New Tax Cuts 'Can And Will Be Made' Says President Eisenhower Voices Hope That Both Political Parties Can Back Objectives

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today said new tax cuts "can and will be made" and he told Congress America's defense plans are geared to use of atomic weapons "if they are needed to preserve our freedom."

year Congress almost evenly divided politically, the President also predicted a Federal spending budget of about $66,000,000 for the fiscal year starting July 1—about 12 billion dollars less than the original Truman administration budget for the current year.

—Urged amendment of the Atomic Energy Act to permit sharing with "our allies certain knowledge of the tactical use of our nuclear weapons."

—Urged extension of unemployment compensation to 6 1/2 million workers not now covered.

—Urged extension of the social security program to cover 10 million more Americans, and for a substantial increase in benefits.

—Urged that the entire tax structure, Eisenhower declared, "be brought back to a level which will encourage initiative, enterprise and production."

er already has made an open bid for cooperation from the Democrats, he said America has gained the initiative during the last year in the struggle against communism—and means to keep it.

—Referring to his Dec. 8 United Nations speech calling on Russia to join with the U. S. and other atomic powers in creation of an international atomic pool for peaceful use, the President said: "A truly constructive Soviet reaction will make possible a new start toward an era of peace, and away from the fatal road toward atomic war."

No Date Mentioned In Accepting U.S. Proposal Russia Joining Atom Talk

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States and Russia were agreed today on starting preliminary atomic-peace talks in Washington, but the imprecise question of timing was still up in the air.

Britain and France, Dallé has been pressing for early negotiations ever since President Eisenhower proposed, in his Dec. 8 address to the United Nations, that the world unite to strip the atom of "its military casing and adapt it to the arts of peace."

District Governor Pays Official Visit To Altrusa Club

Mrs. Ernestine Milner, II, District Governor of Altrusa, paid her official visit to the Greenville Altrusa Club at a delightful dinner meeting held at the Woman's Club on Jan. 5 at 6:45 p. m.

Mrs. Milner spoke on "What It Means To Be An Altrusian." In giving the definition of an Altrusa Club Mrs. Milner said, "Altrusa is like Rotary—Altrusa is for women like Rotary is for men." During her informative and enthusiastic address she reviewed the principles, fundamental purposes and objectives of Altrusa; classifications by which members are accepted were recalled and that TV and Armed Service were two new added classifications. Project suggestions were offered with community projects being emphasized. Mrs. Milner also reminded the local Altrusians that the Grants and Ads Fund offers opportunities and assistance to foreign students and our students to study abroad through fellowships. Mrs. Milner closed her interesting remarks by saying, "Altrusa is a growing organization made up of women of status and classification. Altrusa does not exist for Altrusa but for the community and we stand for that which furthers business and professional women."

Mrs. Margaret Boykin, president of Greenville Altrusa Club, presided. Mrs. Boykin in introducing Mrs. Milner reminded club members that Ernestine Milner is a member of the Greensboro Altrusa Club, a native of Ohio, a graduate of Wellesley College, wife of the president of Guilford College and is an associate professor of psychology at Guilford College and our governor of 2nd District of Altrusa. The 2nd District is composed of eight states—North and South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Virginia, West Virginia, Delaware and the District of Columbia.

Two other special guests of the club were Mrs. John D. Messick and Mrs. Dorothy Perkins of the faculty of East Carolina College.

Mrs. Milner met with the Board of Directors earlier in the evening and made many helpful suggestions for progress and reviewing the work of the local club.

Four Attend Methodist Conference Held In Kansas

Four students of the Wesley Foundation attended the Fifth Quadrennial Conference of the Methodist Student Movement, at the University of Kansas, Lawrence, Kan., during the Christmas holidays. The Conference opened with a Leaders Meeting at 4:00 p. m. on December 28, and closed with an address followed by lunch on January 2.

"Christ Transforming Culture" was the theme of the Conference, and this was developed from several facets: a theological perspective for the problems of our culture; a locating of some of the problems in the area of social relationships and the university community; a look at the implications of the transformation of our culture in the arts; and an examination of the personal aspect of this transformation.

The theme was introduced on the opening evening in a dramatic presentation of the central symbolism of the Conference. The keynote address was given by Philippe Maury, from Southern France, general secretary of the World's Student Christian Federation. The theological perspective was developed by Dr. Albert C. Outler of Southern Methodist University. Bishop Newell Booth and Dr. John G. Gross, Executive Secretary, Division of Educational Institutions of The Methodist Church, discussed the implications of the Church in the world. Dr. Glenn A. Olds, Chaplain and Professor of Religion, University of Denver, Conference on the social implications of the transformation of our culture, and the issues which must be faced in society, as development this study volume for the Conference, "The Christian Corrective."

Dr. Nels F. S. Ferre, Professor of Philosophical Theology, Vanderbilt University, examined the arts in terms of the theological perspective in an address on Thursday morning, and that evening was given to religion and the arts: symphonic music, directed by Russell Ames Cook, Music Department, Princeton University; drama, "The Boy With a War," which uses the mediums of music and the dance as well as drama to convey its message; and a film, "Christ Among the Primitives."

On New Year's Eve a Watch Night Communion was conducted by Bishop Matthew W. Clair. On New Year's Day thought was centered on the individual, as Dr. Ralph W. Sockman, Minister of Christ Church-Methodist—New York City, developing the meaning of the personal transformation through Christ. In the evening a panel considered the transformation of purpose on the college campus. On this panel were: Bishop Donald H. Tippet, Paul Deas, Jr., Director of United Ministry to Students and Instructor in Religion, Boston University; Jameson Jones Editor of CONCERN (Methodist Youth publication), and a student in the Vanderbilt School of Religion, and Everett Tilson, Lecturer in Hebrew and Instructor in Old Testament, Vanderbilt University.

On the final morning of the Conference, Dr. Harold A. Ehrensperger, Faculty Member, Boston University School of Religion, summarized the various phases of the theme and related them to the Conference as a whole, in an address, "The Transformed Society." Each morning began with a worship service relevant to the day's work, which was followed by small fellowship groups made up entirely of student delegates. Other similar groups were composed of adult counselors and leadership. Bible study groups met every afternoon, under adult resource leader-in a quiet, dignified ceremony attended only by members of the immediate families and intimate friends.

Rev. L. C. Vereen, Farmville Methodist minister and pastor of the bride, and Rev. Richard L. West, Fountain Baptist minister, the bridegroom's pastor, officiated at the double ring ceremony which was performed before a wedding scene of white flowers, greenery and lighted white tapers.

ship. Creative interest groups convened every afternoon, to give to various interests of the Student Movement a quick and semi-inspirational examination. These were repeated each day, giving the delegates an opportunity to attend four different ones in the course of the Conference.

The tempo of the Conference was dynamic, and its concern was with our Protestant convictions as to the way Christ affects our world, our relationship to Him, what is permanent in our culture, what the Christian perspective is, and what are our possibilities within that perspective.

Students attending the Conference from East Carolina College were: Willa Dean Lindsay, Clinton; Patsy Davis, Raleigh; Charlie Bedford, Pikeville; Bobby Mann, Newport. These four will present the theme of the Conference in the Class for College students on Sunday morning, Jan. 10, at 9:45 at Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church.

They will also conduct a panel discussion at Vespers at 6:00 p. m. on Sunday, at the Methodist Student Center.

New Look For New Year Calls For Diet

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Fashion Editor
Dieting will be the most popular pastime of 1954.

Women who hope to squeeze into the new skin-tight Empire sheaths can afford no extra bulk around the middle. Girdling will help some, but not enough, because as many of us have discovered with dismay, if you squeeze your girth in at one place it has to pop out somewhere else. And in the new clothes designers are cooking up for the new year, there is no place for a bulge to hide.

The newest silhouette, as seen in suits and dresses, hugs the figure from hemline to bustline. Jackets are likely to be the briefest of boleros, ending just below the bust, where they meet the high-riding skirts, stretched snugly around the rib cage.

No Room for Bulges
The area from bust to waistline is where any hint of a rubber tire must be erased. And it looks like a tough year ahead for purveyors of bread, potatoes and hot-fudge sundaes—that is, if feminine will power holds out.

As always, of course, there are those women who would rather be comfortable than fashionable, and for these there are a few full-skirted dresses about, with soft and concealing draperies above and below the belt. But the highstyle silhouette definitely is for string beans.

Those who feared the return of knee-length skirts in 1954 may relax, however. It seems that Christian Dior's July 1953 bombshell, which panicked the Paris fashion press, was merely a mid-summer prank. After a welter of protests and denials, the new skirt length as advocated by Dior and most other dressmakers on both sides of the Atlantic is merely one inch shorter than that of a year ago.

The general idea of the 1954 "look" is that of a flower swaying on a long stem. If you can picture yourself as a long-stemmed American Beauty (without thorns, natch) you're all set. The stem is the narrow sheath skirt extending at least six inches above the natural waistline and fitting like the paper on the wall. The blossom is the rounded bodice or jacket, extending from bust to shoulders. All lines are curved at the top in the new silhouette.

Sleeves are cut on rounded lines, with no shoulder seams, the greatest width being half-way between shoulder and elbow. All kinds of ingenious devices are employed to give a curving line to the area from collarbone to just below the bust. Some designers use drapery, others achieve the effect by interlinings which mold the fabric to the desired shape, even when the dress is on a hanger.

This new shapeliness of clothes is a boon to thin girls, who can acquire graceful curves merely by putting on one of the new garments.

But it's tough for the overweight.

Fabulous Fabrics
Fabrics will make the biggest fashion news of 1954. There are unbelievably beautiful new suitings made in the smoothest, lightest blends of silk and wool. There are nubby and handsome silk tweeds and cottons so smooth they look and feel like silk. There are silk linens in clear and lovely colors, and there are linen tweeds as handsome as their woolen counterparts. Most fabrics are designed to look like what they aren't—silks to look like wool, cottons to look like silk, linens to look like tweed, and wools to look like gossamer veils.

Synthetics also are present in the new fashion picture, developed into new blends and weaves with greater versatility and refinement than before. Blends of nylon and cotton, for instance, will be used in many resort and summer fashions, with telling effect. Dacron and Orion also have come of age, as manufacturers have discovered the best ways of handling them in blends or alone.

The silk coat and the silk suit will be prominent in the 1954 Easter Parade. The return of the black or navy taffeta or faille fitted coat for spring is one of the highlights of the coming spring season. Often these dressy coats will be seen with crisp white linen pique collars (in most cases buttoned in for easy laundering).

Loose, straight coats also are in the picture in both silks and wools and the brief shrug jacket in pastel fleeces is still an important and versatile fashion, adapting itself to day or evening wear.

Headliner Necklines
Necklines get particular attention from designers in the spring lineup. Suit collars are likely to stand away from the neck drooping slightly in back. Some are cut low and open, others have a "picture-frame" effect. The wide boat neckline is popular in all categories—suits, coats and dresses. Often it is framed with a small, mandarin-type collar, framing the face and neck. Some coats have wide white collars, others achieve caplet effects through outside collars.

Hats will be small, flat and tilted forward, according to latest predictions from Paris. Crisp little veils will soften the somewhat severe effect.

Shoes will be merely a few narrow strips of leather attached to a thin sole and French heel, as the popularity of the open, fragile look continues. These, of course, should be confined to afternoon and evening wear. For street wear with tailored suits the shell pump still is tops, low cut, but with closed toe and heel. And for the younger generation ballet-type flats still will be popular.

Gloves will be more important and longer to meet the pushed-up sleeves. The palest possible pastels will be seen in gloves of fine kidskin, doekin and women fabric. Silk prints will be important in both suits and dresses for spring; the prints often being in several shades of the same color in a monotonous effect. Thus they will appeal to many women who dislike large, splashy prints.

Furs on Silk
Fur trimmings will be seen on many suits and dresses next spring—little mink collars add a luxury note to many silk or light-weight wool suits and costumes. Fox cuffs also are used.

Evening dresses are about evenly divided between short and long. The important ball gowns, of course, are floor length, with vast draped skirts and fitted bodices, either strapless or with camisole straps. Accompanying styles often supply a covered-up look, if desired.

The costume again looks like one of the most popular outfits of spring, because of its versatility. The low-cut dress with cover-up jacket has become a must in most women's wardrobes, since it permits one to start out in the morning prepared for any occasion of the day or evening. With the jacket, it is a tailored street costume. When the jacket is removed, the dress goes on to cocktails or dinner. Business women, especially, find this all-purpose costume indispensable.

While the sheath silhouette predominates the spring picture for grown-ups, juniors and teen-agers still go for the crinolined full-skirted look, often wearing as many as four petticoats to hold out wide skirts. Such styles, of course, require the slim waistline of the very young to look their best. And even junior houses add a few sheath dresses and skirts to their lines.

The new clothes have an appeal that will impel many women to whip their figures into shape in order to wear them. And this should make everybody happy—the manufacturers, the retailers, the beauty salons, the life insurance companies and the girls themselves, who are going to adore being thin once more.

On Friday afternoon Misses Helen Stokes, Marty Hadley, Edwin Me-Mullan, Frances Greene, Terry Flanagan and Shirley Saleed entertained at a linen shower at the Stokes home on Elizabeth Street, as a courtesy to Mrs. Jake K. Higgs.

Mrs. W. I. Skinner and Mrs. R. G. Stokes Sr. of Lynchburg, Va. poured tea from a table, covered with a cut work cloth and centered with an attractive floral arrangement of white flowers. A bridal motif of green and white was carried out in the appointments.

The honored guest was the recipient of many lovely gifts of linen.

A Move Long Needed In Pitt

The knowledge that Pitt County Commissioners and health officials are taking concrete steps to construct a County Health Center should come as good news to the people of Pitt.

The need for such a center in the county has long been recognized by many local citizens. For many years the local Health Department has been moved from pillar to post in cramped quarters. Several years ago its facilities were greatly expanded in the Tucker Building after other offices were moved to the County Office building which was formerly Pitt General Hospital.

Even with its facilities expanded, it has been evident that the quarters occupied by the Pitt County Health Department were not adequate to permit the department to carry out its public health program as it needed to.

It Would Be Fine If It Could Be Done

It caused a fight in a German bear hall, but the sentiment expressed to a communist by a German prisoner of war just returned from Russia might well express the feeling toward communists in many countries.

Asked by his communist friend what he was going to do now that he was free, the former prisoner replied:

"To work hard for the next four months so that I can buy you a railroad ticket—to Russia."

The communist, who evidently did not like the idea at all, promptly punched the returnee in the nose.

There are in the United States those whose allegiance is to the Kremlin rather than to Uncle Sam. They do what they can to undermine the federal government, and destroy the peace and freedom which is here. They assert the life of the American people is horrible under the American government. Yet, by far the vast majority of them would resist to the last ditch any attempt to send them to Russia. They know full well life in the United States even for a communist is far better than life in Russia.

Yet, it would be nice if by some means it were possible to bundle up all the people in this country who love communism more than they do freedom, and send them to Russia.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
SPIRIT OF BROTHERHOOD

"Hello, Kid!" The speaker was an American soldier in Korea and the person to whom he spoke was a 17-year-old Korean armed with a letter from his English teacher to an American colonel, asking that he might be given employment as a servant. The colonel let the youngster have the bad news that he needed no more servants at that time.

As the young Korean turned to leave, the soldier said, "Come into the kitchen for a minute, Kid, and eat some of this grub so we won't have to toss it out."

The sergeant piled the boy with questions, and when he had finished said to him rather gruffly, "Well, if you are going to stay here, you will have to work, so get busy on those windows." This was the beginning of many happy months with the mess sergeant. Later, Colonel King took up the young Korean and helped him get a college scholarship. The colonel became "Pop" to the boy.

The Korean is now in one of the seminars studying for the ministry. "Soon I shall realize," he says, "the dream I have had since I was a boy under the Japanese occupation—to tell the warring world the story of the love of God."

Brotherhood extends over the whole earth. Only the rare souls recognize it and take it to their hearts.

Recession Is Well Advertised

WASHINGTON—The "1954 recession" has had enough advance advertising to kill it off or accelerate its arrival. Never before in our history—and this is a significant economic departure—have the so-called experts devoted so much talk and thought to a possible business decline, with its far-reaching implications here and abroad.

The authorities, public and private, are sharply divided over the effect of this development. One group, consisting largely of industrial and political interests, argue that morbid concentration on this subject can "wish" or "psychologize" us into bad times.

In their opinion, it will make producers and purchasers fearful, resulting in a buying slump, liquidation of inventories, factory shutdowns and spreading unemployment. They insist that a "wishful" downturn has already occurred in electric appliances, radio, television, household goods and automobiles.

DISAGREEMENT ON RECESSION—The professional economists and statisticians reply angrily that this attitude smacks of Washington's laissez faire attitude during the "Coolidge boom." Then the Administration tried to talk itself into continued prosperity by predicting several times a week that it was "just around the corner." They think they note a similar indifference at the Capital today.

The two schools also disagree on the extent of the present or any future "recession." The classicists believe that it is already upon us, and that it will develop during 1954 into a really serious slump. Some foresee the largest number of unemployed since before World War II, possibly 5,000,000. It is now 1,428,000. They are extremely pessimistic.

The truth probably lies somewhere between these estimates. Both batch of experts have been wrong in the past.

MODERATE SETBACK ANTICIPATED—Washington anticipates a moderate setback, or what Administration advisers choose to describe as a "rolling ment to carry out its public health program as it needed to.

Under the resolution adopted by the Board of County Commissioners this week, Pitt County will make application for state and federal aid under the Hill-Burton Act to help defray the cost of building and equipping a new Health Center for the county. The resolution passed by the County Commissioners asserts the county will appropriate $32,599 as its share of the estimated $83,375 which the proposed center will cost.

The erection of a Health Center for Pitt County will fill one of the most pressing needs which presently faces the county in the way of public facilities. It indeed will be a wise and highly beneficial investment for the county if Pitt can obtain a new Health Center by obligating itself for 39.1 per cent of the total cost of the new facility.

In a great many respects, Pitt County has set the pace for progress among the several counties in this section of the state; but in the realm of adequate facilities for its health department, and the erection of health centers, other counties have moved ahead of Pitt. Beaufort, Martin, Greene, Edgecombe, Nash, Wilson and other counties have constructed new Health Centers.

Pitt indeed will be pushing ahead to better public health and better service to its people if county officials carry out with the least possible delay their proposal to obtain a new Health Center for the county.

Dimes Begin March To Fight Disease

Dimes have begun their annual march into the treasury for the Pitt County chapter of the National Infantile Paralysis Foundation as for other chapters of the Foundation across the land.

Literally millions of people in the 48 states will contribute their dimes and dollars this January as in past years to help fight the dreaded disease which each year takes its toll of lives and limbs.

Last year Pitt County contributed $12,-$65.97 to the March of Dimes campaign, representing the largest amount contributed to the program in a single year by the citizens of the county. Yet, by comparison with other counties of less population, Pitt citizens did not contribute as much per capita as many other surrounding counties.

In Pitt last year, the gifts of the March of Dimes averaged 19 cents for each of the 63,000 people of the county. March of Dimes campaigns in other counties brought average per capita donations of 27 cents in Greene; 26 cents in Wilson; 31 cents in Lenoir; and 28 cents in Jones.

Through its programs of research and funds provided for victims of polio, the National Foundation of Infantile Paralysis helps individuals and communities twelve months every year. January is the one month of the year when the Foundation calls upon the people for financial aid in order that the fight against infantile paralysis can be continued.

adjustment." They estimate that the drop will settle between 5 or 15 per cent. But they add that such a fall in national production and income would still make 1954 the second best year in economic annals, ranking only behind 1953.

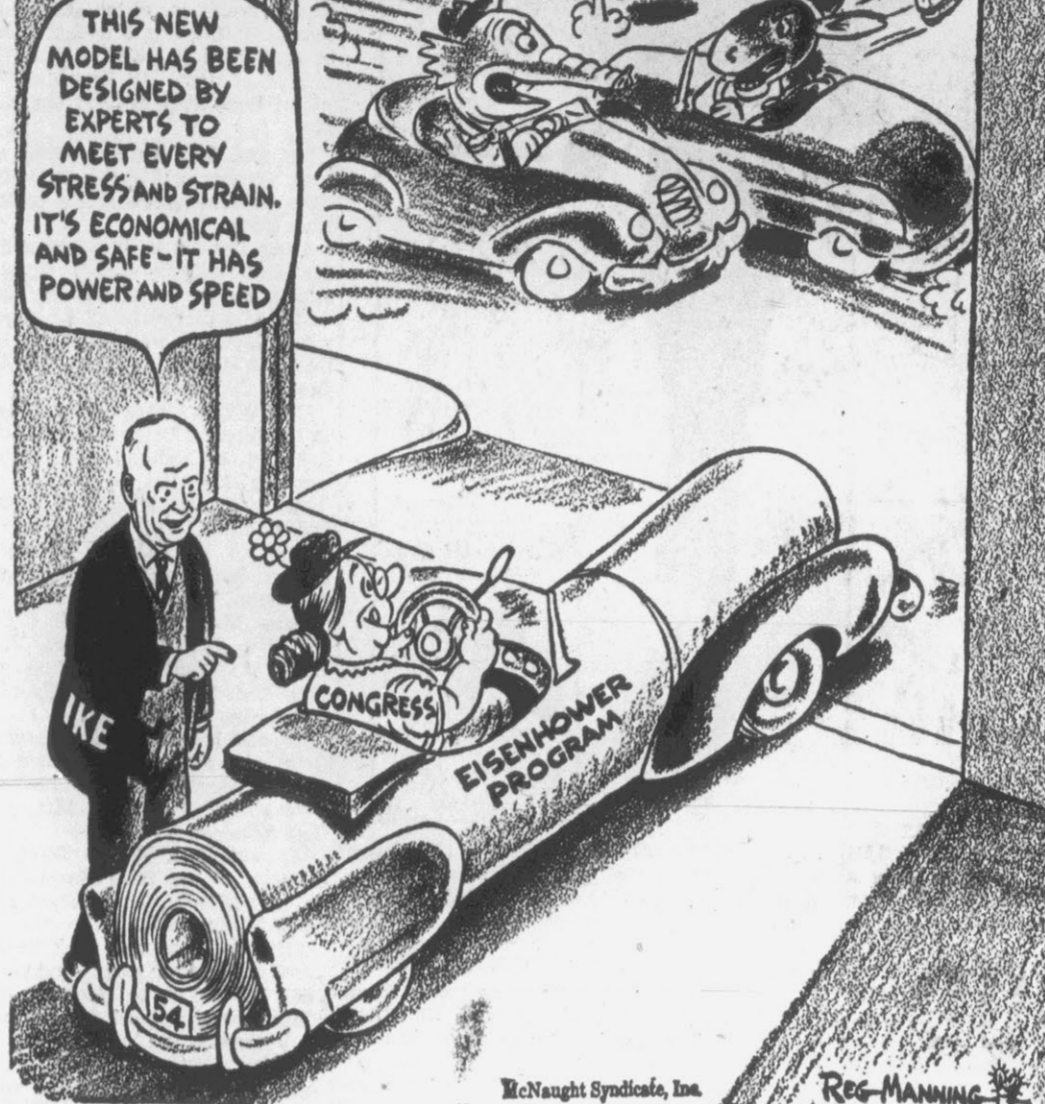

The more optimistic count on reduced taxes, record savings, lower prices, broader and more generous pension coverage and maintenance of fairly high wage levels to offset any slow-up in business activity. The heads of many of our greatest corporations make this forecast. Unless frightened into a buying boycott, they think the people will continue to demand a large volume of heavy and light goods.

KEENER COMPETITION—They concede that there may be a "pinch" in some lines. Falling prices on clothing and food will mean keener competition, forcing merchants and manufacturers to do more rugged selling and advertising. Postholiday sales reflect an awareness of these new pressures.

Workers must produce more plentifully and efficiently to hold their jobs, which will be tighter. Wages may be cut slightly, especially where they are tied to cost of living indexes, and overtime will disappear. Farm organizations must devise new methods and appeals for their products in order to dispose of surpluses and 1953-1954 crops soon to reach the market.

BACKLOG OF BILLIONS—Finally, there is a big backlog of government spending for national defense and foreign aid. This consists of many billions appropriated in past years, but not yet spent. Industry plans repairs and expansion equalling the records of all but the early World War II years, when munitions plants mushroomed.

Neither President Eisenhower nor Congress will rock the ship of state with novel legislation or by proclamations of a crisis every day. Ike will strive to minimize domestic and world tensions. He will use all the government's power and resources to keep a politically disastrous depression away from the White House door.

Somebody Told Me

Opportunity In South Rhodesia

Today's column is a continuation of an interview with Lloyd Mills, Greenville tobaccoist who has spent the last four seasons as a sales supervisor on the market in Southern Rhodesia, South Africa. And Lloyd is planning to return in March and in the future. He is in business there in addition to his warehouse position and is expanding his business enterprises.

Lloyd says, "Many Americans think of South Africa in terms of wild animals and jungles. But during the four seasons that I've spent here I haven't seen a snake, baboons, hippos, crocodiles and a few elephants."

Southern Rhodesia has a temperature about like that in Florida.

It's a mountainous country, about 6,000 feet above sea level.

In describing the raising of tobacco Lloyd pointed out an interesting contrast to our situation here: In Southern Rhodesia tobacco fields have to be guarded by men with guns because of the baboon problem. The baboon isn't interested in the tobacco leaf, but instead he likes the pith in the stalk. But the problem of guarding the fields isn't so great, considering the fact that labor is plentiful and costs only $7 a month.

Lloyd says that Southern Rhodesian white collar workers put in far fewer hours on the job than we do here in America. Stores open at eight and close at noon. At 2 o'clock they reopen, but only until five. On Saturday they all close at noon. "I'd say," he said, "that they work about half as much as we do over here."

"A far greater percentage of people participate in sports over there than do here. I mean sports like golf, cricket, or polo. As for me, I spent the small amount of spare time I have playing golf or going to movies."

Farming in Southern Rhodesia is not nearly as competitive as it is here, Lloyd points out. And the crops bring a price that compares favorably with ours.

Lloyd emphasizes that there's no place like home, but as long as it can be a seasonal job he plans to continue as a sales supervisor in South Africa.

And I thank you.

What Other Editors Are Thinking

WHY THE GIs STAY BEHIND (Henderson Dispatch)

Analysis of background of the scores of more of American prisoners of war in Korea who have refused to return to liberty in a free world throws some light upon their decision. Records show that all of them are young, some not even old enough to vote. They never experienced and never knew what responsibility was. Some came from broken homes, where divorce had divided their families in earlier life, and never had the benefit of love and guidance of a father or mother who really cared. None got to college, though a few had finished high school. Some even were churchgoers. But few had ever shown any interest in society or government, and had little conception of what freedom is, and which they had always taken for granted.

In other words, it probably is as sensible a conclusion as any that environment made as great a contribution as any factor in their submission to false arguments, although many others who came from equally as squalid surroundings did not yield to such brain-washing. The difference is in the individual and his personal reaction to life as he had known it before becoming a soldier. You find that condition even in society in this country. Some people who may not possess the desire or the will to make something of themselves, and who thus fail to advance as they see those about them doing, turn sour on the world and are ready to wash their hands of government, and pretty generally of everybody and everything about them. Their minds constitute fertile soil in which the seeds of Communism may be sown, and may grow. That is at least one type of individual who here at home embraces Red ideologies.

There will, of course, come a day of reckoning and of disillusionment for these youngsters who elect to stay behind the Iron Curtain. Belief in that probability is what makes mothers of these men grieve over what is happening to them. But it may be too late to reconsider when they wake up eventually in the pitiable plight they have let themselves in for.

At least they can never say they were denied the opportunity to return to freedom. Life is a Communist political and social economy has been pictured to them in glowing colors, with all manner of promises made—mostly for propaganda purposes. The rise is working for the Reds, who are making the most of their opportunity.

Study of background throws much light on the decision of these young men. In the last analysis, the fault lies back here at home in the fact that a score of young Americans were not trained in early life as they should have been in the knowledge of what their own country means to them and to all Americans, and that they lacked the stamina that liberty imparts to those who possess it.

Traffic Offenders Legally Required Appear In Court

PAY-OFF—There is no legal way for a motorist who has been formally charged with a traffic offense to post bond or pay-out of his trouble without personally appearing in court.

It is just as much a violation of the rules for a law enforcement officer to accept money to post a bond or pay a fine as it is for the officer to take the money and put it in his own pocket. That's what Ed Scheidt, State Commissioner of motor vehicles, and Tom Davis, Raleigh chief of police, say—and they ought to know.

The unequivocal statements of the top level law enforcement officers came in response to questions about rumored instances of highway patrolmen and city cops accepting cash from traffic violators for delivery to proper authorities and solely as a courtesy to the traveler. There was no suggestion that the officers were expected to profit in any way by the transaction.

INCIDENTS—There was one incident reported of a motorist being arrested for driving 65 miles an hour in a low speed zone. He admitted the excessive speed and wanted the patrolman to take money to post bond with the proper court. He didn't think of it as offering a bribe, he had no idea the officer would pocket the money, and he couldn't understand why the patrolman could not render that "simple service."

Then there was the other fellow who was ticketed for overtime parking, knew he owed a dollar and was ready to pay it. He was in a hurry and he could see nothing wrong in giving the ticket and the dollar to the officer on the beat for delivery to the traffic violations desk at the city hall when he checked out that evening.

To the average motorist these incidents might seem of little consequence, and there would be appreciation for the services rendered by the officers. Both Scheidt and Davis figuratively "hit the ceiling" when asked about their attitude toward such conduct.

REGULATIONS—When a motorist is arrested or given a ticket for any traffic violation he must go to court. The arresting or citing officer has no right to cancel the ticket, to act as messenger boy with bond or fine money, or in any other way act as a court or agent of a court in letting the culprit off.

Scheidt said that sometimes the highway patrolmen took arrested motorists before a committing magistrate, and the magistrate would fix bond, then permit the motorist to deposit additional sums on the horizon to cover usual fines and costs when the case was called later. The commissioner emphasized, however, that such action was taken by the magistrate—not by the patrolman.

Davis said his traffic officers had no right to accept money under any circumstances, or even to void or cancel a ticket once issued. If the officer realizes he made a mistake, or if the recipient of the ticket can justify the violation, the officer may note that data on the tag. But the motorist still must go to city hall to have it voided.

the officer who offered to take bond or fine money to the court?"

At different times and without either knowing the other had been queried the answers were prompt, almost identical and equally emphatic: "He would be reprimanded and probably suspended."

Sure, we require our men to be courteous, added Scheidt. But courtesy does not extend to the point of subjecting themselves to accusation of pocketing money or relieving traffic violators of the reasonable necessity to personally answer the charges against them.

REVENUE—Report on State revenue for December and for the first half of the current fiscal year indicate receipts just about in line with budget estimates. The relatively small increases over comparable periods of last year are very close to the increased appropriations made for the carrying on of State business.

If the trend continues through the next six months the State will come to the end of the first fiscal year of the Unstead administration with the budget more nearly in balance than for a long time. In that connection it must be remembered that excessive surplus means as much unbalance as does a deficit. For nearly 20 years the budget has been out of balance on the surplus side.

Business Today

Customers Like It

By ELMER ROESSNER

An evaluation of the importance of charge accounts in increasing retail sales is presented by Albert J. Wood of Philadelphia in the latest issue of "Credit World." He warns, moreover, that while downtown stores debate whether they are worth the trouble, their suburban competitors are stealing the march on them with bank-handled group charge account plans.

A compilation of recent surveys of 8,000 consumers in five major trading localities reaffirms earlier studies indicating the powerful pull charge accounts exert in repeat sales and in establishing the store as a favorite shopping place.

For instance, in store interviews 57 per cent of those having an account exclusively with that store made purchases and 82 per cent of those with accounts in that store and others bought. But only 43 per cent of those with no charge accounts at all and 37 per cent of shoppers with accounts only in other stores bought something.

Preference studies were also significant. Of the charge customers 60 per cent preferred the dress department in the store where they were interviewed to those in other stores; 41 per cent millinery; 44 per cent, women's shoes; 44 per cent, men's wear; 47 per cent, children's wear, and 28 per cent, furniture.

Thirty-eight per cent of cash customers preferred the dress department in the store; 28 per cent, millinery; 27 per cent, women's shoes; 24 per cent, men's wear; 28 per cent, children's wear, and 11 per cent, furniture.

One important question still needs answering: Do charge accounts encourage shoppers to buy in the store or do shoppers who prefer a particular store open an account there?

The effectiveness of credit service also varies from one store to another and such factors as to charge accounts, cost of maintaining a credit department, the number of defaults and what the competition is doing must be taken into account in each individual case.

But whether charge accounts draw sales or not is by now a dead issue. The important factor is whether they work well enough for each store.

Suburban retailers attempt to establish multi-store charge accounts with the aid of banks is indicative of the importance of credit, as Mr. Wood points out. But more results are needed before it is known if they are a real threat to downtown stores.

So far, few such plans have been offered—and the additional problems in establishing and promoting such plans, tend to make them less of an asset than the service offered by large, in-town stores.

APPLES SELL BEST IN LARGER BAGS
Recent tests show apples sell better when prepackaged in large bags and displayed with apples in bulk, the Department of Agriculture reports.

Five-pound bags increased sales by two-thirds as compared with apples displayed in bulk alone. Three-pound bags also increased sales, but not so much as the larger package.

SWADDLED IN STYLE
The 4,000,000 babies predicted for this year may be competing for the "best dressed" titles.

Four years ago the youngest generation blossomed out in pastel blue, pink and yellow diapers. Then in 1951 dotted diapers made their appearance in nurseries and bassinets.

Now the more fashionable young 'uns will be seen in rose-patterned diapers. The maker (Curly), adds the final touch by including a rose sachet.

Conversation Balances Suggested

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—The average wife complains her husband does not talk enough at home. The average employer complains that same husband spends too much time exercising his vocal cords at the office.

Both the wife and the boss are absolutely right. Naturally. But what can be done about it? How can the boss get this husband to gab less while he's on the job, and the wife make him give with a little more conversation after he comes home and takes off his shoes?

The problem as I see it is quite simple. The hired hands come to work full of overnight woes they are eager to pour into any ear. All day long they lope from desk to desk telling their troubles.

But when they return at evening to their little castles and the good wife begs "Tell me what's new at the office?" Well, what can they reply? They don't know anything new, because they have been so busy bragging about their own problems they haven't had a chance to listen to the other fellow. Besides, they don't want to talk. Their jawbones are worn out already.

Now, here is a simple, easy way to solve this problem in a way to please everybody concerned—husband, boss, and wife. You do it with cards.

When the employees arrive for work, they are handed cards and are allotted 15 minutes in which to write down all the interesting things that have happened to them since the day before. The cards are filled out in quadruplicate. One goes to the boss, the other is put on "condition of staff" bulletin board, located by the office water cooler and in the men's and ladies' rest rooms.

Here is a typical card:
Name of employee—Joseph X. Blow Jr.
State of health—"Dreamed I was shipwrecked last night and woke up feeling seasick. Took sodium bicarb. No help. Any suggestions? May have to go home before noon if don't get better." State of wife's health—"She was born tired."

And the children?—"My little feller sure said a cute thing last night. I was sitting there reading the paper, and all of a sudden he pointed at a picture and said 'glub, glub, da-da' and he isn't even three years old yet. How do you like that?"

Family finances—"Paid last installment on my car this week. Buying new car next week if I can make old one hold out until then."

Other problems—"New neighbors moved in yesterday. Look pretty crummy to me, but too early yet to tell whether they'll be real problem."

Remarks—"Saw dogfight between collie and alreidae on way to work this morning, but don't know how it came out as I was driving through red light at time and couldn't stop. First alreidae I've seen in years. Had one as boy, though. Good dog, too."

Suggestions to improve office efficiency—"I still say it wouldn't break any hearts if they'd pass a little more money around in this place. Payday here is like standing in line at the posthouse."

The virtue of this "staff information" card system is that it would have the time wasted on gossip in the ordinary office roughly two-thirds of the work day. Each time an employe went to the water cooler or the rest room he could read a few more cards.

He would be satisfied himself because he would know that by posting his card he could let everyone in the office know his woes, whereas, by the old vocal method he couldn't be sure of reaching more than half of them every day. And he would go home at night bursting with fresh gossip to tell his wife.

In fact, the only thing wrong with this system is that a wife might have a hard time shutting her husband up. But at least that would be a new problem for her—and love will always find a way to solve that one.

acutely disturbed by decreases in income and gasoline taxes in November are heartened by increase reported for December.

Taking the six months periods it is noted that general fund revenue is up this year 3.03 per cent over 1952, and highway revenue is up 4.33 per cent. Considering all collections made by the revenue and motor vehicles departments the six months figures show a gain of $3,798,918

Secrecy In Reuther Probe

DETROIT (AP)—Police kept a tight lid of secrecy on their movements today in the continuing investigation of the Walter Reuther 1948 assassination attempt.

A motive for the 5-year-old ambush shooting of the CIO leader also remained an official secret 24 hours after criminal charges of conspiracy and assault were brought against four men.

No positive signs were present of an immediate additional 'break' to follow yesterday's sensation.

At the same time police were reported watching all Detroit's points of entry for the possible return to the city of the sole missing defendant—Santo (Sam) Perrone.

Perrone, 56, Sicilian-born big money dealer in postwar scrap metal contracts who was once convicted of labor racketeering, was reported from one source to be on his way here from an undisclosed city. There was no official confirmation, however.

Perrone, nearly illiterate as a witness before Senate crime investigators two years ago, was one of a motley group named in the charges.

Accused with him were his college-educated son-in-law, Carl Renda, 35, also a fortune hunter in scrap metal; Peter Lombardo, 51, inmate of Leavenworth Penitentiary as a carrier of counterfeit money, and Clarence Jacobs, 48, Tecumseh, Ont., television shop owner once involved in alleged alien smuggling.

The formal charges said the four men—and four "John Does"—did "feloniously, wickedly and with malice aforethought" try to kill Reuther at his home the night of April 20, 1948. A shotgun charge was fired at Reuther through his kitchen window.

The next year a similar attempt was made on the life of Victor Reuther, a co-official in the CIO president's Auto Workers Union. Rewards totaling more than $200,000 are outstanding in both incidents.

Renda and Jacobs were arraigned on the charges yesterday—the former in Detroit and the latter in Windsor, Ont. Renda supplied $25,000 bond for his release pending examination Jan. 14. Jacobs was remanded to jail without bond.

Meantime, Wayne County Prosecutor Gerald K. O'Brien said flatly, "We definitely have a motive." But he refused to disclose it.

O'Brien also said he did not know whether the Walter and Victor shootings had any connection.

In the Essex County Court at Windsor a letter from O'Brien was read which said "Jacobs participated in the actual shooting (of Walter)."

Later O'Brien said, however, that he did not mean that Jacobs was the triggerman. He refused to say exactly what he did mean.

Jacobs pleaded ignorance of anything concerned with the case. He was arraigned on Canadian extradition warrant. He will be given an international extradition hearing Jan. 14.

Phantoms Beat New Bern, 64-48

Bobby Howell, Pat Sawyer Lead Greenville To First Triumph In Northeastern Conference Play

By WAYNE BISHOP
Reflector Sports Writer

Burning the nets with a torrid third quarter point production, the high-geared Greenville Phantoms rolled over the New Bern Bears 64-48 in the Greenville gym last night.

New Bern jumped off into a quick 9 to 3 lead before the G-men began clicking. At that point senior forward, Walter Perkins dumped in two layups, Clark Noble came a hook shot, and Pat Sawyer potted a one-hander in rapid succession to give the Greensies a 12-11 first quarter lead.

In the second quarter both teams ripped the cords with deadly accuracy. A tap-in by big Bob Howell gave Coach Farley's crew a 30-28 halftime lead.

Greensies Get Hot

After the intermission it was all Greenville, however.

Pat Sawyer swished in two long one handers before the Bears could set up their defense. After a New Bern score, George Sideris dropped a long set shot and Bob Howell hit a free throw. Sophomore center Harold Edwards then hit two consecutive jump shots and the Phantoms led 40-30. After that the Bears came out of their weaving offense and began to fire pot shots at the goal from the outside only to see the Greensies pull farther and farther away. At the end of the third period the Green Terror led by 49 to 35.

In the final period Bob Howell took the brunt of the scoring by sinking seven points as he and his Greenie mates finished off the Bears. When the final whistle blew, the Bears found themselves on the short end of the score for the fourth time this season. They have won ten games.

For the Green Phantoms it was the first conference game of the year. Coach Farley's five now own an overall record of five wins and two losses for the year.

A large factor in the Greenville win was the stopping of New Bern's spectacular one-two scoring punch, consisting of Robbie Kennell and Tom Caldwell. This dandy duo had been averaging around 30 points per game until last night's game, when they canned only 16 points between them.

Howell Leads Scoring

Bob Howell again led the scoring for the Phantoms, a feat he had pulled twice before in this season. Scoring all his points on taps-ins and a deadly jump shot, the jumping junior flipped in a total of 18 points.

Guard Pat Sawyer was runner-up to Howell on the Phantoms with 12 points, most of which came on a long one-handed set shot.

The next Phantoms game will be played in Washington tomorrow night in another Northeastern conference tussle.

Winterville Five Beats Maury High

Winterville High School basketballers won a doubleheader at the Winterville gym Tuesday night from Maury.

The local girls, led by Jean Little with 14 and Phyllis Jones with 11, won easily 57-18 while the boys posted a 75-41 win.

Lex Keeter with 24 points and Jimmy Stocks with 16 were high scorers for the local boys. Beaman got 16 for the losers.

This was the Winterville girls' eighth straight win and their eighth in nine games this season. The local boys have won seven out of nine this year.

Tomorrow night (Friday) the Winterville teams play Belvoir-Falkland in Winterville.

Bethel Defeats Beaulaville Five

Bethel High School's cage teams chalked up two wins Tuesday night at the expense of Beaulaville's basketballers. The Bethel girls took the opening contest 56-37 with the boys winning the second 53-38.

Mary Jo Wynne paced Bethel with 31 points while F. Hall, with 19, led Beaulaville.

In the boys' contest Beaulaville battled the more experienced Bethel team to a 19-19 halftime count but fell behind in the second half when Michael House began to hit. House ended the evening with 19 points, high for both teams. Bostic and Dobson, with 12 each, paced Beaulaville.

Grifton Cagers Split Contests

GRIFTON — Belvoir-Falkland High and Grifton High split a basketball doubleheader here Tuesday night.

In the girls game Grifton won 43-31, but Belvoir came back to take the feature game 73-62.

Dawn Smith with 19 and Colleen Braxton with 14 led the winning girls while Marlene Clark of Belvoir took high scoring honors of the night with 20 points.

In the boys contest Gene Harris had a field day in leading the winning Belvoir-Falkland boys with 31 points. Donald Koon with 19 points led the losers.

Grifton plays host to Stokes-Pactolus High School here Friday night.

North State Conference play comes back into the picture Saturday night in Memorial Gymnasium. East Carolina College's Pirates, sitting on top of the conference standings, take on Elon's Christians as the Bucs resume their conference warfare. The game will be the first loop contest for the Elon team.

The Pirates knocked off Belmont Abbey 101-83 Monday night for their fifth consecutive victory. It was the second time this year they have defeated the Crusaders. The other three victories came against conference opposition.

Big Bobby Hodges ran his scoring total for the year to 126 points to raise his average per game to 25.2 points. Forward Charlie Huffman hit 18 points for the fourth time in five games to 85 points for the five games. They will be starters again Saturday against Elon.

The Elon team is something of a question mark this season. Coach Doc Mathis lost four of his five starters plus one of the most valuable reserves on the team and is having to start almost from scratch this year so far as a first team is concerned.

Forward Jack Malloy is the only starter from the 1952-1953 Elon squad which won 25 and lost 11 games. He, however, is backed up by eight lettermen who have seen considerable Varsity duty.

Gone from last year's squad which went to the finals in both the North State and NAIA tournaments are forwards Ben Kendall, an All-Stater, and Husky Hall, center Deek Atkinson, and guards Jack Musten and Billy Hawkins. Hall, Musten, and Hawkins exhausted their eligibility while Atkinson and Kendall were lost to the armed services.

Even with their first team available last year, the Christians lost twice to East Carolina during the regular season and in the finals of the NAIA tournament. All but one of the three games were by rather decisive scores.

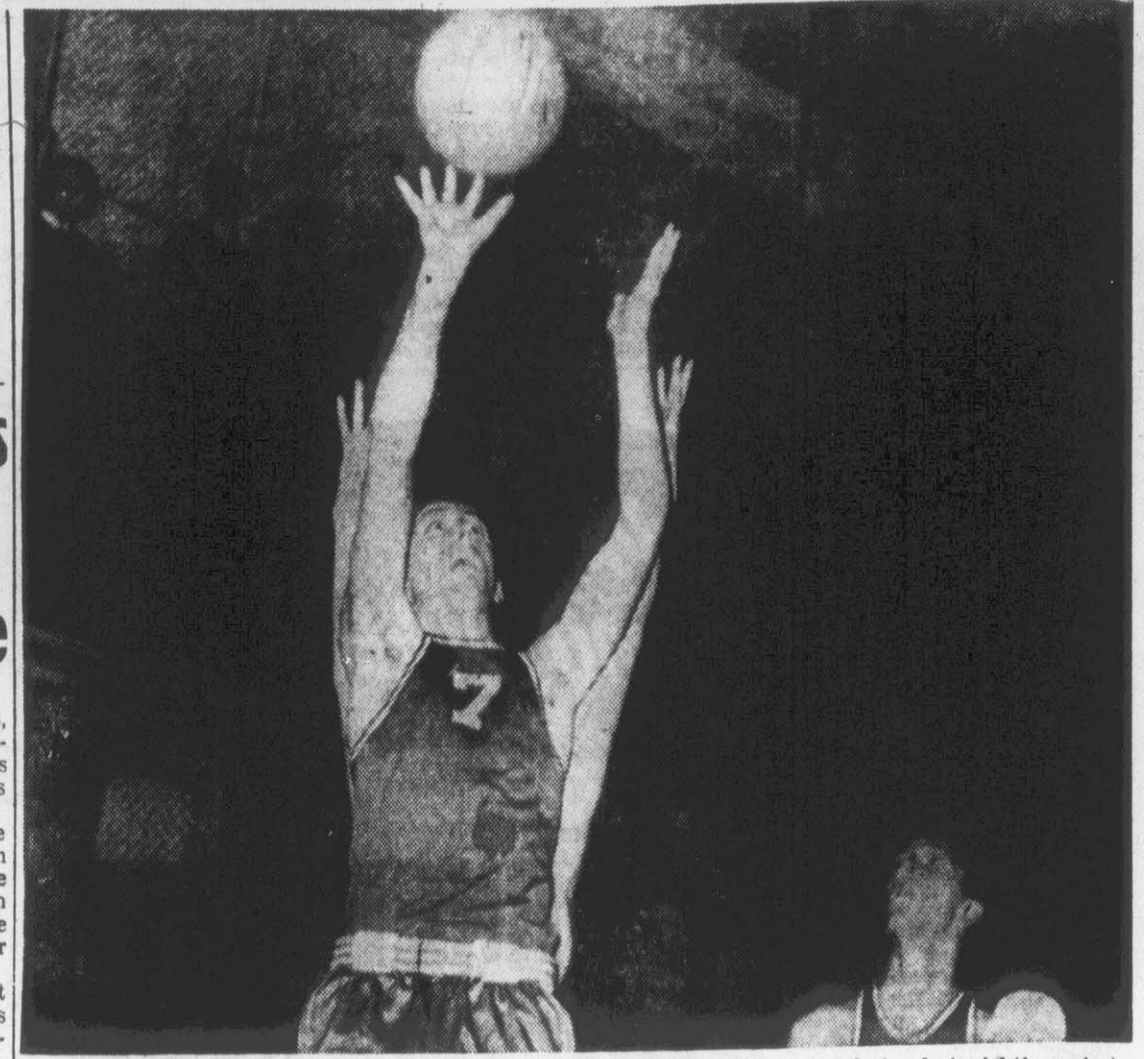

In Saturday's game, the Pirates figure to start Huffman and either Paul Jones or Don Harris at the forwards, Hodges at center, and Cecil Heath and J. C. Thomas at the guards. Jones started Monday against Belmont Abbey but Harris saw considerable action so either may get the starting nod Saturday from Coach Howard Porter.

The game with the Christians will be the first of ten consecutive conference games for the Pirates. Their next non-conference game will be February 10 when they meet McCrary's Eagles here in Greenville.

Gun Dog Trials End At Pinehurst

PINEHURST, N. C. — Gun dog events today ended the Pinehurst field trials here.

Earl of Chatham, a white and liver pointer, already has won two first places for two different owners. The Earl won the amateur all-age stake run Monday and Tuesday. The owner, Clarence Edwards of Chatham, Va., then sold the Earl to W. C. Jones of Franklin Va.

Ben Hogan Is Honored As Leading Athlete Of 1953

By BOB MYERS
PALM SPRINGS, Calif. — Golf wizard Ben Hogan seemed to get a genuine glow of pleasure out of his selection as America's outstanding male athlete of 1953, and in discussing the events of last year, unloaded a surprise.

Advised that he had been named the athlete of the year in the 23rd annual Associated Press poll, the third golfer in history to win the award, Hogan exclaimed: "That's wonderful — that's the biggest."

The 41-year-old Texan, as you know, scored a golden triple in '53 in capturing the Masters, the United States Open, for the fourth time, and the British Open.

Which gave him the biggest boot? "The U. S. Open," Ben replied, without hesitation.

Not the British crown, in his first attempt, and in view of his previous United States victories? "No," Hogan continued. "If I were to win the U. S. Open 50 times, I'd still get the biggest kick out of it. The British Open is a great tournament. But I just can't get it into my head that it is better than ours."

"The people over there think theirs is the best, and they should feel that way. Maybe I underestimate the world impact in winning the British Open. But we still think the U. S. Open is bigger."

Hogan, who spends the winters here as the resident professional at the select Tamarisk Country Club — at a most lucrative fee — plans much the same tournament program this year as last.

He'll play in the Masters, the Colonial in his hometown of Fort Worth and the National Open, as well as such pro-amateur events as the coming Palm Springs and Seminole tournaments.

Heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano was runner-up to Ben in the AP poll. Hogan received 67 first place votes and 229 points to Rocky's 12 firsts and 80 points.

Gene Sarazen became golf's first national winner in 1932, and Byron Nelson won the title in 1944-45, sandwiched in between a line of champions that includes Dizzy Dean, Joe Di Maggio, Jesse Owen, Joe Louis, Carl Hubbell, Tommy Harmon, Glenn Davis, Bob McWhitas, Don Budge and others.

Third place for 1953 went to jockey king Willie Shoemaker, followed by college football stars Johnny Lattner and Paul Giel, baseball Roy Campanella, track star Mel Whitfield, homerun hero Ted Williams and mile runner Wes Santee.

Trabert Beats Aussies' Ace

ADELAIDE — Tony Trabert, U. S. Davis Cup star from Cincinnati, crushed Australia's Ken Rosewall in straight sets today, 6-3 6-3, 6-2 to enter the final of the South Australian Tennis Championships.

Trabert's victory set the stage for another struggle between him and Lewis Hoad, 19-year-old Aus-

One Man Industry, Dick Powell, Is Acting Again

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Dick Powell, the one-man industry, is back to his old racket of acting these days, but he's still cooking on all burners.

There was a time when people thought all Dick could do was croon and make cinematic love to Ruby Keeler. Now there appears to be little he can't do in the entertainment field.

At present he is emoting with Debbie Reynolds in "Susan Slept Here," an assignment he accepted after Robert Mitchum turned it down. Dick has no qualms about performing in warmed-over Mitchum.

"Mitchum was right in turning down the part," said Powell. "He wasn't right for the role. The part calls for a man old enough to be Debbie's father. Mitchum is too young for that."

"As a matter of fact, I was offerred the role when Alex Gottlieb was producing the picture independently. I was too tied up at the time. Later Howard Hughes took over the property and wanted me to produce it. I decided against it. It's a cute picture but wouldn't advance me as a producer of my first film."

He expects his first production to be "The Long Wire," a Western about the stringing of the telegraph across the frontier. As stars, he hopes to have John Wayne, Jane Russell and Robert Mitchum. Well, he can hope, can't he? Dick, to whom nothing seems impossible, plans to direct the film as well as produce.

Among his other activities was the directing of "Caine Mutiny Court Martial," the highly successful stage version of the best seller. The show, which stars Henry Fonda, Lloyd Nolan and John Hodiak, will open in New York Jan. 20, and Powell hopes to be there. His presence may help quell the reports of an all-out feud between himself and certain members of the company.

"Sure, Henry and I had a little beef," he admitted. "You know how moody he can be. Well, we had a difference of opinion over how certain scenes should be played. He wanted certain cuts to be made and Herman Wouk who wrote the book and the play, wasn't available for a week or so. Herman is a very devout Jew and wouldn't work during the holidays."

"Henry got worried. He wanted certain comedy scenes to come out. He didn't give his curtain speech with the force I thought it required. So, rather than cause any more friction, I bowed out."

"Charles Laughton took over for the last five days of rehearsal. I saw the show after it opened and there were very few changes from how I left it."

That isn't all that Dick is involved in. He also produces and stars in half-hour dramas for the popular TV series Four Star Playhouse. He knocks one off every few weeks.

Weather Balloon Drops Near City

A miniature balloon with radio outfit from Fort Bragg, North Carolina, exploded and dropped on the H.L. Pruet farm on the Nichols Road, near Bell Arthur about noon yesterday.

John Frank Grant, a tenant on the farm who saw the balloon when it exploded and dropped its radio equipment to the ground, was quoted as saying he at first "thought the object was a flying saucer."

Lawrence Tyson 1004 Chestnut Street, Greenville, groundkeeper for the Pitt-Greenville Airport Commission, reported the balloon incident to the Daily Reflector. He said these radio balloons are sent up regularly from the U.S. Army base at Fort Bragg. They contain an inscription requesting the finder to report the find to Fort Bragg.

Church Grows, But Reluctantly

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP)—Leaders of the W-Road Chapel on the side of nearby Signal Mountain are somewhat worried about their claim to having the world's smallest church.

The little Baptist church used to measure 22 by 8 feet. However, a recently completed building program increased the size to 22 by 16 feet.

Average Sunday attendance is about 35 student pastor Leslie Speer says.

Patrol Releases December Report

Sgt. John Laws of Kinston, in his December report for District 4 (Pitt, Lenoir and Greene counties), states that the State Highway Patrol made 683 arrests for hazardous violations during the month, and that the majority of the arrests were for speeding—"the No. 1 Killer."

Arrests in Lenoir county during the month were 258; Pitt, 299, and Greene county, 126.

The State Highway Patrol investigated 73 accidents during the month—22 in Lenoir county, 40 in Pitt and 11 in Greene.

There were two traffic fatalities in the area during December—one in Lenoir and one in Pitt.

Traffic injuries totaled 26—four in Lenoir, 20 in Pitt and two in Greene county.

The report estimates the property damage at $40,600—$12,900 in Lenoir, $22,000 in Pitt, and $4,700 in Greene county.

Five Couples In Repeat Ceremony

The couples reaffirmed their marriage vows in a special ceremony. Each had been married 51 years or more.

Naval Inventory Is Whopping Job

BAYONNE, N.J. (AP)—The Naval Supply Depot here uses seven different electric machines and 66 workers to keep track of more than 185 million separate pieces of stock.

The largest items in charge of the Inventory Supervisor are moth-balled battleships. The smallest are optical screws, so tiny they aren't counted individually, but have to be weighed to determine the number.

Horses Learn To Use Snowshoes

VANCOUVER (AP)—Some horses have been taught to use snowshoes on northern British Columbia winter trails and Morley Shier has produced snapshots of horses so equipped to convince doubters.

Shier said he first saw a horse on snowshoes in 1919 when he was hiking from Stewart B.C., to Premier Mine.

Later he saw several pack trains of horses with snowshoes and was given one of the shoes by J. (Bill) Crawford, Stewart merchant.

Shier said at one time round boards were used. Now horse snowshoes are a circle of 3/4 inch pipe, 12 inches in diameter, with chains to the centre and clips for the toe and side.

At first a horse is troubled, but soon learns the trick of putting one shoe over the other in walking on snow. When a shoe gets loose, the horse will stop, look back and wait for an adjustment.

When asked where his hunting license was, the nimrod said "Oh, I'm not hunting. I'm just carrying a spare gun for my buddy."

Dog Warden Reveals That 7,000 Vaccinated In 1953

The annual report of the Dog Wardens Program for Pitt County in 1953 released yesterday by Dr. Walter C. Humbert of the Health Department showed that approximately 7,000 dogs were vaccinated for rabies.

There were 116 complaints investigated in the county and 535 in the City of Greenville.

A total of 1,163 dogs were impounded from the county and 485 in the city and 49 were released in the county with 44 released in the city to their owners.

There were 1,974 stray dogs destroyed with 1,429 of those were from the County and the remainder from the city.

Only 49 dog bites were investigated, 32 of these in the county. All 49 of these dogs were quarantined.

Only five dog heads were examined for rabies with none that showed positive sign of rabies.

After a survey was conducted, 2,265 dogs were order vaccinated, of these 1,223 were from the county and 1,042 from the city.

A total of 110 stray cats were apprehended and destroyed with 84 coming from the county.

Use Hospitality To Trap Arabs

ADEN (AP)—Arab traditions of hospitality were used by a British official recently to trap a troublesome group of Aden Arabs.

The Arabs were members of the Aulauqi tribes in revolt against their ruler Amir Abdullah Ben Mohsin. The Amir had appealed to British officials for aid.

The British invited rebel leaders to the Amir's house for discussion of differences. Since Arab tradition prevent any guest from carrying a rifle on entering the home of his host, the rebels arrived unarmed.

The British officials arrested the unarmed Arabs and are keeping them as hostages.

McCarthy Calls Committee To Discuss Possible Probe Curbs

By G. MILTON KELLY
WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) called a meeting of his Senate investigations subcommittee today and said moves to curb or surrender part of its Red-hunting powers "may be discussed."

He has described as "a lie" published reports that he has agreed, under urging from Eisenhower administration officials, to switch emphasis in his group's investigations from communism to other fields.

The main objective of today's closed door meeting, he said, is to act on his own requests for contempt of Congress citations against three balking witnesses in his recent investigations of alleged spying at Ft. Monmouth, N. J.

He named the three as Corliss Lamont, wealthy New York writer; Albert Shadowitz, who McCarthy said, refused to answer questions with the explanation that Dr. Albert Einstein had advised him not to cooperate with the subcommittee; and Abraham Unger, a New York City lawyer. McCarthy said Lamont refused to answer questions, and refused to cite in justification the Constitution's guarantee against self-incrimination. He said Unger "conducted a filibuster."

But McCarthy added he was willing at today's meeting to "discuss anything the other senators have in mind," including a controversial proposal by Sen. Mundt (R-SD), that the Senate create a powerful new committee to carry the main load of investigating subversion and un-American activities. Mundt is a member of McCarthy's subcommittee, which has been all-Republican since its three Democratic members resigned in a row with McCarthy last July. McCarthy told reporters he "would not favor" Mundt's proposal.

Mundt had said he thought Communist investigations were too big a job for a subcommittee to handle, and that his plan would avoid duplication of effort. Sen. Jenner (R-Ind), the internal security subcommittee chairman, told reporters that "as far as I know, the people in Congress seem well satisfied" with the job his subcommittee is doing. "I see no need to abolish it and

Climbed Highest Peak By Himself

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—Alejandro Cassis reported yesterday he had climbed to the summit of Mt. Aconcagua, 23,081 feet high, making the assault alone with 18 pounds of equipment.

Aconcagua, on the Chilean frontier, is the highest peak in the Western Hemisphere. Cassis brought back documents left by an earlier expedition, as proof of his successful climb.

"start all over again," he added. Sen. Ellender (D-La.), who has announced he will fight to have appropriations for the McCarthy subcommittee "cut down to size" from their present $200,000 a year level, promptly announced he would resist any proposal to create new committees. He based his stand on economy grounds.

Sen. Russell (D-Ga.) said he would go along with the plan if Mundt presses it, but that he doesn't expect it will get far.

Auditions Begin For Talented Songbird

By JOHN V. HURST
SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Spry, 79-year-old Peter Cook checked into town yesterday and began conducting auditions for some 150 of the nation's most talented vocalists.

Cook, an expert at this business with more than 67 years in the game, auditions his hopefuls on things like "hollow roll," "bass," "flutes," "water guke," and "hollow bell."

His auditions, you see, are for the birds. More specifically, for canary birds.

Cook's activities all have to do with the five-day 26th annual International Roller Breeders grand championship show, sponsored by the Salt Lake Roller Club.

Not precisely an international event, the show has attracted entries from most of the Western states as far east as Oklahoma. Cook, of Morgan, Utah, is one of the country's foremost judges Cook conducts his auditions in his hotel room, privately and impartially. He checks each entry as a quartet, then listens to each bird on a solo kick. Does Cook have any trouble getting the birds to sing? Not at all. They're trained, he says, to sing on command.

Find Bones Of Giant Beasts

BERLIN (AP)—Huge, 20,000-year-old skulls of wild cattle have been unearthed in a gravel pit 80 miles west of Berlin, the official Soviet Zone news agency, ADN, reported last night.

ADN said bones of a giant prehistoric deer and a horse also were found in the pit, near Magdeburg in the Soviet Zone.

Crucifixion was the form of execution used by the Romans for condemned persons who were not Roman citizens.

Two-Headed Baby Gaining Weight

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP)—A two-headed baby girl born 23 days ago is doing well and gaining weight normally, reports from Belo Horizonte said last night.

Dr. Armando Achilles Tenuta of Sao Vicente Hospital was reported as saying the baby now weighs 9 pounds, 12 ounces.

The infant is the daughter of Mrs. Geralda Francisca de Jesus, wife of a rural storekeeper. The hospital disclosed the baby has two completely separate hearts and respiratory systems, one digestive system, four arms and three legs.

GREENVILLE, N. C.

The '54 BUICK's got it—
The BIG CHANGE you've been hoping for!

Exemplar of the 1954 Buick's years-from-now styling is this stunning new Super Riviera

THE instant you see these 1954 Buicks, you'll know that something sensational has happened in automobile styling.

Here is vastly more than the usual model changeover. Here is vastly more than could be done just by warming over what Buick had before. Here is something accomplished by going far beyond artful face-lifting.

Here is that rarity of rarities—a completely new line of automobiles.

But Buick didn't stop with the bolder, fresher, swifter-lined beauty you see in raised and lengthened fender sweep—in the huge and back-swept expanse of windshield—in the lowered roofline—in the host more glamor features of exterior modernity.

They upped all horsepower to the highest in Buick history.

They engineered a new V8 for the SPECIAL—and in the process came up with new Power-Head Pistons that boost gasoline mileage in every engine.

They brought to market a sparkling newcomer with a famous name, the Buick CENTURY—a car with phenomenal horsepower for its weight and price—a car with more pure thrill per dollar than any Buick ever built.

And they did all this without change

of the price structure which, for years, has made Buick the most popular car at its price in the world.

We invite you in to inspect these great beauties, these great performers, these great buys. Then you'll see why the Detroit previewers are already saying, "Buick's the beautiful buy!"

The Quest

CHAPTER SIXTEEN

AFTER the night Dale took Lora Thornton to the train Dale sensed in herself a heightened awareness of Jeffrey Windsor. Strange, she thought, to work day after day with a person and be unaware of the proximity of tragedy, of sacrifice. Was it possible to be so absorbed in one's own quest, so involved with the working out of one's own salvation, that other people were merely shadows with no substance at all?

Perhaps, during the days that followed, Dale's attitude altered and softened towards Jeffrey Windsor. In retrospect, seeking causes and excuses for what happened between them, she wondered if some of her natural sympathy for the man and his dilemma revealed itself in her voice and face. Looking back, she found causes; but no possible excuses.

It happened during one of their sandwich-at-the-desk lunches. Jeffrey's hand on her shoulder seemed no more than an unthinking gesture as he leaned over to put his empty cup on the desk. But Dale's forward movement, as she reached for her pack of cigarettes, did not dislodge it, and she became aware of his hand as a warmth, a pressure. She stiffened but said nothing. Why give it undue significance? But when his hand slid slowly down her shoulder and along her arm there was no mistaking her arm there was no mistaking away, but his grasp tightened.

"Stop it, Dale," he said softly. "Be still."

He kissed her, his arm crushing her waist and holding both her arms helpless, his other hand holding her face still. He kissed her again, thoroughly, experimentally, strongly, before Dale tore herself free. A mist was before her eyes. "Haven't you got the wrong girl?" she asked coldly. But she knew he wouldn't have kissed Lora Thornton like that. High-minded! She began furiously, "If you think—"

"This is what I think." His voice was crisp and clinical in its analysis. "You and I are caught in the trap of our own emotions. Something tells me you know about Lora and me. And I know about you. I've seen what you are and what you want. It's in your eyes. That lost and seeking look. A man doesn't imagine that look Dale. Either you're still dreaming of the precious thing you lost, or you are looking around for something to replace it. That means another man, doesn't it? Let's be honest, Dale. I could be that man."

"No!"

"What's the matter? Does it take a better man than I?" But his mouth was unsmiling.

Dale was trembling and very white. "Your logic is flawless," she said. "But your premise is all wrong. Yes, I know about you. About Lora, too. It makes this all the more insulting. You can't have the real thing and you think I am available. Isn't that it?"

Jeffrey raised his brows, shrugged faintly. "You're being dramatic, aren't you? Playing the young innocent?"

She slapped him then, knowing it was a loss of dignity, but seeing with elation a dull red flush gradually fill in her hand's imprint on his flesh. She picked up her handbag and gloves, snatched her hat. "I've enjoyed working here, but obviously I can't any longer."

"Don't be a fool, Dale."

But he did not try to stop her as she walked out, closing the door with finality behind her.

Before dinner that evening she got out her copy of Browning and turned to the marked passage from Rabbi Ben Ezra. So this is what you meant Grandy! Men like Jeffrey Windsor. But why push me into such encounters? To teach me the difference between the phony and the true? Do you honestly think I don't know, after Kelly?"

"You look like a rained-on bee," Agatha said at dinner. "Heat get you down?"

"I quit my job today."

"So? That Jeffrey man a bit too Mephistophelian for you?" Agatha's eyes twinkled. "Just slap his face."

Laughter rippled in Dale. "I did!" She felt better suddenly, and almost cheerful. A decision came unexpectedly, exciting her. "Aggie, I think I'll go home for a few days," she said.

Agatha nodded. "Sensible idea. There's another heat wave on the way, the weather man says." Her eyes sharpened. "You be sure and come back, now. Running away is the easiest but the silliest escape of all."

Grandy would see to it that she came back. For Dale knew now that her decision to come to New York had not actually been her own, but his. And he'll send me away again, she thought, if he thinks it's for my own good.

Given an inkling of the episode in Jeffrey Windsor's office that day, Phil Parrish certainly would not have blundered by kissing Dale when he left her at her door that evening. All Phil saw was a girl infinitely desirable; a girl he half-loved and could deeply love, he suspected, once he stopped being cagey about marriage. Dale's mouth was sweet and tremulous and yielding under his and then she stiffened in his arms.

"What's wrong?" he asked, mildly surprised.

"Nothing," she said. She would not confess that for a moment she had surrendered to the desperate weakness of pretending; that it had not been Phil she kissed, but Kelly. Nor could she say that she had pushed him off because the things in Jeffrey Windsor's mind could be in Phil's, too.

She broke away from him and stepped inside the door. "Good night, Phil," she said, and snapped the latch on the screen.

"What about tomorrow? We're going dancing, aren't we?"

"I am going to Swanscombe tomorrow."

He pressed his face against the screen. "For Pete's sake! Dale, come out here. I can't talk to you through this darned wire mesh. What are you going away for? Running?"

"No," she said.

"What about your job?"

"I'm through with that."

"Did that man—"

"Yes," she said woodenly. "That man did. He quite obviously thought a sad and lonely widow was fair play. I didn't like the pass he made, Phil. I didn't like it at all."

He rattled the door handle. "You let me in there Dale!"

"You'll wake Aggie."

"She's awake never fear—and listening to every word of this! Tell me one thing. Did I offend you just now? You've been kissed before—"

Nothing could have been more mistimed, although Phil could not have known that. Nor did he know the heat of anger than ran through her. "Yes," she said softly. "Oh, yes, I've been kissed before. I'm neither naive nor inexperienced. I admit all that. What I do not admit is the right of any man to take advantage of that knowledge. That," she said, "I can't forgive."

"Dale!" he said furiously. "Good night, Phil."

She closed the heavy inner door firmly, locked it. Then, shaken and hurt and angry, she leaned her body against it, closed her eyes, her hands up over her face. Kelly, where are you? I'm lost again...

After a long time, she moved away from the door, along the hall up the stairs. Agatha's door was open. Had she heard?

"Dale?"

She stopped at Agatha's door, but she did not go in.

From the darkness came the wide-awake voice. "Don't stay mad at him, Dale. Don't measure him by one kiss and throw him in the ash can, Phil really is a very nice young man."

The matter-of-fact voice drove away the day's unpleasantness. "Go to sleep, Aggie," Dale said. "And don't you know a lady never eavesdrops?"

She went into her room and closed the door. Suddenly she was tired to death of everything here that she had to fight. It would be wonderful to be home again with Grandy and Grandmother, even if they only let her stay for a little while.

Honduras Heads To Hot Election Or Possible Coup

Editor's Note—At 77, former President Tiburcio Carias Andino, still holds tight rein on his country. But his former protegee, President Jan Manuel Galvez, has pushed a reform program in the least developed of all the Central American republics too fast for the old strong man's liking. Here's the story of the subsequent split and what it portends for the future.

By PAUL SANDERS

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP)—Honduras, the least-developed of the Central American republics is working up to its hottest election fight in 20 years—if a coup doesn't prevent the balloting set for next October.

Charges of "dictatorship" and "communism" bounce back and forth dozens of times each day.

The big issue is whether the country is to continue in the grip of its strong man 77-year-old former President Tiburcio Carias Andino, or whether it is to have New Deal reforms pushed by moderates, the Liberal party, and the left-wingers.

The Conservative followers of Carias in his National party see the Liberals as heavily infiltrated with Communists. These charges bring angry denials from Liberal leaders, who say they want only the same type of social welfare and labor legislation in effect in the United States. The Liberals also want revision of the concession held by the United Fruit Co., the country's biggest concern.

The fruit company pays the company's highest wages for farm labor, but the Liberals contend that Honduras isn't getting enough financial return from the firm's operations.

In this situation the charge inevitably arose that the Liberals were influenced by Guatemala, whose Red-dominated government expropriated thousands of acres of fruit company land, and by Costa Rica, whose government has asked revision of the company concession in that country.

In answer to this, the Liberals reply "our program is 100 per cent Honduran."

Split with Carias on the reform issue is President Juan Manuel Galvez, a Nacional who was the strong man's hand-picked candidate in the 1948 elections. Galvez has given the country its most progressive administration in 20 years. A high degree of press freedom has been established. The first labor legislation—covering compensation for accidents while at work and working conditions for women and children—has been enacted.

Galvez also began a road-building program to open up new sections of the country, and carried on public health, education and agricultural improvement projects with U. S. aid.

When the Galvez backers—the reform wing of the National party—came out for further and sweeping advances, Carias split with them. The old strong man robust and looking 20 years younger than his age thought the Reformistas were moving too fast, and had allowed Communists to infiltrate the country.

Carias is one of Central America's outstanding foes of the left wing of all shades. Elected President in 1932, he put an end to a long period of turbulence and ruled the country with a firm hand from 1933 to 1948.

Without relinquishing his grip on the Nacional party, he left the presidency in 1948 and has directed the campaign against constitutional reforms sponsored by both Galvez' Reformistas and the Liberals.

The Liberals went out of power in 1932, and haven't made much of a showing against the Carias machine since then. But this year they are well organized, ably led by young leaders, and hope to win the 1954 elections, either for themselves or teamed up with the Reformistas.

Poverty and backwardness not only background the political situation here, but make the country the target for underground Communist activity. Much of this activity centers on the fruit company workers, because they make up Honduras' only large labor force.

The country is slightly smaller than Pennsylvania, has a population of a little more than 1 1/2 million, about 60 per cent of it illiterate. Living standards are low and wages for farm workers run around a dollar a day in most of the country, and somewhat higher in the fruit company operations.

The way things stand now Carias or one of his close friends is likely to be the Nacional candidate for President next year. Carias seems to have a strong grip on the one-house Congress, which

Bandit Turned In Accomplice, Self

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP)—Police said a repentant youth forced his companion at gunpoint to drive to police headquarters after a $150 filling station robbery so the two could surrender.

The youths, Rodger W. Brinton, 20, Lincoln, and Edward J. Crable Jr., 19, Emerald, Neb., pleaded guilty in Lancaster County District Court yesterday.

The two were taken into custody in front of police headquarters Sunday night. Police said Brinton had turned a gun on Crable and demanded they turn themselves in. Sentence was deferred while a probation officer investigated.

QUIZZ NO GAMBLE

ROSELIE PARK, N. J. (AP)—Some Union County theaters, with giveaways programs resort to quizz sessions to get around New Jersey's anti-gambling laws.

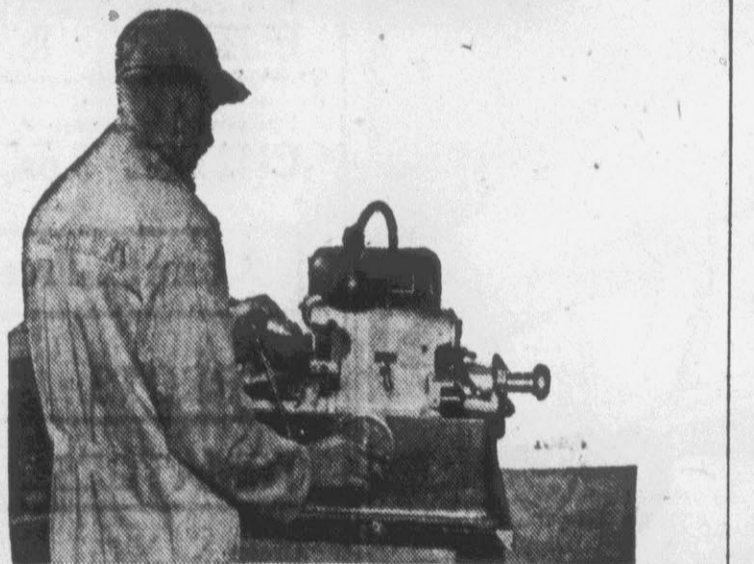

Raffles, considered games of chance, are illegal. Games involving skill are okay. Hence the quizz.

Domestic cats were established in Italy long before the Christian era.

NEW WINTER SPORT:—Lt. James F. Cahill Jr., 27-year-old Navy frogman, splashes ashore at Salem, Mass., after snatching a couple of three-pound lobster dinners from the depths. Cahill, assigned to a Boston harbor defense unit, keeps his family supplied in the course of his underwater duties. It's against the law to mutilate lobsters so frogmen can't use spears. But Cahill makes a barehanded grab at the back of lobsters to avoid powerful claws. Most lobsters are caught commercially with baited traps called pots set on the bottom. (AP Wirephoto).

ENGINE OVERHAUL

Gives you "New Tractor" Power Again

An old adage says: "There's a time to fish and a time to mend your nets." You mend nets when you can't fish.

It's the same way with farming. Now the rush is over — get set for non-stop farming next spring.

If your tractor lags on the hard pulls, schedule it now for an engine overhaul. You'll be surprised how little it costs to put new life in your old tractor.

We don't just "fix it" — we repower it. Stop in and talk it over.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market was a trifle lower today, but signs of improvement were plentiful.

Losses went to around a point while gains were fractional, in some cases extending into the major fractions.

The pace of trading was moderate at a rate perhaps a little less than yesterday's 1,460,000 shares.

Aircraft were the most depressed of the major divisions of the market, but in late morning they began to show a little betterment.

Motors were ahead on balance. Other sections of the list were steady to narrowly mixed.

Lower stocks included Boeing, United Aircraft Consolidated, Edson, and American Can.

Higher were General Motors, Studebaker, American Telephone, and International Nickel.

Blind-Aid Grants For 131 In County

During December 131 persons received aid to the blind grants, according to a monthly report issued by Miss Jennie Manning, Pitt County case worker for the blind.

In addition one other person was assisted in completing an application for assistance, one case was accepted in transfer from another county and one case was closed during the month, the report stated.

Thirty-two needy blind persons were given eye examinations during the month. Of this number glasses were recommended for 23, treatment for six, surgery for two, and no recommendation for improvement of vision was made in one case. Two eye operations were performed during December, according to Miss Manning's report.

The report also stated that the Greenville Lion's Club assisted eight needy persons in paying for glasses last month. The Lion's Club presented 24 baskets of food to needy blind persons and their families during the Christmas season.

The report brought out that two persons completed training at the Rehabilitation Center for the Blind during the month and that another person was assisted in making plans to enter the center for training.

Woman Injured In Auto Mishap

One person was injured when a late-model convertible left the road on the Patachus highway early this morning and overturned.

Injured in the accident which happened this morning at 1 a.m. was Christine Daniels who resides at Taylor Hospital in Washington. Investigating patrolman Shep Newman said that Miss Daniels, who was driving the vehicle, suffered severe cuts and bruises in the accident. Newman said that the woman told him that she met a car on her side of the road and turned to avoid it. Her car went off the road and down an embankment where it turned over. The injured woman was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital. Newman said the automobile was a total loss.

Yesterday afternoon about 3 o'clock a truck driven by Heber R. Allen of Route 2, Greenville, hit a mule about four miles east of Farmville on US 264. The mule was killed in the collision and the truck received about $250 damage, according to Patrolman Newman who investigated.

No charges were placed in either accident.

Let Contracts In February For Two New Dormitories

Contracts for the erection of two new student dormitories at East Carolina College will be let early in February according to present plans, college President John D. Messick has announced.

Dr. Messick has also announced that the renovation of Wright building as a student union, work on which was begun in the fall of 1953, is progressing satisfactorily. The new Joyner Library, under construction since the summer of 1952, is expected to be ready for use in March, 1954, he says.

Contracts have been awarded, Dr. Messick states, for paving various walks and drives on the campus. Work will soon begin on this project.

When completed, the new dormitories will provide much needed living quarters for the rapidly expanding student body of the college. One of the dormitories will accommodate men students, and the other is planned for use by women students.

A large number of those who wished to enter East Carolina in the fall of 1953 were unable to do so because of lack of available rooms on the campus. Many students, both men and women, now rent rooms in the city of Greenville.

Architect's drawings for the new dormitory for men, by Eric G. Flannagan of Henderson, were submitted to the office of the Budget Bureau in Raleigh about December 1. James Griffith, Greenville architect, submitted plans for the new dormitory for women on December 21.

These plans will be reviewed by the State Budget Office and returned to the architects for any changes which may be recommended. Bids will then be received for the construction of the two new dormitories.

The new men's dormitory will be built on the South Campus near Tenth Street. When completed it will be East Carolina's third residence hall for men, Slay and Ragdale halls being already in use. The new dormitory for women will be located on the West Campus and will be the fifth large residence hall for women.

Both new buildings will be brick structures designed to harmonize in architecture with existing dormitories. The men's residence hall will provide living quarters for 300 students; and the women's dormitory, for 270.

Cases Heard In City Police Court

By CHESTER WALSH

In Police Court Wednesday, Judge Charles H. Wheeler found Leroy J. Knight, Negro, 1909 West Third St., Greenville, guilty in four cases and gave him 19 months on the roads, and placed him on probation for five years.

For possession and transporting non-tax-paid whiskey, the court gave Knight six months on the roads, sentence to be suspended on payment of $100, costs deducted, and placed him on probation for five years.

For assault with a deadly weapon (his automobile) on City Police Detective N. H. Byrd about a month ago, the court gave Knight 30 days on the roads, sentence to be suspended on condition that he spend the next four Saturday nights in the city jail. Testimony was that while the officer was chasing him, Knight tried to wreck the police car and did damage to it. Byrd, captured the fleeing Negro after a chase that at one time ranged up to 90 miles an hour, and arrested him on a dirt road.

The court sentenced Knight to six months on the roads for speeding, sentence to be suspended on payment of $50, costs deducted, and the judgment provides that he is not to operate a motor vehicle for two years. He was placed on probation for five years.

For careless and reckless driving, Judge Wheeler gave Knight six months on the roads for careless and reckless driving, sentence suspended on payment of $50, costs deducted. The judgment also provides that he is to make adequate restitution for damage to the police car, and is not to drive a motor vehicle for two years (concurrent) and not to ride in a motor vehicle except a public bus, taxi or train for a year. He was placed on probation for five years.

Charles A. Musselwhite, careless and reckless driving, case continued to —

Joe Hinson, assault on a female (his wife), was given 30 days in jail, sentence suspended on payment of $15 costs and on condition that he spend the next four Saturday nights in the city jail. The judgment also provides that he is to remain of good behavior and not threaten or harm his wife.

Jimmie R. Crimley paid $15 for allowing a non-licensed person to drive his automobile.

Willie Carr, Negro, careless and reckless driving, 30 days in jail suspended on payment of $30 and costs.

Install Kiwanis Officers

Shown above are some of the participants in last Monday night's installation of officers at the Farmville Kiwanis Club. From left to right are: Past President Bernice Turnage, Lieutenant Governor for the Seventh Division James W. Copeland, who was in charge of the installation ceremonies, newly installed President L. W. Allen, and the new vice-president, Dr. Sylvester H. Aycock. (Photo by Gilbert Whitley.)

FARMVILLE—L.W. Allen was installed as president of the local Kiwanis Club at its regular meeting Monday night by Lieutenant Governor for the Seventh Division James W. Copeland of Wilmington.

Names as vice-president of the club for the coming year was Dr. Sylvester H. Aycock. The secretary for 1954 is Tommy Lang and treasurer, Jack Lewis.

Allen succeeded Bernice Turnage as Kiwanis Club president. Lang and Lewis were reelected to the respective positions. The club has been without a vice president since Dr. Frank Harris moved to Sanford several months ago.

It was noted that Allen was the third of four brothers in Farmville to serve as president of the Kiwanis Club. In addition, a fifth brother, now living in Tennessee, has served as president of his club.

Directors installed by the lieutenant governor Monday night included: Henry Johnson, Johnnie Williams, Charles S. Edwards, Seth Barrow, Barney Bland, Jake Fields, John Parker, and Wilton Duke.

Tax List Takers Confer On Work

All the Pitt County township tax list takers met with County Tax Supervisor Reginald Gray at the Court House yesterday to discuss problems encountered so far in listing 1954 taxes.

Gray said that through the discussion a common solution to the problems was obtained and each list taker went back to his job today with a standard way of listing.

The tax supervisor said that he was pleased with the work of the list takers this year. "The listing is being done better than in the past and in a more thorough manner," he pointed out.

"Most of the new list takers wanted to check to see if they were doing right yesterday," Gray added, "and I am pleased with the interest they are taking."

Gray said that most of the errors he found at yesterday's meeting were minor and that the right figure needed was there but some of the list takers had gone about it in the wrong way.

This year's abstract is somewhat different from last year's. On the new one all of the farm equipment and household equipment is listed separately instead of together as on last year's sheet. "The new designed abstract is a more convenient method of listing the taxes," Gray continued.

The tax supervisor concluded by saying that all list takers stated that people are listing their taxes earlier than ever before.

Winterville Board Orders New Pumper

WINTERVILLE—At a regular meeting of the Town Commissioners at the Town Hall Monday night, the board made plans for purchasing a new pump for the sewage lifter station. The old equipment is practically worn out, it was stated.

The lifter station pump forces a steady flow of sewage through the sewer pipes to a creek near town, Town Clerk Thomas E. Cannon stated.

Mayor Burney L. Tucker presided and all of the commissioners, Walter Dail, A. D. McLawhorn Jr., and Rommie Mallison, were present.

Rites Held For Mrs. J. M. McLawhorn

AYDEN—Funeral services for Mrs. J. M. McLawhorn, 63, of Ayden, who died at her home Wednesday morning, were held at Britt's Funeral Home in Ayden Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Rev. Gilbert David, Christian minister, officiated. Burial was in Ayden Cemetery.

Surviving are her husband; a daughter, Mrs. Bill Whitehurst of Ayden; three sisters, Mrs. Lillie Loftin and Mrs. Clifton McLawhorn of Ayden, and Mrs. Thad Harris of Goldsboro; two brothers, Marvin McLawhorn of Elizabeth City and Jasper McLawhorn of Greenville.

Schools Hold Joint PTA Meeting At Warren Chapel School This Week

WINTERVILLE—Warren's Chapel, Haddock and Robinson Union Negro schools Parent-Teacher Association groups had a joint meeting at Warren Chapel School this week.

Mrs. Luvenia Latham, a teacher at Haddock School, spoke on "Improving Juvenile Delinquency Through the Home." She challenged parents to a sense of duty in laying the foundation for ideals that cultivate character of high caliber. The speaker emphasized the following points: Prevent delinquency by uprooting the weeds of wrong attitudes; remind that it is the duty of parents and teachers to combat the social evil, and remember that a friendlier and more understanding attitude of parents and teachers will have a wholesome effect, and strive to rid the communities of the temptations that lead toward juvenile delinquency.

After the speech the group engaged in an informal discussion. Mrs. Henrietta Waller and Mrs. Lizzie Henderson, delegates to the State P.T.A. convention in Kinston last November, were introduced.

Pastor Hardy of Warren's Chapel Free Will Baptist Church and Rev. Paul A. Hodges, pastor of St. Paul's Free Will Baptist Church, Baltimore, were guests.

About 70 persons attended the meeting. The Warren Chapel School Hospitality Committee served refreshments.
