McCarthy Denies Stevens' Statement; Will Recall Gen. Zwicker

Conciliation Hopes Again Falter

By EDMOND LEBRETON WASHINGTON (AP)—There was no peace today between Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens and Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis), despite a "peace pact" heralded as settling their official differences on questioning Army personnel.

That was the statement McCarthy immediately termed "completely false." The senator, who a moment before had been speaking with news items in complimentary terms of Stevens, said, "Absolutely no concession was made that any witness was abused."

Thus the Army secretary reverted to the episode which plunged his row with McCarthy to its depth of bitterness—the senator's questioning of Brig. Gen. Ralph Zwicker, accompanied by such remarks as one that Zwicker was "unfit" to wear his uniform.

Stevens subsequently directed Zwicker and another general to disregard subpoenas for an appearance before McCarthy's subcommittee.

After the prolonged luncheon session, a "peace agreement" was made public in Stevens' presence. It provided that Zwicker would be available for questioning and that the persons McCarthy wanted to question in connection with the reserve officer's case would also be available.

Planning Board Told Comprehensive Plan Needed Street Setbacks Discussed

By BOB BOYETTE Reflector Staff Writer The Greenville City Planning Board discussed street setbacks, fixed a salary for the secretary, and deferred action on making the city manager a voting member at their regular monthly meeting last night in City Hall.

Mayor W. L. Whedbee told the members of the board last night that he thought City Manager James S. Hughes should be made a voting member of the board.

Other local citizen who is not a city official. Finally the matter was deferred until the next meeting, when it is hoped that every member can be present so action can be taken on the matter.

Lee also stated that since Greenville does not have an active Zoning Commission that the City Council could appoint the Planning Board as the Zoning Commission.

Before it was voted on the motion was withdrawn and it was brought up that maybe the membership should be increased to bring on another local citizen who is not a city official.

The board then voted that the secretary be paid $10 a meeting. The only time that paying the secretary more than $10 a month would be when the board has a special call meeting. Regular meetings are held only once a month.

Sec. Stevens Was Just Impetuous

It strikes us that Army Secretary Robert Stevens is a victim of his own impetuosity rather than a victim of Senator McCarthy. If he had defied or balked at the demands of any other crusading congressman the results quite probably would have been the same. The fact that, in this instance, he ran headlong into communist-hating senator is only incidental to the picture.

There are a lot of leaders who go to bat for their subordinates or organization as a

The Season Between Winter And Spring

What's the name for the late winter season when the mercury goes to the high 60s and low 70s, and the feeling of spring is in the air when officially the new season is still a month away?

We don't recall now ever hearing a name for it, but it should have one; just as pretty and just as imaginative as the Indian Summer title given the corresponding weather of the fall.

That's the weather we are having now, and it makes a body feel mighty good.

The braver flowers already have burst into bloom, and here and there a presumptuous fruit tree is showing its blossoms defiantly in spite of the contradictory date of the calendar. Buds are appearing on the branches of bushes and trees, and new shoots peeping up, confident they have rested sufficiently before the vigorous growing season which lies ahead.

In the rural areas, fields are being made ready for new crops, and in many places they are already green with pasture and cover crops. In the sprawling tobacco beds, protected from biting frost with their white cover crops. In the sprawling tobacco beds, ground as they venture up to view the light.

It's a sight to make the heart jump; particularly the heart of native Eastern Carolinians who look each year for these heralds which boldly come in advance of the real spring.

It's easy to sense spring is just around the corner. And then will come the summer, and then the harvest.

matter of principal, especially when they sense an injustice or incipient threat to that organization. In this instance, Secretary Stevens did just that.

Later, he and Senator McCarthy met; apparently ironing out the sore points of difference, and that set off a whole new headache for Stevens. It sounded like capitulation.

No one likes that word unless applied to the other fellow, and it is understandable that the Army Secretary would want endorsement by the President on his stand. Talk of his possible resignation began to circulate; and that was bad, too. Because there was no fault in the man himself that should force his resigning.

We think people admire leadership that is quick to stand up against abuse, real or imagined, of an underling. It's a good quality, too, to be able to hash out a dispute and reach an understanding; though this last has not yet been accomplished to the satisfaction of both sides.

It would be the height of nonsense to even infer Stevens would knowingly tolerate disloyal Americans in his domain. (As ridiculous as to suspect a taint of pro-communism on McCarthy's staff.)

The United States needs able administrators in its government just as it needs ardent foes of communism. The two need never clash except through some unfortunate circumstances.

Moving To Final Stages On Recreation Building

Greenville's new recreation building at Elm Street Park is rapidly moving toward completion under the spark of emphasis which recently has been struck by Recreation Commission Chairman Tyson Bilbro.

A great deal of materials and time of workers as well as money with which to complete the building have been contributed by individuals and business firms of Greenville. The project which for several months appeared virtually bogged down has shown new life in recent weeks.

In our opinion, a great deal of credit for the new emphasis upon efforts to complete the sorely needed building are due to the efforts of Chairman Bilbro of the Recreation Commission and Chairman Louis Goylord, Jr., of the Elm Street Park Committee.

To name all the citizens of Greenville who have a hand in the building of the recreation building at the park would be an almost impossible task because so many people have joined in the project in various ways.

It suffices to say, however, that the building is nearing completion, and should be ready for use in the near future. Its contribution to the recreation program of the city will be incalculable as have the other facilities which have been provided at the park. The leaders in the project and all those who have contributed to its completion can be proud of their efforts and the fruits which they will bring forth.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
DUST AND LIGHT

Look out at the western sky some evening when the sun is just ready to dip below the horizon for the night. The scattered clouds are riddled out in the loveliest tints of pink and gold, while the sky behind them shades from the still visible blue overhead through all varieties of red, orange, and gray into the deeper tones of purple over the rim of the world.

What causes this glorious evening display in the sky? Well, according to the scientists, dust. Just plain, ordinary dust in the atmosphere, with the sun shining horizontally through its various layers.

And therein lies the secret of beautiful living, too. We are dust. The Bible says so. But it is not ourselves or the dull routine of our everyday lives, common as dust, which can create beauty. It is the light from above shining through us.

Without this light, men are no better than animals, and viewed in the mass, perhaps more cruel and lustful than most animals. With it, the plainest and most ordinary person becomes a guide and inspiration to those around him.

Remember, it takes both the light and the dust to make a beautiful sunset. Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father which is in heaven.

WASHINGTON—The Eisenhower Administration's attempt to plug the only two remaining weak links in our anti-Russian chain—the Middle East and Southeast Asia—have hit a stone wall of racial, political and economic prejudices against the West. Attempts to minimize our difficulties with pleasant promises profit only the Kremlin, in the opinion of on-the-scene observers, who recommend presentation of the "mess" to the United Nations.

The Middle East and Indo-China, they point out, do not represent merely local danger spots. They constitute such strategic areas in the anti-Communist struggle that they could easily become another Sarajevo or a Poland, the breeding places of World Wars I and II. Russia's historic ambition has been control of the Middle East and Indo-China, for they would give her resources she lacks and another 600,000,000 satellite subjects. For the same reasons, we must keep them out of her hands.

Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson touched all too gingerly on this threat. As a result of limited American aid, he forecast defeat of the Red thrust in Indo-China. If Mao Tse-tung throws China's full might into the conflict, as he did in Korea, Wilson said that an allied triumph would be "delayed." He should have said that, as in Korea, Mao's intervention would mean either a stalemate or global war.

TOO MUCH FOR FRANCE—Almost every military expert agrees that the French alone cannot pacify Indo-China. France cannot afford the drain on her manpower sufficient for the task. We have sent 400 Air Force technicians there because B-26 bombers we have supplied are the most dangerous and in our World War II surplus. It should these 400 be captured, murdered and tortured. Korea-wise, denials of actual and large-scale involvement by Wilson and even President Eisenhower would become scraps of paper.

For emotional and military reasons, we will not be able to maintain our present half-in and half-out posture. We tried that experiment in 1949 and 1951 with the destroyer-bases away and land-sea operations, and it didn't work. We were soon in up to our "bloody neck" as the British would say.

Somebody Told Me They Like Slower Business

Like every February in Greenville, business is slow. But yesterday I visited one shop with slow business and all of the employees were beaming about it!

The State Highway Patrol automotive repair shop at the intersection of East 10th and 5th Streets maintains 115 cars and the boss strives to keep the shop empty! L. B. Jenkins, the shop foreman, says, "I've seen the time when we couldn't keep up, but most of the time we do."

Assisting Jenkins are Charlie Powers, Larry Dail, Atwood Gurganus, Russell Johnson and Leroy Hardee. The local Troop A includes 27 counties in Eastern Carolina. Among the towns are Wilson, Rocky Mount, Elizabeth City, Kinston, New Bern, Washington, Morehead City, and Tarboro. When asked the major breakdown that Patrol cars have, Jenkins says, "Everything in general. Use by the Patrol is the best proving ground in the world for an automobile. Naturally they have to be operating at efficiency all of the time."

Are they souped up for high speeds in order to catch speeders? "No," Jenkins says, "they are just standard automobiles."

"This will be good information for tax payers to have," Jenkins continued, flipping to one of his many files that he has on hand to record every service given each one of the 115 cars. "Yes, sir, they should know about this."

Then he pointed out the various expenses involved in operating the Patrol cars. The items recorded included the mileage, consumption of oil and gas, washing and greasing, labor, tires, and even the personal expenses of the patrolmen when they are on the road. This account literally includes everything but the salaries of the mechanics and that is partly accounted for in the labor allotment.

Now get this: In September the 115 cars operated at the rate of 2.4 cents per mile and averaged 16 miles per gallon. This was based on driving 427,100 miles.

What does the patrol plan to do about the color of the cars? That's the question of the year. Some come in various colors and stay that way. Others are silver and painted various colors. So it just goes to prove that you never can tell what color car a patrolman is driving, so it just doesn't pay to speed.

And I thank you. JACK EDWARDS

What Other Editors Are Thinking

THE ANTI-VOTE (Washington Daily News)

When an election occurs, many people vote for a candidate not because they particularly like the candidate, but they do so because of their dislike of the other candidate.

It happens in about every primary and election. The vote in the Democratic primary on May 29 will serve to illustrate what we mean. In the race for United States senator, the two leading candidates are Al Lennon, incumbent, and Kerr Scott, former governor.

Everybody in North Carolina will not vote. But most people in North Carolina either know Kerr Scott or they are familiar with him through the publicity given his administration as governor, or they know him by his reputation.

Al Lennon is not so well known. In fact there are thousands upon thousands of people in North Carolina who never heard of him until he was named U.S. senator to succeed Willis Smith.

People are just now in the process of either knowing Mr. Lennon or learning about him through friends and publicity media.

Not everyone who is familiar with Mr. Scott will vote for the Alamance dairyman, nor will everyone who knows Mr. Lennon vote for him. Mr. Lennon will get a sizeable vote from folks who know Mr. Scott but who dislike him. And there are many voters who know Mr. Scott well, but they will not vote for him because they dislike him. And Mr. Scott is a man who generally is either liked or disliked. There is no middle ground with the vast element of the electorate.

As a result of Mr. Scott's wide acquaintance and Mr. Lennon's lack of wide acquaintance many people look upon the race as a case of a well known man running against an unknown.

The truth is that between now and May 29 most of the voters will know both candidates either personally or by reputation.

Around Capitol Square

By LYNN NISBET

NEW WORD — Kerr Scott put a new word into the Tarheel political vocabulary last week and made-up his own definition of its meaning. The word is "cozen-whacking." The Scott definition is a "GOP device for whacking away at the Democratic program of progress."

According to the office dictionary "cozen" means to cheat, and "whacking" means hitting with hard quick blows. The first word is pronounced exactly like "cousin," meaning kinfolks, and also the commonly used salutation when Eastern North Carolinians get together. The ingenious Scott was talking about administration tampering with the veterans services program set up by the Truman regime, but the play on words indicates he doesn't like any of the Republican policies that whack at his cousins.

In the same Laurinburg talk, however, the former Governor and present Senatorial candidate, declared his opposition to socialized medicine. Although it was the socialized medicine phase of the veterans' hospital program of the Truman administration which led to the alleged "cozen-whacking" by Republicans.

WORDS — Discussion of the meaning and pronunciation of the new word by a small group the other day brought out that there are many words spelled alike and pronounced differently, or vice versa, and with widely different meanings depending upon the context.

Take the letters co-u, for example. They are pronounced differently in couch, cousin and cough. And in addition to cough, the o-u-g-h combination has different sounds in bough, rough, tough and through. Rough and sound alike: so do through and three—but they don't mean the same thing.

Ro-w pronounced one way means a straight line or to pull on oar and pronounced another way it means a light. The sound waves cannot convey spelling and the printed words cannot convey sound. It is no wonder that so many speakers contend they have been misquoted or that their intended meaning has been misinterpreted.

EXAMPLES — A news story may come over the wires about a political meeting, containing the sentence: "The audience was highly entertained when Candidate Blank got into a row with opposing candidates on the platform." The reader doesn't know what that means, and maybe the radio announcers do not know, either. Depending upon their mood at the time, one group jumps to the conclusion that Candidate Blank has lined-up with the opposition; the other gleefully envisages a brisk argument, maybe even a fist fight, among the platform party. It depends upon whether the "ow" is pronounced like in tow—meaning to haul, or like in towel—meaning a cloth to wipe off the sweat occasioned by necessity for making a decision on how (there's that "ow" again) to read the script.

There is the story about a merchant who lost the trade of a foreign born customer who was

Ring That Doorbell

By ELMER ROESSNER
Doorbells will ring more often this year.
Established door-to-door sales companies will be working harder, it was strongly indicated at the third annual trade show of the National Association of House to House Installment Companies in New York last week.

At the same time, more store operators will be turning to outside selling to sustain sales levels. There has already been a strong trend in this direction among appliance, radio-TV and other durable-goods retailers.

The 225 manufacturers exhibiting products at the NAAHIC show reported that ordering by house-to-house companies was heavy. Members of the association said they expected sales to equal last year's total. There are some 400 companies engaged in making installment sales from door to door. There are no solid figures on the number of non-installment sellers, since the total includes hundreds of one-man enterprises. However, the bulk of the cash sales are made by a half-dozen large corporations.

The installment companies sell articles largely in the $10 to $100 price range. Few of them are geared for credit risks larger than that and persons wanting time payments on articles priced under $10 would not be good credit risks anyhow. A large share of profits come from add-on sales, and collectors make strenuous efforts to make added sales as the balance owed becomes lower. Noninstallment sellers have no price limits, but most sales are for lower amounts than those on time payments.

Many trade magazines and distributors have been urging retail stores to do more house-to-house selling. Almost every issue of magazines in the appliance trade carry success stories about merchants who have put their salesmen on house-to-house duty when customers failed to come into stores in sufficient numbers.

Any rise in door-to-door selling is bound to bring increased agitation for "Green River ordinances"—local laws modeled after that of the Wisconsin town by that name, prohibiting door-step selling unless the salesman is invited. These ordinances are usually presented as measures to protect householders from annoyance, but the real purpose is usually to insulate local merchants from competition.

Trauble Wows Night Club Set

By SAUL PETT.
(For Hal Boyle)

NEW YORK (AP)—Helen Trauble, part owner of a baseball team and full owner of a great Wagnerian operatic voice, has taken her case to the people and the people, she feels, has given her a vote of confidence.

Last September the red-haired soprano refused to sign another contract with the Metropolitan Opera rather than "kneec" down to a demand that she refrain from night club appearances during her own season at the Met.

Instead, she went out on a six-month tour of both concert halls and cafes. In the night clubs, Miss Trauble, who for years has been one of the Met's leading divas, usually shared a bill with a comedian, dance team and the inevitable chorus line.

"It was simply wonderful," she said at her Park Avenue apartment while resting up for an appearance at the Copacabana. "I knew it would be right and it was."

"Basically, people's tastes are the same, whether they're in an opera house or night club. But in a club, they're less formal, more spontaneous, perhaps friendlier. You feel so close to them."

In her many years as a prima donna, Miss Trauble was accustomed to hearing shouts of "bravo" and "encore." But in the clubs she's just visited, she heard: "Do it again, Helen!" or "Give us another tune, Helen!"
At a club in St. Louis, she says, she ran into something which began to resemble a pep rally. After a number, a man at a single table stood up and led a cheering section.

"We loved her at the Met, now didn't we?" the cheerleader said. The crowd roared its approval. "But we love her even more in a night club, now don't we?" the man said. The applause was even louder.

In all her safe appearances, Miss Trauble spiced her classical repertoire with popular songs. She even developed a line of patter to go with the introduction of one song, she grows very serious and demure and says: "I hope the lovers of popular music will be a little patient with me if I do something in a more serious vein. I'd like to sing an ancient folk aria which is sung by the peasants of my native village."

And then the house is brought down when she breaks into "St. Louis Blues."

After three weeks in New York, Miss Trauble will leave on another tour of night clubs and concert halls. She has no plans for returning to the Met "under the present management." And as for baseball, she admits that now that the Browns have moved from St. Louis and become the Baltimore Orioles, she has less of a sentimental interest in the club.

I got the impression you could pick up her stock for a song—say "White Christmas" and all the royalty rights attached thereto.

The Doctor Disagrees

By Elizabeth Selfert

CHAPTER TWENTY-THREE
THE ARMES family was old in the county; their farm was long established, and well kept up as farms went in that part of Missouri. The fences and gates were in good repair; the barn no more than three times as big as the house—and both were painted.

The Reverend in Massachusetts, had been in this neighborhood long enough to respect farm dogs, and know about gates.

Leaving his car in the road, he carefully made his way up the lane to the house yard, went through the gate, careful to latch it behind him, and hoped that the big dog's bark was worse than its bite.

"You, clumsy," cried a woman from the doorway. "Shut up, can't you?"

The dog subsided to faint whoofs and growls, and lay down on the porch. The Reverend Prewett removed his hat, wiped his shoes as free as possible of snow and mud, and extended his hand to the woman.

"Are you Mrs. Armes?"
"I'm Mrs. James Armes," she conceded.

"My name is Prewett. I'm rector of the Episcopal church in Norfolk."

"We're Baptists," said the thin woman defensively.

"Yes, I know. My being a clergyman has no significance. I just wanted to identify myself to you. May I come in?"

The woman stepped back into the house; the front door opened directly into the main living room. It was warm and cluttered. Mrs. Armes had been ironing; her board and a "horse" full of freshly-ironed garments stood at the far side of the room. There were several worn and comfortable chairs, a linoleum rug on the floor with hand-branded rag runners scattered here and there. A litter of papers and magazines covered a round oak table.

"It's good and messy," said the farm wife. "I can't seem to catch up since Ma's death. That was just last week."

"Yes, I know. That's why I came. I'd like to talk to your husband—her son—if I could."

"He's jest in the shed. I'll git him. You set down."

Arthur Prewett took off his overcoat and selected one of the rockers. A child of seven came and peered at him around the corner of the doorway; the boy had a cold. With a practiced swipe of her hand, his mother wiped his nose both on leaving, and returning to the room.

"I had to keep him home from school," she explained. "The new teacher sends a kid home if he's got a runny nose. Jim's a-comin'."

"How many children do you have, Mrs. Armes?"
"I got four. All in school. Jim had five by his first wife, but they 'em still's here. . . he helps his Pa. D'you mind if I go on with my ironin', Reverend? It piles up so."

"Please don't let me bother you."

Jim came in then, a big man, with a weather-roughened face, and the light-seaming eyes characteristic of farmers and sailors. He could have been sixty but was not aged. He wore overalls, and a denim jacket open over a plaid shirt. In the heat from the stove he exuded a fine aroma of chaff and barn and milking shed.

"You want to see me, sir?" he asked directly, sitting down in the platform rocker which groaned a little under his weight.

"Yes, I do." Again Mr. Prewett identified himself. "I came on business connected with the death of your mother last week. I am afraid your grief is still so fresh that you may resent my interference, but I hope not."

"Ma was old," said Jim Armes, heavily. "I figure when your time comes, it comes."

"I am glad you are so able to accept God's will." The Reverend Prewett took out his handkerchief and mopped his forehead. "I have no way of knowing your feeling about this, Mr. Armes, but there seems to be a great deal of talk in town because your mother died with the doctor you had called pilled up in a car wreck."

"Folks'll make talk about anything!" said Mrs. Armes briskly. "Yes, they will, I'm afraid," agreed the minister. "But in this case since there was a doctor involved—and a death—certain responsible citizens in Norfolk would like to get the truth of the matter. A doctor has obligations to his patients, and if there has been wilful neglect or carelessness—"

"There wasn't no neglect!" said Jim, frowning. "And I don't see how Dr. Talbot could-a had anything agin Ma!"

"The complaints and talk around town wasn't made by us!" said his wife sharply. "Like Jim started to say—we got nothin' agin the doctor. He'd been out here once before—seemed a right nice fella. Of course, the night we called him for Ma—well he never got here."

Arthur Prewett leaned forward. "That's why I came out. This group of citizens I mentioned feels so strongly about a doctor's obligations that we stand ready to—well—help you if you'd be inclined to file a suit against that doctor, for drunkenness and neglect leading to the death of your mother."

Jim Armes puffed slowly upon the pipe which he had filled. "I take it you mean this kindly, sir," he said thoughtfully, "but I got a few rules I try to live by, and one is, I stay away from the courts. I don't sue nobody, an I don't let myself get sued."

"Well, that's a good rule, generally, of course. But in this case—"

"Far as I know, that doctor wasn't drunk," said the farmer. "I know they say he was—"

"Yes, and your mother died because he was drunk."

"She'd a-died anyway," her son assured him. "Her time had come. I wish he'd been here with us—it eases things for the family to have a doctor in the house. But, well, we managed it, jest the same as we've managed other things that have come to us."

The Reverend Prewett rubbed his jaw. The magistrate, fully convinced by Shelly's evidence, had pointed out that he was helpless to do anything for Craig Talbot unless some sort of suit was filed, some legal charge made. Now Prewett leaned forward eagerly. "You see, our idea—Maybe you're right about your mother dying whether the doctor had come or not. But in other cases, a doctor's failure to come has caused death; that's why we thought if you'd bring suit, we might establish that this wasn't one of those cases—of—or—criminal neglect."
Jim Armes wrinkled his brow in perplexity. "Jest same, it'd mean callin' a man drunk in court—pointin' that kind-a finger at him."
"Trials are supposed to establish a man's innocence as well as his guilt," Arthur Prewett insisted, with as much exasperation as was possible to his gentle nature. His scheme, and the magistrate's was falling through.
The Armes family would not make any charge. They wouldn't harm the doctor, but they wouldn't help him, either—not if it meant legal action.
"I got nuthin' agin that doctor," said the big farmer again, as he walked out to his car with the minister. "I'd call him agin if I needed a doctor, but don't count on me for no lawsuit, Reverend. I don't plan on a tangle with the courts."
Craig was discharged from the hospital on Monday. On Wednesday evening there would be the regular meeting of the County Medical so-city, with two important items on the agenda. One, the indorsement of the night emergency service; two the membership of Dr. Talbot. The Reverend Prewett and Magistrate Cornfield, a bouncy little man in his seventies, asked Dr. Bowser if they might attend the meeting. The doctor agreed that the public should more often share their meetings, and that outside opinions would probably be valuable to the profession. Medics stewed too much in their own juice, he thought. Yes, the men were to come, by all means. They would be his guests.

They'd just come said Cornfield coolly, not as anyone's guests. And they would arrive after dinner was over.
Bowser lifted a questioning eyebrow. "You said our opinions would be welcome," Cornfield reminded him.
"Well, yes, sure. We eat at seven, get through about eight."
"We'll be there."
Dr. Bowser said nothing, but he hoped the visitors would not foul waters already too turbid.

Bucs Beat Guilford; Phantoms Rout Roanoke Rapids

Hodges, Harris Lead 74-54 Win In Opener

LEXINGTON—East Carolina College's top-seeded Pirates bounced back in the second half here last night to crush Guilford 74-54 in the opening round of the North State Conference tournament.

The victory put the Pirates in the semi-finals of the eleventh annual tournament against Elon. Elon advanced to the semi-finals Wednesday night with a first-round victory over Western Carolina.

The Pirates rallied around freshman forward Don Harris and senior center Bobby Hodges to advance in the tournament. Harris was particularly effective in the third period when he scored 11 of the Pirates' 25 points which eliminated a 28-27 Guilford halftime margin.

Hodges, the leading scorer in the conference, hauled down high-scoring honors for the Pirates with 26 points. He also teamed with Harris and forward Charlie Huffman to mop up the rebounds for the Bucs in the last period.

Serious Threat

Guilford had threatened rather seriously in the second period to take the game away from the highly-favored East Carolina team. The unseeded Quakers, working behind the yeoman performances of forward Bill Atkins and 6-7 center Tom Schorr, simply outplayed the Pirates in that second period to take their slender lead at halftime.

East Carolina had jumped to an early lead in the game but they began to slump in the later moments of the first quarter. When they began slumping, Schorr moved in to dominate the rebound play and Atkins started pumping field goals at a rate that enabled Guilford to finally overhaul the Pirates with three minutes to go in the half.

In the third period, the Pirates banged in 11 of 19 field goal attempts and pulled ahead 40-37 midway the quarter. Harris was carrying the bulk of the offensive work with Hodges and Huffman taking care of the rebounding. When the quarter ended, the Pirates were ahead 52-47 and just getting warmed up.

Quakers Routed

In the fourth period, the Pirates turned the game into a rout, outscoring Guilford 22-7. Hodges was hitting nicely on his field goal attempts and still controlling the rebound play.

Atkins was top man for the Quakers in the loosely played contest with 21 points. Guard Bobby Callcutt, a top floor man for the Quakers all year long, was second in the scoring column with 12 tallies.

In other action last night, Lenoir-Rhyne's second-seeded Bears broke a 14-14 first-quarter tie with Appalachian to win 66-61. The victory put the Bears in the semi-finals against Atlantic Christian, winners over Catawba last night.

In the games tonight, Lenoir-Rhyne and Atlantic Christian will start the action at 7:15. East Carolina and Elon will follow at 9:15.

Willie Pep Rated Slight Underdog In Bout Tonight

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK (AP)—It's the old story of the up-and-coming youngster and the fading veteran in Madison Square Garden tonight when 31-year-old Willie Pep risks his fistie future against 20-year-old Lulu Perez in a 10-rounder.

The Brooklyn speedster only 9 when the Hartford Conn., boxing master won the featherweight title for the first time, is a slight 6-5 favorite to dash the ring-scarred Pep's hopes of getting another crack at the 126-pound title.

The bout will be broadcast (ABC and telecast (NBC) at 10 p.m., EST.

Has Willie enough left in his aging frame to beat back the challenge of a good but still green hopeful?

"That's the 664 question," remarked Lou Viscusi, manager of the ex-champion. "I know he still has a great fighting brain. The only question is whether he has the stamina in a fight with a youngster. Perez is a tough test."

"Willie has started to talk about fighting Sandy Saddler (the featherweight champion) again for the title," added Viscusi. "You know he said he had seen enough of Saddler after losing the last one. If he looks good against Perez, we may go after the shot. If not..."

Lou's voice trailed off. He shook his head.

One of the ring's all-time greats, Willie would be a cinch to win if he was only one half the Pep of yesterday. But the speed has gone out of his legs, his reflexes have slowed, and he is getting hit by punches now that wouldn't have come close to him in bygone days.

The lacy network of scars over his eyes tear open easily.

Despite the inroads of time, Willie has been able to win 19 fights in a row since he was stopped by Tommy Collins in six rounds last June. His record is 183-5-1 with 55 knockouts.

Perez, a boxer-puncher with a style similar to Pep's, has been fighting pro only two years and eight months. A good boxer and a crisp puncher, he has a 34-2 record. He lost decisions to Charley Slaughter and Dave Gallardo but beat them in return bouts. He has 19 knockouts to his credit.

Although he is a counterpuncher like Pep, he plans to switch tactics and go after Willie from the opening bell in the hopes of wearing down the old-timer.

P.C.I.S. Squads In Final Round Of Pitt Tourney

BETHEL—The Sugg High School Lions of Farmville moved into the finals of the Pitt County Interscholastic Athletic Association basketball tournament by defeating South Ayden, 63-52, here last night.

The Sugg victory came as the finale to the three-game second-round of the tournament. In last night's action, the Pitt County Training School (Grimesland) boys moved into the finals in their division with a 60-42 win over Robinson Union of Winterville. In girls' play, South Ayden moved into the championship round of play with a 32-29 victory over Sugg High of Farmville.

Co-captains Albert Baker and Bennie Harris furnished the punch in the rip-roaring finale to last night's action. The Sugg leaders contributed 23 and 15 points, respectively, in a game that many observers said outlasted any regular season game played by either of the teams.

In the girls play last night R. Worthington and C. Dunn led the inspired play of the South Ayden team in the close game with Farmville.

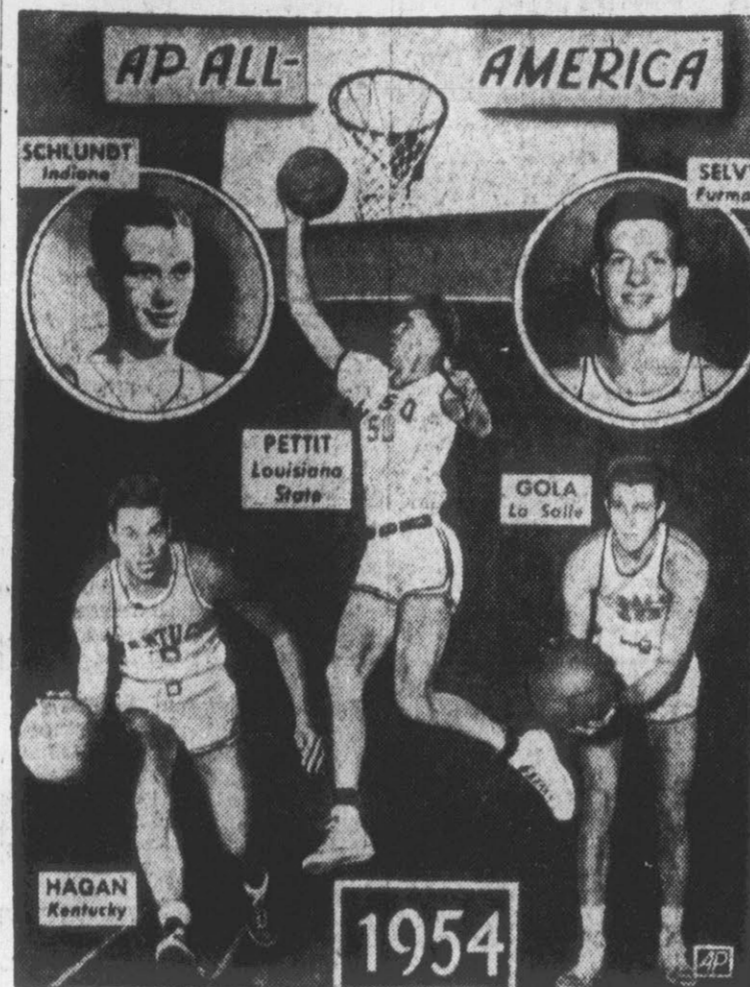

The other boys game was not nearly so interesting as the Grimesland squad outclassed Robinson in every phase of competition to win easily.

Finals in the tournament will be played tomorrow night. The girls championship, matching South Ayden against Grimesland, will start at 7:30. The boys championship, Sugg versus Grimesland, is scheduled for a 9:30 tip-off.

Following the games trophies will be presented to the winning squads, the Most Valuable Player in the tournament, All-County players, and the Coach of the Year.

The tournament is being staged in the Bethel High School gym.

AP All-America Five For 1954

Selvy Tops List On All-America

By TED MEIER

NEW YORK (AP)—Furman's Frank Selvy, who sets a major college record every time he scores a basket, tops the 1954 Associated Press All-America collegiate basketball team announced today.

Named as Selvy's teammates by a vote of 365 sportswriters and broadcasters were Don Schlundt of Indiana; Tom Gola of La Salle; Cliff Hagan of Kentucky and Bob Pettit of Louisiana State.

He is perhaps known best for his 100-point spree against Newberry on Feb. 13 and the fact that he is the first major college player to score more than 1,000 points in one season. As of Feb. 23, he had 1,099.

Selvy can do everything well on the court, but the Furman senior has concentrated on a jump shot that is virtually impossible to stop. This has helped him to a 43-point per game average this season and to 21 national individual scoring records.

Honorable mention: Rudy D'Emilio, Duke; Mel Thompson, North Carolina State.

Son of a former Kentucky coal miner, Selvy has been termed by many "an all-time All America." Although at 6:03 he is the smallest player on the team, "Fabulous Frank" this season has broken major college records like matches.

Duke Aiming To Even A Score

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Duke's Blue Devils mean to square accounts with Wake Forest in an Atlantic Coast Conference basketball game tonight.

Wake Forest enjoys the distinction of being the only ACC team to defeat Duke this season. That sole triumph is Duke's ACC record book.

The pressure will be off the Blue Devils, thanks to their victory over South Carolina Tuesday. The triumph, Duke's eighth in loop play, earned the Blue Devils first place in the regular season chase and top seeding in the conference tournament opening at Raleigh next week.

Wake-Forest dumped Duke, 96-89, earlier this season after the Blue Devils had upended the Deacons 85-66, while winning the Dixie Classic at Raleigh in December.

Football will share the spotlight with basketball as the Blue Devils and Deacons clash tonight. Duke's gridders will be awarded gold footballs for winning the championship of the ACC last fall. And the athlete voted most valuable by his football team mates will receive a trophy from Duke Athletic Director Eddie Cameron.

Gola and Hagan, two repeaters on the All America, tallied 1,146 and 1,101 points, respectively. Bob Pettit, of Louisiana State whose scoring feats were overshadowed by Selvy's, was far behind with 784 points.

Pettit actually polled fewer first place votes than the controversial Bevo Francis of little Rio Grande (Ohio) college but made the first team by virtue of numerous second team marks.

Pettit tallied 102 first place votes to 119 for Bevo, but got 137 seconds to 88 for Bevo. Thus he gained the edge over Bevo for the first time by a mere 17 points.

Bevo's 767 points easily put him at the top of the second team. Indiana's Bob Leonard, Kentucky's Frank Ramsey, Duquesne's Dick Ricketts and Western Kentucky's Tom Marshall round out the second quintet.

Togo Palazzi of Holy Cross; Arnold Short of Oklahoma City; Bob Mattick of Oklahoma A&M; Johnny Kerr of Illinois and Dickie H. H. of Wake Forest were named as third team.

Gene Shue of Maryland; Si Green and Jim Tucker of Duquesne; Paul Ebert of Ohio State and Bud Matheny of California head a list of 27 additional players given

He was taken to the hospital after becoming nauseated early last night. He died two hours later.

Ailments Hit 3 Card Rookies

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—All three of the St. Louis Cardinals 1954 rookies have come up with spring training ailments, none believed serious.

Tom Alston, Negro first baseman, arrived at the Cardinals' camp here yesterday with a sore back. Trainer Doc Weaver said of Alston:

"Call it a cold, or lumbago, or just a stitch in the back like we all get some time or another."

Memo Luma, the Mexican left-handed pitcher, has needed massage on his pitching arm but was throwing with some authority yesterday.

Alex Grammas, shortstop prospect, was still resting a lame right shoulder but was expected to test his arm over the weekend.

Morning Practice For Phils As O'Neill Seeks Top Conditioning

By ED CORRIGAN

Associated Press Sports Writer

The Philadelphia Phillies may not come up with a crew of whiz kids this season like they did in 1950 when they won the National League pennant, but they'll definitely not be accused of loafing.

Maybe Steve O'Neill is thinking of the fate of his predecessor, Eddie Sawyer. After the Phils astounded one and all by winning in '50, they fell to fifth in '51, fourth in '52 and got home in a tie for third last year.

Sawyer was let go in the middle of the '52 season when it became apparent that his charges were going nowhere in particular. Some of the experts said he was too lenient with the kids. Everyone was agreed that the youngsters couldn't take the prosperity and spent too much time reading their press clippings.

This year, O'Neill said, the Phils will hold regular morning practice sessions—and that goes even after night games. If the club keeps climbing it should be at least a contender for the pennant, and O'Neill is taking no chances.

"It isn't a matter of overworking or punishing the fellows," said the easy-going Irishman, "it's merely a matter of doing the job we're paid to do."

"Last year we were in good shape until the middle of the season. We were either in first place or only a couple of games from the lead. Some fellows took it easy and we were lucky to finish in a three-place tie with the Cards."

"In the days when I played and when all our coaches played, I was part of the day to work out in the morning. Of course, we played all day ball. But even so, getting in a morning workout after night games isn't going to be too hard on the players."

Elsewhere on the circuit circuit: Joe Black, the pitcher who could

Unable To Field A Baseball Team

NEWTON, N. C. (AP)—It may be a sad summer for followers of the Tar Heel Baseball League.

Plans for Newton-Conover's entry into the league dissolved yesterday. Officials had counted on Newton-Conover as the sixth team for the 1954 season. Other teams indicating readiness to play were Mooresville, Rutherford County, Hickory, Marion and Shelby.

Businessmen met here yesterday in an effort to raise $2,100, the club's filing fee to the league. Eddie Yount, who managed Newton-Conover in the Western Carolina League during the 1953 season, said the group was unable to raise the money.

Yount said "time was just too short" to overcome all the obstacles in fielding a local team. He said one obstacle was the debt accumulated the last time the Newton-Conover franchise was operated.

A minor league rule stipulated that debts must be paid within a five-year period or the franchise can not be operated. Walter Woodson Jr., president of the league, had said he planned to ask Minor League President George Trautman to waive the rule for Newton-Conover. Yount said the waiver was not allowed.

Jacksonville's Cardinals roared back from a seven point deficit with five minutes of play remaining in the ball game to eke out a 40-39 victory over Elizabeth City in the first game of the Northeastern Athletic Conference Tournament last night in Memorial Gym.

With five minutes of playing time remaining in the ball game, Elizabeth City was enjoying a 38-31 lead. Forward Bob Burkhardt caught a fire. Forward Bob Burkhardt dumped two free throws and seconds later Ronnie Toler dropped a driving layup shot to give the Yellow Jackets only a 38-35 lead.

Both teams played ragged and wild ball for the next two minutes but Jacksonville's Keith Stephenson hit a foul shot at the two minute mark to cut the EC lead to 38-36.

Captain Bob Burkhardt sank a jump shot with 1:25 left in the game to tie the score at 38-38. With 1:03 left in the game forward Bob Gilden sank a foul toss to give Elizabeth City a 39-38 lead but Burkhardt retaliated with a foul toss of his own. With 27 seconds to go in the ball game Stephenson dropped another foul shot to give Jacksonville a 40-39 edge. The Yellow Jackets then proceeded to miss four foul shots in the final ten seconds and lost their chance of a victory.

Burkhardt's 15 points was high for both teams for the night.

Washington Vs New Bern

In the final game of the night, Washington's Pam-Pack stood off a closing rally by the New Bern Bears to win 47-43.

The Pack went into the final period with a 35-24 lead and hung on firmly as they beat the Bears in a race against the clock.

The Pam-Pack held the Bears' ace forward Robert Kennel to five points and completely controlled both backboards in recording the win. Guard Charlie Bishop of Washington bagged 15 points to lead both teams in scoring.

Howell Leads Phants In Tournament Win

By WAYNE BISHOP
Reflector Sports Writer

Junior forward Bob Howell sank 28 points last night as he led his Greenville mates to a 66-48 victory over the Roanoke Rapids Yellow Jackets in the first round of the Northeastern Athletic Conference tournament.

The Greenies rallied from a two point halftime lead to turn the game into a rout in the final two stanzas.

First Half

Roanoke Rapids jumped off into a quick lead before the G-men could find the range of the basket. At that point Howell and sophomore center Harold Edwards pulled the Phantoms into a 9-9 tie. Terry Babb then hit a goal for Roanoke Rapids but George Sideris tied it up for the Greenies with a driving lay-up. Howell then pumped in six points and Edwards dropped one to give the Green Terrors an 18-14 lead at the end of the first quarter.

Paced by forward Flip Edmondson, the Yellow Jackets came back in the second period to knot the score up at 20-20, 22-22, and 23-23. Coach Farley's five pulled into a 30-28 halftime lead from there.

In the first half of play the Green Phantoms showed some difficulty in dropping their close shots as the strong backboard on the college gym threw them off stride. The Greenies grabbed nearly all the rebounds however, and that carried them through the half.

Second Half

After the intermission, the G-men began clicking on all cylinders and the Yellow Jackets could not cog up the high-scoring machine. By the end of the third quarter the Phantoms had piled up a 51-37 margin.

In the final period Coach Farley emptied his bench but the Greenies still pulled away to their 18 point margin of victory.

The Green Phantoms controlled both backboards throughout the game with Edwards and Howell leading the way with 14 and 13 respectively.

One of the lesser publicized stars of the Greenies played one of his most outstanding games of the year. Guard Pat Sawyer canned 9 points for the night and was one of the leading rebounders off the defensive backboards. Sawyer also played a whale of a defensive game and turned in a smooth ball handling performance. At times Sawyer's play making and passing was terrific as he certainly played a game of all-tournament calibre.

Howell took high scoring honors for the night with 28 points although Roanoke Rapids' Flip Edmondson gave him a close race. Edmondson pumped in 24 points to register half his team's total.

Harold Edwards was runner-up on the Greenville squad with 14 points. Even though he played only three quarters of the game, Edwards had four personal fouls called on him early in the fourth period and Coach Farley took out his big center for the rest of the game.

By virtue of their win last night and Washington's victory over New Bern, the Green Phantoms take on Washington tonight at 9 o'clock in a semi-final round. The first game of the night will start at 7:30 between Kinston and Jacksonville.

ECC And Lenoir Rhyne Expected Pass Semifinals

LEXINGTON, N. C. (AP)—East Carolina and Lenoir Rhyne are favored to survive semifinal competition in the North State Conference basketball tournament here tonight.

East Carolina's Pirates, regular season leader and top seeded in the tourney will meet Elon following tonight's Lenoir Rhyne-Atlantic Christian opener.

East Carolina had come from behind to down the smaller Guilford Quakers, 74-54, last night after Lenoir Rhyne took Appalachian, 86-61.

Guilford led 27-18 at halftime only to see the Pirate pick up steam in the second half. East Carolina held Guilford to seven fourth-period points while piling up 22. Capt. Bobby Hodges paced East Carolina with 26 points and forward Bill Atkins topped Quaker scoring with 21.

Second-seeded Lenoir Rhyne waited until the second period before opening a wide lead over Appalachian. Bob Ortmyr led Lenoir Rhyne with 26 points and three other Bears hit in double figures.

Atlantic Christian beat Catawba 100-74 in Wednesday night's opener as Elon rolled past Western Carolina, 84-77. The Bulldogs finished in an eighth-place tie with Catawba during the regular season.

Rate Infielder A Good Prospect

CLEARWATER Fla. (AP)—The Philadelphia Phillies are rating Robert (Mickey) Micelotta, 25-year-old New York City infielder, a good prospect to win a regular spot with the National League club this year.

The bespectacled Army veteran, who hit .297 for Terre Haute last year, is reported to have impressed Manager Steve O'Neill with his infield play and power at the bat.

There are two spots in the infield where the rookie might break in—shortstop Ted Kazanski is awaiting a call into the Army and third baseman Willie Jones has only a tentative hold on his job after his disappointing season in 1953. Micelotta has played both positions.

The Good Shepherd

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—John 10

The good shepherd knows his sheep by name and they know his voice and will follow him when he leads them out to pasture. And he will lay down his life for his sheep, Jesus said.

Jesus said He was the good shepherd who would lay down His life for His sheep. Some said He was a devil and mad; others declared He could not be a devil for He made the blind see.

Walking in Solomon's porch of the temple, Jesus' enemies asked Him to tell them if He was indeed the Christ. He said He had told them so but they believed not. They would have stoned Him.

If they believed not Him they might believe His works, said Jesus, but the Pharisees tried to seize Him. He escaped to the Jordan and many followed Him. MEMORY VERSE—John 10:16.

The Good Shepherd

HE LAID DOWN HIS LIFE FOR HIS SHEEP

Scripture—John 10

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL IN THE Old Testament the people of Israel are referred to many times as God's flock. False shepherds arose who deceived the people, and are condemned by the Testament.

In our lesson today Jesus tells a parable about the good shepherd and the bad: "Verily, verily, I say unto you, he that entereth not by the door into the sheep fold, but climbeth up some other way, the same is a thief and a robber. But he that entereth in by the door is the shepherd of the sheep.

"To him the porter openeth; and the sheep hear his voice; and he calleth his own sheep by name, and leadeth them out. And when he putteth forth his own sheep, he goeth before them, and they know his voice."

The sheep will not follow a stranger. The fold was a walled enclosure with only one door, we

Me, even so know I the Father; and I lay down My life for the sheep. "And other sheep I have, which are not of this fold; them also must I bring, and they shall hear My voice; and there shall be one fold, and one shepherd.

"Therefore doth My Father love Me, because I lay down My life, that I might take it again. No man taketh it from Me, but I lay it down of myself. I have power to lay it down, and I have power to take it again. This commandment have I received of My Father."

That is what Jesus meant by His time not being come. He knew when it was he would allow Himself to be taken and crucified. His Father had told Him.

At these words there was a division among the hearers. Many of them said, "He hath a devil; He is mad; why hear ye Him?" Others answered, "These are not the words of him that hath a are told. Dr. Wilbur Smith tells that when he was in Palestine he tried to imitate the voice of the sheep's shepherd, but that the sheep not only ignored his voice but were afraid and ran from him.

Presumably the people were interested in the parable, but they did not understand its meaning, as Jesus continued:

"Verily, verily I say unto you, I am the door of the sheep. All that ever came before Me are thieves and robbers; but the sheep did not hear them. I am the door; by Me if any man enter in, he shall be saved, and shall go in and out, and find pasture."

G. Campbell Morgan, quoted by Dr. Smith, explains the meaning of Jesus' words, "I am the door." There is no gate on the walled enclosure—the fold—only an opening. Crossing the Atlantic with Sir George Adam Smith, he says, the latter said he asked a shepherd why there was no door on the fold, and the man said, "I am the door, the sheep go inside and I come there and lie down across the threshold, and no sheep can get out except over my body, and no wolf can get in except over me."

So, except through Jesus no man can get into the fold of heaven.

"I am the Good Shepherd, and know My sheep, and am known of mine. As the Father knoweth devil. Can a devil open the eyes of the blind?" They would have stoned Him then, because they said He blasphemed.

Now as Jesus walked in the porch of Solomon's temple in Jerusalem many came to Him and inquired: "How long dost Thou make us to doubt? If Thou be the Christ, tell us plainly."

Jesus' answer was: "I told you, and ye believed not; the works I do in My Father's name, they bear witness of Me." Further He said: "Say ye of Him, whom the Father hath sanctified, and sent into the world, Thou blasphemest, because I said, I am the son of God? If I do not work of My Father, believe Me not. But if I do, though ye believe not Me, believe the works: that ye may know, and believe, that the Father is in Me, and I in Him."

At that they tried to seize Him, but He escaped and went beyond Jordan. Many followed and believed in Him.

How many voices can the children identify? Their mother's and father's, their teacher's, and many of their playmates, doubtless. We cannot hear Jesus' voice as did His believers or the Pharisees who were so set on doing away with Him, but we can remember His words as told us by the gospels, and they will help us believe and to do as He would have us. He is our Good Shepherd, and we are His sheep.

Truth Proves To Be Troublesome

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (A)—Radio station WHAS has found that truth is more troublesome than fiction. The station, planning a show featuring recordings made at the scene of police investigations, hit a snag because the one it scheduled to open the "Squad Car" series was "too interesting and enlightening." Made at the scene of a fatal shooting Jan. 8, it recorded the hysterical weeping of a relative of the victim and police questioning of the man accused of murder. Authorities who listened to the 10-minute recording asked the station not to broadcast it before the trial. They said it might make it difficult for the court to get an unbiased jury to hear the case.

Public Clash Wouldn't Result In Any Victors

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — No matter who won the skirmish between Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) and the Eisenhower administration's secretary of the Army, Robert T. Stevens, the Republicans as a party were bound to lose if the fighting became a public televised clash.

The Republicans had campaigned in 1952 on a promise to get Communists out of the government. And McCarthy was demanding information on why it took the Army, under Stevens, more than a year to get rid of a major who had refused to answer questions about membership in subversive organizations.

A wide-open fight between McCarthy and Stevens on this point, in an election year, might have split the party into McCarthy Republicans and Eisenhower Republicans. The showdown was avoided.

Stevens, who had ordered his generals to stand back while he handled the senator personally in a public hearing scheduled for today, agreed to give McCarthy what he wanted after talking with the senator two hours yesterday behind closed doors in the Capitol. McCarthy then called off today's hearing.

Afterwards Stevens was represented as surprised that the outcome was considered a defeat for him. But the general impression was that he yielded and, in so doing, created a bit of a mystery. Did he decide on his own to back down? He seemed determined up to a minute before he saw McCarthy yesterday, to go through with the showdown today, for when a reporter questioned him, he said: "I have no comment on anything. Tomorrow I'll have plenty of comment."

On the President Eisenhower, who returned to Washington just shortly before the face-to-face Stevens-McCarthy meeting, tell his Army secretary not to force an open break with the senator? Or did Vice President Nixon arrange it? He was close by while Stevens talked with McCarthy.

The White House said the President did not set up the meeting. Sen. Mundt (R-SD) said the idea for the session was his—not Eisenhower's or Nixon's.

Stevens said later he is not a man who surrenders. No matter what name is placed on his action, the fact is he gave McCarthy just what McCarthy wanted:

1. McCarthy wanted the names of the Army people who handled the case of Maj. Irving Peress a New York dentist, who received an honorable discharge this month after refusing, 14 months before, to answer questions about membership in subversive organizations.

2. McCarthy wanted to question two generals who had had some part, even though remote, in handling Peress' case. Stevens had told the generals not to appear before McCarthy because, he said the senator was "abusive."

Stevens, after his session with McCarthy, not only agreed to give the names of all those connected with the Peress case but let McCarthy call them for questioning. And he said McCarthy could question the generals too. Stevens said he's "confident" now officers will not be "abused."

Before it can be established whether this was a surrender or a truce, this question must be answered: Will McCarthy pursue this investigation and call the witnesses or will he let the Army make its own investigation and, perhaps, give the public a report?

It's possible the Eisenhower administration, which has had several bouts with McCarthy in the past year, may have decided to have it out with him once for all in this case and then suddenly changed its mind for strategic reasons.

Several months ago in discussing foreign affairs Secretary of State Dulles said that, if it came, the Eisenhower administration would choose its own battleground. In this dispute with McCarthy the Army had no choice of battleground. McCarthy chose it.

These are the facts as given by the Pentagon itself: Peress was commissioned a captain in October 1952 and a few days later refused to answer the questions on subversive organizations. Nevertheless, two months later he was called to active duty. In October 1953 he was made a major. On Dec. 30, 1953, Stevens said the Army decided to let him out because of an investigation it had made of him. On Jan. 18, 1954, the Army told him he must leave by April. On Jan. 30 McCarthy called him for questioning. The dentist refused, citing the Fifth Amendment, to answer questions. Two days later he asked for and got an honorable discharge.

McCarthy wants to know why it took the Army so long to make up its mind about Peress. Stevens already has acknowledged there were soft spots in the Army's handling of a case like this.

French Union Forces Can't Hit Rebels A Crushing Blow

HANOI, Indochina (AP)—The Viet-minh forces generally attack at night. They come out of the jungle with mortars, rifles, pistols, grenades, knives and razor-sharp bamboo spears.

Against this kind of foe the French Union forces even with their American-supplied fire power, never have been able to land a crushing blow.

The average soldier on the French-Vietnamese side is dead tired of the shadow war fought in jungle, rice fields and on forest-covered mountains. He is dead tired, but goes on fighting—usually against overwhelming numbers.

Indochina is half again as big as France, and has 25 million inhabitants. Viet Nam, with 20 millions is the largest state. About eight million of the Vietnamese live in the areas controlled by Communist Ho Chi Minh's Viet-minh forces. The other 12 million live in the zone of the Bao Dai government. The French-Vietnamese forces hold most of the richer areas, principally the deltas of the Red and Mekong rivers.

The conflict that has marred this land for more than seven years is basically a civil war. To millions of Vietnamese, Ho Chi Minh is the symbol of a fight for independence and an end to the remnants of French colonialism. Many of them dislike communism but still admire Ho Chi Minh.

The French count upon the increased zeal of loyal Vietnamese as the hope of an eventual military victory.

French admit there is much to be achieved before the Vietnamese become a first-class fighting force and before the people as a whole realize there is a war on. Over-all casualties top one million killed, wounded, captured or missing. The conflict has cost France and the Indochinese about 10 billion dollars. Two million Vietnamese have been uprooted from their homes.

The United States government regards the war as a struggle against the spread of communism into Southeast Asia and hence affecting the security of the United States. It has sent the United States half a billion dollars annually in war equipment supplied since 1950. This year America will pay out about 800 million dollars to support the anti-Communist struggle.

Red China is supplying the Viet-minh with 3,000 tons of war equipment monthly. If it decided to throw in regular or "volunteer" troops to help Ho Chi Minh, the situation obviously would change.

Currently, one hope for ending the war lies in the April conference at Geneva where Indochina as well as Korea is to be discussed. While some leaders of the Vietnamese government say the time is not ripe to discuss peace there is an underlying eagerness for peace among French Union forces (including the fledgling armies of Viet Nam, Cambodia and Laos) and among those Vietnamese aligned with Ho Chi Minh. France also is eager for peace.

Viet Nam's Premier Prince Buu Loo says Viet Nam wants a peace that guarantees "individual liberties, respects the government of the Viet Nam and the continuation of the Viet Nam nation." These will be guiding principles for the Vietnamese, Cambodian and Laotian delegations at Geneva.

How far Ho Chi Minh's demands may be pressed probably will rest in the hands of Red China.

The only place a battle seems likely in the near future is at the French Union fortress of Dien Bien Phu in northwestern Indochina, 80 miles west of Hanoi. There the Chinese-trained and equipped "elite" Vietminh divisions encircled the fortress. French Union troops have been snubbing out from the fortress in groups of 4,000 to 5,000 men in an effort to draw the Vietminh into a showdown battle.

If the French Union forces finally succeed and knock out of action the bulk of the 36,000 rebel troops, they will have scored the first major victory of this long war.

Elsewhere there does not appear to be any chance for a victory. The Vietminh have their 308th Division deep in northern Laos pointed at Luang Prabang. Gen. Henri Navarre, French commander in chief, says there is no chance of the Vietminh's taking Luang Prabang.

Afterwards Stevens was represented as surprised that the outcome was considered a defeat for him. But the general impression was that he yielded and, in so doing, created a bit of a mystery. Did he decide on his own to back down? He seemed determined up to a minute before he saw McCarthy yesterday, to go through with the showdown today, for when a reporter questioned him, he said: "I have no comment on anything. Tomorrow I'll have plenty of comment."

On the President Eisenhower, who returned to Washington just shortly before the face-to-face Stevens-McCarthy meeting, tell his Army secretary not to force an open break with the senator? Or did Vice President Nixon arrange it? He was close by while Stevens talked with McCarthy.

The White House said the President did not set up the meeting. Sen. Mundt (R-SD) said the idea for the session was his—not Eisenhower's or Nixon's.

Stevens said later he is not a man who surrenders. No matter what name is placed on his action, the fact is he gave McCarthy just what McCarthy wanted:

Stevens, after his session with McCarthy, not only agreed to give the names of all those connected with the Peress case but let McCarthy call them for questioning. And he said McCarthy could question the generals too. Stevens said he's "confident" now officers will not be "abused."

Before it can be established whether this was a surrender or a truce, this question must be answered: Will McCarthy pursue this investigation and call the witnesses or will he let the Army make its own investigation and, perhaps, give the public a report?

It's possible the Eisenhower administration, which has had several bouts with McCarthy in the past year, may have decided to have it out with him once for all in this case and then suddenly changed its mind for strategic reasons.

Several months ago in discussing foreign affairs Secretary of State Dulles said that, if it came, the Eisenhower administration would choose its own battleground. In this dispute with McCarthy the Army had no choice of battleground. McCarthy chose it.

These are the facts as given by the Pentagon itself: Peress was commissioned a captain in October 1952 and a few days later refused to answer the questions on subversive organizations. Nevertheless, two months later he was called to active duty. In October 1953 he was made a major. On Dec. 30, 1953, Stevens said the Army decided to let him out because of an investigation it had made of him. On Jan. 18, 1954, the Army told him he must leave by April. On Jan. 30 McCarthy called him for questioning. The dentist refused, citing the Fifth Amendment, to answer questions. Two days later he asked for and got an honorable discharge.

McCarthy wants to know why it took the Army so long to make up its mind about Peress. Stevens already has acknowledged there were soft spots in the Army's handling of a case like this.

Stock And Market Reports

WALL STREET—Stocks climbed today in a fairly active market with General Electric providing the big feature with a stock split.

Gains went to around 3 points at the most. The greatest number of changes were in a fractional range.

The pace of trading was well ahead of yesterday's 1,470,000 shares with the biggest part of trading enthusiasm built up on the rise.

General Electric directors proposed a three-for-one split of the common stock which raised ahead 3 points to a new high of 99 1/2 within a short time. Directors also declared a $1 dividend, the same as previously paid quarterly.

Aircraft displayed the widest gains of any major division. A measure of improvement also was shown by steels, some motors, utilities, oils, radio-televisions, and some chemicals.

Among higher stocks were Union Oil of California and U.S. Rubber (both of which reported increased earnings) North American Aviation (following a dividend increase) Boeing Douglas Aircraft, Philco, U.S. Steel, General Motors, New York Central, American Telephone (at a new high), and Sinclair Oil.

Accident Case Tried Within Eleven Hours

Two men who were involved in an accident at one a.m. this morning had been tried, one convicted and one found not guilty by 10:30 morning.

Found not guilty by Judge Charles Whedbee in Recorder's Court this morning on a charge of failure to give a hand signal was Richard N. Grubbs of Route 2, Winterville. Waverly Parrott, Route 1, Winterville, driver of the second vehicle, was found guilty of passing at an intersection, however.

Patrolman James W. Boykin who investigated the accident, said that the accident occurred about one mile north of Winterville. He stated that both cars were headed towards Greenville and that Parrott was passing Grubbs just as Grubbs attempted to make a turn into a side road.

Boykin said that each car received about $200 damage.

Jail Term Given Man For Larceny On ECC Campus

East Carolina College campus police arrested a marine last night and charged him with the theft of a flashlight and a cigarette lighter from parked cars on the campus of the college.

The stolen articles were valued at approximately $5.

Arrested for the theft was Norman S. Smith of the Cherry Point Marine Base. He was arrested by John L. Harrell of the campus police force.

ECC police reported this morning that the 21-year-old marine was caught going through parked automobiles last night.

He was tried by Judge Charles H. Whedbee in Recorder's Court this morning and found guilty of larceny. Judge Whedbee sentenced the defendant to 10 days in the county jail.

Firemen Called To Two Fires

Local firemen were called to a grass fire at 1212 Battle Street yesterday afternoon at 12:37 p.m.

The fire fighters reported that the blaze was set by children and was quickly extinguished.

The department was also called to 205 Vance Street at 11:25 yesterday when a pan of grease caught fire. The room was slightly damaged by smoke but no fire loss resulted.

Senate At Point Of Decision On Curbing Treaties

WASHINGTON (U—The Senate) after five weeks of controversy, over proposed curbs on treaty powers, appeared to be at the point of decision today with the issue teetering in the balance.

Whether any proposed constitutional amendment would get the two-thirds vote required seemed likely to be decided by a hairline margin.

Senators Knowland of California and Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Republican and Democratic floor leaders, said they believed final voting would come today.

The possibilities as the Senate reached the crucial point were three:

1. Passage of a three-point package plan proposed by Knowland and other Republican Senate leaders and already tentatively approved by majority vote. Knowland says it is acceptable to President Eisenhower.
2. Passage of a substitute proposal by Sen. George (D-Ga) which the administration opposes, although not as determined as it did the starting point of the debate, an amendment offered by Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio).
3. Failure of either of these two proposals to muster the needed two-thirds margin. That would almost certainly shelve the whole issue for this year.

Approval would have to be followed by similar House action and ratification by 36 states to write the amendment into the Constitution.

Late yesterday the Senate defeated 60-42 a new section by Bricker, which he described as embodying the heart of his original proposed amendment.

Twenty-nine Republicans and 13 Democrats, most of them Southerners, supported Bricker. But 32 Democrats along with 17 Republicans and Sen. Morse (Ind-Ore) voted "no."

The next test, due today is to vote on the substitute offered by George for the tentatively approved plan of the GOP Senate leaders.

George and Johnson both predicted the substitute would get the simple majority needed to displace the GOP leaders' plan. But neither would claim that it could win the necessary two-thirds vote on final passage. Both said the result would be "very close."

A highly placed Senate Republican who asked that his name not be used conceded that the George substitute probably would win a majority on the first test. But he said he did not think it could get two-thirds.

At least 18 senators oppose any constitutional change on the treaty-making power. The size of this group was shown in the 74-18 vote by which the Senate rejected yesterday a motion by Morse to send the Bricker resolution back to the Judiciary Committee for more study.

The package already tentatively adopted by the Senate contains two sections designed to make certain that treaties and other international agreements are subordinate to the Constitution. The other provision would require roll-call votes on Senate ratification of treaties.

George's substitute contains the roll-call provision and also a section identical with one in the Republican leaders' plan to establish that treaties or executive agreements in conflict with the Constitution are void.

But the key section of the substitute—the one to which the administration objects—states that an executive agreement not submitted for Senate ratification cannot be effective domestically in this country without an act of Congress.

Mid-East Alliance Hopes Said Rising

By WARREN ROGERS JR., WASHINGTON (U—American officials) were reported more optimistic today than in some time over prospects for a Middle East defense alliance, despite political upheavals in Syria and Egypt.

While these countries are not envisioned as part of a defense chain to ring Russia's southern border, their affairs naturally influence the actions of their neighbors.

The council of 13 young army officers who rule Egypt made a point of announcing there would be no change in Egypt's friendly attitude toward the West. This backed up a State Department estimate that the ouster of Mohammed Naguib as president-premier was an "internal affair" only.

There was no ready interpretation of fast-breaking developments in Syria. A military coup there forced the resignation of Adib Shisheky, who has survived 26 assassination attempts while ruling with an iron hand for three years.

The big news, from the standpoint of the proposed Middle East alliance, was President Eisenhower's announcement yesterday of U.S. military aid for Pakistan.

Eisenhower was careful to notify India's Prime Minister Nehru in a letter obviously intended to avoid any further ruffling of Nehru's oft-voiced sensitivity toward arms for the Near East.

Nehru has campaigned long and hard against military aid for Pakistan or any other country of the region. He argues this will upset the balance of peace.

Under American officials were understood to feel that, having had his say, he may ease his criticisms now that they failed to block Pakistan arms aid. The Indian leader has said he will not move toward communism in anger but will continue his efforts to weld a neutral buffer bloc between the East and West.

At Karachi, Prime Minister Mohammed Ali said Pakistan has pledged "not to engage in any act of aggression against any nation."

He added that the United States has not asked for bases or other concessions.

'Gloomy' British Churchman Dies

LONDON (U—Dr. William R. Inge 93, famed British churchman and former "Gloomy Dean" of St. Paul's Cathedral, died today.

He had been ill for several weeks with bronchitis.

His mind was alert to the end. Even as he reached 90, he came forth with yet another of the dour predictions which gave him his nickname: "We are approaching another dark age."

In 1944, during World War II, at 83 he said: "As a great industrial nation we shall not and cannot recover from this war."

Dr. Inge once explained how he got the title "Gloomy Dean."

"I believe I had a reputation for gloom at one time," he said, "just because I tried to tell the truth as I saw it."

He was dean of St. Paul's, one of the Church of England's greatest cathedrals and Sir Christopher Wren's architectural masterpiece, from 1911 to 1934.

The American Heart Association estimates that the United States has about 750,000 deaths annually from heart trouble.

At London, a Foreign Office spokesman said the British, "being convinced that the grant of aid is designed to strengthen the defense of the free world, believe that it will not be detrimental to India's defense."

As yet, there was no official comment from New Delhi but it was speculated there Nehru might discuss the matter in Parliament today.

Speculation on the amount of military aid to Pakistan has run to between 25 and 50 million dollars. But officials said no figures are firm until a military survey team goes to Pakistan and determines the country's needs.

Eisenhower also emphasized the recent Pakistan-Turkey agreement to form an alliance with an "open end," that is, open to other Near East nations. The United States has given strong behind-the-scenes support to Pakistan-Turkey negotiations while maintaining an official hands-off attitude.

4-H District Sweet Potato Show Hailed A Big Success

BETHEL—The Northeastern Negro 4-H District Sweet Potato Show had its beginning at the Bethel High School last Wednesday.

Pitt County Negro Farm Agent James M. Goode said the show was an outstanding success and it will be held on a larger scale next year.

The program opened with a welcome address by E. A. Elliott, principal of the Bethel Negro High School and greetings from Calvin Henderson, president of Pitt County Negro 4-H Council.

Thirty-one 4-Hers from 18 counties in the northeastern district exhibited their one-bushel baskets of sweet potatoes. W. T. Flowers, horticulture extension specialist, judged the potatoes, using the Danish system of judging.

Jim Carney, Pitt County 4-Her from Bethel, exhibited the Grand Champion bushel of potatoes for 1954. Last year it was won by Nash County.

Rufus Ward, Martin County 4-Her, exhibited the Reserve Bushel basket of potatoes.

It was brought out in the program that more potatoes were exhibited and the quality better than at any previous shows in the district.

The 31 exhibitors won premiums totaling $62.

The prizes are given annually by R. A. Fonton, FCX, Raleigh.

In addition to the one bushel exhibition, 18 judging teams were present. A Beaufort County judging team won 1st place with a score of 508 out of a possible 600; Wilson County won 2nd place with a score of 489 and Warren County won 3rd with 438 points.

Top individual winner in the 4-H judging contest was Alvester Hobbs of Wilson County with a score of 194.5 out of a possible 200; Eugene Corey of Beaufort County with 181.2 points and Alice Simpson of Hertford County, 3rd place with 177.5 points.

After the judging contest, approximately 400 people were present.

"That's what you mine from germanium," he explained.

Although northern lights are most familiar to residents of the northern hemisphere, there are similar lights in the Antarctic.

imately 500 0-Hers and adults and leaders toured the Bethel Sweet Potato Auction Market, and made observations while the market was in operation.

J. H. Harris, manager of the market, J. R. Cullifer, auctioneer, and W. T. Flowers, horticulture extension specialist, explained to the group pointers on storing, processing, and marketing as carried on at the plant.

The lecture and demonstration was followed by an auction sale for the 31 4-Hers who had prepared the show. The potatoes were auctioned and sold for $95.85, with sales ranging from $2 to $5, with an average of $3.10 per bushel.

Later the program was served lunch by Mrs. Ivey M. Wilson, home economics teacher at the Bethel Negro High School. After lunch the group was entertained by E. A. McCoy, county agent of Pasquotank County, with a quiz program on the sweet potato. Twenty half-dollars were given 4-Hers answering questions correctly. The program ended with a history of the 4-H District Sweet Potato Show and music selections by the Bethel choral group.

Capitol Square

Despite the attitude of some Democratic candidates, Republicans are people, too.

It is also true that the farmer who owns and works his own land is necessarily as much a business man as the owner-operator of a factory which produces the products of the farm. That is why efforts to array the farmers against the business men, the rural people against residents of cities and towns, failed to pay off in a long range program. Some politicians who played on that chord a few years ago, who ridiculed civic clubs made up mostly of non-farming business men, are now playing up to the business man membership in such clubs.

That situation on surface appearance justifies the charge of political expediency rather than consistency on part of the candidates. Some of their supporters challenge that appraisal, and insist there is absolute consistency all the way. The primary objective being to get as many votes as possible, it is consistent for the candidate to do whatever at the time seems likely to be most productive of votes.
