO CLAIM THIS LOOT! YOU'VE GOT TO BE READY FOR HIM!

FLASH GORDON..... by Mac Raboy

DALE, DALE! CAN YOU MAKE IT?

YES, FLASH! DON'T COME DOWN! I'M ALL RIGHT!

QUICK! GIVE ME YOUR HAND! THEN HOPE THAT HE DOESN'T DECIDE TO CLIMB THE TREE!

...LUCK IS WITH FLASH AND DALE! THE GIANT REACHES INTO THE HOLLOW TREE AND GROPE FOR HIS QUARRY, JUST AS FLASH HAD PLANNED IT!

...A MOMENT LATER... FLASH, DODGING THE HUGE, CLAWING HAND, THROWS THE HANDCUFF ABOUT THE GIANT'S WRIST AND SNAPS IT SHUT!

... THE TRAP HAS BEEN SPRUNG! THE GIANT THRASHES AND TUGS WILDLY, BUT IS UNABLE TO WRENCH HIS ARM LOOSE!

...WITH THE GIANT SECURELY LOCKED TO THE HEAVY TREE TRUNK, FLASH MOVES QUICKLY TO RELEASE HIS CREWMEN FROM THE MONSTER'S CAVE!

WILL YOU LOOK AT HIS SIZE!

WE'LL BE ABLE TO EXHIBIT THIS BABY FOR PLENTY OF MONEY ON EARTH, FLASH.

WE DIDN'T COME HERE FOR MONEY, MIDAS..

DON'T TURN OFF THAT ALARM!

It's time to be up and doing! It's time to return to religion!

That's what conscientious leaders are crying. Civic, educational, spiritual, political, even military men are urging a return to religion...

Because the principles found in the Bible are those upon which our western civilization is based.

Because the teachings of the Bible are the foundation of our own government—that each human has equal rights to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness.

Because the commandments to love both God and man—to do for others as we would have them do for us—these are the laws of living as we have known it.

But greed for wealth, lust for power, jealousy, disregard for human life—such are the evils that weaken the pillars of our existence.

Right this minute appoint yourself a vigilance committee of one. Make certain that you and your family support your church and its activities. Let's have a return to religion.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of a character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

THE DAILY REFLECTOR August 22, 1923

This is a real day for the community known just as Simpson. It now enjoys the distinction of being a regular town, chartered and everything else, just like some of the more pretentious communities. Progressive folks of that place realized that expansion was at hand. They wanted an independent municipal government and set about to get it. The first group of officers for the new town is: Mayor N. H. Beddard and J. B. Hardee, W. H. Porter, W. J. Edwards, James Wetherington, J. Lonnie Tucker as commissioners.

According to various reports throughout the state the mercury took a sudden drop that sent it down 31 degrees during the last 18 hours. Light summer clothing was quickly shed in Greenville last night to give place today to fall clothes.

Kiwanians Set Carnival Date

PARMVILLE—The Farmville Kiwanis Club's annual carnival will be held Friday and Saturday, September 25-26.

L. W. Allen is chairman of the Carnival Committee. Other members are Ernest Pettaway, Harvey Jeffries, Jack Lewis and Barney Bland. Home talent is used to produce the show.

Kiwanis President Bernice Turnage said proceeds of the carnival will be used for the Kiwanis Club's scholarship fund. Money from this fund is used to assist worthy high school graduates to obtain a college education.

Kindergarten To Open On Sept. 1

PARMVILLE—The Totville Kindergarten and Nursery, sponsored by the Junior Woman's Club, will open Tuesday, September 1.

Mrs. Barney Bland is kindergarten teacher and Mrs. A. E. Allen Jr. will be nursery teacher. Prospective pupils will be registered in the basement of the Methodist Church Tuesday, September 1, in the morning between 10:00 and 11:30, and in the afternoon from 3:00 to 5:00.

Georgia Franklin Won B. A. Degree

In the list of graduates from East Carolina College published in yesterday's paper, the name of Mrs. Georgia S. Franklin was inadvertently omitted.

Mrs. Franklin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Smith, 403 East Ninth Street, Greenville, received the Master of Arts Degree.

LOOKED LIKE FLOWER
DeWITT, N. Y. (UP)—Two-year-old Susan Harris proudly displayed an array of 20 "honey scars" to her playmates. But, getting them wasn't so easy. The tot, attired only in shorts, was attacked by a swarm of bees in the garden of her home.

Seleta Tucker, Robert Morgan Wed In Afternoon Ceremony

PARMVILLE—In a candlelight ceremony at the Farmville Baptist Church, Saturday afternoon at 4:30, Miss Seleta Ann Tucker became the bride of Robert Whittey Morgan.

The bride is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wyatt Cleophus Tucker, Sr., and the bridegroom is a son of Mrs. John Irvin Morgan, Sr., and the late Mr. Morgan, all of Farmville.

Rev. E. W. Holmes, the bride's pastor, officiated at the double ring rites. The vows of marriage were spoken before a beautiful setting of wedding greenery and floral arrangements of pink and white flowers. Oregon ferns made a background for the floor baskets of gladioli artistically arranged with cascading ferns. Floor candelabra with lighted white tapers illuminated the scene.

A program of wedding music was presented by Miss Myrtle Manning, of Robersonville, the bride's roommate at East Carolina College, who presented a prelude of organ music and accompanied the soloist, Miss Catherine Stevenson of Willow Springs and Elbert C. Holmes of Farmville. Miss Stevenson sang, "Entreat Me Not to Leave Thee." Mr. Holmes sang, "Beloved It Is Morn." "O Master Let Me Walk With Thee," a duet selection, was sung as a benediction. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of ice blue fleur-de-bouquet Chantilly lace and pleated tulle over ice blue duchesse satin, designed with a fitted bodice, a cameo necklace and long tapering sleeves ending in Calla lily points over the wrists. The full, bouffant skirt of lace was worn over hoops and crinoline and was fashioned with an apron of lace and pleated tulle extending in the back from the waistline and ending in a sweep train. Her tiered finger-tip veil of ice blue bridal illusion was attached to a matching lace cloche with clusters of orange blossoms at either side. Her bouquet was composed of white orchids outlined with sprays of shell pink stephanotis, tied with satin ribbons. A strand of pearls was the bride's ornament.

Mrs. Wyatt C. Tucker, Jr., sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor. Mrs. Tucker wore a gown of rose antique taffeta and illusion, styled with a basque bodice and small attached cape. The bouffant skirt was of illusion over taffeta with a bustle effect, and was worn over hoops and crinoline. Her ban-springs and Elbert C. Holmes of Farmville. Miss Stevenson sang, "Entreat Me Not to Leave Thee." Mr. Holmes sang, "Beloved It Is Morn." "O Master Let Me Walk With Thee," a duet selection, was sung as a benediction. son; Miss Evelyn Jernigan, Lewiston; Miss Jimmie Matthews, Raleigh; Miss Betty Hendrix, Greensboro; Miss Rachel Modlin, Ahoekle; Miss Ferrel Brown Rich Square; Misses Jane Joyner, Janet Stancill, Anne Morgan, Mary Frances Allen, Videat Joyner, all of Farmville and Miss Lola Gray Kemp of Farmville and Beaufort.

J. I. Morgan, Jr. was his brother's best man. Charlie Rasberry of Farmville was chief usher. Others were: C. B. Martin, Jr., Durham; Larry Barden, Boone; Donald Baucom, Jay Flanagan, Robert Rollins and Wyatt C. Tucker, Jr., brother of the bride, all of Farmville.

Mrs. B. B. Turnage of Farmville was mistress of ceremonies. The bride's mother wore an afternoon length gown of cotton lace with taffeta trim, navy accessories and an orchid corsage.

The mother of the bridegroom wore an afternoon length dress of powder blue chiffon over crepe, styled with lace inserts at the neckline, matching flower hat, white accessories and orchid corsage.

Mrs. Morgan, a talented musician, is a graduate of East Carolina College where she received a B.S. degree in the class of 1953. After completing her courses at E.C.C. in the Fall semester, she taught in the Sunbury School for several months.

Mr. Morgan attended Duke University and for the past two years has been serving in the United States Air Force in Germany.

For a wedding trip to Western North Carolina, the bride wore a light blue shantung suit with a black velvet off-the-face hat, ornamented with white lace flowers, rhinestones and nose veil. She wore a white orchid corsage.

After the bridegroom's furlough expires, the couple will make their home in Landsberg in the Bavarian Alps, Germany.

Wildlife Movie Shown Exchange Club Meeting

At the Greenville Exchange Club last night a movie showing the migrating habits of geese and ducks was shown. President Jake Hadley presided.

The picture showed the birds nesting in marshes and tundra of the far north during the summer, rearing and training of the young to take care of themselves, and the sudden urge of ducks and geese to fly southward as winter approaches.

The Exchange Club will hold its meeting next Friday night at Elm Street park, when the club's Little League team will be guests at an outdoor supper.

Mrs. J. R. Newell, Ray W. MacKenzie and Larry Carrawan were guests of the club last night.

The Fallo, a three-lap horse race around the square of Siena, Italy, has been run almost every year since the 14th century.

Luther Hodges Honored At Rotary Meet Here

An audience of near 175 persons representing 16 Eastern North Carolina Rotary clubs in an inter-city meeting in Greenville Friday evening heard a call to more selfless service from Lieutenant Governor Luther H. Hodges of Leaksville and Raleigh, one of Rotary International's 14 directors for this year.

The need is for men of high character, broad vision and sincere service if we are to guarantee the future of North Carolina, and likewise of Rotary, the gathering of Rotarians was told by Hodges. The meeting was held in North Dining Hall on the campus of East Carolina College.

"It is a dangerous thing for a nation when its citizens fail to take part in its government, and when men are more interested in their selfish interests and building their own businesses to the neglect of Rotary and service to their country, we are in for bad time," the Rotary director emphasized.

Another dangerous thing cited by the speaker is the defaming of character by "investigating committees or individuals," noting, too, "it is high time to quit killing our public servants who are pulled and torn by pressure groups and selfish interests and factions so that an office holder is trying to serve all at the same time he seeks re-election to office."

"The people will eventually catch up with our statesmen; already they are ahead of the politicians," Hodges declared.

Rotarians and members of other civic organizations have an influence and they can and must have a part in helping to pull the country back and building a great government. Government is cold and formal, while individuals can be warm and friendly. It is from this individual participation in government and world affairs that each citizen can do his part, the speaker went on to say, citing observations during his recent experiences in France where there is apathy and lack of personal interest in what is transpiring.

There is so much to do in North Carolina, Hodges said, as we build our economy and raise the economic and educational levels of all our people. "Do your part to place the state above its place of 45th in per capita income and 48th in the number of youth of college age enrolled in institutions of higher learning. Support the bond issues for schools and hospitals," the speaker urged.

"Rotary in 43 geographic divisions of the world, with nearly 8,000 clubs with a membership of 875,000 individuals is dedicated to the principle of service and will continue to express itself through men of selflessness and understanding," the speaker concluded.

Arranged by the Greenville Rotary Club, the inter-city meeting brought visitors from Farmville, Ayden, Bethel, Tarboro, Washington, Kinston, Robersonville, and more distant clubs in Wilmington, Dunn, Lillington, and Oriental.

President Badger Johnson welcomed the visitors, and District Governor Charles L. McCullers of Kinston presided as toastmaster. The invocation was spoken by Sam B. Underwood of Greenville and the benediction by John G. Bragaw of Washington. June H. Rose was song leader and the Greenville Rotary Club presented a special number.

ECC Alumni Secretary James Butler, a former district governor, presented Lt.-Gov. Hodges and Mrs. Hodges.

Among guests were President and Mrs. J. D. Messick of East Carolina College; Past District Governors Howard McGinnis of Greenville, Irvin Morgan of Farmville, Jean P. Booth of Kinston, J. Shep Bryan of Dunn, Maynard O. Fletcher and Edmund H. Harding of Washington, N.C., Carter Darrow and Zeb Brinson of Tarboro, and Sherwood Roberson of Robersonville. Several of the former district governors were accompanied by their wives to the meeting.

Stevenson's Position Gains Strength

Political breezes are blowing a little more briskly now across the nation since Adlai Stevenson has returned from his six months round the world tour.

The visits of Stevenson with high officials of other nations no doubt increased his popularity with foreign governments; and at the same time his first hand information from these officials strengthen his position as a presidential candidate among the American people.

In spite of the fact the defeated Democratic presidential candidate of 1952 has not committed himself to another race in 1956, he has made no bones about keeping himself in a position to get a party nomination if he desires it three years hence. It is apparent, in our opinion, that Stevenson has gained prestige even among Democrats, since his unsuccessful campaign against President Eisenhower. At the same time it is likely that Stevenson stock among independent voters has gone up a peg or two during the past 12 months.

The former Illinois governor has enjoyed the reputation as a thorough man in politics as well as government, and it appears he intends to do a thorough job in the coming months to groom himself into better presidential timber than he was during the last campaign.

Naturally, political winds at the altitudes will blow in many varying and conflicting directions before the two major parties convene again to name presidential candidates. Many changes in party position and leadership could come about in the intervening period. Nevertheless, unless major unforeseen changes take place, Stevenson will be far ahead of other aspirants for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1956. Politically, he is likely to be ahead of any Republican nominee other than President Eisenhower.

Every Step Now Is A Step On Thin Ice

The international situation stays stirred up all the time. When conditions are smooth out in one section of the world and move toward the peaceful road, unrest seems to erupt somewhere else.

So it is now. In Korea the truce still stands in spite of bitter exchanges of words from time to time. But in Indochina the fighting continues with experts trying to guess whether a big push will come in that part of Asia next.

On the other side of the globe, Premier Mossadegh has been ousted and a military government under the shah is being set up. In Morocco the pendulum of government leadership has swung again. In France, the strikes still spread, putting the government there in an increasingly unstable position.

Were these isolated incidents not correlated with the rest of the world, they might be overlooked without a second thought. But with the world as small a community of nations as it is today, a political crisis anywhere could be the spark to set off an explosion. Any of the countries could be the focal point for the beginning of new world-wide trouble between the camp of free nations and the camp of the communist nations.

It is a fact that in these days, every nation is treading on thin ice with every step it takes in international affairs. No one knows what step will break through the thin covering which now means the difference between the cold war and a hot war.

Mossadegh Out; Wounds May Heal

For whatever else the overthrow of Premier Mohammed Mossadegh in Iran brings to the world, it should bring a healing of the wounds between Iran and the rest of the Western world.

Mossadegh has been a thorn in the side of not only Britain, but most of the other nations of the Western world for the past two-and-one-half years. His ousting of the British from rich Iranian oil fields touched off a bitter struggle which left Iran hanging in the balance between the West and communism.

At the same time it put one of the world's most vital supplies of oil out of reach of the Western world for all practical purposes.

While it will take some time for conditions in Iran to settle after the military coup which overthrew Mossadegh, the young shah who returns to at least partial power is likely to prove more friendly to the West than the aging Mossadegh.

It is not likely that Britain's former position in Iranian oil fields will be regained even with Mossadegh's overthrow; but relationships between Iran and nations of the Western bloc will likely be better in the future than in the past two years.

Strength for the Day

WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH THE CHURCH?
Yesterday we indicated that we would try to answer the question, "What's the matter with the Christian Church?"

The greatest trouble with the church is that it sometimes forsakes its stock in trade, which is supernatural religion, and substitutes for this highly potent and useful variety of truth a rationalism so ineffective that it fails utterly to meet the deepest needs of the human soul.

Furthermore, the Church very often does not get down to the problems that are keeping men and women awake at night. Yesterday we called attention to the fact that the newer Christian bodies which have arisen within the past century or less are growing by leaps and bounds and meeting many needs which the orthodox church neglects. When the principal denominations fail to meet the needs of the common run of men and women, these newer Christian bodies step in and address themselves to the problems which everybody confronts and about which a great majority of people are thinking.

The newer Christian bodies are taking up the opportunities which the older church has neglected. People want God's help. They expect the Church to tell them how to get it. The Church loses out when it specializes on sociology on Sunday morning and socials during the week.

National Whirligig

How U.S. And Britain Differ

By RAY TUCKER
Every Saturday this veteran Washington newspaper correspondent devotes his column to answering readers' questions of general interest on national and international policies and personalities. Questions may be sent direct to Ray Tucker at 6308 Hillcrest Place, Chevy Chase, Md.

WASHINGTON—Is it not a fact that Britain is using communism to pull Uncle Sam's legs for dollars? Inquires H.B.C. of Ashland, Ky. "Or is it just another damfool nation playing with fire—communism?"

Answer: The answer to the first question is an extremely positive negative.

The British have accepted our loans and grants, during and since the war, because they needed them. Speeches in the House of Commons, as well as editorials in their leading newspapers, reflect a feeling of bitterness and wounded pride over their dependency on the United States. They have endured severe, bread-and-butter sacrifices to stand on their own feet again.

CHURCHILL'S HOPE—If Churchill's search for an over-all settlement with Russia can be characterized as "playing with fire," it is because Britain hopes to put out the fire of communism.

It is difficult for us to appreciate England's dread of another global war. The 1914-1917 and 1939-1945 struggles stripped her of her empire, left her bankrupt and reduced her to the status of a second-rate power. With the Reds controlling the European Continent in another conflict, as they probably would, England might not be able to stave off actual invasion, possibly conquest.

Under such circumstances, it is easier to understand the clash between London and Washington over all the disputes between the West and East, including recognition of Red China, a top-level talk with the Kremlin men and an attempt to solve the whole Far Eastern problem at the Korean peace conference.

We are dealing from strength because we are strong. Britain is trying to draw to an inside, diplomatic straight.

"Have we always dismantled our Army and Navy after earlier wars," asks M.D. of Dallas, Tex., "or is that a development of the enlightened 20th century?"

Answer: Yes, it is a fairly recent development, due, perhaps, to an enlightenment and expectations which have not yet been justified. Figures for the revolutionary period are not available to any degree of accuracy. But since Washington's force was largely a volunteer Army, it was virtually disbanded with peace.

FIGURES AFTER OLD WARS—However, after the War of 1812 and the War with Mexico, we enlarged our relatively small military establishment. Since it was a domestic rather than a foreign conflict, the cutback after the Civil War is understandable. Army-Navy appropriations dropped from $1,056,000,000 in 1865 to $327,000,000 in 1866.

Our victory over Spain, which won us recognition as a world power, did not make us aware of our new responsibilities at the turn of the century. The military bill for 1899 was $294,500,000, as against $190,500,000 in 1900. After this affair, however, the peacetime cost of national defense never fell below $100,000,000 a year, which is about $500,000,000 in today's money, possibly more.

BLINDED TO REALITIES—Our trust in the world's hunger for peace, as well as faith in the League of Nations, blinded us to realities after World War I. The war budget of $11 billion, in 1919 was cut to $2,350,000,000 in 1920.

But the reductions after World War II were appalling, in view of Russia's vile behavior. The military total amounted to $80.5 billion for 1945. For fiscal 1950, the year of the Korean outbreak, Truman-Johnson economy had forced the national defense budget down to $13 billion.

Barring assured peace with Russia, keeping our powder dry will never cost less than $30 billion a year in this generation.

GERMAN BONDS—This is the third and last time I answer the question of how to redeem German bonds. Henceforth, consult your banker, broker or Congressman.

Bonds of German corporations should be mailed to the United States Commission for German Corporation Bonds, 910 Seventeenth St., N.W., Washington 6, D. C. Securities issued by political bodies—Federal government, states, cities—should be sent to the Foreign Bondholders' Protective Council, 90 Broadway, New York City 4, N. Y.

Somebody Told Me Koreans Impressed Mulholland

Today's column is a continuation of an interview with Dr. V. M. Mulholland, former principal of Greenville High School who has been in Korea for the past year on an educational mission.

Vester worked with Korean teachers, whom he describes as, "Extremely hard-working and loyal to their profession. About 85 per cent of the teachers are men, because in Korea the woman's place is in the home."

The wages of a Korean teacher is about $22 a month, which isn't enough to keep a man and his wife alive. "So to supplement their income," Vester says, "teachers drive taxis, farm, sell black market merchandise on the street, or do anything possible to make extra money. Many teach by day and work by night in order to get by."

Not over 35 per cent of the Korean teachers have college degrees. They are supposed to in order to teach in high school, but many never had the opportunity. Many people do not realize that Koreans were slaves of the Japanese from 1905 until 1945. The Japs would not allow Koreans to study their own language; in fact, they were severely punished if they were even caught speaking it. With this background, Korea does very well to have advanced to its present state.

"Potentially," Vester says, "Korea is the most democratic country in the East. It has the most Western thinking of any country in the East." The interpreter he was assigned while there is described by Vester as, "The smartest man I have ever met." He is only 24 years old, but has been given the opportunity to come to America to study lung surgery.

He's a concert soloist, singing equally well in any of six languages. Among many other talents, he also types over 100 words a minute. "And with it all," Vester says, "he's just as affable as anybody you can find."

Yes and I discussed the fact that interest in Korea is of course slack because the "police action" is over. But he pointed out that while it was in progress it cost the U. S. taxpayer between $9 million and $10 million a day. Perhaps the occupation will be less expensive and cut us down to only $2 million a day.

After this impending trip to Korea Vester will either continue his work with the State Department or settle down in a college. But right now he's anxious to work on teacher guidance in a country very much in need, Korea. And I thank Vester.

What Other Editors Are Thinking

HOUSEWIVES AND EDITORS FAIRLY GOOD DRIVERS (Rocky Mount Telegram)

Contrary to popular male belief, housewives are pretty good drivers. They rank 28th in a list of 64 occupational classes in the handling of private passenger cars—well ahead of auto salesmen (32nd), truck drivers (43rd), garage employees (48th), and most professional groups.

A new survey on drivers has just been completed by statisticians of the State Farm Mutual Automobile Insurance Co., Bloomington, Illinois. The figures, published in the insurance magazine, "Weekly Underwriter," are based on almost a quarter of a billion dollars of premiums collected by the company in a three-year span between 1948-1952.

Farmers, ranked fourth, lead all other major occupational groups in driving safety. They are led only by proprietors of wholesale establishments, county agents and retired persons in that order, each in a class much smaller than the farm group.

Whether a person is retired or simply unemployed makes the difference between a very good and a very bad driver. The unemployed ranked 63rd, or next to last, compared with third place for the retired group.

The clergy's 55th ranking puts them in strange company, just ahead of canvassers and peddlers, amusement workers, entertainers, and liquor distributors in that order. Food handlers and traveling salesmen lag sadly in 60th and 61st positions.

Lawman on the safety totem pole in 64th place is the enlisted serviceman, well below commissioned officers, who rank 40th.

Teachers, ranked seventh, can take credit for setting a good—but apparently unnoticed—example for students, in 62nd place. Bankers (8th) can look down their noses at the medical profession (39th) and lawyers (50th).

Whereas funeral directors apparently play it safe and rank a high 18th, insurance agents and brokers are down in the careless 53rd bracket.

Editors, reporters and photographers are creditable if we do say so ourselves, in 26th position—just a notch (we are delighted to observe) above the housewives as skillful and safe drivers.

Business Today

Business Clue Ahead

By ELMER ROESSNER
The period after Labor Day this year may tell business a lot about the future course of the economy.

Since the end of the fighting in Korea there has been a welter of predictions about what is going to happen. Many of these have been on the grey, though not black, side. A few see business continuing at present levels. None have foreseen a new boom on top of the boom.

None of these theories can be tested yet. Vacations are still slowing up many lines of business. A high proportion of decision-making executives are away from their desks and conference tables. Consumer spending, except for back-to-school wear, early fall fashions and travel, are at ebb tide.

Labor Day is late this year, falling on September 7. Not much will happen that week, anyhow. Both consumers and businessmen will still be adjusting themselves to the workaday world. But the week of September 15 ought to be quite interesting.

It is then that clues will appear to top-level thinking, whether management is playing it to win or is waiting to see. If advertising and promotions bound upward, if expansion plans are not curtailed, and if new projects emerge, the auspices will be good.

While crops will not be in by that time, uncertainties about their size will have passed and prices will be less affected by uncertainties.

There also will be clues to consumer psychology. It is the season for replenishing wardrobes and larders and for getting new home furnishings.

The total sales volume, even after adjustment for whatever the weather does that week, will not be conclusive. More important than the dollars-and-cents figures will be the attitudes shown. If buyers accept prices, show a willingness to make long-term credit commitments, and register interest in high-end goods, it will be comforting indeed.

On the other hand, if both management and consumers lack vigor in plans and actions, we may be approaching that talked-of leveling off.

Forget Kinsey - Check With Pett

By PAUL PETT
NEW YORK. — (AP) — The Kinsey report on women was out Thursday. If you haven't a copy, why wait?

The Pett Report is out today. It is based on interviews with women, even arguments—on 35 years of non-objective observation, on rumor and gossip, on prejudice and bias regardless of race, creed or color, and on long conversations with many men.

The Pett Report shows that: 68.8 per cent of all married women object to being kissed behind the ear while baking a cake.

51.3 per cent of all married women know as many cuss words as their husbands but on only .009 per cent admit it.

During coitus, 33.8 per cent of women of all ages cheat by keeping their eyes open.

74 per cent of all married women wear shoes that are too tight. 22.3 per cent of married women throw dishes at their husbands and 22.2 per cent miss.

During courtship, 88.4 per cent of women of all ages talk only of marriage, a home and children. After the wedding, 73.5 per cent complain that if they hadn't rushed into marriage they might have had a promising career.

74.8 per cent of married women, while visiting their husband's office, can't resist looking at his desk calendar.

84 per cent of women under 26 over use the word "cute."

83.5 per cent of married women would have more children if only they had a full time maid.

24 per cent of women of all ages say "Yes" more often than men because men aren't asked as often.

78 per cent of the women who wear low cut dresses pretend to be annoyed when men stare. 97.8 per cent of women of all ages are prettier than men.

53.9 per cent of married women think that 98.9 per cent of the other married women are better off.

86.7 per cent of married women will merely hold out their hands in the general direction of their husband. Then they complain bitterly when he doesn't immediately understand they want a cigarette.

74.3 per cent of the women in America who play poker play with all the red cards wild.

66 per cent of women of all ages snore in bed, but only .09 per cent admit it.

96.8 per cent of the women who turn away from an off-color joke at a party insist on hearing it later from their husbands.

78 per cent of women over 26 over use the phrase, "I can't stand it (or her or him)."

83 per cent of women of all ages have fewer inhibitions than men about money.

Before marriage, 74 per cent of women talk about marriage being a "two-way street." After marriage, 73 per cent make it a one-way.

99.8 per cent of women of all ages will disagree violently with what they just read.

Schools And Mental Hospital, Inc. Is Now In Business

By LYNN NISBET
IN BUSINESS — A new corporation, Schools and Mental Hospital, Inc., started in business Thursday. Its purpose is to promote the $50 million school building and $22 million hospital bonds to be voted upon October 3.

The charter certificate was signed in the Governor's office by members of the board of education, the board of hospitals control, the council of state and other high ranking officials. As soon as the signatures were affixed Governor Umstead handed over a check for $100 as his personal contribution, and was followed by John Umstead, chairman of the hospital board with a like amount.

Half an hour later Room 103 at the Sir Walter Hotel was activated as headquarters under joint direction of John Harden and Brandon Hodges.

PURPOSES — The charter sets out the purposes of the corporation that in event of dissolution conditions in school and mental hospital plants and the need for improved facilities. It is authorized to accept donations, bequests and devises. Its existence is unlimited, but there is provision that in event of dissolution any funds remaining in the corporation treasury should be turned over to the hospitals board of control for use in improving conditions at the several institutions.

SURPLUS — There provision may prevent a squabble similar to that which arose about a left-over balance in the Better Schools and Roads, Inc., account after the 1949 bond election. There was wide divergence of opinion and a lot of talk about disposition of the surplus. At final dissolution of the BS&R outfit major part of the balance was donated to the engineering foundation at State College and the rest to the state department of education. There may be some further discussion about appropriate use to be made of the money by the State Board of Education or some other agency, especially whether it can properly be used to further the campaign for the current bond issue.

The board informally discussed the matter after the charter signing but no action has been taken.

PROTOCOL — There was an illustration of official protocol in connection with the charter certificate signing. Governor Umstead announced that with permission of the others he would sign first, ask Lieutenant Governor Luther Hodges to sign next, in his joint capacity as No. 2 man in state government and chairman of the board of education.

Since the schools are to get more than two-thirds of the bond money, other members of the board of education were asked to sign ahead of the hospital board. The hospital board outranked the Council of State in this instance only because of their more intimate relationship to the immediate project.

PRESS — Governor Umstead has developed more skill in handling reporters at press conferences than many of his long time friends believed possible. His oft repeated objection to being indirectly quoted, his resentment at having statements attributed to him which he did not make in exactly the words used by the reporters, made some of his earlier contacts strained. Lately there has been an atmosphere of relaxation and comradeship among participants in the news conferences. The reporters have found they can depend upon the Governor to use the right words to convey his meaning, and the Governor has discovered that the reporters mean to be fair. Both understand that exact quotes and placing of emphasis is not always possible.

DIRECT — At the news conference this week (conferences are now regularly scheduled for Thursday with morning and afternoon dates alternating) some of the fellows asked pointed questions and the Governor gave direct responses, although in some instances the response did not constitute an answer. What does he consider the greatest accomplishment of his administration to date? Well, now, said the Governor, that is hard to pinpoint; but he rated the general disposition of the Legislature to go along with his recommendations as perhaps the most significant "success," although he reminded that the effective administration of these policies is just getting underway. Whether they will prove sound in long run administration remains to be seen. He thinks they will.

IN STRIDE — Governor Umstead is not too much concerned about reports that South Carolina outdistanced this state in per capita income last year for the first time in modern history. He thinks temporary influences brought that situation about, but he also thinks it makes more than even important his emphasis on industrial development and the creation of new payrolls and sources of tax money. He also took in stride questions as to whether he thought Governor Scott's allocation of highway surplus funds last year for prison buildings at Dix Hill for criminal insane and at McCain Sanatorium for criminal tuberculars constituted illegal "diversion" of highway funds. He indicated, without specific declaration, his belief that so long as the prison system is integrated with the highway department it is the duty of the highway commission to care for the prisoners.

SUPPORT — There is no doubt that the Governor will give all-out support to Senator Lemon. Indications now are that his methods and practices will be more like those used by Governor Gregg Cherry in support of Senator Umstead in 1948 than like the more elaborate pressure campaign made by Governor Scott in behalf of Senator Graham in 1950.

CHAPTER THIRTY

"I'D NO IDEA you were leaving so soon, Dave."

"Nor I. But I just learned that Emily's flying home." He looked down at the showcase and saw a pin, a silver half-moon, a star in its arms. Em might like that. No, how did he know what she'd like now? If ever they came here together he would bring her here. He'd have to . . .

"I'm stopping at the bank; I'll see Frank," he said. He took Karen's hand, flesh and blood, the narrow hand, and thin; he could feel the bones, bird delicate, not a small hand but strong.

"Perhaps when I return you'll be married. But I'll know beforehand, I hope."

"I'll know, he thought; I'll wake one night; I'll be walking down the street, or sitting at a table, or talking to someone, and I'll know. She colored. She said: "I-well, I'm not sure."

He released her hand, smiling, which was harder to accomplish than tears. "Good-by, Grandma Moses."

He went out and walked the short distance to the bank. There he talked to the cashier. "Tens, fives, some 20's; oh, yes, and you'd better give me seven in ones and three in silver. . . No, I'm not closing the account; I'll be up from time to time. . . Well, thanks, and the same to you."

He went to Frank's cage and said good-by. Shaking hands: "Good luck, Frank," he said. "You don't need me to wish you good luck. You'll have it, sooner than you think, perhaps."

Driving out of town, he thought: I'll be back; I'll see her again, with Frank or without him; it doesn't, essentially matter. For he thought: She's alive, she walks and breathes, she speaks and moves, she sleeps and wakes; she is here, she is now, and in this world, with me; her heart beats; her mind is occupied with its own concerns; she is frailly clothed in flesh.

For this he was profoundly grateful. Driving, first the highways, broad, edged with trees and tourist allurements; then the narrower, twisting roads that would lead him past village and river, past forest and brook, to the blue width of the lake and the high, arching bridge, he thought aching with tenderness, Karen, my little love. And then, Tim. But Tim was not alive, save in the incorruptible spirit.

The car swerved sharply, and for a second it appeared that he must plunge back to safety, sweating. How had he reached Tim, by what degrees, how reclaimed him, and was himself reclaimed?

Oh, this, this was what he must tell Em, first of all, before anything else was said; he must tell her of the reconciliation and the final acceptance. And later his mother and Roger Newton. Not with the dramatic fervor of the man who announces himself saved to a cloud of witnesses, but soberly searching for words, as the man who once said: "Lord, I believe. Help Thou my unbelief."

When he stopped to rest, to eat and drink, and sat there in the small hotel, with strangers about him, and under the glass regard of deer heads, he remembered something he had brushed aside, meaning to examine it later, and then had forgotten.

Why was Em coming home suddenly? Had George called—no, telephoning her after his descent upon camp?

He thought: I don't know. Shall I ever know? She'd tell me, if I asked, unless she's greatly changed. If I ask, George got in touch with you, didn't he? He told you about Karen?

What could he tell her in the face of his denial? "Look, Em, I hate to do this but there's something you should know. About Dave. There's a girl up there, quite a young girl. . ."

If so, if this was why she took to the air like a bird, pursued by terror, then she had not really changed from the other young girl who had said: "I'd wait till you got over it," meaning: "I won't let you go."

If so, nothing in her letter was true, however true she intended it to be, saying she'd free him if there was "reason"; then, upon hearing of a reason, flung up her work, cast her plans aside, and came home.

People said: "Emily has so much pride." She herself had said: "Pride's just a word."

If he didn't ask her, would she tell him? Or would she be silent, and in her turn not ask the question. . . Who is she, Dave does she love you; do you love her? For almost the first time in his knowledge of her he could make no prediction and yet would have said some months ago, Emily is entirely unpredictable.

Was she? Is anyone? What their future would be, if indeed they had a shared future, he did not know either. But could hope, for the tenderness which was Tim's, and which had extended to embrace Karen, and others besides Karen, the tenderness which for so long he had believed his wife rejected, reach out again to encompass her. If it had not been rejection but an inability openly to accept, then their future was assured.

For a while he would not know, but must wait.

I rejected her. She knows, she tried to understand; perhaps now she does understand. But there is no rejection in me, because I am alive again; because I have come back to living.

When he reached the bridge he went to a place where, in a public park, there was space to rest, to sit in the car and look at the mountains.

He looked back at those he had left, against the rim of the sky. They had been there for a very long time, they would eternally remain. Then he turned to look at those across the water, which he had not yet reached. Over all mountains the sky, the great signature of God.

Now he started the car and drove on, not knowing where this drive must end, but at peace with the past and the future, and therefore a happy man.

Red Oak News

About 45 people were present at the last meeting of the newly organized Red Oak Fellowship. This number included the members, their young invited guests and the hostesses.

Geraldine Mills presided over the meeting and Rose Moye called the roll and read the minutes of the last meeting.

Mrs. James Allen, one of the foster mothers of the group, had charge of the devotionals. Some pictures were studied and special songs used.

Bettie Lewis told a story and Katherine Winchester and Lynn Tyer read poems.

Several games were played after which chicken salad sandwiches, doughnuts and lemonade were served.

A friendship circle was formed. "Blest Be The Tie That Binds" was sung and the meeting adjourned to meet again in the community building on the first Sunday evening in September at six o'clock. Mr. and Mrs. Ola Kittrell will be hosts at that meeting.

The General Progress Committee of the Town and Country Church Development Program met at "Woodside," the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Tyson, last Wednesday night.

Mrs. B. L. Tyson and Milton May were asked to serve as co-chairmen of the General Progress Committee.

Mrs. Travis Crawford and Leroy James are co-chairmen of the Better Church Committee. Mrs. James Allen and Willie Pate were appointed co-chairmen of the Better Community Committee and Mrs. J. T. Manning Jr. and Ola S. Kittrell are co-chairmen of the Better World Committee.

Each of these chairmen have many sub-committees under their supervision and just as soon as this list is complete they will be notified what their job will be. Every member of the church will be given a task and it is the earnest desire of the General Progress Committee that everybody will accept their responsibility and do a wonderful job.

Rev. Harold L. Tyer and Mrs. Tyer, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Winchester and Mr. and Mrs. Milton May are advisors.

Plans are underway for the best Homecoming Day ever held at Red Oak. The picnic area will soon be gotten ready for use on that day and a general outdoor cleaning date has been set for Saturday, September 5, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. All church members who can wield a shovel, hoe or broom are asked to come and lend a hand.

Williams Returns To Pre-Korea Form

Baseballers Select Special Counselor

By MILTON RICHMAN
NEW YORK (UP)—Attorney J. Norman Lewis, key figure in the most revolutionary step ever undertaken by major league baseball players, said today he hopes to work out all their problems with club owners "on a completely amicable basis."

Selected as the players' legal advisor by American League player-representative Alie Reynolds of the Yankees and National League representative Ralph Kiner of the Cubs, the 49-year-old Lewis revealed that he already has conferred with Baseball Commissioner Robert C. Frick.

"Mr. Frick and I met last week and talked about some of the players' problems," he said. "We had a friendly discussion and I came away with the belief that all of the players' problems can be settled on a completely amicable basis."

"There will be a meeting with most of baseball's officials next week and I imagine that a clearer understanding of the entire situation will come about."

"I should like to make it understood that we are not seeking any radical baseball changes. From the personal discussions I have had with Mr. Reynolds and Mr. Kiner, I am confident that we can work out a conservative solution to the various problems confronting the players."

Lewis, a partner in the New York law firm of Lewis and Mound, said he was no newcomer to baseball.

"I have been an ardent fan for many years," he said, "and I make it a point to see several games each year."

He was a law partner of the late Leo J. Bondy, counsel and treasurer of the Giants, for many years. In addition, he and an associate, James P. Durante, wrote "The Law of Baseball" and "The Law of Boxing," two legal treatises which were printed in the Law Journal a few years ago.

Lewis refused to say who was paying him for his new job or how much he would receive.

"A counselor never discusses such things," he commented. "The selection of Lewis as their advisor marks the first time in history that the players will be represented by counsel in dealings with the owners. Robert Murphy, an ambitious Boston attorney, attempted to unionize big leaguers in 1940 but his plan failed after members of the Pittsburgh Pirates decided to play a game at the last minute after taking a 'famous' strike vote."

Frick Voices No Objections Over Franchise Move

NEW YORK (UP)—Baseball Commissioner Ford C. Frick voiced "no objection" to Bill Veeck's efforts to move the St. Louis Browns today although he warned that "baseball is being hurt" by unfounded stories of franchise transfers.

Frick pointed out that his chief concerns are the "outsiders, civic groups and chambers of commerce" which boom one city after another as a possible site for a new major league franchise.

"These outsiders simply are not familiar with the procedure involving a franchise transfer and their loose stories are only hurting baseball," he said.

"I cannot emphasize too strongly that I am not pointing at Veeck or any other owner," he added. "Veeck has a serious problem, but he is conducting his affairs in a business-like manner and this office has absolutely no criticism of him."

Veeck, whose Browns have drawn less than 300,000 fans at home this season, has been on the West Coast the past three weeks, looking over possible transfer sites.

Insisting that he is "in favor of expansion" and that even the prospect of a third major league does not frighten him, Frick said no major league owner would be permitted to transfer his franchise without following "the proper procedure."

Drives Red Sox To Win With Homer, 3 Singles

By CARL LUNDQUIST
United Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (UP)—It really was official today. Teddy Boy Williams is home from the wars.

The clouter from Korea, who has been working himself into shape gradually, took personal charge of the second game of a doubleheader with Washington and pounded the Red Sox to a 7-3 victory after the Nats took the opener 9-1. Williams drove in four runs with a homer, his fourth since he returned, and three singles. His homer with two on in the fifth enabled the Red Sox to overcome a three-run deficit and he singled in what proved to be the winning run in the seventh, then retired for a pinch-runner.

Williams, who now is in shape to play regularly, enabled the Red Sox to salvage a split in the double bill after Chuck Stobbs hurled a four-hit victory for his second straight victory over Boston.

The Yankees stayed nine games in front of the White Sox in the American League top spot with a 5-4 victory over the Athletics in 11 innings. The White Sox topped Detroit 4-1, while Cleveland twice defeated the Browns 7-3 and 3-2 in 12 innings.

In the National League, Pittsburgh ended Brooklyn's winning streak at 13 games with a 7-1 victory behind left Murry Dickson's seven-hit pitching, while Milwaukee topped the Cubs, 5-4. The Phils edged the Giants, 7-6, and St. Louis blanked Cincinnati, 4-0, on Harry Perkowski's four-hitter.

Andy Pafko, who extended his hitting streak to 18 games with two singles, drove in two runs as Milwaukee fans honored him with a "night" and an automobile. Lew Burdette won his 12th game for the Braves against two defeats.

Frank Thomas drove in four runs on a double and homer in Pittsburgh's triumph as Dickson, Vernou, Wash. 123 488 82 160 328 the man Manager Charley Dressen feared might end the Dodger streak came through with his eighth victory.

Harvey Haddix pitched a four-hitter for his 18th victory and struck out six to give him a total of 112 in the Cardinal triumph. Sieve Bilko hit a Cardinal homer.

The Phils made only seven hits while the Giants made 15 but they cashed in on two walks, a triple by Richie Ashburn and Earl Torgeson's single to score three runs in a come-from-behind seventh-inning rally.

Charley Silvers hit a pinch-single in the 11th to give the Yanks their triumph over the Athletics, bringing home the winning run after Gil McDougald and Yogi Berra also had singled. Joe De Maestri made four hits for the losers including a double that put them ahead in the ninth.

Al Rosen drove in seven runs with three homers as he picked up five hits in Cleveland's two victories. He took the A.L. homer lead with 32, increased his RI lead to 112 and boosted his batting average to .326.

Al Carrasquel paced the White Sox at bat with a single and double to drive in a pair of runs while Mike Fomiele took care of the pitching chores, holding the Tigers to five hits as he won his eighth game.

LaStarza Trains On 'Feather Bed' Ring

GREENWOOD LAKE, N. Y. (UP)—Roland LaStarza is training in a "feather bed" ring to put heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano to sleep on Sept. 24.

According to trainer Dan Florio, Roland is the first challenger in any division to spar on mattresses in preparation for a title fight.

"We're using mattresses under the ring canvas to stimulate Roland in attaining fast footwork," Florio explained. "When he shifts from this slow ring to the regulation speedier ring at the Polo Grounds, he'll be as fast as a tiger. And he'll have much more leg stamina."

This modernistic quest for speed features every department of LaStarza's grooming grind, as the 28-year-old New Yorker aims at victory over the 29-year-old Brockton blockbuster, who won a disputed, split decision in their first fight three years ago.

For example, Roland's inflated striking bag is so small it looks like a toy, but it's lightning fast. And his jogs on the road in the morning are studded with all-out sprints and with bursts of shadow boxing.

Apparently the speed-up efforts are paying off. Although the big fight is still a month away, LaStarza already surprises the spectators here at Long Pond Inn with his flashing action—even in the slow ring. And the contrast is truly remarkable for visitors who have been watching the much-slower champion Marciano in training at Grossinger, N.Y.

Spartan Keene Simmons of Bayonne, N.J.—who formerly worked with Marciano before his important bouts—declared today, "I'm really earning my money here with LaStarza. He hits sharper although not with as much power. He's got a great left jab, which Rocky hasn't. And he's much harder to nail than Rocky because of his speed. I wouldn't be surprised if he wins the title."

Few Concede Any Chance Field Of 9 Can Beat Star

CHICAGO (UP)—The eyes of the turf world were on Chicago and Washington Park today as Native Dancer and nine other starters went to the post in the $114,600 American Derby.

While no one conceded much chance to any of the nine to catch the gray ghost, there was some element of suspense as race time neared as the Dancer will be piloted for the first time by a strange jockey, the brilliant Eddie Arcaro.

Eric Guerin, the Dancer's regular jockey was suspended early this week for rough tactics in a race at Saratoga and after Arcaro's mount for the derby, Jamie K, was scratched, Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, Native Dancer's owner, contracted for heady Eddie's services.

Howell, Speight Show Up Well In Phant Scrimmage

By WAYNE BISHOP
With backs Bob Howell and James Speight leading the attack, Greenville's Phantoms wound up their heavy workouts for the week Friday afternoon at the NYA center.

Speight and Howell picked up considerable yardage through the defense on line plays.

Ends Harold Edwards and Billy Jordan shaped up well in the pass play.

Coach Bill Kittrell worked with the backs before yesterday's scrimmage to correct their timing.

Several more boys have reported for practice in the last two days, to run the team roster up to 38, exactly twice the number of the turnout for opening day.

Junior left halfback Mitchell Johnson became the first casualty of the training season when he pulled a muscle in his right leg Thursday. Several other players have minor ailments, such as blisters and scrapes that usually accompany the beginning of training.

Seixas, Trabert Play Australians
CHESTNUT HILL, Mass. (UP) Defending champions Vic Seixas of Philadelphia and Mervyn Rose of Australia meet on opposite sides of the net today in a semi-final national doubles championship match which will determine whether the tournament has its first All-American windup in five years.

'Probable Cause' Found In Bigamy Charge Friday

By CHESTER WALSH
In Police Court, Friday, Judge Charles H. Whedbee found probable cause in the case in which Harold Loah, U. S. Air Force, Santa Ana, California, is charged with bigamy.

The defendant was ordered held for Superior Court. He was taken to the county jail yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. O. W. Scott, 1114 Ward St., Greenville, swore out the warrant against Loah. It charges that Loah married Dorothy Scott of Greenville during the life of Mrs. Shirley Loah, his lawful wife, in Pennsylvania.

Rosa Lee Warren, 1026 Mack St., paid court costs for trespassing on the property of Annie R. Daniels, Negro. For assaulting with a deadly weapon (a dipper) Annie R. Daniels the court gave Rosa Lee Warren 60 days in jail, suspended on payment of $15 on costs. The judgment also provides that Rosa Lee shall pay $10 to Dr. H. B. Kelly, and not molest Annie Daniels or go near her premises.

James E. Gerkeimer paid $10 for failure to stop at a stop sign. Joseph H. Meeks paid $10 for failure to yield right of way.

Johnnie Lee Daniels, speeding, $50, costs deducted. The court found him not guilty of having a defective muffler, but found him guilty of careless and reckless driving. This charge was consolidated with the first case.

George Gardner, Negro, was charged with assault on a female, Janie Foreman, Negro, 1211 South Pitt Street. The prosecuting witness declined to testify against the defendant. The court taxed her with court costs for frivolous and mischievous prosecution.

Robert Lee Joyner, paid $15 for not having a driver's license.

Russell C. Harris, careless and reckless driving, 30 days on the roads, sentence suspended on payment of costs. For driving drunk the court gave Harris three months on the roads, sentence to be suspended on payment of $100 and costs. This sentence is to be served consecutively with previous sentence. The court recommended that Harris' driver's license be revoked for a year.

In the case of James A. Rodgers, Negro, Route 4, Greenville, the court fined him $100, costs deducted for driving in excess of 85 miles an hour. The judgment provides that he is not to drive a motor vehicle for a year.

Frank Peterson, Negro, assault with a salt shaker, three months on the roads, suspended on payment of $15 court costs and $40 to Phillip Wiggins.

L. D. Rogers, Negro, Route 4, Greenville, speeding in excess 85 miles per hour, $100 fine and he is not to operate a motor vehicle for a year.

James M. Corey, Negro, paid $15 for not having an operator's license. The case against James McMillan, charging disorderly conduct, was not pressed with leave.

Virginia Perkins, Negro, secret assault with a deadly weapon, 60 days in jail, sentence suspended on payment of $20, costs deducted. Also she is to pay $12 to the hospital and remain away from the premises of Gertrude Joyner, Negro.

Charlie Whitchard, Negro, paid $10 for being drunk.

Dispute Kinsey Over Nightwear

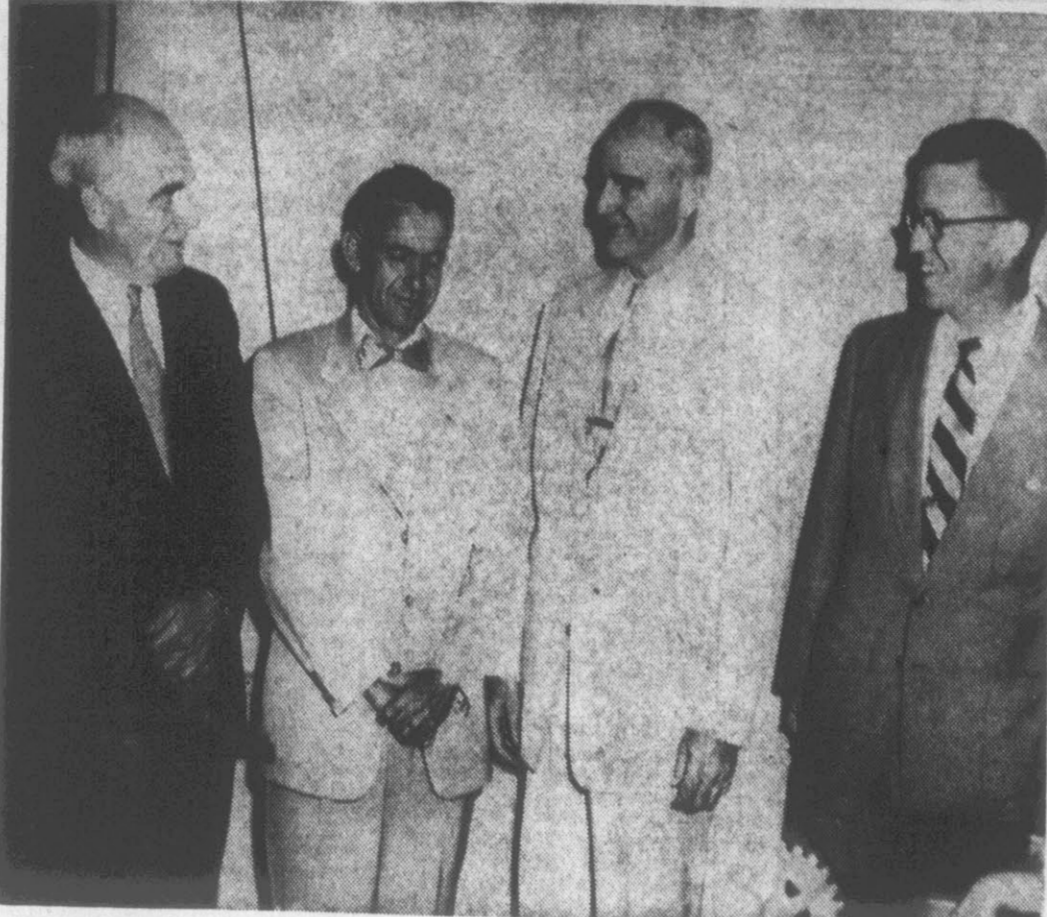

CHICAGO (UP)—A nightgown manufacturer said today Dr. Alfred Kinsey is wrong about the number of women who sleep in the nude.

A spokesman for the company quoted Kinsey as saying 50 per cent of the nation's wives sleep sans clothing.

The firm said it had interviewed 345 women and discovered 163 wore pajamas, 150 donned nightgowns, eight liked nightshirts, six got into men's pajamas and only 18 slept in the nude.

PREPARED ANYWAY
SOUTH WINDSOR, Conn. (UP)—After several futile Maine hunting tips in pursuit of his first deer, Lou Burnham bagged one in his own backyard. He ran to the aid of a woman motorist whose automobile had been struck by the animal and quickly dispatched it with his rifle.

Astin Restored In About-Face

WASHINGTON (UP)—Dr. Allen V. Astin resumed permanent directorship of the National Bureau of Standards today under new reforms stripping him of some of his former powers.

In a complete about-face, Commerce Secretary Sinclair Weeks announced Friday night that he had dropped his plan to fire Astin "because I am convinced that it is in the best interests of the bureau and the public."

Weeks forced Astin's resignation last spring in a row over the battery chemical, AD-X2, but later reinstated him temporarily after scientific groups raised a storm of protest.

He acknowledged Friday night that the permanent reinstatement is "contrary to my previous views." But he said Astin had "expressed his willingness and desire" to continue as a key official in the new administration and "as such he is from here on a member of my team."

At the same time, Weeks announced that he was assuming personal responsibility for non-technical aspects of tests on commercial products, like AD-X2. In the future, he said, the bureau director's responsibility would be "limited to the technical area."

'Right-To-Work' Bill Awaiting Final Signature

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UP)—A bill to outlaw closed or union shop laws in Alabama lay on Gov. Gordon Persons' desk today, needing only his signature to be enacted into law.

The controversial "right to work" measure, object of a bitter legislative fight on numerous occasions, passed the state Senate yesterday by a 23 to 9 vote. It passed the House earlier this summer.

Persons has not indicated whether he will sign or veto the bill. The bill declares any employer-union "agreement or combination... whereby persons not members of the union shall be denied the right to work... is against public policy and an illegal combination or conspiracy."

Although El Salvador is the smallest country in the Western Hemisphere it is the world's third largest producer of coffee—Brazil and Colombia being first and second.

Continued Cool

The temperature in the Greenville area continues to range in the 80's, an unusually low for late August.

The highest temperature here yesterday was 84 degrees. Lowest at night was 64. At 8 a.m. today it was 82.

Yesterday a year ago, the highest temperature here was 91 degrees. Lowest that night 75, and at 8 a.m. next day it was 77, Tommy Maiden, acting observer for the local Weather Station, reported.

ACC Presents Degrees To 62 Seniors In Rites

WILSON—Rev. Samuel F. Freeman, minister of Park Avenue Christian Church, East Orange, N. J., was the speaker last night when 62 seniors were awarded A.B. degrees at summer commencement exercises at Atlantic Central College.

"You have two roads ahead of you, one is escape and the other is faith," the speaker told the seniors. It is highly important to your future that you choose the right road, he pointed out.

A native of Washington, N.C., Freeman was a member of the ACC class of 1933.

The exercises were held in the college's Howard Chapel. The degrees were conferred by Dr. Travis A. White, president of the college, assisted by Dr. Laurence C. Smith, college registrar. The class was presented by Dr. James M. Moudy.

Music for the program was presented by Lynn Brown, professor of music at the college and Mrs. Travis A. White.

Graduated with honors were Miss Cora Elizabeth Myers of Pantego, and Mrs. Norma H. Smith of Micro.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Rubell Stokes Cannon of Pitt county; two daughters, Julia and Paula Cannon, of the home, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Cannon of Cannon's Crossroads community; and three brothers, Jesse E. Cannon, T. J. Cannon and David Cannon, of the home.

Farmville Hires Negro Policeman

FARMVILLE—Eibert Hawkins, formerly of Wilson, became Farmville's first Negro police officer when he joined the force August 16.

Mayor O. G. Spell said Hawkins comes highly recommended as to character and ability to efficiently discharge his police duties. He was in college two years and served three years in the army. He was formerly employed by a transportation company. Chief L. T. Lucas assigned the new officer to duty in the northern part of Farmville.

Drought Area Is Suffering Loss

GREENSBORO (UP)—Rockingham County farmers facing serious losses from the summer drought, have asked that the county be declared a federal disaster area so that they will be eligible for government disaster loans. They estimated losses would amount to 50 per cent of tobacco, 65 per cent of corn and 75 per cent of hay.
