Planning Board Has Long Meet

Subdivision Layout Approved; Rezoning Of Property Refused

By BOB BOYETTE Reflector Staff Writer In a lengthy meeting last night the City Planning Board approved the employment of a secretary, approved a street layout plan for a subdivision, and turned "thumbs down" on a request for rezoning some property.

Mrs. Joyce Oldham was accepted as the new secretary of the planning board. She is presently a city employee in the City Clerk's office.

After a long discussion the Board finally approved a street layout plan for the Messick, Keel and Nichols subdivision property. This approval was subject to compliance with the city subdivision ordinance that establishes a policy for the development of new subdivisions and areas outside the corporate limits of the city before the property may become a part of the city.

City Manager James S. Hughes read C. O. Stancill's request for rezoning his property at the corner of East 3rd and Jarvis Streets from residential to commercial.

The board discussed Stancill's request in every detail. Chairman Frank Little Jr. read a N. C. State law that states if any two corners of an intersection are made business zones the other corners on the same intersection would have to be zoned business.

When asked by the chairman for his views, City Manager Hughes said that a lot of consideration was made before the property was made residential and therefore he thought it should be left that way.

Little explained that the people of Greenville must be considered as a whole and unless it would cause undue hardship he thought it should be left residential. He also explained the fact that changing that corner to business might cause a traffic problem.

After much more discussion the board finally disapproved the request. It will therefore not be recommended to the City Council to be changed.

The Planning Board approved a recommendation to the City Council that West 5th Street, from Albemarle to the city limits, be taken out of the fire district and made business instead of residential so dwellings may be improved by the owners.

Prior to the conclusion of the meeting the city manager gave each member of the board a copy of subdivision regulations that were adopted while he was city manager of a Virginia city. The board plans to study these regulations and then draw up similar regulations for the city of Greenville. It was generally decided that it would take several months to complete this new set of subdivision regulations.

Report Communism Is Losing In West Europe

By JOHN CHADWICK WASHINGTON (AP)—The Communists have "lost heavily" in membership and trade union support in Western Europe during recent years, a Senate foreign relations subcommittee said in a report published today.

The 60-page study surveys the strength, tactics and objectives of the Communist movement throughout the world, country by country and region by region.

Anti-Reds Agree Hear Explainers

By FORREST EDWARDS PANMUNJOM (AP)—Violently anti-Communist North Korean prisoners have agreed to attend Communist interviews tomorrow, ending a two-week holdout which threatened to wreck the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission.

They are coming out tomorrow for explanations—so they have agreed, said Lt. Gen. K. S. Thimayya, Indian chairman of the commission.

Five hundred North Koreans are scheduled to move out of their compounds at 8 a. m. (6 p. m. EST Friday) for interviews with Red explainers. They will try to persuade them to return home. Another 500 are to be interviewed in the afternoon.

The Koreans' decision to attend the interviews peacefully represented a solid personal triumph for patient Gen. Thimayya.

He told newsmen that after days of delicate negotiations the POW leaders indicated two days ago they were willing to attend explanations. But they asked for time to talk fellow prisoners into attending.

The commission chairman said he was notified Thursday night that the men were ready to start Saturday morning.

The NNRC promptly notified the Communist and U. N. commands that explanations would be held for the first time since Oct. 16 at 8 a. m. Saturday.

These will be the first North Koreans to meet the Reds since the explanations started Oct. 15.

ROK Air General Claims Violation

TOKYO (AP)—The chief of South Korea's air force said today the Communists have spirited 400 fighter planes into North Korea in violation of the armistice and based them at 30 newly repaired airfields.

Lt. Gen. Choi Yong Duk told newsmen "The North Korean air force now has two divisions of MIGs and another division of propeller-driven craft south of the Manchurian border."

He said the Reds have another 1,000 warplanes in Manchuria, about two-thirds of them MIGs.

Choi stopped here en route to the United States where he will tour Air Force installations and confer with military officials.

The Korean truce signed last July 27 bans the movement of planes into Korea except as reported by the armistice.

Choi reported for the first time that North Korean air force headquarters were at Sinuiju near the Yalu River. He said that since the armistice it has been moved to Pyongyang, the North Korean capital.

Final Salute For Gen. Mark Clark Today After 36 Years' Service

Career Soldier's Life Marked By Combat Commands In Two World Wars

By WARREN ROGERS JR. WASHINGTON (AP)—Tall, lanky Mark Wayne Clark, just one day away from donning his general's uniform, draws a final salute today from the Army he served more than 36 years—in glory and in controversy.

The last senior U. S. commander of World War II to end his active duty career, the 57-year-old soldier is being honored late today with a parade and reception at Washington's Ft. McNair.

The Army band, units from the 3rd Infantry Regiment and a saluting battery of field guns are taking care of the formal field honors. A reception at the Ft. McNair officers club follows, with Army Vice Chief of Staff Gen. Charles L. Bolte acting as host in the absence of Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, Army chief of staff.

Diplomatic, congressional, military and civil defense officials have been invited.

Clark's career, from his West Point graduation in 1917 to his formal retirement tomorrow, brought him command of combat troops during two world wars and in Korea.

It also brought him many decorations and much glory—as well as the center spots in two once-raging disputes, one military, the other religious.

Despite critics and criticism, he remained a powerful force in the shaping of the American army from Korea to one of New York's celebrated ticker tape welcomes.

He moves on now to become superintendent later this year at the Citadel, the famous Southern military school at Charleston, S. C.

It was just about two years ago that former President Truman named Clark ambassador to the Vatican, thereby bringing on a storm of protest that did not abate until the appointment was withdrawn.

While the United States has had representatives at the Vatican, it has never sent a full-fledged ambassador to the Roman Catholic state. Protestant groups argued that such action would violate the cherished American tradition of separation of church and state.

Seven years earlier, during three bloody days at the Rapido River in Italy, Clark gave an order which has been heatedly criticized. In his own defense, Clark called the order a "calculated risk" and said he would give it again under the same circumstances.

His order, as 5th Army commander in January 1944, sent the 36th Infantry Division in a spearhead attack across the river toward German and Italian forces. The attack failed.

Clark's most recent assignment was in Tokyo as United Nations Far East commander, a post he held from May 1952 until this month.

Clark was born in Madison Barrington, N. Y., the son of an Army colonel. He has two children, a daughter and a son—a three-wounded Korean veteran at whose recent wedding the general stood as best man.

Lodge Requests Secretary General To Put Report On Agenda UN Asked Hear Atrocities

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The United States today formally asked the U. N. General Assembly to take up its charges that Communists in Korea committed atrocities against American and Allied captives.

The request was contained in a letter from Chief U. S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. to Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld. The letter merely asked that the item be put on the Assembly's agenda. It was not accompanied by an explanatory memorandum telling why.

U. N. sources said they expected a meeting of the steering committee Monday to decide whether to agree to the U. S. request.

Lodge announced the move last night. A little more than 34 hours after the Army War Crimes Division issued its account of the torture, murder and starvation deaths of 29,815 persons—including 6,113 American soldiers—behind Red lines in Korea.

The report, documented with blood-curdling photographs and eye-witness stories, touched off demands from shocked American public and private figures for U. N. action.

Lodge's terse announcement gave no indication, however, whether the United States would ask the Assembly to pass judgment and condemn those responsible for the killings. It said simply:

"The United States is placing on the agenda of the General Assembly the United States Army report on atrocities committed against captives in Korea by Communist forces in Korea."

Diplomats said any U. S. demand for condemnation of alleged war criminals almost certainly would run into bitter Communist opposition and Russian counter-demands that Red China and North Korea be invited here to answer the American charges.

The announcement came as the United States disclosed it will present further evidence of Soviet complicity in Communist torture to bring germ warfare "conferences" like time and place the rival delegates must "create more harmonious working relations."

In this way, he said, the two sides could deal with the complex controversy over peace conference membership in a more favorable atmosphere.

He told the Reds: "We do not know each other very well. If we were to negotiate on simpler subjects we might learn we could get along together."

The North Korean Foreign Ministry representative, Ki Sok Bok, asked for a 15-minute recess, but re-entering the hut, he declared, "We can find nothing new" in Dean's remarks.

Then the Communist spokesman opened his attack on Dean's plan and demanded once again that the question of inviting neutrals to the peace table be the first order of business.

British Airliner Crash Kills All 19 People Aboard

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The only survivors here are rescuers. That's how Coast Guard Chief Wilson Jennings described by radio the grim scene 26 miles south of here yesterday where a British Commonwealth Pacific Airlines DC6 crashed and burned, killing all 19 aboard.

Among the 11 passengers were William Kapell, 31, brilliant New York concert pianist returning from an Australian tour, and a 7-year-old Australian boy.

Two of the eight crew members were hostesses.

The ship was only two minutes from San Francisco Airport on its transpacific journey from Sydney, Australia via Honolulu. It crashed into fog-shrouded, 2,400-foot King's Mountain and burned.

Seventeen charred and dismembered bodies were recovered. Search for the other two resumes today.

All aboard were British, except Kapell.

Cause of the crash has not been determined.

Veteran pilot Bruce Dixon had checked by radio with the control tower at San Francisco Airport just before the crash. But there was no indication of impending tragedy as he said:

"Five hundred feet on top of 1,200 foot ceiling."

Because of the fog, the ship was on instruments.

At Honolulu Kapell almost decided to stop over. He changed his mind, however, and continued on the flight to death. He was going to Los Angeles to record sonatas.

Raleigh (AP)—Woodrow Stroud, 32, one of two men charged in the $12,398 Garner bank holdup Aug. 28, was bound over for trial in federal court on bank robbery charges after a preliminary hearing yesterday.

Cyrus E. Porter Jr., 28, the second man arrested in the case, was scheduled to be given a preliminary hearing at Wilson today. A third man is still at large in the case.

Stroud pleaded innocent at the hearing. His bond was fixed at $25,000. He did not attempt to put it up because the state had lodged a detainer against him for parole violation.

J. L. Alderman, Garner drugist, identified Stroud as one of the bank robbers in the hearing before U. S. Commissioner H. A. Bland.

Alderman said the robbers forced him to lie on the bank floor. He suffers from an asthmatic condition and began coughing on the floor, he told Bland. He said Stroud told another robber "Don't shoot that man. I'll stop him from coughing." He said Stroud then "stepped on my throat."

Stroud was arrested here Tuesday and Porter was arrested at the same time in Greenville.

Caustic Refusal By Reds To Accept U.S. Offer Peace Parley Plan Rejected

By SAM SUMMERLIN PANMUNJOM (AP)—Communist diplomats today called an American proposal for setting up the Korean peace conference "absurd . . . a trick . . . absolutely unacceptable" and pushed preliminary talks deeper into dead-end.

The unyielding Red stand on the peace conference discussions did not seem to mar Dean's optimism.

He told newsmen that despite the 52-minute session that he had in the conference room at the fifth meeting, there was "generally a better attitude in the discussions."

At today's meeting, Dean suggested the dispute over admission of nonbelligerents might be tossed to the conference itself.

But he repeated that he is willing to exchange views on composition of agreement first in reached on a time and place.

The American lawyer told the Reds in soothing words that by negotiating first on the "simpler subjects" like time and place the rival delegates must "create more harmonious working relations."

In this way, he said, the two sides could deal with the complex controversy over peace conference membership in a more favorable atmosphere.

He told the Reds: "We do not know each other very well. If we were to negotiate on simpler subjects we might learn we could get along together."

The North Korean Foreign Ministry representative, Ki Sok Bok, asked for a 15-minute recess, but re-entering the hut, he declared, "We can find nothing new" in Dean's remarks.

Then the Communist spokesman opened his attack on Dean's plan and demanded once again that the question of inviting neutrals to the peace table be the first order of business.

Vote Results Said Factor In Flow Of Money Sees Farm Fund In Offing

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Clinton P. Anderson (D-Mo.) said today the recent election of a Democratic large-Douglas of Illinois, Gillette of Iowa and Humphrey of Minnesota.

Lester R. Johnson, 52-year-old lawyer who won the surprise victory in Wisconsin's 8th District last Oct. 13, came to Washington yesterday for conferences with Democratic leaders. He brushed aside any such title as "terror of the GOP" and told a news conference the farm problem played a key role in his election.

Anderson said he thought several factors contributed to this result, but that he had noted farm unrest throughout the West in travel since Congress quit in August. The drought has helped somewhat this feeling, he said.

"One of the big troubles is the farmer doesn't see anything being done in Washington that is really going to help him," he added.

He said the "strong program" of aid for agriculture which he predicted did not necessarily mean high rigid price supports of the type many lawmakers and farm groups are demanding.

The senator who served as secretary of agriculture under former President Truman, long has favored a system of flexible price supports.

Ask Clemency Final Witnesses Ready In Greenlease Kidnaping

RALEIGH (AP)—Lawyers for Bennie and Lloyd Ray Daniels today asked Gov. Unstead to spare the lives of the young Negro cousins who are scheduled to die next Friday.

O. John Rogge of New York told the governor two legal moves appear open for the youths. However, he said he hopes the "state could be magnanimous" and commute their death sentences to life imprisonment.

Rogge said a petition to rehear the case could be filed or the state's post-conviction statute could be used in an effort to reopen the case.

However, Herman Taylor, Raleigh lawyer, said he and Rogge had not decided what course to follow if Unstead denies the appeal for commutation.

The governor has promised to reach a decision in the case today.

Federal kidnaping charges already have been filed against Hall and Mrs. Eddy divorced. They also face state murder and kidnaping charges.

Officials said the grand jury hearing was another step in developing an ironical case against the pair.

Among yesterday's witnesses was Sandy O'Day, a blonde who spent a night with Hall in St. Louis during a wild spending spree. Hall went to St. Louis after obtaining $800,000 ransom money from Greenlease.

Miss O'Day is being held in jail here as a material witness.

During Hall's St. Louis binge, Miss O'Day told taxicab driver John Hager about seeing a "million bucks" in his luggage.

Hager, who had picked up Hall as a fare, later gave the tip to police that resulted in the kidnapers' arrests.

The government had indicated it would conclude the case before the jury late Wednesday. The additional days of testimony, principally from St. Louis witnesses, indicated the jury was showing special interest in the St. Louis aspects of the case.

Proved His Case But Convicted

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—George Quayle, 32, stepped before City Court Judge John J. Bracken yesterday to prove he did not pass a traffic light at Pearl and Ann streets.

As evidence he produced detailed maps, accurate measurements of the intersection and statistics on braking times and distances.

"These prove I couldn't have passed the light at Pearl and Ann streets," Quayle said.

That's true, said the judge but found Quayle guilty anyway. The judge pointed out Quayle was charged with passing the light at Asylum and Ann streets, not Pearl and Ann streets. Sentence was suspended.

Still Trying To Get Some Lights

SOMONAUK I. I. (AP)—The Burlington Railroad depot in Somonaux was built 97 years ago, but the station still is trying to get the railroad to install electric lights.

F. E. McHenry, the railroad agent, and L. E. Griffiths, the telegraph operator, work by the light of railroad flashlights after sundown.

McHenry says the railroad has promised that electric lights will be installed early this winter.

"But they have promised the same thing for 35 years," he said.

Pitt Farm Bureau Membership Drive Is Still 1547 Names Short Of Goal For Year

Pitt County has reached only 60 per cent of its 4500 Farm Bureau membership quota for 1953, according to figures released by the Pitt County Farm Office yesterday.

Community membership committee 2983 names so far—1547 short of the announced goal of 4500 for the county.

Marion Nobles of Stokes county membership chairman, urged all township chairmen and workers to go ahead with their part of the drive.

"We are asking township chairmen to try to get to work on this," he said. "We don't believe that contact has been made with all prospective members of the Farm Bureau."

Nobles emphasized that Pitt County is one of the most fortunate counties in this area this year as far as agricultural income is concerned but that we are one of the lagging counties in the Farm Bureau membership drive.

"The people of this area are watching us and waiting to know what Pitt County will do in this drive because we have been more fortunate this year," Nobles said. "We want to put it across because it is for the good of the farmers themselves."

Nobles said he believed that many of last year's members had not been contacted for renewals this year by township workers and he urged the workers to try to get these former members to renew their membership.

Two communities have exceeded their quotas at present. Beaver Dam with a quota of 190 members has signed up 199 or nine over their quota and Falkland with a quota of 240 now has 244 or four more than required. Greenville has obtained only 181 of its quota of 535 members or 25 percent of the number required. This places Greenville at the bottom of the list per centage wise, among other Pitt County Communities in membership.

Deadline for turning in new members is November 10. Report on the Pitt County membership drive is to be made at the State Farm Bureau convention in Raleigh November 18-17.

Only two communities have exceeded last year's membership as of yesterday. Beaver Dam had a total of 196 members last year and has recruited 199 members this year. Carolina last year had 122 and so far this year has 154, still far below its quota of 225 however.

Following is a list of communities with last year's membership, this year's quota, and members signed up so far this year: Ayden: 364, 465, 336; Beaver Dam: 125, 97; Bethel: 426, 420, 338; Carolina: 122, 325, 184; Chocow: 264, 485, 284; Falkland: 240, 240, 244; Farmville: 506, 456, 457; Fountain: 181, 180, 177; Greenville: 64, 535, 181; Hargetts: 175, 200, 144; Swift Creek: 247, 280, 152; Winterville: 226, 250, 184.

Ava And Frankie Agree To Disagree; Divorce Slated

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Glamorous Ava Gardner says "it's final this time" and she'll sue crooner Frank Sinatra for divorce.

"There's no chance of reconciliation," the shapely star said yesterday.

The reason? Frankie said there was career trouble but Ava denied this and wouldn't say what caused the split. There's no third party involved, however, she declared.

It's the third Ava Gardner marriage to hit the rocks. Husband No. 1 was Mickey Rooney, whom she married when he was playing in Andy Hardy films and she was a studio starlet.

No. 2 was intellectual bandleader Artie Shaw, who took book along on their honeymoon. "He told me to leave, so I left," the farmer's daughter from Smithfield, N. C., said after their breakup.

Frankie, from Hoboken, N. J., the crooning idol of thousands of shrieking, swooning bobbysoxers during World War II.

He divorced his wife Nancy in Las Vegas, Nev., Nov. 1, 1951—two days after she had divorced him in Santa Monica, near here—and six days later married Ava in Philadelphia. Frank and Nancy wed 12 years had three children.

Frank and Ava, married two years ago, announced yesterday through MGM film studio, exhausted every effort to reconcile our differences, we find no mutual basis on which to continue our marriage.

"We still have great respect for each other."

Speed Record Is Said Regained By Air Force

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Air Force claimed today to have wrested back from the Navy the world speed record for level flight.

Col. F. K. (Pete) Everest, 33, of Edwards Air Force Base, flew a North American Super Sabre 754.98 m.p.h. yesterday over a 15-kilometer (about 9 miles) course along the Salton Sea. His top speed with a tail wind was 767.276 m.p.h. and he bucked the wind coming back at 742.884 m.p.h.

Pastat previous time was 753.4 m.p.h. by Navy Lt. Cmdr. James Verdin of Patuxent, Md., earlier this month in an F4D Skyray over a three kilometer course.

Work Out Plans For Withdrawal From Trieste

LONDON (AP)—Britain and the United States reportedly have threatened to march his troops into Zone A of the bitterly-disputed Trieste territory and handing the area over to Italy.

Informants said the plans were drawn up in four days of secret talks ending yesterday. They presumably will go into effect when the two nations decide to carry out their Oct. 8 declaration that the strategic zone would be ceded to Italy.

The U. S.-British conferees reportedly also considered methods of dealing with any emergency that might arise as a result of the withdrawal.

Tomorrow's Gardens

by The Greenville Garden Club
Just a few years ago we rarely saw azaleas in Greenville or indeed in Pitt County. Most of us thought they were so difficult to grow, so susceptible to changes of weather, so demanding as to soil, that we'd better leave them alone. A few pioneer gardeners, tho, were willing to try and today those twenty years old are six feet tall. In the spring every one rides by to see them and almost every one decides to plant some too.

Small azalea plants are plentiful now and large ones are available in most varieties. There should be something to fit in every garden. Like many other beautiful things, they must be chosen with care to suit the background of the house and other plantings and to blend with each other. The loveliest flowers in the world may be atrocious if the color combinations are wrong. Even so there is one comforting assurance: azaleas are very easy to move even in full bloom and if we have erred in judgment we need not suffer too long.

Since to many of us having azaleas of our own is a fairly new experience and since most of us will buy them when they are not in bloom we think it is worth while to classify them. In addition to color and size of bloom these classifications indicate also some thing of the habit of growth and some of the quality of foliage. Some azaleas naturally grow tall and compact, others have an open spreading growth and still others are low and flat, almost hugging the ground.

Our best known group of azaleas is Kurume — foliage very small and completely hidden by the flowers. Later the foliage is a fairly bright green with the exception of Hinodiger, which turns bronze red in fall. Where these are offered for sale it is by the name of the variety — Snow, Coral Bell, Salmon Beauty and Hinodiger to name a few and with the exception of Hino (bright watermelon red) the name indicates the color. Plants of this group grow rather slowly and remain compact with little pruning.

The next group — Indica — is the one about which most confusion exists. These grow tall and grow fairly fast, leaves are rather dark green and quite large, flowers are very large. Indica azaleas are not quite so hardy as the Kurume group. The best known variety is Formosa with flowers of purplish pink but many people thinking Formosa is the name of the group buy that when they really want white, rosy pink or lavender. Some very good varieties in this group are: Phoenicia — same color as Formosa but blooming later, Fielders White, Mau-pan, (ruffled white) Pride of Mobile (watermelon red) Pride of Summerville (deep pink with just enough yellow to make it harmonize with old brick) President Clay (salmon) and variegated pink, white and lavender varieties, example: George Lindley Tabor (tall) and Criterion (low). Mme. Dominique Vervaine also variegated makes a beautiful medium sized bush with heavy dark green foliage.

One small group which is quite new but well worth looking for is the Pericat. The foliage is unusual and very nice — leaves almost round and very thick and glossy. The flowers are double, ruffled and quite large. There are three varieties — Madam Pericat (deep pink), Sweetheart Supreme (light ivory white) and Gardenia Supreme (ivory white).

In closing we must mention one other variety which has every good quality. The name is Brilliant, color is watermelon red, flower fairly large and the foliage is superb, thick and dark green with long pointed leaves — a good shrub even when not in bloom.

Christian Church Announcements
The state convention of the North Carolina Disciples of Christ will assemble in Winston-Salem on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of next week, November 3, 4 and 5. Many national leaders will be present for addresses, among them, Dr. Jesse M. Bader of New York City, Miss Jessie M. Trout and Dr. C. O. Hawley of Indianapolis, and Judge David Nelson Sutton of West Point, Va. Several delegates from Greenville will be in attendance.

The Bible Book-of-the-Month is Paul's letter to the Philippians and all the members of the church are requested to read and study the book during the month of November.

Boys between the ages of 12 and 14 who are interested in scouting and not members of some other troop are invited to come to the Christian Church Wednesday night, November 4, at 7:00 for the reorganization of Troop No. 33. The Troop Committee, the Scoutmaster and Assistant, and several parents will be present for this important meeting. The age limits are boys 12 to 14.

At the service Sunday morning at 11:00 the choir will sing "The City Beautiful," an anthem by Fedelin with Mrs. H. L. Carter taking the solo part. The pastor has announced to preach on the theme "Abiding Treasures."

The Sunday School meets at 9:45 and there is an organized class for all, from the age of 3 to 103. All youth groups will meet at 6:00 p. m.

Explorer Scout Conference At College Begins

First Explorer Vocational Conference of the East Carolina Council, Boy Scouts of America, opened Thursday evening at East Carolina College with more than 125 Scouts registered for the event.

Opening with a general assembly Friday morning, the conference sessions began on schedule with East Carolina College officials and faculty initiating the round of seminars.

President J. D. Messick in welcoming Scouts reminded them of rewards for diligence and application of personal effort to challenging tasks.

Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, dean of the college, outlined the two-day program and also said the community will be looking to the boy who has taken well the privileges of Scouting for future leadership.

Others speaking briefly on the program directed by Conference Chairman Dick Newell of Greenville were Alumni Secretary James W. Butler, who presented the speakers and welcomed the Explorers on behalf of the Pitt District of East Carolina Council; President Charles Klutts of Kappa Upsilon Chapter of Alpha Phi Omega, service fraternity; and Scout Executive Lester Dollar of Greenville.

On the schedule of activities for the conference, the college testing service was conducted by Dr. Hazel Taylor in Flanagan Auditorium. Other seminars and their leaders: Engineering, J. O. Derrick; Physics and Chemistry, C. A. Scruggs; Law, Dr. Paul Murray; Agriculture and Forestry, Dr. Charles W. Reynolds and Dr. T. H. Eaton; Archaeology and History, Dr. George Pasti; Physical Education and Recreation, Dr. N. M. Jorgensen and Dr. Charles G. DeShaw; Business Administration, Dr. E. R. Browning and Dr. James L. White; Conservation, Dr. E. J. Carter; Education, Dr. J. L. Oppelt; Medicine, Dr. Mary Helms; Dramatics, Dr. Joseph Withey; Natural Sciences, Dr. George Martin.

On Saturday Dr. Leo W. Jenkins will discuss "Choosing A Life's Work" and Dr. W. I. Wolverton will address the Explorers on "Communism." The Air Force ROTC program will be explained by an officer on the college staff as the concluding feature on the morning program.

The Explorers will be guests of the college at a swim meet in the Memorial Gym pool and Saturday evening will be guests, also, at East Carolina's final home game with Appalachian.

A social features a dance with the Collegian providing the music in Wright Auditorium on Friday evening.

Conference officials are Dick Newell, chairman; Preston Jarvis, vice chairman; Hugh Duncan, registration and arrangements chairman, all of Greenville; President Charles Klutts, Bill Rogers, and Don Brannon, Alpha Phi Omega fraternity committee; Lester Dollar, Scouting advisor; Dr. J. D. Messick, president.

Business Session Held By Jaycees; Two Are Inducted

Induction of new members and a business session highlighted the meeting of the Greenville Jaycees last night.

James Rogers and Cecil Harris, were inducted by J.B. Smith, Jr. After considerable discussion the club voted to have a dinner-dance party on November 5th in place of the regular Ladies Night Party which had been scheduled to be paid for by the losers in the recent Horse Show ticket contest.

The supper-dance will be held at the Greenville Country Club on Thursday night, November 5, at 7:30.

Announcement was made that the State Quarterly Board meeting will be held in Lumberton on November 21-22. Rooms have been reserved for local Jaycees and more can be obtained by contacting Gene Ward.

President Ben Rouse announced that several members of the local club met with members of the Kinston Jaycees last week to discuss "Operation Christmas Dance" to be staged in Kinston for the benefit of North Carolina orphans.

Site of the dance will be the Old Knott Warehouse on November 18, starting at nine o'clock. Music will be provided by the United States Air Force Band from Pope Air Field, known as the "Glenn Miller Band".

Since the dance is being held as a District Jaycee project, all clubs in the District will sell tickets to the dance.

Rouse also announced that there will be a District Jaycee meeting in Jacksonville on November 10. All members are invited to attend. Ballots for the Junior Chamber 1953 Distinguished Service Award were passed out and votes cast for candidates by members present.

A complete report on the recently held Jaycee Horse Show was carried over to this next regular meeting of the club.

Mrs. Floyd Phillips Hostess to Elmhurst Neighborhood Club

Elmhurst Neighborhood Club No. 11 met last night at the home of Mrs. Floyd Phillips on Berkeley Road.

Mrs. Tom Smith, president, called the meeting to order. Roll was called, dues were collected, and the minutes read by Mrs. Phillips. Each of the 11 members present answered roll call with a household item. Several members brought their sewing or knitting.

During the meeting the members decided to keep a scrapbook of various activities of the club throughout the year. All members were asked to bring favorite recipes, gardening ideas and any articles of neighborhood interest to each meeting. Mrs. Joe Brown will collect these articles and enter them in the scrapbook.

During the social hour the group enjoyed listening to Mrs. Marshall Whitehurst and Mrs. J. W. Aldridge play the piano while the hostess served coffee and doughnuts.

Conference officials are Dick Newell, chairman; Preston Jarvis, vice chairman; Hugh Duncan, registration and arrangements chairman, all of Greenville; President Charles Klutts, Bill Rogers, and Don Brannon, Alpha Phi Omega fraternity committee; Lester Dollar, Scouting advisor; Dr. J. D. Messick, president.

Service For Deceased Members Of Pocahontas

Forty-eight members and six visitors met at the Red Men's Hall Tuesday night to pay tribute to their new Christian Flag and also the deceased members of Witha Council No. 42, Greenville, N. C. The visitors, Goldie DuRant, Gladys Wynne, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Parker and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sawyer, were all from Washington.

Lillie Harris, presiding Pocahontas, called the meeting to order with all officers present. They were all dressed in white evening gowns. The Christian Flag was presented to the Council and all members made a pledge of allegiance to it.

A special service was held for the deceased members of the Council. All names of the beloved ones who had passed away were read out. It was noted that 17 had died. Flowers were placed by the officers in two baskets in honor of them. Bessie Nobles accompanied Betty Nobles at the piano, while she sang "Beyond the Sunset." After the memorial service, the officers draped the charter.

Resolutions of Respect were made to Lillian Sutton for the loss of her mother. A thank you note was read from Faye Sawyer and Ruth Lombardo. Minnie Bailey was reported as being in the hospital, and also Cynthia L. Aldridge, a member of Ayden Council. Geneva Webb, Rachel Moore and Ruth Cox contributed to the Birthday Fund.

After the meeting adjourned, delicious refreshments were served and a social get together was enjoyed by all.

Milk Commission Hearing Today

ROCKY MOUNT — The North Carolina Milk Commission conducted a public hearing for Area 9 in the Recorder's Courtroom here today.

Chairman W.W. Fitzpatrick called the meeting. It was for the purpose of receiving evidence and information on the production, distribution and sale of milk.

Twenty-three northeastern counties compose Area 9. They are: Beaufort, Bertie, Camden, Carteret, Chowan, Craven, Currituck, Dare, Edgecombe, Gates, Halifax, Hertford, Hyde, Martin, Nash, Northampton, Pamlico, Pasquotank, Perquimans, Pitt, Wilson Washington and Tyrrell.

Information obtained at today's hearing will be considered by the commission in determining whether or not it will be in the public interest for this area, or any part of it, to be established as a milk marketing area under the authority vested in the North Carolina Milk Commission by the 1953 General Assembly.

Producers delivering milk to plants in Area 9 and distributors serving this area attended the hearing.

Need Interpreter For Zoo Inmate

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore Zoo will need an interpreter when a 3-year-old elephant it has ordered arrives next week.

"She'll have to change her ways," said Zoo Director Arthur R. Watson. "Just give our elephant trainer a few weeks..."

Seriously Injured By Falling Auto

Elbert Tyson, Route 2, Greenville, employe of the Wagner-Waldrop Motors Company here, was seriously injured yesterday afternoon when a car on which he was working fell on him.

Tyson was removed to Duke Hospital last night around midnight for treatment of serious back and head injuries.

His condition was reported as being "grave".

According to reports, the man was working on an automobile, with the bumper of the car suspended by a chain hoist.

While working on the car, the hoist slipped from the bumper and fell on the man's head and back.

He was pinned under the car in a sitting position until fellow employes could lift the car from him by man power.

Carolina Power And Light Sells Gas Properties

Carolina Power & Light Company completed the sale of its gas properties to Tidewater Gas Company here today, and the change of operation is slated for midnight November 6.

Deeds to the property were delivered to the new owners, who made the first payment on a price of approximately $50,000. The properties — acquired by CP&L from old Tide Water Power Company — are located at Fayetteville, Kinston, New Bern, Washington and Wilmington.

The newly-formed Tidewater Gas Company is headed by Clifford B. Ewart, who has moved from New York City to Wilmington and will serve as president and treasurer. His company will direct five subsidiary companies devoted to the local operations.

A Nostalgic Look At A Bygone Era

As one year gives way to the next, life in the United States becomes more complicated, and the pace of living becomes more rapid.

It must be somewhat awesome for those who have watched developments over the past half century to compare the rate of transportation in 1953 with that which was to be had in Eastern Carolina at the turn of the century.

When Wilbur and Orville Wright were working with their awkward flying machine on the dunes of Kitty Hawk, businessmen in this section were, for the most part confining their travel to within a few miles from home.

When the occasion demanded a trip to a community thirty or forty miles distance, the horse was hitched to the buggy, and the man picked his way across fields and through woods paths to his destination. The trip took at least a couple of days. Few bridges spanned the many rivers and streams in this section of the state. The few roads which had been built were sand beds in dry weather and seas of mud when the rains came.

Today men fly halfway around the globe in the time it took half a century ago for a man to travel from one end of Pitt County to the other. Today 8,000 companies own 10,000 airplanes which hop from one state to the other in a few hours while men strive to keep up with the present-day business pace. Some 4,400 airplanes are literally flying offices, completely equipped with desks, radio telephones, dictating machines and other essential office equipment.

No wonder many of the "old timers" wish for the slower pace of the era they remember from their youth. No wonder many of the "youngsters" would like for a few days at a time to turn the calendar back to the slower pace of the horse and buggy era.

Another Halloween Without Vandalism?

Halloween is upon the country once more, and the traditional ghosts and goblins are preparing for their annual night of prowling.

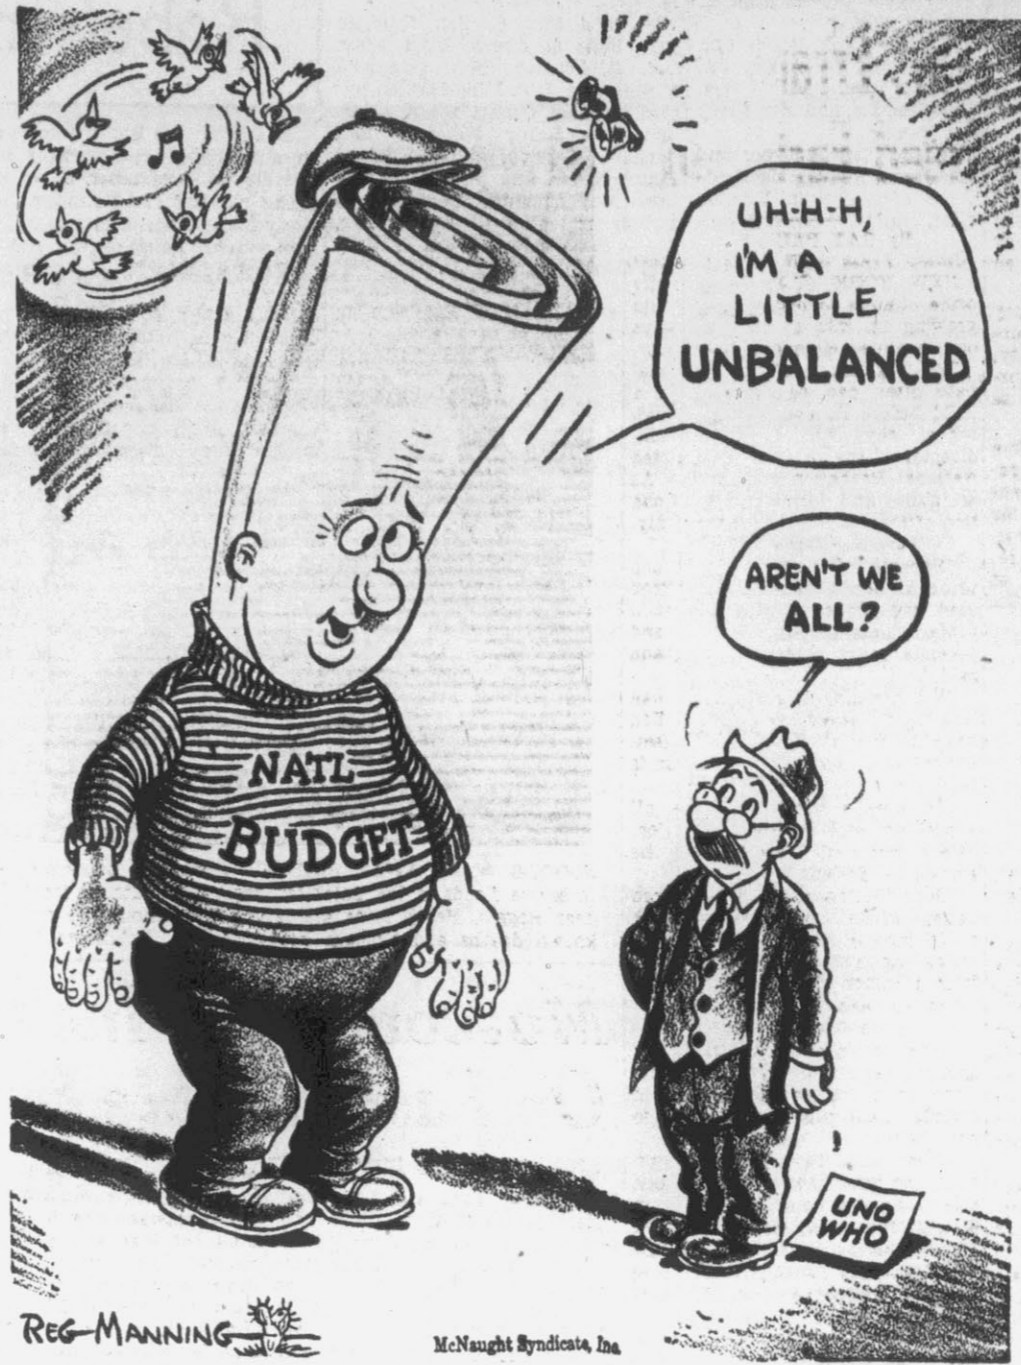

Likewise preparing for the evening of roaming are many youngsters who will be dressed as the counterparts of the fictitious ghouls.

It is these youngsters with which most people are concerned just now. Somewhere along the line, long years ago, mischievous youngsters got the idea that Halloween was the time for playing practical jokes on friends and neighbors; and a time when it made no difference whether property damage was involved.

Fortunately, in the communities of Pitt County in recent years, vandalism on Halloween has been kept at a minimum. Most of the youngsters have seemed content in dressing in their costumes, parading on the streets. To a great extent they have gotten away from the old pranks of wrecking fences, demolishing lawn furniture, painting automobiles and breaking windows.

Pitt County has justly taken pride in the way the youngsters have behaved on past Halloweens. We hope the behavior this Halloween will be worthy of the confidence which has been built up by the commendable Halloween behavior of the past several years.

Somebody Told Me

Coming Tinted Glass Effects

The automobile industry, in making tinted glass for windshields, will bring about thousands of new acquaintances among the American people.

Let me explain that ridiculous-sounding statement. In a town like Greenville if you know a person it's considered rude not to give him a greeting when you see him on the street or in a car.

So, in order to be sociable you have to keep your eyes open for your friends. So what happens when you see a familiar looking car with the driver hidden behind tinted glass? If there is any remote possibility that it might be somebody you know, you throw up your hand.

This sort of thing brings about new acquaintances. Suppose you speak to a stranger. Immediately, he says to himself, "Who in the world is that man? Am I supposed to know him? Have I met him and forgotten him? Evidently I have, for he spoke to me like he's been knowing me all of his life."

The next time this stranger sees you he speaks to you as if you're his long lost brother. Only this time he's not behind the tinted windshield in a familiar looking car and you are just as astounded as he was when you first spoke to him.

At this point of the game you make it your business to find out which one of you is nuts and in the process you become acquainted with him. If you want a few hundred new acquaintances, just speak to every car with a tinted windshield.

Have you ever stopped to consider how few of your friends you have actually been introduced to? In New York City I suppose you have to receive a formal introduction to ever become acquainted with anybody. But in a place like Greenville you learn people by their familiarity. Pretty soon, after you've seen each other 20 or 30 times you start speaking and before you know it, you have a new acquaintance.

If you really want to meet somebody and there's no one around to make an introduction you can pull that old, old trick. "Haven't I seen you somewhere before?" If any single man doesn't use that on girls it's because he has a better technique.

No matter what method you use, what sport could be more enjoyable than meeting new people?

And I thank you,
JACK EDWARDS

What Other Editors Are Thinking

THE POWER TO DESTROY

(Henderson Dispatch)

Having discovered the secret of nuclear explosion, finite man now has approached sufficiently near to the mind of the Infinite that he has within his grasp the means to exterminate the human race. That is the statement of Thomas E. Murray, member of the Atomic Energy Commission. The explosion last summer in Nevada, he added, was equivalent to 15,000 tons of TNT, if that means anything to the average individual, and it was described as a "small" blast.

Murray termed atomic energy as the "most ugly subject short of hell," and opined that the atomic future "is darker than mar has ever faced before," and that "only if our eyes are wide open to danger can right action be taken"

What happened in Nevada a short few months ago was "but a token of the destructive power this country can now loose in a single nuclear explosion."

Sir Winston Churchill, prime minister of Britain, has said repeatedly that United States possession of the atom bomb is the only thing that stands between the world and World War III. It is that device that strikes fear in the hearts of the plunderers of the Kremlin and deters them from extreme measures toward achieving their unobtainable ambitions to conquer and rule mankind.

It may be assumed that this country will employ nuclear power only in self-defense and only if compelled to do so. All nations - including Soviet Russia, only fly in the ointment - ought to reach solemn agreement to outlaw this power even in war. It was developed by the United States at great cost and in desperation. Its discovery shortened World War II, and although its use in only two instances took a toll of tens of thousands of lives, that very act saved scores of thousands of others, and on that basis was justified.

Unfortunately, few people have any reasonable conception of what is involved and what is at stake in nuclear power. Probably they never will have until it strikes close home - as God forbid - and until in this manner they are made conscious of the potentialities of this terrible weapon. It is all the greater and more urgent reason for continuing ever more intensively the search for some sort of formula that will prevent the human race from committing suicide.

Around Capitol Square

Senatorial Campaign Interest Lags... Two Still Active

By LYNN NISBET

SENATOR - Interest in next year's Senatorial election has Senator Alton Lennon is still moving around on his get-acquainted tour and reports indicate he is making headway. Ex-Governor Kerr Scott, unopposed but generally accepted candidate, continues his survey of sentiment before making positive announcement. Neither of these principal contenders has done anything within the past ten days to warrant headlines.

By way of the grapevine telegraph it is learned that both have tentatively reserved campaign headquarters space - Lennon at the Sir Walter, Scott at the Carolina Hotel. The same source has it that headquarters may open earlier than usual, probably before the middle of February.

INTEREST - Activity among the candidates and interest among the people are expected to be more evident after two important events scheduled for Thursday night. The North Carolina section of CIO-PAC called a statewide meeting to be held in Raleigh. State Republican leaders called a regional meeting, embracing 30-odd counties, for Durham.

Other matters were placed on the agenda, but primary purpose of the CIO session is understood to be decision on degree of direct participation in the forthcoming primary and extent of financial aid to the favored candidate. It has been understood, also, that a major objective of the Republican pow-wow would be agreement upon a senatorial candidate to challenge the Democratic nominee next November.

It usually takes several days for accurate news of such events to get out, because necessarily a lot of the discussions are not held in public, and current publicity releases seldom ever tell the full story. The Thursday night events may prove unimportant, but chances are they will get in motion factors that will have considerable influence upon the primary and general election next year.

CANDIDATES - There remains the possibility that several entries may file in the Democratic primary. Majority of informed politicians, however, now believe the race will be between Lennon and Scott.

Farrel Republicans have never adhered to the east-west rule which has prevailed in the Democratic party and the senatorial candidate may come from the mountains or the coast or a mid-state county. Names frequently heard as potentials are Clyde Greene of Boone, Idyl Ferree of Asheboro, Sam J. Morris of Raleigh and John A. Wilkinson of Washington.

Partisan factions disturb both parties, Republicans probably more than Democrats right now. In Lennon and Scott the Democrats have recognized adherents of the major factions, and there is reasonable certainty that a Democrat will be elected. The real contest will be in the primary.

The State Republican party is handicapped by several factors. J.M. Baley Jr., elected state chairman at the 1953 convention, resigned to take the post as district attorney. The executive committee named Edgar Story in his place. Story was seriously injured in an automobile accident some weeks ago and Clyde Green has been acting as official head of the party.

factious are based on national affairs, while Democratic factions revolve around State problems. Majority of the recognized Republican leadership backed Taft for President. Eisenhower won the nomination and election.

A year ago, after the national convention, Republican hopes ran high and the Taft Folks joined in support of Eisenhower. (So did a good many registered Democrats.) Before and immediately after the November election it appeared likely that the Republicans would gain and retain for some time control of the national administration. It would have been easy then to find State and local Republican candidates.

DIFFERENT - That is not the case now. Although President Eisenhower apparently is still very popular, there is growing dissatisfaction all over the country with the Republican regime. Obvious efforts of the administration to favor big business have failed to please business men and farmers in every section. In arms, Democrats have lively hope and Republicans genuine fear that control of the Congress will revert to the Democrats next time and the Presidency perhaps two years later.

IMPORTANT - The situation throughout the country lends significance to the North Carolina meetings this week. It increases the difficulty for Republicans to get a really strong candidate for the Senate, and enhances probability that CIO-PAC will practically ignore the State Republican ticket and throw its weight in the Democratic primary.

Whatever action may be (or have been) taken at either meeting, the result almost certainly will be perked-up interest in the senatorial campaign. The first headline item will probably be announce-

Business Today

Training Is Offset

By ELMER ROESSNER
Companies spend hundreds of thousands of dollars training salesmen and building their morale - then their wives often undo it all, Joseph D. Ardleigh, vice-president of the Research Institute of America, said in reporting on a two-year study of the attitude of wives to salesmen's jobs.

The Institute sent questionnaires to 100 of America's leading corporations. Three-quarters of them were concerned about wives' attitudes, but few had done anything about them. The Institute also questioned hundreds of wives directly.

Very often, Mr. Ardleigh said, the things management tries to "sell" to the salesman are the very things the wife, because she does not believe them, does a good job of "unselling" in the home. The study also disclosed that 88 per cent of the wives want more information about their husbands' business so they can more intelligently discuss his work, but only 2 per cent get any information at all.

Seven points of action were urged on companies hiring salesmen. Mr. Ardleigh recommended:

1. - Sell selling as a profession to the wife.
2. - Sell her the salesman's problems so she'll be more understanding about paper work, overtime, meetings and travel.
3. - Sell her the importance of her husband's work.
4. - Bring the wife into the preliminary hiring interviews.
5. - Supply the wife with an informative brochure.
6. - Invite the wife to occasional business meetings, "but don't dare patronize her."
7. - Maintain consistent communications with the wife - not just at contest times.

All this might eliminate the familiar question, "Why are you so late getting home?"

NEW CAR INSTALLMENT PAYMENTS AVERAGE $79.16
The typical person who buys a new car on time takes on a debt of $1,944, which he pays off in 24 monthly payments of $79.16, out of earnings of between $400 and $450 a month. That is the conclusion of the CIT Financial Corp., after studying its car-financing contracts.

The typical buyer of a used car, it found, signs a note for $935 and pays it off in less than 18 months with average monthly payments of $62.97, out of an income of between $300 and $350 a month.

The study showed that salaried employees and wage earners bought 82.9 per cent of the new cars and 88.5 per cent of the used cars financed by the corporation.

NEW HOLIDAY RECORD WILL TAKE HARD WORK

Retailers believe they can beat last year's figures and set new records during the coming Christmas season, the Bureau of Advertising of the American Newspaper Publishers Association says after talking with store presidents, association leaders, buying offices and chain groups. But it won't be easy, according to Edward H. Burgeson, who made the survey.

"Retailers indicated that increases over last year would depend squarely on the ability of merchants to woo more cautious and discriminating customers into their stores in the face of the sharpest competition in years," he said.

PERSONNEL ADMINISTRATION NOW COSTS $61 PER WORKER

Company personnel relations are becoming more expensive, Dr. Dale Yoder and Lenore P. Wilson, of the University of Minnesota's Industrial Relations Center, report in "Personnel," published by the American Management Association. The average cost per employee of industrial relations administration is $61.26 this year, compared with $48.59 last year, they report after analyzing information from 563 industrial relations directors and personnel managers.

So This Is 'National Hat Week'

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) - I was going to let National Hat Week pass by this year with no more than a tip of my beret.

Then I received the following letter from the Hat Research Foundation:

"All over the globe white men, brown men, yellow men, black men are... accumulating the hidden things that are processed into the hat.

"They are shoudering through sandstorms in Australia to trap rabbits; snow-shoeing under frozen birches in Siberia in search of white hare; herding sheep for wool and hat leathers in Argentina; raising mulberry leaves for silkworms in China; scraping twigs for shellac in India; and felling tall poplars for our hat blocks in the Tennessee hills."

Well, after reading that, a guy would have to be an ungrateful cad indeed if he didn't get out his battered old gray $3.95 fedora and shed a tear of admiration for the farming men who made it all possible.

So, gentlemen, a ringing toast to one of man's oldest allies against sun, wind and weather - the hat.

Some folks, including those who hate to fork out two bits to park their pork-pie every time they go to a night club, say the hat is going the way of the vest and high button shoes and even magicians will have to find something else to pull their rabbits from.

But a few figures tend to knock this theory into a cocked hat. Hat manufacturing in America alone is a 128 million dollar a year industry. More people in the world still wear hats than shoes.

The dog may be man's best friend, but the best friend of men's hats today is the American woman. A poll of 100 women, says the Hat Research Foundation, showed that 84 believed a man should "wear a hat at least some of the time." A majority thought he ought to wear one to work.

The foundation also found that only one out of seven women had influenced her boy friend to give up hats and bare his curls to the breeze.

Do hat salesmen like to have a husband bring his wife along when he buys a hat? They do indeed. In eight out of 10 such cases the hat stays sold. But if a husband buys one by himself more often than not he returns it sheepishly saying, "Wife didn't like it. Lemme try another one."

Famous people sometimes popularize hats, and hats sometimes popularize people, including presidents. His "Rough Rider hat" helped make Teddy Roosevelt famous. A brown derby did the same for Al Smith. President Eisenhower's homburg this year replaced in public favor the top silk hat, which had reigned for 150 years.

You may wonder what Eisenhower has under his hat next, but it's no secret the size is 7 1/4, the same as Woodrow Wilson's.

The Republican party holds the honors for both the smallest and largest presidential heads since the Civil War from Rutherford B. Hayes, 7 1/16, to James A. Garfield and William Howard Taft, tied at 7 3/4. Calvin Coolidge and William McKinley had the smallest heads in the White House since Hayes - matched at 7 1/4.

It would appear, from the statistics available, that any mother trying to rear her boy to be president ought to tell the lad to concentrate on growing a size 7 3/4 head. That'll put the odds in his favor.

We'll have to leave the question of how big he should let his feet grow until we get to National Shoe Week. We're doing nothing but honoring our hat this week except for a brief preliminary purring to tune us up for National Cat Week, starting Sunday.

Political Graft Is Accepted

By RAY TUCKER

HAVANA - Political grafting by high officials in almost every country below the Rio Grande is regarded no more seriously by the people and rival politicians than overparking a car on Pennsylvania or Fifth Avenues, in Washington and New York. Eisenhower can make sizable budget reductions by cutting off loans to Latin-American Republics.

A Latin-American President or political dictator, who does not loot the Treasury, enrich his family and friends and insure himself against prosecution by selecting his successor, is looked upon as unintelligent. And, no matter how untutored they may be in other respects, they appreciate the value of pesos when translated into American dollars.

On every street corner of Mexico City, Havana and Buenos Aires - but not in Government-controlled newspapers - it is spoken gossip that Miguel Aleman, former President, and his gang got away with at least $30,000,000. Washington's favorite Caribbean son - Dictator Fulgencio Batista of Cuba - is not far behind. The Peron fortune in Argentina dwarfs the Rockefeller and the Vanderbilts into the stature of poor American cousins. Harding's and Truman's cronies were pickers by comparison with this post-Cortez plundering.

ALEMAN DID NOT PROFIT - The Aleman gang's thievery, although it is not charged that the former Mexican President profited personally, provokes no indignation among the populace. Everybody I questioned knows about the recent regime's pilfering, but they show no resentment or indignation. Like the little people here in Cuba, they regard it as an expected and natural performance. In these lands, politicians are supposed to steal.

When it is asked why, in view of popular knowledge of the Aleman Administration grafting, the offending politicians are not prosecuted, the explanation is simple. The present President of Mexico, Adolfo Ruiz Cortines, is Aleman's protege. Although Cortines has promised an honest and efficient Administration, he will undertake no cleanup prosecution of his predecessor.

after Charles Evans Hughes exposed them in 1908: After they have emptied their Treasury, including the balances of American loans and grants, they take ship or plane to Europe, usually to Spain. Latin-Americans are awfully proud of their 10 per cent Castilian blood.

FORMER PRESIDENT RETURNS - After the departed exiles' hand-picked pals have promised honesty and economy, as President Cortines did in his September message on the state of the Republic, the erring politicians return. Aleman has just flown home from Spain, although many doubted that he would dare to show his face again in Mexico City or even in Cuba.

Even when the ruling regime is overthrown by a military uprising, the looting leaders of the deposed Government are not prosecuted for their financial speculations, although they may be imprisoned, exiled or executed to eliminate them as a domestic, political threat.

Stealing money is no crime to them. But high-jacking or stealing votes against the dictator in power is a capital offense. There is no prosecution against financial offenses because the ancient tradition and sanctity of political plundering must be preserved.

The Aleman gang's looting of $50,000,000 may seem like small change North of the Rio Grande. But it assumes the size of a Mayan Temple in Yucatan, a province in Southeastern Mexico, when it is realized that Mexico's annual national income is only about $250,000,000. Ours tops $300 billion.

PLUNDERING IN ARGENTINA - These politico-financial conditions are not peculiar to Mexico or Cuba. The Perons' plundering of Argentina's wealth is notorious. He and his late wife, Eva, were as poor as cathedral mice when they took office. Now, Peron's wealth is estimated at $25,000,000, which he is said to have invested in the securities of the nation he pretends to despise - the United States.

This area's most absolute dictator and Washington protege - Batista of Cuba - could buy and sell his American benefactors, public and private, and offer 18 months in office. For a former buck private in the Cuban Army, earning only $5 a month, he is doing pretty well. It pays to be a Latin-American dictator, with Uncle Sam's support and subsidies adding to the annual millions in political thievery.

Survey Results Of Leaf Varieties Used In Pitt

The Pitt County Farm Office is conducting a survey among County tobacco growers to determine how various tobacco varieties compared in yield and value during the 1953 season.

Cards are now being sent to a representative group of tobacco growers which are to be filled out by them and returned to the Farm Office.

Sam J. Weeks, assistant County Agent, urged each farmer who receives such a card to fill it out accurately and return it to the county agent's office.

Weeks said that as many farmers as possible are being contacted so that the information gathered will represent a sizeable portion of the tobacco grown in Pitt County.

Information for which growers are being asked includes: Varieties of tobacco grown in 1953, acres of each variety planted, total yield by variety, and total value received from each variety.

Weeks said that a similar survey was being conducted in other counties in the state and that County, Belt and State results of the survey would be available as soon as they can be compiled.

Weeks emphasized that everyone who receives a card should return it to the Farm Office regardless of whether his yield is low or high. This is essential if the summary of the variety data is to represent the actual performance of the various varieties grown in the county and state, he said.

Border Guards Are Friendly, At Distance

By CHARLES RIDLEY
United Press Staff Correspondent
TRIESTE (UP)—Allied sentries who guard the frontier of Trieste's dispute Zone A are friendly with goose-stepping Yugoslav soldiers—but at a distance.

A tour with a jeep patrol—the first permitted a reporter—revealed an informality in contrast to the tension which has developed over rival Italian and Yugoslav claims to Trieste.

Allied and Yugoslav soldiers wade merrily to each other across the frontier.

"They parade right in front of our eyes," said 20-year-old Lt. Christopher Allen of the British Lancashire Fusiliers.

"They show up about a platoon at a time on top of that flat topped hill."

I toured the frontier on Allen's day to command the main border observation post at Montedoro. His men stood in pouring rain in full view of the section of Yugoslav occupied Zone B of the free territory of Trieste which lies behind the port of Capodistria.

"The policy on both sides is... Allen explained, "is to make no attempt to hide. When Yugoslav tank patrols approach the frontier, just below us, they wave and we wave back."

The 40-mile tour along the rugged tracks, which skirt the border of the divided free territory was the first permitted the press by Allied commanders. U.S. troops who do a similar job further north refuse to receive reporters.

Living within elbow-rubbing distance of Marshal Tito's soldiers, the Slovene inhabitants of villages near the frontier make no attempt to conceal their sentiments. They fly Yugoslav flags and painted banners reading "Nocemy Italije" (We don't want Italy).

Itinerant tradesman Danilo Zahar of San Antonio in Bosco, where the 800 residents are entirely Slovene, said:

"What we really want is for all of zones A and B to remain free territory. But if the choice is between Marshal Tito and Italy, we take Yugoslavia. Under Italian rule, between wars, we Slovenes were not well treated.

About 30,000 Slovenes like Zahar live on the farms and in the cottages which Tito insists must be handed to Yugoslavia. The vast majority of the 270,000 residents of Trieste itself are Italian.

Disconcerted By Effects Of TV

NEWPORT, R. I. (UP)—The Rhode Island Library Assn. got a disconcerting report on how young people's reading habits are affected by television.

Miss M. Isabelle Hall, Providence high school teacher, surveyed sophomore reading habits and got these student comments:

"A masterpiece is something you don't understand."

"Book give you an idea of how to get into trouble but never tell you how to get out of it."

"I'm going to read a book some time. Last night I saw a quiz show and the contestant didn't get a jackpot because he hadn't read a book."

Ho-ever, Gen. Lemuel C. Shepherd, Marine commandant touring the front added:

Crime Authority Says Errant Kids Need Early Aid

By GAY PAULEY
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP)—Family pride often is to blame for a child growing up into a criminal, says one juvenile delinquency authority.

The beginnings of the criminal path often can be detected in a child before he even reaches high school, says Will T. Turnbladh, director of the privately supported National Probation and Parole Association, and former chief probation officer of Los Angeles County.

Parents Often At Fault

"Parents often have too much pride to admit their child is troubled, and in need of help from such professionals as psychologists and juvenile court judges," Turnbladh said.

"Yet, treating delinquency is like treating a disease," he added. "You have to get at it at the onset. Otherwise it spreads and often is fatal."

"To often a parent will kiss off a problem with the comment, 'oh, he'll outgrow it.' Unfortunately, he sometimes doesn't."

"John Dillinger didn't," the probation official continued. "A look at Dillinger's record shows his savagery against society stemmed from a minor run-in with authority in his teens."

Each Case Different

Turnbladh has no fast rules for spotting beginnings of delinquency. Each child he explains, is an individual case. His one warning to parents is:

"When a child is violently unhappy in what most of us would consider a normal home and community atmosphere, he may be headed for trouble. It is a danger sign when a child cannot adjust to authority, either at home or at school."

"I would consult professional help," he continued, "if my child—suddenly aggressive and extroverted—suddenly turned into a quiet and withdrawn youngster. Or, I would worry if a quiet child suddenly became a bully."

Turnbladh says there is no wide spread increase in juvenile delinquency, but there is a slight growth in cases involving older children.

He approves of the scheduled congressional investigation of juvenile crime and says it will have done a great service if it points up only one thing—the need for the community to develop facilities both for preventing and treating delinquents.

Dismisses Case Over Uniform

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (UP)—Federal Judge Carl Hatch has dismissed a charge of wearing an Army uniform illegally.

Charles Edward Collins, 18, told the judge he donned the clothes believing they would help him hitchhike from Battle Creek, Mich., to see a sick relative in California.

Hatch said he himself might be guilty. He said he gardens in an old khaki shirt his son, a former Air Force pilot, discarded.

Slick Trick For Theft Backfired

BUTTE, Mont. (UP)—Somebody called three hotels early yesterday and said smoke was streaming from top floor windows. While night clerks in two of the hotels investigated the report, thieves cleaned out the tills. They got about $229.

The scheme backfired at the third hotel, however. A porter remained at the desk to give the alarm in case of fire.

"But you know better than I that we can't trust the Communists. For that reason we must remain on the alert."

FLOODS WASH AWAY BRIDGE—A railway track sags after bridge on which it ran was swept away in severe floods in the Calabria region of southern Italy. The bridge stood at San Gregorio, a small town near Reggio. Heavy rains are falling throughout the province where floods in the past week caused 58 known deaths and wrought heavy damage. Volunteers attempt to clear away debris. (AP Wirephoto).

Moscow Now Insists On Fashionable Hats

MOSCOW (UP)—Hold your hats — Paris, New York and London.

Here comes Moscow, a new competitor in the ladies millinery field.

But boys you won't break your necks craning. For in Moscow no woman minds if she passes another on the street wearing the same hat — for styles are all pretty nearly the same. And these pancake or berets are not eyecatchers, even if an ordinary price is 100 rubles ($25 by the official rate).

But all this would change soon if G. Ulyanov of the newspaper Evening Moscow has his way.

Soviet Premier Georgi M. Malenkov himself in a recent speech said there was no reason why Soviet women should not be provided smart and elegant, as well as serviceable, shoes and hats by their own designers.

Now Ulyanov puts the blast on the local hat designers. He's no Lilly Dache or John Frederics but he knows there's something wrong with Moscow chapeaux, especially their "melancholy and boring monotony."

Says Ulyanov: "Autumn has arrived. And for a long time women shoppers have been going from store to store in a vain search for pretty, good quality hats. And finally the majority of them drop into milliners' establishments, where they can order hats and only to suit the season but also to suit their tastes."

"Are there really no hats in the shops?" Comrad Ivanov, director of the local industry department of the Moscow City Executive committee may ask.

"There are hats, Comrad Ivanov! And quite a lot of them. But to find a good style of hat is almost as difficult as finding a needle in a haystack."

"A huge quantity of spring and summer hats has already been sent back to the storehouses because they did not find customers."

"The directors of headgear factories completely ignore the tastes of their clients. Adopting the saying 'it is not the place that adorns a man, but a man who adorns the place,' they have evidently decided that it is not the hat which adorns the woman but the woman who should adorn the hat."

But, Critic Ulyanov, like many another male the world over, does not want styles to go too wacky.

"One marvels!" remarks Ulyanov. "How could anyone think

Claims Marilyn Standing Still Is More Suggestive

BALTIMORE (UP)—Judge Herman M. Moser told the chairman of the State Board of Motion Picture Censors yesterday that "Marilyn Monroe standing still is more suggestive than anything I saw in 'The Moon Is Blue.'"

The judge made his observation at a Circuit Court hearing of an appeal by United Artists Corp. from a statewide ban on the film, "The Moon Is Blue." The board called the movie "indecent" and "immoral."

Sydney R. Taub, board chairman, said at the hearing he considered it "suggestive—a little off color." That evoked Judge Moser's observation about Miss Monroe, who starred in "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," which passed the Maryland censors intact.

MOM GETS PLUMBER KIT
NEW YORK (UP)—A plumbing equipment manufacturer has concluded today's woman is capable of repairing leaky faucets and loose pipes. His company is out with a plumbing kit—with all the essential tools needed for most home repair jobs, and an illustrated booklet showing how to use the equipment.

And so, until Ulyanov or some body else stirs the directors of industry, Moscow women will continue to wear largely pancake hats or berets. And those who can't afford hats will continue to wrap their heads in shawls.

Declares Kinsey Upset Soldiers

LOS ANGELES (UP)—Dr. Kinsey's "Sexual Behavior in the Human Female" was more demoralizing to American troops in Korea than Red propaganda, says John Morley, a lecturer who recently returned from the Orient.

The Kinsey Report, Morley said at a civic meeting yesterday, told 200,000 Americans overseas that "one out of every four American wives has been unfaithful."

Helped Him, And Helped Herself

LOS ANGELES (UP)—A woman helped blind Carl Carstensen across the street last night and led him to the door of his home. Then, he told police, she took his billfold from his pocket, removed $53, put the wallet back in his pocket and drove away in an auto.

Robbers Caught In Traffic Case

OGDEN, Utah (UP)—Police officers Vern Lundgren and Don Mueller, returning from an investigation in to the theft of a power saw, stopped a car that ran a red light. The two men in the car had saw dust on their pants, the officers observed.

Under questioning, they admitted the theft.

Given Licking In Propaganda War

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (UP)—The Communists in Korea, looking worse every day by their own doing—but with some assistance from the United States—are taking a beating in the psychological war.

Humiliated by their own countrymen who refused to return home after being captured, the Communists by a nakedly cruel proposal gave a good insight into why so many Red prisoners rejected repatriation.

This was in their demand that the prisoners be forced — even though it might require shooting hundreds of them as a terror tactic—to listen to Communist explanations why they should return.

And this week the United States added to this picture of Communist savagery with two reports on the mental and physical torture and murder used by the Communists on the United Nations soldiers they captured.

Under the Korea armistice agreement covering prisoners who refused to go home, 5,000 Indian troops were brought into Korea to guard these prisoners on both sides. This was to be the program.

The Communists would be permitted to talk face-to-face with the 15,500 Chinese and 8,000 North Koreans who had been captured by the U.N. and refused repatriation. The U.N. would be allowed to do the same with the 335 South Koreans, 23 Americans and one Briton who had been captured by the Communists and chose to remain with them.

These repatriation talks were under the supervision of a special international group set up as the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission (NNRC), whose members are: Sweden and Switzerland, both truly neutral in the war; Poland and Czechoslovakia, only theoretically neutral since both are Communist; and India whose only contribution to the war was a medical unit.

The Communists talked to 921 Chinese and persuaded only 20 or 2 per cent to return. Many of the others roundly cursed the Red "explainers" and suggested they too get away from communism while the getting was good.

The North Koreans rioted when the Indian troops sought to bring them before the "explainers."

The Communists, professed lovers of mankind, demanded that the North Koreans be brought before them. The Indian guards, who might have had to kill hundreds before terrifying the survivors into submitting, refused. The Swiss and Swedish members of NNRC also opposed the use of force.

The U.N., in what seems now like a shrewd maneuver, hadn't tried to talk to a single U.N. prisoner captured by the Communists. The U.N. may have decided to hold back while the world concentrated its attention on the Communists' humiliation.

The delay served another purpose: It provided time for the relatives of these U.N. prisoners to write them, urging their repatriation of communism. Such letters might have more weight than any words from U.N. "explainers." One of the 23 Americans has changed his mind.

This week the world got a scientific explanation of Communist barbarism. Dr. Charles Mayo, famous surgeon and American delegate to the U.N. in New York, went before the U.N. with an analysis of Communist technique—mental torture, including threats of death—in making U.N. prisoners "confess" war crimes.

Bucs Meet Appalachian Tomorrow In Last Home Game

Manpower Shortages Give Deacs Trouble

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Deacons of Wake Forest figure there's one change the football rule-makers overlooked this year.

The Baptists think the limited-substitution system "dandy." But, they wish the regulation game had been shortened to three quarters.

Bobtailing the conventional four periods to three would have left Wake with a sporty 4-1 record going into tomorrow's Atlantic Coast Conference tussle with Clemson. Instead, the Deacons own a 2-3-1 mark.

A manpower shortage has given the Deacons the second-half willies. They survived late-game stagers to beat Villanova 18-12 and North Carolina State 20-7. Had they knocked off work at the end of three periods, they would have added wins over North Carolina and Richmond, lost to Duke, and held William and Mary to a tie.

Instead, tag-end rallies produced victories for William and Mary 16-14 and North Carolina 18-13 plus a 13-13 tie for Richmond. As a result, Coach Tom Rogers hates to see the clock go "round."

The clock won't be the only item bothering Wake Forest in its invasion of Clemson. The Deacons learned yesterday that their leading scorer probably won't see action against the Tigers. Halfback John Parham was out with an injured side. He also is the team's second leading rusher behind Bruce Hillenbrand who will be another injured sideline tomorrow.

North Carolina State buffed its defensive strategy against tomorrow's visit by William and Mary. The Wolfpack regulars were tested on pass defense by the scrubs while State's freshmen ran Indian split-T ground plays against first-string defenders.

North Carolina eased off in preparation for playing host to Tennessee. Marshall Newman returned from halfback to his old quarterback post and was listed as second behind Len Bullock, tomorrow's starter.

Pass offense and defense occupied Clemson. Quarterbacks Don King, Tommy Williams and Forrest Calvert did most of the aerial work. Fourth and fifth-stringers ran Deacon pass patterns against Tiger regulars.

The Gamecocks of South Carolina tapered off in a light workout, then boarded a train for College Park, Md., and Saturday's game with the mighty Terps. The South Carolinians are almost injury-free. Only left end Warren Clarke will miss the Maryland battle because of injuries. Spec Granger will take Clarke's place.

Duke worked in cold and rain to perfect offensive timing for Virginia. Trainer Bob Chambers said quarterback Jerry Barger and fullback Jack Kistler will probably see some action against the Cavaliers despite injuries.

Maryland retreated before a heavy rain. During an indoor session, the Terps took calisthenics, then reviewed game movies.

North State Game May Decide Lead In Scoring Race

By JIMMY ELLIS

Bobby Hodges and Shirley Gabriel.

Those two are the ones to watch tomorrow night when East Carolina College's undefeated Pirates meet Appalachian's Mountaineers in College Stadium to ring the curtain down on the Bucs' home schedule for the year.

Hodges and Gabriel have been waging a personal duel this year for North State Conference scoring honors and the race could be decided tomorrow night. Gabriel is currently on top of the heap with 62 points, eight more than Hodges. The Appalachian halfback-quarterback has tallied 10 touchdowns and two extra points while Hodges has nine touchdowns.

The race is the first in many a moon to involve an East Carolina player. Lenoir-Rhyne's Bears have furnished the scoring champion for the last few years but they have hit some lean days this year and left the race wide open for Gabriel and Hodges.

Gabriel may possess some advantage in the race. He is the number one man in the Appalachian backfield and handles the ball on well over half of their plays. Hodges, on the other hand, is an end and almost solely dependent upon East Carolina's potent passing for his touchdowns.

Dummy Scrimmage

Both teams practically neglected the scoring angle yesterday as they worked on methods to stop each other. The Pirates went through an intense session of dummy scrimmaging to check their offense and defense while the Bears worked in light equipment on defensive formations.

In yesterday's workout in College Stadium, Head Coach Jack Boone of the Pirates had the first team running its basic offensive formations against Appalachian defenses as set up by reserves. The drill included running and passing with Dick Cherry directing the first eleven.

Cherry will start at quarterback tomorrow night with hopes of repeating his 1952 performance when he knocked the Apps dead with a red-hot passing game. He will have Paul Gay and Topsy Hayes at the halfbacks and Claude King at fullback to help him in the starting chores.

Four Seniors

No line-up changes are planned for the Pirates in the last home game. Four seniors are expected to see considerable action, however, in their own last appearance. Two, tackle Johnny Brown and Hodges, will start. The other two, halfback and co-captain Jack Britt and fullback Johnny Daughtry, will be at second-team positions.

The game will be the tenth meeting of the clubs. Appalachian holds a very distinct advantage in the number of victories with nine since the series started in 1933 but Pirate fortunes have been tending toward equalizing at least the scores in recent years. Last year's East Carolina victory was the first for the Pirates.

In six previous showings this year the Pirates have shown tremendous offensive power along with a strong defense. They have scored 199 points while holding opposition to a meager 39. The Bucs have shut out three of their six opponents and only Elon has been able to get more than one touchdown in a single

Fordham Football Captain Plays Despite Polio Attack

By WILL GRIMSLEY
NEW YORK (U-P) - Fourteen months ago he was a few short gasps from death—paralyzed, help less, aflame with fever and already given the last rites of the church.

Tomorrow afternoon at the Polo Grounds he'll snatch up a helmet from the field and take his place in the Fordham backfield against the University of Miami (Fla.) football team.

This is the almost unbelievable story of Jack Hyatt, 22, left halfback and captain of the Fordham Rams.

On Aug. 24, 1952, the blond Jersey City, N. J. Athlete was stricken with an attack of bulbar polio. It was the kind of blow which would fell an ordinary man.

While lying in bed, choked with mucus and burning with a 107-degree temperature, he heard an attendant tell another not to change the bed clothes—"he won't live long anyway." He was conscious when a priest administered the last rites.

"It got me," he said later. "I was determined to pull through." Hyatt's recovery was miraculous. Still, it seemed impossible that he could ever play another game of football.

Yet okayed by doctors, he reported for spring practice. Fifteen pounds below his normal 175 pounds, he fought for and won his regular place in the backfield.

"We tried to nurse him along but he wouldn't stand for it," said Coach Ed Danowski. "He insisted on staying out on the field doing sprints when all the others were through. We couldn't stop him."

"Jack has started a couple of games for us and he sees plenty of action, but he is still some eight pounds short of his playing weight and not as strong as in 1951 when he led our team in scoring."

Most of the East Carolina scoring has been as a direct result of the passing of Cherry. The ground game, with eight capable halfbacks and three fullbacks to carry the mail, has been nearly as effective however and has been the lifesaver for the Pirates in a couple of instances this year.

Phants Underdogs Tonight In Non-Conference Battle

Gold Beats Blue In Midget Loop

The Gold defeated the Blue 3-0 yesterday in a Midget Football League game played at Elm Street Park. The victory was the third of the year for the Gold team which has dropped two games.

The first touchdown of the game came after Sammy Pollard bulled across from the five. The scoring play had been set up by a 40-yard punt return by Billy Cox. The extra point attempt was no good.

In the second period, Stanley Hathaway banged across from the five with Pollard adding the extra point on a pass play. The TD had been set up by the running of Pollard, Hathaway, and Cox in a drive covering 40 yards.

Offensive leaders for the Gold included Hathaway, Pollard, Cox, and Bob Bilbro. Defensive standouts were George Saeed, Arthur Andrews, Jimmy Jenkins, and Billy Neal James.

For the Blue, the offensive leaders were Richard Nobles, Dick Heller, and Albert Crawford. Defensive leaders were Crawford, John Boyd, Charlie Ross, Erskine Duff, and Richard Nobles.

The schedule next week includes a postponed contest from the early part of the season. The game will send the Gold against the White in a battle to determine leadership in the League.

The league standings:

Team	W	L	T
White	2	0	3
Gold	3	2	0
Red	1	4	1

Gold Beats Blue In Midget Loop

Nursing a patched-up line-up, the luckless Greenville Phantoms invade the AAA territory of Rocky Mount tonight.

The Phantoms, burdened by a five-game losing streak, are at least two touchdowns underdogs to the Eastern AAA Conference Blackbirds. The AAA Conference situation is made worse by the news that no less than four members of the first team will be either out of action completely or slowed to a walk by injuries.

Both starting ends, Bobby Conway and Harold Edwards, are on the injured list. Conway is definitely out because of a shoulder injury sustained more than a week ago in practice. Edwards may see limited duty but he has been hampered by illness this week and will not be at top strength.

The team's leading ground-gainers, James Speight and Bobby Langston, are not counted on heavily by Coach Bill Kittrell. Speight, still troubled with an old muscle injury in his back, may see some action but Langston's case is a doubtful one. The big fullback has been suffering from an ankle injury for three weeks and is definitely not in top running shape.

Senior Bill Taft and junior Harris Northrop are slated to substitute at the ends for Conway and Edwards. Joe Taft will move into Speight's position with Bob Howell moving to fullback and Mitchell Johnson taking over Howell's left halfback. The switch involving Howell and Johnson was made because Howell is the better power runner of the two and needed more at fullback than Johnson.

Another change in the Phantom line-up has George Sideris starting at quarterback. He will replace Pat Sawyer who is having shoulder troubles. This will be Sideris' first starting assignment.

Looking ahead to the game, Coach Kittrell started yesterday. "I plan to use several reserves to give them some experience for next year. Anyway, our seniors haven't performed as well as we had expected."

"Injuries will hurt but I think we will be ready for our stretch drive to maybe third place in the conference."

The probable starting team for Greenville has Bill Taft and Harris Northrop at the ends, Dixie Hogood and Tommy Smith at the tackles, Jerry Phillips and Bobby Nunn at the guards, Doug Morgan at center, George Sideris at quarterback, Mitchell Johnson and either Joe Taft or James Speight at the halfbacks, and Bob Howell at fullback.

The game will be played in Rocky Mount's Municipal Stadium with kickoff time at 8 o'clock.

Irish To Tackle Middies Without Coach Leahy

NEW YORK (U-P)—The crazy, quiet college football season swings into the second half tomorrow with Notre Dame, Maryland, Baylor and West Virginia the only undefeated survivors among the big boys.

The Irish, the No. 1 team in the country, tackle Navy at South Bend minus their coach, Frank Leahy, who collapsed during the halftime intermission of the game with Georgia Tech last week. Leahy will watch the proceedings from his home on a local telecast while the team is directed by a platoon of his assistants headed by Joe McArde.

Notre Dame rates a better-than-three-touchdown favorite over the Middies, who until they were upset by Penn last week were regarded as about the strongest team in the East.

Maryland, the class of the South and No. 2 in the weekly Associated Press poll, has a breeze in South Carolina as it races toward the championship of the new Atlantic Coast Conference and a bid to the Orange Bowl.

Baylor, which is stepping cautiously in its quest for the South west Conference title, plays Texas Christian in a loop game.

West Virginia, ranked fifth behind Illinois holds the longest current winning streak of major teams—11—but its opposition has been on the weak side. The Mountaineers play Penn State tomorrow and if they win, their place in the top 10 will be solidified.

Penn, the Ivy League club with the suicidal schedule, tackles Michigan at Ann Arbor, and it would be too much to ask George Munger's lads to spring two up sets in a row. Their 96 triumph over Navy must have taken plenty out of them.

The new favorite for the Big Ten title, Illinois, also gets a stiff test in Purdue, the outfit that pulled the shocker of the season by handing Michigan State its first defeat in 29 games last Saturday. On paper, the Illini should win it but Purdue, loser of its first four games before whipping State, is "up."

For its part, Michigan State will be in no mood to trifle with Oregon State and the Spartans could run up a big score. Georgia Tech, State's brother under the skin—it had a 31game undefeated string snapped by Notre Dame last week—also has a relatively easy assignment in Vanderbilt.

The NCAA's coast-to-coast television game of the day will send Pitt against Minnesota at Minneapolis.

In the Far West, South California, which has looked better with each passing week is the choice over Oregon, while UCLA, which would like nothing better than to make the Rose Bowl, has no softie in California.

Hallowe'en Event

A bike carnival will be the highlight of a Hallowe'en program tomorrow afternoon at Elm Street Park. The carnival will start at 2 p.m.

Included in the carnival, according to Recreation Department officials, will be a game of musical chairs, a slow race, obstacle race, and other events.

Added attractions for the afternoon program include a pet show and free lemonade and cookies. The refreshments will be served at 6 p.m. Costume judging will be done as soon as other events are completed.

Recreation officials said that all children should remember that registration is necessary before they will be allowed to participate in the program.

A similar program will be held for Negro children at Eppes Playground.

NASCAR Race

ROCKY MOUNT—There will be a NASCAR sanctioned race Sunday at the Rocky Mount Speedway. Time trials will start at 1:30 and heat races will start at 2:45.

Among the nationally-known drivers who have signed for the race are Joe Weatherly, Bill Champion, Doug Yates, Rudy Hires, Mel Oldham, Smokey Smith, and Candy Rackley.

There will be no infield parking but patrons will be able to see the entire track from the grandstand. Recent improvements have made the speedway, located at the end of Tarboro Street, one of the top tracks in Eastern North Carolina.

Recently discovered ruins indicate that the Negev, dry southern part of Israel, was heavily populated in Roman times.

God's Plan for the Home

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Genesis 1:27-28; Deuteronomy 6:4-9; Proverbs 22:6; Matthew 19:3-9; Luke 10:38-42; Ephesians 5:21-6:4; II Timothy 1:5-7; 3:14-17.

"Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thine heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy might." These words thou shalt teach unto thy children, and thou shalt talk of them in your home always.—Deut. 6:5-7.

To the Pharisees who questioned Jesus about divorce, Christ reminded them of the scriptures that say that God created male and female—husband and wife—and that they were one flesh and no man should separate them.—Matt. 19:4-6.

In Bethany, in the home of Martha, Mary and Lazarus, Jesus taught the older sister, Martha, that things of the spirit were of more importance than being troubled about too many household matters.—Luke 11:39-42.

Paul writes to Timothy, reminding him that in his home he had learned the scriptures and they should make him wise and give him "instruction in righteousness."—II Tim. 3:15-16. MEMORY VERSE—Psalms 68:6.

God's Plan for the Home

THE SCRIPTURES TEACH LOVE OF GOD AND OBEDIENCE TO HIS LAWS

Scripture—Genesis 1:27-28; Deuteronomy 6:4-9; Proverbs 22:6; Matthew 19:3-9; Luke 10:38-42; Ephesians 5:21-6:4; II Timothy 1:5-7; 3:14-17.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

THE SUBJECT of founding and maintaining a happy Christian home is even more important than was the war against alcohol, which we studied last week. It, too, is a problem as old as mankind. When we read of the ancient Israelites, we find that they, too, were confronted by domestic difficulties. Husbands and wives did not always agree; children did not always grow up to become fine, moral men and women, of whom their parents could be proud.

What do the Scriptures say regarding these things? Read Deuteronomy 6:4-9:

"Hear, O Israel: The Lord our God is one Lord:

"And these words, which I command thee this day, shall be in thine heart:

"And thou shalt teach them diligently unto thy children, and shalt talk of them when thou sittest in thine house, and when thou walkest by the way, and when thou liest down, and when thou risest up."

we surmise, because the Lord was a frequent visitor there. Martha, the older sister, was an example of true eastern hospitality.

She it was who invited Him into their home, and busied herself in preparing a meal for the guest. I think most women sympathize with Martha who felt she was "cumbered about much serving," and think her reproof of Mary, who sat at the Lord's feet listening to Him, was justified.

However, there is Mary's side too. Possibly Martha was planning a too-sumptuous meal involving much labor, and Mary may have thought the precious Words she was hearing were more important than preparing an elaborate meal. And, too, she may have been planning to aid her sister when Jesus had finished what He was saying. At any rate, Jesus pointed out to Martha that such labor was not necessary to a happy home atmosphere, and Mary had chosen the better part.

We may know wives and mothers who work so hard to keep their homes spotless, that to their husbands and children it ceases to be a home where they can be at ease.

In writing to the Ephesians, Paul set forth his ideas for a happy home. He says, "Wives submit yourselves unto your own husbands." This does not mean that a wife should give up her own personality, we may assume. Where husband and wife love each other and have mutual respect, there is no discrepancy.

Children should obey their parents, and honor them, and fathers are told not to provoke their children. Deep mutual love and understanding in a happy Christian home would naturally lead to these conditions. God is love, and love of Him and each other must necessarily make homes happy.

Timothy, that young man on whom Paul looked as on a son, was brought up in such a home. Paul writes him that "from a child thou hast known the holy scriptures, which are able to make thee wise unto salvation through faith which is in Christ Jesus."

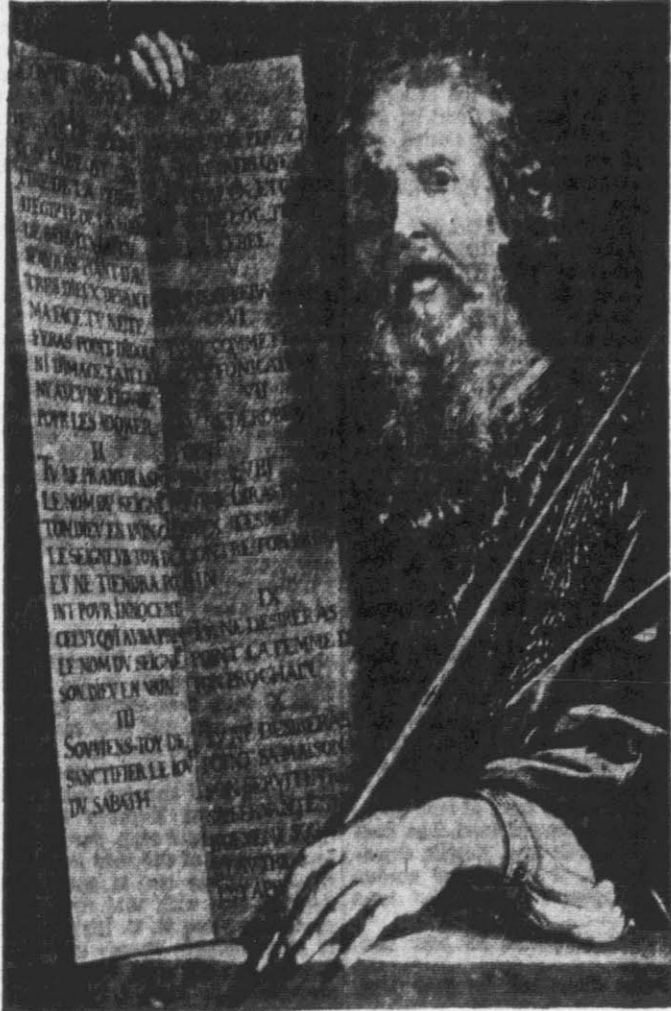

"All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness."

"That the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works."

Our Scripture readings in this lesson give us glimpses of happy homes. The one in which Jesus was a guest in Bethany was one.

Astronomical Rarity Is Scheduled November 14

By DELOS SMITH
United Press Service Editor
NEW YORK (UP)—Astronomers called attention today to an impending event in the heavens some 57-million miles from here.

For the first time in 59 years, so you and other Americans could see it, the planet Mercury is going to pass between the sun and the earth.

The date for this lining-up of celestial marbles—Earth-Mercury-Sun—is Nov. 14. The witching hour is 10:36 a. m. EST.

But if you're not looking through a telescope you'll never know anything happened. It will work like an eclipse, except that Mercury is much too small to eclipse a mammoth star like the sun.

Joseph M. Chamberlain, chief astronomer of the Hayden Planetarium, said if the sun were the size of a basketball, then Mercury would be the size of a poppy seed.

So if you're looking through a telescope, with a dark filter to protect your eyes, at 10:36 a. m. you'll see a tiny dot appear at the edge of the fiery disc which is the sun. Slowly the dot will move across it. The "transit" will be completed at 1:12 p. m.

That is what astronomers call it a "transit," since, from our distance Mercury seems to be going places when the blazing sun is behind it.

Mercury's transits take place on the average of about 13 times a century. They're visible only here and there on earth. The last one visible everywhere in the United States was Nov. 11, 1940. The next one visible to all Americans will be on Nov. 6, 1960 but there will be another visible elsewhere on earth in 1957.

To the earth dweller, Mercury's chief distinction is in being the planet which is closest to the sun. Because of its tilt in relation to the sun, one half of it always faces the sun.

That half always is hotter than blazes—hot enough to melt lead. The other half is colder than the inside of your refrigerator. Just about absolute zero in fact. There is no day on one half of Mercury and no night on the other half. Making Mercury even more unattractive, it has no atmosphere.

Furthermore, it is a pipsqueak planet, being the smallest, less than half the size of the earth. Its diameter is only 3,010 miles; the earth's is 7,918 miles. But all planets are pipsqueaks compared with the sun, whose diameter is 864,000 miles.

Red Heads Don't Cry

By ROY L. FOLEY

CHAPTER TWENTY-NINE

SPIKE ADAMS sat in his obscure hotel hideout eighty-five miles away from Milwaukee, Linda Van Vliet, Sam Sykes and the man from whom he had extorted $10,000 in what Spike smirkingly regarded as the easiest little shakedown he had ever accomplished.

He contemplated his loot spread out on the bed. There were three bundles of tens. That was $3,000. Five hundred of the fives. That was $2,500. One hundred and seventy-five of the twenties. That was $2,500 more.

The money was placed in neat piles. Spike had been sitting, his chair tilted against the wall contemplating the three piles of money for a long time now. So long that the ash tray on the dresser beside him was a small mountain of cigarette stubs.

Spike had been having a terrific battle with himself. In his way, and in his day, Spike had had a shred of conscience toward his own kind. He had killed it now. Killed it without doing a thing but sitting there alone in the disorderly room, chair tilted, and doing nothing but lighting, puffing and crushing innumerable cigarettes.

Hours ago he had placed the three packs of greenbacks on the bed with the idea that one pack was for himself, one for Linda, one for Sam. The big pack of tens was for him. Didn't he do all the work? Take all the risks?

Now he had decided that all the packs were for him.

Now he had decided that he was through with Sam Sykes, the coward, for good.

Now he had decided that his girl friend, Cassie, who had gone ultra and at the moment was known as Linda Van Vliet, was doing pretty well for herself without any help from him.

What could either of them do if he just walked out on them?

Sam wasn't in the habit of talking to himself. It wasn't safe even to talk to oneself sometimes, but he had worked himself into a fury of incantatory determination now. "Not a damn thing."

Why not pack up the three packs of greenbacks and get going? A guy had to watch out for himself, didn't he? That meeting in Milwaukee had been an accident, hadn't it? The whole little incident had been a walkaway, hadn't it? In all his life he had never run up against an old duck that was such a pushover as J.G. Stanley. And yet? The cops in Milwaukee had a reputation of being tough. He never wanted to work in that town anyway. Funny how things just happened the way they had.

He guessed he'd blow. Probably California this time. The races at Santa Anita. Maybe back to Florida. Maybe Mexico City. A guy had to have a lot of money these days. What was $10,000?

Well, maybe if he was lucky, he could raise it to $50,000. Maybe if he wasn't so lucky he'd be bumming a cigarette in a month.

Spike Adams reached for a time table. A half hour later $10,000 in fives, tens and twenties was neatly packed between layers of shirts in his suitcase.

It might as well be Santa Anita first. And may his old pal, Linda Van Vliet, have all the luck in the world, now that she was in society. As for Sam Sykes—well, good luck to Sam too, and may Sam keep his two wives out of each other's paths.

Spike Adams was feeling very pleased with himself.

Spike Adams blew.

Several days passed and Linda gotten himself into.

She unwound the two fingers and wound up three.

Belle Sykes, Sam Sykes, Moira Adams.

Linda contemplated that she hadn't thought about Belle Lowder Sykes since she had met Belle in a Chicago depot over a year ago. Belle had said she was on her way west. L. it she was going to stop off at Reno. In their hurried meeting Linda had supposed that Belle meant she was going to get a divorce from Sam Sykes. Linda had assumed that they had been divorced until Spike Adams had brought the news that they were not. Sam must have walked out on Belle.

Well, no wonder. Belle was a hard egg and she didn't care who knew it. Linda considered what might happen if Belle should arrive in town and find that Sam was married without the formality of a divorce.

It was an unpleasant picture. Linda told herself that she didn't want to be around when that happened.

The next afternoon Linda sat idly watching the hands of the clock on her Chippendale desk work their way around to five o'clock. It was five minutes to five now. She ought to hear two short rings, a long and a short and a minute now. She had gotten word to Sam that she wanted to see him at five.

Sam was prompt. Almost on the minute he rang the bell. It was Sam all right. Linda could tell by the very way Sam rang a bell expressed something about him.

As Linda pressed a button to open the lower door of the apartment she thought how differently different people could make a bell sound even though they gave the same signal on it.

Sam's ring was a hesitant ring. It had a faltering sound. There was no drive, no pressure behind it. When Spike Adams had pressed the bell the same number of times, using the same signal, the rings had been sharp, hard, decisive.

Phil Stanley's ring had a personality about it too. Of course Phil didn't give two short rings, a long and a short. He always gave five short rings. There was something in the way Phil rang the bell that expressed gaiety, extravagance. Zing. Zing. Zing. Zing.

As though the bell were singing out that life was made for living, let's get going. Linda, in her calculating way, hadn't studied such revealing little things as the way a person rang a bell for nothing.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK—A higher trend in the stock market persisted today despite some mild profit-taking in scattered sections of the list. Gains ran to around a point at the outside. Losses were small, but most stocks with minus signs were relatively inactive.

A rush of trading at the opening soon died down, and thereafter the tape chattered along at a moderate speed. The pace of business was somewhat less than yesterday's above average 1,610,000 shares.

Railroads were higher along with most steels, utilities, oils, rubbers, and distillers. Quite a few minus signs appeared in chemicals, motors, and coppers.

Bethlehem Steel, which just before the close yesterday reported the highest nine months earnings in its history, opened today on a block of 2,000 shares up 1-4 at 61 3/8, and it continued at that price in moderate trading. It was up 1-4 yesterday.

N.Y. Central, Illinois Central, Sinclair Oil, American Telephone, Republic Steel, American Smelting, and General Motors. Lower were Studebaker, U. S. Steel, Anaconda Copper, and Du Pont.

Special assemblies were held for freshmen and for upperclassmen, and large audiences of students, faculty members, and visitors gathered in the Austin auditorium to hear the speaker. Dr. Sorensen spoke to freshmen on "Observations of America, Made by a Dane" and to upperclassmen on "From Resistance to NATO."

He described attitudes and conditions in Denmark just before the Nazi occupation as similar to those now existing in this country. An "It Can't Happen Here" idea was prevalent, he said, and grew in part out of the middle-class aversion to war.

Looking backward into history, he said that when nobles dominated European governments, a romantic idea of war existed, and the nobleman was a warrior. During the 18th and the 19th centuries, he continued, the middle classes gained power and the attitude of this civilian class of people was against war and remains so today.

Dr. Sorensen described the growth and operation of the Underground Movement in Denmark during the Nazi occupation and pointed out that movements in other European countries developed independently but along similar lines.

"Some of the responsibility developed among those who took part forms the basis of NATO," he stated.

In the democratic countries of western civilization, he said, "On the one hand we have developed great values, all connected with peace . . . On the other hand we have to defend these values against people who have different ideologies."

Dr. Sorensen gave the first program in a series on current affairs and the arts to be presented during 1953-1954 by East Carolina College for students and the public.

Conference Scouts Huddle In Tent

Safe-Cracking Is Dismal Failure

Thieves visited Greenville again last night and attempted to break into the safe of the Medical Arts Clinic.

However the robber, or robbers, met with little success after first jimmyming open the front door of the office building.

Once on the inside, the would-be safe crackers attempted to cut a hole into the side of the safe, by tearing out the plaster from within a bath located next to the safe.

A hole less than two feet in diameter was cut, exposing the side of the safe.

The safe is built into the building with only the front exposed.

Nothing else in the office was reported missing.

Chief of Police S. G. Gibbs, Detective R. T. Rogerson and Paul Jewett investigated.

Two Omitted From Honor Roll

In yesterday's Reflector two eleventh grade students who made all one's during the last marking period at Greenville High School were erroneously omitted. The names of the two Honor Roll students are: Mary Will Long and Artemis Kares.

Billy Bost, Frances Cahoon, Dinah Porter, Carole Robbins, Ann Ruffin, Bruce Tyson and Ann Wilkerson, who also made all one's for the last marking period, were incorrectly listed as eleventh grade students. They should have been listed as twelfth grade students.

Mrs. Ines Chandler and daughter Linda were very disappointed after waiting over a year to join Lt. Eugene C. Chandler in Japan. The authorization papers were received after they heard that he would be eligible to rotate to the States sometime in May.

November 6 Will Be Closing Date For Applications

Closing date for making application for Federal assistance under the Agricultural Conservation Practice program for 1954 is November 6, James Meredith, Production Marketing Administration secretary for Pitt County, said today.

Meredith urged farmers who have drainage projects on their farms under consideration to make application before the deadline to assure government assistance on the project.

Pitt County will have about $60,000 available for the ACP program next year and the Federal government will pay up to approximately one half of farm drainage projects if they are approved.

Applications for assistance under the 1954 program will all probably be approved or disapproved before the first of the year, Meredith said.

"We hope to have all notices out by the first of the year, or before," Meredith said. "But land owners whose projects are approved, will still have to wait until the first to begin."

The PMA secretary emphasized that the amount of assistance that each farmer will receive under the 1954 program will not depend on the amount of crop land involved in the project, as has been true in some years past. The amount of assistance will depend on the actual cost of the project.

Funeral Saturday For Cornelius Whitehurst

BETHEL—Cornelius Jefferson Whitehurst Sr., 76, retired farmer, died at Park View Hospital in Rocky Mount at 3:30 a.m. Friday.

Funeral services will be held at Bethel Methodist Church Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Rev. N. W. Grant, pastor, will officiate. Burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery in Tarboro.

The body will be taken to the church one hour prior to the service.

Mr. Whitehurst was a son of the late Marshall Dickson and Mary Tyler Whitehurst. He was a member of Bethel Methodist Church and served on the Board of Stewards several years. He married Miss Lajoye Whichard in 1904. She died in 1919. In 1921 he married Miss Myra B. Cobb, who survives.

Other survivors are four daughters, Mrs. A. R. Johnson of Fayetteville, Mrs. G. A. Newton of Farmville, Mrs. F. B. James of Charleston, S.C., and Mrs. D. I. Harris of Greenville; three sons, R. S. Whitehurst and G. F. Whitehurst of Bethel and C. J. Whitehurst of Sharpsburg and several grandchildren.

Heavy Sales Of Sweet Potatoes

BETHEL—At closing time Thursday, over 7,000 bushels of sweet potatoes had been sold on the Bethel auction market, and a lot of trucks were still in line.

A market official said prices remained steady and the price ranged from $1.50 to $2.35 a bushel. The day's offerings were expected to be about 8,000 bushels.

At the close of sales here Wednesday night, sales for the season totaled 169,985 bushels since the opening of the auction market September 24.

Farmers from more than a dozen Eastern Carolina counties sell their sweet potatoes on the Bethel market. Johnny Brown is auctioneer.

A market observer predicted today that the Bethel market's sales of sweet potatoes this season will total at least 200,000 bushels.

Two Local Students In Academy Advance

OAK RIDGE, N.C.—The military department of Oak Ridge Military Institute today announced promotion of two Pitt county students from recruit to private.

They are Jack C. Edwards, son of Mrs. Paul Edwards of Pactolus, and N. C. Hardee, son of Hugh T. Hardee, Route 2, Greenville. This is the students' first year at Oak Ridge.

It is estimated that Americans get about 12 1/2 billion matchbooks a year that are distributed free.

Bootleg Still Is Destroyed; No Operators Taken

A 100-gallon submarine type distillery was destroyed by Pitt ABC enforcers yesterday, but no operators were taken.

The still, located on the Old Creek Road in the Perkins Cross Roads section of the county, had been in operation about two times, the officers stated.

Regular stove burners from an old unit were being used to fire the still. A new box fermenter, with no mash, was included in the capture.

Jim Ward said that the still was being prepared for movement to another site.

Officers Jim Ward, H. B. Lilley and R. W. King made the raid.
