Army Sec. Ready To Resign Unless Ike Supports Him

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens was reported today to be seeking a public expression of support from President Eisenhower in his dealings with Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) and to be prepared to resign if he doesn't get it.

Stevens was reported to be angry and indignant over some phases of his go-round with McCarthy.

Further, he was said to be troubled over the possible effect on Army morale.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Informed sources said today Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens agreed to Sen. McCarthy's demands for information after being told his orders to the contrary put him in an untenable position of defying Congress.

Stevens' change of position killed what would have been a dramatic climax today to the dispute that started over the promotion and honorable discharge of Maj. Irving Peress. Stevens and McCarthy, chairman of the Senate investigations subcommittee, were to have had it out before the television cameras.

But although that public session was canceled, the furor over the affair blazed on and showed signs of developing into another election-year political issue.

Stevens was described as shocked that his agreeing to McCarthy's demands was considered a defeat for him and a victory for the senator. At a showdown meeting yesterday attended by the two principals and the other Republican members of McCarthy's subcommittee, an agreement was reached that McCarthy might question all Army personnel involved in the Peress matter.

Stevens earlier had ordered two officers to disregard subcommittee subpoenas and the Army had ignored McCarthy's call for the names of the persons involved.

But Stevens was said to feel that he had obtained guarantees about future handling of Army witnesses that, in his view, counterbalanced the concessions he made. He had objected strongly to the line taken by McCarthy in questioning Brig. Gen. Ralph Zwicker at a closed hearing in New York last week and had said he could not permit such "abuse" of officers.

However, sharply worded statements that the administration had yielded to McCarthy came from Adlai Stevenson, the 1952 Democratic presidential candidate, and a spokesman for Americans for Democratic Action (ADA), an organization pledged to uphold the principles of the Franklin D.

Roosevelt administration.

The White House said yesterday the President had no hand in arranging the McCarthy-Stevens meeting. And after the Army secretary came out of it, he told news men he does not "consider that I am a person who capitulates or retreats."

The "memorandum of understanding" that resulted from the meeting, besides the specific agreements on further information for McCarthy's subcommittee, contained a statement that the Army was in agreement with the subcommittee on the importance of rooting out Communists from the armed services and that the Army's own investigation of the Peress matter would continue.

nonsense."

Senate sources in a position to know what went on at what McCarthy described as the "little friendly luncheon" with Stevens yesterday, said the Army secretary was told that:

1. His order to Gen. Zwicker and Maj. Gen. William Bergin, the Army adjutant general, to disregard the subpoenas was a blunder that put him in an "untenable" position of defying congressional authority.

2. He should have waited until he saw an official transcript of McCarthy's questioning of Zwicker behind closed doors before saying the senator had subjected the general to "unwarranted abuse."

This transcript, made public Monday, showed that McCarthy, among other things told Zwicker he was "not fit" to wear his uniform and said the senator could not "help impugning" either the general's "honesty or... intelligence" as a result of some of Zwicker's answers.

Sen. Mundt (R-SD) said in an interview the McCarthy-Stevens meeting yesterday was his idea and that he made the arrangements. He added:

"The White House had nothing to do with it, and neither did Vice President Nixon."

Mundt, second to McCarthy in seniority on the subcommittee, attended the session along with Senators Dirksen (R-Ill) and Potter (R-Mich).

Nixon did not attend the conference but was in a nearby office throughout. Mundt said he had discussed the whole controversy with Stevens when they were both in Valley Forge, Pa., Monday, receiving citizenship awards, and started maneuvering for the peace conference after they returned.

He said he thought the talks had paid off by producing "an honest meeting of minds" that would mean "workable and satisfactory if not always entirely smooth" relations between the committee and the Army.

No Democratic members of the subcommittee attended the luncheon and there was no immediate comment from them.

But Stevens said, in a statement phoned news men in Chicago: "I am shocked but hardly surprised that even the Army has been forced to surrender by the administration. The abuse and humiliation to which Gen. Zwicker has been exposed has now been officially condoned." He added he thought Zwicker "deserved an apology, not a betrayal."

No Protest Voiced To Rearrangement At Elections Board Meeting

New Voting Precinct Layout Given Final OK

Official approval was given last night to the creation of 26 new voting precincts for Pitt County.

The action was taken by the Pitt County Board of Elections at a meeting in which not a single protest was voiced to the proposed rearrangement of voting precincts which had been set up for the county.

No Complaints Voiced

The establishment of new precincts was required because of the change in township lines of the county which was approved by the County Commissioners last November. Late last month the Elections Board announced its proposed new precincts, and asked that objections to the proposals be voiced before the meeting last night when the precincts would be slated for official adoption.

Gilbert Peel of Greenville, Elections Board chairman, said at the meeting last night, "There has not been a single complaint about the new precincts." The three-man board composed of Peel, T.E. Joyner, Jr. of Farmville and W.B. Phillips of Ayden gave unanimous approval to the new precincts.

The official adoption means Pitt County will have 26 voting precincts instead of the 23 precincts it has had since 1950, and it will also mean a complete new registration of voters is required in the county.

No Registered Voters

Immediately after the adoption of the new precincts, Peel told the members of the Elections Board and Democratic Chairman John G. Clark of Greenville and Republican Chairman X.E. Manning of Bethel, "We have just done the small part of the job. The big job is going to be to get 15,000 voters back on the registration books of the county during the 15-day registration period prior to the May 29 primary."

Peel asserted there were until the adoption of the new precincts last night 20,000 registered voters in Pitt County. In the official sense of the action, the adoption of the new precincts left not a single registered voter on the county's books. Only those who register again between May 1 and May 15 will be eligible to vote in the May 29 primary.

15 Cents Per Voter Registered

Peel appealed to the county chairmen of both the Democratic and Republican parties to have their precinct organizations join in an all-out effort to get voters of the county registered during the registration period.

registration period.

The chairman of the Board of Elections asserted also that because of the big registration job to be done and the brief registration period, he will request the County Commissioners to pay precinct registrars 15 cents per name for each voter they register on their books Monday through Friday during the two week registration period.

Under the law registrars are required to keep the books open at the polling places May 1, 8, and 15, and receive a set fee for their work on those three days. In the past the county has paid registrars 10 cents per name for each voter registered on days other than Saturdays during the registration period.

Warns Elections Officials

Looking toward the May primary,

Peel also asserted at the meeting that the Board of Elections of the county will not tolerate any precinct judge or registrar taking an active part in the campaign of any candidate for nomination in the May primary.

He asked the chairmen of the two parties in the county to present to the Elections Board recommendations for the posts of registrars and judges in each precinct in order that they may be named officially by the board by mid-April.

The new precincts adopted last night provide eight voting precincts in Greenville township, three precincts in Chicod township, and two precincts in Grimesland township. There will be one precinct each for the townships of: Ayden, Arthur, Bevon, Bethel, Falkland, Farmville, Fountain, Grifton, Paction, Stokes, Winterville and Swift Creek.

Discuss Phases Of Constructing Planned Airport

Detailed discussion of various phases of development of the four-county airport highlighted the meeting last night in Tarboro of the Eastern Carolina Airport Authority.

Thomas W. Rivers of Greenville, engineer for the Airport Authority, outlined in detail before members of the Authority steps which should be taken in the construction of the proposed airport.

Rivers asserted that phase one of the construction work should consist of the building of a trunk line airport which would require one runway of 4,200 feet in length and an apron and other facilities. Such an airport, he said, will give the four-county area a standard trunk line airport to handle commercial air line traffic, and it would mean less cost in the construction of the project and the amount of land needed, as compared with other types of airports.

He added that in phases two and three another 5,000 foot runway could be constructed at an angle to the original runway, and in the third stage, a third runway of 4,200 feet length could be constructed as an extension to the original runway. Upon the completion of stage three of the project, he said, the airport would meet the requirements for a standard international airport.

Representatives of the four cities and four counties which make up the Authority were present at the meeting last night and heard Rivers' report on an analysis of a survey to determine the passenger traffic which could be anticipated by an airport to serve the four-county area. Rivers said an analysis indicated a traffic potential of 10,400 in-plane passengers per year for the airport.

W. W. Speight, Pitt County representative to the Authority, and W. H. Watson, Greenville representative to the Authority, were among those attending the meeting.

Rivers said he and Speight, vice-chairman of the Authority, had conferred with F. M. Fitzgerald of Atlanta, district engineer for the Civil Aeronautics Administration, and Fitzgerald agreed to come to Greenville to help coordinate plans for the new airport with the CAA.

The site committee of the Authority reported last night that no site for the four-county airport has yet been selected, but added that a site for the new airport is expected to be selected before the end of the current fiscal year June 30.

The next meeting of the Authority is slated to be held in Greenville.

Dulles Says U.S. Gained In Berlin

By WARREN ROGERS JR. WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles has assured the nation it lost nothing at Berlin and gained much — including a chance to bring Red China "before the bar of world opinion."

Dulles, who returned five days ago from the month-long Big Four talks, told a nationwide radio-television audience last night: "You may ask whether it was worthwhile to go to Berlin... My answer is 'yes' and I have no doubt about that."

He said two results "will profoundly influence the future" and described them as:

1. Soviet Foreign Minister V.M. Molotov was forced by the U.S., French and British delegates "to show Russia's hand" — a hand which Dulles said hung on to all it had, including East Germany and East Austria and grabbed for more.

2. Molotov gave in, at the last hour in a "concession... not to be ignored," and signed a declaration spelling out U. S. refusal to recognize Red China.

It was this point—America's long-withheld diplomatic recognition of Communist China—which Dulles hit time and again. His half-hour speech, besides domestic radio-TV coverage, was beamed also in 33 languages to both sides of the Iron Curtain.

From some quarters in Congress and abroad, notably South Korea, have come criticisms of the outcome at Berlin.

Recommend Cuts In Spending Plans

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST WASHINGTON (AP)—A 1 1/2 percent cut in the combined budgets of the State, Justice and Commerce Departments and the Voice of America was recommended today by the House Appropriations Committee.

The committee said those agencies should get along on $1,146,988,000 instead of the $1,313,920,960 recommended by President Eisenhower for the 1955 fiscal year which starts next July 1.

Most of the $166,932,960 cut would be borne by the Commerce Department, big slashes being in appropriations for the federal aid highway system and for payment of air mail subsidies. The committee conceded that Congress might have to pump more money into both these programs before the next year ends.

The committee's actions were embodied in a bill to be debated next week in the House.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation got all of the $78,282,000 it requested, Rep. Cleveland (R-Ohio), who headed a subcommittee which wrote the bill said the committee has "confidence in the effectiveness" of the organization headed by J. Edgar Hoover.

The FBI's allotment contemplates employment during the new year of the same number of personnel as this year, and the purchase of new technical equipment. It is $1,282,000 more than the FBI was given for the present year, ending June 30.

The only other major agency to get the full amount it wanted was the Immigration and Naturalization Service. It was allotted $9 million dollars.

By agencies, here's how the money was apportioned:

State Department: $108,410,000, a cut of $7,781,980 below Eisenhower requests and $14,133,876 below current year funds.

Justice Department: $176,542,000, a cut of $1,190,000 from the budget and $2,338,000 from this year's appropriation.

Commerce Department: $786,222,000, a cut of $144,755,000 from requests and $154,025,928 from this year's allotment.

U.S. Information Agency, including the Voice of America: $75,814,000, a cut of $13,186,000 from requests and $7,603,000 from 1954 funds. There was no explanation for the reduction.

Large items in the State Department appropriations other than normal allotments for salaries, included 2 1/2 millions for acquisition, repair and maintenance of buildings abroad, 2 1/2 millions for contributions to international organizations, and 9 millions for the international educational exchange program, the latter item being cut 6 millions from Eisenhower requests.

The committee noted that during the new year, U.S. contributions to the United Nations will be one-third of total contributions by all nations, a new low.

Only 23 millions of the 73 millions requested by the Commerce Department for air mail subsidy payments was approved. The committee said a recent Supreme Court decision requires international carriers to take into account their profits from domestic operations when computing the amount of subsidies due.

Robbers Fail Break Safe Open In Farmville Store

FARMVILLE—Another in a wave of robberies in Pitt County took place last night when thieves attempted to crack a safe in the R. L. Smith Hardware Store sometime during the night.

Farmville Chief of Police L. T. Lucas investigated the attempted robbery and said that the thieves were unsuccessful in their attempts to break open the safe. He said that they managed to break the handle off the safe but were not able to get the door open. "It looks strictly like an amateur job to me," the chief stated.

Lucas stated that the robbers entered the building through a livery stable which is next door to the building. He said they entered through a wooden door and they had removed the staples from the door.

The chief stated that a few things might be missing from the store itself but that it was hard to tell at the present time. He said that fingerprints would be taken from the safe and that he was trying not to disturb anything until a fingerprint expert arrived.

Strong Man Naguib Deposed By Egyptian Revolutionary Council

By ROBERT B. HEWETT CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—Egypt's ruling Revolutionary Council today dropped Maj. Gen. Mohamed Naguib, front man of the uprising that made a republic of this ancient land of the pharaohs, from the presidency and premiership.

The 11 young army officers of the council named as premier Lt. Col. Gamal Abdel Nasser, 36, the tall and handsome driving force of the bloodless coup that ousted King Farouk II from the throne 19 months ago. He has been Naguib's deputy premier.

Nasser also succeeded Naguib as leader of the council. The nation's presidency will remain vacant.

Naguib was in Army-guarded isolation at his simple five-room home in suburban Helieh. Capt. Galal Falay, aide to National Guidance Minister Salah Salem, said the revolutionary council "has no intention of taking any measures against Naguib."

However, the army guard always stationed at Naguib's home permitted no one to enter and the guard commander said: "Obviously Naguib will avoid leaving the house for the time being." Telephone lines to the house were blocked.

A communique from the Revolutionary Council accused Naguib of seeking to draw Egypt "back to absolute dictatorship," declared he was suffering from a "psychological crisis," and reported unanimous acceptance of a resignation it said he submitted Monday.

The action came at a heated, seven-hour night session of the 11 majors and lieutenant colonels who, with Naguib, made up the council. Naguib was absent, reportedly asleep at his home.

Genial, modest and conservative, the 53-year-old general has been avoiding council sessions lately at which the hard-boiled Nasser was present a fact which previously suggested a struggle for power.

Guidance Minister Salem told newsmen the office of president of the republic will remain vacant until Parliament is restored by elections which the regime plans in two years—after the end of the three-year "transitional period" proclaimed last year. During that period political parties are banned, although the government - sponsored Liberation Rally is rising as a political force.

Cairo remained quiet. There were no signs of unusual military or police activity except for a detachment of soldiers checking the passes of newsmen around the Marconi cable office.

However, the news of the resignation of Naguib, often called "the most popular man in Egypt," caused shock and concern among politically conscious students.

Texts of the council's communique were read repeatedly over the Cairo radio. Late editions of the announcement without comment.

Political observers believed there would be little immediate change in the foreign policy of Egypt's vigorous new government even though Nasser, dynamic and hard driving, finally has stepped to the top leadership so far as the public is concerned. That foreign policy has been defined as nonco-operation with the West until the British withdraw from the Suez Canal zone.

The big question was the internal reaction.

There is bound to be concern over whether the young military clique will adopt more radical measures in the future. Naguib, a prayerful moderate of a military career family, has been regarded as the council's balance wheel.

Nasser is rated the most fiery exponent of Egypt's current bid for British withdrawal from the Suez Canal zone. Since he was a youth of 17, he has been an underground leader of forces fighting corruption in government.

Like Naguib, he is a wounded veteran of Egyptian campaign in the Palestine war of 1948 and has shared in the public appearances at which Naguib was acclaimed as a popular idol.

President since the monarchy was formally ended with the proclamation of a republic last June 18, Naguib has been the main link between the young officers' clique and the masses. His warm human kindness made him the first Egyptian leader in decades who touched the hearts of a people so long ruled by wealthy autocrats and corrupt politicians.

In discarding Naguib, the officers apparently feel they are strong enough to risk any temporary unpopularity until the country begins to feel the effects of long-term agricultural and economic reforms they have promised to better Egypt's poverty-stricken millions.

Receiving elsewhere in the house were: Mrs. Harold Rouse, Mrs. Emerson Roebuck, Mrs. Tommy Bullock, Mrs. S. W. Flanagan and Mrs. Hayward Smith. Music was furnished by Miss Grace Miller.

Joint Hostesses Entertain Class

On Monday night, the Lydia Wooten Class of the Jarvis Memorial Church held their February meeting in the Ellington Bible class room at the church. Joint hostesses were: Mesdames C. A. Turner, Lyle Leichter, M. W. Maxwell, A. J. Moore, John N. Robbins and Willie McLawhorn.

The meeting was opened with a prayer by Mrs. W. G. Garner, who presided in the absence of the class president.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and the treasurer's report was given.

Several items of current business were brought before the class and discussed.

The devotional was given by Mr. W. M. Howard, pastor of the church. He read from the 12th chapter of Hebrew and discussed the subject of discipline. He pointed out the importance of discipline in every day life; in the rearing of children and in association with other people.

During the social period delicious refreshments of fruit, jello with whipped cream, cookies and salted nuts were served by the hostesses.

During the business session after checking on the silver contributions, it was found that almost 100% had contributed. At the conclusion of the program and business session, the hostess, Mrs. Bell, served cherry tarts, ous and coffee.

Wagner Dropping His Junior Title

NEW YORK (AP)—The Democratic party in New York now has one less "junior."
Rep. Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., a potential candidate for governor next year, still holds to the title. But Mayor Robert F. Wagner Jr. of New York has announced that he wants to be known simply as Mayor Robert F. Wagner. His father was the New Deal Senator for whom the Wagner Act was named.

Way Cleared For Early Confirming Of Chief Justice Warren In Senate

By JOHN CHADWICK
WASHINGTON (AP)—A 12-3 committee vote cleared the way today for speedy Senate confirmation of Earl Warren as chief justice of the United States.

Sen. Knowland of California, the Republican floor leader, said he planned to take President Eisenhower's nomination of Warren up in the Senate tomorrow. "I believe the Senate will give the chief justice an overwhelming vote of confidence," he added.

No senator, not even any of the three who voted against committee clearance, has said publicly he will vote against confirming Warren's appointment.

The Republican governor of California has been serving on the Supreme Court since last October under an interim appointment made while Congress was in adjournment.

His nomination to succeed the late Fred M. Vinson in the nation's highest judicial office was submitted to the Senate for confirmation on Jan. 11, but it was only yesterday that the Senate Judiciary Committee reported it favorably.

The committee acted after a day-long session at which its only witness was taken into custody by police on a complaint that he was a fugitive from a California charge of subordination of perjury — inducing someone to lie under oath. He later was released, however, by a municipal judge.

The vote to recommend confirmation of Warren's nomination was 12-3, with Senators Kilgore (D-WVa), Eastland (D-Miss) and Olin D. Johnston (D-SC) casting the opposing votes.

However, Kilgore said that his vote was "in protest against committee procedures" and that he would vote to confirm Warren when his nomination is brought up in the Senate.

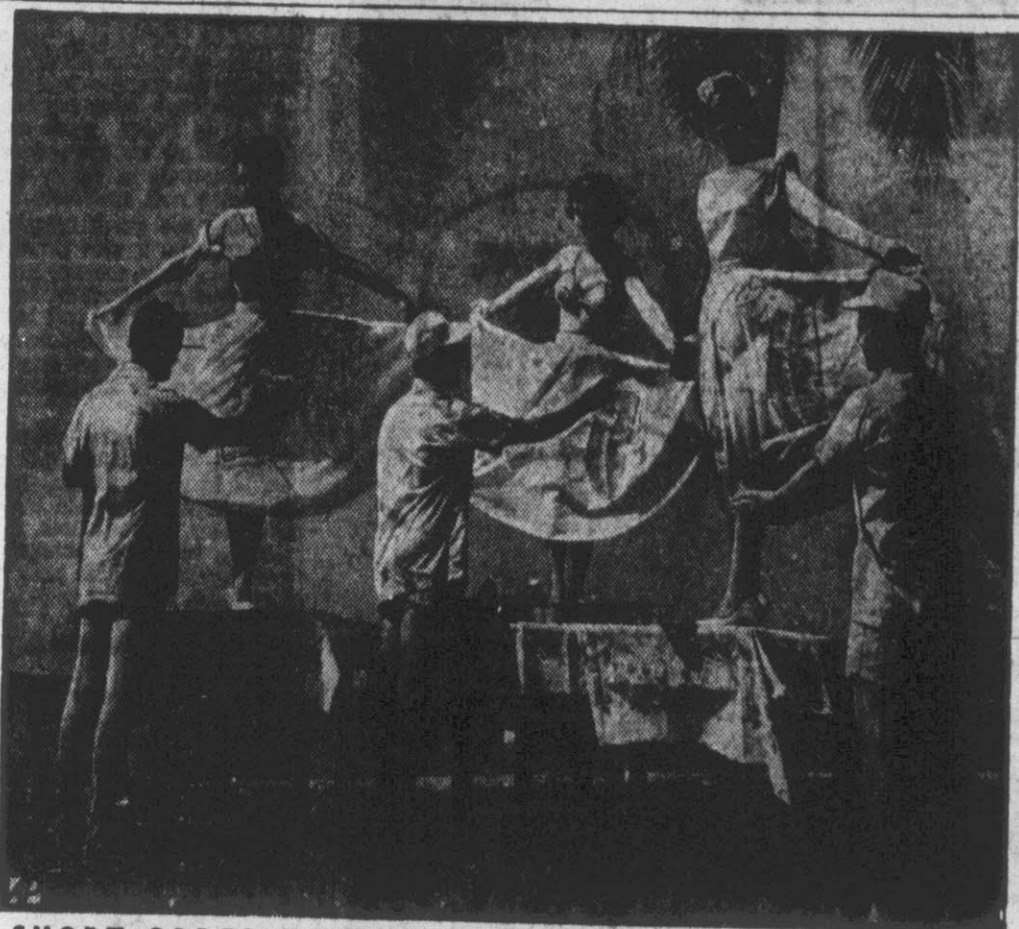

Eastland said he voted against recommending approval of Warren's appointment because he didn't think the former governor had "the judicial experience" for chief justice.

Consideration of the nomination reached along without much fanfare until late last week when a Judiciary subcommittee, at Langer's direction, publicly aired 10 unevaluated and unsworn charges against Warren.

Among these charges were accusations that Warren, as governor, had appointed dishonest judges, had been under the influence of "a notorious liquor lobbyist" and had followed the Marxist line.

The publicizing of these charges, without first attempting to find out whether they were true or false, stirred up a storm of protest.

The day after they were read into the record the subcommittee voted to recommend Warren's nomination favorably to the full Judiciary committee.

The committee, by its vote yesterday, rejected the charges, but before it did so it listened behind closed doors for nearly three hours to testimony from Roderick J. Wilson of Hollywood, Calif.

Dep. Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers previously had testified that some of the charges against Warren came from Wilson.

Shortly after Wilson was called into the committee room, police here received a telegram from San Francisco police saying that a "felony warrant" had been issued for Wilson.

When the committee recessed for lunch, Wilson was taken into custody. Langer said, however, that the committee wanted Wilson to return as a witness and the police agreed after Wilson's attorneys pledged that he would be back.

Once the afternoon hearing was finished, Wilson was taken before Municipal Judge Andrew J. Howard Jr., who ruled that a telegram was insufficient evidence on which to order him held. He declined to issue a fugitive warrant and Wilson was released.

Took Many Shots To Throw Bull

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — In the best Western tradition, a runaway bull stood his ground, snorting at officers and schoolchildren as police fired 14 rounds of ammunition into its body with revolvers, shotguns and rifles. The bull broke through a wire fence at the Cornett Packing Co. during the noon hour and about 50 youngsters deserted their school ground to watch the big show.

Pistol shots only got the animal more angry as he tried to get away. Finally, one officer roped him and while he was held a shotgun blast through the brain finished him off.

A.F. Hank New Superintendent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Allyn F. Hanks today was appointed superintendent of the Cape Hatteras National Seashore Recreational Area and the nearby Fort Raleigh, national historic site in North Carolina.

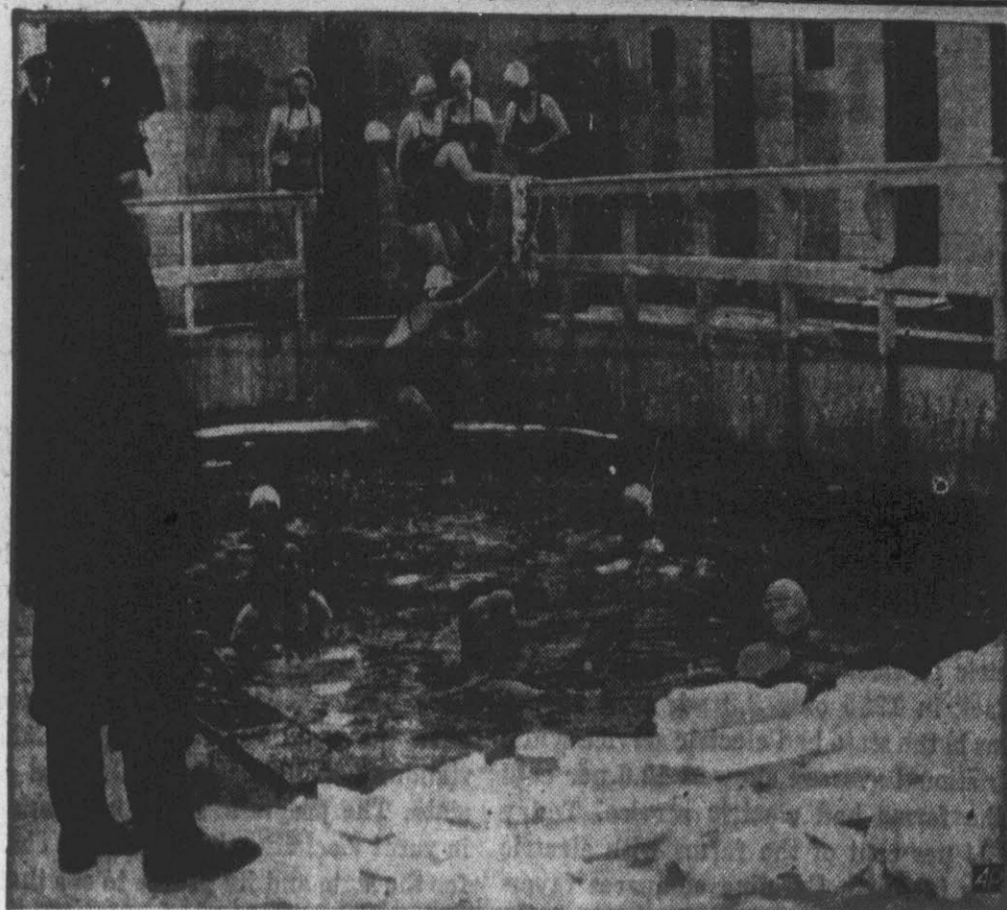

Secretary of the Interior McKay announced that Hanks, now assistant superintendent of Everglades National Park in Florida, will be the first superintendent for the recreational area in the new, consolidated job. The superintendency at Fort Raleigh has been vacant for some months.

Hanks will take up his new duties March 1 at Manteo, which will be headquarters for both areas. He is a native of Logan, Utah, and has been with the National Park Service since 1928.

McKay said A. Clark Stratton, who has been in charge of land acquisition for the recreational area, has been transferred to the Region 1 office at Richmond, Va., as soil conservationist.

Charles E. Marshall, who has been assistant to Stratton, will succeed him at Manteo and the position of assistant will be abolished.

Under Stratton's direction McKay said, more than two-thirds of the 26,000 acres needed for the recreation area have been acquired. Funds for the land were donated by the state of North Carolina and the Old Dominion and Avalon foundations.

Hope To Rescue Historic Ship

BALTIMORE (AP) — In an attempt to save the Navy's oldest ship, the Constellation, from the scrap pile, a group of Marylanders representing 27 civic and patriotic and civic organizations plan a march on

Washington, D. C., Monday.

A special House subcommittee is considering a bill which provides for the restoration and maintenance of the U.S.S. Constellation and the scrapping of the Constellation and three other ships.

The Marylanders hope to persuade the subcommittee to report the bill unfavorably. The Constellation, now rotting in Boston Harbor, was built and launched in Baltimore in 1797.

Graham Pledges No Emotionalism

LONDON (AP) — Billy Graham, American evangelist, said today there would be no "mouth-foaming, hysterical emotionalism" during his three-month revival crusade in London.

"There have been fine American evangelists here but I understand you have had a rough time with some of the more sensational characters," he said. He held some 100 British reporters at a news conference: "We shall try to correct some false impressions of American evangelists. The preaching will be about Christ."

Graham will hold his first meeting on March 1 in a giant sports arena.

He said he came to Britain on the invitation of a religious committee representing many Christian denominations, and with the approval of high authorities of the Church of England.

Many British religious leaders are adopting a "wait and see" attitude toward the revival project.

"And I regard that entirely fair, considering some unfortunate experiences," Graham said.

Fair, Mild In Southern States

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Fair and mild weather prevailed over most of the southern half of the country today but there were some wet spots in the East and central part of the country.

Light snow fell in the Dakotas, parts of Nebraska, northern Michigan and south of Lakes Erie and Ontario. Rain continued along the Atlantic seaboard from North Carolina to Maine and in western Washington.

A warming trend was reported over most of the country except the northern tier of states from Minnesota westward to Washington. Cooler air from Canada lowered temperatures in the northern region 10 to 25 degrees. Readings rose from 5 to 15 degrees over the southern plains northeastward into New England.

Summer-like temperatures were reported in southern California and Arizona yesterday with a top of 91 at Yuma, Ariz., and 88 at Los Angeles.

Rural Electrification For Remaining 6%

Rural electrification in North Carolina has come a long way during the past two decades to reach the point where 94 per cent of all farms in the state now have electric service.

Back in 1935 only 3.2 per cent of the farms in the state had electric service while the national average showed 10.9 per cent of the farms had electric service. Today the 94 per cent of the farms with electric service in North Carolina compares favorably with the national average of 90.8 per cent of farms with electric service.

It was not many years ago when life in rural areas was looked upon by urban dwellers as difficult and backward if for no other reason than the fact that many conveniences which had come about through the development of electric service were of no use in rural areas. The reason of course, was that rural areas did not have electric service.

Electric service is now as much a part of the life of the rural family as it is of the family which lives in town.

Across North Carolina there now stretch 74,994 miles of electric lines serving 508,863 rural customers, compared with the 1,884 miles of rural lines in 1935 which served 11,558 rural customers.

In 1953 alone 2,321 miles of electric lines were constructed to carry electric service to 27,750 new rural customers.

Truly, rural areas of North Carolina have been electrified in the past two decades, the trend has raised appreciably the standard of living in rural areas of the state. The progress which has been made in rural electrification is a stern challenge for the state and its people to see that electric service is made available to the remaining six per cent of the farms of North Carolina which still are without electric service.

Cleaning One, And Cluttering Another

Republicans since coming to power in Washington have made a big to-do about the disloyal people within government agencies and bad "security risks" who clung to the federal payroll during Democratic administrations.

No less have they emphasized—always in generalities—the great clean-sweeping broom the Republicans have used in cleaning these undesirable from the federal government.

Now the truth is apparently out.

During 1953 there were 590 "security risks" discharged from 11 federal agencies under Republican administration, and of these there were 291 who got jobs in other federal agencies.

It seems to us those figures should take a little of the wind—or should we say hot air—out of the sails of a good many talkative Republican "cleanser-upperers".

It seems to us that the same evidence which made one department of the federal government under Republican administration discharge an employe as a security risk should be ample for another department under the same administration not to want that risk on its hands. People who are bad risks in any department of government is not to be desired.

It does not appear good business for one department of the government to re-hire an individual which another department has found a "security risk" if the findings were based on thoroughly investigated facts.

Throughout the whole series of GOP re-hunting which has been going on for more than a year now, it seems to us that many of the chief hunters have been talking first and then looking for evidence to back up their statements later if necessary.

It may be a little old fashioned, but we are still partial to the process of getting the facts first and then doing the talking.

WALTHAM, MASS. NEWS-TRIBUNE: "The emphasis within the Internal Revenue Department will be on accurate and complete returns. This means that more checking will be done than ever before. . . . Grim Torture Story Now Unfolding

It is a grim story unfolding before high military officials of this nation as they set about the first of what may be a series of court martial proceedings against American service men who signed false confessions while prisoners of communists in Korea.

The story being told in the trial of Col. Frank H. Schwable who signed false germ warfare confessions for the Reds. It shapes up to be one of those almost unbelievable tales of human torture which have become familiar in recent years from German and communist prison camps.

A grave burden rests upon the shoulders of the military officials in determining what disposition should be made of this and other cases which may follow.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
DISTINCTIONS THAT COUNT
Can you define the term "a bad man"? Different people would give different answers to a question of this sort. One would say that a bad man is one who lies and steals. Another would always associate evil conduct with immorality and loose living. Some would peer deeper into the problem and declare that pride and avarice are the source of all wickedness in men's hearts.
How about this for a definition: a bad man is a man who doesn't want to be better. Two men may do the same evil thing and one may be a bad man and the other not a bad man. One would hesitate to call anyone who does any evil thing a good man. Yet there is a difference between a bad man and the man who, although he does exactly the same thing as his evil companion, is at heart not really bad.
The source of all evil is the unwillingness to do better. No matter how bad a man may be, if he has left within him the vestige of a desire to be better, there is one dim light shining on the dark wind-swept road along which he travels. But if he has no desire to be better, then indeed he is hopeless.
This is what Jesus had in mind when He declared to the scribes and Pharisees that the publicans and sinners would enter the kingdom of heaven while many of the pious would be excluded. The only people morally hopeless are the self-satisfied. The only man truly lost is the one who has no desire to be saved.

Coffee Uproar Costs Friends

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON—The Capitol Hill uproar over coffee price increases has cost Uncle Sam more good will in South America than at any time since we used to land United States Marines whenever a holiday firecracker exploded in a Central American country—Nicaragua, Mexico, Panama or San Domingo. It will be the chief topic of angry discussion at hemispheric conferences soon to be held here and at Caracas, Venezuela.

While housewives are understandably upset over the boosts, Brazilian producers and American handlers insist that they are due solely to the ancient and irrevocable law of supply and demand. World consumption has gone up, they say, while Brazilian production has been cut because of the disastrously low prices prevailing in the past 20 years.

Just as "Hank" Wallace destroyed little pigs and ploughed up millions of fertile acres in early New Deal days, so the coffee farmers of Brazil abandoned their plantations and diversified their agricultural plans.

"ACCUSATIONS" AGAINST "GOOD NEIGHBORS"—Placing one of South America's major crops under Federal regulation, a measure approved after only a few hours' consideration by the Senate Agriculture Committee, is tantamount to accusing our erstwhile "good neighbors" of graft and holdup tactics. That is the privately expressed opinion of South American diplomats in Washington.

Senator Guy Gillette of Iowa, sponsor of the pending regulation legislation, headed an Agriculture Subcommittee, which investigated a similar increase in 1949-1950. Although his report condemned the coffee trade practices in New York and the producing countries, not even Harry S. Truman's Department of Justice took any action. Neither did Congress.

The D of J conducted its own inquiry on the basis of the Gillette indictment, but found no cause for prosecution.

Three agencies have decided that the current difficulties stem from low production and increased world consumption. They are the State Department, the Department of Agriculture and the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations.

LATIN AMERICA BITTER TOWARD US—The South Americans, according to their Washington spokesmen, are more bitter toward us now than they have been since our 1922-24 trouble with Mexico over church, and oil nationalization. The coffee dispute is simply symptomatic of the general deterioration of Latin-American relations.

Besides the coffee crisis, we are barely on speaking terms with Dictator Peron's Argentina. Our stockpiling purchases have led to a sharp reduction in the sales and prices of many South American products.

While we have loaned or given billions in the last decade to Britain, Western Europe, Germany and Japan, Greece and Turkey, we have been extremely niggardly toward South America, in their belief. All they need to do is to analyze our budget figures in the field of foreign aid.

HATE, INSTEAD OF FRIENDSHIP—Ironically, no three countries have been more friendly to the U. S. than Brazil, Colombia and Mexico. Now, they are coming to hate us, Brazil over coffee and Mexico over our refusal to pay higher wages to their farmers who cross the border to harvest crops in California and the Southwest.

To repeat, the coffee dispute is only symbolic and symptomatic. It represents the latest and the most critical reason why the whole Latin-American world, a vital area in our system of continental defense, feels that we are neglecting and discriminating against them.

Our recent actions have vitiated whatever good was accomplished by the visit of Milton Eisenhower, Ike's favorite brother, to those lands. We have not carried out a single one of his formal recommendations for improving relations between the two areas.

Finally, the Latin-American countries, from the Magellan Strait to the Rio Grande, think that Washington should spend less time, thought and money on Western Europe, and devote more concern to the American continent.

Somebody Told Me

Telephone System Complex

When I had occasion to see Frank Harrington, manager of the local telephone office, I had no idea what I would encounter when I went up the steps of the local plant on Dickinson Avenue. There must be a million miles of wire in that place!

And when Mr. Harrington told me that the company conducts guided tours of school groups through the plant I was even more amazed. My short tour through the plant that houses the mechanical brains of over 5300 telephones was interesting to say the least.

My visit with Mr. Harrington did not concern any complaint, but I decided to voice mine while on hand. "How is it," I asked him, "that the lines sometimes get crossed up?"

The explanation is logical: The process of dialing a number sets off about 4,000 electrical contacts. An item as small as a speck of dust will cause an upset of the contacts and a wrong number will be the result. Or sometimes it will cause the parties to get crossed up.

In an effort to catch this sort of thing before it happens, there are two service men who do nothing day after day but inspect and check in order to find defects. The entire operation takes a force of about 50.

The Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company, which includes 40-odd counties in Eastern Carolina, plans to spend the rest of the year in this section working on expansion. They hope to fill the majority of the applications for telephones which are now on hand.

The proposed building on the corner of West Fifth and Pitt Streets will house the toll department, which is primarily long distance operation, allowing room for expansion in the Dickinson Avenue plant.

The coming of television to Greenville with its micro-wave system built and maintained by the telephone company added to the functions of the local plant. Two men do nothing but operate and maintain the system. Two radio network lines are also fed through the local office: the Mutual line for Greenville and the American Broadcasting Company line for Washington. Thus far, none of the network difficulties encountered by WNCB have been from the local micro-wave station. It has always been up the line, sometimes even north of Washington.

The Greenville plant employs the inter-toll dialing system, which means that long distance operators can dial numbers as far distant as California or Mexico, provided the office at the other end has the same advanced system. With this system a number in New York can be called by the operator as fast as the caller can dial a local number, except for the time required to dial the extra digits in the number.

And I thank you.

What Other Editors Are Thinking

THIS 'VICTORY' MAY COST US DEARLY
(Charlotte Observer)

What may turn out to be the most important news of the week appeared under small heads in some metropolitan newspapers and not at all in most of the others. It was that Communist headquarters in Malaya had been moved to Sumatra.

This move may be partial victory for the British in Malaya, but the most ominous aspect of it is that an active Communist center is now on the soil of Indonesia, which for several years has been tottering on the verge of falling to Communism. The native Communists in Sumatra were already cooperating with the government of President Sukarno. They had oppressed the Moslem majority on that island until they rose in self-defense, led by Darul Islam. This revolt was put down with cruelty, and then Sukarno formed a coalition with the Communists at Jakarta. When the Renville agreement put the country in the hands of this adventurer, we predicted in these columns that Sukarno would one day go over to the Communists. That time seems to be near.

Indonesia is just about ripe for Communist picking. It is in a state of economic anarchy with the nationalized mines in the hands of Red unions, with the government borrowing from the national bank—a classic cause of runaway inflation—with the land reformers seizing plantations just before harvest and causing a food shortage.

Some of these Communist guerrillas have helped the army fight against Darul Islam and in return have demanded and received government arms. Chinese boats are landing arms for those who do not get them from the government.

On top of all this, Sukarno has again postponed a general election for two years. Since the day he set up his provisional government under the Renville agreement, he has never allowed the people of Indonesia to vote on his government or any other.

Now that he has admitted Communists into what amounts to a coalition with his weak government, they are in a position to seize power almost any time. The removal of the headquarters from Malaya to Sumatra may mean that they think the opportunity is near. Having failed so far to conquer Indochina and Malaya, they could, with Indonesia in their hands, put both countries in a squeeze.

The whole of Southeast Asia would be so threatened that we would have to make a hurried revision of our strategy there.

Business Today

Best Be Prepared

The Eisenhower Administration has conclusively shown that it is determined to avoid war at any cost save a national honor. The Malenkov Administration—if that's the word—has indicated somewhat less conclusively that it is more interested in straightening out some threatening situations at home than in launching new conquests.

During the worst days of the Korean war, it was pointed out here that while defense must be put ahead of everything else, the businessman who didn't have a organized idea on what he would do after peace came was doing a disservice to his country as well as himself.

The opposite is not perfect now. There is no certain that peace would be gained eventually. Now it is far from certain that war will come. Nevertheless, it may still be wise and patriotic for each businessman to have in his own mind, if not on paper, some sound ideas on what he and his enterprise will and can do if war breaks out.

The United States has troops on every continent—in 40 different countries around the globe. Their presence makes for peace. Yet at the same time, it is a calculated risk: A riot in one country or an armed clash between subversives and government forces in another could easily involve us inextricably. A hot-headed colonel or a jittery sergeant in charge of an anti-aircraft battery might trigger the world into trouble.

If the impossible happens, it will be too late then to make plans.

Right now, there ought to be two sets of plans: one for use in event of attack; plans for survival for civil defense action; one for use in case there's a distant outbreak—plans for converting into military work, for operating under government controls that are certain to be more rigid than anything ever imagined in World War II, and for making maximum contribution to the nation.

For larger companies, a committee of top executives may be best. It will work if firm deadlines are set up for first drafts of plans, and periodically revised in light of new developments made imperative.

FREE INSURANCE FOR SOAP WRAPPERS

While a soap company here is conducting a free $100,000 lottery to promote the sale of its products, its British affiliate is putting on a lively promotion too. For ten soap wrappers, including at least one from each of four products, consumers get free accident insurance policies.

The greatest soap promotion of all, however, was one staged a few years ago by a Brazilian manufacturer. In one bar of soap he imbedded a gold key to fit the front door, of a $15,000 house, which was given to the finder of the key. Brazil never had it so clean.

The idea would conflict with U.S. anti-gambling laws. UPHOLSTERY COLOR TRENDS CHARTED

Dark green upholstery fabrics declined sharply in popularity during the last quarter of 1953, according to Joan Fabrics' quarterly color survey. Browns and blues rose in popularity.

Light greens, and the pumpkin-copper-gold-coral and turquoise-lime-chartruse-black groups increased in popularity, while red, grey and rose groups declined. SIMPLIFIED PLAN

Multiple listings in classified telephone books have become a burden for some companies, especially in the appliance field. A firm handling several long lines may be called upon to buy as many as 80 listings in its local directory.

In Houston, the Better Business Bureau stepped in to simplify matters for appliance dealers. With the co-operation of state and local associations and the phone company, it set up five classifications: air conditioning, appliances, electric, appliances, gas; and television and radio.

Then it set up sublistings, including authorized sales and service; dealer; wholesalers; used, and rental, with other sublistings when indicated, such as contractors, repair shops, antennas, etc.

As a result, a dealer can get complete coverage with relatively few listings. Phone company revenues will be very little less, because more dealers are expected to use multiple listings.

Now the associations and phone officials are working on ways to prevent unauthorized dealers from obtaining listings under the headings of famous brands.

NEW YORK (AP)—A charming $600 tax exemption I know recently had her first date.

We'd better call this girl Jane since that isn't her name. But as she is now 11 and knows her rights, her father can no longer write so freely. She might sue for invasion of privacy.

Most girls in her class went to the square dance in the school gym with other girls. But Jane was invited by a real, live boy, name of David, age 12, "and what's more," she said, "he's paying the 35 cents for my ticket." For years, Jane has been a willing target for any dollar diplomat.

By way of preparation, she fought for and won a new, full, quilted skirt "that twirls out in a heavenly way." She fought for and lost a pair of silk stockings. She asked for and got 50 cents to buy David a soda after the dance "since it's only fair."

On the big day, she had her hair washed and set and the first time in her life tolerated the curlers long enough to make order out of chaos.

An hour before David's scheduled arrival, she was fully dressed and shining like a new queen. With royal majesty, she refused to let any but herself peek through the front window curtains to see who was coming up the front walk.

She was especially adamant that her 8-year-old sister, a pig-tailed pixie called Kathy, be held under strict surveillance throughout. "When's he gonna slip the ring on your finger?" Kathy said. "Ma, make her shut up," Jane shouted.

Kathy was wrestled into silence and Jane ran up to her room, announcing that we were to tell David she'd be down in a few minutes. The doorbell rang and Jane was down before the echo died.

"Hi, David."
"Come meet my father and mother." There was no mention of her sister.

David was a solid young man with curly blond hair and smart, navy pea jacket. Remembering my own self-consciousness at his age, I resolved to set him at his ease.

"I'm very glad to meet you," he said, and shook my hand with startling firmness. I was about to mention the Dodgers' chances this year, when David looking me squarely in the eye, inquired about my health, encouraged me to talk about my odd jobs around the house and assured me his father had much the same problems. In no time at all, he had me at my ease.

As they were leaving, Jane's mother asked somewhat timidly, I thought, "What time can we expect you back?"
"About 10," David said. "I always bring my dates back about 10."

There seemed to be no arguing with that.

At 10:08 (I just happened to notice), they returned. David said so long, and Jane said so long and "See, I had a wonderful time."

About her evening, Jane told us only a little: that the dance was wonderful, that David insisted on paying for the sodas and she used her money for comic books. And then she rushed upstairs to write in her diary.

Two days later, it was all over. David wanted to buy her stamp collection but Jane thought the offered price was outrageously low. They'll aren't speaking, and I keep worrying that he never really loved her for herself but had his eyes, all along, on that stamp collection.

Bright Attitude Of Optimism In Roanoke-Chowan Area

By LYNN NISBET

GARDEN SPOT—On a recent trip to the middle northern part of North Carolina, which is usually designated as the Roanoke-Chowan area, your reporter found among business men an attitude of optimism and a sincere belief that they live in the garden spot of the state—which, with very little effort, was interpreted by them to mean the garden spot of the world.

There are three major geographic and topographic divisions of North Carolina, recognized by most government agencies as the Coastal Plain, the Piedmont and the Mountains. These major divisions are broken down into numerous others for agricultural and economic use. The area just westward of the recognized Piedmont, for instance, is broken up into "east of the Blue Ridge," "west of the Blue Ridge," and "the Smokies." The far eastern areas are commonly designated as "the Albemarle," the "Outer Banks," and "Seno-land"—Southeastern North Carolina.

The Roanoke-Chowan area which is the subject of these paragraphs is bordered on the north by Virginia, on the east by the Upper Albemarle, on the south by the Upper Coastal Plains, on the west by the Eastern Piedmont. It embraces the counties of Northampton, Hertford, Gates and Bertie—with maybe a little argument about whether Halifax, Chowan and Martin should be included.

The town of Ahoskie, situated near the geographic center, is the economic capital of the Roanoke-Chowan area. Surrounded by the much older cultural centers of Murfreesboro on the north, Edenton on the east, Windsor on the south, Halifax and Scotland Neck on the west, Ahoskie offers no challenge to their historic importance. Although it has been a town for a long time it is essentially a new town, with more emphasis upon business than upon the historic and cultural fetishism common to the area.

AHOSKIE—The 1950 census gives Ahoskie 3,579 inhabitants. The town boosters claim it is now "going on toward 5,000." Accepting the optimistic boost for figures, it is still unusual for a town of 5,000 to be able to support a daily newspaper, a radio station and three banks—not to mention some of the other claims to pre-eminence.

Your reporter talked to several people about the reasons for such a small town having so much prestige. The comments of Mayon Parker, junior member of the nationally known Parker Bros. firm of country newspaper publishers, seem most suitable for quotes and discussion. The Parker boys—Roy and Mayon—publish papers in four of the counties. The Hertford Herald at Ahoskie is a semi-weekly; the Bertie Ledger at Windsor; the Gatesville Index at Gatesville and the Northampton News at Jackson are weeklies. All are printed in the shop at Ahoskie, which also does a big commercial printing business.

HOW COME?—How can this little country town support your business, the Roanoke-Chowan News, two or three other job printing shops, the radio station and all these other regional business enterprises, was the direct question asked of Mayon Parker. His answer was less direct but very enlightening. It was essentially this:

In the first place, this isn't a small town; it is a big community. Corporate lines means nothing to use, except in some items like tax rates and utility services. Then, too, there is an element of luck and we have been favored by God Almighty more highly than most communities. We had good crops this year, because the severe drought didn't hit us, and we benefited by high prices for crops because of the shortages in other sections. The Bugg's Island dam saved us from flood damage, even if it was at expense of some upriver landowners whose acres are permanently covered with water. The main reason for our economic stability is that those of us who live here have faith in ourselves and in our country.

FAITH—Because we believed in our part of the country we gambled heavily on that faith. That goes for the Parker Brothers operations as well as for the Jenkins and Basnight and numerous other enterprises.

Sure, we may have some slight recessions in business. Maybe there will be fewer automobiles and television sets sold this year than we had hoped to sell. Tobacco and peanuts and corn produced by our farmers may not bring back quite as much cash this year as we got last year or the year before. Our folks definitely do not like the Republican farm program, and we have in this area a virtual 100 per cent agricultural economy, but there isn't much likelihood of anybody

Plan 'Rocket Sled' To Hit Super-Sonic Speed

HOLLOMAN AIR DEVELOPMENT CENTER, N. M. (AP)—An Air Force volunteer soon may ride a rocket sled faster than the speed of sound, with danger only an "outside chance."
Air Research and Development Command scientists are painstakingly testing and retesting new equipment, using dummies instead of humans to make it safe for man to break the sound barrier on the ground.
Faster than any grounding ever has traveled will be the 750 miles an hour—plus—some volunteer will speed.
"The scientists are doing as much research as humanly possible," said the public information officer, Maj. Orley B. Caudill. "Any danger the volunteers may face would be an outside chance."

The project, under the direction of Lt. Col. John P. Stapp, aero medical scientist, is a stab at developing equipment to enable air crews to survive bailouts from planes traveling faster than sound.
Air Force volunteers will be strapped in a chair in the rocket sled. As the sled travels along the 3,500-foot track, the man will be rotated head over heels 180 times per minute—exposed to the same air-blast forces a pilot ejected suddenly from a super sonic plane would experience.
The rocket sled, propelled by 12 4,500-pound thrust rockets, will have five seconds to reach the speed of sound and come to a complete halt.
In the relatively dense air encountered 4,092 feet above sea level (the elevation here), the results, the Air Force said, "actually simulate a bailout from an open seat at 40,000 feet at a speed of 1,800 miles per hour."
Scientists say they believe a human with no protective equipment has very little chance of surviving such a bailout. The conditions encountered will be reproduced accurately in new equipment made by Northrop Aircraft, Inc., Hawthorne, Calif.
Scientists must determine thresholds of reasoning, consciousness and memory of the crew members of a plane who someday may have to make such a bailout.
Two sleds—a test vehicle and a propulsion vehicle—make up part of the groundling's equipment. The vehicle is designed to withstand forces up to 100 G's—one "G" being the normal pull of gravity.

Drought And Dust In Southeast Colorado Inspiring Near-Panic

By HARMON KALLMAN
Denver Post Staff Writer
DENVER (AP)—Drought seldom is dramatic. Ordinarily it spreads like a silent cancer. But in southeastern Colorado today it is a tangible, fearsome force.
You feel the grit between your teeth, between your fingers, in your eyes even though it may not be blowing. You begin to itch all over with it as you watch mile after mile of fences buried in blown dust and sand, telegraph poles and farm equipment banked high with the powdery stuff that kills rich farmland.

The farther south and east you go the fewer furrows you can discern in what was plowed wheatland a short week ago.

You can drive 100 miles east of here and see little sign of the disastrous dust storm of last week and the blow Monday that added insult to injury.

But once into Hugo, the Lincoln County seat, you know the dust has been there.

This is what I saw when I made a trip into the area:
Just a few miles to the south and the world turned gray. A few hundred yards off main Highway 109 on a section-like road you could see the first bitter evidence.

It looked curiously like an ocean beach with a few weeds rising above the wind-sculptured sand. There was moisture beneath it. Broken cedar fence posts looked like driftwood.

Bob White of Rocky Ford, who superintends 70,000 acres of Colorado farmland for the Baughman Farms Co. of Liberal, Kan., was driving by.

"This is hardly anything," he said. "Go to Haswell and Heald. I'll break your heart."

"See, this winter wheat is still green, even though it's sick and you can barely see the furrows that were here until last week. With moisture this will still make wheat."

"It's not as bad as it was in Texas in the 1930s, but I've never seen one storm do as much damage as that one last week."

Farther south you noticed that the fences not covered by dunes were blown thick with weeds, like brown hedgerows.

On a side road in northeast Crowley County you came upon a grader plowing deep-banked dust that looked finer than the sand crystals you had seen in Lincoln County.

"I've lived here all my life," said the operator, Henry Manweller 37, of Sugar City. "I was a kid during the dust bowl days. But I never saw one like this any time."

A woman was hanging out clothes to dry in the yard of a big ranch house near the Crowley-Kiowa County line.

"No, I won't tell you my name," she said. "I don't like publicity. But I can tell you about that dust storm last week."

"There are miles of broken fences all around here but the cattle aren't wandering off—there's nothing out there to tempt them."

"People are almost in a panic. They want to know where they can get a job, to carry them over. Fellow over that way said all he'd have to do to get ready to leave this county would be to back his truck up to the door; his wife would do the rest."

Eastward to Arlington it grew steadily worse. A train on the Missouri Pacific line went by and was lost within 100 yards in a cloud of dust from the rails and roadbed.

Each remaining clump of grass seemed to have its own little sand

Consider Safety Note On Liquors

RALEIGH (AP)—A local ABC board in North Carolina approve the plan, all liquor sold in ABC stores will be placed in specially stamped bags bearing a safety message warning against driving while drinking.

The State ABC Board discussed the proposal at length yesterday. ABC Director Tom Allen said the board liked the idea. It will be submitted to local boards he added, at their meeting next month.

Allen said the bags would carry a message like this: "One-third of the drivers in all fatal accidents last year had been drinking. Would you place your life in the hands of a drinking driver? Do you when you drink and drive."

Board members agreed, Allen said, the use of paper bags would be more practical than an earlier proposal to put safety messages on the neck of the bottles.

The use of safety messages to warn against mixing liquor and gasoline was discussed recently at a conference among Allen, Motor Vehicles Commissioner Ed Scheidt and Maj. C. A. Speed, highway safety director. It was said then that 31 per cent of all fatal accidents in the state during 1952 involved drunken driving.

Spring Quarter Begins March 2 At East Carolina

East Carolina College students are now taking final examinations on their work for the winter quarter, which will end Saturday of this week. The spring quarter will begin Tuesday, March 2.

Pre-registration of students for the spring quarter was held during the week of January 25, when those new enrolled at the college made out their schedule of courses after consultations with their faculty advisers. Final registration for those students and for newcomers who will enter East Carolina this spring for the first time will be held next Tuesday from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the Wright building.

Directors of departments and other faculty members at the college will be present Tuesday to assist students with their problems in scheduling classes.

Would you trade a Penny for a Dollar?

● You can if you use Natural Chilean Nitrate of Soda for your top-dressing and side-dressing needs. It costs a little more because it's worth more. But the difference in cost usually can be measured in pennies per acre, while the difference in value often amounts to dollars per acre.

Chilean "Bulldog" Soda gives you generous extra value. The nitrogen is 100 per cent nitrate. It's 100 per cent available (quick-acting); 100 per cent dependable. The minor elements make crops stronger, healthier. The sodium—26 pounds in every 100-pound sack—is a key to maximum returns on your entire fertilizer investment. It offsets the bad effects of acid-forming fertilizers...increases the efficiency of mixed fertilizers containing them. It releases "locked-up" potash in the soil...increases the availability and efficiency of soil phosphate...reduces potash, calcium and magnesium losses by leaching...develops larger, deeper root systems.

Sodium builds up the productivity of your land—more each year. It's an essential element for some crops...beneficial to most and necessary for maximum yields of many.

Pennies-per-acre difference in cost may mean dollars-per-acre difference in value to you. Chilean "Bulldog" Soda is the best fertilizer your money can buy. Use it for all of your top-dressing and side-dressing needs.

Perfect Grade In Employment Test

CHICAGO (AP)—Oswald K. Sagen, 47, made a rare perfect grade of 100 in a civil service test for a $10,390-a-year job but he says he probably will reject the job.
Commission officials said they believed it was the first perfect grade ever made in a test for a city job.

Sagen was one of 10 applicants who took the test for the post of chief statistician in the City Health Department. He explained he was happy in his present position, chief of the Bureau of Statistics for the Illinois Health Department in Springfield, which pays $9,420 a year. He said he took the test in event an unexpected development made his present position less desirable.

Winterville, Bethel Take Pitt Crowns

Last Period Rally Wraps Game Up For Bethel Team

By BOB BOYETTE
Bethel's high flying girls captured the Pitt County Conference championship by routing Winterville in the fourth quarter in the tournament finals last night in Memorial Gym at East Carolina College.

The Indians, who had fought hard just to hold a lead for three quarters, ran wild in the fourth period to win easily 68-45.

Bethel jumped into a quick first quarter lead and held it throughout that period. The Indians led 15-10 at the quarter.

Mary Jo Wynne and Carrie Ayers were pacing the Bethel scoring in the first period and Joan Averette, a little forward who had missed most of the regular season due to illness, led the Winterville team's scoring and kept the Wolverines in the contest.

Winterville's Maggie Castelloe, a utility player who plays either forward or guard, came into the game in the second period to pace a Wolverine drive, which at the 2:43 point of the second quarter had pulled the Winterville sextet to within one point of tying the Indians.

Bethel pulled away again before the intermission and their lead was never really threatened as the Wolverines never got closer than three points again in the entire contest.

By the end of the third period the Indians had widened their lead to 13 points, 46-33; and in the fourth period continued to outscore Winterville. With 41 seconds left to play in the contest the Bethel sextet led by 68-43, their widest margin of the contest.

Very Little Help
Joan Averette, who played her heart out for the losing Wolverines, tried desperately to keep pace throughout the contest with Mary Jo Wynne and Carrie Ayers in the scoring end, but the usual outstanding shooting of Jean Little and Jane Corey for Winterville was missing—giving Averette very little help.

Winterville's forwards, who usually are hotter than a two-dollar pistol, were colder than ice during most of last night's contest, with the exception of Averette.

Bethel, on the other hand, played brilliantly and deserved to win. Ann Riddick played a whale of game on defense for the Indians and held the usual high scoring Little of Winterville to only three field goals during the contest.

Little also missed many foul shots which also hurt the Wolverine cause.

Wynne, Ayers, and Corinne Briley, in the meantime, were hitting consistently for the Indians; and that proved to be the difference in the championship battle.

Ayers scored 27 points for Bethel, Wynne added 25 and Briley contributed 15. Jenny Whitehurst, Edith Doughtie, and Ann Riddick all played good defensive ball.

Joan Averette paced the Winterville scoring with 25 points. Little added eight as did Castelloe, but Corey only scored four. Nancy Worthington, Ann Kittrell, and Betty Nobles were outstanding defensive leaders.

Bethel's win last night ended Winterville girls' two year reign as Pitt County champions.

The Purple Paladins have scored an average of 91.8 points for each of their 26 games. Kentucky is in second place with an average of 88.5.

Others in the first 10 are: Western Kentucky 85.9; North Carolina State 84.2; Holy Cross 84.2; Connecticut 83.0; Duke 82.9; Marshall 82.1; Louisville 82.0, and George Washington 81.8.

Keeter Sparks Drive By Winterville Team

Double Choices Feature All-Pitt

Winterville's Pitt County Conference championship teams placed two representatives on each of the All-County teams selected by conference coaches but they had plenty of company and competition from other teams for the honors.

Farmville's girls actually dominated their division with three selections to nose the Winterville girls for honors in that division. Bethel placed two representatives, Chilocod placed two, and Stokes placed one forward.

In the boys division, the Wolves had two players selected in the balloting with Stokes also contributing two Bethel, Belvoir, Grimesland, Chilocod, Ayden, and Farmville placed one man apiece on the honor team.

Ayden's Tornados wound up with top honors in sportsmanship in both divisions. The players in the conference did the voting in that category and the selection of the Ayden teams was almost unanimous.

The All-Conference selections in the girls division had Wilma Stocks of Ayden, Mary Jo Wynne and Ann Riddick of Bethel, Fatsy Mills of Chilocod, Jean Bullock of Stokes, Joyce Spain of Chilocod, Edna Randolph of Belvoir, Jean Little and Nancy Worthington of Winterville, and Edna Wooten, Carol Moxing and Doris Oakley of Farmville.

The boys team included Mike House of Bethel, Gene Harris of Belvoir, Bobby Andrews of Grimesland, Carl White and Doug James of Stokes, Bobby Burroughs of Chilocod, Ham Lang of Ayden, Jack Allen of Farmville and Dean Wingate and Lex Keeter of Winterville.

Awards to the individuals and teams were presented by Pat Stokes of Grifton, the tournament queen. County Superintendent of Schools D. H. Conley announced the awards assisted by Fodie Hodges, chairman of the conference's Athletic Committee.

Tourney Scoring Led By Wynne

Of course, there are always scoring leaders in every tournament so here they are

Mary Jo Wynne, Bethel's pretty little forward, led the tourney scoring with 81 points in three games—giving her a 27 point per game total.

Next in scoring came her teammate, Carrie Ayers, who scored 66 points for a 22 point average.

Jean Little of Winterville's runner-up girls was next with 60 points and a 20 point average.

Following her came her teammate, Joan Averette, with 55 and an 18.3 point per game average.

Paramore High For Boys
Right here the boys start entering the picture and Jack Paramore also scored 55 points to become the high point man for boys play, also with an 18.3 average.

Bethel boys did not place a man with an average per game of over 11 points, but no less than four of their starting five players averaged better than 10 points per game and the other starter had a 9.9 average.

Bryan Latham scored 32 points, Bill Lathack and Michael House, each 31, Larry Tetterton 30, and Bill Tetterton 29 points over the three game stretch.

Players on teams that did not reach the finals had better averages per game than some of the winners' players.

For instance in boys play Thomas Heath of Ayden scored 45 points in two games for a 22.5 per game average. Mac Lancaster scored 22 in one game, and Carl White of Stokes hit 40 in two games.

In girls play Ayden's Wilma Stocks scored 49 points in two games for a 24.5 per game average.

Patsy Mills of Chilocod hit 26 for one game; Jane Bullock of Stokes got 45 in two games and Edna Wooten of Farmville got 43.

Defensive Leaders
Of course the scoring could not be that high if there was not some help from other members of the team.

To aid Mary Jo Wynne in scoring 81 points in three games were Ann Riddick, Edith Doughtie, and Jenny Whitehurst of Bethel.

Winterville's Betty Nobles, Nancy Worthington, and Ann Kittrell played good defensive ball also.

Joyce Spain of Chilocod, Doris Oakley and Carolyn Moxing of Farmville and many others too numerous to mention also played good defensive ball.

Playing outstanding defensive ball for the boys were Dean Wingate of Winterville, J. T. Mills of Chilocod, Alton Pridden of Stokes and others.

It was a good tournament. Games were slow and ragged in many cases where defense played the important role, but the near upset Ayden boys almost pulled against Winterville and final game in boys play will be long remembered as probably the two top games.

By JIMMY ELLIS
Frank Merrifield, move over. You've got competition.

The legendary hero of little boys' action novels got shaded last night by Lex Keeter of Winterville who drove through Bethel's Indians for a last-ditch lay-up shot that gave the Wolves a 65-63 victory and the Pitt County Conference championship.

Keeter had paced a dogged stand by the Wolves in the last quarter to keep the Indians out of the driver's seat. The senior forward had actually taken a back seat to teammates Dean Wingate and Jack Paramore in the early portions of the game but he came through with six of his 12 points in the last minute and a half of action.

Keeter's drive broke a 63-63 tie that had been set only 10 seconds earlier by Bethel's Bill Latham. That last tie was the fourteenth in the tense contest and Keeter's points marked the eighteenth time the lead changed hands.

Hot Rally
Coach Walter Latham's Indians had pulled a rip-snorting rally after a poor first few minutes to set the pace for the game. Winterville dominated play for the first three-quarters of the first period but after that Latham's boys came to life and the capacity crowd in Memorial Gym almost went insane trying to keep up with see-saw contest.

Bethel went into the last period of the game with a three-point (53-49) spread over Coach Stagg Clark's team. That lead was maintained until the half-way point of the final quarter when Jack Paramore hit three free throws and a jump shot to tie the count at 55-55.

Keeter then began to come into his own in the game with a lay-up shot on a fast break to put Winterville ahead 57-55 but the Indians took the lead right back with a free throw by Carolton Keel and a driving lay-up shot by Bryan Latham. Latham's shot came at the 3:37 mark.

Both teams played raggedly for the next minute but Dean Wingate of the Wolves finally found the range and popped in a jump shot to put Winterville back in the lead, 59-58. Keel came through again for Bethel, however, with a jump shot but that was matched by two free throws by Keeter to give Winterville the lead again at 61-61.

Exchange Shots
Larry Tetterton, cool under the pressure of the game, tied the game again with a free throw with 47 seconds left but Keeter went to the line four seconds later and popped in two free throws to boost Winterville again. Bill Latham worked Bethel back into a tie in the contest with a follow shot with 15 seconds left but that shot set the stage for Keeter's last-ditch antics.

The Wolves worked the ball into their own forecourts where it was given to Keeter on the right hand side. The All-Conference senior then left-handedly drove across the middle and down for a left-handed lay-up shot that fell through. Time ran out before Bethel could get the ball into their own forecourt.

It's actually difficult to describe all of the tenacious that went into the contest. Both teams played outstanding ball with the possible difference lying in the fact that Bethel started the game "cold" and Winterville's Jimmy Stocks and Dean Wingate held the edge in rebounding. Stocks, particularly, was outstanding in his play, taking rebounds time and time again that the taller Bethel team seemed to have first choice on.

Winterville's early lead came through their own ability to score in tight moments and a tight zone defense. Only B. B. Tetterton of the Indians was able to do anything in those first few minutes of the game. B. B. finally got some help midway in the period when the Indians came to life with a bang. Larry Tetterton began pulling some of the stray rebounds and the Bethel squad began hitting on shots that had previously gone wild.

Fast Break
Winterville's fast break in the second quarter, with Paramore and Keeter on the receiving end, balanced the powerful offensive show by the Indians. Neither team was able to work a sizable lead in the second period until the last few minutes when Bill Latham, Larry Tetterton, Mike House, and Bryan Latham hit shots that gave Bethel a 52-49 lead at the quarter.

Scoring honors in the game went to Winterville's Paramore who wound up with 20 points. Wingate popped in 15 and Keeter accounted for 12 more.

Bethel's smooth spread of points suggested the teamwork employed. Bill Latham got 14 points to lead the Indians but Larry Tetterton and Bryan Latham got 13 apiece and B. B. Tetterton got 12.

The game actually wasn't a process of either team losing its touch in tense moments. It was a question of who would be where and in what position when time ran out.

Keeter assured Winterville of its position.

Canadians Find A Hockey Rink

WHEATON, Ill. (AP)—Like ducks taking to water, 12 Canadian students attending Wheaton College have proved their mettle as hockey players.

At first they had no place to practice or play; they had no equipment or standing in the college's athletic program. But they overcame the obstacles by forming the Wheaton Hockey Club, an intramural group. It is coached by Bill Gale.

Alex Grammas, the Cards' rookie shortstop who injured his throwing arm shoulder in a practice game last week, said he "might be able to throw a little tomorrow."

Northeastern Tournament Opens Tonight In ECC Gym

East Carolina vs Guilford In North State Tournament

South Ayden, Farmville Meet In Negro Tourney

BETHEL—South Ayden and H.B. Sugg (Farmville) high school teams will meet tonight in semi-final tournament games as the highlight of the fourth annual Pitt County Interscholastic Athletic Association basketball tournament.

In the other second round game planned for tonight Pitt County Training School (Grimesland) will meet Robinson Union High (Winterville) in the boys division. Action in the tournament play tonight will start at 6 o'clock.

In first round action Tuesday night, South Ayden's girls eliminated Bethel, 31-28; Pitt County Training School bounced Robinson Union from the girls division, 28-27; and H.B. Sugg eliminated Bethel, 39-31 in the boys division.

Pairings for tonight have P.C.T.S. and Robinson Union meeting in a boys game to start the action. That contest will be followed by the South Ayden-Sugg girls game. The final game of the evening will have Sugg and South Ayden meeting in the boys division.

Finals in the tournament will be played Saturday night. All games are being played in Bethel. Championship games Saturday will start at 7:30 in the Bethel High School gym. In Tuesday's action, South Ayden outplayed Bethel's girls throughout most of the game and won 31-28. South Ayden trailed by eight points at the end of the third quarter, their only bad period of the evening, but they bounced back in the fourth quarter to outscore Bethel 14-3 for the victory.

In the second game, the Grimesland girls led Robinson Union until the last two minutes of the game when the score was tied 26-26 by the Winterville squad. The teams then matched field goals but P.C.T.S. won the game on a free throw by Velma Langley.

In the final game of the first round, underdog Suggs High Lions roared loudly behind the play of co-captains Bennie Harris and Albert Baker and established an early lead they never surrendered. Baker finished the game as high scorer for both teams with 17 points while Harris contributed 11.

Scoring honors in the girls division were arranged with Jones of Bethel leading with 17 points. Worthington of South Ayden with 15, and Langley of P.C.T.S., and Lowe of Winterville with 14 each.

Three Games Slated For First-Round Play

Nat Holman, Of CCNY, Cleared By 3-Man Board

NEW YORK (AP)—Nat Holman, suspended basketball coach at City College of New York, whose team won the 1950 NCAA and NIT championships, was exonerated today by a trial committee of charges of conduct unbecoming a teacher, constituting neglect of duty.

The charges grew out of the college basketball scandals which broke in 1951 and involved seven players of the 1950 CCNY championship team in the "fixing" of games. Holman, 56, who with his assistant Harry (Bobby) Sand, 36, has been suspended since Nov. 18, 1952, was cleared by a majority report of the three-man Board of Higher Education trial committee, which recommended dismissal of all charges.

The trial committee, however, unanimously found Sand guilty on two counts of conduct unbecoming a teacher.

The committee recommended that Holman be reinstated as an associate professor in the college's hygiene department as of the day he was suspended. The committee recommended that Sand be suspended without pay for one year on a retroactive basis and that he be reinstated as an instructor as of Nov. 18, 1953.

The board will consider the recommendations at a special meeting March 3.

East Carolina College's Memorial Gymnasium will be the site of the annual Northeastern Athletic Conference basketball tournament tonight, in what promises to be one of the most outstanding and exciting tournaments in several years. Seven teams will be in the running for the championship of the tournament with the regular season champions, the Kinston Red Devils, seeded as the number one team. The Greenville Phantoms are seeded second and Jacksonville's Cardinals are the number three seeded team.

Three trophies will be awarded Saturday night after the championship game. They will go to the winner of the tournament, the runner-up, and to the winner of the consolation bracket. Also, after the championship game, medals will be given to those players making the all-tournament team, as picked by the coaches.

Outstanding Individuals
The battle for the all-tournament honors should prove to be a quite interesting battle. Only one player is back from last season's all-tournament squad. That player is George Sideris, a 5-8 veteran playmaker of the Greenville Phantoms. Sideris will be one of the leading candidates for a guard position in this year's tourney.

Other outstanding performers from the seven schools are Bob Howell and Harold Edwards of Greenville, George Whitfield and Buddy Potter of Kinston, Robert Vick and Slip Edmondson of Roanoke Rapids, Robert Kennell of New Bern, Bob Burkhardt of Jacksonville, and Charlie Bishop of Washington. That makes ten stars battling for the five positions on the all-tournament team.

Opening Games
Jacksonville and Elizabeth City start the '54 tourney going tonight at 6:30. Jacksonville has downed the Yellow Jackets twice in regular season play this year, and Coach Lou Savini's squad is confident of making it number three tonight.

The Greenville-Roanoke Rapids game follows at eight o'clock in a battle of high-scoring teams. The last time these two teams got hooked up in a scoring match, the G-men outshot the Yellow Jackets 103-70 in the tiny Greenville gym. On the much larger ECC court, there is little chance of their being quite as much scoring as before.

In the final encounter of the evening, the Washington Farm Pack and the New Bern Bears will tangle in what could prove to be the most exciting game of the evening.

Reporter Turns Prognosticator
Although he knows better, this reporter is going to climb way out on a limb and attempt to predict the outcome of the first round of play.

While searching back through old records, this reporter has come up a formula which seems almost foolproof. Formula Z-3 1-4, as we have named our discovery, has never let us down as yet (mainly because we have not used it.) We will now apply the formula to the Greenville-Roanoke Rapids game. First, we multiply the number of games in the tournament (8) by the number of seeding the team has (2). We add the product (6) with that of the number of the team's high scorer (the seven on Bob Howell's jersey) and get the total of 13. Then we subtract the number of games the team won in the season (14). Thus, we come out with the figure 22, and that is how much Greenville will beat Roanoke Rapids tonight. By the same method, we predict Jacksonville over Elizabeth City by four points and Washington over New Bern by two points.

Four Squads Up For NAIA Play

Four teams have moved into solid contention for places in the District 26 N.A.I.A. basketball tournament which opens in Memorial Gymnasium next Tuesday.

East Carolina has already clinched one of the bids for the four-team, two-day tournament. The Pirates finished their season in North State Conference play with a 15-1 record and automatically became one of the North State Conference's representatives.

Lenoir-Rhyne, the number two team in the North State with a 13-3 record, stand to be one of the other North Carolina teams in the tournament.

Erskine and Presbyterian, both South Carolina's Little Five. Pres-high in the opinions of the selecting committee. Erskine was defeated only by Belmont Abbey in the regular season and they went undefeated in five conference contests in South Carolina's Little Five. Presbyterian wound up with a 7-2 record in the same conference.

No official announcements about the tournament teams will be made until the North State Conference tournament is over Saturday night, according to Francis Hoover of Appalachian State Teachers College. Hoover is the district chairman for the N.A.I.A.

East Carolina, Elon, High Point, and Erskine were teams in the district tournament last year. Elon and Erskine were eliminated in the first round and East Carolina defeated High Point in the finals to represent the district in the national finals in the national tournament at Kansas City. The Pirates lost in the first round of the national finals in the national tournament.

Tickets for the tournament have already gone on sale with members of the Rotary Club, the sponsoring organization directing. Tickets can be obtained from members of the Rotary, ECC's Varsity Club, and Sigma Rho Phi fraternity members. Single night admissions will be $1.50. Season tickets will be $2.50.

Ezzard Fights Traditional Jinx In His Marciano Bout

By MURRAY ROSE
NEW YORK (AP)—Ezzard Charles will make a second try to shatter the ancient boxing legend that "they don't come back" when he faces heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano in a 15-round title fight at Yankee Stadium June 17.

No former heavyweight ruler ever has been able to regain the crown and some of the best of them have tried, including Charles. Gentleman Jim Corbett was the only ex-champ to get two chances and he was flattened both times by burly Jim Jeffries.

"Then I guess it's up to Ezzard to break the record," said Tom Tannas, co-manager of the 32-year-old Cincinnati Negro, after the match was closed yesterday at the International Boxing Club.

"We're happy now that Ezzard was passed up by Marciano last September and that Roland LaStarza got the match instead," said Tannas. "Ezzard is much better now than he was last September."

"He didn't have confidence then. Those two knockouts over Coley Wallace and Bob Satterfield have boosted his confidence. He's very determined to get the title back and is in a far better frame of mind. All I'm hoping is that he has an "on" night on June 17. Then we'll get the title again."

Marciano will collect 40 per cent of all receipts while Charles will receive 30 per cent under the terms arranged by President Jim Norris of the IBC, Tannas and Al Weil, manager of Marciano.

"It should gross about $500,000 or $600,000 at the gate," said Norris. Well said the figure was "conservative and should do a couple of hundred thousand more."

Norris said it has not been decided yet whether to show the fight on home television or to beam it to theaters but it looks like parlor fans are going to be out of luck. Theater-TV figures to get the prize.

The 29-year-old Marciano will put his crown on the block nine months after stowing LaStarza away in 11 rounds. He always has been at his worst after long layoffs. To make up for that he'll start serious training April 1 at the Grossinger, N.Y., country club, where he already is camped. Charles will start drilling four or five weeks before the fight, Tannas said.

The jinx Charles faces is almost as old as the history of modern boxing. In addition to Charles and Corbett, Jeffries, Bob Fitzsimmons, Jack Dempsey, Joe Louis and Jersey Joe Walcott all failed in efforts to get back the title.

Decide Today On Staying In Loop

NEWTON, N. C. (AP)—Backers of Newton-Conover's entry in the Class D Tar Heel League may reach a decision today as to whether they have enough money to field a club this season.

Eddie Yount of Newton said the group of businessmen backing the club will meet today in an effort to raise $2,100, the club's filing fee to the league.

Newton-Conover announced last Sunday it would attempt to field a club this year to round out the league already composed of Hickory, Mooresville, Rutherford County, Marion and Shelby.

However one hitch was that the Newton-Conover franchise was left in debt when it was last operated. A minor league rule is that such debts must be paid or the territory can not be operated for five years. League President Walter Woodson Jr. said he planned to ask Minor League President George Trautman to waive the rule for Newton-Conover.

Yount said businessmen interested in the club met Tuesday and figured that the club could expect to lose about $12,000 this season. He said the figure was reached after balancing gate receipts, concessions and advertising against operating expenses.

Hearing Set On Bratton Showing Against Saxton

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Johnny Saxton, 23-year-old New York welterweight, won a unanimous 10-round verdict over Johnny Bratton at the Arena here last night, in a nationally-televised bout, but Bratton's purse was withheld because of a lack-luster performance.

Saxton weighed 148½ and Bratton 150.

The Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission ordered a hearing today for Bratton his manager and his handlers. Commissioner George Jones said the action was prompted by his observations from ringside and the obvious distress of the crowd over Bratton's performance.

Saxton certainly tried to make a fight with the 26-year-old Bratton, a veteran of 10 years in the professional ring. But Bratton obviously wasn't interested. The Chicago fighter held, clinched, backpedaled and made no effort to counterpunch.

The 6,838 fans who paid $27,369 to see the bout booed throughout. They tossed papers and chairs and anything else they could get their hands on into the ring. It was quite obvious that most of them wished they had stayed home out of the rain and watched the fight over television. At least they could have turned it off and gone to bed.

The two judges and the referee, as well as the Associated Press, carded identical scores, nine rounds for Saxton and one for Bratton—the third. Bratton did all of his fighting in the third. He stepped back and caught Saxton flush in the face with a right hand that stunned the New Yorker. Saxton appeared ready for the kill, but Bratton's knockout efforts were thwarted.

Bratton went back into his shell in the fourth round and never came out of it as he suffered his 22nd defeat against 49 wins and three draws. Saxton won his 44th. He has lost two and had one draw.

Former major league players scouting for the Chicago White Sox include Johnny Mostil, Hugh Mulcahy, Fred Schulte, Zack Taylor and Hollis Thurston.

Detroit Is Building Up Another Stellar Outfield; Rookie Is Key

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
The Detroit Tigers, who for years boasted some of the American League's finest outfield trios, today were making plans to reassemble another outfield—with a 24-year-old rookie the key man.

The center of the new setup planned by Manager Freddie Hutchinson is Bill Tuttle, a speedy flycatcher from Elmwood, Ill.

He batted only .276 with Buffalo last season, but he hit 11 homers, drove in 75 runs and was regarded as one of the best defensive outfielders in the minor leagues.

"If Tuttle can prove to us he can hit the kind of pitching we'll face in spring training," Hutchinson said, "we'll make room for him. We sure could use his speed and defensive skills."

Hutchinson indicated that should Tuttle make the grade he would put him in center field and move Jim Delsing to either right or left field.

Besides this pair, he has Don Lund, Bob Nieman, Steven Sou-

NCAA Tourney To Begin On March 8

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The National Collegiate Athletic Assn.'s rugged 24-team basketball tournament starts in Buffalo, N.Y., March 8.

The NCAA Tournament Committee, through its chairman, A. C. (Dutch) Lönberg of Kansas University, said today the Buffalo Auditorium would be the site of a first round doubleheader matching Navy and the New England Conference titlist, and Fordham and La Salle, the Middle Atlantic Coast winner.

The next day first round play is scheduled at Fort Wayne, Ind., and Raleigh, N. C., in the eastern bracket and Peoria, Ill., and Corvallis, Ore., in the western bracket.

At Fort Wayne, Notre Dame's sixth-ranking Irish will take on Loyola of New Orleans, a first-timer in the NCAA playoffs, and Toledo will play a yet-to-be-named at large team.

At Raleigh the new Atlantic Coast Conference champion and the Southern Conference winner will meet.

Santa Clara University and Loyola were named as at-large entries yesterday.

Compromise For Scoring Contest

STUART, Neb. (AP)—There was a certain logic to the confusion that prevailed after a benefit volleyball game here sponsored by the merchants of Stuart and Newport for the March of Dimes.

The scorekeeper from Stuart had her team winning by two points. The Newport scorekeeper had her team winning by two points.

The woman operating the scoreboard listed it as a tie.

Pack Now Undisputed Holder Of Fourth Place

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
North Carolina State held undisputed fourth place in the Atlantic Coast Conference today after caggy Coach Everett Case apparently pulled the old switcheroo on North Carolina last night.

The Wolfpack defeated the Tar Heels, 57-48 before 10,000 bored fans in Reynolds Coliseum. In the first meeting of the two at Chapel Hill, State won, 84-77.

State is a fast breaking team that often uses a full court press. North Carolina, coached by Frank McGuire, has utilized the slow-up, or possession game most of the season. As a result of their first game, when both played their usual style, McGuire charged Case with "alleycat" basketball because of the number of fouls called.

But it was a different story last night. After a speedy first half the Wolfpack slowed things down to a slow snail's pace in the second half. The Tar Heels, playing a zone, wouldn't come out of it while the Pack played possession and held the ball.

This resulted in State scoring 18 points in the final half and North Carolina 14. The Tar Heels set some sort of a record in a conference known for its high scoring, collecting only four points in the last quarter.

The win gave State a 5-3 conference record and an overall mark of 20-4. The loss left UNC in fifth with a 5-6 league mark and a 10-9 overall record.

Duke clinched the top spot in the conference, defeating South Carolina Tuesday. Since the fourth and fifth place teams meet in the ACC tournament in Raleigh next week, State and North Carolina will have a go at each other again in an opening round game. The tournament decides the official conference champion.

Cameramen Win Bobsled Event

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland (AP)—A Cinerama camera and its crew "unofficially" won a bobsled race here.

Producer Louis de Rochemont wanted to get an "audience-eye" view of this thrilling winter sport for a sequence in "Cinerama Holiday." So he placed the huge 400-pound camera and its crew on a special sled.

The camera and crew of four made the run in 1:25.3 which was six-tenths of a second better than the actual winners, the Swiss team of Angst and Hug.

ACC Swimming Meet Tonight

RALEIGH (AP)—Sophomore Fred Ruppenthal of North Carolina State is favored to win the 1,500-meter race tonight in the opening event of the first annual Atlantic Coast Conference swimming meet.

Other leading contenders include Larry Shannon and Tommy Gill of the University of North Carolina. Ruppenthal was runner-up last year in the Southern Conference 1,500-meter race won by N. C. State's Frank Naus.

More than 90 entries representing six schools will compete for 13 individual titles during the three-day meet in Frank Thompson Gymnasium. Teams entered include undefeated N. C. State, which has won the conference team title, North Carolina, Duke, South Carolina, Clemson and Virginia.

Six events will be held tomorrow and six Saturday. Time trials will be run off tomorrow morning in the 50-yard freestyle, 220-yard freestyle, 200-yard backstroke, 200-yard breaststroke, 1-meter diving, and 400-yard freestyle relay. The finals in these events will be held tomorrow night.

Leading contenders in the 50-yard freestyle include N. C. State's Don Sonia, Duke's Ron Walskie, North Carolina's Dick Baker and South Carolina's Will Middleton.

Detroit Is Building Up Another Stellar Outfield; Rookie Is Key

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
The Detroit Tigers, who for years boasted some of the American League's finest outfield trios, today were making plans to reassemble another outfield—with a 24-year-old rookie the key man.

The center of the new setup planned by Manager Freddie Hutchinson is Bill Tuttle, a speedy flycatcher from Elmwood, Ill.

He batted only .276 with Buffalo last season, but he hit 11 homers, drove in 75 runs and was regarded as one of the best defensive outfielders in the minor leagues.

"If Tuttle can prove to us he can hit the kind of pitching we'll face in spring training," Hutchinson said, "we'll make room for him. We sure could use his speed and defensive skills."

Hutchinson indicated that should Tuttle make the grade he would put him in center field and move Jim Delsing to either right or left field.

Besides this pair, he has Don Lund, Bob Nieman, Steven Sou-

Ford And General Motors Warn Dealers Against 'Bootlegging'

DETROIT (AP)—Henry Ford II, president of the Ford Motor Co., and Harlow H. Curtice, president of General Motors Corp., have warned their dealers throughout the nation against the practice of automobile "bootlegging."

Both Ford and Curtice broadly hinted yesterday in letters to their new car dealers that if the practice continues to grow some dealers stand a good chance of losing their franchise.

(Bootlegging is the wholesaling by franchised dealers of new cars to used car retailers who sell them at less than list price.)

Protests filed by franchised dealers to the manufacturers to put a halt to bootlegging.

Charles C. Freed, NADA executive, and Frederick J. Bell, executive vice president, have been in Detroit conferring with top auto executives on proposals for stopping the practice.

Ford, in his letter to Ford and Lincoln-Mercury dealers, listed five elements about bootlegging which he said hurt the dealer himself:

1. Losing direct contact with the ultimate user of the car.
2. Losing the opportunity to service the new car owner and build him into a long-time buyer.
3. Running the risk of having his product appear as "distress merchandise."
4. Undermining the basic principles of new car distribution.
5. Making it less likely for the customer to receive full benefit of his warranty and additional services.

Curtice appealed to the dealers to "cooperate with General Motors in preserving the most valued franchise in the industry." At the same time he advised them GM will continue to review their performance in carrying out their obligations under the selling agreements with General Motors.

Curtice described car bootlegging as "a malignancy which, if it is not stopped, will eat away the very vitals of your business and ours."

Some dealers, encountering competition from used car dealers with new cars to sell, have complained of overproduction and maldistribution of new cars. These, Curtice wrote, were not factors in the situation.

"In fact," he said, "1954 models of General Motors cars were in the 'bootleg' market before there was sufficient production to supply our dealers with the necessary stock for display and sales purposes."

"Even now some models in short supply because of limited production are being 'bootlegged.'"

"Under these circumstances, there can be only one reason for this practice—the selfish desire on the part of some dealers for a quick nominal profit at the expense of the customer, the public, the dealer organization, and the manufacturer."

Learns Identity After 9 Years

MODENA, Italy (AP)—In 1945 police found a forlorn elderly man sitting on a park bench. He didn't know who he was or where he came from.

In a hospital for nine years he was known as Signor X Y.

Now a man named X Y was enough of an oddity to be news when his designation turned up on the census rolls, so his picture was circulated in the Associated Press newsphoto service to Italian newspapers.

Yesterday 29-year-old Mario Mer-curi dashed into the hospital waving a Rome newspaper with the picture and shouted:

"He's my uncle. His name is Giuseppe Rizzi. Where is he?"

Signor X Y was brought out and his dull eyes lit up suddenly. He rushed into his nephew's arms. A doctor said the shock of the meeting started him back on the road to remembering.

Mercuri said the German army in 1944 put his uncle to work and a tree fell on him. He was sent to a hospital and vanished—until he turned up recently as Signor X Y.

The Doctor Disagrees

CHAPTER TWENTY-TWO
REVEREND PREWITT moved to a chair beside her and for nearly an hour they talked of the items listed in Craig's call book. "I think," he said, "that this is a matter for the law."

She was startled, and his smile reassured her. "Any depriving Craig of his license to practice would be done by the court," he said quietly. "I'm not the soldier your Stephen is, but I've heard rumors that offense is any fighter's best defense."

So he and Shelly went to see the magistrate, who immediately produced a suggestion for a court action.

Shelly thought Craig should be warned, and, with snowflakes glistening on her hair, back she went to see him.

"If," she said walking briskly into the room where he sat up in a chair by the window "a person dies of coronary thrombosis, would it show in an autopsy?"

"Yes," he answered quickly. Then he squinted his dark eyes at her. "What have you got in your bonnet now?"

She hung her fur coat on a hanger in the small closet, and drew a straight-backed chair close to the one where he sat. "You're looking better," she said critically. "The turban bandage wasn't too becoming."

He snorted. "I don't think they're designed with my peculiar style in mind. Now! What about that bee?"

Shelly opened the small brief case which she had brought with her. "Let me do the talking," she demanded, "this time."

And this time Craig let her. When she was entirely finished, and had zipped up the leather case again, he sat regarding her. "Why do you do all this, Shelly?" he asked.

She laughed a little, and her cheeks were prettily pink. "Because I like you," she said so impulsively that he had to believe her.

But anger rolled blackly into his face, and clenched the strong fingers upon the chair arm.

"Don't you want me to like you, Craig?" she asked softly.

His eyes flashed jet sparks. "I don't want to like you!" he said bluntly and turned away from the sight of her.

"Oh, Craig," she teased, "what a thing to say! Why don't you want to like me?"

"Because you're an expensive doll. Too expensive for my tastes."

"And you don't like dolls."

He glanced at her, briefly, not at her face, but at the skirt of her tweed suit, at her hand and arm, and shoulder. "I can't afford to like dolls," he said gruffly. "Either to spend the money, or the time."

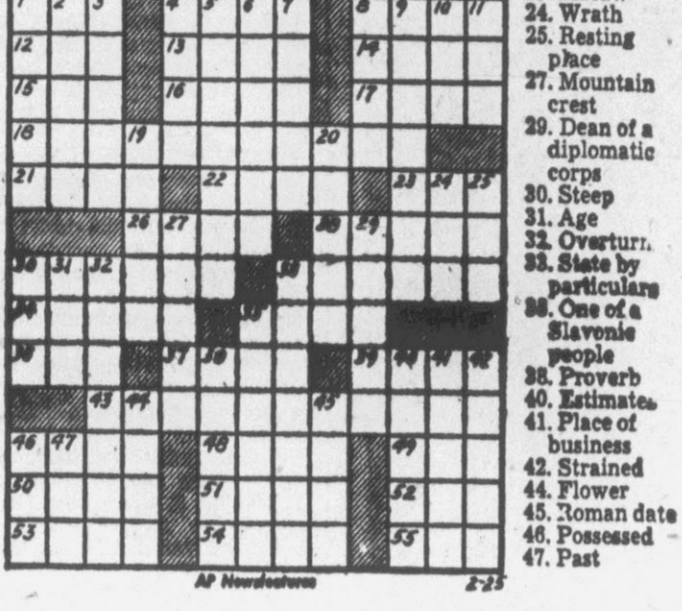

Shelly was sorely tempted to mention Eleanor. She did not. Maybe he didn't think Eleanor was a "doll." But why, then, did he think . . . She could ask that question. "What makes you think I'm a doll, expensive or otherwise?"

"If you were not a doll," he said roughly, "you'd know the answer. You're pretty, you're soft and delicate; every feature in your face, every gesture you make and, yes, every soft, pretty word you say. You're a beautifully fashioned doll, Shelly, and an expensive one, but you're a doll of the sort I can't afford. I found that out when I was doing pre-med, and was beguiled by a girl in one of the Long Island finishing schools. She bewitched me, she entranced me—it was wonderful to be with her. And because of her I darn near flunked out that year, which would have lost me my scholarship and finished my education right then and there. I'm not the fool to need to be taught the same hard lesson twice."

He risked a glance at her. Shelly was not angry, not hurt. She just sat and waited for him to finish.

But after a silence . . . "Craig," she said gently, "you fancy yourself as a judge of character, I imagine."

"You're not going to tell me I'm wrong?" Now he watched her face closely.

"I'm going to try. Because I'm sure you've decided that I too went to Miss Bennett's and all that—that I had training in how to be charming, a debut in frosty tulle . . ."

"You didn't?"

"I didn't. I had a year at Mary institute in St. Louis—a year paid for by great sacrifice on the part of my mother and me. But the rest of my education was got in the public grade schools and high school. I had a debut of a sort. An old friend of my mother's gave a lovely luncheon in my honor at the Woman's club. It put me on the debutante list, and that year I was invited to all the big parties. I was asked to be a V.P. maid, too because the family happened to be a . . . old one in the city, and money doesn't always outweigh birth—which seemed a good thing, because we were poor. Very poor, Craig. We had social standing, and an old, old name, some connections with people who had money—but nothing else."

"My mother fed the two of us by arranging parties for other people; she dressed me by making over the castoffs of the girls you knew at the Long Island schools. My father, you see, died six weeks after I was born of an infection he'd got fighting in the First World War. There was the tiniest pension—and there was pride. But not much else. We'd have been better off without the pride. Then mother could have gone out and really worked for a living, and I could have been trained to earn mine."

"Instead, there must be the pretense of social standing, of a debut and the fearful hope that, as pretty as I was, I'd make a good marriage. I could have made such a marriage. Twice I had proposals from men whose fathers had a million dollars more or less. But there was something in me that kept me from marrying a rich boy who, at eighteen, already was on the road to alcoholism, or a man of twenty-nine who already had been divorced by two other girls."

"Mother thought that I was wrong, both times. She had put so much into me; she'd given me music lessons, and the charm-training which you despise; she'd labored for me, and worried, to the point that she had a stroke on my twenty-first birthday. She didn't die, but she might as well have died."

"Then I had to let those connections I spoke of help. They paid the first medical bills, and offered me home. I had to accept, though I cast about for ways to earn my living, at least. The pension helped with mother's care."

She sat thoughtful for a minute. Craig said nothing but his dark eyes glowed in the room which was becoming shadowy in the late afternoon.

Finally, Shelly looked up with a smile. "I made one very big error at earning my living," she said softly. "I didn't have much to work on. I couldn't spell—I decided that I might be a sales clerk—and I did have a pretty singing voice. A time or two I'd appeared in Junior League things. You know how they tell an amateur that she's good enough for professional appearances?"

"Well, I put that opinion to the test. I went to a man at one of the swank night clubs, and asked him for an engagement. I don't know why—maybe he had an unexpected cancellation—but he agreed to my singing there for a week. He had some glamorous pictures made, and there was a good deal of newspaper publicity about the society singer he'd engaged.

"It paid off. My friends rallied round—and it seemed as if I might be a success at earning my living. For a week, anyway."

"Didn't you get other engagements?" Shelly laughed. "No. As it happened, I didn't need to. Because on one of the first nights of that week, Stephen Carr happened to come to the club, and he—well—he came again. The second night he asked to meet me. We saw each other every day, then—all day. And the next week we were married."

"And that's how you earned your living," said Craig gruffly. "Very nice earning, too, I'll say."

Shelly stood up. "I married Stephen," she said gently, "because I loved him."

He had her coat in his hands before she could reach it. "I apologize Shelly," he said from behind her shoulders. "That was an unforgivable thing to say."

She laughed a little. "We both married under false pretenses," she told him gaily. "Stephen thought I really was a society girl. I thought he was a country doctor. But it worked out all right, because when we each found out the truth we still loved each other."

"I double my apology," said

Craig soberly. "And about that other thing, too. I'm glad you do like me, Shelly. Very glad."

"Do you withdraw the 'doll'?" "Oh, no!" he said, following her to the door. "You're a doll, all right. But afford it or not, I find myself bound to like you."

She sat thoughtful for a minute. Craig said nothing but his dark eyes glowed in the room which was becoming shadowy in the late afternoon.

Finally, Shelly looked up with a smile. "I made one very big error at earning my living," she said softly. "I didn't have much to work on. I couldn't spell—I decided that I might be a sales clerk—and I did have a pretty singing voice. A time or two I'd appeared in Junior League things. You know how they tell an amateur that she's good enough for professional appearances?"

"Well, I put that opinion to the test. I went to a man at one of the swank night clubs, and asked him for an engagement. I don't know

Old Incentive System 'Discovered' In Soviet

By TOM WHITNEY
AP Foreign News Staff
The Kremlin's deep-domed think-ers are claiming an ideological discovery: the principle of "material self-interest" or "material incentive."

It amounts to this: to get people to produce more you must pay them more. Adam Smith discovered much the same thing back in the 18th century—but the resemblance presumably is purely coincidental.

The new wrinkle in Communist philosophy is being pushed intensely as the answer to Soviet economic problems in keynote speeches delivered in Moscow to the party faithful and also in articles in Moscow's bible of Red theory, the magazine Kommunist.

The most interesting thing about the Kremlin's espousal of "material incentive" is not its actual use in the Russian economy but its current elevation to the status of Marxian dogma.

The Moscow Communists actually abandoned long ago the principle of equal shares and pay for all. They introduced piece rates and progressive piece rates, with all the features of speedup systems, in both industry and farming in the early 1930s. But they were always shamefaced about admitting it. They weasel-worded, hemmed and hawed when pinned down.

Now they've come out more into the open. Kommunist has published an article entitled "The Principle of Material Incentive—The Lever of a Mighty Advance of Agriculture." Dealing solely with the necessity of developing keener material self-interest among Soviet farmers it declares:

"Personal material self-interest as a result of one's own labor raises production to a higher level."

The secretary of the Communist party's Central Committee, Peter Pospelov, speaking on the anniversary of Lenin's death Jan. 21, proclaimed:

"Lenin taught that tens and tens of millions of people can be brought to communism only on the condition that the enthusiasm of the masses of the people, born from the great revolution, is combined with the principle of personal incentive, personal interest and economic consideration."

He then went on to advocate the "principle of material self-interest."

The reason for the 1954 stressing of the principle of self-interest is fairly plain.

Trying to get farmers and workers to produce more in a short time, the Malenkov regime has been forced to promise—officially—more incentives and rewards. It is holding out to the Russian people the hope of a more rapidly improved standard of living.

Whether the incentives being offered are sufficient to attain their purpose is another question. Russians have had previous experience with unfulfilled promises of their leaders.

CATCH WAS MISTAKE

YAKIMA (AP)—Jerry Miller, almost 11, and his brother, Donald E. Miller Jr., 12, were playing catch with a yellow-headed thumb-tack. Just as Donald tossed the tack, Jerry laughed. The tack smacked into Jerry's mouth, stuck in his throat. He had to have a doctor take it out.

Fewer Divorces If Ladies Knew Finance

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

If more American husbands would teach their wives the ABCs of finance, there would be fewer divorces, in the opinion of Margaret E. Kennedy, one of the few women in the country in active partnership in a New York Stock Exchange member firm.

"I'm constantly amazed," says this pink-cheeked petticoat tycoon "at the number of otherwise intelligent, capable women who haven't the faintest idea where the family money comes from, how much there is of it, or what they would do if their husbands suddenly dropped dead."

Mrs. Kennedy, a young and feminine-looking widow and mother of two children, has established many financial "firsts" for women. She was the first woman account executive of the investment counsel firm of Van Strum and Towne, first woman to be appointed a vice president of a large mutual fund sponsor and several years ago became the first woman wholesaler of mutual funds in the country when she formed her own firm, Margaret Kennedy Co. Last year she was admitted as an active general partner in the Stock Exchange member firm of Seligman Lubetkin and Co.

A specialist in finance management, she makes frequent lecture tours around the country explaining her "woman's dollar" program. She explains:

"This all came about when I realized the awful paradox that, although women spend most of the family money they often know little about the family's future planning, and aren't hep to the best ways of investing for the future."

She says: "There are too many men who say to their wives—'Go ahead and buy what you want; I'll pay for it.' Often the wives have no idea how much the family can afford to spend, whether their husbands have unlimited funds or whether they are on the edge of bankruptcy."

"There was, for instance, the case of the wife of a client of our firm who called frantically on Christmas Eve to say that her husband had just had a heart attack and was in the hospital. Although there was a $5,000 diamond bracelet under the Christmas tree for her from her husband, she didn't know whether the family had money enough for the hospital bill. When her husband's firm reassured her, she still was worried. "But as soon as the husband recovered, do you think he explained anything to her about their finances? No indeed. He just said—'Now don't you worry, honey, I'll take care of everything.'"

"That's the trouble with American husbands. By being too protective, they are making financial morons out of their wives. Under such circumstances, who can blame the wife who spends money faster than her husband can make it? She just doesn't know any better."

Red Oak News

There will be a weiner roast for the young people of Red Oak community Saturday night at the club building. Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Eason are giving this and they would like for all the young people to be present. They will also have charge of the recreation period from 7:00 until 9:00. This "fun night" is being sponsored by the Christian Men's Fellowship. Two shuffle boards, ping-pong tables, parchesi and Chinese checkers have been placed there for the young people's enjoyment and we sincerely hope that they will show their appreciation by attending.

Twelve members and three visitors attended the February meeting of Circle No. 1 of the Christian Woman's Fellowship held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Manning Sr. last Sunday evening.

Mrs. L. W. Edwards, chairman, presided and Mrs. James Allen gave the program which was a study of our foreign mission fields. Rev. Harold Tyler led in prayer. A little contest was enjoyed at the close of the program.

Mrs. Ois Kittrell gave a report on our adopted orphan, Frankie Parker. The Chi-Rho Fellowship has joined Circle No. 1 in this project and already he has been remembered with many Valentines and a Valentine box of candy.

Mrs. Manning served a delicious plate of ribbon sandwiches, cookies, salted pecans and iced drinks as refreshments.

Our March meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Mary Smith.

Collective Farms In Red China Are Having Troubles

TOKYO (AP)—Red China of late has given rather strong inklings that all is not well with the massive effort to change over millions of peasant farmers into collectivized communist groups. Recent Peiping broadcasts have said in so many words that many of the farmers just naturally prefer to work and sell on their own for private profit.

The broadcasts also speak of: Poor leadership; antiquated farming methods; inability to get over the communist idea because the masses are uneducated; hostility of "middle peasants" who have experienced the role of "private owner"; peasant dislike of force; the necessity of making "low interest loans" and offering other government inducement; a tendency toward corruption in distributing the earnings under a collectivized system.

Indochina War In Eighth Year, And People Of Hanoi Are Used To It Now

Editor's Note—The world's No. 1 war as of now, is in Indochina, an area a little larger than Texas. It is in its eighth year with no decision in sight despite the outpouring of thousands of lives and millions of dollars worth of U.S. arms. It revolves around the issue of communism, but it is more than that.

What is the background of this perplexing war, due to be discussed at the Geneva conference in April? The AP staff in the area tells the story in three articles to appear this week. This is the first.

By OLEN CLEMENTS and MAX CLOS

HANOI, Indochina (AP)—Every night church bells beckon the faithful in misty old Hanoi. Heavy guns rumble on the city's outskirts. The devout go to worship. The others—French, German, Arab, Moroccan and Vietnamese soldiers and civilians—flock to the cafes, the tea houses, the taxi dancehalls.

The Indochina war is in its eighth year and the people in Hanoi are used to it. This city is a center of the French Union forces including French colonial soldiers, the heavily German Foreign Legion and Vietnamese troops that can call this land their own. They are at war with forces which are led by a Communist but backed by many non-Communists. These forces are known as the Vietminh. Some civilians say there are so many Vietminh sympathizers in Hanoi that Moscow-trained Ho Chi Minh would never attack the city—he would endanger too many of his friends.

Just now a sort of red haze blows down through the river delta and from Communist China, 90 miles to the north. Millions of mosquitoes buzz in and out of the separate night clubs of the Arabs, the German Legionnaires, the French and the Vietnamese.

French Union troops patrol the countryside and fight along the wet roads.

A thousand miles to the south is hot Saigon, where shops display Paris fashions and good food abounds. It, too, is under control of the French Union forces. All through that southern area watchtowers manned by four to six men keep an eye on roads that may be mined.

The civil population is more or less indifferent. Vietnamese and Chinese carpenters work all day building hundreds of new homes and apartments for people who apparently never give a thought to the war or to the prospect that artillery or planes might knock down some of these new buildings some day.

The indifference to the war has created a grotesque riddle for all of Southeast Asia—Indochina, Ma-lays, Burma, Thailand and Indonesia. The indifference and weariness of the war extend to many places in Viet Nam, and the associated kingdoms of Laos and Cambodia.

Many now believe a military victory by either side is an impossibility unless far more troops and supplies are poured into the fight. They hope the Big Five conference in Geneva in April and the conference of prime ministers of Southern Asia in Ceylon in May will help to solve the riddle.

Gen. Henri Navarre, commander in chief of French Union forces, says:

"We have here a politico-military war. It is only when the Vietnamese government will have won the approval of the population that a victory will be possible." Since 1949 chief of state Bao Dai has been trying to set up a national front—without success. Probably almost half of the 12 million Vietnamese living in the zone controlled by Bao Dai's government are directly aiding the Vietminh or indirectly supporting them out of sympathy for Ho Chi Minh. But only a fraction of the population is really Communist. Most are just anti-French. Many are anti-Communist.

The nationalists who for five years have been refusing to support Bao Dai effectively, give two reasons:

1. Bao Dai has not obtained independence for Viet Nam. The ex-Emperor signed a 1949 treaty with France which gave his country semi-independence within the framework of the French Union, but France retained actual political control.

2. The nationalists are critical of the system of personal power established by Bao Dai and of the corruption of his regime. The 40-year-old ex-Emperor holds all the executive and legislative powers.

The new government formed in January by Prince Buu Loc, persuaded Bao Dai to announce a program seeking to give satisfaction to the nationalists' aspirations. Buu Loc has promised general elections for a national assembly "within as short a time as possible." He also has demanded total independence from France to be guaranteed by the United Nations and has denounced the 1949 treaty. The new Premier and members of his Cabinet are to go to France at the end of this month to negotiate a "treaty of association to establish a union between two partners equal in rights and duties."

Two factors menace the program. To gain Vietnamese approval, Bao Dai must take a firm attitude toward France.

But until Viet Nam's fledgling army is a great deal bigger and better trained, French forces are still the only protection against the FREE-WHEELING TOURIST—Seppi Winterhalter passes Colosseum in Rome, Italy, after 1,000-mile trip across Alps from Innsbruck, Austria, on his grandfather's bike.

Vietminh, and Bao Dai cannot remain in power without them.

He must take care to avoid risking a bad reaction from the French public which seemingly has begun to doubt that there is any point in pushing the war against the Vietminh. It thinks France is going to be pushed out even in case of victory by the nationalists.

If Buu Loc is too adamant in the Paris conference, the French may demand an immediate end of the war. Foreseeing such a possibility, Buu Loc has given assurance that Viet Nam will not nationalize any French properties and will give France important economic privileges.

Vietnamese leaders believe that within two or three years it will be possible to create a united nationalist front capable of effectively opposing the Vietminh. They question whether any peace or armistice ought to be accepted earlier.

Meantime, there is an Alice in Wonderland aspect to the situation. The forces on both sides cannot go anywhere militarily because it takes all their strength to stay where they are.

They Profited By Celebration

NUEVO LAREDO Mex. (AP)—Washington Birthday celebration statistics from this Mexican border town:

Officials said 100,000 persons in 30,000 automobiles crossed the Rio Grande from the United States on Monday—and bought 60,000 bottles of whisky. It's cheaper in Mexico.

BIGGER LICENSES HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—Automobile license numbers are getting bigger in Connecticut. Four digits used in combination with letters did the trick until recently. All possible combinations have been exhausted, however, and the state has had to go to five digits.

In the past eight years, the United States has gained more than 20 million in population.

Language Of Old West In Common Use Today

By MURRAY SINCLAIR
AP Newsfeatures.
TUCSON, Ariz. —Many people earmark things, and talk turkey. You probably have said "it's a cinch" when you knew you could do something. And if something is hairy you know it is out of order.

Whenever you use these expressions, you are using the language of the old west. Ranchers, cowpokes and prospectors took ordinary words, mixed them around a bit, and came forth with sayings that fill our speech to such an extent that we sometimes forget their original meaning. Dr. George D. Hendricks, a professor at North Texas State College at Denton, Tex., has been gathering metaphors of the ranch country, checking their source, and seeing how widely they are used today. He is convinced the western expressions are here to stay. The more than 700 expressions he has collected formed the basis of a paper he delivered recently. "The first things to be earmarked were cattle," he says. "Everybody knows what it means to horn in, to pass the buck, to keep an ear to the ground, get down to bed rock or to camp on someone's trail. We all regret when things don't pan out and we have to pull up stakes.

"Such things are here to stay. And they all came from the West. Every cowboy knows what a four-flusher is. So do most city folk. Of a self-important person the cowboy says, 'He figgers he can spit twice and stop a drought.' The rancher shows respect for the venerable man with wrinkles in his horns. A man who can mix the medicine has the ability to cope with any situation. A man who means business talks turkey. A man with courage knows how to die standing up.

Perhaps the greatest compliment any cowboy ever gave a man was 'He'll do ride the river with.' The phrase refers to his ability to ride with the herd across a swollen, treacherous river. "The whole gamut of human emotions is expressible in cow country metaphor," Hendricks explained. "If the cowboy is disgusted, he's looking for a dog to kick. If he is humiliated, he's eating drag dust,—being assigned to the most humiliating trail job of dragging behind the herd. "If he is angry, he's in a horn-tangling, sod-pawing mood. One way to calm him down is to say, 'Jest haul in yore neck, podner.' "If he is confused or non-plus-ed, he's got his spurs all tangled up. If he's exuberant, he's got his wolf loose. If he's downcast, he's wearing his chlu on his instep." To kill a man is to kick him into a funeral procession; to make him into wolf meat; to put him to bed with pick and shovel. "Heading for the Last Roundup" and "Empty Saddles in the Old Corral" are popular songs taken from authentic sayings. "A filly," says Dr. Hendricks, "is a young lady, but eithvalry would not permit the use of the word mare to designate a married woman. A respectable woman is a calico, sage hen or grouse. Two terms of affection for a wife were cow bunny and long-haired partner. "The puncher knows it is true love when he gets that coffee-grinder feeling in his gizzard. Then he'll cut a rusty (go courting), drop his rope on his filly (get engaged), and get hitched (married). Just as a clincher, Dr. Hendricks, asks "How many times a year do you use the term 'brand-ed'?"

Colonels Meet, Just Neighbors

FORDYCE, Ark. (A)—Col Fred O. Easley and Col. Jack Blythe struck up a conversation while visiting their Fordyce homes recently. They discovered for the first time that they live across the street from each other in Washington, D.C. where both are stationed. Karachi, capital of Pakistan boasted its population 400 per cent from 300,000 to 1,200,000 in five years, says the National Geographic Society.

Great-Grandma Likes To Travel

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP)—Great-grandma Pearl H. Doremus, 79-years-young, of Mountain Lakes, N.J., has finished another cross-country automobile trip. She said this jaunt, made solo from New Jersey to Santa Barbara raised her 40-year motoring log to 80,000 miles.

Petite and perky Mrs. Doremus came to visit her son at nearby Goleta. But this trip of 3000 miles was just routine. In 1922, she drove from the Jersey coast to the Dakota Territory, got lost in the woods, drove on until she reached the West coast. Then she turned around and drove home.

Her 1929 "voyage" by car was 16,000 miles long—New York to Canada, west to the Pacific, York—via New Orleans and Miami. A well remembered jaunt was the one from Laredo Tex., to Mexico City. On that trip she said she forded rivers, navigated along "more imagined than real" mountain roads. Her next excursion—back to New York via Florida. Unless she first skips up to Juneau on the Alaska-Canada Highway.

Identification Proven Correct

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)—Deputy Sheriff Thurman Jones boasts that he can spot a liquor car every time by its overloaded springs, oversize tires and powerful engine. But he admits he isn't so good at sizing up the drivers. He ordered one car to stop and the driver asked: "What do you want me for?" "This looks like a liquor car," Thurman replied. "It is," the driver admitted. He pulled out his federal agent's badge. "We picked it up and I'm taking it in."

Long-Lost Ring Given Up By Sea

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—The classified advertisement in The Evening Tribune read: "Edward Drake, I found your ring." Drake learned on inquiring that the ring he had lost 20 years ago in ocean surf had been found by Nancy Zachary, San Diego State College student. Inscribed inside the Masonic Lodge ring and still plainly legible was: "Edward Drake, 3-28-1928."

No Action Seen Soon On Atomic Information Plea

By RUSSELL BRINES
WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. W. Sterling Cole (R-N.Y.) said today it will be "quite some time"—probably over two months—before Congress can act on President Eisenhower's proposal to give this nation's allies more atomic defense information. Cole, chairman of the Senate-Atomic Energy Committee, said the group now is closely studying proposed legislation forwarded by the administration.

The President requested, in a special Feb. 17 message, authority to exchange with America's allies "such tactical information as is essential to the development of defense plans and to the training of personnel for atomic warfare." Cole said in an interview the committee would introduce a bill after it decides on a version it considers satisfactory. He added the committee measure might not be ready until mid-April. The committee is following the same procedure, he said on the President's second main proposal, to permit private industry to operate nuclear facilities and deal in fissionable material as a means of encouraging the development of private power from atomic energy. Committee members generally have expressed support for the President's program, but nearly all of them have stressed the complexity of legislation needed to carry it out. The problem in releasing more atomic information to Allied nations, they say, is to make sure loopholes are opened for espionage. A fence over 1,000 miles long has been built across Australia in an effort to control rabbits.

ONE WAY TO MOVE—A six-room house is towed through traffic in Oak Park, Ill., a suburb of Chicago, in a one-mile move by the owner after its site was purchased by a hotel.

Will Ask Law To Forbid Leering

MILFORD, Mass. (AP)—Police Chief William F. Fitzpatrick is going to ask the March 10 town meeting to ban "leering" at people in automobiles. His proposed town ordinance would prohibit "peeping into the windows of a house, (or) automobile . . . or spying upon or leering at any person or persons in said house or automobile."

Vapors from an onion will not cause tears to flow; the tears being caused only when the pressure of cutting squirts tiny liquid droplets into the eyes.

Information Leaks Are Aiding Sen. McCarthy

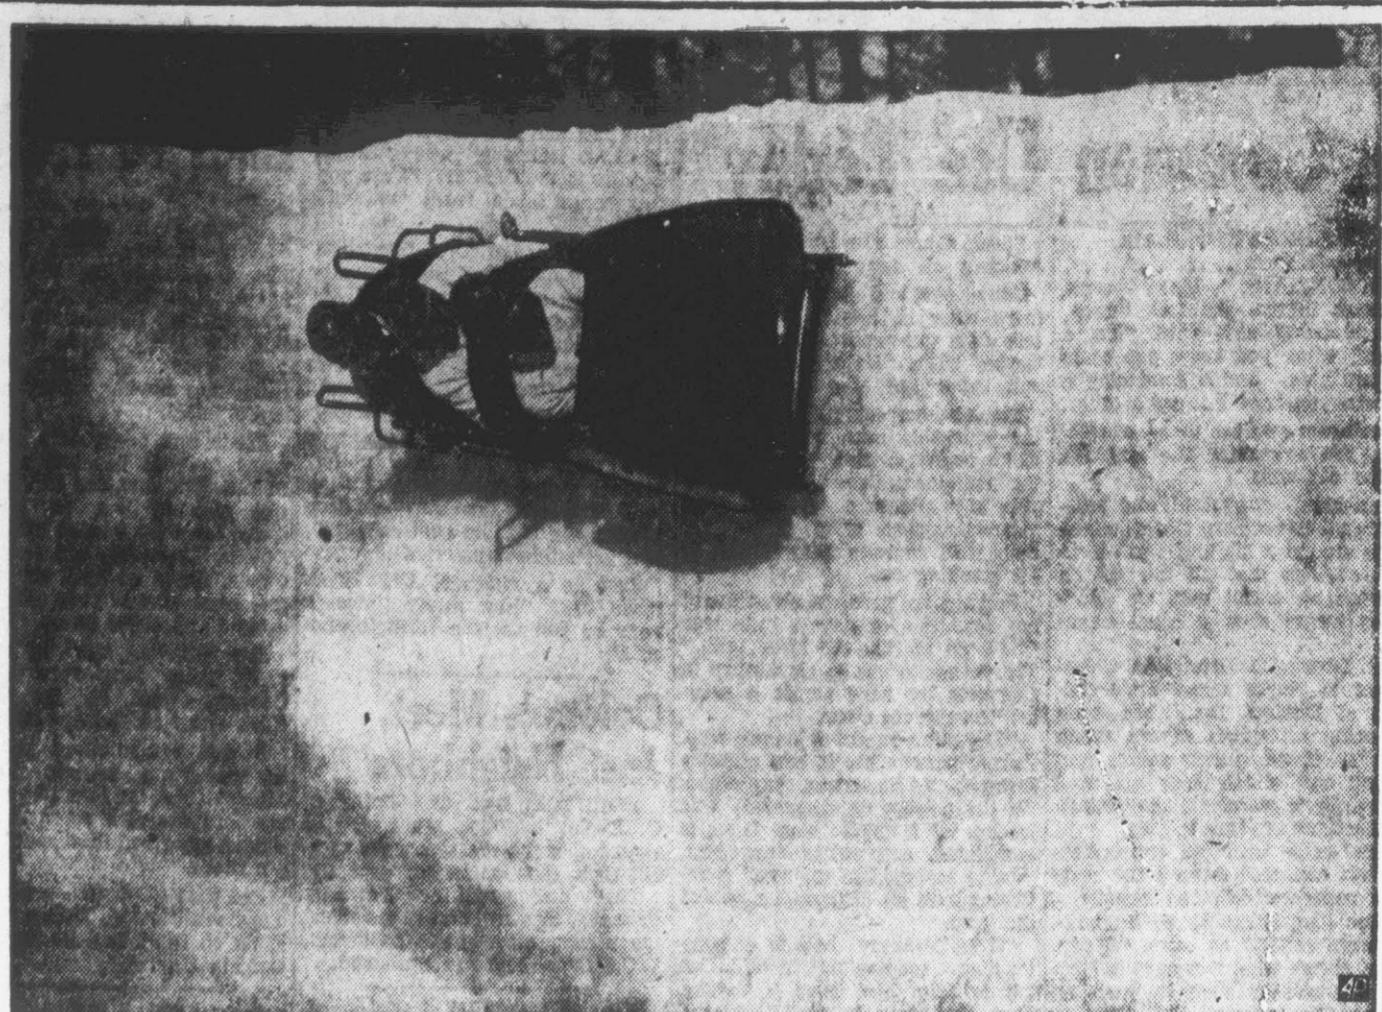

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP)—Washington is a plumber's paradise: It's full of leaks.
Somebody, some place—inside or outside the Army—seems to be leaking information to Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) about what happens in one of the Army's most secret operations: its own hunt for Communists.
Army officials have pointedly told him the information he has made public so far is nothing they didn't know about already.
How does he know about it? He isn't saying. But since he does know, the Army now may be spreading nets in Pentagon corridors to catch any pigeons carrying messages to the senator.
Twice now within a month McCarthy has held hearings on cases in which the Army apparently made decisions only a few days before the senator began talking about them publicly.

The first was the case of Dr. Irving Peress, a New York dentist, who, the Army says, refused to answer questions about subversive organizations to which he might have belonged.
The second was that of Mrs. Annie Lee Moss, a 48-year-old telegraphic-typewriter operator in the Pentagon. A former FBI informant described her as a Communist. McCarthy says she handles secret messages. The Army says she doesn't, and never did handle any she could decipher.
Take Dr. Peress:
He was commissioned a captain in October 1952 and that same month refused to answer questions. Nevertheless, in January 1953 he was called to active duty and in October 1953 was promoted to major. On Dec. 30, 1953, the Army decided to discharge him. Why? The result of an investigation of him, the Army says.

At any rate on Jan. 18, 1954, the Army told Peress he'd have to get out by April but could quit sooner. Twelve days later, on Jan. 30, McCarthy called Peress to a hearing but says Peress refused to answer on grounds he might incriminate himself.
Three days later Peress asked the Army for an honorable discharge and got it. That was Feb. 2. On that day McCarthy announced he had just sent a letter to Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens demanding Peress' court-martial. He apparently didn't know Peress was being discharged.
On Feb. 16 Stevens replied, telling McCarthy Peress had left.
On Feb. 18 McCarthy called Peress back, got no answers, and then the same day quizzed Brig. Gen. Ralph W. Zwicker, who had been Peress' commander at Camp Kilmer, N.J.
Citing orders against giving out security information, Zwicker refused to answer most of McCarthy's questions. But, before finishing, the general told the senator he hadn't produced anything new.
Mrs. Moss, the telegraphic-typewriter operator in the Pentagon: On Feb. 5, the Army says, it shifted Mrs. Moss from one kind of job to another as a result of an earlier investigation.
Yesterday McCarthy held a hearing on this case. It was only after the hearing that the Army gave out the information on the investigation of the woman.
A former FBI informant, Mrs. Mary S. Mankward, testified she had known Mrs. Moss as a Communist in the early 1940s. Mrs. Moss' lawyer George E. C. Hayes, told reporters Mrs. Moss takes the position she is "not now and never has been a member of the Communist party."
McCarthy said that as late as yesterday she was handling "top secret" messages in the Pentagon. The Army promptly said she not only didn't have access to secrets yesterday but never had.

For More Than 30 Years He's Filmed Beauties

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—As MGM celebrates its 30th birthday, a man with rich memories is Clarence Bull.
For more than 30 years, he has been photographing the MGM stars, from Garbo to Gardner. In the early days he not only operated the movie camera but shot the still pictures as well. Eventually he became the studio's top portrait photographer reaching his highest fame as Garbo's pet lensman.
Many Hollywood beauties have passed before his camera during the past three decades. I asked him to list his favorite subjects, and he named these:
Greta Garbo—"Of course."
Jean Harlow—"She had an excellent face and figure; easy to get along with."
Gloria Swanson—"A foolproof face."
Marlene Dietrich—"A dream to work with. She had once been a photographer's assistant and knew all the angles. She once even showed the retouchers how to do their work."
Joan Crawford—"We never could agree on her lips. She wanted them exaggerated, and I always cut them down in the retouching."
Norma Shearer—"She's still as beautiful as the starlets. She was often confused by too much advice; then she'd toss it all aside and make the right decision herself."
Jeanette MacDonald—"Perfectly natural. There was nothing phony about her."
Lana Turner—"Still a real beauty."
Ava Gardner—"She comes the closest to Harlow as a real personality."
Ann Blyth—"A perfect face, but an interesting one."
Katharine Hepburn—"A distinctive type; very interesting face."
Eleanor Parker—"The sexiest of the new crop of stars."
There were others, too like Hedy Lamarr, Luise Rainer, Greer Garson, etc. But Bull talked most readily about Garbo.
"I shot some of the first photos of Garbo after she arrived in this country," he recalled. "We went to the beach for some pictures and even took her down to USC to pose with the football team. She never said anything, but just did what people told her."
"During our first portrait sitting, I don't know who was more scared, she or I. I'd never say anything to her, and she didn't speak either. She'd watch my face, and if I would frown she'd know I didn't like the pose. If I smiled, she knew it was all right and she held still for the picture."
"She was very punctual. If we had a date in the still gallery for 9 o'clock in the morning, she'd be there at 8:45. She posed beautifully. Of 100 shots, sometimes only four would be killed."
Ancient Sparta discouraged business transactions by issuing heavy, clumsy, iron coins.

WORLD CHAMPIONS IN ACTION — Driver Fritz Feierabend and his Swiss team climb high on the ice as they round dangerous Bandion Bend on their way to victory in world four-man bobsled championship at Cortina D'Ampezzo, Italy.

HOLLYWOOD MEMORIES — Actress Marion Davies, right, and writer Frances Marion, who wrote many scenarios for Marion's films, talk over old times in Hollywood.

Yesterday McCarthy held a hearing on this case. It was only after the hearing that the Army gave out the information on the investigation of the woman.
A former FBI informant, Mrs. Mary S. Mankward, testified she had known Mrs. Moss as a Communist in the early 1940s. Mrs. Moss' lawyer George E. C. Hayes, told reporters Mrs. Moss takes the position she is "not now and never has been a member of the Communist party."
McCarthy said that as late as yesterday she was handling "top secret" messages in the Pentagon. The Army promptly said she not only didn't have access to secrets yesterday but never had.

Holds Down Ten Jobs For Town; Once Had Eleven

WINNETT Mont. (AP)—Fred Story, 40, said he holds these jobs:
Winnett water commissioner.
Collector of city licenses.
City policeman.
Deputy sheriff.
Night marshal (making rounds until 2 a.m.).
County ambulance driver.
City street worker (with one helper).
Electrician for himself.
Insurance salesman.
He used to be fire chief, but he quit. No time for that.
Story, who also heads the local Ground Observer Corps, says he gets $250 a month for the multi-duty job he has held since 1947.
"I'm busy most of the time" was his only comment yesterday as he took a breather in this central Montana county seat town of nearly 500 population.

Balloted, Though Machine Blank

CAMDEN, N. J. (AP)—A school board official walked into a polling place yesterday where Camden voters were balloting on a 3-million-dollar school budget and noticed the voting machine was blank.
Election officials had forgotten to indicate on the machine the seven items being voted on. But that hadn't stopped 44 voters who had preceded the official. They had cast their votes—yes or no—anyway.

200-Horsepower Performance and priced far below it

Styled like years from now—the stunningly beautiful, sensationally powered 1954 Buick Century Riviera.

Try the POWER of the CENTURY

It's the buy of the year for folks who want high performance at a low price

At the wheel of Buick's 200-hp CENTURY, something tremendously exciting is waiting to happen to you.
It's the wondrous thrill of commanding a phenomenal performer that's yours for hundreds of dollars less than the middle-price cars.
We can give you here just a quick summary of the sensational facts about this spectacular automobile:

It has the highest horsepower ever placed in a standard-production Buick — and the highest compression ratio, 8.5 to 1.
It has the highest power-to-weight ratio of any Buick ever built — with a cyclonic 200-hp V8 engine driving with unbelievable ease the nimble weight of this sizable car—3852 pounds, for the CENTURY shown here, as it comes off the assembly line.
It carries a price that puts it substantially below the highly popular Buick SUPER — a price that buys more horsepower per dollar in a CENTURY than you get in any other automobile in America.

If it's true high performance you want, at a truly modest price, come in and meet the CENTURY close up—behind its wheel. You'll find it the buy of the year, hands down.

Report Pope Is Slightly Better

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Ailing Pope Plus "stepped fairly well" during the night and his general condition early today showed a slight improvement, the Vatican press office announced.

Other Vatican sources earlier had described the Pope's general condition as still stationary. Severe attacks of hiccupping had kept him from sleeping and severely weakened him during the first weeks of his month-long illness.

Add Another New Element To List

BERKLEY, Calif. (AP)—The list of known chemical elements has reached 100. Prior to the atomic age there were only 92.

Production and chemical identification of element 100 in the atomic reactor at Arco, Idaho, was announced yesterday by four scientists in the University of California radiation laboratory, the home of much atomic research.

Element 100, as yet unnamed, is by far the heaviest known, 254 times the weight of a hydrogen atom. It is more of a scientific curiosity than anything else. It is no good for atom bombs or atomic power.

Off-Street Parking Committee Meets

Consider Having Survey Made Of Needs For City

By BOB BOYETTE
Reflector Staff Writer

An "Off-Street Parking Committee," composed of members of Greenville's City Council, Merchants Association, and Chamber of Commerce, met yesterday for the first time in the Council Room at City Hall.

The committee discussed the possibility of getting a survey made here to find out what Greenville needs in the way of parking lots and their locations.

They also asked that City Manager James S. Hughes contact George Franklin, the General Council of the North Carolina League of Municipalities, and Professor Babcock of North Carolina State College on the possibilities of conducting the survey; and several areas that could be made, if they could be obtained, into parking lots were discussed.

Elected White Chairman When the meeting convened City Manager Hughes suggested that a chairman be elected. The committee, acting on his suggestion, elected C. A. White as the chairman.

Hughes then suggested that a survey be made before any other action was taken. He explained that a survey in Raleigh showed the exact locations that parking lots were needed and that a survey here could show the same thing. He told the men that the survey would not cost over $500.

A discussion on the possibility of getting the survey followed. J. A. Collins explained that maybe a survey would not be needed since most of the committeemen had lived here all their life and knew what lots could be obtained anyway.

Other members seem to think that the survey would be needed since some lots might be obtainable and yet not be suitable for Greenville's needs.

Several Areas Named At this point in the meeting several possible sites for off-street parking lots were mentioned. Members of the committee realized that it was possible that some of the areas would be unobtainable, but the old swimming pool area was mentioned along with the Edwards property near the Pitt Theatre, and the Blount property across the street from City Hall.

The possibility of having a survey that would project into the future came into discussion. Hughes told the members that to get that type of survey would have to be more detailed than the one he originally mentioned, but most of the members felt that a survey showing Greenville's needs in the way of parking areas five, ten, and 15 years from now was needed.

It was then suggested that Hughes contact Franklin on the possibility of getting the survey made. The city manager reported this morning that he had contacted Franklin today and that Professor Babcock would be in Greenville tomorrow (Friday) morning to discuss the survey.

Dan Saleed said that he thought he could get members of the local Junior Chamber of Commerce to help with the survey, which would cut down on the cost of the operation.

It was brought up at this point that the committee become a permanent "Off Street Parking Committee." It received approval of the members.

Prior to the adjournment of the meeting Hughes told the members that bonds could not be obtained through the Local Government Commission to help finance off-street parking.

The courtesy parking plan was discussed vaguely at the meeting and it was brought out that should the off-street parking be obtained it was possible that the courtesy plan could be done away with.

Present at yesterday's meeting were C. A. White, Badger Johnson, J. A. Collins, Dan Saleed, Robert Elks, Mayor W. L. Whedbee, City Manager Hughes, Jimmy Harris and "Dixie" McGlohon.

Signal Lights Get Paint Job

Street department workers were busy this morning giving the city's stoplights a new coat of yellow paint. City Manager James S. Hughes said that yellow will be used principally for visibility and that all the traffic lights in Greenville will be painted that color. Hughes noted that yellow is getting to be the standard color for stoplights all over the country. The above picture was taken at the corner of Fifth and Washington Streets. Cash Register Is Colored News Taken By Thieves

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our beloved husband, father and son Walter F. Smith who passed away Feb. 26, 1953:

A year has come and gone, dear daddy—the first since you passed away. The empty chair you left us with will grace your presence here today. We bow our head in silent prayer, our hearts are filled with pride, to know that God has chosen you to live there by His side. So we will try to be content. We know that you are at rest, for God works only for our good and does things for the best.

Loving Wife, Children & Mother

Thieves forced open a rear door, backed a car up to the door and jugged off a cash register at the TV Service Station last night—they netted approximately 50 cents in cash for the night's work, plus about $13 in worthless checks.

However, they did get the cash register, worth about $375, according to the station manager, Mrs. Beatrice Stokes.

Mrs. Stokes said she also had her account records in the register. She said that the machine itself was practically new.

Mrs. Stokes stated that nothing else was missing from the station as far as she could determine.

Investigating officers Detective N. H. Byrd and fingerprint expert Paul Jewett stated that the back door of the building had been forced open, probably by a blow. They said that there were no tool marks on the door. It was fastened with a steel latch.

The officers made plaster of Paris casts of the tire tracks and are continuing their investigation of the break-in.

Jap Police Raid Shipping Firms

TOKYO (AP)—Police raided the offices of eight Japanese shipping companies today searching for evidence in connection with charges of corruption among high government officials the Asahi Evening News said.

Records were confiscated and executives of two companies were arrested on undisclosed charges.

Two members of Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida's Cabinet have been accused of accepting a million-yen ($2,780) bribe from shipping firms which obtained rich subsidies. Other government officials have been accused of attending lush parties sponsored by favor-seeking shipping companies.

Revenue Agent Talks Taxes At Ass'n Meeting

Alton Buck, agent of the Internal Revenue Department, gave a talk at a meeting of the Greenville Service Station Association Wednesday night.

Buck stated that the Internal Revenue Department was enforcing the filing of estimated income tax more rigidly than before and a firm would be penalized if it did not file their estimate on time and if it were not accurate.

He stressed that estimates be corrected, either up or down as the case may be. "If overpaid in the last quarter, a firm can elect to apply for refund or apply on the coming year's taxes."

Buck told of the importance of every employer having each employee fill out exemption form W-4 within 10 days after being employed.

The agent discussed the increase in social security for both employer and employee. "Although an employee is not a regular employee deductions have to be made, and W-4 form filed," he said.

Also speaking at the meeting was C. F. Dority, executive secretary of the North Carolina Service Station Association.

He stated that in the past four years the membership of the NCSA had grown from 17 to 847 members, and that 41 counties have chapters. He also told of the accomplishments of the organizations and services that it can render to the local group.

Dority invited the group to attend the State Convention to be held in Winston-Salem on Wednesday, May 12.

ACE Unit Has Meet Wednesday

The local branch of the Association for Childhood Education met at West Greenville School yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Sue T. Rouse, president of the local branch, appointed the following on a nominating committee: Chairman Miss Jan Hadley, Miss Christine Johnston, and Mrs. Evelyn Bruce.

Donations were made to Brookgreen School for additional reading supplies, to the expansion fund to bring a Korean teacher to the United States, and to the National ACE building fund.

It was announced that there would be a district meeting in Rocky Mount on March 13.

Mrs. James S. Hughes gave a program on the school program in Alaska and showed color slides taken while she was in Alaska. She was introduced by Miss Agnes Fuller, principal of West Greenville School.

Marilyn Ill From Korea Exposure

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Mink-clad and ill, Marilyn Monroe arrived last night from a tour of Japan and Korea and went straight to bed.

She posed briefly for photographers then told newsmen, "I'm ill and I just want to go to bed."

At Honolulu, where she and her husband Joe DIMAGGIO stopped on their flight home, doctors said she had bronchial pneumonia, apparently contracted while entertaining troops in frigid Korea clad only in her famous snug-fitting purple gown.

LEFT BUS FARE
CINCINNATI (AP)—Thomas Kane, 52, told police a man held him up at knife point last night and took $26.23. Then the bandit handed him 25 cents and told him to take a bus home.

Third Wife Violently Dies; Husband Charged

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—A white-haired, mild-appearing man, whose first two wives died violently in Chicago in the early 1920s, was accused late last night of killing his third wife here.

George F. Sack, who was committed to a mental hospital seven years after being accused of shooting his second wife to death, was charged here with asphyxiating Goldie Goodrich Sack, 56, last week.

For six days medical experts had sought to determine the cause of death of the woman, whose body was found in a vacant lot across town from the apartment house which Sack owned and where the couple lived.

The medical experts reported just before midnight that the cause was "asphyxiation in a manner as yet unknown." Police at once took out a warrant charging Sack with first-degree murder.

He had been free on $10,000 bond after being booked as a material witness because a resident of the area near the vacant lot reported he had seen Sack's automobile parked beside the lot the night Mrs. Sack disappeared.

Sack's first wife died in an apartment fire in Chicago in 1923. His second was shot to death in 1925. He was accused of shooting her. Defended by Clarence Darrow he was found insane. Seven years later he won his release from an Illinois mental hospital.

Seven years after that—in 1939—he was held 10 days by Seattle police, who questioned him about the disappearance of J. C. Young, 55, a Seattle man who had rented a chicken farm to him. He also was questioned about the disappearance of a Monroe, Wash., housekeeper. Neither person ever was found.

Sack, who had lived here quietly the past 15 years denied any knowledge of his third wife's death. Sheriff Terry Schunk said. The sheriff said he insisted she went shopping last Tuesday and he never saw her again.

Money Arrived For Jail Inmate

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Jimmy Seeds, an Indian, was juggling "drugs" off cigarettes from fellow inmates in the city jail. He had been locked up on a drunk charge.

The desk sergeant delivering what little mail there was, gave Seeds a letter addressed to him. Out fell a check from the government for $4,016. It was for oil lease royalties from a company that has been drilling on his reservation in Montana.

He bailed himself out in a jiffy but not before he purchased some tobacco for his erstwhile tank partners.

Isn't Any Trouble To Throw A Fit

GRAND PRAIRIE, Tex. (AP)—Mrs. Dewey Miller questioned the young man throwing a tantrum in her husband's drugstore here.

"My mama won't buy me a cap pistol," he screamed.

"Well, now," said Mrs. Miller, "when you throw one of these fits does your mother always buy what ever you want?"

"No," replied the boy. "Sometimes she does. Sometimes she doesn't. But it isn't any trouble to scream."
