Mrs. Webb Presents Inter Se Program
The Inter Se Book Club was graciously entertained by Mrs. Tyson Bilbro on Tuesday, February 2, at her home.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Joe Taft.

Mrs. Ercell Webb presented a paper on the Apostle Paul. She told of his place in Biblical history, his unconscious preparation for his work and of his conversion.

Guests for the afternoon were Mrs. Jack Neilson, Mrs. William Bilbro and Mrs. James Hughes.

Mrs. Bilbro served a delicious dessert with coffee and nuts.

After the distribution of books the meeting was adjourned.

Miss Kittrell Shows Color Films Of European Trip

Mrs. J. B. Kittrell Jr. was hostess to the Cosmos Book Club, Tuesday, February 2nd, at the home of Mrs. J. B. Kittrell Sr.

Mrs. Ed Rawl Jr. presided over a short business session and welcomed as guests for the meeting Mrs. Katherine Adams, Miss Ruth Lambie, Mrs. Charles Hudson, and Mrs. Frank Strawn.

Members and guests were invited into the dining room where Mrs. J. B. Kittrell Sr. served a delicious sweet course and Mrs. Ed Rawl Jr. poured coffee. The Valentine motif was carried out in a very decorative fashion in both the refreshments and the flower arrangements.

After the social hour, Miss Elizabeth Kittrell took the club on a tour, via colored motion pictures, to Europe. The tour started from Montreal, Canada, and was the largest group of its kind since the war—the reason being that so many were going home to France after having spent as many as forty years in Canada.

The first stop was Southampton, England, then by bus to London, where all the famous places were viewed—Whitehall Palace, 10 Downing Street, Big Ben, Parliament Buildings which had been bombed, and were in the process of reconstruction. There was also a sight-seeing ride on the Thames River.

Even though it was several weeks after the coronation, Westminster Abbey still had its coronation setting and decorations. Other points of interest were St. James Palace, which was the royal palace before Buckingham; the statue of Queen Victoria; changing of the guards; Christ College in Oxford; Shakespeare's birthplace; Ann Hathaway's cottage; Warwick Castle, scene of Ivanhoe; Windsor Castle, where the royal family vacations; St. George Chapel, where royalty is buried; Hampton Court Palace, which is the largest in England, and built by Henry VIII. Although not in use today, it can boast of its beautiful gardens.

From England, the tour went to Switzerland, where the abundance of snow was most impressive. There, a trip was taken up the Swiss Alps on the highest railroad in Europe.

And then by train to Italy, where the well known cities were visited. Venice, the city of water, was toured by gondolas, and a concert on the water was attended. Florence is the literary and artistic center, and it was here there was a short wait while the Crown Prince of Japan entered the Lord Mayor's Palace. In Rome, the 2000 years old Roman ruins were viewed, the Coliseum, St. Peter's Church, and Vatican City where there was an audience with the Pope. Thence to Naples, with Mt. Vesuvius always beautiful in the background. At Sorrento, the beautiful blue water was enjoyed both by swimming and sail boat rides.

Another beach which was enjoyed was the French Riviera at Nice. In Paris—the Arc de Triomphe, Eiffel Tower, Champs d'Elysee, and the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier. In Versailles, Miss Kittrell photographed from the amateur class in photography. Her pictures of the "illumination," a concert and ballet on the lake at night, were no less than spectacular. It was interesting to see at Pontainbleu (restored by Napoleon), how each ruler had added a wing with the architecture being of his own choosing.

Holland and Germany were visited briefly, and the visit included a trip down the river, and a trip from Frankfurt to Cologne by steamer.

On the return trip by plane, there was a four-hour stop in Iceland, and then to New York, and home.

All agreed Miss Kittrell's running commentary accompanying the film added greatly to the enjoyment of the program.

Philathea Class Holds Regular Meet
The Wesley Philathea Class of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church met at the home of Mrs. Gladys Scoville Monday evening, January 25, at 8 o'clock. Assisting hostesses were Mrs. E. L. Willard, Miss Addie Congleton, Mrs. David Creech, Miss Sallie Cowell and Miss Lill Wilson.

The meeting was opened with a devotional led by Mrs. Hearne, which was helpful and inspirational. She used as her subject, "Special Names We Call God." She stated, "Everyone of us likes to call on our Lord and it is a great privilege to say our Father. There are lots of ways we call upon our God and He answers if called in the right spirit."

Mrs. C. C. Hughes entertained the class by showing slides of Anchorage, Alaska. She gave information on how the people live and prices of different food products, which are very high.

After adjourning delicious ice cream and cakes were served.

30 Years Ago Today

THE DAILY REFLECTOR
February 5, 1924

The Patient Circle of The King's Daughters held a most enthusiastic meeting Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. J. L. Hassell, with Mrs. Hassell and Mrs. O. L. Joyner, hostesses.

The meeting was presided over by the president, Mrs. N. S. Fulford. After the devotional services the various committees made their reports. All were interesting and showed the wonderful work which the Circle is accomplishing throughout this community.

Mrs. C. A. Bowen read a most interesting paper pertaining to the work of The King's Daughters.

The Cottor Mill Sunday School Committee made a most favorable report stating that the work is progressing nicely and that the people are interested.

At the conclusion of the business session the hostesses served tea and sandwiches.

Miss Blount Gives Travel Talk Before Clio Club
Mrs. F. B. Haar graciously entertained the Clio Book Club at her home on E. Ninth St. February 2.

After the arrival of the members the hostess served a tempting sweet course with nuts and coffee to carry out the Valentine motif.

Mrs. Haar introduced the speaker for the afternoon, Miss Nelson Blount, who delightfully entertained everyone with her European tour. She spoke of visiting England, Germany, France, Holland, Switzerland, Scotland, Italy, Belgium and gave in her charming manner personal experiences that she shared in each country. One of the highlights of her trip was seeing Queen Elizabeth at the Theater. After a most interesting talk Miss Blount showed movies of the countries that she visited.

A short business meeting was held by the vice president, Miss Agnes Fullilove. An announcement was made to visit Dr. Paul Running's Art Exhibit at the library on Feb. 4 and attend the play "Carmen" at E.C.C. on Feb. 16. Books were exchanged and the meeting adjourned.

Neighborhood Club Met On Thursday With Mrs. Howard
The Elmhurst Neighborhood Club met on Feb. 4th at the home of Mrs. Milton Howard on Overlook Drive with Mrs. Francis Dorey as co-hostess. There were 19 members and one guest present. A stork shower was given by Mrs. Norman Cameron. After the gifts were opened, the president, Mrs. Tom Smith, called the meeting to order. The secretary, Mrs. Milton Howard, read the minutes of the last meeting, and the roll and collected the dues. Among the new business discussed was a supper which members' husbands are to give. It was decided it should be on March 18. The club also voted to continue meeting through the summer.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess and co-hostess.

Miss Annie L. Jones Speaks To Faculty Of Falkland School
Miss Annie Lee Jones, Pitt County elementary schools supervisor made a most interesting talk on "Teacher-Parent Relationships" to the Falkland school faculty at a meeting at the school on January 28.

Miss Jones quoted Dr. James L. Hines Jr., professor of education at Peabody College, Nashville, Tenn., as an authority on "How to be Friends With Children." She gave nine points teachers would do well to keep in mind in their daily contacts with pupils. Interesting articles in current magazines were brought to the faculty's attention. She closed her talk with the reminder that children need the human relationship more than they need the perfect relationship.

Refreshments were enjoyed by the group. In closing the meeting, Mr. Edward Warren, principal, thanked Miss Jones for meeting with the faculty.

LARGE-SCALE HEART MODEL—Nine young Philadelphia children, all suffering from heart conditions, listen to Nurse Marybelle Crusan as she explains features of a huge scale model heart, claimed to be the largest heart ever to go on display. All of our folks who have it to spare are asked to bring some food to Sunday School at Red Oak Sunday morning for this unfortunate man.

Fisherman Says He Hooked Whale; Saw Two Collide

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—The skipper of a fishing boat yesterday told of hooking a whale on a fish line and witnessing a collision between two other whales, all within the space of 30 minutes.

Harold W. Hanson, skipper of the Lucky II, said he was fishing at the edge of kelp beds offshore when one of his hooks caught either a part of the lobe of the whale's tail or became entangled in the mass of barnacles that encrusted the mammal's side.

Hanson said the whale surfaced, spouted and then headed south at full speed, snapping the fishing gear.

The fisherman said he then sighted two other whales bearing down on his small boat, but they suddenly swerved and crashed into each other head on.

He then got out of the area as fast as the Lucky II could go.

Wanted By The FBI .. And By Neighbors

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Alex R. Bryant, 48, was listed as one of the FBI's 10 most wanted fugitives before his recent capture. But now nearly 100 neighbors and business associates want him.

They want him to stay here with his wife and baby in the suburban cottage on Mt. Washington, where his attorney says Bryant has led an exemplary life for nearly two years.

The wife, Mrs. Gladys Lawson, says the 100 friends and neighbors have signed two petitions to Gov. Goodwin J. Knight asking him to deny a request for extradition.

Mrs. Lawson married Bryant 18 months ago under his assumed name, Edward Lawson. She still insists on using the name Lawson. They have a daughter, 5 months old.

Bryant escaped from Michigan State Prison in January 1952 after serving 22 years of a life sentence for a series of robberies committed in 1929 when he was 24 years old. Prior to that he had served a reformatory term on a rape charge.

Mrs. Lawson said yesterday a lot more signatures are anticipated, and added: "I think he is beginning to feel a little hope. He was so hopeless before."

"We the undersigned," reads one of the petitions, "believe that Ed Lawson should go free after he has been free for two years and has obeyed all the laws. We are the people he would have to live among and feel he is perfectly safe. We are all mothers and fathers and we feel our children are as safe around him as in our own living rooms or our own arms."

Bryant, after his escape, came west and got a job as a truck spotter for a trucking firm. He met Gladys and married her in Las Vegas, Nev. He never told her anything about his prison past. The first she heard of it was from newsmen, after the law caught up with him Jan. 26.

Federal officers arrested him on a fugitive warrant from Michigan. He was arraigned Wednesday and remanded to the sheriff to await extradition.

Signs Of Thaw In Europe's Frigid Winter Weather

LONDON (AP)—Europe's coldest wave in seven years showed signs of thawing out today but death and misery stalked the frozen plains and snowbound mountains of Yugoslavia and Romania.

Fierce blizzards, the worst in 24 years, killed at least 14 persons in Yugoslavia's central province of Serbia. Most victims were buried in snowdrifts.

The Yugoslav victims raised unofficial estimates of Europe's cold weather toll to more than 300 deaths.

Romania ordered emergency measures to meet transport, communication and power breakdowns. Bucharest radio reported acute shortages of coal, food and water in many places, including the capital.

Slightly warmer weather spread slowly southward in Britain and Germany, bringing relief from the great 11-day freeze. Normal temperatures were expected in most of western Europe by the weekend.

Forgotten, But Charged AWOL

FT. JAY, N.Y. (AP)—A Jersey City, N.J., soldier, listed as AWOL for almost a year because the Army forgot about him, was found guilty yesterday of being AWOL for only three days and was fined $40.

A six-man court-martial board cleared Pvt. John H. Reiner of charges he deliberately stayed away from the Army for 11 months.

Reiner missed the ship which was to take him to Germany because his father became ill. He reported to Ft. Hamilton in Brooklyn three days after his official leave ended. He said a clerk told him to go home and wait for orders from the Army.

When no orders arrived by 11 months, Reiner wrote to a New Jersey newspaper and with its help, reported here to settle his case. He has been in the stockade here since Dec. 17.

Reject Plan Revising Tarboro Association

RALEIGH (AP)—The present management's plans for turning the State Hospital Assn. Inc. of Tarboro into a stock accident and health insurance company were rejected yesterday by the state insurance commissioner.

The plan had been vigorously opposed by Mrs. Barbara F. House of Rocky Mount, widow of the association's founder and herself a one-time association head.

Mrs. House, who described herself as a cured alcoholic during a hearing before Commissioner Charles F. Gold, also charged present officers were guilty of mismanagement. On this point Gold overruled Mrs. House and cleared the firm's officials.

In attempting to stop the conversion plan, Mrs. House alleged the association had not furnished its certificate holders with adequate information on the proposed conversion plan. She also maintained that the plan did not adequately protect the rights of the certificate holders, who had voted in favor of the conversion plan last Dec. 30.

Mrs. House's attorney, A. J. Fletcher, of Raleigh, described the plan as "a diabolic scheme to fleece a bunch of certificate holders out of their rights."

The charge also was made that Association President Larry P. Eagles and Secretary Treasurer R. Owens forced Mrs. House out of the association's presidency, which she assumed following her husband's death so they could "get absolute control."

The allegation was made by V. E. Fountain of Tarboro, a former director and general counsel for the company, who also said he was squeezed out of his official position while Mrs. House was president.

Frank Owens of Kinston, attorney representing Eagles and Owens, said that Mrs. House was removed in August, 1948 and placed on a $200 a month pension—before she stopped drinking in November of that year.

Gold held that certificate holders were not informed of all details of the conversion plan. Part of the plan would have given each certificate holder the right to buy for $1.50 a $1 par value share of common stock with voting rights. If the right was not exercised within 10 days, then Eagles and Owens had the right to buy it. Gold said a conversion plan could be drafted "which I could approve."

Close 153 Stores In Labor Dispute

SCRANTON, Pa. (AP)—The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. says it will close indefinitely some 153 stores through northeastern Pennsylvania and lower New York in a dispute with AFL warehousemen.

In advertisements appearing in today's papers throughout the area, the food chain said it was unable to make deliveries to the stores because of a strike of 200 members of Scranton local 229, general drivers and helpers union.

The stores are to be closed starting at 6 p.m. (EST) tomorrow. The warehousemen struck at midnight last Sunday. Though both union and company officials have refused to discuss the dispute, it was reported that a wage increase and improved working conditions were the principal issues.

The company offered a 10-cent-an-hour increase. Present wage scales were not disclosed.

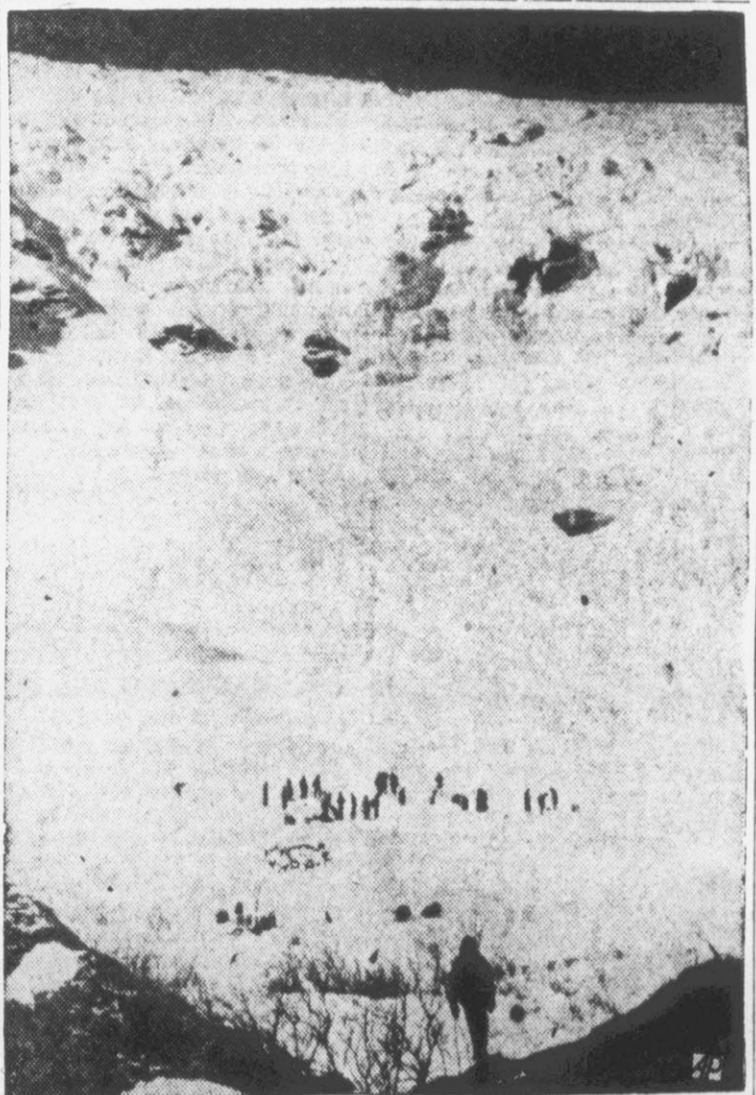

The Scranton warehouses are the main supply point for an area from Pottsville, Pa., to Liberty N.Y., and from the Portland-Stroudsburg, Pa., section to Towanda, Pa., on the New York-Pennsylvania border.

Unafraid Except If Gun Involved

GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP)—The woman asked the magistrate for a warrant charging her husband with breach of peace. She told how he had drunk too much and tried to shoot her.

"You understand, I am not one bit afraid of my husband," she said. "It's just that gun I don't like."

'Books and Stuff'

DR. ED. HIRSBERG

Suggestions for a new name for our efforts have ranged all the way to "From Here to Eternity," which we feel is appropriate but a little too high-flown. How about some more suggestions? Meanwhile, our boss, The Editor, still likes "Books and Stuff."

The Sheppard Memorial Library has been a busy place lately. Yesterday, interviews were held there for candidates for Moorehead Memorial Scholarships for high school seniors to Chapel Hill. . . . And an open house was held for Dr. Paul Running, head of the Art Department at East Carolina, whose pictures are currently being shown in the art gallery. . . . And tonight the first discussion group meets under the auspices of the American Heritage Project of the American Library Association. The project is financed by the Fund for Adult Education, established by the Ford Foundation to encourage group discussion of contemporary American problems on the community level. The Greenville group is about full, but anybody interested in participating might appear at the Library tonight at eight o'clock—there's always room for a few more. . . .

A spate of magazine articles has appeared about the English poet, Dylan Thomas, who died suddenly last November 9 at the age of thirty-nine. Latest is a piece in the February Atlantic Monthly by Edith Sitwell, noted British poetess, who considers Thomas the most outstanding poet of our time. . . . In the February issue of Mademoiselle Magazine is published for the first time Thomas's verse play "Under Milk Wood." It is the longest single selection that the magazine has carried, running well over sixteen pages, with illustrations. It is definitely worth reading, if you can get hold of a copy. . . . And there is an appreciation of Thomas's life and works by Edwin Muir, British poet and translator, in the February edition of Harper's Bazaar—which also carried a long prose poem by Thomas in its December number, called "A Story," termed by some critics one of the loveliest pieces of its type ever written. . . .

And speaking of magazine articles, have you seen the one in the February 5 issue of Collier's about education, called "Speak Out, Silent People," and billed as an account of "The Struggle for our Children's Minds"? It's pretty spectacular and provocative, but we think the writer, a special reporter for Collier's named Howard Whitman, has been a little one-sided in his views. Claiming that "American education has drifted into the gravest crisis in its 300-year history," Whitman does his best to convince you that most of the schools in the country now are in the hands of crack-brained dictators who, in the guise of superintendents and principals, are doing all they can to subvert the sacred objectives of education in a free society. This very grave generality is based on a comparatively few isolated incidents that by no means constitute substantial evidence. . . .

The parlous state of the schools also is discussed in a recently published book by Professor Arthur E. Bestor of the University of Illinois, called "Educational Wastelands." Some of the constructive criticism in the book is sound and suggestive, but Bestor also indicts public education in all-inclusive terms on the basis of isolated instances of abuses.

By a peculiar coincidence, both Bestor and Whitman, the author of the current Collier's article, have hopped on the same unfortunate statement by a school principal in a relatively obscure educational periodical called "The Bulletin of the National Association of High School Principals." The March, 1951, edition carries an article by A.H. Lauchner on the inadvisability of assuming that all school children should be taught how to read and write. . . . Admittedly the article is ill-advised and not very sensible, but we wonder whether it is worth quoting seriously as a threat to all of American education. Bestor quotes it at length in "Educational Wastelands," and Whitman picks it up again for his Collier's article. It seems to us maybe Whitman should have looked for something a little newer, to use as startling evidence to prove that American education has suddenly started to go to pot. . . .

Items on the local scene: We've just heard that a distinguished American poet, Gordon Link of Washington, D.C., author of a newly published book called "Three Poems for Now," will be a guest on the East Carolina campus on February 17 and 18. He will give a reading of his works on the evening of the 17th, under the auspices of the Faculty Lecture Club, and will hold a seminar in creative writing for E.C.C. students during the day on the 18th.

The regular Faculty Lecture Club speaker for February will be Edward Durham of the Music Department, who will talk on modern music at the Flanagan Auditorium at eight o'clock Monday evening. The public is cordially invited. And Dr. E.D. Johnson, associate librarian at the College, gives his usual weekly book chat over Station WGTC at nine o'clock Sunday evening. His topic will be "The St. Lawrence Seaway."

If Nothing Else, It Produced Solidarity

What's going to come of the Big Four foreign ministers meeting in Berlin?

The sessions have dragged on for almost two weeks now with very little accomplished toward goals of an Austrian peace and a united Germany. As the days move on toward the end of the sessions, it is becoming apparent that no such settlements as the optimists hoped for will be reached.

As usual the meetings have afforded Molotov an opportunity to attack Western nations, and voice more Soviet propaganda.

But even the pessimist who views the meeting with an attitude of "I told you so", must admit that some good for the free world has and may in the future come.

Ballentine's Optimistic View For Agriculture

It was an optimistic view of North Carolina's agriculture outlook that Agriculture Commissioner L.Y. Ballentine gave Pitt Counties in his address here this week.

Ballentine pointed out that farm prices have been "on the downward trail", but asserted farmers have "no serious reason to be alarmed."

That outlook from the man who is in the best position in the state to judge agriculture should be encouraging to farmers throughout Pitt County.

Most farmers and others agree with Ballentine's statement that tobacco prices in this area can not be expected to reach the peaks in 1954 that were brought in 1953.

Nevertheless, Ballentine made it clear that the price support program, the experience in new farming methods and knowledge are in favor of farmers in lessening the effect of economic signs which might point to smaller farm income.

The Commissioner's assertion that farmers can get more for their dollars invested in farming by applying better farming methods and giving more attention to their supplemental crops, is advice which may well be heeded.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
BUT YOU CAN'T MEAN ME
If my memory serves me aright, the following story appeared some years ago in this column, but it embodies a truth of sufficient significance to bear repetition.

Two elderly ladies of the southern mountains were attending a revival meeting and listening to the minister's denunciation of sin. "Everybody that drinks whiskey and carouses is going to hell," cried the evangelist, and the two old ladies cried out, "Amen, praise the Lord." "And," continued the evangelist, "everybody that steals and tells malicious lies is going to hell too;" and the good ladies set up a shout of approval.

At this point the evangelist leaned over the pulpit and said very solemnly, "And everybody that gossips and uses chewin' tobacco is going to hell," and one of the old ladies nudged the other and said, "Now he's meddlin'."

It pleases us to hear sin denounced provided it is not the particular sin we happen to be committing. But when the minister gets down to where we live and begins digging up our backyard, we raise a howl of protest. "Of course I drink, but I drink moderately and I am teaching my children to do the same." "Now go easy on the sins of the flesh—we're all human." "Sure I charge what the traffic will bear. Whose business is it but mine? And especially what business does the preacher have sticking his neb into this situation?"

"Gossip and chewin' tobacco"—now that's meddlin'.

Herbert Hoover Relied Upon

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON—The man who exerts more influence on Administration and Republican Congressional policies than any other single individual is the President who was driven from the White House in a storm of adverse votes more than 20 years ago—Herbert Clark Hoover.

But the elder statesman of the Republican Party brooding over national and international problems from the lofty Waldorf-Astoria tower is a far more mellow, moderate and understanding personality than he was in those bitter depression years. As a recent Capitol Hill conferee phrased it after an evening with Hoover, "He could have been re-elected in 1932, if he were the kind of man then that he is now!"

Hoover has become to the Republicans what Bernard M. Baruch has been to the conservative wing of the Democratic Party for almost 40 years—namely, a behind-the-scenes adviser. And both "like Ike," although they only visit Washington, the White House or Capitol Hill when they are called.

HERBERT HOOVER'S ADVICE SOUGHT—Republicans and Democrats confer with Hoover several times a week at breakfast or dinner, when they seek his advice on major legislative problems. He has close contacts with several Southern Senators and Representatives through their membership on the Hoover Commission to reorganize the Executive Departments. He keeps in touch with numerous newspaper and magazine writers in a position to influence public and political sentiment.

The new legislators who know of these off-the-record meetings refer to them, and not in a critical or carping sense, as the "Hoover charm school." The characterization is a reference to the fact that the former Chief Executive was always a delightful companion in a small circle of friends, but one who tends to freeze up before a large audience. Today, he is unfrozen.

RESPONSIBILITY FOR IKE'S PROGRAM—Hoover is generally regarded as chiefly responsible for the middle-of-the-road program which President from it.

Molotov's blasts at the Western nations has produced solidarity of purpose between the governments of United States, France and Britain which was doubtful when the meeting began. The Russian attitude at the meeting has strengthened the heretofore weak stand of France in the matter of a European Defense Community and an armed Western Germany.

The usual boistrous, swashbuckling tactics of Soviet officials have been met firmly at every turn by the Western Big Three. The Russians have talked, and have been talked back to. There have been no concessions by the West; no submission to intimidation even by France as the communists doubtlessly had hoped.

In our opinion, the outstanding feature of the conference so far has been the solid front presented by the Western powers. The new-found solidarity brought about by the conference should be helpful to the Western nations in dealing with the communists in the future.

Demands That Are Fantastic

There's one hang-over from World War II that should be cleared up immediately. And in clearing the matter, consideration should be given to the Korean War.

The United States was shocked some time ago when President Rhee of South Korea announced that he expected the United States to pay his nation millions upon millions of dollars for damages to his land which were caused in the Korean War. The demand was fantastic.

Now there is another item of similar nature in the news which might be placed in the world's "believe it or not" category.

The Hiroshima Atom Bomb Victims Association of Japan has announced that it plans to file damage suits in American courts as soon as possible against the United States. The association said it would seek $2,777 for families of each Japanese who died in the atomic attack on Hiroshima and Nagasaki during World War II.

Since when did an attacked nation in a war become responsible for the deaths which it incurred upon the aggressor in defending itself? Certainly the people of Japan have no recourse against the government of the United States for any of its citizens killed during the horrible war.

The United States, if anything, should demand and receive payments from the people of Japan for the thousands of American boys who died at Pearl Harbor and across the sweltering chain of islands across the Pacific.

This nation, through its history, has taken a benevolent attitude toward its defeated enemies down through the ages. Perhaps it has been too lenient with its defeated enemies for its own good. This new move to sue the United States for the dead Japanese in the atom attack is ridiculous beyond words.

Somebody Told Me

You Can't Please Everybody

Remember Wednesday's column about the dog who apparently has two homes? Yesterday I received a lead that I think will eventually lead me to the identity of the unknown half-owner. Please consider yourself held in suspense until I can solve this mystery.

The other day I asked TV Manager Hartwell Campbell what kind of listener reaction WNCN was bringing. He said the station receives complimentary letters every day, plus some uncompensated ones. He showed me this one:

"Dear Sir:
"I am writing to find out just why you have discontinued broadcasting the Robert Q. Lewis show."
"In my opinion and I sure others feel the same way that was the best show that came over your station."
"There are a few things I like to tell you and I would but I consider myself a gentlemen so I won't. Yours is the sorriest TV station I've ever seen."

The letter came from New Bern, so you can imagine how many stations this viewer has seen to make such a drastic comparison. The Robert Q. Lewis show was run on a sustained basis and when a commercial show came along at the same hour the station naturally pushed it off.

The letter reminds me of one that I received about a year ago about this column. The gist of it was, "Quit writing that lousey column!"

This chain of thought leads me to a professor I had at the University of North Carolina. He spent part of his time teaching his subject and the other half lambasting the movies. "It takes a man," he would say, "with the mind of about an eight-year-old child to enjoy the movies."

After the course was over and I had received my grade I told him, "I certainly am glad you saw fit to pass a man with the mind of an eight-year-old. And I'm thankful to have such a mind so I can enjoy the movies."

If everybody were satisfied with their surroundings we would be living in a world without progress. But to some people, nothing brings satisfaction. Some people take such a negative approach to their surroundings that no one will listen to them. For example, if the writer of the letter to me would have used a compromise approach and said the column was "sometimes" lousey I would have agreed with him. If the writer of the TV letter would have shimmered down slightly and written a mild letter he would have probably received an answer that would have satisfactorily answered his question.

It's fortunate that none of us are ever satisfied, but a shame that some of us are not dissatisfied to a lesser degree.
And I thank you.

What Other Editors Are Thinking

THE GOVERNOR CHOOSES WISELY

(Henderson Dispatch)
Governor Umstead has made excellent choices in the shuffling on the Supreme Court resulting from retirement of Chief Justice Devin. The order of succession brings deserved recognition all along the line that will meet approval of citizens throughout the State who are interested in the best quality of law enforcement and interpretation of legal statutes.

The governor himself paid high tribute to the new Chief Justice Barnhill, who is advanced in rank after some seventeen years on the high court. His appraisal of Barnhill's qualifications will be wholeheartedly endorsed by all who know him, either intimately or casually. His judicial experience assures the continued efficient conduct of the court's functions.

Elevation of Supreme Court Justice William H. Bobbitt to the vacancy thus created on the Supreme Court will be endorsed in the eastern part of the State with as much enthusiasm as among his larger number of friends and admirers in Piedmont and Western North Carolina, where for years he has been one of the most outstanding superior court jurists.

It was Judge Bobbitt who two years ago with Judge R. Hunt Parker sought a seat on the Supreme Court held by Justice Valentine by appointment of Governor Scott. Even the most ardent supporters of Judge Parker never were inclined to discount the fitness and ability of his opponent. Both are eminently fitted for a seat on this highest judicial body in North Carolina. Partisans of both are greatly pleased with appointment of Judge Bobbitt to the newest vacancy.

Praise of Chief Justice Devin expressed some weeks ago when his retirement became known will be echoed again now as he actually steps down from active duty and responsibility to enjoy rest and respite in the quiet of his new home in Oxford. He has given virtually his entire active life to the service of his State. At the age of 82 he deserves the relaxation that is now to be his, and carries with him the sincere good wishes of friends throughout North Carolina, and their genuine appreciation and good will for his labors for half a century in their behalf in administering the judicial branch of government.

Governor Umstead has decided with wisdom and propriety in levying upon the qualifications and abilities of gentlemen who have been advanced in this shift on the Supreme Court bench. The selections made are among the best of many good ones determined since he became the State's chief executive.

Crain Storage Facilities In State Start An Upswing

By LYNN NISBET

BIG CHANGE — Application for nearly $200,000 in loans from the State Warehouse Fund to build grain storage facilities testifies to the big change that is underway for agriculture in eastern North Carolina. For some 20 years after the State warehouse system was set up its facilities were limited to the storage of baled cotton. The 1941 General Assembly broadened the scope to include certain other agricultural products suitable for storage.

The real purpose of the 1941 extension was to provide for storage of soybeans and peanuts with warehouse receipts acceptable as collateral for bank loans on the same basis as cotton receipts. For a long time other crops were accepted for storage only as space was not required for cotton. As the center of cotton production moved westward more space was available in eastern warehouses for the other produce.

The State established a loan fund early in the warehouse era to aid in construction of needed facilities, and through the years loans have aggregated well over a million dollars. At present there are outstanding loans or commitments amounting to $298,000, and some $430,000 is invested in government securities which can readily be converted into cash for approved loans.

The changed economy is evidenced by the fact that it was not until last year that any application was made for a loan to provide facilities primarily for grain storage. That was a $35,000 item for the House Milling Company at Newton Grove.

The State Board of Agriculture at its meeting Tuesday considered applications for $150,000 from the Gurley Milling Company at Selma and $42,500 from the Mount Olive Grain Company. The board did not act upon the requests pending further information as to need for the facilities. It was considered and composite opinion of board members that the State loan fund should be used only to provide needed facilities that might not otherwise be made available for the farmers.

POLICY — To that end the board authorized Commissioner L.Y. Ballentine, ex-officio chairman, to appoint a committee to study the details of the pending applications, taking into account the factors of financial responsibility of the applicants, the need for the facilities in the specific areas and other pertinent data. The commissioner subsequently announced the committee composed of A.B. Fairley, state warehouse superintendent; J.B. Colner of Agriculture, and J.M. Curtis, of State College Extension Service.

It is expected that the report and recommendations of this committee will be controlling with respect to the Mount Olive and Selma applications and influential in establishing a permanent policy for future loans.

Loans are made by the Board of Agriculture upon recommendation of the warehouse superintendent subject to approval of the

Business Today

Receipts By Mail

One way to save money in business is by not mailing receipts unless requested.

A large national insurance company, which used to send out receipts for monthly payments is now shifting to annual statements. That means an annual saving of $33,000 in stamps alone per 100,000 policy holders and another $11,000 in envelopes and labor saved is calculated. The company stands to save more than a dollar a year per account—which is sweet for a company whose policy holders number more than a million.

This company is following the example of another insurance firm which dropped mailing receipts three years ago. It calculates savings at $85,000 a year.

Its experience shows that about 2 per cent of policy holders ask for regular receipts. Many retail establishments no longer mail receipts to charge account customers. Their bills say, "Your cancelled check is your receipt." That's true, but payments are also listed on the next bill, so the customer has a double record.

It may seem at first thought that the savings in not sending receipts are too small to be worth while, except for companies dealing with accounts numbering to the tens of thousands. That may be true as to postage, but not for manpower costs. It is almost axiomatic that the fewer bills a company has to mail out, the greater is the cost per account. A big insurance company with half a million accounts shaves the labor costs down pretty fine. A retailer with a few hundred charge accounts may pay many times more per account.

There is one situation in which it may not pay to stop sending out receipts. That is when sending them builds fresh sales. That can happen when a friendly letter acknowledging a payment will bring the customer in for another purchase. Or when a merchant can point out that the payment has increased the amount of unused credit in the customer's account. Or when the receipt can cause the customer to read accompanying advertisements. Or when the receipt can be used in obtaining a discount on another purchase. Or when a receipt will be useful to a customer in establishing income-tax deductions.

But in other cases, a 9-cent stamp saved may be a dime earned.

EXCISE CUT PROMISE
MAY POSTPONE SALES...
It may be that Congressman Joseph W. Martin, Jr., made an error that will cost business some sales. He announced that the Republican Party favored a reduction in the present excise rates, excepting on tobacco and alcoholic beverages.

Now there is a danger that customers will postpone purchases of furs, jewelry, luggage, sporting goods and other high-rate articles. Of course, merchants will regain most of the postponed sales, later. But there is always some loss. People die, or spend their money for other things.

Washington reports say the Treasury and Congressman Daniel A. Reed, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, had agreed on leveling off excises, but had planned to keep it a secret until just before action could be taken.

THREE LINES IMPROVE INVENTORY POSITIONS
Furniture and appliance stores, jewelers and food retailers had lower inventories in relation to sales last October than they had before the Korean War according to an analysis of government figures by the National Industrial Conference Board.

Ratios of inventories to sales were higher for auto dealers; lumber, building and hardware stores; apparel stores, drug and proprietary stores and general merchandise dealers.

All retail had an average of $1.38 in stock for every $1 in sales made in the three months ending October 31, 1953.

Boy-Wonder Status Is Outgrown

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—"A city to me," said Truman Capote, forking thoughtfully at a strawberry tart, "is a place where you can get up at 3 o'clock in the morning and buy a book or a shirt."

"In a real sense of being a city, New York is the only city in the world. It is the only one open 24 hours a day."

Capote, recently returned from Rome, has somewhat outgrown his "child wonder of the literary world" status of a few years ago. Critics then were divided over whether he was startlingly precocious or startlingly precocious—whether he was a pale young genius or merely pale.

"I'm 28 now," he remarked at luncheon in the 21 Club, "and I've written four books and a play. I just finished writing the dialogue for an Italian film. Now I'm working on my third novel and doing the lyrics for a musical play, based in Haiti, called 'House of Flowers.' It's light and strange."

Capote, who talks with the artistic surety of Oscar Wilde, is blond, blue-eyed and small enough to walk under the arms of a high school basketball center. He looks less like a sophisticated lawn today and more like a retired choir boy—or a rising young literary critic.

"I don't think writing for the films has anything to do with writing," he observed. "In writing for the films, the only important thing is the visual sense—the eye is everything."

But he did enjoy doing the dialogue for "Indiscretions of an American Wife," produced in Rome for Columbia Pictures by Vittorio de Sica.

"In Italy they don't rely so much on a script," he said. "They like to make things up as they go along. The film was shot in the Rome railroad terminal, and whenever they needed dialogue for the next scene I would go into another room of the station and write it."

The Italian method of making a film wouldn't work with many Hollywood stars. If they tried it with Marilyn Monroe, it would be a disaster. But they have turned out some great pictures that way.

Capote, who has had some luck in a life of hard work, has never seen a television program.

"Do you think I should take up looking at television?" he asked. "I have no opinions against it. I simply don't own a television set, and nobody I know ever looks at it."

"It sounds terribly exciting, but I dislike all ephemeral things. He feels sure, however, that video will make for better films on more adult themes."

"Television will take over all the taboos that hamper the movies now," he predicted. "When people can get all the popcocky they want on television, films will have to become more human and real in order to find an audience."

This mellowing infant terrible of literature—he earned his living as a dancing on a river boat, painting on glass, and fortune telling while learning the writer's trade—poked moodily in the ruins of the strawberry tart, then said:

"What would bother me about working in television is that you have only the bubble of a moment. To the creative artist, his work has to be a solid thing—not an ephemeral thing. Such as an actor's performance."

"That is what amazes me about painters. How can they sell their pictures, and let them go into strange houses where they will never see them again?"

"I take the books I have written with me wherever I go—the foreign translations of them, too. Then, wherever I am, I can look at them and say, 'There is something solid.'"

"I have to have a sense of permanency, because everything else in my life is so impermanent. If you are really dedicated to an art, the art becomes your only reality in the world."

When I asked Capote, still on the sunny side of 30, what he thought of Ernest Hemingway, who is 55, he replied amiably:

"I'm glad the boy's alive. He's a marvelous writer, but..."

Truman Capote didn't finish the sentence. He finished the strawberry tart instead.

N. C. Educational Problems Discussed By Dr. Messick

Present crowded conditions in schools and colleges, future increases in the school population, shortage of teachers, and inadequacy of educational facilities were emphasized by President John D. Messick, speaking in LaGrange this week.

Dr. Messick directed attention particularly toward North Carolina education as he addressed members of the LaGrange Rotary Club and their guests. The occasion was the Tenth Annual Ladies and Teachers Night held by the organization.

At present the East Carolina president said, there are 32,000,000 students in the public schools, and 2,251,000 in colleges. More than a million students are being added to the public schools annually because of the increased birth rate following World War II, he explained.

ages in elementary teachers, mostly in rural areas; 36 do not have enough industrial arts, vocational education, music and physical education teachers; and 41 have inadequate housing for their children.

"More than five billion dollars is needed right now for physical facilities," Dr. Messick declared. It is reliably predicted, he stated, that there will be 2,300,000 in college by 1957; and 3,000,000 by 1964.

According to a survey made by the American Council on Education he added, those of college age will increase from 8,001, 654 in 1953 to 13,609,831 in 1970, an increase of 70 per cent.

"North Carolina," he stated, "has only one out of 95 people in college.

Only South Carolina, with one out of 97, has a lower rating. Utah, with the highest rating, has one out of 33 people in college.

"The need to interest people in going to college," he declared, "is very great in North Carolina. The community college, which is becoming an accepted responsibility in many states, is one of the reasons for the great number of people going to college. Proximity tends to encourage attendance," he emphasized.

"East Carolina College has a tremendous opportunity and responsibility to serve the eastern part of the state because of the vast territory east of Raleigh and Wilson," he said.

Historical Society Holds Meet Here

At a meeting of the Pitt County Historical Society last week, J.L. Jackson of Winterville and Raleigh, one of the organizers of the society, spoke on the early history of Pitt County. President C. V. Cannon of Ayden presided.

The meeting was held at Sheppard Memorial Library.

The speaker gave brief sketches of towns, churches, old homes, schools and industries that he had prepared for the revised edition of "North Carolina—A Guide to the Old North State." This book, issued in 1937, valuable as a reference, is now out of print.

Dr. Howard Clay of East Carolina College faculty introduced Frank E. Brooks, Greenville magistrate, who gave a brief history of the first schools in Greenville. He traced their history from one-room and one-teacher schools on through the years to present-day modern buildings and specially trained teachers.

Brooks exhibited a photograph of the old Greenville Academy, which was on the present site of Sheppard Memorial Library. He and J. L. Jackson attended the academy. Classrooms were crowded in those days he said, and many children walked several miles to school. Boy students cut wood for the school stoves.

Brooks related some interesting incidents of the early school days. He paid tribute to the late Prof. W. H. Ragdale as a great educator. Mrs. C.R. Townsend, a former Greenville resident, verified the historical facts given by the speaker.

During his historical recital, Brooks paid tribute to Miss Tabitha M. DeVisconti of Farmville, secretary of the Pitt County Historical Society, for her outstanding work. Miss Jesse Rountree Moore, proposed that the historical society sponsor erection in the courthouse of a bronze plaque commemorating the "Pitt County Resolves," signed by 88 Pitt county patriots. She explained that this meeting of the Committee of Safety was an important historical event and it was held in the county courthouse at Martinsboro on July 1, 1775, one year previous to the signing of the Declaration of Independence. Miss Moore said this is one of the few recorded events of Colonial Times that occurred in this county.

She referred to an article she wrote several years ago for the Greenville Daily Reflector on the 175th anniversary of the signing of the "Resolves" at the meeting of the Safety Committee. She recalled valuable assistance of Dr. Robert Lee Humber of Greenville, then vice-president and later president of the North Carolina Historical Commission; Dr. Arthur R. Newsome, head of the Department of History at the University of North Carolina; Mr. D.L. Corbett and a Mr. Powell of the State Department of Archives and history, in preparing the historical sketch.

The society at its last meeting, voted to sponsor erection and unveiling of the proposed bronze plaque.

Dr. Martha Pingel of East Carolina College faculty suggested that the society confer with the Greenville radio station in reference to presenting weekly historical sketches from data compiled by historian Jackson and Miss Moore about the "Pitt County Resolves." President Cannon appointed Dr. Pingel a committee of one to confer with radio officials.

Tom O'Hagan DuPre of Miami Beach, Florida, a Greenville native, was welcomed as a new member of the Pitt County Historical Society.

Announces Honor Pupils Of Farmville High School

FARMVILLE—Principal Sam D. Bundy of the Farmville high school has released the names of nearly 100 students whose scholastic records in the first half of the current session entitled them to places on the honor roll or the principal's list. To win honor roll standing, students must make all "A's" for the principal's list, they must make an "A" on at least half of their subjects, with nothing lower than "B" on the balance of their studies.

Bundy's report lists the students for the third grading period, and also for the term. The lists follow:

Honor Roll, 3rd Period

9th grade—Wade Mills, Dean Allen, Mavis Hardee, Hilda Owens, Sylvia Shackelford, Teredia Wainston.

Eight Convicts Tunnel Out Of Alabama Prison

ATMORE, Ala. (AP)—Heavily armed police officers searched backwoods areas near here today for eight long-term convicts who escaped through a tunnel under Atmore State Prison last night.

The escapees used a key to open a door leading from a special security cell block into a small tunnel containing electrical wiring. They forced their way through two other doors into a main tunnel before reaching freedom, emerging in a powerhouse outside the prison fence.

The break was discovered about 8:45 p.m., some 15 minutes after the eight were believed to have slipped away under the prison.

L. A. Strubbe, deputy Alabama prison commissioner, said bloodhounds had picked up a definite trail early today. Prison guards, sheriff deputies and state patrolmen followed the dogs through sparsely settled areas near this prison town about 60 miles north-east of Mobile.

A rebuilding program has been under way at Atmore for nearly two years and is 70 per cent complete. Prisoners have been kept in the old facilities while the new prison went up around it.

"We've been afraid something like this would happen," Strubbe said. "They just slipped one over on us."

At the same time the deputy prison commissioner questioned the vigilance of guards working in the security cell block and promised a full investigation.

He described the escapees as "tough turkeys," none of whom was supposed to have access to the corridor running by the tunnel door.

Complete 54-Year Study Of Navajos

By STEVE LOWELL ALBUQUERQUE (AP)—A frail, white-haired Franciscan priest has completed the first study of the ceremony on which the Navajos base their lives.

The Rev. Berard Halle, OFM, who has lived with the tribesmen 54 years, has finished the story of what the Navajos call "blessing way."

Ready for publication, it's printed in Navajo accompanied by the English translation.

Father Berard, of St. Michael's, Ariz., started studying the language "the morning I got there," in 1900. After years of preparation, he worked out an alphabet. Then he was ready for this advanced work.

You might compare the ceremony to biblical legends on which Christians base all their varied interpretations.

This prehistoric ceremony explains why if a Navajo holds to his religion, he always will have a traditional dome-shaped Navajo home, the hogan, regardless of how wealthy he may become.

For in blessing way are found the strict delineations not only of the homes of "the people," as the Navajos call themselves, but of their entire life.

In general, it's a prayer for a blessing on the Navajos and their property.

It was a tremendous task for the little priest who always says "we" when he speaks of the Navajos. Although they affectionately call him "The Little One Who Drags the Garment"—his cloak—he countered great difficulty in digging out details.

"I had to ask specific questions about every part," he said, "for the Navajos think they lose something when they impart their knowledge. It's their breath—their life. They won't offer any more than what is specifically asked and paid for."

Chicago University supplied his "field costs."

For 10 long years he gleaned the information bit by bit, most of it in the winter when "Mr. Bear, Mr. Snake and Mr. Thunder were hibernating."

During the rest of the year, Father Berard explained, disclosure of sacred secrets might be overheard. He told of a time when the roll of distant thunder broke up a talk he was having with a Navajo oldster.

A lifetime of effort has reached a peak, and now Father Berard is looking for a publisher. After that there is the fascinating connection of the Navajos and the Chiricahua Apaches, their cousins.

Spry little Father Berard, who began life in Canton Ohio, 20 years ago, hopes to complete a work on the Chiricahua "wind way" before the curtain drops.

Exuberance Is Just Dangerous

WHEELING, W. Va. (AP)—Two months ago while trying a difficult pool shot Walter Floto broke his cue and the splintered end cut his hand. Five stitches were required.

Last Sunday Floto became excited when a member of his bowling team missed a triple-header strike by one pin. He grabbed hold of a wall coat hanger, somehow got entangled and pulled the hanger loose. He fell and broke a wrist. "I guess I'm just too exuberant," Floto said.

Lew Ayres To Film Story Of Ail World's Religions

By BOB THOMAS HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"When man understands, he no longer fears; when he no longer fears, he loves; when he loves, there is peace."

This is the principle that will guide Lew Ayres on a trip to film the story of religions around the world. He will abandon his acting career for the global tour, which he will finance himself.

"I visited him in his home on the peak of the Hollywood hills, where he leads an almost monastic life. Long one of the town's most serious thinkers, he talked earnestly of his mission."

"I'm leaving Feb. 21 by air for Japan," he explained. "I'll fly all the way because it would take me two years by boat to visit all the places I want to see. An old friend,

Sees 'Profit' In Relief Status

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Judge Louis Comerford of the Court of Criminal Correction observed yesterday that a woman forced on relief when her husband leaves her and their children many times has a bigger income without her husband than with him.

"Consequently," said the judge, "there's little chance for reconciliation."

"The women no longer want to live with their husbands because they are better off financially—and they don't have to put up with the men either."

Supporting the judge's theory was a case before him yesterday. The woman received $303 monthly on relief and with contributions from her husband. The husband earns only $290 a month.

Phants, Jackets Collide Tonight

Greenville Seeking Seventh Conference Win; Locals Hold Early Season Decision Over Elizabeth City Squad

Elizabeth City's Yellow Jackets come to town tonight to face the Greenville Phants in a North-eastern Conference basketball battle. Game time is set for 8 p.m. in the high school gymnasium.

Currently resting in second place in the conference, the Phants must record a win tonight if they want to retain their chances of overtaking league-leading Kinston. The Red Devils are still the loop's pride with an undefeated mark. Greenville's record now stands at six wins against two defeats.

The Yellow Jackets and Phants have met once this year with Greenville taking a close 57-51 decision at Elizabeth City. Guard Dickie Darling, a top-notch football player, is the leading Jacket threat.

In the last meeting between the two teams the Phants won out mainly on the stellar play of center Harold Edwards. Edwards, who turned in another fine game Tuesday as the Greenies edged Washington 58-56, collected 17 points in the last outing against the Jackets.

Other Greenville players who will probably see action tonight include forward Bob Howell, the team's leading scorer, Walter Perkins, Pat Sawyer and George Sideris. Perkins, a hot and cold player this year, will probably start at the other forward post with Sawyer and Sideris, a pair of speedy floor men at the guards. Sawyer, who turned in an excellent game against Washington in the Phants last outing.

A preliminary contest at 6:30 will find the Greenville Jayces playing hosts to the Elizabeth City Juniors. The Baby Spooks upended the Junior Jackets 42-36 in a meeting earlier this year.

The local Jayces also are holding down second place in the North-eastern Conference with their only league loss having come at the hands of Kinston.

On the basis of earlier results Greenville rates as a slight favorite over the visiting Yellow Jackets. Kinston pinned a 20-point setback on the Elizabeth City team earlier this week whereas the Red Devils barely edged past Greenville. Overall records however, tend to favor the Jackets for they have copped three of the last four contests with the G-Men.

No Change

Wayne Bishop's condition is still the same.

No change has been reported in the condition of the Reflector Sports Writer who is suffering from amnesia. He is still resting well and he is able to get out of the house for short trips but he has not had any success in remembering events which occurred prior to his January 19 fall.

There has been no official announcement about reports which Duke Hospital for examination by specialists. There is little chance, however, that he would be taken before next week, even if the unconfirmed reports are true.

Wayne, a 16-year-old high school junior, is permitted to have visitors but company is requested not to remain for long periods of time. Rest has been determined as the most important factor in restoring his memory.

Braves Meeting Difficulty From Players Of 1953

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The rich giveaways at Milwaukee County Stadium last summer appears to have produced a winter crop of money-hungry baseball players.

The Milwaukee Braves had only 17 players under contract today—Cincinnati reported 40 signed yesterday in comparison—and there's been no visible stampede into the front office for salary chats. What it boils down to is a so-far-unsuccessful clamor for a bigger cut of the profits from the top money-making club in major league baseball last summer.

The 1953 Braves really lived it up in their first Milwaukee season, but more on the fabulous generosity of a baseball-crazy populace than the contents of their pay envelopes. There was hardly a man on the club that didn't receive items ranging from $1,000 bonds down to free milk for his kids for six months. Tractors, automobiles, wrist watches and a year's supply of fresh lamb figured in too.

The front office fared equally as well as fans fought for tickets, so well it's been estimated the club cleared enough to pay off its losses for the final dismal years in Boston.

But only four regulars are among the 17 in the fold—and two of them were here last year only as visitors. Bobby Thomson, the ex-Giant, agreed to an estimated $35,000, and Danny O'Connell, a refugee from Pittsburgh, to about $12,000. The two "old" Braves—Warren Spahn, ace left-hander, and home run king Eddie Mathews—came in for a reported $42,000 and $25,000, respectively.

Reserve catcher Sam Calderone, obtained from the Giants in the same deal which brought Thomson here, agreed to terms yesterday.

Three Braves wintering here still are unsigned. Shortstop Johnny Logan is said to be asking $18,000 without much luck, while outfielder Billy Bruton and pitcher Lew Burdette are in the same boat. Andy Pafo, veteran outfielder who lives in Chicago, was asked on a recent visit whether he'd signed and replied with an emphatic, "I should say not."

General Manager John Quinn admits several men have returned unsigned contracts, he says. "We're not upset," he says. "We don't go South, for another two weeks and I'm sure most of the players will be signed by then," he adds.

Tragedy Follows Winning Basket

PORT LEYDEN, N. Y. (AP)—Tumult shook the packed gym when David Sessions, 16-year-old sophomore, sank the basket that gave the Port Leyden Central School Junior varsity a 27-26 win over West Leyden.

In the happy hysteria that swept the Port Leyden cheering section last night, a 17-year-old girl collapsed.

Sally Sessions, a senior cheering her brother's winning shot, was given artificial resuscitation on the 45-mile ambulance ride to Watertown.

At the hospital she was pronounced dead of a cerebral hemorrhage.

ACC'S 6-10 freshman center, John Marley, netted 18 points to become the night's top scorer. Paul Stanton, Bill Sykes and Kent Moseley each scored 12 for High Point.

The defeat left High Point with a 2-8 conference mark going into tomorrow night's game with Catawba on the Panthers' home court. ACC will be host to Guilford, Lehigh Rhyne visits Appalachian and Elon will be at Western Carolina in other North State attractions Saturday night.

Oklahoma Cagers Heading Toward Tournament Play

NEW YORK (AP)—The Oklahoma A&M Cowboys are making certain they won't be left on the sidelines when the Western Regional NCAA Basketball Tournament opens on their home court in Stillwater next month.

They took their biggest stride so far towards the Missouri Valley Conference title—and its automatic NCAA invitation—last night by clipping Wichita 59-51 in a fierce struggle. The victory was the Aggies' fourth without a loss in league play and put the second black mark against the Wheatshakers' conference hopes. Wichita has lost only three times in 22 starts, but two of the defeats have come against Missouri Valley foes.

Wichita made it tough all the way for the Oklahoma and led twice in the final three minutes. Layups by Clayton Carter and V. R. Darnhouse helped decide the issue in favor of the Aggies.

Cleo Littleton of the losers was high man with 24 points against 21 by Bob Mattick of A&M.

The Aggies, ranked fifth in the latest Associated Press poll, now have an 18-1 record.

Kentucky and Western Kentucky, along with Duquesne the nation's only remaining unbeaten teams, both extended their streaks last night. Kentucky No. 1 in the count, trampled Georgia 106-55 for its 120th consecutive home victory with Frank Ramsey scoring 29 points. Kentucky has won 15 games this season.

Western found Stetson of Florida unexpectedly tough but triumphed 81-63 for No. 21 equalling the school's longest winning streak. Tom Marshall scored 17 points in the final quarter to assure the verdict.

Eighth-ranked Duke was held to its lowest total of the season by North Carolina in winning 63-47.

Furman's Frank Selvy increased his own all-time major college basketball scoring record to 1,946 points with a 42-point display in New York as his team whipped Manhattan 92-80. Selvy broke the all-time Madison Square Garden record for foul shooting as he sank 16 of 19 and his total was high for the current season.

Defense-minded Maryland Washington and Lee to seven field goals in scoring a 51-25 decision, one of the lowest one-team totals in a major college game this season.

In other action, Oklahoma City returned home after a disastrous road trip and showed the home folks a winning style, 69-54 against Creighton, West Virginia whipped New York University 92-80, Denver upset Utah State 65-60 and Dayton defeated Memphis 66-59.

Cameron Decides To Play For Pitt

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Paul Cameron, flashy UCLA halfback, has become the second All America backfield star to agree to play for the National Football League's Pittsburgh Steelers and Steeler President Art Rooney is the most jubilant man in town.

"With Cameron and Johnny Lattner we should have the best backfield in the National League," Rooney declared.

Cameron agreed to terms last night from Los Angeles. The transaction, handled by phone, is believed to be completed some time today when Cameron goes through the formality of signing a contract with a West Coast representative of the Steelers.

The Steelers didn't reveal what they are paying the All America club but sources close to the club indicated each will get around $10,000 for one-year contracts.

Pirates Get Day Off After Defeating ACC

By JIMMY ELLIS
Reflector Sports Writer

East Carolina College's Pirates almost felt lost yesterday. They had the afternoon off.

Coach Howard Porter's Pirates won't play again until Wednesday night. That, coupled with the fact that their Wednesday night victory over Atlantic Christian was a rather exhausting one, accounted for the holiday.

The Pirates have been traveling a rather rough road lately. They played three games last week and then had their toughest home game in two years Wednesday night. As the season draws closer and closer to tournament time, the pressure mounts with each contest and any rest the players get is welcome relief.

East Carolina is still leading the North State standings by a rather comfortable margin. They have a 12-1 record in conference play but they aren't out of danger by any means. Lenoir-Rhyne, with a 6-2 mark, is still plugging along trying to maintain their own pace and hoping that the Pirates falter somewhere along the way in the four conference games that are left.

One operation in which the Pirates seem to have no worries at all is the scoring department in which Bobby Hodges leads. Hodges is apparently headed toward a new season's record in individual scoring with an average of 26.1 points per game. The old conference average is 23 points per contest, set last year by Guilford's Bob Shoaf.

Hodges maintained his own personal pace in the game with ACC by dropping in 26 points. That raised his individual total for the year to 392 points in 15 games. He is now the number two man in conference career points totals and needs only 215 points to set a new record.

The big center might get that new record. The Pirates have five regular season games left. After the season is over, they will play at least one North State tournament game and seem to be cinches for at least two district N.A.I.A. contests. To get the necessary points in that number of games, he would have to step up his production rate only a wee bit and Ronald Roger's four-year total of 1,980 points would tumble from the top.

The hitch involved in getting the record is that, of the games which are left, only one will be played in the friendly surroundings of Memorial Gym. The rest will be road games. Hodges has had some of his better nights on the road but his most consistent performances have been at home.

Article On Wrestling May Provoke Much Controversy

NEW YORK (AP)—There has been a suspicion for quite some time that the modern wrestling game was not entirely on the level. There have been dark rumors that the lardy brotherhood works from a script, and that the eventual winner of any given "match" is known before the participants begin pulling knives on one another.

There is no great shock, therefore, in coming suddenly upon Herman Hickman's essay in the current Saturday Evening Post entitled "Rasslin' Was My Racket," providing the reader has not lived an unusually secluded life. The round man tells of his hilarious experiences when he was hitting the hustings some 20 years ago as an All America footballer fresh out of Tennessee.

In breaking this most sacred of all sporting trusts, Herman doesn't cut any corners. He names names, many of them nationally famous in their way, and he tells how the acts are arranged. It is doubtful that the wrestling fraternity will be so kind as to let him.

Not until he gets well down into his narrative does the former Yale coach throw one which this corner finds a trifle hot to handle. This is when he says that, contrary to widespread belief there is nothing anywhere near new about the practice of putting on a vaudeville act for the customers. Herman asserts it was going on in granddad's day, if not before.

Now, if there is anything we have accepted as gospel it is the legend that up to about a generation ago wrestling was so dog-eat-dog honest that a real fan was in danger of yawning himself to death. Every match in the good old days when such giants as Gotch and Hackenschmidt and Stetcher and Lewis roared the land was a genuine "shooting match" that might not finish before dawn.

That's what we've always been told, Hickman says it simply isn't so. How he knows he doesn't say, but there was a lot of wrestling before his gladiatorial debut in 1932, but Herman sounds mighty sure of himself. He says that no matter how long ago you experienced your first wrestling thrill, the odds are that you were being kidded. The only difference between then and now, he maintains, was in the method.

Middleweights Battle Tonight

By JACK HAND
NEW YORK (AP)—The fight in the Garden tonight suggests that old bromide about "the kid with a future" and "the vet at the crossroads."

The "kid" in this cast is 23-year old Joey Giardello of Philadelphia, the No. 2 challenger to middleweight champion Bobo Olson. The "vet" is 29-year-old Walter Cartier of New York, no longer listed among the top 10 of his division.

Both radio (ABC) and television (NBC) will carry the 10-round match nationally at 10 p.m., EST. Giardello is a 2 to 1 favorite.

Giardello showed unexpected punching power in his last start, Jan. 8, when he stopped Garth Panter, who never had been stopped before. Joey claims he used to be "chicken" about putting away an opponent but has now turned into a real "tiger." He has a record of 15 knockouts in 62 bouts.

Regardless of his punching power, Giardello is a fast-improving fighter with important victories over men like Billy Graham, Gil Turner and Ernie Durando. He has been aiming for Olson but has to wait his turn because of the April 2 Olson-Kid Gavilan title bout at Chicago. While waiting, Giardello has agreed to give Cartier a chance to make up for the unanimous decision he lost to Joey at Brooklyn's Eastern Parkway last Oct. 26.

Cartier hasn't fought in the Garden since he was stopped by Kid Gavilan, Dec. 14, 1951, a fight he was winning on all three scorecards until he ran into a 10th round Gavilan flurry. He won only one of three last year, losing to Randy Turpin on a disqualification in London last March. A Jan. 4 decision over Randy "Sandy" started him back up the ladder, he hopes.

The Grimesland Panthers have won only two Pitt Conference games this year but have won five out of six in games against schools outside Pitt County. Front row, left to right: Dan Mills, Earl Hardee, Bobby Andrews, S. W. Heath, Coach Clarence Butler. Second row, left to right: Ernest Elks, Donald Ferguson, Clarence Elks, Roger Mills and Ray Wilson on the third row.

These Grimesland girls, coached by Garlan Bailey, have won only one Pitt Conference game this season but are in the midst of a rebuilding program. While they rebuild they hope to get a new gymnasium in Grimesland also. Front row, left to right: Mary Willis Elks, Mary Jo Fleming, Elsie Arnold, Anne Kite. Grimesland Cagers Building For Better Basketball Future

By BOB BOYETTE
The Grimesland boys, winners of only two of their ten conference games this year, hope to improve their record in their three remaining Pitt Conference games.

The Panthers have defeated only Grifton and Ayden in the rugged Pitt County Conference this year, but Coach Clarence Butler, who took over in Grimesland January 4, hopes his team will do much better and make a creditable showing in the annual county tournament.

So far this season the Panthers have been paced by All-Conference Bobby Andrews who has scored 280 points for an average of better than 18 points per game. S. W. Heath is second in the scoring column with 148.

Last year the Grimesland quint lost to Grifton in the first game of the county tournament.

Co-Captains for this year's teams are the two of the seniors on the squad—Andrews and Roger Mills.

Thus far the Panthers have defeated Wheat Swamp, Hookerton, Aurora, Chocowinity, Grifton, Ayden, and Bear Grass, while losing to Winterville, Bevoir-Falkland, Stokes-Pactolus, Chicod, Winterville again, Bevoir again, Chicod again, Stokes-Pactolus again, and to Bath.

In all games their record shows seven wins and nine losses. In games outside of the Pitt Conference the Grimesland cagers have a record of five wins against one loss.

Girls Rebuilding

Coach Garlan Bailey said, "I told my girls only today that I am proud of them because they won four games more than was expected."

The Grimesland girls are completely in a rebuilding program. They lost every player from last year's team with the exception of two, and only one girl will graduate this year.

Most of the squad is made up of freshmen and sophomores and those girls who are sophomores are playing their first year of basketball.

"We really expect to have a good team by year after next," Coach Bailey pointed out. "These girls just need some experience."

The Grimesland coach said, "If we win one game in the Pitt County tournament we will consider ourselves lucky."

At the present time the girls have won only one county game in ten tries. Their overall record shows four wins against 12 losses. Outside of the Pitt Conference they are playing 500 ball as they have won three and lost three.

Becky Mills and Joy Lewis are pacing the scoring for the Panthers with average per game figures above 15. Adrene White has been the outstanding guard.

So far the girls have beaten Hookerton, Aurora, Chocowinity, and Bevoir-Falkland. They have lost to Wheat Swamp, Bear Grass, Winterville twice, Bevoir-Falkland, Stokes-Pactolus twice, Chicod twice, Grifton, Ayden, and Bath.

Colt Assistant Quits His Post

BALTIMORE (AP)—Otis Douglas, trainer and assistant coach with the Baltimore Colts last year, has quit his job with the National Football League club.

He was scheduled to leave for his 125-acre farm near Reedsville, Va. today, undecided about future plans.

"After my last stop (head coach at Arkansas) and now here, I'm a little fed up with football. I must make up my mind whether to continue in the game or get out altogether."

Robinson Records Win Over Eagles

WINTERVILLE—The local Robinson High Tigers sprang another surprise yesterday by defeating the Conecote High Eagles 40-32 in a basketball game.

Lommi Harper led the winners with 19 points. James Daniels added 11, Bobby Jordan got three, Joseph Taton got six, and Roy Chance got one.

The girls game ended in a 16-16 tie. Luck Knox and Minnie Lowe each scored six points for Robinson.

The two teams will meet again Monday in Conecote.

Konstanty Near 'Holdout' Stage

NEW YORK (AP)—Jim Konstanty, the relief pitcher who sparked the Philadelphia Phillies to a pennant in 1950, was one of the major league's most disgruntled performers today.

The 36-year-old bespectacled right-hander already has tossed two contracts back to the Phillies and if his present mood continues, it could well be he will be listed as a holdout when the Phillies' batters report to Clearwater, Fla., later this month.

"I take two 25 per cent cuts and lose on a bonus clause and I'm expected to take a pretty red apple to the teacher and sign up. I'm not going to do it," was the way Konstanty put it yesterday.

Jim revealed he balked a couple of times last year and finally was given a contract clause based on a projected 900,000 attendance. The Phillies went under that figure at home and he lost out.

Konstanty, who won the National League's Most Valuable Player award in 1950 said he was at a loss to explain why he was used only sparingly after last year's All-Star game.

"I don't know to this day," he said, "why I wore out two pairs of pants polishing benches after the middle of the season, but I did." He had a 10-4 record by mid-season and a final score of 14 victories and 10 setbacks.

Elsewhere the other clubs went about the business of signing their players with little trouble.

Those who came to terms were third baseman Billy Cox of Brooklyn, pitcher Warren Hacker of the Chicago Cubs, shortstop Roy McMillan and pitchers Jack Crimian and Tom Ackers of the Cincinnati Reds, pitcher Al Brazle of the St. Louis Cardinals, outfielder Bob Kennedy of Cleveland and pitchers Bob Hall and Vernon Law of Pittsburgh. Milwaukee signed catcher Sam Calderone, acquired earlier this week from the New York Giants.

No Cage Contests Slated For Fans

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The cupboard is bare for North Carolina college basketball fans tonight.

All teams except Wake Forest are idle. The Deacons open an important invasion by meeting South Carolina at Columbia in an Atlantic Coast Conference game.

Wake Forest moves over to Clemson tomorrow night for another ACC meeting.

In last night's only action, Atlantic Christian evaded its North State Conference basketball record at 5-5 by whipping High Point, 78-63.

ACC's 6-10 freshman center, John Marley, netted 18 points to become the night's top scorer. Paul Stanton, Bill Sykes and Kent Moseley each scored 12 for High Point.

The defeat left High Point with a 2-8 conference mark going into tomorrow night's game with Catawba on the Panthers' home court. ACC will be host to Guilford, Lehigh Rhyne visits Appalachian and Elon will be at Western Carolina in other North State attractions Saturday night.

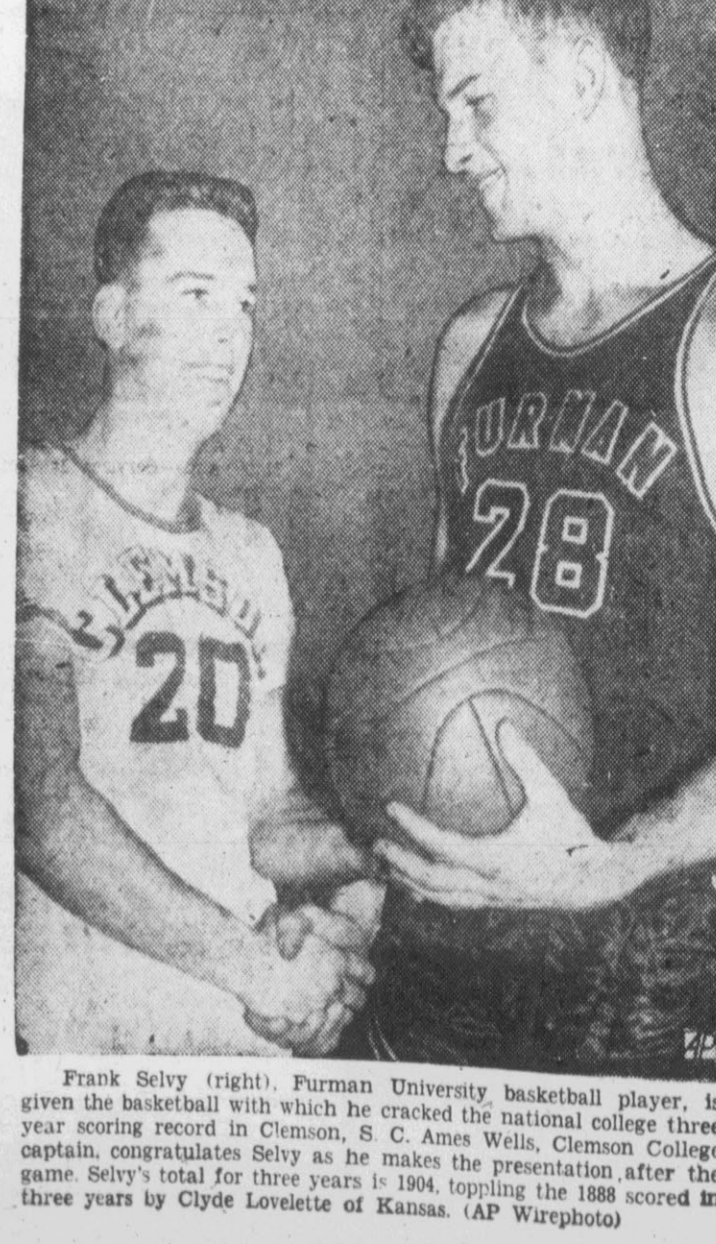

No More Bottled Drinks For Fans

ISTANBUL—Bottled drinks are no longer sold in the auditorium of the Istanbul Sports Palace—as a safety precaution.

Authorities ordered the move after a wrestling match recently between Turkish and Iran teams. Pop bottles rained on the mat as fans booed an unpopular decision, favoring an Iranian wrestler.

One bottle gashed the head of Necmi Atesh, President of the Istanbul branch of the ruling Democ party.

Highest Scorer Congratulated

Ames Wells, Clemson College captain, congratulates Selvy as he makes the presentation after the game. Selvy's total for three years is 1,984, topping the 1888 scored in three years by Clyde Lovelette of Kansas. (AP Wirephoto)

Christ, the Living Bread

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—John 6

Jesus went up into a mountain with His disciples, and a multitude followed them. The feast of the Passover was near. Jesus asked Philip how all could be fed. Philip said they had very little to feed so many.

Andrew said a boy with them had five barley loaves and two fishes. Jesus asked for them, and instructed the disciples to seat the people on the grass. Then He gave thanks, divided the food and there was plenty for all.

To avoid the crowd Jesus went away alone, while the disciples arose a ship to cross the sea. A storm arose, and the disciples saw Jesus walking toward them on the water. He said, "It is I; be not afraid."

Jesus accused people of seeking Him only because of His miracles. "I am the bread of life," He told them; "He that cometh to Me shall never hunger and he that believeth on Me shall never thirst." MEMORY VERSE—John 6:35.

Christ, the Living Bread

JESUS TELLS HOW TO SATISFY SPIRITUAL HUNGER

Scripture—John 6

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL THE MIRACLE of feeding thousands with a few loaves and fishes is the only one told in all four gospels. It occurred at Bethsaida, on the Sea of Galilee.

Jesus went up into a mountain and His disciples were with Him. Multitudes followed them, and Jesus recalled that the feast of the Passover was near, and asked Philip how they could feed over 5,000 people. Philip answered that they had only two hundred pennyworth of bread which was not nearly enough. Andrew said, "There is a lad here which hath five barley loaves and two small fishes; but what are they among so many?"

"Make the men sit down," Jesus said, so all sat upon the mountain's grassy slopes, and Jesus took the loaves and fishes, gave thanks for them and distributed the food to the disciples who gave it to the people. Not only was there plenty to feed the multitude, but 12 baskets were filled with what was left.

Those who were present said: "This is of a truth that prophet the works of God? Jesus answered was, "This is the work of God, believe on Him whom He sent." They then asked Jesus for a sign, saying, "Our fathers did eat manna in the desert; as it is written, He gave them bread from heaven to eat." "Verily, verily," Jesus said, "Moses gave you not that bread from heaven; but My Father giveth you the true bread from heaven. For the bread of God cometh down from heaven, and giveth life unto the world." "Then they said unto Him, Lord, evermore give us this bread," and Jesus answered, "I am the bread of life: he that cometh to Me shall never hunger; and he that believeth on Me shall never thirst."

This annoyed the Jews who repeated His words, and they said, "Is not this Jesus, the son of Joseph, whose father and mother we know? How is it then that He saith, I came down from heaven?" These were the same doubting words that were spoken in the synagogue at Nazareth when Jesus talked to his former neighbors in His home town.

that should come into the world." Seeing that these people might force Him to go with them, possibly to make Him king, Jesus slipped away and went into a mountain.

His disciples went to the sea and boarded a boat. A storm arose, buffeting them about, and then they saw Jesus walking on the water toward them. They were afraid, but He calmed them. "It is I; be not afraid."

They gladly received Him in the ship, and "immediately the ship was at the land whither they went."

The people whom Christ had fed missed Him, as they did not see Him leave Bethsaida. However, they found Him on the other side of the sea at Capernaum. They asked Him, "Rabbi, when camest Thou hither?" Jesus said to them: "Verily, verily I say unto you, ye seek Me, not because ye saw the miracles, but because ye did eat of the loaves and were filled."

"Labor not for the meat which perisheth, but for that meat which endureth unto everlasting life, which the Son of man shall give unto you: for Him hath God the Father sealed."

They asked Him then what they should do that they might work. Based on copyrighted outlines produced by the Division of Christian Education, National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U.S.A., and used by permission. Distributed by King Features Syndicate.

Parents Shown Child-Care Film By Nutritionist

Miss Carolyn Fiewellen, nutritionist with the State Health Department, showed a movie, "Why Tommy Won't Eat," at a meeting of parents at the Protestant Kindergarten Tuesday night at Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church.

She talked about food for the growing child and used charts to show the value of certain foods. She stressed the importance of regular eating habits, discouraged between-meal snacks and reminded that there are certain items of food that some children won't eat.

The 20 parents present participated in an open forum about the problems of childhood. Refreshments were served after the program. Rev. C. D. Patterson, chairman of the board, was present. Miss Rachel Caudle, kindergarten teacher, presided. Mrs. Inez Haddock is assistant teacher.

Buy Coffee At A Bargain Price

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—While the controversy bubbles over the high price of coffee, New York state has stepped out to market and bought some for 61 cents a pound. It's top-grade coffee, you understand. The only hitch is that to get it at that price you have to buy $20,000 pounds in the bean. It's for use at state institutions.

Two Band Concerts As Part Of Annual Clinic

Programs have been announced for two band concerts to be presented at East Carolina College this weekend as part of the annual meeting of the Eastern Division of the All-State Band Clinic on the campus.

Robert Gray of the East Carolina College music department, chairman of the Clinic, has announced that the East Carolina Concert Band will play this evening at 8 p.m. in the College Theatre. The program to be offered will be varied, and selections will range from numbers by Bach and Beethoven to spirited marches by contemporary composers.

Other selections to be presented by the college band will include the "Flying Dutchman" overture by Wagner, "Fantasy on American Sailing Songs" by Clare Grundman, and Vaughan William's "Toccata Marziale."

A Clinic Band composed of 110 high school seniors from thirty-three schools in eastern North Carolina will play Saturday night at 8 p.m. in the Wright auditorium. This band will be organized on the campus Friday, will rehearse during the two-day meeting, and will give the program climaxing clinic activities.

Saturday night's program will include among numbers Holst's "Suite in F", an arrangement of George Gershwin selections, "Broadcast from Brazil" by Bennett, and a number of other compositions suited to band performance.

Herbert L. Carter of the East Carolina music faculty, director of the college marching and concert bands, will conduct both the East Carolina and the Clinic bands in their performances this weekend.

The Doctor Disagrees

By ELIZABETH SEIFERT

SYNOPSIS
Dr. Stephen Carr and his wife, Shelly, are on their way to a family dinner party honoring his venerable mother's birthday. Though polite to her always, Shelly well knew that the very social Carrs had never really accepted her. She was a stranger to them and to the little mid-west city of Norfolk, where the Carrs resided, a night club singer of uncertain background whom the whole Carr family believed Stephen had married impulsively. Aware of their subtle snubs, Shelly determines to prove her metal. As she and Stephen drive to the fashionable home of the senior Carrs, Shelly pities the itinerant workers who have come here on new projects, many of them living in pathetically squalid quarters. During the gay birthday party, Stephen astounds his folk, by announcing that he has joined with the armed forces and will soon be off to the Pacific for a year. Outraged, his doting father demands to know: "What will become of Shelly? What of the medical practice which Stephen had so ardently built?"

CHAPTER FIVE

MAY ANNA CARR was a simple woman, a mother by nature, and she would have been no more had fate been kinder. She was not, and perhaps never had been, pretty. Her face was long, almost sheep-like. Her eyes were china-blue, and her abundant hair was now a somewhat faded blonde. She wore it in a smooth pompadour, just as she had worn it as a young woman. Her expensive clothes looked bunched and dowdy upon her. She was exactly as she would have been had Everett operated a grocery store. She'd been all over the world; she'd visited the rich and the great, and had entertained them in her own home, but she had acquired no gloss of sophistication.

Her first reaction to Stephen's announcement had been shock at her realization that her son—her "baby"—would soon be in physical danger but she had recovered enough to consider other results.

"What about your practice, Steve?" she asked him anxiously. "You're so well liked here in town. And, of course, there is the plant, but I mean your practice. You say you'll be gone a year, but that's a long time for the people who lean on you as their doctor. Laura Jarvis—and then there's Loretta Ransome's baby—it's due next month." She paused breathlessly.

Stephen spoke gently, smiled kindly. "I know, Mother. But remember, there are other doctors in town."

Mrs. Carr's red-painted lips blew out in disdain. And Stephen laughed. "There ere!" he insisted. "About twenty other doctors, good, bad, but I've got a man coming to take over my practice."

Excited comment popped up like small explosions all around the room. "Is he a good man?" asked Everett sharply.

"Yes, Dad, he's a very good man, I've known him for years. He was, as a matter of fact, the one who put me on to the aluminum dust therapy at the plant."

"Canadian?"

"Oh no. He comes from the southwest originally. He's done some work in the Pennsylvania mining districts. It was the plant's being here in the clay area which sold him on coming to Norfolk; I had the plant in mind when I asked him. But he's a fine all-around doctor—surgeon, too. Perhaps the town will be sorry when I come back—though my dream is to keep Craig here. He's very good."

Through all the talk, Shelly had not been permitted to sit silent, but she had offered no definite opinions; her contributions had largely consisted of a smiling, murmured, "Yes, I know," to the opinions of others. But now Mrs. Walsh turned purposefully to her and asked, directly what she thought of this radical move of Steve's.

"I am quite convinced," she said, "that good doctors are needed in Korea. And, since I firmly believe—" she looked down at her hands folded in her lap, looked up again, "—that Stephen is the best of all doctors—well—" She lifted her pretty shoulders in an expressive shrug. Every man in the room laughed warmly. But the women regarded her coolly.

Even her mother-in-law—"I wish you had talked him out of it, Shelly," she complained.

"Oh I could not have . . . Yes, you could. If I can manage Everett, you can manage Steve. They're exactly alike."

"Yes, but I don't have your gifts," said Shelly sweetly.

This pleased Mrs. Carr, and so had been worth saying, though Shelly had spoken sincerely.

"I don't think she made any move to talk Stephen out of this," declared Eleanor. Shelly glanced at her; so did Stephen. "Did you?" the dark young woman challenged.

"No," said Shelly. "I didn't."

"Why not?"

"Well, I knew he had his own good reasons for deciding to go, and that they were more important than the personally selfish reasons I had for wanting him to stay here. So—well, you know Eleanor," her eyes twinkled mischievously. "A girl wants to show up well before a man."

Everett chuckled. "Good girl!" he approved. "Though it's going to be tough on you, Shelly. You'll miss the boy."

The violet eyes lifted, dark and large. "Oh, yes," she said softly. "I shall miss him!"

Again the family group took over the discussion, Ruth's voice and her strong face now the most prominent.

"Maybe Shelly and her mother can live together," Ruth said briskly. "You know—get an apartment—"

"Oh, Ruth, don't be silly!" cried Stephen, sharply. "I've explained many times that Shelly's mother needs trained care, and that Shelly has neither the strength nor the training to give to an invalid. She provides her mother with every comfort, goes to see her every six weeks—Don't talk about her duty! She does it, and will continue to do it. Besides, Shelly has other duties. She's going to stay right in our home, and take care of things. Aren't you darling?"

She looked up, smiled and nodded.

"What sort of things?" asked Everett suspiciously.

"Why, she'll pay the light bills—things like that. Keep the moths out of my civvies."

This was rewarded by laughter, and people then moved about; Kate said something about having to go home, one of the children had been a little crumpy the night before. Each one wanted a personal word with Stephen; his mother stayed close at his side, as if to place her body as a shield between him and danger.

Shelly talked to the Reverend Prewett, and confirmed her original liking of him. He was a friendly and understanding young man, and without being oppressively clerical. Or aggressively "broad-minded."

In the process of the next hour's shifting about, Everett Carr came to sit beside Shelly on the couch. His rage had subsided into a bitter and discontented acceptance. He took her hand in his and patted it. "How do you feel, really, about all this, my dear?" he asked kindly.

She answered, as brightly as she could. "I'm prepared to do whatever Stephen wants me to do, and to feel right about it too!"

"It will all work out," he said, but without conviction.

Squeeze Adds To Building Quality

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Engineers are squeezing a four-story, million dollar building to give it greater strength and load-carrying qualities. Scheduled for completion by December, 1954, it is said by the architect-engineers to be the first multi-storied structure in the nation employing prestressed concrete.

The big squeeze is done by running quarter-inch steel wires across the width of the beams and along the length of the floor slabs. As the concrete sets these wires are tightened by special jacks, thus squeezing or shrinking the concrete and getting rid of the pull-apart tendency in advance.

The structure, 46 feet wide, the shrinkage will be about one-eighth of an inch.

Loony Mishap In Flight Pattern

GRAND RAPIDS Mich. (AP)—An out-of-season loon got mixed up in its flight pattern while looking for a lake to land on and ran headon into a passenger transport plane yesterday at the Kent County Airport.

The bird was grounded and an airport employee went to its aid. Now the loon reposes at the public museum nursing multiple injuries.

THEY SHOULD KNOW

DETROIT (AP)—Municipal bus drivers want parking facilities enlarged around terminals. They want to drive to work because they say the transportation system is too slow.

Grifton Readies Workers For Its Bloodmobile Day

GRIFTON—Next Monday will be Bloodmobile Day in Grifton when the blood collecting team attempts to collect its quota of 170 pints.

Headquarters for the Bloodmobile will be in the basement of the Christian Church and its hours will be from 12 o'clock until six o'clock.

In order to meet the quota of 170 pints at least 200 donors are needed, according to Bloodmobile Chairman Bill Daws. It is estimated that at least 30 donors will be turned down for various physical reasons.

A house-to-house canvass was made last Monday night to have prospective donors sign pledge cards.

Included in the list of workers who will work from 12 to three next Monday are:

Receptionists, Mrs. C. R. Cobb and Mrs. Edward Hart; registrars, Mrs. Larry Posey, Mrs. Charles Butcher, Mrs. Charles Stone and Mrs. Art Dupuis; bottle table, Mrs. John Groat and Mrs. Bob Forney; nurses, Mrs. James Rooley, Mrs. Dick Johnson, Mrs. Bill January, and Mrs. Doug Boone; canteen, Mrs. S. E. Coffman, Mrs. Joe House, Mrs. Fray Schutte, Mrs. Charles Kline, Mrs. Elmer Tucker and Mrs. Robert Mewborn.

Those working from three until six include:

Receptionists, Mrs. Edward Hart and Mrs. Charles Kline; registrars, Mrs. B. C. Troutman, Mrs. J. C. Gant, Mrs. W. E. Johnson and Mrs. Edwin Reeves; bottle table, Mrs. John Groat and Mrs. Bob Forney; nurses, Mrs. James Rooley, Mrs. Dick Johnson, Mrs. John Coward, Mrs. Evelyn Layne; canteen, Mrs. S. E. Coffman, Mrs. Bill Skelton, Mrs. Norm Webb, Mrs. Kenneth Waltenburg, Mrs. Bill Daws and Mrs. Robert Mewborn.

On the last visit of the Bloodmobile to Grifton local citizens gave 119 pints, the largest amount per capita of any town in Pitt County.

Parkway Travel Sets New Record

WASHINGTON (AP)—More than 4 1/2 million people traveled over the Blue Ridge Parkway in Virginia and North Carolina last year to set a new record.

The National Park Service said yesterday that 4,266,975 people visited the parkway an increase of 700,000 from 1952.

The service reported that a record 46,224,794 people visited the 180 areas administered by the parkway in 1953. This is an increase of 3,924,958 over the mark of 42,299,836 set in 1952.

The Great Smoky Mountains in North Carolina and Tennessee had 2,250,772 visitors last year.

Ask Grifton Board To Enforce Speed Limits

GRIFTON—The local Board of Commissioners heard a request from a group representing the local Parent-Teacher Association and the Finer Carolina Committee that speeding be curbed in Grifton.

The group said that they did not want to make Grifton a speed trap but that many people were driving too fast within the city limits. They asked that every reasonable and feasible means be used to enforce the speed limit laws in Grifton.

The group said that a program of curbing speeding was necessary to protect the lives of children and others in town.

The board agreed that some action should be taken to curb speedsters.

The group which appeared before the board included: Mrs. John Groat, Mrs. Bob Levine, Mrs. Dick Johnson, Mrs. Clarence Bennett and Mrs. R.C. Forney.

The commissioners also passed a motion rescinding all prior laws concerning blocking of streets and in the future making it unlawful to block any street without permission from the town hall or the police department. The new law makes offenders liable to a $50 fine.

The board passed a motion authorizing the highway commission to make a section of swamp land within the city limits of Grifton through which N.C. Highway 11 passes into a 55 mile per hour zone provided that the sections of town at each end of the swamp remain 35 mile per hour zone.

On a motion by W.C. Chauncey the board voted to have the highway commission move a sign at the intersection of Queen Street and Highway 11 because the sign blocks the view of motorists entering the highway.

Forbids Scalping Without License

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—The secretary of state has forbade a St. Regis Indian from engaging in scalping operations without a barber's license.

Thomas J. Curran reported yesterday that Peter Lazore of Hockansburg, near the Canadian border, had been fined $50 for barbering without a license.

Lazore based his defense on a 1790 treaty between his tribe and the federal government permitting braves of the St. Regis tribe to hunt and fish without licenses.

The State Department insisted that the pact did not apply to operations on the scalp. Peace Justice Nigel Leclaire of Bombay agreed and Lazore was fined.

Lazore has applied for a barber's license, Curran said.

Town Braced For Valentine Mail

LOVELAND, Colo. (AP)—Postmaster E. M. Ivers and his assistants in this "sweetheart town" of the nation are bracing for the great rush of mail which hits here.

The practice of sending Valentines to the Loveland post office for remailing started in 1947 and has become an annual practice for sweethearts throughout the world.

Last year about 60,000 Valentines were received from all 48 states and seven foreign countries. A special crimson ink cachet is applied to remailed Valentines. The cachet is altered each year.

On a motion by W.C. Chauncey the board voted to have the highway commission move a sign at the intersection of Queen Street and Highway 11 because the sign blocks the view of motorists entering the highway.
