Four persons were injured when two cars crashed head-on on N. C. 11 about a mile south of Bethel Saturday morning at 11:30.
The injured were John L. Gurganus, who suffered a severe head injury; Mrs. Gurganus, who received a broken left arm and fractures of both ankles; James Sydney Moore, who received bruises on the chest and leg; and Mrs. Moore, who suffered a severe cut on the face.
Investigating patrolman Dalton Perry said that Mrs. Gurganus was driving south on N. C. 11 and was attempting to make a left turn into a drive on the left side of the road. She told the patrolman that she had pulled off to the right of the road to allow another car to pass and then attempted to make her turn. She said that she did not see the other car coming.

Moore, who was driving the second vehicle, said that he swung to the right when he saw the other car turning in front of him but could not avoid the collision.
Mr. and Mrs. Gurganus were thrown from the vehicle from the force of the collision. A third occupant of the car, their grandchild, Patsy Jo Gurganus, was not injured. Mrs. Moore, who received a cut on the face, hit the windshield of the car with enough force to break it. Patrolman Perry estimated damage to the Gurganus car at $500 and to the Moore auto at $1300. He stated that his investigation of the accident was incomplete at the present time.

Perry also reported a second accident at the fork of a rural paved road at 12 noon Sunday. He said that a car driven by Blain Winston Corgille of Robersonville failed to make a turn at the fork. Corgille received a cut on the chin and was treated at a doctor's office in Robersonville. Damage to his car was estimated at $250. No charges were placed in the accident.

Would Keep Present Surpluses Off Market To Meet Immediate Problem

President Outlines Farm Program

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower recommended today that two and a half billion dollars of present farm surpluses be "frozen" from regular markets and that the government move into a flexible farm price support program.
In a special message to Congress, the President said the agricultural problem is as "serious and complex" as any confronting the legislators.
"Immediate action is needed," he told them, "to arrest the growing threat to our present agricultural program and to prevent the subsequent economic distress that could follow in our farming areas."
Eisenhower also sent the lawmakers a separate message asking revision of the Taft-Hartley labor law. A major point of his request on this was for a provision requiring a vote of workers before a strike could be called. He also called for a "thorough study" of union welfare and pension funds.
These two programs—farm and labor—affect the two largest groups of voters in the nation.
As he did in his State of the Union message last week, the President said a flexible price support plan must be the backbone of new farm programs.

Eisenhower also said special emphasis in the future must be placed on efforts to develop foreign markets for agriculture's greatly expanded productive capacity.
Under his proposal to "freeze" certain surpluses, the excess supply of these commodities such as wheat and corn would be isolated from the market so as not to have a depressing effect on prices.
Such "frozen" stocks could not be sold to commercial users, farmers, exporters or to foreign buyers who ordinarily purchase in regular commercial channels. They could be used only for donation to the school lunch program, public institutions, relief, or earmarked for emergency stock piles.
These surpluses are already in government hands through purchases under price support programs.
The President said he will ask Congress to increase the price support funds of the Commodity Credit Corp. from the present ceiling of $4 billion to $5 billion. He said that because of the big build up of surpluses in the hands of the corporation under price supports, more money will be needed. Agriculture Department experts have predicted that corporation investments in surpluses may pass six billion dollars by spring.

Under the flexible program, government price guarantees would be high in time of shortages to encourage production, and low in times of surpluses to encourage consumption and discourage over production.
The President said the present war-born mandatory supports should be permitted to expire at the end of this crop year.
"A farm program" he said, "first of all should assist agriculture to earn its proportionate share of the national income. It must likewise aim at stability in farm income. There should therefore be no wide year to year fluctuation in the level of price support."
He said too that "a farm program must fairly represent the interests of both producers and consumers."
The government supports prices of farm products by stepping into the market and buying whenever the price drops to the support level or by making loans to farmers at the support level.
The farmer's crop is security for the loan. If prices go down, he can elect not to pay the loan, leaving the crop to the government. If prices go up, he can pay off the loan, take back his crop and sell it.

Under the President's program, price props on major crops would vary between 75 and 90 per cent of parity. Parity is a standard for measuring farm prices, declared by law to be fair to farmers in relation to prices they pay.
The President said adjustment to a new farm program must be accomplished gradually in the interest of farmers and in the interest of the economy of the nation as a whole.
As to specific crops, the program outlined today offered little that was new, except in the case of wool. For this commodity the President suggested the use of production payments as a method of assuring producers fair income. Such payments were a feature of the controversial farm program advanced in 1949 by President Truman's then secretary of agriculture, Charles F. Brannan, but never accepted by Congress.
The idea is that prices of domestically produced wool would be permitted to seek their level in the market, competing with other fibers and with imported wool. The government would make direct payments to domestic producers in order that these, when added to the average market price for the season, would raise the average return per pound to 90 per cent of parity.

For such commodities as meat animals, dairy products, poultry and eggs, tobacco, soy beans, cottonseed, flax, fruits and vegetables, and sugar, the President proposed no changes from present programs.
The flexible price support plan, under which price guarantees would move up or down with changes in supplies would be applied to wheat, cotton, rice, corn, and peanuts.
In urging flexible supports for cotton and wheat, the President said the major problem is to develop a program which will help farmers gain foreign buyers. He said present high rigid supports stimulate competition by foreign producers and reduce U. S. exports.
Eisenhower recommended that a modernized formula for determining parity prices as written into the 1948-49 farm act, be allowed to go into effect Jan. 1, 1956, for commodities not now under it. Those commodities are, wheat, corn, cotton and peanuts.

Eisenhower Seeks Fourteen Changes In T-H Labor Law

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today asked Congress to adopt 14 amendments to the Taft-Hartley labor law including a provision that workers must vote approval of any strike before it can go into effect.
On the strike proposal the President recommended that before a union could order workers off their jobs the workers be required to approve the action in a secret, government-held election.
Eisenhower's proposals contained some changes suggested by management and some asked by labor.
Among the presidential proposals was one that would give states more jurisdiction in labor disputes. Others would require employers to submit non-Communist affidavits as well as union leaders, and would remove some of the present restrictions against union boycotts and strikers.
Eisenhower called on Congress to make a "thorough study" of union welfare pension funds "with a view of enacting such legislation as will protect and conserve these funds for the millions of working men and women who are the beneficiaries."
There have been numerous suggestions from management and Congress members that such funds should have public supervision, similar to insurance regulations now in effect.
The President reiterated his conviction that the Taft-Hartley Act is "sound legislation." But he said experience gained during the seven years the law has been in effect, indicates that changes are needed "to reinforce its basic objectives."

Hartley Act, Eisenhower said: "There is nothing which so vitally affects the individual employee as the loss of his pay when he is called on strike.
"In such an important decision he should have an opportunity to express his free choice by secret ballot held under government auspices."
In his discussion of welfare funds the President noted that the law now bars an employer from making payments to a union to help finance such funds unless the fund meets certain standards.
But Eisenhower said: "These standards are not adequate to protect and conserve these funds that are held in trust for the welfare of individual union members."
In his message the President expressed his hope that the changes he suggested "will be enacted by Congress promptly, for they will more firmly establish the basic principles of the law."

Propose Reopening Of Broken-Off Preliminary Parley Reds Want Talks Resume

By JOHN RANDOLPH AND WILLIAM C. BARNARD
FARMINGTON (AP)—The Communists today proposed reopening of the broken-off preliminary negotiations for a Korean peace conference.
State Department representative Kenneth Young said he received the request in a letter from the Communists this afternoon.
He said he relayed the Red letter to Washington and added: "I... am awaiting official reaction. Any decision will have to come from Washington."
Red China's Peiping radio said the Communist letter asked for a meeting of liaison officers at Farmington Wednesday (9 p. m. Tuesday) to discuss a time for resuming the negotiations.
The Red move came as India officially requested that the U. N. Assembly reconvene in New York "at an early date" to discuss the Korean question.
Indian officials insisted the action was not intended to delay freeing of some 22,500 war prisoners. A spokesman said:

"That is a matter for the two commands to settle and as far as India is concerned, Jan. 22 is the deadline for their release under the agreement of those commands."
And in Seoul, a high source said the Indian command is considering a new plan to solve the critical POW problem.
The source, whose name and nationality cannot be disclosed said the formula is designed to bypass the issue of whether the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission (NNRC) will free some 22,500 prisoners at midnight Jan. 22.
The Allies have demanded release of the POWs; the Reds have demanded they be held.
It is considered almost certain that if the commission doesn't approve the release, anti-Red Koreans and Chinese will smash their way out of their neutral zone compounds.
The Indian proposal would throw the problem back to the Allies and the Reds themselves, the source said.
The source said the Indian plan is to turn the anti-Red prisoners back to the Allied side and the pro-Red prisoners back to the Communists. They would be held until the two commands agree to their disposition or until another neutral body is set up to handle the problem.

The source said Lt. Gen. K. S. Thimayya, Indian chairman of the NNRC, will stipulate that should either side release its prisoners the commission would be in no way to blame.
The source said the Swedish and Swiss delegates on the NNRC would vote with him outnumbering the Communist Czechs and Poles.
Earlier the commission took up the issue of what to do with the POWs.
At a 20-minute session, Maj. Gen. Jan Stenstrom, the Swedish delegate, proposed that the commission back the Allied demand that the prisoners be released Jan. 23. He urged a quick discussion and decision.
The delegates then adjourned for a day to study his proposal.

Dulles, Zarubin Hold Preliminary Parley On Meeting Atomic Pool Talks Started

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles and Soviet Ambassador Georgi N. Zarubin begin talks today on when, where and with whom the United States and Russia may negotiate on the peaceful uses of atomic energy.
Their first session, scheduled in Dulles' State Department office, was strictly private. Indications were that little or no information would be given out.
These are preliminary discussions on procedures for a full-dress conference later.
Dulles, main purpose is reportedly to try to determine whether the Soviet government is really sincere in its agreement to hold atomic discussions or whether it is merely going through the motions because of the pressures of world public opinion and the needs of Moscow propaganda.
Dulles was said to favor holding the later conference to a very small scale and to think there might be some advantages in holding it outside the United Nations, where all previous efforts to negotiate international atomic agreements with the Russians have failed.

There is no optimism in official quarters about the possibility of an agreement this time, but Dulles is described as determined to do everything in his power to remove any unnecessary obstacles which might result from disagreement or misunderstanding over physical arrangements for the conference, what countries should be included, and the like.
U. S. officials are talking in terms of talks between the United States and Russia, or those two plus Britain. A three-power conference looks like the best bet at the moment. It would focus on two issues:
1. President Eisenhower's proposal, made to the United Nations Dec. 8, for an international pool of atomic materials and know-how made up of contributions from the United States, Russia and other atomic powers and devoted to such peaceful uses as production of power and the medical benefits of atomic materials.
2. A counterproposal put forward by Moscow for a pledge against the use of atomic weapons. The Russians have presented this as a first step toward eliminating all such weapons from the arsenals of the world.

The Soviets have shown no interest in peaceful development apart from a weapons ban. The United States is officially interested in eliminating atomic weapons only as part of a huge disarmament and peace program going far beyond any paper pledge. There appears to be little ground for compromise between these two positions. Hence there is no optimism about an agreement.

Six Die As Fire Consumes Home
ENGELHARD, N. C. (AP)—Six persons, a man and wife and their four small children, perished here early Sunday when their frame home burned to the ground.
The bodies of Willie Spencer, Negro, his wife Mary, and their four children, Willie Jr., Bobbie, Yula and Shirley, were taken from the ruins of their home west of here a few hours after Dave Spencer, Negro shop keeper, discovered the fire at about 3:30 a.m.
There were indications at least some members of the family had vainly attempted to get out of the blazing house. Neighbors said a faulty stove or chimney likely was the cause of the blaze and that members of the family were probably overcome by smoke before they could reach safely.
"It is the worst tragedy in the history of the county," said Hyde County Sheriff Charlie Caboon as he looked over the smoldering ruins of the little home.
Spencer was truck driver for a local grain dealer. Three of the children attended Davis High School near their home. The fourth was of pre-school age.

City's First Policewomen Are Sworn In

Above Judge Charles H. Whedbee swears in Gladys Norris and Mrs. Ruth Alice Doss as special police officers with the Greenville police force. Miss Norris will continue as records clerk with the police department, while Mrs. Doss will have as her duty the checking of parking meter violators in downtown Greenville. (Reflector Photo by Alvin Taylor).

Recorder's Court Judge Charles H. Whedbee swore in Greenville's first two policewomen in ceremonies at the municipal courtroom this morning.
The two policewomen are Gladys Norris and Mrs. Ruth Alice Doss. Miss Norris, who has been working as records clerk and secretary with the local police department since September 21, will continue with her present duties. She was sworn in as a policewoman, according to Chief of Police S. G. Gibbs, to give her the authority to search women prisoners.
Mrs. Doss is joining the force for the first time. Her duties, the chief said, will be to check parking meters and to write traffic tickets for parking violators.
Miss Norris came to Greenville in 1941. She served as secretary to J. W. H. Roberts for eight years and then worked with the Southeastern Adjustment Company until September of this year. At that time Miss Norris went to work with the Greenville Police Department as records clerk. She is originally from Mount Olive.
Mrs. Doss came to Greenville from Naperville, Illinois in 1951. She is married to Charles Doss who is also a member of the police force.

Both of the policewomen will be considered special officers, according to Gibbs and Mrs. Doss will wear a regulation policewoman's uniform while performing her assigned duties.
Chief Gibbs expressed the belief that the addition of Mrs. Doss to the force will help considerably in relieving regular officers of checking meters so that they may perform other duties.
At the same time as Greenville's outstanding man is honored here by local Jaycees, 2,000 other young men will be recognized in banquet ceremonies by Junior Chambers all over America.
The local banquet will be held at the Greenville Golf and Country Club Thursday night. According to Harry Douglas, who is in charge of arrangements, a crowd of about 150 will attend.

Funeral services were held at the Epworth Methodist Church near Vanceboro at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon, and burial was in the church yard. The Rev. Leroy Stanton, the pastor, assisted by the Rev. Morgan McKenney, Christian minister of LaGrange, officiated. Members of the board of stewards were honorary pallbearers.

Mr. Dixon spent most of his life in the Epworth community and was the son of Mrs. Annie E. Dixon of Vanceboro and the late Kenchen L. Dixon. He was graduated from the Farm Life High School in 1925 and was a farmer. He was a member of the Epworth Methodist Church, on the Board of Stewards, and had been teacher of the adult Sunday School class for a number of years until his illness about two years ago. He was married to Lola Mae Dudley of Craven County in 1927, and she survives him. Also surviving is a daughter, Mrs. John Zeh of the home; his mother; two sisters, Mrs. Irvin McGee of Vanceboro and Mrs. Ledrew Boach of Grifton; and three brothers, Sam Dixon of Pollockville, K. U. Dixon of Fort Bragg, and Hilton Dixon of Portsmouth.

Lucky Paratroop Veteran Finds Skiing Dangerous

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Former Cpl. J. Dell Kingston was a paratrooper in World War II, and he also hit the silk over Korea.

Several years ago he fell into a break-kneading machine and manufacturers of the device said he was the only man ever to escape being crushed to death in the device.

During airborne maneuvers near Oita, Kyushu, Japan, on Feb. 26, 1953, he dived into a river and rescued a paratrooper who had become entangled in his chute. But Army officers who Saturday presented him a citation for the rescue found him in a hospital, his leg in a huge cast.

"Skiing," he commented, "that's dangerous." Seems the 27-year-old ex-corporal was carried from a mountain at Brighton, Utah, a week ago with a double fracture of the ankle and a broken leg bone.

Execution by burning was not abolished in England until 1790.

Scout Troop Charter Presented Club

A charter for Boy Scout troop 160 was presented Friday night to the Falkland Ruritan Club by Ercell Webb, chairman of the Pitt District of the Boy Scouts of America.

Woodrow Wooten, president of the club, accepted the charter for the troop.

Webb, in making the presentation of the charter on behalf of the East

Carolina Council and Boy Scouts of America, outlined briefly the functions and the operations of the district, and the responsibilities of the sponsoring organization of a scout unit.

Webb complimented the Falkland club on its outstanding job in re-organizing scouting in that comnity, and pointed out the necessity of keeping good men who are considered leaders in the community working closely with the scouting program.

Certificates were presented to Scoutmaster Ed Warren of the troop, and to assistant scoutmaster Reuben Watson.

Passion Play To Be Presented In April

The Passion Play, dramatic presentation of the activities of the life of Christ during his last week on earth, will be presented here April 12 through April 15 under the auspices of the St. James Methodist Church.

Announcement of the plans for the presentation of the Passion Play were made today.

The presentation will be based on the Oberammergau Passion Play, adapted by Dr. J. A. Withey of the East Carolina College dramatic arts department. A cast of more than 100 will participate in the traditional religious presentation which will be staged in the Austin Auditorium on the East Carolina campus for four consecutive evenings during Holy Week.

The dramatic phase of the presentation will be under the direction of Dr. Withey and Mamie Chandler, director of the Methodist Youth Center here. The music for the Passion Play will be under the direction of Dr. Kenneth Cuthbert of the East Carolina faculty, and the organ music for the production will be played by George Perry of the ECC faculty.

Ed Carter, of the business management and publicity committee for the production, said the Passion Play is being presented here under the auspices of the St. James Church, and has the backing and support of the Methodist Conference. He said the presentation will be made with the cooperation and participation of members of other churches of Greenville as well as members of the faculty and student body at East Carolina College.

A meeting of the staff for the production will be held Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the Methodist Student Center on East Fifth Street.

An alert mechanical department caught the mistake and none of the papers hit the street.

COMPOSER DIES

VIENNA (AP)—Oscar Straus, famed Viennese-born composer of "The Chocolate Soldier" and more than 50 other operettas, died of heart disease today in Bad Ischl. He was 83.

After 43 Years, He Returns Home

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP)—John Bolin, 64, dropped in at a family reunion at his brother's home yesterday and explained, "I was young and just took a notion to wander," when they asked him where he'd been since 1911.

Bolin, a minister and farmer at Alto, Ky., said he had come back for the two small sons he left here with his first wife. He wanted them to join him on his 115-acre farm in Breathitt County, Ky. But he couldn't sell the idea to his two sons — now in their 40s.

As 45-year-old Roscoe Bolin put it, "I've got a good job in St. Louis, and I'm too old to start farming now." His brother Oral, 4, who lives in Evansville, seemed to agree.

The farm might be a little crowded, anyway. Bolin said his wife and 10 of their 18 children are living there. The six eldest live in Covington, Ky.

Bolin said he wandered awhile, served in the Army in World War I, settled in Kentucky and remarried. His second wife died soon afterward, and he married again. He said he has been a Christian Church minister for 29 years but he does not have a regular pastorate.

He learned that his first wife, hearing he had been shot to death in a card game, remarried and moved to St. Louis many years ago. She died in 1940. There was no record of a divorce.

Temperature Has 32-Degree Drop

The temperature in the Greenville area last night dropped 32 degrees from yesterday's high of 68 to 36 (four above freezing). At 8 a.m. today the mercury still registered at 36.

Little over a quarter of an inch of rain fell here last night and early today.

Yesterday a year ago, the highest temperature here was 61 degrees. Lowest that night 45, and at 8 a.m. next day it was 46. Drizzling rain that day, local observer for the U.S. Weather Station reported.

Boy Captive In Rock Crevice Until Rescued

VICTORVILLE, Calif. (AP)—A fork-like rock formation held a 13-year-old climber captive for several hours, 40 feet above the ground, and a sheriff's posse had to scale the cliff to rescue him.

Sheriff's Capt. James B. Miller said the boy, Richard Powell of Apple Valley, felt himself falling yesterday while crawling up the escarpment. He threw his weight to one side against the cliff, and slid feet-first into the crevice.

There he stuck. Deputy Freeman Lewis lassoed a rock above Richard and climbed up to him. Several airmen from a nearby base also climbed up. Then Lewis went on above Richard and dropped a second line, which was secured beneath the boy's arms. Richard was hoisted out and lowered to the ground, little the worse for his experience.

Should Resolve Swimming Pool Question

Greenville's City Council again is delving into the matter of furnishing the city—at the taxpayers' expense, of course—two much needed swimming pools which have been talked about since the city's pool was closed several years ago.

The Recreation Commission, Chamber of Commerce, and other local organizations plus many individuals have urged the city for several years to take steps necessary to get the city swimming pools.

All during the period there has been one major obstacle—money.

Indications from other cities of comparable size to Greenville which have constructed swimming pools in the past few years point to the conclusion that a two-pool project the size presently contemplated adequate for Greenville would cost from $225,000 to $250,000.

Figures of such size for capital outlay naturally mean a bond issue.

To be sure, that is a lot of money for the city to spend on a recreation facility which can be used only two or three months each year. Yet it is a facility which is needed and has been needed by the city for several years. There is no getting around the fact that a bond issue for swimming pools would cause an increase in the amount of taxes the people of Greenville are paying. Yet, the investment, in our opinion, and the benefit derived from it, would be worth the additional tax burden it would place upon the citizens of Greenville.

The City Council should give careful study to the several items which would be involved in the construction of two swimming pools for Greenville; and present all the data they can accumulate to the people of the city.

When that is done, the people themselves can determine by a vote whether in their opinion, the cost in additional taxes necessary to retire bonds issued for the construction of swimming pools is worth the price.

Greenville needs the swimming pools—few people would argue that particular point. The matter to be decided is whether the city is willing to spend the amount of money required to have them.

Farm Program Will Cause Much Shaking

President Eisenhower's farm program which takes flexible price supports for one of its principal foundations is likely to be quite shaken before it gets through Congress.

It is likely to be so shaken that the President will hardly recognize the program as his own.

At the same time, the program is going to cause a lot of shaking of heads and doubtlessly the shaking of fists in Congress and across the nation before it is all over.

In some sections of the nation, particular groups of farmers and some farm organizations will be in favor of the policy of flexible price supports. In others, however, such as Pitt County and the remainder of the tobacco section; we doubt the idea of flexible supports will be the least bit encouraging.

The tobacco program with its controlled production and its firm price supports has proven of great benefit to farmers all over this region. At the same time, it has not cost the federal government as has its support program of other crops.

There is no exaggeration in the statement that the farm program under which tobacco has operated successfully for many years is unsurpassed by any program for any other agricultural crop in the nation.

From the standpoint of the tobacco farmer, there is little doubt that the program including fixed support prices is far more beneficial than a program which would provide flexible support prices.

Farmers of this area should gird themselves for any battle which might be necessary to assure Congress approving an agricultural program which will be adequate and fair for farmers in this region as well as fair and practical for the federal government.

Tips To Businessmen

By ELMER ROESSNER
Your reporter's New Year column was printed in newspapers largely used to kindle Yule logs; he claims credit for more fires than anyone since Nero and, according to an unconfirmed and probably unfounded report, a clipping of his column was used to ignite a fire in Gastric, Okla., that set off 12 sticks of dynamite and killed 18 baby chicks. If the price of eggs go up next May, blame Roessner.

It is a grim fact that newspapers are less read and electronics turned on less often around the end of the year. This fact is not only grim, but pretty well known—and this shows that our smartest men are also our dumbest. Toward the end of the year most of our best economists gather in conventions in Washington, and at the start of the next year, the rest of them meet in Boston. It is only the eggheads who would hit upon the clever idea of talking at a time when nobody is listening.

The education of American businessmen will not be entirely secret, if this department can help it. With the aid of a few clips and press releases, it is in a position to disclose some of the most valuable tips to businessmen offered by no less an authority than Malcolm P. McNair, Finance professor of Retailing, Harvard.

FOURTEEN WAYS FOR BETTER SALES

1. — Continue to take stores to customers, especially in the suburbs.
2. — Move promptly toward rehabilitating downtown shopping areas.
3. — Keep up with the tempo of modern living, recognizing trends towards hobbies, activities and mechanization of homes.
4. — Expand efforts to make consumers buy by making it easier to make purchases, with better parking, signs, and other factors.

BY THEMSELVES. SOME PREFER LARGE CITIES, WHILE OTHERS LIKE SMALL CITIES AND TOWNS.

Don't try to make your soldier boy over into someone else. Try to find out what he likes best, for what he is best fitted—and then help him make good.

OPPORTUNITIES EVERYWHERE

Opportunities exist today which may not exist a year or more hence. I see them everywhere.

FORMER EMPLOYERS WILL BE HELPFUL

If your husband had a job when he was drafted, the chances are that his former employer will be proud to take him back. I wonder, however, if your husband will be content to be a mere cog in a big wheel again after he returns? Men differ. Some are born to work for others and will be happier doing so; while some men will do better in a little business

5. — Make it more attractive for consumers to buy by stepping up appeals to impulse buying.
6. — Apply simplified selling techniques to better advantage.
7. — Consider adding other goods and services, including securities, insurance and even houses.
8. — Merchandise big-ticket items better.
9. — Do a better job in selecting and training personnel.
10. — Give more attention to multiple operations, broadening the scope of sales functions.
11. — Increase emphasis on vertical integration, simplifying operations between manufacturer and retailer.
12. — Take full advantage of mechanization of record-keeping.
13. — Control costs more carefully.
14. — Recognize the magnitude and scope of public relations, making sure the public understands retailing's contribution to distribution and full employment.

Pretty sound stuff. Next year it is hoped that the McNairs and those of his stature avoid competing with the makers of deca-ter whisky bottles, French perfume and Santa Claus in getting their ideas over to the public.

FURNITURE MEN TAKE RECESSION TALK CALMLY

Activity during the first of the two weeks of the Chicago Furniture market has been far better than most observers expected.

True, sales have been less than a year ago. True, there has been more pricing-and-waiting than at many markets in a long time. True, many store buyers have been trying to sit on their hands as long as possible.

CUSTOMERS CUSTOMERS!

Hall, merchants, the stork Births in 1953 set another record. Metropolitan Life's statisticians calculate. They account for 3,960,000 births, 7 per cent more than those in 1952. And infant mortality was lower than ever before.

Servicemen Should Plan Now For Futures As Civilians

SEABORT PARK, Mass., Let see start 1954 by writing to the many servicemen's wives. So many are wondering what their husbands are to do after discharge. Certainly, don't wait until your man gets back before you and he discuss the future. Why not devote to this subject your very next letter to him enclosing this message from me.

When that is done, the people themselves can determine by a vote whether in their opinion, the cost in additional taxes necessary to retire bonds issued for the construction of swimming pools is worth the price.

GREENERVILLE NEEDS THE SWIMMING POOLS—FEW PEOPLE WOULD ARGUE THAT PARTICULAR POINT.

The matter to be decided is whether the city is willing to spend the amount of money required to have them.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
HILLS THAT FACE NORTH
We drove through the hill country recently and although the signs of a severe blizzard had almost vanished, there was considerable snow left on the sides of hills which faced the north. They looked cold and bleak against the sunlit fields which faced other points of the compass.

There are some lives from which the snow and ice never seem to melt. There are people who hold their friends and associates at arm's length during their whole lives. There are many people whose mood has settled into one of frigid disdain for the whole human race because some particular piece of misfortune has lashed their lives and hurt them. They are loveless souls which are like the cold hills facing north. There is many a person who has no concern whatsoever for the state of world affairs, just so his comfort or hers is not disturbed.

When the Spirit of the living God touches a human life, it does so almost invariably by changing the person's heart. Some few people experience an intellectual readjustment which makes things over for them, but most people are made over when their emotions are made over. The cold, bleak, unbelieving, unlovely souls which face north and are always streaked with snow and ice when the rest of the world is lying fallow in the bright sunshine—these are to be pitied. Only the hand of God will make such people different.

A Quiet, Big Transformation

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON—While Capitol Hill Republicans grouse that President Eisenhower's State of the Union Message shows no determination to disestablish the New Deal Government's reforms, they fall utterly to realize that his appointment of conservative administrators to Roosevelt-Truman Commissions has had the effect they desire. The transformation has been wrought so quietly that it is not generally appreciated.

In order to emphasize the economic and social significance of the Eisenhower revolution, it is necessary to explain F.D.R.'s strategy in guarding against any destruction or even modification of his system. He frequently patted himself on the back in discussing his cleverness.

So did the legislative draftsmen who did the actual work—"Tommy" Corcoran, Samuel I. Rosenman, then White House legal adviser, and Felix Frankfurter, then a Harvard Professor and now a Supreme Court Justice.

F.D.R.'s STRATEGY—The first plan was to pack the courts with appointees dedicated to Rooseveltian philosophy, and who would uphold it when it was challenged. But an even more important method was to create scores of commissions under statutes which made them judicial czars. They constituted what might be called Presidential courts administering what is known as "administrative law."

Briefly, their interpretations and decisions were virtually final. They could be appealed to the courts only on errors in finding of the facts, not as to their judgments. In other words, the law was what F.D.R.'s appointees said it was, and the opportunity to gainsay them was extremely limited. It was "Government by Commission" rather than by Congress, which sensed too late that it had handed out too many blank checks to executive puppets.

COMMISSIONS NOW CONTROLLED BY IKE'S MEN—Almost every one of these Roosevelt commissions is now administered and controlled by Eisenhower appointees, with his selection sitting as chairman. Almost without exception, they are rapidly but

JUVENILE DELINQUENCY

WASHINGTON—Juvenile delinquency and disdain for the American form of government spring from the same source and require the same remedy, the writer, Felix Morley, says in the current issue of the magazine "Nation's Business" published by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

"Much more than our periodic elections the future of constitutional government in the United States depends upon the home, the school, the church environment," Morley writes.

"If children are brought up to esteem the old-fashioned virtues they will naturally esteem our form of government, based on the assumption that men must learn how to govern themselves before they can successfully govern others.

"If, on the other hand, constant excitement and shoddy entertainment is the domestic diet, and if the educational emphasis is all on rights at the expense of responsibilities, then inferior citizenship as well as juvenile delinquency may be expected. And in that case the eventual preference will certainly not be for the American form of government, which can return to the people only what they themselves voluntarily give to it."

BY HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—While the rest of America's mighty motor car industry was pondering how to make autos out of plastic, young Lew Glaser did something about it. He built them.

It is true they were only small plastic models of old style cars, but a fellow has to begin somewhere, doesn't he? And today, a tycoon of the toy industry at 36, Glaser turns out more cars than General Motors and the second Henry Ford put together—and he's stepping up production for 1954.

"I look for it to be a better year than 1953," said Glaser, who pyramided a $750 investment into a $5,000,000 annual business in only 12 years.

Here's how Lew, a Brooklyn-born boy who took Horace Greeley's advice to go west while he was still in rompers, did it: "I had a radio repair store in Los Angeles and when the war came on, and I decided I'd better get into a different field. But what? I picked plastics because nobody seemed to know anything much about it, and I felt my ignorance wouldn't be too much of a handicap."

For $750 he bought the equipment of a plastic novelties manufacturer who had become disillusioned. Glaser set out to get government contracts for airplane and radio parts, and also made compact, picture frames and cigarette cases from plastic scraps.

His volume mushroomed from $32,000 the first year to more than a million dollars, then collapsed with the end of the war. He had to find something new to survive—so he turned to toys. His first gadget, a toy plastic washing machine that really worked, saved his business.

ANNOUNCEMENT is expected any day of a new legal firm, to be composed of Banks Arendell and Charles P. Greene, with offices in Raleigh and Louisburg. Arendell is a veteran of the Wake county bar and has been active in nearly every past quarter century. He withdrew last year from the firm of Bunn and Arendell and has been practicing as an individual.

Greene has maintained offices at Louisburg. He retired this week as U.S. attorney for the Eastern District of North Carolina. Prior to his government service he had managed the successful campaign of Willis Smith for the U.S. Senate in 1950 and had been active in other political affairs.

HE OUTPRODUCES BIG CAR MAKERS

next year they go blooze. It's a fleeting business. You live on the edge of a cliff.

Three years ago he began turning out his "highway pioneers," a series of put-them-together-yourself kits that enabled normal children and bright adults to assemble and paint models of famous old American cars. They were an instant hit. Customers began to demand more and more kits so they could assemble a collection of the models.

"It was a jackpot idea, and I'd like to be able to say we realized it," ruefully admits Glaser. "But the truth is we thought we had only a one-year toy when we started."

"It took us a little time to understand what we had an inexpensive way for people to build something with their hands that could be proud of. It seems to satisfy a big need in people today."

"The market was always there, but nobody had stumbled on it. We did."

Glaser has found half the model kits are bought by children between the ages of 7 and 14, half by grownups over 21. To his model car series he now has added a series of famous fighter planes and naval vessels. He sold 10 million kits last year, hopes to market 15 million this year, plans to add a line of plastic modes that will appeal specifically to girls.

Lew, whose headquarters is in Venice, Calif., is still a bit dazed over the speed with which success came to him, and hesitated when I asked him what explained it. "Well," he said, "I suppose a fellow ought to keep his mind plastic enough so that if he does trip over a good thing he'll have sense enough to do something about it besides criticize the condition of the pavement."

Clean Town Said Major Asset As Lure To Industries

BY LYNN NISBET

LURES—One of the items emphasized at the conference of industrial promotion speakers the other day was that a clean town has more drawing power for new industries than does the tax rate. The word "clean" is used in both major senses—meaning well kept homes, streets and public buildings; and also wholesome political and moral conditions.

Dan Stewart of Carolina Power & Light Company let the fellows in on a little secret. He said it was the experience of his company in seeking to locate new plants that many prospects were driven away by sordid appearances. That was one of the main reasons leading to institution of the Finer Carolina Program.

FACTORS—While attractive appearances, fair tax policies and labor conditions are important factors in attracting new business, the case must stand on its own feet. For instance, it was reported that recently two manufacturing plants went to New England instead of North Carolina. Why? Because, thought the executives, the textile industry having moved out of New England to the South there was better prospect of available labor there than here.

PACKAGES—A new word is coming into the every day vocabulary of the economists. It is "package." One hears much about package tax levies, package labor benefits and package vacations. The meaning is generally clear when the expansion is used in context, although it sounds silly standing alone.

Package taxes, for instance, means that when all kinds of taxes—Federal, State, income, excise, sales and ad valorem—are added together there can be fairly accurate comparison with other States; while it is admitted that if one or two levies are discussed separately the comparison cannot be fair and may be grossly unjust to North Carolina.

Package benefits in labor-management negotiations means that wages might be lower but if certain other items like insurance, retirement, paid vacation, etc., are considered the lower wage might well result in larger total pay to the employee.

The package vacation is newer than the others and has per-

WORTH NOTING

THE HISTORY OF LIBERTY "Liberty has never come from the government. . . The history of liberty is the history of the limitations of governmental power, not the increase of it."

That was said more than 40 years ago by one of the greatest students of government who ever sat in the White House—Woodrow Wilson. And the warning he issued is a hundred times more important and timely now than it was then.

The overriding lesson that modern history teaches is that when we give government virtually unlimited power, freedom dies—and oppression and tyranny take its place.—(Industrial News Review) S. AND L. ASSETS TRIPPLE IN 8 YEARS Savings associations and co-operative banks have tripled their assets since the end of World War II and will add another $4 billion next year. Ralph R. Crossby, president of the United States Savings and Loan League, predicts.

that you can feed your family on a very small plot, provided your husband has some "job on the side" to get spending money. Have you read my recent column on "New Inventions and New Discoveries"? Those contemplating land for farming should buy adjoining a State or U.S. Agricultural Experiment Station.

BUY MERCHANDISE AND BANK STOCKS

In almost every community there are several "chain stores." They may be grocery chains, or variety chains, such as the "5 cents to 5 dollars" kind. Ask your local banker to tell you which of these in your town has its stock listed on the New York Stock Exchange. Buy a few shares. This might even help your husband in getting a job with one of these growing merchandising concerns.

Perhaps before buying a chain store stock, it would be well to buy a few shares of stock in your local bank. Banks are doing well right now, and it may help your husband get started right to have a few shares of local bank stock and to know the men who run the bank.

PARENTS SHOULD HELP MORE

Soldiers who have been overseas are coming home with better ideas than when they left. Many are realizing that the only things worthwhile for a family or a nation are (1) good land; (2) good babies; (3) good education; and (4) good character. I trust that fathers and mothers, as well as wives and sweethearts, will encourage these sensible ideas. Parents, especially, should help their young people get started right when they return. But begin to plan for them NOW; remember, "strouds don't have pockets."

add to previous statements that he would support Senator Al Lennon in the campaign would not make any speeches for him; he was satisfied with selection of John Rodman as Lennon's campaign manager.

Meanwhile, the post of director of civil defense, which has been vacant since September, remains unfilled, and the Governor has not indicated whether he has anybody under consideration for the job.

WHOSE TREES?—The State Board of Education had title some 7,500 acres of land in Hyde county. The State Wildlife Resources Commission wanted the area for a game preserve. The Board of Education decided it for that purpose only, with proviso that when put to any other use title would revert to the State Literary Fund. It develops that there are about a million feet of timber on the land, some of which has been cut by authority of the Wildlife. The education boys say selling timber is not "exclusive use" and have ordered the cutting stopped.

Families Moving As Hill Slides

ASTORIA, Ore. (AP)—A close watch was kept today on a skidding hillside in this Oregon coastal town.

Thirty-four families have had to leave their homes on the water-soaked hill since it began slipping last Tuesday. City officials said they feared the slide area was spreading.

The Red Cross has designated the hillside a disaster area and Gov. Paul Patterson has ordered an investigation to determine if federal aid should be requested.

Curiosity Cost Him Afternoon

BOSTON (AP)—A pair of handcuffs Robert Perry, 25, found in the street yesterday caused him to spend an unpleasant Sunday afternoon in a police station.

He tried them on and couldn't get them off. None of the keys at the South End police station would fit. Neither would about 100 keys sent over from Suffolk County Jail and from the armed services patrol.

A police sergeant finally filed down a screw driver and picked the handcuffs lock.

Young Actress Says To Cling To Glamor

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—At the ripe old age of 23, Anne Francis is handing out this advice to younger actresses: don't lose your glamor.

Despite her tender years, Anne is an acting veteran. Born in Ossining, N. Y., she started as a fashion model before she was 6. She was in radio at 7, TV at 12 and was signed by MGM when she was 15. After appearing in only one picture, "Summer Holiday," she returned to New York. Then came appearances in summer stock and all the top TV dramatic shows, plus a movie, "So Young, So Bad."

Hollywood again called her, this time for a 20th Century-Fox contract. Great things were planned for her. She got the title role in "Lydia Bailey," a big costume drama. Then she got lost in the shuffle on the big lot. Now she is winding up her contract with a loanout to RKO for "Susan Slept Here."

In her three years at 20th-Fox, she made only three pictures, and those in the first year, I asked her what happened.

"I think the thing that did it was a role I did in 'Dream Boat,'" she remarked. "I played Clifton Webb's daughter, and the character was a female Webb. Throughout most of the picture, she was a dull girl who wore glasses and lacked glamor.

"The picture was fun to do, but I don't think it was good for me. I think all the producers and directors on the lot considered me as sort of a character type of actress after that. I wasn't given any roles.

"If I had to do it over again, I probably would turn down the picture. It's different for someone who is established—like Elizabeth Taylor—to do such a role. The public is familiar with what she is like ordinarily. But I was a new personality and people figured that was the kind of girl I was."

"That was her last picture on the lot. She was loaned out to appear with James Cagney in 'A Lion Is in the Streets' and recently did 'The Kid From Outer Space' for Panoramac, the subsidiary that makes flat-screen pictures for 20th-Fox. After her present loanout, she becomes a free-lancer.

Most players leave studios with the statement that the separation was by mutual consent. Anne is frank enough to admit that she is being dropped.

Drama Club To Stage Number Of Original Plays

Rehearsals have begun by the Teachers Playhouse, East Carolina College dramatics club, for the production of two original scripts by faculty members at the college. The public is invited to attend.

"Fair Was the Morning," a folk drama by Dr. Elizabeth Utterback, and "The Washing Machine," a television satire by Dr. Edgar Hirschberg, are being readied for presentation in the College Theatre Thursday, January 14 at 8 p.m.

The folk drama will be directed by Pauline Armstrong of New Bern. Major roles will be played by James L. Thompson, Durham; Margaret Frye, Carthage; Jane Lingle, China Grove; and twelve-year-old Billy Goodwin of Greenville.

"The Washing Machine" will be directed by Laura Credle of New Holland. The cast includes Miss Credle; Robert Gardner, Rocky Mount; Jane Millikin, Weldon; and James H. Walton, Asheboro.

Grandmother Gains Fame For Shooting Of Wolves

BLIND RIVER, Ont. (AP)—Northern Ontario's champion wolf killer is a grandmother who is eagerly awaiting the day she can hack another notch in her rifle.

Mrs. Roy Beharriel now is looking for wolf No. 5.

"I'm just now beginning to get out and enjoy life," says the sharp-shooting farm wife.

Known throughout this northern Ontario countryside for her prowess in killing wolves, she doesn't go hunting for them. They seem to come to her, with fatal results.

The Canadian Tourist Assn. presented her with a wolf killer's badge after her third wolf kill last October. She is one of the few women so honored.

She shot her fourth wolf as it attempted to prey on the Beharriel sheep flock.

"I never shot anything bigger than groundhogs and squirrels before the wolves," she says. She first learned to shoot as a girl of 10 and bagged her first wolf in 1951.

Her second wolf, shot in 1953, gave her a "real scare". Her young adopted son Wayne called out he could not shoot the big gray "dog" off the road. She looked out and saw a wolf with the child. Grabbing her 30-30 rifle, she felled it with one shot, then dragged it into the house. The wolf, revived by the warm kitchen, began growling and snapping. In sheer panic, Mrs. Beharriel grabbed a hockey stick and clubbed it to death.

The Beharriels live on a 160-acre farm near here. They have about 70 sheep and with a purebred ewe costing $75, three wolves must be shot at the present bounty of $25 to pay for the loss of one ewe. Hungry wolves have played havoc with their flock.

"The few I have killed do not cover our losses," Mrs. Beharriel said.

What does Mr. Beharriel think about his wife's hunting? "All this publicity is bunk," he exclaims. But his proud grin and a twinkle in his eye show what he really thinks of his wife.

Airline Head Is Among Victims Of Plane Crash

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP)—A blazing plane crash killed the president of Braniff International Airways and Texas Eastern Gas Transmission Co. and 10 companions last night.

The plane smashed into an unoccupied house and burned for more than two hours. Ten wealthy passengers and two pilots returning from a weekend duck hunt in the Louisiana marshlands near the Gulf Coast were killed. There were no survivors.

The dead included airlines president Thomas Braniff of Dallas, Tex. and R. H. Hargrove of Shreveport, president of Texas Eastern, which operates the famed "Big Inch" and "Little Inch" gas pipeline to the East.

The badly mangled and charred bodies remained unidentified early today.

The big seaplane, owned by United Gas Co., went down at Wallace Lake, 10 miles south of here.

T. J. Rucker of Shreveport, the first on the scene, said, "I was driving to the lake when I heard the crash. I got there and saw assistance was impossible. I drove to the Forging community and called the CAA office at the Shreveport Municipal Airport."

Harold and Julian Martinez and E. C. Crain, all of the Shreveport area, said they saw the plane flying low. They said it wavered like the trees and then crashed and burned.

The plane ripped through the trees for 100 yards before it hit the house.

Retired Sheep Herder Dies, 101

GREAT FALLS, Mont. (AP)—Ten years ago Jacques Claude Celestin left the hills where he had herded sheep for more than 50 years and said he was retiring. "Getting too old," he said.

With no surviving relatives, he settled down quietly in his one-room cabin near here. He was found there Saturday, dead apparently of natural causes.

Death came one week and one day after his 101st birthday, when he remarked the "only good thing on me is my appetite."

Group Planning New TV Station In Grifton Area

GRIFFON — Pitt County will have its second television station if plans of North Carolina Television, Inc. materialize.

At a meeting in Kinston Friday the television company took an option on a tract of land on Silver Lake Farm owned by Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Jarvin to be used as a site for the new station. The proposed site selected for the station is about two miles East of Grifton.

W.R. Robinson, Jr., president of the group, said the work of selecting a site was made considerably easier because of the assistance rendered by the Grifton Chamber of Commerce and its secretary Robert D. Wheeler.

At its Friday meeting in Kinston the Board of Directors of North Carolina Television, Inc. voted to make immediate application to the Federal Communications Commission for Channel 7, an open channel in this area.

Plans call for a 500-foot tower and transmitting equipment sufficient to serve a 50-mile radius from the Grifton site with a primary signal. The Silver Lake Farm site has already received approval of the Civil Aeronautics Authority in Washington.

Represented among the stockholders of the new television station are interests from Washington, Wilson, New Bern, Tarboro, Goldsboro and Kinston.

Grifton was selected as the site of the station because it is the most centrally located point between the group of towns.

"The Grifton site will not only be a community asset, but will also permit Grade B service or better in the 50-mile radius which includes both Marine bases and population of more than 550,000," President Robinson stated.

Betting Scandal Rocks Pro Loop; Player Suspected

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP)—Jack Molinas, who had a good chance of being named the National Basketball Assn. Rookie of the Year instead appeared likely to be the first player expelled from the league for betting on NBA games.

The NBA which escaped being involved directly in the college basketball bribery scandals of the last three seasons, yesterday suspended him indefinitely.

President Maurice Podoloff left little doubt that the 6-foot-6 Molinas is finished in pro basketball. The 21-year-old player is entitled to a hearing before being expelled automatically at the end of the season.

The tall youth told The Associated Press he had bet only on his team to win.

"I've never done anything dishonest in my life," he exclaimed, almost in tears.

Podoloff said in New York that Molinas offered to play without pay if the league would give him a chance to redeem himself.

Several hours after Molinas' suspension, Deputy Chief Inspector Edward W. Byrnes in New York said that a Bronx candy store operator had been questioned in connection with the incident.

Byrnes, in charge of Bronx detectives, identified the man as Isidore Ratenski, about 54. Byrnes said the man had been released after being questioned for 1 1/2 hours but he was told to report for further questioning today.

New York newspapers last night reported that bookmakers had stopped taking bets on Fort Wayne games after the Pistons' game with Boston Dec. 15. Odds favoring Boston jumped sharply just before the game, it was reported.

Podoloff also said Molinas reported he gained about $400, including refunds of telephone calls.

Kid Gavilan, the waterweight champ, has said he, too, wants to get a shot at Olson's champion ship.

sloppy play on the part of the Pirates carried the Christians into a 15-13 lead at the end of the first period and a slender margin of the early minutes of the second period.

It wasn't until the six-minute mark in the second period before the Pirates seemed to find out why they were on the court.

Coach Howard Porter's Pirates rallied from an early deficit in the game to play the Fighting Christians under 85-51 before 1,500 fans.

An outstanding second half performance was largely responsible for the decisive tone of the victory.

Coach Doc Mathis' Fighting Christians, making their North State Conference debut, nearly upset the Pirates before Porter could get his team straightened out and in the form that has brought them six consecutive victories.

Hodges, the senior center from Kinston who had played like a high school boy for the first 16 minutes of the game, rallied very nicely in the second half to lead the scoring for the night with 32 points.

Forward Charlie Huffman and guard Cecil Heath tied for second honors for the Bucs with 15 points apiece.

Little guard Don Packard led the Christians with 16 points. Center Dave Maddox, the Christians' high point man this year, was second with nine points and guard Bobby Timmons accounted for eight points.

Timmons also turned in a good floor game.

The first quarter and the first half of the second period was a strange performance. Neither team was especially hot but the Christians held the upper hand with the Pirates hanging on by an outstanding performance from the free throwline.

After that first portion of the game, though, the Pirates found the range from the field and turned the Christians every way but loose.

The two-point deficit the Pirates found themselves with at the end of the first quarter was quickly changed to a 13 point margin at the half.

At the end of the third period the Bucs were ahead 58-36 and even though reserves played much of the last quarter the margin continued to grow larger.

For the Bucs, the victory was the fourth in a row against conference opposition. They had defeated Guilford, Catawba, and Lenoir-Rhyne in previous games.

Bob Howell Leading Greenville Scorers

By WAYNE BISHOP
Reflector Sports Writer
So far this year the Greenville Phantoms have enjoyed playing in their own conference much better than in the Eastern AAA Conference.

The Greensies won four of six pre-Christmas games against AAA competition, but since then have whipped two AA Northeastern Conference opponents rather handily.

Coach Bo Farley's high flying quintet has recorded a 64-48 win over New Bern and a 47-40 victory over Washington in their own conference.

Another conference foe comes up tomorrow night when the Farley-men go out of town into Elizabeth City for a contest with the Yellow Jackets.

The Jackets have already been defeated by one conference team this year. The Washington Pam-Pack dumped them 45-44 in an overtime period last week.

Howell Leads
Junior forward Bob Howell once again has taken over the scoring leadership by virtue of his 18 and 17 point efforts last week. Howell has 103 points in eight games for a 12.9 average.

Howell also leads in field goal accuracy with 52 per cent, and in free throw accuracy with 79 per cent, and is second in rebounding with 41 in his credit.

Sophomore center Harold Edwards is running away with the rebounding title, having grabbed 58 in seven games. Edwards is second in scoring with 77 points and an 11 point average.

Forward Walter Perkins ranks second in field goal accuracy with 51 per cent while George Sideris is second in free throw accuracy with 78 per cent.

As a team the G-men are averaging 42 per cent of their field goal attempts and 68 per cent of their free throw losses. They own an offensive average of 57.2 points per game against their opponents 51.3 average.

By RIP WATSON
NEW YORK (AP)—College basketball nears the season's halfway point this week with the undefeated five of Kentucky, Duquesne, Western Kentucky, Holy Cross and George Washington towering over the rest of the pack.

Kentucky, better than ever after a year's enforced absence from the college cage scene, looks like the best bet to go through without a loss. The Wildcats, rated No. 1 team in the Associated Press poll, flattened Georgia Tech 105-53 Saturday night for their first Southern Conference victory since the conference's one-year ban was lifted.

Western Kentucky racked up victory No. 14 Saturday by turning back Murray (Ky.) Teachers 57-43 in one of the lowest scoring games of the season.

Duquesne won No. 13 over St. Francis (Pa.) 94-64. The Dukies lived up to their No. 2 rating with a routine victory. Sub Fletcher Johnson led the scoring with 20 points.

Holy Cross, ranked seventh, and George Washington, like Kentucky won their ninth game with an impressive display of power. Holy Cross rolled over little St. Anselm's 102-60, while George Washington solidified its role as Southern Conference kingpin by clouting Virginia Tech 73-40.

Close behind the unbeaten titans come a pair of conference powers who've lost only one—Indiana and Oklahoma A&M. Indiana, defending Big Ten and NCAA champions, whipped Minnesota 71-63 in what had been billed as a "crucial" test for the champs since Minnesota is ranked sixth nationally.

The third-ranking Hoosiers looked like champs, too, before a crowd of 18,872 in Minnesota's field house as play director Bob Leonard fired 20 points to take up the slack caused by Don Schlundt's low-for-him—total of 12.

Oklahoma A&M Missouri Valley champions seven times in the past decade, took the first step toward another title by whaling Houston 76-61. The Aggies, rated fourth, now have a 13-1 overall record. That's not quite up to the 14-1 mark posted by Wichita, surprise team of the conference, while winning three Valley games. The latest was a 76-65 verdict over Tulsa, but the surprising Wheatshockers have yet to play the Aggies and always-dangerous St. Louis.

Duke's Blue Devils, No. 8 team, duked a big obstacle en route to the first championship of the Atlantic Coast Conference when they edged past North Carolina State 87-85 for a 4-0 league mark. North Carolina has a 3-0 record after nipping Wake Forest 66-65 on Jerry Vayda's last-minute basket.

Ninth-place Oklahoma City was idle Saturday, but Oregon State, No. 10, avenged a Friday night upset by defeating Idaho 65-60. That left the Pacific Coast Conference's Northern Division in a five-way dead heat with all teams at 500. California tops the Southern Division after two surprising wins over UCLA, the latest by 73-65 Saturday night.

Kansas, moving up steadily after dropping its first two games, won No. 6 in a row, an 85-69 shellacking of Missouri that reminded Jayhawk fans of Coach Phog Allen's 1952 and '53 teams. Nebraska, which defeated Oklahoma 76-72, is tied with Kansas for the Big Seven conference lead at 2-0.

The Southwest Conference also is deadlocked, with Southern Methodist, surprise conqueror of Rice Friday night, even with Texas at 2-0. SMU defeated Baylor 84-80 and Texas squeezed past Arkansas

Carolina, Duke Register Wins Over Deacons, State

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A rangy Duke basketball team sparked by a pint-sized guard rapidly is being stamped the team to beat in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

The Blue Devils added prestige to their No. 8 national ranking Saturday, defeating North Carolina State 87-85. At the same time, North Carolina was defeating Wake Forest, 66-65.

The victories left Duke and North Carolina tied for first in the ACC. The Wake Forest defeat was the first conference loss for them. For the first time in 2 1/2 years, the Deacons played without the services of center Dickie Henric, sidelined with an ankle injury.

Duke's Rudy D'Emilio, the shifty of the Blue Devil team, bagged 21 points in the victory and accounted for the basket that put the Dukies ahead of State in the final quarter.

The big game of this week comes Tuesday when Duke and Wake Forest tangle. In the non-conference bracket, Maryland, third in the ACC, gets its biggest test so far of the year Friday against undefeated George Washington, the leader of the Southern Conference.

The Terps lost their third game of the season 58-56 last Saturday in a non league tilt with Georgetown. But Maryland beat Richmond and Clemson earlier in the week.

The hero in the North Carolina-Wake Forest game was the Tar Heels' Jerry Vayda who hit a shot with three seconds left to give his team its one-point victory.

The loss dropped Wake to fourth in the standings. Virginia, North Carolina State, Clemson and South Carolina have not yet won a conference game.

Tonight North Carolina is at Davidson in the only game involving a loop club.

Selvy Leading League Scorers

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Furman's Frank Selvy continues to lead the Southern Conference basketball individual scoring race and George Washington's Colonials remain far out front in the league standings.

Selvy has a fancy 45-point average although Furman has played only one conference game and Fabulous Frank hasn't had an opportunity to display his wares except to Virginia Tech's weak Gobblers.

Fred Fraley, Selvy's teammate, is second with a 34-point average. Eddie Becker, who has appeared in four West Virginia games in loop play, is third with his 23.5-point average and Virginia Military's Karl Klinar is fourth with even 23.

George Washington remained undefeated and chalked up its fifth conference victory Saturday night by routing Virginia Tech, 73-40. The victorious Colonials outscored the Techmen in every quarter. GW shot its way into a 22-8 first-quarter lead and was never in trouble.

Three Colonials hit in double figures including Walt Devlin with 17, John Holup with 14 and Joe Holup with 13.

William and Mary's Indians surprised West Virginia, 78-76. The score tied 15 times and deadlocked with 56 seconds left, W&M's Johnny Mahoney slipped through for a layup that won the game. Mahoney's 23 points tied Becker's 23 for scoring honors. W&M has broken even in two circuit clashes, while West Virginia has a 1-3 conference mark.

Major League Teams Suffer Gate Losses

By GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK (AP)—The more one studies major league attendance figures for last season the more incredible it seems that the players should have chosen 1953 of all years to hire themselves a lawyer and start betting their employers in the financial solar plexus.

Considering the kind of beating most of them took at the box office, there is no great wonder that magnates reacted like wounded grizzlies at the demand for increased pensions and threatened to throw the entire plan out the nearest window. The players are under the impression the owners were bluffing, but they are liable to wake up feeling like the man who insisted upon seeing a full house.

Make no mistake — big league baseball is a sick boy, and something must be done soon to get the fans started back through the turnstiles. If the present player salary scale is to be maintained, there may well be some bitter and prolonged debates about pay between now and spring training.

Though baseball books are not made public, it has been announced semi-officially that 12 of the 16 clubs lost money last season. Milwaukee and Brooklyn in the National League and the Yankees in the American are known to have finished in the black. The fourth member of the fortunate group would have to be a guess, but it could have been Cleveland, even though the Indians drew 375,431 fewer fans than in 1952.

Total attendance in the American League fell off 1,229,820. Philadelphia showed a decline of 261,163. St. Louis 221,558, Detroit 142,188, Washington 103,863, New York 91,854, Boston 89,617, Chicago 40,322. One club, St. Louis, went under. Another Philadelphia, has cut its payroll drastically by disposing of two high-salaried players and an expensive manager.

The National League showed an over-all attendance increase of 1,080,573, but the figure is very deceiving. It was made possible only because Milwaukee went hog wild over its new club and set a new league record of 1,626,397 paid. The same team had drawn only 261,278 the previous year at Boston.

Thus the one club showed an increase of 1,545,119, and a little additional figuring indicates that the league as a whole would have dropped off by 464,546 admissions but for its beautiful new baby member. Two other teams showed modest increases — flag-winning Brooklyn 74,715 and Philadelphia 98,227 — but the remaining five took a ducking, and it is to be assumed they are not happy about it.

NBA Is Seeking Title Opponent

By HERB ALTSCHULL
WASHINGTON (AP)—The National Boxing Assn. rates four challengers as outstanding heavyweights, but it couldn't find one logical contender for Rocky Marciano's title.

The NBA's winter ratings advanced former champion Ezzard Charles of Cincinnati to the No. 1 challenger position on the strength of his knockout of Coley Wallace last month. Trailing Charles, in order, were Nino Valdez of Cuba, Dan Bucceroni of Philadelphia and Roland LaStarza of New York.

Danny Nardico, the fellow who at one time was reported to be Marciano's next opponent, was rated fifth among the light-heavyweights.

There were no major changes in the NBA ratings announced yesterday. The biggest gain was recorded by Rocky Castellani, the Pennsylvania non fighting out of Ohio, who moved up from sixth to second among the world's middleweights.

The NBA recommended that Castellani get the next crack at the title won last fall by Carl (Bobo) Olson of Hawaii.

Randy Turpin, who lost to Olson in the windup of a round-robin series to select a successor to the retired Sugar Ray Robinson, was rated just behind Castellani. Both were listed as logical contenders.

Kid Gavilan, the waterweight champ, has said he, too, wants to get a shot at Olson's champion ship.

NBA President Andrew G. Putka said that if Gavilan were to fight Olson and beat him, he would surrender his waterweight championship, but that if Gavilan were to lose, he would continue as the titlist of the lower weight division.

"In the meantime," Putka added, "we feel Gavilan should first meet Carmen Basilio in a title bout."

Basilio, who lost a disputed bout to Gavilan last year, was all alone as the logical contender in the waterweight division.

Former Champion Dies In Buffalo

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Rocky Kansas, the Buffalo newsboy who fought his way to the lightweight championship of the world, died yesterday at Roswell Park Memorial Institute.

At 58, the colorful ex-champ fell victim to cancer. He entered Roswell Park last July and had undergone three operations since then.

Kansas won the lightweight crown Dec. 7, 1925, in a 15-round decision over Jimmy Goodrich at Buffalo. He retired the following July after losing a 10-round decision in Chicago to Sammy Mandell.

CHAPTER NINETEEN
DALE started swimming away from Phil, out to the buoy. Halfway out she rested, floating motionlessly with her face up and bathed in sunshine. She would not think of Kelly... She circled the buoy and swam back.

"Not bad," Phil said, climbing out and hauling her up on the deck. "Not bad at all, for a girl."

"Thanks," she said.

He grinned. "All my compliments today are gratis... About that phrase of your grandmother's, Dale, I think I'd enjoy being your young man." He stretched out close to her on the sun-hot cement.

Dale did not move. Even when he kissed her lightly, she did not move. Then he put his hand firmly under her chin and turned her face to his. This kiss was real. Dale felt warmth rising in her, pounding at her temples and pushing away thought until only feeling was left. Her whole body was alive and throbbing.

"Dale," he whispered.

The word brought a semblance of reason and she realized that she was not only taking his kisses but giving them back. She stirred slowly in his arms. "Don't," she said, against his mouth. "Don't."

"Why not?" But he let her go. "You liked it, too. You did that other time, too, for all your pretense at anger. What's wrong with letting yourself feel an honest emotion?"

"Honest!" She sat straight up. "I didn't kiss you that night. It was Kelly I kissed."

He drew back from her, white to the lips. After a silence, he said softly, "You can be honest." He linked his fingers around her ankle, tightened his grasp. This time—a moment ago—was that for him, too?

She didn't answer.

"Was it?"

She pushed at his hand. "You're hurting me."

"Let her go, and then he saw the thin red streak around her ankle. "You've cut yourself."

"It's only a scratch, from a thistle."

"Tch-tch," clucked Phil. "Temper!"

Dale laughed. Phil the featherweight, Phil the Darby to any Joan, Phil the fool. It was not possible to take him seriously or to remain angry with him. Why let his remarks disturb her?

After dinner, they played Grandy's favorite martial recordings on the radio-phonograph.

"The Army," Grandy remarked, tapping a brisk toe to the beat, "is recruiting musicians. I heard over the radio. They're asking specifically for bagpipers."

Dale winked at Grandmother and said to Phil, "Grandy puts the bagpipes in the same category as the piano and the violin. In terms of artistry, he says a real good bagpiper has at least the stature of a Rubenstein or a Heifetz. Just lump the bagpipe with the harmonica or the kazoo, and see how defensive Grandy becomes!"

"Do you play the pipes, sir?" Phil asked.

"That I do! Want I should play 'em for you? He looked over at Dale triumphantly. "In the closet, Dale. Under my raincoat."

Dale grinned at Phil. "You asked for it, my boy, with that tone of respect!"

At least, Dale thought, Phil was a good sport. The old man, once started, played on and on, the wall of the pipes gay and sad and haunting. Long after she and Grandmother were in bed, the Road to the Hills and Kerry Dance and The Campbells Are Coming drifted up, filling the confines of the house. A little of Grandy's performance went a long way, but once started on his repertoire, there was no stopping him. Thinking of Phil downstairs with Grandy, Dale pulled the bedcovers over her head and gave herself up to laughter. This wasn't the way Phil had planned on spending the evening, she was sure.

At breakfast, Phil said in an aside to Dale, "Why didn't you tell me how to stop him? I didn't get to bed till daylight... But I like that old man of yours," he added. He grinned ruefully, "Nearly cracked my eardrums, though! Scotch blood in him, is there?"

"Not a drop," said Dale innocently. "He won those bagpipes on a lucky two-bit ticket at a country fair."

Phil clapped his hands over his ears. "Merciful heaven," he groaned.

After breakfast, he said casually, "Are you coming back with me?"

"Of course she is," Grandy said. He was standing by the window, packing tobacco into his pipe. "She just came home to catch her breath." He turned, his eyes stern. "Didn't you, Dale?"

She smiled wryly. "Yes, Grandy."

Phil threw up his hands. "You mean I don't have to bully you!" "Grandy already has," Dale said.

"Another Aggie, h'm?"

"I told you they were alike," Dale said. But she went over to the window and kissed the white-haired old man lightly. "You really do browbeat me," she said.

He caught her hand. "Come back, if you lose your bearings again."

But he didn't say, Come back to stay. "Come along," she said to Phil. "We might as well get started."

Shortly after they left the village and were bowling along the highway, Phil turned on the radio. "Music?" he asked Dale. "Or a newscast? There should be one somewhere, on the hour."

Dale glanced at her wrist and pressed a button on the dashboard. With five in a row, why that particular one? she asked herself afterwards. Did some power that predestines events intend her to be influenced by a reported incident which, but for a fingertip's random choice, she might never have known?

CA 2-disc plow

Mounted Disc Plows master Stubborn Soils

Wherever disc plows are preferred, Allis-Chalmers offers outstanding performance. If your land is hard, stony, stumpy, sticky, mucky, grubby, or trashy — you have a special need for one of these plows.

Heavy, sharp-edged discs are led into the ground by a low, forward hitchpoint. Penetration is quick and deep. At field end, the whole plow is lifted by the tractor's hydraulic system. The same hydraulic system also provides traction to keep you plowing in hard soil.

Pitch of disc blades is adjustable. Scrapers can be set to turn or throw soil as you wish. Both CA 2-disc and WD 2- or 3-disc plows are free-swing for easy tractor steering... no side draft on contours or hillside. Let us demonstrate.

The report indicated that nine of the vehicles involved were operated by persons in the 16-20 age group, 21 by persons between 20 and 30 years old, and three were driven by individuals over 30. The report concerned the Colorado River area now covered by Hoover Dam. It said:

Scout Given God And Country Award

RECEIVES GOD AND COUNTRY AWARD—Preston Jarvis, Jr. (second from right) received the Boy Scout God and Country award yesterday at ceremonies at the First Presbyterian Church in Greenville. The scout's father, A. P. Jarvis of Greenville, is shown pinning the coveted Boy Scout award on his son. Looking on are (left to right) Bob Kittrell, scoutmaster of troop 36; Rev. L. W. Topping, pastor of the church; and J. B. Newman, skipper of Sea Scout One.

Preston Jarvis of Greenville, member of Sea Scout Ship one and Junior Assistant Scoutmaster of troop 36, yesterday was presented the Boy Scout God and Country award at ceremonies at the First Presbyterian Church. Jarvis is the third Greenville Scout to be presented with the coveted Scouting award in recent months. In making the presentation of the high award Sunday morning, the Rev. L. W. Topping, pastor of the church, pointed to the important part religion plays in the life of young men and the important part it plays in the scouting program. Rev. Topping said the program of Cub Scouting tends to bring the boy closer to his parents and his home, and that in the Boy Scout program, the boy is trained to follow his scoutmaster and learn skills which will help him in scouting and in future activities of life. The work required for the God and Country award, Rev. Topping said, brings the boy into closer relationship with God, and into a closer relationship with his church and his pastor. He explained the many requirements which a Boy Scout must meet to be eligible to receive the God and Country award. Jarvis holds the rank of Life Scout, and has been active in the affairs of Sea Scout Ship one, and troop 36 for several years. He is the son of Mr. A. P. Jarvis of Greenville.

Two Charged In Series Of 4 Traffic Accidents

Two persons were charged in a series of four traffic accidents yesterday in Greenville investigated by city police. The charges grew out of an accident at the corner of Douglas Ave. and McKinley Street yesterday. The police report stated that a car operated by Mary Lee Bennett, Negro, made a left turn from McKinley Street into Douglas Avenue and hit a car driven by Melvin Peoples, Negro of Route 1, Stokes, who had stopped for the intersection. Damage to the two vehicles was estimated at $125. Police charged Miss Bennett driving without an operator's license and they charged Ben Frank Bennett with allowing a person to operate his car with a learner's permit at night time. In another accident yesterday cars operated by Jessie Boyd Jr., 1103

Nailed A Number Until Sign Slowed Speeders

Greenville police had their speed checking device in operation Saturday and had nailed a number of speeders when business took a sharp drop. Upon investigation the officers found that someone had placed the above sign, held by Chief of Police S. G. Gibbs, a short distance down the road. The sign was well-lettered in multi-colors. ### Marriages In U.S. During 1953 Reached 1.5 Million

NEW YORK, N.Y. — About 1,553,000 marriages took place in the United States during 1953, Metropolitan Life Insurance Company statisticians estimate. This was some 20,000 more than the total for the preceding year. The marriage rate for 1953 was 9.7 per 1,000 population, about two fifths below the all-time high of 16.2 per 1,000 in 1946. Although the marriage rate is now at the lowest point in two decades, it is still substantially above that of the early 1930's.

Mailing Ballots For C-of-C Vote Here Tomorrow

The official ballot for the election of eight directors for 1954 will be mailed to members of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce by tomorrow (Tuesday), Willard T. Kizer, manager of the local Chamber, reported this morning. The ballot carries 16 nominees prepared in accordance with the by-law provisions of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce, Inc., by the nominating committee, for the election of eight directors whose terms begin February 1, to run for three years. Each member must return the ballot after he votes to the Chamber of Commerce office by Monday, January 25. Kizer said this morning that the Chamber Board consists of 24 members, eight of which are elected each year.

Snow, Sleet And Cold Strikes Deep Into Dixie

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Wintry weather, with snow, sleet and cold, hit wide areas of the nation today from the Rockies to New England and deep into the Southland. Snow fell as far south as Jackson and Vicksburg, Miss. The snow belt in the South extended from Mississippi northeastward into eastern Kentucky and the Middle Atlantic states to southern New England. More than 5 inches of snow fell in Charleston, W. Va., since last night. Falls in Harrisburg, Pa., measured 4 inches and more than 2 inches in Washington, D. C. Sleet hit much of Virginia and New Jersey, as well in sections of Mississippi and Kentucky. Snow and ice covered virtually all of Arkansas and there were moderate falls in many parts of Tennessee. The first "sticking" snow in three years fell on Memphis with 4 inches in prospect. Driving conditions throughout the snow and sleet belt were hazardous. Four persons were killed in Kentucky and four in Pennsylvania last night in traffic accidents on slippery highways. Light snow fell over the northern Rockies and from the Northern Plains eastward into the Great Lakes region. Cold air extended over wide northern areas from the Rockies into New England. It was below zero in sections of Minnesota, North Dakota, Maine and New York. Near-zero readings were reported in the north-central region, northern New York and sections of New England. It was -14 at Houlton, Me.; -12 at Fargo, N. D.; -5 at Duluth, Minn.; -1 at Albany, N.Y., and Lebanon, N. H.; and zero at Syracuse. A fresh mass of arctic air pushed into the Dakotas and Minnesota from central Canada and colder weather was forecast for most of the Midwest. The southeastern part of the country was mild but light rain and drizzle fell in the region. Mild weather also prevailed over most of the southwestern part of

Two-Thirds Of POWs Believed Crimes Victims

Potter asked that the United Nations set up "an impartial investigation commission" to inquire into all war crimes in the Korean fighting "and the means of subjecting the criminals responsible to just and lawful punishment." The report, filed Saturday, was a preliminary one on a one-man investigation Potter conducted, calling former prisoners and survivors as witnesses. He said that, in all, more than 50,000 persons died in Korea as a result of Communist atrocities.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—Stocks drifted lower today in a rather quiet market. The decline was not deep. At the most it went to around a point. There were few minus signs, and they were small. The pace was a little better than that established Friday when 260,000 shares changed hands, but that total was relatively light. Going down were the railroads, steels, motors, rubbers, tobaccos, and oils. Utilities, coppers, motion pictures, and distillers were fairly steady. Other sections of the market were mixed. A flurry of activity early in the session sent South American Gold up a major fraction. Other golds were quiet. Among losers were U. S. Steel, Chrysler, United Aircraft, American Telephone, New York Central, and standard Oil (NJ).

Still More Power

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission, searching for still more power out of the heart of the atom, plans a "smashing machine" 10 times more powerful than any now in operation. AEC said Saturday the structure, about half a mile around, will be built at Brookhaven National Laboratory, Upton, Long Island. Its principal component will be a huge circular magnet. The 20-million-dollar installation will take about six years to build. It is designed to speed up subatomic "bullets" nearly to the velocity of light and beam them at atomic nuclei. The resulting knowledge, scientists hope, will help trap more of the nuclear energy released when an atom is smashed. Most of it now is lost.

Miss Universe Is Now Californian

STOCKTON, Calif. (AP)—Miss Universe is now California's own and she has a new title: Mrs. Ronnie Marengo. The 17-year-old French beauty, Christiane Martel, was married yesterday to the 21-year-old son of a department store owner and left happily in a shower of rice for a Palm Springs honeymoon. They'll be back here in two weeks and move into a new, ranch-style home with a swimming pool and he will continue managing a suburban branch of his father's store.

Republicans Plan 'Celebrations'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republicans, in office during their party's centennial year, meet today to plan a series of celebrations. Vice President Nixon is chairman of a committee to arrange rallies, in conjunction with local groups. President Eisenhower and former President Herbert Hoover are honorary chairmen. Sad and sudden was the call of one so dearly loved by all; a bitter grief, a shock severe, it was to part with one so dear. We often sit and think of you and speak of how you died. To think you could not say Good-bye before you closed your eyes, for all of us you did your best. Oh, God grant you eternal Rest. Loving Wife & Children

Colored News

Calvary will meet at the home of Mrs. Daisy Spain Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. In Memoriam In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Leroy Simmons, who passed away January 11, 1952.

Rating Raised

Pitt County's credit rating for bonds moved up another notch in the most recent revision of Moody's ratings for North Carolina. The revision of the ratings raised Pitt County's credit rating for bonds from classification A to Aa. Also raised to the Aa rating in the revision were the bonds of Wake County and the city of Winston-Salem. The new rating gives Pitt County the same credit rating for its bonds that the state of North Carolina enjoys for its bonds.
