School In Parmele Destroyed By Saturday Fire

PARMELE—The W. C. Chance Negro High School was destroyed by fire early Saturday night when fire of unknown origin swept the large single story building.

Fire Chief Wiley T. Rogers of Robersonville said that his fire fighters had the fire under control but their water supply ran out.

Chief Rogers estimated that to replace the building would cost around $75,000 or more.

Chief Rogers said that a gasoline tanker was used to haul more than 2,000 gallons of water to be used in fighting the blaze but to no avail.

Dense smoke and the rapid spread of the flames prevented any chance of saving the building after the water supply of the fire fighters ran out the first time.

Sought-For 'Third Man' Absolved; Hall And Woman Reveal Plans

Kidnap-Murder Confessed

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UP)—Carl Austin Hall, 34-year-old black-sheep son of a wealthy family, and his alcoholic girl friend, Mrs. Bonnie Brown Heady, have confessed they kidnaped and killed 6-year-old Bobby Greenleaf of Kansas City, the FBI announced today.

Hoover said Hall and Mrs. Heady absolved Marsh of any part in the crime which shocked the nation.

The FBI continued the search for $300,000 in missing ransom, however. Nearly $294,000 of the $300,000 paid the kidnapers by the boy's wealthy father, Robert J. Greenleaf, was recovered in Hall's hotel room here when he was arrested.

She had said, and Hall concurred, that he told her the boy was his by a previous marriage and had been adopted by the Greenleaf family. She said she agreed to pick Bobby up at school and turn him over to Hall just so he could see his "son" again.

Yugoslavs Raid American Building; Tito Calls For Conference

Mob Beats U. S. Diplomat

By HELEN FISHER United Press Staff Correspondent BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (UP)—A Belgrade mob seriously beat an American diplomat today in the most serious incident since the United States and Great Britain decided to turn their zone of Trieste over to Italy.

King suffered a possible broken nose and the United States Embassy made a "stern" protest to the foreign office.

American until Yugoslav police entered the Belgrade building to clear out the rioters.

King was taken to a hospital for an examination to find out whether his nose was broken.

Ask Probe Of Red Air Force Build-Up In Korea

Formally Charge Violations

By JAMES MORRISSEY PANMUNJOM, Korea (UP)—The United Nations formally accused the Communists today of building up their air force in North Korea in the most serious truce violation since the armistice became effective.

Major Gen. Blackshear M. Bryan senior U.N. Command delegate to the Military Armistice Commission, called on the Neutral Nations Supervisory Commission to investigate the buildup.

The charge was considered so serious that Gen. John E. Hull, supreme commander of U. N. forces in the Far East, was expected to confer with Swiss Gen. Frederick Rihner and Swedish Gen. Sven Grafstrom, members of the Supervisory Commission.

Bryan's formal protest had been anticipated because a fugitive North Korean pilot and Allied radar screens had produced evidence the Reds had moved jet fighters and bombers into North Korea illegally.

First Business Session For High Court Today

By CHARLOTTE G. MOULTON WASHINGTON (UP)—The Supreme Court scheduled the first business session of its 164th term today with action expected on movie censorship and dozens of other constitutional issues.

With new Chief Justice Earl Warren presiding, the court was due to announce which of nearly 400 pending appeals it will consider this fall.

The court accepts only those cases which pose vital constitutional questions or which call for interpretation of federal statutes.

Appeals are before the court in two film censorship cases. The movie industry is hoping for far-reaching decisions that will cut down still more the power of states to ban movies.

U. S. Agreement Expected For Panmunjom Talks With Reds

By RICHARD WITKIN United Press Staff Correspondent UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (UP)—The United States probably will agree today to a Communist proposal for talks at Panmunjom to arrange a Korean peace parley, observers here believed.

It was pointed out, however, that the United States may qualify its agreement by refusing to accede to a Communist demand that the Panmunjom talks consider composition of the conference.

Even though no qualification is made, sources here emphasized that American acceptance of the Reds' offer to meet at Panmunjom would not commit the United States to reverse its stand on make up of the Korean parley, which is supposed to open by Oct. 28.

The United States backed the plan approved by the General Assembly that the conference should include the opposing sides in the Korean war and Russia. It is adamantly opposed to the Communist demand that the conference be converted into a roundtable meeting by addition of India and other Asian neutrals.

Chewed His Way Out Of City Jail

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (UP)—William Earl Cameron, 36, was the object of a two-state search today after he chewed his way out of city jail.

Police said the Owensboro, Ky., prisoner, jailed on Forgery charges for a $500 fine and up to one year in jail for persons responsible for leaving any straitjacket unattended outdoors.

ENACT ORDINANCE MARION, Va. (UP)—Acting to prevent an abandoned ice-box tragedy here, the town council has enacted an ordinance providing for a $500 fine and up to one year in jail for persons responsible for leaving any straitjacket unattended outdoors.

British Guiana's Leftists Call For General Strike

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (UP)—The left-wing Peoples Progressive Party called for a general strike today to protest British action in suspending the British Guiana constitution.

Janet Jagan, American-born secretary of the party, confirmed the strike call in a dispatch to the Communist London Daily Worker.

Her husband, ousted Prime Minister Cheddi Jagan, said he knew of the strike call but had nothing to do with issuing it.

Patrolmen Catch Young Driver After 80-Mile-An-Hour Pursuit

A Greenville teenager led two highway patrolmen on a wild chase Friday night over the streets of Greenville and down the Stantonburg highway at a speed in excess of 80 miles per hour.

Arrested and charged with speeding 80 miles per hour and careless and reckless driving was Bradford Brooks of East 11th St., Greenville.

Brooks was arrested by Patrolmen Jim Davis and Dalton E. Perry around 11:30 Friday night after he was stopped following a chase which began on Dickinson Avenue

30 Years Ago Today

THE DAILY REFLECTOR October 12, 1923

Twenty-three loyal Pitt County alumnae of the North Carolina College for Women met at the Country Club Saturday to celebrate Founders Day. The meeting was opened with a short business session presided over by Mrs. Luther Herring who welcomed the new teachers to the Association. In the election of officers Mrs. Bruce Sugg was named president and Mrs. Judson Blount secretary-treasurer. In the group gathered about the spacious fire-side were students who gave glimpses of the college from its earliest day to the present. Many interesting and amusing incidents were related by those who knew the college in its infancy. The marvelous growth of the college in its 31 years was reviewed—how the buildings had increased from three to 15 and how the student body had grown from 225 to 1,350. After sandwiches and tea were enjoyed each alumna pledged loyalty to her alma mater. The following alumnae were present: Miss Sallie Joyner Davis, Miss Alice Wilson, Miss Miriam McFadyen, Miss Birdie McKinney, Mrs. J. Arthur Jones, Mrs. Bruce Sugg, Mrs. W. H. Woodard, Mrs. Fred Forbes, Mrs. W. C. Vincent, Mrs. Luther Herring, Mrs. Judson Blount, Miss Eleanor Huske, Miss Dora Coates, Mrs. C. A. Bowen, Miss Eva Keeter, Mrs. Troy Rouse, Mrs. J. B. Kittrell, Miss Mary Benton, Miss Lucy Crisp, Miss Reid Parker, Miss Carolyn Clark, Miss Sallie Rodwell and Mrs. Frank Wilson.

Women In The Church

By MARY FOWLER

Methodist women are endorsing the universal disarmament resolution recently introduced in Congress by Senator Ralph Flanders, Vermont, Senator John Sparkman, Alabama, and others. Meeting in New York City, the executive committee of the Woman's Division of Christian Service, of the Methodist Board of Missions, voted to support the plan which calls for a reduction of armaments and the use of some of the funds thus liberated for a program of technical assistance at home and abroad.

"This disarmament proposal is in accordance with the action taken by the Methodist Church in its last General Conference," Miss Thelma Stevens, Division executive says. Methodist doubt that security lies in massing a weight of armaments and they support "international cooperation and use of our economic resources for better world standards of living."

The Sea-going Dyaks (known to anthropologists as the Ibans) of the island of Borneo are the far-heralded "headhunters of Borneo" who, in an earlier generation, gave that island its unsavory reputation. But within this century the Dutch and British colonial governments, plus the educational and religious work of Christian missionaries, have changed all that.

The Dyaks are becoming civilized, and many of them are Christians. Mrs. Madeline Dennis, of Fredericksburg, Md., wife of Methodist Missionary Louis R. Dennis, both working in Sibuan among the Dyaks, reports that Miss Bawang Anak Sibai, a Dyak from Kapit, has been accepted by the Government of Sarawak (Borneo) to take the official course in midwifery.

Four women leaders of the Presbyterian Church, each from a different nation, will visit India, Pakistan, and Thailand this fall, working with Christian women in these lands in furthering the church activity of Presbyterian women.

CHAPTER THIRTEEN

NANCY went back to the office Tuesday morning wondering what Humphrey Charles would say at her absence the day before. She wondered if she really had a job to go to. Even if she did manage to get by with him she felt that she was never going to hear the end of the gossip of girls in the office. She was too unstrung and tired to care much. She thought of Lucy Wardle. Poor Lucy, the most harmless soul in the world, had been drawn into Nancy's impulsive escapade and had added to the hurt of Mother Kelly's deception.

Nancy was out of the house early that Tuesday morning so early she had time to look into shop windows before she went to the office. She looked into the window at all she could see was the expression on her mother's and father's faces when she had arrived home the night before, the contempt that was in the eyes of her brother Tom.

She had admitted that she had requested Lucy Wardle to fib for her, but she had made the excuse that she was afraid if they had known the truth they would have worried.

Tom had said, "Oh, yeah!" to that.

It was a thing of the past now. Mother Kelly had warned Nancy not to have any more to do with Phil Stanley. She had said that Phil with all his money could have no good in his mind when he started. "cottoning up to a poor girl like you."

Nancy had made no reply beyond "Oh, Mother!"

There was a wealth of meaning in Nancy's two words, but Mother Kelly had missed it. Nancy had thought that people might be poor and troubled, but that didn't mean they couldn't reach toward the stars, that they had to always remain ordinary.

The thought of all this lay like a heavy hand on Nancy's heart now. She glanced at the city hall clock. It was five minutes to nine. She had hurried to the office.

Humphrey Charles had hardly been in his private office a few moments when he buzzed for Nancy. She took her chair across the table from him and spread out her notebook.

"No dictation Miss Kelly. I want to talk to you. I want to suggest that you show more—if you don't mind my being frank—you know I am a frank person, Miss Kelly—more discretion if you wish to remain in the employ of this firm."

"You no doubt know the name of Spencer and Charles was prominently mentioned in newspaper stories in connection with your—your entrapment in Mr. Stanley's lake lodge. Naturally I mean entrapment by the storm."

"I was chagrined when I overheard a conversation in the streetcar this morning. Two young men were discussing the matter and one of the men said the Kelly girl was a—I am using the exact expression of the young man, Miss Kelly—he said the Kelly girl was a redheaded stenographer and a hot pickup Stanley had made in the offices of Spencer and Charles."

"Now, Miss Kelly, that is not the kind of public mention we wish to have made of our firm. Let me give you some advice. Mr. Stanley is one of our clients. The firm is representing the Stanley Construction company in important litigation at the moment. Besides that, Mr. Phil Stanley is a gentleman who is very wealthy. He travels in a stratum of society you could hardly expect to fit into."

"I trust you do not misunderstand me, Miss Kelly, I—"

Humphrey Charles' dry, voice went on. Nancy was too blinded with fury to know what he was saying. She wanted to slash her notebook across his thin jaws and to fire at him:

"I quit! I'm through with this place forever."

She didn't. She couldn't. She was the only Kelly working. All day long the sting of Humphrey Charles' words was with her.

"Mr. Stanley is a gentleman . . . a station of society you could hardly expect to fit into."

If necessity is the mother of invention as the old saying goes, it likewise is the parent of self-control. Nancy Kelly was to learn that more and more following Humphrey Charles' warning that she must be more discreet so far as the law firm's A-1 platinum-plated clients, Phil Stanley and the Stanley Construction company, were concerned.

She had wanted to throw her notebook at him and quit her job. Instead she had swallowed her pride. It would have been grim satisfaction to her pride if she were without a job and there were no forty-dollar check each week to keep the rent paid and food on the Kelly table.

She had swallowed her pride again a few days after the Humphrey Charles incident when one noon to free her mind of contracts, write lawsuits, mandamus actions and all the other dry grind of a lawyer's office, she stopped at the Layton Art gallery.

What an escape it was, if only for a few minutes. She had hardly entered the building when she was struck with the peace and quiet of the place. No clattering of typewriters, no sense of hurry, no clocks, no time.

Lovely old pictures, exquisite statuary. She wandered down stairs

She gave a final glance into the studio. She would have time for just another glance at her favorite picture, "Silent Adoration," in the gallery above. It was one of Carl Marr's. It was an interior scene in an old-fashioned house with geraniums in the window. Before the window at a table sat two figures, a girl about Nancy's age, but dressed in a white, voluminous gown of long ago, and the girl's young husband, smoking a long stemmed pipe and engaged in a book, unconscious of his bride's silent devotion.

Whenever Nancy had visited the gallery she had always found herself drawn to that picture again and again. She loved to read things into it, to try to get what the artist meant. She always came to the same conclusion. I could be nothing more than old-fashioned romance.

Nancy was lost in contemplation of the picture now. The figure of the young bride faded and it was Nancy herself who was sitting at the table, chin cupped in hand as the girl in the white dress was.

Across from her was—

How like Dave Armstrong the young man in the picture was. Could she ever sit across from Dave like that and worship him silently?

Dave was kind and strong and good looking and ambitious just as the young husband in the picture must be ambitious, for he was reading such an important looking big volume.

She replaced the picture's figure with that of Dave, the girl's figure with that of her own, and how did she feel? She didn't know. Was it a thrill? Did her very being glow with love of him as the girl in the picture seemed to glow with the love of her young man?

Nancy tried to think that it was so, but her imagination ceased its flights. She wanted to be devastated with love to burn with desire for the lips of her imaginary husband, whoever he might be, who was to sit across from her, reading. When her imagination placed Dave Armstrong in that chair she didn't feel that way.

Diplomats Fear Korea Tensions

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (UP)—United Nations diplomats feared today that mounting tension in Korea might erupt into clashes that would gravely endanger the armistice.

U. N. sources said they were seriously concerned about feelings of the nations involved in the handling of 22,500 unrepatriated Chinese and North Korean prisoners.

These fears continued despite the American warning to South Korean Premier Syngman Rhee to exercise "moderation and forbearance" in the critical situation.

This was taken as a warning to Rhee not to carry out threats to send his troops into the Indian-guarded demilitarized zone to en-

New Floor Care Ends Waxing

One of the most difficult jobs of housekeeping is to keep linoleum and asphalt tile floors waxed and gleaming. Now, thanks to Glaxo, it is no longer necessary to wax and scrub. All you do is apply Glaxo with a brush about twice a year. It maintains a high lustre, non slip coating that seals out dirt. Glaxo dries in one hour and is water clear. It's cheaper than wax in the long run, besides saving a terrific amount of work, plus truly a beautiful floor. Glaxo is available at Belk-Tyers 3rd Floor.

Pitt Can't Afford To Lose Blood Program

Pitt County fell, drastically behind its quota in the two-day visit of the bloodmobile last week.

The county's quota for the two-day visit was 340 pints of blood, but the citizens of the Farmville and Greenville communities, which played hosts to the unit, came through with only 183 pints of the life-giving fluid.

Apparently, from the response to the bloodmobile visits last week, the people of the county are allowing their interest in the blood program to sag. We do not know what the reason for the lagging interest could be, unless there is the mistaken idea that blood is no longer needed as badly as it was during the time fighting was going on in Korea.

Staggering quantities of blood are still needed for treatment of the American soldiers who were wounded in Korea. Staggering quantities of blood are still needed for producing gamma globulin to fight infantile paralysis throughout the nation.

The need for blood now is just as great as it has been at any time since Pitt County became a part of the national blood program.

Since the county began its participation of the blood program, literally hundreds of pints of blood have been furnished free of charge from the program for use of Pitt Countians treated at Pitt Memorial Hospital. Many other pints of blood have been furnished without charge for Pitt Countians in other hospitals because of Pitt's participation in the blood program.

Because this blood was available, the lives of many of Pitt's citizens have been saved.

At this crucial period, Pitt can ill afford to give up its interest in the valuable blood program. Unless the response to the calls for blood donors picks up again, however, Pitt may expect to be dropped from the list of counties which are visited by the bloodmobile.

The Reflector urges the people of Pitt County to resolve to demonstrate their support of the blood program by meeting the quotas for the three remaining visits of the bloodmobile to the county during the remaining months of the year.

The bloodmobile will visit Ayden, November 10, Greenville again on December 7, and Bethel on December 8. It would be a tremendous boost to Pitt County and to the national blood program if the quotas were met by local citizens on each of those visits.

What Do The Cards Hold For Chiang Kai-Shek?

China's Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek has proven himself in past years a leader of vision and ability. Even so, his dreams of his troops retaking the China mainland appear now as far fetched as they have during the years since he was pushed from the mainland by communist forces.

To be sure, Chiang has kept his band of Nationalist fighters together on the island of Formosa, and has defied communist threats to take his stronghold. Actually his troops probably are much better armed and equipped than they were when they were pushed from China's coast.

With all that taken into consideration, it is very likely that Chiang's army on Formosa is rapidly becoming an "army of old men" by military standards. It is doubtful that an appreciable number of young soldiers have been recruited for the Nationalist army since it took up its position on Formosa. Each year is cutting down the effectiveness of the soldiers who went to the island stronghold with Chiang.

As we see it, Chiang's Nationalist army is performing a great service for the free world by holding Formosa against the Communist who now hold China's mainland. With the international situation as it is, nothing short of an all-out war between communism and the free world across Asia is going to provide the stimulus for Chiang's forces to launch a full scale invasion of the Chinese mainland.

Whether that day will come remains to be seen as the cards of fate are played in the poker game of international affairs.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
Sorrow is one of the most prevalent of human experiences, and how to rise above it is something that even people of the most outstanding qualities sometimes do not learn. As we stand in the midst of loss, it is difficult for us to remind ourselves that anything of value is left in life. It seems as if everything has been swept away. Our friends may try to solace us with pious commonplaces. We are told that it might have been worse, or that it is all for the best, or that it must be endured. Eliphaz came to the sorrowful Job and, instead of bringing him consolation, made his pain even more unendurable by maintaining that it was the result of sin.

There are two things with which every Christian can console himself in sorrow. The first is a spiritual consolation. It is the assurance we have in the death and rising of Christ—the assurance that the end of sorrow faithfully borne is triumph. The other is the realization that no matter how much has been swept away in the terrible cataclysms of life, the best always remains. Mohammedans write on the tombstones of the departed these words: "God remains."

Elizabeth Barrett Browning has written:
"All are not taken; there are left behind
Living Beloveds, tender looks to bring,
And make the daylight still a happy thing,
And tender voices to make soft the wind."

An Editor Speaks His Piece

By DONALD M. EWING
Ray Tucker is on vacation, during which there will be guest columns by several prominent newspaper editors. Today's column is by Donald M. Ewing, Associate Editor of THE TIMES, Shreveport, La.

Some people—especially politicians—complain that "the newspapers never get anything right." The real wonder is that daily papers are so right in so much.

A moderate-sized daily may receive one, two or three hundred thousands of words daily of press association news alone, plus much other telegraph copy, all of its local news, and quantities of features by a score of writers. This must be shifted into a comparatively small number of thousands of words to be printed and all of it made attractive for the public market—all in a daily race against time where a few minutes delay may mean missing planes, trains and buses—and subscribers.

What is true in news speed is partly true even in editorials. Professors pondering for days or weeks over one short thesis should try grinding out a couple of thousand words on several subjects—including some research—in a few hours.

Actually there probably is no other business in which the ratio of precision and quality to speed and quantity of production is so great.

Yet the American press today is, in my opinion, reaching a dangerous point in the quantity of slanted news reports embraced by front pages, as well as inside pages, over any given period of time. This does not necessarily mean intentionally slanted news stories. Incomplete stories, poorly written stories, poor judgment in what goes on press association wires, lack of qualifications by a reporter to grasp what he is reporting, all may be entirely detached from any violation of integrity, yet the result to the reader is a slanted account of a national or international event.

Washington produces much good reporting these days, but also far too much that is bad. Press associations are the most culpable. That is natural, in both cases. Washington is the world's news center in volume and importance. One news story on one press association wire may hit more than 1,000 front pages almost simultaneously—and thus go to tens of millions of readers. The evil of a slanted story is multiplied by radio and TV, for the air depends considerably on the press for its news reports and what its commentators comment on.

The impact of one slanted news story thus may be felt by tens of millions of readers and listeners, and increased by hundreds of editorials, all of this being the foundation on which public opinion is formed—not merely our own domestic public opinion, but public opinion of the United States in nations over the world. Personally, I believe that much of the poor opinion in some nations concerning this nation was sparked by slanted reporting on our side of the oceans.

Just as there is no issue here of wrong intent, neither is there any thought that newspaper reporting as a whole or in any large volume is slanted. The trouble rests in too much slanting of too much important news, particularly out of Washington. The percentage of slanted reporting in a day's total volume would be infinitesimal in volume, yet could influence the course of a people, of a nation.

The American press carries the torch for preservation of inherent American freedoms of speech, religion, assembly and press. It might well turn to self-examination as to whether, in news columns, it is doing what it should to live up to the duties and responsibilities and obligations to the American people, without which it cannot be worthy of its own individual freedom. Again, the question is not intent of the press as a whole, but whether a general carelessness has not developed through which an increasingly slanted news report at national and international levels is being placed before the public, often in unawareness by editors and publishers.

Business Today Suggestion System

By ELMER ROESSNER
Suggestion systems are increasing again. With so many businesses squeezed between higher costs and prices they don't dare boost, there is more interest in finding ways to save. And past experience has shown that employees CAN come up with ideas that mean thousands of dollars.

There is an added benefit to suggestion plans—their morale value. They tend to make employees feel they are members of the team and that they have a chance to share in the rewards. Some companies have said that for this reason alone they would continue suggestion systems even if they never got a usable idea. And when a really good idea tumbles out of a suggestion box, the company benefits doubly: first, in gaining an idea that means saving money or better products and, second, from the enthusiasm that sweeps through the plant.

Sometimes there is a third benefit, that of publicity. Not only will trade papers report the discovery of a successful idea but sometimes the discoveries are sufficiently newsworthy to be noted in newspapers or on radio. Now, will every company with a suggestion system please clip the following paragraph and drop it into the idea box?

KEEP A DATED RECORD OF EVERY SUGGESTION TURNED IN.

IT MAY SAVE YOU THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS—Elmer Roessner

We're not bidding for an award. But that suggestion may be one of the best of the week. This is why:

Every company faces the risk of litigation over patents or salable ideas. A record of the ideas submitted by employees, even though they are not applied, may come in very handy.

Suppose, for example, that an employee suggests a certain new product. The idea is not acted upon. Later, because of changed conditions, the company decides to put out such a product. Some outsider may sue, charging his idea was pirated. But the original suggestion may prove an employee thought of it earlier.

Or suppose a competitor brings out an improved product and applies for a patent. Records of a suggestion system may show that the idea isn't original after all.

TRADITIONAL RIVALS JOIN FOR PROMOTIONS

California and Florida citrus interests are burying the hatchet again in 1954—and not in each other's heads, either. They will unite, under the National Citrus Merchandising Committee, for three campaigns to promote the sale of citrus fruits.

In January there will be a "Eat, Drink and Be Healthy" drive; in March, a "Citrus Sunshine Round-up," and in June, a "Summer Citrus Picnic." Each promotion will run for nine days.

DEPARTMENT STORES' INCOME UP SLIGHTLY

Department stores did slightly better in the first six months of this year, according to the Controllers' Congress of the National Retail Dry Goods Association. Profits for stores with more than $1,000,000 in sales were 1.3 per cent of sales, compared with 0.8 per cent in the first half of 1952. Other income raised to 2.5 per cent of sales before taxes, but taxes reduced net earnings to 1.3 per cent, compared with 1.1 per cent in 1952.

DOING IT YOURSELF STILL GOING STRONG

Do-it-yourself products dominated the National Hardware Show in New York this week. Dealers and manufacturers agreed that around 35 per cent of hardware store sales are now made in the do-it market.

The power tool market, dealers said, is still far from saturation and sales may reach a new high in the Christmas gift season ahead.

Ups And Downs Of Market Are Largely Misunderstood

By ROGER W. BABSON
BABSON PARK, Mass. — It is strange how most people believe that stock and other markets go up "when there are more buyers than sellers, or go down when there are more sellers than buyers. Yet, this is nonsense. For every buyer there must be a seller, and vice versa.

ONLY ONE SAFE RULE

Market trends depend upon the relative impatience of buyers and sellers. Or, to speak more technically, when the number of shares of stock wanted, multiplied by the relative impatience of buyers, EXCEEDS the number of shares for sale, multiplied by the relative impatience of sellers, then prices rise. The reverse of this rule determines when prices decline.

Patience vs. impatience determines profits and losses. In the case of very inactive unlisted stocks, this is determined by the relative patience of perhaps only two persons. In the case of a listed stock, the relative patience of all would-be sellers or buyers of that one stock must be considered. When endeavoring to forecast the trend of the stock market averages as a whole, the relative patience of all stockholders should be considered.

MEASURING PATIENCE

When measuring the relative patience of all stockholders, there are four factors to consider: (1) Amount of Free Cash or Credit Available; (2) Relation of Prices to Business Conditions; (3) Confidence in the Future; and (4) Political and Labor Interference. This last would not need to be added if the nation were on the Gold Standard, as during the years preceding the 1930's.

In determining the long-term trend of any industry, a constant watch should be kept for new discoveries, new inventions, and new products. These can either ruin or make very profitable the industries affected. Hence, the great importance of spending large sums on research; also of keeping informed of the secrets which the Patent Office can reveal to those willing to pay for constant watchfulness of what is going on there.

OPPORTUNITIES FOR INVESTORS

The above means that the desire to buy or sell stocks—"desire" being a synonym for "patience"—is determined, first, by the money or credit available with which to buy. This information is obtainable from Government reports of various kinds. Second, by actual business conditions, indicated weekly by hundreds of compilations covering 85 per cent of all industries, divided by the stock averages.

A knowledge of the above two factors should determine the desires of investors based on present conditions, but without reference to the future. But the future should also be studied and considered. Hence, the importance of the third factor—namely, Confidence in the Future. This is a more difficult factor to measure, but we are constantly discovering more ways of doing so. When one considers that fully 95 per cent of investors, consciously or unconsciously, fail to act upon the above rules (since only 5 per cent have correct data to guide them) one can appreciate the great opportunities awaiting those few investors who do have and do use such data.

ONE FINAL THOUGHT

The unfortunate thing today is that, due either to inexperience or to lack of the necessary data outlined above, investors are being fed with both bullish and bearish "outlooks." Everyday financial opinions are published in the same newspapers, or magazines, or by competing investment services. This is very unfortunate. It is like releasing each day two completely opposite weather forecasts!

Businessmen and investors will not always stand for this nonsense. I foretell that some day the FRB or the SEC will interest the IBM in making a million-dollar machine which will daily compute intelligent business and investment forecasts. Like weather forecasts, such business and investment forecasts will not always be correct; but they will be honest and not contradictory.

Around Capitol Square

By LYNN NISBET
CONFUSED — Information gathered on a recent quickie trip through the Piedmont and the West during which some 50 or more people were interviewed confirms the impression that North Carolinians are greatly confused about politics and business conditions.

There is similar confusion but for widely different reasons among old-line Republicans and old-line Democrats as to political conditions.

The basic difference seems to be that the Republicans are trying to forget traditional policies, ignore the party platforms and put emphasis upon national leadership—which is another way of saying they are counting on "the" to carry them through. The Democrats apparently are trying to forget personalities in position of leadership, at both national and state levels, and emphasize traditional ideas of their party.

Another way of saying the same thing is that the Republicans generally are not happy or proud of the record of the recent session of the Congress, or about the situation in national defense and government financing. They are proud of President Eisenhower, although a bit disturbed about the record of the re- by "Democrats for Eisenhower" with respect to patronage and claims of credit for the big vote given the President last November.

The Democrats are not very happy about the way the State administration is moving along. That attitude is particularly evident among the so-called conservative element in the party.

What seems to bother the old-line partisans in both groups is that President Eisenhower is not accomplishing what he proposed and Governor Umstead is doing what he promised during last year's campaign. The old-liners didn't believe either of them, but hoped they would be amenable to "suggestions" made by their supporters.

Y.D.C. — All of the attendants at the State Young Democratic Clubs convention Friday and Saturday were young, in spirit if not in years. Apparently every one of them was a democrat of the kind spelled with a little "d"—although there were varying ideas about how some of them fitted in the big "D" classification. The Democratic party organizations are loosely enough drawn to take care of wide divergence in individual ideas.

Other Editors Are Saying....

WHO IS DOING THE INDOCTRINATING NOW?

(Kinston Free Press)
Peter Nicolaisen, 17-year-old German student who is spending a year in Lenoir County to study American democracy under an exchange program worked out by the National Grange and the State Department, made an interesting observation here the past week when he addressed the local Lions Club. He expressed surprise that the South does not treat the Negro in the manner indicated in the famous book by Harriet Beecher Stowe entitled "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

The youth indicated that his views and that of many others in Germany are based on the concepts set forth in this pre-Civil War book, which had some effect in bringing on that great conflict between the North and the South over the issues of slavery and states' rights.

Had this youth made his visit to America prior to World War 1, or even before World War 2 — during the regime of Adolf Hitler — his views would not have been so surprising. But the question naturally arises now—as to who is doing the indoctrinating in modern Germany?

Western Germany and the whole of Europe for that matter has long been a victim of propaganda and it is not surprising that many misconceptions should exist among people who have not lived and learned first-hand how segregation works in the South. But we do not believe that any average American high school student actually thinks conditions in Germany today resemble those in the days of the Hohenzollern dynasty.

It has been eight years since V-E Day in Europe and West Germany has been occupied by Allied troops during that interval. Young Nicolaisen was not a Hitler Youth because he was too young then to checking."

Lt. Gov. Luther Hodges was on the scene with his hand-shaking arm in good working condition. He insists that he is trying to do the job as lieutenant governor and lend as much help as he can to Governor Umstead's industrialization program while also serving as State head of the United Funds organization drives. Despite this insistence on his part, impression prevails that he is an active candidate for Governor in 1956.

DELEGATES — There have been almost as many women as men at the convention, and the women have had an equal share in proceedings as voting delegates. So it was a bit amusing to see of them to find the printed programs listing one event as a reception for "delegates and their wives." Anyway, it was mighty hard to tell who was a delegate and who wasn't, since all the badges were alike and most clubs authorized every person attending to be an accredited voting delegate.

POTPOURRI — Accidents involving big trucks are rare and the truck operators have spear-headed the drive for highway safety. Yet on a 600-mile drive two big trucks were seen just after being badly wrecked—and not a wrecked passenger car was discovered on the whole trip. Fall color in the mountains does need color to be inspiring, but fact is that the leaves are brighter hued in sections of the Piedmont than on the high mountain slopes.

Some 1500 ECC Alumni At College Homecoming Day

Approximately 1500 East Carolina College alumni returned to the campus Saturday for their annual fall Homecoming Day and enjoyed a full program of events planned for their enjoyment.

James Whitfield of Raleigh, president of the East Carolina Alumni Association, and other association officers were present for conferences and meetings on alumni affairs. James W. Butler, alumni secretary at the college, headed a student-faculty committee in charge of arrangements for the day, and Charles Kluits of Henderson was chairman of the Homecoming Day Committee of the Student Government Association.

The campus was festive in decorations featuring the East Carolina Pirate symbol and the college colors of purple and gold. Cotten Hall, residence hall for freshmen women, was awarded the Industrial Arts Trophy, given annually to the most appropriate and attractive of the buildings decorated for Homecoming Day.

With Whitfield as presiding officer, the Alumni Council of the College held its annual fall meeting at 11 a. m. as an opening event of the day. Chapter presidents and district directors of the Alumni Association and members of the Faculty Advisory Council of the Association attended.

Committees were appointed to study redistricting of areas of the alumni organization, to nominate district directors, to conduct a campaign on membership, to report on citations and awards to be presented to alumni and to plan the spring 1954 alumni meeting to be held next May. Secretary Butler gave a report on the Annual Alumni Giving project, and association officers gave progress reports on the tuition scholarship program now being carried out.

A tour of the Alumni-Faculty house, on which construction is now nearing completion, was made by Council members after the meeting. President John D. Messick of the college and Secretary Butler acted as hosts. Formerly the home management house of the home economics department, the building is being remodeled and will provide new alumni headquarters, conference rooms, and other facilities.

A luncheon in the North Dining Hall gave visitors to the campus an opportunity to enjoy a social hour with friends of their college days. President Messick welcomed guests and a program of music was given by Mrs. Gladys Reichard White and George E. Perry of the music department.

A Homecoming Day parade along main streets and through the business district of Greenville include forty units and stretched along ten city blocks. An estimated 10,000 spectators lined sidewalks marking the line of march.

Mrs. Kitty Geringer Brinson of Draper, elected by East Carolina students as Homecoming Day Queen, appeared in the parade occupying a white throne in a handsome float decorated in white and green. Other queens, representing dormitories and student organizations, rode in open convertibles.

The East Carolina Marching band and guest bands from the high schools at Greenville, Williamston, and Jacksonville; the color guard and drill and rifle teams of the college AF ROTC; and floats and decorated cars completed the parade.

Prizes for the best floats entered by student organizations in the parade went to the college Veterans Club; the YWCA, the YMCA, and the Future Business Leaders of America, and Pi Omega Pi.

Other events of the day included an afternoon tea given by the YMCA and the YWCA in the Y Hut on the campus; presentation to the college by the Veterans Club of a Victory Bell to be rung after East Carolina victories in athletics; a night football game between Eion and East Carolina; and a Homecoming hop for students and visitors.

Truce Violations Substantiated By N. Korean Pilot

SEOUL, Korea (UP)—The North Korean pilot who flew a Russian-built MIG-15 to freedom backed up a United Nations charge today that the Communists have violated the armistice by building up their air power.

The pilot, Lt. Noh Keun Suk, told newsmen he saw "some propeller-driven planes" brought into North Korea after the truce was signed.

The U. N. earlier today filed a charge before the Military Armistice Commission charging that the Reds violated the truce by increasing their air power in North Korea after the shooting stopped.

Noh, who surrendered a MIG to the Allies last month, returned from Okinawa to Korea, where he was greeted by President Syngman Rhee. He was reunited with his Christian mother, whom he had not seen for four years.

Later, he gave a press conference at the Air Force headquarters. He told reporters he had been telling the U. S. Air Force on Okinawa all he knows about MIGs and the North Korean Air Force.

"Just before the armistice, a number of planes were brought in by train," Noh said. "After the armistice some propeller-driven planes were brought in by boat. I did not see any MIGs brought in after the armistice."

Noh said he saw three new IL-28s at UJU Air Field after the armistice. The IL-28 is a new Russian jet bomber which recently appeared in North Korea.

He said the jet fighter he flew to Seoul from North Korea was an improved version of the MIG known as the "Mig-15-Bis."

Noh said he has not yet collected the $100,000 reward offered by the U. N. for bringing in the first MIG. He added, however, that he expects to get it "before long."

He said he plans to continue working with the U. S. Air Force for three to six months as a research consultant. Then he hopes to study in the United States.

Bands of wild burros, descendants of those brought into the area by prospectors roam through Death Valley in California and Nevada.

Evangelist

Eddie Martin, nationally known evangelist, is to be sponsored by the Greenville Ministerial Association for city-wide evangelistic services during the week of June 6-27.

Martin and his team, who will bring with them a new tent which will seat more than 3,000, have just completed a meeting in Johnson, Tenn., where crowds as large as 6,000 attended the meetings.

Backstairs View Of White House

By MERRIMAN SMITH WASHINGTON (UP)—Backstairs at the White House:

President Eisenhower has a fire-engine red golf jacket which stands out like a flaming signal on these autumn afternoons when he is on the back lawn of the White House practicing with his golf clubs.

His valet, John Mooney who shags practice balls for the President, wears a bright green jacket. When Mr. Eisenhower's red jacket is close to Mooney's kelly green job the color effect is suggestive to Christmas.

Five-year-old David Eisenhower may be well on his way to an athletic career before he leaves his grandparents at the White House and takes up his new home Georgia with his two sisters and parents, Major and Mrs. John Eisenhower.

In addition to golf practice with pint-sized clubs, David is now taking swimming lessons in the heated White House pool.

A New York jeweler will shortly sponsor a nationwide, weekly television show about the President and the White House. This is the jeweler who designed Mrs. Eisenhower's inauguration jewelry.

White House reporters have been advised by Press Secretary James C. Hagerty that they will not have to abide by an edict laid down by bandleader Fred Waring in connection with the birthday party for the President Tuesday night at Hershey, Pa.

Waring had stated that the newsmen could not bring their typewriters to the lavish party to write their stories about the President's visit. Hagerty after an advance trip to look over the Hershey layout, returned to the White House and soothed the ruffled reporters by assuring them typewriters would be admitted.

Musical Waring is one of Mr. Eisenhower's most ardent admirers and has a prominent part in planning the entertainment for Tuesday night.

The President was in the White House rose garden greeting 35 junior ambassadors from Central and South America. Most of the boys presented gifts from their native lands, some of the youngsters trying to explain their presents to the chief executive in torrents of Spanish.

To one earnest young man who was orating at length in Spanish, the President held up his hands and with a broad smile, explained, "I can read a little Spanish, but I can't hear it."

Three Highway Wrecks In Pitt

Three highway accidents were investigated by the Highway Patrol in Pitt County over the past weekend.

Slight personal injuries were reported. A truck belonging to the College View Cleaners and Laundry, driven by James Flake, 25, of 324 Evans Street, city, overturned twice Saturday, four miles South of Ayden.

Patrolman Bill Whitehurst said that no charges were pressed against the driver, who received minor lacerations of both legs. The truck was demolished.

The accident occurred at seven o'clock Saturday night on NC 11. Two cars wrecked five miles South of Greenville on NC 43 Saturday night, when a driver attempted to make a left turn and was struck in the rear.

Whitehurst listed the drivers as being David G. Smith of Wilson, age 27, and Joe Ross, 65, of Route 2, Greenville.

The Ross car was in the act of making the turn when it was rammed from the rear. Charges of drunken driving were placed against Smith by Patrolman Whitehurst. Damage to the two cars was estimated at $40.

A City Utilities truck driven by Ed Pollard was involved in an accident at House Station Sunday afternoon around two o'clock. The names of the occupants of the car which struck the truck driven by Pollard were not known this morning.

45,523 People Joined In Activities At Park

According to Warren Carroll, director of the Greenville Recreation Commission, 45,523 people have participated in activities at Elm Street Park during the past summer.

Carroll said that 34,996 participated in activities with the remaining 11,425 attending Little League baseball and saw 4,243 kids played the game.

Of the 34,996 participants there were 1,786 playing tennis with two tournaments held. Playground activity found 542 playing softball, 2,145 in low organized games, 1,224 in story telling, 2,452 in arts and crafts, 2,428 in table games, 5,278 in ping pong, 6,000 used the picnic area, and 7,214 in the apparatus equipment. To get these figures Carroll counted a participant when the period of time he was there was at least one hour.

Teenagers enjoying ten dances accounted for the remaining 860 participants at the Park last summer, Carroll stated.

The recreation commission director gave the following list of facilities at the park and their uses: Little League Field is used for boys 7-11. Its use includes little league baseball, midget football, field events, and a play field for children when other activities are not scheduled.

The tennis courts are used for tennis for all ages, dancing for teenagers during the summer, the square dance group, and skating during the winter months.

Apparatus equipment is in an area for pre-school and school age children. Equipment includes a slide, horse swing, chair swing, sea-saws, and a climb-a-round, for preschoolers; plus a swing, slides and sea-saws for school children.

In the game area there are facilities for volleyball, horse-shoes, croquet, table games and paddle tennis.

The picnic area can be reserved on request. It has water and firewood available with a lighted shelter which has four cooking units and four tables. Three other units have cooking space on each. This area can take care of large or small groups.

There are three ping pong tables, plus a basketball court; and the unfinished recreation building. The park has a well laid out parking lot, Carroll concluded.

She was tried this morning in City Court and fined $450, also given a four-month suspended sentence and placed on probation for two years.

Officers making the arrest were Jim Ward, R. W. King, H. B. Lilley and Deputy Sheriff Elmer Haddock.

Authorities said the salesman was found in a rooming house with a bullet in his head. Nearby was a .22 caliber rifle and a note which read:

"I am addicted to narcotics and the law makes it impossible to obtain them. I can stand the pain no longer."

Two Arrests By ABC Enforcers

James Crandle, of near Ballards Cross Roads was arrested Saturday when officers raided his residence and observed Crandle throwing a gallon of bootleg whiskey into a hot stove.

However a small amount of the liquor was saved from the flames for evidence.

Crandle was recognized for appearance in County Court by officers Jim Ward, R. W. King, H. B. Lilley.

Aline Burney, 46, of 1906 Factory Street, Greenville, was arrested when officers searched her premises and found nine one-half gallon jars of bootleg whiskey in a trap under a ice box in the kitchen.

A pot full of spirits followed by a bottle of clorox was washed down the drain before the officers could reach the kitchen and prevent its destruction.

Cherry Paces Pirates To Fourth Loop Win

Hodges, Cherry, Webb, Stanley and King Score For Pirates As Big Homecoming Crowd Watches Wild Contest

By JIMMY ELLIS
Reflector Sports Editor

And a good time was had by all.

A homecoming crowd of 10,000 fans went slowly, but surely, happily insane in East Carolina College Stadium Saturday night as they watched their favored Pirates and an upstart Elon College team trade touchdowns with reckless abandon in the wildest North State Conference game in many moons.

The Pirates finally came out on the long end of the deal with a 45-25 margin. They had their moments of despondency, however, as the three-touchdown underdog Elon team did its best to upset the Pirate appellation and throw the Bucs out of the undefeated column.

The Fighting Christians fell short of their mark, because of a number of reasons. First of all was just too much East Carolina strength and depth. Second, was a leaky defense that gave too much ground in the tight moments. Third was just too much derring-do, gambling-that-paid-off for the Pirates.

There was hardly ever a moment of relaxation or anything resembling relaxation from the time the big crowd starting filing into the stadium. Even the refreshment period at halftime was exciting, with a parade of high school bands, the East Carolina band, and dormitory beauty queens and the crowning of Mrs. Kitty G. Brinson of Draper as Homecoming Queen for 1953.

Fireworks Start

The fireworks started just as soon as Empire Lou Bello tooted his whistle for the opening kickoff. That's when the Christians started on their first touchdown march. The drive carried 63 yards and occupied a grand total of five plays—much to the amazement of the fans, the teams, and two stray dogs that wandered into the stadium from wherever stray dogs always come from on football nights.

Big Revell Morrison, a sophomore fullback for the Christians, carried the touchdown over from the one-yard line on the fifth play of Elon's opening series of downs. His scoring plunge had been set up, however, not by Elon power but because of the carelessness of an East Carolina defensive halfback in letting an Elon pass receiver get behind and then the mistake of pushing the receiver down to keep him from catching a pass. The interference play gave the Christians 20 yards and put the ball on the one. Morrison went over, John Platt tried the extra point and missed, and the grand march for the evening was on. Everybody got into the act.

Stanley Runs

East Carolina took the resulting kickoff and used but six plays in tipping the fans off that Saturday was no ordinary night. They went 59 yards in the six plays with Jim Stanley, a sophomore starting his first game, accounting for 28 of the yards, a Dick Cherry-to-Bobby Hodges pass accounting for 16 more, and Claude King's scoring plunge accounting for eight more. After King scored the touchdown, he went back to kick the extra point and the Pirates had the lead they never surrendered — although they were scared half to death a couple of times.

After King scored the first East Carolina touchdown the game took on an air of reasonable sanity when both teams were forced to kick. The Christians punted once, then held on defense to force the Pirates to punt—a 51-yard beauty by Claude King—to the Elon 11. Then the Pirates held and forced the Christians to punt a second time.

That second punt cut down the floodgates. Gene Williams kicked the ball from the Elon 12. Boyd Webb, safety man for the Bucs, watched it hit on the 50 and bounce around a few times. The Elon line, down fast on the high kick, surrounded the ball and forgot Webb. The ball then took a crazy bounce, Webb grabbed it, and took off down the left sidelines. He picked up blocking, wiggled his hips a couple of times, tight-rope on the chalk marks, and went 50 yards behind perfect blocking. King kicked the point and East Carolina led 14-6 at the quarter.

Far Enough

In the second period things banged around for awhile with nobody doing any good until the Pirates finally came into possession of the ball on their own 25. All-Conference quarterback Cherry decided things had gone far enough. A penalty against Elon picked up five yards. Eno Boado added six more and then King turned on power and speed to force the ball through the Elon secondary to the Elon 34—a run of 40 yards.

With the ball at that point, the Pirates stuck to the ground until they got to the 31 where they bogged slightly. Pass-master Cherry then flipped a quick aerial to Boado and the ball was on the Elon 15, first and ten. Stanley went for eight yards over left tackle and then Cherry pulled a play out of the hat to score. He started out to his right much like he was running a split-T option play and then suddenly cut into the line and bulled across into the end zone. King added the point and the Pirates led 21-6.

After the half time ceremonies, which were, indeed, beautiful and impressive, to say the least, the scoring started in earnest.

East Carolina started the wide-open play by taking the kickoff and going 68 yards. A quarterback sneak by Cherry capped the drive which had moved the ball to the three for the final play. King missed the point and the Christians did a collective job of rolling sleeves and spitting on hands to get to work.

Pass Interference

They took the resulting kickoff and racked up a touchdown of their own. They took advantage of a 16-yard pass interference play in their 75-yard march but for the most part they relied on sheer ground power. Morrison scored for the second time when he went over from the one. John Platt kicked the point and closed the gap to 27-13 with scarcely half of the third quarter gone.

East Carolina couldn't gain after the kickoff and punted again. The Christians scored again five plays later. Morrison went 12 yards on a pitchout for his third touchdown. Platt missed the point but the scoring fever was catching, anyway.

Elon recovered a fumble on the kickoff but fumbled their own chance away and the Pirates went pay-dirt-bound again. An amazing Cherry-to-Hodges passing completion scored the touchdown with Hodges taking the ball in the midst of three Elon defenders and simply stepping across the goal for the score. King missed the point again but East Carolina still enjoyed a 33-19 margin.

The enjoyment and the big margin were short-lived, though. Elon took the kickoff, ran the ball back to the 31, and then went 69 yards on one play for their final touchdown.

The razzle-dazzle act was put on by freshman quarterback Bill Snyder and track star Mal Bennett, posing as an end. Bennett went out to his right, cut back to his right, got as alone as a UDC member at a GAR convention, and took Snyder's pass on the dead run. He ran the final 50 yards all by himself. Glenn Varney missed the extra point try in Elon's last chance for a point.

The aroused Pirates, indignant at the thought of the play, slapped right back for two quick scores. Tippy Hayes and Jim Stanley turned in some fancy running to account for the first TD which was another Cherry-to-Hodges pass. That made the score 39-25 with four minutes to go.

On the second touchdown march, which started on the Elon 34, Stanley, a real hipper-dipper throughout the game, personally accounted for 19 of the yards, including the last eight and the touchdown. Cherry, just for a change, tried the extra point but he missed it a long way. It didn't matter much, though, because the Pirates had more than enough.

But they had one tough time getting that enough.

Leahy Speaking: Irish Overrated

By MILTON RICHMAN
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP)—Notre Dame is "greatly overrated," insists Coach Frank Leahy, and fired-up Pittsburgh will aim to prove he's right in the headline attraction of next weekend's college football program.

The Panthers upset the Irish, 22-19, last year and they figure they can do it again Saturday.

Leahy, who doesn't go along with the majority of experts who tab his team tops in the nation, called up-and-coming Pittsburgh one of the "great potential teams in the country" last Saturday after taking advantage of his own team's day off to watch the Panthers maul Nebraska, 14-6.

"Pittsburgh is capable of beating any team," observed Leahy, adding that Notre Dame's two victims this season, Oklahoma and Purdue, were really "not as great as they seemed."

While the Panthers strive to knock the Irish off their lofty perch, Indiana will seek to hand Michigan State its first setback in 28 games in a Big Ten feature.

Similarly, undefeated but oncedited Auburn will be aiming to wreck Georgia Tech's unbeaten string of 30 games in a Southeastern Conference feature while in another weekend high-light, Ohio State, which was upset 41-30 by Illinois Saturday, looks to recoup against Pennsylvania, 40-0 loser to California.

Alabama, a contender for the Southeastern Conference title tangles with Tennessee in a nationally televised meeting between a pair of arch rivals. In the same conference, Louisiana State will be looking for its first conference triumph of the year against highly-regarded Georgia and thrice-beaten Tulane will attempt to regain some lost prestige against favored Mississippi.

In addition to the Michigan State-Indiana tussle in the Big Ten, Michigan goes gunning for its fourth victory of the year against Northwestern, which lost to Minnesota, 30-13, Saturday. Minnesota takes on Illinois and Purdue and Wisconsin opens their conference schedule against each other.

Texas Christian, which almost pulled off the upset of the year before bowing to Michigan State's three-touchdown onslaught in the final quarter, meets Texas A&M in a Southwest Conference tilt and in the Southwest Conference games, Arkansas plays Texas and Southern Methodist meets Rice.

Phantoms' Coaches Pleased By Play Against Mount Airy

By WAYNE BISHOP
Reflector Sports Writer

Heard Around:

Coaches Bill Kittrell and Marshall Tatum seemed extra-ordinarily pleased with the performance of the Greenville High School football team Friday even though the Phantoms lost by a 13-6 score.

Mount Airy scored two touchdowns the first two times they had the ball but after that the Greensies slowed the Mount Airy offense to a near standstill.

After halftime the Phantoms came back following a wonderful pep talk by Kittrell, and almost pulled the game out of the bag.

The Greenville coaches were pleased by the fact that only 30 yards in penalties were marked off against the Phants. Mount Airy lost 75 yards by penalties, becoming the only team this season to lose more yards on penalties than the Phantoms.

Coach Wally Shelton of Mount Airy related that he was lucky to win the game. He also told the Phantoms, "You fellows played a great game tonight. You were by far the best team we have played several Triple-A schools. I don't see how you could have any trouble in your conference..."

Several statistical leaders kept their margins in the various offensive departments. End Harold Edwards has caught the most passes, nine for 110 yards, with Captain Bobby Conway right behind with seven completions for 88 yards.

James Speight maintains the rushing leadership with 394 yards in 60 rushes for an average of 6.6. Bobby Langston ranks second, 314 yards in 71 rushes, with an average of 4.4 per carry. Bob Howell is third, 188 yards in 46 carries for an average of 4.1.

Although sporting a two-win, four-loss record the Phantoms hold a statistical edge over their opposition.

Pirates On Top In North State

GREENSBORO (UP)—East Carolina College stood at the top of the North State Conference heap today, still undefeated after four games.

East Carolina chalked up its latest conquest with a one-sided 45-25 victory over Elon College with quarterback Dick Cherry scoring two touchdowns and passing for two others.

The victory allowed the Pirates to remain the only undefeated club in the conference.

East Carolina meets West Carolina, still without a win, this weekend. Guilford takes on Lenoir Rhyne, Catawba meets Appalachian and Elon has an open date.

Catawba won its first game Saturday with a bare 13-12 victory over Western Carolina. Tackle Bill Smith saved the day for the Redskins when he blocked an attempted extra point after the Catawba mounts scored their second touchdown less than two minutes before the game ended.

In other play involving conference teams, Appalachian whipped Lenoir Rhyne, 32 to 6, and Guilford took a 21-14 drubbing at the hands of Emory and Henry.

average of 144.6 yards per game and passed for an average of 52.9 yards more. That's a total of 197.8 yards (average) of total offense per game. The opposition has averaged 101.9 on the ground, 41.7 in the air, and a per-game average of 143.6 yards of total offense in the six games.

The Phantoms are idle this week-end but they'll get into action again two weeks from now (October 23) when they play host to the high-flying New Bern Bears.

ACC Giant To Have To Fall When Tar Heels Meet Terps

By ED GOINS

RALEIGH (UP)—One of the giants of the Atlantic Coast Conference will have to fall Saturday, barring a tie, when Maryland meets the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

And both teams have more than prestige to consider. The possibility that the conference champion may go to the Orange Bowl seemed nearer with the announcement that representatives of the Big Seven will come to Duke University this week to discuss a possible Orange Bowl contract tieup.

Duke, the third undefeated ACC team, also will be strongly victim conscious when the Blue Devils go against Army at New York.

Clemson and South Carolina will take breathers in preparation for their Thursday meeting the following week. Wake Forest goes against North Carolina State in a conference battle at Raleigh Saturday night. Virginia, the newest ACC member, although not yet officially on the conference roster, plays host to VMI.

The conference had another field day last Saturday.

Maryland's Terrible Terps wrecked havoc on the Georgia Bulldogs, 40-13, at College Park, thanks largely to the wizardry of quarterback Bernie Faloney, who scored twice himself and operated the Terrapin's split-T machine with deadly precision.

Another quarterback, Jerry Barger, understudy to Worth Lutz, got a large share of the credit for Duke's 20-14 win over the Boll-weavers from Purdue. Barger sparked a 66-yard drive for the winning touchdown, crossing the line himself on a seven-yard run in the last minute of the game.

Halfback Connie Gravitte, better known until recently as a baseball player, displayed some brilliant running and passing to help North Carolina to an 18-13 conference victory over Wake Forest.

Quarterback Johnny Gramling paved the way as South Carolina rolled over Furman, 27-13. Gramling's passing helped prove the difference as the Gamecocks went for touchdowns the first two times they got the ball and then added two more in the fourth period to put it on ice.

TIRED OF DIGGING HOLES FOR FENCE POSTS?

Here's an easy way to get out of that work... to stop spending all that money. For fence repairs, make replacements with Koppers Pressure-Creosoted Posts — the posts that last for 30 years! Soon, you'll have a 100% pressure-creosoted post fence. Naturally, for new fencing, it pays to set only Koppers Posts, and forget about making replacements.

Koppers Posts, pressure-treated with creosote, are protected against termites and decay. They keep original size and strength at ground line; therefore, smaller treated posts can replace larger untreated posts. There are many other advantages. See us for fence posts.

Bing Unhurt In Auto Collision

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (UP) — Crooner Bing Crosby was reported unhurt today following an auto collision which injured three other persons and bashed in the front of the singer's $12,000 Mercedes-Benz sports car.

Crosby reportedly complained of a sore back when he stepped from his cream-colored roadster following the crash early Sunday morning. But the cooner's brother, Larry said later Bing was "shaken up, that's all."

Bing was not available for comment.

The driver of the second auto, Los Angeles fireman Frank Verdugo, 32, was hospitalized with head injuries. His wife, Lucy, 28, received a possible broken nose, and passenger, Eulallo Perea, 29, suffered minor bruises.

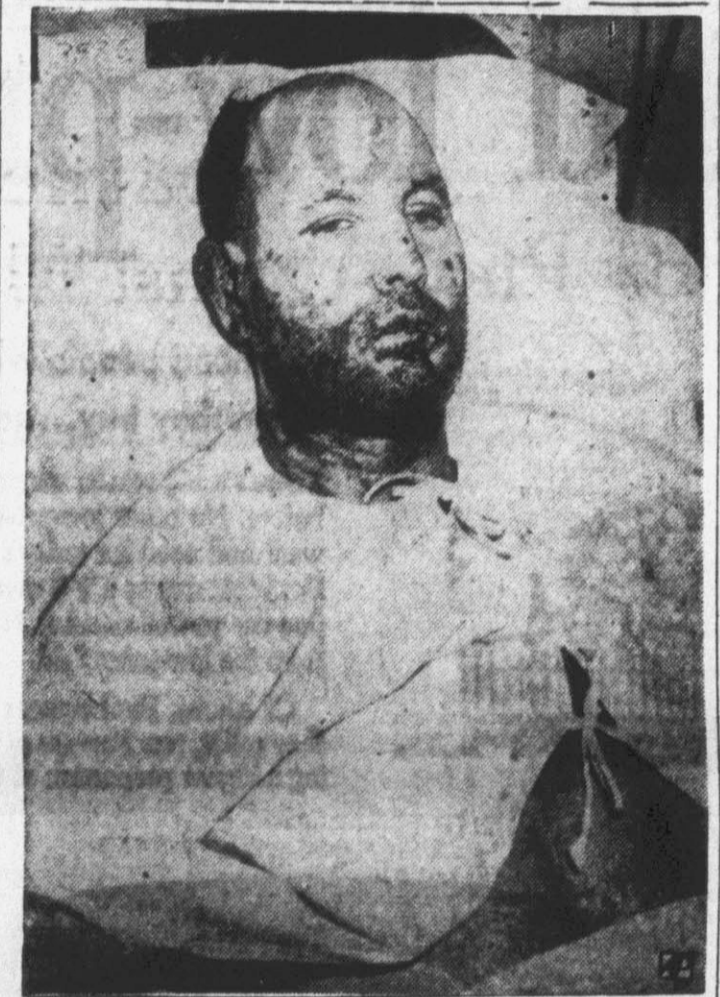

Crosby's plush auto purchased in Germany last summer, had fenders, radiator and lights crumpled. Crosby told highway patrolmen he stopped at the intersection, saw no cars and started across. "There was a crash and I lost control," he said. "That's all I know."

RUSTY RILEY

Heavy Schedule Is Facing President

By MERRIMAN SMITH

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower hoped to lick his latest bout with stomach trouble today and wade into one of the busiest weeks of his White House career, a week that will include his 63rd birthday.

The chief executive was found Sunday morning to be suffering from what his physician, Dr. Howard M. Snyder, described as intestinal flu. Snyder expected the President to be able to go to his office today.

Other White House sources described Mr. Eisenhower's ailment as an upset stomach of the same type that caused him much discomfort last April 16, a few hours before he was to make an important speech.

One of the President's closest associates attributed the current attack to "tension." This associate volunteered no specific reason for the upsetting tension but last week was particularly bothersome for Mr. Eisenhower who was forced to step in and correct widely divergent statements of his administration leaders about the Russian hydrogen bomb.

Adding to any tension, as it did in April, was the rugged schedule Mr. Eisenhower faced this week, including a mammoth birthday party Tuesday in Hershey, Pa., and important speeches from Ohio to the Mexican border.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said he did not expect the President's upset to change his travel plans.

The chief executive spent most of Sunday morning in bed, but was "up and around" by early afternoon. He did not leave his quarters during the day. The White House described his activities as "just resting."

His illness from the White House point of view, came at a delicate time. The White House has felt it necessary on several occasions since early August to step on rumors about the President's health.

Most of these rumors stemmed from an injury to his right elbow in early August. He banged his arm against something in the House and suffered a bad bruise which interfered with his fishing during his long Colorado vacation. It did not affect his golf appreciably.

The most recent White House statement about the President's elbow was to deny a printed report that the ailment had been diagnosed as bursitis and that it might require surgery.

As the President approached his 63rd birthday Wednesday, his doctor and his staff continued to appraise his health as basically good for a man of his age. His weight has varied very little since taking office. He weighs about 178 pounds—just what he weighed in January.

Battle deaths for American troops in the Korean war averaged about 2.5 per 1,000 per year compared with 8.9 in World War II.

Seven Attractions To Be On Entertainment Series

Seven major attraction, featuring music, drama, and the dance, are included on the East Carolina College Entertainment Series for 1959-1960, according to announcement by James W. Butler, alumni secretary and chairman of the college Entertainment Committee.

Whittemore and Lowe, duo pianists; the American Album of Familiar Music; the Barter Theatre of Virginia; Anna Russell, concert comedienne; the Don Cossacks Chorus and Dancers; the North Carolina Symphony, with Walter Noona, East Carolina student of music, as guest pianist; and a dance band will make up the program. Performances are scheduled for the Wright auditorium at 8 p.m.

Whittemore and Lowe will open the current series with a two-piano recital Tuesday, October 27. These popular young artists, who will make at that time their third appearance at East Carolina, return to the campus by popular request.

The Barter Theatre will present Thursday, November 5, Eugene O'Neill's comedy "Ah, Wilderness." Gustave Haenschen will appear as conductor with the American Album of Familiar Music Monday, December 14.

Anna Russell, who gives hilarious imitations of opera singers and other artists, has been scheduled for a performance Wednesday, February 3; and the Don Cossacks will appear Monday, March 8.

Nogga, a senior from Norfolk, Va., whose talent has won national recognition, will be guest artist with the North Carolina Symphony Orchestra on the closing program of the series Monday, April 26.

A nationally known band will be booked for a January concert, and announcement of the program will be made later.

Patrons of the Entertainment Series may obtain tickets from Mr. Butler.

Parents Voice Opinions On Education In Survey

Twenty graduate students at East Carolina College, working under the direction of Director J.K. Long of the college education department, recently asked some 300 parents to "speak-out" on various topics of interest in public school education. Their findings are revealed in an article by Dr. Long, "When Parents Speak Out," published in the October issue of "North Carolina Education."

The East Carolina graduate students made the study as a "survey of public opinion regarding parents' interests in knowing about their school." Both questionnaires and interviews were used in obtaining information. The 300 parents who opinions are summarized in Dr. Long's account represent seventeen counties of the state. The study reveals these opinions: Parents believe elementary school pupils receive a satisfactory amount of help and guidance from the teacher, but high school pupils do not.

Parents favor sex education in the high school by a five to one ratio, and are almost unanimous in their belief that the school should devote a short period each day to religious training.

The majority of parents believe the school spends enough time in teaching reading, writing, and arithmetic.

There is a considerable difference about homework, but more than half the parents questioned believe the school gives about the right amount.

The study shows also that, though parents express a strong interest in knowing how their children are taught, only four out of ten visit the school to see pupils and teachers at work.

A fairly large percent of parents, according to Dr. Long's report of the survey, do not know how membership on the school board is obtained, whether they would be welcome to board meetings, nor whether the board works in harmony with teachers and the community.

Patrol Arrests In Pitt Increase

KINSTON — Sgt. John Laws, in his October report of State Highway Patrol activities, commended the Pitt county patrolmen for greater enforcement.

Law's report for District 5 (Lenoir, Greene and Pitt counties) shows that 277 highway arrests were made for hazardous violations in Lenoir county; 360 in Pitt (a considerable increase), and 101 arrests in Greene county.

Principal causes of arrests were speeding, improper passing, driving on left side of a highway, "stop" sign violations and following other motor vehicles too close.

Following is a summary of the patrol's activities in District 5 during September:

Accidents investigated, 59—17 in Lenoir county, 25 in Pitt and 16 in Greene.

Traffic fatalities, 3—two in Pitt and one in Greene county.

Number of traffic injuries, 37—eight in Lenoir, 17 in Pitt and 12 in Greene county.

The report estimates property damage on the highways during September at $30,800 — $10,900 in Lenoir; $11,200 in Pitt and $8,700 in Greene.

Mail Box Jokers Lrk Postmaster

CLEVELAND, O. (U.P.) — Postmaster Joseph Prosser is fed up with some of the "jokers" who have been mailing cats, dogs, cigar butts, report cards and billfolds and intends to crack down.

There are 1,600 mailboxes here, and annually the department is flooded with items that bear no resemblance to letters or packages.

"From now on," Prosser said, "we will keep a closer scrutiny on our mail collection boxes. Any jokers caught mailing dogs, cats and lighted cigar and cigarette butts will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law."

Prosser reported on a recent incident where an unwary postman opened a letter box and found a frantic tomcat inside.

"When our man came along and opened the box to get the mail, the cat leaped out and nearly scared him to death," Prosser said. "That was bad enough, but the cat had ruined about all the mail in the box. Why, the last the mailman saw of him, he was racing down the street with several letters stuck to his claws."

He was particularly bitter about those who can't pass a mailbox without tossing a lighted cigar or cigar into the slot.

"That's destroying government property," he pointed out, "punishable by up to $500 fine, plus costs and maybe one year in prison."

Pickpockets like to use mailboxes to get rid of the billfolds and purses they have emptied.

"The last time the Cleveland Indians played at home, we picked up more than 100 stolen billfolds from our downtown boxes and returned nearly all of them," Prosser said.

The claims and inquiries department makes these returns for a charge of from 10 to 50 cents, depending on the weight.

With school underway once again, the mail boxes will be receiving grade cards until next summer. Prosser can't understand how children think getting rid of the cards is going to prevent their parents from finding out their marks. The cards are returned, he said.

Humble Plow In New Art Form

DES MOINES (AP) — The humble plow has achieved the status of an art form.

In a farm theme exhibit at the Des Moines Art Center, an ancient plow found in Adair County was accorded a place of honor.

Students placed the plow in the gallery as a joke. But Dwight Kirsch, center director, decided it belonged. So the plow was mounted on a pedestal for display, flanked by 65 paintings of rural scenes by internationally known artists.

Most-liked low-priced car

...among people who want more for their money when they buy...and more money when they sell

There's a big reason why more folks are buying more Fords than ever before. No other low-priced car offers so many of the things people want and need for today's driving. In fact, to get such "Worth More" Ford features as a V-8 engine, completely automatic transmission and fine-car power steering in any other car, you'd have to step well up from the low-price field.

Of course, Ford owners will discover that Ford's worth more when they sell it, too. Surveys of used car prices show year-old Fords returning a higher proportion of their original cost than any other car.

because it's most like high-priced cars

...more and more people are considering Ford as the one fine car in the low-price field!

It's hard to believe that a car which is built like the finest still sells in the low-price field. Yet a Ford with its hulltight Crestmark body, its Full-Circle Visibility (most in its field), its new fine car ride and roomy luggage locker (roomiest in its field) delivers at a figure that keeps it right down in its price class.

Ford's the only low-priced car which offers you a choice of a completely automatic transmission (Fordomatic), Overdrive or Conventional Drive. And Ford Master-Guide, available on all V-8 models, is the last word in power steering... makes turning up to 75% easier, yet retains the natural feel of the wheel on the straightaway.

Ford's 110-h.p. V-8 is the same type of engine now powering America's finest (and costliest) cars, And Ford's Mileage Maker Six is the most modern Six in the industry.

Nixon Arrives In New Zealand

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (UP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon arrived today on the second leg of his around-the-world "good-will tour."

The youthful vice-president's special Air Force Constellation set down at Ohakea Airport at 10:45 a.m., two hours behind schedule, on a flight from Hawaii.

Strong headwinds and a late take off from the refueling station of Canton Island in the South Pacific caused the delay.

Before landing at Canton, Nixon played the role of "King Neptune" in a "shellback" initiation for four passengers including his wife, Pat, as they crossed the equator.

While in Hawaii, Nixon took up the statehood issue and predicted Congress would vote for it in the next session.

"I recognize the risk in predicting statehood because nobody can predict with absolute assurance what Congress will do," Nixon said.

"However, I know it is part of the President's program and, by taking the position that it is 'out front,' I believe it will have a beneficial effect in making the prediction come true."

Duet To Present Original Sonata

Dr. Elwood Kelster, violinist, and George Perry, pianist, faculty members at East Carolina College, will play Mr. Perry's sonata for violin and piano, opus 20, Thursday afternoon, October 15, at 4:00, in the Austin auditorium at the weekly recital presented by the department of music at the college.

The two faculty members will also perform the sonata at the District Music Club convention to be held in Greenville October 31 and again at the State Music Club convention in Winston-Salem next April.

The sonata, subtitled "Summer 1950" is in three movements, "June," "July" and "August," respectively, and is dedicated to Dr. and Mrs. Karl V. Gilbert. Dr. Gilbert, a former faculty member at East Carolina, gave the sonata its premiere performance at a Greenville Music Club program in 1951.

Square Dance Club Will Give Beginners Lessons

Greenville's Square Dance Club, sponsored by the City Recreation Department, holds a square dance in the Recreation Building at Elm Street Park every Wednesday night.

In a drive to encourage all groups to learn square dancing the club is starting a program to give beginners instructions each Wednesday night prior to the beginning of the regular dance. These instructions are held from 7:30 to 8 o'clock, the time for beginning the dance.

Any person or persons are eligible to apply for membership in the club. All members who join before October 31 shall be considered charter members.

The aim and objectives of the club are five-fold. They are:

1. The encouragement and enjoyment of international folk and square dancing and its related arts with the promotion of good spirit of friendship and understanding.
2. To provide and conduct, if possible, festivals in which all may participate.
3. To encourage research in authentic dance forms and to make available recognized patterns of folk and square dances.
4. To assist in the formation and development of folk and square dance groups where such assistance is requested.
5. To encourage among folk and square dance groups mutual cooperation and exchange of dance techniques, instructions, and leaders.

The Club officers are Russell Peterson, president; Harry Billica, vice-president; Mrs. Dot Horne, secretary; and Ray Lowe, treasurer.

The membership chairman is John Barnhill; the Publicity and Public Relation chairman is Mrs. Marjorie Carroll; and Mrs. Nina Guice is the social and reception chairman. The above named persons are considered the Executive board of the club.

Shorts At Stake In Summer Issue

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP)—All of the howls didn't come from male wolves when a few state capitol stenographers wore shorts to work to help keep cool in sweltering weather.

Complaints from private citizens quickly put an end to the practice.

But at Salina, Kan., Grover Simpson, a grainman, commented that Topekan's "may thrive on hot air, but we don't" — and invited his office girls to wear shorts. Six did. So did Simpson.

Old 'Song Of Songs' Has Modern Revival

BEERSHEBA, Israel (U.P.) — If you want to court an Israeli girl, brush up your knowledge of the Bible.

This kind of revival of the Scriptures is not due to an orthodox awakening or a dependence on the Bible for divine intercession, but rather to get a few pointers from the Song of Songs on how a girl's heart was won 2,000 years ago.

In Israel, the land in which the Bible was created, that book has become the primer for living. It not only fills position No. 1 in the curriculum of all schools, but its language is the vernacular of the streets.

When a girl is told, "Thy lips are like a thread of scarlet," she may take it with a grain of salt, and perhaps think there are more appropriate phrases in the Song of Songs than Verse 3, Chapter 4, but she does not question the style nor does she believe she is being ridiculed.

At a meeting of writers and artists, Prime Minister David Ben Gurion called upon them to encourage the new tendency to "revitalize the Bible." He asked that the true force of the Book be restored, and declared: "The shepherd who kissed Shulamith in the Song of Songs was a man who loved a woman." This contradicts the orthodox religious interpretation that the shepherd's kiss was that of the Lord for His people.

Movie critics with the Bible making learning geography easy for Israeli children. It also makes local youngsters the severest critics of films with Biblical backgrounds. Although local movie houses showing a film such as "David and Bathsheba" play for weeks at a time to full houses, they are subject to a barrage of criticism such as is heard nowhere else.

School children take great delight in pointing out wherein the film differs from the Biblical narrative laugh at the costumes because of some minor mistake an overwrought technical expert in Hollywood may have overlooked, and gleefully recite either cut out or transformed.

Until the army stopped it, village guards in border settlements were challenging approaching strangers by asking them to name the weekly chapter of the Bible read in the synagogues. The army persuaded the guards that marauders from across the border bent on robbery or murder could easily learn the password by looking at the index in the back of any Hebrew Bible.

With the revival of Hebrew as a spoken language, there has appeared a strong tendency to look to the Bible for children's names. Many of these are found perhaps once in the entire Scriptures. Few are familiar with them.

Before this practice became the fashion, rabbis officiating at ceremonies announcing the birth of a child refused to insert uncommon biblical names in the prayer service. They insisted the names were not Jewish.

The practice has now been reversed too such an extent that fond parents seeking unique or unusual names for their offspring will call a daughter Sara and a son Joseph. And, in order not to let one forget that Israel is the land of the Bible, the Israel Broadcasting Service's time signal consists of the first bar of the traditional Jewish tune for Genesis 1.1.

Williamston To Stage Festival

WILLIAMSTON — Miss Peggy Waters, Windsor High School senior, has been selected to appear in the Sixth Annual Harvest Festival at Williamston October 28, as Princess Windsor. Miss Waters will compete with more than a dozen other representatives of surrounding counties for the title of Queen of the Harvest 1953.

Miss Waters has been active in high school and church affairs in Windsor during recent years. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Waters of Windsor.

Tentative plans for the annual event include appearances by bands from Scotland Neck, Ahoskie, Windsor, Washington County, Enfield, Edenton, Tarboro, and Washington High School. Invitations have also been extended to other high school bands in Eastern North Carolina.

A well-known dance band has been booked for the Coronation Ball which is to climax the days festivities. Plans are also being made for the decoration of the downtown district of Williamston for the event.

A large crowd is anticipated for the annual event. Last year an estimated crowd of nearly 20,000 was on hand to view the parade.

'Wolfpack' Had Highway Covered

The Highway Patrol's well known "wolfpack" was at work on Pitt County's highway US 264 yesterday.

Patrolmen patrolled US 264 from the Coast to the Wilson County Line all day yesterday in another of the Patrol's all-out efforts to cut down on traffic accidents.

Patrolmen were stationed every eight to ten miles all day and night.

It was the first Pitt Highway to feel the efforts of the Wolfpack.

SAME OLD PROBLEMS

ARKANSAS CITY, Kan. (UP)—Eighty-three years ago when this Kansas town near the Oklahoma border was founded, municipal records showed there were three principal problems: water supply, municipal revenue, stray dogs. Commission meetings in September had three top issues to tackle: a $300,000 expansion of the city water supply, increases in municipal revenue through higher water rates, stray dogs.

U.S. production of coke last year was four times that of England and twice as much as the estimated Soviet production.

Funeral Tuesday For S. G. Worthington

Samuel G. Worthington, 87, of Winterville died this morning at Pitt Memorial Hospital.

He was the son of the late Spier Worthington and Margaret Corey Worthington. He was born, raised, and lived his entire life in Pitt County.

Funeral services will be held at the home near Winterville Tuesday at 3:30. The burial will be at Greenwood Cemetery.

There are seven children surviving. They are: S. O. Worthington of Greenville, Mrs. William E. Walker of Albemarle, Mrs. B. L. Snipes of Knoxville, Tenn., Mrs. L. W. Sapp of Williamsburg, Virginia, B. N. Worthington, Annie Worthington and Mrs. Jim Mellon of the home.

Friends Made Up Farmer's Loss

POINT BREEZE, N.Y. (UP)—Farmer Maynard Moore found out during the weekend that he had a lot of hard-working friends.

Moore recently suffered a $25,000 loss in a fire that destroyed his barns. Three years ago he lost another $25,000 barn on the farm he then owned.

This weekend, members of the Waterfront Grange gathered at the Moore farm, and held a barn bee, beginning work on a barn which will house the many tools and other farm items presented to him at a barn "shower" last week.

Cat May Receive Bronze Award

NEW YORK (UP)—Blackie, a cat owned by Mrs. W. G. Martin of Durham, N. C., has been recommended for the bronze award and citation of the Puss 'N Boots Committee of New York for its reputed feat of returning home from 140 miles away alone.

Blackie disappeared from Mrs. Martin while she was visiting relatives in Gastonia, and Mrs. Martin had given the cat up for lost. But when she returned to Durham she found Blackie waiting for her.

Presented Safe Driving Award

Highway Patrolman Jim Davis is pictured Saturday morning as he presented Rufus Haddock of Route 1, Grimesland with a safe driving award which the Highway Patrol is distributing. Haddock has driven for 30 years without a motor accident and has never received a traffic citation. The award also entitles the holder to a free admission to the State Fair. The Patrol presented the awards to drivers over the week-end in all parts of the state. (Reflector Photo by Roy Hardee)

Greenville Trio Help Save Life Of Man Who Fell From Pier

Three Greenville men played prominent roles in helping to save the life Saturday night of a Goldsboro man who fell into the ocean off the end of a 1,000 foot fishing pier at Atlantic Beach.

Dave Whichard, Ollie VanNortwick, Jr. and Jack Whichard were the three Greenville men who participated in the rescue.

Dave Whichard, editor of The Reflector, was let down by rope into the water off the Triple E pier at the resort beach to rescue Dexter Moxingo who had fallen off the pier while fishing about midnight Saturday.

The three Greenville men had stopped by the fishing pier on their way home after fishing in Bogue Sound earlier in the evening.

They were going to see how "fishing luck" was there when members of the Goldsboro man's party were trying to awaken the operator of the pier to get life-saving equipment to rescue the drowning man.

No lifesaving equipment was available, so by using rods and reels and casting into his clothes, the fallen man was drawn back to the pier. Dave Whichard, with a rope around him, was let down into the water so he could hold the unconscious man and they both could be lifted back onto the pier; however, the rope was too short, and efforts by the group on the pier to lift the two men were unsuccessful. After about 15 minutes, the pair in the water were dragged along beside the pier by the rope into shallow water.

Two other unidentified men entered the ocean to help get the victim out of the water after he had been dragged into the shallows. Artificial respiration was given Moxingo and help restore normal breathing, and he was then rushed to Morehead City hospital.

According to bystanders, the man had been in the water about 15 minutes when Jack Dave, and Van Nortwick arrived. "Members of Moxingo's party were obviously so stunned that they didn't know exactly what to do about rescuing the man," Jack said, "so if we hadn't come along he probably would have drowned."

"Although the tide was moving out, the ocean was still calm and this was the main reason rescue efforts were successful," Jack stated.

According to hospital authorities the man did not regain consciousness until about 5 a.m. Sunday, but his chances for recovery are very good. He seemed in good spirits when visited by the local rescuers Sunday afternoon.

One Of Three Robberies Solved; Boy Arrested

One of three robberies in Pitt County this weekend has been cleared up by the arrest of a Greenville juvenile last night.

The arrest of the Greenville boy last night cleared up the house breaking at Tom Langston's house, located near Winterville, off NC 11.

Langston's house was entered sometime late Saturday evening. Deputy Sheriff Duke Andrews reported today, with a ring, pair of new shoes and a strong box containing papers taken.

Entrance into the building was gained by cutting the screen, Andrews reported.

The stolen goods have been recovered.

Trial of the case will be held before Juvenile Judge D. T. House. Two stores were broken into in the county with only a small amount of goods taken in each robbery.

A store in Stokes, operated by J. Henry Whitehurst, was entered by breaking the glass in a window and a quantity of beer and cigarettes removed, Andrews stated.

Investigation of the robbery is still underway.

Nothing was reported missing from the store operated by Bob Fulford, on the Stantonsburg highway, last night when the front door was found broken open.

Investigation is incomplete.

BALLOON FIND

MT. DESERT ROCK, Me. (UP)—Fisherman Laurence Newman hauled a balloon out of the ocean here that had been released the night before by a theater in Paterson, N. J. The balloon, advertising a motion picture and containing an admission ticket, had been carried 500 miles in 10 hours by a strong easterly gale.

Auto Accidents Keep Police Busy

Minor traffic accidents were the largest item of business handled by city police over the weekend.

A car driven by Mrs. Dorothy F. Aldridge, 29, of 134 North Library Street, was involved in an accident with an oil truck driven by Connie Hines, 1107 Forbes Street, at Woodlawn and First Street Saturday afternoon.

Around $300 damage was reported with no injuries or charges.

A three-car accident on Mumford Road last night caused damage of several hundred dollars, city policeman W. R. Elks reported.

Car driven by John W. Harris, 305 East Mumford Road, Richard G. Joyner, 1405 Broad Street, and Jessie Teel, Route 4, Greenville, were involved in the accident.

Teel was charged with following too closely.

Two Minor Fires In City Over Past Weekend

Greenville firemen answered two city calls over the weekend, both of a minor nature and causing no damage.

The first call came at 8:30 Sunday morning when an electric motor at the Colony Theater caught fire.

Around noon yesterday, a call was received from the home of Woodrow Heath, 1305 Glenn Arthur Ave., city, when food on the stove caught fire.

A box alarm was turned in from box 225. The fire was out on arrival.

A third call in Martin County was answered by the local department when the W. C. Chance Negro High School burned down.

Greenville was one of four departments which responded to the call.

Building Damaged In Auto Accident

Two cars collided at the intersection of Fourth and Evans Streets this morning, causing heavy property damage to the cars, the Rose's Five and Ten store, and personal injury to one of the vehicle occupants.

It was understood the drivers became confused over traffic light signals.

One of the cars crashed into the side of the store, causing extensive damage.

The Greenville Police Department would not immediately furnish any information on the accident as to names of the drivers nor extent of injuries, or other details.

Colored News

AYDEN—Mrs. Niece Williams was among the Goldsboro District group which met with the Durham district group in a joint session at the home office of the North Carolina Mutual Life Insurance Co., Durham, of which she is employed as a "Life Underwriter" (agent).

She along with the group entered first the district office and engaged in a business session, after which the group was served a most delicious dinner in the cafeteria of the main building, a rest followed in the lounge room, then the touring of the home office began immediately of the main building. Mrs. Williams and others were able to see the general operators of the business which they are now engaged in. Addresses by head officials and awarding of prizes followed later in the lounge.

The Modernette's Social Club will meet at the home of Mrs. Willie Mae Cherry, 126 West 16th St., on Tuesday night at 8:30.

The Greene-Lenoir-Wayne-Pitt Alumni Chapter will meet Tuesday night at 8 o'clock at the Greene County Training School in Snow Hill instead of Wednesday night as previously stated. All A.&T. graduates are expected to be present.
