Dedication Plans Are Made By St. Raphael's P. T. Club

The first meeting of the 1953-1954 year of St. Raphael's P. T. Club was held Tuesday, November 17. The meeting was opened with a prayer and called to order by Mrs. Brooks Faber, acting president.

Father Gable expressed his sincere gratitude to the parents for their patience and the support they had given the school. He told of plans for the formal dedication of St. Raphael's to be held December 13 at which time a reception will be held for out-of-town visitors and all friends of the parish and school.

The following slate of officers was elected: Paul White, president; Mrs. Ed Tipton, vice-president; Mrs. George Lautares, secretary-reporter; Mrs. Brooks Faber, treasurer. A report was given on the new playground equipment purchased with the money raised on projects last year. It is hoped that indoor playground equipment and books for the school library can be purchased this year.

The next meeting of the Parent-Teachers Club will be held December 8 and it is hoped that more parents will attend and give this organization their enthusiastic support.

Red Oak News

With the unusually beautiful weather we have been enjoying this fall, our attendance at Sunday School and church has been wonderful. We went to full time services in November and the attendance is increasing each Sunday. We have recently received seven new members into our fellowship.

The attendance at Sunday School last Sunday was 126. We are striving to have at least 150 next Sunday. This Sunday, November 22nd, has been designated as "Family Day." We hope that every man and his wife and all his children will be present on that Sunday morning.

A New Circle No. 1 of Red Oak Church met Monday night at 7:30 at the church to elect officers for the coming year. Mrs. L. W. Edwards of Greenville was elected chairman; Mrs. Jarvis Tripp Sr., vice chairman; Mrs. Ola Kittrell as secretary and treasurer; Mrs. Harold R. Tyer as temporary worship chairman, and Mrs. B. L. Tyson, reporter. This Circle will meet every third Sunday evening. The December meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Tyson. Charter members of the Circle are Mrs. J. T. Manning Sr., Mrs. Ola S. Kittrell, Mrs. Lucy J. Allen, Mrs. Jarvis Tripp Sr., Mrs. Jack Allen, Mrs. L. W. Edwards, Mrs. B. L. Tyson, Mrs. Harold Tyer, Mrs. Doc Smith and Mrs. Willie Fate. We are delighted to have as associate members B. L. Tyson, Jack Allen, Ola Kittrell, Willie Fate and Rev. Harold Tyer.

Thanksgiving services will be held at the church Thursday morning at 11 o'clock. Several adults and children will take part in the services. The speaker for the day will be Mrs. Theodore Eaton Jr., who is a member of the faculty of East Carolina College. She has chosen as her subject "Bread." We extend a special invitation to everyone to attend this service on Thursday, Nov. 26, at 11 o'clock.

On the fifth Sunday in November which is the 29th a large caravan of cars will leave the church at 8:30 o'clock for their fourth trip to Camp Lejeune to entertain the boys in the hospital there. A few special features and a community sing will be on the program and refreshments will be served to all the boys in the wards and in the hospital. A large number of home-made

Mrs. Hunsucker Is Hostess To Round-Table

The Round Table Book Club met at the home of Mrs. Royce Hunsucker on Tuesday, Nov. 17. The regular business was attended to. During the meeting the club voted to buy a TB bond.

Mrs. J. E. Nobles presented a very interesting paper on the life and works of O. Henry.

Mrs. J. W. Higgs gave the travelogue report at which time she took the club members on an imaginary trip to Nassau and showed some lovely work done by the natives.

The club gave a book to Shepard Memorial Library, "Bible and Christianity," in memory of Mr. E. B. Higgs whose wife was a charter member of the club.

At the close of the meeting, the hostess, assisted by her young daughter, served a salad plate.

Dr. Wolverton Is Guest Speaker At Sans Souci Club

It was a special pleasure to the Sans Souci to enjoy the privilege of being with Mrs. J. T. Cheatham Tuesday for the first time in her very charming and attractive new home in Brookgreen. Throughout the house artistic arrangements of white and lavender chrysanthemums added color and charm to her lovely home.

After a gracious welcome the guests were invited into the dining room and served a very delicious buffet luncheon.

The program for the afternoon was given by Dr. Wallace Wolverton, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church. Dr. Wolverton chose for his subject the book "Freedom and the Spirit" by Nicholas Berdyaev. Nicholas Berdyaev is recognized as one of the most interesting and stimulating thinkers of the present day, a great interpreter of the Philosophy of Religion.

Now living in England, but a native of Russia, Berdyaev naturally inherited a complex life of conflict and tragedy, and justifies the statement that victory can be achieved over what has been experienced. He contends that man moulds and creates himself through the various trials that destiny imposes upon him. These sufferings can be overcome but cannot be effaced. They are permanently a part of the man but exist in a transmuted form, giving him a richer understanding

ART NOTES

By JOHN GORDON

The current exhibition of Brazilian prints at the City Library will close at 5 o'clock this Saturday.

The International Business Machine Corporation, the owner of the prints, has put out a catalogue of the exhibition which does not explain the mystery that only two men are represented.

One of these men, Oswaldo Goeldi, is a vigorous and able artist; the other, Carlos Oswald is simply a very bad artist by any criterion I can imagine. Oswald's technique, form and the conception of his subjects belongs to Renaissance and Baroque times. The result seems unresolved and dust-dry. Oswald's portraits have a sickly, almost morbid quality.

Among Goeldi's attractive color prints Sunset, Fishermen and Men of the Sea seem particularly good. Though sometimes weak in color Goeldi's other prints are strongly designed with a clean and telling simplicity.

The French modern tradition supports the formal handling of Goeldi's work. A feeling of originality and esthetic conviction controls and dominates Goeldi's eclectic approach. No doubt all artists are eclectic; perhaps the measure of a good artist is that he dominates his influences rather than being dominated by them; this Goeldi surely does.

Buffet Supper Courtesy For Miss Jacobs

Miss Mary Lou Jacobs of Danville, Ky. was honored Tuesday evening at a buffet supper by Mr. and Mrs. Graham Flanagan and Mr. and Mrs. Lee Hannah, at the home of the Flanagans on Falkland highway.

Guests were greeted at the door by the hosts and hostesses and invited into the back of the reception hall where fruit punch was served by Mrs. Harvey Ward Jr. and Mrs. Billy Bowen.

The dining room was decorated throughout with a yellow and white motif. The center table was adorned with a silver bowl filled with yellow mums, and a side table was arranged with a wedding scene with a wishing well and around it were placed miniature bags of rice tied with colored ribbon. In other rooms of the home a lavender color theme was carried out.

Mrs. Sam Northrop and Mrs. O. L. Joyner Sr. served ham and salad from opposite ends of the dining room table. After the main course Mrs. Flanagan and Mrs. Hannah, assisted by Mrs. George Garrett, served coffee ice cream and cakes.

Miss Jacobs was presented a corsage by the hosts and hostesses.

Dean Discusses Education Goals

"The real purpose of general education is to give college students a common understanding of the things that make men free," Dean Leo W. Jenkins told members of the North Carolina Negro College Conference Wednesday of this week. He spoke at the 28th annual meeting of the organization held at Barber-Scott College in Concord.

"General education," Dr. Jenkins stated, "aims at developing attitudes, abilities and behavior considered desirable by society; it does not necessarily prepare the student for specific types of vocational pursuits."

The tools needed by the educated man, he explained, transcend all specialized training. They are needed, he said, by the teacher as well as the engineer, and the minister as well as the business man.

"General education," he declared, "will never be a static thing. As society changes, so will the preparation needed to live in that society change. Colleges should not attempt to reduce or water down knowledge to a generalized catch-all. Instead, we should try to determine the things needed by an educated man in our complex society and teach them."

Two Quick Calls For Fire Dept.

Local fire officials report two calls came in yesterday near noon. One call sent the firemen to the home of C.B. Bissette at 304 Eastern Street at 11:05 a.m. where a hot water heater had caught fire. There was only minor damage.

The other call came twenty minutes later when a fireman traveled across the river to put out some shucks and corn cobs that were burning at a corn mill. There was a no damage.

Volunteer fire fighters were disbanded in New York City in 1865.

Production Credit Association Will Hold Stockholders Meeting Friday

The Greenville Production Credit Association will hold its 20th Annual Stockholders meeting Friday Morning at 10:00 o'clock in the Pitt County Courthouse.

L.T. Weeks, general manager and secretary of the Fine-Cured Tobacco Stabilization Corporation, will be the principal speaker for the event.

Reports of the operations of the Association to include the report of the Executive Committee, the report of the Board of Directors and the financial report, will be given.

In addition two directors are to be elected at the meeting.

The Greenville Production Credit Association covers both Pitt and Greene Counties. It has a home office in Greenville and a branch office in Snow Hill.

Cadet Selection Team To Be Here

An Air Force Aviation Cadet Selection Team will visit Greenville High School December 1 and East Carolina College December 2. Members will be located in the high school gymnasium and in the lobby of the North Dining Hall at the college on the days designated and will be fully equipped for testing and determining qualifications for Air Force Aviation Cadet Training.

For the first time since World War II ended, high school graduates are now eligible to make application for Air Force flying training, directly from civilian status.

Aviation cadets are trained to become either pilots or aerial observers: aerial observers are trained in specialties such as navigation, radar bombardment officers, electronics officers, and air craft performance engineering officers.

Upon completion of the approximately 18 months of training, the aviation cadet (either pilot or observer) receives his silver wings of aeronautical rating, a commission as 2nd lieutenant in the United States Air Force with annual pay of over $5,000.

Fielding Speaks To Club Friday

Captain Michael Fielding, former member of the British army in India and authority on the Far East, will address the Pitt County Executives Club at the East Carolina College dining hall Friday evening at 7 o'clock.

Fielding is the second in the series of outstanding speakers to appear before the local Executives Club during the current season. The subject of his address Friday night will be "Fox Americana."

In his address to the Pitt County organization, Fielding will relate a number of his personal experiences in extensive travels through Europe and Asia, and discuss conditions in those areas of the globe as they affect the international position of the United States.

Glee Club, Orchestra Concert On Sunday

The East Carolina Orchestra and the Varsity Men's Glee Club of East Carolina College will open their concert next Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the College Theatre with Randall Thompson's inspiring composition "The Testament of Freedom."

Dr. Kenneth N. Cuthbert of the faculty will conduct the two groups in this and other numbers on the afternoon's program. The public is invited to be present at the concert.

"The Testament of Freedom" was composed in honor of the 200th anniversary of the birth of Thomas Jefferson. It was first performed at Cabell Hall, University of Virginia, in 1943 by the University of Virginia Glee Club. The performance was broadcast over a nationwide hook-up by the Columbia Broadcasting System, and was recorded by the Office of War Information for rebroadcast to the

AAUW Given German Award For Furthering Of Understanding

The American Association of University Women was honored Monday by the presentation to its national president in Washington, D.C., of one of the highest awards of the Federal Republic of Germany for work furthering German-American understanding, according to Mrs. D.S. Spain, Jr., president of the local branch of AAUW.

The national president, Dr. Susan B. Riley, of Nashville, Tennessee, received the Cross of the Commander of the Order of Merit from Ambassador Heinz Krekler, charge d'affaires of the Republic's diplomatic mission to the United States, at a noon ceremony. Dr. Riley is Professor of English at George Peabody College for Teachers, Nashville. AAUW officers and Board members, and members of the AAUW Headquarters staff in Washington were among those attending the ceremony. Following the presentation, Ambassador and Mrs. Krekler entertained at a luncheon honoring Dr. Riley.

Dr. Riley is one of three women to receive the Commander's Cross in this Order, which was established in December 1951 to honor achievements in the political, economic, social, and intellectual fields that have served in the reconstruction of Germany.

Dr. Krekler conferred the award on behalf of Dr. Theodor Heuss, President of the German Republic. He cited the aid provided through AAUW international study grants to German women, the hospitality shown by AAUW members to German award recipients during their stay in the United States, and the generous support by AAUW branches of six demonstration kindergartens and of a dormitory for women of the Free University in Berlin.

The AAUW has awarded international grants totaling over $27,580 to 13 German women for study and research in the United States from 1949 to 1953. In addition, four German women are now studying in this country under AAUW grants. A two-way exchange of scholars is completed through the Association's Fellowship Program, which has in the past enabled 29 American award recipients to study and carry on research in Germany.

Another area of AAUW aid has been the "adoption" by six AAUW state divisions and individual branches of demonstration kindergartens established in the Berlin public schools by the U.S. Educational Rehabilitation Program. AAUW branches in North Carolina, Pennsylvania, Vermont, Connecticut, Virginia, Illinois, Wyoming and California supplemented these funds by supplying each kindergarten with additional necessary equipment.

Direct contact with German women and their organizations has been enjoyed by two AAUW representatives on official tours of Western Germany. Mrs. Ralph B. Alspaugh, who has just served four years as an AAUW Board member will report her impressions of a tour of Germany, just completed, to AAUW members in speeches and articles. Mrs. Frederic Gilstrap, AAUW Board member from Albuquerque, represented the AAUW on a 10-woman panel of national non-governmental organizations that toured Germany for six weeks in 1951 under auspices of the Department of State and HIC G. She has already reported on consultations with German women leaders to AAUW members.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Briley of Greenville announce the engagement of their daughter, Betty Dolores, to Ted Crandle Pollard of Route 1, Tarboro. The wedding is planned for December 20.

Two Lessons From White Controversy

The raging battle between Democrats and Republicans over the Harry Dexter White case is rapidly assuming the proportions of a pure and simple political football being kicked about between the two groups of adversaries.

Mr. Truman's official reply to the charges of Attorney General Brownell this week is sure to go down as one of the most outstanding addresses ever made by the former president. In our opinion the former President dealt with the issues in the case as squarely as they could have been dealt with, and laid the cards on the table as they appeared from the information which was available to him.

A Compliment For Tar Heel Workers

It was a compliment paid to the people of North Carolina this week when one of the outstanding industrialists pointed out in an address that the state's workers were one of the most important factors in new industries locating in North Carolina.

Not many years ago it was common to hear people north of the Mason-Dixon line discount the possibility of industry moving South to any degree because, they said, the people in the South couldn't learn to do highly skilled industrial work.

By now, it has been proven without a doubt that the industrial workers in the South are fully equal to any tasks their brethren in the North have accomplished. Industries which have moved into the South and into North Carolina have reported workers quick to learn industrial skills, and efficient in their pursuit of their skills after they have been learned.

It may be true that in some areas in North Carolina there is not the quantity of skilled industrial workers there are in the North. But the important factor is that almost every section of North Carolina has a pool of people who are capable of learning to be skilled industrial workers.

It is encouraging to see the fact is being recognized; and that the old myth that southerners "can't learn industrial work" has been discounted.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
BLINDNESS

Before me as I write lies a page of Braille—the type of raised letters used by the blind. I run my fingers over these stereotyped sheets. They mean nothing to me. I have two good eyes, and I pause and thank God for blessings which are undeserved.

Blindness is a terrible affliction, yet it has always been my observation that the blind themselves do not regard it with nearly so much horror as we do. I think of the cheerful blind people I know, and I marvel at their fine spirit. You and I feel that if our sight were to be taken away, certainly three-quarters of our lives would be gone. But many of the blind do not feel this way. They have cultivated compensations. They have learned how to rise courageously above a handicap.

National Whirligig

Democrats Are Closing Ranks

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON—The Brownell-Velde mismanagement of the Harry Dexter White episode has rallied and solidified Democrats on and off Capitol Hill, including even pro-Eisenhower elements in Dixie. It may help to heal feuds which flared at the 1952 convention and election, when Ike carried four southern states.

The research bureau at Democratic National Headquarters has been kept busy and overworked with requests from Truman and anti-Truman Democrats throughout the country, asking for material to minimize or refute the Attorney-General's charge against the former President and members of his Cabinet.

It has boiled up into an angry Party reaction, regardless of previous personal and political differences within the opposition family.

DEMOCRATS CLOSING RANKS—The Democrats are not closing ranks behind Truman himself so much as behind the institution of their Party. They regard the belated Brownell effort as an attempt to assure long-time Republican retention of Congress and the White House by pinning a Red badge on both F.D.R. and Harry S. Truman. As such, it becomes an attack on every Democrat seeking office now or in the future, local, state and national.

Similarly, the shattered Democrats bound up individual and collective wounds after 1928, when certain shortsighted GOP strategists sought to capitalize on the wet and bigory issues raised by the nomination of "Al" Smith. Two years later, the Democrats captured the House, and the Presidency only four years later.

The Brownell attack has brought a formidable Democratic straitjacket to the partisan firing line before he had intended to re-enlist—namely, Adlai E. Stevenson, Ike's 1952 opponent and a possible 1956 foe.

STEVENSON BERATES IKE'S DELAYS—The philosophic Stevenson had been counseling partisan consultants to cooperate with the Eisenhower Ad-

To be sure some questions raised by Republican leaders in the fight were not answered in Mr. Truman's address. All of them probably can never be answered.

The Reflector certainly is not in favor of communists or communist sympathizers being allowed positions in government on any level in the United States. Yet there is no foundation for charges that high administration officials were seeking to harbor foreign agents in the government in the White case.

In view of the fact that Brownell had the information on the White case for some time before he made his bombshell announcement which set off the controversy, his announcement smacked of politics.

While the air around the incident is now highly charged with politics, the incident should vividly impress upon the people of the United States two important factors:

1. Unless the guard of the administration is kept at razor sharpness at all times, it is possible for individuals of questionable loyalty to this nation to gain responsible positions in the United States government; and

2. When big league politicians on both sides of the party lines seize upon an issue for political purposes, they can make so much political hash out of it, it often becomes difficult to distinguish the facts from the overtones.

Prisoners Should Be Freed On Time

As the days trickle by with little progress noted in the POW repatriations in Korea, it becomes more and more evident that many prisoners will remain in the Panmunjom compounds when time for the operation runs out.

Already there are indications the Reds will want to extend the "explanation" period on grounds they have not had an opportunity to interview anti-communist POWs.

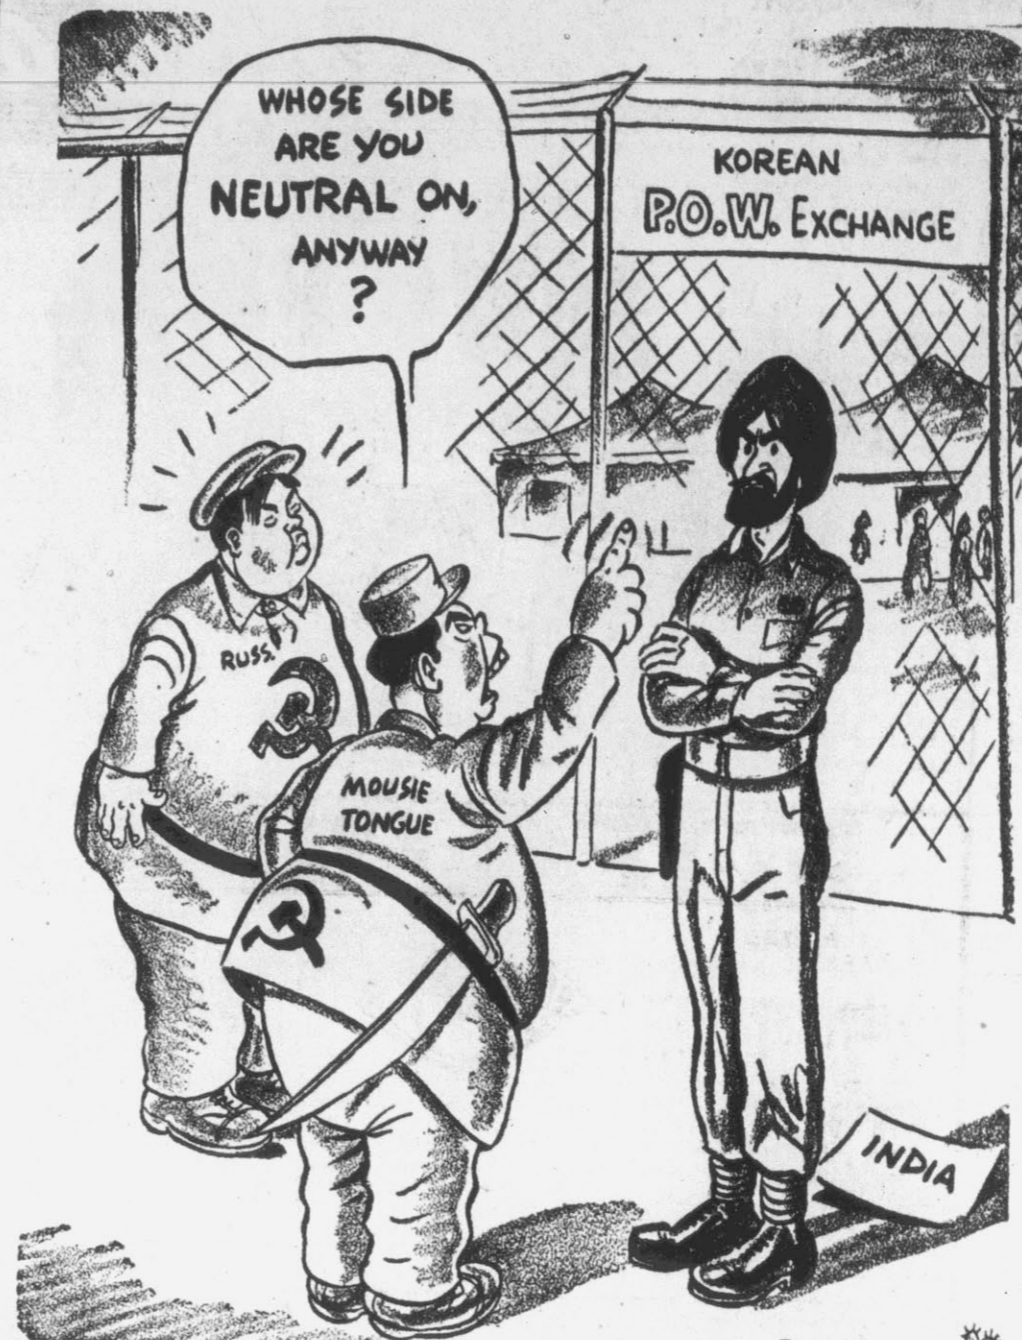

It will be typical for the communists to seek to stall operations again even if the time were extended because stalls by the communists already have virtually broken down the explanations.

Obviously, the communists will win a victory if they can keep prisoners held by the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission from gaining freedom for an indefinite period. The longer the prisoners have to remain in their present "prisoner" status, the more inclined they will be to accept even communism to get away from the compounds.

The United States and other U. N. nations who fought in the Korean war should insist that the prisoners held by the Repatriation Commission be given their freedom at the time appointed for the explanations to end in the original truce agreement.

If the communists have their way, the anti-communist prisoners will remain cooped up in compounds until they decide to return to communism or die of old age.

Somebody Told Me WNTC-TV To Carry Bowl Game

Pictures elsewhere in tonight's Reflector will show that the first section of the long-awaited television tower for Greenville's station has arrived. The eight-man crew will begin arriving Monday to complete the job of erection, which will take from three to four weeks.

When will the station be on the air? Station Manager A. Hartwell Campbell says he hopes to be by Christmas. "I don't know," he added, "whether I've had more people ask me when we'll be on the air, or for a job. Today, for example, I've had applications from people from several Eastern Carolina towns." Are jobs still available? Complete Hartwell: "Our staff is complete."

Almost as big a news flash as the tower's arrival was Campbell's statement that WNTC will carry the Orange Bowl game on New Year's Day! The telephone company's task of interconnecting the network into Greenville is on schedule and WNTC has scheduled the game with Gillette as the sponsor. So Greenville can view Maryland vs. Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl game.

Network business is coming in so well that Campbell is having difficulty scheduling the programs during the portion of the evening beginning at 7:30 when live programs come through. Right now, for example, he has an order for Robert Montgomery Presents, with no place to put it. Likewise with Life With Riley and Milton Berle. WNTC's program schedule should be tops, simply because all four networks will supply the station. There's no doubt that Greenville has the largest and finest television plant in North Carolina.

In about two weeks WGTC radio will move to the TV site, vacating their present building and making it available for sale or rent. For some years the radio transmitter has been beyond the Graham Flanagan home on the Falkland highway. "In the corn field," as the staff puts it. Broadcasting will continue from the corn field, and the TV studio will be used for the few programs that now originate in the WGTC radio building.

WNTC-TV has already been received in Greenville! In testing the transmitter the engineers put a small load of current into it. Even without the transmitting antenna connected a signal leaked out through a small window in the transmitter cabinet and was picked up in Greenville. That should answer any question about the ability of the transmitter to put out a solid signal.

Before leaving Campbell yesterday I said, "Let me ask you about that Orange Bowl game again. Did you say it?" "Definitely not. And you can quote me on that." And I thank you. JACK EDWARDS

What Other Editors Are Thinking

(Kannapolis Independent)
An increasing number of American educators are becoming alarmed at what they believe to be a growing tendency to straight-jacket the thinking and expression of the intellectual. As one educator recently expressed his fears "the force of public opinion, itself molded by daily repetition employing 'big lie techniques,' is imposing rigid limitations upon what the intellectual dare say or write."

Dr. John O. Gross, of Nashville, Tenn., executive secretary both of the Division of Educational Institutions of the Methodist Board of Education and of the University Senate of the Methodist Church, pin-points the educator's view in these words:

"Both Hitler and Mussolini spearheaded their plans for a totalitarian government by arousing distrust of scholars and educational leaders. Such a movement gains momentum through casting suspicion on educational institutions by insinuating that they are trying to overthrow our democratic government. Teachers are suspected and charges fly unheeded."

The intellectual, the scholar, is a non-conformist by nature. His role in civilization is to explore the uncharted, to probe the new, to know for new ideas and new concepts. Shackles his thinking by whatever means, compel his conformity to the accepted and the intellectual ceases to function at all. On the contrary, he becomes a faker, a fraud, or at best an intellectual charlatan.

The trend educators claim to note in America lies in the field of political thinking. It is the result, of course, of the fears and doubts and suspicions aroused by disclosures of communist penetration into government, schools, churches and other facets of our daily life. Many professional educators are genuinely disturbed by it and profess to see the day coming when freedom of thought and freedom of expression—the very root of all freedoms—are in real jeopardy.

Dr. Gross, speaking at Duke University this week, sounds this warning:

"Let us remember that sound educational practices require freedom of thought and expression. Let us not forget that democracy grants the right to disagree. The study of controversial issues has always been regarded as essential in a democracy."

The eminent Methodist educator is right. Freedom to discuss controversial issues, no matter what, is essential to democracy. Indeed, it is the essence of democracy. It would do well to bear this singular fact in mind at all times.

Ex-Governor Scott Extensively 'Farming' The Farmers

By LYNN NISBET

SCOTT — Ex-Governor Kerr Scott was doing some intensive farming of the farmers the first of this week. He was attending the State Farm Bureau Federation convention in the dual capacity of an active and participating member of the Alliance unit and as a vigorous campaigner for the United States Senate.

Although he says he is still just surveying sentiment and will not make formal statement as to whether he will officially enter the primary until around the first of February, his activities had all the earmarks of a candidate. Not only that, but of a candidate running as he said he would, "like a rabbit with six hounds on his trail."

Whether or not he was gaining any new votes he certainly was getting encouragement to stay in the race. Comment of many people around the lobby indicated that while sentiment of the Party members is by no means unanimous, a substantial majority of those attending the convention are for Scott.

DIVIDED — He was in close conversation with numerous individuals and small groups throughout the day and until late at night. For the casual greeter as he moved among the crowd he had a ready answer. The common salutation was "How are you getting along?" or "How are you doing?" The almost invariable reply was, "There's divided opinion about that."

Similar answer was made to the same inquiry by those attending the luncheon at Morehead Planetarium before the Notre Dame game last Saturday. It was just as evident that a majority of those around the Planetarium were not for Scott as that those at the farm convention were. A staunch Scott supporter in the hotel lobby quipped: "That's all right, there are a lot more of us here than there are."

Probably there were more people in the lobby than were in the Planetarium building. Certainly there were more people at the ball game than at the convention. Whether the sampling of the small groups represented general opinion of the whole attendance at either event is the question that folks are arguing about. It would seem that folks in the hotel lobby more nearly represented the 1,000 convention attendees than the folks at the luncheon did for the 45,000 football fans.

CAMPAIGNING — The primary is a little more than six months away, which means that Scott has a full half year to conduct his campaign. Senator Alton Lennon, only avowed candidate so far, has about six weeks more to devote to his campaign. Immediately after the Christmas holidays he will have to be on the job at Washington.

Some observers who claim to have inside dope on the intent and purpose of congressional leaders predict that the Congress will adjourn in mid-April. Others expect it to run on into mid-summer. The early adjournment would permit Senator Lennon to get back in the State for the intensive wind-up of the campaign.

The later adjournment would impose upon him the same handicap suffered by Senators William Unstead in 1948 and Frank Graham in 1950, when obligations at Washington interfered with their re-election efforts while their respective opponents were free to devote full time to the campaign. Had much that situation contributed to their failure to win will always be speculative.

UTILIZED — One thing is for sure. Both Lennon and Scott have made good use of the past four months; and there is no sign of let-up on part of either. They have records of how many counties they have been in and how many places they have made public talks, but there is no record of how many people they have shaken hands with. It is quite likely they have gone to quite tired most nights, because either of them does a "cold fish" handshake. They do it like they mean it.

If anybody thinks shaking hands with several thousand people a day is not hard work, just let'em try it. Or, to save trouble, ask Senator Robert Kerr of Oklahoma, who suffered serious permanent injury to his right arm while he was governor of that State from excessive handshaking. If Al Lennon or Kerr Scott have caloused palms the callouses did not come from axe handles or golf clubs. They came from the steering wheel on multiplied miles of driving and from shaking hands with many thousands of North Carolinians.

Area Of New Growth

By ELMER ROESSNER
Growth of the West and the Southwest since the end of World War II has been, to be calm about it, phenomenal. There are reasons for this—the growing awareness of vast natural resources in these parts of the country, the climates, the Lebensraum, the large military installations and the exposure of so many men and women to Western living during the war and thereafter.

There is another reason. Its potency may be impossible to measure but it ranks with the others—such as the climates. It is six little words:

"Slightly higher west of the Rockies."

For more than half a century this phrase has appeared in advertisements in national media. The words usually appear in a small type, or spoken in an apologetic voice. But the lack of drama has been more than made up for by the constant repetition. "Slightly higher west of the Rockies" has been printed and said billions and billions of times. Like drops of rain upon a roof, it has beat on the consciousness of the nation.

It seems certain that every man who has considered starting a new business in the West or Southwest has, during his pondering, seen those words once more and then said to himself, "That's right. There's that freight differential and it will serve as a barrier against Eastern competitors."

The phrase has also irritated Westerners. They have been heard to mutter, "We are being penalized because we live in God's country." They have rallied around every new enterprise near home. Other sections of the country, of course, welcome new industries but rarely with the enthusiasm that is customary in the West.

Today, there are huge apparel, furniture, pottery, rubber, steel, aluminum and fabricating industries in the West and Southwest. California sports fashions have won so much attention that the industry is kept busy cracking down on out-of-state companies that try to appropriate the state's name. One of the best television sets in the country is made in Los Angeles. And there are fine products in other lines, made all the way from New Mexico to Washington, that are flowing into Eastern markets.

WHISKY EXPORT
British exports of Scotch whisky to the United States have been hailed on both sides of the Atlantic as a measure of earning dollars to balance Britain's trade.

One fact often overlooked is that every bottle brought into America earns an average of $1.10 for the British, but puts $1.75 in the United States Treasury.

Richard Stokes, Member of Parliament, recently complained that on a visit to the U.S. he had paid more for a drink of Scotch than the British got for a bottle. He also observed that on the average bottle the importer got 34 cents, the wholesaler 40 cents and the retailer $1.40.

NEW HIGH LEVEL
Hourly wage payments in the iron and steel industry reached a new high level in September, the American Iron and Steel Institute reports. The average hourly payroll cost was $2.328, a cent more than in August, 12.2 cents higher than a year ago and $1.071 higher than in 1945.

BOOK TELLS EVERYTHING ABOUT MAIL ORDER
Every phase of the mail-order business is discussed authoritatively in "Better Mail Order," a 366-page book by Robert A. Baker, Seattle advertising man and an authority on the kind of advertising that gets people to mail orders. It is published this week by Printers' Ink, New York ($5). In addition to Mr. Baker's comprehensive guidance for both novices and old mail-order hands, the book includes reprints of some of the best material on mail order from Printers' Ink, reprints of advertisements that brought outstanding results, and a "work kit" of check lists, headline-word lists and publication lists.

It All Began When Vests Went

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—In the year 4,000 a young ant rushed eagerly into the office of his grandfather, the tycoon of the male clothing industry.

"Well, grandpa, I've got a revolutionary idea," he said excitedly, spreading some drawings on the desk.

"It's for a new kind of suit—a two-piece suit. What good is the old-fashioned vest anyway, except to collect lint? If we get rid of it and convince ants a two-piece suit is healthier and more stylish, we can charge the same price and triple our profits."

Instead of complimenting him, his grandfather picked up a magnifying glass, handed it to his grandson, and told him to lean out the window, look down at the earth and tell him what he saw.

"Nothing," said the boy.

"Look closer," replied the grandfather, a distinguished old insect with a nose mottled by years of fine living.

"There's nothing there but a swarm of little human beings," said his grandson impatiently. "Well, at one time those tiny creatures ruled the earth," said his grandpa gravely.

"No kidding? How odd." The young ant idly dropped a paper clip out the window and smiled as it landed in the cluster of people, killing four. "But what has that got to do with my new idea for a two-piece suit?"

"Your idea is more than 2,000 years old," said his grandfather. "It originated with the forebears of one of those insignificant two-legged beasts you just looked at, and it led to the downfall of mankind."

"Tell me about it," said the young ant, who suspected old grandpa had been nipping at the bourbon again and was off on another tall tale.

"In those days human beings were as big as ants are now, and we had to live underground to keep from being trampled to death," began grandpa. "They were a curious race. They killed and robbed each other for six days of the week and rested on the seventh day to regain their strength for more slaughter."

"But they had made considerable progress, considering their weak intellects. They were strong and tall and powerful."

"Then, following one of the wars they seemed always engaged in, a clothing company sold them on the idea of doing without a vest."

"Next they began putting out pajamas that only came to the knees and elbows. Then they quit wearing hats, reduced the necktie to the width of a shoestring, and started leaving shoestrings out of shoes."

"Then they cut down the size of their houses, and left out the dining room and the bedrooms. Before long their houses had only two rooms—a den and a garage. They put more and more seats in their buses, trains and subways, and the seats got smaller and smaller. The big people became so uncomfortable they began to die out. Then everybody started eating less and less, and each generation got smaller and smaller. There no longer was room in the world for a big man—or a big feeling."

"One day a man tried to trample an ant, and the ant trampled him instead. Well, what a thrill that was! We decided we could take over the world. And you know how we did it? By reversing the trend. We forced people underground into colonies, and started living above ground ourselves like individuals. We built bigger and bigger homes and larger seats on our buses and grew up to fill them. We never allowed one ant to crowd another. And our civilization reached its peak when we finally restored the vest to male suits. That was the climax to our victory. Do you think I want to start the ant world on the downward path of man?"

"I'm sorry grandpa," said the abashed young ant, backing out the door.

Sports Time-Out

with Jimmy Ellis

The fall sports season isn't over yet and they're already talking basketball.

At Greenville High School, Coach Boley Farley started the serious end of the business this week. He expects to continue calisthenics and conditioning exercises this week and then get down to the really serious proposition of teaching patterns and the finer points of the game.

The Phantoms will open their season December 1 against Wilson. They have six pre-Christmas contests with Eastern AAA Conference teams with three of them planned for the Greenville High School gym.

14-Man Squad
The Phantoms expect to have a Varsity squad of 14 men this year. They have five lettermen available, two guards, a center, and two forwards. The reserve strength will include several boys who have played before but who have not lettered so far as Varsity competition is concerned.

Perhaps the biggest loss the Phantoms will have to balance this year is that of forward Smith Worthington. Worthington was their offensive leader last year but he graduated and now is a student at East Carolina.

The job of taking Worthington's place will probably be Bob Howell's. He is one of the returning lettermen. Harold Edwards holds the inside track at center and George Siders and Edgar Moore are the top guards at the moment. All are lettermen.

The Phantoms were hit hard by a flu epidemic in the late stages of the season last year but they still managed to break even in their last 18 games. They had their rough moments in the early stages of the campaign but were clicking very well when the flu epidemic ran through the team and put as many as nine men in bed at one time.

Russell Gone
At East Carolina, the problem will be finding a suitable replacement for Sonny Russell. The All-State, All-Conference forward finished up last year with one of his most outstanding seasons but his loss was the only one off the Pirate first team.

Right now, and there is still more than a week to go before the December 1 opener with Belmont Abbey, freshman Don Harris seems to be the logical heir to the job. He was an All-Stater for two years with Laurinburg High School.

Harris will have serious competition for the job. Waverley Atkins, a former star with Oak Ridge Military Institute, stands a good chance of ousting him. Fred Anders, a former standout player with Durham High School's strong teams, also rates serious consideration for the job.

The rest of the line-up seems to be complete already. Cecil Heath, the little playmaker from Wilmington, and Raleigh's J. C. Thomas are both back to play the guard posts. Big Bobby Hodges, fresh from a great year with the football squad, will be the center. Charlie Huffman, Russell's running mate at the forwards last year, is back and set for a good year.

The reserve strength of the Bucs promises to be stronger this season than it was a year ago. Senior Paul Jones, perhaps the best second-team man in the conference for three years, is bucking for a first-team job this year, his last, and he may get it. He can play anywhere on the team and has enough height (6-1) to be a good man under the boards.

Bob Moyer, the former Snow Hill High School star, has been looking considerably better at the center post. A pair of Oak Ridge graduates, Ronnie Hodge and E. W. Bush, have been performing well at the guards. William MacArthur, a freshman from Fayetteville, is a good prospect at forward.

The Pirates have been working for more than a month now. They have their patterns down pretty well but they still have a long way to go before their opener with Belmont Abbey, one of the small schools in the state that is determined to go "big-time" in the basketball world.

"The Bucs will play 19 games this year. Sixteen of the contests will be North State Conference games and three of them with "outside" competition. McCrary's Eagles will be met once and Belmont Abbey twice, a home-and-home arrangement. There will be 10 home games.

Harris, the freshman ace of the Pirates, is a new papa. His child, a son, was born early this week in Pitt Memorial. The baby weighed seven pounds, seven ounces when it was born. Both the baby, the mother, and the father are doing fine.

Incidentally, three members of the squad are married. Harris, Bobby Hodges, and Paul Jones are the three married men with Bob Moyer planning the big day, Thanksgiving Day.

General Idea

OKLAHOMA CITY—Oklahoma's savage blocking and tackling have become hallmarks of the Sooners' play during the highly-prosperous Wilkinson regime, bringing occasional charges from the press, players and coaches, reports The Sporting News.

A Topeka (Kan.) sports editor complained after the Sooners' 45 to 0 rout over Kansas this year that the Oklahoma's kept knocking down Jayhawk players all day. Asked for comment at the Oklahoma City Quarterback Club's weekly Monday luncheon, Wilkinson grinned. "I thought," he said, "that was the general idea of the game."

Buc Bowl Hopes Considerably Dimmer

Bucs Ignored Twice In Bowl Selections

By JIMMY ELLIS
Reflector Sports Editor

East Carolina College's chances for a bowl contest continued to grow a little dimmer today.

The Tangerine Bowl, one of the post-season contests for which the Bucs were supposed to be considered, has filled its bill. That bowl is for the New Year's Day contest. The signings were announced yesterday by the selection committee.

Bob Moyer, the Tampa contest for which the Pirates have been supposedly one of the leading contenders this week. The list does not include East Carolina.

Those two bowl games are the nation's top attractions for small colleges. Both play annually to sell-out crowds.

Different Light
The more recent shifts in the bowl picture puts an entirely different light on the bowl picture. Less than a week ago, just after they had walked Stetson 40-6 in a terrific comeback from their only loss of the year, the entire team and the coaching staff obviously felt that the squad had a very good chance of getting invited to at least one of the post-season games.

The Pirates won the North State Conference championship this year with six victories against six opponents. They lost only once during the season but that was evidently the wrong time because the loss was to Tampa, usually the host team in the Cigar Bowl. That loss snapped a season's mark of seven consecutive victories and a regular season string of 14 consecutive games without a defeat.

On top of the bowl troubles, the Pirates are having trouble finding teams to play them during the regular season. Their efforts to arrange a Thanksgiving Day game were completely unsuccessful even though Pirate athletic officials considered every possibility they knew.

For the 1954 season, there also seems to be some doubt. The Bucs had only nine games this year. One of the opponents, Guilford, is not going to renew its grid contract with the Pirates. The reluctance with which teams signed to face the Pirates this year suggests that next year will mean an even harder time arranging a schedule.

Stetson will come to Greenville next year. That arrangement was made last year after the Pirates had tied the Hatters 19-19 in the first game of their series. The report has not been confirmed yet but Tampa is supposedly on the schedule for the next two years. The reported contract calls for the 1954 game in Tampa and the 1955 game here in Greenville.

Southern Conference teams have shown a decided reluctance to tangle with the Pirates. All of those contacted for a possible Thanksgiving Day contest either backed away quickly or set their price at a figure that was just too much for a modest East Carolina athletic budget to consider.

Belvoir Teams Win Twice From Walstonburg Squads

BELVOIR—Belvoir's basketball teams opened their season Tuesday night with a double win over Walstonburg. The girls won their game 37-24 while the boys took their end of the twin-bill 65-28.

In the girls game, the contest moved slowly because of the competition in the contest. Belvoir jumped to a 12-0 lead in the first period and extended that margin to 23-8 at the half-time. Walstonburg never made a serious threat and were able to outscore Belvoir only in the fourth period when Belvoir reserves were in the game.

J. Parker took scoring honors for Belvoir with 10 points. Peardon had nine tallies. Rogers and Cox had 10 apiece for Walstonburg.

Boys Game
In the boys game, the score was extremely close until the fourth period when Belvoir began pulling away from their visitors. Belvoir had trailed 28-21 at the half after tying the game 13-13 at the end of the first period.

The Belvoir superiority began to exert itself in the third quarter when the home team began closing the gap. Walstonburg continued to hang on to its lead but it had been cut to 41-39. In the fourth period, the Belvoir boys rang up 26 points while holding their opposition to seven.

Gene Harris took the scoring honors for Belvoir with 28 points. Walstonburg had 16 and Harrell had 15 for Walstonburg. Ross got 14 for Belvoir's runnerup honors.

Reorganization May Save Rockets
GASTONIA (AP)—Chances are good that a new organization may be formed, keeping the Gastonia Rockets in the Tri-State Baseball League, J. K. (Buddy) Lewis reported today.

Tuesday night the Gastonia Baseball Corp. voted to dissolve, but Lewis pointed out, not to surrender its franchise. The group has until Dec. 1, when the league directors meet in Atlanta, to decide the matter.

"The action taken earlier this week," Lewis said, "simply laid the groundwork for reorganization. We are now discussing the situation with responsible, civic-minded men who are interested in keeping a ball club here."

"Many of those in the old corporation are interested in re-forming and bringing in new people."

The club lost money last season, Lewis reported, but in the event the franchise is surrendered, stockholders would not necessarily lose money. This, he said, was because of the club's investment in players.

Meanwhile at Asheville, League President Robert E. Hipps expressed confidence that Gastonia would see its third year in the league.

Big Money Paid Teams In Games Played January 1

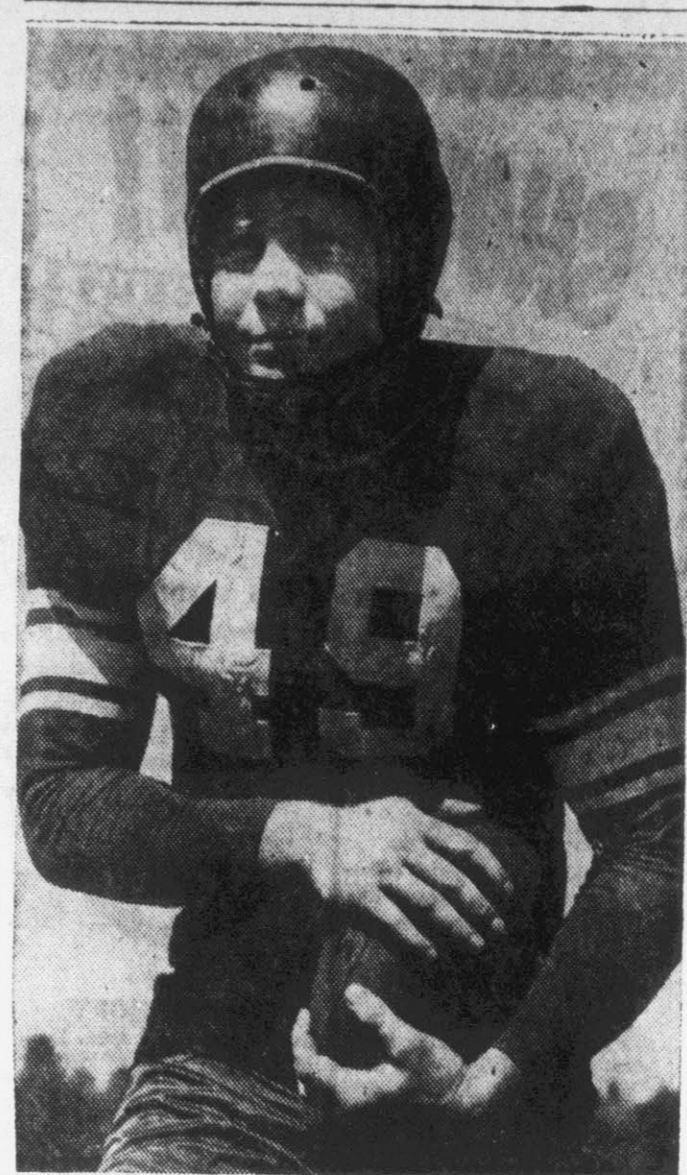

It's time to change that old entertainment field slogan about "There's No Business Like Show Business."

In its finest modern dress it certainly should be altered to read: "There's No Business Like the Football Bowl Business."

An article in The Sporting News states that with the collegiate season rolling into its final weeks, the battle for places in the major bowl games is bitter. There are plenty of football honors available to the teams that get into the post-season parades, plus a portion of the richest gridiron melon in the game's history.

Here's the swag, as reported in The Sporting News, that the competing teams will divide in the four top bowl battles:

Game	Share
Rose Bowl	$600,000
Sugar Bowl	280,000
Orange Bowl	220,000
Cotton Bowl	205,000
Total	$1,305,000

JAMES (RED) SMITH
Duke Halfback

Smith Big Question Mark As Devils Prepare For Tech

DURHAM—Duke University's football Blue Devils, with six victories, a one-point loss to Army and a scoreless tie with Navy as the season's record, were to fly out of here tomorrow for Saturday's engagement with Georgia Tech in Atlanta.

The Blue Devils will work out lightly on Grant Field in Atlanta late tomorrow. They will headquarter at the Atlanta Biltmore Hotel.

The big question as the Blue Devils plan to leave is the condition of Star Halfback James (Red) Smith, leading scorer and ground gainer on the team who suffered a severe ankle injury early in the Virginia game three weeks ago.

The injury did not respond to treatment and the big red-head has been unable to practice this week. He was still limping badly as he drilled in sweat clothes yesterday.

Duke depends a great deal on the brilliant Smith. In fact, only in the Virginia game have they been able to score without him.

In the second game of the year against Wake Forest, Smith missed the first half and the score at that time was 0-0. Two weeks ago he was out of the Navy game and it ended in a scoreless deadlock.

The injury to Smith was a hard blow to him personally. There is little doubt that he could have scored enough points against Virginia and Navy to break a 17-year old Duke scoring record.

For his three-year career Smith has tallied 123 points and needs only 12 to break the mark set by the great Ace Parker in 1924-35-36. Parker, now offensive backfield coach of the Blue Devils, had a total of 134 points in those years.

There is one bright spot on the Duke side. Fullback Byrd Looper, since the fourth game of the season, returned to full-time work this week and will be able to play against the Engineers.

The Blue Devils have worked hard for two weeks in preparation for this clash. The spirit has been good and it is thought that the Duke crew will be "up" for this game against the undefeated ranks and completely embarrassed them in the Homecoming Day contest here last year. That score was 28-7.

De will start its usual team of Sorrell, jr.; Meadows, jr.; Burrows, jr.; Palmer, jr.; Torrance, jr.; Birchfield, jr.; Pitt (Capt.); Barger, jr.; Caudie, jr.; McKethan, jr.; Kistler, jr.

DURHAM—Although the fall sports teams haven't yet completed their regular seasons, Duke's basketball team already has two weeks of pre-season practice under its belt in preparation for the Dec. 2 opener here with Furman University.

The Blue Devils of Coach Harold Bradley face probably the toughest December schedule in the history of the school. From showings in the pre-season work, Bradley's fourth edition should be fairly well armed to make a creditable showing.

Two-thirds of the 15-man squad was on the varsity last year and nine of the 10 won monograms.

Only five of the 15 players are seniors—co-captains Bernie Janicki and Rudy D'Emilio and Rudy Lacy, Marv Decker and Fred Shabel. There are three juniors and seven sophomores on the team.

Five newcomers are expected to help where help is needed most—at center and guard. Marty Doherty, a 6-9 transfer from Colgate, and 6-7 Junior Morgan of Asheville will work at the center slot and 6-5 Don Tobin, Don Sims and Tom Blackburn will add depth at the guard positions.

Two sophomores return who lettered as freshmen last season, 6-4 forward Ronnie Mayer and guard Joe Belmont. Mayer and Tobin were high school sensations in Avalon, Pa., High School two years ago, leading the team to an undefeated season while setting team and individual scoring records.

The No. 1 club currently has Janicki, the team's top scorer with 336 points and a 16.8 average last year, and Mayer at the forwards, either Decker or Doherty at center and D'Emilio, Belmont and Tobin at the guards.

Furman should offer top-notch opposition in the opener with All-America Frank Selvy, the nation's leading scorer last year, leading the way. The game with Furman will be one of four home games scheduled for Duke before the Christmas holidays. Tennessee will be here Dec. 5, William and Mary Dec. 12 and Davidson Dec. 15. On Dec. 7 the team will play Vanderbilt at Nashville, Tenn.

Highlighting the touch December card are two invitational tournaments. The Blue Devils meet the University of Kentucky in the opening game of a two-day meet at Kentucky's new 13,000-seat field house at Lexington on Dec. 21-22 and Oregon State furnishes the opposition when the Devils begin play in the three-day Dixie Classic at Raleigh a week later. The Classic runs from Dec. 28-30 this year.

Although a great deal of scoring potential was lost with the entering in service of Bill Riegel, the team's second high point make last season, Bradley expects the club will improve on defense and playmaking ability.

Confident Wes Santee Sees New Mile Record

By SKIPPER PATRICK
AP Newsfeatures

LAWRENCE, Kan. Wes Santee, the nation's greatest miler, now has his sights on something faster than the 4-minute mile.

Presently in obscurity as a member of his school's cross-country team, the 21-year-old University of Kansas senior is looking toward the day he will run the mile in 3:58.3.

"And I believe I'll hit 3:58.3 one of these days," says Santee. "Of course everything will have to be just right. That means me, the track and the weather."

Santee thinks he's capable of running the half mile in 1:48. He says he could come close to world records in the 2,000 and 3,000-meter runs before he finishes running.

Many consider the slim lad from a ranch near Ashland, Kan., on the cocky side. But none doubt his ability. His records, many of which he predicted, back up his cockiness.

He set a national collegiate (CAA) mile record of 4:06.3 at the Big Seven meet at Ames, Iowa, last spring and lowered it to 4:03.7 at the NCAA meet in Lincoln, Neb., a few weeks later. He was timed in 4:02.4 in the Compton (Calif.) Relays, fastest ever run by an American anywhere.

The world record of 4:01.4 is held by Sweden's Gunder Haegg. The 150-pound 6-1 star holds the mile and half-mile Big Seven Conference records. He has erased just about every mark set by the great Glenn Cunningham, also of Kansas, in the early 1930s.

Santee failed to qualify for the Olympics in the 5,000 meters last summer after having set an American mark of 2:58.3 for the three-quarters at the Olympic trials at Randall's Island.

His coach, Bill Easton, said it was a new and strange distance for his star.

Wes did well in a two-months tour of Europe last summer. He set a new American record for 1,500 meters, 3:44.2 at Gothenburg, Sweden, and won 11 of 22 races, exclusive of relays. He was timed in 1:48.9 for 880 and 1:48.2 for 800 meters, although Mal Whitfield broke the tape each time.

Santee says European runners are thought at distances because of more rugged training conditions. Their uphill and down work over longer stretches makes the difference, he explains.

"I knew I could run when I was in grade school," says Santee. "Coach Allen Murry saw me loping in a physical ed class and told me I could be a distance runner. I've tried my best ever since to prove him right."

Santee gives plenty of credit to Kansas' Coach Easton for his rapid development.

"Coach really believes in hard work," he says. "When I'm getting ready for the mile he puts me through five-eight miles on Monday followed by a hard quarter. Tuesday it's two or three miles and three to eight continuous quarters. On Wednesday and Thursday I do two or three cross-country miles and a bunch of 220's."

"It's nice to see the week end when I can run just a couple of races," he concludes.

Desire and hard work are necessary to be a good distance man, says Santee.

"Desire alone won't do it," he says. "A fellow has to work hard at it, too."

Santee plans to return to the family ranch after a couple of years—which may start next spring—in the Marines. He's going to keep on running for a good many years, he says.

Quail And Rabbit Season At Hand

Vaudeville Acts To Share Billing With Trotters

RALEIGH—Four acts of vaudeville entertainment will be part of the program in the William Neal Reynolds Coliseum at North Carolina State College Saturday evening, Nov. 21, when the famed Harlem Globetrotters play the Washington Generals.

In the opening game of the evening, the Philadelphia Warriors will be opposed by the Baltimore Bullets.

As usual, the vaudeville acts will be first class. Each is making a first appearance this year as part of the Globetrotter entertainment presentation.

Heading the bill are the Rudenkos, Igor and George, considered among the best juggling teams in the world. They toss hoops, balls and dumbbells and finish their act by juggling flaming torches at great speed.

Jerry Simms, brilliant young accordionist, is another of the outstanding acts. A graduate of the University of California at Los Angeles, Jerry was in the Navy during the war and performed all over the world as an entertainer for the armed services. Since being discharged he has played many of the leading hotels throughout the country.

Abbe Saperstein, owner-coach of the Globetrotters, who arranges the entertainment program each year, has a "soft spot" for trampoline artists and this year he is presenting for the first time an exciting new team. They are the Garners, a boy and girl combination, each of whom won national honors in intercollegiate competition.

Rounding out the program is Melino and Hollis, a pair of comedy acrobats. During the summers, they travel all over the world with outdoor circuses. Their breath-taking acrobatics always prove an exciting part of the evening's show.

Tickets for the basketball double-header and entertainment program are on sale at the Coliseum Box Office, State College, Raleigh.

Child Neglect Charged By World Of Fashion

NEW YORK (U.P.) — Now it's a fashion designer instead of educators and social workers worrying about neglect of children. Helen Lee, mother of three, says clothing manufacturers have been letting the small fry down for years.

Only recently, she says, have the fashion people made any effort to dress small girls in something other than ruffles and pastels.

The designer, a native of Knoxville, Tenn., has been making children's clothes for 25 years. For her pioneering in production of more sophisticated apparel, she was one of three winners of this year's American Fashion Critics Award.

"I believe firmly in a dress a girl can put on, button up, and forget about," she said. "I loathe clothes which aren't utilitarian. But for years mothers have washed and ironed pinks, blues, yellows and whites. Plus ruffles and tucks. I don't know where they ever found the time or energy.

More practical, she believes, are charcoal grays, and black.

"I spice the dark colors up with the bright reds, oranges and such," she said. "But little girls love black."

The designer, affiliated with a concern (Youngland) which does an $8,000,000 annual business in girls' dresses, prefers to design for the three to seven age group.

"By the time they're 10 or 12," she said, "their shape has changed... they're lost everything and gained nothing."

Love And Career Do Not Mix In Beauty's Plans

By RON BURTON
United Press Staff Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD (U.P.) — A soft-spoken beauty from a rich Deep South family hopes to make the grade in Hollywood by starting at the bottom—if love doesn't get in the way.

Anne Reed, the blonde, brown-eyed daughter of a wealthy Mississippi cotton planter, is beginning by going to classes at the Pasadena Playhouse.

"My studies range from the history of the theater to actual rehearsals," she said in the $110-a-month one-bedroom apartment she shares with a friend.

"That last for a year, and then there are two more years, but you go back by invitation. And then—well, I've wanted to be an actress since I was five years old," she said her words tinged with a southern accent.

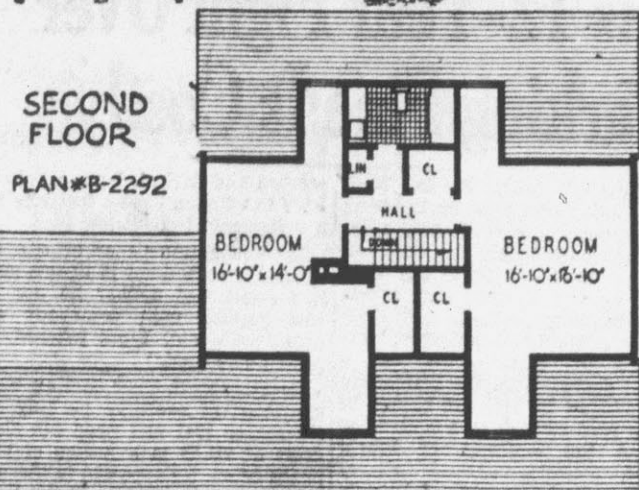

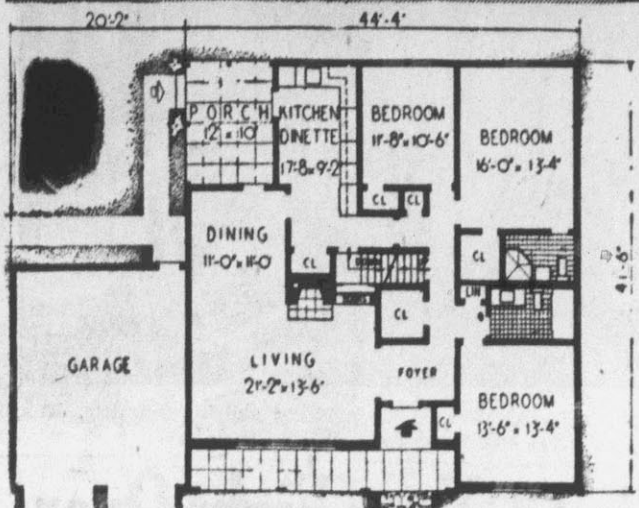

Started at Tulane — The 21-year-old hopeful arrived here Sept. 17 after a year at Sophie Newcomb College, women's division of Tulane University. She previously had gone to the fashionable Finch Junior College in New York.

"I never forget my drama instructor there — William Post. He taught me more than anyone else about acting," she recalled. She said her father approved her acting plans only after years of discussion.

"I told daddy that was what I wanted to do and he tried to talk me out of it. Then he finally said that if I wanted it badly enough and never tried it I wouldn't be happy," she explained.

Shelley Winters Thrives On A Tumultuous Career

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (U.P.) — It's time to check up on the wondrous world of Shelley Winters.

The unpredictable blonde is a throwback to another Hollywood era. There was a time when the temperamental leading lady was considered par for the course. But movie actors on the whole have become more normal and anyone who departs from the norm is treated as a freak.

Shelley thrives on turmoil, and that may be part of the reason I found her doing a TV film for the "Ford Theater." Her studio was against the idea.

"They claim my contract says I can only do live TV," she remarked. "It says I have the right to do TV, and I claim that's either live or on film. I'm not going to budge."

Besides, I want to prove a point. The show I'm doing is a comedy—the light, Jean Arthur sort of thing which is what I want to do in pictures. Maybe if the producers see this, it'll convince 'em.

"So far I can't break the type. All they ever cast me for is tough, dance-hall dames. It was just as though I had never done 'A Place in the Sun' in which I played a 19-year-old virgin and for which I got an Academy nomination." Shelley is always up in arms about something. Recently she had much-publicized running feud with a casino when she was appearing in Las Vegas. She claims the place provoked her into blowing her top so the publicity could be reaped.

Even so, the fracas appears to have done her no harm. She said that upon her return she had more job offers than she could handle.

Routed Intruders After Beating

LONG BEACH, Calif. (U.P.) — After he and his wife Rebecca, 82, were seated in their living room when the men rang the doorbell, Mrs. Andresen answered it and one man beat her on the head while the other attacked Andresen.

As the two men tried to force open a safe, Andresen went to his bedroom and got his rifle. The intruders saw it and fled.

Her current heart interest here is a young cotton executive whom she was told to look up by her family. "It's funny," she mused. "We talk about cotton, and I keep telling him how much better Mississippi cotton is than California cotton. I'm going to give daddy a full report."

So far Miss Reed's impressions of Los Angeles come from eye-smarting smog, "unusual" driving and minor brushes with "wolves."

"They sure look at you when you're out in a car," she said. The peach-and-cream blonde, whose 34-24-35 measurements are well spaced over 120 pounds and five feet six inches, admits one thing might interfere with her career—love. She said she has tried to fortify herself against that happening.

"But, you know, that cotton guy is mighty cute."

Story Behind Soldiers' Revolt On Roast Turkey

By WILLIAM C. BARNARD
 SEUL (AP)—The U. S. 8th Army announced with apparent gusto this week that the soldiers in Korea would be "devouring more than 150 tons of turkey" on Thanksgiving Day.

But the apparent gusto, it seemed, was confined to the quarter-master people.

Slowly the dread news spread—from the rear echelons right up to where troops look out on the demilitarized zone.

You could hear the wail in tent and bunker: "Oh no, not turkey again—anything, even boiled eel or turnip greens."

What was the story behind this uprising against the turkey? This puzzled reporter went out to investigate.

"Why couldn't it have been steak?" asked a captain. He was an obvious beef eater.

"Chances are 3 to 5 we'd have got turkey whether it was Thanksgiving or not," said a private.

"Back home," moaned another enlisted man, "we ate turkey about three times a year instead of three times a week and I could enjoy it."

That was it. The Army suffered from a glut of turkey. How come? A lieutenant colonel wasn't sure. But he told how it was late in the war.

The colonel recalled with fine nausea those last harrowing days—two weeks when the front-line soldiers had turkey every other day.

"It was a ration foulup," he declared, "and it did us a lot more harm than the enemy did."

So the situation is normal—all fowled up. Turkey on the menu twice a week with hot turkey sandwiches and turkey salad in between.

A mess sergeant told me he became so depressed he took to strong drink. He wanted to put up a sign on the mess hall door: "Caution: Turkey Today." His major talked him out of it.

It isn't just the repetition that has the U. S. 8th Army down on turkey. The cause lies deeper than that—in the deep freeze where the turkey is kept, the colonel said.

"Maybe the turkey just comes too damned far and for too damned long," the colonel said.

"Somewhere out on the ocean it loses all its flavor and arrives on my plate tasting like a roasted plastic pocket comb—with sage dressing."

Turnpike Bridge Said Highest In United States

PRINCETON, W. Va. (AP) A Turnpike bridge is being built across the Bluestone River near here which World Almanac editors say is the highest in the United States.

The floor is 255 feet above the water. The editors say the previous highest bridge was New York City's George Washington Bridge, 252 feet above the Hudson River at low water level.

Other high ones are Golden Gate, San Francisco, 238; St. Johns, Portland, Ore., 205; Rainbow, Niagara Falls, 189; Chesapeake Bay, Kent Island, Md., 188; The Narrows, Tacoma, Wash., 185; Longview, Columbia River, Washington, 185; Delaware Memorial, Wilmington, Del., 180; Port Arthur-Orange, N. Forty Men Take Pre-Draft Tests

Forty Pitt County men reported to Raleigh yesterday for pre-induction physicals for the armed services, local Selective Service officials reported.

Six others failed to appear and are listed as delinquent. Those six are: Vanderbilt Meeks, Negro, Route 2, Robersonville; William Henry Tyson, Route 2, Winterville; James Louis Howard, Negro, Route 5, Washington; J.E. Gatlin, Negro; Chicod; Clifton Ray Pilgreen, Route 5, Greenville; and Bennie Lee Tyson, Negro, 710 Main Street, Farmville.

Names of the 40 that reported could not be released by the officials; however, it was stated that three of the 40 were transfers from other boards.

There is no induction call for November, but 15 Pitt youths are scheduled for entrance into service on December 4.

Frogmen Given 'Hell Week' In Training Course

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—Hell Week for Navy frogmen is the third week of a 12-week training course. The volunteer swimmers, hikes and crawls an obstacle course and must survive psychological tests. The day begins at 4 a.m. When weaknesses show up under stress of rain, exhaustion, explosions, lack of sleep or food, or even conflicting orders, it is a flunk for the candidate.

Frogmen usually precede an amphibious beach landing for reconnaissance and demolition.

In one class only 14 officers and 28 men qualified, of 17 officers and 52 men. In another only 7 officers and 15 enlisted men qualified from a starting group of 15 officers and 68 men.

Those who qualify are members of the Navy's Underwater Demolition Team. Courses are conducted twice annually here.

Dear Deer For Marine Motorist

CAMP LEJEUNE, N.C. (AP)—A Camp Lejeune Marine recently killed his first deer and had his first automobile accident at the same time.

A 6-point buck weighing 160 pounds darted out of the woods and rammed into the car of M. Sgt. Francis J. Inosky on a highway near this Marine base. The accident caused damages of $300.

Vandals Delayed His Homecoming

SEYMOUR, Conn. (AP) It took Walter J. Yazluk a lot longer than usual to get home from his 4 p.m. to midnight factory job.

When he went to his automobile he found that someone had let the air out of the four tires, stolen the valve pins, broken two windshield wipers, stolen the cap on the gasoline tank and turned on all the lights, causing the battery to go dead.

His 12-Year Fight Over Parking Fine Is Costly

MIDLAND, Mich. (AP)—Dr. Kenneth McKay was fined $1 for overtime parking in 1941—12 years ago—but he hasn't paid the fine yet.

And he doesn't intend to any time soon even if it costs him a few more thousand dollars.

"It's a matter of principle," explained Dr. McKay, who got a dental degree from the University of Michigan in 1897 but turned to filling road cavities as a contractor around the outbreak of World War I.

"My crew," he explained by way of background, "was working on Midland's main street in 1941. I drove around a barricade we had

Disease-Free Pigs Possible

AUSTIN, Minn. (AP)—Hormel Institute researchers tell how to raise disease-free pigs.

The pigs encased in the sow's uterus, are removed by surgery after the sow is immobilized by carbon monoxide. The pigs are then raised to maturity in isolated quarters and are fed pasteurized cows' milk.

The sow becomes meat.

Whaling Fleet Has Helicopter

TOKYO (AP)—The first Japanese whaling fleet to use a helicopter sailed from Yokosuka today for the antarctic.

The fleet, consisting of the 17,000-ton mother ship Nisshin Maru and six catcher boats will use the 'copter for weather observation and to spot whales and icebergs.

Evaporation from the surface of the Dead Sea is estimated at from 8 1/2 to 17 feet annually.

School Pressure Easing Favored

ROANOKE, Va. (AP)—Schools should take the pressure off children in the classrooms.

This opinion was expressed by Dr. Gertrude M. Lewis of the U.S. Office of Education.

"Mental health problems are caused by the human organism being faced with problems it was not designed for and cannot deal with," she said. "Therefore the schools must cease hold these children to standards they cannot meet."

Vegetarian Dog Enjoys Coffee

WEST COVINA, Calif. (AP)—Shep eats his corn on the cob, waffles a stack of cakes and buttered toast and washes it all down with big gulps of coffee. For dessert he likes candy.

Shep, a four-year-old Australian shepherd dog owned by Mrs. Harry Miller, earns his groceries on the Miller's poultry ranch by bringing in the mail from the roadside post box and carrying messages to men working on the ranch. He herds chickens too.

Fiancee Of Dead Son Is Adopted

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP)—A German woman who was to have become a Huntington couple's daughter-in-law has become their adopted daughter instead.

Miss Anneliese Lange had been engaged to Mr. and Mrs. C.G. Gillette's son, William Joseph, who died of heart disease.

The couple asked Anneliese to make her home with them.

Bill Gillette met Miss Lange while he was stationed in Germany during World War II.

Many historians believe that in the Bronze Age the average length of human life was less than 20 years.

Retiring After Success In Three Varied Careers

PITTSFIELD, Mass. (AP)—John Eberwein, a vigorous and rosy checked 71, came to this country 45 years ago from his native Austria and now he's going to retire after successes in three different ventures.

He worked at various jobs until he had enough in 1913 to open a meat market and built a large sausage business the only one of its kind in this area.

Fifteen years later he quit the meat business and, with two partners, started an ice plant, the largest of its kind in this vicinity.

That flourished until about six years ago and Eberwein began an auto laundry, reportedly the first of its kind between Springfield, Mass., and Albany, N.Y.

In the United States, 87 per cent of the new cars sold are sold on the installment plan.

Soviet Gals Rebel Against Iron Curtain Styles

SOVIET SWANK . . . The woman's sports suit, designed by V. Korch of Moscow, is typical of fashions which Russian women complain make them "look like divans." Man's suit, by M. Ruchkin, has jazzy back yoke and belt.

RED STYLE GLAMOUR . . . This garment is called a dress suit behind the Iron Curtain, and is designed by T. Ksenofontova after national costume patterns.

MALENKOV CHIC . . . Serviceable felt hat, Red style. Man, dig that hairdo!

RUSSIAN ROULETTE . . . This velours hat designed by V. Dolyla is good for keeping the head warm, but who wants a hat just for that, ask Soviet women.

SQUARE SILHOUETTE . . . Another of the fashions which have started a new Russian revolution against unflattering clothes. This one is by V. Bubusova.

By RICHARD KASISCHKE
AP Newsfeatures

MOSCOW—Why, Grandmother, said the girl, "in that dress you look just like a divan."

And how right the girl was, observed Tatiana Tess, writing in the Soviet government newspaper Izvestia.

Miss Tess was giving a dressing down to the Soviet Union's clothing industry in an article entitled "Pretty as well as Comfortable Clothing."

She demanded that Soviet fashion designers and clothing factories bestir themselves to obey the orders of the Malenkov government, which is putting on a big drive for more and better consumer goods.

The government has promised the Soviet people, male and female, that they can have "elegant as well as serviceable shoes and clothing." The nation's press now is prodding the industry to get out of its monotonous rut and get chic.

Miss Tess, in her discourse on the shortcomings of the Soviet clothing industry suggested that if factories don't come through with smart materials and continued "wasting" materials in unsalable styles "it is necessary to fine the factory, just as one would fine a person who violates an order."

"Clothing," she wrote, "should be beautiful, comfortable and elegant. It should meet the demands of the people of various professions ages and sizes. But clothing should also be as varied as people themselves vary."

Miss Tess said that she and many other Soviet women were sick and tired of the limited and unimaginative styles offered them in hats, frocks and shoes.

Take the lady who looked like a divan. "She was the head of a collective farm brigade from the Kiev district who came to Moscow," related Miss Tess. "This woman began life as an agricultural worker but ended up as a state official. She went into a Moscow store with her granddaughter and made the rounds from one store to another."

"I came to their home just as the grandmother was unwrapping her purchases. She unwrapped a crepe de chine dress, looked at its bright flowered pattern and remarked that she had been offered the same design in one store after another. She said the clerks finally persuaded her to take it because of its sturdy material."

But then granddaughter burst out about grandma looking like a divan in that dress. "The flowers in the pattern were so large," remarked Miss Tess. "Like the kind used in pattern for upholstery." She continued:

"Now this woman had hunted for a pretty dress to fit her age and taste and not belie her grey hair. But everywhere she found the same things—large flowers in monotonous pattern printed on good material. This monotony aroused a feeling of dissatisfaction and protest, and it was bad work."

"Now we have many talented artists working in our textile factories. And one finds many beautiful and interesting drawings in their work rooms. But why aren't these patterns being introduced into the industry? Why do the clerks in our stores stand around idle? Because people will not purchase the monotonous patterns in our clothing industry."

"There is such a thing as technical waste," Miss Tess continued. "For example, if a factory makes up a green dress embroidered with blue silk only because there is no brown silk on hand—such a dress is a waste."

"The Soviet people have a genuine love for the beautiful. . . they have a right to demand beautiful and comfortable clothing for work, the home, the theater. Soviet citizens are ashamed to observe that many of our establishments have fallen behind their sense in tastes and the requirements of the people."

Governor Feels Problems Solved

SANTA FE, N. M., (AP)—Gov. Ed Mechem feels this state's water problems are well on the way to solution now that he has won the Teton Mountains of Wyoming.

"If we can develop a cheap source of power, I'd like to start piping the water down here now," he says.

Mechem and Gov. C. J. Rogers of Wyoming bet on the outcome of last Saturday's football game in which New Mexico defeated Wyoming 9-7. Mechem put up the Sangre de Cristo Mountains of New Mexico against the Teton.

Couple Pennies Make Difference

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—A couple of pennies makes a lot of difference, says Connecticut State Tax Commissioner William F. Connelly. When the state sales tax was one per cent he reports, many merchants preferred to absorb it rather than pass it on to the customer. Since the tax went up to three per cent however, he says that "dealers are more careful to collect the levy even on small items."

About 65 per cent of the families in the United States own automobiles.

Both Tarheel veterans were also confident that there would be no material changes in the agriculture program or labor laws at the forthcoming second session of the present Congress. There has been some talk of opposition in his district to Coolidge, but that now appears a remote probability. The district is predominantly agricultural and the voters are reluctant to lose the prestige of committee chairmanship, particularly at a time which seems as important as this to the overall agricultural program.

DUD—So far as capitol square and down town Raleigh is concerned the Truman speech on the Dexter White case was wasted effort. Those who were for Truman before are still for him, those who were against him are still that way—and the neutrals apparently were not moved either way. One anti-Truman business man said the speech cost him 50,000 votes in North Carolina. A staunch pro-Truman State employee said it was one of the best he had ever heard. One of the neutrals said that when an ex-President calls the Attorney General of the United States a deliberate liar he gets on the same level as the Attorney General who clearly intimidated the ex-President was a conscious traitor to the best interests of his country. "Even if they are little men," he said, "they ought to recognize that they hold big positions."

Christmas Wardrobe For A Doll

SEWING BASKET SURPRISE . . . Nicest present any small girl could get for Christmas is a new wardrobe for her favorite doll. Remnants from the sewing basket will provide materials for a complete set of gay doll finery, and a few hours at the sewing machine will do the job. Use bright cottons for pajamas and playtime clothes, wool scraps for the winter coat, bits of taffeta or crepe for the party dress. The outfit pictured here, including outfits for all hours of day and night, can be made with Simplicity printed pattern 4509, sized for dolls 14, 16 and 22 inches tall. If you want to expand the wardrobe, make several dresses from the same pattern. Such a gift should provide an incentive for small doll owners to take up sewing on their own.

Robinson Union School Observes Education Week

WINTERVILLE—Robinson Union Negro School is observing National Education Week with a series of programs about the importance of reading books. The program and its related activities will conclude Friday, November 21, when prizes will be awarded to winners in the posters contest. Primary and grammar grade pupils are participating. The posters are to be based on the theme of the week, "Reading Is Fun."

Mrs. B.C. Maye, librarian, informed the teachers of newly acquired and interesting books for children of all grade levels and of records the school owns concerning books. The high school department presented a program, "Books On Parade," in the school auditorium at Chapel Wednesday morning. J.W. Maye is principal of the school.

Colorado Governor Offers New Slant To Farm Plans

A new farm plan which would eliminate high price supports and guarantee farmers only the cost of production on their crops has been advocated by Governor Dan Thornton of Colorado.

Writing in the October-November issue of the "Quonset Farmstead News," a magazine now being circulated by Quonset building dealers Governor Thornton said the principal role of government in the new plan would be in the form of education and research. The objective would be to produce new markets for agricultural crops, expand existing markets, and improve present methods of distribution. "I propose a guarantee to the producer of the average cost of production for the agricultural commodity which he produces," Governor Thornton said. "This is a floor, or insurance policy, against disaster."

The Governor declared that "as long as government subsidies and price supports guarantee a profit to the producer, we will have surpluses and depletion of our soil." He said his plan could be set up on a regional basis with possibly eight regions, in which the average cost of production for agricultural crops would be determined at the end of each year by U.S.D.A. statisticians and other experts.

He added that he felt his plan would bring about either "a reduction of surpluses, looking forward to their ultimate elimination except as a reserve against emergencies, or their beneficial use." He said that in the case of grains, some reserves should be held, purchased by the government on the basis of the average production cost.

He pointed out that if it became necessary for the government to purchase surpluses in order to bolster a declining market these surpluses should be bought at the cost of production and used to feed hungry people, both here and abroad.

Governor Thornton said a transition period should be provided in which agricultural and livestock producers could gear their operations to this plan.

"I do not believe the average American farmer and rancher wants excessive profits, but like all

Include Teddy Bears In Buyers' Criticism

MOSCOW (AP)—Not even teddy bears can escape the wrath of the aroused Russian consumer.

Within the last few months women's hats, dresses and shoes have been ridiculed in the Soviet press.

Now come teddy bears that aren't cuddly, toy animals that don't look like animals and dolls with hair that isn't curly.

With the holiday season approaching, the heat is on the Soviet Union's toy makers. Their chief sins: lack of imagination and poor workmanship.

This season Russian parents are well aware that the Malenkov government's promise of more and better consumer goods also includes toys. Taking up their cudgel is the newspaper Evening Moscow.

In an article demanding "good toys for the children," the Evening Moscow reported on a meeting of toy designers with store employees.

Too often, the paper said, the stores have "animals that don't look like animals, horrible dolls with terribly curled hair made by people who are indifferent to children."

"The result: many such articles which are long stocked up in the stores and not sold."

"Another complaint: is there are no musical toys, and the teddy bears are not soft enough. There are not enough table games."

By Western standards, Moscow toy stores have a skimpy line of goods.

The Soviet press is proud that there are few guns or "warlike" toys. There are some flimsy air guns and fire trucks on the market, but no tanks or "Mars" suits no space guns. The latter have been denounced in Pravda, the official party newspaper.

Out of all the hubbub comes this historic conclusion: artisan groups should produce cuddlier teddy bears and prettier dolls.

Increased Taxes

PORTSMOUTH, N.H. (AP)—"Has uranium been discovered on my property?" asked an irate citizen.

"Why do you ask?" was city assessor Lucien O. Georjian's response.

"I thought it had," came the report, "because of the jump in my taxes."

S.F. Peterson To Participate In Chicago Meet

WASHINGTON D.C. — S.F. Peterson vocational agriculture teacher in the Ayden High (North Carolina) High School will participate in the 47th annual convention of the American Vocational Association to be held in Chicago, Illinois, November 22-27.

Peterson is a vice-president of the National Vocational Agricultural Association and will represent Region 5 in the regional conferences. More than 4,500 delegates to the five-day convention of AVA, second largest educational organization in the United States, will hear an address by Harold E. Stassen, director of the Foreign Operations Administration, Washington, D.C., and over 400 leaders in education, industry, labor and government are slated to appear on the programs.

CONFERENCE OPENS GREENSBORO (AP) — Some 400 people from 40 state organizations were expected here for the opening of a two-day family life conference.

The conference is sponsored by the North Carolina Family Life Council. Delegates are from organizations concerned with family life.

LAURENS S.C. (AP)—Farmer C.W. Madden searched high and low for his glasses, with no luck. Then the postman delivered them, postmarked from Kansas City, Mo.

Madden recalled that he had sold a basket of peaches to a tourist family several weeks earlier. They found the glasses in the bottom of the basket, along with four three-cent stamps that just paid for the return postage.

Clinic-Workshop For Piano Teachers Slated

The North Carolina State Piano Association, a department of the state Music Educators Association, has announced as one of its projects for this year a one-day clinic-workshop for piano teachers to be held at East Carolina College Monday, December 7, in the Austin auditorium.

Dr. William S. Newman, faculty member of the University of North Carolina, will direct the clinic-workshop. Dr. Kenneth N. Othbert, director of the department of music at East Carolina, is acting as chairman of the event for the Piano Association.

The program will include both morning and afternoon meetings. The morning session will begin at 9:45, and the afternoon session at 1:30. Piano teachers and college students of piano are invited to attend. A registration fee of $1 will cover the cost of the clinic-workshop.

The state contest-festival music will be discussed and analyzed at the meeting at East Carolina. Dr. Newman will incorporate in the discussion the subjects of musicianship, technique, and the fundamentals of piano practice.

Dr. Newman is chairman of instruction in piano at the University of North Carolina and past chairman of the senior piano division of the Music Teachers National Association. He is nationally known as a concert pianist, musicologist, and author of books on music.

In August, 1953, he was the master teacher for the piano clinic at the second biennial convention of the Western Division of the Music Teachers National Association held in Seattle, Washington. He has given courses during summer sessions at Columbia University and the Juilliard School of Music.

NOTICE OF SALE OF REAL ESTATE

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT BEFORE THE CLERK

Mrs. Mattie L. Williams, Executrix of the Estate of J. L. Williams, Mrs. Mattie L. Williams, Individually, James Moody Williams and wife, Elizabeth Long Williams, et al vs. Joel Williams Brown, minor son of Eunice Williams Brown, deceased, and Charles W. Brown, surviving husband of Eunice Williams Brown, and Charles W. Brown, Guardian of Joel Williams Brown

Under and by virtue of an order of the Superior Court of Pitt County, made in Special Proceeding Number 5796 entitled as above set out, the undersigned Commissioner will on the 24th day of November, 1953, at 12 o'clock noon, at the door of the Pitt County Court House in Greenville, North Carolina, offer for sale to the highest bidder for cash, those certain tracts of land lying and being in Greenville Township, Pitt County, North Carolina, and more particularly described as follows:

FIRST TRACT—Known as the Warren Farm or Land Investment Company Farm and located in Greenville Township, Pitt County, North Carolina, on the north side of the Creek Road and on the east side of the Creek Road and which tract of land contains approximately two hundred fifty-one (251) acres of land.

Bounded on the North by the lands of Ed Moore Estate and J. L. Williams, on the East by J. E. Winslow, on the South by L. F. Worthington, E. F. Ward and Dennis Dupree, on the West by George H. Perkins and the Creek Road.

This property was purchased from the Land Investment Company, was conveyed to J. L. Williams by a deed dated January 1, 1945, and which is recorded in Book H-24 at page 349, in the office of the Register of Deeds of Pitt County.

SECOND TRACT—Known as the Vincent Farm, located in Greenville Township, Pitt County, North Carolina, on the North side of Tar River and on the Creek Road and on the west side of the Creek Road and which tract contains approximately two hundred twenty-one (221) acres of land.

Bounded on the North by the lands of Elizabeth H. Satterthwaite and Mrs. Fannie Dudley, on the East by the Creek Road, on the South by the lands of Carl Langley on the West by the lands of Nelson Hopkins and lands owned or formerly owned by Rosa E. Briley.

This property was purchased from Samuel J. Vincent Jr., et al, and was conveyed to J. L. Williams by deed dated January 12, 1949, and which deed is recorded in Book I-25 at page 275 in the office of the Register of Deeds of Pitt County.

This property was purchased from W. O. Moore and was conveyed to J. L. Williams by deed dated October 19, 1949, and which deed is recorded in Book Q-25 at page 178 in the office of the Register of Deeds of Pitt County.

The allotments made by the Production and Marketing Association for the above described tracts for the year 1953 are:

Tobacco—77.75 acres
Cotton—42.82 acres
Peanuts—24.7 acres

The above described property will be sold in small parcels which are identified by markings on the ground and premises and will then be sold as a whole and the method which produces the highest price will be reported to the Court by the Commissioner.

The sale will remain open for ten (10) days after if no advance bid is received, the Commissioner will recommend to the Court that it confirm the sale.

This the 24th day of October, 1953.

J. N. WILLIAMS, Commissioner
Frank M. Wooten Jr., Atty. Oct. 29 Nov. 8-12-19

WRAPPED AROUND BRIDGE GIRDERS.—A commuter coach of a Pennsylvania Railroad passenger train is wrapped around a bridge girder just east of Philadelphia's 30th Street Station after this lead car in the train jumped the tracks on the bridge crossing the Schuylkill River. The train had just stopped at the station and was moving slowly at the time of the accident. At least 33 passengers were injured. (AP Wirephoto).

Unaware Prowler Was Under Bed

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Mrs.

Minnie Slaton, 43, Oklahoma City, was puzzled when two policemen banging on her front door awakened her. They pointed out a window screen had been cut and the window was open. The front and back doors also were open although Mrs. Slaton said she had locked them. The policemen looked under the bed in which Mrs. Slaton had been sleeping, and found a 15-year-old boy who admitted breaking in to look for money. The Erie Canal was completed in 1825.

BOULDER, Colo. (U.P.)—M. E. Shanahan got back the billfold with $32 he lost in 1949. A repairman found it while working under Shanahan's house.

'Boom Town' Blocks Extension Of Park

HOMESTEAD, Fla. (U.P.)—Thanks to a zany real estate transaction during the famous Florida boom days, Everglades National Park developers are tearing their hair.

The unusual story dates back to 1921 when a town site was platted and called "Poinciana, the Coming Miami of the Gulf." The owners sold several thousand "lots" to persons who obviously did not know what they were buying, for Poinciana was platted in a remote section of the Everglades.

The approaches to the vine-entangled wasteland are too dry for boats and too wet for anything else. Surrounding Poinciana are several miles of impassible mangrove swamps.

The federal government currently is attempting to extend the western boundary of Everglades National Park but is running into considerable difficulty because of Poinciana.

Owners Hold On
First, the "Coming Miami of the Gulf" lies directly in the path of the proposed extension. Another problem lies in the fact that some 1,500 Americans who are scattered all over the nation maintain their ownership in the white elephant and pay taxes on it every year.

Finally, modern surveys of the area show that the townsite never should have been mapped at the mouth of Lotsman's River. Instead, the government says, it should have been charted two miles west and one mile north, an even denser section of the Everglades.

The government's problem is to make contact with all the landowners to initiate either purchasing or condemnation proceedings.

"It's quite complicated," said Albert Manly, who serves as land acquisition agent for the Federal Park Service.

Eventually the government probably will give up its attempt to reach the owners and draw an irregular line that will exclude the "Coming Miami of the Gulf."

As for the owners of the wasteland, they will cling to their holdings and hope someday it will be worth something. The area currently is being inspected for oil but so far no strike has been made.

In event of an oil strike, a great problem would arise to determine who owns what part of what.

Improvement Of Highway 301 Is Again Assured

RALEIGH (U.P.)—Top highway officials have assured folks living along U. S. 301 that a multimillion dollar improvement program for their road will be carried out.

Highway Chairman A. H. Graham and Chief Engineer W. H. Rogers Jr., asserted yesterday the commission has no intention of diverting money earmarked for 301 to other projects.

They moved to reassure those who feared that recently announced plans to improve U. S. 1 might mean a diversion of the money allocated for 301.

The commission has received protests recently over some of its plans for improving 301, a major north-south artery. Businessmen at Dunn have objected to plans for relocating the highway there and a hearing on their complaints will be held at Lillington Friday.

Dallas Building Medical Center

DALLAS, Tex. (U.P.)—The oil industry has taken a cue from the medical profession and is building a $3,000,000 oil center in Dallas.

The General American Oil Company Employees Retirement Trust is building the nine-story building near the Central Expressway not far from downtown Dallas.

The idea was that if doctors found they could serve their patients better by concentrating all the allied fields in one medical center, the petroleum industry could benefit by similar centralization.

Shortly after the East Texas oil field opened in 1930, Dallas' First National Republic National and Mercantile National Banks established oil divisions to deal specifically with petroleum financing.

Other Dallas banks have followed in pioneering loans to all segments of the oil industry. At one time, the three largest banks in Dallas were said to have some $155,000,000 invested in loans to the oil industry.

The city also is an oil publication center with these technical journals printed here: Journal of Petroleum Technology, Drilling Magazine, Petroleum Engineer, and Drilling Contractor.

Daily and weekly oil reports are furnished by Petroleum News Corporation in its Five Star Oil Report by the Rinehart Oil News Co.

Both the Dallas Morning News and the Dallas Daily Times Herald have full-time oil editors, and the Wall Street Journal carries oil stories written in Dallas by writers on its staff of the southwest edition of the financial newspaper.

Oil firms have been moving to Dallas in great numbers and while no oil is produced in the immediate vicinity of the North Texas city, its goal is to match Tulsa, Okla., and Houston, Tex., as a real oil capital.

The Cat's Paw

By MARION SALTER

Her cats weren't the only things worrying Charlotte Morgan, a copywriter for the Kingsley Cummings advertising firm. There was her mother, who ran away from her father, and her, when she was 12, Charlotte had stolen jewelry to help her mother, although she despised her. Eric Hay was in love with her. Two other employees of "The King" hated her. And her cats kept trying to tell her something. Cummings discovers Charlotte stole the gems and makes a date to meet Charlotte and her mother, after offering to help Charlotte to the big time. Charlotte and her mother call on "The King" at his home. Charlotte's mother leaves—alone.

CHAPTER TEN
TILL THAT last evening King had always kept his cold control. That day he had seen Eric dangle long legs from Charlotte's desk, seen them laughing and young together. In his apartment King, haughty and disdainful, stood across the room from Charlotte, hands gripping the back of a chair. "Are you in love with Eric Hay?" he'd asked. "Don't be silly. Me in love?" "Don't lie to me. I've seen the way you look at him. Your Mr. America." King's clenched fingers showed white at the knuckles.

"You think he's young and virile and sensitive and romantic. Well, let me tell you about Eric. He's the homeowner type. Marry him, and you'll disappear into the suburbs with a mortgaged roof over your pretty head. A small down payment and seventy-five a month for the next fifteen years—for what? For a house indistinguishable from all the others up and down the regimented rows." "I'm not listening," Charlotte said.

"You're afraid to hear the truth," King said and went on. "Lochinvar will dismount his white horse and ride the commuter trains like the others who sit like stuffed owls behind the morning and evening papers." "A white horse is impractical," Charlotte said. "Shows the dirt." King ignored her. "Meanwhile," he continued, "what will the little woman do all day? You'll scrub pans and peel potatoes, you'll push a cart around the super supermarket gathering the makings of the more than fifty thousand meals you'll prepare in the fullness of time. Your companions will be other defeated females with whom you'll discuss your pregnancy symptoms and toilet training. For you'll bear Eric's young. Eric's the kind who'll want to perpetuate himself. The big evenings will be the local movie and a picnic at Jones Beach.

"I see the years flagging yet flying by, all one color, a dull dead beige. I see Eric, thickening around the middle and you thin and faded and tight-lipped, trapped. Don't let my lovely gifted girl be trapped."

King came toward Charlotte, looming over her, till she was in his hold struggling, losing. He pinned her arms to her side and began to kiss her. And she couldn't bear it; not ever again. Her arm shot free, and with all her might Charlotte struck King. The steel trap of his grip, bruising her; the glassy glitter of his eyes, frightening her. He looked as though he could kill her. And then his control came back. The self-satisfied smile played about his mouth.

"How you would love to leave Delafield's," he said. "But there are things I'd deem it my duty to tell any prospective employer. You're thinking I couldn't find you; but I could. Besides, I'd hate to have Delafield's lose such a valuable copywriter."

He'll never break me, Charlotte told herself. Even if I could leave Delafield's, I wouldn't give him the satisfaction. That was late in August. She'd walked out into the stifling New York night and never gone back. She knew he would never forgive her never rest till he'd won some sort of victory.

Before long the campaign had begun. Mario coming over to her desk, puzzled and apologetic, saying, "I King won't okay this copy of yours. I think it's fine, but you know how it is I'm only the office boy around here." And the writing and rewriting of that ad, all her ads, till her back ached and her vision blurred, and her words made no sense, and everyone was saying, "Charlotte is slipping."

over the jacket, as though he were judging the fabric. Asking her opinion then belittling it.

Refusing her raise, when all the others went through. Mailing back the installments on his loan for her mother's operation she repeatedly tried to send him. The cryptic comments in each envelope: "Who steals my purse steals trash." "Yesterday this day's madness last prepare." "He who laughs last laughs best."

The "wrong number" telephone calls. The war of nerves. And a week ago, the coup—the appearance of the lamp in the antique shop window. It was the lamp from King's bedroom. The base was blue and gold Venetian glass, and it lighted from within. In the otherwise darkened bedroom it had glowed translucent. Part of King's skill in stage setting.

He must have sold it to the antique dealer. He must have persuaded her with charm or currency to light it every night. To haunt Charlotte.

Finally, last night, actually entering her apartment with the key he'd once asked for. What would be next? For, of course, there would be something next. Unless she stopped him.

Get a plan, Charlotte, any plan. Get the upper hand, it's your turn. She could think of three things that would stop King. If she could find the ways and means. She was so tired, she could hardly undress and tumble into bed. In the dark, the cats' eyes flashed phosphorescent. Charlotte fell asleep and dreamed she was falling, down, down into space. Christmas. The dreary day had hung on like an unwanted guest, and it was still only four o'clock. Four hours till Dorothy's party, four more hours to fidget. Charlotte watched out the window. A sullen sky sagged, as dull and heavy as her heart. The cold, ghostly fog seemed to swallow the city. There was not a soul, not a sight, not a sound out the window. Everything seemed stayed, stopped, like a clock. As

By FAGALY and SHORTEN

As though what? Charlotte asked herself. April jumped to the window sill and looked at her with understanding golden daze, then touched Charlotte's cheek with a cold coral nose. "Never mind, I love you," she seemed to say. "My pretty little pet," Charlotte picked her up, warming her heart against the small, soft body that was a throb without my two paws. I need you as much as you need me." She scratched April beneath the delicate chin, then set her down. "Got to get ready for the party," she explained. As she dressed April and May both watched her every move, eyes round and reproachful knowing very well that she was going out. The sat with neat feet together, ringed tails curved around them, in the ladylike way their mothers must have taught them. Charlotte slipped into the red velvet, buckled the black slippers around slender ankles. All the props for a pretty girl going to a party, she thought. The outside's fine, it's only the inside. She studied the serious face in the mirror, searching to see the real Charlotte. "What sort of girl are you?" she asked the reflection. But Charlotte herself didn't know. Why do I go to the party? she wondered and answered herself. Because I don't want to be alone. Because Eric will be there. "I never mind," she told the cats. "I shan't stay long. You have a nice nap underneath the tree." The tips of the tails twitched in answer. Charlotte crossed Washington Square and went on to Eighth Street, into the restaurant. She nibbled the tasteless turkey blue plate and watched the stray villagers. The passe beauty who warmed her hands around a cup of coffee; the young man with red sideburns; the student, with Kierkegaard propped against the tumbler. The forlorn folks, staring into the emptiness of their lives. (To Be Continued)

ARMY BRIGHTENS UP WITH NEW DRESS UNIFORM

Smart All-Wool 'Blues' Make Official Bow

Olive drab, two words that mean "Army" to millions, are no longer synonymous with military attire.

The Army's dress uniform, combining two striking shades of blue, has made its debut. The new all-wool uniform has a deep royal blue jacket and sky blue trousers, and is trimmed in gold braid.

Not "Government Issue," the new garb will be purchased by the soldier. It is issued only to honor guards and other units which regularly participate in special military functions.

The new uniform made an official appearance in New York when King Paul and Queen Frederika of Greece reviewed the First Army's impressive Honor Guard at City Hall. The review followed a ticker tape parade up Broadway.

Jacket Is Beltless

The uniform's four-button, single-breasted jacket is beltless and of thumb-tip length. Cut on narrow lines, it is tapered slightly at the waist. The flaps of all four pockets are closed with U.S. Army insignia buttons. Button loops at the shoulders are outlined in gold braid, and gold braid encircles the sleeves three inches from the bottom. Half-inch gold service stripes are worn at a 30 degree angle on the entire outside of the sleeves. An enlisted man's grade is denoted by gold chevrons on the upper sleeves.

Sky blue trousers are cuffless, and without pleats. Half-inch gold bands run from the waist down the outside of the trouser legs.

Although colors are naturally standard, the soldier has a choice of four smart all-wool fabrics. The garrison cap worn with the uniform is dark royal blue,

DEPARTING from the traditional "olive drab," the Army's new dress uniform has a dark royal blue jacket and sky blue trousers. The new all-wool uniform makes an official appearance as the First Army's Honor Guard is reviewed by King Paul and Queen Frederika of Greece at New York's City Hall.

with a black leather visor and chin strap. Gold braid and gold insignia buttons are its ornamentation. Black shoes, socks and tie, and a white shirt and white chamis gloves complete the uniform.

of their being built up to that strength in the near future. Maj. Gen. Warren Carpenter, U. S. chief of aid air forces in northern Europe said at the conclusion of recent maneuvers that the air forces of both Denmark and Norway "had a long way to go" before they reached adequate level.

Denmark Delays Decision On Use Of NATO Troops

By BO SEIERSEN

United Press Staff Correspondent COPENHAGEN (U.P.) — Denmark's Social Democratic government has decided again to postpone discussion of whether NATO forces should be stationed on the strategic Jutland Peninsula despite warnings from both inside and outside the country that Denmark's own armed forces are not strong enough to resist aggression.

Observers here said it was possible Premier Hans Hedtoft had decided to wait and see whether Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's victory in the September elections in Western Germany was sufficient to ram through plans for a European army including Germans.

If the Germans got in on a European army scheme, these observers said, Denmark would feel that her southern flank was secure and probably would refuse to allow foreign troops to be stationed on her soil.

Hopes that the Kremlin's "peace offensive" might really be on the level also come into consideration of Denmark's hesitant attitude towards NATO, the observers said. Mistrust of "protectionist" tendencies in United States foreign policy and general disapproval of U.S. internal policies as exemplified by "McCarthyism" also were contributing factors in Denmark's attitude, they said.

Most Allied observers here agree that Denmark is looking at the project with a somewhat jaundiced eye. Some Danes appear to think they will be doing the United States in particular and NATO in general a favor by agreeing to let Allied forces be stationed in Denmark.

Financing Problem The real issue however, they say, is that if Denmark refused, then a general realignment of western defense strategy will take place, with Denmark getting the back seat—which is precisely what far-sighted Danish defense chiefs fear.

Both Aled and Danish military sources have warned Premier Hedtoft that Denmark's army and air force do not have the strength to resist an aggressor at the moment, and that there is little likelihood of their being built up to that strength in the near future.

It is privately agreed among Aled and Danish military experts that Denmark does not have the financial resources to bring her armed forces up to the required standard. These experts point out too, that NATO forces are already stationed on Danish soil in Greenland, and so that the question of an offense against nationalistic pride does not really arise.

Many Danes are reported to have a defeatist attitude with regard to their country's pace in western defense, feeling that Denmark cannot be adequately defended and that intensive defense preparations are a waste of time and effort. It is these Danes, informed sources said, who will provide the main opposition to the stationing of NATO forces here.

Thrill Maker from start to stop

(That's T.T. Dynaflow!)

SOMETIME SOON—like this week — you ought to try a Buick with Twin-Turbine Dynaflow.* You ought to try it just to be familiar with the great advance in this fully automatic transmission that Buick engineers have accomplished. You ought to try it just for the fun of bossing a drive where you don't do a blessed thing but steer and press the gas or the brake pedal as you go. But, pure and simple, you ought to try it for thrills. We mean the thrill of instant getaway response—with two turbines doing the job that one did before. We mean the thrill of whisper-quiet acceleration—where you barely hear the sound of power build-up, or of flowing oil at work. And, most emphatically, we mean the thrill of perfect and sublime smoothness from start to stop—the thrill of moving from standstill to and through all travel ranges in one, progressive, infinitely smooth forward "carry" without a gear ever shifting or a clutch-pedal pushed—the thrill, rarely found elsewhere, of silky smoothness in deceleration, too.

Will you be our guest at a sampling of a Buick with TT Dynaflow? Will you try the sweetest, the smoothest and the simplest-operate automatic transmission yet devised—and powered by the highest-compression engines in Buick history, including the world's newest V8 in SUPER and ROADMASTER models? Drop in on us this week and we'll be happy to accommodate you.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market was higher today with gains in key areas going to between 1 and 2 points.

Losses were almost all small, but they extended in some instances to around a point.

The market was mixed in early trading, and when prices began to improve the tempo of trading stepped up. The pace of trading was around a million and a half shares as compared with yesterday's million and a quarter shares.

The steels and motors were the most active of the major groups, and good gains were shown. Also higher were aircrafts, utilities, copper, chemicals, railroads, and building materials.

Du Pont was outstanding with a gain of between 2 and 3 points at times on moderate activity.

Among better gainers today were Bethlehem Steel, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, Chrysler, Studebaker, Boeing, Douglas Aircraft, Kennecott Copper, Westinghouse Electric, American Viscose, Santa Fe, and Johns-Manville.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—Hog prices steady to 25 lower. Tops of 21.50 at Mount Olive, Whiteville, Laurel Hill, Elizabethtown, Rocky Mount, Lumberton and Clinton; 21.25 at Newton Grove, Dunn, Bailey, Goldsboro, Smithfield, Tarboro, Hamilton and Rich Square; 21.00 at Burgaw, Wilson, Clarkton, Fair Bluff, Jacksonville, Scotland Neck, Windsor, Enfield, Weldon, Colerain, Washington, Wilmington, Greenville, Farmville, Snow Hill, Robertsonville, Beulaville, Warsaw, Kenly, Kinston, New Bern, Benson and Fayetteville; 22.00 at Richmond.

Indians Disclaim Hysteria Notion

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Indian leaders got hot under the collar today over reports that President Eisenhower told a news conference the United States would be cautious about doing anything that might cause unrest or "hysteria" among Pakistan's neighbors.

"We do not get hysterical in this country," one commented. "That is a highly offensive thing for the President of the United States to suggest."

Eisenhower told newsmen yesterday he thought the United States would be most cautious about doing anything that would create unrest and disaster or failure or hysteria among Pakistan's neighbors. He was replying to newsmen's questions concerning reports that Pakistan would be interested in U.S. military aid and might grant American military bases in return. The reports aroused grave concern in India, at odds with Pakistan over the Himalayan state of Kashmir.

Although a Foreign Office spokesman declined comment on the President's statement, reliable sources said the government has asked the U.S. State Department for an official text of the President's words.

Judge Fines His Landlord $10

ROCHESTER, Minn. (AP)—Municipal Judge Irving Eckholdt fined his landlord, Desmond B. Hunt, $10 for driving after his driver's license expired.

Hunt, former city attorney, was arrested while hurrying home for a party for the judge.

Judge Eckholdt is Hunt's next-door neighbor and rents his house from Hunt.

Cases Heard In City Police Court

By CHESTER WALSH
In Police Court Wednesday, Judge Charles H. Wheedbee found seven defendants not guilty as charged in warrants sworn out by individuals.

Novella M. Williams, who was charged with failure to yield right of way, and Jimmie R. Grimley, charged with failure to keep proper lookout, were acquitted. This case involved a collision of two cars.

Wilbert Norfleet, Negro, failure to stop at a stop sign, and Lumas Payton, Negro, charged with having defective brakes, were acquitted. This case involved a collision of two cars.

Alonza Williams, Negro, careless and reckless driving, and E. O. Cooley, charged with careless and reckless driving and failure to stop at a traffic light, were acquitted. This case also involved a collision of two cars.

The seventh acquittal was that of Gladys H. Myers, charged with giving a worthless check to M. E. Buck's service station at Fifth and Elizabeth Streets. The check had been settled, the court was informed.

In the three traffic cases, in which the drivers of six cars were found not guilty, Judge Wheedbee and Solicitor El Hood agreed that there was not enough evidence to convict any of the defendants.

O. C. Spain, 521 Vance Street, was found guilty of breaking, entering and larceny at the home of W. T. Lipscomb. The court gave him six months on the roads, sentence suspended on payment of $25 to Lipscomb, pay $25 fine; costs deducted, and placed Spain on probation for two years. The judgment also provides that Spain must be in his home from 10 o'clock at night until daylight in the morning.

Drunk: A. Franklin Harrington, 515 Jack R. McLawhorn, 30 days in jail or pay $10.

John Williams, Negro, paid $15 for speeding.

Andrew J. Pickett Jr. paid $10 for not stopping at a traffic light.

Union Service On Thanksgiving Day Scheduled

The union Thanksgiving service held annually in Greenville and the community bordering on the city will be held on the morning of Thanksgiving Day at 10:30 in the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church. The pastor of the host church, Rev. W. H. Howard, will preside.

The choir of the church will provide the special music, and the Rev. R. B. Crawford, pastor of the local Free Will Baptist Church, will preach the Thanksgiving sermon.

The combined offering of the worship service will go to provide transportation charges for two car loads of dried milk to the orphans of Korea. The churches of Pitt County have offered to raise $2,500 for the transportation of these two car loads of milk.

TV Tower Sections Await Unloading

Sixty feet of the WNCN, Greenville, television tower is shown on the railroad siding Wednesday afternoon shortly after it was received from Chicago. When completed, the 800 foot tower will support the 74 foot WNCN antenna which will beam television into thousands of eastern North Carolina homes. (WNCN Photo by C. L. Perkins, Jr.)

Robinson Union PTA Holds Meet

WINTERVILLE—One hundred and forty parents and teachers and friends of Robinson Union Negro School attended the last Parent-Teacher Association meeting. President David Henderson presided.

"Our Responsibility Toward Improving Juvenile Delinquency" was the subject of a panel discussion. Participants were Mrs. Henrietta Waller of Winterville, Mrs. Willo Williams and Mrs. Nell Cox Phillips of Greenville, E. A. Elliott of Bethel, Attorney Powell of Greenville, Rev. Rooks and Rev. Sam Hembly. Emphasis was placed on recognition of delinquent traits in early childhood and the importance of a practical and livable Christian life.

Preceding the panel discussion, Mrs. Lizzie Henderson and Mrs. Henrietta Waller, delegates to the recent District Parent-Teacher Association meeting, made their reports.

J. W. Maye is principal of the school.

Pitt Principals Meet, Hear School Supervisor

At the third regular monthly meeting of Pitt County School principals yesterday afternoon, Miss Annie Lee Jones, elementary school supervisor of instruction, talked on the role of the principal and the supervisor.

Miss Jones developed the point of how to develop good relationship between the principals of the local school situation and the principal and the supervisor are a team working toward the same goal. The sheets make it plain that the supervisor is not an inspector and a go-between the local school and superintendent's office.

Mrs. Edna Earle Baker, high school county supervisor, made a report on suggestions to improve the English program in the county schools. These suggestions were given by Dr. A. C. Jordan, Duke University English professor, when he made a talk here recently to county English teachers.

The principals transacted other routine business. Garlan Bailey, Grimesland School principal, presided at the meeting.

Ancient Rome built a road system that stretched from northern Scotland to the Euphrates River in Asia minor. Parts of it are still in use.

Big Jump

FT. BRAGG, N. C. (AP)—About 1,000 paratroopers staged an airborne warfare demonstration before scores of officers, including 25 generals, here today.

Today's exercise was part of a four-day conference on airborne warfare, attended by Air Force and Army brass.

The men jumped from C-124 Globemasters and C-119 Flying Boxcars. Earlier full field equipment and supplies had been dropped.

The 18th Corps public information office said the operation was successful and no mishaps were reported.

It's Cleared Up; Plan No Divorce

TAEGU, Korea (AP)—Sgt. John H. Brown said today he and TV singer Dorothy McGuire "have no desire for a divorce" and he has cancelled plans to fly back to the United States.

Brown asked for and was given a leave after singer Julius La Rosa said he and Miss McGuire hoped to marry.

"Everything is now clarified," Brown said today. "I have withdrawn my request for leave. There will be no divorce."

Miss McGuire is a featured singer on the Arthur Godfrey show. La Rosa's interest in her was divulged after he was fired by Godfrey.

Heart Attack Is Fatal To Farmer

Green Barnhill, 65-year-old Negro tenant farmer on the W. A. Hudson farm near Grimesland, died suddenly of a heart attack at his home Tuesday night about 10:30.

Pitt County Coroner Griffin H. Rouse, who investigated, reported that Barnhill died of natural causes and he will not hold an inquest.

READY—Christelle Taylor of Alma, Ga., displays the March of Dimes poster that will be used for the 1954 drive starting in January. A former Georgia Maid of Cotton, Miss Taylor has volunteered her services to the Polio Foundation to help meet the needs of the new Polio Prevention campaign now being undertaken. The poster features Debby Dains, 4-year-old polio victim of Goodings, Idaho. Debby was stricken when he was 4 months old and has spent most of his life in hospitals. (AP Wirephoto)
