

DICK TRACY

MY NAME'S CYNTHIA SMITHLY.

CRIMESTOPPERS TEXTBOOK

KNOTS IN ROPES USED TO THE VICTIMS SHOULD BE EXAMINED VERY CLOSELY. THE ABOVE KNOT, THE BOWLINE, SHOWS THAT IT WAS TIED BY A PERSON WITH KNOWLEDGE OF KNOTS, POSSIBLY A SAILOR.

I WAS RIDING BY AND SAW THIS MAN LYING IN THE BRUSH. IN FACT, MY HORSE SHIED—THAT'S WHAT ATTRACTED MY ATTENTION. THEN I HEARD THIS RADIO.

THIS IS DICK TRACY OF THE POLICE DEPARTMENT. GIVE US YOUR LOCATION AND GET AWAY FROM THERE!

THAT MAN HAS A TIME BOMB STRAPPED TO HIS BODY. JUST TELL US WHERE HE'S LOCATED.

OH, I'M SURE YOU MUST BE MISTAKEN! I SEE NOTHING STRAPPED TO HIS BODY, BUT HE'S BLEEDING BADLY!

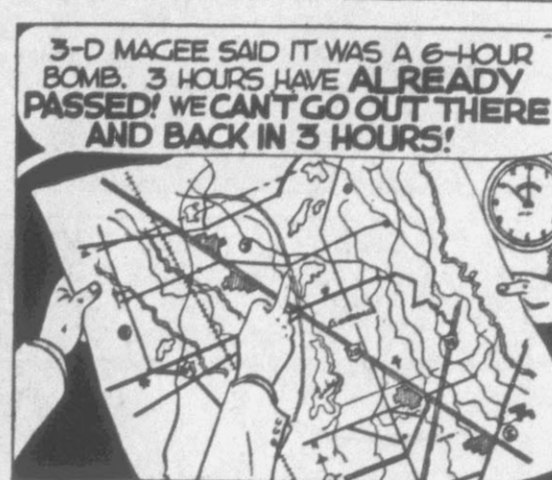

DO AS YOU'RE TOLD—POLICE ORDERS! NOW—WHAT'S YOUR LOCATION?

THIS IS THE SMITHLY ESTATE JUST NORTH OF MILLCREEK DAM. HE'S IN THE WOODED AREA OFF SHORE ROAD.

TRACY, IT'S A 2-HOUR DRIVE TO THAT PLACE. WE'VE GOT TO BRING HIM HERE TO THE X-RAY IN ORDER TO DEACTIVATE THE BOMB. THAT MAKES A FOUR-HOUR INTERVAL!

3-D MACEE SAID IT WAS A 6-HOUR BOMB. 3 HOURS HAVE ALREADY PASSED! WE CAN'T GO OUT THERE AND BACK IN 3 HOURS!

I HEARD WHAT YOU SAID. CAN I HELP BY DRIVING HIM INTO TOWN AND MEETING YOU?

WHAT ELSE CAN WE DO, TRACY? SHE'S GOT SOMETHING THERE! BUT A GIRL—

I'M NOT AFRAID. I CAN MEET YOU AT JUNCTION CORNERS. THAT'S ABOUT HALF WAY IN.

WHILE 3-D MACEE AND PONY SHOP—I'LL TAKE THAT ONE, TOO. GET A COUPLE MORE MONEY WERE LOADED.

The PHANTOM
By LEE FALK and WILSON M'COY

WHEN YOU FINISH THAT, MIRIAM, YOU CAN SWEEP OUT THE CAVE.

I'M AFRAID YOU'RE WORKING POOR MIRIAM TOO HARD.

NONSENSE, STEVE. IT'S DOING HER GOOD. AH, I'VE GOT ONE!

I WILL NOT CLEAN THESE FISH! I WILL NOT COOK THEM!

VERY WELL, I'LL DO IT. YOU DON'T HAVE TO. ALSO, YOU DON'T HAVE TO EAT THEM.

SNIFF~ SNIFF~ UMM~ THESE TROUT ARE DELICIOUS. YES~ THEY CERTAINLY ARE~

I'M SORRY I LOST MY TEMPER~ M~MAY I HAVE A FISH TO CLEAN~ AND COOK~ AND EAT?

I'M SORRY, TOO THEY'RE ALL GONE.

OH, STEVE~ HE'S SO MEAN TO ME~ AND I'M STARVING!

HERE, I BROUGHT YOU SOME FRUIT, AND HE DIDN'T SEE ME TAKE IT.

YOU'RE SO KIND, STEVE. AND I'VE BEEN SO MEAN TO YOU~ OH, I'VE BEEN SUCH A FOOL ALL MY LIFE~

YES, YOU HAVE. EAT THE FRUIT, DEAR.

RUSTY RILEY
By FRANK GODWIN

I THINK YOU'VE GOT THE IDEA NOW, RUSTY... BE BACK WITH THE HORSE TOMORROW AND WE'LL HAVE ANOTHER REHEARSAL BEFORE THE SHOW.

OKAY, MR. FIGGELY... THERE'S A BUTTON OFF THIS VEST... I'LL TAKE IT HOME AND GET PATTY TO SEW ONE ON.

AS LONG AS I'M GOING TO GET A BUTTON SEWED ON, I MAY AS WELL WEAR THESE CLOTHES HOME.

MEANWHILE, ON THE STAGE
TWEEDY, I THINK THAT PEARL NECKLACE IS WRONG FOR YOUR PART... YOU'RE SUPPOSED TO BE THE DAUGHTER OF A POOR HORSE TRAINER.

OF COURSE, HECTOR. I DIDN'T THINK... I'LL TAKE IT OFF.

SHE'S PUTTING THE PEARLS IN HER DRESSING ROOM!

WHAT A BREAK! THAT KID RUSTY HAS GONE HOME AND LEFT HIS JACKET AND CAP HERE!

A FEW MINUTES LATER AN ELECTRICIAN.....
THAT'S THE BOY THAT'S LOOKING AFTER THAT HORSE!

... AND A STAGE HAND...
NOW WHAT WOULD THAT KID BE DOIN' SNOOPIN' AROUND DRESSIN' ROOMS?

ON A DIRT ROAD NEAR MILESTONE FARM.
GOLLY! IT LOOKS LIKE THAT TRAILER IS IN TROUBLE.

CAN I HELP YOU, MISTER?
WELL, I DUNNO, SON... MY TRAILER'S IN A MUD-HOLE AND I CAN'T SEEM TO GET TRACTION ENOUGH TO PULL IT OUT.

DAWN ISN'T A WORK HORSE, BUT IF YOU HAVE A LITTLE ROPE AND A PIECE OF CANVAS, I BELIEVE SHE COULD PULL YOU OUT.

IT WOULD SURE BE A BIG FAVOR... I'M S'POSED TO BE IN ASHLAND FOR A CARNIVAL TONIGHT.

... AND BACK AT THE PLAYHOUSE
HELLO! THIS IS SHORTY... I'VE GOT THAT... YOU KNOW WHAT... YES, I'M IN THE CLEAR... DON'T COME HERE... I'LL SEE YOU AT JOE'S TAVERN ABOUT ELEVEN.

Local Red Cross To Hear Official

Donald W. Stout, director of several recent major Red Cross disaster operations and former Army lieutenant colonel, will be the guest speaker at the annual Pitt County Red Cross meeting here next Thursday evening, it was announced today.

According to County Chapter Chairman E. Hoover Taft, Jr., the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church will be the scene of the annual supper meeting this year. Taft set the time of the gathering at 6:45 p.m. and stated that civic and community leaders have been invited to attend.

D. W. STOUT

Among subjects for discussion will be a report summarizing Red Cross services to Pitt County during the past year. Stout, a veteran of many years association with the American Red Cross, first joined the organization in 1939 as a field representative. He entered the U.S. Army at the start of World War II and attained the rank of lieutenant colonel. He returned to Red Cross work following the war and is now serving as Southeastern Area Deputy Manager with headquarters in Atlanta.

While serving with the Midwest Area after his military service, Stout handled the direction of several major disaster operations, among them the Kansas City flood of 1951.

Members of the legislative and national affairs committee of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce met last night with E. C. Stevens, national affairs advisor of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce. During the discussion of national affairs, Stevens pointed out a number of important legislative matters which will be on the Congressional agenda when Congress convenes in January. Stevens urged members of the committee to keep abreast of pending legislation, and stressed the importance of keeping congressional representatives informed on views of the community about individual issues.

A major portion of the discussion last night centered around the proposed national sales tax, and other tax legislation which may be under consideration by Congress in its next session.

Stevens suggested to the committee it take periodical polls in the community to determine the feeling of the people on pending legislative matters, and forward the results of such polls to the district congressman and senators. He also suggested that the committee keep in closer contact with the district congressman.

Ercell S. Webb, chairman of the committee, presided at the meeting held at the Chamber of Commerce office.

THE SERIOUS AGE THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH There comes a time in the lives of most children when they lose interest in purely childish things and their minds turn to the serious side of life. When that happens, they lay aside their toys, begin to read something besides "story books," listen to the conversation of older people, and take pride in their ability to accomplish things. This is the borderland between childhood and youth. Parents should recognize these symptoms, and should endeavor to give the child the right slant on life. It is the period when characters are shaped. What better influence could be desired than that of religion? A knowledge of God, the influence and associations of the Church, the thoughts of great teachers—these are the foundations of character that will stand any test. Pete Raises Deer, Birds For Hobby

Posing for the camera are several of the deer which are being raised by Pete Jones, an Ayden man, as a hobby. At the present time Jones has ten deer in his fold, both young and old ones. (Reflector Photos by Roy Hardee)

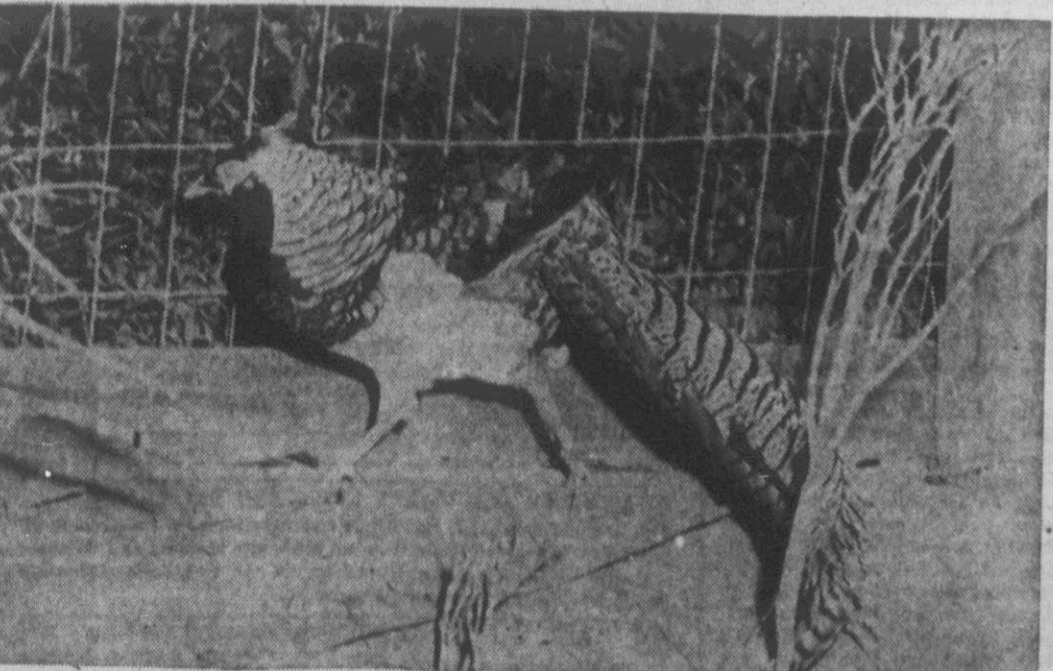

Rudolph the deer, that's the name of the fellow shown above. Alert and very active the sleek animals have to be confined in a high fenced-in area because of their ability to leap over most any obstacle.

Because an Ayden man failed to have any luck in hunting deer over a period of five years, Pitt Countians now can get close-up views of ten of the pretty animals by visiting the pasture land near Ayden where the animals are confined.

Birds are another part of the hobby of Pete Jones of Ayden. Quail, bob white, pheasants, and pea fowl don the yard of the Jones' residence.

Strutting back and forth, the pretty bird pictured above would not put on a display of ruffled feathers showing the full beauty of her multiple colored covering, but the beauty is still there.

real small, the goat use to get in fights with them and beat them up. They just haven't forgotten that, even though any one of the large deers could run the goat through with its horns easily," Pete said.

A deer is not considered full grown until it has reached the age of six years. The life span of a deer is figured to be between 10 and sixteen years.

Rudolf, is perhaps the more familiar deer to most visitors as he takes up more time with the sightseers than others. When the deer was small, Pete's smallest baby would be placed on its back and ride around. Now, with the deer large and partly grown, the little boy still refers to the deer as "My little Pony."

Now that would be enough for the average man, but not so for Jones.

He next turned to raising various types of birds.

Quail, bob white's and pheasants, fill the back yard of the man's house.

Raising of the small and pretty birds is quite different from the handling of the larger deer however.

The birds range in price from $2 up to $15 and $20 a pair for the more expensive.

Now he has well over 100 of the birds, but figures that he has lost a larger number than he has raised.

"A man has a lot to learn when raising quail and pheasant, and has to take his time. For anyone who wants to start out in this game I would suggest that they select one type of bird and raise those until they are familiar with their habits and likes and dislikes," he says.

All in all, though, Jones agrees that the deer and birds are a lot of fun to raise, even though trouble some some time and everyone seems to enjoy just looking at them and not forming a mental picture as to how they would appear roasted on someone's dinner table.

HOW TO SCRUB GAS
ROCHESTER, N. Y. (UP)—Scrubbing gas sounds about as easy as washing crime from the invisible man. Yet this is a process accomplished by the chemical industry today with the use of scrubber columns, according to engineers of the Pfaunder Co. Gases and vapors can be separated by introducing liquid at the top of the tower. This liquid absorbs corrosive impurities from the vapor mixture.

It is estimated that the United States consumes about twice as much oil and natural gas today as it did in 1940.

A Time To Stand Shoulder-To-Shoulder

Citizens of Greenville, Winterville, Ayden and Grifton won the first round of their struggle to keep on two bus schedules discontinued last week by the Carolina Coach Company. It's going to take a considerable amount of doing yet, however, before they are assured of retaining the bus schedules permanently.

When the citizens of those four communities set up a howl in letters and telegrams to the State Utilities Commission yesterday, the Commission and the bus company decided to resume two bus schedules serving the towns. At the same time the resumption of service was made on a temporary basis only until a hearing is held on the question.

And Who Deserves The Greater Pity?

Try as we might, there was a little story about a Korea veteran that won't be disclosed from our thoughts.

He had been a Communist prisoner; repatriated and returned to his home town. The homefolks had planned a celebration of sorts in his honor... and then the word got around he had been "converted" by his captors.

Both veterans' organizations of the community turned cold on proffering membership; the repatriated POW denied the stories, but was given a brush-off and the welcoming gesture fell flat.

Only a minor tragedy? No! It's a very important happening to his town, his state and even his country.

The soldier was found guilty on the basis of reports, rumors or gossip which the news story was unable to provide because of uncertain sources. Presumably no one knows how much truth lies behind them.

If there were grounds for the stories about the returned prisoner, they should have been backed up by real evidence.

There is a great gap between rumor, gossip or hearsay and the simple truth. That gap should have been filled before his former friends passed judgment.

We've felt right sad about that returned soldier; but perhaps his townspeople were deserving of more pity than he.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
POWER OF EXAMPLE

Piano tuners in convention recently issued an enthusiastic statement saying that piano playing is on its way back to a place of honor in the American living room. Singularly enough, these authorities are practically unanimous in saying that television is causing the old piano to have a second chance.

Here's how. When radio came in, it looked as if the piano was about through. People could listen to music skillfully played by others, so why learn to play? But when television came in, they actually saw, as well as heard, some of the greatest players in the world doing their stunts; and it aroused in thousands of people the desire to learn to play the piano. This is probably true of other instruments also. Examples of skill appear to be inspiring many young people to strive to be artists.

There is nothing else so potent as example. A little truth put into operation is better than the most commendable truth expressed only in rhetoric. Truth has to become personified before it really gets hold of us. For centuries God revealed His truth to men through law and precept, but the time came when He sent His final consummation, which was His Word (or Message) made flesh—that is, Jesus, "the way, the truth, and the life," becoming incarnate. When men saw the truth being acted out before them, they understood it.

National Whirligig

Faults They Find In Dewey

By RAY TUCKER

Every Saturday this veteran Washington newspaper correspondent devotes his column to answering readers' questions of general interest on national and international policies and personalities. Questions may be sent to Ray Tucker at 8508 Hillcrest Place, Chevy Chase, Md.

WASHINGTON—"Why is Governor Dewey so unpopular among the Republicans?" asks Mrs. M. L. of Mount Vernon, N. Y. "Several newspaper friends have told me that he is disliked, and now I notice the same suggestion in your column."

Answer: The anti-Dewey politicians consist of two groups, possibly more. The first, who have fought his nomination each time his name was presented to the Party and convention for the Presidential nomination, concede his great legal ability and political astuteness, especially his genius for organization. In fact, they hate him because of these talents.

THINK DEWEY ARROGANT—But they think him arrogant, conceited and supercilious. They feel that he has neglected them, forgetting that they have given him cause for neglect. The hard core of this opposition is found among the supporters of the late Senator Taft and his principles of government. They have never forgiven Dewey for beating out Taft for the 1944 nomination, or for his part in the Eisenhower triumph last year.

BLAMED FOR 1948 REVERSE—Another faction holds him responsible for the unexpected reverse in 1948, when he "smashed defeat from the jaws of victory" to use their comment. Instead of conducting an all-out attack on Truman's Fair Deal, the Albany man was so confident, so cocky that he parroted and accepted the Democratic platform. He deferred realization of Republican expectations for four years.

Finally, and sharpening these prejudices, Dewey suffers from the political taint and handicap of being held on the question. That means if the people of the communities involved are anxious to keep the bus schedules in question running, they are going to have to present facts and figures at the hearing to support their claim the schedules are of significance and importance in the public transportation between the communities.

Without question, the Pitt Communities got a break when it was decided in Raleigh the buses which had been discontinued by the company should be reinstated until the hearing takes place. Likewise, it is our opinion, advantageous to the communities that the hearing on the question of keeping the buses on a permanent schedule is to be held in Pitt County rather than Raleigh.

In managing to hang on to this portion of their bus service, Winterville, Ayden, Grifton and Greenville won the first round on the impending battle. We hope the concerted effort on the part of the four Pitt towns necessary to keep the bus schedules in question on a permanent basis will be forthcoming.

It is not a matter for any one of the four communities to undertake alone. It is a matter of importance to each of the communities and each will have to do its share in helping to show that the buses are of importance to its transportation facilities.

A Quality Not To Be Admired

Whether or not Miss Ronie Sheffield was justly discharged from her position as woman's prison director, the high-handed way in which Chairman A. H. Graham of the State Highway Commission handled the sham hearing for Miss Sheffield is not to be admired in any public official.

Graham was in the driver's seat and the hearing, and he knew it. If the get-together in Raleigh Friday of Graham and Miss Sheffield was supposed to really be a hearing as it was named in advanced billing, it was rendered a complete farce by Graham.

From our observations, the State Highway Chairman nipped the so-called "hearing" in the bud. He didn't budge an inch to make the meeting into a hearing.

Even though Graham's actions Friday leave a bad taste in our mouth, we don't mean to imply The Reflector does not believe Graham had the right to fire Miss Sheffield. As head of the Highway Commission he is the person who must assume that authority and exercise it to the best interest of the state as he sees it. Likewise it is his prerogative to grant or not grant a hearing to a person whom he fires from a job.

Nevertheless, after he had called a hearing in the Sheffield case, we believe he should have followed through and made it a fair hearing. The so-called hearing Friday, in our estimation, was merely going through the motions and making a sham out of fair play.

from New York. He is regarded as symbolic of the moneyed, selfish, internationalist East. Unfortunately, too, his natty dress, grooming and mannerisms reflect his regional background and associations.

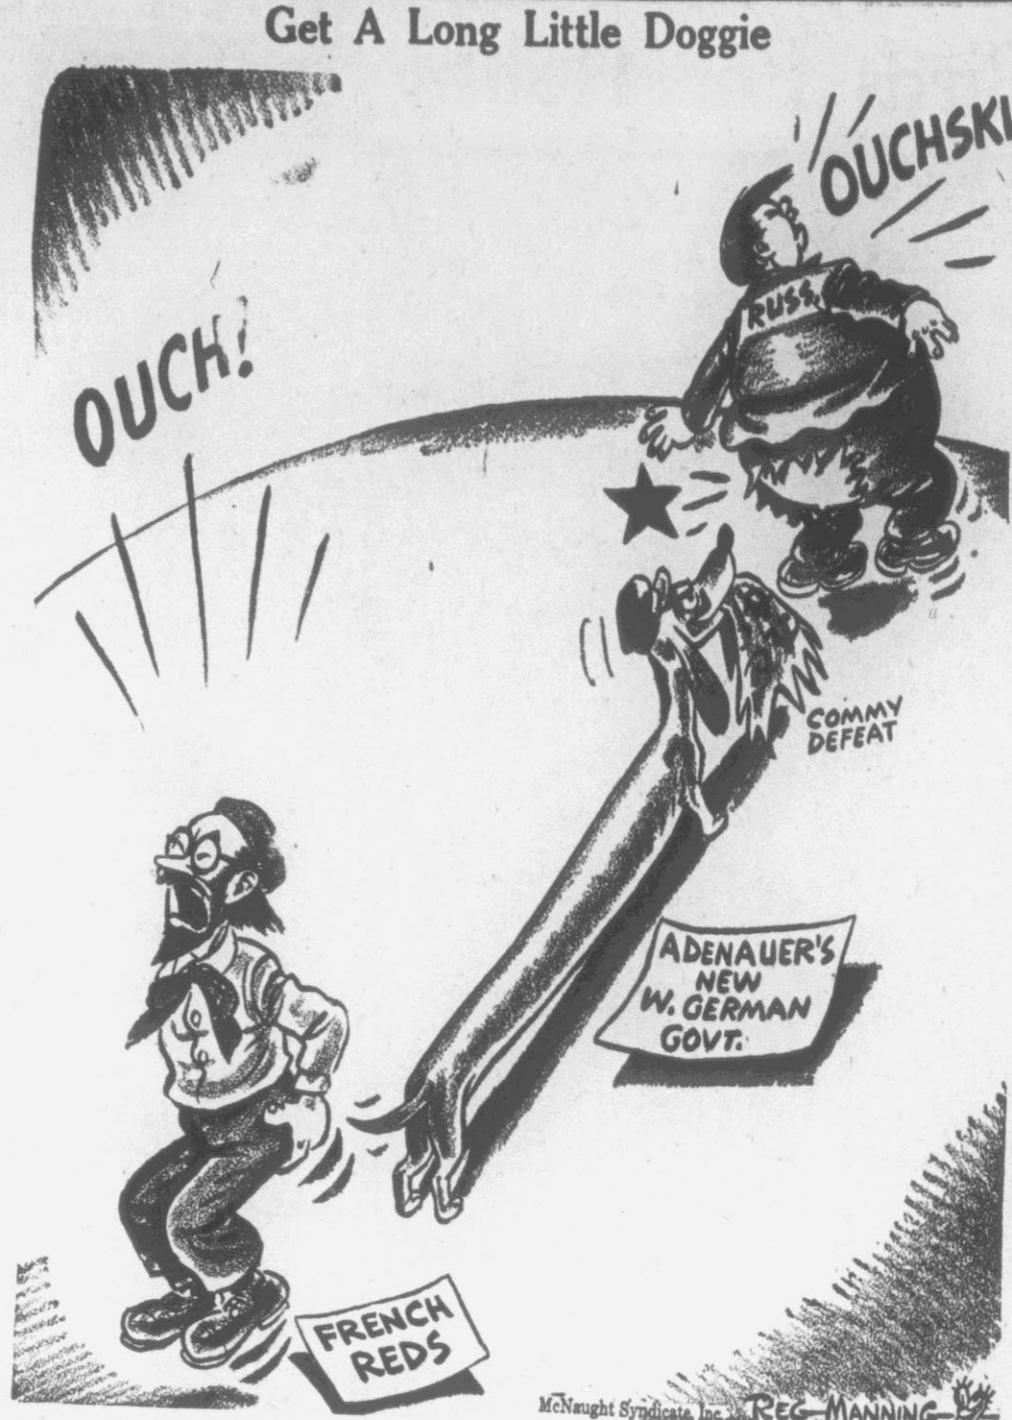

Let me add that I am trying to give an objective profile as it is viewed by his enemies, not necessarily by the writer.

WILL DURKIN'S RESIGNATION HURT EISENHOWER—"Do you think that Martin Durkin's resignation from the Cabinet, especially in view of his reasons for stepping out, will hurt President Eisenhower with organized labor?" inquires S. K. of Bridgeport, Conn.

Answer: I think that it will, although not with any great number. I do not believe that thousands or millions of workmen will permit such a relatively unimportant incident to influence their vote. Indeed, I do not believe that the question of repeal or modification of the Taft-Hartley Act is as important to labor as their well-paid, professional leaders make it out to be. The membership is interested in wages and hours and working conditions, which are excellent at the present moment.

BOTH AT FAULT—Durkin was a fine type of man, however, he was conscientious, fair-minded and hard-working. It is not helpful to any Administration for such an individual to walk out, especially when the other Cabinet members have been described as "eight millionaires." It gives a lopsided character to Ike's official household.

Both Durkin and Eisenhower were at fault, however. The plumbers' president never tried to straighten out intra-Cabinet differences over T-H revision with the President himself. He should have shown more patience in the negotiations. And Ike, as he has not done on several occasions, should have paid more personal attention to the handling of the labor disputes by his advisers. Ike is sometimes too casual.

Somebody Told Me Experiences In A Dog House

If you are a married man there's no doubt that you've been in the dog house a few times. If you never have been, you should get in at least once so that you can enjoy the time that you're out. It was almost two months ago when I landed deep in the dog house. Since then I have enjoyed looking back on the occasion and laughing about it. Fortunately, Wife Rachel laughs about it, too. A fishing trip did the trick. With no help and our two small children W. R. is practically stranded during the week. But on my afternoon off, Saturday, she gets the opportunity to go up town. That is, unless I'm fishing. On this Saturday I told Rachel, "Find a baby sitter for tonight and we'll go out to eat when I get back." "And what time will that be?" "At least by 8:30." "Are you sure?" "Positive." W. R. tried every baby sitter she knew without any success. And by 9:30 she was so hungry that she couldn't wait any longer. At 9:40, when I walked in, fire was shooting out of her nostrils. "Sorry you couldn't get a sitter," I said, but I'll go out and bring our supper back." "I've already eaten. A SANDWICH." And in her state of mind, that was plenty to eat. "Well," I said meekly, "I still have to eat." W. R. is really mild mannered, and if I had gone to a drive-in and eaten a hamburger it would have probably blown over. But instead, I eased out to the Country Club and ate a delicious filet mignon. Now I must admit that W. R. had some justification in her attitude. But I looked at it this way: I had to eat somewhere, so why not enjoy it? The idea of her eating a sandwich, waiting so long to eat, did enter the picture, however. It was the contrast that put me in the dog house. Was it worth it? If the fish had been hungrier and W. R. less hungry it would have been. And I thank you. JACK EDWARDS

What Other Editors Are Thinking

STAY SOUTH, YOUNG MAN — — — STAY SOUTH! (Rocky Mount Telegram) We congratulate the Southern Railway System for one of the cleverest bits of advertising we have seen in a long time. A young man in his late teens is shown sitting on a wall in front of a high school building. Beside him are his books. He is looking out over the nearby valley below. A freight train is rolling alongside a river. Across the river are the smoking-stacks of busy industry and a few office buildings. There are also shaded homes and a church steeple in the distance. In large type is the message: "Stay SOUTH, young man!" In smaller type is a message from Harry A. DeButts, president of the Southern: "It falls—and that means back to school again. "Perhaps this is your last year—so you'll bear down on the books a little more. You'll look ahead as you haven't before—pulling your dreams for the future out of the clouds and bringing them down to earth. "Hold fast to those dreams, young man. Stay South and see them come true! For right here at home, in the Southland you know and live in and love, a great, new 'opportunity land' is coming of age, where dreams can take root and grow into reality. "In Southern industry, agriculture and commerce, new frontiers are opening up on every hand. Here, horizons are limitless for young men of courage, competence and vision. You are the youth of the South today. You will be the leaders of the South tomorrow. "Look ahead—stay South, young man!" Giving special significance to this message is a boxed message alongside the letter, informing the reader that during the past twelve months, 356 new industrial constructions or major additions took place along the Southern Railway System alone, representing an investment of $544 million and giving employment to more than 22,000 workers. This is a timely message to young Southerners who, this year graduate from either high school or college—indeed it is a timely suggestion to all young Southerners. In the past, the South has suffered a hemorrhage of young talent as young men and women went North and West to seek greater opportunity and higher pay. That day has happily passed. Today, it is the South which is the nation's number one economic frontier—the "great new opportunity land." We are happy in the knowledge that in giving this advice to our young people we are giving them the best advice they could follow for their own happiness and well-being. "STAY SOUTH, YOUNG MAN — — — STAY SOUTH!"

Numerous Factors Limit Federal Aid To Drought Areas

By LYNN NISBET RELIEF — Federal aid for relief of drought victims is limited by numerous factors. Some of these limitations preclude chance of any help for many North Carolinians, afford insufficient relief for many others who can qualify for some assistance, and in every instance occasion uncertainty and disappointment. The State of North Carolina has been declared a "disaster" area by President Eisenhower under provisions of Public Law 875. It has also been classified by Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Benson as eligible for Federal aid under Public Law 115. The 875 law deals with civilian defense and embraces practically every activity. The 115 law deals only with making available at less than market price surplus feedstuffs owned by Commodity Credit Corporation for preserving foundation herds of cattle. It was made clear at Governor Umstead's press conference that the laws are not in conflict. It was equally clear that limitations in PL-115 deprive many North Carolina farmers of relief they had believed was available to them. LIMITATIONS — PL-875 is much broader in scope. Under its provisions the municipalities of Raleigh, Burlington, Roxboro and perhaps others obtained material for emergency water supply. There are possibilities for relief in other phases of State and local government activity where national defense may be involved. Major interest now centers in the application of PL-115. The scope of that law is narrow and the administrative rules set up by Washington agencies further restrict its application and reduce the relief obtainable. Procedure was explained at the press conference by Governor Umstead and by David S. Weaver, director of agriculture extension at State College, and Horace Godfrey, executive officer of the Production-Marketing Administration in North Carolina. NO GIFT — First of all, the act applies only to feedstuffs for cattle—cows, sheep and goats. It does not include swine and poultry. It does not provide for outright gifts or for loans; but merely reduces the purchase price on some types of feed owned by CCC, mainly corn, wheat and cottonseed meal. The relief element comes in the fact that those who can prove eligibility may buy these feeds at slightly more than half the prevailing market price. LOCALIZED — Eligibility to participate in the reduced price program is determined by a local committee composed of the county farm agent, the county PMA chairman, the Farmers Home Administration chairman, together with a farmer and a banker named by the three officials. The applicant for reduced price purchases must be able to show that he has less than 30 days feed supply on hand and that he cannot finance feed purchases in the open market without endangering his ability to stay in business. SCREENING — The eligibility of individuals to participate is not screened as closely as the designation of areas from which applications may be received. Procedure in that respect tends to further limit desired relief. It begins with the county, where a local committee surveys the conditions and recommends to the State Mobilization Committee. The State committee makes further check and recommends to the Governor whether or not the county should be included in relief requests. The Governor then transmits to the President and the Secretary of Agriculture the reports of the State committee. The Federal agencies then make their own investigations and in final orders may omit several areas recommended by the State committee and the Governor. It is conceivable that they might include some not recommended at State level—but that has not happened yet. The Federal folks cut off eight counties which had been approved by the North Carolina committee and qualified it. MIDDLEMAN — Governor Umstead told reporters that he had received several requests to include counties in his recommendations to the President which had not been approved by the State committee. He had also received some criticism because some recommended by the State committee had not been included in the disaster area accepted by the Secretary of Agriculture. He asked the reporters to explain to all the people just how the matter is handled. That was the first time since he became Governor he had asked the newsmen to do anything other than stick to facts and to be sure they quoted him correctly when they attributed statements to him. In this instance he obviously wanted the people to know that he is in the position of a middleman messenger, without any semblance of authority. For instance, he had wired President Eisenhower the recommendations of the State committee

Business Today Sales Show Gain

By ELMER ROESSNER Department store sales so far this year have been about 4 per cent above the same period last year, according to Federal Reserve Board figures. The gains have been fairly level, both by departments in stores and by stores in regions. In its department-by-department report for the first seven months of the year, the Federal Reserve shows one gain of 13 per cent (women's neckwear and scarves) and one departmental loss of 11 per cent (linoleum), a comparatively narrow range. All the major subdivisions made gains; it was only in the smaller departments and subdivisions that sales failed to top last year's record. The declines include silk, velvet and synthetic piece goods, down 7 per cent; laces, trimmings, embroideries, ribbons down 2 per cent; millinery, down 1 per cent; women's and children's gloves, down 4 per cent; women's and children's hosiery, down 3 per cent; furs, down 6 per cent; lamps and shades, down 1 per cent; radios, phonographs and televisions, down 10 per cent; luggage, down 2 per cent. Base-ment store totals were only 1 per cent above a year earlier, with five departments showing moderate declines and 12 showing gains.

NATIONAL SALES TAG NEAR ADVERTISING PERCENTAGE Printers' Ink's final figures show investments in advertising totaled $7,149,700,000 in 1952. The figure is equal to 4.3 per cent of total retail sales, and 2.0 per cent of the gross national product. If the proposed national sales tax is put through at a 4.5 or 5 per cent rate, we will be hard put to explain to those men from Mars why we are spending 4.3 per cent of the price to sell goods and then are levying a 4.5 or 5 per cent tax that is certain to reduce sales. FAILURE IN FUTURE TO COST MORE "Business mistakes in the future will bear a higher price tag," Norman Strunk, executive vice-president of the United States Savings and Loan League, told the Illinois affiliate. He said under the Government's sound money policy, there will no longer be "continuous inflation to erase the mistakes of the past." SOCKS GET BOOST AS CHRISTMAS GIFTS One-size socks will probably get a tremendous boost this Christmas. People who have hesitated to buy socks for male friends because they didn't know the sizes can now buy all they want. Both retailers and manufacturers report that the socks with the stretchable feet are growing in popularity; some manufacturers say it is only a question of time until the majority of men's socks are made in the new construction. ATOM DEFENSE PROGRAM COULD HALT DECLINE The only economic stimulus powerful enough to stop the predicted downturn of business would be a gigantic new program of civilian and industrial defense against atomic attack, according to Information, a weekly newsletter published by Prentice-Hall. From a political standpoint, it says, an atomic defense program against Russian attack is about the only major anti-recession program with any chance of Congressional approval.

Regionally, there were also relatively few swings during the first seven months. The Detroit area—there being fewer strikes this year—was 11 per cent ahead of last, and the Lowell-Lawrence area in Massachusetts was up 10 per cent. The only areas to fall to meet last year's marks were Washington, D.C., down 1 per cent, and downtown Washington, down 4 per cent, probably due to government firings and fear of them; Augusta, Ga., down 4 per cent, simply because it didn't duplicate the frantic Savannah River atomic plant boom of last year; New York City, down 2 per cent; Jacksonville, Fla., down 1 per cent; Fort Worth, down 2 per cent, and San Diego, down 3 per cent.

Easy Exits From A Dog House

By HAL BOYLE NEW YORK (AP)—Getting out of the dog house to many married men today is no longer an adventure. It is a way of life, a career in itself. It should be taught in high school. As a fellow has no limits to the ways he can stumble into the doghouse, so there are any number of ways out—if he doesn't mind crawling. And a husband who does object to crawling is just a man with a prejudice against exercise and fresh air. The average doghouse is a small cramped affair, no bigger than the ordinary wife's mind. You don't really need a road man to guide you out. But how does a man escape from a marital doghouse? The oldest and simplest way to make a wife forget your errors is to bribe her. Is she a nature lover? Then send her flowers to soften her heart-well, anyway one flower. Start with a free dandelion. If that doesn't make butter melt under her chin, get her a rose. If necessary, even rent an orchid and lend it to her. A gal can't help loving a guy who is reckless with his money. Same way if she has a sweet tooth. If you can't thaw her out with a stick of licorice or warm her up with a nickel candy bar, don't hesitate to borrow a couple of cups of sugar from a neighbor to make her fudge. Try to convince her you don't just go around making fudge for every girl. Another way to get out of the doghouse is to sit silent and un-answering in it, as if you were unable to comprehend such a tragedy as being out of your wife's favor. This will force her to reopen negotiations for your release, as no wife can long live in a house without an audience. Yet another method used by old-fashioned husbands who have a wife still able to read and write is to leave little cajoling notes in her nylon stockings, such as: "If it weren't for you, dear, you know what I would be? Just a miserable, old bachelor with nobody to tell me right from wrong." A few love letters like that, and any wife would be glad to give you an exit visa from the doghouse. Of course, an even quicker way out is to let her hear you as you "phone your lawyer: "Kim, drop by my kennel, will you? I want to change my will, and leave all my money to my wife. I've decided to make my dog the executor. However will make her bark for her money." But the best way of all to get out of the doghouse is for a fellow to furnish it with an easy chair and chintz curtains and hang a sign on the closed door, saying: "Do not disturb." That is something no wife who has put her husband in the doghouse can stand—to watch him humming and happy in exile. Rather than see him enjoy himself, she will even forgive him. Nothing worries a man more than the sight of a man having fun all by himself—without her. And that is why no husbands ever need stay in the doghouse forever.

Tomorrow's Gardens

TOMORROW'S GARDENS,
by
The Greenville Garden Club
Business firms usually take inventory in January but for amateur gardeners, September is a perfect time. Here in the closing weeks of a hot dry summer we may see clearly just what has happened to our gardens and our yards.

If we were away or even if we were home but still failed to water everything regularly, we now may see just what can stand neglect. Probably some shrubs have died. Some which looked serene and brown a week or two ago may lose those leaves and put out new ones. Don't give them up too quickly.

Camellias and some other evergreens have suffered also. If they look completely dead, cut back a portion of the branches. If any green shows inside, the shrub has a good chance to pull through. Keep it watered, spraying the top as well as soaking the roots. Sometimes a bush, and other broad leaved evergreens, if cut back to a few inches above the ground will put out new growth and in a very short time make a beautiful shrub.

The grass which grew in and around the azaleas looks unsightly, but by shading the plants it doubtless has saved many of them. Don't let it go to seed but while the weather is still hot don't pull the grass out too vigorously. You will disturb the tender, surface roots of the azaleas and do more harm than the grass roots.

Check the roses to see whether any long luxuriant branches are coming out below the knob which shows where the rose was budded. These are from the strong wild rose stock on which the rose was grafted and will soon destroy the rose you want. Cut them off and cut again if necessary.

This is the time to see what plants we find really worthwhile for our purpose. If most of the summer we had better eliminate the ones which can't stand some punishment. Those shrubs which should be green and healthy should be able to "take" almost anything.

This too is a good time to see what mulches have done for the garden. In one garden a rose bed mulched thick with peanut hulls has come through the summer beautifully. Azaleas buried deep in oak leaves and pine straw are a rich healthy green although they have been exposed to full sun. The same is true of camellias.

By this time most people believe in mulches, although a few still like the ground swept clean for neatness. We like to follow nature's plan and repeat the wisdom which protects young growing things with blankets of fallen leaves and surrounding trees and shrubs with a soft light covering of pine needles and bark and other refuse of the woodland.

At a dinner meeting attended by graduate students and members of the graduate faculty, he stressed support of the 50 million dollar bond issue for better schools which will be submitted to the vote of the people October 3. "We cannot afford not to pass it," he declared.

"Two things," he told his audience, "are needed in a democracy: reliance on God and an educated citizenry." An inadequate school system will not provide an educated citizenry, he said.

Dean Jenkins outlined present emergency conditions in the public schools of the state. Too few classrooms exist to house the rapidly expanding school population of North Carolina, he said, and many existing buildings are unfit for use. In many schools equipment is poor, he explained, and does not meet the requirements of effective instruction.

Specifically, he stated, North Carolina needs 7,783 new classrooms to meet the needs of its children. A quarter million boys and girls, he explained, are now crowded into inadequate or sub-standard classrooms. These facts, he said, were revealed by the 1953 fall enrollment in schools of the state.

Equipment in many North Carolina schools, he continued, does not meet modern educational standards; and thousands of children are enrolled in schools which have no auditorium, no gymnasium, and no lunchroom.

Only a portion of the school boys and girls in North Carolina, he continued, attend schools which have libraries, shops for vocational training, and science and home economics laboratories.

"The need to assure better education for our young people is urgent," Dean Jenkins concluded. "The issuance of 50 million dollars in bonds for public school improvements will go far toward guaranteeing a better future for our children and a brighter educational outlook for our state."

Love Letters On Side Of Train

DORTMUND, Germany (UP)—Police said today they had often watched a young railway worker chalking love messages on the side of westbound freight cars. One day he wrote "Do you love me?" and another time, "See you Saturday."

He was also seen watching eastbound trains, sometimes smiling, sometimes frowning. Police finally learned the railway worker's girl friend worked a few stations up the line. The lovers were communicating by freight car. Their names were not released.

An ancient church custom, the "Blessing of the Animals," is still observed in several countries, including the United States.

Bethel Sweet Potato Market Opens Today

BETHEL—The Bethel auction market for the sale of sweet potatoes opened today, the earliest opening date since the market was established.

The board of directors at a recent meeting contacted buyers and satisfied themselves that a full set of buyers would be on the market when it opens.

Rev. J. P. Harris, founder of one of the freezer locker in Bethel, the first in Pitt county, and organizer of the Bethel sweet potato auction market, said large yields of sweet potatoes are anticipated. He quoted nurture Christian growth among its sweet potatoes this season.

The Velvet Hand

By HELEN REILLY

CHAPTER TWENTY-FOUR
IT WAS through Miriam that Anita had come to Denfield. She kept in touch with Anita on account of the child, and Anita wanted to bring Bobby up in the country. Her object was to keep him from all contact with his father, and for a long time Pedrick didn't know he had a son, or where Anita was. Then he found out. "I didn't tell him," Miriam said. "I don't know how he traced her, but he did."

McKee said drily: "Your brother knew she had money from her first husband, Oliver Stewart."
Miriam's family pride, what was left of it, roused. She didn't think it was only the money. Anita had abandoned her brother and she didn't like it after all. She was still his wife. Anita had tried to get a divorce in the beginning and then had dropped the idea, afraid of the publicity. Miriam ended up by saying that Pedrick had had nothing to do with what happened to Libby. He didn't even find out that she was missing until Kit and Hugo Cavanaugh went to Eleanor Oaks' apartment two days after Libby vanished; Miriam was very definite about that.

This agreed with McKee's own findings. He dropped the notebook in which he had been doodling into his pocket. Someone, a man, had entered the hall quietly. He appeared between the glass doors, paused there.

It was Pedrick himself, tall and elegant and unfringed. They all stared, dumbfounded. Miriam gazed white as her brother across the length of the room. Fear, and black, shaking anger; she got her breath. "Sam! How dare you come here?"

Pedrick surveyed her, and waved an airy hand. "Mim," he murmured in his soft voice, "don't get excited. This is not a social call." He turned to McKee. "I understand you've been inquiring for me, Inspector and one of your minions told me you were here."

McKee nodded. Pedrick was looking the room over. "Won't you introduce me, Miriam?" he said. "Philip was on his feet. He spoke to McKee. "I can't very well call the police inspector, as you're already here. Would you be kind enough to remove this gentleman and conduct your business with him elsewhere?"

Pedrick laughed. He turned indifferently, with another wave of his hand, and then he and the inspector were both gone.

Philip sat down again. He looked at Miriam compassionately and started to say something. She said: "No," and got up like a zombie and walked out of the room and up the stairs.

Gazing after her, Libby said in a low voice: "That horrible, horrible man! He hates us—you can see he does."
McKee hadn't failed to notice the air of satisfaction, of complacency in Pedrick inside the Haven house. He considered the man thoughtfully as they crossed the terrace together. It was as though Pedrick had come here to put something to the test, and was satisfied with the result. Haven was, at the moment anyhow, a rich man. Was Pedrick planning to move in and take over where the original extortioners left off? He had certainly questioned Anita Stewart about the Havens, in detail—and idle curiosity was not a failing of his.

Eleanor Oaks was in the yellow convertible parked beyond the maples. McKee paused outside the gate. He said to Pedrick: "You were up here in Denfield last night. You called Tony Wilder at the inn over a local phone, using a disguised voice."
Pedrick eyed him. His glance was faintly humorous. "Sorry, Inspector. Mr. Wilder is not a favorite of mine. I was up here in Denfield all right. I wanted to talk to my wife again about our boy. I didn't call Wilder at the inn, or anywhere else."

Pedrick waited for the next question, but McKee turned away. "Inspector?"
"Yes?" McKee paused.

"As I said, I may have to leave town on business, so if there is anything else—?"
The man wanted to see whether he was under active suspicion or whether he had a free foot. Let him think he had and then, perhaps—

"Go ahead, Mr. Pedrick. There is nothing else," McKee got into his own car and trailed the convertible down the hill past the ranch house Mrs. Stewart was in a nursing home in Danbury and out of her husband's reach. The Scotsman thought about her; he wasn't, at that point, prepared to give her a completely clean bill of health. She was wrapped up in her boy and would do almost anything to insure his future—and $25,000 was a sizeable sum. She was not affluent. He had examined her bills and cheque book, and Pedrick had been bleeding her.

Pedrick was turning into the Merritt parkway. McKee kept him in view until he went through the next toll gate. Stopping there himself, he got the highway patrol and then his office. Carter answered. McKee said he wanted an around-the-clock on Pedrick. "Put Brown and Trebrough on him, have one of them pick him up at the city line. I'll be absent presently." He continued on his way.

That was on Wednesday. In Denfield the rest of that day and the next were quiet. For a change the Havens were by themselves. There were no threats, no terrifying phone calls. The troopers stationed in the grounds, one by day and two by night, kept in the background as far as possible and reported nothing stirring.

Libby had resumed her work, for Philip, who wrote until 11, dictated until 1, and after lunch went on for another hour or two. The time hung heavy on Kit's hands. She longed to get away but the inspector had said: "Stick around for a while if you can," and she didn't begin her new job for almost another week. Besides, Libby wanted her to stay.

On Friday morning Miriam came down for the first time since the scene on Wednesday afternoon. She appeared at 10 o'clock while Libby and Kit were havingiced coffee on the terrace and said she was going into the village to post some letters, wanted to know if she could do anything for either of them. She took the path across the fields, and Kit was watching her distant figure recede when Libby, who had gone inside, came running out, white-faced.

"Philip's not in his study," she cried: "Where can he be—at this hour? He always goes straight there. His typewriter's covered. He didn't go to work..." She was shaking.

Kit laughed at her. "Libby, for heaven's sake pay attention. I'm afraid, Kit, I'm afraid!" Her eyes were wild.

It came out then. The voice on the phone that had told Libby not to go to the police had said other things. It hadn't only threatened her, it had threatened Kit and Philip. It had said horrible things. Philip's arrival a few minutes later allayed Libby's fright momentarily, anyhow. He had been walking about in the orchard with a gun. "Come on, Libby—let's get going before I lose the thread."

Tony Wilder was still at the inn in the village. It was Friday, and William would be coming for the weekend. George had said over the phone he'd be up, and Kit was glad he was going to be there.

She had left Hugo Cavanaugh out of her calculations and it was Hugo who arrived first. Kit didn't know he was there until she saw him on the grounds. The afternoon had turned warmer and she had changed into white tissue gingham. When she came downstairs at 4 Philip was alone in the living-room. Kit said: "I thought you were still working. Where's Libby, do you know?"

Philip said: "She went to get some of what I believe she calls swamp tris."
"I thought we might have a game of croquet," and went quickly outside. Beyond the tennis court the ground, covered with small pines, went down steeply into a little glen with a pond at the bottom of it. Libby was down there and Hugo was with her. Their heads and shoulders were visible above clumped alder bushes. They were facing each other. Hugo's hands were on Libby's shoulders. Her face was lifted. Hugo was looking down at her and talking rapidly. He seemed to be pleading with Libby.

Kit turned her back, started to climb—and saw William. He was in among the trees to the right, and a little higher up. He was so engrossed, was watching Hugo and Libby so steadily, that he didn't see her. Kit walked on. Hugo was probably asking Libby to marry him. Surely she couldn't hesitate between Hugo and Tony Wilder.

Half an hour later, for something to do, Kit was watering the flowers in the border against the stonewall when Hugo came up. He took the hose from her and said: "Kit! I want to talk to you."
Kit didn't want to talk to him. She turned away. Hugo threw the hose on the ground and grasped one of her wrists. She tried to wrench clear. "No you don't," he said. "You're going to listen to me." Now he had both her wrists.

The inspector was there, a few feet away, looking at them. He hadn't made any noise crossing the garden. He spoke, and the sky darkened for Kit.

Richardson moved the ball right back to the 24. From there Bullet Bill tossed a high spiral which Underwood took on the dead run for a TD. The extra point attempt was muffed but the Bulldogs had enough points to win.

Richardson Scores
The insurance touchdown was set up when end Jerry Richardson returned an intercepted pass to the 30. On the next play Aycock found the big end in the open and flipped the ball to him. Richardson took off for the goal line but was hit by three Greenville players on the 15. Richardson, somehow, squirmed away from the would-be tacklers and pranced across into paydirt to wrap up Fayetteville's touchdown parade. Underwood kicked the point and then the Bulldogs settled down to holding back the Phantoms.

The Fayetteville defense was so thorough that the Phantoms never moved the ball any deeper than the Bulldog 40 yard line. With center Bill Price sparking the play they held the Greenville team to a net of 92 yards rushing with fullback Bobby Langston picking up 56 of those on 13 carries. Halfback Bob Howell got 21 yards in nine tries.

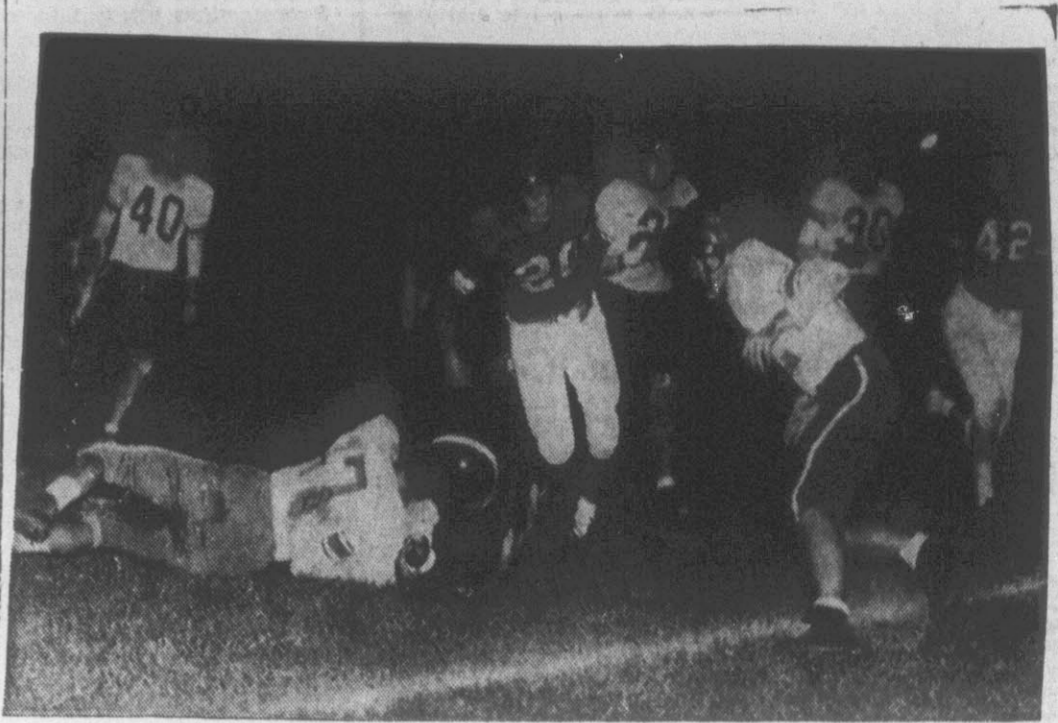

All-State candidate James Speight was thoroughly bottled up by the Bulldogs and never broke away for a gain of more than a few yards.

The Phantoms' tough defensive line wavered more than ever last night in giving up 144 yards rushing to the Bulldogs. Tackle Dixie Hobgood and end Bobby Conway led the play for the Phantoms.

The Phantoms will move to Kinston next Friday night to meet their arch-rival in Northeastern Conference play, the Kinston Red Devils. The Phantoms have won their only conference outing, a 44-0 victory over the Jacksonville Cardinals a week ago.

FAYETTEVILLE'S DANNY UNDERWOOD gets a grip on Langston as the Phantom fullback takes off on another pitchout. Coming up in the rear, too late to help Langston is Billy Arnold (66) and Pat Sawyer (64) while tackle Dixie Hobgood (80) moves in from the right. Fayetteville's Jimmy White (32) is the Bulldog moving in to assist Underwood on the tackle. (Reflector Sports Photo by Jimmy Ellis)

BOBBY LANGSTON, fullback for the Greenville Phantoms, is brought down by Fayetteville's Jerry Richardson (17) after a pitchout from quarterback Jerry Drum (20). Mills Passes Chicod Team To Second Win Of Season

Salesman, Sailor In Amateur Finals

CHICOD — The Chicod Hornets, behind the needle-threading passing of Captain J. T. Mills, took their second victory of the season by defeating Whitakers 41-27 in a six-man football game.

Mills passed to end Bobby Fornes for three touchdowns and to end Billy Cooper for another in addition to running for one touchdown of his own. Cooper also added a six-point pass on a 65-yard return of an intercepted pass.

Whitakers scored two touchdowns on end runs by halfback C. C. Weeks. A pass from quarterback Baker to end Lancaster accounted for their third score, and a last-minute pass from Alford to Baker wrapped up the scoring.

Curley Mills, Jessie Mills, and Jerry Gaskins sparked a tough Chicod defense that kept Whitakers fairly well bottled up. The defensive line kept the Whitakers ground game contained and limited the visitors' gain to passing yardage.

Chicod will travel to Elm City next Friday for its next game. The Hornets opened their season last week with an 18-13 victory over Rock Ridge.

Farmville Romps To 40-0 Victory

FARMVILLE — The Farmville Red Devils romped to their second victory of the season by trouncing South Edgecombe 40-0 here yesterday. Fullback Jesse Joyner, a 145-pound speedster, sparked the victory by scoring three touchdowns.

Joyner started his personal touchdown parade in the first quarter when he romped around end for 38 yards. He followed that TD with a 25-yard dash on a handoff and then rested until the fourth period when he came across with a 50-yard broken-field dash that brought the crowd to its feet.

In between Joyner's touchdown romps Teddy Allen scored once from 15 yards out and quarterback Sigbee Childs sneaked across from 20 yards out. Curtis Worthington ended the scoring with a six-yard plunge in the closing minutes of the game.

Carroll Wooten added extra points after the first three and the last touchdowns.

Jimmy, Dick, and Jack Allen, the left side of the Farmville defensive line, sparked the Red Devils' on defense. Joyner, Ted Allen and Childs led the offensive parade.

For South Edgecombe, left halfback Aycock led the offense and defense. Webb also stood out on defense while fullback Craft turned in some good running.

Farmville, unbeaten, untied and unscored on in its first two games, will travel to Morehead City next Friday night.

Furillo, Hodges Fit For Starting Roles

NEW YORK (UP) — Outfielder Carl Furillo and first baseman Gil Hodges, key sluggers in Brooklyn's modern version of "Murderers Row," were declared "definitely fit" today to be in the starting lineup when the Dodgers meet the New York Yankees in the first game of the World Series.

Manager Charley Dressen, still chipper after scouting the four-time world champion Yankees, announced that Furillo would return to action when the Dodgers meet the Philadelphia Phillies in their final series of the season beginning next Friday.

And Hodges himself laughed off speculation that he might miss the big series when he insisted he "could play today if necessary."

"Furillo'll be ready," the cocky Dressen predicted. "He'll bat in that Philadelphia series against Robin Roberts, Curt Simmons and probably Bob Miller and don't tell me that won't make him ready for those Yankee pitchers."

Furillo was less confident than Dressen but seemed more concerned with recovering his batting eye than worried about his actual condition.

"It can take time to get back in stride after a layoff," said Furillo, who leads the National League with a .344 batting average. "I'm pretty sure I'll be able to play but I don't know how well."

Furillo has blasted out 21 homers and knocked in 93 runs while Hodges has collected 31 homers, driven in 120 runs and walloped the ball at a .303 clip during the regular season. Both are eager to atone for poor showings in last year's series with the Yankees — Furillo having hit only 200 while Hodges set an all-time series mark for futility when he failed to hit safely in 21 appearances.

Alabama Loses 25-19 In First Big Upset

The 1953 college football season was ushered in today with one of the biggest upsets in a quarter century — little Mississippi Southern's stunning 25-19 conquest of Orange Bowl champion Alabama.

Scheduled as a "breather" for the 61-6 conquerors of Syracuse in last New Year's Day's Florida classic, the Hattiesburg, Miss., school with a male enrollment of only 1,460 rose behind speedy Lauren Pepper to spring the season's first shocker at Montgomery, Ala., Friday night.

Coached by former University of Mississippi star Thad (Pie) Vann, Mississippi Southern compiled a 10-2 record last season but was not regarded as one of the country's powerhouses this year. But it demonstrated Friday night that, in this new era of "one platoon per team," the larger schools will no longer be able to overwhelm the little fellows with sheer weight of numbers.

That was the contention of the athletic directors of the "little fellows" who supported the return to the "one platoon" system and it took no longer than the season's first day to demonstrate its truth.

For it was the two-platoon act, the customized Crimson Tide that wilted in the last period as the 28-point underdogs tallied two touchdowns against the second-stringers. Alabama's starters, unaccustomed to playing both on offense and defense, simply tired after three periods and the substitutes could not hold the fort.

Pepper, 195-pound halfback and ex-soldier, hammered away at the tiring Tide for 115 yards and two touchdowns to spark the victory.

Most of the other favorites came through as expected Friday night — Detroit routing North Dakota State, 33-6; Furman downing Newberry, 33-0; Temple, led by Jack Hadley's two touchdowns, walloping Albright, 34-0; and Youngstown beating Bowling Green, 20-7.

Among the national powers in action today, Georgia Tech is shooting highest and seems safest — begging Mississippi Southern's pardon. Tech, which had an 11-0 record in 1952, will be shooting to extend a string of 26 straight victories to do so against Davidson.

In the East, interest centers around the star intersectional attraction at Philadelphia which pits Villanova against Georgia and is expected to draw close to 100,000 fans. Villanova's Gene Filippski and Georgia's Zeke Bratkowski are spotlighted in a personal duel of widely-heralded backs in this encounter.

The three outstanding contenders for the Southwestern Conference crown also will be in action — veteran Rice opposing Florida, Baylor taking on California and Texas meeting LSU. In addition, still another Southwest Conference team, Texas A&M, will be playing Kentucky.

Jim Tatum's Maryland squad, big and deep enough as usual to rank among the best in the country, opens against Missouri; Pacific Coast Conference champion Southern California faces Washington State and powerful Duke opens the new Atlantic Coast Conference schedule against South Carolina in other games of major stature.

In addition, the NCAA television game of the day—the one certain to be viewed by the biggest crowd — sends Oregon against Nebraska at Lincoln, Neb. It's billed as a battle between the passing of Oregon's George Shaw and the running of Nebraska's Johnny Bordogna.

Braves Set Sights On Two New Goals

MILWAUKEE (UP) — The Milwaukee Braves were set for the start of their final home series of the season today with two goals in mind—second place in the National League and a new league attendance record.

The Braves needed only two more victories to clinch a second-place finish, and they could turn the trick before their home town fans in the three-game series with Cincinnati this weekend.

The Braves were scheduled to play the Redlegs in a single game today and a double-header Sunday.

Milwaukee needs only 49,623 paid admissions in the two remaining home dates to set a new all-time National League attendance mark, even though it is the first year for Milwaukee in the senior loop since the club was moved from Boston because of a lack of patronage.

Brooklyn set the current league attendance record in 1947 with 1,807,526. The Braves already have drawn 1,757,904 and would have broken the record some time ago if the new County Stadium had more seats. Thousands of fans have been turned away on sell-outs because of a lack of space.

Hornsby May Seek New Kind Of Job

CHICAGO (UP) — Rogers Hornsby, a professional baseball manager who can't seem to hold a steady job, said today he might like to try a new line of work.

"I don't know much about anything but baseball," he said, "but I'd be willing to learn."

Hornsby, who has been a baseball manager more times than some players have been on third base, was interviewed at the Edgewater Beach Hotel. He said he plans to stay at the hotel for awhile. He didn't know how long.

He was asked if he had received any job offers since getting fired from the Cincinnati Redlegs Thursday.

"Nah," he said. "Give me time." He laughed. "If you hear anything, let me know."

Hornsby, who has managed the St. Louis Browns, the Chicago Cubs, the St. Louis Cardinals, the Boston Braves and several minor league clubs, said money wasn't the big consideration in getting another job.

He said he'd be drawing a salary until Jan. 1, and "I guess I can eat hamburgers for awhile."

Durham—Eddie Cameron, Duke athletic director, is head of the Committee on Basketball and the Committee on Track and Cross-Country in the new Atlantic Coast Conference.

Eppes Loses 13-0 To Rocky Mount

A substitute halfback cracked through a stubborn Eppes High School defense last night to tally twice and lead Booker T. Washington High School of Rocky Mount to a 13-0 victory over the Bulldogs.

Tyler Branca was the sub doing what the first-string was unable to do through the contest last night. He broke through Eppes' line twice in the fourth quarter.

Eppes' defensive unit, sparked by Brewington, Tyson, Tucker, DuPre, and Williams held the Rocky Mount team throughout the contest except for Branca's two touchdowns runs. Clarence Williams sparked the Eppes offense.

Announcer Also Is A Prize Cook

TEXARKANA, Tex. (UP)—Radio sports announcer George Dobson, 24, goes in for baking as well as for football and baseball.

He won the blue ribbon in competition with women bakers from Arkansas, Oklahoma, Louisiana and Texas for a "beautiful, tasty sponge cake."

SHOULD BE BIGGER
CHAPEL HILL — Coach George Barclay of the University of North Carolina football team predicts his star halfback, Flo Worrell of Wilmington, will add 10 pounds as a result of having nine bad teeth extracted. Worrell usually weighs around 185.

Penney Confirms Southern Request For ACC Status

COLUMBIA, S. C. (UP) — The president of the Atlantic Coast Conference, J. M. Penney, confirmed reports that Mississippi Southern, which started the football world last night with a 25-19 win over highly-ranked Alabama, has applied for membership in the ACC.

But Dr. James T. Penney still declined to discuss the identity of two other schools seeking admission to the new conference formed last spring when seven larger schools pulled out of the top-heavy Southern.

According to persistent rumors, Kentucky is seeking to bolt the Southeastern Conference and gain admission to the Atlantic Coast. But Penney denied last week that any of the three applications came from schools now in the SEC.

Florida State University is believed to be the other school that has applied for ACC membership, but Penney and other officials have declined to confirm the report.

Rams Open Season

ROBERSONVILLE — The Robersonville Rams will open their 1953 season tonight in Kinston against Contentnea High School.

Directed by Coach R. B. Lee the Rams are favored over their Lenoir County opponent. Contentnea is coached by Mickey Weatherington.

The game will be played in Granger Park.

One Losing Season — Durham—Since 1929 when Duke had a 4-6 record, the school had only one "losing" football season. That came in 1946 when the club won four and lost five, the first year under Wallace Wade after his return from World War II.

Psychologist For Footballers

LONDON (UP)—The Edgeware town football team had a secret weapon today designed to give it an initial victory.

Just before the game with Ranelagh today each player was visited by psycho-therapist J. Sparrow to be hypnotized.

"My idea is to bring out the latent ability in the Edgeware players," Sparrow said.

Eight Shrine Bowlers

Same Birthdays

Durham—Doug Knotts, a center and Harry Conner, a tackle, both sophomores were born on the same day, July 29, 1934. Two more sophs, tackle Marty Rose and halfback Dale Boyd, were born January 27, 1934.

NOTICE OF CHICOD SCHOOL DISTRICT SPECIAL ELECTION AND NEW REGISTRATION

Notice is hereby given that the question of the approval or disapproval of the levy of a special tax of not to exceed ten (10) cents on each One Hundred Dollars ($100.00) of assessed valuation of all taxable property, both real and personal, located in the Chicod School District, to provide supplemental funds with which to operate schools of a higher standard than that provided by State support, or to employ additional vocational teachers, or both, will be submitted to the voters of the Chicod School District at a special election to be held on November 7, 1953. The resolution adopted by the Board of Commissioners of Pitt County calling said special election and ordering a new registration therefor is published in full below as a notice of such special election and the new registration therefor.

A RESOLUTION PROVIDING FOR AND ORDERING A SPECIAL ELECTION IN AND A NEW REGISTRATION OF ALL QUALIFIED VOTERS IN THE CHICOD SCHOOL DISTRICT ON THE QUESTION OF LEVYING A TAX TO PROVIDE SUPPLEMENTAL FUNDS FOR THE OPERATION OF SCHOOLS IN THE CHICOD SCHOOL DISTRICT OF A HIGHER STANDARD THAN THAT PROVIDED BY STATE SUPPORT OR TO EMPLOY ADDITIONAL VOCATIONAL TEACHERS, OR BOTH:

WHEREAS, the Chicod School District has heretofore been established by regular proceedings and the boundary lines of said district have been defined and the said boundary lines and description of said district and the action of the Board of Education with reference thereto duly appear on the records of Pitt County; and

WHEREAS, the Chicod School District Committee, in lawful meeting assembled, resolved to petition that an election be held and had in the Chicod School District to determine whether there should be levied in said school district a tax of not to exceed ten (10) cents on each One Hundred Dollars ($100.00) of assessed valuation of all taxable property, both real and personal, within said district, in order to provide supplemental funds for the operation of schools on a higher standard than that provided by State support, or to employ additional vocational teachers, or both; and

WHEREAS, the aforesaid petition of the Chicod School District was duly made to and considered by the Board of Education of Pitt County and was duly approved by the said Board of Education of Pitt County; and

WHEREAS, the said petition of the Chicod School District Committee, together with the approval of the Board of Education of Pitt County and after due consideration of the same has been approved by the said Board of Commissioners; and

WHEREAS, the aforesaid petition of the Chicod School District, together with the approval thereof by the Board of Education of Pitt County and the Board of Commissioners of Pitt County, has been approved by the State Board of Education; and

WHEREAS, the Chicod School District has a school population of five hundred (500) or more, as has been certified by the Board of Education of Pitt County; and the said Board of Education of Pitt County has requested the Board of Commissioners of Pitt County to provide for an election in the Chicod School District upon the question of levying a special school tax of not more than ten (10) cents on each One Hundred Dollars ($100.00) of assessed valuation of all taxable property, both real and personal, located within said Chicod School District, to provide supplemental funds with which to operate schools of a higher standard than that provided by State support, or to employ additional vocational teachers, or both;

NOW, THEREFORE, be it resolved by the Board of Commissioners of Pitt County, and it is hereby ordered that:

1. An election shall be held in the Chicod School District to determine whether there shall be levied a tax of not to exceed ten (10) cents on each One Hundred Dollars ($100.00) of assessed valuation of all taxable property, both real and personal, located within said Chicod School District, to provide supplemental funds with which to operate schools of a higher standard than that provided by State support, or to employ additional vocational teachers, or both.

2. Kiwanians Told Of Trip To Brazil

At the Kiwanis Club's weekly supper meeting last night, Tommy Bodkin, Greenville High School student, related some of his experiences on an airplane trip last summer to Brazil.

He flew to Rio to attend the fourth annual Youth Conference in connection with the Baptist World Alliance. Young people from 30 nations attended. Bodkin's recital of his strenuous efforts and frequent travels to obtain the trip to the South American city elicited applause from the Kiwanians. He flew from Miami to Rio. There were 2,800 delegates at the conference. The theme was "The Living Christ Must Reign."

The Greenville student said he was inspired by the fervor of the delegates in their deliberations. He said the Brazilians are extremely courteous and tided him over some language (Portuguese) difficulties. J. C. Clifford had charge of the program.

Past President H. Glenn Haney presided. Kiwanians Arthur Tripp and Dick Rogers had birthdays and they donated a dime for each year of their age. Mrs. J. C. Clifford Jr. won the attendance prize.

Guests of the club were Jimmy H. Moore, a DuPont employe, Mrs. Clifford, E. W. Hirschberg and Edwood Keister.

Friday's Cases In Police Court

Friday was North Carolina ABC undercover men's day in Police Court, when Judge Charles H. Whedbee disposed of 19 cases involving beer, wine and whiskey violations and six defendants.

Joe May, Negro, 510 Madison Avenue, was found guilty of five charges and fined a total of $700. If May fails to pay the fines and costs he must serve the six sentences of six-months each—nearly three years.

Prosecuting witnesses were two ABC undercover men, Glenn Stutts and Freddy W. Thompson. They testified they had bought tax and non-tax paid whiskey from May and that he had possessed tax and non-tax paid whiskey for purpose of sale.

The judgment in one of the six cases against May that he is not to have in his possession any alcoholic beverage at any time or place. The defendant gave notice of appeal in each case.

James Vance Bibbs, Route 1, Greenville, and C. A. McLamb, Route 2, Greenville, were found not guilty of possession of tax-paid whiskey for purpose of sale. Two charges were against McLamb.

Cliff Riggs, race and address not given by prosecuting witnesses, was charged (two cases) with selling beer and wine on Sunday.

Lyman Heath, race and address not given by prosecuting witnesses, was charged with selling beer on

L. B. Hill of Winterville, Mrs. H. E. Wilcox of New Bern, and Mrs. Sam Williams of Vanceboro.
