Delegate Will Give Views On Political Parleys

UN To Hear South Korea

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (UP)—South Korea will explain to the United Nations Political Committee today its attitude toward the Korean political conference.

Foreign Minister Chou En-lai said in a statement broadcast over Peiping Radio that the absence of Red China and North Korea from the talks now being held by the United Nations Political Committee was "unreasonable."

South Korea objects to having India as a member of the parley, South Korean sources have said their government would not attend the conference if India were invited.

Russian Air Power Shown; No New Jet Models Seen

MOSCOW (UP)—The Soviet Union flexed its aerial muscles over Moscow Sunday but there was no sign of new jet planes, including long-range bombers, that Russia is said to possess.

The annual mass demonstration of Soviet airpower was held at Tushino Airport before Premier Georgi M. Malenkov and other top leaders of the Soviet government and Communist party.

Women piloted five of the planes and a number of gliders. A flight of low-flying YAK-12s opened the show by unfurling huge colored portraits of Lenin and Stalin as they roared by the flag-decked stand where the Soviet leaders and their foreign guests watched.

Red Infiltration Reported 'Deep'

WASHINGTON (UP)—Senate investigators said today that Soviet agents penetrated the government during the Roosevelt and Truman administrations and charged that "powerful groups and individuals within the executive branch" hindered efforts to eliminate them.

Despite FBI reports, the report said, "little was done by the executive branch to interrupt the Soviet operatives in their ascent in government until Congressional committees brought forth to public light the facts of the conspiracy."

Superior Court Term Is Opened

The August civil term of Pitt County Superior Court opened at 10 a. m. today with Honorable J. Paul Prizelle, resident judge from Snow Hill, presiding.

Five Prisoners Escaped Sunday

CLINTON (UP)—Five convicts escaped from the Sampson County prison camp near here last night, prison officials reported today.

The five convicts saved their way to freedom sometime during the night. Prison guards, state highway patrolmen and local officers used bloodhounds in an attempt to track the fugitives.

More Than 150,000 School Children Given Gamma Globulin; Results 'Uncertain'

By UNITED PRESS More than 150,000 American school children have received gamma globulin shots this summer and health officers in many of the communities involved believe the incidence of polio has dropped as a result.

A United Press survey elicited from these officials comments ranging from a cautious "wait and see" to jubilant "big success."

Dr. Henry K. Kumm, the foundation's assistant research director, said flatly that at least in one place, Caldwell County, N. C., GG was effective after the eighth day. Such polio as did occur among treated children was seldom of the paralytic kind, he said.

Group Tight-Lipped 'Until All Our Guys Get Out Up There' Returning Prisoners Quiet

PANMUNJOM, Korea (UP)—Tight-lipped American prisoners returning to freedom today said they would not talk about prison conditions "until all our guys get out up there."

The 150 Americans were silent and subdued in contrast to the boisterous group which returned Sunday.

Monday's exchange lifted the number of Americans repatriated in the 30 days of "Operation Big Switch" to 1,859. The Communists have promised to release 3,313.

Most of the Americans repatriated today will be aboard the troop transport Gen. John Pope when it leaves Inchon Tuesday on its two-week voyage to the United States.

Common Grades Of Leaf Enjoy Increased Prices

Common grades of tobacco jumped from $8 to $10 per hundred on the Greenville market here this morning.

Slight Gain In Schools' Pupils

With less than two days left before the opening of county schools on Wednesday, Pitt County Superintendent /of Schools D. H. Conley said this morning only slight gains in attendance over last year are expected for the 1953-1954 term.

First Shipment Of 328 Fanning Out Over Country Returnees Are Going Home

By CHARLES E. MOORE United Press Staff Correspondent SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—The first shipment of released prisoners of war fanned out across the country today toward processing centers near their homes.

Some of them came back enemies, nursing hatreds born in Communist prison stockades where some of the POW's became so-called "Progressives." There were hints from bitter POW's that the "Progressives" will get their ears pinned back.

Most of the men were being sent to Army camps near their homes for further processing and discharge.

Non-Communists Defy Pact Signed By Leaders French Strikers Still 'Out'

PARIS (UP)—Non-Communist strikers defied their leaders today and kept the country in a semi-paralysis that threatened the government of Premier Joseph Laniel.

Many non-Communist unions refused to return to work, partly because members wanted the weekend off and also because some of the labor organizations felt Laniel's recent concessions were not as liberal as they should have been.

Communications workers were back on the job in the rural departments but the strike remained in effect in Paris and the suburbs.

denia corsage. Mrs. Ayers, mother of the bridegroom, wore a rose lace dress over taffeta with matching accessories and a white gardenia corsage.

The bride graduated from Goldsboro High School and East Carolina College, Greenville. The bridegroom, who has served with the United States Army, is a graduate of Greenville High School and is a student at East Carolina College.

Following the wedding the bridal couple left for a wedding trip. The bride wore a black sheath dress with black and white striped jacket and white accessories and the corsage of Rubrum lilies lifted from her bridal bouquet.

After the ceremony, the bride's parents entertained at a wedding reception at their home.

Assisting in serving were Mrs. G. W. Bagley of Kenly, Mrs. Jerry Shuff of Troy, Ohio, Mrs. G. S. Tyree of Hampton, Virginia, Miss Marian Tyree of Hampton, Virginia and Mrs. Chester Keen of Goldsboro.

The living room mantle was banked with magnolia leaves centered with white candles. A white wedding bell hung from the chandelier.

The dining table from which refreshments were served was covered with a white Maderia cloth. The table was centered with an arrangement of white gladioli, asters and white candles in crystal candelabra. The buffet held a similar arrangement of flowers and candles in crystal candelabra.

The Ayers-Bagley wedding party and additional guests were entertained Friday night after the rehearsal at a cake cutting given by Mr. and Mrs. Chester Keen at their home at 1510 Evergreen Avenue. Mrs. Keen is a cousin of the bride. After the bridal couple cut the first slice of wedding cake, the mother of the bride, Mrs. O. L. Bagley, completed the serving. Mrs. Jerry Shuff of Troy, Ohio, aunt of the bride, poured punch. Miss Judy Keen and Jerry and Jimmy Keen, children of the hosts, assisted in serving mints and nuts.

During the party, the bridal couple presented gifts to their attendants.

Bridal colors of green and white were used in decorations. The dining table was covered with a white lace cloth over green. The table arrangement was of white asters and fern. The living room arrangements included magnolia leaves, candles and white asters.

Makes Real Effort To Find Owners Of Collie

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UP)—Mrs. Floyd G. Owens, who telephoned nine U. S. cities named Evansville in a futile effort to locate the owner of a wandering Collie, said today she plans to give the dog to an orphanage unless it is claimed soon.

The dog, which answers to the name of "Shep," trotted up to the Owens' home Aug. 13 and has remained ever since. The only clue to his owner was a tag on the Collie's collar reading "C. H. Gross, RR 3 Cook Ave., Evansville."

"It would break my heart to see him go," Mrs. Owens said "and our little son, Eddie, will really give us a bad time because he's very attached to the dog now. But if we can't find his owner soon, we'll have to find him a new home."

Mrs. Owens, who has five Beagle pups of her own, first tried to locate C. H. Gross by telephone, undaunted by the fact that eight states boast cities named Evansville — Arkansas, Illinois, Indiana, Minnesota, Missouri, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin and Wyoming — while Tennessee has a "Evensville."

After that failed, she mailed a letter to C. H. Gross Cook Ave., Evansville, Ind., but it was returned stamped "unknown."

A call to all the Grosses listed in Knoxville to see if they had any relatives living in Evansville drew a blank also.

"I don't know what I'm going to do now," she said. "I don't think it would do any good to call all the 'Grosses' in the other eight cities."

If she has to give the Collie away, she said, it will go to an orphanage rather than an individual. "At least a dozen people have called to claim the dog, but they can't give any explanation about the name on the collar," Mrs. Owens said. "One woman offered me $75 for him."

Time To Think Of Traffic Safety

With the tobacco marketing season moving into high gear the towns of Pitt County—particularly Greenville—begins the season in which business district traffic is at its peak.

It is the period of the year when drivers and pedestrians should keep the traffic regulations foremost in their minds.

In preparation for the congested traffic conditions which always come during the fall months, Greenville has erected new traffic signals at several strategic intersections. This will help in moving traffic, and will prove an asset to pedestrians if they follow the signals.

State's Ports Must Keep Pace To Grow

North Carolina's two deep water ports are still fighting to achieve the recognition they feel they deserve along the Atlantic coast of the United States.

State ports officials have proposed the spending of approximately $340,000 on the ports at Morehead City and Wilmington for construction of track type cranes. According to officials, this new facility at each of the ports would attract a sizeable amount of cargo through North Carolina's ports which is now going through other ports.

The state, of course, can not afford to pour unnecessary money into its port facilities. Nevertheless, in a case like this when a reasonable return is anticipated on the investment, it seems wise to afford the ports with the additional facilities.

The two deep water ports of the state are facing an uphill climb in competition with other Atlantic ports which have been in operation much longer. It is going to be difficult for the Tar Heel ports to build their business unless their physical plants are kept up to date, and capable of handling a large variety of cargo.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
BIG SOULS

Two men, a distinguished physician and a college professor, were speaking recently about their elderly fathers who were still living. Both these fathers are ministers. The doctor declared, "My father has a serenity of mind I have never seen in anyone else. His faith really works." The college professor said, "I regard my father as one of the most remarkable men I have ever encountered. He has held small churches, but his range of interest has been extensive, his enthusiasms have never abated."

Some of the men who make the headlines are truly great men. Their names will be inscribed on the scrolls of history. But certainly ninety-five per cent of all the people who occupy great positions today will be forgotten within a decade or two. One of the presidents of the United States during the last century, who lived to be a very old man, was utterly unknown in the last days of his life.

But there are "little people" whose influence will go on for centuries. There are pastors of little churches whose kindness, truth, and spiritual perception have been such that people years hence will call these men blessed.

Little people are often truly great people, and it takes people of real depth of mind and spirit to recognize and appreciate them.

Gross Indifference In High Places

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON—The most startling evidence yet of persistent Truman-Acheson indifference toward existence of a Communist espionage ring in sensitive government agencies—the White House, State, Treasury, War Production Board, UNRRA etc.—has been produced by the Jenner Committee, a subsidiary body of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Its documented report proves conclusively that the former President and Secretary of State failed to heed an FBI warning which revealed the identity and operations of the conspirators, as F.D.R. scoffed at the Berle-Chambers memo on Alger Hiss as far back as 1938.

The Jenner revelations, even more impressively than other Congressional disclosures, furnish a detailed review of Russian penetration of military, diplomatic and economic secrets before, during and after World War II.

Most sensationally, they show that almost every anti-American plot, subsequently disclosed in the two Hiss trials and several Congressional investigations, was known to Truman and Acheson as early as November of 1948. And yet, almost every individual listed as disloyal was promoted to an influential foreign policy post after they had been exposed.

TREACHERY UNFOLDED IN 1945—The sordid story of treachery was first unfolded when Elizabeth Bentley, under the influence of remorse and religion, voluntarily walked into the New York office of the FBI on November 8, 1945, and described her success in obtaining vital, secret data from 27 "contacts" at Washington.

The FBI report on her testimony, which partially confirmed the Berle 1938 memo to F.D.R. on Pentagon officials on November 25, 1945. The subsequent chronology is damning.

Hiss was not exposed by Vice-President Nixon and Chambers until the summer of 1948, and not convicted until January, 1950. In the interim he had been a top Acheson aide in the State Department. Previously, he had advised F.D.R. at Yalta, where Russia received concessions that made her supreme in Central Europe and the Far East.

With Edward R. Stettinius, then Secretary of State, Hiss helped to organize the United Nations at San Francisco. He worked on the compromise provision of the U. N. Charter which gave Russia the

In most small towns Jay-walking is principally a matter of habit. The lack of heavy, fast moving traffic in some seasons of the year cuts down the hazard in jay-walking; but at best it is never safe. During the period of the year when traffic is congested the habit is extremely dangerous.

The responsibility of safety records of Pitt towns during the remainder of this year does not rest alone upon the shoulders of drivers. The pedestrians share in it. If those who are walking as well as those driving in downtown business sections keep their eyes open and strive to obey fundamental safety regulations, it will be a great help in keeping down the number of traffic accidents for the remainder of the year.

It only takes one careless move, one slip second of disregard for safety and injury or death can result from a traffic accident.

Grand Old Man Of Tar Heel Politics

With the passing of Cameron Morrison, North Carolina lost one of its most colorful, most forceful political leaders of the past half century.

As a governor, United States Senator and member of the U. S. House of Representatives, Morrison served the people of his state well. As a stalwart of the Democratic Party in North Carolina, Morrison wielded great force in the party in the Tar Heel State; and even in the twilight of his years proved a dynamic force at the Democratic National Convention a little more than a year ago.

But for all his accomplishments in politics and government, Morrison is most remembered as the "good roads governor" of North Carolina. It was under Morrison's guidance that the state began its first great road building program. It was Morrison's forcefulness and demand for highway improvement that sent paved roads across the state to connect the county seats of the eastern-most and western-most counties of North Carolina in the early '20s.

In spite of the controversial political issues in which he took sides, and the fiery campaigns in which he participated, Morrison constantly grew in stature and gained prestige among the people of North Carolina. As age slowed down his political pace and mellowed his former temperament, Morrison remained until his death this week the grand old man of the Democratic Party in North Carolina.

His services to the people of North Carolina will long be remembered as will be the place he carved for himself in North Carolina politics during more than half a century.

Business Today Quitting Business Field

By ELMER ROESSNER
The Eisenhower Administration is going to sell the government's 29 synthetic rubber plants to rubber companies. It has agreed to a program that eventually will allow oil companies to exploit the continental shelf. It is getting the Navy out of the paint-manufacturing business. There's even talk of giving the Indians back to the Indians.

Isn't it about time to give the cook-book business back to Doubleday, Simon & Schuster and other book publishers, and recipe propagation back to the women's magazines?

The Government Printing Office which not only operates the largest publishing business in the world but also conducts one of the largest mail-order businesses, is currently offering 28 booklets of recipes and food hints, at prices from 5 to 20 cents.

For a nickel there's "Food for Two," suggesting menus requiring expenditure of only $17 a week at December, 1950, prices but not telling where you can buy at those prices now. For the same price there is "Egg Dishes for Any Meal," "Sweet Potato Recipes," "Cheese in Your Meals" and "Potatoes in Popular Ways."

"How to Cook Salmon" and "How to Cook Shrimp" are each 15 cents, but "How to Cook Oyster Perch" and "How to Cook Oysters" are only a dime each. "Basic Fish Cookery" is an upper-bracket, 20-cent item.

The prices are moderate, but the GPO has a fine advantage over profit-grubbing publishers. The GPO just doesn't put stamps on its mail.

In fairness to the Eisenhower Administration, it should be noted that these publications were printed during the Truman and Roosevelt stamps on its mail.

—How to Prepare It and Use It at Home," for instance, goes back to 1941. When the present Administration starts turning out recipes we can expect "Fillet Mignon Cookery," and "Caviar in 19 Delicious Ways."

Most book publishers are not worried about government competition in the recipe field. Cook books are among best sellers today, with dozens of new ones coming out every month. The marriage rate, you know.

RUST FORCES CHANGE IN MACARONI RECIPES
Speaking of cooking, manufacturers are changing their recipes for macaroni.

Ordinarily, macaroni and similar products are made largely from semolina, which is made from durum wheat. But stem rust has hit this year's durum wheat crop and semolina is critically short. So the macaroni manufacturers are using up to 50 per cent farina in new recipes. Most people won't know the difference.

LINEN ISN'T COTTON; NOW IT'S SYNTHETICS
Cotton has long dominated what is known as the "linen" trade; now cotton seems to be losing out to synthetics and plastics.

At the Allied Linens and Domestic Association's trade show in New York this week, almost all of the 81 exhibitors were displaying products of man-made fibers and many were featuring plastics. Many specialties were of nylon and Dacron.

Buy Insurance Now, While The Dollar Still Cheap

By ROGER BABSON
GLOUCESTER, Mass. — I believe in life insurance at all times, the same as I believe in fire insurance at all times. As, however, the amount of fire insurance taken out should depend partly on the cost of replacement, so the amount of life insurance which you take out should depend partly upon the trend in the value of the dollar.

VALUE OF DOLLAR BEEN DECLINING
Ordinarily, when experts agree that the dollar will decline in value for the next 20 years, you would not buy so much 20 Payments Life Insurance as if they agreed it would increase in value during the next 20 years. In the first case, you are paying out good dollars as premiums, while your wife may get poor dollars when you die—although she then would be much better off than if she got no dollars!

In the second case, you are paying out poor dollars as premiums with the hope your wife will get good dollars when you die. To illustrate how much of a factor this change is, the value of our dollar was 100 cents in 1939; it declined to 82 cents in 1952 and then started climbing back again. United States hold life insurance policies totalling over $775 billion, this decline in the value of our dollar has cost Americans many billions of dollars.

REASONS FOR DECLINING DOLLAR

There are various reasons why the dollar declined in value during the past twenty years. The primary one was that owing to war and preparation for war we did not balance our national budget but issued billions of paper money to make up the deficit. Any banker will accept your note at par if you have all your bills paid, a good job, and money in the bank. If, however, you can't pay your bills and are constantly giving out more notes, then these notes are accepted only at a discount, and the more notes you issue, the bigger the discount you must give in order to have them accepted.

Another reason for a declining dollar is when anyone accepts wages, interest, or profits for more than he deserves. Wages workers are entitled to wage increases in proportion to their increased production, less fair rental for the new machinery. When, however, labor unions force employers to give them more wages without giving more production in return, this results in an unbalanced national budget. In the long run, none of us can get "something for nothing." What labor gets in unproductive wages, it loses through higher prices, higher rents, and a declining dollar value.

WHY THE DOLLAR IS DECLINING

In view of the fairer attitude which the Eisenhower Administration is taking to balance the spending, borrowing, and production budgets, the value of the dollar should now go up again. This means many things: (1) The money which you now have in life insurance, bank deposits, and elsewhere will be growing in value (2) Your real wages will be increasing every month even though you get the same number of dollars in your pay envelope. This means that unless we can prove we are producing more goods or rendering better service, we should not now ask for higher wages.

TIME TO BUY LIFE INSURANCE
This is the time to insure the present high wages which your husband is now bringing home. With sufficient life insurance bought now, the increased buying power of this insurance when paid will partly offset the loss in the family income in case of his death. Hence, this is the time to buy life insurance. In addition to getting full insurance the day you pay your first premium, you are paying your premium with 52-cent dollars while your wife and family may be paid in 100-cent dollars when you die. For parents this means that now also is the time for spending money on an education for your children. For businessmen it means now is the time to spend money on institutional advertising and on other "long-term" investments.

Around Capitol Square

By LYNN NISBET
PRISONS—Developments of the past few weeks have put the North Carolina State prison system very much in the headlines. The big question is whether the prison administration should be completely divorced from the highway commission. Back of that is a lot of thinking, a lot of experience and a lot of legislation.

It is necessary to review past history in order to arrive at a stable base for considering present conditions. HISTORY—Prior to 1931 there was a separate board in control of State prison. Until then the prison system was a relatively small adjunct of State government. The "penitentiary" at Raleigh housed some 500 to 700 persons convicted of felonious crimes. Each of the 100 counties was responsible for its own public road system and had its own program of prison labor. The county prison road crews were commonly designated as "chain gangs." Although it is of record that shackles were rare except in case of hardened criminals. The General Assembly of 1931 integrated into the overall State highway system all county roads, assumed responsibility for maintaining them, and along with that assumed custody of some 7,000 to 10,000 prisoners theretofore sentenced to county "chain gangs."

ECONOMIC—The reasons for putting the prison system with the highway commission were about 99% economic. The other one percent consisted of complaints at farming out prisoners to private industry, using prison labor in competition with free labor and almost complete lack of any rehabilitation program. There was a minor strain of criticism at county treatment of chain gangs. The main reason was that care of prisoners was proving burdensome to taxpayers in the depression era, and some counties were unable to keep all prisoners employed on their roads.

REVERSE—History is now repeating itself—in reverse. Present clamor is for restoring prison administration to separate independent administrative control, in order to more fully develop a rehabilitation policy and attempt to make good citizens rather than convict road workers out of them.

CONFLICT—There is still the basic conflict between the two ideas—whether convicted criminals are being punished for crimes committed against society or should be considered wards of the State entitled to training in some skilled craft. These conflicting ideas have been personified to considerable degree in A. H. (Sandy) Graham, chairman of the highway commission, and Walter Anderson, director of prisons. The positions and attitudes of both men have been played up out of proportion but reduced to basic essentials Graham believes prisoners owe a debt to society and Anderson believes society owes a debt to the prisoners. With that contrast in opinions it seems unlikely that Graham and Anderson can get along together for any extended period of time. So it would seem to be only a matter of days until they must separate—which is another way of saying Anderson is on the way out because Graham is slated to stay for four years.

AGREEMENT—The unfortunate fact is that despite the basic differences in their philosophy, Graham and Anderson are not very far apart in their ideas of handling prisoners. Graham favors a sound rehabilitation program and Anderson recognizes that discipline must be enforced. Most of the apparent "trouble" between them has been manufactured by ill-informed persons who jumped to conclusions and by the zeal of old time prison employees who want their jobs back. The situation now is more serious but in many respects it is reminiscent of the furor occasioned some 25 years ago when Mrs. Kate Burr Johnson, commissioner of welfare, sought improvement in prison conditions and was accused of wanting to give every convict a

You Can Enjoy Your Neighbors

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
Whether it's the season or whether it's the boredom, I don't know, but we seem to be having more than the normal quota of neighborhood battles right now.

So many families are cutting other families dead, it's a wise householder who keeps a feud-free to avoid getting involved in other people's unpleasantness.

An innocent bystander who doesn't know that Mrs. Jones has suddenly developed an acute case of near-sightedness when Mrs. Smith is around can get into a passel of trouble just by tossing a cheery hello in the wrong direction. This can be, and not infrequently is, construed to mean that said bystander has been filled in on the causa bellum and has taken sides.

At the moment, we seem to be surrounded by several major wars. I haven't been able to get a complete documentary on all of them, but I have clues concerning the onset of a few. One is a vintage fray which has been in progress ever since a group of neighbors decided to "get together on a drainage problem. Hard feeling blew up on the apportioning of the cost, each householder making a fine case for himself as the person who would receive the least benefit. This in turn led to harsh words and gross accusations and now it has reached the point where the original cause of the trouble has almost been forgotten but everyone is still fighting mad and passionately self-righteous.

There's also a seething little unpleasantness with a four-way stretch involving a complicated situation where Mrs. Arbutnot told Mrs. Buncombe something that Mrs. Carroway was alleged to have told Mrs. Duclos, and after Mrs. Buncombe overheard pair of purple pajamas to sleep in. Admittedly the dividing line between cruelty and coddling is hard to draw, being essentially a matter of opinion.

IMPROVEMENT—No one conversant with conditions in State prisons during the past quarter century can deny there has been tremendous improvement. And nobody familiar with the present situation can doubt there is room for a lot more improvement.

TRANSITION—The transition from a hardboiled almost cruel policy toward prisoners to one of recognition that they are human beings needing the same kind of fellowship and encouragement as all other folks has been gradual. There are those who sincerely believe the progress has been too slow, and there are others who just as sincerely feel it has been indulously rapid and has already gone too far. The problem facing prison administration now, whether left with the highway commission or made independent, is reconciliation of these extreme ideas into a workable plan of rehabilitation without going so far as to make prison confinement more an easy way to get vocational training than as punishment for crimes committed.

CLASSIFICATION—The heart of any successful program lies in the proper classification of prisoners. The emphasis which Walter Anderson put upon that essential has been lost sight of in other developments. Case studies of new prisoners afford information as to whether the man or woman is likely to respond to, or resentfully combat, efforts toward rehabilitation. It seems obvious that time and money spent on "saving" a person whose record indicates congenital criminal tendencies will be wasted. There is equally obvious waste in failure to help those who show evidence of becoming good citizens to get on their feet. One of the main troubles in the current discussion is failure to make the distinction, based on expert classification study, between those susceptible to help and those who cannot profit by any assistance from the State. The tendency has been too much toward the idea that all prisoners are hardened criminals or that all prisoners can be restored to the status of good citizenship. Too often the fact is overlooked that, whether in purple pajamas or in Sunday school or in shackles or solitary confinement, every prisoner is a human being different in many characteristics from every other person, and yet susceptible to bracketing in general classifications and groups.

Little Boys Need A Good Space To Dig

By DAVID TAYLOR MARKE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Have you thought about giving Junior a digging place?

Many parents fence off a special place in their yard so that their child can use it to dig in and give him some of his dad's garden tools to play with, says Mary Anne Sherwood of the New York State College of Home Economics, Cornell University.

A child can have a great deal of fun or creative play, she says, in his digging place. He can pour water in it to make mud, and from mud young children can make so many things — "pretend" pies, cookies, chocolate milk and so forth. The mud is lots of fun to play with, too, because it has such a nice "feel."

True, he'll come into the house from one of those digging places and look pretty dirty. But an understanding mother will realize that it's a wonderful feeling to be young and to have the whole world to play in... without always being told to be careful of clean clothes and hands.

Says Miss Sherwood:
"After all, dirt washes out easily with plain soap and water, and Mother can always clean him up — or better still, she can teach him to clean himself up, when company comes and she wants to "show him off."

Sandboxes, too, are very important to a young child, says Miss Sherwood. And they're easy to make at home. Any good packing box of fair size — about three by four feet — can be used if it is cut to a ten-inch depth and lined with roofing paper to keep the sand from sifting through the cracks. This box, filled with 200 or 300 pounds of sea sand, serves very well.

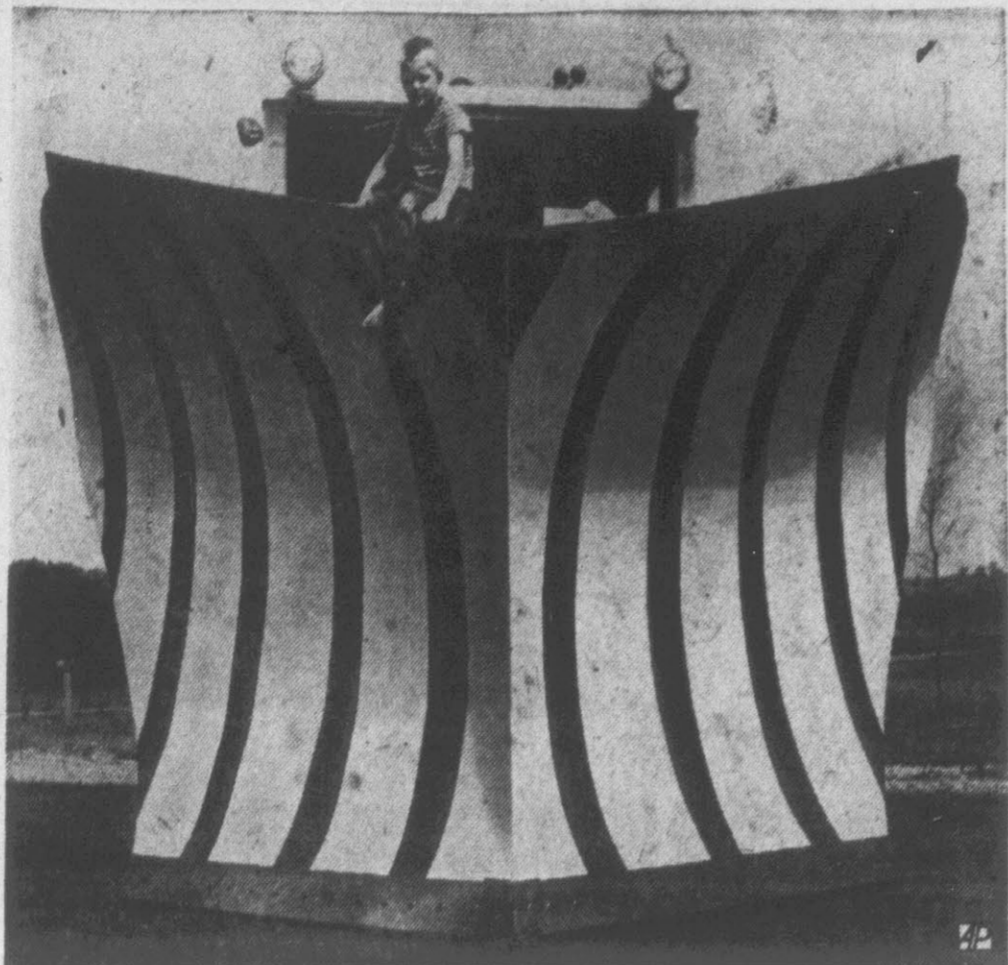

Play equipment for such a sandbox, she says, would cost practically nothing. Discarded kitchen utensils such as sifters, pans, egg beaters and spoons are very popular with youngsters for sand box play. Measuring cups and tin cans with rolled edges in a variety of sizes come in handy, too.

Many parents find that lard pails or other pails of sturdy construction last longer than the kind you buy. The sand toys can be kept in an attractively painted bushel or half-bushel basket so they won't be lost.

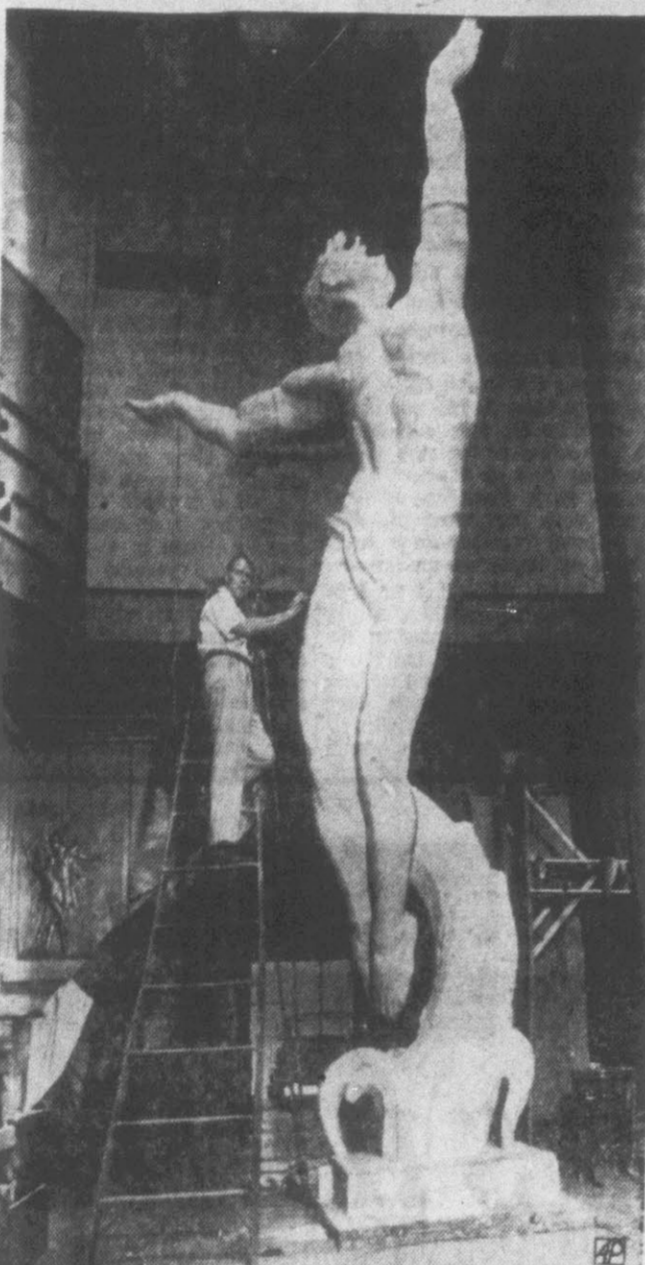

Summer play for children, she suggests, could include using hammer and saw, nails, and stray pieces of old wood, if parents are careful to instruct children about the proper use of such instruments, and supervise the first attempts.

With his own little workbench out in the yard and his own set of small-sized tools, not the play variety, but real ones just like Daddy's, a child will get a great deal of pleasure from making things by himself. Even four and five year olds can learn how to do wood-working safely. And when they've nailed even two pieces of wood together to make their own "boat," how proud they are!

Says Toll Roads N. Y. Senator To Strive For FEPC Bill Passage

CHICAGO (U.P.)—The American Society of Planning officials warns there are drawbacks in setting up express toll roads.

The toll roads, which will soon total 2,000 miles throughout the country, have made more money and carried more traffic than originally estimated, the society said. However, none of the turnpikes has been in operation during a depression, the group warned.

The Society made its report on the basis of a study by the Institute of Transportation and Traffic Engineering at the University of California.

The report said that many parts of the country do not have enough traffic to make a toll road pay. In other sections, good free roads offer serious competition to toll highways.

Financing Costs More

It was found that toll roads, on which federal funds cannot be used, have usually been financed by revenue bonds at a cost twice as great as financing by general obligations bonds of the state.

Fees for using toll roads are about equal to a 20-cent-per-gallon tax on gasoline, the survey said, but drivers get better road and driving conditions, the report said.

The Society said all the turnpikes are making enough money to meet their bond obligations and actual net receipts are generally well ahead of estimates.

In 1952, the average daily traffic on the major turnpikes went far beyond what had been expected. The Colorado Turnpike carried 4,600 vehicles compared with an estimate of 3,300; the Pennsylvania Turnpike 11,000 compared with 6,000; and the New Jersey Turnpike 20,000 compared with 8,300.

WASHINGTON (UP — Sen. Irving M. Ives (R-NY) said today he will seek action at the next session of Congress on legislation to set up a fair employment practices commission (FEPC).

But he acknowledged the threat of a Southern filibuster may keep the bill from reaching the floor for action.

Ives, chief sponsor of a bi-partisan bill to bar racial or other discrimination in hiring, said hearings on the measure will begin soon after Congress convenes in January.

He said he is certain backers of the bill can get it approved by the Senate Labor Committee. The hitch will come, he said, in getting it to the Senate floor for debate and a vote.

When the Senate's unlimited debate rule, which holds Southern foes of FEPC legislation could stage a filibuster against a motion to take the bill up for debate.

"We will push for it as hard as we can," Ives told a reporter. "I think the bill ought to be out and on the calendar. We might get a break and a chance to bring it up."

Ives said he hopes to line up a number of the nation's leading chairmen to testify in support of the bill at the hearings, which will be held by the civil rights subcommittee. Ives is chairman of that Labor Committee unit.

He said he hoped to get testimony from Francis Cardinal Spellman, Protestant clergyman Harry Emerson Fosdick and other top church leaders.

Democracy For Germany But People Lacking Interest

By WELLINGTON LONG
United Press Staff Correspondent
BONN, Germany (UP) — The West German parliament, first freely elected federal legislative body in this country since 1932, has just completed its first four-year session, offering a good point at which to discuss whether Germany has found democracy.

In answer, most experts, both foreign and German, agree, is a resounding yes.

The machinery of a democracy has been established, with all its checks and balances, and it works without too much squeaking.

Since the first West German parliament was seated in September 1949, the lower house (Bundestag) and upper house (Bundesrat) have approved almost 450 laws. Compared to the number of laws adopted by other national parliaments in a similar period, this may not appear to have involved a great amount of work.

But in West Germany, almost all laws which regulate public life had to be written, because those of the Weimar Republic and of the Kaiserreich before that had been badly distorted by the Nazi regime. Even the criminal code had to be revised.

Bundestag and Bundesrat meetings have been almost completely free from the scuffling and fighting that characterizes, for instance, the Italian parliament, although a group of Socialist deputies did two years ago badly maul a neo-Nazi anti-Semite just outside the parliamentary chamber.

Can't Throw Inkwell
Angry deputies do occasionally rap the tops of their desks to drown out an opposition speaker, but when the chamber was built, someone wisely bolted all desks and chairs to the floor and imbedded the inkwells deep in the desk tops so the deputies couldn't throw them.

The court system has been re-established, and seems to work pretty well, although the Constitutional Court in Karlsruhe is alleged to be not entirely free of political pressure. That court, for instance, has refused to decide whether rearmament is constitutional, pending the outcome of the Sept. 6 federal parliamentary elections, when rearmament will be one of the chief issues.

Despite rumors to the contrary, no official discovery of vast corruption or graft has yet been made, although a half dozen deputies have been caught padding expense accounts.

The most noted case developed right after this parliament was seated in 1949, when a weekly news magazine alleged that a group of Bavarian deputies had taken money in return for voting to place the capital in Bonn. The investigation of the charges dragged on for months, but no one was ever tried or expelled from parliament, for evidence was lacking.

Liaison Lacking
The press and radio are free, although the government has twice ordered the confiscation of newspaper copies of publications carrying what were officially considered to be libelous articles about Chancellor Konrad Adenauer. Copies sent through the post office, however, were not disturbed.

The most serious failure of the new West German democracy would appear to be that there are almost no links between the parliament and the people.

It is difficult to determine where the fault lies. Forty percent of the 401 deputies of the first parliament were elected under the proportional representation system, so have no constituencies to report to.

Many Socialist opposition deputies' sole income comes from parliament and the party; so it becomes a bread-and-butter matter for them to vote as the party chiefs tell them, not as they believe their constituents would wish them to.

To oppose the party line would mean these deputies would not receive official party support in the coming election, and independent candidates in Germany are notoriously unsuccessful—the present parliament had but one.

Interest Flags
The same goes for the 40 percent elected under the proportional representation system, because seats in the new parliament depend entirely on the whims of the party leaders.

On the other hand, the West German people are extremely apathetic to politics. Deputies representing rural constituencies say their voters are interested only in the price of their produce. Even German re-unification doesn't interest these farmers, unless they happen to own some land in Soviet-occupied East Germany.

For two years, the government and the opposition have fought bitterly about whether to rearm within the European Defense Community. Yet a recent survey by a public opinion group showed that 75 percent of the West Germans did not know the meaning of the initials "EVG" which stand for the German equivalent of "European Defense Community."

Fifty seven percent did not know the meaning of the initials "UN." Despite Socialist cries that under the European Defense Community, West Germany would lose her "national sovereignty," 53 percent could not define these two words.

For the past two years, parliament has struggled to write an election law. It was the subject of bitter debates, numerous committee sessions, party bargaining, front-page newspaper stories and brooding editorials about the destruction of democracy if this or that version prevailed. Yet a check of 20 representative deputies by this correspondent showed that not one has ever received a single letter from a constituent concerning the law which would determine how that constituent could select his delegate to parliament.

FARMVILLE — Sam D. Bundy, president of the Northeastern District of the North Carolina Education Association, announced today that two outstanding speakers have been secured for the annual convention of the Northeastern District to be held in Greenville October 23.

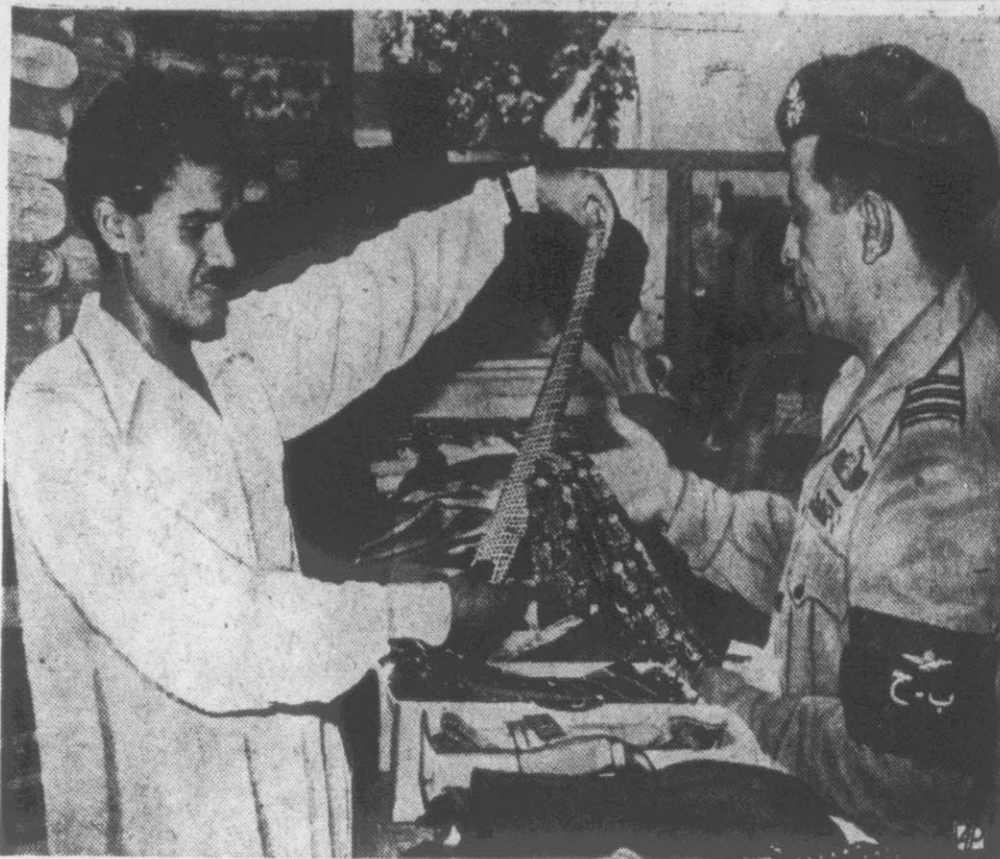

Dr. Mark Depp of Winston-Salem, pastor of Centenary Methodist Church, will speak at one of the general sessions. Hon. Frank G. Clement, governor of Tennessee, will also speak.

Dr. Depp is known as a preacher and inspirational speaker.

Governor Clement is nationally known as a speaker at civic, educational and religious meetings. His address at the Kiwanis International Convention in New York last June was hailed by Kiwanians as perhaps tops in convention addresses.

"The appearance of these two outstanding personalities should," according to President Bundy, "swell the attendance at the convention and make for a most successful convention."

Snider Drives In Seven Runs To Lead Two Dodger Wins

Cleveland, Chicago Capture Two Games; Gain Ground

By CARL LUNDQUIST
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP)—Duke Snider, the center fielder of those window-breaking Brooklyn Dodgers, was the latest of them to rate serious consideration today for "most valuable player" honors.

The California Duke, who is playing at the peak of his career, probably will wind up with his top major league marks in four departments and he has an outside chance of improving on two others.

Sunday, as he hit two homers and drove in seven runs with five hits in Brooklyn's 10-4 and 9-7 triumphs over the Pirates, he closed in on his best previous marks practically all-around.

His two homers gave him a total of 31, which equals the number he hit in 1950. He scored three runs Sunday, giving him a total of 101 and making him the only player in the majors past the century mark. He needs only nine more to top his best previous total of 109 — also in the 1950 season. He has 97 runs-batted-in, needing only 11 more to top his 107 total in 1950. He boosted his batting average to .312, which is still nine points under his .321 peak in that same hot year of 1950. And he has 148 hits, needing 35 more to equal the 1950 total of 189.

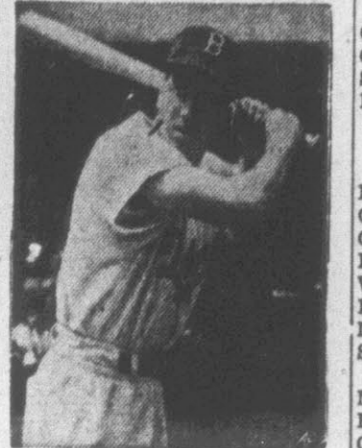

Snider has hit 11 home runs this month and needs only nine more to equal the club record of 12 for a month held by Roy Campanella. Snider touched off a six-run rally in the fifth of the opener with a two-run homer that insured Russ Meyer's 13th victory. He had a two-run homer and a three-run double in the second game in which Clem Labine came in to pitch 2 2/3 innings of scoreless relief ball and win his fifth game in 11 days.

The Brooks moved nine full games ahead of Milwaukee, which ran its winning streak to eight games by beating the Cubs, 10-2, on Warren Spahn's four-hit 17th victory before losing 7-2 in a darkness-halted, seven-inning finale. Johnny Klippstein held the Braves to six hits.

In the American League, the Yankees blanked the Athletics, 4-0, on Vic Raschi's six-hit job for his 28th victory against only five defeats over the Pennsylvania patriots. However, the Yankees lost ground to Chicago which defeated Detroit 2-1 and 11-6 and now trail by 8 1/2 games. Hank Bauer hit a homer and the Yankees scored two other runs on errors.

Bob Boyd tripled home the winning run for Chicago in the ninth inning of the opener to top off Sandy Consuegra's fine five-hit pitching. In the second game Virgil Trucks gained his 17th victory despite a shaky start in which he gave four runs on six hits, three walks and two wild pitches in the first two innings. Chicago made 16 hits, Al Carrasquel setting the pace by driving in three runs on a double and two singles.

Al Rosen took over the American League lead in homers with 33, in runs-batted-in with 116, and in batting with a .326 mark as he hit a three-run homer and drove in another run with a single in the second game as Cleveland topped the Browns 3-1 and 9-0. Early Wynn gained his 14th victory with a seven-hit performance in the opener and Art Houtenier pitched a four-hit performance to win the second game.

After Ted Williams tied the score at 4-4 with his fifth homer since returning from Korea in the seventh inning, rookie Karl Olson doubled home the winning run in the ninth in a 5-4 Red Sox victory over Washington.

Earl Torgesen drove in three runs with a homer and single in a 6-3 Phillies victory that extended the losing streak of the Giants to seven games. Curt Simmons pitched his 11th victory, allowing nine hits.

Winning pitcher Ken Raffensberger drove in two runs with a double in the ninth for Cincinnati to offset two runs by St. Louis in the bottom of the inning in a 5-3 triumph. Ray Jablonski got one of the Cardinal runs with a homer.

Big Boy Is Back: Batting At .480

BOSTON (UP)—So far Ted Williams' baseball comeback is a roaring success—his batting .480.

The Boston Red Sox slugger, now back in the regular lineup, has been to the plate 25 times, collected 12 hits including five home runs.

Magazine Names SC Linebacker On All-America

COLUMBIA, S. C. (UP)—A national magazine on news stands throughout the country today named University of South Carolina center Leon Cunningham to its All-America football team for 1953.

The lean linebacker, who made every All Southern team picked last year as a sophomore, was the only Atlantic Coast Conference player named to the squad by True Magazine, and was one of four Southern players honored.

A defensive specialist during his first two college years, Cunningham, is expected to star on offense also in the new one-platoon football system.

Wake Forest assistant football coaches Pat Preston and John (Red) Cochran were teammates on the strong Deacon team of 1942.

National Football League Begins Exhibition Games

By UNITED PRESS

The Detroit Lions and the Cleveland Browns launched their National Football League exhibition schedules with impressive victories during the weekend, but it was the Philadelphia Eagle who stole the show.

The Eagles, tabbed as the team to watch during the forthcoming pro season, chalked up their second straight exhibition victory Saturday night by whipping the Chicago Bears, 24-10, at Hershey, Pa. It was only Philadelphia's fourth triumph over the Bears in 21 years.

Meanwhile, the defending champion Lions followed up their conquest of the College All-Stars by turning back the Pittsburgh Steelers, 16-13, at Syracuse, N.Y., Saturday night and the Browns rolled over San Francisco, 20-7, Sunday on the West Coast.

In other Saturday night games, the Green Bay Packers showed surprising power in jumbling the New York Giants, 31-7, at Minneapolis and the Chicago Cardinals edged the Baltimore Colts, 10-7, at Lubbock, Tex., on a last-minute field goal by Buck McPhail.

The Eagles, who posted a 10-7 victory over Baltimore in their exhibition opener 10 days ago, outclassed the Bears behind the flawless passing of Adrian Burk.

Detroit spotted the Steelers a 13-7 lead early in the fourth quarter, but Doak Walker quickly pulled the Lions into command with a 20-yard touchdown scamper and a six-yard field goal. Tom Dunblinsky, subbing for quarterback Bobby Layne, passed to Cloyce Box for the Lions' other score.

A crowd of 36,273 at San Francisco watched the Browns trounce the Forty-Niners. Otto Graham's touchdown tosses to Dante Lavelli and Darrell Brewster, and a pair of 47-yard field goals by Lou Groza stood out for the former champions.

Dan Sanifer, Bill Howton, Al Carmichael and Bob Fort handled the touchdown chores for Green Bay as the Packers whipped the Giants before an estimated 20,000 fans.

A game between the Browns and the Rams at Los Angeles Friday night features this week's exhibition slate. Pittsburgh plays Baltimore at Rochester, N.Y., Wednesday night; New York meets Detroit at Dallas Friday night; the Cardinals engage Green Bay at Spokane, Wash., Saturday night, and Washington is at San Francisco next Sunday.

Magic Number 23 For Dodgers; 24 For New Yorkers

NEW YORK (UP)—The "magic number" now is 23 for the Dodgers, 24 for the Yankees.

That means the Dodgers can clinch the National League pennant by winning 23 of their remaining 32 games, a .719 pace regardless of what the second-place Braves do. Or any combination of Dodger wins and Braves defeats totaling 23 will clinch the pennant for the Dodgers.

The Yankees can clinch the American League pennant by winning 24 of their remaining 32 games, a .750 pace. Or any combination of Yankee victories and White Sox defeats adding to 24 will give the Yankees the flag.

Hartwig, Rose Win National Doubles Tennis Tourney

CHESTNUT HILL, Mass. (UP)—The Longwood Silver Bowl, symbol of America's national doubles tennis championship was headed for Australia today—thanks to the town of Albany.

The 10,000 citizens of Albany, Australia, financed the trip of Rex Hartwig to the Longwood Cricket Club where he and Australian Merwyn Rose logged an hour and 17 minutes Sunday in down second-seeded Gardner Mulloy of Miami, Fla., and Billy Talbert of New York City, 6-4, 4-8, 6-2 and 6-4.

Chunky Hartwig, who reached the Wimbledon finals with Rose this year, was outstanding among the Aussies as they swept America's first three seeded teams, including that of top-ranked Tony Trabert, Cincinnati, O., and Philadelphia's Wimbledon champ, Vic Seixas, who won the doubles title last year with Rose.

Top-seeded Shirley Fry of Akron, O., and Doris Hart of Coral Gables, Fla., successfully defended their doubles title. But it took a commendable comeback for them to defeat veterans Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, Calif., and Mrs. Margaret Osborne Du Pont, of Wilmington, Del., 6-3, 5-7 and 9-7.

Fight Mob Puts Knock On Boxers With Education; Causes Concern

Major Leaguers Hire Attorney To Talk To Frick

NEW YORK (UP)—Baseball's big league big-wigs will have to decide today how to handle the hottest potato that has been handed them since the ball players tried to form a union seven years ago.

In a new "get tough" policy that came as the result of "one brush-off after the other," the players are sending their new legal counselor, J. Norman Lewis, into a face-to-face meeting with Commissioner Ford Frick and the major league executive council.

There was a possibility that Frick would rule that players out of order in their hiring of an attorney who has no official connection with baseball on the grounds that there is nothing in baseball's law which calls for such representation on their behalf.

Whatever he decides to do he was keeping highly secret. He spent Sunday on the golf course and was unavailable thereafter at his home.

Allie Reynolds of the Yankees, the American League player representative, who usually gets what he wants in his own personal salary dealings with the world champs, made it plain that this time he was anxious for all of the players in the majors to get a break.

"We're getting a little tired of getting the same old brushoff," he said. "The club owners accept propositions we make and then they turn right around and disregard their agreements. This is a drastic step but it had to be taken."

Doug Ford Wins Labatt Tourney

MONTREAL (UP)—Young Doug Ford owned the biggest check of his golfing career after making minicomet out of par and competition in the inaugural $25,000 Labatt Open tournament.

A 15-under-par 265 gave the Harrison, N.Y., pro first money of $5,000 in Canada's richest tournament and boosted his 1953 earnings to $21,000, which put him right behind Lloyd Mangrum and Ben Hogan.

The New Haven, Conn., native, winner of the Virginia Beach Open earlier this year, slam-banged his way into the lead in the Labatt with a record-equalling 64 Saturday at the end of 54 of the 72 holes played on the par 70 Sumner course. He put together a five-under-par 65 Sunday to take the tournament by five strokes.

Walter Burkemo of Detroit earned $2,780 second money with a 10-under-par 270, one stroke better than the 271 posted by little Jerry Barber of La Canada, Calif., whose 64 on Thursday had set a new competitive course record for the 6,515-yard Sumner layout.

Raines Captures JC Golf Match

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UP)—Par meant nothing to 17-year-old Jimmy Raines of Augusta, Ga., as he won the eighth annual Jaycee Junior Golf Tournament Sunday.

Raines shot a three-over par 75 in the playoff round but a 111 in the John Schubeck of Detroit who ran into frequent trouble over the hilly University of Michigan course and carded a sky-high 81.

The tourney was forced into an extra 18 holes when Raines and Schubeck both turned in 72-hole cards of 297 at the end of regular play Saturday.

coffee and cakes. But the fact remains that only two sheepskin sluggers ever before made it to the heavyweight finals.

One was Bicycle Bob Pastor, out of New York University who attained the dubious honor of being flattened by Joe Louis in 1939. The other was Lou Nova, a California Junior College product who shook the little red schoolhouse to its foundation when Louis tumbled him in 1941.

The only collegian who came through was Billy Goose, who left Penn State to cop the middleweight title. Fidel La Barba gained the flyweight crown but went to college afterwards, proving that even champions can learn something.

Some of the students who learned the hard way, without great success in the ring, were Steve Hamas of Penn State, Ed Torrance of Louisiana State, Sonny Montgomery of North Carolina — along with Chuck Daves of Michigan State.

Chuck, you'll remember, took his masters from the old professor, Kid Gavilan, early this year. But he had shrugged Chuck off even before the fight. He was a southpaw, too, a horrendous combination to the fight mob.

Fight managers, in particular, have small room for the man who doesn't mangle his enunciation. This, undoubtedly is a hangover from their financial past. It always was much easier to settle up with a fighter who signed with a bold "X" and couldn't count past 10.

But one of these days the roof is going to fall in.

Some bright young man who can tell the difference between differential calculus and the eight ball in the side pocket is going to up and clobber the bejabsers out of whoever happens to be the heavyweight champion of the world. For the benefit of our young sprouts, it will be nice when it happens.

Ex-Champs Tee Off In National Woman's Tourney

BARRINGTON, R. I. (UP)—Four ex-champions and a 19-year-old Canadian lass, who is Britain's top amateur, were among 149 contestants to tee off at the Rhode Island Country Club today in the 53rd National Woman's Golf tournament.

Marlene Stewart of Fonthill, Ont., sought to become the third woman in history to hold both the U.S. and British amateur crowns simultaneously. The American title is undefended. 1952 winner Jacqueline Pung of Hawaii having turned professional.

Miss Stewart may have to contend with the likes of Barbara Romack of Sacramento, Calif., who beat her for the Canadian championship last week, and Dorothy Kirby of Atlanta, Ga., the 1951 winner.

Other ex-champs in the field, which was to be narrowed from 149 to 74 today, were Glenna Coleh Vire of Narragansett, who won the prize six times between 1922 and 1935, Dorothy Germain Porter of Westmont, N.J., the 1949 champ, and Grace Lenczyk of Newington, Conn., the 1948 winner.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (UP)—Stocks eased a bit under the continued weight of neglect today.

Individual declines generally amounted to no more than 1-4 or 1-4 point but they added up to an average loss for industrials of 43 cents at the end of the first hour. Rails were down 27 cents, utilities three cents.

Volume for the first hour was a light 180,000 shares although above the 150,000 shares registered in the initial period Friday.

There were a few wide moves, mostly in the rails. Alabama & Vicksburg climbed two points to 158, Atlantic Coast Line dropped one to 95-3/4, Denver & Rio Grande opened 34 higher but later ruled 24 lower while the preferred was up 1-1/2 point.

Kelly Oil lost 1-1/4 points and Amerasia two points in a generally easier oil group.

Steel shares gave up small fractions — 1-2 in Bethlehem, 1-8 in U. S. Steel. Chrysler dipped 1-8. General Motors 3-8. Aircrafts firmed a bit.

Two Will Go To Wildlife Session

Two Pitt County 4-H Club members have been awarded scholarships to the state 4-H wildlife conference to be held at Camp Millstone on August 24-29.

The two winners are: Jimmie Hendrix, of Greenville, and Ben Alton Gardner, Jr. of Chocod.

A week of instruction and fun will be provided the 75 delegates attending the camp. Instruction will be given in Wildlife conservation, nature study and a visit to the beaver colony and fish hatchery located near Rockingham.

Swimming and recreation will also be a part of the stay by the youngsters. The Remington Arms Company and the North Carolina Extension Service are sponsoring the state camp and the Pitt County Wildlife Club is providing transportation for the Pitt delegates.

Time Limit Set For Schools To End Segregation

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Defense Department plans to wipe out segregation in state-operated schools on military posts in two years.

If the states fail to take this action by the fall of 1955, there is a strong possibility the federal government will take over the schools and operate them on a non-racial basis, officials said.

However, Congress, which in the past has objected to any federal "interference" in local school systems, might fight such a move. President Eisenhower last March ordered integration in all schools completely operated by the federal government. The order only affected schools at Fort Belvoir, Ga., where segregation will be ended this fall.

The White House noted at the time, however, that there were "complicating factors" in schools operated by the states on military bases. It called upon the services to consult with local authorities about what steps could be taken to integrate the schools.

At present 16 Army and Air Force bases have segregated schools operated by the states assisted by federal funds. The Navy has state-operated schools on three bases where local laws call for segregation, but it has avoided the issue by not assigning Negro personnel with children to these bases.

Informed sources said Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson has told the services to make a detailed survey on "the most feasible method" to end segregation and set the 1955 "target date" for complete integration of the schools. Defense officials said a two-year period was set because of many "complications," the principal one being that state laws in the areas specifically forbid integrated schools.

Officials also noted that many problems will be raised if the federal government takes over the schools. These include possible loss of teachers and accreditation for the schools, and the necessity of constructing facilities at federal expense.

The Supreme Court is weighing the overall question of whether segregated school systems are constitutional, but officials said this did not enter into the Defense Department decisions.

Charlie Chaplin Has Another Son

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (UP)—Movie comedian Charles Chaplin said he would choose a name today for his newest child—an eight-pound boy.

Mrs. Chaplin, the former Oona O'Neill, gave birth to the child, her fifth, last night. "I'm very happy," the 64-year-old Chaplin told reporters.

Political Views Are Deadlocked

LONDON (UP)—Mrs. Perle Mesta said today that her political discussions with the Russians during an extensive tour of the Soviet Union ended in what might be termed a standoff.

"I told them, quite frankly," she said, "that I didn't like their system. They told me they didn't like ours either."

Agree To Look Into Complaints

FREEDOM VILLAGE, Korea (UP)—The neutral nations supervisory commission agreed today to look into Chinese charges that the United Nations mistreated prisoners in South Korea.

An informed source said Communist Red Cross officials first raised the complaints after visiting Communist prisoners in South Korean camps.

Motorcycle And Plane Collided

NEVADA, Ia. (UP)—Myrus Gibbs, 17, was killed yesterday when he drove a motorcycle into the side of an airplane landing at the Nevada Airport.

The accident occurred shortly before the field was to be closed to air traffic in preparation for auto and motorcycle races. Gibbs was to have been a contestant.

Authorities said Gibbs, of Ames, Ia., apparently did not see the plane as he rode his cycle onto the field.

Driver Charged In Auto Collision Saturday Night

GRIFTON—Two cars were damaged, but no injuries reported Saturday night when in a collision five miles East of here on 118.

One driver was charged with failure to yield the right of way as result of the accident, Patrolman Bill Whitehurst, investigating officer, reported.

Charged was Elmer Lee Scott, Jr., Camp Lejeune Marine. According to Whitehurst, a car driven by Scott failed to stop for a "stop sign" and collided with a car driven by Albert Harris, which was stopped to enter the highway.

Around $400 in property damage was reported to both cars by Whitehurst.

Slight Damage In Saturday Mishap

Slight property damage resulted Saturday when two cars collided at 12th and Evans Streets, traffic officer V. C. Ackert reported today.

Cars involved were driven by James House, 52, of Route 2, Box 525, Greenville, and a parked car belonging to Alfred Moore of 903 Willow Lawn.

No charges were made and no injuries.

Boy On Bike Hit By Automobile

A 12-year-old boy was slightly injured yesterday morning when struck by an automobile on a rural road, east of Greenville.

Patrolman E. H. Newman listed the injured child as being Ronnie Jones, 15, of Route 1, Box 11-A, Greenville.

He was struck by a car driven by Clinton E. Reese, 24-year-old Negro of Route 1, Grimesland.

Newman quoted the driver as saying that the youth, riding a bicycle on the right side of the highway, cut into the path of his car as he started to pass, knocking the youth from the bike.

He was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital for treatment of injuries and treated for cuts and bruises. There were no charges placed.

Three U.S. Presidents, Johnson, Jackson and Polk were born in North Carolina.

Draft Policy Is Adding To U.S. Manpower Pool

FARGO, N. D. (UP)—A new draft policy affecting some fathers will increase the nation's manpower pool from 12,000 to 14,000 men a month, Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, national Selective Service director said yesterday.

Hershey referred to a new draft policy that takes effect tomorrow. Deferments will not be granted to new fathers after that date.

Earlier in the day, at Bismarck, N. D., Hershey said he was sorry the new father-draft policy was not retroactive.

"The draft calls have been reasonably small this year," he said, "but look out for 1954."

Hershey made the Bismarck and Fargo stops while returning to Washington from a trip west with Mrs. Hershey.

Boy On Bike Hit By Automobile

A 12-year-old boy was slightly injured yesterday morning when struck by an automobile on a rural road, east of Greenville.

Patrolman E. H. Newman listed the injured child as being Ronnie Jones, 15, of Route 1, Box 11-A, Greenville.

He was struck by a car driven by Clinton E. Reese, 24-year-old Negro of Route 1, Grimesland.

Newman quoted the driver as saying that the youth, riding a bicycle on the right side of the highway, cut into the path of his car as he started to pass, knocking the youth from the bike.

He was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital for treatment of injuries and treated for cuts and bruises. There were no charges placed.

Three U.S. Presidents, Johnson, Jackson and Polk were born in North Carolina.
