

Demos Take Up GOP Challenge To Carry Farm Issue To Voters

Claim Republicans Taking Credit For 'Things They Have Not Done'

By EDWIN B. HAANKINSON WASHINGTON (AP)—Democratic senators promptly picked up today a Republican challenge to "carry the farm story to the rural areas" during the coming congressional campaign.

If control of Congress is to turn on the farm issues, Sen. Kerr (D-Okl.) said in an interview: "I don't know how I could be better off—nor they—than Republicans could be worse off."

Sens. Douglas (D-Ill.), Gillette (D-Iowa) and Humphrey (D-Minn.), who like Kerr seek re-election this year, in separate interviews disputed claims made by the Republican Farm Council's executive committee after a two-day session here, and said they're quite willing for an farm problems to be an issue.

The GOP farm group promised to work for election of a Republican Congress to carry out the Eisenhower administration program, and they listed as accomplishments for commendation:

- 1. The cattle purchase program which has stabilized cattle markets for a prosperous future.
2. Prompt use of food as ammunition in the cold war.
3. Alleviating drought destruction.
4. Providing adequate grain storage.
5. Effective reorganization of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Call On Army To Explain Status Of Accused Communist Probers Seek Clarification

By G. MILTON KELLY WASHINGTON (AP)—Investigating senators called on the Army today for a clearer explanation of the status of Mrs. Annie Lee Moss, described yesterday as a Communist in the 1940s and said by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) to be handling "top secret" messages at the Pentagon.

Several hours after a former undercover informant for the FBI told McCarthy's Senate investigation subcommittee she had known Mrs. Moss as a card-carrying Red, the Army came out with a statement that Mrs. Moss never "had access to the codes . . . or the code books."

The Wisconsin senator also has been hammering away at the Army for honorably discharging a dental reserve officer, Maj. Irving Peress, whom McCarthy has called a "fifth amendment Communist."

Byrum-Overton Marriage Vows Pledged In Private Ceremony

WASHINGTON—In a private ceremony which took place Friday night at 8 o'clock, Miss Dorothy Lee Overton and Elton Homer Byrum Jr. pledged their marriage vows before the Rev. N. W. Grant in the First Methodist Church. The double ring ceremony was witnessed by friends and relatives.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Edmund Overton of this city and Mr. Byrum is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Byrum of Greenville.

Wedding music was played by Mrs. R. D. Gwaltney, organist, who used a lovely selection of nuptial music, and Mrs. Thad Taylor was soloist. Mrs. Taylor's numbers were "Because" and "I Love You Truly."

The ceremony took place before a setting of banked greenery and baskets of white gladioli, flanked by single, tall candles in brass holders.

The couple was unattended and entered the church together. For the ceremony the bride wore a pearl grey wool suit, using black accessories and a fuchsia lipped, white orchid corsage.

Mrs. Overton selected a smoke grey suit, black accessories and a grey corsage of red carnations, while Mrs. Byrum chose a brown suit with matching accessories and red roses.

Following the service the couple left for a short wedding trip. The bride is a graduate of the Washington high school with the class of 1952. She is now a student at East Carolina College and plans to continue her college education.

Mr. Byrum, a graduate of the Greenville high school with the class of 1953, attended East Carolina College before entering the U. S. Air Force. He is presently stationed at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas.

Mrs. Kilpatrick Is Hostess To Club
ROBERSONVILLE—Mrs. J. M. Kilpatrick was hostess to the MacDowell Music Club Friday afternoon at her home on Main Street.

The program was presented by Mr. Robert Craft of the Robersonville school faculty, who gave the history of band music and chamber music.

The four cornet players, Miss Judy Highsmith, Miss Mary Glenn Norman, Marvin Everett Jr. and Aubrey Warren, rendered several selections. Those who entertained with their clarinets were Miss Eva Haslip, Miss Becky Roberson, Hubert Everett and William H. Roberson.

After appreciation was expressed to the band director and his students, the hostess served cherry tarts and coffee to the large group.

30 Years Ago Today

THE DAILY REFLECTOR
February 24, 1924

Last evening a delightful supper and pleasant hour was much enjoyed by the Junior Stewards and their "best" girls in the basement of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church. The ladies of Mrs. Powell's Circle served the supper. Those present were: Misses Mary Holt, Mildred Matlocks, Elizabeth Austin, Louise Atkinson, Polly Fulford, Marie Hardee, Elizabeth Holton, Mary Lee Pittman, Mildred Mangum and Inez Van Dyke. Messrs. Marvin Sugg, Walter Dall, Robert Forbes, Norman Winslow, Luther Moore, Joe Taft, Aaron Windham, Leslie Hunter, Edward Powell and D. S. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Scoville and Mr. and Mrs. K. T. Putrell. The senior board of stewards gave this to the junior board who enjoyed it very much.

Birthday Of First President Observed By Club

ROBERSONVILLE—The Book Lover's Club met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Claude L. Greene Sr. For this occasion the house was beautifully decorated with large vases of red gladioli and crimson carnations. Jonquils and other early spring flowers were used throughout the spacious house.

After the meeting was called to order the members gave quotations in response to the roll call, then the new books were distributed. Everyone was asked to give an interesting current event. The highlight of the program was a sketch of George Washington given by Mrs. Marvin M. Everett. The article, taken from an old magazine, pictured the first president as a man rather than as a historical figure.

It showed him as a person with weaknesses and peculiarities belonging to the majority of people. It told of his lack of education with no formal schooling, but it explained that he was tutored at home. A brief biography was given to the time of his retirement two years before his death at the age of 67.

The hostess served cherry tarts and coffee to the club members and one guest, Mrs. C. L. Greene Jr. For favors Mrs. Greene had candy hearts with miniature American flags inserted.

The decorations, refreshments and favors were appropriate for Valentine's Day and the birthday of a famous soldier and statesman.

Simpson H.D. Club Has Annual Supper For Husbands

The Simpson Home Demonstration Club members were hosts to their husbands and a number of invited guests at the annual February supper on Tuesday evening, Feb. 16, at 7 o'clock at the community building. The most unique decorations reminded each one of George Washington's birthday. The candlelight building seemed to bring a more welcome atmosphere.

Mrs. S. D. Tucker, president, welcomed the husbands and invited guests. The guests were: Mr. and Mrs. May, Mr. and Mrs. Goodman, Mrs. Frances Madry and Miss Jean Madry. Mr. Robert Little responded to the welcome.

Following the supper, Mrs. May, the Home Demonstration Club agent, and Mr. Goodman, the 4-H leader, gave a most interesting demonstration on the subject "Milk Makes a Difference." By listening to the demonstration each one came to the conclusion in order to get the right amount of calcium a quart of milk is easier to consume than the equivalent of it.

Miss Lena Barron, the recreation leader, introduced Mrs. Frances Madry, music teacher of Ormsland School. The group singing led by Mrs. Madry was enjoyed by all.

Mrs. Baker Is Hostess To WCTU Members

Mrs. A. W. Baker was hostess to the Woman's Christian Temperance Union on Friday evening, Feb. 19, at 7:30 o'clock. The meeting was opened with a song, "Lead On O King Eternal" Prayer was led by Mrs. Hutch Ward.

For devotionals, favorite scriptural passages were quoted by each member, with comments. A round table discussion with questions and answers on the meaning of the W.C.T.U. was conducted.

At the business session, Mrs. Lela Carson, president, read an informative article from the "Union Signal" entitled "The Washington Letter," by Elizabeth S. Smart, department of legislation. Mrs. Carson also gave a five minute discussion from the state paper, "The White Ribbon."

The department of radio gave a report of very interesting programs that have been given each week by the pastors of the different churches on Monday from 3:15 to 3:30 o'clock.

Mrs. S. L. McCarty, chairman of the "Flower, Mission and Relief" department, gave a report of her work. Mrs. E. L. Garris, chairman of the legislative department, gave a report. She also gave a sketch of the life of Frances Willard, mentioning especially her work in the W.C.T.U. and of the year she founded this great organization.

The president, Mrs. Carson, urged the placing of flowers in all of the churches in Greenville on Feb. 28 in honor of Frances Willard's birthday, that is nearest her heavenly birthday. Mrs. Carson asked that each pastor place in his church bulletin a few remarks in regard to the heroic life of Frances Willard.

Mrs. Preston Harrington was added to the roll as a new member. The treasurer gave her report. An announcement was made of the next meeting, which will be held on Friday evening, March 19, at 7:30 at the home of Mrs. Gladys Scoville on Harding Street.

The meeting was closed with a hymn, "Blest Be The Tie" and a prayer by Mrs. W. R. Smith. After the meeting adjourned, the hostess served delicious ice cream pie.

The supper closed with the singing of "Good Night, Ladies," and each one left looking forward to another such occasion next year.

Plan To Combat Do-It-Yourself Trend In Homes

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Painting and decorating contractors of America, here for a four-day convention, have been urged by their president to improve their sales and merchandising promotion to offset the "do-it-yourself" trend among home owners.

Richard H. Bohl, Columbus, Ohio, also told the 600 delegates, at the opening meeting yesterday, to promote deferred payment plans for painting and decorating.

Another speaker, Gordon Mc Kay, Buffalo, N. Y., said the do-it-yourself promotion "by paint manufacturers has dealt a serious blow to our apprentice training program." He asked, "How can we get young men to spend three years learning to be a painter when they read on a can that they can be experts in five minutes?"

Mrs. Savage Reviews Book Before Members Of Literature Dept.

In keeping with the theme for the year, Our American Heritage, Mrs. J. L. Savage reviewed the book, "John Adams and the American Revolution," by Katherine Bowen at the regular meeting of the Literature Department of the Woman's Club.

As an introduction, Mrs. Savage gave many interesting facts concerning the life of the author who was educated as a musician and taught music for a number of years before entering the literary world. This book, the speaker stated, is most interesting and fascinating and she presented it to the club in a very charming manner. Her bits of humor inserted throughout added interest.

Only 30 years of Adams' life are related in the book, beginning at the age of 10 and ending before too much happened in his public life. During the business session, the president, Mrs. Jesse Moye, presided and officers made their reports.

Mrs. N. C. Brooks reminded the club of the Workshop to be held at the college March 1 at 10 o'clock. "The United Nations, the Best Method for Peace" will be discussed with a nationally known speaker in charge. Attendance was urged.

Mrs. J.H.B. Moore announced the Art Festival to be held the week of March 29 and outlined the program. The club voted to sponsor an "Authors Luncheon Meeting" to be held during the week.

A benefit dinner will be given at the club March 13 by the Americanism and Hospitality Committees. Mrs. Fred Hall announced. Proceeds will go to the fund the Woman's Club is raising for the restoration of Independence Hall. This is a state project and Greenville's club wants to raise the amount asked by the Federation.

Mrs. K. T. Putrell, Mrs. Bertha Parker, Mrs. Clay Studdert were associate hostesses with Mrs. J. Hicks Corey in whose home the club was entertained.

Many spring arrangements were used throughout the reception rooms and a delicious dessert course was served from a beautifully appointed table. Mrs. Jesse Moye poured coffee.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Eva Harris on Third Street.

Deterring Element For Rash Of Robberies

There's an old saying in Eastern Carolina that when times get tight, people start plying the trade of robbery with renewed vigor.

Whether or not the economic situation has a bearing on the number of robberies in this section of the state, we do not know. One thing seems certain, however. The rash of robberies which began throughout the eastern section of the state during the month of December shows little signs of letting up.

Pitt County, along with many other counties, has had what we feel is more than its share of safe crackings and other robberies. For the most part throughout the whole area, the robberies have been staged on relatively isolated general stores

Final Chapter In Modern Saga

An anti-climatic event in one of the roiling sagas in recent North Carolina history will occur when the former head of the Ku Klux Klan in the two Carolinas is released from prison on parole.

From all appearances, the Klan in North Carolina has not been revived since the concentrated clamp-down of two years ago which saw the head of the Klan, Thomas Hamilton, sentenced to prison, and more than 100 of his followers were arrested for violating the laws of the state.

Particularly in Columbus and several other counties in the southern part of the state was the terrorism of the Klan vicious in 1951. But the terrorism and the Klan which created it were stamped out almost completely.

When Thomas Hamilton leaves the New Hanover County prison farm, he will be the last of the Klansmen to be released from prison. And even Hamilton, who most recently stood at the head of the hooded order of terrorism, has renounced the Klan.

The release of Hamilton on parole should close the final chapter on KKK in North Carolina.

or business places in the smaller communities.

Doubtlessly there is connection between some of the robberies; but for the most part they appear to be the work of individuals or separate small groups of individuals working in widespread sections.

Probably no group of citizens is more anxious that the criminals responsible for the robberies are apprehended than the law enforcement officers of the various counties and the SBI which have been working night and day on the many cases.

In addition to good law enforcement which is being used to track down the criminals step by step, there is going to have to be another factor to break up this rash of robberies and prevent them from continuing indefinitely. The courts are going to have to make it an expensive proposition for those who are found guilty of the crimes.

Leniency on the part of the courts in dealing with those found guilty of such robberies will only encourage the criminals to "try it again," or lead others to pick up the work where those who have been convicted left it.

Stern punishment meted out to those who are found guilty will serve as a deterring factor to others who may be contemplating similar schemes for some "easy dough."

A "Must" Item For Americans' Reading

The essay "Democracy and the Challenge of Youth" by Dr. Martha Pingel of the East Carolina College faculty is truly a masterpiece which is well worth the reading and consideration of every youngster and adult.

The essay received top honors awarded by the Freedoms Foundation which annually presents awards to individuals, organizations and schools for their contributions to a better understanding of the American way of life.

For her essay Dr. Pingel was awarded by the Foundation the gold George Washington Honor Medal and a $1,000 cash prize.

The essay depicts in concrete terms the fundamental principles of the Democratic way of life in the United States, and issues a burning challenge to every youngster and every adult to uphold his obligations to the heritage of the Free.

It should be rated high on the list of "must" reading for every American.

South Continues To Like Ike

NEW ORLEANS—Although the South made its greatest progress during the Roosevelt-Truman era, Dixie still likes Ike Eisenhower. If he were running for re-election today, in the opinion of political experts in this area, he would receive again the largest vote which the South has ever given to a Republican Presidential candidate.

Indeed, there is a general belief in informed circles that the Eisenhower victory, unlike Herbert Hoover's 1928 triumph over Alfred E. Smith in four Southern states, may have broken the Democrats' historic hold in this territory. Eisenhower, the man, has given the GOP a better standing in Dixie than it ever had before.

It is no longer dangerous or a matter of shame, economically or socially, for a businessman, a banker or a manufacturer to admit publicly that "I voted for Ike and would do the same again tomorrow." Such an admission in the past might have brought reprisal. In the 1950 primaries, showing that the 1928 Hoover uprising was only a flash in the pan, several states unseated the Hefflin-like characters who had openly opposed "Al" Smith.

NO PRESTIGE LOST—But there is no revulsion or reprisal against the individuals or factions which so-called "liberal" faction of the North—the Roosevelt-Lehman-Humphrey-Harriman group—has failed to grasp. The Southerners will not return to the Party except on their own terms, meaning that the break may remain permanent. It is extremely doubtful, for instance, if the South's acknowledged political leaders would work any harder for Representative Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., assuming that he should be the 1956 Presidential nominee, than they did for Stevenson. They would simply take another walk. Having done it once without encountering any loss of public esteem, they will be in a mood to do it again.

WHY THEY STILL LIKE IKE—Several factors account for the South's continued liking for Eisenhower, although they may not endorse the President to hard-shelled Republicans in other sections of the country. They like Ike because, as he recently said, he was not a fierce or bitter "partisan." He has turned out to be the kind of man they expected him to be—a "human guy," without any personal or sectional pettiness. To the South, Eisenhower does not represent the typical, post-Civil War Republican President.

They like his attitude toward labor and business problems. While so many industries shifting to Dixie, the Roosevelt-Truman partiality toward the unions had become a live issue. Ike, in their opinion, will be and prejudice against private enterprise and initiative fair to both sides.

AN IMPORTANT REASON—What they like most, however, in his approach to these questions, is his apparent desire to keep Uncle Sam out of this field. Ever since Jefferson and Calhoun days, and even more so today, the South has been suspicious of "Big Government."

Secondly, the South is enjoying what looks like solid and enduring property, quite unlike the economic conditions which prevailed two years after Hoover's election. A lot has been written about the Texas "billionaires" who back Senator "Joe" McCarthy—Messrs. Hunt, Cullen, Richardson, etc.—but they have their counterparts throughout Dixie.

To fly only 100 miles below New Orleans, and to see the vast gas, oil and sulphur operations along and in the Gulf of Mexico itself, is to realize that a "New South," politically and economically, has been created.

The 'Ordinary' Americans

Somebody Told Me

Women Watch Other Women

Last week I raised the question: Why do men notice women so much more than women notice men? One reader, Mrs. H. F. Steinbeck, has presented this explanation:

"Dear Jack,
"Regarding tonight's column which raises the question as to whether or not women enjoy watching men as much as men enjoy watching women and girls: You try standing on the corner and watch a few men go by. See what I mean?"

"Confidentially, the women pay far more attention to their own sex passing by than they do to the men. No comparison at all. "Generations of glorifying the fair sex has conditioned us, no doubt. Could that be called 'Mind over Muscle?'"

Freda Steinbeck
To say Mrs. Steinbeck hit the nail on the head would probably be the understatement of the year. As Mrs. Steinbeck puts it, it would be rather amazing to see a man standing on the corner watching other men pass by, but certainly nothing would be odd about women watching other women.

The importance of a woman's looks has been emphasized so much that every woman feels an interest in the institution of good looks. Therefore they are making constant comparisons between other women and themselves.

To illustrate the point even further, we must recognize the fact that man is far more inclined to neglect his appearance than the woman is. Realizing that he is little noticed, he feels that his appearance is not important. Here, we find a big difference in the married and single man. The married man is quite often a sloppy Joe who should take more pride in his appearance.

One reader almost convinced me that women notice men as much as men notice women, only they do it in such an inconspicuous way that it's never noticed. After kicking that idea around, this seems to be the conclusion: They notice us more than we realize, but not as much as they notice women.

And I thank Mrs. Steinbeck.

What Other Editors Are Thinking

THEY KNOW THE SCORE (Henderson Dispatch)

Church leaders desirous of inducing the 1955 legislature to order a statewide referendum on liquor are getting off to an early start, and they will need it. Repeatedly over a period of years efforts have been made to get a similar measure through the General Assembly but always without success. By now they surely must know the score.

Two years ago about this time a similar movement was undertaken in the State and in this county. It attracted enthusiastic support from a number of the foes of legal liquor, but unfortunately not enough. One of the objectives then, as presumably it will be this time also, was to obtain from candidates for House and Senate a commitment as to their position on the question. That, of course, was only partially successful. And why? Because the candidates were convinced that they would be safer by keeping their views to themselves. Many of them probably were convinced that a majority of their constituents favored the ABC system, especially where county-owned or city-owned stores were in operation with little protest against them. In that they were likely correct. They undoubtedly reasoned that the pro-liquor group had more votes than the opposition.

We are wondering if the Citizens Committee could make more headway by attempting to educate the people as a whole than by trying to persuade candidates to take their side of the question. If they can win over the public, they will have little trouble with the candidates. They would make more progress, too, if they could get all the churches on their side.

The ministers, for the most part, are favorable to a referendum, but they say little about it from their pulpits and preach even less against liquor generally.

Very little organized effort has been made, beyond planning and passing resolutions, to convince the people as a whole of the evils of alcohol. It was by doing that that the State went dry in 1908 and remained dry in another referendum in 1935. Yet in the face of those two popular expressions the 1955 legislature authorized county ABC elections, most of which carried, resulting in legal liquor sales in some twenty-eight to thirty counties and municipal areas at the present time.

For our part we wish these anti-liquor people success, but we believe they are going to have to start further down the line than candidates for the legislature if they are to achieve such a goal.

Political Leadership Notably Lacking Among Parties

By LYNN NISBET

LEADERSHIP—To paraphrase the famous five-cent cigar wisecrack of the late Vice President Thomas R. Marshall, "What this country needs is accepted and recognized political leadership." That is particularly true of North Carolina.

Published stories and first-hand reports obtained from those who attended the Lincoln Day meetings at Charlotte last Saturday indicate conditions in the Republican party are very similar to those maintaining among Democrats as evidenced at the recent Jefferson-Jackson dinner a week before in Raleigh.

Despite eloquent protestations of harmony and progress, the most obvious fact brought out by both meetings is that neither party has any cohesive organization at State level and that relations between State and National organizations are strained.

The quiet apparent strained relations between State and National groups raises the question whether there is really a cohesive National organization in either party.

Another obvious conclusion, based on developments at the Raleigh and Charlotte meetings, is that the State-National Democratic groups are getting closer together, while the Republican groups seem to be moving farther apart.

LOGICAL—That would seem to be a logical development, in view of all the circumstances. North Carolina stayed with the Democratic National ticket in 1948 and again in 1952. After the 1948 election President Truman flaunted his victory and boasted that the vote showed he didn't need any Southern State to win. Following that line the 1952 Democratic National convention slatted the South—including North Carolina. And the Democrats lost the election, although North Carolina gave Adlai Stevenson the largest vote of any State in the electoral college. The National organization woke up to the fact that maybe it did need the South, including North Carolina.

FAILURE—Meanwhile, because of the 1948 and 1952 attitude of National Democratic leaders toward the State, North Carolina Republicans sincerely believed they could deliver the electoral vote to the Eisenhower-Nixon ticket. They made some extravagant promises, which top party leadership accepted as assurance. They failed to deliver, although they did narrow the usual margin.

We have, then, this situation: Tarheel Democrats, in face of re-elected delivery by national leadership, delivered the State to the Democratic ticket. Tarheel Republicans, in spite of concessions, failed to deliver the State electoral vote. It would be contrary to human nature if the National Democratic leadership did not warm up to North Carolina and the National Republican leadership cool off.

LOCALIZED—While North Carolinians occasionally get all hot and bothered about big names like Al Smith, Herbert Hoover, Franklin Roosevelt, Dwight Eisenhower and Joe McCarthy, and less frequently get bothered about policies involving tariffs and civil rights, the fact remains that major interest centers in State and local issues. The rank and file of voting citizens are concerned about State leadership. North Carolinians do not want, have never had and will not any time soon submit to, the kind of political bossism which has been inflicted upon some other States and big cities. They do yearn for somebody to demonstrate the qualities of character and courage and intelligence which they can honestly follow as a real leader.

A lot of names get mixed up in this deal. The Democrats have William Umstead, Kerr Scott, Everett Jordan and others; the Republicans have Sam Delapp, Ed Brothill, Jim Baley et al. Add a dozen names to other lists and there is still lacking that acceptable, recognized leadership the people seem to be looking for, and hoping for.

It is a situation unusual in North Carolina and there is no precedent upon which to base a prediction of what may happen from here on.

UMSTEAD—Governor William Umstead returned to his office Monday morning after a week's vacation and immediately moved into a strenuous day with the university board of trustees and the installation of Chancellor Cary Boston at State College. Wearing a coat of Florida sun tan and looking well, the Governor said he was feeling fine.

HODGES—Lieutenant Governor Luther Hodges was reported still out of the State Monday on duties incident to his post a trustee of Rotary International. He was the subject of some right brack conversation around Capitol square because of news stories about a speech he made in New Orleans last week.

He was quoted as saying that government employees generally do not give as much time to their work as they should, with some reference to State building elevators at Raleigh being crowded with employees going to and from the drinking stands. The coffee hour time-out has come in for a good deal of discussion

Business Today

Sports Sales High

By ELMER ROESSNER

Although we are having a sort of business quiggle right now, most of the outdoor sports industries are expecting a very fine year, with sales close to 1952 and 1953 totals.

The industries share the prevalent opinion that business will pick up by summer and, even if it doesn't, they console themselves with the thought that declines affect the outdoor industries less than most others. Less overtime, four-day weeks and lay offs give men more time for hunting, fishing, boating and other sports.

Last year almost 14,900,000 hunting licenses were issued in continental United States, Alaska and Hawaii, according to the Fish and Wildlife Service; this year more than 15,000,000 are expected. Sports authorities conservatively estimate each hunter spends around $200 a year for guns, ammunition, camping equipment and supplies, so that total spending is about $3 billion a year.

Added to this is the amount fishermen, hikers, mountain climbers and plain campers spend bringing the total up to around $5 billion a year.

There's a smaller but fast-growing segment to the outdoor industries—boating. Sales of boats increased 32 per cent last year and buildings expect another rise this year. Sale of outboard motors rose almost as much last year and manufacturers are counting on another good year.

While the end of the excess profits tax and the reduction of income taxes may result in a few more sales of luxury yachts and cruisers, the big gain is likely to be in smaller boats. In fact, some people now say one of the worst mistakes the industry ever made was its concentration on the luxury trade; there are many more millions in turning out boats that almost anybody can afford than there are in a few swank yachts.

Not only is the industry recognizing the mass market for its worth, but technological advances are helping its cultivation. Small bottoms of laminated glass fibers, small hulls, pressed-out-of-aluminum, cruisers of welded steel, fittings of plastic instead of costly metals, foam rubber equipment, sales of miracle fibers—all these have helped bring better boats within the buying power of more people. And the crowded waterways mean sales of fuels, accessories and equipment. And all of these outdoor industries are making sales for the apparel industry—everything from sportsman's jackets to bikini yacht wear.

RARE GOLD COINS NEEDLESSLY TURNED IN
After 21 years, an occasional rare gold coin is turned into a bank and is routed to the U.S. Treasury to be returned to the collector. Thus the coins that are left, being rarer still, take on added value as collectors' items.

Surrendering rare gold coins, however, is a mistake. Back in 1933, when we went off the gold standard, gold coins in circulation had to be turned in and the export of collectors' coins was prohibited without special permit. But, contrary to the belief of many people, possession of rare coins was not illegal.

False Lure Of 'Outside' World

By SAUL PETT (For Hal Boyle)

NEW YORK (AP)—The other night I saw a very funny play called "Oh, Men: Oh, Women."

It concerns a young wife who is unhappy although her husband is a successful actor, loves her, is faithful and is a good provider. She has a nurse for the kids, a cook, maids, gardener, the works. So, feeling bored and futile she goes to a psychoanalyst and after a few sessions decides maybe she ought to assert her independence. She suggests a trial separation to her husband. Being a reasonable man, he blows his top, gets loaded and tracks down the analyst.

Why, the lurching actor asks the doctor, do so many modern women feel unimportant and useless in the important job of running a house and raising children? Why do they envy those in the "outside" world? What do they think they're missing? "And, finally, doctor," the actor shouts, "tell me this. Tell me, what's on the outside?"

At this point, both men and women, from the $6.50 seats to the last $1.80 seats in the balcony, roared with laughter and stopped the show with wild applause. It was clear the play had struck home in many homes.

Obviously, while few wives have cooks or nurses or psychoanalysts, many wives have the same feeling of boredom, of uselessness, of missing something. Why this great wondrous envy of the mysterious world on the outside, into which husbands all over the country disappear every morning?

In the play, the doctor never answered the question. So let's face it right here and now. Just what is on the outside?

True, the outside has its rises and falls, its triumphs and setbacks, its men who get a $10 raise or are promoted to vice president or find a polio vaccine or win a Nobel prize. But do wives really know how seldom this happens?

Mostly the outside is millions of men shaving, cramming down the last piece of toast, rushing off and being herded like cattle into the cities in crowded commuter trains and buses. Do they go gaily off, as to a great adventure? They do not. They sluff off, half-asleep, numbed by the hypnotic motion of sameness, driven by unseen whips.

The outside is millions of men at the office glumly picking through the morning mail, growling over new memos from the boss. The outside is millions of men beginning another unglamorous day, reacting to the pressure of half-submerged ambitions, to the real or fancied competition of their fellow man.

The outside is the mid-morning, coffee break which they have, not because they want coffee, but because there lurks the hope that, somehow, five minutes away from the desk will bring new solutions, new stimulation, new horizons. It doesn't.

The outside is millions of men talking shop at lunch, dissecting what old T.J. said or what old T.J.'s secretary said and the way they said it and what they meant. The outside is lunch talk about stocks or options or the raise the new man got and the eternal threat that one day soon, unless the company comes through, by gosh, I'm going to make a break. It is dialogue that is no more refreshing, imaginative or soul-satisfying than wives' talk about formulas, B.M.s, new detergents or how could that woman ever afford a huge new sectional couch that must have cost $900 and on his salary!

The outside is millions of men coming back from too much lunch, half-heartedly flirting with the pretty receptionist or secretary and 99.9 per cent of the time either party would be surprised and a little frightened if anything came of it. This is a semi-automatic maneuver that goes with manhood, a token gesture made to hold on to the franchise.

The outside is millions of men leaving a crowded desk at night with a sense of unfulfillment, millions of men being herded back to the evening papers, dully reading the evening conversation, secretly wondering when the fun begins.

So relax, girls. The outside is just the inside out.

G-16 "SUBURBAN" CITY OF BURLINGTON

The Greenville Kiwanis Club's "Choo-Choo Special" miniature train of one locomotive and three coaches will be placed in operation in the parkway near Guy Smith Stadium Easter Sunday—April 17. The three coaches will seat 36 children. The train travels 1,200 feet on each trip and the engine uses gasoline for fuel. A nominal fee will be charged for round-trip tickets. The Greenville Kiwanis Club purchased the train for $13,000 and has leased it to the City of Greenville to maintain and operate in the parkway. It will be in charge of the Greenville Recreation Commission. After the cost of the miniature train has been realized the Kiwanis club and the city will share in the receipts. All of the profits for the Kiwanis Club will be used for the Kiwanis Underpriv-

Monster Factory Is Place For Shudders

By BOB THOMAS HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Come with me into the monster factory. You'll find it on the second floor of an old building at Universal-International. The monster masters who run the joint are make-up chief Bud Westmore and his assistant, Jack Gavin. These fellows can whip up a monster at the drop of a script, and that's what they've been doing lately. I dropped in at the freak works and found Gavin putting the finishing touches on the latest creation, an ant man. "This fellow is called a mutant," Gavin explained clinically. "He comes from the planet of Metaluma, where the Metalumans breed them for work purposes. They are half-man and half-ant, an interesting combination." Interesting enough to scare you out of your wits if you met one in a dark alley. The mutant is a blue-green horror with vivid red veins lashed around its body. It has a two-foot-high head that appears to be an exposed oversize brain. The arms, with viselike pincers, dangle down to his ankles and he has a shell-like back. He's a doll, all right. This fellow makes his debut in "This Island Earth," and his keepers, the Metalumans, are also weird. They're more human-like, but they have high domes topped by white hair. An assignment of this sort is routine for Westmore and Gavin. "We're the only studio equipped to handle big jobs like this," Westmore remarked. "We have our own big bake oven for setting the molds and everything." Monsters don't come cheaply. The mutant came to a bill of $6,500, which is not bad as monsters go. The boys' last assignment was whipping up a frog man to play the title role in "The Creature From Black Lagoon." He came to around $12,000. "We sort of fell down on that one," Westmore admitted. "He wasn't frightening enough. The preview cards indicated that some people in the audience sympathized with him. The trouble was that they photographed the frog man in the bright sunlight. You can't do that with monsters. You have to keep them in the shadows." Westmore needn't worry. The mutant will restore his reputation as a monstrosity maker. Universal's penchant for horror goes back to the old days of Lon Chaney and "The Hunchback of Notre Dame." The early talkies brought such hits as "Dracula" and "Frankenstein." From then on it was a makeup man's paradise. They had the Frankenstein monster meeting the Ape Man, Dracula meeting the Mummy and all of them meeting up with Abbott and Costello. Art gum and sponge rubber all over the place. "One of our toughest assignments was 'Abbott and Costello Meet Dr. Jeckyl and Mr. Hyde,'" Westmore recalled. "We had to make up nine Dr. Jeckyl masks. The idea was that as one actor bit another, he turned into a Dr. Jeckyl. Then at the end we had to turn Lou Costello into a mouse!" But the most expensive job was for no monster at all. It was making Ann Blyth's tail in "Mr. Peabody and the Mermaid." Bud and his staff spent three months on that job making tail after tail until the studio bosses decided on one they liked. The cost: $22,000.

Marilyn On Way Home With Joe, Medal And Cold

TOKYO (AP)—Marilyn Monroe is on her way home today with a cold, a silver medal and husband Joe DiMaggio. The blonde screen actress got the cold and the medal for her four-day show tour of the Korean front line, playing on open, chilly stages in a low-cut cocktail dress. A colonel handed her the medal of appreciation from the Far East Command as she and DiMaggio boarded a Pan American plane. They are due at San Francisco at tonight. Marilyn planned to rest in a berth for the first part of her trip. The DiMaggios were accompanied by Lefty O'Doul, manager of the Pacific Coast League San Diego Padres, and Mrs. O'Doul. DiMaggio and O'Doul coached Japan's professional baseball teams. Benjamin Franklin suggested that America make the wild turkey its national emblem, objecting to the bald eagle because, he said, it was lazy, a thief, a coward and a bully.

Jap Police Hunt Two Communists

TOKYO (AP)—Japanese police are searching intensively for two Communists who went underground in 1950, Kyodo news service said today. The two are Hiroshi Hasegawa, 44, and Shigeo Shida, 54. They are sought in the neighborhood of Kamakura, where they are reported to have held a clandestine meeting with local Communists yesterday. Shida is reported to be chairman of the military committee of the underground Communist activity in Japan. Police said a recently discovered "white paper" thought to be of Communist origin has indicated the Communists in Japan are stepping up activities of a military nature. Police said the paper criticized past efforts toward a violent revolution in Japan and urged members toward greater efforts.

Mau-Mau Terror Growing Despite Military Campaign

LONDON (AP)—A spell that anti-white Mau Mau terrorists cast on Kenya in 1952 with knife, torch and witch doctor ritual is growing despite a bomber-backed campaign to crush the rebellion, a British parliamentary delegation reports.

A drastic shakeup of the East African crown colony's police was proposed by the six-man, all-party delegation yesterday to help cope with the bloody uprising that some British experts say may last a generation.

Fresh from an 18-day survey of the fertile land where British security forces each month are killing off about 300 of the terrorists and capturing 150, the delegation said there was danger the movement to drive out the whites and kill loyal tribesmen would spread beyond the Kikuyu area where it was born.

The 14 million Kikuyus number almost a fourth of Kenya's African population. It is among those tribesmen—who till the fields around Nairobi, the capital and work as laborers and servants for the whites—that the Mau Mau has done its recruiting by a combination of persuasion and violence.

"The influence of the Mau Mau in the Kikuyu area, except in certain localities, has not declined," the parliamentary delegation said. "It has, on the contrary, increased. In this respect the situation has deteriorated and the danger of infection outside the Kikuyu area is now greater, not less than at the beginning of the emergency."

Cases of brutality and corruption were cited among the colonial civil forces allied with British troops in the fight against the Mau Mau, and the report said: "Reorganization of the police, from the highest level downwards, should be accompanied by stern action to enforce discipline."

Publication of the report appears certain to touch off a hot debate in the House of Commons on the colony, a country of 224,900 square miles which lists coffee, tea, cotton and grain among its principal exports. Colonial Secretary Oliver Lyttelton arranged to fly to Kenya Saturday for another review of the political and military strategy. Field Marshal Sir John Harding, chief of the imperial general staff and Britain's top soldier, will accompany him.

Lyttelton's methods of handling the campaign have been widely criticized both in Kenya and in Britain. Many among the colony's 42,000 whites contend the campaign is not tough enough. They demand an emergency war cabinet to run the country. But British Laborites insist strong-arm methods already in use have hindered, not helped, the British cause.

An army totaling 34,000 men—10 battalions of British troops and the King's African Rifles, 8,000 regular police and 20,000 part-time police—is battling the Mau Mau. Twelve British bombers, pursuing an aerial campaign instituted last April, are herding them out of the highlands so the troops can get a crack at them. Authorities estimate that 3,400 Mau Mau have been killed since the outbreak of the rebellion. Of perhaps 1,000 captured, 100 have been hanged for murder. Jails are crowded with 30,000 Kikuyus suspected of having taken the Mau Mau's blood oath.

Farmville Man To Join Faculty

John Council Parker of Farmville will join the faculty of East Carolina College March 2 as a part-time instructor of accounting in the department of business education. A 1948 graduate of East Carolina, where he specialized in Business Education, Mr. Parker was licensed as Certified Public Accountant in North Carolina in 1951. His business experience includes a position as accountant with the E.I. du Pont de Nemours Corporation, Wilmington, Delaware, for two and a half years and service as a public accountant in Laurinburg for two years. At present he is a practicing Certified Public Accountant in Farmville. The island of Saint Martin in the West Indies is divided between France and the Netherlands but the people speak English.

Heresy Charged By Commission

DETROIT (AP)—The Presbyterian Church last Saturday unfrocked a 59-year-old minister on a charge of heresy.

The Rev. Claude Williams was convicted of heresy by a special commission of the Presbyterian Church of the U.S.A. . . . The commission dismissed a charge of "teaching and preaching of communism."

The Associated Press erroneously quoted the Rev. Dr. Henry J. Welch of Plymouth, Mich., chairman of the commission, as saying the commission gave Williams a censure of admonition on the charge of communism.

The commission admonished Williams on a charge of failing to file proper reports.

Williams said he would not accept "dismissal" of the charge to pro-Communist leanings but would appeal the commission's verdict to "the highest court of this church." Williams, who served as wartime industrial chaplain of the Presbytery in Detroit, now lives in Helena, Ala.

Odd Address Is Found Sufficient

DENVER (AP)—Frank Schmecher, 70, retired general superintendent of mails here, recalled the "cleverest challenge we had" during his 50 years of getting the mails through.

It was a letter, he said, addressed to: "Wood, John, Mass."

Schmecher said the letter was finally delivered to John Underwood, Andover, Massachusetts — naturally.

The word "dollar" is derived from "thaler."

Winterville And Bethel Teams In Pitt Tourney Finals

Farmville And Stokes Lose In Semi-Finals

Winterville and Bethel girls' and boys' basketball teams won semi-final games last night in the Pitt County Conference tournament at Memorial Gym here.

The Winterville girls edged Farmville 41-35; Winterville boys defeated Farmville 59-53; Bethel girls beat Stokes 44-32; and Bethel boys stopped Stokes 44-32 to gain final night positions in the annual event.

Winterville boys had defeated Ayden and Winterville girls had defeated Bethel to get into the semi-final round that was played last night. Bethel girls had whipped Ayden and Bethel boys had swamped Bethel to gain places in the semi-final round.

The finals will be played tonight with Bethel girls meeting Winterville at 7:30 and the Bethel boys playing Winterville at 9 p.m. in the second game.

Winterville 41 Farmville 35 In the opening game of the semi-finals last night the Winterville Wolverines edged the Farmville setts 41-35 in a thriller.

Winterville girls started fast after the opening whistle and led 9-0 after five minutes of the first period had passed. The Red Devils did not score until 1:37 was remaining in the first period.

During the entire first period Farmville girls seemed nervous and missed many free throws. At the quarter the Wolverines led 18-4.

Through the second period the Winterville girls held their lead without any trouble and were ahead 21-11 at the half-time. The second period was strictly a slow ball game.

In the third period the game's tempo picked up with Farmville beginning to close the gap. With 6:14 remaining in the third quarter the Red Devils had pulled to within three points of Winterville.

Winterville moved out again and Farmville came back again so that with 1:16 left in the third period the score was 33-33 still in favor of Winterville. Third quarter ended 31-30.

Slow Game With both teams playing slow possession type game the fourth quarter remained close. At no time did the Wolverines lead by more than three points. With 6:35 left in the contest Farmville's Sue Flanagan hit to tie the score 33-33 for the first time in the contest.

It was tied 35-35 with 8:50 remaining, but Farmville dropped behind again to stay behind. Winterville pulled ahead 39-38 with 2:51 left, but Farmville came back to come within a point of that lead, which also happened to be Farmville's last points of the game at the 2:34 mark.

Two of Farmville's guards fouled out at this point and Winterville's smooth working forwards added two more points and froze the ball very effectively during the last two minutes.

In the final half of the contest Coach Paul Clark's Winterville guards began obviously fouling the Farmville forwards, which proved to be a smart thing since the Red Devils forwards missed most of their foul shots.

The win put Winterville in the finals meeting Bethel girls, who defeated Stokes last night to gain a berth in the finals.

Bethel 44 Stokes 32 Bethel boys gained a place in the finals in the second game of the semi-finals by defeating Stokes-Factolus easily 44-32 last night.

The game between the two county quints that ended the season tied for second place in the standings was close throughout the first period. After a slow start the game was tied six times and the lead changed hands three times in the first period.

Bethel moved ahead and stayed ahead throughout the second quarter and rest of the contest with the exception of one point in the third quarter when the score was tied 27-27 with 2:10 remaining in that period.

Bethel pulled away in the final period and widened the lead to 12 points before the close of the contest.

Bethel meets Winterville boys in division.

Semi-Final Leaders Edna Wooten paced the losing

Top Loop Teams Meeting In Finals

Farmville girls' scoring last night with 30 points. Edna Cannon added 13 and Sue Flanagan hit six.

Carolyn Moringo, Doris Oakley and Nan Williams led the Red Devils on defense.

Jean Little topped first game scoring with 22 points. Jane Corey added eight and Joan Averette scored 11 for the Wolverines.

Winterville sent six guards into the game in an effort to stop the taller Farmville girls' scoring and even with the fouling the guards stopped them fairly effectively.

Bethel-Stokes Coach W. L. Berry's Bethel girls parlayed a slick offense and a stingy defense into a 52-39 victory over the crippled Stokes-Factolus Blue Jays to move into the final round of the tournament.

Petite and pretty Mary Jo Wynne, Carrie Ayers and Corrine Briley took care of scoring the points and Anne Riddick worked Stokes over on defense to send the Indians into the final.

Stokes was forced to play the entire game without the services of star guard and captain Nancy Worthington. Nancy suffered a slight concussion in Tuesday night's game with Chidco and she was ordered to sit out last night's game. Her absence was evident by the manner in which the Bethel forwards moved and scored, seemingly at will, against the Stokes defense.

Mary Jo led the scoring for both teams with 25 points, most of them on a clever one-hand shot. Carrie worked into the second spot in scoring with 19 points and Corrine contributed seven.

On defense, Bethel's Riddick wrapped almost everything in right up. Stokes' Jane Bullock and Lisa Harris did manage 30 points between them (with Bullock getting 18 and Harris 14) but still Riddick controlled the rebounds from the oft-erratic Stokes shots.

Bethel took an early lead in the game and managed to hold a 10-point margin throughout most of the game. There were times when Stokes went into a smooth operation of offensive patterns and threatened to tie the game but Bethel always managed to come through when the chips were down.

Frances Warren, a tall (5-9 1/2) guard for Stokes, did an amazingly good job on defense for her team, considering the offensive ability of the Bethel squad. She pulled in a large number of rebounds and did a good job on defense although there was not a great deal shot and Wynne's one-hander.

Winterville-Farmville In the final game of the evening round, Winterville turned loose a little-heralded forward who completely mopped up the big Farmville team for a 59-53 Winterville victory.

Jack Paramore, a 5-10 senior, pumped in 25 points to lead the Winterville offense and his general all-around work kept the game from being as close as the score would have a tendency to indicate.

Winterville went in a pressing defense right from the start and worked a fast break almost to death in climbing into an early lead. With Paramore working in for good shots Winterville pulled into a 12-12 lead at the end of the first period and then boosted their margin to 30-35 at the half.

In the third quarter Farmville started moving its offensive patterns a little better and made its most serious threat to take the game away from the Wolves.

Jack Allen, the Farmville football star who plays a forward on Charles Tucker's basketball squad, sparked a brief Farmville rally that finally knotted the score at 39-39 with 1:28 of the third period left.

Paramore and Jimmy Stokes went tonight's final game in the boys' to work, however, in the remaining minute, to take the game back away from the Red Devils and boost Winterville into a 42-39 lead at the quarter.

In the fourth period Farmville got within four points of the Wolves on several occasions but they were never able to get any closer than that except once. That was with 1:30 left to play when Jack Farrior closed the gap to 55-52.

Jack Allen led the Farmville scoring with 16 points and played a good game under both boards.

By BOB BOYETTE Basketball teams from Winterville and Bethel will meet in finals of the Pitt County Conference tournament tonight at 7:30 in Memorial Gym on the campus of East Carolina College.

Teams from these two schools ended the regular season in first and second places in the standings making the tournament finals the proposed "dream games."

Bethel girls, who ended the regular season with 13 wins against one loss in Pitt Conference play, defeated Ayden 71-32 in the first round and eliminated Stokes 52-39 in the semi-finals.

Winterville girls ended second in regular season play by winning 13 and losing two games during the regular season. They defeated Bethel 71-46 and Farmville 41-38 to get a chance to meet Bethel in the finals.

Bethel and Winterville girls split their two regular season games.

Boys Finals Winterville boys, who finished first with 13 wins and two losses, will meet Bethel, who ended up one-half a game behind with 12 wins and two losses, in the final game of the boys' division.

Winterville beat Ayden 65-59 and stopped Farmville 59-53 to gain a berth in the finals.

Bethel won easily from Bethel 62-38 and stopped Stokes 44-32 to get into the finals.

These two teams split their regular season games.

This is one of the few times teams expected to be in the finals actually reach that part of the tournament. So far there has not been an upset in the tournament and no matter how tonight's games go can they be declared an upset since the two teams in both divisions split their regular season games.

PRO BASKETBALL (NBA) By The Associated Press Milwaukee 70, Syracuse 68 Rochester 91, Boston 77 Minneapolis 100, New York 82

Tickets Are Being Sold For NAA Tournament

Tickets for the District 26 N.A.A. basketball tournament have gone on sale.

The two-day tournament will open March 2 at East Carolina College. Four teams from the Carolinas, with East Carolina already included, will compete for the district title and the right to represent the Carolinas in the nationals finals in Kansas City.

Season tickets for the tournament will cost $2.50 and single game admissions will be $1.50. The tickets can be obtained from representatives of the sponsoring Rotary Club, and the East Carolina Varsity Club, and the Sigma Rho Phi (EPO).

District Chairman Francis Hoover of Appalachian State Teachers College at Boone has not made any additional announcement concerning the tournament since his comment last week that East Carolina would be included in the tournament. Final

Hodges, Huffman, Heath Picked For All-Conference

Three members of the East Carolina College basketball team have been named to the 1954 All-North State Conference squad.

The squad, announced today in the Greensboro Daily News, was selected by the nine basketball coaches in the conference.

Bobby Hodges, the league's top scorer for the season and within the reach of the conference's career record, is one of two unanimous choices for the team. He was selected along with Charlie Huffman and Cecil Heath of the Pirates.

Lenoir-Rhyne, second place team in the conference standings, placed two men as did Western Carolina. Three other clubs placed single men on the team.

Hodges' selection was the third straight for the Kingston senior. He was picked as the conference's outstanding player and has been credited with being the key in a Pirate attack which rounded out the season last Saturday night with an 18-1 record.

Huffman, the senior forward from Thomasville, was named to the team for the first time as was Heath, a junior from Wilmington. Both played important roles in Pirate successes this year and will be on the squad which opens play in the North State tournament tomorrow night.

Jimmy Jordan, Western Carolina's sophomore center, was the other unanimous choice for the honor team. He and Bob Ray are the Cats' representatives on the team.

Lenoir Rhyne placed Floyd Propst and Rasford Wells, their two key men.

Bill Beacham of Atlantic Christian, Bill Atkins of Guilford, and Kent Moseley of High Point round out the team.

Every member of the squad is a native North Carolinian. Only Hodges, Huffman and Moseley are seniors.

Northeastern Tourney Opens Tomorrow In Memorial Gym

East Carolina Idle Today In North State Tournament

The eleventh annual North State Conference basketball tournament gets underway tonight in Lexington's new YMCA but the top teams in the tournament will be waiting until tomorrow to see action.

Atlantic Christian, the number four team in the tournament, and unranked Catawba will have the honor of opening the tournament. Their game will be played at 7:30.

Western Carolina, number three, and fifth-place Elon will complete the first-round with a 9:15 contest. East Carolina, number one, will have to wait until 9:15 tomorrow night to get into any of the action. They'll meet Guilford.

Lenoir-Rhyne, second-seeded, will start tomorrow's action against Appalachian.

Both East Carolina and Lenoir-Rhyne, the teams expected to meet in the finals Saturday night, moved down their first round opponents in regular season play. East Carolina defeated Guilford 92-58 and 76-52 while Lenoir-Rhyne knocked off Appalachian 78-65 and 70-55.

Pirates Favored Despite the presence of a well-known and rather respected jinx, the Pirates go into the tournament as the overwhelming favorite. They swept through 17 regular season conference games with only Western Carolina able to defeat them. No other team, except Atlantic Christian last Saturday night, was able to push the Pirates into extending themselves for the full length of any one contest.

The jinx which the Pirates will be facing in the tournament is one that has worked in nine of ten previous tournaments. Only the 1942 High Point has gone into the tournament as top-seeded and come away with the championship. As a further bit of evidence of the jinx, only two top-seeded clubs have ever reached the finals. Once was, of course, in 1942. The other time was in 1948 when High Point lost to Appalachian.

The Pirates were top-seeded in last year's tournament but lost in the second round. They defeated Guilford 85-67 in the tournament's opening round but got bounced by High Point, 68-65, in the semi-finals. High Point went on to win the championship.

High Point is the only one of the nine conference teams not in the tournament. The last place club is automatically eliminated from tournament competition and the Panthers

Stengel reluctantly agreed to the sale only after he had become convinced that the veteran pitcher and the front office could never amicably settle their salary dispute. When he was informed that Raschi had intended to get in touch with Yankee officials yesterday morning but had postponed it because of other pressing matters, the old skipper really burned.

"If he only had contacted us," Casey growled, "he'd still be a Yankee today. I'd see to that. But no, he had to sit on his high horse and refuse to meet us halfway."

Weiss said in explaining the sale: "I don't want to make Raschi the whipping boy, but there is an attitude of complacency on the club. Some of the players have become independently wealthy through the winning of five straight championships.

Weiss was referring to the stubborn refusal of Raschi and other Yankee holdouts to meet with club officials to discuss their salary differences. Raschi, who dropped from 21 victories in 1951 to 16 in 1952 and 13 last year, had steadfastly ignored a contract calling for a 25 per cent cut on his $40,000 salary for 1953.

Tomorrow Night's Games

Jacksonville vs. Elizabeth City—4:30 Greenville vs. Roanoke Rapids—8:00 Washington vs. New Bern—9:30

The Northeastern Athletic Conference opens its annual basketball tournament in the East Carolina College Memorial Gymnasium tomorrow night with three games on tap. The opener will start at 6:30.

The three day tournament has all seven members of the conference participating with the number one seeded team drawing a bye for the first round of play. This season Kingston was seeded first, therefore the Red Devils will not see action until the second night of the tournament of Friday.

Cards vs. Yellow Jackets Jacksonville, the number three seeded team, and high scoring Elizabeth City get the tourney rolling at 6:30 tomorrow night when they pit their offenses against each other.

Jacksonville defeated the Yellow Jackets twice during regular season play and will be a slight favorite to turn back the Jackets again. The Cardinals use the ball control style offense made famous by the University of Maryland. Coach Lou Savin's squad will work the ball around until someone is in position for a close shot. Senior forward Bob Burkhardt is the leader in the Cardinal offense.

Elizabeth City is primarily a running ball club, but is weak on reserve strength. Coach Bob Brooks has four boys on the starting five that carry the load on offense. The four are guards Tim Brooks and Pete Smoak, forward Bob Gilden, and center Jimmy Johnson.

Phantas Most Roanoke The second match of the evening will pair Coach Bo Farley's Greenville Phantoms against the Roanoke Rapids Yellow Jackets. In regular season play the Greensies dumped the Yellow Jackets twice, by scores of 70-66 and 103-70. If the Phantas are hitting anyways near the pace they were in the last meeting of the clubs, it will be no contest at all. The hard-driving Jackets have some capable scorers and on a given night could match shots with almost any team in the conference but the Jackets are weak on defensive play.

Both teams use the fast breaking offense and possess several high scorers. Robert Vick, Slip Edmondson, and Arnold Lewis are averaging in the double figures for the Yellow Jackets. Forward Bob Howell and center Harold Edwards are averaging 30 points per game between them for the Green Phantoms.

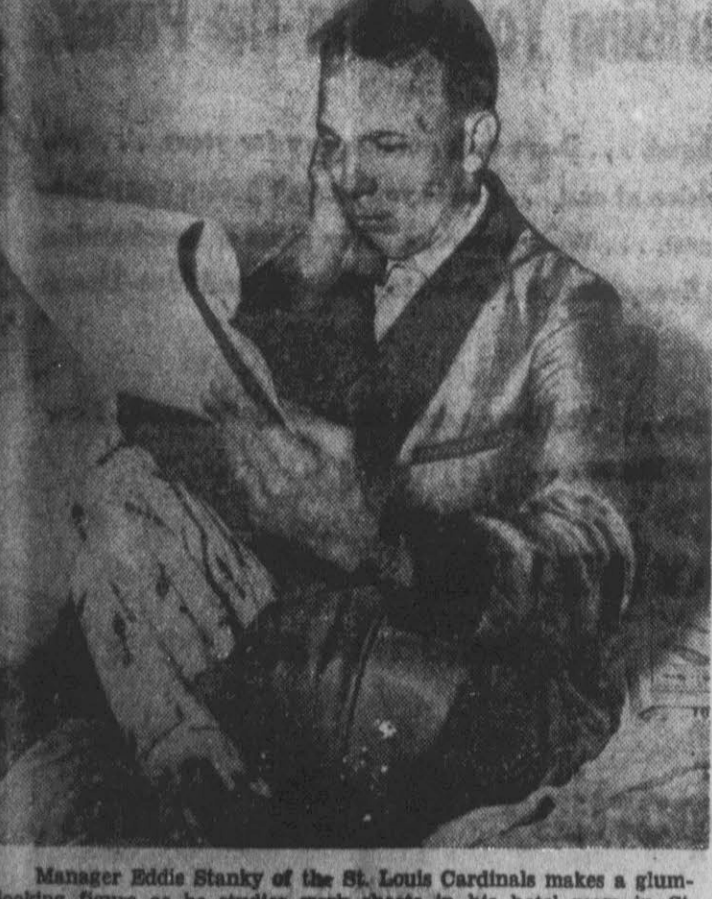

Pack vs. Bears To close out the opening night of play, two hot and cold club will face each other in what could prove to be the feature game of the evening. Washington's Pam Pack and the New Bern Bears are scheduled to meet at 9:30 in the final game of the night.

According to all indications the game should be a battle between a team and a one-man team. Washington plays a slow, possession type game with no individual stars while New Bern employs a fast-breaking offense, a some defense, and Robert Kennell. Kennell is a 5-11 senior who has been averaging around 17 points a game.

If Kennell is on, trouble will be brewing for the Pam-Pack.

Red Devils Change Although the tournament provides the peak in season excitement, the winner of regular season play is called the conference champion. Therefore, no matter who wins the tournament, the Kingston Red Devils will be representing the NAC in the State Tournament.

Homes Damaged, Streets Broken By Earth Tremor

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (AP)—The second series of earth tremors in three days damaged hundreds of homes and broke up streets last night in a five-block area where anthracite mines honeycomb the earth.

The shock sent hundreds of persons, many of them in nightclothes, fleeing to the streets shortly before midnight in this tremor-conscious city of 86,000. Police reported no one was injured.

Several residents reported hearing underground explosions at the time of the disturbance. The Woodward colliery of the Glen Alden Coal Co. has had coal workings 400 feet under the surface of the area. The mines were closed after similar tremors Sunday.

The upheaval cracked foundations, walls and windows of homes and raised some sections of pavements as high as a foot or more. Fences were pushed over. One garage attached to a home was pulled away several inches.

There was no estimate of the total damage.

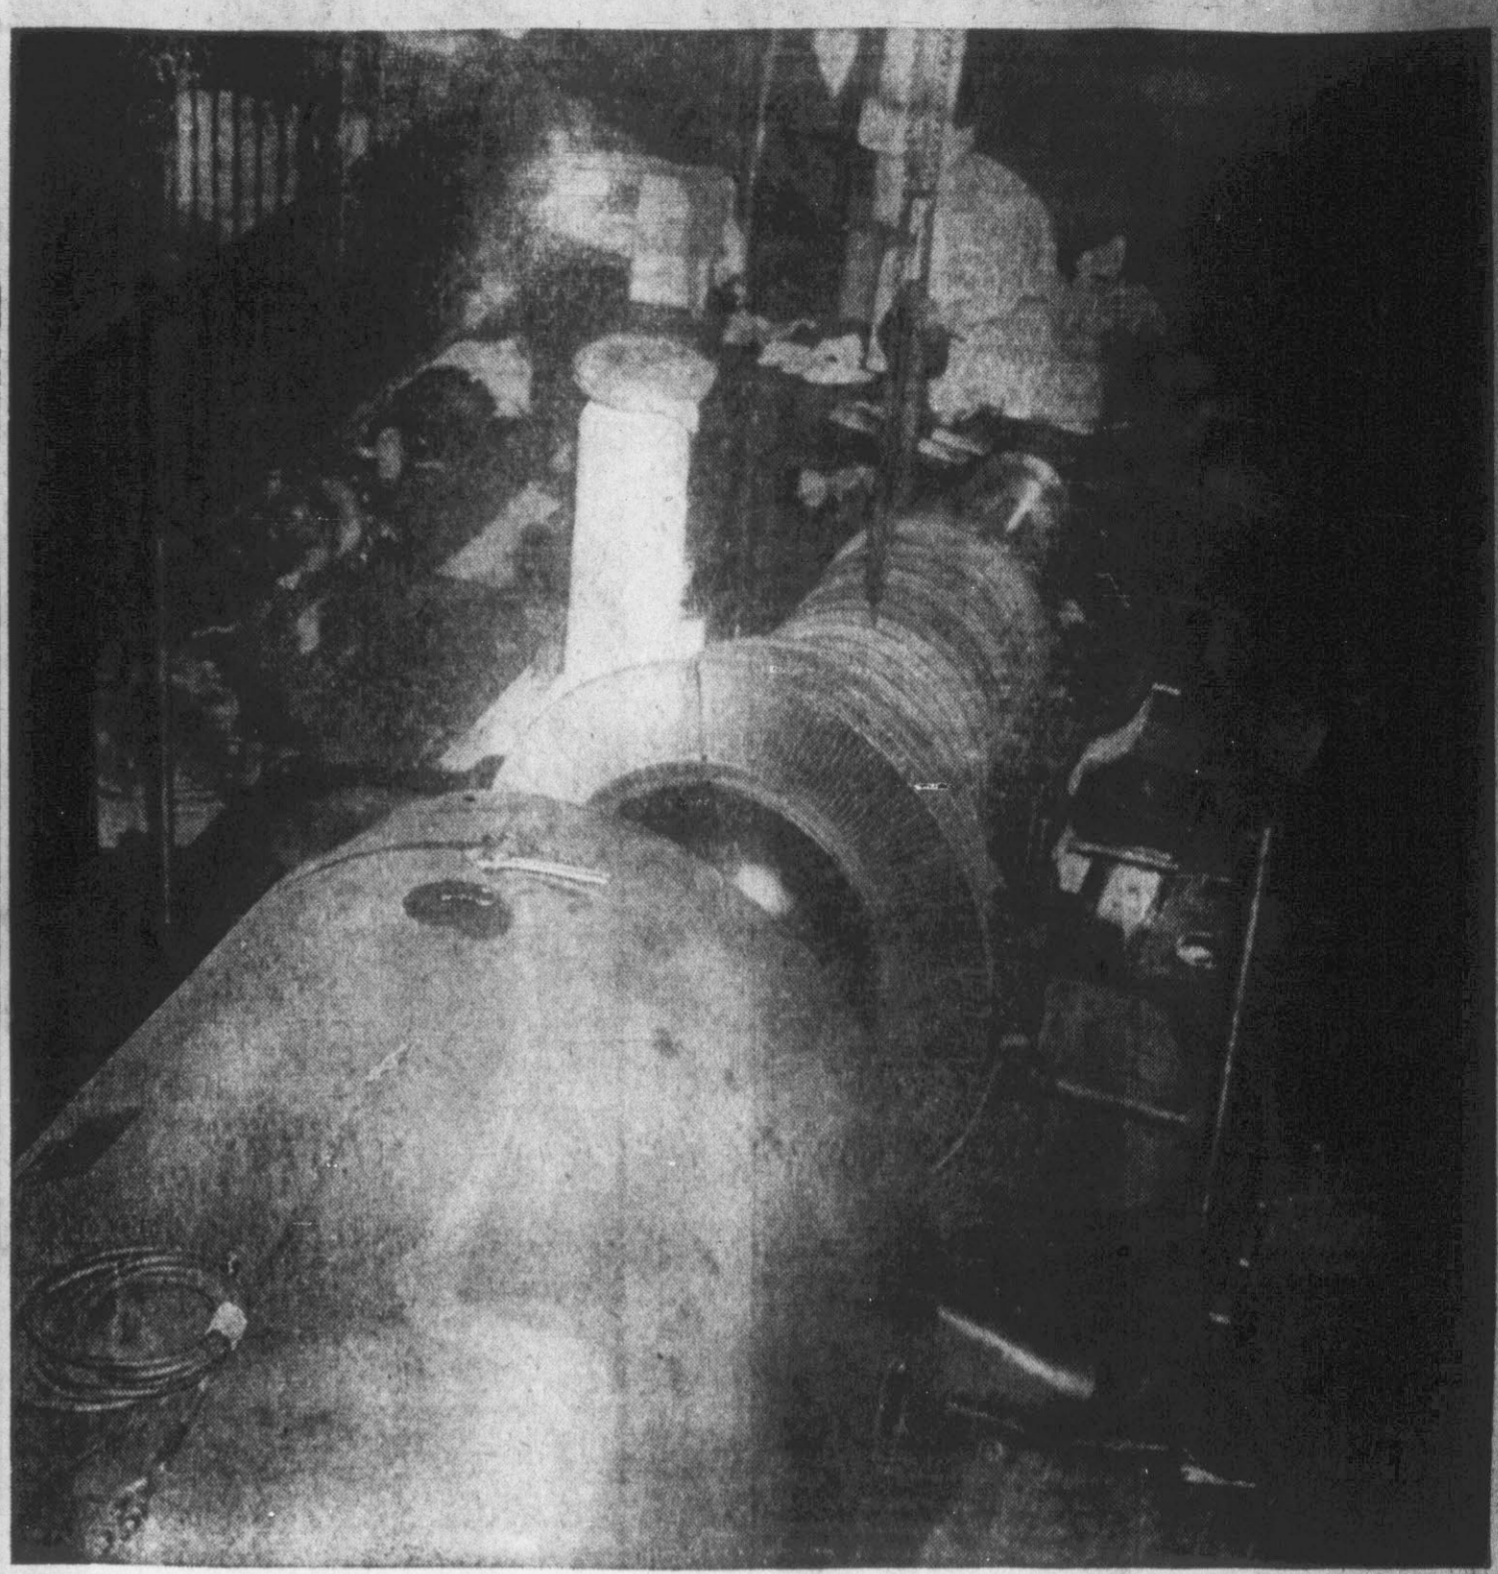

W. J. Clements, state mines secretary, blamed Sunday's tremors, which damaged 300 homes in a nearby area, on cave-ins the underground workings. However, President Francis O. Case of the coal company said they "were not due to mining activities under that area."

The state, city and coal company have launched separate investigations but little is expected to be learned until the mines clear of gas caused by the earth movements.

Many residential areas in this northeastern Pennsylvania coal-mining area are built over active or abandoned coal mines.

William Hughes, who lives in the area, described the tremors as "rather gentle. I didn't realize what was happening until I heard the people running outside."

By coincidence, similar earth movements rocked a residential area of Allentown, 76 miles to the south, several hours earlier. Allentown has no coal workings under the city.

R. J. McLaughlin (left), service engineer for the General Electric Company, who is in charge of the tearing down and making a thorough inspection of all internal mechanism and making repairs as necessary to put the equipment back in A-1 condition, looks on as a workman re-varnishes the insulation windings of the turbo generator. The megger test of the generator windings, armature and cables from the generator terminal to the oil circuit breakers showed infinity or perfect.

This picture shows the generator torn down for the complete internal inspection. This unit went into service here in 1939 and in 1947 it was partly disassembled for a minor check on its inside condition. Due to the load condition of the Greenville Utilities Commission system in 1947 it was impossible to keep the machine out of service long enough for a complete internal inspection, which means this is the first complete inspection it has had since it was installed new by the manufacturers in 1939. "This turbo generator, generally speaking, was found in exceptionally good condition for the period of service it has rendered," the service engineer stated. The inspection was started on February 8 and is anticipated to be completed within the next three weeks. (Reflector photos by Bob Boyette)

Their Party, No Others Invited

MONTPELIER, Vt. (AP)—Two hotel diners were asked if they represented a delegation to a meeting of the Young Republican Club of Vermont. The two men looked at each other in surprise, smiled and politely said they weren't.

They were State Highway Board chairman Cleon A. Perkins and state Tax commissioner Leonard W. Morrison — the only Democrats holding high state positions in Vermont, a Republican stronghold.

Pitt Republicans Elect Officers

Unanimously pledging support to the Eisenhower administration, Pitt County Republicans last week elected officers for the next two years.

X. E. Manning of Bethel was chosen chairman, with Sadie Smith Carrington of Greenville being named vice-chairman. Mrs. Harvey Manning of Bethel was elected secretary.

Republicans named to the County Executive Committee, were: H.R. Munford of Greenville; John R. Scarboro of Grifton, George W. Prescott of Ayden, Mrs. May Gay Abrams of Farmville and Henry Smith of Fountain.

Congressional and state delegates named at the convention were: Mrs. Harvey Manning, H.R. Munford, H. E. Manning and Mrs. Thelma Smith Harris of Ayden. Retiring Chairman Bennett Phillips of Ayden presided, and thanked the group for cooperation given him during his term of office.

Terrorists Idle Rubber-Tappers

KUALA LUMPUR (AP)—Thousands of acres of rubber in the hinterland of Sumatra planted as early as 1926 never have been tapped, according to Sir Sydney Almer, former chairman of the United Planting Association of Malaya, who recently toured the Indonesian island.

Labor would not go into the areas to tap even at the height of the boom, he said. Rubber stealing was rife and the extent of illicit tapping was unbelievable.

The Doctor Disagrees

By Elizabeth Seifert

CHAPTER TWENTY-ONE

SHELLY based her plan on an article which she had read in one of the medical magazines which came into the office. "A night emergency call service," she named her idea as she talked of it first to one doctor then to another. She called on each one in person. Shelly was a very pretty young woman as well as being surnamed Carr—which had its weight in town. It was, she admitted, her own idea, but she hoped to get the endorsement of the Medical Society at its next meeting. She was trying to see if enough doctors would co-operate.

Her idea earned success, too, by its simplicity. It was, in short, a plan to establish a service to persons needing emergency medical care at night. Her own phone number could be the central exchange. She would arrange to have someone at her house always to answer. The doctors would rotate duty, two, two, or maybe three, on call each night. They must remain available to summons.

The patients would be charged according to their ability to pay, and their cases would later be passed on to their own doctor if so desired.

Shelly, both earnest and pretty, sold her plan at once. The doctors who at first held out, later called and asked to be enrolled. Certainly, they agreed people should be able to get a doctor at night. A doctor, just as certainly, needed time for rest and relaxation, but Shelly's plan just about guaranteed that except for one night out of eight. That wasn't too much to ask.

Later, when people praised her for this work, Shelly could be sincerely puzzled that she should be commended. The whole thing had developed so obviously, had seemed such an obvious, simple idea.

Even Myra's co-operation . . .

Ike was still making rumbling noises about their moving in on Shelly! He'd not given up the apartment with the Pollers; he was occupying the guest room at the Carr home as a guest—though he had a score or more derogatory terms for his status.

Shelly did her best to tell him what a help it was to have them in the house. "I needed you," she said, in as many ways as she could find.

Myra still was trying to justify her initial intrusion. And she tried to point out to the big, blond man that Shelly did need them.

Ike could only see that they were established in luxury. Even when Shelly agreed to their paying rent and board, he still called the Vandales mooches, spongers . . .

Myra had taken over many household duties, but manlike, they seemed intangibles to Ike. Meal planning and grocery shopping were as nothing to him. "I make too good money, Myra," he said to his wife. "We don't need charity!"

The tense, dark girl faced him angrily. "We're not getting' charity! We're gettin' friendship in return for the same! It's a comfort to Shelly to have us here. She likes to hear a man across the hall—"

"Sure sure. She don't miss her husband when she hears me snore like a bilge pump suckin' bottom."

"You spoke a word with the bark on it there, Mr. Vandabile! Your gushy snore is precisely what she needs."

But Ike could not be persuaded, and both girls began to fear that the pleasant arrangement would be broken off.

And then the Night Emergency Service required someone at the telephone from 6 p.m. to 6 a.m. This need Ike could understand. He approved of Shelly's plan; he had heard the men on the job tell how hard it was to get a doctor at night. Shelly's businesslike chart of doctors and telephone numbers and hours on duty—

"It's a good idea not to have them on duty the same night of each week," he pointed out.

"That's because there's twenty-five, and at three a night, it works out every eighth day."

Ike nodded. "It's still good."

"It would be Myra down quite a bit," said Shelly, with genuine concern. "Though if she stays here, as I want you to do, I'd be here to let her off some evenings."

"But we must have the phone extension moved into our room," said Ike.

And the girls knew they had won. Ike knew it, too, and acknowledged the victory with a twinkle from beneath his weatherbleached eyebrows.

"I've never known," he said slowly, "just how your husband's family took to us movin' in on you, Shelly. I'm wonderin' now how they're going to take to your settin' up a business here in your house."

"The phone you mean?"

Ike smiled at her.

Shelly turned the knitting in her hands. It was a rainy night, and the little room was cozy with firelight; the sound of wet tires out on the street accented the warmth indoors. "Ike . . ." she said slowly, and shot a glance at Myra, who sat curled up on the hearth rug, the firelight shining in a glistening band upon her smooth, dark hair.

"When Stephen went away, he felt, and said, that his family would help me solve any problems that might come up."

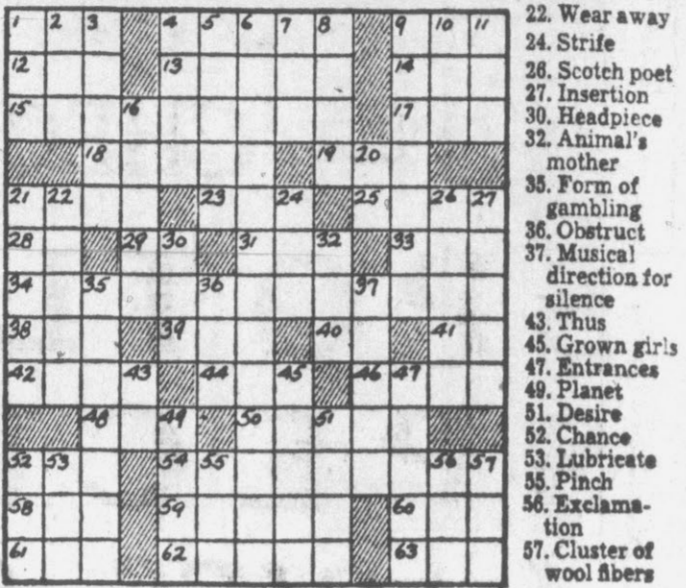

"I didn't have many problems that needed solving until just last week when Dr. Talbot was hurt. As you'll remember, my father-in-thing when it happens." Commented the Reverend Prewett. Then he shot a keen glance at Shelly.

"Did you come about something special, Shelly?" he asked gently. "You've not had bad news from Stephen?"

"No. Except that he's still on the other side of the world."

The young minister wailed. He was not a healthy-looking man; nor was he well—but he never spoke of his personal affairs, even when questioned.

"I came to ask you for help about the office, Mr. Prewett," she said diffidently. "I want you to help me help Craig Talbot."

"Oh, my!"

She glanced at him. "He's being victimized by gossip."

"I know he is. They're saying he was drunk the night he was hurt; they're saying a woman died who would have lived if he had not been drunk."

"I think I can prove both counts are untrue." She opened her purse, and drew out a small black book such as doctors use to record their calls, and in which Craig jotted down brief notes later to be incorporated upon the history cards in his office.

"I've never believed he was drunk," said Arthur Prewett.

Shelly's eyes lifted to his face. "No. That's why I came to you for help."

Monday's Cases In Police Court

By CHESTER WALSH

In Police Court Monday, Judge Charles H. Whedbee found Willie J. Payton, Negro, 907-A Douglas avenue, guilty of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill.

Testimony was that Payton assaulted Alton Lee Jones, Negro, 717-B Fleming street, with a sawed-off shotgun. The court gave Payton 12 months on the roads, sentence to be suspended on payment of $50, costs deducted. The court also placed the defendant on probation for three years and ordered the gun confiscated and be turned over to the police department. Payton is not to possess any firearms or weapons of any kind, the judgment provides.

Alonsa R. Barrow, Route 1, Ayden, who is charged with driving without an operator's license and driving drunk, had his case transferred to Superior Court for jury trial.

Arthur Pettus, Negro, 208 West Ninth street, who was charged with forgery of a check for $400 with the name of James Pettus, was found guilty of issuing a worthless check. Judge Whedbee gave him 12 months on the roads, sentence to be suspended on payment of court costs. The court placed the defendant on probation for five years, ordered him to find lucrative employment, remain of good behavior and look after the welfare of his father, James Pettus.

C. C. Elix, Route 4, Greenville, was charged with assault with a deadly weapon (knife) on C. B. McGowan in a pool room on Contentment street. The court continued prayer for judgment on payment of $25, costs deducted. The judgment provides that Elix is not to enter any pool or billiard parlor for a year. The charge of being drunk was combined with the other case.

Speeding: Carol V. Blivinsky,

Cherry Point Marine, was called and he failed to answer. The court issued a capias to bring him into court. Bobby J. Allgood, $15.

James M. Whitley, Negro, possession of non-tax paid whiskey for the purpose of sale, was given six months on the roads, sentence to be suspended on payment of $100, costs deducted. The judgment also provides that he is to remain of good behavior for two years and not possess any whiskey during that time.

Rodney D. Hicks, driving to left of center of highway, prayer for judgment continued on payment of $10.

Sam King, Negro, was found not guilty of assault.

Clinton Burnett, Negro, no operator's license, prayer for judgment was continued on payment of $15.

Wilber L. Redd paid $10 for crashing a red light.

law came to see me the night after that accident. But it was not to help me solve the problem which had arisen. He could have solved it. He could have believed me when I said I was sure that Craig had not been drunk; he could have taken that stand, and maintained it; it would not have taken much more than a word or two—the Carrs are so important in this town, so influential . . .

"And how!" breathed Ike.

"Yes," smiled Shelly. "If Mr. Carr had chosen to step on the gossip about Craig's being drunk, the whole thing would have dissolved. There'd be no talk about suspending his license, and so on. And I'd have no problem."

"Instead, he said airily 'Well, I don't see that there's anything to do but close Stevie's office. We'll get us a doctor at the plant, and when Stevie comes back, his practice will be gone, and he can come into the business.'"

Myra straightened with indignation.

Ike was regarding Shelly watchfully. "I take it you had other plans you liked better?"

"I'd like almost anything better than closing Stephen's office. In a few days, Dr. Talbot will be able to work."

"What if they do suspend his license?"

"If my idea works out, they won't."

"Oh, ho! So you have a plan!"

"Yes," said Shelly, "but I'll have to do it alone. If I can do it at all. And I hope I can."

"You'll do it," said Myra confidently. "You surely will, sugar."

The next day among her calls on the doctors about the night service, Shelly went to see young Mr. Prewett, rector of the Episcopal church. She liked this earnest young man; he and Stephen had been friends. He and Craig were very good ones. They lived close to one another, shared an interest in music, and argued with fierce enjoyment on all subjects.

Mr. Prewett had come searching for Donald after the accident and had offered him a second home. Now his first inquiry was for the Scottie. Shelly answered him completely.

"Like all Scots, he knows a good

METROPOLITAN'S ANNUAL REPORT TO POLICYHOLDERS FOR 1953

Over a Billion Dollars Paid to Policyholders and Beneficiaries — the Largest Sum in the History of Insurance

More benefits to more people were paid by Metropolitan in 1953 than have ever been paid by any Life insurance company in a single year. Payments to policyholders and beneficiaries amounted to $1,029,000,000.

When it is realized that Metropolitan's benefit payments are only a portion of those of the Life insurance industry as a whole, one can readily visualize the tremendous stabilizing force that the people of the United States and Canada have built for themselves through Life insurance and related coverages.

All in all, 1953 was an outstanding year in your Company's operations. In most respects, it was the best in Metropolitan's 86-year history. In the light of the high level of economic activity in the United States and Canada, and the ability of our Field organization, this is not surprising. We can take pride in reaching new heights in service to the peoples of our two countries.

National Economic Conditions

In retrospect, 1953 was a year of transition. Uppermost in the minds of all, but particularly those with sons of military age, was the cessation of hostilities in Korea. Nevertheless, we fully realize that our goal of a world at peace is far from won, and it is incumbent upon us to continue to remain militarily strong. With Korea no longer an active military theatre, we can convert some of our industrial facilities from production of material for human destruction to the satisfying of human wants.

On the domestic front, a number of influences have been at work to materially reduce the inflationary forces, which for so many years have been driving the cost of living to ever greater heights. The curtailment of war production, a temporary catching-up with civilian demand in some areas, a determined effort to achieve a balanced budget, and a return to more orthodox management of public debt and fiscal affairs—all have played their part.

We in the Life insurance business are particularly conscious of the effects of inflation, which bear so heavily on the thrifty and those dependent on fixed incomes. All efforts to control this danger should receive our fullest support.

In the year ahead, business will be more competitive, but this is no cause for concern. Competition provides the same goods at lower prices, or better goods and services at the same price. The United States has grown to its present outstanding position on the basis of competition in a free market.

We are passing through a readjustment period, and have been for a number of months, but fundamentally this country is strong. Personal savings in the United States are now estimated at approximately 380 billion dollars, exclusive of the holdings of corporate securities by individuals.

We have, far and away, the greatest productive capacity of any country in the world. More than this, the people of this country and Canada have not lost their fundamental traits of thrift, initiative, and faith in God. Our two countries will go to much greater heights of prosperity in a peacetime economy than ever could be achieved in the midst of war.

Metropolitan Highlights of 1953

During 1953, Metropolitan's gain in Life insurance in force was substantially larger than was ever previously recorded by Metropolitan or any other Life insurance company in any one year. Metropolitan's Life insurance in force, at the end of 1953, totalled more than $36 billion. The number of people covered under all forms of Metropolitan policies reached a record high of over 37 million.

The assets of the Company, which help guarantee the fulfillment of its obligations, increased by $719,000,000, and reached $12,312,000,000 at the close of 1953.

Dividends to policyholders during the year reached an all-time high of $214,829,000. The interest rate earned by Metropolitan investments, after deducting investment expenses, increased to 3.31% (compared with 3.21% for 1952), and stood at 3.09% after the Federal Income Tax. Mortality continued at a low rate. Expenses increased moderately, largely because of the increased volume of business.

In citing the 1953 accomplishments, we wish to pay particular tribute to the 48,000 men and women in the Metropolitan organization who have made these results possible.

Offer Six Scholarships To School Of Printing

TYPESETTING MACHINE MAINTENANCE—Judy English of Aulander, N. C., the only girl in the linotype class at the Roy Parker School of Printing at Chowan College, Murfreesboro, N. C., is shown aiding in the assembly of a Linotype. Students at the printing school are taught the operation of this machine and its maintenance. A class in Teletypewriter operation at the college is made up entirely of girls who will be employed in newspaper plants in this area at the close of the college year. (Chowan College News Bureau Photo)

MURFREESBORO, N. C. — Six scholarships are being made available to North Carolina high school graduates at the Roy Parker School of Printing at Chowan College through the North Carolina Press Association, according to an announcement by Dr. F. O. Mixon, president of the college.

At its recent meeting in Chapel Hill the Association specifically voted its approval and support of a scholarship in linotype setting at the college here. This scholarship, valued at $600 annually, will be offered to high school graduates participating in a competitive examination, but since that time arrangements have been made to offer five additional scholarships, one valued at $250, another for $150 and three for $100 each. The $600 scholarship is sufficient for tuition, board and room and all other expenses except books and some courses which require the use of special materials, such as photography.

The scholarships are for courses in the department of printing specifically, and do not apply to the teletypewriter operator course, which is a one year special course. Principals of the various high schools throughout the State are being asked to give the competitive examinations to those students who make application to the college, according to a statement this week by John McSweeney, director of the school of printing. He said forms for the examinations will be furnished the schools by April 1 and the examinations themselves would be given at each high school during that month. The winning students will be notified after the papers are checked by a committee made up of professors at Chowan College.

There is a two year course in printing and a one year course in linotyping available at the college. The former includes in its curricula, the practice of printing (introductory), elementary platen presswork, linotype keyboard operation, linotype and teletypewriter maintenance, newspaper advertising and makeup, related English and mathematics, history religion and participation in some physical education.

Mexicans Hail Railroad Shrine

By JACK RUTLEDGE
AP Newsfeatures

MEXICO CITY — Catholics crossing a railroad track in a Mexico City suburb make the sign of the cross and sometimes drop coins in a nearby box. It's not reverence for the railroad, but for a picture of the Virgin Mary painted on an electric relay box.

The quaint shrine shows how seriously Mexicans take their religion. A watchman painted the picture. The railroad approved, and permitted a sheet metal roof, flowers, a collection box, even electric lights.

The devout came to pray. Although a century-old church is a block away, the little shrine brings in more money, most of which goes to the church. The rest goes to maintain the shrine.

Other everyday things bring home to newcomers the fact that religion is a vital part of Mexico's daily existence. Instead of cheese-cake art in a taxi there is a colored picture of the Virgin Mary, or a tiny altar attached to the dashboard. Elevators have tiny shrines.

In one of the largest newspaper plants, men of the various departments competed to see which could erect the most elaborate shrine. The photo boys probably won, with a neon-framed altar that takes up half the space in their department. It is decorated daily with fresh flowers.

Even stubborn Diego Rivera, the famed Mexican painter and an acknowledged agnostic, couldn't buck Mexican religion.

In a theater mural, he put a figure of the Virgin of Guadalupe—Mexico's patron saint—on a movie comedian's coat. Catholics said this was sacrilegious and threatened boycott. The theater's owner somehow prevailed on Rivera—who has rarely backed down to criticism or public demand—to eliminate the controversial figure.

Good Lunch Important To Children

By Mrs. Lillie B. Little
Asst. Home Demonstration Agent

From all over Pitt County five mornings a week thousands of children are getting off to school where they will be for the noon meal. This means approximately 180 lunches during the year will be eaten away from home.

With the well established school cafeterias many will take advantage of a hot lunch prepared and served at school. There are others that will take a packed lunch from home. Unfortunately there will be too many taking no lunch and not eating at school.

A child's progress in school depends on his general health. Planning the school lunch is just as important as planning and preparing the meals that are served at home. A child must have a noonday meal which will combine with his meals at home to give him a well balanced diet each day if he is to grow normally, to be active mentally, and to build up resistance to colds and other diseases. To meet these needs he should have daily:

One quart of milk — some of which may be used as a beverage, some in cooked foods.

Two servings of vegetables — in addition to potatoes (a green or yellow vegetable should be included as one of the two)

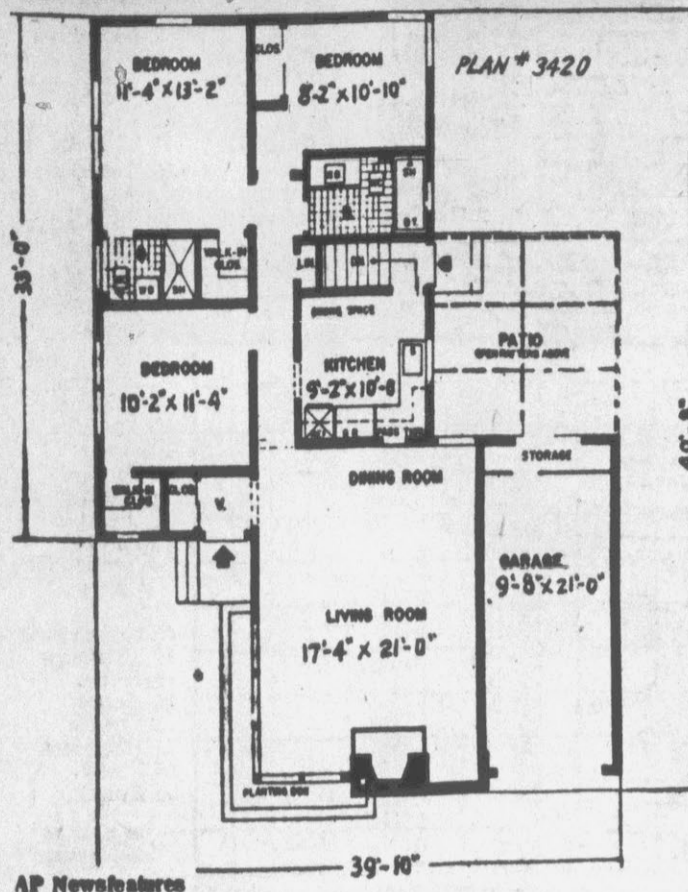

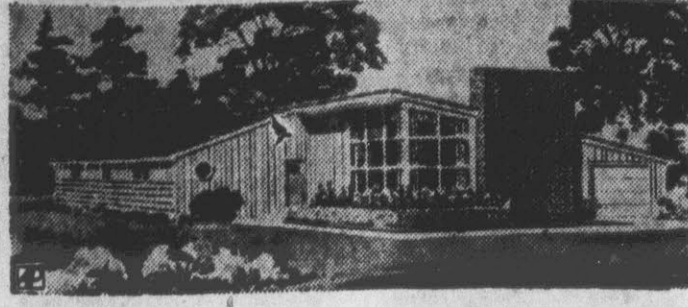

Two servings of fruit — one should be raw or citrus.

One serving — at least — egg, lean meat, fish or cheese.

One whole grain product — Bread and butter or fortified margarine. Sweets in moderate amounts.

This daily food guide has been stressed time and again. However, health surveys show that all too many of our children are not eating correctly and as a result are not — nourished. So it might be a good idea to open our eyes to our own situation and see if there is room for improvement. In this county of plenty everyone should be able to have well balanced diets.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

Piney Grove News

The Senior Auxiliary met Friday night at the home of Mrs. R. R. Tyson. The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. Hubert Crawford, and then turned over to Mrs. Leslie Humbles who introduced a surprise guest speaker, Mrs. J. C. Moye of Snow Hill. Mrs. Moye spoke on "His Command—My Task." This was a very inspiring message and very beneficial to all. There were 23 members present and a new member was welcomed. After the business session, Mrs. Moye held an open discussion for members present. After adjourning, delicious refreshments were served by the hostess, and Mrs. Moye was presented with a box of gifts in appreciation for her visit.

There will be a called meeting of the members of the church Sunday immediately after Sunday School.

The Youthful Workers Club will meet Monday night, March 1, in the club building. All members are urged to be present and visitors are welcome.

Mr. and Mrs. William Tripp and daughter Willette spent last weekend in Chapel Hill with Mr. and Mrs. Joe Tyson.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (U)—The stock market was lower today in its third straight session of declining prices. The movement to lower levels started out gradually and eventually extended to between 1 and 2 points at the most. Gainers usually were in the small fractions and scattered widely.

The pace of trading was unusually slow around 1,200,000 shares, one of the smallest totals of this year. Yesterday's business amounted to 1,470,000 shares.

The steels, motors and railroads were lower along with most aircrafts, coppers, oils, rubbers, motion pictures and chemicals. The utilities were steady together with the air lines and radio-televisions.

Kennecott, Copper and American Smelting & Refining were lower after reporting production cutbacks, and Boeing was down after reporting a production stretchout on the West Coast.

Also lower were Bethlehem Steel, General Motors, Illinois Central, Texas Co., Goodrich, American Cyanamid, General Electric, and United Fruit.

Pennsylvania Power & Light was up between 3 and 3 points after directors declared a dividend of 60 cents as against 50 cents paid in the three previous quarters.

School Children Attend Concert

Approximately 2000 local school children attended a concert given by the East Carolina Orchestra in Wright Auditorium yesterday afternoon. The above picture shows the school kids as they left the auditorium following the concert. The orchestra is composed of college students, faculty members and individuals from Greenville and surrounding towns. It is under the direction of Kenneth N. Cuthbert of the East Carolina College Music Department. (Reflector photo by Alvin Taylor)

Safety Program At Ayden Rotary

AYDEN—At the Ayden Rotary Club's last meeting, State Highway patrolmen presented a program of "Safety On The Highways."

Patrolman James Boykin said "speeding, failure to give right of way, following too closely, driving to left of center of a highway and driving drunk are the five chief causes of automobile wrecks in Pitt county and North Carolina."

Patrolman William E. Whitehurst showed pictures of scenes where wrecks occurred in Pitt county. The record shows that 14 persons were killed in Pitt county in 1953 and 128 persons were injured. They said 1,111 persons were killed in motor vehicle wrecks in North Carolina in 1953.

The state patrolmen urged the Ayden Rotarians to use their influence to promote safer driving and safety on the highways. They reminded that mechanical defects frequently contribute as causes of automotive accidents.

The Ayden Rotary Club will sponsor a contestant in the beauty contest to be held in connection with Farmers' Day in Farmville next summer. Faust Johnson, Hal Edwards and Harry Stillman were appointed to handle details.

Wayland McGlohon won the "on time" prize, Paul Taylor, the "fellowship" prize. The Rotarians chipped in enough money to buy one uniform for the Ayden High School band.

Martin Swartz, Dr. B. McK. Johnson and Dr. Herbert Hadley of Greenville and Rotarian Kersey Smith of Kinston were guests of the club.

Children Introduced To Instruments At Concert

Approximately 2,000 Greenville school children swarmed into Wright Auditorium yesterday afternoon to attend a concert presented by the East Carolina Orchestra.

The orchestra was under the direction of Kenneth N. Cuthbert of the East Carolina College Music Department.

The program was opened with a short introduction by J. H. Rose, superintendent of city schools after which the orchestra played "Knight-bridge March."

Mrs. Robert Gray then introduced the instruments of the string family to the audience, including the violin, viola, cello and the string bass. Next the flute, oboe, clarinet and bassoon were demonstrated to the school children. They were introduced by Miss Beatrice Chauncey.

The brass family, trumpets, french horns, trombone and tuba were introduced by James Rodgers, along with the timpani.

Mae Dowell then gave a series of woodland sketches, "To a Wild Rose," "To a Water Lily," and "From an Indian Lodge."

Next the orchestra played three selections: Strauss' "Emperor Waltz," Mozart's "German Dances," and Wagner's "Meistersinger Overture."

Finally the students joined with the orchestra and sang "America the Beautiful," "Swanee River," and the "Caisson Song." to conclude the program.

Long-Time N.C. Editor Succumbs

WILSON, N. C.—John Daniel Gold, dean of North Carolina's daily newspaper editors, died early today in the Woodward-Herring Hospital here. He was 86.

His death came a week after he was admitted to the hospital last Wednesday. In a coma when admitted to the hospital, he did not regain consciousness.

Founder of the Wilson Daily Times which he served as editor for many years, Gold often said he "grew up with the town of Wilson," having seen the community of 300 grow to the city of over 20,000 population.

Funeral services will be conducted at 3 p.m. tomorrow at the home here. He will be buried in Maplewood Cemetery here.

Gold was born Oct. 24, 1867, in Scotland Neck, the son of Elder Pleasant Daniel Gold and Julia Pipkin Gold. He moved to Wilson when he was four years old and attended Wilson schools and the Wilson Collegiate Institute. He started work on his father's farm and was credited with being the second person to raise tobacco in Wilson County, now one of the World's biggest producers of the leaf.

At an early age, Gold got printer's ink on his hands. He helped his father print Zion's Landmark, a publication of the Primitive Baptist Church, and in operating a job shop. From the job shop came the Wilson Semi-Weekly Times in 1896 which expanded into the Wilson Daily Times in 1902. He remained active as the paper's editor until 1947.

In 1894 he married Miss Inez White of Leesburg, Va., who died in 1918. Three children of this union survive. They are Mrs. Elizabeth Gold Swindell of Wilson, Mrs. Kennon Borden of Goldsboro and Mrs. Gray Hughes of Wilson.

On Feb. 7, 1924, he married Miss Daisy Hendley of Statesville. She and two other children Miss Cecile Gold of New York City and John Daniel Gold Jr., of Wilson, survive.

Gold used his newspaper to advance many progressive movements in Eastern North Carolina. He was one of the section's civic leaders and was active in Wilson's religious life. He was widely known in the newspaper fraternity and for many years never missed a meeting of the North Carolina Press Assn.

Elks Will Hold Supper Meeting

Greenville Elks Lodge No. 1645 will have a supper meeting at the Elks Home, 569 South Evans street, Thursday night, February 25. Excited Ruler Albion Dunn will preside.

Supper will be served at 8:30. The meeting will be held at 8 o'clock. New members are to be initiated during the meeting.

As compared with 1953, the average American in 1954 ate 1,250 per cent more frozen vegetables, 900 per cent more baby foods, 738 per cent more frozen fruit and fruit juices, 218 per cent more canned fruit juices, 80 per cent more canned soup and 71 per cent more ice cream.

'Mercy Slaying' Excuse In Doubt

THORNWOOD, N. Y.—A 54-year-old accountant, shot to death by his wife in a purported mercy slaying, is reported to have had no sign of cancer.

Thomas Cannon was killed Monday by his wife Margaret, 55, who told authorities he pleaded: "I've got cancer. Shoot me."

Police said they were told yesterday that a preliminary examination of the body and of Cannon's medical record showed no sign of the disease. Further tests are planned.

Mrs. Cannon also shot the family dog to death and then wounded herself in the left side. She is in Grasslands Hospital in Eastview, N. Y., for mental examination.

'Wonder Pup' Is Again A Winner

GRAND JUNCTION, Tenn.—The one-time "wonder pup" of the major field trial circuit aging Warhoo Jake, won a pressure-packed second series yesterday to capture his first national bird dog championship.

Six-year-old Jake, owned by Dr. H. E. Longsdorf of Mount Holly, N. J., beat another old pro, Lone Survivor, in the runoff for $1,500 cash and one year's possession of a huge silver cup.

Charge That Hospital Refused Aid Is Denied By Administrator

A Negro man claimed in Recorder's Court this morning that he was refused medical aid at Pitt Memorial Hospital after he walked to the hospital for treatment of a cut on the head.

C. D. Ward, administrator of the hospital, denied that W. S. Coward was refused medical aid, however; he said that Coward came to the hospital the day following the accident and was referred to Dr. J. L. Winstead at the Medical Arts Clinic. Ward said that a doctor was not on duty at Pitt Memorial Hospital at the time. The hospital administrator noted that Coward never showed up at the Clinic.

W. S. Coward, as a witness for the State against L. B. Hines, also Negro, said that he was out on the head when he was hit with a stick by Hines. Coward said that he walked out to the hospital and that someone told him there to go out towards the old hospital.

Coward said that he held them that he was walking and they asked him if he did not have fifty cents to pay the taxi fare. He replied that he did not.

The witness said that he then walked out in the direction of the old hospital but never found it.

"I went out to the hospital," Coward said, pointing in the direction of Pitt Memorial, "and they told me to go to the old hospital."

"Did you walk out there?" he was asked by Solicitor Eli Bloom.

"Yes, sir," the witness said.

"That's not right, judge," Bloom said to Judge Charles H. Whebee. "We collect money for them (the hospital) and I'm going to report this to them. They make us a collection agency and then don't treat them."

C. D. Ward said his records showed that a William E. Coward, Negro, had walked into the hospital on February 19 at 1:10 p.m. The records showed that Coward stated that L. B. Hines hit him on the left side of the head the preceding day with a piece of oak wood.

The report indicated that the man walked into the hospital and that there were no signs of vomiting or nausea. Ward said that Coward's blood pressure was taken and he was told to go to the Medical Arts Clinic to see Dr. J. L. Winstead.

Ward said that Winstead was notified that the patient was on the way over and the doctor later made a notation on the report to the effect that the injured man never showed up at the Medical Arts Clinic.

Ward said that no doctors were on duty at the hospital when Coward came in. He said that a doctor was on call duty for emergency cases and he would have been called if it had been an emergency case.

Ward stated that the nurse on duty Mrs. Frances Anderson said that Coward came to the hospital either by taxi or car and that she gave him a note directing him to the Medical Arts Clinic.

Mrs. Anderson stated that Coward told her that he could get to the clinic.

Ward emphasized that the man was not refused treatment.

"I don't know of anyone who has been refused medical aid here," he said.

Ward said that his record shows that Coward works for Liggett-Myers Tobacco Company and lives on Cooper's Lane.

Hines was found guilty of assault with a deadly weapon by Judge Whebee this morning and was fined $5.00.

Dog Wardens Will Check Vaccinations, Licensing

By BOB BOYETTE
Reflector Staff Writer

Greenville dog owners are reminded again that they must get their dogs vaccinated and licensed.

The dog vaccination clinic, which concludes operations for 1954 this week, will be in Greenville Thursday and Saturday. On Thursday local citizens can get their dogs vaccinated at the Farmers Warehouse between 1 and 3 p.m. or at the N.Y.A. Center in Brookgreen from 3:15 to 5 p.m.

Saturday, the final day for the clinic, local citizens may go to Keel's Cooperative Warehouse on Memorial Drive to get the rabies treatment for their dogs.

Should anyone wait until March 1 to get their dog vaccinated it will cost them 50 cents more and they must take the dog to a vet's office.

Get City License
Dog owners must also have their animals licensed with the city. To get a license the owner must take his vaccination certificate to the local Police Department in City Hall.

Dog licenses cost $1 for male and spayed females and $2 for female dogs.

To Check After March 1
Beginning March 1 dog wardens will begin checking every house in Greenville to see if the dogs are vaccinated and licensed, it was reported.

The purpose of this check is to get the dogs vaccinated and licensed. After this check, efforts will be made to get rid of stray dogs and cut down on the nuisance of prowling and biting dogs in an effort to conserve wildlife.

A three day notice will be given dog owners who have not gotten their dogs vaccinated and licensed. If they do not get the animal vaccinated and licensed within the three day period they will be turned over to the city attorney and be subject to a $10 fine.

Health Department authorities reported that Greenville has approximately 2,000 dogs and, as yet, only about 500 have been vaccinated and city officials report selling very few licenses.

NCEA Officers Named By Unit

Dr. Eva Williamson of the East Carolina College faculty has been elected as president of the college unit of the North Carolina Education Association. She is a member of the college Department of Education and her work deals largely with students in the field of Elementary Education.

Dr. Edgar Bealy of the Department of Social Studies will serve as vice-president of the unit, and Dr. Austin D. Bond of the Science Department as secretary-treasurer.

PATROLMAN IN HOSPITAL
Cpl. Carl Whitfield of the Highway Patrol is confined to Pitt Memorial Hospital. It was reported that he will be confined for about two weeks.

Roundtable

There will be a roundtable discussion tonight at 8 p.m. on WNCT regarding the annual Northeastern Athletic Conference Basketball Tournament which opens tomorrow night in Memorial Gym on the campus of East Carolina College.

Coaches from Greenville, Jacksonville, Kinston, Washington, and New Bern will discuss the tournament with Tom Chick, WNCT sports announcer.

O. E. Dowd, chairman of the Tournament Committee, made the announcement of the 30 minute program this morning, and advised all people interested in the tournament to tune to WNCT at 8 tonite.
