Pictured above is a view of the room in which a woman received fatal burns last night when an oil stove exploded. Betty Vines died in Pitt Memorial Hospital about 5:00 o'clock this morning from severe burns she received in the blaze. The room itself was completely gutted by the fire. By ALVIN TAYLOR Reflector Staff Writer Severe burns resulted in a fire last night resulted in death for a local Negro woman early this morning. Mrs. Betty Vines, about 45, was fatally burned when an oil stove in her bedroom flooded and exploded in her home on Ford Street. She died in Pitt Memorial Hospital about five o'clock this morning. Jack Vines, her husband, said he and his wife had just returned from church when the accident occurred. He said that when he got home his wife asked him if they needed a fire and he told her to go ahead and light the stove. Vines said that he went into the kitchen and prepared something to eat and later his wife came in and said that the stove had overflowed. Vines said he told her to cut it off and to take the tank off. He said his wife began mopping up the oil which had spilled onto the floor and the stove caught fire. Vines stated that he then began to pull the stove toward the door and told his wife to call the fire department. He said that when he got the stove near the door it exploded. The husband stated that he did not know that his wife was still in the room at the time but thought she was out calling the fire department. He ran out and called to neighbors for assistance, he continued, and then went to the home of his daughter-in-law to tell them. A neighbor, Oscar Suggs, who lives across the street from Vines, said that he heard Vines yell for help and ran across the street to the house. Suggs stated that he ran around to the back of the four-room house and found the back bedroom in flames. Suggs found Mrs. Vines lying across the window sill of a back window. Suggs said that he and another unidentified man pulled the burned woman through the window and carried her out into the back yard away from the burning house. The rescuer stated that Mrs. Vines was badly burned at the time she was found by him but she was still conscious. By that time firemen had arrived and the injured woman was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital in the fire department's emergency rescue truck. The woman was still conscious while being treated at the hospital and she was able to talk to officials who questioned her about the blaze. Firemen battled the fire for over an hour before bringing it under control. The back bedroom of the house, where the fire originated, was completely gutted by the blaze. Other rooms in the house received smoke, water and heat damage. Fireman Roy Hardee received a minor injury while fighting the blaze when a piece of glass fell from a broken window and cut his leg. Hardee was treated at Pitt Memorial Hospital for the wound and released.

Betty Vines was found by a neighbor, Oscar Suggs, half-way out of this window last night. Suggs said that he heard her husband call for help and rushed across the street to find the back room in flames. He and another unidentified man found the woman in the window where she had attempted to crawl out of the burning room. They pulled her through the window and carried her into the yard.

6 Counties Will Test Polio Serum

Approximately 12,000 N.C. Children Eligible For Participation

RALEIGH (AP)—A newly-developed vaccine for polio will be tested in six Tar Heel counties beginning about April 15. This was announced yesterday by Dr. J. W. R. Norton, state health officer. The counties are Buncombe, Caldwell, Durham, Guilford, New Hanover and Rockingham. Dr. Norton said approximately 12,000 children are eligible to participate in the trial vaccine. He explained that inoculations will be given only to children in the second grades of public, private and parochial schools, whose parents have signed request forms. The health records of first and third grade students in the same schools will be used for comparison to evaluate the possible effectiveness of the trial vaccine in preventing paralytic polio, Dr. Norton said. He added that parents of these children also will be given request forms to be signed permitting use of the health records. The Tar Heel tests will be part of a national program. Dr. Norton made his announcement following a conference in New York attended by representatives of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis and a number of other organizations. He said the New York conference agreed that in the counties where the Salk vaccine is used Gamma Globulin should not be used to any extent that it might interfere with or confuse the evaluation of the new vaccine. A meeting will be held in Raleigh March 19 to discuss plans for administering the vaccine. Twenty North Carolina counties had requested to be included in the 1954 vaccine experiments. Dr. Norton said that because of the limited vaccine available for use this year, the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis selected only six counties. The effectiveness of the experimental vaccine, he added, cannot be evaluated until sometime in 1955. Dr. Norton explained that polio research workers must observe the incidence of polio in large numbers of children who have received the vaccine as well as among those who do not receive the vaccine.

The bill would level off at 10 per cent all excise or sales tax rates now above that figure, except for liquor and tobacco, effective April 1. Sponsors said this would bring a wide range of price as well as tax cuts, save shoppers substantial sums, and give a boost to business to help combat the present economic dip.

In the background, a big fight was shaping up for next Wednesday and Thursday, when a bill to overhaul almost all tax laws is scheduled on the House floor.

Democrats want to add a $100 increase in individual income tax exemptions for each taxpayer and each dependent. The bill up today would slash the present 25 per cent rate on long-distance telephone calls; cut in half the 20 per cent tax on movies, sports and other admission tickets, and on furs jewelry, luggage cosmetics, women's pocket-books, wallets, cameras film and light bulbs; and cut one third from the present 15 per cent rate on sporting goods, pens, mechanical pencils, lighters, local telephone bills and rail, bus or air passenger fares.

On the other side, it would cancel about $1,070,000,000 in excise tax reductions scheduled April 1 under present law. These cuts if allowed, would have reduced the tax on liquor from $10.50 to $9.00 a gallon; on cigarettes, from 8 to 7 cents a standard pack; on automobiles from 10 to 7 per cent; on gasoline from 2 cents to 1 1/2 cents a gallon; on trucks and buses from 8 to 5 per cent; on beer from $9 to $8 a barrel and on wine about one third, the exact figure depending upon alcohol content. The Eisenhower administration opposed the sweeping cuts in the bill, although it favored cancelling all of the scheduled reductions. The administration has decided not to fight the excise-cutting move in the House but to pin its hopes on the Senate.

Democrats had been primed to fight on the House floor to limit the extension of present rates on liquor, cigarettes and the other items to one year only, instead of indefinitely as approved by the ways and means committee. But after a two-hour closed caucus controversy yesterday, Republicans and Democrats agreed to limit the extensions to one year. The Ways and Means Committee gave final approval yesterday afternoon to the 875-page tax revision measure. It would provide about $1,397,000,000 in tax cuts the first year for business and individuals, chiefly through a long list of more liberal deductions ranging from allowances for dividend income and depreciation of business plants and equipment, to certain shelter expenses and medical costs.

Twelve more Pitt Negroes have been arrested by officers to bring to 53 the number taken into custody since last Thursday on charges of illegally selling whiskey. The roundup of bootleggers which began in Pitt County last week was nearing its end today as the half hundred mark of defendants was passed. Officers said at the beginning of the roundup warrants had been drawn charging approximately 57 people with illegally selling whiskey; but officers said they doubted all the persons for whom warrants were drawn could be located. Nine Negroes were arrested in Farmville yesterday by members of the Farmville police department. Taken into custody were: Bertha Pitt, James Dupre, Arthur Dupre, Ree Duncan, Will Joyner, Laura Mae Johnson, Josiah Johnson, Charlie Hunter Moore, and Nora Parker. Others arrested include James section, Joe Phillips who was arrested by Grifton police, and Dorothy Johnson who was taken into custody in Greenville. ABC Officers J. M. Ward said this morning that 24 of the 53 persons so far arrested in the roundup are women. The roundup began late Thursday night in Greenville as officers swooped down upon 28 persons charged with illegal sales of whiskey. Other arrests have been made almost daily since then. The roundup came as a result of work of Negro undercover agents of the state ABC board who concentrated their efforts in Pitt County on week-ends during December and January under the direction of local ABC officers. The roundup is the largest of its kind in Pitt since 1938 and possibly the largest in history. So far 77 warrants charging illegal sales of whiskey have been served on the persons arrested.

RALEIGH (AP)—A request by President Gordon Gray of the Consolidated University of North Carolina for three new administrative posts in the university will be considered by the Advisory Budget Commission Friday. The new positions call for total salaries of $43,000 a year. They include a business officer and treasurer for the consolidated university at a salary of $12,000 and deans of faculty at the university in Chapel Hill and at North Carolina State College in Raleigh at $11,000 each. In addition, secretaries are requested for the three positions at a salary of $3,000 each. An agency recently completed a study of the administrative set-up of the consolidated university and recommended the new positions. The budget commission also will consider: A proposal that $106,000 appropriated for renovation of Vance Hall, a dormitory, at Fayetteville State Teachers College, be used for the construction of a new building. A request from East Carolina College for a transfer of $100,000 in building funds for conversion of the old library into a music building. The money would come from $65,000 appropriated by the Legislature for conversion of the old library into a classroom building and $35,000 for conversion of another structure into a music building.

PARIS (AP)—The French National Assembly gave Premier Joseph Laniel's government the green light last night to negotiate as it sees fit for peace in Indochina. Laniel told the deputies the Geneva conference offers the best chance for a solution. By a show of hands, deputies voted backing for Laniel and Foreign Minister Georges Bidault at the April 26 meeting in Switzerland of the Big Four and Red China on Far Eastern affairs. Earlier in the debate Laniel had told the Assembly he would welcome a cease-fire in Indochina before the Geneva meeting—as proposed by Indian Prime Minister Nehru. But the Premier outlined conditions so stiff that it was certain the Communist-led Vietnam rebels would not accept. The Assembly also told the three Associated States of Indochina they must not cut loose from the French Union if they want French help in fighting the Vietnam. Negotiations now are going on in Paris between the French and the Vietnamese government aimed at granting that state greater liberties within the union.

NEW YORK (AP)—Ten billion dollars in sales, more than 13 1/2 billions in taxes, 598 millions in profits—that's the record of General Motors Corp. for 1953. The sales of $10,027,985,482 were the highest in history for any private corporation and eclipsed by a wide margin the $7,549,154,419 in 1952, previous record for GM or any other firm. Net income of $568,119,478 was only the third highest for the giant auto manufacturer but GM kept its position as biggest money-maker in American industry, topping 1953 earnings of $53 million by Standard Oil Co. (N.J.) and 491 million for the Bell Telephone System. Direct taxes of $1,237,000,000 plus $601,000,000 collected by GM in sales and excise taxes came to $1,898,000,000 equivalent to $21.77 a share of common stock, compared with net income of $6.71 a share. The report to GM's 495,000 stockholders, by Harlow H. Curtice, president, and Alfred P. Sloan Jr., chairman of the board, reported the company sold 3,760,000 passenger cars and trucks in 1953 against 2,629,000 in 1952. Of the total, 3,276,000 were produced in the company's United States plants and 484,000 in Canadian and overseas plants. Of 1953 U.S. and Canadian factory sales for passenger cars, GM had 45.7 per cent.

Carlisle Higgins Expected To Fill Doughton Seat RALEIGH (AP)—The State Democratic Executive Committee was expected to elect Carlisle Higgins as North Carolina's Democratic national committeeman at its meeting here today. The executive committee also was due to set dates for the party's precinct, county and state conventions. The state convention usually is held in May and frequently comes on the second Thursday prior to the primary. This would make it fall on May 20. Gov. Unstead recommended the election of Higgins to succeed former Congressman Robert L. Doughton, 90, of Laurel Springs, who resigned as national committeeman because of ill health.

Denies Party Division; Praises Sen. Flanders' Speech Ike Lauds McCarthy Critic

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today labeled as nonsense Adlai E. Stevenson's assertion that the Republican party is divided against itself—"half McCarthy and half Eisenhower." At a news conference, the President also declared that Sen. Flanders (R-VT) performed a great public service in his Senate speech criticizing Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) for diverting attention from important world problems. Flanders had told the Senate that McCarthy "by intention or through ignorance" was "doing his best to shatter" the Republican party. Eisenhower was asked for an expression of his opinion of Stevenson's statement in a speech in Miami last Saturday night that the Republican party is hopelessly divided. Stevenson, the 1952 Democratic presidential nominee, said the GOP had become "half McCarthy and half Eisenhower." Commenting on that, Eisenhower replied that at the risk of appearing egotistical, he would say the Stevenson remark was nonsense. As to Flanders' Senate speech of yesterday, Eisenhower said in response to questions that he agrees generally with what the Vermont senator said. Flanders' main thesis was that the great Communist danger to the United States was from without and that McCarthy, with his concentration on internal subversion, was diverting attention dangerously from the external threats. Eisenhower said he had heard and seen part of Flanders' speech attacking "McCarthyism" on television last night. Prefacing his remarks with the usual observation that he doesn't comment on personalities, the President said the Republican Party is now the party of responsibility, so charged by the people. He said there was great danger in internecine warfare. He said that procedures that were irregular and were aimed at aggrandizement of an individual—an obvious reference to McCarthy—were doing the country great damage. It would be a grave error to split the party apart and go off in different directions, he said. In that course he said great danger lay ahead for the party and the country.

Eisenhower backed up the decision of the Republican National Committee to have Vice President Nixon answer Stevenson's speech on television and radio. The President said he had sat in on a meeting at which that decision was made. Nixon reportedly was selected by Eisenhower after McCarthy announced he was going to demand that NBC and CBS give him free time to reply to what he called Stevenson's "vicious attack on me personally." McCarthy called the choice of Nixon to reply for the Republicans excellent. But after returning here from New York last night, he told reporters he will employ counsel to test whether the networks can deny him free time to reply personally. He said that as he sees it equal free time should be given to the Republican party, to Eisenhower and to him. McCarthy was offered free time, if he desires it, to reply to a CBS-TV program on which commentator Edward R. Murrow said last night the senator repeatedly had stepped over the line between investigating and persecuting. "The half-hour film and record roundup of McCarthy's recent activities ended with Murrow attacking the senator's methods and saying: 'This is no time for men who oppose Sen. McCarthy's methods to keep silent—or for those who approve.'" A CBS spokesman in New York said Murrow was expressing his personal views. Murrow said McCarthy will be given "an opportunity . . . on this program" to reply if he cares to. The senator could not be reached for comment. On another front the Senate Republican Policy Committee prepared to unveil suggestions it has drawn up for making its Senate committee investigations fairer to all. One member of the policy group said they represented a set of principles being advanced in the hope that at least their substance would be adopted by Senate committees. The policy committee study was undertaken at the Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens declared that McCarthy, sitting as a one-man subcommittee, had abused and humiliated an Army general.

Hours of political debate were in prospect, however, over different aspects of the first major tax bill to hit the House floor in this congressional election year. The Senate has not acted on it. Anti-Communist Resolution Appears Assured Only Guatemala Is Opposed

By MORRIS W. ROSENBERG CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—The Inter-American Conference headed today toward adoption, probably by Saturday, of the U.S. anti-Communist resolution. Majority support appeared assured for U.S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' proposal to rally united action against Red attempts to dominate any part of the Western Hemisphere. Eight of the 19 Latin-American nations attending the 10th conference here already have signified their backing of the "Dulles Doctrine." Several others were expected to jump on the bandwagon today. There still was some question today what final form the anti-Red resolution would take. There have been indications in the Political Committee discussing the issue that some Latin-American nations would propose amendments to the U.S. formula. Guatemala, accused by the United States of being Communist-dominated, was the only nation voicing outright opposition to such a resolution. And Guatemalan Foreign Minister Guillermo Toriello while promising a fight against the U.S. proposal admitted today its adoption seemed certain. Adoption of the resolution would be a major diplomatic victory for Dulles, who stayed at the conference beyond the time he had planned in order to push through his proposals. Already backing the United States were Venezuela, Cuba, Panama, Brazil, the Dominican Republic, Nicaragua, Honduras and Paraguay. Mexico has indicated it favors some action to curb Communist infiltration in the Western Hemisphere, but wants the U.S. resolution to include "any totalitarianism." It also proposes calling for joint action to be taken whenever "agents of foreign international communism" take control of an American state. The U.S. proposal calls for joint action when "the international Communist movement" dominates or controls a state's political institutions. It is the U.S. viewpoint that domestic Reds are as much a threat to peace as are foreign Communist agents. The tension of the debate was emphasized yesterday when Toriello stalked out of the conference during a speech by Dominican Foreign Minister Joaquin Balaguer, who assailed countries which "help Soviet Russia" but sit back and allow the United States to be attacked. Outside the committee room, Toriello said: "It makes me sick when representatives of genocide in America and professional violators of human rights speak in the name of democracy and dare insult a country like Guatemala." The Guatemalan went back into the meeting when Balaguer finished talking.

Warehouman Will Be Sentenced On March 26

A Winterville warehouseman who was indicted on 31 counts of violating the federal tobacco inspection act, offered "no contest" in federal court yesterday when his case came up for trial. D. Woodrow Worthington, who operates two warehouses here and a third tobacco warehouse in Bloomfield, Kentucky, is being tried before Federal Judge Roy Shelbourne in Louisville, Kentucky. Judge Shelbourne accepted Worthington's plea but said that he considers the plea of no contest equivalent to a plea of guilty. The judge made the statement after U.S. District Attorney J. Leonard Walker argued that the plea of no contest was unacceptable because of criminal charges "a man must plead either guilty or not guilty." In Worthington's case, Walker said, the government could allege 200 or 300 more charges of a like nature. Robert Hogan, attorney for Wor-

A Winterville warehouseman who was indicted on 31 counts of violating the federal tobacco inspection act, offered "no contest" in federal court yesterday when his case came up for trial. D. Woodrow Worthington, who operates two warehouses here and a third tobacco warehouse in Bloomfield, Kentucky, is being tried before Federal Judge Roy Shelbourne in Louisville, Kentucky. Judge Shelbourne accepted Worthington's plea but said that he considers the plea of no contest equivalent to a plea of guilty. The judge made the statement after U.S. District Attorney J. Leonard Walker argued that the plea of no contest was unacceptable because of criminal charges "a man must plead either guilty or not guilty." In Worthington's case, Walker said, the government could allege 200 or 300 more charges of a like nature. Robert Hogan, attorney for Wor-

Utilities Commissioners Hear Reports And Request

By BOB BOYETTE Reflector Staff Writer A request, the superintendent's report, and a committee report featured last night's regular monthly of the Greenville Utilities Commissioners. The request voiced by Commissioner Roy Martin was from Mrs. L.W. Gaylord, Sr., who asked that the rate for electricity for the News Stand operated by the blind woman be changed from commercial to domestic rate, which is cheaper. Martin told the other commissioners that her bill for last month was $33. He explained that the reason for this high bill was probably due to the electric heater used in heating the stand. Most of the Commissioners were in sympathy with the problem and offered to help from their own pockets, but did not believe they should give this case lower rates. Finally, after more discussion it was decided that the matter would be postponed until next month so further study could be made. Swartz Reports Superintendent Martin Swartz reported that water and electric lines are now being constructed at the Forrest Hill Subdivision. He said that sewer mains would be installed immediately after completing construction on electric lines and water mains. The superintendent then told the commissioners that the tree trimming gang, which are trimming trees away from the electric lines, are near completion. Next the superintendent recommended that curb and gutter be put on the west side of the street leading to the Utilities plant. He said that curb and gutter was already on the east side, and it was needed on the other side also. He also recommended that after the curb and gutter was placed that the maintenance for the street be turned over to the city street department. Chairman Martin and other commissioners then asked what it would cost to put in the curb and gutter and pave the street. After some figuring City Manager James

Hughes said it would cost approximately $4,200. Martin then appointed a committee composed of Commissioners John Clark and Reynolds May to investigate the matter and report back at the next meeting. The superintendent then completed his report by saying that "we need a fence between our property and the 3rd Street School property." He suggested that the fence run from 3rd Street to the river on the property line so children would not be endangered by Utilities' equipment. The children then asked the superintendent appointed earlier to investigate this matter also. Air Condition City Hall

Superintendent Swartz then reported that he and City Manager Hughes had a committee report on the possibility of air conditioning City Hall. He said that he had plans and specifications from two concerns on the matter and the equipment alone would cost approximately $7,500. The Commissioners discussed the matter and asked about the possibility of getting bids on installation from some local businesses. Finally it was referred to City Council for their opinions. Secretary Larry Brown gave the monthly financial report, which received approval by the Commissioners. The report was compared with last year's report for February.

Home Care of Rugs Given By Leaders At Red Oak Club

"Life insurance for a rug or carpet begins the day you buy it." Beginning with this statement, Mrs. Joe Joyner Sr., assisted by Mrs. James Allen, gave a most informative demonstration on buying rugs and how to care for them at the March meeting of Red Oak Club.

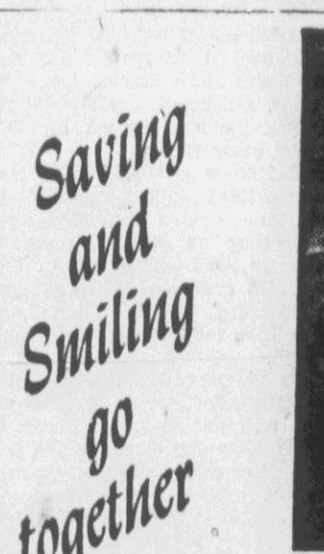

Wool's exceptional resilience gives it the ability to take a great deal of hard wear and still retain its beauty for many years. To date wool is predominantly the choice for its durability, although the field of rayon is broadening and the casein yarns resembling wool are being tested. There is a modern trend toward using cotton pile rugs, and silk has always been used in some rare rugs.

The types of rugs to choose from are Wilton, Axminster and the Velvet Weave. Cushions or underlays are available in various combinations of hair and jute or rubber and will prolong the life of the rug. For safety scatter rugs should be anchored with a rubber-like back or jar rubbers could be served on each corner.

Move rugs periodically to vary pattern of wear. In the wall-to-wall rug, heavy furniture should be moved once or twice a year and the family's "traffic lanes" changed. Using the vacuum daily or weekly and occasional cleaning treatment was stressed for wool rugs—removing spots and stains as they occur. For this demonstration, ink was poured on a light gray rug and was removed in a few seconds by the water and absorbent cloth method. Cotton rugs can be washed by a good laundry or by machine at home.

Mrs. Jarvis Tripp Sr., president, presided over the meeting and Mrs. Eikel Crawford had charge of the devotional. Mrs. Amos Evans read the minutes of the last meeting and 21 members answered the roll call with household hints. Mrs. Thurston Wynn was the treasurer's report.

It was voted that the club sponsor a supper with Mrs. F. L. Allen as chairman. Several club women stated they would attend the Farm Bureau dinner meeting March 12.

Mrs. Fenner Allen, music leader, gave the history of the song, "God Bless Our Homes," and Mrs. Lena Manning, garden leader, gave a timely report on garden crops. It was noted that the annual "Fashion Show" would be held in May. Mrs. James Allen, recreation leader, led the group in a peppy little game, "The Alphabetical Game of the Garden."

Hostesses for the meeting, Mesdames Jarvis Allen, Lizzie Vandford and John Crawford, served a chicken salad plate with nuts, decorated cup cakes and assorted drinks. The club adjourned after praying the club collect.

Buffet Supper Enjoyed By Guests And Bridge Club

GRIFTON—Mrs. Richard Nelson entertained on Friday night at a delightful buffet supper for members of her bridge club and additional guests for four tables of bridge.

The home for the evening was decorated with a variety of spring flowers. The buffet table was covered with a linen cloth and held red candles in silver holders and a center arrangement of quince. A delectable turkey dinner was enjoyed followed by individual cakes and ice cream.

Mrs. W. I. Bisette and Mrs. J. L. Tucker were high scorers for club members. Mrs. J. C. Gantt was given the visitor's high award. Others playing were Mesdames Bill Austin, H. P. Quinerly, Dewey Wall, L. L. Mewborn, Alton Chapman, Robert Mewborn, J. L. Quinerly, J. W. Short, Cecil Cobb, Miss Marie Chapman, Miss Hazel Patrick, Miss Louise Mewborn and Miss Bert Johnson.

HE DIDN'T
BALTIMORE (AP) — Ronald Frampton won the Woodlawn Elementary School spelling bee when his last competitor, Joyce Sauter, muffed a vital word. The word—"succeed."

Throughout the home a variety of spring flowers were used as decorations. The dining room table where the dinner was served buffet style was covered with a lace cloth. Crystal candelabra and a crystal bowl of daffodils were used as centerpiece. Those present were Mrs. R. E. Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. Erroll Croom, Mr. and Mrs. Dudley McLawhorn, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde McLawhorn, Mrs. Leslie McLawhorn, Mrs. Eula McLawhorn, Mrs. Lola Dudley and Mr. Orle McLawhorn.

Soil Conservation Talk By Mr. Eagles Before Aries Club

Mrs. Fred Saue was hostess to the Aries Book Club on Thursday night, March 4 at her home on Rotary Ave. Lovely arrangements of early spring flowers were used throughout the living room.

Miss Grace Outland, president, welcomed the guests, Mrs. Gladys Winn Scoville, Mr. Connor Eagles and Master Ricky Saue.

During the business session Miss Outland called for the minutes and committee reports, and the following officers were elected for the coming year:

President, Mrs. A. W. Egan; vice president, Mrs. M. L. Starkey; secretary, Miss Mary Eakes; treasurer, Mrs. J. O. Derrick; librarian, Mrs. K. G. Hite; reporter, Mrs. J. H. Moye.

A very timely topic was chosen as the short subject. Because of the recent demonstration of the Puerto Rican Nationalists in the House of Representatives, Mrs. W. Z. Morton Jr. prepared a very interesting review of Puerto Rico, the people and its government. Due to the absence of Mrs. Morton this was presented to the club by Miss Mary Eakes.

Mrs. Saue then presented Mr. Connor Eagles of the Pitt County Soil Conservation Service, who discussed the valuable work being done in the Coastal Plains District to help farmers make soil more productive.

"Wonderful physical resources have enabled us to develop morally and physically strong. This is a heritage given us to pass on to posterity, for no civilization can stand on eroded, worn out soils."

Comparing the U. S. to the Orient, Mr. Eagles showed how children suffer when soil is squandered through negligence. "Our civilization has been such that one farmer can feed twenty people because of research, education and equipment. As the population continues to grow, we can continue to measure up to our responsibilities," said Mr. Eagles. "We must take the lands we have today, conserve and build for the future."

With the use of slides, Mr. Eagles showed pictures of waste brought about by dust storms, big rains, swollen streams and sheet erosion. He illustrated and explained new tools now in use for more efficient production, such as underground drainage pipes, sprinkler irrigation, and trenching machines.

From his informative and interesting discussion members were able to appreciate more fully the lovely scenes of animals "free deep in clover" in some of the beautiful pastures of Pitt County—fertile now as a result of the cooperation between Pitt County farmers and their Soil Conservation Service.

A delicious dessert course with salted nuts was served by the hostess. Books were distributed and the meeting adjourned.

Annual Affair Held To Commemorate Mother's Birthday

GRIFTON—On Sunday, children of the late Mrs. Elizabeth McLawhorn gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray McOlolon on the Ayden highway for a family dinner which has been an annual affair each year to celebrate or commemorate their mother's birthday which is March 7th. Had she lived she would have been 98 years old. She passed away Oct. 17, 1951.

Throughout the home a variety of spring flowers were used as decorations. The dining room table where the dinner was served buffet style was covered with a lace cloth. Crystal candelabra and a crystal bowl of daffodils were used as centerpiece. Those present were Mrs. R. E. Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. Erroll Croom, Mr. and Mrs. Dudley McLawhorn, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde McLawhorn, Mrs. Leslie McLawhorn, Mrs. Eula McLawhorn, Mrs. Lola Dudley and Mr. Orle McLawhorn.

30 Years Ago Today

THE DAILY REFLECTOR
March 10, 1924

Monday night's regular business meeting of the Greenville Rotary Club was featured by several short talks, final arrangements for the preliminaries of the Pitt County track meet, and a round table discussion of the proposed bond issue for improvement of the city schools.

Sheets containing questions and answers as to the need of the proposed $200,000 bond issue for city schools were then distributed and J. E. Winslow, member of the school board, explained in detail the pressing need for more room and better facilities in our city schools. He told of the rapid growth of our schools, explaining that nearly 700 children were now attending the Evans Street school, built originally to accommodate 300 pupils. His talk was supplemented by remarks from J. H. Rose who explained further the growing need of greater facilities to take care of the situation. He stated that there are more than 125 children in our city who will reach the school age of 6 next year and unless the schools are enlarged before that time that there will be no place in our already crowded buildings to take care of them. Many other members added remarks on the subject and all voiced a conviction that immediate action is necessary if the children are to receive the education to which they are entitled.

Early American Art Topic Of Speech At Literature Dep't.

EARLY AMERICAN ART
In keeping with the theme for the year, "Our American Heritage," Mr. Francis Neil, professor of art at East Carolina College, spoke to the Literature Department of the Woman's Club Tuesday afternoon on "Early American Art."

Mr. Neil delighted the audience with the clever way in which he handled the subject. His purpose, he stated in his opening remarks, was to whet the appetites to look further into the study of Early American Art.

He achieved his purpose by showing pictures of early drawings, engravings and water colors done by artists who accompanied explorers and colonists, and by his interesting talk.

The beauty and accuracy in the early drawings of maps, forts and bays were pointed out by the speaker. The domestic scenes, bottles, costumes, fish and birds showed good design and color.

Among the interesting pictures of wood carving done in the early days were those of ship heads, duck decoys, weather vane, religious characters, pipes, furniture and children's toys.

Mr. Neil spoke at length on Indian Art and many colorful pictures were displayed and explained. The geometric designs were probably the best, he pointed out, since many of these designs are in use today.

In conclusion, Mr. Neil told of the most famous Indian piece of art, the "Calendar Stone" found in Mexico City. This calendar, designed on a stone 12 ft. in diameter and weighing 57,000 pounds, was in use long before the one made by Caesar or Pope Gregory VIII.

During the business session Mrs. Jesse Moye, president, appointed committees for the "Authors Luncheon" to be held during Arts Festival Week.

Mrs. J.H.B. Moore outlined the program for the Arts Festival Week beginning March 28. Complete program will be printed soon, she stated.

Mrs. Jasper Tripp, Miss Mamie Ruth Tunstall, Mrs. K. F. Whiteley and Mrs. W. C. Harris entertained the club at the home of Mrs. Harris on West Third Street. Early spring flowers were used to decorate the reception rooms, and St. Patrick motif was used in the refreshments and decorations.

The serving table was covered with a lace cloth and tall green candles in candelabra and white gladioli in a silver bowl decorated the table.

Mrs. Jesse Moye poured coffee and Mrs. Tripp served the ice course. Party favors were shamrocks.
Guests were Mrs. Ronald Jensen, Mrs. Jack Edwards, Mrs. A. T. Schmidt and Mr. Neil.

L. B. Fleming Jr. Directs College Choir

RICHMOND—The Sullins College Choir under the direction of Leon B. Fleming Jr. will be presented in concert at 8:30 tonight at the Shaffer Street Playhouse.

The choir is now on its annual 1,500-mile Spring tour. A number of television programs also will be presented during the tour.

Fleming is head of the music department at Sullins College and has selected a 40 voice touring choir from a chorus of 65 singers. The choir has an extensive repertoire and is becoming recognized as one of the finest women's choruses of the South.

Sullins College, one of Virginia's oldest institutions for women, is located at Bristol and draws the greater part of its student enrollment from the Middle West.

History of New Bern Topic For Program

The Lector Book Club met at the lovely home of Mrs. E. S. Fleming on March 2.

Mrs. Flanagan, president, opened the meeting and called for the minutes of the last meeting. She welcomed Mrs. Ray Minges and Mrs. Amos Leggett, guests for the afternoon, and appointed her committees for the new year. She then called on Mrs. Tom Wilson who was in charge of the program for the afternoon.

Mrs. Wilson had as her subject "New Bern," the second oldest town in North Carolina. She started with the year 1704 which is the earliest time recorded that white men came

Children's Party Is Birthday Event

GRIFTON—On Friday afternoon Connie Lee Jones celebrated her ninth birthday by having in for games and contests 12 of her friends.

The young people assembled at the Owens home on Pitt Street at 3:30 and were entertained by the honoree and her mother, Mrs. Ed Owens. At the refreshment hour the beautifully decorated cake with the nine candles was cut and served with ice cream and saited nuts. A color note of green and white was carried out in the table appointments and cake decorations.

Those present were Linda Hudson, Ann McLaine, Betsy Haynes, Mary Sue Ogburn, Jane Cobb, Mary Helen Bradley, Vivian Nelson, Julia Coward, Ellen Goolsby, Peggy Magnus, Carolyn McCotter, Gloria Jean Baldwin.

Women Sponsor Dance And Party

AYDEN — The Ayden Women's Club will sponsor a square dance and tacky party at the high school gymnasium Friday night, March 19.

Clyde Landing's orchestra will provide the music and Vance Corey will call the figures. A small admission fee will be charged for the benefit of the Ayden High School band uniform fund. Mrs. Ralph Hardee is chairman of arrangements. A prize will be given the "tackiest" dressed person at the dance. The public is invited.

Girl Scout Week Being Observed Over Country

"Girl Scout Week"—March 7-13—is being observed by Girl Scouts and Brownies all over the country. This week marks the 42nd anniversary of the Girl Scouting in the United States. Miss Juliette Low of Savannah, Georgia, organized the first group of Girl Scouts on March 12, 1912.

The Greenville Girl Scouts and Brownies will assemble at the National Guard Armory in Greenville next Friday afternoon at 3:30 for a birthday party honoring Juliette Low.

Mrs. S.M. Crisp, Girl Scout Council chairman, is making arrangements for the event. The collection for the Juliette Low World Fellowship Fund will be taken at the party.

Mr. and Mrs. Troy Warren, Mr. Wayne Johnson, Mrs. Nellie Taylor and Mrs. Louis Johnson visited Mr. and Mrs. Woodson Everett Jr. and Miss Carolyn Taylor in Raleigh Wednesday.

The Negro Girls Scouts of Greenville will have their Juliette Low Birthday party at C.M. Eppes High School on West Fifth Street on the same day and at the same time.

Similar observances of the Girl Scout birthday anniversary will be held in Farmville, Grifton and Bethel.

This year, for the first time, the Greenville Girl Scout cookie sale occurs during "Girl Scout Week." Girl Scouts and Brownies each year take orders and sell boxed cookies for the benefit of the Girl Scout "Little House" project. They have been taking orders and will deliver the boxed cakes during "Girl Scout Week."

All money derived from the cookie sale is earmarked for the "Little House" fund. Plans for a permanent meeting house for the Girl Scouts and Brownies provides for a place where the young people may carry on their work as Girl Scouts and Brownies and a kitchen.

Sauter-Finegan Band Planning For Concert-Dance At ECC On Monday

The Sauter-Finegan Band, a new and increasingly popular organization, will play at East Carolina College Monday, March 15, at a concert and dance sponsored by the College Entertainment Committee as one of a series of attractions offered during the present school year.

The concert will begin at 8 p.m., and the dance will get under way at 9:30 and continue until 11:45. Students and their guests and patrons of the college Entertainment Series will attend.

Ed Sauter and Bill Finegan have done much to influence modern dance music. Rated among the top five arrangers in the country, for over a decade they wrote the scores played by the Benny Goodman, Glenn Miller, Tommy Dorsey, Artie Shaw, Woody Herman, Ray McKinley, and other outstanding bands.

Sound is a serious thing to maestro Sauter and Finegan, whose exciting band, unlike the average aggregation, has 25 members, including five saxophonists who double on such unlikely danceband instruments as the flute, piccolo, oboe, English horn, bass clarinet, and recorders.

"No," said Thornton. "Hah," said Bayar, "that's a sign you are going to run again."

One Bluff That Should Be Called

Senator McCarthy is on his high horse again threatening the radio and television networks because it appears that someone is going to steal the spotlight from him for a few brief minutes.

The Republican party passed over McCarthy—and in our opinion, wisely so—to pick Vice President Richard Nixon to answer charges made by Adlai Stevenson against Republicans last week over radio and television networks. The networks granted time for the reply to the Republican party for its reply. The networks denied McCarthy's request for time in which he could personally reply to Stevenson's charges.

McCarthy, in his usual blustery manner asserted the networks will grant him time or else. We sincerely hope the networks stick to their guns in rejecting McCarthy's At Best, It's Only Temporary Protection

Some measure of rural fire protection has been assured rural people in the area near Greenville, at least temporarily, now that the city truck used to answer rural calls has been repaired.

The old truck has been out of use for the past few weeks awaiting the shipment of necessary parts. The parts have been received now and the truck is back in operation.

Until the antiquated truck breaks down again—and even the firemen will admit it is likely to at any time—it will be able to answer fire calls from rural areas around Greenville.

At best the restoring of the truck to working condition can be considered only a temporary assurance of fire protection for the rural area. Its repair does not lessen the need for a permanent rural fire protection association to serve the area near Greenville.

The sooner such an association is formed, the sooner the people of rural sections around Greenville can have for themselves a dependable system of fire protection for their property.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
THE UNSPEAKABLE GIFT

Sometimes we know that in spite of the fine qualities of a host of our young people today, nevertheless the cards are so stacked against youth in general that multitudes of them will be brought to ruin. But the best young people today are as good as any generation has ever produced—and they are not an insignificant number by any means. Just today I received a letter from an organization working among youth to which I had sent a small contribution. The official who replied told me of a mother who had called to thank him for what he and his association had done for her boy.

"She told me of the problem the boy had been in the home, of his questionable companions outside the home, and the considerable worry that he was to her and to her husband. But the boy had found Christ, and in becoming a Christian had an entirely new set of values and outlook on life. This morning she and her husband visited our office to talk about the right kind of college for him."

Reports on juvenile delinquency and dope addiction among minors fill us with consternation. But there is a light on the horizon, and it bespeaks the dawn of a better day. Young people in large numbers are finding Christ as Lord and Saviour, and they are coming out and saying so and living so.

"Thanks be to God for his unspeakable gift."

Kremlin Uses A Nazi Weapon

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON—While our Allies fume over the American-imposed boycott on trade with Russia and the satellite countries, the Kremlin is dangling billions of dollars worth of orders before the industrialists of Western Europe and South America. It is the Reds' practical way of softening and splitting the democratic coalition on the eve of the Geneva Conference.

Although Moscow is willing to barter, exchanging foodstuffs and minerals for ships, machinery, railroad and utility equipment, she is also able to pay hard cash. As proof of her desirability as a customer, she is shipping huge amounts of slave-mined gold to London and Paris. The movement of this scarce precious commodity has reached amazing proportions since the Berlin Conference.

Russia is offering generous credit terms to such smaller countries as Norway, Finland, Sweden, Denmark and the Low Countries. She is even extending commercial ties with the Balkan and Middle East areas, which are essential bulwarks in the wall with which we are trying to encircle and contain the Communist empire.

EMULATING NAZI TACTICS—The Kremlin's strategy resembles the bold and crafty program with which Hitler built up Germany in the decade before World War II. Through trade, Schacht linked Balkan and Central European nations to Berlin with economic chains. It is obvious that the Russians have studied his methods from examining his files after they captured Berlin.

Washington itself had a recent example of Soviet trading audacity. When indignation over excessive butter prices reached a peak in this country, a Russian agent bobbed up with an offer to buy 100,000,000 pounds and a large quantity of cottonseed oil. The proposed still intrigues Secretary Ezra Taft Benson, who said the Reds will approximate the domestic price. Otherwise, he fears a housewives' rebellion.

Similarly, the Reds are making bids for surplus goods now piling up in Western Europe and South America.

DELIBERATE INTENT—Behind this commercial offensive lies the deliberate design of making the demands to see what the Senator from Wisconsin will do about it.

There is little question in the minds of most fair-minded Americans that McCarthy has gone much too far in making unsupported, if not unfounded, charges against many individuals through his "investigations." No loyal Americans want communism to continue to spread in this nation in government or any other phase of American life. But neither do the loyal Americans want a self-styled little tyrant to be swept into the spotlight and power because he can make the biggest bluffs and the most charges about communist activities.

In our opinion Senator McCarthy is and has been suffering from an acute inflated ego, lust for political power and an unquenchable thirst for constantly being in the headlines.

In short, we have come to the conclusion the methods and tactics which he has employed in his investigations have done more harm than good to the nation. There is certainly no reason the radio and television networks should grant him personal time to make his own personal reply to any comments made by Adlai Stevenson.

Merits, Not Politics Point For Consideration

Statehood for Alaska and for Hawaii seem to be questions which the Congress can not consider separately purely upon the basis of merit.

There are, of course, many legislative matters on the national level which are considered by members of both parties from a political standpoint as much as they are from a legislative and other standpoints. This matter of statehood, however, seems to point up emphatically the part party politics plays in such consideration.

Statehood for each of the territories is nothing new. It has been mentioned and considered before by the Congress.

The chief stumbling block in the issue seems to be this: Hawaii has traditionally been in the Republican party camp, while Alaska has traditionally been in the Democratic party camp. Neither party representatives in Congress are willing to vote for admission as a state in the union the territory which has been in the other party camp without bringing in as a state the territory which has been in their own camp.

Republicans want Hawaii as a state; but are not nearly as interested in Alaska. The view of the Democratic party is just the opposite.

If one territory is ready to assume the responsibilities of statehood it should not be kept out of the union just because there is not another in the camp of the other political party which is ready for statehood.

It is time the Congress considered the matter of statehood for Alaska and for Hawaii on the basis of qualification rather than on the basis of Democratic or Republican party affiliation.

Around Capitol Square

By LYNN NISBET

CHANGE — Tarheel Republicans attending the biennial State convention were less satisfied and less confident than they were two years ago. It became apparent early in preliminary maneuvers that a majority of the delegates wanted changes in party officials, platforms and plan of organizations.

These changes were effected largely through negotiation and compromise, only two scraps reaching the floor for convention votes—and these were settled in "friendly" fights. A floor amendment to the revised Plan of Organization proposed by Clyde Green would have reduced the quorum requirements for county executive committee meetings from one-half to one-third of the membership. The amendment was defeated by voice vote.

MEANS OF CHECKMATING KREMLIN—It is these considerations which impel the Eisenhower Administration to insist on further tariff reductions, as recommended by the Randall Commission. President Eisenhower and Secretary Dulles, alarmed over this new threat, regard an enlarged American market as the only means of checkmating Malenkov's trade war, not only in Europe but also in South America and the Middle East.

In studying the problem, the Randall Commission envisaged several threatening possibilities, based on memos submitted by friendly foreign nations. It is probable that, if we insist on maintaining the boycott, the Allies will accept Russia's tempting offers. They may then become less dependent on us for financial help, and become more cozy with the Reds. The cold war might melt.

Even Prime Minister Churchill advances this argument in urging more commercial intercourse with Russia. Trading with the Reds, he says, may improve political and diplomatic relations. In such an event, the U. S. might become economically isolated. And economic isolation often leads to diplomatic and political loneliness!

Party Lines A Little Confused

Somebody Told Me

Artist Or Not, He Is Popular

Yesterday I asked Kervin Conway this question: Do you consider yourself an artist? Kervin has been a commercial sign painter for 20 years and now does a television show called E-Z Art on art over WNCN from 1-20 to 1:30 on Saturday afternoons.

"No," Kervin said modestly. "I've seen too many artists that would put me to shame." Then he quickly adds an interesting footnote: Commercial art is not in sufficient demand in this part of the country to make it profitable.

Artist or not, Kervin is pulling mail from all over Eastern Carolina as a result of the unique idea he had for a TV show. Each Saturday he takes a few circles, triangles, or squares and suggests that something be made from them by amateur artists in the TV audience. Age is no factor; anyone can enter. Then Kervin carefully judges the entries mailed in to him and has the winner each week as a guest on his program.

Yesterday he had his favorite already picked out. "But I can't announce it yet," he said. "We leave the contest open until Thursday's mail comes in. Someone may top this entry."

In addition to introducing the week's winner, Kervin demonstrates what can be done with simple squares, circles and triangles. "There's nothing to it," he insists. "It's all very simple."

That statement brought on more talk. Is art born in a person or is it developed? Kervin says that the answer would be "both."

"A desire to develop himself is born in a man," he continued, "and if that desire burns him enough he will develop. I used to sit by the hour and watch people paint signs, hoping some day that I could do it."

Does the work ever get boring? "Not exactly," Kervin says. "But the routine of any job that constitutes making a living will get grueling at times. And this kind or work puts a constant tension on the nerves. When you are through work your brain is working in an effort to dream up a layout that will be successful on the job lined up for the next day."

Kervin expressed the development of his talent this way: "At first I concentrated on perfection. I am far from reaching that point, but when I got my standard up to a point I started concentrating on speed. About five years ago when I was 35, I think I hit the peak of speed. Now I've slowed down some."

How about perfection? Kervin says he never has done a job that completely satisfied him, for he always hoped to do the next one better. But he does think that talent can be improved as long as an effort is made, and observing the work of others. "It's very interesting work," Kervin concluded.

And I thank you.

What Other Editors Are Thinking

GM's BILLION DOLLARS

(Washington Daily News)
General Motors, the largest corporation in America, has announced that it will spend a billion dollars this year and next in the expansion of its automobile empire.

Some people are inclined to view the announcement as an effort on the part of the company to "squeeze" the smaller car manufacturers.

That attitude needs a little analysis. When a company spends a billion dollars for any reason, it is spending more money than the average mind can comprehend. And a company just does not spend that much money without having a firm basis for doing so.

General Motors does have competition and no one will deny that. And where there is competition, there is vigorous effort to do one's best at all times. But when a billion dollars are laid on the line there is something far more than any "squeeze" attempt.

There is a little matter of faith

—faith in the future of the industry. Without that faith, there would be no billion dollars to spend.

If by expansion General Motors can expect an increasing demand for its products, then is it not reasonable to assume that the expansion will pay for itself over a period of years?

If that conclusion be drawn, then is it not drawn because the corporation has faith that such will be the case? Harlow Curtice, president of GM, is no idle money spender. One can bet his bottom dollar that when Mr. Curtice and the powers that be in GM decide to spend that much money, there is every faith that such expansion will pay profits in the days to come.

And that factor of profit is the greatest factor in any business organization. The GM experts have this thing figured out to the "nth" degree, and make no mistake about it. If they didn't believe they would succeed, they wouldn't be spending the billion dollars.

If better products are built, better selling methods employed, better results will ensue. And a better chance to meet competition will come as a result of the action. But meeting competition is only one factor.

If GM expands and tries to gear itself to a buyer's market instead of a seller's market, then other companies will have to work harder too.

If GM has faith enough in the future to spend a billion dollars, then the recession which so many are talking about doesn't seem to be around the corner. If the officers of the company thought that such was the case, that huge sum of money would not now be made available for expansion purposes. In fact if GM believed we were facing a depression the chances are that instead of expanding operations, a curtailment would be the order of the day.

We much prefer to believe what the smart men of General Motors think than to believe the so-called "experts" who read too many books.

Strange 'Recession'

By ELMER ROESSNER

What we seem to be in now is an Alice-in-Wonderland recession. Unemployment is estimated to be above 3,000,000. Industrial production is down. The Federal Reserve Board reported that production in January was 7 per cent below the level of a year ago, and in mid-February spokesmen told the Joint Congressional Committee on the Economic Report that industrial production was 10 per cent below the peak reached last July. Although auto sales perked up 12 per cent in February, they are still lagging a bit. Housing starts were 66,000 in January, 6,100 below January, 1953.

Under those circumstances, income should be way down, sales sharply reduced and prices tumbling.

Well, personal income in January, the latest month for which figures are available, was down from December, but was higher than in January, 1953. What's more, because of the January 1 cut in income-tax rates, disposable personal income was actually higher in January than it was in December.

Sales are down, but not sharply. Total retail sales in January were 3 per cent below a year ago, the Department of Commerce reports. Department store sales from January 1 through February 20 were down 1 per cent from year ago figures, the Federal Reserve reports. In several weeks, sales have topped those in the corresponding weeks last year.

Meanwhile, in some lines, notably several small appliances, sales are running ahead of last year.

Some prices are down, especially for metals and other industrial materials. But a lot of other prices are up. Dun & Bradstreet's index of wholesale prices last week hit the highest mark in three years. The Department of Labor's commodity price index for February 23 stood at 110.5 compared with 109.6 in February, 1953. The Department's consumer price index rose 0.3 per cent in January, wiping out the decrease in December but not quite making the all-time high touched in October, 1953.

There are several reasons for this Lewis Carroll kind of recession. That income-tax cut helped a bit. An unusually mild winter in most parts of the country has helped sales. A huge backlog of savings has been built up. And maybe things aren't quite as bad as some people imagine.

PENCIL INDUSTRY DOING ALL RIGHT ON NICKELS

A nickel today buys just as much as it did in 1933, as long as you stick to lead pencils. And the pencil industry is not doing badly, either, the Lead Pencil Manufacturers Association reports. Manufacturers shipped 9,472,860 gross last year, a rise of 9 per cent over 1952. That's about eight pencils per person. The dollar volume rose slightly more than shipments did because many users changed to higher quality pencils.

BILLION AND QUARTER SPENT ON DIRECT MAIL

Direct mail advertising expenditures hit a new high last year. The Direct Mail Advertising Association calculates. It put the total at $1,256,394,834, a rise of 1.9 per cent over 1952. December and October were the biggest months and August the lowest.

ON A DIET OF NECTAR, HONEY AND ELEPHANT MEAT

Once every few months I.Z. Harris, Birmingham, Ala., drug manufacturer, journeys to New York to show the yankees how advertisements should be written. His latest, appearing in the Journal of Commerce, is headed, "Harris the Lion-Hearted—the old Confederate Rebel—says, 'Tengo el mundo agarrado por el rabo,' which means in the English language, 'I've got the world by the tail.'"

An excerpt: "There is no recession or depression at Veltex. Like the proverbial bee we are still enjoying nectar and honey while our competitors act as if they have been eating gall and wormwood. We have proven that a live ant can eat a dead elephant."

Happiness And A Japanese Wife

By RELMAN MORIN

For Hal Boyle
NEW YORK (AP)—In northern Japan the other day, I watched an American sergeant board a train, followed by a pretty Japanese girl.

She was lugging a clumsy bundle. His hands were empty. There was a seat near the door, and the sergeant indicated that she should take it. She hesitated, glancing around the car. Then she spotted another seat, up ahead, and went there, still wrestling with the bundle.

From time to time, as the train rumbled along, she turned to look at the sergeant. He fell asleep after a while and presently she came down the aisle, loosened his necktie, and unbuttoned his collar. He smiled through the drowsiness.

I thought of the axiom, coined long ago by white men who live in the Orient: "The formula for happiness is to have an American-style house, a Chinese cook, and a Japanese wife."

There is some disagreement about the first two points, but you seldom hear a dissenting voice on the third. The sergeant, smiling in his sleep, looked like an example.

The figure for marriages between American soldiers and Japanese women is, I am told, somewhere around 20,000 since the occupation began. Moreover, any number of GIs told me they would prefer to take a Japanese girl to the first two points, but you seldom hear a dissenting voice on the third. The sergeant, smiling in his sleep, looked like an example.

This naturally infuriates the American young ladies, although the reason is not far to seek. By and large, the American male is the most woman-pecked figure in the world. His women, by some alchemy or prestidigitation, have convinced him he is lucky to get a date, and that they are doing him a great favor when they agree to marry him.

Thereafter, quite probably, he will get his own breakfast, press his own pants, help with the housework, and hand over his paycheck without question. If he wants a night out with the boys, he probably will have to fight for it.

Vice versa, the Japanese woman is the most man-dominated figure in the world.

She considers herself very fortunate indeed to have a home and husband. In the pattern of marriage, she asks very little, expects to give a great deal.

When the master comes home from the office, she meets him with a low, floor-touching bow at the front door. She removes his shoes, takes his coat and hat, runs for his kimono, assures him that his bath is ready and dinner will be waiting whenever he wants.

If he should decide to go somewhere alone after dinner, she will ask for no explanations, no matter what time, or in what condition, he may return. There is no furtive searching for lipstick on his collar.

It is a very high compliment, and a sign of great affection, if a Japanese wife simply says of her husband, "He is kind to me." She asks little else.

They had a lot of fun in Tokyo the other day with a panel-type radio program on which four wives asked questions about life at home. None, for example, said they never asked hubby to stop for lamb chops on his way home from work. That's a woman's job.

One said she had asked her husband to help with the housework, but added, "he was so clumsy at it I felt sorry for him and told him to stop."

In short, the Japanese woman and the American man are at opposite poles from each other in the pattern of courtship and marriage. No wonder each is surprised and delighted when they meet.

And where, in which country, is the greatest domestic happiness? Nobody can say. That sergeant, however, looked mighty pleased with the situation.

Tarheel Republicans Less Satisfied, Less Confident

By LYNN NISBET

retiring officials indicated there was nothing personal and not much political in the determination to replace them. It was evidence of the general dissatisfaction among the rank and file of the party and expression of the hope that a change might improve the situation.

The dissatisfaction stems mainly from failure of the Republican leadership at Washington and in North Carolina to get partisans in the patronage jobs still held by hang-over Democrats.

LESS CONFIDENT — There was more harmony but less confidence in the atmosphere around the Charlotte Hotel and the armory-auditorium than prevailed two years ago. In fact of clearly defined rivalry between Eisenhower and Taft factions then, there was a feeling of sureness that whoever was nominated for President by the Republicans would win the election. There was equal confidence that the Republicans would gain full control of the Congress.

Eisenhower was nominated and elected, and the Republicans did organize the Congress—but by narrow margins—and that control is now held by surferance of Democrats rather than by inherent power of the majority (?). Instead of advance songs of triumph, but notes sounded this year were desperate appeals for the necessity of increasing congressional majorities.

The attitude of delegates was reminiscent of Democratic conventions during the New Deal era. Eisenhower is recognized as stronger than his party, just as Roosevelt was from 1933 to 1945. There was tacit agreement that Eisenhower is personally entitled to credit for all the good things that the administration has achieved and that any short-comings or failures should be charged to others.

North Carolina Republicans have legitimate cause for grievance at the treatment accorded them by the national administration, just as Tarheel Democrats have had for 20 years. Party leadership skillfully channel this resentment away from the President and seek to fix responsibility upon officials whose names will not appear on the election ballots.

Republican leaders are trying diligently to postpone the inevitable conclusion that the top man cannot be separated from the administration. They hope to forestall that conclusion at least half as long as the Democrats did.

CANDIDATES — The Republican convention delegated to its four top officers the responsibility to see that candidates for State office are filed before March 20. That procedure has precedent, but it is unusual. Traditionally the convention chooses candidates for major offices.

This time there were no offers for such positions as United States Senator, Justices of the Supreme Court and for the interim offices of State Treasurer and Commissioner of Insurance. The top party officials may have difficulty in getting takers. The reason seems obvious.

For nearly 50 years Republican candidates for State office in North Carolina have been defeated in the general election by margins ranging from two to one or more. But traditionally, in periods of national Republican control, the State candidates have been given generous consideration for Federal patronage. The pre-

Sportswear Scene Has New Animation In Lively Fashion

Comes the Fashion Openings of Spring, and it's difficult to make predictions as to what the leading themes in sportswear will be!

It's far, far easier to take out the trusty thesaurus and look for all the most imaginative, exciting synonyms that define the color, newness and fresh stylings of the thrilling Spring - into - Summer sportswear and separates items. Fashion has taken to its heart the man-tailored shirt - this, in such a wide range of fabrics as from broadcloth to most elegant silks. And, for '54, they are bewitchingly enchanted with clever prints and jewel-trims.

Skirting the separates scene, finds the fancy fullness-to-the-modified full-circle skirt... here-gay, imaginative designs run rampant on glossy cottons, feather-light woollens, quilted novelties, linens, and lavish silks, and silk-blends.

The not-so-short, not-too-long Bermuda or Jamaica shorts take honors in the active sports-wear picture. Your smart-for-summer shorts will be right in denims, linens, like-linens, baby cords, poplins or bark weave fabrics.

Again, it will be a "pants" year for milady... short shorts for hot weather and sun fun—the walking short for at-ease wear—the tapered pants for every-where wear, and newly-styled culottes!

And, while on the subject of pants—"bloomers" bloom on the active sportswear scene in fun-in-the-sun fashions - particularly in styles that take to the water, too.

All kinds of knits come into evidence for '54—the little sweater 'op, often in cashmere, or in man-made fibers, and elegantly-decorated with ribbon, "jewels" and embroidery—is established from noon till after-five in the smartest places, and over the smartest fashions!

And again the SHIRT! Right on the very "tails" of the man-tailored shirt, comes the newly-important elongated shirt and the shirt dress. Best described as a tailored shirt with below-the-knee shirt tails, these smart newcomers step into the spotlight in an exciting assortment of fabrics and colors—to cinch in gaily at the waist for your own figure definition.

Dyed-to-match separates are important in the new-season settings! The most gently-fashioned sweaters again will team in smooth harmony with linens, zephyr light woollens, and wool blends, and host of other smart fabrics.

Cotton blouses become real tricksters—many can be worn in or out—some can be worn front or back—and still others have necklines that plunge low or rise high, with a simple button or closing trick! The squaw dress, heretofore a rather localized western novelty—becomes very much a part of the casual-to-glamour scene.

HANKIES TAKE ON A NEW TWIST... drawn through the French cuff of spring little boy shirt and twisted into a butterfly shape. A bright gold pin anchors it in place. Handkerchief Promotions, Inc., suggests one at each cuff.

Whether your sportswear wardrobe, sports a "Made in California" label, or "Made in New York"—or a happy blending of both—you'll find it newer, more imaginative—and generally more versatile than in seasons previous!

Fluid Lines For Spring Footwear

Ready to step gaily into a light-hearted Spring are the graceful footwear fashions!

Keyed to the softer, more feminine look of Spring, these shoes not only dramatize a pretty foot, but flatter it unbelievably!

An airy, light look to these new-season beauties gives a definite note of daintiness as lines follow a continuous curve around the foot and ankle, to give shoes a fluid look of grace!

Off-side effects and draping add to the drama of these shoe silhouettes. Starting on the vamp and continuing up over the instep, Spring shoes often achieve a high front line with a very open effect. This high line is a complete change from the low-cut pump.

In addition to silhouette, color, materials, and heel heights all have style interest for Spring.

The aniline dyes alone have added a richness to the smooth-surface leathers and to colors.

Patents again rank importantly, especially in black and gun-metal. Calf and kidskin take on a new richness in Spring's favorite, navy. Beige tones and browns are highly popular.

In daytime shoes, there is again a new lightness. Interest is concentrated on the vamps with great variety in their treatments. Stitching, overlays, lacing, and contrast-pings are notable.

Bows and knots are used to create the daintier looking daytime shoe for Spring.

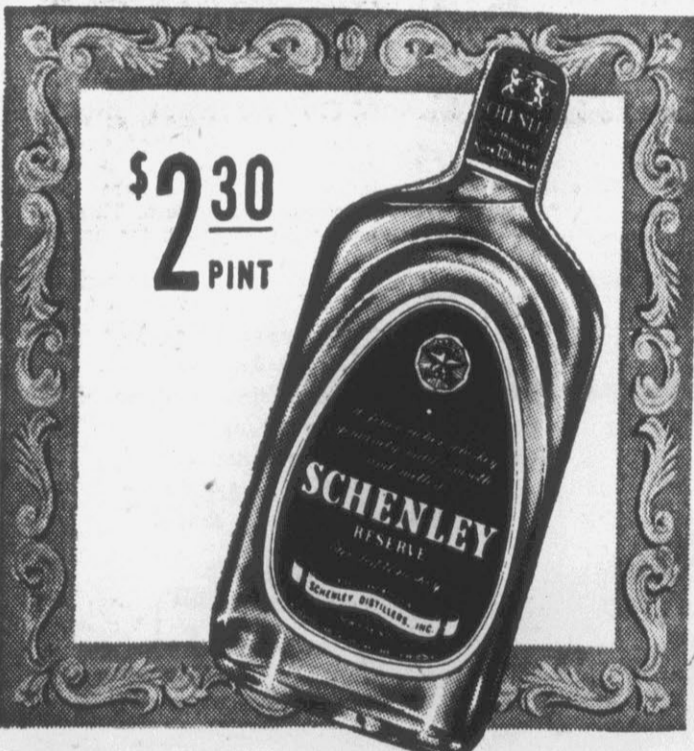

For evening, the dramatic look is achieved by flowing lines and most styles are very open with narrow, graceful strippling. Here, too vamp treatment is eye-catching with new and exciting tapered vamp bands.

Greenville Midgets Meet Goldsboro In Tournament

A 12-man team has been selected to represent Greenville in the Eastern North Carolina Midget Basketball Tournament which opens tomorrow evening in New Bern.

The Greenville team will meet the Wayne County (Goldsboro) Boys Club squad in the first round of the tournament. They will play at 9 p.m. tomorrow. The game will be played in the New Bern Armory.

The tournament will have eight teams competing for the championship. The clubs entered are from Wilson, Goldsboro (Goldsboro representative team and Wayne County Boys Club), Kinston (Moose and Elks), Clinton, Greenville, and host New Bern.

Other first round matches have Wilson and the Goldsboro team meeting in a 6 o'clock opener. Kinston Moose will meet New Bern at 7 o'clock and the Kinston Elks will play Clinton at 8 p.m. The Greenville-Wayne County Boys Club game will be the final game of the evening.

Semi-final matches will be played Friday evening. The winner of the Wilson-Goldsboro game will meet the winner of the Kinston Moose-New Bern contest at 7:30 Friday. The winner of the Kinston Elks-Clinton game will meet the winner of the Greenville-Wayne County game at 8:30. Finals will be played at 8:30 Saturday night with a consolation game (between Friday's losers) scheduled for 7:30 p.m.

Participation in the tournament is limited to boys who are under 14 years of age and 5-8 in height. Each squad is limited to 15 players and team rosters have already been filed with the Greenville Recreation Department. Boys who are near the height limit, however, will be measured in stocking feet prior to each contest.

Boys who have been a member of a high school junior varsity squad have been declared ineligible for the tournament.

Awards to championship and runner-up teams will be made Saturday night following the championship contest. Both team and individual awards will be made to members of both squads. Other awards to be presented include a team sportsmanship award, an individual sportsmanship trophy, and individual awards to the 10 players who are selected for the All-Tournament team.

Golfers Play

Greenville's representatives Coastal Golf Association team will go after its second victory of the young season this afternoon on the course at the Greenville Golf and Country Club.

The Greenville team will meet the Clinton team in a match in which all four club members are invited to compete. Last week, the Greenville team defeated Smithfield on the Smithfield course in the opener of a 14-match schedule.

The matches will be played each Wednesday afternoon with the sites alternating between Greenville and the home courses of the members of the six-team Association.

Moore Feels OK After Hard Fight

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Light Heavyweight Champion Archie Moore said today he "felt wonderful" as he carried 190 1/2 pounds—the greatest fighting weight of his career—to a slashing non-title victory last night over Bob Baker.

Referee Pety Sarron stopped the Miami Beach Auditorium battle at 2:08 of the ninth round with Baker reeling under a savage attack by Moore and bleeding from the mouth, nose and cuts over both eyes.

Still dreaming of a crack at Rocky Marciano's heavyweight crown, Moore declared he "felt fine" at 15 1/2 pounds over the limit for the class he rules.

"If I could get Rocky to fight me," he said, "I'd train down some, maybe to around 181 pounds."

Joe Schaefer, Miami promoter, said after last night's fight that he would guarantee Marciano $250,000 if he would fight Moore here, but the offer was taken lightly in fight circles. Manager Al Well's future plans for Rocky are reported to include no part of the ancient but powerful Moore.

A crowd of 2,794 paid a gross gate of $10,080 to see Archie give Baker the 200-pound Pittsburgh heavyweight, a savage beating in a scheduled 10-rounder.

St. Benedict's Wins To Eliminate Pirates

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Unseeded and unheralded St. Benedict's College moved into the second round of the 16th National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics basketball tournament here last night by upsetting seeded East Carolina College, 68-61.

The loss eliminated the North State Conference and District 26 champion Pirates from further competition in the mammoth tournament. They were the first of the eight seeded teams to be eliminated from the tournament which started Monday with 32 teams.

The unseeded Ravens from Atchison, Kansas, playing a possession-type game, started slowly against the Pirates but pulled ahead in the second quarter into a lead they never surrendered.

East Carolina, in the tournament for the second consecutive year, actually outshot the Kansas but didn't get the ball enough to account for the difference in scoring. The Pirates dropped 24 of 58 shots at the basket for a 44.4 per cent mark for the night while the Ravens hit on 25 of 68 shots for a 36.8 percentage.

Wildcats Leave NCAA Tourney

NEW YORK (AP)—Only one spot remained to be filled in the round of 16 in the NCAA basketball tourneys today—and that vacancy is the result of one of the most stunning upsets in Big Seven history.

Missouri, with a mediocre 5-6 record in conference play, surged from behind in the third quarter to defeat Dr. Phog Allen's Kansas Jayhawks 76-67 last night and send the loop into a deadlock for first place.

Now both Kansas and Colorado boast 10-2 records and the NCAA representative will be decided by a draw from a hat late today in the Kansas City office of Reeves Peters, executive secretary of the Big Seven.

A question that had been puzzling the experts for the past two weeks also was answered when Kentucky, winner of the Southeastern Conference, with a 7-0 record from the NCAA Tournament because its three big stars were ineligible. Without Cliff Hagan, Frank Ramsey and Lou Tisler, who are not permitted to perform in NCAA postseason competition because they are graduate students, the Wildcats couldn't hope to win the tournament.

They captured the league crown last night in a playoff with Louisiana State 63-56 and immediately announced they would bypass the NCAA. Louisiana State, which finished the loop season with a 14-0 slate, the same as Kentucky, was given the berth.

Kentucky, No. 1 team in the country, went unbeaten in 25 games, a record achieved by few schools over the years.

Stranded When Floodgates Open

BOISE, Idaho (AP)—Officials at Arrowrock Dam opened a floodgate yesterday to release the excess water from recent heavy rains—but they forgot to warn three startled fishermen a few miles down the Boise River.

Walter Collins, Roy Cook and Jess Everson of Boise found themselves suddenly marooned with their autos on an island in the middle of the stream. They had driven there only a few hours earlier.

It took two Ada County sheriff's officers, a crew of workmen and a tractor operator to rescue the autos and the fishermen.

'Remarkably Fine'

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—"Remarkably fine" was the doctor's report today on Boston Red Sox star Ted Williams—who underwent an 80-minute operation yesterday on his broken left collarbone.

Dr. Russell F. Sullivan, who wired the $100,000-a-year slugger's collarbone in Sancta Maria Hospital, said Williams would be released from the hospital late this week or early next week. The lanky outfielder is keen to head back to Florida, but his doctor isn't in agreement on this.

"I haven't talked with him about it," said Dr. Sullivan — a fishing pal of the 35-year-old star — "but I have no intention of letting him go until we can see some union in the bone."

Dr. Sullivan said Williams should be able to play baseball in eight weeks. The physician said Ted would be able to jog easily within two weeks and should be able to bat and throw "lightly" in six.

GHS Tracksters Work At Guy Smith Track

Coach Bill Kittrell's Phantom tracksters worked out yesterday in preparation for their season's opener with Fayetteville on April 7 at Guy Smith Stadium. Last season the Green Phantoms mauled the Triple-A Bulldogs 66-29 in the first meet of the season.

In yesterday's workouts, individual conditioning was again emphasized with Coach Kittrell working on his sprinters and shotputters mostly. Paul Stephens, a husky junior, is a new entry in the shotput event and is counted on to boost this department. Larry Powell has been tapped by Coach Kittrell to compete in the shot throwing also. Until yesterday only letterman Bill Taft and Tommy Smith had been scheduled for the event.

Sprinters James Speight, Mitchell Johnson, Bobby Langston, and Joe Taft showed up well in short sprints while Billy Sermons and Pete West, two new additions to the squad, impressed with their running. Speight, Taft, and Johnson will probably carry the team in the 100 and 220-yard dashes.

Senior miler Jimmy Phelps reported to practice yesterday and impressed with his first day running. Phelps has been training during physical education classes and is rounding into top condition now. Phelps should greatly improve the Phantoms in the distance events.

In drills to date the discus, high jump, broad jump, and hurdles events have not been participated in by squad members. Coach Kittrell plans to start these events when the tracksters begin regular workouts at Guy Smith Stadium. Entrants in these departments have confined themselves to light workouts and calisthenics.

Distance Runners The distance runners have been preparing for their events by running in the high school ravine. The mile run is definitely set with Wayne Bishop, Howard King, Jimmy Phelps, newcomer Bennie Perry, and non-letterman Teddy King.

The half-mile entrants have not been decided upon as yet. Senior letterman Sam Winchester is the number one candidate for that race but Winchester has not been able to report to practice so far this year. Winchester is expected out for the team at the end of this week. Ace distance runner Wayne Bishop ran both the mile and the half-mile last year but it is doubtful that he will be able to run both this year due to an aggravated knee injury which may keep him from reaching the form he displayed last year in the mile.

Fabulous Hollywood Wedding Is Given Daughter By Jack Benny

BEVERLY HILLS Calif. (AP)—Joan Benny and Seth Baker embarked on a Hawaiian honeymoon today and her father, Jack Benny, was faced with an estimated $25,000 bill for one of the most fabulous weddings in Hollywood history.

Benny, wearing white tie, tails and glasses, last night led his 19-year-old adopted daughter through the flower-festooned Crystal Room of the Beverly Hills Hotel. "I'd rather not look so good and wear glasses than fall on my face," the comedian explained.

Benny gave Joan in marriage to Baker, 26-year-old New York stock broker and son of industrialist Harry Baker, before a crowd of stars of stage, TV and movies. Rabbi Edgar F. Maguin performed the double-ring ceremony and advised the couple to "forget about the tinsel of life and live for the good things."

Billed as a tightwad on his radio and TV programs Benny spared no expense in the wedding. White lilacs were flown from Holland to add to the white and green motif that converted the Crystal Room into a spring garden. Designer Don Loper, who staged the affair, flew to France to arrange for an exclusive weave of brocade white satin for the bride's gown. Thirty-five yards with lily of the valley figurings were used. The wedding went off without a hitch. The principals faced news cameras before the ceremony and after. The bride's mother, Mary Livingston who had arranged all the details, became impatient with the photographers and ordered the reception line to begin.

Benny played it straight throughout. He smiled weakly and made some attempts at humor, but he seemed obviously nervous with his role as the doting father. He even resisted the temptation to join the orchestra of 10 violins who serenaded the reception with "Love in Bloom."

The wedding brought the biggest star turnout within memory. Two hundred attended the wedding, including George Burns and Gracie Allen, George Montgomery and Dinah Shore, Ann Sothern, Jane Wyman, Bob Hope, Eddie Cantor and the Benny troupe of Dennis Day, Don Wilson, Mel Blanc and Bob Crosby. Only Rochester was absent being in New York for the Milton Berle Show.

The reception swelled the guest list to 600. Among the celebrants: Tyrone Power and Linda Christian, Esther Williams, Dean Martin, Ann Blyth Ed Wynn, Joan Bennett and Ethel Merman. The guests were treated to French champagne, vintage 1945, and a buffet dinner which included boned capon, wild rice, beef Stroganoff and caviar. The cake was a five-tiered affair weighing 200 pounds.

Farmville Plans Farmers Day To Be Held In April

FARMVILLE — "Farmers' Day" will be observed here Wednesday, April 7, with a parade with several bands, a rodeo and an afternoon of entertainment.

Charles Edwards, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce and Farmville Merchants Association reported today that Lucy Bell of Mount Olive has been engaged to stage a rodeo or similar event.

Chairman Sam D. Bundy said he has invited numerous bands to participate in the "Farmers' Day" parade. Warehouses and other business places and civic and fraternal groups have been invited to enter floats in the annual "Farmers' Day" parade. Vassar Fields, Dan Morgan and Jack Tyson are working on a plan for inducing more floats in the parade.

U.S. Senator Alton A. Lennon and former Governor W. Kerr Scott had been invited to speak here "Farmers' Day." They had not indicated their acceptance of the invitation and the committee is seeking some prominent man for the job.

W. C. Garner is general chairman of the Plans and Arrangements Committee.

Almost Stumped By Bible Saying

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Bill Harding, Sunday school teacher here at the University Presbyterian Church, was stumped when a high schooler asked about that Bible phrase, "the quick and the dead."

But the pastor, the Rev. William M. Logan, came to Harding's aid quickly. "There are just two classes of pedestrians," Logan said, "the quick and the dead."

Got Any Change?
Got any money? Pat Baker, OHS junior, has the won "The Big Change" contest in Pitt county.

On her account, the sales run up to 25 dollars for first place. Next she will compete against 16 other winners from counties in northeastern North Carolina. If she wins the 100 dollars for this group contest, she will try for the divisional and then State contests.

sent national regime is not following that custom. To the contrary, there seems rather deliberate intent to penalize the sacrificial candidate and to ignore recommendations of the State Republican leadership in making Federal appointments.

Several important jobs have been given out without consulting being given out without consulting State leaders and in other instances the State recommendations have been flouted. No recognition has been accorded the friends of Halsey Leavitt of Asheville, who ran against Clyde Hoy for the Senate in 1950, or to friends of E.L. Gavin of Sanford who opposed Willis Smith for the unexpired Senate term that year.

"The Big Change" is conducted by the North Carolina Bankers. Students from grades nine through twelve are eligible.

Patsy worked hard on her speech through the Christmas holidays. She did research work and interviewed various people in and around Greenville.

Good luck to Patsy as she enters the next group contest March 18!

What the DOCTOR did for his patients' ASTHMATIC MISERY...

Dr. J. E. Guild first discovered this seasonal relief for asthmatic misery. Two powerful medications speed relief of asthmatic gasping, wheezing and awful coughing. You feel breathing tubes relax and open as deep penetrating action loosens your breaths and sleep again so easy, so quick. New users are amazed at the speedy relief. Today, try Dr. Guild's own discovery. Dr. Guild's Green Mountain Asthmatic Compound — or Asthmatic Clearcut, 26 all drug stores.

THANKS

Over the weekend I received most gratifying reports from all over the Fifth District as to the progress of my campaign for District Solicitor. I received reports of the activities of a number of friends whom I have not even had the pleasure of seeing since the opening of the campaign. As I hear these reports, I am deeply touched by the faithfulness of my sincere friends who are carrying on for me during my inability to get around. Thanks again and again. I shall do my best to merit your confidence and support.

The Doctor Disagrees

CHAPTER THIRTY THREE
"SHELLY—my advice would be to avoid anything that could produce such a letter to Stevie."
"You mean, no more picnics?"
"Yes. Or—even give up your work at the office."

Shelly stiffened angrily, but before she could speak, Everett Carr came into the house, his approach heralded by the aroma of his fine cigar. He spoke Shelly's name affectionately, kissed his wife, and then he, and asked what his girls were doing?
Under cover of his lord-of-the-manner effusiveness, Shelly decided to appeal to him, and smiled rewardingly at his heavy humor about her quilted skirt. "My Grandma used to have a bed comforter just like that!" he declared.
Shelly stood up and twirled about so that the skirt stood out stiffly above her pretty ankles.
Everett chuckled. "Very nice," murmured May Anna.
Shelly sat down again. "My mother always controlled my vanity," she said sweetly "by using pretty dresses." She lifted her blue eyes. "I'm afraid in that light I'm not as pretty as I hoped I was."
She caught the sharp look which Everett darted at his wife.
"Now Shelly—" murmured May Anna uncomfortably.
Well, what if a man did prefer to stay out of such matters! The Carrs—especially these two Carrs—had shown themselves ready to direct her life down to the house in which she lived and the servants in that house. If they were going to ask her to change her whole way of life, let them at least face the real reasons behind their demand!
"We stirred up a little problem here tonight, Father Carr," she said blandly to the firm-fleshed, pink-faced man who looked so much like Stephen. "That is, Mother Carr thinks it's a problem. She's heard some gossip about my working in the office and she thinks I should stop that work because of the talk."

"Stevie would want me to advise you, dear, in his absence," said his mother, uneasily. "And really we got that all straightened out before Papa came in . . ."
Shelly looked at her. "But, no, we didn't," she protested. "You'd think I should be the one to make such a decision. Father Carr—"

She leaned forward, her hands clasped upon the little yellow and black figures of the quilted skirt. "Do you remember—when Dr. Talbo was hurt, and I came to you, asking for your help—you rather dumped the thing on me? I knew, and you knew, that one word from you at that time would have stopped all the gossip there was building up about the accident. But you just told me to do the best I could."
"Why, Shelly!" protested May Anna.
"But he did, Mother Carr! Didn't you?"
Everett blew a cloud of fragrant smoke about his face, and grunted a sound that might be considered agreement.
"He thought I would try to work the thing out, and fall. I'm sure that's what he thought, because I thought so, too. But, as it happened, I managed that problem. I cleared Craig's name among the other doctors; he stayed on as plant doctor, where he does a good job. Doesn't he, Father Carr?"
"He knows the work," Everett admitted. "Yes."
Cheered by this concession, Shelly went on. "Well, don't you think, since I was able to solve that big a problem, that it is just a little—well, unfair—to treat me now as a child, or as a silly girl, not able to judge how to behave, or what to do?"

HERE OUGHTA BE A LAW!

"No, dear," protested May Anna. "That isn't it—We feel responsible for you, naturally and, of course, we don't like gossip about a member of the family . . ."
Oh, thought Shelly there's a sore spot! One didn't tell liplicking stories about a Carr!
"There is some talk around town," Everett conceded, his tone unhappy. "I don't know how it got started. I'm sure you've done nothing out of the way, my dear, but I do regret that we didn't make you close Stevie's house and office and come out here to stay while he was gone. That's what we wanted you to do."
Shelly tried to think—she could remember no invitation to move out to Carr Circle. Close the office, yes—that had wanted. But it they thought she should go stay with her mother, clear away from Norfolk—
Everett was still talking. "Keeping Talbo in the office was not the whole job, Shelly. Nor was it enough for me to say—largely to please you, I'm afraid—that he could continue as plant doctor. Because, you see, dear the men in the plant have turned against him."
"But he . . ."
"Yes, he knows the job. But—perhaps because of his being connected with various bits of gossip—both professional and personal—he has lately lost the confidence of a certain group of workers. And that, my dear child is a handicap so tremendous that I'm afraid it may mean a change. You can see yourself that if a majority of the men refuse to subscribe to his program—"
"Wasn't it Stephen's program?" she asked in a troubled tone.
"Yes, but—Oh, Shelly, I'm sure labor relationship is a subject beyond you. Clever as I know you are."
She smiled contritely. "I'm sure it is, too, Father Carr. Except that I understand you to mean that the men can find an excuse when and if they want one."
Everett's blue eyes were bleak.

"Yes," he agreed dryly. "They too, though she felt her own loneliness more and more every day. Kate urged her to go out more, to come out to the Circle just for company if there were no parties; specifically to go with them to the club on Saturday night.
Well, Kate was trying to be kind. And she would go."

Half-ton beauty with a two-ton punch

GMC HYDRA-MATIC TRUCKS

THIS new '54 GMC light-duty wasn't born just to win beauty contests. Sure, its sleek lines, full-width grille and panoramic windshield are handsomely un-trucklike. There's the same dashing air about the inside, too. Two-tone color scheme. Harmonizing, supple-as-leather upholstery. Smart instrument panel, with dials clustered for instant reading. But mister—take another look! A burly, brawny brute of an engine—a real truck engine—makes you think of a Miss America who also can bend horseshoes. 125 horsepower says that this beauty can heft a top load with ease and dash. That's more power than some makers pack into their two-ton models. That's more usable power than in any other 6-cylinder engine in its class!

And its wide, deep box holds at least 8 cubic feet more than the roomy '53 model. That tail gate is grain-tight—and sand-tight.

Finally, it offers Truck Hydra-Matic Drive* that saves you, saves your cash, saves your time.

(Note to the luxury-minded: there's a DE LUXE model at extra cost, with chrome grille and trim, two-tone paint, curved rear corner windows—the works!)

Come in and drive this great GMC. It will do all its own selling!

*Truck Hydra-Matic Drive standard on some models, optional at extra cost on others.

Be careful—drive safely

"Yes, you do. And I want to, too. I'll handle any phone calls. Comes he makes a mistake, I'll have the reason I hone for to get good and mad!"
They chose to go to the drive-in, and it was a good choice, because, watching a love scene on the big screen, Shelly burst uncontrollably into tears. That performance would certainly have been bad in a theatre. As it was, she was thoroughly ashamed of herself. And glad she had Myra with her.
"I kin drive us home," said the dark-eyed girl. "Be better to sit quiet till you get a holt on yourself."
And Myra saw to it that she took warm milk before she went to bed. The next day she was a little pale, but seemed all right. She showed Stephen's letter to Craig, and he too said that Stephen must be able to sit up to write so much in a firm long-hand.
"So much about the hospital," said Shelly dryly.
"But that's a good sign, my dear," Craig told her. "I'm always encouraged when a patient shows interest in his normal way of life rather than in the details of his illness."
So Shelly tried to be encouraged.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market held quietly steady today with a few divisions managing to advance a little.

A slightly higher start carried through into the early afternoon but prices were shaved down enough to produce a steady market.

With a few exceptions, prices moved either way only in minor fractions.

The trading pace had a more springy air about it today than yesterday at a rate ahead of yesterday's 1,500,000 shares, a total that is below the daily average so far this year.

Aircrafts, coppers, and radio-television issues all responded to favorable corporate developments with an advance, much in the same pattern that existed at the close of yesterday's advancing market. No section of the market was depressed, although utilities were down a trifle on average.

Among higher stocks were Kern County Land, American Telephone, Anaconda Copper, American Cyanamid, U. S. Steel, Studebaker, Douglas Aircraft, and Radio Corp.

Fellowship Fund Set Up By ACE

A Fellowship Fund of $200 to be used by a teacher for graduate study in early childhood education has been set up by the North Carolina Association for Childhood Education and presented to the East Carolina College Scholarship Committee, which will choose a recipient.

The fund was included in the 1953-1954 budget of the state ACE, and details as to its use were worked out by a committee of the organization headed by Willow Way Benbow, of Winston-Salem.

The North Carolina ACE has a membership of 2143 members, including teachers, principals, and supervisors.

"There has been outstanding ACE leadership at East Carolina College," Miss Benbow stated in a recent letter to college President John D. Messick. "In view of this fact, it has been suggested that the ACE Fellowship Committee ask the East Carolina College Scholarship Committee to accept this sum of two hundred dollars and to choose a recipient."

The Fellowship Fund, which has the purpose of stimulating and encouraging study in the area of early childhood education, will be awarded to a teacher who is interested in doing graduate work and who is a member of the ACE, according to present plans.

The East Carolina Scholarship Committee, of which Dean Clinton R. Prewett is chairman, will select the recipient at an early date.

Pitt County Council Of HD Clubs Fill Two Vacancies

The County Council of Home Demonstration Clubs in Pitt county met March 9 in the Home Demonstration office. Mrs. James Allen, president of the Council, presided.

Mrs. Tyree Stokes, treasurer, made her report. The secretary, Mrs. Ellison Ellis, then gave the minutes of the last meeting. Mrs. Sammy Tucker rendered the devotional.

The president announced that Mrs. Sammy Tucker had resigned as vice-president of the Council and that Mrs. Bone, a member of the Executive Board, had moved out of the county. The executive Board nominated Mrs. Russell Britt, Seven Pines Club, as vice-president and Mrs. Edwin Harrington, of the Pierce H.D. Club, as director. The Council voted and approved the nominations made by the Executive Board.

Mrs. Howard Moyer, Pitt County chairman of the March of Dimes Drive, reported that through various Home Demonstration projects and coin collectors placed throughout the county, that the amount of $850.20 was contributed for the March of Dimes.

An account of the State Home Demonstration Building Fund was presented to the Council by Mrs. O. B. Castellio, treasurer of the H.D. House Fund.

A committee composed of Mrs. Robert Starling, Mrs. Dennis Hardy and Mrs. C. H. Hagen were asked by the president to work with the H.D. agents on an art exhibit of the different phases of H.D. work to be exhibited in the Woman's Club parlor at the Community Art Exhibit show.

Members were reminded of National Home Demonstration Week that begins on May 2. Clubs are urged to promote citizenship and international relationship over all the world. During this week a fashion show will be given. Wednesday, March 17, a training school for clothing leaders will be given, to help them plan for the show.

After all business was discussed the president then turned the meeting over to Mrs. Howard Moyer and Mrs. A. C. Turnage, who took the Council members on a tour of Washington, United Nations Building and other points of interest in New York City, by words and picture slides. Mrs. Moyer and Mrs. Turnage were two of 108 women, plus State representatives, on a six day U.N. tour. These women were H.D. citizenship and educational leaders from 67 counties of N. C.

Their tour began when they left by bus from Raleigh. Their sight-seeing began with a tour of Mt. Vernon. Other points of interest that were visited in Washington were the Arlington Cemetery, a night tour of the Capitol, State Department of Agriculture, tour of White House, National Art Gallery, and the Bureau of Printing and Engraving.

After the group arrived in New York they were carried to the United

Estimate 27,000 Will Lose Sight

ST. LOUIS (AP)—It may happen through disease, accident or simple neglect, but an estimated 27,000 Americans will lose their sight this year.

The estimate was made by Dr. Frank M. Foote, executive director of the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness.

In a press conference preceding the opening of the society's three-day conference today, Dr. Foote said that at present rates 750,000 Americans who now have good vision will become blind before they die.

There are about 314,000 blind persons in the United States today, he said.
