Hurricane Moves On Bermuda

Island Battens Down Against Onslaught Of 150 MPH Winds Today

HAMILTON, Bermuda (UP) — This British homey island batted down today against the threatened onslaught of a giant hurricane whirling through the Atlantic with winds of 150 miles per hour.

Weather observers here said that if the hurricane continued its present north-northwesterly course it would rake the Bermudas with its easternmost gales late today. They warned that if it veered slightly to a more direct northward course it would smash the islands with full fury.

Some 40,000 residents and vacationers on the tiny group of coral islands 700 miles southeast of New York moved quickly to meet the threat, boarding up stores and homes and moving small boats to the safety of sheltered harbors.

Personnel at the U. S. Kindley Air Force Base and at the U. S. navy station were restricted to their bases. The Navy reported that all but three of its aircraft had been evacuated to the United States by mid-morning. Three planes will be kept here for rescue work, if such is necessary.

Kindly base officials reported they were ready to evacuate all planes for which there is no hangar space.

The U. S. Coast Guard cutter Rockaway and the training barque Eagle, a three-masted sailing vessel with 150 cadets aboard, left Friday for New London, Conn., in advance of the storm. The Coast Guard cutter Half Moon sailed at daybreak to ride out the storm at sea.

The latest advisory, issued at midnight e.d.t. by the U. S. Weather Bureau's hurricane warning service at Miami, Fla., said the storm was then 365 miles southwest of Bermuda, moving north-northwest at 16 miles per hour.

The storm was expected to continue on the same course for the next 18 hours, the advisory said. Forecaster W. R. Davis said at Miami that the entire United States Atlantic coastline appeared safe from the storm unless it changed directions unexpectedly.

The hurricane, third of the season, had posed a threat to the United States coast since it developed Tuesday.

New Elementary School Starting Soon; High School In Plans Stage School Construction Nearer

By AL PERRY Reflector Staff Writer

Construction will soon begin here in Greenville on a teacher's dream—a modern, brand-new elementary school, and an equally modern, equally new senior high school.

With purchase of 15 acres of land south of 14th Street near Brookgreen School at a reported price of $45,000 and the drawing up of plans for the elementary building, the first major step has been made in this latest effort of the city school system to keep pace with the expansion of Greenville.

Superintendent of Schools J.H. Rose, in an interview here yesterday afternoon, showed architect's plans for the proposed elementary school. The new building, to be constructed on the recently-bought property just off Elm Street in the southeastern section of Greenville, will be one of the most modern educational plants in the state up to completion.

Designed in a "flexible" manner, the elementary school will be built so it may expand whenever necessary, although when it opens, it will have a capacity of 280 children, with 8 classrooms, a multiple-purpose dining hall-auditorium, and various other rooms.

Architect's plans show the single-story structure will embody many features new to school building design, among them a doorway to the outside area in each classroom and a floor plan meant to eliminate the use of school corridors, once the trademark of any school.

Although plans for the senior high school have not been drawn up at present, Rose said construction would be finished sometime during the school year 1954-1955. Present schedules for construction of the elementary building call for its opening next September, in time for that school term.

Said Rose concerning the elementary school, "Here's the point—to make every classroom a self-contained unit of work." Old-fashioned methods of teaching will have no choice but to be discarded, stated the elementary school will be built so it may expand whenever necessary, although when it opens, it will have a capacity of 280 children, with 8 classrooms, a multiple-purpose dining hall-auditorium, and various other rooms.

Also planned for a part of the recently-purchased 15 acres will be baseball and football practice fields. Already a shop building at the Brookgreen School immediately across from the new property has been converted into a field house for high school athletics.

Upon completion of the senior high school, a football stadium to be located either on the new property or in a natural bowl location near the Brookgreen School, the practice fields, and a baseball field. Rose said that the high school athletic program would be completely unified, centering around one location.

Asked about grade set-up when the new buildings are completed, Rose said that tentative plans would put grades 10-12 in the new high school, grades 7-9 in the old high school building, and the elementary grades 1-6 in present structures and the new school.

New zoning procedures have already been put into operation here in an attempt to solve this year's problem of school overcrowding.

For the first time, Training School classrooms have been unable to handle all Greenville school children in elementary grades who live east of Evans Street. As a result, two first grades have been begun at Brookgreen, and the Training School has been allotted an area north of 5th Street, east of Evans down to Elm for those first grade children. When the new school opens next September, this zone will hold true for all elementary children.

White was elected to the Louisiana state Legislature after returning from a European prison camp but gave up the seat before his term expired in order to go to Korea.

Reds Deliver 275 Americans Today, 110 More Sunday 'Big Switch' Ends Sunday

By LEROY HANSEN United Press Staff Correspondent

PANMUNJOM, Korea (UP) — A convoy of Russian vehicles brought a record 275 Americans back to freedom today and the Reds said they will return 110 more Sunday, last day of the prisoner exchange.

Both sides had announced earlier in the day that gigantic "Operation Big Switch" would end Sunday in this dusty, sun-baked village where truce negotiators arranged the long-awaited exchange.

The number of Americans repatriated today was the largest in one day since "Big Switch" started 32 days ago.

With the return of 110 Americans, Sunday, the Communists will have freed 3,596 captured U.S. servicemen, 263 above the 3,313 they had promised to repatriate.

The Communists also have freed more than expected. Twenty-five went through freedom gate today and eight more will be released Sunday, bringing the total to 946 instead of 922.

The last of the South Koreans marked for repatriation by the Communists were released today. Two of the final 13 were women wearing pigtails.

United Nations officials believed the Reds would hold up final delivery until they receive from the Allies at least 14 hard-core Reds who stirred up the riots on Koje Island last year.

However, the U.N. already had assured the Communists that all prisoners desiring repatriation will be returned. A reported 14,000 Chinese and some 6,000 North Koreans have refused to go home and will be turned over to the Neutral Nations Custodial Commission.

The most famous prisoner returned by the Reds, Major Gen. William F. Dean, who was freed Friday, flew to Tokyo for a medical examination before returning to the United States.

Highest ranking prisoners returned today were Lt. Col. Donald J. McClellan of (8410 T/rons Ave.) Van Nuys, Calif. and William G. Thrash of (511 Echota D.A.) Atlanta, Ga.

'Important' Conference In Denver Is Scheduled President Summons Dulles

DENVER (UP) — President Eisenhower today called Secretary of State John Foster Dulles to an important conference here at the summer White House.

The White House staff took a highly guarded attitude toward the reason for Dulles' appearance here Sunday, refusing to say whether any particular combination of international events was behind the secretary's visit.

Prior to Dulles' arrival, the President will confer this morning with James C. Dunn, U. S. ambassador to Spain.

Later next week, the chief executive also will have a meeting here with Vice President Richard

M. Nixon. Dulles will see the President either at the temporary White House offices at Lowry Air Force Base or at the home of the President's mother-in-law, Mrs. John S. Doud.

Dulles talked with the President here Aug. 11 when the secretary of state was en route from the Far East to Washington. Dulles said at that time he and the President were deeply concerned about the prospect of the Chinese Communists holding back American prisoners in the Korean peninsula negotiations.

Dulles has since said in Washington, and in a speech before the American Legion convention in St. Louis, that new Soviet ventures in Southeast Asia might produce "grave consequences."

The weekend stream of White House visitors indicated the chief executive would remain here with his wife over Labor Day. His next fishing date, on a day unannounced, was at Pine, Colo., on the ranch of Bal F. Swan.

Official circles said there was no emergency or particular significance involved in Dulles' trip West. Mr. Eisenhower prefers to remain in full control of his foreign policy, and this involves frequent talks with the secretary of state.

New Speed-Timer For City Streets Will Be Purchased

By HOWARD LINDSAY Reflector Staff Writer

Speeders, beware! Motorists traveling at excessive speeds in Greenville city limits soon will have to contend with an electrically-operated device which leaves little room for disagreement about speed rates.

The device, which clocks speeds electrically, soon will be on order from the Greenville Police Department, Chief S. G. Gibbs indicated today.

Its purchase was authorized by the Greenville city council following its recommendation by Chief Gibbs, who told the board he understood its operation was "almost fool-proof."

Operation of the machine differs from the "whammy"—widely demonstrated in the state—in that it works on a principal of electrical impulses rather than by radar.

Wheels of the automobiles passing over two cables stretched across the road 132 feet apart, and hooked to a dry cell battery throw the switches which start and stop the stop-clock indicator.

This part of the instrument is portable, according to Chief Gibbs, and can be set up at a given location within ten minutes.

The chief said the device, put out by the International Safety Equipment Company, Wyoming, Pa., is the same kind that has been in use for five months in Rocky Mount.

Most of comments from its use there, he added, have been that it has proved highly satisfactory.

Total costs to the city, Gibbs told the council, will be about $550. This includes, he said, about eight or ten signs which will be set up at the city limits on every highway entering the city.

These will be about 24 x 36 inches, with black and white lettering, and will inform motorists entering the city that speed is being electrically timed.

COULDN'T STAND IT DENVER (UP) — Mrs. Della N. Sgatz, 64, was awarded an interlocutory divorce here today when she charged her husband, George, 63, was "so attentive I was becoming a nervous wreck."

Jaycees Collect Relief Blankets

Operation Warmth was launched by Greenville Jaycees today as a part of the nation-wide campaign to secure 20,000 blankets for people in the earthquake stricken sections of Greece.

Ren L. Rouse, president of the Greenville Junior Chamber of Commerce, said no canvas of homes of the city will be made by Jaycees in their attempt to secure blankets.

He urged people who had old blankets that can be donated to the relief project to leave them at Leggett's Service Station at the corner of Tenth and Evans Streets.

The service station, Rouse said, has been designated the collection point for the blankets, and also the collection point for funds for the relief program.

Rouse said blankets for the relief program must be donated no later than September 10, because on the following day the blankets collected in Greenville will be sent to an assembly point in Eastern North Carolina and then shipped to New York.

The local Jaycee president urged Greenville people who have blankets they can donate to the project to do so by Thursday of next week.

Husband Shoots Wife, 'Friend'

EDENTON, N.C. — A jealous husband whose pretty wife "confessed to running around with other men," shot her and an Edenton businessman, to death here yesterday, police said.

The husband described the slain man as his "best friend."

Police Chief G.I. Dail, said W.E. Halsey, 37, of Roper, admitted shooting his wife and L. Thurston Dunbar, 35, to death in a jealous rage when Dunbar denied dating Mrs. Halsey.

He quoted Halsey as saying his wife admitted dating other men and had named Dunbar. He said Halsey had told her he would forgive her, "sell my farm, move to another place and start all over again if you will confess your sins."

The Halseys then went to a Negro school here where Dunbar was working, and Halsey confronted Dunbar with Mrs. Halsey's story. Halsey quoted Dunbar as saying "it's a lie."

Then, Dail said Halsey whipped out a .25 caliber pistol shot his wife three times, and shot Dunbar down as he tried to flee.

"I just couldn't have my best friend running out with my wife," he told Dail. Halsey was placed under arrest by policeman John Wood as he walked from the school building. The gun with two bullets in the chamber was in his pocket.

Halsey said he and his wife had been estranged twice in recent months. She was the mother of three children.

Halsey was held without bond pending a preliminary hearing in recorder's court Tuesday.

U.S. Warships Visiting Spain

BARCELONA, Spain (UP) — Warships of the United States 6th Fleet arrived in four Spanish ports for friendship visits today.

The aircraft carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt, the cruisers Salem and Juneau, the destroyer Isherwood and five tankers and supply vessels came under the command of Vice Adm. John H. Cassady, for a nine-day stay.

Other units arrived at Valencia, Cartagena and Castellon.

General Dean In Tokyo Hospital For Examination

TOKYO (UP)—Major Gen. William F. Dean arrived today for a thorough medical examination to determine whether three years' imprisonment by the Communists had harmed his rugged physical system.

Dean had a big smile on his wrinkled face when he emerged from 5th Air Force commander Lt. Gen. Samuel Anderson's personal plane.

Brig. Gen. Wallace H. Barnes, acting comptroller, and Col. Charles L. Kirkpatrick, commanding officer of Tokyo Army Hospital went to the airport to welcome Dean.

Kirkpatrick said he did not know how long Dean would remain at the hospital.

Dean, who has refused to use the privileges of his rank, insisted on having two enlisted men accompany him on the short flight from Seoul to Tokyo.

Monday Holiday For Many Places

Next Monday—Labor Day—will be observed by federal and city offices. County offices will not be closed. The county commissioners meet that day.

The banks, postoffice and all city offices, including the street department, and the county ABC offices and stores will observe the holiday. A state law provides that ABC stores shall close on Labor Day, an official stated.

Stores and other local business places do not observe Labor Day.

Money For Iran

DENVER (UP)—President Eisenhower today put up $45,000,000 in American dollars for Iran in response to an "urgent request for assistance."

A White House statement said the President made the money available on an emergency basis "to be used for the immediate assistance of Iran."

Million-Dollar Sales Day For Tobacco Mart

It was another million dollar day on the Greenville tobacco market Friday as gross money paid out by the market reached its highest point so far this year.

Official figures from Friday's sale in Greenville showed gross sales amounting to 2,137,818 pounds of tobacco for $1,147,131.71 and an average of $53.66 per hundred pounds.

The net or producers sales on the Greenville market Friday amounted to 1,961,416 pounds and farmers were paid $1,074,239.73 for an average of $54.77.

Yesterday's sales amounting to more than a million dollars on the Greenville market brought to five the number of million dollar days on the market this year. It was the second consecutive day of million dollar sales since total sales amounted to more than a million dollars on Thursday also.

Farmville Market Gross sales Friday — 882,364 pounds for $375,357.06; average for day $53.87 per hundred pounds.

Sales through Friday this season—7,629,646 pounds at $53.37 average. Sales, first 12 days last season—approximately 6,010,000 pounds.

Farmville market will be closed Monday, Labor Day.

LOOK, NO HANDS LOS ANGELES (UP)—Max LaBell, 23, brought police on the run after he was tied up by bandits who robbed his soft drink stand of $56. He pulled the telephone from a desk with his teeth and dialed the police station with his nose.

Draft Call Increased To Keep Up U.S. Strength

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Defense Department has ordered 22,000 men drafted in November to keep the Army at full combat strength in the Far East until there is a firm peace in Korea.

The order, issued late Friday, marked a shift in strategy. The plan had been to cut draft calls to about 19,000 a month on the theory that troop strength in Korea could be trimmed in view of the truce.

A high Pentagon official revealed, however, that it was later decided it would be foolhardy to weaken the U. S. military position in the Far East until a solid agreement has been reached with the Communists in the forthcoming Korean peace conference. This official did not elaborate. But it was believed the Defense Department figured the planned cut might weaken the Allied bargaining position at the conference table, possibly encourage some new Red adventure in Indochina, and leave the United States with a guard down in case of new trouble in Korea.

In its announcement Friday, the department said the number of men to be drafted in November was based on maintaining approved strength after allowances have been made for enlistments and reenlistments.

The November call will bring to 1,480,000 the number drafted since the start of the Korean War. The Navy, Marine Corps and Air Force will not draft any men in November.

Child Genius In 'Wrong' School

LIVERPOOL, England (UP)—A seven-year-old boy sent to a school for children backward in reading here told his teachers:

"It is extremely generous of the authorities to provide free milk considering this is no ordinary educational establishment."

The startled faculty found the child actually was a genius with the mental rating of a university student. It was discovered his inability to read resulted from an emotional upset.

Quakes Topple Chilean Buildings

SANTIAGO, Chile (UP) — An earthquake toppled buildings Friday in Valparaiso and three other towns in central Chile.

At least 10 persons were hurt when terrorized residents ran out into the streets in Valparaiso, La Ligua, Chincolo and Petorca. The shock hit Valparaiso hardest.

The quake was followed by heavy rain.

Transport Ship Arrives With 367 Repatriates

SAN FRANCISCO (UP) — The military transport Marine Adier docks today with 367 repatriated American prisoners of war, including a Medal of Honor winner who didn't know until after his release that he had been awarded the nation's highest decoration.

Officials said the Marine Adier was expected to sail under the Golden Gate and dock at Ft. Mason at 3:45 p.m. EST.

A traditional military and civic welcome, complete with Army bands and fireboats saluting with geysers of water, will welcome the returning POWs.

Hundreds of relatives and friends were expected to be on the dock to greet the ship which also carries 1,519 regular rotation personnel.

Sgt. Hiroshi Miyamura, of Gallup, N. M., who learned when he stepped to freedom at Panmunjom that he had been awarded the medal, will be greeted by his wife.

New Pupil Safety Measures In City Are Rapidly Taking Shape

Greenville's school children soon will be safer by virtue of added traffic precautions at two street intersections, a new sidewalk and a footbridge along their route to and from school.

Giving added impetus to its current traffic and school safety program, the council approved these measures at its meeting Thursday:

(1) A sidewalk and footbridge on Elm Street between Tenth Street and Brookgreen School;

(2) A new traffic stop light at the corner of Boyd and Fifth Street; and

(3) Stationing of an officer of the Greenville police at the corner of Elm and Tenth Street.

Street and the Brookgreen School. The six-foot wide footbridge, Mayor Whedbee said, will be linked with the present vehicular bridge on Elm Street. Beatty said materials already have been ordered and is due to arrive by this weekend; work is expected to get under way by Monday.

The stop light at the corner of Boyd and Fifth Street, it was brought out in the meeting, should provide added protection for children from two schools—the C. M. Eppes School on West Fifth and the Fleming Street School—on one of the main arteries of traffic.

"We need to make it a safe place to walk and a safe place to cross," Mayor Whedbee commented.

Chief Gibbs reported costs of a stop light together with the labor to install it would amount to about $660. He said a swinging type light is the kind needed. Streets Supt. Beatty said crosswalks already have been painted in on the corner.

Councilman J.A. Collins proposed stationing of a police officer at the corner of Elm Street and Tenth at the after-school hour.

Collins pointed out a number of children crossing at this intersection would be six-year olds.

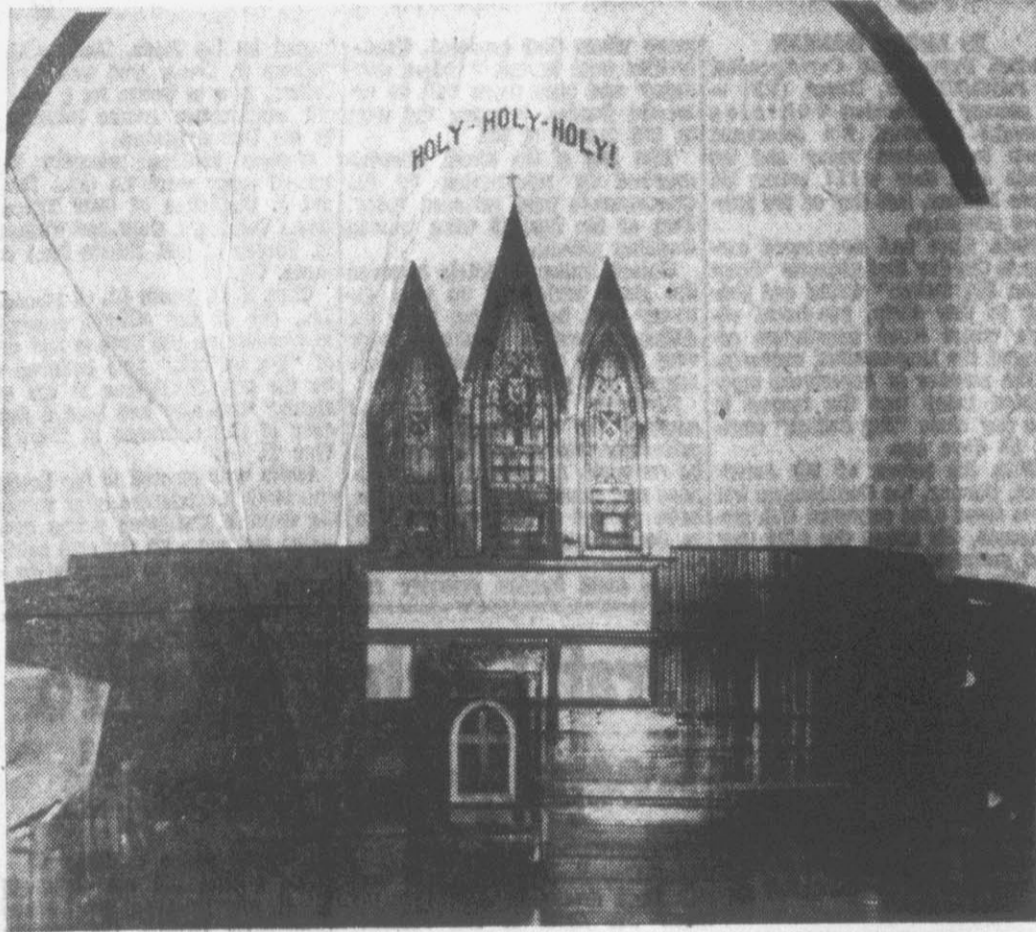

"And a six-year-old child doesn't know much about stop lights," he commented.

Another proposal, calling for possible rerouting of traffic in the Charles and Fourteenth Street section, was referred to a committee composed of City Manager James S. Hughes and Police Chief S.G. Gibbs for study and recommendation.

'Like Going In A New Church'

NEW FRONT ENTRANCE—In the traditional design of Episcopal churches, a new front entrance has been added in recent remodeling of St. Andrew's church on Bonner's Lane, replacing a former side doorway. Weatherboarding has been repaired and repainted and concrete steps laid. The symbol over the door is the traditional St. Andrew's cross. (Staff Photo by Roy Hardee)

LOOKING TOWARD ALTAR—Interior view of the renovated St. Andrew's Church shows a part of the work done through contributions by church members and the Layman's League of St. Paul's Church. Altar hangings have been replaced, pews rebuilt, and new carpets placed on the floors. (Staff Photo by Roy Hardee)

It will be almost like walking into a brand new church for members of the St. Andrew's Protestant Episcopal congregation: here Sunday.

The whole building has been completely done over, outside and in, from roof to foundation, and folks along Bonner's Lane, as well as elsewhere in Greenville, are really proud of what has been accomplished.

You can hardly blame them. From its kingly sentinel post at the end of the little dirt road, the freshly painted chapel seems to extend to the whole community its gleaming white invitation to come see "what God hath wrought."

Helping out along the way, too, have been some strong right arms, willing givers, staunch believers, ready hands.

That takes in not only the 12 or 15 members of the congregation at St. Andrew's but a large part, too, of the "patron" St. Paul's church uptown.

Last spring started things. By that time, W. F. Norcott and other faithful members had despaired of continuing to hold services in the dilapidated building. Instead, they had taken Winnie Goddette—at 92, the oldest communicant in North Carolina—up on her invitation to meet at her house for Sunday services.

Early this spring, however, a group from the Laymen's League of the uptown St. Paul's church and some of the St. Andrew's members decided it was high time something was done about the chapel.

A committee was formed and the hat started the rounds. Single donations at first were far from impressive, but bit by bit, the contributions began to add up.

By summer, work was under way—and there was a lot of it to be done—new retaining wall to go in, entire roof to be gone over, weather boarding replaced and repainted.

The ancient bell tower on the roof might have fallen in on its own if it had been left much longer as it was. So this was torn down and, in the best Episcopal tradition, a new front entrance went in to replace the old doorway on the side, with concrete steps leading up.

Inside, new carpets went down on the floor, ceiling and walls got new paint, and there were new altar hangings added. Hymnals and prayer books were bought for the renovated pews.

With finishing touches put on the furnishings last night, the building today was in readiness for its first services in two years.

Dr. Wallace I. Wolverton, rector of St. Paul's Church, will deliver the sermon at tomorrow's service.

Regular priest-in-charge of the chapel will be the Rev. Joseph H. Banks of Kinston. He will be present to lead the morning prayer at 11:30 a. m. tomorrow, and on each first and third Sunday thereafter, will hold 8:30 Holy Communion.

On alternate Sundays, licensed lay readers from St. Pauls will lead the morning prayer and sermon at 11 a. m. services.

Other future plans for the church contemplate further growth and increase in membership. Young people of the St. Paul's Service League, together with East Carolina student members of the Canterbury Club, also have volunteered to help with services.

Additional prospects are in store for a Sunday School and classes for Holy Baptism and communicants as need is felt.

Progress has been slow for this faithful group which dates its organization back to 1903. But their staunch refusal to be overwhelmed by the odds and give up their church is beginning to bear fruit.

Tomorrow should mark an important milestone in their upward trail.

When Life REALLY begins...

Baby's first step is something more than a parlor sensation! It is her first daring venture in the conquest of her own limitations! We really begin to live when we first try to overcome our weaknesses. And we cease to live the moment we lose the burning desire for self-improvement. Our most serious limitations are not physical, but spiritual. That is why the Christian Church is indispensable to the life of a child or an adult. Christianity helps us understand those spiritual shortcomings. Christ teaches the Faith by which alone man overcomes them. And our daily conquest of these spiritual limitations prepares us for the ultimate goal of living—that LIFE WITHOUT LIMITATIONS which we call Heaven!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every parent should orient services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Rural Sanitation, Of Prime Importance

In every county — except those made up entirely of urban centers — rural sanitation is an important phase of the sanitation of the entire county.

Particularly in Pitt County where approximately 69 per cent of the population lives in rural areas, rural sanitation is an extremely important factor in the overall health of the county.

The Pitt County Health Department in the past two months has launched an intensive rural sanitation campaign in an effort to improve the overall health conditions in the county. Through the cooperation of the people in rural areas of the county with health department sanitarians and other health officials, Pitt County can appreciably raise its sanitation standards.

Without the cooperation of the people, the task of raising the sanitation level throughout the county will be a much more difficult and a much longer task.

In conjunction with the rural sanitation campaign in Pitt County, there have been during the past 30 days more than 80 insanitary privies replaced by sanitary privies which meet public health regulations. In addition there have been 23 new septic tanks installed for home in rural sections of the county. That, indeed, is an encouraging sign.

On the other side of the ledger, however, health department sanitarians have found it necessary to condemn a total of 45 privies in rural Pitt County during the past two months because of insanitary conditions. That figure, of course, does not represent all the insanitary privies there are in Pitt County; because the survey of the health department is not nearly complete.

As far as the survey has gone, it has indicated definitely there are a large number of houses in the rural section of Pitt which have insanitary conditions.

The accomplishments which have been realized in improving sanitary conditions in the rural sections of the county during the past two months points emphatically to a willingness on the part of a majority of the property owners to improve sanitation throughout Pitt. Nevertheless, it is apparent there is a great deal of work yet to be done before Pitt will reach the ultimate sanitation and public health goals which officials hope for.

While the matter of rural sanitation and public health in Pitt is a primary concern of health officials, it should also be a primary concern of the citizens of the county. With the cooperation of the people of the county toward the goal of better sanitation for the county, Pitt will have little difficulty in achieving better living conditions for all its people.

Grow Your Own Tobacco The Advertisement Said

It's interesting what one can learn by reading the classified advertisements, whether they are in a favorite newspaper or in a dime magazine.

One of these readable advertisements particularly caught our attention the other day while glancing through a magazine. It probably will be of interest to a good many people in Pitt County also.

The ad was headed (in print not quite as small as the smallest print readable) "Grow your own tobacco." It went on to say that with the ordered tobacco seed came full instructions on how to grow tobacco for your own smoking, and added that tobacco makes a "beautiful flowering plant."

Of course, we have no way of knowing what the instructions say about growing one's own tobacco crop; and what's more we don't intend to invest the required dollar to find out.

But picture, if you can, a potted tobacco plant in full bloom in the living room of some northern apartment; or some "cityfied" Yankee trying to cure his tobacco in the kitchen stove. Better still, picture his expression when he takes the first puff of his home-grown crop — if he ever gets it to the smoking stage.

The Connecticut firm which placed the advertisement probably will sell some tobacco seeds; but their scheme will never hurt the tobacco economy of agricultural Pitt County.

PORT PAYNE, ALA., TIMES NEW-ERA: "We note that every time the . . . administration recommends that an appropriation for some government agency be reduced somebody . . . breaks out crying. 'They're trying to destroy this agency!' It appears that it never occurs to a bureaucrat or bureau backer that such a bureau should be called upon to economize and get along on less money."

ONTARIO-UPLAND, CALIF., DAILY REPORT: "Preservation of the U.S. free enterprise system depends upon our intelligent acceptance of a few bumps along with the tremendous rewards."

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
THE PRIVILEGE OF THE SABBATH
Are you a church member or a church alumnus? A lot of people who used to go to church back home forget all about their church duties when they move to the city. People often go to church while they are in moderate circumstances and then forsake the church utterly when the salary gets high and the bank balance is satisfactory. Young people at college complain a great deal about compulsory chapel. They feel that when they go to college they are free and on their own, and often the first thing they want to do is rid themselves of certain duties learned back home.

Young married people in the glow of the first ecstatic years of their married life, often fall into the habit of staying home on Sundays or staying out too late the night before, or going visiting, or letting the day slip along easily and then going to a cocktail party in the afternoon.

Not half the professing Christians go to church on Sunday. A few people as they grow older increase their church attendance and take on new church duties, but many older people simply think of Sunday as a rest day and forget it as a day of worship.

Don't be a church alumnus.

National Whirligig

NATO Strength Is Still Feeble

By RAY TUCKER
Every Saturday this veteran Washington newspaper correspondent devotes his column to answering readers' questions of general interest on national and international policies and personalities. Questions may be sent direct to Ray Tucker at 6308 Hillcrest Place, Chevy Chase, Md.

WASHINGTON—"General Gruenther, our NATO commander in Europe," writes F. H. of Dallas, Texas, "says that the allied forces are now strong enough to hold back a Russian conquest of Western Europe long enough for reinforcements to reach the continent. Lord Montgomery, the British military expert, seems to disagree with the Gruenther view. Which is correct?"

Answer: I would accept Montgomery's evaluation of the allied military potential in Western Europe. I realize that "Monty" in World War II, was such a cautious, almost timid commander, that he provoked criticism from Eisenhower, Bradley and American strategists generally.

But Montgomery demonstrated, both in North Africa and Normandy, his uncanny talent for measuring the enemy's strength and insisting on having superior forces and supplies before engaging in a critical battle.

General Gruenther, although extremely able, is an incorrigible optimist. It is also his assignment to arouse confidence in the NATO organization in the hope that European members can be persuaded to show more interest in the system of collective security. Gruenther's job, in short, is to pep up our allied laggards.

NATO STRONGER NOW, BUT SO IS RUSSIA—A few years ago, however, a small group of us were briefed at a Pentagon orientation session on Russia's military power, vis-a-vis the democracies. The estimate then was that the Red forces could reach the Channel ports in five weeks, the Mediterranean through the Balkans in twelve weeks, and that they could overrun Spain in six months. Gruenther was a principal speaker at those meetings.

have only a paper Army in Europe, regardless of Pentagon, White House or NATO pronouncements.

INSULTS SENATE MEMBERS—"I am writing to you," explains Mrs. T. R. of Brooklyn, N. Y., "because I have just read the article by Congressman Scott of Pennsylvania. He pleads for Republican harmony in Congress, but he goes out of his way to insult prominent members of the Senate. What do you think of his performance?"

Answer: Congressman Scott is like too many members of Congress. Government officials and retired military officers who for headlines, are doing a deep disservice to their party, to the Eisenhower Administration and to the national welfare.

There seem to be three traps, no politician, still or movie photographer, a television appearance, or a chance to see himself in print.

WRONG TAKE—If Scott really wants better relations between the White House and Capitol Hill, he took the wrong way to improve them. Had he uttered his magazine sentiments on the floor of the House, he would have been reprimanded and his remarks would have been expunged from the Congressional Record.

It is a sacred rule that no member shall attack or criticize anybody in the "other body," a delicious description of the House and Senate, in my opinion.

TWO STRIKES AGAINST CRITIC—As a critic, Scott had two strikes against him. First, he was Governor Thomas E. Dewey's choice for Republican National Chairman in the ill-fated 1948 campaign, and there is no more unpopular Republican on Capitol Hill than the man at Albany.

Secondly, Scott lists himself in the Congressional Directory as a member of the "Eisenhower personal staff, June-November, 1952." Therefore, he appears to be an Eisenhower-Dewey critic of fellow Republicans.

SILENCE WOULD BE A VIRTUE—With Ike doing his best to reconcile the internationalist and isolationist, the conservative and liberal wings of his party on and off Capitol Hill, it strikes me that Scott, Dewey and their holier-than-thou faction should exercise the virtue of silence.

It begins to look as if Ike's so-called friends, not his enemies, will be his undoing.

Somebody Told Me

'New Arrivals' Closely Watched

If you don't believe the "New Arrivals" column in the Reflector is widely read, just ask Edith and Wesley Johnston of 1405 East Third Street. The address is important in the story.

Elsewhere in the county there's another Wesley Johnston, whose first name is Lloyd. Both Johnstons were expecting a new arrival and the Lloyd Johnstons, who also go by the name Wesley, received theirs first.

The Reflector announced the birth and immediately the 1405 East Third Street Johnstons were showered with congratulations. As of last night, their baby had not arrived.

Edith's mother is Mrs. I. H. Bowles, who received more calls than the Johnstons. After all, all of Edith's friends thought she was in the hospital. An estimated 30 people called the Bowles and a considerable number called the Johnstons.

"I couldn't go down the street," Wesley says, "without somebody congratulating me. Many even wanted to know where the cigars were."

Wesley continued, "This is not surprising to me. I've been receiving the other Johnston's mail for some time. Why, I even received a refund check from a fertilizer company."

Then I started telling my story about same names. There must be at least six Jack Edwards in the county. It's very uncomplimentary to me, but Jack Edwards, the Attorney, gets much of my mail. In fact, because of that I have admitted to many my initials, I. J. But to most people, the first name remains a mystery.

Luckily, I have received a bill only once. One of the Jack Edwards in the county had a past due account, and the post office elected to send it to me. It was a real pleasure to return that one.

During World War II the services took all kinds of precautions about names by issuing each man a serial number. Even then, there was endless confusion. Quite often their pay was confused to the extent that some men were not paid for months.

But in the case of Edith and Wesley Johnston the confusion doesn't seem to matter. In fact, they seem to enjoy it.

And I thank you. JACK EDWARDS

What Other Editors Are Thinking

LIVING COSTS RISE AGAIN (Wilson Times)

In one column of a newspaper today we read where the farmer is getting 10 percent less for what he sells, and in another we read where living costs have advanced two-tenths of one per cent in the last three months. And it's hard to reconcile until we go deeper into the study. But in arriving at those costs, the Bureau of Labor Statistics in Washington which prepares the figures, takes into consideration such things as rent, medical care, gasoline, radio and television sets, as if they were as much a necessary part of our living as food. And those other things that go into the figures account for the last rise.

Now we know that rent and medical care are as essential as food. But we're inclined to question some of the other items that the Bureau places in the compilation. Have we reached the point where home appliances are required? Does the Bureau work on the theory that even the poorest paid should have everything that the highest paid do? One would begin to think so after studying the items that are included. But if it's true, the Bureau is working not to tell us what our living costs are, but to change the social standards of our people.

All those figures, however, mean very little to the run-of-mine man. They do mean a lot to some factory workers, for their earnings are geared to that index. General Motors is one, and as a result it's raised the wages of its workers one cent an hour. But let's look facts in the face. Since the outbreak of the war in Korea living costs have jumped twelve and a half per cent. In that same time, however, wages have been jumped 21 per cent. Doesn't it look as if the Bureau was a little socialist? Has it been giving us the right figures or has it been misleading many of our people?

Recall 'Throw Away Your Hammer, Get A Horn'

By LYNN NISBET

HAMMERS — A few years back the common retort to the pessimist and the fellow who criticized everything about him was "Throw away your hammer and get a horn." Those of us having quarters on the first floor of the Sir Walter Hotel can fully endorse the sentiment. For three weeks workmen have been remodeling the hall, lowering the ceiling, changing doors and making other improvements. The noise they make is almost unbelievable for so small an area. State office personnel have experienced similar interference with orderly procedure. The noise incident to new construction of State buildings and business houses nearby drowns out conversations and renders telephones useless.

HORNS — The promise that the premises will be more slightly and more convenient when the work is finished helps to alleviate the nuisance. Therein, perhaps, may be found a moral, one which might be of value to boosters of North Carolina in the current campaign to attract new industries. Hammers make a lot of disagreeable noise, but they do build. Horns make noise, too, and do not build. On the contrary there are at least two incidents recorded in the Bible of horn blowing wreaking great damage. Joshua's horn-blowing men knocked down the walls of Jericho, and Gideon's band of ram-horn tooters scared the daylight out of the Midianites. Maybe it depends upon the use whether hammers or horns are preferable. Tenants of the hotel first floor would swap hammers for horns right now—and then throw the horns away.

PEACH & HONEY — Down at the Chingquapin rally the other day ex-Governor Kerr Scott said he kept handy a plug of Peach & Honey chewing tobacco for Eisenhower Democrats and Republicans who "needed a good working out." B.B. Sapp, Raleigh business man with political leanings, has volunteered to assist the ex-Governor and current Senatorial candidate. He carries around pocketful of Peach & Honey and pulls out a plug when he meets somebody whose ideas do not fit his own about political matters.

REGISTRATION — Sponsors of the upcoming bond issues for school buildings and mental hospitals have put a lot of emphasis upon the necessity for getting out a good vote. They are shooting at half a million. They make the point that voting is both a duty and a privilege. Performances of the duty and enjoyment of the privilege of voting require a bit of advance preparation. No one can vote in any election whose name is not properly registered on the precinct books. More than a million North Carolinians are registered and qualified to cast a ballot on October 3. Thousands more who have moved from precinct to another or who have reached voting age since the last election are not registered. For their convenience the registration books will be at the polling places three Saturdays—September 5, 12 and 19. Except for Saturdays the books will be at the home or business place of the registrator.

DOUBLE CHECK — But unless the citizen's name is properly entered on the precinct book before sundown of September 19 he cannot vote on October 3. It's always a good idea to check with the registrar to make sure, even though the prospective voter may think his name is there. It is embarrassing for a person who has been voting for years to go to the polling place on election day and find he cannot vote because of some legal quirk—like moving into a new precinct, precinct lines having been changed, a new registration ordered, or some other provision which had been overlooked.

FREE? — Many years ago a great statesman said "Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty." The same idea was more concisely expressed in the Kiwanis International slogan not long ago that "Freedom is not free." It doesn't cost any money to vote, but it does cost the output of enough interest and energy to get the name on the registration book and to go to the polling place to cast a ballot. That seems little enough to do in order to retain a privilege bought with the blood of patriots from the dawn of history to the cessation of shooting in Korea.

WATER — North Carolinians are becoming acutely conscious that while water may be free, the process of getting it where it is needed may be very expensive. Many cities and towns are faced now with drastic curtailment in use of water because facilities for piping it from original sources to filtering plants, getting it from the river or the creek or the lake to the bathroom and kitchen tap and the industrial plant have proven utterly inadequate. Farmers are beginning to recognize that in this era of controlled prices and production they cannot depend upon the casual uncontrolled rainfall to make crops. Piping of water for spray-irrigation is fast becoming as much a problem on the farm as piping of water to the faucets in homes and industries in the towns.

PROBLEMS — If anybody had told Bill Shope, mayor of Weaverville, when he was a boy 30-odd years ago that he would have to wear a dirty shirt in 1953 because there wasn't enough water to wash it, he would have laughed the prophet to scorn. Every member of the generation now in the 50-year bracket can remember when it was said there might be some excuse for patches but there could be none for dirt

That Gambling Tax

By ELMER ROESSNER
That the power to tax is the power to destroy has long been a maxim. There is a fresh illustration of this old truth now—the Federal gambling tax.

It is not a particularly vivid example because the tax is being enforced in a desultory manner. But if it were enforced to the letter of the law, all bookies and most gambling would be wiped out.

Even without this somewhat inconclusive example, it is apparent that rises in prices reduce purchases, hence taxes that increase prices also reduce prices. In fact, one of the justifications of the heavy tax ($10.50 per proof gallon) on alcoholic beverages has been that it restricts sales. That has also been used as an argument for high taxes on tobacco. During the war the British raised taxes on certain "luxury" goods to 100 per cent to get people who had been buying them to use their money in more patriotic ways. Revenue was not a factor—the British government might have obtained twice as much revenue from a 50 per cent tax.

Now, the economy of the United States is supported by trade. The more things people buy, the more people are kept busy making them. Trading is America's life-blood. Without a high volume of commerce, high employment would disappear, shops and plants would lose. Taxable corporation and personal income come from trade.

There are many points in the economy at which taxes can be imposed. But the most sensitive spot of all is at the point of sale. In the past score years, demand has been so vigorous that even excises have not checked a generally rising volume of trade. Women have eagerly paid $1,200 for a $1,000 fur coat—and their husbands have had to earn $3,000 to have enough left after income taxes to meet the bill. And still fur coats sold—not very well, but they sold.

Now the Treasury and some Congressmen are considering a general sales tax. In one sense, this is not a new tax. Every thing would be taxed at, say, 5 per cent and the higher taxes now levied on furs and certain other goods would be reduced to that level.

This tax will reduce the sale of articles taxed. When New York's subway fares were increased from 10 to 15 cents, experts were able to calculate how many fewer people, to the smallest fraction, would ride. Perhaps some of our celebrated economists can tell us exactly how many fewer sump pumps, how many fewer neckties, how many fewer fish bowls will be sold if the prices are increased 5 per cent.

So here is something for Congressmen and the Treasury to consider:

Let's recognize the fact that the prosperity of the nation and the individual depends on buying and selling. Then let's recognize the fact that any taxes on sales inhibit sales.

And then let's abolish all taxes on sales, except where intended to limit buying. And then let's prohibit any taxes on sales in the future, except as a policing operation, not only by the Federal Government but by states and political subdivisions.

Let's tax profits, income, earnings, property, imports, governmental services, gambling, speeding, estates—but let's never tax the thing that makes all of them possible: the sale of goods.

Rival For Mt. Everest Heroes

By HAL BOYLE

Editor's note: Giant Ledge, a hitherto irreproachable outcropping of the Catskills, has been scaled by a party led by Headless Hal Boyle, a barfoot Missouri boy with an iron purpose. His first-person story follows:

By HAL BOYLE
ATOP GIANT'S LEDGE, N.Y. (AP)—All last: At last: We are here!

I can hardly breathe. Boy, even at 3,000-plus feet the auto exhaust fumes get you in the Catskills. Our party has planted the Confederate flag on the peak here and we are negotiating to sell the place to Gov. Thomas E. Dewey.

First of all, I would like to say that this feat would have been impossible without the careful planning of my faithful Sherpa wife, Frances. She fixed the sandwiches.

She is back at base camp No. 1-home. I will never forget her heartening farewell words: "Anybody who tries to scale Giant's Ledge after 40 when he could stay here and play gin rummy is nuts."

Nor can I wipe from my mind her querulous feminine query: "Why is Giant's Ledge such a challenge to you?"

Surely you must remember my quiet but firm reply: "Because, my dear, it is there."

Well, it is still there—and my party are atop of it. We did a typical American thing in accomplishing this feat. We first sat down and panted, scratched out initials on a rock, and cooked some hot dogs.

Naturally the world wonders what it is like up here in the clear, clean (cough, cough) zone. Well, it appears that this area once had a tropical climate, as the first thing we saw was a ruined orange peel. Also it had been penetrated earlier by a barbarian explorer who inscribed this proud message of his achievement: "Kilroy Was Here."

Nothing else is left of his passing. One can but wonder what emotions stirred the breast of that forgotten rude savage chief as he surveyed the tremendous scene.

He has gone, but time has not dimmed the splendor of that vista. Humbly we stood in the dread shadow of an even more unassailable peak called—well, let's be honest—Mt. Pleasant. With two more oxygen masks and three more hot dogs we could of climbed it, too, and that's the truth.

Below us spread the far splendid acres of the lady who sells fresh corn for 75 cents a dozen on Mondays, when tourists are scarce.

History, of course, will want to know who first reached the top of Giant's Ledge. Was it Bill and Fredrika Gray of Life magazine, the sponsors of our expedition, or one of the six reckless young animals in their keeping? Or was it I? Or was it Mrs. High Tenzing Blackie, who previously had prepared for the ordeal by climbing every rugged cliff in Bermuda?

The world may wonder, but we mountaineers have no jealousy. For us it was a team job. You will never get from us the secret of who was first to reach the top.

What difference does it make? We made the peak.

But I will give you a tip. If you are middle-aged and trying to scale a mountain, always follow behind the prettiest girl in the party. It will give you something to look forward to, as you climb from peak to peak.

SYNOPSIS

Philip Haven's niece, Libby, was missing from the house when Philip returned home to Connecticut, after a long absence in Mexico. Libby had left a note in her room urging the family not to worry, promising they'd hear from her soon. Her cousin Kit and Hugo Cavanaugh, an attorney, once devoted to Kit but now Libby's swain, start out to find the missing girl. They visit the meagre New York apartment of Tony Wilder, a classically handsome young man of whom Libby had become enamored. But Tony, like Libby, is nowhere to be found. They proceed to the uptown home of Eleanor Oaks, a bizarre and fastidious lady, who seems greatly agitated when Kit suggests that Tony and Libby may have eloped. Samuel Pedrick, a tall macabre figure, is present as they chat. Her search fruitless, Kit returns to the Connecticut house. Hugo tells her that the wraith-like Pedrick is a figure well known in the New York underworld. Late that night Kit discovers a light left burning in the kitchen, but reaching it she finds the room empty, the kettle singing merrily on the stove, a window open, a garden ladder leaning beneath the window of Libby's room. Rushing to that upper chamber, Kit finds a hat form, resembling Libby's, and a smashed grotesquely against the floor. Is this a symbol of someone's hate, desire for revenge? But why? During the night a yellow convertible had been seen parked near the Haven gate. Eleanor Oaks' car fitted that description. The morning mail brings news of Libby. A tissue bearing an imprint of her rouged lips, her white doe-skin glove. Now Philip Haven knows that his niece has been kidnapped. Frantic but resigned, he patiently awaits developments.

You left there on Monday, I believe. If you know nothing of Miss Tallis' whereabouts, you won't naturally, have any objection to telling us."

Marble could flush Wilder's head went up haughtily. "My movements are scarcely in question. I see no reason why—"

Mr. Strait broke him down nicely. When Wilder found out that they knew about the collector from the credit agency who had parked on his doorstep, he recovered his composure. He remarked that it was merely a temporary emergency. He had foolishly gone overboard for a friend and was waiting for repayment so that he could discharge his own debts. But those loan sharks could be a nuisance so he had shifted his quarters for the time being. He had taken a room in the Hotel Bronson on Monday afternoon, and had been living at the Bronson since. He had talked to Libby over the phone on Monday, telling her his phone number. He had asked her to have lunch with him in town on Tuesday, but she said she couldn't as her uncle was coming home from Mexico, but that she would ring him on Wednesday. He had waited in vain all Wednesday and Wednesday night. Libby didn't call, so he had called her repeatedly and each time had been told she wasn't at home. That was why he had come.

The man was a mass of affection, with an essentially simple core. It was vanity. He was Adonis, the beautiful one, whose every word, every gesture, had to be perfect—he probably played the part ever when he was alone.

To Kit's surprise, Mr. Strait didn't ask Wilder anything about Eleanor Oaks or the yellow convertible. Instead he offered Wilder a lift back to New York. Miss Haven would keep him informed, let him know as soon as they heard from Miss Tallis.

The two men left but before Mr. Strait made a long-distance call to his office from Philip's study, with the door closed. A car was to pick them up at the city line and trail Wilder, a man was to go to the Hotel Bronson and make inquiries there. The lawyer gave Kit parting instructions to do nothing without consulting him and advised a doctor for Philip. "Your uncle is pretty well shattered. And don't worry too much, Miss Haven. I'm sure everything will be all right. The thing to do is not to lose your nerve."

Hugo came shortly after Mr. Strait drove off with Tony Wilder.

He was stunned when he heard what had happened, and saw the white doekin glove and the tissue. Philip refused to have Dr. Terry and shut himself in his own room. They could hear him walking the floor.

Hugo talked to Kit. He said: "Your uncle inherits a large sum of money and someone sits down and tries to figure how he can get some of it. This seemed to be the best way. Your uncle would do anything for Libby, and money means nothing to him—and he's not the man to haggle or ask too many questions."

"You think there'll be a demand for money?"

"I'm sure there will. It looks as though this whole business was planned by someone who knew what was going on in this house, someone who knew for instance, that your uncle was coming from Mexico on Tuesday. It would have been more difficult to get hold of her when he was here. That narrows the field a bit. Libby could have told friends, so could Miriam VanKreef. Your aunt took the telegram over the phone."

Friends, Anita was a friend; Kit shivered. No, never. The idea of either William or Miriam was equally absurd. Pedrick and Eleanor Oaks? They could not have known anything about Philip's decision to return. He had been going to stay on another two weeks, had changed his mind suddenly.

The telephone rang and Kit and Hugo both started for it. Philip got there first. They leaned close to him—and heard it, a hissing sound that was at first meaningless. Philip said to the mouthpiece: "What is it? Speak up. Speak up."

The hissing sound was a whispering voice, sexless, inhuman. It went on and on. It told Philip to pay attention or they wouldn't get anywhere. It said that it had Libby and that Philip could have her back for $25,000. It said it had sent the tissue and the glove but that if Philip was in any doubt it would send something else. It went on to say in detail, lowering itself so that Kit and Hugo heard only in bits, what it would do if Philip got in touch with the police. It said that further instructions would be sent to Philip shortly about the payment of the $25,000, and repeated its warning about going to the police. Then it stopped.

Phantoms Open Season With 12-0 Win Over Wilson

Greenville's Speight Runs 52 Yards For Early Score

Wilson Offense Held To Only 16 Yards Rushing By Strong Phantom Line; GHS Backs Run Good

By WAYNE BISHOP
Exploding for two touchdowns in the first half, the Greenville Phantoms opened their 1953 football campaign successfully with a 12-0 victory over the Wilson AAA Cyclones last night at the East Carolina Stadium.

The Green Phantoms jumped off to a quick lead when the big Greenville line sprung Right Halfback James Speight loose for a 52 yard gallop over tackle after two minutes of play.

Speight went through a big hole off right tackle, served to his left as he outran Wilson defenders and reversed his field at the ten yard to reach paydirt standing up.

The locals try for the extra point was no good.

The second and final touchdown came when the Phantoms forced Wilson to put out on the Greenville line sprang Quarterback Pat Sawyer hit Hal Edwards with a pass for 11 yards to the 48.

On seven plays, five of which Speight ran, the ball was moved to a first down on the Cyclones' 11 yard marker.

Bob Howell and Bobby Langston pushed the ball down to the two on two plays. From there Left Halfback Howell took the pigskin over to give Greenville a 12-0 lead.

Greenville completed a pass for the extra point, but a penalty was called and the play was no good.

The second try was unsuccessful. After the halftime intermission the Green Phantoms roared time and time again into deep Cyclone territory only to be foiled short of the goal.

Four times in the second half Greenville marched within the Wilson 20 yard line while the visitors never had control of the ball within the locals' 30-yard marker.

The Greenville defense so thoroughly checked its opponent that only once did Wilson hold possession of the ball in Phantom territory. That time was after a blocked kick midway of the first period.

Late in the fourth quarter penalties had pushed the Phantoms back to their own 43 yard line. From that point Fullback Langston raced 29 yards on a brilliant run to the Wilson 28. Speight drove to the 25 and on the final play of the game Howell squirmed his way through the Wilson defense on a dazzling broken field run to carry the ball to the two-yard line before he was brought down. The game ended.

Of his team's showing against the triple-A school, Coach Bill Kittrell remarked, "I think our boys played a good game, although we should have scored at least five times. They made the usual first game mistakes, but on the whole I was pleased with their performance."

"Our halfbacks showed up well, and I believe that Bobby Langston played the best game of his career while I have been his coach. "I still say, however, that if we had Larry Powell back we would have had the best double-A line in the state."

Leading the Phantom defensive team were Doug Morgan, Tommy Smith, Jerby Phillips, Thomas Whitaker, Billy Arnold, and Howard King.

James Speight also intercepted three Wilson passes from his defensive backfield post. Speight was the leading ground gainer of the night with exactly 100 yards gained in ten carries for an average of ten yards per try.

Langston took the ball seven times for 48 yards and a 6.9 average.

The Phantoms play Jacksonville here next Friday in a Northeastern Conference game.

Lulu Perez Scores TKO Win Over Dave Gallardo

NEW YORK (UP)—Lulu Perez victory song today was: "Willie Pep Stay Away From My Door!"

Young Perez of Brooklyn scored an eighth-round technical knockout over gallant Dave Gallardo of Los Angeles Friday night, but Lulu's handier said he fought such a "dumb fight" he's not ready yet for a featherweight challengers' battle with ex-champ Pep.

The winner of Friday night's nationally televised and broadcast bout in Madison Square Garden was guaranteed a Garden scrap with Pep on Nov. 13. Instead, Perez will meet some lesser opponent at St. Nicholas Arena, Oct. 16. Only a sensational performance then will merit resumption of negotiations for Pep.

Perez, only 20, was lucky to achieve his 20th consecutive victory. The bout was stopped at the end of the eighth round because Gallardo's left brow was bleeding profusely. The gash required 15 stitches. Gallardo also suffered a slight cut on his right brow.

Gallardo—an agile, able and aggressive California Mexican—went into the ring a 4-1 underdog; but at the end of the sixth round he appeared victory bound. Then came misfortune, in the guise of the brow cut.

It was an excellent fight until the seventh round. Gallardo, 23, knocked Perez back onto his heels many times and bullied him into the ropes again and again. With his back against the ropes, Perez would take a battering for about 30 seconds, before suddenly realizing he should spin his way out of the predicament.

Perez, eighth ranking contender for the 126-pound crown, weighed 125 as he registered his 24th victory in 25 pro starts, and his 10th knockout. Gallardo, rated No. 5, scaled 126 1-2 pounds as he suffered the fourth kayo in his 65 bouts.

The crowd was estimated at 2,000, and the gate at $5,000.

"It's a wonderful tired feeling!"

It takes a lot of steps to cover all the space in our new home. It feels wonderful to get out of that small rented house. With The First Federal Savings and Loan Association's home loan plan, I wonder why anyone should have to pay rent.

Bucs Take Time Off For Pictures

After taking the morning off for picture-taking time and registration, Coach Jack Boone's East Carolina Pirates came back for a two-hour afternoon practice session.

The Buccaneers continued their conditioning exercises, as they opened yesterday's session with about 15 minutes of calisthenics. Following the loosening up work, the Bucs broke down into backs and linemen.

Line Coach Jim Mallory had the husky Pirate forward wall working on various blocking patterns. The backs were receiving help from Coach Boone.

Working under Freshmen Coach Earl Smith were the newcomers to the squad. The frosh griders were running through plays and learning their assignments.

Coach Boone had lettermen Dick Cherry, Claude King, and Tom Allsbrook practicing up on their punting. The trio was getting off some long kicks. Pirate backs were returning the kicks and practicing their double safety plays.

There was no blackboard drill last evening, for Coach Boone gave the boys the night off so that they might view some of the high school games in the area.

LED SCORING TWO YEARS
DURHAM—Clarence (Ace) Parker, Duke assistant football coach and head baseball mentor, led the Duke grid teams in scoring in 1935 and 1936. He scored 10 touchdowns, for 60 points in '35 and had 34 points in '36.

Robin Roberts of the Phillies is the real workhorse among modern day pitchers. He has pitched 304 or more innings during the last three seasons.

Stantonsburg Scores 13-9 Win Over Farmville Team

STANTONSBURG—sports ... d Stantonsburg rallied for five runs in the top of the tenth inning and held Farmville to one in their half of the overtime contest to earn a 13-9 win over the Red Sox in the first game of the finals play for the Bright Belt League Championship.

The winners had racked up five runs in the top of the ninth to lead Farmville 8-5 going into the last half of the final inning, but Farmville rallied for three markers in the bottom half of the stanza to throw the game into overtime.

Paul Gray, Red Sox outfielder, had a triple with two men on base in the Farmville three-run ninth.

Hasty Road Aims For Major Purse

CHICAGO (UP)—Hasty Road, one of the top money winners of 1953, will aim for another major purse today as the favorite in the 15th running of the Washington Par. Futurity, expected to gross $156,085 with a field of 15 juveniles.

The Hasty House Farm colt, by Roman out of Traffic Court, has lost only once in four starts. The defeat was by his running mate today, Sea O'Erin, also owned by Hasty House, in the Prairie Stake at Washington.

Hasty Road has earned $105,675 in his four outings with most of the bankroll coming for his record-setting victory in the six-furlong Arlington Futurity when he romped home in 1:10 1-5 to surpass the previous mark of 1:10 2-5 hung up by Occupation in 1942. Today's winner will receive $99,645, second highest purse in history for a two year old and surpassed only by the net and the gross of $157,915 in the Arlington Futurity.

Indiana Accepts Olympiac Decathlon Star Campdell

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer
FOREST HILLS, N. Y. (UP)—Fearless Fraley's facts and figures:

Even the tennis set, never noted as being particularly long on Oxford scholars, is curiously amazed at the report that Olympic Decathlon star Milt Campbell has been accepted at Indiana University.

The amazement stems from the fact that Campbell, a fine football and track athlete, is rated as strictly a preliminary boy in the scholastic department and has been rejected by Penn State.

It can mean only one thing, that the hotter-than-thou Big Ten finally has instituted such long-deprecated subjects as cue-stick geometry and side-saddle African polo.

Another report, which circulated at the national tennis championships, was that Billy Talbert long-time ranking net ace, had been stricken fatally with a heart attack. Personally denying the story, Talbert, fresh from the worst beating of his big-time career, a 6-2, 6-0 6-0 setback at the hands of Vic Seixas, said:

"In the first place, I wouldn't pick today because it's my 35th birthday. But, on the other hand, considering the way I played against Seixas I easily can understand how the report started."

The jackpot joyride is over for amateur tennis champions who expect a big bundle of cash to turn pro, according to Jack Kramer. The former amateur ace—who says his pile to make the switch—says that the only current amateur in whom he would even be "interested" is Philadelphia Vic Seixas.

"But he couldn't expect to get one of those terrific offers of the past," Kramer insisted. "We have too many fine playing professionals now, and actually don't need that new blood to make our pro tour a success. The new amateurs, when they turn, must expect to do it on the basis of what they actually can win, just like in golf."

Dodger-Giant Feuds Breaking Out Again

By CARL LUNDQUIST
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP)—That enchanting rivalry of our national pastime between the Dodgers and Giants threatened to break out again today in a bean-ball tossing, name-calling and umpire-baiting battle in the Polo Grounds.

There were a few minor explosions Friday night as the Dodgers cashed in on five unearned runs to defeat the Giants for the eighth straight time, 8-6 despite four homers by the losers. The Dodgers thus went 10 full games in front of second-place Milwaukee, which lost a 4-2 decision to the Cardinals when Stan Musial hit a three-run homer in the eighth inning.

The big rhubarb came in the eighth inning when plate Umpire Bill Stewart called upon Manager Charley Dressen of the Dodgers and Acting Manager Bill Rigney of the Giants to tell their pitchers to stop throwing at the batters. Leo Durocher, the real boss of the Giants, already had been ejected for arguing with Stewart over a walk that forced in a Dodger run in the sixth inning.

"Why are you talking to Rigney about this, why don't you get Durocher?" Dressen asked. "He's in the clubhouse running the game by telephone just like he always does when he gets tossed out."

That riled Rigney, whose pride was hurt, and he told Dressen where he could go. But Stewart did stop the brush-baiting which Rigney claimed the Dodgers had started in the previous inning when winning reliever Clem Labine had thrown close to a couple of hitters. The alleged offender of the Giants, Larry Jansen, who is not known for such tactics, had prompted Stewart to take action after throwing close to Jackie Robinson and Roy Campanella.

In the three hour and 20 minute struggle, young Labine emerged the hero with 3 1-3 innings of no-hit pitching for his ninth victory. He came in after the Dodgers went ahead against Jansen with two unearned seventh-inning runs, giving them a total of five unearned tallies for the night. Wes Westrum, relief pitcher Al Corwin and Whitey Lockman hit homers in succession off Russ Meyer in the fourth and Al Dark came through with a two-run homer off Joe Black in the sixth. Gil Hodges hit his 30th homer for Brooklyn, joining Duke Snider and Campanella as players who have reached that mark and tying a major league club record. The '29 Phillies, '41 Yankees, '47 Giants and '50 Dodgers also had three players who hit 30 or more homers apiece.

Musial's homer gave soft-stuff Stu Miller his fourth straight victory over Milwaukee and his seventh win of the season. He gave up seven hits to edge John Antonelli in a duel.

In the American League the Indians and White Sox struggled to a 6-6 tie in an 11-inning game halted by rain as they remained deadlocked for second place. In the only other game, the Browns came up with a 10-run inning, their biggest of the year, to defeat the Tigers, 14-6.

Jim Hegan and Wally Westlake homered for Cleveland and Bob Boyd hit a three-run homer for Chicago. A bases-loaded homer by Vic Wertz, No. 18 for him in year, highlighted the big St. Louis inning.

The Chicago at Cincinnati twilight doubleheader was rained out, and no other games were scheduled in either league.

St. Louis Club Nears Baltimore

BALTIMORE (UP)—The St. Louis Browns appeared to be getting closer and closer to Baltimore today.

James C. Anderson, resident of the Board of Parks and Recreation in Baltimore, said he had conferred with General Manager Rudy Schaffer of the Browns three times this week and that written agreements on all matters pertaining to the transfer of the club's franchise had been drafted and initiated.

The Browns originally tried to transfer their franchise to Baltimore last spring, but American League owners refused to approve the switch at that time.

In St. Louis, the Sporting News, national baseball weekly, said the National League will expand to 10 teams and will include teams in Los Angeles and San Francisco within five years.

Publisher J. G. Taylor Spink said in a copyrighted story that the National League revised its constitution in 1947 to allow it to take in 10 clubs.

Superior Court Term Ends Here

Disposal of several non-support and minor traffic violation cases wound up a heavy calendar of criminal cases for the August term of Superior Court here yesterday.

The grand jury, through its foreman Wesley Harvey, submitted a report stating it had passed on 37 bills presented this term, finding 35 true bills and 2 not true bills.

The grand jury also reported that it had visited all white and colored schools of the county and talked with Mr. D. H. Conley, superintendent of Pitt County schools.

'He was given a list of conditions that should be corrected, and he promised his full cooperation at once. This will be followed up by the grand jury at the next term of court,' the report stated.

The grand jury also indicated they had talked with James Boykin of the State Highway Patrol. Of the 130 school buses examined, the report stated, all were found "in good condition with the exception of minor corrections," which were made on the spot.

Cases disposed of late Thursday and Friday included:

Joe Lee, six months on the roads suspended on certain conditions for non-support; Edmond Phillips, 30 days on the roads suspended on fine of $25 and the costs, good behavior, and that the defendant not operate a vehicle without a valid license; Major Smith, charged with failure to yield right of way, not prossecuted; Sam Pierce, to show cause, continued to November; term; Johnnie Harris, non-support six months on roads, suspended on payment of costs, support of child and other conditions; Melvin D. Cutler, defendant called ad failed to appear, judgement nisi scilicet, capias instantia; William Ramon Gaylor, defendant called and failed to answer, capias ordered; Willie Oakley, charged with arson, capias to be issued; Rufus Stepps, bond set at $500; James Henry Lane, $25 and costs for speeding.

Bond was set at $2,500 for David Chadwick, charged with murder, following rendering of a true bill by the grand jury and continuance of his case to a later term.

Next mixed term of court has been set for October 5.
