Fatal Auto Wreck For Pitt County Man

Pitt coroner Griffin H. Rouse stands over the body of Jesse Carney, 41-year-old Negro of Bethel, Route 3, who was killed early this morning when his automobile overturned on highway 11 five miles south of Bethel. The fatal accident brought to 12 the number of deaths on Pitt highways so far this year. A passenger in the automobile was thrown from the car when it overturned, and was not seriously injured. Twelfth Traffic Death Of Year For County

Car Overturns, Man Killed

Pitt County's twelfth traffic fatality of the year occurred shortly after midnight last night when a car overturned on highway 11 five miles south of Bethel. Killed in the accident was James Carney, 41-year-old Negro of Bethel Route 3, who lived on the Sidney Moore farm not far from the spot where the accident happened. Highway Patrolman D. E. Perry, who investigated the accident, said the car driven by Carney left the right side of the highway at a curve, crossed back to the left side, ran into a field and overturned. It was a distance of 152 steps from the point the car left the highway to the spot where the car stopped, the patrolman said. Carney's body was partially thrown from the car and his legs were pinned under the door of the vehicle. He was dead when the pa-trooper arrived at the scene of the accident. A passenger in the automobile, identified by the patrolman as Carry Lee Hyman, Negro of Bethel Route 3, was thrown from the car into a field and shaken up, but not seriously injured, Perry said. He estimated the speed of the car at the time of the accident at 65 miles per hour. Heavy fog covered most of Pitt County's highways last night, making driving conditions extremely poor. Coroner Griffin H. Rouse ruled Carney's death accidental and said no inquest will be held. The fatal accident last night brings the traffic deaths in Pitt County so far this year to the total number killed in traffic accidents in the county during 1952. Eleven people have died in traffic accidents on secondary and primary roads in the rural sections of Pitt, and another was killed in an accident which occurred on a highway within the corporate limits of Falkland. Cpl. Carl Whitfield of the local Highway Patrol office this morning pointed to the accident record made so far in Pitt County this year. In addition to the 12 fatalities, Whitfield said, 94 people have been injured in highway accidents in Pitt this year, and 247 accidents have been investigated by the Highway Patrol. During the first 10 months of 1952 there were nine people killed on Pitt highways, 125 injured, and 262 accidents investigated. So far this year, Whitfield said, patrolmen in Pitt County have made 2,486 arrests for violations of motor vehicle laws compared with 1,854 arrests made during the first 10 months of 1952.

$3 Billion Deficit Seen 'Best Hope' For 1955 Budget

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Eisenhower administration's best hope for the fiscal 1955 budget is a deficit of three to four billion dollars—attainable only if federal spending can be cut nearly six billions from the present rate. A high administration official gave this estimate to reporters yesterday. He said that obviously a big part of any six-billion saving would have to come from national security spending, and is not yet in sight. He also said any such saving would be effected only if it could be done without impairing the national security. His forecast assumed also that Congress will heed President Eisenhower's request for extension of present high corporate and excise tax rates beyond next April 1, when they are due for automatic reduction. The informant, who stipulated that his name should not be used, gave these further forecasts: 1. The cash budget probably can be balanced. This budget classifies as government income social security contributions, which exceed four billion dollars a year. The conventional budget does not, since they go into a special trust fund. 2. The administration will ask that the present 1 1/2 per cent rate of social security tax be extended for a year. The rate is due to go to 2 per cent on Jan. 1, before Congress convenes, but some ad-

Senator Says Justice Has Duty To Explain Wants Clark Testify

WASHINGTON — Sen. Hendrickson (R-N) said today he personally feels Supreme Court Justice Tom C. Clark has a public duty to explain his role in the Harry Dexter White case. Clark was attorney general in 1946 when White, now dead, was appointed by former President Truman as U. S. director of the International Monetary Fund—an appointment Atty. Gen. Brownell says was made in the face of FBI information that White was a Russian spy. Brownell's charge, first voiced in a speech Nov. 6, set off a boiling political controversy and spurred a Senate internal security subcommittee investigation of communism in government. Hendrickson, a member of the subcommittee, told newsmen he would get in touch with Chairman Jenner (R-Ind.) as soon as possible and propose that Clark be invited to testify. Clark declined last week to heed a subpoena of the House Un-American Activities Committee but offered to consider questions submitted in writing. He based his refusal on the constitutional separation and independence of the three branches of government. Truman and James F. Byrnes, who was secretary of state in 1946, similarly rejected Un-American Activities Committee summonses. Truman cited the same grounds as Clark. Rep. Velde (R-Ill), chairman of the committee, said at Cleveland yesterday his subpoena of Truman still stands. He said he planned no contempt citation against Truman but hopes the former President "will see the necessity" of appearing voluntarily. However, a Democratic member of his committee, Rep. Frazer of Tennessee, said he sees no reason why the House groups should not leave the inquiry to the Senate subcommittee. Truman stuck by his "no comment" position. He addressed a Young Democrats meeting at Kansas City last night but made scant reference to what he called simply the "controversy this week." Hendrickson said that, if Clark were unwilling to appear before the Senate probe, he would not object to written question-and-answer procedure. But he declared: "If I were a Supreme Court justice who had been attorney general in this period, I would consider it a public duty to try to clear it up." Jenner has indicated he feels any decision to call the Supreme Court justice now would be premature. While Republicans made plain they intended to push ahead with the probe, Sen. Olin Johnston (D-SC), a member of Jenner's subcommittee, said in an interview Congress instead ought to be investigating rising interest rates and falling farm income under the Eisenhower administration. "The investigation of the Truman administration's handling of Communist infiltration, obstruction said: 'It's water over the dam. It's a subterfuge for misdeeds of the present administration.'" Hendrickson said he also intends to renew his suggestion that Truman be invited to appear before the Senate subcommittee.

Guaranteed Annual Wage Set As Target CIO Re-Elects President

CLEVELAND (AP)—Walter P. Reuther was elected by acclamation and without opposition today to his second term as CIO president. Reuther, the 46-year-old United Auto Workers unionist, had to engage in a bitter showdown fight for the office only a year ago after the death of president Philip Murray. Executive Vice President John V. Riffe, secretary-treasurer James B. Carey and eight vice presidents also were assured of re-election without a contest. The elections wound up the CIO's five-day meeting and the lack of opposition typified the control which Reuther and his administration has over the CIO's five million members. Before the elections, the convention adopted a resolution throwing the CIO's full weight behind a drive for a guaranteed annual wage for members of affiliated unions. Reuther told the 700 delegates that he wants industry to begin devoting as much attention as the CIO to the annual wage problem. Either Reuther's Auto Workers or David J. McDonald's Steel Workers Union is expected to lead the campaign for the guaranteed annual wage—with odds favoring the auto group to take the initiative. A resolution favoring employer payment of a full year's jobless pay for workers becoming unemployed also will be considered by the 700 delegates. There was little doubt it would receive quick approval. Reuther's own auto workers union has plugged for the guaranteed wage as a major aim in 1955 when its present long-term contracts with the industry expire. The CIO's other million-member union, the steelworkers, will demand the guaranteed wage in 1954 contract negotiations. "The average worker does not know from week to week when his job will suddenly stop," CIO officers told the convention. "Yet his family still must be fed and clothed and housed. By negotiating guaranteed annual wage agreements from wealthy corporations, CIO unions can enable workers to plan ahead with the knowledge they will have steady incomes thus bringing new security to workers' homes and greater economic stability to the nation." CIO leaders said employers can reduce their liability for such plans by the amount workers may receive in state unemployment compensation payments. Employers' contributions largely maintain such unemployment funds. Management groups have attacked the guaranteed wage idea, contending it could bankrupt industry, employers' testing control over factors needed to maintain year-around production and employment.

Reds Refuse To Face Fugitives

PANMUNJOM (AP)—Communist officers today refused a face-to-face meeting with three Korean soldiers who last night bolted from a Red troop unit and were given refuge in an American sentry box. The three said they were South Koreans and were shanghaied into the Communist army after being captured. The Reds insisted that the three be returned immediately, but the U.N. Command said they would be turned over to Indian custody. If they refuse to go back to the Reds all presumably would be liberated in South Korea. An Indian spokesman for the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission said, "No single man on the commission can decide this and it will have to be discussed at the full sitting of the commission tomorrow." Communist members of the Panmunjom joint observer team refused to appear today for an investigation to determine the identity of the three fugitives. The three soldiers, still dressed in Communist uniforms, talked to United Nations newsmen through an interpreter. They related: They were captured by the Communists in 1950 and 1951 and forced into the Red armies as laborers with a North Korean army unit. After the armistice, they were among 100 prisoners who signed a petition asking to be sent back to South Korea. They were promised repatriation, but later were told they were not prisoners of war but members of the North Korean Red army. The Koreans appeared exhausted but willing to talk. They said they had walked from Chungghwa, five miles south of the North Korean capital of Pyongyang day and night for almost three days to the neutral zone, where they bolted to Allied lines. The three said they all were born near Pusan. They identified themselves as Sgt. L. C. Song Sang King, Pfc. Tak Ha Sik and Pfc. Kil Hu Bong.

Blizzard Stalls Bus In Colorado; People Safe

DENVER (AP)—Howling winds died down early today and permitted a highway crew to try once more to free a cross-country bus snowbound with 14 passengers in eastern Colorado. The passengers were reported safe in the heated bus which stalled as a ground blizzard during the night heaped up huge drifts. No fresh snow was falling. Both the Trailways System bus and a snowplow were stuck within half a mile east of Joes, Colo., a small town 126 miles east of Denver and about 40 miles from the Kansas line on U. S. 36. Driver Bud Oldwilder of Denver trudged into Joes to bring the first word his bus had stalled around 11 p. m. After telephoning his Denver office, Oldwilder returned to the bus. Odbert Martin, a state highway department employee at Joes, reported his snowplow stalled less than 200 yards from the bus in the first rescue effort. "We can't see to work and we'll just have to wait while until the wind dies down," Martin said shortly afterward. He started back to the plow with two helpers shortly after 6 a. m. Arrangements were being made to take food to the bus passengers. Trailways dispatched a relief bus from Denver. There was 6 inches of snow on the ground around Joes and the wind had piled up drifts 7 and 8 feet deep. The Weather Bureau said snow had stopped falling after a day-old storm throughout Colorado and Wyoming, but winds of 25 to 30 miles an hour were blowing over most of eastern Colorado. Subfreezing temperatures nipped both states early today in the wake of the storm, which left a foot and a half of snow in some mountain areas. Mountain passes and other roads were reported open, but state highway patrolmen cautioned motorists to use chains. The Rocky Mountain region braced, meanwhile, for a fresh storm promised as another cold front approached from the Pacific Northwest.

Waives Hearing On Theft Charge

Charlie Spain Jr., 57-year-old Greenville Negro charged with the theft of $2,295.57 in cash and checks from Pitt Memorial Hospital, waived preliminary hearing in Greenville recorder's court this morning and was bound over to Pitt Superior Court under a $1,000 bond. The $1,000 bond set by Judge Charles Whedbee is the same amount of bond required of Spain when he was taken into custody and charged with the robbery Monday night. Spain was charged with the robbery of the hospital vault after he confessed to officers that he took the cash and checks which were stolen from the vault early on the morning of November 11. Officers recovered $1,046 in cash when Spain led them to a spot near his house and dug up a fruit jar containing the money. He told officers the checks which were taken from the vault had been burned. SIXTH ANNIVERSARY LONDON (AP)—Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh celebrated their sixth wedding anniversary today resting up for their world tour starting Monday.

Wins Honor

Mitchell Saleed of Greenville, senior at East Carolina College, was elected president of the senate of the State Student Legislature which is now meeting in Raleigh. Saleed is also president of the Student Government Association at the college and has been active in student affairs. The meeting is being attended by 13 East Carolina students. Wade Cooper of Raleigh was elected Sergeant-at-Arms of the House for the session and Edgar H. Matthews, also of Raleigh, was elected assistant Sergeant-at-Arms during the meeting. Both Cooper and Matthews are juniors at East Carolina.

Judge Frizzelle To Preside For Superior Court

Judge J. Paul Frizzelle will preside in Pitt County Civil Superior Court next week instead of Judge W.H.S. Burgwin, it was announced this morning. Assistant Clerk of Court H. L. Lewis said the change was announced in a letter received from the office of Chief Justice W. A. Devin, who makes judge assignments. The November "A" term of the Civil Superior Court is slated to open session Monday and run the entire week with 25 cases on schedule, of which 11 are divorces.

Communist Harangue Fired At U.S. Ambassador No Answers, Lots Of Abuse

PANMUNJOM (AP)—Communist diplomats fired a stream of abuse at U.S. Ambassador Arthur H. Dean today instead of answering his repeated demands to explain their "fuzzy" plan for neutrals to attend the Korean peace conference. Dean said the Red "harangue" probably was just a stall until Peiping or Moscow sends orders to Communist diplomats meeting at Panmunjom to plan the conference. Dean said Friday's subcommittee session on composition and site could be written off "as a kind of zero." Another subcommittee working on a starting date reported no progress. Both are scheduled to meet again Saturday. The Communists want non-belligerent nations to attend the conference without a vote on major issues. They apparently have abandoned early demands that some non-belligerents have full participation—a plan exactly opposite the U.N. proposal for a meeting of only those nations which fought in Korea. Dean's pressure on the Reds to give details of their proposal indicates the Allies might be willing to reach some sort of compromise. He told the Reds Friday: "You cannot expect me to con-

Minister Says Condemned Pair Shows First Signs Of Remorse

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The condemned kidnap-killers of 6-year-old Bobby Greenlease waited in jail cells today for their last trip—the trip to the lethal gas chamber in the Missouri State Prison just one week before Christmas. Carl Austin Hall and Mrs. Bonnie Brown Heady will be executed at the same time—as soon as possible after 12:01 a. m. Dec. 18. They showed little emotion yesterday as they heard a federal judge, carrying out a jury's recommendation, sentence them to die. But an Episcopal priest who visited them later said the kidnapers appeared remorseful. "When I saw him previous to the trial on two occasions his first statements were those of remorse," said the Rev. George Evans. "I saw him again this afternoon and at his request talked to Mrs. Heady. This was the first time I had seen Mrs. Heady. She likewise expressed great contri-tion." Mrs. Heady, a divorcee, has expressed a desire to marry Hall before their execution, court officials said. Hall who also was married and divorced, has not indicated a similar desire, the officials reported. The director of the Federal Bureau of Prisons would have to give permission for such a marriage. There was small chance of an appeal. Roy Dietrich, court-appointed attorney for Hall, said he saw nothing to warrant appealing the decision of U. S. District Judge Albert L. Reeves. The 34-year-old playboy and his 41-year-old alcoholic mistress watched dry-eyed as the tragic case drew to a dramatic close on the fourth day of the trial. They seemed relieved as they were hustled out of the courtroom, handcuffed to waist chains and closely guarded by U. S. deputy marshals on their way back to their separate cells in the Jackson County Jail. Acting U. S. Marshal William Tatum indicated they would be moved to the death row in the state prison at Jefferson City within a few days. Mrs. Heady will be the first woman to die in the Missouri gas chamber. The 30 men who have been executed there have been stripped of the shorts to lessen the possibility of gas clinging to their clothing. Arrangements have been made for Mrs. Heady to be clad in long black shorts and a black halter. She will be blindfolded, as will Hall. After the jury retired for its deliberations, a death recommendation for Hall was decided on immediately. However, one juror held out for life imprisonment for Mrs. Heady, it was learned last night. He finally agreed on the death penalty for her also after an hour's persuasion. The jury was out only 66 minutes.

In The Red

EAST NORWICH, N. Y. (AP) The Russians are in the red on taxes for two mansions they own on Long Island—one of them occupied by Andrei Vishinsky. An estate here, Norwich House, has been put on notice for public sale unless a Nassau county tax bill of $2,918, five months in arrears, is paid. The other estate, Killenworth, at Glen Cove, has been put on notice for public sale for a $2,396 tax delinquency. The Soviet first deputy foreign minister and permanent delegate to the United Nations occupies Killenworth with his wife, daughter and staff. Various Russian staff members and children live at Norwich House. The Russians have had tax delinquencies previously on Killenworth. They contend they were entitled to a diplomatic tax exemption, but eventually paid the taxes.

30 Years Ago Today

THE DAILY REFLECTOR
November 20, 1923

Monday night was ladies night at the Greenville Rotary Club and proved an enjoyable affair for the Rotarian and Rotary Anns. Following the course dinner were songs by the club and quartet after which came the introduction of Bill Lee by Mrs. Charlie Porter.

Bill in eloquence with a touch of humor assured the ladies that this was one of the nights to which the club always looks with pleasure and that their presence was a joy to all Rotarians. Haywood Dall introduced Mrs. Jasper Winslow who responded to Bill's address of welcome. J. B. Kittrell, who was called on for a stunt, presented each of the ladies a vanity box with which she could keep her nose from being shiny and a tape line with which to measure her husband's affection and sincerity. In turn he presented the men a key ring, in order that they could lock their contraband from their wives, a vest pocket clothes brush with a caution to use it to remove all powder or 'stray' hair from their coat lapels before returning home each night. At the conclusion of these presentations the quartet rendered a few selections and "Good Night Ladies" by the entire club brought the happy occasion to a close.

Rev. L. W. Topping Gives Club Program

A most enjoyable meeting of the American Home Department was held at the home of Mrs. C. D. Ward Friday afternoon, Nov. 13. The president, Mrs. Topping, called the meeting to order, after which she welcomed everyone. She then turned the meeting over to Mrs. George Clapp, program chairman, who introduced Rev. L. W. Topping as guest speaker for the afternoon. Rev. Topping used for his subject "Keeping Thanksgiving." He urged and inspired his listeners to keep Thanksgiving day as a holy day rather than a holiday. "To observe a real Thanksgiving in our homes," by creating an atmosphere of gratitude and thankfulness.

The president then asked Mrs. Ed Ricks, membership chairman, to introduce the new members and visitors. New members included Mesdames D. L. Harrell, B. C. Satterfield, Frank Brown and Jasper Tripp; visitors, Mesdames W. R. Smith, P. B. Hines, Michael Martin, T. L. Broadrick and J. J. Lafferty. Visitors and new members were heartily welcomed.

The president presided over a short business meeting, after which the hostess served coffee and pecan pie. She was assisted by Mrs. Johnnie Briley, Mrs. H. R. Rogers and Mrs. Vance Perkins.

Arts & Crafts Shown HD Members, Guests

Home Demonstration club women and guests yesterday were entertained at luncheon at Respospense immediately following the program Thursday morning of the annual Fall Achievement Day. While waiting for lunch Mrs. Paul Davenport led them in group singing.

After lunch they were invited to the Home Demonstration department to see arts and crafts exhibitions. Miss Josephine Cusick, assistant home agent, demonstrated how nature prints can make place cards, Christmas cards and many other things. Mrs. Lillie B. Little, assistant home agent, showed the women how they can make hooked rugs and make shucked dolls; Mrs. L. W. Edwards, beaded rugs; and Mrs. James Allen showed how to stencil and color woodcut plates.

Mrs. Robert E. Starling displayed souvenirs that she received while in Toronto, Canada attending the convention of the Associated County Women of the World.

Guests were greeted by Mrs. Howard Moyer and Mrs. Sue May, home demonstration agent. Out-of-county guests were Miss Lorna Langley, Northeastern District Agent, and Mrs. Jake Frizelle, District Chairman.

Upon the arrival of guests refreshments of punch, cookies and cheese straws were served by Mrs. Anne Hodges, assisted by arts and craft leader Mrs. Luke Stanley, Mrs. Joe Joyner, County Home Management leader, Mrs. Fenner Allen, past president of county chorus, Mrs. Norman Stanley, Chicod club president, Bobbie Jean Sutton, senior 4-H girl, and Mrs. Ruel Tyson, secretary of H. D. agents.

The refreshment table was covered with a green cloth and a pumpkin filled with fruits and vegetables, surrounded by green candles and small yellow chrysanthemums were used as a centerpiece.

Fall Theme Noted At Party Honoring Mary Lou Jacobs

Honoring Miss Mary Lou Jacobs of Danville, Ky., whose marriage to Ensign Sam Northrop Jr. will take place in December, Mrs. Sam Northrop was gracious hostess at tea on Wednesday afternoon, November 18, at the Episcopal Parish House.

Guests were welcomed at the East door by Mrs. Lee Hannah and Mrs. Lee Folger and at the West door by Mrs. W. L. Harrington and Mrs. R. C. Stokes. Mesdames George Edwards, Marvin Sugg, F.W.A. Mills and Agnes Barrett received in the parish hall and directed visitors to the Guild Room, where Mrs. E. J. Garrett introduced them to Mrs. Northrop and Miss Jacobs.

Mrs. John R. Hodges made the introductions to a second receiving line composed of Mrs. H. G. Kletzien of Goldsboro, sister of Mr. Northrop; Mrs. Bruce Sugg Jr. and Mrs. F. Harding Sugg.

Chrysanthemums in shades of gold and bronze were used in profusion in the Guild Room, interspersed with evergreens and accented by yellow tapers in brass holders.

Mrs. John G. Clark and Mrs. Francis Bowen invited guests into the dining room and Mrs. J. T. Little and Mrs. Graham Planegan directed them to the tea table, which was covered with an exquisite cloth of white linen and Venise fillet lace and centered with a massive arrangement of pale pink carnations and white shag chrysanthemums, flanked by pink tapers in silver candelabra.

Mrs. O. L. Joyner and Miss Mary Harding presided at either end of the long table. Mesdames George Garrett, William A. Bowen, James Harvey Ward and Misses Marietta Northrop, Stuart Bost, Margaret Ruffin and Elizabeth White assisted in serving dainty sandwiches, chicken salad puffs, tiny ham biscuits, salted nuts and bridal cakes and mints in pastel colors.

Beautiful arrangements of evergreens and chrysanthemums in deeper shades of pink and rose graced the sideboard and occasional tables in the dining room, and candlelight shed a soft glow over the scene.

Goodbyes were said to Mrs. J. T. Cheatham, Mrs. T. I. Wagner and Mrs. L. C. Skinner. About 150 guests called between the hours of 4:00 and 5:30.

St. John's H.D. Club Makes Plans For Christmas Party

St. John's Home Demonstration Club met Monday, Nov. 16, at 1:30 p. m. at the club house.

Mrs. Clifton Baldwin, president, called the meeting to order. A Thanksgiving hymn was sung after which the Club Collect was reported.

Mrs. Cecil Wright, secretary, read the minutes of the October meeting and called the roll.

Mrs. Alton Chapman gave her treasurer's report.

The following were welcomed as visitors and prospective members: Mrs. D. George, Mrs. Joe Herbert, Mrs. T. M. Baker, Mrs. Add. Daniels and Mrs. Ralph Dixon Jr. Mrs. Robert Ives was welcomed as a new member.

The president, Mrs. Baldwin, recommended all of the Achievement Day Program.

Mrs. G. M. Taylor gave a report on poultry.

A Christmas party was planned for Dec. 21 at 7:30 p. m. at the club. All members are asked to bring their families. Santa has promised to come.

Mrs. H. D. Harris, arts and crafts leader, gave a very interesting and most helpful demonstration on Christmas decorations.

The recreation leader, Mrs. W. L. Johnson, led the group in a variety of games and contests, after which the hostesses, Mrs. Cecil Wright, Mrs. F. D. Taylor and Mrs. Clifton Baldwin, served homemade pies, coffee and nuts.

Belvoir HD Club Receives Award At Achievement Day

Belvoir Home Demonstration Club was presented a special award Thursday at the annual Fall Home Achievement Day program that was held in the Educational Building of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church.

Installation services were led by Mrs. Alton Chapman, past president. Newly installed officers were: Mrs. James Allen, president; Mrs. S. D. Tucker, vice-president; Mrs. Clayton Ellis, secretary; Mrs. Tryce Stokes, treasurer; Mrs. A. H. Bone and Mrs. C. H. Hagan, directors.

Mrs. Howard D. Moyer, Council President, made the presentation to the president of the Belvoir Club. The award was given to the club for the highest number of points received during the past year. At each club meeting score cards are filled in by the secretary and at the end of each meeting are sent to the H.D. office where they are totaled and filed. On this sheet, points are kept for the number of reports given that were to be presented at this time and for the percentage of members present.

Attendance awards were presented to 99 home demonstration members ranging from one year to 12 years in perfect attendance. Mrs. J. T. Dupree, Council treasurer, presented the awards to Mrs. D. N. Nobles, Sweet Gum Grove, 12 year attendance pin; Mrs. W. A. Cherry, Red Banks, 11 year attendance; and Miss Annie Carroll, Chicod Club, received the 10 year attendance pin.

A special reading award went to Fountain Club for having the largest number of its members for new readers. Two women received reading certificates, presented to them by Mrs. Russell Britt, Pitt County education leader, for reading the required number of books and making reports to the club.

Mrs. Howard Moyer, president, presided over the meeting and introduced Rev. W. M. Howard, pastor of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church, who gave the invocation. Afterward, the Pitt County Chorus under the direction of the Don Roebuck and accompanied by Mrs. J. Paul Davenport sang the hymn "Come, Ye Thankful People Come" with the audience joining in. The devotion was given by Mrs. A. H. Bone, of the Pactus Club.

Mrs. Moyer recognized the guests at the program, who were: Miss Lorna Langley, Northeastern District Agent, Mrs. W. A. Frizelle, 22nd District chairman, Greene County, Rev. and Mrs. W. M. Howard, Mr. Ruel Tyson, sheriff of Pitt County, Mr. Reginald Gray, Pitt County auditor, Mrs. Bess Scott, Pitt County librarian, Mr. Sam J. Weeks, Pitt County Assistant farm agent, Mr. C. J. Goodman, Pitt County Assistant farm agent and Miss Bobbie Jean Sutton, senior 4-H member of the Chicod Club.

Achievements of the Pitt County Home Demonstration Clubs during 1953 were reviewed by a panel composed of Mrs. Obed Castelle, narrator, Mrs. Jamie Wilson, Mrs. Tyree Stokes and Bobbie Jean Sutton. Purposes of the club and the many improvements made during the year in the home and elsewhere were the topic of discussion.

Secretary Mrs. Alton Moore read the minutes of the last meeting and the roll was called by Clubs. All but three clubs were represented at the annual meeting.

Speaker for the morning event, Mrs. Robert B. Starling, Past District chairman, told of her trip to Toronto, Canada where she attended the meeting of Associated County Women of the World. She told of the friendly way in which the women of other countries thought of the American people. One German woman told her that people in the United States "laughed to make friends with one another" while in her country people cried. At the business meetings emphasis was placed on the importance of international friendship and understanding among people. Mrs. Starling said that her trip was a "wonderful experience" and that the women she met made such an impression upon her that although there were many she would never forget them. She said, "We felt as if we were a large group of sisters."

While in Canada the delegates stayed in the Royal York Hotel. When touring the many places of interest they rode on buses. Mrs. Starling told of the picnics, banquets and teas they attended and said "they were the most elaborate I have ever attended."

Last Rites Held For W. G. Stokes Today

Funeral services for W. G. Stokes, retired merchant and farmer of Stokes, who died Wednesday night, were held at the home Friday afternoon. Rev. Harold Tyer, Christian minister of Bath, officiated. Burial was in Greenwood Cemetery in Greenville.

Mr. Stokes was a pioneer resident of Stokes. He moved there in 1892 and the town was named in his honor. He was active in community affairs and was a member of the Christian Church. He was married to Miss Addie Perkins in 1888. She died in 1944. Later, he was married to Mrs. Ida House of Greenville in 1935. She died in 1949.

Surviving by his first marriage are a son, William F. Stokes, and two daughters, Mrs. J. B. Conleton and Mrs. J. A. Tyson of Stokes. Seven grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren also survive.

Funeral Held Today For John P. Hooker

BETHEL — Funeral services for John P. Hooker, 62, bookkeeper for M. O. Blount & Sons' store for 35 years, who died suddenly in the office Thursday morning, were held Friday afternoon at Bethel Methodist Church.

Rev. H. B. Lewis of Bethel and Rev. N. W. Grant of Washington, a former pastor, officiated. Burial was in Bethel Cemetery.

The body was taken to the church one hour before the service. He was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Taylor Hooker of Beaufort county. He came to Bethel in 1918. He was a Mason and a steward in the Bethel Methodist Church. He had served on the Town Board of Commissioners and was town treasurer.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Bessie Gower Hooker; two sisters, Mrs. T. P. Bonner of Aurora and Mrs. Horace Jones of Washington.

MISS WHITE LINE SOUTH PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — A South Pasadena police car hit a skunk on Huntington Drive. The car was so smelly that the cop who drew it for his beat the next day decided to walk.

Dr. Humbert Is Guest Speaker For Junior Club

Dr. Walter C. Humbert, Pitt County Health Officer, spoke to the Junior Woman's Club at the November meeting held at the Woman's Club Wednesday night, Nov. 18. Dr. Humbert spoke on "Health in the American Home." He said health problems today are rating third in death for nation. 4,000,000 in 1952 suffered such accidents at a cost of $600,000,000. 29,000 deaths in 1952 and 120,000 permanently disabled. He stated that more hazards happened first in the bath room, second in the bedroom, and third in the kitchen.

Dr. Humbert was introduced by Mrs. C. T. Fleming Jr. She said, "His honors and accomplishments are so many that I shall tell you only a few. He was a lieutenant-colonel in the Medical Corps and was awarded the Bronze Star. Prior to coming to Greenville, he was director of the Blood Bank Program in 16 states. His experience has proven an asset to Greenville and he has given unselfishly of his time by serving as director of the visits of the Bloodmobile to Greenville and Pitt County."

Mrs. James Davenport, president of the club, announced that a bake sale will be held Wednesday, Nov. 25, at Garris Grocery on East Fifth Street.

The roll call and minutes were read by Mrs. Harold Alder, who acted as secretary.

Mrs. Dink James, the new advisor, was introduced.

The club was happy to have Mrs. Jack Stanfield as a guest.

The hostesses, Mrs. Howard Grady, Mrs. R. D. Harrington and Mrs.

T. R. Jones, served delicious refreshments.

District Ruritan Elects Davenport As Governor

Ruritan Clubs of the Greenville-Goldsboro District of Ruritan National have elected Elwood C. Davenport of Winterville as governor, succeeding W. Loys May of Maury in this office.

Davenport was chosen governor at the district convention in Greenville, at which awards for community service and club extension were presented to the Bath Ruritan Club, and the attendance award was won by the Winterville Club.

Vice President William H. Brake of Rocky Mount, Marvin L. Gray, executive secretary, and Jack Snyder, assistant to Gray, both of Wakefield, Va., and Past District Governors Ernest Slack of Bath and Ernest Cullipher of Pinetown headed the top-ranking members of the organization attending the Greenville convention.

Delegates approved an assessment not to exceed 10 cents per member for the purpose of providing secretarial aid to the district governors. Aide to District Governor Davenport next year will be W. R. (Bill) May, also of Winterville.

Endorsement of Vice President Brake for the Presidency of Ruritan National for 1954 was unanimously voted by the representatives of the 19 clubs in attendance. Brake will be nominated at the national convention in Washington, D. C., in January, 1954.

During the dinner meeting at Respos Brothers Barbecue House, attended by a capacity delegation, Sam D. Bundy, Farmville educator and humorist, addressed the convention on "A Plan for Ruritan" in which he saluted the organization for its community betterment projects, its civic leadership, and its dedication to service.

Alumni Secretary James W. Butler of East Carolina College presided as toastmaster, and briefly cited the service of East Carolina College to the building of a better school system and cultural life in this area, also urging support of the Educational Foundations of the College and offering tuition scholarship support as projects for clubs in the area.

The growth of the Ruritan Clubs in the Greenville-Goldsboro district, was announced by Governor May, who announced the formation of the Tri-Communities Club at Ransoville and plans for a new club in Greene county soon.

Delinquency And Market In Babies Under Study

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Hendrickson (R-Mo.) said today a New York City prosecutor's grim tale of a black market in babies has shown that a tough federal law to curb it "is a must."

Hendrickson made the statement as he called a husband-and-wife team of criminology students to testify today in this second day of public hearings into causes and possible cures of juvenile delinquency.

He said Dr. and Mrs. Sheldon Glueck, members of the Harvard Law School staff, would report their findings in a study of 500 juvenile delinquents and 500 youngsters of similar backgrounds who

Adopt Standards In Streams Study

RALEIGH (AP)—The State Stream Sanitation Committee took a major step yesterday by adopting standards for use in carrying out its work.

The standards will be applied to the state's streams as surveys of the streams are completed.

The committee, which is attempting to reduce pollution in Tar Heel waters, has virtually completed a survey of the Yadkin River. It is working on surveys of the White Oak, Chowan and Roanoke rivers.

The next river basin to be surveyed, the committee decided yesterday will be the Cape Fear.

Fall Cushioned By Excess Weight

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Her excess weight may have helped save the life of a 45-year-old woman who fell 13 stories from a hotel window, Jefferson Hospital physicians say. That, plus the facts that a skylight broke her fall and she landed in a sitting position.

Staff doctors said Mrs. Betty Green Kaskin's plumpness cushioned the shock. And while in a sitting position, they explained, the body is best able to diffuse shock.

The woman, who is reported recovering from the fall Nov. 13, suffered a number of cracked vertebrae, broken ribs, a torn kidney and compound fractures of the right leg.

Precedents Set In White Controversy

Aside from all the furor caused by the debate of the Harry Dexter White case between the Democrats and Republicans, there are several important precedents set in the case which may well be remembered by the people of the nation.

The case saw for the first time:

1. The attorney general of the United States dipped into the hitherto secret files of the FBI and revealed a portion of the information therein in support of charges he brought.
2. The nation's former Chief Executive was subpoenaed to appear before a portion of the legislative branch of the govern-

Could Be The Calm Before The Storm

Politics in North Carolina is sort of quiet now as a conversational topic. Probably it is part of the calm before the storm.

A few months ago there was a great deal in the newspapers about former Governor W. Kerr Scott attending meetings in various parts of the state and making important speeches. At the same time Senator Lennon was making appearances over a wide area in his "get acquainted" tour.

Along the same time folks in individual counties in the eastern part of the state were taking a long look at next May and trying to decide what names would appear on county and state tickets.

To be sure politics is still being talked in this area—with an eye to the May primary—but it is just not as prevalent now as it was a short time back.

Chances are things on the political scene in North Carolina will remain relatively quiet from now until the first of the year. After that date—usually considered the proper time for official announcements of candidates—political tunes and conversation will begin to build toward the May climax.

In spite of the relative calm now, next year should prove a warm one about the Tar Heel state.

Strength for the Day

GOOD HEALTH AND SOUND MORALS
There is a profound relationship between good health and good morals—between a sound body and a sound mind. The next time you are in the Post Office, take a look at the pictures of wanted criminals on the bulletin board. Examine their faces carefully and you will see that there is something the matter with these poor chaps. They were born with a twist in their natures which appears to have given them a twist of features. Their twisted natures are reflected in their faces.

Liquor and dope produces more criminals than all other factors combined. But it is also true that if many of the people now in prison had had enough wholesome food and good medical care in the early years of their lives, they might have been different. Many criminals appear to enjoy the best of health, but this does not preclude the fact that their twisted moral natures may correspond to a twisted physical nature which is abnormal but which does not produce either acute or chronic disorders.

The children of a nation constitute its most valuable resource. If we could make and keep all children healthy, and if when they become adults they could be persuaded to make good health a hobby, most of the broken homes would be intact and the prisons of our country half empty.

Good health and good morals belong together and usually are found together.

Was Nixon Pushed Too Fast?

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON—Although the White House has been gratified by the favorable reception which Vice President Richard M. Nixon has enjoyed on his current world tour, President Eisenhower recognizes belatedly that he cannot promote the young man from California too fast and too far without incurring enmities within the Republican Party and Congress. Ike privately deplores reports that he is preparing Nixon for the 1956 Presidential nod.

In view of his youth and relative inexperience, GOP politicians were genuinely amazed when Eisenhower demanded Nixon as his running mate last year. It was all the more surprising because Senator William F. Knowland of California would have had second place on the ticket, if the late Senator Robert A. Taft had been named instead of Eisenhower. The Warren-Knowland and Nixon factions have never been friendly in state or national politics.

But Ike recognized then, as Attorney-General Herbert Brownell does now, that Roosevelt-Truman tolerance of fellow travelers at Washington would be a dominant issue in his struggle with Adlai E. Stevenson. The nomination of Nixon was a "natural."

NIXON'S PERSISTENCE IN HIS CASE—It was Nixon's persistence in confronting Alger Hiss with Whittaker Chambers that led to the former State Department aide's indictment and conviction. It was Nixon who, in a 1950 Senate speech, had first leaked about Truman's clearance of Harry Dexter White after receipt of an FBI warning. Finally, Stevenson had given a court-requested deposition in favor of Hiss' character and official discharge of his duties.

Since inauguration, Ike has continued to exalt the V.P. He has brought him into the Cabinet, and permitted him to preside at meetings when he, Eisenhower, had to be absent.

He has entrusted responsible and delicate Capitol Hill missions to the youngster. He capped these honors by sending Nixon around the world as his representative, and as the highest-ranking American ever to visit turbulent Southeast Asia, Australia and other remote areas.

VICE-PRESIDENT'S MODESTY—Although Vice President Nixon has accepted acclaim with unique modesty, his triumph by proxy has gone to the heads of many of his Congressional and California colleagues.

3. J. Edgar Hoover, head of the FBI, appeared before a congressional committee, and thereby to some extent brought that agency into what has turned into a political issue.

What these precedents will mean in the future is anyone's guess. All three pose valuable lessons by which the American people can profit in the future.

If anyone could be singled out as causing more concern than the other, we would point to the matter of bringing the FBI into a situation which has become to a great extent political. The investigative arm of the Justice Department has, more than any other major branch of the government, remained aloof from partisan politics in the past. Doubtless every effort will be made by J. Edgar Hoover and other officials to have it retain that position even now.

It will be a terrible blow to the United States if the FBI does become embroiled in politics.

Through all the pros and cons in the still raging controversy, the American people must not be confused to the extent they lose faith or respect for their national government or the chief officials in it.

serious questions for the American people to ponder.

N.C. Turnpikes Should Prove Helpful To State

North Carolina may soon be moving into the field of toll roads as additions to its highway system.

The state, of course, has never had any toll roads in the realm of modern highway transportation, but the past two sessions of the General Assembly have each authorized a turnpike authority.

It has taken some time for the groundwork for super-highway toll roads to develop—and the progress is indeed still in that stage—but one or more major turnpikes through North Carolina now appear much nearer reality than they have in the past.

There is little doubt that one or more major super highways linking North Carolina with other sections of the nation would be a great help to the state's transportation problem. It is likely that the more rapid transportation they would make possible between North Carolina and some major cities would prove an incentive for more industrial development in the state.

At the same time, such toll roads may prove a part of the answer to the state's problem of how to get bigger and better primary traffic arteries in its highway system.

Off hand, we can not recall any major disadvantages other states which have one or more major turnpikes have found since the toll super highways have been in operation.

What Other Editors Are Thinking

NEWSPAPERS ARE CONTROLLED

(The Indiana Publisher)
With wages at a peak and no longer furnishing a subject for enthusiastic rabble rousing, a labor leader addressing a convention of his organization hurled the so-far-heard charge that newspapers are controlled. This might have served to divert the minds of the delegates from some other controls to which organized labor subscribes in part, chiefly the alleged government control over prices, which labor wants, and the control over wages, which labor does not want. It is not unusual to hear that newspapers are controlled. But the charge is rather inappropriate when it comes from the head of a union organization that publishes its own newspaper, which is controlled by and operated in the interest of those who are at the head of the union. Nor was the charge very timely in view of the fact that those who direct the destinies of the printers' union are engaged in establishing newspapers in various cities and towns. Surely, the policies of these publications are under the control of those who are responsible for them. Nor is it likely those policies will permit the publication of matter which is not in the interest of those who are in charge of the newspapers.

Publishers and editors of newspapers have long objected to the charge that newspapers are controlled. It usually comes from those who do not agree with the editorial policies of the paper, or from those who resent what was published about them or their friends, or from those who complain that what they consider news was not published. Why not face the fact that newspapers are controlled, as they must be, by men and women who must constantly exercise the same degree of good judgment in determining what shall be published as does the physician in diagnosing a case of illness. It is always a problem to understand what the critics mean when they prattle about the "controlled press." If it is to explain their disagreement with the editorial policies of newspapers they are not aware of what freedom of the press means, for the press will be controlled either by the people represented by the editors or by the government. The fate of La Prensa is the answer to that criticism. If their charge of the controlled press is disconcerting over what is published or what is not published, they need to understand that, whether the system is right or wrong, the editor is the judge of what should be published and what must be discarded. There may be an error in judgment, but as established in law this is justifiable error.

Newspapers must necessarily be controlled by the men and women whose lives are devoted to the demands of journalism and the press. So long as their exercise of judgment is motivated by a sense of honor, good taste and decency, there is nothing to fear from the controlled press. Nor need newspaper folks object to the charge that the press is controlled. It is controlled by men and women, the majority of whom have a knowledge of their responsibilities to keep the press free.

Around Capitol Square

By LYNN NISBET
MARKETING—L. Y. Ballentine, commissioner of agriculture, made a talk to the regional agriculture workshop at Louisville on marketing of farm products. He stressed one element in marketing cost which he said had been too long ignored—transportation.

He said that rate making agencies have overlooked the interests of farmers in too many instances. A few months ago the N.C. Department of Agriculture added a rate specialist and there is now pending in the courts an appeal on a freight rate order by the Utilities Commission.

Somebody Told Me

Fur Trapping Still Profitable

Our next-door neighbor, Elmo Dupree, is usually in the midst of an interesting operation. Basically, he's a transplanted tobacco farmer from Belvoir, but he also deals in cucumbers, peanuts, and furs. In between the seasons, he's a hunter and fisherman.

The other day I asked Elmo for a story about one of his operations and he shot back, "Do you want to talk about peanuts or furs?" "Let's try furs this time," I said. Elmo immediately surprised me by saying that at least $15,000 would be paid to trappers during the season this year, which only lasts from November 14th to January 31st. He's one of the seven buyers in Pitt County who will create this market.

The most common among the furs is the muskrat, whose hide varies in value from 25 cents to $1.50, and last year averaged $1 for the trapper. The mink is next in line of availability. They bring from $2 to $16 and averaged $12 last season. The coon averaged $1, but would increase in value if we had friendly relations with Russia. Whereas Americans use fur mostly as a luxury, Russians use them for warmth. The coon provides a good inside garment lining for them. If it weren't for the Canadian market the coon hide would almost be off the market.

The possum brings only about 20 cents, but the least common, the otter, will average $18 and bring as much as $25.

"Who do you sell 'em to, Elmo?" I asked, thinking it was a completely innocent question. But Elmo laughed and said, "That's a trade secret."

Trappers use steel traps for catching, stretch and dry the skins and sell them to the seven buyers in Pitt County. The buyers take the chance of the advancing and declining market, and will tell you that the Washington scandal a few years ago involving political gifts of mink coats hurt the market. But that's ancient history now, and the buyers are optimistic. After all, they can't afford to be pessimistic when their money is at stake.

How do you learn how to buy furs? It's just like anything else: experience is gained the hard way. It costs time and money to learn any trade.

And I thank Elmo.

Ballentine Stresses Transportation; The JP Question

Justices of the Peace may be elected by the people, designated by the General Assembly or appointed by the Governor. In event of vacancy interim appointments may be made by the Clerk of Superior Court.

Once in the office, Justices of the Peace who have been elected by the people or the General Assembly can be removed only by impeachment. Those appointed by the Governor can have their commissions revoked by the appointing or any succeeding chief executive when he is convinced that public good will be served by such revocation.

EASY—The fact that some townships can elect as many as 20 justices of the peace, and there is no limit on the number which may be appointed by the General Assembly and the Governor, indicates that it is much easier to get a magistrate appointed than "unappointed."

The executive appointment act was put in the law books in 1917 and has not been materially changed. Each Governor from Bickett to Umstead has had his own policy about JP appointments. Governor Broughton established a rule, which has been essentially the policy of succeeding Governors, requiring endorsement of the Democratic party chairman in the county, the chairman of the local county bar and a statement from the clerk of court that there is need for another JP in the township. Each of the governors has "gone slow" in issuing JP commissions, but with all the care given there have been some bad choices made, just as there have been unfortunate popular and legislative elections.

The main difference is that when a Governor makes a mistake he or his successors in office can correct it. When the people or the Legislature makes a mistake it can be corrected only through the intricate processes of impeachment involving a public trial before the Senate with the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court presiding.

IMPORTANT—The importance of the justice of the peace in the judicial system is often overlooked. There are still many very fine JPs, but for most part the dignity of the office has been lowered from the old status of the township "squire," who was not only the judge in matters of law but was the accepted and respected mentor, adviser and community leader in all public affairs.

Despite this loss of dignity and prestige in popular concept, it is still a fact that the JP can send you to jail for violation of the law—or what is more significant—for his own idea of what constitutes contempt of his court. Under these circumstances it is understandable that Governors should be slow to appoint men to position of such power, and even more reluctant to revoke commissions except upon showing of incompetence to measure up to demands of the position.

QUALIFIED—Congressman Harold Cooley was talking with friends at the recent State Farm Bureau meeting about the overall farm price-support program and what he hoped to do about it in

Business Today

Special Interests?

By ELMER ROESSNER

The program of fixed farm price supports not only confers special benefits on one particular group but does so at the expense of others, says the current Illinois Business Review, published by the Bureau of Economic and Business Research of the University of Illinois. V. Lewis Bassie is director of the bureau.

The bulletin observes that "there seems to be an element of planning for depression in rural areas" and that "the depression phobia seems to rule national farm policy, also."

The policy that "sets aside the laws of supply and demand," by providing for peak production and restricting consumption, aggravates the surpluses, the bulletin says, adding, "Another undesirable feature of the fixed prices supports is that they do not maintain, but increase farm incomes. It does not take much arithmetic to see that if farmers produce 50 per cent more than normal and sell at 90 per cent of parity, their receipts would not be parity but 135 per cent of parity. Thus, whenever a large crop results from particularly favorable weather, or from overplanting of a particular commodity, the farmers producing it gain a substantial advantage. We have heard no one claim that they should be rewarded for either accidents of weather or mistakes of management, but that is the implication of the present system."

The bulletin charges the present program "in effect imposes a double tax on the consuming public—once in higher food prices and again in taxes collected to purchase the surplus." It adds that "it is no more than a delusion of the professional lobbyist that so ill-conceived a program can endure."

All this does not rule out the possibilities of farm program, the bulletin asserts, but a program should be based on the objectives of providing relief from distress under conditions of extreme depression, instead of a means of keeping income at a peak, and to secure a satisfactory adjustment of production to the needs of the consuming public.

When Professor Bassie suggested a month ago that a decline in farm prices might be good, not bad, for business, he aroused a storm of protest and rejoinder in rural areas. It looks as if the barometer is dropping again.

EVERYBODY GETTING IN TOY TRAILING NOW
More businesses will be selling toys this Christmas season than ever before, according to reports to the Toy Manufacturers of the U.S.A. Dealers will include service stations, auto supply stores, tobacco shops, children's clothing stores, stationery stores, book stores, supermarkets and greeting-card shops. Shoppers may even find a few short lines in delicatessens and beauty shops. And, as always, they will be on sale in department, variety and toy stores.

GUYS AND DOLLS BUY MORE SHIRTS AND SKIRTS
Sales of both shirts and skirts may set new records this year, according to the National Shirt and Sportswear Association.

Shirt production in the first six months of this year was well on the way to a new record, running 24 per cent ahead of last year, the National Association of Shirt, Pajama and Sportswear Manufacturers says.

Shipments of separate skirts were running 7 per cent ahead of last year during the same six months, says the National Shirt and Sportswear Association.

In reporting on skirts at the association's annual meeting, Ell Elias said the industry should concentrate on giving skirts "emotional appeal" to insure their position in the fashion picture.

TOO MUCH TRAINING MAY SPILL MANAGER
Industry may be overtraining its executives, James S. Massie, Minneapolis-Honeywell official, told the Society for the Advancement of Management. Extensive and intricate training programs now used by some companies may overburden prospective top managers and do more harm than good, he said.

A survey of 250 top executives showed that 77 reported that their ability to get along with others was the most important factor in their rise to the top.

TWO MORE BRANDS
In the past 20 years, the lexicon of Scotland would seem to have been exhausted by brand names for Scotch whisky. Nevertheless, two more brands are seeking a foothold on the American market. The U.S. Department of Commerce office at 346 Broadway, New York 13, has information on two British firms seeking American distributors.

NEW IRON ALLOY MAY HAVE CIVILIAN USES
A new iron-base alloy, originally developed for the Signal Corps by Battelle Institute, may have many other uses in industrial and consumer goods. It has moderate corrosion resistance, good workability and is not easily magnetized. It requires little chromium and no scarce nickel.

Inexpensive Way To Get Rich
Sometimes the amateur is closer to the public mood.

An example was Charles Darrow, an unemployed Philadelphia heating engineer, who in 1935 invented "Monopoly," one of the most popular new games of this century. It has sold by the millions and Barton feels it will go on forever.

"Darrow retired and lived happily ever after," he said. "But what he did was roughly comparable to Margaret Mitchell's writing of 'Gone With the Wind.' He hit the jackpot."

"But usually one game, like one song or one book, doesn't make you wealthy."

Games publishing resembles song and book publishing in many ways.

"Each game is a business gamble," said Barton. "You can spend anything from $10,000 to $150,000 marketing a new game—and lose it all. It has to hit the public, and you never can be sure what the public will like."

Barton himself recently originated the basic idea for a new home game, "Keyword," a crossword board game, and is as nervously hopeful for its success as any amateur.

"When it comes to this field," he said, "a housewife with a fresh idea may make the oldest professional game inventor look like a beginner. She may be closer to the main thing about any game is that it must be fun."

Barton says chess is still the most popular game in the world, but is outranked 50-to-1 by checkers in America.

"I wish I had the sole rights for checkers," he said, wistfully.

Plan Campaign On Hog Disease

SMITHFIELD, N. C. (AP) — Tar Heel livestock auction market and hog buying station operators are scheduled to meet here Monday to consider ways of helping prevent the spread of vesicular exanthema into the state from South Carolina.

VE is a highly contagious swine disease caused by a virus. It affects swine like hoof and mouth disease affects cattle.

State Veterinarian H. J. Rollins has planted an embargo on South Carolina hogs because of serious outbreaks of the disease in that state.

He said the federal government has placed quarantines on five South Carolina counties.

Dr. Rollins has instructed livestock sanitary inspectors to keep a close watch on the South Carolina border to prevent the transportation of swine.

The group meeting here Monday will discuss ways to stop such bootlegging. It is expected that if the situation doesn't improve, it will request that the highway patrol be assigned to guard the highways leading from South Carolina.

Stubborn Hippo Baby Succumbs

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Like its famous mother, Snookie's baby was too stubborn for its own good.

The 75-pound, 2-day-old hippopotamus died of malnutrition yesterday after spurning Snookie's feeding attempts. It—Snookie wouldn't allow caretakers close enough to determine sex—was Snookie's third baby. One drowned, Mama—all 4,000 pounds of her—sat on the other.

Snookie became famous a few years ago with an eight-day sit-down strike while being transferred from Chicago to Columbus Zoo.

Patrolman Talks Road Safety At JC Meeting

Patrolman James Boykin gave a short talk on Safety and showed photographs of Pitt County accidents at the meeting of the Junior Chamber of Commerce last night.

The state highway patrolman gave five leading reasons of accidents on our highways today. He said they were speed, failure to yield right-of-way, following too closely, driving left of centerline, and driving under the influence.

Boykin said that 1115 people were killed in North Carolina during 1952 and 12 of these were killed in Pitt County. He stated that the season when most accidents happened is during the holidays and urged the Jaycees to become safety-conscious. President Ben Rouse told the members that the recent party was a success and that a plaque had been presented to the outstanding 4-H Club member in Pitt County. He urged support of Operation Christmas, a benefit for orphans of North Carolina, which is sponsored jointly by the Ninth Air Force of Pope Air Force Base and the North Carolina Junior Chamber of Commerce. Gene Ward is in charge of local work. It was reported that eight members of the local organization attended a recent district meeting in Jacksonville and six members are planning to attend the district meeting in Lumberton this week end. Rouse asked others to attend if they could. Two new members, Patrolman

Boykin and Robert Boyette, will be inducted at the next meeting.

There were two guests at last night's meeting. They were City Manager James S. Hughes and J.D. Parker.

Bottles For Britons On New Year's Start

BOTTLES FOR BRITONS 410
By ANNE KRAMER
LONDON (AP)—Whisky-parched Britons will be able to ring in the new year in style. For the first time since the war's end, whisky will be off the ration lists. For eight years most of Britain's whisky has been exported to earn dollars. Supplies for home consumption were reduced to a mere trickle.

Now, with production boosted, the government is abandoning the old austerity program which gave liquor stores and merchants yearly quotas based on a small percentage of their prewar sales. A familiar figure, debonair and monocled and clad in well-cut tweeds, is returning to national magazines to invite readers to a "whisky and soda." And every time a Scotsman sees the ad his blood pressure will shoot up at the stupidity of the English—spoiling his national drink with a fizzy soda substance that destroys its potency, changes its taste and "transforms a mellow beatitude into a gaseous frivolity." Scotsmen stoutly maintain that whisky is not to be used lightly as an ingredient in "a fashionless clamjamfrey of a cocktail." The Scot will allow a little plain water or even an ice cube, but he prefers to drink it neat and wash it down with a gulp of water. The water must be fresh, preferably from a stream. Stale water flattens the whisky and makes it insipid ("wersh" is the Scots expression).

The Scots are partial to malt whisky, which they call "uisge beatha." That's Gaelic for water of life. Until about 80 years ago this was the only kind. Barley is still used exclusively in the pot stills of the Highlands and the Hebrides. Today grain whisky, made from cereals in a patent still, runs a close second to malt but before it was accepted in Britain there was a long-drawn-out battle. Conservative distillers said it wasn't genuine whisky. It took a royal commission in 1909 to establish its right to the name. For the Scotsman, malt whisky remains the aristocrat. Savoring the distinctive flavor it acquires when the malted barley is spread on perforated plates to dry over a slow peat fire, he'll orate on the distinction between malt and merits of a Speyside, or an Islay, grain while debating the relative merits of Speyside whisky. Speyside whisky is made of Highland malts produced chiefly in the Speyside or Glenlivet district. Islay whisky has a particularly strong flavor due to the "peated" malt.

Yet, Englishman or Scots connoisseur, there'll be mighty few who'll go a whisky spreeing in the new year. Who can afford to at 34 shillings ($4.76) a bottle?

There'll be many sighing for a return of the 1850s when the tax on a bottle was a mere 5 pence and not the 24 shillings and 7 pence. ($3.44) it is today.

COFFEE—The "coffee break" for government workers has received some publicity lately in North Carolina. It is not a local or a State question, as witnessed by the fact that the Civil Service Assembly, a nationwide organization of governmental employing officials, has taken cognizance of the problem. A recent report from this group says that "official recognition of the coffee break comes as belated acceptance of a well-established custom, rather than as a move for greater efficiency, more production or better employee welfare."

The report further notes that the problem for the boss, whether in private or public offices, is not whether or not to have a coffee break. The problem is how to control the custom so that everyone has a rest period and that no one abuses the privilege by staying away from work too long.

Experiment with having coffee brought to the desks haven't worked out very well. The workers apparently do not care so much about the coffee as about the socializing features of the "break". One other fact emerged from a study of the problem in several big outfits. The nickels and dimes spent by the coffee and coke drinkers in the cafeterias and at the refreshment stands have in many instances kept these operations out of the red.

Put His 18,850 Pennies in Bank

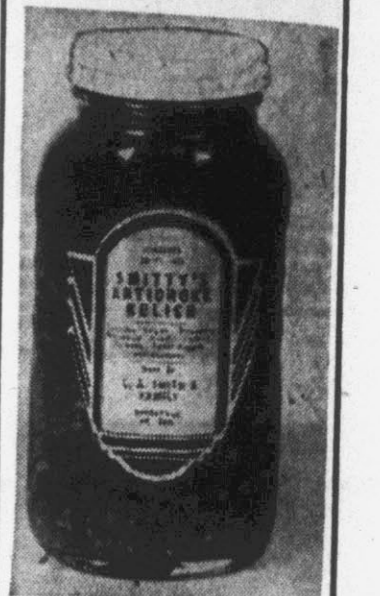

PRESCOTT, Ariz. (AP)—Bill Grace trudged into the Valley National Bank here with a heavy iron box, weighing some 140 pounds, draped over his back.

After placing the chest on the floor and regaining his breath, he opened the box and hauled out 18,850 pennies.

Grace, who operates a newsstand, said he decided to deposit the coppers in the bank because he thought they would be safer there and he still had plenty of change for his newspaper sales.

Representatives Of 32 Colleges To Visit High School On Tuesday

PHOTOGENIC PHOTOGRAPHER—Queen Frederika who often has been the "subject," reverses role with smile as she handles camera from train in Chicago on tour.

By BOB BOYETTE
Reflector Staff Writer

Representatives from colleges in both the Carolinas, Virginia, and Georgia will be at Greenville High School Tuesday, December 1 for the 15th Annual College Day.

A total of 32 colleges from the four states have confirmed visits by their representatives with others expected to send confirmation within the next few days, it was learned yesterday.

The representatives, talking with juniors and seniors individually, will explain what their colleges have to offer. All schools in Pitt County have been invited to send juniors and seniors to the local high school for the two hour session that begins at 1:30 p.m.

Farmville's First
Principal Sam Bundy of Farmville High School said that approximately 25 high schools will send representatives to that school for the first College Day in the morning of December 1.

Bundy said he already had 12 schools confirmed, but was expecting the other confirmations within the next few days. He said he only invited North Carolina schools for Farmville's first College Day program.

The Farmville principal said that the representatives will be there from nine to 11 a.m. with all other county schools invited to participate. Beginning at nine o'clock a short talk will be given on the advantages of higher education. The Farmville High School Key Club is sponsoring the first college day there.

Parents Invited
Any parents who might be interested in talking with the college representatives are invited and urged to attend. The visitors will answer all questions and get names of interested students.

The annual event at the local high school is sponsored by the local unit of the National Honor Society. Curtis Patterson, president of Greenville Honor Society, will preside at the meeting and Jimmy Phelps will introduce the representatives.

In a thirty minute program beginning at 1:30 music will be under the direction of Miss Ona Shindler and H.F. Steinbeck, local merchant, will make a short talk on the benefits of college.

Miss Frances Smith, 12th Grade teacher and sponsor of the local Honor Society, is in charge of the program. She said, "Colleges feel that College Day is worthwhile because of the personal contact they have with the students."

In 1952 Great Britain exported twice as many passenger autos as did the United States.

Confirmed Visits
The following colleges have already confirmed visits to the local high school: Presbyterian Junior, Converse, Catawba, Hardbarger Business, Peace, Brenau, High Point, Campbell, Stratford, Meredith, Davidson.

University of North Carolina, Greensboro, Atlantic Christian, Kings Business, Woman's College of UNC, Salem, Mars Hill, Virginia Intermont, Smithdeal-Massey Business, N.C. State, Pineland, Edwards Military Institute, Guilford, Lenoir, Wake Forest, Duke, St. Mary's, Wake Forest, East Carolina, Elon, and Pfeiffer Junior.

Truman Silent On Red Issue In Public Address

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Harry S. Truman had the time, the place and the audience last night to add verbal fire to the Harry Dexter White controversy, but he didn't.

Thus it was the former President stuck to his oft-repeated statements he would have no more comment to make in the blistering crossfire of charges arising from the issue.

He spoke briefly to about 350 members of the Jackson County Young Democrats, Inc., at a dinner meeting. They cheered him. He smiled, said he was happy to be there.

Once he referred to the "controversy this week" and then read from several of the telegrams he had received after his speech Monday night.

"That was when he replied to charges of Atty. Gen. Brownell that he kept the late Harry Dexter White in government service when he knew him to be a Communist spy.

"One of the telegrams, he said, read: 'Give 'em hell, Harry. The newspapers need the money.'

Earlier, in his off-the-cuff speech he had said the Democratic party has "no outlet for facts in this country, with 90 per cent of the newspapers against it."

The former President also told the Democrats:

"Since the time of Jefferson the people have tried to keep the government out of the hands of special privilege. The Democrats always have tried to do this, but we didn't succeed very well last year.

"What we need to do is to set our house in order here at home, and we must have a vigorous Democratic organization to present the facts to the people of the United States. If we do, after the next election we can have forward-looking men in Congress."

Truman apparently had anticipated that some in the audience would expect him to say something stronger on the White controversy.

But as he left the banquet room, he saw a newsman at a telephone. He smiled, put his hands on his hips, and said:

"Ha I fooled you, didn't I?"

High Jump Saves Pipelayer's Life

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—A young pipelayer saved his life yesterday by leaping into the air when a 13-foot ditch in which he was working began to cave in. A companion died, however.

The high jump by William Braun, 20, enabled him to keep the top of his head above the sliding earth that more than half filled the ditch. Other workers spotted his hair and quickly scooped the dirt from around the rest of his head. He was unconscious.

Ray Baer, 19, was dead, however, when removed from the ditch. A large rock had struck him on the head, crushing his skull.

Carmen Died, But Jose Failed Her

CHICAGO (AP)—Don Jose failed to stab Carmen in the New York City Opera Company's opera "Carmen" last night but she "died" as the curtain was lowered.

David Peller, in the role of Don Jose, walked off the stage as the opera neared the climax in the last scene of the last act. He appeared angry as he threw his hat and cape on the stage floor.

Nearing the stage exit, Peller told conductor Joseph Rosentock: "You can finish the opera yourself."

Carmen, played by Gloria Lane, carried through alone in the final death scene and collapsed on the stage floor.

There were no curtain calls. The audience at the Civic Opera House appeared perplexed at the unusual ending.

There was no comment immediately from any of the principals or the company.

Sports Time-Out

with Jimmy Ellis

East Carolina's Pirates just picked the wrong football game to lose. That seems to be the sum and substance of the reasons why they haven't been invited to play in one of the post-season bowl games. They had a brilliant record this year with the exception of one game and it seems readily apparent that it was that one game which could have kept the Pirates in the running for an invitation to the Tangerine Bowl.

A report from someone close to the Tangerine Bowl said the Pirates were high among the teams being considered all season long. There is a six-man selection committee that does the picking and one of the members is a former resident of Eastern North Carolina.

This particular member of the committee was particularly anxious to see the Pirates go to the Orlando bowl game. He had persuaded the committee to watch the game played against Tampa University in Tampa three weeks ago.

You know what happened at the game. Dick Cherry was on the injured list and didn't play much. Despite the presence of three perfectly capable quarterbacks the Pirates could never get moving and wound up on the short end of an 18-13 score. It was their only loss of the year and their worst showing in more than two years.

Well, that just about knocked all the props out from under any Tangerine Bowl hopes. Of the six men on the selection committee, three were reportedly still interested in inviting East Carolina. The other three said "no" and eventually won out when the final selecting was done.

Their reasons were rather obvious. The Tangerine Bowl guarantees each participating team an estimated $10,000. That means they have to clear $20,000 in gate receipts and other sources of revenue before they can make any money for the organization.

The Tangerine Bowl draws most of its fans from Florida. Many of them come from the middle portion of the peninsula, the portion in which Tampa is near. The selection committee reportedly felt that folks from the Tampa area would not be interested in seeing a team play that had been walloped by a Tampa team that was definitely not enjoying one of its better years.

So, when the final selecting was done, the Tangerine Committee dug into its files and came up with Arkansas Tech (many around here believe it is the same school which defeated East Carolina in the National finals of the NAIA basketball tournament last year). The Arkansas team did not have the overall record the Pirates had but they had a good record. They were picked to meet East Texas State, defending Tangerine champion.

Most of the Pirates are somewhat disappointed about missing the bid to the Tangerine Bowl. They know what it could mean to the team and they know what it could mean personally. They had a good year and they were anxious to get national recognition for their efforts.

There is still a slim chance of going to the Cigar Bowl but those chances are growing dimmer every day. Many members of the team are obviously disgusted with the run-around the team is getting and they are fast approaching the point where they don't care about going to Tampa. They still want to go but the enthusiasm is getting to be less and less each day they stay away from the practice field.

Predictions on games for the weekend: West Virginia will rebound to knock the tar out of Horse Hendrickson's Wolfpack. The Wolfpack has played some good football but the combination of the long season, the many losses, and the personnel losses (the latest being guard Al D'Angelo) will prove to be too much.

Carolina will defeat Virginia in a game that will pit two teams that have not had good years. The game should be interesting because both will be attempting to salvage some prestige in the last days of the season. The Tar Heels showed some pretty good team play last week against Notre Dame and can draw some heart from that.

Wake Forest will have trouble with "the best Furman team in 17 years." The Deacons, by rights, should win, but we'll go out on that familiar limb and say that Furman will win. Perhaps the most dangerous prediction of the day.

The big one of the weekend will put Duke against Georgia Tech in Atlanta and frankly it's dangerous to say which one holds the upper hand. Tech got kicked around last week by Alabama and will be looking for somebody to take out revenge on. Duke got stomped last year by Tech when they were hoping for a good season.

Duke has a week's rest and the injured personnel is about ready to go. We'll take them by the slimmest of margins.

Death Rides Road In Big Auto Race

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Death haunted the road today as 128 drivers prepared for the second lap of the Pan-American Road Race, which so far has cost five lives.

The 1,912-mile drive from southern Mexico to the United States border began yesterday. Near Tehuantepec a Ford driven by Robert F. Christie of Grant's Pass, Ore., overturned on a curve. A crowd of spectators swarmed onto the highway and into the path of another Ford driven by Mickey Thompson of El Monte, Calif.

Before Thompson could stop, his car plowed into the throng, killing four of the spectators. Neither Thompson nor Christie was injured.

Minutes later and only a short distance up the highway Giuseppe Escosutti of Italy was killed when the Ferrari in which he was the co-driver overturned.

The modified Chryslers which were hailed as a threat to European sports cars started slow but hoped to gain in today's second leg.

A Lancia driven by Felice Bonetto of Italy was first, covering the 330 miles from Tuxtla Gutierrez on the Guatemala border to Oaxaca in 3 hours 28 minutes 14 seconds.

The best time for the Chryslers was 4:14:26, far down the line in 12th place. The driver was Tony Bettenhausen of Tinley Park, Ill. Of the 177 cars which started, 49 dropped out for various reasons.

Crowds Increase
NEW YORK (AP)—Crowds at National Football League games this season are up 12 per cent over 1952 with 10 of the 12 teams sharing in the increase.

An Associated Press survey showed today the league has drawn 1,688,805 customers to its first 48 games. In the same number a year ago the total was 1,504,504, an increase this season of 184,301.

The Los Angeles Rams, making a battle for the Western Division title, show the greatest boost in business.

State Gets News Of Broken Arm By Al D'Angelo

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Football practice togs tenderly laid to rest today in two Atlantic Coast Conference training camps.

Clemson mottoballed its battered scrimmage armor until next fall. Maryland's packing appeared temporary.

Both teams end their regular seasons tomorrow. The Tigers begin planning for September 1954. The Terps begin planning for Jan. 1, 1954, and a probable Orange Bowl date with Oklahoma.

The Tigers have unfinished business at home with Auburn tomorrow. Unbeaten Maryland entertains Alabama. Other non-conference dates place Duke at Georgia Tech, North Carolina at Virginia, West Virginia at North Carolina State, Furman at Wake Forest, and Wofford at South Carolina.

South Carolina and Wake Forest will have only four days rest before their Thanksgiving Day conference meeting in Charlotte. Duke and North Carolina tangle in the final conference game of the season Nov. 28 while North Carolina State finishes with Florida State. The Terps worked for 2 1/2 hours in a dummy scrimmage yesterday before storing their pads. Maryland is hoping to duplicate last Saturday's "revenge" victory over Mississippi by stopping the Crimson Tide and extending the Terrapins' unbeaten record to 10 games. Alabama beat Maryland at Mobile last year, 17-7.

A season of bad news reached its climax at North Carolina State. Guard Al D'Angelo, a standout lineman all year, broke his arm in practice. Earlier this week, the Wolfpack lost end Harry Lodge, out with a torn knee ligament. The developments only darkened State's prospects against a rebounding West Virginia team.

Duke noted only halfback Red Smith as a doubtful starter against Tech as the favorite, but Engineer Coach Bobby Dodd disagrees. An impressive injury list, topped by halfback Leon Hardeman and fullback Glen Turner, influenced Dodd's pessimism. A bruising heavier Duke line further deepened his woes.

North Carolina, enjoying the novelty of the favorite's role over Virginia checked split-T plays and reviewed defenses before ending drills. The Tar Heels plan to end a five-game losing streak with this starting backfield: Marshall Newman at quarterback, Ken Keller and Connie Gravittie at the halfback posts, and Dick Lackey at fullback.

Wake Forest fared off for its date with the potent Furman Hurricane of the Southern Conference. Sonny George, Joe White and Nick Consoles concentrated on passing with end Bob Ondilla and halfback Bob Frederick catching. Coach Tom Rogers found the Deacons in good shape with the exception of an injury to back Bruce Hillenbrand.

South Carolina pointed toward its most successful season in years in preparing for Wofford's Terriers. The Gamecocks hope to improve their passing attack against their upstate foes. South Carolina's ground game has clicked but pass plays have yielded only two touchdowns in the last two games.

Clemson sharpened up for a bowl-minded Auburn eleven by reviewing offensive and defensive tactics. The squad was joined by 2,600 Clemson cadets, drilling for the parade that features Tiger homecoming celebrations.

Alabama's Best..... by Pap

Irish Are Facing Upstart In Weekend's Top Contest

By BEN PHLEGAR
NEW YORK (AP)—Top-ranking Notre Dame takes the first of its last three big steps toward an undefeated football season tomorrow when it meets Iowa, always a tough foe for the Irish.

After the Hawkeyes, Notre Dame faces Southern California and Southern Methodist. Any one of the three might stop Frank Leahy's club.

Iowa has a pesky habit of breaking Notre Dame winning streaks. In 1921 it stopped the Irish after they had gone 22 games without defeat. In 1939 Notre Dame won six, then lost to Iowa. The same thing happened in 1940.

Southern California will have its hands full this weekend too when it runs up against UCLA. The Uclians are bidding for Rose Bowl glory and need this one to be assured of at least a tie for the Pacific Coast Conference title. They could win it outright if California stops Stanford. Losses by both Stanford and UCLA would leave them tied for the crown, just as would victories by both clubs.

A tie would mean a vote of the conference schools just as in the Big Ten, where a deadlock also is in prospect for the Eastern Rose Bowl representative. Illinois, crushed by Wisconsin a week ago, needs a decision over Northwestern tomorrow to finish even up with Michigan State. The Spartans finished their conference play last week with a single loss, 6-0 to Purdue. They tape off their schedule tomorrow against Marquette.

Maryland, a close second to Notre Dame in this week's Associated Press poll of the nation's top teams, finishes its season against Alabama. The Terrapins, like Notre Dame, are unbeaten, and figure to continue that way although the Crimson Tide beat them a year ago and upset Georgia Tech last week.

Maryland appears to have the inside track to the Orange Bowl, which matches the Big Seven champion against the best in the Atlantic Coast Conference. However, since the ACC is brand new this year and the members aren't playing a full schedule, the bowl nominee will be picked by ballot with Duke being about the only opposition to Jim Tatum's lads.

Dates Selected For Annual Pitt Cage Tournament

The Pitt County Athletic Association's annual basketball tournament will be held February 22, 23, and 24 in the East Carolina College gymnasium. Both boys and girls teams will participate in the tournament.

Initial plans for the tournament were completed Wednesday night at a supper meeting of the association. President Fodie Hodges presided.

Other business conducted by the association included discussion of a playoff game between the eighth and ninth place clubs one week before the tournament. The game will be to decide the eighth team in the tournament. Places in the championship tournament go to the top eight teams in the Pitt County Conference.

Members of the association also discussed plans for presentation of the Sportsmanship Award, an annual trophy, and made door assignments for the tournament.

Officials of the tournament are Hodges, principal of Chicod High School; Stuart Tripp of Ayden; Jack Edwards of Stokes; Ed Warren of Belvoir; and E. L. (Snag) Clark of Winterville.

Roy Campanella Gets MVP Award

NEW YORK (AP)—Roy Campanella's den in St. Alban's, N. Y., soon will have a second Most Valuable Player plaque hanging on the wall.

"I got plenty of room for another one," said the stocky Brooklyn catcher yesterday, as he grinned and winked for cameramen at his Harlem liquor store. The 1953 National League award, a decisive victory, has come as an extra present on his 32nd birthday.

"Makes a man feel pretty good," he said. "I can't ask for too much more in life, I guess. It sure was a nice birthday present."

Campanella was an overwhelming choice with 17 of the 24 first-place votes by the 24-man committee of the Baseball Writers Assn. of America. The men, three from each league city, each vote for 10 men and points are awarded on a 12-9-8-7-6-5-3-2-1 basis.

Point Happy

HIDDENITE, N.C. (AP)—Joan Gilreath has scored 196 points in two consecutive basketball games for Hiddenite High School.

Last winter she closed the season with a 94-point game. Tuesday night the six-foot senior scored 102 points in a 106-65 victory over the Mount Ulla High School girls.

Midget All-Stars To Play Thanksgiving Day

By WARREN CARROLL
Recreation Department Director
The Greenville Midget All-Stars will play the North Charleston, S.C. All-Stars at the College Stadium Thanksgiving Day. The game will be sponsored by the Greenville Exchange Club and the Greenville Recreation Department.

There will be no admission charge to the game but the boys that have played football all the Fall will push a drive and ask each person that wants a ticket or plans to see the game to give the amount that they feel the game will be worth. In doing this the boy that collects the most money will be given a new Midget football.

As in the past the Recreation Department is promoting one big game at a time when most of the people will have an opportunity to see the boys in action. We promote such a game for two reasons: so that the boys have a chance to play against outside competition and the other is that we like to offer the best possible entertainment to the people that act as spectators.

Many of the fans will remember that North Charleston was represented in our Little League Region Baseball Tournament. Come out and see the same brand of football that you saw during baseball season.

As our policy has been with other Midget sports, we play all of our games at home with the exception of a big game or tournament at the end of the season.

We are attempting to make the game with North Charleston an annual affair and the plans call for Greenville to go there next year.

The age and weight limit for this game changes somewhat from our regular season play and to take care of this we have brought in several boys that played last year, but these boys only added to the regular season boys who wanted to compete in this game. The top limit in weight is 115 lbs. and the age is that a boy cannot be 15 before January 2, 1954.

It is felt that Greenville will have a good team with a strong line and a fast group of backs.

All the funds collected for this game will go back into the program. They will offset the expenses for the game, a banquet for the local Greenville players, and the rest will be used on new equipment for next year. Two hundred dollars were spent on new equipment this past year and we could have used more. The local program had over 80 boys in participation this fall and there were other boys, girls and whole families that followed the games and took part in an active recreation program.

Plan now to see some good football Thanksgiving Day at 2:30 p.m. This game has been planned so that more people can see more of our recreation program.

North Charleston is coming up in force. The cheerleaders will be here to cheer the team. The cheerleaders were selected in a contest held over the North Charleston area. They have 22 boys on the squad.

The members of the Exchange Club will also have tickets if you would like to give for the game. You do not need a ticket to get in the game so come on out and enjoy Thanksgiving afternoon.

TV Cruel Medium To Challengers

NEW YORK (AP)—Television can be a cruel medium when it exposes to the national gaze such a travesty on the boxing game as was perpetrated by Danny Bucceroni and Freddie Besnore during the West Coast cocktail hour the other evening.

Though he won by a knockout over an obviously washed-up opponent, Bucceroni did not further his claim to a shot at Rocky Marciano's heavyweight title, mainly because a great audience did witness the mismatch and evaluate it for what it was.

The TV screen, we meant to say, is cruel to the men who would practice the time-honored custom of building up a challenger through a series of victories over popovers—preferably over fattened veterans such as Besnore, whose record show they once were capable of fighting the best in the business on fairly even terms.

Back in the old days before the home screen and beer factory travelogues, a "TKO 8" over Besnore would have looked very good in Bucceroni's record and would have given Danny's several managers a talking point when the IBC begins seriously looking for a challenger early next year. Now they can mark it off as an evening largely wasted.

The promoter doesn't make the big fights any more. He only watches and listens.

It takes tons and tons of materials to fill the prescriptions that give strength and stamina to the steel you use

THE STEEL that's everywhere—in your automobile, in trains, machines, and buildings—is stronger and more enduring because it has been treated with special "vitamins and tonics."

STEEL GETS ITS VITAMINS from the industry's "drugstores"—the plants where alloying metals are made. Here, prescriptions usually call for ingredients by the ton. Their huge "mixing bowls" are white-hot electric arc furnaces, in which temperatures reach over 3,500 degrees Fahrenheit.

These alloying metals are refined and concentrated forms of both rare and common metals. Among them are chromium, boron, silicon, tungsten, columbium, and vanadium. Individually, or together, they give steel durability, toughness, hardness, rust and corrosion resistance, and other special qualities. Chromium, for example, is the secret of making steel stainless.

VARYING COMBINATIONS of these and other alloys are added to every ton of molten steel produced today. Without them we wouldn't have the hundreds of different kinds of steel that do so much for all of us in so many ways.

MORE THAN 50 ALLOYS—The people of Union Carbide pioneered in the development and production of alloying metals. They produce more than 50 different alloys for steel and other metals that go into products that serve you.

The Cat's Paw

by MARION SALTER

Her cats weren't the only things worrying Charlotte Morgan, ace copywriter for the Kingsley Cummings advertising firm. There was her mother, who ran away from her father, and her, when she was 12. Charlotte had stolen jewelry to help her mother, although she despised her. Eric Hay who was in love with her. Two other employees of "The King" hated her. And her cats kept trying to tell her something. Cummings discovers Charlotte stole the gems and makes a date to meet Charlotte and her mother, after offering to help Charlotte to the big time. Charlotte and her mother came on "The King" at his home. Charlotte's mother leaves — alone. Charlotte finally breaks personal relations with Cummings, but she threatens to expose her theft if she quits his employ.

CHAPTER ELEVEN

CHARLOTTE went uptown, to Dorothy's party. She sat on a black patent leather hassock by the fire, noting Dorothy's apartment. It was overdressed like Dorothy herself, who tense and intense, dithered about in a jade green hostess gown. Yet suddenly Charlotte saw a different Dorothy. The Dorothy who had taken such pains with the decorations and the intricate canapes and the shining of silver was a woman essentially domestic who should have been a homemaker. Her party, however, wasn't going well. There was uneasiness—the fidgeting, the peanut-passing and cigarette-tapping, the pants-hitching, hair-smoothing and lint-picking. Charlotte sat outside the circle, always outside, apart, herself a crippled shut-in.

Everybody was there. Mario, wearing a riotous new Christmas tie his quiet wife talking with Tim's quiet wife, and Tim already well on his way. Doodles and an incredibly young escort. Norma and her nice husband, Velora Van Camp, socially self-conscious. It was odd about Velora. The aures weren't bad; they were neat. The figure was neat. But somehow they were a face and figure from which sex had simply been omitted. Almost certainly Velora would never have a man.

Yes, Eric, I see you across the room; I'm just pretending not to notice how you wait for me to smile and speak to you. If I look at you, ways stop talking for a minute at twenty after." "That reminds me of the Murder Game," Dorothy put in. "Do you know how to play the Murder Game? A couple of people act out a little scene of murder, with lots of props and bits of business—like pouring a glass of water, having a telephone conversation, naming names, picking up possible murder weapons while talking. Then suddenly—Murder! One drops dead." A flush of excitement showed through Dorothy's thick make-up. "The game is for the rest of us to see how accurate we were as witnesses. Nobody remembers right. Ever."

"It's a good game," Tim said. "Too bad the King isn't here to drop dead."

"Who's the villain?" Mario asked. "How about me?" He stroked his mustache menacingly. "How about playing Who Am I instead of who's the villain?" Eric suggested. "Or one of those nice wholesome kid games we used to play. I'm sort of superstitious; I don't like to make a game of death."

We could always play Heavy. Heavy, What Hangs Over Your Head, Charlotte thought. That's a nice wholesome game, just ask me, I play it all the time.

They all played Who Am I. Eric saw to that with quiet compelling. Who Am I? Charlotte thought. "Weary of myself and sick of asking what I am and what I ought to be..." And there was the hoop-tightening of her chest, the familiar upurge of hostility toward the whole roomful of stupid people. What would it be like to feel warm toward your fellow man? But did anyone, really? Everybody in this room, for instance disliked almost everybody else here. We're all hypocrites, except Tim. In vino veritas. But the rest of us pretend. Emotional dishonesty is the best policy if we want to win friends and keep jobs. Hide hate and fear and guilt, keep it covered.

But the repressed feelings always flared up, eventually, didn't they? King was right about that. To wit, a glass smashed against the wall. An ulcer. Or a murder. Charlotte looked around the disarrayed room. The once shining glasses were smeared, their contents flat and warm. The canapes were picked over, and limp apochives curled up on dried toast. The gay little napkins were crumpled and strewn about, their Merry Christmas message crushed. What pathos, this party. What waste—

Compassion for a Needy World

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Leviticus 19:9-10; Deuteronomy 10:18-19; Ruth 2:1-18; Matthew 9:35-36; 25:34-40; Mark 1:32-34; 8:1-9.

"And when ye reap the harvest of your land, thou shalt not wholly reap the corners of thy field, neither shalt thou gather the gleanings of thy harvest; and thou shalt not glean thy vineyard, neither shalt thou gather every grape of thy vineyard; thou shalt leave them for the poor and stranger."

"And Jesus went about all the cities and villages, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel among the people, and healing every disease. And when He saw the multitudes, He was moved with compassion on them, because they fainted, and were scattered abroad, as sheep having no shepherd."

At Simon Peter and Andrew's house, "At even, when the sun did set, they brought unto Him all that were diseased, and them that were possessed with devils. And all the city was gathered together at the door. And He healed many that were sick of divers diseases, and cast out many devils."

"I have compassion on the multitude, because they have now been with Me three days, and have nothing to eat; and if I send them away fasting to their homes, they will faint by the way." And Jesus fed them bountifully with seven loaves and a few fishes.

MEMORY VERSE—I John 3:17, 18.

Compassion for a Needy World

CHRIST AND ANCIENT HEBREW LAWS WERE CONCERNED FOR THE POOR AND STRANGERS.

Scripture—Leviticus 19:9-10; Deuteronomy 10:18-19; Ruth 2:1-18; Matthew 9:35-36; 25:34-40; Mark 1:32-34; 8:1-9.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL IN OUR WORLD there are so many destitute and hungry people; so many strangers in lands foreign to them, that our lesson is particularly appropriate.

Hardly a day passes that we are not appealed to for help for needy persons in far-off places. Every Christian church is collecting parcels of food and clothing to send to these hapless persons, and many civic organizations are doing the same.

Still others are sending modern machines to undeveloped or backward countries with experts to show the workers in those lands how to use the machines to more fully develop their natural resources, and health brigades are fighting disease all over the world.

Teachers will find ample materials in this lesson for all the grades in the Sunday school. Many of the children have schoolmates who have come from other countries, some not able to speak our language, or speaking it haltingly. Their attitude toward these little strangers can make a tremendous difference to them.

In the ancient Hebrew laws laid down in Leviticus we find these instructions:

"And when ye reap the harvest of your land, thou shalt not wholly reap the corners of thy field, neither shalt thou gather the

gleanings, Boaz asked her name, and being told who she was, he told her to stay close to the others, to eat with them, and that he had told his young men not to touch her, and he also told them to leave extra gleanings for her.

Ruth said, "thou hast comforted me, and for that thou hast spoken friendly unto thine handmaid, though I be not like unto one of thine handmaids." Matthew tells us about Jesus going about to all the cities and villages, teaching in the synagogues and preaching the gospel, also healing the sick and diseased.

"But when He saw the multitudes, He was moved with compassion on them, because they fainted, and were scattered abroad, as sheep having no shepherd."

Also included in our lesson is the Olivet discourse, where Jesus gives a picture of the judgment of living nations on earth. The disapproval or commendation had to do with those who had or had not fed the hungry, visited the sick and those in prison, and clothed the naked.

At the home of Simon Peter and Andrew, after Jesus had cured Simon's wife's mother of a fever, multitudes who heard of it brought their sick and those possessed with evil spirits to the

"But whose hath this world's good, and seeth his brother have need, and shutteth up his compassion from him, how dwelleth the love of God in him? My little children, let us not love in word, neither in tongue; but in deed and in truth."—I John 3:17, 18.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market held fairly steady today with a tendency to advance very much in evidence.

There were enough losses scattered throughout the list, however, to prevent the market from making much progress.

Most changes either way were in the smaller fractions but some issues moved around a point.

Trading overall was rather quiet, and the pace was a little less than yesterday's 1,420,000 shares.

General Electric was a feature with a gain of more than a point after directors declared a dividend of $1 on common as compared with 75 cents previously paid quarterly. A month ago directors declared a special dividend of $1.

Aircafts were higher as were the distillers. Other major divisions were mixed. No single division was entirely depressed.

Higher stocks included General Motors, National Distillers, Boeing, Lockheed, Curtiss-Wright, American Telephone, Santa Fe, and Standard Oil (N.J.).

Lower were Southern Railway, Cities Service, Chrysler, Montgomery Ward, and United Air Lines.

Two Collisions In City Yesterday

Two traffic accidents were reported in Greenville yesterday by local police.

A three-car collision occurred at the intersection of Evans and Ninth streets doing an estimated $525 damage to the vehicles involved, and a two car collision occurred at the intersection of Dickinson Ave. and Pitt Street causing damage estimated by police at $250.

No injuries were reported in the collisions.

Police accident reports show vehicles driven by William Louis Vernon, 18, of Chicod, Charlie Virgil Dickens, 39, and Johnny Vance, 42-year-old Negro of Grimesland route one were involved in the three car accident.

Investigating officers charged Vance with failure to stop for a stop sign at the intersection. The accident occurred shortly after noon yesterday.

Vehicles driven by Henry Marvin Cherry, 19-year-old Negro of Bethel route one, and Elias Washington, 21-year-old Negro of Greenville route one collided at the intersection of Pitt Street and Dickinson Avenue.

The police report on the accident stated the truck driven by Washington collided with the rear of the car driven by Cherry. Washington was charged with traveling too close.

Jump To Death By Paratrooper

FT. BRAGG, N. C. (AP)—An 82nd Division paratrooper plunged to his death in a routine parachute jump here yesterday.

Officers said "parachute malfunction" resulted in the death of Sgt. Edward Satlowa, Co. C, 44th Tank Battalion, a former resident of South Hadley Falls, Mass. Survivors include the widow, Mrs. Lucienne V. Satlowa of nearby Fayetteville.

Sadie Hawkins Day Celebration At East Carolina College On Saturday

The East Carolina College campus will become Dogpatch, U.S.A., Saturday afternoon and evening of this week when the annual Sadie Hawkins Day Celebration at the college will be sponsored by the student science club.

A race in the afternoon and a costume dance in the Wright building Saturday night have been arranged as chief attractions. J. Ray Kirby of Warsaw, president of the science club, and various committees of the organization are planning events to provide entertainment and to present the Yokums and other Dogpatchers made famous in Al Capp's popular comic strip.

The race will begin at 3:30, when campus spinners will chase student bachelors from Jarvis Hall around the Wright Circle. Fred L. Shelby of Goldsboro and Erolyn Blount of Nashville head the committee planning the event.

The Wright auditorium will be decorated in Dogpatch style for the dance, and guests will wear appropriate costumes. Jimmy Alexander, junior from Columbia, and his Mountain Boys will provide music. Prizes for the best costumes will be awarded.

Incendiarism Is Charged Seven

ASHEVILLE, N. C. (AP)—Seven men have been arrested for alleged incendiarism in the rash of forest fires plaguing Western North Carolina.

Four Clay County men were arrested after investigation by state, county and federal officers. They were charged with setting fires that burned about 5,000 acres of Nantahala National Forest and privately owned woodlands. Police identified them as Cord Cottre, 52; Kenny Cothren, 18; James Patterson, 32, and Ray Stamey, 31 all of Hayesville.

Officers said the men confessed flipping lighted matches from a car as they drove along a 12-mile stretch of tinder-dry woodlands.

John Frank Lunsford, charged with setting fires in Madison County, was held under $2,000 bond after a hearing yesterday. Roy and Stokes Minor of Cherokee County, arrested earlier this week, face the similar charges of incendiarism.

Duke Takes Over Regency Rights

LONDON (AP)—The Duke of Edinburgh took over the regency rights of Princess Margaret today as amendments to the 1937 Regency Acts won final approval.

Queen Elizabeth II assented to the new legislation last night shortly after its final passage by the House of Lords. The House of Commons had unanimously approved the bill 10 days ago.

Now, if the Queen dies or becomes incapacitated before her 5-year-old son Prince Charles is 18, her husband would become regent ahead of her sister.

In the succession to the throne, however, Princess Margaret still stands third in line after Charles and his baby sister, Princess Anne.

The Parliament rushed passage of the bill so action would be completed before the Queen and the duke leave on a Commonwealth tour. They are scheduled to depart Monday, going first to Bermuda.

Prison Terms In Smuggling Case

WILMINGTON, N. C. (AP)—Two Wilmington men have been sentenced to nine month prison terms each for their part in an Irish Sweepstakes ticket smuggling ring.

A federal jury convicted Joseph E. Merrick and Hal M. Taylor yesterday on charges they smuggled more than a million dollars worth of the tickets into this country.

Testimony indicated that Merrick secured the boxed tickets from the freighter Irish Hazel and rented a tourist cabin to store the boxes. State witnesses said Merrick was found hiding in bushes near the cabin when officers seized the tickets. They quoted Merrick as saying the tickets had been delivered to the cabin in a taxi driven by Taylor. The defendants pleaded not guilty.

Myrtle Cates, a waitress, who also was named on the smuggling charge originally, was another prosecution witness. The grand jury declined to indict her Monday. She testified that she accompanied Merrick to the freighter. He later promised her $50 to keep quiet and threatened to kill her if she did not. Miss Cates said Merrick was quoted by officers as saying he had stored the tickets awaiting "$500 from a contact man from New York."

Honor Society Elects Twelve

Twelve students at East Carolina College have been elected members of the Eta Chapter of Kappa Delta Pi, national honor society in education. They were chosen as members because of excellent scholastic records, leadership in student activities, and proficiency as student teachers.

New members of the organization are Anne Bynum, Farmville; Mrs. Ruby Crane, Kinston; Miriam Dempsey, Fayetteville; Anne Federenke, Burgaw; Jane Godwin, Wade; Marie Houser, Lincolnton; Nancy Kesler, Fuquay Springs; James Limer, Warrenton; Janice Penny, Raleigh; Frances Radcliffe, Pantego; Jane Simmons, Bessemer City; and Anne V. Smith, Tarboro.

False Alarm For Fire Department

The Fire Department was called to Dickinson Avenue and Line St. this morning around 5 o'clock. The call was a false alarm, officials reported.

The department reported no other activities during the night.
