Patient Pup Gets 'Punctured'

Doc, a dog owned by T. J. Haddock of Route 5, Greenville, gets his rabies shot yesterday afternoon at Pachtolus Dr. A. W. Smith of Farmville, left, one of the three participating veterinarians, gives the shot as Doc's master holds him. So far this month, 2,240 dogs have been vaccinated by the vets in an effort to keep rabies out of Pitt County. There has been no rabies reported in the county in four years and Dr. Walter C. Humbert credits the rabies clinic for this record. The clinic will continue through February and every dog owner is urged to have his dog vaccinated. (Reflector photo by Bob Boyette)

Diplomats Say Rhee Bluffing

U.S. Officials Inclined To Discount Threats And Offer Of Troops

By WARREN ROGERS JR. WASHINGTON (AP)—American diplomats were understood today to view South Korean President Syngman Rhee's threat to march against North Korea as a bluff—just what he said it wasn't intended to be.

They also were known to hold out slight hope for his government's offer of troops for Indochina.

In this connection, the South Korean defense minister, Sohn Win Il, said in Seoul his nation is prepared to send land, sea and air forces to help the French. He said they would be volunteers.

Diplomatic officials in Washington were inclined to discount another South Korean proposal—that U. S. Gen. James A. Van Fleet come out of retirement to train both ROK and Indochinese troops. Van Fleet commanded the 8th Army in Korea during the build-up of the ROK's 16 divisions.

Recent moves by Rhee—including the troop offer—were regarded as efforts to underline persisting South Korean unhappiness over the division of Korea at roughly the 38th Parallel.

As South Korean Foreign Minister Pyuh Yung Tai put it to an Associated Press correspondent in Seoul last night:

"Here is the tragedy: That both our allies and our enemies have agreed on the division of Korea and are cooperating in something that means the death of Korea."

Rhee, the aging but still fiery South Korean leader, told the Associated Press in Seoul Wednesday he would move—with or without support—against the Red Chinese in North Korea. "I am not bluffing," he declared.

However, American officials said privately he must have been bluffing. Without American help they maintained, Rhee could hardly expect success in a major military movement against the powerful Red Chinese.

Official U. S. reaction to Rhee's moves was guarded. The State and Defense Departments both withheld comment on the proposal to recall Van Fleet for training native ROK and Indochinese.

The State Department said the troop offer is being considered by Gen. John E. Hull, the U. S. and U. N. supreme commander in the Far East. Hull arrived here from Tokyo, presumably bringing the offer with him. He came to Washington for conferences and has reported to President Eisenhower.

Lennon Files For Senate Campaign

RALEIGH (AP)—U. S. Sen. Alton A. Lennon of Wilmington officially filed for Democratic nomination by plunking down $250 in filing fees with the state elections board yesterday.

As he filed he issued a statement declaring he would wage "an aggressive campaign" but that it would be "a clean campaign based on issues."

He said in a press conference later "in the course of the campaign I expect to examine the record of my opposition."

Lennon referred to the fact that his main opponent, former Gov. W. Kerr Scott, fired some state officials following the 1952 primary in which Scott backed Hubert Olive of Lexington and the officials supported Gov. William B. Umstead.

Lennon said it is general knowledge that a man in high public office has "not only threatened to fire but actually fired" persons for not supporting his candidate. "We're getting a little weary" of talk about mudslinging before there's been any mudslinging.

"We'll certainly attack his (Scott's) record as it justifies an attack," Rodman asserted. "We don't think the record is good."

Lennon opened temporary headquarters yesterday in the Sir Walter Hotel yesterday, which is the site of tonight's Jefferson-Jackson fund raising dinner for the Democratic party. Rodman said permanent headquarters would be opened March 1.

Preparation For H-Bomb Testing Is Near Climax

HONOLULU (AP)—Preparations for the coming hydrogen bomb test series in the Pacific are nearing a climax, according to indications in this strategic Pacific staging area.

But there is no indication any of the planned series of tests has actually started.

A recent rash of Pacific area earthquakes has prompted speculation that an H-bomb already has been exploded but seismologists flatly deny the possibility of any such connection. The biggest bomb yet devised by man is still a peanut compared to the eruptions of nature.

The tests, which will include the first trial of an actual combat-designed hydrogen bomb, are expected in two or three weeks.

Figl Raps Soviet Plan To Keep Troops In His Country

Austria Rejects Proposals

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER BERLIN (AP)—Austria formally rejected today Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov's proposal that the Big Four powers keep troops in the country even after conclusion of a treaty giving Austria its independence.

Foreign Minister Leopold Figl said such an arrangement would mean there would be no liberation of his country.

He told Molotov, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and Foreign Ministers Anthony Eden and Georges Bidault that it was impossible for the Austrian government to accept the Molotov proposal.

He asked which of the Big Four would be willing to present such a proposition regarding his own country to his own Parliament.

Figl made his direct approach inside the chamber of the Big Four conference, to which the Austrian delegation had been invited.

The Western foreign ministers already have written off hope of concluding an Austrian state treaty at this conference, although the debate on it will run into an extraordinary Sunday session.

Western sources said it was hard to imagine anything more "brutal and cynical" than the Austrian treaty demands which Molotov has put before the parley here, including a demand that Big Four troops remain in Austria even after the conclusion of an independence treaty. The Austrian government also branded the program unacceptable.

Meanwhile, Molotov was believed to be in touch with Moscow and probably the Chinese Communist government at Peiping on the Western proposal for calling off a Korean peace conference April 15 at Geneva, Switzerland.

Under the Western plan, the United States, Russia, Britain and France would send invitations to the conference, but Red China would not be one of the sponsoring powers.

"Molotov has insisted that China be accepted as a great power and that what is needed is a five-power meeting on the Far East. The argument which has been going on here, therefore, is over acceptance of Red China as a big power and on this point Western officials say there will be absolutely no compromise.

Today's session was pegged to the Austrian question and while it was still to be formally approved, the first Sunday in Berlin was set for mid-afternoon tomorrow again on Austria.

Some Western diplomats said they expected another secret meeting on the Far Eastern situation to be held Monday and it may be that the ministers will have another go round on the problems of Germany and European security. Western delegations now are pressing for conclusion of the work here late next week.

The debate over Far Eastern problems on which three secret sessions have now been held, began with Molotov's insistence the Big Four should be turned into a Communist government.

Secretary of State Dulles, Britain's Anthony Eden and France's Georges Bidault told him they would not deal on specific subjects—particularly a Korean peace settlement and an end to the war in Indochina.

To compel Molotov to respond to the Western ideas, the three presented him a specific plan that the Big Four—not the Big Five—should join in sponsoring a Korean conference as a first move toward settling the Indochina fighting. Geneva and April 15 were suggested as the place and time.

Informants said the place and time were not particularly important from the Western viewpoint and in fact are largely academic unless Molotov is willing to abandon his idea of a conference which is essentially a Big Five conference. This would mean for him a kind of slap in the face to Red China. No one can tell what the Soviet minister will eventually do but there is no great optimism here at the moment about reaching agreement on a Far East plan.

J. W. H. Roberts In Running For Solicitor's Post

J. W. H. Roberts, 48-year-old Greenville attorney and former judge of city recorder's court, announced today he is a candidate for the post of solicitor of the Fifth Judicial district.

Roberts' announcement brings to three the number of Pitt Countyans who have entered the solicitor race. Horton Rountree and Robert D. Rouse, Jr., both of Farmville, recently announced their candidacies for the post of solicitor.

So far there have been no announcements from candidates for the solicitor's post from any of the other four counties in the fifth district. W. J. Bundy of Greenville, solicitor of the fifth district, has announced he will be a candidate for the post of resident Superior Court judge of the district in the May primary.

Roberts is a native of Wayne County, and opened his law office in Greene County in 1927 after being licensed to practice law. He served as county solicitor for Greene County in 1929 and 1930 before going to Washington, D.C. where he was an attorney with the U. S. Library of Congress, the U. S. Department of Justice and the Home Owners Loan Corporation from 1931 until 1936.

In 1936, Roberts moved to Greenville and opened his law office here. He served as judge of the city recorder's court from 1942 until 1951, and in 1952 and 1953 served as a special assistant to the U. S. district attorney for the Eastern district of North Carolina.

Roberts attended George Washington University and received the degrees of bachelor of laws and master of laws at National University in Washington, D.C. He is a past president of the Pitt County Bar Association, member of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church, is a Shriner, and a member of the Greenville Elks Lodge.

He married the former Jane Hardison Ross, originally from Pamlico County. They have four children.

In announcing his candidacy today, Roberts said, "It is my purpose if nominated and elected to prosecute the criminal dockets of this district with all the power that I have; and at the same time to defend with equal vigor any person against persecution or unlawful prosecution."

Polio Foundation Drive Is Ahead Of Past Years

The Pitt County Chapter of the National Infantile Paralysis Foundation has collected $13,889.37 as of last Thursday, it was announced today by Miss Julia Fisher, chairman of the drive this year.

This is approximately $1000 more than has ever been collected before, the chairman said, with some sources still to be heard from.

The report by the chairman showed that $6,723.01 had been collected in Greenville with the remainder of total amount being collected in the county.

The drive this year was sponsored by the Business and Professional Women's Club of Greenville.

Wins Fight

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—A 21-year-old youth who refused Army induction on grounds he had been a minister since he was 8 years old won his fight in federal court yesterday.

The youth, Ralph R. Pepple, Hartford City, was found innocent of draft evasion. In handing down his verdict, Judge William E. Steekler cited a recent U. S. Supreme Court ruling that draft boards must prove their reasons for refusing ministerial deferments or conscientious objector classifications.

Pepple said he was a member of the Jehovah's Witnesses sect and devoted some 90 hours a week to religious work. He also is employed 40 hours a week as a shoe clerk.

President Plans Atomic Message

THOMASVILLE, Ga. (AP)—President Eisenhower will send Congress a special message next week on peacetime use of atomic energy by private industry in the United States and on sharing of certain atomic information with America's allies.

The President's plans were announced here today as he was spending the weekend bird hunting as the guest of Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey.

James C. Hagerty presidential press secretary told newsmen the special message to Congress will be in two main sections.

One said Hagerty will outline suggested legislation "to encourage peacetime use of atomic energy in this country by private enterprise."

The second section he added will deal with proposals Eisenhower has made in the past—in his Jan. 7 State of the Union message for example—for changes in the law to permit exchange of technical information about atomic weapons with America's allies.

Such information would deal with the effects of atomic weapons, and not in any way with how to produce the weapons.

Red Cross Drive To Begin Monday

Advance gifts solicitation for this year's Red Cross drive begins Monday and will run through Saturday, February 27, Dr. Leo Jenkins, Pitt County co-chairman, is in charge of Greenville.

This phase of campaign is under the direction of A. W. Bryan, manager of the National Carbon Company plant here. It will be his second year as head of this phase of the campaign.

Team captains working with Bryan include W. M. "Booger" Scates, Security Life Insurance representative; James Ficklen Jr., of the Ficklen Tobacco Company; J. A. Taylor, manager of Roses 5 and 10 cent store; and Dr. Russ Peterson assistant manager of the Dupont plant in Kinston.

Each captain has 10 solicitors assigned to help him.

Needling Money Badly Dr. Jenkins said there would not be a kick-off breakfast this year because of the "desperate financial condition" of the chapter. He further emphasized the absolute necessity of meeting the $18,200 quota for Pitt County if the chapter is going to be able to continue to render its wide range of services as in the past.

He continued by saying that there should be enough funds on hand to run the chapter until July 1, but because of heavy demands by the blood program and other services the funds are completely exhausted.

Another contributing factor to this deficit was the failure to meet the quota last year.

French Planes Raid Vietminh Division

SAIGON, Indochina (AP)—For the fifth consecutive day, French fighters and bombers attacked concentrations today of Rebel Division 308, which has been moving southward in the direction of Luang Prabang the royal capital of Laos.

The French planes found the Communist-led Vietminh troops in the Bac River valley some 50 miles north of Luang Prabang. A communique announced "certain losses" had been inflicted on the enemy.

Forward elements of the division do not seem to have advanced and apparently have not yet crossed the river Nga, 30 miles north of Luang Prabang. French forces on reconnaissance missions moved out from the hastily built fortress at Luang Prabang without making contact with Vietminh regional units, which are not part of the crack Division 308. These regional units have been about 10 miles north and northeast of the capital for the past five days.

Much further to the north, French troops striking out from their dust bowl fortress at Dien Bien Phu renewed probing attacks against Vietminh troops entrenched in encircling positions in the hills three to five miles away. A spokesman said the French are using upwards of 4,000 men in "strong reconnaissances" against the rebels and there have been losses on both sides in the bitter clashes but that no battle has been joined.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Six persons were killed today when their automobile and a streetcar collided. The victims were all Negroes—three women and three men—and their identities were not immediately learned.

Police described the accident as one of the worst of its type in recent years in Los Angeles.

Italian Police Act To Close Church

ROME (AP)—Italian police descended today upon Rome's Church of Christ, chiseled its name off a wall and took a news cameraman of the Associated Press into custody for photographing them.

They vainly ordered an AP correspondent away from the scene. The word "Christ" in six-inch-high letters, was the first word removed in this action against the Protestant religious organization, which has American financial backing.

The Roman police struck quickly after worshippers were forced to leave a Church of Christ in Leghorn late last night.

AP Photographer Remo Nassi, an Italian citizen, was seized with his camera and hustled off in a police car despite protests. A US Correspondent Allan Jacks, a U.S. citizen was ordered to leave, but refused.

Later Nassi was released without charges and his camera was returned.

The police left as soon as the name had been entirely removed from the wall.

The sign was removed on direct orders of the Rome Quersura or police headquarters, which is under the Italian ministry of interior.

The new premier of predominantly Roman Catholic Italy, Mario Scelba, is the minister of the interior as well as government chief.

The chief of the police party declined at first to give his name and identified himself as "Comandatore Pinko." This was an

Armed Forces Plan To Expend $3 Billion On Guided Missiles

By ELTON C. FAY AP Military Affairs Reporter WASHINGTON (AP)—The armed forces have received or are asking authority to buy more than three billion dollars worth of guided missiles, which they started procuring four years ago.

This is for actual procurement of missiles. It does not include other multimillion-dollar outlays for designing, developing and testing experimental gadgets—the research part of the program.

The figures, made available today in response to a reporter's questions, do not mean that the American arsenal will necessarily contain three billion dollars worth of missiles for the Air Force, Army and Navy.

An undisclosed part of the total value is material still to be delivered on orders placed some months or even a year or more ago. And another portion, about 400 million dollars in requests for new spending authority, is contained in the proposed budget for the fiscal year starting next July 1.

But it is a measure of the effort being devoted to producing robot weapons to augment and eventually supplant some of the conventional weapons of the three services. It is indicative, too, of the emergence of controllable missiles from the drawing boards and laboratories to production lines.

The Air Force has had the largest part of the funds authorized for missile contracts, about $1,268,000,000. It is giving major attention to medium and long range, surface-to-surface missiles. The Matador missile, with a range understood to be about 500 miles, has been in production for more than a year. A second missile, the Snark, with a range substantially greater, is approaching production stage.

The Army's share is close to that of the Air Force—about a billion dollars. Present major procurement by the Army is going to Nike antiaircraft guided missiles, the surface-to-surface Corporal and another, presumably semiguided heavy field artillery rocket designated as the Honest John. The Nike has been in mass production for more than a year.

The Navy has a share of 742 million dollars in the missile procurement program. It has in production several missiles including the Regulus, a surface-to-surface type to be used in firing from ships or from submarines. Also included are two antiaircraft missiles for defense of ships against enemy planes—the Terrier and Sparrow.

'Cute' Caper

LONDON (AP)—It's official now. The American-born Mrs. Charles Chaplin is, like the film comedian himself, a British subject.

Oona O'Neill Chaplin, 28, formally renounced her United States citizenship in a five-minute ceremony at the American Embassy here yesterday.

Daughter of the late American playwright Eugene O'Neill, she announced on her arrival here from Switzerland with her 64-year-old husband Wednesday she had taken out British papers and would sever her American citizenship.

Flourishing her blue and gold British passport, she exclaimed, "Isn't it just cute?"

Issue Stumps Office Of N. C. Attorney General

RALEIGH (AP)—Is Dr. David E. Plummer, 45, convicted of a narcotics law violation four months ago, still Davidson County's Coroner?

The attorney general's office was asked the ticklish question but admitted yesterday it was stumped because of a lack of legal precedent.

Lexington County attorney Charles W. Mauze had asked Atty-Gen. Harry McMullan whether Dr. Plummer, sentenced to 12 months in a federal narcotics hospital, still officially was the coroner.

Replied McMullan in an opinion prepared by Asst. Atty-Gen. Claude Love, "The question posed by you is whether conviction of a felony in a federal court for an offense which is also probably a felony under the laws of North Carolina disqualifies a coroner to continue to hold his office. There seems to be no North Carolina case directly in point. . . until there is a decision by the Supreme Court of North Carolina directly upon the point, no lawyer can be perfectly sure of his position. . . .

However, McMullan added "I have the feeling that our courts would probably hold that conviction of a felony in the federal court for an offense, which is also a felony in North Carolina, disqualifies a person to hold office in this state."

Several possible solutions were offered by the attorney general.

He said the county commissioners could continue to take no action and "thus continue the practice of having the clerk of the Superior Court designate a person to act as coroner in individual cases" until Dr. Plummer's term expires next December.

Or, he continued, the commissioners could consider the continuing absence of the coroner from the county as abandonment of office, thereby creating a vacancy and appointing a successor. Dr. Plummer then could, if he wished, contest the commission's actions in court.

The Doctor Disagrees

SYNOPSIS
Dr. Stephen Carr is about to leave his native Norfolk in the mid-west, for Army duty in the Pacific. Dr. Craig Talbot, a skilled physician, comes to Norfolk from a distant city for the purpose of taking over the Carr medical practice. Talbot arrives and is warmly greeted by Carr and his gracious wife, Shelly, at dinner in their home. Shelly is struck by the dark handsome Talbot's dynamic force, his charm and sense of humor and especially by his generally bad opinion of the medical profession as a whole. Fearfully, she wonders whether her husband's patients will find this bumpy frank nonconformist, acceptable as their doctor. Carr leaves for his mission to the Orient and Dr. Talbot promptly dismisses Carr's long devoted office clerk, Miss Cobb. He explains the matter merely by stating that he did not care to be bag-ridden by the woman. Shelly steps into the vacant clerical post wondering as she does so, what motive the pompous Carr family may attribute to her move. Silicosis, an ailment due largely to improper dust control in factory plants, has long plagued local factory workers. Dr. Talbot determines to uproot this evil at its base, well aware that his course of action may bring about industrial strife.

CHAPTER TWELVE
"WELL, my goodness, child," May Anna told Shelly, "if you're lonely, you can always come out here and stay."
"Thank you—you are kind. But oh it's not so much being alone as it is not having definite duties to do at definite times. Going to the office gives me that."
"Miss Cobb says she couldn't get along with the new doctor," said her sister-in-law, Ruth.
"Oh, have you talked to her?"
"Yes; after all, we wanted to know why you, the wife of a Carr, should..."
For a brief minute the blue eyes flashed several tones lighter. "You could have asked me; there was no mystery about it. Dr. Talbot obviously is not Stephen. Miss Cobb thought he should be—and well, he isn't."
It didn't really make sense. The Carrs had every right to look puzzled. "Do you know Dr. Talbot?" she asked her father-in-law.
"Of course we know him! Stevie brought the man to my office when he first came to Norfolk," he said quietly. "He has been very conscientious about plant inspection and personnel examinations. I asked him out here one night for dinner. He played the piano. He does it very well. Have you heard him?"
"No," said Shelly. "You evidently know him much better than I do."
"Yes. He does play well. Jazz mostly. He and I did a duet." Everett chuckled. "He said I was as good as Truman. Stubborn man." Everett added coldly. His face had become quite suddenly a mask, cold and determined. "It was this case of ice which could crop up unexpectedly that made Shelly fear her father-in-law. His voice dropped to a rumble. "Don't wonder the Cobb girl left! Don't let him be rude to you, Shelly!"
She smiled. "He's never shown any inclination. In fact his manners are downright courtly." She quoted Stephen. "No one ever gets through a floor behind Dr. Talbot."
Everett seemed to be reconsidering. His next remark was in a milder voice. "Well, if you like the work, and get along with the man—I don't see why you shouldn't play around with a job, until you get tired of it," he conceded. "And if you do get along with him, I wish you'd do me a favor."
Shelly was so surprised at the suggestion that she could only stare.

"Use any influence you have, my dear, to get the man into line with the hospital! Three months is three months, and the time has come for him to show his hand. To do or to don't! And I wish you'd see to it that it's do."
"Papa," murmured May Anna.

LISTEN...
Someone told him you could hear the sounds of the sea by listening to the shell. And he believes it. His youthful imagination and impressionable mind work along with the sound waves of the shell to recall quite vividly the rolling of the waves and the pounding of the surf.
The alert mind of youth is always susceptible to suggestion and experimentation. That is why education is begun so early in life when new ideas are grasped more readily by eager minds. This is the time of life when character and personality are molded.
Why then do we hesitate so often to grasp this opportunity? Why do we let Sunday after Sunday roll by without bringing our children to the services of the Church? Here the most wonderful ideas and plans for living are passed on to receptive young minds. Not idle notions, but thoughts of love, understanding, and brotherhood are implanted.
Enable your child and encourage the children of others to receive these priceless lessons. It will mean much to them now... even more later.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH
The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should support the Church: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For his community and nation. (4) Which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Girls Train As Homemakers In Their Home Economics Course

They Learn Home Management And Family Relationships In Classrooms Of GHS

CHOOSING A COLOR—The correct color to match the complexion is a point girls are taught in the personal grooming phase of their Home Economics study. Pat Evans and Laura McArthur help Blanche Dudley decide whether the color of this piece of material is becoming. Girls also study personalized hair styling, make-up, clothing and personal hygiene.

FINISHING TOUCHES TO CUP-CAKES—These four Greenville High girls whip up a few pans of cup cakes in the kitchen of the Home Economics department. In addition to cooking, the girls learn menu planning, serving, and background in nutrition. Left to right are Yvonne Stokes, Ann Hamric, Pat Beatty, Nelson Blount and Doris Harper.

DISCUSSING PROBLEMS—Home Economics is not all cooking and sewing. Here Janice Boyd, Sadie Rae Brady, Margaret Phelps and Betty Jane Harrington talk over family relationships, in a typical group in which the girls discuss family problems and solutions, boy-girl relationships, marriage, vocations and other matters.

MONEY MATTERS—An important part of home making not overlooked in the course of study. Here Shelby Harris, Gloria Cox and Thelma Solis delve into family economics as a part of their study of the importance of gearing home activity to meet the family income. The girls learn how to make household budgets, plan for fixed expenditures, and work out a family security program on a financial basis.

Timely Study Of Utilities' Power Rates

It is, in our opinion, a wise move on the part of the Greenville Utilities Commission to have an engineering firm employed to give a thorough study to the matter of rates, distribution system and operation on the local utilities.

Studies of the rates of the local utilities and their operations have been made in the past at irregular intervals, and for the most part they have brought favorable results for both the local utilities operations and for consumers.

As has been the case of a period of years, there are many people who purchase electric current from the Greenville Utilities Commission who think they should receive lower rates. While the rates of the local utilities compare very favorably with other municipally owned utilities away from federal power areas, no possibility should be overlooked to give local consumers advantages of lower rates and still keep the municipal utilities business on a paying basis.

The matter of a rate reduction by the Greenville Utilities was underway last summer when the city began preparing its budget for 1954-55. The city officials found it necessary to request an additional $60,000 turnover from the Utilities Commission to the city general fund for this year to balance the budget. The Commission agreed to turn over an additional $60,000 to the city general fund during this fiscal year; but in so doing, it was asserted that the move would prevent a rate reduction by the utilities for the time being.

For this fiscal year, the Utilities Commission is handing over to the city's general fund $142,500 instead of the $82,500 it has put into the city's general fund annually for the past several years.

The tie-in which was made with Virginia Electric Power Company last year by the local utilities was calculated to give the utilities a more economical operation, as were improvements which were made in transmission lines and facilities over the system.

It seems that enough time has elapsed since those changes were begun for any economies which have been derived to be reflected in the operations of the utilities.

A study such as was proposed at the recent meeting of the Utilities Commission should indicate whether any appreciable economies have been effected, and whether the utilities rates can be reduced without disrupting the financial situation of the city-owned electric power business.

If the situation is found to justify such action, savings through reduced utilities rates should be passed on to consumers as quickly as possible. The study to determine whether rates can be reduced—and how much, if any—should be carried out by the Utilities Commission at the earliest possible date.

In The Middle Of Another Squeeze Play

Eyes are glued to Far Eastern developments.

The French are being pushed back in Indochina, a strategic area which military and defense leaders have said is of the utmost importance to the free world. President Rhee of South Korea has reiterated his statement that he is going to send his troops against the Communists in the north with or without the active support of the United Nations. And he adds emphatically that he is not bluffing.

High American officials have pointed out over a period of many months that the free world can not afford to sit quietly by and let the communists run the French out of Indochina. Whether the situation that is developing in that country in which the French have battled communists for the last seven years means United Nations troops will have to move in remains in doubt.

Even if Rhee, upon his own initiative should re-open the shooting war in Korea, it is doubtful that the U. N. would stand by and watch the Communist armies from the north overrun South Korea as they attempted to do in 1951. To lose all of Korea to Communism as an aftermath to the Korean War would make the three years of fighting a futile effort.

Indochina and Korea may seem far away to many Americans, but realistically, the United States finds itself right in the middle of another international squeeze play which could result in its sending its soldiers back into action in the Far East.

Selected Shorts

NEWPORT BEACH, CALIF. NEWS-TIMES: "A balanced budget means a sound dollar and an end to the threat of inflation. The Administration must continue to strive for further reductions in spending, regardless of the demands of pressure groups."

BELLINGHAM, WASH. HERALD: "The responsible farm organizations are generally agreed that this continued use of the government's credit is economically unsound and basically dangerous."

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

Cost Of The Indochina War

By RAY TUCKER
Every Saturday this veteran Washington correspondent devotes his column to answering readers' questions of general interest on national politics and personalities. Questions may be sent direct to Ray Tucker at 6308 Hillcrest Place, Chevy Chase Md.

WASHINGTON—"During the war in Indo-China," asks A.J.M. of New York City, "have the French lost as many men and officers as the American Army has lost in Korea during a comparable period of time? I would also like to know if you can give me the total number of casualties, men and officers, suffered by the French Army during the entire time they have been in Indo-China."

Answer: Before suggesting that the casualty figures alone do not reflect a true picture of the two countries' efforts and sacrifices, I shall give the figures as furnished to me by the Pentagon and the French Embassy.

WAR CASUALTIES KOREA, INDO-CHINA—Our total losses in Korea from June of 1950 until the truce on July 27, 1953, were 90,806 dead, 103,327 wounded and 3,054 missing. The French have no breakdown for a similar period, but their casualties from January, 1950, to October, 1953, were 18,700 killed and 17,200 wounded.

Their total losses in the eight-year conflict have been 32,000 killed and 34,000 wounded. They also had some native losses, but they were negligible. Each year the French lose as many officers as they graduate from St. Cyr, their West Point—550.

KOREAN TOTAL—In Korea we had the assistance of 15 members of the United Nations and the natives. It is estimated that Korean casualties of all kinds exceeded 400,000. Our allies, especially the British, Turks and Greeks, suffered casualties of approximately 25,000.

However, it must be kept in mind that we have a population of 160,000,000, as against only 44,000,000 for France. Our material resources are infinitely greater. Korea is distant enough, not so far away as Indo-China is from France. Difficult as is the Korean terrain, Southeast Asia is more arduous for military warfare.

Somebody Told Me

A New Ham Goes On The Air

WADXXJ is on the air! After being bit by the amateur radio bug about five months ago, I have passed the examination and received a license issued by the Federal Communications Commission to operate my own station!

Amateur radio is the world's biggest organized hobby. In frequencies above the standard radio's reach thousands of amateurs all over the world communicate with each other.

My first contact was with WBFV in Trout Creek, Mich. Others have included Baltimore, Atlanta, Ga., Petersburg, Va., Churchland, Va., Wadesboro, N.C., St. Petersburg, Fla., Cincinnati, Gibson Island, Md., Montreal, Canada, and Guantanamo Bay, Cuba. This is only the beginning!

What do we talk about? First, usually we get acquainted with a discussion about our equipment. Our transmitters, receivers, antennas, and the results we are getting. From there, discussions go in all directions.

To me, the possibility of arranging schedules has a great appeal. For example, my second contact was with an amateur near Baltimore who is a good friend of the former Ruth Dudley of Greenville. In the future I hope to arrange a schedule between Ruth and her family here through this other amateur.

This process has endless possibilities. If you have a relative who's far away, let me know and I'll be on the lookout for a possible contact. If you have a relative in Washington, N. C., this plan has little appeal. It's the far-reaching contacts that the amateur is interested in.

The Canadian I talked to said, "Your American cigarettes are too expensive, so I roll my own. Thirty-seven cents a pack is too much to pay."

Who are amateurs? They are truck drivers, retired doctors, active doctors, lawyers, firemen—they are a cross-section of America with enough interest in communication to learn the requirements of the FCC and receive a license.

What are the requirements? The international code must be learned at 13 words per minute. A theory examination of 50 questions must be passed (74 per cent is required) that cannot be passed without many hours of study by the person without a radio background.

It's a hobby that will keep you at home, indoors. You can do it at any time, and there's an education to be obtained by being in contact with amateurs all over the world.

Don't forget me if you have relatives far away. Nothing would please me more than being able to contact them for you!

And I thank you.
JACK EDWARDS

What Other Editors Are Thinking

BUILD WITH WISDOM (Wilson Times)
It's always been our theory, never adequately disputed, that if you raise the level of the bottom the top will take care of itself. Translated into dollars, let's see what that means. In the "Wilson Works with Wisdom" program which has been sponsored by many co-operating agricultural agencies and which has the support of the best business houses in Wilson county, each family has been urged to increase its income $1,000 in 1954. Let's take for granted those families consider the program seriously, it could well mean $5,500,000 more of spendable income for the rural areas alone. What, then, could it mean to the county as a whole?

Goals are never achieved until they're set. In the "Build with Wisdom" program, three have been outlined. The first, of course, is to raise family income. The second is to make one improvement in the home; and the third, successfully to carry out one or more worthwhile community projects in each community. Suppose we can get the people enthusiastic; suppose we can achieve all three! Not only will our people have more to spend, but they'll live in better homes and enjoy better cultural entertainment. Indeed, they'll even take a new lease on life, getting satisfaction out of a fuller one, while building up new wealth for themselves.

Farms are like anything else. Their values are based on what they'll earn. Increase those earnings and you increase not only what you can spend, but what you can sell your properties for. It involves work; but anything that's worthwhile involves work. Can't you, after reasoning carefully, make the ends justify the means? Can't you, like a lot of those who've already done what it's being suggested you do, produce better crops, better livestock, better homes and better community facilities in order that you might enjoy that better life that we all want and deserve?

Everyone in Wilson, The Times is certain, is anxious to see us improve the bottom. If you'll get into the campaign, doing the things that the agricultural agencies have been trying to get you to do, you'll have not only more money, but a bettered living standard. It's well within your power, if you'll put in a few more hours each day and work intelligently. At your beck and call, simply by getting in touch with those agencies, can be found all the information that's necessary to help you achieve the goals. It's the only way to build a sound Wilson county. Let's do our best to lift up the bottom. As it improves, so will everything else.

PICTURES—The development of color photography and television has greatly accelerated the process of depreciation and obsolescence in picture files in newspaper " morgues" and particularly in the State advertising division. The old concept that a picture is good as long as a good print can be made from the negative has been discarded.

It has long been axiomatic among photographers that except in a few instances of panoramic scenery or public buildings a "good" picture had to show some life. Most of the scenic and monument "shots" also showed people or automobiles. A beach without bathers or a street without traffic makes a bad picture, according to the photographers. But—a street scene showing automobiles. A beach without bathers

Buyers, Be Careful

By ELMER ROESSNER
Half a century ago, the lightning-rod swindlers roamed the country. They'd drive up to a farm, tell the farmer they wanted to put rods on his barns to help them sell others, and they would put them up free if the farmer would sign an agreement not to tell he didn't pay full price. After the rods were installed, the farmer was given a paper to sign.

Thirty days later the farmer would hear from his bank. The paper he signed was not a promise of silence but a promissory note, which had been discounted at the bank. The farmer had nothing to do but pay.

The lightning-rod swindle is just about dead. Farmers buy materials from stores or mail-order houses and install the rods themselves. Besides, farmers don't sign papers without reading them any more.

So the grandsons of the lightning-rod boys have moved into the city where the suckers are thicker (in two senses of the word) and they sell siding, weatherproof coating jobs and storm windows to farmers' grandsons.

The siding, coatings and windows are usually good—but just as the lightning rods were—but the deals aren't. In one case, a homeowner was persuaded to order storm windows for his home. An aggregation of misfit windows was delivered while the husband was at work and his wife asked to "sign for them." What she signed was a work completion certificate for a housing loan and now the husband, with no windows to fit, is paying off the loan.

Getting certification for work not done is only one kind of gyp. Promoters use bait prices to entrap buyers, switch goods and make almost limitless promises to close sales.

The New York Better Business Bureau received 1,500 complaints of shady storm-window deals during 1953. This has alarmed the large honest segment of the industry and the National Combination Storm Window and Door Institute has co-operated with the B.B.B. to prepare a booklet telling the advantage of such windows and doors and warning of booby traps. It concludes with this advice:

Know exactly what you're buying and whether it is just what you want; sign no acceptance until windows and doors are properly installed; get any guarantee in writing and be sure you understand the terms; do not deal with companies that advertise one price and then try to switch you to another; sign nothing without reading it; if you order a particular brand, have the brand name written into the contract; make sure the dealer's name and address is on the contract.

SALESMANSHIP ISN'T DEAD, GIRL PROVES
Your reporter's wife was shopping for a new coat the other day. She displayed interest in one coat. The salesgirl hugged the coat to her. "I hate to see it go out of the store!" she exclaimed. "I wish I needed a coat right now so I could buy this one!"

Dr. Charles Lapp of Washington U., Sales Management magazine and the American Management Association have been filling the air with groans about the decline of retail salesmanship. It may have declined, but it isn't dead. I know, $65.95 worth.

But maybe the girl was telling the truth. Hm-m-m! Probably was there's no better sales pitch than truth itself, you know.

STUDY PROVES CHARGE MAKE BUYING GREATER
It has long been believed in retail fields that women with charge accounts bought more freely than those who paid cash.

Now there are figures on just how much more—3.8 times as much.

The figure was obtained by A.J. Wood & Co., a Philadelphia market research firm, through interviews with 8,000 women in Boston, Miami, Richmond, Cincinnati and Detroit. It found that in some departments the increased purchases by women who could say, and then women with charge accounts strongly concentrated purchase "Charge it!" were much greater, charges in stores where those accounts were.

The Wood company published its findings in a booklet entitled—"It's so clever you'd never guess—'Charge Account Behavior of the Human Female.'"

TV Sets Out To Train The Wife

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Many people complain about what television has done to American home life.

But what can television do for home life? Can it, for example, give every American home what it deserves most—the better housewife?

Yes, can television take an ordinary scrubby bride and mold her into the kind of wife she years to be—a charming, informed, all-around woman worthy of traveling down life's rocky road shoulder to shoulder with that fine fellow, the average American husband?

Well, television is going to try. It is already a guest in your living room. Soon it will be a guest who tells your wife how to make that living room look less crummy, and how she herself can also look less crummy. I mean . . . look more attractive.

This video adventure in wife education will be launched March 1 via an NBC-TV daily one-hour network program called "Home."

The idea is reported to be the personal brainchild of NBC President Sylvester L. Weaver himself, and he has authorized expenditure of a $200,000 set for "Home."

The mere announcement of this program upset a friend of mine, who said he had two objections: "First, I have spent 20 earnest years trying to improve my wife, and the only result is that she is older. How can television do a better job on her in an hour a day? The program should be at least eight hours long, seven days a week, if it is to teach wives even half the things they really need to know."

"Second, every wife who watches that $200,000 set is going to feel sooner or later her husband ought to buy her a $200,000 house. Will that simple girlish goal help make your home life more peaceful?"

Beautiful Arlene Francis will act as editor-in-chief of the program. Assisted by a staff of experts, she will give illustrated hints to the American housewife on how to raise children or petunias, how to take spots off the family dog or her husband's necktie, how to cook better meals, both with and without a can opener. And, naturally, how to be more charming.

Even a crime program today has to teach a housewife how to hold a gat in a charming manner if it wants to get a real rating.

Personally, we wish Miss Francis luck in TV's greatest challenge so far—the building of perfect wives, of which every man could use at least one.

And for a starter, we'd like to see her tackle and solve a few typical old household problems, such as:

The wife who insists on getting something out of the medicine chest while her husband is shaving, and uses his razor to cut paper. . . the wife who won't roll the toothpaste tube from the bottom. . . the wife who can't make up her mind on colors while hubby is mixing the paint. . .

The two-bathroom family is the one-bathroom house. . . the neighbor wife who punishes her children if they are destructive in her own home but not if they turn your house into a city dump. . . the wife who leaves her bobby pins all around the wash basin and yowls when hubby splashes water and gets them rusty. . .

The wife who . . . fill out your own list, boys, and mail them to Miss Francis. She'll help you. Of course, some husbands create household problems, too. But even television hasn't figured a way yet to improve the American husband.

Around Capitol Square

By LYNN NISBET
MIXUP—"I'm in a sure enough mess," was the unusual way Thad Eure greeted newsmen who visited him at the Secretary of State's office the other morning. "What's the trouble?" asked the reporter.

Then Thad told this sad story: He is one of five members of the Grand Lodge of Elks Activities committee and a past president of the N.C. State Elks Association. He was very anxious to get Grand Exalted Ruler Earl James into North Carolina. Last summer at the Grand Lodge meeting, working through Judge John McCallan of Atlanta and other big timers in the order, he was able to arrange for Mr. James to stop over for the State Elks convention in Asheville on May 28 and 29.

That was a lovely arrangement and Asheville was going all out to stage one of the best conventions ever. Then Thad and some others awoke to the fact that May 29 is the date for the State-wide primary. A number of Elks are candidates for office in the primary, and anyway it is a basic principle that a good Elk is a good citizen and will not shirk the duty to vote.

So some fast footwork telephone work and other kinds of work had to be done. Thad wasn't sure just how it was coming out, but he is sure of one thing: The Elks convention will not be held on primary day.

DELAYED—Predictions made some months ago are proving true with respect to inability of the commission appointed to study or a street without traffic makes a bad picture, according to the photographers. But—a street scene showing automobiles of 1940 vintage or a beach crowded with people in bathing suits stilled by the turbulent twenties is less than worthless for any purpose other than historic museum display. So it is that many photographic negatives in the files are as out of date now as are the statistical tables on population economics which were compiled ten years ago.

It is natural that some public officials should like to have pictures used now showing how they looked ten years or more ago, and it is understandable they should forget that styles of coat collars and neckwear date the pictures. That is why the photographers employed by the advertising division of the Department of Conservation and Development are devoting a lot of time during the off-season winter months when they can't get out over the state to "shooting" big time officials and making available for TV and newspaper use up-to-date pictures of these men. When they are not making new pictures they are mostly delving into files and throwing out some mighty good negatives which have become worthless because of the styles of dress or cars shown in the "life" element when the picture was taken some years ago.

HOW COME? Novitates in political chicanery are often surprised to learn why some folks vote as they do. (Ed. Note: Novitates is a high brow word for the fellow who is interested but doesn't know much about the practical or technical operations; and chicanery is the dictionary definition of the common term "monkey business.")

In the current senatorial campaign Candidates Alton Lennon and Kerr Scott would like to think the voters who are supporting them are doing so because of genuine interest in good government and sincere belief that election of the one or the other offers chance for achieving that desired goal of good government. In practical application it doesn't work out that way.

Consider the cases of two men from widely separated counties, each of whom is recognized as

Immanuel Baptist Announcements
On Sunday morning at the 11 o'clock worship hour, there will be a special ordination service at the Immanuel Baptist Church when J. A. Taylor, G. D. Vincent and J. H. Mullen will be ordained as deacons. The special speaker for the occasion will be Dr. E. L. Spivey, Secretary of State Missions of the N. C. Baptist State Convention. Dr. Spivey is a capable and forceful speaker. There will be an anthem by the choir, "O Jesus, Thou Art Standing" by Knecht, and Mrs. James L. White will sing the solo "Save Me, O God" by Charles. At the evening worship hour at 7:30, the pastor will speak on the subject "What Is Salvation?" There will be special music by the choir. A church conference will follow the service.

On Monday night the college students will continue their study of the book "Studies in Psalms" at 6 o'clock at the Baptist Student Center, following a dutch supper at 5:30. The Carrie Wilson Class will meet on Wednesday night at 7:30 at the home of Mrs. C. W. Willard. A special offering for the Baptist Homes for the Aged will be taken Sunday, February 21. Members are urged to give liberally to this worthy cause.

Mrs. Spilman Speaker At U. D. C. Meeting
One of the most delightful meetings of the George B. Singletary Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy was held at the home of Mrs. J. B. Spilman, with Mrs. J. T. Gaylor, assistant hostess, on Thursday afternoon, February 11. Mrs. Spilman in her usual charming manner welcomed each member.

Mrs. E. W. Harvey opened the meeting with prayer, and Mrs. J. L. Fleming presided over the business session which followed. Minutes of the last meeting were read by Mrs. Harvey, and the various committee chairmen gave their reports. The following committee chairmen were appointed: Mrs. P. E. Wells, TV and Radio Programs; Mrs. J. G. Laurens and Mrs. V. C. Fleming, Pinnance; Mrs. H. T. Smith, UDC Magazine; UDC magazine subscriptions were presented to the college, high school and city libraries.

Mrs. Spilman presented the program for the afternoon. Before presenting her subject Mrs. Spilman read from the "Confederate Veteran" magazine of September, 1925, an appeal which stressed the great need of buying Christmas seals to combat that dreaded disease, tuberculosis. Mrs. Spilman brought out that even though much had been done, even today the need to fight TB is still great. The organized fight against TB is financed by the sale of Christmas seals, and that wonderful crusade has cut the death toll which is still too great. She stressed the need for the backing of this great cause.

Mrs. Spilman's subject for the afternoon was "Spartan Mothers of North Carolina." This was the story of mothers of North Carolina who gave sons to fight in the War Between the States. She spoke of the unflinching courage of Confederate women. These brave women who after sending as many as from six to nine sons, carried on the work at home. One of these, Mrs. Sally Mitchell, of Burke County, gave seven sons to the war, and as maker of the famous clay pipe, she kept many a soldier happy with her gifts which "went up in smoke." Mrs. Spilman closed with two lovely poems, "One Year to Live" and "A Prayer."

During the social hour the hostesses, assisted by Mrs. P. E. Wells, served delicious sandwiches, cookies, mints and coffee, carrying out the Valentine motif.

MWA Junior Club Holds Parents Night
The boys and girls of the Modern Women of America Junior Club invited their parents to conduct the monthly program for February which was held Monday night with a large attendance.

Parents taking part on the program were: Mrs. J. R. Shea, who was program announcer; Mrs. W. S. Pollard, pianist; Mrs. J. B. Hill, who gave the welcome. Mr. V. L. Baker gave a short history of the club's organization, and Mr. Larry Stox conducted a quiz program. "What's the Name of That Song?" on which many won prizes. Others taking part on the program were: Mrs. J. B. Hill, Mrs. Curtis Sutton, Mrs. Mae Nobles, Mrs. Jesse Dail, Mrs. Fields and Mrs. W. S. Harris. Mrs. J. B. Hill and Mrs. Curtis Sutton attracted much attention with their Boy and Girl Scout court scene of the olden days. Supper was served banquet style and each remained at the table for the program.

This Junior Club now numbers 169 boys and girls under 16 and is the largest youth fraternity in Eastern North Carolina and is largely sponsored by the Modern Women of America.

FAIRBURY, Neb. (AP)—Douse that cigarette if you want a sandwich in Fairbury. A city ordinance makes it illegal to smoke in places selling food. Other ordinances forbid:

Starting a dog fight.
Conducting a business in such fashion as to scare horses.
Leading an animal across a sidewalk.
Selling perfumed cigarettes.
Colorado became a state of the United States in 1876.

Plans Formulated To Landscape Library Grounds
On Thursday morning, February 11, Mrs. Sam Mitchell, president of the Garden Club, met at Sheppard Memorial Library with a committee from the Garden Club to formulate plans for beautifying the landscape and grounds around the library building. The Garden Club voted in their January meeting to accept and undertake the challenge of making this spot of beauty and something of which the community can be proud. The Garden Club accepted this project at the request of the library board of directors. Members of the Horticulture, Conservation, City Planning and Project Committees of the Garden Club are working together on this worthwhile project.

It was expressed in the meeting that the library grounds should be kept beautiful in memory of the donors to whom a debt of gratitude is owed. It was also pointed out in the meeting that in undertaking this project, the Garden Club would be providing for the safety of the many children who come to the library and also be contributing to and building up civic pride in this fast growing community.

Score Hit With Popular Comedy
Norman Krasna's "John Loves Mary," presented by the Teachers Playhouse of East Carolina College, turned out to be a hit with audiences when the amusing three-act play was given Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights of this week in the College Theatre.

The plot complications and clever lines of the popular comedy drew frequent laughs and applause from those present. Well interpreted roles, attractive costuming and scenery, and a quick-moving performance combined to make the production a success.

Wrong William In The Lady's Home
READING Pa. (AP)—Mrs. William Moyer heard someone moving about on the ground floor of her home.

"Is that you William?" she inquired, thinking it was her husband.

"It is William" came the reply. Mrs. Moyer turned to resume her sleep and saw her husband asleep in the bed next to her.

A quick check revealed several dollars in cash and a watch had been taken from a downstairs room.

You know the old joke about Ohio being round on the ends and high in the middle — well, now you'll have to amend it to accommodate all the squares that hail from that state. And judging from reporter Ricardo Brown's teen roundup they're a drama worth observing.

Two of the biggest influences on Columbus teen-agers, he says are author Mickey Spillane of "I, the Jury" and "Dragnet"—radio TV crime show. A typical every-day scene goes like this:

A doll, a real doll, alive and warm with cherry lips, moved close to the silent boy and, in a voice drained of emotion, breathed: "Get the facts."

Her companion nodded, then disappeared briefly into a cramped dressing room.

Returning from the phone booth, he reported: "No getaway car tonight."

His voice, which tried to strain out all emotion, still held notes of tragedy.

The blonde sighed, slumped into a seat at the soda fountain, and muttered, "powie! right on the kisser!"

"Ace" natively attired in levis and charcoal-gray sport shirt, stood by nervously. He refrained from scoffing his spotless white suede shoes.

But little blue cashmere sweater was colder than a day in February. "If 'Ace' couldn't get the family car tonight, they'd have to take a bus to the school dance."

The dragnet theme, comes by way of two currently popular records, the song from the show and "Little Blue Riding Hood," dialogue satire of the Dragnet form.

Students seem neater, a bit more conservative and better dressed than in some previous seasons.

Third Street P.T.A. Has Study Course
The first meeting of the P. T. A. Study Course was held at Third Street School on Thursday night, February 11. Mr. Hartwell Campbell, manager of the local TV station, spoke on various aspects of television, expressing the desire to cooperate with the schools and parents in every way. He stated it was the hope of the local station to present more programs along educational lines. Following Mr. Campbell's talk there was a period of discussion.

Immediately after this meeting a short business session was held for Third Street School P.T.A., with Mrs. Arthur Andrews presiding. It was voted to send donations to the Martin Memorial Fund and the National Headquarters Building Fund. The new by-laws were read and accepted.

Mrs. Troy Dodson announced that $448 had been collected by the Mothers March on Fello in the Third Street School area.

Mrs. Fristoe's first grade won the attendance prize.

The following Nominating Committee was elected: Mr. Lester Turner, Mrs. Irving Roberson and Miss Elizabeth Norman.

Mrs. Andrews appointed a Projects Committee composed of Mrs. W. L. Whedbee, Mrs. Joe Moyer and Miss Stancill.

ECC Students To Vote On Change In Budget Office
East Carolina College students will vote Tuesday, February 23, on proposed changes in the constitution of the Student Government Association governing the handling of student funds and the operation of the student bank. These financial affairs are now conducted through the Student Budget Office, which is in charge of a treasurer elected by members of the college SGA.

The Student legislature of the college has submitted to students proposals to divide the present duties of the Budget Office by reorganizing the student bank and by separating its operation from the work of the SGA treasurer's office. If the new set-up is approved, the student-treasurer will transact financial business of the SGA and of all organizations which it sponsors. Expenditures will be approved by the Student Budget Committee and made final by vote of the Student Legislature. The student bank will handle the deposits and checking accounts of individual students.

30 Years Ago Today

THE DAILY REFLECTOR
February 13, 1924
On Friday the Junior Circle of The King's Daughters met at Mrs. Jane Forbes' with Jane Hadley, Lucile Duke led the devotional exercises. Polly Fulford read a little poem called "Burdens," after which Esther Wayne gave a beautiful account of Dorcas' life. Elizabeth Andrews read an article. The devotional exercises were closed by the prayer of the order, the Lord's Prayer and The King's Daughters hymn. The secretary called the roll: 25 members were present and $1.70 was collected for dues. The president read a letter from Mrs. Richard Williams concerning a pledge for the chapel at Samarcaud. After the business had all been attended to, the hostess served a delightful salad course and the meeting adjourned.

To Speak Here

Harold J. Brennan, director of the School for American Craftsmen at the Rochester Institute of Technology, will speak at East Carolina College Monday, February 15, at 7:00 p. m. in the College Theatre on "The Craftman and Contemporary Design." His talk will deal largely with the work of outstanding modern designers in ceramics, textiles, silver, and wood. He will also place on exhibition examples of contemporary production in ceramics, silversmithing, jewelry, textiles, and wood. This display will be shown in the Industrial Arts Department in the Flanagan building, February 15-16 during the morning and the afternoon. The public is invited to be present at both the lecture and the exhibition.

'Laziness' Seen As Big Asset

BY DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor
Talking with assorted businessmen, I've decided that the laziness of women is one of the chief assets of American industry.

In fact, the top brains of science and finance are constantly at work to make us even lazier.

We are encouraged to buy automatic washing machines, electric dishwashers, electronic devices for watching the baby, cooking the roast or opening the garage door. Labor-saving devices are among the most important products of our industrial age.

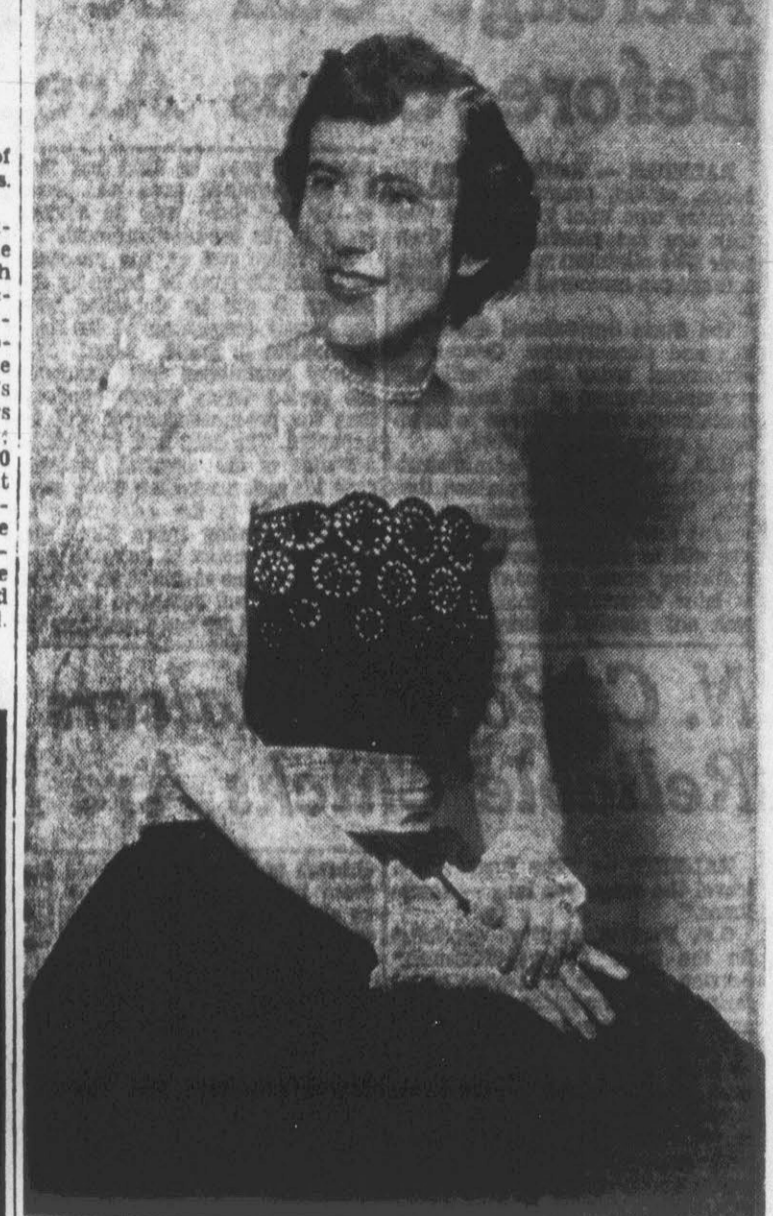

We are pampered by food companies which do all our cooking for us. We can buy anything from chicken pot pie to French hors d'oeuvres in frozen food packages, ready to heat and serve.

Cub Scouts And Their Parents At Annual Blue-Gold Banquet Thursday

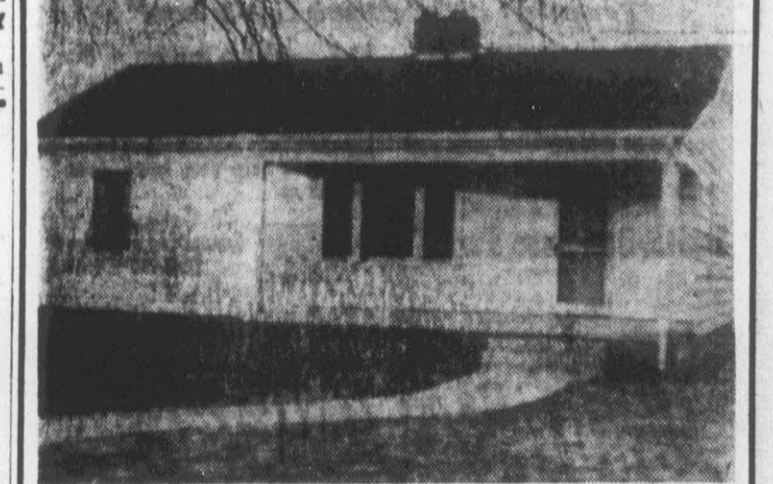

Approximately 233 cub scouts and their parents attended the annual Blue-Gold banquet last Thursday night.

The banquet is held annually as a part of "Boy Scout Week". Following the supper Mrs. R. B. Starling spoke to the young scouts on character development. She illustrated her talk by drawing pictures on a blackboard. She said that a scowling face could be turned into a smile with only a little effort.

The Immanuel Baptist Church cub pack won the table decoration award at the affair. The award was made by Sherman Parks, vice-chairman of the Pitt District. United leaders and others active in cub scout work were introduced by Frank Steinbeck, District Scout Commissioner.

Acres Can Be Measured Before Crops Are Planted

RALEIGH — North Carolina tobacco, cotton, peanut, and wheat farmers who want to be sure that they are not planting more than their 1954 allotment may have their acreage pre-measured prior to planting.

The State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee announced today that "official" pre-measurement of all marketing quota crops will be offered to farmers in every county in 1954.

H.D. Godfrey, state administrative officer for ASC, explained that this "official" pre-measurement means that the pre-measured acreage will be accepted as correct for marketing quota purposes unless it is later determined that the crop was not planted within the pre-measured area, or that less than the pre-measured area was planted, or that there was an obvious error in the pre-measurement.

The entire cost of the pre-measurement job must be borne by the farmer. It will be deposited with the county committee at the time application is made. Local ASC county committees will announce the period during which applications for pre-measurement will be accepted. The date will be well in advance of the normal planting date for each marketing quota crop. It would be to the advantage of farmers planting more than one crop under quotas to have all pre-measuring done at one time. County Committees will establish the rate to be charged for pre-measurement within the county.

Tobacco farmers who plan to leave tractor or sled rows in their tobacco fields may inform ASC personnel of this fact, and they may have this acreage laid-off over and above their acreage allotment. Tractor or sled rows will increase the cost of pre-measuring the allotted acreage by 25, 16, or 12 per cent, depending on whether sled rows will be every fifth, seventh, or ninth row.

Godfrey reminds all North Carolina farmers that it is cheaper to pay the pre-measurement cost than to expend needless labor, fertilizer, etc. on acreage in excess of the allotment, or to lose allotment through underplanting.

N. C. Poultry Raisers Learning Reliable Chicks Are Near Home

RALEIGH — "The further you travel the worse you fare" — sometimes.

C.F. Parrish, poultry specialist for the State College Extension Service, says the old saying about faring worse the further you travel away from home seems to be true in the case of buying baby chicks.

At least that's the recent experience of one Tar Heel farm woman. Parrish says the woman in question "yielded to the pressure (or temptation) of glowing advertisements and exorbitant claims of an out-of-state chick producer and ordered some chicks that were supposedly bred for egg production."

It was a natural mistake, adds Parrish. The woman was simply misled.

chasers of baby chicks would buy them here in North Carolina and as close home as possible, yet getting the quality of chicks they desire. For layers, Parrish suggests you always insist on N.C.U.S. Certified Pullorum Clean chicks. For information as to where to get these chicks, see your county farm or home agent or write the N.C. Department of Agriculture, Veterinary Division, Raleigh, N.C., for a list of Certified hatcheries in North Carolina.

Don't "travel further and fare worse," says Parrish.

Two New Chemicals In Combatting Blue Mold

RALEIGH — Two new chemicals have given excellent results in controlling blue mold in tobacco plant beds, one of them at only one-fourth the cost of ferimate, a present recommended chemical.

However, neither of the new chemicals, manzate or vancide, is recommended yet, due to inadequate testing, says F.A. Todd, federal plant disease specialist at the N.C. Agricultural Experiment Station.

The two new fungicides look good after two years of trials in small experimental plots and will be tested in large-scale field trials this spring under supervision of county agents. Their performance there will determine whether they are to be added to the recommended list.

Todd says Manzate has given excellent blue mold control when sprayed on at the rate of one-half pound per 100 gallons of water. Manzate gave as good control as Ferimate applied at eight times the rate of Manzate.

Both fungicides are applied twice a week and after rains. It takes about eight or 10 sprays of three to five gallons each per 100 square yards of plant bed, depending on size of plants, to prevent blue mold.

Todd says that with Ferimate selling for about 75 cents per pound it would cost about $1.50 per 100 square yards when used at the recommended rate. In comparison, Manzate costs about $1.15 per pound, but at the rate used in tests, it would cost only about 30 cents per 100 square yards. That's only one-fourth as much as Ferimate.

However, Todd emphasizes that all rate of Manzate above one-half pound per 100 gallons of water injured the plants. On the other hand, Ferimate does not injure tobacco plants, even at excessive rates.

The second promising new chemical against blue mold is Vancide. Todd found that this fungicide applied as a spray (two pounds per 100 gallons of water) or dust (6 1/2 per cent) was as effective as Ferimate spray (four pounds per 100 gallons of water) or dust (15 per cent).

Vancide also appears to be safe for tobacco plants. It is still classed as an experimental fungicide and its cost has not been determined.

Another important subject for dairymen is calf feeding. H.D. Eaton, associate professor of animal nutrition, University of Connecticut, will discuss "High Roughage Systems for Feeding Calves," at 10:30 a.m. Thursday February 25.

Other topics of discussion during the two-day event include "New Information on Nutrition of Dairy Cattle," "County Dairy Organizations, What Kind and How Many?" "The Bloat Situation," "Quality Milk Production," "N. C. Dairy Association," and "What Next in Dairy Cattle Breeding?"

The program includes a barbecue luncheon Wednesday, February 24, at the N.C. State College-University of North Carolina basketball game that night, and a demonstration on subsiding, land clearing and digging a trench silo at the N.C. State College dairy farm Thursday afternoon.

Registration begins at 8:30 a.m. February 24, in the Varsity Theatre, Raleigh.

Dairy Promotion Sets New Record

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Wisconsin farmers invested $68,901 in American Dairy Association sales promotion during 1953, the ADA of Wisconsin reports. The figure was a new record.

The money was raised through a voluntary check-off of one cent per pound of butter-fat produced in June and July. This year the check-off became two cents per 100 pounds of milk or one-half cent per pound of butterfat on a year-around basis.

Top Authorities In Dairying Will Address Session

RALEIGH — Tar Heel dairymen who attend the third annual Dairymen's Conference here February 24-25 will hear the nation's top authorities on such dairy management problems as mastitis, bloat breeding and nutrition.

Dr. W.L. Boyd, dean emeritus, School of Veterinary Medicine, University of Minnesota, and past president of the American Veterinary Medical Association, will address the dairymen on "Getting Cows with Calf," at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday, February 24. Later in the afternoon Dr. Boyd will take part in a panel discussion on mastitis. On Thursday, February 25, he will lead an open discussion on bloat, one of the dairymen's most serious problems.

Twenty Counties In State Represented

Thirteen Farmer's Home Administration county supervisors representing 20 Eastern North Carolina counties met in Greenville Thursday to discuss means of rendering better service to families who have received FHA loans.

The all-day meet was divided into two sessions. At the morning session Marion C. Holland, State field representative discussed with the county supervisors the proper method of conducting an annual county-wide FHA meet. The supervisors also discussed their year's work so far and brought up individual problems with which they have been faced.

In the afternoon session Ralph Turner, farm management specialist from the State office spoke to the supervisors on how to better perform technical service to the FHA families for the production of crops and livestock. Turner said similar discussions and planning meetings will be held in all the six FHA districts in the State.

County supervisors attending the meeting included: Ferol V. Harris, Beaufort; Robert P. Bryan, Bertie; Irving M. Robbins, Craven; Cartaret, Pamlico; Edwin F. Morgan, Perquimans; Pasquotank, Gates, Camden, Currituck, Chowan; John W. Stallings, Edgecombe; and Paul V. Simmons, Hyde, Dare; Vernon G. Woodward, Jones; Joe L. Hillson, Lenoir; James C. Eubanks, Martin; W. Willis Bowen, Washington, Tyrell; and Ralph C. Harris, Pitt, Greene.

Farm And Home Agents Gather

Farm and Home agents from Pitt and seven surrounding counties met Thursday at the local television station where classes on preparing and presenting TV programs were being conducted for the agents.

The program was conducted by Ted Hymen, radio and TV extension specialist and Ralph Burgin, head program director of TV at North Carolina State College.

The classes include practical instruction on presenting the programs and actual demonstrations for the agents attending the classes.

Farm and home agents from the following counties attended yesterday's meeting: Pitt, Edgecombe, Nash, Martin, Wilson, Greene, Johnston and Bertie. District Farm Agent E.L. Norton and District Home Agent Miss Lorna Langley were also at the meeting.

Yesterday the classes were presented for farm and home agents from seven Eastern District counties which included: Craven, Jones, taret and Hyde. District Farm Agent C.S. Mintz and District Home Agent Miss Verona Langford attended today's meeting.

Other participating in the classes included Dr. Dennis Bennett, head of the Visual Aids Department at N.C. State and Ralph Mills of State College.

Graham County's First Cotton

ROBBINSVILLE — Just for the record, Graham County's first cotton crop was produced in 1953.

Lawrence Crisp of the Talulah community planted four or five rows of cotton during the first week in May "just to see if it would grow this far west in North Carolina. County Agent W.H. Flake says that, much to Crisp's surprise, it grew fine and yielded about 300 pounds of first quality seed cotton. By the way, the small crop suffered little if any boll weevil damage.

Farmers Advised Stay Within Crop Allotment

Farmers will find it to their advantage to plant within their cotton acreage allotments this year, H.D. Godfrey, Administrative Officer of the State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Office, reminded growers today.

"It is fairly well understood," Godfrey explained, "that under the cotton marketing quota-acreage allotment program, each pound of excess cotton grown by farmers who do not comply with their cotton allotments will be subject to a penalty."

"What's not always understood or remembered is the fact that a grower who does not plant within his cotton allotment will lose any cost-sharing assistance which might otherwise be available to him under the Agricultural Conservation Program, and his cotton likewise will not be eligible for a Government price-support loan.

"So it's to the grower's financial advantage to grow only his share of the national cotton marketing quota—which is the amount of cotton produced from his acreage allotment. Of course all cotton grown within the allotment may be marketed free."

Cotton marketing quotas were approved by 94 percent of the growers who voted in a national referendum on the question last December. The quotas are made operative through acreage allotments, which are established for States, counties, and individual farms.

Cotton Champion Curbed Weevils

RALEIGH — North Carolina's 1953 cotton production champion, Robert Kilgo, Negro sharecropper farmer of Monroe, Route 3, turned the trick by following the best recommended practices, according to S. T. Lloyd, Negro county agent for the Agricultural Extension Service.

Lloyd says Kilgo won the $800 first prize offered by the N.C. Cotton Seed Crushers Association in competition with 426 other Tar Heel cotton farmers.

Kilgo's five-acre yield was 5,675 pounds of lint cotton, with an average per acre yield of 1,135. In the fall of 1952 Kilgo turned under a heavy crop of lespedeza, says the Negro county agent. The field had been in lespedeza about three years. Last spring the field was plowed and put in excellent condition for seeding cotton. Then 400 pounds of 2-12-12 fertilizer was drilled into the soil, followed by 400 pounds of 4-10-6 in the row under the cotton at planting time.

The new Coker 100 will resist seed cotton was used. No top-dressing was applied.

Lloyd says one of the biggest reasons for Kilgo's success was his persistence in carrying out a complete boll weevil control program. Other insects were also controlled. In all, Kilgo put on 10 applications of insecticide.

Lloyd hopes one result of Kilgo's winning the state title will be the adoption on every farm of the slogan, "A Bale or More in '54."

Find New Use If Crop Land Fails

TRENTON — When your row crop land fails to produce a good crop over a period of years, use it for something else, says J.R. Franck.

Franck, county agent for the State College Extension Service, cites the example of C. M. Meadows of Mayville. Meadows has set out two acres of peach trees on some extremely sandy land that had failed to produce good row crops. Franck says there is considerable land in Jones County suitable for growing peaches.

Weary Willie Is A Robot Built To Do Engineering

By BILL RAWLINS KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Every year manufacturers spend huge sums for new machine tools for next year's models.

His inventors say Weary Willie could do the job with last year's tools almost as easily as tuning a radio.

How about your golf game? Do you duck your head at the wrong time or twist your wrists too soon? Weary Willie can show you precisely how you swing and just what you do wrong.

If you're a busy executive, you can teach Willie to sign your name on hundreds of routine letters. You needn't worry about him forging checks. Willie can't think. He can only repeat motions taught him.

Weary Willie is an unphotogenic robot developed in the University of Tennessee electrical engineering department under the direction of Professor Paul Cromwell and C. H. Weaver.

Willie isn't a mechanical man. He's just a bunch of radio tubes, a two-channel tape recorder and a revolving cylinder, hooked up to remember motions taught him and repeat them exactly.

Say you want to teach him to write your name. You hook him up to your pen and go through the motions. He "remembers" them. Play the recording back and he signs your name.

Conceivably, you could do the same job with automatic devices now existing—off-center wheel affairs called cams—but first you'd have to figure out what you wanted the cams to do then design a cam to do it.

Automatic operation isn't new in chemical factories as many as 500 separate processes are fully automatic—but under system now used each step must be thought out beforehand.

Using Willie, a skilled craftsman could put a chunk of metal in a lathe and, with Willie "remembering" his motions, turn out any wanted part. Then Willie could take over to turn out the rest all just like the first.

Willie can "forget" one motion and be taught a new one simply by erasing the tape recorder.

Of course, before you put Willie to work in the assembly lines you'll need to develop him further as well as invent machine tools which Willie can adapt. You'll have to build tools designed to go with him.

"But it's only a problem in mechanical engineering to get Willie more complex," Weaver says. "Weaver says Willie will take over many jobs men now hold; Weaver says 'no.'"

"It would merely make engineers out of more workers and make workers out of more engineers," he said.

But don't count on Willie's signing your letters or improving your golf game too soon. Willie, in his present form, costs $200 in parts a lot more. A version complicated enough to swing a golf club would cost about $50,000.

Red Cross Aims For Members As Well As Money

"We are just as interested in getting Red Cross members as in collecting money," Robert T. Rouse, co-chairman of the Red Cross drive for funds this year, told district chairmen at their organizational meeting in the Municipal Building Thursday.

Rouse, who as co-chairman will be in charge of the Red Cross drive in the county excluding Greenville, said that if it were not for the volunteer workers in the Red Cross organization it would have taken a billion dollars nationally to operate it during the past year. As it was, he said, it took less than $100,000,000 to carry on Red Cross functions during the year.

Dr. Leo W. Jenkins is co-chairman of the drive along with Rouse and will be in charge of solicitations in Greenville.

The meeting included chairman for each school district in Pitt County excluding Greenville.

Rouse stressed the importance of getting groups in the community interested in the Red Cross campaign. He noted that the slogan of the campaign this year is "Join and Serve."

Rouse gave the district chairmen materials for conducting the campaign which begins March 1.

Prior to Rouse's talk, Hoover Tatt, chairman of the Pitt County Red Cross Chapter gave a short history of the Red Cross. He noted that the quota for Pitt County this year is $18,200 which is slightly above last year's.

District chairmen, as announced by Rouse yesterday include: Joe Lupton, Bell Arthur; Mrs. C. L. Bennett, Griffin; Julian Smith, Bethel; Mrs. H. D. Weaver, Winterville; Beverly Congleton, Stokes; Lloyd Wichard, Grimesland; Dr. S. H. Aycock, Farmville; Phil Taylor, Belvoir; Mrs. William Harvey Mills, Route 2, Greenville; Phillip Corey, Fountain; Mrs. David Morrill, Falkland; and Norman Dall, Ayden.

County Cuts Its Charity Expense

SIoux CITY, Iowa (AP)—Woodbury County has reduced its old age assistance program costs by $70,000 this year by threatening to carry to court refusals of children to support aged and indigent parents.

In one court action, a woman was required to contribute $16 weekly to the support of her mother and her sister was compelled to contribute $8.66 weekly.

Threats of like action have permitted the county to eliminate 50 assistance cases and reduce the amounts paid in 200 others.

Local Business Firm Holds "Open House"

For some people an "Open House" is an occasion only for the holiday seasons, but in the eyes of a local business firm it is to be observed all through the year.

At C. H. Edwards Hardware there is an invitation for you anytime you wish to drop in, and what a treat it is to pay a visit to this firm. If you're shopping for items for your home or farm you're sure to find just what you want at Edwards Hardware.

There is a complete line of household appliances and items for the home. All sorts of kitchenware, pots, pans and pressure cookers that warm the heart of any housewife.

Or perhaps the lady in the family has redecorating or painting in mind for her home. Well, if she has, then this is the place to find the materials she'll need at a price far below the amount she'd expect to pay. Edwards carries a full line of Sherwin-Williams and Dutch Boy paints for both the inside and outside of the home. And to make the job easier you can receive expert advice from the salesmen at Edwards who have had many years experience in the field of home and office decoration.

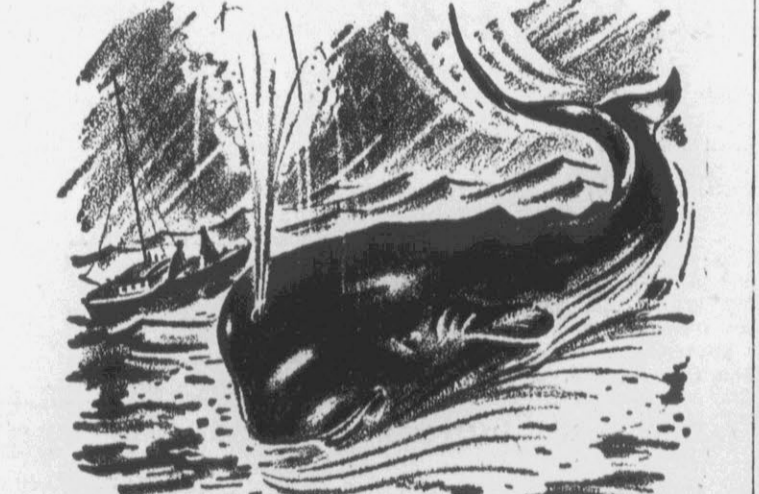

And if wallpaper is also a part of the plan for your home, Edwards Hardware has that too, and what a variety there is. You're always welcome to come in and look at the many samples and take as long as you wish to make your selection.

In case your building job is on a larger scale and you need advice in building supplies, then Edwards is the place to go. They have personnel trained in the building business who will be glad to make an estimate on the work and submit a bid for the job.

But don't think that painting and redecoration is the end of the services offered by C. H. Edwards, because it is only a part. For instance, if you Mrs. WARMER, need anything in the way of farm tools or parts to repair your present equipment, then you'll find it at Edwards. In addition they carry "Myers" electric water pumps for homes and are also equipped to install an irrigation system on your farm if you wish. And any small item that you need is there at Edwards waiting for you. Such things as poultry wire, barbed wire, roofing, tile and cement, etc.

For the boys and girls, the men and women, who like sports and

Buccaneers Can Win Flag Tonight

Pirates Face Elon In North State Conference Contest; Win Would Mean Second Straight Regular Season Title

East Carolina College's Pirates go after at least a piece of distinction tonight.

The Pirates have a chance to assure themselves of at least a tie for first place in the final North State Conference standings if they defeat Elon College tonight at Elon.

Both East Carolina and Lenoir-Rhyne have chances to grab the first place position in the conference standings but the Pirates hold the inside track. They go into tonight's game with a 12-1 record against conference opposition while Lenoir-Rhyne has a 10-3 mark. Both teams have three games to play before the conference activity winds itself up next Saturday.

East Carolina would have to lose all three of its remaining games to give the title to Lenoir-Rhyne. That seems, on paper at least, the most remote of possibilities because the three games the Pirates have left are with teams that have already lost one to this season.

At Elon tonight, the Pirates will be rated the favorites, partially because of an earlier 85-51 victory by the Bucs and partially because of the Pirates' standing in the conference. The Christians are the number three team in the conference but they are no where near the record of 12 wins and one loss that the Bucs own.

Another factor which would tend to make the Pirates heavy favorites is that they seem to be getting better as the season progresses. They haven't turned in a bad night since they lost to Western Carolina on January 18 although they did have a rough time with Atlantic Christian two weeks ago.

No line-up changes are scheduled for tonight by Coach Howard Porter. Center Bobby Hodges, shooting for a pair of North State scoring records, will be at his usual center post with Charlie Huffman and Don Harris at the forwards and J. C. Thomas and Cecil Heath at the guards.

Coach Doc Mathis of the Christians is expected to counter with a

Phantoms Hit Phenomenal 75% Of Field Goal Attempts In Win

Grifton Cagers Split Two Games

GRIFTON—Grimesland and Grifton, working toward favorable positions in the Pitt County Conference tournament next week, split a conference doubleheader here last night.

Grifton's girls, with a double-barreled offense in Colleen Braxton and Peggy Buck, swamped the Grimesland girls 64-38 in the first game but their male colleagues got lost in the rush in the second contest to lose 61-46.

Colleen scored 30 points and Peggy accounted for 19 in the first contest to lead the game a runaway for Grifton. Grifton started working on the Grimesland team almost from the opening whistle and extended their margin of lead throughout the contest.

In the boys' game, Grimesland's Bobby Andrews poured in 24 points to lead the Panthers to victory. He spread his scoring out over the four quarters as Grimesland asserted itself early in the game and maintained a big margin throughout the contest.

Greenville's Phantoms wore out a pair of nets in the Greenville High School gymnasium last night as they thoroughly walloped Roanoke Rapids 103-70 in a Northeastern Conference basketball game.

Playing in the game that was billed as a "preview of the conference tournament," the Phantoms hit a phenomenal 75 per cent of their shots in plowing under the Yellow Jackets. They scored 45 points in the first half and then came back in the last two quarters to add 58 more points in the runaway victory.

Even at that rate, there were times in the contest when the Phantoms had their troubles. Most of those anxious moments came in the first quarter, though, when they couldn't cause much trouble. The game was tied twice and the lead changed hands five times before the Phantoms finally got down to the business of burning up the nets. They finally started moving away from Roanoke Rapids in the final minutes of the first period and then built their lead slowly until the half when they had a 45-31 lead.

After the half, Coach Bob Farley's Phantoms started shaking loose big time. The third period was over Greenville had a terrific 75-52 lead. Coach Farley poured his reserves into the contest in the last quarter and kept his first-string on the bench but the offensive pace never slackened. The 100 mark was cracked with a minute and twenty seconds of playing time remaining when reserve forward Edgar Moore swished a push shot from the side to make the score 101.

Edwards' outstanding Moore, who played only the last quarter, was one of three Greenville players to crack double figures. Edwards was perhaps the most outstanding player throughout the contest with a 26-point offensive effort and some defensive play that would put many college players to shame. He controlled rebound play off both boards and at one point in the contest took seven rebounds off the Roanoke Rapids boards despite close guarding and intensive play.

Forward Bob Powell, the Phantoms' scoring leader, found himself in the right places at the right times particularly in the first half to wind up with 24 points. Howell got only five points in the third quarter (he didn't play in the last period) but he turned into a ball-handler-deluxe to burn the offensive chores over to Edwards. Edwards got 17 points in the third period many of his shots came after passes from Howell.

Moore, the slender junior who had started the year as a first-team guard, got in the ball game in the last minute of the third quarter but he started pouring in points almost as soon as he got in the game. He wound up with a total of 14 points and at one stretch hit five consecutive field goal attempts.

No Justice

Actually, the score of the game doesn't do justice to the Roanoke Rapids performance. The Yellow Jackets had an exceptionally good night on the floor with nearly 50 per cent of their shots falling but they just weren't able to hold the pace set by the Phantoms. It wasn't a case of lax defense, it was simply a matter of not being able to hold up.

Guard Flip Edmondson led the Roanoke Rapids offense with 21 points, 18 of them in the first half. Sub forward Arnold Lewis was second with 16 points. Guard Robert Vick added 14. Terry Babb, Roanoke's All-Conference candidate at forward, was held to only four free throws by the Phantoms' Walter Perkins who was back on the first team after having been on the second squad for the last week.

The score represented the first time since the 1945-1946 season that the Phantoms have scored 100 points.

Phant Jayvees Take 52-36 Win Over Jacket Team

Coach Bill Kittrell's Greenville High School Junior Varsity turned on the pressure in the last half last night to defeat Roanoke Rapids 52-36.

The game was played as a preliminary to the Varsity contest between squads from the two schools. Both games were played in the Greenville High School gym.

Forward Larry Powell, who moves mostly in the pivot on offense, carried the brunt of Greenville's last-half rally and wound up as the game's high scorer with 16 points. Powell got 13 of his points in the last half when the Spooks pulled 3 away from their visitors.

Roanoke Rapids had jumped to an early lead in the game and started edging in the last couple of the second quarter. They had an 11-8 lead at the end of the first quarter but fell behind 21-20 at the half.

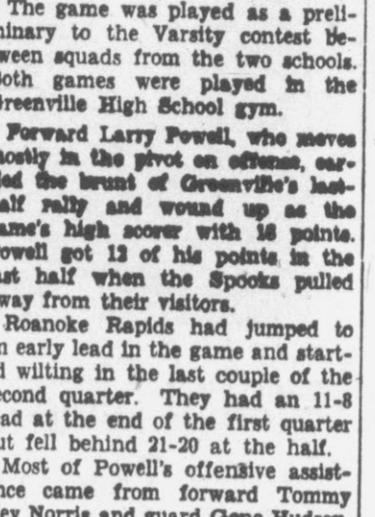

Most of Powell's offensive assistance came from forward Tommy Key Norris and guard Gene Hudson. Norris, playing with the Spooks for the first time in three weeks, got 12 points and Hudson added 11.

Greenville played the game without the services of guard Ike Riddick, the team's scoring leader.

The victory kept Greenville right in the middle of the scrap for the conference's unofficial Junior Varsity Championship. Both Kingston and Greenville have 9-1 records in Jayvee play.

Bethel Girls Win 46-43; Boys Bow To Stokes

STOKES—Stokes-Pactolus split a cage doubleheader with Bethel last night, the local boys taking a 54-39 win after Bethel's girls had captured a 46-43 decision in the evening's opening contest.

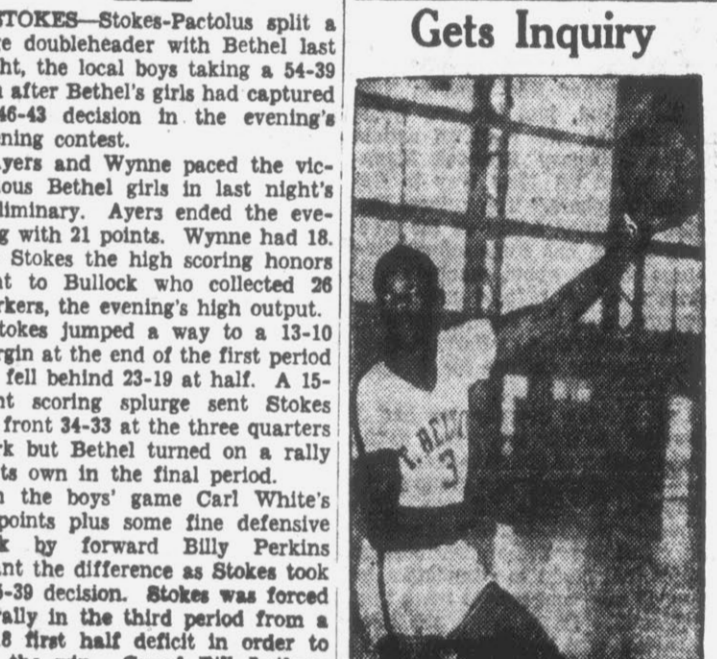

Ayers and Wynne paced the victorious Bethel girls in last night's preliminary. Ayers ended the evening with 21 points. Wynne had 18. For Stokes the high scoring honors went to Bullock who collected 26 markers, the evening's high output.

Stokes jumped a way to a 13-10 margin at the end of the first period but fell behind 23-19 at half. 15-point scoring spurge sent Stokes out front 34-33 at the three quarters mark but Bethel turned on a rally of its own in the final period.

In the boys' game Carl White's 17 points plus some fine defensive work by forward Billy Perkins meant the difference as Stokes took a 46-39 decision. Stokes was forced to rally in the third period from a 19-18 first half deficit in order to cop the win. Guard Bill Latham and center L. Tetterton turned in good performances for the losing Bethel squad.

Gets Inquiry

The Washington Post reports that Frank McGuire, University of North Carolina basketball coach, has written Don Byrd (above), a Negro youth playing for the Ft. Belvoir, Va. team, asking about his plans for the future. Byrd, a 6-3, 19-year-old from Cleveland, told the newspaper: "I think I would like to go to North Carolina if the school is interested in me. ## Ten Men On Basketball Squad Not Enough; Wound Up With 2 On Floor

BILLINGS, Mont.—Ten men on a basketball squad may seem sufficient for any game. But it wasn't enough for Montana School of Mines.

They left their Butte home with 10-men for a two-game basketball trip to Billings. But one player was injured in the first game lost to Rocky Mountain College.

The next night against Eastern Montana, the Mines outfit lost five men on personal fouls. They had only four men left for the last two minutes.

Eastern Coach Shorty Alterowitz called one of his players from the floor to even things.

Mines, struggling to make up a 16-point deficit, lost another on fouls with 30 seconds to go. Shorty pulled another man from his side again.

With 15 seconds remaining and Mines two points behind, another man left via the foul route. Once Shorty removed an Eastern player, that left two on each side to finish the contest.

Eastern won 82-79.

Bolling Eager To Start Soph Year

MOBILE, Ala. (AP)—Milt Bolling, 23-year-old shortstop for the Boston Red Sox, is looking forward eagerly to his second year in the majors. He's not worried about any sophomore flax, either.

"I didn't have a good enough season to worry about the flax. I'm just hoping I can improve some in my hitting this year," said the boy from Mobile.

Appearing in 100 games for the Red Sox in 1953, Bolling batted .263. Among his hits were 13 doubles, one triple and five homers.

The handsome Bolling he was selected by Boston scribes as the best looking member of the club last season under Boudreau.

"I had no idea I would make it," he said with a grin. "I thought they would send me to Louisville. This year I guess I'm the only shortstop on the roster. But I'll give it my best again at Sarasota."

When asked who were the toughest pitchers he faced in the big time he mentioned the names of Al Reynolds and Vitky Ford of the Yankees, and Wiggy Trucks and Billie Pierce of the White Sox.

Cardinals Plan Training Trek

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The Cardinals, who annually do their spring training in St. Petersburg, Fla., will take a cross-country trek this year.

The Redbirds will play their first five exhibition games in Florida, then hop to California where they will meet the Chicago Cubs in two contests at Los Angeles, and one at Fresno. Both squads will play a game at Mesa, Ariz.

Following this series, the Cards return to St. Petersburg to resume their Florida schedule.

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Redlegs will play 37 spring games prior to the opening of the National League season at Crosley Field on April 13. All opposition in the southlands will be major league teams.

The Redlegs play 13 of these games at their home base—Plant Field, Tampa, Fla.

High School Team Pacing Volleyball

At the end of a heavy week's schedule in Greenville Volleyball League play the Tigers and High School are still pacing the women's and mens divisions respectively.

The Tigers rang up two wins this week but one of them, a 15-13 decision over the Old Ladies, almost went the other way.

In the Mens division High School chalked up three wins over Lions Club but Carolina Dairies, the league's second place team, remained only a game behind by collecting three wins over National Guard. High School's record so far is 14-1 with Carolina Dairies standing at 13-2.

The standings:

Chicod Takes Two County Contests

CHICOD—The Chicod High Hornets won a pair of Pitt County basketball games from Belvoir-Falkland High here last night.

The local girls, paced by Pat Hill's 36 points, won the opening game by 52-45.

The home boys won the feature game 61-45.

It was the Chicod girls' seventh win in 13 games and the local boys' sixth win in 13 games in the Pitt County conference.

The win by the boys puts Chicod one-half a game ahead of Belvoir-Falkland in the standings.

The boxes:

Girls Game	Chicod (52)	Belvoir-Falkland (45)

Coaches Have No Gridiron Secrets

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—Most college football coaches prefer to keep each other in the dark on grid strategy. Not so with Eddie Price of the University of Texas and Jack Mitchell of the University of Wichita.

When Price's Longhorns squad turned out at Austin, Mitchell demonstrated strong points of the split-T formation offense. And when Wheashaeker gridlers gather here later this spring, Price will be on the faculty to demonstrate line play—Texas style.

Baseball Thrown Above 80 MPH

BROOKLYN (AP)—One of the most asked baseball questions is: How fast can a ball be pitched from the mound to the plate?

The answer is: Between 85 and 90 miles an hour. This is according to a series of tests conducted last year at Ebbets Field. A cathode-ray oscillograph was used.

Joe Black's fastest pitch was 93.2 miles per hour. Johnny Podres tossed one at 88.50 mph. Bob Mitchell's best was 83.50.

The answer is: Between 85 and 90 miles an hour. This is according to a series of tests conducted last year at Ebbets Field. A cathode-ray oscillograph was used.

Joe Black's fastest pitch was 93.2 miles per hour. Johnny Podres tossed one at 88.50 mph. Bob Mitchell's best was 83.50.

Baseball Thrown Above 80 MPH

BROOKLYN (AP)—One of the most asked baseball questions is: How fast can a ball be pitched from the mound to the plate?

The answer is: Between 85 and 90 miles an hour. This is according to a series of tests conducted last year at Ebbets Field. A cathode-ray oscillograph was used.

Joe Black's fastest pitch was 93.2 miles per hour. Johnny Podres tossed one at 88.50 mph. Bob Mitchell's best was 83.50.

Snow Hill Splits With Farmville

SNOW HILL—Coach Charles Tucker of the Farmville Red Devils promoted a Junior Varsity player to the Varsity last night and saw his move rewarded handsomely when Curtis Worthington came through with nine points in the last two minutes of play to keep in step with a 61-34 Farmville victory over, Snow Hill.

While Worthington's points were not absolutely necessary to insure the Farmville victory, they indicated that the Red Devils would have additional strength for the Pitt County conference tournament which will start next week.

The Farmville girls could have used a player of Worthington's caliber, however, because a last quarter rally they pulled fell short. Snow Hill's girls took advantage of the shortness to take a 47-46 victory.

Both of the games played were Coastal Conference contests.

In the boys game, Snow Hill set an early pace and led 14-12 at the end of the first quarter but they fell apart in the second period to start their downhill slide. Farmville worked up a 29-21 lead at the half and then routed Snow Hill in the last half.

Jack Allen led Farmville scoring with 13 points while Marvin Jones led Snow Hill with 10 points.

In the girls game, Edna Wooten scored 30 points for Farmville but she lost out in a personal scoring duel with Snow Hill's Murphy and thereby gave Snow Hill room for victory. Murphy scored 34 of her team's points.

Farmville fell behind in the early minutes of the ball game and by the time they got their scoring mechanism in high gear it was a bit too late. They did outscore Snow Hill in the last quarter but Murphy's points were too much to overcome.

The boxes:

Girls Game	Farmville (46)	Snow Hill (47)
F-Wooten (30)	Murphy (34)	Riddick (9)
F-Planagan (8)	Wooten (2)	Lloyd (8)

Score by quarters:

Farmville	9	9	13	41
Snow Hill	13	10	11	46

Subs: Farmville—King 6, Health, Little, L. Oakley, and Gardner; Snow Hill—Carraway 1 and Turner.

Still Wrestling At 70 Years Old

LONDON (AP)—Bill Wilson celebrated his 70th birthday by trying out a few new wrestling holds on his pals at a London sports club.

"And I hope to be still wrestling when I'm 80," he said. "I owe a lot to the sport."

Wilson was crippled with arthritis 20 years ago and could not bend his knees. His doctors ordered him to take up wrestling. Wilson did and soon was completely cured.

Athletic Committee Postpones Cage Pairings

By BOB BOYETTE
The Pitt County Athletic Committee decided to wait until after next Tuesday's games to make the pairings for the annual Pitt Tournament since the race in boys play is so close, Committee Chairman Fodie Hodges reported this morning.

The committee met yesterday afternoon to decide the pairings, which would have been made including games through last Tuesday; however, many coaches felt the remaining games would be a deciding factor so they voted to wait until games were completed this coming Tuesday.

The committee then discussed other business in the two-hour meeting at the Tucker Building here.

Hodges said this morning that the committee was planning to meet after the game in Winterville Tuesday night to make the pairings for the annual tournament which opens next Thursday in Farmville.

Boys Race Tied

By virtue of waiting the coaches of the county saw the race for regular season pennant race for first place in the tourney move into a three-way tie when Stokes-Pactolus defeated the league leading Bethel club last night 45-39.

Last night Winterville boys defeated Ayden putting the Bethel, Stokes, and Winterville quints in a three-way tie for first position in the county race.

The only county game scheduled Tuesday night which should put bearing on the county race at Winterville-Chicod game at Winterville. Should Winterville win that game they would be one-half a game ahead of Stokes and Bethel since those two teams play at each other teams from outside the conference. There is no way the Bethel girls, who defeated Stokes-Pactolus last night in a close game, can be put out of the first position. They have a record of 13 wins against one loss. Winterville is in second place so even if they should defeat Chicod on Tuesday night Bethel would still be the number one team because the Winterville sextet has lost two games this year.

In boys play last night Chicod, in virtue of beating Belvoir-Falkland, moved into fifth position in the county standings, one half a game ahead of Belvoir-Falkland.

Grifton moved ahead of Belvoir-Falkland in the girls standings by beating Grimesland last night while Chicod was defeating Belvoir-Falkland. That puts Grifton in sixth place with Belvoir-Falkland dropping to seventh.

The county standings after last night's games:

Boys	W	L
Stokes-Pactolus	12	2
Winterville	12	2
Bethel	12	2
Farmville	5	4
Chicod	6	7
Belvoir	6	8
Grimesland	3	9
Ayden	0	9
Grifton	0	12
Girls	W	L
Bethel	13	1
Winterville	12	2
Farmville	6	3
Stokes-Pactolus	8	6
Chicod	7	6
Grifton	4	8
Belvoir	4	9
Ayden	1	10
Grimesland	1	10

Slowdown Seen After 47 Years

MEDFORD, Mass. (AP)—Judge and Mrs. Lawrence G. Brooks know just how much they have slowed down in 47 years of married life. When the Brooks were married in 1906 they climbed New Hampshire's 6,288-foot Mt. Washington on their honeymoon. It took them three hours. On their 47th anniversary they repeated the climb. Their time: Four hours.

Feels Sorry For Space Visitors

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP)—Dr. Miguel Jorin, head of the University of New Mexico School of Inter-American Affairs, won't say whether or not he believes interplanetary travel is possible. But he does say: "I feel very sorry for any being from another planet who would deliberately expose himself to our society."

Air ROTC Functions Described By Col. Fuller

Colonel Roger Fuller, Professor of Air Science and Tactics of the ROTC unit at East Carolina College, explained the functions of the Air Force ROTC program at a meeting of the Greenville Exchange Club last night.

The Colonel said the purpose of the ROTC at ECC is to select and prepare college students for future service in the Air Force and civilian life.

He stated "To maintain our need and present level of American strength it will require 850,000 new men each year for several years."

For ROTC to come to a college it must be requested by the college president and is offered as a regular accredited college course.

"ROTC" according to the colonel, "is divided into two parts—basic and advanced. Basic ROTC is for college freshmen and sophomores. They study aviation, global geography, international affairs and security organizations such as the UN and NATO.

"The second half or the advanced part of ROTC is for college juniors and seniors. This is a contract course and these men are paid 90 cents per day for their service. This course covers air base functions, management, and a six weeks summer camp. ROTC prepares a young man to be a better soldier and citizen," he concluded.

The president of the Exchange Club gave a report of the N.C. Exchange Quarterly Conference held last week in Sanford. He also called attention to "National Crime Prevention Week," which is February 14 to 20 and sponsored by the National Exchange.

The attendance last night was good. Burney Warren, Jr., an old-timer, was welcomed back into the club after a leave of absence. Milton Logan, an Exchange and newcomer to Greenville, transferred his membership to the local club.

Guests at the meeting included Colonel Fuller and County Auditor Reginald Gray.

Negro Farmers, Homemakers To Meet On Tuesday

A Negro "farmers and homemakers meeting" of men and women will be held at the courthouse in Greenville Tuesday night February 16 at 7 o'clock.

James M. Goode, Negro county agent, said the farmers and farm women of Pitt county are invited to attend the meeting and take a part in organizing the association.

A specialist from Agricultural and Technical College at Greensboro will be at the meeting to discuss farm and home problems.

Mrs. Amelia S. Capehart, Negro home agent for Pitt county, said she hopes to see a large crowd of farm women at the meeting.

Plans will be made for a large attendance at the Farm Bureau educational meeting at A. and T. College in Greensboro March 12.

Report Pitt Rotarians Helped Make Conference Big Success

Pitt County Rotarians contributed in large measure to the success of the annual conference of District 279 of Rotary International which concluded a two-day session in Goldsboro Friday night.

That was the report on Saturday from Greenville Rotarians who attended the conference which nominated Dr. Ralph D. Welton, president of Pembroke State College, as district governor to succeed Charles L. McCoullers of Kingston. Dr. Welton will be elected at the 1954 convention at Rotary International to be held in Seattle in June and will assume his office on July 1.

Addresses on Friday's program were made by Irvin Morgan, a past district governor, of Farmville, on Vocational Service; by Robert B. Booth of Ayden on "The Rotary Foundation Fellowship Program"; and James W. Butler, also a past district governor, of Greenville on "Your Magazine—Inspiration to Action," reviewing the influence on opinion and action through the Rotarian Magazine, and the Spanish edition, "Revista Rotaria."

A playlet, "Accepted With Regrets," pointing out Rotary avenues of service and membership problems was presented with Dr. Howard J. McGinnis, also a past district governor, of Greenville, Morgan and Butler appearing in roles in this production, with other former governors and members of the Goldsboro club.

Willard T. Kyzer of Greenville was conference secretary. John B. Lewis of Farmville was chairman of the Entertainment Committee, of which J. B. Kirtrell Sr. of Greenville was a member.

David J. Whichard III of Greenville served as a member of the conference publicity committee.

A record attendance at the conference was noted, and among those present for sessions from Greenville were President Badger Johnson, Mrs. Kyzer, and Dr. and Mrs. K. B. Pace. Ayden, Bethel and Farmville clubs had large delegations registered in the attendance.

Others on committees from the Greenville-Pitt area:

Dave O. Spier, Bethel; reception, Plato Bass, Farmville; registration, J. R. Taylor, Ayden, and John B. Bunting, Bethel, prizes and awards; Alton F. Whitley, Vanceboro, continuity; L. C. Vereen, Farmville, and Wilbur C. Ormond, Ayden, music; Donald Witherington, Vanceboro, finance.

Four Minor Accidents In City Investigated Friday

City police investigated a series of four traffic accidents within the city yesterday with damage being minor in all cases.

At 1:10 p. m. yesterday a car driven by Edward Patrick of 123 North Harding Street collided with a vehicle operated by Ed Conway, 202 Lewis Street. The accident occurred at the corner of Second and Harding Streets. The two cars received a total of $200 damage. No arrests were made.

Two cars collided at the corner of Evans and Fifth Streets at 3:05 yesterday. The vehicles were driven by I. F. Johnson of Greenville and Joseph William Elliott, 1623 Canterbury Street, Raleigh. Johnson was making a right turn into a drive on Evans Street when Elliott's car crashed into the rear. Johnson's car received $75 damage and Elliott's $25. Police made no arrest in a third accident at 8:40 p. m. a car operated by R.C. Fields of 1303 East Tenth Street and a second car driven by Walter Ames of 1110 Greene Street collided on Evans Street doing about $5 damage to Fields' auto. No arrests were made.

He reminded that the state has had no financial scandal in more than 50 years and that the commonwealth is well on its way to economic expansion. Bridges declared that North Carolina and Delaware, a state about the size of Pitt county, are the only states that support statewide highway programs. Further, he pointed out that North Carolina is the only state in the Union that supports a nine-month and 12 grade school system on a statewide basis.

Dixie McGlothen presented the speaker. President J. Bryan Brown presided.

The club had a report that the Minstrel Committee and the Advertising Committee have started work on the annual entertainment feature to be held in March for the benefit of the underprivileged child fund. Guests of the club were Polk Denmock of Raleigh and H.C. Richardson and Dick Heller, Bill Taft, Jr., was the Junior Kiwanian from the High School.

Served 1,954 At Benefit Supper

The Eighth Street Christian Church Sunday School served 1,954 people at a benefit supper last night at the local Armory. Elbert Bennett reported this morning.

Bennett, who, along with Jimmy Harris was in charge of the affair, said all the food was contributed by members of the church.

The 1,954 people were fed between the hours of 5:30 and 7:30 p. m. Bennett said that appreciation is expressed to all people who participated in any way toward making the supper a success.

There was an auction sale of contributed items from Greenville merchants following the meal. The money raised will go for a Sunday School rally and for the advancement of all Sunday Schools in Greenville.

It is believed by leaders of the event that it is one of the largest of its type ever held in Greenville.

McLeod To Face New Demo Fire

WATERTOWN, S.D. (AP)—R. W. Scott McLeod, State Department security officer, seemed certain today to run into new Democratic fire on his return to Washington after a speaking tour through Wyoming and South Dakota.

McLeod goes back to the capital today. He told a Republican Lincoln Day dinner gathering last night that attacks on propriety of his Western tour "are pure spite."

Sen. Lehman (D-Lib-NY) issued a statement in Washington saying he will introduce Monday an amendment to the Hatch Act "so as to forbid overt political activity by any government employee whose function or responsibility is primarily or includes in a major way, personnel security."

Lehman's proposal was in line with Democratic charges that McLeod's Lincoln Day speechmaking violated the Hatch Act injunction against civil servants taking part in politics. A State Department spokesman, queried on this point earlier this week, said department legal advisers ruled McLeod was exempt under the law.

Those in charge of the meeting suggest that members bring with them sandwiches, as usual.

Mrs. Edgar Hirschberg will be the speaker and she will discuss Negro poetry. She is a graduate of DePauw University in English, speech and dramatics.

AAUW Chapter To Meet Monday

The Greenville branch of the Association of American University Women will meet Monday evening at 8 o'clock in the "Y" Hut on East Carolina College campus.

Those in charge of the meeting suggest that members bring with them sandwiches, as usual.

Mrs. Edgar Hirschberg will be the speaker and she will discuss Negro poetry. She is a graduate of DePauw University in English, speech and dramatics.

Typical Weather For February

Typical February weather is prevailing here and the temperature at 8 a. m. today was 26, five degrees lower than at the same time yesterday.

The highest temperature here yesterday was 42 degrees. Lowest last night 21, and at 8 a. m. today it was 26, the local U. S. Weather Station reported.

Yesterday a year ago, the highest temperature here was 61 degrees. Lowest that night 40, and at 8 a. m. next day it was 47. Little over a third of an inch of rain fell that day.

Flew 900 Miles Off His Course

ST. LOUIS (AP)—"I was surprised, to say the least."

That was the comment of a Royal Canadian Air Force flying officer, N. L. Harrison, when he landed his jet plane at St. Louis Municipal Airport last night—900 miles off his course on a routine training flight.

Harrison, of Toronto, said all his navigational aids had gone on the blink shortly after he and Flying Officer G. G. MacLeod of Montreal, left Portage La Prairie, Manitoba, late yesterday afternoon for a flight to North Bay, Ontario, also about 900 miles.

Tar Heel Demos Convene Tonight

RALEIGH (AP)—More than 600 Tar Heel Democrats gathered here for tonight's $50 a plate Jefferson-Jackson Day fund raising dinner.

Sen. Spessard L. Holland of Florida will deliver the main address before the party faithful, who will be led by Gov. Umstead and the state Washington delegation.

Other dignitaries on hand were Stanley Woodward, treasurer of the Democratic National Committee, and John Graham, former Undersecretary of the Treasury.

State Auditor Is Kiwanis Speaker

At the Kiwanis Club's weekly supper meeting last night, State Auditor Henry L. Bridges, guest speaker, said North Carolina gets more service for its tax dollar than any other dollar spent in the state.

"North Carolina is rendering a real service with its tax dollars, and with that kind of solid government, the future is bright for greater development because of the confidence of the people in its governmental officials," the speaker declared.

He reminded that the state has had no financial scandal in more than 50 years and that the commonwealth is well on its way to economic expansion. Bridges declared that North Carolina and Delaware, a state about the size of Pitt county, are the only states that support statewide highway programs. Further, he pointed out that North Carolina is the only state in the Union that supports a nine-month and 12 grade school system on a statewide basis.

Dixie McGlothen presented the speaker. President J. Bryan Brown presided.

AYDEN—On Thursday, Feb. 11, the Home Demonstration Club held a very successful meeting at the home of Rev. and Mrs. H. R. Reeves. Mrs. Sarah Reeves, club president, explained the objectives of the meeting and presented Mrs. A. M. Capehart, County Agent, who explained the importance of eating three balanced meals every day. Each member was given a chart showing which seeds to plant in the garden each month of the year.

During the month of January, the club members sponsored a Silver Tea in order to aid the March of Dimes Drive. The amount realized was $12.50.

Mrs. J. M. Reeves, the hostess, served a delicious repast. Valentine decorations and plants made a lovely scene. Three members joined the club. The citizen of Ayden and the Home Agent are proud of the club's progress.

politically potent in his balliwick. "My folks are going along with Scott," said one of these men. "We don't like him and don't really want him in the senate, but So-and-so is handling the Lennon interest and we can't afford to let his crowd get control of our county." The other man had almost the same thing to say in reverse order. "Most of our people," he said, "really prefer Scott; but the folks who are fronting his campaign in our county will ruin us if they gain anymore hold than they have now."

That gets back to the basic principles of democracy. Roosevelt and Truman and Eisenhower and McCarthy and Malenkov and Adlai get the big headlines. The United Nations and Washington and London and Moscow and Raleigh figure in the datelines for news dispatches. But the people are more vitally concerned about going on in the city hall and the county courthouse. Some votes will be cast for and against them because of positions taken by John Doe and Joe Doakes in the community.

HE SAID, 'FOR AIDING AND ABETTING A STICK-UP MAN!'

YEAH...AND THE BULL ADMITS IT! BEN, I SEEN THAT GUY IN ACTION...

...WALKIN' INTA A STORE BEIN' STUCK UP BY A GUN-HAPPY HEISTER, AND WALKIN' OUT WITH THE HOOD HALF-CONSCIOUS, PLEADIN' FOR MERCY...

AND THIS I DIDN'T SEE, BUT YOU READ IT IN THE PAPERS...

ONCE BULL GETS A NOTE FROM THE SENK MOB WARNIN' HIM THAT IF HE SHOWS HIS FACE ON THE WEST SIDE HE'S A CINCH FOR THE CORONER...

SO THE BULL, NATCH, HEADS STRAIGHT FOR THE WEST SIDE. HE AIN'T IN THE DISTRICT MORE 'N A COUPLA SECONDS WHEN TWO OF WHITEY SENK'S TOUGHEST GOPHERS CLOSE IN ON HIM...

WHAT HAPPENS THEN IS FAST AND FINAL. ONE, TWO, THEM GORILLAS THINK IT'S THE WHOLE MARINE CORPS THEY GOT MIXED UP WITH...

HE DRAGS THEM TWO BLOCKS RIGHT INTA WHITEY SENK'S PRIVATE OFFICE AND TELLS SENK THAT BULL GREER DON'T SCARE EASY—SENK BELIEVES HIM, BUT GOOD!

BOSS, HERE'S MRS. CASTLE.
SHE WOULD LIKE TO SPEAK WITH YOU.

YES, MR. MILES... I HAVE SOMETHING TO SAY. DON'T GO AWAY, RUSTY... I WANT
YOU AND PATTY TO HEAR ME, TOO.

PLEASE SIT DOWN, MRS.
CASTLE... I HOPE NOTHING'S
WRONG...

QUENTIN MILES, I'VE BEEN A FOOL... A SHORTSIGHTED,
PREJUDICED, SELF-CENTERED
OLD FOOL!

WHY I-ER-
YOU - GOOD
GRACIOUS! - I DON'T BELIEVE I KNOW
WHAT YOU MEAN.

AS YOU VERY WELL KNOW, I'VE TRIED FOR YEARS TO GET RID OF
THE ORPHANAGE WHICH ADJOINS
MY PROPERTY... I'VE TAKEN THE STAND THAT THEY WERE LITTLE DELINQUENTS... BUT...

BUT WHAT, MRS. CASTLE?... I KNOW YOU'VE BEEN A BIT
PREJUDICED... HAS SOMETHING
HAPPENED TO CHANGE
YOUR VIEWS?

GEE WHILLIKERS! I WONDER WHAT SHE'S GETTING AT?!

SHE SURE
HAVE CHANGED!

I AM ASHAMED TO CONFESS THAT I HIRED
THAT AWFUL GANGSTER, DAN, TO INVENT
SOME MISCHIEF WHICH WOULD BE BLAMED
ON THE ORPHANS... HE TURNED YOUR
YEARLINGS LOOSE... THEN STARTED
THE FIRE... THE CHILDREN SAVED
MY HOME AND MY LIFE!

...AND NOW I PROPOSE TO TRY, IN SOME SMALL WAY, TO MAKE AMENDS FOR THE INJUSTICE I HAVE DONE THEM...

THAT HOUSE OF MINE IS FAR TOO
BIG FOR MY DAUGHTER AND ME...
TOMORROW MORNING I AM DEEDING
IT FREE AND CLEAR TO THE ORPHANAGE WITH FUNDS TO REMODEL IT FOR DORMITORIES
AND A RECREATION HALL!

MRS. CASTLE, I CAN ONLY SAY
THAT'S SIMPLY WONDERFUL!

A FEW MINUTES LATER...
JEEPERS, DADDY,
WASN'T THAT MARVELOUS
OF MRS. CASTLE?

I CAN'T GET OVER
HER HAVING OUR YEARLINGS TURNED LOOSE!

THAT REMINDS ME...
SPEAKING OF THE
YEARLINGS, I JUST BOUGHT AN OLD FARM
IN THE FOOTHILLS SO
WE'LL HAVE MORE ROOM
FOR THEM.

MEANWHILE, IN A CABIN IN THOSE SAME FOOTHILLS...
GOT SOME NEWS, LOBO...
THEY'RE SAYIN' DOWN AT THE STORE THAT A GUY NAMED
MILES BOUGHT THE OLD
ADAMS FARM... GONNA
RAISE HORSES.

THAT AIN'T GOOD, DUKE...
NOT GOOD AT ALL... IT'S TOO CLOSE... I NEVER FIGURED ANYBODY WOULD WANT IT OR I'D HAVE
