Home Heavily Damaged By Fire Today

Firemen battled the fire above on East Fifth Street for four hours last night. The entire upper story of the house was ablaze when the fire fighters arrived at the scene. The second floor of the house was completely burned and considerable damage was done to the first floor. (Photo by Roy Hardee).

Firemen battled a two-alarm blaze for four hours last night in attempting to save a two-story home on East Fifth Street which caught fire sometime after 6 o'clock. The fire was at the home of Everett Stafford at 403 East Fifth Street next to Greenville High School and the entire upper story of the house was completely burned out with the bottom floor suffering some fire damage and much water damage. Fire department officials reported that the blaze was not discovered until the entire top floor was ablaze and the fire had eaten through the ceiling of the dining room on the first floor. The alarm was turned in at 2:15 and when firemen arrived at the scene a second alarm was sent in. Regular and volunteer firemen battled the fire until 6:15 a.m. The house sits high on a hill with concrete steps leading up to it and this caused firemen some difficulty in laying hose to fight the blaze. Fire Chief George Gardner stated, "The boys did a good job under the conditions, however," Gardner emphasized. The fire chief also extended thanks to the Salvation Army which was on hand during the early morning hours to serve coffee and donuts to the weary fire fighters. At the height of the blaze the fire department received a second call to the home of Stewart Page at 101 Rotary Avenue where an oil stove had leaked and caught fire. The call came in at 4:10 and firemen reported no damage to the house.

New Year Holiday Road Toll Trails Christmas Record

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS The nation's traffic death toll over the New Year's weekend holiday was running behind the Christmas total by at least 100. There were 136 persons killed in highway accidents since the survey started at 6 p.m. Thursday (local time). In the corresponding period for the Christmas holiday the toll was 237. The violent deaths since New Year's Eve was 180. They included 24 persons who perished in fires and 20 others who lost their lives in miscellaneous accidents. The 180 compared to 285 in the same period during the Christmas holiday. The final Christmas traffic death toll was 523. The Christmas total is included among the National Safety Council's estimated 38,000 persons killed in traffic accidents in 1953, the same as in 1952. It was the first year since 1949 that the toll did not increase. The council said 1953 had the lowest mileage death rate in the history of traffic accident records. It was estimated at 6.9—the number of deaths per 100 million miles. The council had estimated 360 persons would be killed in motor mishaps during the New Year's weekend ending midnight Sunday. However, Ned H. Dearborn, council president, said if the present rate was maintained for the rest of the holiday period the toll would be under 300, the lowest New Year's traffic death toll since 1949. "Apparently the shock of the heavy Christmas holiday traffic toll plus the incessant emphasis placed on safety by press, TV and radio has sobered the New Year holiday drivers into better traffic behavior," Dearborn said. There were 407 traffic deaths for a four-day New Year weekend last year while the record for four days was 611 in 1951-52. A non-holiday death toll survey, from 6 p.m. Dec. 31 to midnight Dec. 6, showed that 310 died in traffic accidents, 33 in fires and 89 in miscellaneous accidents.

Repatriate Contradicts Indian Claim Of No Arms Says POWs Have Daggers

By JOHN RANDOLPH SEUL (AP)—A young Texas corporal—one of 23 American war prisoners who originally stayed with the Communists—said today "there might be others who would come out" if given protection from dagger-wielding fellow POWs. Cpl. Claude J. Batchelor, who changed his mind and asked yesterday to go home, called for an investigation of conditions inside the pro-Communist neutral zone compound and said Indian guards should search it for hidden weapons. Batchelor, of Kermit, Tex., is the second of the 23 Americans to ask repatriation. His story of life in the wire-enclosed compound near Pannun-jun, told during a 40-minute press conference here, conflicted at many points with reports of the Indian command on conditions in the stockade now holding 21 Americans, 1 Briton and 27 South Koreans. The 22-year-old corporal calmly faced a battery of newsmen, cameras and microphones as he made these points: 1. Both South Korean and American pro-Red prisoners in the camp are armed with daggers to intimidate any prisoner who wishes to escape. "It would be difficult at times for the Americans to get out." 2. Chinese Communist leaders have "some contact" with prisoners in the neutral zone compound, despite Indian reports to the contrary. 3. "A lot of fellows there are quite mixed up and there might be others who would come out" if they had a chance. 4. All outgoing letters from the camp are written jointly and read to the other prisoners. 5. The prisoners are split into factions and the leaders of various groups sometimes fail to pass on information given them by Indian officials. Indian spokesmen have said repeatedly there are no weapons in the compound and that it would be a simple matter for any prisoner wishing repatriation to contact a guard. Batchelor's calm and poised contrasted with the extreme nervous-

More Delaying Tactics Feared For Big 4 Talk

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. officials expressed hope today that the Berlin foreign ministers meeting actually will open Jan. 25, but they said the Russians still can stall the conference if they wish. Strong suspicions about Russia's tactics persist because one of Moscow's main purposes in the project is believed to be to delay French action on the proposed European Defense Community and so to delay Western plans for controlled rearmament of West Germany. Russia is expected to keep alive hope of successful East-West negotiations, either by promising conferences or actually holding them. The brighter the prospects of international peace by negotiation, the less pressure, presumably, Frenchmen would feel to accept EDC and thereby abandon their deep rooted opposition to any revival of German military strength. Notes which the Western Powers handed the Soviet Foreign Office yesterday accepted Jan. 25 as the opening date for the Berlin meeting agreed also to a Russian proposal that the place of the meeting be determined by Big Four officials in Germany and said that there is no point now in any further talk about an agenda for the conference since the ministers themselves will be meeting soon. Several possibilities of further delay are conceded: 1. The French government is to be reorganized in mid-January after the new president takes office. 2. A site must be selected for the conference. The Western Powers proposed the Allied Control Authority Building, which the Russians do not like. There is some speculation that the Soviets may alternatively propose a former broadcasting headquarters which they control in West Berlin. That almost certainly would meet with ready Western acceptance. 3. Another possible cause of delay is the matter of subjects to be discussed.

Association Funds Drive Ahead Of Last Year Over $8,000 In Seal Sales

The Pitt County Tuberculosis Association has received contributions amounting to $8,017 so far during its Christmas Seal Sales campaign, according to Honorary TB Association President Herbert Waldrop. The total amount collected so far is well ahead of the amount collected at the same time last year, Waldrop noted. "We are well satisfied and well pleased with the response to the drive and we want to express appreciation and gratitude for the fine response that we have received to the Christmas seal sales appeal," the honorary president stated. Waldrop emphasized that a number of persons who had received Christmas seals had not replied as yet. He brought out that the drive is not over until January 15 and he urged those who have not responded to do so before the close of the drive. In reviewing the work of the Tuberculosis Association during the year, Waldrop noted that over 25,000 X-rays were taken during the past year in a mass X-ray program. He said the association purchased $1,300 worth of streptomycin to be used by the Pitt County Health Department and made $1,000 available to the Welfare Department to provide aid to indigent TB patients. Waldrop commended Mrs. J. B. Spilman, executive secretary of the Pitt County TB Association, for her work on the Christmas seals sales campaign during the year. "This has been the best year we've had," said Waldrop, "and it's due to Mrs. Spilman's work." Waldrop stated that people are interested in TB work more than ever before and that they have shown it by responding to this year's campaign.

Tax Listing Begins With Growing Line

Greenville Township citizens were already lined up to list taxes shortly after the two township listers began operations for 1954 in the Court House this morning. In the foreground, lister F. H. Suggs, seated on the left side of the table, is listing the property belonging to Max E. Minges of 207 South Park Drive seated across the table. Others are waiting in line to list either with Suggs or Greenville Township's other list taker, H. S. Ragsdale, seated on the left side in the background. The list takers will be in the Court House to list taxes for Greenville township citizens every week day during the month of January with the exception of Wednesday, the sixth. (Reflector Photo by Bob Boyette).

By BOB BOYETTE Reflector Staff Writer "Oh, it is really an off-brand and not one of the better models," a tax lister can be heard telling the list takers, who began operation in the Court House this morning. "I'm sorry, but if it is a '51 model and has a 21-inch screen the listing will have to be the same whatever the brand," the list taker answers. "Yes, but it hardly cost me anything and she bought it wholesale," the lister declared, "why I wouldn't have one if they gave it to me." "I'm afraid I can't help that; even if it was given to you the listing would still be the same; you will owe a dollar on it," the list taker explained. "But, this is only a table model my wife picked up; it hardly cost $100 when she got it; besides it is a table model," the lister came back referring to his "off-brand" television. "Oh, so it is a table model. Well, since it is a table model we will have to knock off 25 cents so it only will cost you 75 cents," the list taker told him. And so it goes here in Pitt County when tax listers began listing taxes for 1954 this morning. Tax list takers began working in all of Pitt's 15 townships this morning with the line formed by earlier listers in the Court House here growing by the minutes.

School Days Resume On Monday Morning

"Aw, mom, it's too early to get up," will probably be the stock answer kids all over Pitt County will be giving their mothers when called to "rise and shine" Monday morning when schools open again after a 16-day holiday for the Christmas season. All of the Pitt County schools, the Greenville city schools, and East Carolina College will re-open Monday morning with their first classes after the holiday season. All of the schools closed on December 18 for Christmas. City School Superintendent J. H. Rose reported this morning that he was expecting quite a few new children in the city schools. He said that several families have moved into Greenville over the holidays and the children have made application to enroll here. He said that he does not know how many have dropped out over the Christmas vacation because when dropping out they do not come by to report. He also said that all of the buildings have been "done over" during the holidays. "All the floors have been cleaned and in general the buildings put in tip-top shape for the second part of the school year," County Superintendent D. H. Conley said he expected only a small turn-over in students in the county schools. "We are about intact," he stated. "We have had a couple of teachers drop out due to illness, but I think it is only temporary." The county superintendent expressed his usual "note of caution" to the school bus drivers.

Begin Planning School Outlays In Monday Meet

The Pitt County Board of Education will begin planning for the expenditure of the money to be appropriated by the State from the school bond election last October at their regular monthly meeting on Monday, Superintendent D. H. Conley reported this morning. Conley said the money has not officially been appropriated yet, but the Board of Education will begin making their plans for putting it to the best use at their meeting on Monday. Other than those plans, he said that the meeting would include regular routine matters. CHICAGO (AP)—The New Year's Eve party Mrs. Isabelle Tagliere attended was a costly one. Mrs. Tagliere, 51, a widow, told Albany Park police yesterday that while she was at the party burglars broke into her home and took $500 cash and furs and jewelry she valued at $10,695.

Sixteen Die In New Year Salute

TOKYO (AP)—At least 16 persons were trampled to death and 30 were injured today as an estimated 700,000 subjects swarmed around the Imperial Palace to extend New Year's greetings to Emperor Hirohito, the newspaper Asahi said tonight. Kyodo News Agency said the vast throng got out of hand at about 3:30 p.m. (1:30 a.m. EST), the deadline for signing the imperial register and offering best wishes to Hirohito. The crowd swarmed toward the gates of the palace grounds as police tried to bar the entrance at the deadline, Kyodo said. Thousands who had not yet had a chance to sign the register tried to push through. Men, women and children fell under the feet of the onrushing crowd.

Korea 'Missing' Listed As Dead

WASHINGTON (AP)—More than 3,600 American soldiers and airmen missing in Korea for over a year now are officially listed as dead. The Army and Air Force so informed their next-of-kin by wire yesterday. Thus, the toll of battle deaths in the Korean War has been raised to nearly 30,000. The Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine Corps still must make final disposition of over 3,800 cases of men now regarded as missing in action. They will be so carried on casualty rolls until at least one year has passed without information that would indicate they may still be alive.

More March Of Dimes Workers Sought

Julia Fisher, chairman of the March of Dimes drive for Pitt County this year, receives the first donation for the drive from Floyd Hendrix, prominent local businessman. The drive was officially opened this morning and will continue through January. It is being sponsored by the Business and Professional Women's Club. (Reflector Photo by Alvin Taylor).

Will Ask Senate Curb On Broad Investigative Power

By EDWIN B. HAAKINSON WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Gillette (D-Iowa) said today he will ask the Senate to curb broad investigative powers in the field of international relations now held by the committee headed by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.). "This is a glaring situation," Gillette said in an interview. "It is something that was never intended and I will ask the Senate to pass on it at the coming session." McCarthy is chairman of the Government Operations Committee and of its more widely known Permanent Investigations subcommittee. Gillette said he wants the Senate to rescind authority for the Government Operations Committee to investigate international affairs and give this solely to the Foreign Relations Committee, of which Gillette is a member. Although he has tangled with McCarthy in the past, Gillette made no mention of the Wisconsin senator in explaining why he sought the change. "International relationships are delicate now and will be for an unforeseen time," Gillette said. "The Senate has given its Foreign Relations Committee authority in this field. "We all know that careless actions or statements in this field can jeopardize our international status." Gillette's proposal followed by a day a remark by another Democrat, Sen. McCarran of Nevada, that the investigations subcommittee in its investigations of communism "has stepped over into a field where it was not intended to function at all." However, McCarran in an interview said nothing about attempting to curb McCarthy's activities. He said on the contrary he thought the investigations subcommittee has "done good work," and emphasized there was nothing personal in his remarks. He and McCarthy often have exchanged compliments. The Nevada said, however, he thought the Senate Internal Security subcommittee, of which he is senior Democratic member, "can do all the work necessary on the Senate's side" in investigating subversive activities. McCarthy, in Miami said yesterday that "digging out communism" is not the "primary purpose" of his subcommittee and that it has been careful to check with the Internal Security subcommittee to avoid duplication. He continued: "If in our investigations we find subversive elements in government which would prevent the government from operating properly, and no other congressional group is investigating, then we to ahead. "I have no argument with Pat McCarran. Pat is one of the greatest senators we ever had and I have unlimited respect for him." Still another Democrat, Sen. Sparkman of Alabama, said in a separate interview yesterday, "If something should be done about McCarthy, why don't the Republicans do it? It's not our problem." Other Democrats have proposed various rules changes that might limit some activities of McCarthy's subcommittee. McCarthy riled some officials last year by announcing what he said was a voluntary agreement by a group of Greek ship owners to stop carrying cargo to Communist China. He also has sent investigators to Europe checking on various matters and has probed U. S. employees of the United Nations and other international organizations. Senate Republican Leader Knowland of California led the GOP Policy Committee may study a change in rules under which committees subpoena witnesses but denied this was aimed at McCarthy. Meanwhile Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.) who led the Democratic walkout from the McCarthy subcommittee last July, said yesterday "I don't anticipate returning is needed this year if the March of Dimes is to meet its obligations." "More workers, more special events, more and bigger contributions." NEED MORE IN '54 Polio prevention — program four of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis — will cost an added $26,500,000 this year, Miss Fisher said. "That's why we must raise more in '54. This is the additional cost over and above the National Foundation's traditional programs of aid to patients, professional education and scientific research," she said. PATIENTS ASSISTED HERE "Pitt County has been very fortunate in having only one polio victim during 1953. Those stricken in past years will need March of Dimes assistance right on through 1954 and some longer." The fact that the chapter never knows in January how many cases it will be called upon to assist during the rest of the year poses the biggest question mark the March of Dimes faces, she said. This is the reason no local March of Dimes quotas are set. "We know roughly how much we can earmark for laboratory research, how much for scholarships to train specialists, even how much will be needed to buy available gamma globulin and to start validity tests of a trail vaccine. But polio is an unpredictable epidemic disease that strikes without pattern or precedent. All we have to go by is the fact that 1953 marked the sixth consecutive year of high polio incidence. With a record like that, it would be foolhardy to expect light incidence in 1954." AIM FOR $75,000,000 For this reason Miss Fisher said, the March of Dimes has to raise all it can. Mail March of Dimes Contributions to Box 326, Greenville, North Carolina.

The Quest

By ELSIE MACK

SYNOPSIS

On her way from a publishing house in New York where she's just signed for rights of her late husband's novel, Dale Fraser joins Phil Parrish whom she'd met there, in a drink. The unfamiliar, potent concoction sends her fast asleep and she is greatly embarrassed when she awakens in the apartment shared by Phil Parrish and his brother, Don. The boys, however, realize that this hazy confused young widow from a small town, is a thoroughly nice person. They make light of her "passing out" and later take her to visit their Aunt Aggie, a venerable and understanding woman who likes the girl at once. When Dale phones her grandfather that she's ready to come home now, he protests, urging that she remain longer in the city, try to make friends, have fun, fight to forget the past. So she humors him by staying, and later that week goes dancing with Don.

CHAPTER TWELVE
IN BED, in the hotel room that the city's lights were on Dale lay quietly, thinking. Her indignation at Agatha Galbraith had abated. Tonight she had shown her that she could find enjoyment in new faces, new surroundings, new diversions. Not quite happiness, not quite security, but an overlay of serenity. At home, everything-jaded reminders of joys shared with Kelly. If a decision to remain in New York was a form of escape from memories, at least it was dignified and decent. Not like that other...

Had Grandy, with his Solomon-wisdom, foreseen this nerve-wracking interim of irresolution? When he had said, "You go!" had he sent her away for good, and why? In the morning, she called Swanscombe. Grandy was out rolling the lawn, so Dale talked with her grandmother.

"What would you say?" Dale asked uncertainly. "If I stayed here Grandmother, and got a job?"

There was a pause. Then Helen Collier said, "We will miss you very much, Dale."

Vaguely hurt, Dale said, "You think I should..."

"Darling, nothing here will ever be the same for you."

Phil Parrish's very words, Dale felt sorry for herself. "I feel pushed out!"

"Oh, no, Dale! You mustn't. But even the sparrows..."

"Yes," she said drearily. "Pushed right over the edge. You make me feel as if I don't know anything about life at all. Besides, I haven't got wings."

"Birds just have instinct. You've got intelligence," Dale said.

"Yes, Grandmother!"

"As soon as you hang up, I want you to go out and buy a copy of Robert Browning's poems. I want you to read a piece from Rabbi Ben Ezra. Your grandfather came on it the other day and read it aloud to me. It begins: Then welcome each rebuff... You will read it, darling?"

"Yes, Grandmother."

"Have you tried my fruitcake yet?"

"Not yet."

revoke and call false all its promises. Dale frankly window-shopped. Kelly's money made it possible for her to walk into any of the stores and buy everything she fancied. And all she wanted was one of Browning's poems and a job. The bookstore she finally found was narrow-faced and nondescript, its tunnel length stacked with books from floor to ceiling. B. August, Kelly's book would be here. And in bookstores all across the country. A small reverberation of fame, darling, and then just a stack on a "Redwood for Quilt Sale" counter! We'll make the most of our brief whirl. Dale steeled her voice and said to the girl who approached her, "I want a copy of Robert Browning's poems."

"The girl made a wry grimace. 'That'll be up on top. I'll bring the steps.' Presently, climbing down with the book, 'It's dusty.' 'Out of style perhaps?' 'Yes, it's slightly. 'Shall I wrap it for you?'"

"One moment," Dale consulted the index and turned pages rapidly. Here it was. Rabbi Ben Ezra. She glanced up apologetically. "It's rather important. Do you mind?"

"Not at all." Dale had it, then, at her fingertips. She read it quickly through, then again more slowly.

"Then welcome each rebuff That turns earth's smoothness rough. Each sting that bids nor sit nor stand, but go! Be our joys three-parts pain! Strive, and hold cheap the strain; Learn, nor account the pang; dare, never grudge the throe!"

At her elbow, Grandy stood; to her inner ear, Grandy spoke. Dale closed the book and looked up. "I'll take it," she said to the girl. "No, you needn't wrap it." She paid for the book and walked out.

In the doorway she stood a moment, sun on her face. So often Grandy was right, but why should he choose the difficult, the rough way for her? Why deliberately drive her from everything familiar and loved? Then half-turned to walk back to her hotel, she saw the sign in the bookstore window. HELP WANTED.

Omens intrigued Dale. Amused her, too. More often than not one's own desires imbued them with their portent of good or evil. You believe what you want to believe. But Dale's was a suspensive mood, to be swayed by any haphazard augury. This, on the heels of the message from Grandy, seemed to point in one direction only.

"Okay," she said under her breath and rather grimly to an adamant old man hundreds of miles away. "Okay, Grandy."

She entered the shop. "That sign in the window," she said, as the girl came toward her again questioning. "What sort of a job is it?"

"It's mine. I'm leaving."

"What does it involve, besides selling books?"

"Looking after the records. I'm no good at it at all, and Mr. Windsor is even worse."

"The proprietor?"

"Could I talk with him?"

The girl's eyes held surprise, then appraisal of Dale's casually expensive look, and finally animosity. "It doesn't pay much. But if you're interested," she consulted her wrist. "Mr. Windsor will be back in a half hour."

"I'll come back, then."

ried voice. Dale went in. A big man in his shirt-sleeves, dark and solidly packed, jumped up and swung a chair toward her. "Yes?" he said, with an impatient thrust of his hand at a hodge-podge of papers before him. Dale sat down. "I'm Dale Fraser. The sign in the window. The 'Help Wanted' sign."

"Oh, yes." His quick glance held appraisal. Impersonal. Business-like. He slapped his pocket for cigarettes, lit one, pulled an ash tray over. "Ever keep books?" he asked. "Yes, I—" "Fine. If the Department of Internal Revenue is to get an honest tax report from me someone's got to straighten out my books. Can you do it? If so, the job's yours. Fraser, is it?"

"Mrs. Fraser." Every time she said it, its meaninglessness struck her afresh. It was just a name. Nothing more. "Yes," she said, "I can take care of your books."

He nodded. It seemed odd that so intense a look could be so objective. He mentioned the salary. "Suit you?" he asked. "When can you start?"

"Without references?" Dale lifted her brows. "How do you know I'm not a moron?" He shrugged. "You don't look it. If you're incompetent, I'll fire you."

Dale laughed. "That leaves me a free agent too, doesn't it?" "Certainly." He rose with her, to wearing massively over her. "Start tomorrow, can you? Lora will go along with you for a week to show you the ropes."

"Lora?"

For the first time during the interview, feeling touched by Jeffrey Windsor's eyes, it was there and there, evading analysis. He pressed out his half-smoked cigaret and held the door open for her. "Lora Thornton, the girl whose job you'll be taking. Didn't she tell you she was leaving?"

Production For Roller Skates Is Still Undecided

NEW YORK, (AP)—Soviet authorities are now pondering the question of whether or not produce roller skates, Moscow newspapers reading here say. Up to now the Soviet Union hasn't had any except a few pairs imported from abroad. The problem arose when Soviet skating star Rimma Zhukov who uses roller skates purchased outside the country to train in the summer when the native Sverdlovsk has no ice sent her to be repaired. The repair workshop in Sverdlovsk which made the repairs got the idea that other Russians would like some too and made an experimental pair which was presented to the "experts council" for approval. The application is under consideration. Izvestia reports that the demand for roller skates among Soviet athletes is "immense."

Foundation Had Treasure Hoard

SEALY, Tex., (AP)—A workman digging the foundation holes for Frank W. Koy's new garage punched his post hole digger down in exactly the right spot. He broke a half-gallon glass jar containing $322 in silver and gold coins dated from 1844 to 1902. Koy, who bought the place about three years ago, awarded some of the money to the lucky digger, Joe W. Brandt, and other workmen. He said the rest probably would pay for the new garage.

I DON'T NEED TO GO TO CHURCH.
Yes, I'm one of those seventy-five million Americans who are not members of a church Saturday and Sunday are the two days of the week I like to devote entirely to relaxation and recreation. Why should I spend an hour or so in church? I try to live straight—to put in a full day's work for my boss, to get along with my neighbor, to bring up my children in the proper way. As long as I'm trying to live respectably, why do I need to go to church? There is an answer, my friend. Since the beginning of history, you and millions like you have been trying to run your lives and this world of ours by your own knowledge and strength. You've said you didn't need help. But human experience declares that you have failed. The past has left us an ugly picture of cruelty and bloodshed, of hate and strife and devastation. This is the tragedy of moral decay from within. This is the tragedy of man's proud attempt to live without God. You need help—help beyond the love of God and man's resources. You need a good life. You need an empowered man to live in the Church—his fellowship and communion with Christ. He is living, giving men the courage and power for right living.

Reflector Camera News Highlights Of Pitt For 1953

Pictorial Review Of Outstanding Events In County Over The Past Year

One of the largest fires in Pitt County in 1953 saw the planing mill and several thousand feet of lumber burn at the North Side Lumber Company on April 22. Local Fire Chief George Gardner reported the North Side loss at $75,000 and the entire fire loss for the city of Greenville during 1953 at approximately $171,329.50.

This man places a ballot in the box during one of Pitt County's many elections in 1953. An outstanding local election involving the city schools took place on June 2 when voters overwhelmingly approved a $1,500,000 school bond referendum. A similar bond election during 1953 took place in Grifton when voters there approved a $110,000 referendum for school improvement. In October the voters all over the state, including Pitt County voted for $72,000,000 bonds for improvement of schools and mental hospitals.

Greenville's first City Council, shown above, was elected in the city elections on May 5 by a record number of votes. An election on January 12 put the new type of government in effect in Greenville with this council replacing the old Board of Aldermen. The Council later in the summer appointed Greenville's first city manager. In the picture above seated, left to right: Mayor W. L. Whedbee, J. A. Collins and Mayor "Pro-Tem" Eugene West. Standing, left to right: A. C. Ruffin and C. W. Harvey, Jr.

County Auditor and Tax Supervisor Reginald Gray points to a new map of Pitt County showing the new township division lines. The Board of County Commissioners voted to divide the county into the 15 townships instead of the old original 13. The new township lines, voted by the commissioners on November 3, correspond with school district lines with two exceptions. Under the new system it makes it easier for tax purposes according to Gray; however, the County Board of Elections must revise the polling places for voters. 1953 also saw a tax revaluation team begin revaluation of property in the county. This team is still working on the project.

Bobby Hodges, senior end and co-captain of the East Carolina College football team, is shown snatching a touchdown pass away from defender Bill Snyder as the Bucs thrashed Elon College 45-25 Homecoming night at College Stadium. Probably the Sports Highlight of 1953 was East Carolina easily winning the North State conference championship.

The Red Oak Christian church was selected as the second place winner in the South's "Rural Church of the Year" contest last summer. Over 1,300 rural churches from 13 southern states were entered in the contest. Red Oak was second only to a Mississippi church.

The auctioneer and buyers were in full swing on opening selling day for the Greenville tobacco market, August 20. 1953 saw the local market record its highest average paid per hundred pounds for tobacco in its 63-year history.

Pvt. James E. Gatlin of Simpson, Pitt County's first of two prisoners to return home when Americans began to be repatriated in Korea last summer. He is shown here at the home of his mother, Zilphia Gatlin. His younger brother, Willard, is also in the picture taken August 26, the day after he arrived home. Another Pitt soldier, Johnny C. Hill of Ayden was also freed in Korea. His mother received announcement of his repatriation August 31. Pvt. Gatlin was taken prisoner February 27, remaining prisoner for five months. His diet consisted of rice, bean soup, and occasional pork. Pvt. Gatlin lost 17 pounds during his period with the Communists. When asked to comment on his return, he declared, "As I've said and always will say, it felt wonderful getting back to a new life again."

Cyrus E. Porter (alias Norman Porter) of Greenville was arrested by law enforcement officers October 27 for his connection with the bank robbery of the First Citizens Bank and Trust Company of Garner on August 28.

This 160-foot micro-wave tower on West Fifth Street is used by the local television station WNCN, which went on the air December 22. When the station began telecasting it culminated four years of work by the Carolina Broadcasting Company to give television to Eastern North Carolina. The tower is used to bring "live" programs from major networks.

No Place For Abuse In Courtesy Plan

Greenville's courtesy parking meter plan has proved a good-will builder for the city among its own people, and among people who come here to shop.

It has also proved a problem to the Merchants Association which initiated and financed the plan, and to the local police department who accepts the responsibility of administering the plan.

It has been obvious that a number of people habitually abuse the city's parking meter courtesy plan by not putting coins in parking meters when they park their cars in metered areas along the street. Some people seem to prefer just to park their cars "for free," and let the Merchants Association bear the cost of the hour or two they use the parking space.

The courtesy plan was adopted purely and simply as a "courtesy" by the Merchants Association and the city to shoppers in the business section of Greenville. The idea was not to provide free parking, but merely to supply a "loan" of a nickel for shoppers who were detained for a longer period in their shopping than they anticipated when they parked, and put money in the parking meter.

The local police department is right in its expressed intention of cracking down on persons who are abusing the courtesy parking plan. It is apparent that the plan must have the cooperation of the shoppers who use it as well as the Association which sponsors it and the officials which endorse it if it is to continue in operation.

Unless the abuse of the plan is stopped by the public, it will not be surprising to see the plan scrapped and the old strict "pay-as-you-stay" plan for metered parking in the business district reverted to by the city.

Another American POW Returns To Freedom

The return of another American prisoner of war who previously had voiced preference for communism rather than freedom, lends further support to American contentions that some of the American prisoners who have refused repatriation really want to return home, but are afraid to say so.

The return Friday of the second of the Americans who had refused repatriation leaves 21 Americans in the hands of the Indian custodian troops near Panmunjom. The sketchy story of fear which had been instilled in the handful of Americans who refused repatriation, told by the returning corporal, points out that the hard shell of communists in the group are keeping others from returning.

At the same time, the experience of Cpl. Claude J. Batchelor who walked up to an Indian guard yesterday and asked for repatriation, points out that the Americans still refusing repatriation, probably can get back home if they want to badly enough.

Whether any more of the Americans who have refused repatriation will change their minds remains to be seen. As we have said before, they should by now know what the score is. Apparently there are ways they can gain repatriation even under threats from the communists, if they are willing to take the necessary risks. The matter of whether they want freedom or enslavement under communism still remains a matter for their own decision.

Weak, Uncertain, Or What?

WASHINGTON—"It seems to me," writes S. D. of Dallas, Tex., "that President Eisenhower is trying to please everybody—pro-McCarthy and anti-McCarthy people, the liberals and the conservatives, the pro-British and anti-British, and so on. Am I correct? And is this a sign of weakness, indecision, diplomacy, executive elasticity, or what?"

Picture Of Pitt's Highways In 1953

Bit by bit over the 12-month period of 1953, the toll being taken by highway accidents in Pitt County was paraded before the drivers and other people.

Now that the year has ended and all the bits of information have been pieced together, the unpleasant picture has been completed.

An artist, should he decide to depict the spectacle in oils, might place 14 large coffins in the foreground. Scattered throughout the picture would be 109 writhing people with mangled limbs, slashed faces, crushed backs, representing those who were injured in auto accidents.

Somewhere in the picture there would be a ripped and torn automobile representing the estimated $129,300 in property damage which resulted from highway accidents in the county this year. Then too, there would be symbols to represent the 2,935 arrests which were made by members of the State Highway Patrol in the County in an effort to prevent accidents before they happened, and to impress upon drivers the necessity for abiding by traffic laws for their own safety.

It isn't a pleasant picture to think about. Were an artist to put it on canvas, it would probably be even more unpleasant than it is when viewed in the mind's eye.

What Other Editors Are Thinking

PHONY CHARITIES (Wilson Times)
Back before the days of Community Chests, the New York directory of charities was three times as large as a Wilson telephone book. About everyone who wanted easy money created one and if, after soliciting large sums of money, it was found that 10 cents out of each dollar collected went for charity, prosecution went for charity, prosecution was impossible. Thus, the easy-money charity operators managed to live well on the other 90 per cent, calling it administrative overhead.

UMSTEAD — Governor Umstead ended the year on an optimistic and appreciative note at his news conference. He voiced his thanks to the reporters and the press and the people of North Carolina for their sympathetic cooperation. He thanked the personnel in State departments and agencies for the excellent work they have done in promoting State development.

He singled out the Department of Motor Vehicles, Commissioner Ed Scheidt and the highway patrol for their special efforts in highway safety. He had particular commendation for the patrolmen who gave up their Christmas holiday in order to make the roads safer for other people.

HEALTH — Reminding that he had avoided during the year any personal reference to his own physical condition, he said he felt a statement at this time would be appropriate. He has been advised by his physicians that his recovery from the heart attack suffered on January 11 has been steady and he said "I am doing all right." Admitting that he has not gotten back his full strength, and is still under doctor's orders to limit night engagements and travel, he insisted that he is getting better. He is gratefully appreciative of the co-operative understanding of the people of North Carolina in "some of the difficulties I have had."

Ballard's X Roads News

There were 160 present at Piney Grove Baptist Church on Sunday morning at Sunday School. Pyrene Tyson received his 14th year perfect attendance award and his granddaughter Ronda received her third year award. Corinne Little received a one-year award.

On Monday evening, December 21 using a variety of beautiful colored lights the young people and primary departments of the Sunday School at Piney Grove Church gave a very impressive and beautiful tableaux showing each scene of Christ's birth as told in the gospel of Luke. The narrator was Bernard Smith. As each scene was presented a choir sang appropriate carols for that scene. The program closed with the singing of "O Holy Night." Following this gifts were distributed from a beautifully decorated tree to every one present. Upon leaving the church, Mesdames Raymond Tyson, Hubert Crawford, and Pyrene Tyson served fruits and candy in the vestibule of the church. This Sunday School also furnished Christmas cheer to a family in the community.

On Christmas Eve night the Youth for Christ organization at the Ballards Community building presented a Christmas program of music and Christmas readings. Every one present joined in the singing of Christmas carols. Walter Sutton Jr., president, presided and followed the program, from a beautiful tree gifts were presented to every one. There were approximately 120 people present for this occasion.

The regular "Youth for Christ" meeting is held in the building every Saturday evening at 7:30 and Miss Faye Dilda is leader for the group from 5 to 12 and Mrs. G. S. Nichols is leader for the group from 12 to 25. A program for the older people is conducted by Rev. Wells.

A new piano has been recently purchased for the Community building which adds a lot to the musical part of these services, and the song services are led by Rev. Wells.

Every meeting is held there every Wednesday evening at 7:30 with different ones as leaders. Walter Sutton Jr. is director. Every one is invited to all these services.

Personals
On Christmas day Mr. and Mrs. Ray Crawford were hosts at a family dinner. Guests included Mr. and Mrs. James E. Gatlin and Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Hyman and son of Tarboro, Mr. and Mrs. James R. Crawford and family of Grifton, Mr. and Mrs. Alton R. Thomas and Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Evans and sons of Greenville, and Mr. and Mrs. Noah Edwards and son of near the home. Upon arrival gifts were distributed to every one from a beautifully decorated tree.

Mr. and Mrs. George Hines had as dinner guests, Christmas, Mrs. Moses Tyson and Mr. and Mrs. R. Bachette of Cherry Point. In the afternoon all of them visited Mr. and Mrs. Brownie Tripp near Winterville.

Mrs. Annie Flanagan and son John spent the holidays in Richmond at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Gillette.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Harris were Durham visitors last Saturday.

Durward Tyson of the U.S. Air Force, stationed in California, is spending a 30-day leave with his mother, Mrs. G. T. Tyson.

Mr. and Mrs. Dupree Tolar and Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Moxing were Raleigh visitors Wednesday.

Jimmie Moore is spending this week with relatives at Jacksonville. Friends will be glad to know that little Doug Joyner has returned home after being ill in Pitt Memorial Hospital.

Joe Anderson and son Joe of New Bern were visitors of Mr. Anderson's sister, Mrs. Verna Joyner Sunday afternoon.

To Ship Snowballs To Puerto Rico

STOWE, Vt. (AP)—If nature cooperates, enough snow for 10,000 snowballs will be shipped from Mt. Mansfield to Puerto Rico tomorrow so the kids in the tropical isle can stage a snowball fight. Sponsors are keeping their fingers crossed, however because of the general scarcity of snow in this skiing area. The snow, if available, will be packed in insulated containers and taken by truck to New York. There the boxes will be placed aboard an Eastern Airlines plane Monday for the 1,600 mile flight to San Juan.

Kiwansians Install Officers Jan. 8

The Greenville Kiwanis Club at its first meeting of the New Year last night, inducted a new member, heard the Christmas Committee's report and made arrangements for installation of new officers at the meeting on January 8.

Kiwanian John D. Messick inducted Julian White Jr. into the club and presented the Kiwanis emblem.

Chairman Don H. Conley reported the Underprivileged Child Committee's activities during 1953 and called on the chairman of the Christmas Committee for his report.

Chairman W. H. (Bill) Taft of the Christmas Committee reported that the Kiwanis Club provided Christmas cheer for 12 deserving families. Committeemen also reporting were Ted Ashworth, Ed Waldrop, Jimmy Brewer, Ed Tyler and Dr. Orval Phillips.

President Leo W. Jenkins, who presided, announced that at the next club meeting on Friday, January 8, President-elect J. Bryan Brown and other officers and directors will be installed. Lt.-Gov. Jimmy Copeland of Wilmington, head of the Seventh Division of Carolinas Kiwanis District, will officiate.

Last night, Dixie McGlohon led the Pledge to the Flag and Rev. Leonard Topping said the invocation. John A. Collins Jr. won the attendance prize. Davis L. Moore Jr. and James W. Brewer's nephew, Jimmy Brewer, were guests of the club.

Past President David C. Moore Jr. and Clyde Hollowell had birthdays and they donated a dime for each year of their age.

Philip of Macedon won his great military victories and set the stage for his son, Alexander's, conquests by an effective combination of infantry and cavalry.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred T. Grimsley of the Ormondville community of Greene County celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on December 28 in the Ayden Community House in Ayden at a family dinner. Mrs. Grimsley is the former Miss May Humble of Greene County. The couple have ten children: Mrs. Aquilla Albritton of Snow Hill, Mrs. Alton Faulkner of Ormondville, J. R. Grimsley of Ormondville, Swindell Grimsley of Jacksonville, W. A. Grimsley of Washington, D. C., Mrs. L. G. Carraway of Ormondville, Mrs. Edward Vause of Hookerton, J. J. Grimsley of Ormondville, Mrs. J. J. Settle of Greenville, and A. T. Grimsley, Jr., of Ayden; and twenty grand children.

Court Post For Defeated Mayor

NEW YORK (AP)—Former Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri will be sworn in today as justice of the Court of Special Sessions amid speculation that he made a "deal" with his bitter political foe, the new mayor, Robert F. Wagner Jr.

After his formal inauguration yesterday as mayor, Wagner said there was "no deal" in connection with his appointment of Impellitteri to the $19,500-a-year post. Wagner said he promised the job to his predecessor upon the urging of the City Board of Estimate.

But observers have pointed out Impellitteri's last-minute appointments of two men who opposed him in last fall's political campaign. He gave a $15,000-a-year lifetime job as water supply commissioner to Herbert M. Rosenberg, former special U.S. attorney who is a strong backer of Tammany Hall leader Carme G. De Sapio, who opposed Impellitteri. And a Domestic Relations judgeship went to Wilfred A. Waltemade, assistant Bronx County district attorney.

Wagner's assertion that the Board of Estimate urged him to give Impellitteri a job had the backing of City Council President Rudolph Halley, who ran for mayor on the Liberal party ticket.

Halley said yesterday that Impellitteri "has served the city to the best of his ability" and "deserves the opportunity to complete his city service and get his full pension."

Two more years in city service will entitle Impellitteri to an annual $20,000 pension.

Postmaster Has Closed Up Shop

ALICE, Tex. (AP)—You couldn't buy a stamp in this city's post office today because an angry woman postmaster had locked "em up and walked out."

Charging "politics" because she is to be replaced, Mrs. Marguerite Muller yesterday put all cash on hand and stamps into her post office vault, changed the door shut, turned the office over to a clerk and left.

She said that until an acting postmaster is named or a postal inspector arrives the post office will handle only incoming and outgoing mail.

Apparently the next move is up to postal authorities. They have been unavailable for comment.

Mrs. Muller, a Democrat, has been postmaster here since August 1934. Last month Asst. Postmaster General N. B. Abrams notified her she would be replaced.

Mrs. Muller charged she was being "fired for political reasons."

Thursday, she announced she would turn the post office over to a clerk if a qualified successor had not been appointed by 1 p. m., yesterday.

She said she is not resigning from her $6,070 a year job, just transferring the office. She plans an appeal to the Civil Service Commission.

Nixon's Father Is Recuperating

WHITTIER, Calif. (AP)—Vice President Nixon's father, 75-year-old Frank A. Nixon, is recuperating at his home here from a stomach ailment.

The elder Nixon was stricken while en route home with his wife last week from Washington, D.C., where they had been caring for their grandchildren while the vice president and his wife were on a world tour.

Their airliner made an emergency landing at Phoenix, Ariz., and Nixon was given seven blood transfusions. He was able to continue his homeward journey by train Thursday.

Eight In Family Had Tonsils Out

WICHITA Kan. (AP)—St. Francis Hospital had space for eight more patients today when the Bill Dukess family moved out.

Yesterday, Mr. and Mrs. Dukess took eight of their 10 children to the hospital to have their tonsils removed.

For nearly two hours the path to and from the operating room "resembled an assembly line," nurses said.

Farm Agent's Office Is Base For Agricultural Work

Acts As Clearing Station For All Programs Of Farm Interest

Little known to non-farmers but of extreme importance to anyone engaged in or connected with farming is the Pitt County Farm Agent's office.

For this office with its staff of four acts as a clearing station for all the farm programs and projects which Pitt County farmers are interested in. "It is the aim of the county agent's office to assist the farmers of Pitt County in working out a practical and sound long time farm program, with the object in mind of better rural living for individual farm families," according to the Farm Agent's annual report to the Agricultural Extension Service. "Particular emphasis has been put on quality production, lowered costs of production and expanded markets. With farmers coming to realize more each year that farming is a business, and must be conducted on business-like terms the need for technical assistance and expanded research are quickly evident."

County agent for Pitt County is Sam C. Winchester. Assistant agents are C.J. Goodman and Sam Weeks. Secretary for the County agent's office is Mrs. Francis Cobb.

It is this staff that does the work on all the various farm projects with which the County Agent's office is entrusted.

One of the most important duties of the office is its work with the young people of the farm population of Pitt County. In charge of this is Assistant County Agent C.J. Goodman. Pitt County has 17 different 4-H Clubs, according to the County agent's report.

Highlight of the year as far as 4-H Club work is concerned was the Achievement day program which was held last November. 16 other 4-H projects included exhibits at the Pitt County Fair, participation in a junior swine and livestock show, the district 4-H Club recognition day, a junior tobacco show and sale and many other activities.

The farm agent's office has helped during the year in planning new buildings on Pitt County farms. The office assisted on 40 farm construction demonstrations. The office annual report shows that 85 new farm buildings have been constructed this year and that assistance has been rendered when request on reconstruction of old buildings. A total of 550 farm people have received information on building and renovating.

The farm agents have also as-

Of particular interest this year was a number of tobacco harvesters which were tried out during the year. Tobacco farmers showed quite a bit of interest in the machines tried because of the high cost of labor required in tobacco production at the present.

"Even if none of the machinery tried this season proves to be the answer to the farmers needs for harvesting tobacco, the interest shown by the growers means that they realize labor costs must be lowered if they are to make a profitable crop," the farm agent's report states.

Also during the year two fence post treating demonstrations were conducted by J.H. Phillips, Extension Forestry Specialist. In addition the permanent fence service life post demonstrations which was constructed at the Pitt County Agricultural Fair Grounds last year created a lot of attention, according to the report.

In the field of agronomy the farm office contacted more than 2,500 corn growers through the use of circular letters, radio, press and personal contact. They were furnished with information as to the best variety of seed, value of soil testing, and good cultural practice, including weed control, to improve their yields.

"Corn yields in the county would have reached an all time high had not drought conditions prevailed," the report said.

Cotton growers were assisted by a cotton insect control program and a free grading and marketing service was made available to them.

Much work was done among tobacco growers during the year by the farm agent's office.

"Approximately 75 per cent of the farm income in Pitt County is derived from tobacco. We realize that when farmers are dependent on any one crop to this extent that there is much need for assisting them in improving their net income from this crop," according to the report.

Chemical sterilization of plant bed areas demonstrations were conducted during the year. In addition a tobacco fertilization demonstration was conducted this year in cooperation with W.R. Holland of Belvoir. Also two tobacco variety demonstrations were conducted during the year.

Demonstrations were also conducted on chemical smoker control, variety evaluation tests and tobacco grading.

The county has also worked closely with the artificial breeding program in the county. Artificially bred calves have been exhibited at the county fair for the past two years. Dairywomen in the county are holding regular meetings in cooperation with the county agents' office and the Pitt County Health Department.

"As a result of these efforts, Pitt dairymen are making much progress in their efforts to produce quality milk cheap. Much new pasture land has been seeded with grazing crops and this is the cheapest form of feed for dairy cattle," the farm agent's report continued.

In the field of entomology the farm agents publicized the fact that satisfactory control could be secured for boll weevil and other cotton insects. As a result approximately 2,500 acres of cotton were dusted by cotton farmers this year.

"A good insect control program has doubled yields of cotton in most instances in the county this year," the report states. The farm agents also advised farmers on the proper poisons to use on the numerous destructive insects which attacked Pitt County farm crops.

The office also developed its forestry program during the year. Demonstrations were conducted on thinning and timber scaling. Growers were given assistance in timber marketing problems by assisting them in locating buyers and in making a determination of the volume of timber they have for sale.

Finally the county agent's office worked with 20 producers of hatching eggs in the county in an effort to give the hatcheries quality eggs for hatching purposes. A poultry culling demonstration was conducted at the Pitt County Home fair. Culling demonstrations, and discussions of laying flock management were also conducted at 10 other Pitt farms. 250 poultry growers in the county were also assisted with problems of poultry production.

Time To Plan On Next Christmas

RALEIGH — Christmas is just over but it's not too early to begin thinking about next Christmas, if you're a farmer interested in increasing your income.

John L. Gray, in charge of forestry for the State College Extension Service, yesterday noted that a survey of seven wholesalers and chain store buyers, and 84 retailers of Christmas trees indicates that there is a demand for more locally-grown Christmas trees.

Gray said that more than half of all dealers interviewed want to try more home-grown trees. In the Piedmont and Coastal Plain, they want red cedar of desirable shape, rich color, and dense foliage. Buyers in the Coastal Plain prefer delivered trees; half of those in the Piedmont want fresh-cut trees on a delivered basis and half want to buy standing trees and cut them as needed. Mountain dealers want balsam fir as standing trees. Dealers in all areas want trees 5 to 8 feet tall.

Gray said that prices paid growers in the Piedmont have been low, but this may be due to low-quality trees. He points out that there are still about 170,000 one-year-old and 120,000 two-year-old red cedars and firs available at state nurseries. Balsam fir can be secured through commercial nurseries for planting in the mountains.

HOW TO REPAIR

BROOKLYN (AP) — Introduction of foreign make cars in the United States within the past few years has persuaded the Brooklyn Public Library to add to its collection of auto annuals, guides the repair and maintenance of all American cars. Now the library has service manuals for a large number of foreign cars now being sold in this country.

Last year's report of the County Farm Agent's office already in, the staff of the office is shown above as it makes plans for this year's activities. The County Agent and his assistants are shown above as they discuss a county-wide extension school on tobacco to be held at the Pitt County office building on February 2 and 3. From left to right are: Sam Winchester, farm agent; Sam Weeks, assistant farm agent; and C. J. Goodman, assistant farm agent. (Reflector Photo by Alvin Taylor)

Specialists Offer Advice On Cattle Care In Winter

WINTERING CATTLE.

In North Carolina housing for the hay is a lot more important than housing for the beef cattle.

In the opinion of Extension Livestock Specialists A.V. Allen and J.S. Buchanan at N.C. State College, there are more Tar Heel beef producers with too much housing than there are with too little housing.

In giving some tips for winter care of beef cattle in North Carolina, the two specialists point out that good hay storage is essential, but only in extremely bad weather is tight housing recommended for beef cattle. They cite the case of the Bass Brothers, commercial producers of feeder cattle near Spring Hope, who don't even have a barn.

Their system is self-feeding from trench silos. Last fall at the feeder calf sale at Rocky Mount, 12 of their 18 animals entered in the sale graded fancy. The other six graded choice.

Unless you're using a self-feeding system, Allen and Buchanan suggest portable bunks for outside feeding. When the animals trample a spot until it becomes muddy, the portable feeders can be moved easily.

WINTER FEEDING

On the subject of feeding, the two specialists say the winter ration for beef cows does not have to be of high quality but the nutritional needs must be provided to maintain the health of the herd.

Roughage is the principal feed recommended for wintering dry cows, and the need for supplemental concentrates will be determined by the quality of the roughage. If the roughage is good legume hay, 25 pounds per head daily is sufficient without any protein supplement. If you're feeding cottonseed feed 50 pounds daily and add one pound of cottonseed meal or the equivalent amount of protein to the daily diet of each mature animal.

Wintering calves and heifers need 11 to 15 pounds of roughage daily, and a total amount of protein equal to 2 to 2 1/2 pounds of cottonseed meal. Bulls need 20 to 25 pounds of roughage daily, and a total amount of protein equal to that contained in 2 1/2 pounds of cottonseed meal.

Such feeds as corn cobs, cottonseed hulls, corn stover, peanut hay, and straw from small grain may be successfully used to winter beef cows if properly supplemented with sources of protein, minerals and vitamin A. Allen and Buchanan suggest a supplement made up of two pounds protein supplement, 1 1/2 pounds dehydrated alfalfa meal, one pound molasses, two-tenths pound steamed bone meal and one-tenth pound salt daily.

The specialists say one of the biggest weaknesses in the winter beef cattle feeding program in North Carolina is the feeding of low-grade roughages without enough supplement. The rougher the feed the greater the need for a supplement. Don't let the water supply freeze up and keep salt before the animals at all times.

PARASITE CONTROL

With the increase in beef cattle numbers, parasites are becoming more of a problem. "This winter looks like a good one for parasites," the two specialists warn. And with the feed short, their advice is "don't let parasites eat up your feed." Internal parasites will need more attention than we have given them in past years. Stomach worms are the most serious internal pest of beef cattle. They can be detected by a general run-down condition, rough hair coat, and a swelling under the jaw in serious cases. This swelling is often referred to as "bottle jaw."

As treatment Allen and Buchanan recommend individual doses of phenothiazine. Usually the whole herd is affected, but some animals are hit harder than others. But don't give blanket treatment. Treat only the animals that are noticeably affected. Treat according to directions given on the container. The dosage varies according to body weight of the animal.

Lice and grubs are the two external pests you should keep a close look out for this time of the year. Cattle grubs, also called warbles and wolves, cause considerable damage to cattle, especially in the Piedmont and western parts of the state.

For grub treatment, apply one part rotenone and two parts pyrethrin to the backs of cattle as a dust and rub in with finger tips. Repeat every four weeks until three or four treatments have been given.

If the animals stand around rubbing against a tree or fence post,

Peanuts Rank Third In Crop Importance

RALEIGH — Although commercial production of peanuts in North Carolina is confined to 18 Northern Coastal Plain counties, the crop still ranks third in importance to the state's farmers.

This year Tar Heel goober growers planted more than 175,000 acres that sold for about $20 million. This represents 65 per cent of the nation's Virginia bunch type and 10 per cent of all peanut types grown in the United States. It's a big crop all right, and to help North Carolina farmers make the most out of their 1954 peanut allotment the State College Extension has just published a new booklet — "Peanut Production Guide for North Carolina Farmers," Revised Extension Circular No. 257.

Prepared by the Department of Agronomy, Agricultural Engineering, Entomology and Plant Pathology at N.C. State College, the 24-page, color illustrated booklet explains that despite the importance of peanuts to the state's farmers, production problems have not been brought under control on many farms. In fact, the state's average peanut yield is no higher now than it was several decades ago — which is in marked contrast to other field crops.

In recent years new production techniques have been developed that double and even triple former yields. "Peanut Production Guide for North Carolina Farmers" is designed to acquaint farmers with these new production developments. Sections of the publications are devoted to varieties, soils, fertilization, spacing, rotations, weed control, disease control, insect control, harvesting and peanut hay.

Free copies are available through local county farm agents or by writing Department of Agricultural Information, N.C. State College, Raleigh.

Increased Efficiency Seen Key To '54 Farm Success

RALEIGH — Increased efficiency is the key to successful farming in 1954. Most North Carolina farmers will be able to get a 10 per cent higher return per unit cost easier than they can get a higher market price next year.

D.D. Brown, farm management specialist for the State College Extension Service, says the inefficient farmer will come up a year from now with a smaller income. Then he'll blame the government, the weather or any other handy scapegoat. But the wise farmer can increase efficiency "by applying a farm and home plan based on the best combination of land, labor and capital."

Brown says "If I were a farmer in 1954, I would —

1. Increase my yields per acre and per animal. 2. Cull out my low producing acres and animals. 3. Do a better job of timing the use of improved production practices and labor. 4. Increase my production units of crops and livestock to the best volume for my acreage allotments, land and labor. 5. Do a better job of buying and selling. 6. Consider off-farm employment for me or another member of my family if my farm can't give us an adequate income."

The outlook for farming in 1954, while not as favorable as in the past three years, still is good, says Brown. "The future is bright for good farm managers."

Visitor To Jail Was Locked Up

PUEBLO, Colo. (AP) — A visitor to police headquarters joined a line of men and wound up in jail.

It was a line of prisoners marching back to their cells from police court.

Once inside the cells, the visitor protested loudly. Officers finally counted noses and turned the visitor loose. He explained he had wanted to go to the rest room.

"Since that Smith-Douglass Fertilizer salesman started coming around there's been twice as much tobacco to haul... kick him out of him if you get a chance!"

Sooners Upset Terps; Michigan State Rallies To Win

Oklahoma Scores 7-0 Triumph Over Unbeaten National Champions In Orange Bowl Classic Before Capacity Crowd

By GEORGE BOWEN
MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Coach Jim Tatum and his Maryland football team tasted some of their own medicine today after having the props knocked out beneath their high and mighty position by Oklahoma's 7-0 Orange Bowl victory yesterday.

The elected kingspins of 1953 pulled a similar stunt by beating Tennessee which had been the No. 1 team of 1951 in the Sugar Bowl. Maryland then had been ranked third while Oklahoma went against Maryland rated fourth.

Even more surprising than the fact that Oklahoma won was that Maryland failed to score. It was only the fourth time in Tatum's seven years at Maryland that it happened and it was the first time in the past 51 games.

The team which had rolled up 296 points effortlessly in beating 10 teams had all the opportunity in the world to score in the first period. Its failure against an Oklahoma line that charged with shattering ferocity proved the turning point.

Oklahoma had only five offensive plays in the first quarter while Maryland moved to a first down on the 4 and couldn't score and started other drives from the Oklahoma 32 and 24 without success.

Their third good chance carried to the six at the start of the second period but here fullback Ralph Felton missed a field goal.

Having looked Maryland in the eye for more than 15 minutes and come out top dog, Oklahoma took the ball back 80 yards then to score on the driving of halfback Larry Grigg who swept the last 25 yards over the goal.

Maryland got inside the Oklahoma 30 only once after that. It was when quarterback Bernie Faloney, who has an injured left knee, appeared with the ball on the 44. On the first play, he handed off to Felton who bulled to the 29. But Oklahoma yielded no more and Faloney punted to wind up his brief appearance.

Giles Has Chore Of Choosing Man To Manage Team

By GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK (AP)—Here we go again, and did you know that one of the big problems facing President Warren Giles of the National League in the coming year is to select a manager for his league in its annual all-star tussle against the hated Americans at Cleveland.

It's going to require some tall thinking. By custom the honor would have fallen to Charlie Dressen, who managed the league champion Brooklyn Dodgers, but Charlie is long gone out to Oakland in the Coast League, the first winning pilot to resign or be fired since the mid-summer classic was thought up.

The closest thing to a parallel arose in the 1948 game, and again Brooklyn figured in the mixup. The Dodgers had won the flag the previous season under Burt Shotton who was filling in at the job while Leo Durocher, the club's regular manager, sat out a year's suspension slapped on him by Commissioner Happy Chandler for splitting an infirmity, or something.

When Leo came back in '48, Shotton retired temporarily to his fishing chores in Florida. Ford Frick, then president of the league, got around that one, as we recall, by inviting Barney to fly back for a day and join Durocher in co-managing the all-star aggregation. As may be seen, though, that hardly was the same situation that confronts Giles.

This time the Dodgers have an incoming manager named Walter Alston who is so fresh from the minor leagues that the paint's still wet. He will manage his first big league game next April. He had nothing whatever to do with Brooklyn's winning the '53 pennant, having gotten no closer to Ebbets Field than Montreal. It is difficult to see how he rates the coveted all-star assignment against Casey Stengel, the American League's permanent guest artist.

What then are the alternatives offered Giles? Well, there's Dressen, and no one can rise up and say that the little guy didn't do a superb job of driving his team to the pennant, no matter what happened in the World Series and no matter how many letters he might have co-authored to Walter O'Malley, his club president.

Giles hasn't gotten around to asking us yet, but Chuck has to be our choice for at least a piece of the all-star job. For sentimental purposes, if nothing else, we feel that the National League should send him a round-trip ticket and insist that he sit on the bench during the festivities. We will guarantee, personally, that President Brick Laws of the Oakland team will consent to get along without his manager for a few days.

If Giles can't see giving Chuck the entire assignment, then we recommend that he be permitted to co-manage with Charlie Grimm, whose second-place Milwaukee Braves gave the Dodgers what few uneasy moments they had all season.

with his 79-yard jaunt the first play of the second quarter; the touchdown that came when Lewis tackled Moegle after the 167-pound junior had run 53 yards, and then, in the third, Moegle's 34-yard run.

The last Rice score resulted from a 9-play 75-yard drive. Buddy Graham scored from the seven. Fenstemaker kicked three extra points and Sammy Burk one.

Bowl Climax Came At 2 P.M. Today

By BOB HILLDRUP
Reflector Sports Writer

The morning sun rose in a cold and cloudless sky today and Elks Bowl officials were happy. All else was in readiness for the first annual Elks Bowl football game between Morris Harvey and East Carolina and sure enough, the weather man added his blessing also.

Kickoff time at 2 p.m. today found officials looking hopefully for the expected capacity crowd of better than 8,000. All else was prepared. The field itself sparkled in the early morning sunlight; chalk lines had been re-marked, yard markers erected and the temporary bleachers added to the regular seating capacity. Weeks of preparation awaited the climax. Last night in Greenville football was the talk of the town. Arguments concerning the Orange Bowl, the Rose Bowl and—the Elks Bowl boiled up in restaurants, theatre lobbies and pool rooms. Many persons, passing the window of a downtown jewelry store, paused to admire the three tremendous trophies which were to be awarded following this afternoon's contest. One was to go to the winning team, another to the loser and the third to the most valuable player. "Gosh," said one admirer, "with trophies like that they must really be going big-time. Think I'll go after all." "That is," he added thoughtfully, "if I can still get a seat." The players themselves appeared restless as the eve of the contest rolled on. Many members of both squads took advantage of a free movie at a local theatre to while away the idle hours until bedtime. But preparation for the contest weren't confined to Greenville alone. Both the Associated Press and United Press plus such metropolitan papers as the New York Times and Washington Post were kept advised of developments right up to the starting whistle. And from Charlotte came word that the Associated Press was dispatching a photographer to snap "shots" of the action which would be relayed over its wires bearing the familiar cutline: "A.P. Wirephoto."

Radio, too, came in for its share of coverage. Twelve FM stations carried the game over a relay network while at least 35 more were expected to handle the broadcast at game time.

Excitement over the contest, interest in the game began to rise. Students began trickling back early from their Christmas holidays for the game. "How's the team look? Are they in good shape? Who's favored?" they asked.

Morris Harvey fans from West Virginia began to arrive also. "What's this East Carolina club like?" they wanted to know. "Can we whip 'em?"

Excitement over the contest, lagging all week long, had begun to rise. By 2 p.m. this afternoon it was expected to have reached the boiling point.

101,000 Persons Watch Spartans Come From Behind In Rose Bowl To Capture 28-20 Win Over UCLA

Alabama Player Leaps From Seat To Get Opponent

By BOB HOOBING

NEW YORK (AP)—Oklahoma and Michigan State boasted impressive victories today over two of the nation's leading defensive teams, national champion Maryland and UCLA.

Oklahoma, ranked No. 4, defeated the one-touchdown favorite Terps 7-0 in the Orange Bowl for the only form reversal yesterday. The Spartans, No. 3, put on a scorching second-half drive to come from behind and give the Big Ten its seventh victory in eight Rose Bowl past appearances, 28-20, over UCLA.

But the day's oddity belonged to the Cotton Bowl match in which an Alabama player leaped off the bench to tackle a score-bound runner. Rice got the touchdown and the victory, too, 28-6.

Georgia Tech captured its third straight post-season triumph 42-19 at the expense of West Virginia in the Sugar Bowl and Texas Tech rallied for a 35-13 trouncing of Auburn in the Gator Bowl with Bobby Cavazos scoring three touchdowns.

Individually, Oklahoma's halfback Larry Grigg, Michigan State halfback Billy Wells and end Ellis Duckett, All-America Paul Cameron of UCLA, Rice halfback Dickey Moegle and Tech quarterback Pepper Rodgers were among the standouts.

In the Orange Bowl the Sooners, who gained more ground than any other team all season, showed Maryland they were masters at defense as well. Twice in the first half they stopped the Terps inside the 10 yard line. And in the final period Grigg halted the last Maryland threat by intercepting a pass in the end zone.

Maryland had allowed the least yards by rushing of any team but the Oklahoma churning 80 yards in 11 plays for the game's only score. Grigg took a pitchout from Gene Calame and went 26 yards for the tally.

The previously unbeaten Terrapins had the use of quarterback Bernie Faloney for only five plays. An injured left knee kept him sidelined until late in the third quarter and he never returned after a Maryland drive stalled on the 30.

UCLA a three-time Rose Bowl loser, held a 14-0 edge early in the second quarter when Michigan State began to explode. Duckett broke through to block a kick, the first time this has ever happened against a Red Sanders coached Bruin team, and recovered it for a TD.

Wells then led a second half ground assault that tore to shreds a defense rated the sixth best against rushing during the regular season. His 62-yard punt return late in the game iced the decision.

Earlier Leroy Bolden and Wells had scored to climax earth-bound marches of 78 and 73 yards. Cameron was splendid in defeat as he scored once from the two and passed for the other two UCLA touchdowns.

In Dallas, Alabama fullback Tommy Lewis gave his team an early 6-0 lead but really made bowl history when he got up off the bench midway in the second

By JACK STEVENSON
PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Michigan State's Spartans proved once again that it takes two halves to make a whole as they came from behind for the 28-20 Rose Bowl victory over the UCLA Bruins.

For it was the sparkling play of the green clad crew from Lansing in the second half yesterday that overcame a 14-7 deficit and gave the Big Ten the bowl title again after a year's sojourn in the Pacific Coast Conference.

During the first half it appeared that UCLA would repeat the feat of USC, which last year turned back the Big Ten invaders for the first time in the history of the bowl rivalry between the two conferences dating back to 1947.

The Bruins gained 154 yards during the two opening quarters to 56 for Michigan State and the score stood 14-7 in their favor.

But as the Spartans took the three quarter kickoff before the capacity crowd of 101,000 it was a different pass—fired apparently by Coach Biggie Munn during the intermission. In 14 crisp plays the Spartans went 73 yards with LeRoy Bolden going over from one yard out, and fullback Evan Slonac added the second of his four straight conversions to tie the count.

In three plays the Bruins couldn't gain after taking the kickoff, punted, and the Spartans went on the march again. This one went 73 yards, abetted by an 18-yard pass from quarterback Tommy Yewic to Bolden, a 27-yard run by right halfback Billy Wells and a 15-yard punt to start.

The Spartans ahead to stay. After UCLA scored again in the fourth period, but missed the conversion, Wells scored 62 yards with a punt for the clincher.

Loyola U. Plays Bowling Green

The game will be carried on the American Broadcasting Co.'s TV network starting at 2:30 p.m., EST. It will be played at the Loyola Gymnasium.

period to tackle Moegle at the 'Bama 42 on a run which had started on the Rice five. It marked the first incident of its kind in major post-season competition.

Officials ruled it a 95-yard touchdown play and Rice was ahead 14-6. Moegle, putting on an unprecedented Cotton Bowl performance in which he gained 261 yards in 11 tries for a 24 yard per try average, also had touchdowns of 79 yards and 94 yards.

Poised Pepper Rodgers took advantage of a leaky West Virginia pass defense to toss a trio of scoring passes in the highest scoring affair in Sugar Bowl annals. Tech had gained 233 air yards by halftime and when the Mountaineers reorganized their defenses the Techmen attacked their flanks to complete the rout.

In other games Texas Western swamped a united Mississippi Southern 37-14 in the Sun Bowl, LaCrosse Teachers and Missouri Valley fought to a 12-12 tie in the Cigar Bowl, Ft. Ord (Calif.) romped over Great Lakes 67-13 in the Salad Bowl and Prairie View stopped Texas Southern 33-8 in the Prairie View Bowl. In a night game, East Texas and Arkansas state tied 7-7 in the Tangerine Bowl.

Rice Whips Tide 28-6 In Cotton Bowl Squabble

By WILBUR MARTIN

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Rice beat Alabama, 28-6, yesterday in a Cotton Bowl football game that will be best remembered for the Alabama fullback who came off the bench to smear a touchdown-bound Rice scabbard.

"I'm too emotional," Tommy Lewis said sorrowfully as he trudged off the field after the game. "I kept telling myself: 'I didn't do it. I didn't do it.' But I knew I had."

"I'm just too full of Alabama. He just ran too close." The player Lewis smeared was Dicky Moegle, a fancy stepping halfback who clipped off touchdown runs of 79 and 94 yards and got credit for a 95-yard scoring jaunt when officials awarded Rice a touchdown for Lewis' violation of the rules. He also picked up the most valuable player award for his three touchdowns and 265 yards gained on 11 carries.

Lewis scored Alabama's only touchdown, driving over from the one-yard line in the first quarter. The impromptu tackle dramatically overshadowed the effortless ease with which Rice smothered Alabama, rolling up 379 yards rushing and 59 passing to 188 and 67 for the Crimson Tide.

Alabama drove 49 yards for a touchdown after Bart Starr intercepted one of LeRoy Fenstemaker's passes. But Rice made its touchdowns easier: Moegle cutting loose

East Is Favored In Shrine Bowl Contest Today

By BOB WELLS

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—With the ruckus of other post-season games fading offstage, the grid stars of 29 universities took the spotlight today for what has been called "football's finest hour"—the 29th East-West game.

Watched by an overflow crowd of 63,000 at Kezar Stadium here and additional millions over nationwide television and radio hook-ups, "the men who run so kids may walk" close out their college grid careers for the benefit of the Shrine crippled children's hospital.

Preceded by lavish pageantry, the game pitted an Eastern ground steamroller against the passing and deception of the finest college football talent in the West.

Rated 6½ point favorites, the East, coached by Ray Elliot of Illinois, presented a crushing line and the hard running of backs Johnny Lattner and Neil Worden of Notre Dame; Gene Filipaki, former Army star who wound up at Villanova, and Steve Mellinger of Kentucky, plus many others.

The West, led by Coach Chuck Taylor of Stanford, had the passing of Bobby Garrett of Stanford—the nation's leading thrower — and Francis (Cotton) Davidson of Baylor, the receiving of ends like Tom Nickoloff of Southern California and the break-away run possibilities of backs like Veryl Switzer of Kansas State.

The kickoff was set for 1:30 p.m., (PST) (4:30 p.m., EST), after an hour and a half of pageantry featuring Michigan State's colorful band, which traveled here from the Spartans' Rose Bowl triumph at Pasadena yesterday.

Only two men may see limited action—Lattner because of a shoulder separation suffered in training early this week and end Sam Morley of Stanford, who reinjured an old knee wound in West drills.

South Carolina's John Gramling was listed as starting quarterback for the East forces.

Texas Tech Whips Auburn By 35-13

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—"I knew Texas Tech was good, but I didn't know they were great!" With that comment Auburn's Coach Ralph (Shug) Jordan told the story of the Tech Red Raiders' 35-13 victory over his Tigers in the ninth annual Gator Bowl football game yesterday.

"In Tech we played the best team we played all year—including Georgia Tech and Alabama," Jordan declared.

Trailing 13-7 at halftime, Texas Tech completely changed the complexion with a 53-yard touchdown pass and a blocked punt early in the third quarter.

Bobby Cavazos, cowboy halfback who made the only offensive noise for the Red Raiders in the first half, cut loose with a 59-yard scoring run for his third touchdown that made it a complete rout and clinched for him the most valuable player trophy.

Regular Schedule Begins

By BE NPHLEGAR

NEW YORK (AP)—The Big Ten basketball teams come back to their home neighborhood tonight for the opening of the conference season and the last of the holiday tournaments ends at Owensboro, Ky.

Duquesne, the No. 2 team in the country and winner of the New York Holiday Festival, takes time out to demonstrate the game to the University of Mexico.

Indiana, the defending NCAA champ which lost for the first time last week, visits Michigan and Purdue is at Wisconsin but the major Big Ten interest will be centered on Champaign, Ill., where eighth ranking Illinois entertains sixth ranking Minnesota.

Minnesota suffered its first defeat earlier in the week against Kentucky while Illinois also has been beaten once, by Oklahoma A&M.

Holy Cross, the Sugar Bowl champion, returns home for an inter-sectional engagement with Alabama. The Crusaders currently are ranked 12th but probably will move up on the strength of their New Orleans' success.

Bevo Is Leading Nation's Scorers

NEW YORK (AP)—Bevo Francis, finally established as a big league in college basketball circles maintained the nation's top individual scoring average among the small schools last week.

The sensational star of the Rio Grande, Ohio, five has tossed in an average of 43.9 points per game. He made 131 field goals and 89 free throws for 351 points in eight games.

Maryland against Kentucky Wesleyan in tonight's final. The Terps' basketball team had considerably more success last night than its vaunted football team did yesterday afternoon as it stopped high-scoring Evansville College 66-58.

Kentucky Wesleyan, the host, edged St. Francis of Brooklyn 71-69.

New Year's action was scarce but in a major upset Seton Hall lost its first home game in 47 starts dating back to the 1950-51 season. William and Mary beat the Pirates 57-55.

West Virginia came within striking distance in the second quarter when halfback Danny Williams turned the Tech flank for a touchdown to narrow the score to 14-6.

But Tech, alternating between a steady ground thrust and a dazzling aerial display, raised the score to 20-6 just before the half when Rodgers shot a streamer to end Henry Hair for the touchdown.

Tech added a field goal by Rodgers and a 23-yard touchdown run by Leon Hardeman to take an insurmountable lead in the third quarter.

West Virginia caught back two touchdowns in the fourth quarter when halfback Joe Marconi drove over from the one and fullback Tommy Allman crashed over from one yard out.

However, Tech scores by halfback Larry Ruffin, who went 43 yards from the sidelines, and Billy Teas' nine - yard spin offset the threat.

Each team had one touchdown nullified by penalties.

Commerce Secretary Sees Good Business Year Ahead

By FRANK O'Brien
 WASHINGTON (AP)—The New Year may not equal 1953's record setting spurge, Secretary of Commerce Weeks said today, but the outlook is for one of the "better years of economic history."
 Weeks' optimistic forecast—written into his year-end report—contrasted sharply with concern voiced by some Democrats like Sen. Douglas of Illinois, who said last week that the United States already is suffering a "real recession."
 It was also at variance with the opinion of a majority of some 300 economists who met here this week and agreed the country is in a mild business slump that they predicted would last through next year.
 The cabinet officer said "the outlook is bright for a high overall level of jobs and business activity" and "an abundance of newer and better products at attractive prices."
 "Our best days are yet to be," he declared. "The nation is more productive and more powerful than ever before."
 Weeks cautioned that "short run difficulties may arise" but he said these can be faced with "realistic optimism."
 Many economic adjustments already have been made, he said, "and others will be dealt with as we move ahead."
 Should any severe economic fluctuations develop, he promised the Eisenhower administration will not be caught off guard, but "will take necessary and timely action to cope with the situation."

"The administration will continue its policy of encouraging economic stability and growth and of preparing measures for prompt use wherever and whenever required," Weeks stated.
 Weeks gave this summary of economic developments in 1953: "During the first half of the year business activity was accelerating too fast to be maintained indefinitely; hence in the second half there has been some easing off from the production peaks reached earlier."
 "Most of the readjustment has been associated with the elimination of an exceptionally fast rate of inventory growth. Notwithstanding the cut back in inventory accumulation the national product in the final quarter of the year was above the closing period of 1952."
 Weeks' report showed that new marks were chalked up last year in production, personal income, consumption and employment.
 The gross national product—the market value of all goods and services produced—totalled 397 billion dollars, a new record five per cent greater than in 1952.
 More of the national product went for national security in 1953 than in any year since World War II. Total federal purchases for security programs, including defense and foreign aid came to nearly $2 billion dollars. That was about six per cent more than in 1952.
 Personal income amounted to 284 billion dollars in 1953—about five per cent more than the previous record set in 1952.
 Americans used this increased income to buy more than ever before—230 billion dollars worth in 1953 compared with 218 billions the year before.
 They bought 2 1/2 per cent more food and other non-durable goods, 12 1/2 per cent more durable items, and 3 1/2 per cent more services.

than in 1952.
 This averaged out to a two per cent increase in consumption for each person in the nation.
 Home building—1,100,000 new non-farm dwelling units—reached the third biggest annual total in the nation's history.
 Businessmen spent a record 28 billion dollars to expand plant and other production facilities. They also added at least four billion dollars worth of inventory stocks.
 Civilian employment averaged 61,900,000, the highest ever recorded. Unemployment averaged 1,500,000 monthly, lower than ever before except in World War II.
 By contrast income of farm operators last year fell 20 per cent to about 12 billion dollars. This was the second straight year that farm income had dropped.
 The nation's population grew during the year by an estimated 2,700,000. It now is well over 160 million.

Home Furnishing Industry Retains Optimism Of '53

CHICAGO (AP)—The home furnishings industry hopes to keep 1954 sales up to the high level of 1953 but executives agree it will take real salesmanship to do it.
 The industry, which calls itself the nation's third largest, started 1953 at a pace well ahead of 1952 but saw the margin narrow and sales lag as the year progressed.
 Wallace O. Ollman, general manager of Chicago's Merchandise Mart, says manufacturers' bookings for the first six months of 1953 were seven per cent ahead of the same period a year earlier. But by the end of October, 1953's lead was cut to one per cent, he adds.
 With final 1953 figures still awaited, industry spokesmen agree that '53 and '52 wound up in pretty much of a dead heat. Slightly more optimistic is Gen. Lawrence H. Whiting, president of the American Furniture Mart in Chicago. He estimates total 1953 home goods sales—at retail levels—nearly 6 billion dollars compared with 5.2 billion in 1952.
 In either case, 1953 was a very good year. But in its final months it did give a warning that something new may be needed if sales are to be maintained at near their postwar highs.
 General Whiting observes that in the final quarter, many "went back to the old bag of tricks and put the best ones to work." Among the gimmicks were sales contests, special offers and values, sale meetings, and exchange of notes with others in the business.
 "These firms benefited—while complacent concerns suffered," Whiting says.
 The new year, all agree, promises to follow the pattern that began to emerge late in '53.
 Roscoe R. Rau, executive vice president of the National Retail Furniture Assn., says "go-getters" will "reap a harvest" while the "standstills" may falter and fall.
 John Snow, executive secretary of the National Assn. of Furniture Manufacturers, echoes: "It's going to be up to the individual manufacturer what happens to him."
 The industry will be "no big increase—no big drop," Snow forecasts.
 The pattern of '54 operations will begin to take solid shape in just a few days with the opening of the winter markets. Chicago's International Home Furnishings Market, which starts Jan. 4 at the American Furniture Mart and the Merchandise Mart, will attract thousands of buyers for retail houses throughout the nation. What they buy—and what manufacturers offer—will help set the pace.
 Says General Whiting: "High art and extreme bizarre lines and contours will give way to the standards of comfort and convenience. There is evidence contemporary designs—which have accounted for 60 per cent of production—are at the crest. Coming up strong is a transitional styling which combines the best of past, present and future."
 Manager Ollman of the Merchandise Mart looks for new items giving "more value for the same money." Examples: "Additional drawers in a chest, costlier drawer and door pulls, and other special features at no extra cost."

Serious Sen. Knowland Has Task To Keep Him 'Serious'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Young and earnest Sen. Knowland is not noted as a humorist, which is probably just as well. What he faces in 1954 is enough to keep any man serious all year.
 The 45-year-old California Republican has the double job, which is really only one and the same job, of trying to fill the shoes of the late Sen. Robert A. Taft and steering President Eisenhower's program through the Senate.
 Knowland seems determined not to be a rubber stamp for the White House but to speak his mind in a dispassionate way with Eisenhower whenever he sees fit. This is strictly in the Taft tradition.
 But Knowland has yet to demonstrate that he can be as outspoken as Taft and still keep his fellow Republicans in the Senate from taking this as a cue to run off in all directions themselves.
 The dark-haired Knowland had been in the Senate only seven years when he succeeded Taft as majority leader. He worked hard at his new responsibility through the closing weeks of Congress. But his task then was mild compared with the one confronting him now.
 Rising above any personal bitterness he may have felt because the Republican party wanted Eisenhower in the White House instead of him, Taft labored hard both for the party and the President.
 Because of his great prestige and influence, Taft was able to disagree openly with Eisenhower on some points but still shepherd the Senate Republican votes regularly for the administration.
 Knowland, if only because of his comparative newness and youthfulness, lacks the Senate influence of Taft, yet it is upon him Eisenhower must depend for the progress of his program through the Senate in 1954.

 And Knowland's task is even a little more difficult than Taft's, for the Ohio Republican enjoyed an other advantage, although small, which Knowland doesn't have.
 When the 83rd Congress convened last Jan. 3 the Senate had 48 Republicans, 47 Democrats and 1 Independent, Sen. Morse of Oregon, who had been elected as a Republican. Now the Senate has 48 Democrats, 47 Republicans and Morse.
 Even with that small edge last year Eisenhower had to depend on Democratic votes to bail him out on some major issues.
 So Knowland will, perhaps more than once, have to woo some Democrats, a predicament which may increase his sensitivity to Democratic attitudes and impel him to some compromises on Eisenhower programs.
 When Eisenhower this week announced a policy of placing defense contracts in unemployment areas, some Democrats, but particularly Southern Democrats who could envision this policy depriving their areas of work, protested loudly.
 Shortly afterwards Knowland called this Eisenhower policy a disappointment and said he would support legislation, after Congress comes back next Wednesday, to modify it.
 Not long ago, after Eisenhower said he hoped Communism in government would not be a 1954 election issue, Sen. McCarthy said it would be a main one. Knowland said it would be an issue.
 For the Eisenhower administration 1953 was a period of getting ready for 1954.
 Eisenhower will unveil Thursday a program expected to be full of hot controversy—on agriculture, social security, taxes, foreign affairs military aid.

 Knowland's ability as successor to Taft will get a full test and the full treatment.

Destiny Guided Use Of Money

KINGSTREE, S.C. (AP)—A King tree family set out for a drive-in movie with a $1 bill set aside for the ticket taker. On the way somebody mistook the money for a candy bar wrapper and tossed it out the car window.
 They went to the movie anyway. Going home the mother suddenly called for a halt. "It must have been along here," she said, and the headlights just then were shining on the bill floating in a puddle beside the busy highway.
 Deciding the bill was destined for some special use, they sent it to Thorswell Orphanage at Clinton in a special church offering.

Jaywalker Order Isn't Complete

PENNINGTON, B.C. (AP)—Chief William Krueger, 83, of the Okanagan Indian Reserve, is proud of his membership in the Ancient Order of Jaywalkers, but says this does not allow him to walk between intersections on city streets.
 He said that in 1880 a bill fostered by a man named Jay and known as the Jay-walking bill was made law in the United States. It gave Indians, Canadian and American, living on reservations the right to walk across the international boundary at will, taking with them household chattels.

School Holiday Has 'Opponent'

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP)—Susan, daughter of Gov. Robert Crosby of Nebraska, popped her head inside the executive office door just when her Dad was deep in a press conference.
 Crosby glanced at her and remarked "Oh, no school today. I was just up talking to the teachers' convention—and your teachers there—and I told them one of the things wrong with the schools today is that there are too many holidays!"
 Susan muttered something like "Oh, you" and did a disappearing act as her Dad grinned broadly.

Official Ceiling Was Really Zero

BUTLER, Pa. (AP)—The fickle elements played a dirty trick on operators of the Allegheny Airlines. Some 20 city officials of Butler and officers of the airlines attended a breakfast at the Butler-Graham Airport here and then lined up to watch the airline make its first scheduled stop at the airport.
 The ceiling closed in and the plane was unable to land.

TB Inoculation Is Jordan Goal

AMMAN (AP)—Jordan has launched a nationwide campaign to inoculate its subjects against tuberculosis.
 The United Nations organization—WHO and UNICEF—have provided medical specialists and transportation to facilitate inoculation campaigns in all parts of the country.

First New N. C. Citizen Of 1954 In Greensboro

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
North Carolina's first new citizen of 1954 appears to be the son of Mr. and Mrs. Billy O. Pettigrew of Greensboro, but a couple of later arrivals have the edge on several other "first" distinctions.

Baby Pettigrew made his entrance into this young year just six seconds after the year itself was born.

Just seconds later, according to an Associated Press survey, at least two other babies were born.

But it was not until well after dawn that two others made their debut and laid a leisure claim on Lexington's "first baby" awards.

Donors of prizes were put on the spot by these two.

Twins were born at 8:47 and 8:53 a. m. to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Allen of Elizabethtown. And the twins didn't stop at becoming the city's first for 1954.

The twins, a boy and girl, are the first children of Mr. and Mrs. Allen, the first grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Allen, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank McCulloch of Lexington; the first great grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. C. Snyder of Linwood and Mrs. John McCulloch of Lexington, and Mrs. Effie Blacklock of Lexington.

and the first great-great-grandchildren of Mrs. A. A. Young of Linwood.

The twin's father is band director at Elizabethtown High School. The parents were visiting relatives at Lexington.

The girl was first and weighed 8 pounds, 11 ounces. The boy weighed 8 pounds, 6 ounces.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Meacham of Winston-Salem at 12:01. Then at 12:02 a boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schoolfield of Greensboro.

Others born yesterday who claim ed cities' first citizen distinctions included:

A son to Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Moseley of Asheville at 12:37.

A girl to Mrs. Mary Ann Glosson at Durham at 12:35.

A son to Mr. and Mrs. Bascom V. Belk of Charlotte at 12:17.

A boy to Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Cash at Raleigh at 2:36.

Wreck Followed Safety Editorial

Light Damage In Auto Accidents Here Yesterday

Two minor accidents were reported by local police yesterday with damage running slight in both cases.

Early yesterday morning automobiles operated by Levon Phillips, Negro, 2024 Imperial Street and Mrs. Lolla Pollard of West Tenth Street Extension collided on East Tenth Street. Police estimated damage to both cars at $85 and no charges were placed against the drivers.

At 11:30 yesterday morning cars operated by Floyd Mills of Route 1, Greenville and L. B. Finch of 803 Willow Street crashed at the intersection of Washington Street and Dickinson Avenue. Mills' car received $50 damage and Finch's about $15. No arrests were made.

Elderly Sisters Saved From Fire

OKLAHOMA CITY P.—An elderly blind widow and her sister, almost blind, were rescued from their flaming frame home yesterday by neighbors attracted by their pitiful cries for help.

Mrs. Maggie Dellar Holt, 76, and her blind sister, Mrs. Rodie Emma Simpson, 76, were led from the blazing structure. Mrs. Holt couldn't see well enough to find the door. The women, both old age pensioners received only minor burns. All their possessions were destroyed.

Firemen said the blaze sprang up from an overheated coal stove.

Patrolman Saw Familiar Jacket

PHILADELPHIA P.—Rookie patrolman Joseph Kelly thought there was something familiar about the jacket worn by a passing marcher in yesterday's Mummers parade.

A second glance convinced him it was the same jacket stolen from Kelly while he was playing basketball several nights earlier.

The gent with the jacket, who identified himself as James Richards, also produced on demand Kelly's trousers and shirt.

He was held for a magistrate's hearing today.

WALK IS EXCITING
McCOOL, Neb. (AP)—Just walking to high school can be pretty exciting. Shirley Borden stepped on a rattlesnake, which promptly coiled around her leg. The snake, apparently sluggish from chilly weather, did not attempt to bite.

The girl kicked the reptile off and a McCool man finished it off with an axe.

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP)—Miss Rebecca F. Gross, editor of the Lock Haven Express, was in "satisfactory" condition at the Williamsport Hospital today following amputation of both her legs.

The 48-year-old newspaperwoman was injured in a two-car collision in the early hours of New Year's Eve as she drove to the airport here to meet her sister. She was thrown out of her car by the crash and landed against a utility pole. Her car spun around crushing her legs against the pole.

Ironically, Miss Gross had just finished writing an editorial on safe holiday driving before the ill-fated ride.

"Title of the editorial was 'Who Wants to Start the New Year in a Hospital or a Morgue?'"

Widely known in the newspaper world, Miss Gross was one of seven American newspapermen and women to make a tour of Russia last year, marking an historic reversal in Russian policy.

City Jail Empty At Year's Start

The New Year started off auspiciously yesterday when the Greenville city jail was empty all day.

The desk sergeant at the police station reported "All's quiet on the police front," until nearly 9 o'clock last night, when the first prisoner was locked up.

Police arrested nine persons, recognized six of them for appearance in Police Court next Monday, and locked up three.

Funeral Sunday For William A. Wright

Mr. William A. Wright, 41, died at his home in Pinehurst early Friday morning. Funeral services will be conducted at two o'clock Sunday afternoon at Village Chapel in Pinehurst by the Rev. A. W. Crate. Committal service and interment will be in Greenwood Cemetery at two o'clock Monday afternoon.

Mr. Wright was son of the late Dr. Robert H. Wright, president of East Carolina College for more than 25 years, and was reared in Greenville. He attended The Citadel at Charleston, S. C., and was graduated from the University of North Carolina.

Surviving are his wife, the former Ruth Eberhardt of Buffalo, N. Y.; a daughter, Mary Ann Wright of the home; and two step-sons, Harry and William Haynesworth, his mother, Mrs. Robert H. Wright of Hampton, Va.; a brother, Dr. Robert H. Wright Jr. of Hampton, Va.; and a sister, Mrs. Donald Cadman of Chattaqua, N. Y.

HAS SEVEN SISTERS.—Little 8-pound John Henry Drabik rests in the arms of his mother, Mrs. Henry Drabik, in Little Company of Mary Hospital at Chicago. The newborn baby has a lot of sisters waiting for him at home. There are seven girls in the family and all have a first name of Mary. (AP Wirephoto).

103 Years Old

SYLVA, N. C. (AP)—A woman who says she still enjoys "doing the dishes," observes her 103rd birthday here today.

Mrs. Sarah Jane Coward of Coats, was born in 1851, 27 days before her native Jackson County was created.

She has lived through five wars and still can relate many incidents of the War between the States. Mrs. Coward's husband, Javan Coward, died in 1941.

There are five generations in her family, including two daughters, 12 grandchildren, six great-grandchildren and four great-great-grandchildren.

An advocate of the "early to bed, early to rise," rule Mrs. Coward says rest and balanced dieting contributed to her long life.

Suicide Ruling In William Wright Death Friday

PINEHURST.—William Alderman Wright, 41, broker, shot himself with a .22-caliber rifle while his wife looked on at their home here early Friday.

Moore County Coroner Ralph Speed ruled the death suicide after a jury viewed the body. The coroner quoted Mrs. Wright as saying she and her husband had returned from a party, and that he shot himself as she entered the room. He had been despondent over business matters.

Wright's father, the late Dr. Robert H. Wright, was for 25 years president of East Carolina College at Greenville.

Survivors include the widow, the former Ruth Eberhardt of Buffalo, N. Y.; one daughter, Mary Ann Wright, 8; two stepsons, Harry and William Haynesworth, sons of Mrs. Wright by her first husband, Harry H. Haynesworth of Greenville, S. C.

Cake Too Small For 105 Candles

CHICAGO P.—Joseph W. Lillard's birthday cake contained only one candle—it was too small for 105. He celebrated his 105th birthday yesterday at a convalescent home where friends gave him $105 and other gifts.

He was born in Bowling Green, Ky., the son of slaves on a plantation.

Cash Taken From Store In Night

Thieves broke into the store of Dalton Williams at Lang's Crossroads last night and made off with some $40 to $45 in money from the cash register in the store.

Members of the Pitt County sheriff's department and the city-county identification department were investigating the robbery today.

Officers said the robber or robbers gained entrance into the store by breaking out a window and climbing into the building.

The robbery last night, was the second reported in as many nights. On Thursday night thieves broke into a filling station in Linwood O'Neal at Ballard's Crossroads and made off with between $75 and $100 in cash.

Officers today were continuing their investigation of both robberies.

'Routine' Meet On Monday For Commissioners

The Pitt County Board of Commissioners will hold their regular monthly meeting on Monday.

Board Chairman F. F. Hendrix said this morning that he knew of nothing more than routine matters to be discussed at the first meeting of the Commissioners in 1954.

The year ends and begins at the December meeting of the Board instead of the January meeting. At the December meeting the Board re-elected Hendrix as chairman and J. T. Dupree as vice-chairman in the normal year-end re-organization.

Police Assisted Few Partygoers

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y. (P)—Business slumped in Saranac Lake's fifth annual "Operation Cocktail" but the result was the same—no New Year's Eve accidents.

Four persons took police up on their offer to ferry home any partygoers who had decided that the last one for the road was too much.

Chief William Wallace said yesterday the number was the lowest yet.

Friday's Cases In Police Court

By CHESTER WALSH
In Police Court Friday, Nellie Boyd Smith, 26, Negro, 1216 Clark street, who was charged with possession of non-tax paid whiskey for sale, became more deeply entangled in the law while testifying when Judge Charles H. Whedbee issued a bench warrant charging her with larceny of whiskey.

On questioning by Solicitor Eli Bloom, Nellie Boyd testified that the moonshine liquor did not belong to her; that she "saw a man hide the jar near a warehouse" and then she "found it." It was at this point in the trial that the judge ordered the bench warrant charging the woman with larceny of non-tax paid whiskey.

The court found her guilty of simple possession of non-tax paid whiskey, and gave her six months in jail, sentence to be suspended on payment of $50, costs deducted. The judgment also provides that she is to remain of good behavior for two years and not possess any non-tax paid whiskey.

On the charge of larceny of whiskey, the court gave Nellie Boyd Smith six months in the women's division of State Prison, sentence to be suspended on condition that she not violate any criminal law for two years.

She paid her fine and was released from custody.

Jake Watson, Negro, 1108 Railroad street, possession of non-tax paid whiskey for the purpose of sale, was given two years on the roads for possession of non-tax paid whiskey for the purpose of sale. Sentence was suspended on condition that he remain of good behavior and not violate any North Carolina criminal law for two years.

Clifton E. Worthington, Negro, driving drunk, prayer for judgment was continued on payment of $100 and costs. The court recommended that his driver's license be revoked for a year.

Robert Hulon of Bethel, speeding, 30 days in jail, sentence suspended on payment of $25, costs deducted, and he is not to operate a motor vehicle for 30 days.

Drunk: Charlie L. Dudley and Len James Turnage, both of Grifton, each paid $10; Frank Hassell, 30 days in jail or pay $10.

Buddies Helped Him To Be First

AUBURN, N. Y. (P)—Patrolman Frank M. Colajola's buddies on the force helped him become Auburn's first 1954 father.

They took Mrs. Colajola to a hospital in a patrol car when all the city's taxis were on New Year's Eve calls.

And the cop became a pop at 12:45 A.M. yesterday.

Eminent British Politician Dies

LONDON (P)—Lord Norwich, eminent British politician, diplomat and man of letters, died yesterday aboard the French steamship Columbe off Vigo, Spain. He was 63.

Lord Norwich—who was Alfred Duff Cooper before he was raised to the peerage in 1952—collapsed in his cabin while on a cruise to Jamaica. His wife, society beauty and former actress Diana Manners, was with him when he died. She planned to accompany his body to England by plane today.

A member of Parliament for over 20 years, Lord Norwich served as minister of war and first lord of the Admiralty in prewar Conservative governments. He was minister of information in Prime Minister Churchill's war Cabinet from 1940 to 1943 and then was Britain's first postwar ambassador to France.

His political career is best remembered, however, for his resignation from Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's Cabinet and bitter outburst against the 1938 Munich pact with Hitler. He quit as first lord of the Admiralty and devoted himself to an outspoken campaign against appeasement.

His death ended a story book love that began 34 years ago when he wed Diana Manners after overcoming strong opposition from her father, the Duke of Rutland. He was only a minor Foreign Office official at the time.

To earn money so he could turn to politics, Diana went on the stage. She scored an instant success in London and New York as the Madonna in Max Reinhardt's production, "The Miracle," in the 1920s.

Lord Norwich's autobiography, "Old Men Forget," was published a few months ago.

DICK TRACY

CRIMSTOPPERS TEXTBOOK

STRIATIONS ON CUTTING EDGE OF A HATCHET IDENTIFIED WEAPON AND CONVICTED OWNER.

YES, THE DIVER, JIMMY, FOUND THE GUN.

HERE'S THE PICTURE WE TOOK FOR EVIDENCE OF JIMMY, THE DIVER, BRINGING UP THE GUN.

DUE TO THE FACT PIECES OF STONE BROKE OFF FROM TIME TO TIME AND TUMBLED INTO THE QUARRY, I FOUND THE WEAPON BY FEELING UNDER A ROCK.

WE'VE KEPT THE GUN IN A CAN FILLED WITH WATER TAKEN FROM THE QUARRY.

WHAT'S THE REASON FOR THAT, TRACY?

WHEN A METAL OBJECT THAT HAS BEEN SUBMERGED IN WATER, IT OXIDIZES VERY RAPIDLY IN AIR.

KEEPING IT IN THE SAME WATER PREVENTS THAT.

BOILING THE GUN?

YES, BECAUSE WHEN IT'S REMOVED FROM THE BOILING WATER, THE HEAT WILL DISSIPATE THE MOISTURE AND MAKE IT PERFECTLY DRY FOR LABORATORY WORK.

20 MINUTES LATER

USUALLY WHEN RESTORING NUMBERS YOU TAKE THE GUN APART, BUT IN THIS CASE IT'S RUSTED TOO BADLY.

WE'LL JUST GRIND THE RUST OFF THE AREA WHERE THE NUMBERS ARE—AND LATER SMOOTH IT OFF WITH EMERY CLOTH.

THE BATTERY AND ELECTRODES ARE ALL SET, TRACY.

WE CLAMP A TERMINAL TO THE GUN, THEN DIP THE OTHER, WHICH IS EQUIPPED WITH GLASS WOOL INTO THE ACID AND START TREATING IT.

"WITH THIS PROCESS, RESULTS ARE FAST. WE SHOULD READ THE NUMBERS WITHIN A SHORT TIME," SAYS TRACY.

YES, UNCLE KINCAID, WE'LL SOON KNOW WHO OWNED THE GUN.

MY FATE IS IN THE HANDS OF SCIENCE.

I LOVE THEM BOTH—I CAN'T DECIDE WHICH ONE TO TAKE

DAGWOOD, I BROUGHT HOME TWO DRESSES AND I WANT YOU TO TELL ME WHICH ONE YOU LIKE BETTER

OKAY, PUT THEM ON

QUICK, COOKIE, TELL ME HOW MUCH EACH OF THOSE DRESSES COST

THE ONE WITH THE FLOWERS COSTS THIRTY DOLLARS AND THE STRIPED DRESS COSTS ONLY FOURTEEN

NOW, DO YOU LIKE THIS ONE?

NO—IT'S AWFUL—I CAN'T STAND FLOWERED DRESSES

WELL, HOW ABOUT THIS ONE?

I LOVE STRIPES—THAT'S A BEAUTY—KEEP THAT ONE

YOU PICKED OUT THE MOST EXPENSIVE DRESS—THE OTHER ONE COSTS ONLY FOURTEEN DOLLARS

OH, NO!

I'M AWFULLY SORRY, DADDY—I DON'T KNOW HOW I MADE A MISTAKE LIKE THAT

HOW COULD YOU DO A THING LIKE THAT TO YOUR OWN FATHER?

NOW TAKE THIS CHEAP ONE BACK TO THE SHOP AND PAY THE LADY $30 FOR THE ONE I'M KEEPING

I'M SO SORRY, DADDY

COOKIE, YOU'RE USUALLY SO BRIGHT—HOW COULD YOU SLIP UP LIKE THAT?

I FEEL TERRIBLE ABOUT IT

HERE'S THIRTY DOLLARS FOR MY WIFE'S DRESS AND I'M RETURNING THE OTHER ONE

WAIT, MR. BUMSTEAD—THE DRESS YOUR WIFE KEPT WAS ONLY FOURTEEN DOLLARS—YOU GET SIXTEEN DOLLARS BACK

COOKIE—MY DARLING—YOU WERE RIGHT AFTER ALL

COME, DEVIL. WE'RE NOT PLAYING WITH CONLEY NOW. IT'S NIGHT-- HE'S ASLEEP BESIDES, WE'RE HEADED FOR THE DEEPWOODS-- DEVIL--WHAT IS IT?
 GRRR--

DADDY-- DADDY--
 BLAST THAT KID! WE WOKE HIM UP!

GO BACK TO YOUR BED, KID.
 WHAT ARE YOU DOING TO MY DADDY?
 ER--YOUR DADDY'S SICK, KID. WE'RE TAKIN' HIM TO THE DOCTOR'S.

HE IS NOT SICK! YOU'RE BAD MEN-- YOU LOOK LIKE BURGLARS!
 ARE WE GONNA STAND HERE ARGUIN' ALL NIGHT WITH THIS KID, WHILE HE WAKES UP THE WHOLE PLANTATION?

YOU SHOULDA STAYED IN BED, KID. THIS IS TOO BAD, BUT--
 SLIM, WHAT YOU GONNA DO? SAY-- SLIM--

YES, SLIM--WHAT ARE YOU GOING TO DO?

I CAN'T UNDERSTAND WHY YOU WANT TO TALK TO THAT HOODLUM, "DAN THE ORCHID," ALONE, MRS. CASTLE... AS AN OLD FRIEND, DO YOU MIND TELLING ME?
 SINCE TWEEDY'S PEARLS HAVE BEEN RETURNED, I SEE NO REASON TO PROSECUTE. PERHAPS I CAN HELP SET THESE MEN ON THE STRAIGHT PATH.

IT IS THE FIRST OFFENSE FOR THAT LITTLE ACTOR, "SHORTY" GRANT... SO I SHALL MAKE NO CHARGE... AS FOR DAN, IF I GIVE HIM A JOB, WOULDN'T THAT SATISFY HIS PAROLE BOARD?
 WELL, OF COURSE I HAVE ONLY THAT PRIVATE DETECTIVE'S WORD THAT HE BROKE PAROLE... UNTIL I HAVE OFFICIAL NOTICE, I SUPPOSE I COULD OVERLOOK...
 EXACTLY! THEN IT'S SETTLED... SEND DAN TO MY HOME... I AM NOT INTERESTED IN THE ACTOR.

A LITTLE LATER, DAN CALLS ON MRS. J. FUNSTON CASTLE
 I DON'T GET THIS, MA'AM... BY RIGHTS YOU SHOULD BE HANGIN' A RAP ON ME FOR RECEVIN' THEM PEARLS... INSTEAD, YOU'RE OFFERIN' ME A JOB... WHAT GIVES?
 SUPPOSE WE JUST SAY I'M NOT AS HEARTLESS AS I AM REPUTED TO BE... BESIDES... I HAVE A... SHALL WE SAY... A SPECIAL SORT OF JOB FOR YOU.

UH-OH... NOW IT COMES... THIS DAME WANTS ME FOR SOMETHING THAT AIN'T EXACTLY IN THE SCOUT MANUAL!
 I WON'T BEAT AROUND THE BUSH... I WANT THE PROPERTY NOW OCCUPIED BY THE CLIFFSIDE ORPHANAGE, BUT THE TRUSTEES REFUSE TO SELL... YOUR JOB IS TO THINK UP WAYS TO MAKE THE PLACE SUCH A NUISANCE THE COMMUNITY WILL BE GLAD TO GET RID OF IT!
 S'POSE I WAS ABLE TO DO THAT, MA'AM... WHAT WOULD BECOME OF THE ORPHANS?

OH, THEY'LL BE LOOKED AFTER SOMEHOW... THEY'RE JUST A LOT OF LITTLE HOODL... ER... DELINQUENTS.
 YOU WAS GOIN' TO SAY HOODLUMS... THE SUREST WAY TO MAKE 'EM HOODS IS TO KICK 'EM AROUND LIKE I WAS WHEN I WAS A KID... I AIN'T SURE I LIKE THIS JOB, MA'AM.

MUST I REMIND YOU THAT A TELEPHONE CALL TO YOUR PAROLE BOARD...?
 OKAY, MA'AM... I SEE I AIN'T GOT NO CHOICE. HOW DO I START?

A LITTLE LATER, IN THE NORTH PASTURE...
 GOLLY, RUSTY, WAIT'LL YOU HEAR!... DADDY'S GOING TO LET US HAVE A WIENER ROAST, AND HAVE ALL THE KIDS FROM THE ORPHANAGE!
 WOWEE, PATTY, THAT'S SUPER! WE'LL HAVE TO GET BUSY AND THINK UP SOME GAMES!
