

Manhunt Moving Into Eastern N. C.

PAMPICO, S. C. (AP)—Police today swore out a warrant charging an escaped Negro convict with the beheading of a high school girl and the slaying of her escort.

Chief O. L. Brady of the State Law Enforcement Division reported that Sheriff John Hanna of Florence County had taken out a murder warrant against Raymond Carney, alias J. W. Page.

The Negro has been the object of a two-state search since early yesterday.

The hunt centered in Edgecombe and Wilson counties of North Carolina, where the suspect formerly lived. He is wanted for questioning in the slaying of Betty Clair Cain, 18-year-old Pamplico High School sophomore, and Harvey B. Allen, 22, of Latta.

Officers identified the man they seek for questioning as Raymond Carney, a six-foot, two-inch Negro with dark red eyes. They said the dark brown, 170-pound farm worker stammers and has a scar on his right knee. They added that Carney, convicted in Edgecombe County about 1951 of breaking and entering, was known in South Carolina as J. W. Page. Sheriff Tom Bardin of Edgecombe County said Carney, who is about 38, escaped about a year ago from a prison camp in Wilson County while serving a sentence for breaking and entering.

Betty Clair's head and Allen's body were discovered in an abandoned well near here Wednesday night. The remains were dug from the 10-foot well three days after the girl's beheading. Body had been found in a shallow grave on a bluff overlooking the nearby Pee Dee River. Both had been shot in the head.

The search for the Negro suspect began after police were told he had been missing from his home since Sunday night—the night the young couple disappeared while on a date. The hunt moved into North Carolina late yesterday after police were tipped that the suspect planned to go to Tarboro.

South Carolina officers said Carney, alias Page, had engaged in farm work near here.

At Tarboro, Sheriff Bardin said: "We have definitely established the fact that J. W. Page and Raymond Carney are one and the same. They (South Carolina officers) want him and want him bad."

Bardin said homes of the man's relatives in the North Carolina counties had been closely watched overnight.

"I'm satisfied he has not been there," Bardin added.

Police quoted the suspect's wife as saying he had told her he was going to Tarboro "to see my lawyer." The woman reportedly told officers her husband was armed with a "thirty or something" caliber pistol.

The Negro was last reported seen in this area before dawn yesterday. His wife was held as a material witness. All of the suspect's clothes were found missing from his home.

Florence County Sheriff John Hanna and Lt. Roy Williams of the State Law Enforcement Division went to Tarboro to join in the search after the hunt in the Florence-Pamplico area proved fruitless.

Street Superintendent O. K. Beatty, left, and City Manager James S. Hughes inspect the new curb being laid today to enlarge the parking area between the Municipal Building and the Fire Station. The additional space will allow ten more cars to park there. A total of 21 parking spaces will be in that area when this work is completed. Hughes said he hoped that the area would be graded by early next week. The City Council approved the enlarging at their last meeting. (Reflector Staff Photo by Bob Boyette).

Looking Over Progress Of Work

Will Press On For Acceptance Of Atomic Pool Plan

U.S. Weighing Next Steps

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States, under Secretary of State Acheson, weighed today the nature and timing of the next step in pressing for acceptance of the Eisenhower plan for an international atomic pool.

Officials speculatively pointed out two possibilities for action:

1. A formal request may be made in the United Nations Disarmament Commission for appointment of a subcommittee consisting of nations with atomic resources. They would hold secret talks on the plan, as President Eisenhower suggested when he presented it to the U. N. Assembly Tuesday.
2. Secretary of State Dulles will have opportunity at a forthcoming conference of Big Four foreign ministers in Berlin to discuss the idea privately with Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov—if that seems to be a good idea at the time.

Dulles takes off for Paris late today to attend a meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Council. He may discuss the next step on the atomic plan there with British and French officials.

Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey and Secretary of Defense Wilson also are going to the Dec. 14-16 NATO meetings, whose major objective is strengthening Western defense arrangements in Europe.

First Soviet reaction to the President's proposal—for an international atomic agency, under the United Nations, to develop the peaceful uses of nuclear energy—was given in a Moscow radio broadcast

Wednesday. The Russians derided Eisenhower's U. N. speech as a "warmongering" address and contended he had "threatened atomic war."

Their principal complaint seemed to be that Eisenhower had not yielded to the Soviet insistence on immediate outlawing of all kinds of atomic weapons.

The official U. S. reaction to this Soviet blast was that it did not "necessarily represent the considered decision of the Soviet government."

For the time being, officials said today the United States will take a wait-and-see attitude. The government will not make a final determination of what the next move should be until there is some definite indication of the Soviet government's reaction.

Slowdown Tactics Halt South Korean Talks

POW Interviews Suspended

PANMUNJOM (AP)—Allied efforts to woo home war prisoners who stayed with the Communists—including 22 Americans and one Briton—were threatened today by Red slowdown tactics which forced suspension of interviews with South Korean POWs.

Lt. Gen. K. S. Thimayya, Indian chairman of the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission, said 30 ROK prisoners would be called up for interviews tomorrow. But there was no indication whether the sessions would be held.

Thimayya suspended the Allied explanation program Friday after 25 of 30 prisoners insisted on making their own explanations to Allied interviewing officers.

He said that if the POWs refuse to accept NNRC conditions for the interviews "it's afraid the explanations will come to an end."

After a hurried meeting of the NNRC Thimayya announced that 30 more South Koreans would appear Saturday. He did not say whether there was any sign of a change in Communist tactics.

The Indian general also announced that a Red request to interview 250 anti-Red Koreans Saturday was turned down because the prisoners refuse to leave their compound. Some of these prisoners were interviewed earlier and the rest have refused to budge.

Special U. S. Envoy Arthur H. Dean said he may fly to Washington before Christmas and leave the stalled talks on arrangements for a Korean peace conference in the hands of his chief aide.

If Dean leaves, Allied negotiations probably will be taken over by Kenneth T. Young, the State Department's director of Northeast Asian affairs and Dean's No. 1 adviser.

The State Department announced in Washington Thursday that Dean has been authorized to return home. It said the spokesman for 17 nations which fought in Korea has not been ordered home but may return for consultations.

The diplomats made no progress Friday toward removing the big roadblock to a peace conference—Communist insistence that Russia attend as a non-voting neutral rather than as a full participant.

They agreed to meet again Saturday.

The snarl in the Allied explanation program definitely has delayed the start of interviews with the 22 Americans and one British prisoner.

Allied officials said the Red slowdown appears to be aimed at tying up the explanation program before the non-Koreans are called.

The U. N. Command had planned to complete interviews with 228 South Koreans early next week, then ask for the others.

All 255 Koreans interviewed chose to stay with the Reds.

The first five prisoners interviewed Friday made the same decision. But the other 25 refused to hear the explanations unless they were allowed to explain back.

Thimayya said leaders of the American prisoners have told him they feel they are entitled to lengthy explanations and a chance to ask all the questions they want because "They felt they need sufficient time to clear their own minds."

The U. N. Command has said the interviews with Americans will be "brief, dignified and to the point."

In Tokyo, Gen. John E. Hull, U. S. Far East commander, turned down the request of a Minnesota mother who flew to Japan to plead for a chance to talk to her son, one of the unrepatriated Americans.

Mrs. Portia Howe had hoped to change the mind of her son, Pic. Richard F. Tenneson. Hull said he has no authority to allow her to enter Korea.

Dean hurried from the preliminary peace talks to Seoul for further conferences with South Korea's President Syngman Rhee. The ROK government is opposed to any plan which would permit neutrals at a peace conference.

Korea Closed To Anxious Mother

TOKYO (AP)—The mother of an American war prisoner who stayed with the Communists learned today that she cannot visit Korea in an effort to persuade her son to return home.

Mrs. Portia Howe of Alden, Minn., arrived by plane and conferred privately with Gen. John E. Hull. The supreme Allied commander announced that he had been "obliged to refuse permission" to Mrs. Howe to visit Korea.

Mrs. Howe's son is a state prisoner, Pic. Richard F. Tenneson, in among 25 Americans who did not return home last summer.

"I have the deepest sympathy for Mrs. Howe and the utmost respect for her desire to effect the return of her son to his own country," Gen. Hull said in a statement.

"But in view of previously announced U. S. Department of Defense policy in relation of the prisoner of war question, I am not authorized to permit her entry into Korea to see her son."

WANTS ACTION
PARIS (AP)—West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer today vigorously urged prompt establishment of a European army to maintain West Europe's independence and to preserve world peace.

Laniel, Churchill Return To London

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill and French Premier Laniel flew into London today from the Bermuda Big Three conference.

Laniel and Churchill shook hands warmly for the welcoming crowd. This appeared to be an effort to smooth reports they had disagreements at Bermuda.

Churchill appeared first, bareheaded and carrying his usual cigar. He waved at the crowd, then went back into the plane. He came out again, gaily pulling Laniel with him. Then they went back into the plane for a last minute chat. Laniel, who suffered a lung infection in Bermuda, continued the flight to Paris.

Back home, Churchill faces a threatened revolt in his own Conservative party over government policy in Egypt. Thirty Conservatives have signed a motion opposing negotiations with Egypt over withdrawal of troops from the Suez Canal zone.

Britain has agreed in principle to removal of troops but the negotiations in Cairo have bogged down over details.

Churchill is expected to make a detailed report on the Bermuda conference.

Within an hour after Churchill's arrival, the British Foreign Office was denying reports that the Americans waged a "pressure campaign" at Bermuda to have Britain change her policy in Egypt and the Middle East.

A Foreign Office spokesman told a news conference:

"It is true that Middle East subjects were discussed at Bermuda, but there is no truth whatever in the report that there was an American pressure campaign on us to change our attitude. On the contrary, we were appreciative of American support and cooperation."

Two Will Face Charges In Greenlease Case

To Accuse Police Officers

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The St. Louis Police Board plans to file formal charges accusing former Lt. Louis Shoulters and Patrolman Elmer Dolan of violating regulations in their handling of the arrest of Carl Austin Hall.

Hall, the kidnap-killer of 6-year-old Bobby Greenlease, is awaiting execution in the Missouri penitentiary since Dec. 18.

I. A. Long, board president, said yesterday Dolan has been suspended pending hearings for him and Shoulters. Shoulters resigned from the force but the board has not officially accepted the resignation. The Police Board president said the charges will be filed under police regulations. He said the board's action came during a long inquiry into the missing $303,720, more than half the ransom paid to Hall and Mrs. Bonnie Brown Heady by Robert C. Greenlease Sr. of Kansas City.

Hall, in his confession and in an interview with St. Louis Police Chief Jeremiah O'Connell, has said he had most of the ransom money in two suitcases in his hotel room when arrested by the two officers Oct. 6.

The suitcases, checked later at a district police station, contained less than half the ransom. Hall claims the officers left the suitcases in the room when they took him to the station. Shoulters and Dolan have said they took the suitcases to the station at the same time Hall was taken there.

Long declined to reveal the nature of the charges except that they would deal with the officers' actions in handling the kidnaping case here.

A police officer found guilty of violating regulations can be punished in various ways, ranging from a discharge to a rebuke.

Shoulters, in commenting on the development, said he had not been a policeman since Oct. 24. Reminded that his resignation had not been acted upon, he said:

"They stopped my pay and that's enough for me."

Dolan's only comment was: "I don't know what it's all about."

Demo Leaders In Philadelphia For Political Rally

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Some 1,500 top-drawer Democratic party leaders arrive today for a round of dinners and conferences designed to step up party enthusiasm for the 1954 congressional elections and to bite another chunk off the party's financial deficit.

Party leaders hope to raise at least $100,000 to apply to the debt incurred during the 1952 presidential campaign.

The conference will end Saturday night with a major address at a 100-plate dinner by Adlai Stevenson, party presidential candidate, over a nationwide radio and television hookup. Stevenson is scheduled to arrive late today and to hold a press conference soon afterwards.

City Engineer Clark Murphy hurried over and found 100 dynamite caps—on a shelf near the kitchen stove.

N.C. Utilities Valuated At Almost $500 Millions

RALEIGH (AP)—The value of utilities in North Carolina for tax purposes is inching close to half a billion dollars.

Total valuations were placed at $469,687,817 by the State Board of Assessments yesterday. This is an increase of more than 39 million over the valuation of $431,126,466 placed on the utilities last year.

Electric, gas and power companies led the increases with a total valuation of $210,267,415 compared with $183,081,661 last year. Telephone company valuations were up 10 million to $85,341,272.

The valuations are used by counties and cities as the basis of ad valorem taxes levied against the utilities. For railroads the valuation is also the basis for collecting the state's franchise taxes.

Duke Power Co. remained the most valuable utility, according to the valuations, with a tax value of $107,686,572, up about 12 million. Carolina Power & Light, which acquired Tide Water Power Co. last year, was valued at $75,858,847, compared with $66,884,961.

Southern Bell, the state's biggest phone utility, was increased in value from $39,497,950 to $44,971,947.

Southern Railroad was valued at $64,515,031 about the same as last year, and Seaboard Air Line Railroad was valued at $23,980,000, up about 1½ million. Atlantic Coast Line was unchanged at $36,453,370.

Other valuations included: Nantahala Power & Light Co. $8,751,540, Piedmont Natural Gas Co. $4,954,532, Public Service Co. of North Carolina $2,305,947, Virginia Electric & Power Co. $9,474,881.

Superintendent Of Polk Prison Camp Is Fired

RALEIGH (AP)—The dismissal of the Polk County Prison Camp superintendent yesterday was the second shakeup at the camp in recent months.

The firing of Supt. Amos D. Foster was disclosed by Prisons Director William F. Bailey. Recently Bailey dismissed Walter D. Hines as steward of the camp. The steward is second in command at prison camps.

Bailey said there was a connection in the dismissal of the two. "There had been entirely too much controversy in the handling of their jobs," he explained. "We feel it is best for the prisons system to get a new face from outside the county to run the camp."

Bailey said he expects to name Foster's successor within a week. Before he became camp superintendent, Foster was a deputy under Hines when the latter was Polk County sheriff.

Pocketbook Flim-Flam Fleeced Woman Of $95

Old Trick Took Her Savings

Greenville police were looking today for two Negro men who pulled an old flim-flam trick yesterday afternoon that fleeced a Negro woman of $95.

Laura Adams of Greenville route five reported to police yesterday afternoon that two men had taken $95 of her money to "get change" and had not returned.

According to police, the woman told this story:

She had gotten her check from a Christmas saving club and had taken it to the bank to get it cashed. In the bank she got into a conversation with two Negro men. She got the check cashed, and met the men again at the corner of Fourth and Evans streets where she talked with them again.

One of the men suddenly went to the edge of the street and picked up a pocketbook which he said fell from a passing automobile. Opening the pocketbook the man and his friend told the woman it contained a large amount of money. They told her, the woman said, that if she would lend them the cash she had, they would go get the money in the pocketbook changed and divide with her if she would not tell of finding the pocketbook.

One of the men left with the pocketbook and the $95 belonging to Laura Adams, and the other man stayed at the corner with her. The first man came by a few minutes later and reported he was having trouble getting the money changed, and left again. Later, the other man disappeared, she said.

Police said the woman described one of the men as a tall dark Negro, 40 to 45 years old with several gold upper teeth. The other man, she said, was 50 to 55 years old, about five feet, nine inches tall and not so dark. She did not know who the men were, she said, although they gave either their real names or false names.

Police Chief S. G. Gibbs this morning warned citizens of Greenville to be on the lookout for flim-flammers who may be operating in this section.

All She Wanted Santa To Bring Was A Hippo; And Friends Will See He Does

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—On juke boxes across the country 10-year-old Gayla Peever is telling Santa Claus the thing she wants most for Christmas is a hippopotamus.

And the pet grade school miss with the big voice is really going to get her wish for one of those big creatures.

A collection has been started here to buy the hippo for Gayla, but right away it brought complications.

Mom Peever put her foot down and said, Christmas sentiment or not, she wasn't going to have any hippo lumbering around her yard.

Gayla, having convinced herself by singing the song so many times that she really would like a hippo, agreed to turn the animal over to the Lincoln Park zoo here.

The drive for the hippo was started by friends of the local TV performer, who is the pride of the community after making a fast selling record, "I Want A Hippopotamus For Christmas."

Julian Frazier, zoo director figures it will take $4,000 to buy the hippo and ship it here from New York.

Gayla is thrilled over the idea of her very own hippo even if it has to make its home in the zoo.

There's just one thing that worries her. How can you gift-wrap a hippo?

All Cotton Growers Will Know Allotments Before Referendum

WASHINGTON (AP)—Cotton farmers are being told today the size of their individual shares of the 17,910,448-acre national cotton acreage allotment for 1954.

With few exceptions a Department of Agriculture spokesman said, all cotton farmers should know what their own allotments would be when they vote Tuesday on whether to approve marketing quotas for next year.

While the individual allotments are based on a national total of 17,910,448 acres, there are strong indications that early next year Congress will increase the national quota and thus provide an increase in individual allotments.

Secretary of Agriculture Benson, in proclaiming quotas for next year—subject to Tuesday's referendum—set the acres at 17,910,448. He said that under the law he was required to arrive at this figure and has held to this position despite strong pressure from cotton areas to raise the amount.

Benson, however, has said he would recommend that Congress enact legislation providing for a "reasonable increase." He has not defined what a "reasonable" hike should be.

Wrestling with the problem of cotton quotas ever since this year, the House passed a bill to set the national quota at 22½ million acres. However, due to a South-West dispute over how much of a cut individual states should take in acreage, the Senate Agriculture Committee took no action.

Sens. Eastland (D-Miss.) and Anderson (D-NM)—representing the Southern and Western viewpoints, respectively—later agreed on a figure of 21 million acres, plus 315,000 acres to be used half in the South and half in the West for adjusting "hardship" cases.

The allotment set by Benson compares with an estimated 33,787,000 acres of cotton being harvested as of Nov. 1, 1953, and 26,300,000 acres in 1952.

While farmers may grumble at the size of their indicated allotments under the 17-million-acre total they will, if history is any guide, approve marketing quotas Tuesday.

In no previous cotton referendum have farmers rejected quotas. They approved quotas for the years 1938, 1939, 1940, 1941, 1942, 1943 and 1950.

Agriculture Department experts expect somewhere between 600,000 and 700,000 cotton farmers to vote Tuesday. In the first referendum in March 1938 a total of 1½ million farmers voted. This number, however, has declined steadily and in December 1949, the number voting totaled 644,135, of which 575,063 or 89.4 per cent voted for quotas.

Under the law two thirds of the farmers voting must vote "Yes" if quotas are to be imposed.

Love, Says Expert, Is All Work, No Play

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—University of Oklahoma undergraduates are being told "Love is nice work, if you can get it," indicating that the experts have finally caught up with the amoochers.

But this particular expert Ned Linegar of Dallas Tex., has a new twist. "Love," he says, "is work—all work and no play."

Linegar, a family man, readily admits, however, "Love is a wonderful thing," but goes on to explain:

"It takes practice to learn how to express affection and yet look how few of us really devote any time to studying or practicing it. No wonder so many folks are awkward when it comes to expressing acts of love."

The lecturer, one of several speakers brought here for campus religious week activities, goes on to say: "Despite our excellent school systems, which teach us everything from algebra to zoology, how much of that time is given over to this subject?"

Linegar answers his own question: "Very little, if any time at all."

He also pooh-poohs the old saying: "There's only one right mate for each and every one of us. If that were true he argues, marriage as an institution would be wrecked."

"To find the right person in life," says Linegar, "you've got to go out, meet folks and get acquainted for you've got to grow into this thing called love and that's done through companionship with members of the opposite sex. And to go out and find the right one, you've got to grow into this thing called love and that's done through companionship with members of the opposite sex. And to go out and find the right one, you've first got to become the right person yourself."

And how does one know his or her reaction is the real thing? "You can't miss it. It radiates energy. That accounts for the shining light so often seen in the eyes of young lovers. Love is real, as well as earnest, when it stands the tests of time, separation, companionship and when it also represents the growth of the individuals concerned."

Linegar holds a master of arts in sociology from the University of Cincinnati and studied at the University of Chicago Divinity School.

Dr. E. Utterback Presents Play To Sans Souci Club

One of the most outstanding meetings of the club year was held by the Sans Souci Book Club at the home of Mrs. S. T. White on Seventh Street Tuesday at one o'clock.

Mrs. White greeted her guests at the front door and invited them into a home made more lovely by its decorations that spoke of the approaching Christmas season.

Club members and a number of invited guests assembled in the living room, hall and library where they were served tomato juice cocktails and barbecued shrimp. Later, seated in the dining room and at tables throughout the house they were served a delightful three course luncheon, after which a short business session was held with Mrs. H. S. Ragsdale, president, presiding. Then Mrs. White introduced Dr. Elizabeth Utterback of the college faculty, who had kindly consented to give the afternoon program.

Dr. Utterback brought the club and visitors a play, "The Three Angels." The story was of a Christmas day in the lives of three criminals condemned for life to the French prison colony on Devil's Island. It was full of wit and humor and highly entertaining, causing much fun and laughter.

Dr. Utterback gave the play in a most charming manner, as both her voice and diction are splendid and her reading equally as pleasing. All of her audience felt indebted to Dr. Utterback and Mrs. White for giving them an afternoon of such real pleasure.

Break-In Adds To Man's Troubles

JACKSON, Mich. (AP)—Police found Willie Jones, 43, hiding in a stairwell of a store. When they asked why he'd broken in, he told them: "I'm in trouble with the government because of income tax and I was trying to get some money to pay it off."

New Employment Field For Women Is Taught To Class

MURFREESBORO — A class of young women at Chowan College began this quarter to learn the operation of the Teletypewriter perforator, a unit of apparatus that is used to perforate paper tape for automatic operation of typesetting machines.

Chowan College is the only school in the entire South where instruction is given for the operation of this typewriter-like machine, the invention of which has opened up an entirely new field of employment for women in the newspaper field. There are only seven other sources teaching the perforator in the United States, according to John McSweeney, director of the Roy Parker School of Printing at Chowan College.

While the invention of the Teletypewriter perforator, and the operating unit which is attached to a typesetting machine, is not exactly new, McSweeney said, their use by newspapers throughout this and other areas of the country has increased extensively in the last few years. This increase in their use in North Carolina and Virginia has created a great demand for trained operators in these areas, he said, adding that the pay for fast, accurate perforator operators is much higher than the average secretary or typist receives.

"Today the Teletypewriter is handling a large percentage of news, features and classified ads at a decided saving in many of the daily newspapers and some weeklies," McSweeney stated. "Also groups of newspapers are now being served by news services, such as the Associated and United Press, with the perforated tape simultaneously transmitted by wire to the associated newspapers for automatic linecasting of type."

Dr. F. O. Mixon, president of the college, said that classes in Teletypewriter perforator operation will continue to be organized for this quarter through December 16, and again on January 4 when the college reopens after the holidays.

The public is cordially invited to attend this ceremony.

Arrangements were also made for the annual Christmas party for the children.

There being no further business the meeting was adjourned.

Dr. H. J. Dudley Is Speaker For Church Supper

Dr. Harold J. Dudley of Raleigh, general secretary of the Presbyterian Synod of North Carolina, was the speaker at the annual congregational supper meeting at First Presbyterian Church Wednesday night.

F. Harding Sugg, chairman of the Nominating Committee, presented the committee's report.

N. Shelley Beard, D. Angus Blue, Guy V. Smith Sr. and W. Earl Stokes were elected ruling elders. W. W. (Billy) Brown, John D. Grier, J. Howard Moya, J. Lawrence Smith and Fred Webb Jr. were elected deacons.

Funeral services for H. L. Jenkins, 72, will be held at the Wilkerson Funeral Chapel Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock by the Rev. W. M. Howard, pastor of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church. Burial will be in the Bethel Cemetery.

Mr. Jenkins died in his sleep at his home, 116 Court Lane in Greenville, early Thursday morning.

Mr. Jenkins, a native of Pitt County, had been a Justice of the Peace in Greenville for the past 20 years. He was a member of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church. Surviving are his daughter, Mrs. Katherine J. Lowe of Savannah, Ga.; a grandchild; three sisters, Mrs. Lucy Churchill of Washington, Mrs. Annie Waters and Miss Carrie Jenkins of Jamesville; and a number of nieces and nephews.

Members of the State Highway Patrol, Greenville Police Dept., Sheriff's Dept. and ABC officers will be honorary pall bearers.

NO INTEREST? CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (UP)—Corporation Court has received a tattered traffic summons and a check for $20 from Germany. Cpl. Abel Ramos, now in the Air Force, mailed the three-year-old speeding summons and wrote: "I would appreciate tremendously if I were permitted to make the necessary payment at this time." Said a court clerk, "He'll be allowed to pay the fine, but for only $10." The remaining $10 was returned.

Love, Says Expert, Is All Work, No Play

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—University of Oklahoma undergraduates are being told "Love is nice work, if you can get it," indicating that the experts have finally caught up with the smoochers.

But this particular expert Ned Linegar of Dallas, Tex., has a new twist. "Love," he says, "is work—all work and no play."

Linegar, a family man, readily admits, however, "Love is a wonderful thing," but goes on to explain:

"It takes practice to learn how to express affection and yet look how few of us really devote any time to studying or practicing it. No wonder so many folks are awkward when it comes to expressing acts of love."

The lecturer, one of several speakers brought here for campus religious week activities, goes on to say: "Despite our excellent school systems, which teach us everything from algebra to zoology, how much of that time is given over to this subject?"

Linegar answers his own question: "Very little, if any time at all."

He also pooh-poohs the old saying: "There's only one right mate for each and every one of us. If that were true, he argues, marriage as an institution would be wrecked."

"To find the right person in life," says Linegar, "you've got to go out, meet folks and get acquainted for you've got to grow into this thing called love and that's done through companionship with members of the opposite sex. And to go out and find the right one, you've got to grow into this thing called love and that's done through companionship with members of the opposite sex. And to go out and find the right one, you've got to grow into this thing called love and that's done through companionship with members of the opposite sex."

New Employment Field For Women Is Taught To Class

MURFREESBORO — A class of young women at Chowan College began this quarter to learn the operation of the Teletypewriter perforator, a unit of apparatus that is used to perforate paper tape for automatic operation of typesetting machines.

Chowan College is the only school in the entire South where instruction is given for the operation of this typewriter-like machine, the invention of which has opened up an entirely new field of employment for women in the newspaper field.

There are only seven other sources teaching the perforator in the United States, according to John McSweeney, director of the Roy Parker School of Printing at Chowan College.

While the invention of the Teletypewriter perforator, and the operating unit which is attached to a typesetting machine, is not exactly new, McSweeney said, their use by newspapers throughout this and other areas of the country has increased extensively in the last few years. This increase in their use in North Carolina and Virginia has created a great demand for trained operators in these areas, he said, adding that the pay for fast, accurate perforator operators is much higher than the average secretary or typist receives.

"Today the Teletypewriter is handling a large percentage of news, features and classified ads at a decided saving in many of the daily newspapers and some weeklies," McSweeney stated. "Also groups of newspapers are now being served by news services, such as the Associated and United Press, with the perforated tape simultaneously transmitted by wire to the associated newspapers for automatic linecasting of type."

Dr. F. O. Mixon, president of the college, said that classes in Teletypewriter perforator operation will continue to be organized for this quarter through December 16, and again on January 4 when the college reopens after the holidays.

Worthy Proposal Even Without Russia

Russia's preliminary response to President Eisenhower's revolutionary proposal for pooling atomic knowledge for peaceful development has come through as expected.

The Russians, for the time being at least, have rejected the proposal and sought to make propaganda of it against the United States and her allies.

President Eisenhower's proposal for pooling atomic energy for the development of peaceful uses is probably the major pronouncement of an international policy the President will make during his term in the White House.

Should Russia enter into such an agreement in good faith, it could mean one of the greatest revolutions the world has ever known. It would speed atomic development in constructive fields, and provide inestimable aid to nations throughout the world.

That Russia will agree to the proposal now is doubtful. Spokesmen for the Kremlin as usual probably will propose unreasonable demands as prerequisites for such an agreement, and thereby obviate any possibility of the East and the West getting together on such a proposal.

But is it necessary that Russia be brought into such a movement if she does not want to participate?

Surely the United States, Great Britain, Canada, France and other allied nations could pool their atomic resources for peace and accomplish a great deal without Russia. There is, of course, the probability that Russia would benefit from such a pool by stealing secrets on developments, and thereby gain knowledge without contributing anything to the development of atomic energy in the world as a whole.

In our opinion, Mr. Eisenhower's proposal is one which should be weighed carefully by the United States and her allies even if Russia turns its usual cold shoulder to the proposal.

If the leading free nations of the world can develop peaceful uses of atomic energy and make it available for their own use, they will have accomplished a great deal for their own productivity and security. If they make such developments available to backward nations of the world, the free world camp could gain many new followers.

The failure of Russia to enter into an agreement to pool atomic energy should not discourage the development of the energy for peaceful purposes.

If an all out conflict between East and West ever comes, who can tell whether atom bombs or atomic power plants would prove the more effective weapon in the long run? The United States and her allies will be in the stronger position if they have both.

Part Of Needed Long Range Planning

New subdivision regulations being drawn up by the Greenville Planning Board should mean a great deal to the future development of the city after they are adopted by the City Council.

The new regulations will fill a need which has long been present in Greenville. At the same time, their proper use should cut appreciably the capital outlays and maintenance expenditures which the city has had to make in the past in some residential subdivisions incorporated into the city limits.

Among the more important things provided in the new regulations—particular-

WATCH THOSE ROOTS

Agricultural experts told us last fall that unless the rains started and the plants and trees went into the winter months with plenty of moisture about them, they would fall victims of disease.

It's the old story over again of the necessity of keeping the roots healthy. Water does something more than just refresh plants—it feeds them and keeps them free of devastating blights.

What is true in the realm of nature is true also in the realm of spirit. Some people look upon religion as a mere factor of refreshment. It is supposed to make people happy and to give them peace, security, and freedom from fear (all of which things it does). It is all very well to hope and expect such things from religious faith, but religious faith does something vastly more than these things. Religious faith keeps the roots healthy.

The roots of our lives consist of our philosophy of life—that is, our attitude toward others—and in the upreach we have toward God and his divine power. We can have a superficial type of religion—which is more psychology than religion—and it will snap us out of our moods and give us a pat on the back and tell us to cheer up. This is good—but what about the roots?

Unless the refreshing power of God makes the roots healthy and keeps them so, then all other advantages are vain.

Dispute Over Alien Property

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON—Another chapter in liquidating the punitive measures which the Allied conquerors imposed on the Axis powers may soon be written by a Senate Judiciary Subcommittee, which seems disposed to return tremendously valuable property to its original German owners. Should Congress agree to amendment of the Alien Property Act, it will be almost impossible to determine who won World War II.

Vice-President Nixon has just admitted publicly that it was a "mistake" to impose the MacArthur Constitution on Japan, which prohibits that nation from rearming or making war. The United States is spending billions to rehabilitate Germany and Italy, even to the extent of restoring $140,000,000 worth of property to the Krupp family.

John J. McCloy, former U.S. High Commissioner to Germany, first set the example for this generosity. Without Congressional sanction, he used his authority to rebuild the Krupp fortunes.

He did so on the ground that confiscation of these industrial holdings was contrary to Anglo-Saxon principles of law. As a precedent, he noted that many of Hitler's World War II commanders had not been deprived of their estates.

NEW DISPUTE OVER GENERAL ANILINE—The Krupp mills and railroads might have been retained by the Allies if they had been taken as reparations by the victors. Russia had carried off hundreds of factories and much equipment from Germany and Manchuria in this manner. But the Western powers took over the Krupp investments on a basis of outright confiscation, and as punishment of the dynasty which enabled Der Fuehrer to plunge the world into its most horrible conflict.

The property involved in the new dispute is the General Aniline, which Washington took over on the ground that, although ownership was nominally Swiss, it was really controlled by German cartels. Under American operation, it has been built into one of the most valuable in this field, and estimated at a value of $100,000,000. Many prominent Democrats drew down good salaries as members of the Aniline Board of Directors. It has been a fat plum. SEEK AMENDMENT OF LAW—Interhandel, the Swiss firm, has brought suit for return of General Aniline to it. But the action has been thrown out of court here because Swiss bankers failed to produce evidence of the real ownership. It is understood that the Swiss Government impounded the required documents on the ground that they were secret. Bern has frequently been a brokerage center for concealed operation of cartels.

Now, the German and Swiss groups have turned to the Senate Judiciary Subcommittee, which is headed by Senator Everett McKinley Dirksen of Illinois, in an attempt to obtain amendment of the law. In support of their claim, they maintain that the Alien Property Act was framed by the Harry Dexter White ring "in a nefarious scheme to deliver Germany and Japan to Communism." The Dirksen staff testified that White insisted on "confiscation" instead of return of the property to its owners at the end of the war. Dirksen agreed.

The existing law may place General Aniline in a different legal category from the Krupp holdings. It provides that enemy property be sold and the money used to compensate Americans who were victimized by the war, particularly those who were mistreated when captured by the Germans and Japanese. Because of this clause, it may be held that the chemical company was seized as reparations.

AN ARTIFUL SCHEME—Radio Free Europe, which helped to spread last June's riots in Germany by flashing news of Berlin outbreaks throughout the Russian Zone, used a novel method to ascertain whether the Reds were able to jam their programs. It broadcast an announcement that two Czech officers had deserted the Communies, and were revealing important secrets.

Red newspapers immediately branded the report as untrue. They said that the two officers had been interviewed, and were still loyal to Communism. The Western broadcasters then announced that the original story was a fake, designed only to test the extent of audience listening behind the Iron Curtain.

Somebody Told Me

Another Angle For Educators

Yesterday I was talking to Dr. Charles Pace, home on vacation after practicing medicine in the Air Force for two years. We were discussing the various brands of TV sets and Charlie made the profound statement: "There ought to be a course in college called, 'How to get along in the modern society.' And that course ought to dwell on how to decide which type of TV set to buy, or what brands of groceries, and so on."

Charlie has a point. A college degree leaves out most of the information you need in order to get along these days. And one department that needs emphasis is how to buy. The educator could well use the Consumer's Guide as a text book.

One of the strongest misconceptions people have these days is the determination to buy everything wholesale. The distribution system is breaking down by degrees. If the trend continues, you'll pretty soon be able to take a trip to the cannery and buy beans off the assembly line.

So what happens when you buy wholesale? Let's take Christmas toys, for example. Your friend will say, "I have a catalogue from a wholesale house and I can save you 20 per cent!"

This sounds attractive enough, so you order. The merchandise is shipped in plenty of time and you're tickled pink until you get the invoice and take a look at the postal charges. Quite often they amount to about 15 per cent of your savings!

And then when you unpack the shipment you find that the baby's doll is in 20 pieces. You rush down town and buy one in order to have it by Christmas and then spend the next month trying to get a refund from the company.

The retailer has a definite service to perform and is here to stay, despite the springing up of wholesale houses that have liberal sales policies.

One of the hardest lessons to learn in buying is to strike the happy medium between the high and low price, with the firm that gives good service and above all has quality merchandise. This lesson is usually learned the hard way, after making many regrettable purchases.

The influence of advertising is a factor, but you have to admit: It's the nationally advertised brands that usually have the best features.

And I thank you.

What Other Editors Are Thinking

AN INTOLERABLE STRIKE ENDS

(Greensboro Daily News)

The longer the photo-engravers' strike in New York lasted the more intolerable it became. Therefore the announcement that it has been called off and the issues placed in the hands of fact finders is good news.

Why was the strike a mistake? Because it allowed 400 A. P. L. photo-engravers to shut down for more than a week six of the major newspapers in New York, doing by means of loosely drawn picket lines what the Constitution of the U. S. strictly forbids the government, or anybody else, doing—stifling the free flow of news and violating that freedom of information which is fundamental to our society.

The New York Times, one of the great newspapers of the world, ceased publication for the first time in 102 years. According to the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, sales of New York department stores dropped 5 per cent last week from the figure for the same week last year. The strike hurt the strikers, Manhattan business and newspaper publishers, but it hurt the public more. It probably hurt the cause of labor most of all.

Why? Because the shutdown was made possible by the custom that members of non-striking unions should not violate picket lines. Thus all union members walked out, and the newspapers were forced to suspend publication.

But what was really happening here? Members of non-striking unions decided to ignore their own duly negotiated contracts with the newspaper companies in order to sympathize with co-workers. Sympathy strikes may be acceptable under some conditions, but here the choice before non-involved union members was whether to honor their own contracts or not. The negative decision was made.

A system which condones mass violation of valid contracts is wrong. It does the cause of labor harm, and it produces a climate of public opinion which may, and should, prevent it from happening again.

'Highway Users' Seek Acquaint Public With Program

By LYNN NISBET

PAR — The North Carolina Highway Users Conference is sponsoring a meeting at Raleigh on December 17 to acquaint the public with the nationwide PAR program—Project Adequate Roads. Headline speakers will be Clem D. Johnston, national PAR chairman, and Royce Jorgensen, chief engineer of the National Highway Users Conference.

The NCHUC is affiliated with the national organization but is not controlled by it. The State organization is made up of groups concerned with building, maintaining and using highways. The participating membership includes automobile dealers, motor clubs, farmer organizations, rural letter carriers, petroleum interests and others.

One of the major objectives of PAR is to eliminate diversion of highway tax moneys to any purpose other than direct application to highways. The project includes sponsorship of a constitutional amendment prohibiting such diversion.

While it does not show up on the official program one of the background topics for the Raleigh meeting is the developing sentiment for separating prison administration from the highway department, with perhaps some attention to such quasi-diversionary items as support of the highway patrol, the paroles and probation systems.

Arrangements for the meeting are being made by David Kelly of Winston-Salem, southeastern representative of the National Highway Users Conference. Lieutenant Governor Luther Hodges, Highway Chairman A.H. Graham and other State officials will participate in the discussions.

Slight comment on the timing of the conference is that it falls on the same date as the 50th anniversary of the first air flight at Kill Devil Hill. While road users have increasing problems after all the centuries of ground travel, the air-minded folks are boasting of progress made in half a century; and both groups are planning for more adequate facilities to take care of anticipated future demands.

WATERWAYS — The third level of transportation is also getting more than usual attention. North Carolina is seeking development of State-owned deep-sea ports at Morehead City and Wilmington. Along with that effort there is in progress a survey of potentials in inland water, rivers, sounds, and canals.

Highway users pay large sums in gasoline taxes for the construction and maintenance of roads. Air plane operators pay very small fuel taxes, and boatmen pay more. Suggestion has been made from time to time that air and water craft fuel should be taxed and the money earmarked for development of landing fields and harbors.

Majority of the commercial fishermen and river boat operators, and practically all of the sport yachtsmen, with whom your reporter has talked oppose the idea. No information is in hand with respect to attitude of the private plane owners as a group. Suggestion has been made that since boats and planes require only "terminal" facilities, the users should pay the service bills. For ground travel the terminal facilities are less important than the travel route, which may be used by all comers, and therefore the situation is very different.

It is apparent now that while highway users are promoting sentiment for application of all highway revenue to road building and maintenance, boatmen and aviators generally do not favor a fuel tax to be used in the building and maintenance of landing fields and docks. Expected proposals for such levies in the next General Assembly will be vigorously op-

Aluminum-Use Is Up

By ELMER ROESSNER

The building industry is proving to be one of the best supporters of the aluminum producers. If Air Force cutbacks are having any negative effect on production it is more than counterbalanced by increased use of the metal in construction and other lines.

Production certainly hasn't suffered. In the most recent month reported, August, output topped 110,000 short tons, furthering a long increase.

Aluminum used by the building products industry increased 33 per cent this year to 560,000 pounds from the 404,000,000 pounds last year, according to one estimate. Production of such products as aluminum nails, window frames, roofing and wire was up 20 per cent or more, a survey by the Nichols Wire & Aluminum Co. indicates. Chain-link fencing sales more than doubled.

Between 1949 and 1953 aluminum window frames increased its share of the market from 5 per cent to 20 per cent. Aluminum nail production increased 30 per cent this year and will total about 4,000,000 pounds.

Manufacturers of zippers, rivets, umbrella frames, knitting needles and refrigerator shelves are ordering by carload lots instead of on a poundage basis for the first time this year, the company reports.

More demand will probably spring from business-machine makers and specialty goods manufacturers. It's well known that at least one automobile company is experimenting with an aluminum engine.

And a New York skyscraper currently being built is sheathed in aluminum. It's not the most beautiful building around, but this is one of the first attempts in this line by the aluminum industry and their product will probably improve esthetically as time goes on.

ELECTRONICS TO AID

A new service called "selevis-ion," to begin January 6, will enable buyers in ten major cities to bid on farm products at various distant points without having to be there.

The Department of Agriculture will certify the produce to be offered by brand, quality and quantity. Accredited buyers will receive these descriptions before each day's auction. When bidding opens an electronic hookup between the ten cities is made and the offers on the first lot appears on a screen in the ten cities.

If a buyer in any city wishes to top the bid he does so and the new offer is flashed on the screen. Also visible is a clock which ticks off the ten-second time limit on new bids.

If no new bid appears a bell rings and "sold" is flashed on the screen.

The system will be advantageous to both buyer and seller if it is successful. The seller need not ship goods until the actual sale is made and the buyer will get his shipment directly, eliminating rerouting and demurrage charges.

WHERE STATES GET THEIR REVENUES

Twenty-three states continue to get their greatest revenues from sales taxes, Commerce Clearing House reports.

Thirteen got most from gasoline taxes and nine did best in income taxes. Two, Louisiana and Texas, got their biggest percentage from severance taxes levied on oil fields and other mineral wealth.

The last, Delaware, received its greatest share from franchise levies—due to the large number of concerns incorporated there.

West Virginia gets more from one single source than any other state. It collects 53 per cent of total revenues in sales taxes. New Jersey has the smallest main source of income—23 per cent from gasoline taxes.

A Real Live Hero Seen Necessary

Today, a man is known not so much by the company he keeps as by the heroes he holds.

There is a two-way relationship between any man and his hero. The hero helps him, and the man through belief adds a lustre to the hero's fame.

When you are young, almost any old hero will do. But as you grow older, you choose your heroes more carefully. Usually, they are people who have risen above problems that area kind of Mt. Everest in your own life.

The nice thing about heroes is they never outgrow you. You outgrow and discard them.

For example, if you like football, you start with Frank Merriwell and his triumphs at Yale and go on to Coach Frank Leahy and his present problems at Notre Dame. Frank Merriwell always won the game, but to make a first down is Frank Leahy's only announced goal. Our goals, like our heroes, grow smaller as we grow older.

Every man has to have a military hero. My first one was Alexander the Great who most people think died from trying to drink a gallon of wine in his early 30s while despairing there were more worlds for him to conquer. I admired him not for his despair or his victories but because I had never met a man in his 30s who could afford a gallon of wine.

When I read later that Alexander the Great had died of brain fever, I lost interest in him. He became too remote.

It was the same way with Stonewall Jackson. He died at 39. After my 40th birthday, even reading of Stonewall Jackson disturbed me. I couldn't forgive him his youth. His early death with a beard. He made me feel too old.

At present, I have only three real military heroes. They are Robert E. Lee, Gen. Omar Nelson Bradley and Ernie Pyle. Of the three, I think Gen. Bradley and Ernie Pyle have survived the most rugged test. It is hard for a man to be a hero in his lifetime.

But as we grow older, I suppose that is the kind of heroes we look for — those who have helped us by their example in our lifetime. This is why an old man admires from the vantage point of his years the father whom he as a boy took for granted. Our heroes grow closer to us as we mature, because as we grow older we pick heroes closer to our needs.

A man needs many heroes, one for every mood.

But he should have a human hero, one with human faults, one not so high that the fog of his perfection obscures him. A hero without faults is not a hero. He is unbelievable.

Some heroes stay with you all your life, changeless and changeless as the climate. I suppose if I had to name the heroes who have worn best with me, they would be the literary heroes of my youth — William Shakespeare, Thomas Hardy and Emily Dickinson. Yet one must also have an unknown hero. To me, it is the person who wrote the lines, that of all lines written, I would most like to have my name beneath.

They are the lines, spoken on some night of splendor by every child who speaks the English tongue and looks up at a sky and says:

"Starlight, star bright, first star I have seen tonight. I wish I may, I wish I might have this wish I wish this night."

You have to have a hero to be a human being — but it's more comfortable to have a human hero. Then you can even admire the flashbacks on his clay feet.

Choir Gives Annual Christmas Program Here Sunday

The choir of the Immanuel Baptist Church will present its annual program of Christmas music on Sunday night at 8 o'clock.

The program will be the premier presentation in Greenville of Fred Waring's "Song of Christmas" for narrator and chorus. This work has been given an annual performance by the Waring group since its publication in 1946 and has increased in popularity with his radio, television and concert audiences. The "Song of Christmas" combines old carols, new melodies and new choruses to tell the story of Christ-

Soloists who will appear in the presentation at Immanuel Baptist Church Sunday night are Frances Smith, Mrs. Martha Martin, Norman Wilkerson, Bill Moore, Jeanne Pritchard and Mrs. Gladys R. White. The Rev. J.A. Neilson will be the narrator.

The choir of the church is directed by Dr. James L. White of the East Carolina College faculty. The choir is now larger than at any time in its history, composed of some 25 regular members of the church and augmented by several college students. The organist is Miss Janet Watson of Greenville.

Prior to the presentation of "Song of Christmas", the congregation will join the choir in singing many of the old familiar carols.

Took Too Much For Mere Taste

CHICAGO (AP)—Otis R. Wagner, 23, appeared in Municipal Court yesterday on charges he stole 150 pounds of a 190-pound deer from the back porch of Charles Phillips, 48.

"I wondered what venison steak tasted like," Wagner told Judge Oscar S. Caplan.

Phillips said the deer cost him $400 and he believes Wagner should pay $300.

"If all he wanted was a taste," Phillips told the judge, "I would gladly have given him a steak. Even given him two. But he didn't have to be a hog."

The case was continued until Dec. 30.

It is the 52-piece high school band from Cresbard, S. D., a town of 218 population. The school has an average enrollment of 70 students.

The director, William E. Klitz, told how the tiny town, 40 miles southwest of Aberdeen, built up the band.

"It was the community spirit which made it possible," he said.

"When we started our music program eight years ago all we had was a bass drum with a broken head. Today we have an inventory of $18,000 in music, equipment and instruments.

"This is our first out-of-state trip. We were invited to the Rose Bowl two years ago but couldn't go because we couldn't raise the $15,000 it would have cost.

"Then last year we were invited to appear at this clinic. We figured it would cost us about $6,000 to make the trip. That looked possible then. We are in the spring wheat area out there and the crop looked wonderful.

"But a week before harvest the rains came. We had rain for three weeks. Everything was flooded. After the rain ended black stem rust broke out. The crop was a failure. We were ready to kiss our trip goodbye.

"And yet by Oct. 1 our school program for the new term was set up and we decided to try to raise that $6,000. That is where the community came to our rescue.

"No tax money was used. But the Faulk Flying Club sponsored a benefit. The parents chipped in despite the crop failure and there were even a few donations from

Face On Family's TV Screen Won't Go Away

BLUE POINT, N. Y. (AP)—Early in the century it was "the face on the barroom floor." But that was a fable.

The face on their television screen, the Travers family says, is not a fable, and they wish it would go away. It doesn't, though, even when the TV set is turned off. Here's their story:

The three pre-school-age Travers children first saw the face—a woman with a fixed stare. The youngsters lined up in front of the screen for a favorite morning program. They got the show, but 6-year-old Caroline ran to her mother, crying:

"We can't see it. A face is in the way."
Mrs. Jerry Travers indulgently investigated. One look and she had an explanation.

The face was probably an image from a previous program, Clurman said, and became engraved on the picture tube as a result of faulty equipment.

To erase the face, Clurman said would require a new tube and a complete overhaul. The Travers took another look at the screen yesterday. The face was still there. They turned the screen-side back to the wall.

Soap Queen Hostess Is Noted For Entertaining

By ROGER L. JOHNSON

ST. LOUIS—Having fun is Mrs. Thomas M. Sayman's main purpose in life, but she says to do that she has to keep busy.

A successful business executive and an active member of more than 30 civic, charity and social organizations, Mrs. Sayman is best known for her entertaining.

Whether it is an informal luncheon for a foreign ambassador or a card party for 400, it's all the same to Mrs. Sayman.

Mansion Impressive
Her large mansion in St. Louis' west side, she insists, is a factor in her success.

St. Louisans who haven't seen the 20-room house have heard about the elaborate furnishings.

"Many guests come to see if the stories are true," the elderly lady says.

A particular attraction is the entrance hall, described by one guest as large enough to hold a five room house. The hall has marbled walls, black paper on the ceiling and gray satin drapes at the windows.

But Mrs. Sayman doesn't just turn over her house she gives her time and energy, too. She always seems to work harder than anyone else, her friends say.

Mrs. Sayman became president of the Sayman Products Co., a soap manufacturing firm, upon her husband's death in 1937. Sayman and she had been a team for years—he as president and she as vice president of the firm.

Entertaining Is Worthwhile

"Being the president of a company doesn't involve complete leisure as some people might think," Mrs. Sayman says. "There are always important things to do if you are really interested in the company."

Even so, she finds time to work with the League of Women Voters, the Grand Opera Guild of St. Louis, the Young Women's Christian Association, the Boy Scouts and a great many charities, both local and national.

"I don't entertain so much just from the social standpoint," Mrs. Sayman explains. "I belong to worthwhile organizations. They hold meetings at my house. When they have outside guests, I help with the entertainment."

Wedding Luncheon Exciting
She insists it doesn't mean work for her. She gives her staff credit for that. Three employees "live in." Others help out on big parties.

She has fun meeting the prominent people who come to St. Louis. Her most exciting occasion was a wedding luncheon for Vice President Alben Barkley and the former Mrs. June Bradley after their marriage here Nov. 19, 1949. About 60 guests attended, but hundreds of onlookers crowded around outside. That was one time her house wasn't the attraction.

Buccaneers Holding Final Session For Bear Contest

Split Twin Bill In Cage Games Thursday Night

BELVOIR—Belvoir-Falkland and Stokes-Pactolus High Schools split a doubleheader here last night with the local girls winning 34-32 and boys losing 72-45.

The girls' game was largely a defensive struggle with Randolph, Tetterton, and Harrell of Belvoir-Falkland and Warren, Meeks, and Tyson of Stokes-Pactolus the standouts of the game.

In the last minute Nancy Worthington of Stokes-Pactolus fouled Betty Lou Parker of Belvoir-Falkland who made the shot to tie the game and then threw the ball in to Marlene Clark who drove under to break the tie and win the game for the local sextet.

In the boys' contest Stokes-Pactolus dominated play after the intermission with Doug James and John Gray leading the way.

The first half was close with Stokes-Pactolus ahead 23-20, but after the intermission the visiting team turned the contest into a rout.

Marlene Clark with 18, and Joan Parker with 13, led the local girls in their win. Bullock scored 18 and Perkins netted 11 for the losing girls.

Doug James led the Stokes-Pactolus boys with 30 points. Gene Harris was high for the losers with 13.

Lenoir Rhyne Handed Bucs First Loss Of 1952-53 Season; Locals Ready For The Crucial Contest

Football Figures Show Slight Gain For Total Season

NEW YORK (P)—Major college football attendance for 1953 was unchanged from year ago—but only because the big powers drew large crowds—an Associated Press survey showed today.

The figures covered the home games of all major conference teams and large independents. The over-all attendance was up, but the increase was so small that it was negligible.

The significant aspect of the survey was that teams like Notre Dame, Southern California, Maryland and Minnesota kept the attendance at major games on an even keel.

Southern California's total jumped from 242,466 in 1952 to 412,772 this year. In five home games, Notre Dame drew 286,406 and Minnesota played before an average crowd of 59,540, one of the highest in the country.

The newly formed Atlantic Coast Conference, led by Maryland and Duke, pulled in 648,749 spectators at 31 games. The Southern Conference attendance, however, dropped 14 per cent. This would lead to the conclusion that the formation of the AAC brought fresh interest to the area.

The over-all increase figured out to 0.004 per cent.

The total attendance at 514 games came to about 12½ million. At an estimated $2.50 per ticket, this brought in more than 30 million dollars without even considering the small college games.

Lenoir-Rhyne has been having its ups-and-downs since a one-point opening-game loss to Belmont Abbey. Coach Jim Hamilton's team is a veteran squad with one of the biggest front lines in the conference with a 6-8 center and a pair of 6-8 forwards.

Ironically enough, the "big" man in the Lenoir-Rhyne attack is little (by comparison) Roland Barker. Barker is 6-1 and a guard in the Lenoir-Rhyne attack. He was the player who wrecked the Bucs last year in the game in which Lenoir-Rhyne defeated East Carolina.

The East Carolina starting line-up for the contest is expected to have at least one major change for the

Non-Conference Game Renews Old Rivalry

Smith Favored To Beat Zulueta

By WAYNE BISHOP
Reflector Sports Writer

Rocky Mount and Greenville participate in different conferences but that won't dampen their rivalry when they meet tonight in the Greenville High gymnasium in a non-loop battle at 8 p.m.

Rocky Mount, one of the outstanding leaders of the Eastern AAA Conference, and Greenville, rated the dark horse of the AA North-eastern conference, have built up a keen rivalry over the years.

Although the highly ranked Blackbirds have defeated the G-men once this season, Coach Farley's boys hope to turn the tables tonight.

Last season the Greenies dropped both contests to the Blackbirds, but this year the G-men boast one of their better squads of the past few years. So far the Farley men have whipped two of the Eastern AAA conference teams while losing only to Rocky Mount.

The Blackbirds pin their hopes on the strong scoring duo of guard Bobby Patterson and center Smokey Lancaster. The Phantoms must offset this pair with a well balanced scoring punch of their own. Coach Farley has stated that, "On any given night any player on the squad could develop into the high scorer."

Forward Bob Howell has been the most consistent scorer up to now. Howell has averaged 16 points per game in the three contests to lead the Phantom point parade.

Center Clark Noble racked up 18 points Tuesday night to prove his scoring ability. Harold Edwards, who can play either forward or center, has a 13 point average for two contests in addition to being the squad's leading rebounder.

Forwards Bobby Starkey and Walter Perkins or guards Edgar Moore, George Sideris, and Tommy Saleed also could score in the double figures on a hot night.

They first clashed 2½ years ago and wound up in a draw after eight rounds. Zully won the next one at 10 rounds last March but Smith evened the score May 5.

In his last five fights, Smith, a power puncher with either hand, put away Johnny Williams, Carl Coates, Charley Spicer, Arthur King and Billy Hazel. His record is 26-8-5 with 15 kayos.

game. That will be at forward where sharp-shooting Don Harris has moved in ahead of Paul Jones. The rest of the line-up will be the same as before with Charlie Huffman at one forward, Bobby Hodges at center, and J. C. Thomas and Cecil Heath at the guards.

Southern League To Decide Soon Concerning Frosh

RICHMOND, Va. (P)—Representatives of the 10 colleges of the Southern Conference met here today to wrestle with the problem of whether to make freshmen once more eligible to play on varsity teams.

At least two members—Furman and Washington and Lee—were ready to go to bat for repeal of the so-called "freshman rule," which bars first year men from varsity competition, as the league convened its annual winter session.

The rule was reinstated only this year after the automatic expiration of regulations adopted in wartime which cleared the way for freshmen to play varsity ball.

It was not clear whether the Furman proposal would draw any sentatives on hand last night said they were carrying "open minds" into today's get-together. Some said elimination of the freshman rule would necessitate an overhaul of numerous other conference bylaws drawn up on the assumption of freshman ineligibility.

A two-thirds majority of the 10 conference schools must favor the proposal before it can be adopted. This meant that Furman would have to find five other institutions besides Washington and Lee before it could succeed in its move to abolish the rule.

Except for the Furman proposal, there was no business of much import to be discussed by the conference unless something exciting were brought up on the floor. Some debate seemed likely to be stirred up by a Washington and Lee suggestion that scholarships to freshman athletes be limited to 20 in each sport. But the W&L proposition appeared doomed to failure unless the freshman rule is abolished.

The Southeastern Conference is the only major conference in the nation which currently does not observe the freshman rule.

Colleges represented here today were The Citadel, Furman, Washington and Lee, Georgia Tech, William and Mary, Virginia Military Institute, Richmond and West Virginia.

Willard Marshall Traded To Chicago White Sox

CHICAGO (P)—Rebuffed in his own American League trading marts, General Manager Frank Lane of the Chicago White Sox has tapped the National League for veteran outfielder Willard Marshall.

To get the 32-year-old southpaw swinger from the Cincinnati Reds, Lane yielded three players—Saul Rogovin, a 30-year-old right-handed pitcher, and infielders Rocco Krsnich and Connie Ryan. All four players had to be waived on in their own league before the trade.

Marshall, a teammate of Sox Manager Paul Richards at Atlanta in 1940 and 1941, has led a fairly successful nomadic life in the majors.

He was bought by the New York Giants in 1942 before entering the service for three years. He returned to the Giants in 1947 and reached his slugging peak by slugging 36 homers, driving in 107 runs and batting .291 that season.

He was traded to the Boston Braves in 1950 and in 1952 was sold to Cincinnati. Last season in 122 games he hit 17 homers, 14 doubles and 6 triples while batting .266 and driving in 62 runs.

Lane has been on the prowl for a front-line third baseman without avail. Marshall may add enough outfield strength to permit the shifting of Minnie Minoso from left field to third, in case Cass Michaels proves inadequate.

Michaels, 27—a utility infielder, was purchased earlier this week from the Philadelphia Athletics.

Rogovin's departure leaves Richards with one less problem. After compiling 12-8 in 1951—leading the league in earned run average with 2.78—and posting 14-9 in 1952, Rogovin collapsed. Last season he dropped to 7-12 and his ERA shot to 5.22.

Krsnich, 25, was always weak at the plate but compensated with his glove. His defensive ability slumped along with his batting in 1953. He batted .202 in 64 games.

Ryan a veteran of 33, was bought last August from the Phillies as an infield stopgap. He hit .222 in 17 games with the Sox.

Carolina Hound Best All Around In Open Trials

MUSCLE SHOALS, Ala. (P)—Pine Ridge Pete could win the United States Open Field Trials with a good performance in the closing casts today.

The Salisbury, N. C., fox hound failed to score any points for speed and drive yesterday but still had the best all-round record of the 90 entrants still in the running.

Until he missed in speed and drive yesterday, Pine Ridge Pete had scored in each department daily since the meet opened Tuesday. The championship will be awarded to the hound with the best average in each of the four performance classifications.

The leader had 65 points for hunting, 50 for trailing, 135 for speed and drive and 10 for endurance, the last won yesterday when endurance points were awarded for the first time in the 1953 trials.

Owned by Dr. L. H. Robertson, Pine Ridge Pete is a son of Pine Ridge Fred, 1949 U. S. Open champion.

Honest John Cutchin, owned by Dr. J. H. Cutchin Jr., Sherrills Ford, N. C., could become a strong contender by picking up enough points in trailing today.

Center Bob Orders signs his name as one of West Virginia University's football players who has no fear of Georgia Tech, the West Virginia opponent in the Sugar Bowl New Year's Day in New Orleans. The list is being signed in the squad locker room on the campus in Morgantown, W. Va. Other players waiting to sign are not identified. (AP Wirephoto).

Cravath Succumbs To Car Injuries

EL CENTRO, Calif. (P)—Newell (Jeff) Cravath, former football coach at the University of Southern California, died yesterday of injuries suffered in a traffic accident.

Critically injured in a traffic crash two days ago, he died in a hospital at the border town of Calexico.

Cravath, 50, coached the Trojans to four conference championships and into the Rose Bowl four times.

Noted for his frankness and friendliness, he made no secret of his bitterness at leaving USC, forced out after the 1950 season by "win or else" alumni groups.

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Matthew 6:9; 22:34-40; Acts 10: 17:24-28; Romans 10:12-13; Galatians 2:11-14; 3:28.

The Pharisees, meeting together, sent one of their number, a lawyer, to tempt Jesus by asking Him which is the great commandment of the law? Christ answered that love of God and fellowman was the greatest of all commandments.

A certain Roman centurion, a devout man who feared God and prayed always, had a vision of an angel who said that his prayers were heard, and told him to send to Joppa to seek and bring back one, Simon Peter.

At Joppa Peter too had a vision in which he was shown that nothing created by God should be judged unclean. Pondering the meaning of the sheet let down from above, he was advised of the coming of Cornelius' men.

Before those at Cornelius' home, Peter said: "Of a truth I perceive that God is no respecter of persons, but in every nation he that feareth Him and worketh righteousness, is accepted with Him."

MEMORY VERSE—Acts 10:34-35.

One Human Race

ALL NATIONS ARE ONE IN CHRIST JESUS

Scripture—Matthew 6:9; 22:34-40; Acts 10: 17:24-28; Romans 10:12-13; Galatians 2:11-14; 3:28.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
THE FIRST lesson to be learned today is Jesus' words to the Pharisee lawyer sent to tempt him with the question: "Which is the greatest commandment in the law?"

"Thou shalt love thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind. This is the first and great commandment. And the second is like unto it: Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself. On these two commandments hang all the law and the prophets."

It is easy for most people to love God, but do we love our neighbors? The commandment says nothing about the race, color of the skin, nationality, of our neighbors, but quite simply tells us to love them as we love ourselves. It may be a difficult matter in some cases, but if we really work at it as Christ would have us, wouldn't it bring small areas of peace and love to our bitter and quarrelsome world, which him back to Caesarea with them. He kept them overnight, and next day the four journeyed to Cornelius' home. He had gathered there all his relatives and close friends and he welcomed them to his home; in fact, he fell at Peter's feet and worshipped him. Peter "took him up, saying, Stand up; I myself am a man."

Standing before the assemblage, Peter referred to the fact that he was a Jew, and that it was considered unlawful for him to keep company with those of other nations, but that God had shown him that this was wrong. Then Cornelius told of his experience and how he had been told to send for Peter. Then Peter stood up before the people gathered in the house, and said:

"Of a truth I perceive that God is no respecter of persons; but in every nation he that feareth Him, and worketh righteousness, is accepted with Him."—Acts 10:34-35.

might spread and do incalculable good?

Now we are told of a certain Roman captain named Cornelius. He was a very good man who feared God, was generous with alms, and prayed fervently. A vision was granted him of an angel of God who told him his prayers had been heard and that the Lord had ordered him to send to Joppa and seek out a man named Simon Peter and have him brought to his home in Caesarea.

Three men were chosen to go to Joppa. In the meantime Peter had gone to the rooftop of the house of Simon, a tanner, to pray. He was hungry and fell into a trance. While in that condition, he saw a sheet let down from heaven containing all manner of beasts. A voice told Peter to kill and eat, but he protested that he had never eaten unclean meat, and the voice answered: "What God hath cleansed, that call not thou unclean."

Pondering on what was meant by this vision, Peter was told by the same voice that three men were seeking him, and saying, "Arise therefore, and get thee down, and go with them, for I have sent them."

Peter went down to the men and they told him what had happened to that good man, Cornelius, and that they had come to take

(He is the Lord of all): That word was published throughout Judea, and began from Galilee, after the baptism which John preached."

Then Peter preached the gospel of Christ, and He risen, and while he still spoke the Holy Ghost fell on all present, and while some marveled at this, Peter baptized them all.

Included in our lesson is Paul's speech to the Athenians on Mars' Hill. Paul also wrote to the Romans, you remember. "For there is no difference between the Jew and the Greek; for the same Lord over all is rich unto all that call upon Him. For whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved."

In his letter to the Galatians Paul emphasized his words to the Romans, writing: "There is neither Jew nor Greek, there is neither bond nor free, there is neither male nor female: for ye are all one in Christ Jesus."

In every nation the people are divided into classes—the rich and the poor; the illiterate and the educated; the rulers and the ruled. Can you vision a world in which all would be on the same level? In God's sight we are one class—just His children. When are we going to learn this truth and act like brothers and sisters—children of one family?

BETTER VISION BETTER SHOPPING

Shopping is supposed to be one of woman's most enjoyable pleasures. But some women find it tiring. After a day of examining price tags and materials, a day spent in stores chock full of all kinds of merchandise—they arrive home headachy and tired and irritable.

Poor vision is often to blame. When eyesight defects are corrected, shopping returns to its place as a pleasure. Keen eyesight can buy better, too—bargains are really bargains.

CHAPTER TWENTY-NINE

"IN THE fourth-floor ladies' room, dressed as a woman, wearing a tan coat and a black hat?" Mario asked.

Lieutenant Chase threw up his hands. "I know, I know. So far it doesn't make sense. So far. But you, after all, were alone with Mr. Cummings Friday. We may not know everything that transpired between you . . . Now, Mr. Callahan."

Tim moistened his lips and swallowed as though he had a sore throat.

Lieutenant Chase tossed a small silver cigarette lighter on the table. "O for Callahan, or Cummings, or Charlotte," he said.

They all stared at the fancy C monogrammed on the lighter. "Is this yours, Mr. Callahan?" Tim shook his head negatively, dazedly.

"Miss Morgan. Is it yours?" "No, lieutenant."

"Did any one of you ever see Mr. Callahan, Miss Morgan or Mr. Cummings use this lighter?"

No one had. "This lighter," the lieutenant said, "was found near the body. At the foot of the shaft. In a small pool of oil, so that no fingerprints could be obtained. Someone could have received it for Christmas, maybe that's why none of the rest of you ever saw it. Maybe you got it from that girl friend who so loyally swears you were with her Friday night, Mr. Callahan."

Tim tried a sheepish smile that turned out to be sickly over with the pale cast of apprehension. Charlotte put it to herself.

"It isn't mine," Tim said. "I didn't kill Mr. Cummings. I had no motive. I'm full of faults, but I'm not the killing kind."

"Everyone's the killing kind," the lieutenant said. "But about you. According to your personnel record, you were quite, 'clever but maladjusted to business,' unquote. The frustration angle again. I hear you had self-admitted repressions and aggressions. I hear Mr. Cummings didn't approve of your writing poetry. Now suppose you wanted some money and a pretty watch for that girl friend. Suppose you filched these the other day from the store?" The lieutenant now laid out two small jeweled watches.

The watches King had said were stolen! But if Lieutenant Chase had them where had they been? Perhaps in King's drawer—where he had put them, after he himself took them, to make it look as though there'd been a robbery? In case he needed it to intimidate Charlotte?

"Mr. Cummings found you out, say," the lieutenant went on, "and threatened your job, exposure. Or suppose he didn't know yet. But Friday night he came back to look out for a possible prowler and found you. Did you steal these watches? Did you push Mr. Cummings?"

All the while Tim had been biting his lip. His eyes filled with tears. It was awful to watch.

Charlotte dropped her eyes. Oh, miserable mortals, she thought. At least all of us sitting here involved in this sordid mess. The innocent sucked into it with the guilty. Yet in a way no one is innocent; they've all hated, and here are the effects of hating and of being hated. We're all partners in crime.

We sit here naked. The decency and dignity of privacy are stripped away, and the bare truth is grotesque. Was it for this our mothers brought us forth in pain, measured our formulas like chemists, dressed us warmly against the cold, kept us clean to ward off germs, to keep us alive for this? Was it for this teachers tried to teach us, and we tried to learn, and dreamed our dreams of grandeur, all we'd be when we grew up?

Oh, waste and defacement of fleeting life.

But then Charlotte stiffened as she heard Velora's words. "About a year ago," she was saying, "a couple of similar watches disappeared. And two rings. From Charlotte's office; that is they were merchandise samples she was responsible for, only she said they were stolen from her locker."

You heel, Charlotte thought, and she tried to look into all the faces turned toward her, but they were blurring, like a bad movie.

"That's true, lieutenant," Charlotte said. I can't see but I can talk, Charlotte thought; that's funny. "However, I was cleared, as Miss Van Camp knows. Mr. Cummings said the culprit was found. We were never told who it was or what had happened."

"Some of us had an idea," Velora said.

But her voice was far away, like the growl of a dog when you were a sleepy child and fighting to keep awake to hear what they said, especially when they were talking about you. I'm fighting not to faint, but I am, I never fainted in my life and I'm going to; oh, no, I won't, I won't, but I am . . .

There was the smell of ammonia and the white blur became the store nurse, Miss Phelps.

Charlotte started to sit up. "You'd better just lie still a bit longer," Miss Phelps said.

"I'm all right now," Charlotte stood up, fighting off the longing to lie down again.

"You ought to wait awhile." "I need food more than anything. That was the trouble, I had no breakfast. Silly of me to faint."

"That can happen to the best of us," Miss Phelps said. She eyed Charlotte with an unerring air of omniscience. "Here," she handed Charlotte a pill and a cup of water. "Down the hatch. It's a sedative. You can use it."

That I can, Charlotte thought, tempted.

"Take it," Miss Phelps ordered. "Well, you put it that way. Charlotte smiled and downed it. "Thanks." She started toward the door, then hesitated. "Did I—?"

She had been going to ask whether she talked, but thought better of it.

"You didn't say a word," Miss Phelps winked wisely. "Silent as the grave."

"That's good," Charlotte said. "I wouldn't have wanted the lieutenant to know my lurid past." She walked out.

Permit Shipping Trees To Mexico

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Mexico is going to have at least 112,019 legal Christmas trees this year. The Agriculture Department has issued permits for the import of that many foreign-grown trees so far.

The government forbids the cutting of trees in Mexico. It's trying to build back depleted forests.

And there's no law against trees of metal, or some other non-growing material.

First painted rooftop and highway markers for air travel were set up between Indianapolis, Ind. and Dayton, Ohio.

RALEIGH (AP)—Three small textile industries are expected to start operations in the state soon, according to Conservation and Development Director Ben E. Douglas.

Two of the concerns are in the west and the other is in eastern Fairmont.

Douglas said the Mountain Top Co., manufacturers of children's play clothes, has acquired a building in Hendersonville. It expects to employ 100 persons at the start of operations, more later.

The pilot plant of the Fairmont Manufacturing Co., at Fairmont, which will make women's and children's wear, is scheduled to begin operations before the end of this week. It will employ 25 women at the start, and 150 to 250 later on.

The Beacon Hill Rug Co. plans to start production at Fletcher around Jan. 1 and will employ 25 or more persons at the start.

Oklahoma City (AP)—Whisky is just too risky, the Tristate Insurance Co. contended yesterday before District Judge Albert C. Hunt.

The company wanted the court to set aside a ruling instructing the firm to sell insurance to David L. Veatch, admitted bootlegger.

On his application for insurance Veatch stated he was a tavern owner and operated a retail liquor sales outfit—in bone dry Oklahoma.

The governing committee of the Oklahoma Motor Vehicle Assigned Risk Plan had found Veatch eligible for insurance and instructed the commissioner to order the company to write a policy.

Appealing to the court, the company said the decision "id force the writing of a policy which is clearly unenforceable as completely repugnant to public policy."

Teacher Recruiting Task Is Discussed By Dean Jenkins

HIGH POINT — Free teacher education financed on the local level and organization of future teacher units in high school were encouraged by Dean Leo W. Jenkins of East Carolina College in an address delivered Thursday at a meeting of school superintendents held in High Point.

Effective Future Teachers of America Clubs in the high schools can provide "on-the-job training situations in elementary schools," Dean Jenkins pointed out.

A quota of 25-cents per capita, either from local taxation or community subscription, through organization of citizens groups in counties and cities will provide fund for annually for loan scholarships for high school graduates desirous of becoming elementary school teachers, Dean Jenkins said in discussing his plan.

Citing the benefits from such funds which would enable students to attend most teachers colleges, Dean Jenkins said the fund would grow each year and over a four-year period would mean 30 high school graduates could become elementary teachers.

"In a democracy such as ours, with our many social, economic and political problems, it is of paramount concern to all that our children receive a good education. This teacher-shortage problem can be licked the way we have historically solved many of our other difficulties—locally. It is our problem . . . Citizens will respond to the appeal if it is presented to them in a logical and clean manner."

Jenkins went on to emphasize adding that "the program should not be financed by the state, especially at the expense of teachers' salaries."

Citing a plan used by a Greenville civic club in student loans rather than a grant-in-aid, Dean Jenkins noted the benefits coming to the teaching profession from the assistance provided the students using the loan fund.

Teacher and school superintendents should encourage people to enter the teaching profession, as other professional people aid recruiting programs the speaker said.

Turning to a discussion of keeping teachers, the dean expressed the belief that North Carolina will have a stronger teaching corps if it operates under a state tenure law.

Other factors in keeping teachers are freedom from details associated with the multiplicity of drives that are ever present in our school freedom to accept or decline community invitations from extra work, and freedom from "nagging" about matters which are the concern of the school board or the county board of education Jenkins cited.

Dean Jenkins noted that "we can get good teachers and hold good teachers if we put some effort to the task and stop wasting time bemoaning the teacher shortage to the tune of those who would relegate teacher shortage to the tune of those who would relegate teachers to the role of martyrs. Teaching has always been a challenge for strong and courageous people. Let us keep it that way, remembering always that 'he who dares to teach must never cease to learn.'"

Polish Refugees Ready To Form Gov't In Exile

LONDON (AP)—Poland's refugees from communism are getting ready to name a new parliament in exile.

As a preparatory step, Roman Odziejewski, Premier of the free Polish government in London, submitted the resignation of his five-man Cabinet yesterday to the President of the Polish republic in exile, August Zaleski. The Cabinet will continue functioning, however, until a new Polish National Council—the exile parliament—can be elected by delegates of Polish groups now living in the West.

The council claims to represent a million such non-Communist Poles.

Nearly 600,000 Vets In Schools

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Veterans Administration reported today that nearly 600,000 veterans were enrolled in colleges and schools under its training programs this fall.

Included were a record 217,000 veterans taking training under the Korean GI Bill, 346,000 World War II veterans under the original GI bill and 26,000 disabled veterans.

The previous record for Korean GI trainees was 131,000 veterans in April 1953.

Firemen Host At Annual Ladies' Night

Members of the Greenville Fire Department and their guests are shown above at their Christmas party held at Respass Brothers Barbecue House last night. The program, sponsored by the volunteer firemen, is an annual affair. Gifts were given to each of the firemen present. (Photo by Roy Hardee).

Nearly 100 persons attended the Annual Ladies Night Banquet staged by the Greenville Fire Department last night.

The program was opened with the invocation by the Rev. B. T. Lewis, after which dinner was served.

Fire Chief George Gardner briefly outlined the history and progress made by the Greenville Fire Department since the depression years and praised the work of both the volunteer and paid firemen.

Gardner next favorably commented on the City Manager, Council form of government, which was placed in operation in Greenville this year. He expressed his appreciation for the fine spirit of cooperation existing between the Fire Department, Police Department, and other city departments. He remarked that it was his and every member of the department's goal to keep the Greenville Fire Department the best in the State.

The members of the City Council, City Manager, James S. Hughes, Chief of Police S. G. Gibbs, Street Superintendent C. K. Beatty, City Clerk H. H. Duncan and their wives were recognized by Roy Hardee, who, along with Ralph Heidenreich, acted as Master of Ceremonies. Heidenreich was in charge of entertainment and distributing gifts donated by local Greenville merchants. Heidenreich then led the group in the singing of Christmas songs, after which Mrs. Vance Arnold entertained the guests with piano selections for Christmas.

The Rev. R. B. Crawford, pastor of the Greenville Free Will Baptist Church, who is serving as one of the Fire Department Chaplains, spoke briefly about the meaning of Christmas. In conclusion, he stressed the fact that "it is more blessed to give than to receive," and that Christianity is the spirit of giving.

Contests in which the guests participated provided merriment, and with the arrival of Santa Claus in his traditional bright red attire, the gifts donated to the Firemen's Ladies Night Banquet were distributed. Each lady was presented with a carnation bouquet and the men with cigars.

The members of the Volunteer Department presented Captain Lyman Nethercutt with a leather jacket in appreciation for his work with various department projects.

Insurance Men Hear Talk On Responsibility Law

The Pitt County Insurance Exchange, at its supper meeting last night, voted that insurance offices will close Thursday, December 24, at 1 o'clock and reopen for business Monday morning, December 28.

J. W. Joyner, Farmville insurance executive, explained the new Motor Vehicle Safety Responsibility Law, passed by the last General Assembly at Raleigh. The law becomes effective January 1, 1954.

He said the law was passed to protect everyone in North Carolina against operators or owners of motor vehicles who become involved in accidents and fail to pay for the damage they cause. It also promotes street and highway safety by the state's ability to remove habitual accident causers from behind the wheel of motor vehicles.

Joyner reminded of the state's warning that the operator of every car involved in an accident that results in death or injury to a person, or total property damage to an apparent extent of $100 or more, must immediately, by the quickest means of communication, report the accident. Report to the local police department if it occurs in a municipality, or to the nearest station of the State Highway Patrol or sheriff.

The operator of a car involved in an accident also must make a written report to the North Carolina Department of Motor Vehicles. The speaker emphasized the point that "motorists who carry the right kind of insurance are exempt from those requirements."

Football Coach Jack Boone of East Carolina College was a special guest and he discussed plans for developing and maintaining a winning football team at the college. He said he will lose some of this year's players by graduation, but has some excellent freshmen material coming in.

Secretary Phil A. Goodson Jr. reported that the Advertising Committee will distribute placards to the members shortly.

President J. B. Smith presided.

Optometrists At Society Meeting

Local Optometrists Dr. Kenneth L. Quiggins and Dr. Sam T. White II Wednesday night attended an Eastern North Carolina meeting of the State Optometric Society in Rocky Mount.

The State Optometric president, Dr. James Palmer of Charlotte, talked with the members concerning Optometry's role in rendering more adequate and efficient eye care to the people of North Carolina.

Various talks were given on the visual problems dealt with throughout the State.
