President Slaps At Unfair Tactics In Investigations

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower hit out today at "disregard of the standards of fair play" in congressional investigations...

but there could be no doubt he was aiming at him, for the President coupled his remarks about congressional investigations with praise for Brig. Gen. Ralph Zwicker.

McCarthy later called Zwicker for questioning about Peress and, in a heated session behind closed doors, told the general at one point that he was not fit to wear his uniform.

This brought from Stevens a denunciation of "abuse" of Army officers.

In his 800-word statement, Eisenhower outlined a three-point code he said ought to be followed in combating internal communism:

"1. We must be unceasingly vigilant in every phase of governmental activity to make certain that there is no subversive penetration.

"2. In opposing communism, we are defeating ourselves if either by design or through carelessness we use methods that do not conform to the American sense of justice and fair play.

"3. The conscience of America will clearly discern when we are exercising proper vigilance without being unfair. That conscience is reflected in the body of the United States Congress.

Security Risks Report Fails To Please Demos Still Dissatisfied

WASHINGTON (AP)—Democrats on the Senate Civil Service Committee voiced dissatisfaction today with an accounting of the administration's security risk cases given yesterday by Chairman Philip Young of the Civil Service Commission.

Young told the committee that the number of "security risks" cut off the federal payroll between May and the end of 1953 now has been raised to 2,247 from the 2,200 figure last used by President Eisenhower.

He said 383 of these had information of a subversive nature in their files. But he conceded he did not know whether even one of the 383 actually was fired for that reason. He also said under close questioning that he could not say for sure whether any were disloyal.

Sen. Olin D. Johnston (D-SC), senior Democrat on the group, said, "They started out with 1,456 and then raised it to 2,200. Both those are out the window. Now they're down to 383 and even that figure is all scrambled up."

New Security Proposals For Congressmen Being Considered Move To Indict Four Puerto Ricans

WASHINGTON (AP)—Officials moved today toward swift indictment of four Puerto Rican fanatics who shot and wounded five congressmen in a wild affray Monday. At the same time Capitol Hill pondered new security proposals.

Congressional leaders were generally agreed, although unofficially, that no outright precautions can be devised.

The five house members felled by the fusillade from the visitors' gallery apparently were recovering, although one of them, Rep. Alvin M. Bentley (R-Mich), remained in critical condition. A bullet pierced his lung stomach and liver.

Dr. George Crile, a specialist who flew here from Cleveland to examine the 35-year-old congressman, gave him a better than even chance to recover.

30 Years Ago Today

THE DAILY REFLECTOR
March 3, 1924

A scene of beauty greeted the eyes on Tuesday afternoon as several hundred guests stepped from the chill and rainy out-of-doors into the brilliantly illuminated and gorgeously decorated home of Mrs. G. B. W. Hadley, where Mrs. Hadley and Mrs. S. T. White entertained at a reception in honor of their house guests, Mesdames Walter La Roque and Emmett Wooten of Kinston, Mrs. W. W. Graves of Wilson, Mrs. B. F. Harris of Henderson and several visitors.

Strains of music from Edmonds Orchestra greeted the ears, intermingled with song of many canary birds, the chatter of tongues and peals of gay laughter.

Beautiful flowers and lighted tapers added to the festive appearance of the house, the color scheme being yellow and green. Daffodils, narcissus, freesias and snapdragons were the flowers used.

The dining room was decorated as for a bridal party, and a feast fit for royalty was served consisting of "royal chicken" on lettuce hearts, garnished with sliced tomato and mayonnaise, beaten biscuits, salines and pickles.

Hidden by a mound of yellow snapdragons and ferns sat Mrs. E. B. Ferguson, serving from heaped platters.

With one parting glance around at the kaleidoscopic scene of beautiful gowns and animated faces which defy description, reluctant adieu was said to Mrs. V. P. Scoville and Mrs. H. E. Austin, who stood at the side porch.

So came to an end the first of a series of society events which are to follow in close succession during the week; but it is certain that none of them can be more enjoyable than this one.

The Youthful Workers Club held its regular monthly meeting at the club building Monday night. We had a chicken stew supper and charged $1.00 per plate. We realized a nice profit from this supper to go in our fund to help needy people. The meeting was presided over by Mrs. Louise Tyson in the absence of the president. The following officers for the coming year were elected as follows: Mrs. Ernest Cassick, president; Louis Holloway, vice-president; Mrs. Lawrence Tyson, secretary; and Mrs. Travis Crawford, treasurer. It was voted to change the meeting to Thursday night after each fourth Sunday of the month.

It was also decided to visit the County Home on Sunday, March 14, at 3:00. Ministers of our churches are invited to go with us, and anyone interested in bringing cheer to the residents of the Home are urged to go. We are making this a monthly affair.

After a short program, the club adjourned to meet again on Thursday night, April 1, at 7:30 in the club building.

Honesty Failed In Courtesy Plan

OXFORD, N.C. (AP)—The Oxford Chamber of Commerce, assuming people are honest, dreamed up a good will-building plan for careless motorists. When policemen saw a car by a parking meter on which the time had run out, they would put in a nickel and leave a note asking the driver to repay the chamber instead of paying a traffic fine.

The plan was dropped after a one-week trial about the only people putting money in the meters were the policemen, and strangers who didn't know the police would.

Adenauer Offers Talk Over French Discords

PARIS (AP)—Foreign Minister Georges Bidault had under consideration today a bid by West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer for new talks immediately on French-German differences blocking the Europe Defense Community.

Adenauer disclosed last night he had written the French government proposing he and Bidault meet to discuss a settlement of the Saar question and other problems before he leaves next Tuesday for a three-week visit to Greece and Turkey.

A deadlock over the future of the Saar, the coal-bearing, German-speaking border state now linked economically to France, is one of the main roadblocks to French approval of the European Defense Community Treaty that would arm West German troops within a six-nation compact.

The Germans do not wish to renounce their old claims to the territory, but say they would "Europeanize" it pending a final peace treaty. France wants a self-governing Saar tied up with her mines, mills and transport to help maintain her as almost the industrial equal of West Germany.

Hoping the French Assembly would vote soon on the defense treaty, Adenauer decided to try for a quick settlement with the French to help the re-EDC forces in Paris.

Bidault had asked for an early conference on the Saar. But with Indochina war problems on his hands, the French foreign minister did not indicate immediately whether he could meet with Adenauer on such short notice.

If he declines, Adenauer's absence from Bonn until late in the month would postpone the possible removal of the Saar obstacle.

The French Cabinet is heading toward a showdown over whether to push the EDC plan to a quick vote or shuffle along in the hope its chances will be better after Easter.

The conflict evidently pits a considerable pro-EDC faction in the Cabinet against Premier Joseph Laniel. The Premier is reported insisting on a slower pace in bringing the issue to a vote than is favored by Bidault and several other ministers.

The New York Times said in a dispatch from Paris today the United States has told French officials it will make a declaration of policy on keeping its troops in Europe whenever the French Cabinet fixes a date for the parliamentary vote on the treaty—but not before.

There was no immediate comment from official sources in Washington or Paris.

The French government had asked for an agreement that U.S. and British troops remain in Europe as counterweights to the West German forces to be created under the treaty and as guarantees of German fidelity to the treaty.

A 125-car train, pulled by three Diesel engines and possibly the longest train ever to come into Greenville, arrived last night about 7:30.

It was a Norfolk-Southern train, detouring from Washington over an Atlantic Coast Line route via Plymouth, after a trestle was damaged by fire near Washington Sunday night.

A total of 21 spans of the trestle were burned in the fire Sunday that is thought by railroad officials began from a forest fire.

The 125-car train arrived here last night and then changed, sending part of the load to Charlotte and the other part to Marsden and New Bern.

There was another train, this one with 100 cars, leaving Greenville last night for Washington. It also detoured over the Coast line route by Plymouth, it was reported.

The trains, which came over the different route, were piloted by Atlantic Coast Line men even though the equipment was owned by Norfolk-Southern.

House Committee Appears Set To Buck Tax Program

By CHARLES F. BARRETT

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Ways and Means Committee appeared primed to buck the Eisenhower administration today and approve a cut in more than a dozen major excise or sales taxes.

Republican and Democratic committee members predicted an almost unanimous vote for a bill introduced yesterday by Chairman Daniel A. Reed (R-NY) to slash all excises now above 10 per cent down to that level.

Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey in a statement last night said the government could not afford such broad, sweeping reductions now.

While cutting some excises, the bill would cancel indefinitely reductions set under present law for April 1 on liquor, tobacco, gasoline, automobiles, beer and wine.

The two actions would almost balance out if the House and Senate go along. The new cuts would reduce revenues almost one billion dollars a year. Killing the scheduled reductions would retain present revenues of about $1,100,000,000.

The Eisenhower administration had requested that the scheduled reductions be canceled, and originally had opposed any loss in revenue from excises. After Reed introduced his bill, Humphrey said the Treasury was prepared to go along with cuts in a few selected excises "where industries were being badly hurt by especially high rates."

But he said the administration could not support across-the-board cuts of up to one billion dollars proposed by Reed. Republican leaders, however, said they did not expect an all-out fight by the administration.

Humphrey praised cooperation between the Treasury and the committee on other issues. Only yesterday, the committee voted 22-2 to approve an administration request to cancel two billion dollars in annual corporation income tax cuts, also scheduled under present law for April 1.

The recommendation to retain the present top corporation of 52 per cent, rather than permitting it to decline to 47 per cent, was thrown into an 800-page bill to overhaul most of the nation's tax laws. House leaders plan to bring the excise bill to the floor first, probably early next week.

Reed's bill would cut to 10 per cent, effective April 1, these present excise rates:

25 per cent tax on long-distance telephone calls and leased wires, saving taxpayers an estimated 250 million dollars a year.

20 per cent "luxury" tax on furs, jewelry, cosmetics, women's handbags and luggage, saving an additional 250 million.

20 per cent tax on admissions to movies, sports events, night clubs and other entertainments, saving 175 million.

20 per cent tax on cameras, photographic equipment, light bulbs, club dues and safe deposit boxes, saving about 57 million.

15 per cent tax on local telephone bills and domestic telegrams, saving about 123 million.

15 per cent tax on rail, bus and air passenger fares, saving 87 million.

15 per cent tax on pens, mechanical pencils, lighters, and sporting goods, saving about 7 million.

Teachers Called Upon To Promote Science Interest

Russ Peterson, assistant manager of Dupont in Kinston, was principal speaker at a meeting of Pitt County science teachers Monday afternoon in the Tucker Building.

Peterson told the teachers that there is a demand for technical trained men and women now and it is increasing even more each year.

He explained that out of several thousand students who enrolled at a large university recently only two students elected to major in Chemistry.

The teachers were asked to make a contribution toward guiding the high school students to the field of science.

Peterson told the teachers that Dupont has set aside $700,000 in Scholarships for teachers who desire to go back to school to further their education in the science field. He explained that there are no strings attached to the money.

The Dupont assistant manager also showed a film "Better Things For Better Living Through Chemistry."

The film showed the value of good high school science teaching. It attributed the teacher as the person who should develop an interest in chemistry in the minds of the students.

It was pointed out in the film that two qualifications of every good teacher is the love for the subject and the ability to communicate the enthusiasm to the pupils.

Peterson explained that it might be possible soon to allow Pitt County high school students, who are interested in science, to tour the plant in Kinston.

At a short business session the teachers decided to review new science textbooks and make plans for next year's work at the next meeting.

Winfred Bunch, Grimesland science teacher, presided at the meeting and Mrs. Edna Earle Baker, County Supervisor, introduced the speaker.

Need For Rural Fire Protection Here

The position taken by Greenville Fire Chief George Gardner last Saturday in not sending a local fire truck to answer a call from a rural area has caused much comment and considerable criticism from some sources since then.

In our opinion the position taken by Chief Gardner is understandable and justified.

Chief Gardner asserted he arrived at the decision not to send a truck to the fire some three miles from town because he felt the absence of the truck he would have sent would have jeopardized the fire protection of the city. It can not be questioned that the first responsibility of the fire department of Greenville or any other city or town is for the protection of the property within its corporate limits. That responsibility must take precedence over desires to lend a helping hand in fire fighting outside the corporate limits.

In the past on numerous occasions the local fire department has sent a truck and firemen into rural areas to fight fires. The service has been rendered without charge by the city. But the truck which has been used for such calls was not in operating condition Saturday when the call in question came in.

The incident which occurred Saturday afternoon points up emphatically the need for some sort of arrangement for rural fire protection for the area surrounding the city of Greenville. In Ayden, Winterville, Bethel, Grifton and Farmville, an arrangement has been worked out for furnishing fire protection for the surrounding rural areas by the purchase of specially equipped trucks paid for at least partially, if not wholly, by membership fees of rural members of the association.

A similar arrangement has been proposed for Greenville along with other proposals; but so far none of the proposals for providing the protection to the surrounding rural area has been carried through to completion.

In fairness, the citizens who own property in rural areas around Greenville can not expect the city to continue to use its equipment at any time to fight rural fires.

It is our considered opinion it would be mutually advantageous for the city and the people of the rural areas near the city if a rural fire protection association, patterned after those of other Pitt County towns, were worked out for Greenville and the rural area surrounding it.

Rural fire protection associations have proved satisfactory in the sections of Pitt County in which they are in operation; and there is no reason a similar program could not be worked out for Greenville and the rural area immediately surrounding it.

Auto Inspection Is Voluntary This Time

North Carolina motorists are going to have the opportunity in April to have a free mechanical inspection of their automobiles, and at the same time aid the highway safety program of the state.

The voluntary, free auto inspection campaign being planned by the Carolina Safety League can mean a great deal to the state highway safety program and to individual motorists if they will cooperate.

Inspections of autos will be made at hundreds of garages throughout the state free of charge to motor vehicle owners. It will be an entirely voluntary undertaking since there is no law now in North Carolina requiring mechanical inspection for motor vehicles.

If it does nothing more than bring to the attention of individual motorists mechanical defects in their motor vehicles, it will contribute a great deal to highway safety in the state.

When North Carolina had a compulsory motor vehicle inspection program several years ago, it became a very unpopular requirement among some groups of citizens in the state. Consequently the legislature voted to repeal the act which set up the inspections.

combining with the crisis over coffee prices to aggravate relations with the United States. The central figure in the dispute there is Lauchlin Currie, former White House Secretary and a missing mystery man in the alleged Communist conspiracy. Currie is now economic adviser to the Colombian Government.

In her testimony to the FBI and Congressional Committee, Elizabeth Bentley linked Currie with White as among the Reds' most influential aides. Through them, she said, her superiors could land their agents in key and sensitive posts, and transfer them throughout wartime agencies in accord with the Reds' designs. He has never been called as a witness by the Jenner Security Committee, despite suggestions to that effect.

ADVISED ON LOAN TO COLOMBIA—It has just been learned in Colombia that Currie, in his capacity as a financial expert, advised against an Export-Import Bank loan for development of a Colombian steel plant. As a result, the financing had to be obtained in France at higher interest rates. It is not certain whether Currie still has influence with the E-I institution.

Since this disclosure, South American newspapers have begun to suggest that "Currie go home." They are also asking why he has not been summoned to "answer the questions which doubtless will be put to him concerning his connections with the fabulous Mr. White." Ironically, Colombia has been one of our greatest friends, and one of the few Latin countries that contributed sizable help in Korea.

COFFEE QUESTION—The Brazilians are apparently becoming deeply concerned over American housewives' indignation on the coffee question. American diplomats and businessmen seem to have persuaded them to "keep their shirts on," explaining that politicians facing re-election were stirring up the issue.

It is understood that Brazil will suggest to our State Department that the problem be discussed at a special Inter-American Conference. U.S. aid in increasing output and modernizing production methods will be sought.

Traffic Lights Have Changed Color

Traffic lights in Greenville have recently been undergoing a change in color.

We do not have reference to the red-to-yellow-to-green sequence of the lighting effect; but to the color of the fixtures themselves.

For a long time the fixtures have been painted a dark shade of green. Now for the most part the traffic lights are getting a new color of bright yellow which makes their perch on poles at intersections much more conspicuous. Before the changing of color scheme for the traffic lights, many of them in the business section of the city were somewhat difficult to see if one did not know where to look.

Now with the new yellow paint job, they are standing out like un-camouflaged sentinels of safety. We don't know whose idea it was to paint them yellow, but it appears a good one.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
WHOSE FAULT?

Not long ago two men were discussing juvenile delinquency. A gang of teen-age boys had just been arrested after a series of petty house-breaking escapades. One man cited the movies, television, and comic books as the cause of such outbreaks. "Everywhere you turn, it's the same—crime stories," he said. "Even if the creek isn't actually the hero, he's still made such a romantic figure that all the boys envy him."

The other man had a different theory. "The real trouble," he asserted, "is the schools. If children were made to study as hard now as when we were young, they wouldn't have time to sit around and watch crime programs on television."

If these men had heard more about the case histories of the boys who had just been caught, their solutions might have been different. One boy was living in a foster home; two had lost their fathers by divorce or death; a fourth was one of a family of ten children notorious for being neglected by their parents. In every case there was a distinct lack of parental affection and interest.

Television, movies, and comic books may have an effect, but the greatest influence of all is the home. Parents who really care strive to make their children's sense of love and security strong enough to resist any evil force.

Startled By Swedish Reports

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON—Members of the Senate-House Armed Services Committee plan to question Pentagon atomic experts on a recent article in Sweden's official military publication that reveals more detailed information on our atomic stockpile and production capacity than has ever been vouchsafed to the American Congress.

Unless they can answer satisfactorily, the Swedish revelations may lead Congress to deply the Eisenhower request for authority to inform our allies of the power and possibilities of nuclear weapons. His proposal has already found a chilly reception because of fear that too widespread knowledge of our A and H-bomb developments may enable Russia to pry into more secrets.

Like Switzerland, Sweden represents a geographically strategic outpost for international spying and espionage. It remained neutral during both World Wars I and II.

U. S. ATOMIC STOCKPILE—The provocative article was written by Major General Richard Akerman, Sweden's Chief of Staff, and the publication is edited by the Staff. Although he sprinkles his analysis with qualifying statements, his figures conform with remarkable accuracy to unofficial estimates at Washington and in other world capitals.

General Akerman says that the United States now has "considerably more than 1,000 A-bombs and other nuclear weapons," the latter possibly being a reference to H-bomb stockpiling. He may be in error on this point, although it is believed that a few experimental types of the more powerful weapons have been made. He places the Soviet supply of A-bombs at a "few hundred."

Akerman estimates that the U.S. can manufacture "several hundred new bombs a year," as against about 100 for Russia. He reports that both countries are expanding production facilities rapidly. By 1950, he thinks that each protagonist in the cold war will have increased output from five to tenfold.

MYSTERY MAN—The shadow of the Harry Dexter White scandal has fallen over South America.

Grooming For His Debut

Somebody Told Me

Never A Dull Moment For Her

Yesterday the City Manager's wife, Eloise Hughes, was talking to me about her new approach to the house-to-house Red Cross drive. She is chairman of the drive this year. Before discussing the matter further with her, she had to agree to tell me what it's like to be the City Manager's wife.

"Never a dull moment!" she said. "And I love it." As a minister's daughter Eloise became accustomed to public life and now as a city manager's wife she is just as involved.

"Naturally my life is centered around Jim's job," she says. "Our routine of life is controlled by his responsibilities and engagements so naturally I am constantly aware of what's in progress. And I'm very much interested."

"Everybody I meet expects me to know what's going on in the city's activities, and I try to keep posted. Jim's job is fascinating to me. There's no sameness about it."

In addition to following Jim's activities and routine family responsibilities with the two Hughes children (both boys, seven and one-half and ten and one-half), Eloise has a position that many women would consider full-time within itself. She is National President of the Alumnae Association of Mary Washington College. Does the job require much traveling?

"Yes," she says, "but I wouldn't accept it unless they excused me from most of that. Of course I have visited some of the chapters and hope to visit more soon."

Eloise says that as the City

Manager's wife she is often called on for civic activities, like her responsibility in the current Red Cross Drive. Her idea is this: In the past, the house-to-house callers have been told something like this by some residents: "My husband gave our part." In order to make the drive a success we must stretch our giving, so Eloise is urging housewives to give a little if not a lot.

"We would really appreciate it if we could get only a small donation from each housewife. After all, it takes small ones to meet the goal."

Don't be ashamed to give a little; it's far better than giving an excuse.

And I thank you.

What Other Editors Are Thinking

MONTH OF DECISION
(Henderson Dispatch)

March arrived today as the month of decision as to what the Federal government will do or not do in a big way to head off a further sag in the national economy. President Eisenhower said two weeks ago that his administration will be guided in large part by developments this month, which he indicated would be accepted as a barometer of trends, whether up or down.

Exactly what and how much can be done is not entirely out in the open, other than tax cuts to leave more money with the individual and with business to be spent as stimulus to trade, and broadening of social security and unemployment compensation. At least for the present, and until the pump could thus be primed, and hence increase the flow of Federal revenues, an added deficit in government finances might be expected.

The downward lag became noticeable last summer, and the trend has continued since then at a very slow rate but definitely noticeable. Administration leaders have held that this was only an adjustment following the truce in Korea, but some Democrats argue the country is already in a recession. Significantly, no one goes so far as to designate the situation as a depression, and few anticipate a slump of such proportions. No one apparently looks for anything like what was experienced in the early thirties.

Some economists, who say there has been a ten percent letdown, foresee a further drop of about five percent, after which, by mid-summer or early autumn, an upturn will take place which will increase and broaden out to dissipate the major portion of the decline.

In some areas, including our own, the ravaging effects of last summer's serious drought have intensified the over-all adjustment — if actually that is what it is. Given a good season and normal yields this year, much of that reverse would be overcome by harvest time. Unfortunately, we are feeling the evil effects of both conditions.

Keen observers will watch with anxious eye the trend this month. Best opinion is that there will be no sensational upturn during March. That would mean, then, according to the President, that the Federal government will step into the picture with the resources at its command to head off any further serious decline. By April, we should have a better picture of the outlook.

Around Capitol Square

By LYNN NISBET

CIVILIAN DEFENSE — Six months to the day after the post became vacant, Brig. Gen. Edward F. Griffin of Louisville was sworn in as State director of civilian defense. Since Col. W.F. Bailey resigned to become director of prisons on September 1 the CD agency has been operating under temporary acting leadership.

Governor Umstead in a few remarks after the oath was administered to Gen. Griffin observed that the office could well become the most important in North Carolina overnight. He emphasized, too, the diversity of activities other than those directly related to enemy attack or disaster. He took occasion to publicly thank those in the office who have carried on the work so efficiently in the absence of a fully recognized director.

The Governor did not mention names, but main honors go to Russell Nicholson as acting director and Mrs. Sarah B. Weaver in charge of public relations and women's work.

The new director comes on the job equipped with wide experience as a peace time officer in the National Guard and a combat leader in World War II, as a legislator and a practicing attorney.

The several dozen friends who gathered for the swearing in ceremony at the Governor's office were impressed by the oath the new director was required to take. In addition to the usual clauses about supporting the constitution and laws of the United States and of North Carolina, it contained emphatic reference to non-membership in political parties or organizations whose purpose is to overthrow our government by force.

Associate Justice Hunt Parker, inured as he is to impressive documents and significant phrases, was moved to comment: "That is a right impressive oath."

HEADQUARTERS — Campaign headquarters for Senator Alton Lennon were formally opened in the Manteo room of the Sir Walter Hotel Monday morning, almost a week after Kerr Scott had formally opened at the Carolina Hotel. That means the race for the Democratic nomination for the United States Senate is in every sense "official."

The Scott organization is more nearly complete. He has Terry Sanford as accredited manager; Mrs. Mary McIver Stanford as head of the women's division; W.B. Whitley as publicity director, and Mrs. Grace Lane as receptionist.

Lennon has John C. Rodman as manager and Mrs. Annie E. Cooper as receptionist, with directors of women's and publicity divisions yet to be named. Both have a presently adequate staff of typists and clerical workers, which doubtless will be enlarged as the campaign progresses.

The Scott headquarters "dedication" was held at 8 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, the Lennon opening at 9:30 Monday morning. For that reason the Scott affair was much more formal, with properly arranged furniture, huge bouquets of flowers and big signs. Furniture had just been moved in and not arranged at the Lennon headquarters, the signs promised for early Monday were delayed and necessary for Senator Lennon to catch a 10:30 plane in order to be on the floor of the Senate Monday afternoon, necessitated a high degree of informality. The news cameramen got around that without much trouble by having bystanders hold up a sign board as background for pix and cutting out extraneous material piled on the desks and floor. Result is that the Lennon headquarters show up as good in news pictures as the Scott rooms.

ISSUES — Statements made by the candidates and their managers at the respective headquarters opening gave further evidence of the type of campaign and the issues which will be paramount.

Scott and Sanford indicated they would paramount the record of the Scott administration while he was Governor, emphasizing the need for continuing a program of road building, expansion of telephone and electric power lines.

Impact Of A Seaway

By ELMER ROESSNER
The St. Lawrence Seaway has been talked about for so many years that now, when it is closer to reality than it has ever been before, it has lost a lot of its excitement. Many people do not realize that the project would figuratively remake the map of the United States.

The vastness of these changes is indicated by the York Report, published by the York Engineering and York-Gillespie companies of Pittsburgh. To understand the possibilities, the report says, start with a map of the U.S.A. in putty, then "run a finger along the St. Lawrence to untie the waters of the Great Lakes and the Atlantic in a deeper trough. Then push the cities of the Great Lakes a few hundred miles from Europe and Midwest factories. Push New Orleans a few hundred miles up the Mississippi. Take a chunk of industrial Pennsylvania and pile it up on top of northern New York State. Put Pittsburgh farther away from New York and nearer Cleveland."

The Seaway, of course, would not mean the actual removal of any city, although a few Canadian hamlets would be flooded. But by giving Lake ports greater access to the ocean, it would alter flows of traffic and tempt some industries to move nearer the Seaway, to the economic loss of other areas.

The York Report relates the proposal of New York's Governor Thomas E. Dewey to revise the state's thruway plans to the Seaway project. Mr. Dewey proposed two new highways, one north from Albany to the Canadian border, and the other north from Syracuse to the St. Lawrence. The report says "This may mean Dewey has inside information about what Congress is going to do about the Seaway, or that he is wagering millions of dollars of taxpayers' and autoists' money that the Seaway area will soon need much more highway access, or that he believes the Seaway is an eventuality of destiny."

No one is neutral about the project, as the New York companies observe. Railroads, Atlantic and officials in cities may suffer, largely those on or near the Atlantic and Gulf. Favoring it are other shipping companies, many truckers and industries and civic leaders on or near the Great Lakes. Canadians generally favor it and Canada threatens to build it alone if the U.S. doesn't participate.

The York companies, which, incidentally, are not bidding for any Seaway contracts, confess a moderate amount of bias: "As engineers, we never have seen a dam erected, a powerhouse built, a steel mill constructed, a bridge thrown across a chasm, a tunnel driven through a mountain, a canal dug or a highway routed across the countryside that in the end didn't in some way benefit every industry, every business and every individual in the U.S."

ABBB, WARRING ON BUSHERS, FIFES MILLION OF PAPER SHOTS

A nationwide campaign against "bushers" has been launched by the Association of Better Business Bureaus. Bushers are not those who misrepresent the quality of rose bushes they sell, but are auto dealers who stick tickets on cars offering amazingly high trade-in allowances. Once a prospect in a salesroom and has agreed to buy another car, the manager of bushers refuses to accept the trade in figure, scolds the salesman-busher, and offers a compromise—usually less than the customer could get from an honest, or no-bush, dealer.

The ABBB has printed a leaflet exposing the racket and is distributing millions of them through local BBB's. Honest auto dealers, if they wish, can get copies and then they can go around putting BBB leaflets on parked cars.

'Hi-Fi' Is An Expensive Hobby

By ED CREAGH
(For Hal Boyle)

WASHINGTON (AP) — Clamp on your earmuffs, people. The woot and tweet boys, sometimes known as the Hi-Fi hounds, are coming to town.

You've met some of them already, chances are. "Hi-Fi," of course, stands for high fidelity. It does not mean, in this case, the quality you esteem in a husband or wife. It means the attempt to make the noise that comes out of a phonograph record sound exactly like the noise that went into it.

Now Hi-Fi, like the drinking of schnapps, can be a hobby, a part-time occupation or a way of life. Also, like schnapps drinking, it's treacherous. You say to yourself, "I'll buy just one more gadget and then swear off"—and the next thing you know you're up to your attic in loudspeakers.

And boy what a financial hang-over: You can look into this pastime which is just short of becoming a national craze, all during the next weekend if you're in town. The first "Hi-Fi Fair" ever held in these parts is setting up shop in a downtown hotel, and it ought to be quite an experience. If your eardrums can stand it.

For there's one thing about these Hi-Fi hounds—they never can stand having a record-player, to use the old-fashioned term for it, turned down to a reasonable level. The sound volume has to approach a Democratic National Convention in full voice or they're unhappy.

Back in the good old pre-Korean war days, when my wife and I lived in New York, we used to drop in now and then on our Greenwich Village neighbor John Randolph, who hadn't yet gone off to be a war correspondent for The Associated Press.

We always had a fine time. John is one of the world's great waffle cookers and he unfailingly played records for us. Without reflecting on his hospitality in the slightest, however, there were two unusual aspects to a Randolph evening:

1. You seldom had any place to sit. His apartment was crammed from kitchenette to window sill with speakers, coils, piles of records, stacks of Hi-Fi trade publications and in the middle of it all a waffle iron. I don't know if he had the waffle iron plugged into the Hi-Fi system or not, but I suspect he did. His waffles certainly were, as the Hi-Fi hounds say, in the groove.

2. You couldn't hear John or he couldn't hear you. All you could hear all the neighbors could hear, for that matter—was Mosart or Edith Piaf or whatever record Randolph had whovever record of his many turntable conversations was reduced to some variation or other of that old gag: "Isn't that wonderful? What?" "I said, isn't that a wonderful record?"

"Still can't hear you?" "I said—you're shouting at the top of your lungs now—'Isn't that a fine recording?' 'Can't hear a thing you say—this confounded record makes too much noise!'"

If I sound envious of the Hi-Fi hounds with their "woofers," which are big speakers to catch the low notes, and their "tweeters," little speakers to pick up the high notes, it's because I am envious. I'd like to put together one of those fancy outfits, too. Trouble is I can't afford the 16-room house with sound-proofed walls that really should go with a Hi-Fi system.

New Civil Defense Director Could Become Key Figure

Lennon and Rodman indicated willingness to accept the Scott administration as an issue, but they would place more emphasis upon the national implications of these policies. Rodman said he had not discovered in any of the opposition speeches (the carefully avoided use of Scott's name) any specific stand on matters that the Congress must deal with.

He singled out the 1947 "right to work" State law in relation to proposed amendments to the Federal Taft-Hartley act. He said Senator Lennon had taken a positive stand to the effect that no

North Carolinian should be required to join a labor union in order to get a job. He noted that in his inaugural address five years ago "the opposition candidate" called for repeal of the 1947 act. "We know where our candidate stands on this point," he said, "and we believe the working people of North Carolina have a right to know where his opponent stands now, whether he has changed his mind in five years or if he still thinks the same way, and how his thinking applies to Federal legislation as distinctive from State laws."

British Vote Big Defense Spending

LONDON (AP)—The House of Commons approved Britain's record peacetime defense budget last night 295 - 270. Prime Minister Churchill had asked its approval without a vote but the Labor opposition forced a ballot.

The budget, pointed toward a "new look" buildup of British air and atomic strength as a deterrent to war, provides for the spending of 1,639,000,000 pounds ($4,591,720,000) in the fiscal year starting April 1. It tops the announced outlay for the current year by 3,140,000 pounds.

Churchill asked in debate last night that the House accept the budget without a vote to keep the defense question out of "the trough of party bickerings." He said "any weakness or disunity in Britain, when she is known to be working for peace, would weaken her strength out of all proportion to the money saved."

The Laborites criticized individual points in the Conservative government's defense program, called for a cut in conscripts' service terms from two years to 18 months and urged a reduction in the deployment of British troops around the world, particularly in the Suez Canal zone.

Labor party leader Clement Attlee said, "It has always been clear to us that one of the objects of the Kremlin would be to make us expend so much on military preparations that we might cripple our economy."

Conservatives and Laborites divided on strict party lines in approving the budget, which includes American military aid amounting to $5,300,000 pounds (239 million dollars).

In calling for unity, Churchill said an unwillingness by Britain to carry a heavy arms burden would court disaster for this island nation and imperil world peace. He said Britain must always seek to keep Russian armed might far enough from her shores to prevent a possible launching of parachute troop attacks.

The 73-year-old Prime Minister, speaking vigorously, declared the West's defenses are gaining "a period of alert" to guarantee against a surprise attack.

"An alert period means not only a sure and substantial minimization of the massacre," he said, "but an additional hope of averting the conflict itself."

He said Britain is spending twice as much on defense research now as in the 1951-52 fiscal year.

More Than 26 In 21-Mile Walk

KINSTON, N. C. (AP)—A flock of ambitious walkers—eager to win a registered bull calf from senatorial candidate W. Kerr Scott—was ready to start late today on the big walk from here to Hargett's Cross Roads.

More than 26 entrants had notified Scott's headquarters last night that they wanted to take part in the 21-mile walkathon which was set to begin at 5 p.m.

If the winner covers the 21 miles in less than six hours he'll get a registered bull calf. Scott touched off the impromptu race last week in an interview over Kinston Radio Station WISF. He recalled that in 1949 he walked the 21 miles in six hours after a cab driver wanted to charge him $21 to go that distance.

Scott quipped that he would give a registered bull calf to anyone who could beat his 6-hour record. Several persons quickly accepted the challenge, including Paul (Hardrock) Simpson, 49-year-old Burlington postman who makes a hobby of long distance walking and running.

Scott headquarters said the walking route would be along U.S. 258 and that the walkers must stick to the shoulders of the road for safety's sake. The judges, it was pointed out, will permit no running.

It was decided to start the race late because some entrants don't get off work until 4 p.m.

Go To New York In Industry Hunt

RALEIGH (AP)—Their quest for new industries will take Gov. Unsworth and Director Ben Douglas of the Department of Conservation and Development to New York City by train tonight.

They plan to meet a number of Northern industrialists tomorrow and Friday and will explain the many advantages this state has to offer to new industries looking for Southern sites. The governor and Douglas also plan to attend a dinner meeting of the North Carolina Society in New York.

Girl, Aged 11, Is Today A Mother

SALISBURY, N. C. (AP)—Hospital officials say an 11-year-old Negro girl and her baby born here yesterday are in "perfect health."

The five pound, 12-ounce boy was born in Rowan Memorial Hospital. The girl was described as being large for her age, weighing 115 pounds.

Willie O. T. Chambers, 20-year-old Negro, was indicted last November charged with assault to commit rape on the girl, police said. He is free on $300 bond.

Officers said the girl is Della Mae Barnes daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Barnes of Rt. 2, Cleveland.

The Ayden American Legionnaires of Victory Post 289 are very proud of their new building located on East Avenue. The edifice is a 40 by 70 feet white cement block construction, with the interior not quite complete. At the rear of the building there is a barbecue house and parking facilities for 42 cars. ## Files $1,756,000 Suit For Damages

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Actor John Ireland has filed suit for $1,756,000 damages, charging he lost a lucrative television contract because he was falsely described as disloyal to the United States.

The action was directed yesterday against Norvin Productions, Inc.; Television Programs of America, Inc.; Leon Fromkes, identified as chief stockholder in TPA; Milton Gordon; and Mickey Silliman.

Ireland contends he agreed orally with Fromkes and the two firms to portray detective Ellery Queen in 32 TV films for a fee of $1,500 each and additional sums for reruns of the pictures.

Filming was to start Feb. 1, and on Feb. 5 the defendants discharged him, Ireland charges. His complaint alleges that on Feb. 4 the defendants stated in the presence of others that Ireland was not acceptable to advertising agencies or sponsors because of "disloyalty."

The suit states that by "disloyalty to the United States" the defendants meant that he was or had been a member of the Communist party or had been affiliated with groups sympathetic to the party.

The actor asks 1 1/2 million dollars damages for slander and $256,000 for breach of contract.

States Will List Own Test Areas

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis has decided to let individual states announce the areas selected for tests of the newly developed polio vaccine.

The foundation said yesterday that state health authorities will announce the areas on a staggered basis, with first tests to begin this month. Original plans called for the foundation to name the test areas.

In the Middle Ages, many people believed that all birds mated on Feb. 14.

Littered Streets, Tired City As Mardi Gras Ends

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Littered streets and tired faces marked a solemn end today to the carnival season.

The climax came with the daylight reign of Rex, Lord of Misrule, and Comus, who held sway by torchlight last night.

Most of the city was costumed and masked for its gala holiday. An impromptu strip tease popped up at points to enliven the crowds.

Masking ended at midnight. The balls of Comus and Rex closed the social activities. At the stroke of midnight the court of Rex visited the court of Comus, in deference to Comus' seniority. The monarchs drank a toast to the end of another carnival season and the beginning of the 40-day Lenten period and the city's return to realism.

Police reported they handled 551 complaints, compared with about 200 for an ordinary day. There were 103 automobile accidents and 56 cases of drunkenness. John Albert, 53, was shot to death after he broke up a fight between two women.

The accident took at Charity Hospital, overtaxed in treating victims, showed that people had fallen, were stabbed, were struck with bottles and other objects, shot, burned, had acid thrown in their faces and were hurt in auto crashes.

U.S. Aid Termed Reds' Downfall

MANILA (AP)—A report on three years of U.S. Economic aid says its "greatest single impact" was in routing communism in the Philippines.

The report was made by Placido L. Mapa, chairman of the Philippine Council for U.S. Aid (Philcusa). It summarized the work of Philcusa and the U.S. Foreign Operations Administrations (FOA).

Mapa said the two agencies "have built in our country conditions of peace under which man can walk in dignity, work and reach toward that moral and material advancement which freedom alone can bring."

Denmark Aligned Against Use Of McCarthy Ideas

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP)—Denmark's newest political faction—the National Youth party—made its election debut yesterday in nationwide balloting for local officials.

Its platform: "Investigations like those carried out by Mr. McCarthy in the United States."

The total vote: 115. The Social Democrats (Socialists), which have the largest bloc in Parliament and control the government, were the big winners yesterday though the local voting has no bearing on the national Parliament or government.

The Socialists gained 57 seats and now hold council majorities in 61 of the nation's 104 towns and metropolitan Copenhagen boroughs.

The big losers were the Single Tax party, who retained only 5 of the 45 council seats they won in the 1950 elections, and the Communists, who won places on only 16 councils.

Suspected Wreck Cause Confirmed

SAN PEDRO, Calif. (AP)—What traffic officers have suspected as a cause of automobile accidents was confirmed here by a 14-year-old boy. The youth, unidentified, took his mother's car without her permission, then smashed the auto into a parked car, police said.

The boy's reason for the crack-up—he took his eyes off the road "to look at two good looking girls."

Senate Plans Give WAACs Full Credit

By HERB ALTSCHULL
WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate wants it understood that the Waacs were just as important to the nation's World War II effort as the Army Corps. No "auxiliary."

The girls in the WAC were, by law, on active duty. But the Waacs were legally just auxiliaries.

The bill, written by Sen. Saltonstall (R-Mass) at the request of the Defense Department, would give the Waacs credit for active duty status so long as they stayed on military duty after the auxiliary service was discontinued.

Approval of the bill, Sen. Duff (R-Pa) said, would enable former Waacs on active duty or in the reserves now "to qualify for increased longevity pay and retirement credit."

Discrimination Charge Ends In ICC Dismissal

WASHINGTON (AP)—A complaint by a Negro WAC that she was humiliated and discriminated by the Carolina Coach Co. has been dismissed by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Sarah Keys had asked that the company pay her $38,000 in damages. She said that on a trip from Trenton, N.J., to Rocky Mount, N.C., in August, 1952, she was ordered to occupy a seat in a segregated section in the rear of the bus.

She contended that when she objected, she was refused permission to continue her journey and was arrested falsely at Roanoke Rapids, N.C. where she was fined $50 for disorderly conduct.

The ICC said the complaint is being returned for investigation.

Mitchell Claims Ike Must 'Lead'

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—The chairman of the Democratic National Committee told a party rally here that the American people will show their displeasure at the polls next November unless President Eisenhower shows Sen. McCarthy who is boss.

Stephen A. Mitchell hit time and again at the differences between Republicans themselves on how to handle McCarthy and his methods of investigating communism.

"The Eisenhower Republicans are coddling McCarthy to the detriment of our country and its citizens," he told 900 persons at a Pinellas County rally last night.

"The people of the United States will not allow this Republican senator to disrupt our constitutional system or deprive citizens of their constitutional rights . . ." he continued.

"The people of America will support the Republican President against McCarthy if he (Eisenhower) will lead. And if he will not lead, the Republican resident will hear from the people next November."

Later on he said: "The fact is that the President has made an unholy alliance with Sen. McCarthy for the purpose of the next election."

Ask $79,000 In Damages From Grain Company

WILSON, N. C. (AP)—A Commodity Credit Corp. suit against a Kinston grain company for $79,000 in damages continued here in federal court today.

The suit is for alleged damages done to wheat stored by the CCC in warehouses owned by the Ten-County Grain Co. The CCC claims that the damages were done to 88,438 bushels of wheat stored in Ten-County warehouses.

The company said it is not responsible for the damages because it notified the CCC that the wheat was damaged. A CCC check in 1951 revealed the damages.

The CCC also is asking payment of $5,000 by the Fidelity and Casualty Insurance Co. of New York, which the CCC said signed a surety bond for Ten-County.

East Carolina To Meet Erskine In N.A.I.A. Finals

BOBBY HODGES dumps in the field goal that established a new career scoring record for the North State Conference as teammate Charlie Huffman (17) looks on. Lenoir-Rhyne vs Presbyterian, 7:30
East Carolina vs Erskine, 9:15

It's East Carolina against Erskine tonight in Memorial Gymnasium for the championship of District 26 of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics.

The two favorites came from behind last night to eliminate Lenoir-Rhyne and Presbyterian from the championship round of the two-day tournament.

Favored East Carolina came from 12 points behind in the feature game of the evening to eliminate Presbyterian, 80-71, while Erskine wiped out a 12-point deficit to bounce Lenoir-Rhyne, 81-78.

East Carolinas-Presbyterian
In the feature event of the evening, Coach Howard Porter's North State Conference champs roared back determinedly in the second half to overtake Coach Norman Sloan's South Carolina Little Four runners-up.

The Pirates went into the second half with a four-point deficit on their hands. Presbyterian had jumped into an early lead in the game but were unable to hold it as the Pirates tied the score at 26-26 with 7:03 to go in the second period. At that point, however, the Blue Stockings got hot and ran away to a 38-26 lead before the Pirates could score again.

The Pirates began chipping away at the Blue Stocking lead with 3:43 to go in the half. By the time intermission rolled around, the 12 points had shrunk to four but Presbyterian was still in command of the situation.

In the third quarter, the Pirates pulled up almost even with Presbyterian but they could never tie the game up or go ahead despite several threats in the first nine minutes of the quarter. Presbyterian always managed to hang grimly onto their one or two-point lead and they kept it until only half-a-minute of playing time remained in the game.

Score Tied
At that point, ECC's Charlie Huffman flipped in a set shot that tied the score at 58-58. That's how action ended when time ran out in the third quarter.

In the fourth quarter, the Blue Stockings started their own little rally and tied the game at 62-62 with 7:48 to go. That's when the Pirates got hot and ran the score to 72-62 before Presbyterian could score three minutes later.

Pirates first-teamers played most of the ball game but most of the actual credit for turning the tide of the game went to senior substitute Paul Jones. The 6-1 Thomasville native came into the game in the third period and hit three crucial baskets for the Buc's plus turning in a whole of a defensive game. In the fourth period, Jones added five points to his personal total and played a large part in helping East Carolina control the ball when the Pirates started slowing the game down in the last few minutes.

Big, red-faced Ronald Ragan of the Blue Stockings was high scorer in the ball game but Bobby Hodges of the Pirates salvaged a large portion of the individual glory for the night. Ragan dumped in 27 points to lead both teams but he did most of his scoring in the first half when the Blue Stockings had little pressure on them.

Hodges was right behind with 25 points that were spread nicely through the four quarters. The 25 points enabled the big center to gain possession of the North State Conference four-year scoring record with 1,976 points. The old record was 1,960 established last year by Ronald Rogers, Western Carolina's All-America guard.

Hodges also played a big part in the rebounding turned in by the Pirates. He led the rebounders with 15 but got some valuable assistance from Jones, Don Harris, and Charlie Huffman.

Erskine-Lenoir-Rhyne
In the first game of the evening, Lenoir-Rhyne's Bears ran up a 31-18 lead on Erskine's big and rugged Flying Fleet and then watched the big margin disappear completely before a terrific scoring show put on by Coach Gene Alexander's twice-beaten team.

Forward Ralph Moore, a 6-8 clutch player, led the Fleet in its attack on the Bears. Big Moore picked up the challenge soon after the second-quarter started and almost wrecked the Bears by himself. He scored 16 points in the second period alone and swept the back boards clear of all rebounds.

Erskine overhauled Lenoir-Rhyne at 31-31 with 6:20 to go in the quarter and stayed ahead from then on except for one brief Bear rally midway the second period. Lenoir-Rhyne tried hard to catch up in the last quarter and did get within one point several times but they were never quite able to stop Erskine's "Feroocious Five" which went all the way in the contest.

Moore led the scoring for both teams with 23 points. Randy Whaley, Erskine's 6-10 center, was second for the Fleet with 21 points. Raeford Wells led Lenoir-Rhyne with 22 points.

LENOIR-RHYNE'S BEARS got bounced from the championship round of play in the N.A.I.A. tournament last night by just such demonstrations of defense as this. ## Negro Prospects Pleasing To Cub's Phil Cavarretta

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
The Chicago Cubs' second base combinations cost Phil Cavarretta many sleepless nights last season. Today, the 37-year-old manager thinks he has the situation well in hand, because of two Negro rookies—Ernie Banks and Gene Baker.

"Failure to make the double play and lose many errors we had is what ruined us last year," Cavarretta said. "With these two kids I believe we may have the problem solved."

He is particularly impressed with the showing of Banks, the 22-year-old shortstop purchased from the Kansas City Monarchs last September. Banks batted .314 in 10 National League games.

"Banks has looked great," he beamed. "He has sure hands, a fine arm and looks like a hitter. He has great wrists."

"I got a good line on him last season when he slammed a home run off Gerry Staley—a sidearm right-hander. That's always a pretty good trick for a right-handed batter."

Although he's not supposed to be quite as good a batter as Banks, the 28-year-old Baker hit .248 for Los Angeles in 1953, including 20 home runs and 99 runs batted in.

He played shortstop for the Pacific Coast league club but Cavarretta is confident he can easily make the switch to second base.

"If he can hit as well as Eddie Miksis, he stands an excellent chance of running him off the bag," Cavarretta explained. Miksis batted .251 in '53.

In all, the seventh-place Cubs made 79 of their 193 errors around second base last season. Miksis, dividing his time between second and shortstop, made 35 miscues, and Roy Smalley, at shortstop, made 25. The club made 141 double plays. Only Pittsburgh had fewer.

While Cavarretta was feezing with optimism in the Cubs' camp, Manager Steve O'Neill was laying down the law in the quarters of the Philadelphia Phillies. The veteran skipper ruled there will be a midnight curfew during spring training.

"No slipshod play will be allowed this year," he warned.

The Phillies also were reported trying to trade first baseman Earl Torgerson to either the New York Giants or the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Elsewhere, the broken collarbone suffered by Ted Williams earlier this week appeared to have touched off a rash of injuries.

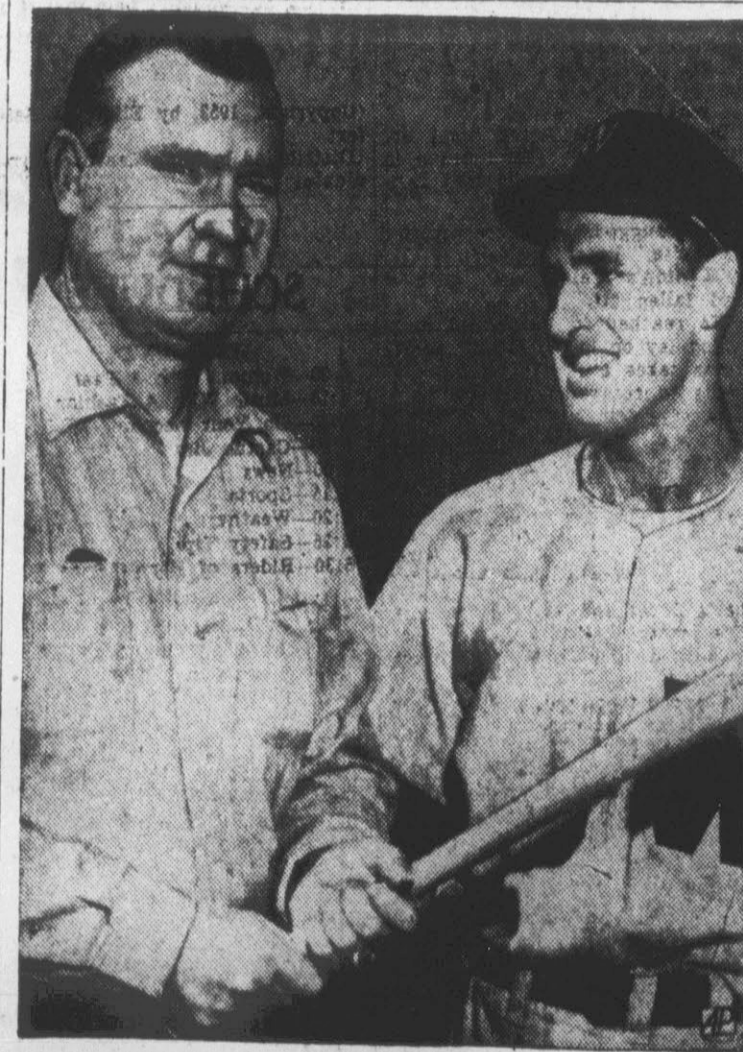

Eddie Mathews, Milwaukee's slugging third baseman wrenched his back during batting practice and will be out for several days.

Devils' Balance Expected To Win

By KEN ALYTA
RALEIGH (AP)—You won't find the name of any Duke University basketball player up among the national scoring leaders. Yet the top-seeded Blue Devils enter tomorrow's Atlantic Coast Conference tournament here with a scoring average of 82.3 for 25 games, one of the best in the nation.

The answer lies in the unusual Pennsylvania-bred scoring balance that has been responsible for the Devils' 2-1 conference record and 20-5 overall mark. Bernie Janicki, lanky senior forward from Ambridge, Pa., for the second year in a row is the scoring leader with a 13.4 average. But from him down to fourth-place Joe Belmont, sophomore guard from Philadelphia, there is a drop of only .7. Belmont has a 12.7 average. In between him and Janicki come Rudy D'Emilio, senior guard, also from Philadelphia, at 13.2, and sophomore forward Ronnie Mayer, still another Pennsylvanian, from Avon, at 13.1.

The Duke attack does not rely on any one vitally important "big" man who must hit for 25 or 30 points consistently if the team is to click. So widespread has been the scoring punch that in eight of the 25 games four Devils hit for double figures. In seven others three turned the trick. No player has scored more than 25 points in a single game.

Howell Leads Scoring Race As Phants End Good Season

By WAYNE BISHOP
Reflector Sports Writer
Coach Bo Farley's Greenville Phantoms ended their best basketball season in many years in a convincing fashion Saturday night. The Farley-men swept through the North-eastern Athletic Conference basketball tournament by margins of 18, 18, and 19 points to climax a most successful hardwood sport year.

The Green Phantoms won 17 games against 5 losses to all opposition and finished up with a 13-2 record against conference foes, including the tournament.

Season Review
The G-men started off the season with six games against Eastern AAA Conference opponents. Rocky Mount, the champion of the AAA conference, downed the Greentees twice, but the fast-firing Farley-men dumped Wilson two times and Goldsboro twice.

The ball bouncing bombers then rode over five consecutive conference foes while losing only to the East Carolina freshmen team.

After racking up their fifth straight win in the conference the Green Terrors dropped two games, one to Kingston and one to New Bern, by five points in each game.

After that there was no stopping Coach Farley's fabulous five as the sure shooting sharpies soared to eight consecutive triumphs (two over Kingston) and the tournament championship.

In rolling up their record, the Greentees piled up an average of 60.9 points per game while limiting their opponents to a 51.3 average.

The high point total of the campaign for the goal-happy Greentees was when they rolled up 103 points against Roanoke Rapids in the tiny Greenville gym.

The best defensive effort was in Jacksonville where they held the Cardinals to a mere 30 points. In the last five games of the season, the Phantoms showed their defensive ability. In those five games Greenville opponents averaged only 41.1 points per game.

Howell Led Scoring
All-Tournament forward Bob Howell led every phase of scoring for the team for the season. Howell averaged 15.5 points for season play, 17.7 points for conference play, and 17.3 for tournament play.

Center Harold Edwards, also an All-Tournament performer, was runner-up in all the scoring figures. Edwards averaged 14 points in season play, 14.4 in conference play, and 12.7 in tournament play. Edwards was leader in team rebounding by far, with Howell runner-up in snatching the ball off the boards.

Final averages:

Conference All Games	Pts. Avg.	Pts. Avg.

CHAPTER TWENTY-SEVEN

MYRA came back into the room from the hall where the telephone and her record book were on the side table. "You think it might be neighborly, Ike, to run across the street and..." she began.

"No!" said Ike, not looking up from the little book in his big hands. "Shelly neither?"

"No," said Ike again.

Myra subsided. "I should purely like to hear what Dr. Talbot says and does..."

"You could go stand under the window," said Ike sarcastically. "Beats me. You couldn't get out of that house fast enough. Now you want to go back..."

"I admire Dr. Talbot especially when he's upset," said Myra. "I'm glad you didn't warn the man of what he was getting into," growled Ike.

"Oh that's not part of the exchange's services. But I didn't need to, anyway. He'll know five seconds after he gets in there..."

"I see his car lights..." announced Shelly.

Ike gave each young woman a stern look. They laughed, and settled back with their own reading material.

sin" expeditions that Myra brought back word of seeing Craig with a girl. And such a girl! "I 'bout had to tie my handkerchief over Ike's eyes," she claimed.

"Do you know who she was?"

"No. She was quality, I think if not, she's been kept right hand-some."

Shelly frowned.

"Dark she was," Myra added. "Hair long to her shoulders, and combed out that pretty way I never could manage. Jest enough curl—She had on a green dress, and if the night hadn't been warm, she'd been 'sickin' pneumonia. It in no way offered protection to that girl's chest."

Shelly laughed.

"She was right pretty" Myra mused. "Those sort of slinky, dark eyes. She didn't seem to talk much, but her sort don't need to."

Shelly frowned. Eleanor? Yes. Probably.

And in a day or two, she herself saw Craig and Eleanor together. In his car.

Well, if he couldn't do better... What right had Shelly to be jealous? She had her own husband. Didn't she?

It had been decided to level a small, regular charge against the doctors to pay for the exchange service. The time would come when Ike's work would move him on, and the girl who would then take over for Myra must be paid.

That she was being paid made it difficult for Shelly to persuade Myra to take an evening off now and then. "I can do my trapezist in the daytime!"

"You don't trapeze with Ike, then," Shelly pointed out.

Myra glanced at the big, blond man. "You honin' to trapeze anywhere, honey?" she asked softly.

Ike grinned. "One night a week, maybe," he helped Shelly.

"And don't worry about the calls," Shelly assured the girl. "I won't get things balled up."

It was from one of the "traip-priority classifications. First came his regular patients with appointments—this would include newcomers to town who might become regular patients. Second, his regular patients who came to the office without appointments. Third, patients who had been going to other doctors, and now would try Dr. Talbot. Emergencies, of course, came in where they occurred and according to their urgency. Next in line were the "detail" men, the legitimate salesmen of drugs and apparatus, and so on. After them, the salesmen who were not to be classified as legitimate—this covered a varied field neckties, cigarettes, real estate... and last to get in should be such family members and friends as might drop into the office for a visit.

Here Shelly took what comfort she could in making Eleanor Walsh wait till the very last.

And it was here, too, that she ran into the brick wall. Because, one day, there was no one in the left-hand waiting room except Eleanor. The Reverend Frewitt had been there earlier; he was going to have to undergo surgery for his ulcer; Craig had attended to him, and to those patients connected with his plant services, and Shelly could find no reason not to let Eleanor go into the doctor's consultation room.

She could only sit at the receptionist's desk, smell tobacco smoke, listen to the muted murmur of voices and the occasional laughter. No phone calls, no emergency; no patients called, she looked down at the appointment book, turned the pages and sat frowning.

What was going on? She looked out through the window at the rain which fell like dull silver. It fell in ribbons, and then in chains of little silver beads and small crystal balls. As it hit the ground, it made a sound like tiny bits of broken glass. Shelly sighed and leaned her head against her hand.

Finally Eleanor left; Craig escorted her to her car and then came back to stand looking down at his blonde receptionist. "Something wrong?" he asked.

"Of course not." She sat quickly erect.

He sat down in one of the chairs, bounced it upon its steel frame, and then leaned back. "I thought maybe you had a headache..."

Shelly cleared her throat self-consciously. "Was Miss Walsh's a professional call?" she asked coldly.

Craig's black eyes danced. "You know it was not."

"I was hoping it was!" she said tartly.

"Why?"

"Because..." Her head went up. "Without it, we haven't taken in enough money today to feed Donald."

He shrugged. "Business couldn't be worse," he said cheerfully.

"I didn't realize how much it had fallen off, until today."

He reached for a printed form which lay on her desk. "It sometimes takes a doctor a couple of years to recover from as bad a case of gossip as I had, Shelly."

She spoke calmly, seeming more interested in the paper he held.

But Shelly was shocked to her heels. "You don't mean..." He glanced at her. And rubbed his hand back over his hair. "Sure, half the town still talks about my being drunk and letting people die. The other half listens. Nobody wants to risk his life in my hands."

She could not speak. She leaned back in her chair and stared, white-faced at him. "But..."

"I know," he said quietly. "The truth was established. The truth never makes as good a story to tell and repeat. But gradually it will be told. It will take time of course."

"And, meanwhile?"

His face was stern. "Meanwhile, I've lost most of Stephen's practice!" he said harshly. "Shelly, I'm sorry about that. I—if I knew any way to change that!—but even my moving out wouldn't help that situation. Nothing will help it. Patients don't come to a doctor they can't trust."

How To Raise Your Own Salary Told In New Book; Should Be A 'Best Seller'

By CYNTHIA LOWEY
AF Newsfeatures Writer

As a tireless reader of self-improvement books, I can't wait to get my sticky hands on a new one called "How to Raise Your Own Salary," a tome which carries my nomination as the best book-title ever penned.

I haven't seen this book but somebody sent me a little summary about the contents of the book, but I understand it came right out and said flatly that the reason that bosses don't shower most of us with the raises of which we are so justly deserving is quite simply our own tactlessness.

Of course, everyone in my own organization knows full well that my efforts are really the one thing that holds the whole structure together. I've often wondered what would happen if some day, infuriated by an apparently persistent lack of recognition for my true worth, I just up and quit. Chaos, that's what would result, absolute chaos.

Meanwhile, Mr. Napoleon Hill, the author of "How to Raise Your Own Salary" (and I certainly would like to know his family's philosophy on the naming of a man-child) has caused me to wonder if perhaps my modest income can't be explained by the fact that it has always been a matter of principle with me to say right out what I think. The one thing people can't stand is frankness.

Mr. Napoleon Hill, according to this summary, maintains that raises flow in, irresistible and unsought, to those who are tactful. I think tact is a form of dishonesty, so more as a curiosity than anything else, I'm setting down specific activities which he considers show a lack of tact in dealing with others, although I must confess I don't see why any of these should have anything to do with the way one does his work.

Are you, asks Napoleon Hill sternly: Careless in the tone of the voice, often speaking in gruff, antagonistic tones that offend? (Not me, I whine.) Apt to speak out of turn or interrupt others who are speaking? (Not unless I have something to say much more interesting.)

Overworking the personal problem? (Well, what's more constitutive than a personal experience?)

—Prone to ask impertinent questions, generally to impress others with your own importance? (Only when I think it's necessary for the good of certain people who think they are really something.)

—In the habit of going where you have not been invited? (I would not think of it, except occasionally when I'm sure it's an oversight.)

—Irresistibly impelled to volunteer an opinion when not requested? (Only when it's necessary to be brutally frank.)

—Accustomed to using profane or offensive language? (Never, and I can prove I said only "Darn it," the time the staff rigged a pail of water over the door to pour on me when I walked in.)

—Habitually discussing ills and misfortunes? (I don't believe in dragging one's private life into the office, although I think my loyalty to the company in spite of my physical condition should have some recognition. And besides, wouldn't you think people would be interested in the other fellows symptoms?)

Personally, I don't suppose "How to Raise Your Own Salary" would do me a bit of good — people are just prejudiced against me because I'm a woman — but I'm going to insist that a number of people right here in the office read it. If they only knew it, they are standing in their own light, to be brutally frank.

Lawton, Okla. (AP)—E.C. Williams, Lawton banker and retired Army colonel, was driving through the Wildlife Refuge near here, when a frisky yearling buffalo became angry at the car and made a dash for it. The hood and grille were smashed.

Williams quipped: "In the Philippines, I once had to stop the car to let a crocodile cross, but I'm probably the only man in the nation who is going to collect car insurance after being hit by a buffalo."

The population of the United States has increased about a fifth since 1940, but the number of children under 5 has increased about two-thirds.

Headaches Mount In 'The Egyptian' Film

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"The Egyptian" may rank as Hollywood's headache picture of the year. It has been just as much trouble casting the props as it has the leading man.

Marlon Brando left for New York as filming was about to start. Twentieth Century-Fox charged breach of contract and sued him for two million dollars. Brando's doctor, however, said he was ill.

Now, it turns out that "The Egyptian" is one of the toughest pictures in years from the scenic standpoint.

"We had to start from scratch," sighed Walter Scott head of the studio's prop department. "No studio has ever made a big picture about ancient Egypt until now. We were able to borrow a few items from MGM, which has been making 'Valley of the Kings.' But most of it we had to create from scratch."

"We have made 5,000 different items for the picture. Now the others want to borrow our things. We've already had four men from Cecil B. DeMille over here to see what they can use in 'The 10 Commandments.'"

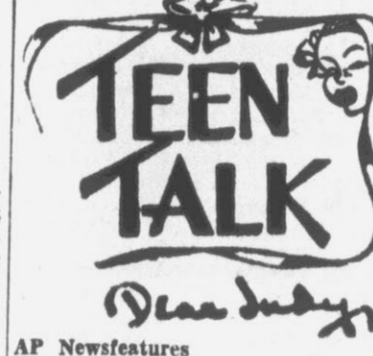

He showed me some of the items that have been made. Those ancient Egyptians had a lot of modern ideas.

They were masters of makeup, Scott explained. He demonstrated a replica of a queen's makeup box that would make Max Factor green with envy. Also small, carved gizmos for holding milady's eye shadow. You can bet that Egyptian husbands had to wait just as long for their wives to beautify themselves as we do.

There was a game called bounds and Jackals, a sort of pre-Christian scrabble. A set of miniature furniture for children to play with. Chairs and couches that would find ready buyers in any department store.

"The Egyptians had a great sense of line and proportion," said Scott. "Many of their pieces compare favorably with the best modern furniture today." All of the 5,000 items are true reproductions of the originals, which were preserved through the ages by the favorable desert climate.

Why all this worrying about accuracy? Well, the studio figures it

AP Newsfeatures
Some teen-agers enjoy the same slangage their Mom's used to use. Besides, some Egyptologist might write a stinging letter decrying the use of a drinking mug from the wrong dynasty.

Research for "The Egyptian" has uncovered some odd facts about the 1300 B. C. era, including: Egyptian men were baby sitters. The office of "cradle rocker" was often filled by males, including high functionaries.

Affection was shown in early times by placing the noses in close proximity and sniffing. Later the kiss replaced this nasal nonsense.

Egyptians quaffed beer made of barley. Since they didn't have hops, they used the lupin, skirret herb and an Assyrian root for flavor.

Today's sheath gown was popular then but with a difference. With the Egyptian women, it hung from below the bosom to the ankles.

Both sexes shaved their heads for reasons of religion, hygiene and just plain heat. Beards were forbidden although the bigshots were allowed fake beards. Even the queens donned these phony beards.

The women also outlined the veins of their chests in blue, reddened their lips, tinged their cheeks with red and white and applied orange henna to the tips of their fingers.

Ancient Egyptians apparently ate with their fingers. They had geese, ducks and pigeons, but no chickens. Beasts of burden included oxen and donkeys, but no camels. They came later.

Dancers were extremely graceful and often appeared naked. Which shows you how accuracy must often be sacrificed in films.

HAM TELEVISION
MOSCOW (AP)—The television amateur (teleham) has come to Soviet Siberia, reports the Red Army newspaper Red Star. At Vladivostok a group of amateurs is headed by an army officer who has been an ardent radio amateur since childhood. The ham teletransmitter is reported to be packed in one unit, which gets both picture and sound.

After Beethoven became hard of hearing, he used to hear the sounds of the piano by holding a stick in his teeth and pressing it on the piano.

3-D Proves Use To Map-Makers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio State University researchers are looking for new uses for the 3-D pictures. At present the major application of 3-D is science in photogrammetry—mapping or surveying with the aid of photographs.

Dr. Bertil P. Hallert, Swedish scientist and associate in OSU's laboratory, says a 3-D aerial photograph can be used to prepare a detailed map.

The Pennsylvania Turnpike surveyed in 145 days, compared with an estimated 2 1/2 years using ground measurements.

The method was used by Hitler and later by Allies in World War II. Dr. Hallert estimates there were 80,000 aerial cameras in use by the end of the war.

Dr. Hallert is trying to interest OSU medical researchers in 3-D X-ray as a diagnostic tool. Other fields in which Hallert has noted successful application of 3-D include astronomy, microscopy, engineering, anthropology, geology, psychology, heredity, forestry, agr. culture, meteorology, oceanography, botany and archeology.

Saipan, Battlefield Of 10 Years Ago, Is Quiet

Editor's Note—Americans will recall the battle for Saipan as one of the fiercest of World War II. Today, almost 10 years after U. S. troops stormed ashore there, the island forms an important link in our Pacific defense network. Here's the story of what Blue Beach, Garapan and the old sugar mill look like today.

By WILLIAM J. WAUGH
SAIPAN (AP)—The invasion beach at Saipan, where U. S. troops fought one of the bloodiest battles in American history 10 years ago this summer, is quiet and peaceful today. On D-Day you couldn't hear yourself think.

That's the way a blue-eyed red-haired lieutenant commander remembers it. The officer, Paul Bridwell of Jasonville, Ind., was beachmaster of Blue Beach when the U. S. 2nd and 4th Marines hit Saipan June 15, 1944.

Looking back on that day, Bridwell recalled: "You remember the intimate things—the friends who didn't make it—the close calls." More than 3,000 didn't make it, and died. There are sharp reminders of that first day's fighting along the white sand beach—the rusting hulk of an amphibious tank, its gun pointed skyward above the blue Pacific like a memorial, and battle debris still visible in the clear water.

On Blue Beach, Bridwell walked toward his old command post. Trees are grown up around it. In front are the shanties of a few Saipanese families. Leaning against one is a rusted, plugged Japanese machine gun.

Red and Blue Beaches were divided—the Marines will remember—by a Japanese-built concrete pier sticking out into the water. The Americans added a 100-foot-wide pontoon pier. Only the concrete remains.

The old sugar mill is gone and the sugar warehouse is only a concrete shell. The Japanese called the town immediately behind the invasion beach Charon Kanoa. Americans and Saipanese call it Chalan Kanoa. It's the biggest town on the island.

Remember Garapan? That was the biggest town before the fighting. It doesn't even exist today. The jungle—everyone here calls it the boonies—has taken over. Chalan Kanoa is quite a city. A wide highway that compares favorably with any U. S. road slices through it.

Many homes have been built. In one backyard a papaya tree is growing out of the center of a rusting marine amphibious troop carrier. Bridwell glanced at the markings and said: "Marines—third wave."

Bridwell recalled an incident from the second day of the invasion: "A Jap plane flew the entire length of the beach and dumped about two bushels of hand grenades, but he forgot to pull the pins."

On the broad road to Old Garapan the boonies have taken over both sides of the road. Old warehouses, Quonset huts and a chapel steeple jut out from the brush.

The U. S. military developed a large warehouse and dock area near Old Garapan. The island command still operates a couple of LCMs to run supplies but otherwise the area is abandoned.

On the beach is a rotting Japanese sampan, with U. S. markings. Across the road natives are tearing down several large Army ordnance warehouses for scrap—ironically—for Japan.

Beyond Garapan large stacks of metal are piled up awaiting shipment. One piece of scrap a battered, rusted tank, bears the faint nickname: "Crusader."

Off the pier an old Japanese freighter sunk by U. S. forces is still clearly visible. Bridwell pointed to some metal piled up on a reef offshore.

"That's the barges the Japs used in mounting a counter amphibious landing. We clobbered them."

The boat poll lagoon and small craft repair yard are still there. Beside the lagoon six LCMs, stripped of engines and brass, are rotting.

The jungle is winning back most of Saipan, except for the few spots being farmed by some of the 5,500 natives who live here and the few installations used by the 106-mar Navy force stationed on the island. Women work around the village and children are everywhere. The men seem to do nothing but sit around the house or yard.

"The men are warriors and lovers," Bridwell explained.

The island of Madagascar is 900 miles long and 36 miles wide.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—An advance in the stock market today was pegged to a few strong issues.

Some gains raced ahead 2 to 5 points at times, but the great bulk of the plus signs were less than a point. Losses seldom reached down as much as a point.

A lot of buying enthusiasm came with higher prices, and business hit a pace of around two million shares for the entire day. Yesterday's total came to 1,900,000 shares.

Westinghouse Electric was a strong favorite. It was up between 3 and 4 points at times. The stock was 2 1/2 points higher yesterday. There was some feeling that the higher price was based on hopes for a split.

Texas Pacific Land Trust gained nearly 5 points and Amerasia Petroleum was up nearly 3.

Also higher were Northern Pacific, American Cyanamid, National Can, Bethlehem Steel, Chrysler, Curtiss-Wright, and Radio Corp.

Western Union was off following a report of sharply reduced net income for January.

J. P. Stevens, whose earnings were called "disappointing," was down around a point at times.

CHICAGO (AP)—Chicago's worst snowstorm in 16 years left the city buried under a paralyzing foot of snow today.

The storm hit late yesterday and picked up momentum during the night. Traffic was tied in knots on boulevards and side streets. Hundreds of cars were stalled and had to be rescued by snow plows.

The storm blanketed the entire northern half of Illinois and main highways were blocked or limited to one-way travel some 40 miles south of Chicago.

Telephoned Bets Taken By Police

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. (AP)—The horse players who telephoned their wagers to a certain East St. Louis handbook about 2:30 p.m. yesterday were just wasting their time. All bets are off.

The fellow who answered the telephone and took the bets was Richard T. Carter, state's attorney for St. Clair County.

Carter charged by the handbook while a police raid was in progress. He found the telephones "ringing like mad," so he answered them. None of the bettors seemed suspicious, he said.

Minor Accident In City Tuesday

Police investigated one accident in the city yesterday when a car and truck collided at the corner of Fourth and Cotanche streets.

The car was driven by Jim Evans and was involved in a collision with a Bostic-Sugg truck operated by William Robinson. Damage to the truck amounted to approximately $50.

No charges came out of the accident.

County Auditor Reginald Gray is shown working at his desk in the private office for the Pitt County Auditor in the Courthouse. This private office is located in the Commissioners' Room next door to the regular Auditor's office. A door was made between the regular Auditor's office and this private office so Gray could transact business privately and more efficiently. Most of the labor used in removing the door, which was the only cost involved, was obtained from the jail, according to Gray. (Reflector Staff Photo by Bob Boyette)

Protests Use Of Colored News Picture By Reds

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The movies' Ma Kettle today said a Communist newspaper behind the Iron Curtain is using her picture over an advice to puzzled readers column.

She wired Asst. Secretary of State Livingston T. Merchant for help in getting the picture pulled out of the Polish tabloid Przekroj.

Actress Marjorie Main first learned of the unauthorized use of her face through the magazine "News From Behind the Iron Curtain," published in New York by the Free Europe Press.

In her wire for State Department aid, the actress said:

"The captive Polish people would probably get quite a laugh to know that their Communist bosses are using a capitalist actress from democratic America as their wise old aunt."

"Maybe I never won any beauty prizes for being a glamor girl but I prize my liberty. And they sure are taking liberties with me in Communist Poland."

Army Instruction Team To Be Here

A Third Army Mobile Instructional and Demonstration Team from the Quartermaster Section, Headquarters Third Army, will present a two-hour period of instruction here tonight.

The topic of instructions for the Army Reservists of the Greenville area will be "The Atomic Age and the Quartermaster." Its scope will include new Quartermaster development and techniques that will give members of the Civilian Components an understanding of the progress made by the Quartermaster Corps in fulfilling responsibilities of the Atomic Age.

The instruction team will consist of one officer and two enlisted men. National Guard, Air Force, Navy and ROTC personnel are invited to attend the program being given at the Army Reserve Training Center, 106 Picklen St., Greenville, at 8:00 o'clock tonight.

The officers arrested a father and a son, Howard Little and Johnnie Little, Negroes, on charges of possession of a still and non-taxpaid liquor.

Pitt ABC officer J. M. Ward said the still was found near the house where the Littles live. The steam distillery contained a 50 gallon boiler, two 50 gallon wooden stills, and a mash capacity of 1,500 gallons. Officers said the still was apparently in the process of being moved when it was raided.

Grifton Board Hears Civic Delegation Urge New Well

By ALVIN TAYLOR
Reflector Staff Writer

GRIFTON—A delegation of approximately 30 citizens met with the Board of Commissioners here last Monday night and recommended to the board that (1) the $15 fee for installation of meters be changed to a deposit to be refunded if the parties move and (2) that steps be taken to sink a new well so that an adequate supply of water will be available next summer.

During the discussion of the situation the delegation asked the board why water meters were being installed rather than sinking a new well. Some of the citizens said that they believed that the well was more urgently needed than the water meters.

Commissioner B. G. Tucker stated that a survey last summer, when water was short in Grifton, showed that in Winterville the average water customer used 100 gallons of water per day while in Grifton 700 gallons of water per user was being pumped each day.

Members of the committee of citizens said that water consumption could be cut somewhat but not down to one-seventh.

Mayor Sam Nelson agreed with the delegation that a new well was urgently needed. However the board decided that there is not quite enough money on hand at the present time to sink a new well and the matter was placed under study.

W. C. Chaucney made a motion that 73 street markers be secured for the streets of Grifton. However Town Clerk Robert Wheeler told the board that in order to stay within the budget the board would have to keep additional spending at a minimum. He said that one item would not put the town over its budget but other minor items could. The motion was voted down by the commissioners.

The board also voted on a motion by B. G. Tucker that the date of paying of water bills be changed from the ninth to the fifteenth of the month. The commissioners also voted to charge $1 for cutting off water for delinquent customers and an additional charge of $1 for cutting the water back on. If the customer changed his mind when the workman arrived to cut off the water a $1 charge would still be made.

Previously the town had levied a 50 cents penalty against delinquents who had not paid their bills by the ninth of the month.

The commissioners agreed to place "No U Turn" signs at the intersections of Queen Street and Brooks Alley and Queen Street and Pitt Street. However, they stipulated that the signs would not be installed until street paving is carried out.

In addition the board passed a motion calling for a new registration of voters for the coming election. They also passed an ordinance prohibiting the parking of trucks of one and one-half ton and over on public streets in Grifton with the exception of loading and unloading. If additional time is needed permission would have to be obtained from the police department.

In other business the board took no action on a request from a water customer that damages to equipment in her house be paid because sand was left in the line when the water meter was installed; authorized the town clerk to withhold money from the salary of one of its policemen to pay for a uniform; authorized the paying of a doctor's bill; and told Brech Patrick, owner of Patrick's Cafe that he would have to pay the full privilege license on the restaurant.

Finally the board authorized the mayor to have the town clerk to notify all beer and wine license holders of the names of individuals who are convicted of drunkenness in court. The law requires that known alcoholics not be sold intoxicants and Mayor Nelson said that the law would be enforced.
