

Watchers Warmed By $310,000 Bond Fire

Believe it or not, this is a $310,000 fire. These men are members of the Greenville Utilities Commission and the Greenville City Council and they are burning 310 $1,000 Revenue Bonds that have been rescinded because they were not needed.

Burn $310,000 In Bonds Last Night

Three hundred ten $1,000 Revenue Bonds were burned by the Greenville Utilities Commissioners and members of the Greenville City Council last night near the City Hall.

The $310,000 worth of bonds were originally given to help with the rural lines of the Greenville Utilities Commission, but after it was decided they were not needed the Utilities Commissioners, along with the city's governing board, asked that they be rescinded.

Utilities Secretary Larry Brown read a letter from the Rural Electrification Administration stating that the amendment to the loan contract authorizing the recession of $310,000 of the original amount of $910,000 had been approved and provision should be made to cremate the bonds.

The letter requested that 310 of the $1,000 bonds should be cremated and a certificate of cremation be furnished the REA.

Prior to burning of the bonds a regular monthly meeting of the Greenville Utilities Commissioners was held. Superintendent Martin Swartz reported that the tree trimming gang that is in town trimming trees away from the electric lines was about 65 percent completed.

The superintendent reported that the 5,000 kilowatt turbo-generator at the plant is now open for inspection. It is customary to open the generators for inspection every three years at least, but this generator has been inspected only once since 1939.

He said, however, since the connection has been made with VEPCO (Virginia Electric Power Company) it will be possible for periodic inspections.

Keeping Low Insurance Rates Mayor W. L. Whedbee, who attended the meeting, then reported that he and City Manager James S. Hughes had been to Raleigh and found out that due to improvements in the water system here the insurance rating has been changed from a "six" to a "five," enabling the city to keep its present insurance rates.

If improvements and extensions had not been made, which include hiring two new firemen and establishing a new fire station, the rates would have gone up soon. Superintendent Swartz continued his report by stating that plans are underway to provide sewer facilities for the new school in Elmhurst when it opens.

He said also that a new school is proposed on Munford Road across the river and that present sewer lines in that area will not reach the school site; therefore, it will be necessary to ring a new sewer outfall from the lift station to the area in which the school will be located.

Report On Depositor's Interest Commissioner W. H. Woolard reported that he was chairman of a committee to find out if the Utilities Commission, was required to pay depositor's interest as it was doing now.

He read a letter from the Attorney General which said by law the Commission did not have to pay the interest.

It was voted, after a discussion on the matter, that $75,000 would be deposited in the bank on time deposit at the end of this fiscal year or earlier to draw interest at the rate of two percent, and the consumer would be paid interest on his deposit on the same rate that it is paid at the time deposits are refunded.

To Check Service, Rates Commissioner John G. Clark brought to the attention of the Commissioners that many complaints had come in recently regarding the rise in the rates.

After a discussion by members of the Commission it was voted that a competent engineering concern be employed to make a complete survey or appraisal of the entire electrical distribution system, service, and rates to determine their adequacy from a service standpoint and for the purpose of developing a more balanced utilization.

The firm will be employed by the Utilities Commissioners at a negotiated price.

Financial Report Approved Secretary Larry Brown gave the monthly financial report last night which received approval. It showed receipts that totaled $173,767.55 with disbursements amounting to $143,430.28.

Bloodmobile Gets 196 Pints Of Blood In City Yesterday

Local citizens contributed 196 pints of blood yesterday, Dr. Walter C. Humbert reported this morning.

A total of 211 people showed up at the National Guard Armory to give blood, but 15 were rejected because of recent colds. "That percentage of rejects is the lowest ever," Dr. Humbert said.

There were 95 donors from the Air Force ROTC at East Carolina College, 34 replacement pledge donors for patients in the hospital, four donors from the March of Dimes, 41 from sustaining patrons, and 17 volunteer walk-ins.

There was also the largest percentage of Negro donors ever. A total of 39 Negroes came to the Armory to give blood yesterday.

During the two day visit to Pitt County 340 people showed up to give blood and 316 pints were collected. Should every person who showed up been able to give it would have given Pitt County its 340 pint goal for the two day period.

Volunteer workers, nurses, canteen workers, and registration workers were very happy with the results yesterday and said they did not mind giving a day when response is that good.

Special appreciation to the Police Department for providing parking spaces for donors and to the National Guard for the use of the Armory, was made known.

It was reported that yesterday's donations made a good deposit in the local bank, toward paying the rent, interest, insurance and making a small payment of the mortgage of this year's county blood drive.

The next visit of the bloodmobile will be to Farmville on April 12 and to Greenville on April 13.

Any persons who would like to donate in the future and have their blood as a replacement for some patient in the hospital should send a postal card to Mrs. Phyllis Martin, Pitt Memorial Hospital, Greenville stating that they would like to be a donor for blood given some patient in the hospital.

Dr. Humbert concluded by saying that Red Cross regulations permit accepting donors who have had a history of malaria provided they have been free for two years. It will be used for plasma and gamma globulin which is urgently needed.

Special appreciation to the Police Department for providing parking spaces for donors and to the National Guard for the use of the Armory, was made known.

Dulles Supported By East Germans

BERLIN (AP)—Gambling their freedom, hundreds of East Germans have written to U.S. Secretary of State Dulles urging him to stick by his guns against Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov in the Big Four conference.

The American minister's staff disclosed today more than 500 letters have been received at U.S. Headquarters in the past week cheering the American, British and French stand for free elections to unite Germany.

Some of the letters addressed to Dulles warn him to beware of Molotov duplicity. Most of them recount this argument: That the Americans should ignore Soviet zone claims of 10 million signatures to a petition backing Molotov's plan to entrench the Communists in a joint East-West government before any elections are held. The signers said the entire petition is a gigantic fraud.

One writer said he had to sign the petition 26 times. A man from Thuringia said he was compelled to sign three times at his factory, once again at home and twice more on the streets.

A school teacher wrote that the petition signing was a "scandal" and a farmer said 95 per cent of the signatures in his neighborhood were obtained through "terror methods" imposed by Communist police and party agitators.

A number of the writers, urging Dulles to "remain firm," said in any free elections the Soviet zone Red regime would not stand a chance. Other letters asking Dulles to pass on to President Eisenhower thanks for free American food parcels distributed here last summer to East Germans who risked arrest and even shooting to cross the frontier into West Berlin for the coveted items.

Doesn't Expect Fighting Resume TOKYO (AP)—Gen. John E. Hull, commander of U. N. Far East forces, said today just before leaving for Washington that he does not anticipate renewed fighting in Korea.

Hull and U. S. Ambassador John M. Allison left in Hull's private Constellation plane for top-level conferences at the Defense and State departments.

Hull said he was taking an "encouraging report" on Korean conditions. Both described the trip as strictly routine.

RELIEF PROGRAM KENNETT, Mo. (AP)—Dunklin County businessmen are setting up a program to give work to the county's needy in the hope that, after 30 days, outside cash and food help will be unnecessary.

About 700 families of out-of-work farm laborers were found virtually destitute last week.

Opposes Republican Extremes In Attacking Demo Record Ike Suggests Softer Pedal

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today counseled members of his administration to avoid extreme partisanship in their remarks about Democrats, and said he would expect the Republican National Committee to show similar tolerance.

The President told a news conference the times are too serious to indulge in political partisanship to an extreme.

He said too it is obvious some parts of his legislative program will need Democratic support if they are to get through Congress.

The President's remarks were touched off by the recent flurry of protest by Democrats, including House Democratic Leader Rayburn of Texas, that the Republicans have been making "dastardly" attacks on the previous administration.

The Democrats had called on Eisenhower to repudiate such attacks.

The Democrats were particularly indignant over speeches by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) and others which, in their view, sought to link all Democrats with Communist or other treasonable activities in the past.

Some suggested Eisenhower's program might suffer unless he put a stop to this.

The President told newsmen in response to a question, that he will counsel officials of the executive department against engaging in extreme partisanship.

And, responding to another question, he said he believes that would be a good course for the Republican National Committee to follow.

Only yesterday, Eisenhower's press secretary James C. Hagerty, had said he thought Republican speakers were just "giving the facts."

And some GOP members had deprecated the threat of Democratic refusal to support legislative moves they approved in the past.

Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill.) for one, said he did not believe Republican criticism alone would cause any substantial number of Democrats in Congress to oppose the President's legislative program.

Lawmaker's Attorneys Promise Fight Payroll Kickback Verdict

WASHINGTON (AP)—Lawyers for Rep. Bramblett (R-Calif.) promised a legal fight today all the way to the Supreme Court, if necessary to try to overturn his conviction on charges of falsifying his congressional office payroll in a salary "kickback" scheme.

Bramblett had nothing to say after a federal court jury brought in its verdict against him yesterday, but his attorney, Edward Bennett Williams, told newsmen: "This conviction won't stand."

Bramblett, 52, is serving his fourth term in the House. His home is in Pacific Grove, Calif.

Judge told him to put this in writing along with his other motions, including one for a new trial.

Bramblett will not be sentenced until all motions have been disposed of. Each of the seven counts on which he was convicted carries a maximum penalty of five years in prison and a fine of $10,000 but the maximum is rarely imposed.

Conviction carries with it no requirement that Bramblett give up his House seat. Only the House can decide the qualifications of its members and separate ouster proceedings would have to be conducted there.

ECC Chosen As Pilot Center In Religion-Teacher Training Study

Foundation will give greater emphasis to religion as an aspect of education in the preparation of teachers in all member institutions of the association. The project was made possible through a $60,000 grant from the William H. Danforth Foundation.

Aimed at the preparation of prospective teachers to deal directly and objectively with religion in their classrooms, the project will also rate major consideration in Chicago this week by representatives of 269 colleges and universities attending the sixth annual meeting of the AACTE February 11-13.

East Carolina College will act as a pilot and liaison center for the project among interested colleges and universities in North Carolina and Virginia.

Not Bluffing' Says South Korean President Rhee Plans Reopen Conflict

By RELMAN MORIN SEOUL (AP)—President Syngman Rhee said today he is determined to reopen the war against the Chinese Reds occupying North Korea, and he warned that if necessary he will go ahead without American support.

"I am not bluffing," he said. "The President of the Republic of Korea made the statement in an interview with this correspondent.

Except in general terms, he did not specify when he will order his armies to attack, but he said: "Time is rapidly running out. We shall have to act soon or perish."

Lennon Attacks 'Demagoguery'

CHARLOTTE (AP)—More than 300 delegates to the annual Carolina Farm Equipment Dealers Assn. heard U.S. Sen. Alton A. Lennon lash out at his opponent in the May 29 Democratic primary yesterday before adjourning a three-day meeting here.

Describing a "hypothetical man," Lennon, obviously referring to former Gov. Kerr Scott, who will oppose him, said the man represents "demagoguery, or a man who sets out to divide and conquer by setting farmers against urbanites."

Lennon said this man is not qualified for Senate service.

Same Old Goal

BERLIN (AP)—Soviet Russia proposed today a non-aggression pact among all the nations of Europe including both Communist East Germany and the Bonn Republic. It would annul the North Atlantic Alliance.

Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov laid his plan for "European security" before the Big Four conference. It was his most detailed effort to torpedo the West European defense community.

The proposed 50-year general security treaty would bind all the nations of Europe to "peace." East and West Germany were specifically listed as eligible as individual powers until the nation eventually is unified.

Girl Scout News

FARMVILLE—The Girl Scout Leaders Club held its organization meeting Wednesday morning, Feb. 3, at 10 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Frank Allen. Mrs. Edgar Barrett acted as president.

The meeting was opened by repeating the Girl Scout promise. Mrs. Barrett then gave a report of the tea given in Greenville Sunday, Jan. 31, by the Girl Scout Council, for Scouts, their mothers, Scout leaders, and all interested persons. The election of officers was next in order. The following were elected: president, Mrs. Edgar Barrett; vice-president, Mrs. Roderick Harris; secretary, Mrs. Allen Drake; and publicity chairman, Mrs. Lyman Bass.

It was announced that the Scouts would have charge of the P. T. A. program on March 4. Mrs. Frank Allen is to be responsible for getting the speaker, and Mrs. Elbert Holmes, Mrs. Edgar Thomas, Mrs. Roderick Harris and Mrs. M. J. Gregg are to be responsible for what the Scouts do.

Girl Scout Week is March 7-13 and the Scouts are to attend church together at the Baptist Church on March 7 to open Girl Scout Week. Mrs. Elbert Holmes, Mrs. Mark Joyner and Mrs. Robert Monk were nominated to be in charge of arrangements for the Girl Scout celebration.

The theme for the week is "Know Your Nation," and Scouts are to bring pennies according to their age for the Juliette Low Worldwide Friendship Fund.

It was decided that the Leaders Club would meet the first Wednesday in every month at 10 o'clock at the homes of members. Mrs. Elbert Holmes asked the club to have its next meeting with her.

Women In The Church

By MARY FOWLER

All the Christian world is saddened by the recent death of Miss Sarah Chakko, of Lucknow India, probably the best-known Christian in modern India, and one of the best-known Christian women in the world. Miss Chakko was principal of Methodist's noted Isabella Theburn College in Lucknow. One of the six presidents of the World Council of Churches, a vice-president of the World's Young Women's Christian Association, and president of the Student Christian Movement of India, Burma, and Ceylon. She was born in North Parur, South India, in 1905. She came from the Syrian Christian Church in South India — the church which, according to tradition, was founded by St. Thomas in the First Century. Her father was prominent police official and organizer of the church in Trichur, Cochur, Cochin, South India. She was educated at Queen Mary's College, Madras, taking her A.B. and her M.A. in history degrees there. Later she studied at the University of Chicago and the University of Michigan.

Dr. Mary Alice Jones, specialist in the education of children under the Board of Education of the Methodist Church, Nashville, Tenn. points to the unreality of the government's attitude in recognizing the existence of and man's dependence upon a Supreme Deity when public officials are inaugurated in all three branches of the state and within the armed services of the country, yet do not teach or apparently recognize God in the public schools. The public school, she says, is the nation's only major institution in which responsible officials question the recognition of God. Dr. Jones believes "recognition of God" should be a tenet of the public school — "not teaching religion, but recognizing the reality of God through a simple, dignified ceremonial, somewhat on the order of the salute to the American flag, brief but definite. The actual teaching of religion should be under the auspices of and paid for by the churches, but it is responsible for Christian parents to ask the public school to release the boys and girls for specific times to be received by the churches for this teaching."

Gilda Gray Sues Film Studio For Million Dollars

DENVER (U)—A million-dollar damage suit by former shimmy dancer Gilda Gray, in which she charged Columbia Pictures Corp. embarrassed her by using her career as basis for the Rita Hayworth film "Gilda," was dismissed in U. S. District Court yesterday.

The dismissal, "with prejudice," climaxed a five-year legal fight started in April 1949 by Miss Gray, then living at Laraspur, Colo. Her suit followed by three years Columbia's release of "Gilda," in which Miss Hayworth appeared frequently on the dance floor doing what Miss Gray charged was an imitation of the shimmy she originated.

Miss Gray now is staying with friends in Colorado Springs. Attorneys did not state the reason for the dismissal, agreed to by both sides. The "with prejudice" part means Miss Gray can never sue Columbia again on the same basis.

Such a dismissal almost always means the parties have settled out of court, a court attache said. French officials say that traffic in the Place-Augusta in the center of the city makes more noise than Niagara Falls.

Modern Music Trends Discussed Before Club

W. Edmund Durham, faculty member of the department of music at East Carolina College, discussed modern music last Monday at a meeting of the Faculty Lecture Club of the college. He illustrated his remarks on how modern music developed and what it means with recordings ranging from Mozart to Schonberg.

Looking backward to the Eighteenth and the Nineteenth centuries, Mr. Durham indicated that many compositions which are admired today were unpopular when they first appeared because they were too new and too different to be appreciated or properly evaluated.

Perhaps, he suggested, modern compositions which sound strange and harsh to many will have more general appeal when listeners have become more accustomed to them and understand better what contemporary composers are trying to do and how and why their work differs from that of the past.

Four elements which have remained constant in our music, he stated, are melody, harmony, rhythm, and musical form. He explained various changing practices, such as the modern use of very short melodies in contrast to the long, stinging melodies of the past.

Fear Has Major Role In Economic Outlook

There are many varying views as to the economic outlook of the nation in the remaining months of 1954, and about the only thing that opposing sides in the economic debate can agree upon is that 1954 began with a lack of confidence in the economic situation by most people.

Since the first of the year, however, there appears to have been a trend to calculated optimism toward the economic situation rather than pessimism.

In The Spirit Of Fair Play

Two district posts on the Pitt County Board of Commissioners were left wide open for the Democratic primary in May by the announcements yesterday of Chairman F. F. Hendrix of Greenville and Vice-Chairman J. T. Dupree of Belvoir who have said they will not seek re-election.

As a usual thing an incumbent for any public office is considered a candidate for re-election until he makes some definite statement which makes it clear he will not seek re-election. And it is usually the case that an incumbent keeps the public guessing until the filing period closes without any definite announcement as to whether or not he will seek re-election.

The clear-cut announcements from Commissioners Hendrix and Dupree clears up any question about their possible candidacy in the coming primary, and lets the people of the first and second commissioner districts of the county know there will be no incumbents for re-election in those districts.

If there are other incumbents in the county whose terms expire this year who definitely will not be candidates for re-election, a definite announcement from them would clear up a lot of questions the people of the county have in trying to guess who will be in what political races come May.

The voters of the county, we believe, are entitled to that bit of consideration from the officials they have seen fit to elect to public office.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
COMMUNISM ALWAYS FAILS
We read in the Book of Acts (2:44-45), that in the beginning the Christian believers held all things common, "and sold their possessions and goods and parted them to all men, as every man had need."

The first is that this communism soon failed. It engendered murmuring and discontent. It was one of the great failures in the early Christian movement.

Taxes And Bootlegging's Rise

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON—Although criminal bootlegging of liquor cheats the Federal government, states and cities out of at least $1 billion of revenue annually, neither the White House nor Congress dares to sponsor a reduction of the excessive tax responsible for the bootlegging boom.

Their caution is due to the fact that a punitive and puritanical spirit—a guilt complex mixed with political cowardice—underlies our taxation system, despite repeal of prohibition many years ago.

EXCESSIVE TAXES—Cigarettes, too, are regarded as falling into a slightly sinful and immoral category by the honorables who frame and enact tax laws. Their sales had fallen heavily even before certain medicos' suggestion that they contributed to cancer. Excessive Federal, state and city taxes, with resultant high retail prices, are held chiefly responsible for customer resistance.

Secretary George M. Humphrey argues that lower individual and corporate taxes will increase profits, incentives and production, thereby reducing costs and stimulating retail consumption. That is the Eisenhower-Humphrey formula for preserving prosperity.

Most people seem agreed that the nation has at last gotten back into a buyers' market in most items, which has replaced the sellers' market in which the nation's business has operated since the beginning of World War II. The major problem is now moving goods on to consumers rather than getting enough goods to meet consumer demands.

While there has been a rise in unemployment, its significance is still being debated. The employment peak of 63.4 million people in the U. S. last August has now been reduced by 3.6 million. Of those, economists estimate, 1.2 millions have lost their jobs and are looking for new ones. The other 2.4 millions have either voluntarily left the nation's labor force, or have lost their jobs and are not seeking new jobs.

Even the gloom advocates must admit there is something to be said for the fact that unemployment now—even though it has increased,—has not reached the four million mark which it hit during the peak of the post-war readjustment period during 1949. Then too, it must be realized that the total labor force of the nation has risen at a rate of about 600,000 a year.

Fear of a severe recession, and lack of confidence in the economic situation on the part of the general public has been and still is the greatest threat to keeping business and employment at a high level.

Eisenhower Can Not Remain A "Neutral"

President Eisenhower's hopes, voiced a few months ago, that communism and Reds in government would not be an issue in the 1954 campaign appear to be dashed already.

GOP hatchetmen Sen. Joseph McCarthy and Attorney General Brownell are seeing to it that the question of communist infiltration in government and charges of Democratic condonation of such activities are kept before the people of the country.

By his past statements, President Eisenhower has intimated he does not condone the smear attacks on the former administration which are being made by members of his party, and even members of his staff.

Security may not have been as high under the Democratic administration as it should have been at all times. Nevertheless, the talkative few Republicans will have a difficult time convincing the American people that the Democratic administration deliberately opened the gates to communists and allowed them to sell this nation out to its mortal enemy.

President Eisenhower can no longer remain a "neutral" in this struggle by those who respect truth and founded charges and despise unfounded slander, and the segment of the GOP which specializes in the latter.

If President Eisenhower seeks a 1954 campaign which does not have communism in government as a primary point of debate, he must do so actively and vigorously.

Another Expert Opinion

Somebody Told Me Expert's View Of Marriage

Here are some views from an expert about marriage and college: About a year ago I wrote a column quoting another expert, who believes that a girl is lucky to get a husband because of the fact that there are more marriageable women than men.

Now an even more competent expert, Kiplinger of Washington, says that same thing, in so many words. In the age group 19 and under there are plenty of boys to go around: 103 and one-half men for every 100 women. But in the age group 20 to 30, there are only 98 men for every 100 women. In ages above 30, the relative scarcity of marriageable men increases from year to year. Kiplinger says, "These are statistics, not just casual observations."

There are 105 boy babies to every 100 girl babies, but the rate of mortality is slightly higher among males. And besides, there is war. But quite often it is not the number of available mates that keeps marriage down, but suitability.

Unmarried adults are much fewer today than 14 or 15 years ago. Reason is probably that more people can afford marriage now. In the same report Kiplinger makes an important statement about college, one that should affect us here in Greenville provided we can continue to get generous appropriations from the State Legislature.

He says that a great expansion of college facilities will become necessary. Enrollment in all colleges is now two and a quarter million, which constitutes about 26 per cent of the eight million of college age. About one out of four go to college. By 1960, there will be over nine million of college age and by 1970 there will be over 13 million.

Now get this: Kiplinger predicts that a higher proportion will go to college in the future for these reasons: Prosperity, family push, more college graduate parents.

So, he says that we must prepare to pay more for education, in order to provide money for expansion. It will take tax dollars and dollars from those who enroll. We aren't willing to stand still on education, so we must pay. Big universities will probably decentralize and have branches. And there will be more junior colleges, scattered, with two-year courses.

If Kiplinger is right and he usually is, Greenville can look forward to reaping more benefits from a larger college.

And I thank you. JACK EDWARDS

What Other Editors Are Thinking

CHARTING THE WAY (Greensboro Daily News)

Apparently the fear and confusion over traffic law enforcement which resulted in North Carolina from the State Supreme Court's decision that a motorist's driving license could not be taken on the basis of a nolo contendere plea have been resolved in a series of conferences between the Motor Vehicles Department and the attorney general's office.

In line with the latter's ruling, the department will "revok" license when the statute says that revocation is mandatory and part of the punishment provided for that particular offense which the motorist agrees to accept when he pleads nolo contendere". On the other hand one's license will not be taken "where it's a matter of discretion and not a specific part of the punishment provided for that offense" unless there is

"other evidence of violation than a nolo contendere plea."

That appears to leave the department's area and scope of responsibility fairly well defined. The law sets forth, under this ruling, where it may take a driver's license either through revocation or suspension. Left within the discretion of the department's discretion, where deprivation of license is not legal under the high court's ruling, are cases involving illegal transportation of liquor, conviction twice within a year of speeding more than 55 miles an hour or once for speeding more than 75 miles an hour and involvement in accidents resulting in death or injury or serious property damage where motorists are obviously at fault.

Motor Vehicles Commissioner Ed Scheidt has the answer, however, in this area and for any other cases where there is the least doubt: Let the State, which is responsible for the prosecution of these cases, refuse to accept nolo contendere pleas but insist upon trial. Conviction will lift the ban and make possible deprivation of license where public protection and safety on the highways call for deprivation. The way is clearly charted now, if only all law enforcement agencies, with ultimate emphasis on the courts, will join the Motor Vehicles Department in following it.

There is no compulsion whatever on the State to accept any or everybody's plea of nolo contendere in the defendant's obvious effort to escape what would be coming to him under a formal conviction. Rather the compulsion, as we see it, is to refuse such a plea and let every case be decided on the evidence.

Around Capitol Square

Senate Seat That Scott Seeks Has Had Fast Turnover

By LYNN NISBET
THREE UP — When Kerr Scott laid down two $100, two $20 and one $10 dollar bills and signed the necessary blanks he became the third legal candidate for the United States Senate. That happened at 9:30 Monday morning in the office of Raymond Maxwell, executive secretary of the State Board of Elections.

Previously W.M. Bostick of Cary had paid the filing fee for the full term and H.L. Sprinkle of Greensboro had qualified for both the short and long terms. The "short" term is the unexpired portion of the six year term to which J.M. Broughton was elected in 1948 and which Senator Alton Lennon is now filling by appointment in December of the November election are formally declared. Lennon has announced his candidacy for both, but to date has not paid the required fees.

TURNOVER — This seat in the Senate has had five occupants within a little more than five years. William Umstead was appointed by Governor Cherry upon the death of Senator J.W. Bailey in 1948 and served until displaced by Broughton in December of 1948. Broughton was elected for the remainder of the Bailey term and for a full six years in his own right. He died about two months after entering upon the full term and Governor Cherry appointed Frank Graham in his place. Graham was defeated in 1950 by Willis Smith, who served until his death in June of last year, when Governor Umstead appointed Lennon.

Under the law as now written executive appointments to elective office hold only until the next election. Since the term to which Broughton was elected in 1948 does not expire until January of 1955, and results of the election will be determined by official canvass in late November, it is necessary for candidates to file for the "short" term and to pay the same fee for a probable one-month tenure as they pay for the full six years.

A constitutional amendment is now pending to eliminate necessity for voting on the short term on occasions when the regular term runs out in December of January following the November election.

PLATFORMS — The late Judge Walter Siler said that any candidate running in a Democratic primary or on the party ballot in November who had his own individual "platform" was like a railroad passenger toting his own stool to board the train. Nevertheless, it has long been the custom for candidates to state their positions or enunciate their own "platforms." This is less important, perhaps, for congressional candidates than for those seeking State or county offices.

Candidate Scott has said he will not have a definite platform, but will discuss issues as they arise and is relying largely upon his belief that the people know his record as Governor and in other public offices.

Candidate Lennon, confessing a much shorter record, has indicated confident belief the people will approve the positions he took in two sessions of the General Assembly and in the United States Senate during the past six months.

Neither of these major candidates seems willing to accept the popular designation of liberal and conservative. Outline platforms that Lennon will get majority support from the so-called conservatives, while Scott is expected to have most of the so-called liberals in his camp. Both are misnomers and lines will be crossed, because in some respects Lennon is more liberal than Scott and Scott is more conservative than Lennon.

Candidate Sprinkle has said his primary objective will be to repeal a lot of laws and aid in passage of very few new statutes. He is reputed to have made a sizeable fortune in the gasoline distributing business by ingenious and independent methods which have been termed unorthodox by other distributors but have been unquestioned as to legality.

Candidate Bostick is paramounting an idea that might get him a lot of votes if he could convince the electorate he has a chance to win.

TAXES — All of the candidates are for economy in government and for such reductions in taxes as can be made without jeopardizing national safety and basic necessary public services. Bostick goes much further in his tax reduction plan. He points out that although the constitution of the United States does not put any limit upon the amount of income tax that can be levied against a corporation or an individual, the constitution of the State of North Carolina limits such levies to a maximum of 10 per cent of total income.

So, he figures, any North Carolina serving in the Congress, either as representative or senator, has a moral obligation to vote against any federal levy in excess of the State's constitutional limit of 10 per cent. Asked about such things as statutory and constitutional exemptions, and how

Business Today

Faster Depreciation

By ELMER ROESSNER
Except for direct cut in tax rates, probably no other proposal of the Eisenhower Administration promises to stimulate business more than the plan to permit more rapid depreciation of plant and equipment.

This proposal is not completely understood in some quarters. In the debate as to whether business or consumers should get first tax benefits, faster depreciation is in danger of being taken as some sort of gift to big business. It is, of course, not a gift or, if it is, it may be an expensive one. And it will benefit small business even more than it will aid big corporations.

As laws and rulings stand now, the rate at which plants and machines can be charged off is sharply limited. As President Eisenhower said, "Productions allowed, especially in the early years, are often below the actual depreciation." The head of a state is saying his government is cheating its citizens. "This discourages long-range investment on which the risks cannot be clearly foreseen," Mr. Eisenhower went on. "It discourages the early replacement of old equipment. And it makes it more difficult to secure financing for capital investment, particularly for small business organizations."

If Congress liberalizes the charge-offs for depreciation, a business, by writing off plant or equipment costs quicker, will tend to reduce its apparent earnings, and hence its taxes, during the early years. But by using its depreciation charges up sooner, it will tend to increase its apparent earnings in later years, after the cost of the facilities has been charged off. And if tax rates are higher in these later years, the business will actually be paying more than it can save during the early years. Yet at the same time, faster write-offs will encourage companies to replace machines and expand plants and medium-term profits.

DECLARATIONS LOADED, BUT CUSTOMS PROFITS
Japanese exporters have presented a curious problem to United States customs officials.

The Japanese Government has set minimum prices on many exports, to keep shoddy goods off world markets. Some of these minimums are not realistic, so the Japanese exports send more goods, or better quality goods, than their export documents call for. Sometimes the exporters pay rebates to the American purchasers.

The export declarations are technically fraudulent and the American importer is technically a participant. But since this "fraud" results in paying higher customs duties than would be necessary if the invoice prices were scaled down, there is no great rush to break up the practice.

DREAMED SALES FORECASTS MAY CREATE TROUBLES
The overenthusiastic general manager who sets unachievable sales quotas may be doing his firm a disservice, judging from a recent talk of S.B. Jurenev, assistant to the board chairman, Continental Oil Co. He told an American Management Association meeting that "dream" and "quota" types of sales forecasts may serve to keep sales efforts and competitive spirits at a high pitch, but they are useless in determining production schedules,

Futility Of Maxwell Bodenheims

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—The slaying of Maxwell Bodenheim, a futile poet and novelist, is a flamboyant epitaph to a Greenwich Village that is gone.

It is a kind of mortal farewell to a Bohemianism that died long ago, and for almost 25 years has become to the outsider a Manhattan tourist attraction. The tourists still feel they have to see Greenwich Village, just as they used to visit Grant's Tomb.

They go to Radio City now or visit the top of the Empire State instead of calling on Gen. Grant. But time doesn't dim the magic of some names. And so they still like to beam at the bums on the Bowery, gawk at the law-abiding chop suey oens of Chinatown that the late O.G. McIntyre pictured full of slant-eyed opium addicts—and they like to go to Greenwich Village, hoping to see the mad, bad, Bohemian artists at play.

The passing of poor Max Bodenheim is only the irony of the death, of a symbol. He came here out of the Chicago literary school, as did his arch rival, Ben Hecht, who co-authored "The Front Page," with Charles MacArthur, another Chicago newspaperman.

At one time they all were regarded as midwestern Bohemians. Then the roads went different ways. MacArthur married Helen Hayes after, so the legend, goes winning her heart by holding out some peanuts and saying, "I wish they were emeralds."

But both MacArthur and Hecht went on to hit the literary jackpot. Bodenheim never became popular. His life resolved itself, according to many critics, into a victory of alcoholism over a fine talent.

He settled in Greenwich Village and became a character in an out-of-date Bohemianism. He died of a .22 caliber bullet through the chest, and the saddest and perhaps the truest thing you can say of Maxwell Bodenheim is that the guy who pulled the trigger picked the right size gun to measure his final stature as a writer.

Max pulled the trigger on his own life long ago, or at least on the promise that his life held. And why he did it is his own secret, and our mystery.

John Masfield mopped a barroom floor in Greenwich Village and later became famous. Eugene O'Neill dreamed and loved and probably drank there. So did Edna Millay, Alexander Hamilton, Edgar Allan Poe, and a very eloquent living friend of mine named John Lardner, and a hundred talented others.

My wife and I, when young, lived for seven happy years next door to the home where once had dwelt Richard Harding Davis, the Ernie Fyle of his day, and three doors from the apartment house where Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt lived for a time, too. As a matter of fact, Ernie Fyle lived in Greenwich Village briefly, and was unhappy there.

Greenwich Village today is one of the nicest residential communities for some of the most solidly respectable people in America. It has a few of the fine restaurants in the land. It also has a few cheap tawdry night clubs that are a disgrace to it and the people who come there looking for "atmosphere."

They are tearing down Mark Twain's old home to put up a big apartment house. New York University, where Thomas Wolfe taught English by day and brooded and wrote at night, is gradually ringing Washington Square, the heart of Greenwich Village, and some oldtimers fear, turning it into a campus.

Real estate men say that one out of three young, eager, ambitious people who come to New York want to settle first in Greenwich Village. They seek inspiration and atmosphere, and being young, they think they can find it where other people they have heard of found these things before them.

But, accepting Greenwich Village as a symbol, did Maxwell Bodenheim ever find it, although he came here, lived here and died here? He became a Greenwich Village character for the tourists while the real Bohemians were enjoying Park Avenue.

The lesson of Bodenheim, certainly, is that the best address for a man's inspiration is his own mind, and that the home of any true artist is always his heart, where he really lives.

Can you become another Abraham Lincoln merely by moving to Springfield, Ill?

The End of the Century Club was most delightfully entertained on Tuesday by Mrs. J. T. Little at her home on Ayden Highway. A delectable luncheon was served to 18 members.

Following a short business session, Dr. A. D. Frank talked on the current situation in respect to the four-power conference, problems of East Germany, the proposed Bricker amendment, and the recession which is beginning to be felt throughout the country.

At the conclusion of the meeting, the members showered Mrs. Bancroft Moseley, and amid much merriment the gifts were opened and the original rhymes written by each member were read.

Taxpayer Obeys All Instructions

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—A taxpayer who apparently hired the services of an auditor in filing his income tax yesterday had employees of the Internal Revenue Service scratching their heads. They received a signed personal check for "none" dollars. Employees theorized the man was advised by an auditing firm: (1) Sign your name, (2) make out check for $ (here the auditor inserted the word "none") and (3) mail and return to Internal Revenue Service.

"He did exactly as told," a tax official said, "but I don't know what we'll do with the check."

Movie On History Of DuPont Industry Shown Book Club

The Semi-Cent Book Club met last night at the home of Mrs. Joe E. Brown in Elmhurst.

Mrs. Brown had as her guest Mr. H. R. Billica, research supervisor of the Kinston DuPont Co. Mr. Billica made a few introductory remarks concerning the DuPont Co. and expressed his pride in being a part of such a great organization and industry.

He presented to the 14 members present a full-length movie in technicolor which portrayed the history of the company beginning with the idea of a single man and a crude gun powder factory to the huge industry of today manufacturing hundreds of useful items.

Following the movie, Mr. Billica showed several suits, blouses, dresses and samples of material—some made of 100% Dacron and others which were a mixture of Dacron and another material. He mentioned that the company recommends that an article of clothing be made of at least 50% Dacron to be of top service. Most of the clothing shown had been worn numerous times without laundering or dry cleaning and they still held their crease.

The 100% Dacron suit can be washed in the washing machine and worn with little or no ironing. Mr. Billica and the hostess also passed around many items of interest concerning the local plant including the safety awards which Mr. Brown has received while working with the company.

In closing his remarks Mr. Billica stated that he had really given the members a review of the recently published book, "The DuPont Co. 140 Years."

Mrs. Brown and her daughter served spiced tea, sandwiches and cake.

Books were exchanged and the meeting adjourned.

Mrs. B. S. Warren was hostess to her bridge club Friday afternoon, having as an honor guest Mrs. R. M. Garrett.

Tables for games were arranged in the library and several interesting progressions were enjoyed.

Mrs. W. I. Wooten making the top score was presented a box of Whitman's candy, while Mrs. Garrett was also remembered with an attractive box of candies.

At the conclusion of the games a salad course was served.

'Lincoln Shrines' Is Subject For Club Program

Mrs. F. P. Brooks was hostess to the Literature Department of the Woman's Club Tuesday afternoon at her home on W. Fifth Street. The associate hostesses were Mrs. D. A. Blue and Mrs. Lois Everhardt.

Refreshments were served from a beautifully decorated table as the guests arrived. Mrs. W. H. Woolard poured coffee and Mrs. Paul Ricks served the ice course.

During the business meeting, the president, Mrs. Jesse Moye, announced that the list of books which the club members were to read this year could be found in the December issue of the club magazine. She urged each member to read these books.

Mrs. K. C. Brooks announced the workshop to be held at the college March 1, and a representative from each club is desired to attend. The subject, "The UN, the Best Instrument for Peace," will be discussed by a nationally known speaker.

The Americanism chairman of the Woman's Club, Mrs. Fred Hall, announced a dinner to be given at the club in March. Proceeds will go to the fund the club is raising for the restoration of Independence Hall, one of the club's state projects for the year.

Mrs. Moye introduced Mrs. Eva Harris who gave a very timely program on "Lincoln Shrines."

Mrs. Harris gave the itinerary of a trip she took through Kentucky, Indiana and Illinois following the historic Lincoln Trail. She traced the shrines from Lincoln's birthplace in Hodgenville, Ky. to the famous Lincoln Trail, the speaker related, is 435 miles in length extending through the three states mentioned.

Mrs. Harris in her charming and scholarly manner not only gave facts and details of the trip and descriptions of the shrines in the many places where Lincoln had lived, but she intrigued her audience with beautiful poetry, excerpts from Lincoln's biographies and with many quotations from Lincoln. Thus a travelogue was turned into an intense study of Lincoln and never was history made so interesting nor life of any man so entertaining.

The Story of Roses Is Shown For Aries Book Club

On Thursday evening, February 4, Mrs. Stephen Bartlett Jr. was hostess to members of the Aries Book Club at her home on Meade Street.

Miss Grace Outland presided and extended a welcome to the guests, Mrs. Frank G. Fuller, Mrs. Wendell Smiley, club sponsor, and Mr. Ralph Smiley.

Minutes were read by the secretary, Mrs. David Hardee Jr., and a report submitted by Mrs. M. L. Starkey, treasurer.

Following a brief business session the meeting was turned over to Mrs. Bartlett. With the assistance of Mr. Smiley, she presented for the enjoyment and enlightenment of the club the movie entitled, "The Story of Modern Roses." This was an informative story of rose research and culture of the famous J. & P. Roses at the Jackson-Perkins Rose Garden and Nursery in Newark, N. Y.

Roses have been the inspiration of poets, architects and composers and are linked with the history of religion. The first roses were fashioned from the dry fruit of this flower.

The U. S. now leads all countries in the art and culture of roses. There are more than 5,000 varieties today.

More than 50,000 experimental plants are used in the work of the Jackson-Perkins Nursery. Interesting facts were brought out as to the experience, knowledge and patience required in hybridizing to pollinize by hand, how to mass produce by budding, and of the birth of a rose from the original inspiration to final mass production.

Beautiful indeed were the pictures of all varieties of roses in their gorgeous, brilliant colors, including the hybrid tea, tree roses, and the climbers which camouflage and transform an ordinary backyard into a showplace.

Lovely scenes were shown of the annual "Ridides' Day Parade" in Newark, with lavish floats decorated with J. & P. Roses, one bearing the "Princess of Roses."

Over 500,000 people visit the 17 acre gardens annually where they see over 35,000 plants in bloom and hear informative lectures and radio broadcasts. It is indeed a book of knowledge on roses and a place of beauty.

At the conclusion of the program guests were served tasty refreshments from an attractively appointed dining room table. Miss Outland poured coffee.

Books were distributed during the enjoyable social hour which followed.

Aberdeen-Angus Field Day Set

The first 1954 Aberdeen-Angus Field-Day in Eastern North Carolina will be staged at the Pochontas Farm near Kinston March 5. Joint hosts for the event are Parrott Farms (Lenoir County) and Pochontas Farm (Jones Farm). The field day is sponsored by the North Carolina Aberdeen-Angus Association in cooperation with the Kinston Chamber of Commerce.

The event will begin at 10 a.m. March 5. Pochontas Farm is located nine miles East of Kinston on Highway 70.

The education event will stress the important factors of proper feeding, good management, and correct selection of beef cattle. The program will start at 10 a.m. with a type demonstration as conducted by Professor Lem Goode, of North Carolina State College. At 10:30 a.m., the 4-H Club and FFA Live-Stock Judging teams from Eastern North Carolina will participate in a Junior Judging Contest. Also, at the same time, there will be an adult contest.

Five classes of Angus will be judged, including three heifer classes and two bull classes. Prizes will be awarded to the winners.

After a lunch is served by the hosts, Dr. E. R. Barrick of N.C. State College, will give a feeding demonstration and a talk on beef cattle. Sam Buchanan, Beef Cattle Extension Specialist, will discuss "Beef Cattle Management".

The program will conclude with the official placing of Judging Class and the awarding of prizes as directed by Professor Lem Goode.

Traffic Down On N.C. Highways

RALEIGH (AP) — There was a slump in traffic on North Carolina's highways last month for the first time in 10 years.

James S. Burch, statistics and planning engineer for the State Highway Commission, reported that the state's 20 traffic count recorders showed about 3 per cent less traffic on the average day last month, compared with January, 1953.

Burch said this reversal "was undoubtedly due to the excessive rain, snow and ice in most sections of the state." He reported that traffic on rural roads showed a 9 per cent drop last month.

Urges No Delay 2 Million Drop On Soil Samples

G. Carl Scott, chairman of the Pitt County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, requested today that all farmers who are required to take soil samples in connection with ACP practices to rush their samples to the Soil Testing Laboratory State Agricultural Building, Raleigh.

Scott stated that farmers will get much better service if they desire lime requirements only by marking in large letters "Lime Only" on the outside of the mailing carton and also on the information sheet.

Scott said that the State Soil Testing Laboratory is running several weeks behind in analyzing soil samples submitted.

He said that the director of the State Soil Testing Laboratory has advised the local ASC office that a separate "assembly line" has been set up for testing soil samples for lime only. Samples marked in this manner will be processed through this special assembly line and the results will be returned much quicker than where the complete analyses are made, Scott emphasized.

Arson School To Be Held In City

CHAPEL HILL — A series of five schools on the investigation of arson and other unlawful burnings will be held throughout the state during the week of March 1-5.

The arson schools will be sponsored by the Institute of Government at the University of North Carolina in cooperation with the State Department of Insurance and the State Bureau of Investigation.

A meeting will be held in the courthouse in Greenville Friday, March 5, at 9:30 a.m.

FHA Supervisors Gather Thursday

Twelve county supervisors for the Farmers' Home Administration will meet here Thursday, along with the State field representative for this district and the farm management specialist from the State office, Ralph Harris of the local office announced today. The policy making sessions will begin at 9:30 a.m. and last through the day.

In addition to the 12 county supervisors, Marion C. Holland, State field representative and Ralph Turner, farm management specialist from the State office will attend the meet, Harris said.

Employment Has 2 Million Drop

WASHINGTON (AP) — There were 47,700,000 Americans at work last month in industry, trade, transportation and government—a drop of two million from December.

Reporting this yesterday, the Bureau of Labor Statistics attributed the decrease in nonfarm employment in part to seasonal factors.

However, BLS said a 300,000 drop in factory payrolls was "appreciably larger than usual" and the most severe for the season since the 1949 recession year.

While noting the effect of seasonal trends on employment in the lumber, food and miscellaneous manufacturing industries, BLS also said there were reductions in primary metals machinery, leather, transportation equipment and ordinance payrolls "not attributable to seasonal influences."

In the textile and apparel fields, where personnel reductions are customary at this time of the year, BLS said the drops recorded last month were bigger than usual.

Over-all, nonfarm employment last month was the largest of any January except last year, BLS said the drops recorded last month were bigger than usual.

Over-all, nonfarm employment last month was the largest of any January except last year BLS said. It was 646,000 below a year ago because of factory layoffs. January employment in nonmanufacturing industries, on the other hand, was the highest ever.

Pirates Clash With McCrary Eagles Tonight In Last Home Game Of Year

Contest Will Have No Bearing On Standing In North State Conference As Hodges Aims For Scoring Titles

By JIMMY ELLIS
Reflector Sports Writer

The last home appearance of the season is on tap for East Carolina College's Pirates who will meet McCrary's Eagles tonight in Memorial Gym. Tip-off time for the non-conference contest will be 8 o'clock.

The outcome of the game will have no bearing on the tight North State Conference flag chase that is shaping up between the Pirates and Lenoir-Rhyne's Bears. The Pirates are still in first place with a 12-1 record but the Bears enhanced their own position last night by wallowing Atlantic Christian. The victory last night gives Lenoir-Rhyne a 10-2 record with both of the defeats coming at the hands of the Pirates.

In tonight's game, the Pirates will be meeting one of the better semi-pro organizations in North Carolina. The Eagles are led by little Hilliard Nance, the former High Point College star. The remainder of the squad includes several former North State Conference players who are now employed by the big McCrary Mills in Asheville.

Center Bobby Hodges of the Pirates will continue his assault on two North State scoring records in tonight's game. Hodges is shooting for the conference scoring championship for a single season and the four-year mark. He already has a three-point edge on the single season record which is figured on a per-game-average basis, and he needs 225 points to set a new career mark.

Hodges' 26.1 average is the best in the conference through games of Monday night. The mark is exactly seven points better than the number two mark, 19.1 points per game turned in by Lenoir-Rhyne's Raeford Wells.

Hodges and teammate Charlie Huffman are the only two members of the East Carolina squad in the top ten conference scoring group. Huffman is ninth with a 14.9 average for the year.

Both Hodges and Huffman will start tonight for the Pirates. Freshman Don Harris will team with Huff at the forwards. Hodges will be at center, and J. C. Thomas and Cecil Heath will be the guards. All but Harris are averaging more than 10 points per game for the 15 contests the Bucs have played but Harris is close enough to the mark with a 9.9 average.

Some reserve assistance that has been lacking in the last three weeks might be available to the Pirates tonight. Paul Jones, the senior trouble-shooter from Thomasville who has been bothered by an ankle injury, might dress tonight. Jones has been out of action for three weeks with a sprained ankle and blisters on the injured joint.

Reserve Guard E. W. Bush will definitely sit out the game. He sprained his ankle in practice last Friday and has been unable to work since then. His place on the squad has been taken by Freshman Freddie Williams of Kinston.

After tonight's game, the Pirates will hit the road for their last three engagements. They will be at Elon Saturday night and then travel to High Point and Atlantic Christian next week. The High Point game will be played next Wednesday and the ACC game will be February 20 in Elm City where more spacious gym accommodations are available.

Both Bevo And Selvy Head For New Marks

NEW YORK (AP)—Bevo Francis and Frank Selvy, the hottest shots in college basketball, today appeared certain to break almost every available individual scoring record for the sport before the winter ends.

Francis, the book shot artist from tiny Rio Grande College in Ohio, is methodically demolishing the small college marks, while Selvy, a master of every shot except the hook, is climbing three years at Furman with a devastating assault on the major college records.

Bevo stuck his name on top of the record list for single-season totals last night by grabbing 59 points against Anderson, Ind. His performance gave him 988 in 20 games this season, 18 more than the old mark set by Johnny O'Brien of Seattle in 35 games in 1951-52.

The 6-9 Ohio sophomore with five games left is a cinch to wind up with the best single-season average, single-season total, two-year average and single-game high. He set the one game mark of 113 points just week.

Selvy, a 6-3 wizard, shines just as brightly against much tougher competition. He added 35 points last night against George Washington to his already record-breaking total for a three-year career which now stands at 2,046 points.

With a minimum of nine games to play—more if Furman gets lucky in the tournaments—Selvy also will establish a record average per game for a three-year career, for a single season and for any two seasons in addition to the best single-season total and best two-season total.

The only mark that apparently will elude the Southerner is the individual game high. His best so far is 63 last season against Mercer. The record is 73 by Temple's Bill Mikvy in 1951.

Bevo's spree last night paced Rio Grande to a 101-85 victory over Anderson but Selvy's scoring was in a losing cause as Furman dropped its first Southern Conference game 102-97 to the 10th ranking Colonials from Washington. Furman now has a 4-1 mark in the conference while George Washington is 8-0.

Three other members of the nation's top 10 were in action last night and like GW they all won. Sixth-ranking Notre Dame found Michigan State unexpectedly tough and had to stall through the final 35 seconds for a 74-71 victory.

Holy Cross, No. 9, smothered Springfield, Mass., 92-68, and eighth-ranking Seattle ran its winning streak to 24 after an opening game loss with an 85-72 conquest of Puget Sound.

Rice kept alive its title hopes in the Southwest Conference by whipping Texas A&M 61-47. The Owls meet league-leading Texas in Houston Saturday night and could tie for first by winning. Baylor virtually eliminated defending champion Texas Christian with a 63-56 decision.

A jump shot by Lester Lane from 30 feet out with two seconds to play gave Oklahoma an 80-78 Big Seven victory over Missouri. Wake Forest mopped up on Clemson 98-57 and Duke nipped North Carolina State 90-89 and a goal throw by Rudy Lacy and a goal throw by Don Tobin in the closing seconds in Atlantic Coast Conference games.

In other action Wichita won its 20th against three losses, 89-60 over Drake; Niagara routed Siena 74-50; Villanova edged Seton Hall 61-58; and Bradley beat De Paul 80-69.

Lang Leads To Overtime Win

JAMESVILLE — Ayden's Ham Lang scored five points in an overtime period here last night to lead the Belvoir-Falkland girls to a 45-43 win over Jamesville. The game was a Coastal Conference contest.

In a preliminary game, Jamesville's girls defeated Ayden, 47-41, despite a 26 point performance by Ayden's Wilma Stocks. That game, too, was a Coastal Conference affair.

In the boys game, Jamesville pulled a last minute rally to send the game into the overtime period with a 40-40 score. In the overtime, however, they had little chance because Lang went right to work in throwing in all the points Ayden needed to wrap up the game. Lang wound up as high scorer for Ayden with 17 points, two more than teammate Thomas Heath. Jamesville's Robert Modlin took high scoring honors for the night, however, with 18 points.

In the girls game, Jamesville led all the way to hand the Ayden girls their fourteenth loss of the season. Jamesville led 16-11 at the end of the quarter and 30-22 at the half. Brown, with 18 points, and Harrison, with 15 points, led the Jamesville scoring.

The victory in the boys game led Ayden with a 7-10 record for the year and a 7-4 record in Coastal Conference competition. The girls have a 3-14 overall mark and a 2-9 record in the Coastal Conference.

Ayden's next games will be Friday night when they meet Winterville in Ayden.

Belvoir-Falkland Sets New Record In 92-41 Victory

BELVOIR — Coach Ed Warren's Belvoir-Falkland Eagles broke their school scoring record Monday night when they routed Grifton High 92-41.

The previous school record was 79 points—this spree breaking the old record by 13 points.

In the opening game the local girls won a defensive battle 37-30.

The Belvoir quint was led by Gene Harris who contributed 30 of the 92 points. Bobby Bullock added 22. Jimmy McLawhorn with 11 and Wroth Craft with 10 were high scorers for Grifton boys.

Shirley Peaden led the winning Belvoir girls with 15 points. Dawn Smith led Grifton with 14 points. In previous games between the two schools the Grifton girls had won easily while the Belvoir quint took the game also.

Reflector sports writer Wayne Bishop went visiting yesterday. The high school junior who has been suffering from amnesia since January 19 was allowed to come uptown by himself yesterday afternoon for the first time since he suffered the fall which robbed him of his memory. He went to a movie and then visited friends at Greenville High School before returning to his home to catch up on his rest.

There is still little change in Wayne's condition. He is in good spirits but he still has no memory of events prior to January 19. He is described as being in "excellent" physical condition except for a slight soreness in his right knee, the one which collapsed and caused the fall in front of his Woodlawn Avenue home.

Pirates Play

East Carolina College's football Pirates are one of 10 grid teams scheduled to meet Appalachian's Mountaineers next fall.

The Pirates will meet Appalachian October 30 in Boone. The contest is one of five North State Conference games scheduled by the Boone school.

East Carolina is still trying to get its own schedule in order. The Pirates have a tentative schedule outlined but a couple of contracts will have to be signed and returned before the schedule is completed officially.

Dodgers, Yankees Once Again Shaping Up As Teams To Beat

By RIF WATSON
NEW YORK (AP)—If the Brooklyn Dodgers could beat the New York Yankees in October the way they do in February, they could fly a world champions' flag over Ebbets Field.

The Dodgers, as you may remember, have lost to the Yankees five times in five tries in the World Series, but they're running way ahead of the Yanks in the pen-and-ink department. With the signing of pitcher Carl Erskine yesterday, the Brooks completed contract negotiations with the top five pitchers within 12 days.

They now have 29 presumably contented players and first baseman Gil Hodges is the only unsigned regular.

The Yankees & Well, catcher Yogi Berra's signed document is in the Stadium safe, but the world champions have signed only 19 players in all. And most of the regulars have yet to come to terms.

Erskine, who set a World Series record when he struck out 14 Yankees in the third game of the '52 classic, reportedly received a substantial boost over his supposed pay last year of $18,000. The Indiana right-hander probably got around $25,000 for winning 20 and losing six last year.

The Dodger pitchers began failing in line Jan. 29 when Russ Meyer (15-5) agreed to terms. He was quickly followed by Billy Loes (14-8), Prescher Roe (11-3) and Don Newcombe, a 20-game winner for the Brooks in 1951 before entering the Army.

The Milwaukee Braves, winter book favorites as the strongest challengers to the Dodgers in '54, also took a long step toward solving their battery problems as right-hander Bob Buhl and Del Crandall, their No. 1 catcher signed contracts.

It was a remunerative day for the batterymen all around both leagues yesterday.

Other pitchers who signed up were Bob Turley, the Baltimore Orioles' promising young right-hander; Hector (Skinny) Brown, who had an 11-4 mark for the Boston Red Sox; Dave Koslo and Al Corwin of the New York Giants; rookie right-hander Tom Hurd of the Chicago White Sox, up with a 17-11 record from Memphis; and Al Aber and Bob Cruse of the Detroit Tigers.

Catchers signed in addition to Crandall were the veteran Walker Cooper who caught on with the Pittsburgh Pirates after his release from Milwaukee, and Forrest (Smoky) Burgess of the Philadelphia Phillies.

The Tigers also signed infielder John Baumgartner.

The Pirates released pitcher Jim Waugh to New Orleans to make room for Cooper, and the Red Sox optioned outfielder Gene Stephens to Louisville.

Chicago (AP) — Welterweights Chicago Vejar and Jed Black, a pair of former university students, tear into each other tonight in a nationally televised 10-rounder at Chicago Stadium.

Vejar, Stamford, Conn., battler who attended New York University, now is an Army corporal stationed at Ft. Benning, Ga. He is expected to be a 2-1 favorite by fight time at 10 p.m. EST.

Farmville Squads Split Two Games

FARMVILLE — Robersonville and Farmville divided a pair of Coastal Conference games here last night, with the local girls winning 65-59 and the visiting boys winning 55-53.

Edna Wooten proved the difference in the girls game as she poured 41 points through the hoops. Stevenson scored 28 for Robersonville. Teddy Allen led the Farmville boys with 16 points. Warren and S. Roberson of the winning boys scored 13 points each, but Everett was high for the winners with 20 points.

Bethel Wins Two

GRIMESLAND — Bethel's league leading team took a pair of games from Grimesland High here Monday night.

In the opening contest the visiting girls defeated the local sextet 102-51. The feature contest was won by the visitors 68-59.

Carrie Ayers paced the winning girls to their victory by dropping in 41 points. Corrine Briley added 32 and Mary Jo Wynne scored 27. Joy Lewis was high for Grimesland with 21 points. Becky Mills added 14.

Michael House led the winning boys with 17 points. Bobby Andrews scored 14 for Grimesland.

Duke Takes Over No. 2 Position

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Duke's Blue Devils, no longer a stranger in the paradise that was once North Carolina State's Reynolds Coliseum, had second place in the Atlantic Coast Conference in their hip pocket today as proof they have found their way.

Coach Hal Bradley took his racehorse five by the hand last night and led them to a frantic 90-89 victory over State. The win firmly entrenched Duke (5-1) in second. The showdown comes next week when third-place Wake Forest (6-2) meets first place Maryland (6-1) and Duke follows against the Terps the next night.

It was the first time in several years that a Duke basketball team has beat the Wolfpack in two regular season games. Earlier, Duke whipped State in Durham, 87-85.

Bernie Janicki was high for Duke with 25 points. But Rudy Lacy bucketed two free throws in the waning seconds and Don Tobin the winning basket. Ronnie Shavlik had 31 points for the Wolfpack.

The win undoubtedly will improve Duke's 15th national rating and will drop State from its 19th position.

Wake Forest had little trouble with last place Clemson. Center Dickie Hemric led the Deacons with 28 points followed by Lefty Davis with 21. The 98-57 win left Wake third in the ACC with a 6-2 record. Clemson has yet to win in six league starts.

Short Form Simplifies Filing N.C. Income Tax

RALEIGH — "North Carolina taxpayers may take a blanket deduction of 10 per cent on 1953 returns if they are qualified to use the convenient new short form D-400A," State Revenue Commissioner Eugene Shaw pointed out today.

This new condensed form for filing State income tax was provided by the 1953 General Assembly. It may be used only by those taxpayers whose income consists of salaries, wages, commissions, and interest or dividends.

If the taxpayer's income was received from sources other than these, he must use the regular long form, D-400, which has been in use since the State levy was made on income, back in 1921.

If the taxpayer had sources of income other than those described above, and he uses the long form, he must follow the same pattern as in years past. Both husband and wife must qualify for the use of the short form before either can file on it; otherwise, both must use long forms.

Joint returns of husband and wife may be filed only if their joint income is derived from the same source or sources, and such income cannot be separated.

Some examples of income which cannot be filed on the short form include: Income from rentals, profit from sale of real property, profit from sale of stocks and bonds, annuities, professional occupations income from ownership and operation of a business or farm. This is the case even though the taxpayer may also have income from salaries or wages which would otherwise be subject to use of the short form.

If the long form must be used, the taxpayer is entitled to deduct all of his professional or business expenses and may deduct such personal expenses as contributions to religious and charitable organizations, certain personal taxes, personal interest charges paid, medical expenses which exceed 5 per cent of his net income, and other personal expenses deductible under the law. "A taxpayer cannot claim the standard 10 per cent deduction if required to file the long form," the Commissioner asserted.

Commissioner Shaw commented on the action of the General Assembly in providing for the simpler short form:

"It was the intention of this legislation to eliminate the necessity of non-business persons' keeping book and records on their income and allowable deductions, and thus make easier the filing of their State income tax returns."

Houses Carried Away From Fire

RIO BRAVO, Mexico (AP)—Houses picked up by volunteer workers were removed from the path of a raging fire that destroyed nearly a block of business buildings last night.

A group of nearly 90 men picked up the small one-room and two-room houses from their foundations and carried them to safety in this small border city.

Terms Security Question Biggest In Nation Today

MITCHELL, S. D. (AP)—The question of security today "is red hot," and should be, says R. W. Scott, McLeod, security and personnel administrator for the State Department.

"Many people think that security is being overplayed at the present time," McLeod told a Republican Lincoln Day banquet audience here last night.

"I think it should be. For security is like a pendulum. It swings one way for a time and then the other. It has been so underplayed in the last few years that it must be emphasized now."

McLeod is scheduled to speak at other, similar Republican rallies tonight at Worland, Wyo., Thursday and Lander, Wyo., and Friday at Watertown, S. D.

He said here that the Democrats were "playing their old numbers game" in demanding a breakdown of the 2,000 security risks the Eisenhower administration announced it has fired.

"So far as these firings go," McLeod said, "I don't think the people are concerned with any breakdown—they don't care if they were drunks, perverts or Communists—they just want us to get rid of them."

When he took office, McLeod said he thought there was a central filing system in the administrative section of the State Department.

"But when we made a check," he went on, "118 filing cabinets were in the central filing room and 199 cabinets were out in other offices."

"Now we have the files together and are trying to do something about all this information that has been collected over the years and about which nothing was done."

He added that 20,000 files also were missing from the Justice Department and said that the Truman administration had had the opportunity to prosecute those responsible under the espionage act.

"But they didn't do it," he said. "I don't know why they didn't, because the proper agencies knew all about those cases. I wish those people (the Democrats) would stop hollering 'smear' and tell us the truth about things."

Swapped Names And Citizenship

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP)—Miss Evelyn Fischer, 25, changed her name and nationality at the same time. Born on a British liner four days before it docked in Boston, she was named Carmania in honor of the vessel.

She recently found out she was a

British citizen after believing for years that her father's naturalization as an American included her. And she had never liked the name Carmania anyway. So the judge also legalized the swap of the name Evelyn for Carmania.

ZEBULON, N. C. (AP)—Gov. Umstead was the principal speaker here yesterday at dedication ceremonies for a new $100,000 armory named in honor of the late Lt. Eric F. Davis.

V. A. MERRITT & SONS
318 Evans Street Greenville, N. C.

Feb. 1, 1954

The Zenith Corporation, Chicago, Illinois

Dear Sirs:

We think that it is fitting at this time to write all of you in the Zenith Corporation expressing our thanks and appreciation for the superlative product you have produced during the past few years, the dynamic Zenith Television sets.

Although V. A. Merritt & Sons is known throughout the larger Greenville area for its "name" brands of appliances, we honestly feel that Zenith TV is the most superior product so far produced by a manufacturer, regardless of the type of appliance manufactured.

The people of the City of Greenville also feel the same about Zenith. Greenville is sold on Zenith to the point that more Zeniths are sold and installed in the Greenville area by us than all other makes combined!

Of course there must be reasons for Zenith's outstanding popularity. When a customer walks into V. A. Merritt & Sons store shopping for a TV, he is immediately struck by the glittering beauty of the Zenith cabinets. The gleaming golden fronts of the Zeniths catch his eye at once. And he knows and we know that the Zenith is the "Miss America" of the TV industry.

But cabinet looks will not get you extraordinary pictures, as all of us well know! Within that Zenith cabinet is housed the most powerful TV chassis in the industry. Big, tough transformers (that make your set last YEARS longer!), moulded bakelite condensers and resistors instead of paper-wound, wax-covered types, high-gain circuits, etc. etc., all join together to produce the best TV receiver in the business.

And the price! Basically, all Zenith TV's are the same, and if a family cannot afford a more expensive set, and must settle for the $199.95 Zenith, he is getting almost exactly the same machine as the $339.95 Zenith, except the cabinet and tube size. This is important to the cautious buyer, because he does not want to sacrifice picture quality for price. And Zenith does not ask him to do so.

And that is why V. A. Merritt & Sons has repeatedly challenged the competition to produce a TV that will perform as well as the $199.95 Zenith, regardless of the price of the other set. Our challenge reads as follows to the prospective customer:

"Take a $199.95 Zenith and install it in your home. Now, have any other brand placed beside Zenith. Just to satisfy yourself, choose a TV that will cost $400 or more. IF THE ZENITH DOES NOT OUT-PERFORM THE COMPETING SET, JUST CALL V. A. MERRITT & SONS, AND WE'LL PICK UP THE ZENITH. NO OBLIGATIONS, NO CHARGES FOR THE ZENITH!"

Your 1953 Zeniths were positively great, but the 1954's are even greater! We honestly don't see how you can make a better set. Our customers feel the same, for after all, our best ads on Zeniths are our satisfied customers and not newspaper ads.

So, Mr. Zenith Corporation, that's the purpose of this letter. To thank you for everything during the past year, and to urge you to all keep up your superlative work in manufacturing the finest TV made on the market today.

Sincerely, with best wishes,
V. A. MERRITT & SONS

Objectives Outlined By Pactolus Ruritan

PACTOLUS—The Pactolus Ruritan Club, at its supper meeting last Monday night, outlined eight objectives for 1954, the principal aim being to win all district awards and expand community service. President B.W. Baker presided.

Two new members were welcomed. They are Jimmy Whichard, Route 5, Greenville and Gullford Lewis of Pactolus. John Lasgley was approved for membership and he will be inducted at another meeting.

Noel Lee reported progress on erection of a shelter from the Pactolus school building to the school cafeteria. Plans provide for early completion of the project. Ruritan G.E. Cherry reported that progress is being made on the project to purchase a fire-fighting truck for Pactolus.

J.P. Davenport delegate to the recent Ruritan National convention in Washington, D.C., made a report of the proceedings.

The Pactolus Ruritan Club's objectives for 1954 are:

1. Improvement of the club especially membership; program, community service and finance.
2. Sponsoring purchase of a fire truck for the Pactolus community, and organizing a volunteer fire department.

4. Sponsoring a better livestock program in the community.

5. Sponsoring a corn contest in the Pactolus community.

7. Strive to win all district awards in 1954, and 8 to fill in the old abandoned cesspool at Pactolus School.

Guests of the club were: D.M. Moore, L.J. Singleton, C.J. Dixon and Vernon Weatherington, all of Route 3, Washington; J.B. Barnhill, Route 5, Greenville, and Rev. J.S. Klick, pastor of Tranter's Creek Christian Church.

The Ruritan Club voted to entertain the seniors and school bus drivers of Stokes-Pactolus High School at a meeting in the near future.

Two Agencies Provide U.S. Top Economic Guidepost

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP)—One of the best thermometers for showing the state of the nation's economy is the government's figures on the number of people employed and jobless.

Every month the government produces a fresh batch of figures. How does it get them? They're collected by two government agencies: the Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS) and the Census Bureau.

The BLS does it by mail and the Census Bureau by knocking on doors. The two agencies work independently of each other.

The BLS covers less ground. Its surveys don't include farmers, domestic workers, the self-employed and unpaid family workers. The Census Bureau takes in practically everybody.

The BLS has an arrangement with about 155,000 employers who send in every month a report on the number of people on their payrolls. Comparing this with previous months' figures shows whether employment is up or down.

These reporting employers range from steel mills, auto plants, mines, banks, insurance companies, railroads, gas and electric companies, street car lines and even beauty parlors to the government itself, a big employer.

Once a month, in the week containing the eighth day of the month the Census Bureau sends 300 paid people around to 25,000 homes in 66 counties, including the country's 21 largest metropolitan areas.

These census-takers—called enumerators—go out with a prepared list of questions and cover an estimated 48,000 individuals 14 years or older living in the 25,000 homes.

If that seems a small number of homes and individuals on which to draw conclusions about total employment and unemployment in a country the size of this, the Census Bureau says:

When unemployment reaches around two million for example, its estimate on the total number unemployed will not be off by more than 150,000, and when employment hits around 60 million, its estimate will not be off by more than 350,000.

The government doesn't have the means of making a check on every individual every month. But both agencies have a guide or measuring stick—economists call it a benchmark—for checking the approximate accuracy of their estimates.

This means that at some time in the past they had actual figures covering individuals nationwide.

The last time BLS made a benchmark was in the first quarter of 1951 when it got what it considers a complete count on employment and unemployment from social security and unemployment insurance records for workers covered by its survey. BLS is now making a similar check on the first quarter of 1953.

The last time the Census Bureau made a benchmark, or head-by-head count was when it took the national census in 1950.

Peter Lorre Fed Up With Horror Roles

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The title of this story is "The Ghoul Goes West," or, "Creep in the Heart of Hollywood."

It concerns my favorite living Charles Addams character, Peter Lorre, who is back in filmville after a considerable absence. A little man with a large sense of humor, he takes a wry view of his own fortunes.

Lorre left town four years ago for a number of reasons. For one thing, the film business was in a slump. Also, he had long wanted to set up his own film team to make movies but couldn't manage to do it here. But most of all he wanted to escape being a Peter Lorre type.

"I don't want to bore you with that story," the actor said kindly. "Surely you must be fed up with actors telling you how they want to escape playing a certain type. It is the most banal of interviews."

"But alas, it was true in my case. I couldn't play anything but a Peter Lorre character. I didn't care for that. If I wanted to remain one character I could still be playing Mr. Moto. In 1938, I made nine of the Mr. Moto pictures in one year! The studio (20th Century-Fox) would have loved to have me continue, but I just couldn't see it."

Having started as a killer in "M," Peter returned to menace. Starting with "Maltese Falcon," he teamed in several pictures with the late Sydney Greenstreet. Their target was generally Humphrey Bogart.

Lorre became a great favorite, particularly with night club imitators.

His European jaunt helped him vacate the pigeonhole Hollywood had stuck him into. He realized his ambition of setting up his own production team and made "The Lost One" in Germany. It has already won a number of international awards.

He made a couple of films in England and then teamed up with his old "Maltese Falcon" pals Bogart and John Huston, in "Beat the Devil," which was filmed in Italy.

"That one was a healthy departure from my Hollywood roles," he commented, "and so is my next picture. I'm going to do '20,000 Leagues Under the Sea' for Walt Disney, and the role is not a heavy at all."

He will probably go to Nassau for locations on that one and then may return here for another film with Bogart, "Angels Cooking." That's Paramount's version of the Broadway hit "My Three Angels." After that, he may return to Europe for another film with his own team. But he emphasized that Hollywood will remain his home base.

had stuck him into. He realized his ambition of setting up his own production team and made "The Lost One" in Germany. It has already won a number of international awards.

He made a couple of films in England and then teamed up with his old "Maltese Falcon" pals Bogart and John Huston, in "Beat the Devil," which was filmed in Italy.

"That one was a healthy departure from my Hollywood roles," he commented, "and so is my next picture. I'm going to do '20,000 Leagues Under the Sea' for Walt Disney, and the role is not a heavy at all."

LAUREL, Miss. (AP)—Officials at a camellia show were discussing whether an out-of-town guest would drive back to pick up the door prize, a 100-pound camellia plant.

Disgruntled at the delay, one observer remarked, "You'd think there was somebody from Istanbul registered."

The first drawing produced the name of Miss Bessie Ellington of nearby Hattiesburg, so a second name was drawn in case Miss Ellington declined to return for the prize.

The alternate was M. Deha Vorkud, a visitor from Istanbul Turkey.

Vorkud won't have to worry, however. Miss Ellington picked up the plant yesterday.

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Charlotte Call, Oklahoma City University coed, placed an ad in the student paper seeking to locate the following lost items:

A fountain pen, eye glasses, two mechanical pencils, a suitcase, purple formal, one shoe billfold, a $3 check, two cornets, a pajama bottom, long handles and a white shirt.

"It's normal for a girl to lose these things," she explained.

Wholesale, once was worth $10.00 a ton.

The Doctor Disagrees

By Elizabeth Selzer

SYNOPSIS
Dr. Stephen Carr is about to leave his native Norfolk in the mid-west, for Army duty in the Pacific. He has arranged with his old friend, Dr. Craig Talbot, a skilled physician, to come to Norfolk from a distant city for the purpose of taking over the Carr medical practice. Talbot arrives and is warmly greeted by Carr and his gracious wife, Shelly, at dinner in their home. Shelly is struck by the dark handsome Talbot's dynamic force, his charm and sense of humor and especially by his generally had opinion of the medical profession as a whole. Fearfully, she wonders whether her husband's patients will find this blunty frank nonconformist, acceptable as their doctor. Carr leaves for his mission to the Orient and Dr. Talbot promptly dismisses Carr's long devoted office clerk, Miss Cobb.

CHAPTER NINE
TALBOT probably didn't know how hard it would be to replace Miss Cobb. Maybe Shelly herself would have to fill in—Her face brightened. Why, what a wonderful idea! Her days then would be full, and she could perhaps sleep better at night not so achingly aware of her loneliness. She selected a plain dress of dark blue, thin flannel, and laid out a coat of red fleece, a little helmet hat. She ate breakfast quickly, de-cidied again—and ineffectually—that she must discharge Harry and Dorina; their attitude was insufferable, and she was sure they "toted" altogether too much home from the kitchen!

She didn't need both man and wife now that she entertained so little. And if she went to the office every day—
Shelly had to drive past the hospital to reach the pretty little cottage office which had been Stephen's. His name still hung in gold and black over the door, now with Dr. Craig Talbot's shingle below it.
She pulled her car into the place where Stephen had always put his, and withdrew the keys, dropping them into her red purse as she got out. She looked up to find that Dr. Talbot was standing at the entrance. White coat, dark hair, brightly questioning eyes—it was time for office hours and he should have been busy!

"Hello, Shelly," he said warmly. "You don't come around nearly often enough."
"Have I been needed?"
She shook hands with him, and followed him into the building. A dozen patients sat in chairs in the rooms to either side of the hall; the nurse's white cap was just over the reception desk. "I just came to see if I could help you, Doctor," Shelly said quickly, almost breathlessly. This was her first visit to the place since Stephen had left. And . . .

"That's very kind of you." He waited, cool now, and noncommittal.
Oh, dear; Shelly had known from the first that this man could be difficult—when he wanted to be. She looked up at him earnestly. "What's wrong here?" she asked, almost in a whisper. "What was the trouble?"
He indicated his private office, and she went in; he followed her and closed the door. They sat opposite each other.
"There's been no actual trouble, Shelly."
"But Miss Cobb phoned me and said—"
"Ah, yes!" He tipped his head to one side, and smiled enigmatically. "Miss Cobb," he said. "She's left!"
His tone conjured up Miss Cobb's prim presence. No longer young, and very earnest—
"Did you fire her, Dr. Talbot?"
The smile strengthened. "Let's say she departed by mutual agreement."
"Oh, dear! Stephen found her very efficient."
"So did I! So did I! But when I want to be ha-er-iden, I'll get married and have some of the advantages of that condition."
Shelly murmured, "Stephen . . ." she murmured.
"Miss Cobb was—in love with your husband," Dr. Talbot spoke roughly. "Not in a fleshy sense. She adores him! That's her term and it is apt. She—in no sense—is in love with me." His voice was as soft as cotton. "She hates me!" he said happily.
The phone buzzed, and he snapped a button. "Five minutes!" he told the nurse. "I know—we'll all be late." He shut off the intercom.

During the interruption, Shelly sat politely withdrawn. He's very handsome in his white coat, her errant thoughts remarked. It's a matter of his dark, strong-looking skin—his thick neck and jaw—his hand . . . She pulled herself together with a jerk.
"You're such a pretty girl," he said after a moment of silence. "How Carr could be patriotic enough to go off . . ."
Shelly took a deep breath. "You've patients waiting, Doctor, and I came here to see if I could help, not to get in the way."
He sighed. "Yes, we should get this matter of Miss Cobb taken care of, shouldn't we? Not that she had any real point of disagreement. Shelly! There is only one reason to have two waiting rooms—it balances the looks of the place. But that woman used those two rooms to divide our callers into sheep and goats. Now, don't you think that's silly?"

Shelly ventured to glance at him. "On what basis did she divide them?" she asked warily.
"Snobbish grounds, of course. If she had distinguished between contagious and non-contagious—But u, no! Our late departed Miss Cobb put society into one room, plant workers in the other!" He tipped back in the chair and waited for Shelly to be horrified, or amused.
She was neither. She calmly waited for him to continue and she saw a spark of fire snap in his eyes.
"I consider it highly therapeutic," he said impressively. "For Eleanor Walsh to have to sit for 30 minutes beside a clay puddler fresh from his job."
Eleanor! Shelly bit down a laugh, but she thought her cheeks had probably gone pink. Craig Talbot was attractive in a white coat; in a surgeon's mask and gown, he would be . . . Her cheeks flaming, she made a deliberate effort to control her imagination. Women did get silly over the outward attributes of a doctor's profession but she—a doctor's wife!

"Prewett doesn't mind," Dr. Talbot was saying in an argumentative tone. "Why in the world should she?"
"Oh, do you know the Reverend Mr. Prewett?" she asked inconsequentially.
"Of course I know him. I live near him, and he's a patient. Duodenal ulcer. But as I was saying—though you weren't listening—"
"I was listening," she insisted. "You were saying that you had started out to offend all the conventions of this town."

Now the spark in his eyes was unmistakable, and, back on safe ground, Shelly laughed.
"Can't I sit out at the desk this morning?" she asked earnestly. "I can receive patients, and answer the phone—and let the nurse be free to help you."
He nodded briskly, pressed the buzzer and the nurse—Miss Browne—came in. Red-headed crisp—not pretty, but most attractive in her white cap and uniform.

Cases Heard Monday By Greenville Police Court
By CHESTER WALSH
In Police Court Monday, Judge Charles H. Whedbee found William Matthews, 1127 South Evans street, guilty of driving without an operator's license, hit and run driving, and driving a motor vehicle while drunk.
For not having an operator's license, the court gave Matthews 30 days on the roads, (to run concurrently with the other sentence), suspended on payment of $15 on court costs.
On the hit and run driving charge, the court gave Matthews 60 days on the roads, sentence to be suspended on condition that he make adequate restitution for property damage to Elmer Haddock and Walter R. Galney. The judgment also provides that Matthews is not to operate a motor vehicle for two years and it recommends that his driver's license be revoked for two years.
Matthews was given 60 days on the roads (to run consecutively) or driving while drunk. Sentence is to be suspended on payment of $100 and court costs. The judgment also provides that Matthews is not to drive a motor vehicle for two years (concurrent).
The case charging Matthews with auto larceny, was not prossed.
Adell Heath, who is charged with false registration at two hotels and fornication and adultery, was called and she failed to answer to her name. A capias was issued to bring her into court, but if she remains away two years, the capias will not be served. In the same case, Shady Strickland, who was charged with disorderly conduct and fornication and adultery, the court ruled that the capias will not be issued against him if he remains away from Greenville two years.
Drunk: Amos Byrd, $10, and the charge of skipping a board bill was not prossed; William Smith, $15; Joe Dixon, Negro, $10; Jesse Eveyett, $10.
Katherine Cherry, Negro, 306-A Elk street, possession of non-tax paid whiskey 30 days in jail, suspended on payment of $25, costs deducted.
James Stephenson, Negro, assault on a female (wife), case continued to—
Fred Taft, Negro, non-support, 60 days in jail, suspended on payment of $5 a week for support for his child beginning February 13, 1954. This cause was retained for further order.
Charles T. Rogers of Tarboro, driving drunk, prayer for judgment continued on payment of $100 and costs, and the judgment also provides that he shall not drive a car for a year. The court also recommended that his driver's license be revoked for a year.
Dalton E. Jones, $15 for not having an operator's license.
Speeding: Odell Hyde, Negro, $20, costs deducted; Jarvis Proden, Negro, $15; Major M. Smith of Tarboro, $20, costs deducted.

Morgan H. Hutchinson, defective equipment, prayer for judgment continued on payment of $15 on court costs, and he is not to drive a car without good brakes.

Can Have Horse On Texas Terms

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—The little Minneapolis schoolgirl with a yen for a Texas horse can have one if she comes to Texas after it and rides it home.
The offer was received by Secretary of State Howard Carney today from West Texas rancher Guy H. Tomlinson of San Angolos and Tulla.
Andrea Michalik wrote the secretary of state last week seeking a "sample" of Texas. She said she would prefer a horse and enclosed a dime for postage.
"There must be some ranchman who has so many he can spare me one," she wrote.
Tomlinson told Carney he has a surplus of horses, including one for Andrea. But Andrea will have to claim the mare at his ranch in Tulla and ride her home, he said.

Found Son Was In Gun Battles

BALTIMORE (AP)—The father of a 14-year-old boy complained to police yesterday about bullet holes he found in his kitchen door.
Police investigated and found that his son had been staging gun battles with a 15-year-old friend. They used homemade "zip" guns, fashioned from a toy gun, and dum-dum bullets—.22 caliber bullets with the rounded ends sawed off.
The younger boy was rated an expert zip-gun maker, with a standing offer to convert 79-cent toy guns for $1 apiece.

New Hair Style For Mrs. Hobby

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Welfare Oveta Culp Hobby has a new hair style these days.
She used to wear her hair braided over her head or in a bun at the back. Now she wears it shortened in a sort of loose wave.
The new style became evident when pictures were made yesterday of Mrs. Hobby congratulating Victor Christgau of Minnesota as he was sworn in as director of the Bureau of Old Age and Survivors Insurance.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—Small and irregular price changes today marked the course of the stock market. There was just about an even division between gains and losses in the list with moves either way effectively covered by a point.

There was moderate activity in New York Central at fractionally higher prices after it started on a block of 2,600 shares up 1/4 at 21 3/4. New York Central was the target today of a move by Robert R. Young to get control of the road and be named chairman of the board.

RKO Pictures was active in blocks of 3,000 to 25,000 shares at 5 1/4 up 1/8. The stock made a spectacular surge ahead Monday after Howard Hughes offered $6 a share for outstanding shares.

Aircrafts and railroads displayed early rising tendencies along with rubbers, but they fell back as groups when minus signs began to appear. The steels, motors and chemicals were mostly lower. Other divisions held rather steady. Higher stocks included Baltimore & Ohio, Texas Pacific Land Trust, Boeing and Lockheed. Lower were Chesapeake & Ohio, Allied Chemical, U. S. Steel, General Motors, and Douglas Aircraft.

President Sent Bill To Give CCC $681 Million

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress has sent to President Eisenhower a bill carrying 681 million dollars to keep the government's farm price support program going but it is on notice a lot more money will be needed soon.

The House approved the measure quickly on voice vote yesterday. The Senate, after three hours of debate, passed it, 49-10.

However, Chairman Aiken (R-Vt.) of the Senate Agriculture Committee advised his colleagues the 681 million probably would run the Commodity Credit Corp. (CCC) only about four weeks. House sponsors said it might last seven or eight weeks.

Aiken said in an interview he would press for action soon on a bill to give CCC 1 1/2 billion dollars more by boosting its borrowing authority from the present 6 1/2 billion to 8 1/2 billion.

This measure has been approved by Aiken's committee. The Senate Republican Policy Committee has cleared it for floor action.

The Vermont senator also cautioned that CCC, which finances the farm price props, probably will have to ask for even more money by next summer.

The sharp rise in CCC obligations has been caused by a tremendous increase in the volume of commodities put under loan by farmers in recent months in the face of sagging prices.

The bill now on Eisenhower's desk reimburses CCC for losses it has suffered in the past year. About 550 million of the 681 million total is for estimated losses on farm price support operations, the biggest being on wheat, corn and butter. The bill technically cancels CCC notes to the Treasury for 681 million, which has the effect of replenishing the agency's capital by that amount. The CCC originally asked for cancellation of 741 million dollars worth of notes. The House approved, but the Senate cut the amount sharply. The version cleared yesterday is a compromise.

Aiken told the Senate the CCC needs money quickly because it now is out of funds. But he said Congress this session should "work out a program that won't let us get in this fix again." He said Eisenhower's recommendation for flexible price supports "points the way out of our dilemma."

Steer Provided Thrills For City

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—"Sir," the citizen phoned the desk sergeant, "there's a big bull standing in my street."

Squad car 50 sirened to residential Longview Heights. Squad car 50 radioed for help.

That triggered a wild two-hour chase involving a fleet of police cars, dozens of private automobiles and a big share of the South Memphis populace.

The steer—no bull—led the horde of motorized coked through a square-mile maze of streets last night.

It thrilled hundreds of young cowboy fans. It frightened mothers.

It came within inches of goring two newspapermen, two cops and a Humane Society officer.

It butted a police squad car head-on, smashing the grill.

Several spine-tingling escapades later the steer keeled over dead from exhaustion and was hauled away.

Truck Damaged By Trash Fire

A Sutton's Service Center truck received considerable damage yesterday when it caught fire from a trash fire at the city dump.

Fire department officials reported that the cab of the vehicle was considerably damaged by the fire.

Firemen were also called to 1004 East Rock Spring Drive yesterday where a grass fire broke out. The blaze was quickly extinguished with no damage resulting.

Agree Livestock Profits Steady

RALEIGH (AP)—For farmers who are determined to do a good job, livestock is paying off in North Carolina despite price drops.

Bank and agricultural representatives agreed on this at the third annual mid-winter livestock symposium held here yesterday. It was sponsored by the North Carolina Bankers Assn.

The representatives also agreed that loans to determined farmers who plan carefully and want to stay in the livestock business are one of the soundest investments banks can make.

Approximately 300 persons from throughout the state attended. Dr. D. W. Colvard, dean of North Carolina State College's School of Agriculture, told the group that North Carolina's cash income from livestock has increased 504 per cent since 1940. He said cash sales of livestock in 1952 totaled 205 million in 1950. Colvard pointed out that livestock offers the best way to utilize much of North Carolina's idle land.

Wayne A. Corpening of Winston-Salem, farm representative of Wachovia Bank & Trust Co., said livestock is paying off for farmers in greater income, use of idle acres more effectively, soil conservation, year-round use of farm labor, better health, better distribution of farm income, and stabilizing the farm economy.

Sanford To Run Scott Campaign

RALEIGH (AP)—Former Gov. W. Kerr Scott has named Terry Sanford, young Fayetteville lawyer and state senator, as his campaign manager for the U. S. Senate race.

Scott announced the appointment of Sanford at a news conference yesterday. Sanford, 36, told newsmen: "We're going to make this one of the cleanest campaigns ever conducted in North Carolina. I will assure you of that. We intend to be frank and candid all the way through this campaign."

Sanford, a native of Laurinburg and a graduate of the University of North Carolina, is a former president of the State Young Democratic Clubs. He was a special agent for the FBI in 1941-42 and served as a paratrooper in World War II.

Sanford and Scott were together at the Carolina Hotel when the former governor made his announcement. This is expected to be the site of Scott's state headquarters. He made it his headquarters when he ran for governor six years ago.

Sanford's appointment was not a surprise, since he has been conducting a "political survey" for Scott for several weeks. Sanford said he had traveled into about 30 counties.

Estimates U.S. A-Bomb 'Edge'

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP)—The Swedish army chief of staff reported today that the United States is believed to have a stock of "considerably more than 1,000 atomic bombs" and the Soviet Union "might have some 100 atomic weapons of both light and heavy types."

The statement by Gen. Richard Akerman made in a survey of East-West resources in the event of war, was published on the front pages of several Swedish papers.

More Than 200 Attend Boy Scout Father-Son Banquet

More than 200 people last night attended the annual Boy Scout Father-Son banquet of the Pitt district held at the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church here.

The Rev. W. Howard, Jr., pastor of the Jarvis Memorial Church, was the principal speaker at the annual affair, and urged boys and their fathers to share their common problems.

"A boy needs to know that his dad is on his side when it comes time to decide any problem," Rev. Howard said. At some time, he added, a son comes to his father in need of advice and counsel, and if the father does not give his son the answers he needs, the boy will find the answers somewhere else and they may be the wrong answers.

Rev. Howard pointed out that this week marks the 44th anniversary of the beginning of the Boy Scout movement in the United States, and said the movement now has two and one-half million boys, 89,000 individual units, and 750,000 adult volunteer workers.

Scouting, the speaker said, develops boys physically, mentally, morally and spiritually. Judge Charles Whedbee, chairman of the court of awards for the Pitt Boy Scout district, presented advancement awards to 25 Scouts at the meeting.

E. Frank Steinbeck, district commissioner, introduced leaders of the Boy Scout units in the Pitt district, who in turn introduced their assistants. The annual attendance award for the Father-Son banquet was awarded to troop 34 of Ayden, and the annual court of honor awards for advancement and attendance at courts of honor were presented to troop 205 of Greenville.

Ercell Webb, chairman of the Pitt district, presided at the meeting and welcomed the scouts and their fathers to the annual banquet. Scouts receiving advancement awards last night were: Second class: Tommie Henderson, Reggie Johnson, Burt Aydock, George White and Jimmie Jenkins of troop 30; Weldon Scott, Tommie Scott and Howard Sumrell of troop 33; and Sonny Dickens of troop 205. First Class: Ray Smith, troop 33.

City Ordinance 'Unenforceable' Say Attorneys

J. C. Lanier Jr., at supper meeting of the Pitt County Bar Association Tuesday night, led a discussion on the legality of a recent city ordinance.

The discussion was about the validity and effect of the subdivision and platting ordinance passed by the Greenville City Council at its January 4 meeting. Those participating in the discussion agreed that the ordinance is unenforceable.

Sixteen members were present. President Louis W. Gaylord presided. The secretary read a letter from F. D. Harding, dean of the Pitt County Bar, expressing appreciation for a television set the association gave him.

Bishop Here To Open TV Series

Bishop Thomas H. Wright of Wilmington will be in Greenville tonight to inaugurate a series of television broadcasts. The bishop speaks at 8:30 to introduce a film, "Light of the North," which concerns the mission work of the Episcopal Church in Alaska.

The central figure in the film is the pilot-bishop from North Carolina, the Rt. Rev. William Jones Gordon, and will show how he covers his large missionary district by private airplane.

About 15 million persons in the United States have some degree of hearing impairment.
