Two Farm Organizations Back Eisenhower Program Power Policy Is Endorsed

WASHINGTON (UP) — Leaders of two of the nation's largest farm organizations today endorsed the Eisenhower administration's power policy but a third vigorously denounced it.

Approval was voiced by President Allan B. Kline of the American Farm Bureau Federation and Herschel D. Newsum, master of the National Grange. But President James G. Patton of the National Farmers Union called it "a total surrender to the electric company lobby."

The new policy, as enunciated by Secretary of Interior Douglas McKay, defines a narrower federal role in power development and puts "primary responsibility" for supplying power needs in the hands of local private and public interests.

Newsum said he saw "no reason" why the new policy should "adversely affect farmer-owned electric cooperatives." He said it leaves the door open for public power projects where needed.

Kline said he was at a loss to understand the "extravagant criticism" of the administration's policy "unless it be on the conviction that private capital and private operation and responsibility should be replaced with federal capital and federal operation."

"There is much to suggest that both rural electric cooperatives and consumers generally can look forward to federal policies consistent with the most economical production and distribution of electric power," Kline said.

Patton, however, sided with the critics of the policy.

"The only concession that it makes to the public interest," he said, "is to screen its real content behind catchwords that have been invented and well-worn in the service of private utility propaganda."

Prices Steady

Tobacco sales here this morning opened heavy to full at most warehouses with steady high prices and a predominance of tips.

A summary of the first 16 days of the market shows a total of 25,042,600 pounds of tobacco sold for $13,518,059.69, or an average of $53.98 for gross sales.

Producers sales over the same period account for 23,150,858 pounds bringing $12,800,494.81, averaging $55.29 per hundred.

China Hints At Possible Truce For Indo-China

TOKYO (UP) — Communist China hinted today for the first time that a Korean-style truce is possible in Indo-China.

Peiping radio charged that the United States was responsible for prolonging the seven-year-old war between the French Union forces and Communist-led Vietnamese rebels.

"As everyone knows, the war-loving elements of the United States since the Korean truce are plotting to block a relaxation in the international tension and attempting to build up the tension," Peiping said.

"They were put in a position where they had to withdraw from Korea and so they place all the more importance on the war in Viet Nam."

"The demands for peace of thousands and tens of thousands of the world's people are a powerful and effective force."

"This force compelled the U. S. aggressors to call a truce in Korea and this force can also compel the imperialists to abandon their arms in Viet Nam."

Demure Modesty Prevails When Addressing Tea

CHICAGO (UP) — Former President Harry S. Truman modestly introduced Adlai E. Stevenson to a Democratic women's tea, calling him "the Number One Democrat in the U. S."

Stevenson demurely answered, "I don't think there will be any other Mr. Democrat as long as Mr. Truman is alive."

The tea was held yesterday in conjunction with the Democratic party meeting here.

Stevenson, noting that he and Mr. Truman were on a balcony overlooking the dining room, joked "I never saw two Romeos with so many Julietts."

Appearing on the balcony with them were Rep. Sam Rayburn of Texas, Sen. Mike Monroney of Oklahoma, Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri, Party Chairman Stephen A. Mitchell, and Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan.

Ignore Warnings That Nat'l Sales Tax Doomed

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Eisenhower administration went ahead with studies of a national sales tax today despite a warning that Congress will not approve any such levy.

The warning was issued by Chairman Daniel A. Reed of the tax-framing House Ways and Means Committee, the veteran New York Republican who fought a stubborn but losing battle at the last session against President Eisenhower's request for a six-month extension of the excess profits tax.

Reed served notice in a weekend statement that he is prepared to battle the administration again if it proposes a national sales tax to offset the 10 per cent cut in personal income taxes due to take effect Jan. 1. He confidently predicted that such a tax "will not be approved."

Administration officials, who don't want to quarrel with Reed until they have to, firmly refuse to comment on his statement. But a Treasury spokesman said that a national sales tax is "still under active consideration."

He emphasized that the sales tax is only one of "many" revenue-raising proposals which the administration is studying, and that no decisions have been made yet on what will be proposed to Congress next year.

The Treasury has estimated it will lose $5,000,000,000 in revenue next year from the cut in personal income taxes and the expiration of the excess profits tax. It stands to lose an additional $3,000,000,000 unless Congress approves Mr. Eisenhower's previous requests to postpone cuts in regular corporation and excise taxes due to take place next April 1.

Mr. Eisenhower has already told Congress he will ask for other taxes to make up the loss if he finds he can't balance the budget without them. A national sales tax is believed to loom large in administration calculations for the simple reason that it is one of the few heavy revenue sources which the federal government has not yet tapped.

Official American Death Toll In Korea To Rise Over 30,000

WASHINGTON (UP) — The official toll of American deaths in the Korean war will rise to more than 30,000 in the months ahead as the Defense Department writes "dead" across the names of thousands now listed as missing in action.

With the prisoner exchange completed, the services now try to determine the fate of some 7,000 Americans still missing.

In many cases their fate will never be determined definitely. But military officials sadly admit that for most of the missing the only conclusion can be that they are dead.

Before declaring a missing man to be dead, the services must make a detailed investigation, piecing together all available scraps of information about what happened to him. It will be a time-consuming job. The Army estimates it will be two years before it has officially determined the fate of all its missing in action. By the time the job is complete the Korean death toll, which now stands at 25,604, is expected to top 30,000.

Unlike World War II, the services will not be able to obtain the conclusive proof of uncovering the man's body buried in enemy territory. Instead, they must rely on reports of fellow soldiers and returning prisoners, with only partial credence given to Communist lists of Americans who died behind their lines.

The services have postponed starting their job until now, hoping to obtain more information from repatriated prisoners.

Until the missing soldier is declared dead, his next of kin continues to receive monthly pay allotments. With the declaration of death, the next of kin receives a "death gratuity" equal to six months pay plus $10,000 in life insurance.

Report 'Nothing Serious' Wrong With Doughton

LAUREL SPRINGS (UP) — Former U.S. Rep. R. L. Doughton rested at his farm home near here today and a relative said there was "nothing serious the matter" although doctors were called to examine him during the weekend.

The former "dean" of the House of Representatives, whose 90th birthday anniversary is Nov. 7, apparently became overtired during a trip to Raleigh and a two-day stay at the capital last week, a family spokesman said.

"There is nothing serious the matter with him," a relative said.

Harmony Sought In Demo Rally

Loyalty Oath Issue Fading As Leaders See Chance Avoiding Showdown

CHICAGO (UP) — The loyalty oath fight among Democrats began to fizzle today in the interest of party harmony to capture Congress next year.

Top Democrats expressed confidence they could avoid a showdown North-South battle at their first big meeting, a two-day rally here beginning today, since they lost the 1952 election.

The theme of the conference of party officials throughout the country opened was: Forget sectional fights and get together in an all-out assault against the Republicans in 1954.

The main business of the day was a closed session to discuss, and then bury a proposal for a national convention next summer to draft a "national platform" for the congressional elections.

Members of Congress, who prefer to run on their own, saw no reason to saddle themselves with a national platform which might cut across sectional affairs.

Most of today's important sessions were executive. A $100-a-plate fund raising dinner tonight will provide a better chance for oratory.

Southerners who had threatened to open a fight on the loyalty oath adopted over their protests at the 1952 national convention began to pull back.

Gov. John S. Battle of Virginia brushed the issue aside with the comment that "I'm not mad at anyone."

Gov. Hugh White of Mississippi said he was coming to Chicago willing to avoid an open fight on the question.

Party leaders like National Chairman Stephen A. Mitchell and House Democratic Leader Sam Rayburn of Texas took the attitude that it was a "dead issue" before the meeting began.

"I don't think anything will come up that will cause any row at all," Rayburn told reporters after lunching with Mitchell, former President Harry S. Truman and Adlai E. Stevenson, the 1952 presidential nominee.

The loyalty oath required national convention delegates to do everything in their power to get the presidential ticket on state ballots. It was prompted by the 1948 states-rights movement that robbed the Truman-Barkley ticket of 39 southern electoral votes.

The VFW immediately withdrew its honor guard for Flannery and dropped its offer of a lifetime membership for him. The Legion declined to give him a defense bond bought in his name. The local Lions Club and other groups shelved plans to make him an honorary Kentucky colonel.

Flannery denied being sympathetic to the Communist cause. He said his Red captors had tried to convert him to communism "but they did not do so."

Reference Delph, an officer of the VFW said "Flannery will never get in this organization. The boys are pretty hot."

However, Charles Tendrey, commander of the American Legion post, urged caution before making a final judgment. He urged Legionnaires to back Flannery "until his loyalty has been disproved."

Cold Reception For Korea Vet

BENHAM, Ky. (UP) — An officer of the Veterans of Foreign War post here said today that Sgt. Jack Flannery, a repatriated Korean war prisoner, would "never get in this organization."

The VFW, American Legion and other civic groups had planned to shower Flannery with honors when he returned home Saturday from his imprisonment. But the 21-year-old soldier's arrival was preceded by rumors he was a "progressive" prisoner sympathetic to the Communists.

The VFW immediately withdrew its honor guard for Flannery and dropped its offer of a lifetime membership for him. The Legion declined to give him a defense bond bought in his name. The local Lions Club and other groups shelved plans to make him an honorary Kentucky colonel.

U.S. Slams Door On Changing Make-Up Of Peace Body Reject Red Demand

By BRUCE W. MUNN
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UP) — The United States firmly rejected today a Communist Chinese demand that round-table talks, including Russia, India and three other "non-belligerents," be substituted for the two-sided Korean political conference plan approved by the United Nations last month.

The United States promptly announced it saw no reason to reopen the debate, and indicated it would stand on the plan for the conference it engineered in conjunction with 14 other member countries whose troops fought in the Korean war.

A major tussle on whether the assembly should reconsider the conclusion it reached in a two-week special Korean session last month was expected later this week when the powerful Steering Committee meets.

The 15-member committee makes recommendations on the adoption of the agenda and its findings usually are confirmed by the full assembly.

The Chinese Communists submitted an eight-point rejection of the U.N. plan, declaring:

1. The projected parley is not only a Korean peace conference but must decide other Far Eastern questions of larger scope.
2. The assembly was dominated by American "plans to wreck the conference" in approving a two-sided parley.
3. An invitation to Russia is welcome to the Communists, but the Soviet Union must not be tainted with the "belligerent" brand — which would label her an aggressor, in effect.

4. The makeup of the conference "can only be settled" through joint negotiations, and Communist China and North Korea must be invited to the assembly for this purpose.
5. The conference should comprise all the belligerents in the Korean war, plus five neutrals—Russia, India, Indonesia, Pakistan and Burma.
6. Decisions of the conference must have "the unanimous agreement of both belligerent sides in the Korean war."
7. Only after the composition of the conference has been decided at the U.N. — with participation of Red China and North Korea—could the two belligerent sides decide the time and place of the parley.

A Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld should circulate Red China's cablegram to all U.N. members, except Nationalist China, and include it as an agenda item for the new assembly.

Communists Bringing Reluctant Returnees To Camp Some Changed Attitudes

By WILLIAM MILLER
PANMUNJOM, Korea (UP) — Red correspondent Wilfrid Burchett said today some United Nations prisoners of the Communists had changed their minds about refusing to go home.

Burchett, Australian-born correspondent for the Paris newspaper L'Humanite, declined to give the names or nationalities of the prisoners who had decided they preferred to live in a democracy after all.

During operation "Big Switch" the Communists notified the United Nations Command that they were holding 30 non-Korean and more than 300 South Koreans who had refused repatriation.

The Communists said at that time they were trying to persuade the reluctant prisoners to think it over and go back to their homelands.

Burchett said, however, that some of the Communist-held prisoners were determined to remain with the Red.

He said these men had arrived at nearby Kaesong and will be turned over to neutral Indian guards next Sunday. Earlier the Communists had indicated the first group of prisoners refusing repatriation would be handed over to the Indians Tuesday.

The United Nations Command delivered 1,800 anti-Communist Chinese prisoners to Indian custody Monday, and more than 1,000 additional Indian guards were flown in to swell the custodial force to 4,000.

Another 300 Indian troops were aboard a transport in Inchon harbor and a fourth troopship with 1,000 Indians was expected to arrive Sept. 25.

Apprehensive anti-Red Chinese arriving at "Indian Village" in the demilitarized buffer zone almost rioted when they spotted Communist observers and newsmen outside the compound Monday.

Only firm and tactful handling of the angry prisoners by the Indians prevented a major incident.

The Chinese shouted angrily at the Communists and the Indians quickly cleared the area of rocks.

City Tax Receipts Swell Coffers Ahead Of 1952

Tax money has continued to swell the coffers of the city of Greenville since September 1 as collections for the first 12 days of the month amounted to $25,900.22.

In releasing the figures on city tax collections on the 1953 levy, City Clerk Herman Duncan expressed the opinion that percentage wise the city tax collections are farther along now than they were a year ago.

Duncan said a total of $113,879.55 so far has been collected by the city on its total 1953 tax levy of $289,113.14. Of the amount so far collected, $81,171.68, was received by the city during July when property owners took advantage of early payment. An additional $6,711.65 on the 1953 levy was collected during August.

Duncan pointed out that 1953 city taxes paid during September carry a one per cent discount. During October a discount of one-half of per cent discount. During October a discount of one-half of one per cent is given for the payment of city taxes. From November 1 through January 31 all tax payments are net, and on February 1, penalties are imposed on taxes which remain unpaid. The penalty is one per cent per month for February and March, and one-half of one per cent for each month thereafter until the taxes are paid.

Duncan said the city tax notices mailed out during the last two weeks was one factor in the heavy collections so far this month compared with August. A total of 5,338 tax notices will be mailed to owners of property in Greenville this year. All but approximately 1,000 of the tax notices already have been mailed, Duncan said, and the remainder are expected to be mailed this week.

Slavery Report Prepared For UN; Practice Said To Be Still Widespread

LONDON (UP) — A report charging that slavery still exists in many parts of the world, including the United States, was being readied for publication today by the Anti-Slavery Society.

The society's objective was described by a member, who said it was hoped the report, when submitted to the United Nations, will induce the U.N. to put teeth into the anti-slavery convention adopted by the League of Nations in 1926.

A spokesman said reports in the society's possession show there still exist debt-bondage in both North and South America, the shipment of children in Asia to exploit their labor, the acquisition of wives who become virtual slaves through purchase, and the sale of household servants who are used "like travelling checks" to finance Arab pilgrimages to Mecca.

"The time now is ripe to supply what the 1926 convention lacked," the spokesman said. "The U.N. should prepare a supplementary convention setting out in detail the steps to be taken to suppress slavery."

He told of difficulties encountered in getting reports from Ethiopia, Saudi Arabia and the Yemen, where slavery was known to exist still and where slave trading flourishes.

Reports already received, the spokesman said, indicated that slaves still are sold in Saudi Arabia and that the principal market for them is in the sug (market place) at Suwaygha in Mecca.

Other reports to the society told of cargoes of boys arriving from the Mukron coast of Baluchistan and girls brought from Syria to be sold in Arabia. A society member said at a conservative estimate there are about 750,000 outright slaves in Arabia.

Only Three Registrants To Date For Coming Bond Election

A total of three voters have registered here in Greenville for the $72,000,000 school and mental institution bond election on October 2.

With only one Saturday of registration left before closing of the books, Pitt County Elections Board Chairman Gilbert Peel this morning termed the registration to date "magnificent," but pointed out that those voters previously registered for a general election do not have to sign again. Only those who have not voted before or are not registered in their precinct must register to vote on October 2.

According to Peel, five of the seven precincts here in Greenville have had no registrants at all, while the situation in other Pitt County precincts is much the same, although exact figures are not available.

County Superintendent of Schools D. H. Conley, commenting on the light registration, today urged all who have not registered to do so this Saturday. Earlier, Conley pointed out that the main problem facing bond supporters would be "general indifference or general forgetfulness."

Brought out at a meeting of bond issue backers here last week was the fact that Pitt County and the city of Greenville may receive $600,000 if the election receives a favorable state-wide vote.

Joseph M. Taft of Greenville, acting as chairman of the local drive to pass the bond issue, this morning appealed to the public for support of the election. Taft, president of North Carolina School Board District No. 1 and vice-chairman of the Greenville School Board, pointed out the need for additional school facilities here is apparent. According to Taft, a resolution supporting the issue was passed at the 16th Annual Convention of the North Carolina School Board Association, meeting at Chapel Hill Friday and Saturday of last week.

Women In The Church

Two prominent church women—Mrs. Mildred McAfee Horton, former president of Wallasey College, and Mrs. Norman Vincent Peale, a vice-president of the National Council of Churches—are members of the "Committee on Maintenance of American Freedom" appointed by Bishop William C. Martin, of Dallas, Texas, Council president.

The status of women in American churches is one of the major issues slated for discussion at the sixth National Assembly of United Church Women in Atlantic City next October 5 to 8. Delegates will hear reports on a year's detailed study in which denominations were asked such questions as: what criteria are used to select the women serving on denominational boards? why are women not serving on certain boards? are women ordained, and if ordained, do they serve as pastors? The study was carried out by a committee of fifteen men and women, representing several interdenominational agencies.

During the past ten years the churches of the U.S.A., through United Church Women and Church World Service, have contributed millions of dollars of clothing, shoes, school supplies, blankets, hats, and goods, and sewing equipment for the needy countries in Asia and Europe, centering their giving on the annual "World Community Day." This year, on Friday, Nov. 6, the day will be observed again by women groups and organizations in thousands of churches across the nation. The areas of need this year, according to Mrs. H. B. Marx, national chairman of the observance, are Korea, Germany, Trieste, Greece, India, Pakistan, Near East and Hong Kong. The articles principally needed include pillow-cases, sheets, quilts, blankets, towels, and knit-hen materials. "To bring a little more cheer and warmth to those whose homes are orphanages, camps, tents, barracks, caves and other places of refuge from war, famine, and political persecution." Special services, usually interdenominational, will be held in thousands of communities on November 6, and offerings of supplies and of money will be made. The money gifts will help support scholarships for overseas Christians to study in America, and to further the U.C.W. "action program for peace."

Messner-Hilton Vows Spoken In Double Ring Ritual Saturday

In a candlelight ceremony here Saturday in St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Miss Jean Bryan Hilton became the bride of Robert Stanley Messner, with the Rev. Wallace I. Wolverton officiating at the double-ring ritual.

Prior to the ceremony, a program of nuptial music was presented by Mr. George Perry, organist, and Miss Barbara White, soloist, who sang "Entreat Me Not To Leave Thee" and "Oh Perfect Love."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white nylon tulle and Chantilly lace over slipper satin. Lace formed the bodice and the long sleeves. Paillettes of lace embroidered in pearls outlined the illusion yoke and bodice of the gown. The bouffant skirt of tulle was tiered with lace attached to each tier and extending into a chapel train. The fingertip veil of imported illusion was attached to a coronet of matching lace and embroidered in seed pearls. She carried a white prayer book topped with a white orchid and showered with stephanotis and tied with white satin streamers.

Mrs. William C. Whitehurst Jr. of Bethel was the bride's matron of honor. Her gown was fashioned with a chartreuse fitted strapless bodice of lace and pleated net. The tiered net skirt graduated from chartreuse into a moss green color with matching stole. The headdress was of dark green velvet with a small veil. She carried a bouquet of marshall net, roses.

The attendants were Mrs. Patrick J. Dayson of Quantico, Va., Mrs. John L. Howard of Greenville and Mrs. Herbert P. McKim of Wilmington. They wore gowns identical to the honor attendant and carried bouquets of yellow roses.

The bridegroom was attended by Robert Brooks of Chapel Hill as best man and ushers were William Taylor Newton of Dunn, William C. Whitehurst Jr. of Bethel and John L. Newton of Louisville.

The bride's mother wore a dinner dress of coronation blue Chantilly lace and chiffon with matching hat and white gloves. Her corsage was a lavender orchid. Mrs. David K. Ward, aunt of the bridegroom, wore a dinner dress of mauve lace and nylon net with matching hat and white gloves. Her corsage was also a lavender orchid.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Hilton entertained at a reception in the parish house of the church. The centerpiece for the bride's table was a miniature bridal scene in a formal garden, crystal candelabra entwined with ivy and baby mums and bridal bells flanked the garden. Flowers of white gladiolus, chrysanthemums, ivy and fern decorated throughout.

The bride, Jean Bryan Hilton, and the groom, Robert Stanley Messner, at their wedding ceremony Saturday in St. Paul's Episcopal Church.

Assisting the hosts in entertaining were Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Carrington, who greeted guests, Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Beatty, who introduced the guests, Mr. and Mrs. Ford McGowan, who presided at the register, and farewells were said by Mrs. J. Vance Perkins, Mrs. Hinton Best, Mrs. J. A. Watson, Miss Christine Jordan and Mrs. Pete West assisted in serving.

Honorary guests were Dr. and Mrs. Clarence E. Roberts of Dunn and Mr. and Mrs. Ford McGowan. Mr. and Mrs. Pete West, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Johnston and Miss Christine Jordan, all of Greenville, and Miss Dorothy Warren of Newton Grove. Later in the evening the couple left for a wedding trip to Florida and Cuba. For traveling the bride wore a suit of navy blue faille trimmed in white, with white silk blouse, white hat and gloves and navy blue shoes and purse. She wore a white orchid corsage.

Mrs. Messner is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton C. Hilton. She attended Woman's College of the University of North Carolina and East Carolina College. She is a member of the Beta Sigma Phi National Sorority and for the past year and a half has held a position with the North Carolina Department of Revenue in Raleigh.

Mr. Messner is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Gustav Messner of Union City, New Jersey. He attended Mexico City College, Mexico, D. F., William and Mary College, and was graduated from the University of North Carolina in 1950. He served with the Army Air Forces in Europe in World War II and again with the U. S. Air Forces in Japan during the Korean campaign. For the past year he has been employed with the North Carolina Highway Commission in Raleigh.

After October 1, the couple will make their home in Greenville.

Candlelight Ceremony Unites Pauline Dupree-Gene Tucker

Mount Pleasant Christian Church was the setting for the Saturday afternoon wedding of Miss Pauline Dupree and Gene Mahlon Tucker.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Paul Dupree Jr., wore a white ballerina length gown of Chantilly lace over satin. The fitted lace bodice had long sleeves that extended with points over the hands and a sheer yoke with round neckline of seed pearls. The bouffant skirt was lace over tulle ruffles. Her fingertip veil of silk illusion fell from a matching lace bonnet trimmed with orange blossoms and pearls. She carried a white prayer book centered with a white purple throat orchid and tied with white satin streamers.

After a wedding trip the couple will be at home in Morehead City where Mrs. Tucker will be employed by First Citizens Bank & Trust Co. and Mr. Tucker, a salesman for National Biscuit Co.

On Friday evening, Sept. 11, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dupree entertained the wedding party and friends with a rehearsal party and cake cutting at Mt. Pleasant Christian Church Community Building. The bride's table was covered with a white linen tablecloth centered with an exquisite arrangement of bridal flowers and silver candelabra with tall burning white tapers on either side. A three tiered wedding cake topped with miniature bride and groom was at one end of the table and a punch bowl at the other end. The bride and groom-elect cut the first slice after which Mrs. H. A. Moore served cake. Nuts and mints in silver bon-

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Oklahoma City Post Office employees received a chuckle from a package which arrived here from San Antonio.

Attached to the outside was a transparent bag containing oatmeal cookies and a note reading: "Last Christmas I mailed a doll, insured for $25, and the doll was broken when it arrived. They would only pay me $5 for the broken doll, so please handle this package with care — it isn't insured. And help yourself to a cookie."

The Democratic rally in Chicago this week may set the tenor for the official party actions in the next few years. As we have said previously, what transpires at the rally — officially and unofficially — may determine whether the sectional wounds gouged in the party in Chicago in July of last year are allowed to heal gradually, or will be reopened and made deeper.

Eisenhower's Luck Holding Up

This factor carries special weight at the moment because two jurists—Justices Clark and Minton—have not yet found themselves. Although Truman appointees, they have alternated between the two now openly divided factions in such a manner that they cannot be classified as liberal or conservative. Thus, the new Chief Justice will exert far more influence than he would under more normal circumstances. In making his choice, Eisenhower will also stand in judgment before the public, the politicians and the business interests which supported him so solidly last November. He is still suspected among Republican liberals as being too New Dealish in many respects. Should he name a broad constructionist with an

With such a possibility before the free world, it is obvious that as well as keeping defenses at home strengthened, efforts must be maintained to keep the captive peoples of Europe and Asia informed on the true world conditions in an effort to counteract the vicious communist propaganda.

OBJECTIONS TO DULLES—John Foster Dulles' lifeline from his legal background, but several objections have been raised against him. He is 65, only years below the possible age of retirement. Moreover, his shift from State would be interpreted as evidence that Eisenhower was dissatisfied with his performance there. And that would be a reflection on the State's foreign policy.

A Will Can Provide Real Protection For Your Family

PROTECTING YOUR WIDOW

Instead of leaving all or one-third of your estate to your wife outright, leave her portion in trust with instructions to this effect: "My wife is to receive the income and also to receive some of the principal if, in the Bank's opinion, she at any time needs extra money. When she dies the

When you die your widow will be deserted by people who want to be free. Some of these may be your relatives and friends who would be hard to offend down if the money is left outright. If, however, the money is left in Trust, they can honestly say to these people: "I am sorry; but all my money is in Trust, and I cannot do what you want." This may be a God-send to all the relatives, as well as to her. If the relative or friend is really entitled to the money, there are other places to go to now.

Your Will could direct that your daughter receive certain income for life, and at the daughter's death, after the children reach a certain age, the property be divided among your daughter's children. Or you may be the owner of a business which you would like to leave to a young son. If so, why don't you leave the business in Trust jointly with a bank and your son? The income could

REMEMBER ESTATE TAXES
The Federal estate tax can often be lessened by leaving property in Trust and eliminating a "second" tax. For instance, if you leave your entire estate outright to your wife or daughter, the Federal estate tax at your death would be considerable, if she dies more than five years later, leaving to a child all your property, her estate must pay a second Federal tax. This second tax could be avoided by leaving your property in Trust, without a "general power of appointment" with the income payable to your wife and or daughter for life and then going to the grandchildren. The above tax saving can also be accomplished by "splitting" your entire estate while living, or by leaving it so that only half would be taxed at your death, and the other half at your wife or daughter's death. Then the Federal estate tax would be very much less. In this case, instead of one Trust for your wife, there would be two. For one of these your wife could hold a "general power of appointment." Then only one of those Trusts would be taxed at her death—namely, the one in which she held a "general power of appointment." The other Trust, though the property in it would be taxed at her husband's death, would escape tax at her death. In closing let me say I am not a lawyer. I got these general ideas from George L. White, Attorney General, and Chief Officer of the Newton-Waltham Bank of Newton, Massachusetts, with which bank I have formed Trusts for my wife, daughter and grandchildren.

A Time To Try Men's Souls

BY HAL BOYLE

HOMETOWN, U.S.A. (AP)—It was one of those big times that try little men's souls.

For week Junior had bravely braced to do Mrs. Kindly, the neighbor next door. "Well, I won't be able to come over and play with you and Freckles so much anymore. You know I'm starting in kindergarten."

But now it was D-day, when kindergarten actually opened, and as H-hour itself approached Junior didn't feel important at all. He felt lonely and lost, and more of his courage oozed away each moment.

"Please, Mama, I don't want to go to school," he pleaded desperately as his mother, Mrs. Frank Granber, helped him into his new suit.

When she returned a few hours later, however, she was met not by a small boy but a little man. Junior clambered confidently into the front seat, then turned and waved at a little red-haired girl running toward another car:

"G'by, Elsie. See ya 't'morrow," "Who is Elsie, Lambe?" asked Mrs. Granber.

"She's my sweetheart. And don't call me Lambe."

When they reached their house, they saw old Mrs. Kindly waiting on her front porch with a as of milk and a peanut butter sandwich to welcome the young scholar. Junior third Freckles a young pat, submitted to a kiss and good night, halfway through the sandwich before, replying to Mrs. Kinsley's query as to how and when his first day in school. "Well," he bragged, "I'm in the chicken tracks row already. The teacher had us all try to write the first letter of the alphabet—that's 'A'—and when she w mine she said, well, well, guess I'd better put you in the chicken tracks row. Else's in the chicken tracks row, too."

"Now isn't that nice, dear," sighed Mrs. Kinsley, squeezing her eyes shut and smiling at him. "Why, in another year or so INTERESTED — Your reporter has talked to a lot of people about these elections during the last few days, representing nearly all kinds of business and professional activities, from the ranch heads and the small towns and the cities. He found most of them keenly interested, but too uncertain about the issues involved and too dissatisfied with the choices presently offered to 'get out on a limb' with positive commitments for or against any issue or any candidate.

Men's Souls

"Her husband is up to,"
he said Junior opened the door, and saw Junior stuffing his cowboy suit and toy gun in a small wardrobe.
"What're you planning to do with the bag. Son?"
"Take it to kinner-garden tomorrow, Daddy."
"You don't need a cowboy suit
re. Now tell Daddy the truth, what's going on?"
"Well, after school tomorrow and Elsie are gonna go away and get married and go out to be cowboys."
"Daddy, can I borrow a dollar ton? You! Elsie might get hungry and want a sandwich."
"Weee... I'll let it at it."
"A heck. I guess I can spare you to sleep. Your bag is packed, and tonight, Son. I'll turn out the

When her husband came out closed the door behind him. Granber demanded, "Have gone stark crazy?"—giving child, a mere baby, money dlope with?" Oh, I think little Elsie will make a quick brushoff tomorrow," Frank tolerantly. But suppose Frank doesn't. How you tell what children will QUESTIONS—Nearly everybody has questions to ask, especially with reference to the school bonds. They want more assurance than either the legislative act or the publicity of the proponents has given them about what will be done with the money. So far as the mental hospital improvements are concerned, there is rather general acceptance of the allocation of bond proceeds. There are only five individuals involved and there is considerable understanding of which unit will get how much and just how the $22 million will be spent.

SCHOOLS — The school building situation is different. The legislative act gives the State Board of Education complete discretion in distributing $25 million, and considerable voice in the allocation of the other $25 million. A lot of people recognize that such discretionary authority is necessary; but a lot of others are reluctant to turn over $50 million of their money to any group of 13 men to spend according to their own judgment.

GIN — This sentiment is marked in the wealthier middle of the industrialized Piedmont and in the counties of the middle east where Negro population approximates or exceeds 50 per cent of the total. The attitude essentially the same, although based on different reasons. The Piedmont folks argue that we've built out schoolhouses, why should we have to pay for buildings in other counties? The middle-landers fear that too much of money will be used for Negro education because the taxes will be paid by the white people. The ALLACIOUS — Preponents of bonds cite the fallacy in the studies of both groups. The so-called "poorer counties" contributed largely to the concentration of wealth in the populous centers and have a proprietary interest in that wealth. In like manner the farmer contributed largely to the concentration of the eastern cities. Furthermore, the average of health, education, per capita income and all other fact-making up our civilization is affected by the lowest as much as the highest standards.

SIGNIFICANT — It is significant that most of the opposition to the bond issues has been led by people who would have to pay a very small part of the cost to finance them. Generally the big industrialists and the big owners are supporting the issues. There is so far no organized opposition, and such protest as has been heard has come might be classed as slightly below the middle in taxpaying brackets. Again it should be noted that the protest is not so much overt opposition as it is uncertainty about the whole matter.

SENATE — The situation in the United States Senate race is very similar. Senator Alton Lennon is an avowed candidate for nomination and election to full term. Ex-Governor Kerr Scott is an unavowed but presently actively running candidate. He has said he is just checking sentiment and will not make a definite announcement of intent for some months, probably after the turn of the year.

CHECKING — A lot of voters also are checking around, and many of them have expressed the hope there would be somebody else in the race. Because Scott is well known popular opinion with respect to his candidacy is more crystallized. He has some friends who will support him regardless, and there are a good many folks who will support him under any circumstances. Lennson is not well known, although he has been getting acquainted fast during the past month. For most part those who have committed themselves for or against him have done so chiefly on account of Lennson. William Umstead, who appointed him to the Senate after the death of Willis Smith.

MINORITIES — As your reporter appraises the overall picture those who can now be counted definitely for or against Scott or Lennon constitute a small minority of the total voting strength of the State. Of this minority Scott has a larger segment than against him and more than Lennon. Those who are positively "for" either probably cannot be moved; those who are definitely "against" either might go to the other or to some yet unpredictable entry in the race. As of now, the definite anti-Scott, anti-Lennon and the completely undecided constitute 80 per cent or more of the total potential vote. That is the area in which all the candidates must look for winning support.

OTHERS — There is substantial belief that there will be other candidates in the field before spring. How many and who they will be depends upon the extent to which public sentiment has crystallized by January 1. In some respects the situation is like that of a young doctor who wants him until he has gained experience, and he cannot get experience until he has been called to treat patients. Many voters are waiting to see how much strength the candidates gain before committing themselves—and the only way the candidates can show strength is by going out to rally around for supporters.

FALSE ALARM

A prankster turned in a false fire alarm around midnight Saturday from Box 81, Greenville firemen reported.

The call was turned in from First and Greene Streets.

Copper mining, once important in Cornwall, England, has dwindled in recent years.

through danger to his daughter's "Oil Town U.S.A." was filmed during Graham's crusade in Houston, Texas, and features the evangelist and his team in their meetings in Rice Stadium where attendance was as high as 60,000 for a single service.

The religious film includes actress Colleen Townsend Evans, Paul Power, Robert Clarke, Georgia Lee, Ralph Hoopes and two stars of the preceding Graham production "Mr. Texas." Running 90 minutes, the color film includes scenes of the Texas City disaster of 1945... scenes unused until sought out and incorporated into the story by director Dick Ross.

Winterville—Members of the Winterville Ruritan Club who may be well aware of the present value of the American dollar, will find out how it got that way at a program on September 15, 1953. Scheduled for presentation is a new motion picture, "Your Money's Worth," a production of the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond that traces the dollar's ups and downs of recent years.

Arrangements to obtain the film were made by William R. May, Assistant Cashier of the Bank of Winterville, Winterville, North Carolina.

"Your Money's Worth," according to Mr. May, is a film designed to make the economic facts of life readily understandable and interesting to "the butcher, the baker, and the candlestick maker... and everybody who uses money." The

'Mrs. America' Shocked By Her Sunday Triumph

ASBURY PARK, N. J. (UP)—A printing shop employee from Kutztown, Pa., said today he hoped his mother-in-law can take care of the children when his wife goes on tour as "Mrs. America."

Kenneth Snyder, a photo offset operator, was proud that his wife Erna had won the national beauty competition for married women. But the free trip to Guatemala and the four-week personal appearance tour that go with the title had him worried.

Mrs. Snyder, 24, won the Mrs. America crown here Sunday night as the "Mrs. Pennsylvania" entry. Her victory over five other finalists came only 24 hours after "Miss Pennsylvania" won the title of "Miss America" at Atlantic City, N.J.

Snyder said he had tried to talk his wife out of entering the contest. They have two boys, Steven, 3, and Kevin, 1, and he was concerned about who would take care of them if she won.

Mrs. Snyder, who has brown eyes and brown hair, is five feet 4 1/2 inches tall and weighs 115 pounds. She has a 34 inch bust, 23 inch waist and 34 inch hips.

She said she was "shocked" when the judges made her the winner.

"I didn't have the slightest hope of winning," she said.

Mrs. Gonsky, who is Mrs. Mary Ann Marcus of Danbury, Conn., was runner-up in the judging. Mrs. Melvin Harper of Snow Hill, N.C., was third.

Other finalists included Mrs. Washington, Betty Sutterman of Friday Harbor, Wash., fourth; Mrs. Greater New York City, Mrs. Janet McKeon of Elmont, Long Island, fifth; and Mrs. North Dakota, Mrs. Jean Carol McGillis, Edmore, N.D., sixth.

One of the contestants, Mrs. Virginia Osher of Phoenix, Ariz., said she entered the competition even though she was seven months pregnant.

"It just doesn't show," she said.

'Indian Summer' Day Yesterday

Yesterday a year ago, the highest temperature in Greenville was 93 degrees. Lowest that night 65, and at 8 a. m. next day it was 74, the local U. S. Weather Station reported.

Women's Hats Take New 'Sensible' Trend

By ELIZABETH TOOMEY United Press Staff Correspondent NEW YORK (UP)—Don't look now, men, but your wives, daughters and girl friends are getting unusually sensible about their hats.

The favorite hats now are small, securely fastened to the head, flatter to a hairdo—and not too fragile. This is a common-sense approach women rarely get credit for when the subject of their hats comes up in conversation.

Now that a couple of months have passed since the new winter hats got their first acclaim, women's influence on fashion can be seen clearly by the hats they're picking. Small draped turbans in durable materials like wool jersey are high on the list. So are cloches in novelty fabrics and pillboxes that cling to the crown of the head.

John Fredericks designed for winter a number of ear-covering hats called elongated pillboxes. He candidly admitted last week that women vetoed the extreme style, though "the younger crowd likes them."

"The biggest surprise this fall is that women definitely prefer small hats that sit back on their heads," said designer Fred. "They are small hats with a new, significant look because of unusual shapes and materials—but they are still very tiny."

A Paris husband and wife hat designing team, Gilbert and Helene

Oreal, who sell their hats in this country too, predict that "small, sculptured hats worn on the back of the head" will continue to be the favorites. They point out that shape, not trimming, is important in hats now.

"Brilliant colors for evening, discreet colors for daytime," Oreal added on a recent visit here.

Unusual fabrics more than make up for the absence of flashy trimming on hats. One evening pillbox has a crown made of strips of satin tubing. A cloche is made of shredded chiffon. Daytime hats of paisley printed jersey and an evening hat made from gilded rope are new designs.

Sally Victor applies lace and jet on wool broadcloth and uses quilted satin for some of her new hats. She also adds white kidskin cutouts to black wool broadcloth for an unusual hat.

It would be unfair to ignore a few really out-of-this-world creations amidst all the sensible hat styles. The fur big hit hat designers this fall as well as most other accessory makers, with the result that some pretty exotic fur hats are available for the few who can afford them.

Irene of New York had a furrier dye a batch of mink strawberry pink and trimmed three different hat styles with it. "Women are buying some of them too," she reported in some surprise. "They say they'll wear the hats in the evening with black wool or velvet coats."

Make Do

REMOVING old putty when replacing a broken window pane is a tough job unless the putty is softened first. Soak a piece of sawing in kerosene. Place it next to the putty and light it. Work in a small area at a time so the putty will not redden before it can be removed. Don't use gasoline alone; it burns too fast. This is a tip from the idea pool of the American Builder, trade publication of home builders.

Paint-it-yourself amateurs use more paint than all the professional painters put together. This has been shown by many surveys. How much of the paint is wasted by amateurs is something the surveys do not reveal.

Judging by complaints of amateur home decorators, much of this waste could be prevented by proper application. The Home Service Bureau of one of the oldest paint manufacturing firms (Keystone Paint & Varnish Corp.) recently took a nation-wide poll through dealers to find out the most common problems of the paint-it-yourselfers.

Five of the worst headaches could have been avoided just by mixing the paint properly before starting work. These problems were: 1. Streaking. 2. Uneven color or gloss. 3. Change of color. 4. Poor "hiding," and 5. Slow drying.

One thing to remember about all so-called ready-mixed paints is that they need mixing. Paint stores often have machines that shake cans violently for several minutes, but more mixing is in order as soon as you open the can.

Paint that is not thoroughly mixed has an unequal distribution of pigment and vehicle. This results in streaks and variations in color. The part of the paint containing the most liquid dries glossier than the rest. Too much gloss liquid slows up the drying time and reduces the hiding power of the paint.

Undesired colors also turn up in poorly mixed paint. Green may show up blue, because the heavier yellow portion of the green pigment has settled below the lighter blue portion.

The advice of an expert, Douglas C. Arnold, president of Keystone, is never use broom handles or irregular piece of wood for mixing. Use specially designed flat wooden paddles, which dealers usually supply free with your purchase of paint.

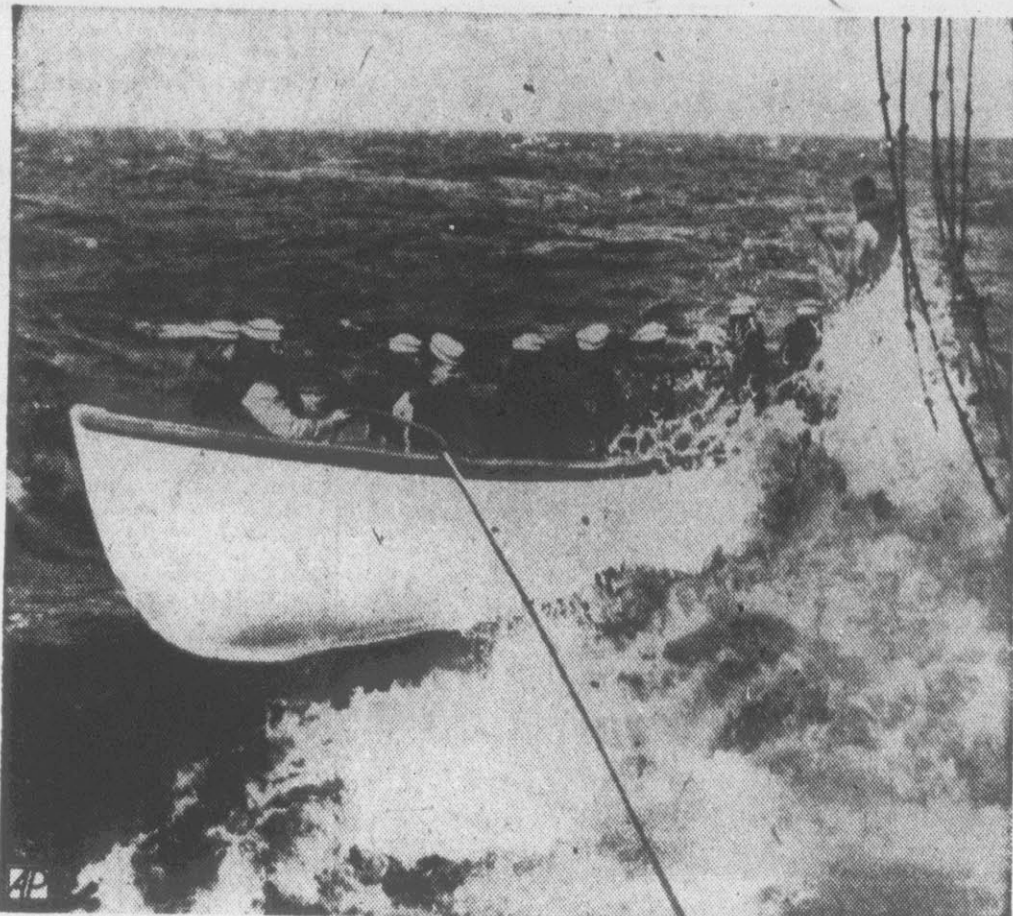

Paints that have been standing even for a few hours need stirring. If paint or enamel has been stored for some time, pour off the liquid on top of the paint into a clean container. Stir the settled paste breaking up any lumps, until a smooth consistency is obtained. Then return the poured-off liquid, a little at a time, stirring constantly.

Arnold points out that uneven color and poor hiding may be caused also by a lack of priming. One coat of good paint is enough for most jobs, but darker colors need a priming coat as well. This holds for surfaces that have been repaired, too.

Slow drying on kitchen walls often is traced to grease. Kitchen walls should be washed thoroughly with a good detergent such as trisodium phosphate, available at hardware stores. Slow drying varnish indicates the presence of wax on the floor.

Amateur jobs often reveal running or sagging paint. This is caused by too much paint on the brush, too much thinner in the brush, or both. A brush should never be dipped more than halfway into the paint, and thinner should not be added unless the instructions on the can call for it.

Never thin paint to make it go farther. As a further guard against sagging paint, particularly with enamels, finish each brushing with an upward stroke. The opposite of this problem is hard brushing. Don't brush too strenuously. Easy, gentle strokes will do the job right.

TEEN TALK

(Dear Judy)

AP Newsfeatures.
If you want to be popular, plan a party for someone occasionally — instead of just inviting the crowd in.

It takes little additional effort to give a going-away party for Marge, a birthday party for John or even a party for a successful friend — such as one who gets a job promotion, who has been elected class president or who has won laurels for being a heap-of-an athlete.

Peg your party to a person and you'll have more fun planning it. Once your crowd gets in the spirit of that kind of party-giving, your turn to be fêted will come along, also.

Your invitations can be informal — by telephone, or just as informal by mail. If a small group is asked, you can plan a mail invitation to match the idea.

Let's say, for instance, that everybody likes a girl named Mary, and that Mary has been voted "the girl with the prettiest smile" in your school. Well, why not toast her for that?

A cute invitation could be a pair of smiling lips cut from mat paper, folded so that the invitation may be written inside. (If the person is going on a trip, the invitation could be in the shape of a suitcase, a ship or even an automobile, depending on the mode of travel.) The lips invitation might read: "Come to a party. That'll be happy and gay. Our Mary will smile. Your troubles away."

A party like this does call for a gift — a little, inexpensive one, gaggy or useful. It is always fun to cut the ice at a party by opening gifts—those first few laughs will get the party off to a good start.

For Mary the crowd could take a choice of tooth paste, tooth brush, tooth whitener, lipstick, lip brush, lip chap pomade, etc., to dress up her smile. . . .

Or give her things to make her smile — such as a pet turtle, a guppy for her fish tank, a collar for her dog, a catnip mouse for her cat, a recording of her favorite singer.

The smiling motif could be used for decoration — one large pair of cardboard lips with 'pearly' teeth will suffice. But if you don't have time for decorations, don't worry.

This type of party doesn't need to be a break-the-budget party. The idea is to get the crowd together. Then all you need is a tasty menu that comprises an inexpensive food such as spaghetti with a new type of sauce, perhaps. (One girl we know has even served nothing but string beans at a party. Her success was all with the sauce of fried onions and chopped bacon.)

So take your choice of the green flat-type spaghetti, resembling a narrow noodle (Verdi Tagliatelle — meaning green little ribbons — is the name of one) or extra-thin spaghetti. Cook the spaghetti about 9 minutes for the best taste appeal, put your all into the sauce which can be prepared before the company arrives. Glean sauce — make it with canned minced clams, thickened with flour and milk to which parsley and a little onion is added or use the minced clams rinsed of salt and sand, sautéed in butter with onion. Or mix cooked spaghetti with cheese and chopped mushroom sauce and put it in a casserole to mellow until the crowd arrives. They'll smack their lips!

Suit Charges Kickback Fraud

NUERNBERG, Germany (UP)—A United States prosecutor placed 27 charges of misconduct against businessman Charles H. Wilson of Harrisville, W. Va., today, climaxing an investigation of huge alleged kickbacks in the Army's post exchange system.

Wilson, 31-year-old chief of the food purchasing section of the European exchange system, was arraigned before a high commission court on a general charge of conspiracy, 22 separate charges of receiving bribes, and four charges of breach of trust.

Wilson's attorney, Peter Flanagan, announced he planned to file a written motion challenging jurisdiction of the court, and Judge Carl A. Turmo granted a delay in arraignment until Sept. 28.

At Wilson's preliminary hearing, prosecution witnesses had testified they deposited $235,000 in a Swiss bank for exchange officials in order to get Army contracts.

U. S. businessman Robert J. McLane of Maynard, Mass., had testified he deposited $200,000 in a Swiss bank for James E. Harlow of San Antonio, Tex., head of the food purchasing section from 1948 to 1952.

Danish exporter Henrik Emborg testified he had deposited $35,000 in the same way in order to get contracts for Danish dairy products.

McLane and Emborg said Harlow told them they would continue getting contracts when Wilson took over as purchasing chief in 1952, as long as they continued making the deposits. An order is being sought to extradite Harlow from the United States for trial.

Couple Drown In Fall From Ferry

OLD POINT COMFORT, Va. (UP)—A Norfolk minister and his wife were drowned last night when a ferry ramp disintegrated and their car plunged off into 25 feet of water at the ferry dock here.

Officials said the state-owned Hampton Roads ferryboat "Jamestown," unloading after a trip from Ocean View, suddenly lurched backward as cars were moving off it. The ramp collapsed. Divers recovered the bodies of the Rev. and Mrs. Alexander Robinson.

Winter's Snow Strikes Canada

TIMMINS, Ont. (UP)—Citizens who sweltered in bathing suits a week ago mused through snow in bush coats today as winter fired an early salvo at northern Ontario and Quebec.

Top showers and scattered snow flurries fell this morning on most northeastern Ontario points, and roads were blocked for a while by a 24-hour fall of wet snow during the weekend. A week ago, temperatures were in the 90's.

Boy Claims New Endurance Mark

FAYETTEVILLE, N. C. (UP)—A 14-year-old boy who handled his model airplane like a puppy on a leash today claimed a new endurance flying record.

Young Sherman Holt's tiny, gas-driven plane was timed at eight hours, 31 minutes and 50 seconds on a flight at Grannis Field here yesterday, thanks to a refueling device developed by the youngster.

Holt attached a long plastic tube to the plane's small fuel tank, and as it flew in circles set by its fixed controls, pumped a new tankful through the tube every seven minutes.

Yesterday's flight was witnessed by an official airlines timekeeper. It was sponsored by the local Exchange Club and Holt was assisted by members of the Fayetteville Circle Burners Club.

Holt began flying model planes only about 14 months ago. But he placed fifth in the International Model Q Airplane meet in Detroit with one entry this year, competing against skilled, veteran model plane makers.

Robber Foiled In 'Nice Quiet Bar'

NEW YORK (UP)—Salvatore Albanese, 18, told a felony court judge that he spent several hours Friday looking for a "nice quiet bar" to stick up.

The one he finally selected was operated by Thomas Newton, 53, a former policeman who earned several commendations for capturing robbers during his 21 years on the force. Newton answered Albanese's "stick 'em up" command by throwing an ash tray at him, then chasing him six blocks until he captured him.

Build Air Strips In North Korea

SEOUL, Korea (UP)—Lt. Gen. Samuel Anderson, commander of the 5th Air Force, said today the Communists are rushing construction of new air bases in North Korea including one capable of handling jets, only 16 miles from the former battlefield.

Anderson said, however, there was no indication the Reds were violating the armistice agreement by moving jet planes or equipment into Korea. Construction of airfields is permitted under the truce terms.

The three-star general said his pilots have sighted one airstrip under construction at Kumsan, 16 miles northwest of the old battlefield on the Onjin peninsula in western Korea.

"They are building a strip out of concrete," Anderson said. "Our people estimate the enemy strip to be about 5,000 by 500 feet. I think it can handle MIGs all right."

Anderson said "we are constantly on guard against a surprise attack," but added that "I am not a damned bit afraid of Communist air."

He said his interceptors, F-86 Sabre jets, "scramble" daily in exercises designed to keep alert against possible surprise attack.

"We are not going to break the armistice," he said. "In the event of an attack, during the first 24 hours we would have our hands full. But we would be fighting on even terms or better within a day."

The pilot, Lt. Nikola Mamula, 26, of the Yugoslav air force, will be granted political amnesty in Italy. Italian authorities said the plane will be returned to Yugoslavia when Marshal Tito's government requests it.

The Yugoslav air force confirmed from Belgrade that one of its pilots and planes is missing but declined comment on reports he had "chosen freedom."

Poland Puts Bishop On Trial; Charge Espionage

LONDON (UP)—Red Poland put the Roman Catholic bishop of Kielce on trial for his life today on charges of operating an espionage ring with the aid of the United States, the Vatican and the secrets of the confessional.

Bishop Czeslaw Kaczmarek was placed on trial before a military tribunal, jointly accused with three priests and a nun of engaging in "espionage and anti-state and diversionary activities."

The maximum penalty for the crimes charged is death. Warsaw radio reported the trials in a broadcast monitored here.

The 58-year-old bishop was charged with conspiring with his priests to violate the confessional, disrupt industry and champion "neo-Nazi" claims to Polish territory on behalf of a Vatican-American fifth column which allegedly was organized eight years ago.

Long-Time Actor Dies While Chasing Vandals

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (UP)—Private funeral services will be held Wednesday for veteran film star Lewis Stone who died of a heart attack while chasing three boys who threw lawn furniture into his swimming pool.

Stone, 73, collapsed and died Saturday night after running into his yard to pursue three teen-age boys who had sneaked onto his property.

His wife, Hazel, said the white-haired actor had summoned police when he heard the youths throwing lawn furniture into the pool.

She said that only moments before she had warned him of over-excitement. He had suffered a heart condition for six years.

The boys were taken into custody by police but later released to their parents.

Stone's death ended an acting career of more than 50 years.

In his later years as a film star, he was best known for his portrayal of Judge Hardy and the "Andy Hardy" film series, co-starring Mickey Rooney.

The stage lured Stone when he graduated from college 35 years ago. He first appeared on Broadway at the age of 20 in the play, "Sidelacked," and went on to stardom in such stage hits as "The Girl of the Golden West" and "Bird of Paradise."

Stone interrupted his stage career to serve as a lieutenant in the Spanish-American war. Following that, he took a job as a colonel in the Chinese army to help train Chinese troops, resigning when the Boxer Rebellion broke out.

The actor returned to the stage and later became a star of silent films in such pictures as "Scaramouche," "Don Juan's Three Nights," and "The Private Life of Helen of Troy."

He reached his greatest popularity in talking pictures. His early sound movies included appearances with Greta Garbo and Norma Shearer.

His latest picture for Metro was "All the Brothers Were Valiant," with Ann Blyth, Stewart Granger and Robert Taylor.

There is a trend among the states to outlaw the union shop. Federal action to forbid enactment of such state legislation was among the 19 Taft-Hartley Act amendments which former Secretary of Labor Martin P. Durkin wanted President Eisenhower to support.

Mr. Eisenhower's refusal to buy Durkin's package led to his resignation as labor secretary last week.

"The worst shame of the states," the report said, "is the refusal of legislatures to reapportion seats according to population changes even when the state constitution requires that they do so."

Union leaders evidently feel that the political power of farmers is a serious challenge. The goal of a great merger of farm and labor interests into a major political party which looked good to union strategists during some of the pre-war years appears to have lost its shine.

Organized Labor Turns Attention To Legislatures

By LYLE C. WILSON

United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—Organized labor is beginning to worry about what state legislatures may do in what is regarded by the leaders as the field of anti-union legislation.

The CIO News fingered the cause of anxiety in a summary of a report on control of state legislatures. CIO researchers reported that the shift of population to the cities had helped create a situation in which one farmer's vote in some states was worth 300 city votes. That is true in California and Connecticut, according to the CIO.

The report estimated that 64 percent of the nation's population in urban areas elected 25 percent of the membership of state legislatures. The 36 per cent of rural voters elected the remaining three-fourths of state representatives and senators.

"No taxation without representation" is an old fighting phrase for Americans," the CIO News said in presenting these figures.

"But millions of us are getting plenty of taxation with very little representation and not much in the way of legislation we want."

The CIO was thinking less of actual taxation, however, than of legislation restricting or defining the limits within which unions must conduct their business with members and with employers. A good example is the union shop.

There is a trend among the states to outlaw the union shop. Federal action to forbid enactment of such state legislation was among the 19 Taft-Hartley Act amendments which former Secretary of Labor Martin P. Durkin wanted President Eisenhower to support.

Mr. Eisenhower's refusal to buy Durkin's package led to his resignation as labor secretary last week.

Chicago Police Say Arrests Uncovered Large Vice Ring

CHICAGO (UP)—Police charged today that an escort service advertising the company of "glamorous models" was really a million-dollar vice ring that offered the favors of call girls at "astronomical prices."

The operator of the service, Kay Jarrett, 45, has been associated with several figures in the sensational Minot (Mickey) Jelke call girl case in New York. She denied the pandering charges filed against her here.

Miss Jarrett was arrested Saturday night in a raid at her office, and fifteen of the "glamorous models" and three men were picked up later at various addresses.

Detective Russell Burton, who led the raid said that lonely businessmen paid $25 to $500 a night for the company of the escort service, but that in some cases fees were "astronomical."

One girl arrested allegedly admitted pocketing earnings of $4,000 in a single week.

Actually, Burton said, the "models" were in many cases women who held down daytime jobs as secretaries or clerks. Two women listed their occupations as "housewife" and several used the title "Mrs."

The investigation began when Pearl White, 23, told police she had worked for the agency and described its alleged operations.

Burton said some of the women arrested told officers they were instructed to act like "ladies" with clients until the men made it clear what was wanted.

New York businessmen visiting Chicago supposedly made up the bulk of the escort service's business, police said.

Detectives were trying to learn whether Miss Jarrett also ran an escort service in Miami, Fla. She allegedly told them that she had considered opening a Mexico branch.

Her former husband, Carl Jarrett, was with Erika Steef, red-haired key witness in the Jelke trial, when Miss Steel was arrested.

Burton said that Miss Jarrett traveled to Mexico City last March with Richard Short, a 39-year-old movie bit player who was sentenced to nine months on pandering charges after testifying in the Jelke trial as a state's witness.

Jelke, himself, scion of a wealthy oleomargarine fortune was accused of marketing the services of call girls.

Police said three of the women arrested here admitted practicing prostitution. Six of the girls were later released.

Miss Jarrett insisted her service was legitimate and said she did not encourage prostitution among her employees.

Honduran Student Begins Work At East Carolina

Leonora E. Padilla of La Lima, Honduras, has arrived at East Carolina College to begin work as a student at the college and a fellow in the department of foreign languages.

She comes to the college through arrangements with the Institute of International Education in New York. For the past several years this organization has made it possible for one foreign student to attend East Carolina annually. During 1952-1953 Jacqueline Phalempin of Arras, France, was enrolled at East Carolina as a student in various departments of instruction and as a fellow assisting in classes in French.

Miss Padilla is a native of Tegucigalpa, Honduras. She attended the public schools at Comayagua and in 1951 was graduated from the Institute Departmental "Leon Alvarado" in that city with a certificate as a teacher in elementary education.

For the past two years she has taught first, second, and third grades in a primary school operated by the United Fruit Co. for its Honduran employees.

At East Carolina she is specializing in work in elementary education. "It has always been my desire," she says, "to help with the educational problems in my country. After completing my studies in the United States it is my hope to return to my own country to adapt the more modern educational methods to the Honduran educational program."

Miss Padilla's arrival in the United States early this month marks her first visit to this country. She is already impressed by the "abundance" observable here and by the friendliness and helpfulness of her fellow students at East Carolina.

A petite dark-haired, dark-eyed young woman, she speaks English well, plays the guitar, converses in a lively manner, and is already making a place for herself in the social and academic life of the campus.

Student Publications Begin Work For School Year; Meetings Set

East Carolina College students are reading this weekend the first issue for the 1953-1954 term of their weekly newspaper the "East Carolinian." T. Parker Mad-drey of Seaboard, sophomore, is editor; and Edna Massad, senior from Benson, is business manager.

Organizational meetings of the staffs of the "East Carolinian" and the "Buccaneer," college yearbook, have been scheduled for Monday night, Sept. 14. Appointments to both the editorial and the business staffs of the student publications will be announced then, and plans for the year's work will be discussed.

Co-editors of the "Buccaneer" for the present school year are Thomas R. Lupton of Greenville senior, and Mildred Reynolds of Columbia, sophomore. Lupton edited the "East Carolinian" during 1951-1952.

The first issue of the "East Carolinian" carries, among other news articles and special features, pictures and stories covering events of the 25th Annual orientation Program for new students, concluded Saturday, Sept. 12. Greetings to students are extended in letters from college President John D. Messick and other college officials, and from Mitchell Saeed of Greenville, president of the Student Government Association.

The high court recently threw out two divorce rulings by Giblin and suggested he take his beliefs to the State Legislature if he disagrees with the divorce laws.

"My conscience is clear," Giblin replied. "I'm going to continue to deny divorces to migratory perjurers who come here to rid themselves of the responsibility of marriage assumed in another state."

Giblin, defeated in the last election as a candidate for the Supreme Court, accused present members of the bench of seeking "reprisals" against him for criticisms he had made of the Supreme Court.

He said his opinion had been magnified that the Florida high court is "the least respected court of last resort in America."

Bucs Begin Final Week Of Practice For Opening Game

Duke, Wake Forest Bearing Down For Saturday Openers

RALEIGH (UP) — Coaches at Duke and Wake Forest took no time out today to celebrate Saturday's scrimmage victories but bore down on their squads to erase flaws before Saturday's opening games of the 1953 season.

The Blue Devils held the edge although no formal score was kept in Saturday's scrimmage against visiting Virginia Tech, but their eight fumbles forecast some stress on ball handling in the few remaining days of practice.

Coach Bill Murray called attention to the fact that Tech recovered six of the Duke fumbles during the first real test action of his 1953 squad.

Quarterback Worth Lutz commanded the first string with halfbacks Red Smith and Lloyd Caudle making impressive gains. Quarterback Jerry Barger and the second team looked equally potent.

Wake Forest Capt. Sonny George intercepted a pass and ran 98 yards for a touchdown as the Demon Deacons took an 18-0 lead over George Washington in an intercollegiate scrimmage.

But Coach Tom Rogers contended the trial run "showed us that we still have a lot of work to do and a lot of mistakes to correct before Saturday's opener against William & Mary at Richmond."

Halfback Bill Churm made another Wake Forest touchdown from the one and end Charles Topping caught a 10-yard pass from quarterback Joe White for the other Deacon tally.

The University of North Carolina under new head coach George Barclay took on a service team at Fort Lee, Va., and came away with a 7-0 win plus proof of a rugged defense.

The Tar Heels played five quarters but the only scoring was on a quick stab in the second period. Halfback Billy Hawks took a pitchout from quarterback Marshall Newman on the 40 and made it to the five before he was forced out of bounds. Fullback George Wallin lunged over and halfback Billy Williams converted.

The Fort Lee team gained easily at midfield, but Tar Heel defenses stalled them effectively inside the 30 yard line.

Barclay planned to take his squad to Fort Bragg for a second scrimmage test on Tuesday.

The Tar Heel opener against N.C. State is Sept. 26.

Coach Horace Hendrickson of N.C. State kept the scrimmaging in the family Saturday with the varsity working against the freshmen. But the Wolfpack had just returned from three days of work-out against Camp Lejeune, where Hendrickson said he was pleased with the squad's development.

A result of the out-of-town practice was the switch from quarterback to halfback of Jim Meadlock, who ran well against the frosh caught a 10-yard pass from quarterback Joe White for the other Deacon tally.

NEW YORK (UP)—The Yankees can clinch their fifth straight American League pennant today and Casey Stengel hoped they would so he will be officially free to start worrying about Brooklyn.

Southpaw Whitey Ford, who wrapped up the 1950 World Series with the Phillies before going off to war, was given the assignment to pitch the possible pennant clincher against Cleveland in the afternoon battle. He was opposed by Early Wynn. Both were shooting for their 18th victory.

It was veteran Johnny Mize, however, who did all the shooting against the Indians Sunday with a pinch three-run homer in the eighth inning that gave the Yankees a 6-3 victory and reduced their "magic number" to two.

"The big guy earned himself a year's pay with that hit alone," beamed a happy Stengel after the game. "He was just tuning up to Brooklyn. He's sharpening his eye for that right field fence over there. How old is he anyway? Forty? That gives him another nine years at least."

Stengel said he "wouldn't be surprised" if the World Series with Brooklyn went to seven games.

"It might even go eight," he snorted. "There might be a tie. That Brooklyn pitching staff has gone through the mill. It'll be more experienced. That guy (Preacher) Roe could pitch two games against us and we've always found him tough."

"Most of their fellows are experienced. The only regular they got who hasn't been in a Series is that kid at second base (Junior Gilliam). And they tell me he's plenty good, too."

Stengel quickly put in a plug for his own club, also.

"I hear where some people are saying we won't show up for the Series," he said. "Don't worry. My guys will show up. They wanna get paid you know."

Mize's homer was one of five hit in Sunday's game. Larry Doby hit a pair for the Indians while Joe Collins and Gene Woodling each connected for the Yankees. Batting for winning pitcher Vic Raschi, Mize rapped Mike Garcia's first pitch into the right field seats to score Billy Martin and Phil Rizzuto ahead of him.

The White Sox lost all mathematical chance of winning the pennant when they bowed to the Red Sox, 7-6. In other American League games, the Browns and A's split a double header as Don Larsen hurled St. Louis to a 3-1 victory in the opener and Harry Byrd of Philadelphia won the nightcap, 2-0. Detroit swept a twin-bill from Washington, 10-4 and 4-4, although Mickey Vernon of the Senators went 5-for-7 to swell his league leading batting average to .337.

In the National League, the Dodgers, with the pennant already clinched, permitted many of their sops to earn their letters as they dropped a 3-2 decision to the Cubs in 10 innings. It was the Cubs' ninth straight triumph.

Southpaw Warren Spahn of the Braves finally won his 20th as he beat the Giants, 2-1, in the first game of a double header, but the Giants won the nightcap, 7-4, in a game cut to eight innings by darkness. The Cards over-ran the Phillies, 17-3 while Pittsburgh split with Cincinnati — the Pirates taking the opener, 8-4, but losing the nightcap, 8-4.

First Team Selections To Be Made By Boone

By JIMMY ELLIS
Reflector Sports Editor

The detail of adding finishing touches will begin today for the East Carolina College Pirates who will open their nine-game schedule Saturday night against Wilson Teachers College.

Included in the "details" facing Head Coach Jack Boone and his assistants, Jim Mallory and Earl Smith, is the selection of a first-team to represent the Pirates. Most of the position-holders have already been tentatively selected by the coaches but none of them are by any means final choices.

Expected to start in the backfield for the Pirates Saturday night are Dick Cherry, Poppy Hayes, Paul Gay, and Claude King. King is the only doubtful starter of the four but that stems from an injury and not because he's being pushed too hard. He had a wound opened over his eye last week and had to have five stitches taken.

If the injury doesn't heal sufficiently veteran John Daughtry will probably get the nod at fullback. Ted Barnes, a sophomore from Wilson, worked out in the position after King was hurt last week but Barnes' "self went on the shelf Saturday with a slight injury which might slow him down."

In the line, the positions are almost toss-ups. Center Louis Hallow apparently has his starting job locked up. So does All-Conference tackle Willie Hallow. After that it's just a question of who happens to get there first in practice this week.

The guard positions are the most up-in-the-air right now with at least four fully-accomplished candidates. George Tucker, Donald Burton, David Lee, and James Faircloth have been alternating with the starting group although Faircloth has been slowed by an ankle injury. All four are veterans.

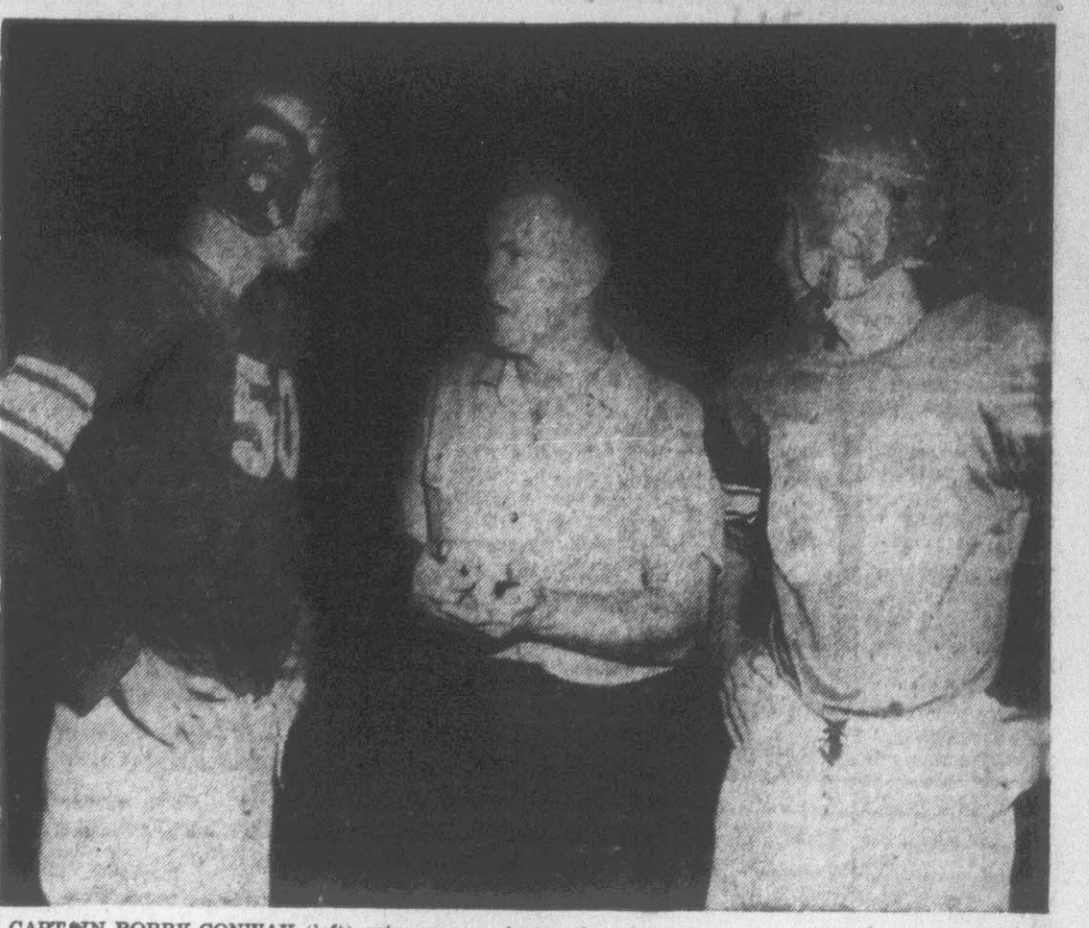

At the tackles, Johnnie Brown has been Holland's most frequent running mate but he has been getting competition from veterans Sonny Callahan, Tubby Thomas, and Lee, who is alternating between guard and tackle in an effort to give the tackle posts some depth.

Bobby Hodges and Al Habit appear to have the inside track on the starting end assignments but they'll have to prove in practice this week that they're better than Larry Rhodes, J. D. Bradford, and Bob Chambers.

Possibly the only thing certain about the starting line-up for the opener Saturday is that the group will include at least 10 lettermen. Hallow, a native of Goldsboro and a transfer from Wake Forest, is expected to be the only newcomer in the starting crew.

While the Pirates continued their final shaping up for the contest, construction crews continued their job at trying to put the finishing touches on the new sections of bleachers being raised on the South side of the field. One of the sections needs only crosspieces and seat boards to be completed but the other has only the foundation marked. It is, however, expected to be ready to use by Saturday.

The new seats will increase the seating capacity of the stadium by 1,800. With the new seats the stadium's total seating capacity will be approximately 6,000.

CAPTAIN BOBBY CONWAY (left) gets pre-game instructions from Coach Bill Kirtrell before last Friday night's 44-0 victory over Jacksonville as Alternate Captain Billy Arnold listens. Speight's Long Run Came After 'Leave Alone' Order Heard around: It seems the Greenville High School football team is shooting for the moon this year. After the first two games of the season the opposition has not scored a single point against the Phantoms. The players' idea of a good season is to keep the record as clean as it is now.

The Phantoms received a "lucky" break in Friday night's 44-0 victory over Jacksonville on halfback James Speight's 92-yard touchdown run. Speight was waiting for the high punt when Coach Bill Kirtrell yelled to let it bounce into the end zone. Speight backed away but when he saw the ball bounce back up field he snatched it out the air and took off. The startled Jacksonville team was moved down by Speight's convey of blockers and the fleet halfback was never touched.

First-team quarterback Bobby Nunn didn't suit up for the game but watched substitutes Jerry Drum and Tommy Norris handle the ball like veterans. Nunn should be over his muscle injuries by Friday night but he'll have to go some to keep Drum and Norris on the bench.

Ask the Phantoms' first-string center Doug Morgan what position he plays and you may have to wait until he thinks through the question. Morgan played fullback and halfback two years ago. Last season after starting out as a back he was switched to end. This year, Kirtrell experimented once with Morgan as a center and Doug has been the snapper ever since.

The Phantoms will go after their third victory Friday night when they take on another Eastern AAA Conference team, the Fayetteville Bulldogs. The Bulldogs got their season underway last Friday when they bumped Dunn 18-0. Fayetteville, not at all the power she was under Coaches Bill Dole and Clyde Biggers, still has enough power, though, to be rated as the Eastern Conference's dark horse entry.

Greenville's tough defensive line continued to protect its reputation against Jacksonville by limiting the Cardinals to a net of 50 yards rushing. Against Wilson a week ago, the Cyclones could get only 18. That's holding opposition to an average of 33 yards rushing per game thus far.

Speight, the hottest All-State candidate in this section, saw his yards-per-run average drop Friday night but it was by a slight margin and only slight. In the first game he had an even 100 yards in 10 tries. Against the Cardinals he picked up 79 yards in eight carries. That's 179 yards in 18 carries—almost 10 yards a try.

Seixas, Trabert To Play In Interzone Davis Test

La Starza Ready For Title Fight

MONTREAL (UP)—The United States will definitely use its two top stars, Tony Trabert and Vic Seixas, in the interzone Davis Cup final as well as in the challenge round against Australia, tennis official Lawrence Baker announced today.

Trabert, the U. S. champion from Cincinnati, and Seixas, the Wimbledon champion from Philadelphia, were the key men on the U. S. squad which annihilated Canada's team, 5-0, in the American zone finals this week.

Next on the program for the Yankee tennis stars is the interzone final against the European zone champion, which will be either India or Belgium. Then the interzone winner will challenge defending champion Australia for the cup, tennis' most coveted trophy, in December.

"Seixas and Trabert will definitely go against the Belgium-India winner and against Australia, if we get that far," said Baker, former vice-president of the U. S. Lawn Tennis Association who captained the U. S. team against Canada.

"The rest of the team is a question mark."

Trabert and Seixas, who each won a singles match on Friday and then teamed for the series-clinching doubles victory on Saturday, had a day off Sunday while the American second-line players completed the sweep.

During the five-match series, the Canadians won only two sets—the single set won by Bedard from Barten and a set in the doubles match.

GREENWOOD LAKE, N.Y. (UP)—Roland La Starza, picked by Joe Louis to be next heavyweight champion, is at "the peak of condition," trainer Dan Florio announced today, and he will begin lapping off to hold his edge.

Florio was doubly delighted at Roland's condition and at Louis' prediction the New York challenger will wrest the title from Rocky Marciano on Sept. 24.

The dark-haired New Yorker scaled 187 pounds Sunday night after five fast rounds before a turn-away crowd of 230 in the Long Pond Inn gymnasium here. He'll scale about 188 for the fight.

Ex-champion Louis, at the ring-side, saw Roland in action "in the flesh" for the first time. "I've seen him previously on television in a bout with big Walter Hafer. 'He's a much better boxer than I thought,'" said the man who wore the heavy crown 11 years. "And he's got good legs. And a sharp left jab. He's got the tools to lick Rocky; and I know he will because Rocky hasn't improved any since I fought him. I watched Marciano work out at Grossingers Saturday."

Bomber Joe's last fight was with Marciano at Madison Square Garden, Oct. 26, 1951. Rocky knocked out the fading ex-champion in the eighth round.

Sunny Acres' Mighty Chief Wins Smith Memorial

Purdue Deserves Mention For Title In Big Ten Race

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (UP)—Even their coach indicated today that Purdue's Bolleymakers merit serious consideration for the Big Ten football championship.

"I'd say we will be as good offensively this year as last and a little better on defense," said a table Stu Holcomb whose gold and black-clad Riveters tied Wisconsin for the conference crown last year but didn't get the Rose Bowl bid.

But Holcomb refused to predict a rosy season for Purdue. He believed he faces as tough a schedule — if not tougher — than any he's had since coming here in 1947.

After three non-league games against Missouri, Notre Dame and Duke, the Bolleymakers face six consecutive Big Ten rivals.

"With six conference games in a row we won't get a break," he said. Odd as it may seem, the first league foe is Wisconsin.

The graduates included All-American end Bernie Flowers, quarterback Dale Samuels, halfbacks Earl Henner and Phil Kleck, and line men Allen Hager and Jack Houston.

In addition, military service claimed tackle Kenneth Panfil and Bob Leonard, who specialized as defensive fullback last year.

Nolcomb isn't reaching for the crying towel, however. He has a starting lineup solid with major holdover lettermen, and capable reserves in most spots to back them up.

Hardest to replace, he said, was the Samuels — Flowers pass-catch duo, but he was confident Roy Evans, who played only 27 1-2 minutes last year, will handle the quarterback job well and has good pass receivers in lanky Johnny Kerr and Jim Wojciehowski.

Dave Whiteaker, a senior, and 235-pound sophomore Joe Krupa apparently are steady fixtures at tackle, with Tom Betts (215) and Fred Prezioso (245) expected to be among the roughest and toughest two guards on any major team in the country. They're only juniors, but both already are tagged as "sure-fire" All-American candidates.

Walter Cudzik, 285-pound Chicago senior, will again snap the ball from center.

Ed Zenzel and Rex Brock, both juniors, seem to have the nod as starting halfbacks, with powerful Max Schmaling, who smashed through for an average of better than four yards in nearly 150 attempts last year, at fullback.

Brock and Jim Reichert are being groomed for kicking duties to fill the vacancy left by the graduated Norman Montgomery.

Holcomb also was hopeful halfback Mike MacCioil, who returned after a two-year Army hitch and saw plenty of action in 1949 and 1950, will round into his old-time form.

Mayer's Putter Accounts For Win

Former Champ Leads Amateurs

BALTIMORE, Md. (UP)—Handsome Dick Mayer, the blond Connecticut golfer, can thank his favorite club, the putter, today for his sensational, 9-under-par 279 victory in the Eastern Open golf tournament, his first major golfing triumph.

Mayer, in his fourth year as a pro and playing out of St. Petersburg, Fla., these days, gained the victory over Mt. Pleasant's tricky course mainly on the strength of his brilliant putter as he carded a 2-under-par 70 for the final tour.

He stroked five birdies over the par-72 layout in Sunday's final round of the four-day tournament to gain the top prize of $2,400, as Doug Ford of Harrison, N.Y., the year's second biggest money winner, blew up after entering the last day tied with Mayer for first place. Ford carded a 74 to wind up in a three-way tie for second place with Chandler Harper of Portsmouth, Va., and Charlie Bassler of Catonsville, Md., at 283.

A stroke farther back at 284 and deadlocked for fifth place were Jerry Barber of La Canada, Calif., and Ed (Porky) Oliver of Palm Springs, Calif.

The 29-year old Mayer, one-under-par after the front nine, clicked for a birdie two on the par-three 11th hole, and then went on to pick up birdies on the 14th and 15th holes to increase his sub-par score to four. During this spurt he sank putts as long as 26 feet.

Spahn Wins 20th

MILWAUKEE (UP) — Southpaw Warren Spahn of the Milwaukee Braves gained his 20th win of the current campaign Sunday when he tossed a six-hitter at the New York Giants to win, 2-1, in the first game of a doubleheader at County Stadium.

Spahn is the first pitcher since Carl Hubbell to win 20 or more games in five different seasons.

The deal of two years ago which sent Johnny Sain from the Braves to the Yankees for Lew Burdette has been paying off for both teams.

Smith Is Choice To Defeat King

NEW YORK (UP) — Wallace (Bud) Smith, of Cincinnati, was favored to defeat British Empire lightweight champion Arthur King of St. Catherine's, Ont., tonight in the featured 10-round bout at Brooklyn's Eastern Parkway Arena.

Smith has scored two victories in three bouts in the Parkway ring. In his last bout he handed Carl Coates the first knockout of his career, while in previous appearances he stopped Charley Spicer and lost a decision to Orlando Zulueta.

Smith has won 20 out of 37 bouts, while King has long only eight of his 48 fights. The fight will be telecast but not broadcast.

The Velvet Hand

CHAPTER NINETEEN

McKee knew the little there was to know about Pedrick, as far as he was concerned; he suspected a good deal more. Pedrick was one of those fringe men who operated on two levels—a canny bird who kept his foot in both camps. Public relations counselor was an elastic term, and the small accounts he handled wouldn't keep him in clothing. His real and illicit business was far more profitable, but surmise was one thing, getting the goods on him was another.

The Scotsman had strait drop him at Eleanor Oaks' apartment. Standing on the curb, he asked a question that made the lawyer start and stare. "What do you know of this chap in your office, Hugo Cavanaugh?"

Straight said through the open window. "He's a bright lad and does good work, and he comes from a good family. I know his background, his people. What makes you ask?"

McKee said: "Oh nothing in particular—except he's the type we've been looking for." He told the lawyer there was a blackmailer loose in New York he wanted to get his hands on. Over a period of three or four years a number of girls and young women had been victimized. Several of them had committed suicide. In each case there had been a man involved, a man who went to the right restaurants and hotels and night clubs, and wore the right clothes, and spoke the right language. They had never been able to get a line on the fellow. "You know what people are where blackmail's concerned—they'll suffer anything rather than have the truth come out."

"Libby Tallis wasn't being blackmailed," Strait objected.

McKee agreed. "But the money was there to hand. Our man may have prospected and when he couldn't get any material to work on, he pulled this deal. Haven's a pushover—he practically asked for it."

Straight shrugged. "Perhaps it was your niece—" The Scotsman nodded. "Oh, I know, I know. Just the same, Haven could have taken the serial numbers of those bills. It almost looks as though someone knew he wouldn't have common sense enough for that, knew exactly how he would react. In fact Strait, there's a queer smell about the whole business. Twenty-five thousand. Why not fifty? And then that smashed hat; that was a fancy touch, if you like. I'm going to want to know a good deal more about the Havens, and their friends and relations. Well, I'll be seeing you." Ignoring the consternation on the lawyer's face, he walked towards the canopy.

Outside Eleanor Oaks' door on the 16th floor and about to put his finger on the bell, McKee didn't press it. There was a row going on inside the apartment. Voices were raised, a man's and a woman's, or rather the woman's; you could just barely hear the man. Suddenly a chair went over and there was a thin scream. Then McKee did ring the bell.

Silence, more of the same, footsteps, the door was opened by a tall woman in a dinner gown, handsome in a hard way. She held a handkerchief to her face.

The woman was Eleanor Oaks. The handkerchief was to conceal the mark of a blow on the right lower jaw, which had been given to her by Pedrick and which presently revealed itself.

Not that he said so, and the chair in the living-room had been replaced on its legs. "Sweetie, this man insists on coming in."

"It's all right, Ducks. Good-evening, inspector. To what do we owe the honor?"

Pedrick wore a dinner jacket and black tie. Everything about him was just a little too sharp. "Sit down, inspector. Have a drink."

McKee sat down and didn't have a drink. Pedrick asked what he could do for him.

"You can answer some questions, if you care to."

"Why shouldn't I—unless it's about my income tax. Shoot."

"Where were you the day before yesterday from 3 p.m. until 9 p.m.?"

The ransom money had been collected from Catherine Haven at approximately 5:40.

"That would be Monday. I was right here in this apartment. I had a touch of flu and Miss Oaks kindly insisted on calling her doctor."

He saw me at around—it must have been close to half past 5. You were fixing a drink, weren't you, dear, when the medico arrived?"

"Yes, Sweetie. I thought a hot whiskey would do you good—and I was right." The doctor's name was Javish, and he was in the building if McKee wanted to check.

"Thanks. Tell me what you know about a man named Tony Wilder."

Pedrick was prepared for the question. Not a muscle of his cadaverously carved face moved. Eleanor Oaks showed nervousness.

The handkerchief which she had removed, was again pressed to her swelling jaw. McKee decided that it was about Wilder that the precious pair had been quarreling. Pedrick said in accents of surprise, "Tony Wilder? Not much. I meet him around, just a bowing acquaintance."

"You, Miss Oaks?" Eyes downcast, Eleanor Oaks said with studied indifference: "About the same as Sam. I run into Tony

Australian-Built Jet Test-Flown

CANBERRA (AP)—The first Australian-built Sabre jet fighter has made its official test flight. Flight Lieutenant W.H. Scott of the RAAF flew the plane for thirty minutes in the Melbourne area.

Minister for Defence Production Eric J. Harrison told newsmen the Australian Sabre was an improvement on the original American design. Australian engineers, he said, had modified the fuselage to take the more powerful British-built Avon jet engine in place of the American turbo jet engine in Sabres now in Korea.

Cornwall, England, has been noted for its tin since ancient times.

New Miss America Now Shopping For Wardrobe

NEW YORK (UP)—A Pennsylvania sorority girl goes shopping today for the wardrobe she will wear in and out of spotlights across the nation as the new "Miss America."

Evelyn Margaret Ay of Ephrata, Pa., who won the coveted title at Atlantic City, N.J., Saturday night, found that the first thing Miss America needs is clothes. She will be seen in nearly every state in the union and will travel to Europe during her 12-month reign.

Miss Ay (it rhymes with "say") defeated 52 girls for the crown of Miss America and the $50,000 in prizes that goes with it. She said she was surprised she won, because the judges could see plainly that she bulges in some of the wrong places.

When she visits Manhattan's leading dress shops this week for fittings, the tape measures will record a 37 inch bust, 24 inch waist and 36 inch hips. This is far from the usual beauty queen standards, which call for hips and bust of the same size and a waist 10 inches smaller.

But Miss Ay, who is 20, a blonde and stands five feet eight inches, said she had an incurable appetite for pork chops and sauerkraut and her figure is the result. She tried dieting once but gave it up.

The new Miss America will cross the country seven or eight times in the coming year and make about 300 personal appearances. Her prizes included a $5,000 scholarship and she will resume her studies at the University of Pennsylvania when she yields her crown a year from now.

After her visit to New York, Miss Ay will go home to Ephrata and a rousing reception from proud townspeople. They began giving her beauty prizes three years ago.

In 1950 she was queen of the Ephrata fair and Tobacco Queen of Lancaster County. Last year she was named "Miss Pennsylvania Amvet" and "Miss National Amvet." Earlier this year she became "Miss Pennsylvania" and got her chance for the Miss America title. At a press conference Sunday Miss Ay confided to reporters she was the sweetheart of a Sigma Chi at the university, where she is studying to be a medical technician. She identified the boy of her dreams as Carl Semper, 22, a Naval cadet.

She also said she does not like the new short skirts because she is too tall to wear them. When a reporter asked her whether she was a Republican or a Democrat, she said she was still too young to vote and didn't give politics much thought.

Gabby Cabby Had Paying Audience

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—This is the tale of a gabby cabby—an ex-bakery employee who fell into some unexpected dough. Taxi driver E.T. (Gabby) Gabbert picked up a fare who asked to be driven to a Memphis bakery. En route, Gabbert confided he was once employed by the same bakery—for six hours.

"I was just a kid then, and I'll declare that was the hottest place in the world. After six hours of work, I decided I sure didn't like it. As soon as the foreman wasn't looking, I went to the washroom and sneaked out a window. And I never did go back, not even to see about a paycheck."

A few days later Gabbert received a $50 check from the bakery. It was in payment for his six hours of work, plus interest that had accumulated since his brief employment 30 years ago. Gabbert's passenger had been D.W. Elliott of Chicago, executive vice-president of the American Bakeries Co., which now owns the local bakers.

Truman Scornful Over Complaints On Party Digest

CHICAGO (UP)—Former President Harry S. Truman snorted "Tell them to go to hell" when asked to comment on a Republican complaint that the Democratic Digest should not be circulated overseas.

Other Democratic leaders Sunday scoffed at the GOP plea in milder terms.

Clayton Fritchey, editor of the Digest, said wryly "Well, they can always burn them," an apparent reference to charges that the GOP administration ordered books burned in overseas libraries.

Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall riled the Democrats gathered here for a two-day rally by accusing the Democrats of "promoting distrust" of the U.S. abroad by distributing the Digest in foreign countries.

In an "open letter" to defeated 1952 presidential candidate Adlai E. Stevenson, Hall asked the former Illinois governor if he thinks Democrats "are serving the cause of America by peddling undermining attacks on the President through European and Canadian distribution" of the magazine.

Mr. Truman was asked if he could be quoted on his "go to hell" comment and replied, "Yes, sir." In Mr. Truman's company were Stevenson and national chairman Stephen A. Mitchell, who remarked "They really must be hurting" to want the magazine withdrawn from overseas circulation.

Stevenson said he "hadn't heard the Democratic Digest had such influence."

Hall said in his letter that the magazine has been "mainly devoted to attacks on President Eisenhower, the Eisenhower administration, the 83rd Congress and all their works and policies."

Blowout Costly To Ohio County

FREMONT, Ohio (AP)—It was a $12,000 blowout. It didn't cost

Bradshaw $12,000; it cost Sandusky county.

The blowout was costly because it threw Bradshaw's car into the rail of a 50-foot bridge. The bridge collapsed.

Threats Of Violence Written Rita Hayworth; Home Guarded

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UP)—Rita Hayworth and her daughter, three-year-old Princess Yasmin, were under 24-hour guard after the film star received threats of violence unless the child is returned immediately to Moslem Prince Aly Khan.

The actress' attorney, Bartley Crum, reached in Hollywood, said the threats came in letters addressed to Miss Hayworth at the Sands Hotel here and that they had been turned over to the FBI for investigation.

The letters threatened Yasmin's life and bodily harm to Rita, he said.

Crum said "they could be crank letters," but added:

"I read both letters and it is my personal conclusion that there was something in them to indicate that they did come from a religious fanatic."

The attorney said he had wired the prince's father, the Aga Khan, asking him to "caution his followers" as far as his former daughter in law and grandchild are concerned.

Crum said he routed the wire through Aly's Paris lawyer, Charles Toren, asking the Aga Khan to use his influence as the spiritual leader of the Ismaili sect of Moslems "to make sure that no harm comes" to the star and her child.

Crum said he did not believe the threats could have originated with Aly or his father.

The actress, here waiting to marry crooner Dick Haymes, declared she was concerned only for her child. She said she did not know who might have made the threats.

Yasmin is at Rita's home in West Los Angeles near Hollywood with the actress' other child, Rebecca Welles, 8, daughter of actor Orson Welles. Both children were under guard.

Crum said the first letter was received two weeks ago. He said the second letter came from New Rochelle, N.Y., and was postmarked Sept. 7. He said he could not disclose the contents of the letters.

Miss Hayworth recently turned down Aly's offer to set up a $1,000,000 trust fund for their daughter with the angry statement that "There isn't any amount of money that is worth sacrificing this child's privilege of living as a normal Christian girl in the United States."

The red-haired actress said she rejected the offer because the proposed settlement stipulated that Yasmin be "exposed" to Moslem teachings.

Believes Women Pastors Suited

KIATONE, N.Y. (UP)—Many rural churches, closed for financial reasons, could be re-opened if women church-workers would stop wasting their energies on bazaars and get into the ministry, the woman pastor of the Kiatone Congregational Church here believes.

The Rev. Esther Vodola said that while prejudice against women ministers still bars members of her sex from city pastorates, the rural field is open.

"Hundreds of rural churches throughout the country have been closed because the small congregations can't afford to support men clergymen with families," explained Miss Vodola.

"However, whether single or married, women can live more cheaply than men with large families. Areas where many families now are without regular church affiliations would welcome qualified women pastors."

Miss Vodola said there is a trend toward more women preparing for the ministry and the breaking down of barriers in the denominations which still bar women from full ministerial status.

Police Job Open For Volunteers

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP)—Childhood ambitions to become a cop can now be realized by all able-bodied men in Kentucky.

The Kentucky State Police is organizing an auxiliary force. Volunteers will serve without pay. They will be concerned only with emergencies, such as an enemy attack on the United States. They would help state troopers control highway traffic and assist injured and homeless persons.

Training similar to that given regular police will be given to the volunteers.

REAL INCENTIVE
HARTFORD, Conn. (UP)—Firemen had an added incentive when an automobile stopped at the station house with its battery cable burning. The firemen's pay checks were in the car.

They doused the flames in short order.

Boys Are Taught Self-Reliance In Vacation Prize

BANFF, Alta. (AP)—The rugged territory of Banff National Camp teaches self-reliance while providing a vacation-time prize for top qualifying members of Canada's 60,000 high school students in the khaki. About 150 teen-age cadets attend the army camp.

Here bears, wolves and lynxes take second rating to the mosquito. The boys are told that bears are more afraid of cadets than the cadets are of bears. E.R. Hall, civilian instructor, says there has never been a proven case of a wolf attacking a human although the wolf, like the lynx, will follow a man for hours out of curiosity.

"I'm much more afraid of the mosquito than I am of the bear," says Hall. The stings of a swarm of mosquitoes and the resultant itch and irritation have been known to drive a man crazy.
