BULLETIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House announced today that Soviet Russia has agreed to join the United States in secret negotiations on President Eisenhower's proposal for an international atomic pool. Murray Snyder, assistant presidential press secretary, told newsmen the Russian government also has asked the U. S. for additional information on Eisenhower's Dec. 8 plan. Snyder declined to provide more information on the Soviet note, which Moscow radio said had been handed to American Ambassador Charles E. (Chip) Bohlen in Moscow today.

Late Plea Scheduled To POWs

By FORREST EDWARDS PANMUNJOM (AP) — The U. N. Command today prepared a last-minute broadcast appeal to 22 American war prisoners who stayed with the Communists, even as the Allied Far East command indicated hope has been abandoned that any of the 22 will return home. The Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission announced it had approved an Allied request to broadcast to the prisoners Wednesday—hours before the deadline for explanations to balky war prisoners.

The Allies staked their hopes of winning back prisoners on the broadcasts and a 12-page letter addressed to each man as chances for face-to-face interviews all but vanished in a welter of last-minute delays. The Communists resumed their long-delayed explanation program today and chalked up their best score to date.

Red members of the Military Armistice Commission pressed again for an extension of the time for interviews beyond Dec. 23 during a 2 1/2-hour meeting today, but the U. N. Command promptly rejected the request. Gen. John E. Hull, U. S. Far East commander, told newsmen in Seoul that Americans in neutral custody have had both time and opportunity to change their minds. He indicated the Allies have given up hope that any will return home.

The broadcast and the letter appeared to be the Allies' only chance of contacting the prisoners before the Wednesday midnight deadline. The neutral xxx 5th graf ta32 The Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission ruled that the POWs must agree to accept the letter from an Allied explanation team. Lt. Gen. K. S. Thimayya, Indian chairman of the commission, said he would get the Americans' answer tomorrow. Meanwhile, the Reds won back 33 of 250 Chinese captives as interviews were resumed after a 34-day stalemate.

This not only was the greatest number of prisoners the Communists have won back in a single day but was almost triple their best previous record percentage-wise. The previous records were set Oct. 31 when 21 of 459 North Koreans—4.6 per cent—elected to return to Communist rule. The best previous record with Chinese prisoners was for below this—10 won back out of 430 interviewed Oct. 17, a percentage of only 2.4. In eight days of interviews the Communists have talked to 2,681 prisoners and have won back 104 or 3.9 per cent.

Communist refusal to interview entire 500-man compounds in a single day precipitated the long suspension of explanations.

He died in April, 1950.

Eisenhower Legislative Program Fails Sway Support

Demo Solons Unconvinced

By JACK BELL WASHINGTON (AP)—Several Democratic senators said today that what President Eisenhower calls his sound, progressive program will have to convince Democrats in Congress of its merits if it is to get their support. While the Democratic comment included predictions that his proposals would not automatically be posed on party lines, there were complaints about the exclusively Republican invitation list to last week's White House conferences on the legislative program. Some Democrats criticized what they said was secrecy maintained about the outcome of the conference. The President announced the scope of the discussions, but apparently is reserving most details for his nationwide broadcast Jan. 4 and State of the Union message to Congress Jan. 7. He has said he plans to work on those late this week. Some of his advisers have suggested a stripped-down program, limited to a few vital issues. Whether or not this course is followed, Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.) predicted Eisenhower may encounter more trouble within his own party than from Democrats on some proposals. Humphrey said in an interview he thought there would be more division among Republicans than among Democrats on foreign policy, state-federal relationships and foreign trade.

Some Democrats, he said, felt that Atty. Gen. Brownell "went beyond fair play" in the controversy over Harry Dexter White. Brownell said former President Truman promoted White despite FBI reports of evidence linking White to Soviet espionage. Truman said an appointment of White was allowed to stand to avoid revealing FBI investigations. But Humphrey added he doubts the Democratic feeling on this issue will affect his party's attitude on legislation. Sen. Gore (D-Tenn.) agreed, in a separate interview, but said of the Eisenhower legislative program as it has been outlined so far: "It doesn't seem to have a very large dynamo and it doesn't look like it is going to progress very far." Sen. Monroney (D-Okla.) said in an interview, "It will be a good trick if the Republicans can out defense expenditures and have stronger defense, if they can cut taxes and still balance the budget and if they can expand social security while freezing the payments." Appearing last night on a DuMont television program, Monroney joined Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn.) in criticism of the administration for not including Democrats in the talks on legislative plans and for what Monroney called refusal of Republican leaders to make public the proposals they worked out.

Officers Say Escapee Convict Confessed To S.C. Murders Early Trial Seen For Slayer Of Two

COLUMBIA (AP)—The machinery was in motion today for an Raymond Carney, who officers say has confessed the lovers' lane slayings of a 15-year-old high school girl and her boy friend two weeks ago. The girl's head was cut off in the robbery-slaying which Carney, an escaped North Carolina Negro convict said netted him about $15. He said he also started to decapitate the young man, to destroy evidence of bullet holes, but "lost my nerve."

He tried to escape from a jail in a small France county town after his capture two days ago as a seething crowd tried to get in. Florence County Sheriff John Hanna said Carney, now lodged in the State Penitentiary here, probably will be returned to Florence for court action the first week in January. He is charged with murder. Carney was rushed to the Columbia prison late Saturday night, some six hours after he was captured by a trio of hunters near Johnsonville. At first he was taken to the small Florence county town's jail where he made an unsuccessful attempt to escape. A short while later, a crowd, aroused by the Dec. 6 decapitation of Miss Betty Clair Cain of Pamplico and the slaying of Henry Allen, 22, of Latta, began pressing into the jail. Gov. James F. Byrnes immediately ordered the Negro transferred to the penitentiary.

Hanna said the frightened Carney readily admitted the slayings before a roomful of state and local officers, including two Columbia Negro policemen. In his oral statement—there was no written confession—Carney said he went to the bluff, a favorite parking spot alongside the Pee Dee River, about 9 p. m., Dec. 6 with the intention of robbing "the first car in sight." The 38-year-old Carney stated he spotted the Allen auto went over and pointed his .38 caliber pistol at the couple. Carney said he became panicky and started shooting after Allen lunged at him and the girl screamed. Miss Cain was killed first, according to Carney, who said he shot three times before fatally wounding Allen. Carney later managed to move Allen's car to a school house near Pamplico in Florence County. He buried his pistol behind his own home, then went inside where his wife, Margaret, attempted to wash blood stains from his clothing. Carney's wife is being held on charges of accessory after the fact of murder. He later burned the clothes, along with Allen's pocketbook, according to his statement. Carney said he fled to the woods shortly before dawn and stayed within 18-miles of Pamplico during the two weeks he was at large.

Detroit Combed For Last Fugitives In Prison Break Hunt Five Desperate Men

DETROIT (AP)—The last five of 13 southern Michigan prison fugitives—two murderers, a kidnaper, a robber and a burglar—were believed holed up somewhere in sprawling Detroit today, waiting for an intensive manhunt to slacken. The other eight who burrowed out of the world's largest walled prison with them Saturday night were captured within hours after the spectacular break from the penitentiary at Jackson. Another cold and hungry, gave up their last night. Jackson is 80 miles west of Detroit.

A complete lack of leads for some 24 hours after they last were seen in Detroit's northwest section convinced police that the remaining five were lying low for the time being. In an effort to rout them, several hundred city and state police combed the vast Detroit residential area where the fugitives ditched their stolen Cadillac and released unharmed two women hostages taken along on a wild all-night ride. Among the five are Edward J. Emrick, 43, and Roman Usiondek, 37 both convicted Detroit murderers; David B. Bousha, 28, doing 5 to 10 years for kidnaping in Crawford County and 3 to 6 years for a previous escape; Virgil Lane, 27, serving 10 to 20 years for armed robbery in Detroit; and Robert Dowling, 33 serving 1 to 15 years for breaking and entering in Detroit.

The latest fugitive returned to safekeeping was Harold Rosa, 25, serving 4 to 15 years from Saginaw for breaking and entering. He was found hiding in the basement coal bin of the Milner Hotel in Jackson last night. "Come and get me," he told Patrolman Lindell Miller of the Jackson city police. "I'm hungry and cold and sick of it all." The 13 escaped by cutting through three steel grates of an underground sewer with an acetylene torch. Where they got the torch and the oxygen to operate it was the subject of an immediate investigation by Warden William A. Bannan. Deputy Warden Charles Cahill said he believed the torch was obtained from one of the prison industries. The oxygen, he said, could have come from a construction company's supply stored inside the prison walls. Emerging from the filthy drain tunnel, the 13 were 250 feet outside the prison walls. Their first move was to converge on the home of Glenn Millman, 28-year-old auto salesman and former prison guard. Threatening Milligan and his wife with knives and clubs, they ransacked the house, stole clothing money and a gun and fled in Millman's car. A short time later they split up. Six stayed in the Millman car, only to crash in it while attempting to run a state police blockade near Napoleon, 12 miles southeast of the prison.

County Office Prepares Letter To Taxpayers Will Mail Tax-Filing Data

The Pitt County Tax Department is preparing letters that will go to the tax-payers after Christmas with information that will be helpful for listing property tax in 1954, the County Tax Supervisor announced this morning. The letter explains that the person's property should be listed in Farmville Township, for example, and the name and address of the list taker is L. P. Thomas of 419 East Wilson Street in Farmville. For those living in other townships the name of the list taker and his address will, of course, be different. An abstract will be enclosed in the letters for the first time this year. The tax payer is requested to fill out on the abstract all items of personal property owned by them on January 1, 1954. For tractors, automobiles, trucks and other vehicles, the make, model, and year only should be listed because the value will be determined by a standard set of values. The tax-payer is requested to take the abstract with him when he lists his tax so it will save time. It is also explained in the letter that each tax-payer will be notified in writing of the value of his real property upon the completion of the County Revaluation Program. That program could possibly be completed in March, County Tax Supervisor Reginald Gray said.

Five Boys Killed When Truck Failed On Curve

ELLERBE, N. C. (AP)—The worst highway accident in Ellerbe's history took the lives of five boys, including two sets of brothers, when a pickup truck failed to make a curve on U. S. 220 Saturday night. A sixth occupant of the death vehicle, which plowed through a telephone pole and landed eight feet up in a chinaberry tree, is in critical condition. Ellerbe Police Chief W. K. Aubrey said the truck ran off a rounding curve "that could be taken safely at 60" while heading north through the town's city limits. Ellerbe's last previous highway fatality was in 1934. The victims were Kenneth Prid-dy, 14, of near Ellerbe; Billy Pruitt, 12, and Bobby Pruitt, 14, and Rodney Cook, 14 and Pvt. Roland Cook, 19, all of Ellerbe. Aubrey said Roland Cook, apparently the driver of the truck, died in a hospital shortly after the accident. The other four were killed outright. The unconscious survivor was identified as Clarence Gatewood, 17, of Ellerbe. Aubrey said the truck skirted the shoulder of the long curve for 183 feet before snapping the telephone pole. It went another 24 feet before alighting in the chinaberry tree, from which it later fell.

All persons owning real and personal property must list in the month of January, with all persons between the ages of 21 and 50 listing for Poll Taxes. Those who fail to list in January will be subject to a penalty for late listing in the amount of ten percent of the tax. The letter concludes by saying that "All persons, firms, and corporations engaged in a business must complete the confidential statement attached for the County Tax Supervisors records. All inventories will be checked with the North Carolina Department of Revenue."

Highway Intersection Scene Of Crash That Injured Five People

A wreck yesterday afternoon about 5:45 p. m. injured five people and left one of the automobiles a total wreck. Patrolman Jim Davis reported this morning. One car, driven by William T. Boykin, 24, of Stratford Road, Jackson, was traveling north on N. C. 43 when it was hit by another car, driven by Fred O. Watkins, 59, of Route 2, Washington, was traveling east on N. C. 102. Boykin's wife, Jean Boykin, 23, and Hilda L. Dixon, 23, of Pollocksville were in the car with him. Watkins' wife Alma, 55, and his son, Kent, were passengers in his car. According to Patrolman Davis, Watkins said that he was traveling approximately 30 miles per hour when he went through the intersection. The car driven by Watkins hit the Boykin car on the left side, turning it over so it came back on its wheels, and throwing all the occupants out. The Dixon girl was thrown over a barbed wire fence near the highway. Boykin and Miss Dixon were admitted to the Pitt Memorial Hospital, where the condition was described as fair today. Watkins received back and leg injuries with Mrs. Watkins being bruised and receiving abrasions while Kent had a laceration on the chin. All of these were taken to the Taylor Hospital in Washington. Davis said that Boykin's car was a complete wreck while damage to the other was estimated $500 to $600. Charges will be preferred, he said; however, they have not been made. The accident was investigated by Davis and Patrolman Shep Newman.

American Left-Wing Novelist Terms It 'Highest Honor' Stalin Peace Prize For Howard Fast

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviets awarded American left-wing novelist Howard Fast today, awarding him a $25,000 Stalin Peace Prize. Fast himself presented the same prize to another American winner, Negro singer Paul Robeson, in ceremonies in New York's Harlem three months ago. The Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda announced the 1953 awards today, the 74th anniversary of Joseph Stalin's birth. The prizes, Communist equivalent of the Nobel awards, were established in 1949 as part of the celebration for the Soviet Premier's 70th anniversary. A gold medal goes with the cash award. Pravda hailed the author as a "courageous fighter for ideals of the whole world," who in an atmosphere of persecution remains true to his ideals of defending the rights of man, who represents the true progressive America which has nothing in common with the America of the reactionaries." In New York, Fast termed the prize "the highest honor that can be conferred to any person in these times." He said he hoped it would "contribute to the struggle for peace and that it may help to prove that between our country and all other countries there can be understanding, peaceful intercourse and mutual respect." Fast, 39, is the author of "The Last Frontier," "Citizen Tom Paine," "Freedom Road" and other bestsellers. He is a native and resident of New York City. A frequent advocate of left-wing causes, the writer was convicted in 1947 of contempt of Congress along with 10 other members of the Joint Anti-Fascist Refugee Committee. The group, described by the FBI as a Communist front, refused to submit its records to the House Un-American Activities Committee. Fast was sentenced to three months in jail and fined $300. He went to prison in June 1950.

About Six More Hours Of Work Remain, Says Manager Weather Holding Up Work At WNCT

Greenville's television station WNCT will be ready to go on the air as soon as weather permits the remaining six hours of work to be done. The station was slated to go on the air with its regular programs Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, but workmen who were erecting the 8,500 pound antenna atop the 250-foot temporary tower ran into unforeseen difficulties Saturday afternoon and yesterday morning which delayed the opening of the station. A. Hartwell Campbell, general manager of the station, said today, "We sincerely regret circumstances over which we had no control forced us to delay our inaugural service. We did everything humanly possible to meet the schedule for broadcasts beginning Sunday afternoon." Campbell said a three-day safety factor was allowed for the work which was to be done at the time the scheduled starting date of December 20 was announced for the station.

Bad weather conditions, however, consumed four days preventing the erection crews from working, and delaying the beginning of television broadcasts by the Eastern Carolina station. Rain and high winds last week slowed the work on the station tower.

Thousands Stop To Watch 'Act'

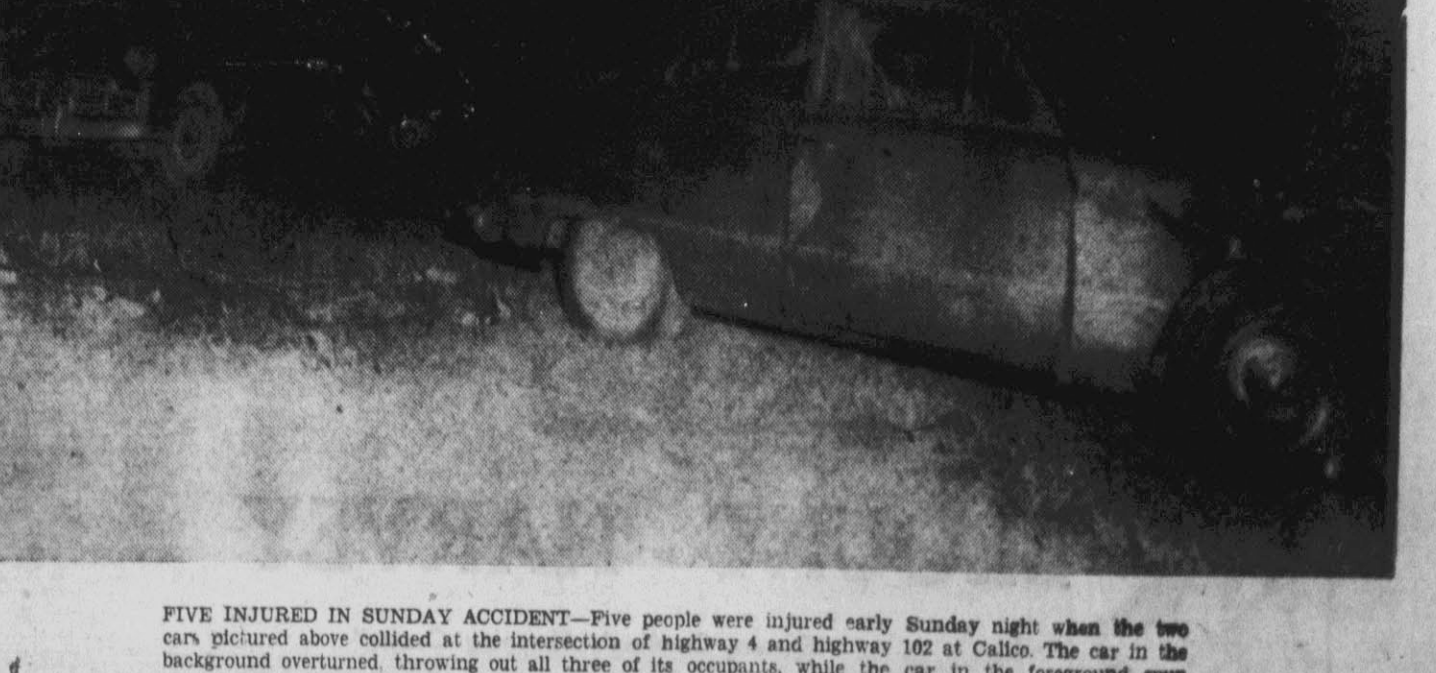

It was the greatest high tower act ever staged in Pitt County. A crowd estimated at upwards of 2,000 people from all parts of Pitt County and neighboring communities in Eastern North Carolina were on hand to watch it. The event: the erection of the 8,500 pound antenna on top of the 250 foot tower at television station WNCT near Greenville yesterday. Hundreds of automobiles lined the shoulders of the roads for a half mile all around the station as interested spectators watched nimble members of the erection crew scramble about the television tower 250 feet above the ground.

In addition to the people who parked their automobiles to watch the scene, hundreds of others rode by the station in a steady stream of traffic all yesterday afternoon watching the erection work. The crowd began to gather shortly after noon yesterday and stayed on until the antenna was finally set in place between 4:30 and 5 o'clock. Hundreds of spectators milled around the property of the television station, straining their necks to watch the work high above. Hundreds of others were content to remain in their automobiles and watch the work.

"As late as yesterday morning," Campbell said, "we still hoped to be on the air by 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon, but it was impossible to get the work done." Saturday when the erection crew began to lift the 8,500 pound antenna to the top of the tower, chains which were holding the gin pole to the tower began to snap and the work was halted. Work Saturday afternoon was devoted to getting heavier chains with which to bind the gin pole to the tower and make it secure for lifting the heavy antenna. Sunday morning the crew began to raise the antenna to the top of the tower, but when the antenna had been raised about half the height of the tower, rivets which held the hoisting winch to a truck body began to pull out and work had to be stopped again. The winch was re-secured, and workmen began about 2:30 yesterday afternoon to carry the antenna the rest of the way to the top of the tower. They finished setting the antenna in place on top of the tower between 4:30 and 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The crew continued work until about 7 o'clock Saturday night when darkness and fatigue forced them to stop work until this morning. Today, rainy weather prevented work on the steel tower during the morning, although station officials hoped clearing weather would permit work to be resumed this afternoon.

Mt. Pleasant Church Is Scene Of Darrah-Vainright Wedding

The wedding of Miss Argene Gray Vainright of Greenville, N. C. and Edward Joseph Darrah of Norfolk, Va. was solemnized Saturday, December 12, at 4:30 o'clock in Mt. Pleasant Christian Church in a double ring ceremony. Vows were spoken to Rev. William Clifton, pastor of the bride.

The church altar was arranged with tall baskets of white chrysanthemums, Oregon and fern before a background of pine. Candles, in seven branched candelabra which were entwined with ivy, helped illumine the scene.

Prior to the ceremony, Mrs. Randolph Fleming, organist, played "Poem" by Fitch, "Flower Song" by Lange and "Waltz" by Brahms. During the ceremony Traumer-Roimance by Schumann was played.

The Bridal Chorus was used for the processional and Wedding March for recessional.

Miss Anne Forbes, soloist of Norfolk, Va., sang "Sweetest Story Ever Told" and "I Love Thee."

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Nina Vainright of Greenville and the late N. W. Vainright. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. W. McDonald of Little Falls, N. J. and L. L. Darrah of Norfolk, Va.

Given in marriage by her brother, Larry Vainright of Norfolk, the bride wore a wedding gown of white and Chantilly lace over Duchess satin. It was designed with a scalloped yoke of nylon net and the fitted bodice of Chantilly lace which was pointed in front and fastened in the back with miniature covered buttons. The long tapering sleeves ended in points over the hands. The full gathered lace over satin skirt was floor length.

Her two tiered finger-tip veil of illusion was attached to a bandeau of orange blossoms and seed pearls, and she carried a white prayer book topped with a white purple-throated orchid showered with Stephanotis and white satin streamers. She wore been serving in the United States Navy.

After a wedding trip the couple will make their home in Norfolk.

On Friday evening, Dec. 11, after the rehearsal, Mrs. Nina Vainright and Mrs. J. P. Vainright entertained the wedding party at a cake cutting at the Mt. Pleasant community building.

The bridal table was covered with an imported lace table cloth over a green cloth centered with an arrangement of white carnations and pom poms with candles in crystal candelabra on either side. A three tiered wedding cake topped with miniature bride and groom was at one end of the table and a punch bowl was at the other end. After the bride and groom-elect cut the first slice, the cake was served by Mrs. Nina Vainright. Mrs. J. P. Vainright served punch. Nuts in silver bonbon dishes were placed on the table.

The community building was decorated with ferns and Christmas arrangements.

Before her wedding Mrs. Darrah was entertained at a miscellaneous shower at the Mt. Pleasant Community Building. Hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. Clifton Bullock, Mrs. Randolph Fleming, Mrs. C. B. Spain and Miss Oleva Zahniser.

Attractive Christmas decorations were used throughout the club building. The bride's table was decorated with red ribbon and silver bells.

Upon the arrival of the honoree and her mother, corsages of carnations were presented to them.

After several appropriate games Mrs. Darrah opened many lovely gifts. She was presented a silver bowl and silver candle holders by the hostesses.

Green and white ice cream, bridal cakes, mints and salted nuts were served by the hostesses, assisted by Mrs. Howard Bullock.

The table was attractively decorated with a centerpiece of Santa and his reindeer. Snowmen and green lighted candles were used at each end of the table.

About fifty friends of Mrs. Darrah were present.

Three College Students Prepare Coed Calendar

By JULIUS GOLDEN

ALBUQUERQUE (AP)—Thousands of men each year take a look at artistic girls on spicy calendars and sigh.

"Now, what could be prettier!" "A college coed," scream three 20-year-old University of New Mexico juniors in answer. "And we're quitting school to prove it."

The three, Wally Deckert of Springfield, S. D., Larry Ross of Albuquerque, and Hank Edwards of Chapel Hill, N. C., are in dead earnest. They've put out their first calendar with photos of scantily clad coeds in place of the painted long-legged beauties.

"This isn't just a crazy Joe College stunt," said Deckert, a mechanical engineering student. "We've already got our first calendar on the market here. They're going like hot cakes."

The trio had to convince the university, the parents of 11 of the 12 coeds who were under 21, and a censorship board.

"The university was tough," Deckert said. "The coeds were a cinch. The parents took some talking, but the censorship board—oh, brother!"

Ross, a biology student, dropped by to see Deckert last month. "One thing led to another," said Deckert. "The next thing we knew we decided to make a calendar using college coeds as the come on."

The calendars—financed by advertising—feature a coed above each month and a cartoon alongside the dates. Not all the girls show their legs—a concession to the censorship board—but most do.

"But none are suggestive," Deckert said. "The censorship board took care of that. A board made up of two deans and only one student can be pretty tough. They junked four pictures. I still can't see why, but I guess they had their reasons."

"We copyrighted our calendar and were going to put one out next year. Then, in 1953, we'll go into the national field. I've quit school already and Hank and Larry are going to quit. Another buddy is going in with us."

Beria Gets Treatment Of Own Medicine

Lavrenty P. Beria, former first deputy minister of Russia under Malenkov and head of Russia's police from 1938 until his ouster and arrest June 26 is getting the same bitter treatment he has handed out to thousands in the past 15 years.

As the stage is set for the sham trial of Beria in Russia on charges of high treason, the former head of the secret police, and number two man under Malenkov, demonstrations are being held throughout Russia denouncing him. Even in his home province of Georgia, where both he and Josef Stalin grew up, there have been big rallies denouncing Beria.

And so ruthless Malenkov carries out his plan to do away with the man who is his closest competitor for control of the Soviet and the Kremlin. When Malenkov came to power after the death of Stalin, observers predicted that the ruthless man who had been chosen head of the Kremlin would eliminate one by one others of the more important men in the Russian government in order that he might gain complete power for himself.

Beria has become the first to fall before Malenkov's program of extermination.

One by one, the finger will be put on others who, by their positions, may be potential threats to Malenkov's absolute rule of the communist world. Along with Beria, six others who probably were Beria's chief assistants are facing charges of treason, and will be put away by Malenkov.

Although it may not appear so to the casual observer, the bitter struggle for power in the Kremlin still is going on. The cloak and dagger tactics are likely to continue for many years, as Malenkov seeks to eliminate all his enemies, and Malenkov's many enemies seek to eliminate him and place themselves in power.

Many Opportunities For Aiding Needy People

Is there a needy person or family in your community who will not receive aid during this Christmas season if you do not take it as a personal project to give them aid?

Look around. You may be surprised. Each year at this season civic clubs, church groups, and other organizations focus their attention upon helping needy families. Many baskets of food, clothing and other items are distributed to the poor about this time by organizations throughout Pitt County.

Even with all this, there invariably are families which need aid and need it badly that are overlooked about Christmas time. Even with the large amount of aid given people throughout the county by various organizations in each community, there is still room for the individual to take as his own project the rewarding chore of helping someone who is in need . . . making himself a part of the Christmas spirit which spreads cheer at this season.

Look around your own community if you want to aid someone less fortunate than you at this Christmas season. You may be surprised at the opportunities for this expression of service to fellow men that you will find.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
SHARING THE DIVINE LIFE

Many people regard Jesus of Nazareth as simply an historical figure who lived, taught, and died 2000 years ago. The primary emphasis of the New Testament is that this Personality is not only living today but spiritually he is in every part of the world's life and is exerting upon it an influence much greater than He exerted when He was here in the flesh. Christianity would have died long ago had it consisted only of the ministry and teaching of an ancient figure. What gives Christianity its power is the spiritual presence of Jesus Christ in the life of the world right now.

When Jesus became incarnate in human flesh, He divested Himself of His divine and heavenly glory and shared our life. Now restored to that heavenly glory, He gives us an opportunity to share His life. He left behind many priceless teachings designed to guide us in our everyday living. But these alone would never suffice for the demands of life. His presence, His association with us as spiritual beings are the things which give light to our lives and power to our purposes. While we live here upon earth, we are invited to begin to partake of a celestial life which, if we persist in living it, will after death be conferred upon us in all its glory and for all time.

Christ shared our life in the incarnation; we share His now that He is glorified.

Mismanaged In Washington

WASHINGTON—Although the Eisenhower Administration has asked the Supreme Court to terminate school segregation of white and black races throughout the country, the odd fact is that the Negro problem is more mismanaged at the Nation's Capitol than in many sections of the country, including Dixie.

Despite 20 years of a Democratic regime which boasted of its sympathy for the colored people, and including Eleanor Roosevelt's personal crusades, this minority element has achieved only artificial and ephemeral equality in Washington. And whatever advances they have enjoyed, have been won in the courts, not through the action of Congress or the White House.

ANGERS SOUTHERN DEMOCRATS—It is this aspect of the racial controversy which angers and puzzles so many Southern Democrats. Living here as members of Congress or Government officials, they see every day evidence that the Roosevelt and Truman Administrations gave only political lip service to the Negroes.

The Farley-conceived strategy was designed, in their opinion, only to kidnap the colored vote from its ancient homestead, Abraham Lincoln's Party, and to attach it to the Roosevelt family. The more far-sighted Negro leaders recognize this fact, but were willing to take advantage of it.

AUTHORITIES DISAGREE—Even in the current legal controversy, the Federal and municipal authorities at the Capital are in disagreement. Whereas Attorney General Brownell insists on an immediate end to segregation, attorneys for the Board of Education of the District of Columbia oppose the Administration plea, Justice Felix Frankfurter, a Roosevelt brain-truster, was amused and bewildered.

In view of the fact that Eisenhower carried several Southern and border states by his states rights stand, Brownell's position was unexpected. Even in his State of the Union Message, Ike did not demand the kind of equality he now seeks. He simply pledged himself to do away with segregation "in the District of Columbia, including the Federal Government."

Where Will Aviation Be In Fifty More Years?

It is going to be a fast world 50 years from now if the progress which has been made in aviation in the past half century is kept at its present pace through the coming half century.

When the Wright Brothers flew their plane at Kitty Hawk 50 years ago this week, they clocked its speed at 31 miles per hour.

Now the speed of flight has been advanced more than 42 times that of the first flight with the record now standing at better than 1,300 miles per hour.

If such progress can be continued, men will be zipping through the air at speeds of better than 50,000 miles per hour by the close of the 20th century.

Such speeds sound preposterous, don't they?

But 50 years ago the idea of men flying in contraptions they had built sounded just as foolish to most people of that day.

Looking back on the 50 years of progress in aviation since the first successful flight, one is inclined to wonder whether the space ships of such adventure fiction characters as Buddy Rogers and Flash Gordon may be as far from reality as most of us believe they are.

Even the optimist is reluctant to guess how far aviation will have progressed on the 100th anniversary of the Wright Brothers flight.

Use Of Word 'Free'

By ELMER ROESSNER

Human nature being what it is, "free" is one of the most powerful words in the English language. We are going to see it used a lot more in printed and electronic advertisements, in store signs and elsewhere, partly because merchants will be working harder to make sales and partly because the word has a new, Republican definition.

If there are words that mean one thing to Republicans and another to Democrats, then "free" is one of them. Under the long Democratic years, the Federal Trade Commission constantly tightened the definition of the word when used in advertising until the Commission got to the point at which nothing could be called "free" if there was any consideration whatever. For a while it looked as if an advertiser could say a gift was free only if he dropped it in a person's hand and then only if the person didn't have to close his hand by himself.

Then there was a change of lexicons as well as administrations; now "free" means "well, relatively free." In one of the last cases under the old dispensation, the Book of the Month Club was brought to account for offering a book free with purchases of other books. The new FTC dismissed the case and promised to write a new rule on the use of the word. The rule is now out and, while it is written in somewhat retrogressive language, it is clear that merchants can now advertise "Buy one, and get another free!" without being accused of running a shell game.

In connection with the sale, offering for sale, or distribution of industry products, it is an unfair trade practice to use the word "free" in any other word or words of similar import, in advertisements or in other offers to the public, as descriptive of an article of merchandise, or service, which is not an unconditional gift, under the following circumstances:

(1) When all the conditions, obligations, or other prerequisites to the receipt and retention of the "free" article of merchandise or service offered are not clearly and conspicuously set forth at the outset so as to leave no reasonable probability that the terms of the offer will be misunderstood; and, regardless of such disclosure:

(2) When, with respect to any article or merchandise required to be purchased in order to obtain the "free" article or service, the offerer (a) increases the ordinary and usual price of such article, or (b) reduces its quality, or (c) reduces the quantity or size thereof.

[Note: The disclosure required by subsection (1) of this rule shall appear in close conjunction with the word "free" (or any other word or words of similar import) wherever such word first appears in each advertisement or offer. A disclosure in the form of a footnote, to which reference is made by use of an asterisk or other symbol placed next to the word "free" will not be regarded as compliance.]

SALES IN NOVEMBER EVEN WITH YEAR AGO

Merchants whose sales in November were less than in October, but about even with November, 1952, were going along with the national average. The Department of Commerce put November sales at just under $14 billion, about 7 per cent under October sales. This, it said, is less than the usual seasonal decline.

N. C. Legislative Line-Up Next Year Awaiting Election

By LYNN NISBET

LEGISLATURE—North Carolinians next spring will elect 170 members of the Legislature—50 Senators and 120 representatives. After the 170 members have been sworn in they will convene as the General Assembly of North Carolina, the most important an authoritative body in the contemplation of the constitution.

The legislators to be elected next year will be constitute a generally termed a mid-year Legislature. There will be no change in the office of Governor, the chief executive and administrative officer of the State, nor will there be any change in majority of the other elective administrative offices.

It is of common knowledge that large part of the work of the General Assembly is done in committees and that committee assignments, sometimes assume B. Regan of Robeson, Carl Venter of Onslow and William B. Rodman of Beaufort. Moore has had eight terms, Edwards seven, Branch four, Regan and Venter three each and Rodman two—plus two terms in the Senate. John Fernando White of Chowan and John W. Umstead of Orange have legislative tenure records equal to or surpassing other members, but neither has manifested any ambition or desire to move up to the speakership position.

It is also important to remember that a legislator has to get elected from his home county before he can become a factor in any speakership contest. Subject to the primaries next spring and the general election, next fall, and all the other potential casualties, it looks now like Larry Moore of Wilson is a fairly safe bet to be Speaker of the next House of Representatives.

ALL-STATE—While custom and gentlemen agreements decrease that the Speaker next time shall come from the east, the west is just as much concerned and the representatives elected from western counties have equal voice in choosing a presiding officer. The fact is, many people are coming around to opinion that the east-west rotation should be abandoned, and that Governor, United States Senators, Lieutenant Governors and House Speakers should be chosen on basis of ability to do the job, without regard to geography. Further admitted situation is that the east-west business has been observed or ignored from time to time as seemed best to suit the purposes of those who set themselves up as political leaders. It is also true that the dividing line between east and west has been juggled to suit the purposes of those who set themselves up as arbiters of things governmental and political. It would appear almost impossible for anybody to move Wilson county—or Halifax or Beaufort or Greene into the west.

WESTERN—From the western piedmont and mountain counties are coming rumors of political upheavals. Democrats and Republicans are equally determined to increase their strength in the next General Assembly, and if possible in the next Congress. Voting records will show that the trend over the past decade or so has been reduced Republican votes in the west, with gradual increases to the eastward. That indicates more general distribution of adherents to both parties. It is still true, however, that majority of members of the North Carolina General Assembly and the only Tarheel representative in the Congress accredited to the Republican party hail from the western half of the state, whether the east-west dividing line be counted on basis of square mile area, lineal east-west measurement or density of population and and buggies?

WHAT WE OWE TO AUTOMOBILES—It is estimated that 25 per cent of the business today is due to the automobile. Industries, from the making of steel and the refining of oil to the thousands of factories, gas stations, automobile agencies, and new roads, exist today because of this industry.

The automobile industry (especially the self-starter), plus the installment credit business, plus new home building, plus modern advertising must be thanked for the high wages, full employment, and general prosperity of today. Unfortunately, however, now that the economic set up accepts the automobile industry as here to stay, some other new industry must come along to keep the prosperity ball rolling.

Boyle's Book Gift Suggestions

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Those long winter evening commercials on television have revived the lost art of reading.

There is no better time to pick up a good book and settle back for a reunion with the printed word than during those cheery interludes of your video screen during which the announcer tells you how you can avoid body odor and protect your lungs by drinking only filtered beer, packed in a king-size refrigerator that can be thrown away after using only once.

During one long commercial I read my way through three feet of Dr. Eliot's old five-foot book shelf, a man bragged recently. "My wife who has read all our books knitted a sweater during another commercial."

So, if you want to do your friend a real favor this Christmas, why not refresh his ears by giving him a heart-warming, old-fashioned present—a book? If he has forgotten how to read, surprise him with a color picture book.

To guide you in making the right choice, here is our annual list of Christmas book suggestions—just in jest—for folks in and out of the public eye:

How To Make Doll Clothes—Marilyn Monroe.
All Done From Memory—Harry S. Truman.
How to Play Your Best Golf All The Time—President Ike.
A Practical Guide To Job Hunting—Sen. Joe McCarthy.

The Boy Who Saw Tomorrow—Vice President Nixon.
Our Animal Neighbors—to the family next door.
The Borrowers—to the other family next door.

For More Than Bread—to your favorite employer, the boss.
You Must Relax—ditto.
Brother To The Dragons—the boss's assistant.
Some Enchanted Evenings—

Worth Noting

The trend toward economy in Washington is to be hailed and commended—but it must be applied in all branches of government in the grassroots areas as well if the taxpayers are to get any measurable relief. Anaheim, Calif., Bulletin.

SPENDING IS LIKE DRUGS

The Greenville, South Carolina, Piedmont, recently made this somber observation: "The yammering heard in certain quarters over the failure of the Eisenhower administration to balance the national budget is nothing beside the screaming that will go on when spending is cut enough to really balance it."

We have become conditioned to unbridled government spending, much as an addict becomes conditioned to drugs. If that kind of spending goes on long enough it can destroy the richest nation, even as drugs can destroy the strongest individual. It will take character and courage in high places to get rid of the waste in government—and it will take character and courage on the part of the people to accept that bitter but essential medicine.

CONSIDER AIR CONDITIONING

Looking over the field, I believe that air conditioning may partly fill the need. People in the United States now do not need more clothes or more transportation, or more entertainment. Some do need more homes and furnishings. But the great majority of families already have these things. To sell something big to these 40,000,000 families, the appeal must be made by offering more comfort.

This makes me bullish on the air-conditioning business. I believe that, in a few years, there will be more air-conditioning units than radios. New models are coming out which will look like furniture and not depend upon an open window. The demand for them will increase until every room of most houses and office buildings will require an air conditioner. Labor unions are already calling for air-conditioned factories.

OPPORTUNITIES FOR POSITIONS AND PROFITS

I suppose that most of the models will be made by a few large companies. Their sale, installation, and maintenance will, however, give employment and profit to millions of people. Any young man who is determined to know more than anyone else in his community about air conditioning has a great opportunity.

One more thought. We must not forget the possibilities of solar and gravity energy—also of atomic power. Just now the latter is handicapped because of the limited supply of uranium. But this will be only temporary. Uranium or its equivalent will be "breded" or made partially synthetically. This could provide cheap power, available everywhere, and revolutionize industry and foreign trade, and perhaps eliminate war. This is really our best bet of all. Get into step with the coming Atomic Age.

Three 'Christmases' For Italy's Children

By WEBB MCKINLEY
ROME (AP)—Italian children get Christmas presents more often, probably, than children anywhere else in the world.

In many parts of the country, presents are exchanged three times—on St. Nicholas Day, Dec. 6; on Christmas Day, Dec. 25; and on the Day of Epiphany, Jan. 6.

St. Nicholas Day is especially important in the big Adriatic port city of Bari. People sometimes say it's the home town of Santa Claus. Bari doesn't look much like the North Pole, but there's a certain accuracy to the idea.

The bones of St. Nicholas himself are there. They were brought to Bari many centuries ago from Asia Minor and lie today in a beautiful basilica close to the sea.

St. Nicholas is a saint especially of children, and along the Adriatic and in many other countries of Europe his day is a children's holiday with Christmas trees, toy fairs, gifts and candy.

Presents are exchanged on Christmas Day in honor of the birth of Christ, as in all other Christian nations. The celebration on the Day of Epiphany marks the time when the Wise Men came with gifts to kneel before the child who was born in a manger.

In the big apartment houses of Rome and in poor country cottages people celebrate this day, too, by giving gifts to children.

In Italy this also is called the Day of Befana. Befana is a witch, but a kindly one, and legend has it that she leaves presents on trees for children when her day comes once a year.

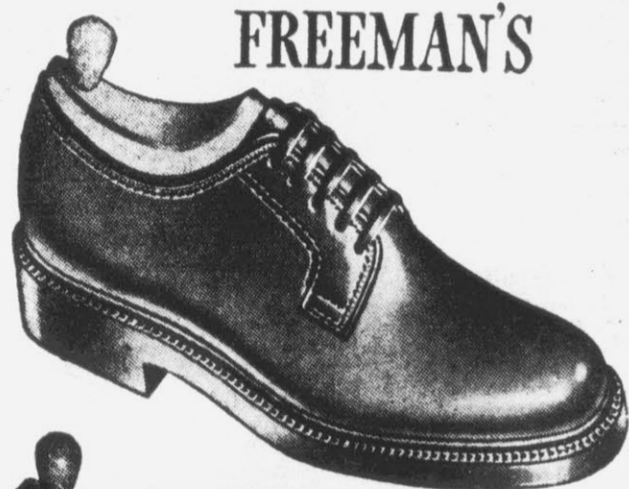

When it's all over and the bills come in, the fathers may find some use for the patron saint of children too. For St. Nicholas is also the patron saint of pawnbrokers.

Reminds Hunters Season Near End

Game and Fish Protector J. O. Teel today reminded hunters that the open season for hunting bear, deer and squirrels will close in this part of the state Friday, January 1—New Year's Day.

All opening and closing dates for hunting and fishing are inclusive, the North Carolina Wildlife Resources Commission states.

The open season for taking raccoon and opossum and rabbits closes January 30.

The open season for hunting quail and wild turkey closes January 30.

Foxes may be taken with guns when the season is open for any other game bird or animal, except that where county fox laws regulate the season, the local law shall prevail, the game protector stated.

The open season for trapping furbearing animals—mink, muskrat, opossum—otter and raccoon, closes January 30.

The cold wave that held this section in its wintry grip several days last week passed along for milder weather.

Reports Hold-Up By 2 White Men

The Winterville police department and the Pitt County sheriff's department joined last night in the investigation of a report by a Negro man that he had been held up and robbed by two white men.

Jack Wood, Negro, who lives between Worthington's cross roads and Winterville, reported to officers that two white men held him up as he was coming through a swamp, and took $65 from him early last night.

Bloodhounds were taken to the scene of the alleged holdup, but were unable to pick a trail other than Wood's own trail.

Winterville Chief of Police Preston Hardy, and Constable Rick Jackson of Winterville township took part in the investigation along with members of the sheriff's department.

So Many Rely On Military Wisdom

By JAMES MARLOW
 WASHINGTON (AP)—Never before in the history of the country have the people had to depend so blindly on the military wisdom of its leaders.

The Russians have atom bombs, they may have hydrogen bombs, and the number of their troops under arms is impressive.

Nevertheless, the Eisenhower administration is planning to reduce the manpower of U.S. armed forces—with the exception of the Air Force—this year, and still further next year.

The administration has two motives:

1. A desire to keep campaign promises by reducing expenses.
2. More reliance on new weapons and the special teams and planes to deliver them.

Since the wisdom of these decisions may not be known for years, it has to be assumed meanwhile that the military planners know what they are doing.

We are told that scientific development of new weapons since World War II has been astonishing, changing the old concepts of fighting a war. What the new developments are, what can be expected of them necessarily is known only to the military people, the President, his close advisers and the atomic experts.

In the atomic field the size and power of the bombs are not known by the public. They can't even be imagined. Laymen know only that they are many times more powerful than those dropped on Japan.

Some idea of their power, although still beyond the ability of the lay mind to comprehend, was given by President Eisenhower in his Dec. 9 speech to the United Nations.

He said the United States stockpile of atomic weapons today "exceeds by many times the explosive total of all bombs and all shells that came from every plane and every gun in every theater of war through all the years of World War II."

And as a warning to the Russians he said anyone who tried an attack would be repaid quickly by having his homeland laid waste.

This was an expression of confidence which the public, not knowing the details, must take on faith. Military power was something which could be understood better in World War II. Then there were few mysteries. It was generally understood that if you had enough troops, guns, ships, planes and traditional bombs your chances of winning were pretty good.

Everyone had pretty much the same sort of thing, more or less. And there was no great mystery about the bombs. The bigger they were, the more powerful they were and the more damage they could do.

This country no doubt has a greater supply of atomic weapons than the Russians since the United States has been building them longer. In time the Russians may have enough for wartime needs, if they don't now.

When that happens both sides, having sufficient bombs to blast each other off the earth, may have to revise all over again their ideas about war-making, looking for still newer ways to do it, unless in the meantime they can agree to let each other stay alive.

Kept A Promise Until Her Death

STALEY, N. C. (AP)—Thirty years ago Mrs. Mary Mines made a deathbed promise to her sister. She would take care of her sister's mentally defective son, then 6-years-old. And Mrs. Mines kept that promise to her own death.

The 75-year-old Mrs. Mines, critically ill, had barricaded the door of her one-room shack here where she lived with the nephew, George Fox. She refused medical attention because, neighbors said, she didn't want to leave the nephew.

Sheriff's deputies broke down the door Saturday afternoon and found her dead. Her nephew was naked and uncovered on an iron cot. He died three hours later in a hospital of what doctors said was cold and starvation.

Sheriff Coble Maness said it was bitter cold in the shack as there was no fire.

A double funeral is being held this afternoon for Mrs. Mines and

Kiwanians Hold Christmas Party

The Kiwanis Club had its Christmas party last Friday night, distributed Christmas gifts, turned over to representatives of the King's Daughters many toys to be distributed Christmas Eve and sang Christmas carols.

Kiwanian Lena Tyson had charge of the program. President Leo W. Jenkins presided. Eli Bloom was master of ceremonies for distribution of toys and special gifts for Mrs. Tyson and Mrs. J.K. Spivey and her helpers who serve the meals during the year.

The club voted not to have a meeting Christmas night. The regular meeting will be held Friday night, January 1.

New officers and directors and committee chairmen will be installed Friday night, January 8, at 8:30. Lt. Gov. Jimmy Copeland of Wilmington will officiate at the installation. J. Bryan Brown and John Barnhill are to be president and vice-president, respectively, next year.

Appeals For Aid To Fire Victims

RALEIGH (AP)—An appeal for financial help for the thousands made homeless by the fire at Pusan, Korea, last month has been issued by the chairman of the Aid-to-Korea drive in North Carolina.

In making the appeal yesterday, Chairman George P. Geobegan Jr., pointed out the American-Korean Foundation has designated the week beginning today as a special period for raising relief funds for the fire victims.

A chartered steamship will leave San Francisco Jan. 15 with emergency relief supplies.

Again A Widow Due To Accident

WACO, Tex. (AP)—A young mother of three lay seriously ill in a hospital here today, widowed by accident the second time in 18 months.

Her first husband was killed in a tractor accident, her three children by that marriage are being cared for by her father.

Escorted Planes To Safe Landing

HONOLULU (AP)—A four-engine Tokyo-bound Pan American Stratocruiser escorted two disabled planes to safe landings at Wake Island today in a double "rescue," a Pan American spokesman announced.

One of the disabled planes was an Overseas National Airways DC4 flying under military charter from Honolulu to Wake. It feathered its No. 3 propeller 700 miles east of Wake and radioed for help.

The other was a Navy PBM amphibious search plane which left Wake in answer to the distress messages from the DC4.

The PBM began losing oil from its starboard engine 200 miles out of Wake. A Pan American spokesman said it messaged that it might be forced to make an emergency landing in the Pacific.

The Pan American Clipper Nightingale was refueling at Wake when the distress signals came. It left immediately to provide assistance, the airline spokesman said.

The stratocruiser picked up the PBM one hour out of Wake and flew with it as it limped to base at an altitude of 600 feet.

The airliner then picked up the DC4 and shepherded it in to a landing about 30 minutes later.

Rodney has lived in hospitals since birth, first at St. Anthony's in Rock Island, where he and his twin Roger were born, then at the research hospital in Chicago. Roger died 34 days after an operation separated them Dec. 17, 1952.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK—Aircraft were active higher today in a stock market that displayed improvement in most areas.

The best gains came to between 1 and 2 points but they were rare. The usual advance or decline was a small fraction.

The pace of business was well ahead of Friday's 1,550,000 shares.

Demand for the aircrafts was based on the favorable attitude toward air defenses shown in Washington.

Steels were lagged for the most part. The industry faces a sharp production cut as the year-end approaches.

Kennecott Copper was up better than a point after it was announced that Kennecott had acquired a minority interest in Kaiser Aluminum & Chemical Corp., which gained a fraction.

Among higher stocks were Boeing, Douglas Aircraft, Grumman Aircraft, Montgomery Ward, American Telephone, Du Pont, Westinghouse Electric, Johns-Manville, and

Two wrecks were reported by local police over the weekend with one person being injured slightly in one of the accidents.

The injured person was Buck Hardy, Negro, 217 Dudley Street, who received a cut on the back of his hand when the car which he was driving wrecked. Damage to Johnson's car was estimated at $250. Hardy was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital by police for treatment.

Hardy is being charged with driving without an operator's license and drunken driving.

In a second accident, a car driven by Howard H. King Jr., Route 2, Greenville, struck a car operated by J. Durwood Hines, Route 1, Fountain. Police stated that Hines was traveling the wrong way on a one-way street and that King had the green light.

The accident took place at the corner of Washington and Fifth Streets. Police said that Hines stated he was not familiar with the one-way street system in Greenville. No arrest was made in the accident.

County ABC officers made three arrests Saturday and Saturday night and charged three people with illegal possession of bootleg whiskey.

Car Ripped Off Bridge Railing

A car driven by Paul James Grandle, Negro, of near Grimesland, collided with the right rail of the bridge over Tar River on the road between Grimesland and Pactolus Sunday afternoon.

State Highway Patrolman Delton E. Perry, who investigated the accident, said the car ripped off about 16 feet of the bridge railing. Damage to the car was estimated to be $100. None of the occupants of the car was injured.

The patrolman arrested Grandle on the charge of driving a motor vehicle on a public highway with defective brakes.

Infant Dies Of Strangulation

The one-week-old child of Mae and William May was found dead of strangulation yesterday morning, according to Coroner Griffin H. Rouse.

Rouse stated that the child's mother told him that she nursed the child and then laid him on the bed. She said that she then went to sleep and when she awoke this morning the child was dead.

Rouse said that no inquest will be held.

The family lives on Jesse Chapman's farm near Winterville.

ELSIE MACK

CHAPTER ONE
SOON, TOO SOON, it would be spring . . .

From her bedroom window, Dale Fraser stared out at the bright white night. She was twenty-three; too young for the curve of her body to hold so solitary a grief, so desolate a passion.

In the full of the moon, the black line of open water far out on the frozen surface of Lake Couchiching formed an illusory horizon, and great chunks of breaking ice driven grumblingly before an onshore wind were starting to pile up on the fringed edges of the beach.

Tomorrow, the thick-ribbed ice would be honeycombed with gaww fissures; the widening water line nearer the shore. Tomorrow, spring would be one day closer.

Dale turned abruptly away from the window and began to undress. Last year the seasons had come and gone unnoticed; the re-creating grass, the delicate white of the cherry orchard, the meadows lively with daisies—all had come and gone without her knowing or caring.

For Kelly was dead.

There was no way of stopping the noisy breakup of the ice, but suddenly Dale hated the unruly wind for pushing back the walls of her detachment. Had her grandfather, with his unerring presence, foreseen this when he had urged her to send Kelly's manuscript to the publishers in New York? Wise old Grandy, so deft in subtle hints and long silences and sudden gruff ultimatum! Undoubtedly, he had anticipated the prompt summons from Carruthers and Scott for a personal interview; he surely must have known that she needed a reprieve, if only a temporary one, from April in Swanscombe this year, without Kelly.

Three days ago the call had come. Grandfather had handed Dale the receiver, saying cheerfully for the benefit of every receiver off his hook on the party line, "New York, girl. It's about Kelly's book, most likely. What else'd they be calling us for?" And sotto voce, scowling at her fiercely under the thick white brushes of his eyebrows "If they want you to go, go—You hear me?"

The word had hit Dale like a blow, for behind its vehemence, she was aware of Grandy's kind hand pushing her away from the shelter of home and everything she knew and loved.

By now, everyone in the village knew that she was leaving in the morning. Almost as soon as she hung up the receiver the neighbors had started calling New York, hey Dale! Well, you be sure and come back, now . . . Room in your bag for some of my gingersnaps, Dale? I'm making a batch of my brandyballs. I'll bring you a boxful to tuck in your bag.

By twos and threes they came to say goodbye. Even Armored Crossland, for years a recluse in her big brick hilltop house—even Armored came, with a shy gift of meringues and for once the customary blank look was gone from her deep-set dark eyes. Her "Good-by, Dale," had a clarity unlike Armored's usual vagueness; it had a sound of finality.

As if I were going away for the rest of my life and never coming back, Dale thought. She stared at Armored, wide-eyed and a little frightened until, hearing Grandmother's casual explanation that of course Dale was coming back to Swanscombe, she relaxed. It was not until later that Dale recognized a similarity in Armored's goodbye and Grandy's go.

Surveying the kitchen table with its array of gifts, Grandy marveled greatly. "Do they think you can't get anything to eat in New York? Coals to Newcastle, ain't it, with all them automatons? See here, Dale—want I should get that old Army trunk of mine out of the attic for you?"

"That relic," scoffed Dale's grandmother. "Up there, unused since the Volstead Act! The hinges are rusted to lace. Besides, no one thinks for a minute that Dale will take all this with her. Things from the heart aren't easy to talk about, and there's more in them cakes than sugar and shortening. There's love." She gave Dale an oblique look, her eyes widening almost in benignance. Then in a voice infinitely gentle, she said, "Do you want me to help you with your packing, dear?"

"Thank you, Grandmother, everything is ready Grandy," she turned to him. "I'd really rather take the car than go by train."

"And get snarled up in that city traffic?" he objected. "No, take the train. I'll feel safer about you."

Grandmother made a helpless movement with her hands as if at a loss for words. Then, half defiantly, "I made you a fruitcake. Just in case, come bedtime in a strange hotel, you're peckish."

Dale's eyes filled. "Darling, thank you, I'll find room in my bag for that. And I—I do know all the love that is here for me. Yours, and everyone's." Emotion deepened her voice. "I do know, Grandmother."

Why then, was she going away in the morning and leaving it all behind? Lifelong friends, with the instinctive knowledge that the solitude of grief could not be shared or intruded upon, had offered her their love, and Dale was grateful for their thoughtfulness in never saying a careless word. Kindness could be clumsy and cruel, but no one in Dale's hearing had yet said, "You are young, Dale. You will come alive again. You did not die with Kelly."

Could she expect that solitude from strangers? How could she endure the impersonal measuring eyes, and face the casual appraisals a young and pretty widow almost certainly would evoke?

Dale clenched her hands at her sides between the smooth percale sheets. There was still time to change her mind. As long as she stayed right here, she was safe.

But the organdy curtains flared into the room, the air smelled of open water, the wild and ardent wind blew across her face. Denying its message was as unavailing as arguing with the inevitable.

A knock came, and the door opened slowly inward.

"You asleep, Dale?" her grandmother whispered.

Dale unclenched her fists. "Come in," she said.

The hall light outlined the older woman's comfortable roundness. She had on Grandy's flannel bathrobe over a demure Mother Hubbard braids hung thick and childlike over her shoulders. The nightly ritual of one hundred brush strokes had never in all the years been relaxed. Grandy, brushing Grandmother's hair when her arms were stiffened with what she called her wet-weather joints, often said, "She'd no more sleep without her currying than without her prayers!" But such pride was in his voice that his banter was another among all the avowals of his love.

A lifetime together, Dale thought, as her grandmother sat down on the foot of the bed. All Kelly and I had was two years. Why? Once it had burst from her irreconcilably the passionate question assaulting with envy, almost with hatred, her grandparents' half century of marriage. Why against Kelly's name the fatal asterisk of death? Just tell me why, Grandmother!

Exoneration For All Clam Diggers

WOODS HOLE, Mass. (AP)—Shooting all clam diggers to save the clam "won't do the job in Massachusetts waters," two experts report.

Biologists Harry Turner and J. Arthur Nosgay, who are working to save the clams off Cape Cod agree that the horseshoe crab and the boring snail are more deadly than the clam digger.

They say the crab and the snail eat 10 times their weight in clams a year — and both move so fast they can't be eliminated. But Turner and Nosgay are trying to find a way.

Big Producer Of Hybrid Corn

ASHEVILLE — John Gilmore of Candler produced 158.27 bushels of U.S. 282 hybrid corn on a single acre this summer.

The corn was planted on May 8, was fertilized with 250 pounds of 5-10-10 and side-dressed when about 16 inches high with 400 pounds of 2-12-12. A second side-dressing of 400 pounds of 32-0-0 was applied when the corn was about three feet high.

"WE THOUGHT IT WAS A WOODCHUCK":—A pair of boxers woefully await a de-quilling operation after tangling with a porcupine in the woods near their home in Greenfield, Mass. Dogs are Cookie (left), a 4-year-old female, and her mate, Rhody, 7. Only bright spot was that their master is Dr. W. C. Van Tassel, a veterinarian. He estimated it would take him half a day to do the job. (AP Wirephoto).

painters' unions and contractors over the width of a brush? You've read about labor disputes over a half-inch in brush width. Well, obviously the wider the brush you use the faster the work goes, but the painters contend that quality of work depends on the right width of each specified task.

Brush manufacturers say that a brush ranging from 3 to 6 inches wide can be perfectly satisfactory for large flat surfaces. But they add that the 4-inch brush is the most popular. Brushes of this width are used for walls, flatting, stucco or calcimine.

Trim or sash, however, calls for brushes of 1 to 3 inches wide, with the most popular being 2 to 2½ inches. For enamel, an enamel brush is used.

Thin window sash, dados and trellises require a flat or oval sash brush of the same size—1 to 3 inches. Time can be saved by using the widest brush practical for the job.

But when you come to calcimine or whitewash, widths of 6 to 8 inches are entirely practicable.

Anyone interested in painting can get a very informative booklet simply by sending his name and address on a postal card to the Baker Brush Co., 83 Grand St., New York 13, N.Y., and asking for a copy of "How to Do a Good Paint Job."

Textbook Board Sworn In Today

RALEIGH — The men and women who recommend what textbooks will be used in the state's schools were scheduled to be sworn into office today.

The members of the State Textbook Commission were named last Wednesday by Gov. Umstead and Dr. Charles F. Carroll, state superintendent of public instruction.

All will serve for four years or until their successors are selected and qualified.

Named to the commission were: High school commission—Dr. I. E. Ready, Roanoke Rapids; Mrs. Mary P. Brantley, Raleigh; Miss Bertha Cooper, Elizabeth City; Miss Phoebe Emmons, Washington; C. B. Martin, Robersonville; and O. L. Norment, Asheville.

Elementary commission—Mrs. Carr Abbott, Bryson City; Mrs. Carrie Abbott, Bryson City; Miss Mary Greenlee, Mooresville; Miss Marie Haigwood, Shelby; Miss Cornelia McLaughlin, Lillington; Luther Medlin, Greensboro; and Mrs. Helen D. Wolff, Greensboro.

Lady Gives Up Truck-Driving

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—This city's last lady garbage truck driver has traded her three-ton truck for the sewing needle and the broom after more than 10 years service.

Mrs. Ethel Jackson, 67-year-old widow, doffed her gloves and cap for the contrasting quiet of domesticity. She had hauled thousands of tons of garbage and drove more than 100,000 miles. She was one of seven women garbage truck drivers hired by the city during the World War II manpower shortage. Mrs. Jackson did not especially want to retire, but she'd passed the 65-year age limit.

"THANK YOU" IS LATE FRAMINGHAM, Mass. (AP)—Framingham State Teachers College said thank you, 100 years later. College officials conducted a Day of Appreciation in the school's Nevin Hall in gratitude to the town for asking the college to settle here 100 years ago.

ON THE HOUSE

By DAVID G. BAREUTHER, AP Real Estate Editor

How to use a paint brush is one of the top secrets of a good painter. The wrong size or type of brush, or the right brush used in the wrong way, not only can ruin a quality paint job, but also can ruin the brush.

Take a flat brush and use it to paint pipes and similar round surfaces and you'll have a "fishtail" brush. It will look like that. Use a flat brush edgewise to substitute for a narrow brush and you'll wind up with a "fingered" brush. Painting with the edge of a brush causes the fibers to divide into clumps, or fingers, which after a few hours become set in shape.

Squeeze a brush into tight corners and crevices and you get a matted brush with bristles curled and knotted hopelessly together. Dip a brush too deeply into paint and the uncleanable heel will harden, swelling the ferrule and spoiling the brush. Let your brush stand on its bristle-ends and the weight of the brush will permanently curl the bristles.

One sign of a good brush is the amount of "flagging" at the ends of the bristles. This means the splits in the bristle-ends. The number of "flags" add to the paint-holding capacity of the brush. Hog bristles are naturally "flagged." Synthetic bristles are artificially "flagged."

Then take a look at the ferrule, which holds the bristles. If it is stamped "vulcanized in rubber," that's a good sign against loosening bristles in the future. Painters say they test a brush for "bounce" by brushing the bristles against the back of a hand. A springy and elastic feeling to them, with the bristles not fanning out too much, means a good brush. What's the argument between

Three Factors Determine Arrival Date For Color TV

NEW YORK (AP)—Now that compatible standards for regular commercial color telecasting have been approved, three factors will determine the speed with which it reaches home screens.

1. The rate at which individual stations throughout the country are able to equip themselves to relay full color signals on the air. Up to 18 or 20 may be ready by Jan. 1 but it will be months later for many.

2. The equipping of Bell System network circuits into those cities so the full color signals can be delivered to the stations from New York and Hollywood. But American Telephone Telegraph Co. says it hopes to be able to meet the demand as fast as it develops.

3. The supply of the highly complex tri-color picture tubes needed for color sets, with estimates ranging from 75,000 to 150,000 on the number available by the end of 1954. And a color set, of course, would be of no value to a viewer until a station in his area was receiving full color signals via network and equipped to relay them on the air.

So Federal Communications Commission approval of color standards late Thursday actually means that a very few viewers in only a handful of key cities may see five or six programs in color a week by late spring or summer.

By the end of the year a few thousand viewers around the country will be looking in with sets having 14-inch viewing screens and costing $700 to $1,500.

After that the production of sets and the number of programs should increase rapidly. But it may be 1956 before there is real mass production; and 1957 or 1958 before you can buy a 21-inch set for as little as $500. Color sets always will cost substantially more than comparable black and white models—so much more that manufacturers expect many customers to continue to buy black and white by choice.

But networks and stations will lose no time in getting color programs on the air and manufacturers will rush color sets to the market as fast as they are able to tool up their production lines and get them rolling.

Both CBS and NBC went on the air with special color telecasts shortly after the FCC action. Both announced plans for presenting all their programs in color on a rotating basis at the rate of two or three a week during 1954, as well as some regular colorcasts and a number of special events.

The FCC order is to become effective in the latter part of January but both expect to do colorcasts before then by special commission authorization.

NBC is seeking permission to do its Sunday telecast of the opera "Amahl and the Night Visitor" in color and also will ask authorization to colorcast the New Year's Day Tournament of Roses Parade in Pasadena, Calif.

As for manufacturers, Benjamin Abrams, president of Emerson Radio & Phonograph Corp. said it would be in their own interest to get color sets on the market as quickly as possible. It will enable the public, he said, to see what size picture a color set gives and how much it costs, and then decide whether to pay the price or go ahead and get a black and white model. He forecast that many who have been holding back on buying a set will go ahead and get a black and white model after they've had a chance to see a color set.

Meanwhile, many of the early color sets will be used for demonstrations in public places so large numbers can see them in operation.

NO TIME FOR OPTIMISM:—Lester Poorman, head of the Optimists Club of South Haven, Mich., doesn't appear too optimistic about the trees for the sale following a record snow fall of 2 feet in a 24-hour period. And now it has snowed again, burying the trees for the second time. (AP Wirephoto).

Communism In Sudan Is Now Showing Bold Face

By EDWARD POLLAK
KHARTOUM (AP)—Communism in the Sudan, an undercover movement since the end of World War II, is beginning to show a bold face.

Local Reds made a major bid in last month's general election here. Communist pamphlets showed up among all classes of the population and the self-styled "Sudan Communist party" stepped up the distribution of its clandestine news organ, The Red Standard.

The stenciled tabloid openly urged the people to "unite in the fight against capitalism and imperialism which have plagued our country for years."

At the same time, Red agitators harangued crowds in every major city in northern Sudan. Communism in the Sudan is illegal and convicted Reds are liable to 14 years imprisonment. Police occasionally uncover a Red cell and arrest a few people caught printing Communist leaflets. But authorities concede that most of the Communist leaders in this country are still at large.

The Communist movement here, according to highly placed Western observers, is financed from the outside.

"It is suspected that most of the funds come from behind the Iron Curtain," one informant says, "but from which country and through what channels, nobody knows."

Authorities here keep a close eye on known Reds. But getting evidence against them is difficult. And without definite evidence to prove suspects actually are engaged in spreading Communist propaganda, officials are powerless to act.

The main bulwark against communism here is not the government, however, but Islam nor northern Sudan is a Moslem country. Communism is incompatible with the precepts of the Moslem faith.

Aware of this, Sudan's Communists hammer away on the theme that communism and Islam can get along well together and claim there is nothing in Islam that opposes Marxism.

COMET IS ON WAY
CINCINNATI (AP)—A comet which last flashed across midwestern skies in 1883-84 will perform again next spring. Dr. Paul Herge, professor of astronomy at the University of Cincinnati, says the Pon Brooks comet returns about every 70 years. It will be barely visible to the naked eye.

Starlings were first introduced into the United States in an effort to establish in the country all the birds mentioned by Shakespeare.

Taxpayer Found Freedom Limited

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—A taxpayer telephoned police and said he wanted written permission to mow his lawn in his underwear.

Sorry, said Desk Sgt. Vincent Kwapich you'd better wear a swimming suit. No, answered the nature lover. It's a free country and it's shorts for me.

The sergeant's phone rang again. The man was wearing his abbreviateds and the neighbors didn't like it.

A police squad scurried to the scene. They made a short case out of it. They ordered him into something longer than shorts. And the police have had no complaints since.

'Puts The Bee' On His Neighbors

WEST HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—Neighbors complained about the bees Otto Swenson kept in his yard and had him arrested. He quickly brushed up on the law. The judge dropped the case.

Swenson had learned that the law says that neighbors or no neighbors, all he had to do to keep bees legally is get a permit from the town clerk. The permit cost him twenty-five cents.

Morse Code Also For The Birds

DALLAS (AP)—A Dallas radio amateur thought for a while that her ears were playing tricks.

Mr. and Mrs. W.C. Jack have been improving their Morse code speed by practicing at home. Then Mrs. Jack began hearing the code at odd times when she wasn't practicing. The sound seemed to be coming from outside the house. It turned out to be a mocking bird which apparently thought it had learned a new song and was peeping out the "dit-dit-dahs" in authentic Morse code rhythm.

Carp have been known to live for 75 years.

Perennial Youth Proves Film Actor's Handicap

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Actor Tom Brown went to a producer's office to try out for a movie role.

"Read the script over for an hour and then come back," the movie man told him.

Tom thought it was odd that he would have to try out for the role. After all he had only acted in 102 pictures and his work should have been well known. But he could use the job, so he took the script and studied it. He selected a scene wherein an Army major detailed the battle plan of a forthcoming operation.

He went back into the producer's office and did the audition. An actor knows when he has done a bad reading, an adequate one or something really good. Tom gave it everything he had. He knew he was good, and the producer admitted it.

"That's a great reading," the man commented. "But I can't give you the part. You look too young; the audience would never believe you as an Army major."

And so Maj. Tom Brown, late of the United States Army, didn't get the job. That's the story of his recent professional life.

Tom is one of those perennial juveniles who never grow old. He says he will be 39 next month, yet he has the face of a collegiate.

"My face is my problem," he sighed. "I'm past the age where I can play dashing young juveniles, and they're no particular joy for an actor anyway. Yet the producers say I am too young to play the character roles which are an actor's meat."

It appears that Tom's youth, which was such a great asset in his earlier years, now is something of a liability. He started the acting life early enough. His parents were vaudevillians, and he went onstage when he was 2. He continued with stage work and silent movies, coming to Universal in 1931.

He continued an active life as a fresh-faced juvenile until 1942, when he entered the Army. He returned to Hollywood in 1946 and found the situation was different. When he asked for his old salary, a producer replied:

"Where have you been the last five years? Things have changed. You're not box office any more."

In the face of Hollywood's post-war depression he got only five roles in four years. In 1950, another war broke out and he was called back into the service. After serving with the 40th Division in Korea, he again resumed his movie career.

"This time my hair was white," he said. "I lost at least one role because of it, so I had to dye my hair."

Fortunately, Tom has some friends to help in his return to the screen. One is Lou Costello who helped him get a good role in "Fireman Save My Child."

I asked Tom if he ever thought of getting into some other line of work.

"I've thought about getting into the production side," he replied. "But I never have considered giving up show business. After all, I've given my life to it. If a man's a plumber all his life, he's bound to become a better plumber as he goes along. It ought to be the same with acting."

INHERITS 15 MILLION—Mrs. Lois McCaskill, 40-year-old widow, calmly tends her garden at her Hollywood, Calif., home after being notified she is inheriting approximately 15 million dollars. It comes from the estate of her late husband, Malcolm McCaskill, Mississippi oil wildcatter. She sued McCaskill for divorce years ago, later lived with him again and never petitioned for a final decree. This marital mixup, she says, ended in a decision by the Mississippi Supreme Court in her favor. She is hostess and manager at a local restaurant. (AP Wirephoto)

THERE OUGHTA BE A LAW!

Your Hit Parade Will Be Telecast By Local Station

"Your Hit Parade" will be one of the feature programs on Eastern North Carolina's television station WNCT.

Dorothy Collins, Smokey Lanson, Russel Arms and Giselle MacKinnzie, with Raymond Scott and the orchestra and the Hit Parade Singers and Dancers will all be in the show which involves the concentrated efforts of no fewer than 125 people, each of whom is an expert at his or her assigned task.

Preparation for "Your Hit Parade" actually commences 11 days in advance of each telecast when the producers and writers meet to mull over the ideas, since every song presented, no matter how many times it has made the survey list, is given an entirely new treatment each time it appears.

To begin the 11 day period the camera director and the set designer discuss scenic sketches while producers and writers pre-plan various production number ideas for the show currently on the drawing boards.

Several days prior to the production there is a full-dress staging as well as production meetings and all types of rehearsals.

In the afternoon prior to the show the various groups who have been rehearsing separately join together to put the show together for the first time.

On the day of the show there is a run-through of the entire cast, sets, props and cameras and a formal dress rehearsal so that promptly at show time Dorothy Collins appears, on the TV screen with her familiar greeting, and Raymond Scott gives a downbeat introducing another edition of "Your Hit Parade."

Pay-As-You-Use Rewiring Plan

CINCINNATI (AP)—The utility company here has a pay-as-you-use system to cover rewiring of your house.

The homeowner and electrical contractor decide what needs to be done. The contractor does the job and bills the utility. The company adds the cost to the monthly electric bill, spreading the amount over a maximum of 36 months. Inspectors estimate 85 per cent of the homes in Cincinnati are inadequately wired for electricity.

Ann Sothorn's Television Show Lined Up For WNCT

One year ago, versatile, talented Ann Sothorn was a topic motion picture star venturing into a new field—as star of her own TV comedy series, "Private Secretary," over CBS Television.

This fall, Miss Sothorn begins a bright new season as not only a movie star but an established television personality, for her Susie McNamara of "Private Secretary" is known and loved among television fans from coast to coast. She has brought to television years of experience as both dramatic actress and comedienne in some of Hollywood's most successful films. Her recent pictures include "Shadow On the Wall," "Letter to Three Wives," "Three Hearts For Julia," "The Judge Steps Out," as well as all the successful "Maiseie" movies.

One of the reasons for the success of "Private Secretary," the CBS Television comedy series starring Ann Sothorn, is the fine performance—week in and week out—of Don Porter, as Peter Sands, Miss Sothorn's boss. As the show enters its second year, Porter offers a few rules of his own on the subject of bossing secretaries.

"If you are married," he says, "make sure that your wife knows you are the boss in your office and not your secretary. That way no seed of inter-office skulduggery can be planted within the little woman's head. She knows you give the orders and that you determine when it is necessary to 'work late' at the office."

"But—if you are not married, as I am in 'Private Secretary,'" continues Don, "don't ever allow your secretary to gain an inch in that boss-secretary relationship. Be firm, be patient, or else one day the situation will be reversed and you will be taking dictation from your ex-secretary, now your wife."

Pert, blonde Ann Sothorn, who added new television triumphs to her reputation as a motion picture star last year in the "Private Secretary" series, ranged so far from her movie characterizations of the unforgettable Maiseie that she has attained new stature as a comedienne. She was born Harriet Lake in Valley City, North Dakota, the daughter of Walter J. and Annettye Lake. She inherited a musical background from her maternal grandfather, the famous Danish violinist, Hans Nilson, and from her mother, who was a concert singer. At the age of 11, she proved an apt student as a musician. For her musical compositions, Ann Sothorn was sent to Detroit to represent Minnesota as an outstanding youthful composer.

A talent scout discovered Ann's bright personality and suggested she go to New York. There she appeared in such hits as "America's Sweetheart," "Everybody Welcome" and "Of Thee I Sing." Then she went to Hollywood and became a star. Her most notable film successes were "Panama Hattie," "As Thousands Cheer" and "Lady Be Good."

Then she began her fabulous career as "Maiseie," a series of pictures that grossed millions of dollars and made millions of friends for Ann Sothorn.

In 1952 she returned to the screen in "Blue Gardenia." She lives in Beverly Hills, California, and has a nine-year-old daughter.

Miss Sothorn's television show will be seen by television fans of eastern North Carolina over TV station WNCT.

Boldly Walked In And Took Money

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP)—She's in her early 20s. She wears a white sweater and a green corduroy skirt. And police of two cities are looking for her.

Here's why: She walked into two Kalamazoo stores and one in Grand Rapids. She boldly posed as a new employee among many hired for the Christmas rush. Then she tapped the cash till and departed. So far she's at least $152 ahead.

In Grand Rapids she walked up to a cash register, opened it and took $87, explaining to a trusting temporary employe: "The boss sent me to get the money."

French statisticians estimate that 65 per cent of French families own one or more bicycles.

John L. Lewis Is Potential Entry As Docks Leader

By NORMAN WALKER

WASHINGTON (AP)—United Mine Workers President John L. Lewis may be readying an open bid to become new labor chief of the turbulent New York waterfront.

It was reliably reported that Capt. William Bradley, newly chosen president of the allegedly crime-ridden International Longshoremen's Assn. (ILA) was due here from New York to visit Lewis.

Bradley's visit appeared obviously timed for its effect on the balloting tomorrow in a National Labor Relations Board election between the ILA, and the new union which the AFL formed only a few months ago, saying its efforts to force a cleanup had failed. Crime probes have accused the old ILA of harboring criminals and a number of its officials have been indicted.

There seems little doubt that Lewis has been working quietly but persistently in behalf of the old ILA. Last week an official of the AFL-ousted ILA reports that Lewis had supplied a $50,000 loan to help fight the new AFL union. The 73-year-old Lewis declined any comment but it is reported that his brother and top organizer in labor sectors outside the coal industry, A. D. (Denny) Lewis, has met frequently with officials of the old ILA.
