Sleigh Is Ready For Santa Tomorrow

Santa's sleigh and reindeer have arrived from the North Pole to ride in tomorrow's annual Santa Claus Parade slated for 3:45 p.m. Old Santa will make his first appearance in Greenville in the sleigh which will be on a decorated float.

Thousands of people from Greenville and nearby towns are expected to see the mile-long parade which will feature bands, floats, decorated bicycles, ponies, horses, scouts, floats and children in costumes. Announcement was made this morning that the Ayden Colored School Band, under the direction of Huey Lawrence, would participate.

Interviews Run Smoothly; Negotiations Stalled

POW Talks Draw A Blank

PANMUNJOM (AP)—A second group of 30 South Koreans today unanimously chose life under the Communists, giving Allied persuaders a total blank for two days of efforts to woo home bawky war prisoners.

There was no violence, but many prisoners were more talkative than the 30 who yesterday listened passively to ROK explainers, then chose communism.

The U. N. Command said 30 more South Koreans of 328 who refused repatriation will be interviewed tomorrow.

There was no indication when 22 Americans and 1 Briton who stayed with the Communists will be called.

Negotiators working on plans for a Korean peace conference, meanwhile, met for 3½ hours and apparently made no progress.

U. S. envoy Arthur H. Dean warned the Reds that their insistence on seating Russia as neutral might stall the conference "indefinitely and perhaps forever."

The Communists rejected Dean's plan for setting up a peace conference but did not mention specifically his proposal that Russia attend as a third party with full voting rights rather than as a Communist belligerent or a neutral.

Some South Korean prisoners interviewed Thursday marched into the explanation tents singing Communist songs and chanting slogans.

But the interviews went so smoothly that a young Polish major serving as a repatriation commission observer began nodding and finally went to sleep. He awoke with a start when the session ended.

For the most part the prisoners listened quietly to promises of promotions, back pay, reunions with families and pardons for crimes committed in North Korea. But many tried to wind up the interview with political speeches which Indian tent chairmen cut off quickly.

Other prisoners asked question after question or took voluminous notes as the ROK officers talked.

One POW objected to the recorded voices of his family.

As each interview was completed the prisoner was led away to a separate compound where they are segregated from those not yet interviewed.

Communist explanations to Chinese and North Koreans remained stalled. There have been no sessions for more than two weeks because of Red insistence on calling out prisoners from a compound more than once.

The prisoners refused to come out except on one day and the Indian command will not force them to attend explanations.

Committee Says Career Service Deteriorating

Propose Military Pay Raise

By C. YATES MCDANIEL
WASHINGTON (AP)—A group of generals and admirals called today for a military pay boost and other actions to halt what they termed an alarming deterioration in the career military service.

"Military service has lost much of its attractiveness as a career," said a study committee named by Secretary of Defense Wilson last spring at the direction of President Eisenhower.

"Unless the present trend of career personnel leaving the service can be reversed, most serious consequences to the national defense effort will result."

Asst. Secretary of Defense John Hannah, in making public the report of the five-man committee, said it would receive careful attention from the military services.

1,000th Victim

RALEIGH (AP)—An automobile went out of control, smashed into a tree and then burned on highway U. S. 52 in Forsyth County yesterday. The wreck claimed the life of John W. James, 42, of Sumter, S. C., and he became the 1,000th person to die on North Carolina's highways this year.

The Highway Patrol, in reporting the 1,000th fatality, was hopeful the number of highway deaths this year will be somewhat less than last year's toll. It reported that last year the 1,000 mark was reached on Dec. 2, and this year the grim milestone was reached one day later.

The Defense Department and the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Hannah added, called for release of the report implied neither its approval nor acceptance in every respect.

An earlier report submitted by the group, headed by Rear Adm. J. P. Womble Jr., was turned back by Hannah for further study and rewriting. The report as issued today, moreover, omitted the committee's specific allocation of blame for many of the weaknesses the group found in the current military morale situation.

It is understood that the report as completed by the group listed the public, the press, Congress and the President's own Bureau of the Budget as being among sources of the difficulties it concluded exist.

Among its conclusions and recommendations, the committee of two admirals and three generals said:

1. There is a "positive danger" that budget cutting considerations might be permitted to "transcend" the attainment of combat effectiveness which "must be achieved at whatever cost."

2. The Defense Department should press for a cost-of-living increase in military pay scales as a major means of holding good men in competition with private industry. A committee aide told reporters, in reply to questions, that the group had in mind an increase amounting to about 8 percent.

3. Service leaders must accept blame for yielding to popular and "political pressure" in adopting after World War II policies which served to diminish the distinction between ranks and to force officers and enlisted men into a "common social pattern."

4. There should be prompt restoration of fringe benefits and an end to what the report called "whittling away of extras which military men have traditionally considered to be part of their income. On this point the report stated that "pressure groups of business interests have emasculated many of these benefits," and that the benefits have been the "continuous targets of congressional economy attacks." The report concluded that fringe benefits must be fully restored, declared by law to be a part of service pay, and in some cases increased.

Among these benefits the committee listed incentive and hazardous duty pay, sea and foreign duty pay, medical and dental care for dependents, better and cheaper housing and more provision for the education of service children.

Driver Waited, Waited, Waited

CHANDLER, Okla. (AP)—Policeman Hank Albritton promptly arrested a motorist for drunkenness when the driver, holding up traffic for blocks, demanded indignantly, "When's that light going to change?"

The Red light he was referring to was part of downtown Chandler's new Christmas decorations.

State Historical Work Awards Tonight

RALEIGH (AP)—The North Carolina Society for the Preservation of Antiquities held its 13th annual session here today as Tar Heel cultural societies continued a 4-day series of meetings.

The program was highlighted by election of officers and reports on restoration and preservation projects.

At tonight's session, Charles A. Cannon awards will be presented for distinguished work in historical research and preservation.

The North Carolina Folklore Society, the State Literary and Historical Assn., and the North Carolina Society of County and Local Historians will meet tomorrow. The sessions will close Saturday morning with a meeting of the Society of Mayflower Descendants in the state of North Carolina.

Three awards will be announced tomorrow at the meeting of the literary and historical group. These include the Roanoke - Chowan award for poetry, the AAUW award for juvenile literature, and the R. D. W. Connor award.

A Cherokee Indian, Going Back Chitlosky of Cherokee, received a purchase award last night in the State Art Society's annual art competition. He won for his wood sculpture, "Great Horned Owl."

Others receiving purchase awards were Kenneth Ness of Chapel Hill, for his painting, "Night Flight," and John Chapman Lewis of Washington, D. C., for his painting, "Night Travelers."

A committee selected the works of Chitlosky, Lewis and Ness from six entries recommended by a jury of experts. The winners are paid the purchase price from a $1,000 fund made available annually by the society to buy top entries for the State Art Gallery's collection. The winners were announced following an illustrated lecture by Hobson Pittman, noted artist of Bryn Mawr, Pa., a native of Tarboro. Pittman is an instructor in painting at Pennsylvania State College.

After his lecture, a reception and preview of the society's 16th annual art exhibition was held at the State Art Gallery.

The Roanoke Island Historical Assn. set the operating dates for the 1954 "Lost Colony" pageant. It will begin its 14th season June 26 and close Sept. 7.

The association also re-elected its officers and approved a 99-year lease of 10 acres near the "Lost Colony" theatre site to the North Carolina Garden Club for development as an Elizabethan garden.

The State Art Society was told that plans are expected to be completed early next month for renovating the old State Highway Building to house the North Carolina Museum of Art.

Edward Waugh, who was appointed architect for the project by the State Board of Building and Grounds, said actual work prob-

Laniel, Churchill Await Eisenhower For Big 3 Parley

TUCKER'S TOWN, Bermuda (AP)—France's Premier Joseph Laniel arrived today for the Big Three Bermuda Conference, reportedly determined to press for new long term pledges of support in Europe from Britain and the United States.

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden were on hand at Kindley Field to meet Laniel, his Foreign Minister Georges Bidault, and a team of 17 experts from the French Foreign Office. President Eisenhower will arrive tomorrow for the five days conferences which open each afternoon.

Laniel was reported also ready to tell Britain and the United States that France is prepared to examine any peace offers made officially by Ho Chi Minh, the Moscow-educated General who has been directing the long war in Indochina against the French.

To the Americans, the major task of the conference is to prod the balky French National Assembly into ratifying the European Defense Community Pact. It provides for unified West European army including troops from France's long-time enemy Germany.

Laniel can promise nothing because his government must resign Jan. 17, a month after France's new President is elected. But he reportedly was bringing a raft of conditions which French sources say must be met before there is any chance for Assembly approval of German rearmament.

These include:

1. British-American agreement to pressure the West Germans into agreeing that the Saar Basin, rich in coal and steel, will remain politically autonomous but linked economically to France. It was German before World War II and the Germans want it back.
2. British and American assurances that they won't pull their troops off the continent and leave the French to face rearmaged Germans alone.
3. Continued American help against the Communist-led rebels in Indochina, or Allied diplomatic support for a negotiated settlement with Ho Chi Minh's forces.
4. British-American agreement to Moscow's proposal for a Big Four foreign ministers meeting.

Of these, only the Saar seems a major stumbling block.

Resurgent West Germany so far has given no sign of conceding anything on that question.

Condemn Acts

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The U. N. General Assembly today expressed its "grave concern" at Red atrocities in Korea and approved an American call for stiff condemnation of such actions.

Over bitter Soviet opposition, the 60-nation Assembly approved a Western-sponsored resolution of condemnation by a vote of 42 to 5 with 19 abstentions.

The balloting followed three days of vitriolic debate in which Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., of the United States accused the North Koreans and Chinese Communists of killing nearly 38,000 U. N. soldiers and civilians in Korea as a part of high Kremlin policy.

Korea Veterans Pinpoint Pattern Of Red Brutality

By EDWIN B. HAAKINSON
WASHINGTON (AP)—Seven more Korean War veterans, witnesses to Communist atrocities, were called today to tell their stories in public.

Sen. Potter (R-Mich.), presiding at the Senate hearings, said they would help pinpoint a pattern of Communist brutality and torture.

Men and officers who were left as dead by Korean Communists unfolded a gruesome story of personal heroism and survival at the opening sessions yesterday before Potter's one-man Senate investigations subcommittee.

After listening to these accounts, Potter said the Korean War may prove to be "the most courageous chapter in American military history."

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, Army chief of staff and former commander in Korea said evidence showed a "studied and calculated course of criminal misconduct" by Communist leaders "to exterminate prisoners of war in one way or another."

As a result, he said American soldiers now will get tougher training "for their sake and for their country's honor and integrity."

The hearings were timed to strengthen support for the resolution now pending before the United Nations Assembly to condemn such atrocities.

Lt. Col. Jack Todd, head of an Army commission collecting data on Korean War criminals, was the leadoff witness today.

Speeders Nabbed By Timing Device

Greenville police put their new speed timing device into operation on one of the highway approaches into the city limits late yesterday afternoon and nabbed five drivers on charges of speeding.

Three of the five persons arrested for speeding while the timing device was in operation yesterday afternoon were residents of Greenville, Police Chief S. G. Gibbs said.

Gibbs pointed out the timing device recently purchased by the police department to check speeding on city streets is being used several days a week in an effort to curb the excessive speeds of vehicles on the city streets.

"We're going to keep pushing this thing until the people learn to slow down and abide by the speed laws set up by the city," the chief said.

Previously Judge Charles Whedbee of the city recorder's court had pointed out the new device is being not to "trap" motorists for speed violations, but to impress upon them the necessity for abiding by the speed laws in the interest of traffic safety in the city.

McCarthy Sticks To His Opinions

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) stuck to his guns today in his disagreement with the administration on foreign policy, but said any contention that he is challenging President Eisenhower's G.O.P. leadership is "both ridiculous and untrue."

In a prepared statement, McCarthy said "I will continue to give my utmost support to the Republican Party now and in the future," but he emphasized:

"This does not mean that I will refrain from criticizing my party when I think it is making mistakes."

He praised both Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles in the statement, but said he still thinks this country should refuse dollar aid to any allied nation "shipping any goods to Communist China so long as a single American remained in a Communist blood-stained dungeon."

"On this matter Secretary Dulles and I are in complete disagreement," McCarthy said.

"In a republic such as ours there must be room for honest difference of opinion. I respect the honesty and sincerity of purpose of Secretary Dulles."

"However, I have such deep convictions on this subject that I shall continue to discuss the matter at every opportunity and I urge Secretary Dulles to reappraise our whole policy in this regard."

"It is my hope that such a reappraisal may result in a change of policy in this respect."

McCarthy's statement was a reply to the one-two punch thrown at him by Eisenhower and Dulles as a result of McCarthy's radio-TV speech last week criticizing administration foreign policy.

Dulles hit at McCarthy's views Tuesday as striking at the very heart of United States foreign policy. Yesterday President Eisenhower said he was in full accord with Dulles' statements.

Eisenhower also took issue with the Wisconsin senator's declaration that the Communists in government issue will be a major one in next year's Congressional election.

The President appeared, however, to have left the door open for full-blown continuation of Congressional hunts for spies and subversives reportedly active in the government during the Truman administration.

Tornado Leaves 8 Persons Dead

ALEXANDRIA, La. (AP)—A tornado skipped across central Louisiana early today, killing eight persons, injuring at least 20 others and ripping homes and other buildings.

Six persons were killed at the rural community of Leander, about 20 miles southwest of Alexandria. Two infants were reported dead at Tullos about 40 miles north of Alexandria.

The Vernon Parish sheriff's office at Leesville identified the persons killed at Leander as Mrs. Charity Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland Smith and their daughter, name unknown, and Herman Nelson and his small child, Mrs. Jured.

Batson was reported critically injured.

The Lasalle Parish sheriff's office at Jena said the one-month-old child of Davis Prestidge and the child of John Pendarvis, about 18 months, were killed at Tullos. Fifteen persons were reported injured there.

The Lasalle officials said at least 20 houses were destroyed or damaged at Tullos.

At the Paradise community, 10 miles north of here, four highway employees sleeping in a trailer were carried on a wild 100-yard ride by the raging winds, but were unhurt.

ROK Turncoat Quietly Said 'No' To Pleadings

PANMUNJOM (AP)—The prisoner of war, a South Korean, was in his early 20s. He smoked a cigarette, his face impassive.

Across the small table from him today, a South Korean major expounded the attractions of the republic over Communist North Korea.

An Indian guard spoke, "You should listen to the explainer."

"Tung-moo," the young major said, "Comrade."

It was not the Communist salutation, but the South Korean address of a soldier to a soldier.

"Tung-moo, do you want the interview to continue?"

"Yes, please continue."

The major laid aside his notes. "Your absence has brought tears to the eyes of your mother," he said.

"The scientists say that a tear is just water. I think they are right—but I think there is something more."

"I think there is love in a tear. Your mother is crying and waiting for you."

The prisoner did not answer. He went on scribbling notes.

When the major stopped speaking the prisoner jumped to his feet.

"You know South Korea as well as I do," he said. "That is why I am going north."

"I will see you one day."

The major replied, softly, patiently.

"I know everything about South Korea," the captive interjected. "I am sure you must know why I chose freedom and decided not to return to South Korea."

An Indian guard spoke, "You should listen to the explainer."

"Tung-moo," the young major said, "Comrade."

Dessert Bridge Given For Miss Henderson

Mrs. Craven Hughes, Mrs. Lynwood Grixson and Miss Frances Tucker complimented Miss Dorothy Nell Henderson Tuesday night at dessert bridge at the Woman's Club.

A Christmas motif was used throughout the two front parlors of the club where five tables were set up for play. The mantels were decorated with Christmas gum drop trees and a lovely arrangement of yellow chrysanthemums was placed on one of the console tables.

In one room an auxiliary table was overlaid with a red cloth and centered with a large whirl candle and in the opposite parlor another table held a piece of drift wood decorated with candy, tinsel and silvered balls.

For the dessert hour each table was centered with a white candle tied with green net. Table prizes given at each table were Santa Claus made of gum drops, spices, apples and marshmallows.

Heavenly hash and homemade fruit cake was served during the dessert hour. During the progressions light punch and nuts were passed.

Mrs. Horton, Woman's Club hostess, catered the party. Mrs. E. L. Henderson, mother of the bride-elect, joined the other guests for refreshments.

High score prizes were won by Mrs. Ben Harrison and Miss Mary Alice Howard.

A large cut glass coaster with sterling silver rim was presented to Miss Henderson from the hostesses.

Dr. Marshall Talks Before Round Table

Mrs. Sprull Spain was hostess to the Round Table Tuesday afternoon. Her guests were Mrs. H. D. Fuller, Mrs. G. S. Mustain, Mrs. H. H. Settle and Mrs. C. H. Hinchey of High Point.

The home was artistically decorated with clusters of magnolia leaves, branches of pine arranged with red berries, and vases of white chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Charles O. H. Horne Sr., the president of the club, presided at the business session. Mrs. Howard Porter introduced Dr. W. E. Marshall who gave an enlightening and scholarly talk as a summary of two addresses at the American Political Science Association meeting in Washington, D.C. last September by Mr. Hammerschmidt, secretary of the United Nations from Norway, and Henry Cabot Lodge III, American ambassador to the United Nations.

The topic of Dr. Marshall's talk was, "The Same World Still?"

"Our ambassador to the United Nations agrees with the general feeling among the people at large that the world is in a state of confusion, and that the problems of today will continue to be the problems of tomorrow until man has found the secret of defeating the enemies of international order and peace." These enemies, he says, are:

1. War as a means of settling international disputes. 2. Nationalism. 3. Sovereignty. 4. Overpopulation. 5. Ideological Universalism. 6. Economic nationalism. 7. Racial discrimination.

Continuing the club travelogue on the Caribbean, Mrs. Daniel Taylor talked on Trinidad. She told of its climate, resources, entertainments, and of the social life of the inhabitants.

Guests and members were then invited into the dining room. From an attractive table covered with an imported cloth and centered with an arrangement of white chrysanthemums, Mrs. H. H. Settle served a sweet course, and Mrs. Charles Horne Sr. poured coffee.

Requirements In Reporting Traffic Accidents Will Change On January 1

RALEIGH—The requirements for reporting traffic accidents will be completely changed from the present system beginning January 1, when North Carolina's new Safety Responsibility Law goes into effect, Edward Scheidt announced today.

Motorists involved in accidents will not only be required to make two reports instead of one, as at present, but the method of reporting, the places where reports are to be filed, and the amount of property damage involved will also be substantially different.

In order to correct any confusion or misunderstanding, Commissioner Scheidt issued the following step-by-step explanation of how the new reporting system will work on and after January 1:

"The first thing to understand is that a reportable accident under the new Motor Vehicle Safety Responsibility Law is one in which a person has been killed or even slightly injured, or the total apparent property damage is $100 or more. There are a number of important things that call for brief explanation right here.

"The first is that the amount of property damage involved is increased from $25, as at present, to $100. The second is that the word 'total' means all property damage combined, not just the damage to one car or other property of one person. If one car, for instance, sustains $35 damage and another $80, in the eyes of the law the total damage is $115 and the accident most certainly is reportable.

"Motorists should also be careful not to under-estimate the amount of property damage. Motor vehicle repairs are costly these days, and that should be taken into consideration. In addition, damaged clothing, damage to fences or buildings, broken eyeglasses and many other things must be included in the calculations. If there is any doubt about the amount of property damage, my advice is to make both reports and be safe. There are stern penalties for wilful failure to report or fraudulent reporting.

"The next thing to remember is that the driver of every car involved in a reportable accident must file two reports, regardless of fault. Even if one driver assumes all blame and offers to take care of the damage through his insurance; or if a pedestrian who is slightly injured refuses medical examination and says forget the whole thing, go right ahead and file both reports. The law says this must be done—and, furthermore, people sometimes change their mind after thinking things over.

"Now a word about the two accident reports, and here we find several vital changes in the law. At present, motorists are required to report only once and it need not be written. Beginning January 1 they must make two reports, each to a different place, and one of them must be written and on an official form. The time for filing is also changed.

"Under the new law, the first report must be made immediately and by the quickest means of communication. Thus, this one does not have to be written. If the accident occurred in a municipality, the report must be made to the local police. If it occurred outside of a municipality, it must be made to the State Highway Patrol, the sheriff, or any other qualified rural police of the county in which it occurred.

"The second report must be filed within 24 hours with the State Department of Motor Vehicles. This one must be written and the new official form must be used. A supply of these forms has been deposited with all State Highway Patrol stations, the Department of Motor Vehicles, all police departments and all sheriff's offices. Any motorist can obtain one of these forms at any time without cost. It would be helpful to get one now, study it, and keep it on hand in case of ill luck.

"This report calls for answers to many questions. They must be answered accurately and adequately. The information sought is for the protection of the person making the report quite as much as the rest of the people. Take the questions about insurance, for instance. If they aren't answered, the Department will assume the car or driver was uninsured and will proceed against him under the security provisions of the new law. Yet, if he had insurance, he was exempt from the remaining provisions of the new law after having filed his report.

"Most certainly motorists who do not understand the new system will have difficulty if they learn about it for the first time in the midst of an accident. Those who do understand it, however, will find it both simple and protective. That is the reason this statement is being issued."

Vishinsky Asked Defend Himself

NEW YORK (AP)—Andre Vishinsky, Soviet deputy foreign minister, has been invited to appear before a House committee and "defend himself" on the issue of Russian seizure of three Baltic nations.

Last Tuesday Alfred Derzins, former Latvian cabinet member, said in Washington that Vishinsky was in charge when Russia took over his country, Lithuania and Estonia.

Derzins told his story to a special House committee headed by Rep. Kersten (R-Wis). The committee was set up to investigate the Soviet seizure of the Baltic nations.

The committee opens public hearings today.

Actor Convicted In Driving Case

CULVER CITY, Calif. (AP)—Actor Steve Cochran was convicted yesterday of reckless driving and fined $100.

A policeman testified before Judge O. Benton Worley that he had to fire a warning shot to bring the actor's $6,000 sports car to a halt last Nov. 8.

Officer Roger Deveux said he stopped Cochran after a five-mile chase and was told by the actor: "You never would have caught me if you hadn't shot—that wasn't very fair."

Cases Heard In City Police Court

By CHESTER WALSH

In Police Court Wednesday, Judge Charles H. Whedbee disposed of 15 cases. Twelve of them involved motor vehicle law violations; one was for non-support, one for assaulting a female, and one for being drunk.

Elias Washington, following too close, prayer for judgment continued on payment of $10. The judgment also provides that the defendant is not to operate a motor vehicle for 60 days unless he makes restitution to Henry Cherry for property damage.

Charles G. Lewis, Route 1, Grimesland, failure to heed a siren, prayer for judgment continued on payment of $5 on court costs. The judgment also provides that he is not to operate a motor vehicle for 30 days.

Robert Freeman following too close and careless and reckless driving, both cases, not prosed.

William L. Jones, Route 5, Greenville, failure to yield right of way, prayer for judgment continued on payment of $15 on court costs. The judgment also provides that he is to make adequate restitution for property damage. The court found Jones not guilty of careless and reckless driving.

James Teel, Negro, failure to give hand signals and careless and reckless driving, both cases not prosed.

Matthew Artis, Negro, failure to yield right of way, prayer for judgment continued on payment of court costs.

Joseph B. Stocks, failure to yield right of way, not guilty.

Roy C. Dall, 1313 South Washington street, prayer for judgment continued on payment of $20, costs deducted. The judgment also provides that Dall is not to operate a motor vehicle unless he makes restitution for property damage to James T. Smith. The case charging Dall with failure to keep proper lookout was combined with the other case.

Non-support: Bruce Reddick, Negro, six months on the roads, sentence suspended on payment of $15 for support for his family before being released. The judgment also provides that he is to pay $15 a week for support of his family, beginning December 5.

Assault on a female (his wife): Joseph T. Gaskins, Negro, 30 days in jail or pay $10 on costs.

Drunk: Turner Joyner, Negro, 30 days in jail or pay $10 on costs.

Doctors Dislike The Late Calls

ST. LOUIS (AP)—What annoys doctors more than anything else? A number of doctors attending the annual American Medical Assn. clinic session here said the "late call" which gets them out of bed when they could have been called earlier.

Most of the doctors agreed that 11 p.m. seemed to be the peak hour for unnecessary calls.

Engineer Saves Old Pavement

TRENTON, N. J. (AP)—State Highway Engineer Edward W. Kilpatrick, ordinarily all business, today revealed he is as sentimental as the rest of us.

His department is going to widen and repave a section of Route 24—the first concrete highway ever built in New Jersey. It would mean burying the last bit of the original concrete, laid down in 1912.

"That's a little more than I could reconcile myself to," said Kilpatrick, and ordered a five-foot square of the old concrete cut out and saved. It will be set into the new pavement at the surface for all to see.

Kilpatrick was an engineer for the contracting firm that built the road 40 years ago.

Auditor Objects To His Budget

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Auditor Clarence H. Hackmann, who helped prepare the budget, entered a firm objection to approving the proposed expenditures when they came up before the St. Louis County Council.

Hackmann's own annual salary, an $8,500 item, was missing from the proposed budget.

A deputy omitted the auditor's salary, Hackmann said, while preparing the salary listings. The error wasn't discovered until the budget had been submitted.

Council Chairman Charles R. Skow added Hackmann's missing salary to the $49,832 office salary budget, still pending before the group.

Problem Which Faces Eastern Carolina

Those who take note of the sharp increase in the number of unemployment insurance claims filed in the Pitt office of the Employment Security Commission about this time every year are aware that the local area has an economic problem for which it has not found an answer.

Greenville and Pitt County are, of course, not alone in this respect. The same problem faces practically every community in which tobacco processing—a seasonal industry—is a major industry.

So far as we know, no community in a similar situation has found a satisfactory answer to the problem of providing off-season employment for many people who work in tobacco factories. If a sound, practical, satisfactory answer could be found to the problem, it would mean a great deal to Greenville, Farmville, Wilson, Kingston, Rocky Mount and other communities in which tobacco processing is a major industry.

During October when the tobacco season was at its peak and processing plants were at full employment, there were only 16 unemployment claims filed in Pitt County. Since then, the factories have virtually completed their operations for the season, and unemployment claims filed with the local office by last week had jumped to 830. If the usual pattern is followed, the number of such claims will continue to push upward at a rapid rate for several more weeks before it levels off.

Not all of the claims, of course, come from people who worked in tobacco processing plants, but a large percentage of them are. Likewise, a large percentage of the claims are from women.

The condition is not one which will be remedied overnight. It is one which has existed for many, many years, and probably will continue for years to come.

If some means could be found to provide "off-season" employment for many of those who are now on the "unemployed" rolls several months of the year, it would be an important economic factor to the communities in Eastern North Carolina which face the problem.

One Direction For Aircraft Industry

This Air Age is turning into a complicated maze in which there seems only one direction to go: forward.

The aircraft industry, in particular, and men devoted to study of the airplane in terms of national defense, have been drumming up the theme "don't force our plane-makers to cancel out their research and production lines."

Why? Because it takes so much time to get the "wheels" turning again once they've been stopped. That applies to production as well as the work of researchers.

Consider: new aircraft designs require a typical major manufacturer to produce more than two million square feet of blueprints each month; it takes 8,854 parts and 87 different kinds of specialists to create one of the big jet engines; one company counts more than 4,000 subcontractors and suppliers in its production chain; it takes more than 165,000 tools to build a modern jet bomber.

The staggering facts on the size and intricacies of plane production could go on and on, but you get the idea.

Only today is the military output at its approximately scheduled peak (roughly equal to that of the USSR) and the present pace has been years in achieving.

New advances and developments are constantly moving to the fore and the plant worker is in a continuous process of learning new skills, new production tricks, new functions. We'd venture to guess it would take a long time to train a newcomer to the field until he became a skilled worker.

The advances in design, too, are a sort of pyramidal development. Each new accomplishment towards creating a better aircraft is largely based upon some past improvement.

Can one imagine what would happen if the whole process were suddenly stopped?

The airplane, in peace or war, is becoming a more important part of our lives than most people yet realize. In our absorption with the problems of the moment we must not lose sight of the fact that the health of that industry is all-important to the nation today and tomorrow.

GREATEST OF DANGERS

"I place economy among the first and most important of Republican virtues, and public debt as the greatest of the dangers to be feared."

That was written nearly a century and a half ago, by one of the ablest of our Presidents, Thomas Jefferson. And it applies with infinitely more force to the conditions that exist now against the conditions that existed then.—(Industrial News Review)

BALTIMORE, MD., DAILY RECORD: "The power of Labor, when used to further the legitimate interests of the working men, is an asset to our economy, but when the power of Labor is exercised in ways that are obviously against the public interest then that power becomes a menace."

candidate on a Stevenson ticket.

CLARIFICATION IN WHITE CASE—Former President Truman's political and journalistic friends have now pulled down their defense of the Harry Dexter White promotion to the fact that evidence presented to a New York Grand Jury in 1947—more than a year after FBI warnings of the Treasury official's disloyalty—was insufficient to obtain an indictment.

But FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, whose political detachment and independence are not questioned, clarified this point in a generally overlooked exchange with Jay Sourwine, Assistant Counsel to the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee.

"You say," asked Sourwine, "that you took a strong stand in favor of ousting subversives from Government without waiting for a trial or sufficient evidence to convict in court?"

HIGHLY CONFIDENTIAL MATERIAL—"I opposed," replied Hoover, "the production in court at that time, or the presentation to a Grand Jury, of some of the material because of its highly confidential nature."

"These sources could not be produced in court because of the nature of them (The information had been obtained by wiretapping—Ed Note). That is the position I took on that."

"I never did at any time, and the records of the bureau will conclusively sustain this statement, ever recommend to any agency of the Government, or ask any agency of the Government, to retain in its service any employee, to aid the FBI in the conduct of any investigation."

FBI DIRECTOR CLEARS BROWNELL—Hoover also cleared Attorney-General Herbert Brownell Jr. of the charge that the latter had used the FBI's secret files illegally or politically. According to the Director, he had no objection to his superior's action in making public a general summary of their content and making his own evaluation of them.

It is largely because of this support of the A.G. that certain Democrats now talk of firing the top G-man, when they return to power.

Somebody Told Me

Private Business Takes Over

Car registration in Greenville continues to rise as it does everywhere in America. The parking problem consequently grows more intense and to save our downtown business something must be done.

The Jolly-Ficklen Company has opened a lot on the East side of Cotacote Street between 1st and 2nd streets. Parking for 30 cars is available for 10 cents an hour or $1.00 for 24 hours. James Worsley rents 20 spaces on a monthly basis ($3.50 a month or $10 for three months) in the lot behind the Pollard Building and the Worsley Building at the corner of East Third and Cotacote streets.

Mr. Worsley's lot is nearly full; only five spaces are available. Business and professional men are renting spaces there in order to alleviate the non-metered section downtown.

The Jolly-Ficklen venture is comparatively new. Van B. Stokes is operating the lot and urges your use of it.

Greenville people, me included, have this weakness which must be overcome as the parking problem mounts: We are too lazy to walk a few blocks. If we are in Raleigh and have to park half a mile from our destination we accept the circumstances with little grumbling. But in Greenville we'll ride around the block a dozen times in order to park within a few feet of the destination.

This is something that we must get out of our heads. The space is limited and the cars continue to increase. Both the Jolly-Ficklen lot and the Worsley lot are within easy walking distance of any downtown business firm. With progress, other lots will be provided. Obviously, they cannot be free lots. If space is to be provided in the future it will either be metered or rental, because of the value of the property.

By the time you ride all over town looking for a space your car expense is more than the toll for a rental space. That leaves the distance as the problem that we must overcome. Most of us fall to exercise enough anyway. And whether we like it or not we are going to have to park somewhere away from the stores because every indication is that the traffic problem will grow more intense.

And I thank you.

What Other Editors Are Thinking

CONTINUING THE STIMULUS

(Henderson Dispatch)

Many cities and towns in North and South Carolina have been stimulated into civic activities these past two years by the prospect of pulling down one or more of the Carolina Power & Light Company's generous cash prizes offered in the Finner Carolina program. They have improved and facilities of one kind or another that might have received little or no attention but for the incentive provided by the power company in taking the lead to this end in communities it serves.

It is cheering news that the company is to continue the prizes in 1954, which will be the third year. Both urban and rural projects will again be included, as was true this year. The company is performing a distinct service to dozens of towns and cities in the two States in posting cash awards for improvements judged to be the most outstanding of those entered in the competition.

Period of the 1953 competition ended November 30, and scrapbooks are due by December 15 from the 108 towns entered in the contest. Winners will be announced in February after judges have had opportunity to examine and evaluate achievements of all communities entered. Winners will share a $9,550 distribution in cash.

Entries will be admitted until February 1 for 1954. The same amount of money will be offered in prizes next year as this.

Obsolescence Catching Up With Highways And Streets

By LYNN NISBET
ROADS—Roads and streets do wear out, as everybody knows, and have to be rebuilt. It is becoming more and more obvious even to the casual observer that highways are victims of obsolescence to greater degree than of depreciation due to wear and tear.

Many miles of primary highways in North Carolina are not doing the job of carrying traffic loads demanded, although they are in better condition than they were when first built 20 to 30 years ago. The trouble is that grades and curves designed for 25 mile speed and two ton weight are utterly inadequate to carry cars at 50 miles an hour and weight loads up to 30 tons.

A large part of the money now being spent on primary highways is for by-passes around towns, for widening bridges and straightening curves, although the physical condition of the streets and bridges may be as good now as ever. The fast-changing traffic pattern has already rendered obsolete some by-passes built since the end of World War II. Traffic congestion in downtown areas has made some streets practically useless as throughways, although the surface of the street is just as strong and smooth, perhaps in better condition than when first opened.

The continuing trend of population and trade to the suburbs and the new industrial expansion program add to the worries of the road-planners—and to the total cost of road building. Just a few days ago a new bridge was opened across the Cape Fear, made necessary largely by the big Riegel paper plant. Now comes announcement that installation of the huge ammunition depot between Wilmington and Southport will necessitate permanent closing of several miles of NC 130, the popular "River Road." It is recalled that not many years ago the TVA project at Fontana required relocation of many miles of highway and several miles of railroad track in Swain county. Something more than a million dollars is in process of being spent now to straighten the road from Topton to Robbinsville in Graham county and build a new access to Fontana. Not because the old roads were worn out, but because they are obsolete and utterly inadequate to accommodate the traffic load imposed upon them.

EXPENSIVE—This highway modernization program is an expensive proposition. It costs a lot of money to build the new roads, and in some instances even more to acquire rights of way. Right of way costs are particularly high in cities. So is the related item of off-street parking space. Paradoxical as it may seem, the cost of not widening streets and failure to provide parking space may be heavier than the cost of doing the job.

A recent study by the Highway Users Conference developed some interesting facts on this point. Records of the American Municipal Association were quoted to show that down town valuations in several key cities—Baltimore, Detroit, Kansas City, Rochester—declined as much as $60 to $200 million in ten years, due largely to lost business because of traffic congestion. Silver Spring, Maryland, is cited as an example where establishment of nine county-owned parking lots was an important factor in raising real estate values from $1 to $5 per square foot. Enhanced value of $3 million at Ann Arbor, Michigan, was credited to the same factor—provision for off-street parking.

Besides the effect upon property values, the HUC study showed tremendous increase in operation costs of vehicles bogged down in traffic. There was also the more important factor of higher accident ratio.

PLANNING—The highway and traffic engineers are faced with the double-barreled problem of correcting the existing evils and anticipating future requirements. The second part of the job is harder. If the engineers three decades ago could have foreseen the development in motorized transportation many of the current problems would have been avoided.

It is entirely probable that some of the intricate clover-leaf and four-lane arrangements now being installed may become obsolete in 25 years as are the 1925 roads now, although still entirely capable of handling the traffic load for which they were built.

IMAGINATIVE—There are those who think the traffic problem may be solved by smaller cars rather than wider roads. These imaginative fellows point to the stupidity of a mechanical behemoth hauling one person—who has trouble finding a place to park the machine. A much smaller machine powered by atomic energy and susceptible of easier manipulation, but without loss of speed or comfort, is not an impossible development. The political shibboleth of "two cars in every garage" and "grass growing on the streets" may become a reality in our time.

If that sounds completely crazy, it is necessary only to think back a few years to prove it is not. Many people now living have seen the horse drawn street car give way to the trolley, the trolley to the gasoline bus; and they are now seeing gasoline power replaced by Diesels. The same folks have seen wood-burning railroad locomotives replaced with coal and oil and Diesel-generated electricity.

Business Today

Guarantees Wanted

By ELMER ROESSNER
An airplane company laid off 300 men the other day. Know what the men are talking most about today? A guaranteed annual wage. There have been a number of scattered layoffs. The Labor Department reports a "mild" easing of employment since late summer and notes "small to moderate declines in such key centers as Buffalo, Cleveland, Milwaukee, Pittsburgh and San Francisco."

And whenever a man loses a job in a declining labor market, he is likely to start thinking and talking about a guaranteed annual wage.

Union leadership, which now employs economists as good as those working for massive corporations, is aware that it will be more difficult to win large increases next year—in fact, increases this year were more moderate than those in 1952 or 1951. Big rises in 1954 will mean higher prices and it is now apparent that neither consumers nor industrial purchasing agents are going to pay higher prices.

So labor leaders, too, are thinking and talking about guaranteed annual wages as an alternate to further wage increases—and one they have chances of winning.

After a study of the situation, Commerce Clearing House says that "bargaining for guaranteed annual wage plans will take place at an increased rate during 1954 labor contract negotiations."

At the moment, the guaranteed wage is at the historical position occupied by the pension movement when the unions tied off for retirement benefits financed by cents-per-hour contributions.

Unions have gained pensions for a large part of its membership. Maybe it will get the G.A.W. In fact, the possibility that it will come eventually is so strong that the individual business executive may be well advised to spend less time figuring how he can resist the guarantee and more time calculating how he can operate profitably under it. There aren't any perfect answers. If there were, we would have had the G.A.W. years ago. But there are some partial answers. Some of them are:

Planning production schedules on longer-term bases to avoid over-time in one season and layoffs in another; rearranging work schedules so that postponable work such as maintenance, can be done in slack seasons; offering better discounts on orders placed further in advance; producing for inventory only in dull seasons, and bringing out new products that can be manufactured in off seasons.

PLANT CAFETERIAS ASSETS EVEN WHEN IN THE RED
Of companies with cafeterias for workers, 56 per cent have outside contractors operate them, a survey of industrial firms by Mill & Factory discloses. Less than a third of the cafeterias are self-sustaining, 69 per cent being subsidized, with the company paying more than a quarter of the costs in 28 per cent of the cases. However, 98 per cent of the companies polled said that in-plant feeding facilities were an asset as far as employee morale is concerned. 12.5 BILLION MATCHBOOKS BEING GIVEN AWAY
Twelve and a half billion matchbooks are being given away this year, the Match Industry Information Bureau reports. A total of 260,000, companies are spending $27,000,000 for these matches.

In addition to commercial advertisements, matchbooks are carrying messages for public welfare campaigns, safety drives and plant morale.

Nothing To It, Except Ability

By HAL BOFLE
NEW YORK (AP)—All who want to live into their 80th year should take a few tips from Winston Churchill.

He is the best known artist of living in our time. Why? It can be put into one word—gusto.

"All babies look like me," he quipped once. And he has retained the qualities that mark all healthy children—imagination, curiosity, enthusiasm, and the desire to keep on growing up. Churchill was born with a silver spoon in his mouth, saw it change to brass, and by his own efforts turned it into gold.

The human race may number many in its long history who out-lived him, but none who crowded so many hours with so much pure zest, none who had a greater appetite for living. American football brags about its 60-minute player, but in the tremendous battle of life Churchill has seen nearly 60 years of continuous action—and at 79 is still going at a gallop.

How has he been able to do it? His own words and a study of his career give the answer. He has been able to take everything in stride.

Most men are afraid of death, defeat and responsibility. Churchill has never been afraid to be greatly right or greatly wrong. He has never run from death or hesitated to outface fear. He has undertaken mighty responsibilities, not as irksome duties but as welcome adventures.

"Power, for the sake of lording it over fellow creatures of adding to personal pomp, is rightly judged base," he wrote. "But power in a national crisis, when a man believes he knows what orders should be given, is a blessing."

Churchill has never lost faith in himself, in victory or defeat. He never took his goals too lightly or himself too seriously. He has never lost his sense of humor. "If Hitler invaded Hell," he said once, "I would make at least a favorable reference to the Devil in the House of Commons."

Churchill would have been completely at home in any age—from the dawn of the caveman to the dawn of the next century, which he is currently trying to redesign. Perhaps the nearest man America has produced like him were Benjamin Franklin and Thomas Jefferson, although neither went at quite his pace.

"This world is a fen," said Churchill, and although his last big hope is to turn it into a peaceful garden, he loved the wars along the way almost as much as the roses.

He is an actor, a painter, an orator, a statesman, philosopher, warrior, and literary genius. He wrote fine history, and he made fine history—with both his words and his deeds.

His restless mind plumbed all pleasures of body and spirit, questioned all creeds, yet was unashamed to pray for succor to a God whose ways he couldn't understand.

"The idea that nothing is true except what we comprehend is silly," he said, in summing up his youthful religious doubt. Churchill has played and worked with equal fervor all his life, and yet is a stout defender of the afternoon nap.

"The rest and the spell of sleep in the middle of the day refresh the human frame far more than a long night," he wrote. "We were not made by nature to work, or even to play, from 8 o'clock in the morning till midnight. We throw a strain upon our system which is unfair and improvident. For every purpose of business or pleasure, mental or physical, we ought to break our days and our marches into two."

So if you want to live a rich full life like Churchill's all you have to do is savor both the sour and sweet of this world, don't be afraid, enjoy your work as much as you play and get that afternoon nap.

Nothing else to it. Except ability.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
GOD'S BIG BEN

In our family we have a kinsman who has just entered upon his 100th year.

You say this is great length of years? Not when viewed in the vast expanse of history. If this man lives to be 100 years old, his life will not be even one second on God's Big Ben. In laboratories they breed animals and get a number of generations every year. God has been watching the stream of history go by the divine reviewing stand now for millions of years. The man who reaches the century mark may be a second on God's Big Ben; you and I are even less than that.

So the time is short for every one of us. The Bible calls human life a day of grace. God has put us down in the midst of a battlefield or sent us in from the side lines to get into the game, and He has said to us as we go, "See what you can do with this situation." At the end of the day, every one of us is bruised and wounded. No matter how hard we play the game, we had to pay a big price for every point we won. And if we do not fight and play our hardest, the bugle will sound and the battle will be over, the whistle will blow and the game will be at an end.

We have one second or less on God's Big Ben. That is not much time to prepare ourselves for an eternal destiny.

Adlai Acts Like A Candidate

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON—Despite Adlai E. Stevenson's continued cynicism with respect to his 1956 plans and prospects, Democratic leaders everywhere now believe that he is an active candidate for a Presidential renomination. His remarks during his recent sally through the South have removed any doubt on the question from their minds.

A key factor in their belief is that the 1952 nominee will not say flatly that he would not like to try it again. His invariable response was that "I don't know my future political plans, and if I did, I wouldn't tell you." That is not the answer of a man who has decided irrevocably to withdraw from politics or public life.

His five-month tour of 30 countries was not the action of a man whose first experience in national politics had embittered or disillusioned him. He actually enjoyed the honors that were showered upon him, although the endless rounds of receptions, dinners, addresses and press conferences wore out the relatively young men who accompanied him. He accumulated a fund of data that would be invaluable to the head of a state.

STEVENS' POLITICAL GROWTH—It is also considered significant that he has rejected scores of lucrative offers to teach, to lecture, to engage in a weekly radio or television program, or to write a newspaper column.

Although willing to express his views on national problems in speeches and interviews, he, apparently, avoids commitments that require him to sound off regularly and hastily, just to meet a deadline. That way he could destroy his public value and usefulness. Finally, he has grown in stature at the very moment when there is a dearth of available candidates in the Party ranks. The New York factor, as a result of Robert F. Wagner's Mayoralty triumph, will probably offer Representative Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. or Averell Harriman as ultra-liberal entries.

But they would face Southern opposition that a more experienced and mellowed Stevenson might not arouse. In fact, there is talk of Senator Richard B. Russell of Georgia as a possible Vice-Presidential

Pitt NCEA Holds Monthly Session Wednesday Night

By BOB ROYETTE
Reflector Staff Writer

STOKES — Pitt County school's business education departments presented the program at the monthly meeting of the county unit of the North Carolina Education Association last night at the Stokes-Paculus High School.

A panel on "What Business Education Means to Me in High School" and a skit entitled "It Happens in Pitt" featured the night's activities at the county-wide teachers meeting.

W.J. Edwards, Jr., principal of the Stokes-Paculus High School, was moderator for the panel. On the panel was an office worker, Miss Joyce Moxing; a housewife, Mrs. Joe Rouse; a college student, Franklin Garris; a veteran, Douglas Stokes; and a high school student, Tanya Anderson. Edwards asked the various members of the panel questions on what business education in high school had meant to each of them.

The skit had a cast of nine, and it showed activities in a typical typing class. Miss Guyla Clark, Ayden business ed teacher, played the part of the teacher in the skit. Mrs. Edna Earle Baker, county high school supervisor, played the part of the supervisor.

The students in the skit were business ed teachers from other county high schools. They were: Jerome Worsley of Chocoma, Mrs. Dorothy Hardy of Belvoir-Falkland, Miss Mavis Brown of Winterville, Mrs. Annie Mae Bunch of Grifton, Mrs. Frances McDonald of Grimesland, and Miss Marjorie Jeanette of Farmville.

Between the panel and the skit seven high school business education students presented a song "A Working." It was written by Miss Jeanette of Farmville and directed by Mrs. Jean Williams of Farmville. Anne Morgan, Peggy Tyson, Clara Flanagan, Jane Russell, Mary Lou Moore, and Faye Mewborn sang the song with Lou Lewis playing the piano.

Prior to the panel and skit the regular business session was held. Paul J. Clark, Winterville principal and president of the local unit of the NCEA, presided. The devotion was presented by Miss Bruce Exum and Edwards, principal at Stokes-Paculus, gave a short welcome address.

A community sing with the audience singing Christmas songs was led by Mrs. Paul Davenport and Mrs. Francis Madry.

D.H. Conley, county superintendent, urged the teachers to caution the children to be extra careful as the Christmas season draws near. He reminded the teachers that one student was involved in a fatal accident on the last day of school prior to Christmas holidays last year.

The superintendent wished Godspeed to those teachers who were leaving for the Armed Forces in the near future.

After Clark adjourned the regular meeting the teachers moved to another part of the school for refreshments.

Brownell Denies Claims FBI Help Was Refused

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Justice Department, denying laxity or refusal to aid in a Denver grand jury tampering case, says 19 FBI agents aided in the investigation.

U.S. District Judge Willis W. Ritter had said last week that the department had refused to assist in an inquiry into jury tampering by Denver gamblers. The judge, then sitting in Denver, could not be reached last night at his home in Salt Lake City.

The Justice Department statement late yesterday did not mention the judge but referred to a "political discussion" of the case—an obvious reference to a discussion of it by Clayton Fritchey, deputy chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

Fritchey, in a television appearance Sunday, declared that Atty. Gen. Brownell reopened the controversial Harry Dexter White case, in part, to divert attention from "a serious situation within the Justice Department." He mentioned Judge Ritter's remarks.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Warren Olney III took note of comments that the Denver case "had been in some way mishandled," and he declared: "There is no substance to this assertion."

Olney said he issued the statement, as head of the Justice Department's Criminal Division, because he had direct supervision on charges of bribery and obstruction of justice. Charles Vigil, a Democrat who prosecuted the case and who was ousted by Brownell as U.S. attorney at Denver about the time it was completed, said "no one is disputing" that the FBI played a part in the case.

He had said earlier that some of his requests for FBI aid were rejected by the Justice Department. Last night, Vigil told a reporter in Denver: "I don't know how many agents were on the case. Just where FBI help started and stopped, I can't say now."

Olney said one phase of the case began with a tip last Sept. 17 that an attempt had been made to bribe a prospective juror and ended Sept. 24 with the arrest of all those involved.

"This record clearly shows," Olney went on, "that this phase of the jury tampering charge originated with the Federal Bureau of Investigation, was fully investigated by the Bureau of Investigation, indictments were returned on the basis of the investigation and testimony of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, and all defendants have been convicted of all charges so far brought to trial."

Achievement Day For 4-H Clubs

The Pitt County Negro 4-H Clubs will hold their annual 4-H Achievement Day program at the National Guard Armory Friday morning, December 4, at 10:30.

Calvin Henderson of Winterville, president of Pitt County Council, will preside. Rev. H. L. Mitchell of Gatesville, a member of the Board of Trustees of State Teachers College, will be the speaker.

W. C. Cooper of Raleigh, 4-H Club specialist, will present the awards and special honors.

The Pitt County 4-H Clubs' exhibit at the State Fair in Raleigh in October will be displayed at the armory Friday. The public is invited.

Talmadge T. Mitchell, assistant Negro county farm agent, and Mrs. Margaret Wade, assistant Negro home demonstration agent, are in charge of arrangements for Achievement Day.

Gardener Killed In Flag Dispute

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—A civilian gardener was shot and killed at the San Diego Marine Corps Recruit Depot yesterday, reportedly in a dispute with a guard over observance of flag-raising ceremonies.

A military court of inquiry was told that Irving V. Lefever, 27, employed at the depot, was shot by Pfc L. C. Camp, who was guarding four Marine prisoners at the time. Deputy County Coroner Oliver M. Ladd said testimony disclosed there was an argument over how the civilian should conduct himself during the flag ceremony.

"It was a tough decision!"

But First Federal Savings & Loan Association convinced me that even a small amount saved each month gradually grew, with dividends, to a big amount over a long period. Besides, saving becomes a habit! A mighty good habit. Yep, I'm sure glad that I finally made the decision to save regularly.

The Cat's Paw

by MARION SALTER

YOU'LL stay right here, Charlotte commanded herself. Wait till your hair dries, clean up the place, do a little laundry—the regular Saturday routine. It's better to be busy. Then you can go and buy the afternoon paper.

It's better to be busy. It was a

Only if the mind was so marvelous, what was she doing here in the middle of the room, stockstill, having forgotten what she started to do? And again her hand, reaching into the drawer, paused in space. She couldn't think why she'd opened the drawer, and she stared and stared at her hand.

And now she began to panic about the possibilities; they perched like grinning gremlins on her shoulder. When they searched King's apartment, for instance, what might they find? She'd never written him so much as a note, never given him even a snapshot. Nor were men prone to keep diaries, certainly not a man as self-contained as King. But suppose there were something? If not the record, then something. Or suppose someone, all unknown to Charlotte, after all did know or suspect... There was sure to be the inevitable detail that hadn't occurred to her.

Stop it! Stop this shadowboxing. It's after noon now, the papers will be on the stands, you can go out, try your poise in public. And see if you're followed.

As she stepped out of her entrance, a man came up out of the basement bar across the street. He wore a tan coat like a million others in New York. She couldn't see his face without stopping and turning. But she thought, there he is—there's my little shadow that will go in and out with me, and what can be the use of him is to see what he can see. Well, come along, she thought—waved him; how'd you like a brisk walk over to Eighth Street? But you'll have to step lively; people always have trouble keeping up with me.

She became conscious of the street corner signs. "THE LAW. Clean Your Sidewalk, Curb Your Dog," one said. "THE LAW," said another. "Never Sweep Refuse Into Street."

THE LAW... rhythm of the words—Clean Your Sidewalk, Curb Your Dog. It made a good marching spur, clean your sidewalk, curb your dog, step, clean your sidewalk, curb your dog. By now they were nonsense syllables, and she repeated them over and over. That way she kept herself from running.

She neared a newsstand. The dealer stood stomping his cold feet, his collar turned high against the raw wind. All his papers proclaimed the death of King. PROMINENT STOREMAN MEETS DEATH MYSTERIOUSLY... PLOT THICKENS IN DELAWARE DEATH... QUIZ CUMMINGS' EMPLOYEES, Charlotte read. The type danced before her eyes, and King's face, looking up at her. It seemed to her there was fear in it.

Charlotte put down her nickel for a paper.

The little man handed it to her without comment and began blowing on his hands. Cold hands mattered more to him than the death of prominent storeman. He dealt in death daily in this city; where someone was murdered almost every twenty-four hours.

Charlotte went on toward Eighth Street. She wouldn't look at the paper yet. She wouldn't look back for the man in the tan overcoat; looking back would only make her seem suspicious. She'd have to name her follower. Let's see how about Tray? Faithful dog Tray? I'll bet it isn't every day you get to follow such neat ankles. Joke, bad joke. Well, come on, let's have a little lunch, she invited him. Even the Law must eat. But where shall we go?

No hash house today, she decided. No greasy griddle. No "country sausages with mashed potatoes, bread and butter," or "corned beef hash with veg." or "franks and beans." No thanks. Today let's blow ourselves. The condemned ate a hearty lunch.

She realized she was passing the Women's House of Detention. It loomed bleak and bare, and Charlotte thought of the ones within its walls, shut away from living. She hurried on, fighting down the desire to run, on to the warm res-

FAULKLAND—Seventh and eighth grade students recently went on a sightseeing tour of New Bern, Cherry Point Marine Air Base, Fort Macon and other historic places.

At Cherry Point, a Marine officer conducted the young people into a box car type of plane and explained its uses. They were taken to the jet air field, where they talked with a pilot dressed in a "G" suit.

At Morhead City, the students were taken around the port facilities for ocean-going ships. They also visited the Coast Guard station on Bogue Island, some oyster beds and Atlantic Beach and Fort Macon on the end of the island.

Students in the party were: Rayburn Butts, Joe Case, Jenner Everette, J.W. Moore, Dell Russell, Jimmy Smith, Mitchell Waters, Donald Wooten, Gaye Cobb, Patricia Cobb, Faye Corbette, Grace Edwards, Emma L. Fleming, Evelyn Jones, Edith Leonard, Bernice Tripp, Barbara Vandenberg, Shelby Wooten, David Moore, Charlie Strickland, Gail Harris, Sylvia Cobb, Jennie Windham, Bill Windham, Jerry Wooten, Emmett Peaden, Gloria Rackley, Janice Corbett, Bobby Creech, Charles Bright and James Garrett.

Mrs. J.E. Watson, eighth grade teacher, and two parents, Mrs. Levi Wooten and Mrs. Luther Garis, accompanied the young people on the trip.

After all she had trouble eating. I can chew but not swallow, she thought. The newspaper lay folded beside her purse, King's face down on the green leather seat. She tried to guess which of the young men eating alone might be Tray; they all looked so anonymous, there was nobody with red hair and black eyes that stood out in a crowd. But there were lots of carefree young couples. They sat dreaming into each others' eyes, and life lay ahead of them. They dared to plan plans.

The bright flames flared in the open fireplace, and the copper kettles glowed. Food fragrance, wood smoke and perfume mingled in the same-seeming room where the people sat secure.

Oh, God, why did she have to be so different.

Charlotte paid for her lunch and went outside, hesitating. Here in the open she felt exposed, and she longed to be back within the safety of the four walls of her apartment that had so lately closed in on her. Besides, she wanted to read the paper, it was high time that she did. Perhaps she should have read it during lunch, maybe that would have been the more natural thing to do. She worried about that all the way home.

The yellow envelope of the telegram protruded from her door. Oh, unwise, she thought; surely they check telegrams.

"COME LIME WITH MANHATTAN'S BEST COOK STOP SEVEN HEAVEN STOP ERIC," it said.

Aches And Pains Of Old Age Said 'Not Normal'

DURHAM (AP)—Dr. Spafford Ackery of the University of Louisville says aches and pains in old people are not normal.

Dr. Ackery, chairman of the psychiatry department at the University of Louisville, told the 16th annual Medical Symposium at Duke University yesterday that pains in the aged are "pathological, and being pathological, we can do something about it."

Ackery, quoting another expert on the problems of the aged, said, "Pessimism is the greatest foe to old age."

Physicians from the Carolinas, Virginia and Tennessee are attending the symposium.

Today the visiting physicians turned their attention to the problems of rural psychiatry.

Dr. Roger W. Howell of the University of North Carolina said the problems are being met by better preparation of medical practitioners as clergymen and health and education workers, in psychiatry and by state and federal support to provide services in rural areas.

"There seems to exist in many rural areas some resistance to establishing things like mental hygiene clinics," Dr. Howell said.

"Rural psychiatry seems to involve the psychiatrist more as a consultant than as an individual therapist, and as a consultant to other members of the psychiatric team who have had only partial training."

THIS HELPS NEW LONDON, Conn. (UP)—Police said they caught Alfred J. Mills, 26, as he was looting the office of a bottling company while the burglar alarm was blaring its warning. Asked why he remained in the building after he tripped the alarm, Mills answered, "I'm hard of hearing."

Lots Of Mail To Doomed Killers

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP)—Missouri State Penitentiary officials say 250 pounds of letters and telegrams have been sent to Carl Austin Hall and Mrs. Bonnie Brown Eady, the kidnap-killers of 6-year-old Bobby Greenlease.

But none of it has been delivered—at the kidnapers' request. They said they didn't care to see any of the mail.

Prison officials said most of the letters checked appeared to come from cranks and persons who wanted to thrust their religious views on the pair who will die in the state gas chamber Dec. 18.

Invention Could Revise System

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Cy Perkins, a Columbus Post Office mechanic has invented an electric dispatching board. It could replace the chalk boards which tell mail handlers to prepare letter bundles for certain points.

Columbus now uses the Perkins board. Under the old system the names had to be written by hand. Now a bell rings and the names are flashed on the board in lights. Blueprints have been sent to Washington for possible use in other cities.

Navy Tightening Security Regulations On All Atomic Matters In Ironclad Rule

By ELTON C. FAY
WASHINGTON (AP)—The Navy is ordering its personnel not even to repeat previous public statements on atomic matters unless they are "checked in advance" with the Atomic Energy Commission.

It is circulating an ironclad interpretation of the broadly worded request by the White House recently that atomic energy comments by government officials be checked first with the AEC. The Navy order forbids even the issuance of a denial of a published report unless prior approval is obtained.

The Navy circular states that all statements must be channeled through the assistant secretary of defense for legislative and public information affairs, Fred Seaton, for clearance with the "appropriate" agency of government (the AEC), and then specifies:

New VA Hospital Dedication Set

SALISBURY, N. C. (AP)—The new 20-million-dollar Veterans Administration hospital here will be formally dedicated Sunday.

Harvey V. Higley, administrator of veterans affairs, will dedicate the hospital. Others who will take part in the program are Vice Adm. Joel T. Boone, ret., chief medical director of the VA and Dr. A. R. Keppel, Catawba College president. Dr. Louis F. Verdel is manager of the hospital.

"It applies to discussion, confirmation, elaboration amplification or refutation of statements in this field which have already been made public as well as statements containing material not hitherto published."

The Navy was the first of the armed forces to come up with its own interpretation of the atomic information order.

The Air Force has sent out reprints of the President's statement to its personnel. The Army has made no move as yet to issue an interpretation of the White House policy.

Plan Role For Actress Haver

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Negotiations are under way for actress June Haver to co-star in the movie "My Sister Eileen."

Miss Haver, who quit Hollywood and a $3,500-a-week job to enter a Catholic convent last February, may make her screen comeback early next year. She and her agent, Ned Marin, and producer Jerry Wald have gone over tentative plans, and a Columbia Pictures spokesman says "June likes the idea." Further talks are scheduled next week.

The 26-year-old actress was in the convent 7½ months, studying to become a nun. Then she returned home saying ill health forced her to give up religious life.

Thimayya Keeps Neutrality Firm

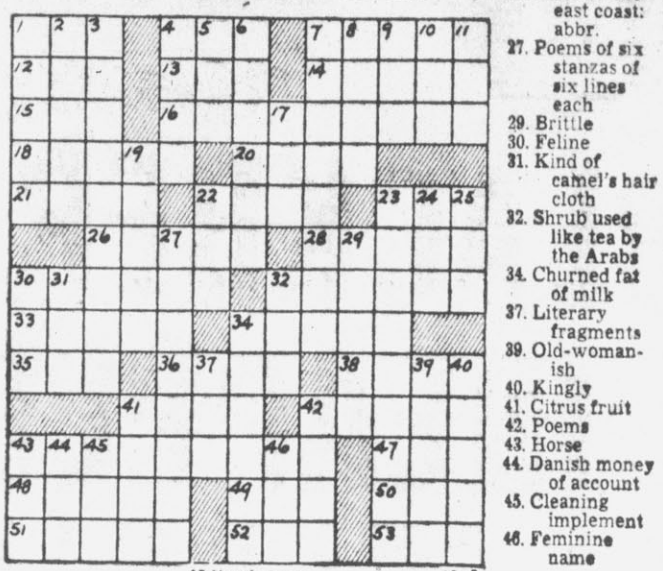

PANMUNJOM (AP)—Lt. Gen. K. S. Thimayya, Indian chairman of the Neutral Nations Repatriation Committee, believes in real neutrality—especially where his transportation is concerned.

When he visits POW camps holding anti-Communist prisoners he rides in an American-built black sedan. But when he visits the camp where Allied prisoners reportedly refusing repatriation are held, he rides in a Russian-built sedan.

Cadillac

Come In and Order One...Today!

Of course, any day is a wonderful day for stepping up to Cadillac.

When the magic moment arrives in a man's life when he feels entitled to the "car of cars," he should make the move without hesitation—regardless of year, or season, or any other consideration.

But we do feel, in all honesty, that the motorist who finds himself in that happy circumstance this fall is particularly fortunate.

For Cadillac has never offered so many wonderful things, in such abundant measure, as it does today.

It is supremely beautiful—with grace and dignity and majesty that set it instantly apart from the rest of the world's motor cars.

Its performance is simply breath-taking—even when measured against Cadillac's own extraordinary standards. And the car is luxurious and distinctive and pride-inspiring far beyond its illustrious predecessors.

In addition to all this, the current Cadillac creation is unbelievably practical to own and economical to operate. The lowest-priced Cadillac, for instance, now costs less than twenty-two different models of other makes of motor cars manufactured in America.

And you can ride out a normal, full day's journey on a single tankful of gasoline.

As if this were not sufficient to set it apart, a Cadillac car—according to an authoritative study of used car prices—may be expected to return a greater percentage of its owner's original investment at the time of resale than any other motor car in the land!

So—if you are considering a Cadillac for yourself and your family—come in and order one today!

It's the right thing to do—and it's the right time to do it.

Old Enemies Are Seen At Peace

WEST GLACIER, Mont. (AP)—Ranger Harold Estey reports a sight as strange as if a sheep and a wolf were playing together.

At the Logging Ranger Station in Glacier National Park, Estey said he saw a half-grown marten tusseling with a gopher. The ranger said they were playing like a couple of cub bears.

Ordinarily martens eat gophers.

Red Oak News

Special Notice! To all who are entering a Christmas arrangement in the contest sponsored by the Red Oak Home Demonstration Club, please have your arrangement in the church or club building before six o'clock on Friday, December 4th, as the judges will be given the first prize will be three dollars; the second, two dollars; and the third, one dollar. Everybody, including children, can enter an arrangement. The purpose of this contest is to make our building and our church more attractive for the holidays. Mrs. Ola Kittrell has already entered an arrangement for the organ. Mrs. L. W. Edwards an arrangement for the piano in the club building. Mrs. Lizzie Vandford for the piano in the church and Mrs. B. L. Tyson will have a Christmas scene. You may go out at any time and put your arrangement in the club building and it will be put in the proper place later. Let's have no less than 25 outstanding arrangements.

Twenty-two people representing the Youthful Workers Club of Red Oak and Piney Grove communities left last Sunday morning at 8:30 to go to Camp Lejeune to entertain the boys at the Naval Hospital. We stopped at the same little cement church by the side of the highway and had Sunday School. Lawrence Tyson taught the lesson and several Christmas hymns were sung. An old fashioned pedal organ rolled out sweet music for the singing. Our offering was left in the collection plate to be used by this little church.

Picnic dinner was served about 12:00 and we entered Camp Lejeune at one o'clock.

From then on it was a wonderful experience. About 150 boys crowded in the recreation hall and ate slice after slice of delicious homemade cake furnished by the folks from Pitt County and hot coffee. All the time there was music and singing going on. There was never a dull moment and even when the time came for us to leave the boys crowded around the piano and begged for song after song.

Those who went on this trip, our third to Camp Lejeune, were Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Tyson, Mr. and Mrs. William Tripp and daughter, Miss Wooten, Alton Beddard, Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Allen, Mrs. Jackie Kinsaul, Misses Jane Winchester, Eula Oakley, Marie Eason, Mrs. Mary Smith, Mrs. James Allen, Ray Hardee and Miss Windham and Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Tyson. It was a day that will linger with us for years to come.

The Red Oak Home Demonstration Club will have their Christmas party and supper at the club house next Friday night. It will be a covered dish supper and it will be a family affair.

Extra Test Had Failure Turn Up

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—Oklahoma Highway Patrol drivers' license examiners were giving tests to 21 driver training teachers here — but when they finished 22 tests had been given.

Examiner Tony Scaramucci came up with the answer: "Finishing with one driver, he turned to a car which had driven up behind him. The driver didn't question the procedure — in fact, he didn't say a word."

The examiners check off points for errors—30 means failure. The stranger had 56 points against him, Scaramucci said.

In 1853 the United States got the Gadsden Purchase, a strip of southern Arizona, from Mexico for 10 million dollars.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market advanced today in a continuation of the forward movement that has been under way now for nearly two weeks.

Gains extended to between 1 and 2 points at the best with losses reaching a point in isolated instances.

Business was at a good pace that for the entire day would put volume a bit under yesterday's heavy 1,850,000 shares.

Steels were the outstanding performer today, active at fractionally higher prices. Also ahead but without pronounced activity were the railroads, oils, coppers, mail order houses, chemicals, and tobacco.

The motors were lagged with flurries of activity from time to time. Aircrafts and air lines didn't make a very good showing. Other sections of the market were mixed.

Higher stocks included Southern Railway, Northern Pacific, New Haven Preferred, Cities Service, American Telephone, Kennecott Copper, Du Pont, American Tobacco, General Electric, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem Steel, and National Distillers.

Sea Scouts Took Weekend Cruise To See Belhaven

The Greenville Sea Scouts of Ship 1 left Greenville for a weekend cruise November 27 on the 36-foot Naval Rocket, in command of Skipper J. B. Newman.

The Sea Scouts had planned to make a trip to Morehead, but they decided to go to Belhaven. The 225-horsepower craft left its station on Tar River here at 3 p.m. Friday afternoon. The trip down the river to Washington was uneventful. They spent the night there.

The Naval Rocket arrived at Belhaven at 1:30 p.m. The boys spent the afternoon at a movie and talking to Belhaven Sea Scouts and spent the night there. They returned to Greenville Sunday afternoon at 2:30. This was the first cruise since the boat was remodeled.

Sea Scouts on the cruise were: Dickie Newell, Francis Warren, Preston Jarvis, Terry Bundy, Don Strader, Jimmy Perkins, Jimmy Smith, and Ormond Whitehead. Rooney Malcolm was a visiting Sea Scout from Rocky Mount. Sherman M. Parks of Greenville accompanied the boys on the cruise.

Columnist Will Testify For Jury

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Drew Pearson, Washington newspaper columnist, will testify before a grand jury here next Tuesday in an investigation of corruption charges against the Charlotte Police Dept.

Pearson wired Solicitor Basil Whitener yesterday he would be "delighted" to appear as a voluntary witness. At least 10 other witnesses are expected to testify before the Mecklenburg grand jury.

Pearson touched off a three-month controversy in a nationwide broadcast in which he said people "who fear for their lives" could contribute "valuable information" on Charlotte's police. Later, newspapers quoted him as saying in a telephone conversation that a big time "gambling racket with police payoffs" existed here.

Two members of a three-man Police Study Committee, set up before Pearson made his charges to investigate morale, efficiency and other matters in the police department, reported they found "no foundation" for the charges and asked that action be taken to clear the department. They said the department's accusers should be "brought under law to prove their charges."

City council, saying it does not believe the charges, asked for the grand jury investigation.

Appointment For Goldsboro Man

WASHINGTON (AP)—Julian T. Gaskill of Goldsboro, N. C., yesterday was appointed as Eastern North Carolina district attorney.

Gaskill, a Republican, replaces Charles P. Green who resigned. He is a former high school principal at Powellsville, N. C., and has practiced law in Goldsboro since 1930.

Greenville NFL Group Accorded Honors At Legislative Sessions

The Carolina District student congressmen awarded John Brooks, vice-president of the Greenville NFL chapter, the Forensic League gavel for being the outstanding Speaker of the House and elected him to represent the district in the National Student Congress. The national legislative session is scheduled to assemble in Greensburg, Pa. in June.

Fifteen Greenville High School students scored 76 NFL points during the two-day legislative session that convened in the state capitol legislative chambers Monday morning and adjourned sine die Tuesday afternoon.

Three resolutions and one bill stimulated more heated debate on the floor of the two houses than the several other issues. The bill proposed a $1,000 fine for Senators who play hooky from their Congressional duties. Resolutions favored recognition of the de facto government of Red China and endorsed non-denominational Bible teaching in public schools; and a Senate resolution provided for the expulsion of Joseph McCarthy from the United States Senate. None of these four legislative proposals passed both houses.

Secretary of State Thad Eure addressed the banquet group and presented the NFL Degree of Distinction gold seal to Henrietta Swayne, secretary of the Greenville chapter, and the Honor Degree bronze seal to Hugh Duncan, a Greenville freshman.

Greenville was represented in the House by Patsy Baker, Jane Berryman, John Brooks, Dennis Bullock, Mack Churchill, Gayle Clapp, Hugh RALEIGH (AP)—Checks totaling $202,499.37 have been sent to 362 Tar Heel municipalities as their share of franchise taxes collected by the state from July 1 to Sept. 30.

PHOENIX Ariz. (AP)—Trunk murderer Winnie Ruth Judd, inmate at the Arizona State Hospital for Insane, was permitted to attend the Arizona State Fair here last month, it was disclosed yesterday.

Dr. M. W. Conway, hospital superintendent, said Mrs. Judd was kept under close guard and she went unrecognized.

Mrs. Judd, who six times has escaped the institution, has been in low spirits since her mother died in the same hospital last month Dr. Conway said.

BBC Caught In Phone Slip-Up
LONDON (AP)—The British Broadcasting Corp. was making profuse apologies today, but didn't know to whom.

The BBC was caught in the toils of a wrong number mixup as a result of a broadcast by musical comedy star Jack Buchanan last night.

Buchanan pretended to be trying to telephone a police station and was constantly getting a wrong number.

Listeners all over London also started calling the number used in the broadcast, and to the BBC's embarrassment it turned out to be a real—but privately listed—number.

The gentleman who answered was in no mood for humor. His blood pressure went up and up as the number of calls increased.

Finally the phone was reported to be out of order and there was a suspicion he had torn it from the wall.

"The number should have been checked first and someone didn't," said Buchanan.

Like U.S. broadcasters, the BBC usually uses only numbers that don't have a telephone at the end of them. And Britain's telephone officials, like their American counterparts, wouldn't tell even the BBC the owner of the much-rung phone.
