By LEE FALK and WILSON MCCOY

ANOTHER DAY AND LITTLE CONLEY HAS ANOTHER VISIT FROM HIS SECRET PLAYMATE, "MISTER MAN." I BRING THESE JEWELS TO YOU GREAT KING. THANK YOU, KIND SIR I LIKE THEM. WHAT ARE JEWELS?

CAN YOU COME AND SEE MOMMY AND DADDY? THEY MIGHT BE TOO SURPRISED IF THEY SAW ME. I'LL TRY TO COME BACK TOMORROW. NOW EAT ALL YOUR SUPPER, CONLEY.

WHAT DID YOU DO TODAY, CONLEY? OH, MISTER MAN AND I PLAYED. I WAS KING, AND HE BROUGHT ME SOME JEWELS. MISTER MAN... HIS IMAGINARY PLAYMATE AGAIN.

WE'LL BE GOING BACK TO THE CITY SOON, CONLEY-LOTS OF LITTLE BOYS AND GIRLS TO PLAY WITH THERE. NO-I DON'T WANT TO GO! I WANT TO STAY HERE WITH MISTER MAN. OH, DEAR-- HE REALLY BELIEVES THERE IS SUCH A PERSON.

MOST CHILDREN IMAGINE PLAYMATES, BUT I THINK THIS IS GETTING TO BE TOO MUCH. NOW HE DOESN'T WANT TO GO HOME. HMM- IS HIS PLAYMATE IMAGINARY?

OH, YES, DADDY. MISTER MAN SAID HE WOULD COME AGAIN TOMORROW TO PLAY GAMES WITH ME. HMM- GO TO SLEEP, DARLING.

THE NEXT MORNING-- I'LL WAIT HERE AND SEE IF THIS "MISTER MAN" IS REAL, OR NOT!

RUSTY RILEY
By FRANK GODWIN

BOSS, I'M WORRIED.. I HEAR MRS. J. FUNSTON CASTLE HAS BEEN PUTTIN' ALL KINDS O' PESSURE ON THE COUNTY PROSECUTOR ..SHE REALLY MEANS TO HANG THAT PEARL THEFT ON RUSTY!

I KNOW, TEX...HER VENOM IS REALLY DIRECTED AT ME..SHE'S BEEN TRYING FOR YEARS TO GET RID OF THE ORPHANAGE..IT ADJONS HER PROPERTY, YOU KNOW.. AND I'VE BLOCKED HER EFFORTS EVERY TIME...

AND THAT'S WHY SHE HATES RUSTY...BUT DON'T WORRY ABOUT PRINGLE..I'VE HIRED CLAY TYNDALL TO DEFEND RUSTY.. AND I THINK HE'S HERE NOW!

AN HOUR LATER
AS I SEE IT, THE CASE AGAINST RUSTY COULD BE MADE TO LOOK VERY DAMAGING..HOWEVER, IT'S PURELY CIRCUMSTANTIAL.. IF WE CAN ESTABLISH THAT RUSTY WAS NOT AT THE PLAYHOUSE AT THE TIME....

THE MAN WITH THE TRAILER THAT RUSTY HELPED OUT OF THE MUDHOLE COULD DO THAT, IF HE COULD BE FOUND.

..BUT OUR ONLY HOPE OF THAT RESTS WITH AN OLD CARNIVAL PITCHMAN KNOWN AS "DOC STOVEPIPE", WHO PROMISED TO FIND HIM.. BUT UP TO NOW WE'VE HAD NO WORD.

I SEE.. WELL, I CAN'T GET THE HEARING POSTPONED, SO WE'LL HAVE TO GO INTO COURT WITH WHAT WE HAVE.

EXCUSE ME, THERE'S THE PHONE..ANSWER THAT, WILL YOU, TEX?

SURE, BOSS.

IT'S MEL CLINTON, THE PRIVATE EYE.. HE'S CALLING ME, BUT I TOLD HIM YOU WERE HERE, MR. TYNDALL, SO HE ASKED ME TO PUT YOU ON -

YES - YES - INDEED ? - YES - EXCELLENT - I CONGRATULATE YOU, SIR.. AND THANK YOU FOR CALLING -

I BELIEVE NOW THAT WE HAVE SOMETHING TO GO INTO COURT WITH.. LET US PROCEED, GENTLEMEN..JUDGE CULVER IS HOLDING THIS HEARING IN HIS CHAMBERS, AND HE INSISTS ON PUNCTUALITY.

JUST LET ME GET A COAT AND TIE AND ROUND UP MY TWO JOCKEYS.

A LITTLE LATER IN JUDGE CULVER'S CHAMBERS.
...AND YOUR HONOR, WE WILL PROVE THAT THIS YOUNG CRIMINAL PRETENDED TO LEAVE THE PLAYHOUSE BUT IN REALITY HE WENT TO MISS CASTLE'S DRESSING ROOM AND STOLE HER PEARL NECKLACE.

SUPPOSE, MR. PROSECUTOR, YOU REFRAIN FROM CALLING THE DEFENDANT A CRIMINAL UNTIL YOU HAVE DONE YOUR PROVING -

EASY, RUSTY-OUR TURN WILL COME.

I WILL CALL AS MY FIRST WITNESS, DETECTIVE SERGEANT BAKER. TAKE THIS CHAIR, PLEASE -

ONE MOMENT, YOUNG MAN.. I HAVE SOMETHING TO SAY.. AND I INSIST UPON SAYING IT... NOW!

(MOTHER, PLEASE!)

TRUTH IN PREFERENCE TO FICTION

Complain POWs Being Held Back

PANMUNJOM (AP)—The Allies today accused the Communists of holding back some prisoners of war and told the Reds to turn over to Indian custody immediately "all those POWs you still retain."

Maj. Gen. J. K. Lacey told Communist members of the Military Armistice Commission that three Korean soldiers who sought refuge at an American sentry box Thursday were South Korean war captives who had been forced into the Red army.

The Communists asked for a recess to study Lacey's statement, then 20 minutes later asked for and were granted more time.

The chief Allied member of the Armistice Commission told news men the ROK soldiers provided evidence that the Communists "have forcibly retained prisoners after they had certified that all prisoners had been turned over to the NNRG (Neutral Nations Re-Paratriation Commission)."

Lacey also told the Communists to "cease delays" and get on with the job of interviewing Chinese and Korean war prisoners who have refused to go home.

The explanation program has been stalled by Red refusal to accept Indian rules for speeding up the interviews. Lacey accused the Communists of delaying the program deliberately because of "disastrous" results.

Only about 3 per cent of the approximately 2,500 prisoners interviewed so far have elected to return to Communist rule.

Meanwhile, Allied and Communist diplomats continued efforts to arrange a Korean peace conference—without apparent progress.

U.S. envoy Arthur H. Dean accused the Reds of delaying and

Vietminh Base Hit By Raiders

French Paratroopers Jump Deep Into Red-Held Mountainous Territory

HANOI, Indochina (AP)—Thousands of French and Vietnamese paratroopers have jumped deep into mountainous territory of the Communist-led Vietminh to grab a major base for new raids on their guerrilla foes.

The French High Command announced their forces, supported by U.S.-supplied fighter bombers, yesterday seized the big rebel war base of Den Bien Phu, 180 miles west of Hanoi.

Gen. Rene Cogny, French commander in north Indochina, said the capture of the base is a "highly important" Vietminh base in the center of a rice growing area and at the crossroads of supply routes to the north-east and to the south.

Cogny said the French dropped "many battalions" on the broad plain around Den Bien Phu and they quickly captured the town and its airfield. Fighter bombers flew more than 100 sorties against the area.

Whitehurst said he chased Wilson's automobile at a high rate of speed for approximately 15 minutes before overtaking the man. The officer said the chase began in Winterville when Wilson allegedly ran through a stop sign, and continued in Ayden and continued in the car was overtaken by the patrolman.

In addition to the speeding charge, Whitehurst charged Wilson with driving after his license had been revoked, and careless and reckless driving.

Earlier in the evening, Highway Patrolman James W. Boykin, accompanied by Deputy Sheriff Loyd Manning, had given chase to an automobile identified by license number as belonging to Wilson. The officers said they chased the car for approximately five miles at a high rate of speed before losing it on a dirt road.

Twilight 'Smaze' Curtain Continues To Harass Cities

NEW YORK (AP)—A four-day concentration of city fume and smoke haze continued today to curtain and harass coastal areas from New England to Virginia.

Health Department authorities in the New York Metropolitan area and New Jersey were keeping a close watch on death reports to see if the twilight-gray "smaze" would add to fatalities.

Hundreds of persons have complained of scratchy throats and irritated eyes and noses, with chronic asthmas sufferers being the worst hit.

Manhattan's famed skyscrapers often appeared blotted out in the gloom.

The unseasonably warm weather—yesterday's high was 69.9—has caused this unusual situation: A layer of warm air has formed a level, with the upper air acting as a lid to keep fumes and smoke from dispersing. The Weather Bureau terms this an "inversion" of the usual process.

The only relief in sight was a forecast of "some rain beginning tonight or Sunday." A cold wave moving east from Chicago could break up the condition, but that might take several more days.

Airliners experienced only minor delays during the daylight

GOP Chairman Says White Case Helped Party Claims Political Advances

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall said today the Harry Dexter White case has given a "tremendous lift" to the GOP in advance of next year's congressional election campaigns.

But Democratic senators said they doubt any advantage the Republicans may have gained will be lasting. They predicted the administration's farm, tax and spending programs will be regarded by the voters as far more important.

Hall said in an interview he believes the charges of laxity toward Communists in government, made by Atty. Gen. Brownell against former President Truman, "have helped us."

"The impression I have gained by talking to people all over the country is that this matter has given a tremendous lift to our organization," he said.

Although Hall didn't say so, he apparently holds the view that Truman promoted White despite FBI reports of White's alleged espionage activities—put the Republicans back on the offensive after they had lost special congressional elections in Wisconsin and New Jersey.

Brownell's charges, made Nov. 6, precipitated an immediate storm of Republican and Democratic outcries, and today there were signs of international repercussions.

A State Department spokesman said Canadian Ambassador A.D.P. Heeney called on Undersecretary W. Bedell Smith yesterday and "expressed surprise" at the public disclosure the FBI had information from Canadian government sources in 1946 about White.

Brownell made the disclosure Tuesday when, in testifying before the Senate Internal Security subcommittee, he stripped the secrecy label from an FBI letter to the White House in February 1946.

White, now dead, was promoted from assistant secretary of the Treasury to U.S. representative on the International Monetary Fund.

The letter by FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover contained several references to information concerning White "which originated with

Arabs Work For Stronger Censure

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The Arab bloc worked over plans today to get "more teeth into" a proposed Big Three resolution censuring Israel for the recent killing of 53 Jordan border villagers.

Backed by Lebanon and Pakistan in the U.N. Security Council, Jordan expressed complete dissatisfaction with the Western resolution. They assailed it as too weak and because it did not demand Israeli compensation for the loss of Arab life and property in the Oct. 14-15 raid on Kibya village.

The United States, Britain and France have asked the 11-nation council to vote the "strongest censure" of Israel for the attack, which the Jewish state maintains was in retaliation for a long series of Arab provocations.

The Big Three resolution asks for Israeli guarantees against future assaults and calls for reinforcement of the U.N. truce observer team watching over the tense Arab-Jewish borders.

Israel also has voiced bitter opposition to the eastern resolution as "one-sided and discriminatory" and a "big step backward from peace."

Although a member of the U.N., Israel is not a member of the council and has no vote there. Jordan, a non-member of the 60-nation world organization was invited with Israel to present its views to the council.

An Israeli spokesman said his chief delegate, Abba Eban, may suggest the Western resolution be dropped—or at least amended—in favor of broader proposals on the whole Palestine armistice issue.

A member of the council must sponsor such a suggestion, and there seemed little hope that Israel would find such a sponsor at this time.

U.S. Delegate James J. Wadsworth told the council yesterday it should accept the Western resolution as soon as possible to indicate its censure of the Kibya incident and point up the "prejudicial effect which it can have on progress toward peace."

Sir Gladwyn Jebb of Britain and Henri Hoppenot of France seconded Wadsworth and asked the interested parties to wind up their arguments quickly so a vote could be reached. Hoppenot said the council already had all the arguments and evidence clearly before it and further long debate would only fog the issue.

The council was scheduled to take up the Kibya incident again, with the hope of reaching a quick vote, next Tuesday.

Law Study Wins Prison Release

MEDIA, Pa. (AP)—A Chester welder is free today because he studied law in a State Prison library.

Edward G. Hinkle, 32, was sentenced from 18 months to three years for sale and possession of marijuana cigarettes.

He read law books and learned that for his crime the State Legislature had prescribed "simple imprisonment"—meaning he should have been sent to a county jail rather than a state institution.

Hinkle got a hearing yesterday in Delaware County Court on a habeas corpus petition. He appeared before Judge William R. Toal who had sentenced him.

"I have served 15½ months. But because I was sentenced erroneously I am entitled, under decisions of the Superior and Supreme Courts of Pennsylvania to two months credit for every month served.

"Therefore, I should get credit for 31 months on a 36-month sentence. I am entitled by law to three months reduction of sentence for a year served for good behavior.

"My conduct at the eastern penitentiary has been exemplary."

That added up to 40 months, four more than the original sentence. He was not under control of the parole board.

Judge Toal freed Hinkle immediately.

Driver Charged Doing 90 MPH

Charges of speeding 90 miles per hour were lodged against Joe Wilson of Park Avenue, Ayden, last night, following his arrest by Highway Patrolman Bill Whitehurst of Ayden.

Whitehurst said he chased Wilson's automobile at a high rate of speed for approximately 15 minutes before overtaking the man. The officer said the chase began in Winterville when Wilson allegedly ran through a stop sign, and continued in Ayden and continued in the car was overtaken by the patrolman.

In addition to the speeding charge, Whitehurst charged Wilson with driving after his license had been revoked, and careless and reckless driving.

Earlier in the evening, Highway Patrolman James W. Boykin, accompanied by Deputy Sheriff Loyd Manning, had given chase to an automobile identified by license number as belonging to Wilson. The officers said they chased the car for approximately five miles at a high rate of speed before losing it on a dirt road.

Two Charged In Bootleg Roundup

Pitt ABC officers charged two Greenville Negroes with illegal possession of non-tax-paid liquor in raids last night.

Arrested were Leroy Daniels, 36, of 106 Cotanche Street, and Thomas Hazelton, 43, of 1411 Railroad St.

ABC Officer J. M. Ward said one-half gallon of bootleg whiskey was found in the kitchen of Daniels' residence, and four and one-half gallons of bootleg whiskey were found at Hazelton's residence. Ward said part of the whiskey found at Hazelton's residence was hidden in the lower part of an ice box, and the rest was found in a wardrobe.

Daniels was released under a bond of $300, and Hazelton was released under a $200 bond.

Records of the local ABC officers indicated both men arrested last night have previously been convicted for liquor violations. Daniels was last convicted of liquor law violation in September when he was given a six-month suspended sentence and fined $100 and costs. Hazelton was fined $50 for violation of liquor laws in 1949.

Taking part in the raids last night were ABC officers Ward and H. B. Lilly and Deputy Sheriff Elmer Haddock.

Army Will Declare Missing Men 'Presumed Dead' Adding 4,000 To Korea Toll

By C. YATES McDaniel

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. battle death toll in Korea will pass 30,000 when the Pentagon begins next January to close out its books on American casualties in the conflict.

After the truce and completion of prisoner exchanges, the death figures stood at 25,904 and the missing at 7,965. The Army yesterday announced confirmation of 400 more deaths among those previously listed as missing.

The Army announced yesterday that, unless new information appears by January, it will declare 4,000 men listed as missing for more than a year as "presumed dead." The remaining Army missing will be declared dead one full year after their disappearance.

The Air Force, with 671 listed as missing, said it will declare 170 presumed dead next month.

The Marine Corps has 493 missing and the Navy 76, but neither said they had any plans to declare any of them dead in the near future.

The U.S. casualty toll in Korea—142,277 killed wounded or missing—remains the same. It is a preliminary figure, however, and is being checked and re-checked as new information gets to the Pentagon.

The change in status from missing to killed was foreshadowed in early October when the Defense Department said most of the missing men eventually be presumed dead.

The declaration of presumptive death is needed to comply with the Missing Persons Act. This law expires next Jan. 31, but the Defense Department is expected to ask for an extension so survivors of the missing and probably dead men may receive the benefits to which they are entitled.

The Army has set forth information needed for the families and beneficiaries of men who have been or will be declared dead. The regulations, which also apply to such survivors of all services, include:

1. When a survivor is notified that a serviceman has died as the result of combat, the beneficiary will be furnished an application form for the payment of a gratuity. This gratuity is equal to six months pay at the rate prevailing when the man was declared dead.
2. Survivors are entitled to whatever portion of a missing man's pay that accumulates while he is missing and which has not been previously allocated, such as for allotments or savings bonds.
3. Immediately after a serviceman is declared dead, the Veterans Administration will be notified.
4. The Veterans Administration will then help survivors collect whatever government life insurance is due them.

Wilson Likens Task To Producing Of New Car

DETROIT (AP)—Secretary Wilson compares the Defense Department under his cost-cutting administration with a new model automobile "designed to sell for less, even though it is superior."

The former General Motors president told the Automotive Parts Manufacturers Assn. in a speech here last night:

"Of course the new model is snappy and streamlined. It has more horsepower and better acceleration. The engine has a high compression head and new spark plugs. It has better lubrication and less internal friction.

"The model is designed to meet all requirements and as usually claimed by the sales and advertising departments, it has better value per pound."

At a news conference earlier, Wilson criticized the "old model" Defense Department as one in which "No one figured out what you would do with all of the military equipment purchased if there was no war."

He reiterated a hope that "the expenditure rate for our total defense effort is at or near the peak."

Wilson said the Eisenhower administration was making progress on its program of expanded national security with reduced expenditures and fewer personnel. He has been secretary nine months.

Wilson insisted the nation's security would be maintained despite defense spending cuts contemplated and already in effect, saying:

"The fiscal 1954 budget for the Defense Department approved by Congress amounted to 34½ billion dollars, more than 6½ billion dollars less than the budget recommended last January by the previous administration.

approved and 14 were cancelled due to death during the last month. A superintendent stated that Pitt County has 60 less old age cases than six months ago.

There is a new low of only 135 cases of aid for dependent children, the superintendent reported, with 14 new cases added and three terminated during October and 18 added and one taken off in November giving a total of 163 cases now. Pitt ranks 86th in the state in payments to dependent children.

In the totally and permanently disabled group the last 30 day report shows that there are four new cases, one reinstated, seven revised and one terminated.

Futrelle said that 262 cases of public assistance of all categories have been reviewed during the month of October. Broken down there are 99 old age assistance, 67 aid for dependent children, 21 for aid for totally and permanently disabled.

There are a total of 130 current blind cases, Futrelle reported. Three have been closed within the last 30 days and none have been added.

The Board approved the superintendent's report and adjourned at 10 o'clock. The three Board members are Flannagan, Perkins, and Vernon Cox of Winterville.

Local Appliance Dealers Hope To Organize Monday

With the hope of organizing an association the Greenville appliance dealers are meeting at the Old Towne Inn Monday night at 7:30.

The meeting was called by the Greenville Merchants Association at the request of Robert Elks and other appliance dealers who have discussed the possibility of getting an organization with the purpose of operating on credits and other matters for advancement of their businesses.

All appliance dealers are invited to attend the supper meeting. J. S. Wells, a member of the Greenville Service Station Association, will tell the dealers of the accomplishment of his organization.

Appraisers Here For Revaluation

Two appraisers have arrived and another is expected for Pitt County tax revaluation work. Leon A. Marshall of the E.T. Wilkins & Associates announced yesterday afternoon.

A personal property appraiser, W.J. Marchand, has arrived here to begin preparations for making appraisals on furniture, fixtures, machinery, and equipment probably next week. Another personal property appraiser is slated to come to Greenville in the near future, Marshall reported.

Harold Reiner, a general appraiser, has arrived to work houses until materials arrive so he can begin commercials.

Marshall reported that measurers are still working in Farmville. The measurers should finish Farmville Tuesday or Wednesday, Marshall said, and then move to Ayden. Ayden and Bethel are the only two remaining towns in the county that have not been measured.

Bootleg Liquor Found; Deputies Make Arrest

A 33-year-old man of Greenville route five was taken into custody by members of the Pitt County Sheriff's department today and charged with illegal possession of non-tax paid liquor.

Deputies J. L. Mills and Elmer Haddock, who made the arrest, identified the man as Walter Davenport who was taken into custody at his home on the Creek road when the officers said they found a gallon jug partially filled with moonshine whiskey.

Sheriff R. W. Tyson said Davenport probably will be tried in county court on December 1.

Production Credit Ass'n Hears Optimistic Report Views Leaf Outlook 'Good'

The outlook for tobacco growers in 1954 is good, L.T. Weeks, general manager, and secretary of the Flue-Cured Tobacco Stabilization Corporation declared yesterday in a speech before the 20th annual stockholder's meeting of the Greenville Production Credit Association.

Weeks said that the national per capita income is expected to be 12 per cent greater than the 1947-1949 average and it is expected that 800,000,000 cigarettes will be consumed by Americans alone this year. In addition, 438,000,000 will be consumed by the rest of the world.

Weeks noted that 60 to 70 per cent of the families that earn below $3000 income per year are cigarette users. 80 to 85 per cent of the families that earn more than $3000 a year smoke cigarettes.

He admitted that it was true that cigarette consumption had fallen off 1.2 per cent during the first seven months of this year as compared to last year and also that pipe and chewing tobacco consumption had decreased in recent years.

But the foreign market is up 7 per cent over last year, he said.

Also 17 per cent of all cigarettes smoked by Americans during the first seven months of this year were the king sized type. For the first seven months of last year only 12 per cent of the total cigarette consumption was of the king sized variety, Weeks noted.

King sized cigarettes take approximately 15 per cent more tobacco than the regular and this, coupled with the increase in foreign consumption should keep the total consumption of flue cured tobacco at about the same level as last year, Weeks emphasized.

"All I don't think the situation appears too dark," he said.

However, in closing, he emphasized that it was important that we keep a strong foreign market. He brought out that 60 to 65 per cent of the flue cured tobacco used by foreign markets comes from America, but there has been a steady increase in flue cured tobacco produced by other countries.

In the business session of the annual meeting, P.L. Little Jr., secretary-treasurer of the Greenville Production Credit Association pointed out in his annual report that the local Production Credit Association loaned a total of $2,650,000 to 988 farmers in Pitt and Greene Counties.

"This is the largest amount of loans to more farmers than for any previous year in the past. This money was paid back earlier and with less problems than in the past," he said. "In fact, over 99 per cent of all this money has been repaid and the balance will be paid soon."

Little said that net earnings were less this year than last year even though the gross income was larger than 1952. This was due to the fact that last year all capital stock owned by the Government was repaid.

This, he said, placed the association on the same tax paying basis as any other private corporation. The association paid a total of $6,448.51 in Federal and State taxes last year. In addition a reserve fund against any future losses was set up this year. This amounted to $9,263.15, he said.

Little said that 1297 stockholders own $23,330 worth of both Class A and Class B stock. He said this had earned $234,698.18 making a total of $486,026.18.

Little emphasized that the real highlight of his report was the 20 years of service of the Greenville Production Credit Association.

"In the short period of only 20 years," he said "13,153 loans have been made for $19,395,995.00 with losses of less than $500."

"We sincerely hope we can continue to bring good reports to you in the future. We will continue to look to you for guidance and help in continuing the progress of your association," Little concluded.

A detailed report of the Board of Directors' meetings was also presented to the Stockholder's meeting. In addition two new directors were elected to the Board. The two new directors are Jesse L. Trapp of Ayden and E.W. Fleming of Grifton. The three old directors are E.F. Hardison of Snow Hill, president; Alton Gardner, Ayden, vice-president; and Arch Flanagan, Farmville.

Hardison presided over the meeting.

New Chairman Named By County Welfare Board Thursday Night

There was a change of chairmanship of the Pitt County Welfare Board at the monthly meeting Thursday night, K. T. Futrelle, superintendent reported this morning.

Arch J. Flannagan of Farmville asked to be relieved as chairman due to his health and the Board elected J. Vance Perkins, former County Commissioner, as the new chairman.

In his report the Board Superintendent Futrelle said that there are 884 old age assistance cases as of October. This is slightly lower than last year, he said, when there were about 1,000. He reported that 11 new old age assistance cases were approved and 14 were cancelled due to death during the last month. A superintendent stated that Pitt County has 60 less old age cases than six months ago.

There is a new low of only 135 cases of aid for dependent children, the superintendent reported, with 14 new cases added and three terminated during October and 18 added and one taken off in November giving a total of 163 cases now. Pitt ranks 86th in the state in payments to dependent children.

In the totally and permanently disabled group the last 30 day report shows that there are four new cases, one reinstated, seven revised and one terminated.

Futrelle said that 262 cases of public assistance of all categories have been reviewed during the month of October. Broken down there are 99 old age assistance, 67 aid for dependent children, 21 for aid for totally and permanently disabled.

There are a total of 130 current blind cases, Futrelle reported. Three have been closed within the last 30 days and none have been added.

The Board approved the superintendent's report and adjourned at 10 o'clock. The three Board members are Flannagan, Perkins, and Vernon Cox of Winterville.

Child Struck By Truck Found To Be Uninjured

A six-year-old child was struck by a truck on the city streets yesterday, but sustained no personal injury, a police department report said.

The child, identified as Jasper L. Mills, ran into the path of a truck driven by Joseph Columbus Clark. The report said the child was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital, but received no personal injury.

The accident was investigated by Lt. R. W. Harris and Policeman W. R. Elks. No charges were made by police in connection with the accident.

Truck And Auto In Wreck Friday

Collision of a pickup truck and a car at Ham's Crossroads yesterday about 11 o'clock resulted in damage to both vehicles. None of the occupants was injured.

State Highway Patrolman James Boykin, who investigated the wreck, said a car driven by Willie Junior Kennedy, 28, Negro, of Greenville, came out from a dirt road and collided with the side of a pickup truck driven by Jordan Clark, 24, of Route 3, Greenville.

The officer estimated damage to the truck at $250; the car, about $50. He said he arrested Kennedy on the charges of failure to yield right of way and driving without an operator's license.

Maintaining Status Quo With Reds Termed Best Policy Now

World War III can be avoided if we can maintain the status quo until we can obtain the balance of power over Russia, Captain Michael Fielding, internationally known military expert told the Pitt County Executives Club last night.

The former captain in the British army said that history bears out the fact that if we can secure the balance of power in the struggle with Russia then we can sit down at the conference table and effect a compromise with the Communist world.

"The time for compromise is not now," he stated. Eventually compromise is the best solution, Fielding continued, but Russia's position would make it most uncertain and dangerous now.

The military expert pointed out the six danger areas of the world. These areas are Eastern Europe, the Mediterranean, the Middle East, India, Pakistan, Southeast Asia, and the Western Pacific. Our foreign policy at the present time is aimed at attaining the balance of power in these areas, he said.

Once the balance of power is re-established, he continued, we will have found the answer to the military aspect of the present struggle.

POGO

The Cat's Paw

Her cats weren't the only thing worrying Charlotte Molgan, a copywriter for the Kingsley Cummings advertising firm. There was her mother, who ran away from her father, and her, when she was 12. Charlotte had stolen jewelry to help her mother, although she despised her. Eric Hay was in love with her. Two other employees of "The King" hated her. And her cats kept trying to tell her something. Cummings discovers Charlotte stole the gems and makes a date to meet Charlotte and her mother, after offering to help Charlotte to the big time. Charlotte and her mother call on "The King" at his home. Charlotte's mother leaves alone. Charlotte finally breaks personal relations with Cummings, but he threatens to expose her theft if she quits his employ. At a co-workers' Christmas party, it is revealed "The King" has been getting threatening letters; and Charlotte runs when Eric wants to dance with her.

CHAPTER TWELVE CHARLOTTE slipped past her hostess, went down in the elevator, out to the wet street. She'd go home to the cats. What was the cliché—the more I see of people the better I like the animals! And cats weren't hypocrites. Suddenly she wondered whether she would become one of those old lady recluses who come out only at night to feed stray cats.

She began to smell the gas when she was only part way up the stairs, and she raced the rest of the way, breathless her heart pounding. But it wasn't the stairs, it was the fear. She couldn't find her key, and when she did, her shaking hand could hardly manage the lock. And then she was in her apartment, consciously surprised at her own efficiency as she held her scarf over her nostrils and threw open the windows and turned off the burners of the stove. One, two, three, four, all of them open. The sickening sweet odor overwhelmed her. And the fear. The room blurred before her.

She got back to the open window, and then she saw them, under the tree they loved so much. She made herself touch the small stiff bodies, gather them up, and she sat rocking on her knees, back and forth. The tears rained down her face and inside the core of hate hardened.

There was a minute when she thought of closing the windows again and just sitting there. Giving up. Later she thought it was the hate that kept her going.

She dragged one foot after the other, down the stairs, wondering vaguely that no one else had smelled the gas, deciding it was because everyone had gone away for Christmas. She took the bus at the corner and sat far in the back leaning her forehead against the cold pane. The sleek pavements reflected the dancing neon signs, red and green and gold for Christmas. A stooped man stood outside a restaurant, looking in. An old woman rifled a garbage can.

At the ASPCA she found a nice young man. "I'd like you to come for my cats," she said. "They're dead. Asphyxiated, gas. I wonder why I didn't telephone you. I don't know why I came all the way . . . " "Are you all right, miss? You better sit down."

"I'm fine, Charlotte thought; just wonderful. "I guess I got a little gas, too," she said. "Could somebody come now." She could only think that it was important someone should see it, smell it. She must have a witness, she had this feeling she must have a witness.

Now it would be helpful, she realized, if she'd made friends. If she could just go casually up to Van Camp and say, "Hi, Velora, let's have lunch together." And then ask her, or if she could say, "Listen, Velora I'm in trouble, and I think you could help."

But to tell your troubles, you must trust someone. No, she had to finish alone, somehow. Be devoted and play punches. Alone, alone, Eric, don't you understand? Quit watching me; leave me alone. I'm a shady lady. Surprise, surprise, quiet Charlotte. A-in-conduct-Morgan is actually Scarlet Charlotte. You would leave me alone soon enough if you knew. She didn't feel like a shady lady. Only solitary, and sick from the hate coursing like toxin through her body. . . . One thing at a time. First try to solve the mystery of the letters.

King went out, wearing his velvet-collared Chesterfield, Homburg in hand. Then Velora walked out in her mincing manner, as though afraid she might swing a hip. She wore no coat, but then Velora usually ate upstairs in the employees' cafeteria. Finally all the others had gone to lunch. If only someone didn't forget something and come back. If only no buyer, no office boy, nobody came by—just for a minute. It would only take a minute.

Charlotte picked up a folder of copy and started toward Velora's desk. She leaned over it casually, pretending to pencil in a copy correction. With her free hand meanwhile, she opened Velora's middle drawer, just far enough to reach for her fingers, slide them underneath the paper lining, searching, exploring. . . . There it was, that must be it. She withdrew the sheet of paper, slipped it in her folder. She closed the drawer and hurried back to her own desk.

When it was a matter of murder, there should always be a witness, if possible. They took her back, two nice young men from the ASPCA. Too late to prevent cruelty to animals. They patted her shoulder and said she mustn't blame herself, they looked at her old-fashioned gas stove and said they'd had cases before of cats jumping up and pushing the handles with a playful paw.

But not four handles, Charlotte didn't tell them it had been four handles. Charlotte didn't tell them it was murder. King had known what she'd mind most literally the only thing she would mind, Gray April and golden May; her friends.

In ancient Egypt, killing a cat was punishable by death. Charlotte sat alone in the awful, empty apartment. There was an after-uterine feel about it. The tree. She couldn't bear to look at the tree. She struggled down the stairs with it and left it on the sidewalk. Take it away, New York Sanitation Department. She could hardly climb back up the flights.

Now the other tenants began to come home. Through the papery partitions came the slithered shuffle of steps in the hall, the murmur of voices, the protest of bedspreads beneath the weight of tired bodies. So near and yet so far, these people with whom she shared the same roof and nothing more. They were strangers. "We are all strangers upon earth."

Charlotte tossed and twisted in her bed, trying to think, insomnia in possession of her body. However she lay she could hear her pumping pounding heart, and her wide-open eyes saw shapes in the night. Her brain was a switchboard abuzz with busy signals. The wind whined with human woe, and out on the dark river the foghorns mourned. Suddenly Charlotte jerked upright. The poison-pen letters "the threats of exposure." She'd almost forgotten about them.

By morning she had a plan. Not a guaranteed-satisfaction-or-you-r money-back plan, but something to start. In this game that two could play, the thing was to act as though nothing had happened; to wear her everyday face and manner. King would be waiting for her reaction, but she could wait, too. She had to wait.

Around Charlotte hummed the obligato of the office; the tapping of typewriters and shrilling of phones; people rushing up and down the aisles self-importantly. The bustle of business, I'm so tired, she thought once. It seemed to her she couldn't remember when she'd really slept or eaten. Once she stopped and read her copy in amazement; she'd hardly been aware of writing it, yet it made sense. Abstractly she picked a few cat hairs off her black dress; her throat tightened, but her small chin set.

PLENTY. "Be Thankful for Plenty" was the title of a sermon we heard many years ago. And we'll never forget how the preacher defined "plenty." "If you have everything that money can buy, all the necessities and all the luxuries of life—and you don't have a Bible you can read and understand—then you've nothing to be thankful for! You're in want!" "But if God has given you just enough of this world's goods for you to live from day to day—and you've a Bible you turn to every day—then be thankful! You have plenty!" We can cherish that homely bit of inspiration. It sums up the kind of Thanksgiving our forefathers believed in . . . the kind of Thanksgiving that millions of us will celebrate this week in Church!

Achievement Day Spotlight On 4-H Club Progress

Pitt Farm Youth Had 'Big Day'

By ALVIN TAYLOR
Reflector Staff Writer

Pitt County farm youth had their big day last Monday when awards were presented to hundreds of 4-H Club members honoring them for their accomplishments during the year.

The awards were presented during the annual "Achievement Day" program in which the 4-H County Council officers for the coming year were also installed.

"4-H members throughout Pitt County are proud of this past year's activities. They take great pride in their many achievements and feel that 4-H Club work is an excellent opportunity for girls and boys to develop skills, leadership, responsibility and initiative," said Miss Josephine Cusick, assistant home demonstration agent for Pitt County.

A total of 1,100 boys and girls are members of the 11 County 4-H Clubs, and they have carried on approximately 2000 home and farm projects during the year with a 75 per cent completion record on these projects.

The largest number of projects entered by girls was clothing and food preparation projects and one Pitt County girl, Alice Waters, of the Winterville-Greenville Club, was a district winner in the 4-H junior food conservation project.

Other district winners included Larry Dilda of Fountain who won a district award for his corn project and Earl Hardee of Grimesland who won on his tobacco project.

4-H Club members have participated in many special activities both in and out of the County Achievement Day the dress revue and health coronation are annual events in which Club members have participated. In addition, members have participated in the County Fair, the 4-H Camp and State 4-H Club Week.

Of interest this year was the fact that Pitt County was selected to be in charge of the State Dress Revue during 4-H Club Week in Raleigh last July.

Thirty-six 4-H Club members and 12 adult leaders from the County assisted in that program. Roselyn Waters of the Winterville, Greenville Club placed third in the Dress Revue.

The County tobacco grading team also did well at the State Fair. The team, made up of Earl Hardee, Grimesland; Jay Barrington, Grimesland; Don Manning, Greenville; and Charles Newsome, Belvoir; placed third in the tobacco grading contest held at the State Fair.

The Mother-Daughter Relationship program, held for the first time this year, was successful also. Mrs. Corinne Grimsley, extension family relations specialist, spoke during this program and led a panel discussion composed of Bobbie Jean Sutton, Neel Dupree, Mrs. J.A. Moore and Mrs. Wiley Waters.

County 4-H'ers have also participated in the FCK swine fund day in Wayne County. Ten counties were represented in the event and Pitt County took two first prizes and one third prize.

"Adult leaders have been of invaluable assistance in the 4-H program this year and 4-H'ers are grateful to them for their help," Miss Cusick said. "They have provided transportation, helped with projects, records and program plans, attended many local and County-wide meetings, and have held 4-H Club meetings in their homes."

Two of the outstanding adult leaders during the past year have been Mrs. Brantley Speight and Mrs. Wiley Waters.

"1953 has been a very successful year but as 4-H'ers strive to live up to their 4-H Club motto 'Make the Best Better' they anticipate bigger and better things in the coming year," Miss Cusick stated. Their major goal for 1954 is the

Many Accorded Honors Monday For 4-H Work

Jimmie Hendrix, of the Greenville-Winterville 4-H Club stole the show at the annual Achievement Day program held in Greenville last Monday night.

Young Hendrix, a junior at Greenville High School, received the "Most Outstanding Boy" award presented by the Greenville Junior Chamber of Commerce and, in addition, he received seven County Championship certificates. Hendrix was also recognized as a State winner for his 4-H home grounds beautification project.

Winner of the Junior Chamber of Commerce "Most Outstanding Girl" award was Rose Waters of the Greenville-Winterville Club. Rose was also recognized for outstanding leadership during the year and she received two County champion certificates.

Most outstanding Club awards went this year to the Winterville-Greenville senior club and the Falkland junior club. The club award was made on the basis of projects completed, leadership and participation in local and County-wide activities.

County champion certificates were awarded to the following Club members last Monday.

Public speaking, Dock Moore; Meat animal, Charles Newsome, citizenship, Charles Newsome, leadership, Ted Allen, tractor maintenance, Johnny Dilda, swine, Johnny Dilda, poultry, Lindy Edwards, tobacco, Earl Hardee, garden, Jarvis Mills, field crops, Edward Earl Lee, cotton, Ronald Whitehurst, poultry, Tommy Braxton, garden, Jimmy Hendrix, entomology, Jimmie Hendrix.

Alice Waters of the Greenville-Winterville club holds a jar of canned goods which she prepared for her 4-H project. Alice won both county and district recognition for her project.

Above are Ted Allen, president of the 4-H County Council, and Phyllis Corbett, vice-president of the Council. Both have been outstanding leaders in 4-H Club work in the county. They are both members of the Farmville club.

Charles Bright, Falkland, electric clock; Monroe Waters, Winterville, electric clock.

Club members receiving certificates signifying the completion of four years service included: J.S. Flake, David Moore, Charles Newsome, Ronald Whitehurst, Autry Guseon, and Tommy Phillips. Six-year certificates went to Bob. Achievement Day.

Pictured above are the officers of the Falkland Junior 4-H Club which won the Most Outstanding Junior Club award at the 4-H Achievement Day program last Monday night. From left to right seated are: David Winham, reporter; Donald Wooten, vice-president; Janice Manning, secretary-treasurer; Sheila Dawn Wooten, president; Faye Corbett, song leader. Standing are Joyce Phillips, song leader and Grace Edwards, leader. (Reflector Photos by Alvin Taylor).

Ben Rouse, president of the Greenville Junior Chamber of Commerce, is shown above as he presented plaques to Jimmie Hendrix and Rose Waters, both of the Greenville-Winterville 4-H Club, naming them "Most Outstanding Boy and Girl" among County 4-H Club members. The award is made annually to the boy and girl who are chosen on the basis of ability and leadership by the Junior Chamber of Commerce. Hendrix is treasurer of the 4-H County Council and Rose is secretary.

Precinct Rearrangement Is Necessary

Quite a ticklish situation is facing the Pitt County Board of Elections as it prepares to rearrange the voting precincts of the county because of the change in township lines.

If one views the voting precinct situation objectively in light of the township changes, it is readily seen that voting precincts must be rearranged so that no one precinct would have any of its territory in more than one township.

To leave the voting precincts as they now stand would probably lead to more confusion than Pitt has experienced in many a day when election time rolls around next Spring.

It is only natural that some people in Pitt County will be reluctant to see the voting precincts changed—particularly if the move means an alteration in their home precinct—but there appears to be no alternative to a rearrangement.

The Board of Elections, when it begins its task, may run into opposition and criticism here and there; but we believe if the citizens of the county take a good look at the situation, they will see that some rearranging has to be done.

Doubtless after new voting precinct lines are established, it will be necessary for the county to have a complete new registration of voters. That too, is something by which the county could profit.

The number of voters in each precinct, the area covered by each precinct and how to rearrange to serve the best interests of the people of the county are matters which must be carefully considered by the Board of Elections. The cooperation of the people of the county will prove a great aid to the Board of Elections as it undertakes this task which is of importance to all Pitt County.

Things Can Get Mighty Confusing

There are many things in the news we don't understand, and here is one that really baffles us.

Newspaper reports recently have said the nicotine content of tobacco being sold on the Old Belt of the state is causing tobacco companies to shy away from the leaf.

With all the advertisements pushing individual cigarette brands—claims of less nicotine, milder smokes, less irritating qualities—one could well be led to the conclusion that a good portion of this undesirable quality known as nicotine is being taken out of tobacco by the time it becomes a fag.

Secret processes, secret formulae, and the like have been a part of cigarette sales boosting campaigns. Maybe the cigarette companies haven't claimed they take any nicotine out of tobacco, but that impression has somehow been gotten by many smokers.

Now reports say Old Belt tobacco this year has too much nicotine.

Gets mighty confusing trying to figure all these things out. But folks hereabouts will keep on smoking cigarettes by the thousands, probably hoping they'll get those with Pitt County tobacco that they are sure didn't have too much nicotine this year to bother the price.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DAUGLASS
THE FORGIVENESS OF SINS

The doctrine of forgiveness is the outstanding doctrine of the Word of God. The whole Jewish system of sacrifices was a means of cleansing the worshiper and righting his relationship with the Most High. Christianity promises forgiveness through Jesus Christ. The Bible is a book of promises—the Old Testament, a promise that the Messiah would come; the New Testament, a promise to the world that this Messiah, having arrived, would confer forgiveness of sins upon all who seek it.

Forgiveness of sins confers new life upon the person who trusts this overwhelming promise of God. Nobody deserves God's forgiveness; instead we deserve his condemnation. When once we realize that God has forgiven us our sins, then there comes an immeasurable joy in our hearts. We realize that the hand of God Himself has placed a period on our past. Our renewed spirits cry out, "Everything is settled between God and myself. The past is no more. The future is ablaze with the glory of God's promises."

With the experience of forgiveness comes the beginning of new life in our souls. Forgiveness is not something we earn; it is something God gives. As soon as we stop seeking for forgiveness and accept the gift which God is offering us, then, and only then, do we know peace and true joy.

About That Truman Subpoena

By RAY TUCKER

Every Saturday this veteran Washington columnist devotes his column to answering readers' questions of general interest on national and international policies and personalities. Questions may be sent directly to Ray Tucker at 6308 Hillcrest Place, Chevy Chase, Md.

WASHINGTON—"Why all the excitement and resentment over issuing a subpoena to President Truman, Justice Clark and Cabinet members to testify on the White case before a Congressional committee?" inquires Mrs. L. S. of Springfield, Mass. "Preserving their dignity and prestige is not so important as finding out how Russian spies can climb high in our Government, even after their disloyalty has been reported by the FBI."

Answer: It is difficult to discuss this question calmly in the atmosphere of emotion and bitterness which Attorney Brownell's charges have provoked. Instead of an orderly effort to obtain the facts about an extremely important matter, it has become a race for headlines among Republicans on Capitol Hill, both individuals and committees, and generally a low-down performance. What should have been a drama has been degraded into political brawling.

QUESTIONING SHOULD BE AUTHORIZED—Overthrust Congressional bodies should have the authority to question, politely and sensibly, members of the other branches of the Government, even if a Constitutional amendment is necessary to give them that power.

Otherwise, a President or Supreme Court Justice can avoid Congressional examination of their official conduct simply by citing the provision for the tripartite separation and independence of the executive, legislative and judicial branches.

It is true that the founding fathers, mindful of British monarchs' domination of Parliament, did make the three branches separate and equal and independent. But I doubt if they intended that they should be noncooperative and hostile toward each other.

EVIDENCE WAS NECESSARY—I covered the

Punishment Fits The Crime

There seems no room for criticism for the death sentence imposed upon the killers of little Bobby Greenlease.

Some may yet come forward with the argument that Hall and Mrs. Heady should receive some leniency in the eyes of the court or in the eyes of the law in the kidnaping and slaying of the Greenlease youngster.

But if there were ever two people who should be called upon to pay the supreme penalty under the federal kidnaping and murder law, it is the pair who took Bobby Greenlease after careful planning, and carried out his murder they had planned for weeks.

They showed no mercy for the child or his family. They had no grounds for asking mercy at the hands of the court which heard their trial.

Horrible as the kidnaping and slaying of the child was, perhaps the disposition of the case, and the death penalty given the slayers will stand as an example for those who may consider kidnaping as a means for obtaining "easy" money. Perhaps the supreme penalty imposed upon the pair will deter others from committing a similar crime.

Here He Comes

Somebody Told Me

Now Look, It's In The Book!

Our three-year-old daughter, Nancy, presents no particular problems to us, but like all parents we are looking for the easiest method to help her distinguish right from wrong. That's why I was particularly interested in The Happy Book by Josephine van Dolzen Pease (Rand McNally and Company $2), for its theme is the fun of doing things right.

Here's a typical use of the book: The other day Nancy dumped her crayons on the floor and was in no particular hurry to pick them back up. So I turned to the index of The Happy Book and sure enough, there was an entry: "Toys, picking up, 69." Well illustrated on that page are the Picker-Upper Putter-Backer Twins, who always keep their doll house in neat order.

On another occasion Nancy took a toy away from brother Don. In the index the reference is made to "Toys, Sharing, 72" and the pages are devoted to the logic of sharing. This book doesn't solve all problems, but it does help. As yet I have never seen a small child who doesn't enjoy being read to. If you have time to use the book frequently, there's no doubt that it will help in getting your point across.

Here are a few more examples from the index: Personal appearance, politeness when asking for things, care of animals, brushing teeth, bathing, going to bed alone, washing faces, hair-pulling and nose wiping.

Typical of the treatment given a subject is the story of Quit-Quit: Quit-Quit was always thinking of something to make. Sometimes he thought of so many things that he did not know which to start first. "I think I'll make an airplane!" he said one day. And he began to work at once.

"It takes a terrible long time to make an airplane!" exclaimed Quit-Quit a little later. "I think I'll make a truck." And he set down to work.

"Making a truck is a slow job!" he said to himself when the truck was half finished. "I'm going to make a fire engine."

"And so it went. Before Quit-Quit finished the fire engine he started a house. Before he finished the house he started a garage. When the day was almost over, along came Sammie, riding a fine wagon. "Where did you get the wagon?" said Quit-Quit, looking at it admiringly.

"I made it!" said Sammie. "It took me the whole day!" "I've been working at making things all day, too," said Quit-Quit. "What did you make?" asked Sammie.

"I made a . . ." began Quit-Quit. And then he stopped. With all his fine starting, Quit-Quit had not made a single thing!" The Happy Book would probably be too much preaching for a child to take all at once. But by degrees it should be a big help.

And I thank you.

What Other Editors Are Thinking

WOULD BE GOOD RIDDANCE (Henderson Dispatch)
President Eisenhower is an optimist indeed if he has the remotest idea that Communists will all be eliminated from government circles in time to remove the issue from the 1954 political wars. It is deplorable that any people, in an effort to manage their own affairs their own way, have to concern themselves with meddling on the part of others in seeking to undo all they have done and are trying to do.

If every single Red or fellow traveler were booted out of Federal connections of any description all over the country tomorrow morning, does any one suppose for a moment that the Communists would call off their dogs and order it quits? O, no, that is not their way of operating.

They'd be right back as quickly, as they could worm their way into some soft spot to start a new era of infiltration.

Every one can accept as fact the idea that the President is sick of the whole Communist flavor. So also are most of the rest of us. But it is one of those developments that cannot be brushed aside by the mere desire to be rid of the menace.

Communists in government will in all likelihood be a red hot issue in the congressional campaigns next year. It's unfortunate that such is the prospect, but prospect it actually is and will remain so. There are those who say that a lot more such machinations and maneuverings of the past decade or so will be brought to light when Congress gets back to town.

Certainly it shouldn't be delved into for purely political purposes, but solely for the national security. If Moscow would attend to its own knitting and let ours alone, this increasing threat to American could be minimized. There are no signs whatever, though, that the leopard has changed his spots or that he will. Unfortunately, this is an issue we have with us and which is likely to remain for years to come, or at least until there is a new shuffling of the cards in Moscow, which isn't anywhere visible on the horizon at this moment.

It would be a good riddance if the Reds could be kicked out. But it's just another of those good things we would like to have but seemingly cannot acquire.

N.C. State College Prestige Seen Growing Ever Higher

By LYNN NISBET

PRESTIGE—State College at Raleigh has grown more in real stature and in national prestige during the past decade than any other institution, in opinion of Governor William Umstead.

In connection with announcing the appointment of State College technical personnel on several research groups, the Governor took occasion to tell Capitol newsmen that he is relying a great deal on State College to further contribute to State progress.

He said he could remember when the institution at Raleigh, now an integral part of the University system, was regarded as a sort of second rate place for the teaching of agriculture—and when many farmers doubted the teaching was of very much real worth to the fellow who was going back to the farm.

Now the college not only ranks high in the common farming courses, but has a nationwide reputation in forestry, animal husbandry and related phases of the overall modern agricultural situation. Besides that, the textile and engineering schools—especially in Diesel engines, and the new field of nuclear research and development—are claiming worldwide prestige.

BALANCE—Umstead is an alumnus of Carolina and Duke, and is ex-officio chairman of the board of trustees of the Consolidated University. At the "State College Day" press conference he was talking as Governor of North Carolina about his hopes for balanced development along all lines. He said he does not want the emphasis he has put upon industrial expansion to be interpreted as lessened interest in other phases of the economy.

To help maintain this balance he is depending largely upon State College. He is particularly happy about activities of the State College Development Council, which brings together educational scientists, technical experts and successful business men for the study and solution of the numerous problems involved.

CO-OPERATION—The springboard from which the Governor launched his comments was the naming of the North Carolina Marketing Commission, authorized by the 1953 General Assembly. Primary objective of this commission is to improve methods of marketing agricultural products. The Governor noted that this included everything from basic research in production through processing, transportation and financing to the use made of products for food and clothing by the people of North Carolina and the whole world. The program requires full co-operation of everybody all along the line.

CONTRAST—As Governor Umstead was talking, always informally and sometimes with brief off-record quips about how well all agencies are working together now and the bright prospects for progress growing out of this united effort, it was difficult for old-time reporters to remember that not so many years ago these same interests were at each others' throats.

Jealous rivalry two or three decades ago brought about the almost unbelievable situation of State agriculture department and

Business Today Sales Opportunities

By ELMER ROESSNER

The business executive may be a lot of other things, but he is the No. 1 unrecognized opportunity for department stores, the research staff of Stores magazine concludes. The magazine is the official publication of the National Retail Dry Goods Association.

In a search for untapped markets, the researchers found that the businessman does much of his own shopping. Businessmen's wives, it seems, are too busy to buy their husband's garments any more. Furthermore, businessmen do not habitually shop in department stores, the researchers discovered. This indicates that a major problem of stores is to get executives to "cross the perfume-drenched frontiers of emporiums devoted to the idea that women still do 80 to 85 per cent of the family's purchasing." Some toning down of the ultra-feminine atmosphere may be needed, the magazine says, and more advertising should be geared to masculine interest. It notes that one store has been quietly using a financial daily to advertise to men and recommends business pages of newspapers as an advertising medium.

The magazine's researchers also pointed to other neglected customers, including: The mother-to-be: She is a much more important customer than she used to be, not only because of her numbers (about four million a year) but also because of her active life, which requires a full wardrobe. Some stores, the magazine noted, have profited by placing maternity shops near layette sections, and by holding fashion shows for expectant mothers.

The woman with a job: Today, the working woman is more often married than not, and with a home and a better-than-average family income. Night openings, lunch-hour or after-five fashion shows and special services are making her a customer for many alert stores, the study finds.

Teenagers and brides, homemakers and housewives, college girls and their male counterparts, sophisticates and suburbanites are all important groups, the study finds. But these groups should not cause stores to overlook their most important customer—the full-time housewife. She, too, has her shopping problems and stores that help solve them have the most to gain.

SAUSAGE CASINGS USED FOR STERILE INSTRUMENTS

Surgical instruments are now being wrapped in sausage casings. A manufacturer of instruments (Edward Weck & Co., Brooklyn) wanted a wrapping material that would serve as a barrier to bacteria and contamination and at the same time permit the permeation of steam. Then it stumbled on an artificial sausage casing that had just those characteristics. Now the casing (made by Transparent Package Co., Chicago) is being used in scores of hospitals.

THREE DIMENSIONS PLUS SOUND IN TRADE ADS

There has been a fad of three-dimensional advertising colored glasses have been made part of a few newspapers and magazines.

Upcoming is a FOUR-dimensional advertisement.

It will appear in two important trade magazines next year. In addition to four-color, three-dimensional pictures of air conditioners, and polaroid glasses affixed to one page, there will be a phonograph recording laminated to the fourth page. It can be torn out and played on a phonograph, giving the reader a fourth dimension—sound. (The ad will be by Pedders-Quiglan Corp.)

SOLOMON'S GLORY CHALLENGED AGAIN

Fancy vests for men have been generally regarded as a fad. Maybe they are—but they are becoming a much bigger fad.

The National Association of Retail Clothiers and Furnishers checked a cross-section of 95 stores in all parts of the country and found that 89 are stocking this flaming addition to male wardrobes. Of these, two-thirds said consumer response was fair to good and one-third is convinced that robin effects are more or less permanent.

He Just Wants A Football Team

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—E.W. Stewart is one of those men who, when they scratch themselves, get gold in their fingernails.

But like all millionaires he has a secret sorrow. "My wife won't let me buy a professional football team," he said dolefully. "And neither will my accountant."

This has confronted him with the problem of whether, after all, it is worth while making money—if a man can't indulge himself in the simple pleasure of owning his own football team. Who wants to go through life just watching other people's football teams play?

"Anybody with brains and the ability to drive. . . drive. . . drive. . . can make a million dollars if he puts his mind to it and shoves everything else out of his way," said Stewart. "But the price you pay for success is high—so high most people won't pay it. And it is very questionable whether it is worth it."

Stewart started his career in St. Louis as a $15-a-month dry goods salesman. He went on to fame and fortune as perhaps history's most successful salesman of wet goods—bathing suits.

He heads Catalina, Inc., a beach wear firm which grossed 20 million dollars this year, of which Stewart personally sold one-fifth in nationwide air tours. He looks for a 25-million-dollar season next year.

"Girls now prefer more feminine beach wear. . . more frills and ruffles. . . less of that tailored, boyish look," he said crisply. One of his current models features rows of pearls around the bra. Another: "Sweetheart suits," or matching sets for a boy and his girl friend.

Stewart has a private swimming pool on his lemon ranch in San Fernando valley, but spends so much time selling beach wear he has never learned the Australian crawl.

"I'd just as soon not talk about my own swimming," he said wryly. "I can dog-paddle—but at least I don't drown."

He figures he never will learn to swim well until they put swimming pools in airplanes, where he spends much of his time.

Stewart is a tall, athletic, sandy-haired man of 41 who looks 45 and has the energy and youthful outlook of 25.

"To many people in this country are selling old age," he said. "I don't buy old age and I don't try to sell it to myself."

"Hard work won't make you old or kill you. Worry does. Why buy worry, either, if you can work and have fun?"

Here is his theory on how to be successful today: "You have to sell your employes now before you even start selling your customers. Give me satisfied employes and I'll put over any business."

Stewart rewards his 35-year employes and their wives with a free month-long vacation in Honolulu, has a company-paid pension plan, says he keeps salaries about those paid by competitors. "I've given away—literally given away—part of my company employes," he said, "and sometimes threaten them by telling them they'll have to take it all."

"It doesn't make any difference who owns a corporation today—it's who runs it that's important."

Stewart is regarded as one of America's most astute promoters and salesmen, a reputation he feels overlooks a basic fact: "If I were really a good salesman, I'd be able to sell my wife on the idea of letting me buy a pro football team. That is what I really want in life. You know I used to play guard in high school."

That is the trouble with being a millionaire. Like any average Joe, you're still always got one more goal to go.

Playwright Is Topic For Club Program
On Tuesday afternoon, November 17, Mrs. Harold Forbes graciously entertained members of the Lector Book Club at her home on the Falkland at her home on the Falkland.

In the program, Mrs. E. S. Flanagan, president of the club, Miss Kathleen Stokes of the Social Studies department of East Carolina College told charmingly a human interest story of eighteenth century England which she happened upon while doing research in that country.

The story was found in a letter written by the Earl of Greenville and reflected the problems and customs of his day. Miss Stokes very skillfully took advantage of the opportunity to give her audience a vivid picture of the times.

Following the program, a brief business session was held during which the club voted to purchase a Christmas Seal Bond.

W. H. Rogers was elected post commander of the Pitt County Post of the American Legion Tuesday night at a meeting held at the Rotary Club. He succeeds Herbert Waldrop, who presided over the session.

Work has been started on the grading preparatory to paving of the street to the rear of the Atlantic Coast Line passenger and freight depots.

Mrs. R. D. Harrington was hostess to her duplicate bridge club Wednesday afternoon. The home was attractively decorated with chrysanthemums and potted plants.

Mrs. L. H. Bowling, making the top score, was presented a madeira cover for hot rolls. Mrs. K. B. Pace and Mrs. J. P. Rowlett were guests and Mrs. Harrington. After several games the hostess served a tasty cocktail followed by a chicken dinner.

Mrs. Striplin Guest Speaker For Clio Club
Mrs. R. G. Lang entertained the members of the Clio Book Club at her home in Brookgreen Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 17.

Miss Agnes Fullilove presided over the business meeting in the absence of the president. She graciously welcomed the invited guests for the afternoon which included: Mrs. R. P. Badham, Mrs. Estella Allen Striplin, Mrs. S. T. White, Mrs. N. O. Warren, Mrs. R. G. Pridmore and Mrs. Lawrence Smith.

The secretary, Mrs. R. G. Lang, read the minutes and called the roll. All business for Christmas was deferred until the next regular meeting.

The program for the afternoon was given by Mrs. Estella Allen Striplin, who is associated with East Carolina College in the personnel department. Miss Jane Hadley graciously introduced the speaker.

Mrs. Striplin, who returned last April from Lebanon where she was associated with the American University for three years, gave a most interesting talk on conditions in that country.

The speaker stressed the fact that health work among the people of that country was needed very much and blamed the need on the fact of such crowded conditions. She said that everywhere one went, in the shops, on the trains and sidewalks, there were always crowded conditions. The shops were just holes in the walls, she related.

She stated that the women in Lebanon were not given any consideration at all. The religion of the country is mostly Moslem and Christian and that both played a big part in the life of these people.

The club members and guests were very grateful to Mrs. Striplin for her delightful and informative talk. At the close of the meeting, the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Lawrence Smith, served a dessert course.

Human Interest Story Of 18th Century England Is Told By Miss Stokes

Mrs. J. H. Thomas entertained the End of the Century Club at luncheon last Tuesday at her home on Rotary Avenue. The house was lovely with fall flowers, and the delicious luncheon was served at beautifully appointed tables.

At the request of Mrs. J. B. Spilman, president of the club, Miss Kathleen Stokes of the Social Studies department of East Carolina College told charmingly a human interest story of eighteenth century England which she happened upon while doing research in that country.

The story was found in a letter written by the Earl of Greenville and reflected the problems and customs of his day. Miss Stokes very skillfully took advantage of the opportunity to give her audience a vivid picture of the times.

Following the program, a brief business session was held during which the club voted to purchase a Christmas Seal Bond.

Goldsboro Church Is Scene Of Willingham-Donnell Wedding

Miss Patricia Ann Donnell of Goldsboro and the Rev. Edward Lee Willingham III of Greenville were united in marriage on Friday, November 20, at 5:00 o'clock in the First Presbyterian Church of Goldsboro. The double ring ceremony was conducted by Dr. James M. McClesney Jr. of Goldsboro and the Rev. Samuel H. Zealy of Charlotte, uncle of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Willingham is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Emsley Donnell of Goldsboro. Mr. Willingham is the son of Mrs. Edward Lee Willingham and the late Mr. Willingham of Augusta, Ga.

The candle-light church was banked with greenery. The only flowers in the decorations were Easter lilies, fuchsias and button chrysanthemums on the communion table which was centered with a large open Bible. A program of religious music was presented by Mrs. Robert Getchell, organist, and Mrs. Robert E. Allen, soloist, classmate of the bride. Prior to the ceremony, Mrs. Allen sang "Entreat Me Not To Leave Thee," by Gounod, and "How Do I Love Thee," by Lippe.

She closed the ceremony with "Seal Us O Holy Spirit" by Meredith. The traditional Wagner and Mendelssohn wedding marches were used.

The bride entered the church with her father. She wore an ivory satin dress with a chapel train. Her yoke of illusion was edged with a horizontal band of gathered satin. The fitted bodice dipped to a point in the front and was buttoned up the back with self-covered buttons. The long sleeves ended in callapoints over the hands. Mrs. Willingham wore a scalloped coronet of seed pearls crowning a fingertip veil of illusion and carried a bouquet of small fuchsias, stephanotis and variegated ivy centered with green maudri cypri orchids.

Mrs. Erskine L. Pope was her sister's matron of honor. Her floor length gown of deep violet taffeta formed a bertha of folds around the shoulders with fitted bodice and bouffant skirt. On her head, Mrs. Pope wore a matching circular band with a soft veil across the front. She carried rubium lilies and minature ivy. The bridesmaids, dressed identically like the matron of honor, were Miss Nancy Willingham of Augusta, Ga., sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Betty Colmer of Greensboro, cousin of the bride.

Honorary bridesmaids were Misses Annette Edgerton, Anne Lee, Ethel Parks, Florence Bowden of Goldsboro, Miss Catherine MacRae of Wilmington, Mrs. W. D. McRae Jr. of Hillsboro and Mrs. H. Davis Yessell of Richmond, Va. They wore formal dresses with chrysanthemums in their hair.

Mr. W. W. Zealy Jr. of Augusta was the best man for his nephew, Mr. Willingham had for his ushers Rev. Albert Grady Harris Jr. of Decatur, Ga., Rev. James Edward Craig, Bessemer City, Dr. Bright McConnell Jr., Augusta, Ga., Mr. Daniel Wesley Tyler, Florence, S. C., Mr. Bryant Gibbs Walton, Evans, Ga., and Mr. Erskine Pope of Goldsboro, brother-in-law of the bride.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Donnell wore a dress of powder blue lace and chiffon sprinkled with rhinestones and a matching feather hat. Mrs. Willingham wore a blue chiffon dress with matching lace stole and double scalloped head band and veil. Both mothers wore white catieya orchids. Mrs. H. E. Cartland of Greensboro, the bride's maternal grandmother, wore a rose lace dress and cymbidium orchids.

After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Donnell received at a reception at the church.

For travel, Mrs. Willingham changed to a grey suit and red coat with grey accessories. She wore the green orchids lifted from her bouquet. After a ten-day wedding trip to western North Carolina, the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Willingham will make their home at Route 2, Greenville, where Mr. Willingham is minister of the Hollywood and Chocod Presbyterian Churches.

Mrs. Willingham is a graduate of W.C.U.N.C. and taught in the Monroe, N. C. High School before her marriage. Mr. Willingham is a graduate of Davidson College and Columbia Theological Seminary.

News From Ballards

By MRS. G. S. NICHOLS

At her home in Greenville, Mrs. Celia Tripp was hostess to the November meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of the Piney Grove Baptist Church.

The meeting opened with the group singing "Bringing In the Sheaves," followed with prayer and scripture reading by Mrs. Floyd Mills. She also presented the program and the topic was "The Light of Truth Shines Through Christian Homes," using as the Bible example the homes of Abraham and Isaac.

Mrs. Clarence Little presided. There were 20 members present. At the social hour the hostess served apple pie, topped with ice cream.

State Official Visits Local O.E.S.
Greenville Chapter No. 149, Order of Eastern Star, was honored with the visit of George R. Bennette, Past Grand Patron of the Grand Chapter of North Carolina, and superintendent of the Masonic and Eastern Star Home in Greensboro on Tuesday evening, Mr. Bennette was introduced by Mrs. Susie Ragdale, president of the "Twenty-five Year Plus Club." Mr. Bennette gave a very interesting talk on the "Home." He stated that there are 71 chapters at the home now, their ages ranging from 65 to 98. In the last 40 years 396 guests have lived there. This home was the first of its kind in the state. Since its organization three other homes for aged have been organized in North Carolina. The guests there are happy since they have no worries and cares. He stressed the thought of living one day at a time, forgetting yesterday and tomorrow.

At the close of his speech, Mrs. Ragdale presented Mr. Bennette with $10.00 from the "25 Year Plus Club" to be used in purchasing rose bushes for the grounds at the home. Part of the money was given in honor of Sister Emma Brown and Brother Arch House, 25 year plus members who passed away this year.

The meeting was opened with the ritualistic march by the officers, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Kennedy, presiding in the East. After the pledge of allegiance to the flag, Mrs. Maude Baynor Foy, Past Grand Matron, and Mr. George Bennette, Past Grand Patron of the Grand Chapter of North Carolina, were introduced.

Mrs. Blanche Smith, Conduress, presented the 25 Year Plus Club members. Those present were: Louise Wells, Susie Ragdale, Vera Sutton, Eva Corbett, Carrie Munford, Mellie House and Josephine Rawls. Sister Maude B. Foy welcomed her beloved project members. She spoke briefly on her 25 year plus project.

Mrs. Blanche Jackson presented Mr. Bennette with a gift from the local chapter.

"Happy Birthday" was sung to John Carrington, Thelma Braswell, Elizabeth Mabry, Vertie Dunn, Beulah Brown and Lucille McArthur. A refreshment hour was held in the dining room following the meeting. The dining table was decorated with a fall harvest scene using the horn of plenty. Mrs. Betty Nobles and her hostess committee served fruit punch, party sandwiches in emblematic colors, nuts and cookies.

Biggest Check Worth A Dollar
CARLEBAD, N. M. (AP)—It was only for a buck but the check Jim Craft of Malaga, N. M., brought to the Carlebad National Bank the other day was the biggest the bankers had ever seen.

Prepared by students at Malaga, the check measured six feet by two feet. It was properly made out for $1, so the bank cashed it.

Mrs. Cox Hostess To Bridge Club
AYDEN—On Friday night, Mrs. Raymond Cox entertained her bridge club at her home on First Street. At the end of play, Christmas cards were won for high score by Mrs. Marvin McCormick; mixing bowls were given Mrs. Chester Hart, runner-up. Low, Christmas cards were given Mrs. Tucker Tripp.

The hostess served a sweet course with coffee to the following: Misses Maude McCormick, Hart, Tripp, Clarence Hart, Wilbur Dunn, Joe Tripp, Leslie Stocks and "Mac" Edwards.

Science Enters Field Of Fencing

FENCING
Fencing, along with everything the farmer uses in Pitt County, is giving way to the scientific age. The fences still look the same to the casual observer, but something new has been added that was not there in years past. It is the fence posts that are different. Pitt farmers are learning that posts treated against rot and termites are well worth the money invested in them.

Sam C. Winchester, Pitt County Farm Agent, points out that treated fence posts will last from 15 to 20 years while untreated last only about two years. "It takes just as much labor to dig the post holes for treated or untreated posts and it takes just as much labor to string the wire," Winchester noted. Yet he said, the process will have to be repeated every two or three years for the untreated posts while the treated post will stand at least 15 years. The fence wiring will last as long as the treated post, Winchester said. The continual replacing of untreated posts, however, will ruin the wire after the posts have been replaced two or three times, the farm agent noted.

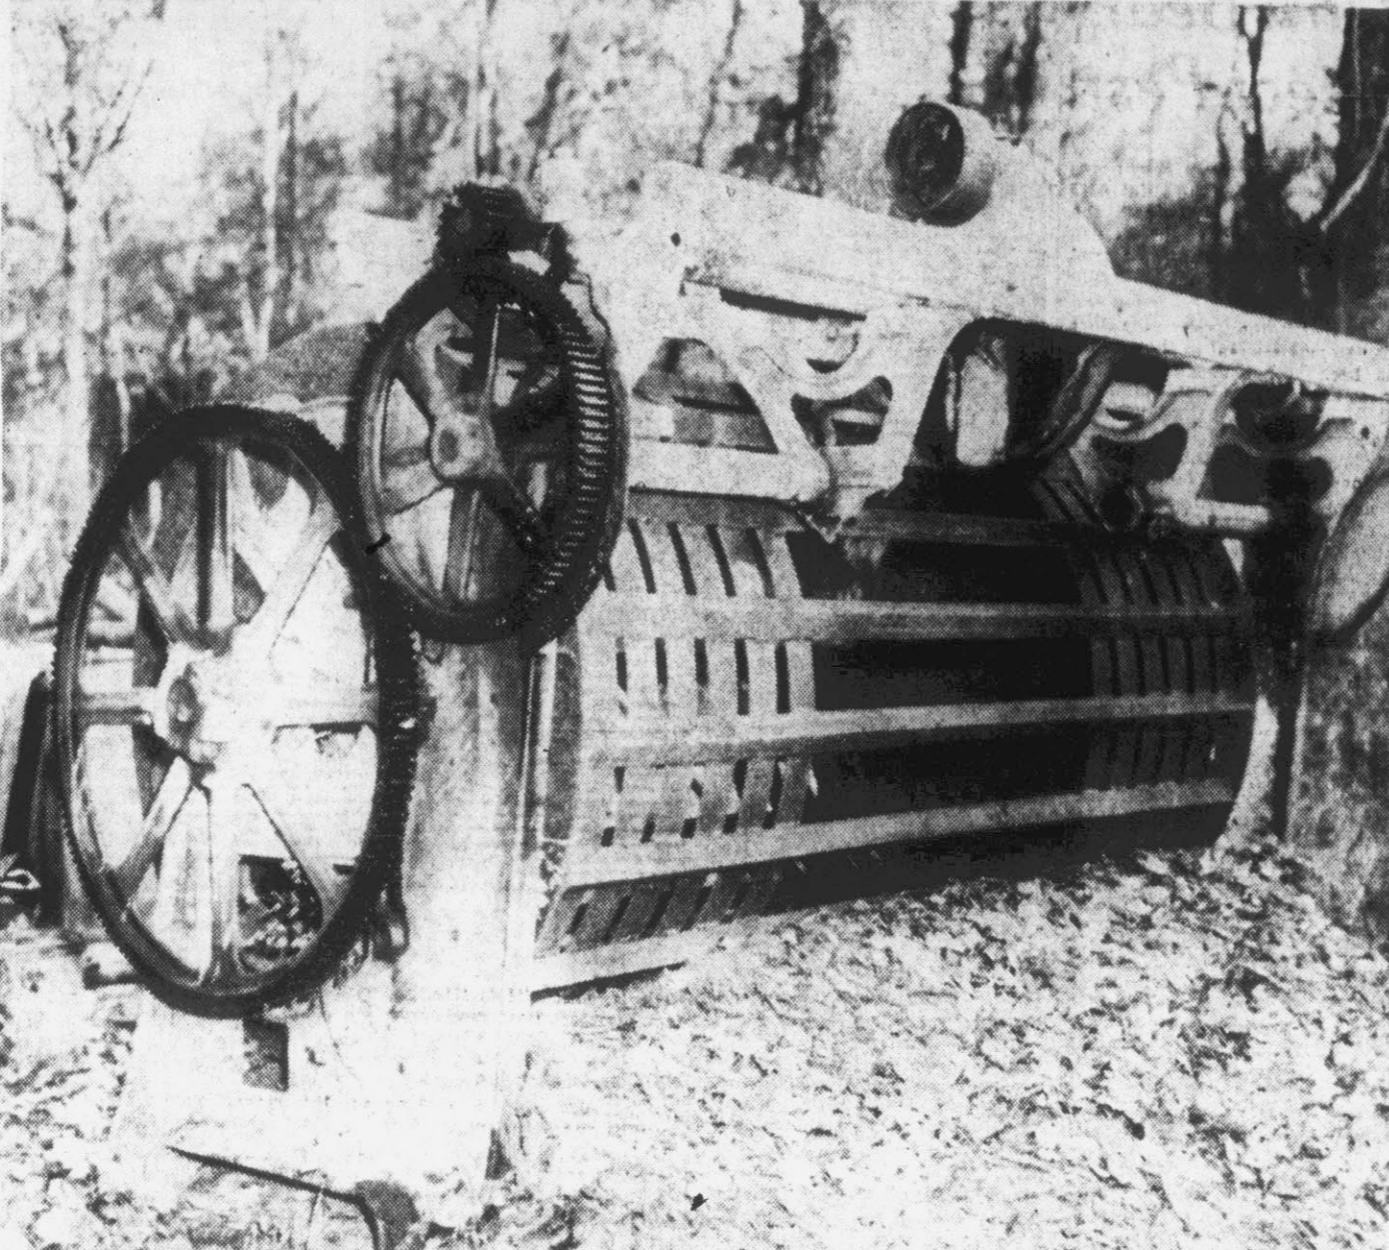

Although no figures are available, Winchester said that he believed that more farmers are using treated posts in their fence building than ever before. He stated that there is more fencing up in Pitt County than ever before due to the increase in livestock in the County.

There are several fence post treating plants operating in Pitt County at the present time, Winchester said.

One such plant is located in Winterville and operated by William R. May and Leland Forlines. His plant uses a solution known as osmer salts, which is used to treat green posts. The posts are left in the solution for two to three days so that the solution can penetrate the wood.

Plants operated by A.H. Tucker, vocational agricultural teacher at Grimesland and Mark H. Smith in Bell Arthur use a solution known as pentachlorophenol which is used in combination with Number 2 diesel oil. The posts are allowed to stand in this solution for about 24 hours before they are properly treated.

Cresote treated posts may be bought at most farm supply stores in Pitt County. Cresote is chemical used to treat telephone poles on the lines of the local telephone company.

This machine is used to peel the bark from fence posts before treating them. The posts are then placed in vats for two or three days. This treatment makes them resistant to rot and termites. (Reflector Photos by Alvin Taylor).

Retailers report that the sales of creosote treated posts are higher than ever before and that there is a steadily growing demand for these posts.

Some telephone companies are experimenting with other chemical preservatives as well, Winchester said. Definite results are not available to show just which chemical will preserve the posts the longest, he noted. Of interest to County farmers is the exhibit of fence posts at the Pitt County Fair grounds. A strip of fencing has been put up next to the livestock building using posts made from ten different types of trees. Posts are included that are treated with the three different

Turkey Flock Is Death On Weeds

RALEIGH — Farmers with weed problems take heed.

A Johnston County turkey farmer has found a solution to practically all your weed problems. He lets his 2,000 turkeys "harvest" dense growths of honeysuckle, weeds, and undesirable brush.

W.C. Mills Jr., turkey specialist for the State College Agricultural Extension Service, says P.B. Stevens, one of Johnston County's largest turkey producers, had a serious problem with honeysuckle and other weeds recently. A large field had been over run by the almost uncontrollable weeds. To disk the field and use a weed killer would have been expensive.

Mills says that Stevens, either by accident or on purpose, turned his large flock of growing turkeys into the field. Almost overnight Stevens saw the brush and honeysuckle disappear. John Piland, Johnston County farm agent, says the birds devoured the range so fast it reminded him of the old story about "Paul Bunyon's Oxblue Bell and the twenty-acre lake." In the story Bunyon's ox was so thirsty that it looked around for another lake before drinking the water in the one before him.

Refuse To Mourn 'Glorious Past'

VAN DEUSENVILLE, Mass. (AP) — To the 300 or so American villages which this year are losing their post offices Van Deusenville can say "We didn't mourn much when the name 'Van Deusenville' disappeared from the list of post offices half a century ago."

Life is pleasant these days in this little village in the Western Massachusetts Berkshire Hills — maybe pleasanter than it was long ago when it welcomed a successor of mills and saw the railroad come. Pleasanter than when it watched its iron works blow up, and its cloth dressing and carding mills, its satinet factories and woolen mills, and its cotton sheeting plants move away from the meager local water power.

The rural carrier who makes a round trip daily from Great Barrington to the South, to Housatonic, north of here, renders all the service the old-time post office rendered. And he's happier than the post master was in that last year when his personal income as post master was $10 and he remitted net receipts of $2 to the post office department.

Kill Devil Hill in North Carolina where the Wrights made their first flight in 1903 moved a tenth of a mile because of blowing sand before it was anchored in 1929 says the National Geographic Society.

Taking Drought Effects In Stride

RALEIGH — A lot has been said recently concerning the need for winter pastures and cover crops and the Negro farmers of Gates County seem to have taken last summer's drought in their stride.

H.L. Mitchell, Negro county agent for the Agricultural Extension Service, says however, that many of the farmers who tried hard to get a stand of winter grazing established have since been disappointed. Many say they have been unable to sow seed, or if they sowed them anyway the dry weather prevented them from coming up.

The picture is not all bad, however, adds Mitchell. He points to the luck of W.G. Goodman of Eure, who cleared a little more than two acres for pasture and seeded three acres of wheat on some of his cropland. Mitchell says both plots are doing well. Goodman wanted to seed the wheat because he felt it would help boost his farm income next-summer, as well as serving as a good source of feed for his hogs.

Used $20 Bill In Making Cigarette While Prisoner

PAWNEE CITY, Neb. (AP) — Loyd Dovel, back home after two years as a prisoner of war in Korea, recalls how one prisoner used a $20 bill for cigarette paper to roll his own. The prisoners were getting "sweepings" with which to make their own cigarettes and had to use any kind of paper available, Dovel said.

The $20 bill was suitable because money had no value in the prison camps, he explained. Later, the prisoners were given tobacco leaves for smoking.

Shortly before repatriation, the Red Cross supplied American brand cigarettes but "we couldn't get any kick at all out of American cigarettes by that time," he recalled. "We were too used to our own brand."

It is estimated that it takes cotton grown on 558,000 acres of land to produce upholstery, brake linings, timing gears and other things for a million cars.

Curbs On Tiny Bean Insect Pest

RALEIGH—There's a bright spot on the horizon for truck farmers having so much trouble with the Mexican bean beetle. In experiment station tests a new material called malathion is giving good control.

Control for the pesky creature that can riddle a leaf in short order has been rather uncertain in recent years when materials of standard recommendations, particularly rotenone, were used. This may be due to insect resistance, climate or other inter-related factors.

The Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine of the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the N.C. Agricultural Experiment Station have cooperated in an attempt to determine reasons for irregularity in effectiveness and to find toxicants which would be safe to handle and would give dependable control.

Several materials tested in 1952 and 1953 show promise, but Charles H. Brett of the entomology department at N.C. State College describes malathion as "the best bean beetle killer that has ever come along." Vegetable growers who have used malathion also voice enthusiastic support for the new insecticide. The only drawback is that it gives poor control of potato leafhoppers on beans.

North Carolina tests have been carried out at the Mountain Fruit and Vegetable Station at Mills River and the Vegetable Research Station at Faison. Malathion, methoxychlor, parathion, dieldrin, rotenone and EPN are the materials that have been used in the tests.

Five per cent malathion gave the most complete control on Mexican bean beetles. Methoxychlor gave better control than any of the other materials tested on the potato leafhopper, but gave poor control on the Mexican bean beetle.

Parathion, 1 1/2 per cent dust, gave good control on both beetles and leafhoppers. Dieldrin gave good control on the beetles but poor control on leafhoppers.

Isodrin dust containing 1 1/2 per cent insecticide gave good control of the beetles but poor control of the leafhoppers. Rotenone plus pyrethrins gave good control on the beetles but poor control on leafhoppers.

EPN, 1/2 per cent dust, gave poor control on both beetles and leafhoppers.

At the Mountain Fruit and Vegetable Station, dusts were applied May 29, June 5, 11 and 23 to tender green snap beans planted May 10. On July 1, one larva and no pupae were found in the malathion treated plots as compared with 2207 larvae and 517 pupae in untreated plots. From 25 to 30 pounds of dust were applied per acre.

Snap beans at Faison were dusted September 9 and 24 with 5 per cent malathion dust at the rate of 25 pounds per acre. Beans were picked October 7 and taken directly to the processing laboratory.

To test the safety of the material to be used on foods for human consumption, fresh and processed malathion-treated beans were sent to the Insecticide Department of the American Cyanamid Company. No insecticide residues could be detected by chemical analysis.

Malathion-treated beans grown in the tests were processed and submitted to a taste panel. Twenty-three tasters could find no taste differences between the treated and untreated beans.

Several of the materials tested show considerable promise of being useful for bean insect control. Since malathion was the most effective material in controlling the Mexican bean beetle and methoxychlor was more effective than any other in controlling potato leafhoppers on beans further tests will include mixtures of methoxychlor and malathion.

But on the basis of two years of testing, Brett says malathion seems to give much promise as a control for the troublesome bean beetle.

Little Change In Feed Prices

RALEIGH—North Carolina livestock farmers can look for little, if any, change in feed prices next

Peanuts Demand A Rotation Of Crops

Dalton Jones (above) planted the field in which he is standing with a cover crop after harvesting the peanuts in which it was planted last summer. Next year Jones will plant the field in tobacco. (Reflector photo by Alvin Taylor).

It is important that a green cover crop be planted on the fields which were planted in peanuts during the past year, according to Conner Eagles, of the Soil Conservation office.

Peanuts are hard on the soil, Eagles said, in that the entire peanut vine is harvested and nothing is returned to the soil as with other crops.

"In harvesting peanuts all the roots, vines and leaves as well as nuts are taken from the soil," Eagles said. "That is why it is so necessary to have cover crops on all peanut land."

Eagles also pointed out the old farm saying "never follow peanuts with peanuts" is wise to follow. "It is imperative that peanuts be fitted in a soil building rotation program," the Soil Conservationist stated.

Dalton Jones, Route 5 Greenville is following a plan of alternating his fields, planting peanuts one year and tobacco the next. In the winter, he plants a cover crop of small grains.

Jones said that he would turn his livestock into the field and let them graze on the small grain during the winter. On a field that he planted in peanuts this year, Jones will year. Although the nation as a whole produced ample feed grains and hay this summer, the supply in North Carolina is likely to remain short as a result of this summer's severe drought.

That is the outlook in a nutshell as seen by John Curtis, State College Extension Service farm management and marketing specialist. Curtis outlines his views in the current Outlook issue of the "Tar Heel Farm Economist," monthly publication of the Extension Service.

The earth contains about 197 million square miles.

Stork Pacemaker For His New Car

TILGHMAN BEACH, S.C. (AP)—The Tilghman Beach Baptist Tabernacle congregation gave their pastor a new car at what they figured was a most appropriate time. His wife was expecting to go to the hospital any day.

But the day after the new car arrived, the Rev. Jim Griffith still had to borrow one from a church member for the hurry-up trip.

The gift car's motor was so stiff it wouldn't go more than 30 miles an hour. And this, the pastor observed, is "considerably slower than the stork flies."

ACC Crossing Fingers For Maryland And Duke Today

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Atlantic Coast Conference kept its fingers crossed today for its co-leaders, Maryland and Duke. The infant conference needed a Maryland victory over Alabama to add a fine touch to the first year of ACC football history.

A Maryland victory would leave the ACC as the only major college conference to boast an unbeaten team. A Duke triumph over Georgia Tech would lighten the dark spots on the Blue Devils' 1953 record.

Duke bowed to Army, 14-13, and battled to a muddy scoreless tie with Navy in its only disappointments of the season—to date.

Other loop teams offered their bits for the record book. South Carolina met Wofford, Wake Forest was host to Furman. Clemson entertained bowl-minded Auburn; North Carolina State faced West Virginia, and North Carolina invaded Virginia.

The weatherman was expected to take a hand in matters at College Park, Md. Rain was forecast for the Terr-Tide battle. Goodyear was host to Furman. Clemson entertained bowl-minded Auburn; North Carolina State faced West Virginia, and North Carolina invaded Virginia.

Duke, refreshed and ready after last week's open date, welcomed back ace fullback Byrd Looper for the Tech struggle. Engineer supporters were heartened by the return of fullback Glenn Turner to the starting lineup. Turner's line smashes helped Tech to a 28-7 victory over Duke last year.

Auburn's Plainsmen, complete with bowl visions brought a 6-1 record to its Clemson engagement. The Tigers appeared over their early-season T-jitters and banked on Don King's passing and running to spill Auburn. Clemson hoped to improve their 3-4 record by spoiling Auburn's bowl dreams.

South Carolina brought its 18th national ranking into a battle with small but tough Wofford. The Gamecocks counted on the passing of quarterback Johnny Gramling and receiving end Clyde Bennett to insure an easy victory. The hosts enjoyed a 6-2 record compared to Wofford's 6-3-1 mark.

North Carolina was a three-touchdown favorite over off-beaten Virginia. The game was the 58th renewal of the South's oldest continuous football rivalry. The Cavaliers started their No. 3 quarterback, Dan Rose, and revised their line in hopes of ending a long victory famine.

The massive Mountaineers of West Virginia were three to five touchdowns favorites over North Carolina State. The visitors had a 7-1 record compared to State's 1-7. The Wolfpack, battered by Army and Pitt in its last two starts, entered the game in poor physical condition.

Furman and Wake Forest met in a game that found the Deacons in danger of matching their biggest losing year since 1935. Furman was among the nation's leading rushing teams with a 268.5 yard average and boasted a 6-2 record. Injury-riddled Wake Forest had a 2-5-1 mark. Deacon defeats today and in the Thanksgiving Day game with South Carolina would match the seven losses suffered by the 1953 team.

Huge Crowds See Big Pan-Am Race

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Tens of thousands of racing fans, many in colorful sarapes and sombreros, lined the highway leading to Leon today as a sharply whittled field of about 95 drivers headed north on the third lap of the five-day Pan-American road race.

Accidents, disqualifications, slow time and other reasons have cut down the original 177 who started the $100,000 classic on the Guatemala border Thursday.

Italian Lancia and American Lincolns had a firm grip on top honors in their divisions, and these were the first to head for Leon 420 kilometers (261 miles) away at dawn.

Two legs will be run today, marking the longest of the entire five-day dash. From Leon the cars will then go to Durango for the night. Durango is 950 kilometers (590 miles) from Mexico City.

Over a dozen accidents were reported yesterday, but none resulted in deaths. To date, six persons have been killed—two drivers and four spectators.

The leading Lancia and American Lincoln cars are in the big stock car division. In the small sports car class, two of Europe's most famed drivers dropped out. Karl Kling and Hans Hermann, both of Germany, were eliminated when Kling's car had an accident and Hermann's reportedly lost a gear box. They were driving Porsches.

Kling was winner of the 1953 race. Italy's Piero Taruffi and Felice Bonetto are running one-two on the Lancia team.

Chuck Stevenson of Milwaukee was leading in the international tourist division or big stock car class, driven by Walt Faulkner of Long Beach, Calif., Jack McGrath of Pasadena, Calif., and Johnny Mantz of Los Angeles.

By HERB ALTSCHULL
WASHINGTON (AP)—Looking ahead at 84, Clark Griffith for the first time in many years sees a definite "pennant" threat in his Washington Senators.

"Give us some help in a spot or two," Griff said at his birthday party yesterday, "and we'll cause a lot of trouble."

Griffith and his board of strategy, headed by Manager Bucky Harris, are pretty well pleased with the Senators' pitching prospects for 1954—notably Bob Porterfield, who posted the league's best record last season, a glittering 22-10.

Along with Porterfield, Griffith and Harris expect their starting pitchers will be Frank Shea, Walter Masterson, Chuck Stobbs and an unheralded youngster named Bob Ross.

A lefthander, Ross recently was released from the Army.

"He has a good arm," Harris said, "and he should be able to help us."

Another promising newcomer is Lyle Luttrell, a shortstop just out of the Army.

"A good boy," Griffith said. "I expect great things of him." Griffith said he doesn't know yet whether the club will field its first Negro player this season. There's a chance of a deal with another major league club involving a Negro player, but this is unlikely.

"I'd rather develop a youngster of my own," Griffith said. "And right now, we have two fine prospects, Angel Scull and Julio Becquer. They have fine minor league records and we intend to look them over pretty carefully in the spring."

Scull, an outfielder, led the hitters on the Charleston, W. Va., club of the Triple-A American Assn. last year with 290. He's batting .397 in the Cuban Winter League now. Becquer, a first baseman, is regarded as a likely successor to Mickey Vernon, the American League batting champion.

More than 100 well-wishers showed up for Griffith's birthday party yesterday.

President Eisenhower sent a message of congratulations. The Lone Ranger, one of Griffith's heroes, made a special recording for the occasion. And FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover attended in person to lead the singing of "Happy Birthday."

"It was my best birthday," Griffith said, "the best in 84 years."

This Could Be Big Season For California Basketball

NEW YORK (AP)—This appears to be the year California's Golden Bears have been waiting for.

Beaten in the Pacific Coast Conference basketball playoffs by Washington's senior-loaded huskies last year, the Bears are seeking revenge. An added incentive is the players' desire to bring a championship to Nibs Price, who will round up his 30th year as a coach and retire after the 1954 season.

Price has three star players returning from the team which took the southern division title last year. They are the three Bobs—McKeen, Matheny and Albo. McKeen, a 6-foot-7 junior, may be one of the best centers in the nation. Matheny is the floor man and Albo is a rugged rebounder. The Bears chief competition in the southern division is expected to come from the UCLA Bruins.

Oregon State's Beavers are the choice to replace Washington as champions of the northern division because of outstanding players coming up from their powerful freshman squad. Washington, after three straight championships, is due for an also-ran team as its entire starting five, led by the fabulous Bob Houbregs, is gone.

The best team in the Far West may be an unheralded quintet—Santa Clara. The Broncos, who finished fourth in the collegiate playoffs last year, will have All America candidate Ken (6-9) Sears back as well as '53 starters Jim Young, Mickey Mount and Herb Schoenstein.

Seattle lost the colorful O'Brien twins but Coach Al Brightman isn't worried because he will have back Stan Glowaski, 6-8, and Wayne Aanford, 6-3. An impressive looking newcomer is Bob Godes, 6-8.

Rice is the pick to dethrone Wyoming, which has lost only three conference games in two seasons, won its second straight Skyline championship last year and has reason to believe it will win a third.

In the Rocky Mountain Conference, Idaho State, which went to the NCAA district playoffs with a 10-0 league record, has everybody back including Sam Beckham, plus big sophomores and figures to repeat with ease.

Texas Christian University for the Southwest Conference Championship. TCU, winners twice and tied for the championship the other time in the past three years, is the favorite. The Horned Frogs have height, speed and scoring power in returnees Henry Ohlen, Charles White, 6-5; Gorman Wiseman, 6-4 and Charlie Brown, 6-4, among others.

Rice will present a strong team headed by its fine center, Gene (6-6) Schwinger, who led the conference in scoring last season. And there are seven other lettermen back, including forward Don Lance and guard Monte Robicheaux. Rice won 15 out of 21 last year and beat the frogs in two out of three games.

Southern Methodist has three letter men back plus Derrill Murphy, a veteran who was ineligible last year, and a crop of sophomores that is billed as the "best ever." Texas has height but has to show the strength.

Wyoming, which has lost only three conference games in two seasons, won its second straight Skyline championship last year and has reason to believe it will win a third.

In the Rocky Mountain Conference, Idaho State, which went to the NCAA district playoffs with a 10-0 league record, has everybody back including Sam Beckham, plus big sophomores and figures to repeat with ease.

Bowl-Clinchers On Schedule For Country's Top Teams

Houston Receives Two Millions—For Football Win

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A school whose chief benefactor apologetically explained his gifts had amounted to only 25 million dollars, not 210 million, had another $2,225,000 from him today for a football victory.

The school is burgeoning University of Houston and the oilman philanthropist with football fever is Hugh Roy Cullen.

The oilman, pleased with the school's football win over Baylor last week, announced his gift yesterday at a campus pep rally for today's game with Texas Tech.

"The great spirit and determination shown by the Cougars last Saturday in defeating Baylor fills me with enthusiasm and prompts me to do something for our great university," Cullen said. Nobody doubted his enthusiasm when he said a few minutes later:

"I have decided to give the university $2,225,000 in oil payments." Cullen explained that campus improvements needed to obtain accreditation from the Southern Assn. of Colleges and Secondary Schools would "put the university in the red by $80,000" and the money was to "help this situation."

The school's football team, going into last Saturday's game with a record of two wins, three losses and a tie, posted a 37-7 defeat on Baylor, then ranked ninth nationally in the Associated Press poll.

Cullen, chairman of the university's board of regents already had given the school about 25 million dollars in 1947 he and Mrs. Cullen established a 160-million-dollar foundation for educational, medical and charitable purposes.

Last June, the oilman issued a formal statement in which he said he was embarrassed by published reports he had given the university from 130 million to 210 million dollars. This was not true, he said, because the gifts amount to only 25 million.

Yesterday's pep rally, which school officials said was the largest ever held by the 11,000-student university, was in the auditorium of the four-million-dollar Ezekiel W. Cullen Building.

Cullen, president of Quintana Petroleum Corp. gave that to the school, too. It was named for his grandfather.

By ED CORRIGAN
NEW YORK (AP)—This is getaway day for most of the country's major college football teams. It also could be bowl-clinching day for three of them and relief day for the members of two conferences who conceivably might be forced to vote a team into the bowls.

Maryland, one of the nation's two major undefeated, unlied outfits, could get the Orange Bowl spot against Oklahoma by defeating Alabama. That's fairly simple, but the Big Ten and Pacific Coast conferences are more complicated.

In the Big Ten, Michigan State, Illinois and Wisconsin could wind up in a three-way tie for the championship. This is contingent on Illinois turning back Northwestern and Wisconsin beating Minnesota. That would give all three 8-1 records since Michigan State's season is over.

A vote would be called to decide whether Illinois or State would make the New Year's Day trip to Pasadena. Wisconsin is out of it by virtue of having played in the game last year.

Then the other conference bigwigs could start reaching for the headache powders. Whichever they voted in, probably would touch of criticism. For a time, it was thought that since Michigan State was on probation, the Illini would get it in the event of a tie.

But earlier in the week, most of the other schools' spokesmen disclaimed any intention of being influenced by the Spartans' probation. They'd make their choice.

strictly on football, they said. Of course, if Northwestern upsets the Illini, the problem would vanish. Michigan State would go on its 8-1 record.

In the Pacific Coast Conference, both UCLA and Stanford have aspirations for the championship and they could wind up in a deadlock provided they defeat, respectively, Southern California and California. Both are favored.

Here, again, a vote would be required if both UCLA and Stanford win. In that case, the Indiana would have definite advantage in view of the fact that they edged the Bruins, 21-20 earlier in the season.

The UCLA-Southern Cal contest, incidentally, will be the NCAA's television game of the week. Meanwhile, Notre Dame, the No. 1 team in the Associated Press weekly poll, takes on Iowa, and for some unfortunates reason, many experts seem to think the Hawkeyes will make things tough for Frank Leahy's team. Not that Forest Evashevski's lads are not fine young men, but there is no reason to believe that they'll do any better against Notre Dame than the Irish's other victims.

Notre Dame has been installed as a 15-point favorite.

The Ivy League has its big game of the year—Harvard vs Yale. This is the ONLY game of the season to the old grads of these venerable institutions and although no national titles will hinge on the outcome of the 70th meeting, it will attract a crowd of about 60,000 in the Yale Bowl in New Haven, Conn. The Elis are favored by one touchdown.

Other major games include: East—Rutgers at Columbia. Fordham at Holy Cross, Penn State at Pitt, Dartmouth at Princeton, Boston University at Temple, Lafayette at Lehigh.

South—Auburn at Clemson, Duke at Georgia Tech, Tennessee at Kentucky, West Virginia at North Carolina State, North Carolina at Virginia, Furman at Wake Forest, Washington and Lee at William and Mary.

Midwest—Purdue at Indiana, Missouri at Kansas, Marquette at Michigan State, Ohio State at Michigan, Oklahoma at Nebraska. Southwest—Southern Methodist at Baylor, North Texas State at Hardin-Simmons, Texas Tech at Houston, Rice at Texas Christian, Detroit at Tulsa.

Far West—New Mexico at Colorado A&M, Utah State at Idaho, Oregon State at Oregon, Washington State at Washington.

Virginia Report No Indictment Of One-Platoon

By GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK (AP)—The fact that football injuries have increased 30 per cent at one school, the University of Virginia, under the one-platoon system cannot be taken as a conclusive indictment of the new rule.

Many more returns will have to come in, perhaps from every major team in the land before it can be said for certain that more boys are being hurt this season than last. Any one school is prone some years to suffer a disproportionate series of injuries, as any coach will tell you. It could have happened to the Cavaliers.

If there has been an increase of breaks and sprains nationally, it has not been noticeable in a routine check of the sports pages from every section. The toll seems to be just about normal for a sport that never has been a gentle one.

Some astute judges of football psychology would not be too surprised if Michigan State should let its mind wander at awkward moments today and in consequence take an upset beating from Marquette.

The game means nothing to the Spartans so far as the Big Ten title is concerned.

Marquette, say the heavy thinkers, is too good a team to be licked by a set of young men who are trying to hear signals and listen to the stadium public address system at one and the same time.

Tris Speaker, one of the all-time outfield greats, thinks Jimmy Dykes, Baltimore's new manager, is making a big mistake in throwing away his golf clubs.

The Grey Eagle points out that he tromped the fairways almost daily in the years he was player-manager at Cleveland, and that he posted his best batting averages after he took up the game.

Did he think the game hurt his baseball swing, as many managers do today? No, Tris says, he batted lefthanded, golfed right.

THE FLAT-FOOTED FUDDY
dreams of cracker-barrel days and can't stand products that sell too fast

A FLAT-FOOTED FUDDY is a storekeeper who refuses to stock what the customer wants.

Which means he doesn't have to refill shelves or bother with busy customers.

Naturally the FUDDY is a rare creature, almost extinct.

The modern retailer, fortunately, carries the products that move the fastest—the brands that customers want.

He is sure, of course, that the brand preferences come from the influence of newspaper ads. So he himself advertises in the newspaper because he knows that just about all his customers read it.

In fact retailers last year spent 85% of their money telling their customers where to buy these national brands.

All business is local... and so are all newspapers!

Tyson-May Reunion Thanksgiving Day

By Eva Horton Rouse

In keeping with the traditional spirit of family gatherings at Thanksgiving and providing an extension of the holiday celebration for descendants of the Tyson and May families of North Carolina and other states as well, will be the annual reunion to be held here as it is the custom on Friday following Thanksgiving Day.

The guest speaker will be Dr. John D. Messick, president of East Carolina College. With opportunity for contacts with national figures in the educational field and with the youth of today, who will be educators of tomorrow, Dr. Messick will doubtless have a message of vital interest and timely import for this assemblage. Dr. Paul E. Jones, state senator, will introduce the speaker.

The reunion, which will be held in the chapter house of the Major Benjamin May chapter, D.A.R., will be presided over by the president, John Milton May, of Winterville. The program will begin at ten o'clock and the meeting will come to a close following the basket lunch. Greetings from the community will be extended by Chas. S. Edwards, secretary of the Farmville Chamber of Commerce.

The memorial service will be conducted by the Rev. Aaron G. Tyson, Methodist Minister of Jarvisburg.

Present officers are: John Milton May, of Winterville, president; Herbert Horton Rountree, first vice president; Col. William T. Joyner, of Raleigh, second vice president; Mrs. John B. Wright Jr., secretary; Mrs. Miss Tabitha DeVisconti, genealogist.

As usual one of the high lights of the occasion will be the genealogy report of Miss Tabitha DeVisconti, who follows a pattern of presenting members of the family attending for the first time, reading a list of the weddings and births and giving the names of those having entered the service of their country since the last meeting of this group.

A panoramic view of the trees of both families may be had in the banquet room of the chapter house, where a unique arrangement by the reunion's genealogist will cover the entire space.

Special music will be rendered by Mrs. William May, soloist, with accompaniment by Miss Doris Cole, both of Winterville, and by Lawrence Tyson, baritone, of Greenville, with accompaniment by Miss Nancy Jane Carroll.

The benediction will be pronounced by the Rev. A. Hume Cox, Episcopal rector.

Committees for the meeting are: program, John B. Lewis, Mrs. John B. Wright, Jr.; decoration, Mrs. Ben S. Atkinson, chairman; food, Mrs. Glenn A. Newton, chairman; Mrs. Barney Bland, Mrs. Edgar J. Barrett, Mrs. Ben S. Atkinson, registration, Mrs. H.W. Nobles, of Winterville, Mrs. G.H. Mozlingo, nomination, Mrs. G. Alex Rouse, Mrs. Ed Nash Warren; pages, Misses Betty King, Elinor Glenn Newton, Bess Baker, Patricia Joyner and Brenda Barrett.

More than three hundred invitations have been mailed to out-of-town descendants. All members of the community have a blanket invitation.

James Robert Neal Funeral On Sunday

James Robert Neal, 81, died at his home near Greenville at 12:10 o'clock Friday afternoon after several months of illness.

Funeral services will be conducted at the Edgewood Free Will Baptist Church, near Crisp, Sunday afternoon at three o'clock and burial will be in the church cemetery. The Rev. W. B. Nobles, Free Will Baptist minister of Winterville, will conduct the services. The body will remain at the Wilkerson Funeral Home and will be carried to the church one hour prior to the time of services.

Mr. Neal was born and reared in Edgecombe County and had lived in Pitt County for the past 14 years.

Survivors are his wife, Mrs. Frances Sumner Neal; five daughters, Misses Ada and Annie Bess Neal of the home, Mrs. Jimmie Norville of Pinetops, Mrs. E. H. Harrington of Greenville, and Mrs. Marvin Harrell of Lewiston; six sons, Robert and Sam Neal of Tarboro, Kelly Neal of Pinetops, William B. Neal of Patego, Wyatt Neal of Williamston, and Patrick Neal of Miami, Fla.; 44 grandchildren; 14 great grandchildren; a brother, Thad Neal of Pinetops; and a sister, Mrs. Gatsy Hathaway of Tarboro.

Col. Hardaway Is Buried Friday

Lt.-Col. William T. Hardaway, attorney and manager of the Veterans' Bureau, Phoenix, Arizona, who died suddenly last Monday after a hunting trip, was buried in Arlington National Cemetery with full military honors Friday.

He was a brother of Rev. Richard E. Hardaway, pastor of Memorial Baptist Church. Mr. and Mrs. Hardaway left Greenville Thursday for Washington, D. C. to attend the funeral. They will return to Greenville Monday.

Two Greenville Men At Assembly

William A. Bulow and Harvey E. Dixon of Greenville were among the 200 students attending the 1953 State Legislative Assembly in Raleigh this week.

Bulow, a student at State College, was a representative from that institution. Dixon was an alternate representative from Livingstone College.

This was the 17th annual student assembly, and nearly all of the colleges and universities were represented.

Teachers See Double

BALDWIN, Miss. (AP) — At Wheeler School there are nine sets of twins among the 375 pupils. One teacher, Miss Gladys Milton, has four sets in her first grade.

"It's quite confusing," she sighed.

Registration

Registration for adult classes at C. M. Eppes High School will be held Monday evening.

Classes in English, arithmetic, home economics, social studies and typing will be available.

Adults are invited to enroll in one or more of the courses. The courses will include such activities as filmstrips, lectures, role playing and informal group discussions.

Enrollees will register at the high school at 7:30 p.m. and further details of each course will be explained.

Butler Speaks At WCTU Meeting

The building of better communities rests largely with individual citizens who possess vision, conviction, courage, and will co-operate in the democratic processes to achieve their objective, members of the Greenville Women's Christian Temperance Union were told at the annual roll call meeting held at the home of Mrs. J.N. Williams on West Fifth street.

The guest speaker, Alumni Secretary James W. Butler of East Carolina College, cited the courage and conviction of the First Century Christians in opposing the evils and wickedness in high places in their day, and declared that "their spiritual descendants can be no less courageous in opposing forces that will weaken the structure of government, community life, or the individual personality."

Mrs. Lela J. Carson, WCTU president, conducted the business meeting with members approving plans for "sunshine baskets" for shut-ins and needy persons during the Christmas season.

Miss Mabel Lewis, with organ accompaniment by Mrs. J.N. Williams, sang a vocal solo.

Reports of the state convention in Durham were heard from Mrs. Carson, and several members reported on membership plans. Renewals of memberships were noted during the roll call.

Following the business meeting and the inspirational address, Mrs. Williams served light refreshments to the members and guests.

Football Film Is Showed Kiwanians

At the Kiwanis Club's weekly supper meeting last night, Dr. Ed J. Carter of the department of field services at East Carolina College, showed a movie of the recent Elion-ECC Pirates football game.

H. Franklin Steinbeck had charge of the program. President Leo W. Jenkins presided.

Mrs. J.B. Spilman, chairman of the Pitt county Christmas Seal sale, announced plans for the campaign this year.

Richard E. Rogers won the attendance prize. Berry Bostic and Jesse Moye had birthdays and they donated a dime for each year of their age. Guest were Julian White, Mrs. Tige Gardner, Russ Bartlett, son of Kiwanian Stephen R. Bartlett, Jr.; Jane and Johnny Reynolds, daughter and son of Kiwanian John O. Reynolds; Turney Bundy, Greenville High School Junior; Kiwanian, and Harold Colson and Charles Bedford, Circle K members.

Yuletide Street Decorating Will Begin Nov. 30

FARMVILLE — The task of decorating Farmville's streets for Christmas will begin Monday following Thanksgiving, according to an announcement by the Chamber of Commerce. The work will be carried out under an arrangement somewhat different from that of prior seasons.

The C-of-C is renting the decorations this year and they will be installed under supervision of the company from which the decorations are rented.

Farmville's Santa Claus parade will be held this year on Saturday, December 5.

U.S. Croplands total about 464 million acres.

School Menus

School lunch menus for the coming week, as announced by the supervisor of city school cafeterias, are as follows:

Monday — smothered beef with brown gravy, steamed rice, mixed greens, biscuit, butter, sliced peaches and milk;

Tuesday — vegetable soup (beef), crackers, pimento cheese and jelly and butter sandwich, apple cobbler, milk;

Wednesday — roast turkey with dressing, giblet gravy, cranberry sauce, string beans, rolls, butter, cookie, milk.

Thursday and Friday are Thanksgiving holidays.

Funeral Sunday For John Louis Speight

John Louis Speight, 77, died at the home of his son, J. E. Speight, 2511 East Fourth Street in Greenville, at 8:30 o'clock Friday night. He had been in failing health for several weeks and critically ill for only a few hours.

Funeral services will be conducted at the Meadowbrook Presbyterian Church Sunday afternoon at three o'clock and burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery. The Rev. C. D. Patterson, pastor of Meadowbrook Presbyterian Church, assisted by the Rev. R. B. Crawford, pastor of the Greenville Free Will Baptist Church, and the Rev. B. C. Horrell, pastor of St. Paul's Holiness Church near Greenville, will conduct the services. The body will remain at the home and will be carried to the church one hour prior to the time of services.

Mr. Speight, son of the late John Alexander and Rebecca Hudson Speight, was reared in Greenville and spent nearly all his life in and near Greenville. He was a member of the Meadowbrook Presbyterian Church. He was married to Sidelie Williams of near Greenville and she died in 1909. Then he was married to Letha Harrington of near Greenville in 1917. He is survived by three sons and two daughters by his first marriage: Henry F. J. A., and J. E. Speight, Mrs. Annie McDaniel and Mrs. E. L. Edwards, all of Greenville; two daughters and two sons by his second marriage: Mrs. Lloyd Vincent, Johnnie L. Speight Jr., and Earl E. Speight, of Greenville, Mrs. A. B. Noe of Long Island, N. Y., 31 grandchildren; 12 great grandchildren; a brother, Charlie Speight of near Greenville, and a sister, Mrs. Florence Williams of Greenville.

Red Oak News

The hungry people from over the world are reaching out their hands to us who live in a "land of plenty" and on Sunday morning at the Sunday School hour a free-will offering will be taken for the Christian Rural Overseas Program. This money will be used to help send dried milk to the foreign countries of India, Korea and others. We hope that every man, woman and child in Red Oak community will have a part in this Christian project.
