

Defense Dept. Is Weighing Plans To Reduce Army Units In Europe

Diplomats Argue Move Might Brake Armed Build-Up By U. S. Allies

By JOHN W. FINNEY WASHINGTON (UP)—The Defense Department is considering bringing home one or more of the six U. S. Army divisions now stationed in Western Europe.

High officials said today no firm plans have been made. The final decision will be up to President Eisenhower and the National Security Council.

As supreme commander of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization forces before he was elected president, Mr. Eisenhower urged the deployment of a strong U. S. ground force in Europe, which he described as the front line of resistance to Communist aggression.

The military argument for withdrawing some U. S. troops is that the need for American infantrymen has been reduced in the past two years by development of new weapons, such as the atomic cannons recently sent to Western Europe.

The diplomatic argument against the move is that it might play into the hands of those who are urging European allies to increase their own military contributions to NATO.

Both points of view doubtless will receive a thorough airing in the National Security Council, which is composed of top military and diplomatic officials and which was created for the precise purpose of viewing strategic plans from all angles.

A meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Council, top planning body of NATO, is tentatively scheduled for December. Any plan to reduce U. S. ground troop strength in Europe probably would be made known at that time.

Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson gave a clue to current military thinking on the subject at a news conference Monday. He said new weapons should permit a "substantial reduction" of American troops stationed in Europe. Any such cutback, he said, would not be immediate but rather over a "reasonable period of time."

Wilson said the "important thing" is not how many troops the United States has stationed in Europe but rather that "we are committed ahead of time" to go to the defense of Western Europe in event of war.

In a speech prepared for delivery before the 96th annual convention of the National Coal Association, he said that "... While the going is rough today, it can be hoped that the industry will eventually find economic stability and, as it has long before, through its own efforts."

"The industry must recognize... that the remedy cannot be found in legislative expedients which offer temporary benefits but which, if implemented, leave the industry weaker than before."

He appeared before the convention only a short while after association leaders had pledged to continue the industry's fight for strict government limitations on imports of foreign-produced fuel oil which competes with coal in many Eastern markets.

Association President L. C. Campbell and Executive Vice President Tom Pickett said every effort would be made to get the next session of Congress to enact legislation limiting oil imports, but legislation was introduced at the last session but was blocked in the House Ways & Means Committee.

A report of the benefit Talent how held last week was also heard by the commission.

Tyson Bilbro reported to the commission that the City Council had appointed a committee to see if funds could be obtained to secure two swimming pools for the city.

Israel's Premier Defends Raid As Reprisal Step Iraq To Help Jordan Arabs

JERUSALEM (UP)—Neighboring oil-rich Iraq answered Jordan's call for help in the crisis with Iraq today by promising military and financial aid to halt "Jewish aggression."

It was announced later that Iraqi Premier Fadi Al Jamali would head the Iraqi delegation to an emergency session of the Arab League's Political Council at Amman Wednesday.

Israeli Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion Monday night defended a bloody attack by Israeli border settlers on a Jordan settlement.

Ben-Gurion said the attack was made in reprisal for four years of Arab raids on Israel.

In a radio speech to the nation Ben-Gurion said the Western powers should measure Israel's actions with the same yardstick applied to the Arab states in matters of security.

"For four years the armed forces of Jordan and other Arab countries have been breaking into Jewish settlements close to the frontiers and into Jerusalem," he said. "Hundreds of Israeli citizens—men and women, young and old—have been killed and seriously injured."

"All of our appeals to the Mixed Armistice Commission and our attempts to get the Arab governments to put an end to these crimes proved fruitless," the premier said.

He charged the "Arab states sponsored these actions directly or indirectly in order to undermine Israel's normal life."

Ben-Gurion said the "Israeli government rejects with all its vigor the absurd and fantastic allegation that 600 men of the Israeli army took part in the action against Kibya village."

He said the attack was made by Israeli border settlers whose patience was "exhausted after a mother and her two children were killed in their sleep in Fahud village."

Later this week, there will be hard work on the administration's defense policy for fiscal 1954 and conferences with farm leaders on a new agricultural program to recommend to Congress after it reconvenes in January.

In the windup of his trip into the Midwest and Southwest, Mr. Eisenhower Monday joined Mexican President Adolfo Ruiz Cortines in dedicating the new Falcon Dam on the Rio Grande between Texas and Mexico.

He spoke out sharply against "aggressive totalitarianism" in an obvious slam at Russia. He condemned it for "its strut, its slander, its self-seeking—and its contempt for man himself."

President Home After Five-Day Tour Of Country

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower came back from a five-day swing through the drought country today to face an accumulation of tough international, defense and farm problems.

First order of business was a report from Secretary of State John Foster Dulles on last week's Big Three foreign ministers meeting in London.

Later this week, there will be hard work on the administration's defense policy for fiscal 1954 and conferences with farm leaders on a new agricultural program to recommend to Congress after it reconvenes in January.

In the windup of his trip into the Midwest and Southwest, Mr. Eisenhower Monday joined Mexican President Adolfo Ruiz Cortines in dedicating the new Falcon Dam on the Rio Grande between Texas and Mexico.

He spoke out sharply against "aggressive totalitarianism" in an obvious slam at Russia. He condemned it for "its strut, its slander, its self-seeking—and its contempt for man himself."

"The ugly menace of totalitarianism, its gaudy promise and grim practice," the President said.

"He is particularly alert to that kind of aggressive totalitarianism today propagating the deadliest divisions—class against class, nation against nation, people against people."

The $47,000,000 international dam, he said, is an example of how all nations should work together "in peace, in mutual respect, in common prosperity."

During his trip Mr. Eisenhower made a brief stop at Defiance, Ohio, and then visited Missouri, Kansas, Louisiana and Texas where the administration's farm programs have been under heavy attack.

Republican strategists said they believe the President's farm speech at Kansas City, Mo., his talks with drought state governors and numerous personal appearances did a lot to ease farm fears.

But the hard test—drafting a long range program to deal with farm ailments—remains. That will be the chief issue when Mr. Eisenhower meets Saturday with his National Agricultural Advisory Commission.

Merchants To Plan Christmas Street Decorations On Friday

Sweden Warns Red Stand May Shatter POW Set-Up

By FRANK JORDAN United Press Staff Correspondent PANMUNJOM, Korea (UP)—Sweden warned today it was "highly possible" that the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission would "break up" if the Communists insisted on using force against reluctant North Korean prisoners.

Jan Stenstrom, a Swedish delegate on the commission, issued the warning after Czechoslovakia and Poland announced their boycott of the NNRC.

The Communist bloc representatives stalked angrily out of a commission meeting because of the group's refusal to force 7,800 North Koreans to attend interviews with Red "persuaders."

The walkout indefinitely delayed the explanations to anti-Communist prisoners. Stenstrom said his government was opposed to any use of force and warned that Red insistence on it would threaten to wreck the whole operation.

"The risk of the commission is much greater than before," Stenstrom said. "It is highly possible the commission will break up if we cannot get the North Korean prisoners to go to the explanations."

Stenstrom's announcement constituted a formal alliance between the Swedish government and Switzerland in opposing the use of any force to bring North Korean prisoners from their compounds for face to face interviews with Red political officers.

The Swedish delegate said "The whole question hinges on how we can get the North Korean prisoners to attend the explanations."

The position of India, the other neutral nation, was not formally revealed, but the Indians were known to be against the use of force at least for the time being.

Lt. Gen. K. S. Thimayya of India, chairman of the commission, was believed to be in close contact with the boycotting Polish and Czech delegations. Informed sources said Thimayya did not call a meeting of the commission this week because he knew the Reds would not attend.

The Czech and Polish "neutrals" failed to show up for the scheduled 10 a. m. (8 p. m. e. s. t. Monday) meeting of the commission, forcing cancellation of the conference.

It was believed the NNRC had called the meeting to study or act on the Czech-Polish demands for immediate interviews with hostile North Korean prisoners of the Allies, now in Indian custody.

The Czechs and Poles angrily walked out of Monday's commission meeting when Indian Chairman Lt. Gen. K. S. Thimayya suggested that interviews proceed with anti-Communist Chinese being interrogated.

The Communist members of the commission had held out for North Koreans who, last Thursday, refused even to leave their compounds and go to the interview tents.

The commission then called off prisoner interviews for both yesterday and today.

Thimayya turned down Communist requests for the use of tear gas and firearms to force the North Koreans to attend interviews.

It was not known when the next interviews would be held in the unlikely event that the Communists agree to continue talking to Chinese, who in the only two sessions held turned down repatriation at a ratio of 50 to 1.

Defiance Of UN Draws State Department Criticism

WASHINGTON (UP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said today that the United States is holding up aid to Israel because she is defying United Nations plans to maintain peace in the Near East.

Asked at a news conference if the United States is cutting off aid to Israel, Dulles said the government is continuing technical cooperation.

But he said there has been no allocation yet to Israel under the Mutual Security (foreign aid) Act and the United States has postponed problems between Israel and her neighbors.

Dulles said the decision to hold up dollar aid was made when the United Nations put forward a plan for developing resources of the Jordan River for Israeli-Arab joint benefit.

Dulles said the recent attack by Israeli troops on three Jordan villages did not cause the decision to hold off a dollar-aid allocation.

However, the State Department sternly rebuked Israel for the "shocking" attack made by its troops. A few hours later, informed sources revealed that U. S. aid to Israel might be cut off unless the Israeli government agreed to cooperate with its Arab neighbors.

Israel has been diverting water from the Jordan and Syria claims this has been hurting her interests. Gen. Vagn Bennike of Denmark, head of a United Nations team in the area, said some time ago that Israel should halt the diversion.

Asked if Israel had been informed that U. S. aid was being held up, Dulles replied that they know they haven't got the money.

The United Nations Relief and Works Agency in Palestine has a TVA-style development of the Jordan Valley to provide employment for refugees and to induce the kind of cooperation that might help end the running fight between Israel and the Arabs.

The Tennessee Valley Authority last night unveiled its $121 million dollar 10 to 15-year plan for Jordan River development but emphasized it would depend on Israeli-Arab cooperation.

The TVA prepared the plan at the request of the U. N. relief agency. President Eisenhower has sent a special ambassador, Eric Johnston, to the Middle East to try to get the Israelis and Arabs to accept the proposal.

Undersecretary Places Truce Burden On Reds

COLUMBIA, S. C. (UP)—Undersecretary of State Walter Bedell Smith said today "the blame will lie entirely with the Communists," if a Korean peace conference does not materialize.

Smith said that the United States will continue to make every effort for a unified, independent Korea and intends to push toward this goal at the political conference called for in the Korean armistice.

In an address prepared for a convocation at the University of South Carolina, Smith said the armistice clearly provides for a political conference "made up of the two sides actually engaged in the fighting."

The Communists insisted upon this at the outset, he noted, but now they are opposing a United Nations General Assembly resolution calling for a two-sided conference.

Blame Hazing In Student's Death

JOHNSON CITY, Tenn. (UP)—The death of a Milligan College freshman from Greenwood, Ind., was blamed today on an accident which occurred while he was being hazed by upper classmen.

Valvin Dougherty, 17, died Monday of hemorrhages from internal injuries received when he ran full speed into a tennis court cable nearly four weeks ago.

College officials said in a statement Dougherty was ordered by upper classmen to run from the edge of the tennis court to the door of the dining hall in a specified time. Instead of running around the tennis court and up a path, the statement said, Dougherty cut across the court and ran "full speed" into a cable used to keep the tennis net taut.

He was thrown back onto the tennis court by the impact but was believed to have been only shaken up. Dougherty was taken to the college infirmary with a small cut on the head but later removed to Memorial Hospital when his condition failed to improve.

In an exploratory operation, Dougherty's spleen was removed and a ruptured pancreas repaired. School officials said he appeared to be recovering until the hemorrhages began.

Smith said Russia's "dynamic expansionism" is directly to blame for much of the world's trouble but he said there are other problems also which make peace difficult to achieve.

Thus, he said, "even if the Soviet attitude were conciliatory and cooperative the peace we seek would not be easily won." In this situation, he said, the United States has to deal with problems not directly connected with the Soviet Union "but which are nevertheless complicated by the character of Soviet policy."

In Indochina, he said, the Reds are working under a banner of nationalism and independence "as fraudulent as any ever devised."

The rebel forces are "clearly an arm of Communist aggression," Smith said.

He said the Indochina outlook for the Western Allies, gloomy only a few months ago, has changed "decidedly for the better" with a stepped-up drive of the French and native forces plus new aid from the United States.

Advices Against 'Brow-Beating'

DETROIT (UP)—Evangelist Billy Graham advised housewives Monday night against trying to brow-beat their husbands.

He said it was God's law that a husband, as head of the home, should be "respected and obeyed."

"And be attractive," Graham added. "Every man wants a pretty wife. If that can't be he demands an attractive one. I don't blame some men for not wanting to come home to unkempt and untidy wives."

Recreation Commission Meets And Plans For Coming Events

Greenville Recreation Commission plans for the family type inner and action to be held Wednesday evening at Elm Street park at the regular monthly meeting last night in City Hall.

The dinner, slated to begin at 7:30 Wednesday evening, is a benefit affair to help complete the building at the park.

A report of the benefit Talent how held last week was also heard by the commission.

Tyson Bilbro reported to the commission that the City Council had appointed a committee to see if funds could be obtained to secure two swimming pools for the city.

Warren Carroll, director of recreation, gave his monthly report.

He has been invited to New York on October 29 and 30 to the Little League Baseball Field Director's conference. The trip was approved by the commission.

Plans are being made by Carroll for a Midget All-Star football game with N. Charleston, S. C. for the Thanksgiving Day as the feature attraction of the season.

The Halloween Festival plans are also being made for Saturday, Oct. 31. The program for the whites will be held at the park and the Negroes at Spess Center. It will feature all-wheels field day, dog show, costume judging, apple bobbing, and free lemonade.

Carroll reported the budget has $100 set aside for the North Carolina Recreation Society in Durham November 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5; but he said only $101.50 would be needed.

The director stated that the supervisor needed by the commission had not been obtained, and he was still looking for a lady to fill the position.

In the budget report Carroll stated that the budget showed $30,000 on hand July 1. Since that time $8,139.80 has been spent, leaving a balance of $21,860.20.

The president of the Square Dance Club, Russell Peterson, said the instruction period, usually held at 7:30 each Wednesday evening, would not be held this Wednesday; however, he urged everyone to attend the dance that will follow the dinner and auction.

Sir Winston Churchill may not have been aware of this slight to his household cat, but he was pretty busy playing host to U. S. Secretary of State Foster Dulles at the time. The forgotten feline, locked out of London's 10 Downing Street, paced back and forth until the visiting diplomat's departure provided access to the prime minister's official residence. Also present at the dinner party was British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden for a get-together prior to the Big Three foreign minister's confab. (AP Wirephoto)

He stated that decorating the streets was a matter of civic pride and everyone must cooperate if Greenville has street decorations that it can be proud of.

Steelworkers Slated Plan Guaranteed Wage Stand

By RICHARD G. HARRIS
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP)—The CIO United Steelworkers union's Wage Policy Committee meets here Wednesday to map strategy for an expected all-out demand next year for a guaranteed annual wage in the industry.

The powerful 170-man policy group will confer for two days to agree upon their tactics when contract negotiations are opened next spring with U. S. Steel, Bethlehem Steel, Republic Steel and other behemoths of the industry.

The steel industry's total employment as of last August was 695,000, and of this number approximately 580,000 are wage earners of a class subject to unionization, according to the American Iron and Steel Institute. About 90 per cent of the 580,000 are unionized, the institute said.

USW Secretary-Treasurer I. W. Abel announced recently that the demand for a guaranteed wage clause would be a major one next year because production cutbacks have caused increasing layoffs in the industry. He said that 4 per cent of 2,330 USW contracts now have the guaranteed wage clause, and it is the intention of the union to extend the coverage to all.

Union sources said the committee's plan calls for the employer to set up a trust fund amounting to 10 cents per man hour. Out of this the worker dropped from the payroll would receive a percentage of his weekly pay for 52 weeks. Payments to a laid-off worker would be reduced by the amount of unemployment compensation he receives from the state.

The guaranteed annual wage is not expected to be the only demand the union will seek next spring. Improved retirement pensions, better hospital, medical and dental benefits, and direct wage increases also will be sought according to union sources.

David J. McDonald, president of the steelworkers' union, already has announced the organization will seek a social insurance program covering life insurance, hospitalization and other benefits, financed by 5-cents hourly contributions, half from the company and half from the employees.

The American Iron & Steel Institute reported that the steel workers' average hourly earnings hit a new all-time high in August of 1949, greater by $1.061 than the average for the full year of 1948. The institute estimated the industry's total payroll in August at $287,253,000. The payroll for the first eight months of 1953 exceeded $2,200,000,000 the institute said.

Stopwatch Can 'Split Seconds'

LOS ANGELES, Calif. (U.P.)—A cosmic stopwatch that times events in billionths of a second has been developed by physicists on the Los Angeles campus of the University of California.

One billionth of a second is to a second as one second is to a hundred years.

The group, under the direction of Dr. Harold Ticho, designed the instrument for certain cosmic ray studies under an Army Ordnance grant.

The device will be used to measure the lifetimes of certain mesons, particles from atomic nuclei. Such particles are thought to exist for only billionths of a second.

How It Works

The works of the outsize watch include Geiger tubes, scintillation counters, vacuum tubes and certain germanium elements. It works like this:

Fast-moving cosmic rays from outer space, which bombard the earth constantly, create these mesons when they collide with atoms of matter in the device. These mesons pass through a fluorescent fluid in the instrument, then cease to exist.

Their passage through the fluid causes a brief and feeble flash of light which is picked up by a photomultiplier tube causing it to flash briefly. The time interval between the two flashes is recorded and represents the mesons' brief life span.

Geiger tubes, which detect arrival of cosmic rays, alert the timing mechanism when to start ticking off its billionths of a second. The face of the stopwatch is actually the face of an oscilloscope and is characterized by a series of waves. Wave crests correspond to the numbers of a clock and are two billionths of a second apart.

Notable clay tiles of the 18th century were created by an unknown artist for the old tile bath excavated in the early 1900's in Calle de las Huertas, Puebla, Mexico.

Tests by the Agriculture Department show that humus from green crops lasts about as long as that from straw and stalks.

Grid Coaches 'Talk Shop' At Rotary Club

Greenville Rotarians last night got a first hand coaches' view of the East Carolina College powerful football team.

Head Coach Jack Boone line coach Earl Smith, spoke to Rotarians reviewing the progress made by the Pirates this year, and pointing to future prospects for the team.

Coach Boone declared, "A coach can only do a job when he has the people to help him and the boys to work with. That's what we have this year." He said he was well pleased with the spirit of the East Carolina team, and the work done by members of the team.

Mallory, in prefacing his remarks on the East Carolina football team, asserted, "we have some big boys, and boys who like the game." He added, "There are no super coaches any more, and the sooner alumni learn that, the better it will be. There are no secrets in football any more."

The line coach discussed individual players of the East Carolina team, pointing to their work this year and the condition of the team. He said the East Carolina team has a strong line with big players and players who like the game of football. He added that all but two players on the East Carolina team are boys from North Carolina.

Freshman Coach Earl Smith reviewed the players on the freshman team this year, and predicted they will add strength to the Pirates team in the next few years.

Coach Boone, in random remarks about the team, termed the game with Western Carolina last Saturday night a "rough and tough game" in which the Western team succeeded in getting the EOC players upset during the first half.

The coach said Dick Cherry, backfield star from Washington, is "one of the finest players I have ever seen." He also praised Bobby Hodges, Pirate end, who is the first end to lead in scoring in the history of the North State Conference.

Boone revealed that the Pirates are having difficulty scheduling games next year, and discussed in general terms the prospects of Carolina becoming a member of the Southern Conference. He said the "ground work" is already being made for such a change if the opportunity presents itself.

Only four players from the Pirate team will be lost through graduation at the end of this year, Boone said.

Jim Butler, alumni secretary at the College, said he has been informed that players Bobby Hodges and Dick Cherry will be among the nominees for Little All-American honors made by North Carolina sports writers this year.

Guests at the Rotary meeting included P. L. Windson of Urbana, Ill., and visiting Rotarians Garland Bullock, Corey Stokes, Wayland McLawhorn of Ayden, Joe Joyner, Dewey Fuquay and Bob Rouse of Farnville, Max Roebuck of Washington, and Herbert Acton of Danville, Ky.

Colorful Former Head Of AFL Carpenter Union Dies

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (U.P.)—William L. (Big Bill) Hutcheson, 79, powerful ex-president of the 800,000-member AFL Carpenters Union, died today.

Hutcheson, who took command of the carpenters in 1915 and remained President until recent years, was stricken Thursday in Methodist hospital. He had been flown there three days earlier from his Wisconsin hunting lodge, suffering from a stomach ailment.

Hutcheson was a Michigan farm boy who started carpentering at 20 cents an hour. His football player build and his determined spirit won him the nickname "Big Bill."

His career was marked by physical and verbal attacks—including a poke on the jaw by John L. Lewis during an AFL convention. But nothing deterred Hutcheson from his policy of keeping all carpentry work, from cutting down giant redwood trees to sandpapering chairs, for members of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners.

Hutcheson piloted the big, powerful union from 1915 until 1951, when he was succeeded by his son, Maurice. He was reelected with regularity despite strong opposition within his own union.

"Big Bill" was a potent factor in internal affairs of the AFL and the Republican Party. In 1944 he was mentioned as a possible GOP vice-presidential candidate. But he later cooled toward the party, partly because of the Taft-Hartley law.

In 1952, Hutcheson was one of only two Hoosier delegates to the Republican national convention to support Dwight Eisenhower for the presidential nomination.

Hutcheson thrived on criticism from columnists and rival labor union leaders because of his "dictatorial" operations.

He kept his own membership in turmoil by bluntly suspending local after local for failure to measure up to his interpretation of the Constitution.

Hutcheson considered industrial unionization, such as in the CIO, his group's greatest threat. He never hesitated to become embroiled in a jurisdictional battle.

But "Big Bill" confidently carried out most of his programs. Union membership jumped to more than 800,000 and the treasury thrived during his long tenure.

Hutcheson, son of a Scotch ship's carpenter, was born in Saginaw, Mich., Feb. 7, 1874. He was brought up on a farm but became a carpenter and joined the union in 1902.

He subsequently became local business manager, second and first president.

Hutcheson married twice and was the father of four children. He maintained homes in Indianapolis and Lakeland, Fla., and the hunting lodge.

Say Americans In Red Prison

HONG KONG (UP)—A Hong Kong newspaper reported today that three Americans seized by Chinese Reds seven months ago are serving long jail terms on spy charges.

The Hong Kong Standard said in a dispatch from Macau that a recent traveler in Red China disclosed that Richard Applegate, Don Dixon and merchant sea Capt. Ben Krasner had been imprisoned in Nanking or Peking.

The Standard's information differed from that of the English-language China Mail, which reported ed on Oct. 12 it had learned that the three men were jailed separately at Shanghai.

Applegate, National Broadcasting Co. correspondent and former United Press war correspondent; Dixon, an International News Service reporter; and Krasner, a sea captain, were seized last March 21 while cruising between Hong Kong and Macau in Applegate's cutter.

Phantoms Prep For Bears; Pirates Work On Timing

Langston Still Hurt As Phantoms Work Light

By WAYNE BISHOP
Reflector Sports Writer

With a weekend of rest behind them, the Greenville Phantoms settled down to the business at hand yesterday: New Bern's Bears.

The tall-spinning Phantoms will meet the high-flying Bears Friday night in College Stadium in the top game of the Northeastern Conference.

The Phantoms, losers in the last four games but with a full week of rest behind them because of an open date last week, are primed for an upset. The Bears are still smarting from last week's 13-7 non-conference loss to Dunn, the first loss of the year for Coach Joe Caruso's team.

In yesterday's workout, Coach Bill Kittrell of the Phantoms had his squad work on defense after calisthenics and dummy scrimmage work. Very little contact work was allowed by Kittrell who had earlier commented, "We can't take the risk of losing someone by injury in practice."

At least one very vital member of the squad worked out in light gear yesterday as a result of an injury. Fullback Bobby Langston was still hobbled by an ankle injury but he is expected to be able to play against the Bears. He is the only Phantoms currently on the disabled list.

Yesterday's practice work was wrapped up by hitting the blocking sled and by running wind sprints.

In New Bern, Caruso had the Bears reviewing their mistakes of Friday night before letting scouts report on the Phantoms. Ace quarterback Preacher Parker worked on pass patterns for awhile with end Robert Kennel as the favorite target in most instances.

The game Friday night will be the last home game of the season for the Phantoms. It will be played in College Stadium with kickoff time set at 8 o'clock.

New '500' Driver Enters Fair Race

RALEIGH — Another big time speed chaffeur out to lift top honors in six events of championship AAA auto racing at the North Carolina State Fair next Saturday afternoon is Ernie McCoy, noted Indianapolis "500" driver.

McCoy, who took eighth at the 500-mile classic this year, will enter the noted $15,000 Vargo Offenhauser for the State Fair races, he told Sam Nunis, director of the program.

A 20-lap North Carolina State Fair sprints heads Saturday's action. Prior to making his Indianapolis debut in impressive style last May, McCoy finished second in the 1952 East Coast AAA ranks behind Tommy Hinnershitz, a neighbor in Reading, Pa. With the latter sporting a short lead in the current standings, McCoy is extra anxious to cut down the advantage with a win Saturday.

PROVIDENCE, R.I.: Del Flanagan, 149 3-4, St. Paul, Minn., outpointed Steve Marcellio, 147 1-4, R.I. (10).

Gets Two Stars Back In Action

RALEIGH (UP) — The University of North Carolina's battered Tar Heels were bolstered today by the return to duty of Captain Ken Yarbrough and center Bill Kirkman.

But quarterback Lou Britt was sidelined with a hip injury suffered in the Maryland game and end Will Frye still was benched with hurts as Coach George Barclay counted noses for the scrap with Georgia Saturday at Athens Ga. The Tar Heels ran through limbering up exercises yesterday but Barclay ordered a return to rough work today.

Trainers said there is hope that both Britt and Frye will be ready for action against the Bulldogs. Duke's disappointed but still determined Blue Devils ran through a routine drill last night and took a look at the T-formation attack patterns they can expect from North Carolina state on Saturday at Durham.

Guard Bobby Burrows and halfbacks Lloyd Cougle and James (Red) Smith were only lightly hobbled by bruises suffered in the 14-13 upset of the previously-unbeaten Dukes by Army.

The freshmen and No. 3 varsity outfit capped the drill with a scrimmage.

Seventeen of the state's high school bands will join bands of Duke and N. C. State for pre-game and halftime ceremonies at Duke stadium Saturday, game officials said.

At State College, Coach Horace Hendrickson's Wolfpack heard a scouting report on Duke.

Hendrickson hoped his squad would be strengthened by the return of three players who missed the Wake Forest game here because of injuries. No serious hurts were suffered in the Wake Forest game, and back for action were tackle Ken Urvogitch and ends John Thompson and Paul Smith.

At Wake Forest, the Demon Deacons studied offensive plays of the University of Richmond and worked on blocking punts, running pass patterns and play timing.

Halfback Bruce Hillenbrand is in Duke hospital at Durham with a dislocated knee cap suffered in the State game. Hillenbrand is expected to be out three weeks.

At Columbia, South Carolina quarterback Johnny Gramling returned to heavy equipment for the first time since he was injured in the Furman game, but Coach Rex Enright said there will be no more rough work before the "Big Thursday" game with Clemson. Fullback Bob Korn and guard Bob Schwartz will miss the game because of injuries, Gamecock trainers said.

Clemson's right halfback, Kenneth Moore returned to the starting lineup after being out for more than a month with injuries. The Tigers' aerial arm, quarterback Don King, also returned to the drills.

Unanimous Win For Patterson

BROOKLYN (UP)— Young Floyd Patterson, conqueror of light heavyweight Wes Bascom, will seek his ninth consecutive professional victory on Dec. 7 at the Eastern Parkway Arena in his first 10-round bout.

Patterson of Brooklyn, 1952 Olympic middleweight champion, won a unanimous eight-round decision over the more experienced Bascom of East St. Louis, Ill., Monday night before 1,500 at Eastern Parkway.

The widely televised bout was limited to eight rounds because Patterson is not yet 20.

His December opponent will be either Dick Wagner of Toppensish, Wash., or Tommy Harrison of Los Angeles. Matchmaker Teddy Brenner prefers Wagner because he lost a disputed split decision to Patterson at the arena last winter.

Wagner and Bascom were the only two of Patterson's eight opponents who lasted the distance. But Bascom was lucky to survive a terrific battering in the seventh round Monday night when he was staggered three times by explosive Floyd.

Notre Dame First In UP Grid Rank

By NORMAN MILLER
NEW YORK (UP) — The Midwest flaunted the balance of college football power in the United Press ratings today with Notre Dame and Michigan State ranked 1-2 in close order and Michigan and Illinois also placed among the top seven teams.

Interpersed among the four marauders from the Midwest were Maryland and Georgia Tech, Dixie's two top teams which ranked third and fourth, respectively; and Baylor of the Southwest Conference rated sixth.

Michigan State, which romped to its 28th straight victory, 47-18 over Indiana, gained considerably on the Irish this week, narrowing last week's 48-point gap between the two powers to 18 points.

Notre Dame, forced to come through with 16 points in the last half to beat Pittsburgh, 23-14, attracted 22 first-place votes and 328 points from the 35 leading coaches who make up the United Press Rating Board. The Spartans, seeking their second straight mythical national championship, had nine first-place votes and 310 points.

UCLA's upset at the hands of Stanford dropped it from third to 10th place and gave Maryland, Georgia Tech, Michigan and Baylor an opportunity to advance one notch each. Maryland, with 24 points, Georgia Tech (187), Michigan (181) and Baylor (174) occupied the third to sixth rankings in order. Maryland had two first-place ballots and Georgia Tech and Baylor one each.

As a result, Notre Dame's impending clash with Georgia Tech at South Bend Ind., Saturday shaped up as a major test of inter-sectional strength and a key game in determining the national rankings.

Illinois, 27-7 conqueror of Minnesota, made the biggest gain of the week, vaulting four places to seventh and a place among the top 10 for the first time this season. The Illini had 116 points. Oklahoma, with 100 points, and Southern California, with 92, each gained one place. UCLA was 10th with 40 points.

Duke also was a casualty last weekend, dropping from eighth to a tie for 15th after being upset by Army, 14-13.

Navy, which walloped Princeton, 65-7, headed the second 10 teams, jumping four notches from last week, and West Virginia ranked 12th. Southern Methodist and LSU were tied with 13th place. California was tied with Duke for 15th; there was a three-team deadlock among Texas A & M, Iowa and Mississippi for 17th place, and Ohio State was 20th.

Work on defense is slated for the first part of the week for the Eppes High School Bulldogs who will meet Dillard of Goldsboro in the annual Eppes Homecoming Friday night.

The game will be the athletic highlight of the homecoming activities. Prior to the contest there will be a parade and introduction of homecoming sponsors.

The defensive work by the Bulldogs will be aimed primarily at stopping the tricky "T" formation which Dillard has been using this year. The Tigers have won all but three of their games and are expected to be in top shape for the contest with the Bulldogs.

Eppes, too, is expected to be in good shape for the game. All old injuries have healed and no one is on the bench at the present time.

After their work on defense, the Bulldogs will taper off in the latter part of the week. They will work on their own timing and pass defense maneuvers.

SOUTH GATE, Calif.: Benny Decario, 148 1-2, Philadelphia, stopped Baby Ike, 148, Los Angeles (7).

Basketball Teams

There will be a meeting at 7:30 tonight for all persons interested in forming a men's basketball league in Greenville. The meeting will be held at Elm Street Park. Invitations are specially extended to persons interested in sponsoring or forming a basketball team. Athletic Director George McMillan of the Recreation Department will direct the meeting and lead a discussion of preliminary plans for the league.

Danish Net Aces Draw Criticism

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)— European tennis stars are temperamental, have bad manners on the court and should take more care of their personal appearance, Norman Brooks, secretary of the Northern California Tennis Association, said today.

Pointing at a pair of Danes, Kurt Nielsen and Torben Ulrich, who caused incidents during their tour on the West Coast, Brooks said that it was "very doubtful" that European stars would be invited back to this section again.

"The Danish players, Nielsen and Ulrich, made a very poor impression during their play in tournaments on the West Coast," said Brooks. "My personal opinion is that the Northern California Tennis Association would just as soon not have them back."

"These men had all the fine manners of gentlemen off the court," said Brooks. "But on the court they wore dirty clothes and needed haircuts. There was nothing wrong with this department that a visit to the barber and a clean pair of shorts wouldn't help."

Four Top Games On TV This Week

NEW YORK (UP) — The armchair fan who likes to nip the bottle between punts and passes will be severely tested when he tunes in the NCAA football telecast of the week next Saturday.

He'll be watching four games at once — in such widely scattered points as Princeton, N. J.; Memphis, Tenn.; Champaign, Ill.; and Iowa City.

It's an unprecedented panoramic pickup being staged by the National Broadcasting Company to bring the fans the highlights of the Princeton-Cornell, Mississippi-Arkansas, Illinois-Syracuse and Iowa-Indiana games.

The program, requiring a special technical preparation, will be directed from a master control center in Chicago. The games will be fed into the center and monitored by producer Bill Garden and NBC sports director Tom Gallery.

Gallery will supervise the switching from game to game in a way designed to televise the best action of each contest.

But the little woman needn't be surprised if she hears the breadwinner arguing next Sunday that Princeton beat Arkansas, Cornell walloped Mississippi, Illinois toppled Indiana and Syracuse defeated Iowa.

"I'll merely mean that the old man lost another bout with the bottle."

Coaching Rarity

NEW YORK (UP)—Ed Danowski of Fordham is a rarity—a football coach who has run out of alibis.

"I've just run out of alibis," Danowski said after successive losses to Syracuse and Boston College. "We just don't make the key plays."

HOLYOKE, Mass.: Bobby Courchesne, 124 3-4, Chicopee, Mass., stopped Jerry Kortright, 121 1-2, New York (7).

Two Pirates Injured As Guilford Looms

By JIMMY ELLIS
Reflector Sports Editor

The state's winningest football team heard storm warnings yesterday.

East Carolina College's Pirates heard the warnings from Freshman Coach Earl Smith, chief scout. He was talking about Guilford's Quakers, the surprise team in the North State Conference this year.

Smith told the Pirates that the Quakers have a fast and scrappy team that gets a lot of power from a good backfield and two good ends. He pointed the Quakers out as a team that is upset happy and ready for another victory after being bumped in their last two games.

After the scouting report was completed, Head Coach Jack Boone sent the Pirates through their usual Monday workout. There was considerable emphasis placed on kicking, pass patterns, and timing but no contact work at all. In fact, rough work might be eliminated from the practice schedule completely this week as it was in the five days of practice before the contest with Western Carolina.

In yesterday's workouts, Claude King, Tom Allsbrook, Milton Collier and Dick Cherry worked on punting with King, Cherry, Bubber Matthews, Collier, and Cherry working on extra points. Punt returns in the dummy plays were made by combinations of halfbacks.

Cherry worked on the pass patterns with the backs and ends with second-team quarterback Boyd Webb also doing some of the tossing. Big Bobby Hodges was the favorite target for Cherry in the workout.

The Pirates will be looking for their sixth victory of the season in the game Saturday. They will also be looking for their thirteenth consecutive regular season victory.

Included in the present streak of 12 undefeated games is a 41-0 victory scored over the Quakers last year in Greensboro.

"Both teams expect to be in good physical shape for the game. The Pirates are currently bothered by injuries to guard James Faircloth and tackle Sonny Callahan but both are expected to be able to play Saturday night. Guilford's chief problem will be getting center-tackle Don Percise in shape for the game. Percise, a husky 60-minute man from Goldsboro, was hurt two weeks ago in Guilford's homecoming loss to Emory and Henry and missed all of the action last week in a 25-14 loss to Lenoir-Rhyne.

BROOKLYN (Eastern Parkway): Floyd Patterson, 166 1-2, Brooklyn, N.Y., outpointed Wes Bascom, 175 3-4, East St. Louis, Ill. (8).

Phants Managers Unsung Heroes Of Grid Season

On Friday nights as the Greenville High School football team, with its following of coaches and managers, takes the field, the usual thing that happens is spontaneous cheering by the fans.

The recipients of those cheers are usually the players. Occasionally, when the crowd is in a good mood and the moon is right, the coaches are singled out. It's never, mind you, just never that the cheers are directed toward the four behind-the-scenes-operators, the managers.

The Phantoms' four managers this year are twins Ike and Mike Riddick, Joe Ward, and Donald Patrick — better known in his own circle of friends as "Dynamite."

They are the ones who attend to all the needs of the players, apply first aid, check equipment, paint helmets, line the field, and the thousand and one other jobs that go with the distinction.

The managers are never in the limelight and never attract the attention of the crowd. They are, actually, the unsung heroes of the squad, however. They never get in the game but any one of the players will freely admit that they are the hardest working members of the squad.

Besides the responsibility of having to watch over hundreds of dollars worth of equipment, the managers are always the first to arrive at the practice field and the last to leave. The same situation exists on game nights. First to come, last to go, and least appreciated by the fans.

Joe Ward is the only one of the four who is making a career of the managing. By that, he isn't taking part in any other athletics at the high school. The other three are rather active.

Perhaps the best known of the trio is the Riddick. In his younger days he was a hot-shot midget football player. In more recent years he has been an All-Pony League baseball player and was on the Pony All-Star team. He is already a letterman in track at the high school and is rated as an outstanding basketball prospect.

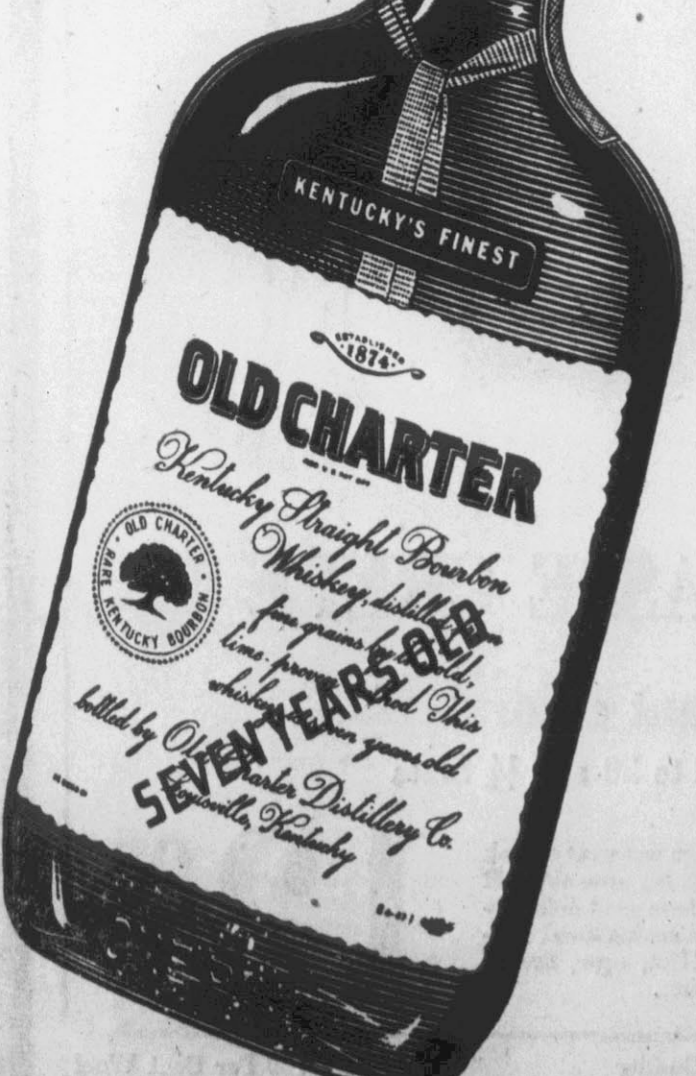

Mike and Dynamite are also fellows with solid reputations in athletics. Both were All-Stars in Pony League baseball and have carried their learning with them and have been applying it in high school athletics.

The four do alright when the Phantoms play. Might be a good idea Friday night to take a minute from watching the game and watch them. You'll see what we mean.

How Much Do You Know About Your Air Force

WASHINGTON (U.P.)—What an infantry division is to the Army, a "wing" is to the Air Force—the basic combat unit. But few civilians and not all Air Force men can tell you what's in one.

This is because various wings vary widely in their makeup, depending on their type of plane and mission. There is no such thing as a typical wing. The setup may exist on paper but it has been changed to meet operating needs. And it would have more men in wartime than in peace.

But when the Air Force talks of the 120 wing interim goal, or the 120 wing interim goal set by defense secretary Charles E. Wilson, it means that number of these basic combat units—capable, at least in theory, of moving anywhere and sustaining themselves in combat.

Combat Group
Core of a wing is a combat group, containing its fighting planes and their crews. But a wing also has three other groups—a maintenance and supply group which does just what its name says, an air base group which does the "housekeeping," runs the mess halls, guards the field and so on—and a medical group.

Within the combat group are two or more squadrons of planes. A fighter squadron has about 25 planes and 450 men in peace, 650 men in war. Bomber squadrons have fewer planes and more men. A heavy bombardment wing, flying B-29's, has 30 planes and 3,000 men. A medium bombardment wing has 48 B-26's, and 1,500 to 1,800 men. A fighter-bomber wing has 75 planes, either F-80 Shooting Stars, now obsolescent, F-84 Thunderjets, or F-86 Sabres, and 1,400 men.

There are also reconnaissance wings, flying camera-equipped versions of the same planes, with a few more men than their fighting counterparts.

Division Setup
A heavy troop carrier wing has 48 jet B-45's or World War II vintage B-26's, and 1,500 to 1,800 men. A fighter-bomber wing has 75 planes, either F-80 Shooting Stars, now obsolescent, F-84 Thunderjets, or F-86 Sabres, and 1,400 men.

DC-4 transport or C-124 Globemasters, and 1,500 to 1,750 men. A medium troop carrier wing flies 48 Flying boxcars and has 1,500 men.

Two or more groups make an air division, and two or more divisions an air force like the Fifth Air Force in the Far East.

But this standard setup is only the takeoff point for a hodge-podge of variations. In heavy bombers and some medium bombers, the air force is now using a "double wing" plan which is not a football formation but a scheme of keeping two wings at one base, thereby cutting down on headquarters and house-keeping functions. Both wings share the same air base group.

Wings of the Air Defense Command are spread over the territory they are supposed to defend, one or two squadrons at each field. Some are only tenants on fields run by other commands.

The Tactical Air Command comes nearest to the theoretical wing setup. Its light-bomber, troop carrier, and light bomber wings are trained and designed to move overseas as units.

Probe Cause Of Naval Air Crash
HAMILTON, Bermuda (UP)—A Naval board of inquiry sought today to determine the cause of the crash of a U.S. Navy patrol plane which killed four crewmen Monday night. Six others survived.

Witnesses said the plane circled Kindly Air Force Base twice before it dived into the bay near one of the airfield's main runways. A U.S. Coast Guard officer said smoke trailed from the port engine. The plane was en route from Quonset Field, R.I., to Las Vegas Field in Puerto Rico. It was scheduled to make an overnight stop at Kindly.

Names of the dead and survivors were withheld.

Tropical Fighting Fish Of Siam Lack Killer Instinct

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—It's nice to find a fighter like the Betta Splendens, which isn't the killer type. A rooster who won't spur his assailant to death gets no corn at sundown. A bullfighter who doesn't turn a brave animal into tough streaks doesn't stay in business long.

But these Betta Splendens, while only two inches long, are real sportsmen. The B. S., as we now will call them, are tiny, brilliant-hued tropical fish. John C. Pearson, head of the aquarium in the Commerce Building, has a few and he told me about them.

For more than a century, these little fellows have fought in what the Siamese consider a major sport. Their homeland is Thailand, Pearson said, where fights are staged like cockfights, either in public "arenas" where the betting may get rough, or in private matches for a small bunch of fanciers.

Pearson said that he doesn't match his, one against the other. They are too valuable, even though they are "sportsmen."

Here is the way the aquarium fellow described a B. S. fight:
You take two male fish of about the same size. You put them in separate jars. You bring the jars together and let one fish look at the other fish. You can tell both of the finny little fellows are mad, because they begin to glow in their most fiery colors. They slap their fins, raise their gills and are ready to have at the enemy.

Then the B. S.'s are put into the same tank. Each little fish takes a sparring position and runs into stabbing attacks.

"The contests," Pearson said, "could last but a few minutes or even all night. It ends when the weaker fish refuses to answer the challenge of the next 'bell' and swims to a neutral corner."

According to the expert, rarely do these little fighters, which weigh less than an ounce, do one another unto death.

"They may have a damaged fin," he said "but they can grow one back in a hurry and be ready to fight again in a short time."

But what my aquarium friend likes about his little fighting friends is that they are sportsmen. The Bettas, he said, need a breath of air from the outside once in a while, in addition to the oxygen they get from the water. They seem to sense this and hit for the outside ozone every now and again for a deep breath.

Then the fight is resumed.

Tobacco Really Is Selling Good Here These Days

By ALVIN TAYLOR
Reflector Staff Writer
Tobacco is really selling good around Greenville these days.

The man stepped out of a big powder-blue new car.

"How do you like this new job I bought?" he said. "They told me my check for $300 was no good. Can you imagine that? They phoned me up Saturday morning and told me my check was no good."

"Look at this," he said, pulling out crumpled bank deposit slip dated the 16th of October—Friday morning. It showed a deposit of something over $2300 dollars.

"I drew $800 out of the bank and I carried it out there and I offered to bet them the entire pile that my check was good."

With this he drew out a wallet containing several $100 bills.

"I told them I could buy their entire business if I wanted to. I've got a farm worth $100,000 out here and I'll sell $28,000 worth of tobacco off of it this year. Telling me my check is no good! It would be good for $300 or $3000 if I wanted to write it for that much."

"That car is insured," he continued, "if I tear it up, I get $2200; if it burns up I get $2200, if somebody steals it I get $2200. If I hit you on the street I'll just tell you to go on over to the hospital and get anything you want. It will pay right on up to $22,000."

"I've got enough money to buy them out," he continued thinking once again of the auto dealer. "I told them just what they were, wouldn't you?" he said as he walked away.

Yes sir, tobacco is sure selling good in Greenville.

Surpass Georgia In Peach Crops

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP)—Georgia calls itself the Peach State, but South Carolina long ago surpassed it in the production and export of the fruit.

Now, Kansas had better look to its laurels as the Sunflower State. Some huge sunflowers are being grown in South Carolina. Mrs. Willie Mae Barber of Columbia has a sunflower 12 feet, 8 inches tall that's still growing.

Alfred Breedin, a Manning, S.C., service station operator, reports growing a sunflower one foot taller than Mrs. Barber's plant.

Electric Motor Buyer Urged Check First With Utilities

Greenville Utilities Commission Superintendent Martin Swartz urged patrons who desire to purchase any electric motor over three horsepower to contact the Commission prior to the purchase to determine the type of electrical service available to them.

Swartz said that commercial areas have 208-120 voltage, which gives more efficient lighting; and other areas, including the industrial sections, get 220-110, which is more efficient for their purposes.

Anyone purchasing a motor which uses 208 current would be running a risk if they were furnished 220 voltage in that area, or vice-versa, according to the superintendent.

He stressed that the Utilities Commission is at the service of the people to help them in the installation of electrical equipment that will give them the best service possible.

"The commission will tell the customer what is available and what is best for him before he makes a purchase and installation," Swartz stated.

"In certain residential areas and on our rural lines there are quite a few areas in which three-phase service is not available, and I blame the people who sell the subscribers the three-phase motors without first checking with us," he continued.

The superintendent pointed out several examples of where patrons of the electric service provided by the commission had already installed their equipment and had come to get it connected only to find that the service required was not available.

In conclusion Swartz asked that

General Clark Is Given Big Salute

NEW YORK (UP)—New York offers a warm salute today to a retiring soldier hero of three wars and three continents, Gen. Mark W. Clark.

The four-star general, who returns this month after 40 years and four months of Army service, will be given a ticker-tape parade up lower Broadway this afternoon in honor of his contribution in the world struggle against aggression.

Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri waited at City Hall to receive the 57-year old general and to present him with the city's scroll for distinguished public service and its Medal of Honor.

Among the honor escort of 2,000 marching men—Army, Navy, Marine Corps, Air Force, Coast Guard and the city police, fire and sanitation departments—was a special detachment of Korean combat veterans.

Two High School Seniors Writing Reflector Column

ANN RUFFIN

RUTH EVELYN TOPPING

A new column written by two Greenville High School seniors today is added to the list of features which appear in The Daily Reflector.

The column, to be written by Ann Ruffin and Ruth Evelyn Topping, editors in chief of the high school paper Green Lights, appears for the first time today under the title of "Teen Age Turnout".

In the future it will appear on a semi-weekly basis.

Both editors of the new teen age column are active in a number of club and class activities at Greenville High in addition to their work on the school paper Green Lights. Both are members of the National Honor Society at the local high school.

Miss Ruffin has been a member of the Green Lights staff for three years, and Miss Topping has been a member of the staff for two years.

Their new column in The Reflector will deal with student activities at the high school, and with other teen age activities in the Greenville community.

East Carolina Professor Is Giving Series Of Talks On Reading Problems

Dr. Keith D. Holmes of the East Carolina College department of education discussed "Significant Factors in Reading Instruction" at a meeting of teachers in the Margaret Hearne School in Wilson Monday night of this week.

He is filling this fall in North Carolina public schools a series of five speaking engagements at which discussion centers on problems in teaching, reading and their solution. He has spoken before teachers in the Princeton, Stokes-Pactolus, and Chicod schools. The series will close with a talk Friday of this week in Lenoir, N. C.

In Wilson Monday Dr. Holmes stressed basic steps in beginning reading, the diagnostic approach to reading improvement, better methods of lesson planning, the improvement of vocabulary, and the coordination of reading rate and comprehension.

Until the atomic era, uranium was merely a by-product of radium and vanadium mines, useful for coloring glass, pottery and artificial teeth.

Television engineers estimate that color television sets will not be in supply on the free market before 1956. First sets, they say, will cost from $800 to $1,000.

Teen-Age Turnout

By RUTH EVELYN TOPPING and ANN RUFFIN

"Venite et Salutate," read the posters inviting all to the Latin Club dance held last Friday night, in the high school gym. Music for the dance was furnished by Boots Teel and his band.

Terry Tripp was mistress of ceremonies in the show. Featured also were Pat Herring, who performed a toe dance; and Harris Northrop, who sang "Lazy River" and "Shanty Town" while accompanying himself on a ukelele.

Jay Robbin's fingers rushed up and down the keyboard as he played "Slaughter on Tenth Avenue" and "Tommy Dorsey's Boogie." In "Dog-patch" costumes Margaret Phelps and Peggy Leonard sang and danced to "Side by Side."

Hot and dreamy music was rendered by Cecil Ellington on his saxophone as he played "Stardust" and "St. Louis Blues."

"We're Born Teachers"

"We're teachers born and we're teachers bred," hum the ECC and GHS chapters of the Future Teachers of America as they plan for the FTA convention at East Carolina October 23-24.

In store for the conventioners are an address by Dr. Robert L. Humbert; a talent show on Friday night; a keynote address by Carl Cannon, president, Future Teachers of the NCEA on Saturday morning; a generous sprinkling of workshops and discussion groups; and a formal luncheon on Saturday afternoon.

Pals Meet

250 pals of North Carolina students met in Charlotte, N. C. October 13-15 for the North Carolina Principal's Conference.

Dr. Will French, Teachers College, Columbia University spoke on "The Comprehensive High School Curriculum" and Dr. William A. Early, President, National Education Association, addressed the principals on "The Principals'—An Opportunity in Professional Leadership" which was the theme for the conference.

O. E. Dowd, principal of GHS, stated that his greatest delight in attending this conference was looking over a school in Charlotte similar to what is planned for the new GHS.

Good or Bad?

"Why was I born?" GHS students asked themselves as they sadly viewed their report cards. The first six-weeks marking period ended October 12. Pupils received grades Monday.

Civic Clubs Welcome GHS

Tau Staff Begins Work

That hard work and responsibility accompany honor is beginning to be revealed to the 1954 annual staff.

Ann Wilkerson and Dinah Porter are the co-editors of the "Tau" staff selected by the senior class. Curtis Patterson and Lenora Rose hold the positions of assistant editors. Ward James, senior English teacher, will be the literary adviser.

Other members of the annual staff are Sam Winchester, business manager; Bruce Baker, assistant business manager; Judy Allen, class editor; Donna Taber, literary editor. Completing the list are Bobby Langston, advertising manager, assisted by Bobby Starkey; Jo Ann Hales, circulation manager; Joe Stell and Robert Lassiter, art editors; Billy Arnold, sports editor; and Lou White Winstead and Frances Cahoon, typists.

What's In A Name??

Chlorophyll seems to have caught the "go" signal also from "Green Lights", the high school newspaper. At the conclusion of a contest naming a cartoon character drawn by Billy Arnold, the journalism class selected Chlorophyll. This cartoon series portrays a typical high school boy involved in school antics.

Seniors "Just Begin"

Favoring red, they chose red and white their colors and the carnation, which means endurance or power from knowledge, their flower.

Vannevar Bush Warns Against Atom Disclosures

NEW YORK (UP)—Dr. Vannevar Bush, wartime head of the nation's top weapons and warfare research office, warned Monday night against further disclosure of technical information about the United States' new weapons, charging that the government had "told too much" already.

Bush said the government had "erred gravely in the past" through its disclosures which "will probably cost us dear." He said high-level military planning must be done in secret without guidance by the "horseback opinions of columnists" or special interest groups.

Bush, former head of the Office of Scientific Research and Development, spoke before a banquet of the American Institute of Consulting Engineers which presented him with the second merit award in its 43-year history. He said he believed the nation's rapid development of an atomic stockpile was sound policy.

However, Bush said it would be "fatal" for the United States to face the future with the feeling that winning the atomic arms race will insure security.

He pointed out that the nation is in no position to stop a surprise atomic attack, although he said an effective defense system could be devised.

"We are obviously just about at the limit of expenditure in this country for military purposes, and yet there appear to be serious gaps in our military program," Bush said.

The scientist urged Congress to review all defense planning carefully "to be especially sure we are not pouring money down ratholes." He said the review should be made without "the ballyhoo that often attends congressional investigations."

"We are obviously just about at the limit of expenditure in this country for military purposes, and yet there appear to be serious gaps in our military program," Bush said.

Bob Hope Given Big Reception

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UP)—Where there's Hope, there's excitement, and there was plenty of both in Cleveland today.

Bob Hope, whose start in show business was in an East Side theater near his home, returned for a "day" in his honor. He arrived over the weekend, and the city has been in a state of minor turmoil ever since.

Tonight Hope will present his first television show of the season. For that, too, he turned the town upside down. There were no adequate facilities ready-made, so National Broadcasting Co. technicians have spent the past three weeks renovating the 2200-seat Masonic Auditorium to satisfy his legion of fans.

Actually, Hope will have to share today's limelight with a number of other celebrities. Ohio marks its 150th anniversary this year, and a governor's luncheon paid homage not only to Gov. Frank J. Lausche, but also Hope and numberless other Ohioans-made-good.

The long list of celebrities included author Louis Bromfield, cartoonist Milton Caniff, sports figures Ezzard Charles, Johnny Kilbane, Jesse Owens, Harrison Dillard, Branch Rickey, George Trautman, industrialist Harvey Firestone Jr.,

Piano Producers Go Into Second Century

NEW YORK (UP)—Steinway & Sons began its second century of producing pianos today.

The firm wound up its first 100 years last night with a spectacular concert in Carnegie Hall featuring the talents of 34 top pianists and the New York Philharmonic-Symphony Orchestra.

Seven men of the Steinway name—all officers of the firm—sat with their families in boxes to hear and see the dazzling concert. The audience of 2,760 included famous personalities of music, entertainment, society and public life.

Three teams of 10 pianists took turns on the big Carnegie Hall stage, which was filled by 10 Steinway grand pianos. They played re-sounding 10-piano arrangements of the Star Spangled Banner, The Stars and Stripes Forever and Chopin's Military Polonaise.

The performers included such keyboard greats as Gaby and Robert Casadesu Alexander Brailowsky, Leonid Hambro, Eugene List, and the First Piano Quartet.

Dmitri Mitropolous conducted the philharmonic, doubling as pianist and conductor at one point to play the finale of Prokofiev's third piano concerto on a Steinway grand with a transparent plexiglass top so he could be seen by members of the orchestra.

The Steinway company was established in 1853 by Henry Engelhard Steinway, a former Prussian Army bugler who turned out the firm's first piano in barn in lower Manhattan.

Rare Peat Bog In New York Area

TROY, N.Y. (AP)—Peat — a rarity in this area has been discovered on a farm near here.

The five-acre bog is believed to be the result of glacial formations and then were closed over by vegetation thousands of years ago.

Then, a geologist says, the Mohawk River may have changed its course and flowed over the decayed vegetation, forming about three feet of river fill, from which the peat resulted.

Any Way You Slice It, Taxpayers Still To Pay

The following is the second of three dispatches by Lyle C. Wilson, vice president and Washington manager of United Press, on the budget and tax problems confronting the Eisenhower administration. Today Wilson tells how coming changes in tax laws will affect the individual taxpayer.

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—Any way you slice it, the United States Treasury and millions of taxpayers stand to lose next year when things begin happening to our tax laws.

Here's the program so far as it is known now:

1. The excess profits tax on corporations and 10 per cent of the individual income tax levy come off at midnight Dec. 31.
2. Regular corporation income taxes will be cut from 52 to 47 per cent as of April 1 unless Congress votes otherwise. Certain emergency excise taxes also will be reduced in varying sums on liquors, beer, cigarettes, gasoline and automobiles.
3. As of Jan. 1, the social security tax paid by employees will increase from 1.2 to 2 per cent. This tax is paid on wages and salaries up to $3,600 a year. The levy on employers also would go to 2 per cent.

The Eisenhower administration has agreed to expiration of the excess profits tax and the 10 per cent individual income tax reduction. It wants to postpone the 5 per cent regular corporation income tax cut and is on record against the reduction in emergency excise taxes.

Budget Director Joseph M. Dodge is most vitally concerned, next to President Eisenhower, with balancing the budget. Budget officials estimate now that it would cost the Treasury about $7,000,000 of annual revenue to permit all the foregoing levies to expire on schedule next year. That would be a severe loss to the Treasury, a bitter dose for Dodge.

Dodge estimated that all the savings accomplished by the Eisenhower administration in cutting the "rock bottom" Truman budget for the current fiscal year would add up to just about $6,500,000,000 annually. The tax reduction and expirations scheduled for the first four months of 1954 would more than offset those savings.

Under such conditions the budget would remain far out of balance unless the administration came up with large sums of next tax revenue from new levies or made further large cuts in spending—or combined both methods to bring Treasury outgo within the limits of income.

The administration has said it wants new revenue—new taxes—to offset at least part of the reductions. That is where the individual taxpayer stands to lose some or all of what he may gain by the scheduled 10 per cent income tax cut. The new levies most often mentioned just now are manufacturers' excise taxes. They are taxes paid by the manufacturer and usually passed on to the consumer as part of the purchase price.

New taxes of that kind would reach nearly everyone. The taxpayer would shell out, bit by bit, some or all of his gain from income tax reduction. But a special group of taxpayers would have even tougher luck.

In some of the lower income tax brackets the one-half of 1 per cent increase in the employers' share of social security taxes would offset the 10 per cent reduction in income tax. For example: A married couple with two dependents, annual income of $3,900 before exemptions, is estimated by the Treasury to owe $132 income tax. Their income tax cut would amount to $13.20. The social security hike would cost $16.50.

That taxpayer is not likely to cheer the Republican tax cut and there will be lower bracket millions so affected in some degree. The administration tried to postpone the social security hike, but failed.

He'll Be Careful In The Future

BAN PEDRO, Calif. (AP)—Dioniso Robles, won't speak to strangers any more. Robles was walking down Fifth Street when he saw a man fixing a tire. He called out, "Hello, Jack." The tire fixer clenched his fists, looked around and said, "Don't call me Jack." Then he picked up a jack handle and whammed it on Robles' head.

Parrot Reached Ripe Old Age

FREMONT, Neb. (AP) Mrs. Roy Lambrecht has a parrot she thinks is at least 117 years old. "My grandmother got him in Omaha and had him 85 years," she explains. "Then her daughter had him for 45 years before giving him to me. I've had him for 17 years, and now he's beginning to show his age. But I think he'll probably outlive me."

O'Brien May Be Allowed To Land

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (UP)—Michael Patrick O'Brien, the marathon sea traveler, finally may be allowed to set foot on land today.

Barring last-minute complications, the modern man without a country was scheduled to come ashore here when the liner Bretagne arrives.

Once ashore the 66-year-old former Shanghai bartender will be able to catch a plane to his new home in the Dominican Republic. The West Indian nation granted him a visa last week while the Bretagne was in Buenos Aires, Argentina, but authorities there refused to let him land.

Judge Claudino Oliveira issued a writ of habeas corpus for O'Brien Monday on "humanitarian grounds." The writ requires the release of the passenger who has been aboard for three months.

O'Brien has been refused admission by various countries in Europe and South America at which the French liner called during that time.

Before that he shuttled between Hong Kong and the Portuguese colony of Macau for more than 10 months because authorities in both places refused to permit him to land.

Coeds Hide Out As Riot Goes On

AMES, Iowa (UP)—Iowa State College co-eds locked themselves in their rooms today as 4,000 football-happy students rioted for the second straight day.

The students marched to the home of college president James Hilton demanding a holiday to celebrate Iowa State's upset victory over Missouri Saturday.

When Hilton turned them down, they swept down on the nearby Lake Laverne dam and tried to open it.

But they couldn't because "The dam is too damn big," Police Chief O. J. Erickson said. The youths, their ranks somewhat depleted, turned to roaming the campus and a group burst into Birch Hall a girl's dormitory.

"Boys are running through the dormitory halls and we've had to ask the girls to lock themselves in," a college spokesman said early today. "They're having a panty raid."

Meanwhile another group crowded the transcontinental Lincoln Highway, halting traffic for half an hour. They tore up several road signs and set fire to some straw. The latest riot was similar in scope and purpose to the wild demonstration that broke out on the campus late Sunday and continued into the early hours Monday.

Dog Wardens To Pick Up Pets That Follow Children To School

A letter is being sent to all principals of Greenville city schools by the County Health Department regarding the menace children's dogs are causing near schools throughout the city.

According to Dr. Walter C. Humbert, Health Department director, many telephone calls have been received by persons complaining of packs of dogs roaming the neighborhoods near the schools.

The Health Department investigated and found that children on their way to school each morning are bringing their dogs with them and then when school goes into session, the dogs begin roaming in packs of ten to 30, tearing up lawns, fighting, endangering traffic and becoming a general nuisance.

Police Silent On Ransom Hearing

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UP)—Top police officials, searching for the missing half of the $600,000 Greenville ransom money, refused today to reveal what an officer who helped arrest a kidnap-murderer Carl Austin Hall told them in 10 hours of questioning.

Patrolman Elmer Dolan, one of two officers who nabbed Hall Oct. 6, went through a grueling quiz Monday in a re-opened investigation of the arrest.

Lt. Louis Shoulders, the other arresting officer and the man credited with breaking the Greenlease case, did not appear because he is suffering from a "nervous condition."

Police Chief Jeremiah O'Connell said Shoulders, who called Hall's arrest "just routine" at the time, will not be questioned until he recovers.

O'Connell refused to say what Dolan revealed to him and other department heads. The new investigation was ordered Sunday after it was reported the FBI had said there were discrepancies in the official police report of Hall's arrest.

public's health, it will be necessary in the next few days to have the dog wardens begin patrolling the school areas in the morning, and according to the law, they are instructed to pick up any dog, collared or otherwise, that is running at large. Running at large means that the dog does not have its owner in sight or controlling distance.

Dogs picked up will be taken to the pound, and will not be released until payment of the pound fees, according to Health Department director.

Dr. Humbert, in his letter to the principals, said it was not the intention of the department to cause unjust hardship on children's pets but, when as a group they are disturbing the public's health, or becoming a nuisance, it is necessary that it be curtailed.

Oaken Bucket Is Her Preference

CARTHAGE, N.C. (AP)—Mrs. Sara Hussey, 73, charged her grandson-in-law, Ray Raby, 26, with trespassing when he installed an electric pump in the well serving both their homes.

The case dismissed when testimony showed that the well was on Raby's property. But Mrs. Hussey, who has used the well 42 years, told the judge: "I've drawn and toted water all my life, and I aim to keep right on doing it."

Retired Men Put Experience To Use

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (U.P.)—Experience, Inc., unlike other groups of retired business and professional men, is not wasting its combined years of experience, ability and wisdom.

The group, made up so far of 18 former executives and professional leaders, plans to use its talents helping others on an individual and community basis.

Taking the lead from an organization in Wilmington, Del., called Consulting and Advisory Services, Inc., the new group is spark-plugged by two men—William Charles and AP. Greensfelder.

Charles, a retired accounting firm head, explained the need for such an organization.

"Too many men," he said, "think that when they retire they'll fill their time with golf, travel and fishing. That's all right for a while, but they soon get tired of it. This (Experience, Inc.) will give them something to do which will not only help others, but help themselves as well."

Just walk into the lobby of any business club and you'll see millions of dollars worth of brains and ability sitting around doing nothing," added Greensfelder.

Age Governs Dues Experience, Inc., will furnish free of charge, men of demonstrated ability and well-rounded experience singly or in groups to guide community activities and help out businessmen.

Membership is limited to men between the ages of 60 and 80 who have retired from an industry profession in the St. Louis area. The dues are figured on the basis of the man's age—the difference between his current age and 100. Thus a man of 65 pays $35 a year and a man 80 gets by for $20.

One of the greatest fears of the retired man is the fear of becoming useless, said Dr. E.V. Cowdry, an ex-officio member and head of the gerontology department at Washington University medical school.

"That's the greatest virtue of Experience, Inc.," Cowdry added. "In fact, the idea is so valuable, and the plan has been so well organized that it should spread to other cities and in time become a national organization. The benefits both to others and the members themselves would be beyond estimate."

"In case some large and wealthy corporation should be benefited by the help of one of our members and should wish to pay him a fee, there's no rule against it," Charles said.

BIRD DOG DEFINED

OLYMPIA, Wash. (UP)—The State Supreme Court, in a recent opinion, acknowledged and thus defined the use of "bird dogs" in the automobile selling business: "A bird dog is a man who gives names of prospects to a salesman and then receives a split of the commission if a sale is made."

Red Heads Don't Cry

By ROY L. FOLEY

CHAPTER TWENTY

THREE months ago this very day, impelled by Phil Stanley's electrifying dare, and her ambition to test her own abilities beyond taking dictation and orders from Humphrey Charles, she had plunged into this new life. Wherever would it lead? She didn't know. She only knew that now she had to go ahead.

Phil's money had made the physical accomplishment of the shop easy. The cost of furnishings, stock, the rent of the shop, in just the right building, on just the right street, had made Nancy gasp, and costs were laughed off by Phil Stanley.

Phil had laughed at her chided her, coaxed her and challenged her to go on. She remembered all her grand resolves to make her own destiny, to slay a dragon with the many heads of fear, landlords, typewriters, Humphrey Charleses, snobbery.

Phil had told her that she had the "stuff," that nearly everybody was bluffing anyway, that life was a game and she might as well get in on it. "He had said: 'What if the thing does fail?' And she had said: 'You'd be out a lot of money.' 'Forget the money, that should be my worry, and I'm not worrying at all.'"

Phil had gotten a woman to come from the east side to act as secretary and manager. He said she had a world of experience in the operation of such shops as Nancy Kelly, Inc. The woman, a Mrs. Clare Eustis, had been invaluable in the whole affair. Under her efficient organization and Phil's goading, Nancy had been swept along so fast that now, at midnight, on the day before the shop's opening, she still lingered alone in the shop to collect her thoughts and calm herself.

Her venture had caused a family furore at first. With every resource of tact and argument she had laid her plans before Mother Kelly, her father and Tom and she had won them to her cause.

Mother Kelly had a fine new chair to rock now. The new chair was only one of the improvements in the Kelly sitting room. There was no more cracked lamp shade, nor was there a shabby rug on the floor.

Nancy closed her eyes. She could see the new Kelly living room furnishings, all accomplished with the pay that Phil Stanley had insisted was coming to her as part of the organization which was to carry her name and which tomorrow was to burst upon the world, the last detail finished.

She had been carried along with this to this very moment—like a piece of driftwood in a rushing stream. She, Nancy Kelly, in business for herself, now seated in her shop at midnight and pondering—what next?

Dave Armstrong had been more difficult to win over to acceptance of the thing she was going into than were her father and mother. He had told her she was playing with fire, accepting Phil Stanley's backing.

That had been weeks ago and she hadn't seen Dave since. She had heard through Tom that Dave was no longer working for the Stanley Construction company. There had been a disagreement of some kind with a foreman. Tom said it had worked out for the best, that a kick could be a boost because Dave had immediately got a job in the drafting room of a competitive company.

At last Dave was going to have things he had worked so hard to master through the grind of night study and correspondence courses. Tom said the company Dave was now working for was the one that for months had been in litigation against the Stanley Construction company. Mention of the firm's name brought back to Nancy all the sickening feeling she had experienced the day she had been called to the district attorney's office for questioning.

Mystery of the person who somehow had gotten material valuable to the side fighting the Stanley company still was unsolved. Nancy for weeks had been tormented with suspicion that Sam Sykes' quick fingers had stolen a carbon copy of information damaging to the company from before her very eyes. Nothing had come of her suspicions so far.

Sam and Moira still were following the races. The last time they were heard from they were on their way to Florida from New Orleans.

Nancy sat down on her chintz couch, stared straight ahead. She had thought and thought and her tired brain couldn't accept another thing. Things were fading—fading. Everything was so deliciously quiet now. She closed her eyes. She mustn't go to sleep. She must call a taxi now and go home.

This same night after the theatre, Linda had invited Phil into her apartment on the pretext of showing him some portraits she had taken. She had settled herself on the chaise longue, the photographs in her lap, and patted the pillow at her side.

"Sit here, Phil the light is better." She had used the most seductive perfume purchasable and Phil, that evening, had not even mentioned it.

"Phil." There was a petulant purr in her voice. "Yes, Linda." "You seem so preoccupied, detached, you're not yourself tonight at all, Phil."

She held out her hand. "Let me feel your pulse." "My pulse!" "Yes, goose, your pulse. I'll bet you have low blood pressure, or something. You've been utterly too quiet tonight. You're not at all like yourself."

He held out his hand. Linda pressed a crimson nailed finger on his wrist, pretended to count as she looked at her tiny wrist watch.

"Not a thing wrong with your pulse, Phil." Her satiny white shoulder was touching the sleeve of his dinner coat now. Then she felt his lips on hers, a light kiss. It was a kiss without passion. It was not a kiss that said, "Linda, I want you to marry me."

She jerked viciously away from him and a little stream of sequins from her gown went trickling to the floor.

Linda Van Vleet's determination to ruin Nancy Kelly in the eyes of Phil Stanley cost her many sleepless hours during the next few nights.

Linda's cleverness her passion to toy with danger, to meddle with lives and to make fools of men, had increased with success. She had made some close escapes. Competition with a girl like Nancy Kelly, a little nobody whose head of coppery hair happened to capture the attention of the too rich Phil Stanley, should be so slight as to be ridiculous. Of course, it was going to be, Linda concluded.

She leaned closer to her dressing table mirror. She ran a fastidious forefinger over the curve of her eyebrows and gave a final pat to her hair.

She was quite satisfied with her appearance. Her new Hattie Carnegie hat, her smart frock, gave her a feeling of authority over any situation she might run into that day. Neither the hat nor the frock had been paid for. The drawer in the Chippendale desk was overflowing with unpaid bills. She wasn't worried about getting money to pay bills.

It was so easy to get money from over-rich young males when they were silly with too much champagne or drunk with excitement at the roulette wheels.

She had seen Phil Stanley's pockets overflowing with crumpled bills, winnings at a table in what appeared to be a fine old country home, and wasn't.

It was the gambling place of a coterie of wealthy people unknown and away from the hot poll who did its gambling at ordinary password establishments in and around the city.

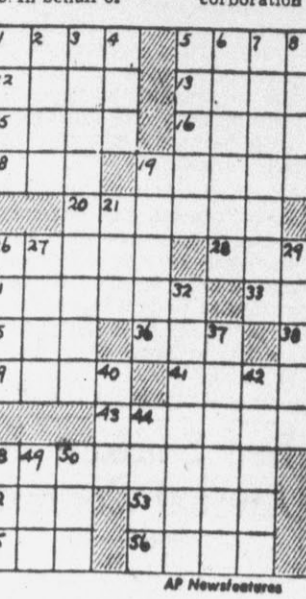

In her smooth, swift way, Linda had dipped into the pockets of Phil and others. When Tod Thornberry was in the crowd, Linda's takings were always easy. Tod always passed out so completely.

Today Linda was going to visit Nancy Kelly's shop. She would learn if she could, what had become of Sam Sykes. Discovery that Sam was married to Nancy's sister had been a shock that was almost too much for the cool composure and acting abilities of Linda.

It was a closed incident now. It had resulted in another secret meeting between Sam and Linda, her demand that Sam tell her just how much of his past and her past he

Common Sense Aids In Child's Recovery

By ANNETTE DAVIS

AP Newsfeatures

The aftermath of a child's illness can be more of a problem than the illness itself.

"If a child is allowed to become too demanding or dependent while he is sick, he may have difficulty adjusting to other children when he returns to a normal routine," says Dr. Thelma Hunt, head of the Psychology Department of George Washington University.

A child who has been coddled too much may run to mother for protection when he should be taking up for himself, she says. To avoid this, she cautions the mother not to let her sympathy get the best of her and not to disrupt any training schedule which has been started.

Knowing when to call the doctor sometimes presents a problem. Dr. Hunt gives these suggestions: Call the doctor if the child's temperature goes too high, if he is sick more than a couple of days, or if there are any peculiar signs and symptoms which are different from past illnesses.

The doctor should always be called, Dr. Hunt emphasizes, if the mother is so worried that she stands a chance of upsetting the child. Sometimes, just talking with the doctor over the phone can reassure an anxious mother.

Usually, a child won't object to seeing a doctor if he is accustomed to checkups while he is well.

"If a child has built up a fear of the doctor it's the doctor's fault most of the time, not the child's," says Dr. Hunt, who carries on a private practice herself.

Now that so many common remedies in palatable form are on the market, taking medicine need not be a problem.

"But," warns Dr. Hunt, "keep the candy-coated aspirin tablets out of the child's reach."

The group rendered several selections which were well received by the club.

Billy Brown, chairman of the Pitt County Association for the Blind drive, stated that reports indicated the goal of $2,000 will be reached easily.

Republican Feud Is Back In Court

CHARLESTON (UP)—South Carolina's two feuding Republican factions were back in the courts today, this time arguing over which group should be called the "Republican Party."

Indications were, however, that the arguments would be short. Circuit Judge Joseph R. Moss has allotted a half-hour for the hearing which was originally set for Oct. 12 at Moncks Corner.

The hearing today was the result of an injunction obtained by the GOP faction headed by J. Bates Gerald, Charleston, restraining the group headed by M. Frank Reid of Laurens from using the Republican name.

Low Farm Prices Next Year, Too

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Agriculture Department had bad news for the nation's farmers today—Low farm prices are likely to continue in 1954.

The prediction came as Republican strategists worried about the possible effect of the farm price situation on their party's chances in the 1954 congressional elections.

An outlook report by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics said prices farmers get for their produce may average slightly lower next year although "some further decline" in the cost of the products they buy is "probable."

"This means that the cost-price squeeze is likely to continue in 1954 as in 1953," the bureau said.

During the first nine months of the year, prices paid by farmers for goods and services used in farm production—including interest taxes and wages—averaged about 4.5 per cent below the same period last year.

At the same time prices received by farmers for their crops were down 11 per cent.

The report said the cost-price squeeze, described by President Eisenhower recently as an "economic grinding machine," intensified considerably early this year but has changed "relatively little" in recent months.

Net farm income next year is expected to be lower than this year for dairy farmers and many cotton farmers. The report forecast a 20 per cent drop in income for Southern Piedmont cotton producers but said net income in the high Texas Plains may be above this year's low figures.

Super Sabre Jet Secrecy Removed

LOS ANGELES, Calif. (UP)—The first supersonic combat planes in history, believed capable of speeds approaching 800 miles an hour, were removed from the secret list today as they began to roll from the assembly line.

The new F100 Super Sabres were considered by air officers to give the United States a commanding lead in the global race for jet supremacy.

The Air Force guardedly revealed details of the F100's spectacular performance when the number one production model was wheeled from the factory of North American Aviation, builder of the F86 Sabre of Korean War fame.

It was disclosed that the test model, the F100, exceeded the speed of sound in level flight during its first turn in the air last May 2, with North American test pilot George Welch at the controls.

A more streamlined fighter than the Sabre, the F100 can fight at high speed at altitudes above 50,000 feet, which means it can take on the most advanced bombers of which there is public knowledge.

It was expected that Super Sabres would be assigned to Air Force units in Europe and the Far East, where they would have an apparently unquestionable margin of superiority over any known Russian fighter or bomber development. They also can be adapted to carry rockets and bombs in support of ground troops, it was announced.
