Red Cross Drive Opens Feb. 15th

Plans for the annual Red Cross campaign in Greenville were made yesterday at a meeting of the planning committee for the fund raising drive. Dr. Leo Jenkins, chairman of the campaign in Greenville, met with team captains for the special gifts division of the solicitations, to map plans for the campaign which will begin February 15.

ministers: Jack Whichard, publicity chairman; Frank Steinbeck, chairman for solicitation of branch firms; Dean Clinton Frewett, chairman for solicitations for East Carolina College. The committee said the chairman for solicitations among the Negroes of Greenville will be announced at a later date. As a part of the program this year, Dr. Jenkins said, the planning committee has arranged for interested people to explain the function and responsibility of the Red Cross in an effort to make the citizens better informed on Red Cross work. The planning committee yesterday also announced its feeling that contributions to the Red Cross is an adult responsibility and added that this year there will be no solicitations among children of the city, and school children will not be asked to participate in the collection of funds this year.

Believe 500 Died In Hindu Tragedy

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — The bodies of 341 dead, most of them women, have been recovered at the site of the Hindu pilgrimage stampede at Allahabad. Newspapers estimated today that in all around 500 were killed and 1,000 injured. The government radio disclosed the recovered dead included 252 women, 49 men and 40 children. Three million frenzied pilgrims were involved in the crush yesterday at the junction of the Ganges and Jumna rivers, holy waters to Hindus. Many were washed downstream. The communique said the stampede developed as a group of naked Naga Sadhus—holy men—headed back to camp with their elephants after bathing. "The Nagas and the pilgrims came together when (some) pilgrims and one Naga were crushed, along with a row of beggars sitting on the procession route," the statement said. The communique did not reply to an accusation that the Nagas, in order to save themselves, used the spears they habitually carry to fend off wild animals but said: "The pilgrims got the impression the Nagas were violent and therefore ran for their lives, crushing to death the infirm, old, beggars and others who came in their way." The deaths marred the great Kumbh Mela festival, one of the holiest in the Hindu religion. It is held at 12-year intervals to celebrate the victory of the gods over demons in a mythical battle at the site.

Gun-Totin' Thief Robbed Students

DAVIDSON, N. C. (AP) — A gun-toting thief, dressed like a college boy, went through three Davidson College dormitories before dawn today, stealing about $340 from more than 20 students. He held two students at gunpoint. The incident brought swarms of policemen to the tree-shaded campus of the Presbyterian institution which has about 800 students. John Bailey, dean of students, said the man, between 20 and 24, tiptoed from room to room, picking up wallets as he made his way through the darkened rooms. The amounts he stole ranged from $2 or $3 to $126. The largest loss was suffered by J. W. Witherspoon, a student treasurer of a fraternity boarding house. In one room, occupied by a junior, Ralph E. Petree, and John McGee of Charlotte, the man pulled a pistol and threatened the two Duke Dormitory students. Petree said he awoke about 5:20 a. m. and saw the man in his room. "I asked the man what he wanted and he replied, 'Where is Bill, the boy you were out with last night?'" Petree said. Petree awakened McGee, asking him, "Who in the heck is this boy?" The student said he then jumped out of bed but the thief, brandishing a pistol "like a 32", ordered him "to get back in bed." Petree said he told the man "that thing is pretty persuasive."

they didn't believe he was a student. They reported he wore a checkered sports coat in the style of college boys. Dr. John Cunningham, Davidson president, issued a formal statement, saying: "It has been established that a robber entered the dormitories at the college in the early hours of this morning and took undetermined amounts of money from the students' rooms. When the students awakened, he threatened two of them with a gun and managed finally to escape without being identified. "This is to the college an unprecedented experience and one which we greatly regret. The college will do all in its power, with the aid and cooperation of the police department, to vigorously push the investigation and bring about the apprehension of this criminal."

Donates $10,000 To Dimes March

CHERRYVILLE, N. C. (AP) — A trucking company president today gave his customers a belated Christmas gift—$10,000 check to the March of Dimes. The gift, termed by National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis officials as the largest single donation in the history of their fight on polio was made by Grier Beam, president of the Carolina Freight Carriers Corp., a firm that hauls freight between Florida and Massachusetts.

More Barriers Raised To Treaty Amendment

WASHINGTON (AP) — A four-way breakup in the Senate raised new barriers today against approval of any constitutional amendment on treaty powers. The weeks-long maneuvering neared an end and showdown voting approached on a proposal by Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio) to limit the scope of treaties and to provide for congressional regulation of other international agreements. Sen. George (D-Ga.), leader of one of the largest of four blocs with conflicting ideas, said the chances are "very good" that Bricker's proposal, strongly opposed by President Eisenhower, will die in the Senate or go back on a committee shelf.

"I don't believe any proposition can get the necessary two-thirds vote as matters stand now," he said in an interview. However, Sen. Knowland of California the GOP floor leader, pushing for a vote on a series of revisions to the Bricker resolution which had been cleared by the White House. Bricker himself led a group which found the Knowland amendments acceptable as far as they went, but still held out for additional broadened congressional authority over treaties and presidential agreements which now are not subject to Senate ratification, as treaties are.

Magistrate Gets Prison Sentence

YADKINVILLE, N. C. (AP) — A Boonville magistrate convicted of embezzling fines and court costs was sentenced to 18 to 36 months here yesterday. Raymond Albert Parker, 30, disappeared from his home Nov. 8. He was indicted Nov. 30 and surrendered in Flint, Mich., Dec. 7. John B. Edwards, State Bureau of Investigation agent, testified Parker failed to account for $4,089.50. Edwards said Parker tried 238 cases, but submitted only five reports after he took office in April 1952.

Ballentine 'Not Alarmed' By Decline In Farm Prices

By ALVIN TAYLOR Reflector Staff Writer "We have no serious reason to be alarmed," Commissioner of Agriculture L. Y. "Stagg" Ballentine told the annual meeting of the Farmers Home Administration yesterday at the Pitt County Court House. Ballentine was referring to declining farm prices. "Most farm prices have hit the downward trail," he said, "and I don't know how low they will go."

"But we have supports and we have learned a lot about how to farm," he explained. "We are benefiting from legislation passed back in pre-war days." Ballentine said that the farmer today can no longer afford to go busted. The commissioner stated that a few years ago the farmer could go busted every year and still farm the next year. Now, they have to much invested in equipment, he said. "We can no longer afford to go busted because you've got an investment you must protect," the commissioner emphasized. Ballentine told the FHA members and guest who attended the meeting that farmers could get more out of the dollar by taking more care with their farm products. "The farmer is getting less out of the dollar today but he could get more if he would give more consideration to the quality of his product," he said. "If you would give half as much attention to other crops as you do to tobacco you would have more," the commissioner said. He cited an example of lespedeza which had been allowed to lay in the field after it had been cut. He said that test showed that the delay had caused the food value of the crop to drop as low as that of wheat straw. "If, by utilizing tools and manpower you can make $50 or a hundred dollars more per acre, it's well worth your while to make it," he emphasized. "Stop and ask yourself if you are using your resources on your farm to the best of your ability," Ballentine urged the assembled farmers.

"It has been said that there are no more frontiers in agriculture and that there are no more frontiersmen," the commissioner said. "But I disagree with that statement. The frontiersmen today are in the agricultural laboratories and the frontiers are new scientific agricultural discoveries." Ballentine cited two advantages of rural living. One, he said, is being able to live close to nature and the second is being able to produce and consume the things farmers use without going to market. Ballentine paid tribute to Pitt County for winning the $500 Rural Progress prize recently. "Pitt County is in the forefront agriculturally," he said. "I think it is encouraging to know that a concentrated effort is being made to improve agriculture. The greatest potential in North Carolina today is rural life and agriculture." Ballentine was introduced to the group by J. E. Winslow, prominent local farmer. Prior to Ballentine's address, Ralph Harris, County Supervisor for the Farmers Home Administration gave his report to FHA members in the business session of the meeting. Harris gave a crop-by-crop outlook for the coming year and explained briefly how the experts arrived at their conclusions in predicting the outlook for farm prices. Harris reported indicated that farm prices should hold fairly good next year. He said that operating cost and labor are expected to be slightly higher next year, however.

Admit Loss Of Outpost To Vietnam

French Concede Reversals As Concern In U. S. Over Conflict Rises

SAIGON, Indochina (AP) — The French high command today conceded the loss of the important military post at Muong Ngoi, guarding the approaches to the royal Laotian capital of Luang Prabang. The command said that forces of the Communist-led Vietnam rebels occupied the post in the Nam Hou River valley as part of their advance along a 60-mile front. Muong Ngoi is 65 miles northeast of Luang Prabang. In the same drive, the Vietnam captured two other French forts, one at Muong Sai, about 60 miles northwest of Luang Prabang, and the other at Ban Nam Bac, about 60 miles north of Luang Prabang. Muong Sai was considered important because of its airstrip which the French could use as an auxiliary airfield.

The Vietnam were reported to be steadily advancing in the jungle despite the rain of bombs and napalm showered by French aircraft. Scores of refugees from the combat zone were streaming toward Luang Prabang. Earlier, the French lifted their blackout curtain on northern Laos operations to disclose the establishment of an airlift to pump men and supplies into the threatened capital. French military sources here today estimated it would take the rebel columns at least 10 days to reach Luang Prabang. The French were expected to make a stand north of the city of 150,000, which the Vietnam threatened last May before they withdrew.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Eisenhower administration showed growing concern today over the situation in Indochina, where Communist-led rebels are pressing a new assault in a war that has dragged on for eight years.

President Eisenhower told his news conference yesterday he views the battle as critical in the sense that there is some lack of enthusiasm for it. Later he put out a clarifying statement—the first such explanation of a news conference remark since he took office a year ago.

The statement said he meant no reflection on the Indochinese who are combating communism. He said he referred to "a number of people in Indochina who have not committed themselves to the struggle." The President's comments came against a backdrop of reports that France, bearing the brunt of the battle for the free world, is seeking 400 or more B26 attack bombers and mechanics to keep them flying. There also were reports from authoritative sources that at least a dozen C119 Flying Boxcars had been lent by the United States to the French in Indochina. Next June 30.

Turn To Other Problems In Big Four Meeting West Drops German Issue

By PRESTON GROVER BERLIN (AP) — The Western foreign ministers today wrote off the possibility of settling the German question at the current Big Four conference and, as one source put it, began trying to "screen out the smaller potatoes."

Still pending in this category were the long-deadlocked Austrian independence treaty, possible conferences with Communist China about peace in Asia and perhaps further talks between Russia's V. M. Molotov and U. S. Secretary of State Dulles on President Eisenhower's proposal for an atomic pool for peace. A possible outcome also was simple mechanism for building up a larger exchange of goods between West and East Germany, a trade now largely throttled by political differences despite mutual needs. One Western informant said the Big Four ministers probably would spend the balance of this week in more fruitless talk on Germany, then move on to Austria.

After nine days of talking, likely would go on for another 15 or 20. One wide-open indication of the end to Western hopes for any major German settlement came last night when Russia's junior partner East German Premier Otto Grotewohl, seconded Molotov's latest gimmick for Germany. Inside the Russian Embassy in East Berlin, Molotov had proposed to the Western Ministers that a plebiscite be held to let the Germans in both East and West say whether they wanted an immediate peace treaty neutralizing them or wanted Germany to join the projected West European army—the European Defense Community. French Foreign Minister Bidault speaking for the West, brushed the Soviet proposal aside. Let all the Germans elect their own unified government in the free elections the West has proposed said Bidault, and that government can make its own decisions. The British dismissed the plebiscite proposal as a ridiculous sideshow designed to hide Russia's refusal to let the Germans choose their own government. To the Americans it looked as if Molotov was filibustering. Two hours after the Big Four meeting broke up, Grotewohl was on the radio with a long speech demanding "an immediate democratic plebiscite" to let the Germans decide "whether they wish to live under this dishonorable, war-hazardous (EDC) treaty or wish a peace treaty and restored unity." The East German Parliament quickly said "me too" with its standard unanimous vote endorsing the scheme. A depressed band of West German officials who had hoped for better things talked with British Foreign Secretary Eden. Later they had dinner with Dulles and U. S. High Commissioner James B. Conant. One highly placed Western informant said Molotov and the West clearly had failed to link up on any mutually agreeable approach to a peace settlement.

Search For 2 Missing Men In Fourth Day Still Dragging Creek's Bed

Efforts to recover the bodies of two men believed to have drowned in Tranter's Creek entered the fourth day today. No trace of the bodies had been located at noon today although volunteer workers continued to drag the bottom of the creek and probe with long gaffing poles in an attempt to locate the bodies of Gordon Baker and Henry D. Manning. The two men are believed to have drowned in the creek Sunday night when the boat in which they were riding overturned. The boat was found floating bottom-up in the creek Monday morning. Determined workers have scoured the long, deep creek for three days using poles, hooks and even fishing lines in an effort to locate the bodies. Tuesday and yesterday dynamite charges were set off on the bottom of the creek in an unsuccessful effort to bring the bodies to the surface. Ray Smith of the Greenville Fire Department who has headed the organized operations to recover the bodies, said approximately seven boats were working in the creek yesterday. "The thing that makes it so complicated is that we don't know exactly where the boat turned over," Smith commented. He said the two men could have fallen from the boat anywhere along a two to four-mile stretch of the creek. Smith said a net has been stretched across the creek below the area in which the search for the bodies has centered. He added that water in the creek has dropped two-and-one-half to three feet since efforts to recover the bodies began Monday. Smith said four members of the Greenville Fire Department have taken part in the search for the bodies each day. Members of the department who have helped in the search, he said, are Claude Christopher, Amos Harold, Roy Hardee, J. B. Meeks, J. Z. Garris and Job Blanton. Members of the Pitt County Sheriff's department and ABC officers as well as other volunteer workers have joined in the efforts to recover the bodies.

Informant Says Agent Was Protege Of Slain Beria Once A Key Spy For Russia

By JOHN RANDOLPH TOKYO (AP) — Lt. Col. Yuri A. Rastvorov was revealed today as Soviet Russia's chief Red spy in Japan and a youthful protege of Lavrenti Beria, recently executed chief of the Soviet secret police. Informed American sources said Rastvorov, who asked an American Army intelligence unit for political asylum Jan. 24, was trained on the "Japan desk" of a special Soviet Foreign Office section under direct control of Beria's MVD organization. Once a personal courier for Beria himself, Rastvorov apparently was headed for a brilliant future in the Soviet secret service. But, the source said, a growing admiration and "weakness" for Americans, possibly Beria's execution, and finally direct orders to return to Moscow sparked his decision to change sides. His conversion long and deliberately sought by crack U. S. Army operatives, is called by observers here the most brilliant piece of American intelligence work published since the start of the cold war—and a blow at Soviet espionage in a key Far Eastern area. "Intelligence work is subterranean war," the source said. "This is a great victory that may be decisive in Japan. It is the intelligence equivalent of a Midway or a Normandy."

Rastvorov, reported yesterday to be cooperating with American agents at the big U. S. base on Okinawa, was described as a dashing, handsome Soviet spy who moved easily in Tokyo social circles and who cultivated Americans. "He even ate and drank at American Army officers' clubs," the source said. Some of his hosts did not know whom they entertained. Some knew all too well. It also was revealed that at the time of Beria's execution, Dec. 23, Rastvorov made contact with American Army agents who shadowed him continually and sounded them out on changing sides. Much as the Army wanted him, it moved cautiously until Rastvorov—apparently in panic at personally delivered orders to go home—called the agents on the telephone and asked them to protect him as a political refugee. The unit then had no choice but

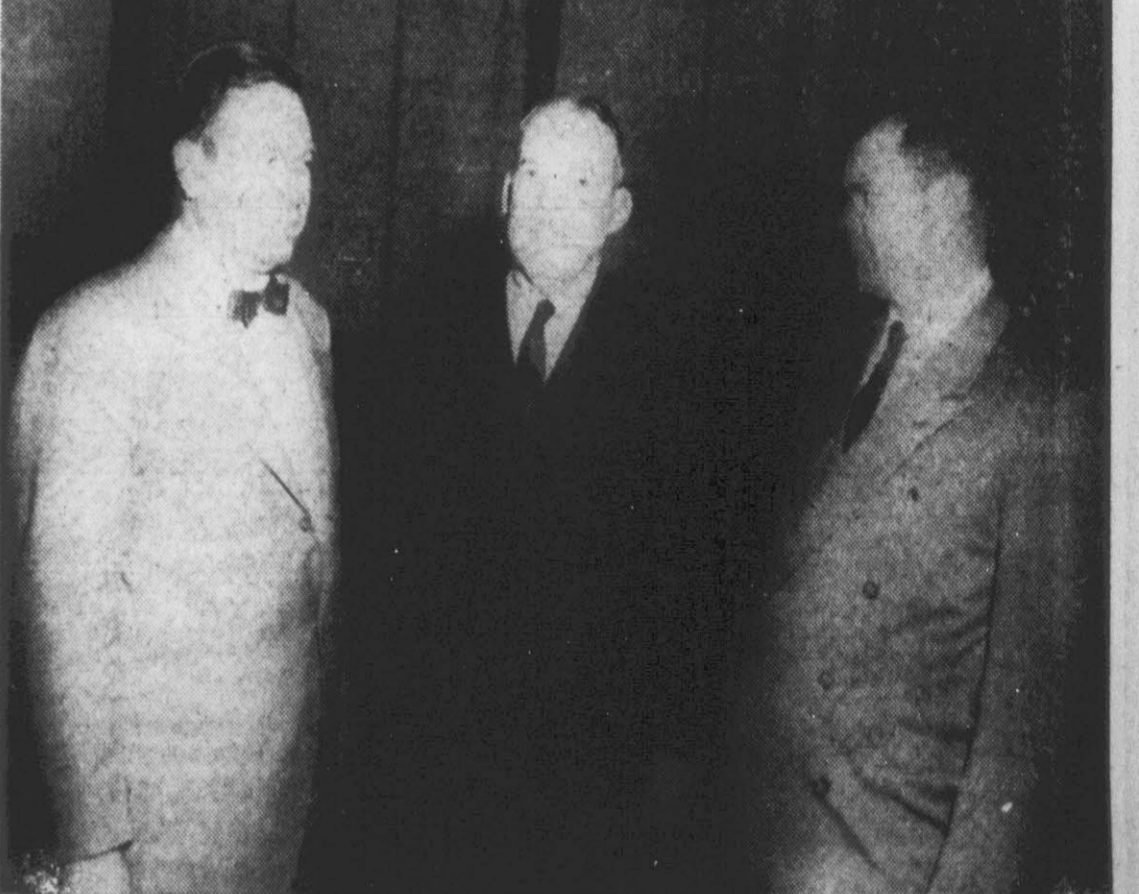

Watson Named President Of Farmers Day, Inc. For 1954 At Committee Meet

W. H. "Bill" Watson, local attorney, was elected president of Farmers Day Inc for 1954 at a meeting of the Steering Committee last night at the Silo Grill. Watson has been very active in Farmers Day activities and was chairman of last year's finance committee. Other new officers elected last night were Ford McGowan, vice-president, and Miss Margaret Register, secretary-treasurer. After being elected president, Watson asked for a rising vote of thanks to Jack Wallace, last year's president, for his outstanding work. The following members of the Steering Committee were present at last night's meeting: Last year's officers: Wallace, president; W. C. Eagles, vice-president; Charles Gaskins, secretary-treasurer; and Watson, finance chairman. Fred James and Hoyt Naron of the Exchange Club, A. R. Barrett of the Rotary Club, D. A. Blue of the Kiwanis Club, Dr. Warren Aldridge and James Hughes of the Lions Club, Miss Register and Mrs. Cora Powell of the Greenville Business and Professional Women's Club. McGowan and Frank Steinbeck of the Chamber of Commerce, Ben Rouse and J. B. Kittrell Jr. of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, W. L. Whebebe of the Greenville Tobacco Board of Trade, and Dr. Leo Jenkins of East Carolina College.

to grant his request for a flight to freedom, the source said. The news apparently came as a shock to the defunct Russian mission of about 35 men still in Tokyo. Last week they filed an angry protest that Rastvorov had been kidnapped by the Americans. This is a standard Soviet charge when one of their agents deserts. "It is ridiculous to say he was kidnapped," the source said. "He fled in fear for his life." The American source, who is well informed but who cannot be identified, said Rastvorov, 5 feet 10, blond and blue-eyed, spoke almost flawless American English and affected an American manner. He dressed in clothes of American cut—"some may have come from the Tokyo PX"—American shoes, carried an American portable radio to the Tokyo Tennis Club and seemed interested in several non-Russian women. Actually, the informant said, Rastvorov carried his Americanization so far that it began to become less of a pose than a real state of mind. "He apparently associated with Americans so much that, as an intelligent man, he could not believe all the Communist lies he had been educated on," the unofficial source said. "He became convinced that communism itself was a fraud." Rastvorov is believed to have been the No. 2 man in the Red mission here, but in direct charge of setting up the Red spy apparatus.

Joint Hostesses To Wesleyan Guild

On Monday night, with Miss Jane Hadley presiding, the Wesleyan Service Guild met at the home of Miss Eloise Ellington on Summit Street. Mrs. Katharine Adams, in her usual gracious manner, gave the devotional—using as her topic, "Lord, Make Me Aware." She included several beautiful quotations, among them being:

God, let me be aware:
Let me not stumble blindly down the ways.
Just getting somehow safely through the days,
Not even wondering why it all was planned,
Eyes to the ground unseeking for the light,
Soul never aching for a wild-winged flight.
Please keep me eager just to do my share.
Lord, make me aware.

The reading of the minutes and the roll call were given, after which the treasurer's report was given. Following this, reports of the various committees were heard.

The members were urged to attend church Friday night and hear the Florida Southern Choir. Also, on Wednesday night, February 24, Mrs. Eagleton, who is in demand as a speaker, is to be the speaker at the prayer meeting.

Mrs. Margaret Farley gave an interesting book report—the fourth portion of "A Sower Went Forth." The hostesses, Miss Ellington, Miss Jane Hancock, Miss Thelma Exum and Mrs. T. B. Brown, then served delicious refreshments.

Life of Sidney Lanier Heard By Members Of Round Table

The Round Table met with Mrs. R. A. Fountain Jr. on Tuesday afternoon at 3:30.
The meeting was called to order by the vice president, Mrs. Howard Porter. The collect was repeated and the usual business transacted.
Mrs. E. E. Rawl gave a most interesting and entertaining paper on the "Life of Sidney Lanier," from the time he was 14 years of age until the time of his death, which was 112 years ago.

Following this most interesting paper, Mrs. Howard Porter told about the Louisiana Purchase from France. The large amount of land, what it meant to the U. S. A. and the price per acre, which was 4 cents per acre, were injected into the discussion.

At the close of the meeting, members and guests were invited into the dining room where Mrs. J. D. Messick served punch and Miss Bunny Overton served dainty party accompaniments.

The table was covered with a white satin cloth centered with an arrangement of red carnations flanked by silver candelabras holding white candles.

The Valentine motif was used throughout the house.
Guests for the afternoon were Mrs. Ralph Tucker of Greenville, Mrs. R. A. Fountain, Mrs. W. R. Harris, Mrs. Hugh Eagles, Mrs. J. M. Horton, Mrs. Ed Whitaker and Mrs. E. B. Peasley of Fountain.

Miss McLawhorn Is Complimented At Bridge Party

On Saturday evening, January 30, Miss Alya Ray Taylor, Mrs. Beecher Flanagan and Mrs. James Collins entertained at a bridge party at the home of Miss Taylor, 306 East Eighth Street, honoring Miss Gay McLawhorn, bride-elect of February 6.

The home was attractively arranged for seven tables of bridge. The dining room table was centered with a crystal epergne with an all-white arrangement of garza mums and lighted candles.

Before the guests assembled, Miss McLawhorn the honoree, was presented a corsage of white carnations. During the evening guests were served salted nuts and Coca-Colas.

At the conclusion of the game high and low score prizes were presented respectively to Mrs. A. D. McLawhorn and Miss Denyse McLawhorn, sister of the bride-elect. A silver celery dish was presented to the honoree by the hostesses, who served bride's loaves, cakes and green and white mints to their 35 guests.

Child Behavior Is Topic For Club Discussion

The Semi-Cent Book Club met at the home of Mrs. Warren Carroll on January 26. Mrs. Bill Hudson, vice president, presided over a short business session.

Mrs. Carroll presented Dr. Judson White of East Carolina College as the guest speaker of the evening. Dr. White gave a splendid talk on "Child Behavior" and then had open discussion.

Mrs. Carroll, assisted by her little daughter Peggy, served delicious refreshments. The books were exchanged and the meeting adjourned.

Mrs. Geneva W. Phillips' eighth grade won the attendance prize. At the conclusion of the business session the Hospitality Committee invited all those present to adjourn to the library, where refreshments were served and a social hour enjoyed.

Dr. Utterback Reviews Play Before Chatham Club

Mrs. C. A. Bowen was gracious hostess to the Chatham Book Club at her home on February 2. Upon the arrival of the members she served a delicious salad course and coffee.

The club president, Mrs. W. P. Moore, conducted routine business. She then turned the meeting over to Mrs. N. S. Beard, the program chairman, who introduced the speaker of the afternoon, Dr. Elizabeth Utterback of the English department of the college. Dr. Utterback read in a most entertaining manner the Broadway three act stage hit, "My Three Angels," an excellent comedy laid in a Penal Colony in French Guinea.

The program was much enjoyed, and the members felt they had really seen a Broadway show. Dr. Utterback in her closing remarks summed up the play with that old adage that "There is so much good in the worst of us, and so much bad in the best of us, that it ill behoves any of us to talk about the rest of us."

Following this most enjoyable afternoon the books were distributed and the club adjourned.

P.T.A. Members Hear Speech On Sanitation By Greenville Speaker

FOUNTAIN—The Fountain School Parent-Teachers Association met on Thursday evening, January 29, in the school auditorium with the president, Mrs. Henry Smith, presiding.

Mr. A. S. Alford, principal of Fountain School, introduced Mr. J. Carroll Waldrop of Greenville, member of the Pitt County Health Department staff, who discussed rural sanitation, urging members of the Parent-Teachers Association to give full cooperation to the health program in Pitt County. He showed a film on hook worm, giving its causes, cure and steps to be taken in prevention of the disease.

During the business session the roll was called by grades. Also plans were discussed to have Slim Short come to Fountain School and put on a program to raise money to help purchase lunch room equipment. It was left open for completion of plans as soon as possible.

Mrs. Geneva W. Phillips' eighth grade won the attendance prize. At the conclusion of the business session the Hospitality Committee invited all those present to adjourn to the library, where refreshments were served and a social hour enjoyed.

Church Women Continue Bible Study

Mrs. H. M. Holbert presented another very interesting Bible study on the Book of Acts at the monthly Circle meeting of the Women of the Meadowbrook Presbyterian Church Tuesday night, Feb. 2, at the home of Mrs. Keith Holmes.

Following the Bible study a letter of appreciation from the recipient of the Circle's Christmas gifts was read by Mrs. L. M. Bullock. Booklets entitled "God's Love For the World" were presented to the members by Mrs. L. L. Coward.

The yearly White Cross offering was taken at this meeting. Mrs. C. D. Patterson reported on the district conference meeting at Ahsokie which she and a group from the church attended recently. She also urged the members to attend a movie on mission work, "Wings of the Word," to be shown Friday night, Feb. 5, at Meadowbrook Presbyterian Church. Interest in mission work was stimulated by a letter concerning mission work in Mexico, read by Mrs. C. D. Patterson.

Following the benediction led by Mrs. E. A. Fuller, delicious refreshments were served by the hostess. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. H. M. Holbert on March 2.

Service League Chairmen Make Report On January Activities

The Service League of Greenville Inc. held its regular monthly meeting in the Episcopal Parish House February 1st at 10:30. Mrs. E. H. Williford, president, called the meeting to order and led the reading of the Christian Service prayer.

Mrs. Williford stated that the Service League always looks forward to this meeting for this is the time when provisional members are taken into full membership. Mrs. R. H. Evans welcomed the new members and Mrs. William Hudson responded.

The roll was called and the minutes were read and approved.

The treasurer, Mrs. Ercell Webb, reported $121.32 in the Service League Fund and $243.57 in the Thrift Shop Fund.

Mrs. David Hardee, corresponding secretary, read a note of thanks from Mrs. J. B. Spilman Sr. in which she thanked the Service League for directing the publicity for the TB drive. Notes of thanks were sent to the Shriners for the live Christmas tree they gave for the hospital and to the Allied Florists of Greenville for flower arrangements at the hospital for Christmas. Mrs. W. B. Umstead sent a note of thanks for the Service League Cook Book.

The Laughtinghouse Bed Fund was greatly increased by generous donations from Mrs. W. S. Moye Sr. and Mrs. Harvey Ward.

Mrs. W. S. Bost, projects chairman, asked that the polo iron lungs be picked up this week. The sale of the blind people's work will be held Feb. 11 and 12 at Laureates.

Mrs. Bryan Brown, membership chairman, collected membership blanks for proposed new members.

Mrs. E. C. Wilkerson, placement chairman, secured workers for the new term at the Coffee Shop and Thrift Shop which will begin February 8.

The layette chairman, Mrs. J. H. Move, reported that she had furnished two layettes and urged members to sew as much as possible on additional layettes.

Mrs. Tyson Bilbro, emergency charity chairman, stated that she had answered four calls for food, clothing and coal.
It was with a great deal of satisfaction that the Coffee Shop Committee reported that January 1954 was the biggest month of business in its three years of service at Pitt Memorial Hospital. Since a new term is beginning at the Coffee Shop, workers were reminded that a cheerful hello and a pleasant smile are synonymous of volunteer workers from the Service League. Included with this report of the Coffee Shop was the announcement that Mrs. R. D. Whichard would be the new manager.
There being no further business the meeting was adjourned.

Registration Books For Fountain Vote Opened

FOUNTAIN — The Fountain registration books will be open Saturday February 6 and 13 for the special election in the town of Fountain on the proposal to issue $10,000 in bonds for the construction of a public building to house the Fountain fire department and the town offices.

The election is to be held on Saturday, February 27. A.C. Gay has been appointed as registrar and will have the books at the town Clerk's office on the two Saturdays during the registration period. H.D. Jefferson and F.L. Eagles will serve as judges of election.

Citizens of the town whose names are already on the poll books will be eligible to vote on the proposal without registering anew. Those not previously registered in the town for a municipal election must get their names on the books during the period if they anticipate voting on the bond issue.

Decision to call the election was made by the Board of Commissioners in December. Approval has been obtained from the Local Government Commission.

J.M. Horton is mayor of Fountain. On the Board are C.G. Smith, L. P. Yelverton and M. W. Owens. The proposal was adopted without opposition.

Local Recruiting Office Signs 29 During January

The Army and Air Force Recruiting station in Greenville has signed up 29 men for the two branches of service during the month of January, according to an announcement today by Sergeant A.G. Atwood local recruiting sergeant.

"This is the most number of men enlisted for one month since March, 1953," Sergeant Atwood said. "Seventeen of the men were enlisted for the army and 12 for the air force."

Enlisted in the regular army for Greenville were: Herman L. Whitaker, Ira M. Jones, David S. Swindell, Luther M. Bryan, Odys W. Whitaker, James Holaday, James L. Ross, Joseph H. Bennett, David W. Smithwick, Malcolm B. Waters, Lionel Anderson, Leon E. Peoples, and John A. Cherry.

Army enlistees from Farmville include: Thomas E. Moore, Jimmie E. Stocks, and Guilford H. Dixon. Joseph R. Moye enlisted from Fountain.

Persons enlisting in the Air Force from Greenville include: Odys R. Anderson, Ray S. Herring, Hunter T. Brady, Jr., Henry Coward, Billy B. Hill, William E. Midgette, William S. Greene, Theodore H. Rosenthal, Jr., Bobby G. Norris, Ronald G. Sutton and Jasper T. Stalls. Jesse E. Beachum from Stokes also enlisted in the Air Force.

Take A Good Look At New Precincts

The next 20 days will be an opportune time for voters of Pitt County to take a good look at their home voting precincts to see if they meet the needs of the voters.

With the adoption of new township lines by the County Commissioners, it became necessary for the Pitt Board of Elections to set up new voting precincts for the county. The Board of Elections has made its recommendations calling for 25 new precincts in the place of the 23 precincts which have existed in the county. The new precincts recommended will not be finally adopted until February 24, which gives the people of Pitt County ample time to study the precincts and decide whether they object to any of the recommendations of the board members.

According to the recommendations, there will be at least one voting precinct in each township.

The townships of Farmville, Arthur, Falkland, Fountain, Ayden, Grifton, Swift Creek, Bethel, Stokes, Belvoir, Pactolus, and Winterville were recommended as one voting precinct each. It was recommended that Chicod township have three precincts, Grimesland township have two precincts, and that Greenville township have eight precincts.

At a glance, the recommendations of the Board of Elections appear sound for setting up new voting precincts in the county. But the board has left the way open for any citizens who have objections to the new precincts to voice those objections between now and February 24 when the final action is slated on precinct designations.

The voters in the individual townships of the county should not hesitate to voice such objections if they have them.

The precincts form an important segment of the voting machinery of Pitt and every other county; and while precinct boundaries can be changed from time to time if necessary, it will be to the advantage of the voters and the county to have the precincts remain reasonably permanent once they are officially adopted.

In view of that, the people of the county should satisfy themselves that the precincts are satisfactory and soundly set up before they are adopted officially.

Not One Red Ruble For A Helping Hand

The adage "action speaks louder than words" still holds true today as it has down through the ages, whether it be applied to an individual or a nation.

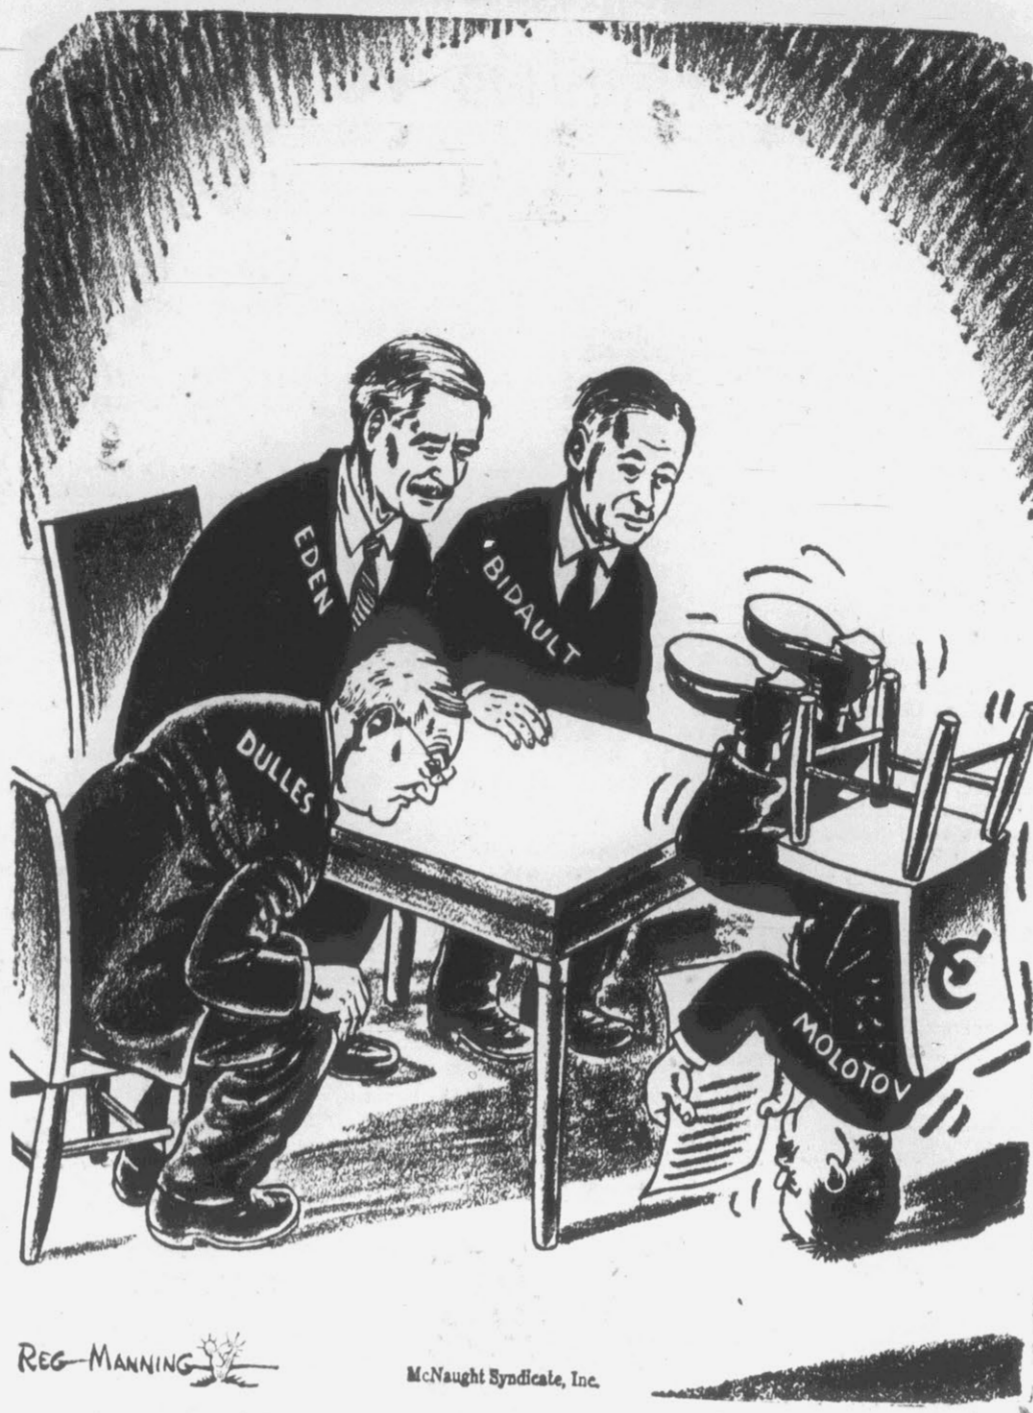

Proof, we believe, of the Russian government's attitude toward the rest of the world—even the neutral nations for whose support it is still bidding—is shown in a little news article which appeared several days ago.

The item pointed out that the communists spend about two billion dollars annually on their "front" organizations, for undermining foreign governments. But Russia still has not contributed one red ruble to the UN children's emergency fund.

That of course is not surprising.

The whole communist strategy is to convince people that they should be discontent with their lot under their present form of government. However good it is... and that communism holds many advantages for them. The communists thus prey upon the people who need help, and if help were provided, the communists would lose one of their strong arguing points. Thus the Reds can not be expected to contribute to the welfare or economic improvement of the world's people.

Somebody Told Me

Post Office-Goer's Findings

The average Greenville business-man makes two or three trips a day to the Post Office. There are several observations that can be made on each trip that become amusing over a period of time.

The parking limitation of 10 minutes is fairly well observed, but there are times when all the space is full, but you can go in the Post Office and find no one there. There are two types of parkers that are goat-getters. One is the nose-diver. While you're waiting to back into a space, he dives in head first and steals your place.

Then there's the mail-reader. He comes out of the Post Office with a stack of mail about a foot high and climbs into his car. Usually I'm driving down the street when this character comes out and assume that he's going to vacate a parking space.

Instead, he sits right there in his car and reads every piece of that mail, sometimes with the engine running. Never try to wait him out. If you think he's only going to glance through it, you'll be wrong.

If you ever want to prove that men are not gossips, go to the Post Office. Hundreds see each other there, speak cordially, make a few short remarks and are on the way.

However, I will admit that there are exceptions. Even occasionally I will get into one of 'em. But generally speaking the discussions aren't long enough to be a factor in the parking problem.

Knott Proctor must be the most meticulous Postmaster in the U.S. There must have been a few times that I've been to the Post Office when the janitor wasn't polishing the brass on the doors. It seems that when the Christmas rush is on they put on an extra force for the job of polishing.

Come to think of it, one night at about 11 o'clock I went to the P. O. and the men were not there! One serious note about the P. O.: It would be hard to find a staff anywhere who is as cooperative and cordial with the general public as we have here in our organization.

The P. O. is one of the institutions that can be watched by the person, who is interested in seeing the trends of everyday life. And I thank you.

What Other Editors Are Thinking

THE MUCH ABUSED VEST (Birmingham News)

Now comes the Journal-Tailor and Cutter, British authority on men's fashions, to tell the world that the vest is on the way out, the cummerbund on the way in. We seem to recall that attacks have been made previously against the vest. The hardy vest, however, has survived. Whether it will survive again may remain a moot question, but we suspect bookmakers would welcome negative wagers at their own odds.

The vest is useful, though with the rise of the wrist watch, one of its principal uses has all but vanished. The gold watch chain and watch tucked neatly into a vest pocket used to be part of "being dressed up." Not so any longer. In our opinion, nothing was a more satisfying figure to see than that of a solid figure of a man, on being asked the time, hooking his coat aside, taking his watch from a vest pocket, studying it, and then giving the time with a mature precision. Instead of this dignified ceremony, today when one asks the time of a man, what happens? He flicks his arm out to raise his coat or shirt sleeve above the wrist watch. Elbow stuck out awkwardly, coat sleeve hitched up in an unsightly manner, he usually fits his words to his contortion, and spatters out the time as if the sound of his own speech were distasteful.

If the vest does go out, as this English fashion journal says, what to replace it? A six-inch band, the cummerbund may be "gaily colored." Further, its virtue is reported as follows: "It covers the ugly wrinkled gap between the shirt and top of trousers."

Now that is an exact quote from the magazine, and it leaves us highly suspicious of the whole project. For one thing, what gap between shirt and top of trousers? Our personal observation has been that the American shirt is tucked into the American trousers, allowing no gap between shirt and trousers. Sure—oh, no!—an English publication would not imply a Briton's midriff, bare skin, had been showing—and (horrors!) that it was wrinkled.

This English experiment comes up against the newly developed American taste for the tattersall vest, a handsome odd garment of some color and suggestive of a country influence. We shall, perhaps, see a contest of the century: Cummerbund vs. tattersall vest.

Economic And Political Notes From 'Sounding Board'

By LYNN NISBET

SENTIMENTAL — Newspaper folks, particularly those in the smaller cities and rural areas, are in position to know the sentiment of their communities better than most other people. They come in contact with every phase of community life, and in most instances enjoy the confidence of their neighbors on all matters to the same degree a lawyer or a doctor does on matters pertaining to his profession.

For these reasons a gathering of newspaper people from all over the State such as that at Chapel Hill last Thursday, Friday and Saturday provides an excellent sounding board for composite sentiment.

ECONOMIC — Reports indicated that money is a little bit tighter and scarcer; unemployment has increased, and payrolls further reduced by reason of much less overtime; farmers generally begin 1954 with greater uncertainty and with prospect of more difficult time than for several years.

Despite these evidences of harder times, there was a prevailing belief that nothing like a depression is in the near future. In their own business the publishers face rapidly rising costs of producing newspapers and consequently smaller profits—but they still look for some profit. Advertising income and circulation are expected to hold at about 1953 levels, which was near an all-time record, but further gains are not looked for.

Publishers from rural counties indicated the buying public has been watching pennies more closely than for some time, and perhaps closer than their city neighbors. Fewer people are saving money and more are borrowing for current expenses. While this condition does not tend to occasion great joy, it is not regarded as alarming. Rather it is taken to indicate necessity for tightening belts, devoting more thought to advance planning and a little harder work on the job.

POLITICAL — A lively political campaign is in prospect, with perhaps more than usual attention to local offices and the General Assembly. The question of secret sessions of public governmental bodies and legislative committees has largely displaced the principal state-wide issue.

Not much popular interest has been manifested in the upcoming U.S. Senatorial race, but opinion seemed unanimous that contest will overshadow all others when the campaign gets underway. It was accepted as a certainty that former Governor Kerr Scott will announce his candidacy within a week against incumbent Senator Alton Lennon, and it will be essentially a two-way race even though another entry or two may be made.

The editors were divided as to their own individual support of the candidates, but there was little division in expressed opinion of the outcome. Nearly everybody with whom your reporter talked agreed that if the election were held now Scott would win by a handsome margin, and substantial majority believe he will hold the lead right through the May 29 voting.

REASONS — Among the reasons assigned for this conclusion are that Scott is well known throughout the state, while Lennon's personal acquaintance is limited; the feeling, especially among country voters, that Scott as Governor did more for the little man than any Governor in a long time; the fact that North Carolina has never elected an appointed Senator, even when the appointee was so well known as were Cameron Morrison, William Upstead and Frank Graham; and the evidences that Governor Upstead, who appointed Lennon, has lost a substantial amount of the personal popularity he had when he was elected last year, and therefore will not be able to help his man to the same extent Governors Cherry and Scott helped their appointees.

OTHER SIDE — Those who believe that Lennon will win the nomination based their opinion on these reasons: While relatively unknown when he went to the Senate, he has made remarkable progress in getting acquainted throughout the state; that Scott will have 90 per cent or more of his potential maximum strength the day he announces, while Lennon will continue to gain as the campaign moves along, and there is a psychological advantage for the man who is gaining over one who is practically standing still; that local organizations, especially

Business Today

'Even Keel' Sought

Prompted, perhaps, by President Eisenhower's economic report to Congress, several persons have asked why we must have rises and falls, booms and busts and peaks and valleys in business. Why, they want to know, can't things be arranged so that trade moves along on an even keel?

Governments and economists have long been working on the problem. Some progress has been made. The Federal Reserve Board's power over interest rates can, to an extent, put a brake on excessive during booms and take it off during dips; increasing public works during recessions and curbing them during good times will also tend to level off cycles. But, because of the basic nature of their causes, it will be impossible ever to eliminate ups and downs.

Take overcoats, for instance. People rarely buy them in spring and summer but do buy them in fall and winter. In fact, a high per cent of purchases are made within a 30-day period in each locality. So there is an up and down influence there—a wave—each year. While some people buy a new coat every year, some buy one every two years, some every three, and so on. So there are a lot more little waves set, up, and when the tops of these waves coincide, it is a very good year, or a very good month, for overcoats. It's a bad year when the troughs coincide. It's a bad year.

These kind of waves occur in endless varieties of goods and, when many coincide, all business is affected. Why don't these waves cancel each other out? They do, to an extent. When overcoats aren't selling in summer, swim suits are. But waves often come together and, besides, each wave affects others. When overcoat sales are off, makers spend less money on shoes and other articles.

If we had a totalitarian government, we might do something about it. For instance, everybody whose name begins with "B" might be required to get a new $80 overcoat in February of even-numbered years. But we wouldn't stand for that and it wouldn't do much good anyhow. There's the weather. Therefore, some years crops are good, some years bad. Heating-fuel consumption can vary greatly between cold and mild winters. And these changes set up other waves. And so do weather conditions in parts of the world. We are paying for coffee now because of frosts in Brazil last year. And so do far-away wars, insect infestations and, perhaps, the spots on the sun.

And when all these waves, big and little, build up to a peak, it's a good year for overcoats and everything else. And when the trough is deep, business falls off and everybody looks for a scape-goat.

New Baby Creates Two Cowards

By HAL BOYLE
NEW LORK (AP)—Every time a child is born two cowards are created. They are the parents. There is nothing like a baby to turn a couple of normally courageous adults into a pair of timorous mice.

Some six months ago a five-week-old lady called Tracy Ann moved a crib into our home and adopted Frances and me. Coming into our life after 16 childless years of marriage, she brightened up the place like a welcome candle in a dark cave.

Our life was pleasant enough before. But now it has a shining luster, and it is a wonderful feeling to come home and open the door and be greeted by a small sunrise smile and a trill like a meadowlark.

"Are you sure it won't trouble you that the baby isn't your own flesh and blood?" a cautious friend asked shortly after Tracy Ann decided to be our favorite income tax deduction.

Trouble us? It is just the other way around. Frankly, it is a relief.

"Baby, we didn't bring you into the world," I feel like telling her. "All we have is the chance to make as nice a world for you as we can, and if we fail you in that, then you got a real right to holler."

When Tracy Ann had been in our house a week, she already was more than our flesh and blood. She was our blithe spirit, and she becomes blither every day.

I have no hesitancy in advising any childless couple who can get a baby to adopt them to go and do so at once, and quit postponing paradise. But paradise has a price. Ordinary parenthood will turn the bravest human being into a craven wretch; adopted parents are doubly craven.

In four years of war reporting I learned to condition myself so that I was afraid only when in actual danger. A man who gets the fear-sweats before he goes to the front, or after he comes back and is out of peril, won't last through very many battlefields.

But raising a baby is much more terrifying than working on a battlefield. On a battlefield you know when to be scared—when you can relax. But in raising a child, you live with a tight knot of terror at the back of your brain day and night. So many things can happen.

"Don't worry," the pediatrician says. "Whatever you are doing for this baby, just keep right on doing it. There is absolutely nothing wrong with her."

I guess that is what frightens me. Everything has gone so terribly well for Tracy Ann. Right now she has two upper fangs and two lower fangs bursting out of her deep pink gums, and I must admit does look, when she grins, a bit like a cross between an old grandma and a young alligator.

Nobody can say I ever claimed she was the most beautiful child in the whole wide world; she is merely the loveliest baby in the world she has made for us—a castle with room just now for the three who share it.

But she is as strong and healthy, pound for pound, as a Percheron. If the Notre Dame football team ever goes co-education, I've got a promising candidate for right tackle. She eats three squares a day, like a harvest hand, and she sleeps 12 hours in a row every night.

And happy? Tracy Ann is so happy all day long I'm secretly afraid she either doesn't have good sense, or else she doesn't quite realize yet she is living in the 20th century.

She has become so important to us that we have come to feel that maybe for this reason we are more important, ourselves. I have taken out extra life insurance, and Frances and I don't just look both ways before crossing a street. We look four ways.

I lift our little tomboy aloft in my two hands, remembering the strong feet of my father's hands as he did the same thing to me so many, many years ago, and tell her:

"Honey, there are moments when I wish you didn't love life quite so much, weren't you terribly healthy, weren't you always so good and always so happy, because I am afraid now of how hard you may be hurt later. But if I knew of a single germ anywhere that was plotting to get at you, I'd shoot it with a shotgun."

Tracy Ann just looks down with her gum-gummed grin and bubbles. "Ma-ma-ma-ma-ma-ma-ma." That shows she is just a crazy, mixed-up kid. But it certainly gives her old man a warm, molten feeling.

Strength for the Day

DON'T GET SENTIMENTAL

We overemphasize, do we not, our philosophy of peace.

To be sure, our Lord Jesus was called the Prince of Peace, and at his birth peace and good will were proclaimed among men. But this same Lord said, "Think not that I am come to send peace on the earth: I came not to send peace, but a sword."

Whether we like it or not, life is a struggle. Think of the diseases our bodies are continually called upon to resist. Reflect upon the terrible struggle people have always had to make to get ahead. Recall how each household knows trouble and reverses and strictures and frustrations. Life is struggle. And when we struggle, we struggle against something. We would like to make ourselves believe that humanity is enveloped in an atmosphere of righteous aspirations and that all people really need in order to be good is to get a chance to be good. But this is not true. The world is full of evil, and there are thousands of people in the world (probably many millions) who would not be anything else but evil, no matter how much of a chance they had to be good.

These people and their influence constitute the infection in the blood stream of the world. We need social antibiotics for vigorous health—police, clubs, and armies, navies, and airplanes.

It's too bad—but that's the way the world is. Let's not get sentimental over evil.

Warren's Influence On Court

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON—Chief Justice Earl Warren has adopted the human philosophy of a distinguished predecessor, the late Charles Evans Hughes, by admitting that the Supreme Court can blunder. It is an engaging characteristic which has endeared the Californian to his colleagues and to Washington.

Chief Justice Warren showed this trait in an extremely complicated and important politico-economic case, which attracted little attention outside legal and political circles. It involves the question of whether the Federal government has broad and exclusive jurisdiction over the "gathering" of natural gas, which now rivals oil and coal as a source of heat and power throughout the nation.

Many New England homes are heated with fuel from the gaseous earth of Louisiana, Texas, Oklahoma and other remote states in the Southwest and Far West. Many Midwest cities and factories derive their energy from the same wells. Natural gas is now big business.

NATURAL GAS BIG POLITICS—Natural gas is also big politics. For many years the producers have sought to escape regulation by the Federal Power Commission, while individual, corporate and municipal consumers have advocated Federal control as the only safeguard against skyscraper prices on delivery.

Former President Truman played poker politics with the issue. At the behest of a Congressional consumer's bloc and the mayors of 23 Northern cities, he vetoed a bill sponsored by Senator Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma, which specifically exempted interstate gas producers from Federal jurisdiction. Then he appointed members to the FPC who decided by formal vote that they did not have the authority Truman's veto said they had.

It was typical Truman tactics. He appeared urban consumers with a ringing veto. But he soft-soaped Kerr, a multimillionaire with heavy natural gas holdings, and his fellow Democrats and generous campaign contributors by using his appointive power to paralyze Federal regulation. COURT RULED IN FAVOR OF FPC—When several municipalities took the case to law, the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia held that the FPC did enjoy jurisdiction. The Supreme Court brusquely denied a review last fall, thus affirming the lower court's decision. Both bodies seemed to strike at the Eisenhower viewpoint that as in the oil tides-lands litigation, the states' interest should be paramount.

Numerous states producing natural gas then asked for a reconsideration, a request rarely granted by the august jurists. The petitioners complained that the judicial decree was so vague as to be ruinous to the industry. It did not make clear, they pointed out, where the Federal regulatory power began.

Was it at the bottom of the well, at the well head, at the nearby plant where the natural gas in "scrubbed" of impurities, or at the pipeline, where it admittedly enters interstate commerce?

SUPREME COURT'S SURPRISE MOVE—Under this broad battering and Chief Justice Warren's urging, the Supreme Court agreed in a surprise move to reconsider its earlier verdict of ambiguous affirmation. Only Justice Black, who favors Federalization in all things, dissented.

The court will probably reiterate the basic principle of its original decree, but it will hand down clarifications as a guide to producers and consumers. Otherwise, there might be turmoil that would strangle or curtail production of this essential fuel.

SIMILAR PAST ACTION—Chief Justice Hughes acted similarly in early New Deal days. When the High Tribunal's condemnation of Rooseveltian reforms led to the court-packing proposal, he persuaded his difficult conservative colleagues to perform a judicial somersault. Thereby he checked Mr. F.D.R.'s revolutionary scheme.

Like Hughes, Warren appears to be big enough to admit that his honorable body can make a boner like the rest of us!

INDEPENDENT SALESMEN

What is said to be the first retirement plan for independent salesmen has been worked out by a manufacturing company (Holeproof Hosiery).

Traveling salesmen who work on commission only have been regarded as independent contractors and as such are not generally included in company pension plans and, until recently, did not come under social security. With the help of an insurance company, the firm has worked out a plan whereby all members of the sales force can participate after two years employment. Retirement at 65 is provided for all salesmen who have been in the plan for a minimum of 10 years.

Greenville Woman's Testimonial Telling How Green Compound Helped Her.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN: I, Mrs. Jessie Harper, 1505 Fleming Street, Greenville, N.C., hereby make the following testimonial for which I did not receive or ask pay from the GREEN PRODUCE COMPANY or any of the associated agents, and I herewith grant permission to the said GREEN COMPOUND COMPANY TO REPRODUCE ANY OR ALL OF THIS TESTIMONIAL.

I was suffering from dizziness and nervous indigestion so much that I became very ill every time I partook of food. I would wake up screaming in the middle of the night and at times I would feel as if I could never get well again.

One day I heard a broadcast from Tarboro, N. C., about the GREEN COMPOUND and now it had helped others who were sick and ailing, so I decided to try the 24 bottle treatment. After taking this wonderful preparation I was restored to my normal and active life. I was down to 79 pounds and today I weigh 101 pounds. GREEN COMPOUND has helped me wonderfully and I always keep a bottle of it in my medicine cabinet. I will not be without it.

This is my testimonial and I herewith affix my signature to same.

(Signed) Mrs. Jessie Harper
The above was sworn to and subscribed to before me this 1st day of February, 1954.

Calumet Entry Sets Record On Grass Course

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Calumet Farm's Mark-Ye-Well shook loose from a slump and established a new American record for 1 1/4 miles on a grass course by winning Santa Anita's $29,250 San Maros Handicap in 2:00 1/5 yesterday.

For Mark-Ye-Well an outstanding horse at Santa Anita last season with victories in both the Handicap and Maturity, it was the first good race in many months.

The old American record for this distance on a turf course was the 2:02 1/5 run by Thiercelin at Washington Park in 1950, carrying 120 pounds. Mark-Ye-Well, with Eddie Arcaro aboard, was top-weighted in yesterday's race at 126.

The Calumet horse won going away by three lengths from Alberta Rancho's 13 of Diamonds and Nothridchance got the show. Mark-Ye-Well paid $6.40, $4.90 and $3.80; 13 of Diamonds, $7.00 and $5.80; and Nothridchance, $4.80.

was $11,519. This was the poorest number to see the Giants play at home since 1944.

Pirates Rally To Down Bulldogs, 65 - 53

Atlantic Christian Leads Locals For Three Periods Before Bucs Get Hot; Hodges Holds Average With 26 Points

By JIMMY ELLIS, Reflector Sports Writer

It took a last-quarter rally to do it but East Carolina College's Pirates won again last night.

Starting defeat squarely in the face, the Pirates found themselves in the fourth period last night in Memorial Gymnasium to defeat Atlantic Christian 65-53.

The largest crowd of the season, some 2300 fans, watched the North State Conference contest. The 1800 East Carolina supporters were naturally delighted by the victory, the Pirates' twelfth in 13 games. But the 500 Atlantic Christian fans who came over for the game could well be proud even though their team lost its fifth North State game in nine tries.

The Bulldogs, primed to the hilt for an upset victory, nearly pulled the game out of the bag. They thoroughly outplayed the Pirates in the first half and remained on equal terms throughout much of the third quarter. It was only in the fourth period that they wilted.

Pirates Rally

East Carolina went into the fourth period sporting a slender two point margin. That was cut to a single point when Ronald Percise dropped a free throw for the Bulldogs but J. C. Thomas made the total back up with a free throw at the 8:53 mark.

Billy Widgeon tied the game up at 45-45 with a dandy diving jump shot but that was the last time the Bulldogs were really in the contest. Charlie Huffman broke the tie for the Pirates at the 7:51 mark with a left-handed hook shot. Jerry Williams sank a free throw for ACC at the 7:43 mark and the Bulldogs folded.

The Pirates started out on a spree that carried them 10 points ahead of Atlantic Christian. Huffman dropped in another hook shot. Don Harris, Cecil Heath, and J. C. Thomas all got free throws. Harris and Thomas then drove in for lay-up shots on fast breaks. Harris then got another free throw to make it 57-46 before Atlantic Christian finally got its first point in five minutes and 14 seconds of action. Percise dropped the shot but it was just a wee bit too late to start the Bulldogs off again.

Tied 10 Times

The score in the game was tied 10 times before the Pirates jumped into their final rally. The lead itself changed hands 14 times but there were few times in the first three quarters when ACC didn't hold the upper hand.

Rebound play was completely taken away from East Carolina by 6-7 Bill Beacham of the Bulldogs. Little (5-8) Percise and 6-1 Jerry Williams accounted for 14 points each to outdo any team efforts by the Pirates.

Individual honors in the scoring department went, as is usual, to East Carolina's big Bobby Hodges.

Belvoir Triumphs In Doubleheader

BELVOIR — Belvoir-Falkland High basketball teams defeated Maury High here Tuesday night in a basketball doubleheader.

The local girls won 35-31 while the home boys won 55-53 in a thriller.

Joan Parker led the winning girls with 11 points while Mayo of Maury was high for the night with 26 points.

Gene Harris led the winning boys with 15 points, but Beaman of Maury scored 25.

Former Boxer Is Again In Jail

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Former boxer Keeny Teran has been jailed again on a new charge — suspicion of burglary.

Teran, a featherweight who attracted national attention when he publicly confessed he had been a narcotics addict, then essayed a comeback both in the ring and against the habit, also faces trial on a narcotics charge, police say.

Officers R. G. Sullivan and R. A. Lea arrested Teran yesterday when he was unable to account for $170 in his possession.

Greenies Meet Elizabeth City In Conference Game Tomorrow

GREENVILLE — Greenville High School's Phantoms, back on the winning trail, go hunting again tomorrow night.

The quarry tomorrow night will be Elizabeth City's Yellow Jackets. The teams have already met once this year and the Phantoms thoroughly walloped the Jackets in that contest.

Greenville jumped back on the victory bandwagon Tuesday night when they squeezed past Washington 58-56 in a real thriller. The win broke a two-game losing streak for the Phantoms and pulled them back into contention for conference honors along with undefeated Kinston.

No line-up changes of any importance are slated for tomorrow night even though Phant Coach Bo Farley hasn't been pleased with the way the Phantoms have been playing. Edgar Moore, a starter at the first of the year but more recently a substitute forward, might crack into the starting line-up. He has been alternating with starters in practice.

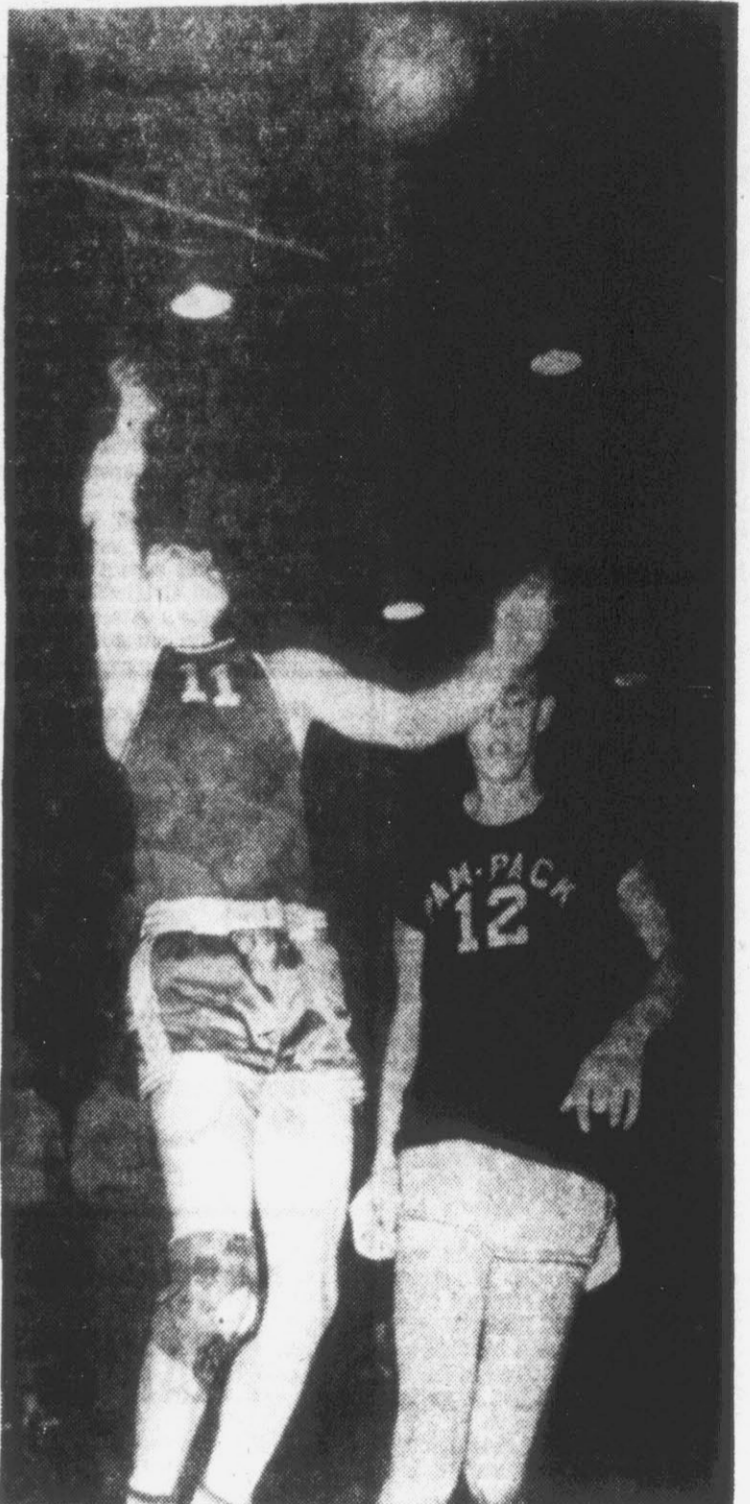

At least two members of the squad don't seem to have a great deal to worry about so far as starting is concerned. Sophomore center Harold Edwards turned in a great game against Washington and wound up with 22 points for the evening. Junior forward Bob Howell conducted a personal rally in the second half and dropped in 14 points including the winning field goal to hang onto his position.

Other expected starters for the Phantoms will be Walter Perkins at forward and George Sideris and Pat Sawyer at the guards.

Elizabeth City's offense is built around football star Dickie Darling. His performances, however, haven't been enough to put the Yellow Jackets in serious threatening position to the league leaders.

Guard Pat Sawyer of the Greenville Phantoms drives in for a shot in the Greenville-Washington basketball game Tuesday night. Sawyer turned in a top-notch performance as the Greenies edged the Pam Pack 58-56 in Memorial Gym. (Reflector Sports Photo by Jack Clifford)

President A Symbol Of Old Balance Of Power

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower is the living symbol, and one of three custodians, of a basic principle laid down by the writers of the Constitution 165 years ago: the separation and balance of powers between the President, Congress and the courts.

Presidents—in their traditional opposition to congressional encroachment upon the powers given them, explicitly or implicitly, in the Constitution—have had wide latitude in handling foreign affairs. The power is not absolute, thanks to the constitutional checks and balances. A president cannot make a treaty with a foreign government unless two thirds of the Senate approves.

But a president can make an

Recognized As Junior Champion

Larry Dilda, 4-H member of the Fountain Junior Club was recognized Friday as Junior Champion corn producer of the Coastal Plain area.

Dilda, along with champions from the Piedmont and Mountain areas, was honored at a luncheon at the Chez Gourmet, in Raleigh given by the N.C. Crop Improvement Association, and the N.C. Seed Producers, Inc. Mr. A.D. Stuart, of Laurinburg, vice-president of the Foundation Seed Producers, presented Larry a 17 jewel gold watch, on behalf of that group.

Young Dilda produced 114.42 bushels of Dixie 82 on one acre, which was surveyed by a member of the ASC. It was then harvested under supervision of a representative of the State Agricultural Committee, shelled and weighed. The moisture content was analyzed to determine the yield. The corn was spaced 12 inches in the drill of 42 inch rows. Two hundred pounds of 10-20-20 fertilizer was used at planting and 100 pounds of Anhydrous Ammonia used as a side dressing.

Larry is the son of Mr. and Mrs. S.L. Dilda of Fountain.

Fishermen Catch Two Tin Fish

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Two fishermen went diving for abalone recently and came up with a couple of tin fish (torpedoes). They netted George E. Toester, and Marray Black $100 apiece.

Black spotted his "fish" 135 feet down at San Clemente and, after notifying the Navy, dived down with a tow line and snagged it. Troester found his in a bed of kelp near Long Beach.

Capt. Robert F. Sellars, officer in charge of the Naval Ordnance Test Station in Pasadena said: "The catch not only meant a jackpot for them but for the taxpayers — torpedoes are expensive."

Milk Commission To Investigate Dairy's System

RALEIGH (AP)—The State Milk Commission plans to investigate Coble Dairy's so-called "platform plan" of milk pricing and delivery.

The commission decided this yesterday and also called for a clarifying statement from George Coble, owner of the dairy. Ray Coltrane, executive vice president of Coble Dairy Products, Inc., explained the plan to the commission at its own request.

Before Coltrane had completed, State Agriculture Commissioner L. Y. Ballentine called for a "rigid investigation" of the plan. He said, "I think it lends itself to a tremendous subterfuge."

Coltrane said the plan was started on a small basis Feb. 1 at Greensboro, Henderson and Durham. He explained that the plan is an "FOB, platform price," similar to a base price paid for a car shipped from Detroit.

Coble says that if the plan works, it would result in higher prices to the producer more profits to the retailer, and cheaper prices to the consumer.

Meanwhile, the commission announced that it will hold three public hearings preparatory to adopting permanent rules and regulations to replace a temporary code now in effect.

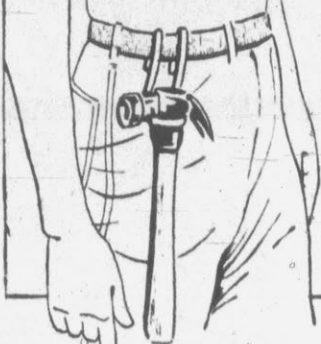

The hearings are tentatively set for Feb. 16 at Salisbury for milk marketing areas 2, 3 and 7; Feb. 17 at Graham or Burlington for areas 1 and 5, and Feb. 18 at Clinton for areas 4 and 6.

Under the plan, Coble would, in effect, sell his home and store delivery trucks and dispense with this service. This would eliminate overhead expenses of truck maintenance and salaries of deliverymen.

In theory, he then could reduce his wholesale or platform price considerably, and still pay producers the scale set by the Milk Commission.

Coltrane said that Coble already

Team Tries Bring Back Dancing By Youngsters

By BOB THOMAS.
HOLLYWOOD — Why don't young people dance any more? That's a question that concerns Marge and Gower Champion, the best pair of dancers to come along since Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers. They think a dancing revival would help relieve the nation's shocking juvenile delinquency. And they're actually doing something about it.

I lunched with the Champions between their rehearsals of the new Betty Grable picture, "The Pleasure Is All Mine." They offered their explanation of why kids aren't as wild about dancing as we were in the nervous '30s.

"Each generation follows the example of the previous one," Marge reasoned. "People got out of the habit of dancing during the war. The different age groups didn't take it up because the kids who were a little older didn't dance. Dancing became less and less fashionable. Now the kids are too shy to try, because they know they look awkward on the dance floor."

"Dancing fell off during the war because of the decline of the band business," Gower added. "After all, it was the great bands of Glenn Miller, Artie Shaw, the Dorsey's, and so forth that stimulated people to dance."

"Russ Morgan was telling me recently what happened to bands during the war. The best musicians were drafted or went into better jobs. The one-night stands were out because of travel restrictions. Bands had to take dates where they would remain six months in one city. The great excitement in any town was having a big-name band visit, if only for a night. When they stopped coming, interest in dancing died."

Marge: "I think it's a shame when kids don't have wholesome recreations like dancing, they get into trouble."

Gower: "We danced for our kicks when we were young. We didn't need hot rods and marjuna."

What can be done about getting youngsters to dance again? They agreed that a new dance craze would help, as jitterbugging did in another era. The English importation, The Creep, might be it.

"Or one great new band could bring enthusiasm back for dancing," Gower remarked. "I think the new Sauter-Finegan outfit has great possibilities."

But the Champions don't merely talk about the problem. They are trying out their ideas with the kids of Boulder City, Nev., near the big dam. While the pair was playing Las Vegas last year, they received an invitation to the new youth center at Boulder City one Saturday night. Since they had three shows to do that night, a visit was impractical. But they inquired about the center.

They found out that the kids of the town had nothing to do with their leisure time. So they wangled the use of an old Army barracks and outfitted it themselves for a clubhouse. Some townspeople donated a juke box, but there was little to do but sit around and listen to the vocal records.

The Champions arranged to have the Las Vegas Arthur Murray instructor and two assistants visit the club every other Saturday night. The kids learned how to dance and competed for a "Marge and Gower" trophy.

"The plan is a success," Gower enthused. "There are more applicants for the class than the place can handle, and the boys and girls use the clubhouse on the off-Saturdays to dance without instruction."

"But the best part is that the 12-year-olds and thereabouts are eager to be admitted when they're old enough," added Marge. "That means that dancing will stay fashionable."

Although they can't foot the bill on a national scale, the Champions are eager to have their plan adopted by other communities.

Farmville Band Musicians To Be At Annual Clinic

FARMVILLE—Newton C. Maenhout, band director at the Farmville High School, will take a representative group of his students to the annual band clinic at East Carolina College in Greenville Friday and Saturday.

Emille Cannon on clarinet, Eddie Bass on trumpet and Paul Cox on French horn, have been selected to participate in the clinic. Other members of the band will attend as observers.

About 100 students from schools in the northeastern district are expected to take part in the band clinic. The two-day clinic will end with a concert Saturday night. The public is invited.

One Stop Causes Costly Accident

ATLANTA (AP)—All Mrs. Marie McKenzie did was stop her car on the street. Here's what happened:

1. A car driven by Thomas Williams banged into the back of the McKenzie car.
2. A tractor-trailer and two cars in the opposite lane stopped when the accident occurred.
3. But a bus behind didn't stop and smashed into the rear of the second car, driven by C.J. Vaughn.
4. The Vaughn car was knocked into the one in front driven by Mrs. Effie Jarrett.
5. The Jarrett car smashed into the rear of the tractor-trailer.

Final Score: three injured, damage amounting to upward of $1,000.

Cases Heard In City Police Court

By CHESTER WALSH
 In Police Court Wednesday, Judge Charles H. Whedbee found Jerry C. Holt of Route 1, Graham, not guilty of careless driving in connection with a collision of two cars last November 30. One of the cars was driven by Jimmy Medlin of Greenville.

The court found Holt guilty of failure to stop at a red traffic light and continued prayer for judgment on payment of $10 on court costs.

Marvin R. Beacham, 113 West 12th Street, Greenville, making an improper turn with his car, was given 30 days on the roads, sentence suspended on payment of $10 to Dr. Howard H. Gradis, pay $5 to Velma H. Sanders of near Ayden; $50 to Dr. Herbert Hadley, and pay the hospital that part of the hospital bill not covered by hospitalization insurance. The judgment against Beacham further provides that he is not to drive a motor vehicle for three months, unless he makes restitution for property damage and pay $10 on court costs.

In the case of John A. Turnage, who was charged with improper passing at an intersection, the prosecuting witness, Ray Lee Ross, declined to testify against him. The court taxed Ross with court costs for malicious and frivolous prosecution.

James W. Nichols, careless and reckless driving, 30 days on the roads, sentence suspended on payment of $25, costs deducted. The judgment also provides that Nichols is not to drive a motor vehicle for three months. The court taxed Nichols $10 on costs for failure to heed a police car siren.

The case against Claude L. Miller, charging passing at an intersection, was not prosed.

Peggy Ann Cox, failure to give proper signal, case not prosed.

Alton Tucker, Negro, paid $10 for failure to yield right of way.

Leonard Hitch paid $5 for passing another vehicle at an intersection.

Samuel A. Moore paid $10 for having defective lights.

Hattie Lee Brown, no operator's license, was fined $15 and the judgment provides that she is not to drive without a license.

U.S. Far Eastern Air Force Heavily Outnumbered By Communist Planes

By ROBERT EUNSON
 TOKYO (AP)—The combined Communist air force in the Far East—Russian, Chinese and North Korean—totals over 6,500 warplanes, more than twice the size of the Far East Air Forces of the United States, says Gen. O. P. Weyland.

FEAF's head man, in an interview, put Chinese and North Korean strength at 2,000 combat planes, and said the Russians have at least 4,500 more based near Vladivostok on Sakhalin and in the Kurile Islands.

"A preponderant number of these Soviet planes are fighters," Weyland went on, "but recently the Russians have converted many of their light bomber units to jets with the capability of reaching anywhere in Japan."

"They have enough of these bombers to constitute a good wall, especially if they are carrying the atomic weapon."

"The Russians have converted about 85 per cent of their fighters to jets. These are fighter interceptors, primarily to guard their bases from attack."

"Likewise they have improved their bombers. They are replacing their old medium bomber, the Tu2, with an IL28, which is something like our B45. It is a fast jet with the capability of reaching anywhere in Japan or Korea."

"The Communist air force has not increased in numbers in the last year or two so much as it has improved its planes."

He said the airfields around Vladivostok make up "the largest complex of bases in the world."

In addition to the jet bombers, he said, the Russians have "an impressive number" of Tu4s, which were copied from one of three of our B29s, which made forced landings on Russian soil during World War II and were never returned.

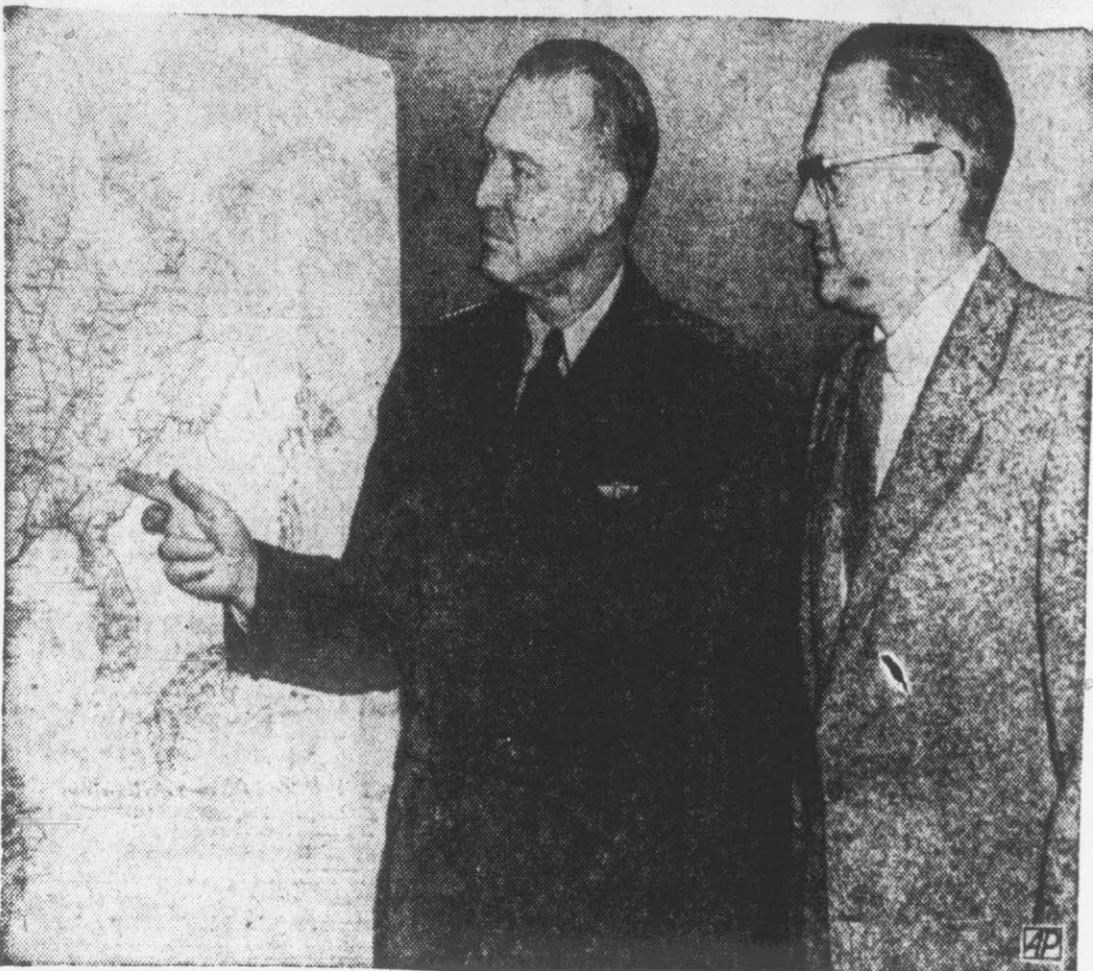

"That amount of aircraft constitutes a definite threat in the Far East," he said, "but all we can do is sit and wait and watch."

Weyland is tall and handsome in the air force tradition. He's a master of morale. I've visited his air bases all over Korea and the airmen and officers alike say no one inspires leadership and esprit de corps like the boss.

He's steady, easy-going and can grasp all the important points of a comprehensive briefing and immediately decide the correct action to take.

He made a name for himself in World War II, heading up the 19th Tactical Air Command which provided air cover for Gen. George E. Patton's ground sweep. When the European war as over, Gen. MacArthur asked for both Weyland and the 19th TAC. By this time, Weyland had been promoted to commander of the 9th Air Force, but "I wanted to go so much, they let me transfer back to my old outfit."

He was on his way to the Pacific when Japan surrendered. But he was sent to Far East Air Forces almost as soon as the Korean War started as Gen. George E. Stratemeyer's deputy commander for operations.

SCENE OF A COSTLY WAR — Gen. Otto P. Weyland, commander of the Far East Air Force, and Robert Eunson, chief of the Associated Press Tokyo bureau, look over a map of the Korean battle area at the general's Tokyo headquarters. Although admittedly a costly operation, General Weyland believes air superiority crippled the Communists in Korea by knocking out their planes, supply lines and positions while the Army and Navy held the ground and sea fronts. (AP Wire-photo)

Nine months later he was named deputy commanding general of the Tactical Air Command at Langley AFB in Virginia. But in less than two months Stratemeyer suffered a heart attack. Weyland packed his B4 bag overnight and rushed back to take over as the senior air officer in Korea, a job he's had ever since.

He says there is no doubt in his mind but that the Communists have brought jets into their Korean air bases, contrary to the armistice.

"Of course they have brought jets into Korea," he declared emphatically. "But even if they hadn't, they were given the right to build up their bases anyway, and they could get planes on those bases from Manchuria in an hour at any time."

When the Korean War started, the North Korean air force had 150 obsolete Russian planes, mainly Yak7s, Yak11s, and IL10s, Weyland said.

In Japan, Okinawa, Guam and the Philippines, Far East Air Forces had about 500 fighters, 150 bombers and 75 transport planes.

Our planes wiped out the North Korean air force in less than a month.

"By September 1950," Weyland said, "we had reduced the 18 major North Korean industrial complexes to rubble."

"As it turned out these complexes were only relatively important to the North Korean war effort. The major sustaining resources were in Russia, and to a lesser degree in China and Manchuria.

"We were forbidden to hit them north of the Yalu River, so the closer the Communists' battle line was backed to the Yalu the fewer targets there were to hit."

"The entry of China into the war and the retreat of the United Nations forces brought columns of enemy troops out into the open and again gave the Air Force targets to hit."

But entry of the Chinese also brought the MIG15, the Russian jet fighter interceptor. The first MIG was shot down Nov. 1, 1950, but for a time this new Russian jet caused considerable worry among FEAF pilots.

A month later, however, sleek Sabres began arriving in Korea and in the first week of combat American F86s shot down seven MIGs and damaged two with the loss of only one Sabre.

This running fight between the Sabres and the MIGs went on for 2½ years, creating that mythical place in the sky known as "MIG Alley."

The American plane came out on top of its Russian rival nearly 14 to one—58 Sabres were lost in air-to-air combat to 802 MIGs.

One question often heard during the Korean War was: Why not bring out the B36s and jet B47 bombers? Says Weyland:

"The answer is the B29 was plenty of airplane for Korea so long as our range was limited to the Yalu River on the Manchurian border. The B36 has great range, but it wasn't needed since our B29s reached all North Korean targets from Okinawa and Japan with lots of fuel left."

"The B47 is primarily an atom bomb carrier, and so fast that it can outrun some types of jet fighters—those of the enemy and our own. But like the B36 it wasn't needed. The object was to make the enemy pay a price he couldn't afford. By constantly knocking out North Korean airfields, railway centers, industrial plants, supplies and troop concentrations, the B29 hit the Communists where it hurt with deadly accuracy, day, night or in bad weather, destroying millions of dollars in equipment that never reached the front. These B29s are slow in the jet age, but did a superior job because FEAF maintained air superiority all the way through the Korean War.

"But," Gen. Weyland continued, "if the Communists should start the war again the B36s and all-jet B47s might be needed. If they ever are, we could put them to work as soon as they arrived."

Students Offered Insight Into Law
 BOSTON (AP)—Young future lawyers are "earning while learning" at the federal Appellate Court of Boston. Law students get preference for jobs in the court library—which is known as "the lawyers' laboratory." The plan permits them to attend law school nights while getting a valuable practical insight into law during the day. Officially, they are "Court clerks," but that takes only a few minutes in opening and closing court ceremonies a few days a month.

Hail Insurance Rate Changes To Be Heard Feb. 16
 RALEIGH (AP)—The cost of hail insurance on the tobacco crop for 1954 would be decreased in 16 Tar Heel counties and increased in 22 under a proposal filed by the North Carolina Fire Insurance Rating Bureau.

Insurance Commissioner Charles F. Gold said yesterday a hearing will be held on the proposal Feb. 16. The proposed rate changes call for a net increase of $201,534. Rate decreases totaling approximately $130,305 are proposed for the following counties: Alamance, Beaufort, Bladen, Cumberland, Davidson, Davie, Halifax Lee, Madison, Moore, Pitt, Richmond, Robeson, Sampson, Scotland and Stokes.

The Doctor Disagrees

By Elizabeth Selbert

SYNOPSIS
Dr. Stephen Carr and his wife, Shelly, are on their way to a family dinner party honoring his venerable mother's birthday. Though polite to her always, Shelly knew that the very social Carrs had never really accepted her. She was a stranger to them and to the little mid-west city of Norfolk, where the Carrs resided, a night club singer of uncertain background whom the whole Carr family believed Stephen had married impulsively. Aware of their subtle snubs, Shelly determines to prove her metal. As she and Stephen drive to the fashionable home of the senior Carrs, Shelly pities the itinerant workers who have come here on new projects, many of them living in pathetically squalid quarters. During the gay birthday party, Stephen astounds his folk, by announcing that he has joined with the armed forces and will soon be off to the Pacific for a year.

CHAPTER FOUR
MR. WALSH said something, but Everett's voice came out the louder. "What about your work? Your practice? And Shelly? Did you give those things any thought?" "Yes, Dad of course I did."

"Just going to close up your shop and house, and leave, eh?" Eleanor leaned across the table toward Shelly. "Are you going with him?"

"No," Stephen answered for her. "I've asked for active duty. It was the only basis on which I'd serve. I'm to report to Seattle in ten days and will go straight to Japan. From there, I suppose, to Korea. Perhaps Shelly could go to Japan, but she'd be alone in a strange and dangerous place. We've decided that the risk would be too great. I'd worry about her constantly."

"I'm glad you can worry about something," growled Everett.

"Oh, now, look, Dad . . ."

"I am looking son. But I'm not sure you can make me like what I see."

Stephen said, "I'm not hoping that you'll like it, Dad, but you ought to understand why I felt I had to do this thing. You'll remember that I was in school during the second war."

"In medical school?"

Now Mr. Walsh got in his word. "You know, don't you, Stevie, that the government is behind the plant expansion program?"

"Yes, sir, of course I know that."

"More pits and more kilns mean more men employed. You know that?"

"Yes, and I know that a doctor will be needed to examine those additional men, and take care of their health. But just the same, sir, I feel—"

"Who's been talking to you?" asked his father.

Stephen laughed and shook his head. "Mostly my own conscience, but, of course, when some of my friends—men my age—were called back into active duty . . . you know, Reserves, and that sort of thing—Barney Davis, particularly—he'd served his four years and more, risked his life—he'd married and had built a new house, but the government said it needed trained men, and called him back—Well, I'm a trained man, too, and I never have risked my life, Barney said he had to go, so I knew I had to go, too. That's all there is to it, sir."

He shot a glance at his father, and red flared into his cheeks. "You are not to try to get me out!" he said firmly. "I want to go!"

Now the whole table broke out in a brush-fire of comment, protest and argument pro and con.

When the group moved to the drawing-room, E.J. took up what he fondly hoped was his father's pose before the fireplace—It was not, Rabbit-faced, slender E.J. would never look or be like Everett, Senior! However, he had his own abilities, and now he spoke with acid-burning scorn of his brother, Stephen, he said, was spoiled. He always had been as a child and didn't seem to grow out of it as a man. Why, he could cite a dozen examples of the way Stephen had wanted a thing, got tired of it quickly and cast it aside.

These examples, which he did cite, ran from ponies and gasoline-powered airplane models, on to his wish to study medicine. "He raised such hell Dad or Mother would give in to him—and when he got tired of his toy Dad or Mother had to pick up the pieces . . ."

Stephen carefully mashed out his cigarette against the tray and said slowly, "I'm thirty-two, and my choice has been to work as a doctor; in the Army I'll continue that work. E.J.'s forty, and his choice, Dad, has been to walk in your shadow, to do as you do, follow your example. He finds fault with my choice, and I'm afraid I find a great deal of fault with his."

Stephen spoke gently but there was a sharp sting in his words. E.J. turned red, and then he turned white. "Do you realize what you're saying about Dad?" he finally managed to gasp.

"I'm not saying one thing about Dad. I'm saying a man content to be only the shadow of another man—whether that man is his father or—George Washington—or any one!—I'm saying that a shadow is not as good as a flesh and blood man! And you can't sell me that he is."

The minister's interruption saved the day. "Stephen's decision seems patriotic to me. Of course he might stay safely and snugly here at home, and still be serving his country, yet he chooses to expose himself to hardships and danger in order to take an active part in the defense of that country. I think he is patriotic in a way given to few of us. He may never win any medals—I hope he does not!—but already he deserves one."

"My opinion may not be worth much, and I'd not want to impose it on this group, but I personally envy what he is doing. We are about of an age; I too was in school during the war, and I'd do exactly what he is doing if I could pass a physical examination. I can't—there's supposed to be a slight matter of ulcer . . ." He smiled and shrugged.

Murmurs of interest and commiseration rippled around the room. And far from persuading toward patriotism the mention of the young man's health served only to remind Stephen's mother of a practical aspect of her son's "notion."

Take Issue Over Road Bed Wear

LAS CRUCES, N.M. (AP)—The Las Cruces Sun-News has taken issue with a contention by the state highway engineer that U.S. Highway 85 has a bad road bed.

Noting the highway is El Camino Real opened by Friar Rodriguez in 1581, the daily said, "it is possible that over a period of 382 years the continual heat of hooves, pioneer feet and the wear given by tires of all sizes" has damaged the road just a bit.

Tiny Book Sent To Eisenhower

MURCIA, Spain (AP)—There's a book on the way to President Eisenhower, but it may get lost in the mail.

It stands three-tenths of an inch high and two-tenths of an inch wide, and contains the entire text of the Spanish-American "aid for bases" agreement.

Manuel Romero, 68, a bank messenger, worked nine hours a day for 45 days on two tiny volumes. The second booklet is for Gen. Francisco Spanish Chief of State.

CITY'S REWARD

ROCHESTER N. H. (AP)—Mayor John Shaw credited the efficiency of city workers with helping pile up a $55,000 surplus in the municipal treasury.

So last night the City Council voted to reward the 75 employees with $1 to $2 weekly raises.

THERE OUGHTA BE A LAW!

By FAGALY and SHORTEP

BULGEBOTTOM TOOK THE RESIGNATION OF HIS ENTIRE BOARD OF DIRECTORS WITHOUT THE FLICKER OF AN EYELASH.

"J.P. THIS IS THE LAST STRAW! WE'VE HAD ENOUGH OF YOUR HIGH-HANDING METHODS! WE'RE ALL QUITTING!"

VERY WELL, GENTLEMEN! IF THAT'S THE WAY YOU WANT IT!

BUT HE GOT DOWN ON HIS KNEES TO KEEP HIS MAID FROM HANDING IN HER WALKING PAPERS!

THANKS TO EYE PHASE, SUTTON-IN-LAWRENCE, LAWRENCE, L.I.

UPPITER! DO SOMETHING, HILDA'S THREATENING TO LEAVE!

PLEASE, HILDA! IF WE SAID ANYTHING WRONG, WE APOLOGIZE! GIVE US ANOTHER CHANCE! YOU CAN'T DO THIS TO US, HILDA!

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—Heavy buying sent the stock market ahead today for the second straight session.

The rise took the market on average into new high ground for the current recovery movement again today as it did yesterday.

Prices were up between 1 and 2 points at the most with the list largely up fractions. Losses were scattered and small.

Volume hit a pace right around two million shares for the day. That compares with 1,690,000 shares traded yesterday.

Railroads were the most active of the major groups and displayed some of the better gains. All sections of the market however, had a part in the advance.

Among higher stocks were New York Central, Illinois Central, Northern Pacific, Bethlehem Steel, General Motors, Chrysler, Douglas Aircraft, Philco, Dow Chemical, and Shell Oil.

Grifton VFW To Give Fish Stew In Dimes Drive

GRIFTON—The local VFW Post will give a fish stew Friday night at 8 o'clock for the benefit of the March of Dimes campaign.

Everyone is invited to the event according to Tucker McLawhorn, commander of the post, and the meal will be free. A collection box will be set up so that persons attending may contribute to the March of Dimes. The entire amount collected will be turned over to polio drive and the cost of the meal will be borne by the local VFW post.

The VFW hut, at which the fish stew will be held, may be reached by traveling out the Vanceboro highway to the Texaco Station next to the cemetery and turning right, McLawhorn said. From there signs will be set up pointing out the direction of the hut.

Discloses Banks Accepted Forged Bonds For Loans

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A vice president of the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis today disclosed that at least two St. Louis banks have accepted $270,000 in forged bonds as collateral for loans in recent weeks.

William E. Peterson, in charge of examiners at the Federal Reserve Bank here, said the forgeries were uncovered in a routine bank examination.

The name of those involved were not disclosed and there was no indication whether any arrests had been made.

Peterson said he understood the banks were insured and would not suffer loss from the loans.

The bonds, he said, were forgeries of legitimate securities of Kerr-McGee Industries, an Oklahoma oil firm headed by Sen. Robert S. Kerr (D-Okla.).

Firemen Respond To Three Calls

Firemen answered a call in the Village Grove Section this morning when a washing machine motor shorted out.

The machine was in the home of A. M. Talley at 400 Arba St. Firemen stated that the blaze was out when they arrived.

Yesterday the firemen answered a rural call at the home of Marion Evans, Route 3, Greenville, where some stumps were burning near an out building. This fire was also out when firemen arrived.

In a second call yesterday the department was called to Second and Greene Streets where an electric stove shorted out in the home of Eva Cannon. The call came in at 12:07 p.m. and no damage resulted.

Bandit Branded By Hot Flat Iron

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Two bandits invaded a Chinese laundry last night. Proprietor Song Lee, 37, effectively resisted the intruders and gave police a clue which speedily led to an arrest.

Officers picked up Henry Leons, 19, fleeing running through a vacant lot six blocks away carrying in his hand a 32 pistol. On his forehead was the unmistakable brand of the hot flat iron Song was using when interrupted.

Florida Southern Choir Here Friday

The College Concert Choir of Florida Southern College in Lakeland, Fla. will appear at Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church on Friday evening at 8 o'clock. Organized in the Fall of 1951 under the direction of Dr. Charles Woodbury, the choir has already been acclaimed as one of the outstanding collegiate choral groups in the country.

Moose Governor Here On Friday

W. D. CAMPBELL
Supreme Governor Winard D. Campbell of the Loyal Order of the Moose will be present for a mass initiation of new members of the Greenville lodge and from lodges in surrounding towns Friday night.

The event will be highlighted by a banquet at the lodge hall on Dickinson Avenue from 6 until 7:30 Friday night. The initiation of new candidates will take place from 8:30 to 10 and an open house will be held at the lodge hall from 10 until 12.

New candidates and members from the following lodges other than Greenville will be present for the meeting: Kinston, Roanoke Rapids, Raleigh, Fayetteville, Rocky Mount, Morehead City, Wilson, Jacksonville, Henderson, Wilmington, New Bern, and Whiteville.

Frank Ray, regional director of North and South Carolina and Virginia will also attend the meeting.

Pitt Hospital Adds Personnel To Staff

Two doctors and a credit manager have been added to the staff of Pitt Memorial Hospital, it has been reported by Administrator C. D. Ward.

Dr. Allen Taylor, a radiologist and a member of the American Board of Radiology, has been added along with Dr. Ray D. Minges and E. Withers Harvey.

Prior to coming here Dr. Taylor was an associate professor in Radiology at Duke University School of Medicine.

He took his pre-medical schooling at Duke and then his medical schooling at the Durham university. After graduating from medical school in 1947 Dr. Taylor then had his internship at Emory University Hospital in Baltimore.

His residencies include Baltimore City Hospital and Duke Hospital. Dr. Taylor is a veteran of two years Army service and resides at 102 South Harding Street.

Minges Added
Dr. Ray L. Minges, who resides at 1409 Dickinson Avenue and has offices in the old WGTC radio building near the hospital, has also been added to the medical staff of Pitt Memorial.

His formal schooling included pre-medical at Davidson, medical school at the College of Virginia in

Estimate 5,000 Left Destitute By Long Drought

KENNETT, Mo. (AP)—The County Court says last year's scorching drought has left an estimated 5,000 persons virtually without food and without money to buy food in southeastern Missouri's Dunklin County.

The drought pared earnings of farm laborers.

Some families in the county have received food from local agencies. A few male laborers have been able to pick up odd jobs in towns.

Farm jobs, however won't be available for at least a month, and most won't become available until May.

To help relieve the situation, the Dunklin County Court appealed to the federal Department of Agriculture for surplus government commodities.

Landlady Loses Weight Over Tenant's Python

CHICAGO (AP)—Leona Rohrer, operator of a South Side apartment building, doesn't want tenants keeping pythons in her apartments, she told Municipal Judge Casimir Cwiklinski yesterday.

She is seeking to dispossess Rajah, a 10 1/2-foot Indian rock python owned by Mrs. Victoria Kocourek, who appears as "Princess Elvera" in a night club dance with the snake.

"I've lost 20 pounds worrying since that monster moved into my building," Miss Rohrer told the court.

Said Mrs. Kocourek: "Rajah has more brains, honor, intelligence, loyalty and devotion than many people I know. He is a perfect dear." But she promised the court she would find another home. Meanwhile, Rajah is being boarded with friends in another building.

Rotary Official Is Ayden Speaker

AYDEN — At the Ayden Rotary Club's last meeting, Jim Batson, member of Rotary International's Advisory Council, spoke about exchange students to and from the United States through expansion of the Rotary Foundation Fellowship.

The speaker explained that the Foundation Fellowship is a material factor in developing good-will among the nations of the world. "In 1953, the Foundation Fellowship had invested $3,117,000, the interest of which pays the expenses of exchange students," the speaker stated. The cost per student approximates $3,000 each.

Batson said "results of the exchange of students means the mingling of customs, melting of the walls of prejudice and bigotry. It also breaks down much of the self-righteousness and selfishness among the nations of the world," he added.

Snowdie Edwards had charge of the program. Rotarian Jack Quinlery won the "on time" prize; Wayland McGlohon the "fellowship" prize. Guests of the club were Elliott Dixon, Ed Gagnon. Other guests were Bobby Gagnon and Carolyn Johnson as "citizens of the week," and Rotarian Dr. Herbert Hadley of Greenville.

Funeral Friday For Mrs. Herman Franks

Mrs. Dorothy Morris Franks, 40, died in New Memorial Hospital in Kinston at 9:25 o'clock Wednesday morning. She had been in ill health for a month and critically ill for the past week.

Funeral services will be conducted at Holly Hill Pentecostal Holiness Church near Vanceboro Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock by the Rev. J. W. Bunch, Holiness minister of Greenville. Burial will be in the Holly Hill churchyard. The body will remain at the home and will be carried to the church one hour prior to the time of services.

Mrs. Franks, daughter of Mrs. Mattie Morris and the late Norman Morris of Vanceboro, was born and spent all her life near Vanceboro. She was married to Herman Franks of near Vanceboro in 1931. She was a member of the Juniper Chapel Free Will Baptist Church.

Surviving are her husband; two sons, David and Herman Franks Jr. of the home; four daughters, Mrs. Robert Morris and Mrs. Oscar Whitehurst of New Bern, and Mary Louise and Jo Ann Franks of the home; her mother; a grandchild, two brothers, Archie and Woodrow Morris of Vanceboro; and two sisters, Mrs. Paul Hudson and Mrs. Hubert Lilly of Vanceboro.
