

ABC Agents Plan More Arrests Over County

Bootleg Round-Up Nets 27

Law enforcement officers last night took into custody 26 Negroes in Greenville on charges of bootlegging whiskey, and were continuing to make arrests today in what has been termed the largest round-up of bootleggers in Pitt County since 1938.

J. M. Ward, head of the enforcement division for the Pitt County ABC board, said the round-up of persons charged with illegally selling whiskey stemmed from extensive work of undercover agents of the state ABC enforcement division who have been working in Pitt County. Members of the ABC force, Pitt sheriff's department, and the Greenville Police Department joined in the round-up last night about 9 o'clock, and kept the office staff at the police station busy booking offenders until after midnight.

Some 75 warrants charging approximately 57 people in Pitt County with selling whiskey were sworn out yesterday, and more warrants were expected to be sworn out today as the round-up continued.

Ward said two Negro undercover agents for the state ABC board began working in Pitt County under his direction in December, and concentrated their efforts on weekends from December through January. Ward said the agents furnished local ABC officers with information on illegal liquor purchases in Greenville and Pitt County.

O. G. Lamb and M. E. Lamb of the state ABC enforcement division joined local officers in making the arrests which began last night.

In several cases more than one warrant was served on the persons arrested. Ward said practically all those arrested last night provided bond and were released from custody. The bonds were set at $200 for one warrant, and an additional $100 bond was required for each additional warrant.

Fourteen of the 26 arrested last night were women.

The cases, Ward said, are to be tried in city recorder's court on March 15 and in county court on March 16.

Ward identified those arrested last night as: Willie Daniel, Henrietta Daniel, Pete Hooks, Nellie Smith, James Moses Whitley, Hattie Smith, Watson Spain, Raymond Duffy, Elizabeth Tucker, Edward Thomas, William Barker, Lester Parker, Julia Hardy Taft, Rosa Lee Warren, Dorothy Harris, Christine Harris, Hazel Mayo.

Dawson Sparkman, Jumbo Ellison, Clyde Ellison, Arlene Burney, Jesse Nobles, Eliza Underwood, Virginia Perkins, Elias Becton, Johnnie Banks, Henry Miles Little and Lottie Mae Little.

Democrats Gather In Florida, Claim Standard Of Unity

By JACK BELL

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Democrats gathered here for a uniting conference last night claimed today that the Eisenhower-McCarthy split among Republicans has left them as the nation's only "party of responsibility."

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Senate Democratic leader, sounded the keynote of this Southern party conference when he said in an interview that "we are giving to the country what the Republicans promised—unity."

"We will go to the people next November on our record of performance and our record as a party of responsibility," he said.

Johnson, one of the speakers at a $100-a-plate dinner here Saturday night when former Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois will give the principal address, declined to comment on the most recent dispute between President Eisenhower and Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis.) except to say "that's a Republican problem."

Sen. Richard B. Russell of Georgia, who flew in from Washington last night, said he has advocated a single, joint Senate-House investigating committee.

Officials in the executive department must, with several congressional investigations operating, "spend too much time on the Hill," he said.

Arnold P. Richardson, 42, of Grimsland died Wednesday at the Taylor Hospital in Washington. A physician diagnosed his illness as some type of food poisoning. An autopsy is being made, it was reported.

Seventeen others were hospitalized Tuesday night and Wednesday in three different hospitals and all had reportedly eaten at the local restaurant.

First Found Tuesday

The food poisoning apparently was caused by a banana, fruit pudding, according to reports, but no food was available for examination when the Health Department was notified Wednesday morning. All the food served Tuesday night was thrown away.

Each has an opportunity to answer to a 10-count indictment, but their formal arraignment may be postponed if they have not arranged for attorneys to represent them.

Amid indications of official concern yesterday that President Eisenhower and others may have been marked for terrorists' attacks, Atty. Gen. Brownell disclosed the Justice Department is studying possible ways to proceed against members of the small, fanatical Puerto Rican Nationalist party.

Brownell told a news conference he could not go into details "because of the critical nature of the situation, with indictments pending against those arrested last Monday."

Washington police made two recommendations to Congress in a report yesterday:

1. That the special Capitol police force, members of which are now appointed by legislators as part of their patronage, be replaced by a professional body.

2. That a bulletproof glass barrier be installed around the public galleries.

Condition of the most seriously wounded congressman Rep. Alvin M. Bentley (R-Mich.), was reported unchanged—serious but no longer critical.

The four Puerto Ricans are charged with assault with intent to kill and assault with a dangerous weapon on the five representatives.

The defendants are Lolita Lebron, 34; Rafael Cancel Miranda, 25; Andres Figueroa Cordero, 29, and Irving Flores Rodriguez, 28, all of New York City.

testifying before committees seeking the same answers, Russell said.

"A single committee would eliminate the mad rush for headlines and sensationalism," he said. "But as a practical matter, I don't know how you're going to control a chairman."

Democrats were streaming into this resort city from all parts of the country for a meeting that has been billed by National Chairman Stephen Mitchell as a demonstration that the wounds of the 1952 presidential campaign have been healed.

In that campaign President Eisenhower carried four Southern states and split wide open the traditional hold on Democratic Dixie. Sen. George Smathers (D-Fla.), one of the hosts for this unprecedented conference said in an interview that he believes a new form of Democratic harmony will be represented here.

"All segments of the party are participating in our meeting," he said. "Actually, we are developing more harmony than the Democrats ever had before."

As evidence of this newfound unity, National Committee officials announced that not only Southern Democrats but members of the party from Northern states who like to call themselves liberals will participate in the program.

But in his news conference, devoted this week to the sole subject of communism, he did say:

1. Using a "task force" from his office, he is setting out to determine the "who and why" element in the Army's sudden issuance of an honorable discharge for Peress months after Peress was said to have invoked the Fifth Amendment in refusing to answer questions about communism. Peress was indicted and committed under the doctors' draft law.

"I doubt he should ever have been made an officer," was Wilson's reply to a question whether he thought Peress should have been given an honorable discharge.

2. Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens was "technically responsible, because he's the boss," for the handling of the Peress case—but "I wouldn't think" Stevens would resign because of the matter. Wilson guessed Peress "could have been gotten out quicker by a little bit different administrative procedure."

3. His task force is covering "the whole incident from Peress' flight through so we'll know the facts so we can handle things better in the future. . . . This is sort of a new kind of a problem: you wouldn't want a man to be able to dodge the draft just because he says he is a Communist."

Here Wilson was referring to another of the several thorny points which confront the military, particularly in enlisted ranks.

The policy, as it stands now, is that if a volunteer for enlistment refuses to state whether he has or has had Communist connections, he is refused acceptance by the Army. If a draftee comes up for induction and refuses to answer the questions he is inducted, but assigned to a non-sensitive (no military security involved) job.

A second policy, applied to officers, was established by Secretary Stevens Feb. 20, and circulated to all Army commands, with instructions that "handling of cases covered by it 'be expedited.' The order under that policy is that officers found to be security risks be given discharge 'other than honorable.' It specifies that refusal to sign the loyalty certificate or invoking of the Fifth Amendment shall be considered sufficient evidence that the officer is a security risk. Its final clause announces that where there is conflict with existing regulations, the Feb. 20 Army policy shall govern."

Seeks To Better Army's Security Set-Up

Wilson Studies Risk Issue

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Wilson says any "idea the Army is coddling Communists is just damn tommyrot" but that he is looking for better ways to handle security risk cases in the future.

Wilson was questioned yesterday at a news conference about the case of Maj. Irving Peress, Army dentist who invoked the Fifth Amendment in refusing to answer questions about possible subversive connections. Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) investigating the case has sharply criticized the Army.

Wilson's comment stirred McCarthy, who only a few minutes before had vowed he was "all right" issuing statements, to retort that "no one has ever claimed that the Army is such a coddling Communist."

But McCarthy insisted, testimony had established that "certain individuals in the Army have been protecting, promoting, covering up and honorably discharging known Communists." The senator said he was sure the secretary "will not disagree with that."

Because McCarthy's was the final statement of the day, there was no immediate indication whether Wilson did or did not agree.

But in his news conference, devoted this week to the sole subject of communism, he did say:

1. Using a "task force" from his office, he is setting out to determine the "who and why" element in the Army's sudden issuance of an honorable discharge for Peress months after Peress was said to have invoked the Fifth Amendment in refusing to answer questions about communism. Peress was indicted and committed under the doctors' draft law.

"I doubt he should ever have been made an officer," was Wilson's reply to a question whether he thought Peress should have been given an honorable discharge.

2. Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens was "technically responsible, because he's the boss," for the handling of the Peress case—but "I wouldn't think" Stevens would resign because of the matter. Wilson guessed Peress "could have been gotten out quicker by a little bit different administrative procedure."

3. His task force is covering "the whole incident from Peress' flight through so we'll know the facts so we can handle things better in the future. . . . This is sort of a new kind of a problem: you wouldn't want a man to be able to dodge the draft just because he says he is a Communist."

Here Wilson was referring to another of the several thorny points which confront the military, particularly in enlisted ranks.

But the Pentagon started for Capitol Hill yesterday proposed legislation which would provide for the retention in service—as enlisted men—anyone inducted under the Doctors Draft Act even though they refused to answer questions about communism.

The Pentagon said the object of the legislation was to "remove any doubt that may exist as to the authority of the Army to retain and utilize in a professional capacity in an enlisted rank" any doctor or dentist who was drafted or ordered to active duty. This meant that the military wanted the current law changed so that it wouldn't by mandate, have to commission these men but could hold them in service, as enlisted men, in such security-free jobs as drilling teeth or dispensing pills.

McCarthy told his Senate investigations subcommittee yesterday he is ready to show from testimony the Army has had "a very contradictory system" of handling personnel suspected of Communist connections.

He said Peress got an honorable discharge, while a private who told his superiors he broke with communism as a teen-ager in high school got a less than honorable discharge, another private was kept in service although he refused to answer questions about communism and still another, a doctor, was assigned to duty at a hospital but denied an officer's commission.

Here Wilson was referring to another of the several thorny points which confront the military, particularly in enlisted ranks.

The policy, as it stands now, is that if a volunteer for enlistment refuses to state whether he has or has had Communist connections, he is refused acceptance by the Army. The Ladies of the Round Table met Tuesday afternoon, March 2, with Mrs. D. L. Moore. The president, Mrs. Charles O'H. Horne, presided over a short business meeting. The nominating committee presented the following slate of officers for the year 1954-55:

President, Mrs. H. H. Duncan; 1st vice-president, Mrs. J. E. Winslow; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. W. E. Marshall; recording secretary, Mrs. D. H. Conley; corresponding secretary, Miss Lela Higgs; treasurer, Mrs. E. E. Rawl.

This slate was unanimously accepted by the club.

The Civic Committee asked that members mail cards to Mr. Campbell at WNCN endorsing some of the very fine programs which are now being shown, especially stressing those good for children.

Mrs. D. S. Spain, program chairman for the afternoon, was happy to present Mrs. E. Allen Striplin, Head-Resident and Student Counselor at East Carolina College.

Mrs. Striplin during the years 1950-1953 was Student Counselor at the American University at Beirut, Lebanon.

In a most charming and vivacious manner she told of her work there, saying she found the students cooperative and studious. She described the modes of travel, the home life of people and exhibited many very interesting articles made in Lebanon. Among these was a Testament with an olive wood back; a camel carved from olive wood; a set of prayer beads, a string of which Lebanese men wear at all times; beautiful silks and hand-made laces; and a very lovely and colorful wooden tray. Each color in the inlay represented a different wood.

One of her interesting trips away from Beirut was to The Cedars, now a famous ski resort, but also the site of the "Cedars of Lebanon" of Bible times.

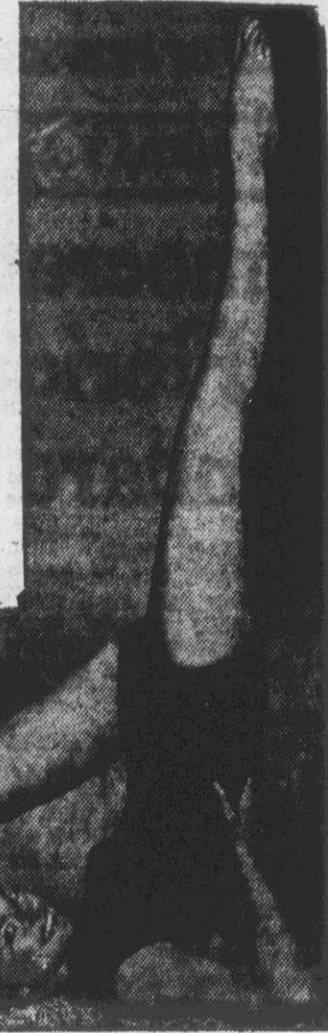

Following this all too brief visit to Lebanon, Mrs. E. E. Rawl read a short travel item, selected by Mrs. J. E. Nobles, on the attractions of Florida.

The hostess, assisted by her daughter, Catherine, Mrs. Spain, Mrs. Conley and Mrs. Rawl, served a delicious sweet course, with coffee and nuts.

Smart Girls Take Care Of Feet

By VIVIAN BROWN

Today is the day to shine your feet.
Foot callouses should never be left until tomorrow, says Hollywood starlet Allyn McLerie. Allyn gives her feet the same daily attention she devotes to her face. Before a date she always relaxes with feet elevated for at least ten minutes. She knows that if her feet hurt on a date or shopping tour it will spoil the fun, because aching feet can make you hurt all over.
She smooths heels and toes with oil or lotion each night, watches that toenails are clipped when necessary, avoiding possible in grown nails by cutting them straight across, never rounding corners. She exercises her legs to keep them relaxed and limber, selects polishes in jewel tones to make her toes twinkle in dancing sandals.

SMOOTH THOSE HEELS... Starlet Allyn McLerie puts creamed cotton on feet.

LEG LIMBERER... Allyn prepares for a big date by doing the scissors exercise to shake kinks out of legs and feet, relaxes by kicking up her heels.

Following the business meeting, Mrs. Durwood Harris, guest of honor, received many attractive and useful stork gifts.

During the social hour the hostesses served iced drinks, open-faced sandwiches and cashew nuts to the 18 members present.

Book Of Amos Reviewed Before Athenaeum Club

Mrs. J. K. Proctor used arrangements of daffodils, camellias and hyacinths to decorate her home when she entertained the Athenaeum Book Club on Tuesday at one o'clock.

Covers were laid for eighteen. The club program for this year is the study of the books of the Old Testament. Mr. J. B. Cummings of the faculty of East Carolina College reviewed the book of Amos. It was most interesting and the members felt that they were better informed about this minor prophet.

The club was asked by Mrs. J.H.B. Moore to act as hostess to the art exhibit to be held Sunday at Shepard Memorial Library. Mrs. Owen Marshburn was appointed chairman for this occasion.

After the distribution of the books the meeting adjourned.

Guests were Mrs. Worthington of Baltimore and Mr. Cummings.

Mr. Lee Guest Speaker For Chatham Club

Mrs. Frank Bendall was hostess to the Chatham Book Club Tuesday afternoon at her home on Billmore Street. Daffodils and red camellias were attractively arranged throughout the house.

Mrs. Will P. Moore, club president, presided over a short business meeting. The club voted a contribution of $5.00 to the Red Cross.

Mr. Herbert Lee, who was presented to the club by Mrs. Bendall, was the speaker for the occasion. In his remarks Mr. Lee dealt at some length with his experiences in the Foreign Services of the State Department. For something like the last two and one-half years he was located in Manila. Concerning his stay there Mr. Lee told of many of the matters which have to be handled in the course of a day's work. His remarks were interspersed with interesting, and sometimes humorous, personal experiences and observations. And along with it all he emphasized many of the numerous things expected of one who serves in these foreign areas.

Guests of the club were Mrs. Tyson, Mrs. Stauffer and Mrs. Simpson.

'Williamsburg' Topic For Inter Se Program

Mrs. Tom Henderson was hostess to the members of the Inter-Se Book Club at her home on Tuesday, March 2. Early spring flowers were used throughout the home as decorations.

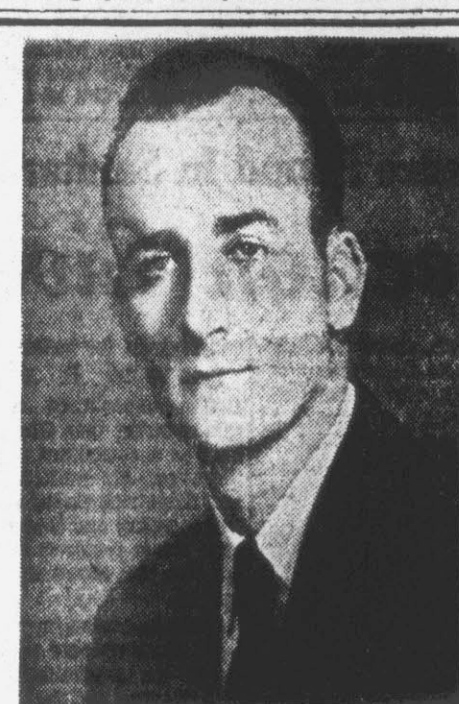

Mrs. Joe Taft, president, presided over a short business session at which time she appointed a nominating committee with Mrs. W. H. Taft, Mrs. Wendell Smiley and Mrs. David Evans.

Mrs. E. H. Williford gave the program for the afternoon, using as her subject "Williamsburg, Va." Mrs. Williford told of how Williamsburg became the scene of momentous events and decisions in the life of a new nation. At another strategic moment in history, Williamsburg has been restored and reconstructed to become a living laboratory of history. It was brought out how the restoration of Williamsburg has opened new vistas of thought about the early life of this nation and the men who founded it.

During the social hour the hostess served a delicious salad course with coffee, after which the books were distributed and the meeting adjourned.

'Books and Stuff'

DR. ED. HIRSBERG

We've been reading the magazines again, and can't resist talking about them — but we are not in the business, just in case anybody gets suspicious.

Freedom seems to be the topic people are worrying about. In the March Ladies Home Journal there is an article by Dorothy Thompson called "The Key to Freedom," which discusses some of the qualities in the American people that make them free — worth reading, for a review of fundamentals, if nothing else. . . . Much more disturbing is Robert M. Hutchins' piece in this week's Look Magazine, "Are Our Teachers Afraid to Teach?" He talks about the fear of discussing controversial issues that pervades the nation's classrooms, and declares that if teachers are reluctant to present both sides of any question, our children will grow up to become "passive subjects of a police state" because they will be unable to "think and act as independent citizens in a democracy," knowing nothing about important issues and or how to face them. His conclusion is worth repeating in full:

"If we really want education in this country, we will have to pay teachers decent salaries, give them the status that their importance to society justifies and insure them the freedom that their work and their calling demand. No country ever needed education more than ours does today. . . . From Robert M. Hutchins, former president of the University of Chicago and now an associate director of the Ford Foundation. . . . We highly recommend his article, to anyone interested in the present or future status of American education — which means the present or future status of America. . . ."

Among the recent books: A new biography of Henry Ford, by Allan Nevins with Frank E. Hill, "Ford: The Times, the Man, the Company." The conclusion seems to be that Ford was not as good a business man as he was a mechanic. But even as a mechanic, he did pretty well, financially. . . . "Seven Years in Tibet," the Book-of-the-Month Club selection for February, by Heinrich Harrer, has been well received by the critics. It's about the author's experiences in Lhasa, Tibet's mysterious sacred city, and his acquaintanceship with the Dalai Lama, regarded both as god and king by the Tibetans — at least before the Chinese Communists took over. . . . There's also a new book about Lewis Carroll, the man who wrote "Alice in Wonderland," a two-volume edition of his diaries, edited and supplemented by Roger L. Green. . . . The reviewer in The New York Times, W.H. Auden, is not enthusiastic about it. Considered as a diary, he writes, "it is probably the dullest ever published."

Remember Lawrence of Arabia — T.E. Lawrence, the intrepid British second lieutenant who led the Arabs to victory over the pro-German Turks in World War I? Well, he is about to be debunked. Richard Aldington has just completed a well-documented biography, to be published in May, that is going to reveal Lawrence — writer of "Seven Pillars of Wisdom," — as a liar and a charlatan. Friends of Lawrence are disturbed and want the book suppressed, so it should create a lot of interest when it comes out — if it ever does. . . .

Items on the local scene: Biggest cultural event to happen here this month is the Community Art Festival, to be held during the week of March 28 to April 3. Some excellent programs are planned, among them an Author's Luncheon on Thursday, April 1, where — it is hoped — several literary celebrities will appear. One of them is Sam Byrd, a native of North Carolina, who is with the North Carolina Wildlife Resources Commission made speeches to all the 4-H clubs in the county concerning wildlife conservation.

At that time she mentioned to the club that the blue bird was one of the farmers best friends among animal life. She said that the bird kills many insects that are harmful to farm crops. However, she noted, the blue birds often nest in tobacco barns and are killed when the barns are put in use in the Fall.

Miss Barber asked the Falkland club if they would like to take as a project the building of bird houses to be placed near tobacco barns as nesting places for the birds and

Angry Wife Led To Raid On Club

BALTIMORE (AP) — When police raided the Eton Social Club they found a dice game in one room, a slot machine in another and two nude women in a third room.

Police testified at a hearing yesterday that an angry wife's tip led to the raid. The wife told police she didn't like her husband visiting the place.

After the hearing, five men and two women were held for grand jury action.

UNTAILED CHILDREN
CALGARY (AP) — One of the greatest problems facing schools is the increasing failure of parents to discipline their children, a teachers' convention here was told by Dr. E. P. Scarlett, chancellor of the University of Alberta. "We can't educate until the home civilizes children," he said.

Falkland 4-H Club Has Built Forty Bird Houses

4-H Club members of the Falkland club have just completed a project of building 40 bird houses to be mounted near tobacco barns as a nesting place for bluebirds.

The Falkland club is the only club to carry on such a project of this type in North Carolina.

The project was begun in January when Miss Loretta Barber, who is with the North Carolina Wildlife Resources Commission made speeches to all the 4-H clubs in the county concerning wildlife conservation.

At that time she mentioned to the club that the blue bird was one of the farmers best friends among animal life. She said that the bird kills many insects that are harmful to farm crops. However, she noted, the blue birds often nest in tobacco barns and are killed when the barns are put in use in the Fall.

Miss Barber asked the Falkland club if they would like to take as a project the building of bird houses to be placed near tobacco barns as nesting places for the birds and the club agreed to the project. Now the 38 members of the Falkland club have constructed 40 bird houses. They were sent plans for the houses from the State Wildlife Commission by Miss Barber and the houses were built to the specifications.

"The boys and girls cooperated in a splendid way and followed through wonderfully," Miss Josephine Cusick, home demonstration agent who works with 4-H youth said.

Very little cost for the project was involved because the houses were constructed from scrap wood which was picked up around homes. C. J. Goodman, assistant farm agent who also works with 4-H members said that the project would be featured in the May of June issue of the Tar Heel Wildlife magazine.

He said that Sheila Dawn and Mitchell Wooten will also give a demonstration of the project on the Farm Facts program on television station WNCN, March 10 at 6:45 p.m. Sheila Dawn is president of the Falkland club and she has acted as a leader for the project.

Film Producer Says TV Is 'Too Rushed'

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — What's the matter with TV entertainment? Producer Leland Hayward says it's too rushed.

Hayward is worth listening to. Once a top Hollywood agent, he switched jobs to become Broadway's most successful producer. He has scored a string of hits, including "A Bell for Adano," "State of the Union," "Mister Roberts," "South Pacific," "Call Me Madam," "Point of No Return" and "Wish You Were Here."

He is also responsible for two of TV's most memorable shows. The first was the Ford anniversary show, which is still being talked about. His second effort was last Sunday's Comedy Hour version of "Anything Goes" with Ethel Merman, Frank Sinatra, Bert Lahr and Sherree North. It was one of the happiest TV outings within memory.

"I wasn't at all satisfied," said the rugged, plain-talking Hayward, who appears to be something of a perfectionist. "There were so many things that could have been improved if we'd had more time."

I asked him how he felt after the historic Ford show.

"I was miserable after that one," he replied, which proves he is a perfectionist.

"Everything is done in too much of a hurry in TV," he continued. "Why, we only began work on "Anything Goes" three weeks before the show went on. Our first rehearsal was a week before the performance, and then it was only a reading of the book.

"Look how they do it in the movies. Next week Ethel starts 'There's No Business Like Show Business.' They will take eight weeks just to record the songs. The picture is budgeted at 4½ million dollars and will take six months to shoot!"

"In a play like 'Call Me Madam,' she would have five weeks rehearsal then go on the road for six weeks before opening in New York."

"And look at the preparation for a stage show. Oscar Hammerstein had a best-selling book and a time movie to work from, yet he spent a whole year writing the book for 'The King and I.' He and Dick Rodgers would take three months writing the score and eight weeks casting before rehearsals began."

Hayward also finds fault with the TV format.

"The hour show is simply too short for a musical comedy or even a straight play," he said. "You don't really have an hour to play with; you have 48 minutes. In 'Anything Goes,' we had 22 minutes of music. That left a mere 26 minutes to get the book across. Ridiculous!"

"You put a good show together, then you have to cut, cut, cut. It's the same with straight plays. They build up a good plot, then kiss off the final scene with a fast 'Is that so?' 'Yes, it is.' 'Hello, Good-bye.' You leave the audience hanging on the ropes."

He believes that shows will have to go on an hour and a half to be effective.

Cossack Chorus In ECC Program Monday Evening

The famous and popular Platoff Don Cossack Chorus and Dancers will appear at East Carolina College Monday, March 8, at 8 p.m. in the Wright building. The program will be sponsored by the college Entertainment Committee as part of their series of attractions for the current school year.

Seasons after season the Cossacks have sung their musical journeys across the country, winning new fans and pleasing old ones with their stirring music. Sometime this coming season they will sing their 1,800th American concert.

The Cossacks sang together for the first time 22 years ago in the Cathedral in Prague, Czechoslovakia. They were exiles from the Don River Country and were gathered together by Nicholas Kostukoff, who left Russia in the Revolution. Thus they began their musical wanderings, which were ended when they were invited by the city of San Francisco to sing at the Exposition there in 1939.

All members of the Chorus are now American citizens. Some of them fought during the Second World War in the ranks of the U.S. army.

Scott's Campaign Symbol; The Bull Calf

Kerr Scott's story recently about walking 21 miles from Kinston to Hargett's Cross Roads many years ago probably is the truth; but the proposition he made in jest about a prize to anyone who bettered his six hour mark for the walk is going to cost him a lot of bull.

The walking contest was held Wednesday, and 36 men who entered the walking contest from Kinston to Hargett's Cross Roads made the trip in less time than the six hours Scott said it took him. Unless he is able to get out from under his much-

Bitter Experience Brings Lesson

The fusillade of bullets which four fanatic Puerto Ricans poured onto the floor of the House this week points up that what is considered the "impossible" can still happen—and often does.

Fortunately, the five members of the House who were struck down by the bullets of the would-be assassins apparently will recover from the wounds they received. It is also apparent that the bitter experience will bring about a greater security on visitors to the galleries of Congress and afford greater protection for members of that body.

The unprecedented shooting in the House of Representatives by the four Puerto Rican nationalists by all means has had the effect which the foursome said they wished: bringing the attention of the American people to the Puerto Rican situation.

It has brought sharply to the attention of the people in the United States the fact that there is at least a small group of nationalist fanatics in the Central American possession of the United States who will stop at nothing in their effort to gain control of that nation. The incident in the House adds more weight to the contention of many Puerto Rican leaders that the possession of the United States is not yet ready for independence even though this country has offered it its independence any time it wishes.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
THE END-TRIUMPH

Two world travelers with whom I conversed last evening were talking about the degraded living conditions in certain parts of the world. I reflected upon the fact that this is nothing new. Think of what it was like when men lived in caves, hunted by savage monsters more ferocious than anything we know about today. Think of the centuries during which whole populations were enslaved and sometimes tens of thousands of people cruelly tortured to satisfy the sadistic degeneracy of some tyrant. Right now, although the earth teems with abundance, more people in the world are hungry than are fed. The 12,000,000 political prisoners of Soviet Russia are but the lingering into modern life of a barbarism that has always existed in East and West alike.

Sometimes we wonder what God had in mind when He made it all. In the beginning, or what His purpose is in allowing it to continue. Yet there is purpose, and it is righteous and loving. For God Himself came down to the earth and entered into the stream of its misery, and we are told that He will some day lift humanity up in His hands of triumph and love. The unknown writer of the Epistle to the Hebrews put it perfectly when he said: "Now we see not yet all things put under Him. But we see Jesus. . ."

Policy Guided By Economics

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON—The current "recession" threatens to work major changes in the Congressional and White House policies on which the Republican Party won its first Presidential victory in 20 years. The Washington script and scenario have been revised almost overnight by the economic slump.

The strange situation parallels the crisis which confronted P.D.R. when he took office in the bleak, bank-crashing days of March, 1933. He had been elected on a platform that promised a 25 per cent cut in government costs, a balanced budget and reduced taxes. He had no thought in November, 1932, of the New Deal reforms he subsequently embraced. How he changed is recent history.

LIKE MUST BOW TO SHIFTING WINDS—Whether he likes it or not, President Eisenhower must suffer the same transformation. Unless he bows to the shifting winds of politico-economic adversity, he will find himself in a bitter, protracted and destructive feud with a hostile Congress. As they face election next fall, the majority on Capitol Hill is running for a storm shelter.

They are preparing to junk the pledges on which they were elected when the country was enjoying unprecedented prosperity as a result of heavy foreign aid, military and Korean War expenditures. Like P.D.R., they will resort to expediency with the comforting consolation and ballot-box explanation that conditions have changed. He is a poor politician who cannot contradict himself logically.

DETERMINATION ON CAPITOL HILL—President Eisenhower and Secretary Humphrey, for instance, want no more heavy tax cuts lest they defer the day of budget-balancing. But Congress is determined to avert nuisance excises at least 50 per cent, and to hand out another reduction in personal income levies even conservatives on this issue insist on appeasing the voters and softening the economic shock.

He has requested further tariff reductions through the Randall Commission. But, with workers being laid off in many lines, he will be lucky if Congress extends the Reciprocal Trade Agreement Act for another year. Once sympathetic to freer trade, the unions now oppose a possible increase in competitive imports.

RETENTION OF PRESENT FARM SYSTEM—

publicized proposition—and this being a campaign year, it's doubtful he'll try—it is going to cost the former governor a sizeable amount.

He promised a registered bull calf to anyone who could better his mark for the walk.

Chances are the contest didn't begin as a publicity stunt in connection with Scott's current campaign for the U. S. Senate race; but before the campaign is over, the event will probably be labeled the neatest publicity stunt any North Carolina politician has pulled in many years.

Famous Tar Heel politicians of the past have campaigned in worn out automobiles; worn various garments as the symbol of their campaigns, and even rolled out red carpets in jest. But we can't recall anyone before Scott who has staged a walking contest with registered bull calves as prizes.

At first glance it may appear that Scott's joke backfired when he is confronted with the matter of giving away 36 bull calves. Yet a better look at the possibilities suggest that Scott made a good deal in trading the 36 bull calves for at least 10 times that many votes, not to mention the fact that accompanying publicity about the incident tickled the funny bones of thousands of North Carolinians. That alone was worth many thousands of campaign dollars.

It will not be surprising at all to see the bull calf become the popular symbol of the 1954 Senatorial campaign of W. Kerr Scott.

March--Month That Will Point To Trend

Federal economists and others throughout the 48 states are watching closely economic conditions for the month of March. This is the month which President Eisenhower has said would determine what actions are necessary from the federal government to keep the nation's economy on an even keel.

Evidences of an economic sag have been noted in several phases of American business since the truce in the Korean war last summer. Since Christmas there have been reports of further slipping of the nation's economic situation. But the furrowings of worried brows do not seem so deep now as they appeared early in January when many people were worried about what the first two months of 1954 held in store.

The economy in Eastern North Carolina is naturally affected by economic conditions throughout the remainder of the nation and actions taken by the federal government. Also in the local economy, the return from the previous crop year is of vital importance to the economy. Generally last fall was the end of a good crop year in this section, which should mean a continuation of business with little sag during the greater part of 1954. By that time the trend of farm prices will be in better focus to determine future conditions.

Somebody Told Me

Science Underscores Religion

Last night at the regular meeting of the St. James Methodist Men I was reminded of a fact that every Greenville citizen should be well aware of by now: the coming of the DuPont plant to Kinston is a great asset to us.

That fact was evidenced last night in the person of the speaker for the meeting: Dr. R. E. Wilfong, Director of Long Range Research for the Kinston plant. Dr. Wilfong, who prefers to be called Bob, tackled the subject "The Conflict Between Science and Religion."

His conclusion was simple: There is no longer any conflict. But there has been in the past. The surprising fact brought out in Bob's address was the punishment that scientists have taken in the hands of religious leaders in early history.

What Other Editors Are Thinking

SENATE CAN STOP IT
(Greensboro Daily News)

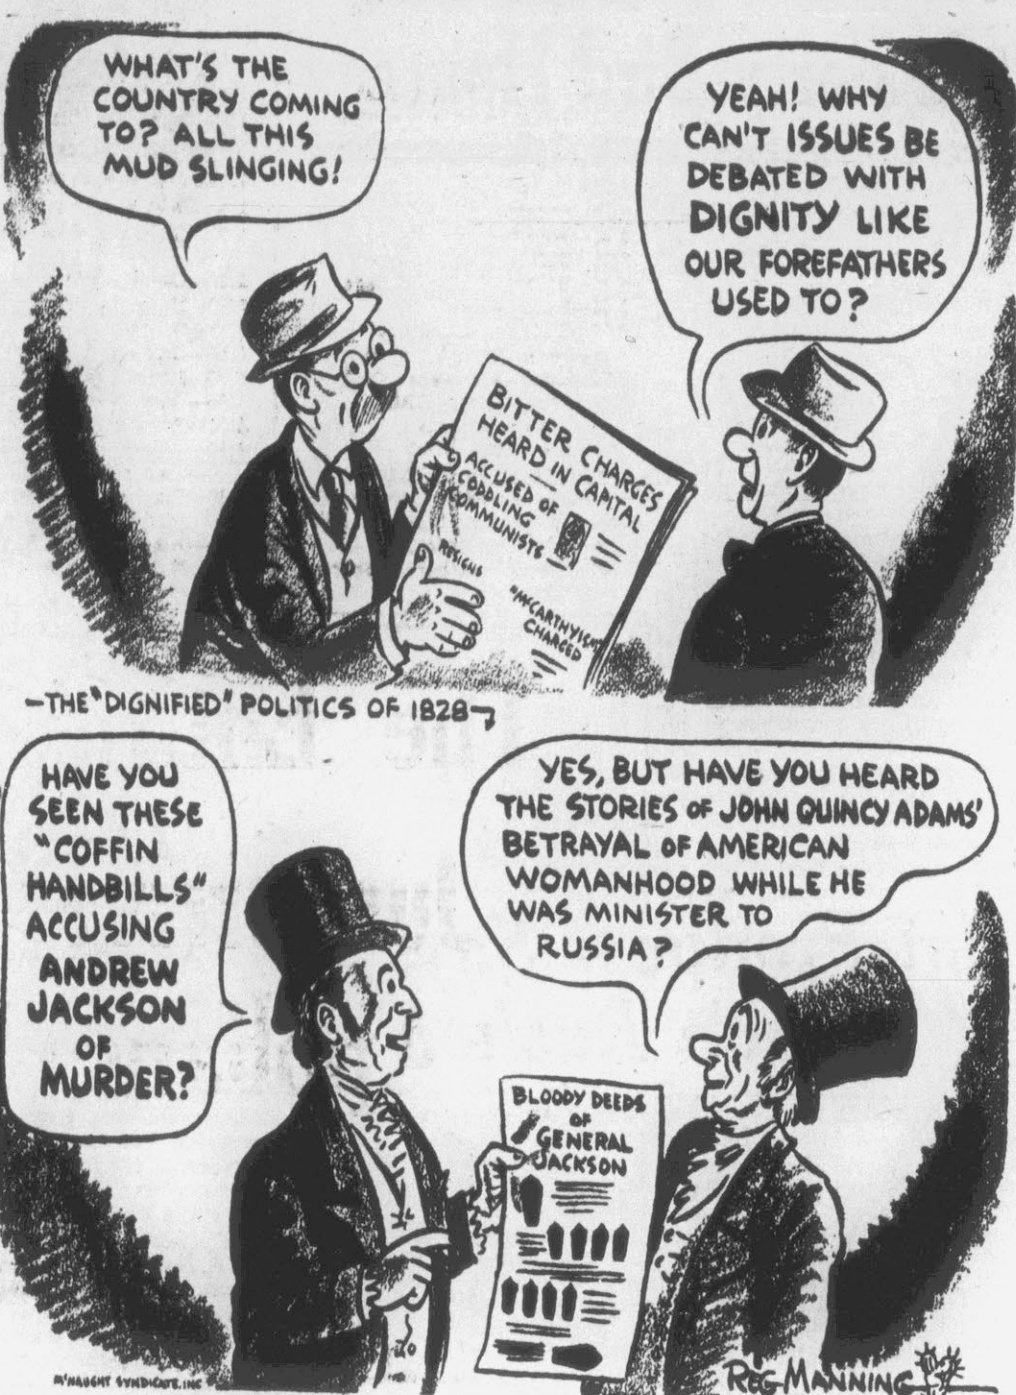

The tendency of the Legislative to encroach on the Executive and Judicial branches, which has been illustrated by irresponsible actions of congressional investigating committee chairmen, is a very disturbing one. One illustration is Senator McCarthy's assault on General Zwicker and Army Secretary Stevens. Another is Senator Langer's assault on Chief Justice Warren.

Walter Lippmann, who usually weighs his words says of it that "the country is faced with a usurpation of the executive and of the judicial powers by these investigating committees, and with a rebellion against the principles and procedures and the usages of liberty and justice under law. . . It is very dangerous to suspend the restraints of reason. For beyond them is only the primordial violence into which men, when their laws are broken down, relapse."

And George Washington reverted to this muscling into forbidden territory in his Farewell Address:

"It is important likewise that the habits of thinking in a free country should inspire caution in those entrusted with its administration to confine themselves within their respective constitutional sphere, avoiding in the exercise of the powers of one department to encroach upon another. The spirit of encroachment tends to consolidate the powers of all departments in one, and thus to create, whatever the 'Good' Old Days?

Somebody Told Me

Science Underscores Religion

Scientists deal so completely with hard, cold facts that it was interesting not only to hear Bob's conclusions as a scientist, but also the conclusions of other scientists that he mentioned.

One of the most famous in the world, Dr. R. A. Millikan of the California Institute of Technology, puts it something like this: If man realizes his inability to comprehend the mystery of his being he must believe in God.

Albert Einstein draws a similar conclusion.

Bob says, "I do not think God moves men around as though they were on a chess board, but I do think he changes the actions of men in answer to prayers."

No scientific statement in the Bible has ever been found in error, Bob related. For example, the description of the sun and the moon standing still has been traced historically and records have been found of this actually happening.

The Bible tells of the hole in the heavens. The most powerful telescopic lens, capable of reaching millions of light years, have been unable to find any planets in that spot.

The world's greatest scientists have come to the conclusion by their own studies that there is a God. Their conclusions have not been drawn as a result of any preaching.

Bob's simple approach to the subject was truly inspiring, for a man with a doctorate in science must have acquired it with a technical mind. His inspiration was easily picked up as we listened to his speech.

And I thank you.

Carrying Auto Financial Responsibility Act Too Far

By LYNN NISBET

TOO FAR — The legal reach of the automobile financial responsibility act embraces all vehicles involved in a traffic accident and requires the drivers to report the accident immediately and comply with responsibility phases of the law, by showing ability to pay for damages. That is true even though one of the drivers is patently free of blame. In their zeal to enforce the law some traffic officers are stretching its application too far.

A case was reported from one of the larger cities last week with these essential facts: Two cars were moving in the same direction when one ran into the rear of the other, knocking it against a parked vehicle, which in turn was rammed into a second properly parked car. Neither of the parked cars was occupied at the time. All four vehicles were damaged to the extent requiring repair.

Investigating officers took appropriate action with respect to operators of the moving vehicles, requiring both to post bond as required by the law. Then they looked up the owners of the parked cars and demanded that they, too, show financial ability to pay for damage, either by posting bond or an insurance policy—or suffer loss of driving license.

That is going too far, according to Department. It was proper to require the operators of the moving cars to show ability to pay for damages, pending determination of the cause of the accident, and the liability extended to damage done all four vehicles. The demand upon the absent owners of the legally parked cars was not justified.

UNREASONABLE — It is generally agreed that it was the unreasonable and often discourteous attitude of the inspectors, imposing undue hardship on owners, rather than objection to its purposes, which led to repeal of the mechanical inspection law. Sponsors of the financial responsibility act hope that similar unreasonable stretch-out in application will not arouse popular resentment and occasion demand for repeal, as happened with inspection.

DEBATE — There are recognized advantages in having all candidates for one office appear on a platform together and discuss their ideas in the presence of each other and the public. South Carolina has for many years used that method of campaigning. The itineraries are arranged by the party organization, the order of speaking is determined by lot or by equitable rotation, and each candidate is allotted the same amount of time. It is understood that several other States have modified forms of the same system. The obvious advantage to the people is they can hear all sides by attending one speaking engagement; and the advantage to the candidate is that he has his opposition "under the gun" for possible conversion.

There are equally obvious disadvantages in the plan for both the voters and the candidates. Half a century and more ago, when party nominations in North Carolina were made in conventions rather than in popular (P) primaries, the custom prevailed for joint debates between Democratic-Republican-Populist-Etc., candidates in the general election campaign. Much of the fundamental ideology of the political parties now stems from the Zeb Vance and Tom Settle debates in North Carolina, the famed Douglas-Lincoln debates on national level.

On the whole, the people and the candidates of the recent past and the present frown upon the idea of joint debates, except when arranged under auspices of the regular party organizations.

INCIDENTS — Two or three incidents of the latest state-wide campaign illustrate the hazards involved. One was the meeting at Wilson when Ernest Gardner, an announced candidate who later withdrew from the race from Democratic nomination for Governor, literally stole the show from William Umstead and Hubert Olive. Another was the Dunn public forum at which Candidate Olive threw a monkey wrench into the set-up by statements interpreted as all-out espousal of a soldier bonus referendum, and put Candidate Umstead in an embarrassing position.

INVITATION — The foregoing paragraphs are by way of leading up to mention of the fact that W. M. Bostick of Cary, a virtually unknown citizen but a qualified candidate for the Democratic nomination to the United States by reason of having paid the required filing fee to the State Board of Elections, has invited

Booms Cause Busts

By ELMER ROESSNER

The idea that booms suck up future property, mentioned here yesterday, may have struck some readers as strange. But booms do just that — so much so that booms are actually one of the causes of busts.

Let's see how that happens. Every once in a while the economy is stimulated a bit, for example, by efforts to increase military defenses. Workers and managers get higher pay; stockholders and other owners make more money.

So they start making the purchases they normally would make next year, or the year after, or the year after that. A family that has been buying a new car every fifth year decides it can now buy a new one in the fourth year. The house painting job that was due in 1954 was done in 1953. Furniture, furnishings and appliances are replaced sooner. The newlyweds who expected to rent for their first 10 married years buy a house.

Meanwhile, people are not only making future purchases in the present, but they also are spending future income. With plenty of overtime bonuses and dividends, people have fewer doubts about their ability to make future payments, and they buy more on credit. Right now about $29 billion of consumer credit is outstanding. About 90 per cent of it was granted last year, which means that in 1953 people spent about $26 billion of their 1954 and 1955 incomes.

When a boom is on, stores build up their stocks so they won't risk loss of sales. Wholesalers add goods so they can supply stores readily, and manufacturers increase their inventories of raw materials. A large part of the sales of supplier to manufacturers, manufacturers to wholesalers, and so on, are what would have been future sales under other conditions.

At the same time, the thing that triggered the boom — say defense spending — is being paid for, in part, out of future earnings, because spending — is being paid for, in part, out of future earnings, because some of the money comes from borrowings that are to be repaid out of taxes levied on incomes for years and years ahead. Then when the supports for the boom weaken, sales don't just drop back to what would be normal levels. Because they have stocked up on goods, many people cut buying way back. Besides, what disposable income they have is pledged to meet those installment payments.

And because people buy less, manufacturers cut payrolls, and then still more people buy less. And manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers try to live off their heavy inventories as much as possible, and that reduces spending, hence wages and other incomes, even more.

Of course, booms could be held in check with sharply higher taxes, artificially high interest rates and credit controls — but that would be too unpopular politically ever to be put into effect.

MORE MEN'S SUITS IN 100 TO HAVE VESTS THIS FALL
The vest is coming back a little. A survey by the Clothing Manufacturers Association of the U.S.A. indicates 26 per cent of the single-breasted conservative men's suits for fall will include vests. Last year only 25 per cent had them; back in 1950 the ratio was 64 per cent.

BANK COMMITTEE STUDIES CHECK MECHANIZATION
The day when almost all checks are like those used by the government and large corporations — stiff with slotted edges or sprinkled with punched holes — is a little nearer. The American Bankers Association has appointed a committee to study and make recommendations for mechanical handling of checks.

Many bankers are convinced that it will not be long until all checks have slots or holes. When an individual or a company gets blank checks, they will have identifying punches in them. Then, when checks are written, companies, if not individuals, will punch holes corresponding to the amount. Then once a day each bank will feed incoming checks into a machine that will sort them, total them and deduct correct amounts from each account.

A Peep At World Of Tomorrow

By ED CREAGH

For HAL BOYLE
WASHINGTON (AP)—Put me down as a coward if you like but I'm not sure the life of tomorrow is the world for me.

Like millions of other people I can't resist those science stories—some fiction, some "scientific" speculation about what's ahead for mankind. You know, rocket ships blasting off to Mars, strange creatures from outer space dropping in among us.

Now this makes fine "escape" reading, as some of my higher-browed friends tell me with a sniff when they catch me with a paper-back hidden behind a "serious" book. Trouble is, I have an uneasy hunch that the authors of these interplanetary thrillers aren't kidding.

They were, if you remember, the boys who were writing confidently of the atom bomb in the days when many a "real" scientist was scoffing at the very idea. They have, in fact, a disturbing record of being right in their forecasts.

All I know is that if their picture of our future is anywhere near accurate, this 20th century world of the hydrogen bomb, the Communist menace and the Puerto Rican terrorist with the blazing gun is going to seem a warm and cozy place by comparison.

If you care for an example, look at "The Orkneys and the Goggs" by Charles E. Fritch in the current issue of "Cosmic Science Fiction." Space ship lands on Mars, crew finds the place occupied by pigs. In less time than it takes to say "pseudoscientific," our brave human adventurers find themselves tossed into pens and the pigs are about to have people chops for supper.

This is mild, whimsical stuff compared with much science fiction. More often, the creatures from outer space are tough, scaly creatures armed with scaly ray guns. . . or horrible, shapless blobs that assume any form—your wife's, for example—at will.

Worse still, in this nightmare world of tomorrow, odd changes occur in those stay-at-home earth-lings who don't go rocketing through space. They learn to read minds. They form themselves—as in Theodore Sturgeon's grotesque classic, "More Than Human"—into unholy several-people-in-one combinations, with a mongoloid idiot for a brain and, for arms and legs, two colored girls who go whisking magically through space wearing nothing but tinsel expressions.

Maybe I'm borrowing trouble. Maybe none of us will live to see this nerve-shattering tomorrow. But it's just as well to be prepared. The time may be fast approaching when we will need (A) a congressional committee on unworldly activities, to investigate subversion on a scale beyond the fondest dreams of the Kremlin, and (B) an amendment to the McCarran act barring all furred, feathered or cloven-footed immigrants from outer space until their intentions have been proved honest.

You think I'm kidding? Look over your shoulder. There. At the window. That green crawling thing with the phosphorescent scales? Oops, too late. It's already eaten grandma.

Coast Guard Is Again Recruiting

NORFOLK, Va., — The U.S. Coast Guard has announced that it is again seeking men between 17 and 26 for enlistment in the regular service following a two-month shut down of recruiting.

The Coast Guard's action is prompted by a move made by the service which allows thousands of enlisted men now on active duty to receive their discharges as much as six months early.

Most new recruits signing up at Fifth Coast Guard District recruiting stations will be sent to the Coast Guard Receiving Center at Cape May, N.J., for basic training. All enlistments, the Coast Guard said, are for a period of four years, and recruiting officials pointed out that former servicemen may enlist even if their ages are over 26. Ex-Coast Guard and Navy men who were rated electronics technicians or aviation electronics technicians may currently be reenlisted with their old rates. Other rates, from time to time, may be open for re-enlistment by ex-servicemen.

Dream Pairings In Tourney Almost Upset In First Day

By KEN ALLEY
RALEIGH, Va. — The "dream" semifinal pairings that basketball followers look for comes up tonight in the Atlantic Coast Conference tournament. But for two of the four winning favorites, the dream narrowly missed turning into a nightmare.

First signs of upset rumblings were flashed in the first of yesterday's first round games. Wake Forest trailing most of the way, staggered through to an overtime 58-57 victory over a South Carolina team it had thrashed twice during the season.

Maryland's No. 2 seeded team delivered as expected with a 75-59 whipping of Clemson to draw tonight's 9:30 assignment against Wake Forest.

Before 8,500 disbelievers the tenacious Tar Heels forced State to hang on for dear life before the Wolfpack slipped through with a 52-51 victory. For about seven of the final 13 minutes State resorted to stalling tactics to run out the clock and sit on its hard-earned lead.

The furious action saw the score tied 11 times in the first half. North Carolina led, 33-31, at half. State finally moved ahead to stay with a flurry of late points in the third period, 43-41. But State couldn't shake loose from the Tar Heels and had to play it close to the vest all through the teeming action of the last 10 minutes which wound up in a virtual parade to the foul line. Top scorers were Skippy Winstead with 25 for North Carolina and Ronnie Shavlik with 21 for State.

Frank McGuire, who last year steered North Carolina to its first victory in 16 starts against Everett Case's State team, had to send his team into battle without ailing Al Lifson his No. 2 scorer.

Tonight State gets a shot at the high-flying Duke team, No. 11 in the nation, which nosed out State by three points in two earlier meetings.

Duke had little more than a workout against Virginia. The Devils scored 23 points in the first and fourth periods and 25 in each of the second and third. Coach Harold Bradley used 12 players and all scored. Soph forward Ronnie Mayer led the parade with 13. No Duke player went more than 25 minutes.

The game was a personal triumph for Wilkinson, No. 3 scorer in the nation. He threw in 13 of 44 basket attempts and 16 of 22 fouls. He scored 16 of his team's first 19 points and was the only Virginian to make a basket through the first 15 1/2 minutes.

Maryland and Wake Forest meet for the third time. They took turns thrashing each other during the season last year playing in the Southern Conference tournament, the teams also met in the semifinals, Wake Forest winning, 61-59, in its sweep to the title.

Wake Forest, which had humiliated South Carolina by 77-62 and 103-70 scores in regular season games, had the fight of its life in slipping past the Gamecocks in the tournament opener.

Coach Frank Johnson's South Carolina team led from the second minute after play began until John Devos, sub guard, threw in a basket for Wake Forest to tie the score at 51-all with 72 seconds left.

In the overtime, Dickie Hemric, Wake Forest's big junior center, broke a 53-all tie with two in-crowd baskets. With five seconds left Ray Lipsett, Wake Forest's three-point guard, shot a three-point basket and offed a closing second basket by Jack Hufford of South Carolina. Hemric's 21 points led all scorers. Tom Huffert's 16 paced South Carolina's amazing second half.

Maryland, 55 points better than Clemson in two regular season games, was paced by a 28-point performance by Capt. Gene Shue. The Terps grabbed period leads of 18-12, 25-23 and 60-9. Sophomore Bill Yarborough's 25 points stopped Clemson's efforts.

An afternoon turnout of 6,800 brought the four game total to 115,300. A near capacity 12,000 is expected tonight.

DeMarco Hopeful In Title Contest

NEW YORK (AP)—Paddy DeMarco never has fought 15 rounds and the odds say he won't go that far tonight when he challenges Jimmy Carter for the lightweight title in Madison Square Garden.

But the same odds give Paddy as good a chance as Carter had when he lifted the title from Ike Williams three years ago.

In what little warring there has been on this fight, which hasn't stirred up much interest hereabouts, Carter has been favored at odds ranging 1-3 to 1-4 and he's a 7-5 choice to knock out the rugged, charging scrapper from Brooklyn.

DeMarco, who was the 2-1 underdog when he stopped Williams in 14 rounds to become champion.

Since then Carter has fought for the title three times, lost it once to Lauro Salas and won it back again, and has become a vastly improved fighter. But he still can't draw a big crowd in his home town.

The bout, starting at 10 p.m. EST, will be broadcast (ABC) and telecast (NBC) locally and nationally.

Carter is a cool, careful sort of fighter who doesn't get excited and often doesn't look spectacular.

In his three title bouts last year he bombed Tommy Collins unmercifully for four rounds and stopped George Araujo in 13 and Armand Savio in five. But he managed to look rather sour in a couple of non-title fights.

DeMarco disregards the odds and the obvious facts in predicting that he'll win tonight. His style of fighting is to put his head down and charge in, sometimes connecting with his skull instead of his fists. And he thinks he can keep it up for 15 rounds as easily as 10.

"Carter is slow and I'll make him hustle," he said. "All I hope is that he tries to bomb me out with his right."

Replied Jimmy: "I hope DeMarco comes in swinging like he says he intends to. I'll meet him with the right kind of punches."

Winterville Team In Regional Finals

ROBERSONVILLE — Coach Snag Clark's Winterville High School Wolves moved into the finals of the regional playoffs for the State Class A high championships by defeating Bath 53-40 here last night.

Winterville will meet Robersonville tonight at 8 o'clock for the regional championship. The game will be played in the Robersonville High School gym.

Ed Evans led the Winterville victory last night with 13 points. All-Pitt County Conference players Lex Keeter and Dean Wingate followed with 12 apiece. Black led the Bath scoring with 12 points.

Both Winterville and Robersonville will advance to the district finals in Asheville next week regardless of tonight's outcome. Winner in tonight's game, however, is expected to get more favorable pairing in the district play, however.

Score by quarters:
Winterville 13 13 14 13—53
Bath 7 12 12 9—40

Individual Workouts For GHS Tracksters

Individual conditioning and calisthenics were the order of the day as Greenville High School's tracksters worked out in preparation for the opening of the outdoor track season.

Thirty-four candidates have turned out for the track squad this year, which makes this squad the largest in the history of G.H.S. Lettermen will provide the core of the team with a host of inexperienced boys out for the first time this season. Several other boys are expected to report later this week.

In the track events lettermen James Speight and Joe Taft, and non-letterman Bobby Langston will carry the teams colors in the 100 yard dash. Speight and Langston along with letter-winner Mitchell Johnson will probably enter the 220-yard dash. Neither of the candidates placed in the sprints last season for the track team as Bobby Perry swept every sprint in sight for the Greenville chundermen.

In the quarter-mile dash Coach Kittrell is not certain of his entries. It is almost a certainty that junior Joe Taft will run and probably Larry Powell, Dixie Hobgood, and Mitchell Johnson will enter the event. Taft was the number two 440-man last season behind the unbeatable Perry.

Top Strength
In the distance events, the half-mile and the mile, the G-men show their most strength. Lettermen Wayne Bishop, Edgar Moore, and Sam Winchester will run the half mile with newcomer Bennie Perry, letterman Howard King, and Bishop entering the mile event. Bishop can be counted on to take the mile as his 3:56 timing in the State Meet of last season was the best record for the mile by a sophomore in the history of the event. Bennie Perry, a sophomore who has impressed with his work in early season workouts, will strengthen the squad in the distance events.

A tentative team of Mitchell Johnson, James Speight, Larry Powell, and Joe Taft will run the mile relay.

The high and low hurdles are new events to the squad as this is the first time the team has had the hurdles. Entrants in these events will be captain Cleidith Oakley, Harold Edwards, Joe Taft, and Bob Shackelford.

Edwards, Walter Perkins, and James Speight are the high jumpers of the squad. Edwards' best jump of 5'9" earned him a tie for second place in the State Meet last year. Perkins and Speight earned monograms in the high jump event the past season.

Tight Duel
Broad jumpers are Speight and Mitchell Johnson. A dandy duel is expected to come out of this event as both jumped close to the same distance last year.

Cleidith Oakley led the discus throwers along with big Tommy Smith, entrants in these events will be captain Cleidith Oakley, Harold Edwards, Joe Taft, and Bob Shackelford.

Pirates Leave Tomorrow For Trip To Kansas City

Favored GW Meets Furman In Southern Semi-Finals

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (AP)—Favored George Washington University turns its big guns on West Virginia and Furman bumps into Richmond tonight in the semifinals of the Southern Conference basketball tournament.

First round results yesterday fell pretty much into the lines of pre-tournament speculation.

The only surprise came from a fired-up Washington & Lee team which gave powerful George Washington a terrific battle for 2 1/2 periods only to bow finally to superior height and rebound control and lost 76-64.

Furman trailed for only five minutes in its easy 84-68 triumph over Davidson. Then with a layup by All America Frank Selvy, who led all scoring with 36 points, the Pirates jumped into a 6-5 lead, crept ahead steadily and never were threatened seriously again.

West Virginia, meanwhile, had a battle on its hands for the first half, but proved its mastery over William & Mary, 84-69. Richmond had an easy time defeating Virginia Military 84-66.

Selvy missed by four points the tournament's single-game record of 40 set last year by Gene Shue of Maryland. Furman is expected to slip by Richmond, a team the Pirates defeated twice during the regular season, 97-76 and 85-76.

For West Virginia it will be a rematch with the Colonials, who downed WVU 105-75 in the regular season.

George Washington Coach Bill Reinhardt admitted he felt an upset possible when his team meets the Mountaineers and WVU Coach Red Brown agrees that such an upset is entirely possible.

George Washington got its scare last night against Washington & Lee and probably won't be overconfident. The Colonials were forced to come from behind in the third quarter. Then GW hit for five straight field goals to get the ball rolling.

Furman also was forced to overtake its opponent but with more time to spare.

Furman built its margin to 45-33 at half time and led 64-52 at the end of the third quarter. The All American Selvy, who was presented between games with a plaque as Southern Conference Athlete of the Year, scored 11 of his 30 shots from the field and 14 of his 15 free throw tries.

West Virginia turned a third quarter spurt to good advantage after seeing its early lead fall before a heated W&M attack. Red Holmes totaled 23 points for the Mountaineers, but it was the losers' Chick Cornell who took scoring honors with 28.

Campbell Camels Going To Kansas

BUIES CREEK, N. C. (AP)—Campbell College will represent Region 1C in the National Junior College Athletic Assn. basketball tournament at Hutchinson, Kan., next week.

The team leaves tomorrow for Hutchinson. Campbell will meet the winner of Region 15, unknown as yet in Wednesday afternoon's opening round.

Meanwhile Wingate and Lees-McRae play at Wilkesboro tonight in a game billed as deciding the Region 10 championship. Wingate Coach Reid Lowder said Wingate was unable to enter the Kansas tournament, and Lees-McRae reportedly was not interested in a bid.

Wingate lost to Campbell in the finals of the North Carolina Junior College tournament after finishing first in regular season competition. Lees-McRae won the Western Carolina Junior College tourney last week.

East Carolina College's Kansas City-bound Pirates will leave town tomorrow.

A tentative travel schedule for the Pirates was announced yesterday by Coach Howard Porter. That schedule calls for the Pirates to leave Greenville by automobile tomorrow around noon. They will travel to Raleigh and board a plane for Washington at 4:40. After a short lay-over in Washington, they will then travel to Chicago and from there to Kansas City. Estimated time of arrival in Kansas City will be 11:40 tomorrow night.

The Pirates won the right to make the trip to the national tournament by defeating Erskine College, 86-64, Wednesday night. It will be the second consecutive year that the Pirates have represented District 26 in the N.A.A.U. national finals.

No announcement has been made concerning an opponent for East Carolina in the first round of action. Some districts have not completed their preliminary eliminations and national tournament pairings cannot be drawn until the district tournaments have been completed. Last year, the Pirates drew Arkansas Tech in the opening round of play and were defeated.

A squad that includes 10 players, Manager Norwood Talton, and Coach Porter will make the trip. The players are forwards Paul Jones, Charlie Huffman, William McArthur, and Don Harris; centers Bobby Hodges and Waverly Akins; and guards Cecil Heath, J. C. Thomas, Ronnie Hodge, and Bob Moyer.

The date of return for the Pirates will be determined by their performances in the tournament. It takes victories on six consecutive nights to win the national title.

Belmont Refuses AAU Invitation

BELMONT, N. C. (AP)—Belmont Abbey's participation in the Southern A.A.U. basketball tournament at Atlanta would be "impractical."

That was the report by Abbey officials yesterday. They said the players, who had beaten Camp Lejeune for the Carolinas AAU title at Shelby Tuesday, would miss too much time from classes.

Officials also cited expense and the uncertainty of the field as reasons for their decision.

The tournament began yesterday without a Carolinas representative. The winner advances to the National AAU tourney in Colorado.

The Raising of Lazarus

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—John 11:1-54.

Lazarus, brother of Mary and Martha, Jesus' friends in Bethany, became sick, and the sisters sent word to Him. Christ did not go to him immediately but tarried where he was for two days.

Then word came that Lazarus had died. Jesus told His disciples that they should go to the home of His friends in Bethany, saying, "Our friend Lazarus sleepeth; I go that I may awake him."

Hearing that Jesus was coming, Martha went to meet Him. He told her, "Thy brother shall rise again. He that believeth in Me shall never die. Believest thou this?" Martha said, "You are Christ."

At the tomb the stone was rolled away, and Jesus called, "Lazarus, come forth!" Then he that was dead came forth, bound hand and foot with grave clothes. MEMORY VERSE—John 11:25-26.

THE RAISING OF LAZARUS

CHRIST SAID: "OUR FRIEND SLEEPETH, BUT I GO TO AWAKE HIM."

Scripture—John 11:1-54.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL. VERY FEW are the families who have never felt the anxiety of having a beloved member taken seriously ill, and most of us have suffered the grief of losing some one we dearly loved by death.

The poignant story of the family of two sisters and a brother in Bethany, of the serious illness of Lazarus, the brother, and the grief of his sisters, will recall our own moments of agony when such an event occurred to us.

This home in Bethany and the family it contained were especially dear to Jesus. Often in His wanderings He made it His headquarters, and was, we surmise, always warmly welcomed. These three believed implicitly in Him, and felt blessed by His presence.

Word came to Jesus from Martha and Mary when He was with his disciples, about two days' journey from Bethany. "Lord, behold, he whom Thou lovest is sick," Jesus told those with Him, "This sickness is not unto death, but for the glory of God, that the Son of God might be glorified thereby."

The disciples must have been somewhat puzzled at Jesus' words, and the fact that He lingered two more days before starting for Bethany. Furthermore,

Me, though he were dead, yet shall he live. And whosoever liveth and believeth in Me shall never die. Believest thou this?" Martha said: "Yea, Lord; I believe that Thou art the Christ, the Son of God, which should come into the world."

"Then Martha left Jesus and went to Mary, saying, 'The Master is come, and calleth thee.' Mary rose and went to Jesus. Her friends, thinking she had gone to weep over Lazarus' tomb, followed her.

However, Mary fell at the Master's feet, weeping, and the others also wept, and Jesus Himself 'groaned in spirit,' and wept. Then He asked, 'Where have ye laid him?'

They led Him to the tomb—a cave with a stone rolled to the entrance, sealing it from intruders of any kind. Jesus told them to roll the stone away, and when it was done, He cried with a loud voice, 'Lazarus, come forth!'

"And he that was dead came forth, bound hand and foot with grave clothes; and his face was bound with a napkin. Jesus saith unto them, Loose him and let him go."

Seeing this wonderful thing, many believed on Him. How did the Pharisees react to they were troubled about going again to Judea, as they reminded Him that the Jews there had recently tried to stone Him.

He comforted them, then said, "Our friend Lazarus sleepeth; but I go, that I may awake him out of sleep."

The disciples thought that if Lazarus slept he would soon be well. They did not realize that Jesus meant that Lazarus was dead. Jesus said to them then, "Lazarus is dead."

The disciples also grieved for Lazarus, and Thomas said, "Let us also go, that we may die with him."

When they came near to Bethany they found that Lazarus had been dead four days, and many friends were with the sisters, trying to comfort them. Martha, however, came to meet her Lord, saying sorrowfully, "Lord, if Thou hadst been here, my brother had not died. But I know that even now, whatsoever Thou wilt ask of God, God will give it Thee."

"Jesus said unto her, Thy brother shall rise again. Martha saith unto Him, I know that he shall rise again in the Resurrection at the last day. Jesus said unto her, I am the Resurrection and the Life; he that believeth in this wonder? Did they too, seeing, believe? We know they did not. They feared that the whole population would now believe in Him, that this was indeed the Christ, and they thought more than ever to put Him out of the way.

The high priest of the time said: "It is expedient for us that one man should die for the people, and that the whole nation perish not." Jesus was the Man the priest prophesied should die to save the people from heresy.

How wrong this haughty priest was! Jesus did indeed die for a nation—and a world—but to save them from perishing of their sinfulness.

The high priest's name was Caiaphas, and if he could visit the world today, how astounded he would be to see that the believers of the Man he wanted put to death had spread all over the world, with many millions, instead of hundreds or thousands as in his day.

From that day the Pharisees took counsel together to put Him to death, and Jesus "walked no more openly among the Jews; but went thence unto a country near to the wilderness, into a city called Ephraim, and there continued with His disciples."

Doctor Disagrees

By Elizabeth Seifert

CHAPTER TWENTY-NINE
"YOU trying to say I got sick?" Evans demanded of Talbot.
"No, I'm not ready to say that. But you are asking for it. And if I could, I'd fire you from your job at the plant, Evans. You're a bad risk and now you're making bad risks of the men under you."
Evans got to his feet. "Oh, yeah!" he blustered. "Why, I've never been sick a day in my life!"
Craig rose, too. "That's not much to boast about. It only means you'll take it harder when sickness comes to you."
"You're not going to scare me into using your machines, Doc," Evans assured him, and swaggered out.
That sort of thing bothered Craig. There should be a way... but, no, there shouldn't, either. He'd not want to be forced to do anything against his own judgement, mistaken or otherwise.
Still, an employer should be able to discharge a "dangerous" workman. He should be made to discharge him—just as he could be made to clean up a fire hazard.
Craig debated these things one Saturday afternoon when he had suggested to Shelly that they drive out into the country, take a picnic lunch along. He had to go see an old lady in the nursing home at Allentown—it was a warm spring day.
"Too warm," she laughed.
"Not as the hinges," he agreed cheerfully.
It was a rarely gay mood for Craig as Shelly knew him, and they started out in a true picnic spirit. And then, quite soon, he became absorbed in his worried talk about the plant workers. So absorbed that when they passed the driveway into the Walsh property, Craig did not see the girl in the car which came slowly between the gates. Shelly saw her; and most certainly Eleanor saw Craig and his companion.
Shelly resisted an urge to turn and look back; instead, she lifted her pretty chin, and touched her fingers to the smoothness of her hair which she had drawn tightly back from her face—a la MYRA—letting it cluster in small, bobbing curls at the back of her head. Her dress was yellow, as simple as a schoolgirl's. And what was wrong with her going on a picnic? Though, of course, she knew what was "wrong." Her own motives were innocent; this evening she would write Stephen all about it. He'd be glad that she and Craig had had a picnic. As for Eleanor.
The nursing home had used to be the County Poor-Farm; and, like most institutions of its sort, it now was leased to some private person who for the amount of their state pension checks, housed and cared for the lonely old folk. Stephen had made medical care to this place one of his charities; Craig had carried on for him.
Craig stopped to visit it now, and when he had finished they drove on and selected a certain field and hilltop clump of trees for their picnic. Shelly sat with her back against a tree, Craig lay on the downward slope, his hands clasped under his head. Donald explored the fascinations of the pasture.
Craig pulled one leg upward so that it bent at the knee and his foot rested flat upon the ground. "I don't know, Shelly," he said, thinking about the sad old people he had just left, "we think we are going towards progress. There are all the labor-saving devices to give people more leisure, but what use do we make of that leisure? We doctors struggle to prolong life, but why? To spend added years at Allentown? When housewives used to put Granny behind the kitchen stove and worked around her in a cheerful, steaming mess of wash-tub and baking day, weren't both of them happier?"
"You worry about too many things," Shelly protested. "And you make them all your worries."
He turned toward her, propping his head on his hand and elbow.
"That's where my failure lies, Shelly," he said softly. "The company has a better chance of selling its health and safety program if it provides the men with a doctor they trust."
A little wind set the meadow grass into deeper waves rustled the leaves overhead, and lay cool upon Shelly's bare arms and her throat. "But the men should trust you, Craig."
"The only thing that matters is that they don't. Some of 'em."
"Not that Armes thing again?"
"I'm not sure what their reasons are. Probably something personal to them."
"You have something in mind."
"Not really. But I suppose I'll find out—if I stick around."
"You promised Stephen you would stick around."
"I said I'd try. I am trying."
Their eyes met and held.

Haberdasher Score For Ladies Important Note

Most important theme song for Spring — is the haberdasher score for the ladies.
The crisply-tailored shirt is practically snatched off of his back, and has caught on as a practical, casual fashion with Mother and daughter, alike.
The shirt itself is resplendent in all kinds of wonderful prints — from exotic fruit designs to sissy roses.
Separate collars made like men's fused shirt collars are intended to go over sweaters and high neckline frocks — and are most appealing in "cute floral prints."
Newest version of the haberdasher shirt goes to all lengths for high, smart fashion news! From the knee length for your over-shorts and sun wear fashions — to mid-calf lengths neatly-cinched in with gait, belt... these shirts are BIG news.
You will want a jumbo assortment of over-size cuff-links (the new jewelry item of the season), and collar bars, tie-pins, too — to wear with your shirts.
One jewelry manufacturer is now making HIS and HER cuff-links — a new twist for the wrist!

Correct Clothes Fit, Area Around Neck And Shoulders Vital

A man's jacket should fit so that at least 1/2 inch of shirt collar shows above the jacket collar.
Areas around the neck and shoulders are vital, as jacket should lay so there is no bunching or bulging when you move about.
The trend is to a looser fit in suit jackets. The coat should hug the hips—without binding.
The cuff of the jacket should cover the wrist joint.
The suit style has a bearing on how long the jacket should be, but it should always be long enough to cover the trouser seat.
Trousers should be long enough to touch the shoe-top without breaking—but not short enough to show inches of socks, or too long as to drape over the shoe.

BOTANY suit of light blue sharkskin type, worsted with white, brown and green slubs. Single-breasted model with flap pockets.
HOME STATISTICS
WALLINGFORD, Conn. (AP) — Tired, Mom?
You have reason to be, says John F. Banks, sales executive for a silver company. A study of American eating habits, he reports, showed that the average family used 20,000 pieces of tableware in a year to consume 2 1/2 tons of food.

Comfort And 'Naturalness,' Are Key notes Of Men's Wear

Come Spring, men will sure to cotton to this new VAN HEUSEN shirt! It's a downright winner in cool, cool chambray with wavy-in stripes.

California Men's Stylists Subdue Spring Colors This Year

This year, sportswear with the "Made in California" label—takes on a softer, more gentle hue! California-styled clothing, with its toned-down patterns and colors, always a sportswear leader, now will have an even stronger influence on men's fashions this Spring and Summer, in this subdued vein: New Novelty Touches
Loose cut and lightweight, sports clothes have been given added touches by California designers to make them more functional and comfortable, as well as good-looking!
Sports jackets feature metal buttons, cuff-link type buttons at the wrist, square patch pockets inset pockets with square flaps, one deep

Along with the increased emphasis on comfort in other aspects of the American Way of Life, increased attention is being paid to comfort in our way of dress.

Men are carrying the banner for lighter, roomier, more airy clothing; and this is readily apparent in the new styles for Spring.

Developing the trend to lighter and lighter weights in fabrics, this Spring's suitings are six to eight ounces, as compared to the nine to eleven ounces of only a few years ago.

New fabrics for Spring fit the comfort requirement to a "C"—and are smart looking as well. "Slub" yarns are used in a new way to give a textured look to fabrics, without producing a heavy, overdone effect.

Soft worsted jersey is being used for the first time, lending an increased feeling of lightness and soft luxuriousness to sports jackets.

Worsted denim makes an appearance in sports jackets featuring blazer stripes and geometric patterns in the traditional denim colors of faded blue, red and ivory. Kitten soft Cashmere is becoming more and more popular in soft, ly tailored suits and sports jackets noted for their comfort and luxurious "feel."

Mohair is being blended with wool to make another of the leading Spring fabrics popular for its coolness and springy feel. Mohair doesn't "cling" during a warm weather and allows the body to "breathe."

Wool burlap is a coarse open-weave, airy sports coat fabric that will be seen more and more this Spring and Summer. This cool looking fabric has natural color variation. When dyed black, the fabric has a built-in slubbed look, for some of the fibers retain their light color.

Comfort and Color Team-up for Spring

A notable departure from conservative male dress is the use of black and white, and the brighter hues: brick red, gold and gay green jackets are wardrobe brighteners for a colorful Summer.

In sportswear, there is even more variation in color — with coral, cocoa, lemon, copper, sage, flamingo and other vital colors leading the field.

box pleat in the center back, and a return of cardigan necklines and cloverleaf lapel cuts.

Sports shirts "sport" braid trims contrasting collars and cuffs, graduated vertical bands simulating a yoke, and sleeveless sports shirts made with a slightly extended shoulder or with a very shallow dolman cut that ends just over the point of the shoulder.

Other refreshing new notes: pocketless shirts (or shirts with concealed pockets), and theme collections in which one pattern is repeated in various styles and color combinations.

Though California will continue its individualist tradition of creating new styles, West Coast stylists want it plainly understood that things are more subdued now in pattern and color.

Gaily-colored prints are still popular in California made sports shirts — but even these take on gentler ways from out of the Golden State!

Khaki Is Demobilized For New Civilian Life

Khaki has been demobilized from "service" and enters the civilian life as the top color newcomer in sportswear!

Khaki is your perfect sun-tan color—particularly sharp with white flash trims and especially good when sparked with bright, white embroidery.

Zoologists say the Kiwi, New Zealand flightless bird never takes a drink of water unless it is sick.

'Boom In Black' For Men Sets Background For Colors; Logical Evolution Of Charcoal Gray

A famous advertising slogan warns: "Never underestimate the power of a woman."

The fact that men's clothing this Spring will be more colorful is due, indirectly, to the fact that the girls have been working behind the scenes so, these many years, for a dash more color in men's outer-clothes.

Paradoxically, this color renaissance came about through judicious use of black—usually a color associated with drabness. Now, style authorities say, black will be used as an imaginative approach to the problem of getting more life, style and color into all categories of men's clothing—business, sport and casual.

Black offers almost countless opportunities for creating brightly contrasting color combinations, the Wool Bureau reports. Against a striking background of rich, jet black, stylized can present colors and shades which would be far too flamboyant if used alone or woven on paler backgrounds.

The popularity of black in men's attire is perhaps the logical evolution of the longstanding emphasis on charcoal gray (increasingly darker shades) in clothes designed for campus wear.

The charcoal gray flannel suit—and same-color slacks for wear with sports jackets — have long been components of the well-dressed, understated wardrobe.

And older men who enjoy dressing in impeccable good taste find black and deep charcoal gray ideal for emphasizing perfect grooming and quiet elegance in dress.

The success of black in connoting smartness and good taste depends, to a very great extent, on how it stands up after repeated wear, as well as washing or dry cleaning. Many articles of clothing imperfectly dyed in black, soon assume purplish or greenish casts, and lose their look of luxury.

For this reason, the natural fibers—wool, cotton, silk and linen—are preferred. These time-tested fibers are certain to bring out the best in black.

The "boom in black" is no passing fad, fashion authorities believe. For the foreseeable future, they regard it as a staple item on the long list of essentials in the increasingly colorful wardrobe of the "average" well-dressed man.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—Oils and railroads today for the second straight session led the stock market higher.

Gains ran to around a point in several instances in key sections of the list. Losses usually were small. Business was moderate but ran at a rate considerably better than yesterday's 1,830,000 shares.

Advancing with the oils and railroads were the coppers and aircrafts. Coppers may have gotten some encouragement from the recent price increase for refined copper charged by a leading customs smelter.

Railroads have long been neglected in the stock market, and the revival was encouraging to those who believe that no market rally can be extensive unless the railroad have a big hand in it. Oils got attention as a result of several recent discoveries in this country and in Arabia.

Among higher stocks were Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Texas Eastern, Standard Oil (N.J.), Standard Oil of California, Paramount Pictures, Anaconda Copper, Kennecott Copper, American Smelting, American Woolen, and Boeing.

CHICAGO (AP)—(U.S.D.A.)—Salable hogs 4,000; market moderately active but closed slow; steady to 25 higher on butchers and sows; closed only steady to strong on butchers; most 180-220 lb butchers $9.75-10.00; a few loads up to $10.25; 140-180 lb $9.50-9.75; most 280-340 lb $2.75-3.25; most 350-400 lb sows $2.00-2.40; good clearance.

Salable cattle 700 salable calves 100; only scattered loads and lots of steers and heifers included in fresh receipts; undertone weak with a few loads and lots steers carried over from Monday's market; cows steady to 25 lower than late Thursday are mostly 80 under early Thursday; steady to 90 lower clean up trade on bulls; vealers about steady; small lot high choice steer yearlings $5.00; a few good and choice steers $5.00-5.25; utility to low good grades $3.50-4.50; a few commercial and good heifers $3.00-3.50; utility and commercial cows $2.50-3.50; canners and cutters $2.00-3.00; utility and commercial bulls $2.50-3.50; commercial to prime vealers 16.00-20.00; cull and utility 10.00-16.00.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—Hog markets were mostly steady to 50 cents lower today. Tops at 24.75 at Warsaw Kenly, Beaufort, Kenly, New Bern and Benson; 24.50 at Scotland Neck, Weldon, Windsor, Colerain, Jacksonville, Enfield, Tarboro, Hamilton Wilson, Burroughs, Newton Grove, Clarkton, Wilmington, Mount Olive, Dunn, Fair Bluff, Bailey, Goldsboro, Laurel Hill, Elizabethtown, Freeman, Micro, Siler City, Whiteville, Rocky Mount, Smithfield, Lumberton, Fayetteville, Clinton Rich Square and Woodland.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—Central North Carolina live poultry markets today, fryers and broilers steady at 24; Raleigh eggs steady to weak, a large 43 to 45. Asheville fryers and broilers steady at 23; Asheville eggs steady, a large 40 to 44.

Cold Spreading To Eastern U. S.

A March snow storm that whipped midwest and northeastern states appeared diminishing today but cold weather spread across the south end of the nation.

Only snow flurries were reported in the Midwest and Northeast early today as many areas dug out of heaviest snowfalls in several weeks. Flurries were reported in parts of Michigan, sections of the Lower Great Lakes region, extreme northern New England and along the northwest slopes of the central Appalachians. Northern Ohio and western New York state were among hardest hit areas by the storms.

Light snow fell in the Texas-Oklahoma panhandle but early the fall was not considered sufficient to affect the drought-stricken storm areas. There was sleet and light rain over the southwestern Gulf region.

Skies were cloudy in coastal areas of California but mostly fair weather was reported in other parts of the country.

It was below zero again today in some midwest areas, with lowest temperatures along the Canadian border. International Falls, Minn., reported 13 degrees below zero. Freezing temperatures extended as far south as northern South Carolina, southern Tennessee and northwestern Texas. Most of the South had early morning readings in the 30s. Temperatures were in the 40s and 50s along the Gulf shores and in southern Texas.

Upholds Right To Defend Home

RALEIGH (AP)—John Dunn, Negro, stood charged with murder in Wake Superior Court yesterday. He offered a plea of guilty of manslaughter and the state quickly accepted.

But then John Dunn told story to Judge Henry L. Stevens. Dunn said Hubert Debnam came to his house, kicked down a door and broke out window panes, threatening Dunn.

Dunn said Debnam left, with a promise to return. Dunn said he thereupon armed himself. When Debnam returned, Dunn blasted him to death.

"A man's home is his castle," exclaimed the judge. He ordered the guilty plea removed from the records and directed a verdict of acquittal.

Arson Detection Study For Firemen, Lawmen

Firemen and law enforcement officers from a 16 county area are attending sessions designed to assist them in the detection of arson in an all-day meet being held in the Pitt County Court House.

The sessions are being conducted by the Institute of Government from the University of North Carolina. Conducting the classes today are Richard A. Myren, assistant director of the Institute of Government; Cecil Duncan, investigator for the State Department of Insurance; and Lewis E. Williams, State Bureau of Investigation agent.

Attending the meeting from Greenville were Police and Fire Chiefs S. G. Gibbs and George Gardner and members of the local police and fire departments.

Gardner said that all the off-duty firemen are attending the sessions and that two from the shift that is on-duty today also are attending.

Myren said that the series of meetings was being conducted in towns all over the state. He stated that the sessions have been held within approximately 65 miles of every law enforcement officer and fire department in the state.

The meeting opened at 9:30 this morning with a welcome by local department heads.

From 10 o'clock to 12 Myren conducted a discussion of the North Carolina law on arson and other unlawful burnings. He told the visiting firemen and lawmen that deaths by fire had increased almost six times from 1918 to 1948. He told them that the correct definition of arson is "the burning of the dwelling house of another willfully and maliciously by the defendant."

The morning session was adjourned at 12 noon and at one o'clock Cecil Duncan conducted a session concerning motives for unlawful burning and the use of the fraud law in unlawful burning cases.

The all-day session will be concluded when Lewis E. Williams conducts a discussion on basic investigative techniques from three to five o'clock this afternoon.

City Police Report 104 Arrests During February

Police Chief S. G. Gibbs' report of the Greenville Police Department for February to the City Council Thursday night shows that the department made 104 arrests during the month.

Sixty-three of those arrested were white—61 males, one female. Forty-one of those arrested were Negroes—40 males, one female.

Arrests were made on the following charges: eight aggravated assaults, one forgery and counterfeiting, one carrying concealed weapon, five for offenses against family and children, 32 for drunkenness, two for disorderly conduct, five for driving drunk, 17 for violations of road and driving laws, 15 for traffic and motor vehicle law violations, 14 for other violations. Total, 104.

Analysis of arrests for traffic violation arrests (included in the above list) shows that six arrests were made for speeding, two for careless and reckless driving, three for defective lights and brakes, five for non-observance of lights and signs, 10 for improper registration or license, and 11 other traffic violations.

Chief Gibbs' report for February shows that 118 cases were known to the police; 104 arrests were made, and 88.1 percent of the cases were cleared by arrest. Sixty cases were recorded for other authorities and 66 arrests were recorded for other authorities. The police received 144 complaints during the month.

Police vehicle mileage for February: No. 81 car, 2,448 miles; No. 62 car, 2,353 miles; No. 53 car, 7,822 miles; No. 84 car, 300 miles; No. 1 motorcycle, 109 miles; No. 2 motorcycle, 134 miles.

last Tuesday at his home near Greenville.

Funeral services will be held at Haddock's Chapel F.W.B. Church Sunday at 3 p.m. Rev. F. L. Dixon will officiate. Burial will be in Branch's cemetery near Haddock's Crossroads. The body will remain at Norcott's Funeral Home in Ayden until one hour prior to the funeral.

He was the son of the late Amos and Sarah Laughinghouse Brown. He was a member of Haddock's F.W.B. Church, a Sunday school teacher and a member of the Board of Deacons for many years.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Willie Ann Brown; one foster daughter, Miss Harriette V. Norcott of Brooklyn, N. Y., and numerous relatives.

Army Orders 2 Large Maneuvers

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army has ordered two large forces into the field this spring to practice tactics of atomic and chemical warfare and strengthen its defenses against germ warfare.

Exercise "Spearhead" will run May 3-19 at Ft. Hood, Tex. About 22,000 men, including the 1st Armored Division, will see action. Equipment will include medium tanks and the new M59 armored infantry carrier.

The Army had previously announced operation "Flash Burn" for April and May in the Ft. Bragg, N. C., area with about 60,000 men taking part.

TREATY REJECTED

MANILA (AP)—The Philippine Foreign Office said today Australia has turned down a Philippine move for a treaty of friendship between the two countries.

Convict Airmen Of Murdering French Soldier

BITBURG, Germany (AP)—Three U.S. airmen were convicted by a general court-martial here today of murdering a French soldier Jan. 2.

They heard the verdict without emotion, but broke down later after leaving the room, and the 10-officer Air Force court delayed sentencing indefinitely. Defense Counsel William F. O'Connell of Sherman, Tex., said they were suffering from shock. The maximum punishment is life imprisonment.

Those convicted are: Airman S.C. Thurman G. Holcomb, 20, of Big Stone Gap, Va., found guilty of unpremeditated murder and two counts of assault and battery.

Sgt. Frank E. Puckett, 22, of Banner Elk, N.C., unpremeditated murder and one count of assault and battery.

Airman S.C. Don G. Wells, 22, of Keavy, Ky., unpremeditated murder.

They were convicted in the fatal beating of French Pvt. Louis Piazza, 21, of Villers, France, in Trier, West Germany, last Jan. 2. All had pleaded innocent.

Piazza died 10 hours after he was attacked near Trier's famous Roman gate, built in the year 200. The motive for the slaying was not brought out in the four-day trial. None of the defendants testified.

Testimony showed that the airmen wearing civilian clothes, had been making a round of German bars.

The court-martial findings are subject to review by higher air force authorities.

Exploding Shell Kills 6 Marines

WITH 1ST MARINE DIVISION, Korea (AP)—A mortar shell which exploded when dropped accidentally at a training lecture killed six U.S. Marines and wounded 30 yesterday, it was announced today.

The shell presumably was an enemy missile. The instructor was showing how an American-made fuse could be adapted to it and apparently thought it had been made harmless, a division spokesman said.

The shell exploded as it hit the floor of a Quonset hut at the division's mine warfare school just behind the front. The blast ripped out doors and windows and hurled steel fragments through the walls.

The instructor was killed. Four of the wounded were in critical condition. Four others were seriously hurt.

Names of all victims were withheld.

Every helicopter in the division was alerted to fly the wounded to hospitals and to carry doctors, medicines and whole blood to the scene.

Some of the victims were flown to Marine medical stations. Others were taken directly to a hospital ship anchored in Inchon Harbor.

Press Hunt For Missing Plane

NICE, France (AP)—A broad search was pressed over the Ligurian Sea and the French Alps today for a U.S. Air Force C-47, missing with 20 men on a flight from Rome to Bitburg, Germany.

A midmorning report that the craft had been spotted in the mountains north of Nice proved false. Police said the report came from authorities in the village of St. Etienne de Tinee 40 miles north of Nice.

But several residents of the region told of hearing the noise of a big plane yesterday afternoon and French ski troops based in the area moved out in patrols of 20 to 30 men each to look for clues.

Banquet Honors Achievements Of 4-H Clubs Over Pitt County

By CHESTER WALSH

Seventy-five Negro teachers and community leaders attended a banquet in the Pitt County office building Tuesday night in honor of National 4-H Club Week—March 6-14.

The program emphasized the achievements of Pitt County's 24 4-H clubs and their 1,300 members. Mrs. Amelia S. Capehart, Negro home demonstration agent in Pitt county, active in arranging for the community event, said "the good influence of the meeting will be felt for a long time."

Special guests were: Mrs. Helen Branford, Wilson county home agent; P. P. Thompson, Wilson county assistant home agent; Miss Serena Carter of Martin county; R. E. Jones, Negro state agent, A. and T. College, Greensboro; D. H. Conley, superintendent of Pitt county schools; Miss Julia Fisher, supervisor of nurses, Pitt County health department; Mrs. Hannah Brown and Miss Lula Harris, Pitt county health nurses, and Miss Lillie Holloway, student teacher from North Carolina State College in Durham, who is practicing teaching at the Farmville Negro High School.

Mrs. Willie Hawkins, vice-president of Pitt County Council of Home Demonstration Clubs, presided and welcomed the guests. Rev. H. R. Reaves, principal of the Grifton Negro elementary school, said the invocation. Moses Kennedy, 4-H teacher-leader of Winterville, responded to the welcome address. Pitt County Negro Farm Agent J. M. Goode introduced R. E. Jones, director of Negro extension work in North Carolina, who spoke on "What Leadership Means to Me," enumerated many of the important talents necessary for successful leadership in the home, the church and school and the community. In closing his address, the speaker reminded that the fields of teaching and ministry among Negroes are somewhat crowded, and he urged his hearers to encourage the movement to have young Negro men and women plan to enter some other fields of useful influence.

Pitt County Supt. of Schools D. H. Conley, in a brief talk, reminded the teachers and leaders of the importance of their mission. Principal Matthew Lewis of the Stokes Elementary School spoke in behalf of the Negro principals of the county.

The Negro Home Demonstration and 4-H clubs of Pitt County sponsored the meeting.

Citizens For Eisenhower Movement Being Revived

WASHINGTON (AP)—A leader of the revived Citizens for Eisenhower movement reported today receipts of requests from 120 congressional districts for aid in the 1954 election campaign. There are 435 districts.

James L. Murphy of San Francisco chairman of the Citizens for Eisenhower Congressional Committee, said in an interview such requests have come from incumbent Republican representatives and, in districts where present representatives are Democrats, from Citizens for Eisenhower groups.

Murphy repeated what Republican National Committee officials have said before—that his organization will not intervene in any primaries and will help nominees only in those districts where the candidates request it.

"It would offend people if we tried to monkey with primary situations," Murphy said. "All we can do is to urge them to put up the best man and then try to get him elected. Getting our support is tantamount to pledging a candidate's support to the Eisenhower legislative program."

Murphy said a number of Citizens for Eisenhower clubs are being reactivated with a view to rounding up Democratic and independent voters who were in the Eisenhower camp in 1952 and who are interested in seeing his program go through.

"Where there is a real strong candidate for Eisenhower," Murphy said, "there's a chance that in that district there are a lot of Citizens for Eisenhower who want to back that candidate."

Murphy said all his organization is trying to do at the national level is coordinate local efforts—just as in the Eisenhower presidential campaign—to win the independent vote. The group has 30 paid and volunteer employees in its 15-room offices here.

Find Box Stolen From ECC Safe

A metal box which was taken from the safe in the administration building at East Carolina College was found in a wooded section just off Elmhurst yesterday, according to Chief of Police S. G. Gibbs.

The chief stated that about $750 in cash was found scattered on the ground a few feet from the box.

The box was evidently taken from the walk-in safe at the college when it was broken open by thieves recently. The robbers had forced the front door of the building and knocked the combination dial off the safe. They took a total of $210.71 in the robbery. However, an additional $1094.66 in the safe was overlooked.

Gibbs stated that the box was found by a Greenville Utilities employee working in a new housing sub-division adjacent to the Elmhurst section.

Concert Tonight

The Greenville High School Glee Club will present a concert in the school auditorium tonight at 8 o'clock. A small admission fee will be charged for a school fund.

Miss One Shindler will direct the choral groups. James Rogers will direct the band. Sue Tucker and Curtis Patterson will be accompanists.

The Boys' Glee Club, Girls' Glee Club, the Tuesday Girls' Glee Club, and the chorus and band and a quartet will participate on the program, and Lou Tilly will be soloist with the Mixed Chorus.
