Unemployment Is 'Far Worse' Than Reported, Declares CIO

Dispute Commerce Dept. Figures; Claim Over 3 Million Out Of Jobs

By NORMAN WALKER WASHINGTON (AP)—The CIO said today the unemployment picture is far worse than the 1,850,000 jobless figure reported officially by the Commerce Department.

A statement by CIO Vice President Emil Rieve, chairman of the labor union organization's Economic Policy Committee, said the official data fails to disclose an additional 1,400,000 out of work.

Under Rieve's method of calculation the total of those willing to work but without jobs would be closer to 3,250,000.

The CIO leader said the commerce labor force and unemployment figures for December, announced a few days ago, showed joblessness rose nearly 700,000 in two months, including 422,000 in December.

"This is bad enough, but the report doesn't begin to tell the full story," he said. "The Commerce measure of unemployment just isn't adequate to catch what really has been happening in the job market in the past six months."

In addition to the 1,850,000 officially reported as unemployed, Rieve said there are actually 700,000 fewer persons employed than a year ago whereas "under healthy economic conditions" the total of employed should have grown by 700,000 rather than declined that much.

He said it is "tommyrot" to explain that these represent "marginal workers" who just prefer not to find new jobs.

"This inescapable fact remains," he said, "when the people were on its way up, in preceding years, the jobs were there and people stayed in the labor force."

"The official measures, by their very nature, just are not sharp enough to catch the real human problems and needs."

The Commerce Department figures show 60,764,000 employed and 1,850,000 unemployed in December 1953, as compared with 61,900,000 employed and 1,425,000 unemployed in December, 1952.

Rieve said the Labor Department's report on unemployment insurance claims is a "more sensitive" measurement of the "early stages of recession." He said it showed an 80 per cent increase from December, 1952 to December, 1953, compared with a 30 per cent increase in Commerce Department unemployment figures.

The CIO said it was citing the data because of the recent tendency to show the people with a rash of figures calculated to show that "things are still awfully good."

Bladen Beast Is Still On Loose; Eludes Hunters

BLADENBORO, N. C. (AP)—A mysterious monster that "cries like a baby" and drinks blood continued to elude hunters today.

The catlike beast, possibly a maddened panther accompanied by a mate has killed at least six dogs in the Cotton Mill Hill area. Another dead dog was found yesterday but Police Chief Roy Pearson said it had not been established that the dog fell victim to the maddened beast.

Still another dog was spirited into the swamps as helpless residents listened to its death screams. Hundreds of gun-bristling volunteer hunters swarmed into the tiny mill town of about 800 population, making it difficult for professional hunters and their dogs to trap the killer. Police feared the volunteer help would shoot each other.

Former President Truman Says He Never Used 'Red Herring' Term For Spy Probes

By HERB ALTSCHULL WASHINGTON (AP)—Former President Harry Truman, defending his efforts to combat Communist subversion, said today he never used the words, "red herring," to describe Congressional spy hunts.

Bitter Despair In South Korea Eyes

SEOUL (AP)—South Korea tonight issued a statement of its problems with both the Communists and the Japanese that bristled with criticism of the United Nations and the United States and ended on a note of bitterness and despair.

The statement, prepared by the ROK office of public information, was described in its preface as the first of a series that "presents a highly authoritative point of view and is a true expression of popular sentiments."

The United Nations statesmen have busily and futilely chasing the will-o-the-wisp of peace with an aggressor that does not even understand the concept.

"President Rhee now faces repeated criticism for failing to cooperate" and for not modifying his position, the statement said, "but he cannot accept an appeasement of communism that would doom his country."

"Also terribly disillusioning to Koreans is the United States' attitude toward Korean-Japan relations. "It is this blind attitude toward Japan that... has led the United States to side against Korea, a country occupied by Japan for 40 years in its temperate claims against the former empire."

The closing paragraph said: "If Korea is to be sold out by her friend, as she was once before, the Koreans want to know it now—so they may have a chance to sell out themselves if they cannot save themselves."

Local Warehouseman Is Indicted On 31 Charges

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—D. Woodrow Worthington, operator of a tobacco warehouse at Bloomfield, was indicted yesterday on 31 charges of violating the federal tobacco inspection act.

Thirty-eight-year-old Worthington who lives in Winterville, N. C., and owns warehouses in North Carolina, was charged with these violations:

1. Six counts of falsifying figures on tobacco inspection slips to make the poundage appear more than it actually was. The jury said one example was a case of "90 pounds" changed to read "490 pounds."

2. Nineteen counts of concealing figures on tobacco inspection slips to make the poundage appear more than it actually was.

In a letter to county farmers Assaunt County Agent Sam J. Weeks noted that different phases of tobacco production will be discussed at each of the scheduled meetings. He said special emphasis will be given to nematode control, variety and fertilization recommendations.

Weeks urged all tobacco farmers to attend one of the meetings. "All tobacco farmers are invited to attend the meetings," Weeks said in the letter. "Plan now to attend one of the meetings and invite your tenants to attend as they will not receive a copy of this letter."

All the meetings will begin at 7:30 p.m. Following is the schedule of the tobacco-meets for next week:

Monday, Stokes School Agricultural Building; Tuesday, Bethany Church Educational Building; Wednesday, Farmville School Agricultural Building; Thursday, Griffon School Agricultural Building; Friday, Chocod School Agricultural Building.

Doubt Idea Of Taking Citizenship Lawmakers 'Puzzled' By Eisenhower Proposal For Dealing With Conspirators

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's recommendation to deprive future Communist conspirators of U. S. citizenship was described by Sen. McCarran (D-Nev) today as "half-baked." Other legislators termed it puzzling.

McCarran, senior Democrat on the Senate Judiciary Committee and its former chairman, said persons convicted of conspiring to advocate the forcible overthrow of the government already lose rights as citizens.

Sen. Langer (R-ND), the Judiciary Committee chairman, said in a separate interview that "I don't see that this adds anything to the present law." A similar reaction was expressed by Sen. Jenner (R-Ind) chairman of the Judiciary Committee's Red-hunting internal security unit.

"How can you take citizenship from a man born here?" inquired Chairman Chaucey W. Reed (R-Ill) of the House Judiciary Committee. "You can't."

Rep. Walter (D-Pa), esteemed by his colleagues as a Constitutionally lawyer, told newsmen American citizenship "is a basic law of the land, and a citizen can be deprived of it only by changing the Constitution."

The Supreme Court in 1915 upheld Congress' right to strip citizenship from an American woman who marries an alien—a positive step involving a measure of allegiance to another country.

And in 1952 Congress passed a law to take citizenship from persons who do such things as vote in foreign elections or who are convicted of treason or an attempt at forcible overthrow of the United States. This is the only new element involved in Eisenhower's request would be to add conspiracy to teach forcible overthrow.

The President drew the most thunderous applause in his 54-minute report on the state of the union to Congress yesterday when he declared: "I recommend that Congress enact legislation to provide that a citizen of the United States who is convicted in the courts of hereafter conspiring to advocate the overthrow of this government by force or violence be treated as having, by such act, renounced his allegiance to the United States and forfeited his United States citizenship."

Under the law citizenship is regarded as an inalienable right to be renounced only voluntarily.

Penalties for conviction of some felonies—but not in all cases—strip the convicted citizen of "rights" of citizenship—holding office, voting and the like. But not his citizenship itself.

Umstead Praises Lennon Choice Of Manager

RALEIGH (AP)—Gov. Umstead believes Sen. Allen Umstead "made a splendid selection" in choosing John D. Rodman as his campaign manager.

The governor made known his belief in his weekly news conference yesterday after telling reporters the appointments had been discussed with him prior to its announcement. Umstead appointed Lennon to succeed the late Sen. Willis Smith.

Sen. Lennon announced the appointment of Rodman, who also played a vital role in getting Smith elected.

The governor said he hasn't made up his mind on whether he would prefer to see the Legislature meet every year instead of every two years. He stated "a great many people are bitterly opposed to annual sessions although there is a 'great deal to be said' in favor of them."

MANAGER RESIGNS WILSON, N. C. (AP)—S. Talmage Green resigned last night as city manager of Wilson, a post he has held for six years.

He gave no reason for the resignation which will be effective at the end of the fiscal year, July 1.

Pearson asked Truman in the interview: "There has been a lot of talk about you saying that the Alger Hiss indictment was a red herring. What is the fact on that?" Truman replied: "That's right. That's correct. The press conference itself will show that."

An unofficial transcript of the news conference shows that this question was put to Truman: "Mr. President, do you think the Capitol Hill spy hearings are a good thing or do you think they are a red herring to divert attention from the anti-inflation program?"

Truman replied that he agreed with the latter view.

Afterwards, Truman was asked whether he might be quoted directly.

The unofficial transcript gives this as Truman's reply: "Yes, you can quote me... They are using this as a red herring to keep from doing what they ought to do."

Sen. Johnson Says Eisenhower Program To Be Controlled Demos To Exercise 'Veto'

By JACK BELL WASHINGTON (AP)—Democratic leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas said today Senate Democrats—who outnumber Republicans by one—will exercise a "veto" power on individual items of President Eisenhower's over-all legislative program.

And Sen. Byrd (D-Va), who gave indirect support to the President in the 1952 political campaign said he will try to stamp the first Congressional veto on Eisenhower's request for an increase in the 275 billion dollar debt limit. The President renewed it when he outlined his program yesterday to Congress.

While Republican leader Knowland of California was urging bipartisan support for what he called the President's "sound and forward looking program," Democrats were gathering their ammunition for a blast at the administration's new farm proposals—due Monday.

As reaction rolled in on the President's 7,000 word state of the union message—which he delivered in 54 minutes yesterday in a House chamber so jammed that some Senators complained they had to stand—controversies flared up over several issues.

Beside the farm and debt limit proposals, lawmakers voiced sharp differences of opinion over tax revisions, heavier reliance on atomic weapons, a plan to take citizenship away from those convicted of conspiring hereafter to overthrow the government by force, and a proposed Constitutional amendment to permit 18-year-olds to vote.

This added up to a major segment of a program that some Democrats took delight in describing as "New Dealish."

One of these, Sen. Lehman (D-Lib-NY) said in a statement he was "gratified indeed to note that the President has accepted and endorsed the basic objectives of both the New Deal and the Fair Deal namely, the responsibilities of government for the prosperity and welfare of the individual citizen."

This was an allusion to Eisenhower's proposals for expanding social security coverage, advance planning for health plans, federal reinsurance for health plans, extended unemployment insurance, long-time housing loans and slum clearance, and federal aid for state school building needs.

Sen. Duff (R-Pa) said the recommendations indicate "the President's firm intention to fulfill all his campaign commitments."

Sen. Bridges (R-NH) voiced confidence the President's program would have "overwhelming support, not only of all Republicans, but all thoughtful Americans as well."

Sen. John Sherman Cooper (R-Ky) said the President "is assuming the leadership that the people want." He predicted enactment of most of the program.

But Sen. Morse (Ind-Ore) found the message only "a masterpiece of platitudes, thereby raising false hope."

Significantly, perhaps, there was almost no criticism of the President's discussion of foreign policies, on which Secretary of State Dulles supplied additional details in a 2 1/2 hour closed session with the Senate Foreign Relations Committee after the message was delivered.

Dulles told the senators that both the United States and Russia were having foreign affairs troubles, but added: "As bad as our troubles are, I wouldn't trade our troubles for theirs."

Dulles defended the proposal to withdraw two divisions from Korea, explaining that additional South Korean troops are being trained. He was quoted as saying the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) is "in good shape."

No official action was taken by the Council last night on an earlier proposal that a parking area be constructed on property adjacent to Sheppard Memorial Library. Whedbee informed the Council that members of the library board, in a joint meeting with representatives of the Council, expressed opposition to the move. Councilman S. E. West moved the parking area be installed at the library. Councilman Collins moved the matter be deferred. Both motions died for lack of a second, and thus no decisive action was taken by the Council.

Turning to the matter of collection of delinquent taxes and paving assessments, the Council instructed the city attorney to proceed with measures for the collection of such funds as authorized under the law.

On the proposed widening of Greene Street, Hughes told the board the matter has been discussed with the local highway division officials, and he and R. Markham, division

City Council Told Needed Bonds Could Probably Be Issued Data On Swimming Pools Is Ordered

Greenville's City Council gave consideration last night to the possibility of issuing city bonds for the construction of two swimming pools, and reviewed a survey on the proposed opening of a portion of First Street.

Mayor W. L. Whedbee told the Council he and City Manager James S. Hughes had conferred with W. E. Easterling of the state Local Government Commission, and although they had not received a firm reply from Easterling, he indicated Greenville probably could issue bonds for the swimming pools.

Effect On Tax Rate After discussing the matter in general terms, the Council instructed Hughes to gather as much data as possible on the cost to the city for the construction of swimming pools, and present at the next meeting of the Council an estimate of the effect it would have upon the city's tax rate if bonds were issued for such work.

City Engineer Thomas W. Rivers presented to the board an estimate on the cost of opening and paving of First Street from Cotanche St. to Woodlawn Ave. Rivers told the Council the estimated total cost of the project is $45,798, which would include paving, curb and gutter, the fill, culvert, headwalls and drainage which would have to be made on a portion of the street which is not now in use.

First Street Project In its discussion, the Council suggested the possibility of making First Street a thoroughfare for traffic moving from the eastern part of the city, and instructed Rivers to obtain data and estimates on the cost of opening First Street to Elm Street in order that First and Fifth Streets would be linked by Elm Street. The possibility of seeking state highway aid on the project was suggested by the Council.

Adopt Subdivision Regulations Mayor Whedbee reported to the Council the recommendation of the city Planning Board for the adoption of subdivision regulations, and the Council officially adopted the regulations. The Council also adopted a resolution requesting the Council Commissioners to have their procedure governing the recording of plats conform with the provisions set forth in the subdivision regulations for Greenville.

City Manager Hughes recommended to the Council a policy for opening of streets within the city which are not a part of subdivisions. Hughes recommended that each petition for the opening of a street be accompanied by a petition from all property owners on the street for the installation of curb and gutter and paving on the street. The cost of opening the street would be borne by property owners; the city would furnish finish grading of the street, and the paving and curb and gutter would be paid for under the established policy of the city.

After some discussion of the proposed policy, action was deferred by the Council until a later meeting.

Off Street Parking The Council also deferred action on a request from the City Manager for the purchase of a tractor-shovel for the street department.

for major commodities. Aiken predicted eventual approval of the administration program.

Sen. Clinton Anderson (D-NM), former secretary of agriculture, said in a separate interview that most farmers want to get away from rigid price supports and the rigid controls which accompany them.

On the other hand, Sen. Eastland (D-Miss) said the flexible price support proposal already is as "dead as a doornail." Sen. Clements (D-KY) predicted it "will encounter very rough weather."

Sen. Russell (D-Ga) will put it this way: "I do not agree with the President's apparent support of the so-called sliding scale farm program. In my opinion this program will not achieve the much-to-be-desired objectives he set forth."

Rep. Albert (D-Okla), a member of the House Agriculture Committee, said the Eisenhower proposals "won't get anywhere."

First written into law in 1948, flexible supports had the backing of farm leaders of both major parties. Both parties voted endorsements into their 1948 national platforms.

But since that time, they have become a subject of sharp controversy, largely because the Truman administration deserted them in 1949 when the then secretary of agriculture, Charles F. Brannan, outlined a new program of high supports and production payments.

Parking Meters To Be Installed On Wider Scope

Parking meters along Greenville streets will stretch over a wider area than at present by action of the City Council last night.

The board authorized City Manager James S. Hughes to purchase 70 new meters by trading in used meters of the city, and to purchase 10 additional new meters outright. The 80 meters will cost the city approximately $1,900, and an agreement has been made with the meter company for the city to pay the company one-half the take of the meters until the bill is paid in full.

Last night the Council gave official sanction to installation of additional meters on Washington Street, Third Street, Fifth Street and Dickinson Avenue.

According to the recommendation of Hughes, approved by the Council last night, the meters will be installed on the south side of Dickinson Avenue from Five Points to the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad, with the exception of four 12-minute meters to be placed in front of the Guaranty Bank and Trust Company.

Two hour meters were approved for the north side of Third Street from Evans to Washington Streets (already installed); on the west side of Washington Street from Third to Fourth Street; and on the West side of Washington from Fifth Street to Dickinson Ave. with the exception of two 12-minute meters by the city hall; on both sides of Fifth Street from Washington to Greene Streets with the exception of two 12-minute meters by the city hall.

The board also specified that four 12-minute meters be installed on Fifth Street by the State Bank. The additional area on which meters were authorized last night covers practically the same space which was previously metered for parking, but was exempt from the metered area by action of a previous Board of Aldermen.

Flexible Price Support Idea Has Feeble Backing New Farm Plans Face Fight

By EDWIN B. HAAKINSON and OVID A. MARTIN WASHINGTON (AP)—Dark storm clouds massed on the Capitol Hill horizon today for a major feature of the new farm program President Eisenhower will present to Congress on Monday.

The President said in his message on the state of the union yesterday that he would propose that future farm program be built on the principle of flexible price guarantees.

Of more than 50 Congress members who commented, only two senators gave the flexible price idea warm verbal support. Some were noncommittal; more voiced opposition.

Sen. Aiken (R-Vt), chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, said Eisenhower wants "to get a farm program on a sound, long range basis and away from emergency treatment." That was a reference to the wartime origin of the present fixed level price props

Dr. R. W. Everhart Has Article Carried In Special Journal

Dr. Rodney W. Everhart, assistant professor of special education at East Carolina College, is a contributor to the "Journal of Speech and Hearing Disorders" for December, 1953. His article deals with "The Relationship between Articulation and Other Developmental Factors in Children."

Dr. Everhart, who joined the East Carolina Faculty last fall, is a Ph. D. graduate of the University of Michigan. Before coming to Greenville, he did work in speech correction at the Willow Run, Michigan, Public Schools; Michigan State Normal College; and Eastern Illinois State College.

His recent article provides an account of research which was conducted in the Willow run schools among pupils in grades one through six. Various growth and developmental factors, including onset of sitting alone, onset of walking, onset of talking, handedness, grip, weight, height, intelligence, and paternal occupation, are considered in their relationship to defective articulation among children.

Dr. Running Gives Talk On Contemporary Art

Dr. Paul Running, head of the Art Department of East Carolina College, spoke to an audience of college and town people Thursday night at the auditorium of the Community Art Gallery at the Sheppard Memorial Library.

Dr. Running explained that fashions and taste change in art, and that painters today have new ideals which differ from those of Classical, Renaissance, and Gothic art. A 17th Century Velasquez, for example, differs in approach and aim from a Picasso, as an 18th century Chardin from a contemporary Braque. Most contemporary art stresses non-representational painting, rather than the realistic kind of art of the older tradition, and can be divided generally into three types of approaches—abstract, surrealist, and expressionistic. Abstraction and surrealism, explained Dr. Running, are akin to classicism in that they are restrained, perfectly controlled, and distinctly premeditated, while expressionism, generally romantic, is a more emotional kind of painting which is characterized by spontaneity.

Dr. Running illustrated his talk with examples of each type of painting, and the audience informally contributed with questions and discussion. After the lecture, the group moved on to the new Faculty Painters' exhibition in the gallery, made more rewarding by Dr. Running's commentary.

N. C. Indians Topic Of Program By Mrs. Ray MacKenzie

The first meeting of the Lector Book Club for the new year was held at the home of Mrs. Charles Flanagan Tuesday, January 5th.

Mrs. Tom Wilson, president presided over the meeting, after which Mrs. Ray MacKenzie, program leader for the afternoon, presented a most interesting and informative paper, "The Indians of North Carolina." She stated that members of the eastern band of Cherokees are free to roam the world and to make their homes anywhere they please. Many of them have roamed the world, some with Uncle Sam's armed forces, others to work at jobs in far places, but nearly all of them eventually return to the mountains of North Carolina. The Cherokee is happiest with his own people in his own mountains, where everyone is called by his first name and a man is judged by what he is and not by what he owns.

The Cherokees are citizens of the county, the state and the United States and exercise the privileges of citizens, including the ballot. In addition to problems of making a living and raising a family which must be met by all people, the Cherokees are solving an additional problem, that of remaining as "Indian" as they like, of retaining all they value of Cherokee culture, yet feeling themselves in every respect a vital integrated part of the stream of American life.

The hostess, assisted by Mrs. E. G. Flanagan and Mrs. Travis Flanagan, served a salad course with coffee.

After the books were exchanged the meeting adjourned.

Warming Up Faster Than The Weather

It's a right good while before the filing deadline for candidates in the Democratic primary to be held in May, but grand old game of politics is beginning to warm up already.

Senator Lennon and former Governor W. Kerr Scott, of course, have been campaigning diligently for several months—Lennon on his "get acquainted" visits, and Scott on his visits to get the feel of the public pulse.

Several weeks ago Scott named Terry Sanford, former YDC president, as his chief assistant in feeling out the people of the state; and this week Senator Lennon named John C. Rodman of Washington his

Curiosity Hampered Important Operation

Curiosity is a powerful force.

It often makes people go where they are not needed, do things which have little business doing. It likewise often hampers the work of others who are trying to carry out a job.

A prime example of the force of curiosity upon individuals is the number of people, armed with shotguns, pistols and rifles who converged on the little community of Bladenboro this week to aid in the hunt for the mysterious "vampire" which is roaming the community.

Wednesday night the hunt for the beast had to be called off because an estimated 800 to 1,000 armed hunters converged on the town of 786 people to aid in the hunt. Obviously the many hunters who came to offer their aid did so out of a combination of curiosity and willingness to aid in the search. Most of them did so not realizing they would hamper the program which already had been carefully planned to kill the beast which killed and drained the blood from more than half a dozen dogs, and attacked one woman in the community.

As it has turned out, officials who were heading up the hunt now had to worry about getting the vampire, and at the same time try to keep the 800 to 1,000 hunters from shooting each other by accident.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
ANTICIPATION AND REALIZATION
We often hear the expression that anticipation is greater than realization. This saying has become a cliché, but it is one of those eternal truths which, if people could only remember, would save them much misery.

The man hell-bent on making money fairly drolls at the mouth as he thinks how happy he will be when he has all the income he can spend. Then when he gets it, it gives him no added satisfaction, increases his burdens, and often goes a long way toward ruining both him and his family. The man whose wife doesn't understand him, and the woman who is married to a cold, unappreciative husband, think how glorious it will be if they can get rid of their present mates and marry each other. And when they do, the judge in the court house begins putting on his robe preparatory to hearing another divorce case. Men and women plan sin and find sadness. All their lives some people press on toward some unworthy goal, and when they reach it, they fairly keel over with boredom and disappointment.

In the deep spiritual things of life, anticipation can never equal realization. True love, religious inspiration, and the joy of sacrifice—here realization far exceeds anticipation. But at life's lower levels and in matters unworthy or even trivial, anticipation so far exceeds realization that people are often driven to the most desperate ends when a complete realization of their folly bursts upon them.

National Whirligig

Odd Aspect Seen In Reactions

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON—A curious and significant aspect of the McCarthy-Jenner-Verde pursuit of Reds and fellow-travelers in and out of Government is that such seemingly irrelevant factors as youth and wealth appear to determine the supporters and the opponents of their joint anti-Communist effort. That observation applies to officials and voters of both major Parties.

Although no sweeping analysis can be ventured on this question, numerous signs and polls indicate that the young people generally disapprove of the trio's aims, or at least of their techniques. On the other hand, the more conservative, established and elderly folk endorse the Congressional effort to uproot actual and potential subversives. The division in Senate and House on this issue testifies to this conclusion.

THEORY SUPPORTED—The make-up and behavior of the three investigators' committees also support this theory. Jenner's Senate Judiciary Committee has a majority of members approaching 60 or beyond that age. Almost without exception, they have approved his activities and reports with a unanimous vote. Jenner himself is only 45, while McCarthy is 44, and Verde only 43, furnishing an odd contrast to the general picture.

campaign manager for the coming primary. Closer to home, Judge J. Paul Frizzelle this week announced officially he will be a candidate for reelection as resident Superior Court Judge for the Fifth Judicial district which includes Pitt County.

Although there have been no official announcements for any of the Pitt County offices which will be filled in this year's election, it is a fairly good bet that politics on a local level will be warming up somewhat faster than the weather as the weeks of 1954 push along.

In addition to the election of officials to fill the post in this Congressional district and judicial district, Pitt County voters will name their senator and two representatives to the General Assembly, the sheriff, clerk of Superior Court, members of the County Board of Commissioners, and some township officials.

Present indications point to a rather active political time in Pitt County between now and May when the Democratic primary is held.

Looks Like The Ceiling Will Go Up

Opposition to the measure which would boost the legal limit of the debt of the nation above the present $275 billion ceiling apparently is softening.

After a recent White House conference, Senator George of Georgia said he had let the administration know he would go along with a "reasonable increase" in the national debt limit.

Before the first session of the 83rd Congress adjourned, a measure was passed by the House raising the national debt limit by $15 billion; but a similar measure was bottled up by the Senate Finance Committee and was not approved. Since that time, the administration has renewed from time to time its request that the debt ceiling be raised.

As it now stands, the national debt is within one-half billion dollars of the legal limit. Officials have asserted the limit will have to be raised in order to meet obligations of the government.

In any case, the ceiling on the national debt should not be raised unless the members of Congress find it is absolutely necessary to do so to keep the government solvent, and the operations of the government on an even keel commensurate with the needs of the nation.

Although it has not been proven, it is quite likely that the proximity of the national debt to the legal debt limit, has had a great deal to do with the economy measures which have been carried out by the administration. It is possible also that if the limit is raised to give more leeway, it will result in a lessening of the present stress upon economy which the government needs.

From the tone around Capitol Hill at present, it appears most of the adamant opposition to raising the ceiling on the national debt which was much in evidence last summer is giving way to an attitude: "if there's no other answer, we'll have to."

in the Democratic National Committee. AGE WEALTH FACTORS INTERMINGLED—The age-and-wealth factors appear to intermingle in the political bleachers. The division is reminiscent of the pre-Communist observation that "You can transform a Socialist into a reactionary by giving him a million dollars."

Senator McCarthy draws most of his extracurricular funds from extremely wealthy industrialists and Texas millionaires known as "Elsencrats." They have built up properties and fortunes which, rightly or wrongly, they feel to be in jeopardy because of the revolutionary movements here and abroad.

They blame the spread of Moscow's ideas and power in Europe and the Far East on the pro-Communist policies and personalities of the Roosevelt and Truman Administrations. Therefore, they foot the bill for the Congressional counterattack.

Ironically, McCarthy's most severe assailants in the Senate are millionaires—Senator Herbert H. Lehman of New York, Senators Robert S. Kerr and Mike Monroney of Oklahoma. Either they do not share their wealthy friends' fears, or they place partisanship above their property in a noble exhibition of Democratic unselfishness.

NO MATERIAL STAKE IN CONTROVERSY—The nonpolitical youngsters obviously do not have such a material stake in this controversy. They have not yet "made their pile." They have heavily mortgaged homes, $5,000-to-$7,000 jobs, young wives and children, and various luxuries and semi-luxuries which they are buying on the installment plans so liberal in their terms these days. Most of them still need help from their parents.

Somebody Told Me

Keep Enthusiasm For Food

Wife Rachel cooked such a good dinner yesterday that I was still living with the memory of it last night. It's normal, they tell me, to get more and more interested in food the older you get. At nearly 30, I am just about as interested as anybody could be.

This particular meal wouldn't be considered elaborate by some people; it consisted of fried chicken, garden peas frozen last summer, macaroni and cheese, hot rolls and butterscotch pie. For a drink, we had chocolate milk.

Most of us enjoy eating, but the extent of enjoyment is important. Although it's unhealthy to eat too much, it's a shame if you're missing the enthusiasm for food.

Pork and beans is the most under-rated dish in America. And some people even have missed the thrill of eating sardines. The most over-rated, to me, is caviar. It's supposed to be the most expensive and exclusive dish, yet I can hardly eat it.

Without a doubt, apple sauce is the nearest nothing you can put on a menu. Running a close second is tomato aspic, which is supposed to be a great salad.

The biggest contrast in eating is between a fish you catch and one you buy at the fish market. Don't let anyone try to tell you that a fish is a fish; the one you have caught is what the fisherman considers a victim of his talents and therefore tastes twice as good.

To me, sirloin and T-bone steaks are mood dishes. There are times when I get in the mood for a broiled steak and cannot be satisfied until I have one.

The best looking food of all is the other person's in a restaurant. Some day I hope to go into a restaurant, order, have the waitress bring in the food and not look at the other orders and wish I had ordered another dish. Never yet have I failed to make that wish. Some day I hope I can feel like I have ordered the right dish.

And I thank you. JACK EDWARDS

LAST OF THE TUSKEGEE REPORTS

(Rocky Mount Telegram)
Highly significant as portraying a trend in human behavior toward more civilized standards is the news from Tuskegee, Alabama, that Tuskegee Institute is discontinuing its annual report on lynchings in the United States. The reason? It's simple enough. There aren't any lynchings any more—or at least there have been no lynchings in past two years and those who compile the annual report appear to be convinced that the reports are no longer considered necessary.

Instead, the famed Negro college said that a more realistic report in which racial progress will be measured with a new formula using economic, political, educational and similar factors, will be furnished each year in the future.

Of course, we're glad to see the lynching report discontinued

Only 22 Members Of 1953 N.C. Senate Are Returning

By LYNN NISBET
SENATORS—Due to rotation agreements, resignations to take other permanent offices and one death, only 22 of the 50 members of the 1953 State Senate are eligible to return for the next session. Two of them, Senators Grady Rankin of the 26th district (Gaston county) and Hugh Horton of the 2nd have said they will not seek re-election.

Senator Malcolm Paul of the 2nd district resigned when he was appointed a Superior Court special judge, and Senator Zebulon Weaver of the 31st resigned to take over as solicitor of the Buncombe county court. Senator Thomas Wolfe of the 19th district died during the last session.

ever, the figure is much worse than that for the entire period that data is available on lynchings. That goes back to 1882 and during the period from that date until the first of 1951 there were 4,730 lynchings in 42 states. A breakdown shows that 3,487 of those lynchings were Negroes and 1,293 were whites. And such states as Georgia, with 530 for the period; Mississippi, with 574; Louisiana, with 391, and Texas with 493, have nothing to be proud of North Carolina, with 99, looks better than most of the Southern States, but here again there's nothing to cause one to feel any pride.

Now, these instances of brutality when men took the law into their own hands appear to be a thing of the past and The Telegram is most pleased indeed to hear that Tuskegee considers its annual report on lynchings as unnecessary in an enlightened age.

That seat goes to Wilson while Settle Bunn of Nash is eligible to return for a second term. In the 19th, Henry B. Smith of Union is eligible to return, the other seat going to Anson in place of Thomas Wolfe of Stanly.

The 7th district composed of Carteret, Craven, Greene, Jones, Lenoir and Onslow and represented by Senators John D. Larkin Jr. and Carl Hicks, has no rotation agreement.

In the 9th district Senators Henry Vann of Sampson and J.V. Whitfield of Pender must yield to new men from New Hanover and Duplin. The 10th district seats now held by J.A. Bridger of Bladen and Terry Sanford of Cumberland will go next time to Brunswick and Columbus. In the 12th Senator J.B. Thomas of Hoke and Free Ross of Randolph will be replaced by men from Harnett and Moore.

BALANCED—To balance representation in the 15th district, agreements have been reached for Rockingham to hold the seat for two terms and Caswell one. Senator Sam Bason of Caswell will yield to someone from Rockingham. A similar situation is found in the 16th district, where Senator Ralph Scott of Alamance after two terms will give place to an Orange county man.

In the 18th district Senators Edwin Duncan of Alleghany and in 1951 by W.B. Reeves of Ashe. (Reeves died before taking the oath of office and the seat remained vacant for the entire

Marketing Advances

By ELMER ROESSNER
Supermarkets have been the instigators of more marketing advances than any other group of retailers in the opinion of John A. Logan, president of the National Association of Food Chains.

He presented an impressive list of accomplishments before the American Marketing Association to back up this view: Departmentalization of the food store with its added convenience; Adoption of merchandise form and packaging to modern shoppers' needs; Almost complete self-service in grocery products;

The well-advanced trend to self-service in meat departments; Greatly expanded sale of perishables; Personnel upgrading, utilizing new training and skills; Completely new financing due to the need for large stores, warehouses, inventories and equipment;

Showmanship in merchandising, introducing new foods and new forms of foods; Statesmanship in food distribution where the retailer acts to aid consumers and producers in special situations occasioned by weather and markets.

Other advances accomplished by supermarkets include greater variety in product and size, controlled quality, refrigeration, trimmed produce and meats, better packaging, table-ready foods, one-stop shopping and free parking.

While making these advances, margins have been cut. Mr. Logan pointed out our food chain gross margins declined from 24 per cent in 1933 to 18 per cent this year. Perhaps Mr. Logan omitted some of the more obvious marketing revolutions brought about by the supermarkets because of his audience's familiarity with them. Mass food merchandising is most important in that it has reduced prices to the consumer. In addition, supermarkets have been instrumental in the development of the suburban shopping center and the suburbanization of cities. Just as important is the effect the supermarket has had on the merchandising practices of other retailers. Techniques in buying, packaging, display and promotion pioneered in the supermarket are being profitably adopted by variety chains, drugstores, candy and toy shops, department stores, clothing stores and many others.

It has been, and continues to be, a leading factor in the rapid modernization of merchandising. ETHIOPIAN TRADE BALANCE FAVORABLE

Ethiopian imports totaled $44,500,000 in 1952, almost entirely in manufactured goods, according to the Department of Commerce. At the same time it exported $45,500,000, principally coffee, hides, cereals and oilseeds.

The United States takes about 24 per cent of Ethiopia's exports and accounts for 18 per cent of its imports. Companies wishing to import into the country need no licenses but must have exchange permits. Import duties are high. The government bureau warns. Licenses are required for Ethiopian exports.

TRANSLATION POOL FOR TECHNICAL DATA
Business' increasing demand for translation of technical material from other languages will make the new Translation Pool set up by the Special Libraries Association especially useful.

A nucleus of 1,300 translations has been established and contributions are solicited from government agencies, technical societies, universities, industries and individuals. The pool will arrange for photocopies, if copies are not available for a reason. The pool expects to have a list of translations offered in the near future. Inquiries should be addressed to S.L.A. Is Winthrop Really Tightfisted

By HAL BOYLE
HOMETOWN, U.S.A. (AP)—"What makes men hold on to their money so?" demanded Trellis Mae Peeble, America's most average housewife.

Wilbur lowered his morning newspaper until their eyes met across the breakfast table. "Dear," he said, "a wife's conversation is like a jigsaw puzzle—it takes a fellow some time to make any kind of pattern out of it. What are you trying to get at? I don't know any man who is holding on to his money."

"Well, Winthrop Rockefeller is. I read it in the newspaper before you got up."

"Is he? How does he do it?" "By refusing to give it to Bobo."

"What's a Bobo?" "Oh, don't act so dumb. Bobo is Winthrop's wife," said Trellis Mae, who always spoke of famous people by their first name.

"Why won't he give it to Bobo?" replied Wilbur, who was trying to read an article about the electric power problem in India.

"Well, they are separated, and Winthrop moved to Arkansas to forget it all. Now he wants to settle six million dollars on her, but his lawyer says Bobo is holding out for 10 million dollars. Isn't that a silly thing to quarrel over?"

"It could be a matter of principle," said Wilbur. "And four million dollars is a pretty big principle."

"If she takes the six million dollars," mused Trellis Mae, "it says she could invest it so as to get about 120,000 tax-free dollars a year. That's not so much, is it?"

"Only about 325 bucks or so a day, including Sundays and the 29th of February during leap years," dryly remarked her husband. "But, of course, if she took it in silver dollars it would make quite a jingle in her purse."

"Whose side are you on, anyway?" asked his wife. "I don't believe in mixing in family quarrels. I wish they'd kiss and make up—even if it put 50 divorce lawyers in a breadline."

"Well, I certainly think you'd be more to the point than Winthrop. Remember what you told me when we had our first big quarrel and I threatened to leave you?"

"No, indeed," said Wilbur cautiously. "You told me I could have half of everything you owned."

"Yeah, that was nice of me. But what did I own then?" "You didn't own anything. You were even overdrawn at the bank."

"Well," said Wilbur, "if Winthrop was in the same spot as I was, I'll bet he'd be just as big a sport about it. You always have to take the circumstances into consideration. Why didn't you leave me anyway?"

"With no carfare and mother 300 miles away?" laughed Trellis Mae. "A girl has to be practical. I wouldn't leave you even if you made the same offer again today to give me half of everything you have in the bank."

Wilbur looked at her suspiciously. "Is our account overdrawn again?" he demanded. Trellis Mae nodded.

"I thought this conversation finally would lead somewhere," said Wilbur crossly. "Why can't you be more careful about your check stubs?"

"I will," promised his wife. Grumbling as he started to leave for work, Wilbur held out his hand for his usual two-dollar lunch money and cigarette allowance. Trellis Mae put only a single dollar in it.

"A buck for lunch," griped Wilbur. "A mouse can't live on that."

"My mouse can," said his wife. She kissed him. "G'bye, Bobo," he said. "G'bye Winthrop."

Jesus Uses His Authority

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

There was a wedding in Cana and Jesus and His disciples were invited. Jesus' mother was there, too, but there was no wine for the ceremony.

Mary told Jesus that there was no wine, and after He had answered her, she said to the servants, "Whatever He saith unto you, do it."

Six waterpots were in the room and Jesus told the servants to fill them with water, then to draw it out, and behold it was wine!

Finding the temple had become a marketplace, Jesus drove out the bargainiers, saying they were desecrating God's house. MEMORY VERSE—John 4:24.

Jesus Uses His Authority

FIRST MIRACLE PERFORMED AT MARRIAGE IN CANA

Scripture—John 2.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL. ST. JOHN is the only New Testament author who tells the story of what he calls the first miracle which occurred at the start of the Lord's public ministry. The only miracle that is related in all four gospels is the one of the feeding of the 5,000. Our commentator says this was actually the 13th in chronological order, the others being related by Matthew, Mark and Luke.

It was the custom to serve the best wine at the beginning of the feast, reserving the lesser until the last. When the governor tasted the contents of the water-pot he said: to the bridegroom, "Every man at the beginning doth set forth good wine; and when men have well drunk, then that which is worse; but thou hast kept the good wine until now."

This manifestation of His authority confirmed the disciples in their belief in Him.

John tells us that it was just three days after the events of last week's lesson when the four accepted Christ as the Messiah, that there was a wedding in Cana, a little village in Galilee, and Mary, Jesus' mother, was present as a friend or relative of either bride or groom. Jesus and His disciples were invited and accepted the invitation.

John also tells us of the first cleansing of the temple by Jesus. The time of the Passover was at hand, so after a few days at Capernaum with His mother, brethren and disciples, the Lord went to Jerusalem.

The Passover of the Jews consists of a sheep which is sacrificed, each man taking a sheep according to his father's house; and the Passover is accompanied by the slaughter of thousands of rams and goats, in proportion to the number of houses of the people.

When Jesus went to the temple to the groom's home. Many guests were present and that meant a great outlay for food and wines. In this case the wine for the ceremonies gave out, and Mary heard of it and told Jesus, "They have no wine."

He "found those that sold oxen and sheep and doves, and the changers of money sitting." He made a scourge of small cords and drove all out of the temple.

"Take these things hence; make not My Father's house an house of merchandise," He told them.

"His disciples remembered that it was written, The zeal of Thine house hath eaten me up," thinking, most likely, that Jesus was so righteously indignant that He was carried away.

The Jews asked Christ what sign He could show them, "seeing Thou dost these things?" Jesus answered, "Destroy this temple, and in three days I will raise it up." The Jews were skeptical, but St. John adds, "But He spake of the temple of His body," meaning His resurrection.

When He was indeed risen from the dead, His disciples remembered He had said this to them. This is the first time Jesus mentioned His Resurrection.

At this time many believed in Jesus when they saw the miracles He did. However, Jesus knew men; He knew what was in man, John tells us. Yes, He knew men—all men, their strength and their weaknesses, their virtues and faults, and He believed all could be saved. Shall we despair of man when Christ never did, even in His suffering as a man?

At any rate, Mary was not displeased, and she said to those who were helping as servants on this important occasion, "Whatever He saith unto you, do it."

Now there were six stone waterpots set there, "after the manner of the purifying of the Jews, containing two or three firkins apiece"—about 20 gallons, more or less.

"Jesus saith unto them, Fill the waterpots with water. And they filled them to the brim."

Then said Jesus, "Draw out now, and bear to the governor of the feast. And they bare it."

The men who drew the "water" from the pots knew at once that it had been changed to wine, but no one else present did. The governor or steward was the manager of the feast, and one of his duties was to taste the wines and food before the guests were served.

Is God Responsible For World Distress?

Bible Lecture

CURTIS D. WHITEHURST, Ordained Minister Kingdom Hall of Jehovah's Witnesses

Sunday, January 10, — 7:00 P. M.

Why, since 1914, two world wars, famines, pestilence, earthquakes, distress and perplexity, men's hearts failing them for fear for the things they see coming upon earth? Why the outlook of the world seems utterly hopeless as atomic warfare threatens?

Do these things prove it is the composite sign of Matthew 24th chapter and other prophecies indicating the end of this system of things is near at hand and a new world to be ushered in bringing permanent peace and relief from sorrow, suffering and death on earth?

City Building Tops $1.5 Million In '53

Building permits for $1,543,200 worth of new construction in Greenville were issued by City Building Inspector George Gardner during 1953 according to his combined monthly and annual report to the City Council last night.

The report also indicated that 24 permits for alterations to buildings were issued for dwellings and 29 for duplex apartments at a combined cost of $1,136,200; 17 permits for commercial buildings costing $277,000 were approved and building permits for two churches at $130,000 were issued by the building inspector.

Gardner's report to the councilmen said that during December alone, permits for five duplex apartments and two dwellings were approved, cost of which will be $53,000. One commercial building was approved during last month at a cost of $8,500. In addition the two church permits were issued last month to cost $130,000 giving a total of $191,500 in new construction approved in December. Gardner also issued one permit for alterations to a building to cost $6,500. Fees from the permits amounted to $16,500 which has been turned over to the city clerk's office.

The building inspector also gave the council an eight-year report of building in Greenville. The report indicated that from 1946 through 1953 a total of 953 dwellings, 65 apartments, 204 commercial buildings and two churches had been authorized in the city at a total cost of $10,946,100.

Gardner emphasized in his report that this was a conservative total because the amount of new buildings on property taken into the city after the building in this total. He said that a number of subdivisions had been taken into the city limits after a large number of houses had been built in the sections.

Following is a year-by-year breakdown of building permits issued showing the type buildings and the total cost each year from 1946 through 1953:

1946—84 dwellings, 41 commercial $818,550; 1947—117 dwellings, 44 commercial, $1,464,850; 1948—114 dwellings, 35 commercial, $1,373,600; 1949—73 dwellings, 10 commercial, $616,800; 1950—229 dwellings, 23 commercial, $1,984,200; 1951—142 dwellings, 113 apartments, 14 commercial, $1,509,000; 1952—110 dwellings, 23 apartments, 20 commercial, $1,638,000; 1953—90 dwellings, 23 apartments, 2 churches, 17 commercial, $1,543,200.

Winterville Cage Teams Having Good Season; Win 15 Of 18

By BOB BOYETTE
Winterville's basketball teams, winners of 15 out of 18 games so far this season are among the top teams in Pitt County.

The girls have won eight straight games, losing only to Bear Grass in the opening game of the season. They have posted four straight Pitt County Conference wins this season.

The boys, although they have not kept the pace that the girls have in the county, have won seven out of nine for the season.

The Winterville sextet, known as the Wolverines, have won the Pitt County tournament for two straight years and are expected to be a threat this year. Already county coaches are voting them number one team around the county.

Coach Paul Clark will not make a prediction, but his team is speaking for itself. Although they lost two players who were voted All-Pitt Conference last season they are sweeping through their games this year with ease.

Coach Clark said that may come to a halt however, because one player is lost until at least February and another is limping from a sprained ankle. Joan Averette, a forward who has been averaging 18 points this season is out until February at least because of an appendicitis operation. Another forward, Jane Corey, is still playing although she has a sprained ankle.

The coach thinks he has the best set of guards he has had since he has been coaching at Winterville so when tourney time comes around Winterville will probably be there bidding for a third straight championship trophy.

So far this season Jean Little has been leading the scoring for Winterville with a 22 per game point average. She has played less than a quarter in four games too, according to Coach Clark.

Pacing the three outstanding guards this far this season has been Betty Jane Nobles.

So far the Wolverines, who have eight lettermen back despite the loss of their two All-Pitt Conference players who graduated, have lost only to Bear Grass 71-61 in the opening game.

Since that loss they have beaten Grimesland 59-21, Stokes 50-37, Vanceboro 40-19, Bethel 63-60, Grifton 63-45, Vanceboro 39-33 and Maury 57-18.

Good Three-Year Record
Over the last three year period the Winterville girls have won 78 games while losing five and tying one. They represented this district in the State tournament last year at Aberdeen, losing to Aberdeen who later won the State Championship.

Last year's record showed 28 wins, two losses, and one tie.

Conference Darkhorse
The boys' team are probably the darkhorses in the Pitt County Conference this year. They have lost two of their four county games, but

Foxhunters Plan Show And Trials

Several Pitt counties attended the Eastern Carolina Foxhunters Association field trial and bench show planning meeting in Goldsboro last night.

The first of the foxhunting events will be a bench show for hounds at Wayne Memorial Community Building next Tuesday, January 12 at 7 o'clock.

The first of the foxhunting field trials will be held Wednesday, January 13, in an area near Broadhurst Bridge.

Hounds will be quartered at the Farmers' Warehouse on the Goldsboro-Wilson highway. The registration fee for each hound will be $3. Ribbons and trophies will be given for best dogs and best bitches. Registration will not be limited to hounds in Eastern Carolina, but owners in the area are especially invited to enter their dogs and participate. Arrangements are being made to care for between 100 and 200 dogs and hunters.

Full information may be obtained from Secretary D. Ed Howell of Goldsboro.

Banquet Honors Midget Players

About 80 boys and their fathers attended the Midget Football Banquet held last night at Respass Brothers. The banquet was sponsored by the Greenville Exchange Club and Respass Brothers.

Guest speaker was Coach Jack Boone of East Carolina College, who spoke on what a college coach expects from his players. He also showed movies of the Stetson-East Carolina football game.

Football emblems were awarded of all boys who participated in the Midget program sponsored by the Recreation Department and the Exchange Club.

The championship "Blue" team players also received key chain initials as well as football emblems.

both losses have been to teams who are undefeated in County play.

Coach E. L. "Snag" Clark has seven lettermen back from last year's team that lost in the semi-finals of the Pitt County tournament to Ayden, who finally won the tourney.

Lex Keeter has been pacing the Winterville offense and defense through the first nine games this year. He has averaged 10 points a game.

Coach Clark said that in Dean Wingate he has one of the best rebound men in the county. Wingate is six feet three inches tall.

Clark does not care to make any comments about his squad but believes that they will be in the top bracket when tournament time rolls around. He said he makes that statement only if he has "any luck whatsoever."

The Winterville coach has two boys who were lettermen last year that are back in school, but out with illness. They are Charles Robinson and John Gorman.

So far this season Winterville has beaten Bear Grass 65-56, Grimesland 81-44, Grifton, 64-53, Maury 61-44, Vanceboro 65-49 and 61-59, and Maury again 75-41. They have lost to Bethel 56-53 and Stokes-Pactolus 47-37. It took two overtimes to beat Vanceboro 61-59 in the second game.

Phantoms Seeking Second Conference Win Tonight

Howell Leads G-Men Against Washington

By WAYNE BISHOP
Reflector Sports Writer

Gunning for their fourth consecutive win, Greenville High School invades Washington tonight for a conference contest with their arch-rivals, Washington's Pam Pack.

The G-Men will be after their second win of the year against a team it downed in two of three games last season. The Greenies seemingly have a much-improved squad over last year while the Pam Pack lost virtually all of its starting team. The underdog seems to be the favorite however, whenever these rivals meet in any spot.

Center Pinky Young and guard Charlie Bishop will lead the Pack against the G-Men tonight. Both are averaging over ten points per game and will supply most of Washington's offensive fireworks.

Coach Bo Farley's starting five and his strong bench have a well-balanced attack with any one of the first nine players hitting in the double figures at one time or the other.

Bobby Howell and Walter Perkins will be the starting forwards with 6'2" sophomore Harold Edwards at center. Playmakers George Sideris and Tommie Saleed will be at the guards with Pat Sawyer slated to see quite a bit of action also.

Reserves counted on by Coach Farley include Clark Noble, Bobby Starkey and Edgar Moore.

The varsity contest is slated for 8 p.m. with a preliminary game between the jayvees set for 6:30.

Pirates Prepare For Elon Contest Tomorrow Night

Elon's Christians open their North State Conference play tomorrow night with about the biggest mouthful they could bite off. The Christians meet East Carolina in Memorial Gym in a game scheduled to start at 8 p.m.

Elon has been warming up for the conference wars by taking on non-conference opposition. Last night they went up against Presbyterian and were dumped 82-61. The game was their first since the Christmas vacation period.

Coach Doc Mathis' squad has been weakened considerably this year by losses from last year's squad. Elon lost four of its five starters from a team that won 25 and lost 11 and which went to the finals in both the district NAIA and the North State Conference tournaments.

East Carolina defeated Elon twice last year during the regular season and once during the tournament period. The tournament victory sent the Pirates to Kansas City as representatives of District 26 in the NAIA.

Four of the players who started last year in the three games with the Christians are back for duty again this year. The only loss is that of All-State Forward Sonny Russell but the slack left by Russell's leaving has been more than taken up by a greater balance in team play and good performances by Paul Jones and freshman Don Harris who alternate at the forward post vacated by Russell.

Jones will probably get the starting nod tomorrow against Elon. He started Tuesday against Belmont Abbey and played much of the game in which the Pirates rang up a 101-83 victory. Harris also saw considerable action when Jones was moved to a guard post by Coach Howard Porter at various times during the game.

The remainder of the East Carolina starting line-up tomorrow night will not be a stranger at all to Mathis and the Christians. Charlie Huffman, the senior hook shot artist from Thomasville will be at one of the forwards. All-State center Bobby Hodges will be at his usual position. J. C. Thomas and playmaker Cecil Heath will be at the guards. All four started against Elon all three times last year.

After tomorrow's game the Pirates will be idle for a week. Their next game will be January 16 when they travel to Hickory for a return match with the Lenoir Rhyne Bears. That game will be the first of a two-game road trip for the Pirates who will meet Western Carolina in Cullowhee the following Monday.

of Brown's attack, with Thomas expected to pass occasionally.

Billy Wells, Michigan State's Rose Bowl star, will also see plenty of action, with the possibility of a running duel developing between him and the South's speedy Bobby Cavazos, wrecker of Auburn in the Gator Bowl.

Both coaches are expected to give most players a chance to perform on both offense and defense.

Speight Elected Captain

James Speight will be captain of the 1954 Greenville High School football team.

By a popular vote yesterday afternoon the high stepping halfback was picked by a landslide. Another halfback, Bob Howell, was runner-up to Speight.

Speight was Mr. Offense for the Greenville squad this year. He led the team in scoring with 36 points, in rushing yardage with 621 yards, and yards per carry with a 6.2 average.

The jet propelled junior also played safely on defense, returning punts and kickoffs.

This is the second big honor handed to Speight in a matter of a few weeks. He was picked on the second team all-conference squad at halfback just before Christmas.

Speight seemed slightly bewildered at his nomination. He said, "It is almost the biggest thrill I've ever had. I consider it a big honor and hope I can do my job well."

When asked what his biggest thrill was in football, Speight answered quickly. "Of course it was the Jacksonville ball game this year when I scored three touchdowns within five minutes. That last one was the best."

The "last one" Speight mentioned was a punt return of some 92 yards, the longest run recorded in GHS football in a long time.

The modest speedster doesn't confine his talents only to football. He also is one of the outstanding members of the track team. Speight runs the half-mile and does the broad jump well enough to letter for the past two years.

As far as Speight's teammates were concerned they only said, "It couldn't have happened to a more deserving guy."

Browns Sign Speedy Halfback

CLEVELAND (AP)—Cleveland's Browns signed another speedy halfback last night—Gene Filipki, who played for Army until the 1951 cribbing scandal and then moved to Villanova for two years. Filipki weighs 180 pounds and is 21 years old. He can run and catch and throw passes.

Also announced today by the Browns was the signing of two rookie linemen—tackle John MacErelli, who played for St. Vincent, Pa. College in the 1949 Tangerine Bowl, and guard Herschel Forestier from Southern Methodist. Both were in military service the past two years.

Trick Knee Is Success Secret

BOSTON (AP)—The National League's top pitcher, Lefty Warren Spahn of the Milwaukee Braves credits a secret knee injury for his 23.7 record last season.

"It hurt me a lot and I couldn't run at full speed but it made me pitch more carefully," Spahn explained.

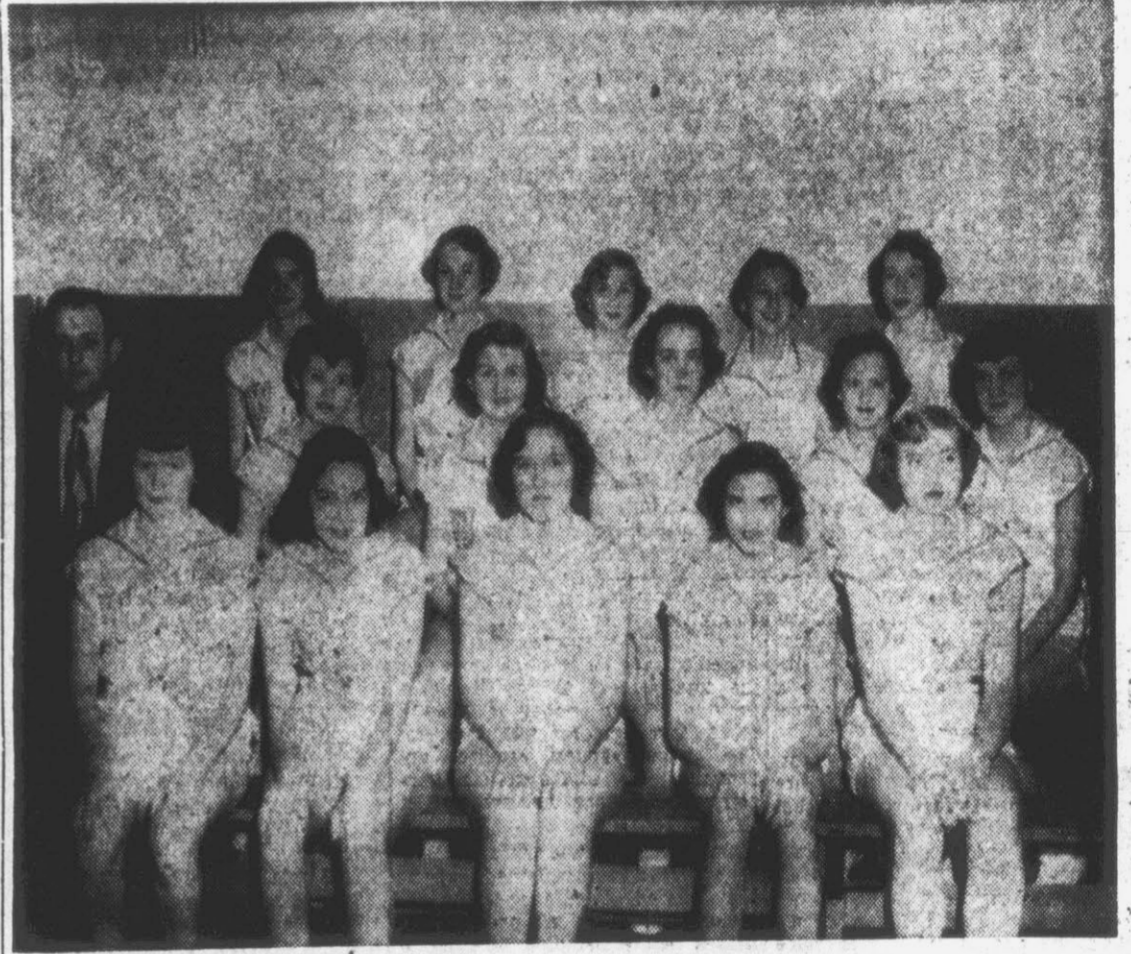

He tore a cartilage during a pepper game in the Bradenton, Fla., training camp last March. "Only Doc Lachs (Braves trainer) and I knew about it," Spahn said. "But if rival batters even suspected it, they'd have bunted me out of the league. I had it removed by Dr. Don O'Donoghue in Oklahoma City in late October and my knee now is in perfect shape."

Spahn, who has a large financial interest in a Boston restaurant, predicted Braves slugger Eddie Mathews would come close to Babe Ruth's 60-homer record if he got away to a fast 1954 start.

"All the other sluggers in the majors wait for just the pitch they want," Spahn said. "But Mathews will hit any good pitch. His power is terrific and he's the most likely one to break Ruth's record."

Accompanied by his wife and small son, Spahn will visit Buffalo, N. Y., his birthplace, next Monday, when he will be an honored guest at a March of Dimes dinner.

Fire Losses For '53 Hit $183,932 In City

Greenville's largest fire during 1953 was the $75,000 blaze at the North Side Lumber Company, according to Fire Chief George Gardner's annual report of fire losses which was received by the City Council last night.

The North Side fire made up the lion's share of the $183,932.73 in fire losses which the city suffered last year.

The fire chief emphasized that the figure of $183,932.73 was an official amount as obtained from the various insurance adjusters involved.

The year 1953 was the third largest year in fire losses since 1946. The only two years which exceeded 1953 were 1948 and 1951. In 1948 fire damage in Greenville amounted to $210,720.59 and 1951 was far ahead of all other years when fire losses reached $439,656.42.

The complete fire losses by years from 1946 to 1953 follow: 1946—$48,339.62; 1947—$38,283.07; 1948—$210,720.59; 1949—$137,514.94; 1950—$31,534.43; 1951—$439,656.42; 1952—$150,111.72; 1953—$183,932.73.

In his regular monthly report Gardner said that 10 box alarms were received by the local department during December, 25 telephone calls to fires were received, two calls came from within the county and that the fire department was called to burn off two lots during the monthly period. The fire department's rescue truck was called out seven times last month, the chief's report indicated.

Fire losses for the final month of 1953 totaled $14,435.87, the report stated. Volunteer firemen were paid $143 during the month.

Gardner's report also showed that during the year of 1953 volunteer firemen received a total of $546 in wages.

At the hospital, told that amputation of the right leg below the knee and the left leg above the knee was unavoidable, Becky asked that a radio, typewriter and fountain pen be sent to her room.

With them she began the rehabilitation that is her unwavering aim today.

"A little later I expect to write again for the paper, perhaps on an irregular schedule at first. When I have learned to walk again I expect to go back to the Express on a full-time permanent basis."

Miss Gross joined the Express staff as a reporter in 1925. She was one of the first two U.S. newspaperwomen selected for a Nieman Fellowship at Harvard. Last year she was one of seven U.S. newspaper editors who made an unprecedented trip to Russia, and later reported extensively on the trip for the Associated Press.

At 5.15 that afternoon, while the newspaper was being delivered in her north-central Pennsylvania home town area, Miss Gross was driving to Williamsport Airport to meet her sister. At an intersection, her car and another collided. She was thrown to the street, pinned against a pole.

Already the 48-year-old editor of the Lock Haven (Pa.) Express is looking forward to learning to walk with the aid of artificial limbs as the first step in her return to full-time duty at the paper.

What will she write about? The smiling, brunette woman known to editors across the nation as "Becky" has a ready answer for that question:

"I'm going to write a lot about highway safety," she told a reporter.

The grim statistics of highway safety will not be a new topic for Becky. The Express of last Thursday published her lead editorial titled "How Not To Start A New Year."

"No one needs to be one of those New Year accident victims," she wrote. "Who wants to start the New Year in a hospital or a morgue?"

Asks Employers Contact Office If Veteran Sought

Veteran's Employment Representative at the local Employment Security Commission, Ernest Tinnin today urged local employers to contact the employment office when they want a veteran for on-the-job training.

"We would like for employers to contact this office whenever they desire a veteran to train under the GI Bill," Tinnin said.

gister with the office. Veteran's also get preferential treatment when applying for jobs on which they do not intend to take advantage of on-the-job training, Tinnin noted. He said that if a veteran and a non-veteran with the same qualifications applied for a job at the same time the veteran would receive first choice.

The employment representative said that 219 veterans were placed in non-agricultural jobs last year.

This amounted to 21 per cent of the total male placements during the year, he brought out.

During December, 19 Korean and World War II veterans, or 40 per cent of the male placements, were found jobs Tinnin said.

Double Amputee Going Ahead On Safety Work

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP) — One week after the tragic accident in which she lost both legs, Rebecca Gross made plans from a hospital wheel chair today towards resuming her active newspaper career.

Report McCarthy Angling For $300,000 Probe Fund

By G. MILTON KELLY
WASHINGTON (AP) — Members of the Senate investigations subcommittee said today Chairman McCarthy (R-Wis) is angling for a $300,000 appropriation to finance its work this year.

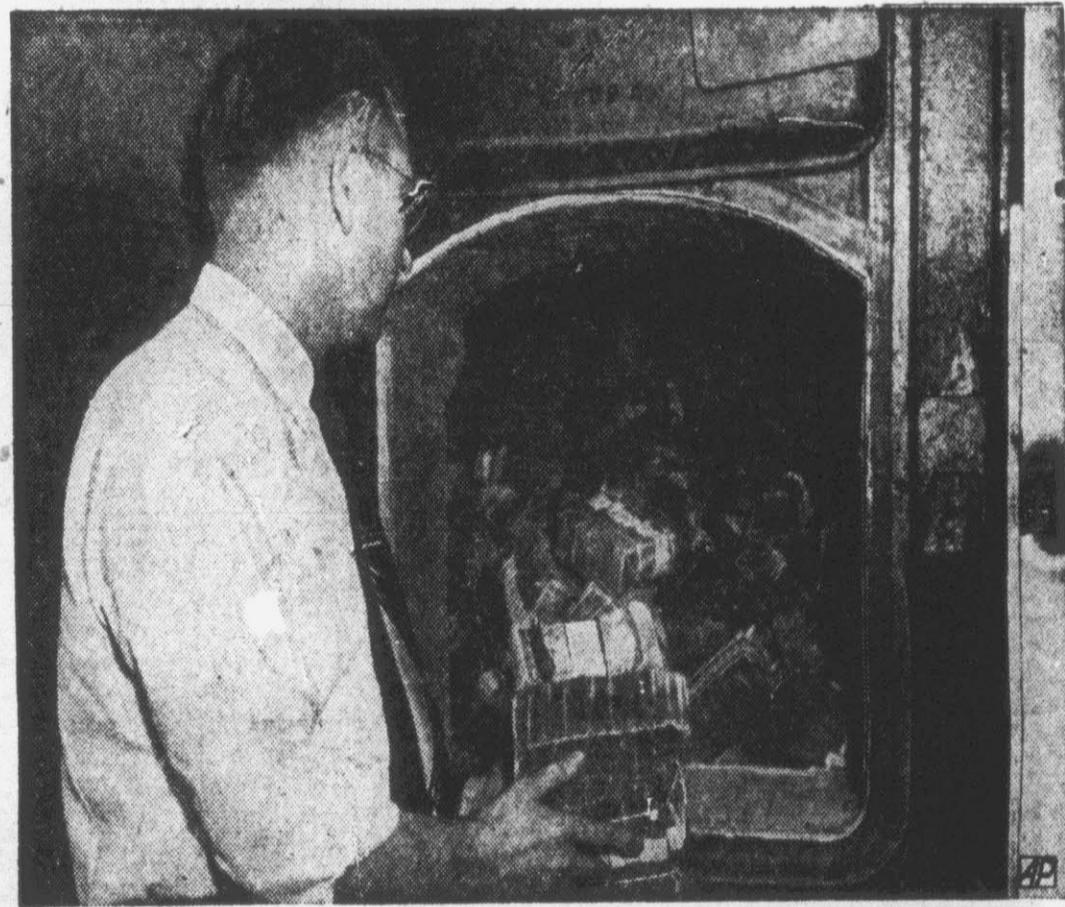

The senatorial informants, insisting on anonymity, said the figure proposed by McCarthy is subject to change before it is presented to the Senate. They spoke in separate interviews.

A $300,000 figure would be 50 per cent greater than the subcommittee's 1953 budget, which was twice as large as its appropriation in 1952.

McCarthy said he gave the subcommittee a preview of the proposed budget yesterday, but he declined to talk for publication about the total except to say it would provide enough money to hire 10 more investigators and lawyers.

The budget request requires approval of his all-Republican subcommittee before he presents it to the Senate.

One subcommittee member, Sen. Mundt (R-SD), confirmed reports that he had called for "a job analysis" report on all present employes before deciding whether to go along with any request for a bigger fund. He declined to dis-uss the dollar total for publication. McCarthy said he expects any request for funds the subcommittee makes will meet opposition when it finally reaches the Senate floor. "I will ask for a record roll-call vote on any motion to cut it down," he said. He added that he will base the demand on a contention that the vote would show "who is in favor of digging out Communists."

Sen. Jenner (R-Ind) introduced a resolution in the Senate yesterday asking for a bigger appropriation for his Senate internal security subcommittee, which has shared headlines with McCarthy's group in investigating Communism. Present spending authority for both subcommittees expires Jan. 31.

Jenner's resolution asked for $170,000 of new funds for his subcommittee's work this year, plus the right to spend an unexpended balance now totaling nearly $60,000. Its 1953 budget provided $150,000 of new money, and the right to spend a carryover balance of $69,000.

McCarthy said he is willing to "lean over backward" to work out some agreement to woo back Democrats who resigned from the group last July. But "on one point I will be completely adamant—I will not give an inch," he declared.

He said this point is his claim to sole rights to hire and fire staff members. This was the issue on which Sens. McClellan (D-Ark), Symington (D-Mo) and Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash) resigned, accusing McCarthy of trying to run "a one-man committee."

CHAPTER SEVENTEEN
GRANDY was at the station to meet her. Dale's throat filled. The city and its problems faded out as the bony old arms went around her, their circle holding all the security in the world. But he was holding her off, his scrutiny alert and interrogative. Finally, "Is that what they call a hat in New York?" he rumbled disparagingly.

He laughed. "It's a Sally Victor."

His, "My, my!" was a triumph of frivolity over emotionalism. Bless him, Dale thought. "These your bags?" Grandy asked.

Just in time Dale caught back her movement to lift them herself. Years he'd admit to, but never debility. Had he grown older, more all? Or had absence only sharpened her perceptions?

Dale looked around eagerly as Grandy stowed her bags in the car. Bicycles were propped in a row against the station wall, and teen-agers from the summer colony cavorted like happy brown savages in rowdy groups. Joshua Wragge trundled the mailbags along the cinderly platform in his wheelbarrow, and a bevy of dusty sparrows roved from the vines of the ancient, unused water tower.

Dale yielded to a wild, sweet freedom a joyous release from pressures. She felt lighthearted, like a child let out from school, as they drove toward the lake. Around the bend—and a flash of white clapboard behind the dense green windbreak brought a returning pall of memories.

The crowing of roosters and the bawling of heifers was no longer a familiar reveille. A year ago the farm had started breaking up, and now the lakefront lots were all sold. Cottages were springing up all along the shore, and Dale awoke to the whine of saws and the banging of hammers.

The kitchen was a cube of sunlight. African violets were on the window sill and Henry, the big black cat, looked as much at home in Grandy's rocking chair as he ever had in the barn where he had been raised. Dale stroked him, smiling as the tip of his tail flickered.

"Those carpenters wake you up?" Grandy asked at breakfast.

"At it from daylight to dark, noisier'n a barn-raising!" Dale asked.

"Does it bother you, Grandy?" Dale asked.

"I'm getting used to it. Can't have a change without some ruckus, I reckon. Want to make the round of the shore with me and see what's going on?" They tramped all morning.

"Kind of miss the farm," Grandy said. "Seems like the tang of newly sawn wood and fresh paint don't rightly belong here, after a lifetime of smelling the crops ripening. But once you're done with a thing, you're done. Your grandmother's even given away my overalls. How do you like these gray flannel pants?"

"Very becoming," Dale said with a catch in her throat. He'd always like overalls better. "You look like one of those 'gentlemen of distinction' advertisements."

He seated himself on a flat gray rock and Dale dropped down on the clover-thick grass beside him. Overhead, great white masses of cumulus clouds cast patches of shade on the water and the incense of cedar was sharp.

Grandy chewed reflectively on a stalk of timothy. "You like New York?"

"Well enough."

"When's Kelly's book coming out?"

"In August."

"Who is this grasshopper who jumps in and out of your letters—Phil Parrish?"

Grandy shot her a sideways look. "Does that dispose of him?" She nodded. "And the scientist?"

"Don." She hugged her knees. "Very solid very earnest, very dependable."

"Now that's what I call a fine array of superlatives," he remarked, stroking his chin and watching her narrowly.

"And that disposes of him," she said lightly.

"So? How about this Jeffrey Windsor, now?"

Her smile faded, and the quality of her voice changed, lost its lightness. "Jeffrey was one of the re-buffs, Grandy. One of the stings."

He nodded his head up and down slowly. "You read that poem, eh? Kind of wondered if you'd know what that Englishman was getting at."

Dale turned to him bewildered. "I honestly was beginning to be happy again, Grandy, here with you and Grandmother. I was finding a sort of peace. Why did you send me away?"

"There's peace in the grave," he said. "Settling down with two old fogies ain't natural for you—unless you're waiting for something. Expecting something. You weren't you? There's nothing for you here in Swanscombe, Dale. Old folks, through with life, or retreating from it. It's false security. It'll destroy you—as it's destroying Armored Crosland."

Dale said slowly "Tell me about her, Grandy."

He discarded the blade of grass and pulled another. "About your age she was, when her husband died. Armored and her son moved in with her in-laws. All the old folks wanted was the boy, their only grandson. Half a dozen chances of marrying again. Armored had. But the Croslands knew they'd lose the boy if they lost Armored, so they drove off her young men."

"Maybe she found it hard to love again," Dale said, lifting a drawn face.

"She didn't get the chance. They made it her bounden duty to be faithful to her husband's memory. Well, the boy died. Pneumonia. So they lost him, anyway. And when the old people passed on, all Armored had was the big barn of a house crammed from cellar to attic with memories."

"Memories are something."

"No one can preserve and cling to one mood of happiness, Dale, for happiness changes its form. It must be allowed to grow up, like a child. You have to learn to grow beyond your memories." He asked sternly, "You don't want to be another Armored do you?"

"No." So soft and round a word, so sharp.

Grandy let his hand rest for a moment on her hair. "The good Lord didn't give us our three-score years and ten to waste in barren days, Dale. That's Armored's tragedy. Waste and retreat and self-destruction. And the day's not far off when she'll reach and pass the final barrier."

Listening to the meditative voice Dale shivered in the heat. "I'll go back to New York, Grandy. I'll find another job. Just let me catch my breath."

"I'm not much on homilies, Dale. I only want what's best for you."

"Who knows that?"

"You'll know yourself, when the time comes. All I know is that sorrow and gladness and pain and love are part of living, and you have to take them all as they come. I don't want you standing still forever where you were when Kelly died. I want you reconciled. When you reach the place of finding belief in some substitute, I'll know you're all right."

"Another Kelly?" Her eyes were bleak on the sadly whispering lake. "Never!"

Spryly as a boy, Grandy got off his rock. "The times I've used that word, only to find it unreasonable! A good deal of living is the fight to rise above pain, Dale. I thought once that I would never smile again. Right after your father died over there among them heathens, it was. Then I'd see a crocus pushing through the snow and the silver of a birch against a storm-black sky, and I'd get to thinking on the mystery of life and death. Each soul has its own mystery, you know. We can't figure it out. All we can do is to have faith and keep in step with the living. . . . You hungry, girl? There's parsley dumplings and stewed chicken for lunch, your grandmother said."

Dale shook her head at him lovingly. "You're quite a man."

"Gettin' old," he said disparagingly. "Gettin' old Dale."

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — Prices eased off today in the stock market with trading moderate.

Occasionally, a stock was down as much as a major fraction, but most changes were smaller. Gains were scattered and small.

The usual opening rush of trading soon gave way to a much quieter pace that maintained a rate under yesterday's 1,840,000 shares, which was built up largely when the market was falling.

Trading interest was well scattered about the major divisions. In the unchanged to lower category were motors, rubbers, mail orders, farm implements, distillers, radio-televisions, utilities, coppers, golds, railroads, and air lines.

Others were mixed or at best held steady in a quiet way.

Hudson Motor, the most active stock of the past two days, opened up 1/4 today and continued to trade with that small gain or unchanged most of the time. Interest in Hudson comes from rumors of merger talks with Nash, which was traded infrequently today at slightly lower prices.

Lower stocks included Republic Steel, General Motors, Radio Corp., American Telephone, Du Pont, American Tobacco, and Southern Railway.

Higher were Boeing, American Can, Union Carbide, and Johnson & Johnson.

CHICAGO (AP) — (USDA) — Salable hogs 7,000; butchers active uneven; steady to fully 25 or more higher; hogs 75-1.00 lower; choice 180-230 lb butchers 25.25-26.85; mostly 25.50 and above; top 26.00 sparingly; 240-270 lbs 24.25-25.25; hedges 25.50 or above on some 240 lb weights; 280-325 lbs 23.50-24.50; choice hogs 350-550 lbs 19.75-21.75; with occasional choice light sows around 22.00 or slightly above. Good clearance.

Salable cattle 1,500; calves 200; slaughter steers and heifers mostly steady; fresh receipts mainly cows; these opened about steady; later trade and general market

No Arguments

NEW YORK (AP) — Science has come up with a new type television receiver intended to halt family arguments by presenting two programs at the same time on the same screen.

Dad can watch a boxing bout while mother enjoys a play, or both can watch an adult program while the children are absorbed with a fantasy.

This is accomplished with the use either of polarized eyeglasses or polarized glass panels in front of the TV screen.

Known as a "duoscope" and produced by the Allen B. Du Mont Laboratories, it is essentially two sets in one.

You tune in on any two programs. Use of the glasses eliminates one of the pictures. Reverse the glasses and you eliminate the other.

Each set has earphones for the sound to go with the program.

Six Scouts Installed Into Honor Group

Books Column Is To Be Featured

A new column, "Books and Stuff" by Dr. Edgar W. Hirschberg, assistant professor of English at East Carolina College, will appear Saturday in The Daily Reflector, and on following Fridays.

In addition to the column which will deal with new books and books on the best seller lists across the nation, a series of book reviews will be carried.

Dr. Hirschberg joined the English faculty of East Carolina College last summer, coming from Ohio University. While a member of the English faculty at North Carolina State College in Raleigh, Dr. Hirschberg was drama critic for the Raleigh Times. He has also written for the New York Public Library Bulletin and other publications.

Dr. Hirschberg, who will edit the column and book reviews for The Reflector, holds degrees from Harvard, and Cambridge University, England, and received his Ph.D. at Yale University.

engineer, are to go to Raleigh in the near future for a conference in reference to a survey on the project.

A petition for curb and gutter paving on two blocks of White Street was presented the Council, and the city manager and city engineer instructed to prepare to call for bids on all paving and curb and gutter projects approved by the Council as soon as possible after the February meeting of the board.

Routine Business

In other routine matters, the board approved the plat for a commercial subdivision at the intersection of the Farmville-Winterville highways on South Dickinson Ave.; authorized the transfer of taxi franchises from L. W. Herring to W. R. Stocks provided Herring surrenders the franchises he now holds; approved releasing from taxes property owned by the Eighth Street Christian Church against which $67.50 taxes had been charged.

A request from Joseph Anderson for release from $6.25 in tax charges was authorized by the Council provided a signed affidavit be presented to the city showing he was not a resident of the city for the period of time covered by the tax charge against personal property.

The Council authorized the city to supplement the retirement pension received by William Kerney, former Street Department employee for 25 years, in an amount equal to the difference between one-half his average salary for the last five years of employment, and the amount he now receives under the pension plan.

Action on a request for a loading zone on Dickinson Avenue at the intersection of Eighth Street and Dickinson Avenue was deferred by the Council until further study can be made.

Authorization was given by the Council for the removal of trees, the repair of sidewalks and the widening of the street in two blocks on the west side of Evans Street, from Seventh to Eighth Streets, and from Tenth to Eleventh Streets.

The Council also authorized the installation of flood lights at the railroad crossings on Elm Street and Evans Street.

Payment of bills and other routine matters were also disposed of by the Council.
