

Aftermath Of Speeding

Six Young People Injured In Road Race And Wreck

Six teen-agers were injured last night when the cars in which they were racing on a rural highway went out of control near Warren's Chapel. The two cars were traveling west on the rural paved road at the time of the crash. An eye-witness to the accident said that the cars came by his house at a very high rate of speed side-by-side. One car ran off the road and went 215 feet before turning several times and finally coming to a stop upside down. The second car left the road on the right side jumped two ditches, crashed through two fences in a field and overturned 255 feet from the point where the first car overturned. Patrolmen stated that both cars were turned over several times before coming to a halt.

Proposed Housing Aids Praised By Lawmakers

WASHINGTON (AP)—An advisory committee's recommendation that the government continue public housing aids and liberalize other federal housing programs won praise from some members of Congress today. And Emanuel M. Spiegel, president of the National Assn. of Home Builders, hailed the committee's 52-point program as "bold, progressive, visionary practical." The committee's report was handed to President Eisenhower yesterday by his housing administrator, Albert M. Cole, who told reporters he personally disagrees with some of the recommendations. The committee was formed to guide the President in formulating a housing policy he is due to send to Congress after the first of the year. The report pointed up the theme that the government should spur private industry to supply housing for low income and minority groups, eventually eliminating the need for direct federal housing subsidies. One recommendation aimed in this direction calls for liberalization of Federal Housing Administration (FHA) mortgage insurance so low income Americans can buy modestly priced homes with practically no down payment, financing them with 40-year mortgages. Along this same line, the 23-member committee proposed a lease and purchase plan under which tenants could buy their homes when their incomes rose sufficiently to swing it. Last summer, Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala.) charged that the advisory committee was "staked" against public housing—but the group recommended a continuing low-rent public housing program... pending demonstrated progress of other programs. A sampling of congressional comment on the proposed program: Sen. Johnston (D-SC): "It looks as if the Eisenhower administration has begun to see the Democratic light on housing. We need many more units of public housing." Sen. Ives (R-NY), a member of the Senate Banking Committee which handles housing legislation: "This whole program sounds very attractive." Sen. Edwin Johnson (D-Colo.), said the recommendations are "very wise politically." He called for at least 35,000 public housing units a year. Congress this year authorized only 20,000 new units.

Boy Confesses Brutally Beating Girl With Iron Pipe On Impulse

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A high school honor student yesterday brutally beat a 14-year-old neighbor girl with an iron pipe as she ran screaming through her fashionable home. Mercy Hospital attendants said today the victim, red-haired Linda Frey, suffered these injuries: Four front teeth knocked out... lips cut and swollen... head badly gashed... three fingers on her left hand broken... index finger almost severed at the first joint. Homicide Inspectors Al Nelder and Ralph McDonald said Cristiano (Rocky) Castro Jr., confessed to the beating and was held on a charge of assault to commit murder. He is 13. "Something just came over me," the youth said. "I knew I shouldn't do it but something kept pushing me. When I realized what I had

NATO Cheered By Sharing Atom

By TOM MASTERSON PARIS (AP)—The North Atlantic closing sessions of its 12th meeting today considerably cheered by the Eisenhower administration's pledge to work for a sharing of atomic tactics with America's 13 NATO allies. The prospects of limited atomic cooperation, raised yesterday by U.S. Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson, helped ease some of the sting left by Secretary of State Dulles' threat the day before that American aid to Europe may be cut if the European army isn't approved soon. In contrast to the anger with which the British and French press reacted to Dulles' blunt remarks, Wilson's assurances to the NATO ministers attracted little attention in the Paris and London papers. There was no editorial comment on the defense secretary's pledges and they received only slight prominence in the Parisian accounts of the NATO meeting. The furor over Dulles' statement spread today to Moscow. The Kremlin-controlled press accused the American secretary of blackmail, a crude ultimatum and pressure tactics in prodding the French to ratify the European army pact. The Soviet accounts said Dulles' remarks had strengthened French opposition to the treaty. Wilson promised only that Congress would be asked to approve letting the NATO nations have "pertinent information" on how to use the atomic weapons America

Armed Services Honor Wrights

By VEEN HAUGLAND Associated Press Aviation Editor KITTLY HAWK, N.C. (AP)—The armed services marshaled today the greatest military air tribute ever paid to the Wright Brothers and to the place where they flew the world's first powered airplane. More than 300 airplanes, helicopters and blimps, from a wide range of bases throughout the Southern and Eastern states, were assigned places in a great air show to commemorate the golden anniversary of powered flight. A Pentagon spokesman said it was easily the most elaborate air event of 1953, "bigger even than the National Aircraft Show at Dayton last fall." Today was "Defense Day" at the four-day anniversary celebration. The defense motif was stressed also in luncheon addresses by Donald A. Quarles, assistant secretary of defense, and retired Gen. George C. Kenney who was Douglas MacArthur's air commander during World War II. Two North American F86 Sabre Jets gave Kitty Hawk an unscheduled "sample sonic boom" yesterday. Air show officials said they thought the planes were on a routine mission out of Langley Air Force Base, Va., but were not sure. Eight F86's from the Tactical Air Command at Langley, promised to deliver a real emphatic sonic boom today. They emphatically produce the giant bang by diving from an altitude of 45,000 feet and passing through the so-called sonic barrier—that is, exceeding the speed of sound which at that altitude is about 760 miles an hour. The pull-out takes place at about 20,000 feet. The sound waves during such a maneuver strike the ground like a clap of thunder. Some of the other scheduled air events: By the Marines—Flight demonstrations by 12 F2H Banshees and 12 F2D Skyknights and by 16 Sikorsky HRS helicopters, from Cherry Point. By the Navy—Two blimps from Elizabeth City. They were assigned to do a "squeeze"—a sharp circling maneuver—around the Wright brothers monument on nearby Kill Devil Hill. By the Army—12 Cessna L19s, three Canadian DeHavilland L30 Beavers, three Beech L23s, six Hiller H23 helicopters and a platoon of Piasecki H23 helicopters, all from Ft. Bragg. By the Coast Guard—Simulated air rescue mission by helicopters from the Elizabeth City Air Station. By the Air Force—Memorial formation by 13 F84 Thunderjets from Turner Air Force Base, Albany Ga.; formation flying by six Fairchild C119 Flying Boxcars and six Douglas C124 Douglas Globemasters from Donaldson Air Force Base, S. C.; maneuvers by three Northrup F89D Scorpions from Presque Isle, Me., three F86Ds from Andrews Air Force Base, Md., and three Lockheed P94Cs from Langley; precision formation flying by the famed Thunderbirds team of four Republic F84s from Luke Air Force Base, Glendale Ariz.

Farm Population Of State Drops

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina's farm population declined 20,618 during 1952. A farm census summary issued yesterday by the State Department of Agriculture showed there were 1,488,618 persons living on North Carolina farms as of Jan. 1, 1952. The total had dropped to 1,467,709 as of last January. The statistical information is based on data collected from farmers by tax-listers and other enumerators appointed by county commissioners. There was an increase of 55,975 during 1952 in cows and heifers, two years old and over, kept for beef. As of January, 1952, the total was 156,676, compared with 212,651 last January. Dairy cows of the same age increased from 301,179 to 310,846.

President Will Continue To Seek International Atom Controls Will Go On Despite Soviet

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today he will keep right on working for international control of atomic energy even if the Russians turn down his recent share-the-atom proposal. The President made the statement at a news conference at which he also said he does not intend to ask any change in the Atomic Energy Act which would lead to this country's sharing scientific processes or techniques for building atomic weapons. Eisenhower said he is by no means giving up hope the sharing of U.S. atomic secrets with foreign powers. Wilson said Eisenhower is prepared to ask Congress to amend the law. The NATO ministers quickly approved these goals for their 1954 campaign to forge a stronger West European defense wall against Soviet aggression: 1. A 25 per cent hike in air power to give NATO close to 5,700 planes by the end of 1954. A high American official had said earlier the United States would contribute at least half the total increase. 2. A 5 per cent increase in ground forces to give NATO 103 front-line and reserve divisions. 3. A 15 per cent boost in naval craft, for a total of about 1,900 by the end of next year. Wilson promised NATO allies the United States would keep up its supply to them of modern weapons and munitions. He called on West European military leaders to hurry on with the job of devising procedures for using the weapons to best advantage. It was the coldest weather of the season over the North Central region. But most of the mid-continent felt the sting of the wintry weather. Freezing temperatures extended into Texas. At the same time, cold air pushed into sections of the Southeast. It was around freezing in parts of northern Florida. Readings were in the 30s in sections of the east Gulf Coast. The season's coldest weather blanketed Florida with frost to the Everglades, Tallahassee, Fla. reported a low of 33 early today. Snow covered most of the Midwest cold belt and northerly winds ranging up to 25 miles an hour resulted in drifting in some areas. However, only light falls and flurries were reported during the night in the northern Plains and the Great Lakes region eastward to New York and Southward to Kentucky. North Dakota and Minnesota were the coldest states. It was 20 below early today in Fargo and Grand Forks, N.C., as the icy air pushed across the border and headed east and southward. Minnesotans also shivered in the below zero weather. It was -17 at International Falls, Minn., -12 below in Duluth and zero in Minneapolis. Temperatures of between zero and 20 were general throughout the North Central states. There appeared no relief from the cold for at least 24 hours. The forecast was sub-zero readings again tonight. Temperatures were above seasonal levels in the Rockies, the Far West and the far Southwest.

control in another way. A reporter asked the President about Secretary of Defense Wilson's statement to the North Atlantic Council in Paris yesterday that Congress would be asked soon to permit the sharing of information on atomic weapons with its NATO allies. Eisenhower replied that some changes in the law will be necessary before this country can realize the fullest advantages of atomic progress. But no changes are contemplated, he went on, which have anything to do with the scientific processes involved in developing atomic energy or with the building of atomic weapons. This appeared to mean that what the administrator does contemplate, if Congress approves is sharing information about the use of atomic weapons and perhaps sharing the weapons themselves with America's allies. Along that line Eisenhower said it would depend on circumstances, meaning military circumstances, whether this country turned over atomic weapons to its allies. He said if war comes America should use its atomic weapons in whatever way would be to the best advantage of the United States. Quite possibly, he said, it would be best to let an ally use American weapons under certain circumstances. The President said the administration has received no official Soviet reaction to the plan he outlined to the United Nations General Assembly. At the news conference, the President also: 1. Stated that the general objective of the series of conferences with GOP legislative leaders which he will begin tomorrow is to secure a meeting of minds. The President added that must be accomplished, so far as the executive and legislative branches of the government are concerned, if our kind of government is to operate successfully. 2. Commended Vice President Nixon on the accomplishments of the world tour he completed this week. Eisenhower said both the official reports and those in the press make it clear that Nixon did a splendid job. The vice president, and Mrs. Nixon represented the U.S. in an admirable fashion, the President said. 3. Declared in effect that he agrees with Secretary of State Dulles' remarks prodding France to ratify the European defense army project. The law of the land, the President said already provides that 50 per cent of this year's appropriations for foreign aid must be channeled into the European Defense Community, which has not been set up as yet. If there is no EDC, the President asked, what do we do? He added he was somewhat astonished that anyone would feel there is anything blurt or new in what Dulles said in Paris.

Cotton, Peanut Controls Given Big Endorsement Overwhelming Vote Is Cast

WASHINGTON (AP)—Farmers who grow the country's cotton and peanut crops left no doubt today that they want production and marketing controls—and continued high support prices—for those crops. They voted overwhelmingly yesterday to approve the control proposals advanced by Secretary of Agriculture Benson.

With all but one of 119 boxes counted in the peanut referendum growers voted 1,433 to 22 for continued controls. By approving controls growers are assured that the government next year will continue to support those crops at 90 per cent of parity. Had the farmers rejected the controls the support price would have dropped to 50 per cent of parity. Once marketing quotas are voted, excess sales subject the seller to a penalty of 80 per cent of parity. Parity is a standard for measuring farm prices, declared by law to be fair to farmers in relation to prices they pay. Last August when Benson called for controls on cotton, he set the national cotton acreage allotment for next year at 17,910,464 acres—an acreage designed to produce a crop of about 10 million bales of cotton. He said that under law this was the biggest allotment he could offer. But he has recommended that Congress hike this to about 21 million acres, saying the sharp cut would impose hardship on many growers.

Pitt County cotton and peanut growers showed overwhelmingly that they want marketing quotas on those two farm crops next year in yesterday's referendum. Eligible voters cast 1,280 votes in favor of production and marketing quotas on peanuts with only 11 voting against it. 2,625 cast votes in favor of cotton quotas with a mere 14 against.

Unofficial returns from 74 of North Carolina's 78 cotton-growing counties gave 44,225 votes for cotton quotas and 2,142 against, a percentage of 95.5. Forty-one of the 44 peanut-producing counties gave 14,500 for quotas and 288 against. This was a 97.4 percentage.

Cotton farmers in 30 states returned out about 600,000 strong and voted nearly 16 to 1 in favor of limiting production of the 1954 cotton crops. The percentage of "Yes" votes was about 94 per cent.

Some congressmen have proposed a 6000 limit on the deduction while others have urged allowances to cover all expenses of child care for working mothers. Advocates of tax relief in this field argue that in many cases the expense of baby sitters or other child care is necessary to employment by the wage earner, and should be deducted on the same basis that business expenses are deducted.

Staff Experts Approve Small Measure Of Relief Restricted Tax Cut Agreed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Treasury and congressional staff experts today were reported agreed on a restricted tax cut for some parents who must pay child care expenses while they work. The proposed relief is so slight, however, —a maximum $300 deduction with strict limitations — it seems certain to run into strong demands by lawmakers for more liberal provisions. More than 25 bills already are pending to give a tax break to millions of working mothers, widows, and others. The plan is part of a mammoth proposal for revision of almost all revenue laws. Some 70 staff experts from congressional committees and the Treasury have been working privately on recommendations for almost a year. Informed sources said the staff proposal on child care expenses would provide a tax cut only to single heads of household—widows, widowers, separated parents, and others. It would not give relief to married couples who hire baby sitters while both husband and wife work as proposed by some members of Congress. Also, the proposal would apply only to workers who have children under 7. The theory is that caring for school-age children is not so much a problem as caring for younger ones. The plan would permit workers meeting these qualifications to deduct from their incomes, for tax purposes, up to $300 annually of actual expenses for child care. Less than 25 million dollars in annual tax revenue would be involved.

Some congressmen have proposed a 6000 limit on the deduction while others have urged allowances to cover all expenses of child care for working mothers. Advocates of tax relief in this field argue that in many cases the expense of baby sitters or other child care is necessary to employment by the wage earner, and should be deducted on the same basis that business expenses are deducted.

South Korean Escapee Says Fear Keeps GIs

SEOUL (AP)—A South Korean prisoner returned here from the pro-Communist POW camp at Panmunjom today was quoted as saying he had talked with "three Americans who desire repatriation." Pfc. Kim Mun Du, who bolted the pro-Red camp and asked for repatriation, arrived here in an American ambulance after being turned over to the Allies by the Indian command this afternoon. He told his story to ROK army officers. Newsmen were not allowed to talk to Kim. But Col. Chok Kak Kyun, who interviewed him, quoted him as saying: "A few of the 22 Americans who the Reds say do not want repatriation are willing to come home. I talked with three Americans who desire repatriation." Chok said Kim knew some English. The soldier also was quoted as saying the Reds have deliberately stalled Allied explanations to balking POWs "in order to prevent repatriation of some of the remaining prisoners who desire to come home."

Kim was quoted as saying most of the 77 South Koreans who, along with 22 Americans and 1 Briton, have not been interviewed, desire repatriation. Chok said Kim told him the Reds apparently did not want to give these prisoners a chance to come home. The colonel, an explainer himself, said he thought the Reds produced their strongest pro-Communists among the 250 South Koreans interviewed by the U. N., and then balked when they got down to POWs who might choose repatriation. He said there was little hope for Allied explanations to the remaining Americans, Koreans and Briton. But Chok said Kim told him it was still possible some of them might ask for repatriation. Kim will be allowed to give a press interview tomorrow, Chok said.

Ambassador Dean Still Believes Korea Peace Talks Can Be Made

TOKYO (AP)—U. S. envoy Arthur H. Dean headed for Washington today hopeful that a Korean peace conference will be called despite seven weeks of no progress preliminary negotiations. As he boarded a Pan American airliner for a nonstop flight to Honolulu, Dean told newsmen it is "distinctly possible" that talks to set up a peace conference will be resumed although it might take some time. Dean, spokesman for 17 Allied nations which fought in Korea, broke off the talks Saturday and demanded that the Communists apologize for accusing the United States of conniving with South Korea to release 27,000 anti-Red prisoners last June. The Reds have not apologized and today Peiping radio repeated the charge and accused Dean of wrecking plans for a peace conference. Moscow radio also declared that suspension of the preliminary negotiations was part of "the long term maneuvers of the United States for wrecking the armistice in Korea. Dean will make a full report to the State Department on his return to Washington, where he is due tomorrow. The U.S. envoy's chief adviser, Kenneth Young, returns to Korea tomorrow to await possible Communist retraction of the perflous charge against the United States. Although the outlook for a Korean peace conference was doubtful, South Korea's President Syngman Rhee told a news-conference in Seoul that he would give the conference 90 days to make progress toward unification of his country. Rhee stressed, however, that he would wait only a "certain time" for the conference to get underway. In the past Rhee and other South Korean government leaders have threatened to drive northward against the Communists unless the war-torn peninsula was unified by late January—90 days after the conference was scheduled to open under terms of the armistice. Allied diplomats here viewed Rhee's statement as a major policy shift which goes a long way toward easing the danger of a new outbreak of warfare in Korea.

With close of the Greenville tobacco market today for Christmas holidays, it was estimated that approximately 33,000,000 pounds of tobacco had been sold since the opening date. It is generally agreed among growers and warehousemen that the season has been the best, judging from every viewpoint in the history of the local market. Prices have proved satisfactory to farmers because the average paid here has been above Wilson and other places in this territory. So far as can be ascertained there has not been a single complaint made by growers about the local market.

Mrs. V. C. Fleming Is Hostess To U.D.C.

A most delightful meeting of the George B. Singletary Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy was held at the home of Mrs. V. C. Fleming Sr. on Thursday, December 10. Lovely arrangements of Christmas decorations were seen throughout the home. Mrs. Fleming met the members and a number of invited guests and invited them into her cheery living room.

Mrs. J. L. Fleming presided over a short business session. The treasurer reported that a gift of $10.00 would be sent to the Confederate Woman's Home at Fayetteville to be used at Christmas.

Mrs. J. T. Gaylor had charge of the program. She used as her subject "A Christmas Plantation Party." She treated her subject well and everyone felt that they had really spent a Christmas of the long ago.

Mrs. Fleming invited her guests into the dining room where from a beautifully Christmas table, they were served refreshments in keeping with the season. The hostess was assisted in serving by her daughters, Mrs. William Taft and Mrs. Hoover Taft.

Christmas Motif Used At Meeting Of Jane Austen Club

The Jane Austen Book Club met with Mrs. Harold L. Watson at her home in Stokes on Thursday afternoon, December 10th. The house was beautiful throughout with Christmas decorations. A large tree gayly decorated and surrounded by gifts drew the immediate attention of all.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. J. I. Gray. A completion of book selections for the coming year was made. The Program Committee for 1954 was appointed, consisting of Mrs. W. F. Stokes, Mrs. J. B. Congleton Jr. and Mrs. Harold Watson.

Mrs. W. F. Stokes gave the program and held the attention of all with an inspiring reading of the Christmas story entitled "The Jugger." After the reading some contests were conducted by the hostess with the winners receiving Christmas favors.

Mrs. Watson then invited everyone into the dining room where the table was covered with a white linen cloth and centered with an artistic holiday arrangement. Plates of cake squares and Christmas sandwiches of red and green, fruit cake, nuts and favors for all made the table a lovely sight.

After the refreshment period gifts were exchanged and it was with much excitement each was opened to discover the giver.

Books were passed and the club adjourned to meet in January.

Mrs. Slade Congleton was guest for the afternoon.

Music Club Meets At Home of Mrs. Smith

ROBERSONVILLE—Mrs. Irving Smith was a charming hostess Friday afternoon when the MacDowell Music Club met at her home. The house was bright with Christmas decorations, berries, poinsettias and red candles.

Mrs. Smith's pupils from Everett, Hamilton and Oak City gave a musical program. After the entertainment, everyone was invited into the dining room where a wrought iron sleigh filled with fruit and matching black metal candlesticks holding red candles were used as the centerpiece for the green tablecloth.

Cheese straws, cookies, candy, salted nuts and punch were served to the club members, the musicians and Mrs. Nat Johnson of Oak City, Mrs. Oscar Ayers of Cross Roads, Mrs. Henry Johnson of Hamilton, Mrs. Dewey Edmondson of Hassells.

Chatham Club Has Christmas Party

The Chatham Book Club held its Christmas meeting in the home of Mrs. A. C. Ruffin in Brookgreen Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 with Mrs. Bryan Brown and Mrs. Ruffin as joint hostesses.

On arrival the guests were given Santa corsages and ushered downstairs to Mrs. Ruffin's spacious den. Here a cheery log fire and a beautifully decorated Christmas tree created a true atmosphere of the Yuletide.

After a short business meeting the fun began with a charade contest. The winners in this contest were Mrs. Rufus Stark, Mrs. T. M. Watson and Mrs. E. R. Conway, whose prizes were red boots stuffed with lovely colored handkerchiefs.

Following this the group sang Christmas carols. Then paper and pencils were passed and each was asked to write as many Christmas card greetings as they could remember. The winner was Mrs. C. A. Bowen who received an attractive metal kitchen recipe container. The group formed a circle and each was given a lovely wrapped gift from under the tree. A paper puzzle was handed each member to solve, "How to get Santa's Boots off the Rafter's." Mrs. Bowen was the winner again and this time she received a pretty little Christmas bell.

The groups were asked into the dining room and from a table covered with a green cloth and graced by Santa and his reindeer delicious plum pudding, nuts and coffee were served by Mrs. Carl Adams and Mrs. T. M. Watson.

Mrs. Ruffin's house was beautifully decorated and created a feeling of a real Christmas cheer.

After a merry time, the guests exchanged books and reluctantly adjourned.

Professional Fund-Raiser Tells Of Charity Drives' Deceptions

NEW YORK (AP)—A professional fundraiser has told New York legislative investigators that he sometimes impersonated a priest or a police representative in soliciting by telephone.

The solicitor, George Bieler, chuckled as he bared some of his methods under prodding at a joint Senate-Assembly committee hearing.

The committee, which continues its public hearings today, heard witnesses testify yesterday about their "batteries"—batteries of telephone solicitors—with the promoters reaping much of the harvest.

The probes also were told that the names of prominent people had been used without their sanction in fund solicitations.

Committee Counsel Sidney Paymet said examples of this are U.S. Senators Herbert H. Lehman (D-NY) and Irving M. Ives (R-NY) and New York Mayor-elect Robert F. Wagner Jr.

The committee is investigating legitimate charity fund-raising activities, as well as rackets, with a view to proposing legislation.

Bieler admitted to the committee yesterday that he had been convicted and fined $250 in 1951 for soliciting funds without a license for the Bronx chapter of the Disabled American Veterans.

The witness said he sometimes got as much as 60 per cent of the collections in various fund solicitations.

Paymer asked Bieler how he approached prospects on the telephone in asking donations for St. Peter and Paul Church House in Manhattan.

"I told them I was a priest calling," the witness replied.

The witness was asked: "Did you say you were Father Clement?" The reference was to Archbishop Clement Sherwood, head of the American Holy Orthodox Catholic Apostolic Eastern Church, an independent sect of which the church house is the chancery.

"Oh, no," Bieler replied. "I just said I was Father Alexander."

Archbishop Clement told a newsman last night that his church had employed fundraisers on a commission basis for a brief period, but that for the past few years all this work has been done by volunteers.

Bieler told the probe committee he had solicited advertising over the telephone for the Superior Police Officers News, a publication of the New Jersey Superior Police Officers Assn.

The witness said he told prospects: "I am speaking for Lt. Michael Hanley of the association."

Aries Members Hear 'The Well of the Star'

Aries Book Club members enjoyed a delightful Christmas meeting on Thursday night, Dec. 10, at the home of Mrs. David Hardee Jr. on Longmeadow Road in Brookgreen.

Lovely and artistic decorations on the mantel and throughout the home were suggestive of the approaching Yuletide season and lent a festive air to the occasion.

The following guests, Mesdames Badger Johnson, Charles Gaskins, Tom Rivers, Van Fleming and E. C. Wilkerson, were introduced by the hostess and extended a welcome by the president, Miss Grace Outland.

Following a short business session, Mrs. Harry Forbes presented an inspiring Christmas program. By candlelight she read "The Well of the Star," a story based on an ancient legend that on the road to Bethlehem there is a well in which the pure in heart will see their heart's desire mirrored.

A young boy sets out to obtain wealth for his sick parents and his brothers and sisters. The story describes his meeting with Angel Michael, three kings, and his going to the birthday party of a king. In a miraculous way his heart's desire was obtained.

Assisting Mrs. Forbes in this lovely program were her children, little Miss Sandra Forbes and Master Harry Forbes Jr., who, dressed in choir boy robes, sang at appropriate intervals throughout the reading of the story many of the beautiful Christmas carols, accompanying themselves on an autoharp. Sandra was seated beside a triple candelabra and Harry was holding a large candle, and both the setting and the rendition of this timely program were most impressive and a real

Miss Outland presided at the coffee service and assisted the hostess in serving delicious refreshments from an attractively appointed dining room table during the enjoyable social hour which followed.

Mrs. David Grimes Awarded High Score At Bridge Club Meet

ROBERSONVILLE—On December 9, Mrs. R. E. Grimes entertained the Wednesday Afternoon Bridge Club and two guests, Mrs. Haywood Everett and Mrs. W. E. Page.

For the occasion the living room and the dining room were decorated with a bowl of red roses and vases containing pink rose buds mixed with ferns.

After Mrs. David Grimes Sr. won the first prize and Mrs. W. L. James received the prize for low score, the hostess served Bavarian cream and cake.

Tea Honors Junior King's Daughters

A lovely tea was given Dec. 14 at 4:00 in the home of Mrs. Clara Moye Shackel. Mrs. Shackel gave the tea for the Junior King's Daughters. The guests were received by the officers, which are as follows: Jane Fuller, Carolyn Tripp, Annette Dunn, Ann Jackson, Betty Sue Staton, Mrs. Shackel and her mother, Mrs. Moye.

After the guests arrived tea was served in the dining room by Mrs. Howard Fuller. The dining room was decorated very beautifully for the Christmas season.

For the program, Ronita Respass read the Christmas story and Jane Fuller sang "Poor Little Jesus Boy."

Sheriff's Cars Being Adapted To Atomic Age

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Sheriff Eugene Biscailuz has announced that 35 of his radio cars will be equipped with ion chambers to detect radioactivity.

Biscailuz had a possible atom bomb attack in mind when the chambers were ordered.

"But our atomic age is growing so fast that we now have many dangerous radioactive materials in use every day in Los Angeles County industries," he said yesterday. "These ion chambers will be placed in radio cars for use 24 hours a day."

The chambers detect gamma-type radiation which might be injurious to persons nearby. They weigh about five pounds each.

Kidnap-Killers Show No Concern; Death Is Near

By LARRY HALL and AL DOPKING
JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP)—The Greenlease kidnap-killers spent part of their time today reading Wild West stories and working crossword puzzles, outwardly nonchalant about their execution early Friday.

Carl Austin Hall, 34-year-old playboy, and Bonnie Brown Heady, 41, his paramour, gave no outward signs of cracking as their death in the gas chamber became only a matter of hours.

They pay with their lives, side by side, a few minutes after midnight for the killing of 6-year-old Bobby Greenlease, which they planned together even before they kidnaped him Sept. 26 in Kansas City.

Still a mystery is what happened to half of the $600,000 ransom paid by Bobby's multimillionaire father Robert C. Greenlease, Kansas City auto dealer.

The missing money—which Hall has insisted he had with him when arrested in St. Louis the night of Oct. 6—has become the object of an inquiry by a federal grand jury at Kansas City, the FBI and the St. Louis Police Board.

But the killers have shown no apparent concern about the missing ransom or about their deaths, although Hall has asked an episcopalian minister, the Rev. George L. Evans of Kansas City, Kan., to stay with him "until the very end."

Hall has been reading Wild West magazines. Mrs. Heady has kept busy with crossword puzzles in newspapers. Neither has shown any interest in hundreds of pounds of mail sent to them but detoured by prison authorities at their request.

Both have reportedly gained weight since entering their death row cells Nov. 20, the day after they were convicted by a federal court jury in an advisory trial.

Hall has said he thought he had gained about 20 pounds. Mrs. Heady has put on about five pounds. Their faces are full, free of wrinkles, and Mrs. Heady has even joked about the roll of fat she was told Hall has acquired around his midriff.

Neither has had any exercise walking into the narrow confinement of their solitary cells, where they can neither see nor talk with one another. Their only contact is with the prison guards stationed just outside the cells and with occasional, carefully screened visitors.

The only visitors, outside of prison and law enforcement officials, have been their attorneys, ministers and Mrs. Hall's aunt, Mrs. Nellie Baker of Chicago.

Funeral Friday For Mrs. Bertie Simcoe

Mrs. Bertie Vincent Simcoe, 41, died of a heart attack at her home in Miami, Fla. The body will arrive in Greenville Thursday.

Funeral services will be conducted at Reedy Branch Free Will Baptist Church near Winterville at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon by the Rev. L. R. Ennis, Free Will Baptist minister of Goldsboro, and the Rev. Henry Melvin, the pastor, and burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery.

Mrs. Simcoe, daughter of Mrs. S. J. Vincent Sr. of Winterville and the late S. J. Vincent Sr., was born and reared in Winterville. She was graduated from the Winterville High School in 1929 and was employed in Greenville for several years. She had lived in Miami since 1940. She was a member of the Missionary Baptist Church at Coral Gables, Fla.

Surviving are a son, Ronnie Simcoe of Miami; her mother; two sisters, Mrs. Earl Johnson of Newport News, Va. and Mrs. E. R. Hatton of Norfolk, Va.; and three brothers, S. J. Vincent Jr. of Greenville, William D. Vincent of Newport News, Va. and Gene A. Vincent of Winterville.

Senator Adopts Limit On Gifts

CHICAGO (AP)—Sen. Douglas (D-Ill.) says he has adopted "a $2.50 rule" concerning gifts sent to him.

"It is suicide for elected officials to reject all gifts," Douglas told the Junior Assn. of Commerce and Industry yesterday. "People would think you were weaned on a pickle and lack the human juices, so I have a $2.50 rule."

Douglas said any gift that appears to be worth more than $2.50 is sent back. The others, he said, generally are sent to the Walter Reed (Army) or Bethesda (Navy) hospitals.

"I will admit that occasionally I will take home a few Florida grapefruit or something of the sort," Douglas said. "Thus far, this has kept me out of trouble. I don't think there is much chance of a senator being corrupted by $2.50."

Although Central Falls in Rhode Island has 23,000 people in 1 square mile, the state also has a township of 49 square miles with only 700 people.

Wright Flight Golden Anniversary

Elaborate ceremonies at Kitty Hawk this week commemorate the 50th anniversary of the first successful airplane flight and a half century of aviation progress.

When the Wright brothers piloted their Kitty Hawk flier to successful flight 50 years ago this week, the progress witnessed in aviation in the past half century was

Off Base On This Decision

It is beyond us to understand why government and military officials do some of the things they do.

Every now and then, however, an incident occurs where it seems that these people in high places who make the final decisions get way off base.

One of the most glaring of these recently, we believe, is the decision to allow an airman to go to Korea to try to talk a buddy out of remaining with the communists, and yet denying the mother of one of the 22 unrepatriated American prisoners permission to interview her own son.

If we had access to all the facts which probably were available to the official who made that decision, perhaps we could see the situation his way. But from where we sit, it looks like a decision without very good reasoning behind it.

Mrs. Portia Howe flew half way around the world to Tokyo on the slim chance that authorities might grant her permission to visit Panmunjom to talk with her son, Pfc. Richard Tenneson who has refused repatriation. When she got to Tokyo, permission for her to continue her journey was denied by authorities.

Since then, an airman stationed in Japan has been granted permission to go to Panmunjom in an effort to talk a friend, Cpl. Aaron P. Wilson, out of staying with the communists.

It seems to us, in a situation such as the one faced by Americans who have refused repatriation, the words of a mother would have greater weight than the words of a buddy. The authorities must feel another way.

Strength for the Day

THE STILL SMALL VOICE

"What shall I do about it?" "Which course shall I follow?" "Should I do it or not?" How often clergy-men, teachers, counselors, and parents hear these questions!

Sometimes the choice is one of mere expediency. More often there is a moral element involved—no alternative is the right choice, and the other wrong. But which is which?

The human conscience is supposed to guide us in these decisions. But some people have great difficulty hearing the voice of conscience because it is drowned out by other voices—the voices of selfishness, of laziness, of evil desires. Others perhaps merely neglect their consciences. They get so out of the habit of facing moral issues that they can no longer hear any inner voice of right and wrong.

As with other exercises, so with the conscience. Practice tends to make perfect; the more frequent and intense and undisturbed the practice, the more nearly perfect. Whoever is always willing to retire alone and think his problem through carefully, asking simply and honestly to know God's will, comes in time to hear God's directions more and more clearly and infallibly.

"Thine ears shall hear a word behind thee, saying, This is the way, walk ye in it, when ye turn to the right hand, and when ye turn to the left."

Eisenhower View Of Senate

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON—Senator Joe McCarthy has finally attained the peak of political publicity's Mt. Everest!

The ubiquitous member from Wisconsin has become such an international incident that he was discussed by President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Churchill at their Bermuda Conference. In their conversation, and in White House talks, Ike has defined fully and finally the future Ike-Joe relationship.

Eisenhower will engage in no personal dogfight with any member of the legislative branch of the Government, as F.D.R. did with Representatives and Senators he disliked and distrusted. Ike has no use for "purges." He believes in the right of a fellow Republican, high or humble, to disagree with him.

IKE APPROVES PURSUIT OF REDS—Eisenhower may object to certain McCarthy techniques, but he approves the Congressional pursuit of Communists inside and outside the Government. He recognizes the power of investigation as one of Capitol Hill's most necessary and effective weapons in checking on the operations of the costly and sprawling executive establishment. He compares it to the Army's Inspector General.

The President does believe, however, that his new and strengthened Loyalty and Security System will ferret Reds from public office, and prevent them from creeping into Government service. He has revised and strengthened the screening and checking apparatus in every department, especially State, Treasury and the Pentagon.

RENOVATED SAFEGUARDS—This top-to-bottom renovation of the Loyalty and Security safeguards, as well as the new Administration's generally conservative attitude, lies behind the President's belief that this problem will not be a major issue in the 1954 and 1956 campaigns.

little dreamed of. The idea of flying was not new even in 1903. Yet the Wright brothers were the first to conduct a successful experiment.

This week on the outer banks of North Carolina modern men of aviation will flash by in bright, sleek aircraft in a salute to the two men whose flimsy craft first stayed aloft in powered flight. At the same time modern men of aviation will be paying tribute to the thousands of men and women who since 1903 have contributed to the progress of aviation.

Besides the appearance of aircraft of yesterday and today, probably the most striking comparison of progress is noted in the increase in the speed of flight.

When the Wright brothers piloted their plane that windy December day a half a century ago, they clocked their speed at 31 miles per hour. Today the speed record for aircraft stands at 1,327 miles per hour set by an experimental rocket plane.

The airplane in the past half century has brought the sprawling world of nations into a compact little community. No place in the world is beyond a relatively few hours flight from any other point. Most of the world has geared its living and its transportation to match the speed of powered flight.

While looking back on the amazing progress of aviation in the past 50 years, it is apparent new horizons in the field of aviation will be surmounted year after year in the next half century as well.

Aviation has grown to a major industry in the United States as it has in other leading nations of the world. It has been developed into a major instrument for war and peace—a major instrument for the betterment of the people of the world.

It is a fitting tribute being paid to the pioneers of the industry, and the pioneers of powered flight on the golden anniversary for the first successful airplane flight.

Selected Shorts

OKLAHOMA CITY, OKLA., YE TOWNE CRYER: "As long as there can be honest difference of opinion, our democracy is safe. That is one difference between a democracy and a totalitarian state. The death of Stalin brought a great upheaval and a struggle for power in Russia. At about the same time in this country the reigns of government were handed over from one party to another with scarcely a ripple."

WADENA, MINN., PIONEER JOURNAL: "The Constitution shields the innocent, not the guilty. The fifth amendment protects only the witness himself, not guilty confederates who are shielded by his refusal to testify. And it should always be kept in mind that no committee of Congress can try any man for crime—it is not a court."

"Harry Dexter White, a public enemy working as a spy, could have been convicted and punished as a federal grand jury could have considered evidence obtained by wiretapping. As this evidence could not be admitted under the law, he escaped indictment."

PLAINFIELD, IND., MESSENGER: "We believe that if we were ever called upon . . . and we hope we will not be . . . to sit in a position where we were responsible for the expenditure of taxpayers' money, we would insist that every action of the office involving even matters of the least importance be made a matter of record for all who follow after us."

ABILENE, KAN., REFLECTOR-CHRONICLE — "President Eisenhower has issued an order which relaxes some of the restrictions on the work of newsmen who must report on the activities of government departments and agencies. Hiding legitimate news does not contribute to national security. . . . It will be well if no further attempts are made to curtail the right of the people to know what their government is doing."

PRESIDENT'S ANSWER TO MCCARTHY—Eisenhower's Bermuda-inspired offer to contribute American atomic materials, equipment and know-how to an international stockpile was his answer to McCarthy's various attempts to infringe on the conduct of foreign affairs. It was especially significant because the United Nations pronouncement came during the literary bombardment of the White House on the trade-with-China question.

Whereas the Senator opposes this commerce in nonmilitary goods with the Chinese Communists, Ike advances a bold plan for pooling nuclear data and details with the men in the Kremlin, provided they agree to its exclusive use for peaceful, constructive purposes.

A DIRECT CHALLENGE—This was a more direct challenge to McCarthy than any previous statement by Eisenhower or Secretary Dulles. It served notice that the President will not tolerate any attempt by anybody to interfere with his Constitutional authority to conduct foreign affairs.

It is understood that the high-level irony of Ike's retort was not lost on Sir Winston Churchill, who frequently resorts to this same style and technique in the House of Commons. The "old man" probably chuckled:

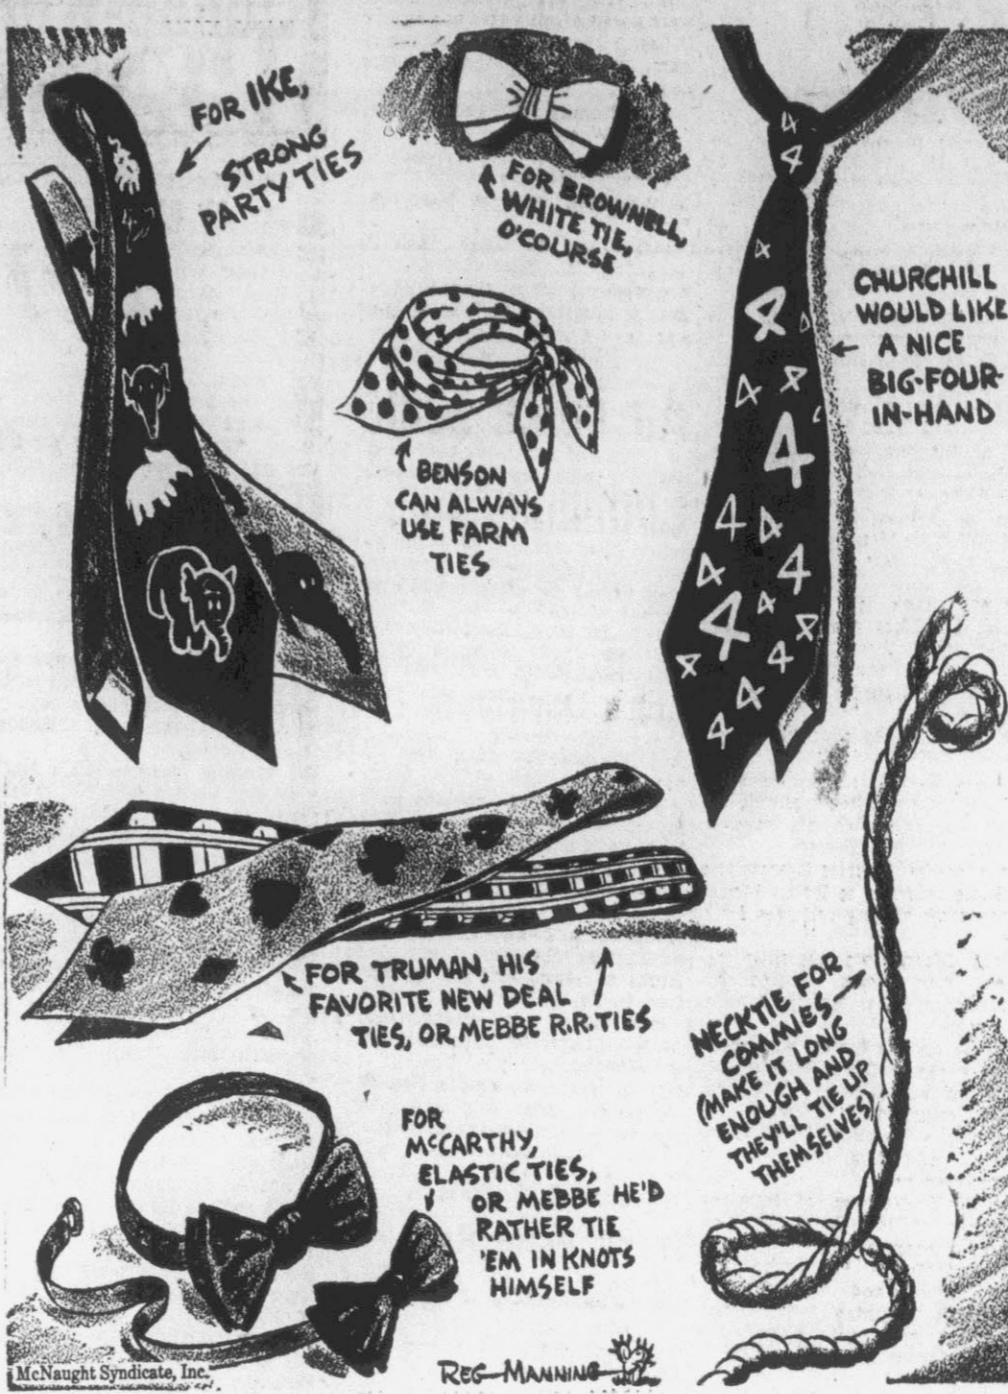

"If Uncle Sam will let the Reds fool around with fissionable materials and equipment, I guess that my Birmingham and Manchester mills may ship safety pins and aprons to the Russian people!"

WIT AS A PARTY WEAPON—Although still a losing publication, the Democratic Digest now claims that it has reached a circulation of 100,000 paid subscribers. In attacking the Administration, it shows some of the brilliant wit that the late "Charley" Michelson achieved with his quips and barbs against Herbert Hoover.

Its current issue histers the Eisenhower-McKay power program with this snappy comment: "New slogan of the private electric utilities: 'Let's McKay While the Sun Shines.'"

While not a perfect pun, many GOP-ers wish that their Party would hire a press agent to do a job on the opposition. They would like to engage Adlai E. Stevenson, if he were available.

Somebody Told Me TV Show Schedule Is Ready

Will Greenville's TV station meet the target date of Sunday afternoon? The weather man holds the magic wand which will determine the answer. And the absence of technical difficulties when the big switch is thrown is a factor, too.

Yesterday afternoon Bill Angle, in charge of the erection crew of the AAA Tower Company, was listening attentively at Station Manager Hartwell Campbell gave me the schedule that the station is trying to meet in erecting the 10-section tower:

"By today (Tuesday) we will finish the sixth section and some on the seventh. Wednesday, we hope to complete the seventh and eighth. Thursday, the ninth and 10th. Friday we hope to rig the tower for antenna mounting and either Friday or Saturday mount the antenna. That will leave running the coax from the antenna to the ground."

Bill Angle listened, and said: "That's right, provided we don't have rain or high wind. We'll put on an extra crew tomorrow." Bill has been erecting towers for 19 years and has directed the erection of more than any man in the South. He just finished the Richmond tower which is the highest self-supporting tower in the world, next to the Eiffel Tower in Paris.

In case the station does go on Sunday, the program schedule has already been compiled. Opening ceremonies will start at 3 o'clock, following by a film of the East Carolina College-Stetson University football game. Sunday night's programs will include Favorite Story, Jack Benny, Ed Sullivan's Toast of the Town, Amos and Andy, Heart of the City, The Web, and the Late Evening Show.

Monday will feature I Love Lucy, Red Buttons, Feature Playhouse and Wrestling. Tuesday: Bishop Shoen, Christmas Show, Make Room for Daddy, the U. S. Steel Hour, and the Late Evening Show. Wednesday: The WNCN theater, Badge 714 (Dragnet under another name), The Unexpected, and the Late Evening Show. Thursday:

Groucho Marx, Four Star Playhouse, I Led Three Lives, Living Book and Robert Montgomery Presents. Friday: Boston Blackie, Pepsi-Cola Playhouse, Life With Riley, Calvacade of America, and the Late Evening Show.

Saturday: Western feature, Westinghouse Hour, Chrysler Medallion Theater, and the Hit Parade.

The network has not promised to deliver live network shows before January 1st, so the above schedule is based on delayed film versions of the network productions. Naturally, we will not know the difference.

The schedule as I have described it includes only the time from eight in the evening until 11:15. From sign-on at five until eight such programs as Cactus Jim, News, Sports, Weather, Safety Tips, Farm Fact, Hopalong Cassidy and the Cisco Kid will be shown.

And I thank you. JACK EDWARDS

The Voice Of The People

To the Editor: As predicted the insurance companies are using the Financial Responsibility Act to raid the public's pocket book. They are accomplishing their purpose by misleading advertising designed to frighten the automobile owner and the manipulation of minimum rates.

A typical advertisement that I have before me states "Even though the accident is not your fault, the law requires you to post this proof of financial responsibility."

This unqualified statement is false. If you are probably not at fault and a Superior Court Judge so finds, you do not have to post proof of financial responsibility.

This same advertisement states with regard to the policy of Auto Insurance it peddles that "It meets the strict requirements of the Financial Responsibility Law."

But if you inquire at this insurance agency as I did, you find that statement is misleading also. Their policy exceeds the requirements of the Financial Responsibility Law five times over with a consequent enrichment of the insurance companies at the cost of thousands of deceived or intimidated automobile owners.

This agency considered my application ridiculous and refused to submit it to an insurance company unless I agreed to take $5,000.00 worth of property damage insurance although the Financial Responsibility Act requires only $1,000.00 of property damage insurance.

Insurance companies can do this only with the cooperation of the Insurance Commissioner. Is he asleep or merely indifferent? DAN H. JONES

Senate Campaign Follows Course Predicted Months Ago

SHAPING UP — Campaign strategy for the United States Senatorial contest next spring is shaping up along lines predicted by many observers months ago. That is particularly true of ex-Governor Kerr Scott's part in the affair.

In face of lingering hope on part of some voters that a third strong contender will get into the race, and at least a shadow of doubt as to whether Scott will go through with it, opinion grows that the real fight will be between Scott and incumbent Senator Alton Lennon.

Scott is basing his campaign largely upon his record as Governor, and that record is coming in for increasing criticism by opponents. Lennon is paragoning his youth, arguing the advantages of strong physique and the possibility of building seniority tenure to justify claims upon Senate leadership. At 47 he is the youngest man to serve in the Senate from this State in more than 50 years. His opponents are using his inexperience and lack of achievement record against him.

Several recent incidents, each unimportant in itself, combine to indicate the popular issue may be Scott's record and Lennon's inexperience.

SCOTT — The former Governor told a Charlotte civic club Friday that a much of the prosperity of Mecklenburg and the rest of the State was due to benefits derived from his "Go Forward Campaign" of rural roads, electric power and telephones.

At almost the same hour Highway Chairman A.H. Graham was telling newsmen in Raleigh that eagerness of the Scott administration during its closing days to "lie down" the Efland-Thomsonville routing of U-70 had resulted in some 50 miles of expensive grading and structures—with no funds available or in sight for paving.

IMPLICATIONS — Chairman Graham said the job will be finished as rapidly as possible and when completed it will be a darned good road. The money for paving will have to come out of highway surplus funds. Inescapable implication in the Graham statement is that when people in other sections fail to get roads because of the necessity for completing this project, they will have to hold the Scott regime responsible. He further suggested that the road might have been located so as to benefit somebody's "ancestral estate." Reporters took that as reference to the fact the new highway goes by the Scott farm and the former Governor was paid some $12,000 for right of way and crop damage.

LENNON — Lennon has carried his get-acquainted tour of the State into about 75 counties since the Congress adjourned in August. He has made numerous talks at civic clubs, party rallies and other public places, and has shaken hands with many thousands of individuals. He has made it a point to contact former Wake Forest college mates and colleagues in the State Senate, and has made special effort to attend services at some Baptist church every Sunday.

At Murphy last month a number of friends came by the hotel to speak to the Senator, among them a classmate, Dr. W.A. Hoover, who is also a deacon in the Baptist church and owner of the local hospital. Lennon accepted an invitation to accompany the doctor to church next morning and to visit the hospital. He ate lunch at the hospital with members of the staff. He says he later discovered that Dr. Hoover is a Republican. Opponents quickly seized upon that incident as proof of the Senator's political stupidity and possible evidence of disloyalty to the Democratic party. Certain newspapers publicized it in a manner that offended some of the people in Cherokee county. James Bryson, county Democratic chairman, has written several papers the full story of the Lennon visit, closing with this comment:

"We of Cherokee county take our politics seriously and feel that we know more about Republicans than any resident of Wake county can ever tell us. We resent that we have been made any part of an attempt to belittle the abilities of our Senator. Our friends, our neighbors, and our associates are not chosen according to their political beliefs. We hope that there will never come a time when we feel it necessary to make political capital out of the fact that a candidate goes to the church of his choice with a former school mate, even if he is a Republican. We trust that we may always be able to welcome any visitor to our county with a sincere hospitality that is not based in any manner upon his political or religious beliefs and that they will feel free to accept it from us whether we are Democrats or Republicans."

POLITICS — There are those

Business Today

Anti-Trust Ruling

A case which the U.S. Supreme Court has agreed to review has far-reaching implications for many independent businesses. The Court has agreed to consider a lower court action throwing out a Department of Justice complaint against two Chicago plastering and lathing associations and two unions on the grounds that the Government had failed to prove the work involved enough interstate commerce to bring it under the Sherman Anti-Trust Law.

The facts in the Chicago case have not been brought out, and all may be innocent. However, the legal aspects are important because only Federal laws have been found effective in dealing with other union-employer deals in many localities.

These kinds of arrangements were fairly common at the turn of the century and on until enactment of Federal anti-trust legislation. They existed in plumbing, printing, concrete, roofing, building and other trades, especially where workers were largely unorganized.

They worked like this: An employer's association would sign a contract with a union granting a generous wage rate in return for the union promise not to allow union men to work for any employers except members of the association. That gave the association a monopoly. Then the association would set minimum rates for its work. A favored method was to require each association member to check with the association office before making a bid. If no one else had bid, the member could set any price he wished. If someone had bid first, other members had to make higher bids, so that the work always went to the first bidder at his own price. A number of states and cities tried to outlaw this practice, since it forced consumers to pay exorbitant prices, but these laws and ordinances were of little effect until Congress enacted its anti-trust legislation. Unions and associations didn't like to take chances with both local and Federal agencies, although there are indications that not all were frightened into lawfulness.

If the court finds that plastering—and, by inference, similar services—involve no interstate commerce, then cities and states will have a big legislative and policing job to prevent a return to the system of half a century ago that made big profits for a few and prevented others from sharing in them.

FTC PONDERS: WHEN DOES TV SET CEASE TO BE NEW?

If a television set is taken out of its original case and displayed in a window, can it later be sold as a "new" set? Then what if it is played in the store to make sure it is in working order? Or played to show a prospect how it performs? Or what if it is sent to the customer's home on trial? Or suppose a set is repossessed and used as a floor sample; can it be sold as a floor sample?

These, and similar questions are bothering the Federal Trade Commission, which is trying to work out a set of fair practice rules for television retailing. There has been little agreement at hearings, with some dealers holding a set ceases to be new the instant it is taken out of a case, and other holding it is still new after dozens of store demonstrations and home trials. No early decision is expected.

How To Cut Christmas Expenses

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—What are you doing to cut down Christmas costs?

Some people complain, "I no longer can tell the difference between Christmas and bankruptcy."

They have let this festive season get out of hand. But there is no reason why you can't enjoy a fine Christmas at minimum expense if you show a little ingenuity. You may also have to act like a heel, but everybody else will be so full of the milk of human kindness they will overlook it. And think of the money you'll save.

So here is a heel's guide to a cut-rate Christmas:

You probably still have last year's Christmas cards. So mail them back to the people who sent them to you, and enclose a note saying:

"I received so much pleasure from looking at your Christmas card in 1953 I am unable to deny you the same joy in 1954. May I make the New Year happy for you."

Could anyone object to that? Now, what about presents for your friends? Do something different. Why not get your wife to collect some old vests—every closet has a few—cut holes all over them, and embroider the holes with green and red yarn? Then mail each vest to a friend with this letter:

"May the enclosed Christmas-tree-warmed keep your sweet little tree snug and cozy on the coldest night. Be careful not to bruise its tender little branches when you button the warmer around it."

Why, people will be talking for days after getting a present like that—about how thoughtful and sentimental you were to think of a way to keep their Christmas tree from catching pneumonia.

Your wife, of course, can't be overlooked. One way to please her is to pick out a luxurious bathrobe one size smaller than a circus tent, charge it, and bring it home. When she finds it doesn't fit, she will take it back to the store after Christmas. But by then you will be hollering so loud about bills she won't have the heart to exchange it for something else.

Meanwhile, you did give it to her, didn't you?

Almost everybody has two aunts he has to send a Christmas gift to. You can cut this item in half by buying a pair of gloves and mailing one glove in a box to each aunt. Don't worry. They won't blame you.

There is also the problem of what to do about all your nieces and nephews. A simple solution is to send each a letter containing a dollar bill, and a note: "I am sending you this $10 because I think you probably would like to pick out something for yourself, and anyway I know you could use a little money at Christmas."

The kids will look at the buck and murmur sadly:

"Poor old uncle, he is getting so near-sighted lately."

The question of Christmas tips is easily solved. Just tell all the folks who usually hold their palms out at this time of the year, "Gee, no Santa Claus for me. I just got my two weeks' notice at the office." They not only won't look for tips. Some might even offer to lend you money. If they do, take it. You can pay them back later, if it doesn't slip your mind, and it will make them feel good to think they have lightened your load.

Christmas day presents the final hurdle—how to get you and your wife a nice meal. Simple. You just go to a neighbor on Christmas morning, admire his tree, and remark that a strange dog leaped through the window, grabbed up your Christmas turkey, and bounded out again.

"Why don't you and your missus try pollock with us?" your neighbor will ask sympathetically. Don't grab at his offer. See what he's got on the menu first. If it isn't satisfactory, go on to another neighbor with your hard luck tale. There is no need for eating a second-rate meal even on a cut-rate Christmas.

If you follow these rules, you'll find that you've had a fine, low-cost Christmas at the lowest possible expense.

"After all," you can tell yourself, "it isn't how much you spend that's really important—it's the spirit of the thing."

SUPERMARKETS EDGING INTO BANKING FIELDS

Newest supermarket item: American Express money orders. Shoppers can't pick them off shelves, however; they have to buy them at special counters, usually the returned-bottle counter.

One of the largest chains is now experimenting with money orders in four of its stores. Meanwhile, some supers are operating branch Post Offices and check-cashing services. Some day, perhaps, supers will rent safe-deposit boxes and sell insurance.

On Saturday night, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wilson returned from their wedding trip to Pennsylvania. In the near future they will be at home in their apartment on West Green Street.

Mrs. John H. James and her daughter, Mrs. Hazel Everett, spent the weekend in Norfolk with Mrs. Everett's brother, Mr. Delbert James, and family.

Air Force Santa Continues Tour

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Using helicopters instead of his traditional sleigh, Santa Claus continued his whirlwind visits to North Carolina orphanages today.

The jolly gentleman, who braved snow and cold yesterday to pay flying visits to eight orphanages, was scheduled to make eight stops today.

Two helicopters provided by the 9th Air Force at Pope Air Force Base thus far proved almost as reliable as Santa's sleigh.

Helicopter No. 1 was scheduled to stop today at the Nazareth Home at Rockwell; the Mills Home at Thomasville; the Junior Order Home at Lexington, and the Christian Home at Elon.

Helicopter No. 2 planned stops at the Church of God Orphanage at Kannapolis; the Presbyterian Orphanage at Statesville; the Winston-Salem Memorial Home, and the Wright Orphanage at Durham.

The orphans, some 5,000 of them, write letters to Santa telling him what they want. Junior Chamber of Commerce dances held throughout the state helped to raise the nearly $5,000 used for the gifts.

More than 1,000 kids at the Grandfather Home at Banner Elk, the Sipes Orchard Home at Conover, the Thompson Home near Charlotte, the Ellada and Black Mountain homes, the South Mountain Industrial Institute at Nebo and the Union Mills Alexander Schools Home saw Santa yesterday.

Helping to give out the gifts are Frank Edwards, Washington, D.C., news commentator, and CWO Fred Lunger.

Burned Home Is Quickly Replaced

DOYLESTOWN, Pa. (AP)—December 1953 is a Christmas season with genuine meaning for the Herbert Otis and their nine children.

A fire destroyed their home in nearby Edison Monday.

Herb Otis says it's hard to keep up with everything that's happened since then.

Dozens of friends, neighbors, well-wishers and community merchants chipped in to help the destitute family. Builders, contractors and various manufacturers are building a new Otis home on the site of the old one.

Waiting for the family to move in are:

A new baby coach for 8-month-old Susan, nursery furniture, three bedroom suites, bed clothing for the whole family, a new electric refrigerator, a television set and plenty of toys to put under the Christmas tree.

Oh, an attendant at the Bucks County poor farm, was out with a son, Lowell, 17, when the fire-blamed on a heater—started. His wife Anna barely had time to grab up Susan and Anna, 2, and lead to saety the other children—Joel, 16; Sylvia, 13; George, 12; Donald, 10; and Linda, 4.

Telephone-Users Extra Careful

DANVILLE, Va. (AP)—Folks in the Ringgold section of Pittsylvania County are careful how they talk on the telephone these days.

John Kuykendall, a resident of the area, has been complaining for three months now that his clock radio picks up all the telephone conversations—from the opening ring to the final goodbye.

Telephone company technicians so far have been unable to help much, but the company has assured Kuykendall that "higher level" technicians will be brought in to assist.

Could Resort To Geiger Counters

SASKATOON, Sask. (AP)—Geiger counters would be as useful as bloodhounds in tracking thieves who stole some chickens Sunday from the University of Saskatchewan.

The thieves got radioactive hens being used in an experiment in the university's poultry department. They had been given feed containing radioactive elements.

University officials said the hens were considered dangerous for human consumption.

LOCUST MENACE
AMMAN, Jordan (AP)—The worst attack of locusts in 23 years is predicted for Jordan following an unusually early appearance of locust swarms. Normally locusts arrive later and their eggs hatch after most of the crops have been harvested. Action against locusts is not taken during the present stage—only after the eggs are laid.

GIs In Germany To Entertain Kids

By TOM STONE
FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—It's going to be a whole of a Christmas for Germany's needy if GIs stationed here have their way.

For more than a month, U. S. soldiers have been buying new toys, repairing old ones, organizing Christmas parties, ordering turkeys, candy, nuts and fruits, and collecting tons of clothing and shoes.

On Christmas, they'll give their annual yule parties at orphanages, on Army posts and elsewhere for their German friends.

American soldiers have been staging Christmas parties in Germany ever since 1945. Every year the parties get bigger and better. This year promises to be the best yet.

Almost every place GIs are stationed in Germany, plans are under way. Here are a few:

At Pflanzingen the U. S. 7th Army's flight detachment which has "adopted" 100 orphans there will fly Santa Claus in for a personal visit with the children. There will be a Christmas dinner and gifts.

U. S. ordnance men at Ludwigsburg are arranging a big Christmas party, including turkey dinner and gifts, for the children in St. Joseph's Kinderheim (children's home), which they help support the year round.

At Waiblingen, near Stuttgart, U. S. troops will stage a Christmas celebration for more than 300 children in a Kinderheim they sponsor there.

Fifty children at an orphanage at Kornwestheim will have a GI Christmas arranged by engineer field maintenance troops stationed nearby.

At Bremerhaven, the American Forces Network is cooperating in a fund-raising Christmas project. For a pledge of $1 a listener may hear selected music played. Dollars are pouring in and needy Germans there will benefit at Christmas time.

German families show their appreciation by inviting American soldiers for Christmas dinner in their homes. Soldiers in turn invite German friends to eat turkey and the trimmings with them in Army mess halls.

Beauty Queen Is Asking Divorce

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Singer Guy Mitchell has been sued for divorce by Jacqueline Loughery, the "Miss U. S. A." of 1952, who complained that he told her other women were better lovers.

Miss Loughery's suit asserted Mitchell boasted of affairs with other women and even had more affection for his horse Scotch, than he did for her.

The beauty also complained that Mitchell drank to excess and had "severely beaten her upon occasion."

Miss Loughery asked for all of their community property, which she values at $100,000, alimony of $2,500 a month and legal costs.

The number of horses on U. S. farms was reduced from 25 million in 1910 to around 5 1/2 million in 1953.

Legion Post To Give Needy $100

Post No. 39, American Legion, at its supper meeting last night, voted to donate $100 for "good cheer" for needy families Christmas.

Commander Ed Harris appointed Sam Whitehurst chairman, and Norman Wilkerson, F. A. Jordan and James Worsley on the Christmas Committee.

J. Howard Moyer, president of the Pitt County Fair Association gave a brief report of the 1953 county fair. He said the annual fall event was a success and reported that numerous improvements are planned for next year.

Commander Harris thanked the legionnaires for their support of the recent blood bank.

Post Chaplain H. Glenn Haney spoke briefly about the Christmas season and what it means. He urged the legionnaires to carry out the true meaning of Christmas and reminded that "we still have a lot of the little boy in us, and we shouldn't be ashamed of becoming sentimental at Christmas."

Seventy-five legionnaires were at the meeting.

THEY GOT ACTION

NORTH HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—A special town meeting authorized this community of 10,000 to spend $80,000 for a school addition. The meeting lasted four minutes. Ten citizens attended.

The proportion of the U. S. population of the United States over 65 years of age has doubled since 1900 to about 8 1/3 per cent of the population.

May Ask Action To Dispose Of Surplus

By OVID A. MARTIN
CHICAGO (AP)—The American Farm Bureau Federation may call upon Uncle Sam to put on a "vigorous campaign to get rid of the bulk of his four-billion-dollar farm surplus."

The Agriculture Department, which holds these surpluses under farm price support programs may be asked to enlist the aid of private traders throughout the world.

This request is being embodied in resolutions being drafted for approval of the farm organization's annual convention being held here this week. Officials said they foresaw no opposition to it.

Farm Bureau policy drafters said it would be impossible for any kind of federal farm-aid program to work satisfactorily as long as present surpluses of wheat, cotton, corn, dairy products, flaxseed and other commodities overhang farm markets to depress prices.

Whether the farm organization will outline ways and means of unloading the surpluses was a matter which only the final draft of resolutions would determine.

But spokesmen said the farm organization probably would list a number of guide posts for such an operation.

Such sales, leaders said, should not disrupt domestic markets for current production or risk destroying the possibility of maintaining and expanding foreign markets.

The resolutions, which will be submitted to the convention tomorrow for adoption are expected to devote much attention to labor problems.

Members of the committee, who declare that the Farm Bureau is not anti-labor, said delegates were deeply concerned by the concentration of power in the hands of labor unions.

In this connection, Bureau President Allan B. Kline told the convention yesterday that one of the major problems of today is finding ways of dealing with "labor monopoly" without interfering with the legitimate rights and interests of working people.

Some delegates were asking the convention to go on record urging amendment of the Taft-Hartley Act to prohibit the union shop as well as the closed shop. Some also wanted industrywide and areawide bargaining prohibited.

Another proposal being pressed was that the farm organization seek transfer of the administration of labor management laws to state governments to the extent that they are willing and able to assume such responsibility.

105-Year-Old To Be Home In Time

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo. (AP)—John Abernathy of Longtown, Mo., reported in good condition after an emergency bladder operation, probably will be home in time to observe his birthday Dec. 28.

It will be his 105th.

Abernathy entered the Osteopathic Hospital here Monday night for the operation. Attendants said he'll probably be able to walk around again today and should be able to go home later this week.

CHAPTER THIRTY-THREE
CHARLOTTE crossed the street and headed west, then turned in at the brownstone house and pressed a bell. She gave three long and three short rings. When the buzzer sounded, she slipped inside and began the long climb.

No wonder people went to the grotto to get blotto. Anything to postpone coming home to places like this. Home! A poor refuge for the eye to dwell upon, nothing to feed and lift the spirit. All was colorless, and by and by the faces matched. And the outlook.

New Year's Eve is making me very philosophical. Her mother opened the door, and Charlotte walked into the room. Her mother closed the door and locked it hastily, then folded Charlotte in her arms.

"Poor baby," she murmured, "poor baby. All for what?" She began to cry, as though it were a relief, and now it was Charlotte who comforted her. She made her sit down, and seeing her mother's drawn, drained face, felt as old herself, and as spent as disenchanted with the world.

And now her mother simply sat, and her fingers picked at the arms of the chair. "I'm the one should be dead," she said by and by. She waited, then the flat voice went on. "You were a beautiful baby, people used to stop and look at you when I took you to town, and I kept you nice. Pink, pink was always your color. Do you have a pink dress now?"

"No. But I have a pink blouse." "That's nice; but you must get a pink dress, a soft shell shade." The glazed eyes stared, seeing into the past. "You were so smart, too. You could say the whole alphabet before you were two, you were always tagging at my heels, and I taught you all kinds of things. I wanted you to grow up to use your head."

"Like you," Charlotte was sorry as soon as she said it. But her mother didn't even seem to realize the words had been spoken. "If I could only go back," she said. "If I could live the last fourteen years over again. I never meant wrong. Somehow things have always piled up, for twenty-five years."

She's sick, Charlotte realized. "Listen!" Her mother suddenly lifted her head, and her finger flew to her lips. The amber eyes dilated. "Somebody's outside," she whispered. "They keep coming back, creeping along the hall, standing by my door."

Charlotte listened. "There's nobody there," she said. "I'll show you." She opened the door and looked out into the emptiness of the hall. But her own heart beat crazily. "I thought . . ." Her mother stared at her hands. "I must wash my hands," she said. She went to the bowl and lathered them extravagantly, making slicing sounds with the suds. "If we could just go to California," she said, drying her hands. "Sit in the sun and rest. In California where no one would know. Here they almost know, they're fitting it together, and they're going to know, Charlotte."

"Maybe." "It didn't work out." "We mustn't give up." "I just tried to help you." "I know. Let them find out, they're so clever. That's why I had to get here tonight, to tell you to wait. That has been you calling the police, hasn't it?"

"Yes, to put them off, to confuse them. But I was clever and careful so they couldn't trace the call. I went to a different phone booth each time. Like in the subway, then I'd get on a train and ride away." She sighed heavily. "But I can't keep it up, I'm so tired. I get the feeling now I might say things wrong, I can't seem to keep clear and coherent any more." She rubbed her fingers across her forehead back and forth, up and down.

"There's still a chance," Charlotte said. "We must wait. Swear to me you'll wait. Mother." "Mother. You called me Mother. That's the first time; you always avoided it, I've known. All right, I'll wait. All life is a waiting." She began to walk up and down. "I've tried to analyze your attitude," she went on, "but it baffles me."

"You're just complicating something simple," Charlotte said. "Scratch any attitude of mine, and you'll find self-interest." Her mother stood at the window, looking down. Suddenly she wheeled around, and her eyes departed as though looking for escape. "Some man is coming in," she said. "He was standing across the street. He followed you here, he's coming for you."

"Stop it," Charlotte said, "you're imagining again." Yet a chill thrilled through her, and she found herself listening, too, barely breathing. It wasn't possible. But of course the name over the bell was Charlotte Morgan.

The steps on the bare stairs mounted, coming closer, and now, down the hall, suddenly stopping, like her heart. Next the knock. "Open up," the voice commanded. "Police." "Let me do the talking," Charlotte whispered to her mother. "Say as little as possible."

A NEW DISCOVERY . . . IN TIME FOR CHRISTMAS GIVING!

New PARKER Pens with the amazing ELECTRO-POLISHED POINT

The most talked-about pen in years . . . so new no one you know could have it! New Electro-Polished Parkers are absolutely the smoothest writing pens ever made . . . and here's the proof . . .

Actual photographs show you what a difference Electro-Polishing makes: Pen point on the left has been ground and burnished by conventional methods. Specks of roughness here and there cause scratching. Now, look at the new Parker point. Electro-Polishing has dissolved every trace of roughness by a special solution charged with electricity. Result: an absolute mirror finish . . . incredible writing smoothness. EVERY PARKER HAS IT AND ONLY PARKER HAS IT.

YOU GIVE SO MUCH THAT'S NEW IN A PARKER!

- Electro-Polished point—for smooth writing perfection.
- Simple press filling—no complicated gadgets to cause repair.
- Plastic Pli-Glass Ink Sac—no rubber parts to wear out.
- Non-Skip Ink Flow—assured by special ink trap.
- Platinum Tip—"wears in" to each corner's way of writing.

Gift Parker "51" and "21" Pens with Electro-Polished point of GUARANTEED SMOOTHNESS now available at all dealers, in attractive gift boxes, $5.00 to $19.75 and up. The Parker Pen Company, Janesville, Wisconsin, U.S.A.; Toronto, Canada.

More Questions On County Revaluation Job Answered

Question about the appraisal of farm land in Pitt County have come up several times since the county's revaluation program has gotten underway.

In this third in a series of articles on the revaluation program of the county, L. A. Marshall, project manager of Pitt County's revaluation program for E. T. Wilkins and Associates, provides the answers to questions about revaluations of farm land.

1. What do you take into consideration when you value farm land?

In farm land, we consider the soil type or its capabilities of producing, its location, contour, drainage, water supply, fences, accessibility to market, roads and all other factors concerning its value. It will be classified in house, lot, cultivated land, pasture land, timber land and swamp land, or any other use that it might be put to.

2. If one man has a farm under a high state of cultivation and another man has a run-down farm, which has the same productive capabilities, will both be valued the same?

It will be the same as far as its capabilities of producing are concerned. The difference might be in the buildings, fencing, and other things which might make it a more valuable farm or a less valuable farm.

3. If there were a drought in one part of the county and not in another, would that make a difference in the values of farms?

No, it would not.

4. How can your appraisers from Nebraska place an accurate value on farm land in Pitt County?

Because we consider all things of Pitt County and not of Nebraska, such as soil type productivity of each soil type. Its use, location and drainage and all other things that concern its value are based on County values. The personnel who will do the appraisal work here have done work in other North Carolina counties. We did the appraisal in Wilson County and others just recently.

5. If a house on a farm cost $15,000, will it be appraised at the same value as a similar house in town?

It will be figured on the same basis as town dwellings, except it will be figured into the farm as a whole or the actual value of the farm. The sound values of rural buildings shall represent the value which their presence adds to the land they occupy.

6. Will your appraisers go into farm dwellings?

Yes, because we are interested in the interior construction to make a true and accurate appraisal of the buildings. We will not appraise household and kitchen furniture.

7. What are you going to do about timber land?

We are going to value timber land on its capabilities of producing over a period of years. We will do this to keep from changing the value of timber land after or before each piece has been cut over.

8. If one piece of timber land had a good stand of timber and another equal potential productivity, but had been cut over last year, would they be valued the same?

Yes, they would be the same; but we could appraise it either way. It would be more equitable to the owner to appraise it on its average production over a period of years, rather than to change the value every year as the timber grows, and then reduce it when it is cut over, and start all over again.

9. Would a farm in the edge of Greenville be valued the same as a similar farm in a rural area?

Yes, it will be as long as it is used to produce crops. When it is subdivided, it becomes residential property and will be priced as such.

Milk Commission Names 3 Boards In Tuesday Meet

RALEIGH (AP) — The State Milk Commission yesterday appointed three local milk boards and named J. V. Whitaker of Raleigh as its executive secretary.

At the same time, the commission denied that it is responsible for consumer milk price hikes in some communities, and decided to set up a technical study committee to recommend permanent marketing policies.

Whitaker, State Department of Agriculture milk marketing specialist, has been acting secretary of the commission. Seven milk marketing areas are operating in the state. The three boards named yesterday will administer regulations in their local areas.

Whitaker said two of the other four boards may be named by the end of this week.

W. W. Fitzpatrick of Rougemont, commission chairman, said consumers in several communities have complained of milk price increases. In some instances, he added, distributors had attempted to blame the increase on the effects of orders issued by the milk commission.

"In the opinion of the commission," Fitzpatrick asserted, "no order that it has issued justifies any increase in consumer prices. In fact the minimum producer prices established by the commission in various marketing areas are at the same level or lower than the average producer prices in effect in the same areas at the time the milk commission act was ratified last April."

Fitzpatrick said the over-all effect of the orders issued by the commission should be to reduce distributor costs.

Milk marketing areas for which local boards have not yet been appointed include Raleigh - Durham, Gastonia-Hickory-Shelby, Wilmington-New Bern, and Fayetteville.

Boards named yesterday include:

- Area 1 (Alamance, Guilford, Randolph, Rockingham, and Caswell): W. Lee Meredith, Thomasville, and Robert Walker, Burlington, Rt. 3, producers; C. W. Roberts, Leaksville, and O. L. Cole, Greensboro distributors; H. N. Willard, High Point, public member.
- Area 2 (Forsyth, Rowan, Davidson, Davie and Stokes): Howard Woodruff, Booneville and H. D. Robertson, Winston-Salem, Rt. 4, producers; E. R. Coltrane, Lexington, and W. W. Moser, Salisbury, distributors; public member to be named later.
- Area 3 (Mecklenburg, Cabarrus, Stanly, Union, Anson, Montgomery and Richmond): D. T. Redfern,

Church Launches Building Plans

ROBERSONVILLE — The Robersonville Christian Church launched its $40,000 program for a new educational building at an informal supper meeting last Friday.

The plans provide for erecting a three-story brick building, 48 by 60 feet, in the rear of the church. Specifications include a recreation and social hall kitchen and pantry and furnace room on the first floor. Class and Sunday school rooms will be on the second and third floors.

Ross Allen, executive secretary of the North Carolina Christian Missionary Society, speaker at the building program meeting, outlined briefly the plans for the building.

At the conclusion of the meeting those present lingered to informally discuss plans for the new Wadesboro, Rt. 2, and L. E. Barrier, Mt. Pleasant, Rt. 1 producers; Charles A. Hunter and R. E. Tucker, both of Charlotte, distributors; Dave Harris, Charlotte, public member.

TUCUMCARI, N. M. (AP) — It was cold on Feb. 6, 1931, and there was lots of snow on the ground. C. T. Trott of Houston, Tex., rode into Tucumcari on a freight and stayed at the jail overnight.

After breakfast next morning he went his way.

Trott was back in Tucumcari this week for the first time since 1931. He pressed a $5 check on Police Chief E. R. Batten for the police emergency fund.

"I've done pretty well since then," Trott said, "and I want to show my appreciation for that favor."

Board Unable To Help Grifton Lenoir Section

GRIFTON — Citizens of Grifton living in the section of town that is in Lenoir County were told that the town could not furnish water and sewer lines in their section of town at the present time by the Board of Commissioners at a special calling meeting Monday night.

The Lenoir County section of town on the South side of Contentnea Creek, was represented at the meeting by the law firm of Wallace and Wallace of Kinston.

Earlier the Board had told representatives of that section that an estimate of the cost of installing water and sewer lines would be made.

L. E. Wooten, Grifton's consulting engineer, estimated the cost of installing the lines at $28,700 for water lines and $30,000 for sewer lines.

The Board expressed sympathetic understanding of the problem but said that the town is not financially able to undertake the project during the current fiscal year. They said they hoped that the cost of the project could be worked into next year's budget but they could not give assurance of this because they could not commit a future Board of Commissioners.

A motion was made by B.G. Tucker that the following motion of September 23 be rescinded: "That the town of Grifton install parallel parking on a trial basis to see if this will relieve the traffic situation on Queen Street. The motion was made by B.G. Tucker and seconded by G.G. Sugg. The motion was voted upon and was unanimously carried." The motion to rescind the motion of September 23 was seconded by W.C. Chauncey and Councilmen G.G. Sugg, B.G. Tucker, W.C. Chauncey, and W.E. Hart voted in favor of rescinding it. R.B. Johnson was not present.

The Councilmen also voted to install a street light near the school gym by a unanimous vote.

Hearings Resume For Senate Spy Hunters Today

By JOHN CHADWICK
 WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate spy hunters resume public hearings today after a surprise announcement that efforts to interview former Soviet clerk Igor Gouzenko are being dropped temporarily.

Gouzenko in 1945 tipped off authorities to a Soviet spy ring in Canada with connections in the United States. Chairman Jenner (R-Ind.) of the Senate internal security subcommittee has been trying to arrange an interview with the former Soviet clerk, now a naturalized Canadian, seeking leads on any Communists who still may be in the U.S. government.

But Robert Morris, subcommittee counsel, said the group so far has been unable to make any final arrangements with the Canadian government.

Today's hearing of the subcommittee was called to put into the record additional information from the Justice Department about the distribution of FBI reports on several former federal employees.

Evidence recently has been introduced to show that during former President Harry S. Truman's administration some of the late Harry Dexter White's associates in the Treasury Department kept their jobs, and in some cases were promoted, after FBI reports naming them as spy suspects had been sent to top officials.

This phase of the subcommittee's Communist-in-government probe has snowballed since Atty. Gen. Brownell charged last month that Truman promoted White early in 1946 in the face of what Brownell called FBI reports exposing White as "a Russian spy." White then was assistant secretary of the Treasury.

Truman fired back that he let his appointment of White as U.S. director of the International Monetary Fund stand for fear of alerting spy suspects to the FBI investigation then in progress.

A Senate investigations subcommittee "task force" report to the Senate yesterday named White as "a notorious Communist agent" plotting against the government while high in its councils.

The report was written by Sen.

New Soviet Fleet Reported Being Built At Rapid Pace

By ELTON C. FAY
 AP Military Affairs Reporter
 WASHINGTON (AP)—Swift, highly maneuverable cruisers, destroyers, submarines and troop-carrying merchantmen are going into the new fleet Russia is creating for use if the gambles on a conquest of Europe.

Some of her submarines are rated as rivals in underwater speed to the new U.S. atomic models.

Authorities here estimated today that in cruiser construction alone Soviet building during the last few years has exceeded the total built by the United States and its North Atlantic Treaty Organization allies.

Currently, Russia is believed to have more than 30 cruisers built or building, including an ultramodern, swift, highly maneuverable type designated as the Sverdlov class.

Only one of the class has been seen by the Western world, when it appeared for Britain's coronation ceremonies last summer. Presumably it and others are based at White Sea ports, like Murmansk, toward which it sailed from England. Cruisers like this are especially useful as raiders against combatant and merchant ships of other nations and in support of amphibious landing operations.

The Sverdlov, listed by the Russians as a 12,000-ton ship, but seeming much heavier, maneuvered swiftly and easily as Western naval experts watched it on its visit last summer.

Equipment of the Sverdlov class compares favorably with that of the best American and British combatant craft. Fire control radar equipment for the main armament (apparently about six-inch weapons) and antiaircraft weapons were noted.

Naval men still estimate the size of the Soviet submarine force at about 300 craft, a figure used as far back as 1948. But since then modern craft, presumably including the Type XXI submersibles designed by Germany's submarine experts, are rapidly replacing the conglomeration of older subs which the Soviets had or inherited by capture at the end of World War II. The Type XXI is powered by a closed cycle engine which requires no oxygen for combustion, permitting prolonged operation at great depths and high speed. Underwater speed up to 25 knots is probable, a speed which approaches that expected for the United States' atomic-powered subs now being built.

A major use for Russian submarines would be to attack Allied supply and troop ships bringing help to Europe if the Soviets launched war.

However, on the basis of their own progress in that field, American naval authorities also now reckon with the probability that Russia is building or converting submarines for launching of guided missiles.

The Red fleet has displayed little or no interest in aircraft carriers. But there is believed to exist a sizable naval air arm of land-based aircraft.

From 1940 to 1950 the proportion of women in the U.S. population who were married decreased from about 24 per cent to about 20 per cent.

this fantastic episode was made easy by the fact that... not only had a notorious Communist agent, Harry Dexter White, worked his way up to the high position but... he had at least four important Communist accomplices working with him in his plots.

The report said at one time there was 225 million dollars worth of the currency in circulation in excess of what Congress had authorized to be printed. Officials have said that while this was not a direct cost to the United States, resulting inflation increased expenses charged to the U.S. government.

The report named as White's "accomplices" V. Frank Coe, Nathan Gregory Silvermaster, William Ludwig Ullmann and Harold Glasser. It said all of them "took refuge in the Fifth Amendment" when questioned about their role in making the agreement. None of them works for the government now.

Mundt's report suggested that the United States and other governments henceforth view open diplomatic discussion by Russia on any subject as a possible indication that she has planted agents in whatever government agency is involved in the negotiations.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market swept ahead today in a general upward movement.

Gains ran to around 2 points at the best with the buoyancy well distributed throughout the list.

Business was brisk with the pace nearing the two million mark for the day. Yesterday's total came to 1,450,000 shares.

There were many points of individual strength with the best showing being made by electronic shares, aircrafts, oils, steels, railroads as well as motion pictures, coppers, motors, rubbers, and tobaccos.

Today's improvement follows a series of six declines in eight sessions. It was felt in brokerage circles that the upturn indicated that the recent spurt of liquidation might be approaching an end for the moment. Such a bullish feeling rapidly gained converts.

Among higher stocks were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem Steel, General Motors, Goodyear, Douglas Aircraft, American Telephone, Anaconda Copper, Du Pont, Westinghouse Electric, General Electric, International Paper, American Tobacco, Southern Railway, Texas Co., and Paramount Pictures.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—Hogs steady to 25 higher today. 23.75 at Tarboro and Rocky Mount; 23.25 at Warsaw, Beulaville, Kenly, Siler City, Laurel Hill, Elizabethtown, Hamilton Newton Grove, Dunn, Mount Olive, Goldsboro, Bailey, Burgaw, Kinston, New Bern, Benson, Lumberton and Clinton; 23.00 at Clarkton, Fair Bluff, Scotland Neck, Windsor, Enfield, Weldon, Colerain, Washington, Wilmington, Jacksonville, Fayetteville, Smithfield, Rich Square, Woodland, Robertsonville, Greenville, Snow Hill and Farmville.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Christmas may be a little less white than usual this year over much of the country.

The U. S. Weather Bureau, issuing a mid-December to mid-January forecast yesterday predicted above-normal temperatures for the western third of the nation, the Northeast and the lower Great Lakes states.

Colder-than-usual weather was foreseen for the South and the Midwest, and about normal readings in other areas.

THEY GET TIME OFF WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower has given federal workers half days off just before Christmas and New Year's Day "in appreciation of their loyal and devoted service" to his administration.

Connecticut claims that the first successful U. S. steel mill was set up in 1744 in Simsbury.

Names Successor To E. D. Johnson WASHINGTON (AP)—John Slesak of Chicago has been named to succeed Earl D. Johnson as under-secretary of the Army Jan. 26.

The White House announced yesterday that Johnson, the Army's No. 2 civilian since just before the Korean War, is resigning to become president of the Air Transport Assn.

Slesak, 57, is now an assistant secretary of the Army on leave as president of the Turner Brass Works, Sycamore, Ill. A native of Czechoslovakia, he became an American citizen in 1916.

McCarthy Plans Day Of Hearings NEW YORK (AP)—Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) scheduled another day of open hearings today in his probe of alleged espionage at radar defense installations.

His Senate permanent investigations subcommittee, which held open and closed hearings here yesterday and Monday, was expected to adjourn its public sessions until the New Year following today's meeting.

Continue Probe Of Chicod Theft Pitt County officers were continuing their investigation today of the robbery of Gardner-Brunson store at Chicod Monday night.

Thieves broke open three safes in the store and stole some over $500 in cash. Approximately $200 of the money taken in the robbery belonged to the Chicod school which was kept in the safe at the store.

A 75-minute drive will take a motorist to Providence from the farthest point in Rhode Island.

Animal Nutrition Study Completed At State College

By NOEL YANCEY RALEIGH (AP)—It doesn't matter so much how you get body-essential minerals just so you get them.

This conclusion is indicated by experiments completed recently by a team of animal nutrition scientists at North Carolina State College.

The group headed by Dr. Genard Matrone, set out to learn the effect of the presence—or absence—of the mineral phosphorus on the nutritive value of food. They got some answers they had expected and some they had not.

The scientists knew that a soil lacking in an essential mineral element produces less food than soil containing an adequate supply of the mineral. They were not surprised to find that food produced on deficient soil is deficient as a food.

But, somewhat to their surprise, they learned that when the missing mineral is added to an animal's diet, food from the deficient soil is just as good as the food from non-deficient soil. In other words, how you get the mineral does not matter just so you get it.

They had for their experiments a tract of land in eastern North Carolina which contains virtually no phosphorus. They had soy bean hay grown on one plot of this land. They also had hay grown on another plot to which generous quantities of phosphorus had been added. Where the mineral was added the yield was more than twice as great.

The hay was fed to rabbits. One group got hay from the untreated soil. Another group received hay grown on the land to which phosphorus had been added.

Differences in growth blood content and bone strength of the two sets of rabbits was striking. Three of seven fed on hay from the phosphorus deficient soil died in from seven to 10 weeks. In 11 weeks, the seven rabbits fed this diet gained 607 grams. The other seven gained 771 grams. Leg bones of the first group broke under a weight of 3,855 grams, and 8,326 grams were required to break bones of rabbits in the second group.

Still another set of rabbits was fed hay grown on the phosphorus deficient land and their diet was supplemented by a food containing phosphorus. Those fed this diet did just as well, possibly a little bit better, than those fed on hay grown on the phosphorus-adequate soil.

Benefit Show Last Night Said Success

Local entertainers and members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce gave their time and efforts last night for the Jaycees Operation Christmas Talent Show to raise money and goods for 30 needy families which the Jaycees have "adopted" this Christmas.

The show, which originated in Austin Auditorium and was broadcast over WGTC, was termed a "success" by Frank Dall who was in charge of arrangements for the show.

Dall expressed his thanks to the people of Greenville, who made the fund raising event a success, and to the participants in the show, both the entertainers and those who worked behind the scene, for their efforts.

The list of local artists who participated in the program included: Mrs. Pat Taylor, pianist; Rachel Mundine, pianist; Four Sophomores; J. B. Kittrell Sr., harmonica player; Tige Gardner, singer; Boots Teel's dance band.

Jay Robbins, pianist; Frank Bodkin and Jane Fuller, vocal duet; Cecil Ellington, clarinet player; Bill Riggins, guitar player and vocalist; Dr. Keith Holmes' Trio; Square Dance group.

Nancy Tribby, vocalist; D'Este Poole, dancer; Ellen Sprinkle, organist; Mary Dunn Beatty, tap dancer; Bill Evans, trombone player; the Harmonettes; Louise McGowan, tap dancer; and Mrs. Jules Rubenstein.

Minor Accident At Intersection A minor traffic accident took place yesterday morning at the corner of Tenth and Evans Streets.

Police reported that a car driven by John Humber White, 1208 Chestnut Street, collided with an auto operated by Robert M. Ratcliffe, 1107 Evans Street.

Damage to both cars amounted to about $10 and no arrest was made.

Sea Scout Boat Windows Broken Police received a report yesterday that someone had shot the two front windows out of the local sea scout boat anchored on the Tar River.

Police said that the windows were shot out with an air rifle.

Officials reminded once again that there is a city ordinance against firing an air rifle within the city limits. They said that they had received a number of reports of individuals shooting air rifles along the banks of Tar River.

Called To Grass Fire The Greenville fire department yesterday afternoon was called to extinguish a grass fire on Memorial Avenue, near the ball park.

Another telephone call to the firemen was from the home of L. E. Latham, 1310 Pitt Street, about 5:30. Some smoke coming from a stove was mistaken for a fire, a fireman stated.
