Thieves Take $210, Overlooked Another $1,094

ECC Office Vault Robbed

Thieves broke into the administration building of East Carolina College last night and took $210.71 from a safe in the treasurer's office. However, they overlooked $1,094.66 in cash and $590.47 in checks in the walk-in vault. Pictured above are Detective N. H. Byrd, Patrolman Paul Jewett, and Chief of Police S. G. Gibbs, all of the Greenville Police Department, and SBI Agent Clyde Fentress as they checked for fingerprints on the door of the safe. (Reflector photos by Alvin Taylor)

The person or persons who robbed the walk-in vault at ECC had to break open the front door of the administration building, knock off the combination lock of the safe door and break a lock on the inner door of the vault. Above is the outer door of the safe. The circular marks on the right shows the position of the combination dial which had been broken off.

Demos See Vote Issue In Confirming Beeson

WASHINGTON (AP)—Democratic leaders in the Senate were quietly jubilant today, despite a 45-42 defeat in their campaign against confirmation of Albert C. Beeson to the National Labor Relations Board. Sen. Hill (D-Ala.), who took a leading part in the floor fight against Beeson yesterday, said the outcome would "give the Democrats a clear-cut issue which we will undoubtedly raise from time to time" before next November's election. Beeson was confirmed after bitter debate. Accused by some Democrats of making "false and misleading" statements during his confirmation hearing, he was given a vote of confidence by all but one of the Republicans present. Republicans said his integrity stood unquestioned and that nothing brought out in lengthy hearings before the Senate Labor Committee had impaired "his reputation for truth and veracity." Some

Pushed His Girl Under A Train

MEADVILLE, Pa. (AP)—Moses Terrell, 43, faces 10 to 20 years in prison for pushing his girlfriend Laura Starr, 31, to her death under the wheels of an Erie Railroad freight train here last Dec. 27. Terrell stood with bowed head as a jury shortly before last midnight found him guilty of second degree murder. The 10 to 20-year sentence is mandatory.

said that he became confused during his testimony but had no intention not to tell the truth. But Sen. Neely (D-W.Va.), asked the Senate to help him protect President Eisenhower "against the disgrace of putting a man on there who lied five times." Three Democrats joined 42 Republicans in confirming Beeson. On the losing side were 40 Democrats, Sen. Langer (R-ND) and Sen. Morse (Ind-Ore). Hill said in an interview the outcome "showed that the Democrats can stick together on a clear-cut issue of this kind." Northern and Southern wings of the party often disagree. The three Democrats voting for Beeson, all Southerners, were Senators Byrd of Virginia, Holland of Florida and Eastland of Mississippi. Beeson's relationship with his former employer, the Food Machinery and Chemical Corp., became the crucial issue in the dispute over his testimony to the Labor Committee. He submitted a formal resignation to the company, the sixth day of the hearings, to take effect the date he takes the oath of office as a member of the NLRB. Prior to that, he told the committee he had submitted an oral resignation to the firm's Board of Directors. However, Company President Paul L. Davies said Beeson had been given a one-year leave of absence but had no agreement of any kind to return. A leave of absence, Davies said, would preserve Beeson's status in the company's pension plan, while a resignation would end it.

Attempt Begins To Scale Peak

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP)—An expedition made up mainly of young scientists left here last night to begin an attempt to scale the world's fourth highest mountain, Makalu, in the Himalayas near Mt. Everest. The nine members of the party left for Tokyo aboard a plane from Travis Air Force Base. From there they will fly to Calcutta, then go by rail to a little town in India near the border of Nepal, an independent state. Makalu, never before climbed, is on the boundary line between Nepal and Soviet-dominated Tibet. Scientific information on what happens to humans under the stresses of extreme cold, high altitude and danger will be the main object of the expedition, although its mountain-climbing experts hope to scale the 27,790-foot peak. The attempt will probably be made in May. Leader of the party is William Siri, University of California medic.

Turkish President Visiting Tobacco Area, Cotton Mill

RALEIGH (AP)—The president of Turkey's official tour of the United States neared its conclusion today as he visited North Carolina's tobacco growing area and the state's first cotton mill. President Celal Bayar and his party board their three railroad cars tonight for New York City and after they arrive there tomorrow morning, their official tour ends. However, they will remain stateside another week but in private, unofficial capacity. President Bayar's schedule for today included a visit to Rocky Mount, going by way of Wilson, which calls itself the flue-cured tobacco growing capital of the world. At Rocky Mount the Rocky Mount Mills, which were established in 1814 at the falls of the Tar River, were an object of interest. The mills burned during the Civil War and were rebuilt. At a dinner at Duke University last night President Bayar, in his last formal speech, declared that the "moral virtue" he has found in his 24 days in the United States has strengthened his hopes for the future of the world. He said unfortunately there are some nations which "are endeavoring to enslave mankind . . . It is for the purpose of preventing the onslaught of such forces that the free nations of the world have united." The Turkish president said: "Freedom and slavery cannot exist side by side in the world forever." He observed: "In the United States material riches have joined forces with moral fortitude . . . Americans in almost all walks of life still retain the pioneer spirit." He added there are other nations seeking to acquire material strength and power, "but alas, those nations are not dedicating their achievements to the welfare and freedom of humanity as you are doing but are endeavoring to enslave mankind." The presidential party during the day visited the Liggett & Myers cigarette factory in Durham where batteries of machines produce 1,200 cigarettes per machine per minute, most all with blends of Turkish tobacco. They also visited the Morehead Planetarium at the nearby University of North Carolina campus and the nuclear reactor at North Carolina State College in Raleigh. While on the State College campus President Bayar repeated his hope for worldwide use of atomic energy for peaceful purposes in line with President Eisenhower's proposals to the United Nations.

Commissioner To Seek Re-Election

Marvin W. Smith, Pitt County Commissioner from the fourth district for the past eight years, announced yesterday he will seek re-election to office this year. Smith paid his filing fee for the Democratic primary yesterday to Elections Board Chairman Gilbert Peel. Smith, a farmer of Chicod township, represented the fourth district on the Pitt Board of Commissioners since 1946. He will seek the Democratic nomination for the four-year term of office. With his announcement and filing yesterday, Smith became the final member of the present Board of Commissioners to make public his intentions in the coming primary. Previously Commissioners F. F. Hendrix of Greenville, J. T. Dupree of Belvoir and M. Brown Hodges of Grifton announced they would seek re-election to office; and Commissioner C. C. Harris of Ballards Crossroads announced he will seek re-election to office. Smith's announcement makes an official race for the post for commissioner from the fourth district. Robert G. Little of Grimesland last week announced he will seek the Democratic nomination for the post of commissioner from the fourth district also. The only other race for a county commissioner's post which has officially developed so far is in the fifth district where R. Guy Jackson of Ayden and B. Alton Gardner of Ayden route two are candidates. In the other three commissioner districts of the county, there is only one announced candidate so far. Vance Perkins of Greenville has announced his candidacy for commissioner from the first district; W. Jasper Smith of Bethel has announced his candidacy for commissioner of the second district; and incumbent C. C. Harris of Ballards Crossroads has announced his candidacy for re-election from the third district. The filing period for candidates for nominal to county offices officially closes on April 17, and the filing period for candidates for state offices closes March 20.

City's New Garbage Truck Stolen, Found Wrecked In Ditch This Morning

By BOB BOYETTE Reflector Staff Writer Greenville's Street Department's new $5,000 1954 model garbage truck was stolen shortly after 2 a. m. this morning and later recovered, turned over in a ditch, near Warren's Chapel. The person who stole the truck has not been located, but local police report a lead on the thief. Nathan Coggins, of 12th Street, was operating the truck last night and had just picked up garbage at Jones' Fish Market on Dickinson Avenue. He then went into the Busy Bee Cafe, also on Dickinson, to get a cup of coffee. When leaving the cafe to continue his garbage collection at approximately 2:15 a.m., Coggins said the truck was pulling away. He tried to catch the truck, but it was moving too fast. He immediately notified the local Police Department. The truck was found before daylight this morning in a wrecked condition near Warren's Chapel. Local garage officials, who are repairing the vehicle, stated this morning that there was approximately $300 damage to the front end, left side, and cab. The Greenville Street Department had been using the $5,000 garbage truck only a couple of months.

Becomes Mother For 23rd Time; Seventeen Living

TIVERTON, R.I. (AP)—For the 23rd time in her 25 years of marriage, Mrs. Irene DeMello, wife of an unemployed farmer, has become a mother. The 23rd child, a girl arrived yesterday in St. Anne's Hospital, Fall River. The infant was the eighth girl in succession and is one of 17 surviving DeMello children, the eldest 23. All the children were born separately to the 40-year-old Mrs. DeMello. The first born lived only until 2 years old and five others died at birth. Twelve of the children live in a six-room farmhouse. Charles DeMello, the 51-year-old father, gave up farming about eight months ago because of lack of funds and help. He said he sold his two cows and is looking for other work. The family subsists on a weekly $25 welfare check from the town, plus what DeMello can make by salvaging automobile parts from a nearby dump.

Five-Day Dream Son Still Alive Conceded A Hoax

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP)—A five-day dream that his soldier son might still be alive was ended today for Walter Tartar, 64-year-old shipyard worker. Tartar conceded early this morning as he went to bed that he had been a victim of a vicious hoax. He had received a telegram last Saturday with the words "Hello Dick." It was sent from New York city. His son, Pvt. Richard Tartar, 21, was reported by the Army to have been killed in action in Korea 11 months ago. A sealed coffin and his personal papers arrived here last summer.

Deadlocked Foreign Ministers Heading For Homes Plan New Big Four Parley

By PRESTON GROVER BERLIN (AP)—The Big Four foreign ministers headed home from their Berlin meeting today to prepare for another conference in two months—this time to seek peace in Korea and Indochina. They wrote off any chance of agreement on European problems for the present. The deadlock at Panmunjom was bypassed by the decision yesterday to open the long-debated Korean peace conference in Geneva April 26 with Red China among the nations to participate, not as a sponsor but by invitation. The ministers agreed the problem of ending the seven-year-old war in Indochina "shall also be discussed" at the conference. The top diplomats of the United States, Britain, France and Russia promised also to "hold an exchange of views" on world disarmament under a resolution adopted by the United Nations General Assembly last Nov. 28. This resolution proposed secret big-power talks to speed arms reduction. But the problems of Germany, Austria and European security were left unsolved when Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, the chairman of the final session, scrapped out adjournment at 7 p.m. Secretary of State Dulles, due in Washington by plane late today, voiced "a large measure of regret" at the failures, which he attributed to a fundamental difference of views between the East and West. "Our failures," Dulles said, "are of a kind which could not have been avoided by mere diplomatic or negotiating skills at this conference. . . . All of our basic differences here have revolved around the question of whether it was right, or indeed safe, to give men and nations a genuine freedom of choice. The Western Powers were willing to place trust in the German and Austrian peoples. The Soviet Union was not." Both sides gave ground on the Korean conference decision in Berlin. Molotov dropped his promotion of Red China as a sponsoring power. The United States waived its demand that the conference be two sided, with Russia sitting in only as a Communist belligerent. The closing conference communiqué said the Geneva parley would be open to the Big Four, South Korea, North Korea and other nations whose troops fought in Korea. This excludes such neutrals as India.

Will Decide How To Write Off Panmunjom Talks U.S. And Korea Allies Meet

By WARREN ROGERS JR. WASHINGTON (AP)—Representatives of the United States and its 16 Korean War allies meet today to decide how to write off the now bypassed preliminary peace talks at Panmunjom. They were expected to vote to forget about a Communist demand of nearly a month ago that the talks be resumed. The demand, as well as the knotty problem of breaking the months-long Panmunjom stalemate, dropped into the limbo of academic questions yesterday. The Big Four foreign ministers, in a winding announcement at their Berlin conference, scheduled a peace conference for April 26 at Geneva, Switzerland. They made the preliminary arrangements supposed to be settled at Panmunjom. Some members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in interviews yesterday professed to seek a risk of appeasement in the U.S. decision to sit in on a conference attended also by Red China in a diplomatic, not military, capacity. Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich.) said it is a "very calculated risk" which might bring peace, but if not would mean a gain for Russia and Communist China. Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ.) said he intends to give Secretary of State Dulles "a stern warning of the dangers of appeasement."

And Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.) said he would insist on assurances against recognition and demand "a specific answer as to whether this is a preliminary step." Arthur H. Dean, special ambassador to the Panmunjom negotiations arranged to fly from New York for the United Nations allies' meeting at the State Department. Dean, a Wall street lawyer and former law partner of Secretary of State Dulles, broke off the Panmunjom talks last Dec. 12 after seven fruitless weeks of negotiations. He vowed not to return until the Communists took back a "perfidy" charge against the United States. But the Communists refused. The U.N. Allies backed Dean's stand. There the stalemate stood—with neither side willing to give in for fear of loss of face—until Jan. 26. The Red negotiators then demanded Dean's return, saying nothing about retracting their accusation. The State Department drafted a reply but it never got sent. Dulles, by then dealing with Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov at Berlin, pocketed the draft reply. The result was agreement to meet April 26 at Geneva in a conference to settle Korea's future. The Big Four decided as well who was to attend: the United States, Britain, France, Russia, Red China, North and South Korea and 13 other nations which fought on the U.N. side. The only unsettled question was the agenda, and American officials said that would be arranged without a preliminary Panmunjom-type meeting.

Legal Issues Besetting Proposed Courtmartial

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army, moving to court-martial Opl. Edward S. Dickenson on charges of helping the enemy while a prisoner of war, may run into a legal problem: was the fighting in Korea a war? And the Marine Corps, wrestling with a potentially graver prisoner of war problem, has laid the legal groundwork for considering whether two of its officers should be disciplined. Until yesterday, only one was directly involved in the inquiry. The question for the Marines is whether the officers broke military law when under pressure from their Communist captors, they signed false germ warfare confessions. Dickenson is a 23-year-old Cracker Neck Va., soldier who thought for a while he would stay at the side of his Red captors but eventually changed his mind, came home to his native hill country and—in a brief spell of freedom—married a neighbor girl. Then the Army arrested him and started an investigation. The Army made up its mind yesterday what to do about him. Without reference to his change of allegiance and later change of heart, it announced he will be tried soon on charges of (1) informing on his fellow prisoners and (2) passing information to his Communist captors while he was a prisoner. One of the articles under which Dickenson is charged, part of the code of military justice, applies to a person in the hands of the enemy "in time of war." The United States never declared war against its opponents in Korea. A special Marine court of inquiry today resumes an effort to decide whether Col. Frank H. Schwable should be court-martialed for admitting falsely under pressure of his Communist captors that he helped wage germ warfare against the Reds. Unexpectedly, the court yesterday declared Schwable's co-pilot and fellow prisoner of the Reds, Maj. Roy H. Bley, an "interested party" in the investigation. This meant the stocky, ruddy complexioned Bley, 40, who now lives in Santa Ana, Calif., shifted from the role of witness to that of possible co-defendant in the event there should be a court-martial.

Four Calls For Forest Rangers

Shown above is a view of the forest fire which damaged 42 acres of timber on Bob Haddock's at "Pig" Mills' land in the Cox's Crossroads community yesterday. Lack of rain in this area caused wood to dry considerably and forest rangers were called to four fires yesterday. (Photo by Roy Hardee) Pitt County forest rangers responded to calls for four woods fires involving blazes of unknown origin on 70 acres of timberland yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Margaret Smith, observer at the fire tower, near the Greenville television station, reported that the first woods fire was in the Ballard's Crossroads community. Seven acres on Major Bess' land burned. The second forest fire yesterday afternoon was on 20 acres on Mrs. Sadie Allen's farm in the Red Oak community. Fire damaged timber on 41 acres on Bob Haddock's and "Pig" Mills' lands in the Cox's Crossroads community. Forest rangers had the fires under control shortly after dark. One acre of timber on Blount Edwards' farm near Black Jack was considerably damaged late in the afternoon. Only a light shower of rain has

Lector Book Club Continues Study of North Carolina

Mrs. Burney Warren Jr. entertained members of the Lector Book Club at her attractive home on Shady Lane on Tuesday afternoon, February 16. Mrs. Warren's home was beautifully decorated with early spring flowers.
Invited guests for the afternoon were Mrs. Connor Merritt Jr. and Mrs. Van Fleming Jr.
Mrs. Tom Fleming, president of the club, presided over a brief business session. The following slate of officers for the new club year was presented by the nominating committee and accepted by the club members: President, Mrs. E. S. Flanagan; vice-president, Mrs. Howard Waldrop; secretary, Mrs. Burney Warren Jr.; treasurer, Mrs. V. E. Wells Jr.; librarian, Mrs. Travis Flanagan.

Mrs. Warren turned the meeting over to Mrs. E. S. Flanagan, who had charge of the program for the afternoon. Continuing the club's study of North Carolina, Mrs. Flanagan spoke of the different nationalities of the early settlers of North Carolina. The earliest explorers, French led by Verrazano, Spanish led by Lucas de Ayllon and later Spaniards led by De Soto, did not stay because they found no gold. North Carolina's first permanent settlers were English who moved down from Virginia. The sand-reeds, the shifting inlets, the ocean currents and the breakers off Cape Fear, Cape Lookout and Cape Hatteras determined the fact that North Carolina should not be settled by colonists coming directly from Europe, but by overflows from her neighbors.

Mrs. Flanagan spoke of the settlements by French Huguenots from Virginia and the early colony of German Palatines and Swiss. During the period of royal rule (1730-1775) the population of North Carolina increased unfeignedly. Economic, religious and political conditions in Scotland, Ireland and Germany drove thousands of hardy pioneers to seek new homes on the Carolina frontier. Many moved to North Carolina from Pennsylvania, finding rents cheaper and the soil more plentiful. The Highland Scotch, the Scotch-Irish and the German settlers helped to turn North Carolina into a flourishing state. Slave labor was imported from Virginia and South Carolina slave markets and so the Negroes contributed to North Carolina's growth in population.

The club members had an enjoyable time discussing the nationalities of members of their respective family trees.
Mrs. Warren served a delicious dessert course with coffee and nuts. The books were exchanged and the meeting was adjourned.

Mrs. Beasley Reviews Book of Jonah Before Athenaeum Club
The Athenaeum Book Club met on Tuesday at one o'clock with Mrs. E. B. Pace at her home on Summit St.
After a few minutes exchange of greetings, the hostess served a delicious two course luncheon with guests seated in the dining and living rooms.
Early spring flowers were used throughout the house and Mrs. Pace's dining table was especially attractive with an arrangement of red, white and blue carnations carrying out the patriotic note of Washington's birthday. Miniature American flags were used on the plates with cherry tarts for dessert.

Mrs. Beasley continued the club's study of the Bible by reviewing the Book of Jonah.

She said Jonah was the fifth of the minor prophets and was very popular in his day because he predicted victory for the people. She said that the role of four chapters in this book has given rise to almost as many differences as the book of Genesis but that all scholars agreed that this book was always read on the day of atonement.
Mrs. Beasley's talk revealed a thorough study of the book and her listeners were very appreciative of this wonderful review.
After the program there was a short routine business session presided over by the president, Mrs. N. O. Warren, after which books were distributed and the meeting adjourned.
Mrs. Pace's guests other than club members were Mesdames Beasley, J. L. Fleming, J. D. Messick and Helen White Hawes.

Church Dedicates New Building Sunday

Memorial Baptist Church, Greenville, will dedicate its new, three-story educational building, debt free, Sunday morning, February 21, with Dr. M.A. Huggins, general secretary and treasurer of the Baptist State Convention, delivering the address.

The proposal to build an educational building was first made in 1919, but due to various causes it was postponed. Several attempts were made and plans were drawn, but always something arose to hinder the work.

In September 1944, when the Rev. Richard E. Hardaway became pastor, the proposal to build an educational building was renewed. In November 1944 a building committee was appointed, and a campaign to raise money was launched. Within a year $25,000 was raised, new plans for the building were drawn, the graveyard around the church was removed to Greenwood Cemetery, and everything was in readiness to build.

However, it was war-time and no building permit could be secured. So for the next two years the church concentrated on raising funds. The Baptist General Board was approached for aid on the new building, because of the college students who attend the services of the church, and the Board agreed to grant the Church $10,000, which was fully paid between the years 1948 and 1952.

On May 23, 1947, the contract for the building was let to J.L. Batton and Brother of Edenton for $70,000, plus separate contracts for the heating and plumbing to J.D. Aman, Greenville, and electrical work to Smith Electric Company, Greenville.

On May 29, 1947, the ground was broken, and the work of building got under way. In the meantime, the Church had bought the John Planagan house and lot in the rear of the church for $10,500, thus giving ample room for the new building.

The building was completed and used for the first time on Sunday, April 11, 1948. The cost of the building proper, without equipment, was $83,000, not including the Planagan property. $43,000 had been paid up on the completion of the building, and the balance, $40,000, was financed through the Jefferson Standard Life Insurance Company, which note was completely paid off by December 31, 1953.

The building is a three-story building 50 by 80 feet, and cares for all Sunday School departments but one, which meets in the basement of the church. It will accommodate 500 in attendance, with a specially constructed young peoples' department for the students of East Carolina College. It also has a church parlor, church office, pastor's study, choir room, toilets, and two kitchens. The large dining room is in the church basement.

Much might be said of the loyalty of the people who gave sacrificially to make this building possible, and who also furnished it beautifully. The architect was Frank Benton of Wilson, and the building committee was: N.C. Brooks, chairman; L.A. Stroud, treasurer; J.D. Aman, J.H. Boyd, Jr., E.R. Conway, Jr., Jesse Smith, Mrs. L.A. Stroud, Mrs. E.E. Rawl, Sr., and the pastor, Rev. Richard E. Hardaway.

The trustees were: L.A. Stroud, N.C. Brooks, and R. L. Humber Jr. The deacons were: Dr. B. McK. Johnson, chairman, E.R. Conway, Jr., A.C. Howard, J.D. Aman, N.C. Brooks, Berry Bostic, W.T. Lipscomb, H.R. Goodall, R.J. Jones, L. A. Stroud, D. J. Whitchard Jr., B.F. Bullard, Dr. D.L. Moore, P.H. Worsley, and J.C. Tyson.

'Books and Stuff'

DR. ED. HIRSHBERG

This week we're so full of Stuff that there's very little room for the Books, but we have been reading something. . . In a woman's fashion magazine, no less, "Mademoiselle," where, in the February issue, we found the last poem Dylan Thomas ever wrote, "Under Milk Wood," which he completed about a month before he died last November. We're glad we read it, because it's a lovely demonstration that lyric poets can still be lyric, even in 1954. . . Here are some little samples of what one critic has called Thomas's "marvellous gift of new-minted phrase" from "Under Milk Wood": "The town ripples like a lake in the waking haze". . . "The principality of the sky lightens now, over our green hill, into spring morning larked and crowded and bellied". . . And in a lighter vein, the little chamber-maid singing to herself as she looks in the mirror:

Oh, there's a face!
Where you get that hair from?
Got it from an old tom cat.
Give it back, then, love.
Oh, there's a perm!
Where you get that nose from, Lily?
Got it from my father, silly.
You've got it on upside down!
There's a conk!

In the same issue of Mademoiselle is an article on Thomas by John M. Brimble, called "Dylan Thomas and his Village," which provides a fleeting glimpse of the beauty and tranquility of the poet's life in the little Welsh village where he grew up and wrote most of his poems. . . Recently Vogue Magazine carried an article on poetry by Christopher Fry, and another appeared in a late issue by Jacques Barbut, eminent critic and writer.

We mention these very worthwhile things that have been in the women's fashion magazines because we think that women are becoming more and more interested in cultural matters, or at least the editors of their magazines seem to think so, which is all to the good. . . And we can't resist, in passing, giving you a quick peek at what is being featured in the big men's magazines. . .

Esquire, the biggest and the slickest, carries a banner across the front cover that reads like this: "IMMORAL WOMEN—An Intimate Closeup," which we learn from the table of contents is about a day in New York City's Woman's Court. . . An the March "Male" Magazine, features this juicy bit—"Burlap: How Rough Can It Get?" with appropriate accompanying photos. . . And finally the April "Stag" gives us a little piece on "Mexico's 5 Square Blocks of Sin." Among the more provocative fiction titles in "Stag" are "Don't Count the Bodies," "This Way to Death," and "Ticket to Madness." . . Men's taste certainly seems to be different from women's—or at least their magazine editors seem to think so.

We've been enjoying an unusually full week of cultural activity locally, what with the opera and Gorden Link, the poet who was on the College campus for two full days, lecturing Wednesday night and conducting classes and workshops on Thursday. His talk on "Poetry in Mid-century" was perceptive and provocative—we were glad that he ended up on a hopeful note, when he said that he felt that the poetic Muse was turning into "an honest woman," and that he hoped that "Her lovers are going to be honest men." . .

"Carmen" on Tuesday night was amazing not only because it was so well done by the Grass Roots Opera Company, but because the performance was so fully and enthusiastically attended. The College Theatre was full, and if many of the students hadn't been busy at a dance, Standing Room Only signs would have been in order—which is quite something, for Grand Opera. . . We think the local school-marks are in for a hearty pat on the back, because so many children seemed to enjoy it, too. . . And, after the initial shock, we enjoyed hearing it in English for a change. The highbrows sometimes kick if an opera is not sung in its native French or Italian or whatever language it was written in. But we like English—beautiful as the singing is, we still enjoy knowing what the lovers are saying to each other, and what all the kissing—or fighting—is about. . .

We're still on the subject of women. . . In last week's Saturday Review we read a very revealing article about Abraham Lincoln's wife, by Ruth P. Randall, author of her recent biography, "Mary Lincoln: Biography of a Marriage." The article went a long way in proving that Mary Lincoln wasn't the vixen she has always been described as, but a loving and understanding if somewhat nervous and harassed wife to Lincoln. . . And we read another article about Whistler's Mother in the New York Times—remember how meek she looks in the picture? Well, she wasn't. In fact, she was a good deal rougher and tougher than that forgotten man of all forgotten men, Whistler's Father—who she outlived by many years, bringing up several children in dire but honest poverty. . . including, of course, Whistler himself.

And on the local scene—finally. . . Tonight at eight the second meeting of the American Heritage Discussion Group will hold forth at the Sheppard Memorial Library, led by Mrs. Scott, who informs us that there are fourteen women and a very small number of men in the crowd. . . So, men, here's your chance for culture—you can't find it in your magazines, so come to the library. . . At the College Library there is an interesting display of Government publications, revealing the amazing versatility of government publishing activities. Titles range from "Ways to Cook Rabbit" to a "Catalogue of the Library of Thomas Jefferson". . . Associate Librarian E.D. Johnson's weekly radio talk over Station WGTC will be broadcast at the usual time, Sunday evening at nine o'clock. His subject—a pertinent one—is "Communists in Guatemala". . .

Major Problem Before May Primary

In spite of the rapidly increasing interest in campaigns preceding the May Democratic primary in North Carolina, election time is still a long way off.

It is not too early, nevertheless, for election officials and County Commissioners to give serious consideration to the gigantic

Right Of Way Decision Now Major Factor

The highway project for Greenville which would include a new bridge across Tar River and the Completion of a belt line around the city is waiting on a decision about its proposed right of way before it can move further.

Highway Commissioner Maynard Hicks of the second district said this week the location of the proposed new highway must be settled before any further progress can be made.

As the situation stands now, city, county and highway officials are seeking permission for a right of way across the present property of the Pitt-Greenville airport. The necessary permission would have to come from Civil Aeronautics Authority.

While the right of way would take some of the airport property, it is asserted by proponents of the proposed route that the highway, if constructed, would not render the airport unusable.

It remains to be seen whether such permission will be granted by the CAA. If it is, it would make another step in clearing up what Hicks has termed one of the worst traffic bottlenecks in the second highway division.

Every measure possible should be taken by local officials as well as highway authorities to get the final location of the proposed bridge and highway north of Tar river settled so work can begin on getting funds with which to build the project.

With each passing month the traffic situation which the new project is supposed to eliminate becomes more acute. The project should be pushed through to completion with minimum delay in order to alleviate the situation as soon as possible.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
PUTTING EFFECTS BEFORE CAUSES
A man confessed recently that when he was a child, he believed the wind blew because of the flapping of the branches of the trees.

We smile at a child's naïvete. Yet many adults are putting effects before causes in the same amusing way this child did. Only it is not amusing when adults do it.

There is, for instance, the widespread feeling that the reason why some people have plenty of this world's goods and others have very little is because of an unjust economic system which continually grinds the faces of the poor. No economic system is perfect. Nothing is perfect in this imperfect world. But most people have as much success in life as they are willing to purchase with effort and persistence, qualified only by their mental capacity and their good judgment.

Fifty years ago we were assured that the reason why we had criminals was because we had slums. That slums breed criminals there can be no doubt, and slum clearance is one of the beneficent enterprises of these days. But let no one believe that when the slums are cleared up, there will be no criminals. Some of the worst criminals today are coming from apparently excellent homes.

A great deal of the world's bad mistakes arise from the fact that people misjudge effects and call them causes. They think the wind blows because of the flapping of the branches of the trees.

National Whirligig

Logrolling Lobby Is Proposed

WASHINGTON—A legislative logrolling lobby to preserve and expand public power programs in the face of anticipated Eisenhower opposition has been proposed by advocates and like-minded allies of the Tennessee Valley Authority. That New Deal project faces considerable curtailment under a plan now being prepared by Interior Secretary Douglas McKay and Budget Director Joseph M. Dodge.

Involving such sectional and national systems as TVA, the St. Lawrence Seaway, power development on the Niagara River, the vast dam proposed for Hell's Canyon and the Central Valley setup in California, it would be the most pretentious lobby of its kind on and off Capitol Hill. It contemplates swapping votes on a scale never dreamed of in the days of the railroad, timber and land barons, when lobbying was an accepted art at Washington.

ONE FOR ALL, ALL FOR ONE—The TVA-ers' immediate objective is to pick up enough votes, mostly among conservative Republicans, for Valley demands in return for throwing their support to all these other schemes. For instance, they hope to engage the friendly influence of Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York by voting for state rather than private development of the Niagara River's power resources. They will pledge help to westerners who prefer Government to private construction of power programs in that area. As they oppose sale of TVA to the utilities, so they will take the same stand with respect to Central Valley, Grand Coulee, Bonneville, etc. It will be one for all and all for one.

Normally, Republicans in these areas oppose extension of Government activity in the power field or any other business. But it is the TVA-ers' belief that they will suppress their prejudice on this question, if their re-election depends on their ability to bring a piece of Uncle Sam's bacon to their states or districts. And many legislators find themselves in that dilemma at the moment.

LOGROLLING SCHEME—The TVA-ers' logrolling scheme was launched to combat McKay-Dodge revisions of the Government's policy on power. When task which faces Pitt County before it will be ready for the May primary.

With the rearrangement of townships in Pitt, it is going to be necessary to have a complete new registration of voters in the county prior to the election. With a population of more than 68,000 people, a conservative estimate points to the fact that there must be upwards of 20,000 people in the county who are eligible to register and vote in the coming elections.

In past years, a principle concern of officials has been getting registered voters to the polls on election day. This year there is a two-fold problem. The eligible citizens of the county must first get their names on the registration books before there is any need to worry about getting them to cast ballots.

In view of the unusually large registration job to be done this year, it seems some unusual measures must be taken to get all the people registered. Perhaps some means can be worked out to afford registrars special incentive pay to get the predominant portion of the eligible voters in their respective precincts registered for the election, in the specified three-week period.

The job of a completely new registration for Pitt County this year is going to cost the county more than the usual amount paid for registration periods, but if the job is done well, it will be worth the additional expenditure. It would indeed be unfortunate if May 29 arrives and there is only a small percentage of eligible voters registered for the primary.

New Realization Of H-Bomb's Power

Powerful as most people believed the hydrogen bomb to be, the first public announcement of experimental explosion of a hydrogen bomb in the Pacific sent a shudder through many Americans.

The chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission announced that an experimental blast set off by U. S. forces in the Pacific completely obliterated an island, and blasted a hole in the ocean's floor one mile in diameter and 125 feet deep at its deepest point.

The effects of such a blast, he said, would be felt over an area of 300 square miles from ground-zero.

Almost unbelievable, its true, but nevertheless, it is reality. And what's more there has been new developments in the field of thermonuclear energy and other tests since the one on which the report was made.

While we are not among those who feel the world is running headlong into its own annihilation through the development of such weapons, it does give even the people of the nation which owns such a weapon something to think about.

From the report, it is clearly seen that the hydrogen explosion surpasses in destructiveness the atomic bombs of the past as far as the A-bombs did the two-ton block-busters of World War II.

they complete their current survey, they will probably insist that (1) TVA and similar projects pay interest on advances of Federal funds, (2) that TVA's construction of steam plants (coal) for electricity generation be stopped, and (3) that titles now buying TVA power be permitted to buy from private utility firms.

The TVA faction claims that they have already scored a major victory by the part they played in Senate passage of the St. Lawrence Seaway Treaty. Many Southerners who once opposed the pact switched at the last moment. Had it not been for their last-minute flop, the measure would have been defeated. Even more surprising was the Dixie shift within the House Public Works Committee.

For years that body has been "packed" against the St. Lawrence agreement. But 10 members from Southern and border states, switched under pressure, resulting in a favorable tally of 23-6. It flabbergasted opponents of the canal.

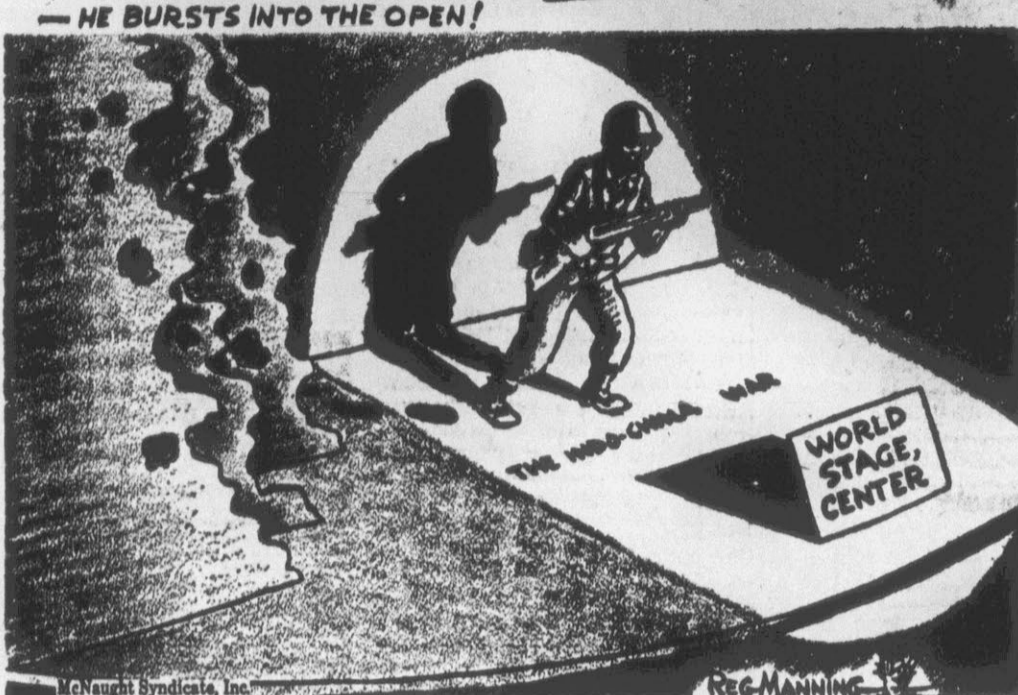

POWER PUZZLE'S KEY FIGURE—Key figure in the power puzzle is Representative George A. Dondero of Michigan, Chairman of this Committee. His friends report that he may face defeat next fall, if the project so popular in his area does not become reality. Rejection would suggest that, despite his chairmanship, he has little influence here.

The Nashville Tennessean, which is published by Silliman Evans, ardent TVA champion, immediately commented:

"The report that Dondero has agreed to stall action on his bill hamstringing TVA in return for favorable votes for the St. Lawrence Seaway reveals the limited scope of the Michigan Republican's thinking on the national level. . . . In other words, Mr. Dondero fails to grasp the basic facts about both TVA and the St. Lawrence Seaway. Both are vital contributions to the common interest of the United States."

Although the Evans suggestion was presented in negative form, it inspired the public power group in their current crusade in "the common interest of the United States." They seek to negotiate the same sort of "deal" which Editor Evans seems to deplore.

After Years In The Jungle—

Somebody Told Me

Home Entertainment Case

During the nearly five years that I've been writing this column I must have recalled a thousand experiences of parenthood. This one is entitled "How to Amuse a Sixteen-Month-Old Boy."

If the three and a half year old girl, Nancy, could read I wouldn't dare show such partiality to the boy. Thus far, jealousy doesn't exist between the two, but we must admit that it's been a task to keep it quelled. Quite often company goes over the baby boy so much that we have to hush-up Nancy at the same time to keep her from noticing.

If you really want to test your ability to amuse a 16-months-old, you should let him get hungry and sleepy at the same time. This situation will call for every bit of talent you can muster. If it isn't convenient to feed him or let him sleep soon, you'll probably need more talent than you have.

Here is the list of projects that I use, in order, applying one when the other doesn't work:

1. Give him a cracker.
2. Take him outdoors if weather permits.
3. Give him candy and cookies, with something to drink.
4. Gather a mess of toys for him.
5. Get on the floor with him and let him beat on you and pull your ears.
6. Open the tool box for him, giving him disposal to many dangerous tools that amuse him in a manner that the toys couldn't touch.
7. Change his diaper.
8. Throw him on the bed and immediately turn him flip-flops until he finds it either amusing or exhausting.

If all of these have failed, let him have your most valued possession, the one which you would least like to have ruined. Maybe your money would amuse him. Tearing it to bits would amuse him. A new necktie (don't try an old one; he'll be too smart to fall for that) will usually work at that point.

Call the wife. Admit to her that a husband is no good when it gets this serious. Tell her to come on home, even if it's the Church Circle meeting.

All of this is great fun—if you have a strong back and limitless patience. Having children is the greatest experience of a lifetime—if you don't weaken.

And I thank you.

What Other Editors Are Thinking

RECOGNITION OVERDUE

(Kinston Free Press)
President Eisenhower's nomination of Col. Charles Lindbergh for the rank of Brigadier-General in the Air Force Reserve, which is subject to Senate confirmation, comes as recognition that has been long overdue for one of America's most daring aviators. His solo flight from New York to Paris May 20-21, 1927, literally revolutionized aerial warfare.

Some 13 years ago President Franklin D. Roosevelt, scoring Col. Lindbergh's isolationist views about World War 2, in which he considered the war lost early in 1941 and argued for a negotiated peace, caused the aviator to resign his colonel's commission in the Air Force Reserve.

Col. Lindbergh's daring solo journey from Roosevelt Field, Long Island, to Le Bourget Field in Paris, which thrilled the whole world, marked a shift in the thinking of people and nations relative to aviation and its role for mankind. It proved the Atlantic could be spanned and inaugurated the age of long-distance commercial aviation.

For the military it meant that Billy Mitchell's early efforts to make the nation conscious of the airplane as a weapon would have to be accepted. It marked the day when nations began the bitter struggle for air supremacy, which is still in progress today.

Col. Lindbergh's pre-World War 2 views, while they did not coincide with those of the military then, or now, should not exclude him from suitable recognition of his service to the Nation. In this democracy the views of many may differ, but the right to those views should not be denied anyone.

Evidence of Lindbergh's true loyalty was plentiful after the sneak attack on Pearl Harbor and he served the nation well in matters of research and in other ways.

The Free Press hopes the Senate will not long delay confirmation of this promotion in rank for Lindbergh. The rank and file of citizens who remember this thrilling solo flight, the tragic kidnapping of his son a few years later, and his service in World War 2 and since, will welcome this belated opportunity to make amends to one of America's most valiant aviators.

Butner Property; Governorship; State Advertisements

By LYNN NISBET
GOOD DEAL—Acquisition of the Camp Butner property for a State mental hospital several years ago has been generally acclaimed as one of the best deals made by the State in a long time. Negotiated chiefly by John W. Umstead, with able assistance from Thomas O'Berry, the late Ryan McBryde and Henry Linberger, other members of the board of hospital control and various State officials and legislators, the deal has netted North Carolina millions of dollars in profits.

While the General Assembly has had to appropriate sizeable sums for renovations and repairs of existing buildings, the fact is that by reason of outright grants from the Federal government and the arrangement for State purchase of valuable properties for nominal prices, and the sale of lands and equipment to private purchasers, the State has an institution at Butner which cost only a fraction of its real value.

Additional intangible assets have come to the State through establishment there of payroll industries, youth prison centers and training schools for sub-normal mental students—or patients, depending upon the viewpoint,—which have provided a combination of rehabilitation of citizens and availability of labor for hospital needs. Another intangible asset is the voluntary alcoholic rehabilitation program in a co-operation with the hospital system.

The hospital board does not want to sell any more land from the Butner tracts at this time, and most of the tangible personal property has been converted into cash which was used to improve hospital facilities. But the story of the profits in the Butner acquisition has not been fully written. It now appears there may be $100,000 or more worth of saleable pulpwood on the property this year, with smaller but still substantial cuttings every year from now on.

GOVERNOR—Has North Carolina been without a Governor during the past few days? There are some constitutional lawyers who think it has. Governor Willgins Umstead and Lieutenant Governor Luther Hodges both have been out of the State at the same time. The constitution is specific in saying that absence from the State disqualifies the incumbent to discharge the duties of the Governorship.

In the event of disqualification of the Governor and Lieutenant Governor, the State Senate shall elect one of its members as President and the duties and Powers of Governor shall be vested in him. It has long been the custom for the Senate at the beginning of the session to elect a president of the session to elect a president of the State at the same time. The incumbent is Senator Edwin Pate of Laurinburg. Common assumption has been that he would succeed to the governorship in event of disqualification of the two top elected officials.

The last sentence in Sec. 12 of Art. III of the state constitution reads: "Whenever, during the recess of the General Assembly, it shall become necessary for the President of the Senate to administer the government, the Secretary of State shall convene the Senate, that they may elect such President." In cases of temporary absence like the present, the disqualifications of the Governor and Lieutenant Governor could be removed by their return to the State before a special session of the Senate could be convened.

Majority of the lawyers who were asked about the situation believe that if quick emergency action were necessary President Protom Pate could function under authority of his election by the Senate last January.

The last time a Lieutenant Governor was required to take over the government was in 1891, when Thomas M. Holt succeeded to the office upon death of Governor David G. Fowle. There have been a few times when Governors were said to be unwilling to leave the State even for a few hours, for fear the Lieutenant Governor would take over the job.

ADVERTISEMENTS—Newspapers throughout North Carolina will within a few days begin reproduction of State advertisements which are appearing in out-of-state newspapers and national magazines. Copy and prepared mats are going from the Department of Conservation and Development, being exact reproduction of the national formats with this added explanation: "This advertisement is one of the State Advertising series appearing currently in principal out-of-state newspapers and magazines. It is being reproduced by this newspaper without cost to the State as a public service in the interest of better informing its readers about North Carolina's advantages and facilities for increasing purchasing power by attracting new industries and tourists."

No North Carolina newspaper has ever charged the State of North Carolina for publishing promotional advertising since inauguration of the program in 1937. At that time a resolution sponsored by Josh Horne, publisher of the Rocky Mount Telegram, was adopted by the N.C. Press

Business Today

Profit In Diversity

By ELMER ROESSNER
The better mousetrap idea may have been good once, but today a firm has to build better rat traps, bear traps, ball-point pens, air-conditioners and space heaters if it wants to keep the path to its door full of customers. Diversification of lines as a hedge against future uncertainties goes back further than the coal dealer who decided to sell ice in summer, and the strengthening of this trend has been noted in this space before. This is only to report that the trend is becoming stronger than ever. And companies that have diversified seem to be weathering the present on-shore winds.

Sonotone set a new record last year and close to half its profits came, not from hearing aids, but such "by-products" as nickel-cadmium batteries, phonograph pickups, miniature tubes and television components. Irving I. Schachtel, president, told the New York Society of Security Analysts, RCA, which acquired a stove company a year ago, now has products in almost every appliance field. Elgin Watch is adding both miniature electronic components and precision instruments to broaden its case. Schaefer Pen is now making tools and dies for a long list of industrial concerns.

Steel companies have acquired plastic companies or set up plastic divisions—and so have glass manufacturers. In appliances, by similar steps, most large companies are now at the point at which they can offer a dealer everything he needs—not only appliances in every category, but financing if he requires it. And practically every company making small electric motors is now turning out—or planning to make—air-conditioners. One survey of industrial executives showed that 26 per cent had noted, in their own business dealings, a definite trend toward greater diversification and 68 per cent more had observed occasional instances. "Diversification of company product lines has proven time and time again to be the real force that makes increased profits and dividends for the success of American industry," Fenton B. Turk told the 1953 Boston Conference on Distribution.

Diversification sometimes smacks of monopoly and cartelism. But it is only an application of the not-all-eggs-in-one-basket idea on a grand scale. And in stabilizing the sales and profits of a company, diversification also is stabilizing employment for its workers.

DECEMBER SALES SET AT 2 PER CENT UNDER 1953
Retailer figures on December retail sales are now in from the Department of Commerce. The blunt fact is that they were 2 per cent under sales in 1953. However, they were the second largest in history.

The food group did well, with grocery stores with fresh taking in 15 per cent more than a year earlier. So did plumbing and heating stores, up 13 per cent, book stores, up 13 per cent, bakery product stores, up 11 per cent, and liquor stores, up 10 per cent. Some other lines made small gains, but most of them were down, with men's and boys' clothing stores being the most dismal, down 21 per cent.

EARPHONES SAVE SPACE IN SAMPLING RECORDS

Mary Pickford A Busy Woman

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—"Sure the Irish drank goat's milk," said Mary Pickford. "That's how I have my vitality because my ancestors drank goat's milk."

At 60, "America's sweetheart" of yesterday still retains the simple charm that once made her the movie favorite of millions.

"I'm the busiest woman in Beverly Hills—or any other hill," she said, smiling, as we sat in the living room of her hotel suite. "I have a big house to look after, and my husband, Buddy Rogers, and my business interests—and the children, Ronnie and Roxie."

"Roxie will soon be 12, but she's already four inches taller than I am. She's horse crazy. But I'd rather look forward to her being horse crazy than boy crazy."

Mary also is active in half a dozen philanthropic and charitable enterprises. She recently completed her memoirs for McCall's magazine, and said she would like-after 20 years away from the screen—to return in one last film.

"It would be the story of my mother's life," she said, "and end on that day in 1909 when I walked into the old Biograph studio and got my first movie job."

Mary rose from $40 to $10,000 a week in a few years, and piled up millions later producing her own films. This girl with the haunting face of a golden angel also had a cashbox mind.

"But I dislike business heartily," she said. "A lot of career women may not agree with me, but I don't think business is a woman's world."

Her Cinderella story has had many hitherwest hours. Mary said she had enjoyed so many happy moments she didn't know which to name first.

"But there is no doubt about my most miserable moment," she said. "It was the moment my Here is Mary Pickford looking back on her life—a reverie aloud: mother passed on in 1928."

"The greatest picture I ever made? My choice would be 'Gone With The Wind.' Of my own pictures, I suppose I still like 'Tess of the Storm Country' best. I made it twice—in 1914 and 1922."

"The greatest geniuses of the motion picture have been Charlie Chaplin and Walt Disney. After them? D.W. Griffith and Irving Thalberg. Irving had a bad heart. He walked with death at his back. He knew he had no time to waste on trivial things, or things half done. He died young."

"I made 50-odd feature pictures. We do look ridiculous in them today. . . . And sometimes I feel like destroying my old films. . . . Those awful clothes we used to wear. . . ."

"They can't compare with the pictures now, of course. . . . But silent pictures did speak a universal language. . . . I think we go in for too many sound effects now. . . . The great ones avoid superfluous gestures and superfluous sound. . . . But the great ones are all too few. . . ."

"They say the pioneers cut down the forests and made the roads and take the chances. . . . And then the gamblers come along and make the money. . . ."

"Chance plays so important a part in an actor's life. . . . He needs that lucky break in life more than a writer does, or a producer, or a director. . . ."

"You know, in all of us are two people. . . . I've always been unpredictable, even to myself. . . . Nothing really pleases me that I do. . . . My real fear is to be left alone in the world. . . . Most of my people have passed on. . . . Most elderly people are passed by. . . . That frightens me. . . ."

"But when the Lord loves you, he gives you an insight. . . . an understanding."

And Mary, whose golden curls are only a memory, looked up with her sweetest smile of long ago.

Astronomer Says Space Full Of Potential-Life Bearing Planets

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Reporter
NEW YORK (AP)—We are not alone in the universe, for there are probably 100 million other planets suitable for high forms of life says a famous Harvard astronomer, Dr. Harlow Shapley.

The life on some of them may surpass our own, with beings superior to humans, he writes in a new book, "Climatic Change," published today (Harvard University Press $6).

Dr. Shapley is cautious when it comes to estimating just how many planets may support life. He figures it this way:

Suppose only one star or sun in a million has any planets at all. And suppose only one in a thousand of those families of planets has the conditions "suitable for the life experiment." That means a near-circular orbit, proper distance from a warmth-giving star, proper mass, atmosphere, and rotation period for night and day.

That would mean only one life-bearing planet for every billion stars.

Still being skeptical, suppose that life went on to higher forms on only one of every thousand of these planets. On the others, something could have happened to end life.

That still leaves 100 million planets as life-theaters because there are so many thousands of billions of stars in the universe. Our Milky Way alone, to which we belong, has 100 billion stars, and there are billions of Milky Ways or galaxies.

These millions of planets "indicate that the life phenomenon is widespread and of cosmic significance. We are not alone. And we should admit of course, that the animal, vegetable or other organisms on other happier planets may have far surpassed the terrestrial forms. There is no reason whatever to presume that Homo Sapiens (man), Apis Mellifera (honeybees) and Corvus Americanus (ravens or crows) are the best that biochemistry and star shine can do."

No earth-sized planets have yet been detected around other stars, because the stars are too bright, and the planets too small in gravitational mass to affect the motions of their stars by present measuring methods.

But there's evidence of a huge planet for a nearby star named 61 Cygni, a star which can be seen with the naked eye.

Dr. Shapley says Mars is the only other planet in our sun's family which might have life of some kind.

Dr. Shapley is editor of, and writes the introduction for, the book giving views of more than 20 different scientific specialists on the causes of great climatic changes on earth, and the effects upon life.

Slight variations in the sun's heat and radiations are one main possibility of changes which produced ice ages and warm periods. Others are dust from volcanoes and the rising of continents and mountains re-directing air currents.

Sues Artist For 'Poor' Portrait

CINCINNATI (AP)—Kenneth Hooper says the painting is a good likeness of his horse, but poor of himself.

So poor he filed suit yesterday asking $5,250 damages from the artist and a company which circulated the picture, because it subjected him "to humiliation and ridicule."

The defendants are Jackson Grey Storey the artist, and the Ralston Purina Co. of St. Louis.

Hooper, a cowboy horse trainer, said he agreed to allow use of the picture on the cover of a cattleman's magazine, but Storey later sold it to Ralston Purina, which circulated it.

Storey named the painting "The Cowman's Faith."

Scott Voices Opposition To Socialized Medicine

LAURINBURG, N. C. (AP)—Former Gov. W. Kerr Scott, campaigning for senator, discussed veterans hospitalization last night and declared, "I am as solidly against socialized medicine as anybody. I'll vote against any such scheme anytime it's put before me."

During the main portion of his address before American Legion Post No. 50, Scott touched on what he called the "high spots" and "trouble spots" in the current veterans program.

He also announced he has named Thad Stem Jr., of Oxford, a Duke graduate and veterans service officer in Granville county, "to head up a veterans advisory committee for me."

"I'm not one who favors turning Ft. Knox over to the veteran," said Scott, "but we have got to hold the line to keep rightful benefits. We can't afford to let them be whacked away by complicated regulations."

He criticized changes made in veterans benefit questionnaires by the Republican administration, especially a required listing of assets and a general financial condition.

Previously, he said, it has been simple for a veteran to get into a veterans hospital if he met the requirement that he needed medical treatment and did not have sufficient money to get treatment elsewhere.

Chinese General Says Reds Once Near Wiping Out

By DAVID J. ROADS
HONG KONG (AP)—Was it possible to have wiped out the Communists in China two decades ago and prevented Mao Tze-tung's rise to power?

A retired Chinese general says yes.

Gen. Che Long says he could have destroyed the Red army in a trap 22 years ago, but Chiang Kai-shek blundered in allowing it to escape.

He campaigned for three years against the Reds from headquarters in Nam Chang, Kiangsi province in the early '30s.

"At one time our armies had the Communists trapped and in one more year we could have wiped out communism in China forever," Gen. Che said, "but orders came from higher authority to withhold our attacks and the Reds escaped."

The Communists who escaped formed the core of the army that later swept over China and put Mao Tze-tung in power.

When the Reds took over China, Che came to Hong Kong. Here he keeps a close watch on the fighting in Indochina and developments on the Chinese mainland.

"Reports that Chinese anti-Communist bands are active throughout the mountainous regions of China today are very true, but they can't exist without outside help," Che said.

"For every guerrilla in the hills three Red soldiers are kept on the alert. A small band of guerrillas can keep quite a few Communists busy for a long time," he said.

He said the anti-Communist bands can go into hiding easily and can infiltrate into any area undetected. Their whole organization is fluid. They can become peasants of the countryside by day and fighters at night.

"The Reds control the food situation and in this way they can limit guerrilla activity, but they cannot suppress it," he said.

He thinks the Reds' days in power are numbered.

"I believe that the guerrilla bands operating throughout China are just waiting for the right moment to rise up and smash them," he said.

Crafts-Designs Discussed Here

The contemporary American designer-craftsman and his work received attention at East Carolina College this week during a two-day visit to the campus by Harold J. Brennan, director of the School for American Craftsmen at the Rochester Institute of Technology.

Through lectures, discussions in various classes, and an exhibition of modern work in the applied arts, Mr. Brennan presented information and illustrations design and craftsmanship in ceramics, textiles, metals, and wood.

Paid To Bathe Feet Of Birds

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP)—Dick Patton, 24, is paid to bathe birds' feet on a busy downtown Springfield street corner at night.

The company for which he works smears a gooey substance on building ledges to discourage birds from roosting. The birds become entangled in the goo and fall to the sidewalk. Patton's job is to capture them, wash the goo from their feet and send them on their way.

In four hours last night he attended about a dozen birds. He said it takes about five minutes to spruce up a sparrow or starling. Pigeons take longer.

WINTERVILLE PLAYERS close in on a Belvoir-Falkland guard in the game between the teams last night in Farmville. Winterville won the ball game rather handily by a 71-46 score.

Huffman Scores 32 For EC Pirates

Hodges Collects 28; Now Needs Only 126 Points To Set New Four Year Conference Scoring Record

HIGH POINT—East Carolina College's Pirates found themselves a new scoring hero last night and set a North State Conference record. Forward Charlie Huffman poured in 32 points as the Pirates swamped High Point College 95-68 to wrap up their second consecutive North State Conference regular season title. They are the only ball club in the history of the conference to win the title twice in a row.

Huffman's scoring was primarily the result of a spectacular second half. The senior from Thomasville bagged 25 of his points before fouling out in the fourth period. He scored 11 field goals and 10 free throws to reach a new personal high, not just this season but for the four years he has been playing with the Pirates.

Center Bobby Hodges, the Pirates' individual scoring leader throughout most of the season, maintained his own personal average with a 28-point performance. Hodges played his usual outstanding game but the show last night belonged to Huffman.

It was largely through Huffman's efforts that the Pirates pulled away from the stubborn Panthers in the second half. He got 13 points in the third period when the Pirates began widening the gap in the scoring and then came back with 12 points in the fourth period before fouling out.

High Point, not one of the outstanding teams in the conference this year, put up a surprisingly stiff battle for the first half. Little Kent Moseley kept High Point in the game with a 27-point performance but even he wilted in the face of the Pirates' second half scoring.

Moseley's personal show kept the score at the end of the first quarter at a 21-21. In the second quarter, the Pirates began picking up on the free throw line when Hodges sank five of the free tosses but J. C. Thomas kept the field goal activity very much alive with three two-pointers.

In the third period, when the Pirates scored 31 points, Huffman, Thomas, and Hodges started hitting their field goals with a consistency that not even little Moseley was able to match. Huffman got 13 points, Hodges got six, Don Harris got six, and Thomas hit four to lead the show. In the fourth period, the Pirates ran reserves in and out of the game.

The victory was the fourteenth of the year in 15 games for the Pirates. There is no way they can lose their hold on first place to second-place Lenoir-Rhyne and they will enter the North State tournament next Wednesday as the top-seeded team in the three-day event.

Coach Howard Porter's Bucs will close their season in Elm City tomorrow night against Atlantic Christian. The game will be played in Elm City because of a larger seating capacity in the Elm City gym.

Grifton Beauty Named Queen Of Pitt Tournament

Pat Stokes, a petite blonde from Grifton High School, is "Miss Pitt County Basketball of 1954."

The selection of Miss Stokes was made last night at the opening round of the Pitt County Conference tournament. She was one of twelve contestants for the title.

The contest, the third annual affair of its type, was sponsored by the Key Club of Farmville High School. Jimmy Allen, the club president, presented the candidates and announced the selection of the three judges.

Miss Stokes was crowned by Miss Martha Holmes of Farmville, the 1953 queen. Contest rules prohibit former queens from participating in the contest.

Miss Stokes was the top candidate in the three phases of the elimination contest. Six of the contestants were eliminated in the first round and three more in the second round.

The new Queen was sponsored by the sophomore class at Grifton High School. She will reign over the tournament which is being played in Farmville and Greenville. She was presented a wrist watch as a remembrance by the Key Club members.

Miss Watson was selected as first runner-up in the contest and Miss Smith was the second runner-up. Both received pieces of luggage as remembrances.

The contest was the second sponsored by the Key Club. Before that, the selections were handled by a special Pitt County Gold Medal Tournament committee.

Judges last night were V. A. Merritt, Greenville merchant; Elbert Bennett, Greenville businessman and a member of the Greenville Kiwanis Club; and D. H. Conley, Superintendent of the Pitt County Schools.

TOURNAMENT QUEEN Pat Stokes of Grifton is crowned "Miss Pitt County Basketball of 1954" after the beauty contest last night in Farmville. Martha Holmes of Farmville, the 1953 queen, is placing the crown on the new queen's head.

No Upsets In First Round Of Pitt Conference Tourney

By JIMMY ELLIS Reflector Sports Writer FARMVILLE — Results were according to schedule here last night as the Pitt County Conference basketball tournament opened before a full house of spectators in the Farmville High School gymnasium.

Three first-round games were played here last night. Ayden's girls' team opened the tournament with a rousing 53-50 victory over Grimesland to set the pace for the annual affair. In the second contest of the evening, Ayden's boys romped to a 72-60 win over Grifton and in the final contest of the evening Winterville trampled hapless Belvoir-Falkland 71-46.

Three more games will be played tonight. Last night's games concerned themselves with the team's ranking in the lower echelons of the conference but the top-ranked teams in the conference will swing into action tonight.

Ayden-Grimesland Forward Wilma Stocks led a determined last-half charge by Ayden in the first game to put the Tornados in the second round of the tournament.

The petite brunette scored 30 of her team's points and was almost the whole show in the second half as Ayden roared from behind to eliminate the Grimesland team.

Mary Wooten actually scored the point that won the game for Ayden when she dropped in a free throw with just a minute and seven seconds of playing time remaining. After that shot, Ayden allowed Grimesland one more shot at the buckets and then put the game into a deep freeze until three seconds left to go when Wilma drove in for a lay-up shot that gave Ayden its final advantage.

Grimesland had actually outplayed Ayden throughout most of the game.

Coach Garland Bailey's young Panthers had trailed 13-12 at the end of the first quarter but they grabbed a lead in the second quarter and held it until the fourth period. Ayden trailed 23-20 at the half and 41-34 at the three-quarters mark before Stocks could get her personal show on the road.

Ayden pulled up on even terms with the Panthers at the midway point in the final quarter. The Tornados had chipped away at the lead throughout the early minutes of the period but didn't get into the thick of the fight until Stocks dropped a free throw with 5 minutes and 50 seconds of playing time remaining. That one point made the score 43-42. Two minutes later Wilma dropped a 25-foot set shot to put Ayden ahead 44-43 and Grimesland was behind from that point on.

Of the last nine points scored by Ayden, Stocks got six of them and passed off for another field goal. She also played an important role in the stalling tactics pulled by Ayden in the last minute of the game.

Ayden-Grifton Coach Stuart Tripp's Tornados pulled a pressing game out of their bag of tricks to wear down Coach Adrian Brown's Grifton Bulldogs in the second game of the tournament action.

A pair of seniors were the key in the Ayden attack which moved smoothly throughout the contest. Little Thomas Heath led the scoring for the Tornados with 21 points and forward Ham Lang took care of a large part of the rebounding as well as accounting for 11 points.

About the only Grifton player who was consistently able to get around Ayden's pressing game was forward Mac Lancaster. The left-handed ace scored 22 points and was Grifton's most-consistent all-around player.

The outcome of the game was never seriously in doubt. Play started slowly but Ayden picked up steam in the second quarter to hold a 39-29 lead at the half.

The margin of points that Ayden held on Grifton got up to as high as 17 points at times in the second half but somewhat careless play by the Tornados always closed the gap just a little. Reserves finished the game for both teams.

Center Douglas Worthington turned in some good play under the boards in the last few minutes of the game to stop Grifton's last big effort.

Winterville-Belvoir-Falkland It was simply a case of too much class for the Belvoir-Falkland team to match in the last game of the first-round action.

Coach Paul Clark turned loose three high-scoring forwards and some stingy guards to thoroughly outclass the game little Belvoir-Falkland team 71-46.

With Jean Little, Jane Corey, and Joan Averette turning in splendid performance on offense and Anne Kittrell and Betty Nobles doing the same on defense the Belvoir-Falkland team never had much of a chance.

The sharp-shooting Wolves rolled up a 23-13 margin at the end of the first quarter and extended that to 40-27 at the half. In the second half, both teams seemed to tire quite a bit and play slackened considerably. Belvoir-Falkland never was able to catch up however.

Forward Jean Little, a 5-8 junior at Winterville High School, led the scoring for both teams with 30 points but she was by no means the whole show. Joan Averette and Jane Corey both sank their shots with an almost monotonous regularity of 19 and 18 points, respectively.

Belvoir-Falkland's Shirley Peardon and Joan Parker both turned in good offensive performances but their efforts were not of much value because of the terrific offensive pace set by Winterville. Peardon led the Belvoir scoring with 20 points and Parker was right behind with 19 despite the excellence of the defensive work of the Winterville guards.

Little Parker was by far the most popular player of the night. She played the game right to the hilt from start to finish and, despite a handicap of being shorter than almost everybody else on the floor, played right with the rest of the players. She didn't have the finesse some of the others possessed but she was by far the scrappiest individual in either of the three games.

Belvoir-Falkland, because of Parker's offensive work, jumped to a little lead right at the beginning of the first quarter but Winterville soon found the range to take the lead before the period was half gone. After that, it was just a process of speculating what the final margin of victory would be. Most of the playing time after the first quarter saw Winterville leading by about 25 points. The biggest margin at any one time was 30 points in the last quarter when the Winterville forwards were hitting almost everything they threw at the basket.

Little Averette actually was the key in the Winterville victory. The 5-5 senior has been ill most of the time since Christmas but she showed no signs of the illness last night. Her passing was sharp and accurate and her shots from outside the key-hole area were amazingly accurate.

Top-Seeded Teams Play In Pitt Tourney Tonight

By BOB BOYETTE Pitt County's number one teams swing into action tonight when the annual county tournament moves into its second session at the Farmville gymnasium.

Opening tonight's activity at 6:30 will be the number one Winterville boys against Ayden, who defeated Grifton 72-60 in the opening round last night. The Wolves have not lost a game since before the Christmas holidays and will be favored tonight; however, in a regular season meeting of the two teams Winterville won by only six points.

Second game of tonight's card slates second place Stokes-Pactolus Blue Jays against Grimesland boys, who finished seventh in regular season play. Stokes-Pactolus defeated Grimesland handily during the regular season will be expected to win tonight.

Completing tonight's activity will be the number one girls' team—Bethel—against Ayden, who defeated Grimesland in a thriller last night 53-50. During the regular season Bethel girls defeated Ayden easily. Ayden finished eighth during the regular season and had to beat Grimesland last night for a crack at the county's number one girls' team.

After tonight's game the tournament will cease activity until Monday night. On Monday it shifts to Memorial Gym 44—the campus of East Carolina College—for four more games beginning at 6:00 p.m. in the evening.

Greenville Faces Kinston Tonight

By WAYNE BISHOP Reflector Sports Writer

It's Greenville versus Kinston tonight in the Greenville High School gym at 8 o'clock in a game that most observers say will be a preview of the Northeastern Conference tournament finals. The strong Kinston club is undefeated in loop play and holds a 48-43 decision over the Greensies this year in an earlier match. Since that game, however, the G-men have seemed to find a scoring punch and a stronger defense.

In the past few weeks the Panthers have consistently bettered 60 points a game and on four occasions have broken the 70 mark, with one total even breaking the century mark at 103 points.

The G-men showed their strongest defensive play of the season last Tuesday night when they held a usually high-scoring Jacksonville five to only 30 points.

The Green Phants will take a four game win streak into the game and a conference record of 9 wins and 2 losses. Last night the two schools played. Coach Farley's gang had a five game streak running and a 5-0 conference record.

Although the Panthers are the number two team in the conference, they have no mathematical chance of winning or tying Kinston for the conference regular season championship. The Greensies dropped a game to New Bern and a game to Kinston while the Red Devils are undefeated. A Phantom victory would leave the Farley-men with two losses and Kinston with only one, therefore giving Kinston the championship by one full game.

Potter Vs. Edwards A major part in the battle will be under the backboards, where both squads have a capable man. Kinston's Buddy Potter stands nearly 6-4 and is built for the rugged play under the boards. Greenville will relate with big Harold Edwards, a 6-2 sophomore center. Edwards usually is the man who grabs the rebound that starts the Phantom fast break.

The team that controls the backboard will have a large portion of the struggle on their side. It should be a tremendous tussle between the senior and the sophomore.

At the guard positions Coach Amos Sexton will probably have George Whitfield and Darwin Williams to oppose George Sideris and Pat Sawyer of the Greensies. Whitfield is a driving, sharp shooting player and one of the leading scorers on the team, whereas Williams is a tiny playmaker and hustler. Sideris is the Phantom playmaker and can hit from the outside. Sawyer is usually the leader of the Phantom fast break and a whale of a defensive player.

The forward positions for Kinston will be manned by Poo Rochelle and Robert Whaley. Both are good rebounders and good shots from inside and outside. Coach Farley will have the Panthers' leading scorer, Bob Howell, at one forward position and either Walter Perkins or Edgar Moore at the other. Howell has nearly every shot in the book and is the second leading rebounder in the club. Moore has been looking good of late as a scorer with 14 points in each of the last two games, but it is hard to replace a player of Perkins' height and potential. Perkins is the fourth leading scorer on the team, a rugged rebounder, and one of the best defensive performers on the squad.

Kinston Favored By virtue of their unblemished record the Red Devils have been installed a slight favorite over Coach Farley's five. The Devils now have taken three consecutive basketball games from the G-men and have defeated two of the three teams that have beaten the Panthers. Rocky Mount downed the Greensies twice and split two games with Kinston. New Bern split two games with Greenville and dropped two in a row to Kinston.

Baby Phants Revengful In the preliminary game the Greenville Baby Panthers are pinning their hopes on a win over the Red Imps. A Kinston team has never beaten a Bill Kittrell coached team twice in one season, but they have a chance tonight if they can win. The Red Imps downed the Baby Phants by five points earlier in the year in the only meeting of the two squads.

The Jayvee game will start at 6:30 with the varsity clash slated for eight o'clock. In the Jayvee game Coach Kittrell probably will start with his regular five of Ike Riddick and Jerry Drum at guards, Billy Johnson at center, Larry Powell and Gene Hudson at forwards.

The probable starters for the varsity game: Kinston P-Rochelle G-Whitfield C-Potter G-Williams Greenville Howell Perkins or Moore Edwards Sideris Sawyer

The Man Born Blind

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—John 9.

As Jesus passed by He saw a man who had been blind from birth. His disciples asked, "Who did sin, this man or his parents?" Jesus said, "Neither sinned, but that the works of God should be made manifest in him."

Jesus spat on the ground, made clay and anointed the man's eyes with it, then told him to wash in the pool of Siloam (which is by interpretation, Sent). The man went as Christ said, washed, "and came seeing."

The neighbors were amazed. Some said, "Is not this he that sat and begged?" Others thought it was not that man, but one like him. The man said, "I am he," and told them how his sight was given to him.

The Pharisees brought the man before them to hear of the miracle. They said Jesus was a sinner, but he said, "If this man were not of God He could do nothing," which angered them.

MEMORY VERSE—John 9:25.

The Man Born Blind

JESUS RESTORED HIS SIGHT AND HE BELIEVED ON HIM

Scripture—John 9.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL. THIS LESSON is the story of a man who was blind from his birth, to whom the world was a dark, mysterious place with all its beauties shut away from him. How many of us who have normal sight and have had it all our lives are blind to the earth's beauty and goodness? There are some who never notice a glorious sunrise or sunset; a field of glistening white snow or ice on trees, bushes and plants sparkling in the winter sunshine, or the glories of early spring foliage and flowers.

They couldn't guess that the man's sight had been restored, but they were determined to find some excuse to get hold of Christ and do away with Him, and knowing the miracle was performed on the sabbath, they said, "This man is not of God, because He keepeth not the sabbath day." Others said, "How can a man that is a sinner do such miracles?" And there was a division among them.

They asked the man what he thought of Jesus, and he answered, "He is a prophet." They then called the parents and questioned them, but they said that their son was of age, and they must ask him. They were afraid of the Pharisees.

Not satisfied, the Pharisees called the man again, saying, "Give God the praise; we know that this man is a sinner." What was his answer?

"Whether He be a sinner or no; one thing I know, that, whereas I was blind, now I see."

For that bold answer he told him, "Thou art His disciple; but we are Moses' disciples."

"Don't you love the man's answer to these cruel, revengeful men?"

alleviate suffering and to bring about better conditions for all. "As Jesus passed by, He saw a man who was blind from his birth." So begins our lesson. This started a discussion when the disciples asked Jesus who had sinned, the man or his parents, to bring on the condition? Jesus said no one had sinned, "but the works of God should be made manifest in him. I must work the works of Him that sent Me, while it is day: the night cometh when no man can work."

Then the Lord spate upon the ground, made a clay with earth and anointed the eyes of the man with it, saying, "Go, wash in the pool of Siloam (which is, by interpretation, Sent). The man went as he was sent, washed "and came seeing."

When his neighbors saw him they were amazed and puzzled. Some said, "Is not this he that sat and begged?" Some answered that it was indeed the same man; others said no, it is someone like him. The man answered them positively, "I am he," and he told his story, but when they asked him where the Man was who had performed the miracle, he said he did not know.

They answered him, "Thou wast altogether born in sins, and dost thou teach us?" and they cast him out. "Now we know that God heareth not sinners; but if any man be a worshipper of God, and doeth His will, Him he heareth. Since the world began was it not heard that any man opened the eyes of one that was born blind? If this man were not of God, He could do nothing."

Pays $264 For Parking Tickets

BALTIMORE (AP)—A University of Maryland law student yesterday paid $264.50 in fines for a backlog of 46 parking tickets he had accumulated. In addition, Daniel N. Silver told Magistrate S. Robert Levinson that he had paid off 50 other tickets after publicity that the court would crack down on traffic violators. The student operates a business while going to school. He said the tickets were issued as he went in and out of his place of work.

Couldn't Happen In 100 Years, But For Him It Did

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Last summer C. L. Reese received two parking tickets and another for jaywalking. He paid in mid-July. Last fall he was served with summonses ordering him to pay the two parking violations, so he took time off from work to visit the police station and exhibit his receipts to police. "Sorry," he was told, "It wouldn't happen again in a hundred years." Yesterday Reese was served with a warrant on a charge of failing to appear on the jaywalking complaint. Given 45 minutes to produce his receipt, he took some more time off from work to rush home and get it. "Just one of those things," he was told, "Sorry." "Yes," replied Reese, "It probably wouldn't happen again in a hundred years."

The Doctor Disagrees

CHAPTER SEVENTEEN
 SHELLY went upstairs to bed, read late, thinking about all the disturbing ideas which Craig had put into her mind. When she turned off her lamp, she still thought of the man. No wonder he was unhappy if he took on all the fights in the world!

The voice of death had shrilled in the telephone call which brought the doctor out upon this road.
 "I'll come at once," the doctor had said. "Tell me how to get there."

"You can't miss; it's a straight road—we're three miles off the highway. I'll have the lights on in the barnyard."
 It was a straight road; the lights burned brightly in the barnyard—but the family waited and waited, and the doctor did not come. The old woman on the bed gave up her yalting; her burdened heart labored ever more heavily, then stopped. A mass of blue-enameled steel leaned against a tree trunk at the side of the straight moonlit road, and a little Scottie dog licked at the blood on his master's cheek.

They found him about an hour after the accident. This was a country road and not patrolled; but a man starting early to take his fat young hogs to market saw the wreck and reported it at the first open filling station.

The patrol car found the wreck; the driver of the undertaker's car stopped to see what had happened. He'd been called out to the Armes' farm; the old lady there had died of a heart attack. The family had sent for a doctor, but he'd never got there—and she'd died.

The evidence of fact and surmise and coincidence built up like a child's block castle. It was all a matter of words said and repeated. The "man must have been drunk" quickly became the "man was drunk."

Everett Carr heard the story when he stopped for his usual cup of coffee at the hotel the next morning. That gathering of the town's businessmen served as a clearing house for the events of the community.

When he reached his office he buzzed for his son. Bussed in a way that brought E.J. into his presence even faster than usual.

"Something has happened," said Everett heavily. He sat deep in thought, his fingers drumming his desk. "We'll have to take steps."

"What happened?" he said finally.
 "Oh, the man got himself hurt. He's in the hospital. Bowser was telling me over at the coffee shop. Seems Talbot had a call out to a farm on the old Peeke road. Old lady had a heart attack and they sent for him. He never got there, and she died. They found him and his car piled up against a tree, in the ditch."

"That's a gravel road . . ."
 "Rock, County road; it's a good road. And right there it's as straight as a string. Last night was clear—no ice."
 "Drunk?"
 "I'm afraid he was, E.J. It's a bad business. For a doctor to let a patient die because—"

 "Yes, sir, it is bad, Stevie."
 "You're right, Stevie should not have brought him here. Man had a bad job-record. We don't want to designate that kind of doctor to serve our plant workers, do we?"
 E.J. jumped. "No, sir!" he said breathlessly. "I guess we don't."

"Bowser says—because he let a patient die, his membership in the Medical Society will be suspended, and there probably will be a recommendation to the court that his license be voided."

"Well, sir, that answers your question. The compensation laws won't allow a doctor without a proper license."

"Well, there's been no action yet, of course. No time. But I want the plant's skirts clear. You understand?"

"Yes, sir. Of course."
 "We'll use the doctors at the hospital, I suppose—until we can get someone, or even until Stevie gets back . . ."

"Who? Talbot? I don't know. Unconscious when they brought him in. But a man that's been drinking would be anyway, I presume."

Craig Talbot did not recover full consciousness for forty-eight hours. The details of the accident and its result all had to be told to him. The last he remembered was looking along that empty white road.

Craig lay in the white bed and pieced together this thing that had happened to him—and recognized his helplessness. He—Craig Talbot—had put himself on record, less than a month ago, that it was the province and the duty of the Medical Society to pass upon the character, the morals, of its doctor-members, and for the protection of the lay person, to—

Lewis' moral behavior had led his wife to attempt suicide.

Talbot's behavior—as it appeared—had led a patient die.

Was one case different from the other?

It was not that membership in the society mattered to him. A few weeks ago he was holding out against joining—but that had been his will. But this—the judgment of other men—

Sick, hurt, discouraged, his skin and hair looking very dark against the pillow, the injured man lay there and scarcely spoke to those who came into his room, attended to him and withdrew.

That first evening, Shelly brought her shock, and her worry, home with her. She'd stayed at the office for the whole day, she'd gone past the hospital to ask exactly how badly Dr. Talbot was hurt; she and Miss Browne had talked the situation over.

She got Donald from the kennel, where he had been placed, and came home. Myra exclaimed aloud: "What on earth's happened to you?"

Briefly Shelly told the doctor had been hurt. "I brought his little dog here. I thought, between us, we could care for him."
 "Sure can, Shelly, honey . . ."
 "Yes, I'll take a warm bath before dinner." She smiled wanly. That was Myra's favorite prescription.

Through dinner, and after it, Myra watched Shelly with growing concern. "You're pure worried sick!" she said at last.

"I am worried Myra. While Dr. Talbot is in the hospital, we'll just have to handle the patients the best we can. But if it's true that—that his license may be revoked—I wouldn't know what to do about that!"

"No, ma'am. You want to know what I think?" The dark lustrous eyes were kind, commiserating. "I wish you would tell me," Shelly said faintly.

"I think you're tryin' to carry a load of worry 'way beyond your strength," said Myra. "And the point is, Shelly, nobody expects you to shoulder it alone. You should ask for help."

"What kind of help, Myra?"
 "Oh, all kinds. Ask me for comfort and affection. And there's spe-

Advises Treating Demos Kindly To Win At The Polls

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH
 PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—The political advice President Eisenhower gets from Gov. Goodwin J. Knight of California is this: if you want to defeat the Democrats at the polls, be kind to them.

The Republican governor visited with Eisenhower for half an hour yesterday at the President's vacation retreat here. And Knight said to newsmen after the session: "I told the President his recent announcement that the best kind of Republicanism is to avoid bitter condemnation of Democrats is very popular in California, because that is the way we have been beating the New Deal here for 20 years."

Knight was alluding to Eisenhower's statement Feb. 10 that he is against extreme political partisanship.

Knight visited Eisenhower with California Republican National Committeeman Ronald Burton, who told reporters the President and his program rate high with Californians. Burton said he gave Eisenhower a report to that effect based on a cross-section study of sentiment in the state, a study which he declared included the views of Democrats and Republicans alike.

The resident and Mrs. Eisenhower arrived here Wednesday evening for a five-day vacation at the Smoke Tree Ranch home of Paul H. Helms, Los Angeles bakery executive. Aides to Eisenhower indicated, however, that he is enjoying himself so much his stay may be extended beyond Monday.

The President tentatively scheduled a round of golf today at the popular Thunderbird course after shooting a reported 87 for 18 holes at the exclusive Tamarisk Country Club yesterday.

Newsmen heard that Ben Hogan, one of golf's topnotchers and Tamarisk's pro, fired a 4 under par 68 as Eisenhower's partner. They teamed up against Helms and Paul G. Hoffman, board chairman of the Studebaker Corp. who, with Helms, is co-host to the Eisenhowers on this vacation.

Liberace's Home Has Black-White Motif

By BOB THOMAS
 HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Well, you've never seen a house like Liberace's!

I had heard that the wavy-haired piano pounder of TV had a fabulous new home but I had to see it to believe it. The place is located in a quiet residential area of the San Fernando Valley.

"I hunted for a long time for a house that would suit me," Liberace said. "But all the places I looked at fell short of what I wanted. So I decided I would have to build my own.

"When I first talked to the architect, he asked what I liked. I said I liked drama and comedy; I liked classical music, but I also liked jazz. I worked closely with him, sketching out things I wanted and picking out everything down to the hardware for the furniture."

"The result is what I wanted. It has drama, but there are also touches of humor. It is actually a classical modern."

Lee (yes, he does have a first name) showed me around the place and I was immediately struck by the color scheme. "I wanted it done in black and white, and this worked in nicely with the charcoal shade that is so popular now," he remarked.

There are a few other bright colors, but nearly everything is black and white or shades thereof. Do you get it? The piano motif? You can't miss it. When you walk in the black-and-white living room, the first sight is the immense piano, the longest made. I was told that this piano would be moved aside for another. The new one just as gigantic, will have a

Helping the "stars" to shine
 A tiny off-stage "sun" brings you brighter and better movies

As YOU SEE the Hollywood "stars" on the screen of the darkened theater—perhaps in 3-D—you can thank a man-made miracle of light—the carbon arc.

This brilliant light comes from tiny carbons not much larger than pencils. Yet their light is brighter than the sun itself—enlarging the tiny pictures on the film as much as 300,000 times!

THEY GIVE YOU THE RAINBOW—Besides the brilliance that brings you clear, sharp moving pictures, these carbons have a light quality almost exactly like that of the sun. This makes possible the production and showing of pictures with all colors of the rainbow.

LIGHT YOU DON'T SEE—The rays from these carbons go beyond the movies into places most of us never see. They reveal quickly how long a new paint will last, and whether colors will fade from new fabrics. They also tell scientists the exact chemical composition of many materials.

BETTER AND BETTER—Making and constantly improving hundreds of carbon and graphite products for industry and science is one of the many ways in which the people of Union Carbide help serve all of us.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market moved cautiously today with prices holding fairly steady outside the railroad section.

Rails were down as a group and helped pull the entire market a shade lower. Most divisions were narrowly mixed. Steels appeared to have a little bounce.

Outside of one or two key stocks, prices swung in a small fractional range. General Electric, which gained 3 points yesterday, was down around a point today in a comparatively mild reaction.

Trading was below yesterday's 1 1/2 million shares.

Tax discussions in Washington and other usual market influences didn't seem to have much weight today. Many left Wall Street early to get a head start on the three-day holiday over Washington's Birthday.

Higher prices were paid for 20th Century-Fox, American Telephone, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem Steel, and United Aircraft.

Lower were New York Central, Southern Pacific, General Electric, American Can, Chrysler, Goodyear, and Montgomery Ward.

Safety Program At DuPont Plant

State Highway Patrol Cpl. C.E. Whitfield and James Boykin of Greenville presented an illustrated program on "Safety On the Highways" at the DuPont plant yesterday afternoon.

Safety directors Chris Henkle and Miss June Wilson were in charge of the program. The patrolmen showed pictures of highway fatalities and near fatalities on the state's highways. Whitfield said, "Driving is professional business and that a driver must drive 200 per cent—100 per cent for you and 100 per cent for the other fellow."

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—Hog markets were steady to 25 lower today. Tops of 25.25 at Rich Square; 25.00 at Jacksonville, Warsaw, Kenly, Beulaville, Enfield, Tarboro, Hamilton, Weldon, Scotland Neck, Laurel Hill, Elizabethtown, Freeman, Micro, Silver City, Whiteville, Dunn, Mount Olive, Goldsboro, Fair Bluff, Bailey, Wilson, Burgaw, Newton Grove, Clarkton, Wilmington, Colerain, Windsor, Finston, New Bern, Benson, Rocky Mount, Smithfield, Lumberton, Fayetteville, and Clinton.

H-Bomb Testing Area Guarded

PEARL HARBOR (AP)—Tough little destroyer escorts today patrol the Pacific west of the H-bomb proving grounds on a 24-hour alert.

They watch the skies and plumb the ocean depth with electronic eyes, alert for any strange submarines or—in the words of an officer—any sneak attempt by hostilities "to set up shop" on deserted islands.

These sea patrols are closely allied with air patrols sweeping the skies from the Marshalls to Japan. The patrols go on all the time, but now with hints of impending H-bomb tests at Eniwetok, their presence is of even more significance.

Having just returned from one of these sea patrols, I can say that there is more than the usual alertness among the radar and sonar crews.

Officers shudder if the word "atom" comes up in casual conversation. You hear this from top officers on down: "I don't know anything about it; I don't want to."

The incident was investigated by Police Lt. H. E. Wooten.

New Fire Is Set By Burning Bird

BELOIT, Kan. (AP)—Burning weeds set a tree afire on the Emery Watson farm. An owl, nesting in the tree, flew nearly half a mile with its wings aflame and dropped on the Delmont Jones farm, starting a new fire.

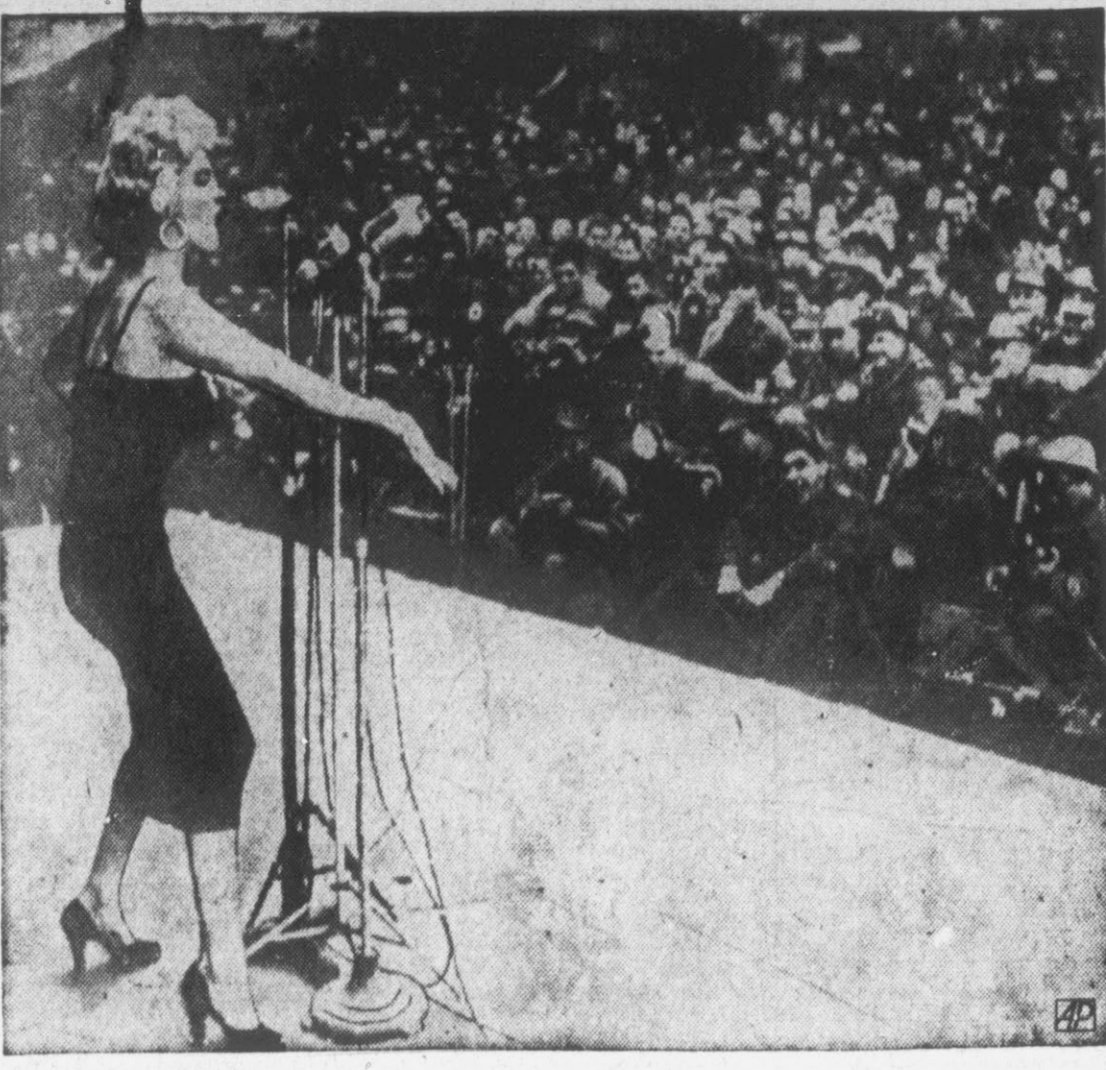

The second fire spread to five other farms, burning 700 acres of pasture.

The Greenville office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Bureau will also be closed Monday, a federal holiday. No agents will be working in the county on that day.

New Obstacle To European Treaty

PARIS (AP)—The Berlin conference's promise of Indochina peace talks posed a new obstacle today to speedy French action on the hotly disputed European army treaty.

Following Big Four agreement to meet again April 26 to discuss prospects for peace in Asia, even the supporters of the European Defense Community faced this dilemma:

1. Press for the French National Assembly to ratify the army treaty at once—as the United States wants—and perhaps so anger Russia that she would not use her influence with the Chinese Communists and the Communist leaders of the Vietnam rebels to stop the war in Indochina; or
2. Delay the Assembly vote on the army treaty until after the Geneva conference on Korea and Indochina, and run the risk of the American Congress cutting off all-important aid to France.

The conservative, neutralist afternoon newspaper Le Monde, an all-out opponent of EDC, probably sounded the rallying cry for the army plan's other numerous foes as it proclaimed last night:

"Solution of the Indochina problem is a prior condition to the ratification of EDC."

This was one of the first times this argument has been advanced to stall final action on the EDC treaty, which was signed in May 1952.

The final decision on when to put the treaty before the Assembly rests with Premier Joseph Laniel and his Cabinet.

Laniel has been working toward an Assembly vote during the second half of March or early April. It was not certain whether he would yield under the new pressure for further delay.

The Cabinet, awaiting the return of Foreign Minister Bidault from Berlin, may hammer out its strategy next week.

A new excuse for french delay on EDC would hit the U.S. Congress just as it prepares to discuss U.S. foreign aid appropriations. Many congressmen already are impatient at the delay.

Classmates Aid Injured Student

CHICAGO (AP)—Casimir Gladys, a De Paul University student who has been hospitalized for a year suffering from critical burns after a chemistry laboratory accident, got a happy birthday message today from fellow students.

The students told Gladys, who observed his 25th birthday today in Alexian Brothers Hospital they will stage a jazz concert benefit March 1. Earlier they turned over to him the proceeds of a benefit dance. They also have given 40 pints of blood for Gladys, who will be hospitalized for another 6 to 10 months. He has undergone three skin-grafting operations.

Judge Overrules Indignant Buyer

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Judge L. Stauffer Oliver has decided that Ervin Weiner and his wife Josephine will have to stop carrying signs in front of a model home proclaiming that the new houses are "lemons."

The developers of the project sought the injunction and asked for $10,000 damages. A hearing will be held on the damage claim next week.

The Weiners said they purchased one of the homes a year ago and were dissatisfied.

Eight Membership Campaigners Of VFW Post Given Stars For Work

At a meeting of Veterans of Foreign Wars Post No. 7032 last night, silver stars were presented eight members for their part in the recent VFW membership drive.

Those receiving the stars were Larry W. Averette, Malcolm Williams, James S. Allen, Horace Vincent, Ed Parker, Sherman Parks, Joe Saad and Bob Carson.

Chairman Walter Lewis reported that the VFW post netted $223 from a supper at the post home recently. This money will be allotted to the fund for sponsoring a Little League baseball club in Greenville next summer.

Commander Elvy Forrest appointed the following members on the Nominating Committee to submit names of candidates for post officers the coming year: Bob Carson, chairman; Ed Parker and John Whitman. The committee is to submit its slate at the post's next meeting.

Sees Spread Of Milk Price War

CLINTON, N. C. (AP)—The chairman of the North Carolina State Milk Commission says a milk price war in the Durham, Greensboro and Burlington areas likely will become statewide.

The prediction by W. W. Fitzpatrick of Rougemont came at the opening of a hearing here yesterday on proposed changes in regulations governing milk marketing in Areas 4 and 5, covering a large portion of Eastern North Carolina.

Fitzpatrick said he hopes distributors who are cutting prices will end the price war. He termed the situation as "the most serious threat to the dairy industry" that he has ever seen.

The price war has affected wholesale prices and not home deliveries. Earlier, the commission had adopted a resolution enabling milk plants and distributors to meet reduced prices in the price war areas without violating the commission regulation on the 10-day price posting period. At the same time, it ordered an investigation of distributors who have violated the regulation by failing to notify the commission 10 days in advance of price cuts.

Marriage Poses Problem In Trial

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The prosecution's chief witness has married the defendant, presenting a special problem for the district attorney's office in the trial of a former county employee.

The case opened yesterday with selection of a jury to try Joseph M. Fowler, 29, on charges of forgery and grand theft. Fowler is now wed to the former Corrine Glazebal, 25, in whose bank account a $760 warrant allegedly forged, was deposited. Fowler worked for a county collection bureau.

A wife cannot testify against her husband.
