TRUMAN TURNS DOWN SUBPOENA

Europe's Press Headlines U.S. Developments In H.D. White Case

British Papers Join In Condemning Issuance Of Subpoena For Truman

LONDON (AP)—West Europe's editors trotted out their big black headlines today to tell readers the latest developments on the subpoena of ex-President Truman in the Harry Dexter White case.

But the only extensive editorial comment was in Britain, where papers of all political shades declared that the summons for Truman to appear before the House Committee on Un-American Activities will blacken the name of America in the court of world opinion.

One or two continental papers blamed President Eisenhower for what they called a new Republican attack on the former President.

Communist papers cited the subpoena to show the "hysteria" in the United States.

In Paris, the Leftist but non-Communist paper Combat attacked President Eisenhower for "lifting the brake on extreme right wing Republicanism."

"Where," it asked, "is the man who knew so well how to solve high command conflicts when he headed the campaign in Europe?"

Said Franco-Tirer, another Parisian Leftist paper: "The men of the Kremlin must be laughing hard."

"What authority can the U.S. President have in the world, at Bermuda or elsewhere, if he shows such weakness before the most delicious demonstrations of intolerance and hysteria?"

The Laborite Daily Herald in London described the incident as the "crowning folly of the witch hunters," and the Liberal News Chronicle said it was "an exhibition of political rowdiness."

The conservative Financial Times termed the call for Truman to testify in the Harry Dexter White case "plainly a political move, the direct consequence of election losses."

In Rome, the Independent II Tempo suggested the Republicans might be worried by recent Democratic election successes.

Big front-page headlines brought the story to Swedish and Danish readers. Belgium's independent papers played up the story as an "unprecedented political sensation." The Communist De Rode Van headlined:

"Wave of hysteria sweeps the United States."

President Leaving Late Today For Canadian Meeting

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower leaves late today on a good neighbor trip to Ottawa for discussion of mutual problems—such as continental defense against any enemy attack—with top Canadian officials.

The President will be accompanied on a special train by Mrs. Eisenhower, Ambassador and Mrs. Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. and a small staff of White House aides. Lodge is chief of the U. S. mission to the United Nations.

The two-day state visit to Ottawa will be Eisenhower's second trip outside the country since he took office last January. He crossed from Texas into Mexico last month.

The President told his news conference yesterday he is going to Canada to pay his respects to the people of the dominion. His address to Parliament Saturday, he added, will deal with matters of common interest to the United States and Canada.

In Ottawa, he will be the guest of the governor general, Vincent Massey, and Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent.

Aides said the Chief Executive also plans to review Canadian-American relations in private talks with dominion officials.

In that category is continental defense, including the radar screen along the northern edges of the Canadian mainland and the islands adjacent.

There has been talk of a radar "net" in northern Canada, but what actually is up there now is something less than a solid "net." One thing apparently needed is more depth of the radar system with additional stations to the south to track incoming planes after the outer net has picked them up.

The controversial St. Lawrence seaway proposal also appears certain to be discussed.

Big 'To-Do' Is About Him

THE LATE HARRY DEXTER WHITE—The late Harry Dexter White gestures as he testified before the House Un-American Activities Committee on August 13, 1948, when he denied giving secret information or aid to Soviet agents.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman has declined to honor a subpoena to appear before the House Un-American Activities Committee, a highly placed congressional source said today.

This word came immediately after Chairman Velde (R-Ill.) had announced the indefinite postponement of tomorrow's scheduled appearance of Truman before the committee in its projected inquiry into the Harry Dexter White case.

The source reported Truman's refusal to obey the subpoena issued by Velde said the former President based it on the doctrine of the separation of powers in government—that the legislative branch has no authority over the executive branch.

Truman, it was said, forwarded his statement to Velde.

Velde's announcement of a postponement wiped out the immediate possibility of a showdown on the issue of whether the ex-President had to comply with the subpoena to tell of his actions in the White case seven years ago.

However, Velde said he was not dropping the matter. He issued this statement:

"I feel very definitely that Harry S. Truman and Gov. Byrnes (of South Carolina) should appear before the Un-American Activities Committee to give information to the committee concerning the Harry Dexter White matter. I feel that I was within my rights in issuing the subpoenas for them and will continue pressing for these hearings."

"Gov. Byrnes has very kindly consented to be heard by the subcommittee in his home state.

"As soon as it is possible, I intend to call an executive meeting of the whole committee to determine these issues. Until that meeting is held, I feel that it will be necessary to postpone the hearing."

Indian Command Plans To Screen Balky POWs

PANMUNJOM (AP)—The Indian command today worked on detailed plans for screening Chinese and Korean war prisoners if the Communists abandon efforts to woo them home.

Red interviews with prisoners refusing repatriation were canceled for the eighth straight day when the Communists repeated their demand to see 356 POWs who were skipped by stalling persuaders last Thursday.

Official quarters said the Red move appeared to be merely a maneuver while the Communist high command decides whether to go along with new Indian rules for running the interviews or torpedo the explanation program.

Lt. Gen. K. S. Thimayya, Indian chairman of the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission, was ready for a trip to Communist headquarters at Kaesong whenever the Reds' answer is ready.

There was no word from the Communists.

Thimayya has told the Reds to interview entire compounds of 500 men each in a day or skip those not interviewed.

Chinese in compound C22 called out last Thursday to wait while Communist explainers interviewed only 136, have refused to come out again.

Elsewhere, diplomatic staff advisers held their sixth secret session in an effort to draw up an agenda for talks to arrange a Korean peace conference.

Kenneth Young, chief United Nations staff negotiator, said the 55-minute meeting was "very businesslike." He would say nothing more, except that another session was set for tomorrow.

Police Probing Weird Murder

RICHMOND, Calif. (AP)—Police investigating a weird, brutal slaying wrestled today with contradictory statements of a terrified wife who found her husband's battered body in bed beside her and of a salesman nabbed in her car.

Mrs. Rowena Johnson 40, an officer telephoned to say they had just halted her auto after a wild chase through three cities.

"The man we stopped said you had loaned him the car," said the officer.

"Just a moment, I'll ask my husband," Mrs. Johnson said sleepily. Then she screamed. She had discovered her husband's body, punctured by 22 stab wounds, his head bashed in.

Later, two white men were observed near the West end of the building and a detailed search of the building was made, with the

Hospital Robbed Of Over $2,000

The vault of Pitt Memorial Hospital was robbed sometime yesterday of $2,295.97 in cash and checks, the Pitt County Sheriff's Department revealed today.

Apparently, according to investigators, the safe door had been left open and the robbers walked in and gathered up the loot.

Discovery of the open vault door was made at 3:45 yesterday morning by the night supervisor, who in company with city police checked the safe but failed to note that the cash and checks had been removed as the cash box was left in the vault.

Administrator C. D. Ward this morning reported that the loot consisted of $969.38 in checks and $1,326.19 in cash.

The loss was covered by insurance, however, Ward stated.

Office personnel in the business offices and at the switchboard left around nine o'clock.

Ward said that a new worker was being trained by the business office and that his theory was that she had not been too familiar with the closing of the vault that it was accidentally left unlocked.

Nurses on the Negro wards reported seeing a man slip through the hallway near the business office sometime between one and two but a check by the Supervisor failed to turn up anyone.

GOP Senators Consider Revolutionary Step May Proffer Majorities

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate Republicans were reported today to be thinking of allowing the Democrats to have a majority on a couple of committees in the 1954 session.

The plan would allow the GOP to retain the chairmanships and thus a measure of control.

Party strategists at the Capitol said this might be the best solution to the thorny committee problem raised for the next session by the fact that the Republicans have 47 senators to the Democrats' 48.

A Republican senator, who asked that his name not be used, said that his name not be used, said that his name not be used.

Morse was bumped from his two committee places—on the armed services and labor groups—last January after he bolted the GOP in the 1952 presidential campaign. He wound up on the less desirable public works and District of Columbia committees.

But he now is in a position to play a vital role in permitting the Republicans to retain control of the Senate and its committees next year. He has said he will vote with the GOP on organization matters, which would create a tie and permit Vice President Richard M. Nixon to decide the issue in the Republicans' favor. Democrats, however, have said they do not plan to try to seize Senate control.

The Republican strength fell below that of the Democrats when the late Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) was replaced by a Democrat, Thomas A. Burke.

With only 47 members, it is mathematically impossible for the GOP to control the Senate committees under present rules.

A key GOP senator said he thought the simplest solution would be for the Democrats to have a majority on two committees and for Morse to hold the deciding vote on two others.

"This would avoid any bitter fight over organization at the start of a session that may be touchy at best," the senator said.

He noted that the present GOP chairman of the committees would continue to hold their posts through the 1954 session unless some question is raised about it.

Prison Sentence For Soldier Who Wanted Fighting

FORMBY England (AP)—Pvt. Ed ward Roberts was sentenced to 56 days in prison by a court martial yesterday for deserting a soft job in the British army to go fighting with the French in Indochina.

Roberts, 24, appeared wearing the ribbons of the French Croix de Guerre and the Cross of Valor awarded him by the Indochinese state of Viet Nam.

The private pugnacious little five-footer, said he deserted his occupation unit in Germany in 1950 and joined the Foreign Legion because he wanted to see some combat. Wounded in Indochina on Feb. 23, 1952, he was flown back to France for treatment and finally gave himself up last month at the British embassy in Paris.

He offered a banana. The monkey grabbed it and scampered from his cage.

He pursued. The monkey leaped from a stock shelf to a chandelier. To get advice, he telephoned George Vierhejer, director of the St. Louis Zoo.

Playful Monkey Disrupts Peaceful Armistice Day While On Loose In Store

GRANITE CITY, Ill. (AP)—A small, playful monkey became the missing link in Avery Carp's search for a peaceful Armistice Day.

Carp is the owner of a Granite City department store, which closed to business for the holiday. But Carp, who lives in St. Louis, made a trip to the store anyway to feed a 3-month-old monkey on display there.

He offered a banana. The monkey grabbed it and scampered from his cage.

Israel Reported Ready To Heap Blame For Violence On Arabs

BY HARRIS JACKSON UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Israel was reported ready today to heap full blame for recent Palestine violence on military and economic pressures by her Arab neighbors.

Sources close to Israeli Chief Delegate Abba Eban said he would review the whole field of Arab-Jewish relations before the U. N. Security Council today in his nation's most important statement of policy since an uneasy armistice ended the 1948 Palestine war.

The Israeli sources said Eban's review would include Jewish charges of Arab aggressions across the frontiers economic boycotts against Israel by Arab nations and Arab opposition to such Israeli development projects and diversion of the Jordan River waters. Syria has brought the latter subject before the Security Council in a separate complaint.

The meeting of the 11-nation organization was called today to debate further the charges—backed up by the report of U. N. military observers in Palestine—that armed Israeli forces on Oct. 14 broke the Palestine armistice with a "calculated" attack on the Jordan border village of Kibya. Fifty-three Arabs were killed.

The Western Bloc Three on Monday condemned Israel for the attack but so far have not presented the council with a resolution of censure.

Only 63 Pints

AYDEN — The Bloodmobile collected only 63 pints of blood during its Armistice Day visit to Ayden, Mrs. Walter F. Taylor, Pitt County Red Cross representative, announced today.

This amounted to only 77 percent of the previously announced quota of 170 pints for Ayden.

The next visit of the Bloodmobile to Pitt County will be in December 7 when it will be in Greenville and December 8 when the Bloodmobile will be in Bethel.

clear it regarded the Kibya incident as an isolated outbreak but as one of a long series of border violence resulting from Arab pressures.

Israel already has contended that the Kibya attack was made not by her regular army but by village militia inflamed by a Jordan attack two days.

Tehran Mobs In Violent Display

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—Two demonstrators were killed by police gunfire today as thousands of supporters of ex-Premier Mohammad Mossadegh took their ousted leader's case into the streets.

Gangs shouting "Long live Mossadegh" roamed main thoroughfares despite heavy police and troop guards at main intersections. By noon Tehran time at least 20 demonstrators had been arrested and several had been severely clubbed by police under orders to take "drastic action" in maintaining order.

The city's main bazaar, which houses hundreds of tiny stores and booths, was about half shut down. Soldiers with fixed bayonets patrolled the labyrinth of covered passageways throughout the huge shopping area, long a center of Mossadegh strength.

Despite the widespread street agitation, many of the city's activities continued normally.

The strike call had been ballyhooed for more than a week by Communists and pro-Mossadegh leaders as a demonstration of support for the 73-year-old nationalist leader now facing an army court martial on treason charges.

District Scholarship Named For Former District Director

The 19th annual meeting of the Northeastern District of the North Carolina Federation of Music Clubs was held in the Woman's Club building Oct. 31 with the Greenville club as host. Mr. George Perry, district director, presided over the meeting. The invocation was given by Dr. H. G. Haney, pastor of the Eighth Street Christian Church, followed by a very gracious welcome by the president of the Greenville club, John C. Clifford. Mrs. J. B. Alderman responded to the welcome. Mr. Perry then recognized the following state chairmen: Mrs. David Sutton, State Junior Counselor; state rating sheet chairman, Mrs. J. B. Alderman; and state chairman of music in hospitals, Mrs. Irving Midgette. Elizabeth City, with the largest number present, won the mileage prize.
During the business session which followed it was decided that the district scholarship should be called the Rennie Williamson Scholarship in honor of the former district director.
The following committees were appointed:
Resolutions Committee—Mrs. C. P. Mitchell, chairman, Mrs. I. M. Little, Miss Myrtle Manning; Courtesy Committee—Mr. Rodney Trueblood, chairman, Mr. R. N. Chappell, Miss Jean Penny; Nominating Committee—Mr. Robert Adkins, chairman, Miss Louise Farber, Mrs. Madge Taylor.
Mrs. Eric Norden, state president, and Mrs. W. B. Bellois, state secretary, were then recognized and Mrs. Norden brought a very timely message regarding activities of the Federation of Music Clubs of the state.
After the adjournment of the morning session a delicious luncheon was served by the Greenville club.
In the afternoon a program of music was presented by members from the following clubs:
From the Musical Tempo Club, Mrs. Ronald Chappell, Mr. Jesse B. Mercer and Mrs. Van Martin, vocalists; from the Robersonville club, Miss Frances Smith in three vocal solos; Mrs. E. F. Aydtlett, from the Elizabeth City club, sang next, followed by piano solos by Jean Penny of the Weldon club. Mr. George Perry of the Greenville club presented his composition "Sonata in D, Opus 20," played by Dr. Elwood Keister, violinist, accompanied by Mr. Perry.
After reports of various committees the meeting adjourned at three o'clock.
"Brassard" which now refers to a badge on the upper arm originally meant a piece of armor for the upper arm.

P. T. A. Observes Education Week

GRIFTON—Mrs. Jack Tucker and Mrs. Bruce Hart directed the program presented at the November meeting of the Grifton P.T.A. on Tuesday night with members of the sixth and seventh grades taking part.
In observance of American Education Week a playlet, "The Magic Carpet," was given. Characters were Sallie Newborn as Queen Mary Anna, Danny Starkey as Inky, Jack Groet as Joseph and Betty Jean Pursar as Catherine. These had speaking parts and went to visit Story Book Land where they found books and their characters portrayed by the students appearing in appropriate costume. As a background for the play giant replicas of the following books were used: "Tom Sawyer," "The Secret Garden," "Lassie," "Rip Van Winkle," "Little Women," "Treasure Island." The object of this skit was to help children find an interest in reading.

Miss Annie Lee Jones of Greenville, elementary school supervisor for Pitt County, spoke to the group on the progress being made in the reading of the county schools and in the state. She told the group that children must be realized as personalities and this should be kept in mind when working with them. Try to teach children to read and not teach reading to a child.
Miss Jones was followed by Mr. Hannis Latham of Washington who gave a few remarks on the place of the encyclopedia in the school and the home, citing the need and choice of these reference books as being of great importance.
Miss Bert Johnson as head of the Library Committee made a plea for books or donations for books to be placed in the library.
Mrs. Roy Jackson presented the results of the nominating committee and Mrs. Charles Butcher was duly elected to serve as first vice president and will be president-elect for the coming school year.
Mr. John Groet gave a report of the Halloween Carnival and Mr. Ed Bright, principal, reported for the budget and finance committee. He also explained the needs for a cyclorama for the stage in the auditorium. This project will be undertaken by the P.T.A. and will be installed as soon as possible.
Attendance cakes were awarded on count to the sixth and seventh grades.

Surviving are his wife; two daughters, Mrs. Pauline Moore Gardner of Pine-tops and Mrs. Bernstine Moore Peta-way of Elm City; two sons, Leroy Moore of Tarboro and W. C. Jr. of the home; one sister, Mrs. George Lee of Williamston.

Mrs. Moye Gives Travel Talk To Woman's Club

On Friday, November 6, Mrs. Jesse Moye vividly transported the members of the Woman's Club to the Mediterranean. Mrs. Moye, in giving the program for the last general meeting, showed colored slides made from pictures she took while traveling through the Canary Islands, the coastal towns of Africa, Spain, Portugal, Sicily, as well as Paris and London this past summer. Her vivid talk as she explained the points of interest visited, literally took her listeners along. Adding to the enjoyment of the program was her display of dolls and other souvenirs of her journey.
The afternoon was not only a most interesting one for the members of the Woman's Club, but a profitable one, too. Mrs. Dink James, advisor for Junior Woman's Club, presented on behalf of Junior Woman's Club a beautiful silver creamer and sugar set, matching the exquisite silver tray they gave to the Woman's Club last year. Mrs. R. P. Rogers, on behalf of the Woman's Club, thanked the Junior Club and expressed her appreciation.
The Woman's Club proudly announces the addition to their ranks of the following new members: Mrs. Lucy Brooks, Mrs. Frank Brown, Mrs. H. H. Bryan, Mrs. James Hughes, Mrs. Jasper Tripp and Mrs. R. W. Everhart. Also introduced to the club by Mrs. H. S. Rasgdale was Mrs. Mary Horton, the new club hostess.
After the meeting, as is the custom in the Woman's Club, refreshments were served by Mrs. H. S. Rasgdale and the Hostess Committee for the day from a beautifully appointed Harvest table.

THE DAILY REFLECTOR
November 12, 1923
Mrs. J. R. Moye and Miss Novella Moye have returned from Richmond. Misses Kathleen Price and Jessie Myers of Greensboro, who have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. James Ficklen, have returned home.
Troy Burnette of the Silver Fox patrol was the honor scout of Troop 2 last week.
Miss Helen Brown, who is teaching in High Point, is here for the Sharp-Warren wedding.
Mr. Lawrence Watts left today for Elizabeth City to attend the Methodist conference.

State Club Is Organized By White Shrine

On Saturday, November 7, 97 members of the Order of White Shrine of Jerusalem, representing Thirteen Shrines of the State of North Carolina, met in Burlington to organize a North Carolina State White Shrine Club.
Mrs. J. R. Thomas, Supreme Worthy Organist, Durham, was presiding chairman. The Worthy Chaplain, Mrs. Clara Hughes, gave the devotional. The District Deputies and Worthy High Priestesses were introduced.
The By-Laws were presented and adopted and the club will be instituted when the Supreme Sessions meets in Chicago next May.
The following officers were elected: Mrs. Mabel Williams, Cape Fear Shrine, Fayetteville, President; Mrs. Mary Lee Hall, District Deputy, Gate City Shrine, Greensboro, 1st Vice President; Mrs. Margaret Aus-

Grifton W.S.C.S. Plans Tea For Rev. and Mrs. Mooney

GRIFTON—"Feeding the Modern Multitude" was the topic of the program presented at the W.S.C.S. meeting on Monday night when the November session was held in the church. This dealt with the workings and importance of the Food and Agriculture Organization which is affiliated with the United Nations and has a membership of 68 countries who support this by contributions each year. This is endeavoring to teach the people of the world to improve the food supply by studying the seeds, planting, harvesting and preserving of foodstuffs and other projects along this line.
Mrs. John Oglesby presided at the business meeting and heard reports. She appointed Mrs. C. E. Jones as chairman of a committee to work out plans for a tea to be given on Sunday afternoon between the hours of three and five in the church to give the congregation an opportunity to meet the new pastor, Rev. R. C. Mooney, and his family.
Mr. Charles Kilne asked permission to speak to the group of members present and inform them of the changes taking place in the parsonage and give them an outline of their duties in this work. The parsonage will have temporary quarters at 134 Pitt Street, which is in the new housing project, Nelson Heights. Mrs. Oglesby, Mrs. W. E. Rasberry and Mrs. Cecil Cobb were asked to work with the finance committee in making the home ready for the pastor's family.
At the conclusion of the program the refreshment committee, composed of Mesdames Roy Jackson, Clay Burney and Courtney Patrick, invited those assembled into the recreation rooms where cookies, salted nuts and Coca-Colas were served.

Last Rites Thursday For Adolph G. Toler

Funeral services for Adolph G. Toler, 61, were conducted at the Wilkerson Funeral Chapel Thursday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock by the Rev. I. C. Morris, Church of God pastor of Washington, and burial was in Greenwood Cemetery.
Mr. Toler died at his home in Portsmouth, Va., Monday night. Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Lucille Koonce Toler; three daughters, Mrs. Henry Sawyer of Norfolk, Va., Misses Lois and Linda Toler of the home; a son, Guilford Toler of the Coast Guard, now stationed at Norfolk, Va.; a brother, John Toler of Portsmouth, Va.; nine sisters, Miss Ollie Toler of Kinston, Mrs. Fannie Jones of New Bern, and Mrs. Baker Hopkins, Mrs. Walter Taylor, Mrs. Georgia Littleton, Mrs. Lillian Daniels, Mrs. Paul Godley, and Mrs. Willie Manning, all of Greenville; and a foster brother, Dalton D. Bright of Greenville.

Adventurer Will Be Next Club Speaker

Captain Michael Fielding, who has combined into his life experiences which Jim Hawkins or even John Silver, himself, might well be envious of, will be the next guest speaker at the Pitt County Executives Club.

The meeting will be held at 7 o'clock on Friday evening, November 20. Fielding, whose career has been as flamboyant as that of any hero of fiction, was born of Irish-English parents and at an early age became an officer in the British-Indian army.

For his address to the Pitt

MICHAEL FIELDING

County Executives club, Capt. Fielding has chosen the title, "Pax Americana", and in his address will discuss the position of the United States both in international politics and in the cold war.

The speaker has traveled extensively, and is considered an authority on India and the Far East. His life has been an interesting one since early youth, and from his entry into the British army in 1915, it has been a life filled with danger and high adventure.

One of the highlights of his career was a secret mission which he undertook a few years ago to the Black Spider gang which, in those days, operated unmolested along the Burma-Thailand border.

Since becoming a citizen of the United States a number of years ago, Fielding has been engaged as a commentator for a number of radio stations, as a writer and as a platform speaker. He was a public relations advisor to Arab-Riff, chieftain, Sheriff Mulya Mohammed Tedjani.

In 1945, Fielding was a guest of the Indian government on a 31,000 mile flight to South Asia. In 1949, he was a guest of the government of Pakistan, and in the summer of 1951, he made an extensive tour of the trouble spots of Western Europe.

Hopes To Adopt Tiny Korea Waif

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A rugged 35-year-old Navy bachelor and the chubby little Korean waif he took off the streets of Inchon more than a year ago have finally made it to the United States.

After weeks of battling red tape, the pair—both of them smiling shyly—arrived yesterday aboard a big Mars flying boat from Honolulu.

Four-year-old Lee Kyung Soo was wearing a uniform just like that of Chief Boatswain's Mate Vincent T. Paladino of New Rochelle, N. Y., a veteran of 13 years in the Navy.

Paladino, who hopes to adopt the orphan, said the first time he saw Lee "I decided to take him out of the cold and clean him up."

"Lee feared me. It was two months before he would believe I was a friend and another month before he smiled."

WHAT'S THE EXCITEMENT?—Richard Lee Stammer gurgles happily at Duran, Okla., as he waits for his early morning bottle. The 6-month-old boy, missing three days after a 17-year-old girl baby sitter disappeared with him, was found at a farm home near Bokchito, Okla., by FBI agents. The girl, Mrs. Tommie Dene Doughty, a former carnival strip teaser, has been arraigned on a kidnaping charge. (AP Wirephoto).

New Scholarship Slated By Pitt Alumni Of ECC

Pitt county alumni will give a tuition scholarship to East Carolina College annually, beginning with the 1954-55 term.

The $105 annual scholarship was approved by members of the Greenville-Pitt County alumni at a dinner meeting in the Fellowship Hall of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church, with Miss Mary Thomas Smith, president of the chapter, presiding.

During the meeting, the alumni enjoyed addresses by Ed E. Rawl, Sr., ECC trustee and president of The Pirates Club, and Dr. Martha Pingel, English professor on ECC's faculty.

Business matters discussed included the proposals to redistrict the State of North Carolina for closer alumni relations, membership in the alumni association, and furnishing the new alumni-faculty house on the campus.

Mrs. Robert W. Fennell was named chairman of a Christmas corgage committee which will work on a benefit for the scholarship fund.

The chapter's annual games tournament was announced for Friday, February 12, 1954.

Presenting some of her own poems and describing the background and setting of her verse, Dr. Pingel delighted her audience with her "folksiness and human insight" in the readings given.

Putting East Carolina College before more people in a manner which will draw more interest to and support of the college was urged by Mr. Rawl in his informal message. He urged Greenville and Pitt county alumni to become active members of the Pirates Club as a means of supporting the college's athletic program.

Progress in the work on the alumni-faculty building was reported by Alumni Secretary James Butler. An inventory of furnishings needed for the building with alumni being urged to help in providing these is to be completed soon, he added.

A short report on the Tampa trip by the ECC football team was also given by Alumni Secretary Butler.

The turkey dinner was served by a circle of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church. Miss Smith, chapter president, and Mrs. Dorothy Willard Johnson, secretary-treasurer, made arrangements for the meeting.

Unit Teaching In Panel Discussion

At the monthly meeting of the seventh and eighth grade teachers of the Robinson Union School of Winterville recently the theme "Improved Instruction Through Unit Teaching" was discussed.

According to reports the teachers consider this their best meeting as they said they gained more helpful information in this manner than they had before.

The panel included Mrs. Willie M. Williams, who discussed unit approach, and Mrs. T. A. Lawrence discussing grouping for instruction. Subject matter correlations were by the following: M. W. Rountree, science; Rev. L. A. Williams, arithmetic; Mrs. C. P. Bell, language arts; Miss V. Vines, social studies; Miss M. L. Dupre, art and music; and Mrs. N. B. Jackson, culminating exercises.

Suggestions for the December 14 meeting included intervisitation, helping slow learners, role-playing, and continuation of unit study.

Slight Mistake In His Target

ELYRIA, Ohio (AP)—Poor aim cost the defendant $5. That's the sum he was fined for disorderly conduct after Patrolman Harvey Hahn accused him of spitting in his face in anger over a traffic ticket.

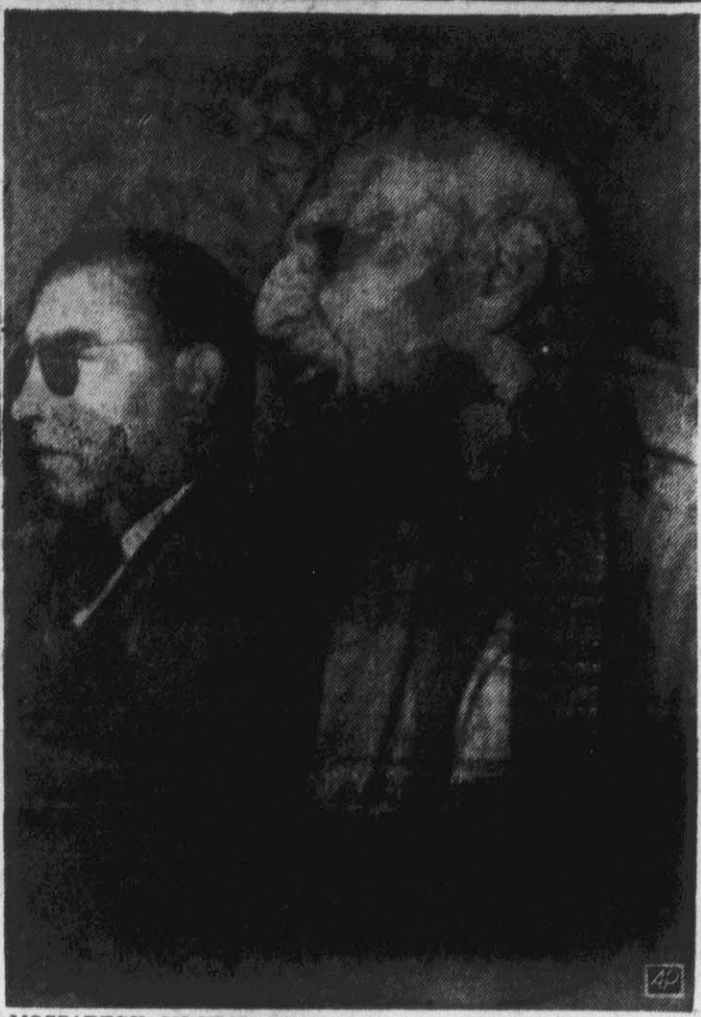

"I meant to hit the ground," said Goldstein.

INSURANCE EXCHANGE TO HOLD SUPPER MEETING

The Pitt County Insurance Exchange will meet at Respass Brothers' barbecue place tonight at 6:30. President J. B. Smith will preside and supper will be served. Routine business and some special matters will come up for consideration.

NEW KING.—Crown Prince Saud (above), is the new king of Saudi Arabia, succeeding his father King Ibn Saud who died. The king, a 6-foot, 4-inch giant of a man in his prime, had been crippled in recent years by arthritis. He was nearly 73 years old. His country's vast oil resources gave him an income of more than $200,000,000 a year. (AP Wirephoto).

He is accused of defying the Shah, trying to overthrow the monarch and illegally dissolving Parliament. Man at left is unidentified. (AP Wirephoto via radio from Rome).

Would Put Emphasis On Teaching Grammar

Dr. A. C. Jordan, Duke University Professor of English, conducted an informal discussion of English with Pitt County English, seventh and eighth grade teachers, in the Tucker Building Tuesday afternoon.

Dr. Jordan's discussion was based on what is wrong, what can be done about it, and what different industries have to say about the qualifications of their help and applicants.

The visiting professor stressed that teachers should drill students on fundamentals, teach diagramming, teach spelling all the way through school from grades one to 12, and teach techniques of good letter writing and grammar.

He said, "The problem of reading is the fact that we don't understand English; however, a person who understands punctuation understands grammar or vice versa." He pointed out that it is better to have a five sentence theme correctly written that have a long one incorrectly written.

He quoted letters from several different companies. For example he said that Shell spends five percent of its budget correcting English and spelling errors made by employees.

From a survey of industry he explained that it is found that there is an inability to use grammar, particularly in written work, and a lack of good letter writing.

County Superintendent of Schools D.H. Conley introduced Dr. Jordan at the meeting presided over by Mrs. Helen Clark, Winterville English Teacher. The professor came to Pitt County as a request from the county high school English teachers.

Benson Going To Drought States

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson heads into drought-stricken areas of the Southwest today on an inspection tour that may show him how farmers there feel about administration farm policies.

A five-day tour by military airplane will take him into parts of Texas, New Mexico, Arizona, Nevada, Utah, Wyoming and Missouri.

The announced purpose of the trip is to "observe progress of the (Agriculture Department's) drought program in states having officially designated drought areas and to check drought conditions in nearby states."

Mutual Advantage In Bus Compromise

A compromise reached on a particular phase of bus service to four Pitt County communities should prove mutually advantageous to the communities and to the bus company involved.

It all started back in September when an afternoon bus serving Greenville, Winterville, Ayden and Grifton was removed by the Carolina Coach company. Protests from the four communities as well as county officials poured into the State Utilities Commission asking the schedule be reinstated.

As a result the schedule was reinstated on a temporary basis pending a hearing before the commission slated for November 13.

An Unfortunate Rash Of Serious Crime

It is unfortunate that since the Greenlease kidnaping case, a rash of kidnapings has broken out across the nation.

While all have been serious crimes, the kidnapings which have followed in the past several weeks have not involved murder or high ransoms as were present in the Greenlease case.

It is unfortunate that when one or two criminals set out on a rampage that gains wide publicity, other individuals decide to follow suit with similar crimes of their own. They apparently give little thought to the grief they cause fellow citizens—their victims—or to the price they will have to pay for their crime when justice triumphs.

Not only in the recent series of kidnaping cases, but in other crimes is the pattern followed.

The individual who allows himself to fall into place in such a pattern is to be despised. Yet for his lack of will power to follow the path of law and order, he is likewise to be pitied.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
WITH OR AGAINST THE CURRENT?
Live fish swim against the current; dead fish float with the current. Nobody ever saw a dead fish, its white belly turned up to the sun, floating against the current. The dead float with the current; the live swim against the current.

From the beginning of time, man has been exercising his ingenuity to make life easy. For the most part he has not been successful. Even today—in the most comfortable age humanity has ever known—there is more discomfort and suffering in the world than there is comfort and joy. Furies, prison camps, war, famine, injustice, cruelty, disease, and sin—these are the lashes with which humanity is, and always has been, scourged.

God gives us as much improvement in life as we are willing to work for. The stream of life is glutted with dead fish being swept along with the current. The people who really amount to something are swimming against the current. They may be the humblest kind of folk living bravely in little out of the way places amid straitened circumstances. They may be statesmen fighting for human freedom. They may be artists, writers—and again they may be "hewers of wood and drawers of water." Position means nothing where character is concerned. The man from whose birth history is dated was a village carpenter and was despised by most of his contemporaries.

With the current or against it? Which?

National Whirligig

Belated Brownell Awakening

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON—The Eisenhower-Brownell failure to exploit charges of Truman promotion of a suspected Communist sympathizer and cooperator—Harry Dexter White—before the critical November 3 elections, demonstrates conclusively that partisan politics has not inspired this new attack on alleged Democratic tolerance toward Reds in the Government.

In fact, it suggests that Brownell is not as astute a political strategist as he is supposed to be. It also points up the GOP's need for a smart party publicist such as the late "Steve" Early, F.D.R.'s press secretary, or the late "Charley" Michelson, whose jibes kept the Republicans off balance as long as he could pound a typewriter at the Democratic National Committee headquarters.

MATERIAL'S EARLIER EFFECT—Had either "Steve" or "Charley" been handling Republican publicity, or a fairly good facsimile of them, the Truman Administration's reticence and promotion of known Russian spies—known, that is, to J. Edgar Hoover of the FBI, to several Democratic Attorney Generals and to the White House—would have been capitalized on for all it was worth at the ballot box.

ties Commission between the bus company and the individual communities, an existing bus schedule be re-routed to serve the communities in place of the tentative schedule now in effect.

The communities involved agreed to the compromise proposal of the bus company, and as a result the hearing before the Utilities Commission has been called off.

The series of events points up the fact that there is room for compromise between individual communities and private companies under regulations of the Utilities Commission, without going through the procedure of a formal hearing.

In this instance, the Pitt communities involved will continue to receive the much-needed bus transportation service, and at the same time the company is doubtlessly making a change which is to its advantage.

Even with the compromise which has been reached, the Pitt communities are better off than they would have been had the matter gone to a full hearing before the commission, and the decision of the commission had been against the communities which protested the initial change in the bus company's schedule.

No Victory For Reds In Explanation Series

Only a strange and unlikely series of events can now enable the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission to carry out its repatriation of prisoners of war as originally proposed.

The communists, faced with a staggering propaganda defeat because only three per cent of the former Reds—now unrepatriated prisoners—want to return home, have virtually made the completion of explanation sessions impossible.

Indian leaders have found they can not deal with the communist representatives who are deliberately seeking to stall the repatriation program.

It appears now that the remaining anti-communist POWs will be screened by Indian officers who will simply ask the prisoners whether they want to return to communism or remain in a free nation. Only a small per centage are likely to choose communism.

Another factor in the current negotiations is that the Indian representatives are learning first hand just how obstinate the communists can be. The Indians are learning first hand that the communists are not honorable, nor do they negotiate in good faith.

While the negotiations over prisoners in Korea is not nearly past the stage of crisis, the issue is likely to be resolved by the Neutral Nations Commission in its own manner by the December deadline for explanations. We doubt that the outcome of the situation can be turned into a propaganda victory by the communists.

Somebody Told Me Sweet-Talking Man's Reply

Last week's column written to the tune of "I hate suckers" got a distinct rise out of J. B. Kittrell, Sr. The column pointed out a father's natural disgust at finding every door knob sticky and the precaution of inspecting every seat before sitting down lest a sucker might be there. Also, the column pointed out that suckers must be bad for children's teeth.

"The Sweetest Sugar Ever Sold," which has brought happiness to so many souls in this area. It might interest you to know that our sales of sugar within a radius of 100 miles of Greenville total approximately 40,000,000 pound annually. This sounds like a lot of sugar but it is actually a very small quantity compared with the 8,200,000 tons consumed in the United States annually.

"Your suggestion and the theory that candy is bad for children's teeth was disproved several years ago. As evidence of this fact, a study by Dr. Pauline Berry Mack, Department of Health of the State of Pennsylvania, revealed that children who ate the most sugar had better teeth than the children who ate less sugar. For further details, I refer you to the 14th and 15th pages of the booklet enclosed."

What Other Editors Are Thinking

EQUAL RIGHTS (Washington Daily News)
It wasn't so many years ago that women were demanding equal rights in politics. And as time went by women's suffrage came into existence. Soon women began to hold public office, and today many of the female species are giving real public service in political positions throughout the country.

At social functions. Since rank is coveted so highly in our nation's capital, then the seating of Mr. Hobby, it seems, created much consternation around Washington.

give the men equal rights. That is to say, at state functions attended by Mrs. Hobby, her husband, old Will Hobby, could be seated according to the rank of his wife.

Around Capitol Square

By LYNN NISBET
EXPENSIVE — Votes cast in the October 3 school building and mental hospital bonds election cost the taxpayers of North Carolina about a one dollar a quarter apiece.

DISALLOWED — In most cases the bills were paid as received without question by the State Auditor or the State Board of Elections. The Columbus county bill was turned down, because it included some $400 for lease of voting machines. The Attorney General having ruled on basis of opinion by New York bond lawyers that voting machines could not be used in the bond election, the State officials did not feel justified in paying for them.

should be often held, when they cost a quarter million dollars a throw, can soon become burdensome on the composite citizenship. A suggestion has been made, but has not met favor in most quarters, that costs could be substantially reduced by keeping registration books open only one day for special elections. Certain high State officials take the position that would violate the provision for free elections by restricting citizens in their privileges to qualify as voters.

Business Today Big Research Field

Industrial research and development work is pretty much a big-business proposition, judging from a survey of almost 2,000 companies by the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

It found that the 44 largest companies employed about 40 per cent of the research engineers and scientists employed by the companies surveyed. In sharp contrast, 642 companies with fewer than 100 employees employed only 4 per cent of the engineers and scientists.

The dominance of big business in the research field is further emphasized by the fact that half of the research engineers and scientists employed in three industries in which bigness prevails—aircraft, electrical machinery and chemicals. Of the 96,000 research engineers and scientists employed in the 2,000 companies checked, the size and importance of research is further shown by the fact that almost $2 billion a year is invested in it and that in addition to the 96,000 engineers and researchers, some 143,000 technicians and other workers are employed.

While the BLS report did not touch on it, there is a possibility that some companies will reduce investments in research next year. At least, tax experts have been advising them to put into research those profits that would otherwise be taxed at the excess-profits rate—and the excess-profit tax expires with 1953.

The cut should not be too deep, since the BLS survey showed that Federal financing is supporting 47 per cent of the research, largely through defense contracts. In aircraft, the Government financed 88 per cent of the research in 1951, and lesser shares in the other industries.

Since research is usually a prerequisite to growth, the predominance of big companies in research may once again suggest that the big get bigger and the small ones don't.

The situation is not quite that clearcut. Research and development work by Federal and State governments and by many universities and foundations is generally available to small business. Many colleges are eager for assignments in research, especially if a check for part of the cost is attached. Some trade associations also conduct research for members. And, of course, a small business can also retain one of the thousands of private laboratories or research organizations for specific tasks.

Santa Claus Is Paying Own Way

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Santa Claus always was a kindly old fellow, but a mighty poor businessman. "Charity begins at home," his wife kept telling him. But every year Santa came home each Christmas dawn, broke but happy from the world's oldest giveaway program. He never made a cent through the centuries.

Children under 10 are admitted free, adults pay a dollar each. The fairland village has had 2,234,826 visitors in four years, thousands of whom toss coins in a wishing well to buy Christmas toys for free distribution.

Well, they've finally got the mellow old spendthrift organized on a sensible basis that proves philanthropy doesn't have to be a red-ink venture. Santa Claus now is on a payroll and pays income taxes to Uncle Sam. And so do all his merry little elves.

The financial transformation of Santa began in the gnomish mind of Harold Fortune, an ex-horse show entrepreneur who had turned into a country club rescuer. A country club rescuer is a man who, for a fee, saves insolvent golf pastures from going back to the bankers and the chipmunks.

Fortune had a friend, Julian Reiss, a wealthy Lake Placid, N.Y., auto dealer, who liked to tell Christmas stories to his daughter, Patricia. In 1948 Reiss mentioned to Fortune a wistful remark by little Patricia:

"Gee, I wish sometime I could see Santa's workshop."

"Bong, bong, bong! Bells rang in Fortune's promoter's head. He forgot all about rescuing country clubs. Who wouldn't want to see Santa's workshop? He and Reiss began planning.

Months and about $500,000 later, they opened on July 1, 1949, a 15-acre Christmas village at North Pole, their own community on Whiteface Mountain in the Adirondacks.

"We have ten log buildings done in fairland style," said Fortune. "Santa's elves dressed in costume make toys, and operate a pottery shop. Two hundred animals—reindeer, peacocks, goats, ducks, and rabbits—wander through the village. There are a number of nursery rhyme characters, including Bo-Peep, who is followed by her sheep."

Children under 10 are admitted free, adults pay a dollar each. The fairland village has had 2,234,826 visitors in four years, thousands of whom toss coins in a wishing well to buy Christmas toys for free distribution.

The corporation that operates Santa's workshop chips in a share of receipts for this purpose, too. By Christmas this year it will have distributed since the opening date some 67,710 toys costing $143,075.

The Esso Standard Oil Co. supplies an airplane for Santa's journey. This year his safari includes stopovers at 34 airports, where groups of orphans and other underprivileged children will be given candy and Christmas presents.

"Is the whole project philanthropy or just another Christmas business? Both, said Fortune. "We are a commercial venture," he said, "and we pay an income tax. But we do a lot of good that otherwise wouldn't get done, and I don't mind telling you I feel good on Christmas morning."

Fortune, who devotes a third of the year to organizing the toy distribution program, would like to find a way to do more for orphans than give them a Christmas hamlet.

"You know, at a certain age they have to push them out in the world, to make room in the pharmacies for the younger ones," he said, "and often they aren't ready."

Pirates And Phantoms Have Scrimmages For Last Game

Britt And Allsbrook Battle For Right Half

By JIMMY ELIAS
Reflector Sports Editor

The search for a right halfback centered on two players at East Carolina College's practice session yesterday.

Jack Britt and Tom Allsbrook are the two who appear to hold the upper hand in the battle for the injured Paul Gay's position. Britt, a senior and co-captain from Fairmont, has been switched to the right half post from his old stand at left halfback. Allsbrook, a junior from Scotland Neck, has been one of the top reserves at the position all season long.

Both Britt and Allsbrook ran well in a long scrimmage session yesterday. They alternated in the first team backfield but both played considerable ball in the workout. Britt is expected to be the starter because of his greater experience but Allsbrook is one of the top punters on the squad and may get some extra consideration because of that.

Quarterback Dick Cherry was back in his position in the scrimmage session but he was strictly "hands off" material in the heavy work. He was pivoting and passing in his usual fashion but he did not try to run the ball. He is expected to be able to start Saturday afternoon against Stetson University in DeLand, Florida, but he may be slowed down by the knee injury.

Familiar Faces
Cherry had familiar faces working in the first-team backfield yesterday. Britt and Allsbrook alternated at right halfback but the left halfback position was almost the sole property of Tippy Hayes while Claude King held a like claim on the fullback post. The only other players who got to see much action in the offensive portion of the backfield scrimmage were Emo Bardo, Ted Barnes, and John Daughtry. Bardo and Barnes are left halfbacks and Daughtry is a fullback.

The Pirates will leave Greenville tonight for the game. They will arrive in DeLand tomorrow morning and take a final workout on the Stetson field tomorrow afternoon. The teams have met but once prior to this year. They played to a 19-19 tie last year in DeLand. This year, the Pirates have a 7-1 record and the Hatters a 3-3 mark. East Carolina's only loss came last Saturday night when they were bumped 18-13 by the Tampa Spartans. The Spartans are one of the three victims claimed by the Hatters this year.

Irish And Terps Picked To Win In Weekend Tilts

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
NEW YORK (AP)—The country's college football teams followed the script almost perfectly last weekend. There were six setbacks but also 42 correct selections. That's an average of 87½—definitely too good.

It raised the season's figure to a mean 801 with 273 picks right and 68 wrong.

Here are this week's selections: Notre Dame over North Carolina. These are not the Tarheels of the Charlie Justice era and Notre Dame will win easier than it did a week ago against Penn. Maryland over Mississippi. Mississippi was one of the two teams to beat Maryland last year, an event that caused the Maryland proxy to rebuke his coaching staff in public. Coach Jim Tatum isn't going to let it happen again.

Alabama over Georgia Tech. Leon Hardeman Tech's No. 1 halfback, is hobbled by a hip bruise. Tech is the choice of the betting fraternity but the cards here say Alabama.

Wisconsin over Illinois. The center of the Badger line and those big ends will combine to apply the brakes to J. C. Caroline, Illinois' modern Grange. But if Wisconsin relaxes for even a second it will be curtains.

UCLA over Washington. UCLA is one of the best defensive teams in the country and if you don't let your opponent score, how can you lose?

Michigan State over Michigan. This is a civil war. It also is your TV entertainment of the day. Bolden, Dohoney and company gives State the edge.

West Virginia over South Carolina. West Virginia adds another notch to the country's longest winning streak.

Minnesota over Iowa. Too much Giel. But it will be closer than you think.

Texas over TCU. It is the Texas homecoming and oh, my, how those Longhorns love to celebrate.

Finishing the others in a hurry: FRIDAY NIGHT
Miami over Virginia Tech.

SATURDAY
East: Princeton over Yale, Cornell over Dartmouth, Fordham over Temple, Harvard over Brown, Marquette over Holy Cross, Navy over Columbia, Penn State over Rutgers, Pittsburgh over North Carolina State, Syracuse over Colgate, Villanova over Boston U.

South: Tennessee over Florida, Auburn over Georgia, Clemson over the Citadel, Furman over Florida State, George Washington over Davidson, Kentucky over Memphis State, LSU over Mississippi State, Tulane over Vanderbilt, Virginia over Washington and Lee, William and Mary over Richmond.

Midwest: Oklahoma over Iowa State, Cincinnati over VMI, Oklahoma A&M over Kansas, Missouri over Kansas State, Nebraska over Colorado, Northwestern over Indiana, Ohio State over Purdue, Wichita over South Dakota State.

Southwest: Baylor over Houston, Arizona over Texas Western, Hardin-Simmons over New Mexico A&M, Rice over Texas A&M, SMU over Arkansas, Texas Tech over Tulsa.

Far West: Arizona State (Tempe) over Brigham Young, California over Oregon, College of Pacific over Idaho, Stanford over San Jose State, Utah over Colorado A&M, Utah State over Denver, Washington State over Oregon State, Wyoming over New Mexico.

A victory over West Virginia at Morgantown Saturday could make South Carolina into somewhat of a Southern power. But Coach Rex Enright began eying the game worries after two more Gamecocks were injured. One was second string quarterback Harold Lewis, leaving Johnny Gramling to carry the load alone. Gramling, too, is bothered with injuries.

With a sellout crowd of over 40,000 expected in Chapel Hill Saturday, North Carolina held a grueling practice yesterday. Two more injuries cropped up and coupled with the already long list of injured, dimmed Tar Heel hopes of an upset over Notre Dame, the nation's No. 1 team. The work of two guards, Ed Patterson and Miles Gregory, highlighted the work.

A trio of quarterbacks, Don King, Forrest Calvert, and Tommy Williams, kept the air filled with passes in Clemson's work for Saturday's game with the Citadel. Little heavy work was done.

A pass session featured Wake Forest's drills yesterday following a two-day layoff. The team has an open date, but meets Furman Nov. 21.

Duke also with an open date Saturday, featured fundamentals in its work. The Blue Devils meet Georgia Tech Nov. 21.

North Carolina State's basketball team will take part in the clinic and J. Dallas Shriver, AABO president, will discuss rules and mechanics of officiating. All state coaches and officials are invited.

JACK BRITT, senior halfback from Fairmont, yesterday elevated himself to a possible starting role in the East Carolina College plans for Saturday's game with Stetson University. Britt has been a sub at left halfback for most of the season but a switch by Coach Jack Boone has made him a leading contender for the injured Paul Gay's right halfback position. State's Eddie West Is Wanted By ACC Crew

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

No coach envies North Carolina State's season record of only one victory in seven games, but the Wolfpack has something most of them would like to have.

That's Eddie West, a 195-pound sophomore quarterback who has turned out to be one of the best in the Atlantic Coast Conference, a league well supplied with highly touted signal callers.

West is second in the conference in individual total rushing and second only to South Carolina's John Gramling in passing. In addition, he could be called the ACC's iron man. Out of a possible playing time of 421 minutes in seven games, West has played 416 minutes. He played full games against George Washington and Army.

Against GW West turned in an amazing performance, handling the ball on every Wolfpack play. He even held the ball for the Pack's single extra point attempt. His play against Army at West Point last Saturday was so great he was named Sophomore of the Week in the conference.

The only game the Wolfpack has won came at the expense of Davidson, unless in seven straight this season. Despite this, the 6-2 Alexander, Va., native has managed to be a constant threat in every game. Against Army, he returned a punt 67-yards for State's only score.

Stressing work against University of Pittsburgh offensive and defensive patterns kept the Wolfpack busy yesterday. With West at the helm, State also worked on its own split-T.

But Coach Rex Enright began eying the game worries after two more Gamecocks were injured. One was second string quarterback Harold Lewis, leaving Johnny Gramling to carry the load alone. Carter Seeking Shot At Crown

MONTREAL (AP)—Lightweight champion Jimmy Carter, winner of three straight title fights by knockouts, today sought a crack at the winner of Friday's Kid Gavilan-Johnny Bratton welterweight championship bout.

After knocking out rangy Armand Savoie of Montreal last night in 59 seconds of the fifth round with "the best single punch (a right) I ever threw," Carter immediately put in a pitch for a shot at the welter crown.

"There ain't nobody left in the lightweights now for Jimmy," said Manager Willie Ketchum, the loquacious member of the New York combination "so he might as well fight for the welterweight title."

"The NBA said there wasn't any logical contenders in their last ratings. We could make big money with a Gavilan match—and money is what we're after."

Anything Willie says goes," said Carter. "A welterweight title fight is fine with me."

The champion had a slight cut over his left eye as the result of a head collision with the 23-year-old Montrealer in the fourth round. Savoie had a similar gash.

Carter said the kayo punch "was a beauty—the best single punch I ever threw—traveled just about three inches and it appeared to be about 8 to 10 inches."

"I was looking for the opening and he gave it to me."

"I saw it (the right) coming fast," said the disgraced 23-year-old loser. "I was faking a left to the body and we both threw the right. He was lucky."

Carter, a 3 to 1 favorite, was trailing on the score cards of the three voting judges until he loosened with his blockbuster. A series of thumping body blows set the aggressive French-Canadian up for the kayo wallop.

When the right whistled over to Armand's chin he dropped flat on his back. He desperately scrambled to his hands and knees as Referee Tom Sullivan counted 9 and 10.

For three rounds Savoie, who beat Carter by split decision in a notable 10-rounder here Feb. 16, gave the partisan crowd of 9,136 unexpected thrills as he carried the fight to the champion, a notorious slow starter.

At 137½ pounds, Carter weighed the lightest since he won the title for the first time by halting Ike Williams in 14 rounds in 1951. Savoie weighed 134.

really developed," said Leahy. It was typical comment of opposing coaches this year.

Shanafelt said:

"I'd rather play every minute of a game any time than sit on the bench half the time. I worry more when I'm sitting than I do playing. True, your effectiveness is cut down toward the end, but then so is that of the man opposite you. The idea is to condition yourself to play 60 minutes instead of 30."

The Hertford County Herald and the North Carolina Coaches' Association are co-sponsors of the Ahsokie Northeastern workshop. Ahsokie Coach Jack Young is the local school director for the workshop. The demonstrations will start at 7:30 p.m.

The workshop is one of five to be given in areas throughout the state. Teams from the Big Five—Duke, State, Carolina, Wake Forest, Davidson—will participate with each team being responsible for one of the workshops. The affairs are expected to become annual events.

Penn Tackle Ace Is AP Line Star

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Jack Shanafelt is the answer to those who say the current crop of college football players hasn't the stamina for the one-pitaton game.

Shanafelt, the fine Penn tackle named yesterday as Associated Press Lineman of the Week, was a defensive player exclusively last year. This year he has played 386 of a possible 420 minutes in Penn's first seven games.

He played full time against Ohio State and Navy and 59½ minutes against Notre Dame. A trick shoulder snapped out of joint in the last 30 seconds of the N. D. game, forcing him to the sidelines.

Frank Leahy, coach of the unbeaten Irish singled out Shanafelt for high praise after Notre Dame beat Penn 28-20.

"That big lad (Shanafelt) was terrific. We double-teamed him a couple of times and still he mugged up some of our plays before they

Roanoke Rapids Last Opponent For Phants

By WAYNE BISHOP
Reflector Sports Writer

Harassed by seven consecutive defeats, the downtown Greenville Phantoms will attempt to regain some of the lost face tomorrow night when they meet Roanoke Rapids in the Yellow Jackets' home nest.

The contest will be the last of the season for the two clubs. Its outcome will decide the holder of fifth place in the seven-team Northeastern Conference.

The old injury nemesis which has plagued the Phantoms all year is apparently intent on staying around until the final whistle is blown. Tackle Dixie Hogood is out with a knee injury. Halfback Mitchell Johnson has been in bed for more than a week with a serious attack of influenza. Halfback Joe Taft will also miss the game because of illness.

End and captain Bobby Conway's sore shoulder is acting up again and he has been ordered to take things easy. Quarterback Pat Sawyer has a bad shoulder and a bad knee, either one of which could put him on the sidelines.

For the Greenies, tomorrow night's game will be the finish to what has proved to be a dismal season. They started out with a pair of lop-sided victories but then hit the skids for their string of seven consecutive losses. They have a lowly 1-4 record in Northeastern Conference play.

One of the bright spots in Phantom play to date has been the consistency of All-State halfback candidate James Speight. Speight is the team's leading scorer with 26 points and is way ahead in the rushing department. He has gained 574 yards in 85 carries for an average of 6.8 yards per carry.

Speight was back at his right halfback position yesterday as the Phantoms scrimmaged for the last time this year. He was one of the standouts in the practice session.

Running with Speight in the first-team backfield yesterday were George Siders, Bob Howell, and Bobby Langston. Siders was at quarterback in place of the injured Sawyer. Howell was back at his old left halfback slot and Langston was back at fullback.

In the line, Harris Northrup and Hal Edwards were the ends, Howard King and Lard Smith were the tackles, Jerry Phillips and Bobby Nunn were the guards, and Sam Winchester was the center. That is expected to be the starting line tomorrow except for center where Doug Morgan is expected to be the first-team man.

PGA Spokesman Says Ten Events Despite Big Revolt

DETROIT (AP)—A Professional Golfers Assn. spokesman claimed today that 10 weekend tournaments and three pro-amateur events have been lined up for the winter golf circuit, despite a revolt claimed by the Winter Sponsors Assn.

The spokesman declined to name any clubs with which agreement has been reached "until we have the whole thing wrapped up." He predicted it would be "late tonight."

The Winter Sponsors Assn. claims to represent 10 Southwestern and West Coast cities. When the PGA demanded a minimum purse of $15,000 everywhere among other things, M. P. (Monk) Wilson packed up and went home Sunday.

He is president of the Winter Sponsors, and said members would go ahead with scheduled tournaments whether or not they got PGA sanction.

PGA said one thing complicating the lining up of a winter schedule was the fact that 17 clubs were seeking spots for the 14 weekends between the January football bowl games and the Masters Golf Tournament of Augusta, Ga., April 8-11. The events open and close the "winter" golf season.

Cary Middlecoff, one of the circuit stars and co-chairman of the PGA's Tournament Committee, conceded he was attempting to line up members of Wilson's organization through individual telephone calls from the PGA convention here.

WEDNESDAY'S FIGHTS

Aussie Champion Expected To Keep Title From Gault
By GORDON TAIT
SYDNEY (AP)—Australia Jimmy Carruthers remains the popular choice to keep his world bantamweight title against challenger Pappy Gault of Spartanburg, S. C., tomorrow night.

Interest is running high in Sydney, it's the first time Carruthers has defended his crown in his own country.

The two boxers, both 24 and both married, finished their training yesterday and today retreated in the country today. Carruthers punched the bag and skipped through seven rounds in his final workout. Gault boxed four rounds with sparring partners.

The only thing that worries the Sydney fans about their home boy is his relative lack of big-time experience. He has had only 16 professional fights and just one this year. Gault has fought 50 times as a professional, including 15 this year.

Sydney critics haven't been overly impressed by Gault's form in the gym but they figure he didn't get his rating as the No. 2 challenger for nothing. They expect the American will prove a tough body puncher but think Carruthers will outpoint him. The Australian, a magnificent boxer, specializes in uppercuts.

WASHINGTON — Willie Troy, 158½, Washington, knocked out Randy Sandy, 153, New York, 7.

Genial Jimmy Dykes Back In Business As Oriole Boss

Scoring Champ Could Be Rarity

NEW YORK (AP)—Chances are that the 1953 major-league individual scoring champion is going to be a rarity on two counts—he's likely to score less than 100 points and he may be a Big Ten player.

NCAA Service Bureau statistics showed today that Bobby Watkins of Ohio State, Mickey Bates of Illinois and Joe Ulin of San Jose State, each with 11 touchdowns for 66 points, are the nation's top point makers. Since Ulin has been ineligible for four weeks now, the real leaders are Watkins and Bates although seven other players are within easy reach of the top.

Only once in the last 15 years has the major-league scoring champ failed to score 100 or more points. That was in 1947 when Maryland's Lou Gambino had 96. And not since Tommy Harmon of Michigan took top honors in 1939 and 1940 has a Big Ten representative held that distinction.

Watkins and Bates, with two games apiece to go, however, are far from safe. Four players have 10 touchdowns for 60 points—VMI's Johnny Mapp, Denver's Fred Mahaffey, Oklahoma's Larry Grigg and California's Al Talley. Wyoming's Joe Mastrogiovanni the season-long total offense leader, is right up there with 59 points while Jack Parker of Mississippi State, the defending champion, has 58.

Georgia's Jack Carson is clinging to first place in pass receiving with a good chance to stay there. Carson has caught 37 passes for 532 yards, leading the country in both respects, and has three games to go. College of Pacific's Ken Buck, who caught 22 in his first three games, has grabbed only 13 in his last four for a total of 35 and 476 yards, for runner-up position in both departments.

Bob Garrett of Stanford Paul Giel of Minnesota and Johnny Lattner of Notre Dame lead, respectively, in interceptions, punt runbacks and kick-off runback efficiency.

In punting the lead has been taken over by North Carolina senior Dick Lackey, who booted the ball 219 yards in four tries Saturday against South Carolina. His average for 25 kicks is 44.6 yards, moving him ahead of last week's leader, Georgia's Brakowski, who has 42.6 for 37 kicks.

Ayden Ready

AYDEN — Ayden's Tornados wrapped up their heavy workouts yesterday with one of their roughest scrimmage sessions of the year.

The Tornados are preparing for their Homecoming Game with Beaufort tomorrow night. The game will also be the last one of the season for the Tornados who have a 3-3-1 record thus far.

The squad has been pronounced as being in top physical condition for the game and no one will miss the contest because of injuries.

Included in the Homecoming Day plans for the high school are a parade tomorrow afternoon and a dance at the Community Center after the ball game.

Marion said at St. Louis: "I don't feel too bad about it, honest I don't. To go to Baltimore with two strikes against you, like I had, would have been a pretty tough operation. But I wish 'em a lot of luck."

He said someone in the old Browns organization had given him a bad name with the Oriole management.

"As for Dykes, he said he was 'ticked to death' to be back at work as a manager again and especially pleased to be 'back with Art Ehlers."

"Art knows I'm not a yes man and I've never hesitated to tell him when I think a deal is good or bad," he said.

Marion said at St. Louis: "I don't feel too bad about it, honest I don't. To go to Baltimore with two strikes against you, like I had, would have been a pretty tough operation. But I wish 'em a lot of luck."

He said someone in the old Browns organization had given him a bad name with the Oriole management.

Election-Winner Magsaysay Is Young, Honest Soldier-Patriot

By DON RUTH
MANILA (AP)—A blacksmith's son who only 10 years ago was an unknown guerrilla captain battling Japanese invaders of the Philippines led this island republic's third President.

Ramon Magsaysay at 46 is a rising star among democratic leaders in this Communist-threatened part of the world.

To millions of Filipinos he is a knight whose shining armor is a bright sport shirt and his charger a bouncing jeep.

They turned out in record droves to give him a landslide victory over aging President Elpidio Quirino. He takes office for four years on Jan. 1.

Handsome, strapping Ramon Magsaysay is not a seasoned politician. But many political observers agree that his honesty and almost limitless energy, coupled with the fresh vision of youth, may make him an outstanding presidential administrator.

He demands results, not reasons or excuses.

As national defense secretary in the Quirino government he mercilessly slashed through red tape to get immediate action.

In fighting Communist-led Huk forces he spent as much time in the field as in his office. He drafted elaborate plans for resettling thousands of Hukos on newly developed lands on Mindanao island. And he finally split with Quirino eight months ago after trying vainly to speed up action against Huk bands.

As defense secretary Magsaysay traveled widely, listening to complaints and meting out justice on the spot. He rooted out corruption in the army and constabulary ruthlessly.

His explosive temper lashed subordinates who moved too slowly.

He became known throughout the 7,000 islands, and Filipinos began to look on him as a champion of the common people.

Two enemies of the United States during World War II gave him his chance to run for the presidency after he split with Quirino and bolted the Liberal party eight months ago.

Sen. Jose P. Laurel, President of the Philippines under the Japanese, and Claro M. Recto, Laurel's foreign minister, brought Magsaysay into the opposition Nacionalista party. Laurel withdrew as a presidential candidate and threw his support to Magsaysay.

These two men are expected to play major roles in the new government.

Magsaysay also will be able to call on veteran Carlo P. Romulo, former ambassador to Washington and U. N. delegate, who broke with Quirino, ran for president himself and finally cast his lot with Magsaysay.

The new Philippines President is a strong friend of the United States and is expected to strengthen the ties between this young republic and the country that gave it its independence.

Magsaysay stands nearly six feet and weighs about 170. He is built like a wrestler, seldom drinks and never smokes. He is highly nervous and continually cracks his knuckles, twirls his glasses or fidgets with a handkerchief.

Born Aug. 31, 1907, in Iba, Zambales province, he ran errands for his blacksmith father and helped run the small family farm.

He says he was swinging a sledgehammer at 6.

School was 10 miles from his home and Magsaysay says he remembers most vividly how cold his feet used to get in wet shoes. Even now he frequently removes his shoes to rub warmth into his toes.

He became a mechanic while attending the University of the Philippines here. He worked for a time in Zambales and later was named manager of a bus company.

When the Japanese invaded the Philippines, he took to the hills and organized a guerrilla force in western Luzon.

Later, while fighting the Hukos, he employed tactics he remembered were effective against his band. He said his guerrillas were hard to hold together when the Japanese treated Filipinos kindly. So he operated on that principle and widely advertised his resettlement plan.

The U. S. Army named Magsaysay military governor of Zambales in 1945. The following year he was elected to Congress and was re-elected in 1949.

Quirino named him defense secretary in 1950 when the Hukos were at their peak. In 2½ years he broke the back of Red-led resistance and drove the remaining guerrillas into the hills.

QUEEN COMPOTS BOY—Little Frankie Vervaris of Cedar Raids, Ia., finds his meeting with royalty a bit too exciting and bursts into tears after being lifted onto the rear platform to present a gift to Queen Frederika of Greece during a train stop in Cedar Rapids. The democratic and human qualities of the Queen are apparent as she tenderly consoles the lad who was dressed in a Greek soldier uniform. The man standing between the Queen and the boy is unidentified. (AP Wirephoto).

Urges H-Bomb Blast Be Seen By Foreigners

By ELTON C. FAY
WASHINGTON (AP)—An atomic energy commissioner suggests that foreigners, presumably including Russians, should see a U. S. hydrogen bomb exploded as a sample of the destructive alternate to world peace.

The idea, expressed by Thomas E. Murray last night, came as America was readying another and probably more fierce hydrogen test blast.

Murray, the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) member who recently announced the launching of the first program for harnessing nuclear power as industrial power, made his H-bomb suggestion in a speech at Pittsburgh.

He said first-hand observation of an H-bomb's thunder "is an essential qualification for future negotiators of the great survival issues in the years ahead." Such an American showing, he added, might persuade the Russians to match it with a demonstration of their own.

Murray said the AEC hasn't yet studied the idea in detail or reached a decision.

Foreign observers were last admitted to a major atomic test at Bikini Atoll in the Pacific in 1946.

The AEC has announced, without detail, that Bikini will be used in further atomic tests, supplementing the facilities of Eniwetok Atoll, used since 1948. There have been reports that the hydrogen test at Eniwetok last year disintegrated an island.

Murray said foreign observers again could witness a test "under very carefully controlled conditions of observation without loss of security."

This might mean they would be taken on a ship to a point within seeing distance of the explosion, but kept away from island installations of test equipment.

Eisenhower Slows Truman's Critics

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP)—The Republicans started after former President Truman in high gear. Then President Eisenhower threw on the brakes and they skidded.

Given a sharp nudge by Eisenhower, Atty. Gen. Brownell—who has far more experience in politics than the President—came up with a statement saying what he had left unsaid:

That he didn't mean to suggest Truman was disloyal when he said the ex-President promoted Harry Dexter White after the FBI sent the White House notice that White was a spy for Russia.

And Eisenhower pulled the brakes on Rep. Harold Velde (R-Ill.), chairman of the House Un-American Activities Committee, who had piled up headlines with his subpoena of Truman, Supreme Court Justice Tom Clark and South Carolina Gov. James F. Byrnes.

After Eisenhower told his news conference yesterday he would not have tried to subpoena Truman, Velde and his fellow Republicans on the committee went into a huddle to check signals.

In charging last Friday that Truman promoted White in spite of FBI warnings, Brownell seemed clearly to be saying Truman was lax. But was he suggesting Truman was deliberately lax?

He didn't say, and because he didn't the country wondered whether Brownell was questioning Truman's loyalty.

Yesterday, in his news conference, Eisenhower said it was inconceivable to him that Truman could be disloyal to America. A few hours later, Brownell issued the statement saying he didn't mean to question Truman's loyalty.

It wasn't the first time Brownell stepped in to modify something he had said before about the White case.

In his opening charge, he said FBI reports had been delivered to Truman. Three days later he toned this down to a statement that the reports had been delivered to the White House for Truman.

Gov. Byrnes, now a political foe of Truman but at the time of the FBI reports his secretary of state, said this week Truman told him he had seen the reports.

Velde and Sen. Jenner (R-Ind.), chairman of the Senate subcommittee on internal security, have Crosby, Gov. Dan Thornton, of Colorado, Art Baker, Bennett Cerf and Glen McCarthy.

Audrey Hepburn Had To Live Under Nazis

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—What makes an actress?

Somewhere in a woman's past something happens to give her the creative urge. With Audrey Hepburn it was years of life under Nazi terror.

To look at Paramount's bright new star, you wouldn't think that she had anything but the nicest kind of life. She is pert and petite, with a gay, glittering personality. Her nature has been conditioned.

"After living the long months and years under the Germans," she explained, "you dreamed what would happen if you ever got out. You swore you would never complain about anything again."

Audrey was caught in The Netherlands during the Nazi blitz. Her life during those years was a story of fear and privation. But the worst came during the seven months between the battle of Arnhem and liberation in 1945.

"Arnhem was evacuated after 'but we lived just on the outskirts. Our presence there was tolerated by the Germans, but just barely so. For seven months, we had no light, no heat, no water. We had no food, because all the shops were closed. We ate what we could find."

"During the day we merely existed. At night our only diversion was gathering around the fire. That was the only light we had—whatever wood we could find nearby."

"We couldn't talk about the day's happenings, because nothing had happened to us. So we sat around and made up stories, invented things. We entertained each other, and it helped carry our minds away from the horrible life we were leading. We could do it; we lived in another world during those nights around the fire."

Audrey admitted that if she had not been through such an experience, she might never have become an actress. "I had to learn to invent, to interpolate," she explained. "I had to create a make-believe world."

Audrey is making her first picture in Hollywood. It's called "Sabrina Fair" and she has such sterling suitors as Humphrey Bogart and William Holden seeking her hand. That shows you what Paramount thinks of its new girl.

Hollywood is a nicer place than she expected, said Audrey, who is not too sophisticated to be impressed. She seems to enjoy the attention she is getting, especially from comedians. Groucho Marx recently squired her to a party at the Bogart's, and her studio dressing room is between those of Danny Kaye and Jerry Lewis. That suits her fine: "I love to laugh."

She will leave after the end of the picture and head for New York, where she plans to do a play.

Dream Of Peace In Country Is Quickly Broken

BARKHAMSTED, Conn. (AP)—Carl Schoonmaker and his family moved from the city to a home on Goose Neck Road here a year ago because they wanted peace and quiet. Here are some of the things that happened since then: a ring-necked snake built a nest in the back yard; Schoonmaker almost tripped over a growling fox while running to chase rabbits out of his garden, the three Schoonmakers boys made a pet of a pheasant but have trouble feeding it because chickadees dive-bomb them whenever they appear with bread crumbs; the family collie is almost a psychopathic case because a raccoon steals its super nearly every night and only recently Schoonmaker was putting his shotgun away (after missing a shot at a lynx) when he found a bat asleep behind the kitchen stove.

Council Solves Scratch Problem

SAN DIEGO Calif. (AP)—San Diego's city council has stopped scratching at meetings.

At the suggestion of the county sanitarian, the council room ventilation system was examined. A next with a dead bird, source of nits that had bothered the city fathers, was removed.

Stork Bolsters Livestock Sale

FRANKLIN, Ind. Ind. (AP)—A farm livestock sale arranged by Mrs. Thomas O. Owens and C.L. Poynter Jr. was right on time.

During the sale, a Brown Swiss cow had twin calves. Three days earlier, a Holstein bore twins. A week earlier two sows had litters. All mothers and their little dividends were sold.

Figures Lawyer Is Superfluous

TRENTON, Mo. (AP)—Magistrate George Hubbell reminded the man he could demand a lawyer in his car that trial.

"Yes, Judge," the fellow responded. "But what do I want with a lawyer? They caught me with the car."

Since 1925, the average life of the average U.S. motor vehicle when scrapped has increased from 6.5 years to 14 years and the average mileage from 25,750 to 121,000.

Television Grows In North Carolina At Rapid Rate; More Stations Soon

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Television is a fast growing business in North Carolina. Four new stations have gone on the air in recent months. Two more are to be telecasting before the end of the year and at least three others plan to make it next year. It is likely that 1954 also will see the opening of stations in some of the bigger cities where there has been a contest as to who is going to operate them.

Television is nothing new, of course, to thousands of viewers in North Carolina. WBTV, Channel 3, Charlotte, pioneered with the first station in July, 1949. WEMY-TV, Channel 2, Greensboro, followed a few months later. As they increased their power gradually, their signals covered a big chunk of the state. More recently stations at Norfolk and Roanoke, Va., also put their pictures into portions of North Carolina.

But the big development started when the Federal Communications Commission reallocated television channels and lifted its freeze on applications in 1952. The FCC had found that the 12 TV channels it had planned weren't enough to meet the demand and stations also were going to interfere with each other. So the commission simply clamped on a freeze while its engineers studied the whole picture again.

They reallocated most of the original VHF (very high frequency) channels numbered 2 through 13, and created a whole new group of channels numbered 14 through 83. These latter are UHF (ultra high frequency) channels.

Meanwhile, millions of sets were made to receive the VHF signals from the relatively few stations which beat the freeze-like Charlotte and Greensboro.

Since most of the existing sets would receive only Channels 2-13 and UHF transmissions would cover only limited areas compared to VHF, most prospective TV operators wanted the VHF channels where they were available. This resulted in competition for the available channels and required a FCC hearing to determine the winner. These hearings started only recently.

The competition tied up VHF channels in Asheville, Winston-Salem, Raleigh Durham and Charlotte (which has two). The first hearing is scheduled Nov. 13 on the Durham conflict. Others should follow shortly after Jan. 1.

Some prospective operators then turned to the UHF channels. Existing sets can be converted to receive UHF signals. But most of the applicants were from the large er cities. They had little trouble getting grants and only slow deliveries of equipment kept them off the air for a time.

But the rush for channels wasn't so great in the smaller communities and TV men are dubious as to whether there ever will be applications for all the UHF channels in smaller cities. Some 25 channels still lack applicants.

It costs a lot of money to put on a television program and this means there must be a lot of advertising revenue. It also means the station must be attractive to one or more of the four television networks.

Groups from Rocky Mount, Wilson, Greenville and other cities got together on a VHF station at Greenville to serve all those cities. This will be WNCT-TV, Channel 9, and its officials hope to be telecasting within a few weeks.

A group of radio station owners formed another company to build another VHF station in eastern North Carolina, but so far they haven't applied for either of the two open VHF channels. They are Channel 13 at New Bern and Channel 7 at Washington, N. C.

Three of the new North Carolina stations are UHF. They are WISE-TV, Channel 62 Asheville; WNAO-TV, Channel 28, Raleigh; and WTOB-TV, Channel 26, Winston-Salem. Meanwhile, the several applicants for Channel 12 (VHF) at Winston-Salem went together in a single application and WSJS-TV got on the air only a few weeks after the UHF station.

The five additional stations which have announced they will be on the air before the end of 1954 are WUNC-TV, Channel 4 (VHF), Chapel Hill, next September; WAYS-TV, Channel 36 (UHF), Charlotte, Dec. 1; WCIG-TV, Channel 46 (UHF), Durham; WNCN-TV, and WMFD-TV, Channel 6 (VHF), Wilmington, sometime next spring.

The FCC has granted three additional UHF construction permits. Two of these are to smaller cities, Goldsboro and Mount Airy. The third is to Greensboro.

In Mount Airy, Ralph D. Epperson, general manager of the proposed new station, said he "cannot report much progress" in the construction of his station.

"While UHF has met with success in a number of our large cities, to my knowledge it has not been given a trial in the smaller towns," Epperson continued. "Although at the present time the UHF broadcaster is confronted with more problems than his VHF counterpart, I believe the time will soon come when these differences will be history. Under many circumstances UHF has demonstrated that it can produce a superior picture."

But Epperson added that he wants to observe how stations "in circumstances similar to my own make out" before he builds. Hendersonville asked for and got a construction permit for a UHF station but sent it back recently. B. M. Middleton, president of Radio Hendersonville Inc., said his company does not believe that small market advertising will offset operation expenses.

Noting what he termed "a sharp change in attitude of national advertisers and networks toward new station operation," Middleton declared: "There must be revenue to cover an investment of a quarter million dollars. In my talks with networks, I found that their interests lie with the first 100 markets of the country. My opinion is that with the present trend the small market, and I mean under 100,000 population, can't make it go to TV with or without a network. Without a network, no one should even start."

On the brighter side of the TV picture, representatives are talking enthusiastically of the medium's future improvements. Color now is a popular subject. WBTV has promised network color by the spring of next year.

The University of North Carolina's educational station—WUNC, Channel 4—is scheduled to open next fall. It will have studios at Chapel Hill, Raleigh and Greensboro. More than a million dollars have been raised in private funds to finance the venture.

Elsewhere little has been done toward educational TV. The FCC also allocated VHF channels for education at Asheville, Charlotte, Durham, Greensboro, Raleigh, Wilmington and Winston-Salem, but there have been no applicants.

Charles Crutchfield, general manager of WBTV noted that progress by state TV developers has been attained through astute attention to public interest and need. He said quality in programming, promotion and technical aspects of TV took precedence from the medium's beginning.

Pretty Betty Grable Is Hitting The Road

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Betty Grable is hitting the road to face audiences for the first time in 13 years.

The beautiful blonde and her trumpet-playing husband, Harry James, open at a Chicago theater late this month. They'll play for one week only at fabulous terms—70 per cent of the gross.

Mrs. James, who proclaims her own tendency to laziness, is hard at work these days in dance rehearsals for the act. I nabbed her between numbers and she confessed a sinking fear of facing an audience.

"I haven't been on a stage since before the Fox days," she remarked. "Yipes, I'm scared!" The Chicago date will be a baptism of fire for her.

"I'm not going to slough it off," she explained. "I've seen too many stars go out on the road and give the old 'I'm glad to be here' routine and that's all. I think that's all. I think you're cheating the public when you do that. They want entertainment and I'm going to give it to them."

Betty said she would be more scared except for the fact that she will be surrounded by people who worked with her at Fox. Her designer, Bill Travilla, did the costumes. Billy Daniels, who has done her dances in films, will direct the show and dance with her. Al Seigel, formerly dance coordinator at the studio, will stage manage, and her long-time hairdresser, Marie Braselle, will be along too.

But the thought of the audience gives Betty chills. She wouldn't even attend last week's premiere of her swan song at 20th-Fox, "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying."

"I've never been to a premiere in my life," she said. "Any of them would terrify me, and one of a picture I was in would be even worse. I'm just like Alice Faye and Marilyn Monroe in the fear of such occasions. I remember I picked up Marilyn to go to a big party once, and she was shaking she was so scared."

Installation Plan Prize For Him

NOWATA, Okla. (AP)—Jack Gordon was named winner of a church contest to attract workers to a kickoff breakfast opening a Boy Scout fund drive. First prize, he was told, would be a year's supply of eggs. He figured that to be about 40 dozen. He'll have to get the eggs on the installment plan. First prize actually was a champion egg-laying hen.

No Gloomy View By Demo Wives

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON (AP)—Many prominent former Democratic officeholders are hanging onto their Washington apartments while their womenfolk clan together quietly whooping up a campaign to get the party back into power.

Determined and confident they rallied recently at a tea for their popular new leader, handsome, blonde Katie Louchheim, who succeeds Mrs. India Edwards as director of women's activities of the Democratic National Committee.

"I've got a lot of plans," Katie told me, as she stood in the receiving line at the Women's National Democratic Club with its president, Mrs. Oscar Chapman, wife of the former Secretary of the Interior.

The husbands of some of the women now are in private law practice here. A few of the former Democratic officials have obtained new jobs or assignments that keep them in Washington. Others are back home helping in election campaigns.

"The Democrats have always been here to stay," one woman put in, "we've never stopped working a minute. I've never seen such a spirit."

The Republicans expected to see the moving vans roll in, Mrs. Leverett Edwards, wife of a member of the National Mediation Board, added. "Now, they're treating us like we're the old residents and asking our advice."

Greeting guests at the door were Mrs. Clifford Davis, wife of the Congressman from Tennessee and Mrs. Mrs. Amie Forand, wife of the Congressman from Rhode Island. Assisting at the pow-wow were Mrs. Jesse Donaldson, wife of the former Postmaster General, and the wife of Donaldson's former assistant, Mrs. Vincent Burke.

Others were Mrs. Dale Doty, wife of the Federal Power Commissioner; Mrs. John Stennis, the Mississippi Senator's wife and Mrs. Wright Patman wife of the Congressman from Texas.

Big Three Hope Parley Will Spur Defense Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—U. S. officials are preparing for the Big Three conference at Bermuda next month in the belief it should spur lasting Western defenses against the Soviet threat.

Diplomatic authorities here say British Prime Minister Churchill may press upon President Eisenhower and French Premier Laniel his interest in meeting with Russian Premier Malenkov.

But there is no expectation that Eisenhower will change his recently expressed view that a Big Four session under present conditions would be perfectly hopeless.

The key to the American approach to the Bermuda conference opening about Dec. 4 lies in the toughness, as it is regarded here, of the Soviet note on Nov. 3 re-buffing a proposal for a foreign ministers meeting on Germany. The note in effect told the Western Powers negotiations were impossible so long as they persisted in building up their defenses under the North Atlantic Treaty and the proposed European Defense Community.

High authorities here said today the Western answer must be to get on with the defense job regardless of what opportunities for negotiation may continue to be offered to Moscow.

This means primarily that Eisenhower and Churchill can be expected to press upon Laniel arguments for quick French action on the EDC Treaty, presumably emphasizing these two points:

1. There are not enough defense troops in Western Europe now, without West Germany, which would be rearmed under the EDC pact.

2. With Congress coming back in session in January, concrete evidence must shortly be provided that Western Europe is getting on with its defense arrangements if Congress is to be expected to vote more funds for foreign aid.

ALL-MALE CLASS
GOULD, Okla. (AP)—The Gould High School junior class is an all-male affair now, which makes it hard for class plays and dances. The last junior girl, Osa Belle Mills, who also was class president, was married last week and left school.

A WALKY GAWKY is a customer who shops before she reads a newspaper.

She hot-foots it from store to store looking for the things she wants to buy—straining her eyes and burning up her shoes.

Fortunately the WALKY GAWKY is a rare bird—almost extinct. Because practically all women everywhere read their newspapers before they shop. It's easier on the feet that way—as well as the pocketbook.

When a woman picks up the paper she's looking for all that's going on in her town now. In the stores as well as in the streets and schools. At the counters as well as at the women's club and the court house.

That's why people who have something to sell depend on the newspaper to help 'em sell it fast.

That's why the newspaper comes first—with the most advertisers who want to make sales fast!

All business is local... and so are all newspapers!

Guided Missile May Someday Be Tornado-Spoiler

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—A guided missile may someday be fired into the roaring heart of a tornado and save a city like Waco, Tex., from such damage and death left there last spring.

Two scientists believe it completely practical and possible of achievement in the near future.

Dr. Fritz H. Rossmann, a German physicist and meteorologist brought to this country by the Air Force six months ago, has propounded a new theory that contradicts a 50-year-old idea about tornado behavior.

Col. Rollins H. Mayer, electronic scientist at the Air Force missile test center, Patrick Air Force Base, Fla., where Rossmann is working, says the theory makes possible a national tornado-damage prevention net capable of saving millions of dollars and thousands of lives.

Rossmann and Mayer were here to present papers and propose the net at the 125th annual meeting of the American Meteorological Society.

Rossmann claims there is a terrifically powerful downdraft in the funnel of a tornado—not an updraft as has long been believed.

His plan is to pinch off this funnel from the cloud that is feeding it its destructive, whirling, downdraft power. He thinks a guided missile exploded into the air mass overhanging the funnel will do the job.

The old impression of an updraft in a tornado's funnel is created, he told The Associated Press, by the downdraft jet striking the ground or water then bouncing back upward outside the funnel.

Mayer predicted tornado destruction might be achieved in 5 or 10 years if sufficient support can be mustered for necessary study and research.

The kind of net he proposes would consist of mobile anti-tornado stations, assembled at airports near large cities where tornadoes might be expected.

Into the net would be fed tornado forecasts, radar detection, warning and tracking data. Jet planes with tornado destruction missiles could be standing by.

CHARGE ESPIONAGE

HELSINKI, Finland (AP)—Finnish authorities continued a probe into alleged spy activities today after announcing the arrest of five men, including an officer and an Air Force sergeant, on charges of spying for an unidentified foreign power. They were arrested Oct. 27 at Jyväskylä, in central Finland, near a Finnish air base.

Former Greenville Soldier Awarded Medal For Korea Services

The Bronze Star Medal with "V" Device was presented to First Lieutenant Johnny F. Corey at Hampton Roads Port of Embarkation by Colonel Frederick T. Voorhees, Port Commander, in a ceremony in the Colonel's office. Lieutenant Corey was awarded the medal for heroism in combat while with the First Cavalry Division during the early stages of the Korean conflict in 1950. He is a native of Greenville, N. C., and a former editor of the Wallace (N. C.) Enterprise. The citation read that Corey, while on a mission to capture enemy prisoners for interrogation purposes, was wounded in the shoulder by small arms fire. In spite of his serious wound, he refused to be evacuated until replaced by another officer. With exemplary leadership of the patrol, stated the citation, Corey directed fire upon the enemy, causing the patrol's mission. Lieutenant Corey resides at 515 Timothy Avenue, Norfolk, with his wife and two children, Michael and Paris.

Heart Ailment Idea Challenged

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Reporter
NEW YORK (AP)—The idea that being overweight makes you easier to a heart disease—unless you are sure you are really a fat but-terball—was challenged today by a famous researcher in physiology. Dr. Ancel Keys presented the evidence giving some reassurance to those on the heavy side to the American Public Health Assn. He is director of the laboratory of physiological hygiene, School of Public Health, University of Minnesota.

He urged more research to discover the reasons why Americans suffer more heart disease and deaths than people in many other countries.

"Overweight of itself, except in extreme degree is not a primary cause of coronary disease," he said, obesity has been singled out as the public enemy No. 1, and an anti-obesity campaign is underway.

But he cited reasons for questioning these statistics, unless a person is truly fat—such as 50 pounds overweight for a man of average height.

For he declared, there is a real difference between overweight due to fatness and heaviness due to muscularity or body build. Dr. Keys cited studies which found little significant difference in relative body weights of persons who had died of or survived heart attacks and others who had not had heart disease.

These showed little or no evidence for "explaining" heart disease as a simple matter of being overweight, he said.

Self-Defense Claim In Slaying Of Spouse

WENTWORTH, N. C. (AP)—The fatal shooting of her husband in the bedroom of their home was done in self-defense, Mrs. Frances Carter Proctor testified here yesterday.

Mrs. Proctor, an attractive 32-year-old redhead, is charged with the shooting of her husband, Lawrence Proctor, 52, last Sept. 2. He died the next day.

She was one of the first witnesses called to the stand after the trial opened in Rockingham Superior Court yesterday. The state is asking a verdict of second degree murder.

Mrs. Proctor testified her husband ordered her to leave their house the night of the shooting. She said he backed her against a wall and threatened to kill her because she had not done so. While she was packing, she said, he returned and made a "vicious move" toward her. It was then she snatched a pistol from under a pillow and shot, she said.

During their 12 years of marriage, Mrs. Proctor testified, her husband, a taxi company operator and tobacco speculator, had beaten her many times. She said he was quarrelsome and abusive when drinking. One time, she said, her husband knocked her into the bathroom where he stood on her and stamped his feet on her chest. Ray Roberts, a policeman who found the wounded man in the bedroom, quoted Mrs. Proctor as saying she shot her husband.

John Proctor, 75, the dead man's father, and a neighbor, Mrs. Reuben Smothers, both testified that they had heard Mrs. Proctor say she would shoot her husband.

The marriage was the first for Mrs. Proctor and the second for Proctor, who had been divorced.

Special Venire Called In Case

BAYBORO, N. C. (AP)—A special venire from Lenoir County was called here today in an attempt to select a jury in the case of Pamlico County Recorder's Court Judge T. B. Woodard charged with taking bribes while in office.

After a venire of 125 was exhausted yesterday, Superior Court Judge J. Paul Frizzelle asked for the special venire. He said apparently it was impossible to get a jury from Pamlico County. Many of yesterday's venire said they had formed an opinion in the case.

EDEN'S NEW AIDE

LONDON (AP)—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden has a new aide in his office today. Prime Minister Churchill announced he has named the Marquess of Reading as minister of state for foreign affairs. Selwyn Lloyd, Britain's chief delegate to the United Nations holds the same title. A government spokesman said the new appointment would not affect Lloyd's post.

Camera News

Showing home movies is the occasion for more apologies, excuses and explanations for the average camera fan probably, than any other phase of photography. That's because in no other field of photography is so much bad film saved and shown to viewers. Partly because even the worst mistakes as well as the simplest revisions call for: a) equipment and b) time, a lot of home movie fans skip the important job of cutting and splicing film to improve it. Then again, fans have a natural reluctance to part with expensive movie film where there is the slightest semblance of an image, no matter how bad.

Three Religious Education Workers Address Presbyterian Men's Club

Three religious education workers from Greenville churches spoke to the Men's Club of the Presbyterian Church on their work at the regular monthly meeting last night. The club was served a turkey supper after which President Badger Johnson presided over a business session in which routine business was discussed. Rev. Leonard W. Topping pronounced the invocation.

For the program Miss Rachael Cordel, teacher of the Protestant Kindergarten spoke on her work. She said that the kindergarten places emphasis on physical training, special ability, and social training. Miss Gloria Blanton director of the Baptist Student Center at East Carolina College was the second speaker of the night. She stated that her work at the Baptist Student Center consisted of teaching and instructing on prayer and worship and the meaning of religious understanding.

The third speaker of the evening was Mrs. Ellis Bedsworth of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church. She emphasized that her work at the church consisted of directing religious education. The next regular meeting of the Men's Club was canceled because of other religious activities that would conflict with the December 9 meeting date. A large number of club members were present for the meeting.

Court Will Hear Rate Case Today

RALEIGH (AP) — The State Supreme Court was ready to hear arguments today on the Southern Bell Telephone Co. rate case. Arguments were slated to start yesterday but were delayed until today because of a heavy court docket.

The Utilities Commission granted the company a rate increase of $1,648,056 annually. The company had asked for approximately 3 1/2 million. Both the company and the attorney general's office appealed the decision to Superior Court.

The state then appealed to the Supreme Court from a ruling made by Judge William H. Bobbitt in Mecklenburg Superior Court. A big question to be answered is how to compute the value of the company's property in North Carolina. Valuation is used as a base in setting rates to give a company a fair return on its investment.

Should the Utilities Commission base the allowance for depreciation upon the original cost of the property or the replacement cost? Judge Bobbitt held that the commission should consider "replacement cost" in determining the value of the company's property.

Commission Chairman Stanley Winborne said that if the Supreme Court affirms Judge Bobbitt's ruling, Southern Bell would be entitled to a bigger rate increase than it received.

Charge Theft Of State Secrets In British Colony

KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP) — A former education minister of this British colony and a newspaper reporter have been arrested on charges of conspiracy in connection with "state secrets."

The action was taken yesterday against ex-Minister Lester Simmonds, fired last month by Gov. Sir Hugh Foot on the recommendation of Prime Minister Alexander Bustamante, and Vincent Truman, a reporter for the Kingston Daily Gleaner.

National party leader Norman Manley charged recently that secret documents of the colony's Executive Council have been sold to Kingston merchants with one tipoff alone costing the government more than $250,000 in revenue.

Highway Patrol Now Operating 3 Traffic Schools

RALEIGH (AP) — The State Highway Patrol now has three traffic schools in operation for traffic law violators—and volunteer citizens.

The first school was opened at Fuquay Springs in August. It proved so successful that two more have been started this week at Roxboro and Henderson, it was announced yesterday by Motor Vehicles Commissioner Ed Scheidt.

He said approximately 450 persons have graduated from the Fuquay Springs school which is operated by Patrol Sgt. R. H. Chadwick of Raleigh. Half of the graduates were traffic law violators sent there by Fuquay Springs Recorder's Court Judge W. I. Roland. The other graduates were volunteers.

When traffic violators are summoned before Judge Roland they learn about the traffic school when he suspends a fine for speeding or reckless driving on other traffic offenses. The suspension is made provided the violator attends the school for three successive Monday nights and graduates.

The school is held in the City Hall and the course includes: safety films, various demonstrations, talks on motor vehicle laws, rules of the roads, and the function of the Highway Patrol.

Scheidt said the "students" who have graduated are solidly in favor of the school. There have been such vaudeville comments as: "It's taught me my mistake. . . Every speeder ought to come here. . . It should cause less accidents on the highways. . . One of the finest things that ever happened in North Carolina."

House Guttled By Fire Yesterday

A residence owned by Betty Tucker, 615 Reade Street, was gutted by fire around 2:15 p. m. yesterday. Towering clouds of smoke were visible for most of the Greenville area. Firemen are caught by the camera as they played a heavy stream of water on the flames.

Typing Expert In Lecture At ECC

George L. Hossfield, ten times winner of the world's Professional Championship in typing and a consultant on typewriting methods and techniques, gave a lecture and demonstration to business education students at East Carolina College today.

College Theatre. Alton Finch, faculty member of the department of business education, was in charge of arrangements for the demonstration.

Mr. Hossfield spoke to his audience, composed largely of future teachers of business education, on "Modern Teaching Methods to Develop Typing Skill" and in both his talk and his demonstration of typing techniques put emphasis on the importance of the electric typewriter in modern business offices.

An author and lecturer, Mr. Hossfield is director of Underwood Corporation's Teachers Advisory Service. He has written numerous articles on the subject of typewriting; is the author of a widely used one hand typing text for the handicapped; and has lectured in schools, colleges and universities, and at important business teachers conventions throughout the United States and Canada.

At present he is making an educational lecture-demonstration tour, during which he will visit teachers training colleges and universities in various parts of the country.

See Big Savings If Rates Adopted

RALEIGH (AP) — The National Bureau of Casualty Underwriters has proposed reductions in certain general liability bodily injury rates which would save North Carolina policyholders approximately $100,000 annually.

The plan will be outlined at a public hearing here Dec. 9, it was reported yesterday by Acting Insurance Commissioner Charles Hosteler.

Rates on bodily injury liability for manufacturers and contractors would be reduced by 23.1 per cent. Rates for owners, landlords and tenants would be lowered by 11.4 per cent. The coverage protects against liability for injuries sustained in accidents on their premises.

Says India Seeks To Avoid Strife

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit, president of the United Nations General Assembly, says India wants the right to remain neutral in the East-West conflict and live her own life.

India admires what America stands for, she told a meeting of Women in World Affairs yesterday, but "she doesn't want to be an imitation of you." "She wants the right to decide her own life and to determine her own relation to the rest of the world," Mrs. Pandit continued.

Author Ignored Advice And Had Big Success

By W.G. ROGERS
Associated Press Arts Editor
NEW YORK (AP) — "Whatever you do," Samuel Shellabarger's literary agent advised him a decade ago, "don't do a historical novel."

And just to rub it in, the agent added: "There's nothing so unpopular as the historical novel."

So Dr. Shellabarger has written four of them. All four including the one just out "Lord Vanity" (Little, Brown), have been Literary Guild selections. Two of them already have been turned into movies, and the movies have bought the new one. Sales of the first three, in all editions, and in a baker's dozen of languages north and south, east and west, run to an estimated 4 1/2 million.

Dr. Shellabarger doesn't look like the sort of man to shut his ears to stern, emphatic warnings. A former teacher, once headmaster of a girls' school, he has the gentle manners of the headmaster of a girls' school. He also has gray eyebrows, graying and disappearing hair, and a pink complexion.

So he looks even less like the sort of man to think up black-hearted villains, to drive beautiful heroines to the bitter tears, or to temper his heroes in the hottest and most unbearable fires — you will remember plenty of examples in "Captain From Castle," "Prince of Foxes" and "The King's Cavalier."

What makes historical novels so popular?

"In the first place," Dr. Shellabarger answers, "what is a historical novel? It isn't just a book with a bosom showing on the jacket."

"Furthermore," he continues, "it isn't just a costume piece, pleasant as one of them can be, for instance, 'Monsieur Beaucaire.'"

"People forget how many empen novels are historical," he says. He names "Romola," "Henry Esmond" and "Tale of Two Cities." The modern historical novel as we know it began with Scott. Its present popularity started with Hervey Allen's "Anthony Adverse," which was published in 1933, and Margaret Mitchell's "Gone With the Wind," in 1936, gave it a big boost.

"As it has been called," Dr. Shellabarger explains, "it is in fact a welcome escape from the terrible problems of the present into a past in which the problems have all been solved. It offers different bonuses to the reader. If the author is careful, he provides a valuable picture of the past. Unless the author is a historian, he can't do a good historical." Dr. Shellabarger has written two historical works, "The Chevalier Bayard" and "Lord Chesterfield."

Speaking for the Literary Guild Miss Jay Turner notes that out of its 12 annual choices, there is an average of four historicals. "Letters from our readers," she says, "contain opinions like these: 'I hated history in school, it was so dull. But this novel has got real people in it. This is the way I like to read about the past.'"

Dr. Shellabarger says: "Historical novels are not popular when age is at peace. Scott won his great following during the Napoleonic upheaval. Nowadays we again live in an unsure world, and are conscious of staggering problems."

He spent three years in researching for and writing "Lord Vanity." He has his own big library, and Princeton facilities are available. That didn't do the job. He had to come to New York, for instance, to learn enough about 18th-century Venetian galleys to put his hero aboard one. Of the numerous foreign languages with which he is familiar, he resorted to four to get the material needed: Latin, Italian, French and German.

His original story idea was the relationship of Lord Chesterfield to his illegitimate son, Philip Stanhope — who are leading characters under different names in "Lord Vanity." But for all the historical background, there are up-to-the-minute touches. The traits of living people, he says, are worked into his 18th-century men and women — Princeton professors or Little, Brown editors in cape and sword, no doubt, or one of their wives or daughters the intriguing and mysterious belle of the ball.

UNC Dean Joins Ford Foundation

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. (AP)—Dean Thomas H. Carroll of the University of North Carolina School of Business Administration will join the Ford Foundation as an associate director.

Chancellor Robert B. House announced yesterday that Dr. Carroll's resignation will become effective in June. Carroll now is in charge of the foundation's planning and operations program in the field of economic development and administration. He has been on a part-time basis since taking the post last summer.

Chancellor House said he will appoint a committee to advise the administration on the selection of a new dean.

Agriculture Secretary Benson 'Not Interested' In Popularity

By OVID A. MARTIN
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson, target of some farm leaders and congressmen because of his farm policies, declared today he is not interested in "personal popularity."

The GOP farm chief said he is striking ahead in an effort to develop a sound agricultural program that would serve "all of agriculture" and "all the people."

In a speech prepared for a meeting of the Association of Land Grant Colleges and Universities, Benson said it would have been "comparatively easy" for him to "yield to the demands . . . to go off on a round of patchwork programming."

"There is no easy panacea for agriculture," he declared. "There is no magic formula that will get everything right. Patchwork remedies — quick remedies — patent medicine remedies — are a dime a dozen, and that's all some of them are worth."

Benson has been highly critical of rigid high-level price support features of existing farm law. He has contended they price crops out of markets, create surpluses and bring on unwanted production controls.

Some farm leaders and lawmakers who favor the present program have demanded that Benson resign. President Eisenhower has said he is standing back of his Cabinet official.

Benson took a slap at those who are urging continuation of the present 90 per cent of parity price supports for major crops beyond the 1954 expiration date. Parity, a standard for measuring farm prices, is declared by law to be fair to farmers as well as consumers in relation to prices farmers must pay.

"I am firmly convinced," Benson said, "that we should, and that we can, and that we must, help American farmers achieve full parity — and achieve it in the right place, the market place. And we must do it while preserving, and increasing, the essence of freedom."

Benson said a sound farm program must build better farm markets, develop new uses for farm products, show farmers how to develop balanced farming plans and increase their efficiency.

He called upon the land grant colleges to help develop such a program.

With delivery of his Columbus speech, Benson heads into drought-distressed areas of the Southwest on a five-day inspection tour.

Baby's Thumb Sucking Not Especially Harmful

By DOROTHY V. WHIPPLE, M.D.
AP News-writer

Many parents hate to see a child suck his thumb. The habit really doesn't do much harm but since it can often be easily stopped in quite young babies it's worth while to understand about sucking and why the baby does it.

Nature has provided babies with a desire to suck. This of course is very useful since it is by sucking that a baby gets his nourishment. However, a baby's need to suck and his need for food are two independent needs. Usually, of course, they come out even, when the sucking need is satisfied the baby has had enough to eat.

Every once in a while we find a baby in whom the two needs do not come out even. The baby has had all he wants to eat but he still wants to suck. Such a baby will find something to suck and of course the fingers are the handiest thing and we see thumb sucking develop.

If we can prolong the feeding time we can often arrange it so that the baby does get enough sucking while he is eating. If he is breast fed just let him stay at the breast a little longer even if there is no more milk in the breast. If he is bottle fed get some new nipples with smaller holes and let him take his milk more slowly. Usually this will give him enough sucking so that when he has had enough to eat he no longer wants to suck.

Sometimes, however, we find a baby who wants to suck so much that it doesn't seem possible to prolong the feeding long enough to satisfy his sucking needs. For such a baby try giving him a pacifier immediately after each feeding. The pacifier will take the place of his thumb. It advantage is that eventually it will disappear when he is old enough not to need to suck to get his food. If he finishes his sucking on his thumb he is apt to continue to suck it long after he would normally give up sucking.

The baby who needs a lot of sucking should not be given solid foods as early as the child with less of a desire to suck. If we supply a large part of his nourishment with spoon fed food we deprive him of some sucking and he goes after his thumb with increased vigor.

The eager sucker will probably wean later than the baby who is not so avid about sucking. Paul was one of these eager suckers. His mother told me that once he spied his bottle she couldn't get another bite of solid food into him. She had

Seven Jurors To Be Chosen Today In Dockery Trial

MURPHY, N. C. (AP)—Seven more jurors were to be selected today before presentation of evidence in the Noah Dockery murder trial could get underway here.

A second venire of 125 Cherokee County citizens was ordered to report today after the first venire was exhausted yesterday with only six jurors picked.

District Solicitor Thad D. Bryson Jr. of Bryson City said yesterday presentation of the evidence likely would start this afternoon. Dockery, a woodcutter, is charged with the slaying of Cherokee County Sheriff Frank Crawford last March 3.

As a result of a previous trial, Dockery was sentenced to death April 18. The new trial was ordered after the State Supreme Court ruled a special prosecutor made improper remarks to the jury.

UNC Dean Joins Ford Foundation

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. (AP)—Dean Thomas H. Carroll of the University of North Carolina School of Business Administration will join the Ford Foundation as an associate director.

Chancellor Robert B. House announced yesterday that Dr. Carroll's resignation will become effective in June. Carroll now is in charge of the foundation's planning and operations program in the field of economic development and administration. He has been on a part-time basis since taking the post last summer.

Chancellor House said he will appoint a committee to advise the administration on the selection of a new dean.

The Dead Sea is about one-fifth the size of the Great Salt Lake.

Seven Jurors To Be Chosen Today In Dockery Trial

MURPHY, N. C. (AP)—Seven more jurors were to be selected today before presentation of evidence in the Noah Dockery murder trial could get underway here.

A second venire of 125 Cherokee County citizens was ordered to report today after the first venire was exhausted yesterday with only six jurors picked.

District Solicitor Thad D. Bryson Jr. of Bryson City said yesterday presentation of the evidence likely would start this afternoon. Dockery, a woodcutter, is charged with the slaying of Cherokee County Sheriff Frank Crawford last March 3.

As a result of a previous trial, Dockery was sentenced to death April 18. The new trial was ordered after the State Supreme Court ruled a special prosecutor made improper remarks to the jury.

Caught Four Men

APPONAUG, R. I. (AP)—Several men went duck hunting yesterday but they weren't after ducks. They were fish and game wardens, fully equipped as duck hunters, but actually after men shell-fishing in polluted waters.

They chased and caught four men in their motorboat.

THERE OUGHTA BE A LAW!

By FAGALY and SHOR

ON THE HOUSE

By DAVID G. BAREUTHER, AP Real Estate Editor

OIL, GAS and electricity have enjoyed so much balldhood lately as home heating fuels that the advantages of coal, used in millions of established homes, seem to have been sadly neglected.

Many people seem to have the notion that you can't have a neatly finished basement and that you can't have automatic heat if you burn coal. They have this notion because they have never seen automatic stokers and ash removers in operation — feeding anthracite into modern home heating plants and vacuuming out the ashes.

The Anthracite Industry Committee, comprising representatives of 22 producing companies, tells us that more than five million homes are now heated with hard coal and that automatic equipment is heating the average dwelling at less cost than competitive fuels in 90 per cent of the anthracite marketing area. In some areas the use of hard coal chalks up savings of 40 per cent.

So the use of coal in home heating is something for the prospective home builder to investigate as well as something for the coal user to continue to consider.

An interesting architectural development which has come about through the use of automatic stokers is an underground coal bin removed from the basement, similar to underground oil tanks which are required by law in many communities.

These bins are built on a slant toward the stoker. The coal truck pulls up to the curb in front of the house. A metal hatch is opened and the anthracite is poured into the underground storage.

This system makes hard coal one of the cleanest of all fuels. Since it burns with a blue flame, it does not smoke or create excessive soot. The anthracite committee says it is being specified more and more for civic cleanliness by smoke abatement and anti-air-pollution authorities.

There's a lot to that cleanliness feature of stoker-fed hard coal. I contrast, a reader recently wrote this department about an oil mess he had on his hands. A small 275-gallon oil tank in his basement sprang a leak and ruined his floor covering of asphalt tile before the mishap was discovered. Since his house was less than three years old, could the builder who supplied and installed the tank be held responsible for the damage? It is doubtful that you could find any builder standing back of his job more than for a short time after title has passed.

The Anthracite industry is now putting on quite a campaign to keep people from forgetting about hard coal. Statistics are being compiled showing less incidence of fire or explosion in homes heated with this fuel. Another study is designed to show less likelihood of respiratory illness among children under 16 and adults over 60 in anthracite heated homes.

The latter probably is based on the constant heat provided by a coal fire in contrast to on-and-off intermittent heat which tends to create cold air pockets in a house. Well, it is interesting to know that one ton of hard coal provides the same heat value as 176.8 gallons of fuel oil, 46,750 cubic feet of manufactured gas, or 24,760 cubic feet of natural gas.

And it's comforting to know that reserves of anthracite are supposed to be good for more than 150 years.

Bovine Thought She Was A Deer

After one confinement period failed to cure Honey of her roving eye, her owner, Charles (Red) Warren went after her with a gun. Honey became hamburger.

Family Of Seven Joins Forces To Live On Budget

By GAY FAULEY United Press Staff Correspondent NEW YORK (U.P.)—The family budget can be stretched even farther.

It may mean that father becomes the family barber and mother settles for last year's hemlines.

But there's hope for those about to surrender in the battle of the bills. This hope is in a book by a couple with five children who learned how to stretch their income the hard way—by necessity. They say they managed without feeling they were depriving themselves.

Robert and Helen Cissell found the cost of living increasingly out of control as their family grew. Mrs. Cissell has been teaching home economics and her husband is a professor of family economics at Xavier University, Cincinnati.

Three Methods Open The two say there are three ways to handle family finances—two bad, and one good.

"One is the wrong method," they said, "is for a family to try to get enough money to buy everything wanted by everyone in the family. A family will never win this way. Uncontrolled wants will invariably out-distance even a rapidly rising income."

"The second wrong answer is for the parents to shirk their duty, limiting the size of the family, so that the few survivors may have all the gadgets they want."

The right way, the Cissells said, is to set a standard of living which is within your income and control material wants. And let the whole family plan the budget.

Their book "Stretching The Family Income" (Joseph P. Wagner, New York), recommends budgeting by the year, but figuring expenses on a day-to-day basis instead of weekly or monthly.

Cut Fixed Expenses

"When reducing the daily expenses fails to balance the budget, start whittling on the so-called fixed expenses," they said. "The answer may be in less premium insurance or postponing the new car."

The Cissells remind that cutting small expenses means large saving. Cut the food bill with home canning, do your own home maintenance, cut the children's hair yourself, ("practice makes perfect"), rebuild old toys.

"Save money by working together," they said. "At the same time you'll increase family unity."

And finally, the Cissells have a word about style changes. "Sections of the clothing industry, they said, 'operate on the idea that clothes are not made to wear but to go out of style. . . . While moving the hemline up and down may make a good living for those who dream up the new fashions, it can have a disastrous effect on the family budget."

The Bible says the towns of Sodom and Gomorrah, on the shores of the Dead Sea, were destroyed by brimstone and fire; but although beds of volcanic slag have been found on the south shore, no ruins of cities have been found among them.

As A Watchdog, Hound A Failure

CRESCENT BEACH, S.C. (AP)—A burglar broke into Pope Hamilton's home here and Police Officer J.W. Perrin, who doubles as mayor, organized a searching party. He asked whether anybody in the crowd had a bloodhound. "Sure," someone replied and produced a hound that soon slipped away from the posse. They found the dog peacefully snoozing under a myrtle bush.

Then it developed that it was Hamilton's dog. So Perrin asked where the dog was during the burglary. "Asleep under the house I reckon," said Hamilton.

Nine-tenths of American women who reach age 40 will live 20 years longer.

USE QUICK 'n' EASY RICELAND RICE

RICELAND RICE TUNA CROQUETTES

- 2 cups cooked RICELAND RICE
- 1 6 1/2 ounce can chunk style tuna
- 2 egg yolks
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup grated American cheese
- 1 cup thick white sauce
- 2 egg whites slightly beaten
- 2 cups bread or cracker crumbs
- 1 can condensed mushroom soup
- 1/2 cup water

TO COOK FLUFFY RICELAND RICE: To make 3 liberal cups of fluffy Riceland Rice, put 1 cup of uncooked Riceland Rice, 2 cups of cold water and 1 teaspoon of salt into a 2-quart saucepan and bring to a vigorous boil. Turn the heat as low as possible. Cover the saucepan with a lid and leave over this low heat for 14 minutes.

TO PREPARE CROQUETTES: Mix rice, tuna, egg yolks, salt, cheese and white sauce. Chill mixture. Shape into for each. Dip into egg whites, then into bread crumbs. Chill before frying in deep hot fat (380° F.) until golden brown. Drain on paper. Mix soup and water and cook until hot. Pour sauce over croquettes or serve in an individual dish.

The Cat's Paw

by MARION SALTER

Charlotte Morgan's cats tried to tell her something when she returned to her apartment late the night before Christmas Eve, after a long, bitter day of trying desperately to keep her mind on her creative advertising work in the hostile offices of the hated "Klag." She still could feel the eyes of Eric Hay burning into the back of her neck. She was serving a sentence, couldn't quit. The next day, while other office workers were holding "ule parties," "The King" postpones a staff meeting from 10:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. While waiting, Charlotte admits to herself that she is in love with Eric. At the afternoon conference she notices red blisters on the wrists of Kingsley Cummings—"The King." She surmises that he is allergic to cats.

CHAPTER FOUR
DOROTHY went out to the washroom and came back with red eyes. Everyone knew she'd been hopelessly in love with The King for years, as had so many others. As far as anyone knew, Dorothy's love was unrequited.

"I just had an idea," she said. "Let's have a party. All of you come over to my place tomorrow night, and we'll stick pins in an 'Izzy of The King. How about it?"

Only Norma and Mario weren't sure they could make it. The happy home folks, Charlotte thought. People's with mothers and families. The flossism is glad to have some place to go.

"Maybe we can drop by for a drink," Norma said, "on our way back from my mother's. And now let's get out of this trap, before I scream."

They all rode down in the old-fashioned elevator with its ornate, open grillwork.

Miss Van Camp peered down the shaft of the next elevator, down six floors into empines. "Oooh, I can't look," she shuddered. "Imagine if this thing ever crashed."

Charlotte looked, too, down, down, and kept looking as if mesmerized.

Then they were all saying, "Merry Christmas," and hurrying off, even Eric. For a minute Charlotte stood alone on the sidewalk. From a Fifth Avenue church came the carolling chimers of "Holy Night," each note floating away like smoke.

hope. Pull yourself together. She pictured herself being pulled together, as though within the clutch of an old-fashioned corset . . . tugging the laces tighter, till she could feel the stab of the stays. It took more than telling herself, for behold her, her mind like a whirling top, a revolving door, a wheel of chance, going round and round, and where it stops nobody knows. Her mind was like a record on the turntable, a black, spinning thing.

April, the fresh and frisky one, stropped herself against Charlotte's legs and nipped at her ankle. She had brought a piece of string and wanted to play, as if she understood it would be good for Charlotte.

"You're right April. Action, any action," Charlotte said. She maneuvered the string, and April leaped in the air for it, pursued it on flying feet, while the ladylike May looked on indulgently, tail gently waving, like the chaperone at the party fanning herself. Then the phone rang again.

Charlotte's hand hovered uncertainly; she lifted it.

"Hello."

"Hello. I just had to wish you Merry Christmas."

"It's very merry. Hilarious. You should know. Did you try to call me just a few minutes ago?"

"No, why?"

"Oh, the phone rang; wrong number, no doubt."

"Did you think . . . ?"

"I've given up thinking. 'To think is to be full of sorrow.' Remember? I suppose you want something?"

"Oh, Charlotte no. It's only natural I should want to talk to you on Christmas Eve."

"When were you ever natural? Listen. Were you here in my apartment last night?"

"No, of course not. I swear it. Why would I go there? How would I get in?"

"You could have told the land-lord something convincing."

"Charlotte, I wasn't there."

"Somebody was."

"Was it . . . ?"

"I don't know. But it must have been."

"Why would—oh I don't like it, I don't like it a bit. Charlotte, can't we meet and have Christmas dinner together? We ought to talk, and I'm so alone. It's Christmas."

"I'm alone too, but Christmas is no different from any other day."

"You're hard, Charlotte. Cold and hard."

"I wonder why. Well good night." As she hung up, the other voice droned on.

For a long while Charlotte sat there, her hand on the phone. Finally she spoke out loud. "That was my loving mother," she told the cats. "All that I am or ever hope to be I owe to my mother."

She went on sitting there, doodling on the telephone pad, and she began to remember her mother, back in that previous existence. It was like turning over the pages of an album from which most of the pictures had fallen. Only a faded few remained. Of her mother, leaning over the bed to kiss her good night, and always smelling fragrant. Her mother brushing long black hair as she dried it in the sun. Cutting bright flowers for the house. Her mother whom she had adored.

Then the blank between—after the tears and terror and incredulity. After the taunts from the other school children the probing and pitying stares from the grownups. After asking her quiet, ineffectual father whether it was true.

It was true. Her mother had gone away with the writer who had rented the summer cottage. Charlotte was twelve, old enough to understand a lot, fast.

But what about the first twelve years? Was I a happy, normal child till then? Charlotte wondered now. Surely she had assumed so. If normally was to live in a big, white farmhouse in Jersey with a mother and father to go to school in the village and play games with the other kids . . . to come home hungry and to grow fast . . . to have mumps and measles and to have tonsils out . . . to read in the attic winters, feeling high up, and in the apple tree summers, wondering about the mysterious wide world and dreaming of all she'd do and see—if such things made normal childhood, then hers had been.

Yet, looking back, Charlotte knew there'd been a lack all along. For instance, when she and her father and mother had sat in church, they had looked like a family; but they hadn't felt like one. Charlotte didn't know what it was to feel like a family. There was always the separateness of thoughts and interests. Her father, ever out to the fields and back to the barn and early to bed. Her mother, dutiful but often dreamily distant and sitting up late to read. Charlotte, playing alone or with the kittens, the collie, yet content, knowing her mother was there, that she loved her and thought her smart, sweet, pretty little girl. That she would always take care of her.

Boy Cook Proves He's Really Good

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—Jim Bob Mobley of nearby Holt's Summit is only 8 and that ruled him out of the junior cooking competition at the county fair.

So the son of Missouri's director of Resources and Development Division had to buck the competition provided by the farm women who've been cooking for quite a spell.

His fudge brownies won the blue ribbon in the cookie division.

Skid Row Crew Helped In Harvest

DENVER (AP)—Idle men who make the Citizens Mission on Denver's skid row their home went to work in the harvest fields. In return for food to be stored at the mission for winter meals.

Others worked at the mission to can pack and store the food.

The superintendent, the Rev. Ernest M. Baber, says the plan saved the mission $40,000 to $50,000 a year in operating costs.

Auto Horn Is Telephone Signal

CAPE FAIR, Mo. (AP)—You can get away from telephones, all right, down here in this hilly section of southwestern Missouri. There are practically no phones in the area.

But Lyle Chamberlin needed one in his resort business. So he rigged up a mobile radio phone in an old automobile in the backyard.

Now he can be half a mile down the James River and still hear the phone. It doesn't ring. It honks with a loud blast.

Police Enforcing Hour Of Curfew

MARBLEHEAD Mass. (AP)—Boys and girls under 16 found on the streets after 9 p.m. are going to be taken for a ride—in a police cruiser.

Cruiser car police have been ordered to drive the teen-agers home to enforce a recently enacted curfew. The action was taken to check juvenile delinquency and vandalism.

Town 'Kills Off' Its Baby School

LOWELL, Mass. (AP)—"Baby carriage" legislation which would have allowed children under 4½ years to attend school has been killed by the School Committee on recommendation of Mayor Henry Boudry.

Children under that age would have been allowed to attend school if their parents obtained the consent of members of the school committee.

Strong opposition came from teachers who suggested they would be "nursemaids" under the proposal.

Here are two points to remember when you buy a car! . . .

CHEVROLET PRICES are the LOWEST

CHEVROLET VALUE is the HIGHEST of any line in its field

See it, drive it, and you'll know that it alone brings you all these features of highest-priced cars at the lowest prices and with such outstanding gasoline economy!

You know, of course, that again in 1953 more people are buying Chevrolets than any other car.

And you also know that more people own Chevrolets today than any other make—it's ahead in total registrations by almost 2 million!

But would you like to know why this is true? Would you like to know what it means to you in terms of getting maximum motor car value? Then, come examine Chevrolet, and see for yourself.

You'll find, as so many others have found, that Chevrolet gives more fine features at lowest cost:

More beauty, inside and out, with the widest choice of body-types and colors in its field.

More driving thrills, with either of Chevrolet's two great high-compression Valve-in-Head engines!

More comfort, more road-stability and more safety with this stronger, heavier, longer lasting car!

More value throughout, when you buy, while you drive, when you trade!

Come in, confirm these facts to your own satisfaction, and you, too, will choose Chevrolet!

*Optional at extra cost. Combination of Powerglide automatic transmission and 115-h.p. "Blue-Flame" engine available on "Two-Ten" and Bel Air models. Power Steering and E-Z-Eye Plate Glass available on all models.

Fashion-First Bodies by Fisher. Extra-Easy Power Steering.* 115-h.p. high-compression engine in Powerglide models—108-h.p. high-compression engine in gear-shift models. Advanced Powerglide automatic transmission.* Largest brakes in its field. E-Z-Eye Plate Glass.* Safety Plate Glass in windshield and all windows of sedans and coupes.

Chevrolet's thrilling "Two-Ten" 4-door sedan. With 3 great new series, Chevrolet offers the widest choice of models in its field.

Six Months Ago, Waco Struck By Big Tornado

By WILBUR MARTIN
 WACO, Tex. (AP)—When the sky grows dark over Waco and the rain runs muddy brown along the streets, the people furtively peer into the clouds.
 For six months ago today a tornado knocked Waco out of business in one terrible minute.
 It killed 114 persons, injured some 500 and left this central Texas city with a loss of nearly 60 million dollars. Downtown was a ruin, the lower end a tomb of broken brick and stone.
 For four days and nights in Waco, thousands tore into giant mounds of wreckage with bare hands and machines, seeking the dead and the living.
 But that was six months ago. Now, in downtown Waco, bright new store fronts have replaced the jagged mass of glass; neon lights twinkle brightly where six months ago only lanterns winked. The streets are crowded with shoppers—everywhere downtown except down around the old city square. It was the old sand brick buildings around the square that crumbled like dirt in the full fury of the devil wind.
 "It used to be packed with people," said Osie Johnson, looking out over the square from the first chair of the Liberty Barber Shop, back in business after being closed for repairs for four months.
 "I was here 25 years before the tornado. I could stand and look out on a Saturday afternoon and never see the streets for the people."
 "Now it's like you've come back to a deserted house that weeds business district from Fifth street to the Brazos River five blocks away was hit hardest. One report estimated more than 23 million dollars worth of damage was inflicted on business buildings.

 Insurance offset some of the loss. Donations of more than $400,000 from over the country helped many victims. The Red Cross and other social agencies took care of immediate need.
 "Nobody went in want," Wolf said. "We used—and are still using—the donations to try and get everybody back on as near a pre-tornado basis as possible."
 That meant, for example, $2,500 to put a toymaker back in business. And $75 to take care of an old man's loss when his bean patch was wiped out.

Blind Fireman Saved His Home

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A 61-year-old blind man was credited by the Los Angeles Fire Department with putting out a fire which threatened to destroy his home.
 M. J. Kaleel smelled smoke in his bungalow, rushed outside for a garden hose and pushed it through an open window. After he located the hottest part of the room he directed a water stream toward the area until the heat subsided.
 When firemen arrived, Kaleel was nonchalantly rolling up the hose. Damage to the home was estimated at $600.
 Kaleel lost the sight of both eyes in a college football game in 1912.

More Tourists, Fewer Accidents

ROANOKE, Va. (AP)—North Carolina visitors to the Blue Ridge Parkway thus far in 1953 have numbered one-third of the nearly 4 million total.
 Officials said yesterday the total represents an increase of 18.4 per cent over the same period last year. They estimated that between 300 and 500 thousand more people will visit the drive this year.
 Officials said despite the increase there have been 12 fewer accidents and 23 fewer court cases.

Convict Hasn't Kept His Word

SPEIGNER, Ala. (AP)—L. C. Roberts hasn't kept his promise.
 The convict, a trusty truck driver serving eight years for forgery and larceny escaped from Draper Prison in a state-owned truck. Afterwards he hired a young man to "work" for him at $50 a week and sent him back to the prison with the truck.
 In the glove compartment was a note to Warden B. R. Reeves saying "Be back tomorrow."
 No one has seen Roberts since.

Lots Of Turkey For Korea GIs

PUSAN, Korea (AP)—More than two million pounds of Thanksgiving Day food await American servicemen in Korea.
 The Thanksgiving dinner planned Nov. 26 for every mess hall in Korea will include shrimp cocktail, roast turkey, pumpkin pie or fruit cake, apples, oranges, salted nuts, assorted candy and cranberry sauce.

GOOD CABLE
 BOSTON (UP)—Thanks to some far-sighted fellow who lived a century ago, fire alarm service was maintained in South Boston even though fire destroyed the Dover Street Bridge and ruined the regular cables. Service was maintained by switching to an emergency cable installed 101 years ago.
 Brazil was ruled by an emperor from 1822 to 1889.

SELECTIVE BURGLARY
 DANIELSON, Conn. (UP)—A burglar broke into three offices in Danielson and escaped with $124. The bandit took the money from an attorney's office, the office of the town medical examiner and the office of the town court judge.
 The chirp of a cricket which is barely an inch long can be heard for almost a mile.

Migrating birds usually remain within 3,000 feet of the ground.
 Half of American women who reach age 65 will live 15 years longer and a third of them will live for 20 years.

MY BEST APPLE RECIPES

1. Glazed Baked Apples—Core apples; peel one-third way down. Set in pan, peeled side up. Add 1/2 cup boiling water; cover; cook slowly 15 minutes. Set apples in baking dish. Sprinkle with 1/2 cup sugar. Bake in hot oven, 425 degrees, basting often with water apples were cooked in.
2. Fried Apple Rings—Wash, core, and slice apples 1/4-inch thick. Sprinkle lightly with brown sugar. Sauté in a little butter, margarine, or bacon fat, in a skillet until tender. Serve with ham, pork, or sausage.
3. Apple Cheese Salad—Combine one cup diced red skinned apples with 2 cups cottage cheese and 1/4 cup broken nuts. Serve on lettuce.
4. Orange Applesauce—Prepare applesauce your favorite way, using orange juice in place of water to cook apples in and adding 1 teaspoon grated orange rind.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK — Steel shares were in demand today in an otherwise mixed stock market.

Gains ran between 1 and 2 points at the best and losses were held down to fractions.

Trading was subdued most of the time. There was a noticeable quickening of interest, however, when the steels started their rally in the second hour. The pace of trading over all was right around Tuesday's level of 1,340,000 shares.

Interest in the steels came as the magazine Iron Age reported the industry had "hurdled" the great transition from sellers' to buyers' market without suffering a sharp decline.

Also higher were oils and rubbers. The railroads were backward. Most of the remainder of the market was mixed or steady.

Higher stocks included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem Steel, Republic Steel, General Motors, Pacific Western Oil, Amerada Petroleum, Goodyear, and General Electric.

Lower were Studebaker, United Aircraft, Admiral Corp., Union Carbide, American Tobacco, and Illinois Central.

Education Committee Visits Ayden School In Survey

Three visiting educators are with Principal E. F. Johnson during the evaluating of Ayden High School yesterday for a possible entrance into the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. Left to right: Principal Johnson; A. B. Combs, State Department of Public Instruction and committee chairman; Dr. A. S. Hurlburt, Assistant Superintendent of Public Instruction, and Jean P. Booth, Superintendent of Kinston City Schools. (Reflector Photo by Roy Hardee).

AYDEN—A committee of 11 educators visited Ayden High School yesterday to evaluate the school for entrance into the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

The Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools is an organization to improve educational conditions in the South and bring about closer relationships between schools and colleges.

The committee was broken down into smaller committees which worked with each respective department of the high school. The visiting educators observed classroom activity and held individual conferences with each teacher of each department.

The committee included members of the N. C. State Department of Public Instruction, East Carolina faculty members, and a superintendent and a principal of public schools in Eastern North Carolina.

In preparation for this evaluation the Ayden High School faculty began work last March using evaluative criteria recommended by the State Department of Public Instruction. The criteria is the same used by all schools which are seeking the same recognition as Ayden.

The Ayden faculty and community met Monday night for final reports on the activity that has been carried on in preparation for yesterday's evaluation. The program Monday night included reports on educational needs of the youth by Harry Jarvis, program of studies by S. F. Peterson, different department reports by other teachers, and pupil activity by Tommy Craft.

Yesterday's committee included A. B. Combs of the State Department of Public Instruction as chairman; Dr. Alan S. Hurlburt, Assistant Superintendent of Public Instruction; Dr. Arnold Hoffman, State Department music supervisor; Miss Cora Paul Bomar and Miss Gladys Johnson, State Department library advisers; G. S. Willard, Principal of Charles L. Coon High School of Wilson; Dean Clinton Pruitt, Dean of Men at ECC; Dr. J. K. Long, Education Department of ECC; Mrs. Mabel Hall of the ECC Home Economics Department; Miss Helen Stewart of the State Department Health and Physical Education Department, and Jean Booth, Superintendent of Kinston City Schools.

The committee included reports on educational needs of the youth by Harry Jarvis, program of studies by S. F. Peterson, different department reports by other teachers, and pupil activity by Tommy Craft.

Bureau Meeting

The Pitt County Farm Bureau will hold its annual meeting tonight at 7:30 in the Pitt County office building.

Notices sent to Bureau members erroneously announced the meeting for November 19.

Farm Bureau officials emphasized today that the meeting would be held tonight (Thursday) as originally scheduled.

The words are different, of course, but the tune is the same "Annie Lisle" which has become famous as the school song of Cornell, Alabama, Indiana, Lehigh and other universities.

Hookerton Man Speaks At Pactolus Club Meet

By CHESTER WALSH
PACTOLUS — At the Pactolus Ruritan Club's supper meeting Monday night, Alonzo Edwards of Hookerton spoke on the "Farm Program."

He praised Ruritan for its good influence in rural communities and declared "the most important piece of land to the farmers of the United States is that three and one-half acres in the National capital, where Congress holds its sessions."

Edwards, a North Carolina Farm Bureau official, and a farmer and businessman, warned the Ruritanians that if Congress changes the present farm program it could throw us back 20 years.

Baptist Meeting Is Ended Today

GREENSBORO — Committee reports and a speech by Dr. Frank C. Laubach of New York today closed the annual North Carolina Baptist Convention here.

Dr. Laubach's topic was "Apostle to the Illiterates." He is a member of World Literacy, Inc., New York. Adjournment was scheduled at noon.

High spot of yesterday's sessions was the confirmation of convention officers. Elected to the presidency was the Rev. Dr. Douglas L. Branch, Rocky Mount. Others elected were Dr. M. A. Huggins, executive secretary; Congressman C. B. Deane, recording secretary; the Rev. L. L. Morgan, statistical secretary; Dr. Russell Perry, vice president; Dr. Claude Bowen, second vice president, and the Rev. John Lawrence, third vice president.

Same Song For Rival Colleges

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)—The Universities of Missouri and Kansas are deadly rivals on the gridiron and the basketball court. But they use the same tune for their Alma Mater songs.

No one seems to know how old the tune is. It was known as "Annie Lisle" when the Cornell song, "Far Above Cayuga's Waters," was written in 1872.

Cases Heard In City Police Court

Judge Charles H. Whedbee disposed of an unusually light docket in Police Court Wednesday.

The court found William Wainwright, manager of the "T.V." service station on North Greene Street, not guilty of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill Ervin Whitfield. Testimony was that Whitfield had made trouble in the place and threatened Wainwright.

Thomas R. Simmons, Negro, was charged with being drunk and resisting arrest. The court did not proceed the case.

David McCullum, Negro, larceny of a fishing rod and reel from Luther Colbert's car, was given 30 days on the roads.

James Phillips, Negro, no operator's license, 30 days in jail, sentence suspended on payment of $15.
